SUPERIOR COURT OF JUSTICE DECISIONS AND ORDERS

The Highway Traffic Act decisions have been divided into six sections based on the type of appeal. The six sections and their letter code abbreviations are set out below.

SECTION CODES:

Abbreviation	Description
ADLS	Administrative Driver's Licence Suspension
CVIS	Commercial Vehicle Impoundment Suspension
CVOR	Commercial Vehicle Operator Registration
GARAGE/MVIS	Garage – Motor Vehicle Inspection Standards
MEDICAL	Licence Suspension or Downgrade for Medical Reasons
MVIA	Motor Vehicle Impoundment

A brief code has been added to many of the file names to help categorize the decision (for example, "EXHP" indicates the appeal ground of exceptional hardship). A table setting out the meaning of these codes is set out below. You can view the code table for each of the three sections (MVIA, ADLS and MEDICAL) by clicking on the section name in the index.

Appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap.H.8 as amended (the "Act"), from the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 55.1(3) of the Act.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: MALCOLM FEALING, Presiding member

APPEARANCES: KIM BEINTEMA
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

Kirsten Hughes, Agent for and Representative of Newport Leasing Ltd.

DATE OF HEARING: April 26, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 3, 2000 Hamilton

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 26, 2000, at Hamilton, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Mike Hughes (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1996 Chev Van, Plate #866 8A7 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: April 7, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on April 26, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

In response, the Applicant produced an order dated April 25, 2000, signed on behalf of the Licence Appeal Tribunal by Mr. Stuart Cork, Member.

This order was based upon a Motion, made by the representative of the Registrar for an order by the Tribunal dismissing the Applicant's ground of appeal of exceptional hardship as a ground to be heard at a hearing to take place on April 26, 2000. On reading the exhibits and hearing submissions, the Tribunal found that the ground of exceptional hardship [section 50.2 (3) (d)] upon which the Applicant relied on the appeal did not apply by virtue of section 50.2 (4), as a previous order to impound under section 55.1 had been made with respect to another vehicle then owned by the Applicant.

The ground of exceptional hardship was dismissed, and did not form part of the hearing of April 26, 2000.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #2) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

The owner appeals based on section 50.2(c) and (d).

- (c) Under the first ground the owner submits that he exercised due diligence by pulling motor vehicle records for all of its drivers including Ian McMillan. On December 8, 1999 the driver in question showed as licenced.

In support of the motor vehicle record check please find enclosed a letter from our insurance agent dated March 20, 1999.

- (b) It is submitted that under s.22(2) the board may consider subsections (a) (b) (c) as the owner will demonstrate that subsection (3) is satisfied. The resulting hardship is upon the owner of the vehicle and several other employees, that make us a crew, and would use that vehicle which is impounded.

Mrs. Kirsten Hughes began by informing the Tribunal that she was involved in running the business.

Mr. Ian McMillan, was the driver whose driver's licence was under suspension when he was pulled over by the police on the 28th of March 2000, at which time the vehicle was impounded. He had been hired by the Company in mid-April 1999. Mrs. Hughes advised the Tribunal that her husband interviewed prospective employees. She was unable to state if her husband asked the Applicants to show their driver's licences at the time of the interview.

It was not company practice to check the validity of employees' driver's licences until the company's insurance was due for renewal. In this case, the renewal date was December 8, 1999. Mrs. Hughes was sure that it was company practice to provide the insurance company with all employees' driver's licence numbers. The insurance company then checked the validity of all licences prior to renewing the Insurance Policy.

The Tribunal was provided with the copy of a letter dated March 30, 2000, signed by Nina Welch of W.R. McCallum Insurance Limited, which states that at the time Mr. McMillan's record was pulled on December 8, 1999, his driver's licence was valid. There was no reason for the insurance company to inform Mr. Hughes of any concerns regarding McMillan's driving record.

Mr. McMillan was driving for three and a half months before the incident occurred. The Applicant did not find it unreasonable to presume that the driver continued to have a valid driver's licence. Her question to the representative for the Registrar was that if the onus was on the company to be sure that all drivers had valid licences, how often should a company check the drivers' records to demonstrate due diligence?

The Applicant informed the Tribunal that the company was at its busiest between March and September. Things became very quiet during the autumn and stopped altogether during the winter. She emphasised that at the start of each season the staff were asked whether their driver's licences were in good standing.

The Applicant also expressed grave misgivings about the impoundment of the vehicle for 90 days. The vehicle was leased, and she had no control whatsoever over the actions of any of Newport Leasing's other lessees. She was very upset that her company was being penalized for actions that were entirely out of her control, and accordingly requested that if the Tribunal did not find that her company had exercised due diligence, then a reduction of the impoundment order from 90 days to 45 days should be considered.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;

Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Mr. Ian McMillan.

Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of ability impaired, suspension no. 0045070 under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until 17 March 2001.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsections 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The only issue to be considered in this appeal is that of due diligence. The grounds of appeal under section 50.2 (3)(c) of the Act requires that the Applicant show the Tribunal that Newport Leasing Ltd. exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that Mr. McMillan's driver's licence was not suspended at the time of the impoundment of the Applicant's vehicle.

The agent for the Applicant did demonstrate that the company owned by the lessee had made an effort to confirm the validity of the driving licence. The company did receive a letter from the insurance company stating that the driver's licence was valid on December 8 1999. The Applicant also advised that the company asks every employee whether their driver's licences are valid at the start of every season. However, it is clear that the company relied on the insurance company to verify Mr. McMillan's driver's licence. The grounds of appeal under section 50.2 (3)(c) of the Act requires that it is the responsibility of the owner to exercise due diligence. This responsibility cannot be delegated to a third party.

The Tribunal, therefore, finds that the Applicant has failed to establish that due diligence was exercised as required by the Act.

With respect to the Applicant's plea to reduce the period of the impoundment from 90 days to 45 days, it must be pointed out that the Tribunal has no jurisdiction under the law to make such a ruling on humanitarian grounds. Section 50.2 (5) of the Act states, "the Tribunal may confirm or set aside the order to impound," and here the Act's requirements to stipulate a 90 day suspension are not in dispute.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

Appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic

Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap.H.8 as amended (the "Act"), from the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 55.1(3) of the Act.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A
MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL:	MALCOLM FEALING Presiding member
APPEARANCES:	KIM BEINTEMA Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles 1290943 ONTARIO INC., Applicant ARNOLD J. MANS, Representative for the Applicant
DATE OF HEARING:	March 30, 2000
DECISION RELEASED:	April 5, 2000	Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on March 30, 2000, at Hamilton, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the “Registrar”), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	1290943 Ontario Inc. (the “Applicant”)
Motor Vehicle:	1990 Ford COF (the “vehicle”)
Date of Appeal:	March 13, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (the “Board”) (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as Licence Appeal Tribunal) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on March 30, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Board commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #2) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

FIRST AS PART OWNER OF 1290943 ONT. INC. I SEND ALL OF OUR EMPLOYEES DRIVERS # TO OUR INS. COMPANY WHO IN TURN CHECKS THE DRIVER'S RECORD AND REPORTS BACK TO US SINCE NOTHING CAME BACK ON ANY OF OUR DRIVERS WE ASSUMED THAT THEY HAD CHECKED AND EVERYTHING WAS FINE. ALSO SINCE OUR RATES STAYED THE SAME. WE ASSUMED THAT THEY HAD CHECKED AND EVERYTHING WAS FINE.

SECOND NOW BECAUSE OF THE STUPIDTY OF OUR DRIVER WHO HAS BECAUSE OF THIS BEEN FIRED THERE ARE 5 EMPLOYEES WHO WILL HAVE TO BE LAID OFF TEMPORORLY BECAUSE WE HAVE NO CREW CAB PICK UP TO TRANSPORT THEM FROM JOB TO JOB. WHAT IRKS ME IS THAT THE DRIVER IS NOT ARRESTED BUT SENT ON HIS WAY YET ONE OF FORMING PICK UPS IS TAKEN FOR UP TO 45 DAYS CAUSING HARDSHIP FOR 5 EMPLOYEES WHO ARE NO WAY RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ACTION OF ONE IRRESPONSIBLE EMPLOYEE.

Mr. Arnold Mans, co-owner of 1290943 Ontario Inc. provided the following evidence.

When an individual is employed by the company, he is required to fill out a personal tax credit. This document, along with the individual's driver's licence number is then forwarded to the Company's Insurance company which checks the prospective employees driving record. Mr. Mans advised that the insurance company never advised him that there was a problem with the driving record of Robert A Smith, the gentleman who was driving the automobile, a Ford Marquee, plate number 937 OER on the 7th day of March 2000, the day on which the automobile was impounded.

Mr. Mans also admitted that he, personally, never made an effort to verify the status of Mr. Robert A. Smith's driving record.

With regard to the vehicle in question, Mr. Mans advised that that this was no ordinary automobile. The vehicle was customized with a 'form release' costing approximately $6,000.00. This form release is used to spray a soapy liquid on the wooden frames surrounding an excavated basement prior to pouring concrete. The liquid spray prevents the concrete sticking to the wood and is essential to this kind of work. At present the company owns four such trucks, including the one that has been impounded. Mr. Mans testified that the company is fully booked and that his crews pour four house-basements per day. Each truck is normally fully utilized for the entire day.

For the last three weeks, he has been able to use the remaining three trucks to fulfil his contractual obligations because the work has been concentrated in the Hamilton area. However, beginning next week, the trucks will be required in such diverse places as 400 and Finch, Toronto, etc. and therefore he will be unable to fulfil his obligations.

If the truck is not returned business will be lost. He now has a contract to pour fifteen basements within the next three weeks, and he is quite certain that if the builder has to give this work to his competitors, he will not only lose the immediate business, but he will also lose continuing business from the contractors. There are only so many contractors in the Hamilton area, and competition for work among concrete pouring companies is fierce. When asked whether he could get help from other companies, he admitted that he did work closely with some of the companies, and that they helped each other out occasionally. However, with fifteen basements to be poured within the next three weeks he would not be able to get sufficient help.

His main concern, he stated over and over again was not for himself but for the five crew- members who normally work with the impounded vehicle. He could, as owner, juggle the crews in order that each person could work four days per week, but he went on at length to explain that he had tried this in the past and that it had not worked. He was adamant that he would not try it again.

The laid off staff would experience exceptional hardship he believed because he might lose some of the builders from whom he received regular business, and because the work was specialized. The crew would not very easily obtain alternative employment.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;

Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Robert Smith;

Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until March 31, 2000.

LAW

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
 - (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsections 50.2(3)(c) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, “due diligence” in Black’s Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines “exceptional hardship” as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

(h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22
- (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) a threat to the health or safety or any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
- (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) inconvenience to any person;
- (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
- (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or

- (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS

Issue of due diligence

The evidence established that the owner of the motor vehicle relied solely on the Insurance Company for verification that Mr. Robert Smith's driver's licence was not suspended. The grounds of appeal under section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act require that the Applicant, in this case, 1290943 Ontario Inc., exercise due diligence in attempting to determine that Mr. Smith's driver's licence was not suspended at the time of the impoundment of the Applicant's motor vehicle. While giving evidence on behalf of the company, Mr. Mans admitted that he relied solely on the insurance company to verify Mr. Smith's records and that neither he nor his partner made any effort to verify the validity of the driver's licence.

The company could only state that it presumed that there was no problem with Mr. Smith's driver's licence because the insurance company did not make any comments about it, and because they did not increase their insurance premiums. The insurance company never provided written evidence to show that the driver's licence was in good standing. The Board finds that it is not the responsibility of a third party, such as an Applicant's insurance company, to perform the task of due diligence for the owner.

The Applicant has therefore failed to establish that he exercised due diligence as required by the Act.

Issue of exceptional hardship

In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, under Regulation 574, subsection 22(2), the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,

- (a) inconvenience to any person;
- (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
- (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
- (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.

However, under Regulation 574, subsection 22(3), the Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b) (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,

- (a) no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available;
- (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
- (c) the impact will be a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and,
- (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2) (b) (c) or (d).

Mr. Mans' evidence, in the Board's opinion, clearly indicated that with respect to volume of work that was to be done, there was no alternative to the impounded vehicle. It was not possible to either go out and rent a similar vehicle, or have the use of a vehicle belonging to one of the other concrete pourers in the business.

He was at pains to stress that the loss would be upon the five crew members who were ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle. It was of no use going to the site without the vehicle because it was integral to the pouring of the concrete. They would have to be laid off. He also demonstrated, in the Board's opinion that the impact of the loss would be upon persons other than the person whose driving while his driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle.

However, Mr. Mans did not prove exceptional hardship, because,

- a. for the past three weeks, he has been able to fulfill his obligations. He has been able to use three trucks to do the work of four. His staff have only been inconvenienced because they have had to drive to work in their own cars.
- b. He was unable to provide evidence that he would surely lose work from the contractors. He thought this might happen, but he had no proof.

- c. He also had no proof that the five crew members who would be laid off would suffer exceptional hardship. It is true that they may have to apply for Employment Insurance, by he could not say that they would not obtain adequate employment rather quickly. He admitted that there was little unemployment in the Hamilton area at present.

On the basis of this the Board finds that 1290943 Ontario Inc. has failed to prove exceptional hardship.

DECISION

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: April 17, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: April 19, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 17, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: 1256795 Ontario Ltd. (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1988 Chev Van, Plate # AFKH 951 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: March 29, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (the "Board") (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the driver's licence was not under suspension as provided in section 50.2(3)(b) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on April 17, 2000 and proceeded as an electronic hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Board commencing the hearing. The Respondent submitted copies of their submissions bearing original certification seals.

All documents were entered into evidence with the consent of both parties.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

WE ARE A CAR & TRUCK RENTAL COMPANY
THIS TRUCK WAS RENTED TO MARISA SEGOTA DR. LIC #S2231-51906-26016
02/10/16 AS THE SOLE DRIVER FOR DELIVERY PURPOSES, SHE STARTED

RENTING IT ON OCT 04/99 & CAME IN ALONE & RENEWED HER CONTRACT EVERY MONTH SHE HAS ALWAYS BEEN THE ONLY AUTH. DRIVER ON THE CONTRACT & THE INSURANCE. THIS VAN DOES NOT BELONG TO MARISA SEGOTA OR ROMEO SEGOTA

Mr. Trafford testified that Mr. Romeo Segota, the driver of the impounded vehicle, was the husband of the person who rented the vehicle from the Applicant. The Applicant had a one month rental agreement with Mrs. Maria Segota which specifically indicated that she was the intended driver of the vehicle, and that no one else other than her was to drive it. Mrs. Segota was found to have a valid driver's licence by the Applicant at the time of signing the rental agreement.

Mr. Trafford further testified that the Applicant had no knowledge of Mr. Segota. The Applicant does not dispute the fact that Mr. Segota was the driver of the vehicle at the time of the impoundment and that Mr. Segota's driver's licence was then under suspension.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;

Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Romeo J. Segota;

Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until January 17, 2001.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(b).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(b) alleging that the driver's licence of the driver driving at the time of the impoundment order was not under suspension, section 55.1(2) of the Act states:

Where a police officer or officer appointed for carrying out the provisions of this Act is satisfied that a person was driving a motor vehicle on a highway while his or her driver's licence is under suspension under section 41 or 42, even if it is under suspension at the same time for any other reason, the officer shall,

- (a) notify the Registrar of the fact or cause the Registrar to be notified; and
- (b) detain the motor vehicle that was being driven by the person whose driver's licence is under suspension until the Registrar issues an order under subsection (3).

Section 41 of the Highway Traffic Act identify the type of appeals for which a licence is suspended in sections 41(1)(a), (b), (c), (d), and (e) and 41(7) and 42(1) and 42(5) as follows:

Section 41(1) Subject to subsections 41.1 (1), (2) and (3), the driver's licence of a person who is convicted of an offence,

- (a) under section 220, 221 or 236 of the Criminal Code (Canada) committed by means of a motor vehicle or a street car within the meaning of this Act or a motorized snow vehicle within the meaning of Motorized Snow Vehicles Act;
- (b) under section 249, 252, 253 or 255 of the Criminal Code (Canada) committed while driving or having the care, charge or control of a motor vehicle or street car within the meaning of this Act or a motorized snow vehicle within the meaning of the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act;
- (c) under subsection 254 (5) of the Criminal Code (Canada) committed in relation to the driving or having the care, charge or control of a motor vehicle or street car within the meaning of this Act or a motorized snow vehicle within the meaning of the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act;
- (d) under a provision that is enacted by a state of the United States of America and that is designated by the regulations; or
- (e) referred to in a predecessor to this sub-section, is thereupon suspended

42.(1) The driver's licence of a person who is convicted of an offence under subsection 259 (4) of the Criminal Code (Canada) or under a provision that is enacted by state of the United States of America and that is designated by the regulations is thereupon suspended for a period of,

- (a) upon the first conviction, one year; and
- (b) upon a subsequent conviction, two years, in addition to any other period for which the licence is suspended and consecutively there to.

- (4) This section applies in the same manner as if a person were convicted of an offence if the person pleads guilty to or is found guilty of an offence referred to in subsection (1) and,
 - (a) an order directing that the accused be discharged is made under section 736 of the Criminal Code (Canada) or under a provision that is enacted by a state of the United States of America and that is designated by the regulations; or

- (b) a disposition is made under section 20 or sections 28 to 32 of the Young Offenders Act (Canada), including a confirmation or variation of the disposition. R.S.O. 1990, c.H.8, s.42 (1-4).

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

The Applicant has appealed the impoundment order on the grounds that the driver's licence of the driver of the vehicle at the time of the impoundment was not under suspension, in accordance with Section 50.2(3)(c). In order for the Applicant to meet the onus under this section, the Applicant must establish that Mr. Segota's driver's licence was not under suspension at the time of the impoundment.

The undisputed evidence heard at this hearing was that Mr. Segota was the driver of the vehicle at the time of the impoundment, and that his driver's licence was then under suspension.

The Applicant has argued before the Board that the driver's licence of the intended driver of the vehicle, Mrs. Segota, whom the vehicle had been rented to, was not under suspension at the time of the impoundment. Though this fact was not in dispute, the Board finds that this evidence is not relevant, as the Board is precluded from considering other factors not arising from or directly related to the specific criteria under Section 50.2(3)(c).

The Board therefore finds that there is no evidence before it that would support the Applicant's ground of appeal that the driver's licence of the vehicle at the time of the impoundment was not then under suspension.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as Licence Appeal Tribunal) by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Notice of Appeal – dated February 14, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 3 Ministry of Transportation - Report of Examination of Visual Functions – received March 20, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 2 Ministry of Transportation submissions – tabs 1 – 21
- received February 18, 2000

PRELIMINARY MATTERS

The respondent submitted a "File Summary".

The Applicant's agent submitted a copy of the Report of Evaluation of Visual Functions dated "00 03 20". As the Respondent did not proffer an objection, the Report of Evaluation of Visual Functions was entered, in evidence, on consent, and filed as Exhibit # 3.

FACTS

The Applicant is appealing the suspension of his driving privileges effective "98 12 26" as per Exhibit # 1.

The Applicant came to the attention of the Ministry as a result of an unsolicited letter, dated October 2, 1998. Physician # 1, a Medical Consultant with the Workplace Safety & Insurance Board, informs the Ministry of Transportation (the "Ministry") that the Applicant "... underwent insertion of a dorsal column stimulator and takes the following medications:

"Dilaudid 8 mg tablets one two to tablets every four hours, Tylenol # 3 eight to ten per day.

In view of the medication and in particular the use of the dorsal column stimulator I do not consider it safe for him to operate a motor vehicle..." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 1).

On February 12, 1999, Physician # 2 writing under the letterhead of the Medical Centre, suggests Physician # 1's conclusions were reached "...in the course of a 15 minute assessment..." Physician # 2 goes on to refute Physician # 1's findings by asserting: "...the Dilaudid and the Tylenol 3, ... have been prescribed by me on a regular basis for some time, the information contained in the last paragraph of the letter is inaccurate..." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 4).

Physician # 2 further advises the Ministry that the Applicant "... no longer uses the dorsal column stimulator" (Exhibit # 3 Tab 4).

A Director of Sales & Marketing of Medtronic of Canada Ltd., in a letter dated January 18, 1999, indicates that: "... there are thousands of patients around the world that have Medtronic's Spinal Cord Stimulation systems implanted that have been able to return to many of their normal activities, including driving motor vehicles. The only information Medtronic provides in its manuals regarding the use of its Spinal Cord Stimulation systems is that such systems should be shut off while operating motor vehicles. Patients can easily turn their systems off... in the Applicant's case with an external transmitter. To the best of its knowledge Medtronic is not aware of any patient that has been deprived of driving privileges by a state or federal motor vehicle licensing agency because of the implantation of one of our neurostimulation devices..." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 7).

MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE CASE STUDY dated April 12, 1999 recommends "OK WITH A DRIVING ASSESSMENT - IF OK PER SUB. ABUSE.....REQUEST

ASSESSMENT FROM AN ADDICTION SPECIALIST INCLUDING ANY ABUSE OF PAIN - MEDICATION... (Exhibit # 2 Tab 8).

By letter dated April 19, 1999, the Ministry advised the Applicant that in order "...to determine whether you can safely operate a Class 'AB' vehicle we require an up-to-date detailed assessment from an addiction specialist including reference to any abuse of pain medication..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 9).

Physician # 2 writes to the Ministry on behalf of the Applicant. In a submission made on May 3, 1999, Physician # 2 encloses a consultation letter from Physician # 3 (Exhibit # 2 Tab 10).

In a report dated June 30, 1999, Physician # 3 asserts: "... I talked to him at length about the use of medications. I do think he is using his medication wisely... I do not think that this man is addicted to medications. I think that he in fact does have chronic nonmalignant pain..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 11).

The Applicant was prescribed the following medication by Physician # 3: "Codeine Contin 50-100 mg q. 12 h (Rx 50 mg x 100), Neurontin 400 mg q. 12 h (Rx 30) and Nitrazepam 20 mg q.h.s., p.r.n. (Rx 10 mg tablets x 20)" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 11).

By letter dated July 12, 1999 the Ministry advised the Applicant that in order "...to determine whether you can safely operate a Class 'AB' vehicle we require a satisfactory driving evaluation from a rehabilitation centre. An appointment can be arranged through your family physician..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 12).

Physician # 3's letter addressed to the Ministry on July 28, 1999 emphasizes that the Applicant "... is taking his medication wisely and ...is capable of driving... and ...a psychological assessment would not be required for the purposes of driving..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 13).

MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE CASE STUDY dated September 30, 1999 reconfirms the need for "...a...driving assessment..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 14).

ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW - MEDICAL SUSPENSIONS dated "November 10, 1999", completed by Driver Improvement Counsellor #1, details the Applicant's history as explained by the Applicant. The Applicant discloses that he has had "... a column stimulator implanted in 1996 to take away the pain in his legs...had accident in 1977, injuring his back and requiring surgery... had continual pain in his right leg since the accident...sees family doctor every Monday.... Physician # 3... three times this year" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 16).

At the hearing and without objection from the Ministry's representative....

Exhibit # 2 Tab 17 is a Ministry of Transportation Report Examination of Visual Functions form dated "99 11 25" signed by Physician # 4.

By letter dated March 1, 2000, the Ministry advised the Applicant that he "...no longer meets the standard for a classified licence.... licence is being downgraded to a class "G". Please note that any consideration for re-instatement will be given to a class "G" licence only...". Before consideration of reinstatement of a class AB licence the Ministry requires a new examination by an “...optometrist or ophthalmologist that confirms visual acuity meets the legislated standard of no less than 20/30 in the better eye and 20/50 in the weaker eye and a horizontal reading of 120 degrees in each eye” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 20).

At the hearing and without objection from the Ministry’s representative, the Applicant introduced a new eye examination report showing without corrective lenses, the Applicant’s eyes both showed 20/100 for visual acuity by Snellen Rating and with corrective lenses 20/20 for the left eye and 20/50 for the right eye. The Applicant also had a horizontal visual field of 120 degrees in each eye.

Exhibit # 2 Tab 21, a Ministry of Transportation driving Record for the Applicant since 1969 indicates no offences.

At the hearing, the Respondent, relied on and reiterated the information contained in the documents presented for the hearing, entered as Exhibit # 2, tabs 1 through 21, and on the text of the written summations.

The Applicant was represented by the Agent. During examination in chief by his Agent and cross-examination by the Respondent, the Applicant testified that it has been approximately one year since he has used the spinal stimulator. He continues to take the Neurontin and Tylenol 3, but he is not addicted to this medication.

The reason that the Applicant has not obtained an assessment from an addiction specialist is that he found the cost prohibitive. He will agree to see someone if the $800.00 cost is incurred by someone else, as he cannot afford it himself. Further, the Applicant attested that he has been told by “...three doctors that no assessment is needed...”.

The Applicant spent seven years in service with the Toronto Transit Commission (“TTC”) and last drove for the TTC in 1996. The TTC has a strict policy and all employees must undergo regular medical examinations.

Before driving for the TTC, the Applicant was a truck driver for 12 years, driving between Canada and the US. During this time and later with the TTC, the Applicant never had any tickets or any accidents. His employers have never complained about his ability to drive.

ISSUES

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant’s licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

14. An applicant for or a holder of a driver’s licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Regulation 340/94 section 17 states:

17(1) Qualifications required by an applicant for a holder of a Class A, B, C, D, E, or F driver's licence are that the applicant or holder,

....

- (j) has a visual acuity by Snellen Rating, with or without the aid of corrective lenses, no poorer than 20/30 in the better eye and 20/50 in the weaker eye; and
- (k) has a horizontal visual field of at least 120 degrees in each eye as measured by confrontation tests.

Section 47(1) states:

- 47. (1) Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,
 - (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
 - (b) a driver's licence; or
 - (c) a CVOR certificate,
 on the grounds of,
 - (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
 - (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
 - (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
 - (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

50. (1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board.

(2) The Board may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS

Section 47(1) unquestionably empowers the Registrar to “...suspend or cancel” a driver’s licence for “any...sufficient reason...”. The Registrar originally suspended the Applicant’s driver’s licence, upon receipt, in October of 1998, of an unsolicited letter from Physician # 1, a Medical Consultant with the Workplace Safety & Insurance Board. Physician # 1 informs the Ministry of her concerns about the Applicant’s ability to “...operate a motor vehicle...” due to the Applicant’s use of “... a dorsal column stimulator...” and his medication intake: “Dilaudid 8 mg tablets one two to tablets every four hours, Tylenol # 3 eight to ten per day” (Exhibit # 3 Tab 1).

The Board finds that the Ministry acted properly and in accordance with the Regulation, at the time of the suspension.

The Board notes that in support of its continued denial to reinstate the Applicant’s driving privileges, the Registrar has required the Applicant to satisfy several different demands.

In the Letter of December 4 advising the Applicant of the suspension, the Registrar suggests that “...we will be pleased to reconsider your case upon receipt of a satisfactory medical report...” (Exhibit # 3 Tab 2).

The Applicant complied by requesting his physician, Physician # 2 to write a letter to the Registrar. In his letter dated February 12, Physician # 2 confirms that the Applicant “... no longer uses the dorsal column stimulator ...I would ask you to reconsider ... and review the decision to remove the Applicant’s licence...” (Exhibit # 3 Tab 4)

Not finding the information sufficient, a “Driver Review & Control Analyst” requests: “... a detailed assessment from a specialist in chronic pain referencing... current status and treatment...” (Exhibit # 3 Tab 5).

As requested, a detailed assessment from Physician # 3 was submitted. (Exhibit # 3 Tab 6).

Upon review of Physician # 3’s report, the Medical Advisory Committee assumed the Applicant has a substance abuse and requested an “... ASSESSMENT FROM AN ADDICTION SPECIALIST...” (Exhibit # 3 Tab 8).

In a letter dated May 3, 1999, Physician # 2 encloses a letter from Physician # 3 stating that “...I believe that this may obviate the necessity of going through a formal consultation on the subject of addiction...” (Exhibit # 3 Tab 10).

In a report received by the Ministry on July 08, 1999, Physician # 3 responded to the Ministry’s concern of substance abuse by confirming that he does not “... think that this man is addicted to medications ...” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 11).

In response to a subsequent request from L. Walker, Analyst, Driver Review Control , Physician # 3 reiterated and reinforced his position by providing the Ministry with a second letter dated July 28, wherein he asserted that the Applicant “... is taking his medication wisely and ... is capable of driving... and ...a psychological assessment would not be required for the purposes of driving....” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 13).

It is evident, from reviewing the preceding testimony, that the Applicant has the unswerving support of his physicians. Both Physician # 2 and Physician # 3 have submitted several reports to the Ministry assuring that they have no doubts that the Applicant is able to safely operate a motor vehicle.

To substantiate his position, the Applicant has also provided a letter from the manufacturer of the spinal stimulator, Medtronic of Canada Ltd. A Director declares that: "patients.... that have Medtronic's Spinal Cord Stimulation systems implanted have been able to return to many of their normal activities, including driving motor vehicles". The only caveat is that the stimulator be turned off during driving. The Applicant testified that he was aware of this restriction (Exhibit # 2 Tab 7).

The Board notes in the second last paragraph of page four of the Respondent's File Summary: "... the Ministry of Transportation may only consider the Applicant for a class "G" driver's licence upon receipt of a satisfactory driving assessment from rehabilitation centre. This is a result of the vision standards found in section 17(j) of Regulation 340/94..."

Section 17 (j) of Regulation 340/94 applies to:

"...an applicant.... of a Class A, B,C,D,E, OR F driver's licence..."

The Board notes, that after launching the Appeal, received by the Board on February 18, 2000, the Applicant was informed by the Ministry, by letter dated March 1, 2000 that his 'AB' driver's licence was being "...downgraded ...for records purposes only, to a class 'G' licence...". This action apparently taken as a result of a Report of Examination of Visual Functions received by the Ministry on "DEC 01 1999".

The new eye examination report filed by the Applicant at the hearing indicated that without corrective lenses, the left and right eyes showed 20/100 for both eyes for visual acuity by Snellen Rating. With corrective lenses, the left eye was 20/20 and the right eye was 20/50 by Snellen Rating. The minimum requirement under section 17(j) of Regulation 340/94 is 20/30 in the better eye and 20/50 in the weaker eye, with or without corrective lenses. The Applicant met this qualification with corrective lenses.

The Registrar also relied on Section 14 of Regulation 340/94.

The applicable clause of Section 14 states that:

"An applicant for a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- a) suffer from a mental, emotional nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely..."

After evaluation of the evidence in its entirety, the Board accepts Physician # 2 and Physician # 3's opinions about the ability of the Applicant to safely operate a motor vehicle in spite of his medical condition with respect to clause 14 of Regulation 340/94.

The Applicant meets the qualification for a holder of a Class A, B licence under section 17(j) under Regulation 340/94 on the basis of the medical report the Applicant filed at the hearing. The Applicant's impeccable driving record further substantiates this finding.

The Board finds that the Respondent has not proven that the Applicant is currently suffering from a medical condition, which is likely to significantly interfere with his ability to drive a motor vehicle as described by section 14(a) or that he fails to meet the requirements of section 17(j) of Regulation 340/94 of the HTA.

DECISION

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated December 26, 1998 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend his driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Board, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE BOARD pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be set aside and the Applicant's driver's licence be reinstated.

DATE OF HEARING: February 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as Licence Appeal Tribunal) (the "Tribunal") from a written decision of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program") dated July 22, 1999 in which decision the Program denied the claim of the Applicant, Peter Adams ("Adams").

BACKGROUND:

The decision of the Program which is now appealed by Adams states as follows:

DECISION

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE ONTARIO NEW HOME WARRANTY PROGRAM that your claim for compensation is denied, for the reasons set out below.

FACTS

1. In the spring of 1993, you entered into an arrangement with Craftsman Homes and Cottages Ltd. and Craftsman Construction Services Ltd. (collectively referred to as "Craftsman"), whereby Craftsman undertook to supply work and services relating to the construction of a home on your property. The arrangement was partly in writing and partly oral. The arrangement included a Sales Contract signed and dated May 11, 1993 for a pre-fabricated home package and site erection services and supervision services at a price of $40,276.00. At the time of the Sales Contract, it appears that you verbally agreed to purchase additional material and services. There is no written contract for the additional items, but they are referred to in a 3 page, hand-written document dated May 11) 1993 entitled "Total Cost Review". This document suggests that you purchased a foundation package for $5,000 and optional home package for $9,399.00, bringing the total of the 'home construction costs' to $54,675.00, including GST.

2. The "Total Cost Review" also appears to contain an estimate for 'Finishing Allowances' in the amount of "approx. $25,000 + or -- GST". It is not clear whether there was any firm agreement by you to purchase those services from Craftsman.
3. The "Total Cost Review" also contains a summary of "Land and Associated Costs", totaling $74,000. This includes $58,000 for the cost of the land, which was not part of the arrangement with Craftsman and was not paid to Craftsman. The balance, being $16,000, includes what appear to be estimates for engineering and development fees, driveway rough-in, septic system, water, tree removal and water pipe. It appears that Craftsman was to arrange for these items on your behalf and act as a conduit for payment.
4. On May 20, 1993, Craftsman enrolled the home with ONHWP.
5. During the course of construction, you requested numerous changes, many of which are not documented. The changes appear to include increased square footage, siding upgrades, and window upgrades.
6. It appears, in the summer of 1993, you directly hired or contracted with a number of suppliers and trades, including the cabinet supplier, the hardwood and ceramics suppliers, and the fireplace and chimney supplier.
7. You allege that, by September 16, 1993, you advised Craftsman that it was close to the numbers agreed to for the whole project. You also allege that there had been an overpayment of $5,650, which was to be applied to future items, such as front windows.
8. On December 18, 1993, Craftsman ceased construction. There is a dispute as to the reason for the cessation. Craftsman claims you fired him. You claim that you merely refused to pay him any additional money, and told him to finish construction with what you had already paid. At that time, the exterior of the home had been completed with the exception of the installation of a door to the crawl space, some vinyl siding to the exterior, certain windows and screens. The septic system had been installed and a driveway had been roughed in. As to the interior, the insulation and vapour barrier had been installed; the drywall was in place and one coat of compound had been applied, the casings, baseboards and door jambs had yet to be installed, plumbing had been roughed in, but no plumbing fixtures had been installed, - electrical wiring had been roughed in and receptacles installed, but no electrical heaters had been installed; and the floors were bare plywood.
9. In January of 1994, Craftsman asked ONHWP to cancel the enrolment because you were completing construction of the home and thus acting as your own builder.
10. You claim that, prior to the termination of construction, you paid a total of $98,274.57. Of this sum, you paid $59,608.60 (including the 'overpayment' of $5,650.00) to Craftsman and $38,665.97 to other suppliers of services or materials. You also claim that, after the termination of Craftsman, you paid either $6,147.83 (according to your "Brief of Damages") or $7,696.67 (according to your "Calculation of Damages"). You are also claiming various amounts for non-completion costs, such as lien payments, hydro costs, and firewood.
11. You completed the home without notifying ONHWP that you were doing so. Consequently, ONHWP had no opportunity to conduct an inspection of the premises.
12. After leaving the site, Craftsman filed a lien on the property and commenced an action against you under the Construction Lien Act. You defended and counter-claimed. By order dated July 25, 1996, the court dismissed Craftsman's action and granted summary judgment on your counterclaim against Craftsman for $35,588.13, plus pre-judgment and post-judgment interest. It is not known whether you attempted to collect on the judgment, and if so, whether you were successful.
13. Bolsover Sand and Gravel Limited ("Bolsover") filed a lien and commenced an action against you, for payment of $16,098.16 worth of materials and services to the site. Bolsover later obtained judgment against you in the amount $9,261.66, which is the holdback that you were required to maintain under the Construction Lien Act. You have not produced any evidence that you paid this amount.
14. You were also sued by Deardon, Stanton and Stringmen ("Deardon"), apparently for engineering fees for services rendered in designing the septic system. You have not provided the pleadings or any judgment in that action. You have produced a cheque payable to Deardon dated May 9, 1997 in the amount of $2,598.74. It is not clear whether this payment was made under a judgment or a settlement.
15. In August 1994, 014FIWP contacted you and Craftsman regarding the cancellation of the enrolment.

You and Craftsman's principal attended a meeting with ONHWP on September 8, 1994 to discuss the matter and to review certain documents. You did not provide written notice of claim to ONHWP. Nevertheless, on October 18, 1994, ONHWP issued a Decision Letter stating that the Act did not apply to your home, since Craftsman did not fall within the definition of 'vendor' or 'builder' in the Act. You then requested a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (hereinafter referred to as the "Tribunal").

16. In 1997, the Tribunal held a hearing to determine whether the Act applies to your home. You and ONHWP agreed that the Tribunal would address solely this threshold question. If the Tribunal held that the Act applied, you and ONHWP would attempt to settle the claim for financial loss. If the parties could not settle the claim, then ONHWP would issue a decision letter under Section 16 of the Act, which you could appeal to the Tribunal.
17. By Reasons for Decision and Order dated March 23, 1998, the Tribunal held that Craftsman was a "builder" as defined in the Act and that the Act applied to the home.
18. You subsequently submitted a "Brief of Damages" to ONHWP for both breach of contract and completion costs. You have also submitted a document entitled "Adam Calculation of Damages".

REASONS

1. It is not clear whether you are claiming under section 14(l)(a) or (b) of the Act. Hence, we have assessed the claim under both subsections. These subsections provide as follows:
14. (1) Where
 - (a) a person who has entered into a contract with a vendor for the provision of a home has a cause of action in damages against the vendor for financial loss resulting from the bankruptcy of the vendor or the vendor's failure to perform the contract;
 - (b) an owner has a cause of action against a vendor for damages resulting from a breach of warranty, the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damage subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulations.

Financial Loss Claim under Section 14(l)(b)

2. In order to qualify under subsection (b), you must show at least that:
 - A contract was entered into with a vendor for the provision of a completed home.
 - The vendor failed to complete the home through no fault of yours.
 - Payments were made in accordance with the terms and conditions of the purchase agreement.
 - You paid more for the total construction of the home than you would have paid if the vendor had completed the home pursuant to the contract.
3. You have not established that Craftsman failed to perform the contract within the meaning of section 14(1)(a). We have conflicting information as to whether you told Craftsman to stop work. It is clear that Craftsman was willing to continue work if you continued to pay him, but that you refused to make any further payments to Craftsman for future work and materials. You claim that this was because Craftsman had exceeded what you expected to pay. However, there was no firm contract price for the entire home. The only firm amount was $54,675.00, which included the shell package, the foundation and the labour package. The amount for the foundation was subsequently increased due to site conditions. The figure provided for the finishing is described as an "allowance", which means that if the costs exceeded the allowance, you would be required to pay the difference. This is reinforced by the word "approx." before the figure. The figure given under the heading "Land and Associated Costs" likewise appears to be an estimate. Some of the individual figures were subsequently increased due to municipal requirements and site conditions. There is nothing in the documents or in the conduct of the parties to prove that this was a fixed price contract. Since there was no firm contract price, you have not established that there was a cost overrun. Even if there was such a cost overrun, it does not appear that it would be of such a magnitude to constitute a fundamental breach of contract so as to entitle you to terminate the contract.
4. Alternatively, even if Craftsman did fail to perform the contract, you have failed to establish that the amounts claimed by you constitute a financial loss resulting from Craftsman's non-performance.

5. ONHWP's position with respect to each of the items in your Calculation of Damages, annexed as schedule "A" hereto, is as follows:

AMOUNT	DESCRIPTION	REASON FOR DISALLOWANCE
$5,650.00	Overpayment	*The contract did not require this payment. *This payment was not caused by the alleged failure to perform the contract. The payment was made as the result of a mutual error by both parties, which preceded the termination of construction by several months.
$1,328.00	Cash advance	*There is no evidence that such a payment was in fact made to Mr. Zutautis. You have provided a promissory note, but no evidence that you actually advanced those monies to Mr. Zutatis. Instead, it appears that this amount was paid to the window supplier *Even if you did in fact advance cash to Mr. Zutautis, it was not required by the contract and hence was not caused by the alleged failure of Craftsman to perform the contract to build the home. Rather, it is the result of the breach of the separate loan agreement between you and Mr. Zutautis.
$15,749.28	Bolsover Judgment	*This payment was not made as a result of the alleged failure to perform the contract for the home. It was made as the result of your non compliance with the holdback provisions of the Construction Lien Act. *Alternatively, you failed to mitigate this loss by complying with the holdback requirements under the Construction Lien Act.
$2,598.74	Dearden and Stanton	*We have not been provided with a copy of the judgment, so we are unable to verify its existence or its content. *The payment was not the result of the alleged failure to perform the contract for the home. It appears that your payment was in relation to the invoices dated June 25, 1993 and October 26, 1993 from the engineering firm. The invoices are addressed to you rather than Craftsman. It also appears from a letter dated October 26, 1993 that the engineers reported directly to you rather than to Craftsman. Accordingly, it appears that there was a direct contract or retainer between you and the engineering firm. *Alternatively, even if there was no contract between you and the engineering firm, it appears that the engineering firm did render the services described in the invoices. Hence, you received the benefit of those services.
$1,000.00	Extra Hydro	*You have not provided any evidence that the contract between you and Craftsman required the latter to reimburse you for hydro use. Alternatively, you have not provided any evidence that you actually incurred such costs.
$420.00	Firewood	*You have not provided any evidence that the contract between you and Craftsman required the latter to reimburse you for firewood. Further, you have not provided any evidence that

$105.94	Heating timer	this loss, if any, was caused by Craftsman's alleged failure to perform the contract to build the home. Alternatively, you have not provided any documentation to substantiate the amount. *You have not provided any evidence that the contract between you and Craftsman required the latter to reimburse you for the timer. *Further, you have not provided any evidence that this loss, if any, was caused by Craftsman's alleged failure to perform the contract to build the home.
$3,103.54	Siding	*You have provided an invoice from "Boss", but you have not provided a cancelled cheque, receipt or other evidence of payment of the invoice.
$500.00	Sanding	*You have provided a cheque payable to "Bin Break", but you have not provided any contract, invoice, work order or other document that describes the services and/or materials provided.
$400.00	Stairs	*You have not provided any documentation to substantiate this claim or the amount of the claim.
$751.00	Screens and storm door	*You did not actually install these items, since you changed the plans regarding these items. You did provide an estimate of what these items would have costs if they had been installed in accordance with the Craftsman contract. However, you have not established that this estimate exceeds what it would have cost you if Craftsman had completed the home.
$400.00	Insulation + drywall	*You have not provided any documentation to substantiate this claim or the amount of the claim. Alternatively, you have not shown that this amount exceeded what it would have cost you if Craftsman had completed the home.
$400.00	Clean up	*You have not provided any documentation to substantiate this claim or the amount of the claim.
$2,142.13	Electrical	*The electrical work was one of the items included in the Finishing Allowance of "approx. $25,000 + or - GST", so there was no firm price. Consequently, you have not established that you paid more for this item than you would have paid if Craftsman had completed the home.

6. You completed the home without prior notice to ONHWP and thus deprived ONHWP of the opportunity inspect the home.
7. In the alternative, even if you were able to establish the completion costs claimed by you, and that they exceeded the total payable under the Craftsman contract, the maximum allowable would be the greater of $5,000.00 or 2% of the contract price, pursuant to s.6(6) of O.Reg. 892. Since there was no contract price, the only available limit would be $5,000.

Breach of Warranty Claim under section 14(1)(b)

8. In order to make a claim under subsection (b), you must establish, at a minimum, that
 - The warranties commenced.
 - You provided written notice of each item in your claim within the applicable warranty period.
 - The vendor breached one of the warranties set out in section 13 (1) of the Act or in Regulation 892.
 - You suffered damages as the result of the breach(es) of warranty.

9. You have not established that you have a cause of action for breach of warranty against Craftsman. The warranties commence upon the date on which the vendor completes the home for the owner's possession, pursuant to section 13(3) of the Act. Craftsman did not complete the home for your possession, since you terminated your arrangement with Craftsman. Hence, you are not eligible to make a claim under this subsection.
10. Alternatively, even if the warranties did commence and were breached by Craftsman, the items claimed by you are not valid, for the same reasons set out in paragraphs 5, 6 and 7 above.

LEGISLATION APPLICABLE TO THIS MATTER:

At the hearing of this matter, Adams through his counsel confirmed that his claim was based on section 14(1)(a) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act (the "Act") and not on section 14(1)(b) of the Act.

Section 14(1)(a) of the Act states as follows:

14.(1) Where,

- (a) a person who has entered into a contract with a vendor for the provision of a home has a cause of action in damages against the vendor for financial loss resulting from the bankruptcy of the vendor or the vendor's failure to perform the contract;

the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damage subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulations.

Section 6 of Regulation 892 to the Act which deals with the limits of liability of the guarantee fund states as follows:

6(1) A purchaser who has a claim under clause 14(1)(a) of the Act in respect of a purchase agreement entered into after the 30th day of June 1988, is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund an amount for damages arising from the breach of the agreement by the vendor that does not exceed $20,000.

6(7) Liability in respect of the cost of completion of a home is limited to 2 percent of the sale price of the home or $5,000, whichever is the greater. R.R.O. 1990, Reg. 892, s.6(5-7).

THE EVIDENCE:

The only persons to testify at the hearing before the Tribunal were Adams, Jim Fortune of the Program and Allan Bruno Zutautas who represented Craftsman Custom Homes & Cottages Limited and Craftsman Construction Services Inc.

Adams purchased land being Lot 4 on Plan 1294 in Orilla Township, Ontario for the sum of $58,000.00., and wished to have a home constructed on the lot. Adams had been introduced to Allan Bruno Zutautas ("Zutautas") by a real estate agent and discussions ensued between Adams and Zutautas with a view to having a residential home constructed on the lot.

Prior to entering into a contract in regard to the construction of the home, Adams and Craftsman Homes & Cottages Limited executed a written document titled DEPOSIT FORM which had been prepared by Craftsman on its letterhead (Exhibit 4, Tab 1). The date of the execution of this form was February 13, 1993. This form was addressed to Adams and read as follows:

1. At this time, a deposit made out to Craftsman Homes & Cottages Ltd. is required to proceed with Architectural Drawings and to obtain Building Permits. Our standard Deposit Fee for this service is $3,750.00 and will be deducted from your shell package price when ready to proceed.
2. Upon receipt of this deposit and a copy of the survey of the existing land to be built on, Craftsman will do the following:
 - (a) Obtain Health Unit Approvals (when required)
 - (b) Provide a plot plan
 - (c) Prepare working drawings to obtain Building Permits

NOTE: Applicable fee for permits, land development by City, Town or Municipality, health unit approvals and survey are a normal part of any construction project. These costs plus any special engineering requirements (if required by any of these authorities) are payable by the customer, directly to the appropriate areas when fees are known.

On February 13, 1993, Adams paid the sum of $3,750.00 as required by the Deposit Form.

On May 11, 1993, Adams and Craftsman, represented by Zutautas, entered into a written "SALES CONTRACT". In that contract, Adams agreed to purchase from Craftsman materials and site erection services in respect of a 1680 square foot home with slate vinyl siding.

Accordingly to the Sales Contract, the price of the home was as follows:

PACKAGE PRICE (materials)	$30,912.00
ADDITIONS: 1) Loft area up to 576 sq. ft.	2,016.00
2) Roofed and screened Porch Area 288 sq. ft.	4,896.00
	37,824.00
Plus G.S.T.	2,452.00
	40,276.00
RECEIVED DEPOSIT	3,750.00
MANUFACTURING DEPOSIT	13,291.00
BALANCE	23,235.00
 SITE ERECTION	 6,000.00
GOLD SEAL PACKAGE	2,784.00
G.S.T.	615.00
	$9,399.00

The total payable under the Sales Contract was $49,675.00. The Gold Seal Package was essentially for site erection services and supervision services by Craftsman from the beginning until the end of the contract. This supervision included Zutautas finding the trades and supplies of materials for Adams if and when required.

On May 11, 1993, Adams paid the "manufacturing deposit" of $13,291.00 referred to in the Sales Contract.

On that date, Zutautas also presented Adams with three pages of handwritten notes in the handwriting of Zutautas. These three pages accompanied the Sales Contract but do not bear the signature of either party to the Sales Contract.

To Come $4,491.00

Page two above indicates that additional to all amounts mentioned in the Sales Contract, Adams also purchased from Craftsman, a foundation package for the home for $5,000.00. When the $5,000.00 for the foundation package was added to the total cost under the Sales Contract, the home's construction costs came to $54,675.00.

The cost of the land upon which the home was to be constructed was $58,000.00, which Adams paid to the Vendor of the land and does not figure in the construction costs of the home itself. The difference between the $58,000.00 and $74,000.00 under "Land & Associated Costs" (page 1 above) namely, $16,000 was an estimate for engineering and development fees, including rough in for the home's drive way, the provision of fill, the provision of a septic system as well as the cost of bringing water from the river to the home and tree removal from the building site.

The evidence relating to the various claims made by Adams against the Program are dealt with hereunder in the same order as the program dealt with those claims in its decision letter.

Claim 1- Overpayment of $5,650.00

The evidence of Adams is as follows:

The Sales Contract of May 11, 1993 signed by him and Zutautas on behalf of Craftsman sets out a total construction cost of $49,675.00. Adams paid two deposits under that Sales Contract. A $3,750.00 deposit was paid prior to the Sales Contract being signed. This payment was made on February 13, 1993 pursuant to the signing of the deposit form of that date (Exhibit 4, Tab 1), and quoted earlier in this decision. Additionally, on May 11, 1993, Adams paid $13,291.00 being a "manufacturing deposit" in terms of the Sales Contract (Exhibit 4, Tab 3).

$9,399.00 was paid to Craftsman on June 25, 1993. This was for site erection services, Gold Seal Package and G.S.T. all in terms of the Sales Contract.

Adams claims to have paid certain sums of money to Craftsman in addition to the $3,750.00 deposit and the $9,399.00 payment. These additional payments totalled $46,459.60. Adams also claims he paid $38,665.97 to suppliers of building materials until Craftsman's departure from the building site in December 1993. As at the date of Craftsman leaving the building site, Adams therefore claims he had paid the sum of $92,274.57. Subsequent to Craftsman leaving the site, Adams claims he paid a further $15,473.54 to suppliers of materials and services.

Craftsman paid suppliers of materials for the home as well as suppliers of services necessary for the home. On or about September 16, 1993, Zutautas prepared a typewritten list of suppliers and what Craftsman had paid to such suppliers to that date. This list was titled "Peter Adams Review - September 16, 1993" (Exhibit 4, Tab 7). In that review, it appears that there had been an erroneous overpayment by Adams to Craftsman of some $5,650.00. Zutautas proposes in that review of September 16, 1993 that credit will be given by Craftsman to Adams for:

Paint material & labour	$1,750.00
Carpet material & labour	$1,748.00

Porch indoor/outdoor carpet/ Material & labour	$350.00
Fireplace material & labour	$2,961.43
	$6,809.43
Less credit	-$5,650.00
	$1,159.43

Both Adams and Zutautas agree that there was an overpayment of $5650.00 and that the balance of that overpayment would be applied as above. This arrangement was arrived at during a meeting between Adams and Zutautas on September 16, 1993.

Thereafter, Zutautas prepared a further typewritten document titled "Cheques Breakdown - October 1993" which was given to Adams by Zutautas on December 11, 1993 (Exhibit 4, Tab 8). This document contains an entry which reads as follows:

October 26, 1993 Barrle Windows re upgraded pkg.
windows & porch storm wind/door $5,295.75
+ $471.22 + paint M + L $1,750 + 2,097.96 carpet and home porch = Total $9,614.93 less $5,650
pkg. Over. Balance Received $3,966.97

Adams contended that by paying $3,966.97 he would obtain the items listed in the above quoted entry totaling $9,614.93.

Adams further stated that the sum of $3,966.97 was paid by him by his cheque # 027 dated October 26, 1993 (Exhibit 4, Tab 15) to Barrie Windows while the other items listed were deleted. The windows for which Barrie Windows was paid related to enlarged windows for the west elevation of the home. The original plan of the homes west elevation of March 1993 (Exhibit 25) reflects smaller windows prior to Adams deciding to have them enlarged. Adams claims that the decision to enlarge these windows was made and communicated to Zutautas prior to the May 11, 1993 signing of the Sales Contract. The enlarged windows were delivered to the home for installation after Craftsman had left the building site on December 18, 1993.

Jim Fortune, a warranty representative of the Program, gave evidence respecting:

Adam's claim relating to the sum of $5,650.00. Fortune stated that what should have been paid by Adams in terms of the Sales Contract was $49,675.00 whereas at a certain point in time, Adams had paid in excess of that figure by some $5,650.00. This, he stated, was due to an error but did not amount to a failure to perform the contract. Fortune stated that the sum of $5,650.00 was to be applied to future work to be performed by Craftsman and such future work was set forth in the September 1993 typewritten document created by Zutautas (Exhibit 4, Tab 7). The $5,650.00 was to be dealt with as stated in the September 1993 document as follows:

Credit Paint M & L	$1,750.00
Credit Carpet M & L	$1,748.00
Credit Porch Indoor/Outdoor Carpet M & L	$350.00
Credit Fireplace M & L	$2,961.43
	$6,809.43

Less overpayment	-$5,650.00
Leaving balance due	$1,159.43

Zutautas in his testimony conceded being the author of both documents of September 16, 1993 (Exhibit 4, Tab 7) and of October 1993 (Exhibit 4, Tab 8).

Claim 2 - Cash Advance $1,328.00

At the time that counsel for Adams and the Program made their final submissions to the Tribunal, Counsel for the Program advised that Adams was withdrawing the above claim and this was confirmed by Adams Counsel. Accordingly, this claim will not be dealt with in this decision.

Claim 3 - Bolsover Judgment $15,749.28

The evidence regarding this claim is that Adams paid $7,000.00 to Craftsman. This payment was in anticipation of work to be done in connection with the home namely, the supply and installation of a septic system on the lot, the rough driveway from the entrance to the lot as well as for the provision of fill from the $7,000.00. Craftsman was to pay for the work anticipated to be done as above. Bolsover Sand and Gravel Ltd. ("Bolsover") was retained to do this work. After doing the work Bolsover rendered an invoice to Adams for $16,098.63 made up as follows:

Septic to Health Board - Engineering Co. specs as per quote	$6,000.00
Roughing in of driveway as per quote	$2,000.00
Foundation material	$2,709.50
Extra fill	$2,745.00
Tree Removal (No P.S.T. charge)	$ 585.00
	$14,039.50
G.S.T.	$ 982.77
P.S.T. ($13,454.50)	$1,076.36
	$16,098.63

Neither Adams nor Craftsman paid the Bolsover invoice of $7,000.00. Bolsover had a lien registered against the title to the land where the home was being constructed. In January 1994, Bolsover sued Adams for the sum of $16,098.63 and in default of payment thereof claimed that the land be ordered sold and the proceeds of the sale of the land be applied towards payment of its claim. Bolsover's claim came before Mr. Justice MacKinnon at Barrie, Ontario, and after presiding over the trial judgement was granted in favour of Bolsover on September 20, 1996.

In his written reasons for judgement (Exhibit 4, Tab 17), Mr. Justice MacKinnon analysed the evidence given before him at trial and made the following findings:

- (a) The Sales Contract of May 11, 1993 is ambiguous on its face and as a result the Court was entitled to consider or look at other documentation as between Adams and Craftsman at or about May 11, 1993 when the Sales Contract was signed.
- (b) The three pages attached to the Sales Contract were to be taken into account in determining the relationship between Adams and Craftsman.

- (c) The contract between Adams and Craftsman constituted not only the items and figures as set out in the one page sales contract document, but also constituted the items and figures as set out in the handwritten documents of May 11, 1993.
- (d) The amount of the hold back was the sum of $98,266.57, less the overpayment of $5,650.00 for a net hold back of $92,616.57. The hold back then was 10% of that net amount pursuant to section 30 of the Construction Lien Act, namely $9,261.66. The judgment was accordingly for $9,261.66 plus pre-judgment interest of $1,261.11 together with party and party costs in the amount of $5,226.51 for a total sum of $15,749.28.

Adams in his evidence before the Tribunal stated he saw no reason to pay the Bolsover invoice when he received it as he had already paid $7,000.00 to Craftsman.

The evidence of Fortune for the Program was to the effect that had Adams held back 10% of the contract price, Adams could have applied such hold back to satisfying the lien and thereby mitigate the loss. He also contended that there is no obligation on Craftsman to pay the costs awarded to Bolsover in its court action against Adams nor is there any obligation to pay the award of interest. Fortune emphasized that Bolsover did not construct the foundation but only prepared (cleared) the site for the foundation and put in the septic system.

Zutautas evidence was to the effect that he conceded that $7,000.00 had been paid by Adams to Craftsman in anticipation of Bolsover's services and that at no stage was this sum paid by Craftsman to Bolsover. Prior to Bolsover invoicing Adams for its work, Craftsman had already utilized the $7,000.00 for "other aspects" of the home. The other aspects to which Adams referred were for extras supplied by Craftsman outside of the contract's requirements, such as electrical work and supplies, the enlarging of the walls of the home as well as the bathroom.

Zutautas stated that due to conditions that were found to prevail upon the lot, the Simcoe County Health Unit would not permit a septic system on the lot unless an engineer first inspected the lot and satisfied the Unit that the Unit should issue a septic system approval. This required that an engineer prepare engineering drawings, access from the road to the home be roughed in and elevations be brought to engineering specifications. These requirements would cost $9,600.00. The cost of the septic system would be $7,000.00 over and above the $9,600.00. The $7,000.00 cost of the septic system was paid to Craftsman by Adams on August 23, 1993 (see Exhibit 4, Tab 8). Zutautas referred the Tribunal to the Deposit Form (Exhibit 4, Tab 1) which Adams had signed and in particular to the "note" that appeared towards the bottom of that form. This Deposit Form is referred to earlier in this decision. Zutautas stated that Adams was well aware that $7,000.00 would not be all he would be required to pay and, having regard to the contents of the Deposit Form, he knew that other expenditures were likely.

Adams testified that on May 11, 1993, when he met with Zutautas and signed the Sales Contract, he paid Craftsman the sums of $300.00 for the initial engineering inspection fee and $1,500.00 for engineering drawings. Dearden, Stanton and Strongman Limited, ("Dearden") Surveyors and Consulting engineers were retained to supply a tile bed design and the service inspection.

On June 25, 1993 Dearden invoiced Adams $1,900.00 for the tile bed design plus an additional $200.00 for location of property bars to allow preliminary building location. These two amounts with G.S.T of $147.00 totalled $2,247.00 (Exhibit 5, Tab 2). On September 7, 1993 the sum of $768.00 was paid to Dearden by way of Adams' cheque submitted by Craftsman in reduction of the invoiced amount. On October 26, 1993 a further invoice from Dearden was addressed to Adams for tile bed inspection, grade control and as - built preparation in a total sum of $575.13 inclusive of G.S.T. (Exhibit 5, Tab 2). No other sums were paid in reduction of these invoices. By claim made in the Small Claims Court, Dearden sued Adams for $2,822.13 being the principal amounts claimed in both invoices. Dearden also claimed interest due on the overdue amounts plus post-judgment interest and costs. This amount was paid by Adams to Dearden by cheque on May 9, 1997.

In his evidence, Fortune stated that he had not seen any contract that Adams had entered into with Dearden. However, he drew the Tribunal's attention to the Deposit Form signed by Adams with particular reference to the note that appears on that form (Exhibit 4, Tab 1). He contended that Adams is liable for payment of this claim by virtue of the Deposit Form he signed. He also contended that Adams was ordered by Court to pay the amount claimed by Dearden and Adams in fact paid Dearden $2,598.74 by cheque on May 9, 1997 (Exhibit 3, Tab 15).

Fortune also stated that the Sales Contract makes no provision for a septic system. He pointed out that the two invoices of Dearden were addressed to Adams and not Craftsman and that this reinforces his view that Adams dealt directly with Dearden and retained them to do the work. Fortune also noted that the only direct payment made to Dearden aside from the cheque for $2,598.74 was made by Adams when he paid Dearden $768.00 on August 23, 1993 (Exhibit 3, Tab 10).

Zutautas testified that Craftsman obtained engineering services for its customers. In this instance, they obtained the services of Dearden for Adams. Zutautas pointed to a document he created dated August 14, 1993 (Exhibit 4, Tab 5). In that document, which was addressed to Adams by Craftsman, it stated the "projected" cost of the "initial engineering fee". The inspection of land is projected to cost $300.00 which sum Adams has paid. The actual cost was $321.00 leaving a balance due to be paid by Adams of $21.00. On that same document "Engineered Drawings" are stated as "projected and paid for" at $1,500-$1,900 with the "actual" cost being $2,247.00 leaving a balance of $747.00 due by Adams. This sum of $747.00 together with the sum of $21.00 totalling $768.00 was paid by Adams to Dearden by cheque dated August 23, 1993 (Exhibit 3, Tab 10, cheque # 139).

Zutautas also stated that by cheque # 009, dated June 9, 1993, Adams paid Craftsman $4,491.00 for various land associated costs, namely, health unit inspection fee, tree removal, post and beam foundation draw, ONHWP registration and hydro to neighbour.

Zutautas conceded that the payment by Adams to Craftsman of the initial engineering fee was not paid over to Dearden.

Claim 5 - Extra Hydro $1,000.00

During final submissions by the parties' respective Counsel, the Program's Counsel informed the Tribunal that Adams was withdrawing this claim and this was confirmed by Adams' Counsel. Accordingly, such claim will not be dealt with in this decision.

Claim 6 - Firewood $420.00

Adams contended that hydro was utilized in the construction of his home. The hydro utilized came from Adams' neighbour's property. Cords of wood were given to the neighbour in settlement of the neighbour's cost of hydro consumed in the construction of the home. The cords of wood given to the neighbour came from trees that were on Adams' property and were cut down when clearing the site.

According to the brief of Damages (Exhibit 6, Tab B) three bushcords of firewood at $140.00 each for a total of $420.00 make up the damages Adam claims.

The evidence of Fortune was that there was no mention in the Sales Contract or in the three pages that accompanied the Sales Contract of firewood. The contract did not address this aspect at all. Furthermore, he contended that there was no way of ascertaining how the wood came to be on the neighbours land. In addition there had been no measurement of wood involved and there was therefore no quantity of wood proven nor its value and how value was arrived at.

Claim 7 - Heating Timer $105.94

Adams in his testimony stated he had purchased a thermostat and then gave it to Zutautas' son on December 18, 1993 while the son was working on site. After Zutautas left the site, Adams did not see the thermostat again. Adams claims Zutautas has removed the timer without permission. The cost of the thermostat was $105.94.

During the hearing, Counsel for Adams amended the amount of Adams' claim. The amount was reduced to $99.30 inclusive of tax. In support of the latter amount, Adams referred to a photocopy of an invoice of November 21, 1993 issued by Aikenhead's Home Improvement Warehouse (Exhibit 6, Schedule "F"). Adams claimed he purchased the timer from Aikenhead's under the above invoice.

The position of Zutautas when he testified was that he knows nothing of the thermostat and its whereabouts. He does not know if it was given to his son.

Zutautas referred to the quotation received by Craftsman from a Barrie electrical firm. This quotation (Exhibit 3, Tab M) contains specifications regarding the electrical aspect of the home. The information contained in the quotation emanated from Adams. Adams gave this information to Zutautas who in turn submitted the information to the Barrie electrical firm, to enable that firm to quote. The quotation submitted by that firm does not reflect a timer or thermostat as a component of the proposed electrical system. The quotation contained a proposed labour and material cost of $4,333.50 inclusive of G.S.T. Zutautas claimed that a cheque for $4,350.00 was paid by Adams to Craftsman in respect of the quotation.

The evidence of Fortune for the Program was that the timer (thermostat) was not part of the contract between Craftsman and Adams. He contended that while the timer may be an electrical component, it was not addressed in the contract.

Claim 8 - Siding $3,103.54

Adams testified that the siding on the home was incomplete when Craftsman left the site. After Craftsman's departure, Adams had in a contractor complete the siding on the home. The cost to complete the siding was $3,103.54 and was done by Rick Mayes of Boss Eavestrough. Adams referred to a quotation from Boss Eavestrough (Exhibit 6, Schedule "A") which reads as follows:

Repair, Supply & Install Siding -----	$1332.00
Install Vented Soffit -----	$ 542.00
Supply & Install Fascia -----	$ 496.48
Supply & Install Non-Vented Soffit -----	$ 82.50
Supply & Install Capping -----	$ 650.56

Fortune in his evidence stated that there is no document to indicate that Adams was invoiced for $3,103.54, the amount claimed. There is no documentation to indicate that Adams paid the sum of $3,103.54. The Boss Eavestrough document was only a quotation. The Sales Contract (Exhibit 4, Tab 3) indicates the "type of siding" to be supplied and fitted. It was to be "slate vinyl siding". There is no reference to soffit and fascia to be supplied or installed.

Fortune referred to copies of photographs of the home that reflect that siding is missing and appears incomplete. He testified that soffit and fascia is not a requirement in terms of the Ontario Building Code and the contract itself does not make reference to soffit and fascia but only makes reference to siding.

Zutautas in his evidence stated that when Craftsman left the site, the vinyl siding had not been completely installed. However, all the vinyl siding for the home's completion had been delivered to the site and was stored in the crawl space under the home awaiting installation. Craftsman had also supplied the soffit and fascia materials that also were stored on site awaiting installation. The siding was awaiting installation of the windows, which had not been delivered by the manufacturer when Craftsman left the site.

Claim 9 - Sanding $500.00

Adams testified that he paid "Bill Break" $500.00 for finishing the drywall in the home. This drywall had not been completed at the time Craftsman left the site. When Craftsman left the site, Adams claims the drywall had been taped but not painted and that it required to be better prepared for painting. He did testify that the paint had been purchased and was on site at the home. In addition to the $500.00 paid to "Bill Break", Adams contends he paid a further $90.00 for "additional installation" and this payment was by way a Visa credit card. Adams produced a paid cheque payable to "Bill Break" dated January 21, 1994. (Exhibit 20)

Fortune contended in his testimony that according to both Adams and Zutautas when Craftsman left the site on December 18, 1993, the drywall was in place, taped and one coat of compound (or mud as he referred to it) had been applied. A second coat of compound was required as well as sanding of the drywall. Although the contract did not call for the provision of drywall and taping, both were provided. Insofar as "Bill Break" was concerned, the Program had been furnished with no contract between Break and Adams nor with an invoice from Break for the $500.00. Fortune was told by Adams that the $500.00 was for completing the drywall. Fortune stated that when he initially enquired as to the status of the home as at December 1993, when Craftsman left the site, he was not informed that the drywall and insulation were incomplete. This was brought to his notice only later.

Zutautas in his testimony stated that Craftsman was to finish and paint the drywall. He conceded that the drywall had not been sanded at the time he left the site which would take about an hour to do. Painting of the drywall was also required. The drywall had, however, been taped when Craftsman left the site.

Claim 10 - Stairs $400.00

Adams claims that after Craftsman left the site in December 1993, he completed certain items of construction that had not been completed by Craftsman. When it left the site, one of the items not completed was the stairs on the porch of the home.

The evidence of Fortune was that there was nothing in the Sales Contract or the documents that accompanied that contract that required stairs to be constructed from the porch of the home. He pointed to the Sales Contract and stated that it only made reference to "Roofed & screened porch area - 288 square feet".

Fortune stated that Adams had not furnished him with any invoice or documents to substantiate this claim. He also stated that the Ontario Building Code requires only "a" door to be provided to a home as an exit, and such would be typically be the home's front door.

Claim 11 - Screens and Storm door $751.00

Adams in his testimony identified this area of complaint as relating to the porch of the home. Adams contended that Craftsman did not complete the construction of the front porch of the home and did not construct the steps or stairs from the porch to the exterior. Adams completed what was left incomplete by Craftsman at a cost to himself of $400.00 in materials. He had no receipts for the materials.

Adams testified that the Sales Contract called for a "roofed and screened porch area 288 square feet" for a material cost of $4,896.00. He further stated that Zutautas obtained a quotation from Mariposa Glass & Mirror for $784.79 being the total price including G.S.T. for screen porch plus door (Exhibit 6, Schedule "B"). He further stated that the roof and floor of the porch were completed by Craftsman but the screens and door to the porch area were incomplete. He pointed to a copy of a photograph taken when Craftsman left the site (Exhibit 4, Tab 16 top photograph on second page). In referring to this copy of a photograph, Adams contended that it reflected no porch door and no screens had been installed on the porch. Adams also referred to a copy of a photograph (bottom of the fifth page of Exhibit 4, Tab 16) which indicated porch windows covered in transparent plastic sheeting.

The evidence of Fortune was that the photographs suggested that no screens were in place. Fortune referred in his testimony to the Mariposa Glass & Mirror quotation and stated that that document is an estimate only. He stated that the items referred to in the Mariposa document had not been installed and that had Craftsman been allowed to complete work, it would not have cost $784.00.

In his testimony, Zutautas stated that Adams wanted screens for the windows on the porch. Craftsman was going to trim the screen materials to fit the window openings. The trimming of the window screens was to be provided as part of the shell package Craftsman was to provide. However, Adams changed his mind regarding screens to be fitted and chose instead to have glass in place of such screens. The difference in cost would be about $100.00 plus G.S.T.

The porch was to be 288 square feet and was quoted at $17.00 per square foot for a total of $4,896.00. For this sum, Adams was to receive a post and beam foundation to the porch, the subfloor and walls, roof, roof trusses, sheeting, shingles and labour.

Zutautas stated further that in regard to the Mariposa document (Exhibit 6, Schedule "B") the total price on that document referred to the cost of a storm door and screens and that the shell package did not include either storm door or screens. He stated that subsequent to December 18, 1993, Craftsman did install the windows. This, he claimed, is evidenced by referring to the copy of photograph showing an installed window in an aluminum frame (Exhibit 4, 1st page of Tab 16, top copy photograph). At that time vinyl siding needed to be installed around the window. The vinyl siding was stored on site as were the fascias and soffits.

Claim 12 - Insulation & Drywall $400.00

At the hearing, Counsel for Adams abandoned this claim except for $80.00. This $80.00 is referred to in Exhibit 6, Table B under "additional drywall, insulation, and vapour barrier installation".

Adams in his testimony stated that as at December 17, 1993, the insulation of the floor in the crawl space beneath the home was not complete. In addition, the insulation of the ceiling and exterior walls was incomplete.

Fortune testified that there was no documentation to support Adam's claim. There was no invoice or account to support Adams' claim nor was there documentation as to who was to install the insulation. When Fortune became involved in the matter and enquired of Adams in regard to the home's insulation, he was not told it was incomplete and this aspect was only raised later.

Claim 13 - Clean Up $400.00

Adams in his testimony referred to having filled over 100 garbage bags in order to clean up the site. He gave no other details. In his Counsel's Brief of Damages (Exhibit 6, Tab B) it is stated that this claim for $400.00 was a "cash transaction" with a citation "see Schedule "C" ". Schedule "C" contains a number of copies of photographs principally of the exterior aspect of the home.

In his evidence, Fortune referred to the aforementioned copies of photographs and that from such photographs he could not observe a "clean up". He further testified that the Sales Contract makes no reference to a clean up being part of such contract and that there are no documents that have been furnished by Adams to substantiate his claim.

Claim 14 - Electrical $2,142.13

In his evidence, Adams stated that he paid Craftsman $4,350.00 for electricals. Adams referred to page 2 of the May 11, 1993 (Exhibit 3, Tab 5, second page) document in Zutautas' handwriting under the heading of "Finishing allowances" which included under that heading "electrical".

He stated that the status of the electrical aspect of the home as at December 17, 1993 was:

- electrical wiring had been brought from the street to the home
- switches had been installed in the home
- circuit breaker box had been installed
- metal boxes had been placed in the walls
- four baseboard electric heaters were installed and working. The four heaters were not new but were "construction heaters"
- he had expected to be supplied and installed a total of 8 new baseboard electric heaters whereas only the above 4 construction baseboard heaters were supplied
- no light fixtures had been installed
- no switch plates had been installed

On December 30, 1993 subsequent to Craftsman's departure, Adams purchased 6 electrical baseboard heaters from Aikenhead's Home Improvement Warehouse for use in the home (Exhibit 6, Page 21). Adams also employed the services of an electrical contractor to supply materials and labour regarding unfinished electrical work. In addition, Adams made purchases of further materials from Aikenhead's. The total of the electrical contractors charges and the materials purchased from Aikenhead's totalled $2,219.97 (Exhibit 6, Tab D).

Adams contended that he had already paid Craftsman $4,350.00 in respect of electrical work to be done in the home. This payment was in respect of the quotation received from the Barrie electrical firm (Exhibit 3, Tab M). The quotation referred to stated as follows:

We hereby submit specifications and estimates for:

One dwelling. Price included a 200 amp service, stove microwave receptacle, dishwasher line, bath fans were required, 1 outside plug, 2 smoke detectors, chime kit, hood fan (white or almond), standard plugs, switches and project light fixtures, baseboard heating, hot water tank hookup, and whirl pool tub. General contractor is responsible for the trenching from the road to the meterbase. Hydro permit is include in the price.

NOTE: G.S.T. IS NOT INCLUDED IN THE PRICE

We Propose hereby to furnish material and labour - complete in accordance with the above specifications for the sum of.

$4,050.00.

+ G.S.T. $ 283.50

Payment to be made as follows:

$2,650.00 upon completion of roughin and service

$1,400.00 upon completion of dwelling

Details of electrical work and materials necessary for the preparation of the above quotation was discussed by Adams with Zutautas. Zutautas then obtained the above quotation and Adams paid an agreed $4,350.00 in respect of that quotation to Craftsman by way of a cheque.

Fortune for the Program contended that as as December 1993, when Craftsman departed from the site, certain electrical work had been done, such as; bringing hydro to the home from the street, installing a 200 amp electrical panel box, installing some current breakers and feeding wires to various parts of the home, and roughing in the system.

Fortune stated further that there was no contract between Adams and Craftsman describing the scope of electrical work to be done. Therefore, it is not clear what items had to be purchased and what items were, in fact, purchased.

Zutautas in his testimony contended that Craftsman exceeded in scope what was required of it respecting as electrical work. While the agreement did not call for spot lights, Adams had received spot lights and additional switches and circuits, which he did not pay for. Adams refused to pay for extra supplies which Zutautas estimated at $2,000.00. He conceded that Craftsman did not supply the 8 baseboard heaters. The budget for electrical work was $4,000.00, and this amount had been exceeded by some $2,300.00 due to Adams requiring extra electrical items. Craftsman supplied these extra or items but was not paid by Adams for them.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The following are the facts found by the Tribunal to have been proven.

- 1) On February 13, 1993, Adams and Craftsman entered into a written agreement titled "Deposit Form" in which Adams agreed to pay Craftsman the sum of $3,750.00 as a deposit for services which Adams required Craftsman to obtain for site preparation on Lot 4, Plan 1294, Part Lots 8 and 9, Orillia Township.
- 2) Adams paid Craftsman the sum of $3,750.00 on signing the "Deposit Form".
- 3) Adams entered into a written agreement with Craftsman Homes and Cottages Ltd. and Craftsman Construction Services Inc. This agreement was titled "Sales Contract" and was signed on May 11, 1993 by Adams and the two aforementioned signed corporations, with Zutautas acting for the corporations. (Exhibit 4, Tab 3)
- 4) Under the "Sales Contract", Craftsman Homes and Cottages Ltd. was to supply Adams with the materials and site erection services for a 1680 square foot prefabricated residential home on Lot 4, Plan 1294 as above. The home was to have a loft area of 576 square feet and a roofed and screened porch area of 288 square feet. The price for the materials and site erection services totalled $40,276.00. Craftsman Construction Services Inc. was to supply site erection services and a "Gold Seal Package" for the sum of $9,399.00. The "Gold Seal Package" was the supervision by Craftsman of all building services in connection with the homes construction.

- 5) Attached to the Sales Contract were 3 handwritten pages, prepared by Zutautas and dated May 11, 1993.
- 6) In addition to the above, Craftsman Homes and Cottages Ltd. was to supply a post and beam foundation for the home which would cost Adams an additional $5,000.00.
- 7) Prior to May 11, 1993, Adams became the holder of title to Lot 4 above.
- 8) Craftsman enrolled the home under the Ontario New Home Warranty Program.
- 9) By approximately September 1993, Adams had made various payments to Craftsman and others in connection with the homes construction. Adams and Craftsman concurred that such payments had resulted in what they termed an "overpayment" by Adams.
- 10) Adams and Craftsman agreed that Craftsman credit such overpayment to Adams' future obligations for the supply of materials to the home of Adams.
- 11) Prior to entering into the Sales Contract, Adams knew that special engineering requirements that may be required as part of the home's construction were to be paid by him as owner of the lot.
- 12) The agreed price for a post and beam foundation for the home was originally estimated at $5,000.00 for which Adams knew he was liable. Adams also knew that the authorities refused to allow a pillar and post foundation due to soil conditions on the lot and that the authorities required a pressure treated foundation which required, inter alia, blasting of rock, excavation and the construction of foundation walls around the homes perimeter. Adams also knew that the authorities required a tile bed designed by an engineer. Adams knew he had to pay the costs. The above services were supplied and the cost of the engineering services carried out by Dearden amounted to $2,822.13 of which $768.00 was paid by Adams to Dearden.
- 13) Due to further requirements of the relevant authorities, Adams was obliged to have an engineer designed septic system approved by those authorities and then constructed according to the approved design.
- 14) Dearden was retained to design the septic system.
- 15) Bolsover supplied and installed materials for a septic system, the rough in of a driveway, lot fill, foundation material and tree removal in regard to Adams home for a total price of $16,098.63 inclusive of G.S.T.

- 16) Bolsover registered a lien under the Construction Lien Act, R.S.O. 1990, on Adams' title to the lot during the home's construction.
- 17) Adams agreed that Bolsover provided $16,098.63 worth of materials and services.(Exhibit 3, Tab 28).
- 18) By judgment of the Ontario Court (General Division) dated September 20, 1996, Bolsover was awarded $9,261.66 plus pre-judgment interest of $1,261.11 plus costs on a party and party basis of $5,226.51 for a total sum of $15,749.28.
- 19) Adams paid $15,749.28 to Bolsover including the party and party costs of $5,226.51 and interest of $1,261.11.
- 20) The thermostat (heating timer) did not form part of the electrical work or components which were to be installed and/or supplied under the Sales Contract or any other agreement.
- 21) Slate vinyl siding was to be supplied by Craftsman for the home. A portion of such siding had not been affixed to the home when Craftsman left the site.
- 22) As at December 1993 when Craftsman left the site, drywall was installed in the home, had been taped and a first coat of compound had been applied. A second coat of compound as well as sanding of the drywall was required.
- 23) The Sales Contract does not refer to stairs to be installed from the home's porch to the ground.
- 24) The Sales Contract makes no reference to a storm door to be supplied or installed.

REASONS FOR DECISION:

The onus of proof based upon a balance of probabilities rests upon Adams.

Adams brings his appeal to the Tribunal under Section 14(1)(a) of the Act.

For Adams to succeed in his appeal to the Tribunal he must establish that

- a) Adams entered into a contract with Craftsman for the provision of a home
- b) Craftsman failed to perform the contract and
- c) Adams suffered damages due to Craftsman's failure to perform the contract.

The Sales Contract (Exhibit 3, Tab 4) and the pages accompanying it (Exhibit 3, Tab 5) do not define "gold seal package" for which Adams was charged $2,784.00. However, the evidence of both Adams and Zutautas was to the effect that the "gold seal package" included supervision services to be provided by Craftsman although there was no consensus as to precisely what supervision amounted to. Craftsman was to provide a "home shell package" for $40,276.00 which was for materials for the shell of the home. For an additional $9,399.00 there was to be supervision of the home's building including the erection of the home shell package. Both amounts were paid to Craftsman and an associate corporation of Craftsman.

The one page Sales Contract dated May 11, 1993 lacks in specificity, as do the three handwritten pages which accompanied the Sales Contract. In 1996 the Ontario Court (General Division) considered the Sales Contract and accompanying documents when Bolsover sued Adams. Mr. Justice MacKinnon stated in his Reasons for Judgment dated September 20, 1996 (Exhibit 4, Tab 17 at page 3) as follows:

My finding is that the document Mr. Adams signed on May 11 is ambiguous on its face, visavis the Gold Seal package and as a result the Court is permitted to consider or look at the other documentation as between the parties at and around the time of signing that sales contract on May 11.

The additional pages to which I refer then are four pages attached at TAB 2 of Exhibit # 2 - three in the handwriting of Mr. Zutautas on his own evidence and one being a sketch with some handwriting at the bottom said by Mr. Zutautas to be mainly in his handwriting. Those documents were, I find, prepared and dealt with by the parties on or about May 11, 1993, the three handwritten pages are dated that day and I take those into account as well in determining the nature of the relationship between the Defendant and Mr. Zutautas.

The Tribunal adopts the approach of Mr. Justice MacKinnon. Accordingly, in the determination of Adams' claims against the Program, the Tribunal will consider the Sales Contract and other documentation between Adams and Craftsman entered into at or about the time of the signing of the Sales Contract on May 11, 1993. To determine the precise nature of the agreement between Adams and Craftsman, the evidence given before the Tribunal by both those persons will be also considered and weighed.

Claim 1 - Overpayment of $5,650.00

At some point in the course of the construction of his home, Adams paid $5,650.00 in excess of what he should have paid. This has been referred to in these proceedings as an overpayment by Adams.

Section 14(1)(a) of the Act states as follows:

14. (1) Where

- (a) a person who has entered into a contract with a vendor for the provision of a home has a cause of action in damages against the vendor for financial loss resulting from the bankruptcy of the vendor or the vendor's failure to perform the contract;

the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damage subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulations.

The Act does not provide that the Program is responsible for the owner of a home, such as Adams, making an erroneous overpayment to a vendor such as Craftsman. An overpayment cannot in the Tribunal's view be considered as "the vendor's failure to perform a contract". The contract did not call for an overpayment and was not dealt with in the contract. The Program itself therefore has no obligation under the terms of Section 14(1)(a) of the Act to meet Adams' claim for this overpayment.

After the discovery of the overpayment, however, Zutautas prepared a document headed "Cheques Breakdown - October 1993" (Exhibit 4, Tab 8) and gave this document to Adams. In that document the following entry appears:

Oct. 26/93	Barrie Windows re upgraded pkg. Windows - Porch Storm wind/door $5,295.75 + $471.22 + Paint M & T $1,750.00 + $2,097.96 Carpet home & Porch = Total $ 9,614.93 Less $5,650.00 Pkg. Over - Balance Rec. $3,966.97

The above entry indicated how the overpayment was to be dealt with. It indicated that it would be utilized in the payment for upgraded windows as well as "porch storm wind/door, paint and carpeting of home and porch" totalling $9,614.93. After applying the overpayment of $5,650.00 to the $9,614.93 there would remain a balance of $3,966.97 due by Adams for the items listed above. This balance was paid by Adams issuing his cheque for the $3,966.97 to the window manufacturer for the upgraded windows which were subsequently delivered and installed after Craftsman left the site. The other items were not proceeded with as is evidenced by the handwritten note of Adams alongside the above quoted entry. That note reads "Paid windows direct. Other items were deleted. Craftsman still owes $5,650.00". By making payment of the sum of $3,966.97, Adams clearly indicated he was in agreement with what was written in the above quoted document and that he considered there was overpayment of $5,650.00 still due to him by Craftsman.

The arrangement referred to in the October 26, 1993 entry became an extension of the agreement between Adams and Craftsman. However, the deletion of the "other items" by Adams resulted in there remaining an overpayment made by Adams in the sum of $5,650.00. For the reasons already stated above an overpayment under a contract cannot be considered as a "failure to perform the contract" in terms of section 14(1)(a) of the Act. Adams' right to claim payment of such overpayment is from the Program a matter beyond the jurisdiction of this Tribunal, and Adams' remedy is a civil action that may or may not be enforced by Court.

Accordingly, Adams claim before this Tribunal for the overpayment of $5,650.00 is disallowed.

Claim 2 - Cash Advance $1,328.00

This claim was abandoned by Adams.

Claim 3 - Bolsover $15,749.28

Bolsover was retained for the supply and installation of a septic system on the lot, the rough in of the driveway onto the lot as well as the provision of fill for the lot. Bolsover invoiced Adams $16,098.16 for the supply of materials and labour in connection with the above.

Adams does not dispute that Bolsover provided $16,098.16 worth of materials and labour to his property in terms of Bolsover's invoice (Exhibit 23A). Adams also does not dispute that the sum of $16,098.16 was not paid to Bolsover prior to it registering a lien against Adam's property.

Adams had paid Craftsman the sum of $7,000.00 towards the cost of the septic system. This sum of $7,000.00 however, was not paid by Craftsman to Bolsover. Craftsman contends it did not pay the $7,000.00 to Bolsover as it had utilized that sum to pay for extras that Adams chose to have incorporated in the home after construction began.

When Adams signed the Deposit Form (Exhibit 4, Tab1) and paid Craftsman the $3,750.00 deposit, he knew or ought to have known that there would be special engineering requirements in order to obtain building permits as well as other approvals from the authorities. Initially, he knew a post and beam foundation was contemplated. However, he learned that soil conditions would not permit the use of a post and beam foundation and that a more expensive foundation was required by the authorities. He also knew that the health authorities required a specially designed and engineered septic system, that rock found on the lot would have to be blasted and that an excavation for the foundation was to be undertaken. All of this was not contemplated initially. However, he knew that the cost of meeting the authorities requirements were to be paid by him.

This is what is stated in the deposit form he signed. Even if Adams did not personally retain the services of Bolsover in order to meet some or all of the requirements of the authorities, he knew that Craftsman did so on his behalf and for his eventual benefit. It is not correct for Adams to contend that Craftsman failed to perform the contract when the performance was by Craftsman through Bolsover. Adams received the services that he bargained for. There was no failure of Craftsman to perform the contract. Adams knew engineering and other necessary services were required in order to construct his home, and he knew he was obliged to pay for these services.

In the action between Bolsover and Adams in the Ontario Court (General Division), Mr. Justice MacKinnon held that "the contract between Zutautas' companies and the Defendent" (Adams) totalled $92,616.57 and that the 10% holdback in terms of the Construction Lien Act was $9,261.66.

Had Adams held back the sum of $9,261.66, Adams would have had that sum available to pay Bolsover in satisfaction of Bolsover's invoice. Having failed to hold back $9,261.66, that sum cannot now be claimed against the Program. The failure to retain the $9,261.66 was Adams' failure and does not amount to a failure of Craftsman to perform the contract. See ONHWP v. R.A. Hunt, CRAT 1991.

In addition to Adams claiming the sum of $9,261.66 as above, he also claims from the Program the party and party costs and interest awarded against him by Mr. Justice MacKinnon for a total claim under this heading of $15,749.28.

Section 6(6) of Regulation 892 to the Act states as follows:

Liability under subsection (3) or (4) is limited to damage to the home only and liability under subsection (5) is limited to damage to the common elements only there is no liability for any other damage, direct or indirect.

While the Program's limit of liability under section 6(1) of Regulation 892 is $20,000.00 in the case of "a home" such as Adams', liability is "limited to damages to the home only" and "there is no liability for any other damage, direct or indirect" (Section 6(6) of Regulation 892).

Both the cost award as well as the award of interest against Craftsman cannot therefore be claimed by Adams against the Program itself as such costs and interest fall outside section 6(6) of the above regulation.

Therefore based on the aforesaid, the Tribunal disallows the claim under this particular heading.

Claim 4 - Dearden & Stanton $2,598.74

Dearden was retained as engineer to design the tile bed in regard to the septic system on Adams' property and to obtain the relevant health authority's approval and certification. For this work, Dearden invoiced Adams $2,822.13 inclusive of G.S.T. There is no dispute that Dearden did the work for which it invoiced Adams nor is there a dispute as to the reasonableness of Dearden's charges. Adams paid an amount of $768.00 to Dearden on account of Dearden's work but did not pay Dearden the remainder of its charges. Dearden then sued Adams for the unpaid balance of its charges plus interest and costs and was awarded judgment against Adams in the Small Claims Court. No copy of the judgment was produced at the hearing although the amount of the judgment according to Adams claim is $2,598.74. It is this sum that Adams claims from Craftsman on the basis of Craftsman's failure to perform the contract.

For the same reasons as enunciated above under the Bolsover claim, this Tribunal denies Adams' right to claim from the Program either interest or costs.

Adams signed the Deposit Form (Exhibit 4, Tab 1) prior to the Sales Contract being signed by him and Craftsman. In items of the "note" on the form, it is clear that Adams knew engineering costs were for his account and that he was to be liable therefor. In addition, he knew that Dearden had been retained by Craftsman to do the engineering work on his behalf as he paid Dearden $768.00 towards its charges. Further, from a reading of Zutautas' summary (Exhibit 4, Tab 5) addressed to Adams on August 14, 1993, Adams knew that engineering fees and drawings were part of the his contract with Craftsman. The "actual" engineering fees according to the summary totalled $2,568.00, which was arrived at as to "initial engineering fee" of $321.00 and "engineered drawings" of $2,247.00. Adams, according to the summary, still owed the sum of $768.00 which he subsequently paid to Dearden direct. Craftsman who had received from Adams the sum of $2,247.00 had not paid that sum to Dearden, Craftsman claiming that it had utilized those funds for payment of extras and additions ordered by Adams. This non-payment by Craftsman to Dearden triggered the latter's action against Adams and forms the basis of this particular claim.

Having regard to the above it is clear that Adams received the services for which he had paid. Any loss that Adams suffered was occasioned by Craftsman not having paid Dearden from the funds in Craftsman's hands. As Adams received what he had bargained for, there cannot be a failure by Craftsman to perform the contract as specified under section 14(1)(a) of the Act. Adams may well have a claim in the courts against Craftsman on the basis of its failure to disburse funds in its possession. However the Act clearly states that the Program's liability arises out of the "vendors failure to perform the contract". The vendor (Craftsman) did not fail to perform the contract as the engineering services of Dearden were obtained by Craftsman for Adams who thereby obtained the benefits of the contract.

Accordingly, the Tribunal disallows Adams claim under this heading.

Claim 5 - Extra Hydro $1,000.00

This claim was withdrawn by Adams' Counsel at the hearing.

Claim 6 - Firewood $420.00

Adams claims for 3 bushcords of firewood moved from his property by Craftsman to Adams' neighbour in settlement of the cost of the neighbours' hydro used in the construction of the home. Adams' "Brief of Damages" claims that each bushcord of wood was worth $140.00

There was no evidence by Adams of how the wood came to be on his neighbour's land. The Sales Contract makes no reference to firewood. No other documentation before the Tribunal refers to firewood. No evidence was brought before the Tribunal to establish the value or quantity of wood found on Adams' neighbour's land.

There was no evidence before the Tribunal to indicate that there was any agreement between Adams and Craftsman as to the disposition of the wood, its quantity or its value. As there was no contract or agreement proven by Adams there can be no failure to perform the contract as is required by Section 14(1)(a) of the Act, and no liability on the Program to meet Adams' claim.

Accordingly, the Tribunal disallows this claim.

Claim 7 - Heat Timer $105.94

The heat timer, also referred to in evidence as the thermostat, was according to Adams given to Zutautas' son when the latter was working on the home shortly before Craftsman left the property in December 1993. The timer, according to Adams, was not seen again, and he claims the cost of the timer. The original claim of $105.94 as originally claimed was reduced during the hearing to $99.30.

Zutautas in his evidence denied any knowledge of the timer, its whereabouts or that it was given by Adams to his son. He also denied that it was part of the contract between Adams and Craftsman or that it had been agreed that Craftsman install the timer. There is no reference to the timer in any of the documents that deal with electrical components. No written agreement or contract was alluded to or produced in evidence obliging Craftsman to install the timer.

In the absence of written contract regarding the installation by Craftsman of the timer, the Tribunal finds there was no written contract. The Tribunal also finds that there was no verbal evidence placed before the Tribunal that there was a verbal contract between Adams and Craftsman for the timer's installation by the latter.

Therefore in the absence of a contract having been proven there can be no failure to perform as is required by section 14(1)(a) and there can be no liability on the Program.

Therefore, the Tribunal disallows this claim.

Claim 8 - Siding $3,103.54

There is no doubt that when Craftsman left Adams' property in December 1993, the siding had not been completely installed. Photographs taken at that time show incomplete siding installation. Craftsman concedes that there was siding still to be affixed when it departed the site but maintains such uninstalled siding had been delivered to the property before it left the site and had merely to be affixed. Although the documents do not specifically call for soffits and fascia to be supplied and installed, the Tribunal finds that soffits and fascia were to be supplied and installed and were part of the agreement between Adams and Craftsman. The Tribunal bases this finding on the fact that the soffits and fascia, according to Zutautas, were on site in the crawl space under the home when Craftsman left the site.

There is evidence that subsequent to Craftsman's departure, Adams had a contractor, "Boss", supply and install the siding, soffits and fascia that remained to be installed. Such work plus necessary repairs by written quotation (Exhibit 6, Schedule "A") cost him $3,103.54. This is the loss he claims due to the failure of Craftsman to perform this aspect of the contract. He produced no cheque to support his statement that he paid $3,103.54 to Boss. The Tribunal had an opportunity to assess the evidence of Adams and his demeanor while on the witness stand. The Tribunal found his evidence in regard to this claim to be credible and sees no reason to doubt that he did pay $3,103.54 to Boss in terms of the written quotation.

Neither the Program nor Craftsman disputed the reasonableness of the charges reflected in the "Boss" quotation and the Tribunal accepts that such charges were reasonable.

Accordingly, the Tribunal allows this particular claim in the sum of $3,103.54.

Claim 9 - Sanding $500.00

The Tribunal finds that although the written documentation does not refer to drywall or taping, it was agreed to by Adams and Zutautas representing Craftsman. The Tribunal further finds that when Craftsman left the site in December 1993, the drywall except for the interior of the porch had been installed and taped. The Tribunal also finds that one coat of compound had been applied to the drywall that had been installed, but that it required a second coat of compound and sanding.

The Tribunal finds that to complete the drywall installation and sanding, Adams employed and paid Bill Break $500.00. There is nothing on record to persuade the Tribunal against accepting the testimony of Adams who was found to be trustworthy in relation to his evidence regarding this claim. The cheque paid by Adams to Break for $500.00 supports Adams' testimony. It had written on the face of it the word "sanding". There is no evidence to indicate the $500.00 paid by Adams is unreasonable.

Claim 10 - Stairs $400.00

This claim refers to stairs from the porch which Adams maintains he did not receive. In Adams' Brief of Damages (Exhibit 6, Tab B), he claims $400.00 for "missing front porch, stairs and handrail, basement door, unfinished interior wall between porch and house". He claims that the aforementioned aspects were incomplete when Craftsman left the site in December 1993 and that the $400.00 in respect of all the above quoted aspects was paid in cash. There is no supporting documentation to support Adams' claim nor is there any evidence as to what portion of the $400.00 relates to the stairs.

The Sales Contract as well as other documentation do not refer to stairs or handrail. The Sales Contract makes reference only to "roofed and screened porch area - 288 square feet".

Adams has not satisfied the Tribunal that stairs from the porch were to be supplied or installed. There is nothing on record to support his allegation that stairs were to be supplied. That stairs were not installed is obvious from various photographs (Exhibit 6, Schedule "C") but the photographs in no way support Adams' claim that there was an agreement with Craftsman to supply and install the stairs.

Apart from the foregoing, no evidence was placed before the Tribunal as to the stairs' cost of material and labour. In the absence of evidence as to stairs' cost within the globular sum of $400.00, the Tribunal is not able to determine such cost and its reasonableness. Adams, therefore, has failed to satisfy the Tribunal as to his alleged loss or damages.

Claim 11 - Screens and Storm Door $751.00

Adams in his Brief of Damages claims $784.79 in respect of "screens and porch door not installed". He claims that the aforementioned were not supplied or installed by Craftsman prior to it vacating the site in December 1993 and that Adams was therefore obliged after Craftsman had departed to have the screens and door installed. Adams referred to Schedule "B" in his Brief of Damages which document of Mariposa Glass and Mirror indicates the cost of an installed "storm door" at $200.00 plus G.S.T. and the "total price to screen porch plus door" inclusive of G.S.T. to be $784.79. Adams claims to have installed at a cost of $784.79 the porch windows and door to complete what Craftsman failed to complete.

Zutautas in his testimony stated that under the "original contract" i.e. the Sales Contract there was to be screened windows and a door but not a storm door. Subsequently, Adams changed his requirement of screen windows to glassed windows on the porch. This, Zutautas claims, would have increased the overall price by approximately $100.00 plus G.S.T.

The Tribunal has considered of the copies of photographs included in Adams' Book of Documents (Exhibit 4, Tab 16). From those photographs which were taken shortly after Craftsman vacated the site, it is clear that there were then no screens in place on the porch windows. The Tribunal accepts that the neither screened windows nor glass windows were installed by Craftsman.

The Tribunal also finds that the Sales Contract while calling for a roofed and "screened" porch area did not call for a door. The cost of screens according to the Mariposa Glass estimate less its estimate for a storm door amounts to $526.26.

Craftsman failed to install screens as called for by the Sales Contract and the Tribunal finds that the cost to supply and install such screens is $526.26.

Accordingly, the Tribunal allows Adams claim under this heading in an amount of $526.26.

Claim 12 - Insulation & Drywall $400.00

At the hearing, counsel for Adams reduced the latter's claim to $80.00. This $80.00 is referred to in Adams' Brief of Damages as "additional drywall, insulation and vapour barrier installation". Adams produced no documents to support his claim or its quantum. Adams claimed that when Craftsman left the site, more work was needed on the drywall "including insulation".

The Tribunal has no evidence before it in relation to insulation as to what was still required to be done nor what the sum of $80.00 represents. The question of drywall in the home has been dealt with elsewhere in this decision.

From various copies of photographs before the Tribunal (Exhibit 4, Tab 16), it appears that insulation was present in the home when Craftsman departed. What "additional insulation" was required has not been identified or quantified by Adams.

Accordingly, the Tribunal disallows this claim.

Adams testified that he paid someone $100.00 cash to fill over 100 garbage bags to clean up the site. He claims this as an additional cost he was obliged to incur after Craftsman departed the site. Adams, had no document to substantiate this cost.

The Tribunal does not find it necessary to decide whether or not the site clean up took place and whether or not Adams paid $400.00 for the clean up. What is clear is that there was no agreement or contract that obliged Craftsman to affect a site clean up or to pay for same. The Sales Contract makes no reference to clean up nor do the three pages that accompanied it. In the absence of a written or verbal agreement, there can be no failure to perform in terms of section 14(1)(a) of the Act and therefore no liability on the Program under that section.

Claim 14 - Electrical $2,142.13

Adams claims that he paid Craftsman $4,350.00 in respect of electrical work. This sum, according to Adams, was the agreed contract price for electrical work to be performed in and about the home. Adams claims that in addition to having paid Craftsman $4,350.00, he was obliged after Craftsman left the site to expend a further $2,219.97 to complete the electrical work left incomplete by Craftsman. Details of the $2,219.97 are referred in Adams Brief of Damage (Exhibit 6, Schedule "D").

Electrical work in and about the home was envisaged in the contract as it was referenced in "heating/and electrical" under "Finishing Allowances" (Exhibit 3, Tab 5 - 2nd page). There was no scope of electrical work or materials referenced in that document or in the Sales Contract.

The Tribunal finds that Adams paid Craftsman $4,350.00 to enable certain electrical work to be done in and about the home in terms of a "proposal" (Exhibit 3, Tab M) made by a Barrie electrical firm to Craftsman. The Tribunal also finds that in addition to the electrical work to be done in terms of proposal, Adams required extra electrical aspects to be done in the home by Craftsman.

The Tribunal also finds that when Craftsman left the site in December 1993, certain electrical work referred to in the proposal had not been completed. The Tribunal has no specific evidence before it as to precisely what had been done in the home and what still had to be done when Craftsman left. The Tribunal however, believes from the evidence that the following work had not been completed when Craftsman departed: some circuit breakers had not been installed; some wires had still to be run to different parts of the home; no plugs, receptacles or light fixtures had been installed and no permanent baseboard heaters had been installed. Unfortunately, there is no means of knowing what specifically was still to be supplied and installed as the Program was not brought into this matter until many months after Craftsman's departure and apparently did not inspect the home at all. Had the Program been advised upon Craftsman's leaving the site, the Program would have had the opportunity to inspect the home and observe the state of completion. Equally unfortunate is the fact that the exact terms and scope of the electrical work were never documented. If all the aforementioned is not sufficient to cloud the issue, certain extras or additions were evidently supplied by Craftsman in regard to electrical aspects although exactly what was supplied is far from certain and the value thereof unknown.

The only certainty regarding the electrical items is that Craftsman should have but did not supply the 8 baseboard electric heaters. The parties agree on that aspect. The cost of each such baseboard heater was $24.68 plus P.S.T. and G.S.T. for a total figure of $227.09. In addition to the baseboard heaters, there are some items of work and materials subsequently supplied that probably were the direct result of Craftsman not completing the electrical installation. The work and materials that the Tribunal refers to are the following which appear in Exhibit 6 at pages 19 & 20 thereof:

January 12	Plugs, switches and installation of breakers 2 - 8hours	$240.00
January 18	Hanging fixtures, finishing basement, outside plug - 1 at 9 hours, 1 at 4½ hours	$198.00
February 3	Hung bedroom lights, heaters in basement Light in pump room - 2 at 1½ hours	$ 45.00

G.S.T. on above	$ 33.81

Materials:

17 x 15A s/p breakers	$122.40
2 x 15A d/p breakers	$ 29.40
3 x 20A d/p breakers	$ 47.25
1 x 30A d/p breakers	$ 15.75
1 x 40 A d/p breakers	$ 15.75

G.S.T. on above materials	$ 16.10
	$763.56

The Tribunal accepts that Craftsman supplied and installed certain "pot lights" in the home. The number or cost of the pot lights was not established. The Tribunal therefore does not take the value of pot lights into account when calculating the damages in regard to this issue.

Accordingly, the Tribunal allows the sum of $763.56 in regard to this claim.

In summary the Tribunal finds as follows:

1.	Claims 1 through 7	Amount Awarded
	All above claims disallowed	NIL
2.	Claims 8 through 14	Amount Awarded
	Cost of completion of home:
	Claim 8	$3,105.54
	Claim 9	$ 500.00
	Claim 11	$ 526.26
	Claim 14	$ 763.56
		$4,895.36
		$4,895.36
		$4,895.36

The Tribunal finds that Section 6(7) of Regulation 892 is applicable insofar as the cost of completion is concerned. The greater of 2% of the sale price of the home or $5,000.00 is the maximum amount allowed under the above subsection. The sale price of the home, as found by Mr. Justice MacKinnon, was $92,616.57 and 2% thereof is $1,852.33. Accordingly, Adams is entitled to $4,895.36 being the amount found by this Tribunal to be the cost of completion of the home.

Entitlement to the cost of completion of the home depends upon whether or not Adams was the cause of Craftsman leaving the site in December 1993 at a stage when certain aspects of the home were incomplete. There is a divergence in the evidence given by Adams and that given by Zutautas in relation to what occurred when Zutautas left the site in December 1993. Zutautas claims that funds advanced to him by Adams had been utilized to pay for cost increases for additional items or extras requested by Adams and provided by Zutautas. Adams claims that he had paid Craftsman what he was obliged to pay. He claims that when he asked Zutautas for details as to what extras and additions Craftsman had paid with funds he had advanced to Craftsman, Zutautas failed to give him information. Adams claims that it was only in December 1993 that he discovered that Craftsman had not paid Engineer Dearden or the Bolsover account.

The Tribunal believes that when Adams asked Zutautas for details of the extras and additions the latter claimed to have paid, such details were not forthcoming. This lack of information coupled with incomplete state of the home motivated Adams in coming to the decision to refuse further payments. However, the Tribunal believes that Adams at no time gave Craftsman justifiable cause to abandon the project. Craftsman abandoned the project when Adams would not provide no further funds to Craftsman.

ORDER:

Accordingly, by virtue of the authority vested in it under Section 16(3) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, the Tribunal directs the Ontario New Home Warranty Program to disallow claims one through seven and claims ten, twelve and thirteen; and to allow claims eight, nine, eleven and fourteen in a total amount of $4,895.36.

Appeal under Section 50(1) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 as amended, from a Decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to Section 47(1) of that Act.

TO APPEAL A SUSPENDED LICENCE

TRIBUNAL: Antoine Aouad, M.D.,
Presiding Member

APPEARANCES: Sandra Quadrini, Respondent
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

Applicant

Agent for Applicant

DATE OF HEARING: March 29, 2000 Toronto

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Notice of Appeal – dated February 16, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 3 Medical information submitted by Applicant 4 pages
- received March 22, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 2 Ministry of Transportation submissions – tabs 1 – 20
- received March 10, 2000

PRELIMINARY MATTERS

The matter first came before the Board on March 20, 2000. At that time, the Agent for the Applicant, requested an adjournment on the grounds that he had been unable to advise his client of the hearing date.

The Agent also stated that more time was needed in order to obtain laboratory test results carried out on February 28, 2000 and as of yet were unavailable.

A letter was received by the Board on March 22, 2000, wherein The Agent advises that submissions under the Charter would be introduced at today's hearing, regarding the admissibility of a new Medical Report.

Prior to the beginning of the hearing, the Board provided The Agent with a copy of rules of procedure governing constitutional matters. Arguments under the Charter require "... at least 15 days before the question is to be argued before the Tribunal..."

The Agent submitted a Medical Report from Physician # 1, dated March 13, 2000, which was entered as Exhibit # 3, the Respondent's objections being duly noted.

FACTS

The Applicant's driver's licence was suspended effective "99 09 18" as per Notice of Appeal (Exhibit 1).

A Medical Report prepared Physician # 1 pertaining to an examination of the Applicant on "99 01 26" indicates that the Applicant suffers from an addiction (Exhibit # 3 Tab 1).

Under "History Details and Summary" Physician # 1, confirms that the Applicant is "...HEALTHY. FIT TO DRIVE PROVIDED ...ABSTAINS FROM ALCOHOL. CURRENTLY IN ALCOHOLISM TREATMENT PROGRAM WITH PSYCHOLOGIST PHYSICIAN # 2. HAS HAD NO ALCOHOL FOR 2 MONTHS - DOING WELL SO FAR" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 1).

A MINISTRY OF TRANSPORTATION ALCOHOL ASSESSMENT FORM was prepared by Physician # 1, the Applicant's physician, on July 19, 1999. Physician # 1 reports as follows:

- "YES" is checked under "Personal Health History" for "Hospitalisations within the last 12 months" and "Days absent from work within the past two years ~ 40 days".
- Under "Medical Consequences Related to Alcohol Use", Physician # 1 checked "YES" for "Delirium Tremens".
- According to the "PHYSICAL ASSESSMENT AND LABORATORY EVALUATION" all categories are marked "NORMAL - Blood Pressure 136/86; GGT 42; MCV 93.9".

- Under the heading “DSM-IV CRITERIA FOR ALCOHOL DEPENDENCE”, “Yes” was the reply for numbers “2,3,4,7” respectively: “Withdrawal, Taking larger amounts than intended, Unsuccessful efforts to reduce alcohol use, Continued drinking despite knowledge of alcohol related physician or psychological problems”.
- In the section labeled “CONSEQUENCES OF DRIVING”, Physician # 1 relates the Applicant’s two impaired driving convictions, his interpersonal difficulties with family members and employer, as well as health problems which have resulted from the Applicant’s addiction to alcohol.
- The Applicant has been addicted to alcohol since the age of 24 and attended several addiction programs in the past including the 12 Stop Program but has relapsed after a period of time.
- “ABSTINENCE” is the “RECOMMEND GOAL FOR ALCOHOL CONSUMPTION” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 2).

Two reports from MDS Laboratory Services show “DATE OF SERVICE 13 -OCT- 99; MCV 92.8”; “DATE OF SERVICE 29 -SEP- 99; MCV 91.3” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 4).

A report from MDS Laboratory Services shows “DATE OF SERVICE 18 -OCT- 99; MCV 90.9” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 6).

MDS Laboratory Services dated October 27, 1999 finds “ETHYL ALCOHOL -BLOOD NOT DETECTED” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 7).

MDS Laboratory Services dated November 4, 1999 finds “GAMMA-GLUTAMYL TRANSFERASE 30; ETHYL ALCOHOL -BLOOD NOT DETECTED” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 8).

A report from MDS Laboratory Services shows “DATE OF SERVICE 10 -NOV - 99; MCV 88.7; GAMMA-GLUTAMYL TRANSFERASE 25” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 9).

ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW - MEDICAL SUSPENSIONS dated “October 26, 1999”, completed by Counselor #1, Number 20, Driver Improvement Counselor, details the Applicant’s history as explained by the Applicant. The Applicant discloses that he has admitted himself to the hospital and into rehabilitation programs on several occasions due “...to overindulgence in alcohol... does not drink prior to working nor when he is driving... learned lesson as he was charged twice for impaired, once in 1983 and again in 1986...involved with AA now...has not had any alcohol since September 24, 1999...” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 10).

MDS Laboratory Services dated November 24, 1999 finds “GAMMA-GLUTAMYL TRANSFERASE 24; ETHYL ALCOHOL -BLOOD NOT DETECTED” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 10 A).

Physician # 1, writes the Ministry, under the letterhead of the Brooklin Medical Centre, on October 1999. Physician # 1 states that “... the Applicant has been a patient at the Medical Centre #1 since he was a child... personally first saw him ...on February 19, 1996... have been following for brief supportive psychotherapy on a weekly basis. He seems to be committed to making changes in his lifestyle.... has been out to several Alcoholics Anonymous meetings... has been compliant in his avoidance of alcohol.... I support his application for re-instatement provided he remains sober...." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 11).

The Applicant is the holder of an AZ licence who drove "long haul in Canada and the United States from east to the west ..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 11).

MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE CASE STUDY dated December 2, 1999 recommends the Applicant's licence "Remain suspended. Reconsider with a detailed assessment from a physician specializing in addictions which confirms abstinence from alcohol for a period of one year..." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 12).

Canadian Medical Laboratories report finding on a sample of the Applicant's blood collected December 22, 1999 "MCV 87.3; GAMMA-GGT 30; ETHYL ALCOHOL UNDETECTED" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 14).

Canadian Medical Laboratories report findings on a sample of the Applicant's blood collected January 5, 2000 "MCV 89.4; GAMMA-GGT 30; ETHYL ALCOHOL UNDETECTED" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 15).

Canadian Medical Laboratories report finding on a sample of the Applicant's blood collected January 13, 2000 "MCV 88.5; GAMMA-GGT 33; ETHYL ALCOHOL 2.5..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 16).

Canadian Medical Laboratories report finding on a sample of the Applicant's blood collected January 20, 2000 "MCV 88.4; GAMMA-GGT 32; ETHYL ALCOHOL UNDETECTED" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 17).

Canadian Medical Laboratories report finding on a sample of the Applicant's blood collected February 3, 2000 "MCV 89.5; GAMMA-GGT 28; ETHYL ALCOHOL UNDETECTED" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 18).

Canadian Medical Laboratories report finding on a sample of the Applicant's blood collected February 21, 2000 "MCV 88.5; GAMMA-GGT 33; ETHYL ALCOHOL 6,7" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 19).

Exhibit #3 Tab 20, Ministry of Transportation driving Record for the Applicant since 1979, shows a conviction for DRIVING WITH MORE THAN 80 MGS ALCOHOL IN BLOOD in 1983 and an IMPAIRED DRIVING conviction in 1986.

At the hearing, the Respondent offered a re-iteration of the written material provided for the hearing, Exhibit # 2, tabs 1 through 20, and on the policies of the National Safety Code for Motor Carriers and the Physician's Guide to Driver Examination.

The Respondent informed the Board that the Applicant came to the attention of the Ministry for failure to provide a medical report required every three years.

During his examination in chief and cross-examination the Applicant testified that he was drawn back to drinking recently due to his brother's passing and his separation from his wife.

The Applicant attested that he had seen Physician # 2 in “ ... 98” ...but this is not document by a letter because nothing been requested from the Ministry at that time.

The Applicant was present when Physician # 1 prepared the MINISTRY OF TRANSPORTATION ALCOHOL ASSESSMENT FORM, but disagrees with the information. He drinks “...50 beers a month not a week ... Physician # 1 did not stress abstinence required....”.

The Applicant described that he had suffered several relapses because he did not realize that his career could be jeopardized. Further, he was driven to drink due to frustration, after his licence was suspended

ISSUES

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
- (b) a driver's licence; or
- (c) a CVOR certificate,

on the grounds of,

- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
- (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
- (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or

- (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

- 50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board.
- (2) The Board may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS

Section 47(1) unquestionably empowers the Registrar to “...suspend or cancel” a driver’s licence for “any...sufficient reason...”. The Applicant came to the attention of the Ministry for failure to provide a medical report required every three years.

The Board finds that the Ministry acted properly and in accordance with the Regulation, by suspending the Applicant’s driver’s licence.

The Respondent, contends that the Applicant is in violation of Section 14 (b) which states that:

“An applicant for or a holder of a driver’s licence must not,

- b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely”.

The Applicant has elected not to provide the Board with any reports from either his psychiatrist or any of the rehabilitation programs he has attended.

The Board is left to consider only the Applicant’s testimony, and the recommendations of the Applicant’s family physician.

The Applicant, by his own admission acknowledged a drinking problem that has plagued him for years. He has checked himself into the hospital and rehabilitation programs on several occasions. Nonetheless, the Applicant claims that his drinking has not affected his driving since his previous convictions in 1983 and 1986.

Physician # 1 is quite specific as to the Applicant’s ability to safely operate a motor vehicle. In the Medical Report prepared after examination of the Applicant on “99 01 26” Physician # 1 emphasizes that the Applicant is “.... FIT TO DRIVE PROVIDED ...ABSTAINS FROM ALCOHOL...” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 1).

In the MINISTRY OF TRANSPORTATION ALCOHOL ASSESSMENT FORM dated July 19, 1999. Physician # 1 leaves no doubt that “ABSTINENCE” is required (Exhibit # 2 Tab 2).

Further, Physician # 1 re-asserts his position in his letter of October 22 1999: “... I support his application for re-instatement provided he remains sober...” (Exhibit # 2 Tab 11).

Physician # 1’s letter March 13, 2000, is more favourable to Respondent’s position than the Applicant's. It is evident by Physician # 1's statement that he has not been made privy to all the facts. Physician # 1 comments : "...All the tests have been negative except for one minor infraction recorded on January 13, 2000 with a blood ethanol level of 2.5..." A Canadian Medical Laboratories report shows a second relapse in the Applicant's blood sample collected February 21, 2000 "... ETHYL ALCOHOL 6,7" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 19).

The N.S.C. (National Safety Code for Motor Carriers -13.2 recognizes habitual alcoholic intoxication as a serious disability. The standard applied is explicit "...persons habitually dependent on alcohol should not drive any class of motor vehicle until evidence of alcoholism is no longer a problem".

The Board recognizes, and has taken into consideration that the above-mentioned guidelines of the Ministry of Transportation Medical Advisory Committee and the National Safety Code for Motor Carriers are only policy not legislation. However, the guidelines are relevant to the determination of whether there is sufficient reason to suspend a driver's licence.

It is laudable that the Applicant is willing continue receiving treatment for his condition. Nonetheless, all evidence corroborates the fact that the Applicant's previous endeavours to stop drinking were unsuccessful. Thus, while commending the Applicant for his efforts, the Board feels that it is reasonable to allow at least the recommended time period to elapse, prior to re-instatement of his licence.

In weighing the evidence presented, the Board is satisfied that the Applicant does not meet the criteria described in the Regulation 340/94 section 14 (b) of the HTA, and that it is appropriate to confirm the Ministry's decision on the evidence.

DECISION

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated September 18, 1999 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend his driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Board, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE BOARD pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be confirmed.

Pursuant to subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, Burlington Auto & Lease Centre Inc. (hereinafter referred to as "the Dealer") Andy Howard Bailey and John Sheresky consents to the following terms and conditions to their registration as a motor vehicle dealer and salespersons:

In accordance with section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedures Act, the parties hereto hereby waive the requirements of a hearing and consent to a decision of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal based upon the following Terms and Conditions;

1. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that when the Dealer receives funds towards the purchase of a motor vehicle prior to the delivery of the motor vehicle, the entire amount received will be deemed to be trust funds.
2. The Dealer agrees to maintain a ledger account into which shall be entered the names and addresses of all persons from whom trust funds are obtained with details of the amounts retained and a record of all disbursements from them.
3. The Dealer agrees to maintain, in respect of all funds that come into the Dealers hands, in accordance with clause 1 of this Order, a separate trust account into which the Dealer shall deposit the funds and the Dealer shall, at all times, keep the funds secure and make disbursements from the trust account, in accordance with the terms of the trust.
4. Where trust funds are paid to the Dealer in accordance with clause 1 of this Order, whether by way of deposit, down payment or otherwise, the Dealer agrees to retain the funds in trust for the purchaser until,
 - a. the motor vehicle is delivered;
 - b. the contract is mutually cancelled; or
 - c. direction or authority is received from the Registrar concerning disbursements
5. The Dealer agrees to provide free access to his books and records to any authorized representative of the Registrar.
6. The Dealer agrees to comply with the Retail Sales Tax Act with respect to the collection of tax and remittance when due.

7. The Dealer agrees to make reasonable efforts to repay any judgements outstanding against it that arise from its operations as a motor vehicle dealer.
8. The Dealer acknowledges that its registration as a motor vehicle dealer and the registrations of Andy Howard Bailey and John Sheresky as salespersons will be revoked if it breaches any of the terms and conditions set out herein or if the Dealer, Andy Howard Bailey or John Sheresky provide false information to any representative of the Registrar, either verbally or in writing.
9. I hereby consent to an order of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal, which may include the Terms and Conditions set out herein.
10. I hereby withdraw my appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal.

In accordance with section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedures Act and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Sandal Capital Corp. o/a Goodwill Leasing (hereafter the "Dealer" and Marko Sandalj (hereafter the "Applicant") and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (hereafter the "Registrar MVDA") waive the requirements of a hearing and consent to an order of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal based upon the following terms and conditions;

1. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that it will not retain the services of a salesperson unless the salesperson is registered as a salesperson to the Dealer.
2. The Dealer further acknowledges that the restrictions concerning the activities of salespersons referred to in these terms and conditions, applies to both buying selling and leasing on behalf of a Dealer. "Buying selling and leasing" refers to showing a vehicle to a prospective purchaser or any form of negotiation concerning the purchase or sale of a vehicle and is not limited to the signing to contracts. This further includes attendance at auctions on behalf of the Dealer.
3. The Dealer agrees to maintain a garage register in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act and will maintain all books and records as required by the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. The Dealer further agrees to store its books and records at the location approved by the Registrar. Books and records cannot be stored at any other location, including the applicant's dwelling. Books and records shall be readily available and a representative of the Registrar shall have full and free access to the books and records.
4. The Dealer and Salesperson will ensure that all advertisements placed by or on behalf of the Dealer will identify the registered name and the address of the location approved by the Registrar.
5. The Dealer agrees not to invite the public to deal at a place other than the approved location, which at this time is 547 Frederick St., Kitchener.
6. The Dealer agrees to operate exclusively from the location approved by the Registrar. The Dealer agrees to apply for the Registrar's approval, by way of prior written notice, of any change in registered business premises in the form required by the Registrar.
7. The Dealer will not conduct any purchases or sales with anyone who is in the business of buying and selling motor vehicles without confirming that they are registered as a Dealer and Salesperson under the Motor Vehicles Dealers Act.
8. The Dealer will ensure that any vehicles sold are registered in the name of the purchaser before releasing the vehicle to the purchaser, in a retail transaction.
9. The Dealer will not purchase vehicles without ensuring that the vehicle is registered to the seller.
10. The Dealer and Applicant agree to post a permanent sign, visible to the public at the registered premises and the dealer and applicant shall maintain a clearly identified lot, adjacent to the registered premises for the display of vehicles.
11. The Dealer agrees to register all vehicles purchased within 6 days in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act.
12. The Dealer and Applicant agree that they are under a positive obligation to disclose all material facts about the vehicles sold to customers. The Dealer and Applicant agree to make reasonable efforts to research the history of vehicles prior to sale to ensure all material facts are disclosed. The Dealer and Applicant agree that should any information come to light which the Registrar deems to be a material fact concerning a vehicle the Dealer has sold, the Dealer will comply with all reasonable requests made by the Registrar to provide compensation to the purchaser.

13. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that its registration will not be used to buy or sell motor vehicles where the Dealer knows or ought to know that the purchase or sale of those motor vehicles will facilitate an illegal or unethical practice.
14. The Dealer and Applicant will comply with all aspects of the Retail Sales Tax Act with regards to filing, and ensuring all tax collections are accurately reported and remitted to the Minister of Finance when due.
15. The Dealer and Applicant will pay all amounts owing to the minister of Finance in respect of all future audit assessments when due.
16. The Dealer and Applicant hereby acknowledge that in the event of a breach of any of the terms and conditions set out herein, the Registrar is directed to, and shall revoke the registrations of both the Dealer and Applicant.
17. The Dealer and Applicant hereby acknowledge that the Registrar may take further administrative action, including a proposal to revoke both registrations, arising from any matters that have occurred or may occur related to honesty and integrity or financial position.
18. The Dealer and Applicant hereby acknowledge that the Registrar may take legal action, including Provincial Offences prosecution arising from actions related to the sale of motor vehicles that may have occurred in the past or may occur in the future.
19. The Dealer and Applicant consent to an order of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal, which may include the Terms and Conditions set out herein.
20. The Dealer and salesperson hereby withdraw the appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal.
21. The Dealer and Applicant acknowledge that they have read, understood and will comply with the above terms and conditions of Registration.
22. The Dealer and Applicant acknowledge that they have obtained or have had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to their consent to the terms and conditions set out in this document.

Neil Abbott,
Solicitor for the Applicant

DATE OF
MOTION: April 11th, 2000

ORDER

A motion was heard on April 11th, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's request for an extension of time to appeal the impoundment order of the Registrar affecting the Applicant's motor vehicle. The motion is brought pursuant to Section 20(7) of Ontario Regulation 632/98 amending Regulation 574 of the Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1990 made under the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990. c.H.8 amended ("HTA").

Submissions of Written Material

Mr. Abbott submitted a motion record book which was entered with the consent of both parties as exhibit one. Included in exhibit one was an Affidavit of Service of the motion record on both the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) and the Driver Improvement Office of the Ministry of Transportation.

The Facts

The Applicant is the owner of a motor vehicle impounded for a period of 180 days pursuant to the above-captioned legislation. The Applicant leases the vehicle to 1111956 Ontario Ltd. in the name of Michael Lumley, who entered into a lease agreement with the Applicant on October 12th, 1997.

The motor vehicle was impounded on February 22nd, 2000 while being driven by Wayne Hunt, whose driver's licence was under suspension at the time of the impoundment. The vehicle was taken by Mr. Hunt without the knowledge or consent of either the Applicant, or Mr. Lumley. Furthermore, the Applicant had no knowledge of Mr. Hunt. Mr. Lumley subsequently reported the vehicle as stolen to the police, and learned of its impoundment some two days later.

Upon learning of the vehicle's impoundment, Mr. Lumley contacted an Applicant's customer service agent at the Applicant's offices, who referred Mr. Lumley to an adjuster. Mr. Lumley then notified the Applicant of the impoundment by faxed letter of March 2nd, 2000. 1111956 Ontario Ltd. had been informed of the impoundment by letter of February 23rd, 2000 (exhibit one, tab B) which also stated that the registered owner of the vehicle had been served with an Order to Impound.

The fifteen-day deadline for filing an appeal with the Board was March 8th, 2000. The Applicant filed its Notice of Appeal with the Board on March 22nd, 2000, twenty-nine days into the impoundment period, and fifteen days past the appeal deadline date.

Mr. Abbott stated on behalf of the Applicant, that as of the date of this Motion, the Applicant was still not in possession or aware of the location of the above mentioned Notice of Impoundment. The only copy of the Notice of Impoundment that the Applicant was in possession of was the copy supplied to them by Mr. Lumley. The Applicant attributed this to the fact that they are a large corporation, and that they receive a substantial amount of mail on a daily basis. Mr. Abbott stated that the Notice of Impoundment appeared to have become lost in the Applicant's paper work, and that it was an unfamiliar document to the Applicant.

Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Lumley informed the Applicant of the impoundment six days prior to the expiration of the fifteen-day appeal filing period, it took an additional twenty days to file the appeal. Mr. Abbott stated that this was due to Mr. Lumley notifying an individual at the Applicant's offices who was not associated with the file.

The Order

THE BOARD RULED TO REFUSE TO GRANT an extension of the time to commence this appeal for the following reasons.

REASONS FOR ORDER

Section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98, provides the Board with the specific criteria that the Applicant must meet to satisfy the Board that an extension of the time for commencing an appeal ought to be granted. The Applicant must establish that the owner, acting in good faith, was unable through accident, illness or other cause beyond the owner's control to bring the appeal within the prescribed 15 days in circumstances where the Registrar does not give his or her consent in writing for an appeal to be commenced after the expiry of the prescribed time. The Board is precluded from considering other factors not arising from or directly related to these criteria.

The criteria listed in Section 20(7) which the Board should consider in granting an extension are matters outside the Applicant's control. There is no provision for the Applicant's failure to employ timely procedures for handling incoming information which impacts directly upon the Applicant and its vehicle. Such circumstances are not beyond the Applicant's control.

The Board heard no evidence that would support an argument that the circumstances of the delay in this matter were beyond the Applicant's control. There is no evidence before the Board that the Applicant was unable through a cause beyond the Applicant's control, to bring the appeal within the prescribed fifteen days. Instead the Board is asked to accept that due to the large size of the Applicant's operation, it is assumed that documents would be lost within the organization.

The Applicant failed to provide a satisfactory reason as to why a delay in completing the appeal occurred after Mr. Lumley had informed the Applicant of the impoundment. The Applicant had received this written notice six days prior to the fifteen-day filing period for making an appeal. The fifteen-day deadline to file the appeal expired March 8, 2000. The Applicant's Notice of Appeal was not filed until March 22, 2000.

The Board finds that the Applicant was thus notified on two separate occasions of the impoundment, initially by the Respondent immediately following the impoundment, and again by Mr. Lumley. In either case, no timely action was taken to file a Notice of Appeal with the Board.

The evidence presented does not establish that the Applicant's delay in appealing the order impounding the vehicle under Section 55.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was the result of accident, illness or other cause beyond the Applicant's control. Accordingly, the motion herein of the Applicant requesting an extension of time to appeal, pursuant to section 20(7) of Ontario Regulation 632/98 amending Regulation 574, R.R.O. 1990, is dismissed.

APPEARANCES: K. M. BIEL
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

JEFF A. WILHELM, Applicant
unrepresented

DATE OF HEARING: April 20, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: April 20, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 20, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Jeff A. Wilhelm (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1991 Ford Ranger, Plate # 562 IBD (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: March 27, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (the "Board") (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on March 27, 2000 and proceeded as a written hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

"As owner of said impounded vehicle has caused my family exceptional hardship due to the loss of our only vehicle. In transporting our children to and from school and my wife's only way to and from her work place causing financial hardship. And as likely unable to afford to have said vehicle released on date of impoundment release.

The vehicle ownership permit is still in said vehicle."

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;

Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Jeffrey Allan Wilhelm;

Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until July 14, 2000.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The “owner” for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

“Owner” means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar’s order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver’s licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver’s licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines “exceptional hardship” as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

- (4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) a threat to the health or safety or any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Facts Found Proven

The following are the facts found by the Board to have been proven:

1. The Applicant is the owner of the motor vehicle that was subject to the impoundment order.
2. At the time that the vehicle was detained, it was being driven by the Applicant, Jeffrey Allan Wilhelm;

3. At the time the vehicle was detained, the driver (Applicant) had been convicted of the offence of impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until July 14, 2000.

Onus of Proof

The onus of proof, based on the balance of probabilities, rests upon the Applicant.

Should the Board set aside the impound order of the Registrar on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

The Applicant submits that the loss of the family's only vehicle will present hardship in transporting his children to school. The use of alternative means of transportation including public transit, school buses, friends, taxis, etc. has not been advanced. There is no indication that any of the children have missed school. In this context, the Applicant and his children are possibly being faced with inconvenience which is not an authorized ground for appeal under the Act and regulations and the Board is precluded from considering it.

The Applicant submits the loss of the family's only vehicle will cause financial hardship as it is the only way for his wife to travel to and from her work place. The Applicant has not submitted any supporting information suggesting his wife:

- has fully explored other means of transportation to travel to and from her location of employment;
- has been unable to attend her place of employment or any information suggesting her employment status has adversely changed.

As such, the circumstance as arisen respecting his wife's employment cannot be considered an exceptional hardship

Accordingly, based on all of the above reasons, this ground of appeal must fail.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: March 29, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: April 3, 2000 Sault St. Marie

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on March 29, 2000, at Sault St. Marie, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO SET ASIDE the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

1. BACKGROUND

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Ronald Pitawanikwat (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1994 Dodge Spirit (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: March 8, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (the "Board") (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on March 29, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Board commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

2. ISSUE

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #2) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

3. FACTS

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

I am a native Canadian and I am employed at a charity casino. I have a high school education and I do not understand all the legal technicalities involved in this incident. However, my understanding is as follows and is drafted with the help of my lawyer.

I retained a lawyer, Mr. Orazietti, to appeal my conviction for operating a motor vehicle over the legal limit. That conviction was on April 13, 1999.

I was given a document which is called an Order which I was told, by my lawyer, I could take to the Ministry of Transport office to obtain a temporary licence. I was also told to carry that Order with me in my vehicle in the event that I should be stopped, which I did. I am enclosing the original Order which I carried in my vehicle. That Order was made on Wednesday, the 21st day of April, 1999.

I attended the Ministry of Transportation with a copy of the Order which I have enclosed and obtained a temporary licence on April 22, 1999. I subsequently obtained a renewal of that licence some time in July of 1999.

To my knowledge, my conviction for driving over the legal limit was under appeal. Mr. Orazietti has provided to me a Notice of the Appeal which I am enclosing for your consideration.

