  The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers [ASC 980-10-15-2].

The U.S. accounting standard was developed specifically not to preclude the application of rate-regulated accounting by government utilities where the rate regulator would not necessarily be viewed as independent [FAS 71, par. 64]. In addition, the position that rate-regulated accounting is precluded because the OEB is not considered independent of the government of Ontario is contradictory to accepting the use of rate-regulated accounting by Ontario Power Generation (OPG) and Hydro One, both regulated by the OEB and whose results, using rate-regulated accounting, are and have been included in the consolidated financial statements of the Province.

The OFHP is comprised of a series of policy decisions, some of which will be borne by taxpayers where appropriate, such as sales tax relief and shifting social programs to the tax base, and some will be borne by ratepayers, such as spreading the investment costs and benefits across ratepayers more fairly. The accounting will reflect the economic substance of the transactions in accordance with PSAS and will differentiate those costs of OFHP borne by taxpayers vs. those borne by ratepayers. The report appears to suggest that all costs of OFHP should be reflected as if they will be borne by taxpayers, which is inaccurate.

OPG is beginning the process of raising funds to finance the deferred costs, and while total borrowing costs will not be known until the program is complete, accumulated interest is projected to be considerably less than the estimates in the report of the Financial Accountability Office (FAO), cited by the report. Total borrowing estimates over the thirty year life of the program have been revised down substantially by the government since the FAO released its report in May 2017 and borrowing costs are now forecast to be substantially lower than original estimates. Current government estimates forecast that the peak debt over the thirty year life of OFHP will be below $20 billion. The preliminary estimate from March 2017 was about $28 billion.

Based on the comments above, and given that implementation of OFHP is ongoing with significant accounting and financing decisions still being finalized, the government believes that this report does not reflect the technical substance of the OFHP, some of which has yet to be implemented.

| 1.3.2 | 9 | The statement is made "key to achieving this result is calling the 17% revenue shortfall or net expense a "regulatory asset". This is factually incorrect. It does not matter what an item is labeled within the legislation. The accounting for the transaction will be based on Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards. This sentence should be deleted.As previously provided to the OAG by IESO and KPMG, the transaction is expected to result in an asset that meets the definition of an asset based on PSAS and the guidance on rate-regulated accounting in US GAAP. | | | Under Canadian PSAS, assets are defined by three characteristics: a) they embody future economic benefits (of which one is the ability to generate future cash flows); b) the entity has full control in order to access those benefits, and c) they must result from a past event.The decision by the IESO to apply the rate-regulated rules under US GAAP does not create an inconsistency with the definition of an asset under Canadian PSAS. The shortfall which is being reported as an asset by the IESO embodies a future economic benefit based on the requirement of the specified ratepayers to pay these deferred amounts in the future. IESO has control to access those benefits either by selling the regulatory asset or by holding the asset until the payments by the specified ratepayers are received in the future. Finally, the asset results from a past event which is the payment to the generators for the generation of power.It is important to distinguish legislating the accounting from legislating the right for the government to recover amounts from specified ratepayers in the future, based on costs incurred today. Enabling the IESO to sell the future right to recover of this shortfall from specified ratepayers provided under the FHP Act is not legislating the accounting. The statute does not direct the government how to account for the shortfall. The statute provides for recovery of the current shortfalls from the specified ratepayers in the future, reflecting the policy decision to have the GA refinancing borne by the specified ratepayers, and in doing so, creates an obligation on the specified ratepayers to pay an amount in the future. The obligation on the part of the specified ratepayers is a future economic benefit to the government. | |

Instead, starting in 2002, ratepayers began paying down the stranded debt through a "debt retirement charge" on their bills.~~~~The collection of the debt retirement charge and the Fair Hydro future reduction recovery are similar in that both stem from government policy decisions and did not result from an independent regulatory process. As well, the payments were/will be made much later, "after the fact." However, in the 1999/2000 fiscal year, the government followed Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards properly, and included the debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the debt retirement charge was added to electricity bills, the charge to ratepayers was taken in as revenue in the Province's consolidated financial statements. This treatment allowed the government to track ratepayer costs and taxpayer costs separately, helping to ensure that only ratepayers, not taxpayers, pay for electricity services.~~~~The same accounting should be applied to the Fair Hydro Plan rate reduction: include the debt being accumulated through the 10 years of the reduction as Provincial debt, and record interest expense on this debt as an expense in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the clean energy adjustment is added to electricity bills, the amount charged to ratepayers can then be taken in as revenue in the consolidated financial statements, as well as be tracked separately from taxpayer expenses/revenue"~~The report makes a comparison between the OFHP and the OEFC stranded debt. There are, however, crucial differences. The latter had already been incurred when the restructuring took place. In the case of the OFHP, the difference between what will be collected and what will be paid to generators will be set up as an asset which generates a specific revenue stream in the form of the CEA, in accordance with the accounting definition.Also, it is important to note that the 1999 restructuring led to an "unbundling" of the electricity rate. Prior to the 1999 restructuring and 2002 market opening, there was a "bundled rate" for electricity that included cost recovery of generation and transmission costs, operating and capital – including debt costs, as well as central market operations costs. Including debt cost recovery and matching the timing of the capital cost recovery with the benefit to the ratepayer is a normal rate-setting regulatory practice. The DRC represented the unbundling of a portion of the debt service costs. It effectively amortized the cost of the investments in long-lived assets (including debt incurred). | Annual Report |

| | | The OFHP GA deferral is also intended to have costs recovered from specified ratepayers over a time period that better reflects the expected lives of those assets (vs the contract lengths) that may be shorter than the expected useful life of the assets). The difference between the 1999 restructuring and the OFHP is that the DRC continued to pay down, over time, debt that had already been incurred, while under the OFHP, an asset is being recorded to reflect a fair allocation of electricity costs between current and future ratepayers. The intention of the OFHP is to be forward looking to ensure that ratepayers are fairly paying their share of current and future costs, while the DRC was backward looking, replacing part of a bundled rate that was already spreading the cost recovery of the debt over time.Finally, the penultimate paragraph in section 3.0 notes the government, in 1999/2000, "…included debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements". This statement is incorrect. The recording of the stranded debt never resulted in an expense in the consolidated financial statements. The amount of the debt was charged directly to accumulated deficit. | |

By establishing the deferral amounts off today's bill and charging it to future consumers, that is providing substance by ensuring future ratepayers pay their share of system costs at the right time. | N |
| | 13 | The role of the OEB and its mandate, is provided in legislation. It is not uncommon for government policy, through Regulations, to provide the ground rules over which the OEB is to preside. That is the case with the OFHP itself as the Act and the various regulations provide the direction and processes over which the OEB is to exercise oversight, review and make conclusions on submissions brought forward (rates to charge certain customer classes, basis of interest and appropriateness of fees charged to ensure they are benchmarked and reasonable, etc.). | N |

October 4, 2017

Dear Ms. Lysyk,

Thank you for the opportunity to review and provide feedback on your draft special report, The Fair Hydro Plan: Concerns About Fiscal Transparency, Accountability and Value for Money.

As per your letter to Deputy Thompson, dated September 26, 2017, our review focused on confirming the factual accuracy of the report. Please find enclosed succinct written comments and suggestions resulting from our ministries' coordinated review.

We have also enclosed a government response to the special report. Given the nature and the complexity of the issues, the response needed to be longer than the word limit you proposed.

As you know, as part of its preparations for the development of the implementation of the Government's Fair Hydro Act, Navigant Consulting was engaged to conduct analysis and prepare a report. The report was commissioned in June 2017 and completed at the end of September 2017. Although the report was not commissioned as a result of your audit or to respond to any questions raised by your office as part of your audit process, we believe it does contain information relevant to your audit. As per your letter which noted that we should share any other information that may be relevant, we felt it would be appropriate to share a confidential copy of the report with your office while we continue to assess whether the report will be made public.

Once your office has had the opportunity to review the enclosed information, you may find it useful to have further meetings with ourselves and/or staff from our ministries. We will be pleased to make ourselves available to provide clarification or to answer any additional questions. Our Ministers would welcome the opportunity to meet with you to discuss your report and the government response during the week of October 9th.

The Ministry of Finance, Treasury Board Secretariat and the Ministry of Energy are committed to assisting the Office of the Auditor General so that it can provide its independent views to the Legislative Assembly.

| MEMORANDUM TO: | Bonnie LysykAuditor General of Ontario |
| FROM: | Serge Imbrogno, Deputy MinisterMinistry of Energy |
| SUBJECT: | Auditor General Request |
| DATE: | October 3, 2017 |

As I committed to do in my September 1, 2017 letter, I am writing to update you on the progress of the Ministry of Energy in responding to your request for communications and material on the accounting/financing for the Fair Hydro Plan for the period from December 1, 2016 to May 31, 2017.

As you are aware, Ministry staff are currently engaged in a manual review of 144,513 records identified for us by McCarthys/Wortzmans in order to eliminate non-responsive material. As of today we have reviewed a total of 30,206 records and identified a total of 6,940 responsive to your request. Ministry staff identified 1,837 records as responsive since the last batch (fourth batch) and PDF versions of this batch (fifth batch) of responsive records are included on the enclosed USB. The password to the enclosed password-protected USB is "FairHydro17". Additional batches will be provided to you as they become available. The Ministry has thus far spent $41,775.75 on preparing these materials and does not intend to spend more than $60,000 on this request.

Some of the documents included on the USB contain information that is subject to solicitor-client privilege. Some documents have formed part of various submissions to Treasury Board and to Cabinet and are therefore Cabinet confidential. It is not our intention to waive any solicitor-client and/or Cabinet privilege attaching to the disclosed material. However, in light of the urgency of your request, we have not attempted to specifically highlight all such privileged information for you. For this reason, we would appreciate the opportunity to review any of our documents or information that you intend to reproduce publicly in order to identify any privilege concerns.

I assure you that this process remains a high priority for the Ministry. Should you have any questions or would like to discuss further, please feel free to contact Martin Schlaepfer at (416) 326-7688.

Sincerely,

Serge Imbrogno

1. OVERVIEW

Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP (Blakes) retained Navigant Consulting Ltd. (Navigant), for the purpose of informing legal advice from Blakes to the Ontario Ministry of Energy. Blakes retained Navigant to:

1. Evaluate the extent to which clean energy costs are incurred over the same period as clean energy benefits;
2. Establish a methodology to reallocate clean energy costs to fully align with clean energy benefits;
3. Assess the associated refinancing costs; and
4. Develop an adjustment mechanism to account for differences between reallocated costs and actual costs prior to the implementation of the Fair Hydro Act.[1]

This analysis builds off the Navigant report Assessment of the Operability of Clean Energy Assets Post Power Purchase Agreement Expiry ("Asset Life Report"), which evaluated the feasibility of operating clean energy assets such as natural gas, wind, and solar power generation facilities beyond the term of their existing power purchase agreements, and the associated costs. Navigant determined that natural gas facilities in Ontario can operate for 40 years with prudent maintenance and some component replacement. Navigant also determined that wind and solar facilities can operate for 25 years, which can be extended to 50 years with a full repowering investment at the end of year 25.

Ontario ratepayers currently pay for the entire cost of constructing a natural gas, wind, and solar electricity generation asset over the term of their original power purchase agreement, which is generally 20 years. Provincial ratepayers pay for conservation programs in the year the costs are incurred. Similarly, over the period of 2009 to 2014, ratepayers made annual payments associated with the early shutdown of coal fired-generation assets.

However, the benefits associated with the natural gas, wind, and solar electricity generation assets are tied to their full useful life, which extends beyond the term of the original power purchase agreement. Similarly, the benefits associated with conservation and the early retirement of coal-fired electricity generation assets are tied to the avoided electricity generation and the avoided emissions, respectively. These benefits occur over the entire life of the conservation measures and the expected remaining life of retired coal-fired generation assets.

2. REALLOCATION METHODOLOGY

The Fair Hydro Act allows for the reallocation of clean energy costs to 2047. As a result, Navigant's methodology only considers clean energy costs incurred between 2005 and the earlier of a clean energy assets end of life or 2047.

Navigant's methodology includes five major components.

1. Status Quo Costs

Develop a schedule of status quo costs for individual assets or groups of assets with similar characteristics (i.e. contract price, first year of operation, technology, fuel-type). The status quo clean energy costs include power purchase agreement payments, as well as ongoing operations and maintenance costs and repowering costs beyond the term of the power purchase agreement.

Determine the total cost associated with an individual asset or group of assets in the status quo from its commercial operation date, or the date the investment was made, until the earlier of the asset's end of life or 2047.

2. Fair Allocation Curve without Interest

Reallocate the total cost evenly over each year the asset is operational, or providing a clean energy benefit. Note this step assumes that costs can be reallocated without incurring additional debt or financing costs. The total cost in each year across all the clean energy assets is the fair allocation curve without interest costs ("FAC w/ No Interest Cost").

3. Debt Schedule and Interest Costs

In each year, the difference between the total status quo clean energy costs and the fair allocation curve without interest amount, represents the annual borrowing requirement (in early years) or principal repayment (in later years) associated with the reallocation of costs.

4. Fair Allocation Curve with Interest

The annual interest costs associated with the accumulated debt is added to the fair allocation curve without interest to determine the total cost to be passed through to ratepayers under the reallocation. The sum of the fair allocation amount without interest and the annual interest cost represents the fair allocation curve with interest ("FAC w/ Interest").

5. Fair Allocation Curve with Adjustment Period and Interest

Recognizing that consumers have paid the status quo costs since 2005, establish the amount of overpayment / underpayment that has occurred relative to the fair allocation curve with interest and use this overpayment / underpayment to adjust the fair allocation curve to reflect the targeted reductions eligible consumer costs under the Fair Hydro Act.

3. ESTIMATING THE FAIR ALLOCATION CURVE

This section describes the outcome of each of the first four components of the reallocation methodology described above.

3.1 Status Quo Costs

The status quo costs for natural gas, wind, and solar photovoltaic generation resources are based on the terms of each assets' power purchase agreements. These costs were estimated based on known and estimated power purchase agreement prices and estimated production or contracted capacity levels. Following the expiry of the power purchase agreements, the status quo costs include estimated operating and maintenance expenditures and annual costs associated with the financing of any repowering costs.

The status quo costs also include the costs of conservation and demand management programs, and the costs (payments made by ratepayers) associated with the early shutdown of coal fired-generation assets. These costs are based on actual spending levels through 2016 and estimated spending levels through 2047.

As illustrated in the figure below, status quo costs are expected to peak at over CAD $4 billion in the 2020s and then decline in the 2030s as generation resources reach the end of the original term of their power purchase agreements. By the late 2030s repowering investments in wind, and to a lesser extent solar, put upward pressure on status quo costs.

3.2 Fair Allocation Curve without Interest

Total status quo costs incurred between 2005 and 2047 for each asset were reallocated evenly over the useful life of each asset. The reallocation is carried out on an asset by asset or asset group by asset group basis and then aggregated to determine the total province-wide impact. This results in the fair allocation curve without interest.

As illustrated in the figure below, from 2005 to 2029, the status quo is higher than the fair allocation without interest. From 2030 onwards, the status quo is below the fair allocation without interest.

Both the status quo and fair allocation curve without interest ramp up significantly between 2005 and 2020. This is due to the increase in the number and size of clean energy assets, in particular natural gas, wind, and solar generation facilities, which increase to over 14,000 MW by 2020.

3.3 Debt Schedule and Interest Costs

The status quo costs represent existing obligations. Changing the amount of that obligation that is paid by ratepayers annually either results in a requirement to borrow funds to cover an underpayment or a credit of funds to recognize an overpayment.

The difference between the status quo and the fair allocation curve without interest represents annual borrowing requirement (in early years) or principal repayment (in later years) required to finance the reallocation of costs on behalf of Ontario ratepayers.

As debt is accumulated in each year, the interest payments on the accumulated debt can either be passed through to customers or carried forward to future years and increase the level of accumulated debt. Navigant has modeled the impact of the reallocation on the basis that interest payments are passed through to ratepayers in the year they are incurred.

As illustrated in the figure below, accumulated debt increased to approximately CAD $19.5 billion by 2029 and the annual interest payment increases to approximately CAD $875 million over the same period.

At the end of 2047, all debt and interest costs associated with the fair allocation are paid off and ratepayers return to the status quo payment stream starting in 2048.

Note: Analysis assumes a 4.5% cost of debt

3.4 Fair Allocation Curve with Interest

Layering the annual interest costs on top of the fair allocation curve without interest results in a fair allocation curve with interest costs. This represents the total reallocated cost in each year to be passed on to Ontario ratepayers.

4. ADJUSTMENTS FOR 2005 TO 2017

This section describes the outcome of the fifth component of the reallocation methodology described above.

Since 2005 ratepayers in Ontario have paid the status quo costs. As illustrated in the figure above, these costs were higher than the fair allocation curve with interest. The accumulated overpayment, including interest to the benefit of ratepayers, from 2005 up to the end of 2016 represents the amount that can be used to achieve the target reduction in eligible consumer costs under the Fair Hydro Act.

4.1 Overpayment Balance

From 2005 to the end of 2016, considering interest accrued on overpayments, ratepayers overpaid relative to the fair allocation with interest by approximately CAD $8 billion. This overpayment balance represents the amount that can be used to achieve the target reduction in eligible consumer costs in 2017 ($1.396 billion), 2018 ($2.189 billion), 2019 ($2.296 billion), 2020 ($2.414 billion) and 2021 ($2.204 billion). At the end of 2021, there remains an overpayment balance of approximately CAD $2 billion. This amount is repaid to customers over the next three years in a manner that limits the year-over-year rate increase. By the end of 2023 the overpayment balance is completely depleted.

4.2 Adjusted Debt Schedule and Interest Costs

The fact that ratepayers paid the status quo costs from 2005 through 2016, and the overpayment balance will be used to provide deeper reductions in eligible consumer costs between 2017 and 2022 changes the debt schedule and interest costs relative to the fair allocation described earlier in this report.

No incremental debt was accumulated through 2016, because ratepayers paid the status quo costs. From 2017 to 2024, incremental debt will accumulate faster as the overpayment balance is depleted. Over the period where the overpayment balance is depleted, interest costs are carried forward to future years and increase the level of accumulated debt[2]. As illustrated in the figure below, starting in 2025, after the adjustment period, both the accumulated debt and the annual interest payments return to the same level as in the fair allocation described earlier in this report.

Note: Analysis assumes a 4.5% cost of debt.

[2] Accumulating the interest costs during the adjustment periods allows ratepayers to realize the full target reductions under the Fair Hydro Plan.

4.3 Adjusted Fair Allocation Curve

The adjusted fair allocation curve with interest follows the status quo costs through 2016. Starting in 2017, based on the targeted reduction in eligible consumer costs under the Fair Hydro Act, it drops below the unadjusted fair allocation curve with interest. It remains below during the adjustment period until 2025 when the overpayment balance is depleted and the accumulated debt and annual interest costs return to unadjusted levels.

From 2025 onwards the levels of accumulated debt are consistent with the reallocation described earlier in this report and the interest costs are passed through annually to ratepayers. As a result, from 2025 onwards the actual adjusted fair allocation curve with interest is the same as the unadjusted fair allocation curve. This is illustrated in the figure below.

4.4 Net Reduction in Consumer Costs

The difference between the status quo costs and the fair allocation curve with the adjustment period and interest costs represents the annual net reduction (positive) and increase (negative) in eligible consumer costs and is illustrated in the figure below.

1. OVERVIEW

Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP (Blakes) retained Navigant Consulting Ltd. (Navigant), for purposes of informing legal advice from Blakes to the Ontario Ministry of Energy, to determine the feasibility of operating clean energy assets past the original power purchase agreement term and the associated costs. The analysis considered a subset of clean energy assets, namely natural gas, wind, and solar electricity generation facilities under contract with Ontario's Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO).

Two primary questions are addressed in this report.

1) What is the technical feasibility of operating clean energy assets beyond the original twenty-year power purchase agreement term?
2) What are the costs of operating the clean energy assets over their useful life, considering prudent maintenance and repowering expenditures, which would be borne by ratepayers after the twenty-year power purchase agreement term?

