Love this – at once, both therapeutic and terrifying.

John – please ask Charles to help us set this up. (Of course, the version that goes to him should be made up of false news rather than CO jewels)

Good list, very helpful. I've added a couple that I am keeping tabs on as well (see attached). I like the idea of a running list amongst our group that we can update and access readily.

Hi,

John and I put together the attached list of files that are sort of “out there” as in they are tracking but lots of question, there are outstanding questions, things we don’t want to forget about (e.g., the CAA minute but that just landed).

Our hope is that once we learn how to do shared onenote folders, we could keep this list in a shared place and add/strike off as we get decisions. You probably have way more things you are keeping track of as well, and there is no science to my list, just things that are top of mind because there is some element of outstanding nature to them. Was not trying to capture all the big policy questions on files but more outstanding pieces.

Thanks!