Mr. Orazietti advised that I was entitled to drive once the Ministry gave me a temporary licence. I honestly believed that I was entitled to drive and if I had thought for a moment that I was under suspension, I would not have operated a motor vehicle.

As a result of being stopped on December 6, 1999, my vehicle was impounded and I was also charged with the offence of driving while disqualified under the Criminal Code. I attended court on January 24, 2000. Upon explanation by Mr. Orazietti to the Crown Attorney regarding the fact that I was not aware of that suspension, that charge was withdrawn on January 24, 2000. I enclose a copy of the charge which is marked withdrawn and a court transcript of the Crown Attorney requesting the withdrawal of that charge.

The only witness called was Mr. Pitawanikwat. After he took the oath, he was questioned by his Counsel, Mr. Orazietti. Mr. Pitawanikwat stated he had been convicted of driving with over .08 mgs of alcohol in his blood, and he had asked for an appeal of that conviction (Exhibit 6). He also applied for a stay while the appeal was pending. The stay was granted (Exhibit 5). He then went to the Ministry of Transportation in Sault Ste. Marie, on the advice given to him by his Counsel, and presented the Superior Court of Justice Order, by Justice F. R. Caputo to the Ministry Office. After surrendering his driver's licence, he was given a temporary 90-day licence, with instructions to return prior to the expiry of the 90-day licence, if the matter had not yet been resolved.

Mr. Pitawanikwat stated he returned twice to have the temporary licence renewed once in July 1999, and again approximately 90 days later. He also stated he continued to carry the Order staying the conviction. On December 6th, 1999, he was stopped by police and charged with the offence of driving while disqualified under the Criminal Code, and the order to impound the vehicle was issued for December 6th, 1999. The charge of driving while disqualified under the Criminal Code was withdrawn on January 24th, 2000 at request of the Crown.

The Ministry of Transportation representative, Ms. Kim Grosskurth, then cross-examined Mr. Pitawanikwat. Under cross-examination, when asked if he could produce the temporary licence, Mr. Pitawanikwat stated that he had left it at home and did not carry it, as he was not now driving. Although it would have been a valuable piece of evidence, the Board found Mr. Pitawanikwat a creditable witness and found no reason to doubt his testimony.

Ms. Grosskurth stated that it is ministry policy now, not to "stamp", (renew) a temporary licence and at that time, they would only "stamp" (renew) a temporary licence once. Mr. Pitawanikwat's response was he did not know what the Ministry policy was. He had followed the instructions, of his counsel and the officer at the Ministry of Transportation

Office and was led to believe he had a valid licence to drive. Ms. Grosskurth did not take the witness stand nor was she sworn. She also called no witnesses, and she produced no documentation to the Board regarding temporary licences. She also stated that the reason a temporary driver's licence was granted and the original conviction did not show on the Ministry of Transportation office computer in Sault Ste. Marie was, perhaps, because of the delays of up to ten days in getting information "into the system". This does not explain why a renewal was issued 90 days later. In any event, her statement can not be considered evidence because she was not a witness at the hearing.

Under further cross-examination, it became clear that the Appeal of the original charge against Mr. Pitawanikwat, was dismissed on November 29th, 1999. Mr. Pitawanikwat did not attend court on that day, as he had to work and his counsel attended on his behalf. Mr. Pitawanikwat was stopped on December 6th, 1999, some seven days later, and subsequently charged and his vehicle impounded.

When asked if he had contacted the Ministry of Transportation regarding the status of his driver's licence, Mr. Pitawanikwat stated he had not.

The Board then questioned Mr. Pitawanikwat to clarify dates and sequence of events. The Board asked Mr. Pitawanikwat what he had done to check the status of his driver's licence after November 29th, 1999 to which he stated he had called his lawyer five or six times.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained, was being driven by Mr. Pitawanikwat;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence driving with more than .08 MGS. Alcohol in blood under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until April 13th, 2000.

4. LAW

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

5. APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS

As to whether Mr. Ronald Pitawanikwat exercised due diligence in establishing that his Ontario driver's licence was valid at the time of the impoundment, the Board finds that he did. Since the time of the charge of driving with over .08 mgs. of alcohol in his blood, Mr. Pitawanikwat retained counsel. He contacted counsel often throughout the proceeding of charges against him and followed the advice given to him by his counsel and indeed by the Ministry of Transportation office in Sault Ste. Marie. During the suspension period from April 13th, 1999, he had attended the Ministry of Transportation office in Sault Ste. Marie and surrendered his driver's licence and obtained a temporary licence based on the Stay of conviction. Further, he had the temporary licence renewed by the Ministry during this time. At no time was he told his licence to drive was suspended. After the date that his application for appeal was to be heard, regarding the impaired charge, he tried to contact his lawyer up to six times to determine the outcome. Further as shown in Exhibit 8, the Crown moved that the charge of driving while disqualified under the Criminal Code be withdrawn. Although the Board is not bound by that decision, it does consider it to be relevant to this decision. Mr. Pitawanikwat obtained legal counsel to advise him throughout this confusing process and made every effort to co-operate with the Ministry of Transportation. He looked to both for advice and guidance and was led to believe his driver's licence was valid.

6. DECISION

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board sets aside the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: March 31, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: April 5, 2000 Barrie

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on March 31, 2000, at Barrie, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	Applicant
Motor Vehicle:	1999 Pontiac Sunfire, Plate # (plate no.) (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal:	March 9, 2000

The lessee, as agent for the owner, filed an appeal of this impoundment order (Exhibit 2) with the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (the "Board") (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The Applicant appeals on the basis that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time it was being driven as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on March 31, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Board commencing the hearing. The Respondent provided the Board, as well as the lessee, a copy of (driver)'s Notice of Suspension of Driver's Licence for their information and not for inclusion into evidence. As well, the Respondent requested that the lessee's daughter leave the room while the lessee gave her testimony. The lessee consented to the Respondent's request.

All documents were submitted into evidence with the consent of both parties.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #2) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made?

FACTS

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

The lessee's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

I the owner of this vehicle that was impounded on Feb 29/00 wish to appeal this on the grounds that such vehicle was taken without my knowledge.

On Tuesday evening I left my home at approx 5.50 pm to take an evening course, leaving the person (driver) who was staying at my home at the time (My daughters boyfriend) My daughter was away on vacation at the time) I arrived home this same evening around 930 and was having a cup of tea when the phone rang and it was (driver)s brother to say the police were at there house and had picked up (driver) up on radar (speeding) driving my car. I went immediately to the police station which is in walking distance to my house and waited for the (Constable Officer #1 to return). I was so upset because I thought the car was in the garage safe like it should have been, and now I hear its impounded you can imagine how shocked I was to find out that (driver) someone I knew and liked could have done this, he is a young offender not eighteen years old yet who had already a suspended licence.

I was not able to receive a copy of the charge I laid against him but I am enclosing a card with a reference #(recognition#). I have requested a telephone conference if there is anything more you need to know. I just would like to get my car back.

The following is a summary of both the lessee and her daughter's testimony given under oath. The Lessee's testimony was given first, separate and apart from her daughter's. The Board found the evidence of both these witnesses to be accurate and consistent.

The representative for the Applicant is the lessee of the 1999 Pontiac Sunfire, which was leased on June 5, 1999, and is also the owner of a 1989 Honda Accord. The above-mentioned Sunfire was stationed in the lessee's garage and was not being driven due to an axle problem.

The lessee has known (driver) for approximately six months. (Driver) is 17 years old and was the lessee's daughter's boyfriend. Since (driver) was having problems with his parents, the lessee, out of the goodness of her heart, allowed him to move into her home in early February, 2000 until he resolved certain issues with his parents.

On the evening of February 29, 2000, the lessee left her home at approximately 5:50 p.m. to attend an evening course, which she takes on Monday and Tuesday evenings from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Shortly after she returned home that evening, she received a phone call from (driver)'s brother. He advised the lessee that the police were at his parents' home to advise them that (driver) was caught speeding with the lessee's Sunfire, that (driver) was being charged with "driving while disqualified", and the vehicle had been impounded. The lessee immediately went to the police station to obtain details about the incident and to speak to P.C. Officer #1.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

Certified copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as lessee (Exhibit 6);

Certified copy of Notice to the Registrar (Exhibit 6) indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by (driver);

Certified copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle (Exhibit 1);

A copy of the Notice of Suspension of Driver's Licence indicating that at the time of the impoundment the driver had been convicted of the offence "driving or having care or control of a motor vehicle while ability impaired" under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension for 1 year effective September 14, 1999. The copy was only provided to clarify (driver)'s suspension since he is a young offender and which foregoing charge does not show up on his driving record.

P.C. Officer #1 swore an oath before giving testimony.

P.C. Officer #1, Badge number (badge no.), has been an officer of the Barrie Police Service for 11 years.

On the evening of February 29, 2000, P.C. Officer #1 was conducting radar on Lakeshore Drive in Barrie. At approximately 9:04 p.m., he stopped a speeding Sunfire bearing licence plates (licence plate no.) registered to the lessee. The driver of the vehicle identified himself by providing an Ontario driver's licence no. (driver's licence no.). P.C. Officer #1 was advised he was a suspended driver, which was confirmed on CPIC. (driver) was charged with "driving while disqualified".

Since (driver) is a young offender, P.C. Officer #1 was required to give notice to his parents of the charge being laid against him.

Shortly thereafter, P.C. Officer #1 received a call to speak with the lessee of the impounded vehicle at the station. When he arrived, the lessee wanted details of what had transpired. She was advised that her vehicle had been towed and impounded for 180 days since the leasing company she had leased her vehicle from had two previous impounds against it (copies included under Exhibit 6).

P.C. Officer #1 testified that before he could lay any further charges against (driver), he wanted to obtain a statement from the lessee's daughter with regard to any privileges she may have given (driver), regarding the impounded vehicle. The lessee's daughter was away on holidays until March 6th, 2000. The lessee asked P.C. Officer #1 to lay a charge of theft against (driver).

After interviewing the lessee and obtaining her statement, P.C. Officer #1 added the additional charge of "taken without consent" to the existing charge of "driving while disqualified".

Ultimately, (driver) pleaded guilty to "driving while disqualified" and the charge of "taken without consent" was dismissed.

LAW

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;

- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(a).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(a) alleging that the vehicle was stolen, the meaning of "stolen" is not provided in The Highway Traffic Act.

The Shorter Oxford Dictionary, provides the definition of "stolen" as follows:

Stolen: 1. Obtained by theft. 2. Accomplished or enjoyed by stealth; secret. 3. Of time: obtained by contrivance

Theft: 1. The action of a thief; the felonious taking away of the personal goods of another; larceny 2. That which is or has been stolen; the proceeds of thieving.

Black's Law Dictionary (Sixth edition), page 1419-1420 provides the definition of "stolen" as follows:

Stolen: Acquired, or possessed, as a result of some wrongful or dishonest act or taking, whereby a person willfully obtains or retains possession of property which belongs to another, without or beyond any permission given, and with the intent to deprive the owner of the benefit of ownership (or possession) permanently.

The word "stolen" as used in the crime of interstate transpiration of stolen motor vehicles includes all wrongful and dishonest taking of motor vehicles with the intent to deprive the owner of the rights and benefits of ownership, regardless of whether theft constitutes common-law larceny; and felonious taking may be effected by diverse means known to both common and statutory law, such as larceny, embezzlement, false pretenses, larceny by trick and other types of wrongful acquisition. Lake v. U.S., Colo, 338F.2d 787,788. It is not necessary that the taking of the vehicle be unlawful. Even if possession of the vehicle is lawfully acquired, the vehicle will be deemed "stolen" if the defendant thereafter forms the intent to deprive the owner of the rights and benefits of ownership, and converts the vehicle to his own use. United States v. Turley, 352 U.S. 407, 417, 77 S.Ct. 397, 402. 1 L.Ed.2d 430.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS

The issue to be considered in this appeal is whether the motor vehicle was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made.

The burden of proof is on the Applicant to establish whether the impounded vehicle was, in fact, stolen.

In her evidence, the lessee specifically stated that the only house rule she imposed on (driver) was that he must attend school while living in her home. Although she was unaware of his suspension until after this incident, the need to verbally state that (driver) was not permitted to use any of the vehicles did not even cross her mind. She assumed that even though he was living in her home, he did not have the privilege of using her vehicles. The lessee's daughter testified that she needed her mother's permission to take any of the two vehicles and did not enjoy a colour of right in this regard.

No measures were taken to deny access to the car keys. The lessee's as well as her daughter's set of keys while she was away on holidays were kept in a drawer in the hallway.

P.C. Officer #1 testified that he was of the opinion that (driver) was not involved in the commission of any other crime.

The definition of "theft" under section 322(1)(a) of Martin's Criminal Code 1999 states:

"Every one commits theft who fraudulently and without colour of right takes, or fraudulently and without colour of right converts to his use or to the use of another person, anything whether animate or inanimate, with intent,

- (a) to deprive, temporarily or absolutely, the owner of it, or a person who has a special property of interest in it, of the thing or of his property or interest in it."

The definition of "taking motor vehicle...without consent" under section 335(1) of Martin's Criminal Code 1999 states:

"Subject to subsection (1.1), every one who, without the consent of the owner, takes a motor vehicle or vessel with intent to drive, use, navigate or operate it or cause it to be driven, used, navigated or operated, or is an occupant of a motor vehicle or vessel knowing that it was taken without the consent of the owner, is guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction."

Although the lessee had good intentions, she was betrayed and her trust misused. The Board found no proof that (driver)'s intent was to permanently deprive the lessee of her vehicle, but the evidence was quite clear that (driver) did wrongfully take the vehicle without the lessee's consent.

The facts surrounding the taking of the lessee's vehicle are crucial to a determination of whether or not the lessee's vehicle was stolen by the driver. The term "stolen" includes not only the taking of the vehicle but also the intention of the person who takes the vehicle to deprive the owner of that vehicle. If the driver takes the vehicle and intends to deprive the owner of the possession of that vehicle permanently, then the vehicle was stolen. Here, it is not clear that the driver even intended to deprive the lessee of the use of the vehicle temporarily.

In the facts of this case, there is no doubt that the lessee asked the police to charge the driver with theft of the vehicle. In addition, the evidence indicates that the driver did not ask the lessee for the use of the car. On the other hand, the driver was living in the lessee's home. There was no discussion between the lessee and the driver as to using the car. The driver was not offered the keys but had access to those keys. The evidence indicated that the driver took the car from the home while the lessee was at a night school class and was returning the car to the home in time to have it there when the lessee returned. This indicates that the driver did not wish to deprive the lessee of the ability to use her car.

The Board must also note that the charge of "taking without consent" was dismissed. The driver did not give evidence before the Board to clarify the nature of his intent respecting the car. In the circumstances of this case, the Board can not conclude that the driver intended to deprive the lessee of the possession of her car. Therefore, the Board is of the view that the impounded vehicle was not, in fact, stolen from the lessee within the meaning of section 50.2(3)(a) of the Act.

DECISION

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: March 30, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: April 5, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on March 30, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Diane Darroch (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1992 Chevrolet Cavalier, Plate #174 JKZ (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: March 13, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (the "Board") (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3)(d) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on March 30, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Board commencing the hearing. The Respondent submitted copies of their submissions bearing original certification seals.

All documents were entered into evidence with the consent of both parties.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #2) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

I am appealing the impoundment decision because the loss of my vehicle will result in exceptional hardship. This vehicle is our only family vehicle. I am on social assistance so any monies that I have to put out for impoundment fee's, rental etc, will take away from our family income. As it stands right now after our bills and rent are paid we are left with $200.00 for food so any extra expenses are going to deeply affect our family. I have a two year old son who is in daycare and a one month old baby. I use the vehicle for taking my son to school and picking him up, also because I was a high risk pregnancy. I've had several follow up doctor appointments, and both my children are sick with a viral infection so follow-up doctor appointments. I use my car for grocery shopping and at the present time William Darrod (who was the driver) is in jail so I am left with all these responsibilities solely. I was unaware (because I was sleeping) when my car was being driven that day. His responsible decisions have already affected our family directly and the upcoming results of his trial will either burden our family financially (fine) or because of his absence. Also our cat has a follow-up vet appoint to remove stitches from a previous operation. I have no family in the city and the only friends I have either require their vehicle or don't drive. So to summarize the impact this impoundment would have on our family is directly effecting us and not the driver right now. Financially it would burden us. My son and daughter (two yrs and newborn) are transported by car. Also all family chores i.e. grocery shopping, banking, doctor appointments, psychiatry would be next to impossible, to attend. I feel that our family is being a victim to his irresponsible behaviour.

The Applicant testified that on the morning of March 4th, 2000 she was awakened by a phone call from which she learned that her vehicle had been impounded. She stated that she and William Darroch, the driver of the impounded vehicle, had been visiting a friend at some previous date. The Applicant and Mr. Darroch took a taxi home that evening and left the vehicle at that friend's location. At some time subsequent to this, Mr. Darroch was in the area visiting a friend, and decided to return the vehicle to the Applicant's home where they both reside. At some point between the Applicant's friend's house where the car had been left, and the Applicant's home, Mr. Darroch was stopped by a police R.I.D.E. spot check. His licence was found to be under suspension, and the vehicle was impounded.

Since losing her vehicle, the Applicant testified that she has endured financial hardship in maintaining the scheduled medical and other appointments for herself and her two young children. She has had to borrow money to rent a vehicle on two occasions for a total of eleven days, during which she managed to squeeze in all her errands. The Applicant stated that she has also had to make use of public transit, though it is very difficult with two small children. The Applicant further testified that she has managed, with some re-scheduling, to maintain all of hers, and her children's medical appointments, and there is no risk to health and safety as a result of the impoundment.

The Applicant is on a fixed social assistance income, and resides in the city of Toronto. The Applicant's common law husband, the driver of the vehicle Mr. Darroch, is also on a disability income, and is employed during the summer months only.

Mr. Darroch testified that he chose to take a chance and return the Applicant's vehicle at the time of the impoundment, as a result of concern for the health of his child since they needed the car to take her to the doctor.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;

Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by William A. Darroch;

Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence fail to provide a breath or blood sample under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until November 23, 2000.

LAW

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

“Owner” means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar’s order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver’s licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver’s licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines “exceptional hardship” as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,

- (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

The Applicant has appealed on the grounds of exceptional hardship, in accordance with Section 50.2(3)(d). Section 22 of Regulation 632/98 is very specific, in that it provides the Board with the specific criteria the Applicant must meet to determine if exceptional hardship under the Act will result from the impoundment. The Board is precluded from considering other factors not arising from or directly related to the impoundment itself.

In order for the Applicant's claims to be considered under Section 22(2)(a), (b), and (c), she must have demonstrated that all of Section 22(3) has been met. Furthermore, Section 22(4) of the Regulation provides that the Applicant demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered for an alternative vehicle. The Applicant has made no specific claims of exceptional hardship as described by Section 22(1)(a) or (b).

The Applicant resides in the City of Toronto, in an area well served by public transit which she stated she has made use of on several occasions. Furthermore, the Applicant has managed to rent an alternative vehicle for short periods of time. Though these alternatives represent a significant hardship to the Applicant as she is on a fixed income, nonetheless they do constitute alternatives available to the Applicant which she has utilized.

The Applicant has not presented the Board with any evidence that would demonstrate that every reasonable alternative option has been considered and inquired into as per Section 22(4) of the Regulation. The Board finds that the Applicant has failed to meet the onus under the Section 22(4) of the Regulation and is therefore precluded from considering the Applicant's claim of exceptional hardship under Section 22(2) of the Regulation.

DECISION

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: April 13, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: April 20, 2000 Owen Sound

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 13, 2000, at Owen Sound, Ontario, to consider the Appellant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA but as an Order to Impound for 45 days.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Victoria J. Clark (the "Appellant")
Motor Vehicle: 1990 Dodge Caravan, V.I.N. # 2B4FK553OLR623730
(the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: March 22, 2000

The Appellant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (the "Board") (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on April 13, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Board commencing the hearing.

The representative for the Appellant, Mr. Dwayne Clark, the Appellant's husband asked to submit a letter dated Thursday April 13, 2000 regarding a vehicle they sold, a 1987 Dodge Caravan. The Respondent had no objection and copies were provided.

The Board ruled to accept the letter as evidence and marked it as Exhibit #6.

ISSUE:

The Appellant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Appellant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Appellant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Appellant

A summary of the Appellant's evidence follows.

Appellant's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

My husbands name is Dwayne, mine is Victoria Clark. We are writing to you hoping you may help us.

On Wednesday March 7th – 2000 we purchased a vehicle which we were told that the police had in their possession because the plates were not registered. We contacted the Meaford police and discovered they had the van but the plates were stolen. They told us we could have the van as soon as they had the driver. We told them where the driver was and they arrested him on March 8th – 2000. They then told us that as soon as they had completed their investigation that they would release the van to us. During our next conversation on March 9 we were told the driver was disqualified and that the new laws tied their hands where it came to giving us the van.

To raise the money to pay for the van we sold our van painfully cheap and borrow from everyone. At this point, my work is starting to pick up again because of the early spring. We work for Dennis Way Painting. We paint for a construction company who also owns a lot of properties. At this time of yr my wife and I paint all the apartments since the sale of own van. Right now our boss is able to manage but as more work piles up, he is in a position where he will have to replace us or be replaced himself. I have 4 kids, a mortgage we are now finding ourselves in a position to not be able to provide for them. My home is a duplex and we also have Victoria's father living with us. He is retired and not in good health. He is scheduled for surgery on March 29th admit time 6:45 to replace arteries in his groin and legs. He cannot get around and relies on us for everything. Victoria also needs surgery on her knee but it was ignored for now because of financial difficulties. My children are loosing out on all their groups – cadets, awana's swimming etc. because of lose of vehicles. I know this sounds like a bit much but it all can be verified if requested.

Mr. Clark testified that on March 6, 2000 his brother-in-law, Steven Jackson offered to sell the Clarks the 1990 van. They agreed to purchase the vehicle from Steven Jackson (Victoria Clark's half brother) but he was not the "registered" owner. The vehicle was registered to one Wilfred J. Neil and used by Mr. Jackson through some sort of mutual agreement. The Clarks made arrangements to sell their older van (Exhibit # 3 and 6) and borrow some money to finance the purchase of the 1990 Caravan. Exhibit # 3 shows photocopies of two bills of sale, one for the 1987 van, which the Clarks sold, and one for the 1990 van, which the Clarks purchased, both dated March 7, 2000.

When the 1990 van went into police custody following an impaired driving complaint and the discovery that it had stolen licence plates, Mr. Clark inquired about its status with the Meaford-Thornbury Police Services and was told it would be released after Steven Jackson, the driver was apprehended.

In cross-examination by Ms. F. Claire Rowett for the Ministry of Transportation, Mr. Clark stated he was aware the Meaford-Thornbury Police impounded the 1990 Dodge Caravan March 8, 2000 because it was displaying licence plates that were reported as stolen.

On March 9, 2000 an order to impound for 90 days was issued by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles. The vehicle registration with the Ministry of Transportation was changed from Wilfred J. Neil to Victoria Clark on March 10, 2000.

Mr. Clark was asked if he tried to find an alternative vehicle, and he stated he tried to buy back his old van but the purchaser refused.

Mr. Dwayne Clark testified that the vehicle in question was used for the house painting work he and his wife Victoria do and is the only family vehicle. It is used to transport the children to various activities and to transport his father-in-law who is handicapped. He also stated that his job is at risk now that the Clarks have no vehicle at their disposal (Exhibit # 4 page 1). His boss can pick him up for work at the present time but it is only a temporary solution and cannot be continued throughout the busy part of the construction season.

His employer cannot take him to work on a regular basis as they do not always work in the same area.

Public transport is unreliable and the buses stop running at 9 pm which would leave his children no way of getting home from their activities and he and his wife travel outside of the area to work. Sometimes Mr. Clark receives very little advance notice of where they will be working.

The Clarks have borrowed vehicles in the past but most people are reluctant to lend to them because they have to transport paint and materials to jobsites that can damage vehicles.

The Clarks had not inquired about rental vehicles, but Mr. Clark stated he had tried to rent one approximately four years ago and rentals were too expensive. He further stated the rental companies wanted a credit card and they do not have one.

Mr. Clark stated Victoria's father finds travelling by cab expensive and difficult because of his poor health.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Appellant were as follows:

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Appellant as owner;

Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained had been driven by Steven A. Jackson;

Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;

Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until September 1, 2002.

The Respondent called one witness; Meaford/Thornbury Police Constable Kevin Cornell.

Officer Cornell stated that on March 7, 2000 the police received a report of an impaired driver and subsequent investigation located the vehicle but not the driver. The licence plates on it had been reported stolen on March 6, 2000. The 1990 Dodge Caravan was towed to the police station and impounded because of the improper licence plates.

On March 7, 2000 Dwayne Clark called police to enquire as to the status of the vehicle and was informed that it would be held until the driver was located.

On March 8, 2000 the driver Steven Jackson was apprehended and confessed to driving on March 7, 2000 while disqualified with no insurance and the wrong licence plates on the vehicle. Jackson explained he had borrowed the licence plates and not returned them. On March 9, 2000, the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ordered the Dodge Caravan impounded for 90 days.

Mr. Clark did not cross-examine Officer Cornell.

Summations

Mr. Clark in summation stated he has tried to co-operate with the police and Ministry of Transportation in this matter in that he took keys for the vehicle to the police and had picked up Mr. Jackson's personal property from the van. Mr. Clark also offered to pay any costs regarding the impoundment if the vehicle was released to Victoria Clark. He also was helpful in locating Mr. Jackson when Police were looking for him. Mr. Clark indicated he felt he and Victoria Clark were also victims of Mr. Jackson's behavior.

Ms. Rowett in summation recapped the evidence:

1. On March 7, 2000 the vehicle was impounded because of the stolen licence plates.
2. On March 9, 2000 the vehicle was impounded by the Registrar for 90 days.
3. On March 10, 2000 the vehicle was registered in Victoria Clark's name.

Ms. Rowett argued that the loss is significant but not lasting in that neither Victoria or Dwayne Clark have lost their jobs.

The Board asked if an Order To Impound would show on the "sales kit" vehicle history issued at the time of registration to a new owner. Ms. Rowett had no objection to the Tribunal viewing Ms. Clark's "sales kit". No such entry was found.

There was no evidence before this Tribunal as to there having been a previous section 55.1 impoundment order against the registered owner of the vehicle.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Appellant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

(h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22
- (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
 - (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
 - (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under

- suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Subsection 50.2(2) of the Act states the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

Testimony and evidence established that on March 10, 2000 Victoria Clark became the owner of the 1990 Dodge Caravan within the meaning of subsection 50.2(11) of the Act following her purchase of the van on March 7, 2000 for which a receipt was issued (Exhibit#3). The evidence is that on March 7, 2000 the registered owner was Wilfred J. Neil. A disqualified driver was driving the vehicle and as a result the Order to Impound was issued. Victoria Clark bought a vehicle that was impounded for 90 days.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

As to the issue of exceptional hardship, the evidence established that it is very inconvenient and expensive for the Clarks to be without their vehicle. However, bus and taxi service is available to meet the personal needs of the family and transporting Ms. Clark's father.

As to the use of the van for business purposes, Mr. Clark failed to establish that he had explored all possible options to rent or lease another vehicle, relying only on his past experiences.

Can the Board confirm the Registrar's Order of a 90-day impoundment?

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

As dealt with above, the fact of ownership (which implies the issue of prior impoundments against the owner) was put in issue by the Appellant. The Registrar's representative tendered no evidence to confirm a previous impoundment.

The Board therefore proceeds on the basis that only a 45-day impoundment is established. The Appellant having failed to establish her appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) of the Act, the Board will confirm the Registrar's order for a 45-day impoundment period.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Appellant's motor vehicle for 45 days.

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 26, 2000, at Barrie, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Board released its Decision on April 27, 2000, with Reasons to follow.

THE BOARD RULED TO SET ASIDE the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of an oral hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated March 16, 2000, and was received by the Tribunal on March 16, 2000, together with the prescribed fee of $100.00, paid by cheque.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

"I was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason."

Preliminary Matters

A copy of a report from Physician # 1 forwarded to the Ministry by the Applicant was filed as Exhibit # 5.

The Breathalyzer Test Procedure Record together with the Alcohol Influence Report and the notes of PC Officer # 1 and PC Officer # 2 was filed as Exhibit # 6.

Prior to the Commencement of the hearing, the Respondent and the Counsel for the Applicant took a ten-minute recess for discussions.

It is the understanding of this Tribunal that the document filed as Exhibit # 5 is not to be taken into consideration in the deliberation of the decision. The reports of Dr. Mate and Dr. Goldstein are to be acknowledged without the reference therein to the reports from Physician #1.

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Notice of Appeal – dated March 16, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 2 Applicant Medical Information – received March 17, 2000
- c) Exhibit # 3 Affidavit from the Applicant – dated March 20, 2000
- d) Exhibit # 5 Report from Physician # 1 – received April 26, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 4 Submissions from the Registrar – received April 19, 2000

b) Exhibit # 6 Breathalyzer Test Procedure Report and the notes of PC Officer # 1, PC Officer # 2 – received April 26, 2000

Issue

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

The Law

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act (“HTA”) states:

50.1 (1) “A person whose driver’s licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

- (a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or
- (b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason”.

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Tribunal may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1),(2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) “a report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

- (a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;
- (b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;
- (c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver’s licence under section 50.1 of the Act;
- (d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;

- (e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and
 - (f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.
- (2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.
- (3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner."

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

"A person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal".

FACTS

The Applicant's driver's licence was suspended effective "March 08 2000" as per Notice of Appeal. (Exhibit # 1)

Physician # 2, the Applicant's family physician for "1 years 2 months", indicates in the "Applicant's Medical Information" form dated "2000/3/17", as follows: "on the 8 March 2000 the Applicant was seen in the ER by Physician # 3. He was assessed for complaints of chest pain and shortness of breath. Physician # 3 diagnosed hyperventilation and chest pain of unknown cause. The Applicant was admitted for observation and discharged the following morning, I am unable to clarify how much of the above condition might affect his ability to complete a breathalyzer test. The Applicant was admitted to hospital 24 FEB 2000 for a similar pain and is currently awaiting a cardiac stress test to further investigate the cause of his pain." (Exhibit # 2)

The Applicant provided an Affidavit dated March 20, 2000 attesting as follows:

He is 55 years old and a self-employed contractor who has recently been suffering from chest pain along with shortness of breath.

The Applicant was hospitalized overnight on the "24th February, 2000". The diagnosis is "...suspected angina..." and the Applicant was given a prescription for Nitroglycerin prior to leaving the hospital.

After being stopped by the police, the Applicant became stressed by the officer's allegation of speeding and drinking, and started to feel chest pain.

The Applicant was arrested and handcuffed and his condition worsened to the point where he had to ask the officer to allow him to use his medication.

The Applicant was "...unable to blow the proper strength for the full amount of time..." and could not do so after being given two or three opportunities.

The Applicant was taken to the hospital, where he stayed overnight, after being placed in the lock up.

"At no time..." did the Applicant "feign any attempt to blow into the Intoxilyzer machine." (Exhibit # 3)

The Ministry of Transportation Driver Information details the Applicant's driver's record since 1986. Three charges are noted: "FAILURE OR REFUSAL TO PROVIDE BREATH SAMPLE, in 1972 and 1983 and one IMPAIRED DRIVING" in 1980. (Exhibit # 4)

By letter dated April 7, 2000, under the letterhead of Grey Bruce Health Services, Physician # 3 advises the Ministry that the Applicant was assessed in the Emergency Department. Physician # 3 states that it was his "...impression that he was not suffering from a medical condition which would prevent him from providing a breath test..." (Exhibit # 4)

In a letter dated April 14 2000, Dr. Roger S. Goldstein, MB,ChB,FRCP(UK)FRCP(C) FCCP, Professor of Medicine and Director of Program in Respiratory Rehabilitation - University of Toronto, states that he is a "...consultant respirologist in practice since 1979 with particular interest in chronic respiratory conditions such as: asthma, emphysema and chronic bronchitis... familiar with the Alcotest and the Intoxilyzer 5000C..." (Exhibit # 4)

After reviewing the evidence, Dr Goldstein concludes that "...there is no obvious respiratory condition which would prevent him from providing a satisfactory breath sample. Only those present could be sure as to whether his psychological condition (anxiety or panic attacks) was at that moment sufficient to have interfered with the provision of a breath sample ..." (Exhibit # 4)

Dr. Eva S. Mate, FRCP (C), a consultant in respiratory medicine with The Wellesley Hospital, in a letter dated March 17,2000, qualifies that she has been in "... practice since 1982...", and that she has "...extensive experience in the management of chronic respiratory illness such as obstructive lung disease and asthma." Dr. Mate goes on to describe her qualifications: "...lengthy experience with performance and interpretation of pulmonary function tests.... Assistant Professor at the University of Toronto...know the background evaluation of instrumentation such as Intoxilyzer 5000 cc and also Alcotest...aware of breath sampling criteria required to provide acceptable information using the above instrumentation." Dr Mate's final comments are that she sees "...nothing objective in terms that would prevent the patient from giving a breath sample upon request..." (Exhibit # 4)

At the hearing, the Applicant's Solicitor did not allow the Applicant to testify, but rather asked the Tribunal to rely on the Affidavit sworn by his client and entered as Exhibit # 3.

The Respondent called the two officers involved in the incident as witnesses.

P.C. Officer # 1, arrested the Applicant and took him to the detachment for a breathalyzer test. On the way to the detachment, P.C. Officer # 1 asked the Applicant if needed medical attention. The Applicant declined. During the time that P.C. Officer # 1 spent with the Applicant, there were no visible signs of discomfort or distress, on the part of the Applicant, only the signs of someone impaired.

At the detachment, the Applicant's nitroglycerine was taken away from him as part of the breathalyzer requirements procedures.

After being charged with failure to provide and placed in a cell, the Applicant was "...taken to hospital complaining of chest pains." (Exhibit # 6) PC Officer # 1 stated that although he saw nothing wrong with the Applicant "...but because he was a pain and to cover... butt, I took him to the hospital."

P.C. Officer # 2, testified as the qualified technician on duty on the night in question. Once arriving at the detachment, P.C. Officer # 2 tested the breathalyzer to ensure proper functionality. The mandatory 15 minute waiting period was adhered to. The Applicant was explained the requirements. An exhalation into the machine of 8 to 10 seconds is essential in order to obtain an adequate reading.

P.C. Officer # 2 reiterated his comments in the Alcohol Influence Report. The Applicant was given five opportunities to provide a breath sample. On the "... 1st attempt no ...blowing; 2 nd attempt - sputtering 4 to 6 seconds; 3 rd attempt - sputtering 4 seconds & stop; 4 th attempt 4 to 6 seconds - not hard - sputtering...; 5 th attempt 6 to 8 seconds - not hard or continuous - not sufficient..."

The last attempt although approximately 8 seconds did not provide enough of a breath sample to obtain a reading.

The Applicant told P.C. Officer # 2 he had a heart problem and was taking medication. P.C. Officer # 2 advised the Applicant that medication cannot be used during the test.

The Applicant was panting when asked questions but did not appear to be struggling for air at any other time. P.C. Officer # 2 noticed no other signs of physical distress on the part of the Applicant and assumed the panting was due to nervousness. The Applicant did show signs of "...stress and nervousness..."

In response to the Counsel's question as to why no blood samples were collected, P.C. Officer # 2 stated that "... during the test was sure the Applicant did not have a medical problem..." P.C. Officer # 2 also affirmed that experience has proven that failure to provide a breath sample was usually due to refusal not medical condition of instrument glitches.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS

At issue is, how does the medical condition of the Applicant relate to Section 50.1 (2) (b), and did this medical reason cause him to fail or not comply with the breath demand. The onus is on the Applicant to provide the Tribunal with a medical reason as to why he was unable to provide a breath sample.

Physician # 2's comments in the Applicant's Medical Information form that he is "...unable to clarify how much of the above condition might affect his ability to complete a breathalyzer test...". Nonetheless, the fact remains that the Applicant "...was admitted for observation and discharged the following morning." At the time he was complaining and "...assessed for chest pain and shortness of breath." (Exhibit # 2)

The Tribunal further notes that this was not the first incident in which the Applicant was admitted to the hospital. According to Physician # 2, "...the Applicant was admitted to hospital 24 FEB 2000 for a similar pain..." The Applicant has also been prescribed and carries with him nitroglycerine. (Exhibit # 2)

The Tribunal must weigh this evidence against the opinion letters from Physician # 2, Dr. Mate Dr. Goldstein, which constitute part of the Respondent's evidence. Physician # 2 assessed the Applicant in the ER. Physician # 2 states that it was his "...impression that he was not suffering from a medical condition which would prevent him from providing a breath test..." Yet, the Applicant was apparently admitted to the hospital overnight. (Exhibit # 4)

Dr. Mate's final comments are that she sees "...nothing objective in terms that would prevent the patient from giving a breath sample upon request..." Yet, with all due respect to Dr. Mate she did not physically examine the Applicant. (Exhibit # 4)

Dr. Goldstein is right on the mark with his statement that "... Only those present could be sure as to whether his condition was at that moment sufficient to have interfered with the provision of a breath sample ..." (Exhibit # 4)

P.C. Officer # 2 and P.C. Officer # 1 are the only witnesses who can elaborate on the Applicant's demeanour at the time. Unfortunately this evidence is found to be somewhat contradictory. Both officers asserted that there was nothing visibly wrong with the Applicant, other than signs of impairment. Yet, the Applicant has to be transported to a hospital and admitted.

The Applicant's diagnosis remains elusive, thus, on the surface it might appear that the preponderance of the evidence corroborates the Respondent's case. This Tribunal must accept the fact that the Applicant was twice hospitalized and was prescribed nitroglycerine. The Tribunal is satisfied that the Applicant has met the onus to establish the merit of his appeal. The Tribunal finds that the Applicant meets the criteria of Section 50.1 (2) (b), in that he was unable to provide a breath sample due to medical reasons.

DECISION

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated March 8, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal orders the suspension set aside.

I, Michael John Saunders, hereby consent to the following Terms and Conditions to my registration as a salesperson under the Real Estate and Business Brokers Act:

1. I hereby consent to the suspension of my registration as a salesperson under the Real Estate and Business Brokers Act ("my registration") for a period beginning May 1, 2000 and ending February 15, 2001, inclusive (the "suspension period"). At the end of the suspension period, my registration will re-commence and the Registrar of Real Estate and Business Brokers ("the Registrar") will issue a new registration certificate to me.
2. During the suspension period, I shall not trade in real estate as a salesperson as defined by the Real Estate and Business Brokers Act (the "Act") and shall not accept any compensation or other remuneration for a trade in real estate, except that I may accept compensation or remuneration for a trade in real estate resulting from an agreement of purchase and sale ("agreement") made by the parties to that agreement before the start of the suspension period, regardless of whether that agreement is firm or conditional, even if the closing of that agreement occurs during the suspension period.
3. I hereby agree to complete a three (3) hour course on the Real Estate Council of Ontario's Code of Ethics within twelve (12) months of the start of the suspension period.
4. I shall not apply as a real estate broker under the Act ("broker") or on behalf of a broker, including a corporation, for five (5) years from the date of these Terms and Conditions.
5. I shall not be a partner, director, officer, office manager or branch manager of a broker for five (5) years from the date of these Terms and Conditions.
6. I shall not, and any corporations or partnerships that I control, including as a shareholder or as a partner, director, officer or directing mind, shall not hold shares of a broker corporation for five (5) years from the date of these Terms and Conditions.
7. For five (5) years from the date of these Terms and Conditions, I shall immediately advise the Registrar in writing of any charges laid against me under any statute and any convictions by any court (except municipal parking violations and Highway Traffic Act proceedings that do not result in the suspension of my driver's license) as well as any civil court judgments or orders against me, and any ethics or disciplinary decisions against me by a real estate board or the Ontario Real Estate Association.
8. For five (5) years from the date of these Terms and Conditions, I shall not transfer my registration from my current broker, Re/Max Twin City Realty Inc. (my "current broker") without first obtaining the written authorization of the Registrar. I agree that, if the Registrar authorizes the transfer of my registration, my new broker shall submit to the Registrar written acknowledgment of these Terms and Conditions before the transfer occurs. This provision also applies to any subsequent transfers within the five (5) year period that it is in force.

9. For five (5) years from the date of these Terms and Conditions, I and my broker shall immediately notify the Registrar in writing if any complaints are made against me by members of the public or other registrants under the Act, and I and my broker shall forthwith provide details of such complaints and any documentation that the Registrar may require.
10. For five (5) years from the date of these Terms and Conditions, I shall submit to the Registrar's office a copy of my then-current police record or C.P.I.C. search with any application I submit for registration, renewal or reinstatement under the Act.
11. I hereby state that I have not, and shall not make any agreements, oral or written, express or implied, including, without limitation, any side agreements with any person or corporation that violates the spirit and intent of these Terms and Conditions.
12. I hereby acknowledge that if new or additional information comes to the attention of the Registrar related to my honesty, integrity, compliance with law or financial responsibility, or if I breach any of these Terms and Conditions, the Registrar may take further administrative action, including a proposal to revoke my registration, based on the totality of the evidence of my past conduct and/or financial position, including the allegations set out in the Proposal of the Registrar dated January 4, 2000 to revoke my registration under the Act.
13. If any of these Terms and Conditions are deemed to be illegal, unenforceable, or a mutual mistake that is not a typographical, calculation or similar error, all such Terms and Conditions shall be severed and the remaining Terms and Conditions shall remain in force and effect.
14. I hereby acknowledge that I have read, and understand, and have obtained or had opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to these Terms and Conditions.

Appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap.H.8 as amended (the "Act"), from the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 55.1(3) of the Act.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: JOHN CARMICHAEL, M.D.
Presiding member

APPEARANCES: F. C. ROWETT
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

ALLANA MCHUGH, Applicant
unrepresented

DATE OF HEARING: April 19, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: April 28, 2000 Ottawa

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 19, 2000, at Ottawa, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Allana McHugh (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1989 Chev S10, Plate #575 ZML (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: March 31, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (the "Board") (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on April 19, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Board commencing the hearing.

The Applicant introduced a letter from her employer which, with the agreement of the representative for the respondent was accepted by the Board to be given weight as the Board sees fit in its deliberations.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #4) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

*Loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship

Due to the impoundment of my vehicle I am experiencing exceptional hardship. I need to use my car to get to work. I have 4 to 5 clients homes to visit during the day as a personal support worker for Bayshore Health Care, whom I'm presently employed with. I work 6 days a week for this company. I do not have another vehicle that is in running condition and do not have the money to fix it. Also the bus system does not allow me to get to clients homes on time and doesn't reach all my clients locations.

If I cannot use my vehicle I will lose my clients and possibly my job. Then I will have no income to pay my bills.

I am also taking math, chemistry and biology courses in Cornwall, ON so that I may be able to enter the Nursing program at Algonquin College in Ottawa. I need my car to go to Cornwall to hand in lessons and write tests for these courses.

This impoundment of my vehicle is very inconvenient for myself.

I would also like to say that I had seen Gerald Rochon's drivers licence and did not know it was under suspension and he says he did not have any knowledge of the suspension either.

I do not have a copy of the Registrar's order of impoundment if or when I receive it I will fax it to you thank you

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Gerald Rochon;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence blood/alcohol content in excess of .08 under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until February 8, 2001.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
 - (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;

- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

(h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.

- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The Applicant is asking that the decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound her vehicle be set aside on the basis "that the order will result in exceptional hardship" (subsection 50.2(3)(d) of the Highway Traffic Act).

The Applicant is currently employed by a home care agency. Her duties are to provide home care, cooking, washing, house cleaning etc, to clients on a regular basis. The Applicant is paid an hourly wage with car allowance for travel between clients.

She has not worked since her vehicle was impounded.

The Applicant lives in Ottawa. She is upgrading her education at a community college in Cornwall and uses her car to commute, to hand in assignments, write tests etc.

The Applicant owns a second car which is not road worthy. It is to be towed away for scrap. Other options to provide alternate transportation have not been properly explored.

The individual to whom the vehicle was loaned was known to the Applicant for only a few months. The Applicant was not aware of the borrower's current driver's licence suspension, or his past driving record.

The Board acknowledges the considerable dependence of the Applicant on the use of a vehicle and the inconvenience this is causing. Despite this inconvenience, on the basis of the evidence given by the Applicant, the Board was not convinced that the Applicant had exhausted every possibility for an alternative means of transportation as required by section 22(4) of Regulation 632/98.

No evidence was presented by the Applicant or her employer to suggest that the Applicant's or her clients' health or safety has been threatened.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF
MOTION: April 25th, 2000

ORDER

A motion was heard by teleconference on April 25th, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's request for an extension of time to appeal the impoundment order of the Registrar affecting the Applicant's motor vehicle. The motion is brought pursuant to Section 20(7) of Ontario Regulation 632/98 amending Regulation 574 of the Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1990 made under the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990. c.H.8 amended ("HTA").

Submissions of Written Material

Applicant through its Solicitors submitted the following documents:

1. Copy of Impound Order dated March 6, 2000 relating to the impoundment of the motor vehicle for 180 days. (Exhibit # 1)
2. Original Notice of Appeal dated April 3, 2000 received by the Tribunal on April 6, 2000. (Exhibit # 2)
3. A copy of a Vehicle Lease Agreement dated November 19, 1999 between Chrysler Credit as Lessor and Michael James Watson as Lessee relative to the impounded motor vehicle. (Exhibit # 3)
4. Statement of the Applicant's position. (Exhibit # 4)

The Facts

The Applicant is the owner of a motor vehicle which was impounded for a period of 180 days pursuant to an order of the Registrar issued under section 55.1 of the Highway Traffic Act R.S.O. 1990, c. H.8 as amended (the "Act"). The Applicant leased the motor vehicle to Michael James Watson ("Watson") under a written lease dated November 19, 1999.

The motor vehicle was impounded on March 6, 2000 while it was being driven by Watson whose driver's licence was then allegedly under suspension. Subsequent to the impoundment, Watson did not report the impoundment of the motor vehicle to the Applicant.

The Registrar's Order to Impound was sent on March 6, 2000 by ordinary mail to the Applicant at its' address at 2700 Matheson Boulevard, Suite 400, Mississauga, Ontario. The Applicant's Notice of Appeal to the impoundment was dated April 3, 2000 and was received by the Board on April 6, 2000.

The Applicant concedes that its Notice of Appeal was not filed with the Board, as required by section 20(1) of Regulation 632/98 made under the Highway Traffic Act, within 15 days of the issuance of the order to impound. The motion presently before the Board is for an order, in terms of section 20(7) of the above regulations, for an extension of the time for the filing of the Notice of Appeal.

Section 20(1) of Regulation 632/98 states:

20. (1) An appeal to the Board under section 50.2 of the Act shall be commenced by filing a notice of appeal with the Board within 15 days of the issuance of the order to impound, together with a fee of $100 payable to the Minister of Finance.

Section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98 states:

20. (7) Despite subsection (1), the Board may extend the time for commencing an appeal if the owner establishes that the owner, acting in good faith, was unable through accident, illness, or other cause beyond the owner's control to bring the appeal within the prescribed 15 days.

Section 7 of the Licence Appeal Tribunal Act, 1999 states:

7. Despite any limitation of time fixed by or under any Act for the giving of any notice requiring a hearing by the Tribunal or an appeal from a decision or order of the Tribunal under section 11 or any other Act, if the Tribunal is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for applying for the extension and for granting relief, it may,
 - (a) extend the time for giving the notice either before or after the expiration of the limitation of time so limited; and
 - (b) give the directions that it considers proper as a result of extending the time.

The Order

THE BOARD RULED TO REFUSE TO GRANT an extension of the time to commence this appeal for the reasons that follow.

REASONS FOR ORDER

Pursuant to section 20(1) of Regulation 632/98, the Applicant's Notice of Appeal should have been filed with the Board within 15 days of the issuance of the order to impound the motor vehicle. The date of the issuance of the order to impound was March 6, 2000 and the notice of appeal to the Board should accordingly have been filed by March 21, 2000. The notice of appeal was in fact filed with the Board on April 6, 2000 a significantly longer period than permitted by the Regulations. There is in the Board's opinion no basis for the Applicant's submission that it is entitled to an allowance of five days for the mailing of the impoundment order thereby effectively allowing the Applicant twenty days within which to file its notice of appeal. Section 20(1) of Regulation 632/98 is clear and unambiguous. It states that the filing of notice of appeal with the Board shall be within 15 days of the issuance of the impound order.

Section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98 enumerates the situations under which the Board may extend the time for commencing an appeal. The first two situations enumerated, namely accident or illness clearly do not have application in this matter. The subsection does however refer to a third situation which is "or other cause beyond the owner's control". The Applicant contends that the voluminous quantity of mail received by it and the time required to route mail, including the impoundment order, to the proper channels was the cause of the delay and was beyond its control.

The Board does not agree with the Applicant's contention. It is not reasonable to presume that voluminous quantity of mail cannot efficiently be directed to the proper department. It is not reasonable to suggest that the significant delay in routing the impoundment order was beyond the Applicant's control. Controls can and should have been instituted by the Applicant. The procedures in place to deal with the mail and to route it efficiently and expeditiously have not either shown or proven by the Applicant.

The Applicant has advanced no evidence whatsoever to support its contention that the delay in dealing with the impoundment order was beyond its control.

Accordingly, the Applicant has not demonstrated to the Board that there was cause beyond the Applicant's control to bring the appeal within the prescribed 15 days as required by section 20(1) as read with section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98.

Further, the Applicant has not demonstrated to the Board or satisfied the Board that there are reasonable grounds for applying for the extension and for granting relief. Accordingly the requirements under section 7 of the Licence Appeal Tribunal Act has not been met.

The motion brought by the Applicant to the Board for an extension of time to appeal is therefore dismissed.

APPEAL FROM A DECISION OF THE CORPORATION DESIGNATED FOR THE PURPOSE OF THE

TO DISALLOW A CLAIM

APPEARANCES:

Niranjan Shah, representing himself

Warranty Program
Carmen DeFacendis, Counsel representing the added party, Steluk Building Corporation

DATES OF HEARING:

April 17 and 18, 2000

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) by the Applicant, Niranjan Shah, from a decision from the New Home Warranty Program (the Program) made in two letters denying his claims for warranty on his new home.

BACKGROUND:

The Applicant, Mr. Shah, is self-employed as a taxi driver and a part-time real estate salesman. His wife works in a factory in quality control and they have two sons in their twenties. They are good hard working people. Once before in 1985 they had bought a new house. They lived there for a few years then moved into an apartment. In 1995 Mr. Shah agreed to buy a new home in the Richmond Hill development. However, when he signed the agreement of purchase and sale he became understandably confused about who was responsible for the new home warranties provided and who had to be notified of any claims. It appeared to Mr. Shah that the builder managed the warranties since the agreement of purchase and sale set out the warranties in essentially the same terms as appear in the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act (the Act). The confusion was not remedied when he signed the Program's certificate of completion and possession in 1997.

The certificate has a warning set out after the signatures of the purchaser and vendor. In small black letters it reads "the builder/vendor warrants that the home is constructed in a workmanlike manner and free from defects in material" then in red capital letters not much larger it continues "A COMPLAINT MUST BE REPORTED TO BOTH THE VENDOR AND ONHWP IN WRITING". Mr. Shah consequently tried to conduct his appeal on the false assumption that he had only to deal with the builder to be entitled to the warranties under the Act. This created considerable difficulty for the Tribunal and prolonged the hearing.

THE ISSUES:

The Applicant, Niranjan Shah, made some 25 claims (of widely varying validity) for warranty which required written notice to be given to the Program within one year from the date of possession of the home. The first issue in this appeal is whether or not he did so.

The second issue concerns three claims for warranty for items requiring written notice to be given within two years. The adequacy of the notice is not in dispute. Two of these claims were for leaks in the home which, although corrected, left damage behind. A third claim in this category is whether there was a heating vent which should have been installed in the master bedroom. The threshold issue is whether the Applicant denied the Builder access to repair these defects.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

- 1) The Applicant bought a new home from the builder/vendor Steluk Building Corporation (also known as Mattamy Homes). He then took possession of it on 25th September 1997.
- 2) From the outset, Mr. Shah made numerous complaints to the builder but did not pass these on to the Program until it was too late for claims requiring written notification to be made within one year from the date of possession of the home. The Program received this notice on 11th May 1999, one year and seven months later.
- 3) However, the notice given on 11th May 1999, sufficed for those claims which had to be given within a two 2-year period. That relates to the leaks in the basement and a missing return air vent in the master bedroom.
- 4) With respect to the leaks in the basement, they were corrected after a water test in June 1999, but the minor damage resulting from the leaks was not. In particular, where it had been excavated the ground was not leveled and sodded to Mr. Shah's satisfaction. There were also stains remaining on the wall and glass insulation needing replacing where it had been wetted.
- 5) With respect to the absence of a return air vent in the master bedroom, the Tribunal finds that there should have been one. That is because the Director of Customer Service for the builder, Steluk Building Corporation, put the following note in a letter of 6th April 1998 to Mr. Shah, which acknowledges this.

"The existing return air installation, although a deviation from the original plan, meets the requirements of the Ontario Building Code. The installation has been passed by the Town of Richmond Hill and therefore no further action is required."

- 6) The Tribunal finds that the builder has been denied reasonable access to the home to rectify the items complained of. There are several aspects to this finding. On some occasions Mr. Shah did allow the builder in to remedy defects complained of, but later on other occasions Mr. Shah told the builder that he did not want Percy Butler, the Customer Service Manager, or his three servicemen in the house. Adding to that, Mr. Shah has an outstanding action in Small Claims Court against the builder which has not improved their relations. When the builder sent a letter by hand in August 1999 to Mr. Shah asking for suitable dates to come and correct the outstanding items which had been set out in a conciliation report, Mr. Shah ripped it up and never responded although he knew from another copy of the letter that a response was required.
- 7) The conciliation meeting that took place in June 1999 did not change the underlying problem. The meeting had been arranged by the Program after Mr. Shah had contacted the Program in a high state of frustration. Every effort was made to get the outstanding matters resolved. As a gesture of goodwill the Program waived the $50 fee. Unfortunately after Mr. Shah reluctantly agreed to let Mr. Butler participate in the meeting as an essential party, he concluded the Program was biased against him.

THE LAW:

With respect to all the Applicant's claims except for the leaks and the air vent item, the relevant provision of the Ontario New Home Warranty Plan Act are:

- s. 13(1) Every vendor of a home warrants to the owner
 - (a) that the home
 - (i) is constructed in a workmanlike manner and is free from defects in material,
.....
 - (4) A warranty under subsection (1) applies only in respect of claims made thereunder within one year after the warranty takes effect.....

Regulation 892 of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

- s.4(1) Each person with a claim under the Plan shall give written notice of the claim to the corporation.

With respect to the Applicant's claims for the leaks and the air vent in the master bedroom, the law on mitigation of damages has to be considered.

Section 14(1)(b) of the Act states:

14(1) Where

(b) an owner has a cause of action against a vendor for damages resulting from a breach of warranty;

the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damage subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulations.

In the case of Schollenberg CRAT 1999, this Tribunal found that the Applicant failed to mitigate his damage by failing to allow the builder access to carry out repairs and rectify the defects. To like effect are the cases of Liddy 1997 CRAT and Migliano 1994 CRAT.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

It is clear that this Tribunal has no jurisdiction to consider any of the 25 claims made by the Applicant for defective workmanship or materials because written notice he gave was not received by the Program within the one year time limit prescribed. His appeal therefore fails in that respect.

As to the remaining two claims for the resulting damage from leaks and for the claim of non-compliance with the requirement to install a return air vent, the Tribunal finds the Applicant has not given the builder reasonable access to rectify defects and has therefore failed to mitigate the damages as required by section 14(3) of the Act.

In closing, the Tribunal wishes to note that much of the problem could have been avoided if the procedure for making claims to the Program had been presented in a clearer fashion. It should have been made obvious that the Program itself had to receive timely written notice separately from the builder.

In addition it should be noted that the Program made commendable and valiant efforts to try and get the dispute resolved.

DECISION:

Accordingly, for these reasons and pursuant to the authority vested in it by section 16(3) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, the Tribunal directs the Ontario New Home Warranty Program to disallow this claim.

THE COACH CONNECTION INC. and DENNIS NOBLE

APPEAL FROM A PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR OF
THE MOTOR VEHICLE DEALERS ACT

TO REVOKE REGISTRATION

TRIBUNAL: E. ALAN GARBE, Vice-Chair

APPEARANCES:

DENNIS NOBLE, representing the Applicants,
AVIVA R. HARARI, Counsel, representing the Registrar,
Motor Vehicle Dealers Act

DATE OF HEARING: March 23, 2000

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This hearing arises from a Notice of Proposal dated November 23, 1999, issued by the Registrar under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Act") to revoke the registration of The Coach Connection Inc. as a motor vehicle dealer and Dennis Noble as a motor vehicle salesperson under the provisions of the Act.

By letter dated December 8, 1999, the Applicants requested a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000, is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal).

REGISTRAR'S POSITION:

The particulars of the Applicant's conduct which the Registrar found to be inconsistent with the intention and objective of the Act are as follows:

On or about September 23, 1999, an inspector duly appointed under the Act attended at the registered premises of The Coach Connection Inc. to conduct an inspection. The Coach Connection Inc. was not operating from its registered premises.

On or about January 21, 1999, Dennis Noble, on behalf of The Coach Connection Inc., signed a document containing the terms and conditions attached to its registration which terms and conditions have been breached by the Applicants and those particular terms and conditions which have been breached are as follows:

- 1) The dealer will not invite the public to deal at a place other than their approved location.
- 2) The dealer agrees to operate exclusively from the location approved by the Registrar.
- 3) The dealer will maintain an office and a sign visible to the public at its registered location.
- 4) The dealer will maintain a lot adjacent to the office for retail sales.
- 5) The dealer agrees to apply for the Registrar's approval by way of prior written notice of any change in their business location in the form required by the Registrar.

THE EVIDENCE:

Jean Cameron, an inspector employed by Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council ("OMVIC"), testified that on September 23, 1999, she attended at 1060 Rymal Road East, Hamilton, Ontario, the registered premises for The Coach Connection Inc. and met with Ed Cummings who advised that The Coach Connection Inc. had never been a tenant at that address. Mr. Cummings advised Ms. Cameron that he was familiar with Dennis Noble because Mr. Noble serviced furnaces and had done work for Mr. Cummings.

According to Ms. Cameron, on October 25, 1999, she received a message on her voice mail from Dennis Noble asking her to call him at his home telephone number ((905) 679-6088) which she did. During the course of that conversation, Ms. Cameron asked Mr. Noble how many vehicles he had bought and sold to date and was advised that he sold three (3) vehicles and that when he recently tried to transfer registration of a vehicle he was unable to do so. Ms. Cameron advised Mr. Noble that the Applicants were presently prohibited from carrying on business, and she was preparing a proposal which would be issued revoking their registrations. When Mr. Noble inquired as to why Ms. Cameron was proposing to revoke the registrations, she advised that he was not nor had he ever been at the registered premises for The Coach Connection Inc. Mr. Noble acknowledged that he had never been at 1060 Rymal Road and indicated that he was keeping vehicles at another location.

When Ms. Cameron raised the issue of Mr. Noble having not set up an office, he advised that he had an office with a computer at his home. Ms. Cameron stated that when asked by Mr. Noble as to how one changed the registered premises for a dealership, she advised him that it was a requirement that a municipal permit be provided with a change of address form. She reminded Mr. Noble that he needed an office with a sign where the books and records of the dealership would be maintained.

Ms. Cameron's notes of her attendance at 1060 Rymal Road on September 23, 1999 and her notes of the telephone conversation on October 25, 1999, were tendered in evidence by counsel for the Registrar as part of Exhibit #4.

Mary Jane South, Director of Operations and Deputy Registrar, after having testified with respect to the purposes of the Act and OMVIC's role and the application of section 5 of the Act to the present situation, referred to the printout from the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations-Companies Branch which appears at Tab 7 of the Book of Disclosure, Exhibit #4, which indicates that Dennis Marshall Noble was the president and sole director of The Coach Connection Inc. Ms. South referred to the terms and conditions signed by Mr. Noble on behalf The Coach Connection Inc., a copy of which appears at Tab 8 of the Book of Disclosure and more specifically to paragraphs (e) and (f) thereof with particular reference to the last sentence of paragraph (f) which reads:

The dealer agrees to apply for the Registrar's approval, by way of prior written notice, of any change in their business location in the form required by the Registrar and also, subsection 13(5) of the Regulations to the Act under the heading: "Terms and Conditions of Registration" which provides:

Every motor vehicle dealer shall, within five (5) days after the event, notify the Registrar in a form provided by the Minister of any change in location of the dealer's place or any of the dealer's places of business

Ms. South testified that the Registrar had concern about the public perception that it was dealing with a private seller in situations where a dealer was not conducting business from a registered premises with a proper sign and office. Further, Ms. South testified that as of the date of the hearing, the Registrar had still not received any notice of change of address with a municipal form.

Ms. South referred to the Applicants' application for registration as a motor vehicle dealer submitted by The Coach Connection Inc. wherein, under the heading: "Business Address", the Applicants identified 1060 Rymal Road East, Hamilton, Ontario as the business location. Ms. South testified that the Registrar's concerns were not only that the Applicants were not carrying on business from the registered premises, but that their failure to give notice in accordance with the terms and conditions and the Regulations of the Act went to the issue of honesty and integrity.

Dennis Noble testified that at the time of the application for registration he was in discussion with two other people, one of whom was to look after locating and leasing the premises and the second was to provide financing. Mr. Noble stated that he was presenting leasing space from Leydon MacDonald and referred to a letter from Mr. MacDonald, the original of which had been given to the Tribunal with the hearing request form but which was not provided to counsel for the Registrar. After permitting counsel for the Registrar to review the letter from Mr. MacDonald, the letter was admitted as Exhibit #5.

Mr. Noble testified that he had done little advertising and had sold one (1) bus and a second was sold as scrap. He advised that his other business was that of air conditioning and heating, etc. and that as a result of those business activities, the need to provide a change of address "went out of his head".

When asked on cross-examination as to what steps he took after October 25, 1999 to notify the Registrar, Mr. Noble advised that he had done nothing because he had been told that a proposal to revoke his registration was being processed.

Mr. Noble testified that it was an individual by the name of Robert Wilson who was to negotiate with Mr. Cummings for a lease of the premises however, because of problems Mr. Cummings had had with Mr. Wilson's son, who had been a tenant at 1060 Rymal Road East, Mr. Cummings' partners were unprepared to lease space to The Coach Connection Inc. Mr. Noble stated that these discussions were going on in December 1998 into January 1999 and that it was his belief that things were going smoothly.

Mr. Noble acknowledged that it was his signature which appears at the bottom of the terms and conditions at Tab 8 of the Book of Disclosure and he acknowledged that he had never set up business at the 1060 Rymal Road East address.

On further questioning, Mr. Noble indicated that as he spent the majority of his time on the air conditioning and heating business, it was his hope that Robert Wilson would become a partner so that the business could have the advantage of Mr. Wilson's knowledge and contacts. Mr. Noble also stated that it was not until March 1999 that he discovered that there would be no lease for 1060 Rymal Road East.

Counsel for the Registrar called Ms. South back to the stand to give reply evidence as the Registrar's concerns about Mr. Noble's involvement with Robert Wilson who was a principal in a company referred to as Braemar which had come to the attention of the Registrar as Braemar had sold a bus with a substantial lien upon it to a purchaser, Northern Tours, who suffered a loss of approximately $100,000.00.

Ms. South testified that an inspector had met with both Mr. Wilson and his son and had been advised that they were trying to resolve the issue of the lien however, subsequently the Registrar was advised that Northern Tours could no longer find Braemar and that Braemar's registration was subsequently revoked without appeal in August 1996.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The following facts are found by this Tribunal to have been proven:

- 1) At no time has The Coach Connection Inc. carried on business at 1060 Rymal Road East, Hamilton, Ontario which were the registered premises of The Coach Connection Inc.
- 2) The Registrar has not, prior to the commencement of these proceedings, been advised by the Applicants of the location from which The Coach Connection Inc. is carrying on business.

ISSUE:

The issue before this Tribunal is whether or not the Registrar has erred in proposing to revoke the registration of the Applicants under the Act.

LAW:

The authority granted to the Registrar is provided in subsection 6(2) of the Act which states:

6(2) Subject to section 7, the Registrar may refuse to renew or may suspend or revoke a registration for any reason that would disentitle the registrant to registration under section 5 if the registrant were an applicant, or where the registrant is in breach of a term or condition of the registration.

The Registrar has proposed to revoke the registration of the Applicants as the Applicants' conduct was not in compliance with subsection 5(1)(b) of the Act, which states:

5. (1) An applicant is entitled to registration or renewal of registration by the Registrar except where,

(b) the past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty;

.....

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Subsection 6(2) of the Act states that the Registrar may revoke a registration for any reason that would disentitle a registrant to registration under section 5 if the registrant were an applicant.

Subsection (5)(1)(b) of the Act entitles an applicant to be registered by the Registrar except where the past conduct of the applicant affords the Registrar reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and integrity and honesty.

The Registrar has the onus of proof to satisfy the Tribunal that he has reasonable grounds to believe that the registration of The Coach Connection Inc. and Dennis Noble ought to be revoked.

The question to determine then is whether The Coach Connection Inc. and Dennis Noble have carried on activities in contravention of the Act and regulations and whether such past conduct provides the Registrar with reasonable grounds for the belief that they will not carry on business as required by section 5 of the Act.

It is the Registrar's belief which is at issue in these proceedings, not that of the Tribunal. The test that the Tribunal must apply is whether the Registrar is wrong in concluding that the past conduct of the Applicants affords him reasonable grounds for his belief (Richard G. Brenner and the Registrar of the Motor Vehicle Dealers and Salesman 19 CRAT SCO Decisions and Orders (1971-1989)).

In order for the Tribunal to carry out its responsibilities pursuant to the Act, the Tribunal must review the decision of the Registrar in order to determine whether or not he was in error in coming to the conclusion that the past conduct of the Applicants afforded reasonable grounds to believe that the Applicants will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty. This review is conducted by an examination of the allegations put forward by the Registrar with respect to the activities of the Applicants and to consider such allegations in light of the evidence given by the Registrar and the Applicants with respect to those allegations.

- 1) The Applicants' failure to carry on business at its registered premises.

It is an undisputed fact that The Coach Connection Inc. never carried on business from the premises named in its application as its business address and which, for the purposes hereof, were its registered premises. Indeed, Mr. Noble in his correspondence of December 8, 1999, appearing at Tab 2 of the Book of Disclosure, acknowledges that he moved the business premises without informing the Registrar and this position is repeated in Mr. Noble's correspondence of January 20, 2000, which accompanied the Applicants' hearing request form.

- 2) The Applicants' failure to obtain the Registrar's approval by way of prior written notice to any change in its business location.

The Tribunal accepts the evidence of Mr. Noble that he did not know until March 1999 that negotiations for a lease at the location at 1060 Rymal Road East, Hamilton, Ontario had collapsed and that he had to find another location. Mr. Noble states that the reason he did not give notice to the Registrar was partially due to ignorance and partially because he was spending a far greater amount of time with his air conditioning business. Further, after being advised by the inspector of his failure to carry on business from the registered premises or to notify the Registrar of a change of premises, the Applicants still took no further action because, according to Mr. Noble, the inspector indicated that she was presently preparing a proposal to be issued revoking his registration and this statement is supported by the notes from the inspector at Tab 10 of the Book of Disclosure.

The conclusions to be drawn from the evidence adduced is that the Applicants were notified once by telephone on October 25, 1999 that they were in breach of the Act, its regulations and the terms and conditions attached to its registration and was told at the time of such notification that a proposal would be issued revoking the Applicants' registrations.

Although the Tribunal recognizes the need for all registrants under the Act to provide current addresses from where they are carrying on business, the Tribunal is not persuaded that this single breach provided to the Registrar reasonable grounds for the belief that they will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty.

It was suggested in the course of the hearing that the notation by Mr. Noble in the hearing request form that "the business had moved six months previously" was an effort to mislead the Registrar, however, note must be taken that in the letter of January 20, 2000 previously referred to, Mr. Noble states that he was unable to obtain the Rymal Road location and, having provided such a statement, it would be counterproductive to then try and suggest that the business had operated from the Rymal Road at some point and subsequently moved.

Further, the Tribunal notes that six months from October 1999, when Mr. Noble was advised of the breach complained of, would be March 1999, which was when Mr. Noble indicated he learned that the lease would not be secured for the Rymal Road premises.

With respect to the relationship between Mr. Noble and Robert Wilson, it must be noted that the Registrar's reasons for proposing to revoke the Applicants' registrations, were not based upon their association with Mr. Wilson and no evidence was presented to the Tribunal that Mr. Wilson was presently involved with the operation of The Coach Connection Inc. or that Mr. Noble knew of Robert Wilson's prior conduct which was of concern to the Registrar.

The Tribunal acknowledges the Registrar's concern when parties, who would be denied registration if they themselves applied, attempt to carry on business using an individual whose registration would not be challenged as a "front" however, there is no clear evidence that this is the case in the present situation and the Tribunal makes no finding with respect to this issue.

DECISION:

In applying the evidence placed before it to the relevant legal principles, the Tribunal finds that the past conduct of the Applicants did not afford reasonable grounds for the Registrar to believe that the Applicants will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty.

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in it by section 7(4) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar to refrain from carrying out his proposal dated November 23, 1999, to revoke the registrations of The Coach Connection Inc. and Dennis Noble as a motor vehicle dealer and motor vehicle salesperson respectively under the Act.

DATES OF HEARING: January 19, 20, & 21, &

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000, is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) from the decision dated March 26, 1999, of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program") wherein the claim of John and Jenifer Whitham (the "Applicants") for damages for a breach of the vendor's warranty under the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act (the "Act") was disallowed. The claim was for a total of $12,000.00. As set out herein, the Tribunal found that there was no breach of warranty, defect in materials or workmanship or breach of contract by the builder. Accordingly, the Applicants are not entitled to succeed in their claim against the Program for the reasons hereinafter set out.

FACTS:

It is not disputed by the parties that the home is a condominium townhome built by Lorne Park Townhomes Inc. (the "builder") and sold to the Applicants with a final closing date of December 16, 1997. The date on the Pre Delivery Inspection Report was August 19, 1997. On August 20, 1997 the Applicants took possession of the property under an interim occupancy arrangement. After taking possession of the property the Applicants noticed a deficiency in the height of the ceilings within the first month but did not raise the issue with the builder until October 13, 1997. The ceiling height in the living room was eight feet six inches rather than nine feet, and the highest point in the vaulted ceiling part of the master suite was eight feet. There was correspondence between the builder and the homeowner on this issue, and the transaction finally closed and title was transferred to the Applicants on December 16, 1997.

A Proof of Claim was filed by the Applicants on May 27, 1998 by which a claim was made on the stated grounds that there was a substitution of non-selectable items in that there was a failure to deliver ceiling heights as specified.

The Program disputes the entitlement of the Applicants to compensation under Section 14(1)(b), or Section 13(1) (a)(i) of the Act. If the Applicants are found to be entitled to compensation the Program disputes the quantum claimed. The Program asserted that:

That there was not an improper substitution as the building was constructed substantially in accordance with the Agreement of Purchase and Sale and the said Agreement permits minor changes.

WITNESSES FOR THE APPLICANT:

Evidence was called by the Applicants. Testimony was given by the Michael Mulvale, and John Whitham.

The Applicants' first witness Michael Mulvale is an appraiser who was hired by the Applicants to inspect the height of the ceilings in question, review the drawings and evaluate the value of any monetary loss due to the reduced height. He testified that the market recognizes that nine foot ceilings would be a desirable feature, and he tried to place a pecuniary value on it. There were various methods available to him, but he decided on a version of the "Cost to Cure" approach. He could not find properties that were similar in every way except for the height of the ceiling, and testified that he could not use a 'Market Value' approach to directly quantify the market value of the ceiling height as a specific feature. To make his calculation, he estimated the cost of a retrofit, and deducted the estimated increase in the cost of original construction. In total, he estimated that the decline in value would be between $7500 and $9000.

During cross-examination he agreed that when a "Comparative Value" approach is used to establish value, the sales of similar homes are examined and adjustments made for differences in the homes. Although he had been in the business for 22 years, he had never before given an opinion on the effect of ceiling height on the value, and said that there was no data available to allow him to quantify the adjustment for ceiling height.

As part of his research, he spoke to approximately 20 people in the industry, and testified that about 80% told him that if ceiling height had no value, it would not be advertised in the promotional material, but they also told him that there was a great difficulty in quantifying its value. In the addendum to his report (Exhibit 12) he specifically stated that although the higher ceiling height adds to the appeal of the home, it is difficult to prove the value of it as a single item, and that the cost of adding it, and the value of it may be different. No estimates were obtained from builders, but he estimated the remedial cost to be $15,000, and the original cost to the builder to be $6000. In his opinion, the loss would not be the full value of the difference, as a purchaser would not pay the full difference on a resale of the property. The comparison was made with a swimming pool, where the cost of installation is greater than the cost that a purchaser would pay for the feature on a resale. He agreed that this property was not marketed as a luxury townhome, and was not designed with nine foot ceilings throughout. In his report (Exhibit 3, Tab 6, p. 57) he had stated that higher ceilings contribute to the feeling of space in the room; however, under cross-examination he agreed that the rooms are bigger than in a normal townhome, and he was unsure how much the extra height would affect the feeling of spaciousness.

The next witness was Mr. John Whitham who explained that he and his wife had sold a large luxury condominium unit and they wished to purchase a summer home in Toronto, and a winter home in Florida. This luxury condominium was 2,200 square feet and had 2 rooms with 10-foot ceilings. He explained that the Lorne Park area was a very desirable part of the city and he wished to buy a spacious condominium as his summer residence there. After examining many options he decided that Style 7, Phase III, of the Lorne Park Townhomes project met his requirements. Mr. Whitham testified that he did not see the plans and was concerned about the "rider" on the brochure. He assumed that nine foot ceilings were part of the package and talked to a salesperson about it. His evidence was that when the Agreement of Purchase and Sale (Exhibit 3, Tab 2) was reviewed, he amended paragraph 42 and added the following words to protect himself from the builder making changes without his agreement as he understood material changes to be those which would materially affect the value of the property:

"with the proviso that there is no material loss of value"

Mr. Whitham testified that the price included some but not all of the features, and he purchased some of the optional features such as skylights which were added by the inclusion of a reference to the "floor plan, block plan, extra" on the first page of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale (Exhibit 3 Tab 2 p. 3).

The floor plan of the Home Style 7 design (Exhibit 3 Tab 2, p. 22) clearly showed nine foot ceilings in the living room and part of the master bedroom. He was told by the salespeople that there would be two steps going down into the living room which would create a nine foot ceiling. He wished to have a sense of spaciousness in the house, and he considered that the nine foot ceilings would contribute to this and therefore had an inherent value. He testified that by amending paragraph 42, he was protecting himself from changes which would reduce the value of the house, and considered that nine foot ceilings would be covered by that clause. Mr. Whitham testified that he understood paragraph 28 of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale to mean that if there was a material change it must be of equivalent or greater value.

There were two letters from the builder (Exhibit 3, p. 36 and p. 38) in which changes were made by removing one column from the design of the living room and rearranging the plumbing fixtures in the washroom. Mr. Whitham testified that he did not dispute these changes as they appeared to be reasonable. In mid-August he took possession of the property and within the first week or month noticed that there was a problem with the height of the ceilings in the living room and master bedroom. Although the shape of the ceiling in the master bedroom was correct, it measured eight feet rather than nine feet at its highest point and the slope on the walls began lower than he expected causing some difficulty in the placement of furniture. He did not approach the builder immediately as he said there were other things such as the kitchen to deal with first.

When Mr. Whitham did bring the problem of the ceiling heights to the attention of the builder by letter (exhibit 3 Tab 4, p. 40), he stated in the letter that there was a major issue that must be dealt with prior to the closing, and that the lower ceiling had materially reduced the value of his property so that it would be worth less money on resale. In reply, he received a letter from the builder (Exhibit 3 Tab 4 p. 42) advising him that they had used an extra thick joist system that may have reduced the ceiling height slightly in the living room, and claimed that the height in the master bedroom was close to nine feet. This letter also contested the issue of whether there was a material loss of value, and asserted the legal right to make construction decisions regarding the unit as provided for in paragraph 42 of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale. In the final phase of the exchange of letters, both Mr. Whitham and the builder threatened legal proceedings. Mr. Whitham advised the builder (Exhibit 3, p. 44) that if an accommodation could not be reached, then they would have to proceed accordingly. The builder advised Mr. Whitham by letter (Exhibit 3 p. 46) that he would have to live up to his legal obligations. This letter also said that the builder had taken measurements in another unit which confirmed that the lower measurements were correct, and then gave reasons for the lower height.

Mr. Whitham described why he thought the lack of nine foot ceilings would reduce the emotional appeal of the property and therefore lessen its value. He further explained that there was a loss of value. The purchase price was $272,000, and the value adjusted by the annual increase provided to him by the real estate board would be $295,000, but the appraisal by Mr. Rae was $270,000. On this basis together with the opinion of Mr. Mulvale, he felt that there was a provable decrease in the value of home over what was provided for in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale.

In cross-examination, he agreed that there were discussions as to price with the builder, and that various options were chosen for the home. The home had not yet been built, and was sold on the basis of promotional materials which included brochures, floor plans, and artist's concepts. There was a video of a - computer simulated tour of the home based on the sketches, and artist's concept. He agreed that on the back page of the sales brochure (Exhibit 15) where the Homestyle Highlights including the nine foot ceilings were set out, there was a disclaimer stating that:

Materials, and floor plans are subject to change without notice. All house renderings are artists conceptions. All floor plans are approximate dimensions. Actual usable floor space may vary from the stated for area. Appliances are optional. E & O E.

The interior of the brochure showed the floor plans and included the nine foot ceiling in the living room and the master suite in a larger and darker print than some other words. At the bottom of this page there is a reference to home style highlights which set out the features which did not mention nine foot ceilings, and the above noted disclaimer. The floor plans shown in the brochure were included in the Agreement Purchase Sale. Mr. Whitham pointed out that his initials were between the living room and master suite on the sketch which was incorporated into the Agreement of Purchase and Sale (Exhibit 3, Tab 2, p. 22). He insisted that the initials related to the ceiling heights rather than the selection of an optional item. He agreed that he had read the disclaimer in Schedule "A" of the Agreement of Purchase Sale (Exhibit 3 Tab 2, p. 14) which stated as follows:

all specifications dimensions and materials are subject to change without notice, as set out by the Ontario New Home Warranty regulations and this purchase and Sale Agreement. Subject to paragraph 4 of the Agreement of Purchase Sale attached hereto, the vendor shall have the right to substitute other products and materials for those listed in this schedule or provided for in the plans and specifications provided that the substituted products and materials are of quality equal to or better than, the products and materials so listed or so provided

Mr. Whitham testified that he had reviewed the clauses in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale and had made changes were appropriate. Specifically he added a proviso to paragraph 42 of the Agreement of Purchase Sale which is the disclaimer concerning material changes. His amendment, which was accepted by the builder, provided that the changes could only be made if there was no material loss of value. He stated that he did not know the remedies set out in that paragraph even though it stated that the purchaser's sole remedy was rescission of the contract, and he agreed that he turned his mind to the issues of the contract. The witness denied any knowledge of s. 52 (2) of the Condominium Act referred to in paragraph 42 of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale.

Mr. Whitham's evidence was that he took interim occupancy on August 20, 1997, and noticed the problem of the ceiling heights in early September, 1997. The home was 'a mess' so that he could not live there for two weeks after taking possession, and there were other issues which he said had to be dealt with prior to the problem of the ceilings. His evidence was that his delay in reporting the ceiling height problems was part of 'a strategy' as he wished to have the more basic items in the home finished first, although he agreed that up until the time he moved into the home, he had been dealt with properly by the builder.

His evidence was that this treatment changed once he took possession under the interim occupancy arrangement. The issue of the ceilings was first raised by a letter to the builder dated October 13, 1997 (Exhibit 3, Tab 4, p. 40). But this time, deposits had been paid to the builder, and upgrades had been paid for to private contractors as well. In these letters, the Applicants claimed that the value of the property would be diminished, and some type of accommodation would have to be reached. Mr. Whitham testified that he was not looking for structural changes to be made when those letters were sent or at the present time, as it would be very disruptive, and too difficult for his wife who was in poor health. Instead he was seeking a financial settlement. Throughout the time between taking occupancy and taking title, the Applicants lived in the home. Despite the ceiling problem, the closed the deal "under protest" although he did not know how this was done legally.

The witness stated that if he had not closed the deal, he could be subject to a lawsuit, and because he had already "been through hell" involving this home, he closed the deal. A letter was eventually sent to the Ontario New Home Warranty Program in May, 1998 as he was busy at work and did not write sooner. (Exhibit 4, Tab 8) He did not expect that the home would be rebuilt with nine foot ceilings in two rooms, and said that if he was adequately compensated he was willing to live with the ceiling heights.

The witness stated that he did not know of any other project in Ontario where the only difference was the ceiling heights, so it was not possible to use price comparisons to determine the value of the one feature. When he hired Mr. Mulvale to evaluate whether there was a loss of value due to the lower ceiling heights, he was again told that no comparison could be found in which the ceiling heights were the only variable. Mr. Whitham testified that this feature was valuable to him, and without it he would not have purchased the home. During his re-examination, he denied that he initiated any discussion of settlement with Mr. Wegler and denied that there was an offer by Mr. Wegler to buy back the home.

WITNESSES FOR THE PROGRAM:

Evidence was called on behalf of the Program, and testimony was given by Bruce Rae, Eric Wegler, Sam Abdalla, and Patricia Lutz.

The Program's first witness Mr. Bruce Rae testified that he is a professional real estate appraiser, and limits his practice to the Oakville, Mississauga and Burlington area. He attended at the home on December 11, 1998 at the request of Mr. Wegler. He found the home to be a modern, superior, upgraded townhome. There was a step down into a sunken living room, creating the ceiling height of eight feet six inches in the living room even though the ceiling was not raised. In his opinion a nine foot ceiling would not have an effect on the value of the property on a resale even if the ceiling heights had been nine feet throughout the entire home. The standard ceiling height is eight feet and in his opinion there would be no increase in the value of the property unless the ceiling height was increased to twelve feet which in his opinion would be noticeable and something that the purchaser on a resale might pay for. In his opinion, using the direct sales comparison method for an evaluation, he would not make adjustment for nine foot ceilings as feature that would effect the value of property.

He also stated that certain features which are included as extras and paid for by the purchaser do not affect the value on a resale, or do not add the full value of their cost to the person who buys the home from the builder. When he did his evaluation, he was not aware of what the base price of the home was and was not aware that the final price included extras paid for by the Applicant. In making his evaluation, he agreed that he also did not take subjective factors into account.

The next witness for the Program was Mr. Eric Wegler who testified that he is a chartered accountant and was the senior vice president of River Oaks Homes Inc. during the time period in question. He testified that River Oaks Homes Inc. managed the project, and Lorne Park Townhomes Inc. was the builder. A total of 160 homes were built in three phases, and he was involved in the acquisition of the land, the planning, development, implementation, construction, and service of the project.

Mr. Wegler testified that the sales brochure (Exhibit 15) was used to identify specific models of the home, and that the 'fine print' used was the industry standard. His evidence was that the purchasers understood that the builder reserved the right to make changes without notice, and that the specifications shown were only approximate as the homes had not been built. In the "Homestyle Highlights", shown in the materials, there was a sunken living room which would cause the ceiling height to be nine feet; however, they were not able to accomplish this as the garage was below the living room, and they could not take the full one foot from the height of the ceiling in the garage. There was also to be a nine foot vaulted ceiling in the master bedroom; however, this was also not reached, and the ceiling height was eight feet. He explained that a change was made, and a better joist system was used which was thicker, provided space for the "mechanicals" and avoided the necessity for bulk heads, which lead to a more open feeling to the rooms. This new joist system was more expensive for the builder, but he stated that it was used at no extra charge to the purchasers. In his opinion he was allowed to change the joist system without notification to the purchasers as it was a construction decision allowed for In the Agreement of Purchase and Sale.

Mr. Wegler testified that the architectural drawings (Exhibit 8) show a maximum height of eight feet in master bedroom, and still show nine feet in the living room. He testified that the project had already been given site plan approval which limited the overall height of the structure. The garage also created problems as it was under the living room area, and the garage floor could not be below the grade of the land. It was necessary to leave sufficient room for insulation, heating duct work, clearance for the garage door opener, and clearance for the door to the interior of the home from the garage. Mr. Wegler testified that given the construction issues of the necessary height of the garage, it was not possible to make the living room floor any lower. As a result, due to the thickness of the joist system, and construction factors caused by the requirements for the garage ceiling height, they were not able to achieve the nine foot ceilings in the two rooms as shown on the advertising material.

Mr. Wegler testified that the floor plan and sketches from the sales brochure was used in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale to identify the model, type, design and particular location of the home as well as to identify the options purchased by the customer. He stated that in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale, there was a specific notice at the end of Schedule A (Exhibit 3, Tab 2, p. 14) indicating that the specifications, dimensions, and materials were subject to change without notice, and allowing for the substitution of other products or materials than those listed in the schedule or provided for the plans or specifications if the products or materials were of equal or greater value. He testified that in his opinion the substitution of the joist system was of greater value, and that the changes in the specifications were permitted. He testified that the benchmark for a material change is whether the change effects the value of the unit as a whole, and in his opinion this did not reduce the overall value of the unit, change the amount of usable space in the unit, or effect the physical "envelope" of the unit. The plans for this development had been approved by the City of Mississauga building department, and there was a limit to the height of the building. Under cross-examination he agreed that he did not re-submit amended plans for approval by the City of Mississauga. At different times, different versions of the plans were made, and Exhibit 8 in this proceeding was not the final working drawing.

Mr. Wegler explained that the Pre-delivery Inspection was done prior to the Applicants taking possession of the home. The Applicants moved into the home under an occupancy license prior to the actual closing, as the home is a condominium, and title could not be transferred until the registration of the entire project. Prior to the actual closing of the transaction, there was an exchange of letters between Mr. Wegler and the Applicants in which the Applicants were seeking compensation and the Mr. Wegler was denying liability. The transaction closed despite this, and title was transferred after the issue of the ceiling heights had been raised. In Mr. Wegler's opinion, the Applicants were seeking a financial settlement as Mr. Whitham had suggested in a letter (Exhibit 3, Tab 4, p. 44) that an accommodation could be reached or they could agreed to disagree and proceed accordingly. He testified that in response to this, he had reminded the Applicants of their legal obligations and assumed that they would exercise their right of rescission or look to their other legal remedies. In his opinion, he had responded to the Applicants quickly and courteously. On other issues, such as, the delayed closing compensation, he stated that the demands by the Applicants were reasonable in his opinion and they were settled quickly. He did not think that the issue of the ceilings was very important to the Applicants as it had not been raised in the pre-delivery inspection, and he assumed that they were simply trying to extract money in the situation.

In cross-examination, Mr. Wegler testified that the Applicants were given notice of two design changes which were agreed to in a reasonable fashion. He did not give the Applicants notice of the change in the joist system as he considered that it was within his substitution rights as a builder. This decision to change the type of joist system was made after the sale of units began in the project but before the working drawings. His evidence was that they did not discover the extent of the effect of the larger joist system until construction was under way at the framing stage so he did not ask the engineers or architects to change the plans. His evidence was that the architectural features of the home were maintained, the joist system was a more expensive upgrade, it eliminated bulk heads, and, in his opinion, the loss of a few inches was "worth it".

Mr. Wegler testified that the properties had gone up in value, but agreed that some upgrades which are purchased from builders do not maintain their value on a resale. He stated that he had offered to buy the home back together with the closing costs as he was certain that the unit had gone up in value so there would not be a loss, and he would save the costs of litigation. This was set out in a letter dated September 9, 1998 from Mr. Wegler to the Program (Exhibit 19) although he did not specifically ask the Program to put the offer to the Applicants. He testified that this was the second time the issue of buying the property had been brought up. He stated that he had spoken to Mr. Whitham about it during 1998 after the closing of the transaction, however, the offer had been refused, and he was told that there were other factors that precluded the Applicant from accepting the offer.

The next witness for the Program was Patricia Lutz who is the customer service supervisor in the Program's condominium office, and has worked for the Ontario New Home Warranty Program since 1990. She supervises the customer representatives, the condominium clerk, and a receptionist. She reviews the reports prepared by the Customer Service Representatives, and she signed the decision letter in this matter. Ms. Lutz evidence was that an error was made in the processing of the file and a Conciliation Report was sent out by Ann Robinson who was a Customer Service Representative at that time. Although this was a claim for compensation, Ms. Robinson treated it as a warranted item, and the Conciliation Report was sent to the Applicants in error. Ms. Lutz explained that once the document had gone out she began to request information, and was advised by in-house counsel for the Program to obtain an independent appraisal of the home with reference to the issue of the ceiling height. Several appraisers were contacted, but they would not give an appraisal of the loss of value caused by the reduction of the ceiling height.

In cross-examination, Ms. Lutz stated that when she was gathering information from Mr. Wegler, she did not give the Applicants the opportunity to respond since the issue to be determined was of a factual nature, and was based on the contract. In her opinion, the change in ceiling height was not a material change to the layout of the building, and the builder would not be required to amend the condominium documents. The ceiling height difference between eight feet and nine feet did not affect the square footage or configuration of the building, and would not be a material change that would effect the disclosure statement under the Condominium Act. In her opinion paragraph 28 of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale permitted minor changes and this was such a change.

Her understanding was that a better floor joist had been used which was a substitution of a product of equal or better value, and, as well, the required height of the garage was a necessary consideration. In her opinion, there were therefore valid factors as a result of which the home could not be built with the nine foot ceilings as advertised. In the circumstances, it was clear that the cost of raising the roof would not be justified. For these reasons she decided that the claim was refused.

The next witness on behalf of the Program was Mr. Sam Abdalla who is employed by the Program as a Condominium Technical Representative and has worked for the Program since 1989. He has a degree as a Civil Engineer from Cairo University (1970), an M.A. in Marine Engineering from the University of Liverpool (1977), and an M.A. from the University of Waterloo in Construction Management (1987).

He testified that he made one visit to the Applicants' home in the summer of 1998 on short notice at the request of Ms. Patricia Lutz. The witness was asked to take measurements, and after the visit he received a copy of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale and the floor plan. Mr. Abdalla measured the living room from the ceiling to the carpet, and found that it was eight feet, six inches "clear height" from the carpet to the drywall, and in the master bedroom at the highest point he found the height to be eight feet from the floor to the underside of the ceiling drywall. He did not recall if that room was carpeted. Once these measurements were taken, he sent his findings by e-mail to Ann Robinson. He had no further dealings with the matter. His evidence was that he did not direct Ann Robinson to send the Conciliation document but had prepared the information for internal use only. Until the date of the hearing, he was not aware that the Conciliation document had been sent out.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The builder and the Applicants originally contemplated that the unit would have a sunken living room which would produce a nine foot ceiling, and a vaulted ceiling in the master suite with a maximum height of nine feet. These features appear on brochures, sketches, artists concepts, and promotional materials, but they are not listed as features in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale.

Mr. Whitham is an experienced purchaser. He carefully reviewed the Agreement Purchase and Sale and made various changes to it.

As the construction of the unit process progressed, the builder substituted a different joist system which eliminated the need for some bulk heads but caused some loss of height in the ceiling of the master suite. For construction reasons, the builder was not able to take the necessary one foot from the garage ceiling to lower the living room floor enough to achieve the nine foot ceiling height in the living room. The builder did not halt construction and attempt to amend the plans for the project and obtain approval from the municipal authorities to increase the overall height of the building. Instead, the builder relied on the rights under the Agreement of Purchase and Sale to make changes to the specifications of the building as required for construction purposes.

The Applicants did initial the floor plan in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale between the diagram of the living room and master suite. However, the Tribunal finds that the floor plan was used to identify optional features which had been selected, and the nine foot ceilings were not an optional feature. All of the initials relate to options. The initials at issue do not relate to a non-optional feature which appears on the floor plan.

Mr. Whitham examined the Agreement of Purchase and Sale very carefully and made a change to paragraph 42 which was the paragraph giving the builder rights to change the interior of the unit, and providing the purchasers with the sole remedy of rescission. The Applicant sought to protect himself from a material loss of value, and did not otherwise amend the builder's right to make changes. It would seem unusual that Mr. Whitham would read the Agreement in such detail, and yet not realize that his remedy was rescission if there was a material change. This leads to the conclusion that he did not consider the change in the ceiling heights to be material, or if he did, he chose not to use his remedy.

There was no amendment to paragraph 35 of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale which provided an acknowledgement by the purchasers that the dimensions, and other data on the marketing materials is approximate only or paragraph 28 which permitted substitution of materials where in the opinion of the builder's architect they are of equal or greater value.

Mr. Whitham testified throughout that it was not possible for him to sell the house and move due to his wife's health, and it appears that he was seeking redress other than the remedy provided in the Agreement. On this basis, a remedy other than rescission would only be available to the Applicants according to the amendment made by Mr. Whitham, if the change was material, that is, resulted in a material loss of value. This leads to a consideration of whether there has been shown to be a material loss of value of the property.

There was evidence from two evaluators who gave very clear evidence that it was not possible to directly assess the value of the nine foot ceilings to the property based on a comparison with other properties. Mr. Mulvale found a way to put a value on it, but it involved a highly subjective assessment which was not based on a comparison with other properties. He estimated a cost of repair, less a rough estimate of the original cost to the builder, and adjusted it by a very imprecise percentage on the basis that he did not expect a purchaser on a resale would pay the full amount for the feature. This was the best effort by Mr. Mulvale, but was not a clear assessment of loss based on an accepted method in common use. Mr. Rae agreed that the ceiling heights were of some value to some purchasers, but he said that it was not a feature for which he would adjust price in an evaluation. In these circumstances there is no evidence of a clear quantifiable loss of value due to the ceiling heights.

The Applicants knew that the ceilings were less than nine feet prior to the closing as they lived in the home "under license" from the date of possession to the date of closing. They did not notice the problem of the ceilings for a period of between two weeks and four weeks from the date of their initial occupation of the property. The issue of the ceilings was not put on the Pre-delivery Inspection Report where they listed their concerns with the property. Later, they raised the issue with the builder prior to closing, and sought financial compensation for the deficiency. Financial compensation is still the issue with the Applicants as they do not intend to carry out repairs if they are successful in this application.

ISSUES:

The legal issues in this case are:

1. Was there a breach of warranty by the builder under the Act?
2. If there was a breach of warranty by the builder, have the Applicants shown that they have suffered a reduction in the value of the property as a result?

APPLICABLE LAW:

Section 1 under the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

"home means",
.....

(c) a condominium dwelling unit, including the common elements

and includes any structure or appurtenance used in conjunction therewith, but does not include a dwelling built and sold for occupancy for temporary periods or for seasonal purposes;

Section 13 under the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

- (1) Every vendor of a home warrants to the owner,
- (a) that the home
 - (i) is constructed in a workmanlike manner, and is free from defects in materials.
 - (ii) is fit for human habitation, and
 - (iii) is constructed in accordance with the Ontario Building Code.
 - (b) that the home is free from major structural defects as defined by the regulations; and
 - (c) such other warranties as are prescribed by the regulations

.....

(3) the vendor of a home shall deliver to the owner a certificate specifying the date upon which the home is completed for the owner's possession and the warranties take effect from the date specified in the certificate.

(4) A warranty under subsection (1) applies only in respect of claims made thereunder within one year after the warranty takes effect, or such longer time under such conditions as are prescribed.

(6) The warranties set out in subsection (1) apply despite any agreement or waiver to the contrary and are in addition to any other rights the owner may have and to any other warranty agreed upon.

Section 14 under the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

- (1) Where,
- (a) a person who has entered into a contract with the vendor for the provision of a home has a cause of action in damages against the vendor for financial loss resulting from the bankruptcy of the vendor or the vendor's failure to perform the contract.

(b) an owner has a cause of action against a vendor for damages resulting from a breach of warranty; or

the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damage subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulations.

(2) In assessing damages the Corporation shall take into consideration any benefit, compensation or indemnity payable to the person or owner from any source.

(3) The Corporation may perform or arrange for the performance of any work in lieu of or in mitigation of damages claimed under subsection (1).

Regulation 892, Section 4, under the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

(1) Each person with a claim under the Plan shall give written notice of the claim to the Corporation

Regulation 892, Section 6, under the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

(3) In the case of a home of a type referred to in clause (a) or (b) of the definition of "home" in section 1 of the Act, the maximum amount payable to the owner out of the guarantee fund in respect of a claim made after August 1, 1989 under clause 14 (1)(b) or (c) of the Act is $100,000.00.

Regulation 892, Section 19, under the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

(19) Every vendor of a new home warrants to the purchaser that, where the vendor makes a substitution with respect to an item that is referred to in the purchase agreement that is not an item that is to be selected by the purchaser, the item will be of equal or better quality than the item referred to in the purchase agreement.

Condominium Act, Section 52 states:

(2) the purchaser, before receiving delivery of the deed to or transfer of the unit, may rescind the Agreement of purchase and sale within ten days after receiving the disclosure statement or, where there has been a material amendment thereto, within ten days after receiving the material amendment.

CASELAW:

Abdool v Somerset Place Developments of Georgetown Ltd. (1992) 10 O.R. 3d (Ontario Court of Appeal)

In this case, the plaintiff had alleged that the builder was in breach of the requirements for the Disclosure Statement of section 52(2) of the Condominium Act and that the Agreement of Purchase and Sale was not binding. It was held on appeal that the statute protects the rights of both parties and that all the other documents must be taken into account. To show that the Disclosure Statement is defective the plaintiff must show on objective standard that information was not disclosed, or was inaccurate or sufficiently disclosed that a reasonable purchaser would regard the information as important enough to the purchasing decision that they would have been unlikely to go ahead with the transaction and would have rescinded the Agreement before the end of the cooling off period.

Richards v Law Development Group (Georgetown) Ltd. (1994) O. J. No. 2914
Ontario Court Justice (General Division)

In this case the purchasers claimed that the vendor did not make full disclosure of the alterations and sought a declaration that the Agreement of purchase and sale was null together with return of their deposits and damages. The purchasers alleged that the vendor had made negligent misrepresentations that had induced them to enter into the Agreement for the purchase of a home. The action was dismissed and the counterclaim against the purchasers was allowed. The home was purchased based on a brochure, and a site plan as the condominium townhouses had not yet been built. As construction continued some changes were made, the purchasers inspected the unit prior to the closing date and implied that they would close. The changes made were not part of the Disclosure Statement but the court found that the time of entering into the agreement of purchase and sale the builder could not have had knowledge that any of the alterations were changes would be needed as they became apparent as construction took place. In paragraph 86 of the judgment, the court found that the purchasers did not buy from a model suite and had confirmed that they would "firm up to deal". The court found that the purchaser simply was dissatisfied with the purchase, and was making an effort to get out of the agreement of purchase and sale.

Eldon Weiss Home Construction Ltd. v Clark et al (1982) 39 O.R (2d) 129 (County Court)

In this case the plaintiff agreed to construct a house for the defendants, there were defects in construction which would have cost call thousand dollars to remedy, the defendant paid for thousand dollars less than the agreed price, and the defendants sold a home for the full market price despite the deficiencies. The builder sued for the balance of the purchase price and the defendant counter-claimed for damages for breach of contract. The issue facing the court was whether to assess damages on the basis of the cost of remedy in the deficiencies or on the basis of the reduction in value of the property from the market value.

To allow a recovery for the cost of a remedy in the deficiencies would have unjustly enriched the defendants and would have put them in a better position than if the contract had been performed. The court cited authorities which found that they could look to the parties actual intentions and whether they intended to proceed with the repairs if they were awarded damages. Further, the court cited McGregor on Damages 14 ed. at p. 600 where the case of Applegate v Moss (1971) 1 Q.B. 406 (C. A.) was cited, which held that:

the value of the building as it is should have been less its value as it is becomes the appropriate measure where the plaintiff sells it without remedy in the defects and the court in the Eldon Weis case held that there was no diminution in the value of the property due to the deficiencies and the defendants had not proven any damages.

Joe Florio v Ontario New Home Warranty Program (Tribunal's decision released April 14, 1999)

In this matter the Applicant purchased a house from the builder and claimed that there should have been 10 ft. high ceilings in the home which was built. It was found by the Tribunal that ceiling height was ambiguous as the plans and sketches did not deal with the issue of ceiling height. The schedule to the Agreement of Purchase and Sale referred to the ceiling heights in relation to a bungalow; however, it was not determined that the home in question was in fact a bungalow. Also, the Applicant had done some of the work on the home and used the plans himself. The issue was not raised until three months after the closing date. The Tribunal found that it was not the intention of the parties that the house have ten-foot ceilings, and the claim was dismissed.

Inderjit Singh Gandhi v Ontario New Home Warranties Program (Tribunal's decision released September 16, 1998)

In this case the Applicant claimed that the ceiling height of the Great Room was 6 ft. 8 in. rather than 8 ft. high as referred to in Schedule B of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale. The builder had made changes to the construction based on requests from Mr. Gandhi, and the result was to reduce the height of the ceiling in the Great Room. The Tribunal found no defects in workmanship or materials and that the room could perform its function. The drawings had been approved by the municipality, and based on the Agreement of Purchase and Sale the builder was permitted to make minor changes to the drawings. In this case, the changes leading to the adjustments was work done at the request of the homeowner, and it was found that the claim was not covered by the warranty as it fell under the section 13(2) exemption of the Act.

Mulveney v Ontario New Home Warranties Program (Tribunal's decision released June 24, 1997)

In this matter, the Applicant claimed that based on the advertising and promotional materials he intended to buy a home with nine foot ceilings. The ceilings were measured to be eight feet, six and a half inches in all but two areas where the ceiling height was eight feet. According to the Applicant, the ceiling height was a premium architectural feature and the reduced height affected the appearance of the window, the crown molding and the kitchen coverage, all of which were designed for a nine foot ceiling. The issues before the Tribunal were whether there had been a substitution with respect to an item referred to in the purchase agreement, if so was it of equal or better quality, and, if not, should damages be assessed. It was agreed by the parties that there was no reference to ceiling height in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale, although featured prominently in the advertising material which was designed to attract buyers.

The Tribunal found that to be considered a substitution under the Act, there must be a substitution of an item referred to in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale. Ceilings were not specifically referred to in the Agreement, and clause 33 of the Agreement precluded such representations from being considered part of the Agreement. It was found that this change in the height of the ceilings was not a substitution within the meaning of the Act and not within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal.

City of Toronto v Canadian Tire Corp. (1993) 29 O. M.B.R. (Ontario Municipal Board)

In this matter, the issue to be determined was whether the value should be assessed on the basis of objective market value approach or subjective determination. It was held that the rent must be fair and reasonable. This site was the flagship store of the company, held a historical value, and was positioned in a lucrative and highly visible market which made it a unique location. On this basis a subjective approach was used.

Thomas Bates & Son Ltd. v Wyndham's Lingerie Ltd. (1981) All E. R. 1077 Court of Appeal.

In this case, the landlord and tenant had executed a lease giving effect to their common intentions, but the document failed to provide a land review clause. The tenant was aware of the mistake on the date of the execution of the document and did not draw the landlord's attention to it. When the rent was up for review, the mistake was discovered and the landlord offered the tenants what they determined to be a market rent or arbitration. This was refused by the tenant and the matter proceeded to litigation. It was found that if the parties had a common intention and one party erroneously believed that the document gave effect to that intention, and the first party knew that the second party was unaware of the mistake and did not bring it to their attention, the court would not permit them to benefit from it. It was not necessary for the plaintiff to show that the defendant was guilty of sharp practice.

Halterm Ltd. v Her Majesty the Queen (1984) F.C.J. No. 125

In this matter, the issue involved the amount of rent to be paid for a twenty year lease. It was found by the court that there was not an inflexible rule that the objective market test must be used. The wording of the document, as well as the nature of the lease must be taken into account.

Strata Corp. NW 1714 et al v Winkler (1987) 45 D.L.R. (4th) 741 (British Columbia Court of Appeal)

In this case, the builder failed to properly construct a concrete floor and waterproof the walls. The building was still found to be serviceable and at trial the plaintiff was awarded a small award of $12,000 as the cost of patching the waterproofing. The cost of bringing the work into conformity with the contract was in excess of $170,000. At trial, the judge found that the cost of bringing the building into conformity with the contract would grossly exceed any benefit which would be obtained from the repairs being carried out. It was clear that the plaintiff had not carried out the repairs and did not intend to spend any money from the settlement in bringing the building up to the specifications in the contract. The issue on appeal was the level of damages to be awarded. The court adopted the reasoning that there are cases where damages for the default are to be measured by the costs of repairing the defect but this will be done only where the cost of performing the work is less than the reduction in the property value due to the default. If the plaintiffs were to be given damages for the cost of repairs, did not carry out those repairs, and the reduction in the value of the building was less than the cost of repairs, this would result in a windfall for them and would not be appropriate damages. The appeal was dismissed.

Ceolaro v York Humber Ltd.. (March 29, 1994) (Ontario Court Justice General Division)

In this matter, a parcel of land was developed in an area that had been a sewage treatment plant. There were issues of whether the site had been properly developed given its earlier use and whether the disclosure document was adequate for the condominium project. It was found that the test for information required in the disclosure statement is objective. The question is whether a reasonable purchaser would regard the information as so important that he or she would be unlikely to have completed the transaction.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The Applicants have not proven that there is a material loss in value of the home as a result of the builder failing to provide nine foot ceilings in the two rooms as contemplated by the parties prior to construction.

Paragraph 42 of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale as amended by the parties at the request of Mr. Whitham allowed changes that did not materially affect the value of the property. There is no evidence that the home is quantifiably of less market value in its present state than it would have been if it had been built with the nine foot ceilings. The changes did not, therefore, materially effect the value of the property, and were permitted pursuant to paragraph 42 of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale.

Nine foot ceilings are not specifically listed as a feature in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale, and changes were permitted as required during construction. Even if the nine foot ceilings had been listed as a feature in the Agreement of Purchase and Sale, there would still be the fact that there is no proof of an actual loss in the market value of the unit.

This Tribunal has jurisdiction to deal with a quantifiable loss in the value of the property caused by a breach of contract, a breach of warranty, or a defect in workmanship. The Tribunal finds that there is no breach of contract or warranty as or any defect in workmanship or materials as contemplated by the Act. Any loss that may have been suffered by the Applicants due to the ceiling heights would be in the nature of general damages based on a loss of enjoyment which is outside the jurisdiction of this Tribunal.

DECISION:

By virtue of the authority vested in it under s. 16 (3) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program to disallow the claim.

SASSON, JUDA o/a SADDON MOTORS

JUDA SASSON O/A SASSON MOTORS

APPEAL FROM A PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR UNDER
THE MOTOR VEHICLE DEALERS ACT

TO REVOKE REGISTRATION

TRIBUNAL: DEREK ISRAEL, Vice-Chair

APPEARANCES: JUDA SASSON, representing himself
MITCHELL GOLDBLOOM, Counsel representing the Registrar under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act

DATES OF HEARING: April 4 & 5, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

Juda Sasson ("Sasson") appealed to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) the written proposal of the Registrar of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Act") to revoke Sasson's registration as a motor vehicle dealer. The date of the Registrar's proposal is December 29, 1999.

The Proposal of the Registrar reads as follows:

REASONS

The intention and objective of the Act is to protect the public interest, The requirements of the Act include that Registrant be financially responsible In the conduct of business and that Registrants carry on business in accordance with the law and with integrity and honesty. The Dealer's past conduct is inconsistent with the intention and objective of the Act, and therefore warrants disentanglement to registration under the Act. Therefore, the Registrar is unwilling to continue to register the Dealer under the Act.

PARTICULARS

The reasons for this proposal are:

- 1) The Dealer is a sole proprietor, which has been registered as a motor vehicle dealer since on or about December 9, 1991. The Dealer's current registered business premises is 26-855 Alness Street, Downsview, Ontario.
- 2) On or about August 19, 1999, OMVIC received a complaint from a consumer (Jennifer Gibson) regarding a 1992 Toyota Tercel, VIN # JT2EL43E0N0140674, indicating that the bill of sale provided by the Dealer did not disclose the odometer reading. At the time of purchase of the vehicle, the odometer reading was 115,004 Kms. Upon checking the history of the vehicle, Ms. Gibson determined that that (sic) the distance travelled by the vehicle [was] significantly higher than was represented to the consumer. When the Dealer purchased the vehicle on May 15, 1999, the odometer reading was 174,091 Kms. The Dealer failed to provide the consumer with a bill of sale containing the information as required by the Act.

- 3) On or about October 7, 1999, OMVIC received a complaint from a consumer (Heather Maclashen) regarding a 1990 Acura Integra, VIN # JH4DB1549LS801692, indicating that the bill of sale provided by the Dealer did not disclose the odometer reading. At the time of purchase of the vehicle, the odometer reading was 132,112 Kms. Upon checking the history of the vehicle, Ms. Maclashen determined that that (sic) the distance travelled by the vehicle [was] significantly higher than was represented to the consumer. When the Dealer purchased the vehicle on August 12, 1999, the odometer reading was 197,000 Kms. The Dealer failed to provide the consumer with a bill of sale containing the information as required by the Act.
- 4) On or about October 15 & 22, 1999, an inspector, duly appointed pursuant to the Act attended at the business premises and met with the Dealer and obtained the books and records of the Dealer.
- 5) An examination of the history of the vehicles purchased and sold by the Dealer revealed the following:
 - a) a consumer (John Tweedle) purchased from the Dealer a 1989 Toyota Tercel VIN# JT2FL32G9K035222 on or about March 17, 1998. The Dealer failed to provide the consumer with a bill of sale containing the information as required by the Act. When the consumer purchased the vehicle, the odometer reading was 119,361 Kms. However, when the Dealer purchased the vehicle on November 11, 1998, the odometer reading was 168,186 Kms; a consumer (Anthony George) purchased from the Dealer a 1991 Mazda 626 VIN# 1YVGD22A1M515220 on or about April 13, 1999. The Dealer failed to provide the consumer with a bill of sale containing the information as required by the Act. When the consumer purchased the vehicle, the odometer reading was approximately 127,000 Kms. However, when the Dealer purchased the vehicle on March 17, 1999, the odometer reading was 225,633 Kms;
 - b) a consumer (Keniweimo Ajoko) purchased from the Dealer a 1993 Honda Civic VIN# 1YVGL022A5N5214877 or about February 2, 1999. The Dealer failed to provide the consumer with a bill of sale containing the information as required by the Act. When the consumer purchased the vehicle, the odometer reading was 114,644 Kms. However, when the Dealer purchased the vehicle on September 9, 1998, the odometer reading was 148,029 Kms. The consumer came to see the Dealer as a result of an advertisement indicating that the vehicle had 111,000 Kms;
 - c) a consumer (Tanveer Sayed) purchased from the Dealer a 1992 Mazda Protégé VIN# JM1 BG2238NO453216 on or about April 22, 1999. The Dealer failed to provide the consumer with a bill of sale containing the information as required by the Act. When the consumer purchased the vehicle, the odometer reading was 120,116 Kms. However, when the Dealer purchased the vehicle on March 31, 1999, the odometer reading was 179,375 Kms. The Dealer further represented to Lubrico Warranty Inc. that the odometer reading was 120,116 Kms and failed to disclose the total distance travelled;
 - d) a consumer (Michel Constantino) purchased from the Dealer a 1990 Honda Accord VIN# 1HGCB7564LAD69626 on or about June 8, 1999. The Dealer failed to advise the consumer that the vehicle was "Branded Rebuilt" despite receiving notice on the bill of sale when the Dealer purchased the vehicle on June 2, 1999. The Dealer failed to provide the consumer with a bill of sale containing the information as required by the Act;

e) a consumer (Branko Vrbaneck) purchased from the Dealer a 1990 Honda Prelude VIN# JHMB44155LC803556 on or about June 18, 1999. The Dealer failed to provide the consumer with a bill of sale containing the information as required by the Act. When the consumer purchased the vehicle, the odometer reading was approximately 117,000 Kms, However, when the Dealer purchased the vehicle on May 13, 1999, the odometer reading was 187,674 Kms. The consumer has experienced sever mechanical difficulties with the vehicle;

f) a consumer (Kenneth Cutler) purchased from the Dealer a 1993 Honda Civic VIN# 2HGEH2366PH000103 on or about August 3, 1999, The Dealer failed to provide the consumer with a bill of sale containing the information as required by the Act. When the consumer purchased the vehicle, the odometer reading was approximately 111,528 Kms. However, when the Dealer purchased the vehicle on July 8, 1999, the odometer reading was 211,000 Kms. The consumer came to see the Dealer as a result of an advertisement indicating that the vehicle had 111,000 Kms, The Dealer further represented to Lubrico Warranty Inc. that the odometer reading was 111,578 Kms and failed to disclose the total distance travelled

6) An examination of the books and record revealed that the Dealer failed on three contracts to complete the odometer section on the bill of sale contrary to the Act. These three (sic) contracts are:

- a) sale to Ameer Alimuddin of 1990 Honda Civic VIN # JHMED3642LS811618 on or about March 19;
- b) sale to Anthony Corbin of a 1989 Toyota Camry VIN JT2VY22F9K002951 on or about June 14, 1999
- c) sale to Robin Goswami of a 1990 Honda Accord VIN JHMCB7655LC820790 on or about July 2, 1999; and
- d) 1999 sale to Jason Power of a 1990 Honda Civic LX VIN # JHMED3508LS801903 on or about March 29, 1999.

THE LAW:

The Proposal of the Registrar was issued in terms of Section 7(1) of the Act, which reads as follows:

7(1) Where the Registrar proposes to refuse to grant or renew a registration or proposes to suspend or revoke a registration, the Registrar shall serve notice of the proposal, together with written reasons thereof, on the applicant or registrant

The Registrar bases his proposal upon Section 5(1)(b) and (d) of the Act, which reads as follows:

5(1) An applicant is entitled to registration or renewal of registration by the Registrar except where,

.....

(b) the past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and integrity and honesty; or

.....

(d) the applicant is carrying on activities that are, or will be, if the applicant is registered, in contravention of this Act or the regulations.

The Registrar takes the position that Sasson's registration should be revoked as the past conduct of Sasson affords reasonable grounds for the Registrar's belief that the business will not be carried on in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty.

There is no dispute that Sasson is registered as a motor vehicle dealer and presently operates at 266-855 Alness Street, Downsview, Ontario, which is the approved location of the business. It is also not in dispute that Sasson is the sole proprietor of the business.

THE EVIDENCE:

The evidence adduced by the Registrar was both verbal and documentary. The evidence hereunder follows the order in which the evidence was adduced at the hearing.

ITEM 2 IN THE PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR - 1992 TOYOTA TERCEL MOTOR VEHICLE - JENNIFER GIBSON

Donald Gibson, the father of Jennifer Gibson stated in his testimony that he assisted his daughter in her quest for a second hand motor vehicle. Mr. Gibson had seen an advertisement for a Toyota Tercel motor vehicle in motor publication called the Auto Trader. The advertiser was Sasson. He called upon Sasson, spoke with him and inspected the Tercel motor vehicle. He explained to Sasson that he was looking for a reliable vehicle for his daughter and Sasson advised him that the Tercel was a "good car". Mr. Gibson sat in the driver's seat of the Tercel and took note of the vehicle's odometer reading which was slightly over 115,000 kms. Mr. Gibson left after inspecting the vehicle. He arranged with his daughter Jennifer to return to view the vehicle with Jennifer. On August 9, 1999, both Jennifer and her father met at Sasson Motors, spoke with Sasson and inspected the Tercel. Jennifer stated in her testimony that she was happy with the vehicle which she needed to travel to and from work. She lives in Oshawa and works in Yorkdale Mall, Downsview. Mr. Gibson and Sasson settled on a purchase price of $5,230.00 plus taxes. Jennifer stated that when she inspected the Tercel vehicle she noted that the odometer registered a few kilometers over 115,000 kms. She was not sure of its exact reading.

Both Mr. Gibson and Jennifer stated that the Bill of Sale in respect of the Tercel had already been completed by Sasson when it was placed before Jennifer for her signature. However, Jennifer noted that there was nothing filled in on the Bill of Sale where the words "Distance Travelled" appeared. Jennifer queried this omission and on the instructions of Sasson was told to write in the words "It doesn't matter". She did so as she trusted Sasson.

Already written in on the Bill of Sale in Sasson's handwriting under the heading "Notice to Buyer" were the words "buyer is not interested in how many kilometers are on the car". When she and her father left the dealership neither was given a copy of the Bill of Sale. All they were given was a form of receipt which indicated the purchase price of the vehicle and what has been paid for it.

After taking delivery of the vehicle Mr. Gibson felt uneasy about its mechanical condition. He caused enquiries to be made from a recent past owner of the vehicle who told Mr. Gibson of past problems with the Tercel and suggested that the Toyota dealership in Burlington be contacted for details. Mr. Gibson then spoke with the dealership and during the discussion with them was shocked to learn of the distance travelled by it according to the dealership's records. He was told that as at May 1998 it had a recorded 161,000 kms on it's odometer. This revelation, as well as the fact that the vehicle had by then required quite extensive mechanical repairs, caused Mr. Gibson to speak with the Ontario Motor Vehicle Council (OMVIC) which then commenced an investigation.

Mathew McKenzie an investigator at OMVIC who testified at the hearing stated he was handed the matter for further investigation. He discovered that the vehicle had been purchased by Sasson at a dealer's auction conducted by Canadian Auction Group. That auction had taken place on May 26, 1999, when Sasson had purchased the Tercel. The odometer reading of the Tercel when it was purchased by Sasson reflected that the vehicle had travelled 174,293 kms. McKenzie obtained from Sasson a copy of the Bill of Sale when Sasson sold the Tercel to Jennifer Gibson. McKenzie then forwarded that copy of the Bill of Sale to the Gibsons who stated they were shocked when they saw upon that copy that after the words " buyer is not interested in how many kilometers are on the car" there had been added "174,392 kms". Both Mr. Gibson and Jennifer denied that the latter words were on the Bill of Sale when Jennifer signed same. Jennifer during her evidence tendered a photograph, which she stated she had taken of the Tercel's odometer reading about one month after she purchased the vehicle and which photograph (Exhibit 3) reflected a reading of 128,317 kms.

ITEM 5(B) IN THE PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR - 1992 MAZDA 626 - KENIWEIMO AJOKO

The next witness for the Registrar was Keniweimo Ajoko who stated in evidence that he saw an advertisement in the Auto Trader publication. This advertisement was for a 1992 Mazda 626 motor vehicle and had been placed in the publication by Sasson. Ajoko went to Sasson Motors to inspect the Mazda. He spoke with Sasson and inspected the Mazda. He noted that the odometer on the vehicle indicated a figure in the vicinity of 114,000 kms.

Ajoko agreed to pay Sasson $5,700.00 plus tax as the purchase price for this motor vehicle. The Bill of Sale presented by Sasson to Ajoko already had the following words noted on that Bill - "Buyer is not interested in how many kilometers are on the car". Ajoko stated that where the words "distance travelled" appeared on the Bill of Sale, Sasson had written in 114,644 kms.

Mr. Ajoko signed the Bill of Sale, which was dated February 8, 1999, but he was not given a copy of the Bill when he left after purchasing the vehicle.

Ajoko also purchased through Sasson a Lubrico power train warranty for the Mazda motor vehicle at the same time he purchased the vehicle. Sasson completed the application form for the Lubrico warranty and also signed that form as the dealer who sold the vehicle. On that application form it stated that the Mazda vehicle had a "current reading" on its odometer of 114,644 kms.

Mathew McKenzie of OMVIC stated that during the course of his investigation of Sasson he came across the copy of the Bill of Sale of the Mazda and copy of the Lubrico warranty application. When OMVIC sent copies of these documents to Ajoko the latter noted for the first time that after the words "buyer is not interested in how many kilometers are on the car" appeared the words "143,189". Ajoko stated that these words were not on the Bill when he signed it. He went to see Sasson and remonstrated with him. He then came to an agreement with Sasson whereby Ajoko agreed to sell the Mazda back to Sasson in return for Sasson refunding Ajoko $4,500.00. The vehicle was then left for two weeks with Sasson in order for Sasson to sell it and refund the $4,500.00 to Ajoko. However, when Ajoko called upon Sasson after two weeks for the $4,500.00, the car had not been sold and Ajoko was obliged to take back the Mazda and was not paid the $4,500.00.

Further evidence was given by Mathew McKenzie to the effect that OMVIC had obtained certain documents and information pertaining to the vehicle following its investigation. OMVIC obtained from Sasson's records, a copy of the auction Bill of Sale when Sasson purchased the vehicle. This Bill of Sale reflects that Sasson had purchased the Mazda through Canadian Auction Group on September 9, 1998 and that the odometer reading on the Mazda at the time of the auction was 148,029 kms.

A further witness on this particular issue was Joan Amanfoli, who stated she was present when Ajoko called upon Sasson and signed the Bill of Sale for the Mazda. She stated that she saw the Bill of Sale that Ajoko signed and was quite sure that such Bill when signed did not contain the figures and words "143,189 kms" after the words in the Bill that "the buyer is not interested in how many kilometers are on the car".

ITEM 3 IN THE PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR - 1990 ACURA INTEGRA - HEATHER MACLASHEN

Heather MacLashen testified that she works at the Brampton Motor Vehicle Licence office.

MacLashen stated in testimony that she called at Sasson's premises and there inspected the Acura motor vehicle that she subsequently purchased from Sasson. On the first occasion that she saw the Acura she test-drove it. She liked the car and returned later to put down a deposit of $300.00 on the car. On August 24, 1999, MacLashen returned to Sasson and paid him the balance of the purchase price of the vehicle. On that day she was presented with a Bill of Sale by Sasson for her signature. On reading the Bill of Sale she noted the words "buyer is not interested in how many kilometers are on the car". MacLashen told Sasson the amount of kilometers travelled by the car was important to her and she then noted on the Bill of Sale alongside "Distance Travelled" the figures "132,112" and ticked the letters to "Km" printed behind those figures. She placed her initials alongside the additions she had made.

After completing the purchase MacLashen began feeling uneasy regarding the kilometers the car may have been driven. She decided to investigate this aspect.

During her investigation she spoke with a motor dealer in the building next door to Sasson's business. MacLashen was told by this dealer that to his knowledge three people who purchased vehicles from Sasson had returned their purchases due to incorrectly stated distances on the odometers of the vehicles they bought from Sasson. She also spoke to other motor dealers who had their businesses near to Sasson's. One of these dealers apparently alerted Sasson to MacLashen's enquiries and Sasson telephoned her and offered to take back the car if she was not happy with it. At that time MacLashen advised Sasson that she had not decided what to do. However, she then ordered a kit from the Ministry of Transportation regarding the history of the vehicle and from the information in that kit she managed to contact and speak with a previous owner of the car. This person told MacLashen he had traded in the vehicle when its odometer read 205,000 kms. When this information came to MacLashen's notice she contacted Sasson, and he made a full refund to her of the purchase price and took the vehicle back.

Mathew McKenzie of OMVIC testified that he investigated this allegation. He stated he obtained certain documents and records concerning the vehicle from which he learned that Sasson had purchased it at a dealer's auction held in Kitchener, Ontario. The Bill of Sale relating to that sale was dated August 12, 1999, and it reflected that the vehicle was sold on that day to Sasson. On the auction Bill of sale, the odometer of the vehicle was recorded as 197,000 kms. McKenzie also stated that according to the records of the Ministry of Transportation there was a Safety Standard Certificate issued in respect of a previous sale of this vehicle. That certificate which was issued on June 3, 1997, indicated that the odometer reading of the vehicle at that date was 181,510 kms.

ITEM 5(C) IN THE PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR - 1992 MAZDA PROTÉGÉ - TANVEER SAYED

Tanveer Sayed testified that while he was out of Canada his brother, at Sayed's request, bought a motor vehicle for him from Sasson. He had received a telephone call from his brother while he was out of the country and advised that his brother had seen a Mazda Protégé with 120,000 kms on it and that it appeared to be clean car. Sayed authorized his brother to purchase the car on his behalf. On April 22, 1999, his brother signed a Bill of Sale on behalf of Sayed and paid Sasson on Sayed's behalf the purchase price for the Mazda Protégé.

Sayed's brother, Urfan Sayed did not testify at the hearing but did furnish a letter to OMVIC which was placed before the Tribunal at the hearing. This letter stated that Urfan had seen an advertisement in the Auto Trader in which Sasson had advertised a Mazda Protégé for sale. Urfan called upon Sasson at his premises on April 22, 1999 and saw the vehicle.

He checked "the mileage" which was "120,116 kms" according to the vehicle's odometer. He drove the vehicle and after deciding to purchase the vehicle for his brother he paid the purchase price to Sasson. On April 22, 1999, when he signed the Bill of Sale he also signed an application for a power train warranty with Lubrico. He took delivery of the vehicle the next day.

When Urfan signed the Bill of Sale he contended that the Bill contained the hand-written words "buyer is not interested in how many kilometers are on the car". There was nothing filled in on the Bill of Sale as to "Distance Travelled" by the vehicle.

Mathew McKenzie of OMVIC testified that when investigating Sasson and inspecting Sasson's records he came across the Lubrico power train warranty application dated April 22, 1999, which had been signed by Sasson as the selling dealer. On that application the vehicle's current odometer reading was stated to be 120,116 kms. McKenzie also stated that in the records of Sasson was a copy of the Bill of Sale regarding Sasson's purchase of the Mazda at the auction. That Bill was issued by Canadian Auction Group which auctioned the vehicle and reflected that the date of sale to Sasson was March 31, 1999 and the vehicle's odometer reading was then 179,375 kms.

Sayed stated in his evidence that when he was contacted by McKenzie, it was the first occasion he was made aware of the different odometer readings. He stated that had he known the vehicle had an odometer reading of 180,000 kms he would not have purchased the vehicle from Sasson.

Finally, Sayed stated that he had recently called upon Sasson, and Sasson had agreed to repurchase the vehicle from him. Pursuant to that agreement, Sasson refunded the purchase that Sayed had paid when purchasing the vehicle in April 1999.

ITEM 5(F) IN THE PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR - 1993 - HONDA CIVIC - KENNETH CUTLER

Mathew McKenzie of OMVIC testified in regard to this matter. McKenzie stated that he had met with Cutler and interviewed him. He also had correspondence with Cutler who did not testify at the hearing.

McKenzie stated that Cutler had informed OMVIC that he had seen an advertisement in the Auto Trader publication in which a 1993 Honda Civic was advertised for sale by Sasson. The advertisement stated the Honda had travelled 111,000 kms. Cutler called upon Sasson, inspected the vehicle and came to an agreement regarding price. When paying Sasson the purchase price, Sasson presented Cutler with a Bill of Sale for signature. Cutler enquired why the bill had nothing written in the space following the printed words "Distance Travelled". At the insistence of Sasson, Cutler filled in the words "doesn't matter" in the blank space. He told Cutler that the vehicle had only had one owner and therefore it could not have a high mileage. When Cutler signed the Bill of Sale there were no kilometers entered after the words "buyer not interested in how many kilometers are on the car". Cutler was not given a copy of the Bill of Sale after signing.

McKenzie stated he made investigations in this matter and found that Sasson had purchased the Honda on July 8, 1999 at a dealer's auction conducted by Kitchener Auto Auction. On the copy of the Bill of Sale of Kitchener Auto Auction relative to the vehicle's sale to Sasson on July 8, 1999, the distance travelled by the Honda was recorded as 211,000 kms. Thereafter on August 8, 1999, the Honda was sold to Cutler by Sasson. The Safety Standard Certificate dated August 3, 1999 relating to the Honda reflected an odometer reading at date of inspection of the vehicle as 111,578 kms.

McKenzie further stated that a Lubrico warranty regarding the vehicle's power train was purchased by Cutler when he purchased the vehicle from Sasson. The application for warranty protection by Lubrico was signed by Sasson as selling dealer and on that application the odometer's current reading was given as 111,578 although that reading did not indicate whether that was kilometers or miles.

ITEM 5(D) IN THE PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR - 1990 HONDA ACCORD - MICHEL CONSTANTINO

Mary Jane South the Director of Operations and Deputy Registrar under the Act addressed this matter in her evidence. Constantino was not called by OMVIC to testify.

Ms. South referred to the copy Bill of Sale before the Tribunal regarding the purchase by Sasson of the Honda vehicle on June 2, 1999. Sasson purchased the Honda at a dealers' auction conducted by the Canadian Auction Group. Written on the face of that Bill of Sale are the words "Branded Rebuilt". Ms. South stated that those words when used in the industry mean that the vehicle is a severely damaged vehicle and can only be put back on the road if it has been rebuilt and repaired by a licenced motor repair facility and certified by a licenced structural inspection station. When reselling a vehicle that has been "branded rebuilt", that information must be disclosed to a purchaser. This Sasson failed to do.

EVIDENCE OF OMVIC REPRESENTATIVES GENERALLY

Mathew McKenzie during the course of his evidence noted that as far back as May 11, 1995, Sasson was served with an Inspection Deficiency Notice by the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations. That notice required Sasson to correctly and fully complete sales contracts as was apparently discussed with Sasson by a Compliance Officer that visited him.

McKenzie pointed out that upon investigating Sasson it came to his notice that there were other allegations of odometer tampering besides the ones attested to by the consumer's during these proceedings. He pointed to a number of Bills of Sale seized by OMVIC from Sasson's business which the Bills either failed to reflect the distance travelled by certain vehicles, or reflected sales to consumers in which the odometers read less when sold by Sasson than the vehicle's odometer read at the time Sasson purchased such motor vehicle.

Mary Jane South, Director testified to the Act being a consumer protection statute and pointed out that the Registrar looks upon odometer tampering as one of the worst situations that can occur when a consumer purchases a vehicle. Not only does it affect the consumer who made the purchase, but it also has long term effects in that subsequent purchasers are affected. Ms. South also pointed to numerous Bills of Sale completed by Sasson that failed to comply with the Act in honestly and fully disclosing the distance travelled by the various vehicles.