Ontario's natural gas-fired electricity generating facilities are expected to operate for 40 years with prudent maintenance and capital expenditure. Ontario's wind and solar electricity generating facilities are expected to operate for 25 years, or 50 years provided they undergo a major repowering (or refurbishment) in and around year 25.

The second question determines the costs, in addition to the payments under the original power purchase agreements that would be borne by Ontario ratepayers if the clean energy assets operated over their entire useful life. These costs cover on-going operations and maintenance, as well as repowering and/or major maintenance as required. A table of important technology assumptions is provided in Table 1-1.

Table 1-1 Clean Energy Asset Technology Assumptions

2. TECHNICAL FEASIBILITY OF LIFETIME EXTENSION FOR CLEAN ENERGY ASSETS

This section outlines the assumptions and research underlying the expected lifetimes for the clean energy analysis. It is broken into three subsections, exploring (1) standard practice and experience when planning and designing clean energy assets, (2) the state of the Ontario fleet, and (3) leasing, regulatory, and contract issues associated with lifetime extension. Each of these subsections is further divided between natural gas, wind, and solar assets. The expected lifetimes were formulated using a combination of interviews, literature review, and consulting publicly available and Navigant proprietary databases.

Overall, no significant leasing, regulatory, or contract issues were identified which would limit lifetime extension. Navigant ultimately identified a useful life of forty years for the natural gas assets (with partial repowering in some cases), and a useful life of twenty-five years for solar and wind assets (with another twenty-five years possible after full repowering), after investigating the design and component failure rates and replacement costs for these asset classes.

2.1 Planning and Design Experience

2.1.1 Natural Gas

Power stations utilizing natural gas are most frequently developed assuming a twenty-year life of the plant design, which is often dictated by the terms of commercial contracts. The actual plant life, however, can exceed forty years if the operator follows prudent operations and maintenance (O&M) practices and the recommend repair and replacement intervals for combustion turbine hot section components and balance of plant equipment.

Most recently constructed natural gas power stations in Ontario (and throughout North America) utilize combustion turbines as the prime mover, either in simple cycle or combined cycle configuration. In simple cycle configuration, the combustion turbine directly drives a generator, requiring relatively fewer pieces of equipment, which lowers the cost per kilowatt (kW) of capacity. In combined cycle configuration, the exhaust heat from the combustion turbine is recovered in a heat recovery steam generator which produces steam to drive a steam turbine generator. This maximizes efficiency of the energy conversion of natural gas to electricity, but at a higher installed capacity cost than simple cycle configuration. In addition, some plants in Ontario were designed for co-generation, where a percentage of the steam produced in the combined cycle application is delivered and used in non-electric processes.

The three types of units discussed above, simple cycle, combined cycle and co-generation, have different design parameters. The simple cycle units are fast-starting units that are designed for peaking applications to either stabilize the electrical grid with ancillary services, or to provide energy to the grid during times of high demand. Simple cycle units are typically designed for a low number of starts, less than fifty per year and are generally operated by a small operations staff.

There are 29 combustion turbines at the 16 gas-fired power stations in Ontario, of which the units at thirteen were included in the model analysis (the remainder were in service prior to 2005, the analysis start year). Twenty-six of Ontario's combustion turbines are heavy frame type units and three are aero derivative units. The frame turbines include the Frame 7 series manufactured by General Electric (GE), the 501F/G series manufactured by Siemens/Mitsubishi Heavy Industries (MHI), and the GT11 series manufactured by Alstom. The three aero derivative turbines are all versions of the LM6000 turbine

Source: SNL, ABB Energy Velocity, and Navigant Analysis

The major maintenance and combustion turbine parts purchases are covered under long-term service agreements or contractual service agreements with the original equipment manufacturer. These agreements are very specific and require that the combustion turbines be stopped and maintenance be conducted at the required intervals specified by the manufactures.

Combined cycle units were initially envisioned in the early 1990's as baseload power stations, however over time they changed to mid-merit units that assume load when renewable generation drops off and during periods of high demand. Though slower to start than simple cycle units, combined cycle units can still be brought online quickly to provide larger amounts of energy to the grid than simple cycle units. Given the mid-merit dispatch of these units, combined cycle units are typically designed to start between 150-250 times per year.

Co-generation units are highly efficient and either deliver part of the steam from the heat recovery steam generator to a steam host, or in the case of combined heat and power units, use the steam to generate hot water or cold water for various heating and/or cooling applications. Co-generation units are typically designed for baseload operations (less than 10 starts per year) to serve the steam host, and can meet the steam demand while fluctuating the amount of power generated.

Over the last 15 years the rate of natural gas fired power station development has increased due to lower natural gas prices, environmental regulations (including $CO_2$ reduction mandates), and the increasing value of flexibility for renewable generation firming. With the growing penetration of renewable energy sources in the Ontario market Navigant has observed that natural gas stations have shifted from principally being dispatched during the day time to cover peak loads to being principally dispatched to firm renewable energy and maintain reliability during periods when wind and solar power plants drop off.

As units reach the end of their power purchase agreements (usually 20 years), they have many lifetime extension options available. As mentioned, combustion turbines can operate for 40 years if proper operations and maintenance practices have been followed. Most combustion turbines have a major inspection that is required on the turbine rotors at either 200,000 factored fired hours/equivalent base hours or 5000 factored starts. The rotor is pulled, disassembled, and inspected to determine if there has been damage to the turbine wheels; when this is complete the rotors are reassembled and can be certified for another 100,000 hours of operations. Given the dispatch regime of units analysed, most the units did not reach this milestone during the first 20 years of operation, and some units did not require it over a forty-year operating life. The heat recovery steam generators can also be operated for more than 20 years with proper repairs and replacement of components in the heat affected zones, the super-heater sections, and high flow rate areas such as the economizer. Steam turbines and generators also have expected lives of at least 40 years if the proper maintenance and inspections are conducted at the recommended intervals.

Given the concurrent expected life of 40 years for combustion turbines, steam turbines, and generators Navigant believes a general expected life of 40 years for natural gas plants is appropriate. Section 2.1.4.1 discusses in more detail current state of Ontario's natural gas fleet to determine if the general expected life is a reasonable assumption.

2.1.2 Wind

Until recently, wind plants were generally built with an expected operational life of 20 years. Today, many wind project developers have increased the expected operational life to 25 or even 30 years. This increase in the expected operational life of wind plants is reflective of reliability improvements in key components such as gearboxes, and that repairs and replacements to components can extend longevity of a wind plant.

The lifetime expectancy of individual components within a wind plant vary widely. The towers are mostly steel and last 50 to 100 years. The foundations and cables have similar lifetimes. The gearboxes generally last 5 to 7 years and therefore are replaced twice on average over a 20 year period. Lastly, blades generally last 10 to 12 years and therefore are replaced once on average over a 20 year period.

Furthermore, the accuracy of wind plant forecasts has improved over time. In the early years of the industry, plants consistently underperformed compared to forecasts of availability, reliability, and cost. More recently, cost and reliability forecasts have become more accurate due to technology advancements in manufacturing and operation of wind turbine components as well as the wealth of industry experience that is now available for forecasting purposes.

Most wind plants have decommissioning plans in place, as required either by lenders or leaseholder agreements. These plans generally call for complete removal of the equipment and reclamation of the land for a suitable use. However, most owners expect that the wind turbines will be either be refurbished (replaced with similar components) or fully repowered (replaced with larger components) at least once prior to the ultimate removal of equipment.

Given that core equipment components are likely to be replaced at least once during the first 20-years of operation of a facility and that typical planning and investment decisions are based on an assumed 25-year operation life, Navigant believes the general expected useful life for a wind facility is 25 years. Section 2.1.4.2 discusses in more detail current state of Ontario's wind resources to determine if the general expected life is a reasonable assumption.

2.1.3 Solar

Solar facilities in Ontario have 20-year power purchase agreements, obtained through either the renewable energy standard offer program (RESOP), feed-in-tariff (FIT) or large renewable procurement (LRP) programs. Twenty-year power purchase agreement terms are typical in the US and other markets, although some can be for less than 20 years.

Several public and private tools have become available to forecast production over the lifetime of a solar asset. Performance of solar facilities relies on key inputs such as system capacity, configuration (fixed tilt vs. single-axis or dual-axis tracker technology) and location. These forecasting models also account for losses due to shading and snow, as well as DC/AC losses. Over time, these models have become more sophisticated and more accurate, resulting in generation experience being consistent with planning assumptions.

As photovoltaic module technology progresses, the technical lifespan of panels has increased from 20 to 25 years, and even 30 years for more advanced models. The lifespan of other components has improved at a slower rate. Ground-mount racking is typically constructed of galvanized steel and aluminium with a 20-year warranty from the manufacturer. Standard warranties for inverters are typically 10 years in duration (an increase from the historical 5 years) with extended options available at extra cost. The technical lifetime for system wiring is typically 12 years. Therefore, inverters and wiring are replaced at least once on average over a 20-year lifetime.

Today, many solar project developers have increased the expected operational life to 25 years for planning and investment decisions. Decommissioning usually doesn't include equipment reuse, as the second set of inverters and wiring would be near end of life and panel technology is advancing quickly enough that it would likely not be reused either.

Given that core equipment components, such as inverters and wiring, are likely to be replaced at least once during the first 20-years of operation of a facility, and that the expected lifespan of the panels has increased along with the typical expected operational life for planning and investment decisions to 25-years, Navigant believed the general expected useful life for a solar facility is 25 years. Section 2.1.4.3 discusses in more detail current state of Ontario's solar fleet to determine if the general expected life is a reasonable assumption.

2.1.4 Current State of Operating Fleet

2.1.4.1 Natural Gas

A total of 16 natural gas-fired power plants located in Ontario were evaluated with a total installed capacity of 7,291 MW. Of these, 13 plants were considered in this analysis as the remainder of the natural gas fired plants were in service prior to 2005. Most plants were combined cycle but some were also co-generation or simple cycle. The plants had installed capacities ranging from 73 MW to 1,005 MW, with the average installed capacity being 456 MW. The distribution of the natural gas-fired power plants by installed capacity can be seen in Figure 2-2 below.

The average age of the gas-fired plants was nine years, with the oldest being the Cardinal Power Plant which is 23 years old and the newest being the Nappanee Generating Station which is under construction with a milestone commercial operation date of December 2018. Most plants have been in service for under 10 years, as shown in Figure 2-3 below.

The net capacity factors for the different type of gas-fired power plants in Ontario have trended downward. Combined cycle units achieved a peak capacity factor in 2007, when there were only two units in commercial operation, of 52%. As more units came online after 2008 the net capacity factor dropped to the mid 20% range and rose through 2012 to 34%. Since 2012, however, the net capacity factor has shown a downward trend as demonstrated in Figure 2-4. Capacity factors have declined in recent years due to renewable builds, the return of some nuclear generating stations to service, low provincial load growth, and reduced power prices in neighbouring jurisdictions. These factors have been partially offset by the retirement of Ontario's coal fleet, but reduced capacity factors in the later years of those stations limited the upside for the natural gas-fired fleet.

Cogeneration units have also shown a similar trend in capacity factors. From 2004 through 2012, the capacity factor was almost flat at around 50%; however, since 2012, the net capacity factor has shown a steep decline to 9% in 2016 as shown in Figure 2-5 below.

The single simple cycle power station, York Energy Centre, which came on line in 2012 has shown a steady downward trend from 4% in 2012 to 1% in 2016 as demonstrated in Figure 2-6.

Source: ABB Energy Velocity

Given the relatively low utilization of the Ontario gas fleet as measured by capacity factor, starts, and hours of operation, Navigant estimates that the plants have a dependable life of 40 years, with a few plants requiring a major rotor replacement, mostly past year 25, over the 40-year life.

2.1.4.2 Wind

The following is a profile of the wind fleet in Ontario as of year-end 2016.

- Number of Plants and MW. There were 656 wind plants in operation in Ontario with a total capacity of 4,751 MW.
- Size Distribution. As shown on the left side of Figure 2-7 below, the most common wind plant size in Ontario is 81-100 MW, with 27% of wind plants, followed by the 21-40 MW segment with 14% of wind plants. On a MW capacity basis, the right side of Figure 2-7 below shows that the >200 MW is the largest segment with 21% of total MW, followed by the 101-150 MW segment with 19% of total MW.

- Age Distribution. As shown on the left side of Figure 2-8 below, 2015 saw the highest amount of new wind capacity, when 1,250 MW of capacity was brought online. Fifteen plants with 557 wind turbine generators were started up in Ontario in 2015.
- Location. As shown on the right side of Figure 2-8 below, the West and Southwest zones (as defined by Ontario's Independent Electricity System Operator) had the most wind power capacity, with 29% and 27% of installations, respectively.

- Wind Turbine OEM Market Share. As shown on the left side of Figure 2-9 below, the winter turbine generator market in Ontario is relatively concentrated, with 74% of the market controlled by the top 4 suppliers: Siemens (37%), GE (23%), Vestas (10%), and Enercon (4%).
- Wind Plant Owner Market Share. As shown on the right side of Figure 2-9 below, the wind plant ownership market in Ontario is relatively dispersed, with only 53% of the market controlled by the top 10 owners. The leading owners are TransAlta Utilities (12%), NextEra Energy (11%), and Pattern Energy (10%).

- Net Capacity Factor. As shown on the left side of Figure 2-10 below, the average net capacity factor for wind plants in Ontario was 29% in 2016. This value is slightly lower than the 2012 peak of 36% but considerably higher than the 2006 average of 17%. The slight reduciton since 2012 may be due to lower winds, increased curtailment due to transmission constraints, or the impact of a few smaller plants with lower net capacity factors starting up in 2014.

  The right side of Figure 2-10 below shows average 2016 net capacity factors for wind plants in Ontario by vintage (commercial operation year). The trend is generally upwards, meaning that newer wind plants generally have higher net capacity factors compared to their older counterparts. The average 2016 net capacity factors for plants that started up in 2016 was 37%, considerably higher than any other vintage.

Source: ABB Energy Velocity

- Plant Condition and Operations and Maintenance Practices. Wind plants in North America typically have winter turbine generator warranties in place for the first two to five years of operation. During the warranty period maintenance is typically performed by the wind turbine generator vendor. When maintenance is performed by an operator other than the original equipment manufacturer, the operator will follow the original equipment manufacturer's maintenance practices as required to maintain the warranty. Most wind plants are therefore usually in excellent condition for the first two to five years of operation regardless of the operator. Two-thirds of the Ontario fleet have been in operation five years or less, so the average Ontario wind plant is generally in very good condition.

Given the age, operating condition, and general maintenance practices at most of Ontario's wind fleet, Navigant estimates that the plants have a dependable life of 25 years.

2.1.4.3 Solar

The following is the profile of Ontario's solar fleet as of year-end 2016 (of systems 10 MW or greater):

- Number of Plants and MW. There were a total of 75 solar ground-mounted systems (10 MW or greater) in operation in Ontario with a total capacity of 1,010 MW.
- Age Distribution. The left side of Figure 2-11 below shows the introduction of solar capacity over time starting in 2012. The year 2014 saw the highest capacity and number of installations. The average age of the fleet is 3.3 years.

- Size Distribution. As shown in the right side of Figure 2-11 below, the most common solar system size in Ontario is 10 MW, which was the cap for projects under the Feed-in Tariff program, except for the Samsung projects which are 100 MWs in size, and some of the Large Renewable Procurement projects.

- Location. The number of installations are presented on the left side of Figure 2-12 below, and the total capacity on the right distributed across the transmission zones (as defined by Ontario's Independent Electricity System Operator). As shown in Figure 2-12 below, 45% of the operating solar systems in Ontario are in the East zone, which hosts 42% of the installed capacity. This large share is driven by available land, available transmission capacity and proximity to the load centres. Only 5% of operating solar systems are in the Southwest zone, but that represents 17% of the installed capacity due to larger system sizes in that region.

- Photovoltaic Module Supplier Market Share. As shown on the left side of Figure 2-13 below, the module market in Ontario is relatively concentrated, with 54% of the market controlled by the top supplier, Canadian Solar. 22% percent of the market has SunEdison panels (SunEdison filed for bankruptcy protection in the US in April 2016 and the company's Canadian unit filed for bankruptcy in October 2016). Other suppliers include Celestica (which is shutting down their solar manufacturing division in 2017), Suntech Power, Hanwha, and Photowatt.
- Solar System Owner Market Share. The right side of Figure 2-13 below shows the 10 owners with the highest solar operating capacity in Ontario. Samsung owns the largest portion of the operating fleet at 23%. Northland Power and Axium Infrastructure own the second and third largest in terms of capacity respectively.

Source: SNL, ABB Energy Velocity, Navigant Analysis

- Net Capacity Factor. The average net capacity factor of the operating solar fleet in Ontario according to data from Ontario's Independent Elctricity System Operator is 16.3% (based on MW-AC). The relatively high capacity factor in the past three years is due to a higher overbuild ratio (on the range of 20% to 40%, the latter in more recent years), driven by the drop in panel prices. The capacity factor for new solar installations can be increased via higher DC-AC oversizing or introduction of axis tracker technology.

| Year | Capacity Factor (based on MW-AC) |
| 2014 | 15.4% |
| 2015 | 17.4% |
| 2016 | 16.0% |
| Average | 16.3% |

Source: IESO

- System Condition. As most operating systems are under five years old, key components have not experienced much degradation, if any at all.
- Operations and Maintenance Practices. Preventative and reactive maintenance for ground-mounted solar systems usually includes panel cleaning, snow removal, lawn mowing and periodic verification of wiring and support integrity. Operations and maintenance costs are only projected to increase with escalation in labour and other material costs. Inverter replacement requires additional costs and is usually offered by the inverter manufacturer. Standard warranties are five to 10 years, with options to purchase extended warranties upfront (e.g., 20-year extended warranty).

Some companies that provide operations and maintenance services for utility-scale solar systems in Ontario include SMA, First Solar, Inc., SunEdison, NextEra Energy Canada ULC, SunPower, Canadian Solar, Inc., Enfinity, Northland Power, Inc., and EDF Renewable Energy, Inc.

Given the age, operating conditions, and standard maintenance practices of most of Ontario's existing solar fleet, Navigant estimates that the solar assets have a dependable life of 25 years.

2.1.5 Component Failure Rates and Operating Life

2.1.5.1 Natural Gas

The generation performance and failure rate data of natural gas-fired plants is not publicly available and is generally held confidential by plant owners. It is reasonable to assume that performance and failure rates for Ontario plants will be like those of plants in Navigant's Generation Knowledge Services (GKS) database. The GKS database contains a broad and growing user and unit mix and currently has over 2,400 generating units representing over 527 GW of capacity, of which over 135 GW consists of simple cycle combustion turbines and combined cycle combustion turbine units.

The following metrics were used in evaluating the Equivalent Availability Factor (EAF) and Equivalent Forced Outage Rate (EFOR), which are reasonable estimates of the performance of Ontario's gas fleet:

EAF = Equivalent Availability Factor
AH = Available Hours
EUNDH = Equivalent Unit Derated Hours
ESDH = Equivalent Seasonal Derated Hours
PH = Period Hours

$$EFOR = \left( \frac{FOH + EFDH}{SH + FOH + ERSFDH} \right) \times 100$$

EFOR = Equivalent Forced Outage Rate
FOH = Forced Outage Hours

EFDH = Equivalent Forced Derated Hours
SH = Service Hours
FOH = Forced Outage Hours
ERSFDH = Equivalent Reserve Shutdown Forced Derated Hours

Based on the operating data for the Ontario gas-fired fleet, a peer group was developed that would be representative of the Ontario units, which was combined cycle units that were between 150 and 1,000 MW with a net capacity factor of between 10 to 40%. From that database, the median for units were as listed in Table 2-2 below.

Table 2-2 NCF, EAF and EFOR for Ontario Wind Fleet

| | NCF | EAF | EFOR |

Source: Navigant

The largest contributor to the EFOR rate was the steam turbine, which caused 11,688 forced outage hours, followed by the combustion turbines with 6,243 hours and the balance of plant (BOP) with 4291 hours. The combustion turbines and BOP contributed to a larger number of events, however (these tended to be of shorter duration than steam turbine events). This is demonstrated in Table 2-3 below.

