Sarah. - can you send Helen the Appendix to the Mar 1 cab submission. The letter from OPG is helpful in describing the transaction.

The equity injection is into OPG not the trust. It is not a TP. It is an operating asset. OPG will subsequently loan the funds to the Trust. The timing of the loan is important as OPG cannot fund more than 49% of the Trust.

Hi Cindy

Pemd is working on the appropriation question regarding nature of purchase of shares

A few questions

Do we have anything from energy that descrbes the transaction with opg? Doesnt seem like this is motivated directly in the drafting, so thinkign there may be a deck or a note that describes how this is intended to work?

On whether its an operating asset or rather an expense, if its just flowing a payment to the trust, thats possibly a tp expense?

Pemd has reached out to scott nelms folks, but we arent sure how quickly they will respond, thus wanting to make sure we have looked internally as well.