EVIDENCE OF SASSON

Sasson gave evidence at the hearing. He stated that in the approximate ten years that he has been a motor vehicle dealer he has had no complaints registered against him.

He further stated that at the end of 1998 he met people "that were criminals" and who threatened him and forced him to permit them to turn back the odometers on vehicles he was to sell. He agreed to permit them to turn back the odometers and paid cash for their services in each instance. He was afraid not to comply with their demands as they threatened him physically. Eventually, however, he found the courage to discontinue his association with these people and he testified that he has not seen them since that time.

He further contended that he did tell his customers the true mileage of the vehicles he sold to them.

Sasson also stated that he is 67 years of age, that he has a heart condition that requires monitoring on a daily basis and that the proceedings before the Tribunal have negative implications on his health. He also referred the Tribunal to some letters of commendation from various individuals as well as a Rabbi who has known him for many years and who stated that Sasson is naïve and too trusting of people.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The following are the facts found by the Tribunal to have been proven:

- 1) Sasson is a motor vehicle dealer, registered as such under the Act and has carried on business as a registered dealer since 1989.
- 2) Sasson sold a 1992 Toyota Tercel to Jennifer Gibson in August 1999, at which time Sasson knew that the distance travelled as displayed on that vehicle's odometer was false and that the true distance travelled by that vehicle was at least 60,000 kms in excess of the 115,000 kms displayed on the vehicle's odometer at the time of its sale to Gibson.
- 3) Sasson sold a 1992 Mazda 626 motor vehicle Keniweimo Ajoko in February 1999, at which time Sasson knew that the distance travelled by the vehicle as displayed on the vehicle's odometer was false and that the true distance travelled by the vehicle was at least 29,000 kms in excess of the 114,644 kms displayed on the vehicle's odometer at the time of its sale to Ajoko.
- 4) Sasson sold a 1990 Acura Integra motor vehicle to Heather MacLashen in August 1999 at which time Sasson knew that the distance travelled by that vehicle as displayed on the vehicle's odometer was false and that the true distance was at least 70,000 kms in excess of the 132,112 kms displayed on the vehicle's odometer at the time of its sale to MacLashen.
- 5) Sasson sold a 1992 Mazda Protégé motor vehicle to Tanveer Sayed in April 1999 at which time, Sasson knew the distance travelled by that vehicle as displayed on the vehicle's odometer was false and that the true distance travelled by the vehicle was at least 60,000 kms in excess of the 120,116 kms displayed on the vehicle's odometer at the time of its sale to Sayed.

- 6) Sasson sold a 1993 Honda Civic motor vehicle to Kenneth Cutler at which time Sasson knew that the distance travelled as displayed on that vehicle's odometer was false and that the true distance travelled by that vehicle was at least 100,000 kms in excess of the 111,578 kilometers displayed on the vehicle's odometer at the time of its sale to Cutler.
- 7) Mathew McKenzie an inspector with OMVIC obtained certain books and records from Sasson relating to the various allegations made by the Program in its Proposal.
- 8) Sasson, having bought a 1990 Honda Accord motor vehicle at a dealers auction held by Canadian Auction Group on or about June 2, 1999, sold such motor vehicle to Michel Constantino on June 8, 1999 without disclosing to Constantino that he had purchased the vehicle at an auction as "branded rebuilt".
- 9) Sasson failed to provide purchasers Jennifer Gibson, Heather MacLashen and Kenneth Cutler with a copy of their respective Bills of Sale relating to the motor vehicle each had purchased from Sasson.

DECISION AND REASONS:

The onus of proof in this matter rests upon the Registrar to prove that the past conduct of the Applicant constitutes reasonable grounds for the Registrar's belief that the Applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty and that, accordingly, the Registrar is entitled under Section 7 of the Act to revoke the Applicant's registration as a motor vehicle dealer under the Act.

The Registrar bases his proposal to revoke registration principally, but not solely, on allegations that Sasson falsely represented to various purchasers that the odometer readings on the motor vehicles they purchased from Sasson were to the knowledge of Sasson, false in that they did not reflect the true distance the vehicles had travelled.

There are numerous allegations of the above nature in the Registrar's Proposal. A brief analysis of such allegations is set out hereunder.

1) JENNIFER GIBSON

The evidence of Jennifer Gibson and her father, Donald Gibson was clear and given in a straightforward manner. The Tribunal accepts that Jennifer Gibson purchased a Toyota Tercel from Sasson believing that it had travelled a distance of 115,000 kilometers whereas in truth and in fact it had travelled over 174,000 kms. The evidence leaves no doubt in the Tribunal's mind that Sasson not only knew that the Tercel had travelled 174,000 or more kilometers, but that he deliberately suppressed this information from the Gibsons and was intent on misleading them. Sasson did not dispute that he had misled the Gibsons and there was no evidence before the Tribunal that contradicted the Gibson's evidence. The additional 60,000 kms that the vehicle had been driven was significant. There is no doubt in the Tribunal's mind that Sasson knew that the vehicle he was selling to Jennifer Gibson had an odometer reading of 174,293 kilometers when he purchased that vehicle on an auction. It is clearly stated on the auctioneer's Bill of Sale. By Sasson suppressing that information he committed a fraud on Jennifer Gibson and on all possible subsequent buyers of the vehicle.

2) KENIWEIMO AJOKO

The evidence of Ajoko was given in a forthright manner. He was clearly distressed and indignant at what had occurred. He believed he bought a vehicle that had travelled 114,644 kms. That was not the truth. Apart from the evidence of Ajoko being acceptable and credible the documentary evidence tendered by the Registrar supports Ajoko's version of events. The Lubrico application form for warranty coverage for the vehicle's power train was signed by Sasson as the selling dealer. The application form was also prepared as to detail by Sasson. At no time did he deny that he signed or prepared the application form. The application form states quite clearly that the vehicle in question had a "current" odometer reading of 114,644 kms. The disclosure of this figure is in direct contradiction to what is noted on the auctioneer's Bill of Sale when Sasson bought the vehicle. The auction Bill of Sale recorded an odometer reading of 148,029. Sasson did not deny having attempted to buy back the car from Ajoko for $4,500.00. Had Sasson believed that he was innocent of the allegations levelled against him, regarding the distance the car had been driven there would have been no reason for Sasson to attempt to buy back the vehicle.

3) HEATHER MACLASHEN

The evidence of Ms. MacLashen was not disputed by Sasson. Here again Sasson, as in the other deals that came before the Tribunal, deliberately tried to mislead MacLashen as to the true position of the distance travelled by the vehicle she purchased. Because MacLashen works in a motor vehicle Licence office, she was alert to the fact that she could obtain information from the Ministry of Transportation as to the history of the vehicle she was purchasing from Sasson. She was tenacious in her endeavours to attain the truth of how far the vehicle had been driven. Her efforts yielded results, for it was evident that when Sasson discovered from another dealer that MacLashen was investigating, he immediately offered to buy back the vehicle which he ultimately did repurchase.

Investigations undertaken by OMVIC revealed to investigator McKenzie that on the auctioneer's Bill of Sale when the vehicle was purchased at auction by Sasson, it was clearly written that the vehicle had travelled 197,000 kms. That purchase by Sasson took place on August 8, 1999. Sasson signed the auctioneer's Bill of Sale which revealed the vehicle's odometer reading at 197,000 kms. There is no doubt in the Tribunal's mind that Sasson was cognizant of that odometer reading and yet, some twelve days later he sold the vehicle to MacLashen with its odometer reading 132,112 kms. The only inference the Tribunal can draw from the evidence is that Sasson caused the odometer to be turned back after he had purchased the vehicle.

4) TANVEER SAYED

Sayed, who was represented by his brother, bought a Mazda Protégé vehicle. At the time of the signing of the Bill of Sale, that document did not contain any reference to "distance travelled". The portion of the Bill of Sale that referred to the distance travelled had been left blank. However, as with so many other Bills of Sale, this Bill stated "buyer is not interested in how many kilometers are on the car". Nevertheless, on inspecting the vehicle, Sayed's brother maintains he had observed the odometer's reading at 120,116 kms and it was this low figure that influenced Sayed to purchase the vehicle. However, as a result of OMVIC's investigation, it was discovered that Sasson had purchased the vehicle on March 31, 1999 at a motor dealer's auction conducted by Canadian Auction Group. The Bill of Sale issued by the auctioneer disclosed the odometer reading as 179,375 kms. Approximately three weeks later on April 22, 1999, Sayed's brother observed the odometer reading to be 120,116 kms. The clear inference to be drawn is that the odometer had been turned back after Sasson purchased the vehicle and before Sayed's brother inspected it. This inference is further strengthened by virtue of the fact that when Sayed confronted Sasson after he found out the true picture regarding the odometer reading, Sasson repurchased the vehicle and repaid the purchase price paid by Sayed.

5) KENNETH CUTLER

Cutler did not personally attend and testify before the Tribunal but McKenzie of OMVIC did testify. While McKenzie's evidence was to a large extent hearsay, the Tribunal is entitled to allow such evidence, subject to the appropriate weight being attached by the Tribunal to such evidence.

The evidence advanced in regard to this allegation once again reflects a pattern of actions and conduct by Sasson in his dealings with purchasers. As in the allegations of Jennifer Gibson, Cutler was directed to write in the words "doesn't matter" where the distance travelled by the vehicle should have been recorded by Sasson. Once again, as with other Bills of Sale, this Bill contains the sentence "buyer not interested in how many kilometers on the car". Again, Cutler contends as did other purchasers that he was not given a copy of the Bill of Sale by Sasson after it had been signed. And, again, the vehicle involved in this transaction was bought by Sasson at a dealer's auction and the vehicle's odometer reading was disclosed on the auction Bill of Sale as 211,000 kms.

As with other allegations made by various purchasers against Sasson, the distance travelled by the vehicle since Sasson acquired the vehicle had gone down. In this case, that distance diminished from 211,000 kms when Sasson purchased the vehicle at auction to some 110,000 kms when Sasson sold the vehicle to Cutler. Such evidence leaves no doubt in the Tribunal's mind that Sasson caused the vehicle's odometer to be turned back after he purchased it and before he sold it to Cutler.

6) MICHEL CONSTANTINO

Sasson did not dispute that when he bought the 1990 Honda Accord it was noted on the auctioneer's Bill of Sale that the vehicle was "Branded Rebuilt". Sasson had been in the industry for some ten years. From the many purchases of vehicles he had made at auction sales as reflected in the evidence adduced at this hearing, he was familiar with salvage or damaged vehicles that are sold at dealer's auction. Equally, there is either doubt that Sasson knew that the words "Branded Rebuilt" indicated damage to the vehicle and that this information should be brought to the attention of the buyer of that vehicle when he resells it. The resale Bill of Sale makes no reference to the condition of the car. Failure to do so deprived the purchaser of relevant information so as to enable such purchaser to make an informed decision as to whether or not to purchase and whether the asking price is a reasonable one. Non-disclosure reflects a lack of honesty and integrity on the part of Sasson.

SECTIONS 16(2) AND 16(7) OF REGULATION 801

In addition to the odometer allegations and the allegations under the Constantino heading above, which all involve the question of carrying on business in accordance with honesty and integrity, there are also allegations against Sasson that he failed to comply with the Act and its regulations.

Section 16(2) of Regulation 801, to the Act specifies what information shall appear on a sale or purchase order including the distance travelled by the vehicle at the time of sale. It is clear from copies of the Bills of Sale of vehicles sold to Jennifer Gibson, Tanveer Sayed and Kenneth Cutler that there was no disclosure by Sasson of the distance travelled by such vehicles.

Further Sasson failed to comply with Section 16(7) of Regulation 801 to the Act when he failed to give to various purchasers a duplicate original copy of sale orders. From the evidence of Jennifer Gibson, Heather MacLashen, Keniweimo Ajoko and Tanveer Sayed, it is apparent that Sasson failed to give these purchasers their copies of the Bill of Sale relating to the vehicle each had purchased.

The Tribunal therefore finds that Sasson breached Sections 16(2) and 16(7) of Regulation 801 to the Act in the instances mentioned above.

As to the various allegations of odometer tampering, the Tribunal is satisfied from the evidence placed before it that the allegations are true and have been proven. The question that now has to be answered is whether the past conduct of Sasson including the proven odometer tamperings and breaches under the Act and Regulation 801 affords reasonable belief that Sasson will in the future not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty. It is not sufficient for the Tribunal to conclude that it would have exercised its discretion differently from the Registrar, but for the Tribunal to set aside the Registrar's decision. For this to occur, the Tribunal must conclude that the conduct of the Applicant does not afford reasonable grounds for his belief and the Registrar was wrong in his decision.

The above principle was enunciated in the matter of Brenner and the Registrar of Motor Vehicles and Salesman, heard in the Divisional Court on March 9, 1983 and subsequently affirmed by the Divisional Court in the matter of Faccenda (1994) 26 CRAT Part II, 1050.

Based on the evidence placed before the Tribunal at the hearing of this matter, the Tribunal believes the Registrar was not wrong in proposing to revoke Sasson's registration. The evidence of misconduct regarding odometer tampering is clear and compelling. There were a string of odometer tampering incidents. Viewed cumulatively the incidents reflect a course of conduct by Sasson. The odometer tamperings were recent in time albeit that they occurred after a period of nearly ten years of unblemished record of Sasson.

Sasson expressed his remorse at what he has done. However, the Tribunal is mindful of the decision in Herman Motor Sales et al (1980) 19 CRAT which was affirmed on appeal by the Divisional Court. In that case there were a number of proven odometer frauds and the Registrar proposed to revoke the dealer's registration. Cory J. stated, when affirming the Tribunal's decision, as follows:

It was next argued that the penalty which it imposed was inappropriate under the circumstances. Reliance was placed upon the past good behaviour and the evidence given as to the very fair deals and exemplary business conduct of the appellants. However, the Act and Regulations stress importance of odometer readings. There can be no doubt that the readings form the basis for the assessment in value of most vehicles. To tamper or interfere with the odometer readings must be considered seriously and must constitute a grave breach of the duty of the dealer.

No matter how sincere Sasson may be in his remorse, the Tribunal is bound to assess the situation in the light of his recent past conduct. There can be little doubt that odometer offences are serious. Such offences do not only harm the immediate purchaser of the vehicle but have the real potential to harm future purchasers of the vehicle.

The intent of the Act, is the protection of consumers when dealing with motor vehicle dealers and salespersons. For that reason it is considered consumer legislation. The Registrar is entrusted with the obligation and duty to ensure that the Act and its regulations are complied with and that innocent purchasers are protected from the actions of errant dealers and salespersons. To fail to ensure compliance with the Act and regulations would be an abrogation by the Registrar of his duties. The Tribunal believes that the Registrar properly carried out his duties and obligations in this matter and is not wrong in proposing that Sasson's registration be terminated.

DECISION:

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in it by Section 7(4) of the Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar to carry out his proposal to revoke Sasson's registration as a motor vehicle dealer.

Appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap.H.8 as amended (the "Act"), from the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 55.1(3) of the Act.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A
MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: STUART CORK

APPEARANCES: SANDRA QUADRINI
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

Applicant

Agent for the Applicant

DATE OF HEARING: April 10, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: April 13, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 10, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Applicant
Motor Vehicle: 1990 GMC SIE, Plate # (plate no.) (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: March 17, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (the "Board") (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3)(d) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on April 10, 2000 and proceeded as a teleconference hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Board commencing the hearing. The Respondent submitted copies of their submissions bearing original certification seals.

All documents were entered into evidence with the consent of both parties.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

DEAR SIR/MADAME:
ENCLOSED PLEASE FIND A RENTAL AGREEMENT FROM (name of company #1) AND P.O. #(no.) FROM (name of company #2) TO ERECT SCAFFOLDING FOR DICESTERS #11 AND 16 AT KIMBERLY-CLARK TERRANCE BAY, ONTARIO. WE ARE TRYING TO MAKE DO WITH THE RENTAL VEHICLE, BUT REQUIRE THE IMPOUNDED VEHICLE WITH HEAVY FRAME AND CUSTOM RACKING FOR MOVEMENT AND HOISTING OF MATERIAL. (The Applicant) IS A SMALL FAMILY-

OWNED BUSINESS; OUR WORK IS SEASONAL THESE JOBS ARE CRITICAL AND OUTLET UNDER BINDING PURCHASE ORDERS. OUR CONTINUED SOLVENCY DEPENDS ON THESE JOBS: THIS WORK IS DONE ANNUALLY FOR A PERIOD OF TWO MONTHS. OUR VEHICLE WAS TAKEN BY MY SON WITHOUT MY PERMISSION AND SUBSEQUENTLY IMPOUNDED. WE LIVE 28KM FROM THE CONSTRUCTION SITE. THIS VEHICLE IS NORMALLY DRIVEN ONLY BY MYSELF, TO AND FROM THE WORKSITE. WE REQUEST A TELEPHONE HEARING AS WE LIVE 10 KM FROM THE COMMUNITY AND 250 KM EAST OF THUNDER BAY. HOPING YOU FIND THIS SATISFACTORY.

The Applicant's representative stated that the Applicant is involved as a subcontractor to an insulation company that has been hired to insulate two large digester units at the Kimberly Clark mill. The vehicle is a full size four wheel drive pick up truck that has a custom built frame assembly that it carries permanently fixed to it. This frame has been specially prepared so that the vehicle can accommodate scaffolding materials, including large (20') lengths of scaffolding leg tubing that extend over the cab of the vehicle. Among the items that the contract that the Applicant has with the insulation company, is to supply and erect the scaffolds around the digester unit so that the insulation company can apply insulating material to it.

Witness #1 testified that the Applicant has managed to rent a smaller substitute vehicle to move the smaller components of the scaffold, however without the custom framing installed in the impounded vehicle, the Applicant is unable to transport the larger lengths of material. Without these 20' length scaffold legs, the first of the two digesters cannot be scaffolded, and the Applicant is in jeopardy of not being able to fulfil its contractual obligations.

Witness #1 stated that the scaffolding materials arrive from Thunder Bay by transport truck, and are deposited in the yard at the Kimberly Clark facility in a storage area assigned to the Applicant. The impounded vehicle is used to transport these materials, as needed, to the scaffold erection site which is approximately half a mile away from the storage area. The vehicle is used to traverse the uneven and muddy ground of the facility, and bring the material into the mill on a timely basis, and so as not to interfere with the other trades working on the digester. A vehicle larger than a pick up truck would not fit into the restricted space around the digester in the mill. Due to the scheduling of other trades that must work in the same area of the mill, the earliest that the Applicant could get to the first digester to begin erecting the scaffolding for it would be April 13th, 2000.

Witness #1 testified that the area of northern Ontario that the Applicant is located in is sparsely populated, and that subcontracting the scaffold transportation or other vehicles as alternatives, are not an option. Witness #1 said that "I know that there are no alternatives...I know who is here and who is available". Furthermore, Witness #1 stated that since he had been given the contract, he believed that it was up to his firm only to fulfil it. The Applicant had rented another pickup truck, however it was insufficient to meet the needs of the Applicant, and it would not have been possible to mount the custom frame in it due to the fact that mounting holes must be drilled into the bed of the vehicle to attach it.

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by (name of driver);
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence "driving or having care or control of a motor vehicle while ability impaired" under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until January 14th, 2003. The copy was only provided to clarify Witness #1's suspension since he is a young offender and which foregoing charge does not show up on his driving record.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

- (4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22
- (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
 - (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
 - (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
 - (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

The Applicant has appealed on the grounds of exceptional hardship, in accordance with Section 50.2(3)(d). Section 22 of Regulation 632/98 is very specific, in that it provides the Board with the specific criteria the Applicant must meet to determine if exceptional hardship under the Act will result from the impoundment. The Board is precluded from considering other factors not arising from or directly related to the impoundment itself.

In order for the Applicant's claims to be considered under Section 22(2)(a), (b), and (c), they must have demonstrated that all of Section 22(3) has been met. Furthermore, Section 22(4) of the Regulation provides that the Applicant demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered for an alternative to the vehicle. The Applicant has made no specific claims of exceptional hardship as described by Section 22(1)(a) or (b).

The Applicant has not presented the Board with any evidence that would demonstrate that every reasonable alternative option has been considered and inquired into as required by Section 22(4) of the Regulation. The Applicant's testimony that they know that there are no alternatives, and so they chose not to explore any possible alternatives is insufficient in meeting the onus. Furthermore no attempt was made to demonstrate to the Board that other than the rented vehicle, no other alternatives to the impounded vehicle existed to transport the 20' scaffolding tubes the distance of approximately one-half mile at the mill site.

The Board also noted that due to the scheduling of the work required by the Applicant and the vehicle, and the scheduled release date of the vehicle from impoundment, the Applicant is claiming exceptional hardship as a result of the impoundment for a period of five days. However the Applicant has not presented the Board with any evidence that would indicate that this loss of the vehicle would be immediate significant and lasting as per Section 22(3)(b) of the Regulation.

The Board finds that the Applicant has failed to meet the onus under the Section 22(3) and 22(4) of the Regulation, and is therefore precluded from considering the Applicant's claim of exceptional hardship under Section 22(2) of the Regulation.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

ORDER

Following attendances on March 30, 2000 at the prehearing by teleconference before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) of Richard McCabe (the "Applicant") and Netanus Rutherford, Counsel, on behalf of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program"), and Arnold MacLauchlan, Agent on behalf of 604842 Ontario Inc. (the "Added Party");

The Tribunal makes the following Order respecting the hearing scheduled to commence at 9:30 a.m. on September 11, 2000 at a location to be selected by the Tribunal in Kingston, Ontario and to continue if necessary on September 12, 13, 14 and 15, 2000 at 9:30 a.m. at the same venue;

1. Within 14 days of the prehearing the Applicant will send to the Program and the Added Party full copies of the Applicant's experts' reports received by the Applicant from his Engineer(s) and also from his Foundation consultant in relation to the basement and/or foundation of the Applicant's home as referred to in claims 1 or 2 of the Program's decision letter of November 12, 1999.
2. In addition to the above reports and accompanying such reports shall be copies of photographs in the Applicants' possession in regard to the Applicant's complaints regarding the foundation and/or basement of the home.

3. On reasonable written notice from the Program the Applicant shall permit access to the Program and/or its experts and advisors to enable the Program to inspect Applicant's home and assess Applicant's complaints in relation to claims 1 and 2 in the Program's decision letter of November 12, 1999.
4. Prior to the inspection by the Program of the Applicant's home, Applicant shall advise both the Program and the Added Party whether or not he is prepared to permit the Added Party's presence when the Program attends the Applicants home in terms of paragraph 3 above.
5. On reasonable prior written notice to the Applicant, the Program's Philip Mayhew shall be permitted to enter upon the Applicant's home to inspect and assess the Applicant's complaint referred to as Claim 3 in the Program's decision letter of November 12, 1999.
6. Applicant withdraws his complaint and appeal regarding his claim against the Program and the Added Party referred to in claim 4 of the Program's decision letter of November 12, 1999.
7. Insofar as claims 5 through 12 inclusive are concerned which are referred to in the Program's decision letter of November 12, 1999, the Applicant undertakes to sign, execute and immediately return to the Program the cash settlement document in the sum of $2,165.00 sent to him by the Program. Upon receipt of the signed and executed cash settlement document, the Program undertakes to forward its cheque for $2,165.00 to the Applicant. The Applicant, the Program and the Added Party agree that claims 5 through 12 inclusive referred to in the Program's decision letter have been settled on the above basis and the Applicant's claims 5 through 12 and his appeal in regard thereto are withdrawn and settled on the above basis.

In accordance with Section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Om Parkash Dhawan O/A T & D Auto Sales (hereafter the "Dealer") and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Registrar MVDA") waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal (hereafter the "Consent Order") based on the following terms and conditions:

1. The Dealer agrees not to invite the public to deal at a place other than his approved location.
2. The Dealer agrees to operate exclusively from the location approved by the Registrar. The Dealer further agrees to store all his books and records at the location approved by the Registrar.
3. The Dealer agrees to maintain an office, separate from any other business, at the location approved by the Registrar.
4. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that he will not retain the services of a salesperson unless the salesperson is registered as a salesperson to the Dealer.
5. The Dealer further acknowledges that the restrictions concerning the activities of salespersons referred to in these terms and conditions, applies to both buying and selling on behalf of a dealer. "Buying and selling" refers to showing a vehicle to a prospective purchaser or any form of negotiation concerning the purchase or sale of a vehicle and is not limited to the signing of contracts. This further includes attendance at auctions on behalf of the Dealer.
6. The Dealer agrees to maintain a garage register in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act and will maintain all books and records as required by the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. The Dealer further agrees to store his books and records at the location approved by the Registrar.
7. The Dealer will ensure that all advertisements placed by or on behalf of the Dealer will identify his registered name and the address of the location approved by the Registrar.
8. The Dealer will not knowingly purchase a vehicle from a dealer who is unlicensed.

9. The Dealer will ensure that any vehicles sold are registered in the name of the purchaser before releasing the vehicle to the purchaser.
10. The Dealer will not purchase vehicles without ensuring that the vehicle is registered to the seller.
11. The Dealer agrees to register all vehicles purchased within 6 days in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act.
12. The Dealer agrees that he is under a positive obligation to disclose all material facts about the vehicles he sells to customers. The Dealer agrees to make reasonable efforts to research the history of all vehicles prior to sale to ensure all material facts are disclosed. The Dealer agrees that should any information come to light, which the Registrar deems to be a material fact concerning a vehicle the Dealer has sold, the Dealer will comply with all reasonable requests made by the Registrar to provide compensation to the purchaser.
13. The Dealer agrees that he will not knowingly breach the Act or engage in an illegal activity.
14. The Dealer agrees to enrol into and successfully complete the certification course within 60 days of the issuance of this order.
15. The Dealer agrees and acknowledges that should he breach any of the terms and conditions set out herein, in whole or in part, the Registrar is directed to, and shall carry out, the proposal and the Dealer's registration shall be revoked.
16. The Dealer hereby consents to an order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal, which may include the Terms and Conditions set out herein.
17. The Dealer hereby withdraws the appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.
18. The Dealer acknowledges that the Registrar may take further administrative action, including a proposal to revoke their registrations, arising from any matters that have occurred or may occur related to honesty and integrity or financial position.
19. The Dealer acknowledges that he has had obtained or has had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to his consent to the terms and conditions set out herein.

In accordance with Section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Edward Robert MacKay (hereafter the "Applicant") and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Registrar MVDA") waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal (hereafter the "Consent Order") based on the following terms and conditions:

1. The Applicant agrees, if he is charged in the future, under the Criminal Code, Provincial Offences Act, or with an industry specific offence, to immediately notify the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, in writing, of the charges laid against him.
2. The Applicant agrees, if he is convicted in the future, under the Criminal Code, Provincial Offences Act, or with an industry specific offence to immediately notify his employer in writing and to give the Registrar a copy of this written notification signed by his employer.
3. The Applicant agrees not to transfer his registration as a salesperson under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act to another dealer. Should he wish to transfer his registration, he shall submit a new application for registration to the Registrar.
4. The Applicant agrees not to be a partner, shareholder, officer, director or sales manager of a motor vehicle dealership for a period of two years.
5. The Applicant agrees not to be the final signatory on any sales contracts on behalf of the dealer.
6. The Applicant agrees that his registration will automatically be revoked if he provides any false or misleading information on any document or statement provided to the Registrar either orally or in writing.
7. The Applicant agrees that his disclosure to the Registrar is accurate. Should the Registrar discover that the circumstances surrounding the convictions differ materially from the Applicant's disclosure, the Applicant's registration will automatically be revoked.
8. The Applicant agrees to make full written disclosure to his employer with regards to his criminal history and to provide the Registrar with a copy of this written notification signed by his employer within 30 days of the issuance of this Order.
9. The Applicant agrees to provide his employer with a copy of this Order.
10. The Applicant acknowledges that should he breach any of the terms and conditions contained in this Order, in whole or in part, the Registrar is directed to, and shall carry out the proposal to revoke, and the Applicant's registration will automatically be revoked.
11. The Applicant acknowledges that the Registrar may take administrative action, including a proposal to revoke his registration as a motor vehicle salesperson arising from any matters that have occurred or that may occur in the future related to his financial circumstances and his honesty and integrity.

12. The Applicant acknowledges that the Registrar may take legal action, including a Provincial Offences prosecution, arising from his actions related to the sale of motor vehicles that may have occurred in the past or that may occur in the future.

RE: Richard Shepherd O/A Sun City R.V. Centre

Pursuant to subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, Richard Shepherd O/A Sun City R.V. Centre (hereinafter referred to as "the Dealer") hereby consents to the following terms and conditions to his registration as a motor vehicle dealer:

In accordance with section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedures Act, the parties hereto hereby waive the requirements of a hearing and consent to a decision of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal based upon the following Terms and Conditions;

1. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that when the Dealer receives funds towards the purchase of a motor vehicle prior to the delivery of the motor vehicle, the entire amount received will be deemed to be trust funds.
2. The Dealer agrees to maintain a ledger account into which shall be entered the names and addresses of all persons from whom trust funds are obtained with details of the amounts retained and a record of all disbursements from them.
3. The Dealer agrees to maintain, in respect of all funds that come into the Dealers hands, in accordance with clause 1 of this Order, a separate trust account into which the Dealer shall deposit the funds and the Dealer shall, at all times, keep the funds secure and make disbursements from the trust account, in accordance with the terms of the trust.
4. Where trust funds are paid to the Dealer in accordance with clause 1 of this Order, whether by way of deposit, down payment or otherwise, the Dealer agrees to retain the funds in trust for the purchaser until,
 - a. the motor vehicle is delivered;
 - b. the contract is mutually cancelled; or
 - c. direction or authority is received from the Registrar concerning disbursements
5. The Dealer agrees to provide free access to his books and records to any authorized representative of the Registrar.
6. The Dealer agrees to comply with the Retail Sales Tax Act with respect to the collection of tax and remittance when due.
7. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that it will not retain the services of a salesperson unless the salesperson is registered as a salesperson to the Dealer.
8. The Dealer acknowledges that its registration as a motor vehicle Dealer will be revoked if it breaches any of the terms and conditions set out herein.
9. I hereby consent to an order of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal, which may include the Terms and Conditions set out herein.

10. I hereby withdraw my appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal.

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal, by way of Teleconference, by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS:

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit #1 Notice of Appeal – dated March 22, 2000
- b) Exhibit #3 Letter from Physician # 1 – dated November 28, 1999

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit #3 Ministry of Transportation submissions – tabs 1 – 14
- received May 15, 2000

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

The Representative of the Ministry provided the Tribunal with a final written summation with respect to this matter.

FACTS:

The Applicant is appealing the suspension of his driving privileges effective "98 05 15" as per Exhibit # 1.

A Medical Report prepared November 28, 1999, by neurologist Physician # 1, concludes "...His neurological examination is normal and he had an normal EEG and CT Scan last year. At this point, it would be reasonable for him to drive...he is now seizure free for one and half years... The diagnosis is still unclear whether he had a seizure or whether the blackout was related to a faint from getting up quickly. I don't think this will ever be resolved, but even if we assume that he had a seizure, it is a long enough period of observation now that it is reasonable for him to return to driving." (Exhibit # 1)

An unsolicited report, dated "18 March 1998", from Physician # 2 advises: "I recently saw this gentleman with a presumed seizure and have advised to not drive until he is reviewed by a neurologist." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 1)

Letter dated April 29, 1998 from Physician # 1, neurologist, states "...He had a blackout on March 11, 1998...unconsciousness could not have been more than 1/2 minute. It took several minutes before he came to a normal state of consciousness. There was no tonic clonic movement. He had been incontinent of urine and had weakness in the right arm, leg and face for several hours. He had also bruised his right face which felt numb for sometime afterwards. His wife also commented that he was in a stare when she arrived.... He has had headaches occurring almost daily since that time. ... He has another blackout on March 14 when he was riding his bike. ... no history of medical problems...used alcohol up to 12 ounces per day... has not missed work as a welder on account of drinking...Neurological examination was completely normal except for mild tremor of his outstretched hands and fingers. Muscle tone was normal. Fundi were normal. No evidence of intracranial pressure. An electroencephalogram... was normal.. . probability of seizure is high... I advised him not to use any alcohol...If he stays away from alcohol, I think it is reasonable not to treat him with anti convulsants provided he does not drive... After a period of 3-6 months it would be reasonable to return to ...usual activities provided he remains seizure free and of course, provided that the CT Scan is also negative..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 2)

Under the letterhead of the Dingwall Medical Group, Physician # 2 informs the Ministry on June 22, 1998 that the Applicant's "...observation period of three to six months has lapsed. ... has not had further seizures and I would ask that you re-instate his driver's licence." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 4)

A Department of Radiology, dated April 28, 1998, indicates that other than a "...moderate allergic reaction to the contrast... The scan appears unremarkable. There is no evidence of infarction, mass lesion or hemorrhage." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 4 A)

Electroencephalogram Report, dated April 28, 1998, as interpreted by Physician # 1 reads: "This is a normal electroencephalogram." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 4 C)

MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE CASE STUDY, dated July 23, 1998, recommends the Applicant's licence "Remain suspended. Reconsider with a detailed neurologist's report assess and the completion of the alcohol assess form by G.P. or specialist in addiction medicine one year period seizure free and fully abstinent...". (Exhibit # 3 Tab 5)

A MINISTRY OF TRANSPORTATION ALCOHOL ASSESSMENT FORM was prepared by Physician # 3, the Applicant's physician, on February 16, 1999. Physician # 3 reports as follows:

"YES" is checked under "Personal Health History" for "Cardiovascular Diseases and Neurological Diseases" and "Days absent from work within the past two years - 67"

Under "Medical Consequences Related to Alcohol Use", Physician # 3 checked "YES" for "Seizures and Liver Disease".

According to the "PHYSICAL ASSESSMENT AND LABORATORY EVALUATION," "Blood Pressure - ABNORMAL 148/94; COMMENTS BP has been up in past but he has never been treated for water retention; LIVER - not palpable - elevated enzymes; NEUROLOGICAL.... negative - sensation to light - touch normal, very slight tremor of fingers - knee reflexes brisk - tongue protruded slightly to the right; GGT ABNORMAL 102 u/l... normal up to 55 u/l; MCV ABNORMAL 98.7 fl... normal 80.0 to 96.0".

Under the heading "DSM-IV CRITERIA FOR ALCOHOL DEPENDENCE," "Yes" was the reply for numbers "2, 7" respectively "Withdrawal, Continued drinking despite knowledge of alcohol related physician or psychological problems."

The Applicant "...denies addiction to alcohol.. has not been through a treatment program..."

"ABSTINENCE" is the "RECOMMEND GOAL FOR ALCOHOL CONSUMPTION." Physician # 3 notes that the Applicant "...has decided on reduced drinking and believes he has already accomplished his goal." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 7 B)

MDS Laboratory Service report shows, for tests performed on "22-FEB- 99 ... GGT 102 HI UP TO 65" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 9 D). MDS Laboratory Services report shows tests performed on "22-FEB- 99" which show " GGT 102 HI UP TO 65" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 7 D).

Dynacare Laboratory report shows tests performed on "04/12/95.... GGT 147" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 7 F)

MDS Laboratory Service report shows tests performed on "13-MAR- 98 ... MCV 98.9 (Exhibit # 2 Tab 7 I)

MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE CASE STUDY, dated May 20, 1999, recommends the Applicant's licence "Remain suspended. (Exhibit # 3 Tab 8)

Exhibit # 2 Tab 12, Ministry of Transportation driving Record for the Applicant since 1970, shows no infractions.

The Respondent, at the hearing, relied on the information contained in the documents presented for the hearing, entered as Exhibit # 2, tabs 1 through 14, and on the standard guidelines for driver's.

The Applicant, confirmed that he has been seizure free for over twelve months. He believes there is still a question as to whether he suffered a seizure or a blackout.

As for drinking, the Applicant does not consider himself to be an alcoholic but a social drinker, who has never had any drinking and driving incidents. The Applicant affirmed his adherence to the requirements of the law and his belief that drinking and driving do not mix. He believes that his GGT and MCV levels are high due to being afflicted with hepatitis as child. Although there were no records available for the hearing, the Applicant stated that such records could be easily obtained from the hospital in Sault Ste. Marie.

The Applicant attested to the fact that he is a welder who works with heavy forestry equipment. There are very strict rules in place, concerning the use of alcohol, for someone in his position. The Applicant has never encountered any problems at work due to drinking.

The Applicant stated that the "12 oz per day " notation was in error. He has never had that much to drink. The doctor told him that he could have up to 12 oz. per day without noticing any effects.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
- (b) a driver's licence; or
- (c) a CVOR certificate,

on the grounds of,

- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
- (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
- (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
- (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

- 50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.
- (2) The Tribunal may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

Section 47(1) unquestionably empowers the Registrar to "...suspend or cancel" a driver's licence for "any...sufficient reason...". The Applicant came to the attention of the Registrar as a result of an unsolicited report from Physician # 2 communicating: "I recently saw this gentleman with a presumed seizure and have advised to not drive until he is reviewed by a neurologist." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 1)

The Tribunal finds that the Ministry acted properly and in accordance with the Regulation.

The Respondent's primary concern appeared to be the apparent seizures suffered by the Applicant. As early as June 1998, the Ministry was informed by Physician # 2 that the Applicant's "...observation period of three to six months has lapsed ... has not had further seizures and I would ask that you re-instate his driver's license." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 4)

The Applicant's evidence that there is still controversy over the seizures is supported by the undisputed statement of Physician # 1, "... The diagnosis is still unclear whether he had a seizure or whether the blackout was related to a faint from getting up quickly. I don't think this will ever be resolved." (Exhibit # 1)

Further, Physician # 1's letter of November 28, 1999, notes that the Applicant's "... neurological examination is normal and he had an normal EEG and CT Scan last year... At this point it would be reasonable for him to drive...he is now seizure free for one and half years...". (Applicant's Exhibit # 1; Respondent's Exhibit # 2 Tab 10 A)

The Respondent eloquently expounded the policies contained in the; "Physician's Guide to Driver's Examination; the National Safety Code and considered by the Ministry of Transportation Medical Advisory Committee. The Tribunal notes that these policies are to be used as guidelines and are not legislation.

The Applicant denied abuse, and emphasized his awareness of the dangers of drinking and driving. The Tribunal was not presented with testimony to contradict this affirmation. In fact, the driving history of the Applicant is clear as to any drinking and driving offences.

The Tribunal finds that the Respondent has not proven that the Applicant is currently suffering from a medical condition or an alcohol addiction which is likely to significantly interfere with his ability to drive a motor vehicle as described by Regulation 340/94 section 14 (a) & (b) of the HTA.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated May 15, 1998 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend his driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be set aside.

DATE OF HEARING: May 23, 2000 Toronto

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS:

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit #1 Notice of Appeal – dated April 25, 2000
- received April 26, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit #2 Ministry of Transportation submissions – tabs 1 – 8
- received May 11, 2000

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

The Representative of the Ministry provided the Tribunal with a final written summation with respect to this matter.

FACTS:

The Applicant is appealing the suspension of his driving privileges effective January 22, 2000 as set out in Exhibit # 1.

An unsolicited report from The Credit Valley Hospital dated "23/11/99", prepared by Physician # 1 informs the Ministry that the Applicant "...has a problem with alcohol and ... the Ministry should review his license to drive a motor vehicle" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 1).

A MINISTRY OF TRANSPORTATION ALCOHOL ASSESSMENT FORM which was prepared on "00/02/02", by the Applicant's physician since "13 Nov 1980", indicates as follows:

"YES" is checked under "Personal Health History" for "Addictions" and "Hospitalisations within the last 12 months" and "Days absent from work within the past two years ~ 6 weeks - 3 weeks Rehab - 3 weeks detox ...".

Under "Medical Consequences Related to Alcohol Use", shows "ocass. Morning shakes".

According to the "PHYSICAL ASSESSMENT AND LABORATORY EVALUATION," all categories are marked "NORMAL - Blood Pressure "110/60"; Liver - enlarged 4 cm."

Under the "DSM-IV CRITERIA FOR ALCOHOL DEPENDENCE," a positive reply was noted for numbers "1,3,4,6" respectively "Tolerance.Taking larger amounts than intended, Unsuccessful efforts to reduce alcohol use, Reduces important activities because of alcohol".

"ABSTINENCE" is the "RECOMMEND GOAL FOR ALCOHOL CONSUMPTION." The Applicant attended the "RENASCENT CENTRE - Jan 7/2000 - Jan 28 2000" and "...has not had NO ALCOHOL SINCE NOV.22, 1999" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 3).

ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW - MEDICAL SUSPENSIONS, dated "April 7, 2000", completed by H. A., details the Applicant's history as explained by the Applicant. The Applicant discloses that he "...had a big drinking binge in the privacy of own home... needed help... called boss... arranged ...to go to Credit Valley hospital..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 5).

MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE CASE STUDY, dated February 24, 2000, recommends the Applicant's driver's licence "Remain suspended" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 6).

Exhibit # 2 Tab 8, Ministry of Transportation driving Record for the Applicant since 1978 shows no infractions.

The Respondent, at the hearing, relied on the information contained in the documents presented for the hearing, entered as Exhibit # 2, tabs 1 through 8, and on the standard guidelines for driver's.

The Respondent disputed the normalcy of the MCV and GGT, as indicated by the Applicant's physician in the MINISTRY OF TRANSPORTATION ALCOHOL ASSESSMENT FORM, as no actual laboratory tests were introduced as evidence.

The Applicant testified that he does not consider himself to be an alcoholic but a social drinker. He has in the past and is currently, voluntarily seeking to control his drinking habits. At present the Applicant is attending AA as an observer. As AA is a life long commitment, one has to attend a number of meetings as an observer, prior to considering joining.

The Applicant affirmed his adherence to the requirements of the law and his belief that drinking and driving do not mix. He has made a written promise to his children that he would never drink and drive, and intends to keep that promise. The Applicant noted his spotless driving record.

The Applicant is employed as a General Manager for a trucking company.

Witness #1, the Applicant's employer, was the first of three witnesses to testify on behalf of the Applicant. Witness #1 has known the Applicant for "fifteen years" and has never known him to drink and drive.

Witness #2 is a member of the Board of Truckers. Witness #2 attested that the Applicant is well respected in the community and within the Association. Witness #2 confirmed he attends social functions with the Applicant, at least once a year, and on occasion has seen the Applicant take cabs if he had been drinking.

The final witness was Witness #3, who has known the Applicant for 8 to 10 years. Similarly to his predecessors testified that he has never been aware of the Applicant drinking and driving, not even after social events.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
 - (b) a driver's licence; or
 - (c) a CVOR certificate,
- on the grounds of,
- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
 - (f) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
 - (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
 - (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

- 50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.
- (2) The Tribunal may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

Section 47(1) unquestionably empowers the Registrar to "...suspend or cancel" a driver's licence for "any...sufficient reason...". The Applicant came to the attention of the Registrar as a result of an unsolicited report from Physician # 1, that the Applicant "... has a problem with alcohol and ... the Ministry should review his license to drive a motor vehicle" (Exhibit # 2 Tab 1).

The Tribunal finds that the Ministry acted properly and in accordance with the Regulation.

Prior to setting out the reasons for the decision, the Tribunal would like to address the Respondent's objection regarding the MCV and GGT results as stated by the Applicant's physician. The Respondent did not suggest any improprieties with respect to the validity of the document as a whole. The Tribunal has no reason to believe that a reputable physician would falsify test results in order to favour his patient. The Respondent eloquently expounded the policies contained in the; "Physician's Guide to Driver's Examination; the National Safety Code and considered by the Ministry of Transportation Medical Advisory Committee". The Tribunal notes that these policies are to be used as guidelines and are not legislation.

The applicable legislation can be found in Section 14 (b) which states that:

"An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

...

b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely."

There is little or no evidence to substantiate this premise that the Applicant is addicted to the use of alcohol. The evidence before the Tribunal consists of a heavy drinking episode, during which the Applicant was driven to the hospital. The Applicant by his own admission confessed that he drinks but denied being addicted to the use of alcohol. It is commendable that the Applicant has sought assistance on his own volition.

Further, were one to concede that the Applicant is an alcoholic, one must recognize that there have been no drinking and driving incidents in the past. The Tribunal notes that the Applicant's record is in fact spotless (Exhibit # 2 Tab 8).

The Tribunal found the Applicant to be a credible witness, who is apparently well respected in the community. The Applicant emphasized that he is well aware of the dangers of drinking and driving. This statement is corroborated by the Applicant's three witnesses who took time off their schedules to support the Applicant in this matter.

The Tribunal finds that the Respondent has not proven that the Applicant is currently suffering from an alcohol addiction which is likely to significantly interfere with his ability to drive a motor vehicle as described by Regulation 340/94 section 14 (b) of the HTA.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated January 22, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend his driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be set aside and the Applicant's driver's licence be reinstated.

DATE OF
MOTION: April 26th, 2000

ORDER

A motion was heard on April 26th, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's request for an extension of time to appeal the impoundment order of the Registrar affecting the Applicant's motor vehicle. The motion is brought pursuant to Section 20(7) of Ontario Regulation 632/98 amending Regulation 574 of the Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1990 made under the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990. c.H.8 amended ("HTA").

Submissions of Written Material

The Applicant submitted the following documents:

1. Copy of Impound Order effective February 11, 2000.
2. Original Notice of Appeal/Owner's Position received March 17, 2000.
3. Copy of driver's licence of driver of impounded vehicle.
4. Request for motion received April 7, 2000.

The Facts

The Applicant is the owner of a motor vehicle which was impounded for a period of 45 days pursuant to an order of the Registrar issued under section 55.1 of the Highway Traffic Act R.S.O. 1990, c. H.8 as amended (the "Act").

The motor vehicle was impounded on February 11th, 2000.

The Applicant's Notice of Appeal to the impoundment was dated March 14th, 2000 and was received by the Board on March 17th, 2000, 35 days from the date of impoundment. The motion presently before the Board is for an order, in terms of section 20(7) of regulation 632/98, for an extension of the time for the filing of the Notice of Appeal.

In his oral submissions to the Board, the Applicant first indicated that the reason he did not proceed sooner with the appeal was because he was under the impression that he could not do anything about it. He formed this impression after talking to friends, family and the impounding officer. He conceded that he received correspondence from the Ministry of Transport regarding the impoundment, but he did not bother opening it until the 22nd of February. The Applicant also stated that he did not have the funds required to proceed with the appeal.

In his written submissions dated March 14th, 2000, the Applicant states "I have not started this appeal until now because I was only recently able to obtain Mr. Descroches driver's licence". Mr. Descroches is the driver of the vehicle when it was impounded. The Board notes no mention is made of financial difficulties. When asked by the Board why he waited until he was in possession of the driver's licence to appeal, he responded that he did not believe that he had a basis for a successful appeal until then and therefore did not appeal. It was not clear to the Board as to why he had formed this conclusion other than by his own deduction.

Section 20(1) of Regulation 632/98 states:

20. (1) An appeal to the Board under section 50.2 of the Act shall be commenced by filing a notice of appeal with the Board within 15 days of the issuance of the order to impound, together with a fee of $100 payable to the Minister of Finance.

Section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98 states:

20. (7) Despite subsection (1), the Board may extend the time for commencing an appeal if the owner establishes that the owner, acting in good faith, was unable through accident, illness, or other cause beyond the owner's control to bring the appeal within the prescribed 15 days.

Section 7 of the Licence Appeal Tribunal Act, 1999 states:

7. Despite any limitation of time fixed by or under any Act for the giving of any notice requiring a hearing by the Tribunal or an appeal from a decision or order of the Tribunal under section 11 or any other Act, if the Tribunal is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for applying for the extension and for granting relief, it may,
 - (a) extend the time for giving the notice either before or after the expiration of the limitation of time so limited; and
 - (b) give the directions that it considers proper as a result of extending the time.

The Order

THE BOARD RULED TO REFUSE TO GRANT an extension of the time to commence this appeal for the following reasons.

REASONS FOR ORDER

Section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98, provides the Board with the specific criteria that the Applicant must meet to satisfy the Board that an extension of the time for commencing an appeal ought to be granted. The Applicant must establish that acting in good faith, he was unable through accident, illness or other cause beyond his control to bring the appeal within the prescribed 15 days.

The evidence presented does not establish that the Applicant's delay in appealing the order impounding the vehicle, under Section 55.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, was the result of accident, illness or other cause beyond the Applicant's control as required by section 20(1) as read with section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98. Further, the Applicant has not satisfied the Board that there are reasonable grounds for applying for the extension and for granting relief. Accordingly, the requirements under section 7 of the Licence Appeal Tribunal Act have not been met.

The Board is not convinced that the lack of funds was a cause of delay as no mention was made of this in the 'Owner's Position in Appeal' in which the Applicant explains why he had not started the Appeal earlier (quoted above). The evidence before the Board indicates that the Applicant did not appeal because he concluded either there was nothing he could do or that he would not be successful in appealing. He based this conclusion apparently on the comments of family, friends and on comments allegedly made by the police officer at the time of impoundment. The Applicant chose to act upon these comments and ignore the information provided to him by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles. In doing so, it is the Board's opinion that the Applicant did not act in a manner which supports his request for an extension of time.

The motion herein of the Applicant requesting an extension of time to appeal, pursuant to section 20(7) of Ontario Regulation 632/98 amending Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, is dismissed.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: STUART CORK, Presiding member

APPEARANCES: SANDRA QUADRINI
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

ROBERTO SANTARELLI, Agent for Applicant

DATE OF HEARING: April 25, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 1, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 25, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Shanahan Carriage Co. Ltd. (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1999 Ford Van, Plate #876 SEK (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: April 5, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3)(c) and (d) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on April 25, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing. The Respondent submitted copies of their submissions bearing original certification seals.

All documents were entered into evidence with the consent of both parties.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

LICENCE APPEAL TRIBUNAL
1 St. Clair Avenue West, Suite 1200
Toronto, Ontario M4V-1K6

April 3, 2000

RE: NOTICE OF APPEAL.

As per the instructions on how to file a Notice of Appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal, please find the following documents as material which is been submitted by the owner of the Vehicle, 'Natcon Sewer & Watermain Ltd.'

MATERIAL:

- Copy of authorization From Shanahan Leasing given to Roberto Santarelli form Natcon Sewer and Watermain Ltd.
- Copy of Permit for the Impounded Vehicle.
- Copy of the Ministry's order impounding the vehicle,
- Copy of Valid Driver's License submitted to employer upon employment.
- Copy of Personal Tax Credits Return for Driver of Vehicle showing date of employment.

GROUND FOR THE APPEAL:

The vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the drivers license was not suspended. Also, due to the lose of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship for the employer, and the impact of the loss of the vehicle will be upon persons who ordinarily are the workers of the company.

Trusting that the information is satisfactory, if anything with the enclosed package has to be corrected, or explained, please do not hesitate to contact me at the above office number.

Yours Truly,

Roberto Santarelli
President.

Mr. Santarelli stated that he is the owner of Natcon Sewer and Watermain Ltd, which leases the vehicle from the Applicant. The driver of the vehicle whose driver's licence was then under suspension was Mr. Luis Masa, an employee of Natcon Sewer and Watermain Ltd. The impounded vehicle is the only vehicle that this company operates, and it is used to transport employees to and from job sites, as well as to haul small tools.

Mr. Santarelli stated that each driver of his company vehicle has their name and driver's licence submitted to his insurance company, and that he relies upon his insurer to verify the status of each driver's licence. At the time of the impoundment, Mr. Santarelli believed that Mr. Masa was in possession of a valid driver's licence.

When the vehicle was impounded, two of the four employees that work for Natcom Sewer and Watermain Ltd. left the company, though there was the possibility that they would return after the vehicle had been released. These employees had been transported by this vehicle to various job sites, and were unwilling to continue their employment with the company unless transportation was provided for them. Mr. Santarelli offered to transport them with his own personal vehicle, but his offer was declined.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Luis Massa;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving with more than 80 mgs alcohol in blood under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until October 26, 2001.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsections 50.2(3)(c) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines “exceptional hardship” as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

- (4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22
- (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) a threat to the health or safety or any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
- (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) inconvenience to any person;
- (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
- (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
- (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,

- (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

Mr. Santarelli stated that Mr. Masa's driver's licence was not inspected at the time of the lease agreement being entered into by the Applicant, or at the time of the impoundment. In fact, if any verification of Mr. Masa's driver's licence was done, it would have been performed by Mr. Santarelli's insurer, and not by the Applicant. Indeed, there would have been no reason for Applicant to have done so, for it did not or could not have known that Mr. Masa would drive their vehicle. However, the legislation under Section 50.2(3)(c) is clear and unambiguous. It is the driver's licence of the driver of the vehicle that must be looked into to attempt to determine that it was not under suspension, and this must be done by the owner of the vehicle. This the Applicant failed to do.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

The Applicant has also appealed on the grounds of exceptional hardship, in accordance with Section 50.2(3)(d). Section 22 of Regulation 632/98 is very specific, in that it provides the Tribunal with the specific criteria the Applicant must meet to determine if exceptional hardship under the Act will result from the impoundment. The Tribunal is precluded from considering other factors not arising from or directly related to the impoundment itself.

In order for the Applicant's claims to be considered under Section 22(2)(a), (b), and (c), they must have demonstrated that all of Section 22(3) has been met. Furthermore, Section 22(4) of the Regulation provides that the Applicant demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered for an alternative to the vehicle. The Applicant has made no specific claims of exceptional hardship as described by Section 22(1)(a) or (b).

The Applicant has not presented the Tribunal with any evidence that would demonstrate that every reasonable alternative option has been considered and inquired into as required by Section 22(4) of the Regulation. In fact, Mr. Santarelli has stated that he has an alternative to the impounded vehicle, but its use was some how declined by those employees that were normally transported by the impounded vehicle.

The Applicant has not presented the Tribunal with any evidence that would indicate that the loss of the vehicle would be immediate significant and lasting as provided in Section 22(3)(b) of the Regulation. There was no evidence as to the significance the loss of this vehicle would have upon the company that has leased it from the Applicant.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant has failed to meet the onus under the Section 22(3) and 22(4) of the Regulation, and is therefore precluded from considering the Applicant's claim of exceptional hardship under Section 22(2) of the Regulation.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

ORDER

Following attendances on May 1, 2000 at a prehearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) of

G. Martin Rosen, counsel for Georgia White (the "Applicant") and Netanus Rutherford, counsel, for the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program"), and Rick McConnell, agent for Lorne Park Townhomes Inc. (the "Added Party");

The Tribunal makes the following Order;

- 1) The Parties to this proceeding agreed that the Added Party shall forthwith obtain the services of a plumber to investigate the probable cause of the alleged blockage of the floor drain in the laundry room of Applicant's home in Mississauga, Ontario.
- 2) The Program and the Applicant shall be advised immediately of the time and date of the investigation so as to enable them to arrange to be present during the investigation.
- 3) The plumber shall pursuant to the investigation furnish the Added Party with a written report as to the probable cause of the alleged blockage of the floor drain and the nature of the suggested remedy and cost. The Added Party shall forward a copy of the plumber's report to the Program and the Added Party immediately it receives same.

- 4) The reasonable and necessary cost of rectification of the alleged blockage to the drain, as well as the cost of the plumber's labour and materials in determining the probable cause of the alleged blockage and his written report will be paid for by the Added Party if the plumber's report indicates that the reason for the alleged blockage is due to a defect in work, materials or design by the Added Party. If the report indicates no defect in design, materials used or workmanship of the Added Party then the cost of rectification of the blockage shall be for the sole cost of the Applicant.
- 5) Should this matter not be settled the hearing set for July 17, 2000 at 9:30 a.m. at the Tribunal's Chambers, 1 St. Clair Avenue West, 12th floor, Toronto, Ontario will proceed. The parties however, undertake to advise the Tribunal in writing, as soon as a settlement is concluded.

DATE OF HEARING: April 25, 2000 Ottawa

DECISION RELEASED: May 2, 2000

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 25, 2000, at Ottawa, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: William Ikkers (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1988 Lincoln Town car Limousine, Plate #AEJY 854
(the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: April 6, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on April 25, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

The Respondent submitted an affidavit from Police Constable David Walter Lamont and the original certified documents of copies on file, from the Ministry of Transportation. Said documents were filed on consent as Exhibits # 5 and 6 respectively.

The Applicant and the Respondent agreed that the above mentioned documents be filed at the hearing as evidence.

There being no other preliminary matters and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

"I AM APPLYING FOR THIS APPEAL UNDER THE EXCEPTIONAL HARDSHIP GUIDLINE. WHEN I STARTED THIS COMPANY A YEAR AGO, SIGNIFICANT AMOUNTS OF DOLLARS WAS BORROWED FROM MY SILENT PARTNER PETER DUMAS. IF SAID VEHICLE IS NOT RELEASED IN APRIL OF "2000", MANY BUSINESS CONTRACTS WILL BE LOST AND BANKRUPTCY WILL FOLLOW."

The Applicant opted not to testify at the hearing but rather to file a statement with the Tribunal.

The Applicant explained the he started the company and owns it "...on paper..." that is why the vehicle in question is in his name. However, Mr. Dumas borrowed money on his credit card to invest in the business

The Applicant admits that his driver's licence was under suspension and that he was the driver of the vehicle when he was stopped by police. He feels that the suspension will cause undue hardship because unless the vehicle is released by April, it may become necessary to file for bankruptcy.

Mr. Peter Dumas testified on behalf of the Applicant. Mr. Dumas confirmed that he had borrowed $15,000.00 on his credit card to start the business, which he loaned the Applicant and that the Applicant still owes him $ 3,500.00.

Mr. Dumas would like the car released due to the many engagements the company has for the month of May.

Under cross-examination, the witness verified that the Applicant has made partial repayment of the loan.

Mr. Dumas also attested that the business operating as Alfman Limousine is still making an income from the other services provided as indicated on his business card.

Mr. Dumas testified that he has lost several thousands of dollars, in that, the company has been forced to pass on the contracts to other firms for only a 10% commission.

In closing, the Applicant suggested that he could transfer the ownership to Mr. Dumas in order that the vehicle be returned.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant, William Ikkers, as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by William Ikkers;

3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence driving while disqualified under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until October 4, 2002.

The evidence of the Registrar consisted of the documents presented for the hearing and filed as Exhibit # 3.

Tendered in evidence by the Respondent, at the hearing, and filed as Exhibit # 6, is a certified copy from the Ministry of Transportation setting out the driving record of William E. Ikkers, Ministry of Transportation vehicle ownership search document, Notice to the Registrar, and Order to Impound.

The Registrar also entered an Affidavit from PC David Walter Lamont detailing the events that led to the impoundment and filed as Exhibit # 5.

In closing, the Respondent contended that the Applicant had an alternate method in place to fulfill his contracts, and that the situation did not meet the criteria under exceptional hardship.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may set aside the order to impound are,
 - (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

- (4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,

- (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The onus is on the Applicant to establish the exceptional hardship ground of appeal as provided in subsection 50.2(3)(d) of the Act. The Tribunal will proceed to review the criteria required to meet the onus for consideration of financial loss.

Is there no alternative to the impounded vehicle?

Subsection 22(3)(a) Regulation 574 as amended by O. Reg. 632/98 provided that this Tribunal may not consider financial or economic loss as a ground of appeal unless no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available.

The Applicant has ensured that his clients are provided for, by referring the bookings to other businesses. There is no evidence that no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available.

Is the loss immediate, significant and lasting?

The Applicant does not meet the criteria of O. Reg. 632/98, Subsection 22(3)(b) which provides that the Tribunal may not regard economic loss unless the Applicant shows proof that loss will be immediate, significant and lasting.

The Applicant did not satisfy the Tribunal that any losses incurred are significant or lasting.

Is the loss upon a person ordinarily transported in the motor vehicle?

There is no evidence to establish that there will be impact of a loss borne by any person or persons who may be transported in the impounded vehicle. Therefore, the requirements under O. Reg. 632/98, Subsection 22(3)(c) are not met.

Is the loss upon a person other than the driver of the motor vehicle and not a result of that driver's loss?

O. Reg. 632/98, Subsection 22(3)(d)(i)(ii), amending Regulation 574 provides that this Tribunal may not consider economic loss unless the owner demonstrates that:

d) the impact of the loss,

- i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle and...
- ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause 2(b)(c) or (d).

The Applicant is one and the same as the person who was found to be "Driving Disqualified", and does not, therefore, meet the criteria set out in 22(3)(d)(i)(ii). The Tribunal may not consider any such loss.

After assessing the evidence presented, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant has not established exceptional hardship as required as a ground of appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(d) of the Act.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

ORDER

Following attendances on May 1, 2000 at a prehearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000, is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) of Jill Copeland, counsel for Gaetan Lagace and 1302734 Ontario Inc. (the "Applicants") and Mitchell Goldbloom, counsel for the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Registrar");

The Tribunal makes the following Order respecting the hearing scheduled to commence at the Tribunal's Chambers, 1 St. Clair Avenue West, 12th floor, Toronto, Ontario, on May 29, 2000 and to continue on May 30, 31, and June 1, 2000, if necessary.

1) The Registrar intends to call to testify at the hearing the following police officers:

- (a) Detective Brian Smith
- (b) Detective John Thorne

- (c) Detective Doug Couseus
- (d) Detective Dave Robinson
- (e) Detective Mac Barber

- 2) The Registrar shall by no later than Friday May 5, 2000 furnish the Applicant's counsel with either
 - a written statement by each of such officers containing such officer's observations and opinions based on the worksheets of the officer who prepared same relative to the motor vehicle(s) examined by such officer(s);or
 - the actual worksheets prepared by the officer(s) relative to the motor vehicle(s) examined by such officer(s).
- 3) The Registrar intends to call to testify at the hearing Bruce Crocker, a member of the Insurance Crime Prevention Bureau of Canada and shall by no later than Friday May 5, 2000 furnish the Applicant's counsel with a written statement by Crocker explaining or defining such terms and/or phrases commonly used peculiarly within the motor industry in Ontario.
- 4) The Registrar intends to call to testify at the hearing either Mary Jane South or Amanda Leedempsey who are employed by the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council and shall by no later than May 5, 2000 furnish the Applicant's counsel with a written statement by either South or Leedempsey detailing the evidence they will give at the hearing insofar as the Act or Regulations under the Act are concerned. The written statement of either South or Leedempsey shall also contain her opinion of the potential harm that may be caused to a consumer when purchasing a motor vehicle that had previously been involved in a collision and thereby suffered damage.
- 5) The Registrar also intends to call as a witness to testify at the hearing, one Bill Arthur, an investigator with the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council and shall by no later than May 5, 2000 furnish the Applicant's counsel with a written statement by Arthur as to the evidence he will give at the hearing relating to the obligations imposed upon a registered motor vehicle dealer under the Act to maintain and keep a garage register. The written statement of Arthur shall also disclose the nature of his conversations to which he intends to testify that took place between him and consumers and police officers relative to the allegations made in these proceedings against the Applicants.

Appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap.H.8 as amended (the "Act"), from the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 55.1(3) of the Act.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: MALCOLM FEALING
Presiding member

APPEARANCES: KIM BEINTEMA
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

DIANA NELSON, Applicant

DATE OF HEARING: April 26, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 3, 2000 Hamilton

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 26, 2000, at Hamilton, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Diana Nelson (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1988 Ford COF, Plate #206 IHB (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: April 7, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on April 26, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

I AM APPEALING THE IMPOUNDMENT OF MY TRUCK ON THE GROUNDS OF EXCEPTIONAL HARDSHIP.

ON THE DAY OF THE IMPOUNDMENT I HAD TO GO TO WORK EARLY AT 7 AM. (I USUALLY DRIVE MY HUSBAND AND HIS EMPLOYEES TO WORK WHEN I DON'T HAVE TO WORK MYSELF.) THE USUAL DRIVER, MIKE, WAS SICK AND UNABLE TO DRIVE THIS DAY. MY HUSBAND HAD TO GET HIMSELF AND HIS OTHER EMPLOYEES TO WORK SO HE TOOK THE CHANCE AND DROVE HIMSELF. (NONE OF THE OTHER EMPLOYEES HAVE A DRIVER'S LICENSE.)

MY HUSBAND STARTED HIS OWN BUSINESS LAST YEAR AND RELIES ON THE TRUCK TO GET HIMSELF AND HIS EMPLOYEES TO WORK MOST DAYS AND TO MOVE THEIR HEAVY EQUIPMENT FROM JOB SITE TO JOB SITE.

HE IS IN THE CONSTRUCTION BUSINESS AND NEEDS THE TRUCK TO MOVE HIS SCAFFOLDINGS, PLANKS, BRACES, HANGARS AND TO PULL HIS MORTAR MIXER FROM JOB SITE TO JOB SITE, USUALLY ABOUT EVERY OTHER WEEK.

WE DO HAVE A MINI VAN AS WELL THAT I USE TO GET TO WORK AND TO RUN THE KIDS AROUND IN, BUT IT IS NOT BIG ENOUGH TO MOVE HIS EQUIPMENT.

WE HAVE TRIED TO FIND ANOTHER TRUCK TO MOVE EQUIPMENT BUT WE HAVE BEEN UNSUCCESSFUL.

WE HAVE THREE CHILDREN TO SUPPORT AND A MORTGAGE TO PAY. WE DEPEND ON HIS INCOME FROM THE BUSINESS TO PROVIDE FOR THESE EXPENSES.

WE ALSO HAVE EMPLOYEES WHO WILL BE WITHOUT WORK AND AN INCOME IF WE CANNOT GET THE EQUIPMENT MOVED TO THE NEXT JOB SITE.

DUE TO THE FACT THAT WE HAVE A REGULAR DRIVER FOR THE TRUCK WHEN I CANNOT DRIVE THEM TO WORK. I FEEL THAT WE SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO HAVE IT BACK SO THAT WE CAN CONTINUE OUR BUSINESS AND PROVIDE OUR EMPLOYEES WITH AN INCOME TO SUPPORT THEIR FAMILIES.

I WOULD APPRECIATE THAT THE HEARING BE SCHEDULED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE BECAUSE WE NEED TO MOVE EQUIPMENT RIGHT AWAY.

APPLICANT'S EVIDENCE: Mrs. Nelson did not call any witnesses. She testified and her evidence did not differ from her written appeal.

She advised that she had to go to work for 7.00 a.m. that day, and that her husband took the chance to drive the vehicle because the regular driver was sick. She indicated that the impounded vehicle was only used to move heavy equipment from site to site. This was only done approximately once every two weeks. The vehicle remained parked when not required. It was never used to transport the employees from site to site.

Her husband continues to operate the business. The employees have not missed a day of work; her children walk to school; and Mrs. Nelson continues to drive her van to work. The only expense incurred thus far is the rental of a UHaul van to move equipment, which is a cost of $ 150.00.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Royden Nelson;

3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence driving with more than 80 mgs. alcohol in blood under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until September 21, 2000.

The Registrar called no witnesses.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

- (3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:
 1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
 2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
 3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

- (4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or

- (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

As to the issue filed, the evidence established does not fit any of the provisions set out under Section 50.2 (3) of the Act.

The Tribunal finds that on the evidence given by the Applicant, exceptional hardship has not been established. The business continues to operate. The employees have not experienced a loss of wages.

An alternative to the vehicle has been found. A U-Haul van was rented at the nominal rate of $150.00 to move the heavy equipment. This satisfies Section 22 of Regulation 632/98 which requires the Tribunal to consider the ground of exceptional hardship only where no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available.

Neither the Applicant nor her children have been inconvenienced in any way. Mrs. Nelson has a van that she uses to drive to work. The children walk to school.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

APPEAL FROM A DECISION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE ONTARIO MOTOR VEHICLE DEALERS
COMPENSATION FUND

TO DISALLOW A CLAIM

TRIBUNAL: DEREK ISRAEL, Vice-Chair

APPEARANCES:

LOUIS M. FRIED, Counsel representing the Applicant
LARRY BANACK, Counsel representing the Ontario Motor Vehicle Dealers Compensation Fund

DATE OF HEARING:

April 19, 2000

Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) from a written decision of the Board of Trustees of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Compensation Fund (the "Board") dated December 14, 1999. The decision of the Board was to deny Andrew Somen (the "Applicant") compensation in respect of his claim of $6,150.00.

The Applicant entered in a written agreement dated September 28, 1997 with Auto Capital Inc. ("Auto Capital"). While there is no dispute between the parties that the Applicant and Auto Capital's sales manager signed the agreement there is no consensus as to the nature of the agreement.

The Applicant contends the agreement was a purchase agreement whereby the Applicant purchased a second-hand 1996 Ford Windstar Wagon (the "vehicle") from Auto Capital; that each monthly payment in terms of the agreement was effectively a payment towards increasing his equity in the vehicle and that he is entitled to be compensated for the installments he paid when he was deprived of possession of the vehicle through no fault of his own. The Board on the other hand contends the agreement between the Applicant and Auto Capital was a "lease to own" agreement; that the Applicant paid for the use of the vehicle on a monthly basis and that when payments under the lease ceased there was no further obligation on the Applicant to make payments and that there no pecuniary loss suffered by the Applicant.

There is no dispute between the Applicant and the Board that:

(i) the Applicant paid to Auto Capital eleven monthly payments of $550.00 each commencing on September 25, 1997 with a final payment on July 1, 1998.

(ii) that on October 24, 1996, Marigold Lincoln Mercury Sales Ltd. entered into a written agreement styled "Lease With Purchase Option" with Paul Szymanowski in regard to the vehicle which was then new and that that agreement was assigned to Ford Credit Canada Limited ("Ford") who became the owner of the vehicle.

(iii) that on August 14, 1998 upon demand being made to him by Ford, Applicant voluntarily surrendered the vehicle to it.

(iv) that the Applicant pursuant to a claim he filed in the Small Claims Court, obtained a default judgment against Auto Capital for $5,800.00 plus costs of $200.00 and that this judgment remains unsatisfied.

THE ISSUE:

The issue for determination is whether the Applicant is entitled to compensation from the Fund and if so the amount of such compensation.

THE EVIDENCE:

At the hearing, the Applicant and the Board based their respective cases on documentary and oral evidence. Insofar as the Applicant's case is concerned, no person other than the Applicant testified and the only persons to testify for the Board were Michael Kavanagh and Yvonne Hallitt.

The testimony of the Applicant was as follows.

In September 1997, he was managing a restaurant in Etobicoke when a customer, one Peter Ingster, who frequented that restaurant told the Applicant that he had a motor vehicle in which the Applicant might be interested. Ingster was the manager of a second-hand motor vehicle dealer which operated under the name of Auto Capital. The Applicant attended at Auto Capital, viewed the vehicle and a deal was struck between the Applicant and Auto Capital represented by Ingster. Applicant believed he was purchasing the vehicle from Auto Capital and he was presented with a document for his signature by Ingster. The document had printed upon it on the right hand top corner the words "Bill of Sale". This document (Exhibit 5) contains:

- the vehicle's information such as the VIN number
- the distance travelled by the vehicle which was noted as 54,311 kms
- the following statement under the heading "Comments":

"This is a lease to own agreement total of 15 payments of $550.00 insurance inclusive. Payments start on October 1, 1997 and each first of the month until December 1, 1998 for a total of $8,250.00. Then the ownership will be transferred upon payment in full for the amount of $17,741.00."

- the following under the heading "Terms of Settlement"

Selling Price	$26,190.00
Third Party Warranty	$ 790.00
Administration fee	$ 199.00
Lien Registration fee	$ 398.00
Net amount to be financed	$ 8,250.00
 Total balance due	 $17,741.00

- the signature of the Applicant as Purchaser and Peter Ingster, Sales Manager of Auto Capital as Vendor.

The Applicant stated he believed he was purchasing the vehicle when he signed the above document and when he paid the monthly installments of $550.00 to Auto Capital over a period of eleven months commencing September 25, 1997 until his last payment on July 1, 1998. He had not at any stage been given the vehicle's registration papers that reflected that he was the owner of the vehicle. He had been given a copy of the vehicle's insurance slip (Certificate of Insurance) which indicated the insured to be "Paul Szymanowski". The period of that certificate of insurance was from December 1996 to December 1997. He did not ask why Szymanowski was noted as the insured on the certificate. When this insurance expired, the Applicant went to Auto Capital to obtain a further certificate of insurance which he obtained. This certificate was for the period December 1997 to December 1998 and reflected the insured as Auto Capital. In July 1998 he asked Ingster when he would obtain ownership documents to the vehicle. He was advised by Ingster that he was to return the vehicle to Auto Capital when it would be replaced with another vehicle.

The Applicant did not return the vehicle to Auto Capital but contacted someone at Ford who advised him that Ford was the owner of the vehicle and that it had been reported stolen; that the Applicant had better "park the vehicle" immediately and return it to Ford. Applicant did return the vehicle to Ford on August 14, 1998. He was not able to recollect the odometer reading at that time. Neither before nor after surrendering the vehicle did the Applicant attempt to ascertain how much it would cost him to replace the vehicle with another of the same model. While he had possession of the vehicle he used it to travel to and from work. He also used it on a daily basis, to pick up and transport supplies for the restaurant and to use it for pleasure, which included travelling to and from a farm on weekends.

The Applicant confirmed that he attended at the Small Claims Court on July 23, 1998 and there completed in his handwriting claim documents in respect of his claim against Auto Capital. He further confirmed that on the claim document under "reasons for claim and details" he had written as follows:

End of September 1997, I Andrew Somen leased a Ford Windstar VIN # 2FMDA5147TBC47897 from Auto Capital Inc. I made an oral agreement with Peter Ingster that he would provide me with a leasing contract between myself and Auto Capital Inc. October 1st, I took possession of the vehicle upon agreeing with Peter Ingster that I would be paying each 25th of the month, $550.00 taxes and insurance included for the next 12 (twelve) months. After making 9 (nine) payments and security deposit of $550.00 dollars for a total of $5,500.00 dollars. Peter Ingster has not provided me with a lease to own contract. On each 25th of the month plus security deposit I paid Peter Ingster cash for what I never received a receipt. Before making a payment on July 25th I phoned Ford Credit Canada on the 22nd July, 1998. I spoke to Lee Meadows customer service rep. Telephone no. (905) 850-3722. I asked if he could provide information in regards of this vehicle and why the lease to own contract was not transferred to my name. I was told that the vehicle was owned by Ford Credit Canada and the vehicle was leased to Szymanowski, Paul M., and it can not be transferred to my name. I was instructed by Mr. Lee Meadows not to make any more payments and not to return the vehicle to Auto Capital Inc., until this matter would be solved.

The Applicant went on to state that when he filed his claim for compensation with the Board he attended at its offices and met with Ms. Hallitt an employee. He handed his claim documents to Ms. Hallitt together with supporting documents. Among the supporting documents was a letter he received from Auto Capital at the time of entering into the agreement with Auto Capital. This letter reads as follows:

September 25, 1997

Re: 96 Ford Windstar V.I.N. 2FMDA514TBC47897

This is to confirm the sale of the vehicle described above to Mr. Andrew Somen for the amount of $26,190.00. We acknowledge the deposit of $1,100.00, invoice no: 497958. This document stands as proof of purchase until the bill of sale will be issued.

General Manager

Buyer

"Peter Ingster" Somen"

"Andrew

(Exhibit 4)

The Applicant further stated that Ingster told him that Auto Capital purchased vehicles in Szymanowski's name.

The testimony of Michael Kavanagh who testified on behalf of the Board follows.

Mr. Kavanagh has been involved in the motor industry for approximately the past 20 years and is presently the owner of a car and truck rental company which has twelve locations and owns 700 vehicles. He is and has been for the last 10 years, a Director of the Used Car Dealers Association (UCDA).

Mr. Kavanagh was shown the letter of Auto Capital dated September 25, 1997 (Exhibit 4) and in regard thereto stated that it is not a bill of sale in that it does not comply with the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Act"). From his perusal of that letter he cannot determine the deal that may have been envisaged as there is no reference, among other things, to taxes, charges and licences and whether paid by the purchaser or the vendor.

Mr. Kavanagh noted that on the "Bill of Sale" document issued by Auto Capital to the Applicant in respect of the vehicle (Exhibit 5), the distance travelled by the vehicle was recorded as 54, 311 kms. He was also shown a copy of "Lease with Purchase Option" dated October 24, 1996 between Marigold Lincoln Mercury Sales Ltd. and Szymanowski (Exhibit 3, Tab 7). He pointed out to the Tribunal that the vehicle was originally leased to Szymanowski for 24 months at $467.71 per month. This amount according to the lease agreement included G.S.T. & P.S.T. but excluded insurance on the vehicle. He also noted that there was a 50,000 kilometer allowance for travel by the vehicle over the 24 months of the lease whereafter 6 cents per kilometer would be levied against the leasee. He stated that it was accepted in the industry that a vehicle on an annual basis will average between 20,000 and 25,000 kms. If the vehicle is used commercially a higher annual average would apply.

Mr. Kavanagh was asked to comment on his understanding of the "Bill of Sale" document (Exhibit 5). He stated that upon reading the "comments" section of that document his opinion was that the contract was not one of purchase and sale but rather a lease program. The monthly payments of $550.00 under that contract "was a bargain" as this amount not only includes G.S.T. and P.S.T. but also includes insurance on the vehicle as well as the "vehicles cost" to the owner. On the type of vehicle in the present instance, the monthly cost of insurance at that time would have been between $100.00 and $150.00 per month depending on whether the vehicle was to be used in business. The latter figure would have been a closer approximation of insurance cost when the vehicle is used for business.

Ms. Hallitt's evidence was as follows.

Ms. Hallitt stated she is employed by the Board as an Administrator. She confirmed that she met the Applicant when he called at the offices of the Board to file his claim and that she received his claim and certain documentation. She next met with the Applicant in the week of April 10, 2000 when he called at the Board's office to pick up certain documents left by him with the Board. During this visit, he asked Ms. Hallitt why his claim had been denied by the Board and she replied that it was on the basis of the transaction being a "lease to own" transaction. The Applicant thereupon stated that the "Bill of Sale" document between Auto Capital and him (Exhibit 5) was not the originating document but that another document was the transaction's originating document. This latter document was, the Applicant claimed, given to him by Ingster prior to the Bill of Sale (Exhibit 5). Ms. Hallitt informed the Applicant that the Board had not seen such document and that she had not received same from the Applicant among the documents in support of his claim. She asked to see this document and was told by the Applicant that it was with his lawyer. The Applicant informed Ms. Hallitt that this document was given to him by Auto Capital in February 1998, and it was at that time that it was backdated to September 1997.

Ms. Hallitt when shown the document (Exhibit 4) during her testimony, stated that it was the first occasion that she had seen that document.

Under cross-examination Ms. Hallitt recounted what documents she remembered receiving from the Applicant when he filed his claim and that Exhibit 4 was not among those documents. She did concede that she could possibly have overlooked Exhibit 4 as being one of the documents handed to her by the Applicant at the time he filed his claim with the Board.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

- 1) On October 24, 1996, Marigold Lincoln Mercury Sales Ltd. ("Marigold") entered into a lease agreement with Paul M. Szymanowski whereby Marigold leased a new 1996 Ford Windstar Wagon (the "vehicle") to Szymanowski.
- 2) The terms of the lease agreement were that the vehicle was leased to Szymanowski for a period of 24 months commencing October 24, 1996 at $467.71 per month inclusive of G.S.T. and P.S.T. but excluding insurance.

Szymanowski at the end of the 24 month term of the lease had the option to purchase the vehicle for $17,133.06. Upon the expiration of the 24 month term of the lease, Szymanowski was obliged to pay Marigold 6 cents per kilometer for each kilometer in excess of 50,000 kilometers travelled by the vehicle.

- 3) The aforesaid agreement was assigned to Ford who thereupon became the owner of the vehicle and to whom lease payments were then to be made by Szymanowski.
- 4) On or about September 28, 1997, Auto Capital entered into an agreement with the Applicant in relation to the vehicle. The agreement was a "lease to own" agreement in terms of which Auto Capital was to lease the vehicle to the Applicant for a term of 15 months commencing October 1, 1997 at a monthly lease rate of $550.00 per month inclusive of G.S.T., P.S.T. and insurance. At the end of the term of the lease, subject to due payment of the 15 lease installments totalling $8,250.00 and subject to payment of a further $17,741.00, Auto Capital undertook to transfer ownership of the vehicle to the Applicant.
- 5) The distance travelled by the vehicle as at September 28, 1997 was 54,311 kms.
- 6) The Applicant paid Auto Capital monthly lease payments of $550.00 for a total payment of $6,050.00.
- 7) On August 14, 1998, the Applicant, on demand made to him by Ford, surrendered the vehicle to the latter.
- 8) On July 23, 1998, the Applicant made a claim in the Small Claims Court against Auto Capital for $5,800.00. On August 3, 1998, Applicant obtained default judgment against Auto Capital for $5,800.00 plus $200.00 costs.
- 9) Applicant filed a claim for compensation with the Board and supported such claim with certain documents which did not include Auto Capital's letter of September 25, 1997 (Exhibit 4).
- 10) At no time prior to the hearing did the Applicant produce Exhibit 4 to the Board. Applicant produced it for the first time during the hearing of this matter.
- 11) The cost of insuring the vehicle during the period 1997/1998 was between $100.00 and $150.00 per month.

THE LAW:

The law relating to the Applicant's claim can be found in the Schedule to Regulation 801 under the Act and in particular to:

Section 1, which reads as follows:

In this schedule "claim" means a claim for pecuniary loss arising out of a transaction involving a trade in a motor vehicle.

Section 12(1) which reads as follows:

The Fund is established as of the 1st day of July, 1986, to stand in the place of a participant for the payment out of the Fund of claims of customers of the participant where the transactions occurred during the period when the participant was registered under the Act and where the participant has refused after demand or is unable to pay the claims.

Section 12(3) which reads as follows:

A customer may make a claim against the Fund where the customer gives written notice of the claim to the Registrar within two years of the participant's refusal or failure to pay, even if the motor vehicle dealer with respect to whom the claim is being made ceased to be a participant after the refusal or failure to pay, and where the claim meets one of the following requirements.....

DECISION AND ORDER:

The onus of proof rests upon the Applicant to prove on a balance of probabilities that he is entitled to payment of the amount claimed from the Fund.

From the evidence placed before the Tribunal it is clear that the owner of the vehicle at all relevant times was Ford. At the date the Applicant entered into the agreement of September 28, 1997 with Auto Capital the latter had no rights in and to the vehicle.

Based on the evidence before it, the Tribunal believes that the true agreement between Auto Capital and the Applicant was a lease agreement and was not a purchase and sale agreement. The Applicant knew at the time he signed that agreement (Exhibit 5) that it was a "lease to own agreement" for it stated so on the face of the agreement. Applicant acknowledge under cross-examination that he read the agreement including what was stated therein under the "comments" section. The Tribunal's belief is reinforced by what the Applicant in his own handwriting stated in his claim filed with the Small Claims Court (Exhibit 3, Tab 1, pages 19 & 20). In that document he clearly referred to a "lease" and "a leasing contract" between Auto Capital and him.

The Tribunal places no credence in the contents of Exhibit 4, which is Auto Capital's letter of September 25, 1997. The Tribunal accepts the evidence of Ms. Hallitt that she was not handed this letter by the Applicant when he filed his claim with the Board in October 1999. Ms. Hallitt stated that when she advised the Applicant that the letter was not with the Board and asked the Applicant for it, she was told by the Applicant that he did not have it with him and that it was with his lawyer. If this letter was with his lawyer, as he claims it was, the Applicant can not also claim in his discussion with Ms. Hallitt that he had given it to her for the Board's consideration when he filed his claim.

The Tribunal therefore finds that the true agreement between the Applicant and Auto Capital is that which is reflected in the "comments" section of Exhibit 5 namely a "lease to own" agreement. The Tribunal accepts that Ms. Hallitt was told by the Applicant when he called at the Board's offices in April, 2000 that Auto Capital's letter dated September 25, 1997 (Exhibit 4) was given to him in February 1998 at which time it was backdated to September, 1997.

The Tribunal therefore finds that all monthly payments of $550.00 made by the Applicant to Auto Capital were lease payments and to exercise the option to own the vehicle, the Applicant was obliged after payment of his lease payments to pay a globular sum of $17,741.00.

The Tribunal accepts that as at September 1997, the probable cost of having insurance coverage over the vehicle was between $100.00 and $150.00 per month and in addition G.S.T. and P.S.T. payable on each monthly installment was approximately $80.00 per month. On the basis that the vehicle was partly used as a business vehicle, its insurance premiums would have increased. The premiums plus the taxes would have amounted to approximately $200.00 per month.

It is not reasonable that the Applicant would use the vehicle without cost. The Tribunal finds a net monthly amount of about $350.00 is a reasonable sum for the Applicant to pay for his use of the vehicle.

Kavanagh's statement that payments of $550.00 per month "was a bargain" for this type and model of wagon was based on the monthly insurance and tax components amounting to about $200.00 per month. Based on the above calculations the Tribunal accepts that the Applicant in paying the $550.00 per month was obtaining a bargain for this vehicle.

The Applicant is, therefore, not entitled to claim repayment of the installments made by him.

The Applicant claims that he was establishing equity in the vehicle with each installment that he made and that he has been deprived of this equity due to his not being able to obtain ownership of the vehicle on payment of $17,741.00. The Applicant produced no evidence to indicate the vehicle's retail value when he surrendered it to Ford. The Applicant has not established any equity value or any loss in that regard.

ORDER:

Pursuant to the authority vested in it by the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act and the regulations made thereunder, the Tribunal directs the Board of Trustees of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Compensation Fund to disallow the claim of the Applicant.

RE: 1329331 Ontario Inc O/A Syprus Sales and Reza Alizadeh Safa and Mahmoud Alizadeh Safa

In accordance with section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers and Procedures Act, the parties hereto hereby waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal based upon the following Terms and Conditions;

Pursuant to subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, 1329331 Ontario Inc O/A Syprus Sales, Reza Alizadeh Safa and Mahmoud Alizadeh Safa hereby consents to the following terms and conditions to their registration as a motor vehicle dealer;

1. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that it will not retain the services of a salesperson unless the salesperson is registered as a salesperson to the Dealer.
2. The Dealer further acknowledges that the restrictions concerning the activities of salespersons referred to in these terms and conditions, applies to both buying and selling on behalf of a dealer. "Buying and selling" refers to showing a vehicle to a prospective purchaser or any form of negotiation concerning the purchase or sale of a vehicle and is not limited to the signing of contracts. This further includes attendance at auctions on behalf of the Dealer.
3. The Dealer agrees to maintain a garage register in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act and will maintain all books and records as required by Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, Regulation 801 Section 16 The Dealer further agrees to store his books and records at the location approved by the Registrar.
4. The Dealer will ensure that all advertisements placed by or on behalf of the Dealer will identify his registered name and the address of the location approved by the Registrar.

5. The Dealer agrees not to invite the public to deal at a place other than his approved location.
6. The Dealer agrees to operate exclusively from the location approved by the Registrar. The Dealer shall maintain an office and a sign, visible to the public, at his registered location. The Dealer will maintain a lot adjacent to his office for retail sales. The Dealer agrees to apply for the Registrar's approval, by way of prior written notice, of any change in his business location in the form required by the Registrar. The Dealer further agrees to provide the Registrar with a municipal permit for the registered premise within 60 days of registration.
7. The Dealer will not conduct any purchases or sales with anyone who is in the business of buying and selling motor vehicles without confirming that they are registered as a dealer under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.
8. The Dealer will ensure that any vehicles sold are registered in the name of the purchaser before releasing the vehicle to the purchaser.
9. The Dealer will not purchase vehicles without ensuring that the vehicle is registered to the seller.
10. The Dealer agrees to register all vehicles purchased within 6 days in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act.
11. The Dealer agrees that it is under a positive obligation to disclose all material facts about the vehicles it sells to its customers. The Dealer agrees to make reasonable efforts to research the history of all its vehicles prior to sale to ensure all material facts are disclosed. The Dealer agrees that should any information come to light, which the Registrar deems to be a material fact, concerning a vehicle the Dealer has sold, the Dealer will comply with all reasonable requests made by the Registrar to provide compensation to the purchaser. The Dealer agrees to keep a copy of all Safety Certificates he receives for all vehicles that are sold "fit". The Dealer further agrees to keep notes, records and other documentation related to the research of any vehicle he purchases and subsequently sells. Said research shall be maintained as part of the Dealer's books and records and kept in accordance with Motor Vehicle Dealers Act Regulation 801 Section 15.
12. Reza Alizadeh Safa and Mahmoud Alizadeh Safa agree not to transfer their registration to another dealership without receiving prior written authorization from the Registrar.
13. Mahmoud Alizadeh Safa agrees to provide the Registrar with proof of successful completion of the Automotive Certification Program through Georgian College within six months of registration.
14. The Dealer acknowledges that the Registrar may take further administrative action, including a proposal to revoke his registration, arising from any matters that have occurred or may occur related to honesty and integrity or financial position.

15. In the event that any of the Terms and Conditions set out herein are breached, the parties agree that the Registrar is authorized and directed to carry out the Proposal and shall revoke the registrations of 1329331 Ontario Inc, Reza Alizadeh Safa and Mahmoud Alizadeh Safa.
16. The Dealer hereby withdraws his appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.
17. The Dealer acknowledges that he has obtained or has had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to its consent to the terms and conditions set out herein.

DATE OF HEARING: April 25, 2000

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS:

The following documents were entered into evidence as exhibits with the consent of both parties.

By the Applicant:

Exhibit # 1 Notice of Appeal - dated March 06, 2000

Exhibit # 2 32 Page submission

By the Respondent:

Exhibit # 3 Ministry of Transportation submissions, tabs 1-24 with Addition of true and certified copy of driver's record search.

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

There were no preliminary matters and the hearing proceeded as scheduled.

FACTS:

The Applicant was brought to the attention of the Ministry of Transportation by way of a random update of his driver's licence. The Ministry's update indicated that the Applicant was required to file an updated medical report in order to maintain his classified driver's licence. This was to be filed with the Ministry in June 1997 and was to reference his alcohol consumption. The request was apparently not sent to the Applicant at that time. It appears, however coincidentally, that the Applicant received a 90 day ADLS on April 12, 1999 and notification was given on the April 21, 1999 requiring the Applicant to file a detailed report from a physician specializing in addictions medicine, confirming successful completion of a treatment program, participation in relapse prevention, period of abstinence and laboratory test results. The report was to be received by June 16, 1999. Failure to do this would result in further licence suspension.

The Applicant submitted documentation to the Board from his family Physician #1, Physician # 2, Gastroenterologist and Physician # 3, specialist in alcoholism and drug dependencies. In summary, these letters confirmed that the Applicant has a history of alcohol use, participation in relapse prevention programs on an on-and-off basis. The report submitted by Physician # 3 dated March 22, 2000 supports the diagnosis of Substance Related Disorder/Alcohol Dependence.

The Applicant followed the recommendations of Physician # 3 and completed a 28-day residential inpatient program for rehabilitation from his alcohol dependence. According to this report, the Applicant continues to be abstinent from alcohol since July 5, 1999. The Board accepts the report as confirmation of the diagnosis.

The Board also accepts that the blood tests submitted are not a true indicator of whether or not the Applicant continues to drink as the Applicant is suffering from Hepatitis C which can alter the levels of specific liver enzymes to resemble alcoholic hepatitis.

The Applicant provided testimony to this Board. The Applicant testified that he was not aware of what the criteria for his driver's licence were and what was required to have his driver's licence re-instated. It was pointed out to this Board by his Agent that the Applicant is a simple man and would have taken everything said to him literally and would not have known what steps to take, such as being abstinent for a period of one year as the Ministry had previously only requested a follow-up medical report referencing his alcohol use. According to the Applicant, if he had known this in April 1999, he would not have consumed alcohol in July 1999.

The Applicant testified that he is attending AA meetings regularly and his witness, Witness #1 has confirmed under oath that the Appellant has been regularly attending the AA meetings.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's driver's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
- (b) a driver's licence; or
- (c) a CVOR certificate,

on the grounds of,

- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
- (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
- (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
- (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

- 50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board.
- (2) The Board may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The Board finds that on the basis of the evidence presented, the Applicant was suffering from an addiction to alcohol as described by regulation 340/94, Section 14(a) and (b).

The Registrar relies on Section 47(1)(g) to suspend the Applicant's driving privilege. The Registrar also relies on the medical standards of the C.M.A. and N.S.C.

The Board accepts the date of last alcohol consumption as July 5th, 1999 and not the 23rd of July 1999 as indicated by the Respondent. By applying the medical standards, the Applicant must confirm successful treatment for alcohol abuse, one-year total abstinence supported by MCV and GGT laboratory tests and participation in a relapse prevention program. The Applicant has provided the Board with a detailed history of relapse after attendance at previous programs. The Applicant has also admitted that he has a chronic alcohol problem.

The Board believes that the Applicant is aware of the gravity of the situation and is attempting to comply with the recommendations of the Ministry. The Board recognizes that the Applicant has attended a relapse prevention program and is attending an after-care program.

The Applicant has admitted to his past use/abuse of alcohol.

The Board accepts the evidence presented, however, the recommended one-year abstinence period has not been met.

The Registrar has provided sufficient evidence to this Board to show that the Applicant suffers from alcohol addiction and that it is likely to significantly interfere with his ability to drive a motor vehicle. The Registrar has met the onus of establishing this condition as described in Regulation 340/04 Section 14(a) of the HTA. The Board supports the recommendation of the M.A.C. and the Registrar that the Applicant must remain alcohol free for one year from the date of July 5th 1999 to support reinstatement of his driver's licence.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated September 29, 1999 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend her/his driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Board, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE BOARD that the decision of the Registrar be confirmed.

DATE OF HEARING: April 27th, 2000 Toronto

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS:

The documents filed with the Tribunal were entered into evidence with the consent of both parties.

For the Applicant:

Exhibit # 1 Notice of Appeal dated March 9th, 2000

For the Respondent:

Exhibit # 2 Ministry of Transportation Submissions, tabs 1-6 received April 14, 2000

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

There were no preliminary matters and the hearing proceeded

FACTS:

The representative for the Respondent, Kim Beintema was sworn and proceeded to give testimony. The testimony given was not challenged by the Applicant and accepted by this Tribunal as factual. Upon questioning from the Applicant of Miss Beintema, the Applicant was made cognisant of what the Ministry was requiring for licence reinstatement. He said that he was not aware of what was actually required and thought that he had complied enough to get his driver's licence back. Once Miss Beintema outlined the requirements for reinstatement, the Applicant was satisfied. The Ministry's representative and the Applicant agreed on the date of last consumption to be October 24, 1999. According to the Applicant, he has not consumed any alcohol since that time and has clearly stated that he is a recovering alcoholic. He provided supportive documentation from Physician # 1, Neurologist. Physician # 1 stated that "if he continues on the same path he would represent a reasonable candidate for reinstatement."

The Applicant and the Respondent have agreed that the Applicant will continue with ongoing AA meetings and that the Applicant will forward to the Ministry the appropriate laboratory test results that will substantiate his abstinence from alcoholic intake.

The Respondent has indicated that if the Applicant complies and submits the aforementioned documents, licence reinstatement will occur on the 24th of October 2000.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's driver's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
 - (b) a driver's licence; or
 - (c) a CVOR certificate,
- on the grounds of,
- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
 - (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
 - (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
 - (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

- 50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board.
- (2) The Board may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The Applicant has admitted to this Tribunal that he is a recovering alcoholic and, accordingly, is suffering from an addiction to alcohol as described by Regulation 340/94 Section 14(a) (b). The Applicant has admitted to his abuse of alcohol.

The Board commends the Applicant for his efforts and accepts that the Applicant has stopped drinking. The effective date of this was agreed to as October 24th, 1999. This is supported by the medical evidence submitted by Physician # 1, Neurologist.

By applying the medical standards, the Applicant must confirm successful treatment for alcohol abuse, one-year total abstinence supported by MCV and GGT laboratory tests and participation in a relapse prevention program.

The Registrar has provided sufficient evidence to this Board to show the Applicant suffers from alcohol addiction and that it is likely to significantly interfere with his ability to drive a motor vehicle.

The Registrar has met the onus of establishing this condition as described in Regulation 340/94 Section 14(b) of the HTA.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated December 12, 1999 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend his driver's Licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Board, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant.

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE BOARD pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be confirmed.

APPEARANCES: SANDRA QUADRINI

FORD CREDIT CANADA LTD.
Applicant

MICHAEL LINDSAY, Representative for the Applicant

DATE OF HEARING: April 27, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 2, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 27, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Ford Credit Canada Ltd. (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1997 Ford F250, Plate #484 OCL (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: April 7, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance (Exhibit 2).

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act (Exhibit 2).

This matter came before this Tribunal on April 27, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit 2) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

FORD CREDIT CANADA LIMITED is the owner of the vehicle which is the subject matter of this appeal. The vehicle was leased to Christopher J. Kennedy on December 31, 1996.

In order to ensure that the customer complies with law relation to use of the motor vehicle, the lease contains the following provision:

"(21) Vehicle Use: You will obey all laws in using the Vehicle".

Failure to comply with clause (21) of the lease is a breach which entitles Ford

Credit Canada Limited to terminate the lease. Because the Ministry of Transportation advises us that Christopher Kennedy was driving while his licence was suspended, Ford Credit Canada Limited has terminated the lease and now wishes to take possession of the vehicle. A copy of this lease is attached to this Schedule.

Under the circumstances, Ford Credit Canada Limited has done everything it conceivably could to ensure that its customer complied with the law. Because the lease is now terminated, the driver, Christopher Kennedy, will not have the vehicle returned to him by Ford Credit Canada Limited. His loss of the vehicle is therefore permanent, a result more harsh for him than intended by the statute under which the vehicle is impounded.

The representative of the Applicant, Michael Lindsay who is employed by Ford Credit Canada Ltd, gave oral evidence.

On December 31, 1996, Christopher Kennedy (the "Lessee") entered into a 4-year written lease agreement with Sheridan Mercury Sales Limited (the "Dealership") in Mississauga with regard to leasing a 1997 Ford Pick-up truck. Upon signing the lease agreement, the Dealership obtained from the Lessee a photocopy of his driver's licence as well as a photocopy of his insurance coverage.

The Dealership thereafter assigned this lease agreement to the Applicant. The Applicant received the file which contained a copy of the Lessee's executed lease agreement, a copy of his driver's licence, a copy of his insurance coverage, pre-payment authorization form as well as lease-end options just to name a few.

Once the Applicant received this file, the Lessee's insurance information was outsourced to a company in San Francisco, which runs checks on each lessee's insurance coverage to determine its validity. Its turnaround time is approximately 60 days. At no time prior to or after the lease was entered into was a driver's record requested.

Mr. Lindsay did testify that the Applicant does perform due diligence on lessees, but only occasionally. Their practice mainly relies on the findings of the insurance check through the San Francisco company.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record as Exhibits 4 on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Christopher Kennedy;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of failing to provide a breath or blood sample under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until August 17, 2000.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The issue to be considered in this appeal is whether the Applicant exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the Lessee's driver's licence at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension.

Mr. Lindsay testified that the Applicant is the owner of the vehicle that has been impounded and at the time of impoundment the vehicle was being driven by the Lessee whose driver's licence was then under suspension.

The onus of proof is on the Applicant to establish that due diligence was performed which is required under Section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

Mr. Lindsay testified that the branch where he is employed receives between 100 to 400 lease agreements per week. The Applicant's primary concern is whether the lessees can meet the financial requirements of their lease; a valid driver's licence and insurance coverage are secondary. If, for example, a lessee fails to meet its financial obligations under its lease agreement, that is about the only time that an in-depth investigation is done on that particular lessee wherein a driver's record would be requested.

Mr. Lindsay did make the argument and referred to clauses 16 and 21 of the lease agreement, which state:

“(16) Default: If You fail to make any payment under this Lease when it is due, or if You fail to keep any other agreement in this Lease, Lessor may terminate the Lease and take back the vehicle.

(21) Vehicle Use : You will obey all laws in using the Vehicle.”

Therefore, the Lessee was in default of the lease. The Applicant is entitled to have the vehicle returned to it and/or repossessed.

Unfortunately, neither the Dealership nor the Applicant took any measures any time after the execution of the above-mentioned lease agreement to ensure that the Lessee had a valid driver's licence. Furthermore, there was no evidence heard that would confirm the Applicant's actions were anything but passive in nature.

The evidence before the Board is that the Applicant has not demonstrated that it made any attempts to satisfy the requirements of Section 50.2(3)(c) the Act.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: April 26, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 3, 2000 Hamilton

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 26, 2000, at Hamilton, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Mike Hughes (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1996 Chev Van, Plate #866 8A7 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: April 7, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on April 26, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

In response, the Applicant produced an order dated April 25, 2000, signed on behalf of the Licence Appeal Tribunal by Mr. Stuart Cork, Member.

This order was based upon a Motion, made by the representative of the Registrar for an order by the Tribunal dismissing the Applicant's ground of appeal of exceptional hardship as a ground to be heard at a hearing to take place on April 26, 2000. On reading the exhibits and hearing submissions, the Tribunal found that the ground of exceptional hardship [section 50.2 (3) (d)] upon which the Applicant relied on the appeal did not apply by virtue of section 50.2 (4), as a previous order to impound under section 55.1 had been made with respect to another vehicle then owned by the Applicant.

The ground of exceptional hardship was dismissed, and did not form part of the hearing of April 26, 2000.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #2) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

The owner appeals based on section 50.2(c) and (d).

- (c) Under the first ground the owner submits that he exercised due diligence by pulling motor vehicle records for all of its drivers including Ian McMillan. On December 8, 1999 the driver in question showed as licenced.

In support of the motor vehicle record check please find enclosed a letter from our insurance agent dated March 20, 1999.

- (b) It is submitted that under s.22(2) the board may consider subsections (a) (b) (c) as the owner will demonstrate that subsection (3) is satisfied. The resulting hardship is upon the owner of the vehicle and several other employees, that make us a crew, and would use that vehicle which is impounded.

Mrs. Kirsten Hughes began by informing the Tribunal that she was involved in running the business.

Mr. Ian McMillan, was the driver whose driver's licence was under suspension when he was pulled over by the police on the 28th of March 2000, at which time the vehicle was impounded. He had been hired by the Company in mid-April 1999. Mrs. Hughes advised the Tribunal that her husband interviewed prospective employees. She was unable to state if her husband asked the Applicants to show their driver's licences at the time of the interview.

It was not company practice to check the validity of employees' driver's licences until the company's insurance was due for renewal. In this case, the renewal date was December 8, 1999. Mrs. Hughes was sure that it was company practice to provide the insurance company with all employees' driver's licence numbers. The insurance company then checked the validity of all licences prior to renewing the Insurance Policy.

The Tribunal was provided with the copy of a letter dated March 30, 2000, signed by Nina Welch of W.R. McCallum Insurance Limited, which states that at the time Mr. McMillan's record was pulled on December 8, 1999, his driver's licence was valid. There was no reason for the insurance company to inform Mr. Hughes of any concerns regarding McMillan's driving record.

Mr. McMillan was driving for three and a half months before the incident occurred. The Applicant did not find it unreasonable to presume that the driver continued to have a valid driver's licence. Her question to the representative for the Registrar was that if the onus was on the company to be sure that all drivers had valid licences, how often should a company check the drivers' records to demonstrate due diligence?

The Applicant informed the Tribunal that the company was at its busiest between March and September. Things became very quiet during the autumn and stopped altogether during the winter. She emphasised that at the start of each season the staff were asked whether their driver's licences were in good standing.

The Applicant also expressed grave misgivings about the impoundment of the vehicle for 90 days. The vehicle was leased, and she had no control whatsoever over the actions of any of Newport Leasing's other lessees. She was very upset that her company was being penalized for actions that were entirely out of her control, and accordingly requested that if the Tribunal did not find that her company had exercised due diligence, then a reduction of the impoundment order from 90 days to 45 days should be considered.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Mr. Ian McMillan.
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of ability impaired, suspension no. 0045070 under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until 17 March 2001.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsections 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3.

Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The only issue to be considered in this appeal is that of due diligence. The grounds of appeal under section 50.2 (3)(c) of the Act requires that the Applicant show the Tribunal that Newport Leasing Ltd. exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that Mr. McMillan's driver's licence was not suspended at the time of the impoundment of the Applicant's vehicle.

The agent for the Applicant did demonstrate that the company owned by the lessee had made an effort to confirm the validity of the driving licence. The company did receive a letter from the insurance company stating that the driver's licence was valid on December 8 1999. The Applicant also advised that the company asks every employee whether their driver's licences are valid at the start of every season. However, it is clear that the company relied on the insurance company to verify Mr. McMillan's driver's licence. The grounds of appeal under section 50.2 (3)(c) of the Act requires that it is the responsibility of the owner to exercise due diligence. This responsibility cannot be delegated to a third party.

The Tribunal, therefore, finds that the Applicant has failed to establish that due diligence was exercised as required by the Act.

With respect to the Applicant's plea to reduce the period of the impoundment from 90 days to 45 days, it must be pointed out that the Tribunal has no jurisdiction under the law to make such a ruling on humanitarian grounds. Section 50.2 (5) of the Act states, " the Tribunal may confirm or set aside the order to impound," and here the Act's requirements to stipulate a 90 day suspension are not in dispute.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: April 26, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 2, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 26, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Ana Blaga (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1987 Cevro Celebrity, Plate #564 ZSF (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: April 6, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Board on April 26, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Board asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Board commencing the hearing.

All documents tendered by the Appellant and the Respondent were entered into evidence as exhibits with the consent of both parties.

The Applicant asked that her son, act as translator for her, as she had difficulties with the English language. Mr. Sanu Blaga, was administered the oath for a translator and proceeded to translate the proceeding for his mother into Romanian.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Board (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Board heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Board in support of appeal states:

DID NOT KNOW THAT MY SUN WAZ OWER MEDICATED AND HAD BEEN DRINKIN 3 BEER. TAKE KEY WENT DOWN. WHAT HAPPEN IS THE POLICE FOUND MY SUN BEHIND CANADA TRUST BANK WITH CAR PARKED SORRY CAN NOT WRITE EVERY THING GOOD ON PAPER WILL EXPLAIN MORE IN PERON
THANK YOU

The Applicant testified that having this vehicle impounded has created hardships for her as she is transported by her husband in this vehicle to various medical appointments on a weekly basis. Without the vehicle her ability to attend doctors appointments and buy groceries and perform other household errands has been seriously affected. The Applicant, unlicensed herself, gave the vehicle keys to her son (the driver of the vehicle at the time of the impoundment) and his friends to conduct banking business. Her son's driver's licence was under suspension at the time, and was charged and the vehicle was impounded.

The Applicant testified that she had on occasion entrusted the keys to her vehicle to a friend of her son's, whom she believed to be responsible, and to have a valid driver's licence. Furthermore, she had known prior to the impoundment that her son did not possess a valid driver's licence.

The Applicant testified she suffered from a variety of health problems necessitating doctors appointments every two weeks and a doctors report put in evidence that the Applicant was hospitalized for the period April 2-6, 2000.

Because of her health condition she testified she was unable to use public transportation and that she could not get assistance from her husband who also suffered health problems and was generally unwilling to help.

Her son lives separately from her parents, is at school five days a week and is unable to assist the Applicant.

The Applicant also stated she could not afford taxicabs.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
3. Doctors letter regarding hospitalization of the Applicant.
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of a variety of driving offences.

The Registrar questioned the Applicant regarding seeking assistance to utilize public transport to attend doctors appointments and to grocery shop and the viability of taking taxicabs.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Board. The Board on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Board is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Board where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsections 50.2(3)(c) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22
- (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) a threat to the health or safety or any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
 - (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
 - (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
 - (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

The Applicant's testimony did not show that the Applicant made any inquiry as to the status of her son's driver's licence being valid because she knew it was under suspension. She made no inquiry as to the status of his friends' driver's licences. Accordingly, with no evidence of inquiry on her part, she has not established due diligence as required as a ground of appeal under section 50.2 of the Act.

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

The Appellant has appealed on the grounds of exceptional hardship, in accordance with Section 50.2(3)(d). Section 22 of Regulation 632/98 is very specific, in that it provides the Board with the specific criteria the Appellant must meet to determine if in fact exceptional hardship will result from the impoundment.

In order for the Appellant's claims to be considered under Section 22(1)(a) of the Regulation provides the criteria for demonstrating that every reasonable option has been considered for an alternative vehicle. The Appellant has made no specific claims of exceptional hardship as described by Section 22(1)(a) or (b).

The Board is bound by section 22 of Regulation 632/98 which requires an Applicant to establish that alternatives to the impounded vehicle be considered when the Applicant appeals on the basis of exceptional hardship under section 50.2 of the Act. The Applicant failed to show serious consideration of alternatives to the impounded vehicle, such as, gaining assistance from relatives or others to help her to attend medical appointments, using public transportation or considering other means of help.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Board under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Board confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF
MOTION: April 26th, 2000

ORDER

A motion was heard on April 26th, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's request for an extension of time to appeal the impoundment order of the Registrar affecting the Applicant's motor vehicle. The motion is brought pursuant to Section 20(7) of Ontario Regulation 632/98 amending Regulation 574 of the Revised Regulations of Ontario, 1990 made under the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990. c.H.8 amended ("HTA").

Submissions of Written Material

The Applicant submitted the following documents:

1. Copy of Impound Order dated February 27th, 2000.
2. Original Notice of Appeal/Owner's Position received March 29, 2000.
3. Copy of owner's vehicle ownership permit.
4. Request for motion received April 11, 2000.

The Facts

The Applicant is the owner of a motor vehicle which was impounded for a period of 45 days pursuant to an order of the Registrar issued under section 55.1 of the Highway Traffic Act R.S.O. 1990, c. H.8 as amended (the "Act").

The motor vehicle was impounded on February 27th, 2000, while it was being driven by the Applicant's common-law spouse.

The Applicant's Notice of Appeal to the impoundment was dated March 23rd, 2000 and was received by the Board on March 29th, 2000, outside of the 15 days prescribed by Section 20(1) of Regulation 632/98 made under the Highway Traffic Act. The motion presently before the Board is for an order, in terms of section 20(7) of the above regulation, for an extension of the time for the filing of the Notice of Appeal.

Section 20(1) of Regulation 632/98 states:

20. (1) An appeal to the Board under section 50.2 of the Act shall be commenced by filing a notice of appeal with the Board within 15 days of the issuance of the order to impound, together with a fee of $100 payable to the Minister of Finance.

Section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98 states:

20. (7) Despite subsection (1), the Board may extend the time for commencing an appeal if the owner establishes that the owner, acting in good faith, was unable through accident, illness, or other cause beyond the owner's control to bring the appeal within the prescribed 15 days.

Section 7 of the Licence Appeal Tribunal Act, 1999 states:

7. Despite any limitation of time fixed by or under any Act for the giving of any notice requiring a hearing by the Tribunal or an appeal from a decision or order of the Tribunal under section 11 or any other Act, if the Tribunal is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for applying for the extension and for granting relief, it may,

- (a) extend the time for giving the notice either before or after the expiration of the limitation of time so limited; and
- (b) give the directions that it considers proper as a result of extending the time.

The Order

THE BOARD RULED TO REFUSE TO GRANT an extension of the time to commence this appeal for the following reasons.

REASONS FOR ORDER

Section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98, provides the Board with the specific criteria that the Applicant must meet to satisfy the Board that an extension of the time for commencing an appeal ought to be granted. The Applicant must establish that the owner, acting in good faith, was unable through accident, illness or other cause beyond the owner's control to bring the appeal within the prescribed 15 days in circumstances where the Registrar does not give his or her consent in writing for an appeal to be commenced after the expiry of the prescribed time. The Board is precluded under section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98 from considering other factors not arising from or directly related to these criteria. The Applicant's explanation for not filing within the required 15 days was that he was naïve about these kinds of proceedings and that he was very busy with work.

The evidence presented does not establish that the Applicant's delay in appealing the order impounding the vehicle, under Section 55.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, was the result of accident, illness or other cause beyond the Applicant's control as required by section 20(1) as read with section 20(7) of Regulation 632/98. Further, the Applicant has not demonstrated to the Board that there are reasonable grounds for applying for the extension and for granting relief. Accordingly, the requirements under section 7 of the Licence Appeal Tribunal Act have not been met.

The motion brought by the Applicant to the Board for an extension of time to appeal is therefore dismissed.

MURDOCH GROUP INC.

Appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap.H.8 as amended (the "Act"), from the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 55.1(3) of the Act.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL:	JOE HEWITT Presiding member
APPEARANCES:	KIM BEINTEMA Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles Murdoch Group Inc. John Knight, representative
DATE OF HEARING:	May 3, 2000
DECISION RELEASED:	May 8, 2000	Sudbury

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 3, 2000, at Sudbury, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar") made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Murdoch Group Inc. (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 2000 Chevrolet Impala, Plate # 676 WPO (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: April 13, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on May 3, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

"The vehicle owner, Murdoch Group Inc., rents vehicles under the name "National Car Rental". The impounded vehicle was rented to a Michel McMahon. Mr. McMahon proceeded to lend the car to a Mr. Jason Lebreton (suspended licence) without Murdoch Group Inc. being informed and without consent from our office, which violates the terms and conditions of the rental agreement."

Mr. John Knight, vice-president of the Murdoch Group, appeared on behalf of the Applicant. Mr. Knight testified that on March 29, 2000 they rented a vehicle to Mr. Michael McMahon. The vehicle was rented for three days and Mr. McMahon was to be the only driver under the terms of the rental agreement filed as exhibit #4. The terms and conditions of the rental agreement were explained to Mr. McMahon at the time of the rental of the vehicle. Mr. McMahon produced a valid driver's licence at the time of the rental.

Mr. Knight stated that the Applicant exercised due diligence in attempting to ensure that no person other than the authorized driver, sign the rental agreement. The rental agreement was then explained to Mr. McMahon.

Mr. Knight did not know how Mr. Jason Lebreton became the operator of the rental vehicle whether it was stolen or loaned to Mr. Lebreton at the time of the impoundment. Mr. Lebreton did not have consent or authorization from the Murdoch Group to use its vehicle.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Jason Lebreton;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving while disqualified under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until July 8, 2023.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
 - (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

To succeed in this appeal, the Applicant must establish that it exercised due diligence to determine that Jason Lebreton's driver's licence was not under suspension at the time of the vehicle being impounded.

The Tribunal finds that Jason Lebreton's driver's licence was under suspension and further finds that he was driving the Applicant's motor vehicle at the time that it was impounded.

Section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act requires that the owner, Murdoch Group Inc., exercise due diligence in attempting to determine that Jason Lebreton driver's licence was not suspended at the time of the impoundment of the owner's motor vehicle.

The evidence does not establish that the Applicant made any inquiries with respect to the status of Mr. Lebreton's licence. The Applicant argues that Mr. Lebreton was unknown to the Applicant and, therefore, it is not to be expected that the Applicant would be required to make inquiries respecting Mr. Lebreton. However, the ground of appeal argued by the Applicant is subsection 50.2(3)(c) of the Act which requires that the Applicant making inquiries as to Mr. Lebreton's licence at the time of the impoundment. Meeting the requirements of subsection 50.2(3)(c) is the sole basis of this Tribunal's jurisdiction in this hearing.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant has failed to establish that the owner of the vehicle exercised due diligence as required by subsection 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: April 28, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 2, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on April 28, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 as amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Richard Salomon (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1987 Honda Accord, Plate # AHED 455 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: April 7, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on April 28, 2000 and proceeded as a written hearing.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

April 3, 2000

Dear Sir / madame

I am requesting a notice of appeal regarding the forty five day impoundment on my vehicle. The event leading to the impoundment was that I had a few drinks and did not want to drive my car. I had asked my friend to drive it to my residence and he could stay the night. When we were stoped by the police I was informed that he was under suspension and that my car would be impounded.

To explaine my situation, the car was bought for me to help my mother get to and from work. She does not drive and she works off hours and transportation is difficult for her.

I have created a difficult terrible situation for my mother and may have to give up her job because of it.

My mother and I leave our home at 5:45 in the morning to one of the elderly people she cares for from my place of employment.

I arrive at aproximetly 3:30 after my job to take her to another residence where she stays until until 7-8 pm. My mother helps theise elderly people by attending their needs, laundry, light house keeping, yard work, etc. She has grown to the people and they have likewise, they look forward of arival and depend on my mother very much.

I am writing in the hope that I can have my car released before the 45 days so that my mother does not have to give up her employment. I have put my mother in a tight situation because of my stupidty that I take responsibility for.

I thank you for your time and hope that this situation can be resolved as soon as possible.

I have included letters from the people that my mother cares for.

Richard Salomon

Attached to the above submission was the following written submission from Willa McMillan:

To Whom it may concern:

This letter is to confirm that Deborah Salomon is the caregiver to my mother three days a week. Mrs. Salomon has told me her situation ...that she may have to quit because of the travel difficulties her son has created.

If this letter helps in any way that this situation does not occur we (my 81 year old mother and I) would be forever grateful. I have interviewed many people. But no one has the capability Mrs. Salomon has shown.

She arrives at 6:30 p.m. until 3:30 three times a week. Mrs. Salomon cleans, prepares meals, takes my mother for walks and bathes her. (an unreplaceable friend to her)

I thank you for taking the time to read this letter and I hope it helps our situation.

My name is Willa McMillan and I can be reached at <telephone #>.

Thanks again

Willa McMillan

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Daniel T. Evans.
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving with more than 80 mgs. alcohol in 100 millilitres of blood under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until November 12, 2000.
5. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the suspended driver, Daniel T. Evans, is the registered owner of a motor vehicle.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

- (3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Tribunal.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may set aside the order to impound are,
- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines Exceptional hardship as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

- (4) Clause (3)(d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Tribunal in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Tribunal shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
- (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Tribunal shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) inconvenience to any person;
- (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
- (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
- (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Tribunal may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2)(b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
- (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
- (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
- (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
- (d) the impact of the loss,
- (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
- (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3)(a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The Applicant has appealed on the grounds that the impoundment of his vehicle will result in exceptional hardship.

Under Section 22 of Regulation 574 of R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, the owner must establish that no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available as a prerequisite condition for a finding of exceptional hardship under subsections (1) or (3).

The Applicant does not discuss the issue of his attempts to secure alternative transportation for his mother. The Applicant does not mention, for example, the use of taxis, the renting of a vehicle, the use of public transportation, or the borrowing of the vehicle of the suspended driver, Daniel T. Evans. The Tribunal notes that the vehicle was impounded on March 23, 2000 and that the Applicant's Position in Appeal was written on April 3, 2000. The Applicant's statement indicates that as of April 3, 2000 the Applicant's mother was still employed. The statement does not indicate that the Applicant's mother had not attended at her workplace(s) since the impoundment of the vehicle. Therefore, it appears that the Applicant was able to arrange alternative transportation for his mother between March 23 and April 3, 2000. Presumably, these arrangements can be carried forward until the end of the impoundment period.

Therefore, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant has failed to establish that no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available. On the contrary, the Applicant's evidence suggests that a somewhat difficult alternative has been arranged.

Furthermore, the Applicant has also failed to establish any of the other conditions required for a finding of exceptional hardship. In addition to establishing that no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available, the Applicant must establish that the impoundment will result in:

- (a) loss of employment or economic loss that will be immediate, significant and lasting; or
- (b) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
- (c) a threat to the public health and safety...of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.

Regarding condition (a), the Applicant does express anxiety that his mother "may have to give up her job." The Applicant's evidence does not establish that his mother is in danger of being terminated by her employer because of the situation. No evidence about the attitude of her employer has been placed before the Tribunal. The Applicant does not indicate whether or not the possibility of securing some form of accommodation by her employer has been explored. The Applicant does not indicate whether or not the options of having his mother take vacation time or a leave of absence have been considered.

Regarding condition (b), the health or safety of the Applicant or his mother is not at issue in this appeal.

Regarding condition (c), the Applicant's mother is said to prepare meals for, at least, some of the people that she serves. Since the consumption of meals is necessary to maintain good health, condition (c) may seem to warrant consideration. Although it is not explicitly stated in the evidence, it is likely that the Applicant's mother is employed by a home care agency. In the worst case scenario, where the Applicant's mother is unavailable for work, the agency would dispatch another employee to service her clients. Some alternative arrangements must exist when the Applicant's mother is sick, on vacation, or absent from work for any reason. Therefore, a threat to the public health and safety of a community could not exist as a result of the impoundment.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

APPEARANCES: Sandra Quadrini,

DATE OF HEARING: April 28,2000 Toronto

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS:

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Notice of Appeal – received March 15, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 2 Ministry of Transportation Submissions tabs 1 – 4
- received April 18, 2000

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

Respondent submitted File Summary.

FACTS:

The Applicant is appealing the suspension of his driving privileges effective 2000 02 12 as per Exhibit # 1 .

A Medical Report prepared in 96 05 09, by Physician # 1, the Applicant's physician of "7 years", informs the Ministry that the Applicant suffers from an addiction. In his handwritten comments, Physician # 1 notes "No evidence of any recent alcoholism/no seizures. / ...Drinking problem last 5 months". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 1)

Physician # 2 submitted an unsolicited Medical Condition Report dated "Jan19, 2000." Physician # 2 advises: "Truck Driver; Alcoholism; seen for assessment re treatment program; concerned re safety driving." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 2)

At the hearing, the Applicant admitted to being an alcoholic who has been on and off treatment for addiction since 1990. In fact, in 1990 the Applicant took time off work to admit himself to Homewood, where he stayed for 54 days.

Since then, the Applicant has attended AA but continued drinking socially. More recently, 1999, the Applicant noted that he had become a binge drinker drinking approximately a "...case and half of beer on weekends over a 3 – 4 day period..."

After his physician recommended abstinence, the Applicant did not imbibe any alcoholic beverages from November to January. However, in January, he started to binge once again, and sought Physician # 2's assistance.

The Respondent explained that in 1996 the Applicant had his class "A" licence downgraded to a "D", with the further condition that a medical report be submitted every three years.

The Ministry overlooked the fact that no report was rendered in 1999, and took no action. No "flags were raised" until the Medical Condition Report from Physician # 2, was received.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
- (b) a driver's licence; or
- (c) a CVOR certificate,

on the grounds of,

- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
- (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
- (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
- (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

- 50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.
- (2) The Tribunal may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

Section 47(1) unquestionably empowers the Registrar to "...suspend or cancel" a driver's licence for "any...sufficient reason..." The Applicant came to the attention of the Ministry for failure to provide a medical report required every three years.

The Tribunal finds that the Ministry acted properly and in accordance with the Regulation, by suspending the Applicant's driver's licence.

The Respondent, contends that the Applicant is in violation of Section 14 (b) which states that:

"An applicant for or a holder of a driver's license must not,

- b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely."*

The Applicant has elected not to provide the Tribunal with any reports from either of his physicians or of any of the rehabilitation programmes he is attending.

The Tribunal is left to consider, only, the Applicant's testimony. The Applicant, by his own admission acknowledged a drinking problem that has plagued him for years. He has checked himself into the hospital and/or rehabilitation programs on two occasions. Nonetheless, the Applicant claims that his drinking has not affected his driving since his previous convictions in 1990.

The N.S.C. (National Safety Code for Motor Carriers -13.2 recognizes habitual alcoholic intoxication as a serious disability. The standard applied is explicit "...persons habitually dependent on alcohol should not drive any class of motor vehicle until evidence of alcoholism is no longer a problem."

The Tribunal recognizes, and has taken in consideration that the guidelines of the Ministry of Transportation Medical Advisory Committee and the National Safety Code for Motor Carriers are only policy not legislation. However, the guidelines are relevant to the determination of whether there is sufficient reason to suspend a driver's licence.

It is laudable that the Applicant is willing to continue receiving treatment for his condition. Nonetheless, all evidence corroborates the fact that the Applicant's previous endeavours to stop drinking were unsuccessful. Thus, while commending the Applicant for his efforts, the Tribunal feels that it is reasonable to allow at least the recommended one-year period of abstinence to elapse, prior to re-instatement of his licence.

In weighing the evidence presented, the Tribunal is satisfied that section 14(b) of Regulation 340/94 apply to the Applicant.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated February 12, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend his driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be confirmed.

REGISTRAR, TRAVEL INDUSTRY ACT

Respondent

WAIVER AND CONSENT

In accordance with section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, the parties hereto waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to a decision in writing based upon the following Agreed Statement of Facts and Joint Submission.

AGREED STATEMENT OF FACT

1. Travel Travel Inc. o/a The Standby Club (hereinafter referred to as “the Registrant”) is a company incorporated pursuant to the laws of Ontario and registered as a travel agent (Registration No. 01246329/R) under the Travel Industry Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. T-19, as amended (hereinafter referred to as “the Act”). The Registrant was originally approved for registration as a travel agent on December 10, 1982.
2. On December 11, 1995, the Registrant signed an acknowledgement of Terms and Conditions of Registration, in which it agreed, among other things, to maintain trust accounting, maintain the required minimum working capital, and file financial statements within 3 months of its fiscal year end.
3. On March 3, 2000, the Registrar issued a Notice of Proposal to Revoke Registration for failure to file the Form 1 filing and make the requisite payment to the Ontario Travel Industry Compensation Fund (hereinafter referred to as the “Fund”) for the period ended October 31, 1999.
4. On March 7, 2000, the Registrant submitted the Form 1 filing for the period ended October 31, 1999, and made the corresponding payment to the Fund.
5. On March 23, 2000, the Registrant submitted the financial statements as required for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1999. The statements had been due by January 31, 2000.
6. On April 7, 2000, the Registrant provided evidence satisfactory to the Registrar that the working capital deficiency revealed by the financial statements as filed for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1999, had been addressed.

7. On April 27, 2000, the Registrar issued a Notice of Further and Other Particulars which set out further information which had come to the attention of the Registrar and which related to the fitness for registration of Travel Travel Inc. o/a The Standby Club including persistent late filing of financial statements, previous working capital deficiencies, persistent late filing of Form 1 and two previous Proposals to Revoke Registration.
8. The parties agree that the facts set out in the above-noted document are true.

JOINT SUBMISSION

Accordingly, the parties consent to an order of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal under s. 6 (4) and (5) of the Travel Industry Act directing that:

- (i) the Registrar refrain from carrying out the Proposal to Revoke Registration dated March 3, 2000, with respect to Travel Travel Inc. o/a the Standby Club;
- (ii) the Registrant's registration is to be subject to the following conditions:
 - (a) At all times, the Registrant shall maintain a minimum working capital as required pursuant to section 25 of Ontario Regulation 806/93, as amended (hereinafter referred to as "the Regulation") and which it has acknowledged in its Terms and Conditions of Registration;
 - (b) The Registrant shall keep and maintain business records at the business premises pursuant to section 37 of the Regulation;
 - (c) The Registrant shall submit a renewable and irrevocable Letter of Credit to the Registrar in the amount of $10,000.00 (Canadian) with the beneficial interest in favour of the Travel Industry Council of Ontario, on or before June 30th, 2000;
 - (d) The Registrant shall maintain the above-noted renewable and irrevocable Letter of Credit as submitted to the Registrar for so long as the Registrar shall so require;
 - (e) The Registrant shall maintain proper trust accounting pursuant to and in accordance with section 36 of the Regulation;
 - (f) The Registrant shall submit a monthly trust account reconciliation to the Registrar, on or before the 28th day of each month for the preceding month, beginning on May 28th, 2000, for the month of April, 2000, for so long as the Registrar shall so require;
 - (g) If the above-noted trust account reconciliations as filed according to (ii)(f) are incomplete and/or reveal a customer deposit deficiency, the Registrant will have five (5) days from the date of the notice of the deficiency to fully and completely address any deficiency and produce proof of the correction acceptable to the Registrar in his sole discretion. Notice of the deficiency, if any, shall be sent by courier or registered mail to the Registrant;

- (h) The Registrant shall file Form 1 filing and make the corresponding payment to the Fund as required by the Regulation for the period ended April 30th, 2000, on or before June 14th, 2000;
- (i) The Registrant shall file Form 1 filing and make the corresponding payment to the Fund as required by the Regulation for the period ended October 31st, 2000, on or before December 15th, 2000;
- (j) The Registrant shall file the financial statements as required, pursuant to section 24 of the Regulation, for the fiscal year ending October 31st, 2000, on or before January 31st, 2001;
- (k) If the above-noted financial statements as filed are incomplete and/or reveal an unacceptable deficiency, the Registrant shall have thirty days (30) from the date of the notice of the deficiency to fully and completely address the deficiency and provide proof acceptable to the Registrar in his sole discretion of the correction. Notice of the deficiency, if any, shall be sent by courier or registered mail to the Registrant;
- (l) The Registrant shall file Form 1 filing and make the corresponding payment to the Fund as required by the Regulation for the period ended April 30th, 2001, on or before June 14th, 2001;
- (m) The Registrant shall file Form 1 filing and make the corresponding payment to the Fund as required by the Regulation for the period ended October 31st, 2001, on or before December 15th, 2001;
- (n) The Registrant shall file the financial statements as required, pursuant to section 24 of the Regulation, for the fiscal year ending October 31st, 2001, on or before January 31st, 2002;
- (o) If the above-noted financial statements as filed are incomplete and/or reveal an unacceptable deficiency, the Registrant shall have thirty days (30) from the date of the notice of the deficiency to fully and completely address the deficiency and provide proof acceptable to the Registrar in his sole discretion of the correction. Notice of the deficiency, if any, shall be sent by courier or registered mail to the Registrant;
- (p) The Registrant shall file Form 1 filing and make the corresponding payment to the Fund as required by the Regulation for the period ended April 30th, 2002, on or before June 14th, 2002;
- (q) The Registrant shall file Form 1 filing and make the corresponding payment to the Fund as required by the Regulation for the period ended October 31st, 2002, on or before December 15th, 2002;
- (r) The Registrant shall file the financial statements as required by the Regulation for the fiscal year ending October 31st, 2002, no later than January 31st, 2003;
- (s) If the above-noted financial statements as filed are incomplete and/or reveal an unacceptable deficiency, the Registrant shall have 30 days from the date of notice of the deficiency to fully and completely address any deficiency and produce proof acceptable to the Registrar in his sole discretion of the correction. Notice of the deficiency, if any, shall be sent by courier or registered mail to the Registrant;

- (t) In future, the Registrant shall file any and all interim and final Form 1 filings along with the required payment to the Fund for every year of registration as required by the Act on or before the legislated due date;
 - (u) In future, the Registrant shall file any and all interim and final financial statements for every year of registration as required by the Act on or before the legislated due date; and,
 - (v) If any of the Registrant's future financial statements reveal an unacceptable deficiency, the Registrant will have 30 days from the date of notice of the amount of the deficiency to fully and completely address any deficiency and produce proof of such correction to the Registrar. Notice of the working capital deficiency will be sent by courier or registered mail to the Registrant.
- (iii) Should the Registrant fail to comply with any of the above conditions (ii) (c), (d), and (f) to (s) inclusive, the Registrar shall revoke the Registrant's registration on five (5) days written notice delivered by hand or by registered mail, and if sent by registered mail, service shall be deemed to be effective on the fifth day that is not a holiday after the day of mailing.