Table 2-3 Breakdown of EFOR for Ontario Gas Fleet

| Component | Total Hours | Percentage | Total Number of Events | Percentage |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Boiler | 758 | 3% | 74 | 9% |
| Steam Generator | 11,688 | 47% | 142 | 17% |
| Generator | 944 | 4% | 53 | 6% |
| Balance of Plant | 4,291 | 17% | 194 | 23% |
| Combustion Turbine | 6,243 | 25% | 284 | 33% |
| Other | 1,179 | 5% | 110 | 13% |

Source: Navigant

The highest number of steam turbine forced outage hours were due to events on the low-pressure turbine at 5,742 hours and the high-pressure turbine at 1,197 hours. This is due to the time required for system cool down and to remove and reinstall casings. The control system had the largest number of events (49) but only contributed to a few forced outage hours (256), as control system issues are normally very fast to resolve. A summary of the causes of forced outages due to the steam turbine is provided in Table 2-4.

Table 2-4 Breakdown of EFOR for Ontario Steam Turbines

| Steam Turbine | Total Hours | Percentage | Total Number of Events | Percentage |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| High Pressure Turbine | 1,197 | 14% | 10 | 7% |
| Low Pressure Turbine | 5,742 | 69% | 21 | 15% |
| Valves | 50 | 1% | 24 | 17% |
| Lube Oil | 8 | 0% | 8 | 6% |
| Controls | 256 | 3% | 49 | 35% |
| Miscellaneous (Steam Turbine) | 1,012 | 12% | 29 | 21% |

Source: Navigant

The combustion turbine outages were driven by issues with the fuel and combustion system (2,634 hours over 120 events), as demonstrated in Table 2-5 below. This was principally due to dry low NOx combustion system issues and component failures.

Table 2-5 Breakdown of EFOR for Ontario Combustion Turbines

| Combustion Turbine Component | Total Hours | Percentage | Total Number of Events | Percentage |
| Inlet Air System and Compressors | 1,907 | 31% | 27 | 11% |
| Fuel, Ignition and Combustion System | 2,634 | 42% | 120 | 49% |
| Turbine | 426 | 7% | 12 | 5% |
| Exhaust System | 65 | 1% | 16 | 7% |
| Auxiliary | 152 | 2% | 1 | 0% |
| Miscellaneous (Gas Turbine) | 1,019 | 16% | 69 | 28% |

Source: Navigant

Balance of plant issues contributed to 17% of the total outage hours. The largest number were caused by issues with the electrical system (2,068 hours over 55 events). Issues with the condensate system and feed water systems were also important as shown in Table 2-6 below.

Table 2-6 Breakdown of Balance of Plant EFOR for Ontario Gas Fleet

| Balance of Plant | Hours | Percentage | Events | Percentage |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Condensing System | 418 | 10% | 29 | 15% |
| Circulating Water System | 43 | 1% | 5 | 3% |
| Condensate System | 953 | 22% | 18 | 9% |
| Feedwater System | 554 | 13% | 45 | 23% |
| Electrical | 2,068 | 48% | 55 | 28% |
| Auxiliary System | 171 | 4% | 21 | 11% |
| Miscellaneous (Balance of Plant) | 84 | 2% | 21 | 11% |

Source: Navigant

The heat recovery boilers and generators only accounted for a total of 7% of all outage hours with the generator accounting for 944 outage hours and the boiler accounted for 758 hours. The largest driver on the heat recovery boiler was tube leaks, while the generator was driven by a combination of cooling system and exciter issues.

While component failure rates increase with the age and use of natural gas plants, and heat rate degradation will tend to make the plants less completive in energy markets over time, plants following the proper maintenance and replacement regimes as outlined in section 2.1.1 should be able to continue operating over their forty-year expected life with acceptable outage rates.

2.1.5.2 Wind

Wind plant performance and failure rate data is not publicly available and is generally held confidential by plant owners. However, it is reasonable to assume that Ontario wind plants will have performance and failure rates similar to those of wind plants in Navigant's Generation Knowledge Service (GKS) wind database (Ontario has a slightly newer fleet, and fewer mid-size plants than the GKS averages, but they are similar overall). The GKS wind database includes data from approximately 8 GW of capacity from a variety of turbine models, plant sizes, ages, and operations and maintenance contract types. The vast majority, 95%, of the MW capacity in Navigant's GKS database is in North America. Figure 2-14 shows the database distribution by plant size and age, which is similar to the size and age distribution of Ontario's wind fleet.

Source: Navigant GKS Wind Database

The following are median values of selected performance metrics in the GKS wind database, which are reasonable estimates of performance of the Ontario wind fleet:

- Availability. The most common measure of availability used in the wind industry is equipment equivalent availability factor (EEAF). EEAF does not penalize the plant for hours when there is no wind. Median EEAF = 95.6%.

$$EEAF = \frac{[PDTH - (FTH + MTH + PTH)]}{PDTH} \times 100$$

  - PDTH = Period Turbine-Hours = (total hours in the period) *(number of turbines)
  - FTH = Forced Turbine-Hours = (forced outage hours per turbine) *(number of turbines)
  - MTH = Maintenance Turbine-Hours = (maintenance outage hours per turbine) *(number of turbines)
  - PTH = Planned Turbine-Hours = (planned outage hours per turbine) *(number of turbines)

- Forced Outage Rate. The most common measure of forced outage rate used in the wind industry is equipment equivalent forced outage rate (EEFOR). Median EEFOR = 2.7%.

$$EEFOR = \frac{FTH}{(CTH + FTH + RUTH)} \times 100$$

  - CTH = Contact Turbine-Hours
  - RUTH = Resource Unavailable Turbine-Hours

- Major Failures. Navigant defines major failures as events which either (a) require a crane to repair or replace a system or (b) require the replacement of a major component within a system, resulting in a cost greater than 5% of the installed cost of the turbine. Table 2-7 below is a summary of average major failure rates in the GKS wind database, both for the most recent benchmark year (2015) and the cumulative rate for the life of the plant. Also, shown in the far-right column of Table 2-7 below are industry average failure rates as reported in a 2013 United States National Renewable Energy Laboratory (NREL) study.[1]

- 2015 Major Failure Rate = (# of Major Failures in 2015) / (# units)
- Cumulative Major Failure Rate = (# of Major Failures through 2015) / (# units) / (years since COD)

Table 2-7 Major Failure Rates by System

| System | 2015 Major Failure Rate | Cumulative Major Failure Rate | Industry Average Failure Rate |
|---|---|---|---|
| Blade | 0.2% | 0.5% | 0.67% |
| Gearbox | 1.1% | 1.3% | 5.0% |
| Generator | 2.1% | 2.1% | 3.5% |
| Main Bearing | 0.6% | 0.5% | 2.0% |
| Generator Bearing | 0.3% | 0.4% | n/a |
| Transformer | 0.1% | 0.04% | n/a |

Source: Navigant GKS Wind Database, NREL

While component failure rates do increase with age, the plants continue to maintain acceptable operating profiles over the course of their identified useful life (albeit with capacity factor degradation and operations and maintenance cost escalation). Beyond the identified useful life, the plants would see accelerated component failures which eventually make continued operation untenable (see section 3.1.1.2).

2.1.5.3 Solar

The operating life of solar systems is usually monitored by the system owner. In the solar industry, the rate at which the system is fully functioning (and available to generate power) expressed as a function of the total time considered, is referred to as the availability rate. For solar, the availability rate is relatively high, approximately 98% to 99%[2], compared to other technologies. This is because components are connected in strings, meaning that should something fail, only a single string or portion of the system will experience an outage, while the rest of the system continues to generate power. It is unlikely for all to fail at once.

- Panels most often experience an outage or failure due to coverage (snow, soiling, or other shading) or a wiring fault. However, the way panels are connected electrically, when one stops generating power, the others continue.
- Inverters for utility-scale systems are usually 1 MW. For a 10 MW system, the typical design is ten (10) 1 MW inverters. This means that if an inverter fails, only one-tenth of the system would power down. Inverters typically last 10-12 years, but it is possible that an outage can occur sooner than that.
- Racking systems are typically tested and rated to handle expected snow and wind loads plus a factor of safety. Therefore, the warranty from the manufacturer covers damage from these occurrences. Should the structural integrity of the racking system be compromised, it is again likely that only the module(s) related to one string would need to be taken offline to repair, not the whole solar system.

[1] NREL, Lantz, E., Operations Expenditures: Historical Trends and Continuing Challenges, 2013

[2] DBRS reported that the independent engineer for the 100 MW (AC) Kingston Solar project assumed inverter availability of 99%.

- Wiring is required to be protected up to codes and standards to limit the potential for damages.

Overall, it is unlikely that the component failure rates would cause an unacceptable operating profile for the solar fleet over a 25-year operating lifespan.

2.2 Leasing, Regulatory, and Contract Issues

2.2.1 Leasing Structure

When constructing a natural gas-fired power station it is typical for the owner to purchase the land that is used for the site. All the natural gas-fired plant owners that Navigant could interview owned the site land; therefore, no leasing issues were identified that would adversely impact the expected useful life of 40 years.

The terms of land leases for wind plants vary. The minimum length is 20 years, but up to 50 year leases are not unusual. In most cases, there will be an option for the plant owners to extend the lease for an additional 15 years or more. Leases are contracts between the plant owners and landowners, and they are generally written to be more favourable to the plant owners. For example, plant owners can typically construct, erect, use, install, reinstall, replace, relocate, maintain, and remove equipment from time to time, without limitation. No approvals to modify or extend leases are needed by local jurisdictions, community, or aboriginal partners, unless they have such approval rights due to having partial ownership in the wind plant. Navigant did not identify any leasing issues that would adversely impact the expected useful life of 25 years for wind assets or any further investments to extend asset life beyond 25 years.

Most solar farms larger than 10 MW are sited on farmland and have a minimum 20-year lease. Some may go as high as 50 years and/or there might be options to extend the lease. Counterparties include private landowners, First Nations, and municipalities. Leases usually have two cost components as follows: (1) a fixed component and (2) a variable component where the variable component is equal to a percentage of revenue generated from the asset (e.g., 3%). No leases require third party approvals such as local jurisdictions, community, or aboriginal partners, unless those parties are partial owners in the project. Navigant did not identify any leasing issues that would adversely impact the expected useful life of 25 years for solar assets or any further investments to extend life beyond 25 years.

2.2.2 Regulatory Issues

No regulatory issues were identified that would adversely impact the expected useful life of natural gas, wind and solar plants of 40 years, 25 years and 25 years respectively.

For partial repowering of wind plants (replacing the drive train and rotor with similar size components), regulatory approvals would generally not be required. The noise profile of the new turbine will generally be less (quieter) than the original turbine and therefore would not need to be remodelled. The rotor diameter will typically be the same as the original in a partial repowering, so a revised permit for increased tip height generally will not be needed. One wind plant owner reported having a permit from the municipality that includes a road allowance for the distribution lines. The city can impose reasonable conditions but cannot generally deny an extension of the permit.

Regulatory approvals would likely be required for full repowering of wind plants (replacing the turbines with larger components). Existing building and operating permits would generally not cover the significant construction work and changes in plant configuration that is associated with full repowering. However, repowering could offer the possibility for expedited permitting because development is occurring at a previously permitted site and these sites have a much longer record of accomplishment of historical environmental data. Existing plants also tend to have increased local familiarity, which might also facilitate the permitting process. On the other hand, if endangered species are found to be in the proximity or other environmental damage has occurred, permitting would likely be more complex and drawn out, or local siting requirements may become more stringent over time.

While some regulatory approvals are required to repower wind assets to extend their life beyond 25 years, Navigant does not believe that they pose insurmountable risks to such investments. Navigant did not identify any regulatory issues that would adversely impact repowering for natural gas and solar plants to extend their useful life beyond 40 years and 25 years respectively.

3. COST OF LIFETIME EXTENSION AND REPOWERING

This section outlines the costs of lifetime extension that would be borne by ratepayers. After considering the various options available, Navigant determined that a full repowering of the wind and solar fleet after 25 years of operation, and partial repowering as needed for the natural gas fleet as the most cost-effective repowering options.

3.1 Repowering and Extension Options

3.1.1 Life Cycle of Plants under Normal Operations and Maintenance

3.1.1.1 Natural Gas

As discussed previously, a combustion turbine power plant can operate for at least 40 years if the owner follows prudent operating practices and recommended outage schedules for the combustion turbine, generator, steam turbine and heat recovery boiler. In general, the operations and maintenance for natural gas-fired plants will increase with the escalation terms within the service contracts for the associated equipment.

Combustion turbine outages are driven by the hot section and combustion components. Manufactures have improved this technology so outages are now not required until either 24,000 factored fired hours or 900 factored starts are reached. When the hot section components are removed, they can be repaired from two to four times depending on the component and the manufacture's recommendations.

Electrical generators and steam turbines are generally linked to scheduled inspection intervals of six years or 48,000 operating hours. Following best practices, owners and operators have managed to extend those intervals to between 10-12 years or 80,000 to 96,000 operating hours.

Heat recovery steam generators with proper maintenance have operated for 15-20 years without major capex being spent. Replacement parts are most commonly needed in the heat-affected zones of the super-heaters or the high flow areas of the economizers.

Maintenance spending increases with the number of starts of a combined cycle power plant. As discussed earlier, units are now designed for 150-250 starts per year. This spending is normally associated with balance of plant equipment and does not materially impact the overall cost of operations.

Depending on the operating profile of the facility, reliable operations after 20 years would most likely require capital expenditures for the heat recovery steam generators, electrical generators, steam turbines and combustion turbines. If no investments are made it would be expected that the units would suffer from forced outages and decreased availability.

Section 3.1.2.1 discusses the repowering costs associated with natural gas plants and evaluates them against their benefits to determine the most cost effective option at the end of life.

3.1.1.2 Wind

As previously discussed, the physical lifetime of a wind plant is generally considered to be 25 years. Historically an assumption of 20 years was used in analyses to match the financial life, but an increasing number of plant owners are using 25 years due to technological advancements that have led to improvements in plant reliability and longevity.

If a wind plant were to continue to be operated beyond the physical lifetime without significant investment, operations and maintenance costs would increase at an accelerated rate and availability would drop at an accelerated rate as wind plants generally have a capacity factor degradation of about 1.6% per year making this option less attractive financially. Ultimately the plant owners will conclude that operating the plant as is has less value than other options such as full repowering, partial repowering, and decommissioning, which are discussed further in Section 3.1.2.2.

3.1.1.3 Solar

As previously discussed, the physical lifetime of a ground-mounted solar photovoltaic system is 25 years. The modules and racking typically come with 10-year product warranty (defects in materials and workmanship) and a 25-year performance warranty. Inverters typically have a 10-year product warranty and last 10-12 years. Wiring typically lasts 10-12 years. Therefore, inverters and wiring would need to be replaced at least once on average over a 25-year lifetime.

If a solar system was to continue to be operated beyond the physical lifetime without significant investment, operations and maintenance costs would remain the same, only increasing with inflation and the price of any material costs involved in maintenance. Replacement of inverters and wiring are separate from general operations and maintenance and would require minimal investment. Inverters do typically fail after year 10 so most installers opt into an extended warranty where available, which is an upfront cost at the time of installation. With the standard warranty the cost of the inverter would just be incurred later, at the time of the replacement.

Photovoltaic modules, and therefore, systems, are projected to degrade by 0.5% each year, which is usually how the capacity factor and system performance is forecasted at the time of installation. The capacity factor of the system can be determined based on the number of years since the components were replaced. If a solar system operated beyond the useful life of 25 years, the capacity factor of year 26 would be that much lower than if a whole new system were installed in its place. Section 0 discusses evaluates the costs and benefits associated with options available at the end of life such as full repowering, partial repowering, and decommissioning.

3.1.2 Cost of Repowering for Lifetime Extension

3.1.2.1 Natural Gas

As discussed above the limiting factor on the combustion turbine would be the turbine rotor that requires a major inspection and potential replacement of turbine wheel at 200,000 factored hours or 5,000 factored starts. The rotor must be removed and sent to a qualified repair shop for disassembly, inspection and repair and/or replacement of the rotor disks. In addition, there would likely be requirements for replacement of super-heater or economizer sections of the heat recovery steam generators.

The costs for the turbine life extension would be in the range of CAD$16M for the inspection and repair/replacement of hot section components. The other work required on the heat recovery steam generators would be in the range of CAD$4M.

The balance of plant equipment would normally be covered during the routine maintenance at the facility. This would include the rebuilding or replacement of pumps, including the boiler feed pumps, and the repair and replacement of motors. It would also include the replacement of any catalysts that are required for emissions control. Steam turbines and electrical generators should be able to operate for the life of the plant with routine inspections and maintenance, assuming there are no incidents with the equipment.

The total repowering costs of a natural gas plant is approximately $20M which is a fraction of the cost of shuttering the plant and building a new one to replace the capacity. According the U.S. Energy Information Administration,[3] the cost of a new natural gas combustion turbine is $1,100/kW meaning that a 100 MW plant would cost $110M. Hence, a partial repowering as needed for gas plants is the most cost efficient option when the asset reaches end of life.

3.1.2.2 Wind

Wind plant owners generally have three options when a plant reaches the end of its useful life.

- Full repowering, which is defined as the complete dismantling and replacement of turbine equipment, including the tower and foundation. With full repowering, some of the existing project infrastructure (e.g., roads, buildings, and interconnection equipment) is assumed to be utilized in the new project. There is also the potential to offset repowering costs by recycling or selling the older equipment.
- Partial repowering, which is defined as installing a new similar sized drivetrain and rotor on an existing tower. Some peripheral components, such as the power convertors and electronics, may also be replaced. Partial repowering allows existing wind power projects to be updated with equipment that increases energy production, reduces machine loads, increases grid service capabilities, and improves project reliability.
- Decommissioning, when the plant is fully disassembled and the land is returned to its original use. The equipment is sold for reuse or scrapped.

Repowering (either full or partial) is a major undertaking that requires substantial capital investment and planning, similar to the development of the original facility. The major benefits of repowering are increased plant availability, the return of operations and maintenance costs to normal levels, and an extended plant lifetime. Performance improvements associated with partial repowering are assumed to be less than under full repowering but greater than the original design of the machine.

Navigant's costs of repowering were developed from a case study of a wind plant with the following characteristics of an average wind plant in the current Ontario fleet:

- 40 Siemens 2.3 MW WTGs, with a total plant capacity of 92 MW;
- Commercial Operation Date and Year 1 of operations in 2015;

Three scenarios were considered:

- decommissioning the plant after 25 years of operation in 2040;
- full repowering after 25 years in 2040, followed by decommissioning after an additional 25 years in 2065.

- partial repowering after 25 years in 2040, followed by decommissioning after an additional 25 years in 2065.

Table 3-1 summarizes the key assumptions of the case study. Capital and operations and maintenance cost assumptions are from a 2013 NREL repowering study,[4] escalated to 2017 USD at 2.5% per year and converted to CAD at a rate of 1.35 CAD = 1 USD. All operations and maintenance costs were converted to fixed operations and maintenance for modelling purposes. Fully repowered plants are assumed to have slightly lower (5%) total installed capital costs because of the ability to reuse or repurpose existing equipment. Partial repowering is estimated to result in an approximately 15% lower capital cost because of reusing existing equipment including towers and foundations. In all scenarios, it is assumed that decommissioning cost (occurring in year 26) equals the resale or scrap value of the components (i.e., net zero cost).

Net capacity factor assumptions are based on projections from NREL's 2016 Annual Technology Baseline report, but are benchmarked to average Ontario fleet values from Ontario's Independent Electricity System Operator. Larger rotors and taller towers, along with other technological advancements, have resulted in significant increases in net capacity factors for utility-scale wind plants over the past 15 years. These advancements are expected to continue for the foreseeable future, albeit at a slower pace. Net capacity factors for this case study is assumed to be 37% for full repowering in 2040, which is a 5% improvement over the initial 32% net capacity factor in 2015, reflecting the technological advancements that are expected during this 25-year period. As defined here, partial repowering was estimated to achieve about 50% of the energy production improvements associated with full repowering.

As can be seen from Table 3-1 below, the fixed and variable operations and maintenance costs are the same in all cases. The capital costs for full repowering are slightly lower than the original plant cost and only 12% higher compared to partial repowering but deliver double the energy production improvements compared to partial repowering, as stated in the study. Hence, a full repowering at the end of the original asset life of 25 years is the most cost effective alternative.

