Hi team,

Here's my revision, including the points you mentioned, James. The main point I'd like to make is that if we want to get attention with this LTEP, we absolutely need a shiny bauble (i.e. min wage) to represent a cohesive theme that will run through the report. For example, if we are creating some kind of money back guarantee, focusing on 'fairness and accountability.' This upfront message can be modified to reflect that. I'm sure conversations will evolve while I'm away, but I'm happy to chat more today if you like.

Looking forward to your thoughts!

Cheers,
C.