DATE OF HEARING: May 11, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 15, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 11, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	Mazda Canada Credit Inc. (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle:	1998 Mazda B2500, Plate #YN3 936 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal:	April 17, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on May 11, 2000 and proceeded as an electronic hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

Friday, April 14, 2000

License Appeal Tribunal
1 St. Clair Ave. West, Suite 1200
Toronto, Ontario M4V 1K6

Below are my comments regarding a couple of different issues requested in the appeal process.

Late Filing:

The person who was driving and is the cause of the impoundment did not tell me that the vehicle was impounded for a full week. At the time I found out it was I started looking into the impoundment and I gathered all the information required to process. As I am leasing this vehicle I also had to contact Mazda and request a letter to allow me to process the appeal.

Request of an Electronic (Telephone conference)

As I run my own small business I am very busy and often on the road. A telephone conference will be the least intrusive.

Owners Position

While Byzantine Protection Services is not actually the owner it is the company that will suffer not the driver who has caused all these problems. Byzantine Protection Services is a small business which is run from my home at present and the loss of a service vehicle on top of the impound fees is going to be very difficult for us to survive. While every effort will be made to recoup all costs associated with this incident from the driver, there is a good chance we will not be successful as he is very deep in debt at present or it will take a very long time to be paid back, money we can not afford to wait for.

As to my responsibility to verify that a driver's license is valid and has no orders against the owner, I provided my Insurance company with a list of drivers last May, May 1999, when we started with this insurer, I made the assumption that since I had not heard from them that all was ok. I have been told there is an eight hundred number that can be used to verify drivers I had not heard of this number before this incident, if it exists I will find it and use it.

Regards,

Andrew A. Hopper
President / General Manager

The agent for the Applicant, Mr. Andrew Hopper, the lessee herein, stated that he owns and operates a small home-based business that involves fire safety and security systems. He stated that following a chance meeting with Mr. Michael St. Pierre at a Karate club, he offered to let him stay in a room at his home as Mr. St. Pierre did not have a permanent residence at the time.

Mr. Hopper stated that Mr. St. Pierre was the driver of the vehicle at the time of the impoundment, and he had been hired in December 1998. When the vehicle insurance policy for his home based business (Byzantine Protection Services) was to be renewed in May 1999, one of his employees gathered the driver's licence numbers of all his employees and subsequently submitted them to the insurance company. Mr. Hopper stated that he assumed the insurance company would check on each driver to see if they were acceptable from an insurance perspective for his company. He further stated that he actually did not know what the insurance company did regarding driver checks.

Mr. Hopper stated that he did not look at the individual licences nor did he do any other follow up of the drivers' licences. He has stated that he was unaware of the need for or even the availability of driver's abstracts. Mr. Hopper's verbal evidence was credible and presented as truthful.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Michael St. Pierre;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until September 16, 2002.

The representative for the Respondent further stated that in fact, Mr. Michael St. Pierre, the driver of the vehicle at the time of the impoundment, has never been licensed nor has he ever applied for a driver's licence. The Respondent's representative further stated that there was no due diligence performed by the Applicant or the lessee, Mr. Andrew Hopper.

The representative for the Respondent also stated that the current impoundment was for a period of 90 days as a result of a previous impoundment.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of “due diligence” as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, “due diligence” in Black’s Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines “exceptional hardship” as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

(h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,

- (a) a threat to the health or safety or any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

There are two issues to be considered in this appeal and they are dealt with hereunder.

As to 1st. issue filed – Due Diligence

The Tribunal finds that Mr. Michael St. Pierre was driving the Applicant's vehicle at the time of the impoundment and that he was not appropriately licensed at the time. The grounds of appeal under section 50.2(3) of the Act require that the Applicant show the Tribunal that it exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that Mr. St. Pierre's driver's license was not suspended at the time of the impoundment of the Applicant's vehicle.

The evidence established that due diligence was not exercised by the Applicant. Also, the Tribunal notes that due diligence was not exercised by the lessee. Simply relying on the insurance company with coverage on the vehicle for verification is insufficient in demonstrating due diligence by the Applicant. The Tribunal also finds that the insurance company was under no duty to the Applicant to perform the tasks required of due diligence.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant has failed to establish that due diligence was exercised as required.

As to 2nd. issue filed – Exceptional Hardship

Pursuant to the provisions of subsection 50.2(4), the Tribunal is unable to consider the issue of Exceptional Hardship as a ground of appeal in this hearing due to a previous impoundment.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

APPEAL FROM A PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR
OF THE MOTOR VEHICLE DEALERS ACT

TO REFUSE REGISTRATION

TRIBUNAL: DOUGLAS MACKINTOSH, Vice-Chair

APPEARANCES:

DARCY IZZARD, appearing on his own behalf
Aviva R. Harari, counsel, representing the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act

DATE OF

HEARING: May 5, 2000

KINGSTON

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal by the Applicant, Darcy Ross Izzard, to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) from a written Notice of Proposal dated January 13th, 2000 issued by the Registrar under the Motor Vehicles Dealers Act (the "Registrar") to refuse the registration of the Applicant under the provisions of the Motor Vehicles Dealers Act (the "Act").

The Applicant is 45 years old and once before in the late 1970s worked as a car salesperson. His criminal record started in 1978 and progressed to serious proportions ending in 1998 with a 3-year sentence in the penitentiary. He was addicted to alcohol and drugs, including heroin and cocaine but during his penitentiary sentence and since his release has somehow managed to break away from his addiction. He is intelligent and, to have come so far, is obviously determined. He now wishes to be registered again as a salesperson under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Act").

ISSUE:

Has the Registrar erred in his decision to refuse registration to the Applicant as a salesperson under the Act?

FACTS:

The Registrar furnished the following particulars in support of his notice of proposal to revoke:

- 1) Mr. Darcy Izzard applied for registration as a motor vehicle salesperson on or about November 15, 1999.
- 2) On the application to become a registered salesperson, question 10 asks, "Have you ever been found guilty or convicted of an offence under any law or are there charges pending. This includes where a conditional discharge or an absolute discharge has been ordered.

The Applicant answered "yes" to this question indicating that he had been charged with "assault".

- 3) It came to the Registrar's attention that the Applicant in fact has several convictions which include but are not limited to: [There followed the list of 13 convictions, noted below].

THE EVIDENCE:

At the start of the hearing the Applicant and counsel for the Registrar agreed to a number of documents being entered as exhibits without the necessity of further proof. Without any prior disclosure, the Applicant also tendered four letters of support. As he was unrepresented, they were admitted subject to the insistence of the Counsel for the Registrar that the letters lacked weight because of the inability to cross-examine the authors.

Turning to the application form executed on November 15 1999, question 4 asked for the name and address of employer with dates.

In answer to this question the Applicant wrote:

"RETIRED From 96 11 11 to 99 11 10 "

In fact, this was a devious answer because these dates exactly covered the duration of the three-year sentence imposed in the federal penitentiary. This answer was part of the attempt by the applicant to conceal his criminal record from the Registrar.

As related by the Registrar, Question 10 on the form reads as follows:

Have you ever been found guilty or convicted of an offence under any law or are there charges pending. This includes where a conditional discharge or an absolute discharge has been ordered. If yes, attach full particulars on a separate signed and dated statement.

Note: Where the Applicant has been previously registered, list only those convictions, conditional discharges, absolute discharges or charges which have not been previously disclosed.

In answer to this question the Applicant wrote "Assault" and he attached a signed page reading as follows:

In the year 1995 a person assaulted my wife. I acted wrongly by taking the law into my own hands & I regret what I did, namely, causing bodily harm to such person.

I pleaded guilty in 406 Court Scarborough & received a 90-day weekend sentence, which I served two weekends & the rest in community service.

This was far from the truth. The Applicant had a criminal record stretching back to 1978. He had been convicted of the following offences:

Date & Place	Charge	Disposition
Feb 22, 1978 Toronto	Theft under $200	3 months
Oct 31, 1978 Toronto	Possession of Property obtained by crime under $200	$200
Jan 30, 1995 Toronto	(1) Fail to comply with recognizance (2) Mischief over $1000 (3) Assault sec 266 cc	(1) 45 days intermittent (2) 45 days intermittent con. (2) 45 days intermittent con
Jan 16, 1996 Toronto	Assault sec 266 cc	Susp sent & probation 1 year
Jul 25, 1996	Theft under $5000	1 day & (time served 30 days)

Recognizance where fear personal injury offence 810.2

Expiry Sept. 22, 2003

The answers to questions 4 and 10 could have seriously mislead the Registrar. The Applicant compounded this deceit when he obtained a certificate of his employer. The treasurer of Kingston Volkswagon Ltd. certified that he had personally discussed the answer to each question with the applicant prior to executing the document and was satisfied that the information given by the Applicant was to the best of his knowledge and belief true, and requested that the application be granted. Obviously, the treasurer had been duped.

Counsel for the Registrar called Linda Gordon as a witness. She stated that she was the director of compliance for the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council ("OMVIC") and has been with OMVIC for three years. She made the point that disclosure is the first test of honesty and integrity and it is critical. The Applicant's record, she stressed, is very serious and recent, and his attempt to conceal it lacks the integrity and honesty required by section 5(1)(b) of the Act.

The Applicant also testified. He said that he did not lie on the application form but only failed to disclose. He stated the answer "retired" on question 4 meant retired to the penitentiary. This was an intentional false statement, which is how a lie is defined in the dictionary. The Applicant's repeated assertions that he knew the record would come to light and the Registrar would find out anyway does not reduce the impact of the deception about his criminal record. He said that until he saw the printout of his record, he did not remember all the things he had done as there were many things for which he had not been convicted. His motive was clear in the answers he gave. He said he had been out every day since his release in September 1998 looking for work but every attempt failed as soon as there was mention of the "pen" .

The Tribunal does not overlook the great credit due to the Applicant who has managed to be clean and sober from his addiction to alcohol and drugs for four years. This is an enormous achievement since he admitted he had an addiction for heroin and cocaine as well as alcohol, deeply imbedded in a life of crime. He obtained an early release from prison because he had an impeccable record in spite of there being more drugs available in the prison than outside. He takes his recovery seriously by going to AA and NA, once a week to a psychiatrist, keeps in touch with the Behavioural Assessment Section of the Toronto Police and helps with charity by taking released prisoners to AA.

The letters of support filed by the Applicant confirms this. According to the sales manager of Kingston Volkswagen, the Applicant impressed him both with a courteous and professional manner with their customers and with always being available when assistance was needed and never missing a day of work. In another letter, Ruth Warner, who apparently is a therapist in the sexual assault crisis centre but who writes without address or letterhead, clearly identifies the accomplishment of the Applicant rebuilding his life from scratch against all odds so that he now has a pro-social lifestyle including helping others deal with their own demons. The psychiatrist, Dr. Roberge, writes to the same general effect. Finally, his parole officer, Joanne Minnion, wrote there were no problems while she had him on parole.

The Applicant called a friend, Claude Plante, who is the RCMP, who knew the Applicant socially from meetings of Jehovah's Witnesses. Mr. Plante knew the Applicant's record. He noted the dramatic change and said he would trust the Applicant around his wife and kids.

The Applicant stressed that he was now a productive member of society.

THE LAW:

The Registrar bases his proposal to refuse to register the Applicant under sections 6(1) and 5(1)(b) of the Act which read as follows:

- 6(1) Subject to section 7, the Registrar may refuse to register an applicant where in the Registrar's opinion the applicant is disentitled to registration under section 5.
- 5(1) An applicant is entitled to registration...by the Registrar except where,
 - (b) The past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with the law and with integrity and honesty;

The leading case of Brenner 19 CRAT SCO Decisions and Orders (1971-1989), page 59, is a decision issued on April 7, 1983 where the Divisional Court overruled a decision of this Tribunal. Southey J. states that the Registrar proposed to refuse registration because of the existence of the specific circumstances set out in Section 5(1)(b) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act:

The effect of Section 7(4) is that the Tribunal should only have refused to direct the Registrar to carry out his proposal if it thought the Registrar was in error in concluding that the past conduct of the applicant afforded reasonable grounds for belief that he would not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty. The Board does not appear to have directed itself to this question and makes no finding that, in its view, the past conduct of Brenner did not afford reasonable grounds for the belief that Brenner would not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honest. Instead, the Board appears to have been preoccupied with sympathetic concern as to whether or not Brenner had genuinely reformed, and appears to have decided that it ought to give him a second chance because there was a possibility that he, indeed might have reformed himself.

Due to the particular facts in this case Southey J. sent it back for a rehearing, however, adding in the third last paragraph:

The proper question at the rehearing remains, however, whether the past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that he will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty. Unless the Tribunal can find that it does not, the Tribunal should not order the Registrar to refrain from carrying out his proposal.

Therefore, it is not sufficient for the Tribunal to reach a conclusion that it would have exercised the discretion differently from the way in which the Registrar did. Clearly, in order to overrule the Registrar the Tribunal must conclude that the Registrar was wrong in his decision and that the conduct of the Applicant does not afford reasonable grounds for his belief based upon it.

The above principle was affirmed by the Divisional Court in Faccenda [1994] 26 CRAT Part II 1050. In Faccenda, the Divisional Court, again on appeal from this Tribunal quashed a decision to direct a Registrar not to carry out his Proposal. At page 1051 the Court held:

It follows that the Tribunal should have refused to direct the Registrar to carry out his proposal only if it thought that the Registrar was in error in his belief.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The Registrar has the onus of proving that the past conduct of the Applicant affords him reasonable grounds for the belief that the Applicant will not carry on business in accordance with the law and with integrity and honesty.

The grounds upon which the Registrar bases his proposal is that the Applicant answered "yes" to question 10 in the form indicating that he had been charged with assault. The question asked for full particulars, but the Applicant did not give these.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant deliberately tried to mislead the Registrar about the seriousness and extent of his criminal record, although he was fully cognizant of it at the time that he completed and executed the application. He did so in three ways. The answer that he was "retired" when he was serving time was misleading and deceitful. The page of full particulars of his record showing only "Assault" was worse. Obtaining the treasurer's certificate by misstating the facts added another unfortunate dimension to a fraudulent scheme.

The Registrar has an obligation to protect people dealing in the motor vehicle industry. The standard is a high one involving public interest and consumer confidence, and it should not be modified in any way for applicants who bend the truth for personal gain.

The Tribunal therefore finds that the Registrar has acted reasonably in refusing to allow the Applicant to be registered as a motor vehicle salesperson. The case law is to that effect, for instance Re Moodie 1998 CRAT 120, Re Cook 1999 CRAT 4.

ORDER:

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in it by section 9(4) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar to carry out his proposal dated January 13, 2000, to refuse the registration of the Applicant as a motor vehicle salesperson under the provisions of the Act.

Richmond Hill, ON L4C 4E5

Pursuant to subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, VIP Impex Inc. o/a Major Motors and Ally Hemani hereby consent to the following terms and conditions to their registrations as a motor vehicle dealer and salesperson, respectively, under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act:

In accordance with section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedures Act, the parties hereto hereby waive the requirements of a hearing and consent to a decision of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal based upon the following Terms and Conditions:

1. The Dealer agrees to post a sign visible to the public, that is at least 8.5 by 11 inches which states "Any complaints or inquiries regarding this dealership may be directed to the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council, 110-36 York Mills Road, North York, ON, M2P 2E9, 416-226-4500, 1-800-943-6002, fax 416-226-3208." Said sign shall remain posted at all times.
2. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that it will not retain the services of a salesperson unless the salesperson is registered as a salesperson to the Dealer.
3. The Dealer further acknowledges that the restrictions concerning the activities of salespersons referred to in these terms and conditions, applies to both buying and selling on behalf of a dealer. "Buying and selling" refers to showing a vehicle to a prospective purchaser or any form of negotiation concerning the purchase or sale of a vehicle and is not limited to the signing of contracts. This further includes attendance at auctions on behalf of the Dealer.
4. The dealer and salesperson agree that Peter Ingster a.k.a. Peter Johnson, and any of his immediate family shall have no interest or involvement, whatsoever, either directly or indirectly in the dealership. The Dealer and Salesperson further agree not to conduct any business whatsoever with Ingster or his immediate family.
5. The Dealer and Salesperson agree that no more than two times per calendar year the Registrar may request a financial audit of the dealer's books and records, which include but are not limited to all financial and banking information, to ensure compliance with the Terms and Conditions set out herein. Said audit shall be by a party selected by the Registrar and shall be at the expense of the Dealer and/or Salesperson.
6. The Dealer agrees to maintain a garage register in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act and will maintain all original copies of books and records as required by the MVDA and its regulations. The Dealer further agrees to store its books and records at the location approved by the Registrar.

7. The Dealer and Salesperson will ensure that proper books and records, including bills of sale and consignment agreements will be maintained for all motor vehicles taken on consignment. This includes consignment contracts between the dealer and consignor, as well as bills of sale between dealer and consignor. Before taking a vehicle on consignment the dealer will confirm that the vehicle is properly registered in the name of the consignor. Prior to transferring the vehicle to a buyer, the Dealer will register the vehicle in the Dealer's name and then transfer same to the buyer.
8. The Dealer will ensure that all advertisements placed by or on behalf of the Dealer will identify its registered name and the address of the location approved by the Registrar.
9. The Dealer agrees not to invite the public to deal at a place other than its approved location.
10. The Dealer agrees to operate exclusively from the location approved by the Registrar. The Dealer agrees to apply for the Registrar's approval, by way of prior written notice, of any change in location in the form required by the Registrar.
11. The Dealer will not conduct any purchases or sales with anyone who is in the business of buying and selling motor vehicles without confirming that they are registered as a dealer under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.
12. The Dealer will ensure that any vehicles sold are registered in the name of the purchaser before releasing the vehicle to the purchaser.
13. The Dealer will not purchase vehicles without ensuring that the vehicle is registered to the seller.
14. The Dealer agrees to register all vehicles purchased within 6 days in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act.
15. The Dealer agrees that it is under a positive obligation to disclose all material facts, including but not limited to, the distance travelled of the vehicles it sells or leases to consumers. The Dealer agrees to make reasonable efforts to research the history of all its vehicles prior to sale and/or lease to ensure all material facts are disclosed. The Dealer agrees that should any information come to light, which the Registrar deems to be a material fact concerning a vehicle the Dealer has sold and/or leased the Dealer will comply with all reasonable requests made by the Registrar to provide compensation to the consumer.
16. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that its registration will not be used to buy or sell motor vehicles where the Dealer knows or ought to know that the purchase or sale of those motor vehicles will facilitate an illegal or unethical practice.
17. The Dealer and salespersons acknowledge that the Registrar may take further administrative action, including a proposal to revoke their registration, arising from any matters that have occurred or may occur related to honesty and integrity or financial position.
18. The Salesperson agrees to register and pass the certification course within 60 days from the date of this order.
19. The Dealer and Salespersons acknowledge that the Registrar may take further legal action, including a Provincial Offences prosecution, arising from matters that may have occurred or that may occur in the future.
20. In the event that any of the Terms and Conditions set out herein are breached, the Dealer and salespersons agree that the Registrar is authorized and directed to carry out the proposal and shall revoke the registration the Dealer and salespersons.
21. The Dealer and salespeople hereby consent to an order which may include the Terms and Conditions set out herein.

22. The Dealer and salespersons hereby withdraw their appeals to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal.

23. The Dealer and salespeople acknowledge that they have obtained or have had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to their consent to the terms and conditions set out herein.

Signed at Toronto this day of , 2000.

ORDER

Following attendances on May 16, 2000 at the hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) no one appearing for the Applicant, Vaino Kumpulainen (the "Applicant") and Karen Jones, Counsel, on behalf of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program"), and Dierdre Lennon, Agent on behalf of 1072980 Ontario Ltd. o/a Quality Homes of Barrie (the "Added Party"),

PURSUANT to the provisions of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter 0.31, as amended, Vaino Kumpulainen (the "Applicant"), appealed a decision of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program") set out in a decision letter dated December 17, 1999;

WHEREAS at the commencement of the hearing Mr. Bill Thompson appeared seeking to act as Agent for the Applicant, but lacking written authorization to act as agent and stating that he had not spoken to the Applicant recently and without proof that Mr. Thompson was authorized to appear as agent for the Applicant, the Tribunal found that Mr. Thompson had no standing to act;

AND WHEREAS the Applicant had failed to appear before the Tribunal, with no one appearing for the Applicant, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant has abandoned these proceedings;

NOW THEREFORE, this Tribunal Orders that the appeal by the Applicant is dismissed and pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 16(3) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, the Program is directed to disallow this claim.

RE: Oleg Jakovlev O/A Carolta Auto Sales ("the Applicant")

Pursuant to subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, Oleg Jakovlev O/A Carolta Auto Sales hereby consent to the following terms and conditions to its registration as a motor vehicle Dealer:

In accordance with section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Oleg Jakovlev O/A Carolta Auto Sales (hereafter the "Applicant"), and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Registrar MVDA") waive the requirement for a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal (hereafter the "Consent Order") based on the following terms and conditions:

1. The Applicant acknowledges and understands that it will not retain the services of a salesperson unless the salesperson is registered as a salesperson to the Dealer.
2. The Applicant further acknowledges that the restrictions concerning the activities of salespersons referred to in these terms and conditions, applies to both buying and selling on behalf of the Dealer. "Buying and selling" refers to showing a vehicle to a prospective purchaser or any form of negotiation concerning the purchase or sale of a vehicle and is not limited to the signing of contracts. This further includes attendance at auctions on behalf of the Applicant.
3. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Applicant will advise the Registrar, by submitting the required Individual Application, of any person who: has a beneficial or other interest in the operations of the Dealership, has invested funds in the Dealership, exercises any management or supervisory responsibilities, or has control over the assets of the Dealership. The Applicant further agrees that no such person will be involved in the operation of the Dealership, either directly or indirectly, until the Applicant receives written confirmation from the Registrar that the person's Individual Application has been approved.
4. The Applicant agrees not to invite the public to deal at a place other than his approved location.
5. The Applicant agrees to operate exclusively from the location approved by the Registrar. The Applicant agrees to apply for the Registrar's approval, by way of prior written notice, of any change in business premises in the form required by the Registrar.

6. The Applicant will not conduct any purchases or sales with anyone who is in the business of buying and selling motor vehicles without confirming that he is registered as a Dealer or Salesperson under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.
7. The Applicant agrees that he is under a positive obligation to disclose all material facts about the vehicles he sells. The Applicant agrees to make reasonable efforts to research the history of vehicles prior to sale to ensure all material facts are disclosed. The Applicant agrees that should any information come to light which the Registrar deems to be a material fact concerning a vehicle the Applicant has sold, the Applicant will comply with all reasonable requests made by the Registrar to provide compensation to the purchaser.
8. The Applicant will comply with the Retail Sales Tax Act, including but not limited to, the collection of tax and remittance or monies to the Ministry of Finance, when due.
9. The Applicant will comply with all credit agreements and will make timely payments on all outstanding debts.
10. The Applicant agrees that all third party warranties sold by the Applicant will be registered with the warranty company in accordance with the requirements of the warranty company and funds submitted to warranty company when due.
11. The Applicant acknowledges that his registration as a motor vehicle dealer will be revoked if he breaches any of the terms and conditions set out herein.
12. The Applicant hereby consents to an order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal, which may include the Terms and Conditions set out herein.
13. The Applicant hereby withdraws his appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.

THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

Respondent

WAIVER AND CONSENT

In accordance with section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, the parties hereto waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to a Decision in writing based upon the following Agreed Statement of Facts and Joint Submission.

AGREED STATEMENT OF FACTS

1. The motor vehicle described in Order to Impound #0601618 was impounded in accordance with subsection 55.1(3) of the Highway Traffic Act, RSO 1990, c. H. 8 as amended, on April 27th, 2000.
2. The applicant, Scotland Agromart Ltd., whose name is shown on the vehicle portion of the permit for the impounded motor vehicle, is the owner of the said vehicle.
3. No other order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act has ever previously been made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the applicant.
4. The applicant filed an appeal to the impoundment order, in accordance with the grounds permitted under clause 50.2(3)(d) of the Highway Traffic Act, stating that the order will result in exceptional hardship.
5. Materials provided to the Registrar indicate that the said motor vehicle is a highly specialized vehicle used for transporting 600 pound drums of toxic pesticides to farm fields. The impoundment of the said vehicle will pose a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used. Investigations indicate that there are no alternatives to the impounded motor vehicle.
6. The applicant has had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to consent to this Order.
7. The parties agree that this agreement does not bind the Ministry of Transportation or the Registrar of Motor Vehicles in any way, with respect to future hearings or consent orders.

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000, is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) from a written decision of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program") dated December 10, 1999 wherein the Applicants' claim was denied by the Program.

The Applicants claim that they and Kansun Homes Limited ("Kansun") entered into a written Agreement of Purchase and Sale regarding a home to be constructed in the City of Mississauga, Ontario, by Kansun for the Applicants. Pursuant to that agreement dated April 18, 1997 (the "agreement") Kansun constructed the home and the Applicants took possession on December 30, 1997. The purchase price of the home was $207,310.00.

After taking possession of the home the Applicants complained to Kansun, that the staircase was damaged and poorly constructed. The Applicants complained in particular that nails were protruding, stains were apparent, sections were chipped and finishing was poor and demanded the staircase be replaced entirely or Kansun refund them the sum of $1,400.00. The Applicants complaints were not resolved and a conciliation inspection by the Program was requested, arranged and held at Applicants' home. The Program issued its conciliation inspection report in which the Program stated that it considered the staircase complaint was not covered under warranty.

Following upon the Program's conciliation inspection report, the Program issued its decision letter of December 10, 1999. In that letter the complaint of Applicants was identified as:

- Complaint: Substandard workmanship on staircase. Defects in materials.
The above include and are/is not limited to the following:
- Poor finish/varnish (poor finishing job on staircase)
 - Squeaking/loose
 - Oak veneer risers should be solid oak
 - Chips and dents throughout staircase
 - Nails on railing
 - Stains on stairway
 - Seams are off (stairs and railings)
 - Railings do not match

The Program stated in its decision letter its reason for denying Applicants claim as follows:

Reason:

The complaint as described above, does not represent a defect in materials and/or workmanship nor is there a violation of the Ontario Building Code. As such, this item of complaint can not be covered under warranty. This issue is one of personal preference and beyond the scope of the Warranty Program.

THE ISSUES:

The issues to be decided in this matter are:

- 1) Does the claim made by the Applicants qualify as a warranty within the meaning of Section 13(1) of the Act.
- 2) Do the Applicants have a cause of action against Kansun for damages resulting from a breach of warranty in terms of section 14(1)(b) of the Act.
- 3) If the Applicants are entitled to damages what is the quantum of such damages.

THE EVIDENCE:

The only evidence adduced by the Applicants was that of Efthimious Tim Missios ("Missios") one of the two Applicants. His spouse, and Co-Applicant, Jenny Missios did not give evidence. Missios testified that he is a supervisor in a pharmaceutical company and has not worked in the building industry.

Missios stated that on December 30, 1997 when possession of the home was taken by the Applicants certain deficiencies were observed in the staircase of the home. Specifically he noted that:

- the staircase had not been varnished
- a nail was protruding from the staircase itself
- two further nails were visible in the space between the staircase and the wall
- two or three staples were embedded on the steps of the staircase
- chips, dents and gouges were visible on both the steps and risers

- stains that appeared to be from cement were visible on parts of the stairs
- colour variations existed in the oak used in the staircase railing.

In the fall of 1998 Kansun had the staircase manufacturer inspect the staircase and that manufacturer offered to make certain repairs. Missios disagreed with the method of repair suggested by the manufacturer and refused to allow repairs. At this time, Missios raised a further complaint regarding the stairs namely that he had learned from the manufacturer's representative that the stair's risers were of "oak veneer and not solid oak as indicated in our agreement of sale".

In March 1999, Missios agreed to the stair manufacturer doing repairs to the staircase. The repairs Missios agreed to were the same repairs he had refused to permit in the fall of 1998. The manufacturer replaced 2 treads and also addressed Missios' concerns regarding the protruding nails between staircase and wall as well as the other nail that was protruding from the staircase. The stairs were sanded and the staircase was revarnished although it had been originally varnished some one month after possession of the home.

Missios further testified that after the March 1999 repairs he noticed brush marks on the varnish. The manufacturer returned and revarnished the staircase. At this time Missios raised a further concern with Kansun. This concern involved the trim on the staircase. Kansun again returned to the home and addressed this concern.

Missios stated that he was still not satisfied with the staircase and continued to complain to Kansun who made him an offer of $300.00 in settlement of all complaints. He refused the offer as he was insistent on payment of $1,400.00 being the cost of the staircase or replacement of the entire staircase. Kansun suggested to Missios that a representative of the Program attend at the home so as to facilitate a possible settlement of the staircase. Missios rejected this suggestion and also advised Kansun that he would not permit access to the Program's representative. He reiterated to Kansun that the only method of resolving the staircase issue was replacing the entire staircase or payment of $1,400.00. This Kansun refused to do.

Towards the end of July 1999, Missios agreed to have the Program conciliate the staircase issue and on November 24, 1999 a conciliation inspection took place at the home at which inspection Mrs. Missios was present as well as the Program's warranty representative Rob Rosset and Kansun's President Morris Kansun. A written conciliation report was issued by the Program on November 24, 1999.

Under cross-examination Missios stated that the complaint of the two protruding nails is no longer an issue. However, the one nail that was protruding from the stairs and was removed remains an issue in that the hole left by the nail's removal has been filled with a puttylike substance which has a different colour to the surrounding oak and is therefore visible. This complaint was later under cross-examination withdrawn by Missios. The hole that was filled is about the size of a person's nail on the small finger. The staining complaint is also no longer an issue as he accepts that there are now no visible stains.

Missios conceded under cross-examination that Schedule "B" to the Agreement of Purchase and Sale called for oak veneer to be used on the stair stringers and carpeted treads and risers. He also stated that Schedule "I" to the agreement listed eight options and extras one of which read "oak staircase stringers, steps riser, pickets and railings with carpet runner - $1,400.00" and that the total cost of the listed options and extras came to $6,410.00. That sum was included in the purchase price of the home.

Robert Rosset testified on behalf of the Program. He stated that he has been with the Program as a warranty representative for about eleven years and prior to that was active in the building industry as supervisor with a large builder of homes. In his capacity as a warranty representative, he has attended over one thousand conciliation inspections.

Rosset had carriage of the Program's file in this matter and attended the conciliation inspection and authored the conciliation inspection report and the decision letter of December 10, 1999. Rosset stated in evidence that Ms. Missios identified the Applicant's complaints on November 24, 1999 at the conciliation meeting.

In regard to the complaints identified by Ms. Missios, Rosset stated as follows:

- the colour variations brought to his notice are characteristic of oak and are within normal parameters. The grain within the oak gives rise to the difference in shade within the oak.
- the varnish applied to the staircase was satisfactory and had been applied in a workmanlike manner.
- no chips, dents or gouges were visible.
- the filler used to fill the hole left by the removal of the nail has been done in an acceptable and workmanlike manner and the result meets the accepted standard in the building industry.
- filler used in wood products does not generally absorb varnish as does wood. For this reason there may be a slight colour difference when filler is used in a wood product. The hole left by the removal of the nail and then filled was the diameter of a pencil and was barely visible. It was done in a workmanlike and acceptable manner.
- as far as the complaint of stains are concerned, same was not visible to Rosset.
- no staples were seen in the wood nor was any staple damage noticed.

Under cross-examination by Missios, Rosset stated that imperfections naturally occur in and are inherent in all wood products. Imperfections can also occur through damage to the wood. Imperfections are commonly satisfactorily addressed by using filler in the wood followed by sanding and revarnishing.

Morris Kansun testified for the Added Party. He stated that he is the President of Kansun and has held that office for the past 15 years. He is familiar with the issues in this matter. He stated that the original selling price of the home was $204,990.00. The Applicants' required extras to be provided in their home and those extras amounted to $6,410.00 and are referred to in Schedule "I" to the Agreement of Purchase and Sale. The selling price of the home was not increased by $6,410.00 but by only $2,300.00. Kansun absorbed the balance of the cost of the extras supplied. The purchase price of the home was arrived at by adding $2,300.00 to the original selling price of $204,990.00.

Mr. Kansun confirmed that the agreement called for the staircase to be constructed of both solid oak and oak veneer (Exhibit 3, Tab 1, Schedule "B" items 32, 33 and 34). Stair risers, where there is no traffic, commonly utilize oak veneer rather than solid oak and this is the area where veneer was in fact used.

Although possession of the home was given on December 30, 1997 it was only in August of 1998 that the staircase became an issue with the Applicants who Kansun testified became "fixated" with that issue.

Mr. Kansun stated that it is common when a staircase is prefabricated that there is cardboard affixed by staples to the steps to protect them. Cardboard in the case of the Missios home was affixed to the staircase steps by staples. When the cardboard was removed three staples remained in the wood. This is not uncommon and such staples are easily removed. The three staples that remained in the steps were removed upon the cardboard itself being removed. The small holes left in the wood were filled with filler, a common practice. The stairs were then sanded and varnish was applied. This is normal procedure. No holes or filler were noticeable. There were no chips, dents and gouges noticeable on the staircase other than on one or two risers. These risers were replaced by Kansun and the replacement in no way interfered with the integrity of the staircase itself.

Mr. Kansun contended that as of November 1998 an impasse had been reached. Missios wanted payment of $1,400.00 and did not want repairs to be made. It was only when the Program advised Missios that Kansun had to be afforded the opportunity to repair that Missios consented to repairs. Mr. Kansun contended that he repeatedly attempted to accommodate Missios but over time it became clear that he could never satisfy Missios. Kansun based this contention on the fact that Kansun had refinished the entire staircase and had two employees spend two to three days "making it sparkle". When the refinishing was complete, Mrs. Missios expressed her satisfaction with the staircase yet two days later Missios called and said the staircase was "junk".

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The following are the facts found to have been proved:

- 1) The Applicants and Kansun entered into a written Agreement of Purchase and Sale dated April 18, 1997 in terms of which Kansun undertook to construct a single family residential home for the Applicants in the City of Mississauga, Ontario.
- 2) Attached to and forming part of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale was a schedule marked "I" titled "Options and Extras" which listed several options chosen by the Applicants which were to be incorporated in the construction of their home.
- 3) An oak staircase, stringers, steps, risers, pickets and railings with carpet runner was one of the options and extras chosen by the Applicants at a stated cost of $1,400.00. The total cost of all options and extras amounted to $6,410.00. This cost was discounted by Kansun by $4,110.00 resulting in the options and extras costing the Applicants $2,300.00.
- 4) The purchase consideration payable by the Applicants in terms of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale was the sum of $207,310.00 which included the discounted cost of $2,300.00 of the options and extras referred to in Schedule "I" to the Agreement.

- 5) The staircase was to be constructed of solid oak as well as oak veneer.
- 6) The staircase chosen by the Applicants was constructed by Kansun and was incorporated in the Applicants home.
- 7) The staircase was constructed in a workmanlike manner, free from defects in materials and not in violation of the Ontario Building Code.
- 8) The finish/varnish relating to the staircase meets the normally accepted standards of the building industry.
- 9) Imperfections are naturally present in wood products and may also occur due to damage caused to the wood by external means. Imperfections in the wood used in the construction of the staircase have been satisfactorily and adequately dealt with by the use of filler, sanding and by varnishing.
- 10) There is no squeaking from the staircase or any part thereof. There are no stains on the staircase or any part thereof.
- 11) All staples or marks left by staples to the staircase have been removed and no defect in workmanship is visible in relation to such staples and /or their removal.
- 12) No stains, caused by cement or otherwise, are visible on the staircase. There is no colour mismatch between different sections of the oak used. There is a difference in the shade of the oak where the railing curves and this occurs naturally due to the grain in the oak.
- 13) The workmanship regarding the seams is proper and without defects.
- 14) The stair railings have been constructed in a good and workmanlike manner and are not defective in materials used.

THE LAW:

- (1) Section 13(1)(a) of the Act states:

Every vendor of a home warrants to the owner,

- (a) that the home,
 - (i) is constructed in a workmanlike manner and is free from defects in material,
 - (ii) is fit for habitation, and
 - (iii) is constructed in accordance with the Ontario Building Code;

(2) Section 14(1)(b) of the Act states:

14(1) Where,

.....

(b) an owner has a cause of action against a vendor for damages resulting from a breach of warranty;

.....

the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damage subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulations.

(3) Section 6(3) of the Act limits the liability of the guarantee fund to $100,000.00.

DECISION:

The onus of proof in this matter rests upon the Applicants to satisfy the Tribunal on a balance of probabilities.

The only evidence adduced by the Applicants was that of Missios himself who conceded that he has no knowledge regarding construction of homes. He brought no expert or other evidence to support his contentious.

Opposed to the evidence of Missios was that of Rosset and Morris Kansun. Rosset has had considerable experience in the home building industry and in the evaluation of claims by homeowners. He found the workmanship of Kansun and the materials used by it to be acceptable and satisfactory. Having regard to Rosset's experience in home construction and his evaluation of building contractors' work over many years, coupled with the credible manner in which he testified, the Tribunal accepts his observations and opinions.

The evidence of Morris Kansun also impressed the Tribunal. Kansun went to extraordinary lengths to satisfy Missios. Time and time again, Kansun attempted to accommodate the Applicants at considerable time, effort and expense to Kansun. This was to no avail as Missios insisted on what was tantamount to perfection in relation to both workmanship and materials. Missios was demanding to the extent of unreasonableness. His attitude was that nothing short of perfection was acceptable to him.

As was stated in MARK TEITELMAN (1987) 16 CRAT at page 181:

The Teitelmans were not the authors of the defects and the Tribunal understands that they are a constant source of irritation to them. However, they must accept the fact that no house new or old is perfect or is warranted to be perfect. Floors in stairs will squeak, wood will shrink and wall cracks will appear and paint will peel. All that can be done is to keep these imperfections at reasonable acceptable levels. The limited warranty provided by the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act recognize these facts and this Tribunal is obligated to make findings in accordance with the statutory provisions and not otherwise.

Furthermore as was stated in SAPORITA (1999) CRAT released July 28, 1999:

Perfection and nothing less than perfection is not a reasonable expectation when dealing with what can be termed as a standard home. One does not live in a perfect world and allowances must be made for minor imperfections. If imperfections exist in the Applicants' home they are, from the evidence tendered, minor in nature and do not result in aesthetically displeasing results.

The Tribunal believes that the Applicants are unrealistic in their expectations and the standards they seek are equally unrealistic.

Rosset's evidence, which is accepted by the Tribunal, was that wood products may manifest imperfections whether they occur naturally or due to trauma to the wood. Minor imperfections can be dealt with by the proper use of filler, sanding and varnishing. That is how Kansun dealt with the minor imperfections that manifested themselves on the oak staircase. The result was the imperfections were no longer visible.

The Tribunal also finds that whatever damage may have been caused to the staircase due to nails having been removed was adequately and satisfactory dealt with by Kansun by the use of filler, sanding and revarnishing. The hole in the wood where a nail was removed was no bigger than the diameter of a pencil and barely visible after Kansun had filled the hole with filler, sanded the area and then varnished. In fact at the hearing, Missios stated that as far as the complaint relating to the nails is concerned same is no longer an issue. Similarly, he stated that the stains of which he complained were also no longer an issue. As to the three staples left in the stairs, these were removed, and the slight puncture marks were adequately and satisfactory dealt with in the same manner as the hole left when the nail was removed. The Tribunal finds the integrity of the stairs was not compromised by the replacement of two steps and there is no squeak noticeable. All this was testified to by Rosset whose opinions and observations are accepted by the Tribunal.

The Tribunal therefore finds that the Applicants do not have a cause of action under Section 14(1)(b) of the Act as there is no breach that they have proven under Section 13(1) of the Act. Even if the Applicants had proven a breach of warranty, which they have not proven, the Applicants have placed no evidence before the Tribunal as to damages that may have been suffered by them.

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in it under Section 16(3) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, the Tribunal directs the Ontario New Home Warranty Program to disallow the Applicants' claim.

APPEAL FROM A PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR
MOTOR VEHICLE DEALERS ACT

TO REVOKE REGISTRATION

TRIBUNAL: STEPHEN J. KELLY, Vice-Chair

APPEARANCES:

JOCELYN BOISSONNEAULT, counsel, representing the Applicants
MARY JANE SOUTH, agent, representing the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act

DATE OF HEARING: May 15, 2000 Ottawa

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This hearing arises out of a notice of proposal dated November 24, 1999, issued by the Registrar of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (the "Act") to revoke a registration of the Applicant, Rich's Service Centre Ltd., as a motor vehicle dealer under the provisions of the Act.

The Registrar basis his proposal on the provisions of section 6 as read with subsection 5(1) of the Act.

The Tribunal heard from Mr. Dirk Voskamp, principle of the Applicant, as well as from Cindy Voskamp, daughter-in-law of Dirk Voskamp and administrator of the Applicant. Finally, the Tribunal heard evidence from Deborah Price, senior collections officer with the Ministry of Finance for the Province of Ontario.

FACTS:

The Tribunal finds, pursuant to the evidence given in these proceedings, the following as proven facts:

- 1) Mr. Voskamp began in the automobile repair business in 1964. He became a registered motor vehicle dealer under the Act in or about 1984. Initially, he was not extremely active in the retail auto sales business, but became more active in the last four or five years.
- 2) Originally, Mr. Voskamp's wife looked after the business records, including the filings under the Retail Sales Act. In or about 1992, Mr. Voskamp's daughter, Renate Nap, assumed the task of maintaining the company's financial records, including filings under the Retail Sales Act. Approximately four years ago, Cindy Voskamp took over the maintenance of the daily business records, including the vehicle registry. Ms. Nap continued to assume responsibility for making the month end filings, including under the Retail Sales Act. Some time prior to August of 1998, there was a discussion between Ms. Nap and Ms. Voskamp regarding the possibility of Ms. Voskamp assuming responsibility for the monthly filings under the Retail Sales Act. Ms. Voskamp gave evidence that she did not understand that a decision had been made for her to assume this responsibility.
- 3) Monthly filings were not made between August 1998 and October 1999. During this period, approximately $39,800.00 in retail sales tax was collected, but not remitted.
- 4) Extensive collection efforts were undertaken by the Province of Ontario. In response, the Applicant retained an accountant in the summer of 1999 to review the filings and to determine the amount outstanding. This process was completed in November of 1999, and all filings were made at approximately that time. A $2,000.00 payment towards the debt was made in November of 1999.
- 5) No further payments were made to the debt between November of 1999 and the date of the hearing. The Applicant's bank account was frozen at the request of the Province of Ontario in February, 2000. The Applicant retained counsel, but no concrete discussions took place towards resolving the outstanding debt up to the date of this hearing. The Applicant missed four monthly filings. An explanation was given that, as there were no retail sales during those periods, it was believed that filings did not have to be made. This is despite the fact that a representative of the Ministry of Revenue for the Province of Ontario advised Ms. Voskamp in February, 2000, that the business must continue to make monthly filings.
- 6) The business had a number of wholesale transactions (between two and four) between January 2000 and the date of the hearing. As its bank account was frozen and any funds deposited would be made payable to the Province and applied to the debt, Ms. Voskamp arranged for the transactions to be made in cash so that funds would be available to pay the vendor of the vehicle. None of the profits from these transactions were deposited in the account or forwarded as payment towards the debt.
- 7) Mr. Voskamp was not familiar with the Retail Sales Act filing requirements. He did not know the precise reason why filing were not made between August 1998 and October 1999. He was not aware of the status of any dealings between the Applicant and representatives of the Province of Ontario regarding late filings and repayments of amounts outstanding.

- 8) The Applicant sustained substantial losses in 1998 and 1999, although the annual loss was decreasing. Despite the fact that $40,000.00 which should have been remitted, it remained in the company's account or was used to pay third parties. This was not noted by representatives of the Applicant.

ISSUE:

The issue to be decided in these proceedings is whether the Registrar had sufficient grounds for revoking the Applicant's Registration.

THE LAW:

Relevant portions of the Act that are applicable to these proceedings are:

- (a) Section 6, which gives the Registrar the power to revoke a registration, and subsection 5(1)(c)(i)(ii), which provides as follows:

5(1) An applicant is entitled to registration or renewal of registration by the Registrar except where,

- (c)(i) having regard to its financial position, it cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of its business, or
- (ii) the past conduct of its officers or directors affords reasonable grounds for belief that its business will not be carried on in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty; or

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The representative of the Registrar referred the Tribunal to the decision of the Divisional Court in the case of Brenner v. Ontario (Registrar of Motor Vehicle Dealers and Salesmen) (1983) 19 CRAT, 58. In the Brenner decision, the Court set out the standard for review by this Tribunal, which is that unless the Tribunal finds reasonable grounds do not exist to support the proposal of the Registrar, the Tribunal should not interfere with the proposal.

Mr. Voskamp was not in the past and is not at present on top of the finances of the Applicant's business. He relied upon others to maintain the Applicant's financial records and to ensure the Applicant complied with its statutory obligations. He continues to rely on others to address and rectify the current problem. While steps were made to bring the filings up to date, no serious attempts were made to repay the trust funds or to make arrangements to do so. It is up to the Applicant to ensure that its representatives are aware of its filing obligation. One would think that, in light of the past breaches, the Applicant's representatives would ensure that they fully understood the filing requirements. Nevertheless, the last four filings remain outstanding, which by default, at best, is attributable to Mr. and Ms. Voskamp's continued misunderstanding of the Applicant's obligations. The business is not being operated with fiscal responsibility. Also, by failing to remit Retail Sales Tax, the business is not being operated in accordance with the law.

The Tribunal finds it very difficult to understand how a business that was losing money annually could retain $40,000.00 improperly and not notice that these additional funds were being held. If this went unnoticed by the Applicant, then it merely confirms that the company was in disarray.

The Tribunal is also extremely troubled by the fact that the Applicant has not taken steps to repay the debt in any substantial way. Mr. and Ms. Voskamp expressed a wish to address the situation, but explained that the company is not financially able to address the debt in the short term. The Applicant proposed to pay 10 per cent of the debt immediately and the remainder over an extended period of monthly instalments. The Tribunal interprets this as demonstrating that the company would like to act in a financially responsible manner, but simply is not financially able to do so.

On the evidence, the Tribunal concludes that the Registrar was reasonable in concluding that the Applicant cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of its business and that there were reasonable grounds for the belief that the business would not be carried on in accordance with law, or with integrity and honesty.

DECISION:

Pursuant to the authority vested in it by subsection 7(4) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar to carry out his proposal dated November 24, 1999, to revoke the registration of the Applicant.

DECISION RELEASED: May 29, 2000 Sudbury

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 19, 2000, at Sudbury, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	Consbec Inc. (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle:	1998 International 9400, Plate # 799 8DE (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal:	May 5, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on May 19, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

"The owner had no knowledge that the driver's licence was under suspension. The driver had confirmed in writing that he was properly licenced.

The commercial vehicle described herein had no critical defects at the time of the inspection by the inspecting officer and ought not have been impounded.

The use of this vehicle is vital in the transportation of ammonium nitrate on the construction site and the loss of the vehicle, which is valued at $125,000.00, creates an economic hardship in that the cost of a replacement vehicle is $3,500.00 per month."

Mr. Norman Paquette, Solicitor for the Applicant, questioned Mr. Richard Walker, the General Manager of Consbec Inc. Mr. Walker testified that the company employs 125 to 150 people depending on the amount of business the company has. The company is based in Sudbury, and is in the construction, drilling and blasting business. The impounded vehicle was a truck tractor used to haul equipment on the companies float trailer. This vehicle was one of four tractors that the company owns, and the result of the loss of this unit will cost the company $75,000.00 of lost profits. The cost of replacing the tractor is in the area of $3,000.00 a week.

Mr. Jeff Walker, Operations Manager, stated that he hired Mr. Sylvain Laderoute three weeks before the impoundment took place. Mr. Laderoute was hired as a labourer to work in the back shop. He was not hired to drive a truck and that his resumé said, "I took the transport drivers course and got my A-Z licences". Mr. Walker said that this was a bonus to the company if he ever needed another driver. Mr. Laderoute was a good worker in the back shop but that was his only responsibility.

On April 13th, 2000, Mr. Dave Rose, an employee, was working in the Parry Sound area when he received word that his father was dying in a Sudbury hospital. The company arranged for Mr. Mark Perrault to take a car to Parry Sound and have Mr. Rose return to Sudbury. Mr. Perrault was instructed to drive the impounded tractor and trailer back to Sudbury. Mr. Sylvain Laderoute went with him to pick up the tractor and the empty ammonium nitrate trailer.

Mr. Laderoute told Mr. Perrault that he had an A-Z licence and could drive the truck back to Sudbury. There was an M.T.O. vehicle safety inspection programme operating that day. The vehicle was pulled over and passed the inspection. Mr. Laderoute was then taken away by the O.P.P. for failure to pay fines and for driving without a valid driver's licence. Mr. Perrault then phoned Mr. Walker to tell him what had happened.

Mr. Jeff Walker stated that at no time did he give permission for Mr. Laderoute to drive the company truck and that Mr. Laderoute was never employed or hired to drive a company vehicle.

Mr. Walker stated that since the impoundment, the company has put into place a policy to have driver abstracts done on all employees and any new employees they hire that use company vehicles.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar's evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Sylvain Landeroute;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving while disqualified under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until March 17, 2002.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The “owner” for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

“Owner” means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar’s order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver’s licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver’s licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of “due diligence” as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, “due diligence” in Black’s Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

To succeed in this appeal, the Applicant must establish that it exercised due diligence to determine that Sylvain Laderoute’s driver’s licence was not under suspension at the time of the vehicle being impounded.

The Tribunal finds that Sylvain Laderoute’s driver’s licence was under suspension and further finds that he was driving the Applicant’s motor vehicle at the time that it was impounded.

Section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act requires that the owner, Consbec Inc., exercise due diligence in attempting to determine that Sylvain Laderoute's driver's licence was not suspended at the time of the impoundment of the owner's motor vehicle.

The evidence establishes that the Applicant made no inquiries with respect to the status of Mr. Laderoute's licence. Mr. Laderoute was known to and in the employment of Consbec Inc. and was required to make inquiries respecting the licence status of Mr. Laderoute. The ground of appeal argued by the Applicant in subsection 50.2(3)(c) of the Act requires the Applicant make inquiries as to Mr. Laderoute's licence at the time of the impoundment. Meeting the requirements of subsection 50.2(3)(c) is the sole basis of the Tribunal's jurisdiction in this hearing.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant, having made no inquiries as to the status of Mr. Laderoute's driver's licence, has failed to establish that the owner of the vehicle exercised due diligence as required by subsection 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: May 16, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 30, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 16, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 as amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	Jackie Downing (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle:	1993 Pontiac Grand Prix, Plate # 543 ACL (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal:	April 28, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time it was being driven and that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on May 16, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

The Registrar's Agent inquired about three letters that had been faxed to her by the Applicant. The letters were essentially character references in support of the Applicant. The parties agreed that the letters should be entered in evidence as exhibits.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made?

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

My vehicle was taken without my consent. I was not aware it was gone until the Constable Wainburger called to say it was being impounded and my husband was driving it. I am in the position right now that I have to sell my home of ~~19~~ years and also go to the bank for a loan to be able to afford to rent a car-plus pay the impoundment fee when I can finally get my car back. I have missed one week from my job of 26 years and have spent numerous hours during my working hours trying to obtain and complete numerous paperwork in order to come to a conclusion to this nightmare. I have two children that also depend on ~~only~~ me.

It was not my fault that the car was taken from me. My husband is now in jail and I am also in the position that I must obtain a lawyer for legal separation on top of just trying to get my car back. This is all I can say as evidence as that is the truth. Await your decision.

The Applicant testified that she lives with her husband of twenty years in a bungalow, where he lives in the basement and she lives upstairs with her two children. Her husband had a job for eighteen years, but lost it five years ago. Since that time, he has been mostly unemployed. He lost his most recent job in November, 1999. He has been an alcoholic for the last six years.

The Applicant outlined the pattern of her car utilization:

She drives both of her children to school in the morning. Her daughter has a part-time job and needs to be driven home from work in the evening.

2. She drives herself to work after taking her children to school. She lives in Whitby and works in Oshawa at Human Resources Development Canada. On occasion, she must drive to off-site locations for training sessions and conferences.
3. Her brother has multiple sclerosis. The Applicant attends upon him once a week to assist with his personal care. Her mother is receiving dialysis and has a serious liver disease. The Applicant attends upon her mother every week to assist with house cleaning and grocery shopping. Therefore, the Applicant must drive to Toronto several times a week.
4. She volunteers to assist her friend, Erin Matthews, at a youth shelter in Durham Region. This work often involves the use of her car.

On the day of the impoundment, the Applicant recounted that she returned home, placed her car keys on the kitchen table and then went into the washroom. Upon emerging from the washroom, she received a telephone call from Constable Wagenberg advising her that her husband had been arrested for impaired driving. Later, she learned that her car would be impounded for forty-five days because her husband was driving her car while his licence was under suspension. Subsequently, her husband was incarcerated and he is still in custody.

The Applicant discussed the issue of laying a charge of "stolen" against her husband with two lawyers, at least one police officer and a Justice of the Peace. They all advised her that a charge of stolen would "not hold up" because they are husband and wife and living in the same house.

The Applicant testified that prior to the suspension of her husband's licence in June, 1999, he routinely drove a vehicle belonging to himself. (Exhibit 14 shows that David Bruce Downing is the registered owner of a 1983 Oldsmobile motor vehicle, plate # 831 ZCE.) The Applicant stated that her husband did not have a set of keys to her car. However, she did say that her husband had, on occasion, in the past driven her car on short errands like going to the store for cigarettes. Furthermore, she stated that that is what she believes her husband was engaged in at the time that the vehicle was stopped and impounded. She also indicated that she believes that her husband intended to return to the house that day. The Applicant asserted that she believes that the vehicle was "not really stolen... It was [taken] without consent."

By utilizing a rental car, the Applicant testified that she has been able to continue meeting her obligations to her family and employer throughout the impoundment period. She did express anxiety over missing one week of work during the impoundment period in order to attend to personal matters relating to the impoundment and her husband's incarceration. She took a week of sick-days and she was compensated for them. Furthermore, she is agitated about having received a telephone call at work from the Registrar's office. The call was personal and it could be easily overheard by the Applicant's co-workers.

Her principal concern, relating to the impoundment, is the cost of the car rental and the impoundment fees. She is paying $200 per week in rental fees. She does not know the amount of the impoundment fee. The car rental fee includes insurance. The Registrar's Agent explained to the Applicant that she could reduce her rental costs by utilizing the insurance on her car to insure the rental vehicle. The Applicant said that she plans to finance the car rental and impoundment fees through a bank loan. She has a friend with contacts at the Bank of Montreal who will be able to assist her in securing a loan. She plans to repay the loan after she has sold her house. She plans to sell her house and separate from her husband. She was planning to sell the house and separate from her husband even before the impoundment of her vehicle. The effect of the impoundment of her vehicle and the incarceration of her husband has been to accelerate the timetable for these plans.

Additionally, the Applicant is currently paying her husband's legal fees.

The Applicant is an honest, hard working, compassionate and loyal person who is a credit to her family and community. She is coping with numerous difficulties that are not of her own making. The Tribunal has a high degree of respect for the Applicant and sympathizes with her.

The Evidence of Erin Matthews

Ms. Matthews testified that she is a friend of the Applicant. She works with abused women and youth in Durham Region. Her evidence corroborated the testimony of the Applicant to a considerable degree. Ms. Matthews outlined the difficulties in the Applicant's marriage and personal life. She expressed the belief that the Applicant would not be able to pay the impoundment fees and would be forced to forfeit her car. She also expressed anxiety about the ability of the Applicant to tolerate the stress associated with the impoundment given the high degree of stress that she was bearing prior to the impoundment and incarceration of her husband.

Ms. Matthews is a passionate and loyal friend with a sincere concern for the Applicant's welfare. She expressed greater concern about the Applicant's finances than did the Applicant. While expressing general anxiety and exhibiting signs of stress, the Applicant did not say that she feared that she would be unable to obtain a bank loan and that, therefore, she would be forced to forfeit her car. It is unclear whether Ms. Matthews is intimately familiar with the Applicant's financial condition. In any case, the Applicant must be considered the best witness regarding her own finances. Therefore, the Tribunal prefers the testimony of the Applicant in this regard.

Other character witnesses filed support letters that corroborate the Applicant's evidence.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by David Bruce Downing;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until November 18, 2000.

The Evidence of Police Constable Michael Wagenberg

The Officer testified that on the day in question he was working at a R.I.D.E. checkpoint in Whitby near the Applicant's home. He stopped the Applicant's vehicle then driven by her husband. He detected signs of intoxication and escorted, under arrest, the Applicant's husband to the police station. The Applicant's husband was then given a breathalyzer test.

The Applicant's vehicle was towed away. At her husband's request, the Officer telephoned the Applicant to advise her that her husband had been arrested. Upon further investigation, the Officer learned that the Applicant's husband's licence was under suspension. The Officer placed a second telephone call to the Applicant late that evening to advise her that her husband's legal situation was more complicated than at first believed. The Officer did not speak personally to the Applicant. He left a message on her voice mail.

Subsequently, the Officer had a conversation with an unidentified friend of the Applicant. The discussion concerned the possible laying of a charge against the Applicant's husband for stealing the vehicle. The Officer advised that a charge would not succeed because they are married and cohabiting in the same house. Furthermore, the Officer testified that the Applicant has not filed a complaint of "stolen" with the police as of the date of this hearing.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsections 50.2(3)(a) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(a) alleging that the vehicle was stolen, the meaning of "stolen" is not provided in The Highway Traffic Act.

The Shorter Oxford Dictionary, provides the definition of "stolen" as follows:

Stolen: 1. Obtained by theft. 2. Accomplished or enjoyed by stealth; secret. 3. Of time: obtained by contrivance

Theft: 1. The action of a thief; the felonious taking away of the personal goods of another; larceny 2. That which is or has been stolen; the proceeds of thieving.

Black's Law Dictionary (Sixth edition), page 1419-1420 provides the definition of "stolen" as follows:

Stolen: Acquired, or possessed, as a result of some wrongful or dishonest act or taking, whereby a person willfully obtains or retains possession of property which belongs to another, without or beyond any permission given, and with the intent to deprive the owner of the benefit of ownership (or possession) permanently.

The word "stolen" as used in the crime of interstate transportation of stolen motor vehicles includes all wrongful and dishonest taking of motor vehicles with the intent to deprive the owner of the rights and benefits of ownership, regardless of whether theft constitutes common-law larceny; and felonious taking may be effected by diverse means known to both common and statutory law, such as larceny, embezzlement, false pretenses, larceny by trick and other types of wrongful acquisition. Lake v. U.S., Colo, 338F.2d 787,788. It is not necessary that the taking of the vehicle be unlawful. Even if possession of the vehicle is lawfully acquired, the vehicle will be deemed "stolen" if the defendant thereafter forms the intent to deprive the owner of the rights and benefits of ownership, and converts the vehicle to his own use. United States v. Turley, 352 U.S. 407, 417, 77 S.Ct. 397, 402. 1 L.Ed.2d 430.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

(h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
- (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.

- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2)(b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3)(a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The Applicant has appealed on the ground that the impounded vehicle was stolen.

The Registrar's Agent cited several sections of the Criminal Code of Canada. The essence of which was that neither a husband nor a wife can be found to have committed a theft of common property from their spouse. Therefore, the Registrar's Agent asserted that the Tribunal can not find that the impounded vehicle was "stolen."

However, the Tribunal in Lever v. Registrar of Motor Vehicles LSAB, released October 1999, stated:

The fact that the police did not lay a charge against James Lever [the Applicant's husband] is not an important element in this case. The police must deal with a different onus, that of beyond a reasonable doubt, when seeking to obtain Criminal Code convictions. Here the onus is one of the balance of probabilities.

In analyzing the meaning of "stolen" as found in section 50.2(3)(a) the Board must consider the legislative framework governing statutory interpretation. Section 10 of the Interpretation Act R.S.O. 1990 Chap. I-11 states: "Every Act shall be deemed to be remedial, whether its immediate purport is to direct the doing of anything that the Legislature deems to be for the public good or to prevent or punish the doing of anything that it deems to be contrary to the public good, and shall accordingly receive such fair, large and liberal construction and interpretation as will best ensure the attainment of the object of the Act according to its true intent meaning and spirit."

The Ontario Court of Appeal in R v. Cappel (1993) 11 OR (3d) 693 (CA) at 697 described the Driedger (2d) approach to statutory interpretation as a "direct, logical and practical approach" and the "proper way to approach the construction of a statute."

In Driedger (2d) at 105 the task of statutory interpretation is summarized as follows:

1. The Act as a whole is to be read in its entire context so as to ascertain the intention of Parliament (the law as expressly or implicitly enacted by the words), the object of the Act (the ends sought to be achieved), and the scheme of the Act (the relation between the individual provisions of the Act).
2. The words of the individual provisions to be applied to the particular case under consideration are then to be read in their grammatical and ordinary sense in the light of the intention of Parliament embodied in the Act as a whole, the object of the Act and the scheme of the Act, and if they are clear and unambiguous and in harmony with that intention, object and scheme and with the general body of the law, that is the end.
3. If the words are apparently obscure or ambiguous, then a meaning that best accords with the intention of Parliament, the object of the Act and the scheme of the Act, but one that the words are reasonably capable of bearing, is to govern them.
4. If, notwithstanding that the words are clear and unambiguous when read in their grammatical and ordinary sense, there is disharmony within the statute, statutes in pari materia, or the general law, then an unordinary meaning that will produce harmony is to be given the words, if they are reasonably capable of bearing that meaning.

This multi faceted approach to statutory interpretation has been supported by the Supreme Court of Canada in a number of cases. It has been applied in cases such as British Columbia v. Henfrey Samson Belair Ltd. (1989) 59 DLR (4th) 726 (SCC), R v. Egger (J.H.) (1993), 153 NR 272 (SCC), R v. Heywood (1995) 174 NR 81 (SCC) and R v. McIntosh (B.B.).

Using the ordinary meaning rule as evidenced by dictionary definitions is still an important guide to statutory interpretation but it must be used in conjunction with other principles of statutory interpretation. In this case it is important to use it with the implied exclusion principle as stated in the latin maxim "The inclusion of one is the exclusion of another" "expressio unius est exclusio alterius". It is used to compare two provisions of the same statute. The recent amendments to the Highway Traffic Act in section 55.1(2) states quite specifically that suspensions under s. 41 and s. 42 can give rise to a police officer detaining a motor vehicle until the Registrar issues the impoundment order under section 55.1(3). Sections 41 and 42 give in specific detail what sections of the Criminal Code are applicable to these type of suspensions. Under 50.2(1) an appeal can be made to the Board and section 50.2(3) sets out the grounds for the appeal. If the Legislature wished to have section 50.2(3)(a) be subject to the Criminal Code it could have easily put in the specific sections under this subsection. By being intentionally silent it means that the definition of "stolen" need not be given a strictly Criminal Code type of interpretation.

The amendments of the Highway Traffic Act were established by the Legislature in order to ensure that the public treats seriously licence suspensions under the "drinking" sections of the Criminal Code. The Legislature wished to deter those with such licence suspensions from driving and wished to have the community understand their responsibilities to not allow their vehicles to be driven by those under these type of licence suspensions. In so doing the Legislature has, through section 50.2(3), permitted the owners of vehicles so impounded to appeal on specific grounds. This is not a strict liability section. The use of the word stolen under section 50.2(3)(a) should be looked at in its ordinary meaning as understood by the community.

The evidence in this case clearly establishes that the impounded vehicle was taken without the owner's consent by the Applicant's husband.

Therefore, the question before the Tribunal in this case is:

Was the impounded vehicle borrowed without the owner's consent OR was the vehicle "stolen"?

Black's Law Dictionary's definition of stolen highlights the vital distinction between borrowed without consent and stolen. A stolen item is "acquired...with the intent to deprive the owner of the benefit of ownership (or possession) permanently." By contrast, the Funk & Wagnalls Standard College Dictionary (Canadian Edition, 1978) defines borrow as "to take or obtain (something) with the promise or understanding that one will return it or its equivalent."

In other words, the question before the Tribunal is: Did the Applicant's husband take the vehicle with the intent to deprive the Applicant of the benefit of ownership or possession permanently?

The Applicant testified that prior to the suspension of her husband's license in June, 1999, he routinely drove a vehicle belonging to himself. The Applicant stated that her husband did not have a set of keys to her car. However, she did say that her husband had, on occasion, in the past driven her car on short errands like going to the store for cigarettes. Furthermore, she stated that that is what she believes her husband was engaged in at the time that the vehicle was stopped and impounded. The Applicant asserted that she believes that the vehicle was "not really stolen... It was [taken] without consent."

On the day of the impoundment, the Applicant returned to her matrimonial home. She placed her car keys on the kitchen table and then went into the washroom. Her husband saw the keys, picked up the keys and proceeded to drive his wife's car. (The Applicant testified that by this point in time her husband's motor vehicle was no longer in operating condition.)

Apparently, the car keys were in plain sight in a common area of the home. The decision by the Applicant's husband to take the keys was formulated on the spur of the moment when he was presented with the opportunity. He clearly did formulate the intention to drive while his licence was under suspension. Given that the object of his motorized journey was most likely the purchase of cigarettes, it is highly improbable that he formulated the intention to deprive his wife of the benefit of ownership or possession of the vehicle permanently. Therefore, the Tribunal concurs with the Applicant and finds that the vehicle was "not really stolen... It was [taken] without consent."

The Applicant has also appealed on the grounds that the impoundment of her vehicle will result in exceptional hardship.

Under Section 22 of Regulation 574 of R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, the owner must establish that no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available as a prerequisite condition for a finding of exceptional hardship under subsection (1) or (3).

The evidence in this case establishes that the Applicant rented a motor vehicle subsequent to the impoundment. Therefore, an alternative to the impounded vehicle is available. Therefore, the Tribunal may not render a finding of exceptional hardship under section 22.

Given the fact that the Applicant has the benefit of the use of a rented vehicle, her concerns do not relate to the consequences of the loss of the use of the impounded vehicle. Her concerns relate to the financial burden of the car rental and of the impoundment fees. Furthermore, it is obvious that the impoundment is exacerbating the Applicant's pre-existing high level of stress.

Section 22.3(b) does permit the Tribunal to consider financial loss. However, the losses contemplated in subsection 3(b) are losses incurred as a result of the loss of use of the impounded vehicle predicated on the assumption that no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available. Therefore, the rental costs are excluded from consideration as a loss under section 22.3. Similarly, the impoundment fees are also excluded from consideration. Section 22 also excludes stress from consideration.

While they do not constitute grounds for a finding of exceptional hardship under section 22, the Tribunal recognizes the hardship that these concerns inflict upon the Applicant. The Tribunal notes that the Applicant did indicate that she intends to apply for a bank loan in order to finance the car rental and the payment of the impoundment fees. The Applicant, while exhibiting signs of stress and anxiety over the impoundment, did not say that she was concerned that she would not be able to obtain a loan. Also, the Registrar's Agent in the hearing suggested a method whereby the Applicant could reduce the insurance component of her rental costs. The Tribunal suggests that the Applicant prevail upon her husband to shoulder, at least, some of the financial burden from his present and future assets. The Tribunal trusts that these measures will obviate to some degree the hardship of the Applicant.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

APPEARANCES: ROBERT VELLOZO, the Applicant,

Motor Vehicle Dealers Compensation Fund

DATE OF
HEARING: April 18, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal (formerly the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal), (the "Tribunal") from a written decision of the Board of Trustees of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Compensation Fund (the "Board") dated November 1, 1999, wherein the Board advised the Applicant that it was paying to the Applicant the sum of One Thousand Six Hundred Fifty Dollars ($1,650.00) as payment of the Applicant's claim based on the wholesale value of the 1988 Mustang less a reconditioning cost.

At the outset of the hearing, Counsel for the Board reviewed the undisputed facts giving rise to the Applicant's claim to the Board. The Applicant was one of numerous victims, some of whom have appeared before this Tribunal, who were taken in by a fraudulent scheme whereby individuals who advertised their vehicles for sale were contacted by a representative of Uniglobe Financial Corporation ("Uniglobe") who agreed to purchase the vehicle and pay a "premium" because payment was by a post-dated cheque. The owner signed over the ownership to the vehicle and was given a "guaranteed purchase agreement" together with the post-dated cheque. The first group of sellers had their post-dated cheques honoured and their names were provided as references for subsequent prospective vendors. Unfortunately, after the first sellers received their money, the balance did not and upon presentation of their post-dated cheques, a seller was advised that the account was closed and the cheque was not honoured.

This is the situation in which this Applicant finds himself and the facts of his particular dealing with Uniglobe are contained in a letter dated January 27, 1994, written to the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations, Investigation Section and filed as Exhibit A4" in these proceedings.

ISSUE:

It was agreed between the parties that the sole issue for determination by the Tribunal is the fair value for the vehicle and the amount of money that the Applicant is entitled to be compensated by the Board for his pecuniary loss.

THE EVIDENCE:

The position of the Applicant in this matter was given by the Applicant who testified on his own behalf. It was the Applicant's evidence that if the value of the 1988 Mustang was not $4,600.00 as claimed in his application for compensation being the amount of the dishonoured cheque from Uniglobe, then the value was between $3,200.00 and $3,500.00. The Applicant stated that there was no evidence of any reconditioning and in his opinion the vehicle was road-worthy and that the records of the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations which appeared at Tab 1, pages 18 to 21 and Tab 9 of the Document Brief which is Exhibit A3" in these proceedings, indicate that as of December 3, 1998, the vehicle was listed as still active.

The Applicant stated that the vehicle had received a safety standards certificate on August 23, 1993, a copy of which appears as an exhibit to the Applicant's application for claim at Tab 1 of Exhibit A3".

Under cross-examination, the Applicant stated that he had listed the vehicle for sale in August 1993 in the Auto Trader for a price of $3,200.00. He determined this price as the market value for similar vehicles at that time. After providing a brief summary of his work experience, which did not include any work in the auto industry, the Applicant stated that he purchased the vehicle from Scarborough Nissan in September 1990 for, to the best of his recollection, about $5,800.00 which included taxes. The vehicle in question is a black 1988 Ford Mustang, 4 cylinder, 5 speed, which apparently did not have air conditioning although the Applicant's recollection on this point was not clear. He did not recall the vehicle's mileage at the time of acquisition and acknowledged that at the time of purchase it had been on the road for approximately three years.

The Applicant works for a company in downtown Toronto but did not use the vehicle to regularly commute from his home in Scarborough to work but did use the vehicle for the occasional commute and on weekends and evenings. There were also trips to Montreal and camping trips.

The Applicant was the only driver of the vehicle and estimated that there had been approximately 20,000 to 25,000 kilometers put on the vehicle during his period of ownership.

Mr. Vellozo testified that he had owned two previous vehicles both of which he had traded in when acquiring a replacement vehicle and did trade in a vehicle when he acquired the Mustang.

It was the Applicant's evidence that he had the opportunity to obtain a vehicle from his father and as he had no need for two cars, he decided to sell the Mustang through the Auto Trader which he had never done before. The Applicant acknowledged that by placing an ad in the Auto Trader with a sale price of $3,200.00, he could not expect to receive more than that amount in the event of a sale.

It was after the vehicle had been in the Auto Trader that the Applicant heard from Uniglobe and spoke to one Jack Goldstein ("Goldstein") who subsequently agreed to buy the vehicle for $4,600.00 in October of 1993.

The Applicant acknowledged that at the time of the safety inspection no work was done on the car and to the best of his recollection, new tires had been put on the car early in 1992 and the car had been serviced at a garage in Scarborough but that the battery had not been changed nor the muffler, the brakes or clutch but the catalytic converter had been subject to a recall. The car had not been repainted however, it had been involved in a "fender bender" with the result that the rear quarter panel had been "popped out" and repainted.

The Applicant continued to drive the car until October 1993 when he gave the vehicle together with the ownership and keys to Goldstein. He could not recall what the odometer reading was at the time he delivered the vehicle and ownership to Uniglobe however he estimated it would have been approximately 94,000 kilometers.

Counsel for the Board called Mr. Bavelaar to give testimony on behalf the Board and qualified Mr. Bavelaar who had started his career as a "lot boy" and worked his way up until he was running a dealership and now owns and operates a used car dealership which deals with late model domestic vehicles. Mr. Bavelaar is the national adviser to the Automobile Protection Association regarding used cars, works with the Automobile Consumer Coalition with respect to maintenance, practices and trade-in matters and, in addition to other associations, is a regional adviser to the Used Car Dealer Association.

Mr. Bavelaar stated that the prices shown in the industry's "Black Book" are average prices based on actual sales through auctions in the industry. Mr. Bavelaar explained the difference between the various levels, "extra-clean", "clean", "average" and "rough", and indicated that the difference between "clean" and "average" was whether there was original paint and good tread on the tires. A clean vehicle would require very little or no clean up whereas an average vehicle would have paint chips and would require money for reconditioning. He then stated that the vehicle in question was considered to be a commuter car which, after having been driven for about five (5) years, would have very little value. He also noted that certain Ford products of this vintage were known to have paint-peeling problems. Further, the Mustang was known for poor winter driving as it was a light rear-wheel drive vehicle. Mr. Bavelaar indicated that he some personal knowledge with respect to a 1989 Mustang.

The price that a seller might receive for this vehicle would be susceptible to price variation depending upon the season as the vehicle would be considered to be in the "sport market" and would have a greater opportunity for sale in the spring and summer as opposed to the fall or winter. He suggested that it would be difficult to sell a 1988 Mustang in the fall.

Mr. Bavelaar gave evidence with respect to the different standards of certification that are applied where a garage is certifying a car for a customer and a motor vehicle dealer who is certifying a vehicle for resale. The dealer would be concerned with a customer coming back with complaints if only the minimum standards required under the certification procedure and used by most garages were applied.

It was Mr. Bavelaar's opinion that because of the type of vehicle, the fact that it was a 5 speed, did not have factory air conditioning, was being sold in the fall and was considered a "disposable" car, a dealer would drop a category and in the case of this vehicle would use what is referred to as "bottom book" which means the lowest price category which, according to the Black Book prices set forth at Tab 10 of Exhibit A3", would be $1,440.00.

Mr. Bavelaar stated that when offering the lowest category price, issues of reconditioning, etc., are not taken into consideration, however, if one were to offer the price in the average category, which was $2,350.00, there would be conditioning costs of between $500.00 and $700.00.

When Mr. Bavelaar was asked to establish a price based not on the Black Book but on the possibility of selling the car at the then market price taking into consideration profit, reconditioning and advertising, he suggested that if the market price was $3,200.00 at the time, the vehicle would be offered for approximately $2,995.00 with the expectation of a profit of approximately $800.00 to $1,000.00, and after a deduction for reconditioning the price offered would be approximately $1,500.00.

On cross-examination, Mr. Bavelaar was asked to expand upon the difference between "extra-clean" and "clean" and stated that in reality the only difference between the two categories was the number of kilometers on the vehicle and that in both cases, there should be no chips, scratches, the tires should be in good shape, no stone chips in the windshield and certainly no dents. He stated that the damage to the quarter panel of the Applicant's vehicle would, in and of itself, be likely to drop the vehicle one category in the Black Book.

Mr. Bavelaar's testimony throughout the cross-examination was consistent with the evidence which he had given in his examination in chief.

THE LAW:

As the entitlement of the Applicant to make a claim to the Fund in the present circumstances is not an issue the relevant section of the Regulations under the Act appears as part of Regulation 801 under the Schedule "Terms of Compensation Fund", section 1 "Definitions" wherein a "claim" is defined to mean:

"a claim for pecuniary loss arising out of a transaction involving a trade in motor vehicle (emphasis added)."

Although the Applicant may have been able to obtain a better price for his vehicle in the retail market, the transaction giving rise to the Applicant's right to make a claim against the Fund is as a result of the transaction involving a motor vehicle dealer which is a different form of transaction and one to which the wholesale prices for a vehicle are taken into consideration.

The burden of proof is on the Applicant who must prove, on the balance of probabilities, that the amount that he claims to be entitled is the amount of his pecuniary loss with respect to this transaction.

During the course of the hearing, the Applicant abandoned his claim for $4,600.00 and acknowledged that he could not claim $3,500.00 when he offered the vehicle for sale for $3,200.00. Unfortunately, the Applicant has not persuaded this Tribunal that the value of the vehicle at the time in question was $3,200.00. Although the Tribunal sympathizes with the Applicant and the loss that he has incurred with respect to this matter and the length of time taken to have received compensation, the Tribunal must accept the evidence as to the value of this type of vehicle in a wholesale transaction taking place at the time of year in which the Applicant delivered the vehicle to Uniglobe.

The best value to be placed upon the vehicle would be as an "average" car which has a Black Book value of $2,350.00 which would be subject to a reduction for reconditioning in the amount between $500.00 and $700.00 which would mean the pecuniary loss incurred by the Applicant would be $1,650.00 being the amount paid to the Applicant by the Board.

At the conclusion of the hearing, counsel for the Board referred the Tribunal to three (3) cases which had been heard before this Tribunal involving Uniglobe Auto Brokers and the same scheme as that applied to the Applicant in the present matter. In each of the decisions the value for the vehicle in question as shown in the Black Book was taken into consideration to determine the fair value of the vehicle and the amount established for reconditioning is consistent with those cases and the evidence given to the Tribunal at this hearing.

DECISION AND ORDER:

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant has not proved his claim for greater compensation and therefore, pursuant to the provisions of section 15(3) of the Schedule to Ontario Regulation 801, R.R.O, 1990 as amended, made pursuant to the Act, the Tribunal hereby confirms the decision of the Board with respect to the Applicant's appeal.

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 11, 2000 at Kingston, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Tribunal released its Decision on May 12, 2000, with Reasons to follow.

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant, by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of a written hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated March 31, 2000, and was received by the Tribunal on April 12, 2000, together with the prescribed fee of $100.00, paid by certified cheque.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

"I was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason."

Preliminary Matters

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties.

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 2 Letter from counsel – dated April 3, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 3 Report from the Applicant's Family Physician – dated April 6, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Affidavit of PC Officer # 1 – dated April 28, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 4 Report of expert witness Roger Goldstein, MB, ChB, FRCPC.

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") states:

50.1 (1) "A person whose driver's licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

(a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or

(b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason".

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Tribunal may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1),(2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) "a report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

(a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;

(b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;

(c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver's licence under section 50.1 of the Act;

(d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;

(e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and

(f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.

(2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.

(3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner.”

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

“A person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal”.

FACTS:

On March 3, 2000, the Applicant was involved in a motor vehicle accident. The attending Constable, while completing the necessary documentation “detected a moderate odor of an alcoholic beverage on his breath”, i.e. the Applicant. The Applicant denied having anything to drink that day (exhibit 1).

After obtaining a roadside screening device, the Constable requested the Applicant to perform the breath analysis test. The Applicant initially refused, stating that he had to void. After relieving himself, the Applicant attempted the test a total of six times, each time failing to provide an adequate sample. After the third attempt, the Constable again demonstrated the proper use of the screening device. After the fifth attempt, the Applicant was informed that another failure would result in a criminal charge of refusal to provide a breath sample. After the sixth attempt, the Applicant was charged. On each attempt, the Applicant “provided a faint puff of breath that lasted for 1 or 2 seconds”. The rest of the time he held his breath and puffed out his cheeks (exhibit 1).

Counsel for the Applicant submitted a letter stating that the Applicant was being treated “for recurrent sinusitis with severe nasal congestion since Jan. 2000”. This, he states, “affected the Applicant’s ability to breathe through his nose and therefore affected his ability take in sufficient breath to provide a suitable sample” (exhibit 2).

A report from the Applicant’s Doctor confirms the diagnosis of “nasal congestion which would affect the patient’s ability to breathe through the nose” (exhibit 3).

The Respondent has provided the opinion of an expert witness that nasal congestion is not a barrier to performing the breath analysis test (exhibit 4).

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The Applicant is seeking reversal his driver’s licence suspension, March 3, 2000 for medical reasons, (Subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the HTA). The Applicant claims that his recurrent sinusitis and nasal congestion prevented him from providing an adequate breath sample. The only evidence presented to support this claim is a letter from the Applicant’s counsel. The Tribunal finds on the evidence that whether the nasal sinuses are congested or obstructed has no bearing on the ability of the subject to perform the test. This is confirmed in the letter from the expert witness’s, paragraph seven.

With respect to the Applicant's medical condition and the Applicant's failure to provide a breath sample, the Tribunal notes that the Applicant's doctor, while confirming the presence of nasal congestion, avoids any comment on the effect of such a state on one's ability to perform the test.

The onus is on the Applicant in this appeal to establish on the evidence that he did not provide a breath sample due to a medical condition. The Applicant has not discharged that onus as required by section 13 of the HTA.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated March 3, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal confirms the suspension.

DATE OF HEARING: May 29, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: May 31, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 29, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	Jason Gibson (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle:	1992 Honda Civic, plate # AEXJ 556 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal:	May 12, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on May 29, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

I Jason Gibson have had my car impounded and I was not driving at the time of the incident. I was slightly intoxicated at the time in question and an acquaintance of mine told me that he was licenced and able to drive my vehicle for me. So I figured it was better for him to drive than me. Apparently I was wrong because I found out shortly after that he was in fact not licenced. Now I'm stuck with no car and a very large impoundment fee to look forward to. I use my car to get to work and back and I'm now finding myself in a very tight jam without without it. If you could please see this situation from my side it would be greatly appreciated. Yours truly Jason Gibson.

Mr. Jason Gibson was sworn and testified that he was at a bar in Brampton, and met Mr. Pellegrims, and old work friend that he had not seen in six months. Mr. Pellegrims offered to drive Mr. Gibson's car to Mr. Gibson's girl friend's house due to the fact that Mr. Gibson was intoxicated. Mr. Gibson asked Mr. Pellegrims if he was okay to drive and if he had a driver's licence. Mr. Pellegrims said that he was okay to drive and that he did have a licence. They were driving through Brampton and were stopped by the police for excessive noise (squealing tires). The police checked Mr. Pellegrims with a roadside breathalyser, and also found that he was driving while under suspension. Mr. Gibson's car was impounded.

Mr. Gibson stated that he pays $10.00 per day to take a cab to work. Some days, he gets a ride to work or home if he can. This impoundment is a major inconvenience, and his finances are limited. His expenses are in the neighbourhood of $400.00 per week due to bills and rent, and he cannot afford the cost of the impoundment. Mr. Gibson said that he lived five kilometres from work and earns $18.00 per hour, and can work overtime.

Mr. Gibson called Mr. Pellegrims as a witness. He was sworn and testified that he had met Mr. Gibson at a bar in Norval, Ontario. They were old work friends, and he offered to drive Mr. Gibson's car because he felt that Mr. Gibson was intoxicated. Mr. Gibson asked him if he was okay to drive, and if he had a driver's licence which he replied that he was okay to drive and that he had a driver's licence. It was about 2:30 a.m., when they left the bar and drove to Brampton. They were stopped by the police, and Mr. Pellegrims could not produce a driver's licence and was given a roadside breathalyzer, which registered an alert. As a result of driving while under suspension, he was given a 90 day A.D.L.S. suspension. Mr. Pellegrims said that he was just helping out a friend.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Michael Jason Pellegrims;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of failing to provide breath or blood sample under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until January 25, 2003.

The respondent offered no further evidence.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The “owner” for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

“Owner” means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar’s order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver’s licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver’s licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of section 50.2(3)(c) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of “due diligence” as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, “due diligence” in Black’s Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines “exceptional hardship” as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

(h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
- (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) inconvenience to any person;
- (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
- (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
- (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
- (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
- (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
- (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
- (d) the impact of the loss,
- (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
- (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).

- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

DUE DILLIGENCE

To succeed in this appeal, the Applicant must establish that he exercised due diligence to determine that Michael Pellegrims' driver's licence was not under suspension at the time of the vehicle being impounded.

The Tribunal finds that Michael Pellegrims' driver's licence was under suspension and further finds that he was driving the Applicant's motor vehicle at the time that it was impounded.

Section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act requires that the owner, Jason Gibson, exercise due diligence in attempting to determine that Michael Pellegrims' driver's licence was not suspended at the time of the impoundment of the owner's motor vehicle.

The ground of appeal argued by the Applicant in subsection 50.2(3)(c) of the Act requires the Applicant make inquiries as to Michael Pellgrims' licence at the time of the impoundment. Meeting the requirements of subsection 50.2(3)(c) is the sole basis of the Tribunal's jurisdiction in this hearing.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant made little effort to confirm the status of Mr. Pellegrims' driver's licence. He did not exercise due diligence, and accordingly he has failed to establish that as the owner of the vehicle, he exercised due diligence as required by subsection 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

EXCEPTIONAL HARDSHIP

The onus is on the Applicant to establish the exceptional hardship ground of appeal as provided in subsection 50.2(3)(d) of the Act.

Subsection 22(3)(a) Regulation 574 as amended by O. Reg. 632/98 provides that this Tribunal may consider financial or economic loss as a ground of appeal but only providing, among other things, that no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available. The Applicant has not established that no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available. For example, he has not shown that he can not rent or borrow another vehicle when required. The evidence indicates that he lives close to his place of employment.

Also, the Applicant does not meet the criteria of O. Reg. 632/98, subsection 22(3)(b) which provides that the Tribunal may not regard economic loss unless the Applicant shows proof that loss will be immediate, significant and lasting. The Applicant did not satisfy the Tribunal that he has in fact incurred any significant expenses in alternative transportation modes.

After assessing the evidence presented, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant has not established exceptional hardship as that term is circumscribed by section 22 of Regulation 632/98.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 9, 2000 at Kingston, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Tribunal released its Decision on May 10, 2000, with Reasons to follow.

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant, by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of a written hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated March 10, 2000, and was received by the Tribunal on March 31, 2000, together with the prescribed fee of $100.00, paid by cheque.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

"I was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason."

Preliminary Matters

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties.

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 3 Letter from counsel – dated March 24, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 4 Medical Report – dated March 10, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Affidavit of PC Officer # 1
- b) Exhibit # 2 Affidavit of PC Officer # 2

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") states:

50.1 (1) "A person whose driver's licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

- (a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or
- (b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason".

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Tribunal may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1),(2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) "a report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

- (a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;
- (b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;
- (c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver's licence under section 50.1 of the Act;
- (d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;
- (e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and
- (f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.

(2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.

(3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner."

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

“A person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal”.

FACTS:

On February 13th, 2000 at 12:50 a.m., Constable Officer # 1, badge no. (#) pulled up behind the Applicant's car which was parked with its flashers on, at the side of the road. The Constable engaged the Applicant in a few minutes conversation. Upon noticing the Applicant to be emanating a strong odour of alcohol and his eyes to be blood shot and glossy, the Constable placed him under arrest. At that moment, the Applicant became hostile, aggressive and verbally abusive. He continued this behaviour for the most of his remaining time in custody. During this period the Appellant gave mixed responses to the offer of counsel and consistently refused to take or try to take a breath analysis test (exhibits 1 & 2).

A letter from the Applicant's counsel states that the Applicant was suffering from Bell's Palsy. As a result he had lost movement of one side of his face and therefore “did not intentionally refuse to blow but his medical condition had prevented him from blowing into the machine” (exhibit 3).

The Applicant's counsel has submitted a medical report from a Physician # 1 who although it does not so state, should be considered the Applicant's family physician. This brief report provides a diagnosis of Bell's Palsy with onset February 6th, 2000. The report based on a visit by the Applicant to the doctor's office February 8th, 2000 lists the symptoms (compatible with the diagnosis) and the treatment given. A visit February 25th, 2000 states the “condition resolved” (exhibit 4).

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The symptoms and sign of Bell's Palsy are well defined. The degree of severity of the symptoms and signs vary greatly, ranging from complete paralysis of the muscles of one side of the face to mild and local muscle weakness. The Applicant's medical statement fails to describe any physical findings which might provide an objective assessment of the degree of disability, if any, experienced by the Applicant, e.g. muscle weakness, facial asymmetry, inability to close the eye, etc. During the time, the Applicant was in custody he did not mention that he was suffering from Bell's Palsy. During this same period, neither Constable noticed any physical impediment i.e. “facial or mouth problems of any kind” that might have limited the Applicant's ability to provide an adequate breath sample (exhibits 1 & 2).

The Tribunal acknowledges that an individual suffering from Bell's Palsy at the severe end of the symptomatic scale might have difficulty effectively sealing the mouthpiece and therefore successfully performing the test. Even this might be overcome by manually holding the lips on the paralyzed side together.

The Applicant refused to provide a breath sample when requested. The onus on the Applicant to succeed in his appeal is to establish on a balance of probabilities that he failed or refused to comply with the demand to provide a breath sample because he was unable to do so for a medical reason.

The Tribunal has considered the evidence, including, the Applicant's deportment while in custody, the lack of physical signs of disability while in custody, and the lack of an accurate description of any physical disability in his medical report. The Applicant has not established that his refusal to provide a breath sample was based on a medical condition.

The Applicant, therefore, has not met the onus required of him in this appeal.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated February 13th, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal confirms the suspension.

TO CHANGE THE CLASS OR CLASSES OF MOTOR VEHICLE IN RESPECT OF WHICH THE LICENCE WAS ISSUED

TRIBUNAL: Jeffrey M. Lee D.C., Presiding Member
Roy Melvin M.D., Member

APPEARANCES: Claire Rowett, Respondent
Representative for the Minister

Applicant
unrepresented

DATE OF HEARING: May 18th, 2000

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Minister (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 32(12)(b)(i) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

FACTS:

Ms. Rowett was sworn and took the stand and presented the following evidence.

The Notice of Appeal states that the Applicant's driver's licence was downgraded effective July 5, 1999 (Exhibit # 1).

The Applicant's driver's licence was downgraded after an unsolicited letter, dated February 18th, 1999, received from Physician # 1, Temiskaming Hospital, informing the Ministry that "I am notifying you of this gentleman's cardiac condition. He suffered an episode of ventricular tachycardia which lasted for approximately 2.5 hours and required defibrillation to resolve. As he is a professional driver, I am notifying you so that you can follow his ongoing cardiac assessments and make decisions as to when he can resume driving." (Exhibit 2 Tab 10).¹

A further report was submitted by Physician # 2. The report was dated May 14, 1999, and it advised the Ministry that the Applicant has remained stable and had no recurrences of syncope or rhythm disturbance that would impair his ability to operate a motor vehicle. Therapy consisted of medication and an ICD (implantable cardioverter defibrillator).

The Applicant was informed that as a result of the above information, his driving privileges were suspended due to his medical condition.

Physician # 3, Cardiologist, Electrophysiologist, in a letter dated August 5, 1999, informed the Ministry that the Applicant had remained stabilized and had no clinical tachycardia or loss of consciousness since the implant. Physician # 3 did state that the Applicant had experienced three inappropriate shocks, however these were not related to the tachycardia.

The Medical Advisory Committee reviewed the file on August 25, 1999 and granted a reinstatement of the Applicant's Class "G" licence.

The Applicant has appealed under Section 50(1) of the HTA.²

The Applicant asked the Ministry's representative why he was only informed that he could have a "GM" licence and not informed why he was not told that he did not qualify for a class "A" licence. The Ministry's did not have an answer as to why but speculated that there was a delay in getting information from one person to the other and perhaps this information was misplaced.

¹Pursuant to Section 177 of the HTA (1) every legally qualified medical practitioner shall report to the Registrar the name, address and clinical condition of every person sixteen years of age or over attending upon the medical practitioner for medical services, who in the opinion of the medical practitioner is suffering from a condition that may make it dangerous for such a person to operate a motor vehicle.

²Section 50.(1) states:
Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32 (12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision of the Licence Suspension Appeal Board.

The Tribunal asked the representative for the Ministry if she could direct our attention to where in the Highway Traffic Act there was a listing of designations of Class 1,2,3,4,5 and to what letter i.e. Class A, B, C, etc. that these corresponded to. The representative was unable to direct our attention to any specific reference.

The representative for the Respondent was excused from the stand.

The Applicant took the stand and was sworn. He stated that he believed that he was fit to drive and was supported by his cardiologist, Physician # 4.

He stated that he did not understand why the medical waiver was granted for his "G" licence and not for his "A" licence. He further stated that he was having financial difficulties because he was unable to work as a truck driver for which he required is Class "A" licence.

The Applicant had nothing further to add, and was excused from the stand.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Minister to change the class or class of motor vehicles in respect of which the licence is issued in accordance with the result of the examination be varied, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffer from any mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Regulation 340/94, Section 17 and 18 states:

- 17. (1) Qualifications required by an applicant for a holder of a Class A, B, C, D, E or F driver's licence are that the applicant or holder,
 - (a) has no history or clinical diagnosis of diabetes that requires insulin for control;

- (b) is not taking any drug that could, in the dosage prescribed or in the dosage recommended by the manufacturer, impair his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely;
 - (c) has no established medical history of myocardial infarction, angina pectoris, coronary insufficiency or thrombosis;
 - (d) has no established medical history of heart disease including arrhythmia or of respiratory dysfunction likely to interfere with the safe driving of a motor vehicle of the applicable class;
 - (e) is not suffering from an aortic aneurysm, whether resected or not;
 - (f) is not suffering from hypertension accompanied by postural hypotension resulting in giddiness when under treatment;
 - (g) has no established medical history of loss of consciousness or awareness due to a chronic or recurring condition;
 - (h) has no established medical history of a disorder of the musculoskeletal or nervous system that may interfere with the safe driving of a motor vehicle of the applicable class;
 - (i) has no established medical history of an intractable psychotic or psychoneurotic disorder, having particular regard for sustained hostile, aggressive, paranoid, suicidal or other destructive tendencies or depression unless it is medically determined that the condition from which the person has suffered is corrected or controlled;
 - (j) has a visual acuity by Snellen Rating, with or without the aid of corrective lenses, no poorer than 20/30 in the better eye and 20/50 in the weaker eye; and
 - (k) has a horizontal visual field of at least 120 degrees in each eye as measured by confrontation tests.
- (2) An applicant for or a holder of a Class A, B, C, D, E or F driver's licence who fails to meet the qualifications referred to in clauses (1)(a) to (i) may, despite the failure, qualify for the class of licence applied for or held if he or she demonstrated the ability to drive a motor vehicle in the applicable class as safely as any person who meets those qualifications.
- (3) An applicant for or a holder of a Class D driver's licence who fails to meet the qualification referred to in clause (1)(c) may, despite the failure, qualify for that class of licence if it is medically determined that he or she has made a full recovery and there is no established history of a second occurrence of myocardial infarction, thrombosis or recurring angina pectoris.
- (4) An applicant for or a holder of a Class B, C, E or F driver's licence whose hearing in one ear is better than in the other must be able to perceive in the better ear, with or without a hearing aid, a forced whisper at a distance of 1.5 metres or, if an audiometer is used to test the person's hearing, must not have a loss in the better ear of more than 40 decibels at 500, 1,000 and 2,000 hertz.

18. An applicant for or a holder of a G, G1, G2, L, M, M1, M2, or R driver's licence must have,
- (a) in the case of a person whose vision in one eye is better than in the other, visual acuity in the better eye that is no poorer than 20/40 as measured by Snellen Rating; and
 - (b) a horizontal visual field of at least 120 degrees as measured by confrontation tests.

Section 32(12)(b)(i) states:

- 32 No person shall drive a motor vehicle on a highway unless the motor vehicle is within a class of motor vehicles in respect of which the person holds a driver's licence issued to him or her under this Act.
- (12) An applicant for a driver's licence or a person who holds a driver's licence shall submit to the examinations that are authorized by the regulations relating to this section and required by the Minister at the time and places that the Minister may require and the Minister may,
- (b) in the case of a person who holds a driver's licence,
 - (i) impose or remove the conditions or endorsements authorized by the regulations or change the class or classes of motor vehicles in respect of which the licence is issued in accordance with the result of the examinations, or

Section 50 states:

- (1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board.
- (2) The Board may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The Registrar relied on Section 32(12)(b)(i) of the Highway Traffic Act to downgrade the Applicant's licence to a Class "G". The downgrade was in accordance with the basic medical standards found in Regulation 340/94 made under the HTA. The Registrar relied on Section 17(1)(c) and (d) of the Regulations. Section 17(1)(c) requires that the applicant or holder has no established medical history of myocardial infarction, angina pectoris, coronary insufficiency or thrombosis. Section 17(1)(d) of the Regulations requires that "an applicant or holder has no established medical history of heart disease including arrhythmia or a respiratory dysfunction likely to interfere with the safe driving of a motor vehicle of the applicable class."

The Registrar also relied on N.S.C³ and the MTMAC⁴. The NSC 3.5.9, Implantable Cardioverter/Defibrillator, The Standard: Ineligible for a Class 1,2,3,4 however for a Class 5 licence ("G" licence) the standards may be waived, @if the device has delivered no shock or anti-tachycardia pacing therapy and at least one year has elapsed since implantation."

By virtue of the medical evidence presented to the Tribunal the Applicant, does not meet these requirements as set out in the legislation. The Tribunal finds that the evidence presented supports the Ministry's arguments that the Applicant's driver's licence should not be upgraded to a Class AA@ licence on the basis of Regulation 340/94 Sections 14 and 17 under the Highway Traffic Act.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated July 5, 1999 of the Minister (ARespondent@) to change the class or classes of motor vehicle in respect of which the licence was issued pursuant to Section 32(12)(b)(i) of the Highway Traffic Act (HTA@), and having considered the evidence filed with the Board, and the submissions of the Respondent and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE BOARD pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be confirmed.

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 17, 2000, at Timmins, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Tribunal released its Decision on May 18, 2000, with Reasons to follow.

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant, by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of a written hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated April 17 2000, and was received by the Tribunal on April 20, 2000, together with the prescribed fee of $100.00, paid by money order.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

"I was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason."

Preliminary Matters

The request by the Applicant to reduce the disclosure timing period was not agreed to by the Respondent. The Rules of Practice standards apply.

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit #1. Notice of Appeal – dated April 12, 2000
 - ground for appeal – medical
- b) Exhibit #2. Applicant's Medical Information
 - dated May 4, 2000
- c) Exhibit #3. Letter from Physician # 1
 - dated April 11, 2000
- d) Exhibit #4. Note from Physician # 2
 - dated April 13, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit #5. M.T.O. submissions 36 pages
 - received April 19, 2000

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") states:

50.1 (1) "A person whose driver's licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

(a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or

(b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason".

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Board may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1),(2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) "a report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

(a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;

(b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;

(c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver's licence under section 50.1 of the Act;

(d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;

(e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and

(f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.

(2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.

(3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner.”

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

“A person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal”.

FACTS:

On March 10, 2000, P.C. Officer # 1 of the Ontario Provincial Police was requested to respond to a motor vehicle accident on Concession 2/3 Tuckersmith Township. Upon investigation, P.C. Officer # 1 learned that the driver of the vehicle involved in the single vehicle accident was transported to Seaforth Hospital. P.C. Officer #1 attended Seaforth Hospital and interviewed the driver of the vehicle, the Applicant. The Applicant explained he hit a patch of ice causing the accident. While speaking with the Applicant, P.C. Officer #1 noted that he had a strong odour of an alcoholic beverage emitting from his breath and that his eyes were bloodshot and glassy and his speech was slurred. P.C. Officer #1 formed the opinion that the Applicant had been in care and control of a motor vehicle while his ability impaired. The Applicant was read his rights to counsel, read his caution, and read the breathalyzer demand. When asked if he understood these instructions, The Applicant indicated yes. The Applicant denied drinking any alcohol. P.C. Officer # 2 attended Seaforth Hospital to perform the breath test. The Applicant attempted six times to provide a sample of breath to P.C. Officer #2 and on all the attempts he failed.

According to the affidavits of P.C. Officer #2 and P.C. Officer #1, the Applicant failed to provide a breath sample because he did not follow instructions, (i.e. place tongue over mouthpiece, small puff of breath, no air blown in instrument), even though P.C. Officer #2 instructed him before each attempt. The Applicant was examined by Seaforth Hospital Emergency on call physician, Physician # 3, who states that there was no reason why the Applicant could not provide a breath sample.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The Applicant, has appealed under section 50.1 (2) (b) of the H.T.A., on the grounds that he was unable to provide a breath sample for a medical reason. No specific reason is given, though in his submission The Applicant states that he saw Physician # 2 on March 10, 2000, concerning chest pain and breathing problems. In his note dated April 13, 2000, Physician # 2 states that he saw the Applicant on March 10, 2000, for symptoms of dysphagia, chest discomfort and shortness of breath. He states that he subsequently referred him for a surgical opinion. There is no reference to any tests being performed, any differential diagnosis, and there is no objective information provided. Physician # 2 fails to meet the criteria set out in Regulation 574 15 (1)(2), R.R.O., 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 510/96. The Applicant further states that he was taking Prepulsid and ordered by Physician # 2 to stop immediately, then referred to Physician # 1 who later diagnosed "obstructing cancer at the lower esophagus and upper stomach". Physician # 1 states "there is significant chance that spread beyond....causing his chest pain." Physician # 1's report also fails to meet the requirements of Regulation 574, 15 (1)(2).

The Respondent submits and supports his affidavits from P.C. Officer #1 and P.C. Officer #2, as well as statements from Physician #3, Witness #1, Witness #2 and Witness #3, attending Seaforth/Clinton Ambulance staff, that the Applicant did in fact have an obvious odour of alcohol on his breath. Physician # 3 also states, referring to the Applicant " he had some other physical signs including slurred speech.... He was unsure about what day it was.... In my opinion he had been drinking alcohol..... he showed no signs of decomposition indicating that his behaviour was more likely due to alcohol intoxication rather than a closed head injury.... This man was on medication for a stomach ailment which could not account for these symptoms. There was no reason why this man could not provide a breath sample.... There was no compromise in his airway or breathing."

The Registrar submits that the actions of the Applicant suggests that he had no intention of giving a breath sample to P.C. Officer #2. Upon careful review of all material, this Tribunal agrees with that submission.

It is obvious that the medical personnel who attended to The Applicant following his injury, agree that he had an odour of alcohol on his breath and that he showed no signs of respiratory distress. It is logical to assume that if the Applicant was experiencing difficulty breathing before or during the breath demand, he would have brought this to the attention of the medical staff. No where in his submissions or that of the witnesses is there such mention.

The Applicant has failed to establish the merit of his appeal under Section 13, of Regulation 574, and has failed to prove under Section 50.1 (2)(b) that he was unable to provide a breath sample for a medical reason.

This Tribunal finds that in this case there is no direct link between an oesophageal cancer and an inability to provide a proper breath sample and is in agreement with the opinion submitted by Dr. Roger S. Goldstein.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated March 11, 2000, of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal confirms the suspension.

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 17, 2000, at Hamilton, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Tribunal released its Decision on May 18, 2000 with Reasons to follow.

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant, by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of an oral hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated April 20, 2000, and was received by the Tribunal on April 25, 2000, together with the prescribed fee of $100.00, paid by cheque.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

"I was unable to provide the required breath/blood sample because of a medical reason."

Preliminary Matters

There were no motions, requests for adjournment, nor filing of new information. The Respondent submitted a certified copy of the Applicant's driving record and the Notice to the Registrar, as well as a letter from the Ministry of the Solicitor General verifying the qualifications of PC Officer # 1.

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit #1 Notice of Appeal – dated April 20, 2000
- b) Exhibit #2 Applicant's Medical Information
- c) Exhibit #3 Notes from Physician # 1 – dated April 10, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit #4 Ministry of Transportation submissions – 18 pages
– received May 11, 2000
- b) Exhibit #5 Video Taped Recording of Breath Demand
- made February 24, 2000
- c) Exhibit #6 Letter from the Ministry of the Solicitor General verifying the qualifications of PC Officer # 1
- received May 17, 2000

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") states:

50.1 (1) "A person whose driver's licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

- (a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or
- (b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason".

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Board may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1),(2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) "a report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

- (a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;
- (b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;
- (c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver's licence under section 50.1 of the Act;
- (d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;
- (e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and

(f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.

(2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.

(3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner."

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

"A person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal".

FACTS:

Applicant's Driver's Licence was suspended "Feb 24 2000" as per Notice of Appeal (Exhibit # 1).

Physician # 2, the Applicant's family physician for "11 years 10 months", prepared the "Applicant's Medical Information" form dated "April 20th". Under the heading "Details and Diagnosis of patient's present condition", Physician # 2 comments: "chronic (illegible) - moderate obstruct airway disease " (Exhibit # 2)

According to Physician # 2, the Applicant's condition is "gradual, progressive..." (Exhibit # 2).

Physician # 1, prepared a second "Applicant's Medical Information" form. Under the heading "Details and Diagnosis of patient's present condition", Physician # 1 notes: " Bronchitis - " (Exhibit # 3)

According to Physician # 1, the Applicant has suffered from "Bronchitis for x years...Pulmonary function tests revealed Mild/Moderate obstruct worse in small airways." (Exhibit # 3)

A Brantford Medical X-Ray & Ultrasound report, signed by Physician # 3, on March 3, 2000, concludes "Mild peribronchial thickening, mild accentuation of the perihilar bronchovascular markings. The lungs are otherwise clear. Heart size and pulmonary vessels are normal. Bones unremarkable." (Exhibit # 2)

A Pulmonary Function Report from St. Joseph's Hospital details the results of the Applicant's test. Above the Internist's signature is a hand written note which states "Mild. moderate obstruction. worse with small airways. Minimally improved by bronchodilators..." (Exhibit # 2)

Physician # 1 signed a handwritten note on April 10, 2000 stating that the Applicant "...suffers from Bronchitis. After reviewing the pulmonary function test, in my opinion the Applicant would be unable to provide adequate sample of his breath for analysis. The maximum he could probably blow for would be 3-4 seconds." (Exhibit # 3)

The Respondent provided the following Documents:

- Notice to Registrar dated February 24, 2000.

- Driver Record of the Applicant, dated April 26, 2000
- Vehicle Record, dated April 26, 2000
- Video recording of breath sample demand made on February 24, 2000.
- Affidavit of Police Constable Officer # 2, badge #(no.), for the Brantford Police Service.
- Report of Dr. Roger Goldstein, dated May 2, 2000

Applicant's "DRIVER'S RECORD" since 1971, shows no "CONVICTIONS, DISCHARGES AND OTHER ACTIONS". (Exhibit # 4)

Affidavit of Police Constable Officer # 2 attests to the events surrounding the charge and the subsequent arrest. In paragraph 16. Constable Officer # 2 states: "AT 1:20 AM I attended the breath room. I served the accused a Notice of Intent re: certificate evidence, I also served the accused with a Notice of Intent re: a greater penalty, I also served the accused with an ADLS 90 day suspension notice. I witnessed his signature on all of these documents. He was given a copy of the documents." (Exhibit # 4)

Paragraph 18 of the Affidavit sworn by Police Constable Officer # 2 indicated that "Constable Officer # 1 advised me that the accused had failed to provide a suitable sample for the breathalyzer machine."

In a letter dated May 2, 2000, Dr. Roger S. Goldstein, MB,ChB,FRCP(UK)FRCP(C) FCCP, Professor of Medicine and Director of Program in Respiratory Rehabilitation - University of Toronto, states that he is a "...consultant respirologist in practice since 1979 with particular interest in chronic respiratory conditions such as: asthma, emphysema and chronic bronchitis... familiar with the Alcotest and the Intoxilyzer 5000C..." (Exhibit # 4)

Dr. Goldstein "...reviewed the information... from... Physician # 2 and Physician # 1 and the x-ray report from Physician # 3 as well as the pulmonary functions tests from St. Joseph's Hospital." (Exhibit # 4)

Dr Goldstein concludes that "...Pulmonary function tests of March 3, 200 show that the Applicant has an FEV1 of 2.9 litres (73% of predicted), a normal FEV1/FVC ratio and a flow rate at mid vital capacity of 2.7 litres with a good response to Ventolin. These tests are entirely consistent with the provision of a satisfactory breath sample... x-ray report would not provide the reason for the absence of a satisfactory breath sample." (Exhibit # 4)

At the hearing, the Applicant testified that he has suffered from bronchitis for "...over 10 years..." He had been taking antibiotics for the prescribed seven days, which he finished three days prior to the incident. However, he does not regularly take any medication, nor does he carry a bronchodilator. The Applicant admitted to being a smoker, who now smokes only four cigarettes per day.

The Applicant called his physician the day after the incident and arranged for an appointment the following Monday.

In cross-examination, the Applicant stated that he did inform the officer that he suffered from bronchitis.

The Respondent's witness Police Constable Officer # 1 testified that he is a qualified technician and has been since February 22, 1999. At no time did he notice any discomfort on the part of the Applicant.

According to P.C. Officer # 1, the Applicant was cooperative except in his attempts to provide an adequate breath sample. He was given twelve opportunities but failed to activate the breathalyzer machine.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The issues are, how does the medical condition of the Applicant relate to Section 50.1 (2) (b), and did this medical condition cause him to fail to comply with the breath demand? Pursuant to Section 13 of Regulation 574 (Amended), the onus is on the Applicant to provide the Tribunal with a medical reason as to why he was unable to provide a breath sample.

The video taken at the time of the administration of the breathalyzer test was introduced in evidence and viewed by the Tribunal. The Tribunal finds that the video is inconclusive and unhelpful in assisting the Tribunal to make the determination of whether the Applicant was unable or refused to provide a breath sample.

The Applicant argues that he was unable to provide an adequate breath sample due to a medical condition he has had for "...over ten years...". The Applicant substantiates this statement with notes from his physicians. Doctor Physician # 2 verifies that the Applicant suffers from "chronic bronchitis - moderate obstruct airway disease...gradual, progressive..." (Exhibit # 2)

Physician # 1, who diagnosed the Applicant's present condition as: "Bronchitis" also summarizes the results of the Pulmonary Function tests, performed at St. Joseph's Hospital as "Mild/Moderate obstruct worse in small airways." (Exhibit # 3)

The Respondent contends that no medical reason caused the Applicant's failure to provide the required breath sample and that the Applicant did not demonstrate any health discomfort at the time the breath demand was made. The latter statement is corroborated by PC Officer # 1's observations. and the report prepared by Dr. Goldstein.

Dr. Goldstein, who upon reviewing "...the information... from... Physician # 2, Physician # 1 and the X-Ray report from Physician # 3 as well as the pulmonary functions tests, from St. Joseph's Hospital " concluded that "...tests are entirely consistent with the provision of a satisfactory breath sample." (Exhibit # 4)

The onus is on the Applicant to establish the merit of his appeal. However, no compelling evidence was provided by the Applicant, in his own defence. Physician # 1 and the pulmonary functions tests confirm that the Applicant's condition is mild/moderate. The Applicant takes no medication for any respiratory condition and continues to smoke. Thus, based on the evidence before the Tribunal, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant does not meet the criteria of Section 50.1 (2) (b), in that he was not able to demonstrate that he suffers from a medical condition which would prevent him from providing a breath sample.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated February 24, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal confirms the suspension.

The Board released its Decision on February 10th, 2000 with Reasons to follow.

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant, by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, as amended, chapter H.8, as amended. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of an oral hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated April 26, 2000.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

AI was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason.®

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit #1 - Notice of Appeal, dated April 26, 2000
- b) Exhibit #2 - Medical report of Physician #1, dated May 2, 2000
- c) Exhibit #7 - Notes of Constable Officer #1 (5 pages)
- d) Exhibit #6 - Statement of the Applicant which accompanied his Notice of Appeal

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit #3 - Ministry of Transportation of Ontario Submissions (14 pages)
- b) Exhibit #4 - Certified Driving Record for the Applicant, dated May 5, 2000
- c) Exhibit #5 - Vehicle Registration report regarding the Applicant, dated May 1, 2000

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with the demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") states:

50.1 (1) AA person whose driver's licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

- (a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or
- (b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason.

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Tribunal may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1), (2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) A report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

- (a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;
- (b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;
- (c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver's licence under section 50.1 of the Act;
- (d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;
- (e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and
- (f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.

(2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.

The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner.®

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

AA person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal®.

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence of the Applicant. The Applicant stated that on the date of this incident, February 16, 2000, he spent the full day working as a courier. He did not eat any supper. He then attended a course at St. Paul's University, which ended at approximately 9:00 p.m. At the end of class, the Applicant attended an establishment, which served alcohol, where he consumed one Apersonal jug® of beer. Each jug contained two glasses of beer. He could not say how many ounces the jug or glasses held.

The Applicant left the establishment some time after midnight. As he was tired, had not had supper, and had consumed alcohol, he decided to take the back roads home, as this would be safer. As a result, he travelled into the town of Embrun. As he approached aAY® in the road, he attempted to turn but the car slid into a snow bank. He was able to back the car out and proceed down the road, at which point he was stopped by Officer #1, of the Casselman detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The Applicant acknowledged advising the officer that he had been drinking. He was requested to take a roadside breath test, which he agreed to do. Upon being placed in the back of the cruiser, the Applicant states that he advised Officer #1 that he suffered from claustrophobia and asked Officer #1 to leave the door open or the window down. In response to the request, Officer #1 advised the Applicant that if he could drive in a closed vehicle, he could sit in a closed vehicle for the purposes of taking the test. He also advised that the windows could not be lowered and that it was proper procedure to keep the door closed while the test was being given.

At that point, the Applicant described that he began experiencing an anxiety attack. He began to feel panicky and had difficulty breathing. He attempted to control the attack through a number of meditation techniques. This included focussing on his internal self, breathing exercises, certain body motions, and repetition of numbers. His total focus at that time was on getting out of the cruiser and breathing.

The Applicant recalls being requested to provide a number of samples. He believes he attempted to provide three samples and cannot explain why the samples were not effective, other than he was simply focussed on getting out of the vehicle. The Applicant points out that the notes of Constable Officer #1, who either saw the Applicant following his arrest at the scene or at a nearby station, noted that the Applicant was swaying and counting.

The Applicant explained that he had been having medical problems for over 20 years. Initially, the problem was diagnosed as a heart problem. Following a variety of tests which confirm the absence of a heart problem, his then general practitioner diagnosed that he was suffering from anxiety attacks. This diagnosis was made in approximately 1990. Physicians have recommended medication to control the symptoms, but the Applicant prefers to control them through the techniques described above and by simply removing himself from the stressful situation.

The Applicant relies upon the medical report filed by Physician #1, dated May 2, 2000. The report was set out on a Ministry of Transportation form and specifically acknowledges that it was being completed for the purpose of explaining why the patient was unable, for medical reasons, to provide a breath sample. The report explains that the Applicant has suffered from a panic disorder for at least 10 years and that he cannot tolerate closed spaces. The report goes on to describe symptoms of chest pains, anxiety, and hyperventilation. The report does not explain the length of time that Physician #1 has treated the Applicant, nor does it provide the date of the most recent examination to support the findings set out in the report or what would prevent the Applicant from providing a breath sample.

The Tribunal also heard from Constable #1. Constable #1 indicated that he had been with the Ontario Provincial Police Force since 1989 and a qualified breath technician in 1991. He has conducted hundreds of roadside breath tests during the course of his career. Constable Officer #1 acknowledged that the Applicant was not speeding and that he stopped him following the Applicant running into a snow bank with his vehicle. Constable Officer #1 also acknowledges the Applicant backed his car out of the snow bank without difficulty. When he stopped the Applicant, he noticed a strong odour of alcohol and that the Applicant had red eyes.

Upon placing the Applicant in the back of the vehicle, Constable Officer #1 acknowledged that the Applicant requested that the window be left open or the door slightly ajar. He explained that the windows could not be lowered and that proper procedure called for the door to be closed. While he was not concerned about flight on the part of the Applicant at the time the test was being conducted, police called for the door to be closed for if the test was failed, the individual would be placed under arrest and could become agitated and attempt to get out of the vehicle at that time.

According to Constable Officer #1, he demonstrated the breath test to the Applicant. The Applicant then tried on three occasions to give a sample of his breath. In doing so, he would close his mouth around the mouthpiece but, as he blew, he would open his mouth so that air would escape around the mouthpiece rather than go into the machine. Constable Officer #1 gave a further demonstration between the third and fourth tests. Again, for the same reason, the fourth test was not successful. Between the fourth and fifth test, Constable Officer #1 advised the Applicant that if he failed to provide a test, he would be charged with refusal, to which the Applicant replied Ayes, yes@. The fifth test was also unsuccessful and the Applicant was charged. When asked if he understood that he was being charged, the Applicant responded Ayes whatever@. When given his rights to counsel and asked if he understood, the Applicant responded Ayes@.

It was only after the Applicant was placed under arrest that he advised Constable Officer #1 that he suffered from claustrophobia. It was not until the return to the station that, according to Constable Officer #1, the Applicant alleged that he was having an anxiety attack. In the opinion of Constable Officer #1, the Applicant appeared nonchalant during the time Constable Officer #1 was demonstrating the test and the Applicant was to have been providing a sample.

During this time frame, Constable Officer #1 did not notice the Applicant attempting to meditate, unusual body movements, or the Applicant counting. He did not see signs of increased anxiety, hyperventilation, or difficulty breathing. The Applicant was driven home in the back of a police cruiser by two other police officers who reported to Constable Officer #1 that the Applicant did not make any complaints of being claustrophobic or suffering from anxiety during the drive.

Where the Applicant's evidence conflicts with that of Constable Officer #1, the Tribunal prefers and accepts the evidence of Constable Officer #1.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

While the Tribunal accepts that the Applicant may suffer from anxiety attacks, it does not accept that he was suffering such an attack at the time Constable Officer #1 was attempting to administer the roadside breath test, or that the medical condition prevented the Applicant from providing a sample of his breath. Constable Officer #1 did not note signs of an anxiety attack (increased anxiety, difficulty breathing, or hyperventilation), nor did he note signs that the Applicant was attempting to control his symptoms (meditation, controlled breathing, controlled movement, or counting). The Applicant appeared to understand what was going on and was nonchalant.

It is also important that the Applicant had no difficulty placing his mouth around the mouthpiece and blowing. The only reason the sample was not sufficient, was because the Applicant did not keep his mouth closed around the mouthpiece. The Applicant provided no explanation, nor did the report of Physician # 1, as to why the Applicant was unable to do so.

If the Applicant was focussed on getting out of the vehicle as quickly as possible as he claims, then the method to do so would have been to simply keep his mouth closed around the mouthpiece and provide a sample. It must have been obvious to the Applicant that, by failing to provide the sample, he was only prolonging his stay in the back seat of the cruiser.

It is also noted that the medical report provided by Physician # 1 did not comply with the requirements of section 574. Specifically, there is a total absence of explanation as to why this medical condition would prevent the Applicant from providing a breath sample.

The onus rests with the Applicant and he has failed to establish, pursuant to section 50(1)(2)(b), that he was prevented from providing a breath sample for a medical reason.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated May 16, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act (HTA) and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal confirms the suspension.

APPEARANCES: RICHARD CHOJNACKI, Counsel, representing the Applicant
AVIVA R. HARARI, Counsel, representing the Registrar,
Motor Vehicle Dealers Act

DATES OF HEARING: January 18 & 19, 2000 &

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

The Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Act") issued a Notice of Proposal dated the December 8, 1997 in which the Registrar proposed to refuse to registrar Thavaraj Dave Padayachee (the "Applicant") as a salesperson under the Act. By his letter dated December 21, 1997 the Applicant requested a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal). A hearing was held on May 15 and October 14, 1998. By Order of the Tribunal dated October 27, 1998 the Proposal of the Registrar was upheld. The Applicant appealed the said Order of the Tribunal to the Divisional Court. By Order of the Divisional Court dated July 29, 1999 the said order of the Tribunal was revoked, and the matter sent back to the Tribunal for a rehearing before a differently constituted panel. The Registrar issued a Notice of Further or Other Particulars dated December 23, 1999. The matter was heard by a three member panel on January 18, 19 and February 3, 2000.

ISSUE:

Should the Tribunal uphold the Proposal of the Registrar to refuse to registrar the Applicant as a salesperson under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act?

EVIDENCE:

Opening Argument by Counsel for the Registrar:

Counsel for the Registrar agreed that this is a case under section 5 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act for the refusal to grant registration based on past conduct, in that, the Applicant did not act with honesty, with integrity and in accordance with law.

Counsel indicated that there are three grounds for the Registrar's position: 1. the issue of a cheque and misappropriation of money from a dealership; 2. side deals in which retail leases were altered by using side letters without the consent of the dealership or the finance company; and 3. the Applicant working as a salesperson when not registered under the Act.

Testimony of Howard Alan Masson:

Mr. Masson leased a Nissan Pathfinder from Oakville Nissan in May, 1997. He dealt with Dave Padayachee. The retail lease agreement of 36 months had a payment by Mr. Masson of $5,454.01. Mr. Masson testified that he signed a cheque in the amount of $5,400.00 dated May 5, 1997. Mr. Masson stated he was in a rush and filled out the cheque with the name of Dave Padayachee. As he was filling out the cheque he asked Dave if it was alright that he had put the cheque in Dave Padayachee's name and Mr. Padayachee said he would take care of it. Mr. Masson testified that by giving Mr. Padayachee the cheque he thought it was to pay for the Pathfinder as he had no other reason to give money to Mr. Padayachee. The back of the cheque shows a bank stamp of May 6, 1997. Mr. Masson testified that he thought the signature on the back of the cheque looked like the signature of Mr. Padayachee.

Mr. Masson further testified that in July, 1997 Oakville Nissan telephoned him and wanted payment for the Pathfinder. Mr. Masson was surprised to have them telephone him for that purpose. He spoke to Ken Young of Oakville Nissan. Mr. Masson testified that Mr. Padayachee then telephoned him and said it was "ok" as they had found the paperwork on the books, and it had been thought that there was a third party involved in the deal.

In cross-examination, Mr. Masson testified that he had a business friendship with Mr. Padayachee. He would have lunch with him and had known him for two years. He had met Mr. Padayachee's wife and children. Mr. Masson testified that he trusted Mr. Padayachee and thought he was a man of integrity. Mr. Masson testified that when Mr. Padayachee had telephoned him to say it was "ok" he thought there was someone else on the telephone line listening as Mr. Padayachee had mentioned Mr. Ken Young was there. Mr. Masson did not hear Mr. Young's voice at that time. When he had filled out the cheque, he had started filling in Dave Padayachee's name and then Mr. Masson had said to Dave, "Is that ok?". Mr. Masson felt the matter had been a bookkeeping issue.

Testimony of Beverly Ann Young:

Mrs. Young testified that she had worked at Oakville Nissan with her husband. She was the secretary and treasurer for the business. The dealership was sold in May, 1999.

She had worked at the business for twenty years and was the secretary/treasurer from 1996 to 1999. Her husband, Ken Young, was in ill health and could not come to this hearing. Her husband had been with the dealership since 1972.

Mrs. Young testified that she did the licensing, the banking, the payroll and handled the overdue accounts. She was familiar with Dave Padayachee who worked for the dealership from August, 1996 to July, 1997 in the capacity of sales manager. Mr. Padayachee's responsibilities were to book after the salespersons, help to close deals, and deal directly with customers.

Dave Padayachee and her husband Ken had agreed to part ways in July, 1997 as Mr. Padayachee had a cheque which was written in his name for a car. It was the payment for the delivery of the car for Alan Masson. Mr. Masson had a lease for a Pathfinder in May, 1997. It is customary to get that payment prior to the delivery of the car. The payment of $5400.00 was missing so her husband called Mr. Masson. Then in July, 1997 Mrs. Young telephoned and spoke to Mrs. Masson as they still did not have their money then. After that they got the money from Dave Padayachee.

Mrs. Young testified that the cheque had been made out to Dave Padayachee and the dealership never received it. Mr. Padayachee had said the deal was short and he expected to get the money in a few days. He had told her husband that he would settle it. Then in July, 1997 Dave Padayachee gave $1,300.00 to her and the remainder of the monies owing came out of his pay due to Mr. Padayachee when he left the dealership.

Mrs. Young testified that she had active involvement with Mrs. Masson who provided her with a copy of the cancelled cheque near the end of July, 1997.

In cross-examination Mrs. Young stated she could not remember when Mr. Padayachee told the dealership that the Masson deal was short. She knew that her husband called Mr. Masson. Oakville Nissan got the money but not by receiving the cheque. Mrs. Young stated that when she saw the cancelled cheque, she felt Mr. Padayachee had acted dishonestly. She stated that Mr. Padayachee was not fired from the dealership.

Testimony of Sharon Elliott:

Ms. Elliott testified that she was dealing with Woodchester Sukuki on a retail lease dated August 25, 1999. She was dealing with Ray Paulsen and Dave Padayachee. Mr. Padayachee was the sales manager, and he was handling the financial negotiations for the trade in and the purchase of the new vehicle. Ms. Elliott wanted to do a trade in because she would have to pay tax on a cash sale. She testified that she signed the contract dated August 25, 1999 and someone else signed the contract on behalf of Mr. Padayachee. She had asked Mr. Padayachee for a business card, but he said he did not have one.

In cross-examination, Ms. Elliott testified that Mr. Paulsen showed her the vehicle. She never took delivery of the vehicle because the final offer to purchase was not the same as the offer to lease, and Ms. Elliott did not want to sign it. Ms. Elliott told Mr. Padayachee that she would not sign the contract as it differed from the offer to lease. Mr. Padayachee was the one doing the financial negotiations. He was in the room with a Ms. Gaerano. Ms. Elliott thought Ms. Gaerano was his secretary. Mr. Padayachee told her that the trade in value had to change. Ms. Elliott dealt then with Simon, the General Manager, and Sandy, a co owner of the dealership. She also involved a friend who came to the dealership with her and she eventually got her own car back after a week. She had the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council ("OMVIC") also telephone the dealership on her behalf.

Testimony of Steve Allan Sayeau:

Mr. Sayeau is a registered motor vehicle salesperson and has been registered for seven years. He worked with Dave Padayachee at Woodchester Suzuki in 1999. Mr. Sayeau was a registered salesperson at Woodchester Suzuki and business manager. He is now working for a dealership in Brampton as a Business Administrator. Mr. Sayeau testified that he thought Mr. Padayachee was the new car manager at Woodchester Suzuki. He worked about 40 hours per week with Mr. Padayachee. Mr. Padayachee worked with the salespeople to help them sell cars. He would work with the customers and help close the deal. Mr. Sayeau had not observed Dave Padayachee sign any deals. He knew that there was some difficulty with Mr. Padayachee and his sales licence.

In cross-examination Mr. Sayeau stated that he left Woodchester because Simon had fired him. While this upset him, it was not surprising as Simon had fired other salespeople before him. Ray Paulsen was the used car manager, he was the business manager and Dave Padayachee was the acting sales manager and helped with the new car department. There were four salespeople plus Ray working at the dealership.

Testimony of Gordon Edward Dennis:

Mr. Dennis is the owner and general manager of Guelph Nissan. He has been a dealer/principal since March, 1980. Besides Nissan automobiles, he deals with the Infiniti line. Dave Padayachee had worked in the service department at his dealership in 1982. Then he worked at the dealership from the fall of 1991 until July, 1996. When his employment was terminated. When Dave Padayachee was hired, it was based on his sales results. Mr. Dennis was involved in a number of other businesses at the time. Mr. Padayachee was the new and used car sales manager in 1991. He had operational control to negotiate the sale and lease of cars, negotiate trade in values, hire and fire the sales people, and obtain and dispose of cars on the lot.

Mr. Dennis testified that he found discrepancies involving side deals on contracts in the sales department.

The lease payment is based on capitalized cost (selling price less trade in less downpayment). At that time the number of months on leases was 36 or 48 months. The lease payment is based on the residual value of the vehicle, that being the estimated value of the car at the end of the lease. This is a formula dealing with the number of months on the lease, the total kilometers (km) for the lease, and the condition of the car.

Mr. Dennis testified that the constants set out in leases were being altered in the side letters without the knowledge of the dealership. Some side deals were verbal and some were in writing. They were not in the records of the dealership but were found when the customers came back to the dealership on the basis of the side deals. None of these side deals were authorized.

Mr. Dennis gave as an example the retail lease to Brighthouse Inc. It was for 48 months with a residual value of $23,370.00 based on 24,000 km per year. But the side letter said the residual value was $23,300.00 and the maximum mileage was 116,000 km which is 20,000 km more than what was on the contract. This side letter was not with the paperwork at the dealership, and Mr. Dennis was not aware of it until the customer, Alex Haig, came into the dealership with the side letter some years later.

Another example was the retail lease to Jennifer MacRae dated November 23, 1994. It was for 48 months with a residual value of $11,518.40 and mileage at 24,000 km per year. There was a side letter dated November 23, 1994 to Jennifer MacRae allowing her to return the vehicle after 24 months with no penalties or further obligations. He testified that normally there would be penalties for an early return and the residual value after 24 months is probably about $20,000.00. Again, this side letter was not in the files of the dealership and Mr. Dennis first knew about it when the customer returned the car to the dealership in November, 1996.

Another example was the retail lease to Helen Kefalas dated November 21, 1994. It is for 48 months with a residual value of $11,587.40 and 24,000 km per year. The side letter dated November 24, 1994 to Helen Kefalas allows her to return the vehicle after 24 months with no further obligations. This side letter is signed by Dave Padayachee. Mr. Padayachee did not have the authority to do such a side letter. Mr. Dennis found out about it when the customer returned the vehicle after 24 months in November, 1996.

A further example was the retail lease of A. Morino dated December 14, 1994. It was for 48 months with a residual value of $5813.50 with 24,000 km. There was a side letter dated December 14, 1994 signed by Dave Padayachee stating that the vehicle could be purchased for $5000.00. The customer showed Mr. Dennis this letter in December, 1998 and purchased the car for $800.00 less than the contract stated.