3.1.2.3 Solar

Similar to wind assets, three scenarios were considered:

- decommissioning the plant after 25 years of operation,
- full repowering after 25 years, followed by decommissioning after an additional 25 years.
- partial repowering after 25 years, followed by decommissioning after an additional 25 years in 2065.

As mentioned in Section 3.1.1.3, to extend the life cycle of a ground-mounted solar photovoltaic system the major pieces of equipment that would need to be replaced are the inverters and the wiring. These two components have a technical lifetime of 10-12 years and so they are replaced at least once in a 25-year lifetime. The expected operating life after replacement of the inverters and wiring would be another 10-12 years.

Attention should also be paid to the lifetime and replacement cost of the solar photovoltaic modules. Panel technology is improving at a much faster rate than other renewable technologies, such as wind, and other key solar components such as racking and inverters. In parallel, module prices have significantly dropped over the past 10 years and are projected to continue to decrease for the next 10 years. If modules are replaced 25 years from now, they may have a much higher efficiency and much lower costs than what exists today. Replacing panels would extend the life of the system an additional 25 years, or perhaps longer based on the technical lifetime of panels at the time. The capacity factor in Table 3-2 is consistent across the full and partial repowering alternatives. While panel efficiency will continue to increase over time, it will not impact capacity factor (it does impact power density). Capacity factor is increased by using tracker technology, but for this analysis, we assume a constant split between fixed tilt and tracker in both 2017 and 2038. By contrast, wind farms have could increase capacity factor by increasing the hub heights to reach better wind regimes.

Due to technological improvements, the capital cost for a full repowering is about half that of the original plant and could potentially have a useful life that is greater than 25 years making it the most cost effective option.

3.2 Leasing, Regulatory, and Other Costs

The owners of natural gas-fired facilities would have to renegotiate new contracts for repair and replacement of combustion turbine parts. This may result in cost savings as there have been third party entrants into the parts supply and repair markets.

Leasing, regulatory, and other development costs are low relative to the total capital expenditures associated with modern wind facilities. These costs are generally assumed to be the same as those required for a greenfield development wind project.

Since the technical lifespan of solar photovoltaic systems, specifically the modules, is expected to exceed a 20-year power purchase agreement, some owners expect the system to run for an additional 5-10 years beyond the PPA and original lease. However, plans to extend the land lease are typically not put in place until closer to the end of the power purchase agreement term, as refinancing the lease early could result in penalties.

At the time of the installation of a solar system, there is usually a budget set aside for decommissioning. If the system were to be decommissioned later than originally intended, there would be no extra costs, and the original budget should cover decommission at year 25 or 30.

In summary, no significant costs for leasing, regulatory or other developmental costs were identified that would adversely impact repowering decisions.

Subject: Meeting tomorrow

Hi all,

A while back we dropped the idea of having the LDCs take on the responsibility of a long-term payable due to the Province because the amount collected from the LDCs will be dependent on future rates and future energy consumption.

I've been asked to think about whether this option would work if we chose a percentage of the amount to be due from the LDCs that is reflective of the "minimum known amount".

Example:

GA = 100
Amount to be deferred from the ratepayers bills = 30

Could a structure be set up so the LDCs agree to a longterm payable of a percentage of the 30 – 50% would be 15, 75% would be 22.5, etc. We would have to understand the potential for volatility in price and consumption.

This structure would be in place of a new separate stand-alone entity.

The expected fiscal impact to the Province would be the amount not billed to the LDCs – for example, if 75% were billed to the LDCs (or 22.5), then 7.5 would be the fiscal impact to the Province (assuming we could not support this amount as an asset.)

Could you give this some thought before we meet tomorrow.

Thanks all,

Cindy

Ms. Bonnie Lysyk
Auditor General of Ontario
20 Dundas Street West, Suite 1530
Toronto, ON M5G 2C2

Dear Ms. Lysyk:

Thank you for the information that you presented at our Board of Directors meeting in Toronto on June 14, 2017 and your subsequent letter dated June 22, 2017 which outlines your technical position regarding rate regulated accounting and the inclusion of the market accounts on the IESO financial statements. Based on your position, you requested that the Board consider amending and reissuing its 2016 financial statements.

I can assure you on behalf of the Board that all of your comments were taken very seriously and that the points you raised were given very careful attention and reflection.

It is not the intention of the Board at this time to specifically address the technical position you have conveyed in your letter. A response to the technical position will be provided by the IESO, with support from its consultants and the KPMG audit partner, in the near future.

The Board has thoroughly reviewed the process it followed in making its decision to approve the accounting policy changes for the year ended December 31, 2016. The Board is of the opinion that it has exercised appropriate due diligence in approving the accounting policy changes as they relate to the 2016 financial statements, and to the use of regulatory accounting for the unrecovered smart metering expenses and the unrecovered PSAB transition items, as well as to the inclusion of the market accounts.

The changes made for 2016 provide increased transparency and information with regards to both material expenditures for which recovery over time has been approved and to the IESO's administration and settlement of electricity market transactions worth in excess of $17 billion annually.

Given the above, it is the Board's decision to not amend and reissue the IESO's December 31, 2016 financial statements.

Please note, however, that the Board will continue to be diligent in its monitoring of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan transactions, its accounting treatment and the potential impact on the IESO's 2017 financial statements.

In closing, I would again like to thank you for taking the time to meet with the IESO Board of Directors last month.

Yours truly,

Message from the Chair and Chief Executive Officer

We are pleased to present the second Annual Report of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). The report describes the OEFC's objectives and responsibilities, operational highlights and financial results for the year ended March 31, 2001.

As outlined in the Electricity Act, 1998, the OEFC's mandate is to ensure that the outstanding debt and derivatives and certain assets and liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro are managed efficiently and prudently and are ultimately retired. The OEFC is also responsible for the administration of the OEFC Pension Plan until its assets and liabilities can be transferred to pension plans of the other successor entities. The Ontario Financing Authority (OFA), Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (OEPSC) and Ministry of Finance provide the OEFC with the staff and expertise needed for its operations and to fulfill its mandate.

For the year ended March 31, 2001, revenues totalled $3,936 million, while expenses totalled $3,692 million. To meet its 2000-01 financing requirements, the Province raised $2,924 million in long-term debt. Total debt outstanding as of March 31, 2001 was $30.6 billion, down $0.8 billion from the previous fiscal year.

During the year, the OEFC retained a contract manager to manage the non-utility generator (NUGs) contracts. Significant progress was also made in renegotiating the 90 power purchase agreements (PPAs) with the NUGs, with the objective of facilitating their integration into the open market.

In April 2001, the government announced that it is committed to opening the electricity market to competition by May 2002, possibly earlier if the necessary conditions for competition are in place.

We are pleased with the operation of the OEFC and look forward to the challenges of the upcoming year.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

Electricity Industry Financial Structure

The Energy Competition Act, 1998, set out the Government of Ontario's plan to restructure Ontario's electricity industry. The plan called for the restructuring of Ontario Hydro and the elimination of its long-standing monopoly on electricity production with the introduction of competition to Ontario's electricity sector.

A key component of this initiative was to introduce a new financial structure for the electricity sector. This structure was announced on April 1, 1999. At this time, Ontario Hydro ceased operations and its assets and liabilities were transferred to five successor corporations and their subsidiaries.

Two commercial companies, Hydro One Inc. (HOI) and Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), together with their subsidiaries, received the majority of Ontario Hydro's assets and in return issued $17.1 billion of debt to the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC), the legal continuation of Ontario Hydro.

To ensure fairness, reliability and safety in the new electricity market, the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) and the Electrical Safety Authority (ESA) were also established. The IMO issued $0.1 billion of debt to the OEFC in return for Ontario Hydro's central market operator and regulatory assets.

To achieve commercially viable capital structures, HOI and OPG entered into debt-for-equity swaps with the Province of Ontario. In exchange for $3.8 billion of equity in HOI and $5.1 billion of equity in OPG, the Province assumed $8.9 billion of the debt issued to the OEFC by the successor corporations. The Province is the sole shareholder of HOI and OPG.

Role of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC)

As the legal continuation of Ontario Hydro, the OEFC became responsible for ensuring the prudent and efficient management and retirement of $38.1 billion (as of April 1, 1999) in debt and other liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro. The OEFC, an agency of the Province, is a statutory, non-share capital corporation.

The OEFC's Board of Directors is responsible for supervising the OEFC's operations. As the OEFC does not have staff, it retains the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA) and the Ministry of Finance and established the Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (OEPSC) to carry out its daily operations.

The OFA is an agency of the Province of Ontario responsible for provincial borrowing and debt management activities. The OFA manages the OEFC's debt and derivative portfolios, and provides cash management, accounting and other financial services and support to the corporation.

The OEFC relies on a stream of dedicated revenues from the electricity sector to service its outstanding debt obligations. The Ministry of Finance is responsible for the administration and collection of the payments-in-lieu of taxes and the Debt Retirement Charge (DRC), which becomes effective upon market opening, on behalf of the OEFC.

The OEFC is also the administrator of the former Ontario Hydro Pension and Insurance Plan (since renamed the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation Pension Plan). The OEFC will remain as the administrator until the assets and liabilities of the pension plan are transferred to the pension plans of the four successor corporations. The OEPSC acts as the agent of the OEFC in the administration of the pension plan and management of the pension fund during the transition period.

The Electricity Act, 1998 requires the OEFC to enter into an agreement with the four successor corporations providing for the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the successor corporations. The five companies signed an agreement in principle on January 19, 2001. The final agreement was submitted to the Superintendent of Financial Services, on March 29, 2001, and was subsequently approved on June 6, 2001.

Stranded Debt and Residual Stranded Debt

At April 1st 1999, the OEFC assumed approximately $38.1 billion in total liabilities from the former Ontario Hydro. The OEFC received a total of $17.2 billion represented by notes owing to it from the Province, OPG, HOI, and the IMO. The difference of approximately $20.9 billion represents "stranded debt", which is defined under the Act as the amount of debt and other liabilities of the OEFC that cannot reasonably be serviced and retired in a competitive electricity market.

The Electricity Act, 1998 requires that dedicated electricity revenues must be paid by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities (MEUs) to the OEFC to service stranded debt. As of April 1, 1999, the present value of these revenue streams was estimated at $13.1 billion, resulting in an estimated $7.8 billion of residual stranded debt. The Electricity Act, 1998 also provides for a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid to the OEFC to retire residual stranded debt.

The April 1, 1999 Unfunded Liability (the stranded debt from electricity sector restructuring to be recovered from ratepayers) of $19.4 billion of the OEFC is comprised of the liabilities of $38.1 billion (described above) less notes receivable above of $17.2 billion, less other loans receivable of $200 million, less other assets of $1.3 billion.

Debt Repayment Plan

Pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998 and consistent with the principles of electricity sector restructuring, the government has established a long-term plan to retire debt from within the electricity sector. The $38.1 billion in obligations is being repaid from the following sources:

- Notes receivable from the Province, OPG, HOI and IMO;
- Payments-in-lieu (PILs) of corporate income, capital, and property taxes, made by OPG, HOI and municipal electric utilities (MEUs);
- A Debt Retirement Charge (DRC), to be paid by electricity consumers when the market opens to competition; and
- Electricity Sector Dedicated Income. Consistent with the government's commitment to keep electricity income in the electricity sector, the combined net incomes of OPG and HOI in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries is dedicated to the retirement of the OEFC's debt.

The government has committed to opening the electricity market by May 2002, but will work towards the earliest possible date for opening, if all of the necessary conditions are met. These conditions include: consumer protection and choice; a strong business climate with a reliable supply of safe, affordable electricity; environmental protection; and encouraging new ways of doing business and supporting the search for alternative sources of power.

2000-01 In Review

Highlights for the OEFC's second year of operation include:

- Completing long-term public borrowing of almost $3.0 billion;
- Cost-effective management of the debt and derivatives portfolios;
- Retention of an external manager to oversee the day-to-day administration and the sale of power acquired under the power purchase agreements with non-utility generators (NUGs);
- Ensuring the effective administration of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund and finalizing an agreement on the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor corporations to Ontario Hydro.

Financing and Debt

Revenue in 2000-01 totalled $3,936 million, including $1,070 million of interest payments from HOI, OPG, IMO and the Province, $988 million from payments-in-lieu of tax, $408 million in electricity sector dedicated income, $695 million from power sales and $748 million from the revenue pool residual.

Expenses totalled $3,692 million, including $2,671 million in interest on the debt and nuclear funding liability, $146 million of amortization of deferred charges, $695 million for power purchases, $157 million for a debt guarantee fee and $23 million for operating costs.

As the OEFC does not have its own credit rating, the Province, through the OFA, borrows on the OEFC's behalf. In turn, the OEFC issues debt to the Province. To meet its 2000-01 financing requirements, the Province raised $2,924 million in long-term debt, while paying down short-term debt by $876 million and pre-borrowing $400 million for fiscal 2001-02. In 2000-01, the Province raised the majority of the OEFC's long-term financing in the Canadian dollar market.

As of March 31, 2001, total debt outstanding was $30.6 billion, decreasing by $0.8 billion from the previous fiscal year. This decrease is primarily due to principal repayments of notes receivable by HOI and OPG totalling $1,533 million.

With maturing debt and planned redemptions of $4.4 billion, along with a projected cash surplus of $0.8 billion in 2001-02, total financing requirements as of March 31, 2001 are projected at $3.6 billion. Total debt outstanding is projected to decrease to $29.4 billion at March 31, 2002.

The increase in Ontario Power Generation's (OPG) wholesale electricity rates, effective June 1, 2001, will improve OEFC's results in 2001-02 by increasing the OEFC's revenues from the revenue pool residual.

Management of Power Purchase Contracts

In the late 1980s and early 1990s, the former Ontario Hydro entered into approximately 90 long-term power purchase agreements (PPAs) with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. These PPAs, which expire on various dates until the year 2048, provide for the purchase of power at prices that are expected to exceed the market price. As the continuation of Ontario Hydro, the OEFC is now the purchaser under these contracts.

The OEFC purchases about 1700 megawatts (MW) under the PPAs, representing approximately six per cent of the generating capacity available to meet Ontario's energy requirements.

Currently, the power purchased by the OEFC from the NUGs is resold at cost to the revenue pool managed by OPG. After open access, the power will be sold in the market. The net present value of the liability of the above-market costs resulting from the difference between the purchase price and the selling price over the life of the contracts was estimated at $4.3 billion at April 1, 1999.

In 2000-01, the OEFC issued a Request for Proposals (RFP) to retain a contract manager to manage the NUG contracts. Enron Canada Corporation was selected as the successful respondent to the RFP.

The OEFC is currently in the process of negotiating revisions to the PPAs to facilitate the transition to an open market and to replace certain contract provisions that have become obsolete as a result of the electricity restructuring.

OEFC Pension Plan

The OEFC is the administrator of the OEFC Pension Plan (formerly the Ontario Hydro Pension and Insurance Plan), including the pension fund.

The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (OEPSC) was established as a subsidiary of the OEFC to act as the OEFC's agent in the administration and day-to-day operations of the OEFC Pension Plan until the assets and liabilities can be transferred to the pension plans of the other Ontario Hydro successor corporations.

The Electricity Act, 1998 provides for the transfer of assets and liabilities from the OEFC Pension Plan to the successor companies' pension plans in accordance with a transfer agreement to be entered into by the OEFC with the administrators of each successor company pension plan. The OEPSC is responsible for preparing the transfer agreement in accordance with the guidelines set out in the Electricity Act, 1998 and under the supervision of the OEFC's pension committee and in consultation with the successor corporations. On June 6, 2001, the Superintendent of Financial Services consented in writing to the transfer of assets from the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor corporations.

Risk Management

The OEFC has a number of policies in place to address the financial risks to which it is exposed through its borrowing and debt management activities.

Market Risk

The market risk policy provides a framework for the management of foreign exchange and interest rate risks to which the OEFC is exposed through the financing and debt management programs.

Foreign Exchange Exposures: The target for unhedged foreign currency exposure by the end of fiscal 2001-02 is five per cent of outstanding debt. When the OFA became responsible for the management of the OEFC's debt portfolio, total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies was 14.5 per cent. The OFA reduced the OEFC's exposure to 7.1 per cent as of March 31, 2001. The OFA will continue to reduce the level of exposure towards the five per cent target in a prudent manner.

Floating Interest Rate Exposure: The limit on the OEFC's floating interest rate exposure (net of liquid reserves) is 20 per cent of debt outstanding. Actual floating interest rate exposure was 5.7 per cent as of March 31, 2001.

Debt Maturity Profile: When issuing new debt, the OFA, on behalf of the OEFC, will aim for a smooth debt maturity profile to diversify the interest rate risk for the refinancing of maturing and floating rate debt. The maturity profile can be found in Note 8 to the Financial Statements.

Credit Risk

Credit risk is the risk that a counterparty does not meet, or defaults, on its obligations. Credit risk arises when the OEFC undertakes financial and derivatives transactions. The minimum credit rating of a counterparty is A- and R1-mid for money market investments. However, for a new swap transaction the OEFC typically deals with AA- or better credit. The resulting exposure is capped at mark-to-market limits, depending on the counterparty's credit rating.

Risk Management Reporting

At its regular quarterly meetings, the OEFC Board of Directors is kept informed of the OEFC's activities, positions and risk exposures through three types of reports:

- CEO's report;
- Exposure and performance report; and
- Exception report provided by the Director of Risk Control, OFA.

The CEO provides the Board of Directors with a progress report on the implementation of the financing and debt management plan, staffing and other administrative and operational matters. The CEO also reports on the OEFC's compliance with applicable government directives, and OFA Legal Counsel reports on compliance with applicable laws.

The Director of Risk Control, OFA, reports additional details on the OEFC's exposures and performance.

Exception reports are provided to the Board of Directors immediately when required.

OFA Management is kept informed of the OEFC's risk exposures and positions on a daily basis. The OEFC's Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan, which shows how the OFA will ensure that risk exposures and losses remain within the approved exposure and loss limits, is approved by the Board of Directors.

Use of Financial Instruments and Derivatives

New instruments can be used only after approval by the OEFC Board of Directors and if their use is authorized under the OEFC's by-laws, which are approved by the Minister of Finance. All instruments are used only to advance the OEFC's objective of managing the OEFC's debt and its financing and liquidity requirements in a prudent and cost-effective manner.

Derivatives and financial instruments can be used only if the OFA can price and value them and quantify their risks. Furthermore, risks that arise with the use of derivatives are identified, evaluated, reported, monitored and managed prudently.

Corporate Governance and Board of Directors

Appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, the Board of Directors is responsible for supervising the OEFC's operations, which are carried out by the Ontario Financing Authority, Ministry of Finance and Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation on a day-to-day basis. The Board of Directors meets at least quarterly.

The OEFC Audit Committee supports the Board of Directors with the review and recommendation for approval of the OEFC's financial statements. The Audit Committee also recommends the annual internal audit plan and reviews the findings of the internal auditors regarding the adequacy of internal controls.

The OEFC Pension Committee is a committee of the Board of Directors that makes decisions concerning the OEFC Pension Plan and oversees the activities of the OEPSC.

Responsibility for Financial Reporting

The accompanying financial statements of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Canada and are the responsibility of management. The preparation of financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates based on management's judgment, particularly when transactions affecting the current accounting period cannot be finalized with certainty until future periods. The financial statements have been properly prepared within reasonable limits of materiality and in light of information available up to June 1, 2001.

Management maintains a system of internal controls designed to provide reasonable assurance that the assets are safeguarded and that reliable financial information is available on a timely basis. The system includes formal policies and procedures and an organizational structure that provides for appropriate delegation of authority and segregation of responsibilities. An internal audit function independently evaluates the effectiveness of these internal controls on an ongoing basis and reports its findings to management and the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors, through the Audit Committee, is responsible for ensuring that management fulfills its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal controls. The Audit Committee meets periodically with management, the internal auditors and the external auditor to deal with issues raised by them and to review the financial statements before recommending approval by the Board of Directors.

The financial statements have been audited by the Provincial Auditor. The Provincial Auditor's responsibility is to express an opinion on whether the financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The Auditor's Report, which appears on the following page, outlines the scope of the Auditor's examination and his opinion.

