Great! To be honest I was actually a little surprised when I first saw that it was OPG as this was a lot of control to be handing over with little ability to control the whole program after started. However, I had accepted it as one of those elements that was required to maintain the integrity of the investment asset. While the change to the Minister may alleviate some of this it also seems to be a fairly significant change to make between the second to last and last versions, which makes me more uncertain that everything has been squared away. What else may change if there was more time? Anyway, look forward to learning more. Have a good night!

Thanks. Steen said he can walk me through why the M can be the one to set the fair allocation amount as I let him know we were confused!