Another example was the retail lease for Regal House Kitchens. The work sheet and the retail lease showed the same figures, that being 48 months with a downpayment of $2300.00 and monthly payments of $392.00 plus tax. But the retail lease also had the requirement of a co-signer. The side letter dated September 29, 1995 signed by Dave Padayachee states that the co-signer is released from his obligations under the retail lease after 12 months. There was no authority by the dealership to do this, and it leaves the dealership exposed with no security coverage.

A further example was the Vie retail lease. It was a prepaid lease in that by paying the lease with one payment, it reduced the interest charges. After 24 months at a mileage rate of 19,200 km per year the residual value was to be $18,722.00. The lease worksheet also reflects the terms of the retail lease. But there was a side letter signed by Dave Padayachee stating the customer could buy the car for $17,000.00. When the customer came to the dealership to purchase the car, he provided the side letter. Mr. Dennis did not know about it until that time. The dealership lost the $1,722.00 for the residual value of the car. Mr. Dennis did not agree with the modified residual value. It was costing his dealership to honour it. The side letter was done without Mr. Dennis' authorization or consent.

Another example was the retail lease agreement with Jennifer Cook. It was dated May 2, 1996 for 36 months with 19,800 km per year and a residual value of $13,844.16. The side letter dated June 10, 1996 stated that the residual value remains the same, but the km are increased to 82,000 km for the term of the lease. That is an increase of km of over 20,000 for the term of the lease. This side letter was signed by Dave Padayachee at the request of another salesperson.

Mr. Dennis testified that none of the side letters were in the dealership files, and he was first aware of them when customers brought them into his dealership. The dealership files contain the bill of sale, the worksheet, the document to Nissan Canada Finance, ownership, insurance, and bill of sale to Nissan Finance. It is now the policy of Nissan Canada Finance that they will not finance a deal if they find out there has been a side deal.

Mr. Dennis testified that he has been in business since 1980 and his business is built on customer satisfaction. None of the customers with the side deals have done repeat business with his dealership.

Mr. Dennis testified that due to decreases in profitability for new car sales, Mr. Padayachee's salary plan was changed in 1995. However, the side deals reduced the gross profit for the deals as set out in the contracts. Mr. Dennis stated that he has never seen side deals again. Side deals are not accepted in the industry as they are not part of the legally binding contract.

Mr. Dennis stated described the Naicker lease agreement of April 4, 1996. It involved Mr. Padayachee putting a used vehicle a new lease agreement. Mr. Dennis did not know about this until eighteen months later when the customer complained.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Dennis stated that his dealership's sales manager has authority to enter into agreements to sell cars. His dealership makes money every year. The number of kilometers on an agreement would be reflected in the monthly payment and the residual level. Nissan Canada set restrictions on inducements in 1998. Mr. Dennis agreed that there is no document in the exhibits which sets out the relationship between Guelph Nissan and Nissan Canada.

Mr. Dennis testified that the 1995 pay-plan for Dave Padayachee sets out seven responsibilities that Mr. Padayachee is authorized to perform for the dealership. As well, Mr. Padayachee had authority to control new and used vehicle grosses.

Regarding Particular #2 in the Registrar's Notice of Proposal, Mr. Dennis stated that his dealership had experienced losses in the new car sales department. Due to that, he changed his management structure at the dealership in July, 1996 and hired someone as the General Sales Manager. Dave Padayachee quit, and Mr. Dennis stated he accepted his resignation.

Mr. Dennis remembered seeing one of the side letters in early to mid 1996, but he could not remember what his actions were respecting that discovery. He was still being informed about side deals in 1999.

Mr. Dennis estimated that of the seven-lease agreement deals shown to him from the exhibits, the salesperson might have made a commission of about one thousand dollars. Mr. Dennis agreed that Dave had the authority to make the decision to approve a deal and did not have to come to him for that approval.

Mr. Dennis testified that there was nothing in the files at the dealership showing any of these side letters. In the files there would be a copy of the lease agreement, a copy of the worksheet, the vehicle registration with the manufacturer, the ownership transfer, the financial contract and downpayment, the lien check and the delivery receipt. These side deals were done without corporate authorization or knowledge.

Testimony of Mary Jane South:

Ms. South is Deputy Registrar and Director of Operations at OMVIC and has been since its inception in January, 1997. Prior to that time, she had been Deputy Register for its predecessor for two years and involved in a number of senior positions within the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations.

Ms. South testified that the Ontario Motor Vehicle Dealers Act is a public protection statute. It is there to inspire a level of confidence by the public in the standards for the motor vehicle industry. It contains revocation and penalty clauses.

Ms. South stated that under section 3(1)(b) of the Act, registration is required to act as motor vehicle salesperson. Mr. Padayachee has not been registered since his registration lapsed on July 13, 1997. The definition of being a motor vehicle salesperson is not limited to just signing the contract for the sale or lease of a motor vehicle.

Ms. South testified that a reinstatement application for Mr. Padayachee dated September 4, 1997 was received at her office on September 11, 1997.

Her office received a complaint from Mr. Dennis of Guelph Nissan. Her office was investigating the complaint that Mr. Padayachee was acting as a salesperson without being registered under the Act.

In the opinion of Ms. South, the conduct of Mr. Padayachee did not entitle him to be registered as a motor vehicle salesperson.

The panel members were not prepared to hear evidence on the complaint by Mr. Naicker regarding the odometer reading as odometer tampering is not part of the particulars of the Notice of Proposal.

Under cross-examination, Ms. South agreed that none of the consumers suffered a financial loss. She felt that the dealership was placed at risk by the conduct of Mr. Padayachee. The Registrar did not lay any charges against Mr. Padayachee.

Testimony of Thavaraj Dave Padayachee:

Mr. Padayachee is 46 years of age, married with three children. He is the sole support for his family. He has been registered within the Motor Vehicle Industry since 1981.

Mr. Padayachee testified that he was asked by Nissan Canada to help out Ken Young at Oakville Nissan. He was the general sales manager there and was responsible for buying, selling and training of sales staff.

Regarding the Massan vehicle, Mr. Padayachee testified that he knew Mr. Massan as he had sold him cars previously and they were business friends. Mr. Massan came to pick up his car on a Saturday and did not bring a cheque with him for the downpayment. Dave let him take the car away. Dave told Ken Young of this and Dave took responsibility for the car. On the Monday, Mr. Masson gave Mrs. Padayachee the cheque and Mrs. Padayachee endorsed it and put it into their bank account. On Tuesday, Mrs. Padayachee told him of her actions. The bank account was overdrawn and Dave did not have the funds to give the money to Ken Young. Eventually he did pay Oakville Nissan this money.

Mr. Padayachee testified that due to his embarrassment of not having the funds he did not tell Ken Young about the cheque. He was not fired from Oakville Nissan. Mr. Padayachee felt that he handled the situation poorly and that he should have gone to Mr. Young about the cheque.

In 1991, Mr. Padayachee was hired at Guelph Nissan. He had been recommended by Mark Irwin. He was the general sales manager and approved deals, the trade ins, the buying and selling of cars and ensuring customer satisfaction. He would approve the deals of his salespersons and then the paperwork would go to the business office.

Regarding the Naicker transaction, Mr. Padayachee testified that Mr. Naicker was a friend of his. He signed the sales document which showed 24,958 kms. The business manager prepared the retail lease which spoke of an odometer reading of 96,000 kms. Mr. Padayachee stated that there were a number of cars sold at the dealership which were used but sold as new, perhaps 50 out of 200. When asked by the panel why questions were not asked of Mr. Dennis regarding this issue, Mr. Padayachee stated Mr. Dennis had already stated he could not remember the individual deals. Mr. Padayachee stated that he did not prepare the retail lease agreements. He agreed that it was his signature on the side letters but stated he was not the salesperson for these deals and in many instances the letter was prepared by someone else and he just signed it. A number of salespeople needed these letters. He had no physical contact with the customers when they came to pick up their car.

Mr. Padayachee testified that he complained to Mr. Dennis that he was underpaid on the commission. Then Mr. Dennis gave him a new commission structure. Mr. Padayachee went to the Labour Board to get advice, but Mr. Dennis had accepted his resignation.

Mr. Padayachee remembered that in July, 1998, Nissan Canada told the dealers that it does not accept enhancement documents.

In July, 1997 Mr. Padayachee was hired as the new car manager at Woodchester Nissan. He requested that his registration be transferred from Oakville Nissan to Woodchester Nissan.

Mr. Padayachee remembers getting the Registrar's Notice of Proposal about the first week of January, 1998. He sent in his request for a hearing after receiving the Proposal. As he was not allowed to sell cars, he became the operations manager. His duties included sales training, advertising, pre-delivery, liaison between service and sales departments to check on optional equipment being installed and cars being made ready for the customers. In January, 1999 he moved to Woodchester Suzuki with the same job description. He did not sell cars to customers.

Regarding the Elliot deal, Mr. Padayachee testified that Ms. Elliot purchased the car from Ray Paulsen and the deal was finalized by Irsilia Gaetano. He met Ms. Elliott when she came to pick up her car. She was with a friend and was very upset and wanted the deal cancelled.

Regarding the monies he owed to Oakville Nissan, Mr. Padayachee stated that given his financial situation, he paid it as quickly as possible.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Padayachee stated that Mr. Masson's statement that he gave the cheque to Dave was incorrect as he was working at the dealership that day. The cheque is dated May 5, 1997 and the delivery receipt is dated May 9, 1997.

Mr. Padayachee testified that he never told Ken Young that Mrs. Padayachee had cashed the cheque. He paid $1,300.00 sometime in June to Beverly Young, and she took it without an explanation.

In making the side letters, Mr. Padayachee stated that he was not dealing with the lease agreement but fulfilling the promises made to the customer by the salesperson. He did not know about putting 24,000 km as a limit on the side letters. He was responsible for making the deals profitable for the dealership. Mark Irwin reported directly to Mr. Dennis. Dave Padayachee reported directly to Mr. Dennis. The salespeople reported to Mr. Padayachee. Mr. Padayachee stated that Nissan Canada did not know about the side deals.

In the side letter dealing with Regal House Kitchens, Mr. Padayachee felt that the term "satisfactory completion" met that there had been established good credit. He did not know if the letter was sent to the finance company although Mr. Irwin said it had been okayed by the finance company.

In the side letter dealing with Ms. Kefalas, Mr. Padayachee stated that he did not have to tell the finance company if the dealership was going to buy back the car in 24 months rather than 48 months as on the retail lease. He felt this despite clause 27 of the retail lease which states "This lease represents the entire agreement between Lessor and Lessee". "Any representation or warranties not contained herein are excluded".

Mr. Padayachee testified that his registration had an expiry date of July 13, 1997. He took holidays in August and then started with Woodchester Nissan on September 4, 1997. He saw the registration form at Woodchester. It was in December, 1997 that he learned of problems with his registration, and he told Woodchester that he was unsure about the registration. On February 8, 1998, Woodchester Nissan sent a letter to OMVIC asking about his registration.

Mr. Padayachee testified that currently he works at Woodchester Suzuki as the operations manager and is paid a salary plus compensation on gross profit of the dealership. He has an income of $5,000.00 per month. He is restricted in his income because he cannot sell cars. Every two weeks he receives a draw of $1,500.00 and on the 8th of the month he receives $2,000.00.

Mr. Padayachee stated that he had signed a previous letter to Mr. Bent of Sunquest regarding excess kilometer charges. He stated that Ms. Elliott lied in saying that he had negotiated her contract for her.

Mr. Padayachee testified that he had done nothing wrong. He testified that the manager is responsible for dealing with the finance company. Also, he testified that he had obtained photocopies of the letters from the files so Mr. Dennis was not telling the truth about getting the letters from the customers directly. He stated that he would offer inducements to customers to get them to agree to leases.

Testimony of Marijke Gair:

Ms. Gair is a salesperson at Woodchester Nissan. She had worked at Guelph Nissan for 6 years prior to that. Dave Padayachee had hired her at both places. She would show the car, and negotiate the deal, and do up a worksheet which the customer would initial. Then she would take that worksheet to Dave Padayachee for approval. If it was approved, it went to the business office to Mark Irwin and the customer would meet with him. The paperwork would be completed, and the delivery date would be arranged. None of the lease agreements which were made exhibits at this hearing involved her customers.

Ms. Gair testified that she once had a customer ask for extra numbers of kilometers and she had gone to Mr. Padayachee to get a letter signed which was given to the customer on delivery of the car. She never took such a letter to Mr. Dennis. The paperwork was done by the business manager and the delivery of the car was made by the sales representatives. The side letters were used as a method of customer retention.

Ms. Gair stated that she knew of other such letters by other sales representatives who had gone to Mr. Padayachee for a signature.

Under cross-examination, Ms. Gair stated that she did not know if the side letters were sent to Nissan Finance. She had first heard of the side deals when she testified at the hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal in May, 1998. She was not aware of such side deals prior to working at Guelph Nissan, and she has not done any while working at Woodchester Nissan. She knew that through the side deals the customer was looking for a way to get a low km lease. She never thought there was anything wrong in doing such side deals.

Ms. Gair testified that she did not know if Mr. Dennis knew what was going on at the dealership with these side deals.

Ms. Gair stated that she did the delivery of the vehicle to Mr. Masson and the delivery date was May 9th.

Ms. Gair testified that she is not aware of any policy by Nissan Canada respecting such side deals. She testified that at the dealership if Dave Padayachee was not available, then a salesperson would go to Mark Irwin or the other managers. The paperwork is sent to the business office. Sometimes Dave Padayachee helps to close a sale.

Testimony of Ronald Patrick Myles:

Mr. Myles is working at Woodchester Nissan. Previously he worked at Guelph Nissan from 1996 to 1998. Dave Padayachee, hired him as a salesperson.

Mr. Myles testified that he would do a worksheet that might be signed by the customer. He would take it to the sales manager for approval. If not approved he would ask the customer for a counter offer and sometimes the customer would speak directly to the sales manager. Sometimes he would bring in the sales manager for help. The exhibits filed at this hearing respecting side deals were done with customers that he did not assist, but he was familiar with most of the side letters except for the one for Regal House Kitchens. Jennifer Cook was his customer, and he cannot explain why the date of the side letter was later then the date of the sales agreement.

Mr. Myles testified that he knew Mr. Dennis was involved in the dealership. Mr. Myles testified that he had never taken a side letter to Mr. Dennis for approval. However, he testified that he thought such deals were fine. He testified that if Dave Padayachee was not available you could go to Mark Irwin or Mr. Dennis for approval of such side deals. Mr. Myles stated that he delivered the vehicles plus the incentive letters to the customers.

Mr. Myles stated that he knew that Nissan Canada in 1997 or 1998 issued a letter against the side deals. Mr. Myles felt that the side deals did not change the lease agreement.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Myles stated that he has been the sales manager at Woodchester Nissan since March, 1999. He has not seen such side letters there. When at Guelph Nissan he did at least three or four such letters and all the signatures on such letters were Dave Padayachee's. It is Mr. Myles's understanding that a copy of the side letter is in the file that goes to the business office. Mr. Myles is not aware of why his name is mentioned in the side deal to Mr. Brie.

Mr. Myles testified that it was necessary to get the bank's approval for the financing of an agreement, and he would telephone or fax them the details. He was not aware of the bank getting a copy of the side letters.

Testimony of Nick Liguori:

Mr. Liguori is the dealer/principal at Oakville Nissan since May, 1999. He is an owner at Woodchester Nissan and Woodchester Suzuki. He has known Mr. Padayachee for two and one half years. He trusts him and he is aware of what had happened at Oakville Nissan. In that deal, he understood that the customer was a friend of Dave Padayachee's and had given Mr. Padayachee some money, which Mr. Padayachee took home. Mr. Liguori is not knowledgeable of the full particulars of the incident. But, he testified, the records at Oakville Nissan show no monies being owed by Mr. Padayachee and to the contrary that Dave Padayachee paid the money to the dealership.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Liguori stated that he initially started in 1977 with the body shop business and then in 1979 with car sales. He bought Woodchester Nissan in 1990, Woodchester Infiniti in 1991, Woodchester Suzuki in 1996/97 and Oakville Nissan in May, 1999. He is a registered motor vehicle salesperson.

Mr. Liguori testified that he likes Dave Padayachee and finds him to be a hard worker. He knows that a letter came from OMVIC to Woodchester Nissan because Mr. Padayachee told him about it. This happened about ten months ago. Dave Padayachee was the sales manager at Woodchester Nissan from September, 1997 into 1999, when he went to Woodchester Suzuki, but not as a sales manager. Dave Padayachee has no involvement with the customers at Woodchester Suzuki.

Mr. Liguori agreed that it was an offence to have an unregistered salesperson working for a dealership. He is not aware of the side deals and finds the concept rather "sleezy". Mr. Liguori agreed that if the sales manager takes home money at night, that money should be received at the dealership the following morning. He testified that such a person should bring in the cheque or give verbal communication about the transaction.

Mr. Liguori testified that if an employee did not tell him about keeping a cheque he would have to decide what to do with that employee. He would talk to the employee and then make a decision. Mr. Liguori cannot remember if Nissan Canada has a policy on side letters.

Testimony of Ersilia Gaetano:

Ms. Gaetano was hired at Woodchester Nissan as assistant business manager in February, 1999. In August, 1999 she was transferred to Woodchester Suzuki. She had met Dave Padayachee while at Woodchester Suzuki. He is the operations manager there.

She testified that on the Elliott deal, Ray Paulsen was the salesman. Ms. Gaetano did the paperwork on the lease and telephoned Ms. Elliott to say it was approved. The worksheet was completed by Ray and Ms. Elliott. Ms. Elliott arrived at the dealership with a male friend and she questioned a clause in the lease agreement. Ms. Gaetano called in Dave Padayachee to explain it. Ms. Elliott became upset. She was questioning the trade in allowance on her previous vehicle.

Under cross-examination, Ms. Gaetano stated that Ms. Elliott's dispute was over the amount of the trade in allowance. Ms. Gaetano stated that she called in Dave Padayachee to assist due to his experience.

Testimony of Simon Derderian:

Mr. Derderian is the general manager of Woodchester Nissan. He is also a dealer/principal there. He is the general manager of Woodchester Suzuki. He hires staff, looks after problems and is concerned with expenses and profit figures.

Mr. Derderian testified that he met Dave Padayachee about 8 years ago while on an industry trip to Las Vegas. He had hired Dave Padayachee in the fall of 1997 to be the new car sales manager. At that time he was not aware of any licencing difficulties respecting Mr. Padayachee. He found out that there were problems with Dave Padayachee's registration in the spring of 1998. He transferred Dave Padayachee to Woodchester Suzuki and hired a sales manager for Woodchester Nissan.

Mr. Derderian testified that when he got a letter from OMVIC, he sent a letter in response which outlined the job responsibilities of Dave Padayachee as operations manager. Mr. Padayachee handles marketing, training, dealer trades, advertising and customer service.

Initially Dave Padayachee had asked him for a letter to OMVIC regarding his job responsibilities. When OMVIC responded that Mr. Padayachee should not be acting as a sales manager, Mr. Derderian changed his duties. Mr. Derderian testified that when it was known at Woodchester Nissan that Mr. Padayachee had lost his licence as a salesperson under the Act, Mr. Derderian transferred him to Woodchester Suzuki.

Mr. Derderian testified that Mr. Padayachee receives gets a guaranteed draw of $5,000.00 per month from the dealership.

Mr. Derderian stated that he knew Dave Padayachee had problems over a lease contract and a deposit. Both Ken Young and Dave told Mr. Derderian about the deposit. Mr. Derderian testified that he had had an incident at Woodchester Suzuki with a sales manager and a deposit, and he gave the man another chance. Mr. Derderian testified that he considers Dave Padayachee to be a man of integrity and honesty.

Regarding the Elliott transaction, Mr. Derderian stated that he talked to Mrs. Elliott about the deal. When she said she did not like it, he cancelled the deal. He had already transferred the ownership of her previous vehicle, and he had to redo it.

Mr. Derderian testified that Nissan had a low km lease with an enhanced buyback and lower monthly payments. He testified that there has never been a side deal at Woodchester Nissan, and Mr. Derderian would know of it due to the office procedures there. Mr. Derderian stated he would not give such side deals, but he does give incentives such as oil changes and floor mats.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Derderian stated that he was aware prior to May, 1998 of problems with Dave Padayachee's registration under the Act. He testified that when he worked as a sales manager at Woodchester Nissan, Mr. Padayachee worked on deals and sold cars to customers.

Testimony of Tony Canade:

Mr. Canade is the Vice President of Woodchester Auto Group. That is the controlling company for a number of companies. He is a management team member and sets policies and procedures for the issues of growth in sales and expansion. He reports to Sandy Liguori.

Mr. Canade hired Mr. Padayachee as a sales manger to commence work in August, 1997. He had to be a registered salesperson to hold this job. This required that Mr. Padayachee's existing licence be transferred. He testified that the transfer did not seem to be a very quick process. There were no procedures in place at the company at that time to keep checking on this matter. He testified that the company practices due diligence now in checking on the status of a transfer.

Mr. Canade testified that he received a fax in February, 1998 from OMVIC saying the process respecting Mr. Padayachee's transfer was under review and that Mr. Padayachee could not be registered. After that Mr. Canade did some research on the procedures with OMVIC, and he realized that this was a serious situation. Prior to this time Mr. Canade had not paid much attention to OMVIC.

Mr. Padayachee was still the sales manager in February, 1998. By a memo of May 27, 1998 he relieved Mr. Padayachee of his duties as a sales manager. When Mr. Padayachee was first hired, he had a compensation package of $1,500.00 per week plus the bonus program for sales of new cars. As of May 27, 1998 that compensation package changed and Mr. Padayachee was paid a percentage for the gross profits of fixed departments. Mr. Padayachee was transferred to Woodchester Suzuki in February 1999 to be the operations manager to use his experience to help structure that organization.

Mr. Padayachee was paid $5,000.00 per month or $60,000.00 per year and this was tied to parts and service gross profits at 6 percentage. Mr. Canade went through the payroll figures to indicate what compensation was salary payment and what was payment under the percentage arrangement. In July, 1999, Mr. Padayachee's compensation arrangement became a biweekly draw of $1,500.00 plus $2,000.00 bonus monthly.

Mr. Canade testified that he knew of the situation at Oakville Nissan. He stated that Dave Padayachee allowed a customer to take a vehicle without paying the downpayment. The customer delivered the cheque to Mrs. Padayachee who deposited it in their personal bank account. This was at a time when the Padayachee's were having serious financial problems, and the account was overdrawn. Dave Padayachee approached Ken Young and said he would take care of the matter. Mr. Canade understood that there is no money owing by Dave Padayachee to Oakville Nissan.

Mr. Canade stated that the strength of an organization is the people the organization employs. Mr. Canade stated that Mr. Padayachee is good with customers and knowledgeable. Dave knows sales, services and financing. Mr. Canade stated that Mr. Padayachee is good at what he does, and Mr. Canade likes and respects Mr. Padayachee.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Canade stated that the organization has loaned Mr. Padayachee $12,000.00 to $15,000.00, and this is documented.

Mr. Canade stated that he understood that Mr. Padayachee's registration had to be transferred from Oakville Nissan to Woodchester Nissan. He did not ask for a pocket certificate. He confirmed that he was personally aware of the problem respecting a transfer of Mr. Padayachee's register when the fax arrived from OMVIC in February, 1998. Prior to that, Mr. Padayachee had not told him of any problem with the transfer of his registration. About two months ago, Mr. Canade became aware of this hearing and the circumstances at Guelph Nissan. He knew of the cheque at Oakville Nissan situation about four months ago and he knew that Dave paid $1,000.00 in June or July and paid the balance owing when he left the company.

Mr. Canade stated that the first loans from his company to Mr. Padayachee were made after the company was aware of the Oakville Nissan situation.

Testimony of Sandy Liguori:

Mr. Liguori has been in the car business since 1977, initially in car refinishing and then in 1989 he bought into a dealership. He owns Woodchester Nissan, Woodchester Infiniti and Woodchester Suzuki plus Woodchester collision. He is the CEO of these companies and the principal shareholder. His brother, Nick Liguori is also a shareholder. Mr. Sandy Liguori is the General Manager of Woodchester Suzuki, the General Manager of Woodchester Collision and the Vice President of the Woodchester Auto Group.

When Woodchester Nissan hired Mr. Padayachee it was with a high recommendation from Nissan Canada as being a good sales manager. When Simon hired Dave Padayachee there were no inquiries made about the licensing of Mr. Padayachee.

Mr. Liguori testified that he knew there were a few problems at Guelph Nissan dealing with leases and the over kilometers issue. He testified that he knew at Oakville Nissan there was an issue of a deposit going to Dave Padayachee. Mr. Liguori talked to Ken Young who said it was a personal matter between him and Dave. Mr. Liguori knew about these issues sometime in 1998.

Though Mr. Liguori has been a licenced salesperson since 1977 he testified that he was not familiar with OMVIC.

Mr. Liguori has come to know Dave Padayachee, and the allegations do not change his opinion of him. He stated that everyone can make mistakes. He stated that if there were conditions attached to Dave Padayachee's licencing he would have to know the conditions before saying he could agree to them. As far as Mr. Liguori is concerned, Dave Padayachee has made a mistake but desires a second chance.

Mr. Liguori testified that there is no policy at his companies to honour over kilometer leases. He stated that the sales manager has the authority to offer incentives to the customers. He would prefer to offer incentives such as oil changes.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Liguori stated that if a certain number of kilometers are required in a lease, then one should follow that requirement, which he stated is the way one does business with integrity. Mr. Liguori is not aware of any side letters at his companies.

Regarding his company's loan arrangements with Dave Padayachee, Mr. Liguori was not aware of the details and stated it was not very often that he did this for an employee.

Mr. Liguori knew for about a year that Dave Padayachee was having problems. with his registration. He did not know what led to Mr. Padayachee owing the $5000.00 to Ken Young. He stated that while Mr. Padayachee has made mistakes, Mr. Liguori has seen worse situations. He thinks Dave Padayachee is a kind, gentle person and he wants to help him out. He had loaned money to Dave Padayachee for his legal bills and housing costs.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS:

Counsel for the Registrar:

Counsel for the Registrar argued that Mr. Padayachee's registration should be refused due to his past conduct. That past conduct includes the cheque at Oakville Nissan; the side deals at Guelph Nissan; and the continuation of his working without a registration.

Mr. Padayachee in his testimony has stated that he has done nothing wrong. However, counsel submitted, Mr. Padayachee's conduct does show he lacks honesty, integrity and respect for the law. The test is not whether or not he is entitled to a second chance but what has he done.

Counsel submitted that Mr. Masson's evidence is independent and unbiased. He stated he went to Mr. Padayachee's house and dropped off a cheque with Mr. Padayachee. When he made out his cheque in the name of Mr. Padayachee, he was told by Mr. Padayachee that making Mr. Padayachee the payee was appropriate. This testimony is different from that of Mr. Padayachee who says Mr. Masson left it with Mrs. Padayachee. There was no evidence from Mrs. Padayachee. Mr. Padayachee did not tell Oakville Nissan about the cheque, being paid to Mr. Padayachee. He misled the dealer about the cheque, and only when confronted about it did he make payments to repay the dealership. There were no bank documents to confirm his story about being in overdraft. In any event, his financial situation is no excuse, and this situation speaks to his integrity.

Counsel further submitted that at Guelph Nissan Mr. Padayachee altered the terms of the contracts with his side letters. The term of lease, number of kilometers and residual value of vehicle are all interrelated. It is the evidence of Mr. Dennis that the dealership was not aware of these side letters and there are no letters admitted showing Mr. Dennis's signature.

Counsel argued that the witnesses produced by Mr. Padayachee are not independent. They all have a strong connection to Mr. Padayachee. Both Mr. Carr and Mr. Myles were hired by Mr. Padayachee to Woodchester Nissan. Both said Mr. Padayachee had the authority to sign the letters. Neither asked Mr. Dennis to sign such letters. There has been no rational explanation why the retail lease agreement could not reflect the terms of the lease. Mr. Padayachee testified that he did not believe it was necessary to inform Nissan Finance about the side letters. The letter from Nissan Canada speaks to certain kind of side deals but not what happened with these side deals. Clause 27 in the retail lease agreements makes it clear that such deals do not form the basis of the contract.

Mr. Padayachee's compensation package is related to the gross profit. But the side deals were of no benefit to the dealership.

Counsel also noted that the Registrar's initial proposal was dated December, 1997 and that although Mr. Padayachee has not been registered since July, 1997. Mr. Padayachee ignored that fact and continued to work as a sales manager. The evidence of Sharon Elliott is that Mr. Padayachee negotiated with her on her deal. Mr. Steve Sayo stated that Mr. Padayachee dealt with customers and sold cars. His evidence is both independent and credible.

Counsel argued that none of Mr. Padayachee superiors had any understanding of the issues before this Tribunal. Their evidence is coloured by the loans from the company to Mr. Padayachee.

Counsel submitted that Mr. Padayachee has shown no respect for the legislation. He did not tell his employers in December, 1997 that he received the Registrar's Notice of Proposal, and, as late as May, 1998, he was still working as a sales manager.

Also, counsel argued, if the dealership employing Mr. Padayachee was made aware by the Registrar in February, 1998 of the problems of Mr. Padayachee's registration but does nothing for months, then how can that dealership abide by any terms and conditions that might be considered by this Tribunal?

Counsel for the Registrar argued that the Voglsberg decision deals with the conduct of the Applicant, not the issue of complaints, Brenner test is not of future promises but of past conduct.

In conclusion, counsel for the Registrar argued that the Tribunal must look at the past conduct of the Applicant and only one of Mr. Padayachee's incidents of misconduct is sufficient to support the Registrar's Proposal.

Counsel for the Applicant:

Counsel for the Applicant noted that in the Registrar's Proposal, the matter outlined in clause 2 was no longer outstanding because Mr. Dennis has stated that Mr. Padayachee has fulfilled number 2 dealing with his dealership. The other particulars noted in the proposal deal with past conduct and counsel for the Applicant made the following submissions.

The purpose of the legislation is to protect the public. Mr. Masson says he trusts Mr. Padayachee. Ms. Elliott is a biased witness and the tempers the weight to be given to her evidence.

The evidence to be given by Mrs. Young is minimal as her evidence is based on hearsay.

Regarding Guelph Nissan, Mr. Padayachee did not commit the dealership to deals that it could not fulfill. The Sunquest letter shows that there has been repeat business.

Mr. Dennis's testimony is too vague to be credible.

At Woodchester Nissan, Mr. Padayachee was working without registration. What should be the punishment? There has been no charges under the legislation and none under the Criminal Code. It is important that the Tribunal look at the whole of the evidence. Under the legislation the Tribunal can impose terms and conditions.

In summary, counsel for Mr. Padayachee argued that is a general obligation of fairness. The punishment should fit the crime, counsel submitted, and the Registrar's proposal was not appropriate on the evidence.

THE LAW:

The relevant legislation is the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, and in particular Sections 3, 5, and 7 which provide as follows:

Section 3 states:

3. (1) No person shall,

.....

(b) act as a salesperson of or on behalf of a motor vehicle dealer unless the person is registered as a salesperson of such dealer and such dealer is registered as a motor vehicle dealer under this Act.

Section 5 states:

5. (1) An applicant is entitled to registration or renewal of registration by the Registrar except where,

.....

b) the past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty;

.....

Section 7 states:

7. (1) Where.....

.....

(5) The Tribunal may attach such terms and conditions to its order or to the registration as it considers proper to give effect to the purposes of this Act.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The Registrar in his Notice of Proposal and Notice of Further Particulars states that the Applicant should not have his registration granted due to the past conduct of the Applicant which offends against section 5 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. The three particular instances are: 1. That the Applicant worked as a motor vehicle salesperson when not registered with the Registrar; 2. That the Applicant did side deals while at Guelph Nissan which were not of an honest nature; 3. That the Applicant while at Oakville Nissan kept the deposit of a customer for his own benefit.

The Applicant in his own testimony does not deny the acts complained of by the Registrar. The Applicant admits he signed the letters as a person of authority with the dealership. He denies that such letters should be considered as improper. The Applicant admits that he did have the deposit monies from the Masson lease and that they were not repaid until he left the Oakville Nissan dealership. He states that it was due to some financial issues with his bank and was not intentional. The Applicant admits that he was working as a sales manager at Woodchester Nissan from September, 1997 until the end of May of 1998. During that time his registration as a salesperson had expired and he had not received any new registration documents. He states that he thought it was just a matter of the transfer of registration and when it became apparent that there were some issues he alerted his employer about the problem.

The legislation itself states that a registration can be revoked or not granted if the Registrar feels the Applicant lacks honesty, integrity, or does not act in accordance with the law. In making this assessment the Registrar is required by the legislation to consider the past conduct of the Applicant. The case law since Brenner v The Registrar of Motor Vehicle Dealers and Salesman (1983) O.J. NO.1017 has been quite clear that neither the Registrar nor the Tribunal should be considering the prospective conduct of the Applicant but should be basing their decisions on the Applicant's past conduct. Recent caseload in the Divisional Court has emphasized that the Tribunal in making its decision has to carefully review the facts of the particular case and state the basis of its decision. It is also trite law as found in the decision of Keith Mark Baldwin (1997) CRAT 19 that the Tribunal needs to consider the whole of the evidence in arriving at its decision. The Tribunal must assess the evidence as it relates to the dictates of the relevant legislation.

In this case, the Applicant has admitted in his evidence that he worked as a sales manager at Woodchester Nissan from September, 1997 until the end of May, 1998. During that time he was not registered as a motor vehicle salesperson with the Registrar. His registration had lapsed in July, 1997. An application to renew it had not been sent to the Registrar prior to the expiry date of the registration. The Applicant worked for eight months as an unregistered salesperson.

There is no dispute that the duties of a sales manager include many of the same duties as being a salesperson. Both deal with the customers to negotiate the sale or lease of a vehicle. The sales manager is asked to do this by the salesperson who feels he/she needs some extra help, and the sales manager can close the deal with the customer.

It is contended by the Applicant that acting as a salesperson while not being registered under the Act does not in itself warrant so severe a penalty as being refused registration under the Act. Instead, the Applicant urges the Tribunal to impose terms and conditions upon his registration.

The Tribunal disagrees with this analysis. The misrepresentation by the Applicant to his employer and to his customers is a serious violation of the legislation. The Motor Vehicle Dealers Act is legislation designed to protect the public. By requiring that all sales people be registered, the Act intends to safeguard the interests of the public who wish to purchase or lease a motor vehicle. There are standards of conduct expected of a registered salesperson. There is a range of penalties under the Act.

The Tribunal does not find the conduct of the Applicant relating to his registration indicates someone who has integrity and acts in accordance with law. The Applicant by the Notice of Proposal received in early January, 1998 was aware that the Registrar did not wish to grant him registration as a salesperson. The Applicant had worked as a registered salesperson since 1981. The Tribunal does not believe his explanation that he thought his registration would be transferred from Oakville Nissan to Woodchester Nissan. One cannot transfer a registration that no longer exists. That point is emphasized by the fact that the application received by the Registrar in September, 1997 was an application for registration, not transfer of an existing registration. The Applicant acted, at best, with disregard as to his lack of registration.

The Applicant, while admitting he was wrong, asks the Tribunal to grant him his registration based on terms and conditions. In previous cases such as Golab v Ontario Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (1998) O.C.R.A.T.D.176 and Rom-Canada Motors Inc. v Ontario Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (1999) O.C.R.A.T.D. No. 27 this Tribunal has granted Applicants their registration based on terms and conditions. These terms and conditions have often been based on the salesperson being supervised by the senior management of a dealership or someone experienced in the motor vehicle industry. In this case we have a dealership in which the senior management have been woefully blind as to their duties under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. The Woodchester Nissan dealership management were aware by February, 1998 that there were problems and that the Registrar did not wish to register Dave Padayachee. But it takes to the end of May, 1998 for the dealership to act and reassign Mr. Padayachee to the duties of operations manager. Even with this reassignment, there are suspicions as stated in the evidence of Ms. Elliott that Mr. Padayachee acted in a manner in August, 1999 that resembles that of a sales manager, not an operations manager. He was negotiating with Ms. Elliott to salvage the lease deal and to explain what had happened with the trade in value of her old car.

Ms. Gaetano's evidence as to why she asked Mr. Padayachee for help does not satisfactorily explain his behaviour. Ms. Gaetano does not explain why she did not ask the salesperson, Mr. Paulsen or the current sales manager for help. Instead she relies on the experience of Mr. Padayachee. While not conclusive evidence it does leave the Tribunal concerned as to what else Mr. Padayachee did that was not consistent with his expressed job duties as an operations manager.

The Tribunal is not satisfied with the explanation of Mr. Tony Canade as to why he waited a number of months after the fax from OMVIC to determine the state of Mr. Padayachee's registration. The senior management of the Woodchester Auto Group have experience within the motor vehicle industry. It is a regulated industry. It is the responsibility of senior management to understand and comply with the legislation that regulates their industry. The Tribunal has no confidence that the senior management of the Woodchester Auto Group could supervise any imposed terms and conditions where the Tribunal to consider them for Mr. Padayachee. Indeed, Mr. Sandy Liquori stated that he would have to know what was being imposed before he could determine if he could abide by such terms and conditions.

The Tribunal has concerns about the side letters produced into evidence from the period of time when Mr. Padayachee was the sales manager at Guelph Nissan. Mr. Dennis, the owner of Guelph Nissan, states he never authorized these side deals. He states he did not know about these letters until the customers began to return the cars in accordance with the side deals. He states that there was no copy of these letters in the corporate documentation kept at his dealership. The evidence of the Applicants' witnesses did not seriously challenge the testimony of Mr. Dennis. Ms. South states that Mr. Dennis did complain about Mr. Padayachee due to these side deals. Mr. Dennis used restructuring to restrict the authority of Mr. Padayachee when the first of the side deals came to his attention. Mr. Padayachee's commission was linked to the gross sales of new cars and new car leases. The use of side deals would increase that gross sale figure and thereby increase the annual commission for Mr. Padayachee.

There is no evidence of any side letters being signed by Mr. Dennis. There is no evidence by any witness that they approached Mr. Dennis to sign a side letter. No witness could adequately explain what happened to the side deal letter once it was signed by Mr. Padayachee. No witness could state that Nissan Finance was aware of the side deals. The directive by Nissan Canada in 1998 was directed to the issue of inducement and did not directly link to the kind of inducement, that is, the side letters, being used by Dave Padayachee and his sales staff at Guelph Nissan. Mr. Padayachee had considerable authority as a sales manager. He could have refused to sign such letters. There is no evidence that he ever refused to sign such a letter.

The Tribunal does not agree with the interpretation by Mr. Padayachee that the side deals did not affect others, nor were they detrimental to the dealership. The side deals dealt with the core issues by which the dealership and in particular Nissan Canada and its finance arm, Nissan Finance, approved the provision of financing for a lease. If the kilometers were increased, that had an impact on the residual value of the vehicle and on the monthly rate for the lease. If the contract was shortened it had an impact on the profit taking to interest payments made to the finance company. The side letters were in direct contradiction to section 27 of the retail lease agreement between the customer and the dealership. Whether or not a customer did or did not suffer financial loss or whether or not the dealership did nor did not suffer financial loss is not the issue. Vogelsburg stands for the proposition that there does not need to be a victim for there to be behaviour that is detrimental to the public purpose of the Act. The making of the side deals was not behaviour showing integrity. It was deceitful to the dealership, to Nissan Canada and to Nissan Finance.

The Tribunal does not agree with Mr. Padayachee that he did nothing wrong in taking and then keeping the deposit monies from the Masson lease for a period of months. Mr. Padayachee did not act with integrity and honesty when he kept the funds without giving full disclosure to Mr. Young of Oakville Nissan. The Tribunal finds that the evidence given by Mr. Padayachee differs in many fundamental ways from the evidence given by Mr. Masson. Mr. Masson states he gave the cheque to Mr. Padayachee and made a mistake by having it made out to Mr. Padayachee personally rather than the dealership. Mr. Masson states that on a couple of occasions either he or his wife were asked by the dealership for the deposit money. A copy of the cashed cheque was sent to the dealership to conclude this matter. The Tribunal accepts the evidence of Mr. Masson over that of Mr. Padayachee on this matter. Mr. Masson's evidence is also substantiated by the documentation, in particular the delivery date signed for by Mr. Masson on the retail sales agreement.

The Tribunal finds that the possession by Mr. Padayachee of the deposit monies was made more inappropriate by his failure to disclose this fact to his employer. Even his current employers at the Woodchester Auto Group agreed that if a sales manager had deposit monies for whatever reason it was incumbent upon that sales manager to hand over the monies to the dealership within a short period of time. Here Mr. Padayachee had the monies, kept the monies for a period of months, did not disclose to the dealership that he had the monies so that the dealership made inquiries with the customer for the deposit monies and only paid back the monies out of what was owing to him when he concluded his employment at that dealership. The Tribunal finds his behaviour to be dishonest and lacking in integrity.

Based on the above findings of fact, the Tribunal has concluded that Mr. David Padayachee demonstrated previous conduct that showed he acted in a dishonest fashion, lacked integrity and failed to act in accordance with the law. The Tribunal finds that this past conduct indicates that the Registrar acted reasonably in making his assessment that Mr. Padayachee should not be granted registration as a motor vehicle salesperson under the Act.

ORDER:

For the reasons stated above, pursuant to the authority vested in it by section 7(9) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar to carry out his Proposal and not grant Registration of the Applicant as a Motor Vehicle Salesperson under the Act.

ORDER

PURSUANT to the provisions of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H. 8 as amended, Toyota Credit Canada Inc. (the "Applicant") appealed a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar") made under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a certain 2000 Lexus RX300 motor vehicle, plate number AFYN 760;

UPON MOTION, made by the representative of the Registrar for an order by the Tribunal dismissing the Applicant's ground of appeal of exceptional hardship as a ground to be heard at a hearing;

UPON READING the exhibits and hearing submissions of the representative of the Registrar as well as submissions by Paul Chumak, Counsel for Tatiana Manevskaja, the agent of the Applicant, this Tribunal finds that the ground of exceptional hardship [section 50.2(3)(d)] upon which the Applicant relies in this appeal, does not apply by virtue of section 50.2(4) as a previous order to impound under section 55.1 was made with respect to another motor vehicle then owned by the Applicant;

AND WHEREAS Counsel for the Applicant's agent requested the opportunity to add a further ground for appeal in terms of section 50.2(3)(c) to be heard by this Tribunal;

AND WHEREAS the Representative of the Registrar having made submissions to this Tribunal;

THIS TRIBUNAL ORDERS that Counsel for the Applicant's agent shall by no later than 5:00 p.m. on Thursday June 8, 2000 serve upon the Respondent and file with the Tribunal a motion requesting the additional above-noted ground of appeal to be heard at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday June 13, 2000 at the Tribunal's offices at 1 St. Clair Avenue West, 12th floor, Toronto, Ontario, failing which the Applicant's appeal shall be dismissed.

DATE OF PRE-HEARING: May 19th, 2000

ORDER AND SUMMARY OF DISCUSSION

A Prehearing Conference between the parties was held on May 19th, 2000 in Toronto at 1 St. Clair Avenue West, 12th Floor as set forth in the Tribunal's Notice of Prehearing Conference dated April 10, 2000.

The Tribunal makes the following Orders respecting the hearing:

1. The hearing dates have been set for July 24, 2000, and July 26, 2000, at 1 St. Clair Avenue West, 12th Floor.
2. It was determined that the filing dates with the Tribunal of submissions and documents to be used in the hearing by both parties would occur on or before Friday July 14, 2000. The Respondent is to forward copies of its materials to the Applicant, on or before June 2, 2000, and the Applicant is to forward copies of its materials to the Respondent on or before June 30, 2000.

Both parties will file five copies with the Tribunal and deliver one copy to all parties. It was confirmed that the Tribunal requires full disclosure 10 days prior to the hearing.

3. The Respondent will provide the Applicant with the following:

- CVOR publication excerpts
- CVSA standards and out of service criteria documents
- MTO NSC truck and bus publication
- Accident, police report, CVIR and CVSA Templates
- Any other such materials to be provided in response

4. The Respondent will present testimony and evidence from at least one witness: Ms. Margaret Mooney, head of Sanctions and Control, or one of her employees. She will go through the material that was before the Registrar at the time of his decision to impose the sanction. The Respondent may call other witnesses in response to issues that may be raised by the Applicant.

The evidence to be used by the Respondent will include:

- Ministry analysis of the Applicant's record
- Show cause meeting analyst's notes and materials
- Copies of Applicant's show cause meeting submissions
- Safety net reports with summaries
- Copies of correspondence between the carrier and the Registrar
- Copies of Order and Notice of Appeal with supporting documents
- Copies of Commercial Vehicle Inspection Reports
- Updated CVOR abstract with analysis showing the Applicant's record as of Order date
- Formal documents, correspondence
- Notice of Appeal
- Police accident reports
- Application for change of fleet size
- Other relevant documents

5. The Applicant will present testimony and evidence from five witnesses. These will include: Evan Mason, President of Mas Trucking, Scott Mason, Company Vice President, and three company drivers.

The evidence presented by the Applicant will include:

- Material dealing with the Applicant's total fleet size, which units they are, and total miles traveled
- IFTA returns
- Will say statements from company drivers

6. It was outlined at the Prehearing Conference that:

The Registrar has issued a Suspension and Seizure Order dated March 20th 2000, pursuant to Section 47 of the Highway Traffic Act, as of the 27th day of March, 2000 for 880148 Ontario Ltd.

At the hearing of this matter, the Tribunal will be asked to review in detail a time period of approximately two years prior to the Suspension Order, from January 8th, 1998, until the date of the Order.

DATE OF HEARING: May 30, 2000 Toronto

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS:

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit #1 Notice of Appeal – dated May 5, 2000
- b) Exhibit #2 Applicant's medical information – received May 5, 2000
- c) Exhibit #3 Letter from Physician # 1 – dated January 10, 2000
- d) Exhibit #4 Applicant's submissions – 6 pages – received May 18, 2000
- e) Exhibit #6 Drug description for Tegretol – received May 30, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit #5 Ministry of Transportation submissions – tabs 1 – 18
- received May 18, 2000

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

The Representative of the Ministry provided the Tribunal with a final written summation with respect to this matter, as well as original certified copies of the Applicant's driver's record and accident report.

The Applicant submitted a copy of the Drug Description for Tegretol, which was entered on consent as Exhibit # 6

FACTS:

The Applicant is appealing the suspension of his driving privileges effective "January 1, 2000" as set out in Exhibit # 5, Tab 16.

The Applicant's driver's licence was originally suspended in April 1998 and returned in June 1998.

A letter written April 27, 1998, by neurologist Physician # 1, concludes "...When I saw him on 2 February 1998, I was inclining to think that he might indeed have been having seizures, but when I retook the history subsequently on March 9, 1998 the impression I gained was that these were not seizures. I did an EEG which was normal and a CT scan which was normal ...my diagnostic impression is that he did not have seizures. I think his symptoms are somatic expression of depression..." (Exhibit # 5 Item 3)

Sunnybrook Health Sciences Centre Emergency Report, dated "991114," states "...May have had black out panic attacks? absence sz's" (Exhibit # 4)

The Applicant came to the attention of the Ministry as a result of an unsolicited report dated "14 Nov 1999" from Physician # 2. Physician # 2 advises: "known seizure disorder x 2 years...reassess ability to drive..." (Exhibit # 5 item 6)

Letter dated January 10 from, Physician # 1, neurologist states "...His last seizure was in November 1999 ...His EEG and CT scan are normal..." (Exhibit # 5 item 8)

A Department of Medical Imaging report, dated February 10, 2000, indicates "...no evidence of intracranial haemorrhage, infarction, or tumour mass... Normal...CT of the head." (Exhibit #5 item 11)

ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW - MEDICAL SUSPENSIONS, dated "April 14, 2000", completed by Driver Improvement Counsellor Harry Ansara, details the Applicant's history as explained by the Applicant. The Applicant confirms that he "...was stupid ...doctor's prescribed medication ...didn't take regularly ...doctor's did not find anything wrong... problems was stress... stress level reduced...." (Exhibit # 5 Tab 13)

Exhibit # 5 item 16, Ministry of Transportation driving Record for the Applicant since 1970, shows no infractions.

At the hearing, the Respondent offered a re-iteration of the written material contained in exhibit #5, tabs 1 through 18.

The Applicant informed the Tribunal that his wife was with him, and asked permission for her to assist him.

The Applicant's memory of the events is sketchy. His wife answered most of the questions directed to the Applicant. The Applicant remembers nothing about the incidents, other than blacking out.

Evidence was introduced that the Applicant had been under stress but is now taking a different approach to life. He is taking a course for "family problems" and practicing yoga. Also, the main source of stress, his mother, is no longer living with him. The Applicant's wife confirmed that he is no longer depressed. According to the Applicant, he believes that the episode in 1999 occurred as a result of his failure to take adequate medication, and he is now ensuring that he follows his prescription carefully.

The Applicant has voluntarily given up driving on a daily basis, as he found it too draining. He is driving only every other day.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
- (b) a driver's licence; or
- (c) a CVOR certificate,

on the grounds of,

- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
- (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
- (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
- (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

- 50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Suspension Appeal Tribunal.
- (2) The Tribunal may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

Section 47(1) empowers the Registrar to "...suspend or cancel" a driver's licence for "any...sufficient reason...". The Registrar originally suspended the Applicant's driver's licence after receiving an unsolicited report dated "14/Nov 1999" from Physician # 2 advising that the Applicant had "known seizure disorder x 2 years...reassess ability to drive..." (Exhibit # 5 item 6)

The Tribunal finds that the Ministry acted properly and in accordance with the Regulation, in suspending the Applicant's driver's licence, based on the information from Physician # 2.

The Applicant argues that his licence should be re-instated. In the Applicant's favour is a letter written by Physician # 1, which concludes "...my diagnostic impression is that he did not have seizures. I think his symptoms are somatic expression of depression..." (Exhibit # 5 Item 3)

Nonetheless, in his subsequent letter to Tribunal, Physician # 1, contradicts himself by stating that "...His last seizure was in November 1999" (Exhibit # 5 item 8)

Similarly, the Tribunal uncovered a further contradiction. The Hospital Emergency admittance sheet, for the night of the incident, apparently under Physician # 2's signature, questions the Applicant's diagnosis "...May have had black out panic attacks? absence sz's" (Exhibit # 4). Three days later, Physician # 2 advised the Ministry of the Applicant's condition: "known seizure disorder x 2 years... reassess ability to drive...." (Exhibit # 5 item 6).

The Tribunal is at loss to explain the contradictions, but in weighing the evidence and the Applicant's demeanour at the hearing, the Tribunal must consider carefully the applicable section of Regulation 390/94, i.e., Section 14 (a) which states that:

"An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

a) suffer from a mental, emotional nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely..."

By his own admission, the Applicant had reduced driving to every other day, as he found driving daily too onerous.

Based on the evidence before the Tribunal, it appears the weight of evidence is in favour of the Ministry's decision. The Tribunal notes that the Applicant may seek and provide new neurological evidence to the Ministry, any time at his convenience.

The Tribunal is satisfied that the criteria described in the Regulation 340/94 section 14 (a) of the HTA applies to the Applicant. Thus, the Tribunal concurs that the Applicant's driver's licence remain under suspension.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated January 1st, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend his driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be confirmed.

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS:

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit #1 Notice of Appeal – dated March 20, 2000
- b) Exhibit #2 Applicant's submissions – tabs 1 – 7 – received May 12, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit #3 Ministry of Transportation submissions – tabs 1 – 11
- received May 12, 2000

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

The Representative of the Ministry provided the Tribunal with a final written summation with respect to this matter.

The Applicant asked the Tribunal to disregard the driving evaluation report.

FACTS:

The Applicant is appealing the suspension of his driving privileges effective "99 06 10" as set out in Exhibit # 1.

The Applicant came to the attention of the Ministry as a result of an unsolicited Medical Condition Report, dated "8/3/99". Physician # 1 informs the Ministry that the Applicant is suffering from "...Rt CVA w Lt hemiparesis and significant left neglect...improving but currently not capable of safe operation of mvehicle...". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 1)

On April 21, 1999, Physician # 1 prepared a second Medical Condition Report stating "...Rt CVA w Left hemiparesis, left sensory deficit and perceptual (visual deficits) - patient's perceptual problems may interfere w safe operation of motor vehicle...". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 3)

Physician # 2 writes to the Ministry under the letterhead of PHYSICIAN #2 MCFP (EM) FAMILY MEDICINE. In his letter, dated August 30, 1999, he details the Applicant's history and current condition "...he suffered a stroke as a result of right carotid endarterectomy ...in January 1999... he has exceeded all expectations of recovery... his most recent visual field testing that demonstrate almost complete restoration of his previous left homonymous hemianopsia... I would recommend ...driver's license be re-instated...". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 6 a)

Attached to Physician # 2's letter is a report from the L. H. C. signed by L. O. This report provides the results of tests carried out at "Community Rehabilitation and Integration Services (CRIS)" and is dated August 18, 1999. L. O. concludes: "Perceptual reassessment has been favourable. The Applicant has demonstrated significant improvement wrt his visual attention and ability to scan accurately. Spatial awareness has also improved significantly, however, is below the mean acceptable score (-2SD). The Applicant also completed the Test of Everyday Attention (TEA test). Overall, improvements were noted with respect to his age related scaled scores. His speed of processing and attention to selective visual details has improved from abnormal to slightly below average range. The Applicant's ability to do two tasks simultaneously has improved from his abnormal range to low average range. He continues to demonstrate difficulties in the area of auditory selective attention (i.e. coping with distractions)". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 6 b)

In the Summary, L. O. comments "Improvements noted with attention, scanning & spatial awareness - some mild impairment with visionspatial problem solving". The Applicant obtained a score of 54 out of a possible 61. (Exhibit # 2 Tab 6 c)

MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE CASE STUDY, dated September 22, 1999, recommends "...REQUEST A DRIVER EVALUATION IF REHAB PASSES HIM THEN REINSTATE, VISION OK FOR "G"...". (Exhibit # 3 Tab 7)

A Driving Evaluation carried out by the Therapeutic Solutions, Rehabilitation Services in Barrie, details the Applicant's history as well as the results of several tests which include a driving test of "...a period of approximately 60 minutes, conducted within the streets of Barrie in the morning hours of Saturday, February 19, 2000...". In the Summary and Recommendations portion of the report, W. N. (B.Sc.O.T.) states: "...the Applicant... has made obvious gains in his recovery ... There are specific residual difficult areas, including slowed responses (e.g. problem solving; observation) when presented with increasing amounts of stimuli. These areas of difficulty have had a significant impact in the Applicant's present ability to drive safely as noted today while driving his car for the assessment purpose ... It is the recommendation of the driving evaluation program that the Applicant not be reinstated with full driving privileges at this time..." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 9)

Exhibit # 2 Tab 11, is a Ministry of Transportation driving Record for the Applicant since 1986, showing one speeding infraction.

The Applicant provided the Tribunal with case law relevant to this matter which were entered as Exhibit # 3, items 1 (a), (b), 2 and 3.

Exhibit # 3, items 4 and 5 are, respectively: the "Notice of Suspension" and the Ministry's form letter informing the Applicant of the suspension.

A copy of the Driver's Evaluation, also forming part of the Respondent's evidence and recorded as Exhibit # 2, tab 9, constitutes the Applicant's Exhibit # 3, item 6.

Item 7 of Exhibit # 3, is an undated, unsigned letter which appears to be a driving evaluation. The name "W. N." is written at the bottom. The Applicant explained that this is his version of what W. N. should have written as his driving evaluation.

At the hearing, the Respondent offered a re-iteration of the written material contained in exhibit # 2, tabs 1 through 11, and on the text of the written summary provided at the commencement of the hearing.

The Applicant stated that he is no longer attending rehabilitation

In his closing remarks, the Applicant again asked the Tribunal to disregard the report signed by W. N., detailing the Applicant's driving evaluation. Further, the Applicant emphasized several times his disagreement with W. N.'s version of events that occurred during the examination.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
- (b) a driver's licence; or
- (c) a CVOR certificate,

on the grounds of,

- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
- (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
- (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
- (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

- 50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.
- (2) The Tribunal may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

Prior to dealing with the issue of the suspension, the Tribunal must address the Applicant's request concerning the admissibility of driver's evaluation report, due to the behaviour of the Examiner. As a response to the Applicant's endeavours to berate and cast aspersions upon the examiner's reputation, the Tribunal explained at the hearing, and now reiterates that the Tribunal has no jurisdiction to deal with arguments of unfairness or corruption.

Section 47(1) unquestionably empowers the Registrar to "...suspend or cancel" a driver's licence for "any...sufficient reason...". The Registrar originally suspended the Applicant's driver's licence after receiving an unsolicited Medical Condition Report. On "8/3/99," Physician # 1 informed the Ministry that the Applicant is suffering from "...Rt CVA w Lt hemiparesis and significant left neglect...improving but currently not capable of safe operation of mvehicle...". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 1)

The Tribunal finds that the Ministry acted properly and in accordance with the Regulation, in suspending the Applicant's driver's licence, based on the information from Physician # 1.

The Applicant argues strongly that his licence should be re-instated. In the Applicant's favour is the August 30, 1999 letter written by Physician # 2, "... has exceeded all expectations of recovery..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 6 a).

Nonetheless, the Tribunal must also consider the letter from L. O. attached to Physician # 2's, which provides the results of tests carried out at "Community Rehabilitation and Integration Services (CRIS)". L. O. concludes: "... Spatial awareness ... is below the mean acceptable score (-2SD).... speed of processing and attention to selective visual details... slightly below average range.... ability to do two tasks simultaneously... low average range.... e difficulties in the area of auditory selective attention (i.e. coping with distractions)". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 6 b)

In weighing the evidence, the Tribunal can not exclude the Driver Examiner's evaluation. W. N. is quite adamant in her recommendation "...the Applicant not be reinstated with full driving privileges at this time..." W. N. corroborates her concluding remarks with specific details of the Applicant's examination which she refers to as "...most distressing and frightening experience... fortunate ...today ...not involved in any vehicle collisions". (Exhibit # 3 Tab 9)

Regulation 390/94, Section 14 (a) is clear in that:

"An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- a) suffer from a mental, emotional nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely..."

Based on the evidence before the Tribunal, it appears premature to overrule the Ministry's decision. The Tribunal notes that the Applicant may seek and provide to the Ministry new medical evidence from a neurologist, any time at his convenience. The Tribunal is satisfied that the Applicant does not meet the criteria described in the Regulation 340/94 section 14 (a) and (b) of the HTA. Thus, the Tribunal concurs that the Applicant's driver's licence remains under suspension.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated June 10, 1999 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend his driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be confirmed.

CARRICATO

RONALD PATRICK CARRICATO

APPEAL FROM A PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR UNDER THE BOARD OF FUNERAL SERVICES

TO ISSUE A LICENCE SUBJECT TO CONDITIONS

TRIBUNAL: MARJORIE L. HILEY, VICE-CHAIR

APPEARANCES: RONALD PATRICK CARRICATO, representing himself
BERNARD LEBLANC, Counsel, representing the Registrar, Board of Funeral Services

DATE OF
HEARING: APRIL 11, 2000 SUDBURY

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

The Registrar, Board of Funeral Services, by his Proposal dated October 12, 1999 issued a licence to the Applicant, Ronald Patrick Carricato, based on two conditions: 1. That he cannot manage or directly supervise a funeral establishment for a period of five years; 2. That he cannot manage or directly supervise a transfer service for a period of five years. The Applicant by his letter of October 27, 1999 requested a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal. The hearing was held at Sudbury on April 11, 2000. The Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal as of April 1, 2000 became the Licence Appeal Tribunal.

ISSUES:

Should there be terms and conditions on the licence of the Applicant?

If so, what should be the terms and conditions?

EVIDENCE:

Opening Statement: Registrar

Counsel for the Registrar, Board of Funeral Services, stated that the issue is the imposition of conditions upon the Applicant that he not manage or directly supervise a funeral establishment or transfer service for a period of five years. The concerns of the Registrar arose out of the past conduct of the Applicant, in particular how he went out of business and how he dealt with prepaid contracts.

Testimony of Joseph Richer:

Mr. Richer has been the Registrar, Board of Funeral Services, since September 1, 1998. Prior to that time he was an inspector for the Board of Funeral Services for a period of five years. The duties of the Registrar include the administration and enforcement of the Funeral Directors and Establishments Act. He oversees the issuance of licences, reviews the conduct of registrants and hires inspectors to review the practice of registrants. As an inspector he had ensured that registrants comply with the requirements of the legislation. To do that he had attended at the premises of funeral establishments and reviewed their books and records.

There is a yearly renewal of the licence of registrants. Mr. Richer testified that his office had received the application renewal form of Mr. Carricato on September 3, 1999. Mr. Richer had made his decision to impose conditions on the licence renewal based on the past conduct of the Applicant.

The records of the Registrar for Mr. Carricato showed that on September 5, 1991 Mr. Carricato had been found guilty of professional misconduct and had received a reprimand from the Discipline Committee of the Board of Funeral Services and a five hundred dollar fine. A Notice of Hearing dated July 18, 1991 had been issued against Mr. Carricato alleging professional misconduct. The more serious allegations related to deficiencies in the maintenance of records for prepaid funerals. Mr. Carricato had signed an Agreed Statement of Facts and a waiver of counsel on August 29, 1991. After the order of the Discipline Committee Mr. Carricato had written to the Chair of the Discipline Committee stating his displeasure at the reprimand.

Mr. Richer testified that in January, 1988 the then Registrar had been concerned as to the record keeping practices of the Applicant, in particular the failure to have contracts signed for all funeral services and supplies. Further in January, 1988 an inspector for the Board of Funeral Services had expressed concerns about how Mr. Carricato kept his prepaid contracts. It took the Applicant some time to locate the balance of his prepaid contracts which were found under the seat cushion of a sofa. The documents were not being kept in a systematic order as required under the Prepaid Funeral Services Act.

Mr. Richer testified that in February, 1990 the then Registrar deferred granting a funeral services establishment licence to the Applicant until the Applicant provided records as required under the Prepaid Funeral Services Act.

Mr. Richer testified that he had inspected the Carricato Funeral Home on August 25, 1994. He had found four concerns with the physical plant and six concerns about record keeping. Though two letters were sent by then Registrar about these issues, Mr. Carricato never responded.

On July 25, 1995 there was a further inspection of the Carricato Funeral Home. According to the testimony of Mr. Richer, there were twenty-seven concerns expressed by the inspector of which ten related to the physical plant and seventeen relation to record keeping practices. The inspector noted that the prepaid ledger was three years out of date. Mr. Carricato had responded by a fax dated September 15, 1995 that the concerns had either been corrected or would be corrected.

Mr. Richer stated that on October 28, 1998 an inspector checked on the Carricato Funeral Home in Sault Ste. Marie. It was closed, and the inspector was unable to contact Mr. Carricato. The inspector was informed that the home had been closed since August, 1998. The Board of Funeral Services put a notice in the local newspaper to locate anyone who had made prepaid funeral contracts with the Applicant. Letters were sent to a number of financial institutions asking about trust accounts with the Carricato Funeral Home. Mr. Richer obtained a summary from his inspector, Randall Balon, on the situation with the Carricato Funeral Home. The Business Development Bank had foreclosed in the spring of 1998 but there were no bankruptcy proceedings. The books and records were kept at the home of Mr. Carricato's mother. Though the Funeral Home closed in August, the Board of Funeral Services was not informed.

After discussions with the Licence Committee of the Board of Funeral Services, Mr. Richer felt that Mr. Carricato could not operate a funeral establishment on his own. There had been a consistent pattern of non compliance with the record keeping requirements under the Act.

Under cross-examination Mr. Richer stated that there were about twelve prepaid contracts with the Carricato Funeral Home. There was a pattern of non compliance despite written warnings and constant inspections. To date, the Board of Funeral Services still does not know who is entitled to one of the bank accounts held by the Carricato Funeral Home under the Regulations of the Funeral Directors and Establishment Act.

Mr. Richer hoped that after five years of working under another funeral director, Mr. Carricato would be aware of how to manage his records. He believes Mr. Carricato needs to have another managing director oversee Mr. Carricato's work.

Mr. Richer stated that at present there are no mention programs in existence. Inspectors do offer advice when they inspect a funeral establishment. There has been a requirement to attend professional responsibility courses once every five years. The courses include a course on effective record keeping.

Mr. Richer stated that conditions placed on licences normally range from three to seven years. With attendance at professional development courses required by law at least once every five years, putting a period of three years on as a condition for Mr. Carricato's licence would not be sufficient.

Testimony of Randy Balon:

Mr. Balon has been an inspector with the Board of Funeral Services since May 15, 1995. His list of establishments which he had to inspect includes the funeral home of Mr. Carricato.

According to his testimony, Mr. Balon was in Sault Ste. Marie doing other inspections of funeral homes when he was told that Mr. Carricato was not in business any longer. He went out to the business premises of the Carricato Funeral Home on October 28, 1998 and found a building which looked like it had been neglected for some time. He attempted to contact Mr. Carricato but was unsuccessful. He tried again at the business premises on October 29, 1998 and after finding no one there he contacted his supervisor in Toronto. Following her instructions, he then contacted all the bank managers on record with the Board of Funeral Services where prepaid trust accounts were held by the Carricato Funeral Home. He found 8 such trust accounts although the records of the Board of Funeral Services had 11 accounts on record. Following further instructions from the Registrar, Mr. Balon then put these financial establishments on notice that the Board of Funeral Services intended to obtain an order to freeze the assets of the Carricato Funeral Home. No such order was made as the financial establishments voluntarily cooperated and froze the accounts.

Mr. Balon testified that he put a notice in the Star newspaper in Sault Ste Marie informing the public that anyone with prepaid funeral contracts from the Carricato Funeral Home should contact the Board of Funeral Services. Mr. Balon also was able to determine that the business premises had been listed for sale with a realty company since July 10, 1998.

Mr. Balon did meet with Mr. Carricato on November 12 and 13, 1998. From Mr. Carricato he found that the Business Development Bank had foreclosed on him in the spring of 1998. Mr. Carricato had not notified the Board of Funeral Services of this. The business records for the Carricato Funeral Home were with Mr. Carricato's mother, rather than being on the business premises. Mr. Carricato stated that he still owed a newspaper for death notices. This bill was paid by Mr. Carricato on November 13, 1998.

Mr. Balon found that the Public Accountant's report was not filed in time and that the prepaid funeral ledger was not completed.

Mr. Balon testified that one of the prepaid funeral contracts was cancelled, and the monies had been refunded. Two other prepaid funeral contracts were completed through the death of the parties. He was able to account for all of the prepaid funeral contracts, and there were only 8 outstanding trust accounts. The majority owners of the existing accounts wished to be transferred to another funeral home, although some wished to have their monies refunded. One could not be located until recently, and the Board was getting instructions from that person on what to do with that trust account.

There continues to be one account at a credit union which the Board is uncertain if it is a trust account. It has not to date been resolved.

Under cross-examination Mr. Balon testified that he recalled at his meeting with Mr. Carricato in 1998 that Mr. Carricato had stated that he was "not good with bookkeeping". Mr. Balon stated that no explanation was given as to why Mr. Carricato did not inform the Board of Funeral Services about the problems with his business.

Testimony of Ronald Carricato:

Mr. Carricato testified that he was initially licensed in 1970 and received his funeral establishment licence in 1979. He has had his funeral home in Sault Ste Marie, and there has been no public complaints. He has always worked with the Registrar to resolve any issues.

Mr. Carricato stated that he did hold a funeral establishment licence in January, 1987 despite a letter to the contrary in the documents of the Registrar.

Regarding the Discipline Committee action in 1991, Mr. Carricato stated that he had signed the Agreed Statement of Facts on the advice of the then Registrar, Mrs.

Reynolds who told him it was a formality. He was distressed to get a five hundred dollar fine and a reprimand from the Discipline Committee. Mr. Carricato stated that at that time he was having some financial problems keeping the funeral home in operation.

Mr. Carricato stated that in 1994, when he was next inspected, he was doing only twenty funerals a year. He does not recall any mention by the inspector as to problems with his trust account or his ledger for the prepaid funerals.

He was inspected again in 1995, and he did respond to that inspection in writing. He was told by the then Registrar, Mrs. Reynolds, that everyone in the business was having problems with prepaid funeral accounting.

Mr. Carricato testified that the rules governing funeral homes were different prior to 1990 and it had taken him a little longer to deal with the changes. He said that there is nothing wrong with his records. If the Board now wants all aspects of the contract signed then he will do so. His problems with disbursements were minor, for example, a three dollar difference over a newspaper notice.

Regarding his actions in the summer of 1998, Mr. Carricato stated that he had provided a funeral in August, 1998. He had told some of his prepaid customers that he was trying to sell the funeral home. He cannot explain why he did not alert the Board of Funeral Services about his problems.

Mr. Carricato stated that it was unfair to tell him that he could not operate a funeral establishment for five years due to his bookkeeping practices.

In his cross-examination Mr. Carricato stated that he did not know how the files got under the sofa cushion. He agreed that he had read and signed the Agreed Statement of Facts in 1991 which listed a number of problems with his establishment, but he did not sign it until asked to do so by the Registrar. He agreed that there were a number of concerns mentioned by inspectors over the years concerning how he kept his contracts and the lack of signatures for his contracts. He agreed that two different inspectors on two different site visits had reached the same conclusions about the problems with his contracts and his prepaid ledgers.

Mr. Carricato stated that to this date he still did not know what was wrong with his prepaid ledger. He maintained that he never told Mr. Balon that he was not good with bookkeeping.

Closing Statements:

The Registrar:

Counsel for the Registrar argued that the Registrar had ample reason to make his Proposal. The evidence of the witnesses showed that the ultimate responsibility rests with the licensee. The evidence is clear, stated the Counsel for the Registrar, that Mr. Carricato consistently failed to meet his record keeping and bookkeeping responsibilities. The inspections showed remarkably similar problems. As well, Mr. Carricato failed in his responsibility to his prepaid customers in 1998. His customers were not taken care of, and if someone had died there were no alternative arrangements.

Mr. Carricato:

Mr. Carricato argued that there is no doubt there were some problems, but his record keeping was adequate. He should be granted his funeral establishment licence on more lenient conditions than those proposed by the Registrar.

LEGISLATION:

The relevant legislation is the Funeral Directors and Establishments Act:

Section 20(3) provides:

An applicant is entitled to a licence or a renewal of a licence as a funeral director or to operate a funeral establishment or to operate a transfer service except if,

- a) the applicant cannot reasonable be expected to be competent or financially responsible in the conduct of the applicant's business;
- b) the past or present conduct of the persons referred to in subsection (4) affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not operate in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty;

(4) Clause 3(b) applies to the following persons:

- 1. the applicant
- 2. an officer or director of the applicant
- 3. a person holding more than ten per cent of the equity shares of the applicant or an officer or director of such person.
- 4. Any person having a beneficial interest in the operation of the business of the applicant or licensee.

(6) A licence is subject to such conditions as may be consented to by the applicant, imposed by the Tribunal or prescribed.

Section 21(2) provides that:

Subject to section 22, the Registrar may refuse to renew or may suspend or revoke a licence,

- a) for any reason that would disentitle the licensee to a licence under subsection 20(3) if the licensee were an applicant

Section 22(5) provides that:

After Holding a hearing, the Tribunal may be order direct the Registrar to carry out the proposal or refrain from carrying out the proposal and to take such action as the Tribunal considers the Registrar ought to take in accordance with this Act and the regulations and for such purposes the Tribunal may substitute its opinion for that of the Registrar.

(6) The Tribunal may attach such conditions to its order or to the licence as it considers proper to give effect to the purposes of this Act.

Section 23(1) provides that:

A person who is refused a licence or who is refused a renewal of a licence may apply in writing to the Registrar for the issuance of a licence only if at least one year has passed since the refusal.

Regulation 470 under the Act governs the Licensing and Business Practices and provides that:

Section 15(1) Every operator of a funeral establishment or transfer service shall maintain books, records and accounts at the place of business, in which shall be recorded:

- (a) all money received under a contract for the purchase of funeral services or supplies or transfer services;
- (b) all money disbursed in accordance with the terms of a contract for the purchase of funeral services or supplies or transfer services and
- (c) all other money received or disbursed in connection with its business

Section 19 of the Regulation states:

Every operator of a funeral establishment or transfer service that receives prepayment funds shall maintain a register or ledger located on its premises in which shall be entered,

- a) the date of the contract,
- b) the name and address of the person with whom the contract was made,
- c) the name, address, age and when known, the place and date of death of the beneficiary,
- d) the date on which the contract is fully performed, or cancelled; and
- e) the details of the prepayment funds invested or deposited under section 16

Section 25(1) states:

Within three months after its fiscal year end, every operator of a funeral establishment or transfer service shall have a report prepared by a public accountant licensed under the Public Accountancy Act with respect to all prepayment funds invested.

Section 31(1) states:

It is a condition of a funeral director's licence that the funeral director attends, at least once every five years, a professional development course of instruction in topics related to funeral services conducted or approved by the Board.

ANALYSIS:

The Registrar under the Funeral Directors and Establishments Act has a duty to regulate the funeral homes to ensure that the public is protected. Funeral directors and their establishments have an extremely important role with the public. It is a sensitive role as members of a family are often in their most vulnerable state at the loss of a loved one. The Registrar and the Board of Funeral Services must ensure that those operating within the funeral business are people of integrity, honesty and operate in accordance with the law. With the introduction into the funeral business of the prepaid funeral contracts the Registrar has an additional burden of ensuring that public's money is protected in trust accounts. The funeral director under Regulation 470 has many obligations as to the record keeping and bookkeeping practices of his/her business. These regulations were enacted by the legislators out of their concern for the financial integrity of the funeral business, and it is the duty of the Registrar to ensure that the responsibilities and obligations for record keeping are maintained by the funeral directors.

With this background, the Tribunal has no difficulty in agreeing with the Registrar that in this particular case there is a need to have terms and conditions upon the renewal of the licence of Mr. Carricato. He had applied for an application for certification authorizing the performing of embalming. The Registrar by his Proposal of October 12, 1999 stated that he could be granted that licence subject to Mr. Carricato not managing or directly supervising a funeral establishment or transfer service for five years. In other words Mr. Carricato could be licenced to work in a funeral establishment or transfer service, but he could not be the manager or direct supervisor for five years.

The evidence presented by the Registrar and Mr. Balon is clear, and except for the statement that Mr. Carricato had said he was not good at bookkeeping it was not seriously challenged by Mr. Carricato. There is a pattern of behaviour, evidenced from the Discipline Committee proceedings of 1991 through to his last inspection of 1995, that Mr. Carricato could not get organized when it came to his record keeping practices. Indeed, even in 1988 Mr. Carricato was so careless with his record keeping that he found some of his prepaid files tucked under a sofa cushion. Mr. Carricato has to understand that a funeral director has to keep proper records.

The evidence does not show any serious infractions by Mr. Carricato regarding his embalming or other practices. It is not suggested that Mr. Carricato is a dishonest person. There have been no public complaints against any sharp practices by Mr. Carricato. He is just careless with his paperwork.

Based on the evidence of his carelessness with paperwork, the Tribunal would have been inclined to have imposed a minor condition upon Mr. Carricato such as taking a course offered by the Board of Funeral Services on bookkeeping practices. However the Tribunal is quite concerned about the episode in 1998 when Mr. Carricato closed up his funeral home after the actions of the Business Development Bank but failed to alert his regulatory body to his circumstances. As well, in the opinion of the Tribunal, Mr. Carricato breached his obligations to his prepaid customers by not insisting that they move their contracts to other funeral establishments or refund their monies under the contracts. Mr. Carricato was well aware that he could not continue his business and had put his premises up for sale in July, 1998. Under those circumstances Mr.

Carricato needed to act to protect his prepaid customers. It was only through good fortune that none of his prepaid customers died during the summer and fall of 1998. It would have caused tremendous stress to the families of these prepaid customers to have tried to contact Mr. Carricato and then to have found that he is not available and his funeral establishment closed. The behaviour of Mr. Carricato in this situation is not acceptable in the opinion of this Tribunal.

The Tribunal is not convinced that the five years proposed by the Registrar is a suitable time frame. It was not convinced by the explanation of the Registrar that three years is too little given the obligation under the legislation to go to a course every five years and that seven years is too much given the fact that the issues mainly relate to record keeping. Funeral Directors might have to take a course every five years to maintain their licence, but the Registrar should require those funeral directors who have a pattern of behaviour in matters which can be improved to take certain courses on a more frequent basis.

There is no doubt that Mr. Carricato needs to improve his record keeping. There is also no doubt that Mr. Carricato needs to understand the issues surrounding the provision of prepaid funeral contracts. He applied for his licence in late August of 1999, and the Tribunal is of the opinion that he should be deterred from being the sole manager or supervisor of a funeral establishment or transfer service for a further year. During that time, Mr. Carricato must take a course provided by the Board of Funeral Services that deals with record keeping practices.

As the Tribunal is concerned as to his past conduct with prepaid funeral contracts, the Tribunal orders that he not be permitted to accept such contracts at his funeral establishment or transfer service for one year after he is permitted to manage or supervise a funeral establishment or transfer service. Within that year Mr. Carricato is to take a course provided by the Board of Funeral Services that deals with prepaid funeral contracts. If the Board does not have such a course, then Mr. Carricato must request the Registrar to have an inspector attend at his establishment and have that inspector review with him all of the responsibilities required of a funeral director in the matter of prepaid funeral contracts. Mr. Carricato must also undertake that if at any time he finds it necessary to shut down the operations of his funeral establishment or transfer service for any reason, he must immediately contact the Registrar and inform the Registrar of this situation and comply with the instructions of the Registrar on how he is to close down his funeral establishment or transfer service. Mr. Carricato must understand that he wishes to work and operate a business in a regulated industry. Accordingly, he must abide by the regulations and business practices of that regulated industry. In the opinion of this Tribunal, the Registrar has acted with commendable patience and fully appreciates that Mr. Carricato has been working in the funeral industry for thirty years. Mr. Carricato needs to understand the obligations of the Registrar and look upon the Registrar to provide him with guidance on the practices within the industry.

ORDER:

The Tribunal, acting under its authority as found in Section 22(5) and (6) of the Funeral Directors and Establishments Act orders the following:

1. That Mr. Carricato be granted his licence to perform embalming under the following conditions:
 - a) that he not manage or directly supervise a funeral establishment or transfer service for one year from the date of this order;
 - b) that he will take a course as offered by the Board of Funeral Services on bookkeeping practices prior to the expiry of condition a);
 - c) that he will not provide prepaid funeral contracts to customers for one year after the revocation of condition a);
 - d) that he take a course as provided by the Board of Funeral Services or accept instruction as provided by the Registrar, Board of Funeral Services, on the responsibilities and practices of prepaid funeral contracts prior to providing such prepaid funeral contracts to customers at his funeral establishment or transfer service.

PURSUANT to the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter M. 42, as amended, Mohamad Tirani o/a A 1 Tire Centre (the "Applicant"), appealed a Notice of Proposal dated March 1, 2000 issued by the Registrar (the "Registrar") under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal);

UPON MOTION, made by Counsel for the Registrar for an Order by the Tribunal dismissing the Applicant's appeal to the Registrar's proposal, heard by this Tribunal on Wednesday, June 14, 2000, at 1 St. Clair Avenue West, 12th Floor, Toronto, Ontario, M4V 1K6, no one appearing for the Applicant;

ON READING the exhibits and hearing evidence and on hearing submissions of counsel for the Registrar, no one appearing for the Applicant although properly served as appears from proof of service filed, this Tribunal finds that due to delay, non-attendance and failure to proceed on the part of the Applicant, the Applicant has abandoned these proceedings;

THIS TRIBUNAL ORDERS that the appeal by the Applicant to the Registrar's proposal is dismissed and pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 7(4) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Registrar is directed to carry out his proposal dated March 1, 2000 to revoke the registration of Mohamad Tirani o/a A 1 Tire Centre as a motor vehicle dealer.

1128570 ONTARIO INC. O/A NORTHERN ESCAPE TOURS

APPEAL FROM A DECISION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE MOTOR VEHICLE DEALERS
COMPENSATION FUND

TRIBUNAL: MARJORIE L. HILEY, VICE CHAIR

APPEARANCES: JIM ROCKEY, Agent, representing the Applicant, 1128570 Ontario Inc. o/a Northern Escape Tours
LARRY BANACK, Counsel, representing the Board of Trustees, Ontario Motor Vehicle Dealers Compensation Fund

DATE OF HEARING: APRIL 10, 2000 SUDBURY

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

The Trustees, Ontario Motor Vehicle Dealers Compensation Fund (the "Board of Trustess"), had initially refused the claim of the Applicant by their letter of August 10, 1999. In that decision, the Trustees rejected the claim based on the Applicant not having commenced the claim within the two year time frame as stated in section 12(3) of Regulation 801 attached to the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. The Applicant by a letter dated August 27, 1999 to the Chairperson of the Fund asked for a reconsideration of that denial. The Board of Trustees responded with their final decision dated November 26, 1999. In that decision, besides the limitation period as previously mentioned, the Trustees held that the Applicant failed to meet the requisite criteria for eligibility, that there were differences between the bank statements and the bill of sale and that there was an issue of acceptance by the purchaser (letter mistakenly states vendor's acceptance).

The Applicant by a letter dated December 6, 1999 requested a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal, which as of April 1, 2000, became the Licence Appeal Tribunal. A hearing was held in Sudbury on April 10, 2000. The parties were in attendance at that time.

ISSUES:

Is the Applicant out of time to bring its claim under the Compensation Fund?

Has the Applicant met the eligibility criteria under section 12(3) of Regulation 801 to the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act?

Is the Applicant entitled to his claim of $15,000.00 as against the Ontario Motor Vehicle Dealers Compensation Fund?

EVIDENCE:

Opening Statement of Counsel for the Board of Trustees:

The Counsel stated that the Applicant by the claim dated June 16, 1999 based the application for compensation on the bankruptcy of the dealership. The bill of sale for the motor vehicle is dated January 9, 1996 for a selling price of $145,000.00 and a total price of $166,750.00. There was no purchaser's signature on it. There is an outstanding lien of $87,000.00. Initially, the Board of Trustees denied the claim based on the limitation period. Then the Board of Trustees issued a second decision that had several other grounds for the denial of the application. Those grounds include whether the Applicant suffered pecuniary loss and whether the application meets the criteria under Regulation 801 section 12(3).

Testimony of Jim Rockey:

Mr. Rockey testified that in December, 1995 he was in the market to purchase a bus. He decided to buy a bus from Braemar Coach. Which was to cost approximately $150,000.00. He received the bus on January 9, 1996 at North Bay. He had not signed any documents.

Mr. Rockey stated he was unhappy with the condition of the bus. It was not finished in accordance with his verbal deal with Braemar Coach. He retained a lawyer, Mr. Cito, to start litigation against Braemar Coach. That litigation did not proceed after August, 1996. Braemar Coach never filed a statement of defence. Mr. Cito was then disbarred by the Law Society. Mr. Rockey lost a substantial amount of money which had been in Mr. Cito's trust account. Mr. Rockey never continued with the litigation.

Mr. Rockey stated that he had forwarded to Braemar Coach by bank draft $100,000.00 on January 15, 1996 and a further $56,486.00 by bank draft on January 24, 1996. Mr. Rockey complained at some point to the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations and asked them to investigate Braemar Coach. He was told by officials at the Ministry that he could not file his claim for compensation until he had finished with his litigation against Braemar Coach. Despite his requests, the Ministry did not file charges of fraud against Braemar.

Mr. Rockey testified that after he received the bus, he had its brakes fixed and then had it driven back to Braemar Coach in Hamilton to have it repaired and painted in accordance with his prior agreement with Braemar. The repairs and painting never happened and eventually Mr. Rockey took the bus back to North Bay.

Mr. Rockey stated that he became aware that the bus had some liens against it. The lien holders were from the United States and they wanted the bus returned to them. Mr. Rockey retained another lawyer and paid the lien holders $15,000.00 in settlement of their claim against the bus. He testified that he can if necessary, get proof of his payment of the lien from his bank.

Currently the Hamilton police are considering the laying of criminal charges at the insistence of the North Bay police. The charges have not yet been laid.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Rockey stated that he has been in the bus industry for a number of years and has experience in the past at purchasing buses. He testified that he does not check for liens when he purchases a vehicle from a dealer.

Mr. Rockey agreed that he received the bus after he paid the full price for it. He had paid the $100,000.00 to get Braemar Coach to paint the bus and then paid the remainder to have the bus delivered to him. Although the bill of sale has a date of January 9, 1996, Mr. Rockey agreed that he did not get the bus until after the second payment. Mr. Rockey recalls that the bus was delivered to his garage in Sudbury sometime in early February, 1996, not January 9th as he had originally testified.

Mr. Rockey agreed that he never signed a bill of sale, and he never got any paperwork dealing with this bus. He had a handwritten note which was made an exhibit to the hearing. This note was written by Mr. Rockey while he was negotiating the deal with Braemar Coach at their Hamilton offices. That note shows the final price for the vehicle to be $156,500.00. Mr. Rockey agreed that the statutory declaration signed by Mrs. Rockey had the wrong sales price for the bus. It stated the price of the bus to be $166,750.00. Mr. Rockey explained that his wife has been in poor health and that she failed to notice the error.

Mr. Rockey testified that the litigation he had started in 1996 was not completed because Braemar Coach never responded to it. Mr. Rockey stated that he had not known that he could have petitioned Braemar into bankruptcy himself. He now believes that the previous owners of Braemar have started another business selling marble slate.

Closing Statements:

Mr. Rockey:

Mr. Rockey argued that he had bought the bus from a dealer so he had not checked for liens. His wife had made a mistake about the price of the bus. The officials at the Ministry had given him the wrong information about when he could file his compensation claim, and he had relied on that information. Mr. Rockey argued that he had met all of the necessary criteria to recover monies from the Compensation Fund. He felt that the Ministry officials should have charged Braemar Coach with fraud.

Counsel for the Trustees:

Counsel argued that Mr. Rockey had not provided the Trustees with the same information as was given to the Tribunal at the hearing. The Trustees found Mr. Rockey's documentation to be inconsistent with his bank statements. The Trustees had not found a loss as defined under the legislation.

Counsel argued that even if the Trustees had had the benefit of Mr. Rockey's testimony, they would have still refused his claim as he had not shown any court judgment, any criminal conviction or any bankruptcy. Counsel referred to the case of: Leila Lemon CRAT October 25, 1991 in which the Tribunal found that the Applicant did not meet the eligibility criteria as the dealership was not bankrupt. Counsel also relied on the case of Brian and Filomena Smith CRAT June 24, 1999 in which the Tribunal found that the Applicants did not meet the eligibility criteria as they did not have a claim in bankruptcy against the company, the company was not convicted of criminal charges, and though they had commenced a lawsuit and had a judgment against the company, the lawsuit was done improperly as the company had already filed for bankruptcy.

LEGISLATION:

The relevant legislation is found in Regulation 801 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act at the Schedule:

Section 1: In this Schedule,

“claim” means a claim for pecuniary loss arising out of a transaction involving a trade in a motor vehicle.

Section 12 (3) A customer may make a claim against the Fund where the customer gives written notice of the claim to the Registrar within two years of the participants' refusal or failure to pay, even if the motor vehicle dealer with respect to whom the claim is being made ceased to be a participant after the refusal or failure to pay, and where the claim meets one of the following requirements:

1. The customer has recovered in any court in Ontario a judgment in respect of the claim and the judgment has become final by reason of the expiration of the time for appeal or of having been confirmed by the highest court to which an appeal may be taken and the customer makes an application, supported by the judgment and statement of claim for payment of the unsatisfied portion of the judgment and costs as assessed.
2. The participant has been convicted of an offence under the Criminal Code (Canada) involving fraud, theft or false pretences in connection with a transaction out of which the claim arose and the claim is for liquidated amount and the customer makes an application that is supported by evidence of the conviction and of the correctness of the liquidated amount.
3. The participant has become a bankrupt or a winding up order has been made or a receiver appointed in respect of the business of the participant under the Bankruptcy Act (Canada) and the claim is for a liquidated amount and the customer makes an application that is supported by evidence of the allowance of the Trustee in bankruptcy, liquidator or receiver, less any amount that may have been paid on account of the claim by the Trustee, liquidator or receiver.
4. The customer has made payment by way of deposit, down payment or otherwise to a participant with respect to an undelivered motor vehicle and the customer has not received the motor vehicle contracted for or an alternative motor vehicle that is acceptable to the customer and the claim is for a refund of the payment made to the participant where the customer has made a demand for payment from the participant and the participant has refused without legal justification to make the payment or is unable to pay by reason of bankruptcy or insolvency, but is not a claim for a refund of money paid by the customer to a participant where the customer has been provided with the motor vehicle contracted for and the demand for a refund is based on the cost, value or quality of the vehicle provided.

5. The customer has made payment for an extended warranty or service plan to a participant where the warranty or plan is not underwritten by an insurer and the term of the warranty or plan has not expired and the claim is for a non earned premium or for a repair under the warranty or plan.

Section 15(3) Where a claimant requires a hearing before the Tribunal under subsection (1) the Tribunal shall appoint a time for and hold the hearing and, after affording the claimant an opportunity to be heard, may confirm the determination of the Board or may set aside the determination of the Board with respect to all or any part of the claim and direct the Trustee to pay the amount determined by the Tribunal.

ANALYSIS:

The Compensation Fund of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act was created to help the public who have had a financial loss from a registered motor vehicle dealer. Registered motor vehicle dealers must participate in the Fund and support it financially. The Fund was not intended to cover every type of financial loss that can be attributed to a motor vehicle dealer. Indeed, under section 12 the types of situations which permit the Fund to offer compensation to members of the public are clearly defined.

The applicable sections of section 12(3) for this fact situation are paragraphs 1, 2 and 3. Paragraph 1 requires a judgment from an Ontario Court where the appeal time has expired and there remains an unsatisfied portion of that judgment. Paragraph 2 requires that the motor vehicle dealer must have been convicted under the Criminal Code or fraud, theft or false pretences and the claimants must show an exact amount that is owing from that dealer. Paragraph 3 requires that the motor vehicle dealer has been found bankrupt or there is a winding up order or a receiver appointed under the Bankruptcy Act with the claimant having a claim which has been allowed by the Trustee in Bankruptcy but not being fully paid by that Trustee.

Unfortunately, Mr. Rockey and his company do not fall within any of these situations. Mr. Rockey did start some sort of litigation in 1996, but he admits in his evidence that it never progressed and he did not get a judgment against Braemar Coach. Mr. Rockey has been trying for years to get either the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations or the police to lay criminal charges against Braemar Coach. He feels the Hamilton police will do that in the near future, but it has not happened and there are no criminal convictions against Braemar. Mr. Rockey stated in his evidence that Braemar has not gone bankrupt, and he has not put any claim before a Trustee in Bankruptcy.

There is no doubt in the mind of this Tribunal that Mr. Rockey has suffered a pecuniary loss in his dealings with Braemar Coach. Mr. Rockey did not have the documentary proof before the Tribunal, but there is a letter dated April 30, 1997 from Mr. Crawford, a lawyer in London, Ontario which deals with the discharge of liens against the vehicle by the lien holders, Associates Commercial Corporation, for the payment of $15,000.00. The Tribunal believes Mr. Rockey when he states that he did pay off the lien holders and it did cost him that amount of money. But having a pecuniary loss does not in itself require payment of compensation from the Fund. The loss must fit within the requirements of section 12(3) of the Schedule attached to Regulation 801 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.

The Tribunal sympathizes with Mr. Rockey in his predicament. He placed trust in what he thought was an established motor vehicle dealership. His trust was misplaced, and it has cost him and his wife both money and emotional stress. But the Tribunal must act within the confines of the relevant legislation. As was stated by the Tribunal in the Seaford Tye (1989) 18 CRAT 158 "We are left, therefore, to the conclusion that the Applicant cannot qualify for compensation having failed to satisfy the requirements prescribed by regulations. We sympathize with the Applicant and view the whole transaction with the distaste it deserves. Unfortunately, however, he has failed to meet the conditions which the legislation demands and we are, therefore, bound to deny the claim".

The Tribunal does not need to deal with the issue of whether or not the Applicant could meet the time deadline of "written notice of the claim to the Registrar within two years of the participants' refusal or failure to pay" as the Applicant cannot meet the eligibility conditions of section 12(3) of Schedule, Regulation 801, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.

ORDER:

Pursuant to the authority vested in it by the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act and the regulations made thereunder, the Tribunal directs the Board of Trustees of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Compensation Fund to disallow the claim of the Applicant.

TOYOTA CREDIT CANADA INC.

Appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap.H.8 as amended (the "Act"), from the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 55.1(3) of the Act.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: DEREK ISRAEL
Vice-Chair

APPEARANCES: ALANA BEST
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

PAUL CHUMAK, Q.C., Counsel for and representative of Tatiana Manevskiaia, agent for Toyota Credit Canada Inc.

DATE OF HEARING: June 13, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: June 14, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on June 13, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the “Registrar”), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	Toyota Credit Canada Inc. (the “Applicant”)
Motor Vehicle:	2000 Lexus RX300, Plate #AFYN 760 (the “vehicle”)
Date of Appeal:	May 23, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the “Tribunal”) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner filed an appeal based on the ground of exceptional hardship [section 50.2(3)(d)] which ground of appeal the Tribunal found did not apply by virtue of section 50.2(4). The owner thereupon with the consent of the Registrar amended the ground of appeal to that of “due diligence” more fully referred to in section 50.2(3)(c).

The owner therefore now appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on June 13, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

AMMENDMENT TO APPEAL

Statement of Tatiana Manevskaia

RE: DUE DILIGENCE

On May 15th, 2000, I became very sick with a viral infection. I did not sleep at all the entire nights of May 16 and 17, 2000. I was sick to my stomach throughout both these nights.

My common-law husband, Andrei was living separate and apart from me from November 1999 until April 2000. He returned in April 2000.

I knew he had an accident but I never knew the status of my common-law husband's driving privileges. When I would ask about the accident he would say, "no problem, it's ok". I took him at his word.

On May 7, 2000 I had just started a new business, Quizno's Classic Subs and I was working 15 to 19 hours per day 7 days a week. I was exhausted.

When the police arrested Andrei I was suffering the after effects of my sickness and overwork. My son called me from the scene to tell me that Andrei was arrested and that his license was suspended. I lost my temper and said some very dumb things to the policeman for which I sincerely apologize.

I am a law abiding, responsible person in all my dealings both business and personal. I believe that in the circumstances of my illness and exhaustion I acted out of character as I have a great deal of respect for the police and people in authority.

I exercised due diligence in asking Andrei about his accident. I took him at this word. This I regret and it will never happen again.

(Exhibit 1)

Tanya (Tatiana) Manevskaia testified that she leased the vehicle from Toyota Credit Canada Inc. She used the vehicle for her business which she commenced to operate on May 7, 2000. She is in a common law relationship with Andrei Balakai. She describes the relationship as "stormy". During the period November 1999 until May 2000, Manevskaia and Balakai lived apart. Manevskaia, at the time of the vehicle's impoundment, was again living with Balakai as well as her seventeen year old son and a two year old son whose father is Balakai.

The impounded vehicle is owned by Toyota Credit Canada Inc. which leased the vehicle to Manevskaia in December 1999 on a four year lease. Manevskaia stated she was ill with a viral infection when Balakai used the vehicle to take her 17 year old son to the bus station on the morning of May 17, 2000. Manevskaia received a telephone call from her son who told her that the police had stopped Balakai when driving the vehicle and had arrested him. Manevskaia proceeded to the scene and spoke with the arresting officer. The vehicle was impounded by the police.

Manevskaia further stated that Balakai does not always tell her the truth; that Balakai had driven her seventeen year old son in the vehicle "at least on one occasion" during the week of the vehicle's impoundment.

Under cross-examination, Manevskaia stated that she was aware that Balakai had been, prior to the impoundment, involved in an accident and that liquor was involved in that accident. Subsequent to the accident she asked him about the accident and was told by him that "the Ministry" had given him permission to drive although the "Court had not yet made a decision". She also stated that she was aware Balakai did not drive from February 1999 after the above accident took place and had been driven by his partner. Manevskaia stated that Balakai "had not been forthcoming regarding the accident". However, he told her it was "ok for him to drive" and she believed him. She never asked to see his driver's licence and did not tell Balakai he could not drive the vehicle.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment was Andrei Balakai who had been convicted of the offence of impaired driving causing bodily harm under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of Balakai was then suspended until May 19, 2001.
2. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Toyota Credit Canada Inc. as owner;
3. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Andrei Balakai;
4. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle for 180 days dated May 21, 2000;
5. Copy of Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles dated May 8, 1999 to impound a 1992 Toyota motor vehicle for 45 days which vehicle at the time of impoundment was owned by Toyota Credit Canada Inc.;
6. Copy of Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles dated September 1, 1999 to impound 1998 Lexus GS4 motor vehicle for 90 days which vehicle at time of impoundment was owned by Toyota Credit Canada Inc.;
7. Affidavit of Detective Constable J. Mark Collins dated June 1, 2000;
8. Tatiana Manevskaia's notice of appeal to the impoundment order of the vehicle.
9. Registrar's impoundment order relating to the vehicle dated May 21, 2000.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;

- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Facts Found Proven

The following are the facts found by the Tribunal to have been proven:

1. Toyota Credit Canada Inc. is the owner of the motor vehicle that was subject to the impoundment order.
2. Toyota Credit Canada Inc. has had two other motor vehicles impounded in terms of section 50.2 of the Act.
3. Toyota Credit Canada Inc. leased the vehicle to Tatiana Manevskaja in December 1999 on a four year lease.
4. At the time of the impoundment order, the Applicant's motor vehicle was driven by Andrei Balakai.
5. At the time of the impoundment of the Applicant's motor vehicle, Andrei Balakai's driver's licence was under suspension due to a conviction under the Criminal Code of Canada for impaired driving causing bodily harm.
6. Toyota Credit Canada did not attempt to determine that Andrei Balakai's driver's licence was not under suspension at the time of the vehicle being impounded.

To succeed in this appeal, Applicant, Toyota Credit Canada Inc., must establish that it exercised due diligence to determine that Andrei Balakai's driver's licence was not under suspension at the time of the vehicle being impounded.

The Tribunal finds that Balakai was driving the vehicle at the time of its impoundment and that Balakai's driver's licence was then under suspension.

The Tribunal further finds that two motor vehicles owned by Toyota Credit Canada Inc., other than the vehicle under impoundment, had previously been impounded in terms of section 50.2 of the Act.

Section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act requires the owner of the vehicle, in this instance Toyota Credit Canada Inc., to exercise due diligence in attempting to determine that Balakai's driver's licence was not suspended at the time of the vehicle's impoundment. The Act is clear and unambiguous. It is the owner of the vehicle that is required to exercise due diligence. Manevskaia is not the owner of the vehicle. The Act does not include a lessee in the definition of an owner and the Tribunal does not agree with Manevskaia's Counsel's position that the owner of the vehicle by inference includes a lessee. The owner of the vehicle on the evidence before the Tribunal did not exercise due diligence.

For Manevskaia to contend that she exercised due diligence is not material to the issue. Even if Manevskaia's Counsel's position were correct (and the Tribunal reiterates that it believes it is not correct) the evidence clearly indicates that Manevskaia took no active steps to determine that Balakai's driver's licence was not under suspension particularly when she acknowledged that Balakai was not always honest with her, that she was aware he had been suspended from driving "and that after his accident his partner drove him".

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant has failed to establish that the owner of the vehicle, Toyota Credit Canada Inc., exercised due diligence as required by the Act.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

APPEARANCES: SANDRA QUADRINI

GEORGE MARAR, Applicant

DATE OF HEARING: June 13, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: June 15, 2000 Windsor

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on June 13, 2000, at Windsor, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended (AHTA@ or the AAct@).

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the AAct@).

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the ARegistrar@), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: George Marar (the AApplicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1995 Dodge Avenger, plate # AFSV 985 (the Avehicle")
Date of Appeal: May 31, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the ATribunal@) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on June 13, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #2) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

I wish to appeal on two different grounds. One of the grounds I wish to appeal on, is the fact that I, George Marar, the owner of the vehicle, exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended. I also wish to appeal on the ground that the loss of my motor vehicle, for the time of 45 days, will result in exceptional hardship to me and my family.

In support of due diligence, the Applicant stated that he had recently purchased a new vehicle and met Mr. Michael A. McCormick at a mutual friend's house. The Applicant knew Mr. McCormick from high school and offered to provide him a ride home. Mr. McCormick asked to drive the new vehicle and permission was given after Mr. McCormick responded "yes" to the direct question, "Do you have a driver's licence?" On the way home, the car owned by the Applicant and driven by Mr. McCormick was involved in a "no fault" accident while turning left into a private driveway. At that point, the police and fire trucks arrived and the vehicle was impounded.

In respect to Mr. McCormick's driver's licence status, the Applicant conceded that he made no inquiries whatsoever beyond the verbal question, "Do you have a driver's licence?" He relied on his high school friend to tell him that his licence was currently suspended under the Criminal Code of Canada for the offence of driving with more than 80 mg of alcohol in blood.

Regarding exceptional hardship, the Applicant emphasized the inconvenience caused by the loss of the motor vehicle as it was used by him to get back and forth to St. Clair College five days per week, attend his late afternoon and evening job at the Keg Restaurant four days per week, as well as allow him to do pizza deliveries with his own vehicle during weekends. He also provided transportation for his 24-year-old brother to and from his place of employment.

The Applicant stated that he earns about $1,020.00 per month in wages and tips from his Keg Restaurant job and approximately $300.00 every two weeks in wages and tips for pizza delivery. Since the motor vehicle's impoundment, he has been unable to deliver pizzas and questions whether he will get his job back after his car is released and repaired.

The Applicant further stated that he stays at home with his mother and father and helps out with groceries from time to time, but concedes that he has no rent commitment. However, he has responsibility for his car payment, telephone and internet service. Since the impoundment, he is spending about $240.00 per month on taxi cabs for school and work, particularly at times when school or work friends are unavailable.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Michael Andrew McCormick;

3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving with more than 80 mgs alcohol in blood under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until October 21, 2000.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of sections 50.2(3)(c) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
- (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
- (a) inconvenience to any person;
- (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
- (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
- (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
- (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
- (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
- (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
- (d) the impact of the loss,
- (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
- (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Facts Found Proven

The following are the facts found by the Tribunal to have been proven:

1. The Applicant is the owner of the motor vehicle that was the subject of the impoundment order.
2. At the time of the impoundment order, the Applicant's motor vehicle was driven by Michael A. McCormick.
3. At the time of the impoundment of the Applicant's motor vehicle, Michael A. McCormick's driver's licence was under suspension due to a conviction under the Criminal Code of Canada for driving with more than 80 mg of alcohol in blood.
4. The Applicant, since the impoundment, has relied on taxi cabs and friends to get to and from work and school. The Applicant conceded that the savings in gasoline costs alone were close to the dollars expended for taxi cabs.
5. The loss of income suffered by the Applicant due to the impoundment of his motor vehicle is about $150.00 weekly since he cannot perform the pizza delivery service. Nevertheless, car expenses have decreased as well.
6. The impoundment of the Applicant's motor vehicle has had no impact on the Applicant's brother as he has been given rides and has not lost any work days.

Onus of Proof

The onus of proof, based on the balance of probabilities, rests upon the Applicant.

Did the owner exercise due diligence respecting the driver's licence of the driver of the impounded vehicle?

The Applicant conceded that he did not inspect the driver's licence of Michael A. McCormick; he simply asked him, "Do you have a driver's licence?" and accepted his "yes" answer. He did not ask if the driver's licence was valid.

The Applicant's evidence is clear; to merely ask Mr. McCormick whether he had a driver's licence is not due diligence. Mr. Marar's actions were passive. He showed no measure of prudence in his inquiries that would normally be expected of a reasonable person in the circumstances.

The Tribunal therefore cannot conclude that the Applicant exercised due diligence within the meaning of Section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

Exceptional Hardship

The Applicant continues to attend school and his work at the Keg Restaurant due to the assistance of his friends and the use of taxi cabs on occasion. His brother has managed to obtain rides to and from work and has not lost any work days to date.

While the Applicant's overall income has been reduced by $150.00 weekly for pizza delivery services, his car expenses have also decreased.

The Applicant admits that he is coping with the loss of his vehicle during the impounded period. Nevertheless, he testified that he is greatly inconvenienced and frustrated with the entire process.

In consideration of all the evidence presented, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant has not demonstrated exceptional hardship as circumscribed by Section 22 of Ontario Regulation 632/98 amending Ontario Regulation 574 under the Highway Traffic Act.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

BORBOROS

GEORGE CHRISTOPHER BOBOROS

APPEAL FROM A PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR UNDER THE REAL ESTATE AND BUSINESS BROKERS ACT

TO REFUSE REGISTRATION

TRIBUNAL: DEREK ISRAEL, VICE-CHAIR, Presiding
TERENCE WARDROP, VICE-CHAIR

APPEARANCES: GEORGE CHRISTOPHER BOBOROS, representing himself
GEORGE DRAMETU, Counsel, representing the Registrar, Real Estate and Business Brokers Act

DATE OF
HEARING: JUNE 8, 2000 TORONTO

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is a hearing which arises from a written Notice of Proposal dated February 8, 2000 issued by the Registrar under the Real Estate and Business Brokers Act (the "Act") to refuse the registration of George Christopher Boboros (the "Applicant") as a salesperson under the provisions of the Act. This appeal was heard by the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal).

THE ISSUES:

The Registrar bases his Proposal to refuse the Applicant registration under Section 6(1)(b) of the Act, which reads as follows:

6(1) An Applicant is entitled to registration or renewal of registration by the Registrar except where,

.....

b) the past conduct of the Applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the Applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty;

In support of his Proposal to refuse registration the Registrar alleges that:

- 1) The Applicant was originally registered as a salesperson under the Act from September 6, 1994 to September 11, 1997.

- 2) The Applicant initially made application for registration as a salesperson on July 26, 1994.
- 3) In the July 26, 1994 application, the Applicant answered "No" to question number 6 in that application which reads as follows:

Have you ever been convicted or found guilty of an offence under any law or are any charges now pending? If yes, attach full particulars on a separate signed and dated statement.

NOTE: Where the applicant has been previously registered, list only those convictions which have occurred since the date of last filing.

- 4) On July 19, 1996 the Applicant applied to the Registrar for renewal of his registration as a salesperson and in so doing completed and signed an application. Question number 10 in that application read as follows:

Have you ever been found guilty or convicted of an offence under any law or are there any charges pending? This includes where a conditional discharge or an absolute discharge has been ordered:

NOTE: Where the applicant has been previously registered, list only those convictions, conditional discharges, absolute discharges or charges which have not been previously disclosed.

In answer to the above quoted question the Applicant answered "No".

- 5) The Applicant's registration terminated on September 11, 1997 and on April 13, 1999 the Applicant applied to the Registrar for registration as a salesperson. In the Applicant's aforementioned application, he answered "Yes" to question 10 in the Application. Question 10 reads as follows:

Have you ever been found guilty or convicted of an offence under any law or are there any charges pending? This includes where a conditional discharge or an absolute discharge has been ordered. If yes, attach full details on a separate signed and dated statement.

Attached to the September 11, 1999 application the Applicant disclosed in a written statement that there were three criminal charges against him, namely:

- a) Possession of Cocaine for the Purposes of Trafficking under Section 4(2) of the Narcotic Control Act (hereinafter referred to as "Cocaine Trafficking Possession")
- b) Possession of Stolen Property under Section 354(1) of the Criminal Code (hereinafter referred to as "Stolen Property Possession")
- c) Possession of Proceeds of Crime under Section 19.1 of the Narcotic Control Act (hereinafter referred to as "Proceeds of Crime Possession").

Applicant also stated in his written statement that the status of the above three charges was respectively as follows:

- a) found guilty on Aug. 98. Sentenced to two and 1/2 years incarceration. Verdict (Conviction) and Sentence currently under appeal
 - b) $500.00 fine
 - c) still pending
- 6) The status of the aforementioned three charges, as at April 13, 1999, was:
 - i) Between November 17, 1995 and February 26, 1996, the Applicant was charged.

- ii) On February 16, 1999 the Applicant pleaded guilty to the charge of Stolen Property Possession and was fined $500.00 which he paid.
 - iii) On August 17, 1998 the Applicant was convicted by a jury of the charge of Cocaine Trafficking Possession and was sentenced to 30 months incarceration which conviction and sentence the Applicant appealed.
 - iv) The charge against the Applicant in respect of Proceeds of Crime Possession was still pending before Court.
- 7) In response to the Registrar's request to the Ontario Provincial Police for a CPIC report, the Registrar received confirmation of the charges and disposition thereof in relation to the Stolen Property Possession and the Cocaine Trafficking Possession.
- 8) At the request of the Registrar, the Applicant furnished to the Registrar a copy of a pre-sentence report by the Applicants' Parole Officer relative to the Cocaine Trafficking Possession charge. The Applicant also furnished the Registrar with copies of character testimonials.
- 9) The Applicant, on August 11, 1999, forwarded to the Registrar a document titled "clearance certificate" from the Niagara Police as well as a transcript of the proceedings at the sentencing hearing of the Applicant on the charge of Cocaine Trafficking Possession.
- The "clearance certificate" revealed that on September 26, 1979 the Applicant had been convicted on two counts of possession of Narcotics and was sentenced to a $100.00 fine and in default of payment to 10 days imprisonment of each charge.
- 10) On November 24, 1999 the Applicants' Solicitor advised the Registrar that the Applicant had;
- i) withdrawn his appeal to his conviction and sentence relative to the Cocaine Trafficking Possession charge and had surrendered himself into custody to serve the 30 month term of imprisonment and;
 - ii) in regard to the charge of Proceeds of Crime Possession plead guilty and was fined $100,000.00.
- 11) The fine of $100,000.000 had been paid by the Applicant.

THE EVIDENCE:

The evidence in this matter consisted of both documentary and oral evidence.

Two persons testified at the hearing for the Registrar. They were Winnie Yap and Brian Schlotzhauzer.

Ms. Yap stated that she is employed as a registration officer at the offices of the Real Estate Council of Ontario, a regulatory body that administers the Act. Her duties include the reviewing of applications filed by Applicants or Registrants with the Registrar, the reviewing of such applications and the gathering of information to enable full consideration of an application. In her aforesaid capacity she dealt with the Applicant's April 13, 1999 application.

During her review of the Applicant's application of April 13, 1999, Ms. Yap became aware of Applicant's answer to question 10 in which he had disclosed the fact that he had been charged and found guilty in respect of certain criminal charges. The charges related to possession of cocaine, possession of proceeds of a crime and possession of stolen property. All these charges had been laid between November 17, 1995 and February 26, 1996. Despite the laying of these charges the Applicant had not disclosed these charges in his July 19, 1996 application for renewal of registration. Only when the Applicant applied for registration on April 13, 1999 did he for the first time disclose these charges.

Furthermore, the two entirely separate charges and subsequent convictions on those two charges on September 26, 1979 of possession of narcotics had not been disclosed by the Applicant to the Registrar in any of the Applicant's applications for registration or renewal of registration. The Registrar was only made aware of those two charges and convictions in August 1999 when the Registrar was furnished with the Niagara Police "clearance certificate" disclosing those charges and convictions.

Ms. Yap referred to the Probation & Parole Officers pre-sentence report of the Applicant (Exhibit 1, Tab 8). This report of October 13, 1998 discloses that the Applicant held, for the most part, full time employment since 1971, was a devoted father and concerned and involved parent, and has a close relationship with his wife. The judge when passing sentence on the Applicant on the charge of possession of cocaine for the purposes of Trafficking referred to this pre-sentence report as being a very favourable one. However, the judge in his judgment found the offence with which the Applicant had been charged to be a very serious offence that "requires a serious penalty" (Exhibit 1, Tab 10). The Judge further stated in his judgment;

I point to the fact that there was some four or more kilos of cocaine involved over a period of time.

Ms. Yap also made reference in her testimony to having received certain testimonials from the Applicant (Exhibit 1, Tab 8). These testimonials spoke positively as to the character of the Applicant.

Ms. Yap further testified that after receiving and reviewing all the documentation from various sources, including the Applicant, the Registrar decided to proceed with the proposal upon which this appeal is founded.

The testimony of Brian Schlotzhauzer followed that of Ms. Yap. Schlotzhauzer testified that he is the Assistant Registrar under the Act and is the manager of registrations. His duties include the considering and reviewing all applications for registration or renewal that are brought to his attention by his staff.

All applicants, beyond the requirement of attaining certain academic standards, must meet the requirements of Section 6(1) of the Act. In reviewing an application, the Registrar looks for financial responsibility, honesty and integrity on the part of an Applicant. A review encompasses an Applicant's history including, a consideration of any criminal activity and patterns that may emerge from the activities of an Applicant. The Registrar looks at honesty and integrity generally and does not confine his review solely to an Applicant's real estate related dealings. Of importance in considering an Applicant's honesty and integrity, the Registrar places importance on how an Applicant acts in his or her dealings with the office of the Registrar.

Schlotzhauzer was familiar with the Applicant's application for registration and the Registrar's proposal to refuse registration of the Applicant. The concerns of the Registrar centred around the convictions of the Applicant, the recent nature of such convictions, the non disclosure by the Applicant of his 1979 convictions, the seriousness of all the charges and convictions as well as the nature of the offences. The charges and convictions reflect directly on the honesty and integrity of the Applicant while the non disclosure to the Registrar of the charges and convictions in the Applicant's various applications gives the Registrar concern as to how honest and forthright the Applicant will be in his dealings with the public when, as evidenced by his non disclosure, he is not honest in his dealings with the Registrar.

Schlotzhauzer stated that the various testimonials submitted by the Applicant had been considered in the overall assessment of the Applicant. However, what ultimately is of paramount concern to the Registrar is the protection of the consumer which is the prime role of the Registrar.

On a general consideration of all factors, Schlotzhauzer was of the opinion that the actions of the Applicant reflected a lack of honesty and integrity and that this required the Registrar to refuse Applicant's application for registration.

The sole witness for the Applicant was the Applicant himself. The Applicant conceded that he was charged with the four offences mentioned in the Registrar's proposal and that he was convicted as charged. He also conceded that he did not disclose any charges and convictions in his July 26, 1994 application nor in his July 19, 1996 application and that in both those applications he answered "No" to questions 6 and 10 respectively. The Applicant also stated that he did not disclose in any of his applications that he had been convicted of a criminal offence in 1979.

The Applicant stated that he did not disclose the 1979 conviction as he had been granted a pardon in 1992 under the Criminal Records Act and believed that this pardon absolved him from disclosing that conviction.

As to the applications for registration of July 26, 1994 and July 19, 1996, the Applicant conceded that in answering questions 6 and 10 respectively with "No" such answers were not correct. He stated that the "outstanding charges" against him did not enter his mind when he signed the application forms of July 1994 and July 1996. He also stated that he relied on a secretary at the real estate firm where he was working to complete the answers posed in those applications. He maintains that he did not intend to mislead the Registrar by not disclosing the charges and convictions and that the non disclosure resulted from his inattention to fully reading the questions in the application forms.

The Applicant stated that he is genuinely remorseful of what had occurred, that what had occurred in the past would not reoccur, and that he wished to be given an opportunity to prove his sincerity and not have his registration denied.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The following are the facts that the Tribunal finds to have been proven.

- 1) The Applicant was convicted on September 26, 1979 on two counts of possession of narcotics and was fined $100.00 on each count. The Applicant paid the fine.
- 2) The Applicant did not disclose to the Registrar the aforementioned conviction in any application he made for registration as a salesperson under the Act or in any application for renewal of registration.
- 3) On November 17, 1995 the Applicant was charged with:
 - i) Cocaine Trafficking Possession
 - ii) Stolen Property Possession
 - iii) Proceeds of Crime Possession
- 4) On the charge of Cocaine Trafficking Possession the Applicant was, in August 1998 found guilty and on March 30, 1999 was sentenced to 30 months in prison. The Applicant withdrew his appeal to this conviction and has completed serving six months in jail in relation to this conviction and sentence.
- 5) On the charge of Stolen Property Possession the Applicant was found guilty and on February 16, 1999 was fined the sum of $500.00 which sum he has paid.
- 6) On the charge of Proceeds of Crime Possession the Applicant pleaded guilty on November 15, 1999 and was sentenced to a fine of $100,000.00 which fine has been paid by the Applicant.
- 7) The Applicant in his application for registration as a salesperson dated July 26, 1994 and his renewal application dated July 19, 1996 he failed to disclose any charges brought against him as more fully referred to in paragraphs 3(i), (ii) and (iii) above.
- 8) The Applicant was first registered as a salesperson under the Act on September 6, 1994.

DECISION AND REASONS:

The onus of proof falls upon the Registrar to prove that the past conduct of the Applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the Applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty.

This Tribunal has the power in terms of s.7(4) of the Act to direct the Registrar to refrain from carrying out his Proposal. Southey J. in the matter of the decision of Richard G. Brenner, 1983 Divisional Court, CRAT 1971-1989 SCO Decisions and Orders p.58 held that the Tribunal should only refuse to carry out the Registrar's Proposal if it believes the Registrar was in error in his conclusion. Unless the Tribunal cannot find that the past conduct of the Applicant affords reasonable grounds for the belief that the Applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty, the Tribunal should not order the Registrar to refrain from carrying out his Proposal.

The Registrar relies on a number of grounds in support of his Proposal to refuse registration.

The first ground relates to non disclosure by the Applicant of prior criminal charges and convictions. The second ground relates to the actual criminal convictions of the Applicant. Both these grounds, according to the Registrar, demonstrate that the past conduct of the Applicant affords reasonable grounds for the Registrar's belief that the Applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty.

An examination of both grounds follows.

The Applicant has been found guilty of four separate criminal charges. The first conviction was in 1979 and the subsequent charges arose in 1995 with convictions being registered in 1999. The Applicant conceded that he has been found guilty on all four charges.

The charge against the Applicant that related to Cocaine Trafficking Possession was, as the Judge stated when sentencing the Applicant to 30 months in a penitentiary, "a very serious offence and requires a serious penalty" as "there was some four or more kilos of cocaine involved over a period of time". The sentence of the court in regard to this conviction is an indication of the serious nature of the charge and conviction (Exhibit 1, Tab 11).

On the further charge of Proceeds of Crime Possession, to which the Applicant pleaded guilty, the fine of $100,000.00 is also indicative of the nature and magnitude of the charges.

The remaining two convictions, while not necessarily of the same magnitude of the aforesaid two charges and convictions, do nevertheless indicate to the Tribunal that when all charges and convictions are considered the Applicant was involved in illegal activities over some period of time and that the last three convictions are recent in time.

The nature of the offences with which the Applicant was charged and subsequently convicted clearly involve dishonesty and breach of the law.

While the four convictions do not directly relate to the Applicant's conduct as a real estate salesman, the convictions do relate to the Applicant's overall honesty and integrity, his unwillingness to accept that he must conduct himself within the bounds of a lawful society and abide by the rule of law. The Applicant has shown in the recent past a lack of honesty and integrity in his personal life and affairs. Integrity and honesty are at all times integral to both one's personal and business affairs and cannot be separated.

The totality of the Applicant's past conduct must be considered. This was stated in Chopra (1993) CRAT 514. It was further stated in that decision that further factors may be considered as significant such as "the nature of the Applicant's fraud conviction and the circumstances leading to it" and the "subsequent failure on 4 occasions to disclose the conviction". The cumulative effect of the Applicant's past conduct, much of it recent, does not imbue confidence that his future conduct will be different. See Stuart A. Montgomery (1998) CRAT at page 258 wherein it was stated:

It should be noted that it is the past conduct of the Applicant which must be considered, not his present intent, no matter how sincere that intent. This Tribunal had before it conduct of less than one year to override criminal conduct of 16 years' duration. This Tribunal finds that this is insufficient time for it to determine in the interest of the Ontario public that it should overrule the decision of the Registrar in refusing registration of the Applicant.

The Tribunal does not accept the Applicant's explanation for his failure to disclose his convictions to the Registrar. The Tribunal had the opportunity to observe the Applicant during the hearing and formed the opinion that he was both intelligent and astute. Having regard to these observations, the Tribunal believes that a trained real estate salesperson such as the Applicant would be well aware of the obvious necessity of reading a document of such importance as an application form with care and attention before signing such document.

Non disclosure of pending charges as well as previous convictions is a serious matter. The Registrar cannot be expected to check the veracity of answers in each and every completed application form and is entitled to rely upon the truth and correctness of answers given by Applicants. The information given by an Applicant in the application forms the foundation upon which the Registrar is entitled to rely in the assessment of the worthiness or otherwise of an Applicant to be admitted to the ranks of salespersons under the Act. The Registrar is entitled in the discharge of his duties and his obligations to consumers to receive full and true disclosure by all Applicants. The Registrar did not receive such disclosure from the Applicant.

The Tribunal has taken into account the various testimonials placed before it by the Applicant. In and of themselves, such testimonials neither address the subject of honesty and integrity nor influence the Tribunal in concluding that the Registrar was wrong in his conclusion.

The Tribunal believes that the past conduct of the Applicant, considered in its totality, supports the Registrar in his decision to deny the Applicant registration.

DECISION:

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in it by Section 9(4) of the Real Estate and Business Brokers Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar to carry out his Proposal.

DATE OF HEARING: June 9, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: June 19, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on June 9, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: John Goode (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1996 Chev Cavalier, Plate # AEEE 212 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: May 24, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time it was being driven as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on June 9, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

A request was made by the Respondent to allow the Applicant to also make an appeal on the grounds of "exceptional hardship". She referred to the Applicant's written submission wherein he refers to a 'disability'. The Tribunal allowed the request.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit 1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made?

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

ON MAY 18, 2000 METRO POLICE INFORMED ME [THE DRIVER] WAS ARRESTED FOR DRIVING WITH OUT A LICENCE, [THE DRIVER] STOLED MY CAR KEYS AS I SLEPT, AND IN NO WAY WHAT SO EVER DID I ALLOW [THE DRIVER] TO TAKE MY CAR, AS OF MAY 19, 2000 [THE DRIVER] NO LONGER LIVES AT MY RESIDENCES, AS I HAVE A DISABILITY, IT IS IMPORTANT THAT I HAVE MY CAR AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. THANK YOU

The Applicant is a single father of three children ages 16, 19 and 21. He is employed in the customer service department of a company, which manufactures electronic circuit boards. His hours of employment are 12 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The 16 year old driver has been living with the Applicant since late February 2000, after the child's first court date for the offence and suspension of driving under the influence. The Applicant was aware of this history.

In the early hours of the morning on May 18, 2000, the driver without consent or permission took the Applicant's vehicle who was unaware that the vehicle had been taken. The police advised him by telephone at approximately 6 a.m. that his vehicle was being impounded, and the driver had been arrested for driving while disqualified and also ability impaired. The Applicant was devastated.

In his testimony, the only house rule the Applicant imposed on the driver was a curfew. He, at no point, verbally stated to the driver that not to operate his vehicle. The Applicant felt that that was not an issue – it was understood.

No measures were taken to deny access to the car keys before this recent incident. The keys were usually kept in his jacket pocket in the closet, which is a common area. Since the impoundment, the Applicant has enforced a 10 p.m. curfew, has hidden the keys to the vehicle as well as verbally outlined the rules regarding his vehicle and how the driver does not enjoy a colour of right once it is released from impound.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner (Exhibits 2 & 3);
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, the identity of the driver of the vehicle at the time it was detained (Exhibits 2 & 3);
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle (Exhibits 2 & 3);
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving or having care or control of a motor vehicle while ability impaired under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until February 25, 2002 (Exhibits 2 & 3).

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

- (3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:
 - 1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
 - 2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
 - 3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
 - (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at

- the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(a) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(a) alleging that the vehicle was stolen, the meaning of “stolen” is not provided in The Highway Traffic Act.

The Shorter Oxford Dictionary, provides the definition of “stolen” as follows:

Stolen: 1. Obtained by theft. 2. Accomplished or enjoyed by stealth; secret. 3. Of time: obtained by contrivance

Theft: 1. The action of a thief; the felonious taking away of the personal goods of another; larceny 2. That which is or has been stolen; the proceeds of thieving.

Black's Law Dictionary (Sixth edition), page 1419-1420 provides the definition of “stolen” as follows:

Stolen: Acquired, or possessed, as a result of some wrongful or dishonest act or taking, whereby a person willfully obtains or retains possession of property which belongs to another, without or beyond any permission given, and with the intent to deprive the owner of the benefit of ownership (or possession) permanently.

The word “stolen” as used in the crime of interstate transpiration of stolen motor vehicles includes all wrongful and dishonest taking of motor vehicles with the intent to deprive the owner of the rights and benefits of ownership, regardless of whether theft constitutes common-law larceny; and felonious taking may be effected by diverse means known to both common and statutory law, such as larceny, embezzlement, false pretenses, larceny by trick and other types of wrongful acquisition. Lake v. U.S., Colo, 338F.2d 787,788. It is not necessary that the taking of the vehicle be unlawful. Even if possession of the vehicle is lawfully acquired, the vehicle will be deemed “stolen” if the defendant thereafter forms the intent to deprive the owner of the rights and benefits of ownership, and converts the vehicle to his own use. United States v. Turley, 352 U.S. 407, 417, 77 S.Ct. 397, 402. 1 L.Ed.2d 430.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines “exceptional hardship” as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

- (4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22
- (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
 - (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
 - (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
 - (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Appeal - Stolen:

The first issue to be considered in this appeal is whether the motor vehicle was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made.

The burden of proof is on the Applicant to establish whether the impounded vehicle was, in fact, stolen.

The Tribunal found that the driver took the Applicant's vehicle without the Applicant's prior knowledge or consent. However, there is no evidence before the Tribunal that the actions on the part of the driver constituted theft of the vehicle.

The Applicant testified that he did not lay charges against the driver since the police were charging the driver with other things, and he did not believe the driver intended to deprive him of the benefit of ownership (or possession) permanently.

Therefore, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant has insufficient grounds for appeal under section 50.3(3)(a).

Appeal - Exceptional Hardship:

The Applicant has also requested an appeal on the grounds of "exceptional hardship" as per section 50.2(3)(d). Section 22 of Regulation 632/98 is very specific, in that it provides the Tribunal with the criteria the Applicant must meet to determine if in fact "exceptional hardship" will result from the impoundment. The Applicant in this case has argued that the impoundment will result in hardships as described by section 22(2). In order for his claims to be considered under section 22(2), he must have demonstrated that all of section 22(3) has been met. Furthermore, section 22(4) of the Regulation provides the criteria for demonstrating that every reasonable option has been considered for an alternative vehicle.

The Applicant testified that he has taken public transport to and from work and on occasion, a taxi.

The Applicant suffers from arthritis in the heel of one foot, which his doctor has prescribed some medication for this condition. He finds it difficult to stand and sit for a long period of time, but the Applicant has been able to carry out his duties at work. He has not missed any time from work because of the impoundment or any financial loss.

With regard to the Applicant's second ground of appeal that the impoundment will result in exceptional hardship, the Applicant has not established that he has or will suffer exceptional hardship as defined by Ontario Regulation 632/989, subsection 22.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: June 19, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: June 21, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on June 19, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the “Registrar”), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Lucia Attila (the “Applicant”)
Motor Vehicle: 1992 Honda UCD, plate # ACXD 530 (the “vehicle”)
Date of Appeal: June 2, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the “Tribunal”) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3)(d) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on April 26, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

The Respondent submitted a set of original certified documents, copies of which had been previously filed with the Tribunal.

The documents tendered by the Applicant and the Respondent were entered into evidence as exhibits with the consent of both parties

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant’s request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant’s appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar’s order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant’s evidence follows.

Applicant’s written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

I Lucia Attila need the car back as soon as possible. I don’t have the money to pay and I personally need the car to go to work.

The Applicant testified that she needs her vehicle to get to her place of employment, to transport groceries and for other house hold chores. The Applicant's two sons also rely on the vehicle for occasional transportation to their own jobs. They were on their way to work when the vehicle was impounded. However at the time of hearing, both sons were unemployed. She stated that she is the sole income provider in her house, and she is unable to afford the cost of the impoundment fee.

Since her vehicle became impounded, the Applicant has been getting to work using public transit, and she has managed to obtain alternative transportation by getting rides from her father and co-workers. She has not missed any work since her vehicle was impounded, and she stated that the loss of the vehicle does not constitute a threat to any person's health or safety.

The Applicant's son, Raffaele Attila, who was the driver of the vehicle at the time of the impoundment whose driver's licence was then under suspension, testified that he and his brother were taking the vehicle to work the day it was impounded. Mr. Attila stated that he was asked by his brother to test drive the vehicle by backing it out of the drive way and parking it on the street in order to diagnose a sound coming from the rear suspension. Raffaele Attila's brother was then to take control of the vehicle and drive it to work that day.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Raffaele Attila;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence driving with more than 80 mgs. alcohol in blood under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until April 11, 2001.

Mr. Biel, representative of the Registrar, submitted the sworn affidavit of Ontario Provincial Police Constable Birigitte Brosseau as a response to evidence arising out of the testimony of Mr. Raffaele Attila. This document was entered into evidence with the consent of both parties as exhibit # 5.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

- (3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:
 1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
 2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
 3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
 - (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines “exceptional hardship” as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

(h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22
- (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
 - (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
 - (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;

- (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Should the Board set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

The Applicant has appealed on the grounds of exceptional hardship, in accordance with section 50.2(3)(d) of the Act. Section 22 of Regulation 632/98 is very specific, in that it provides the Tribunal with the specific criteria the Applicant must meet to determine if exceptional hardship under the Act will result from the impoundment.

The Tribunal is precluded from considering other factors not arising from or directly related to the impoundment itself. This includes any fees associated with the impoundment and the subsequent release of the vehicle.

In order for the Applicant's claims to be considered under section 22(2)(a), (b), and (c), she must have demonstrated that all of section 22(3) has been met. Furthermore, section 22(4) of the Regulation provides that the Applicant demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered for an alternative to the vehicle. The Applicant has made no specific claims of exceptional hardship as described by section 22(1)(a) or (b).