Auditor's Report

To the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation
and to the Minister of Finance

I have audited the consolidated balance sheet of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation as at March 31, 2001 and the consolidated statements of revenue, expense and unfunded liability and of cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Corporation's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation as at March 31, 2001 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended, in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Restructuring of the Ontario Electricity Industry

Effective April 1, 1999, pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998, Ontario Hydro was continued as a corporation without share capital under the name Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). OEFC is a corporation established under the laws of Ontario. It is exempt from federal and provincial income taxes under paragraph 149(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act of Canada. OEFC is a Crown agency created to manage the debt and administer the assets, liabilities, rights and obligations of Ontario Hydro not transferred to other successor entities. These other successor entities include:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), an electricity generation company;
- Hydro One Inc. (HOI), a regulated electricity transmission and distribution business that operates certain energy service businesses in an unregulated, competitive environment;
- Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO), the regulated centralized independent system co-ordinator responsible for directing system operations and operating the electricity market; and
- Electrical Safety Authority (ESA), which performs a regulatory function related to electrical inspections.

On April 1, 1999, the respective business units, including assets, liabilities, employees, rights and obligations of the former Ontario Hydro were transferred to OPG and HOI (and their subsidiaries) and the IMO for $8.5 billion, $8.6 billion and $78 million respectively in exchange for debt payable to OEFC. On the same day, the Province exchanged equity of $5,126 million and $3,759 million in OPG and HOI respectively for debt payable to OEFC.

OEFC debt, liabilities and associated financing costs will be repaid from interest on notes receivable from the Province and successor entities, and, as provided under the Energy Competition Act, 1998, from dedicated electricity revenues in the form of payments-in-lieu (PILs) of corporate income, capital and property taxes made by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities. Any residual debt will be serviced through a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid by electricity consumers after open access. Until open access, OEFC will continue to be a party to a revenue-allocation agreement among successor entities and is entitled to the forecast residual amount in the revenue pool after allocations to OPG, HOI and the IMO are paid.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Accounting

These financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) as recommended in the Handbook of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Measurement Uncertainty

Uncertainty in the determination of the amount at which an item is recognized in the financial statements is known as measurement uncertainty. Such uncertainty exists when it is reasonably possible that there could be a material variance between the recognized amount and another reasonably possible amount, as there is whenever estimates are used. Measurement uncertainty in these financial statements exists in the estimated liability for power purchase agreements (see Note 9 for additional details). In addition, the amount of the nuclear funding liability is dependent on an agreement currently under negotiation between the Province and OPG. Estimates are based on the best information available at the time of preparation of the financial statements and will be adjusted annually to reflect new information as it becomes available.

Consolidation

These financial statements include the accounts of OEFC's wholly owned subsidiary, Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (see Note 3).

Deferred Debt Costs

Deferred debt costs includes the unamortized amounts related to unrealized foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of long-term debt issued in foreign currencies and discounts or premiums arising from the issuance of debt or the acquisition of debt prior to maturity.

Revenue Recognition

Revenues are recognized in the period in which they are earned. Amounts received prior to being earned are reflected as deferred revenues.

Foreign Currency Translation

Debt is composed of short-, medium- and long-term bonds, notes and debentures. Debt denominated in foreign currencies that has been hedged is recorded at the Canadian dollar equivalent using the rates of exchange established by the terms of the hedge agreements. Other foreign currency debt, liabilities and assets are translated to Canadian dollars at period-end rates of exchange and any exchange gains or losses are deferred and amortized over the remaining term to maturity.

3. Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation

OEFC is the administrator of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation Pension Plan and Fund. It is responsible for negotiating an agreement with each of the successor corporations for the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC pension plan to the pension plans of the successor corporations. The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation, (OEPSC), a wholly owned subsidiary of OEFC, acts as agent for OEFC to carry out the required administrative, investment and other responsibilities of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund. Costs associated with the administration of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund amounting to approximately $17 million in calendar 2000 (calendar 1999 - $17 million) are charged to and payable by the pension fund.

OEPSC has made application to the Superintendent of Financial Services for Ontario for approval to transfer all of the assets of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor operating entities. The Superintendent agreed to the transfer on June 6, 2001.

4. Economic Dependence

OEFC does not have its own credit rating and is, therefore, dependent on the Province to borrow and on-lend the funds required to refinance maturing debt and to cover any cash shortfalls in the Corporation. It is also dependent on the long-term plan to defease the unfunded liability described in Note 11. Based on the Province's support in refinancing maturing debt and the long-term plan, OEFC is considered a going concern.

5. Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents includes cash on deposit and highly liquid investments with maturities of less than three months. They are recorded at cost, which approximates current market value.

6. Electricity Sector Dedicated Income

The Province has committed to dedicate the combined net income of OPG and HOI in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries to OEFC. In the year ended March 31, 2001, OPG and HOI earned an aggregate amount of $928 million ($903 million for 2000) i.e., $408 million ($383 million for 2000) in excess of the Province's $520 million interest cost of the equity investments in those companies. The $408 million amount has been reflected as income in OEFC and as an increase in the receivable from the Province.

7. Notes and Loans Receivable

| | Interest rate | Interest payable | March 31, 2001 | Maturity date | March 31, 2000 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Province of Ontario | 5.85 | Monthly | $ 8,885 | 2039 - 2041 | $ 8,885 |
| OPG | 5.3 to 6.65 | Semi-annually | 3,300 | 2002 - 2011 | 3,400 |
| HOI | 5.4 to 14.3 | Semi-annually | 3,412 | 2001 - 2007 | 4,845 |
| IMO | 7.90 | Semi-annually | 78 | 2009 | 78 |
| | | | 15,675 | | 17,208 |
| Less: current portion of notes receivable | | | 640 | | 1,533 |
| | | | 15,035 | | 15,675 |
| Loans receivable from non-utility generators (NUGs) (See Note 9) | | | 244 | | 219 |
| | | | $ 15,279 | | $ 15,894 |

8. Debt

Debt at March 31, 2001 is set out below by maturity and by original currency of issue.

| ($ millions) Currency | Canadian Dollar | U.S. Dollar | Japanese Yen | 2001 Total | 2000 Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Maturing before: | | | | | |

| March 31, 2005 | 2,700 | — | — | 2,700 | 2,000 |
| March 31, 2006 | 1,000 | — | — | 1,000 | — |
| 1-5 years | 12,199 | 1,141 | 65 | 13,405 | 15,041 |
| 6-10 years | 7,124 | 1,530 | — | 8,654 | 6,787 |
| 11-15 years | 648 | 1,183 | — | 1,831 | 2,876 |
| 16-20 years | 1,078 | — | — | 1,078 | 500 |
| 21-25 years | 3,558 | — | — | 3,558 | 3,133 |
| 26-50 years | 2,040 | — | — | 2,040 | 3,001 |
| Total | $ 26,647 | $ 3,854 | $ 65 | $ 30,566 | $ 31,338 |

The effective rate of interest on the debt portfolio is 7.85% before considering the effect of derivative instruments used to manage interest rate risk. As at March 31, 2001, $2.2 billion of the $3.9 billion foreign debt is hedged. Bonds and notes payable are either held, or guaranteed as to principal and interest, by the Province as set out below:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| ($ millions) | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total |
| Short-term debt | 2,570 | — | 2,570 | 3,446 | — | 3,446 |
| Current portion of long-term debt | 569 | 2,205 | 2,774 | 500 | 1,726 | 2,226 |
| Long-term debt | 8,056 | 17,166 | 25,222 | 5,701 | 19,965 | 25,666 |
| Total | $ 11,195 | $ 19,371 | $ 30,566 | $ 9,647 | $ 21,691 | $ 31,338 |

Fair value of debt issued approximates amounts at which debt instruments could be exchanged in a current transaction between willing parties. In valuing the OEFC's debt, fair value is estimated using discounted cash flows and other valuation techniques and is compared to public market quotations where available. These estimates are affected by the assumptions made concerning discount rates and the amount and timing of future cash flows.

The estimated fair value of OEFC debt at March 31, 2001 is $34.4 billion (March 31, 2000 - $35.4 billion). This is higher than the book value of $30.6 billion (March 31, 2000 - $31.3 billion) because current interest rates are generally lower than the interest rates at which the debt was issued and because of exchange rate movements. The fair value of debt does not reflect the effect of related derivative contracts.

9. Long-Term Liabilities

Power purchase contracts and related loan agreements were entered into by Ontario Hydro with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. These contracts, expiring on various dates to 2048, provide for the purchase of power at prices that are expected to be in excess of the market price. This liability has been valued at $4,286 million on a discounted cash-flow basis. As the continued Ontario Hydro, OEFC is the counterparty to these contracts. Currently, the power purchased from NUGs is resold at cost to the power grid managed by OPG. However, after open access, this power will be sold at market prices that may be greater or less than cost.

During the year, OEFC purchased power in the amount of $695 million (March 31, 2000 - $741 million) and sold this power to the power grid for the same amount. HOI manages the NUG power purchase contracts and the related loans on behalf of OEFC for an annual fee of $3 million (March 31, 2000 - $3 million), partially offset by a recovery of $2 million (March 31, 2000 - Nil) of transmission expansion costs originally paid by Ontario Hydro, which net cost is included in operating expense. Loans to NUGs increased during the year by $25 million to $244 million at March 31, 2001 (March 31, 2000 - $219 million), primarily due to interest revenue during the year which has been added to the principal balance.

Nuclear funding liability - OEFC as the continued Ontario Hydro received a liability in the amount of $2,378 million representing nuclear waste management and asset removal liabilities that were incurred prior to April 1, 1999. Interest has been accrued at an estimated 5.75 per cent and is included in the total value of $2,659 million as at March 31, 2001 (March 31, 2000 - $2,515 million). The interest rate is still under negotiation with the Province and is subject to change. The impact of the finalization of the interest rate for the fiscal year is not expected to result in a material difference to the liability balance.

10. Revenue Pool Residual

As explained in Note 1, OEFC is the beneficial owner of the forecast residual of the revenue pool, managed by OPG, which collects revenues from electricity consumers and allocates revenues to OPG, Hydro One and the IMO. The forecast residual of the revenue pool is cyclical in nature due to seasonal variations in pricing. As a result, the residual, while positive in the first and fourth quarters of the calendar year, is negative in the second and third quarters.

It was agreed by OEFC and OPG that OEFC would receive an average payment per month which would eliminate the seasonal variation in the pool residual and ensure that OEFC would never need to borrow cash to make up the shortfall. In the accounts, this revenue stream was recorded as received, adjusted for the one month accrual at each year-end.

These interim arrangements were to remain in effect until open access at which time the revenue pool would cease to operate and the Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) would be collected direct from electricity consumers. Open access was originally announced for November 2000 and OEFC's forecast residual for calendar 2000 was calculated over the ten months ended October in anticipation of the November opening. Once open access was delayed past November, it became apparent that the term over which the average should be calculated was unknown. Consequently, beginning in November 2000, OEFC began to receive the forecast residual as earned each month and reflected this stream as revenue in the accounts. The revenue in OEFC in fiscal 2000-01 has benefitted by including both the increased revenue over the summer of 2000 and the real earnings in the pool over the winter of 2000-01.

11. Unfunded Liability

In the previous year, PILs revenue was recognized on a cash basis and reflected only cash received during the year. For fiscal 2000-01, OEFC has changed its accounting policy to recognize PILs revenue on an accrual basis. The change was made to conform with accounting policies of the Province. Therefore, PILs earned during the year will now include deferred taxes, regardless of when those taxes will be paid.

The previously unrecognized $200 million accrual of PILs revenue has been added to the balance of the opening unfunded liability. In addition, the opening unfunded liability has also been adjusted to account for working capital adjustments in successor companies in the amount of $247 million. The effect of these adjustments is as follows:

|---|---|
| Unfunded Liability, March 31, 2000 | $ 19,987 |
| Adjustments during the year: | |
| Accrual for PILs revenue | (200) |
| Working capital for OPG and HOI | 247 |
| Balance after adjustments | $ 20,034 |

The opening unfunded liability of $19.4 billion at April 1, 1999 was composed of $38.1 billion in liabilities assumed from old Ontario Hydro less the value of assets transferred to OEFC at April 1, 1999 including $17.2 billion in notes receivable and $1.5 billion in loans receivable and other assets. Pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998 and consistent with the principles of electricity restructuring, the government has a long-term plan in place to retire OEFC liabilities, from within the electricity industry. The Plan includes cash flows from the following sources as at April 1, 1999:

Notes receivable from the Province of $8.9 billion, OPG of $3.4 billion, HOI of $4.8 billion and IMO for $0.1 billion for a total of $17.2 billion as a result of the transfer of assets to successor companies,

Payments-in-lieu of corporate income, property and capital taxes made by OPG, HOI and municipal electric utilities.

A Debt Retirement Charge to be paid by ratepayers based on the consumption of electricity, and

Electricity Sector Dedicated Income - Consistent with the Government's commitment to keep electricity income in the electricity sector, the combined net income of OPG and HOI in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries will be set aside for the retirement of OEFC's debt.

The long-term plan supports estimates that OEFC's obligations will be defeased in the years ranging from 2010 to 2017.

12. Risk Management and Derivative Financial Instruments

OEFC employs prudent risk management strategies and operates within strict risk exposure limits to ensure exposure to risk is well managed. A variety of strategies are used, including the use of derivative financial instruments ("derivatives").

Derivatives are financial contracts, the value of which is derived from underlying assets. OEFC uses derivatives for the purpose of hedging and to minimize interest costs. Hedges are created primarily through swaps, which are legal arrangements under which OEFC agrees with another party to exchange cash flows based upon one or more notional amounts during a specified period. This allows OEFC to offset its existing obligations and thereby effectively convert them into obligations with more desirable characteristics. Other derivative instruments used by OEFC include forward foreign exchange contracts, forward rate agreements, futures and options.

Foreign exchange or currency risk is the risk of debt servicing costs and principal payments varying due to fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. To minimize currency risk, OEFC uses derivative contracts to convert foreign currency cash flows into Canadian dollar denominated cash flows. The current policy allows unhedged foreign currency cash flows to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At year end, 7.1 per cent of this debt was unhedged, with most of the currency exposure to US dollars.

Interest rate risk is the risk of debt servicing costs varying due to changes in interest rates. OEFC reduces its exposure to rate changes by entering into derivative contracts that convert floating interest payments to fixed interest payments. The current policy allows unhedged floating rate debt, net of liquid reserves, to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At year end, OEFC's floating rate debt as a percentage of total debt was 5.7 per cent.

The table below presents a maturity schedule of OEFC's derivatives, by type, outstanding at March 31, 2001, based on the notional amounts of the contracts. Notional amounts represent the volume of outstanding derivative contracts and are not indicative of credit or market risk. Notional amounts are not representative of actual cash flows.

Entering into derivatives contracts results in credit risk, which is the risk of a counterparty defaulting on contractual derivative obligations in which OEFC has an unrealized gain. The table below presents the credit risk associated with the derivative financial instrument portfolio, measured through the replacement value of derivative contracts, at March 31, 2001.

|---|---|---|
| Gross credit risk exposure | 5,437 | 4,850 |
| Less: Netting agreements | (5,519) | (5,019) |
| Net credit risk exposure | $ (82) | $ (169) |

Note:

Contracts do not have coterminous settlement dates. Netting agreements use generally accepted forms and terms developed by the International Swaps and Derivatives Association (ISDA). Based on ISDA definitions, total exposure to counterparties with positive exposure was $210 million (meaning that counterparties owed OEFC) and total exposure to counterparties with negative exposure was $292 million (meaning that OEFC owed counterparties) for a total net credit exposure to ($82) million on March 31, 2001.

OEFC manages its credit risk exposure through daily monitoring compliance with credit limits and by dealing with counterparties with good credit ratings of A- or higher. Counterparties for money market and other short-term transactions must have at least an R1-mid rating by Dominion Bond Rating Service or an A-1 or P-1 rating by Standard and Poor's or Moody's respectively.

OEFC also limits its credit risk exposure on derivatives by entering into contractual netting agreements with virtually all of its counterparties, which enables it to settle derivative contracts on a net basis in the event of a counterparty default. The gross credit risk exposure represents the amount of loss that OEFC would suffer if every counterparty to which OEFC was exposed were to default at the same time and no netting of negative exposures was allowed. The net credit risk exposure includes the mitigating impact of these netting agreements.

13. Guarantees

Subject to a $10 million and $20 million deductible respectively, OEFC has agreed to indemnify HOI and OPG in respect of any adverse claim to title to any asset, right or thing transferred or intended to be transferred to the companies at April 1, 1999, any failure of the transfer order to transfer such assets, rights or things and with respect to payment to or from or other dealing with any equity account of Ontario Hydro, including certain related litigation. The Province of Ontario has guaranteed any liability arising from these indemnifications.

OEFC is contingently liable under guarantees given to third parties that have provided long-term financing to certain independent power producers in connection with the power purchase agreements described in Note 9. These guarantees total approximately $135 million at March 31, 2001 (March 31, 2000 - $146 million).

Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation

Corporate Overview

Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC), an agency of the Province of Ontario, is a statutory, non-share capital corporation and the legal continuation of Ontario Hydro.

OEFC retains services from the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA) and the Ministry of Finance to carry out its daily operations. The OFA is the agency of the Province of Ontario responsible for provincial borrowing and debt management activities. The OFA manages OEFC's debt, derivatives and non-utility generator (NUG) portfolios, and provides cash management, accounting and other financial services and support to the corporation. The Ministry of Finance manages the collection and reporting of payments-in-lieu of tax on behalf of OEFC.

OEFC's Board of Directors is responsible for supervising OEFC's operations, which are as follows:

- Manage the outstanding debt and derivatives portfolios, financial risks and other liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro;
- Manage the long-term power purchase agreements and provide the associated risk management infrastructure;
- Manage the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF);
- Receive payments and administer assets, liabilities, rights and obligations of the Corporation that have not been transferred to other Ontario Hydro successor corporations, and dispose of these as it deems appropriate or as directed by the Minister of Finance; and

Message from the Chair

I am pleased to present the 2003 Annual Report of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). The report describes OEFC's objectives and responsibilities, operational highlights and financial results for the year ended March 31, 2003.

As outlined in the Electricity Act, 1998, OEFC's primary objective is to ensure that the outstanding debt and derivatives portfolios and certain other liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro are managed efficiently and prudently and are ultimately retired.

For the year ended March 31, 2003, revenues totalled $3,797 million, while expenses totalled $3,895 million, resulting in a deficiency of revenue over expense of $98 million, compared to the prior year's deficiency of revenue over expense of $69 million. In 2002-03, the Province completed OEFC's borrowing requirements, including long-term debt maturities of $2,775 million, through $2,084 million raised from the sale of Hydro One notes held since April 1, 1999 and the issuance of $967 million in long-term debt.

During the year, OEFC achieved its objectives of cost-effective borrowing and debt management and prudent risk management, negotiated revisions to non-utility generator (NUG) contracts to facilitate their integration into the competitive electricity market, and continued to develop the necessary infrastructure to manage the NUG contracts and related exposures in a competitive market in a cost-effective and prudent manner.

On December 9, 2002, the Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002 was passed to freeze the price that low volume and designated consumers pay for electricity at 4.3 cents per kilowatt-hour until at least 2006. OEFC is responsible for managing the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF) established as a result of the Act.

OEFC will continue to monitor new developments in the electricity industry that will affect the operating results of the corporation in the 2003-04 fiscal year.

Bob Christie
Chair

Management's Discussion and Analysis

OEFC accomplished its key objectives for 2002-03:

- Achieved cost-effective borrowing and debt management and prudent risk management;
- Negotiated revisions to certain contracts with non-utility generators (NUG contracts) to facilitate their integration into the competitive electricity market;
- Continued to develop the necessary infrastructure to manage the NUG contracts and related exposures in a competitive market in a cost-effective and prudent manner; and
- Managed the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF) created under the Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002.

2002-03 Highlights

- Sold $1.9 billion of the Hydro One notes held since April 1, 1999, resulting in a gain of $206 million for OEFC. This sale represented the largest-ever corporate debt trade in the Canadian domestic debt market.
- Reduced total debt outstanding by $2.5 billion to $26.8 billion from $29.4 billion as at March 31, 2002.
- Lowered total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies to 6.3 per cent of outstanding debt from 7.5 per cent and down from 14.5 per cent at the time of OEFC's establishment in 1999.

