I was briefed on this. They are basically questioning the initial Class A / Class B industrial distinction that began in 2010.

"Matter before the courts" is all that should be said. But LSB did a note.

Only appropriate response would be that as this matter involves a potential legal matter, it would be inappropriate to comment at this time.

We will follow up with our policy folks for background and the like.

Hi George,

We've received a media request regarding a lawsuit that claims the global adjustment is an invalid tax. We haven't heard about this in MO comms - are you aware of this on your end?

Thanks,
Colin

Hello,

I am seeking the government's response to a lawsuit launched by National Steel Car, which is seeking to have the global adjustment charge declared an unconstitutional or invalid tax. The Ministry of the Attorney General, Minister of Energy and the IESO are named.

Is the government aware of the lawsuit? What is the government's response to National's allegations? What does the government intend to do?

My deadline is 5.

Thanks,