The Applicant has not presented the Tribunal with any evidence that would demonstrate that every reasonable alternative option has been considered and inquired into as set out in section 22(4) of the Regulation. Furthermore no attempt was made by the Applicant to demonstrate to the Tribunal that no other alternatives to the impounded vehicle existed. In fact, the Applicant's testimony was that she has made use of alternatives to the impounded vehicle, including public transit, rides with her father and co-workers.

Though inconvenienced, the Applicant has not suffered any loss of employment as a result of the impoundment. Furthermore, the Applicant has not presented the Tribunal with any evidence that would indicate that this loss of the vehicle would be immediate significant and lasting as set out in section 22(3)(b) of the Regulation.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant has failed to meet the onus under the section 22(3) and 22(4) of the Regulation, and is therefore precluded from considering the Applicant's claim of exceptional hardship under section 22(2) of the Regulation.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

DATE OF HEARING: May 25, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal by David and Shelley Thorne (the "Applicants") to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) from a decision of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program") contained in a letter dated January 11, 2000. The letter states that the Applicants' claim for Warranty Coverage failed in that their claim does not fall within the provisions of the Ontario New Home Warranties Act, R.S.O. 1990, C 31 (the "Act").

The Agreement of Purchase and Sale under which the house was to be built obliged the purchaser to do certain work apart from that of the Contractor, T.D.C. General Homes Construction Inc ("T.D.C."), the Added Party, not appearing. The amount and nature of the work to have been carried out by the purchaser, in the opinion of the Program, not only took T.D.C. outside of the definition of a "builder" but also took the subject house outside of the definition of "home" in Section 1 of the Act. T.D.C. not being a builder under the Act, the Act does not apply to work and materials provided by T.D.C., and therefore any defects in the work of T.D.C. are not warranted under the Act by the Program.

The Applicants were duly notified by the Program in a letter dated October 8, 1999, and later confirmed by the decision letter of January 11, 2000, that their claim for compensation for the defects caused by T.D.C. in the construction of their home was denied and that the enrolment of their property under the Program was cancelled. The Program thence proceeded to reimburse T.D.C. the enrollment fee paid by T.D.C. and charged by T.D.C. to the Applicants.

The work to be completed by the Applicants is contained in Appendix B of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale:

- (a) Supply and apply complete primer and paint to house including stain for railings.
- (b) Supply and install all doors and trim and casing.
- (c) Supply and install all hardware for doors (door knobs and hinges).
- (d) Purchaser must sand down all floor joists before installing floor-finishing materials.
- (e) Supply and install all flooring type finishing material in entire house.
- (f) Supply and install permanent interior railing.
- (g) Supply and install kitchen and bath cabinets and counter tops.
- (h) Supply and install ceramic accessories in bath.
- (i) Supply and install mirror in bathroom.
- (j) Purchaser to supply all light fixtures (see Appendix A)

FACTS:

In April 1999 the Applicants notified the Brampton Regional office of the Program of defects in the construction of their home. Their attempts to have the defects remedied by T.D.C. had failed. Notification was sent by the Program to both the Applicants and T.D.C. as to the required steps to have the matter resolved. No satisfactory resolution was reached between the Applicants and T.D.C., and the Applicants invoked the Conciliation procedure under the Act.

The Applicants listed the following defects on their Conciliation Request Form:

- (a) two cracks in basement foundation
- (b) missing screen
- (c) eaves have no grade
- (d) cold air returns destroyed
- (e) weather stripping wrecked
- (f) door to cold storage missing

A conciliation appointment was arranged for August 13, 1999; both the Applicants and T.D.C. were notified. Mr. Johnston from the Program attended at the property and carried out his inspection in the presence of Mr. Thorne. T.D.C. did not attend. A conciliation report was issued by the Program on August 16, 1999, finding the above-noted items a, b, d and f, warranted under the Act and items (c) and (e) were found to have "no defects" or "otherwise "normal wear and tear".

Mr. Johnston did not have Appendix B to the contract between the Applicants and T.D.C. during his inspection of the Applicant's home on August 13, 1999. There was some discussion with regard to the work on the home carried out by Mr. Thorne. The Tribunal is satisfied that there was no attempt by Mr. Thorne to conceal any of his participation in the additional work to the house, and no such allegation is put forth by the Program.

The Program notified T.D.C. by letter dated August 17, 1999 outlining the repair work for which it was responsible. The letter was ignored by T.D.C. and on September 2, 1999 a Final Notice informing T.D.C. that if there was no resolution of the matter by September 16, 1999, repair work would proceed for which T.D.C. would be invoiced. This warning was similarly ignored by T.D.C., and by letter of September 21, 1999 Mr. Johnston informed T.D.C. of the Program's intention of proceeding with the work.

Subsequent to these warnings, Mr. Johnston met with the principal of T.D.C., Mr. DiCroce at some time between September 21, 1999 and October 8, 1999, without the Applicants being present. They discussed the respective degrees of work done by T.D.C. and Mr. Thorne. Despite the fact that T.D.C. had enrolled the home with the Program in the first place, Mr. DiCroce seems to have convinced Mr. Johnston that the not only should enrolment of the home be cancelled and the enrolment fee be reimbursed to T.D.C., but also this cancellation of the enrolment would relieve T.D.C. of any obligation to repair, as its work would no longer be warranted by the Program. Further to their discussions, T.D.C. sent a copy of Appendix B to Mr. Johnston.

By letter of October 8, 1999 the Program informed the Applicants that their enrolment had been cancelled and that the defects previously deemed warranted in Mr. Johnston's Conciliation Report could no longer be the subject of a claim under the Act. The enrolment fee, a responsibility of the purchaser under the Agreement of Purchase and sale, was refunded directly to T.D.C. without any opportunity to the Applicants to object to this unilateral procedure.

The work which was the obligation of T.D.C. is set forth in Appendix A of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale between the Applicants and T.D.C. This work included a seeded lawn, driveway, the wiring, drywall, plumbing, furnace and hot water, sinks, tubs, and toilets. It was a condition of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale that the purchaser (the Applicants) not enter the premises to do any of their work prior to the delivery of the Certificate of Completion and Possession by T.D.C., including the installation by T.D.C. of temporary railings to permit occupancy.

It is clear from the evidence that what was handed over to the Thornes by T.D.C. on closing was a functioning house in the everyday sense of the word. Whether this fact is sufficient to establish that T.D.C. was a "builder" under the Act so that the work and materials supplied by T.D.C. are covered by the warranty under the Act became the question for the Tribunal.

ISSUES:

The issues before the Tribunal in this case are:

- 1) Is T.D.C. a builder and is the subject house a home within the meaning of the Act?
- 2) If so, have the Applicants established that their claims are covered by the warranties provided in the Act?

THE LAW:

The Act provides the following definitions of "builder", "home", and "vendor" under Section 1 of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act:

"builder" means a person who undertakes the performance of all the work and supply of all the materials necessary to construct a completed home whether for the purpose of sale by the person or under a contract with a vendor or owner; ("constructeur")

"home" means,

- (a) a self-contained one-family dwelling, detached or attached to one or more others by common wall,
- (b) a building composed of more than one and not more than two self-contained, one-family dwellings under one ownership,
- (c) a condominium dwelling unit, including the common elements, or
- (d) any other dwelling of a class prescribed by the regulations as a home to which this Act applies,

and includes any structure or appurtenance used in conjunction therewith, but does not include a dwelling built and sold for occupancy for temporary periods or for seasonal purposes; (logement")

"vendor" means a person who sells on his, her or its own behalf a home not previously occupied to an owner and includes a builder who constructs a home under a contract with the owner; ("vendeur")

Section 14 of the Act provides for compensation as follows:

14(1) Where,

- a) a person who has entered into a contract with a vendor for the provision of a home has a cause of action in damages against the vendor for financial loss resulting from the bankruptcy of the vendor or the vendor's failure to perform the contract;
- b) an owner has a cause of action against a vendor for damages resulting from a breach of warranty; or
- c) the owner suffers damage because of a major structural defect as defined in the regulations for the purposes of section 13, and the claim is made within four years after the warranty expires or such longer time under such conditions as are prescribed, the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damage subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulations.

- (2) In assessing damages, the Corporation shall take into consideration any benefit, compensation or indemnity payable to the person or owner from any source.
- (3) The Corporation may perform or arrange for the performance of any work in lieu of or in mitigation of damages claimed under subsection (1).

Section 13 of the Act provides for a number of warranties in subsection 13(1) and a number of exclusions in subsection 13(2) as follows:

13(1) Every vendor of a home warrants to the owner,

- a) that the home,
 - i) is constructed in a workmanlike manner and is free from defects in material,
 - ii) is fit for habitation, and

- iii) is constructed in accordance with the Ontario Building Code;
- b) that the home is free of major structural defects as defined by the regulations; and
- c) such other warranties as are prescribed by the regulation.

13(2) A warranty under subsection (1) does not apply in respect of,

- a) defects in materials, design and work supplied by the owner;
- b) secondary damage caused by defects, such as property damage and personal injury;
- c) normal wear and tear;
- d) normal shrinkage of materials caused by drying after construction;
- e) damage caused by dampness or condensation due to failure by the owner to maintain adequate ventilation;
- f) damage resulting from improper maintenance;
- g) alterations, deletions or additions made by the owner;
- h) subsidence of the land around the building or along utility lines, other than subsidence beneath the footings of the building;
- i) damage resulting from an act of God;
- j) damage caused by insects and rodents, except where construction is in contravention of the Ontario Building Code;
- k) damage caused by municipal services or other utilities;
- l) surface defects in work and materials specified and accepted in writing by the owner at the date of possession.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

In order to succeed in their appeal to have any defects in any workmanship and materials supplied T.D.C. fall under the warranty provisions of the Act, the onus is upon the Applicants to bring their claim within the terms of the Act. First, they must show that T.D.C. falls within the definition of "Builder" as provided for in Section 1, which provides the following definition:

"Builder" means a person who undertakes the performance of all the work and supply of all the material necessary to construct a completed home..."

A home is defined under the Act as follows:

"Home" means,

(a) a self-contained one-family dwelling, detached or attached to one or more others by common wall, ...

In the present case, T.D.C. was both the builder and the vendor of the home. As such, it is capable of giving the vendor warranty under section 13 as it falls within the definition of "vendor" provided for in Section 1:

"vendor"...includes a builder who constructs a home under a contract with the owner.

The Act also takes into account in such "vendor-builder" situations the common practice within the homebuilding industry of the "owner-purchaser" doing some of the work on the home. Section 13(2)(a) provides that among other exclusions to the vendor's warranty shall be:

"defects in material, design and work supplied by the owner".

To give effect to the legislation of allowing a homebuyer recovery from a builder and at the same time ensuring that warranty protection extends only to work and materials supplied by a builder under the Act, these sections of the Act must be reconciled.

The issue for determination therefore becomes whether T.D.C. delivered to Mr. Thorne a "completed home" as contemplated by Section 1 and therefore falls within the definition of "builder", or whether the work undertaken by Mr. Thorne takes the property in question outside of these definitions and therefore outside of the warranty provisions of the Act.

The position of the Program is that on the evidence the value of the contribution of Mr. Thorne was in the order of $25,000 being $12,000 for materials and doubling that amount to include his labour.

Mr. Thorne testified that the original deal struck with T.D.C. was $154,000 reduced to $143,000 to account for Mr. Thorne's anticipated contribution as provided for in Schedule "B". There was further testimony to the effect that T.D.C. purchased the land for $12,000 per acre but that the land is worth considerably more today. There was a suggestion that this figure is in the region of $50,000, but a suggestion is all this amount can remain as it is not substantiated by testimony from any witness having direct knowledge. In any event, the property dimensions in the Agreement of Purchase and sale (148ft by 221ft) amount to 32,000sq ft or about three-quarters of an acre. Any irregularities in the land may have reduced or enlarged the actual square footage, there is no evidence either way. It must be concluded that the value of the land compared to that of the house is problematic at best.

By the Program's reckoning, the cost of the land should be subtracted from the overall sale price and the value of labour and materials supplied by the purchaser applied to that figure. In the present case the Program set the value of the house at approximately $90,000, being $143,000 less $50,000. Then the Program applied the estimate of Mr. Thorne's contribution ($25,000) to the approximation of $90,000 and concluded that the resultant percentage took the house beyond the definition of "completed home". This result was based upon a calculation established by the Canadian Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) to determine which type of work done on any given house represents a particular percentage of completion. For example if there remains painting to be done this represents 5% of the cost of work and materials; interior doors 2% and so on.

The tally of the work and materials supplied by Mr. Thorne according to the Program amounted to over 20% of the total, sufficient in their view to remove the property from the definition of "completed home" under the Act. One difficulty with the CMHC "Percentage of Construction Completion" sheet is that the percentages listed total 91% not 100%. This does not invalidate the sheet as a guide but is raised to further point out the tenuous and rather arbitrary nature of the evidence as to value. It appears to the Tribunal that this difficulty would be present in many cases of this nature, a situation which appears to be born out by the cases cited in argument.

A most useful survey of the Act was provided by MacDonnell Prov.J in Ontario New Home Warranty Program v McPhail [1997] O.J. No. 4570. He was dealing with an appeal by the Program from an acquittal of a contractor for failure to enroll the home in the Program and pay the prescribed fee contrary to section 12 of the Act. The lower Court decided that the degree of participation by the contractor in the construction of the subject house was too low to allow the company to fit within the definition of "builder". Any charges laid against the company in that capacity under the Act therefore could not be sustained. The Program appealed on the basis that the lower Court had defined "builder" too narrowly. The Appeal was allowed and the acquittal set aside.

The Court reasoned on page 7 that when read together the definition of "builder" in section 1 and the exclusion of warranty in section 13(2)(a) "...the Act plainly contemplates that a home may be complete even though work and materials remain to be supplied by the owner." In the absence of a definition of "completed home" the Court looked at cases on point brought before the Tribunal and concluded on page 8 that:

"The approach of the Tribunal, it appears, is to focus not on whether the contractor undertook to perform all of the work and to supply all of the labour on a residential construction project but rather on whether what the contractor undertook to do would produce, in substance, a completed home."

One of the cases relied upon was John J Crate [1991] 22 CRAT 604. In Crate, as in the present case, the respective tasks of the vendor-builder and the purchaser were set out in schedules to the Agreement of Purchase and Sale. It also stipulated that the purchaser was not to enter the property unless accompanied by a representative of the vendor. Subsequently 25 of the items listed in the vendor's schedule were struck out, and a letter was given to the purchaser allowing him unaccompanied entry onto the property during construction. The Tribunal rendered its decision on page 608:

"The Tribunal was told at the hearing that the Program has a general rule of thumb to the effect that the undertaking of the builder must include the services-plumbing, heating, electrical, etc. In this case, the undertaking of Sun-Spec[the contractor] did not include those services and in looking at the total picture, the Tribunal must come to the conclusion that the contribution undertaken by the Applicant in this contract...was so extensive that Sun-Spec was not a builder who undertook all of the work and supplied all of the material to construct a completed home."

In the case of Webb [1994] CRAT 148, the Agreement of Purchase and Sale stipulated that the purchasers were to provide, among other things, all plumbing work including fixtures, all electrical work, and all heating and cooling systems. Again, the Tribunal accepted the rule of thumb that the undertaking of the builder must include plumbing, heating, and electrical work and materials and disallowed the appeal of the purchasers as against the vendor.

In Harris [1997] CRAT 166, the Tribunal similarly held that a purchaser's claim against the decision of the Program disallowing his claim must fail due to the nature and extent of the work excluded from the undertaking of the builder. That work, along with other items such as windows and exterior doors included heating, and sewer and water services. The Tribunal held that items excluded from a contractor's undertaking cannot include those that are "...essential to any home.", as these patently were.

Taken together, these cases appear to say that the undertaking of the construction of a "completed home" as contemplated under the definition of "builder" in section 1 means the delivery by the contractor for possession of a functioning house in the ordinary meaning of that term.

Common sense dictates that a "completed home" could not be absent heat, light, running water, exterior doors and windows, sewers, or connected electrical system. In short, the Act contemplates a dwelling that is reasonably, not barely habitable.

In the present case all of these essentials were part of the undertaking of T.D.C.. Mr. Thorne unquestionably undertook considerable additional work as listed in Schedule B, but this work cannot be considered necessary to the construction of a "completed home" in the sense the cases and common sense would dictate. As well, the Tribunal gives weight to the fact that the purchaser was barred from entry to the construction site until completion of the work by T.D.C. unlike the situation in Crate, above.

Finally, the Tribunal finds the approach of applying respective values to the work done by purchasers and contractors in these situations to arrive at a percentage of the construction cost above which the contractor ceases to be a "builder" too arbitrary and therefore unsatisfactory.

The evidence as to the cost to repair the defects caused by T.D.C. can be summarized as follows:

- (a) cracks in the basement walls (repaired by Mr. Thorne himself) $400.00
- (b) missing screens $200.00
- (c) repair cold air return $50.00
- (d) cold room door $160.00

The Program did not dispute that these monetary figures were accurate and that these repairs were warranted under the Act, if T.D.C. were found to be a builder under the Act.

DECISION:

Pursuant to the authority vested in it by Section 16(3) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Act, the Tribunal finds that T.D.C. is a builder under the Act in the circumstances of this case, that the defects claimed by the Applicants' respecting the work of the Added Party are warranted under Section 13, and Orders that:

- 1) the Program pay to the Applicants the amount of $410.00 being the cost of the remaining repairs;
- 2) such payment of $410.00 shall be made within 45 days of the date of the release of this Order; and
- 3) such payment of $410.00 shall be in full satisfaction of the Applicants' claims respecting the defects set out above as missing screens $200.00; repair cold air return $50.00; and cold room door $160.00.

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on June 12, 2000, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Tribunal released its Decision on June 13, 2000 with reasons to follow.

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant, by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of an oral hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated May 17, 2000, and was received by the Tribunal on May 24, 2000 together with the prescribed fee of $100.00.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

AI was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason.”

Preliminary Matters

There were no preliminary matters. The documents presented to the Tribunal were entered into evidence with the consent of both parties. The Registrar’s agent provided the true and certified copies of the driver’s record and Notice to Registrar. These documents were added to the documentation found in Exhibit # 3.

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Notice of Appeal-dated May 17, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 2 Copy of Notice to Registrar - dated April 27, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 3 MTO Submissions 13 pages, received June 1, 2000.

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act (HTA@) states:

50.1 (1) AA person whose driver’s licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

- (a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or

- (b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason”.

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Board may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1), (2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) Aa report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

- (a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;

- (b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;

- (c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver's licence under section 50.1 of the Act;

- (d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;

- (e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and

- (f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of specialty.

(2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.

(3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner.”

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

AA person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal”.

FACTS:

The Applicant, was affirmed and gave testimony. The Applicant testified that on April 27, 2000 at approximately 12:50 a.m., while driving a 1997 Nissan Pathfinder, he was stopped by York Regional Police. According to the Applicant, the reason for stopping his vehicle was that there was a Dealer plate affixed to the rear of the vehicle. The Dealer plate was recorded as 749 DFH. During this vehicle check, P.C. Officer # 1 asked the driver, who was identified as the Applicant, to produce a driver's licence, vehicle ownership and proof of insurance. According to the Applicant, the officer asked him if he had any alcohol to drink that evening. The Applicant stated that he had two beers. The Applicant was asked to exit the vehicle which he complied. According to the Applicant, he was handed the roadside screening device and asked to blow into the machine to provide a sample of his breath. The Applicant further stated that he was not read the demand for breath nor was he instructed upon the use of the roadside screening device. According to the Applicant, he attempted to provide a sample of his breath on four occasions. According to the Applicant, after the third attempt, P.C. Officer # 1 commented that "Asthmatics can give a sample". It was at this point that the Applicant indicated that he had a medical condition. P.C. Officer # 1 cautioned the driver about failure to provide a breath sample and that he would be arrested if he did not comply. A fourth attempt was made, however no sample was obtained. The Applicant was arrested, handcuffed and placed in the police cruiser. After he was processed, he was released on a form 9, promise to appear.

Under cross-examination, the Applicant stated that he had seen a specialist for his medical condition. This condition was described as severe allergies and asthma. However, no report was provided from the specialist indicating what tests were performed and the results of any tests. According to the Applicant, the specialist listened with a stethoscope to his chest and said he has asthma. The Applicant provided no corroborative report. The Applicant further stated that he did not have his medication with him when stopped by the police officer and did not seek medical attention once released from police custody.

The Applicant called his brother, Witness #1 to testify on his behalf. The witness was affirmed. The witness confirmed the events as previously told by the Applicant while on the stand. The witness was asked under cross-examination if he observed his brother having any problems breathing on the evening in question or at the time that the police requested a breath test. The witness stated that he did not see his brother having difficulty breathing but stated that his brother has allergies and asthma.

The Respondent called to the stand, P.C. Officer # 1. The officer was sworn and gave the following evidence. He stated that in the early morning on April 27, 2000, he was on duty in a marked York Regional police cruiser. He observed a white Nissan Pathfinder exiting the parking lot of Father's Bar and Grill. What drew the officer's attention to this particular vehicle was the fact that there was no front licence plate. Given the area and lateness of the hour, he decided to institute a routine traffic spot check to ascertain if the vehicle was stolen. P.C. Officer # 1 testified that there was a dealer plate on the rear of the vehicle. The driver was identified as the Applicant. The Applicant was cooperative with the officer. P.C. Officer # 1 also testified that when he was speaking with the driver, he detected an odour of alcohol emanating from the vehicle. The officer asked the driver if he had anything of an alcoholic nature to drink that evening. The driver replied that he had two beers. The officer then requested that the driver provide a roadside breath test. According to the officer, he was explaining how to perform the test. At the same time as he was trying to explain the procedure, a male, unknown to the officer was attempting to get close to the vehicles. This individual was later identified as the Applicant's brother, Witness #1. According to the officer, not knowing who this individual was, also wanted to keep the area secure so he called for assistance.

Officer Officer # 1 testified that he is not a doctor but he has taken first aid and also suffers from asthma. Officer Officer # 1 testified that at no time did the Applicant exhibit any signs of respiratory distress. In fact, he testified that the Applicant inhaled fully before attempting to provide a sample and blew into his cheeks.

The Applicant was subsequently charged with failing to provide and released. The Applicant was in police custody for approximately one and one-half hours.

There was no cross-examination of the officer by the Applicant and the witness was excused.

The Tribunal accepts the evidence of P.C. Officer # 1.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

In an appeal of this kind, section 13 of Regulation 574 places the onus on the Applicant to substantiate his position. Under section 50.1(2), the ground of appeal which the Applicant must establish is that he had a present medical condition which precluded him from providing a breath or blood sample.

Also, under section 15 of Regulation 574, medical reports to be used as evidence at a hearing must meet certain conditions. Dealing first with the medical evidence of the Applicant, the report of Physician # 1, M.D. Family Physician, fails to meet the specific requirements of Section 15 (1) of Regulation 574 of the Highway Traffic Act in the following respects:

Physician # 1 does not provide any subjective test results to substantiate the Applicant's assertion that due to his medical condition he was unable to provide a proper breath sample. There was no mention of referral to a specialist. There was also no mention of any pulmonary function tests or indication of any type of measurements taken to indicate reduced breathing capacity. Physician # 1 does not indicate that he has knowledge of what is actually required to perform the breathalyzer test. The report indicates the last office visit prior to the suspension was on March 21, 2000. The visit was for right ear infection. There was no mention at this visit of attendance for airway obstruction.

Physician # 1 merely speculates that it is entirely plausible that Applicant was unable to provide an adequate breath sample as a result of his asthma and concurrent allergies. A blood alcohol sample would have been the appropriate test." Physician # 1 saw the Applicant on the 29th of April 200 for allergies.

The Tribunal, after careful review of the medical information submitted by Physician # 1 is of the opinion that this report is speculative in nature and does not support the position of the Applicant. The Tribunal attaches very little weight to this report.

After reviewing the foregoing facts, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant has not shown a relationship between his medical condition and the ground of appeal under section 50(1)(2)(b).

The evidence indicates that the Applicant refused to provide an adequate sample of breath but not for a medical reason. The evidence submitted suggests the actions of the Applicant were such as to lead the Tribunal to believe that he had no intention of giving a proper breath sample. The evidence presented by P.C. Officer # 1 indicated that the Applicant on each attempt to provide a sample, drew air into his lungs and blew into his cheeks and not into the mouthpiece as instructed. These are actions to prevent a suitable sample from being retrieved and not the actions of someone having difficulty providing a sample because of a medical condition.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant has not discharged the onus to establish a valid medical reason for his failure to provide a breath sample when demanded under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada).

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated April 27, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act (HTA) and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal confirms the suspension.

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on June 14, 2000, at Hamilton, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Tribunal released its Decision on June 15, 2000, with reasons to follow.

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant, by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of an oral hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated April 5, 2000, and was received by the Tribunal on April 16, 2000, together with the prescribed fee of $100.00.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

"I was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason."

Preliminary Matters

The Respondent submitted certified copies of documents previously submitted

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Notice of Appeal – dated April 5, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 2 Applicant's submissions – received May 26, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 3 Ministry of Transportation submissions 24 pages
- received June 9, 2000

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") states:

50.1 (1) "A person whose driver's licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

- (a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or

- (b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason".

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Board may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1),(2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) "a report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

- (a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;
- (b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;
- (c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver's licence under section 50.1 of the Act;
- (d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;
- (e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and
- (f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.

(2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.

(3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner."

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

"A person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal".

FACTS:

The Applicant's driver's licence was suspended "March 16 2000" as per Notice of Appeal (Exhibit # 1)

A copy of a prescription shows the drug "ARTHROTEC" was prescribed and purchased by the Applicant, on March 14. (Exhibit # 2)

In his own words, the Applicant details the events that led to the incident. The Applicant believes that his erratic driving was caused by the medication he had taken prior to leaving the house. Further, the Applicant contends that his inability to provide a breath sample was due to an allergy reaction to arthrotec. (Exhibit # 2)

The Applicant affirms that he told the officer "...very clearly and repeatedly ... I had a severe headache , my ears are ringing and hurting and I felt pressure in them when I try to blow, and I also told him that I am feeling short of breath and not feeling well...The Police officer should have ... gotten me immediate medical attention...".(Exhibit # 2)

Physician # 1, in a letter dated March 30, 2000, confirms that the Applicant "...had a similar episode in... 1997 after taking Aspirin and non-steroidal anti-inflammatory medications..." Physician # 1 recommends that the Applicant's "...driving license to be reinstated immediately...".(Exhibit # 2)

According to Physician # 2, allergy specialist, 'On March 16, ...after taking arthotec ...he developed a systemic allergic reaction ...generalized swelling of his face, lips and tongue, breathlessness and disorientation ...It is likely that the allergic reaction was responsible for the symptoms..."(Exhibit # 2)

Physician # 3 states, in a letter dated May 11, 2000, that the Applicant consulted her for a second opinion regarding his allergy. Physician # 3 describes "...A typical anaphylactic reaction involves significant respiratory distress with varying degrees of hypotension ...unable to perform the breathalyzer test.. could have very well been as a result of him having an anaphylactic reaction to Arthrotec on May 15 and May 16..." (Exhibit # 2)

The Respondent provided the following documents:

- Notice to Registrar, certified May 15, 2000.
- Driving Record of the Applicant, certified May 15, 2000
- Vehicle Record, certified May 16, 2000
- Notes of PC Officer # 1, Ontario Provincial Police, dated March 16, 2000
- Medical report of Dr. Eva Mate, MD, FRCP (C), dated June 8, 2000

The Applicant's driver's record, since 1990, shows two speeding offences and one driving with "more than 80 mgs alcohol on blood in 1992". (Exhibit # 3)

Notes of PC Officer # 1 describe the events surrounding the charge and the subsequent arrest. (Exhibit # 3)

Dr Eva S. Mate, FRCP (C), a consultant in respiratory medicine with St. Michael's Hospital, in a letter dated June 8, 2000, qualifies that she has been in practice since 1982, and that she has "...extensive experience in the management of chronic respiratory illness such as obstructive lung disease and asthma." Dr. Mate goes on to describe her qualifications: "...lengthy experience with performance and interpretation of pulmonary function tests... Assistant Professor at the University of Toronto ...know the background evaluation of instrumentation such as Intoxilyzer 5000 cc and also Alcotest ...aware of breath sampling criteria required to provide acceptable information using the above instrumentation." Dr. Mate concludes that "...there is no objective indication ...that the accused was exhibiting any type of cardiorespiratory distress or that he had any complaint about itchiness or swelling of the mouth or tongue...". (Exhibit # 3)

At the hearing, the Applicant re-iterated the comments made in his letter to the Tribunal. The Applicant insisted that his inability to provide a breath sample was due to the allergic reaction he was experiencing. The Applicant felt very strongly that the Officer should have called for medical assistance, as the Applicant told him that he was suffering from dizziness, a severe headache and ringing in his ears.

The Applicant further objected to Dr. Mate's report as he believes she took only the words of the Police Officer.

In cross-examination, the Applicant admitted that he did not seek medical attention immediately after the incident. When he attended his doctor's office, the symptoms had subsided and he stopped taking the medication. None of the physicians that the Applicant consulted actually saw the symptoms of the allergic reaction, but relied on the information provided by the Applicant.

The Applicant also affirmed that at times his head was 'cloudy,' but he did 'clearly several times...' tell the officer he had ringing in his ears.

The Respondent called PC Officer # 1, badge number (#), Downsview OPP, as a witness. PC Officer # 1 testified by referring to his notes. PC Officer # 1 observed that the Applicant "puffed his cheeks but there was no air going into the alcotest...". During the second attempt, the Applicant was observed to be blowing and stopping his breath short of allowing any breath to go into the instrument. After the fifth attempt, the Applicant advised the officer that he had a problem with his ears. After the sixth attempt, the Applicant told the officer he was unwilling to try anymore.

PC Officer # 1 did not notice any swelling of the face or tongue nor any other distress symptoms on the part of the Applicant. P C Officer # 1 noticed the Applicant's face being flushed which he felt was consistent with an intoxicated state.

After the Applicant was placed in a cell, PC Officer # 1 had difficulty awakening him. PC Officer # 1 noticed that the Applicant was "...mumbling..." and offered to call him a cab. The Applicant refused and was driven home by the officer. At no time did the Applicant ask to be taken to the hospital.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The issues are, how does the medical condition of the Applicant relate to Section 50.1 (2) (b), and did this medical condition cause him to fail or not comply with the breath demand? Pursuant to Section 13 of Regulation 574 (Amended), the onus is on the Applicant to provide the Tribunal with a medical reason as to why he was unable to provide a breath sample.

The Tribunal reviewed the medical evidence provided for the hearing by the Applicant's physicians. The Tribunal is satisfied and accepts the diagnosis that the Applicant has an allergy to ASA. The Tribunal notes, that all physicians agree that the symptoms described by the Applicant are consistent with an allergic reaction. Nonetheless, neither physician saw the Applicant while he was demonstrating the symptoms at issue. Reports were written according to the history related by Applicant after the fact. (Exhibit # 2)

The Tribunal has no alternative but to rely on the direct observations of PC Officer # 1. The Applicant maintains his face and tongue were swollen. These are not symptoms that would go unnoticed. Yet, PC Officer # 1 was explicit in his testimony that he did not notice any such symptoms.

The Respondent contends that no medical reason caused the Applicant's failure to provide the required breath sample and that the Applicant did not demonstrate any symptoms of discomfort at the time the breath demand was made. The latter statement is corroborated by PC Officer # 1's evidence.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant's testimony was contradictory. The Applicant did not testify that he had any difficulty speaking, but, rather, insisted that he "clearly" told the police officer that he had ringing in his ears. The Tribunal questions how the Applicant could speak "clearly" with a swollen tongue.

By his own admission, the Applicant testified that he did not ask for medical assistance during the incident nor seek assistance at the time he was released. Although the Applicant stated that he was seen by his physician the morning of the incident, there is no conclusive evidence to substantiate this testimony. Physician # 1's letter to the Tribunal is dated March 30, 2000, and makes no mention of the date of the consultation. (Exhibit # 2)

The onus is on the Applicant to establish the merit of his appeal. However, no new evidence was provided by the Applicant in his own defence. Based on the evidence before the Tribunal, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant does not meet the criteria of Section 50.1 (2) (b), in that he was not able to demonstrate that he suffered from a medical condition which would have prevented him from providing a breath sample when requested by the police officer.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated March 16, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal confirms the suspension.

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on June 19, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Tribunal released its Decision on June 20, 2000, with reasons to follow.

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant, by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of an oral hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated May 12, 2000, and was received by the Tribunal on May 12, 2000, together with the prescribed filing fee of $100.00.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

"I was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason."

Preliminary Matters

The Applicant's agent submitted two reports from neurologist Physician # 1, dated "May 08, 1998" and "December 02, 1997".

The Respondent did not object, but did ask the Tribunal to note the date of the report. Said report was entered, in evidence, on consent, and filed as Exhibit # 3.

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit #1 Notice of Appeal – dated May 12, 2000
- b) Exhibit #3 Two reports from neurologist Physician # 1, dated "May 08, 1998" and "December 02, 1997" – received June 19, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit #2 MTO submissions – 15 pages – received June 14, 2000

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") states:

50.1 (1) "A person whose driver's licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

(a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or

(b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason".

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Board may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1),(2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) "a report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

(a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;

(b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;

(c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver's licence under section 50.1 of the Act;

(d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;

(e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and

(f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.

(2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.

(3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner."

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

"A person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal".

FACTS:

The Applicant's driver's licence was suspended "April 15 2000" as per Notice of Appeal (Exhibit # 1)

The Notice of Appeal, prepared Physician # 2, the Applicant's family physician for "9 years," details and diagnosis the Applicant's present condition as: " Hypertension; unstable angina, myocardial infarction, stroke; emphysema (smoker); History of Condition: hypertension diagnosed 1991, could have been longer standing; unstable angina - requires nitro (illegible) spray 2 - 3 x / month; 1996 myocardial infarction; 1996 transient ischemic attack; emphysema - secondary to smoking" (Exhibit # 1)

According to Physician # 2, the Applicant visits her office "...monthly for medication ...Blood pressure has been controlled ...reports the use of nitroglycerine spray 2-3 x/month..." (Exhibit # 1)

Physician # 1, in a letter dated "May 08, 1998" confirms the Applicant had suffered a stroke, but the MRI showed nothing that could explain the headache.

In a letter dated December 2, 1997, Physician # 1 details the Applicant's neurologic symptoms and cardiac difficulties.

The Respondent provided the following Documents:

- Notice to Registrar.
- Driving Record.
- Vehicle record as of occurrence date
- Medical report of Dr. Roger S. Goldstein, MB,ChB MD, FRCP (UK), FCCP

The Applicant's driver's record since 1986, shows five convictions of driving with more than of 80 mgs of alcohol in blood in 1972, 1974, 1980. 1985, 1986." (Exhibit # 2)

In a letter dated May 29, 2000, Dr. Roger S. Goldstein, MB,ChB,FRCP(UK)FRCP(C) FCCP, Professor of Medicine and Director of Program in Respiratory Rehabilitation - University of Toronto, states that he is a "...consultant respirologist in practice since 1979 with particular interest in chronic respiratory conditions such as: asthma, emphysema and chronic bronchitis... familiar with the Alcotest and the Intoxilyzer 5000C...". After reviewing the information provided to him by the Ministry, Dr Goldstein notes that "...It is important to know whether at the time of the episode in question, the Applicant was noted to be having any difficulty with breathing, cough, wheeze, shortness of breath or whether, however, were he to be having active angina, it would likely have interfered with the tests. In summary, the medical report ... does not provide... sufficient information...to determine whether the Applicant's failure to provide a satisfactory breath sample related to ... underlying respiratory condition." (Exhibit # 2)

At the hearing, the Applicant insisted that at the time he felt “...pressure in head, and heavy chest...”

In cross-examination, the Applicant admitted that he did not ask for medical assistance or seek medical attention immediately after the incident. The Applicant did not attend his doctor’s office until two weeks later, for his regularly scheduled appointment.

The Respondent called PC Officer # 1, of the OPP Prince Edward Detachment as a witness. PC Officer # 1, has been a police officer for sixteen years and a breath technician for twelve.

PC Officer # 1, testified that the Applicant outright refused to provide a breath sample. When asked to do so, the Applicant just sat there. After being explained the consequences of his actions, the Applicant stated “ I do not want a breath sample.”

The Applicant did say that he had suffered a heart attack, nonetheless, he did not ask for any medical assistance during the time that he was detained. PC Officer # 1 did not notice any signs of respiratory distress on the part of the Applicant. There was no difficulty talking or breathing, no wheezing or coughing.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The issues are, how does the medical condition of the Applicant relate to Section 50.1 (2) (b) of the Act, and did this medical condition cause him to fail or not comply with the breath demand? Pursuant to Section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended), the onus is on the Applicant to provide the Tribunal with a medical reason as to why he was unable to provide a breath sample.

The facts are clear in this matter. The Applicant made no attempt to provide a breath sample. According to PC Officer # 1, the Applicant “...just sat there...” and expressed his intent by remarking “ I do not want a breath sample.”

The Applicant contends that he was aware he would not be able to provide a breath sample due his medical condition.

The Tribunal reviewed the medical evidence provided for the hearing by the Applicant’s physician. The Tribunal is satisfied and accepts the diagnosis that the Applicant has had a stroke and a myocardial infarction, and that presently he is afflicted with “Hypertension; unstable angina, emphysema” (Exhibit # 1)

The Tribunal concurs with Dr. Goldstein’s comments “It is important to know whether at the time of the episode in question, the Applicant was noted to be having any difficulty with breathing, cough, wheeze, shortness of breath or whether, however, were he to be having active angina, it would likely have interfered with the tests”. In order to reach a decision, in this matter, the Tribunal relies on the direct observations of P C Officer # 1, whose testimony was explicit in that he did not notice any symptoms of distress.

By his own admission, the Applicant testified that he neither asked for medical assistance during the incident nor sought medical assistance after he was released.

The onus is on the Applicant to establish the merit of his appeal. However, no new evidence was provided by the Applicant, to support his appeal before this Tribunal.

Based on the evidence, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant does not meet the criteria of Section 50.1 (2) (b), in that he has not demonstrated that he suffered from a medical condition which prevented him from providing a breath sample when requested by the police officer.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated April 15, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal confirms the suspension.

ORDER

PURSUANT to the provisions of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H. 8 as amended, GMAC Leaseco Ltd. (the "Applicant") appealed a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar") made under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a certain 1999 Pontiac Sunfire motor vehicle, plate number ADMJ 006;

UPON MOTION, made by the representative of the Registrar for an order by the Tribunal dismissing the Applicant's ground of appeal of exceptional hardship as a ground to be heard at a hearing to take place on July 4, 2000.

ON READING the exhibits and hearing submissions of the representative of the Registrar as well as submissions by the Applicant's agent, this Tribunal finds that the ground of exceptional hardship [section 50.2(3)(d)] upon which the Applicant relies in this appeal, does not apply by virtue of section 50.2(4) as a previous order to impound under section 55.1 was made with respect to another motor vehicle then owned by the Applicant.

THIS TRIBUNAL grants the motion of the Respondent and orders that the ground of exceptional hardship be dismissed.

DATE OF HEARING: May 23, 2000, June 2, 19, 2000,

DECISION RELEASED: June 28, 2000 Ottawa

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on May 23, June 2, and 19, 2000, at Ottawa, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar") made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	Car-o-Line Auto's (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle:	1992 Ford Taurus GL, Plate # ADJS 966 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal:	May 2, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the licence of the driver was not under suspension as provided in section 50.2(3)(b) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on May 23, June 2, and 19, 2000, and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing. There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

In essence, the Applicant's position is that the vehicle was in fact being driven by a Kevin Bowman, who had left the vehicle and his passenger, James Cooper, after the vehicle had broken down, so that he could obtain his own vehicle and then return to pick up Mr. Cooper. The Applicant's position is that, while Mr. Cooper was impaired and his licence was under suspension, he was not the driver of the vehicle.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

The Applicant called two witnesses: Ms. Elizabeth Cooper and Mr. Kevin Bowman.

The evidence of Ms. Cooper was that she was the lessee of the subject vehicle. Her son, James Cooper, was in the fish supply business. Kevin Bowman, was engaged to Ms. Cooper's daughter. Mr. Cooper and Kevin Bowman attended at Ms. Cooper's home on the evening of April 13, 2000 for a family dinner. Mr. Cooper received a call from a supplier, but as he had been drinking, Ms. Cooper was not prepared to allow him to drive her vehicle. She asked Mr. Bowman to driver her son to a customer's home. Mr. Bowman was allegedly not prepared to use his vehicle as he was concerned it would not make the trip. Ms. Cooper offered the subject vehicle to Mr. Bowman. Ms. Cooper gave evidence that Mr. Cooper and Kevin Bowman left between 9:00 and 9:30 p.m. She was later advised that the vehicle had broken down, Mr. Cooper had been charged with criminal offences, and the vehicle had been impounded. Finally, Ms. Cooper's evidence was that when she obtained possession of the vehicle following the impoundment, the engine would turn over but would not start.

Mr. Bowman's evidence was consistent with that of Ms. Cooper's up until the time that he and Mr. Cooper left her premises; therefore, there is no need to repeat the same. According to Mr. Bowman, he drove Mr. Cooper to the client's home. Mr. Cooper went into the home with Mr. Bowman waiting in the car. Mr. Cooper was in the home for close to two hours. When he exited the home, it was apparent to Mr. Bowman that Mr. Cooper had consumed more alcohol while visiting with the client.

Although there was no trouble with the vehicle on the way to the client's, it stopped working on the way home, and Mr. Bowman had to pull over on the side of the highway. Although Mr. Cooper was impaired, Mr. Bowman indicated he left the keys in the car because Mr. Cooper would not be able to driver it because the vehicle was inoperable. He left to retrieve his own car by walking and hitchhiking to his home. When he returned, the police were at the scene. He tried to explain that Mr. Cooper had not been driving the automobile, but the officers would not listen to him. He confirmed that Mr. Cooper was placed under arrest and taken away by the officers.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the evidence for the Registrar follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that Mr. M. Cooper was driving the vehicle at the time it was detained;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence driving with more than 80 mgs alcohol in blood under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until November 29, 2001.

The Tribunal heard from Officers Paul Murphy and Sylvain Ladouceur who were called by the Registrar to give evidence.

Officer Murphy is employed with the Ontario Provincial Police Force and had been so employed for 12 years. At approximately 12:30 a.m. on April 14, 2000, Officer Murphy, who was in a police cruiser with Officer Ladouceur, noticed the subject vehicle on the north shoulder of the westbound lanes of Highway 401. Officer Murphy approached the vehicle. He observed Mr. Cooper in the driver's seat behind the steering wheel. The keys were in the ignition. Mr. Cooper was talking on a cell phone, and subsequently advised Officer Murphy that he was speaking to someone to try to get help and that his vehicle had broken down. He also indicated that he had tried to start the vehicle. It was the impression of Officer Murphy that Mr. Cooper was impaired. He subsequently failed a breathalyzer test and was placed under arrest. The Applicant acknowledged that Mr. Cooper was impaired and his licence was under suspension at the time of the incident.

Officer Ladouceur, who had been with the Ontario Provincial Police for four years, confirmed Officer Murphy's testimony with regard to the positioning and activity of Mr. Cooper. It was Officer Ladouceur who spoke to Mr. Bowman when Mr. Bowman arrived on the scene. According to Officer Ladouceur, Mr. Bowman advised that Mr. Cooper had phoned him approximately 10 minutes ago indicating he was having car problems and needed a ride. According to Officer Ladouceur, Mr. Bowman never indicated that he had been the driver of the vehicle on that occasion.

Wherever the evidence of the officers conflicted with that of Ms. Abbott or Mr. Bowman, the Tribunal accepts the evidence of the officers. At the time of the incident, Mr. Bowman was soon to become a member of Ms. Cooper's family. It is difficult to accept that he would drive Mr. Cooper to a customer's home and then remain in the car for close to two hours waiting. It is also difficult to believe that, when there was a cell phone in the car, Mr. Bowman would not use the same to call for help, but would instead walk and hitchhike back to his home to retrieve his own vehicle. Finally, it is also difficult to accept that Mr. Bowman would leave the keys in the vehicle when he knew of the state of impairment of Mr. Cooper. While the vehicle would not turn over when being tried by Mr. Bowman, there was always the risk that the vehicle might start if Mr. Cooper tried the same. Further, in his condition, Mr. Cooper was a threat to himself in that he might get out of the vehicle and be struck by the traffic on the highway. If Mr. Bowman had been at the scene it is not likely that he would have left Mr. Cooper alone in the car with the keys. The Tribunal finds as a fact that Mr. Bowman had not driven the vehicle on the occasion in question, and that Mr. Cooper was in fact the driver of the vehicle.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
 - (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(b).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(b) alleging that the driver's licence of the driver driving at the time of the impoundment order was not under suspension, section 55.1(2) of the Act states:

Where a police officer or officer appointed for carrying out the provisions of this Act is satisfied that a person was driving a motor vehicle on a highway while his or her driver's licence is under suspension under section 41 or 42, even if it is under suspension at the same time for any other reason, the officer shall,

- (a) notify the Registrar of the fact or cause the Registrar to be notified;
- and
- (b) detain the motor vehicle that was being driven by the person whose driver's licence is under suspension until the Registrar issues an order under subsection (3).

Section 41 of the Highway Traffic Act identify the type of appeals for which a licence is suspended in sections 41(1)(a), (b), (c), (d), and (e) and 41(7) and 42(1) and 42(5) as follows:

Section 41(1) Subject to subsections 41.1 (1), (2) and (3), the driver's licence of a person who is convicted of an offence,

- (a) under section 220, 221 or 236 of the Criminal Code (Canada) committed by means of a motor vehicle or a street car within the meaning of this Act or a motorized snow vehicle within the meaning of Motorized snow vehicle Act;
- (b) under section 249, 252, 253 or 255 of the Criminal Code (Canada) committed while driving or having the care, charge or control of a motor vehicle or street car within the meaning of this Act or a motorized snow vehicle within the meaning of the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act;
- (c) under subsection 254 (5) of the Criminal Code (Canada) committed in relation to the driving or having the care, charge or control of a motor vehicle or street car within the meaning of this Act or a motorized snow vehicle within the meaning of the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act;
- (d) under a provision that is enacted by a state of the United States of America and that is designated by the regulations; or
- (e) referred to in a predecessor to this sub-section, is thereupon suspended

Section 42.(1) The driver's licence of a person who is convicted of an offence under subsection 259 (4) of the Criminal Code (Canada) or under a provision that is enacted by state of the United States of America and that is designated by the regulations is thereupon suspended for a period of,

- (a) upon the first conviction, one year; and
- (b) upon a subsequent conviction, two years,

in addition to any other period for which the licence is suspended and consecutively there to.

(4) This section applies in the same manner as if a person were convicted of an offence if the person pleads guilty to or is found guilty of an offence referred to in subsection (1) and,

- (a) an order directing that the accused be discharged is made under section 736 of the Criminal Code (Canada) or under a provision that is enacted by a state of the United States of America and that is designated by the regulations; or
- (b) a disposition is made under section 20 or sections 28 to 32 of the Young Offenders Act (Canada), including a confirmation or variation of the disposition. R.S.O. 1990, c.H.8, s.42 (1-4).

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

As Mr. Cooper was the driver of the motor vehicle, which was the subject of the order to impound, and as his licence was under suspension at the material time, the Registrar's order to impound under subsection 55.1(3) of the Act was appropriate.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) (the "Tribunal") from a decision of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program") contained in its letter dated February 3, 1999. In its decision letter, the Program denied the claim made by the Applicant under Section 14(1) (c) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act (the "Act").

BACKGROUND:

The Applicant, Catherine Balfour, purchased her home at 1537 Village Street, Pickering, Ontario, from Bramalea Limited and took possession November 8, 1994. Several months thereafter Bramalea Limited went into receivership. Over the following two years, the Applicant made several claims to the Ontario New Home Warranty Program, and there were two Conciliation Reports on September 27, 1995 and January 31, 1996. The Applicant settled with the Ontario New Home Warranty Program by signing a Full and Final Release for the sum of $3,170.00 on June 18, 1996. The Full and Final Release included all items on the two Conciliation's as well as the items set out by the Applicant in correspondence of March 29, 1996 in respect of extensive cracking in the basement floor. The issues dealt with in the two conciliations are not the subject matter of this appeal.

On July 16, 1998, there was extensive rainfall resulting in flooding in several basements in the Applicant's area, including the Applicant's basement. The Applicant felt that the cracking in the basement floor had become more extensive, that there was a crowning of the floor, and noticed that the basement was damp, resulting in the appearance of small crustaceans as well as mold. The Applicant felt that this could have been prevented had the Builder properly waterproofed the basement and that the resulting damage to the basement floor constituted a major structural defect for which she should be compensated.

THE FACTS:

WITNESSES FOR THE APPLICANT

The Applicant's first witness was Stanley H. Cooper, a Consulting Professional Engineer and Vice President of Cooper Consultants Limited. Mr. Cooper visited the Applicant's residence in October 1998 and on April 1999 and wrote a Report dated October 29, 1998 followed up with a letter dated May 4, 1999. He stated that on July 16, 1998 during a thunderstorm the Municipal drainage system failed to handle the run-off and the whole area became severely flooded. He stated that homes like this have a vertical draining system against the basement walls and a weeping tile at the top of the wall footing leading to the Municipal drain. The purpose is to prevent ground water pressure building up against the walls and causing leaks. In this case, there was a flood condition in July 1998 in which the whole Municipal drainage system was flooded and therefore, the weeping tile could not do its job and drain off the water.

It was Mr. Cooper's opinion that if there was an impermeable substrata, water could not easily enter under the foundation and the basement would flood by the drains backing up, but there would be no damage to the concrete slab. If the impermeable substrata was uneven or contained loose material, water could enter under the slab causing it to heave and crack. It was his opinion that the hydrostatic pressure underneath the floor slab caused it to move upwards and crack. When the water subsided, the slab went back down, but it never will return to normal. In his opinion, the cracks in the basement floor were not shrinkage cracks. The purpose of the slab was to maintain the walls in their present position, so the slab was an integral part of the construction. At some point, if the slab became bad enough it would be possible that the foundations could move in. Although he put much of the blame on the Town of Pickering for not designing the drainage system properly to handle the flood condition, the Mr. Cooper felt that the Builder should have made sure that the footings were founded on impermeable material and should have installed a drainage system under the concrete slab leading to a sump pump.

Mr. Cooper admitted that the type of construction with the weeping tile around the perimeter leading to the storm sewer was the normal method of construction and assumed that the Applicant's house was constructed in this manner. He suggested that release valves would have assisted in relieving the pressure but that they were not required by the Building Code. He did not take any photographs or make any drawings of the cracks on the floor, and admitted that he could not tell when the cracks first appeared. He stated that there was a crowning of the floor and estimated the crown was approximately an inch higher than the rest of the floor.

It was his opinion that there were not enough bore holes done to properly review the soils in such a large subdivision. He did not know what type of soil was under the Applicant's house. His evidence was that the concrete floor slab does affect a load bearing function, although it does not carry any load on its own and is not required by the Building Code. Although he recommended a sump pump, he stated that a sump pump is not normally used in homes above the water table. In his inspection, he did not notice whether there were any gaps between the floor slab and the walls, and he admitted that the foundation could not move under its present condition. However, if there was another flood and if the floor folded more, the walls could cave in over time, but he could not say how long that might take. If all of these possibilities happened, he gave estimates of ten, twenty or forty years, but he could not say for sure. He admitted that his Report gave no definite solutions and was speculative in giving alternatives. He was not aware of any other times that the basement had any water seepage aside from that one flood condition.

He examined three core samples from the concrete basement floor and found that one core sample was approximately one half inch less than the Code requirement, but admitted that the floor did not fail because of this and it would not have made any difference if the floor were thicker or even if it were reinforced. It was his evidence that the concrete floor slab would not have failed if it had not been for this flood and that his recommended repair procedures were speculative. He gave no evidence of the cost of any of the procedures.

The Applicant's second witness was Andy Fawcett, a Professional Geotechnical Engineer who specialized in properties of soil and earth sciences. In 1992, the firm in which he was employed did the original site investigation for Bramalea Limited. His firm then followed through during the construction of the storm and sanitary sewers and roads. He found that the water table was high in that area and recommended fill soil be re-worked by excavating and separating organic and non-organic soils and replacing the non-organic soils with imported soil which would then be compacted. He stated the high water table would not be an impedance to building subdivisions in the area providing that provisions are made for it. He made several recommendations regarding the storm sewers, and building the subdivision. He recommended that basement perimeter drains be installed in the normal manner, however, he also recommended that the basement walls should be waterproofed. His evidence was that the Building Code required a geotextile type of damp proofing rather than waterproofing, but if he were involved in the construction he would have recommended waterproofing on the basement walls. His original recommendations did not include a sump pump, but he agreed with Mr. Cooper that this may give relief from hydrostatic pressure if combined with drains under the floor slab.

Mr. Fawcett's opinion was based on his review of the 1992 logs of bore holes in the vicinity of the Applicant's house. The results lead him to believe that the water table was located just below the foundation of the house and that the soil and ground water conditions may have contributed to the cracking of the basement floor.

Mr. Fawcett's Report of October 13, 1999, was written without ever being in Applicant's premises. The Applicant had not advised him that there had been prior cracking of the floor before the July 1998 flood. He also stated that all of the subdivision's lots were above the water table and that his October 1999 Report did not recommend waterproofing the walls as this would not have reduced the hydrostatic pressure caused by the excessive rainfalls and resulting flood. Even if the drainage system were working properly, hydrostatic pressure would still have built up, but he did not know if it would have been enough to crack the floor. The inability of the storm sewer to handle the excessive storm water was a factor, but he could not say how much of a factor. Since he did not examine the basement himself, he did not know if it was damp proofed or waterproofed and admitted that water tables fluctuate. He testified that it would take a fairly significant rainfall to allow the hydrostatic pressure build-up that caused the water leakage in the Applicant's basement and that with the storm that occurred in July 1998, the basement would have flooded even if it were waterproofed.

The Applicant, Catherine Balfour, gave evidence on her own behalf. On November 8, 1994, she moved into her residence and Bramalea Limited went bankrupt five months later. In the first two years, the New Home Owners Warranty Program were very helpful and settled a number of defects with her including complaints in a March 29, 1996 letter from her to the Program which complained of "extensive cracking in my basement floor". She admitted meeting with the warranty representative and signing a Full and Final Release, however, was told that if the cracks became significantly worse within seven years, she was still entitled to submit a claim for a major structural defect.

On July 16, 1998, there was a storm resulting in flooding in various areas of Pickering. The Applicant came home a few hours after the storm and saw some water on her floor in the basement. She saw water stains up to about four inches high on the sides of cardboard boxes. She swept the puddles, but did not take any steps to dry the basement as she was leaving for Europe ten days later. A few months later, she noticed crustaceans on areas of the basement floor and fungal growth on the corners of the floor and walls. There was no fungal growth before the flood. She also noticed the cracks in the basement appeared to be getting worse. She took some of the fungal growth and crustaceans to a lab for testing and received a microbiology report stating that the mold was a commonly occurring Penicillium which could be controlled by cleaning the affected areas with one percent bleach and reducing the level of moisture in the basement. The crustaceans were found to be millipedes that inhabit damp and shady places.

The Applicant stated that she had lost the use of her basement, although she still stored some things there. She removed a cardboard wardrobe and some clothes and keepsakes from the basement and stored other things on shelves or tubs. She believed that she could no longer store her vacuum cleaner or suitcases there and could not finish the basement until the source of the water problem was corrected. She also felt that her home was reduced in value $10,000.00 to $20,000.00, although no evidence was produced of any reduction in value. She stated that she had severe allergy problems and had to wear a mask when she went down to the basement because of the fungal growth, however, no medical evidence was produced.

The Applicant produced a video tape of the cracks in her basement and photographs showing the fungal growth and millipedes. The tape was taken February 13, 2000. She had central air conditioning in the house. She testified that she had covered the cold air duct in the basement with cheese cloth to prevent any fungal growth from getting into the rest of the house. She admitted that some of the fungal growth had dried up with the heat on during the winter. She stated that there were now more millipedes than immediately after the flood. In her opinion, it appeared that during the flood of 1998, the cracks in her basement became worse. Since the flood, there has been more fungal growth and more millipedes.

The photographs and video tape showed that items were still stored on built-in shelving units and on plastic tubs on the floor. She had not had time to empty the cardboard boxes. They were still there, although she had removed a few plastic bags. Her freezer was still located in the basement and connected. The Applicant felt that the value of her home had been significantly decreased and that she had lost the use of thirty percent of her home as she could no longer use the basement. She referred to the photographs and the video tape showing curled up millipedes in areas along the cracks in the floor and in the corners and mold growing in areas along some cracks and corners.

On cross-examination, she admitted the settlement of all of the conciliation matters and the cracking in the floor, but the Full and Final Release was meant to exclude any further cracking in the floor. The reason that she had not cleaned the basement since the flood was that she was allergic to chemicals and would have had to have someone else to clean the mold. She acknowledged the microbiology report which stated that the mold could be cleaned with one percent bleach and also acknowledged that she occasionally used bleach in her laundry. Regardless of this, she did not clean the basement herself nor have anyone else clean it. She also did not sweep up the dead millipedes from the floor and acknowledged that she had never seen a live millipede.

The Applicant said that the moisture in the basement had a reading of between thirty-two to thirty-eight percent humidity and that she has not had to turn on the humidifier on her furnace in the last two years. She felt that twenty-five percent humidity would be arid and that is when most people would turn on the air humidifiers to put moisture into the air. When questioned on why she did not put a dehumidifier in her basement, she stated that her neighbor had a dehumidifier and it runs all the time and all that it would do would be to make the basement air dry. A dehumidifier would not get rid of the water which is in the soil under the floor. She acknowledged that the person who did the microbiology report advised her that if she got rid of the moisture she would get rid of the millipedes.

The Applicant also testified that, aside from a prior small leak in one window and once from a drain pipe in the kitchen, she had not seen any water enter the basement either before or since the flood in July 1998.

It was the Applicant's argument that there was a defect in construction. The home was built on a site that had been determined by the soils report in 1992 to have water and soil conditions consistent with the presence of hydrostatic pressure and, therefore, the basement walls of the homes should have been waterproofed. Section 9.13 of the Ontario Building Code provided that floors on ground and exterior surfaces of walls below ground level be waterproofed where hydrostatic pressure occurs. It also provides how the waterproofing should be done. It was her position that since the waterproofing was not done on her home, there was a defect in workmanship or materials which amounted to a major structural defect which had a seven year warranty under the Act. The adverse effect on the Applicant because of the defect is the effect on her health and in her use of the basement.

WITNESSES FOR THE PROGRAM

The Program's first witness was Tibor Pal, a professional Engineer and a specialist in structural engineering. He was familiar with Mr. Cooper's reports, and he attended to inspect the Applicant's basement on July 6, 1999. Mr. Pal observed and measured the cracks on the floor and stated that most of them were hairline cracks, except one which was one-sixteenth of an inch wide. He found the floor generally level and removed the three core samples to measure the concrete and the soil under the floor slab. He found no relative movement of the floor slab at cracks, foundation walls, floor drain or sanitary pipe locations and no signs of upward movement of the floor slab from hydrostatic pressure. He probed out the soil under the stone beneath the concrete slab and found no free water to a twelve inch depth. The soil was hard and he could not penetrate it any further.

His opinion was that the cracks in the floor had no impact on the structural integrity of the house and that there was no failure of a load bearing portion of the house. He disagreed with Mr. Cooper's recommendations which he felt would cause pressure to build up on the outside of the foundation walls. There was already impervious material under the floor. He concluded that the basement was constructed with materials and workmanship in compliance with the Ontario Building Code sections pertaining to drainage, footings and foundations and slab on ground. The July 1998 storm resulted in such a quantity of rain that it backed up the Municipal storms sewers to which the weeping tiles are connected. It was natural that water would escape the weeping tiles and go into the surrounding clear stone resulting in hydrostatic pressure on the slab and water coming through the cracks in the floor.

On cross-examination, Mr. Pal maintained that the water table under the Applicant's house is not directly under the footings. He referred to the fact that when sanitary sewers were dug the walls of the trenches did not need shoring because the earth was hard enough that there was no water that permeated the walls requiring shoring. The sections of the Ontario Building Code that referred to waterproofing requirements on basements did not apply in this situation.

He had spent about an hour in the Applicant's basement with the Applicant and found the humidity to be between forty-five to fifty percent. He admitted that there was a three-eighth of one inch slope on the floor adjacent to the stairs, but the pattern of cracks in the basement floor were consistent with shrinkage and to be expected. If the floor had moved, one side of the crack would normally be higher than the other, and he could find no difference on the height on either side of the cracks.

He had reviewed the original site soils report and concluded that a high water table was not likely to occur with the type of soil present in that area. He referred to the road part of the report where it was stated that the ground could be dug to a depth of 4.6 meters without any problems and earlier in the report where it indicated that till interface inhibited proper measurement of ground water level. The soil investigation, therefore, did not establish a water table. The Ontario Building Code only required damp proofing in these circumstances.

He concluded that a dehumidifier would reduce the humidity in the basement. Since there is always some amount of moisture in the soil, any basement below grade is normally cooler and containing more humidity than areas above ground.

The Program's next witness was Andy Ferguson, a client service representative with the Ontario New Home Warranty Program who had twenty-five years experience in building. On June 7, 1996, he attended at the Applicant's house, viewed the extensive cracking in the basement floor, ran his hands over the cracks and found that the level of the concrete on both sides of the cracks was even. It was his opinion that the cracking in the floor was the result of normal shrinkage.

On June 18, 1996, the Applicant signed the release which included the extensive cracking in the basement floor. Although he did not recall a conversation excluding further cracks, it was acknowledged that shrinkage cracks are not covered under the warranty and would be released by the Full and Final Release. However, if this Tribunal found that there was a major structural defect, it would not be released by the Full and Final Release.

The Program's third witness was Chad Foresheew, a warranty representative of ONHWP since 1994 and before that, a building official for three Municipalities with responsibility for the Ontario Building Code. He attended at the Applicant's house with the Applicant and Mr. Pal on July 6, 1999 to investigate the Applicant's claim of major structural defect. He also took photos and made notes in her home at that time. He had seen the Applicant's diagram of the cracks, viewed the basement himself and reviewed the reports of Mr. Cooper dated May 4, 1999 and October 29, 1998. He also reviewed the microbiology report.

When he examined the basement floor in July of 1999, he was advised by the Applicant that it was still in the same condition as it was the day of the flood in July 1998. He observed random meandering cracks which were hairline cracks, in his opinion. After running his hands along the cracks he found no differences in the level of both sides of the cracks. He did not observe any crowing or anything else which would indicate any type of uplift occurred in the floor. The cracks were consistent with hairline cracks. He observed that the Applicant was still using the basement for storage and the freezer was operational in the basement. His field notes which were made at the time of the inspection were entered into evidence and indicated the above findings. They also indicated that there was no dehumidifier which was present and the Applicant's digital hygrometer read forty-nine percent humidity at nineteen degrees centigrade in the basement. He also stated that since the Ontario Building Code did not require a concrete basement slab, it was not considered as part of the load bearing structure.

Mr. Ferguson produced a certified copy of the Climatological Station Report for the month of July 1998 recorded at Frenchman's Bay as certified by Environment Canada, along with the Precipitation Record and Map showing that the Climatological Station was near the Applicant's residence. Also introduced, were the Extreme Weather Records for Pickering and Frenchman's Bay as certified by Environment Canada. The Records show that during the recorded period of 1959 to 1990, a period of thirty-one years, the highest rainfall recorded in one day was 59.7 millimeters recorded over a seventeen hour period. The record for July 1998 showed that on July 16, 1998 a total of 84.8 millimeters of rain fell within a four hour period.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The Applicant took possession of her home at 1537 Village Street, Pickering, on November 8, 1994 and that is the date that the warranty period commenced.

The Applicant purchased her home from Bramalea Limited who went into receivership several months later and, therefore, the warranty Program took over the Builder's responsibilities.

There were several claims made by the Applicant which resulted in two conciliation's and a settlement with the Ontario New Home Warranty Program on June 18, 1996.

The Applicant signed a Full and Final Release on June 18, 1996 which included all of the items on the two conciliation's, plus the complaints of the Applicant in her correspondence of March 29, 1996 in respect of extensive cracking in the basement floor.

There were no complaints from the Applicant of water seepage through the basement floor until after July 16, 1998.

On July 16, 1998, there was a storm of such intensity that the Municipal storm sewers could not take the water away fast enough and the water backed up through the Municipal drainage system flooding several basements in the Applicant's area. There was a rainfall of 84.8 millimeters in a four hour period which was the largest amount of rainfall in any day for thirty-one years of recorded history.

The Applicant did not observe the flooding of her basement, but when she arrived home that day there were some puddles of water on her basement floor and the cardboard boxes on the floor were wet up to a height of four inches. Therefore, four inches of water was the maximum amount that was ever in her basement and possibly less taking into account the capillary action of cardboard.

The Applicant swept away some water on the basement floor but did nothing further to dry the basement.

A few months later the Applicant noticed more crustaceans curled up on the floor along some of the cracks and corners of the basement and fungal growth along some of the cracks and portions of the walls at the floor level of the basement.

The Applicant took a sample of the crustaceans and mold to have them analyzed.

The analysis of the mold indicated it was a common mold in air called Penicillium which could be controlled by cleaning the affected areas with one percent bleach and reducing the level of moisture in the basement.

The crustaceans were found to be millipedes which are terrestrial creatures that inhabit damp and shady places.

The Applicant was not allergic to bleach as she occasionally used it in her laundry. The Applicant has not cleaned the mold from the basement in the two year period since the flood nor had anyone clean it for her.

The Applicant has not swept up any of the dead millipedes on the floor of the basement nor had anyone do it for her. The Applicant nor anyone else who examined the basement has ever seen a live millipede.

Some of the fungal growth had dried up when the heat was on in the house during the winter and the moisture level reduced.

The Applicant does not have a dehumidifier in her basement nor has she done anything to reduce the moisture level in the basement, although a humidifier would have reduced the moisture level.

The basement of the Applicant's house was damp proofed according to the requirements of the Ontario Building Code at that time.

Even if the basement had been waterproofed it would not have stopped the water back up that occurred during the July 16, 1998 flood.

ISSUE:

Is the Applicant entitled to damages under the Act on the basis of a major structural defect?

THE LAW:

Section 13 of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

- (1) Every vendor of a home warrants to the owner,
 - that the home
 - (iii) is constructed in accordance with the Ontario Building Code;
 - that the home is free of major structural defects as defined by the regulations;

10. A warranty under subsection (1) does not apply in respect of,

- (d) normal shrinkage of materials caused by drying after construction;
- (e) damage caused by dampness or condensation due to failure by the owner to maintain adequate ventilation;
- (f) damage resulting from improper maintenance;
- (i) damage resulting from an act of God;
- (k) damage caused by municipal services or other utilities;

.....

- (4) A warranty under subsection (1) applies only in respect of claims made thereunder within one year after the warranty takes effect, or such longer time under such conditions as are prescribed;

Section 14 of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

- (1) Where,
 - (b) an owner has a cause of action against a vendor for damages resulting from a breach of warranty; or
 - (c) the owner suffers damage because of a major structural defect as defined in the regulations for the purposes of section 13, and the claim is made within four years after the warranty expires or such longer time under such conditions as are prescribed, the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damages subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulations.

Regulation 892, Section 1 of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act states:

"major structural defect" means, for the purposes of clause 13 (1) (b) of the Act, any defect in work or materials,

- (a) that results in failure of the load-bearing portion of any building or materially and adversely affects its load-bearing function, or
- (b) that materially and adversely affects the use of such building for the purpose for which it was intended, including significant damage due to soil movement, major cracks in basement walls, collapse or serious distortion of joints or roof structure, and chemical failure of materials, but excluding flood damage, dampness not arising from failure of a load-bearing portion of the building, damage to drains or services, damage to finishes and damage arising from acts of God, acts of the owners and their tenants, licensees and invitees, acts of civil and military authorities, acts of war, riot, insurrection or civil commotion and malicious damage.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The Applicant took possession on November 8, 1994 and that is when the warranty period started to run. The Applicant is making her claim under a major structural defect, which the regulations provide has a seven year period in which to make a claim. The Applicant is within the seven year period for a major structural defect.

The fact that the Applicant signed a Full and Final Release on June 18, 1996 does not preclude the Applicant from making a claim against the balance of warranties available and remaining under Section 6 Regulation 892, under of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act Alexander J. Holburn (1996) 28 CRAT 188.

In making this appeal, the onus is upon the Applicant to prove on a balance of probabilities, that the defect constitutes a major structural defect under clause 13(1)(b) of the Act, "major structural defect" being defined in section 1 under Regulation 892.

The definition of "major structural defect" requires the Applicant to establish a defect in work or materials with one of three elements:

- (i) that results in failure of the load bearing portion of any building; or
- (ii) materially and adversely affects its load-bearing function, or

- (iii) that materially and adversely affects the use of such building for the purpose for which it was intended".

The Applicant argues that the initial soils report in 1992 warned the Builder of the nature of the soil. The Builder had prior knowledge that there could be problems with water leakage and, therefore, should have waterproofed the basement. In his report of October 13, 1999, Mr. Fawcett did not mention waterproofing the basement. He arrived at his conclusions by reviewing the logs of the original bore holes "in the vicinity" of the Applicant's house. He was not present at the digging of the foundations of the Applicant's house, did not attend at the Applicant's house after it was built and did not view the basement either before or after the flood. This was despite the fact that he mentioned in his report that not all of the lots in the sub-division would be affected in the same manner since some houses are founded on engineered fill and others had base conditions which would allow water storage to occur. It was admitted that he did not know the actual soil conditions under the Applicant's house and also that the water table could vary depending on the season and other construction in the area.

It was stated by the Applicant's other expert witness, Stanley H. Cooper that he did not believe that there were enough bore holes done to properly review the soils in such a large sub-division and that he too did not know what type of soil was under the Applicant's house. In the Tribunal's opinion the evidence of Mr. Fawcett was to establish how the soil and ground water conditions may have contributed to the cracking of the basement floor but it was too generalized, being based on data over a large area, to establish the Applicant's particular status of residence.

The Applicant's Engineer, Stanley H. Cooper, did visit the Applicant's residence on two occasions to examine the basement floor. It was his opinion that the hydrostatic pressure underneath the slab caused it to burst upwards and crack and allow water to enter the basement. When the water subsided, the slab went back down. He did not believe that the cracks in the basement floor were shrinkage cracks. He suggested that relief valves in the floor would have assisted in relieving the pressure, although admitted that they were not required by the Building Code. He also suggested that a sump pump be installed, but admitted that they were not normally used in homes above the water table and the soils report had said that all of the lots were above the water table.

Mr. Cooper admitted that the basement slab was not a load bearing portion of the building however, the slab did affect a load bearing function as it held the walls in place. He stated that it did not carry any load on its own and was not required by the Ontario Building Code. He did find that one of the three core samples was approximately half an inch less than Code requirement in thickness, however, this would not have made any difference as the floor slab would not have failed had it not been for the flood. He admitted that some portions of his report were speculative. In support of his contention that the floor slab held up the walls of the basement, the Tribunal found that his opinion was carefully qualified in usage of the terms "could", "may", and "possible", on the conclusions contained in the report which made his report too uncertain to be persuasive.

All of the experts that gave evidence agreed that a concrete floor slab does not carry any load. Despite Mr. Cooper's assertion that the floor slab affects a load bearing function, there is no evidence that the foundation was affected in any way or that there was any water seepage through the walls. The Tribunal finds that there was no defect in work or materials that resulted in a failure of a load bearing portion of the building or materially or adversely affected a load bearing function. Therefore, the Applicant's argument on the elements (i) and (ii), noted above fail.

The Tribunal must then turn its mind to the element "that materially and adversely affects the use of such building for the purpose for which it was intended". The Tribunal notes that since the Applicant's possession of the house in 1994 until the flood in 1998, the Applicant used the basement only for storage. After the flood and up to the date of this Hearing, the Applicant continued to use the basement for storage. The Tribunal has reviewed the applicable cases including Re Grudzinski et al. and Ontario New Home Warranty Program 32 O.R. (3d) 376 which held that "the functional deprivation of the use of one-third of a residence for any reasonable purpose could only be described as material and adverse, and it constituted a major structural defect".

Although the Applicant said there were a few items which she had to take out of the basement, the photographs and video clearly show that there were still boxes stored in the basement and a freezer connected in the basement as it had been prior to the flood. Since the Applicant continued to use the basement in a similar manner after the flood as before, the Applicant has failed to convince the Tribunal that her use of the basement was materially and adversely affected.

Having made those conclusions and findings, it is not necessary to proceed any further. However, the Tribunal feels it would be helpful to relate the result had the Tribunal found in the Applicant's favor, which it has not. Had the Applicant been able to establish a material structural defect under either (a) or (b) of section 1 of Regulation 892, it must be noted that those sections do not apply to and specifically exclude flood damage, dampness not arising from failure of a load bearing portion of the building and damage arising from acts of God.

In respect to an act of God, it is a question of fact whether the occurrence was so phenomenal or of such a magnitude as could not have been reasonably foreseen and guarded against, the capacity to foresee being based on previous experience and knowledge of nature's law, Frache vs. City of Lethbridge (1954) 13 W.W.R. (NS) 609.

It was held in the case of Garfield vs. City of Toronto xxii O.A.R. 128, that where a sewer built and maintained by a municipal corporation was free from structural defect and of sufficient capacity to fulfill all ordinary needs, the corporation was not liable for damages caused as a result of an extraordinary rainfall. In the present case, in ordinary usage, there was no evidence presented of any water leakage through the basement floor either before or after the flood of July 1998 and no evidence that there was any problem with the municipal storm sewer with normal usage aside from the flood of July 1998. Under normal and ordinary conditions, the drainage system under the Applicant's house functioned properly and it was only one time during an extraordinary rainfall that water penetrated the basement floor.

It was also established by the House of Lords Greencock Corporation vs. Caledonian Railway (1917) A.C. 556 that to fall within the description of "act of God" the occurrence is one which can only occur very seldom.

In the present case the amount of rain which fell over such a short period of time was unprecedented in thirty-one years of record keeping history. The Tribunal finds that this would be considered as an "act of God" which would fall within the exceptions listed under the definition of "major structural defect".

The Tribunal notes that although the flood occurred in July 1998, the Applicant took no steps to either clean her basement or reduce the moisture content in the basement. Although she was well aware that cleaning the basement with a one percent solution of bleach would have removed the mold, she did not proceed to do so herself nor did she obtain the services of anyone else to clean the basement. One would have wondered why the Applicant would not have taken such steps, or any steps to rid the basement of mold if she suffered from an allergy to the mold. A one percent solution of bleach is a very weak solution and after receiving advice that the mold would be removed by that solution, the Applicant did not try to remove it or have it removed to mitigate her concerns.

The Tribunal also noted that the Applicant did not use a dehumidifier when she admitted that other basements in the area have dehumidifiers to reduce moisture in the air. According to the laboratory reports, the millipedes that she found in her basement are found in damp places, and the Applicant kept a hygrometer in her basement indicating that the humidity was high. Yet she took no steps to try and reduce the humidity.

ORDER:

Accordingly, by virtue of the authority vested in it under section 16(3) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, the Tribunal directs the Ontario New Home Warranty Program to disallow this claim.

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

This is a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000, is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) (the "Tribunal") arising out of a Notice of Proposal issued by the Registrar under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Registrar", and the "Act" respectively). The Notice of Proposal dated August 13, 1999 proposed to revoke the registration of 4 X 4 Headquarters Ltd. and 1190634 Ontario Ltd. o/a 4 X 4 Headquarters as motor vehicle dealers, and to revoke the registration of Danny Lovatsis, Norman Lovatsis and George Meanchos as motor vehicle salespersons under the Act. Further the Registrar proposed to refuse the registration of 1351849 Ontario Ltd. as a motor vehicle dealer.

BACKGROUND:

The Registrar under the Act relies upon the following grounds as set out below for the Proposal:

Pursuant to the provisions of section 6 (1) of the Act, the Registrar, having regard to the registrant's financial position, finds that the registrant cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of its undertakings as required by the provisions of section 5(1)(a) of the Act, TO WIT:

- (a) Danny Lovatsis and Norman Lovatsis were officers and directors of Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. from January 1994 until January 1997. While they were officers and directors of this company, they failed to comply with the Retail Sales Tax Act with respect to filing returns and remitting Retail Sales Tax when due. On January 23, 1997 Danny Lovatsis and Norman Lovatsis resigned from the company and were replaced by George Meanchos who did not make arrangements to remit the taxes owing as calculated by the Minister of Finance in the amount of $700,000.00. The three parties have thereby failed to act with honesty integrity or financial responsibility

The past conduct of Danny Lovatsis and Norman Lovatsis affords reasonable grounds for belief that the Registrant's or Applicant's undertakings will not be carried out in accordance with law, and with integrity and honesty, TO WIT:

Norman Lovatsis purchased a 1990 Jeep Cherokee VIN 1J4FT78L9L L152791 with 261,000 km on the odometer. Danny Lovatsis sold the vehicle to a customer with a odometer reading of 131,207 km when he knew or ought to have known that the true distance traveled was 261,000 km.

THE LAW:

Section 3 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the 'Act'), states as follows,

(1) No person shall,

(a) carry on business as a motor vehicle dealer unless the person is registered under this Act; or

(b) act as a salesperson of or on behalf of a motor vehicle dealer unless the person is registered as a salesperson of such dealer and such dealer is registered as a motor vehicle dealer under this Act

Section 5 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the 'Act'), states as follows;

(1) An applicant is entitled to registration by the Registrar except where,

(a) having regard to the financial position of the applicant, the applicant cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of business; or

(b) the past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law, and with integrity and honesty; or

(c) the applicant is a corporation and

(1) having regard to its financial position, it cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of business, or

(ii) the past conduct of its officers or directors affords reasonable grounds for belief that its business will not be carried on in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty; or

(d) the applicant is carrying on activities that are or will be, if the applicant is registered, in contravention of this Act or the regulations.

(2) A registration is subject to such terms and conditions to give effect to the purposes of this Act as are consented to by the applicant, imposed by the Tribunal or prescribed by the regulations.

Section 6 of the Act states as follows;

(1) Subject to s. 7, the Registrar may refuse to register an applicant where in the Registrar's opinion, the applicant is disentitled to registration under s. 5.

(2) Subject to section 7, the Registrar may refuse to renew or may suspend or revoke a registration for any reason that would disentitle the registrant to registration under section 5, if the registrant were an applicant, or where the registrant is in breach of a term or condition of the registration.

Section 18 of the Retail Sales Tax Act states as follows:

(1) Where a vendor fails to make a return or a remittance as required under the Act, or if the returns are not substantiated by the vendor's records, the Minister may make an assessment of the tax collected by such vendor for which the vendor has not accounted, and such assessed amount shall thereupon be deemed to be tax collected by the vendor.

Section 43 of the Retail Sales Tax Act states as follows:

(1) Where a corporation has failed to collect tax or has collected tax and failed to remit the tax or has failed to pay any interest or penalty relating thereto, the directors of the corporation at the time the corporation was required to collect or remit the taxes or to pay the interest or penalty relating thereto, are jointly and severally liable, together with the corporation to pay such amounts.

.....

(3) A director of a corporation is not liable for a failure described under subsection (1) if the director exercised the degree of care diligence and skill to prevent the failure that a reasonable prudent person would have exercised in comparable circumstances.

(4) The Minister may assess any person for any amount payable by the person under this section and where the Minister sends a notice of assessment, the sections of this Act respecting assessments, objections and appeals apply with such modifications as the circumstances require.

(5) Any assessment under subsection (4) of any amount payable by a person who is a director of a corporation shall not be made more than two years after the person last ceased to be a director of the corporation.

CASELAW:

Brenner v Ontario (Registrar of Motor Vehicle Dealers and Salesman) 1983 O. J. No. 1017 Ontario Supreme Court-High Court of Justice Divisional Court

This was an appeal by the Registrar of Motor Vehicle Dealers and Salesmen from a decision of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal in which the Tribunal directed the Registrar to grant a conditional registration to the Respondent. The Applicant had a very serious criminal record which he had disclosed in his application but he had not disclosed three further convictions which were considered by the Registrar to be minor offences. The Applicant heard evidence from a potential employer and a criminal lawyer who testified that the Applicant was rehabilitated. The Court found that the Tribunal had not applied the proper test, and set out this test in paragraph nine of the judgment as follows:

"the Tribunal should only have refused to direct the Registrar to carry out his proposal if it thought the Registrar was in error concluding that the past conduct of the applicant afforded reasonable grounds for belief that he would not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty. The board does not appear to have directed itself to this question and makes no finding that, in its view, the past conduct of Brenner did not afford reasonable grounds for the belief that Brenner would not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty. Instead, the Board appears to have been preoccupied with sympathetic concern as to whether or not Brenner had genuinely reformed, and appears to have decided that it ought to give him a second chance because there was the possibility that he, indeed, might have reformed himself."

669607 Ontario Ltd. c.o.b. Carrera Fine Cars, 1998 C.R.A.T. decisions

In this matter the registrar based a proposal for the revocation of the dealer's registration on the grounds of the lack of financial responsibility where there was a failure by the Applicant to comply with the requirements of the Retail Sales Act. The Applicant owed an estimated $109,743.60. The registrant did not file Retail Sales Tax returns for "a couple of years" and the Minister of finance had made an estimate of the tax owing. The Registrant admitted that he owed money for Retail Sales Tax but disputed the amount, although no objection was ever registered. He also testified that he had a partner who did the books during the period in question; however, the Tribunal rejected this evidence. The Tribunal found that although the company was now a wholesaler, this did not wipe out the responsibilities of the Registrant or its sole officer to make arrangements to pay. Further, the Tribunal found that the Registrant ignored its obligations to meet these debts, and it was obliged to deal with financial obligations even where they considered it inconvenient or unfair. This inaction was found to go directly to the issue of honesty, integrity, and carrying on business in accordance with law. Also, his explanation was found to cast doubt on his ability to conduct his business with honesty and integrity. The Registrar was ordered to carry out the proposal.

Re-Herman motor Sales Inc. et al and Registrar of Motor Vehicle Dealers and Salesman 29 O.R. (2d) 431 Ontario High Court of Justice Divisional Court

This matter was an appeal to the High Court of Justice from a decision of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal revoking the licence of the Applicants. The basis of the application was a number of wrongful acts referred to in a criminal charge of fraud. A plea of guilty was entered, and the Defendant was fined $10,000.00 and ordered to pay restitution to vehicle owners in the amount of $8,750.00 to compensate them for odometer tampering. The Court accepted that the proper test to predict the probable future actions of people required placing some reliance on their past actions. In this case the many instances of odometer tampering supported the Tribunal's decision, and it, was upheld. The court found that there was no doubt that the odometer readings form a basis for assessing the value of most vehicles, and that tampering with odometers was considered a serious matter.

Ontario (Registrar of Motor Vehicle Dealers and Salesman) v Clermont (1974) 0. J. No. 1028

In this case, the Registrar appealed a decision by the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal which ordered the registration of the respondent as a motor vehicle salesman subject to conditions. The respondent had been registered as a real estate agent. During his registration, he used the deposit from a home buyer when the deal was not completed. He gave a refund cheque to the customer and which was returned N.S.F. He then provided to further cheques which were honored. When he lost his employment and his registration as a real estate agent lapsed, he applied for registration as a motor vehicle salesman, but was refused by the Registrar. The Applicant appealed the decision, and the Tribunal ordered that he the registered subject to conditions. The Tribunal held that "past conduct" means a course of past conduct, and does not mean one isolated incident wherein the general public suffered no harm. Although the court upheld the decision of the Tribunal, at page. 3 of the judgment the court found that:

" the past conduct referred to in the statute made in certain circumstances consist of one isolated mistake if it is of such a nature and in circumstances that there are reasonable grounds for believe that the person applying to be registered would not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty."

In reaching this decision, the Court found that the Tribunal had the opportunity of assessing the Applicant personally and was able to weigh the evidence of the character witnesses called by the Applicant.

Mohsen Golab and Registrar of Motor Vehicles Act (December 21, 1999) Ontario Court of Justice (Divisional Court)

In this matter, the Brenner case was interpreted. The court found that the Brenner decision dealt with the test which the Tribunal was to apply and not the matter of the onus of proof which remained on the Registrar to show reasonable grounds for a belief that the registrant would not do business honestly. In the Tribunal decision, alternative penalties were not mentioned. It was argued that they had been properly considered. The court found that the Tribunal was expert in administering the acts before it, is familiar with its own powers, and there was no basis for the court to intervene. This matter dealt with serious matters of odometer tampering and an "outright lie" on application for renewal. Taken together, the Court found that these two offenses were sufficient for a revocation of the registration.

David Jervais o/a Dave's Car and Truck Sales and Service 1999 C.R.A.T. decisions

Here the Applicant's registration lapsed in 1992 and was reinstated in 1994. On October 18, 1995, the Applicant pleaded guilty to 17 counts of possession of stolen property relating to motor vehicles and motor vehicle parts. He received a jail term on each count, to be served concurrently. In four months he was released on parole. On November 20, 1996, he reapplied for his registration which was due to expire on December 19, 1996. On his application form, he correctly answered that he had been convicted of a criminal offense although he did not provide information as to the number of counts or the particulars. He invested a significant amount of money to expand his business and was the sole support of his family. In 1998, when he applied for a further renewal of his registration he did not receive any notification of registration and continued to operate his business. On the issue of past conduct, the Tribunal found on page 14 that:

"conduct must be assessed in its totality in order to determine the reasonableness of the Registrar's grounds for a proposal. In a regulated industry, past conduct is intended to be the subject of ongoing scrutiny, and acts which might at one point in time be considered insufficient toward the proposal may subsequently be reassessed when considered in conjunction with other behavior."

The Tribunal found that a serious single criminal conviction can be enough for a reasonable belief that an Applicant will not carry on the business in accordance with law, honesty, and integrity.

An issue of delay was raised. The Tribunal accepted that the Applicant would reasonably believe that the Registrar had considered the issue of the criminal conviction and had chosen not to impose any consequences on him. The Tribunal found that the Applicant's conduct in the industry since his re-registration had been marked by honesty and integrity and compliance with the law. The Tribunal found that the Registrar had failed to consider the Registrant's most recent conduct which should have been a factor in determining his future behavior in the industry. The Registrar was directed to refrain from carrying out the proposal on the basis that there had been a failure to properly evaluate all of the past conduct.

ISSUES:

Was the Registrar in error in determining that the past conduct of Danny Lovatsis, Norman Lovatsis and George Meanchos was such that they will not carry on business honestly, with integrity, and in accordance with the law either as salesmen or as the operating mind of the corporate Applicants?

WITNESS FOR THE REGISTRAR:

Evidence was called by the Registrar, and testimony was given by Philip Mascoll, Kathleen Young, Marilyn Blazevic, and Amanda LeeDempsey.

PHILIP MASCOLL

The Registrar's first witness Philip Mascoll testified that he purchased a 1990 Jeep Cherokee from 4 X 4 Headquarters Limited, and dealt with Danny Lovatsis who was the salesman. Originally, the witness was told that the vendor was unsure of the mileage on the vehicle. The initial Bill of Sale was signed, and a deposit of $500 was made. On the Bill of Sale, the mileage was shown as unknown. After repairs were conducted, he was advised that the vehicle may have had more than 261,000 km on it when the dashboard was replaced. This was written on the Bill of Sale and initialed by both parties. (Exhibit 3, Tab 11). It was clear that he was given the opportunity to receive his deposit back and walk away from the deal once he was advised that the mileage could be in excess of 261,000 km. However, he completed the transaction and still has the vehicle. The Vendor purchase a warranty from Lubrico, for 12 months or 12,000 km whichever came first. (Exhibit 3, Tab 12) On this warranty, the odometer reading was shown as 135,200 km, and the distance traveled was shown as "N A".

KATHLENE YOUNG

The next witness for the Registrar was Kathleen Young who is an Appeal's Officer at the Tax Appeals Branch of the Ministry of Finance. She has a designation as a Certified General Account. Ms Young testified that Norman Daniels Fine Cars was a registrant with the Ministry of Finance, and was audited in 1996. Although she was not involved in the audit, she was given the file together with the auditor's notes to review. The auditor did not provide copies of any sales invoices, and the witness did not speak with the auditor. In these notes, she found that some invoices were not accounted for, and the auditor had tried to contact some of the customers to confirm the value of some sales. According to these notes, in 25 sales that the auditor sought to verify, there were 4 occasions when the vendor's records showed a lower sale price than the information provided by the customers. Unfortunately, in these notes there was no reference to clients' names or invoice numbers or anything else identifying the transactions. (Exhibit 4, Tab 8) One invoice was obtained by the witness from Mr. Hean Leang, which showed a sale price of $6,800.00, and on the copy of the invoice from Norman Daniels Fine Cars the sale price shown was $4,000.00 (Exhibit 4, Tab 9).

On June 16, 1999 the witness wrote a letter to David Malach a solicitor acting for Norman Daniels Fine Cars Limited (Exhibit 4, Tab 3) setting out her position regarding the arrears under the Retail Sales Tax Act. An objection had been filed by Norman Daniels Fine Cars Limited, and a Notice of Assessment dated November 7, 1996 had been served. In this letter, she explained that since certain invoices were unavailable, the auditor had determined the fair value of vehicles by referring to the current issue of the Canadian Red Book, thereby estimating the value of the vehicles and the tax owing on the transactions. She also referred to the Leang transaction in which the vendor's and purchaser's records showed different sale prices. The witness stated that in the absence of corroborating documentary evidence, the assessment should not be changed, and advised the registrant's counsel Mr. Malach that the information provided by the registrant for the audit period was not sufficient. There was correspondence and meetings with Mr. Malach with copies of some invoices being provided by him. Finally on November 5, 1999, Mr. Malach notified the witness by fax, that his client Norman Daniels Fine Cars Limited had instructed him not to make any further representations to her as they did not feel that the Appeals Branch would change its view of the audit. On December 10, 1999, the witness sent a memorandum to the Assistant Deputy Minister, Tax Revenue Division (Exhibit 4, Tab 6) confirming her opinion that the revised assessment amount of $385,862.00 should be upheld.

In cross-examination, Ms Young confirmed that there were no outstanding assessments for either Norman Lovatsis or Danny Lovatsis personally. The witness also agreed that according to her materials, the reason given for the loss of some invoices by Norman Lovatsis, Danny Lovatsis, and their accountant, was that the records were stolen. The records had been picked up from the accountant by Norman Lovatsis; left in an automobile outside of his home; the vehicle was stolen; and when the vehicle was later found, the records were missing. In her evidence, the witness tried to draw an inference of dishonesty against Norman Lovatsis by testifying that she had a police report showing that the loss of records was not reported to the police. Under cross-examination she could not produce a police report, and testified that she was simply in possession of a copy of a police officer's business card with no information other than his name, badge number, Division, and telephone number. There was no source of any kind given for her statement that the records were not reported stolen. She also agreed that the auditor did a search of the Ministry of Transportation records for transactions and based the values on the "Red Book" value. There was no explanation of how the Red Book value was determined.

Ms. Young testified that a Notice of Assessment was issued on November 7, 1996 in the amount of $732,072.96 inclusive of penalty and interest against Norman Daniels Fine cars Ltd. (Exhibit 6). A Notice of Objection dated March 17, 1997 was filed by David Malach a solicitor representing Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. (Exhibit 7) In this document, the taxpayer stated that all tax was collected and remitted as required for the period in question.

On December 17, 1997 a Statement of Account was issued by the Ministry of Finance reducing the assessment by $27,531.41 to a total of $549,922.76 (Exhibit 8) The witness testified that an explanatory letter was sent by Mr. Wallace of the Ministry of Finance on April 9, 1998 (Exhibit 9) explaining that he found the approach taken by the Retail Sales Tax Branch to be reasonable. In this letter, he refers to his initial review and the fact that initial source documents' were not available and that the approach taken by the Retail Sales Tax Branch of referring to the Red Book values for the transactions without proper source documents was reasonable.

Ms. Young testified that where there is a finding of neglect or carelessness, a penalty of about 25% can be added to the Retail Sales Tax as assessed, and there are also provisions for reassessment at any time if there is a finding of misrepresentation, fraud, or neglect. In cross-examination, she agreed that in her letter of June 16, 1999 to David Malach, the solicitor for Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. no mention is made of calls to the customers or any allegations of fraud. (Exhibit 3, Tab 3) In that letter in the third paragraph on the second page, she advised the solicitor that:

"In the absence of corroborating documentary evidence such as proof of customer payments (e.g. bank deposits, cheque payments or visa payments) to support these vehicle sales, I am not in a position to conclude that your calculation of tax on these vehicle sales was correct. Adjustments can only be made to the assessment based upon each Sales invoice and proof of customer payments. Furthermore the sales information you provided for the audit period was not sufficient for my review since it was not supported by documentary evidence."

Ms. Young agreed that she expressed her opinion of the taxpayer's failure to use due care to ensure the safety of the records so that they could be produced for audit. There was also a request for information about the one transaction in August 1996 in which the invoice obtained from the customer showed a sale price of $6,800.00 with sales tax of $544.00, and an invoice provided by the taxpayer to the auditor showed a sale price of $4,000.00 with sales tax of $320.00. An explanation of this discrepancy was requested.

The witness explained that once the decision was made and sent to the Deputy Minister, the taxpayer could either take the matter to court or accept the decision. On October 7, 1999 the witness had a meeting with Mr. Malach in which there was further discussion about the loss of the records and the assertion by the witness that there was a police report showing that the records had never been reported as stolen. In cross-examination, the witness agreed that she did not receive a police report. The witness testified that after this meeting she sent a further letter on October 18, 1999 to Mr. Malach (Exhibit 4, Tab 5) requesting documentation for 11 transactions from August 1, 1996 to August 7, 1996. This letter referred to their not being any missing records mentioned in the police report, and invited Mr. Malach to provide a police report showing that records were reported missing.

In response, she received a letter dated November 25, 1999 from Mr. Malach on behalf of Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. saying that he was instructed by the taxpayer not to make any further representations, and would therefore not be answering questions in her letter of October 18, 1999. The witness stated that she attempted to contact the customers for the 21 invoices provided by Mr. Malach; however, she could not vouch for the accuracy of what she was told, and she commented that people are usually not very cooperative.

MARILYN BLAZEVIC

The next witness for the Registrar was Ms. Blazevic who testified that she is a field collections officer for the Collections Branch of the Ministry of Finance. Her evidence was that the file for Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. was an active file. The Ministry hoped to collect the tax from the directors under section 43 of the Retail Sales Tax Act on the basis that the directors did not show due diligence in carrying out their duties to collect the sales tax. She stated that the policy of the Collections Branch, and the statutory time limit, is to attempt to collect from directors up to 2 years after the individuals have ceased to be directors of the company. If the matter is outside the two-year limit, the file goes to the Special Collections Branch where it is kept as an active file in an attempt to collect the funds.

In cross-examination, Ms. Blazevic agreed that the Notice of Assessment had been against Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd.; a Notice of Objection had been filed claiming that all tax had been paid; a Credit Note had been given reducing the assessment; and a letter had gone from the Collections Branch (Exhibit 10) to the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council requesting that a Proposal be issued against Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. She was also aware that the Proposal was withdrawn due to the fact that the Notice of Objection had been filed. No Notice of Assessment had ever been filed against Norman Lovatsis or Daniel Lovatsis and a company audit had been done only for Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd.

BRENDA NEEDHAM

The parties agreed that the following evidence of this witness could be read into the record as follows:

"On January 5, 1999, Brenda Needham purchased a 1990 Jeep Cherokee as indicated at Exhibit 3, Tab # 9. As a result of apparent defects in the car, Mrs. Needham called the dealer, when she did not receive satisfaction; she contacted the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council. OMVIC performed a MTO search that revealed that the vendor of the vehicle to the dealer was Cardinal Auto Sales through the Toronto Auto Auction, Exhibit 3, Tab 7. At the time of the sale to the dealer, the odometer disclosure was 261,000 Kms. As a result of a successful mediation with OMVIC, the dealer provided a full refund in exchange for the vehicle, Exhibit 3, Tab 10."

AMANDA LEEDEMPSEY

The next witness on behalf of the Registrar was Amanda LeeDempsey who is the Manager of Inspections for the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council (OMVIC). She began her employment in 1997 as an inspector, became the lead inspector, and was promoted to the position of manager. She explained that the purpose of OMVIC is to enforce the Ontario Motor Vehicle Dealers Act which is a consumer protection statute dealing with the registration of dealers and salespersons, customer complaints and mediations, inspections of dealers premises and records, and investigations of breaches of the statute. Under section 5 of the Act, there is a requirement that business should be conducted with honesty, integrity, and financial responsibility and in accordance with the law. Each time there is an application for registration or renewal, there is an examination of the background of the Applicant, and in this case her investigation was triggered by the latest application. As a result, she began to look at the past conduct of both Danny and Norman Lovatsis. She did research and concluded that there was a lack of honesty, integrity, and financial responsibility so the Proposal was issued August 17, 1999.

The facts she relied upon for her decision related to the issue of the odometer reading for the 1990 GMC Jeep Cherokee, the altered document relating to the purchase of the 1988 GMC Jimmy by Mr. Leang, the Weiland transaction and the issue of the documents and unpaid Retail Sales Tax.

Ms. LeeDempsey's evidence concerning the odometer reading was that the vehicle was purchased at auction with 261,000 km on the disclosure information. When it was sold to Brenda Needham the invoice showed that the true mileage was unknown, and the odometer reading was crossed out. She found that the vehicle had been returned for a refund after a mediation and the vehicle was later sold to Mr. Mascoll. On this invoice there was a notation which stated that the vehicle "could have more than 261,000 km". In her opinion the dealer knew that it had more than 261,000 km. The odometer reading was relevant to the price and should therefore have been on the bill of sale. In her opinion this was a misrepresentation of facts that showed a lack of integrity, and contravened the requirements in the regulations. In cross-examination, she agreed that the vehicle had been sold "as is" and that there was no indication that the odometer was functional. She agreed that if the odometer was not functional, it would also not give a true representation of the vehicle's mileage. If the odometer is replaced, the regulations require that the new one be turned forward to the same reading as the old one; however, she agreed that no one in the industry does that, and it is an accepted practice that a record is kept of the old reading. She did not know what the standard practice of a mechanic is for odometer replacement, but she was aware that in some cases a sticker is put on or under the dashboard. When she was shown the Inspection Findings report dated November 18 and December 22, 1997 (Exhibit 13) she agreed that the Applicants had been directed by the inspector that:

"all disclosures must be accurately and clearly indicated on bills of sale - especially "TRUE KILOMETERS UNKNOWN" "

She agreed that by writing "true mileage unknown" on the bills of sale the Applicants were complying with the direction from the inspector. She also agreed that the dealer could not know the actual mileage, but said it was better if the dealer put an indication on the bill of sale showing that the mileage could be more than the number on the original odometer.

She testified that there had been a Proposal (Exhibit 11) on September 9, 1997 against Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. due to the problem of the sales tax arrears. However, this was withdrawn on the basis that an Objection had been filed, and it was expected that the matter would be determined at a hearing. When she contacted the Ministry of Finance, she found that a hearing had not been held and there was still an outstanding claim. In cross-examination she said that she was aware that the Applicants had reported the theft of some records. She agreed that there is nothing in the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act requiring the records to be actually kept on the premises as the intent of the Act was simply that there is free access to books and records. After reviewing the history of the assessment by the Ministry of Finance and the Objection, Ms. Lee Dempsey agreed that she had been contacted by the Ministry of Finance, Collections Branch requesting that a Proposal be issued, followed by a letter dated August 24, 1999 (Exhibit 14) to OMVIC requesting that a Proposal be issued to revoke the motor vehicle registration for Norman Lovatsis, Danny Lovatsis, George Lovatsis and George Meandros.

The witness testified that she found the altered invoice of the Leang transaction in which the dealer provided a copy showing a sales price of $4,000.00, and the invoice provided by the customer showed a sale price of $6,800.00. On this basis, she determined that there had been dishonesty, as the dealer had received money in trust for the payment of the sales tax, and had not remitted it as required. In cross-examination Ms. LeeDempsey testified that this invoice had been created to replace one which was lost and was not a case of one invoice being prepared by the vendor at a lower price, and another invoice being given to the customer.

STEPHEN JOHN WEILAND

The next witness for the registrar was Stephen John Weiland who purchased a vehicle from Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. In 1992 he saw a 1988 Chevrolet Blazer 4 X 4 listed for sale at $6,950.00 in the Auto Trader newspaper. After test driving the vehicle and having minor repairs done, he went on June 24, 1992 to finalize the deal. His evidence was that he signed the Bill of Sale in blank, gave the deposit and agreed to return Friday, June 26, 1992 to pay the balance and pickup the vehicle. The price agreed upon was $6,200.00 plus tax for a total of $7,100.00. He testified that he dealt with Norman Lovatsis who instructed him to bring a $5,000.00 certified cheque, and $2,100.00 in cash. These instructions were written by Mr. Lovatsis on his business card, and a copy of was produced as part of Exhibit 15(1). The witness produced copies of the documents, Exhibit 16(1)(2), showing that his father withdrew $7,100.00 on June 24, 1992. He testified that he did not notice that the Bill of Sale was for a different amount until he provided it to counsel in preparation for a lawsuit involving mechanical deficiencies with the vehicle.

In cross-examination, it was suggested to him that he had a fixed amount of money he was willing to spend and there was negotiation about the original asking price of $6,950.00. He agreed that there was negotiation, but he did not agree that he knew of any misrepresentation of the sales price on the Bill of Sale. He continued to assert that he had signed a blank Bill of Sale, left without a receipt, and did not look at the figures on the Bill of Sale until the litigation. He agreed that during the litigation he made no allegations of signing the bill of sale in blank or coming back two days later. Mr. Weiland also denied that Norman Lovatsis had told him that the only way to keep the price down was for the dealer to show a reduced price and save money on tax. He agreed that during the lawsuit a mechanic sent by Norman Lovatsis inspected the vehicle, and following that he settled for $1,200.50 inclusive of costs even though the original claim was for $7,600.00.

WITNESS FOR THE APPLICANTS:

Evidence was called on behalf of the Applicants, and testimony was given by Danny Lovatsis and Andreas Theori.

Danny Lovatsis testified that his 37 years of age, was born in Toronto and went to work in the car business in 1984 when he was registered as a salesman. He has no criminal record, has never been bankrupt, has served as a volunteer on an association within the industry, and resigned as a director of Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. in January, 1997.

His evidence was that Norman Lovatsis did some sales work but was more involved with the administration of the Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. including the book keeping. The witness was aware that the books and records including the monthly contracts were kept at the office and that the paperwork was dealt with by Norman Lovatsis. Older book keeping materials and records were kept at the office of the bookkeeper. Danny Lovatsis testified that he was aware that the auditor was coming back, and that arrangements were made to get the materials from the bookkeeper's office. The witness learned that some records were lost when Norman Lovatsis' car was stolen from his driveway, and was present when the auditor was given this information. He received the Assessment from the Retail Sales Tax Branch and turned the document over to Norman Lovatsis who hired a lawyer to deal with it on behalf of the company.

Norman Lovatsis had all dealings with a lawyer and gave any instructions or information to him. When they received legal advice they removed themselves as officers and directors from Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. and moved to their father's company as salesmen. George Meanchos became the director for Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. in order to keep the company alive until the final outcome of the Retail Sales Tax matter. On October 22, 1999 their father George Lovatsis died and Danny Lovatsis carried on business under the numbered company operating under the trade name until January 1999 when 4 X 4 Headquarters Ltd. was set up under his name and his salesman's licence was transferred. After this company was set up, 1196034 Ontario Ltd. was wound up and 1351849 Ontario Ltd. was set up by Norman Lovatsis. They intended that Norman and Danny Lovatsis would operate separate companies as Norman wished to work in the wholesale side of the business.

On the issue of the odometer reading for the 1990 Jeep Cherokee, the witness testified that when the vehicle was purchased at auction, the odometer read 261,000; however, as it was not working, he did not know the true mileage of the vehicle. He took the vehicle to the Cosburn Auto Center and authorized them to purchase and install a used dashboard. The reading on the odometer which was installed was 131,000 km, and he testified that it was not the practice in the industry to turn the replacement odometer forward to match the setting on the replaced unit. He also stated that he would have no way to know that the original reading was correct as he did not know if that was the original odometer for the vehicle. As a result, the vehicle was sold to Brenda Needham with a notation that the true distance traveled was unknown, which was sufficient according to the practice recommended by the inspector (Exhibit 13). Mrs. Needham was not satisfied with the vehicle, and after mediation the full purchase price was refunded despite fact she had driven the vehicle from mid January 1999 until April 1999. The vehicle was then sold by him to Mr. Mascoll who test drove it, and prior to the completion of the transaction was told that the actual mileage could be more than 261,000 km at the time the dashboard was replaced. This procedure was used because Norman Lovatsis advised him that OMVIC required disclosure of the original reading. Mr. Mascoll completed the transaction after he had been given this information, and was driving the vehicle. Mr. Mascoll was given a Warranty for one year with LUBICO, and the witness explained that the total distance traveled shown on the application form was "NA" and the reading of 135,200 km. on the actual odometer installed had to be used since there was a 12,000 km limit on the warranty. When he was asked about this in cross-examination, his answers were consistent with his examination in chief.

Mr. Danny Lovatsis testified that he did not create the duplicate invoice for the Leang transaction, and was not aware that Norman Lovatsis had given the lawyer that document. His evidence was that he did not send any documents to the lawyer. This was done by his brother who took care of the paperwork. In the future, he intended to continue as a director with 4 by 4 Headquarters Ltd. At present, he is the sole support of his family. He said that he does not know any other type of work.

In cross-examination, Mr. Lovatsis testified that the odometer reading can affect the price of a used vehicle, but stated that for an older vehicle, like they sell, the condition of the vehicle will affect the price more than the odometer reading. For newer vehicles that would not have been reconditioned, he agreed that the odometer reading would be a very important factor in determining the price. On the issue of profit margin, he pointed out that the difference between the price at auction and the sale price is not the profit, as there are the costs of reconditioning, transportation and advertising before the vehicles are sold.

The witness was not aware if his duties as a director were explained to him and did not remember meeting with a lawyer. He was aware that the taxes had to be collected and remitted to the government. When he was asked why they agreed to a second audit with the same documents missing, he said that he did not think that they had a choice. In his opinion the figures used by the Ministry were based on speculation, and he disagreed with their accuracy. The auditor appeared to use the highest book value for the best model of the vehicle in each case rather than the actual model and based on the actual condition. In the original assessment, trade-ins were also not considered.

In cross-examination, he confirmed that he did not deal with Mr. Weiland. He had some recollection of the lawsuit although he had not heard of the $7,100.00 figure until these proceedings.

ANDREAS THEORI

The next witness was Mr. Andreas Theori who testified that he is 48 years of age, and is a Canadian citizen. He is a class A mechanic, and operates a business known as Cosburn Auto Center which employs 4 licenced mechanics and 1 apprentice.

Mr. Theori testified that he knows the Applicants and has dealt with them since 1992. They have brought cars for repairs, safety certificates and inspections. During his dealings with them, they have paid their bills and he has found them to be honest. He testified that he went to Barrie, Ontario to inspect a 1988 Chevrolet Blazer although he was unsure of the exact year that he went. Although there was supposed to be a problem with the head gasket and holes in the car, he examined the vehicle and found that there were no problems with the compression, the radiator fluid, or holes in the floor or the tail pipe.

In January of 1999, he testified that Mrs. Needham came in with a 1990 Jeep Cherokee which had purchased at auction. Some of the gauges including the odometer were not working, so it was decided to change the dashboard. Norman Lovatsis made arrangements to purchase a used dashboard from a wrecker and the unit which was obtained had a reading of approximately 130,000, km whereas the existing odometer read approximately 260,000 km. Rather than rolling the odometer forward he stated that he put stickers showing the odometer reading behind the dashboard, and on the door post so that any mechanic would know the mileage. Following that, he serviced the vehicle so that it would meet the safety requirements. His recollection was that Norman Lovatsis had a credit at the wrecking yard for returned merchandise, and used it to pay for the dashboard so there was no paperwork involved. In cross-examination, he recalled that the labor cost for the dashboard was $90.00, and stated that it was necessary to keep a record of the odometer reading as it is a very serious matter and against the law to tamper with an odometer. In the past he had sold used cars as part of his business, but was not doing so now.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

RETAIL SALES TAX

In the Notice of Proposal, the Registrar at paragraph 10 of the Particulars claims that Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. is indebted in the amount of $700,000 to the Ministry of Finance for unpaid Retail Sales Tax. The Tribunal finds that the present balance is $385,862.00 plus any applicable interest that might have accumulated. This balance was provided to Ms Young by the Collections Branch after the figure in the Credit Note (Exhibit 8) December 15, 1997 of $545,159.00 was further reduced to account for the trade-ins and wholesale transactions.

The Tribunal finds that Norman Lovatsis and Danny Lovatsis were officers of Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. commencing in January 1994 then resigned as officers and directors in January 1997 on the advice of counsel. There had been an audit of Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. during which certain documents relating to August 1996 were not produced by the taxpayer and were claimed to have been stolen. No evidence was produced by the Registrar to disapprove this. Ms Young of the Tax Appeals Branch in her evidence and correspondence claimed to be in possession of a police report showing that records were not reported as stolen but under cross-examination Ms Young was only able to produce a copy of a police officer's business card. The Ministry assessed the value of vehicles through the use of the Red Book, and the taxpayer hired a lawyer to provide advice. A Notice of Objection was filed claiming that all tax was duly paid. Attempts were made to produce documents and obtain documents from customers to reconstruct the relevant time period. In the course of this, the taxpayer submitted one recreated document with figures that did not match the Bill of Sale from the customer. The Tribunal finds that this document was produced by Norman Lovatsis.

There were notations in the auditor's notes indicating that when customers were contacted, four or five provided a higher sales price from that of the taxpayer, but there were no copies of documents or specifics. The Tribunal gives this evidence very little weight as there are not enough specifics for it to be found reliable without an explanation by the maker of the notes.

There was no evidence as to how the values from the Red Book was calculated, or whether the proper models and conditions of vehicles were known, and were taken into account. This assessment was changed once in a Credit Note, and again reduced when the trade-ins were taken into account. Finally, when the assessment was confirmed on the basis that the Applicants did not provide the required documentation, the Applicants instructed counsel not to take any further steps to oppose the assessment. By this time, more than two years had elapsed since Danny Lovatsis and Norman Lovatsis had been directors of Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. No assessment had been made against either of them personally, and according to the statute the two-year period for the Ministry to make an assessment against them as directors had passed.

The file for Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. had been passed to the Special Collections Branch of the Ministry of Revenue; however, nothing further was done other than a request for the Proposal that is presently before this Tribunal. Based on both the oral evidence of the witnesses and the documentation, the Tribunal finds that Norman Lovatsis was involved with matters of administration and some sales, whereas Danny Lovatsis was involved in sales, and the acquisition of vehicles by the dealership. Danny Lovatsis did not take an active role in the administration of the business. In matters relating to the Retail Sales Tax, the Tribunal finds that he left his brother Norman Lovatsis to deal with the matter, and followed the advice of counsel.

ODOMETER ALLEGATIONS

The allegations of misleading statements regarding odometer readings relate to the transactions involving the 1990 Jeep Cherokee. The Tribunal finds that this evidence relates to the conduct of Danny Lovatsis.

It is found as a fact that the reading on the odometer at time the vehicle was sold at auction was 261,000 km. based on the disclosure information provided at the auction. On the sale to Mrs. Needham the mileage was shown as "unknown". When the sale to Mr. Moscoll was to be finalized the mileage was still shown as 'unknown', but Danny Lovatsis informed Mr. Moscoll that the true mileage could have been in excess of 261,000 km when the dashboard was replaced, and allowed him the opportunity to cancel the transaction and receive a refund of his deposit if he wished. This procedure followed the advice given by the inspector to the Applicants in the Inspection Findings Report (Exhibit 13). It is disturbing that on the vendor's copy of the invoice from the Toronto Auto Auctions the mileage is blacked out, but this does not change the fact that Mr. Mascoll was told of the odometer reading shown on the Invoice from the auction.

The Tribunal also accepts the evidence of Mr. Lovatsis, as corroborated by Mr. Theori that the odometer was not functioning when the vehicle was acquired, and that the entire dashboard was replaced with the standard industry procedure being followed.

In these circumstances, this is not a case of odometer tampering, and there was adequate disclosure made.

CREATION OF DOCUMENT

There was no dispute that David Malloch, the counsel for Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd., provided a copy of an invoice for the Leang transaction (Exhibit 4, Tab 9) in which the figures do not correspond with the copy provided by the purchaser. The total balance on the vendor's copy was $4,400.00 and the total balance on the purchaser's copy was $7,500.00 with the difference in Provincial Sales Tax being $224.00. It was conceded, and it is found by the Tribunal that this document was created by Norman Lovatsis in answer to the request for documentation during the audits.

FALSE PRICE ON INVOICE

There was a false invoice created in 1992 for the sale of the 1988 Blazer to Mr. Weiland. The Tribunal finds based on the evidence of Mr. Weiland, the notations on the business card and the bank documents, that Norman Lovatsis received $7,100.00 on the sale of the vehicle, and provided an invoice for $4,500.00 plus federal and provincial tax for a total of $5,175.00. Counsel conceded that the figures were not correct, and offered the explanation on behalf of Norman Lovatsis that it was, in fact, done to reduce the tax payable and bring the price down.

The Tribunal accepts this, and does not find Mr. Weiland's evidence credible when he testified that he did not look at the bill until the lawsuit, and or have knowledge of what was happening at the time. This was a dishonest act even if done with the consent or acquiescence of the customer. The salesman on that sale was Norman Lovatsis, and there is no evidence that Danny Lovatsis participated in the transaction.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The legal issues in this case are whether the Applicants will carry on business with integrity, honesty, in accordance with the law. In relation to these issues, the Tribunal finds the following facts to be relevant past conduct

With regard to the Retail Sales Tax, there is no admission by the Applicants that they had not paid their tax and they took issue with the manner in which the amounts were assessed although the method was provided for by statute. Once the two-year limit had passed, and Norman and Danny Lovatsis were no longer subject to being personally assessed for the tax liability as directors, they chose to discontinue their opposition to the assessment.

This raises an issue of what the relevant standard of conduct should be. Is it reasonable for a person in business to continue the costs and time to oppose a claim against the assets of an inactive company and for which one has now no apparent personal liability even though the government had only a two year period in which to file an assessment against the directors personally? To answer this in the affirmative would hold a taxpayer to the standard of paying a claim which he denies, and which is outside of the time limit for which he can be personally assessed.

The Tribunal finds that if the taxpayer personally relies on protection provided by a statutory limitation period, this is not conduct which is acting other than in accordance with the law. Norman Lovatsis and Danny Lovatsis are found for the purposes of this hearing not to be personally indebted to the Ministry of Finance for the Retail Sales Tax owed by Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. The Tribunal finds that this does not lead to an conclusion of dishonesty, lack of integrity or lack of financial responsibility.

Their past conduct in their capacity as the directing minds of Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. is that they retained counsel to deal with the matter, filed the objection and followed counsel's advice. Their claim that the documents were stolen appears suspiciously convenient, but there is no evidence to disprove it. The creation of the Leang document was an act of dishonesty by Norman Lovatsis but did not involve Danny Lovatsis. George Meanos is an officer of the company, and now that the assessment has been affirmed, he has made no effort to pay it.

The Tribunal can make no finding of dishonesty or lack of integrity or failure to carry on business in accordance with the law from the facts concerning the odometer reading of the 1990 Jeep Cherokee, as a reasonable explanation was given as set out in the findings of fact.

The Tribunal finds that there is a concern with honesty, integrity, and carrying on business in accordance to the law in relation to the sale to Mr. Weiland of the 1988 Chevrolet Blazer by Norman Lovatsis. On the facts as found, this was a clear case of creating a false invoice to show a reduced sale price and thereby reduce tax payable. Whatever the motive may have been, this was a dishonest act and was a failure on carry on business in accordance with the law and with integrity. Similarly, the creation of an invoice in the Leang transaction shows a lack of honesty. The figures were either selected at random or based on some other false record. In either case, recreating a document and offering it as authentic is not consistent with honesty or integrity or carrying on business in accordance with the law. There was no evidence that Norman Lovatsis had any independent recollection of the transaction.

The Tribunal finds that George Meanchos was used simply to keep Norman Daniels Fine Cars Ltd. open. He took no active role in trying to settle the affairs of the company. He did not take part in these proceedings. There is no evidence except that he is a director of a company which now has a tax liability. There is, therefore, a serious problem concerning his financial responsibility.

The legal test to be used by the Tribunal is whether the Registrar was in error in deciding that the past conduct of the Applicant provided reasonable grounds to believe that the Applicant would not carry on business in accordance with honesty, integrity and in accordance with the law. The Tribunal finds that the Registrar was not in error in proposing to revoke the registration of Norman Lovatsis and George Meanchos and refusing the registration of 1351849 Ontario Ltd., which is a company set up by Norman Lovatsis. The Tribunal finds that the Registrar was in error in revoking the registration of Danny Lovatsis. If Norman Lovatsis is no longer involved with 4 X 4 Headquarters Ltd., the Tribunal finds that the Registrar would be in error to revoke the registration of that company.

DECISION:

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in it under s. 7(4) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act the Licence Appeal Tribunal directs the Registrar:

- 1) To carry out his Proposal to revoke the registration of Norman Lovatsis, George Meanchos, and 1196034 Ontario Ltd. o/a 4 X 4 Headquarters, and to refuse the registration of 1351849 Ontario Ltd., and
- 2) Not to carry out the Proposal against Danny Lovatsis and 4 X 4 Headquarters Ltd.

WILLIAM B. SHARPE

Appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap.H.8 as amended (the "Act"), from the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 55.1(3) of the Act.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: ANTOINE AOUAD, M.D.
Presiding member

APPEARANCES: SANDRA QUADRINI
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

WILLIAM B. SHARPE, Applicant
unrepresented

DATE OF HEARING: June 27, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: June 29, 2000 Sault St. Marie

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on June 27, 2000, at Sault St. Marie, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	William B. Sharpe (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle:	1989 Mazda 626, plate # 521 VAH (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal:	June 13, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on June 27, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

The Respondent filed certified copies of Ministry of Transportation documents, previously submitted as part of the Respondent's evidence.

Documents tendered were entered into evidence as exhibits with the consent of both parties.

There no other preliminary matters.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.
Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

"LICENSE APPEAL TRIBUNAL
SUITE 1200
1 ST. CLAIR AVENUE WEST
TORONTO, ONTARIO
M4V 1K6

ATTENTION: HEARING CO-ORDINATOR

I am writing in regard to the impoundment of my automobile.

I was under the impression that Edward Sharpe's license suspension was up in February 2000.

The only correspondence that Edward had received from the Ministry of Transportation stated that he had ninety (90) day suspension. No further correspondence was ever received in regard to this matter.

I feel that my car was unjustly impounded

Sincerely,

WILLIAM BURTON SHARPE"

By letter dated June 11, the Applicant and legal owner of the vehicle, William Sharpe, informs the Ministry that he feels the "car was unjustly impounded". (Exhibit # 2)

Mr. Sharpe states that the "...only correspondence that Edward received from Ministry ... stated that he had a ninety (90) day suspension". (Exhibit # 2)

Mr. Sharpe further notes, at the bottom of his letter, to call attention to the fact that the "...officer did not sign the Vehicle Impoundment form..." (Exhibit # 2)

At the hearing, the Applicant testified that Edward Sharpe is his son. The Applicant knew his son's driver's licence had been suspended but his son showed him a temporary driver's licence sometime in March. The Applicant did not ask to see his son's driver's licence again, and he did not ask to see it on the occasion in question.

Mr. Edward Sharpe testified that he went to the Justice of the Peace to ask for time to pay his fines, and a temporary driver's licence was issued to him at the time. Mr. Sharpe affirmed he was not aware of the automatic one year suspension after the impaired conviction, nor did he remember signing the acknowledgement form. Mr. Sharpe remembers receiving a notification of the 90 days suspension but not the one year.

In closing, the Applicant reiterated his previous remarks and stated that he feels that he should not be punished for his son's mistakes.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Jason Lebreton;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving while disqualified under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until July 8, 2023.

The Respondent further tendered in evidence:

Court Order signed by Edward Sharpe acknowledging that his licence would be suspended "FOR A PERIOD OF One Year commencing on ...AUG 26, 1999"

NOTICE OF SUSPENSION OF DRIVER'S LICENCE - 1999/08/27 - SHARPE, W. EDWARD - 90 DAYS

NOTICE OF SUSPENSION OF DRIVER'S LICENCE - 1999/09/07 - SHARPE, W. EDWARD - 1 YEAR

In closing, the Respondent cited and provided the Tribunal with previous Tribunal decisions which support the Ministry's position, more particularly: Gennaro Sisera - January 27, 2000; Evelyn Alma Lampey - February 17, 2000; Lairn T. Allin - May 13, 1999; Bhagavat Pandya - March 8, 2000

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The onus is on the Applicant to establish the due diligence ground of appeal as provided in subsection 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

By his own admission, the Applicant admitted that the one and only time he asked to see his son's driver's licence prior to allowing him to drive the car was sometime in March.

The Respondent contends that the Applicant did not exercise due diligence as he did not ask to see his son's driver's licence on the occasion in question.

The Respondent's argument was substantiated by the decision of the Tribunal (then known as the Licence Suspension Appeal Board) regarding Evelyn Alma Lampey - February 17, 2000, part of which states: "seeing... driver's licence at some unspecified time in the past, does not constitute an active initiative on the part of the Appellant, and thus cannot be considered and act of due diligence on the part of the Appellant..."

The Tribunal concurs. In order to exercise proper due diligence the owner of a motor vehicle must take an active role in inquiring about the status of the driver's licence of the prospect driver prior to allowing the car to be driven by the individual. Thus, the Tribunal is not satisfied that the Applicant's viewing his son's driver's licence two months prior to the incident, constitutes an act of due diligence as per Section 50.2(3)(c).

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

- received June 9, 2000

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

The Respondent objected to the introduction of the letter from Psychiatrist #1 on the grounds that the Ministry was not provided with a copy of this letter prior to the hearing.

An itemized list of documents provided for the hearing was submitted to the Tribunal.

FACTS:

The Applicant is appealing the suspension of her driving privileges effective "99/05/30" as per Ministry of Transportation Driver's Abstract (Exhibit # 3 Tab 9).

The Applicant came to the attention of the Ministry as a result of an unsolicited letter, dated "8/3/99". Physician # 2, informs the Ministry that the Applicant suffers from "Bipolar disorder... lacks insight and judgment and is therefore not fit until she receives treatment ...concerned because she has indicated ...that she will not comply with ...recommendation that she not drive". (Exhibit # 3 Tab 1)

Physician # 3, from the Grand River Hospital, in Kitchener, writes to the Ministry on October 18, 1999. Physician # 3 details the Applicant's history and current condition "...suffers from chronic paranoid schizophrenia ...became quite psychotic and had to be admitted to London Psychiatric Hospital ...discharged on the recommendation that she continue the Fluanxol injection 100 mgs per month ...I have seen her on a monthly basis since May. She is well stabilized on this medication and she is doing reasonably well..." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3)

In conclusion, Physician # 3 summarizes that "...she is very well-controlled now with the Fluanxol injection. She is quite stable. Her sensorium is clear and she is quite lucid... there is no confusion. There is no evidence of psychosis; She has very good insight and judgment. She is quite capable of driving a vehicle again..." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3)

Attached to Physician # 3's letter is a report from the London Psychiatric Hospital signed by Physician # 4, Resident in Psychiatry for Physician # 5, and by Physician # 5, Psychiatrist. This report apparently dated "98 08 14" and "98 09 08" provides information on the incident that led the Applicant to be re-admitted, at this time, as well as on her condition during her admission and medication prescribed. (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3 A)

Also, attached to Physician # 3's report is an admission report detailing a prior admission to London Psychiatric Hospital on July 13 1982. This report is signed by Physician # 6 who diagnosis the Applicant as suffering from "Chronic paranoid schizophrenia". (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3 B)

A Discharge Summary from the London Psychiatric Hospital, dated April 6, 1983, signed by Physician # 6, conveys that the Applicant was able to accept that her husband "...was not desirous of maintaining the relationship ...children ...have been made Crown wards ...the Applicant would be best placed in H.S.C. placement ...arrangements were made for her to be admitted to Crestwood program ...placing her affairs voluntarily under the Public Trustee." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3 B)

In a letter, dated August 12, 1999, Physician # 7, of the department of Clinical Information & Records Services. London/St. Thomas Psychiatric Hospital, informs Physician # 3 of the Applicant's "...dates of hospitalization ...February 17, 1981 - January 8, 1982 July 13, 1982 - April 6, 1983 August 11, 1998 - January 22, 1999 May 3, 1999 - Presently on Leave of Absence." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3 D)

MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE CASE STUDY, dated December 15, 1999, confirms the suspension on the grounds that it is "too early to assess..." A recommendation is made "...1 year period free from symptoms, compliance with treatment and medication". (Exhibit # 3 Tab 5)

ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW - MEDICAL SUSPENSIONS, dated "March 1, 2000", completed by Margaret Braun, notes that the Applicant "suffered a mental breakdown in 1978..." and details the Applicant's history as explained by the Applicant. The Applicant states that she was "...admitted to London Hospital in May 1999 and her relatives took her to K-W Hospital in January 2000..." (Exhibit # 3 Tab 7)

Letter from Psychiatrist # 1, M.B. F.R.C.P. (c) consulting Psychiatrist with Hazelglen Outreach Mental Health Service, dated June 9, 2000, confirms that the Applicant "...was most recently discharged from hospital on March 3, 2000 and since then has complied with treatment including depo antipsychotic medication. She is not showing any active signs of her illness and mental state appears to be quite stable. Her medication should not interfere with her ability to drive safely" (Exhibit # 2).

At the hearing, the Applicant denied the diagnosis of paranoid schizophrenia. The Applicant contends that she has been misdiagnosed all these years and that her only problem is a "mood disorder". She blames her husband for her misfortunes because he "molested the children".

The Applicant now feels that she is better able to cope as her medication, which was a problem before, has now been changed.

The Applicant testified that she was hospitalized from the end of January until March 3, 2000.

The Respondent reiterated the contents of the information contained in the written material provided for the hearing and filed as Exhibit # 3 Tabs 1 through 9.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
 - (b) a driver's licence; or
 - (c) a CVOR certificate,
- on the grounds of,
- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
 - (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
 - (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
 - (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

- 50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board.
- (2) The Tribunal may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

The Notice of Appeal prescribed under the Act, does not state the effective date of suspension. Given the extenuating circumstances surrounding this matter, the Tribunal has used, for the record, the date shown on the Ministry of Transportation Driver's Record.

Section 47(1) unquestionably empowers the Registrar to "...suspend or cancel" a driver's licence for "any...sufficient reason...". The Registrar originally suspended the Applicant's driver's licence after receiving an unsolicited letter dated "8/3/99" from Physician # 2. Physician # 2 informs the Ministry that the Applicant is afflicted with a "Bipolar disorder... lacks insight and judgment...". (Exhibit # 3 Tab 1)

Regulation 390/94, Section 14 (a) is clear in that:

"An applicant for a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- a) suffer from a mental, emotional nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely..."*

The Tribunal finds that the Ministry acted properly and in accordance with the Regulation in suspending the Applicant's driving privileges.

At issue is the mental competency of the Applicant. It appears, as is common in such conditions, that the Applicant is not cognizant of her affliction. The Tribunal substantiates this conclusion, by noting the Applicant's denial that she suffers from a mental debility, and her accusation of others as responsible for her predicament. The Tribunal also notes to the fact that the Applicant denies the facts surrounding her hospitalizations.

Over the past twenty years, the Applicant has had several lengthy hospitalizations. It seemed that there was a rather stable period between April 6, 1983 and August 11, 1998. Nonetheless, there was apparent relapse and at least three further hospitalizations ensued. (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3 D)

Physician # 3 concludes in his letter, dated October 18, 1999, that the Applicant "...is very well-controlled ...quite stable ...sensorium is clear ...quite lucid... there is no confusion ...no evidence of psychosis ...good insight and judgment... capable of driving a vehicle again..." is superseded by the fact that the Applicant was since hospitalized for a period of approximately three months. (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3)

The original medical findings, by all physicians involved, are indisputable. As early as July 13 1982, Physician # 6, of the London Psychiatric Hospital diagnosed the Applicant as suffering from "Chronic paranoid schizophrenia". (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3 B). Physician # 3 corroborates this assessment of October 18, 1999. (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3)

Given the Applicant's recent release from hospital, it would be premature to presume that her condition has stabilized. There is ample evidence in the past of periods of remission followed by a relapse. (Exhibit # 3 Tab 3 D)

In weighing the evidence presented, the Tribunal is satisfied that the Applicant does not meet the criteria described in Regulation 340/94 section 14(a) of the HTA. Thus the Tribunal concurs that the Applicant's driver's licence remain under suspension.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated May 30, 1999 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend her driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be confirmed.

DECISION
RELEASED: June 28, 2000 Sault Ste. Marie

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on June 27, 2000, at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Tribunal released its Decision on June 28, 2000, with Reasons to follow.

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO SET ASIDE the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of an oral hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated May 16, 2000, and was received by the Tribunal on May 25, 2000, together with the prescribed fee of $100.00, paid by certified cheque.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

"I was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason."

Preliminary Matters

The Applicant's driver's licence was suspended on "April 12 2000" as per Notice of Appeal (Exhibit # 1).

The Respondent presented certified copies of documents previously submitted. The Respondent also introduced the Applicant's driver's record. The driver's record, which accompanied the submissions, was erroneously filed.