Overview of Financial Results

For the year ended March 31, 2003, revenues totalled $3,797 million, while expenses totalled $3,895 million, resulting in a deficiency of revenue over expense of $98 million, compared to the prior year's deficiency of revenue over expense of $69 million.

Revenues

OEFC's total revenues for 2002-03 were $3,797 million, an increase of $253 million from 2002. OEFC's revenues consisted of the Debt Retirement Charge and revenue pool residual up to market opening; payments-in-lieu of tax; interest income from the Province, OPG, Hydro One, and IMO; power sales; a net reduction of power purchase contracts; a gain on the sale of Hydro One notes; and electricity sector dedicated income.

The Debt Retirement Charge, which replaced the revenue pool residual when Ontario's electricity market opened to competition on May 1, 2002, amounted to $889 million over 11 months in 2002-03.

In the year ended March 31, 2003, OPG and Hydro One earned an aggregate amount of $717 million. After taking into account the Province's financing cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries of $520 million, OEFC recorded $197 million in electricity sector dedicated income. In 2001-02, the aggregate earnings of the subsidiaries did not exceed the Province's financing cost.

In February 2003, OPG reached an agreement with OEFC to defer payment on $700 million principal amount of senior notes owing to OEFC by extending the maturity dates by two years. The interest rates on these notes remain unchanged.

Expenses

OEFC's total expenses for 2002-03 were $3,895 million, an increase of $282 million from 2002. OEFC's expenses consist of interest on its debt and nuclear funding liability, amortization of deferred charges, expenditures in the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF), power purchases, a debt guarantee fee and operating costs.

Borrowing Program

In 2002-03, the Province completed OEFC's borrowing requirements, including long-term debt maturities of $2,775 million, through $2,084 million raised from the sale of Hydro One notes held since April 1, 1999, and the issuance of $967 million in long-term debt.

Long-term borrowing was completed through two Province of Ontario U.S. dollar global issues and two domestic issues that were on-lent to OEFC:

- C$425 million (Canadian dollar equivalent) raised through a portion of a US$750 million U.S. dollar global issue maturing in December 2005;
- C$447 million (Canadian dollar equivalent) raised from a US$300 million U.S. dollar global issue maturing in March 2008; and
- C$95 million raised from two non-public debentures maturing in January and June 2022.

Debt Management

The repayment of OEFC obligations remains a priority and is an integral part of Ontario's electricity sector restructuring objectives. Pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998, a long-term plan was established to retire debt from within the electricity sector. The long-term debt repayment plan supports a current estimate that OEFC's obligations will likely be defeased in 2012.

Debt Repayment Plan

OEFC's obligations are being repaid from the following revenue sources:

Notes Receivable

OEFC receives principal and interest payments from the Province, Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), Hydro One and the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) arising from the restructuring of the electricity sector.

Payments-in-Lieu of Tax (PILs)

OEFC receives payments-in-lieu of corporate income, capital and property taxes made by OPG, Hydro One and municipal electric utilities (MEUs).

Debt Retirement Charge (DRC)

The DRC was introduced on May 1, 2002, the date the electricity market opened to competition, and is paid by electricity consumers. The DRC is administered by the Ministry of Finance on behalf of OEFC and will end once the residual stranded debt is retired. Prior to May 1, 2002, OEFC received the residual of the revenue pool. This pool, managed by OPG, collected revenues from electricity consumers and allocated revenues to OPG, Hydro One and IMO, with the residual going to OEFC.

Electricity Sector Dedicated Income

The combined net incomes of OPG and Hydro One in excess of the Province's interest cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries are dedicated to the retirement of OEFC's debt.

Stranded Debt and Residual Stranded Debt

OEFC assumed approximately $38.1 billion in total debt and other liabilities from the former Ontario Hydro upon the restructuring of Ontario's electricity sector on April 1, 1999. As part of the restructuring, OEFC received a total of $17.2 billion in notes owing from the Province, OPG, Hydro One and the IMO. The difference of approximately $20.9 billion represented "stranded debt," which is defined under the Electricity Act, 1998 as the amount of debt and other liabilities of OEFC that cannot reasonably be serviced and retired by commercial companies in a competitive electricity market.

The Electricity Act, 1998 requires that payments-in-lieu of taxes must be paid by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities (MEUs) to OEFC to service stranded debt. As at April 1, 1999, the present value of these dedicated revenues and Electricity Sector Dedicated Income was estimated at $13.1 billion, resulting in an estimated $7.8 billion of residual stranded debt. The Electricity Act, 1998 provided for a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid by consumers until the residual stranded debt is retired.

The April 1, 1999 Unfunded Liability (the stranded debt from electricity sector restructuring to be recovered from ratepayers) of $19.4 billion of OEFC was composed of the $38.1 billion (described above) less notes receivable of $17.2 billion, less loans receivable and other assets of $1.5 billion.

Unfunded Liability as of March 31, 2003 was $20.2 billion.

Debt and Liabilities

OEFC's total debt outstanding declined by $2.5 billion to $26.8 billion as of March 31, 2003. OEFC has reduced total debt outstanding by over $4.5 billion from its peak on March 31, 2000.

OEFC's total debt and liabilities are $34.7 billion as of March 31, 2003, down from $37.6 billion as of March 31, 2002.

On March 5, 2003, with the prior approval of Hydro One, OEFC completed the sale of $1,878 million (face value) of Hydro One notes. OEFC realized a gain of $206 million on the sale, as interest rates payable on the notes were above market interest rates, which allowed the Province to reduce OEFC's total debt. The notes had maturities ranging from January 2004 to August 2007 and coupons ranging between 5.375 per cent to 14.25 per cent. In order to facilitate the sale of these notes in the Canadian public capital markets, OEFC and Hydro One agreed to restructure the debt by converting the coupons and principal amounts to reflect current interest rates. The sale represented the largest ever corporate debt trade in the Canadian domestic debt market.

For more information on debt and other liabilities, see Notes 8 to 12 to the Financial Statements.

Risk Management

OEFC has risk management policies and procedures in place to address the management of OEFC's market, credit and operational risk exposures, primarily pertaining to OEFC's debt, derivatives and NUG portfolios, and capital markets transactions. A description of OEFC's risk management policies can be found in the Corporate Policies section.

| Risk Exposures (Percentage of Outstanding Debt) | 2003 | 2002 | Policy Limit |
|---|---|---|---|
| Foreign Exchange Exposure | 6.3 | 7.5 | 20.0* |
| Floating Interest Rate Exposure (net of liquid reserves) | 13.5 | 9.8 | 20.0 |

*The foreign exchange policy limit will be reduced to five per cent as soon as feasible and prudent.
March 31, 2003

OEFC's foreign exchange and floating interest rate exposures remained within policy limits of 20 per cent in 2002-03.

OEFC's total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies ("foreign exchange exposure") declined to 6.3 per cent as a result of active debt management and hedging strategies which took advantage of a strengthening Canadian dollar to reduce the foreign exchange exposure of OEFC's debt portfolio. The reduction in the OEFC's foreign exchange exposure was in line with the OEFC's Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan. When the OFA became responsible for the management of OEFC's debt portfolio, total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies was 14.5 per cent.

The OEFC's exposure to changes in short-term rates ("floating interest rate exposure") was 13.5 per cent as at March 31, 2003.

When issuing new debt, the OFA, on behalf of OEFC, aims for a smooth debt maturity profile to diversify the interest rate risk inherent in refinancing maturing and floating rate debt.

OEFC has also developed the NUG Market Risk Policy and Credit and Related Legal Risks Policy to address risks related to the sale of electricity from NUG contracts. NUG contracts involve risk in both financial and commodity markets.

Management of Power Purchase Agreements

In the late 1980s and early 1990s, the former Ontario Hydro entered into approximately 90 long-term power purchase agreements (PPAs) with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. These PPAs, which expire on various dates until 2048, represent approximately 1,700 megawatts of generating capacity and approximately $750 million per year in cash outflow. The PPAs account for about six to eight per cent of the generating capacity available to meet Ontario's energy requirements.

As the continuation of Ontario Hydro, OEFC is responsible for these contracts. The NUG liability had been valued at $4,286 million on a discounted cash-flow (DCF) basis since Ontario Hydro was continued as OEFC on April 1, 1999. Since the electricity market was opened in this fiscal year, the DCF model was updated as of March 31, 2003, which reduced the estimated liability from $4,286 million to $3,745 million. The revaluation change will be amortized to operations over a 10-year period. In addition, each year, interest at the DCF rate is added to the liability and the estimated in-year loss in the DCF model is deducted from the liability. Details are set out in Note 10 to the Financial Statements.

OEFC has retained UBS Warburg Energy (Canada) Ltd. to act as settlement services manager of the PPAs with the NUGs, and to establish systems and procedures for the administration of the PPAs in the open electricity market as well as develop and implement strategies for hedging OEFC's price risk associated with sales of electricity. OEFC continues to negotiate revisions to the NUG contracts to ensure that the contracts are consistent with the open electricity market.

A policy framework for the prudent risk management of NUG electricity sales associated with the PPAs, including market and credit risk management policies, was approved. These policies establish the foundation for the assessment, monitoring and reporting of electricity market and credit risks and are similar in structure to the corresponding policies for the management of traditional financial market and credit exposures.

The Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002

Ontario's electricity market opened to competition on May 1, 2002. The wholesale price of electricity is determined by supply and demand in a competitive market.

While the wholesale market continues to operate in a competitive environment, on December 9, 2002, the Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002 was passed to freeze the price that low volume and designated consumers pay for electricity at 4.3 cents per kilowatt-hour (¢/kWh) until at least 2006. OEFC is responsible for managing the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF or the "Fund") established as a result of the Act.

Fund Management

OEFC is required to pay to or receive from the IMO any difference between the current market price (the "spot price") and the fixed 4.3¢/kWh charged to consumers designated under the Act.

- When spot prices are higher than 4.3¢/kWh, OEFC will make a payment to the IMO equal to the difference between spot price and 4.3¢/kWh based on the quantity consumed. The IMO will reduce the amount payable by the distributors for amounts consumed by a corresponding amount down to 4.3¢/kWh.
- When spot prices are lower than 4.3¢/kWh, OEFC will receive a payment from the IMO equal to the difference between spot price and 4.3¢/kWh based on the quantity consumed. The IMO will increase the amount payable by the distributors for amounts consumed by a corresponding amount up to 4.3¢/kWh.

The Fund will receive a large proportion of its funding from the portion of the Market Power Mitigation Agreement (MPMA) rebate paid by OPG that is attributable to the low volume and designated consumers. The initial $75 consumer refund for the May 1, 2002 to November 30, 2002 period was funded from OPG's MPMA rebate liability.

Net costs were higher than originally expected due to higher-than-expected prices arising from a long and severe winter. Program costs were also higher than initially expected due to higher costs to maintain the contractual rights of retailers. Annual results for the Fund are expected to improve as new supply comes on-line and reduces electricity prices.

The financial statements reflect the net expense of the Fund for this fiscal year. More information on the Fund can be found in Note 13 to the Financial Statements.

Objectives for 2003-04

OEFC's activities for 2003-04 will be focused on the following corporate objectives:

- Continue to perform borrowing, risk management, cash management, banking and accounting services as required in managing and retiring the outstanding debt and derivative contracts of the former Ontario Hydro;
- Assist in the implementation of the government's electricity policy decisions and coordinate economic and financial issues related to the industry. This includes management of the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund, managing financial relationships with the successor companies of Ontario Hydro (Hydro One, Ontario Power Generation Inc. and the Independent Electricity Market Operator) and assisting the Ministry of Energy and the Ministry of Finance in analyzing and implementing new supply initiatives, such as the temporary generation initiatives for the summer and fall of 2003;
- Continue negotiating revisions to the non-utility generator (NUG) contracts to ensure that the contracts are consistent with the competitive market. Develop and implement the necessary infrastructure to manage, in a cost-effective and prudent manner, the NUG contracts and related exposures and their integration into the power market administered by the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO); and
- Discharge OEFC's liability to the nuclear decommissioning fund related to generating stations of the former Ontario Hydro.

Responsibility for Financial Reporting

The accompanying consolidated financial statements of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles recommended for governments by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants and are the responsibility of management. The preparation of financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates based on management's judgment, particularly when transactions affecting the current accounting period cannot be finalized with certainty until future periods. The financial statements have been properly prepared within reasonable limits of materiality and in light of information available up to July 25, 2003.

Management maintains a system of internal controls designed to provide reasonable assurance that the assets are safeguarded and that reliable financial information is available on a timely basis. The system includes formal policies and procedures and an organizational structure that provides for appropriate delegation of authority and segregation of responsibilities. Internal Audit Services of the Ministry of Finance independently evaluates the effectiveness of these internal controls on an ongoing basis and reports its findings to management and the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors, through the Audit Committee, is responsible for ensuring that management fulfills its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal controls. The Audit Committee meets periodically with management, the internal auditors and the external auditor to deal with issues raised by them and to review the financial statements before recommending approval by the Board of Directors.

The financial statements have been audited by the Provincial Auditor. The Provincial Auditor's responsibility is to express an opinion on whether the financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with accounting principles recommended for governments by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants. The Auditor's Report, which appears on the following page, outlines the scope of the Auditor's examination and his opinion.

Auditor's Report

To the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation
and to the Minister of Finance

I have audited the consolidated balance sheet of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation as at March 31, 2003 and the consolidated statements of revenue, expense and unfunded liability and of cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Corporation's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation as at March 31, 2003 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended, in accordance with the accounting principles recommended for governments by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation
Notes to Financial Statements

1. Restructuring of the Ontario Electricity Industry

Effective April 1, 1999, pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998, Ontario Hydro was continued as a corporation without share capital under the name Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). It is exempt from federal and provincial income taxes under paragraph 149(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act of Canada. OEFC is a Crown agency created to manage the debt and administer the assets, liabilities, rights and obligations of Ontario Hydro not transferred to other successor entities. These other successor entities include:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), an electricity generation company;
- Hydro One Inc. (Hydro One), a regulated electricity transmission and distribution business;
- Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO), the regulated centralized independent system co-ordinator responsible for directing system operations and operating the electricity market; and
- Electrical Safety Authority (ESA), which performs a regulatory function related to electrical inspections.

On April 1, 1999, the respective business units, including assets, liabilities, employees, rights and obligations of the former Ontario Hydro, were transferred to OPG and Hydro One (and their subsidiaries) and the IMO for $8.5 billion, $8.6 billion and $78 million respectively in exchange for debt payable to OEFC. On the same day, the Province exchanged equity of $5,126 million and $3,759 million in OPG and Hydro One respectively for debt payable to OEFC.

OEFC debt, liabilities and associated financing costs will be repaid from interest on notes receivable from the Province and successor entities, and, as provided under the Energy Competition Act, 1998, from dedicated electricity revenues in the form of payments-in-lieu (PILs) of corporate income, capital and property taxes made by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities. Any residual debt will be serviced through a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid by electricity consumers after open access at a rate of 0.7 cents per kilowatt hour in most Ontario communities. Until open access on May 1, 2002, OEFC continued to be a party to a revenue-allocation agreement among successor entities and was entitled to the forecast residual amount in the revenue pool after allocations to OPG, Hydro One and the IMO are paid.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Accounting

As OEFC is a government organization, these financial statements are prepared in accordance with the recommendations of the Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Measurement Uncertainty

Uncertainty in the determination of the amount at which an item is recognized in the financial statements is known as measurement uncertainty. Such uncertainty exists when it is reasonably possible that there could be a material variance between the recognized amount and another reasonably possible amount, as there is whenever estimates are used. Measurement uncertainty in these financial statements exists in the estimated amount for the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund, the valuation of the power purchase contracts and the estimated defeasance date for OEFC's obligations. Estimates are based on the best information available at the time of preparation of the financial statements and will be updated annually to reflect new information as it becomes available.

Consolidation

These financial statements include the residual accounts of OEFC's wholly owned subsidiary, Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (see Note 3).

Deferred Debt Costs

Deferred debt costs includes the unamortized amounts related to unrealized foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of long-term debt issued in foreign currencies and discounts, premiums or commissions arising from the issuance of debt or the acquisition of debt prior to maturity. These costs are amortized to operations over the life of the underlying debt.

Revenue Recognition

Revenues are recognized in the period in which they are earned.

Foreign Currency Translation

Debt is composed of short-, medium- and long-term bonds, notes and debentures. Debt denominated in foreign currencies that have been hedged is recorded at the Canadian dollar equivalent using the rates of exchange established by the terms of the hedge agreements. Other foreign currency debt, liabilities and assets are translated to Canadian dollars at period-end rates of exchange and any exchange gains or losses are deferred and amortized over the remaining term to maturity.

Power Purchase Contracts

The power purchase contracts liability is valued on a discounted cash-flow (DCF) basis. Periodic revaluations of this liability will give rise to changes in the estimated cost of the contracts and will be amortized to operations over a maximum 10-year period.

3. Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation

OEFC was the administrator of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation Pension Plan and Fund. It was responsible for negotiating an agreement with each of the successor corporations for the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC pension plan to the pension plans of the successor corporations. The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation, (OEPSC), a wholly owned subsidiary of OEFC, acted as agent for OEFC to carry out the required administrative, investment and other responsibilities of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund.

OEPSC made application to the Superintendent of Financial Services for Ontario for approval to transfer all of the assets of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor operating entities. The Superintendent agreed to the transfer on June 6, 2001. With the exception of certain records and assets of nominal value, all pension fund assets were transferred to the pension plans of successor corporations on June 29, 2001. As OEPSC's functions have been completed, OEFC is in the process of winding up the company.

4. Economic Dependence

OEFC does not have its own credit rating and is, therefore, dependent on the Province to borrow and on-lend the funds required to refinance maturing debt and to cover any cash shortfalls in the Corporation. It is also dependent on the long-term plan to defease the unfunded liability described in Note 12. Based on the Province's support in refinancing maturing debt and the long-term plan, OEFC is considered a going concern.

5. Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents includes cash on deposit and highly liquid investments with maturities of less than three months. They are recorded at cost, which approximates current market value.

6. Due from Province of Ontario

The Province has committed to dedicate the combined net income of OPG and Hydro One in excess of the Province's financing cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries to OEFC. In the year ended March 31, 2003, OPG and Hydro One earned an aggregate amount of $717 million, $197 million in excess of the Province's $520 million financing cost of its investment. In 2001-02, the aggregate earnings of the subsidiaries did not exceed the Province's financing cost. The $197 million amount has been reflected as income in OEFC. In July 2002, the Province paid $370 million to OEFC towards the outstanding balance.

7. Notes and Loans Receivable

| | Maturity date | Interest rate | Interest payable | March 31, 2003 | March 31, 2002 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Province of Ontario | 2039 - 2041 | 5.85 | Monthly | $ 8,885 | $ 8,885 |
| OPG | 2005 - 2011 | 5.44 to 6.65 | Semi-annually | 3,200 | 3,200 |
| Hydro One | 2003 | 5.4 to 13.5 | Semi-annually | 651 | 2,972 |
| IMO | 2009 | 7.90 | Semi-annually | 78 | 78 |
| | | | | 12,814 | 15,135 |
| Less: Current portion of notes receivable | | | | 651 | 443 |
| | | | | 12,163 | 14,692 |
| Loans receivable from non-utility generators (NUGs) (See Note 10) | | | | 174 | 257 |
| | | | | $ 12,337 | $ 14,949 |

OEFC has agreed with OPG and IMO not to sell notes owing from these successor entities without their prior approval.

On March 5, 2003, with the prior approval of Hydro One, OEFC completed the sale of $1,878 million (face value) of Hydro One notes. OEFC realized a gain of $206 million on the sale as interest rates payable on the notes were above market interest rates.

In 2002, OEFC had agreed with OPG to defer principal payments of $200 million originally due in March and September, 2002 until December 2004. These maturities totalling $200 million have been further deferred until December 2006. In addition, OEFC has agreed with OPG to defer principal repayments totalling $500 million originally due in the period March 2003 to September 2004. The new maturity dates on these notes have been extended until March 2005 to September 2006.

8. Debt

Debt at March 31, 2003 is set out below by maturity and by currency of repayment, expressed in Canadian dollars.

|---|---|---|---|---|---|

| 21-25 years | 2,077 | — | — | 2,077 | 3,037 |
| 26-50 years | 929 | — | — | 929 | 966 |
| Total | $ 23,049 | $ 3,716 | $ 65 | $ 26,830 | $ 29,364 |

The effective rate of interest on the debt portfolio is 6.78 per cent (March 2002 - 6.96 per cent) before considering the effect of derivative instruments used to manage interest rate risk. The longest term to maturity is to October 17, 2031. Total foreign currency denominated debt at March 31, 2003 was $3.8 billion (March 2002 - $3.6 billion), of which $2.6 billion or 67.7 per cent (March 2002 - $1.9 billion or 52.8 per cent) was fully hedged to Canadian funds. Bonds and notes payable are either held, or guaranteed as to principal and interest, by the Province as set out below:

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| ($ millions) | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total |
| Short-term debt | 3,413 | — | 3,413 | 3,996 | — | 3,996 |
| Current portion of long-term debt | 350 | 1,315 | 1,665 | 48 | 2,500 | 2,548 |
| Long-term debt | 9,791 | 11,961 | 21,752 | 9,173 | 13,647 | 22,820 |
| Total | $ 13,554 | $ 13,276 | $ 26,830 | $ 13,217 | $ 16,147 | $ 29,364 |

Fair value of debt issued approximates amounts at which debt instruments could be exchanged in a current transaction between willing parties. In valuing the OEFC's debt, fair value is estimated using discounted cash flows and other valuation techniques and is compared to public market quotations where available. These estimates are affected by the assumptions made concerning discount rates and the amount and timing of future cash flows.

The estimated fair value of OEFC debt at March 31, 2003 is $31.2 billion (March 2002 - $32.8 billion). This is higher than the book value of $26.8 billion (March 2002 - $29.4 billion) because current interest rates are generally lower than the interest rates at which the debt was issued and because of exchange rate movements. The fair value of debt does not reflect the effect of related derivative contracts.

9. Risk Management and Derivative Financial Instruments

OEFC employs various risk management strategies and operates within strict risk exposure limits to ensure exposure to risk is managed in a prudent and cost-effective manner. A variety of strategies are used, including the use of derivative financial instruments ("derivatives"). Derivatives are financial contracts, the value of which is derived from underlying instruments. OEFC uses derivatives for the purpose of hedging and to minimize interest costs. Hedges are created primarily through swaps, which are legal arrangements under which OEFC agrees with another party to exchange cash flows based upon one or more notional amounts during a specified period. This allows OEFC to offset its existing obligations and thereby effectively convert them into obligations with more desirable characteristics. Other derivative instruments used by OEFC include forward foreign exchange contracts, forward rate agreements, futures and options.

Foreign exchange or currency risk is the risk of debt servicing costs and principal payments varying due to fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. To minimize currency risk, OEFC uses derivative contracts to convert foreign currency cash flows into Canadian dollar denominated cash flows. The current policy allows unhedged foreign currency cash flows to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At March 31, 2003, 6.3 per cent (March 2002 - 7.5 per cent) of this debt was unhedged, with most of the currency exposure to US dollars.

Floating rate risk is the exposure of OEFC to changes in short-term interest rates over a 12-month period. OEFC reduces its exposure to rate changes by entering into derivative contracts that convert floating interest payments to fixed interest payments. The current policy allows unhedged floating rate debt, net of liquid reserves, to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At March 31, 2003, OEFC's floating rate debt as a percentage of total debt was 13.5 per cent (March 2002 - 9.8 per cent).

Liquidity risk is the risk that OEFC will not be able to meet its current short-term financial obligations. As explained in Note 4, OEFC is dependent on the Province to borrow and on-lend the funds required to refinance maturing debt and to cover any cash shortfalls in the Corporation.

The table below presents a maturity schedule of OEFC's derivatives, by type, outstanding at March 31, 2003, based on the notional amounts of the contracts. Notional amounts represent the volume of outstanding derivative contracts and are not indicative of credit risk, market risk or actual cash flows.

Derivative Portfolio Notional Value

As at March 31, 2003

| Maturity in Fiscal Year | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 | 2008 | 6-10 Years | Over 10 Years | Total 2003 | Total 2002 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|

[1]Other includes swaptions and forward rate agreements.

The use of derivatives introduces credit risk, which is the risk of a counterparty defaulting on contractual derivative obligations in which OEFC has an unrealized gain. The table below presents the credit risk associated with the derivative financial instrument portfolio, measured through the replacement value of derivative contracts, at March 31, 2003.

|---|---|---|
| Gross credit risk exposure[1] | 4,167 | 4,569 |
| Less: Netting[2] | (4,293) | (4,709) |
| Net credit risk exposure[3] | $ (126) | $ (140) |

Notes:
1 Gross credit risk exposure includes credit exposure on swaps, options, futures, forward rate agreements and forward foreign exchange agreements.
2 Master agreements provide for close out netting as contracts do not have coterminous settlement dates.
3 Total exposure to counterparties with positive exposure (meaning that counterparties owed OEFC) was $202 million (March 2002 - $111 million) and the total exposure to counterparties with negative exposure (meaning that OEFC owed the counterparties) was $328 million (March 2002 - $251 million) for a total net credit exposure of ($126) million (March 2002 - ($140) million).

OEFC manages its credit risk exposure from derivatives by, among other things, dealing only with high credit quality counterparties and regularly monitoring compliance to credit limits. In addition, OEFC enters into contractual agreements (master agreements) that provide for termination netting and, if applicable, payment netting with virtually all of its counterparties. Gross credit risk exposure represents the loss OEFC would incur if every counterparty to which OEFC had credit risk exposure were to default at the same time and the contracted netting provisions were not exercised or could not be enforced. Net credit risk exposure is the loss including the mitigating impact of these netting provisions.

As at March 31, 2003, OEFC's most significant concentrations of credit risk were with three A+ or higher rated counterparties, each of which represented more than 10 per cent of the Net Credit Risk Exposure. The net cost to OEFC, if it had to replace all of the swap contracts with these three counterparties is $23 million, $62 million and $85 million, respectively.

10. Power Purchase Contracts

Power purchase agreements and related loan agreements were entered into by Ontario Hydro with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. As the continued Ontario Hydro, OEFC is the counterparty to these contracts. These contracts, expiring on various dates to 2048, provide for the purchase of power at prices that are expected to be in excess of the market price. Since open access on May 1, 2002, this power has been sold at market prices that generally have been less than cost. Prior to open access, power purchased from NUGs was resold at cost to the revenue pool managed by OPG.

During the year, OEFC purchased power in the amount of $786 million (2002 - $815 million) and sold this power for $635 million (2002 - $815 million). Effective April 18, 2002, the NUG Contract Management Agreement between Enron Canada Corporation and OEFC was assigned to UBS Warburg Energy (Canada) Ltd. Annual fees include both a fixed fee of approximately $750,000 plus a variable fee based on performance in minimizing losses under NUG power purchase agreements that amounted to $10 million (2002 - $ nil).

The NUG liability had been valued at $4,286 million on a discounted cash-flow (DCF) basis since Ontario Hydro was continued as OEFC on April 1, 1999. Since the electricity market was opened in this fiscal year, the DCF model was updated as of March 31, 2003 which reduced the estimated liability from $4,286 million to $3,745 million. The revaluation change will be amortized to operations over a 10-year period. In addition, each year, interest at the DCF rate is added to the liability and the estimated in-year loss in the DCF model is deducted from the liability as set out below:

Statement of NUG Liability

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| NUG Liability, March 31, 2002 | | $ 4,286 |
| Interest charged during the year | | 253 |
| Deduct estimated in-year loss | | (372) |
| Revaluation as of March 31, 2003 | | (422) |
| Sub total | | 3,745 |
| Add: Unamortized Revaluation Changes | | |
| Gross Revaluation | 422 | |
| Accumulated Amortization | (42) | 380 |
| | | $ 4,125 |

Loans to NUGs decreased during the period by a net $83 million to $174 million at March 31, 2003 (March 31, 2002 - $257 million), primarily due to principal repayments.

11. Nuclear Funding Liability

OEFC as the continued Ontario Hydro received a liability in the amount of $2,378 million representing nuclear waste management and asset removal liabilities that were incurred prior to April 1, 1999. In March 2002, the Province and OPG entered into the Ontario Nuclear Funds Agreement (ONFA) to establish, fund and manage segregated funds to ensure that sufficient funds are available to pay for costs of nuclear waste management and station decommissioning. The OEFC liability will be directed to the Decommissioning Custodial Fund, which is expected to be established later in 2003.

The Board of Directors of OEFC approved the funding of the Decommissioning Custodial Fund over the next four years, thus discharging the nuclear funding liability. OEFC reflected the nuclear funding liability at April 1, 1999 and has been accruing interest annually at an estimated 5.75 per cent since that time. At March 31, 2003, this estimated accrued interest was included in the liability amount of $2,974 million (2002 - $2,812 million). The calculation of the interest rate is still under negotiation between the parties, but is expected to be finalized later in 2003. The impact of the finalization of the interest rate calculation is not expected to result in a material difference to the liability balance.

12. Unfunded Liability

The opening unfunded liability of $19.4 billion at April 1, 1999 was composed of $38.1 billion in liabilities assumed from old Ontario Hydro less the value of assets transferred to OEFC at April 1, 1999 including $17.2 billion in notes receivable and $1.5 billion in loans receivable and other assets. A long-term plan was established to retire OEFC liabilities from within the electricity sector. The Plan includes cash flows from the following sources as at April 1, 1999:

Notes receivable from the Province of $8.9 billion, OPG of $3.4 billion, Hydro One of $4.8 billion and IMO for $0.1 billion for a total of $17.2 billion as a result of the transfer of assets to successor companies,

Payments-in-lieu of corporate income, property and capital taxes made by OPG, Hydro One and municipal electric utilities,

a Debt Retirement Charge to be paid by ratepayers based on the consumption of electricity, and

Electricity Sector Dedicated Income - The combined net income of OPG and Hydro One in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries will be allocated to the retirement of OEFC's debt.

The long-term plan supports a current estimate that OEFC's obligations will likely be defeased in 2012.

13. Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund

On November 11, 2002, the Province announced a program designed to provide electricity to low volume and designated consumers at a fixed price of 4.3 cents per kilowhatt-hour (kWh) until at least 2006, retroactive to May 1, 2002. Power generators continue to receive the free market price as set in the IMO electricity market. The program is administered through the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF) managed by OEFC.

During periods where the average price of electricity is greater than the fixed rate of 4.3 cents per kWh, the balance is funded by the ECPPF. Conversely, the ECPPF will receive funds during periods where the average price of electricity is lower than the fixed rate of 4.3 cents per kWh. Expenditures from the Fund amounting to $1,461 million in the year were reduced by a portion of the rebate paid by OPG under the Market Power Mitigation Agreement (MPMA) in the amount of $796 million leaving a net cost in OEFC of $665 million.

14. Contingencies and Guarantees

OEFC is involved in various legal actions arising out of the ordinary course and conduct of business, some of which relate to the former Ontario Hydro prior to the establishment of OEFC on April 1, 1999. Under the terms of the April 1, 1999 restructuring of Ontario Hydro, each successor entity (OPG, Hydro One, ESA and IMO, and their respective subsidiaries) is responsible for any liabilities relating to those operations of the former Ontario Hydro that were transferred to it. In the event any such liabilities remained with OEFC, the successor entity is also required to indemnify OEFC. With respect to legal actions relating to operations of Ontario Hydro that were retained by OEFC, the outcome and ultimate disposition of these legal actions is not determinable at this time. Accordingly, no provision for the above actions is reflected in the financial statements. Settlements of these contingencies, if any, will be reflected in the period in which settlement occurs.

Subject to a $10 million and $20 million deductible respectively, OEFC has agreed to indemnify Hydro One and OPG with respect to any adverse claim to title to any asset, right or thing transferred or intended to be transferred to the companies at April 1, 1999 and any failure of the transfer order to transfer such assets, rights or things and with respect to payment to or from or other dealing with any equity account of Ontario Hydro, including certain related litigation. The Province of Ontario has guaranteed any liability arising from these indemnifications.

OEFC is contingently liable under guarantees given to third parties that have provided long-term financing to certain independent power producers in connection with the power purchase agreements described in Note 10. These guarantees total approximately $113 million at March 31, 2003 (2002 - $124 million).

Corporate Governance

Appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, the Board of Directors is responsible for supervising OEFC's business. OEFC retains services from the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA) and the Ministry of Finance to carry out its daily operations. The Board of Directors meets at least quarterly. It monitors OEFC's financial performance and approves OEFC's financial policies and its business plan for each year.

The Minister of Finance reviews and approves the OEFC's annual business plan, which contains long- and short-term objectives and reports on accomplishments for the preceding year. In keeping with the government's Agency Establishment and Accountability Directive, once every three years the Minister of Finance recommends the OEFC business plan to Management Board of Cabinet for approval.

The OEFC Audit Committee supports the Board of Directors with the review and recommendation for approval of OEFC's financial statements. The Audit Committee also recommends the annual internal audit plan and reviews the findings of the internal auditors regarding the adequacy of internal controls. The OEFC Audit Committee has recommended to the Board that the legislation regarding the timing of the delivery and tabling of the Corporation's annual report, including audited financial statements, be made consistent with the timing of the Province's Public Accounts, because of the relationship of OEFC's statements to the Public Accounts.

OEFC's Board also has a NUG Committee. This committee makes decisions concerning OEFC's Power Purchase Agreements. Membership includes OEFC Directors representing the Ministry of Finance and the Ministry of Energy.

Risk Management Policies and Procedures for Borrowing and Debt Management

The OFA incurs credit, market, operational and liquidity risks for OEFC in managing the debt of OEFC. These risks are managed in accordance with risk management policies approved by the OEFC Board of Directors. The Board and management committees establish and approve risk management policies and monitor OEFC's compliance with the policies and the performance of the OFA's OEFC-related capital market activities.

OEFC has a number of policies in place to mitigate financial risks: market risk, credit risk, operational risk and risks related to the use of derivatives. These policies were developed following the Group of Thirty's best practices, the guidelines and directives of regulatory bodies, such as the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions of Canada, the Bank for International Settlements (BIS), and consulting with Canadian bank representatives on their risk management practices.

With the advent of the electricity market and the exposures inherent in the management of the NUGs contracts and related transactions, policies specifically addressing these exposures were recommended to the Board of Directors and approved. These policies and associated procedures will be used to develop and implement an infrastructure for monitoring and assessing NUG-related exposures.

Market Risk

- Market Risk is the risk of financial loss attributable to changes in the values of financial indices including interest rates, credit spreads, foreign exchange rates and liquidity condition.
- This policy provides a framework for borrowing and integrates several aspects dealing with the management of market risk.
    - Foreign Exchange Exposure Limit - OEFC's exposure to unhedged foreign currencies is limited to 20 per cent of outstanding debt. This limit will be reduced to five per cent as soon as feasible and prudent. Foreign exchange exposures are limited to Group of Seven currencies and the Swiss franc or the equivalent currencies (i.e., the Euro).
    - Floating Rate Exposure - OEFC is limited to a maximum floating rate exposure of 20 per cent of debt.
    - Risk Management Loss Limits - The total amount of financial losses resulting from market risk and the default of counterparties shall not exceed a debt cost loss limit specified by the Board of Directors. Additionally, the CEO establishes a debt management trigger level to ensure that losses will not reach the debt cost loss limit. The trigger level is included in the Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan.
    - Risk Measurement - OEFC identifies and quantifies exposures to market risk in its Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan to ensure that risk exposures and losses remain within the approved exposure and loss limits. Exposure to market, credit and liquidity risk is measured daily.
    - Debt Maturity Profile - When issuing new debt on behalf of OEFC, the OFA will aim for a smooth debt maturity profile to diversify the interest rate risk for the refinancing of maturing and floating rate debt.

Credit Risk

Credit risk is risk that a counterparty does not meet, or defaults on its obligations. Credit risk arises when the OFA undertakes financial and derivative transactions on behalf of OEFC. The minimum credit rating of a counterparty for a new swap transaction is AA- and R1-mid for money market investments. The resulting exposure is capped at mark-to-market limits depending on the counterparty's credit rating and capital base.

Operational Risk

OEFC's operational risk is managed through procedures that deal with model risk, legal risk, settlement risk and information systems risks.

Model Risk

OEFC's pricing models are regularly reviewed for accuracy and compliance with industry standards. OEFC's valuation of financial instruments is also reviewed regularly.

Legal Risk

Procedures and standards have been implemented to ensure that documentation of OEFC debt issues, debt management and money market transactions meet industry standards and is enforceable.

Settlement Risk

On behalf of OEFC, the OFA has established internal control procedures and systems, involved external service providers and trained its staff to ensure that transactions are settled correctly and in a timely manner, are recorded accurately, and that service providers are appropriately involved.

Information Systems Risk

As OEFC's service provider, on behalf of OEFC, the OFA has taken measures to protect computer systems and access to the offices of the OFA, monitoring the computer room environment, the establishment of a back-up power source, regular data back-ups, off-site storage, firewalls to protect against unauthorized network intrusions and computer virus scanning. Security is reviewed periodically and when major changes occur.

Use of Derivatives

Derivatives are used solely to advance the objective of providing OEFC's financing and liquidity requirements in a sound and cost-effective manner. Derivatives are used to manage exposures arising from existing and planned debt, and in a manner consistent with the Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan. Risks arising from the use of derivatives are identified, monitored, evaluated and managed prudently.

Risk Management Policies for NUG Power Sales

Market Risk

The NUG Market Risk Policy for Electricity Risk Management provides for a framework governing the use of electricity derivatives for the program, as well as volumetric limits on the level of forward sales and financial loss limits. A key requirement for electricity forwards and other derivative contracts is OEFC's ability to price and measure the risk associated with them. The policy mandates an annual NUG risk management plan, which delineates the assumptions for the upcoming fiscal year, including economic and electricity price assumptions, base case and contingency plans for managing and diversifying risk, and supply availability assumptions. A risk assessment for all assumptions is also required.

Credit Risk

OEFC incurs credit risk in the course of its forward transactions with counterparties in the marketplace. This policy addresses that risk through minimum credit ratings and through exposure, term-, and concentration limits. Additionally, the policy sets out requirements for documentation and enforceability. Monitoring and reporting of credit exposures and credit quality are performed by Risk Control Division.

Supply Availability Risk

Supply Availability Risk is the risk associated with having to meet contractual obligations associated with portfolio hedging transactions through open market transactions. As with financial market activities, management of OEFC's NUGs electricity generation portfolio must assess both market and counterparty credit risks. In addition, managing these risks is further complicated by such risks as equipment breakdown, fuel availability and fuel costs, all of which could affect OEFC's ability to meet its contractual obligations through NUGs supply.

Risk Management Reporting

At its regular quarterly meetings, the OEFC Board of Directors is informed of OEFC's activities, positions and risk exposures through three types of reports:

- CEO's report;
- Exposure and performance report; and
- Exception report provided by the Director of Risk Control, OFA.

OEFC's Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan, which indicates how OEFC risk exposures and losses will be maintained within the approved exposure and loss limits, is approved by the Board of Directors each year.

The CEO provides the Board of Directors with a progress report on the implementation of the Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan, staffing and other administrative and operational matters. The CEO also reports on OEFC's compliance with applicable government directives, and OFA Legal Counsel reports on compliance with applicable laws.

In addition, OFA Management is kept informed of OEFC's risk exposures and positions on a daily basis.

ONTARIO HYDRO FINAL ANNUAL REPORT
JANUARY 1998 – MARCH 1999

Ontario Hydro

CORPORATE PROFILE Ontario Hydro ceased operations on March 31, 1999; its assets and functions were transferred by provincial statute to two commercial successor corporations, Ontario Power Generation Inc. and Ontario Hydro Services Company Inc., as well as to two not-for-profit agencies, the Independent Electricity Market Operator and the Electrical Safety Authority.

Ontario Hydro, a self-sustaining corporation without share capital, was created by provincial statute and operated under the Power Corporation Act of Ontario, which has now been succeeded by the Energy Competition Act, 1998. Bonds and notes issued by Ontario Hydro prior to April 1, 1999, are guaranteed by the Province of Ontario.