The Applicant's solicitor objected to all the documentation filed by the Respondent being entered as an exhibit. The Applicant's solicitor quoted the wording of the Respondent's submission which conveys that "...the following documents that the Registrar may use at the hearing..." The Applicant's solicitor's complaint is that these documents got into the file and in front of the Tribunal, before he had an opportunity to raise his objections. Immediately upon receipt of the documents, the Applicant's solicitor registered his objection with the Ministry. The Applicant's solicitor contends that nowhere in the Rules of Procedures is it stated that the Registrar must file the documents with the Tribunal.

As far as the report from Dr. Mate, the Applicant's solicitor suggests that if the report was to be considered expert evidence, then he would require the Doctor to be present for cross-examination. Further, the Applicant's solicitor maintains that Dr. Mate "proffers opinions beyond the narrow issue before the Tribunal..." and should therefore be excluded.

With respect to the introduction of the Applicant's driver's record as evidence, the Applicant's solicitor argued that this being a hearing on medical grounds, he fails to see the relevance of the driver's record. This evidence is highly prejudicial and "...has no probative value to the issue before the Tribunal..." the Applicant's solicitor alleges that it is the Ministry's "...expectation to sway the Tribunal..." by showing the Members possible drinking convictions.

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Notice of Appeal – dated May 16, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 2 Applicant's submissions – received May 25, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 3 Ministry of Transportation submissions – 18 pages
- received June 22, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 4 Ministry of Transportation's reply to the Applicant's solicitor
- received June 23, 2000
- c) Exhibit # 5 Driver's Record of the Applicant – received June 27, 2000

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") states:

50.1 (1) "A person whose driver's licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

(a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or

(b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason".

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Tribunal may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1), (2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15. (1) "a report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

(a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;

(b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;

- (c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver's licence under section 50.1 of the Act;
 - (d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;
 - (e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and
 - (f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.
- (2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.
- (3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner."

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

"A person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal".

FACTS:

The Notice of Appeal prepared by the Applicant's family physician for "at least 10 years," details and diagnosis the Applicant's present condition as: "Patient seen April 12/00 complaining of difficulty breathing and chest discomfort (right side pleuritic pain if he took a deep breath). He was coughing green/yellow sputum. Physical examination revealed a bruise on the right axilla/posterior aspect of his ribs; he had tenderness palpating the area. (Air entry bilateral) Past history of? asthma and smoking. He was given the antibiotic ...refill for his asthma; ...Diagnosis: 1) Bruised R chest wall; 2) Bronchitis; 3) ?asthma (history of)". (Exhibit # 1)

In Schedule "A", the Applicant submitted the following to the Tribunal:

- Notice of Suspension
- Suspension Reminder Notice
- Crown Screening Form advising that the charge of 254(5) to be withdrawn on first appearance date
- Copy of front and back of information number 998-1267 with the endorsement of Mr. Justice Cohen
- Transcript of proceedings before Mr. Justice Cohen in the Ontario Court of Justice - Criminal on May 15, 2000
- Medical letter of the Applicant's family physician

The transcript of proceedings before Mr. Justice Cohen registers the record was endorsed as "withdrawn".

On May 11, 2000, the Applicant's family physician provided a letter re-iterating the comments in the Notice of Appeal. (Exhibit # 1)

The Respondent provided the following documents for the hearing:

- Notice to Registrar.
- Driving Record of the Applicant.
- Vehicle Search as of April 12, 2000
- Medical report of Dr. Eva Mate.
- Driver's record for one R. R. Y. was adduced in error. (Exhibit # 3)

In a letter dated June 9, 2000, Dr. Eva S. Mate, FRCP (C) a consultant in respiratory medicine with St. Michael's Hospital, in a letter dated March 1, 1999, qualifies that she has been in practice since 1982, and that she has "...extensive experience in the management of chronic respiratory illness such as obstructive lung disease and asthma." Dr. Mate goes on to describe her qualifications: "...lengthy experience with performance and interpretation of pulmonary function tests ...Assistant Professor at the University of Toronto ...know the background evaluation of instrumentation such as Intoxilyzer 5000 cc and also Alcotest ...aware of breath sampling criteria required to provide acceptable information using the above instrumentation".

Dr. Mate interprets the data made available by the Ministry and concludes that the Applicant "...indeed has chest wall pain ...simultaneously he presented increased cough and purulent sputum which is in keeping with... bronchitis... physician failed to provide nature of his illness as well as the severity ...even if the driver has complained of chest wall pain, this did not prevent him from providing a breath sample..." (Exhibit # 3)

At the hearing, the Applicant testified that he had been ill for approximately one week before seeing his physician on April 12, 2000. After spending several hours undergoing a respiratory examination, he was released with a prescription for an antibiotic and two types of inhalers.

After his medical visit, the Applicant went to visit a friend, but begun to feel worse and decided to go home in order to go to bed. After a short while on the road, the Applicant pulled over to the side of the road in order to use his medication. At this time, he was approached by the officer and demanded a breath sample.

The Applicant advised the officer that he was not feeling well and was allowed to take his medication. The Applicant provided a roadside breath sample and tested positive.

The Applicant was subsequently taken to the station and once again demanded a breath sample, which in his opinion he tried to provide but was unable to do so, due his illness. The Applicant stated that although he had taken the medication, he was getting worse on the way to the station.

In cross-examination, the Applicant admitted that he did not ask for medical assistance, and he did not seek medical attention immediately after the incident.

The Respondent called PC Officer # 1, OPP Badge # (number), as a witness. PC Officer # 1 has been a police officer for eight years.

During examination - in chief, PC Officer # 1 testified that the Applicant was searching for his pills and appeared to have "... trouble breathing..." PC Officer # 1 called for back up as he felt this would turn into a medical incident. PC Officer # 1 affirmed that he observed the Applicant take a pill and use the "puffer" and that he recalls being told of the Applicant's medical problems.

PC Officer # 1 demanded a roadside Breathalyzer test which the Applicant was able to provide and the result was positive.

The Respondent also called as a witness, PC Officer # 2, OPP Badge # (number). PC Officer # 2 is a qualified breathalyzer technician. PC Officer # 2 testified that the Applicant informed him he has several medical problems and was on medication.

PC Officer # 2 further testified that the Applicant was given a total of eleven opportunities to provide a breath sample but "...failed to provide continuous steady breath.... he was blowing and stopping , blowing and stopping..."

PC Officer # 2 noted that the Applicant sounded incoherent at the time, but confirms that this was probably due to the Applicant's accent. As to the coordination and balance tests, the Applicant failed those as well. However, PC Officer # 2 admitted that this could have been because the Applicant uses a cane and walks with a slight sway.

In closing, Officer # 2 points out that the Applicant was driving appropriately, that he signaled and cautiously pulled to the side of the road, as soon as he started to feel ill. It is a fact that the Applicant has a history of medical problems, not only respiratory, but also back pain, and colon cancer, for which he takes a "...myriad of medications..." PC Officer # 1, an officer with eight years experience, noted the Applicant's medical distress.

The Applicant's solicitor contends that the medical issue does not have to be one that requires emergency treatment. The issue is, does the Applicant have a medical condition that prevents him from providing a breath sample. The Applicant's inability to sustain his breath long enough to provide a breath sample is consistent with the officer's observations, the Applicant's condition, and the report from the Applicant's family physician from that same day.

In closing, the Respondent reviews the report of the Applicant's family physician. The Applicant claims to be suffering from a lung infection and fluid in the lungs, yet all that the Applicant's family physician's report says is "bronchitis and history of asthma". The Respondent notes that the Applicant testified that he spent four hours doing "pulmonary tests" yet no results are available. There is nothing in the Applicant's family physician's report that offers concrete evidence that the Applicant could not provide a breath sample on the day in question.

The Respondent contends that at no time during his ride to the station nor at the station did the Applicant request to use "...the puffers that are supposed to help him breathe..." For this reason, the Respondent questions his condition at the time.

The Respondent submits that his failure to provide a breath sample at the station was due to the fact that he failed the roadside test.

The documents submitted by the Respondent were submitted pursuant to the Licence Appeal Tribunal's Rules of Practice, Section 6.5 (1) (a) (b) and (2) (b) which states:

"(1) A party to the hearing shall

(a) disclose to all other parties the existence of every document and thing that the party will refer to or tender as evidence at the hearing and shall deliver a copy of such documents to the other parties, and

(b) disclose evidence and make available for inspection by every other party all things, other than documents, that the party will refer to or tender as evidence, within the limits for disclosure set out in rule 6.5(2)"

Dr. Mate's report is not being entered as an expert report, but rather as a second opinion. The Respondent quoted Dr. Mate by reading from her report: "...the physician failed to provide objective information consistent with in spirometry or pulmonary function data verifying the nature of the his illness as well the severity. The diagnosis of asthmas-chronic obstructive lung diseases could coexist in approximately 10% of the cases and in this situation it is unclear...depending on which of these diseases prevails is the expected response from the use of an inhaled bronchodilator". Despite the claims by the Applicant's physician that he suffers from only bronchitis and asthma, there is no substantial evidence that these conditions could prevent him from providing a proper breath sample.

By way of replying, the Applicant's solicitor suggests that for a report to be introduced it must meet the rules of evidence. Dr. Mate's report is not an expert's report as allowed under 6.4 and does not meet the definition of "document" in 1.1 : "...includes a sound recording, videotape, film, photograph, chart, graph, map, plan...", therefore should not be allowed.

Nonetheless, the Applicant's solicitor made several objections to the contents of Dr. Mate's report, as being a severely critical of the Applicant's family physician and of formulating an opinion based on information she complains she does not have. The Applicant's solicitor notes the familiarity between Dr. Mate and the Respondent by Dr. Mate's use of the phrase: "as you know...". Dr. Mate speaks about the "majority of cases" not all cases and does not provide empirical data to support her conclusion.

The Applicant's solicitor also found Dr. Mate's statement concerning the Applicant's poor judgment in driving after taking morphine as irrelevant to issue before the Tribunal.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

Prior to setting out the reasons for the decision, the Tribunal must rule on the objection raised by the Applicant's solicitor at the commencement of the hearing. At the time, the Tribunal noted the objections but reserved its decision.

The Respondent followed the disclosure proceedings as per article 6.5 of the Licence Appeal Tribunal's Rules of Practice. The Tribunal understands that it might appear unfamiliar, to an experienced solicitor, that the Members of a Tribunal would be privy to evidence prior to its admission as an exhibit. Nonetheless, the rules of a Quasi-Judicial Tribunal are, by way of practice, more informal than those in a Court of law.

The Applicant's driver's record is inadmissible as it was filed at the hearing and not within the time prescribed by the applicable regulation.

Dr. Mate's report is admissible, as it forms part of the Ministry's package of documents filed according to the Tribunal's rules of procedure. The Applicant's solicitor strongly stated his concern that he had no opportunity to cross-examine Dr. Mate. The Tribunal was questioned as to the weight that this report would receive given the several challenges facing it. The Tribunal considered the Applicant's solicitor's evaluation of the report and must agree that it is highly prejudicial evidence towards the Applicant. If in fact, Dr. Mate's report is intended as a second opinion to rebut the Applicant's physician, then only medical information should be provided to Dr. Mate. The Tribunal queries the merit and purpose of providing Dr. Mate with details of the incident. Dr. Mate's report will be awarded the minimal weight it deserves.

Further, the Tribunal is aware, from experience in these matters, that it is possible for certain medications, Ventolin, in particular, to affect the breath sample. A fifteen minute period must elapse, between the Ventolin inhalation and the breath test. Thus, the results of the first breathalyzer test, although a non-issue, are considered by this Tribunal as an invalid basis for drawing any conclusions as to this matter.

The issues are, how does the medical condition of the Applicant relate to Section 50.1 (2) (b), and did his medical condition cause him to fail or not comply with the breath demand? Pursuant to Section 13 of Regulation 574 (Amended), the onus is on the Applicant to provide the Tribunal with a medical reason as to why he was unable to provide a breath sample.

The Respondent suggests that the Applicant could not have been having difficulty breathing as he did not use his inhaler either on the way to the station or at the station. PC Officer # 1 observed the Applicant take his medication when he was stopped at the roadside. It is a well known fact that most medications must be taken a minimum of four hours apart. It would not have been possible for the Applicant to administer a second dose during his ride to the station or while there without the possibility of overdosing.

The Applicant contends that he was not able to provide a breath sample due to his medical condition. This statement is substantiated by PC Officer # 1's initial assessment of the situation after he approached the Applicant's vehicle. PC Officer # 1's impression was that this was a medical emergency. His experienced reaction was to call for back up.

The medical evidence provided for the hearing by the Applicant's physician was reviewed. The Tribunal accepts the diagnosis of April 12, 2000, the day of the incident: "...difficulty breathing and chest discomfort ...coughing green/yellow sputum ...given ...antibiotic ...refill for his asthma; ...Diagnosis: 1) Bruised R chest wall; 2) Bronchitis; 3) ?asthma (history of)". (Exhibit # 1)

The Tribunal is satisfied that the Applicant was suffering from a medical condition at the time of the incident which precluded him from providing an adequate breath sample. This conclusion is consistent with the ruling by the Provincial Court decision of Judge Cohen who endorsed the charges against the Applicant, "withdrawn". (Exhibit # 1)

Based on the evidence before the Tribunal, and on a balance of probabilities, the Tribunal finds that the Applicant meets the criteria of Section 50.1 (2) (b), in that he was able to demonstrate that he suffered from a medical condition which prevented him from providing a breath sample.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the suspension order dated April 12, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal orders the suspension set aside.

In accordance with Section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Michael Allen Evans O/a M & G Auto (hereafter the "Dealer") and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Registrar MVDA") waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal (hereafter the "Consent Order") based on the following terms and conditions:

1. Michael Evans will give full disclosure on all future applications submitted to the Registrar.
2. Michael Evans agrees, if he is charged in the future, under any law, to immediately notify the Registrar, in writing of the charges against him.
3. Michael Evans agrees, if he is convicted in the future, of an industry specific offence, his registration as a motor vehicle dealer will automatically be revoked.
4. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that he will not retain the services of a salesperson unless the salesperson is registered as a salesperson to the Dealer.
5. The Dealer further acknowledges that the restrictions concerning the activities of salespersons referred to in these terms and conditions, applies to both buying and selling on behalf of a dealer. "Buying and selling" refers to showing a vehicle to a prospective purchaser or any form of negotiation concerning the purchase or sale of a vehicle and is not limited to the signing of contracts. This further includes attendance at auctions on behalf of the Dealer.
6. The Dealer agrees to maintain a garage register in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act and will maintain all books and records as required by the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. The Dealer further agrees to store his books and records at the registered premise approved by the Registrar.

7. The Dealer will ensure that all advertisements placed by or on behalf of the Dealer will identify his registered name and the address of the location approved by the Registrar.
8. The Dealer agrees not to invite the public to deal at a place other than his approved location.
9. The Dealer agrees to operate exclusively from the location approved by the Registrar. The Dealer agrees to apply for the Registrar's approval, by way of prior written notice, of any change in employment location in the form required by the Registrar.
10. The Dealer will not conduct any purchases or sales with anyone who is in the business of buying and selling motor vehicles without confirming that they are
11. registered as a dealer under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.
11. The Dealer will ensure that any vehicles sold are registered in the name of the purchaser before releasing the vehicle to the purchaser.
12. The Dealer will not purchase vehicles without ensuring that the vehicle is registered to the seller.
13. The Dealer agrees to register all vehicles purchased within 6 days in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act.
14. The Dealer agrees that he is under a positive obligation to disclose, in writing, all material facts about the vehicles he sells to his customers. The Dealer agrees to make reasonable efforts to research the history of all his vehicles prior to sale to ensure all material facts are disclosed. The Dealer agrees that should any information come to light, which the Registrar deems to be a material fact concerning a vehicle the Dealer has sold, the Dealer will comply with all reasonable requests made by the Registrar to provide compensation to the purchaser.
15. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that his registration will not be used to buy or sell motor vehicles where the Dealer knows or ought to know that the purchase or sale of those motor vehicles will facilitate an illegal or unethical practice.
16. The Dealer acknowledges that the Registrar may take further administrative action, including a proposal to revoke his registration, arising from any matters that have occurred or may occur related to honesty and integrity or financial position.

17. The Applicant agrees that should he breach any of the terms and conditions set out herein, in whole or in part, that the Registrar is directed to, and shall carry out the proposal to revoke, and his registration will be revoked.
18. The Dealer hereby consents to an order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal, which may include the Terms and Conditions set out herein.
19. The Dealer hereby withdraws his appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.
20. The Dealer acknowledges that he has obtained or has had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to his consent to the terms and conditions set out herein.

Signed in the City of King Kirkland, this day of June 2000.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board (known after April 1, 2000 as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) by Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd. (the "Applicant"), respecting the decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the Respondent) pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario) (HTA).

Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd. is a family owned business operating out of 12-3111 Millar Avenue, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. Charles Gordon Clunie is named as President and Eileen Cheryl Clunie, Mr. Clunie's wife, is named as Secretary of the company. As of June 1999 the Applicant had a total fleet size of 24, power units with 51⁰/₀ Ontario travel. Ministry records as of July 15, 1999 indicate an adjusted fleet size of 13 CMVs. The Applicant is a for hire carrier transporting primarily lumber and steel products within Canada.

A pre hearing conference was held by telephone on Friday the 8th of October 1999, at 1:00 p.m.

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

Mr. Forbes, counsel for the Respondent, asked to present an update to the Applicant's CVOR record and a Saskatchewan Audit update (Exhibit # 6). Copies were given to the Applicant prior to the hearing.

It was explained that the pre hearing order from Mr. Cork was not in the materials because the evidence books were prepared prior to its release. Copies were made and submitted to the Tribunal (Exhibit # 7).

FACTS:

The Show Cause Proceeding

A notice of suspension and seizure was issued to Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd. 9th of June 1999, for a 30 day period, based on their safety record and outstanding unpaid fines. The notice also set June 21st 1999 at 9:30 a.m. for a Show Cause Meeting. (Exhibit 4 tab. 14).

Eileen Clunie on behalf of Kelsey Trail Trucking Ltd. requested that the Show Cause Meeting be conducted by way of written submissions because of her husband's serious health problems. (Exhibit 4 tab.13).

This was agreed to by the Deputy Registrar of Motor Vehicles. (Exhibit 4 tab.12).

A cheque dated July 24, 1999 was sent by the Applicant to resolve the issue of outstanding fines. (Exhibit # 4) Tab11 Pg. 82.

Ms. Clunie addressed the following items in the written submissions for the Show Cause Meeting:

- a) Two facility audits had been done. One in April of 1998 and one in May of 1999. She stated that only 8 bgbook violations were found and that the Applicant was in compliance.
- b) Ms. Clunie further noted that she had fired all drivers with any fines or other convictions.
- c) Ms. Clunie stated the company takes full responsibility for complete maintenance of their equipment and that the fleet is now all 1995 model year tractors or newer. (Exhibit 4 tab 11).
- d) The fleet size was corrected to 24 CMVs from 17.

In a letter dated June 25th, 1999 the Deputy Registrar asked for more detailed information regarding a plan of improvement and verification of proper fleet size. A re-analysis was to be done based on any new information. (Exhibit 4 tab 10).

Ms. Clunie responded with more detailed information and the other documents requested by the Registrar (Exhibit 4 tab 3 a, b and c).

Based on the updated information and a re-analysis, a safety rating of UNSATISFACTORY was assigned to the carrier on August 18th 1999 and the June 3rd 1999 Notice of Suspension & Seizure was modified to provide for a 7-day suspension instead of the 30 day suspension, effective August 30th until September 6th 1999.

Registrar's Decision

WHEREAS, a Notice of Suspension and Seizure dated 3rd day of June, 1999 was issued proposing a 30 day suspension of the CVOR certificate issued to Kelsey Trail Trucking Ltd. and plate portion of permits for all commercial motor vehicles and trailers registered in the name of Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd. and thereafter until such time as payment is made to the courts for all outstanding fines. Plate portions of permits, or if issued by a jurisdiction other than Ontario, the permits and the number plates, will be seized;

AND WHEREAS, provided in the notice, you had the opportunity to make submissions at a meeting with the Deputy Registrar on the 14th day of June 1999 to show cause why the suspension and seizure should not be issued. You advised me that you nor any other corporate officer could attend on that date and chose to make a written submission.

AND WHEREAS, I have considered your submissions and your safety record including a re-analysis of your operating record based on your submissions which resulted in a larger fleet size Ontario. I have also reviewed your safety record including your record of convictions, accidents, vehicle detentions, vehicle out of service rate history of past dealings with the ministry and failure to pay fines on a timely basis and I remain concerned for highway safety.

Now Therefore It Is Ordered that pursuant to section 47 of the highway traffic act that as of the 30th day of August, 1999 CVOR certificate #091-

584-806 and plate portion of permits for all commercial motor vehicles and trailers issued to Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd be suspended for seven 7 days and thereafter until such time as all outstanding fines are paid and the plate portion of permits, or if issued by a jurisdiction other than Ontario, the permits and number plates be seized.

This suspension and seizure will be effective at 8:00 a.m. Eastern Daylight Savings Time on the 30th Day Of August 1999 to 7:59 a.m. Eastern Daylight Savings Time on the 6th day of September 1999.

ISSUES:

- I. Does a voluntary, self-imposed suspension and restriction from entering into Ontario by the Applicant entitle the Applicant to avoid the Registrar's suspension under section 47 of the HTA?
- II. How does the financial impact of the suspension on the Applicant affect the decision of the Registrar in imposing the suspension?
- III. Should the Province of Ontario discipline the drivers, in accordance with the Applicant's suggestion, by way of suspension or fine when stopped and found not in compliance, instead of, in effect, sanctioning all drivers/operators registered to the Applicant's CVOR by imposing a suspension of the CVOR?
- IV. Should the unsatisfactory rating, and therefore the sanction, apply to all trucks registered to the Applicant's CVOR or only to those operating under the Applicant's CVOR at the time that the sanction was imposed and, or at the time the accidents, detentions and convictions were registered against the Applicant's CVOR?
- V. Should the decision of the Registrar be confirmed, modified or set aside because all the fines were paid by the Applicant?
- VI. Should convictions registered against the Applicant's CVOR be disregarded because the charges were not defended in court due to lack of time and money of the Applicant to do so?

THE LAW:

- 47.(1) Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,
- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
 - (b) a driver's licence; or
 - (c) CVOR certificate, on the grounds of,
 - (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
 - (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2); or
 - (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or

(g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d) , (e) or (f).

(10) The Registrar may, at any time for misconduct or contravention of this Act, the Truck Transportation Act, the Public Vehicles Act or of any regulation thereunder by an owner or lessee of one or more motor vehicles or trailers for which permits have been issued by a jurisdiction or jurisdictions other than the Province of Ontario, order that the permit and number plates issued for the vehicle or vehicles be seized and any police officer or any officer appointed for carrying out this Act or the enforcement of the Public Vehicles Act or the Truck Transportation Act may seize the permit and number plates and deliver them to the Ministry which shall return them to the authority that issued them.

According to Section 22(e) HTA:

22.(e) the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, governing the suspension or cancellation of CVOR certificates under subsection 47(1) or the imposition of a limitation on the fleet size operated under a CVOR certificate under subsection 47(2).

The maintenance requirements under the HTA are found, inter alia, at Regulation 575 (commercial motor vehicle inspections); Regulation 577 (covering of loads); Regulation 587 (re brake push rod travel); Regulation 597 (gross vehicle weights); Regulation 625 (tire standards and specifications); Regulation 762/91 (safety inspections); Regulation 614 (security of loads).

The appeal comes to this Tribunal by virtue of s. 50(1) of the HTA which provides:

50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Suspension Appeal Board.

(2) The Board may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or Registrar.

Regulation 574, also addresses appeals to this Tribunal;

3. (3) Upon receipt of a notice of appeal under subsection (1) the Board shall forthwith notify the Minister or Registrar, as the case may be, and the person notified shall forthwith provide the Board with all the relevant documents and other material in his or her possession.
3. (6) At any hearing under this section, the person making the appeal has the right to attend and make representations and, subject to subsection (7), to adduce evidence respecting the appeal either personally or through counsel.

3. (7) At any hearing under this section, the Board shall hear only such evidence as was submitted to the Minister or the Registrar, as the case may be, respecting the matter in dispute.

THE EVIDENCE:

Margaret Mooney, head of Control and Sanctions for the Ministry of Transportation, testified on behalf of the Respondent and explained how the CVOR rating system worked during the period under review. The system is automated and was designed to trigger a carrier when the carrier's record shows a need for intervention. The threshold was set at about 300⁰/₀ to 400⁰/₀ higher than the provincial average. This is based upon, on road performance regarding accidents, convictions and out of service (oos) detentions.

Further Ms. Mooney testified that 82% of carriers improve after the first contact by The Ministry of Transportation, which is in the form of a warning letter. At this point, the record is reset to zero points and an improvement in on road performance of 25% each six months is expected until the carrier comes into compliance.

If the required 25% improvement within six months is not achieved, the next step would be an interview with the operator to find out why the carrier is having a problem complying. 79% of operators interviewed need no further intervention. Facility audits and ultimately a sanction order and a Show Cause Meeting could follow if the carrier still is not complying and improving it's safety record.

Details of the CVOR system can be found in (Exhibit 4 Tab 21) (The Respondent's Appeal Book).

Ms. Mooney explained details of the National Safety Code (Exhibit 4 Tab 22) and The Commercial Vehicle Safety Alliance (CVSA), (Exhibit 4 Tab 23) and how they apply to regulations regarding CMV maintenance and safety.

The Road Check Program was also explained as a North American, 3-day random check of commercial motor vehicles based on CVSA standards. The last one showed an out of service rate of 18%.

Ms. Mooney also explained that the results of the inspections done on carrier's vehicles (the defects and oos defects found) are recorded on the Safety Net report, which records all inspections done in Ontario.

The Applicant did not cross-examine Ms. Mooney but did ask to submit into evidence updated equipment lists and a hand-written analysis of the February 10th CVOR done by the company accountant, Cindy Evans. (Exhibits 8, 9 and 10). These were to show the Applicant's commitment to improve its safety performance. Mr. Forbes objected to this evidence as the evidence post-dated the Suspension Order but he was prepared to consent to it's admission if an updated CVOR, Saskatchewan Carrier Profile, CVIRs, Sanction Analysis, Safety Net Report, Record Summary, Icon Report and Circumstances Of Drivers Report which also post-dated the Suspension Order could be submitted by the Ministry. (Exhibit 11). This material was admitted into evidence on consent with the understanding that the Tribunal would attribute the weight to it that it considered appropriate.

The respondent then called Mr. William Hearle who is employed by the Ministry of Transportation as a Carrier Safety Ratings Administrator. He gave an explanation of his dealings with Kelsey Trail Trucking Ltd. on behalf of the Ministry of Transportation.

Mr. Hearle detailed his analysis of the Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd. records and the history of outstanding fines, interviews with the operator, statements of the operator regarding plans to comply, Ministry interventions and information supplied to the carrier to assist them from November 1991 until the time of the Show Cause Meeting. (Exhibit 4 tabs 4 through 16).

The Safety Net Report dated February 2000 (Exhibit 11) indicates that detentions have gone from 1 in 1996, to 3 in 1997, 11 in 1998, and 16 in 1999.

Accidents have gone from 1 in 1996, to 5 in 1997, 5 in 1998, and 4 in 1999.

Outstanding fines according to Icon Reports dated February 18, 2000 stand at $2706.25.

The Out of Service Rate stands at 57.9%.

The carrier's violation rate as of August 8, 1999 is 377% above threshold, an increase of 1.05% from November 28, 1997.

This analysis is based on a fleet size of 24, 51% Ontario travel and an adjusted fleet size of 13.

The Applicant did not cross-examine Mr. Hearle.

Eileen Clunie took the witness stand on behalf of Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd. The Applicant was not represented by counsel. She testified that:

- a) The Applicant could not do anything about the past and apologized for its poor record in Ontario. A serious monitoring system had been put in place in August 1999. It was the position of the Applicant that the Tribunal should look at improvements made subsequent to the suspension order to see that the Applicant is now working at improving their safety record.
- b) The company has serious cash flow problems due to narrow profit margins in the industry, high fuel and leasing costs. A 7-day sanction is expected to cost Kelsey-Trail Trucking up to $100,000.
- c) She has hired a full time person in the office to monitor fines and realizes that the company must defend the charges in court and not simply accept them as a cost of doing business as it had done in the past simply because it was cheaper.
- d) She has leased newer equipment and in October 1999 opened a bigger shop to better service their fleet.
- e) Late payment of outstanding fines is a result of the cash flow problems and she promised to pay the fines in full 5 days.

- f) The new policies and procedures of the company were introduced and are outlined in (Exhibit 5 Tabs 6 through 9).

In cross-examination of Ms. Clunie by Mr. Forbes, it was explained that George Clunie did not run the company even though he is named as the president, but he worked as an owner/operator/driver and did some of the maintenance work. Eileen Clunie ran the office doing mainly the day-to-day bookkeeping. Gord Hilton was responsible for hiring, supervising and monitoring the drivers, as well as supervising and doing maintenance on the company vehicles. Wayne and Terri Adrian have replaced him after the Suspension Order. Terri monitors and controls hours of work and driver logbooks. Wayne controls the maintenance schedules. Lyn Parenteau is responsible for administration and dispatch. Jim Clunie, their son, does dispatch and sales and owns some equipment which he sub-leases to drivers, and which is registered as part of the Kelsey-Trail fleet.

It was not clear from Ms. Clunie's testimony, who had ultimate control over the day to day operation of the company and supervision and decision-making authority with respect to maintenance, driver safety and on road performance. Nor was it clear how, or if, information was shared with the officers of Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd.

Most of the power units of fleet are leased and in turn sub-leased to the drivers who are paid as owner operators on a per mile basis. The company controls the trailers. If a second or team driver is put on the truck, the sub-lessee/owner operator is responsible for paying the wages, although Ms. Clunie stated the company monitors the hours of service for the second driver.

Lease operators used to be required to provide proof of maintenance work done. Now they are required to have the work done at the new Kelsey-Trail shop so it can be more closely controlled. However, there was no evidence of a structured or regular system for calling the vehicles in for service and monitoring the maintenance. The Applicant does not have a Class "A" mechanic on staff.

CVIRs and maintenance reports were handled by Gord Hilton and not brought to Eileen Clunie's attention. Fines, and convictions were monitored by Lyn Parenteau and not brought to Eileen's Clunie attention.

Maintenance records appeared to have discrepancies and were incomplete. Ms. Clunie was at a loss to explain why. Comparing CVIRs and company work orders was difficult and the only explanation seemed to be that some work was done in Ontario and thus would not appear in the company's records but other Ontario repairs did appear on company documents. Some CVIRs showed work that was required on equipment and no documents could be found to indicate repairs had been made.

The Applicant called Cindy Evans as the Applicant's only other witness. Ms. Evans stated she is a Certified General Accountant employed by the company that does Kelsey-Trail Trucking's books and has been on site there on a monthly basis for the past ten years. She stated also that she feels the company is more committed to matters of safety and working harder to comply with the regulations. She explained that she had prepared a summary of the Kelsey-Trail Trucking CVOR record and her methodology. (Exhibit 8). However under cross-examination she admitted she had relatively little knowledge of how the CVOR system worked and did not include "out of service" detentions under the detention portion of her analysis.

Perhaps the most disturbing evidence is to be found in (Exhibit 6). Allegations were made that Kelsey-Trail trucking Ltd. was requesting, requiring or permitting drivers to falsify log books.

In a letter dated November 24, 1999 from The Saskatchewan Highways and Transportation regarding a complaint on March 2, 1999, and a subsequent investigation into alleged logbook violations and the company's complicity regarding these violations, stated that:

- 15 drivers had good logs.
- 27 had violations, 7 of which were minor and they received warnings.
- 9 drivers were charged with falsifying their logs.
- 6 drivers signed statements and were willing to testify in court that the company requested that the drivers falsify their logs. False entries ranged from booking off duty days while on duty, having phantom co-drivers, running 2 or more log books, and an accusation that a company representative actually signed a falsified log entry so that the signatures would differ.

Three charges were laid in relation to these accusations and the company plea-bargained after the 6 witnesses were subpoenaed. By entering the plea, Ms. Clunie testified that instead of a $5,000.00 fine per charge, the company was able to pay a fine of $2,500.00 per charge, and that was the reason for entering the plea.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO THE FACTS:

1. In regard to the voluntary suspension of operations in Ontario by the Applicant, Mr. Forbes referred to the dispatch report (Exhibit 5 Tab 6) which is a dispatch history that shows that Kelsey-Trail trucks did operate in Ontario during the week of August 30, 1999. Ms. Clunie did not deny this but stated that they had 95% compliance with this "self-imposed suspension". Further, she suggested a system where the drivers are held wholly responsible for their own on-road performance, thus not adversely affecting the company as a whole or the good drivers within that company. She suggested that there is such a system that could assist the Ministry in such enforcement against individual drivers and suggested that driver abstracts be used to monitor the on-road performance of the Applicant's drivers.

The Tribunal's mandate is to review the Commercial Operator's safety record and all other evidence presented on the appeal to determine whether the Registrar's decision should be modified or set aside. The Applicant cannot circumvent lawful sanction by pre-empting that sanction by a self-imposed sanction similar to that which the Registrar has imposed or can impose, even if the Tribunal accepts that the Applicant has done this, which the Tribunal does not.

2. In discussing the cost of the Registrar's sanction against the company, no financial records were presented on behalf of the Applicant to support Ms. Clunie's viva voce evidence that the sanction under appeal would cost the Applicant $100,000.00 and deprive the company of revenue needed for maintenance and licensing fees, fuel taxes and other overhead.

The Tribunal's mandate is to ensure that the proper sanction is imposed under the Highway Traffic Act. It must ensure that carriers who do not comply with the safety laws and regulations are fairly sanctioned. The cost of not complying with the laws of the Province of Ontario as a consequence of the sanction is something that the carrier must assess when deciding to comply with Ontario's safety laws and regulations or not. The number of interventions by the Ministry clearly indicates that the carrier is encouraged to do business in Ontario and the interventions are aimed at ensuring the carrier has the opportunity to know it is not complying with safety regulations and to improve its on-the road safety record. However, the interest of public safety must take priority over the financial concerns of the carrier.

3. The evidence at the hearing confirmed outstanding fines.

4. Despite Ms. Clunie's position that it is expensive to defend the charges against the company and/or drivers in court, Ms. Clunie failed to provide any evidence or situations where she felt the Applicant had a good defence or where charges were not justified. Nor did Ms. Clunie indicate specifically any convictions that could have been successfully defended in court with a proper legal defence or the circumstances that would convince the Tribunal to remove the detentions, accidents or convictions from the CVOR and/or take into consideration when assessing the carrier's safety record.

Throughout the long history of interventions since November 14th 1991 by the Ministry of Transportation of Ontario, Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd. has continually indicated it would take steps to achieve a level of performance that would bring its operating/safety record into compliance. This did not happen during the period under review (November 29, 1991 to May 2, 1999) nor was there any concrete evidence put before The Tribunal to indicate this carrier was interested in complying until the Registrar imposed the sanction in August 1999.

The Tribunal's mandate is to review the decision of the Registrar based on the information the Registrar had before him at the time of the sanction. Ms. Clunie freely admitted in her testimony that what is in the past is in the past, and they can not change it. Instead, she asked the Tribunal to consider what has been done post Suspension Order to improve the Applicant's CVOR rating. The Tribunal has been most lenient in allowing (albeit on consent of the parties) post Suspension Order evidence to examine the carrier's commitment to improve. The bigger maintenance facility may help, as may the new staff and newer equipment. However, the Tribunal remains unconvinced that the company has taken adequate steps to bring itself into compliance even after the Suspension Order. In fact, the Applicant's out of service detentions have increased between 1996 and 1999.

The current CVOR rating remains above threshold by 377 percent.

The number of accidents is down only slightly in 1999 and not by 25 percent.

There are, still, outstanding fines.

Ms. Clunie's own testimony in cross-examination failed to explain gaps in maintenance records, some dealing with annual safety inspections.

The company's answer to drivers' violations is to simply fire them as opposed to investing in training to help them perform their jobs properly, safely and in accordance with the laws of Ontario. The Tribunal heard strong evidence that the company actively encouraged drivers to violate the regulations and in the case of the 13-hour driving rule, mislead drivers, in issuing a company memo encouraging non-compliance.

Although this Tribunal is aware of the problems facing the trucking industry regarding high costs and competitive rates which drive down profit margins, it's prime concern is for the safety of all users of the Province's highways and emphasizes that the safety standards apply to all commercial vehicles using Ontario highways.

The operating record and history of Kelsey-Trail Trucking Ltd. causes the Tribunal grave concern for public safety.

DECISION:

FOR THE REASONS GIVEN ABOVE the decision of the Registrar to issue the Suspension Order for seven (7) days is modified, and it is ordered that pursuant to section 47 of the Highway Traffic Act that as of the 9th day of June, 2000 CVOR Certificate # 091-584-806 a and plate portions of permits for all commercial motor vehicles and trailers issued to Kelsey Trail Trucking Ltd. be suspended for 30 days and thereafter until such time as all outstanding fines are paid to the courts and the plate portion of permits, or if issued by a jurisdiction other than Ontario, the permits and number plates be seized.

The suspension and seizure will be effective at 8:00 am Eastern Daylight Savings time on 9th day of June, 2000 to 7:59 am Eastern Daylight time on the 9th day of July, 2000.

JOHN COLLINS

APPEAL FROM A PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR OF
THE MOTOR VEHICLE DEALERS ACT

TO REFUSE REGISTRATION

TRIBUNAL: MARJORIE J. HILEY, Vice-Chair

APPEARANCES: JOHN COLLINS, representing himself
AVIVA R. HARARI, Counsel, representing Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act

DATE OF
HEARING: June 23, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This matter was initiated by the Notice of Proposal dated February 15, 2000 of the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Act"), refusing to grant registration as a motor vehicle salesperson to John Collins (the "Applicant"). By his letter of February 28, 2000 the Applicant requested a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which is as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal). A Notice of Further or Other Particulars dated June 6, 2000 was issued by the Registrar to the Applicant. The hearing was held on June 23, 2000 with the parties present.

ISSUE:

Does the past conduct of the Applicant afford reasonable grounds for the Registrar to have the belief that the Applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty?

EVIDENCE:

Opening Statements:

By Counsel for the Registrar:

The application is one of refusing registration to the Applicant. The Applicant had been previously registered as a motor vehicle salesperson, but that registration had expired on July 15, 1999. The application for registration by the Applicant was received at the offices of the Registrar in October, 1999. The refusal to approve the registration is based on the past conduct of the Applicant. The conduct of the Applicant relied upon by the Registrar includes the following: 1. His bankruptcy proceedings; 2. His non disclosure of criminal convictions on the application form; 3. The convictions themselves; 4. The non disclosure of driving convictions.

Counsel for the Registrar submitted that the test in such matters is that articulated in the Brenner case. One must look at the past conduct of the person, not what will be his future conduct. In the present case the Applicant has shown a lack of honesty, integrity and of failing to act in accordance with the law.

By the Applicant:

The Applicant submitted that he can provide explanations for his past conduct. Many of the charges date back many years.

Testimony of Laura Gordon:

Ms. Gordon testified that she is the director of compliance for the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council ("OMVIC"). She has been in that position for three years. Prior to that she was an investigator and an inspector for the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations.

She stated that OMVIC is a non profit organization that manages the motor vehicle dealers industry. It is responsible for the registration of salespeople and dealers, dealing with complaints, the conducting of investigations, and the laying of charges for non compliance with the Act and its Regulations.

Under section 5 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act an Applicant is entitled to registration unless his past conduct shows a lack of honesty, integrity or failure to act in accordance with the law.

Ms. Gordon testified that the Registrar's Notice of Proposal dealt with non disclosure issues, the serious pending charge and convictions. The Notice of Further or Other Particulars dealt with the conviction for fraud of over $5,000.00. The Application of Mr. Collins for registration was received at the Registrar's Office on October 14, 1999. It was an application for reinstatement as Mr. Collins was not registered at the time he submitted the application. Mr. Collins wished to work for Polito Ford Lincoln Sales Ltd.

Ms. Gordon testified that there were a number of concerns as to the application submitted by the Applicant. Mr. Collins had stated he had not had any licence cancelled, suspended or revoked, but a search of the records found that his driver's licence had been suspended. Mr. Collins did not answer the question dealing with bankruptcy, but a search of the records showed that he had filed for bankruptcy in January, 1994 and received a certificate of discharge in November, 1994. Mr. Collins had answered "No" to the question dealing with previous convictions. A background check of his record showed he had been convicted of a failure to comply with a recognizance and for driving while impaired. The recognizance conviction was in October, 1995 and the impaired conviction was in February, 1998.

Ms. Gordon testified that, as well, Mr. Collins was found guilty of fraud over $5,000.00 in May, 2000 arising out of a matter from March, 1990. He had been charged in June, 1999 and had an appearance in court in August, 1999, all prior to submitting his application to the Registrar. Mr. Collins was given a probation order with community service of 100 hours and ordered to repay $16,000.00.

Ms. Gordon also testified that on a previous application in July, 1997, Mr. Collins stated that he had no convictions nor declared bankruptcy, despite having a conviction in 1995 and having filed for bankruptcy in July, 1994.

Ms. Gordon stated that the application form is the first test of an Applicant's honesty and integrity. She is concerned when it is not completed properly.

Testimony of John Collins:

Mr. Collins stated that the evidence of Ms. Gordon was correct. He should have renewed his registration in July, 1999 but it got overlooked at the dealership.

Regarding the bankruptcy, Mr. Collins testified that he had sent in to the Registrar's office a copy of his discharge from bankruptcy when his licence was renewed in 1995.

Mr. Collins testified that he had been told that he would be getting a pardon after one year from the conviction for the failure to comply with a recognizance. He had told his sales manager at the time about it, and they both felt he did not need to change his answer to that question for his 1997 renewal application.

Mr. Collins stated that his current dealer/principal knows of his convictions and the charge, which had been pending. His principal, Mr. Polito, sent a letter dated January 28, 2000 in which he stated that he knew of two incidents from 5 to 10 years old and did not think these matters were relevant to his job selling cars at Polito.

Regarding the bankruptcy, Mr. Collins stated that OMVIC knew of it as he had given them a copy of his discharge papers. He had telephoned OMVIC concerning the answer to question 9 about the convictions and had told the person at OMVIC that he believed he had pardons on them. She advised him to write a letter to OMVIC. Mr. Collins did not do that.

Regarding the recognizance conviction, it was a matter dealing with a loan transaction from 1990. Colleen Hindeman had received a loan from Linda Welch. Colleen was not making the payments. Mr. Collins wanted her to repay Ms. Welch. Ms. Welch understood that her $16,000.00 was to be invested in third mortgages. Instead it went into loans. It had originally been planned that Mrs. Welch's money would be for a mortgage, but the paperwork was not completed and ultimately the money was lent out as loans to high risk individuals. Ms. Welch had been paid about $4,000.00. She wanted the remainder of her money. When she could not get the money from the lenders, Ms. Welch went to the police. Because Ms. Welch complained that she had given him the money for mortgages, not loans, the police laid the fraud charge against Mr. Collins. Mr. Collins testified that he has paid all of the money back to Ms. Welch in compliance with the restitution order.

Mr. Collins stated that he has done some wrong things in his life. He hoped he could have his registration with conditions. Currently he works at the dealership but not as a sales person.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Collins stated that he had worked at RayCan Financial as a lending consultant in the late 1980's until 1992. At that time, he did not have to be separately licenced but worked under the corporate licence. In the past, he has also worked for a real estate broker but not in a selling position.

Mr. Collins agreed that he was responsible for completing his application form that was submitted to the Registrar. He stated that when he had his job interview with Mr. Polito, he told him about the conviction on the recognizance and how this conviction led to his termination of employment with the Holiday dealership. Mr. Collins stated that he told Mr. Polito about being a Crown witness with other cases arising out of his employment with RayCan Financial and about the misrepresentation in 1990. Though Mr. Polito's letter only deals with the older issues of the recognizance and the fraud charge, Mr. Collins stated that Mr. Polito knew of the impaired conviction because the dealership was obliged to pay higher insurance rates when they hired him. He agreed that his letter to OMVIC dated December 23, 1999 did not mention the impaired conviction.

Mr. Collins stated that when OMVIC told him not to continue as a salesperson, he stopped selling cars.

Closing Statements:

By Counsel for the Registrar:

Counsel argued that the Registrar had reasonable grounds to conclude that Mr. Collins did not act with honesty or integrity or in accordance with the law. She submitted that the Tribunal must look at the totality of his conduct. She argued that Mr. Collins has not provided complete disclosure to OMVIC in his applications of 1997 or 1999, and he has not provided complete disclosure of his past conduct to his employer. She urged the Tribunal to consider the nature of the convictions themselves. The fraud conviction is relevant because Mr. Collins used Ms. Welch's money for other than the accepted purpose. This is important in this matter because Mr. Collins has access to deposit monies.

Counsel referred to the Cooke (re) (1999) O.C.R.T.D. 4 case where at paragraph 16 the Tribunal speaks of the importance of the application forms being completed with full disclosure.

By the Applicant:

Mr. Collins stated that he is at fault for listening to others in how to answer the questions in the application forms. By not answering them correctly, he is at fault. Mr. Collins requested that he be given his registration with conditions. He has the backing of his dealer/principal, Mr. Polito. Mr. Collins stated that there have been big changes in his life. He wants to work and support his wife and three children.

LEGISLATION:

The relevant legislation is the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.

Section 5(1) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act states:

Section 5(1)

An applicant is entitled to registration or renewal of registration by the Registrar except where,

- a) having regard to the financial position of the applicant, the applicant cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of business; or
- b) the past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty; or...

(2) A registration is subject to such terms and conditions to give effect to the purposes of this Act as are consented to by the applicant, imposed by the Tribunal or prescribed by the regulations.

Section 7(4) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act states:

Section 7(4)

Where an applicant or registrant requires a hearing by the Tribunal in accordance with subsection (2) the Tribunal shall appoint a time for and hold the hearing and, on the application of the Registrar at the hearing, may by order direct the Registrar to carry out the Registrar's proposal or refrain from carrying it out and to take such action as the Tribunal considers the Registrar ought to take in accordance with this Act and the regulations, and for such purposes the Tribunal may substitute its opinion for that of the Registrar.

(5) The Tribunal may attach such terms and conditions to its order or to the registration as it considers proper to give effect to the purposes of the Act.

ANALYSIS:

The Motor Vehicle Dealers Act is provincial legislation that is designed for the protection of the public. Those who wish to earn a living either as motor vehicle salespersons or as motor vehicle dealers are required to comply with the restrictions set out in the Act and its Regulations. Such rules or restrictions are there to protect the public from unscrupulous dealers and salespersons who could easily take advantage of a less than knowledgeable consumer. Accordingly, dealers and salespersons are in positions of trust and must act fairly in their dealings with those in the community who wish to purchase or lease a new or used motor vehicle.

This Tribunal is aware of the competing interests of the parties on this application. The Registrar's representative speaks to the need to protect the public. The Applicant speaks of the need to be able to earn a livelihood and support his family. Both parties have serious interests, and it is the duty of this Tribunal to weigh those competing interests when it examines the evidence before it. The Registrar has a duty under the Act to have reasonable grounds for deciding that the sales person or dealer will not carry on their business in accordance with the law and with integrity and honesty. The Tribunal should not interfere with the proposals of the Registrar unless it feels, based on all the evidence before it, that the Registrar did not have reasonable grounds for making such a decision. The case of Brenner v Registrar of Motor Vehicle Dealers, a decision of the Divisional Court of March 9, 1983 has often been quoted as containing a pivotal test in such matters.

In that case, the Divisional Court held that the Tribunal must consider whether or not the Registrar was in error in applying the statutory standard as set out in section 5 of the Act based on the past conduct of the Applicant. Statements as to future or proposed conduct did not figure in this standard. As well, as has been often stated by this Tribunal, it is important for the Tribunal to consider the cumulative effect of all of the evidence. In some cases this can include evidence that was not before the Registrar at the point when a decision was made to revoke the registration of the Applicant.

There is no doubt that the past conduct of the Applicant is flawed. He has a number of convictions, some as recent as May, 2000 and some dating back to 1995. He has shown in the past that he failed to abide by the law, particularly the conviction for failure to comply with a recognizance. He used poor judgment in driving while impaired. He was involved in a financial transaction which ultimately led to the police charging him with fraud. This is a man who has made mistakes.

The Tribunal was impressed with the demeanor of Mr. Collins at the hearing. He did not hide his past conduct. He did try to give some explanation for it. He readily agreed that he had made mistakes in his past. The fraud conviction was of some concern to the Tribunal due to it being so recent and dealing with issues that can relate to the Applicant's responsibilities as a motor vehicle salesperson. But the Applicant presented an adequate examination of this matter. It arose out of transactions ten years ago when the Applicant was not working in the motor vehicle industry. The Applicant had cooperated with police. He stated he had been a Crown witness. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was given a sentence of probation. He has made the restitution required by the Court. The fraud dealt with him putting money from Ms Welch into loans rather than a mortgage. There was a misunderstanding between himself and Ms Welch. He did not benefit directly from this transaction. He was forthright in accepting blame when Ms Welch was unable to obtain her funds from those who were given the loans. Though it is of concern to the Tribunal due to the nature of the matter, the Tribunal does not feel the fact of the conviction itself warrants Mr. Collins losing his ability to work in the motor vehicle industry.

The Tribunal takes note that Mr. Collins has worked as a registered salesperson since 1999 and that there was no evidence of any wrongdoing directly attributable to his responsibilities as a registered salesperson. The Tribunal accepts the evidence of Mr. Collins, which is buttressed by the letter of support from Mr. Polito, that Mr. Polito as his dealer/principal is substantially aware of his past conduct and despite this knowledge wishes to continue to employ him at his dealership. Though the letter does not deal with the impaired conviction, Mr. Collins did state in his evidence that Mr. Polito is aware of that conviction as employing Mr. Collins increased the insurance fees for the dealership.

The Tribunal is troubled by the fact that in 1997 and 1999 Mr. Collins did not properly complete the application forms submitted to the Registrar. The Tribunal agrees with the sentiment expressed in the case of Cooke(re) that the Registrar ought to be able to rely on the application form as the first test of honesty and integrity. But the Tribunal is satisfied by the explanations offered by Mr. Collins at the hearing.

Regarding the bankruptcy matter, Mr. Collins sent in a copy of his discharge papers with his 1995 application form. Though he should have mentioned it on his application forms for 1997 and 1999, it is reasonable that he felt the Registrar had that information on file. His explanation for failure to list his convictions and pending conviction is somewhat weaker. He states that he thought he had pardons for the two previous convictions. He stated that he had telephoned the offices of OMVIC and spoken to someone there who advised him to send in a letter with his application form. He did not do that. He received bad advice on how to answer this question. He agreed at his hearing that he is responsible for the completion of the application form. He did send further information to the Registrar when so instructed, including the letter from his dealer/principal.

The Tribunal agrees with the Registrar that the non disclosure is not a matter to be ignored, but in this case the Tribunal feels it can be dealt with by the use of terms and conditions. The Tribunal gives some importance to the fact that Mr. Collins has worked for approximately five years in the industry and there have been no issues directly attributable to his job responsibilities. He has worked for the Polito dealership since 1998 and the dealer/principal has shown his support for him. The Tribunal feels that the public can be protected by having Mr. Collins under the supervision of his dealer/principal for the next two years. His dealings with the public need to be supervised by Mr. Polito or his agent, such as a sales manager. His worksheets and completed offers need to be initialed by Mr. Polito or his designated agent, such as the sales manager. Mr. Collins is to refrain from drinking and driving. He must tell the Registrar immediately if he is charged with any matter under the Criminal Code of Canada. Any deposits from customers must be made out to the dealership and given immediately to the dealer/principal or his designated agent, such as the sales manager or business manager. Mr. Collins must tell the Registrar immediately of any irregularities with customer deposits on his sales of vehicles. There will be no transfer of Mr. Collins's registration without the prior written consent of the Registrar and there will be written confirmation of full disclosure to the new employer of the criminal convictions of Mr. Collins. In the opinion of the Tribunal, these restrictions will protect the public while permitting Mr. Collins to work within this regulated industry.

ORDER:

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in it by subsection (4) of section 7 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar to grant the Applicant his registration as a motor vehicle salesperson on the following terms and conditions:

1. There will be no transfer of registration without prior written consent of the Registrar and there will be written confirmation of full disclosure to the new employer of the criminal convictions of Mr. Collins.

2. There will be written disclosure to the Registrar of any charges laid against Mr. Collins.
3. There will be written disclosure to the Registrar of any criminal convictions against Mr. Collins.
4. Mr. Collins will be supervised by his dealer/principal or designated agent of the dealer/principal and Mr. Collin's worksheets and final deals with be initialed by this person.
5. All customer deposits will be made payable to the name of the dealership, and Mr. Collins will give them immediately to his dealer/principal or designated agent. Any complaints regarding such customer deposits will be reported by Mr. Collins to the Registrar.
6. These terms and conditions will remain in effect for two years from the date of the issuance of this order.

DATE OF HEARING: July 4, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: July 5, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on July 4, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended (“HTA” or the “Act”).

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the “Act”).

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Suzanne Switzer-Dowling (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1993 Ford EPR, plate # 123 YWC (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: June 15, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3)(d) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on July 4, 2000 and proceeded as an electronic hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

"I'm the owner of this vehicle. This is my family vehicle and work vehicle. I have 3 children of whom I am the sole supporter of as there birth father committed suicide in 1996. I need my vehicle as I am a nurse at a nursing home which I've worked at for 14 yrs. I live in the country which to take a taxi to work is $40.00 per day and I find it hard to manage as I have to cut back on the necessities for my children which is a tuff lesson to learn. In the future I will not allow anyone to operate my vehicle without proper driving credentials. The person operating my vehicle is my husband who I have been married to for 2 ½ years. In Dec of 99 he said he wrote for his GL and could now drive legally with a licensed driver due to lack of communication I never looked into this as I trusted him. He used my vehicle this day for work.

Myself and my daughters need this vehicle for our day to day activities. If I could please have a telephone conference as I have no other way. Could I also have the conference before noon as I work afternoons. It would be appreciated.

The Applicant gave oral evidence by way of teleconference call and stated as follows:

She finds it financially difficult to take cabs to and from work at a cost of $20.00 each way.

She works as a nurse in a nursing home some fourteen miles from her home. Since the vehicle has been impounded, she has relied on taxis to go to and from her employment at the nursing home and has also relied on friends to, on occasions, give her a ride as well as her 80 year old father who has provided rides on two occasions. She has missed the occasional shift at work since the vehicle's impoundment and has had to reschedule her three daughter's dental appointments until August, 2000. She also has not been able to take her children to counselling since the impoundment. She has been made aware that this counselling is important to the children's welfare.

She conceded she is the owner of a 1984 Chevrolet Corvette but this vehicle needs repairs to it and is not capable of use at present.

Her monthly net income amounts to approximately $2,260.00 while her approximate monthly expenses are:

2 mortgages	$959.00
4 loans from financial institutions	1,080.00
	$2,039.00

Over and above the aforementioned monthly expenses, she has to pay for food and groceries, utilities and other living expenses. Her husband (who is not the father of her three daughters) has undertaken to pay one of the above four loans from a financial institution in the amount of $555.00 per month but has not followed through on his undertaking. Her husband gives her no other financial support and the atmosphere between them is strained. Other than the one institutional loan of $555.00 per month and another institutional loan of $54.00 per month all loan repayments are current. Both the impounded motor vehicle and the Chevrolet Corvette are subject to liens and the amount owing under those liens exceeds the value of the vehicles.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;

2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Peter G. Dowling;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving while disqualified or prohibited under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until June 11, 2000.
5. Copy of Ministry of Transportation records indicating that certain 1984 Chevrolet motor vehicle plate # ACJZ 807 is owned by the Applicant.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(d).

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22
- (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or

- (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The following are the facts found to have been proved.

1. The vehicle was impounded for a period of 45 days by Order of the Registrar dated June 13, 2000.
2. The vehicle is owned by the Applicant and was owned by her at the time of impoundment.
3. The vehicle was, at the time of impoundment, being driven by Peter G. Dowling whose driver's licence was then under suspension pursuant to Dowling having been convicted of driving while disqualified.
4. The Applicant has available to her alternatives to the impounded vehicle and has utilized such alternatives since impoundment of the vehicle.

5. The Applicant has suffered no loss of employment, education or training as a result of the impoundment of the vehicle.
6. While the impoundment may have resulted in financial loss to the Applicant, the loss will not be significant and lasting.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The issue to be considered is whether the impoundment of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship. The onus of proof is upon the Applicant to prove that she will suffer exceptional hardship as a result of the impoundment.

The Applicant did not deny or contest that her motor vehicle was being driven by her husband, Peter G. Dowling, at the time of its impoundment and that Dowling's driver's licence was at the time under suspension due to a conviction for driving while disqualified. Nor is there a denial by the Applicant that the impounded vehicle is owned by her.

Section 22(1) of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990 as amended by Regulation 632/98 states that the Board shall consider in its determination as to exceptional hardship, if no alternative to the impounded vehicle is available.

The evidence of the Applicant indicates that alternatives to the impounded vehicle were available and that the Applicant availed herself of such alternatives. The alternatives were the use of taxis, the assistance of friends and her father to help her get to and from work. There is little doubt that the Applicant was inconvenienced, but the Board is precluded from considering inconvenience when determining whether exceptional hardship will result from the impoundment. Furthermore, while there may have been financial loss incurred by the Applicant due to the impoundment, the Board does not consider any such loss to be an exceptional hardship. There is also, in the Board's opinion, no loss of employment or education that the Applicant will suffer. Although the Applicant's children require counselling and have, according to the Applicant, been advised to seek such counselling the Applicant has not sought same. The vehicle's impoundment cannot therefore be considered to pose or result in a threat to the health or safety of the children, particularly as the Applicant appears to place no urgency in having counselling available to the children.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: DEREK ISRAEL
Presiding member

APPEARANCES: KIM BEINTEMA
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

PETER SOMMER, representative for the Applicant,
GMAC Leaseco Ltd. (by teleconference)

DATE OF HEARING: July 4, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: July 6, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on July 4, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended (“HTA” or the “Act”).

THE BOARD RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the “Act”).

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	GMAC LEASECO LTD. (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle:	1999 Pontiac Sunfire, plate # ADMJ 006 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal:	June 19, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner's appeal in this matter is based on the grounds of exceptional hardship and that at the time in respect of which the order of impoundment was made, the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle was not then under suspension, as referred to, respectively, in sections 50.2(3)(d) and 50.2(3)(b) of the Act.

The Tribunal, on a motion brought by the Registrar, found that the ground of appeal of exceptional hardship [section 50.2(3)(d)] did not apply by virtue of section 50.2(4) of the Act.

The Applicant therefore proceeds with the appeal pursuant to section 50.2(3)(b) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on July 4, 2000 and proceeded as electronic hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

The Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

DEAR TRIBUNAL!

- (1) PLEASE EXCEPT THIS AS MY EVIDENCE AND OWNER'S POSITION
MY LICENCE WAS SUSPENDED ON NOV 24/98 FOR 18 MONTHS BY A
JUDGE IN OTTAWA COURTHOUSE 161 ELGIN ST. THAT 18 MONTH
PERIOD EXPIRED ON MAY 24TH 2000!
I WAS STOPPED ON MAY 27TH 2000 SO MY LICENCE SHOULD HAVE BEEN VALID.
- (2) PLEASE BE ADVISED THAT BETWEEN MY WIFE CANDICE AND MYSELF
WE HOLD 4 JOBS TO PAY THE BILLS. WE CANNOT AFFORD DAILY
IMPOUNDMENT CHARGES OR TAXI FARES. WE THEREFORE ASK FOR YOUR UNDERSTANDING IN THIS MATTER AND REQUEST THAT YOU RELEASE OUR VEHICLE BEFORE WE ARE BOTH BROKE AND IN RUIN!

P.S. WE THANK YOU FOR YOUR TIME AND UNDERSTANDING!

The Applicant gave oral testimony at the hearing of this matter and stated that on November 24, 1998, he was convicted in Court in Ottawa of the offence of impaired driving in terms of section 253 of the Criminal Code of Canada. At the conclusion of that hearing and upon being convicted, his driver's licence was suspended for a period of 18 months calculated from November 24, 1998. Accordingly, he would have been entitled to resume driving on May 24, 2000. He conceded that he was stopped while driving a motor vehicle on May 27, 2000 when the vehicle was impounded. He states that he believed that the suspension of his driver's licence was on that date no longer of force and effect.

Other than as outlined in the foregoing, the Applicant did not contest the documentary evidence introduced by the Registrar.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Peter Heinz Sommer;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of Ministry of Transportation records indicating that at the time of the impoundment the driver of the vehicle had on March 4, 1994 been convicted under the Criminal Code of Canada of an offence of driving with more than 80 mgs alcohol in his blood.
5. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until November 24, 2000.

6. Copy of Notice of Suspension of Driver's Licence addressed to Peter Heinz Sommer from the Deputy Registrar of Motor Vehicles advising of the said Sommer's driver's licence having been suspended under sections 41 and 43 of the Highway Traffic Act for a period of two years effective November 24, 1998.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(b).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(b) alleging that the driver's licence of the driver driving at the time of the impoundment order was not under suspension, section 55.1(2) of the Act states:

Where a police officer or officer appointed for carrying out the provisions of this Act is satisfied that a person was driving a motor vehicle on a highway while his or her driver's licence is under suspension under section 41 or 42, even if it is under suspension at the same time for any other reason, the officer shall,

- (a) notify the Registrar of the fact or cause the Registrar to be notified; and
- (b) detain the motor vehicle that was being driven by the person whose driver's licence is under suspension until the Registrar issues an order under subsection (3).

Section 41 of the Highway Traffic Act identify the type of appeals for which a licence is suspended in sections 41(1)(a), (b), (c), (d), and (e) and 41(7) and 42(1) and 42(5) as follows:

Section 41(1) Subject to subsections 41.1 (1), (2) and (3), the driver's licence of a person who is convicted of an offence,

- (a) under section 220, 221 or 236 of the Criminal Code (Canada) committed by means of a motor vehicle or a street car within the meaning of this Act or a motorized snow vehicle within the meaning of Motorized snow vehicle Act;
- (b) under section 249, 252, 253 or 255 of the Criminal Code (Canada) committed while driving or having the care, charge or control of a motor vehicle or street car within the meaning of this Act or a motorized snow vehicle within the meaning of the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act;
- (c) under subsection 254 (5) of the Criminal Code (Canada) committed in relation to the driving or having the care, charge or control of a motor vehicle or street car within the meaning of this Act or a motorized snow vehicle within the meaning of the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act;
- (d) under a provision that is enacted by a state of the United States of America and that is designated by the regulations; or
- (e) referred to in a predecessor to this sub-section, is thereupon suspended

Section 42.(1) The driver's licence of a person who is convicted of an offence under subsection 259 (4) of the Criminal Code (Canada) or under a provision that is enacted by state of the United States of America and that is designated by the regulations is thereupon suspended for a period of,

- (a) upon the first conviction, one year; and
- (b) upon a subsequent conviction, two years, in addition to any other period for which the licence is suspended and consecutively there to.

- (4) This section applies in the same manner as if a person were convicted of an offence if the person pleads guilty to or is found guilty of an offence referred to in subsection (1) and,
 - (a) an order directing that the accused be discharged is made under section 736 of the Criminal Code (Canada) or under a provision that is enacted by a state of the United States of America and that is designated by the regulations; or
 - (b) a disposition is made under section 20 or sections 28 to 32 of the Young Offenders Act (Canada), including a confirmation or variation of the disposition. R.S.O. 1990, c.H.8, s.42 (1-4).

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The following are the facts found to have been proven.

1. GMAC Leaseco Ltd. is the owner of motor vehicle plate # ADMJ 006 (the "vehicle")
2. Peter Heinz Sommer ("Sommer") is the lessee of the vehicle.
3. The vehicle was being driven by Sommer on May 27, 2000 when impounded by police.
4. Sommer's driver's licence was under suspension on May 27, 2000 as a consequence of his conviction on November 24, 1998 for impaired driving in terms of section 253 of the Criminal Code of Canada.
5. Sommer's had been previously convicted on March 4, 1994 under section 253 of the Criminal Code of Canada of driving with more than 80 mgs alcohol in his blood.
6. Pursuant to Sommer's being stopped by the police on May 27, 2000 the Registrar ordered the impoundment of the vehicle for 180 days effective May 28, 2000 until November 24, 2000 in terms of section 55.1 of the Highway Traffic Act.
7. Upon Sommer's conviction on November 24, 1998 for impaired driving in terms of section 253 of the Criminal Code of Canada, section 41(1)(g) of the Highway Traffic Act became effective as a result of which Sommer's driver's licence was suspended for a period of two years effective November 24, 1998.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The evidence in this matter consisted of oral testimony of Sommer as well as documentary evidence introduced by the Registrar. Sommer did not contest the documentary evidence introduced by the Registrar and in fact admitted the correctness of same, save and except that he claimed that his driver's licence was not under suspension on May 27, 2000 when he was stopped by the police while driving the vehicle. He claims that the court suspended his driver's licence for eighteen months when convicting him of impaired driving on November 24, 1998 and that the suspension of his driver's licence accordingly expired on May 24, 2000, some three days prior to the May 27, 2000 incident when he was stopped by the police while driving the vehicle.

The Registrar's agent conceded that the court, when convicting Sommer of impaired driving on November 24, 1998 under section 253 of the Criminal Code of Canada, did in fact suspend Sommer's driver's licence for eighteen months. However, Sommer had been convicted on March 4, 1994 of driving with more than 80 mgs alcohol in his blood which conviction Sommer did not dispute. With these two convictions having been registered against Sommer, section 41(1)(g) of the Highway Traffic Act became effective which resulted in his driver's licence being suspended for a period of two years effective November 24, 1998.

Written notice, dated December 22, 1998, regarding this two year suspension was given by the Registrar to Sommer.

Upon consideration of all the facts and in the application of the law to the facts the Tribunal finds that the driver's licence of Sommer was under suspension at the time in respect of which the Registrar's order was made.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000, is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) from a written decision of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program") dated February 11, 2000 wherein the claim of Diane Mageau (the "Applicant") was denied by the Program.

The Applicant claims that she and Villa Pine Homes Inc. (the "Vendor") entered into an Agreement of Purchase and Sale dated June 4, 1999 (the "Agreement") for the purchase of lands and premises at Lot 4, 2121 Ghent Street, Burlington, Ontario. Pursuant to the agreement, the Vendor constructed a home upon the lot.

The agreement provided for a purchase price of $167,000.00 with a deposit of $10,000.00. The deposit of $10,000.00 was paid by the Applicant to the Vendor. The agreement also provided for the transaction to close on July 29, 1999. The Applicant and the Vendor however agreed that the closing of the transaction be extended to August 31, 1999.

By letter dated August 27, 1999 addressed by the Applicant's solicitor to the Vendor's solicitor the former proposed that the closing be extended to September 15, 1999 as the Applicant contended that there was a "serious problem with water in the basement" of the home. The Applicant contended that the water problem was not satisfactorily addressed by the Vendor and accordingly the Applicants' solicitor suggested that "a mutual release be signed by the parties" and the deposit be returned to the Applicant. The Vendor did not agree to a mutual release and insisted that the transaction proceed. When the Vendor was ready to close the Applicant refused to do so. The Applicant contended this refusal amounted to a breach of contract disentitling the Applicant to refund of her deposit and accordingly refused to refund the deposit of $10,000.00.

THE EVIDENCE:

The evidence in this matter consisted of both documentary and oral evidence. The first witness for the Applicant was the Applicant herself.

The Applicant's Evidence

The Applicant testified that she is a registered real estate salesperson with three years experience in Ontario and further stated as follows.

1. She is somewhat familiar with the Act and was aware when she executed the agreement with the Vendor that she had the right to make a warranty claim against the Program. She knew, besides having the right to bring a claim against the Program, she had the Vendor's warranty in terms of the agreement. However she did not believe the Vendor would live up to its warranty.
2. The Applicant conceded that the original closing date of July 29, 1999 was extended by mutual consent to August 31, 1999. The reason for the extension was that water was entering into the home's basement leading to problems of mold and mildew on certain of the basement's drywall. At that time there was no heat in the home as the furnace had not been turned on.

On August 26, 1999 she was advised by her solicitor to postpone the August 31, 1999 closing and on August 27, her solicitor wrote to the Vendor's solicitor as follows:

Our client advises that there is a serious problem with water in the basement of this property.

Apparently the drywall in the basement has become infected with mildew and mould which is three feet high in places.

The purchaser cannot be expected to close this transaction on August 31, 1999 under these circumstances as the health risk in such a situation is significant.

Accordingly, we propose the following:

- (a) the closing be extended to September 15, 1999;
- (b) prior to closing the Vendor remove all of the drywall from the basement and allow the basement to thoroughly dry out;
- (c) the Vendor provide its written undertaking to re-drywall the basement during the month of October, 1999 once its been verified that the basement is thoroughly dry and free of water seepage;

- (d) this outstanding item be placed on the Home Warranty Program final inspection report.

Please confirm by return fax that all of the above is satisfactory.

(Exhibit 3, Tab 4)

She was content with her solicitor's proposal to extend the closing until September 15, 1999 as she had rental accommodation until that date. She confirmed that she was in agreement with her solicitor's proposals as stated in paragraphs (a) through (d) of Exhibit 3, Tab 4, and stated that she was not prepared to close this transaction "if the basement was still wet".

3. On September 8, 1999 she attended at the home and observed that nothing had changed regarding the drywall which had neither been removed nor replaced.

On September 14, 1999 she again attended at the home and inspected the basement at which time she observed that some "moldy drywall" had been removed and replaced.

Following this inspection her solicitor addressed a further letter to the Vendor's solicitor dated September 16, 1999 which states as follows:

Our client now advises that a re-inspection of the premises indicates that the Vendor has removed some of the moldy drywall without giving the walls a chance to dry.

In addition, there is extensive additional drywall which is moldy and has not been removed.

It seems your client does not understand that it was necessary to remove all of the drywall from the basement and allow the basement to thoroughly dryout as set out in our letter of August 27, 1999.

Additionally, there is evidence that additional water has penetrated the basement causing moisture and mould in areas the full periphery of the unit including a common wall with the adjoining unit.

Under these circumstances, we suggest a mutual release be signed by the parties and the deposit of $10,000.00 returned in care of our office at this time.

(Exhibit 3, Tab 6)

4. She went on to state that "it was my position that all drywall had to be replaced and the basement was to be dry before I close". She also stated that at no time did she suggest to the Vendor's Mr. Guido that a pre-delivery inspection of the home be held and that the deficiencies she had observed be noted following that inspection.
5. She further testified that the Vendor's solicitor wrote to her solicitor on September 30, 1999 stating "I have advised the Vendor of your position and have been assured that they will meet with your client to resolve the matter".
6. The Vendor did not contact her and on October 6, 1999 her solicitor wrote a letter to the Vendor's solicitor requiring "the deposit be returned within seven days", failing which the Applicant would bring action for return of the deposit. (Exhibit 3, Tab 8)

7. On October 13, 1999 the Vendor's solicitor wrote and faxed to her solicitor a letter reading as follows:

Further to our telephone conversation with your office, we are advised the unit is now ready to close and we await your response as to a closing date suitable to you to reasonably organize your mortgage funds.
Please advise A.S.A.P.

(Exhibit 3, Tab 9)

8. On October 14, 1999 she went to the home again and inspected the basement. In her presence Ms. Moskal took some nineteen photographs of the basement and portions of the basement drywall. (Exhibit 6) During that inspection, she determined that the basement and drywall had not been repaired to her satisfaction, and she was not prepared to close the transaction.
9. On October 14, 1999 her solicitor responded to the Vendor's solicitor's letter of October 13, 1999 as follows:

We acknowledge your fax dated October 13, 1999.

Please refer to our letter of October 6, 1999. This transaction has become null and void and the deposit is to be returned to our office payable to our client without further delay.

(Exhibit 3, Tab 10)

She was never made aware that on October 1, 1999 the City of Burlington's Building Clerk had deemed the home to be occupiable and permitted occupancy on that date.

The Evidence of Ann Moskal

1. The only person to testify on behalf of the Applicant was Ann Moskal who testified that she is a real estate broker and works at the same real estate firm as the Applicant.
2. Ms. Moskal testified that she was approached by the Applicant to accompany her to view the home's basement. She did so on more than one occasion and observed the floor was wet around the perimeter of the basement and that mold was present on certain of the basement drywall. She noted that certain basement drywall was damp to the touch. In October 1999, she suggested to the Applicant that she take photographs of the basement and its drywall. Ms. Moskal did so on October 14, 1999. 19 photographs are in Exhibit 6. She suggested that the Applicant call the health department and municipality regarding the moisture she observed in the basement and the mold on the drywall.
3. Ms. Moskal felt that the moisture problem in the home's basement was such that a realtor would have difficulty in selling the home as there would have to be full disclosure of such a problem to a prospective purchaser and that such disclosure would detract from a possible sale. She discussed with the Applicant the options she believed were open to the Applicant and urged the Applicant to discuss her situation with her solicitor.
4. Ms. Moskal finally stated that she had herself brought two homes in the past and is somewhat familiar with Act. She had completed Certificates of Completion and Possession (C.C.P.) for those two homes. She is aware that prior to a closing all observed deficiencies are listed on the C.C.P.

The Evidence of Anthony Guido

Anthony Guido testified as the Vendor's only witness. Guido is the Vendor's representative. Guido's evidence was as follows:

1. He confirmed that on June 4, 1999 the Vendor entered into the agreement with the Applicant and the Vendor received the $10,000.00 deposit. When the agreement was executed, the interior of the home was a shell as the home still required kitchen fittings and fixtures to be installed, painting to be done as well as plumbing and electrical aspects to be attended to.
2. He confirmed that the agreement called for closing to be on July 29, 1999 but by consent of the Applicant and the Vendor it was extended to August 31, 1999. The August 31, 1999 closing did not take place due to the Applicant's proposal to extend the closing to September 15, 1999.
3. On or about August 28, 1999 he visited the home and observed that certain drywall in the basement was damp and discoloured and the basement itself was damp. He instructed employees of the Vendor to remove and replace the discoloured and damp drywall. This was done on September 9, 1999 when the drywall that needed replacing was cut out and replaced.
4. He reinspected the basement on September 11 or 12, 1999 and satisfied himself as to the removal and replacement of drywall, where necessary, and that the drywall was then dry.
5. On August 31, 1999, Guido stated that he and municipal building inspector, one Ed Saunders, inspected the home and noted at that time that there were only three items that needed the Vendor's attention so as to enable the building department to issue an occupancy permit. The three items related to a installation of cover for the attic on the second floor of the home, installation of a handrail for the stairs leading to the basement, and capping a pipe in the basement. The inspector did not require the basement or basement drywall to be attended to prior to the issuance of an occupancy permit. The three items stipulated by the building inspector as requiring attention were completed on September 2, 1999 at a cost of some $200.00.
6. He stated that when the Vendor's solicitor referred the Applicant's solicitor's letter of September 16, 1999 to him (Exhibit 3, Tab 6), he reviewed that letter and concluded that adequate efforts had been made to remove and replace the affected areas of basement drywall and that total removal and replacement of drywall was neither necessary nor reasonable. Furthermore, there was no necessity for a drying out period as demanded by the Applicant in her solicitor's letter.
7. He further testified that the work on the drywall was done to accommodate and satisfy the Applicant with a view to closing the transaction. He realized that any drywall deficiency or complaint of moisture in the basement could and should be dealt with after closing. Nevertheless, he reiterated that he wished to satisfy the Applicant by dealing with the complaints prior to the closing. He contended that he did speak with the Applicant in early October pursuant to the Vendor's solicitor's letter of September 30, 1999. (Exhibit 3, Tab 7). In that conversation he again stated that the Vendor had replaced what was necessary concerning basement drywall and that the Vendor would make no further replacements. The Applicant was not happy with his response.

8. He stated that the municipal building department had issued an occupancy permit on October 1, 1999 and that when on October 13, 1999 the Vendor's solicitor wrote to the Applicant's solicitor that the Vendor was ready to close (Exhibit 3, Tab 9), the Applicant should have closed and should have held a pre-delivery inspection of the home. A report of deficiencies claimed to be outstanding would then receive the necessary attention once the Applicant had become the owner of the home.
9. He testified further that it was quite possible that when on October 14, 1999 the various photographs were taken by Ms. Moskal (Exhibit 6) there was moisture in the basement and minor dampness in certain portions of the basement drywall. This would have been due to the fact that the furnace was then not operating, the sump pump in the basement was not on or hooked up and there was no humidifier operating. With the furnace, sump pipe, and humidifier operating, the moisture and mold would no longer be present. He referred to a letter addressed to the Applicant (disclosed in the Applicant's Book of Documents Exhibit 5, Tab 7) by the City of Burlington's Building Department in which the Manager of Inspections and By-Law Enforcement stated that in reviewing the Applicant's concerns an inspection was held at the home on November 3, 1999, when the existence of mold was confirmed and was likely caused by excessive moisture in the basement. On reinspection of the home on November 10, 1999 it was further noted in the letter that the furnace was "operational and almost all of the moist drywall and related mold was gone or easily removed by hand". The letter concluded that "at this point we were satisfied that the mold problem had been resolved".

The Evidence of Irene Swain

1. The sole witness for the Program was Irene Swain who testified that she is a Customer Service Representative with the Program. Her duties include dealing with deposit refund claims.
2. She had carriage of the file when the Applicant filed her claim and she assessed Applicant's claim and authored the decision letter of the Program. In assessing the Applicant's claim for financial loss, Ms. Swain looked for proof that:
 - Applicant entered into a contract with the Vendor for the provision of a completed home.
 - The Vendor failed to complete the transaction and transfer title through no fault of the Applicant.
 - The payment of the deposit was made in accordance with the terms and conditions of the purchase agreement.
3. On a review of the Applicant's file, Ms. Swain denied the Applicant's claim for the following reasons:

The documentation we reviewed indicates the purchaser requested termination of the agreement because she was not satisfied with the progress of the work being carried out by the vendor to rectify the dampness problem in the basement of the unit.

It is the decision of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program that this does not constitute a failure to perform the contract by the vendor.

4. Ms. Swain testified that the concerns of the Applicant related to moisture or dampness in the home's basement causing mold and mildew to form on the basement drywall. That issue falls into a breach of warranty claim under section 14(1)(b) of the Act and could have been raised once the Applicant became the owner of the home. The Applicant never became "an owner" in terms of section 14(1)(b) of the Act, as she never closed the transaction.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The following facts are found proven:

1. By Agreement of Purchase and Sale executed on June 4, 1999 the Vendor sold to the Applicant the lands and premises on Lot 4, 2121 Ghent Street, Burlington, Ontario for the sum of $167,000.00.
2. The Applicant paid to the Vendor a deposit of $10,000.00, under the agreement.
3. The agreement provided that the transaction was to close on July 29, 1999.
4. By consent of the Vendor and the Applicant, the closing date of July 29, 1999 was extended to August 31, 1999.
5. The Applicant by letter from her solicitor to the Vendor's solicitor proposed that the August 31, 1999 closing be extended to September 15, 1999.
6. On or about August 31, 1999, the Building Department of the City of Burlington inspected the home and noted three deficiencies in the home which on reinspection of the home by the Building Department of the City of Burlington on October 1, 1999 had been remedied, and the home was deemed to be fit for occupation as at that date.
7. The Vendor was prepared to close the transaction as of October 13, 1999 and notified the Applicant's solicitor accordingly.
8. The three deficiencies identified by the Building Department in paragraph 6 above did not include the concerns of the Applicant regarding the condition of the home's basement:
9. On August 31, 1999 there was moisture present in the home's basement, and certain portions of drywall in the basement contained mold and mildew.

10. The Applicant was not prepared to close the transaction or to take occupation of the home unless the home's basement was free of moisture and all the drywall in the basement had been removed and replaced with new drywall.
11. The Applicant refused to close the transaction when on October 13, 1999 she was advised that the Vendor was prepared to close the transaction.

THE ISSUES:

The issues to be determined by the Tribunal are:

1. Did the Applicant and the Vendor enter into a contract in terms of which the Vendor was to provide a home?
2. Did the Vendor fail to perform the contract?
3. Has the Applicant a cause of action in damages against the Vendor for financial loss due to the Vendor's failure to perform the contract?

THE LAW:

The Applicant's appeal is based upon the provisions of Section 14(1)(a) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act (the "Act") which reads as follows:

14(1) Where,

- (a) a person who has entered into a contract with a vendor for the provision of a home has a cause of action in damages against the vendor for financial loss resulting from the bankruptcy of the vendor or the vendor's failure to perform the contract;

.....

the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damage subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulations.

Section 6(1) of Regulation 892 to the Act reads as follows:

6(1) A purchaser who has a claim under clause 14(1)(a) of the Act in respect of a purchase agreement entered into after the 30th day of June, 1988 is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund an amount for damages arising from the breach of the agreement by the vendor that does not exceed $20,000.

DECISION AND REASONS:

The onus of proof in this matter rests upon the Applicant to prove her case on a balance of probabilities.

There is no dispute between the parties that there was an agreement that the Vendor would construct a home for the Applicant and that pursuant to that agreement the Applicant paid the requisite deposit to the Vendor. There is also no dispute that the original closing date of the transaction was to be July 29, 1999 and that by mutual consent the parties extended that closing to August 31, 1999.

The evidence of the Applicant discloses that there was a problem with moisture or dampness in the homes' basement as a consequence of which certain portions of the drywall in the basement evidenced signs of mold or mildew. The Applicant considered the moisture and mold and mildew in the basement to be a health hazard. However, she produced no evidence to substantiate her belief that there was a health hazard. The Applicant wanted all the drywall in the basement removed and replaced by the Vendor and that the basement be dry before she would take occupation and close the transaction.

The Applicant testified that she did not have faith that the Vendor would satisfy her concerns after she took occupation and closed the transaction, and for this reason she was insistent upon rectification taking place before closing.

The question is whether the Applicant was justified in refusing to close the transaction.

The Tribunal accepts that the Vendor was willing and able to close on October 13, 1999. This is supported by the letter addressed to the Applicant's solicitor by the Vendor's solicitor on that date (Exhibit 3, Tab 9) and the occupancy authorization the Vendor had received from the City of Burlington effective October 1, 1999. (Exhibit 3, Tab 16)

When, on August 27, 1999, the Applicant through her solicitor wrote to the Vendor's solicitor that she was prepared to extend the closing to September 15, 1999 she clearly intended to treat the contract as valid and in effect. Thereafter and until her solicitor's letter of October 14, 1999, she continued by her conduct to lead the Vendor to believe that the transaction remained in effect. The Vendor relied upon this conduct.

It was only when the Vendor's solicitor's letter of October 13, 1999 was received that the Applicant claimed in her solicitor's letter of October 14, 1999 that the agreement was "null and void". It was the Applicant's solicitor's letter of October 14, 1999 that unilaterally repudiated the agreement and constituted a breach of the agreement by the Applicant herself.

The Tribunal is of the opinion that the Applicant misconstrued the legal position as to her remedy in this matter. It is clear that there was a moisture problem in the home's basement, which led to mold or mildew in portions of the basement's drywall. However, there was no justification for the Applicant to require the Vendor to remove all drywall in the basement and replace with new drywall as not all the drywall was effected. The Applicant was entitled to receive a dry basement and drywall that was free of mold and mildew. In the absence of Applicant receiving a dry basement and mold and mildew free drywall, the Applicant's remedy was to close the transaction, after holding a predelivery inspection and documenting her concerns in a written predelivery inspection report. The Applicant's concerns may well have amounted to a breach of warranty in terms of Section 13 of the Act. However, the moisture, mold and mildew problems in the basement did not amount to breach of condition that would entitle the Applicant to resile from the agreement as she did when she had her solicitor write his October 14, 1999 letter. (Exhibit 3, Tab 10)

If there was a breach of warranty under Section 13 of the Act,(and there may well have been) the Applicant would on closing and on becoming the owner of the home, have had a cause of action against the Vendor in terms of Section 14(1)(b) of the Act. However, she never became the owner of the home as there was no closure of the transaction. The Vendor did not fail to perform the contract which would be the basis of the Applicant's claim before this Tribunal under section 14(1)(a) of the Act.

DECISION:

Accordingly, by virtue of the authority vested in it under section 16(3) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, the Tribunal directs the Ontario New Home Warranty Program to disallow the Applicant's claim.

In accordance with Section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Luc Boileau (hereafter the "Applicant") and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Registrar MVDA") waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal (hereafter the "Consent Order") based on the following terms and conditions:

1. The Applicant agrees, if he is charged in the future, under any law, to immediately notify the Registrar, in writing of the charges against him.
2. The Applicant agrees, if he is charged in the future, under any law, to immediately notify his employer of the charges against him and to immediately give said notification, in writing to the Registrar.
3. The Applicant agrees not to transfer his registration as a motor vehicle salesperson to another dealer without having first obtained the prior written consent of the Registrar.
4. The Applicant agrees not to be a partner, shareholder, officer, director or sales manager of a motor vehicle dealership for a period of two years.
5. The Applicant agrees not to be the final signatory on any sales contracts on behalf of the dealer.
6. The Applicant agrees that he cannot take deposits, in any form, from consumers on behalf of the dealer.
7. The Applicant acknowledges that his registration will not prevent the Registrar from taking administrative action, including a proposal to revoke his registration, arising from matters that may have occurred or may occur in the future related to his financial circumstances and honesty and integrity.
8. The Applicant acknowledges that his registration as a motor vehicle salesperson will not prevent the Registrar from taking legal action, including a Provincial Offences prosecution, arising from matters that may have occurred or that may occur in the future.
9. The Applicant hereby consents to an order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal, which may include the Terms and Conditions set out herein.
10. The Applicant hereby withdraws his appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.

11. The Applicant agrees that should he breach any of the terms and conditions set out herein, in whole or in part, that the Registrar is directed to, and shall carry out the proposal to revoke, and his registration will automatically be revoked.
12. The Applicant acknowledges that he has had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to his consent to the terms and conditions set out in this document.

Signed in the City of Toronto, this day of 2000.

Motor Vehicle Dealers Act

DATE OF
HEARING: June 27, 2000

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

This is a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) (the "Tribunal") arising out of a Notice of Proposal issued by the Registrar under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Registrar", and the "Act" respectively). The Notice of Proposal dated March 8, 2000 proposed to refuse registration of Antonio Biunno (the "Applicant") under the Act. For the reasons hereafter set out the Tribunal directs the Registrar to carry out the Proposal.

BACKGROUND:

The Registrar under the Act proposed to refuse to renew the registration of the Applicant. The grounds relied upon by the Registrar for the Proposal are set out below:

1. Antonio Biunno applied for registration as the motor vehicle salesperson on February 2, 2000 and proposes to work for Woodbridge Toyota.
2. In the application for registration the applicant was asked if he had ever been found guilty of the offense under any law or whether there were any charges pending. The Applicant answered "No" to this question. When a criminal record check was carried out, it was found that the Applicant had pending charges of operating a motor vehicle with over 80 milligrams of alcohol in 100 milliliters of blood, possession of a controlled substance, proceeds of property obtained by crime, and producing a controlled substance.

The Applicant requested a hearing, and asserted that he was innocent until proven guilty of the charges, that he had a legal opinion that he would be found not guilty of all pending charges, that he would be forthright and honest in dealings with customers, and he had a previous licence the back to 1991 as a motor vehicle salesman and there were no complaints against him.

THE LAW:

Section 3 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Act"), states as follows;

- (1) No person shall,
 - (a) carry on business as a motor vehicle dealer unless the person is registered under this Act; or
 - (b) act as a salesperson of or on behalf of a motor vehicle dealer unless the person is registered as a salesperson of such dealer and such dealer is registered as a motor vehicle dealer under this Act.

Section 5 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Act"), states as follows;

- 5(1) An applicant is entitled to registration by the Registrar except where,
 - (b) the past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law, and with integrity and honesty; or

Section 6 of the Act states as follows;

- (1) Subject to section 7, the Registrar may refuse to register an applicant where in the Registrar's opinion , the applicant is disentitled to registration under section 5.
- (2) Subject to section 7, the Registrar may refuse to renew or may suspend or revoke a registration for any reason that would disentitle the registrant to registration under section 5, if the registrant were an applicant, or where the registrant is in breach of a term or condition of the registration.

CASELAW:

Brenner v Ontario (Registrar of Motor Vehicle Dealers and Salesman) 1983 O. J. No. 1017 Ontario Supreme Court-High Court of Justice Divisional Court

This was an appeal by the Registrar of Motor Vehicle Dealers and Salesmen from a decision of the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal in which the Tribunal directed the Registrar to grant a conditional registration to the Respondent. The Applicant had a very serious criminal record which he had disclosed in his application but he had not disclosed three further convictions which were considered by the Registrar to be minor offences. The Applicant heard evidence from a potential employer and a criminal lawyer who testified that the Applicant was rehabilitated. The Court found that the Tribunal had not applied the proper test, and set out this test in paragraph nine of the judgment as follows:

"the Tribunal should only have refused to direct the Registrar to carry out his proposal if it thought the Registrar was in error concluding that the past conduct of the applicant afforded reasonable grounds for belief that he would not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty. The board does not appear to have directed itself to this question and makes no finding that, in its view, the past conduct of Brenner did not afford reasonable grounds for the belief that Brenner would not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty. Instead the Board appears to have been preoccupied with sympathetic concern as to whether or not Brenner had genuinely reformed, and appears to have decided that it ought to give him a second chance because there was the possibility that he, indeed, might have reformed himself."

Re: Cooke (1999) C.R.A.T. 4

In this decision the Registrar proposed to revoke the registration of the applicant as a motor vehicle salesperson on the basis that he failed to disclose his criminal record in the application form. The Applicant had a series of 24 charges on his record and the Registrar based the Proposal on a finding that he would not carry on business in accordance with the law and with integrity and honesty. The Tribunal found that the applications were of relevance to this matter as an applicant certifies that the information is true to best of his knowledge, and the Registrar's faith in the integrity and honesty of the Applicant is destroyed when false information is provided. The fact that the Applicant filled in two different application forms falsely was found to have afforded the Registrar with reasonable grounds to believe that the Applicant would not carry on business with honesty, integrity, and in accordance with the law.

ISSUES:

The legal issue in this case is whether the past conduct of the Applicant is such that the Registrar would have reasonable grounds to find that the Applicant would not carry on business as a motor vehicle salesperson in accordance with the law, and with honesty and integrity.

WITNESS FOR THE REGISTRAR:

Evidence was called by the Registrar, and testimony was given by P.C. Robert Cullen, David Wilson, and Laura Gordon.

The Registrar's first witness, P.C. Robert Cullen, testified that he is a police officer with the York Regional Police and is presently attached to a unit investigating the production of drugs. The Applicant sought to exclude the evidence of this witness on the basis that it was not relevant as his drug charges were still before the court and there was a presumption of innocence. The Tribunal ruled that evidence of illegal activities was relevant on the issue of past conduct, and the officer's testimony continued. Two industrial units had been rented by a company under the name Northern Enterprises. They were put under surveillance. A surveillance team, including the witness, observed of the Applicant attending the units on different dates, and when the police entered the units under a search warrant they discovered that there was a marijuana growing operation under way. This operation appeared to be ongoing as there were new plants being re-generated to take the place of existing plants when they were harvested. There was a similar operation at another house which was found to have been rented by the Applicant. When the industrial units were raided by the police approximately 1,300 marijuana plants were seized. During this time, the Applicant was not under 24 hour a day surveillance however the officers did not see him attending any place of employment outside the home. The officer tried to draw some conclusions from the Applicant's lifestyle and apparent lack of legal employment, however there was no evidence presented to the Tribunal on this point. In cross-examination, the officer agreed that he did not know anything about companies operated out of the Applicant's home, and there was no further evidence on this point.

The next witness for the Registrar was David Wilson who has been employed as an investigator for Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council ("OMVIC") since January 1, 2000. Prior to that employment, he was a police officer in Metropolitan Toronto for 29 years primarily with traffic duties, and was also registered as a motor vehicle salesman for 15 years.

A ruling was made by the Tribunal that the evidence of this witness should be limited to the past conduct prior to the date of Proposal as no notice had been given to the Applicant of any intention to use subsequent conduct at the hearing. Mr. Wilson testified that based on information received from an anonymous source within the dealership, he attended at Woodbridge Toyota at 7635 Martin Grove Rd., Woodbridge Ontario and requested that the manager Mr. Gabriel da Silva provide him with the sales contracts. Each contract was in an envelope and on the outside of the envelope there was a pre-printed area for the name of the salesperson. In January, 2000 there were five envelopes with Tony B. on them, and on four of these contracts other salesmen were listed by name. On one contract, the Applicant's name was written in full. In February, 2000 there were six sales contracts with the Applicant's name written on the face of the contract as salesperson, and for the month of March 2000, prior to March 8, there were five sales contracts with the Applicant's name written on them as salesperson. When the Applicant's name appeared on a sales contract, there was no salesperson's registration number, however when any other salesman's name appeared, their number was shown. In cross-examination, the witness stated that a person who is not registered is not permitted to act in any capacity in arranging the sale other than perhaps simply handing over the keys, and agreed that there was no specific reference to what the Applicant had done. Mr. Biunno also brought out under cross-examination that the investigation was started when someone apparently from the dealership called the Registrar to advise that the Applicant was acting as a salesman while unlicensed.

The next witness for the Registrar was Laura Gordon who is the Director of Compliance for OMVIC since April 1997, prior to which she was employed for eight years in different capacities by the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations. She outlined that the functions of OMVIC are to monitor the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act in terms of the registration, complaint mediation, inspection, and compliance. The Act itself is a public protection statute set up to regulate the industry and ensure that the salesperson and dealerships carry on business with honesty, integrity, and in compliance with the law as required by the Act. Ms. Gordon referred to the application form signed by the Applicant on February 2, 2000 in which he indicated that he had not been registered prior to this date, and that he had no charges pending. These answers were given by putting check marks in the appropriate box provided. The witness pointed out that there was a warning that a background check would be done to determine if there was a criminal record, and above the signature line at the end of the document there was a certification that the person signing the document understood it and certified it was true. When a record check was done, it was found that there were criminal charges pending. Ms. Gordon testified that the Registrar considers the application form to be quite important because it is the first test of the honesty and integrity of the Applicant. In cross-examination, she explained that the process of selling vehicles is more than just signing contracts and means taking part in several activities. She also confirmed that she did not have any information about any prior complaints about the Applicant's conduct during the earlier period that he was registered as a motor vehicle salesperson.

WITNESS FOR THE APPLICANT:

Evidence was called on behalf of Anthony Biunno, and he testified on his own behalf. His evidence was limited to the question of the application form. He testified that he was in a hurry, was asked to go by the sales manager from the dealership, and was also going to meet his criminal lawyer. He stated that he did not read over the document as well as he should have and did not intend to mislead the Registrar. On the issue of whether he had a criminal record or charges pending, he testified that he read to the point that he saw the question of whether he had criminal convictions and as he had not been convicted he ticked the box answering "No". His evidence was that he did not see the part of the question regarding pending charges, and that he certainly had no reason to intentionally give a false answer on the question whether he had been registered in the past as he had a clean record and nothing to hide. In cross-examination, he confirmed that he was well educated and could read English properly. He stated that he needed to apply for registration as he was going to get into the OMVIC Certification Course, but when it was pointed out to him that he already had a student number for the course, he became unsure.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The facts found by the Tribunal are that the Applicant had been frequenting a premises in which there appeared to be a marijuana growing operation ongoing. Based on the fact that there were two commercial units rented and a house, it is inconceivable that this was a case of a small amount of cultivation for personal use. When the search warrant was executed, approximately 1,300 plants were seized, and preparations were underway to replace the plants once they were harvested. There is no proof of what role, if any, the Applicant had in this operation, but the Tribunal finds that he had some connection to it as he was observed making repeated attendances at the premises. The Tribunal accepts the evidence of Officer Cullen that he personally observed the Applicant enter the premises, and in the absence of any evidence of a lawful reason, this is found to be unlawful behavior.

The Tribunal finds as a fact that the Applicant's name appeared as the salesperson on a series of sales contracts at Woodbridge Toyota during the period from January 1, 2000 until the date of the Proposal by the Registrar. No challenge was made by the Applicant to the fact that his name appeared on the contracts at the place before the salesman's name would be put, and there was no explanation given of how his name could appear there without him taking some role in the sale of the vehicles. Mr. Wilson did not see the Applicant negotiating with customers; however, in the absence of an a credible explanation, it would not be conceivable that a person's name would repeatedly be written on several contracts of sale as the salesperson when he did not take part in the sale. The Tribunal therefore finds as a fact that the Applicant acted as a salesperson without being licenced. On February 2, 2000, the Applicant applied for his licence, and he would, therefore, have been aware that he was not licenced and that a licence was necessary.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant's description of his attendance at the office of the Registrar to fill in the application form is not credible. It is accepted that he may have been in a hurry, but he would know that this is a very important application form as he had been licenced before. It is correct that he would have no apparent reason to lie in answer to whether this was his first application; however, on the question of whether he had been charged with any offenses, there is a specific reference to charges pending. In his questions to the witnesses and his summation, he explained that he simply made a mistake and did not read the form correctly; however, in his Request for Hearing (Exhibit 2) he uses a different explanation. In that document, he explained that he did not list the pending charges because he failed to understand that it was necessary due to the fact that individuals are considered innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. This is different from his testimony in which he said that when he read the document, he did not look at it carefully to see that he was required to advise them of pending charges. The explanation given in the Request for Hearing Form shows that the Applicant determined that it was simply not necessary due to the presumption of innocence. This inconsistency together with his contradiction on the issue of whether he had applied for the Certification Course leave the Tribunal with serious doubts as to his overall credibility.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The legal issues in this case are whether the Applicant will carry on business with integrity, honesty, in accordance with the law. In relation to these issues the Tribunal finds the following facts to be relevant past conduct.

The fact that the Applicant was in any way involved with the production of an illegal substance or was at least visiting the site of the production of an illegal substance demonstrates a willingness by him to disregard the law when it is convenient for him to do so. Even if a person does not agree with a law, he is still bound by it, and a failure to do so is a factor to be considered as past conduct.

The fact that the Applicant was working in some capacity relating to sales at the dealership prior to applying for registration as salesperson and after his application was filed and obviously no registration was received is past conduct which shows his disregard for the requirements of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. This past behavior is inconsistent with his expressed intention to comply with the rules and is another indicator of his willingness to disregard laws or rules that did not suit his purposes.

The fact that the Application Form was not properly filled in evidence of past conduct which is either dishonest or very careless. This is a very important document which is required for the salesman to be licenced, and central to his pursuit of his future career. If the form was filled in dishonestly, the Applicant does not meet the first test of honesty required by the Registrar.

The Applicant gave two different explanations concerning the reason for the section of the form dealing with criminal charges being filled in incorrectly. This is sufficient to give the Registrar great concern as to his honesty. Even if it was merely a careless act, the Registrar would have reason to be concerned over whether he would follow the documentary requirements and procedures within the industry. Whether or not the Applicant provided correct information in the application document is a crucial matter in assessing the honesty of an Applicant, as this information is clearly intended to be relied upon by the Registrar. If any information is intentionally concealed, or if false information is given, the Registrar has good reason to have serious concerns that the Applicant will withhold information or provide false information in the future in his dealings with the public or with the Registrar. A motor vehicle salesperson deals with members of the public who are purchasing or selling products of substantial value. They are depended upon not to misrepresent the value or quality of the vehicles. By withholding or falsifying information, they are in a position to take advantage of a vulnerable consumer. The public must have confidence that the salesperson will not put their own personal interests, financial interests, or convenience ahead of their responsibility to conduct business with honesty, integrity, and in accordance with the law. The Tribunal finds that in this case the Registrar was justified in having such concerns.

The legal test to be used by the Tribunal is whether the Registrar was in error in deciding that the past conduct of the Applicant provided reasonable grounds to believe that the Applicant would not carry on business in accordance with integrity honesty and with the law. On the basis of the facts as found, and the application of the law to those facts, the Tribunal finds that the decision by the Registrar was not in error.

DECISION:

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in it under section 7(4) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar to carry out his proposal to refuse the registration of the Applicant.

Vehicle Dealers Act*

HEARING: June 26, 2000

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This hearing arises from a Notice of Proposal dated February 24, 2000, issued by the Registrar of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act ("the Act") to revoke the registrations of 1002895 Ontario Limited o/a The Sidecar, Trailer Touring ("Sidecar") and Frank Nyitray ("Nyitray") acting as a motor vehicle salesperson pursuant to the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. By an undated letter (which was received on March 3, 2000) to the Registrar of the Tribunal, Nyitray on behalf of himself and Sidecar requested a hearing before the Tribunal.

THE FACTS:

Based on the evidence, the witnesses and the documentary evidence presented at the hearing, the Tribunal finds the following as fact.

The applicant Nyitray is an officer of Sidecar which has a registered motor vehicle dealer location at premises known municipally as 4801 Keele Street in the City of Toronto.

Sidecar has been registered as a dealer under the Act since April 14, 1993. Nyitray has been registered as a motor vehicle sales person since April 14, 1995. Nyitray is an officer and director of Sidecar.

Sidecar is chronically in default of filings it is required to make pursuant to the Retail Sales Tax Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. R-31, as amended. Sidecar is a registered vendor within the meaning of the Retail Sales Tax Act. Sidecar has made one filing which covered the period March 1997 to March 1998. This return indicated that "nil" was owing to the Ministry of Revenue.

Sidecar has been involved in sales transactions of at least 140 motor vehicles, the vast majority of which are models 1997 or later. Of these 140 transactions, at least 5 have been shown to involve sales to end users for which retail sales tax would otherwise be payable by Sidecar to the Ministry of Finance. Sidecar did not remit any amounts with respect to these 5 transactions.

The Ministry of Finance has conducted an audit of Sidecar and has assessed Sidecar for unpaid retail sales tax. The estimated amount of tax owing for September 1, 1995 through November 30, 1999, is $91,537.66. Notwithstanding the fact that this is an estimate, the Tribunal finds that there is an amount presently outstanding, which is properly due and owing to the Ministry of Finance. In March 2000, a representative of the Ministry of Finance, Mr. Sandy Bandhu, attended at 4801 Keele Street, Toronto. There was no indication of Sidecar operating a business at that location, there was no signage, no motor vehicles and nothing to indicate that a motor vehicle dealership had operated at that location for some period of time.

On January 23, 2000, an investigator from the Registrar, Matthew McKenzie, attended at 4801 Keele Street, in the City of Toronto, the purported site of the dealership. There was no physical evidence that the dealer was operating from the premises. There was no signage and the unit in question appeared to be empty. Nyitray was not present at the location at the time and neighbouring tenants did not know of his whereabouts.

Sidecar has not maintained any books and records with respect to any of its transactions in accordance with its operation as a motor vehicle dealership. Nyitray has not in the course of acting as a salesperson, kept any books and records of any transactions, service or sales of motor vehicles that he has been involved with.

Sidecar and Nyitray have not made satisfactory efforts to comply with their obligations under the Retail Sales Tax Act to provide documentation and/or pay any amounts properly due and owing to the Ministry in respect of transactions for which retail sales tax is properly due and owing.

Nyitray is an officer of Cachina Inc. Cachina is in default of its obligations to remit to the Ministry of Revenue in the amount of $1.4 million dollars.

Sidecar has on at least one occasion violated Section 16 of Regulation 801 of the Act with respect to providing the appropriate information on a bill of sale involving a motor vehicle, namely providing an odometer reading.

ISSUE:

The issue in this proceeding is whether the Registrar has sufficient grounds to revoke the registration of Sidecar as a motor vehicle dealer under the Motor Vehicle Dealer Act and Nyitray's registration as a motor vehicle dealer salesperson under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.

THE LAW:

Section 6 of the Act provides:

.....

6(2) Subject to Section 7, the Registrar may refuse to renew or may suspend or revoke a registration for any reason that would disentitle the registrant to registration under section 5 if the registrant were an applicant, or where the registrant is in breach of a term or condition of the registration.

Section 5 of the Act disentitles an applicant to registration where:

5(1).....

- (a) having regard to the financial position of the applicant, the applicant cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of the business; or
- (b) the past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty; or

.....

- (d) the applicant is carrying on activities that are, or will be, if the applicant is registered, in contravention of this Act or the regulations.

Regulation 801 is enacted under the authority of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. Sections 15 and 16 of the said Regulation set out in detail the minimum requirements for records which must be kept by dealers. .

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

In a proceeding under Section 7(4) of the Act, the Registrar has the burden of proving the reasonableness of his grounds for proposing to revoke the applicants' registrations under the Act. The Registrar proposes to revoke the registrations of Sidecar and Nyitray on the grounds that Sidecar and Nyitray cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible and the past conduct of Sidecar and Nyitray forms reasonable grounds for the belief that Sidecar and Nyitray will not carry on business in accordance with the law. Nyitray's personal integrity and honesty were not at issue in this matter.

1. Can Nyitray and Sidecar reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of business?

Nyitray testifying on his own behalf and behalf of Sidecar offered no explanation as to why proper filings haven't been made to the Ministry of Finance. Nyitray offered no explanation as to why monies had not been remitted to the Ministry of Finance. Although it was admitted by a Ministry representative, Mr. Bandhu, that the amount assessed as against Sidecar was an estimate, Nyitray did not contest that some substantial monies were properly due and owing to the Ministry and those monies have not been paid.

Nyitray's evidence was completely unsatisfactory. He indicated he was not able to remember much of what occurred prior to his being involved in an automobile accident in October 1998. He offered no medical evidence respecting his condition. He admitted that his evidence was "vague" for which he apologized, but unfortunately, this did not serve to rebut the Registrar's case and does not give the Tribunal any confidence that he or Sidecar would be able to be financially responsible in the conduct of his business. Accordingly, the Tribunal finds that Nyitray and Sidecar cannot be reasonably expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of their business on an ongoing basis.

2. Will Sidecar and Nyitray be able to carry on business in accordance with law?

The Tribunal must look at the past conduct of Sidecar and Nyitray in totality in determining the reasonableness of the Registrar's grounds. In this case, the Tribunal considers that the complete lack of answer by Nyitray and Sidecar, together with the evidence which was put forward by the Registrar, is more than sufficient for the Registrar to have reasonable grounds to believe that the applicant will not carry on his business in accordance with law nor can it reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of the business.

The Tribunal finds that Nyitray and Sidecar have consistently failed to maintain proper records and make proper filings, which are required by the Act and the Regulations. Nyitray and Sidecar failed to produce documentation regarding transactions upon reasonable request by a person entitled by the Act to inspect same. Nyitray and Sidecar have failed to provide the appropriate information on the conditional sales contract involving motor vehicles contrary to the Regulations.

Again, Nyitray's failure to make any answer to claims made by the Registrar, lead the Tribunal to the conclusion that Nyitray is not capable of conducting the business in accordance with law.

DECISION:

Pursuant to the authority vested in it by Section 7(4) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Tribunal hereby directs to the Registrar to carry out his proposal to revoke the registrations of 1002895 Ontario Limited o/a The Sidecar, Trailer Touring and Frank Nyitray.

Warranty Program

DATE OF
HEARING: April 26, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal), from a written decision of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program (the "Program") dated December 22, 1999, which disallowed the claim of Rolando and Teresa Rizzuto (the "Applicants") relating to water penetration into the cantina of a newly constructed home. This appeal is based upon the provisions of Sections 13(1)(a) and 14(1)(b) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. O.31, as amended (the "Act") and Regulation 892, Part VI, s. 14.

The Applicants entered into an agreement of purchase and sale (the "Agreement") with Delpark Homes Limited ("Delpark"), accepted on the 20th day of February, 1997, for the purchase of a single family home to be constructed on Hickory Drive in the City of Mississauga.

The Agreement contained various schedules including four pages which show standard plans for the type of house selected by the Applicants together with a Schedule "D" which was entitled "Outstanding Custom Features" which on the third page has the handwritten entry "cantina to be under garage".

ISSUE:

Subsequent to taking possession of the house, the Applicants advised the Program that there were numerous deficiencies with respect to the house, including water penetration through the walls of the cantina. The only issue to be decided on this appeal relates to the claim with respect to the water penetration of the walls of the cantina.

THE LAW:

Section 13(1)(c) of the Act provides:

(1) Every vendor of a home warrants to the owner,

.....

(c) such other warranties as are prescribed by the regulations.

Section 14(1)(b) of the Act provides:

5. (1) Where,

.....

(b) an owner has a cause of action against a vendor for damages resulting from a breach of warranty;

.....

the person or owner is entitled to be paid out of the guarantee fund the amount of such damage subject to such limits as are fixed by the regulation.

Regulation 892, Part VI, s. 14 of (under) the Act provides:

14. Every vendor of a new home warrants to the owner that there will be no water penetration through the basement or foundation of the home for two years after the date upon which the home is completed for possession.

THE EVIDENCE:

At the opening of the hearing, counsel for the Program tendered the Program's Book of Documents which was made Exhibit 3 in this hearing, and the Applicants tendered a Book of Documents which was entered as Exhibit 4 and a group of four photographs which were entered as Exhibits 5, A through D.

The only evidence given by the Applicants was given by Rocco Giorgio who is the son-in-law of the Applicants. He testified that he was at the building site throughout construction of the home and was aware of the water problem being experienced by the Applicants in the cantina. In his testimony, Mr. Giorgio made reference to the conciliation inspection report issued by the Program which appears at Tab 9(a) of Exhibit 3 which report is dated August 11, 1999. It refers to an inspection which took place on August 9, 1999, with the Applicants in attendance together with Mr. Luke DiGiovanni, Mr. Luigi Nota, the builder's representatives and a Program representative, Mr. Mark Roccatagliata. The inspection report states, with respect to the water penetration into the cantina, that:

"...the cantina installed in the basement under the garage floor has been installed approximately 8" below the weeping tile. The first course of block along the west and north wall of the foundation fill up with water and penetrate into the cantina during rainstorms. The builder is to repair the weeping tile installed around the cantina to eliminate water penetration into the cantina."

The reason given for the problem was "poor workmanship".

Mr. Giorgio explained that to correct the problem Delpark applied a plastic membrane two feet up on all four walls and across the floor and that two to three inches of concrete were poured over the membrane on the floor. It was his evidence that water was still coming in as the sump pit filled up with water and sand which he believed was coming from under the garage floor.

Mr. Giorgio testified that the Applicants regularly had to wipe out the sump pit located in the cantina in order to remove what he identified as mould and mildew, building around the inside walls of the sump pit.

The pictures entered as Exhibit 5 are various views of the cantina. They show the membrane running up the walls, the concrete floor, the sump pump, sump pit, the doorway, and the step down into the cantina. The views are from the outside looking in and from across the cantina looking out.

On cross-examination, Mr. Giorgio testified that he was a preventive maintenance planner who scheduled repairs for equipment at Exhibition Place in Toronto. When presented with the plans attached to the Agreement which appear at Tab 2 of Exhibit 3, Mr. Giorgio acknowledged that there appeared to be two steps down into the cantina and that it was noted on the plan that the "number of steps may vary with grade".

The witness's attention was directed to the second conciliation report appearing at Tab 17(a) of Exhibit 3 dated October 29, 1999, which refers to the reinspection which took place on October 28, 1999 at the Applicants' residence with Mr. Rizzuto, Mr. Giorgio with Mr. Enzo Palumbo, the builder's representative, and Mr. Mark Roccatagliata. The report states the repairs were made by the installation of a drainage layer and the pouring of the concrete floor which allows any water that penetrates into the cantina through the block to drain to the sump pit behind the drainage layer. The report indicates that as the Applicants were not satisfied with this repair, the builder was refused permission to complete the repair. The report states that:

"It is the opinion of the Ontario New Home Warranty Program that the repairs made by the builder to eliminate the water penetration into the cantina is made to an acceptable tolerance of workmanship and materials. The builder is to complete the seal of the top of the drainage layer to eliminate any moisture to alleviate into the cantina."

Mr. Giorgio testified that, to the best of his knowledge, the floor was dry and the face of the membrane was dry; however, if you put your hand down between the membrane and the wall, the wall was wet. The witness again made reference to the sump pit and the condition of the water in the sump pit and to the two pictures of the sump pit which appear at Tab 9 of Exhibit 4 which, although attach to a report issued by Trow Consulting Engineers Ltd. ("Trow Consulting"), are not part of that report. The witness indicated that the Applicants had concerns with respect to mould being in the air of the cantina but acknowledged that he had no expertise in health matters. Mr. Giorgio testified that there had been no change in the cantina during the approximately five months from when the pictures appearing at Tab 16 of Exhibit 3 were taken to the date of this hearing. It was Mr. Giorgio's evidence that in heavy rains the sump pit does fill up with water.

Under cross-examination by counsel for the Added Party, Mr. Giorgio indicated that he was not sure if the sump pump was in the original plans, if it was required that there be a sump pump, or if the floor of the cantina would be below the weeping tile.

Although there was a report from Trow Consulting included in Exhibit 4, no witness was called by the Applicants with respect to that report and therefore it is not part of the evidence before this Tribunal.

The Applicants called no other evidence.

Counsel for the Program called Enzo Palumbo. He identified himself as the customer service manager for Delpark, a position which he had held since August 1999. He has experience in home building and masonry since 1983. Mr. Palumbo indicated that he was not involved with the Agreement or the plans and only became involved when the complaint with respect to the water penetration was made to Delpark, however, he could not remember the exact dates.

The witness testified that he was asked to assess the problem with respect to the bottom 16 inches of the walls of the cantina and ascertained that there was no weeping tile leading into the sump. At the time of his inspection, he did not detect any moisture on the floor. The witness further testified that he had concerns with respect to placing weeping tile around the base of the foundation of the cantina as that would then become the lowest point in the weeping tile system with the result that all of the weeping tile for the entire system around the house would flow into the weeping tile around the cantina and ultimately into the sump pit rather than into the sewer at the street.

Mr. Palumbo explained that as there was a sump pump in the cantina, it was determined that what was necessary was a method to conduct the water into the sump pit and isolate it from the living area within the room. This could be accomplished by a form of membrane or drainage layer which is laid starting at the highest point on the walls and across the floor to the sump pit. The top edges of the membrane are tacked to the concrete and are suppose to be caulked; however, because of the objections of the Applicants, this caulking had not occurred. The membrane is dimpled to allow for water to flow between the membrane and the surface against which it is placed.

Mr. Palumbo made reference to his letter to the Program of October 13, 1999 appearing at Tab 14 of Exhibit 3 wherein he explains that the repairs were made to the Applicants' residence on October 6, 1999 and that in his opinion a modification to the weeping tile would not be effective in rectifying the problem as the weeping tile is above the level of the cold room (cantina) slab.

The witness testified that the plastic membrane could be used both internally and externally. It was designed to withstand having back-fill being placed against it, were it on the outside of the foundation.

On cross-examination, Mr. Palumbo stated that the decision as to the type of repair to make was based on his judgment and knowledge and that he did not check the building code. Particular reference was made to section 9.13.1.2 of the Building Code under the heading "Required Waterproofing".

Mr. Palumbo stated that there was no absolute way to avoid the possibility of water penetration and that the drainage layer was for both vertical and horizontal surfaces and created a permanent drainage layer. He stated that the form of membrane used was approved and required by the Code up to a few years ago and although is not required presently, is still approved as a drainage layer. In his opinion was the best solution for this situation, and he would not hesitate to use a similar solution for full basement interior walls.

Mr. Palumbo stated further that it was his opinion that there was no concern with respect to deterioration of the wall due to water penetration and referred to footings which were often placed in damp conditions. When asked about the effects of hydrostatic pressure, Mr. Palumbo indicated that as he had no knowledge with respect to hydrostatic pressure, he could not respond to questions with respect to this principle. When questioned with respect to the possibility of material from under the garage floor seeping through the walls, Mr. Palumbo stated that there would only be fine particles and in his opinion, there would be no deterioration of the soil under the garage floor as a result of this water penetration.

Counsel for the Program then called Mark Roccatagliata. He testified that he has been a warranty representative with the Program for approximately 12 years. He obtained a degree in architecture in 1984 and worked for an architectural firm for four years as both a site superintendent and designer. He testified that in his capacity as a warranty representative he had been involved in mediation, attended at homes to review complaints, issued reports with respect to warranty items and followed up on those items.

With respect to the complaint of the Applicants, Mr. Roccatagliata stated that, as a result of the receipt of a conciliation request form (Tab 7 of Exhibit 3) an inspection was conducted on August 9, 1999. Mr. Roccatagliata prepared the conciliation inspection report which appears at Tab 9(a) of Exhibit 3. He stated that the cantina did not show any moisture upon his inspection; however, there was staining on the block wall to the left side facing the door and evidence of water coming into the cantina along the bottom course of the block. Mr. Roccatagliata stated that with respect to the conciliation inspection report of August 9, 1999, he did not know for certain whether there was weeping tile or whether the weeping tile had been damaged. The conciliation inspection report was sent to the builder who then contacted Mr. Roccatagliata and asked as to the best solution. The builder was advised that the Program could not tell a builder how to fix the problem but insisted that it be completed with good work and materials and in accordance with the Ontario Building Code.

The witness testified that he received a letter from the Applicants dated October 7, 1999, (Tab 13 of Exhibit 3) which states that the Applicants were dissatisfied with the repair. Arrangements were made to inspect the work, at which time Mr. Roccatagliata took the pictures which appear at Tab 16 of Exhibit 3.

At the time of Mr. Roccatagliata's re-inspection, he checked the repair, and there was no water running into the cantina and no water running into the sump pit. The inspection occurred on October 28, 1999, and Mr. Roccatagliata issued his report on October 29, 1999.

The witness testified that subsequent to issuing the report, the type of repair performed by Delpark was discussed at a monthly staff meeting round table where it was determined that if properly installed, this type of repair would be acceptable. The witness testified that he is aware of other applications for this form of membrane where there was high water tables around elevator shafts in condominium projects. He gave as examples use in a project in Windsor near the St. Clair River or to protect underground parking and storm systems. He stated that such a membrane was approved for flat roofs and had been part of the Building Code until 1997 when it was deleted. The witness did not know why such deletion had occurred. It was Mr. Roccatagliata's opinion that 70% of builders still used the membrane where required.

It was Mr. Roccatagliata's opinion that the membrane had eliminated water penetration and therefore the cantina could be used for its intended purpose. When asked about the effect of hydrostatic pressure, it was the witness's opinion that there was no hydrostatic pressure at this house as no water was being pushed through any cracks.

On cross-examination, Mr. Roccatagliata stated that at the time of his inspection on August 9, 1999 referred to in the conciliation inspection report appearing at Tab 9(a), there was no water on the cantina floor. He agreed that the repairs did not stop the penetration of water but redirected the water which had penetrated to the sump pit. When again asked about the effects of hydrostatic pressure, it was Mr. Roccatagliata's opinion that if there was hydrostatic pressure, water would be coming through the cracks and would fill the sump pit.

When asked about the build up of calcium in the sump pit, it was Mr. Roccatagliata's testimony that this was normal in a sump pit and that the colour of the water was normal and depended on the subsoils through which the water flowed. He was also of the opinion that the system could be used in living space where there was food products but admitted that the application was new to the Program even though the product itself was known to the Program.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

1. The Applicants and the builder entered into the Agreement pursuant to which the builder constructed the Applicants' home on Hickory Drive in Mississauga.
2. Attached and forming part of the Agreement was Schedule "D" which provided that there was to be a cantina in the basement.
3. Also attached to the Agreement was a schedule which shows the floor plan and front elevation together with a floor plan of the basement which shows a sunken area behind the garage and a further page which also shows the basement layout with an area designated as "cantina".

4. The house was constructed with a cantina with a floor which is approximately 8" below the floor of the basement.
5. As of August 9, 1999, there was water penetration through the block along the west and north walls of the foundations.
6. The remedial steps which the Program requested the builder to take were to repair the weeping tile installed around the cantina.
7. The builder did not do any work with respect to the weeping tile around the cantina but instead installed a plastic membrane to act as a drainage layer part way up all four walls and across the floor of the cantina and poured 2 to 3 inches of concrete over the floor of the cantina.
8. Part of the installation of the drainage layer requires that the membrane be sealed along its top edge and this was not done due to the position taken by the Applicants.
9. Since the installation of the drainage layer, the floor of the cantina is dry and the interior face of the drainage layer is dry.

POSITION OF PARTIES:

It is the Applicants' position that it was a term of the Agreement that a cantina would be built as part of the construction of the house and that it would be constructed in a good and proper manner however, this did not occur as there was water penetration into the cantina and that there continues to be water penetration into the cantina after the remedial work done by Delpark. The Applicants make reference to various sections of the Building Code including:

1. sections 5.6.2.2 (4) referring to junctions being designed and constructed to minimize the flow of water;
2. section A-5.6.2.1 which provides under the heading "Sealing and Drainage" that where there is a likelihood of some penetration by precipitation into a component or assembly, drainage is generally required to direct moisture to the exterior; and
3. section 9.14.2.1 (2A) which refers to the installation of a drainage layer to be installed adjacent to the exterior face surface of a foundation.

It is the Applicants' position as stated in their hearing request form at Tab 22 of Exhibit 3 that the drainage layer is only a temporary and not a long-term solution.

Further, the Applicants believe that the sediment and build up in the sump pit indicates problems with the subsoil under the garage floor being eroded and that there may be a problem with mould.

It is the position of the Program that the burden of proof rests with the Applicants and that in arriving at its decision the Tribunal must take into account section 14(2) of the Act which states:

14.(2) Other recovery. - In assessing damages, the Corporation shall take into consideration any benefit, compensation or indemnity payable to the person or owner from any source.

and argues that the repairs effective by Delpark are such a benefit.

With respect to the issue of actual water penetration, it is the Program's position that the installation of the drainage layer satisfies the warranty under section 14 of the Act as water is no longer penetrating through the basement or foundation of the home and that the drainage layer now becomes part of the building envelope with the result that if there is no penetration through the drainage layer, there is no penetration into the home.

Counsel for the Program notes that there was no complaint made with respect to mould and there is no evidence of mould, no evidence as to what is in the sump pit water and no evidence of any adverse effects upon the sump system. Further, there is no evidence of any hydrostatic pressure and no evidence that rectification of the weeping tile would correct the problem.

Counsel for the Program argues that the Applicants' fears are not of actual damage but prospective damage and that the Tribunal cannot adjudicate with respect to future conditions.

Finally, as there is no damages as required by subsection 14(1)(b) of the Act, the Applicants have no claim.

Counsel for the Delpark simply takes the position that the membrane is part of the wall and as the interior face of the membrane is not wet, there is no water penetration.

At the conclusion of the hearing, counsel for the Program advised that she had a Book of Authorities which she had not brought with her as it was anticipated that this hearing would continue for one further day. It was arranged that the Book of Authorities would be provided to both the Tribunal and the Applicants, and the Applicants would be given sufficient time to review the contents of the Book of Authorities, and if they wish to make any comments with respect thereto, the Tribunal would hear their comments. No response was received from the Applicants regarding the Book of Authorities.

DECISION AND ORDER:

The Book of Authorities provided by counsel for the Program contains Tribunal cases where claims were dismissed because the applicants failed to establish that there were damages resulting from a breach of the warranty as required under section 14(1) of the Act.

In the present situation, the Tribunal has no difficulty finding that the Applicants would have had a cause of action against the Delpark for damages resulting from the breach of warranty with respect to water penetration.

The Book of Authorities also contains cases where applicants have had their claims dismissed as a result of their failure to permit the builder the opportunity to rectify defects as envisioned by sections 14(2) and 14(3) of the Act.

The Tribunal finds that the actions of the Applicants in the present situation in refusing to have the builder complete the repairs do not fall within the type of refusal to permit rectification referred to in the various cases provided.

No evidence was introduced by the Applicants that the drainage layer as installed by Delpark did not conform with the Building Code. No evidence was adduced to show that the installation of the drainage layer was only temporary and not a long-term solution. The Applicants did not provide proof that there was erosion of the subsoil or that there was mould in the sump pit or the cantina.

In essence, the question that must be answered is whether or not the installation of the membrane as a drainage layer against the floor and interior walls of the cantina is the type of the repair that satisfies the warranty placed upon the builder under the Act and would satisfy any claim for damages that the Applicants might have against Delpark.

If the question is answered in the negative then the builder remains in breach of its warranty under the Act. However, if the question is answered in the affirmative then the Applicants' claim must be dismissed.

Throughout these proceedings, the Tribunal has been troubled by the fact that the cantina was not an add-on feature but part of the standard plan for this type of house under the Agreement and therefore should have been constructed in the same manner as the basement was constructed and it was a reasonable expectation of the Applicants that there would be no water penetration into the cantina as there would be no water penetration into the rest of the basement.

Notwithstanding the foregoing concern, the Applicants have not met the onus placed upon them to prove that the work done by Delpark does not satisfy the warranty. Therefore, the Tribunal must find that the repairs made by Delpark satisfied its obligation under the Act.

DECISION:

Accordingly, for the reasons stated above and pursuant to the authority vested in it by section 16(3) of the Act, the Tribunal directs the Program to disallow this claim with the proviso that Delpark is to reattend at the residence of the Applicants and complete the repair by caulking the top edges of the membrane.

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) by the Applicants, Roman Guderski and his wife Hannah Guderska. The appeal is from a decision letter dated February 15, 2000 from the Ontario New Home Warranty Program ("the Program") denying two claims for warranty on their new home.

BACKGROUND:

On the October 2, 1996 the Applicants signed a purchase agreement with River Oaks Homes Inc. for a new house at 39 Prospector's Drive, which is on lot 58 in the 80-house Glen Angus subdivision, Markham. The net price was $300,100.00 after various adjustments.

When the Applicants took possession of their home on the December 9, 1997, there were a number of outstanding items to be corrected by the builder. Eventually all but two were dealt with. One complaint being made by the Applicants is that two windows were not installed in the garage wall as they should have been, pursuant to the purchase agreement which shows two windows, one on each side of the entrance door. The Program takes the position there was a legitimate substitution with an improved garage roof at no expense to the Applicants.

The Applicant's other complaint is that the basement foyer did not have the parquet floor which they contend was in the contract and for which they paid extra.

No one appeared for the vendor because, in March 1999, River Oaks got out of the housing business and handed over the servicing of the houses in the subdivision to Glenbarra Management Services Inc. The Program called Darren Cooper, a civil engineer who is chairman of Glenbarra and has had experience in house building, having been involved in constructing some 20 houses.

THE ISSUES:

The first issue is whether or not the builder is entitled to substitute an improved roof line for the two windows in the garage wall below.

The second issue is whether there is in fact any contractual requirement for the builder to finish the basement foyer with parquet flooring.

FACTS FOUND AND PROVEN:

The builder made changes to the garage's peaked roof at his own expense costing about $850.00. The same was done for all the other houses in the development by direction of the architect in order to improve the roof lines of the garages. The change involved installing a half window on one side of the peaked roofs and a dormer on the other side. The windows which were to have been in the Guderskis' garage wall were then omitted.

Dr. Guderski complains that this change means he has a lack of daylight entering the garage. The half window now in the roof does not help because he has installed an attic floor under it which prevents light coming down. So he intends to install the two windows in the garage wall anyway and said the estimates show it would cost $500.00 for the windows and $200.00 for the installation.

The second claim is more difficult. The Tribunal has to find whether there was a contractual requirement on the part of the builder to install the parquet flooring in the basement foyer. The situation is not free from doubt as there are a number of possibly conflicting documents.

The first document chronologically is schedule E 0055 which is an attachment to the purchase agreement of October 15, 1996. Item 4 is quite clear: "install parquet floor throughout excluding bathrooms and lower level". That page in the agreement is signed by Dr. Guderski.

Dr. Guderski gave evidence that the wording was a mistake made by Ms. Strachan in the builder's office who transcribed the agreement and said she could not change the wording. It should, he said, have included the parquet flooring on the basement foyer. The only reason he gave for signing the page was that he was advised to by his lawyer even though there many other outstanding items.

To show this had been a mistake, Dr. Guderski pointed out a number of items in various documents.

On October 11, 1996 the agreement of purchase and sale was modified in an unsigned River Oaks document entitled "Upgrades and extras". The relevant upgrade reads:

"FINISH LOWER LEVEL FOYER - NO CARPET

$800.00"

Dr. Guderski testified that the $800.00 extra charge was for the basement parquet flooring. This makes sense as the cost of installation would be over $500.00 before tax (the area of the foyer is 98 square feet and the quotation he got was for $5.20/sq. ft). However, Darren Cooper testified that $800.00 fits the cost for finishing the basement foyer walls and ceiling which was completed. He said that the word "finish" in that situation would not include the parquet flooring. Concrete, he said, is considered a finished floor.

A month later, November 11, 1996, Dr. Guderski received a fax from an organization called Colours & Concepts in response to an inquiry he said he had made to a lady in the builder's office about the status of the flooring in the basement foyer. The fax is on River Oaks letterhead. It bears no signature, no author and only has the usual fax recording of the sender at the very top of the page. The text reads,

"CLARIFICATION OF ITEM 4 ON E 0055 - PARQUET FLOORING TO BE INSTALLED IN FINISHED LOWER FOYER NC"

Darren Cooper explained that the colour chart project was done by an independent company under contract to River Oaks. Why Colour & Concepts would be sending this unsigned clarification is unexplained.

The colour chart project was done on this house 8 months later on July 6, 1997. The signed form stated:

"foyer: 0055 Parquet - natural"

This, Dr. Guderski said, shows that the parquet floor in the basement foyer was to be installed. But this conclusion is doubtful because the next line down relates to the main floor hall which is also a foyer and has parquet flooring and is part of the hall the line for which was marked "NA" although it too has parquet flooring. Moreover, two lines above the line for foyer was marked "Finished basement (where applicable) NA". This is far from clear.

Dr. Guderski also relied on a line in the pre-delivery inspection report dated December 3, 1997. The report had a second page on which was written "to be completed". The line in question reads,

"Basement foyer has no flooring (awaiting paper work)".

Darren Cooper testified that the wording "awaiting paper work" means that the requirement was undetermined by the builder.

Dr. Guderski further relied on a record in the Glenbarra computer taken from the same pre-delivery inspection report. Glenbarra made this record for the purpose of taking over the servicing of the houses built by River Oaks. The record in question refers to the December 3, 1998 date and reads,

Description
"misc.- basement foyer has no flooring"

Complete
"No"

But Darren Cooper explained that this particular item, together with a series of others noted as not complete, does not indicate an obligation to be fulfilled but rather was simply a recorded fact of something that was not done.

THE LAW:

With respect to the Applicants' claim for the two windows in the garage, the relevant provisions of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act are:

Section 14(1)Where,

(a) a person who has entered into a contract with a vendor for the provision of a home has a cause of action in damages against the vendor for financial loss resulting from the bankruptcy of the vendor or the vendor's failure to perform the contract;

.....

Section 14(2) In assessing damages, the Corporation shall take into account any benefit, compensation or indemnity payable to the person or owner from any source.

Regulation 892, Section 19 states:

Every vendor of a new home warrants to the purchaser that, where the vendor makes a substitution with respect to an item that is referred to in the purchase agreement that is not an item that is to be selected by the purchaser, the item will be of equal or better quality than the item referred to in the purchase agreement.

The underlying question is whether the vendor has made a substitution when extra value is put into a roof instead of installing two windows. It is really a question of the plain meaning of the word "substitution". In the Concise Oxford Dictionary "substitute" is defined as:

n., & v.t. 1. Person or thing performing some function instead of another.

In the Shorter Oxford Dictionary "substitution" is defined as:

2. The putting of one person or thing in place of another.

In Stephen Wood [1994] OCRAT 27 the Tribunal said "... functionality is relevant in considering the applicability of the warranties....that require substitutions to be of equal or better quality."

If the function was not an inherent part of the meaning of substitution, a builder could make any changes to a house as long as the changes were of equal or better value. The purchaser would be deprived of being able to make a binding choice of what was wanted. The word used in section 19 is "substitution" not "change" and that imputes a definite function as is defined in the dictionary.

The Tribunal finds that section 14(2) of the Act and section 19 of Regulation 892 have no application to the garage.

With respect to the Applicants' claim to be entitled to parquet flooring on the basement foyer, section 14(1)(a) above applies and it becomes simply a question of whether there is a contractual requirement on the builder to install the parquet floor.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO THE FACTS:

When the builder made the changes to the garage roof on instructions from the architect, it was for its own benefit. While this increased the value of the garage, the change with the half round window in the attic has the day light blocked by the attic floor and does not compensate for the function of two wall windows below. Therefore, there has been no substitution in law as is contemplated in section 19 of the regulation above.

With respect to the parquet flooring in the basement foyer, the onus to establish their case rests upon the Applicants. The Tribunal has not been persuaded the builder has not fulfilled its contract in that respect.

DECISION:

Accordingly for these reasons and pursuant to the authority vested in it by section 16(3) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, the Tribunal directs the Program to disallow the Applicants' claim for a parquet floor in the basement foyer but directs the Program to install two suitable windows in the garage or in the alternative to pay the Applicants $700.00 within 60 days of the release of the decision.

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

This is a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) (the "Tribunal") arising out of a Decision of the Complaints Committee of the Board of Funeral Services dated January 5, 2000 under the Funeral Directors and Establishments Act "the Act" that the conduct of George Robertson and Smith's Funeral Service (Burlington) Ltd. (Smith's) does not warrant referral to the Discipline Committee of the Board of Funeral Services.

BACKGROUND:

Mr. Michael Anthony Sopinka (Sopinka Jr.) died on June 5, 1998 and Smith's Funeral Service (Burlington) Ltd. was hired by Mr. Michael Samuel Sopinka (Sopinka Sr.) to provide funeral services. The executors for Sopinka Jr. were Sopinka Sr. and Mr. Brian Sanders. Sopinka Jr. was cremated and after the funeral service his cremated remains were kept at Smith's.

On October 1, 1998 Sopinka Sr. died and his funeral was also conducted by Smith's. The remains of Sopinka Sr. were buried in a traditional funeral service, and the Applicant believes that the cremated remains of Sopinka Jr. were put into the casket of Sopinka Sr. prior to the burial. Brian Sanders the surviving executor of Sopinka Jr. had refused to act as an executor and when Sopinka Sr. died, the estate was left without executors. The Applicant, Mrs. Alicia Sopinka (Mrs. Sopinka Jr.) had been separated from her husband for two years, and applied to the courts to become the executor of the estate of Sopinka Jr. The cremated remains of Sopinka Jr. were released by Smith's to his mother Mrs. Stella Sopinka on October 4, 1998.

THE LAW:

Section 1 of the Funeral Directors and Establishments Act (the 'Act'), states as follows:

"funeral director" means an individual who provides or directs the providing of funeral services;

"funeral services" means the care and preparation of dead human bodies and the coordination of rites and ceremonies with respect to dead human bodies, but does not include services provided by a cemetery or crematorium owner under the Cemeteries Act;

Section 14 of the Funeral Directors and Establishments Act (the 'Act'), states as follows:

(1) The Complaints Committee shall consider and investigate complaints regarding the conduct or actions of any licensee, but no action shall be taken by the Complaints Committee under subsection (2) unless,

(a) a written complaint has been filed with the Registrar and the licensee whose conduct or actions are being investigated has been notified of the complaint and given at least two weeks in which to submit in writing to the committee any explanations or representations the licensee may wish to make concerning the matter; and

(b) the Committee has examined or has made every reasonable effort to examine all records and other documents relating to the complaint.

(2) The Complaints Committee in accordance with the information it receives may,

(a) consider all or part of the matter;

(b) direct that all or part of the matter be referred to the Discipline Committee; and

.....

(3) The Complaints Committee shall advise the Registrar in writing of the action it proposes to take or recommend and its reasons therefore.

.....

(6) the Registrar shall send to the complainant and to the person complained against by prepaid first class mail a copy of the proposal of the Complaints Committee and its reasons therefore, if any, together with notice that informs the person to whom it is sent that the person is entitled to a hearing by the Tribunal if the person mails or delivers to the Registrar and to the Tribunal, within fifteen days after the notice is served on the person, notice in writing requiring a hearing and the person may so require such a hearing.

(8) If the complainant or the person complained against requires a hearing, the Tribunal shall appoint a time for and hold a hearing.

(9) After holding a hearing, the Tribunal may by order direct the Complaints Committee to carry out the proposal or refrain from carrying out the proposal and to take such action as the Tribunal considers the Complaints Committee ought to take in accordance with this Act and the regulations and, for such purposes, the Tribunal may substitute its opinion for that of the Complaints Committee.

Section 16 of the Act states as follows:

(1) The Discipline Committee shall,

(a) when so directed by the Board, Executive Committee or Complaints Committee, hear and determine allegations of professional misconduct or incompetence against a funeral director;

.....

Section 1 of the Vital Statistics Act states as follows:

"cremation" means the disposal of a dead body by incineration under the Cemeteries Act;

"funeral director" means a person who takes charge of the body of a still-born child or a deceased person for the purposes of burial, cremation or other disposition,

Section 22 of the Vital Statistics Act states as follows:

(3) upon the registration of the death, the division registrar without the payment of any fee, shall forthwith prepare and deliver to the funeral director requiring the same for the purpose of the burial, cremation or other disposition or the removal of the body of the deceased person,

(a) an acknowledgement that the death has been registered; and

(b) a burial permit for the purpose of the burial or other disposition of the body.

Duties of a funeral director, etc.

(6) Upon receipt of the statement containing the personal particulars and the medical certificate of death, the funeral directors shall complete the statement containing personal particulars, setting forth the proposed date and place of burial, cremation or other disposition or the removal of the body, and shall deliver the statement and the medical certificate to the division registrar for the purpose of the proper registration division.

ISSUE:

The legal issue in this case is whether the Complaints Committee erred in finding that the conduct of Mr. George Robertson and Smith's Funeral Service (Burlington) Ltd. did not warrant a referral of the matter to the Discipline Committee.

WITNESS FOR THE APPLICANT:

Evidence was given by Mrs. Alicia Sopinka who testified that she did not apply to become the executor of the estate of Sopinka Jr. and pointed out that at the time Mrs. Stella Sopinka received the cremated remains of Sopinka Jr. Mrs. Stella Sopinka was also not an executor of the estate. A letter dated June 22, 1999 from the lawyer for Mrs. Stella Sopinka was produced (Exhibit 3) to show that the appointment of the replacement executors had not yet been ordered by the court at the time the cremated remains were received by Mrs. Stella Sopinka.

The Applicant testified that she was not satisfied with the decision of the Complaints Committee (Exhibit 1) as there were several questions left unanswered. The Committee found that it could not make findings of credibility or make a finding of fact that the funeral was not properly conducted. In the following sentence they did state that:

" a significant concern has been raised and the licensee would likely avoid future complaints of a similar nature if the licensee had taken more caution in establishing whom the legal custodian of the cremated remains was."

The Applicant raised the question of why the Respondents allowed the cremated remains to be removed when they knew or should have known that there was a controversy in the family. She stated that they should have known that Mrs. Stella Sopinka would try to bury the ashes, and a representative of the Cemetery had told her that only one burial was registered. The witness did not believe that Mrs. Stella Sopinka would bury the ashes "behind her back". Mrs. Alicia Sopinka testified that although the Committee said Mr. Robertson was acting in good faith, she did not understand how he could prove this, and further, if he was acting in good faith he showed a lack of judgment.

In cross-examination she agreed that when Sopinka Jr. died he left a Will naming his father Sopinka Sr. as one of the executors, and that she was neither an executor nor a beneficiary. In her opinion the funeral arrangements were made by Mrs. Stella Sopinka and the witness questioned whether at that time Sopinka Sr. was in a proper state of mind. In the witness's opinion the funeral director should have known that he was dealing with two crazy people. When Sopinka Sr. died, the witness agreed that she was not an executor or beneficiary of his estate either. Her objection to the whole process was that her children did not know the place of their father's burial and did not have the opportunity to grieve for him properly. In her opinion Sopinka Jr. deserved to have a burial properly registered, and if Mr. Robertson had not given his ashes away this would have occurred. The witness agreed that at no time was there any objection to the process by the executors for the estate of either Sopinka Jr. or Sopinka Sr. Mrs. Alicia Sopinka also testified that she did not know if Mr. Robertson had placed the cremated remains in the casket, but based on information provided to her, she believed that it was Mrs. Stella Sopinka who had placed them there. Her objection was that on behalf of her children, she thought that allowing the ashes to be put into the casket of Sopinka Sr. was a monstrous act, and showed a lack of dignity towards Sopinka Jr. In her opinion the Respondents had a duty to check the casket before it was closed to ensure that the ashes were not placed in it. She made reference to the Vital Statistics Act but was not able to refer specifically to any sections of the Act but agreed that a cremation was supposed to be registered. She agreed that Mrs. Stella Sopinka became an Administrator of the estate of Sopinka Jr. together with a lawyer acting on behalf of the Applicant. Neither Administrator objected to the issue of the cremated remains having been released to Mrs. Stella Sopinka, however the Applicant explained that she did not instruct her lawyer to make an objection as it would cost money and she preferred to do it herself.

WITNESS FOR THE RESPONDENT:

The only witness called by the Respondents was George Robertson who testified that he had worked at Smith's Funeral Service (Burlington) Ltd. for 18 years, and had been licensed for 16 years. Mr. Robertson was the person who dealt with the funerals of Sopinka Jr. and Sr. He testified that Sopinka Jr. had died on June 25, 1998 and his funeral was arranged by Sopinka Sr. A cremation was carried out on June 30, 1998. As required by the law, the death was registered, a Burial Permit was executed and taken to the Bayview Crematorium and a Coroner's Certificate permitting cremation was obtained. Once the cremation was completed a Certificate of Cremation was obtained, and the cremated remains were kept at Smith's. The witness testified that Mrs. Stella Sopinka represented herself as legally authorized to take the cremated remains, and signed the required authorization on October 4, 1998 (Exhibit 4).

Mr. Robertson testified that Sopinka Sr. died on October 1, 1998 and although Smith's provided the funeral services, the casket was purchased independently by the family. Arrangements for this funeral were made by Mrs. Stella Sopinka. The witness denied knowledge of what happened to the cremated remains and stated that he did not know what Mrs. Stella Sopinka did with them.

In cross-examination he testified that the family is entitled to place anything in the casket that they wish, and described the container for the ashes as being a rectangular object seven inches long and between three and four inches deep. At the time he released the ashes to Mrs. Stella Sopinka, he said that he did not ask for a copy of the Will and that it was not the common practice. If someone represented themselves as legally authorized to contract for the funeral they would deal with that person and similarly in this case Mrs. Stella Sopinka represented herself as being legally entitled to take the cremated remains. His evidence was that he was not aware of the family dynamics even though it was only three months after the difficulties involving the first funeral. He was unable to provide details and stated that it was too long ago to remember as there were many funerals since that time.

Mr. Robertson testified that there was no code of conduct within the profession, and there were apparently no written guidelines. His recollection was that the family closed the casket, which automatically locked, and was left alone for that to be done, so he was unaware of what was put into the casket.

FACTS FOUND PROVEN:

The facts found by the Tribunal are that the Applicant was the estranged wife of Sopinka Jr. at the time of his death and was neither the executor nor the beneficiary of his estate. The funeral was arranged by Sopinka Sr. and a cremation was carried out in accordance with the requirements of the Vital Statistics Act. On October 1, 1998 Sopinka Sr. passed away and there were then no executors of the estate of Sopinka Jr. willing to act. Mrs. Stella Sopinka represented to Smith's Funeral Service (Burlington) Ltd. that she had the legal right to take custody of the cremated remains of Sopinka Jr. and did so on October 4, 1998. Mrs. Alicia Sopinka did not advise Smith's of her wishes concerning the ashes of Sopinka Jr. prior to the release of those ashes by Smith's to Mrs. Stella Sopinka. Mrs. Stella Sopinka later became a co-administrator of the estate of Sopinka Jr. The Applicant believes that Mrs. Stella Sopinka placed the ashes of Sopinka Jr. into his father's casket. There is no direct evidence of this, only hearsay received by the Applicant, but the Tribunal accepts that it is very likely that this occurred.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The legal issues in this case are whether the Respondents were responsible for ensuring that the cremated remains of Sopinka Jr. were not turned over to his mother prior to her being appointed as Administrator of his estate, and whether they had a further duty to ensure that the cremated remains were not put in Sopinka Sr's casket.

On the issues of whether there was a duty not to turn over the cremated remains there was no evidence provided to the Tribunal of any standard within the industry other than the evidence of Mr. Robertson who testified that they would be turned over to someone who represented that they had the legal right to them. The funeral director must exercise discretion in this matter. In this case there is no dispute that Mrs. Stella Sopinka was the mother of Sopinka Jr. and signed the release form stating that she was:

" of the same and nearest degree of relationship to the deceased and/or legally authorize were charged with responsibility of such burial and/or other disposition."

No authority was given to show that an Executor or Administrator had to be appointed to obtain the release of the cremated remains. In this case the cremated remains were released to the nearest relative in the absence of a co-habiting spouse. Under the Vital Statistics Act, a cremation is defined as being a method of disposal of a dead body, and is the equivalent of a burial as a method of disposition under the definition of "funeral director". Therefore once the cremation has taken place the body is deemed to be disposed of, and there is a practical issue of who should be able to take the cremated remains. If they are properly released to an interested person, then that person may dispose of them as they see fit. It is well known that ashes are often scattered or stored and are not required to be buried. If they were in fact put into the coffin of Sopinka Sr. this would not be an improper disposition of them for legal purposes if the person performing the act had properly taken charge of them any more than if they had been scattered. If a standard was imposed on funeral service providers that they were not to release the cremated remains or allow a person to arrange a funeral without proof that person is an executor or administrator or has the consent of all possible interested parties, it would prove to be a cumbersome and unworkable procedure. Funerals could be delayed for months while matters proceeded slowly through the courts. If Mrs. Stella Sopinka acted in bad faith in the way that she dealt with the cremated remains, that is separate from the act of the Respondents in releasing the ashes to her. The Respondents relied on the belief that a mother will act in the best interests of her deceased son, and in the best interests of her grandchildren. They were not given any notice otherwise. In due course the mother did become a Co-administrator of her son's estate. Her Co-administrator did not raise an objection to ashes being released to Stella Sopinka. If the industry had provided a protocol for dealing with this type of situation, the issue of conduct before this Tribunal might have been clearer, but in the absence of special required procedures the Tribunal finds that there was no conduct by the Respondents such that the matter should be sent to the Discipline Committee of the Board of Funeral Services.

DECISION:

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in it under Section 14(9) of the Funeral Directors and Establishments Act, the Tribunal finds that the conduct complained of, does not warrant a referral to the Discipline Committee of the Board of Funeral Services.

CHRYSLER CREDIT CANADA LTD.

Appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap.H.8 as amended (the “Act”), from the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 55.1(3) of the Act.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: STUART CORK
Presiding member

APPEARANCES: SANDRA QUADRINI
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

NEIL ABBOTT, Solicitor for the Applicant

DATE OF HEARING: July 7, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: July 11, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on July 7, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant’s appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended (“HTA” or the “Act”).

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the “Act”).

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	Chrysler Credit Canada Ltd. (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle:	1998 Jeep Grand Cherokee, plate # 154 XVJ (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal:	June 9, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended as provided in section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on July 7, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

The Respondent submitted a set of original certified documents, copies of which had been previously filed with the Tribunal.

The documents tendered by the Applicant and the Respondent were entered into evidence as exhibits with the consent of both parties

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

SCHEDULE "A"

IMPOUNDMENT

The Vehicle

1. The Vehicle in question is a 1998 Jeep Grand Cherokee bearing VIN# 1J4GZ78YWC309960 (the "Vehicle").
2. The Vehicle was leased to Jamie C. McGuinness ("Jamie") on October 30, 1998. Annexed hereto and marked as Exhibit "A" to this my Affidavit is a true copy of the Lease.

The Impoundment

3. The Vehicle was impounded as a result of an incident on May 27, 2000. Annexed hereto and marked as Exhibit "B" to this my Affidavit is a true copy of the Impoundment Order.

Claim of Chrysler Credit

4. The additional terms and conditions of the Lease provide that the Vehicle shall not be used for any illegal purpose and in accordance with the provisions of the Lease, upon the happening of such, a default occurred in which case, Chrysler Credit is entitled to repossess the Vehicle.
5. At all material times, Chrysler Credit remains the registered owner of the Vehicle, pursuant to the Lease. Annexed hereto and marked as Exhibit "C" is a true copy of the Vehicle Ownership Permit. Therefore, by virtue of the seizure of the Vehicle Chrysler Credit believes that it is entitled to possession of the Vehicle and intends to enforce its rights to the Vehicle.
6. Chrysler Credit is innocent of any complicity in and did not collude in any alleged or actual contravention of the Highway Traffic Act (the "Act") by Jamie that resulted in the impoundment in that:
 - (a) any illegal use of the Vehicle was expressly prohibited by the Lease; and
 - (b) Chrysler Credit had no knowledge of any intended or actual use of the Vehicle for any purpose which would contravene the Act or result in the impoundment of the Vehicle.
7. Chrysler Credit exercised all reasonable care to satisfy itself that the Vehicle would be used in contravention of the Act.
8. By virtue of the terms and conditions of the Lease which was imposed upon the Lessees as aforesaid.
9. The Lease is for a period of thirty-six (36) months and will mature on October 30, 2001. The Lease has been current and there is no default payment thereunder. At the Maturity of the Lease, Jamie is obliged to return the Vehicle to Chrysler Credit failing which, he will be responsible for a payout in addition to the damages in the sum of $25,268.98.
10. Chrysler Credit therefore asks that the Impoundment Order be lifted, its Vehicle returned and be compensated for the costs of impounding including storage thereof.

Mr. Abbott stated that the vehicle was leased to the driver, Jamie C. McGuinness, by the Applicant on October 30th, 1998. Mr. McGuinness was subsequently suspended for an incident on November 7th, 1998 and the vehicle was impounded on May 27th, 2000. Mr. McGuinness had entered into a 36-month contract with the Applicant which was now in default since he was found driving the vehicle while his driver's licence was under suspension. Mr. McGuinness was in violation of the terms of the leasing contract as this constituted using the vehicle in "violation of any law" as defined by the terms of the contract.

Mr. Abbott stated that the terms of the contract which stipulated that the vehicle was not to be used in violation of any law, included driving the vehicle while driver's licence is under suspension. As such, the Applicant would reposes the vehicle from the lessee, and the Applicant would then be able to dispose of it as they see fit. Mr. Abbott argued that by enforcing these terms of this contract, including imposing the sanction of repossession of the lessee's vehicle, the Applicant was exercising a reasonable measure of due diligence that should be considered appropriate under these particular set of circumstances.

Mr. Abbott stated that the Applicant's relationship with the lessee is that of an arm's length agreement. Furthermore, the Applicant functions as a financial service company, and only acts as a source of funds for the purchasing of a vehicle through a local Chrysler dealership, with the vehicle being used as security. The Applicant can only accept or deny financing based upon a potential lessee's financial or credit history. As a finance company, Mr. Abbott argued that the Applicant has no authority to deny financing for a vehicle based upon a person's driving record, and that no checks of the status of the driver's licence were ever made. Furthermore, since Mr. McGuinness became suspended very shortly after the lease agreement was made, had any inquiries into the status of his driver's licence been made at that time, they would have shown his driver's licence to have been valid and the circumstances would have not been different.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Jamie C. McGuinness;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until June 11, 2000.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

- (1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;

- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The only issue to be considered in this appeal is that of due diligence. The grounds of appeal under section 50.2 (3)(c) of the Act requires that the Applicant show the Tribunal that Chrysler Credit Canada Ltd. exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that Mr. McGuinness' driver's licence was not suspended at the time of the impoundment of the Applicant's vehicle.

The Tribunal finds that under the circumstances of the relationship that the Applicant had with the driver, that being the arms length financial agreement contract, the Applicant has indeed exercised some measure of prudence and responsibility. In as much as the contractual measures taken by the Applicant to assure that their vehicle was not being used in an illegal manner may be construed as some measure of an effort to assure that the vehicle was being used within the law, nonetheless, the Tribunal finds that they do not satisfy the specific requirements of the Act.

The evidence indicates that no attempts were made by the Applicant to determine the status of Mr. McGuinness' driver's licence as required by the Act; therefore, the Tribunal finds that no effort had been made by the Applicant to satisfy the requirements of the Act.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: STUART CORK
Presiding member

APPEARANCES: SANDRA QUADRINI
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

NEIL ABBOTT, Solicitor for the Applicant

DATE OF HEARING: July 7, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: July 11, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on July 7, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Registrar"), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Chrysler Credit Canada Ltd. (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 2000 Chrysler Neon, plate # AFFH 057 (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: June 16, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended as provided in section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on July 7, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

The Respondent submitted a set of original certified documents, copies of which had been previously filed with the Tribunal.

The documents tendered by the Applicant and the Respondent were entered into evidence as exhibits with the consent of both parties

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

SCHEDULE "A"

IMPOUNDMENT

The Vehicle

1. The Vehicle in question in this appeal is a 2000 Chrysler Neon, bearing vehicle identification number 1C3ES46CXYD599278 (the "Vehicle").
2. The Vehicle was leased to Emilio V. Figueredo (the "Lessee") on August 14, 1999 pursuant to a Vehicle Lease Agreement (the "Lease"). Annexed hereto and marked as Exhibit "A" to this my Affidavit is a true copy of the Vehicle Lease Agreement.

The Impoundment

3. The Vehicle was impounded as a result of an incident on June 3, 2000. Annexed hereto and marked as Exhibit "B" to this my Affidavit is a true copy of the Impoundment Order.

Claim of Chrysler Credit

4. The additional terms and conditions of the Lease provide that the Vehicle shall not be used for any illegal purpose and in accordance with the provisions of the Lease, upon the happening of such, a default occurred in which case, Chrysler Credit is entitled to repossess the Vehicle.
5. At all material times, Chrysler Credit remains the registered owner of the Vehicle, pursuant to the Lease. Annexed hereto and marked as Exhibit "C" is a true copy of the Vehicle Ownership Permit. Therefore, by virtue of the seizure of the Vehicle Chrysler Credit believes that it is entitled to possession of the Vehicle and intends to enforce its rights to the Vehicle.
6. Chrysler Credit is innocent of any complicity in and did not collude in any alleged or actual contravention of the Highway Traffic Act (the "Act") by the Lessee that resulted in the impoundment in that:
 - (b) any illegal use of the Vehicle was expressly prohibited by the Lease; and
 - (b) Chrysler Credit had no knowledge of any intended or actual use of the Vehicle for any purpose which would contravene the Act or result in the impoundment of the Vehicle.
7. Chrysler Credit exercised all reasonable care to satisfy itself that the Vehicle would not be used in contravention of the Act.
8. The Lease is for a period of forty-eight (48) months and will mature on August 14, 2003. At the Maturity of the Lease, the Lessee is obliged to return the Vehicle to Chrysler Credit failing which, he will be responsible for a payout in addition to the damages in the sum of $8,236.95.
9. Chrysler Credit therefore asks that the Impoundment Order be lifted, its Vehicle returned and be compensated for the costs of impounding including storage thereof.

The vehicle was leased by Mr. Figueredo, the driver, from the Applicant on August 14th, 1999. Mr. Figueredo's driver's licence was subsequently suspended for an offence that occurred on November 18th, 1999, and the vehicle was impounded on June 3rd, 2000.

Mr. Abbott stated that the default provision of the contract that Mr. Figueredo entered into with the Applicant stipulated that the vehicle was not to be used for any illegal purposes, and that no inquiries had been made, at any time into the status of Mr. Figueredo's driver's licence.

Mr. Abbott argued that under the circumstances of this case, the efforts of the Applicant to ensure that its vehicle was not to be used in any illegal way, as stipulated by the contract that the driver signed, constituted due diligence.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Emilio Figueredo Vinent;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving with more than 80 mgs alcohol in blood under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until January 5, 2001.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

The only issue to be considered in this appeal is that of due diligence. The grounds of appeal under section 50.2 (3)(c) of the Act requires that the Applicant show the Tribunal that Chrysler Credit Canada Ltd. exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that Mr. Figueredo's driver's licence was not suspended at the time of the impoundment of the Applicant's vehicle.

The Tribunal finds that although the Applicant took measures to insure that the vehicle was not to be used in an illegal way, these measures can not be considered due diligence as specifically defined by the Act. There is no evidence before this Tribunal that the Applicant made any attempt to determine the status of Mr. Figueredo's driver's licence. A failure to make any inquiry as to the status of the driver's licence does not satisfy the requirement to exercise due diligence, as stipulated by the Act. Therefore, the Applicant has not satisfied the requirements of this ground of appeal.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

APPEARANCES: Christopher Richard Hiles, Agent on behalf of 787498 Ontario Inc.

A. Mitchell Goldbloom, Counsel, representing the Registrar,
Motor Vehicle Dealers Act

DATE OF HEARING: July 10, 2000 Kingston

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This hearing arises from a Notice of Proposal dated February 23, 2000, issued by the Registrar of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act (the "Act") to revoke the registrations of 787498 Ontario Inc. o/a Lakeview Motor Sales and Service ("Lakeview") and Christopher Richard Hiles ("Hiles") acting as a motor vehicle salesperson pursuant to the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act. By a letter dated March 7, 2000, to the Registrar of the Tribunal, Hiles on behalf of himself and Lakeview requested a hearing before the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal).

THE FACTS:

Based on the evidence, the witnesses and the documentary evidence presented at the hearing, the Tribunal finds the following as fact.

The Applicant Hiles is the sole officer and director of Lakeview which has a registered motor vehicle dealer location at premises known municipally as 132 Main Street, Wellington, Ontario.

Lakeview has been registered as a dealer under the Act since July 5, 1993. Hiles was registered as a dealer from March 3, 1986 until July 5, 1993, at which point, he became a registered salesperson for Lakeview.

There is a substantial amount of money owing by Lakeview to the Province of Ontario pursuant to the Retail Sales Tax Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. R-31, as amended. Lakeview is a registered vendor within the meaning of the Retail Sales Tax Act. Hiles admits that at least $100,000.00 is owing by Lakeview and has been owing since a field audit was conducted by the Ministry of Revenue on or about July 31, 1994. Lakeview has filed some 47 returns, all of which were in default, as the appropriate amount of tax was not remitted within the time permitted by the Act in respect of those filings. Some 8 post-dated cheques provided to the Ministry of Revenue have gone NSF.

Hiles acknowledges that bookkeeping is not one of his major attributes. He has attempted to keep proper books and records, but admits he has not done a very good job. Hiles has hired a number of bookkeepers. The most recent person is Michelle Moore. By letter dated June 6, 2000, addressed to who it may concern, she indicated that she was completing the books for Lakeview. She indicated she expected to have them done by July 1, 2000. As of July 10, 2000, Hiles indicated that the books were not completed. Hiles went to see Ms. Moore in the morning of July 10, 2000, to discuss the completion of the review of his books. He admits that he has sold motor vehicles, collected the retail sales tax and has not remitted the trust funds because he used it to "pay bills".

On December 10, 1999, a field collection officer from the Ministry of Revenue, Stan V. Gerkes ("Gerkes") an officer of some fourteen years of experience with the Ministry attended at Lakeview's dealership. The purpose of the visit was to advise Hiles that the amounts he had been paying to the Ministry ($200.00 per week) were not sufficient to retire the debt, which the Ministry estimated at the time was in the order of $171,000.00. Gerkes made an appointment to conduct a further review of the books and records of Lakeview.

On January 28, 2000, Gerkes again attended at the dealership. Hiles produced the books and records as requested. Gerkes noticed at least one discrepancy. For a filing for the month of September 1997, Lakeview reported sales in the amount of $45,565.00 with $242.00 of retail sales tax due and owing. The amount was not remitted. Notwithstanding that report, the actual amount of sales, as indicated by the records kept at the dealership was $53,898.00, indicating that the sum of $1,939.00 of retail sales tax had been collected and not remitted.

On January 28, 2000, Gerkes attended the Registry Office at Picton. His search of the Land Registrar for Prince Edward (No. 17) Picton revealed a Transfer/Deed of Land, instrument number 0151794, dated December 22, 1999. This document transferred 3 properties from Hiles to his spouse, Sandra Lynn Hiles. The transfer covered the following lands:

1. 132 Main Street, Wellington, Ontario (the vehicle dealership);
2. R.R. #2, Picton, Ontario (a rental property);
3. 37 West Street, Wellington, Ontario (a rental property).

The transfer indicated that there was no consideration paid. This was verified by a land transfer tax affidavit sworn by Sandra Lynn Hiles on December 22, 1999.

The Ministry of Revenue conducted a further audit on Lakeview in May of 2000. As a result of this audit, a further $204,000.00 of tax has been assessed as against Lakeview. Lakeview intends to appeal this assessment. As of the date of the hearing of the appeal has not expired, but Lakeview has yet to appeal.

Gerkes specifically questioned Hiles about the transfer. Hiles indicated he was “securing his family position”. Hiles had the advice of his solicitor, Mr. Williams of Picton, with respect to the transfers, who recommended the transfers.

Since the incorporation of Lakeview, after which time Hiles acted only as a motor vehicle dealer salesman at Lakeview, Hiles nevertheless has had 126 vehicles registered to his name, which were subsequently sold. Presently there are fourteen vehicles registered in Hiles’ name.

Hiles has not kept a garage register listing those vehicles which have come into the possession of the dealership and have been sold by Lakeview.

Hiles has made some efforts to pay the outstanding retail sales tax and has offered to pay some $200.00 per week against the outstanding debt, which, according to the Ministry, now exceeds some $300,000.00. As at the date of the hearing, Hiles on behalf of Lakeview was paying $200.00 per week. This amount was not agreed to by the Ministry, which wanted a far more substantial repayment schedule.

ISSUE:

The issue in this proceeding is whether the Registrar has sufficient grounds to revoke the registration of Lakeview as a motor vehicle dealer under the Motor Vehicle Dealer Act and Hiles’ registration as a motor vehicle dealer salesperson under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.

THE LAW:

Section 6 of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act provides:

.....

6(2) Subject to Section 7, the Registrar may refuse to renew or may suspend or revoke a registration for any reason that would disentitle the registrant to registration under section 5 if the registrant were an applicant, or where the registrant is in breach of a term or condition of the registration.

Section 5 of the Act disentitles an Applicant to registration where:

5(1)

.....

(c) having regard to the financial position of the applicant, the applicant cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of the business; or

- (d) the past conduct of the applicant affords reasonable grounds for belief that the applicant will not carry on business in accordance with law and with integrity and honesty; or

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

In a proceeding under Section 7(4) of the Act, the Registrar has the burden of proving the reasonableness of his grounds for proposing to revoke the Applicants' registrations under the Act. The Registrar proposes to revoke the registrations of Lakeview and Hiles on the grounds that Lakeview and Hiles cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible and the past conduct of Lakeview and Hiles forms reasonable grounds for the belief that Lakeview and Hiles will not carry on business in accordance with the law. Hiles' personal integrity and honesty were put in issue by evidence raised by the representative of the Registrar, Amanda LeeDempsey. Proper and due notice of this position was given to Lakeview and Hiles. Ms. LeeDempsey is the manager of inspections for the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council.

1. Can Lakeview and Hiles reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of business?

Hiles testifying on his own behalf and behalf of Lakeview explained that the failure to remit retail sales tax is as a result of his failure to keep proper records and as a result of his difficulties in conducting business. Hiles indicated that he had used the retail sales tax to "pay bills" in the hopes that things would get better in the next months. Apparently things did not get better over a 4-year period. The "use" of trust funds in this way is a completely unsatisfactory and irresponsible approach to the conduct of business. The Tribunal is greatly concerned that the transfer of land on December 22, 1999, may have been motivated solely by the desire to place these assets out of the reach of creditors, namely the Ministry of Finance. However, the Tribunal makes no finding as to whether or not this transfer was a fraudulent conveyance or a conveyance to avoid creditors. Hiles did explain that he had done it on advice of counsel, however, the Tribunal takes the view that this, in and of itself, is not a satisfactory answer to the concerns raised by the Ministry. The specific quality of this transaction will no doubt be dealt with in another forum.

The Tribunal notes that Hiles was, at least up until December 21, 1999, the owner of two rental properties. While he testified that he is under some considerable difficulty in his business, he certainly was of the means to own rental properties and generate income from those endeavours. Apparently the properties are now listed for sale. Further, Hiles indicated in cross examination that he is planning to move to Alberta once the properties sell and his elderly mother (who is apparently in a "home", although Hiles did not elaborate as to the level of care that she is provided) is all that is keeping Hiles and his family in Ontario.

Whether the amounts outstanding to the Ministry for retail sales tax are as Hiles suggested or as the Ministry of Finance suggests, they are certainly of a magnitude that one cannot reasonably expect that $200.00 a week would be satisfactory to pay off the debts in any reasonable period of time.

The Tribunal finds that given the amounts owing and the length of time for which the amounts have been owing, Hiles and Lakeview cannot be reasonably expected to be financial responsible in the conduct of their business on an ongoing basis.

2. Will Lakeview and Hiles be able to carry on business in accordance with law?

The Tribunal must look at the past conduct of Lakeview and Hiles in totality in determining the reasonableness of the Registry's grounds. In this case, the Tribunal considers Hiles' answer to why he has not remitted the appropriate amount of retail sales tax to be completely unsatisfactory. Hiles knew that monies were properly due and owing and yet chose to not remit the funds and use them for his own purposes. It is simply unacceptable business practice in any circumstance to allow this to continue. Also, the transfer in December 1999, coming some 12 days following an initial field visit by the representative of the Ministry is troubling and raises some concerns about the degree to which Hiles, notwithstanding his protestation to the contrary, is genuinely interested in making an arrangement which would see him pay off his debt and pay retail sales tax on an ongoing basis. In this case, the Tribunal considers Hiles' answers, together with the evidence put forward by the Registrar concerning the number of vehicles which are apparently in Hiles' name (as opposed to Lakeview, which is the only registered dealership at issue here), to be more than sufficient for the Registrar to have reasonable grounds to believe that the Applicants will not carry on their business in accordance with law, nor can be reasonably expected for them to be financially responsible in the conduct of their business.

The discrepancies in reporting lead the Tribunal to further conclude that Hiles and Lakeview are not capable of conducting the business in accordance with law.

DECISION:

Pursuant to the authority vested in it by Section 7(4) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Tribunal hereby directs to the Registrar to carry out his proposal to revoke the registrations of 787498 Ontario Inc. o/a Lakeview Motor Sales and Service and Christopher Richard Hiles.

DATE OF HEARING: July 11, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: July 13, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on July 11, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA" or the "Act").

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the "Act").

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the “Registrar”), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Ivana Brussolo (the “Applicant”)
Motor Vehicle: 1999 Chevrolet Malibu, plate # AHWE 461 (the “vehicle”)
Date of Appeal: June 22, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the “Tribunal”) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in section 50.2(3)(c) and (d) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on July 11, 2000 and proceeded as oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

The Respondent submitted a set of original certified documents, copies of which had been previously filed with the Tribunal.

The documents tendered by the Applicant and the Respondent were entered in to evidence as exhibits with the consent of both parties.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

I work in Toronto and have to commute by train now
Scheduling has been difficult with the children

Ms. Brussolo testified that her husband, Mr. Norman Fryer, who was the driver of the impounded vehicle, had lost his driver's licence as a result of an incident in December of 1999. Mr. Fryer had initially had a 90-day ADLS suspension, and following which his licence was reinstated pending his court appearance. Ms. Brussolo further stated that her husband told her that he had received a fine and was ordered to perform some community service by the court, however she was unaware that his licence had been suspended for a further year. Ms. Brussolo testified that she had assumed that Mr. Fryer's driver's licence was valid, though she had not actually asked him specifically if it was, nor had she seen his actual driver's licence card.

Ms. Brussolo stated that her vehicle is used to transport her or her husband to work in Toronto where they must commute to from their residence in Cobourg. Since the loss of the vehicle, they have had to rely upon VIA Rail commuter train service which has proven to be much more costly than driving to work. Furthermore, Ms. Brussolo testified that although they have had to miss the occasional day of work in order to stay with their children, she has another vehicle for local transportation needs and household errands.

Mr. Fryer testified that his wife did not know of his suspension, and that he assumed that she may have seen his licence in the mail after it was reinstated following his 90 day ADLS suspension. He further testified that the added difficulties of commuting to work and re-scheduling the days that they work so that one parent is there to attend to their children has placed a great deal of stress upon their family.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Norman Fryer;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of driving with more than 80 mgs alcohol in blood under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until May 8, 2001.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of sections 50.2(3)(c) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Tribunal in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22 (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) a threat to the health or safety of any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
- (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
- (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;

- (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
- (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

1. Due Diligence

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension as per section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act?

The evidence before the Tribunal was that the Applicant had made an assumption that her husband's driver's licence was valid at the time of the impoundment. This assumption appears based upon the Applicant not being told otherwise by her husband, and not the result of any specific inquiry on the part of the Applicant.

Furthermore, there was no evidence heard that would confirm the Applicant's actions were anything but passive in nature. There were in fact no specific attempts to determine Mr. Fryer's licence status at the time of the impoundment, and it would appear from the Applicant's testimony that no such attempts were ever made.

However, the legislation under section 50.2(3)(c) is clear and unambiguous. It is the driver's licence of the driver of the vehicle that must be looked into to attempt to determine that it was not under suspension, and this must be done by the owner of the vehicle. This the Applicant failed to do.

The Tribunal therefore can find no evidence that the Applicant exercised due diligence as per subsection 50.2(3)(c).

2. Exceptional Hardship

The Applicant has also appealed on the grounds of exceptional hardship, in accordance with section 50.2(3)(d). Section 22 of Regulation 632/98 is very specific, in that it provides the Tribunal with the specific criteria the Applicant must meet to determine if exceptional hardship under the Act will result from the impoundment. The Tribunal is precluded from considering other factors not arising from or directly related to the impoundment itself.

The Applicant has made no specific claims of exceptional hardship as described by section 22(1)(a) or (b).

In order for the Applicant's claims to be considered under section 22(2)(a), (b), and (c), she must have demonstrated that all of section 22(3) has been met. Furthermore, section 22(4) of the Regulation provides that the Applicant demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered for an alternative to the vehicle.

The Applicant has not presented the Tribunal with any evidence that would demonstrate that every reasonable alternative option has been considered and inquired into as per section 22(4) of the Regulation. Furthermore, no attempt was made by the Applicant to demonstrate to the Tribunal that no other alternatives to the impounded vehicle existed. In fact, the Applicant's testimony was that she has made use of alternatives to the impounded vehicle, including VIA Rail service, and the use of a second older vehicle for her local transportation needs.

Though inconvenienced, the Applicant has not suffered any significant loss of employment as a result of the impoundment. She has managed to make arrangements to take vacation time as necessary to accommodate the days she has had to miss work in order to care for her children. Furthermore, the Applicant has not presented the Tribunal with any evidence that would indicate that this loss of the vehicle would be immediate significant and lasting as stipulated in section 22(3)(b) of the Regulation.

The Tribunal finds that the Applicant has failed to meet the onus under the section 22(3) and 22(4) of the Regulation, and the Tribunal is therefore precluded from considering the Applicant's claim of exceptional hardship under section 22(2) of the Regulation.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

RELEASED: July 5, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on July 4th, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H.8 amended ("HTA").

The Tribunal released its Decision on July 5, 2000, with Reasons to follow.

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the suspension imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 48.3 HTA for the following reasons.

REASONS

BACKGROUND:

Notice of Appeal and Prescribed Fee

This appeal comes before the Tribunal on behalf of the Applicant, by way of a Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990 as amended, chapter H.8. The Applicant elected that his appeal be decided by the Tribunal by way of an oral hearing. The form of Notice of Appeal under section 50.1 of the Highway Traffic Act was dated June 5, 2000 and was received by the Tribunal on June 7, 2000, together with the prescribed fee of $100.00, paid by money order.

Reason for the Appeal

The reason for the appeal cited by the Applicant was stated as follows in the said notice:

“I was unable to provide the required breath sample because of a medical reason.”

Preliminary Matters

There were no preliminary matters. The documents tendered for consideration were entered into evidence with the consent of both parties. The matter proceeded.

Submissions of Written Material

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit # 1 Suspension Reminder Notice dated May 15, 2000
- b) Exhibit # 2 Notice of Appeal dated June 5, 2000
- c) Exhibit # 3 Letter from Applicant dated June 7, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit # 4 MTO Submissions, 14 pages, plus certified copies of the Applicant's drivers record, Notice to Registrar, Vehicle Record as of Occurrence date.

ISSUE:

Having established that this appeal falls within subsection 50.1(2)(b) of the Highway Traffic Act, and the Tribunal thereby having jurisdiction, the question to be answered is: Did the Applicant fail or refuse to comply with a demand made to provide a sample of breath or blood because he was unable to do so for a medical reason?

THE LAW:

The legislation governing the Administrative Drivers Licence Suspension (ADLS) under subsection 50.1(1) and (2) of the Highway Traffic Act (“HTA”) states:

50.1 (1) “A person whose driver's licence is suspended under Section 48.3 may appeal the suspension to the Tribunal.

(2) The grounds on which a person may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Tribunal may order that the suspension be set aside are,

- (a) that the person whose licence was suspended is not the same individual to whom a demand for a sample of breath or blood was made, or from whom a sample of breath or blood was taken, as the case may be, under or pursuant to the provisions of the Criminal Code (Canada) referred to in subsection 48.3(3); or

- (b) that the person failed or refused to comply with a demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood because he or she was unable to do so for a medical reason”.

The HTA states under Section 50.1(4):

The Board may confirm the suspension or may order that the suspension be set aside.

Regulation 574 (amended), Highway Traffic Act at subsection 15(1), (2) and (3) requires that a medical report must contain:

15.(1) “a report of a legally qualified medical practitioner that is to be submitted in evidence shall clearly state,

- (a) the name, telephone number and address, with the postal code, of the medical practitioner;
- (b) the name, date of birth and address of the person who is the subject of the report;
- (c) that the medical practitioner has prepared the report, or is aware that the report may be used, in support of an appeal to the Board from the suspension of a driver’s licence under section 50.1 of the Act;
- (d) the length of time and frequency with which the medical practitioner has attended upon the person who is the subject of the report, including the date of the most recent examination of the person that supports the findings set out in the report;
- (e) whether the medical practitioner is the family physician of the person who is the subject of the report; and
- (f) whether the medical practitioner is a specialist and, if so, the field of speciality.

(2) The report shall provide the details of any present condition, diagnosis and history of the condition that precludes the person who is the subject of the report from providing a breath or blood sample including the results of any related tests.

(3) The report shall be signed by the medical practitioner.”

Finally, section 13 of Regulation 574 (amended) provides:

“A person appealing a suspension has the onus of establishing the merit of the appeal”.

FACTS:

The Applicant was sworn and took the stand. The Applicant testified that he had left a restaurant at Markham Road and Eglinton Avenue at about 9 p.m. He stated that he had one bottle of Heineken beer. He left the restaurant and was subsequently stopped at Milner Avenue and Progress Avenue. He was stopped by OPP Constable Officer # 1 at a R.I.D.E. spot check. The Applicant further stated that he was asked to step out of his car and get into the cruiser. He was asked for his driver's licence which he produced. He then testified that the officer started a barrage of words. He felt as though he was being treated as a criminal. He was asked to blow into the machine. According to the Applicant, the officer was using profane language such as "blow... blow, your F...ing 99 year of man can blow." The Applicant then stated that he tried to blow five or six times but his throat was dry. He asked if he could have water but got no response. He said he tried to plead his case. The officer then called a tow truck to remove his vehicle. He testified that he has diabetes and high blood pressure and he was stressed out because of the situation.

The Applicant was cross examined by the Ministry's Representative, Mr. Kyle Biel. Mr. Biel noted that in Exhibit # 3, the Applicant stated that "it was the first time that I had ever got into a police car. She immediately started talking to me in a rash and discriminatory way. I was really scared and frightened." Upon questioning, the Applicant recanted and stated that initially the officer was calm and explained to him the situation and what she was requesting from him. In fact, the Applicant confirmed that the Officer in fact had first read the demand for a sample of his breath to be provided into an approved roadside screening device. He also confirmed that the Officer in fact had demonstrated the use of the device and what was required to provide a suitable sample for testing. The Applicant testified that he tried the best he could and tried a total of four times with the first mouth piece and two to three times with the second mouth piece. He then re-stated that he was afraid and scared and did not argue with the officer any further. He was released on a promise to appear. He stated that he went home after being released.

The Applicant was excused from the stand.

The representative for the respondent called OPP Constable Officer # 1, badge number 9282, Downsview Detachment to the stand.

Constable Officer # 1 was sworn and gave the following testimony. She stated that she has been with the OPP since April 1997 and has been with the R.I.D.E. program for the past two years.

On the evening of May 10, 2000 she set up a R.I.D.E. spot check at Milner Avenue and Progress Avenue. At 11:13 p.m., she pulled over a Black Toyota with Ontario tag (#). Constable Officer # 1 stated that when she talked to the driver, she detected a strong odour of an alcoholic beverage. She questioned the driver about his alcohol consumption that evening and was told by the driver that "yes, a few drinks" had been taken that evening. The time being around 7:30 to 8:00 p.m. According to Constable Officer # 1, the driver's eyes were red.

Constable Officer # 1 stated that at this time, she had formed a reasonable suspicion that the driver had alcohol in his body. She asked the driver to accompany her back to her cruiser. The driver sat in the front passenger seat. At that time, Constable Officer # 1 read the demand for a breath sample. At 11:16 p.m., Constable Officer # 1 demonstrated the use of the device, 7410 GLC which had been calibrated on May 3, 2000 by P.C. Officer # 2. Constable Officer # 1 further explained to the driver that if he blew 000 to .049, it would be considered a pass and he would be free to go. If he blew .050 to .099, he would be issued a 12-hour suspension and if he blew over .10 it would be considered a fail and he would be arrested. According to Constable Officer # 1, the driver had no problems understanding the directions and at 11:17pm the driver attempted his first blow. Over the next 10 minutes. There were a total of 14 attempts to provide as well as several demonstrations of how to blow into the machine as well as caution given to the driver about the consequences of not providing a proper breath sample.

At 11:27 p.m. after the fourteenth attempt, the driver was charged with failure to provide a sample.

According to Constable Officer # 1, the driver stated that he had diabetes and maybe this is why he could not blow.

Constable Officer # 1 did not observe any respiratory distress. The driver did not request access to medication or ask to seek medical attention.

The Applicant had no questions for the officer and the officer was excused from the stand.

The Tribunal accepts the evidence presented by Constable Officer # 1. The Tribunal recognizes that Constable Officer # 1 is not a trained medical person, but is a trained observer and the Tribunal accepts her evidence that at no time did the Applicant exhibit any form of respiratory distress or indicate to her that he had a medical condition which would not allow him to provide a sample of his breath. The Tribunal also accepts the testimony of the Applicant that he in fact does suffer from diabetes, hypertension and dyslipidemia. This is borne out in the Applicant's medical information submitted on his behalf by his family physician.

However, in an appeal of this nature, the onus is upon the Applicant to substantiate his position. The documents submitted by the Applicant do not substantiate his claim to the effect that he has a medical condition which precluded him from providing a breath or blood sample.

The "report" of Physician # 1, the Applicant's medical practitioner, fails to meet the specific requirements of section 15(1) of Regulation 574 of the Highway Traffic Act. Physician # 1 indicated that he saw the Applicant on June 6, 2000 for the purpose of providing him with the "report". The medical information on this "report" clearly stated that "Pt. is not appealing on a medical condition." The physician also indicates that the Applicant's present medical conditions, namely hypertension, diabetes and dyslipidemia is controlled by medication and that the patient is stable.

The Tribunal accepts this document from Physician # 1 as clear evidence that the Applicant does not have a medical condition which would have precluded the Applicant from providing a proper breath sample. Physician # 1 continues and indicates that "he alleges significant harassment by the police officer and was so stressed that he could not follow the instructions given and could not blow the test." Evidence to the contrary was presented. The Applicant stated that he clearly understood the instructions of the officer and finally "gave up trying to plead his case with the officer".

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

After reviewing the foregoing facts, it is obvious that the Applicant did not relate any medical condition to Regulation 574 and sections 50(1)(2)(b) of the Act.

The evidence is clear that the Applicant failed to provide a suitable sample for no established medical reason. The evidence submitted suggests that action of the Applicant was such as to lead this Tribunal to believe the he had no intention of providing a proper breath sample.

In the testimony of Constable Officer # 1, the Applicant repeated the same pattern, blowing into the device for two seconds and then stopping and then continuing. This, inspire of repeated demonstrations and instructions on how to provide a proper sample.

The Tribunal can only conclude from the evidence presented that the actions of the Applicant were actions to prevent a suitable sample from being retrieved and not the action of someone having difficulty providing a sample because of a medical condition.

The Applicant has not discharged the onus under section 50.1 of the HTA to establish a valid medical reason for his failure to provide and his refusal to comply with the demand made under section 254 of the Criminal Code (Canada) to provide a sample of breath or blood.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant, to appeal the suspension order dated May 10, 2000 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles pursuant to section 48.3 of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA") and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

Pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50.1(4) of the HTA, the Tribunal confirms the suspension.

DATE OF HEARING: July 6, 2000 Toronto

DECISION AND REASONS

This is an appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal by the Applicant respecting a decision of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the "Respondent") pursuant to section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act (Ontario).

EXHIBITS:

By the Applicant:

- a) Exhibit #1 Notice of Appeal - received June 5, 2000
- b) Exhibit #3 MTO letter to the Applicant, stamped by "A A" July 2, 2000
- received July 6, 2000
- c) Exhibit #4 Letter from The Renascent Centre, dated October 11, 1999
- received July 6, 2000

By the Respondent:

- a) Exhibit #2 Ministry of Transportation submissions – tabs 1 – 12

PRELIMINARY MATTERS:

The Representative of the Ministry provided the Tribunal with a final written summation with respect to this matter, as well as certified copies of documents on file.

FACTS:

The Applicant is appealing the suspension of his driver's licence effective "99 10 26" (Exhibit # 1).

Exhibit # 2 Tab 1, Ministry of Transportation driving record for the Applicant since 1977, shows no infractions.

The Applicant came to the attention of the Ministry as a result of an unsolicited letter dated August 30, 1999, from Physician # 1, of the Ajax/Pickering Centenary Health Centre. Physician # 1 informs the Ministry that the Applicant "...has been seen the second time this month for alcoholism ...has a previous history of alcohol abuse ...admitted because of impending DT's ...may have had a seizure ...and did in fact drive to the hospital...". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 2)

Physician # 2, from the Bellwood Health Centre, writes the Ministry, on December 8, 1999, that the Applicant "...does not believe alcohol was a problem until 2 years ago when he was drinking five days a week while at a party he ...experienced an episode of chest pain ...his friends took him to the hospital ...One of the doctors at the hospital told him he was intoxicated and that a report was being sent to the Ministry ...his driver's licence was suspended ...attended a 21 day program at the Renascent Treatment Centre ...began attending AA has remained abstinent since September 13/99..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 4)

Canadian Laboratories form, dated "07 DEC 99," indicates "...GGT level at 53; MCV 91.7". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 5)

MINISTRY OF TRANSPORTATION ASSESSMENT FORM, dated November 4, 1999, completed by a physician in substance abuse reports as follows:

1. "YES" is checked under "Personal Health History" for "Addictions" and "Hospitalizations within last 12 months".
2. According to the "PHYSICAL ASSESSMENT AND LABORATORY EVALUATION," "...Blood Pressure - NORMAL 100/70; LIVER - not palpable; NEUROLOGICAL normal/reflexes; MCV NORMAL 92.3 ".
3. Under TREATMENT, the physician notes that the Applicant attended the "...Renascent Treatment Centre - Sept 20/99 to Oct 11.99 ...Attending 3 AA meetings (minimum per wk since Sept 13/99"

4. "ABSTINENCE" is the "RECOMMEND GOAL FOR ALCOHOL CONSUMPTION". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 6)

A MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE CASE STUDY, dated January 28, 2000, upheld the suspension. (Exhibit # 2 Tab 7)

ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW - MEDICAL SUSPENSIONS, dated "January 31/00," completed by J.W., details the Applicant's history as explained by the Applicant. The Applicant states that he "...does not drink and drive..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 11)

A Letter from R.N., dated June 21, 2000, suggests that the Applicant "...attended 21 day programme ...has not been involved in any form of aftercare ...continues to drink heavily..." (Exhibit # 2 Tab 12)

At the hearing, the Respondent relied on the information contained in the documents presented for the hearing, entered as Exhibit # 2, tabs 1 through 12, and on "three ...sources..." Physician's Guide to Driver Examination; National Safety Code - Medical Standards for Drivers; Ministry of Transportation Medical Advisory Committee. A copy of page 437 of Edition 28 - Dorland's Illustrated Medical Dictionary was attached to the Ministry's written summations.

The Respondent contends that the Applicant offers no new evidence that he is still attending any sort of rehabilitation programme.

In closing, the Respondent emphasized Section 14 of Regulation 340/94 under the Highway Traffic Act as the basis for the Ministry's suspension of the Applicant's driver's licence.

The Applicant stated under oath that he recognizes he has had a problem with alcohol in the past but is currently abstinent. The Applicant has attended a Treatment Centre and is presently attending AA.

AA does not provide members with letters of attendance. However, the Applicant was able to obtain a stamp, on July 2, 2000, on a letter from the Ministry, dated April 27, 2000. Said letter was entered on consent as Exhibit #3.

The Applicant submitted a letter from the Renascent Centre, dated October 11, 1999, confirming that the Applicant "...completed our short term residential program ...admitted ...on September 20, 1999 ...was transferred to our follow up program on, October 11, 1999." This letter was entered also on consent as Exhibit # 4.

The Applicant affirmed his adherence to the requirements of the law and stated that he does not drink and drive.

ISSUES:

Should the decision of the Registrar to suspend the Applicant's licence be confirmed, modified or set aside?

LAW:

Regulation 340/94, Section 14 states:

An applicant for or a holder of a driver's licence must not,

- (a) suffers from an mental, emotional, nervous or physical disability likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle of the applicable class safely; and
- (b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or a drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

Section 47(1) states:

Subject to section 47.1, the Registrar may suspend or cancel,

- (a) the plate portion of a permit as defined in Part II;
- (b) a driver's licence; or
- (c) a CVOR certificate,

on the grounds of,

- (d) misconduct for which the holder is responsible, directly or indirectly, related to the operation or driving of a motor vehicle;
- (e) conviction of the holder for an offence referred to in subsection 210(1) or (2);
- (f) the Registrar having reason to believe, having regard to the safety record of the holder or of a person related to the holder, and any other information that the Registrar considers relevant, that the holder will not operate a commercial motor vehicle safely or in accordance with this Act, the regulations and other laws relating to highway safety; or
- (g) any other sufficient reason not referred to in clause (d), (e) or (f).

Section 50 of the Act states:

50.(1) Every person aggrieved by a decision of the Minister under subsection 17(2) or (3) or subclause 32(12)(b)(i) or a decision of the Registrar under section 47 may appeal the decision to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.

(2) The Tribunal may confirm, modify or set aside the decision of the Minister or the Registrar.

APPLICATION OF THE LAW TO FACTS:

Section 47(1) empowers the Registrar to “...suspend or cancel” a driver's licence for “any...sufficient reason...”. The Applicant came to the attention of the Registrar as a result of an unsolicited letter received from Physician # 1 informing the Ministry that the Applicant “...has been seen the second time this month for alcoholism ...has a previous history of alcohol abuse ...admitted because of impending DT's ...may have had a seizure ...and did in fact drive to the hospital...”. (Exhibit # 2 Tab 2)

The Tribunal finds that the Ministry acted properly and in accordance with the Regulation.

The Respondent reviewed the policies contained in the Physician's Guide to Driver's Examination and the National Safety Code which were considered by the Ministry of Transportation Medical Advisory Committee. The Tribunal notes that these policies are to be used as guidelines and are not legislation.

In closing, the Respondent referred to Section 14 of Regulation 340/94 as grounds for suspension. The applicable Section 14 (b) of Regulation 340/94 under the HTA states:

"An applicant for or a holder of a driver's license must not,

b) be addicted to the use of alcohol or drug to an extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely."

There are clearly two parts to this clause:

- be addicted to the use of alcohol or drug
- extent likely to significantly interfere with his or her ability to drive a motor vehicle safely.

The regulation might explicitly states that the addiction must be to the extent likely to significantly interfere with the ability to drive a motor vehicle.

The Applicant concedes that his consumption of alcohol may have been excessive, yet there have been no drinking and driving incidents in the past. The Tribunal notes that the Applicant's record is in fact spotless. Exhibit # 2 Tab 1)

The only alleged infraction against the Applicant's driving record is made by Physician # 1 who states in his unsolicited report that the Applicant "did in fact drive to the hospital...". (Exhibit # 2 Tab 2) There is no evidence to substantiate this accusation. Physician # 1 was not present to give testimony. The Applicant testified under oath that he was driven to the hospital by "a friend". The Tribunal is, thus, compelled to accept the evidence of the Applicant.

The Tribunal finds that the Respondent has not proven that the Applicant is currently suffering from an alcohol addiction which is likely to significantly interfere with his ability to drive a motor vehicle as described by Regulation 340/94 section 14 (b) of the HTA.

DECISION:

Upon the application by the Applicant to appeal the decision dated October 26, 1999 of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles ("Registrar") to suspend her/his driver's licence pursuant to Section 47(1) of the Highway Traffic Act ("HTA"), and having considered the evidence filed with the Tribunal, and the submissions of the Registrar and of the Applicant;

IT IS THE DECISION OF THE TRIBUNAL pursuant to the authority vested in it under section 50(2) of the Act that the decision of the Registrar be set aside.

TO APPEAL AN ORDER TO IMPOUND A MOTOR VEHICLE ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OF MOTOR VEHICLES

TRIBUNAL: STUART CORK

APPEARANCES: KIM GROSSKURTH
Representative for the Registrar of Motor Vehicles

BARBARA MANN, Applicant

DATE OF HEARING: July 14, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: July 18, 2000 Barrie

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on July 14, 2000 at Barrie, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended (“HTA” or the “Act”).

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the “Act”).

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the “Registrar”) made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner: Barber Mann (the "Applicant")
Motor Vehicle: 1994 Mitsubishi Galant (the "vehicle")
Date of Appeal: June 27, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time it was being driven as provided in section 50.2(3) of the Act.

This matter came before this Tribunal on July 14, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

The Respondent submitted a statement by PC Chris Alton of the Barrie City Police, and statements by Barbara Mann and Roy Nelson that were given to Constable Alton.

The documents tendered by the Applicant and the Respondent were entered into evidence as exhibits with the consent of both parties.

The hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

My position as the owner of the car is that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made. Wilson Hurley said he would fix on car on June 10, 00 in the afternoon. He was given no permission to drive the car. He stole my car while I was at work and was arrested by Constable Neil Towns of the Barrie Police at 1:47 a.m. June 11, 00. His incident report will support the grounds of Mr. Hurley's driving unauthorized and drunk in my car. This is report # 336-3016 which will further support my appeal case.
Thank-you.

Ms. Mann testified that she had driven to a friend's house with Mr. Wison Hurley (the driver at the time of the impoundment), and that when she went to leave this friend's house to drive to work, her vehicle could not be driven as it had some sort of transmission trouble. Mr. Hurley offered to repair it while Ms. Mann went to work. Ms. Mann gave the keys to Mr. Hurley and stated that he was not to drive the vehicle as she was aware that Mr. Hurley's licence was then under suspension.

Ms. Mann further testified that when she returned to where she had left the vehicle, it was missing. She later discovered that her pet dog and credit card had also been taken. She contacted Barrie City Police where she learned that her vehicle had been impounded. Ms. Mann later gave a statement to Constable Alton, who decided not to charge Mr. Hurley with the theft of the vehicle.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;
2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Wilson Hurley;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until October 21, 2002.

Constable Neil Towns of the Barrie City Police testified that he observed Mr. Hurley driving the Applicant's vehicle in an erratic manner, and subsequently stopped and impounded the vehicle. He further stated that a charge of theft against Mr. Hurley was not laid because the Applicant had given the key to her vehicle to Mr. Hurley, and that Mr. Hurley had permission to have care and control of the vehicle.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

- (3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,
- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
 - (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
 - (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
 - (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(a).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(a) alleging that the vehicle was stolen, the meaning of "stolen" is not provided in The Highway Traffic Act.

The Shorter Oxford Dictionary, provides the definition of “stolen” as follows:

Stolen: 1. Obtained by theft. 2. Accomplished or enjoyed by stealth; secret. 3. Of time: obtained by contrivance

Theft: 1. The action of a thief; the felonious taking away of the personal goods of another; larceny 2. That which is or has been stolen; the proceeds of thieving.

Black’s Law Dictionary (Sixth edition), page 1419-1420 provides the definition of “stolen” as follows:

Stolen: Acquired, or possessed, as a result of some wrongful or dishonest act or taking, whereby a person willfully obtains or retains possession of property which belongs to another, without or beyond any permission given, and with the intent to deprive the owner of the benefit of ownership (or possession) permanently.

The word “stolen” as used in the crime of interstate transportation of stolen motor vehicles includes all wrongful and dishonest taking of motor vehicles with the intent to deprive the owner of the rights and benefits of ownership, regardless of whether theft constitutes common-law larceny; and felonious taking may be effected by diverse means known to both common and statutory law, such as larceny, embezzlement, false pretenses, larceny by trick and other types of wrongful acquisition. Lake v. U.S., Colo, 338F.2d 787,788. It is not necessary that the taking of the vehicle be unlawful. Even if possession of the vehicle is lawfully acquired, the vehicle will be deemed “stolen” if the defendant thereafter forms the intent to deprive the owner of the rights and benefits of ownership, and converts the vehicle to his own use. United States v. Turley, 352 U.S. 407, 417, 77 S.Ct. 397, 402. 1 L.Ed.2d 430.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar’s order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the motor vehicle was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made?

The evidence before the Tribunal is that the Applicant had given the keys to Mr. Hurley under the condition that the intended purpose for him having the keys was to repair the vehicle. The Tribunal finds that by giving her vehicle keys to the Applicant had in fact transferred possession of the vehicle to Mr. Hurley. The Tribunal finds that even though Mr. Hurley had not been given permission to drive the vehicle, he had been given possession of it by the Applicant, and therefore no finding of stolen, as defined above, can be made.

As a condition of this possession Mr. Hurley was to repair the vehicle, but not to drive it. However as the evidence showed, Mr. Hurley chose to break the condition imposed upon him by the Applicant and took her vehicle for a drive. On its own, the act of breaking the Applicant’s imposed condition of the vehicle’s use by Mr. Hurley, is insufficient for the Tribunal to consider that the vehicle was stolen by Mr. Hurley.

Furthermore, the Tribunal did not find any facts that would indicate that Mr. Hurley intended to deprive the Applicant of her vehicle in any permanent form. In this case, the Tribunal finds that there is insufficient evidence to indicate that the actions of Mr. Hurley, driving the vehicle and using it contrary to the conditions that he was given possession of it under, constitute theft of the vehicle.

Therefore, the Tribunal can find no evidence that Mr. Hurley acted 'with the intent to deprive the owner of the benefit of ownership (or possession) permanently' as defined by Black's Law Dictionary, and thus no finding under section 50.2(3)(a) of the Act can be made.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant's motor vehicle.

TRI-STAR CONSTRUCTION MANAGEMENT LTD.

APPEAL FROM A PROPOSAL OF THE REGISTRAR UNDER THE ONTARIO NEW HOME WARRANTIES PLAN ACT

TO REFUSE TO RENEW REGISTRATION

TRIBUNAL: MARJORIE L. HILEY, Vice-Chair

APPEARANCES: No one appearing for the Applicant
LUCY McSWEENEY, Counsel, representing the Registrar, Ontario
New Home Warranty Program

DATE OF
HEARING: July 18, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This matter was commenced by a Notice of Proposal dated March 2, 2000 from the Registrar, Ontario New Home Warranty Program. Tri-Star Construction Management Ltd. (the "Applicant") submitted a dispute to the Proposal by its letter of March 14, 2000. The Applicant submitted a hearing request form dated April 6, 2000 to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal). Both the letter and hearing request form stated that the address of the Applicant was 6021 Yonge Street, suite 820, Toronto, Ontario M2M 3W2, telephone 905-660-7750 and fax 905-660-3766. There was no consent to a pre hearing, and the Tribunal scheduled a hearing to commence July 18, 2000 and continue on July 19, 2000 if necessary. The Notice of Hearing was sent to the Applicant by fax. A voice mail message was left for the Applicant via John Cornacchia, Operations Manager, on July 14, 2000 reminding him of the hearing date. No one appeared for the Applicant at 9:30 a.m. on July 18, 2000. The hearing was adjourned for thirty minutes in case the Applicant was delayed. When the hearing commenced at 10:10 a.m. no one appeared for the Applicant. The Tribunal proceeded to hear the evidence of the Program in the absence of the Applicant.

ISSUE:

Should the Tribunal direct the Registrar to carry out the Registrar's Proposal to refuse to renew the registration of Tri-Star Construction Management Ltd?

EVIDENCE:

Opening Statement:

Counsel for the Program:

Counsel stated that the Program wished to refuse to renew the registration of the Applicant, which is a corporation. The Applicant has failed to provide the requested documentation to permit the Program to do an assessment of the financial ability of the Applicant to continue as a builder under the Program. This is a threshold issue. The Applicant has failed to comply with several requests from the Program for financial information.

Counsel for the Program referred to sections 7(c)(i), 8(2), 9(1) and 9(4) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act and Regulation 894, section 1, subsections 5 and 6.

Testimony of Adil Darr:

Mr. Darr is a senior underwriting analyst with the Program. He has held that position for eight months. Prior to that time, he worked for KPMG, an international financial services firm. Mr. Darr is a chartered accountant. He has a bachelor of commerce degree from the University of Toronto.

Mr. Darr's duties include the registration of new applicants and the renewal of registrants. He performs a financial analysis to determine if the builders are financially viable and the risks, if any, to the Program.

Mr. Darr identified a number of documents provided by the Program, including the Notice of Proposal, the Applicant's articles of incorporation and the Vendor/builder agreement which outlines the responsibilities of the builder. The Applicant had initially registered with the Program in 1994 and had been registered since then until 1999. The last renewal application was received by the Program in June, 1999. This renewal application had preprinted information on it provided by the Program and a date of renewal of June 9, 1999. This application form would have been sent to the Applicant some 45 days prior to that date.

Mr. Darr checked the renewal application to see if there were any changes in the business organization and what were the number of units proposed to be built. These affect his analysis of the risk assessment for the Program. The Applicant was proposing to build two houses, one of which was valued at $800,000.00. The Applicant submitted the renewal fee of $321.00 and a notarized net worth statement of the President of the company, Donald Hendriks. No supporting documents were attached to this net worth statement. The 1998 Financial Statement of the Applicant was not attached.

Mr. Darr testified that the Program will often require a personal guarantee from the principals of a company. Accordingly, the Program requires the completion of the personal net worth statement plus supporting documents.

Mr. Darr testified that Ms. Connic Carreiro, underwriting coordinator, had in writing dated July 23, 1999 requested the 1998 Financial Statement, the tax bill/assessment/transfer of deed and documentation for the cash and RRSPs listed on the net worth statement. When that information was not provided, Ms. Carreiro sent a second letter of September 22, 1999 requesting that documentation. As well, Ms Carreiro left two voice messages for Mr. Cornacchia, Operations Manager, requesting that information on November 1, 1999 and February 3, 2000. The requested information was not provided, and the Registrar issued the Notice of Proposal on March 2, 2000.

Mr. Darr stated that the Applicant disputed the Notice of Proposal by a letter of March 14, 2000. That letter did not have as attachments the requested documentation. Mr. Darr agreed that the company had been registered with the Program for five years and there were no claims against the builder during that time.

Mr. Darr testified that Counsel for the Program, Ms. Rutherford, by her letter to the Applicant of April 13, 2000 requested the 1998 Financial Statement and the supporting documents for the net worth statement of Donald Hendriks. At the date of the hearing, Mr. Darr had not been provided with these documents.

Mr. Darr testified that if the registration was refused, the builder could not legally build or sell homes in Ontario. The builder does have the opportunity at a later date to reapply for registration with the Program. That process takes approximately one month. Mr. Darr stated that there were no serious concerns as to the performance of the builder. The issue is that he cannot assess the financial situation of the builder if the documentation is not provided.

Mr. Darr testified that to his knowledge the Applicant has not changed his address. It is the responsibility of the builder to inform the Program of any changes in address or telephone numbers.

Closing Statement:

By Counsel for the Program:

Counsel stated that the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act is a consumer protection legislation. The Program needs to satisfy itself as to the financial position of the builder in order to ensure that the public is protected.

The documents requested by the Program are reasonable ones according to Counsel. Without these documents the Program cannot do its risk assessment. Despite repeated requests by the Program, the Applicant has failed to provide the required information.

LEGISLATION:

The relevant legislation is the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act.

Section 7 (1) provides that an applicant is entitled to registration by the Registrar except where,

.....

(c) the applicant is a corporation and,

- (i) having regard to its financial position, it cannot reasonably be expected to be financially responsible in the conduct of its undertakings,

Section 8(2) provides that subject to section 9, the Registrar may refuse to renew or may suspend or revoke a registration for any reason that would disentitle the registrant to registration under section 7, if the registrant were an applicant, or where the registrant has a record of breaches of warranties or of failure or unwillingness to complete performance of contracts or is in breach of a term or condition of the registration.

Section 9(4) provides that where an applicant or registrant requires a hearing by the Tribunal in accordance with subsection (2), the Tribunal shall appoint a time for and hold the hearing and, on the application of the Registrar at the hearing, may by order direct the Registrar to carry out the Registrar's proposal or refrain from carrying it out and to take such action as the Tribunal considers the Registrar ought to take in accordance with this Act and the regulations, and for such purposes the Tribunal may substitute its opinion for that of the Registrar.

Section 10 provides that a further application for registration may be made upon new or other evidence or where it is clear that material circumstances have changed.

Regulation 894 under the Act sets out Terms and Conditions of registration of builders and vendors, including:

1. The following are conditions of every registration under the Plan:

.....

5. The registrant shall from time to time, at the registrant's expense, furnish the Registrar with such documents relating to the Plan as the Registrar may reasonably require.
6. The registrant shall furnish the Registrar with such information relating to the registrant's financial affairs and position as the Registrar may reasonably request.

.....

10. The registrant shall, within fifteen days after the event, notify the Registrar in writing,

- i. of any change in address of the registrant for correspondence relating to the Plan.

.....

ANALYSIS:

The Program is requesting the revocation of the registration of Tri-Star Construction Management Ltd. This is a serious request as the Applicant has been registered with the Program since 1994. There is no history adduced of any deficiencies in the performance of this builder. Up to the renewal application of June, 1999 this builder would appear to have complied with its responsibilities to the Program under the Act and its Regulations and under the Vendor/Builder agreement signed by its President, Donald Hendriks, on June 15, 1994.

The Vendor/builder agreement contains a number of covenants by the Applicant to the Program. In particular on page 3 of the agreement under section 4.4 Vendor's Covenants, item (e) it states: "The Vendor at his own expense shall supply to the Corporation upon request whether for the purpose of initial registration or renewal, documentation in the form of guarantees, surety bonds, letters of credit, statements of personal net worth, bank statements and other such documentation and records as the Corporation may reasonably require". The wording of this covenant reflects the conditions of registration under the Plan found in Regulation 894, in particular conditions number 5 and 6. The Legislature in its wisdom under Regulation 894 has attached stringent conditions to registration of a builder under the Ontario New Home Warranty Plan. The wording used in Regulation 894 contains the word "shall". As well in conditions number 5 and 6 there is the phrase "as the Registrar may reasonably request".

In the present case the Tribunal finds that the Registrar acted in a reasonable manner in its request to the Applicant. The Registrar requested the 1998 Financial Statement of the Applicant. That is a reasonable request. The Registrar requested documents to support the statements made by Donald Hendriks in his personal net worth statement. That is a reasonable request. The Registrar was not acting in an arbitrary fashion when he requested such documents. The financial information to be found in these documents are necessary for the Program to assess the financial ability of this builder to continue within the Plan.

The Applicant is a small builder. Initially in 1994 the Program made it a condition that written permission was necessary for this builder to construct more than 2 homes of any class or to construct any condominium units. Then in 1998 the Program assessed that this builder had to provide a security of $5000.00 per freehold unit. The Program was maintaining supervision over the financial affairs of this builder. In light of the purposes of the Act and the expressed statements of this builder to construct two units with a combined value of over one million dollars it is not unreasonable for the Program to request the 1998 Financial Statement and the supporting documents for the net worth statement. It is more puzzling that the Applicant has failed to comply with this reasonable request.

ORDER:

Accordingly, under the authority of section 9 (4) of the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan Act, the Tribunal directs the Registrar to carry out the Proposal to refuse to renew the registration of Tri-Star Construction Management Ltd.

DATE OF HEARING: July 20, 2000

DECISION RELEASED: July 24, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION

A hearing was held on July 20, 2000, at Toronto, Ontario, to consider the Applicant's appeal pursuant to Section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O., 1990, Chap. H.8 amended (“HTA” or the “Act”).

THE TRIBUNAL RULED TO CONFIRM the Order to Impound imposed by the Registrar pursuant to Section 55.1(3) of the HTA.

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal under section 50.2 of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter H.8, as amended (the “Act”).

The Registrar of Motor Vehicles (the “Registrar”), made an order under section 55.1 of the Act to impound a motor vehicle. That order has been appealed by the owner. The owner, motor vehicle, and date of appeal are as follows:

Owner:	Robert McIlvenna (the “Applicant”)
Motor Vehicle:	1994 Buick Lasabre, plate # ADSZ 701 (the “vehicle”)
Date of Appeal:	June 30, 2000

The Applicant filed an appeal of this impoundment order with the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the “Tribunal”) together with supporting documentation and the required $100.00 fee payable to the Minister of Finance.

The owner appeals on the basis that the vehicle owner exercised due diligence to determine that the driver's licence was not suspended and the loss of the vehicle will result in exceptional hardship as provided in sections 50.2(3)(c) and (d) of the Act (Exhibit 1).

This matter came before this Tribunal on July 20, 2000 and proceeded as an oral hearing.

The Tribunal asked the parties if they wished to make any submissions prior to the Tribunal commencing the hearing.

There were no preliminary matters in dispute between the parties and the hearing proceeded.

ISSUE:

The Applicant's request for a hearing filed with this Tribunal (Exhibit #1) identifies the basis of the Applicant's appeal.

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension?

Should the Tribunal set aside the Registrar's order to impound the vehicle on the basis that the order will result in exceptional hardship?

FACTS:

The Tribunal heard the evidence given in support of the Applicant and the Respondent.

Evidence for the Applicant

A summary of the Applicant's evidence follows.

Applicant's written submission filed with the Tribunal in support of appeal states:

"OWNER'S POSITION:

I, Robert McIlvenna, as owner of the aforementioned automobile would like to appeal the forty-five day impoundment of my vehicle under the following conditions:

- 1) That due diligence was made in attempting to determine the driver's licence of the driver was indeed valid at the time.
- 2) That the order will result in exceptional hardship.

1) On Thursday, June 22 my wife, who was operating the vehicle as her means of getting to work, was asked by my son, Ryan (whose licence is suspended), if he and a friend, Barry Dolan, could go with her to work and use the car for the day and pick her up after work. My Wife asked Ryan if Barry's licence was okay. His response was that Barry had been driving all along and had shown him a licence that appeared to be valid. My wife had no reason to doubt her son and loaned the boys the car for the day. After Mr. Dolan was stopped by the police for making an illegal left turn he still insisted that he had a valid licence and told Ryan that his licence was suspended through mail for failing to pay fines. We later found out through the police department that it was a complete lie and we had been conned into believing that his licence was valid. I do believe my wife and son used reasonable discretion and due diligence in allowing Mr. Dolan to drive our vehicle under the circumstances.

2) Losing the use of this car for forty-five days will cause an exceptional amount of hardship to my family for the following reasons:

a) My family lives in a rural setting 20 to 30 km. Away from our places of work. We all go in different directions and at different times. My son is currently seeking employment and due to his suspension we must find additional time to try to get him to some of his interviews and to distribute resumes. There are many times when we are an hour apart in our job sites. In addition to my regular day job I make additional funds through officiating community sports on a regular basis and I have a small in home business with which I need a vehicle to meet clients and make deliveries.

My daughter has just started a new job, 25 km away, that starts at 7am. This will be a full time job that will give her enough funds to attend University in the fall. She will require a vehicle on a daily basis. There is no public transportation within 3 km. of our house and it only operates twice daily.

b) The loss of this vehicle will indeed create a financial loss to all members of my family. As mentioned above the distance from work would cause an increase in travel costs. This will affect me in my community service and my small business opportunities. It will affect my daughter in her financial preparation for University, and it will affect my wife in her opportunity to embark on a new business venture that she was considering. It will also impact on my son's chances for employment due to limiting his opportunities.

Also as indicated in the letter from Mr. Michael Moore, of the Sudbury Regional Credit Union, my families financial situation at this time is very precarious. That is why I have taken on other means of providing income the loss of the vehicle compounded with the $600 in impound fees will seriously impact on my financial situation.

c) As mentioned in (b) there is a potential loss for loss of employment opportunity for all members of my family and we are already handicapped by having to provide transportation for my son. It is very common for us to have our vehicles in use all at the same time going in different directions.

d) My wife is currently, besides working, taking three university courses which has her travelling to Laurentian University campus on a regular basis. This drive is 35 km. one way and takes 40 minutes across the City of Sudbury. My wife often uses the Buick as it is the most economical vehicle that we have and are currently trying to make ends meet.

Overall, as you can see, we are a very active family that depends very heavily on the use of our vehicles. Already in only a few days I have been unable to make a couple of business appointments and this could impact on my family's situation if it is allowed to continue much longer.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter.

Submitted by: Robert McIlvenna"

The Applicant is married with two children, a son who is 23 years old and a daughter who is 20 years old. They reside in a community called Val Caron which is approximately 25 kilometres from Sudbury, Ontario. Both the Applicant and his wife are employed as teachers in Sudbury but are currently not working during the summer months.

At the present time, the Applicant is landscaping approximately 28 acres of his property to establish a raspberry farm, a new business venture, for his wife for when she retires in five years. He also officiates as an umpire in Sudbury and the surrounding area anywhere from one to three times per week.

As well, the Applicant carries on a home-base business wherein he consults on athletic injuries as well as sells equipment relating to the sports industry. He also distributes flyers for his home-base business every night at ball parks, soccer fields and at tournaments even during the winter months.

Mrs. McIlvenna is taking three correspondence courses at Laurentian University.

Ryan, the Applicant's son, has recently found employment about one kilometre from home.

The Applicant's daughter is employed with Teletech in Sudbury as of the beginning of July, 2000. Her hours of work are from 3:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. each day. She is driven to work each day by one of her parents. She is planning on attending a university in Alberta in September.

The Applicant testified that he no longer owns the 1990 Nissan. His son, Ryan, sold the vehicle to a friend in November of 1999. Ryan then spent six months in jail and on his release tried to collect the vehicle plates for his father. Ryan was advised that the vehicle was in a body shop in Toronto and the plates were in its trunk. The Applicant then went to the Ministry of Transportation to swear an affidavit with regard to the foregoing.

Evidence for the Registrar

A summary of the Registrar evidence follows.

The documents tendered by the Registrar and admitted into the record on consent of the Applicant (Exhibits 5 & 6) were as follows:

1. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that, among other things, the impounded motor vehicle herein is registered in the name of the Applicant as owner;

2. Copy of Notice to the Registrar indicating, among other things, that the vehicle at the time it was detained was being driven by Barry Dolan;
3. Copy of the Order by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the vehicle;
4. Copy of the Ministry of Transportation records indicating that the driver at the time of impoundment had been convicted of the offence of impaired driving under the Criminal Code of Canada pursuant to which the driver's licence of the driver was then under suspension until October 7, 2000.

LAW:

Section 55.1 of the Act provides that the Registrar may make an order that a motor vehicle be impounded, and section 50.2 provides the motor vehicle owner's right of appeal to the Tribunal. The Tribunal on the appeal may, pursuant to subsection 50.2(5) of the Act, confirm or set aside the order to impound, and the decision of the Tribunal is, pursuant to subsection 50.2(8) final and binding.

Subsection 55.1(3) of the Act states:

(3) Upon notification under subsection (2), the Registrar may, without a hearing, issue an order to release the motor vehicle or issue an order to impound the motor vehicle that was being driven by the driver whose driver's licence is under suspension, as follows:

1. For 45 days, if an order to impound under this section has not previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
2. For 90 days, if one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.
3. For 180 days, if more than one order to impound under this section has previously been made, within a prescribed period, with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the owner of the vehicle currently being impounded.

Ontario Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 631/98 provides that the prescribed period, referred to above, is two years.

The right of the owner to appeal to this Tribunal where that owner's motor vehicle has been impounded is provided in section 50.2 of the Act, with subsection 50.2(1) stating:

(1) The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under section 55.1 may, upon paying the prescribed fee, appeal the order to the Board.

By subsection 50.2(2) of the Act, the parties to an appeal are the owner and the Registrar. The "owner" for the purposes of the section is defined in subsection 50.2(11) as:

"Owner" means the person whose name appears on the certificate of registration for the vehicle, and, where the certificate of registration for the vehicle consists of a vehicle portion and plate portion, means the person whose name appears on the vehicle portion.

The owner may appeal the Registrar's order on only four specific grounds set out in subsection 50.2(3):

(3) The only grounds on which an owner may appeal under subsection (1) and the only grounds on which the Board may set aside the order to impound are,

- (a) that the motor vehicle that is subject to the order was stolen at the time in respect of which the order was made;
- (b) that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension;
- (c) that the owner of the motor vehicle exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that the driver's licence of the driver of the motor vehicle at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension; or
- (d) that the order will result in exceptional hardship.

The Applicant here appeals on the basis of subsection 50.2(3)(c) and (d).

With respect to an appeal under subsection 50.2(3)(c) alleging that the owner exercised due diligence prior to releasing the vehicle to the driver, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary provides the definition of "due diligence" as follows:

Due: A. adj. 1. That is owing or payable, as a debt. 2. Belonging or falling to by right. 3. That ought to be giving or rendered; merited. 4. Such as ought to be; fitting; proper; rightful. 5. Such as is requisite or necessary; adequate. 6. To be ascribed or attributed; owing to, caused by, in consequence of. 7. Under engagement or contract to be ready or arrive (at a defined time).

Diligence: 1. The quality of being diligent; industry, assiduity. 2. Speed, dispatch. 3. Careful attention, heedfulness, caution. 4. Law. The attention and care due from a person in a given situation....

Also, "due diligence" in Black's Law Dictionary (sixth edition) at page 457 is as follows:

Due diligence: Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a reasonable and prudent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case.

With respect to an appeal under section 50.2(3)(d) alleging that the impoundment results in exceptional hardship, the Shorter Oxford Dictionary defines "exceptional hardship" as follows:

Exceptional : Of the nature of or forming an exception; unusual.

Hardship: 1. The quality of being hard to bear; hardness; severity. 2. Hardness of fate or circumstance; severe toil or suffering; extreme privation.

Also, where the owner appeals on the ground of exceptional hardship, subsection 50.2(4) provides:

(4) Clause (3) (d) does not apply if an order to impound under section 55.1 was previously made with respect to any motor vehicle then owned by the same owner.

Further, subsection 55.1(28) of the Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, and specifically provides in clause (h) of subsection 55.1(28),

- (h) prescribing criteria to be considered, and criteria not to be considered, by the Board in determining in an appeal under section 50.2 whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound that is made under this section.

Section 22 of Regulation 574 R.R.O. 1990, as amended by Ontario Regulation 632/98, provides for criteria to be considered and criteria not to be considered by the Board in determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 as follows:

- 22
 - (1) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall consider whether no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available and, if no alternative is available, whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) a threat to the health or safety or any person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; or
 - (b) a threat to the public health and safety or to the environment or property of a community in whose service the motor vehicle is ordinarily used.
 - (2) In determining whether exceptional hardship will result from an order to impound under section 55.1 of the Act, the Board shall not, subject to subsection (3), consider whether the impoundment will result in,
 - (a) inconvenience to any person;
 - (b) financial or economic loss to any person;
 - (c) loss of employment or employment opportunity to any person; or
 - (d) loss of education or training or of an educational or training opportunity to any person.
 - (3) The Board may consider the criteria set out in clauses (2) (b), (c) and (d) if the owner demonstrates that,
 - (a) no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available;
 - (b) the loss will be immediate, significant and lasting;
 - (c) the impact of the loss will be upon a person ordinarily transported by the motor vehicle; and
 - (d) the impact of the loss,
 - (i) will be upon a person other than the person whose driving while his or her driver's licence was under suspension resulted in the order to impound the motor vehicle, and
 - (ii) will not be a result of a loss by the suspended driver of the type set out in clause (2)(b), (c) or (d).
 - (4) In order to show that no alternative to the impounded motor vehicle is available under subsection (1) or clause (3) (a), the owner must demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered and inquired into that could eliminate or adequately mitigate any threat or loss to the person, including using another vehicle to replace the impounded motor vehicle and making arrangements to do without the impounded motor vehicle or a replacement during the impound period.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Appeal – Due Diligence

The first issue to be considered in this appeal is whether the Applicant exercised due diligence in attempting to determine that Mr. Dolan's driver's licence at the time in respect of which the order was made was not then under suspension as required by section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

The Applicant has conceded that he is the owner of the vehicle that has been impounded. At the time of the impoundment, the vehicle was being driven by Mr. Barry Dolan whose driver's licence was then under suspension due to a conviction under the Criminal Code of Canada for driving with more than 80 mg of alcohol in his blood.

The evidence before the Tribunal, in the Applicant's own testimony, was that the Applicant at no point in time saw or asked Mr. Dolan if he possessed a valid driver's licence. He testified that his son, Ryan, was shown what appeared to be a valid driver's card by Mr. Dolan. As a side note, the two friends had only known each other for about one week and since the impoundment, Mr. Dolan has not been seen. Mrs. McIlvenna relied on the verbal assurance from her son that the driver's licence of Barry Dolan was in good standing.

In any event, the test is whether or not the Applicant, Robert McIlvenna, exercised due diligence. The inquiries or observations of Mrs. McIlvenna are not those of Mr. McIlvenna. On the facts here, it was not the responsibility of Mrs. McIlvenna or their son, Ryan, to act for the Applicant to perform due diligence respecting the driver of his vehicle.

The Tribunal therefore has no evidence that the Applicant exercised due diligence as required by section 50.2(3)(c) of the Act.

Appeal – Exceptional Hardship

The Applicant has also requested an appeal on the grounds of "exceptional hardship" under section 50.2(3)(d). Section 22 of Regulation 632/98 is very specific, in that it provides the Tribunal with the criteria the Applicant must meet to determine if in fact "exceptional hardship" will result from the impoundment. The Applicant in this case has argued that the impoundment will result in hardships as described by section 22(2). In order for his claims to be considered under section 22(2), he must have demonstrated that all of section 22(3) has been met. Furthermore, section 22(4) of the Regulation provides the criteria for demonstrating that every reasonable option has been considered for an alternative to the impounded vehicle.

The Applicant has testified that there are two other alternative vehicles owned by him, a pick-up and a van, separate and apart from the Buick that has been impounded (Exhibits 5 & 6), but he wishes to use them as little as possible due to high fuel costs.

The Applicant has testified that there is public transit about two kilometres from his home which travels to Sudbury at approximately 8:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. and returns from Sudbury to Val Caron at approximately 5:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. The Applicant did not feel that it would not be a “viable” or “valid criteria” by which his daughter could get to and from work in Sudbury.

The Applicant has not proven that the loss of the vehicle will be immediate, significant and lasting.

Mrs. McIlvenna does not need the vehicle for her correspondence courses on a daily basis, only when she requires to obtain some books from the library, consult with her professors and to write any exams.

The need to assist Ryan in finding employment no longer is a factor in this case since he’s recently found a job about one kilometre from home.

But as aforementioned in section 22(2) above, these are not criteria in which the Tribunal may consider.

Evidence was heard that the Applicant may have incurred some financial hardship as a result of the loss of the vehicle and he may pursue compensation from the suspended driver, Mr. Dolan, as is stated in section 55.1(21) of the Highway Traffic Act:

“The owner of a motor vehicle that is subject to an order to impound under this section may bring an action against the driver of the motor vehicle at the time the order was made to recover any costs or other losses incurred by the owner in connection with the order”.

The Applicant has not presented the Tribunal with any evidence that would demonstrate that every reasonable option has been considered as contemplated by section 22(4) of the Regulation.

The Tribunal accordingly finds the Applicant has not established that he has or will suffer exceptional hardship as defined by Ontario Regulation 632/98, subsection 22.

DECISION:

After considering the evidence, pursuant to the authority vested in the Tribunal under section 50.2(5) of the Highway Traffic Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chap. H8 as amended, the Tribunal confirms the Order of the Registrar of Motor Vehicles to impound the Applicant’s motor vehicle.

MARIAN McINDOE

APPEAL FROM A DECISION OF THE BOARD OF
DIRECTORS OF THE ONTARIO TRAVEL INDUSTRY
COMPENSATION FUND CORPORATION UNDER THE TRAVEL INDUSTRY ACT

TO DISALLOW A CLAIM

TRIBUNAL: DEREK ISRAEL, Vice-Chair

APPEARANCES:

MARIAN McINDOE, appearing on her own behalf
FATIMA HUSAIN, Counsel, representing the Board of Directors of the Ontario Travel Industry Compensation Fund Corporation

DATES OF

HEARING: July 19, 2000 Toronto

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal to the Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal (which as of April 1st, 2000 is known as the Licence Appeal Tribunal) (the "Tribunal") from a written decision dated March 13, 2000 of the Board of Directors of the Ontario Travel Industry Compensation Fund Corporation (the "Fund") to deny the Applicant's claim for reimbursement in the amount of $3,414.54.

Marian McIndoe (the "Applicant") bases her claim on the provisions of Section 50(1) of Regulation 806/93 (the "Regulation") made under the Travel Industry Act (the "Act").

THE EVIDENCE:

Evidence was both oral and documentary. Oral testimony was given by the Applicant and by Lori Furlan on behalf of the Fund. Besides the evidence, the parties at the hearing filed an agreed statement of fact with the Tribunal.

The agreed statement of fact reads as follows:

MARIAN MCINDOE-AGREED STATEMENT OF FACT

1. Shalom-K Tours Ltd., a travel agent then registered in Ontario, offered group tours of Israel, departing on January 4, 1999.
2. On October 21, 1998, Ms. Marian McIndoe (the "claimant") purchased travel services, along with cancellation insurance, from Toronto to Israel from January 4, 1999, to January 19, 1999, along with a Jordan-Egypt extension, for two passengers, herself and her aunt, Ms. Mary Kuchta.

3. The claimant paid $1,999.00 for each passenger for the travel service package. She also paid $1,240.00 each for an extension to Egypt and Jordan. In addition, she paid $20.00 each for an Israeli departure tax, $144.00 each for insurance, and $23.04 in tax on the insurance coverage.
4. The total amount paid for travel services only for Ms. Marian McIndoe was $3,239.
5. In November, 1998, the claimant was notified verbally of a change in the departure date of her group to January 3, 1999.
6. On January 3, 1999, the claimant was transported by bus from London and attended at the Toronto airport along with other passengers in the group, but the flight was apparently cancelled due to weather conditions (snowstorm). The passengers were requested to return on January 4. Accommodations for the night were provided by the travel agent.
7. On January 4, 1999, the claimant again went to the airport, where she waited, but the passengers could not be accommodated on the flight and were again transported to a hotel and asked to return on January 5, 1999.
8. On January 5, 1999, the claimant was advised that the group could not depart as scheduled and the departure would be postponed to January 14, 1999. The claimant advised the travel agent that she could not depart on January 14, 1999.
9. A seat lottery was arranged for departure on January 5, 1999, for a flight to Israel via Montreal. Passengers who received seats through this lottery (a group of 20 passengers) were advised they should be able to fly to Montreal on January 5, 1999, and connect with a flight to Israel from Montreal. In Israel the group would connect with the other scheduled tour groups already in Israel.
10. Passengers who did not receive a seat in the lottery and could not travel on the January 14 date were promised a full refund by the travel agent, Shalom-K Tours Ltd.
11. The claimant won a seat in the lottery and was provided with a boarding pass for the Montreal flight.
12. The flight to Montreal was delayed due to mechanical problems with the aircraft. Air Canada recalled the boarding passes.
13. The claimant was advised that she should take the delayed flight, along with the 20 other group members, to Montreal, and from there a flight would be arranged to Israel.
14. The claimant was unable to confirm information about the Jordan-Egypt extension purchased, or about accommodations to be provided in Montreal. The claimant advised Air Canada she would not be travelling and left the airport. Ms. McIndoe's luggage was not removed but remained on the flight and eventually arrived in Israel.
15. The remaining passengers in the group departed on January 6, 1999, and subsequently arrived in Israel.
16. The claimant states she was promised a full refund and sent documentation to Shalom-K Tours Ltd. on January 9, 1999, further to this promise.
17. In April of 1999, Ms. Mary Kuchta was given a travel credit by the travel agent, and therefore travelled to Israel in lieu of the January tour.
18. On May 21, 1999, the claimant made a formal complaint to The Travel Industry Council of Ontario (TICO).
19. The claimant did not receive a reimbursement from the travel agent.
20. On September 24, 1999, Shalom-K Tours Ltd. voluntarily terminated its registration.

21. By letter dated November 10, 1999, Claimant was advised that Shalom-K Tours Ltd. had closed its offices. The claimant was further advised that she may submit a claim against the Fund; however, section 50 of Ontario Regulation 806/93 provides that customers are not entitled to reimbursement from the Fund where the travel services were available but not received due to the customer's action or failure to act.
22. On December 6, 1999, TICO received a letter from the claimant's solicitor requesting a claim form.
23. On December 24, 1999, the claimant submitted a claim form for the amount of $3414.54, which amount included taxes and cancellation insurance.
24. On December 30, 1999, TICO advised that the claim did not appear to be eligible, but may be presented to the board of directors for review.
25. By letter dated January 13, 2000, the claimant advised she wished her claim to be presented to the board of directors for review.
26. By letter dated March 13, 2000, the claimant the board had denied her claim.

(Exhibit 3)

When the Applicant gave oral testimony before the Tribunal she amplified the agreed statement of fact as follows:

When she arrived by bus in Toronto on January 3, 1999 together with her aged aunt and other members of her church, no flights were leaving Toronto airport and all members were accommodated at a hotel in Toronto on the night of January 3, 1999. On January 4, 1999 flights were departing from Toronto airport and another group from London, Ontario arrived at the airport and were put on their flight to Israel which flight then departed as scheduled. Several of the Applicant's group were chosen on January 4, 1999 to join the group of January 4 travellers and left with the January 4 group on that day. The Applicant and her aunt were not chosen to join the January 4 group and remained at the airport until midnight when they were returned to their hotel for the night.

On January 5, 1999 while still at the hotel, the Applicant and her group assembled and were addressed by a representative of Shalom-K Tours Ltd. At that meeting, the representative told the group that their tour was cancelled and that they would be rebooked to leave Toronto on January 14, 1999. When asked by the representative whether there was anyone who could not leave on January 14, 1999, the Applicant and certain others of the group advised the representative that they could not leave on January 14, 1999 as their vacation had been structured to commence on January 3, 1999 and they could not, on such short notice, restructure their vacations. Applicant stated that she is a nurse and that her superior had informed her, when she telephoned her on January 5, that the Applicant would not be permitted to restructure her vacation and to leave on January 14, 2000. After speaking with her superior and upon returning to the group that was assembled in the hotel, the Applicant noticed that her name, together with some 20 others, had been entered on a blackboard indicating that she and her aunt had won seats in a lottery conducted in her absence. The representative of Shalom-K Tours advised her "he thought he could get a flight that evening to Montreal and Israel" for the lottery winners. Those who were not successful in the lottery returned to London.

At about 6:00 p.m., Applicant and other lottery winners were transported to the airport from their hotel. The flight to Montreal was to leave that evening at 8:45 p.m. to connect in Montreal with a flight to Israel, leaving at about 11:00 p.m. that evening. Applicant's luggage was checked, and she and others were given boarding passes for the Montreal leg of the flight. Shortly after 9:00 p.m. that evening while waiting in the departure lounge, an announcement was made that their Montreal flight was delayed and shortly thereafter a further announcement was made that the flight to Montreal was cancelled due to mechanical problems with the aircraft. All passengers' boarding passes were then collected from the aircraft's passengers, and they were left sitting in the departure area. They were told that they could not connect in Montreal with that night's flight from Montreal to Israel.

By 11:00 p.m. that night the group were still sitting in the departure area. The representative of Shalom-K Tours was present. He had not presented the group with alternative travel arrangements. The representative had given no answers to the Applicant's and other group members' concerns. They had unsuccessfully sought answers on:

- what was going to happen regarding the days lost on the 9 day tour of Israel which had a detailed itinerary of each day's doing.
- what was happening with the guide who was to accompany them to Israel and in Israel as this guide had already left with those persons who were travelling via London and Europe.
- would the extension trip of 7 days to Egypt and Jordan still take place.
- where would they stay in Montreal when they eventually arrived in Montreal that night.
- would there be someone in Montreal to meet them, assist them and take care of them.
- would those persons taking the 7 day tour to Egypt and Jordan meet up with other members of the tour who had already left for Israel via London and Europe.

The Applicant stated she was physically and emotionally spent. She had the additional worry of her aged aunt who was travelling with her and to whom she felt a responsibility. She was not an experienced traveller and was unsettled by the repeated delays and the lack of information. She was left feeling abandoned, insecure and fearful of travelling to a foreign land under the circumstances. Although other members in the group were from the same church as the Applicant, she only knew one other member, one Rosemary Soga.

At 11:15 p.m. she advised the representative of the airline for the Montreal leg of the trip, as well as the representative of Shalom-K Tours that she and her aunt would not be proceeding with the tour and were returning to London which she, her aunt and others did. The remainder of the group of 20 left for Montreal the next day, January 6, 1999 and arrived in Israel on January 7, 1999.

The above evidence was not contested by the Compensation Fund and accordingly the agreed statement of fact and the facts in the above stated evidence are found by this Tribunal to be facts found proven.

ISSUE:

Does the claim made by the Applicant fall within the terms of regulation 806/93 to the Act?

THE LAW:

The relevant portions of regulation 806/93 of the Travel Industry Act that are applicable to these proceedings are:

Section 50(1), which reads as follows:

Section 50(1) A customer is entitled to be reimbursed for travel services paid for but not provided if,

- (a) the customer made payment for the travel services directly to or through a registered travel agent;
- (b) the customer has made a demand for payment from the registered travel agent or the appropriate registered wholesaler; and
- (c) the customer has not been reimbursed by,
 - (i) the registrant because the registrant is unable to pay by reason of bankruptcy or insolvency,
 - (ii) any other person who has received the customer's money, or
 - (iii) any other person who may be legally obliged to reimburse or compensate the customer, including a person obliged under a contract for insurance.

Section 50(3), which reads as follows:

Section 50(3) A customer is not entitled to be reimbursed for the following or in the following circumstances:

.....

- 4. For a payment, including a non-refundable payment, for travel services that were available but not received if the failure to receive the travel services is due to the customer's or the traveller's action or failure to act.

.....

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Does the claim made by the Applicant fall within the terms of regulation 806/93 made under the Act?

The Tribunal is of the opinion that the Applicant's claim does fall within Section 50(1) of the above regulations as:

- (a) The Applicant made payment for the travel services directly to Shalom-K Tours a registered travel agent. (s. 50(1)(a))

- (b) The Applicant has made a demand for payment from the registered travel agent. (s.50(1)(b))
- (c) The Applicant has not been reimbursed by,
- (i) the registrant (Shalom-K Tours) because the registrant is unable to pay by reason of bankruptcy or insolvency. (s.50(1)(c)(i))
 - (ii) any other person who has received the Applicant's money. (s. 50(1)(c)(ii)) or
 - (iii) any other person who may be legally obliged to reimburse or compensate the Applicant, including a person obliged under a contract of insurance. (s. 50(1)(c)(iii))

The Tribunal is also of the opinion that the Applicant's claim does fall within Section 50(3)4. of the regulation 806/93 as:

- The Applicant paid for travel services that were not available to her and were not received by her, the failure to receive such travel services being due not to the Applicant's action or failure to act.
- The Applicant contracted with Shalom-K Tours for travel services. The travel services consisted of return air transportation to Israel, Egypt and Jordan as well as a nine day escorted tour of Israel according to a set itinerary and a seven day escorted tour of Egypt and Jordan according to a set itinerary. Accommodations were included throughout.
- The tour was to depart Toronto on January 3, 1999 and arrive in Israel January 4, 1999. The tour did not depart Toronto until January 6, 1999 and arrived in Israel January 7, 1999.
- The travel agent did not make the travel services that the Applicant contracted for available to the Applicant.
- The Applicant contracted with Shalom-K Tours for a tour of Israel that was to be nine days in duration but due to the delay was reduced to only six days in duration.
- Shalom-K Tours breached the contract, not the Applicant. It was not the Applicant's failure to act nor was it her action that resulted in the travel services she contracted for not being available to her or received by her.

The Applicant claims $3,414.54 from the Compensation Fund being the amount paid by her to Shalom-K Tours. Her claim for reimbursement is limited in terms of section 50(2) of the Act to the amount paid by her to Shalom-K Tours for travel services that were not provided. The amount of such travel services is $3,239.00.

DECISION:

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in it by section 62(6)(a) of Regulation 806/93 under the Travel Industry Act, this Tribunal allows the Applicant's claim in the sum of $3,239.00 and directs the Corporation to pay such amount out of the Ontario Travel Industry Compensation Fund.

TO DISALLOW A CLAIM

TRIBUNAL: DEREK ISRAEL, Vice-Chair

the Ontario Travel Industry Compensation Fund Corporation

DATES OF

HEARING: July 19, 2000

REASONS FOR DECISION AND ORDER

BACKGROUND:

This is an appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal (the "Tribunal") from a written decision dated April 7, 2000 of the Board of Directors of the Ontario Travel Industry Compensation Fund Corporation (the "Fund") to deny the Applicant's claim for reimbursement in the amount of $1,239.17.

Rosemary Soga (the "Applicant") bases her claim on the provisions of Section 50(1) of Regulation 806/93 (the "Regulation") made under the Travel Industry Act (the "Act").

THE EVIDENCE:

Evidence was both oral and documentary. Oral testimony was given by the Applicant and by Lori Furlan on behalf of the Fund. Besides the evidence, the parties at the hearing filed an agreed statement of fact with the Tribunal.

The agreed statement of fact reads as follows:

ROSEMARY SOGA-AGREED STATEMENT OF FACT

1. Shalom-K Tours Ltd., a travel agent then registered in Ontario, offered group tours of Israel, departing on January 4, 1999.
2. Ms. Rosemary Soga (the "claimant") had intended to travel with a group tour to Israel, scheduled to depart on January 4, 1999.

3. In November of 1998, the claimant was notified verbally of a change in the departure date of her group to January 3, 1999.
4. On December 10, 1998, the claimant purchased an extension to Jordan and Egypt, and paid $795.00 U.S.F. for these services.
5. On January 3, 1999, the claimant attended at the Toronto airport, but the flight was cancelled due to weather conditions (snowstorm). The passengers were requested to return on January 4. Accommodations for the night were provided by the travel agent.
6. On January 4, 1999, the claimant again went to the airport, where she waited, but the passengers could not be accommodated on the flight and were again transported to a hotel and asked to return on January 5, 1999.
7. On January 5, 1999, the claimant was advised that the group could not depart as scheduled and the departure would be postponed to January 14, 1999. The claimant advised the travel agent that she could not depart on that date.
8. A seat lottery was arranged for departure on January 5, 1999, for a flight to Israel via Montreal. Passengers who received seats through this lottery (a group of 20 passengers) were advised they should be able to fly to Montreal on January 5, 1999, and connect with a flight to Israel from Montreal. In Israel the group would connect with the other scheduled tour groups already in Israel.
9. Passengers who did not receive a seat in the lottery and could not travel on the January 14, 1999, date were promised a full refund by the travel agent, Shalom-K Tours Ltd.
10. The claimant won a seat in the lottery and was provided with a boarding pass for the Montreal flight.
11. The flight to Montreal was delayed due to mechanical problems with the plane. Air Canada recalled the boarding passes.
12. The claimant was advised that she should take the delayed flight, along with the 20 other group members, to Montreal, and from there a flight would be arranged to Israel.
13. The claimant was unable to confirm information about the Jordan-Egypt extension purchased, or about accommodations to be provided in Montreal. The claimant advised Air Canada she would not be travelling and left the airport. Ms. Soga's luggage was not removed but remained on the flight and eventually arrived in Israel.
14. Passengers in the group who remained at the airport departed the next day, January 6, 1999, and subsequently arrived in Israel.
15. On May 21, 1999, the claimant made a formal complaint to The Travel Industry Council of Ontario (TICO).
16. The claimant did not receive any reimbursement from the travel agent.
17. On September 24, 1999, Shalom-K Tours Ltd. voluntarily terminated its registration.
18. By letter dated November 10, 1999, Claimant was advised that Shalom-K Tours Ltd. had closed its offices. The claimant was further advised that she may submit a claim against the Fund; however, section 50 of Ontario Regulation 806/93 provides that customers are not entitled to reimbursement from the Fund where the travel services were available but not received due to the customer's action or failure to act.
19. On December 6, 1999, TICO received a letter from the claimant's solicitor requesting a claim form.
20. On December 24, 1999, the claimant submitted a claim form for the amount of $795.00 U.S.F.

21. On December 30, 1999, TICO advised that the claim did not appear to be eligible, but may be presented to the board of directors for review.
22. By letter dated January 30, 2000, the claimant advised she wished her claim to be presented to the board of directors for review.
23. By letter dated April 7, 2000, the claimant the board had denied her claim.

(Exhibit 4)

When the Applicant gave oral testimony before the Tribunal she amplified the agreed statement of fact as follows:

When she arrived by bus in Toronto on January 3, 1999 together with other members of her church, no flights were leaving Toronto airport and all members were accommodated at a hotel in Toronto on the night of January 3, 1999. On January 4, 1999 flights were departing from Toronto airport and another group from London, Ontario arrived at the airport and were put on their flight to Israel which flight then departed as scheduled. Several of the Applicant's group were chosen on January 4, 1999 to join the group of January 4 travellers and left with the January 4 group on that day. The Applicant was not chosen to join the January 4 group and remained at the airport until midnight when she was returned to her hotel for the night.

On January 5, 1999 while still at the hotel, the Applicant and her group assembled and were addressed by a representative of Shalom-K Tours Ltd. At that meeting, the representative told the group that their tour was cancelled and that they would be rebooked to leave Toronto on January 14, 1999. When asked by the representative whether there was anyone who could not leave on January 14, 1999, the Applicant and certain others of the group advised the representative that they could not leave on January 14, 1999 as their vacation had been structured to commence on January 3, 1999 and they could not, on such short notice, restructure their vacations.

Applicant stated that she is a nurse and that her superior had informed her, when she telephoned her on January 5, that the Applicant would not be permitted to restructure her vacation and to leave on January 14, 2000. After speaking with her superior and upon returning to the group that was assembled in the hotel, the Applicant noticed that her name, together with some 20 others, had been entered on a blackboard indicating that she had won a seat in a lottery conducted in her absence. The representative of Shalom-K Tours advised her "he thought he could get a flight that evening to Montreal and Israel" for the lottery winners. Those who were not successful in the lottery returned to London.

At about 6:00 p.m., Applicant and other lottery winners were transported to the airport from their hotel. The flight to Montreal was to leave that evening at 8:45 p.m. to connect in Montreal with a flight to Israel, leaving at about 11:00 p.m. that evening. Applicant's luggage was checked, and she and others were given boarding passes for the Montreal leg of the flight. Shortly after 9:00 p.m. that evening while waiting in the departure lounge, an announcement was made that their Montreal flight was delayed and shortly thereafter a further announcement was made that the flight to Montreal was cancelled due to mechanical problems with the aircraft. All passengers' boarding passes were then collected from the aircraft's passengers, and they were left sitting in the departure area. They were told that they could not connect in Montreal with that night's flight from Montreal to Israel.

By 11:00 p.m. that night, the group were still sitting in the departure area. The representative of Shalom-K Tours was present. He had not presented the group with alternative travel arrangements. The representative had given no answers to the group members' concerns. They had unsuccessfully sought answers on:

- what was going to happen regarding the days lost on the 9 day tour of Israel which had a detailed itinerary of each day's doing.
- what was happening with the guide who was to accompany them to Israel and in Israel as this guide had already left with those persons who were travelling via London and Europe.
- would the extension trip of 7 days to Egypt and Jordan still take place.
- where would they stay in Montreal when they eventually arrived in Montreal that night.
- would there be someone in Montreal to meet them, assist them and take care of them.
- would those persons taking the 7 day tour to Egypt and Jordan meet up with other members of the tour who had already left for Israel via London and Europe.

The Applicant stated she was physically and emotionally spent. She was not an experienced traveller and was unsettled by the repeated delays and the lack of information. She was left feeling abandoned, insecure and fearful of travelling to a foreign land under the circumstances. Although other members in the group were from the same church as the Applicant, she only knew one other member.

At 11:15 p.m. she advised the representative of the airline for the Montreal leg of the trip, as well as the representative of Shalom-K Tours that she would not be proceeding with the tour and was returning to London which she, and others, did. The remainder of the group of 20 left for Montreal the next day, January 6, 1999 and arrived in Israel on January 7, 1999.

Under cross-examination, by counsel representing the Compensation Fund, the Applicant stated that her claim against the Fund is for $795.00 U.S. ($1,239.17 Canadian) which represented the amount she paid to Shalom-K Tours in respect of the seven day escorted tour through Egypt and Jordan. She also stated that "I had an arrangement with another passenger to pay $1,000.00" and that she paid Shalom-K Tours for the Egypt and Jordan extension of the trip on December 10, 1998. The $1,000.00 was paid to a Father Pinto of the Church and this payment enable the Applicant to be part of the Church group's travel arrangements from Toronto to Israel as well as the nine day tour of Israel.

The above evidence was not contested by the Compensation Fund, and the agreed statement of fact and the facts in the above stated evidence are found by this Tribunal to be facts found proven.

ISSUE:

Does the claim for $1,239.17 made by the Applicant fall within the terms of regulation 806/93 to the Act?

THE LAW:

The relevant portions of regulation 806/93 of the Travel Industry Act that are applicable to these proceedings are:

Section 50(1), which reads as follows:

Section 50(1) A customer is entitled to be reimbursed for travel services paid for but not provided if,

- (d) the customer made payment for the travel services directly to or through a registered travel agent;
- (e) the customer has made a demand for payment from the registered travel agent or the appropriate registered wholesaler; and
- (f) the customer has not been reimbursed by,
 - (iv) the registrant because the registrant is unable to pay by reason of bankruptcy or insolvency,
 - (v) any other person who has received the customer's money, or
 - (vi) any other person who may be legally obliged to reimburse or compensate the customer, including a person obliged under a contract for insurance.

Section 50(3), which reads as follows:

Section 50(3) A customer is not entitled to be reimbursed for the following or in the following circumstances:

.....

- 4. For a payment, including a non-refundable payment, for travel services that were available but not received if the failure to receive the travel services is due to the customer's or the traveller's action or failure to act.

.....

APPLICATION OF LAW TO FACTS:

Does the claim made by the Applicant for payment of $1,239.17 representing the amount the Applicant paid for in respect of the Egypt and Jordan seven day tour fall within the terms of regulation 806/93 made under the Act?

The Tribunal is of the opinion that the Applicant's claim does fall within Section 50(1) of the above regulations as:

- (d) The Applicant made payment of $795.00 U.S. ($1,239.17 Canadian) for the travel services regarding the Egypt and Jordan portion of the tour directly to Shalom-K Tours, a registered travel agent.
- (e) Insofar as the other portion of the tour namely, the return air transportation to Israel and the nine day escorted Israel tour, the Applicant as a member of the Church paid Father Pinto of the Church $1,000.00 in respect of such air transportation and the Israel portion of the tour. Father Pinto was the Applicant's duly authorized agent to contract with the registered travel agent, Shalom-K Tours. This agency was recognized by Shalom-K Tours by its issuance directly to the Applicant of her ticket. (s. 50(1)(a))

(f) The Applicant has made a demand for payment from the registered travel agent. (s.50(1)(b))

(g) The Applicant has not been reimbursed by,

(iv) the registrant (Shalom-K Tours) because the registrant is unable to pay by reason of bankruptcy or insolvency. (s.50(1)(c)(i))

(v) any other person who has received the Applicant's money. (s. 50(1)(c)(ii))
or

(vi) any other person who may be legally obliged to reimburse or compensate the Applicant, including a person obliged under a contract of insurance. (s. 50(1)(c)(iii))

The Tribunal is also of the opinion that the Applicant's claim does not fall within Section 50(3)4. of the regulation 806/93 as:

- The Applicant paid $1,239.17 directly to Shalom-K Tours for travel services regarding a tour of Egypt and Jordan that were not available to her and was not received by her. The failure to receive such travel services was not due to the Applicant's action or failure to act.
- The Applicant through her duly authorized agent, Father Pinto, contracted with Shalom-K Tours for travel services, which was in respect of the return air transportation to Israel and the Egypt and Jordan extension tour. Shalom-K Tours issued an air ticket to the Applicant, in her name as passenger, for travel on January 3, 1999 from Toronto to Montreal and from Montreal to Israel on the same date with a return air ticket to Toronto from Israel on January 19, 1999. These travel services, which the Applicant paid for through her agent, were not available to her and were not received by her. The failure to receive such travel services was not due to the Applicant's action or failure to act.
- The tour was to depart from Toronto on January 3, 1999 and arrive in Israel January 4, 1999. The tour did not depart Toronto until January 6, 1999 and arrived in Israel January 7, 1999.
- The travel agent did not make the travel services that the Applicant contracted for, available to the Applicant.
- The Applicant contracted with Shalom-K Tours for a tour of Israel that was to be nine days in duration but due to the delay such tour was reduced to six days in duration.
- Shalom-K Tours breached the contract, not the Applicant. It was not the Applicant's failure to act, nor was it her action, that resulted in the travel services she contracted for not being available to her or received by her.

The Applicant claims $1,239.17 from the Compensation Fund being the amount paid by her to Shalom-K Tours. Her claim for reimbursement is limited to such amount, as she makes no claim for any other amount paid by her.

DECISION:

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in it by section 62(6)(a) of Regulation 806/93 under the Travel Industry Act, this Tribunal allows the Applicant's claim in the sum of $1,239.17 and directs the Corporation to pay such amount out of the Ontario Travel Industry Compensation Fund.

In accordance with Section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Youssef Akil Abdul-Hussein o/a Express Fuels and Auto Sales (hereafter the "Dealer") and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Registrar MVDA") waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal (hereafter the "Consent Order") based on the following terms and conditions:

1. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that he will not retain the services of a salesperson unless the salesperson is registered as a salesperson to the Dealer.
2. The Dealer further acknowledges that the restrictions concerning the activities of salespersons referred to in these terms and conditions, applies to both buying and selling on behalf of a dealer. "Buying and selling" refers to showing a vehicle to a prospective purchaser or any form of negotiation concerning the purchase or sale of a vehicle and is not limited to the signing of contracts. This further includes attendance at auctions on behalf of the Dealer.
3. The Dealer agrees to maintain a garage register in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act and will maintain all books and records as required by Section 16 of Regulation 801. The Dealer further agrees to store books and records at the location approved by the Registrar.
4. The Dealer will ensure that all advertisements placed by or on behalf of the Dealer will identify his registered name and the address of the location approved by the Registrar.
5. The Dealer agrees not to invite the public to deal at a place other than his approved location.
6. The Dealer agrees to operate exclusively from the location approved by the Registrar. The Dealer agrees to apply for the Registrar's approval, by way of prior written notice, of any change in employment location in the form required by the Registrar.

7. The Dealer will not conduct any purchases or sales with anyone who is in the business of buying and selling motor vehicles without confirming that they are registered as a Dealer under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act.
8. The Dealer will ensure that any vehicles sold are registered in the name of the purchaser before releasing the vehicle to the purchaser.
9. The Dealer will not purchase vehicles without ensuring that the vehicle is registered to the seller.
10. The Dealer agrees to register all vehicles purchased within 6 days in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act.
11. The Dealer agrees that he is under a positive obligation to disclose all material facts about the vehicles he sells to his customers. The Dealer agrees that he is under a positive obligation to ensure that all salespeople also disclose all material facts about vehicles sold to consumers. The Dealer agrees to make reasonable efforts to research the history of all his vehicles prior to sale to ensure all material facts are disclosed. The Dealer agrees that should any information come to light, which the Registrar deems to be a material fact concerning a vehicle the Dealer has sold, the Dealer will comply with all reasonable requests made by the Registrar to provide compensation to the purchaser.
12. The Dealer acknowledges and understands that his registration will not be used to buy or sell motor vehicles where the Dealer knows or ought to know that the purchase or sale of those motor vehicles will facilitate an illegal or unethical practice.
13. The Dealer will comply with all aspects of the Retail Sales Act with regards to filing, and ensuring all tax collections are accurately reported and remitted to the Minister of Finance when due.
14. The Dealer will pay all amounts owing to the Minister of Finance in respect of all future audit assessments when due.
15. The Dealer acknowledges that Mohamad Ahmad Tirani will in no way, either directly or indirectly be involved with the business.
16. The Dealer acknowledges that Mohamad Ahmad Tirani is not permitted on the Dealer's registered premise of 4880 Bank Street Gloucester ON.
17. The Dealer agrees he will not be involved with the buying and selling of motor vehicles without the benefit of registration.
18. The Dealer hereby acknowledges that in the event of a breach of any of the terms and conditions set out herein, the Registrar is directed to, and shall revoke the registration of the Dealer.
19. The Dealer understands that his registration will be conditional for 60 days and may be cancelled by the Registrar, in accordance with Section 13(3) of Regulation 801. For the purpose of Section 13(3) of Regulation 801, these Terms and Conditions are part of the Dealer's application.

20. The Dealer acknowledges that the Registrar may take further administrative action, including a proposal to revoke registration, arising from any matters that have occurred or may occur related to honesty and integrity or financial position.

21. The Dealer acknowledges that the Registrar may take legal action, including Provincial Offences prosecution arising from actions related to the sale of motor vehicles that may have occurred in the past or that may occur in the future.

22. The Dealer hereby consents to an order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal, which may include the terms, and conditions set out herein.

23. The Dealer hereby withdraws the appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.

24. The Dealer acknowledges that he has read, understand and will comply with the above terms and conditions of Registration.

25. The Dealer acknowledges that he has obtained or has had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to his consent to the terms and conditions set out herein.

In accordance with Section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Robert Pounder hereafter the ("Applicant") and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Registrar MVDA") waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal (hereafter the "Consent Order") based on the following terms and conditions:

- 1) I agree, if I am charged in the future, under any law, to immediately notify the Registrar, MVDA, in writing of the charges or convictions against me. Upon any future convictions, the Applicant's registration will be automatically revoked.
- 2) I agree, if I am charged in the future, under any law, to immediately notify my employer of the charges or convictions against me.
- 3) I agree not to transfer my registration as a motor vehicle Salesperson to another dealer without having first obtained the prior written consent of the Registrar.
- 4) I acknowledge that my registration will not prevent the Registrar from taking administrative action, including a proposal to revoke my registration, arising from matters that may have occurred or may occur in the future related to my financial circumstances and honesty and integrity.
- 5) I acknowledge that my registration as a motor vehicle salesperson will not prevent the Registrar from taking legal action, including a Provincial Offences prosecution, arising from matters that may have occurred or that may occur in the future.
- 6) I acknowledge that the disclosure provided by me to the Registrar, MVDA is accurate in all respects and the Registrar is relying upon the veracity of my disclosure in entering into these terms and conditions.
- 7) I agree to immediately enrol in the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council Certification Course and to be responsible for all fees in relation to enrolment. I further acknowledge that enrolment in the course entitles me to a sixty (60) day conditional registration period that allows for my successful completion of the course (including passing the exam).

8) The Applicant agrees not to invite the public to deal at a place other than the location approved by the Registrar for his employer.

9) The Applicant will not conduct any purchases or sales with anyone who is in the business of buying and selling motor vehicles without confirming that they are registered as a dealer under the Act.

10) The Applicant will ensure that any vehicles sold are registered in the name of the purchaser before releasing the vehicle to the purchaser. The Applicant shall ensure that all bills of sale and financing documentation executed by purchasers and/or by himself are co-signed by a registered salesperson in a supervisory capacity at the dealership

11) The Applicant will not purchase vehicles without ensuring that the vehicle is registered to the seller.

In accordance with Section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Todd Kenneth Ross Seager (hereafter the "Applicant") and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Registrar") waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal (hereafter the "Consent Order") based on the following terms and conditions:

1. The Applicant agrees, if he is charged in the future, under any law, to immediately notify the Registrar, in writing, of the charges laid against him.
2. The Applicant agrees, if he is charged in the future, under any law, to immediately notify his employer in writing and to give the Registrar a copy of this written notification signed by his employer.
3. The Applicant agrees that any further convictions will result in the automatic revocation of his registration.
4. The Applicant agrees not to transfer his registration as a salesperson under the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act to another dealer. Should he wish to transfer his Registration, he shall submit a new application for registration to the Registrar.
5. The Applicant agrees not to be the final signatory on any vehicle purchase agreements.
6. The Applicant agrees not to be an officer, director, manager or owner of a motor vehicle dealer.
7. The Applicant agrees that his disclosure to the Registrar is accurate. Should the Registrar discover that the circumstances surrounding the convictions differ materially from the Applicant's disclosure, the Applicant's registration will automatically be revoked.
8. The Applicant acknowledges that the Registrar may take administrative action, including a proposal to revoke his registration as a motor vehicle salesperson arising from any matters that have occurred or that may occur in the future related to his financial circumstances and his honesty and integrity.
9. The Applicant acknowledges that the Registrar may take legal action, including a Provincial Offences prosecution, arising from his actions related to the sale of motor vehicles that may have occurred in the past or that may occur in the future.

10. The Applicant hereby consents to an order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal, which may include the Terms and Conditions set out herein.
11. The Applicant hereby withdraws his appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.
12. The Applicant agrees to give a copy of this order to his employer.
13. The Applicant acknowledges that his registration as a motor vehicle salesperson will be revoked if the Applicant breaches any of the terms and conditions set out herein or if salesperson provides false information on any application or document provided to the Registrar.
14. The Applicant hereby acknowledges that he has obtained or has had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to my consent to the terms and conditions set out in this document.

In accordance with Section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, and subsection 5(2) of the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Act") the parties to the proceeding, Kyle Melnyk hereafter the ("Applicant") and the Registrar, Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, (hereafter the "Registrar MVDA") waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to an Order of the Licence Appeal Tribunal (hereafter the "Consent Order") based on the following terms and conditions:

- 1) I agree, if I am charged in the future, under any law, to immediately notify the Registrar, MVDA, in writing of the charges or convictions against me. Upon any future convictions pursuant to the Motor Vehicle Dealers Act, the Business Practices Act or the Criminal Code of Canada, the Applicant's registration will be automatically revoked.
- 2) I agree, if I am charged in the future, under any law, to immediately notify my employer of the charges or convictions against me.
- 3) I agree not to transfer my registration as a motor vehicle Salesperson to another dealer without having first obtained the prior written consent of the Registrar.
- 4) I acknowledge that my registration will not prevent the Registrar from taking administrative action, including a proposal to revoke my registration, arising from matters that may have occurred or may occur in the future related to my financial circumstances and honesty and integrity.
- 5) I acknowledge that my registration as a motor vehicle salesperson will not prevent the Registrar from taking legal action, including a Provincial Offences prosecution, arising from matters that may have occurred or that may occur in the future.
- 6) I acknowledge that the disclosure provided by me to the Registrar, MVDA is accurate in all respects and the Registrar is relying upon the veracity of my disclosure in entering into these terms and conditions.
- 7) I agree to immediately enrol in the Ontario Motor Vehicle Industry Council Certification Course and to be responsible for all fees in relation to enrolment. I further acknowledge that enrolment in the course entitles me to a sixty (60) day conditional registration period that allows for my successful completion of the course (including passing the exam).
- 8) The Applicant agrees not to invite the public to deal at a place other than the location approved by the Registrar for his employer.

9) The Applicant will not conduct any purchases or sales with anyone who is in the business of buying and selling motor vehicles without confirming that they are registered as a dealer under the Act.

10) The Applicant will ensure that any vehicles sold are registered in the name of the purchaser before releasing the vehicle to the purchaser. The Applicant shall ensure that all bills of sale and financing documentation executed by purchasers and/or by himself are co-signed by a registered salesperson in a supervisory capacity at the dealership

11) The Applicant will not purchase vehicles without ensuring that the vehicle is registered to the seller.

12) The Applicant agrees to provide, as soon as possible, copies of any and all judgments rendered against the Applicant as well as good and sufficient evidence that said judgments have been paid or that satisfactory payment arrangements have been reached with the Applicant's creditors.

13) The Applicant agrees that he is under a positive obligation to disclose all material facts about the vehicles that he sells to his customers. The Applicant agrees to make reasonable efforts to research the history of all vehicles prior to sale to ensure all material facts are disclosed.

14) The Applicant acknowledges that, if, the Registrar has evidence that the Applicant has failed to comply with any of the requirements noted above, the Applicant's registration as a motor vehicle salesperson will be revoked and the Applicant will immediately return all registration certificates to the Registrar.

15) I hereby withdraw my appeal to the Licence Appeal Tribunal.

16) I acknowledge that I have had the opportunity to obtain independent legal advice with respect to my consent to the terms and conditions set out in this document.

WAIVER AND CONSENT

In accordance with section 4.1 of the Statutory Powers Procedure Act, the parties hereto waive the requirement of a hearing and consent to a decision in writing based upon the following Agreed Statement of Facts and Joint Submission.

AGREED STATEMENT OF FACT

1. Abbey Travel Service Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as "the Registrant") is a company incorporated pursuant to the laws of Ontario and registered as a travel agent (Registration No. 01250995/R) under the Travel Industry Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. T-19, as amended (hereinafter referred to as "the Act"). The Registrant was originally approved for registration as a travel agent on June 23, 1982.
2. On November 30, 1995, the Registrant signed an acknowledgement of Terms and Conditions of Registration, in which it agreed, among other things, to maintain trust accounting, maintain the required minimum working capital, and file financial statements within 3 months of its fiscal year end.
3. The past conduct of Abbey Travel Service Ltd. reveals numerous instances of non-compliance. As well as previous working capital deficiencies, Abbey Travel Service Ltd. has, in the past, persistently filed its financial statements late:
 - On November 8, 1994, the Registrant filed the financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1994. The statements had been due by September 30, 1994.
 - On November 17, 1995, the Registrant filed the financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1995. The statements had been due by September 30, 1995.
 - On December 9, 1996, the Registrant filed the financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1996. The statements had been due by September 30, 1996.
 - On June 19, 1998, the Registrant filed the financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1997. The statements had been due by September 30, 1997.
 - On November 12, 1999, the Registrant filed the financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1998. The statements had been due by September 30, 1998.

4. By letter dated June 7, 1999, the Registrant was requested to file the financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1999, on or before September 30, 1999. On October 5, 1999, the Registrant was again requested to file the requisite financial statements.
5. By letter dated October 27, 1999, the Registrar requested the Registrant to file the financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1999, on or before November 10, 1999. The statements had been due by September 30, 1999.
6. On November 12, 1999, the Registrar issued a Notice of Proposal to Revoke Registration to the Registrant for failure to file its financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1999.
7. By letter dated December 7, 1999, the Registrant appealed the Proposal to Revoke Registration issued on November 12, 1999, and stated that it would file its financial statements by January 31, 2000.