Until the demerger of the company on April 1, 1999, Ontario Hydro served 108 direct industrial customers, almost one million retail customers and 255 municipal utilities, which in turn serve almost 3 million customers.

Ontario Power Generation (OPG) inherited Ontario Hydro's generating portfolio, making it one of the largest power producers in North America in terms of installed capacity. The OPG system includes 69 hydroelectric stations, three nuclear sites and six operating fossil-fueled stations. Total installed system capacity is approximately 31,000 megawatts. Ontario Hydro's total energy sales in 1998 were almost 139 terawatt-hours.

Ontario Hydro Services Company (OHSC), the other successor company, is an energy-services-based transmission and distribution company. It owns and maintains 29,000 kilometres of transmission lines, 114,700 kilometres of distribution lines, 240 kilometres of high-voltage underground cable, 256 transformer stations, 928 distribution and regulating stations and 20 microwave stations. OHSC also retains the retail business formerly held by Ontario Hydro, which serves over 950,000 customers, and the transmission and generating business for 23 remote communities in Northern Ontario.

Ending on a High Note

DESPITE THE MANY OPERATIONAL AND RESTRUCTURING CHALLENGES OF 1998 AND THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1999, ONTARIO HYDRO'S FINANCIAL HISTORY CONCLUDES ON A HIGH NOTE. REVENUES AND NET INCOME WERE STRONG AND SIX YEARS OF STABLE RATES HAVE SIGNIFICANTLY REDUCED ELECTRICITY COSTS AS A PROPORTION OF PROVINCIAL ECONOMIC ACTIVITY, BOOSTING ONTARIO'S ENERGY PRODUCTIVITY AND, AS A RESULT, ITS INDUSTRIAL COMPETITIVENESS.

FROM WINTER ICE STORM TO SUMMER HEAT WAVE, FROM THE NEED TO RELIABLY MEET ONTARIO'S ELECTRICITY DEMAND TODAY TO THE MANDATE TO LOOK BEYOND ONTARIO TOMORROW, ONTARIO HYDRO'S FINAL 15 MONTHS AS AN OPERATING ENTITY WERE FILLED WITH GREAT CHALLENGES AND GREAT CHANGE. THROUGHOUT IT ALL, OUR EMPLOYEES DISPLAYED EQUAL MEASURES OF COOPERATION AND COMPETITIVENESS. THEY ARE ONTARIO HYDRO'S MOST VALUABLE LEGACY TO THE FUTURE.

We are preparing for competition; our aim is to make our commercial successor companies successful in the new energy services marketplace.

This is the Final Annual Report of Ontario Hydro, which ceased operations on March 31, 1999; its assets and functions have been transferred to successor companies and agencies. For this reason, the 1998 Annual Report was delayed to include a report on the company's final quarter.

The 15 months since our last Annual Report was a historic period for Ontario Hydro and the province's electricity industry. It began with the most devastating ice storm on record and the largest emergency power restoration effort ever undertaken by Ontario Hydro and its municipal utility allies in Eastern Ontario. Record summertime peak demand briefly approached the limits of our current in-service generating capacity. By the end of 1998, a new provincial statute, the Energy Competition Act, 1998, had rewritten the fundamental rules under which our industry has operated throughout most of this century. And these are only the major highlights of the period.

Despite unprecedented demands on Ontario Hydro's people, everything that happened during this period strengthened our conviction that we will be prepared for competition and that both commercial successor companies will be successful in the emerging North American energy services marketplace.

Our response to the ice storm showed how deep the reservoir of our organizational and technical skills really is and how committed our people are to the safety and well-being of our customers, regardless of the conditions that must be braved or workloads endured. They proved once again that reliability begins with people and that only people can sustain it.

But the wires networks are only one side – the delivery side – of the reliability equation. The other is supply reliability, and here too Ontario Hydro's generation staff, at our nuclear, hydroelectric and fossil-fueled stations, proved their resourcefulness and commitment to customers.

To replace the output of reactors laid up under the Nuclear Asset Optimization Program (NAOP), the Fossil business boosted its production to its highest level in more than a decade, and did so without exceeding provincial air emissions regulations. In Hydroelectric, production was constrained by low water levels, but staff nonetheless extracted every possible kilowatt out of their facilities. Both businesses, along with Central Market Operations, helped ensure that Ontario suffered no supply interruptions during the record spikes in summer peak demand that threatened shortages in other areas of North America.

The Nuclear business made substantial progress towards its multi-year goal of moving performance back to the top quartile of world nuclear industry standards. When Ontario Hydro's generating portfolio was assumed by Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG) on April 1, 1999, nuclear production and capability factors were up; forced outages were down; most performance targets were exceeded; and new agreements with our unions gave us more operational flexibility to speed the recovery to excellence and help position the company to seize more quickly the growing opportunities in the U.S. power marketplace.

All of the above was accomplished, moreover, during the restructuring of the corporation in line with the passage of the Energy Competition Act, 1998. This legislation marks Ontario as the first jurisdiction in North America to plan to introduce electricity competition at both the wholesale and the retail level at the same time. The Act ended Ontario Hydro's statutory existence and replaced it with two legally separate, commercially oriented successor companies – OPG and Ontario Hydro Services Company Inc. (OHSC). At the same time, Ontario Hydro's Central Market Operator became yet another separate entity, the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO), which will not only oversee the marketplace but direct the operation of the transmission system owned by OHSC. Municipal electric utilities and the Ontario Hydro Services Company alike are required to separate their monopoly wires businesses from their competitive merchant functions. Finally, Ontario Hydro's responsibility for electrical inspection throughout the province was transferred to a not-for-profit public agency, the Electrical Safety Authority.

These changes, large as they are, define only the barest framework of what Ontario's electricity marketplace will look like once competition is introduced by the government, expected sometime in the year 2000. Rules to assure both suppliers and customers of a level playing field must be fully developed before competition can begin. Much of this work was done during 1998 by the multi-stakeholder Market Design Committee (MDC), established at the beginning of 1998 to advise the government on detailed marketplace rules.

The MDC proposed a ten-year, staged reduction of Ontario Power Generation's control over provincial electricity supply, accompanied by measures to ensure price stability during the transition period when competition is first being established. As part of the proposal, the Ontario Hydro Services Company will make every effort to increase the province's interconnection capacity by 50% over the next five years. This plan has been accepted by the government. The future has begun.

The two commercial successor companies will use the remainder of 1999 to finalize their preparations for the open marketplace. One of their critical tasks will be to help customers prepare as well. Public education programs, through advertising and other forms of customer outreach, will be prominent this year. It is important to the success of customer choice that they understand the marketplace and their own energy service needs. Both companies will work with others in the industry to promote that understanding among all customers, not just their own.

In 1999, Ontario Hydro's successors will also finalize plans to ensure that the province enters the new millennium on January 1, 2000, without any interruption of power. Analysis, remediation, testing and Y2K-readiness certification of all critical systems was complete by the end of 1998. Coordination with suppliers, customers and interconnected systems will take place throughout the first half of 1999. All signs point to a successful rollover into 2000, but contingency planning is under way for the sake of prudence and public reassurance.

Throughout these final months, even as we planned for the future, we were determined not to lose our focus on what is most critical to our customers every single day: safety, reliability, service and competitive prices. We looked forward to the future, but we lived and worked in the present. Our customers' needs always took precedence. No matter what else may change for our successor companies, this basic operating principle will not.

As our successors move closer to a competitive future, they will build on Ontario Hydro's historic achievements. We expect that the new companies will contribute to the prosperity of Ontario in the next century at least as much as Ontario Hydro did in this one.

Ontario Hydro's Successors

THE YEAR 1998 WAS THE 92ND AND LAST FULL YEAR OF OPERATIONS FOR ONTARIO HYDRO. ON APRIL 1, 1999, IT WAS SUCCEEDED BY FIVE NEW SUCCESSOR ENTITIES, TWO OF WHICH ARE SEPARATELY MANAGED, COMMERCIALLY ORIENTED COMPANIES. THESE SUCCESSORS WERE INCORPORATED IN LATE 1998.

ONTARIO POWER GENERATION INC.

Ontario Power Generation (OPG) inherits Ontario Hydro's 31,000 megawatts of installed generating capacity at its 80 hydroelectric, nuclear and fossil-fueled stations, making it one of North America's largest power producers. OPG is very cost-competitive with U.S. generators in our region of the continent – a growing market for low-unit-cost, low-emission energy.

OPG facilities now supply about 85% of the province's electricity demand. Under an agreement with the provincial government, that proportion will be gradually reduced so that by about 2010, OPG will control no more than 35% of the province's total supply options. The company will increasingly compete in the U.S., as markets there open to competition.

ONTARIO HYDRO SERVICES COMPANY INC.

Ontario Hydro Services Company (OHSC) is a holding company with two major holdings: the 29,000-kilometre transmission grid and the 114,700-kilometre distribution system. It serves almost one million customers, mostly in rural and remote communities.

OHSC plans to leverage its infrastructure assets and the expertise of its employees to enter new businesses that will contribute to the company's growth and shareholder value.

INDEPENDENT ELECTRICITY MARKET OPERATOR

The Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) will serve two major functions in Ontario's electricity market. It will manage the spot market, reconciling transactions among buyers and sellers; and direct the operation of the provincial transmission system to ensure reliability and fair access under market rules. The IMO will have no commercial connection to any market participant.

ELECTRICAL SAFETY AUTHORITY

The Electrical Safety Authority will continue Ontario Hydro's former inspection service. It is a stand-alone, self-funded entity with no commercial ties to any utility or other energy services company.

ONTARIO ELECTRICITY FINANCIAL CORPORATION

The Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation is a Crown agent responsible for servicing and retiring Ontario Hydro's provincially guaranteed debt. It provides the risk management, cash management, banking and accounting services to manage and retire the debt. The OEFC is also responsible for administering the pension assets of Ontario Hydro until they can be allocated among the successor companies' pension plans.

But we know that even the largest competitive advantage can be sustained only by continuous improvements in our knowledge, efficiency and responsiveness to customers. To hit our targets in future, we must aim even higher than we have in the past.

ENSURING A RELIABLE SUPPLY OF POWER WAS LONG ONTARIO HYDRO'S DOMINANT CUSTOMER SERVICE VALUE. In the competitive marketplace, however, there are as many service objectives as there are customers; each relationship can be unique. OPG and OHSC, Ontario Hydro's commercial successors, see this new reality as an opportunity to provide an ever-expanding array of services that customers say they need and value.

ONTARIO HYDRO HAS FULFILLED THE AMBITIOUS MANDATE OF ITS VISIONARY FOUNDERS. A vast and sturdy network of wires brings electricity to everyone in Ontario. The hydroelectric potential of the province has largely been tapped. New technologies and processes have been readily embraced. Many major industries, the main source of Ontario's prosperity in this century, were attracted here by Ontario Hydro's low-cost, abundant power. These achievements are an enduring legacy to Ontario, as well as to the commercial corporations that succeed Ontario Hydro in the new era of customer choice. Bridging the accomplishments of the past and the opportunities of the future are four defining values: safety, reliability, competitiveness and customer service. Each of these is grounded in Ontario Hydro's traditional strengths. And each has been carried forward into the successor companies, guiding them to new achievements – beyond the imagination of Ontario Hydro's founders, perhaps, but not beyond their values.

Operations Report

IN A TIME OF CLIMATIC EXTREMES, UNPRECEDENTED OPERATIONAL CHALLENGES AND HISTORIC RESTRUCTURING LEGISLATION, THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO HYDRO NEVER LOST FOCUS ON THEIR CORE MISSION: RELIABLY AND SAFELY MEETING PROVINCIAL ELECTRICITY DEMAND. AT THE SAME TIME, THEY IMPROVED ASSET VALUE, LAUNCHED NEW SERVICES, ENHANCED CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIPS AND RESPONDED TO EMERGENCIES WITH PROFESSIONALISM AND COMMITMENT.

The Demerger Project

ORCHESTRATING THE LARGEST CORPORATE DEMERGER IN CANADIAN HISTORY TO ENSURE ITS SUCCESSOR COMPANIES WERE FULLY OPERATIONAL ON APRIL 1, 1999, WAS ONTARIO HYDRO'S FINAL SUCCESS.

The seamless transition of Ontario Hydro into its successor companies without even a momentary interruption of critical activities was the mission of the Demerger Project launched in mid-1998. Nearly one hundred employees were directly assigned to the complex undertaking and over one thousand more were indirectly involved at some point. The project was guided by the provincial government's 1997 White Paper on electricity industry restructuring and its enabling legislation, the Energy Competition Act, 1998.

A Demerger Project Office was charged with coordinating, monitoring and expediting the approximately 800 separate project activities identified by a Task Implementation Committee and assigned to one of six Task Working Groups, each responsible for a key aspect of the transition. An overview of the project's accomplishments:

• Corporate Finance Restructuring. The financial architecture of the new business entities was defined, including their debt/equity structures, credit ratings, asset valuation, initial balance sheets and business plans. The approach taken for each successor business involved balancing three key considerations: establishing a competitive electricity marketplace; allowing for the enhancement of shareholder value; and optimizing the repayment of the provincially backed Ontario Hydro debt.

• Governance/New Legislation. Transfer Orders for transfer of assets, contracts, liabilities, litigation and staff to the successor companies were prepared for government execution, and operating licences for OPG and OHSC were obtained from the regulator, the Ontario Energy Board. This area of activity also involved coordinating Ontario Hydro's position on restructuring legislation and regulation and recommending a schedule for the proclamation of sections of the Energy Competition Act, 1998 (ECA) and repeal of corresponding sections of the law it superseded, the Power Corporation Act (PCA).

• Operations. The specific functional requirements of each successor company were identified and addressed. These included each entity's organizational structure and staffing, initial operating plans and budgets, and due diligence in areas such as environment, contingency/emergency planning and First Nations considerations. Of particular importance in this area was coordinating the complex functional needs of large projects under way prior to demerger planning, such as the Nuclear Asset

The Demerger Project built the bridge between the achievements of our singular past and the opportunities that lie in our separate futures.

Optimization Plan, that were critical to the operation of a successor company.

• Legal/Transition Issues. All of Ontario Hydro's legislative and regulatory obligations under the PCA were transferred to a successor, in accordance with the new legislation. Some of these responsibilities, such as the regulation of municipal electric utilities, were assigned to regulatory bodies, such as the Ontario Energy Board.

• Corporate Functions. The necessary infrastructure for services and functions previously provided by a business unit in Ontario Hydro was developed for each successor. Services such as purchasing, health, security, telecom, real estate, information technology, corporate records, investment recovery and office space were provided through inter-company service agreements or make/buy decisions. Functions such as law, human resources, audit, finance, pension, treasury and corporate affairs were similarly addressed.

• Human Resources. Each employee of Ontario Hydro as of March 31, 1999, was transferred to a successor company, which had in place all necessary records and applicable labour agreements, as well as pension, compensation, benefits, and health and safety plans.

A full report on all the above activities was provided to each successor company prior to April 1. This report included an analysis of the subsequent work to be completed before the government declares the Ontario electricity market open to competition.

The success of the Demerger Project was twofold. Not only did it meet all its objectives, it also allowed everyone else in the corporation to continue devoting all their time and expertise to serving Ontario Hydro customers and, after the transition date, the customers of its successors. It built the bridge between the achievements of our singular past and the opportunities that lie in our separate futures.

Excellence Today Means Competitiveness Tomorrow

GETTING READY TO COMPETE AS ONTARIO POWER GENERATION IN WHAT WILL SOON BE ONE OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST POWER MARKETPLACES, THE GENERATION COMPANY INCREASED OPERATIONAL EFFICIENCIES, TECHNOLOGICALLY UPGRADED SEVERAL FACILITIES AND MADE SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS TOWARDS ITS GOAL OF BECOMING ONE OF THE WORLD'S TOP PERFORMERS.

NUCLEAR

Ontario Hydro Nuclear (OHN) made substantial progress during the last 15 months towards its multi-year goal of bringing its operations back into the top quartile of global nuclear industry performance.

Early in 1998, the Board of Directors approved the Integrated Improvement Program (IIP), the operational underpinning of the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP) that had been recommended in 1997 by the Nuclear Performance Advisory Group. The NAOP called for the temporary lay-up of eight reactor units at Pickering A and Bruce A and the concentration of OHN resources on the remaining 12, four each at Pickering B, Bruce B and Darlington.

By the end of April 1998, the major elements of the IIP had been identified, including milestone dates and key deliverables. A team from the World Association of Nuclear Operators (WANO) visited Pickering, Bruce and Darlington in the spring of 1998 and confirmed that the IIP was a comprehensive statement of the problems needing correction in OHN and that the program was sound. Key areas for performance improvement included the planning and execution of planned outages; the implementation of standardized policies, procedures and processes; and the establishment of an organization needed to achieve all objectives.

By March 1998, the four Pickering A units were safely laid up, following some 100,000 hours of work. Most of the staff were then transferred to Pickering B to work on IIP projects on those four reactors. In March as well, the Board reconfirmed its August 1997 decision to temporarily lay up Bruce A units 3 and 4 in order to free up more resources for the IIP. The Bruce lay-up work began in April 1998 and will be completed in 1999. Some of the Bruce A staff moved over to the Bruce B units; others have been deployed to Darlington.

The most fundamental indicator of nuclear performance improvement is a composite index based on nine measures specified by WANO:

- Capability Factor
- Safety System Performance
- Chemistry Performance
- Unplanned Capability Loss Factor
- Thermal Performance
- Collective Radiation Exposure
- Reactor Trip Rate
- Fuel Reliability
- Industrial Safety Accident Rate

By the end of the first quarter of 1999, the OHN Performance Index had reached a level of 69.2

– out of a total index of 100 – exceeding its target for the fifth consecutive quarter and bettering by nearly 11 index points the level at the end of 1997.

Stakeholder Communications

In late 1997, OHN began issuing monthly performance report cards to keep government and other stakeholders apprised of nuclear recovery progress. These report cards continued throughout 1998 and into 1999. In addition to the WANO-specified OHN Performance Index, the card also reported on 14 other monthly performance indicators, grouped in the following four areas:

- Public Safety
- Production Performance
- Environment
- Employee Safety

Of the 15 indicators on the monthly report card, OHN had met or exceeded the target in 12 categories by the end of March 1999, compared with only six at the end of January 1998. In the area of Production Performance, for example, OHN's net electrical production for 1998 was 59.9 terawatt-hours, compared with the target, 56.3 terawatt-hours; and the capability factor was better than its target, as was the total of outage days per unit.

While these numbers were very encouraging, Nuclear is determined to accelerate IIP progress during the remainder of 1999, to improve its ability to supply competitively priced power in the Ontario and North American energy marketplaces as they open to competition.

Also in the Reporting Period

In March 1998, Pickering was granted a 12-month operating licence by the Atomic Energy Control Board, and in March 1999, the licence was renewed for a further two years. In November 1998, Darlington was granted a two-year licence renewal.

In the first quarter of 1998, the Bruce Heavy Water Plant was decommissioned.

Between June and December 1998, Pickering set a new employee safety record of 2.6 million person-hours worked without a lost-time injury.

Nuclear Waste Management

Ontario Hydro has always had responsibility for the management of nuclear waste in a manner that is safe, as well as environmentally, socially and financially responsible. Finding a safe and acceptable long-term way to manage Canada's nuclear fuel waste has been studied for several years by the federal government, with support from Ontario Hydro. In December, a major step towards this goal was taken when the government of Canada responded to the report of the Nuclear Fuel Waste Management and Disposal Concept Environmental Assessment Panel.

Ontario Hydro welcomed the federal government response and the direction it provided for the long-term management of nuclear fuel waste in Canada. Work is continuing with the federal and Ontario governments and other Canadian nuclear utilities to implement work programs designed to achieve the goals of the federal government's nuclear waste management policy.

Isotope Sales

Ontario Power Generation also succeeds Ontario Hydro as the world's largest supplier of the radioactive isotopes cobalt 60 and tritium, and is one of the largest suppliers of deuterium oxide (heavy water). These isotopes, which are byproducts of the company's Nuclear operations, are in great demand in the medical, industrial and research sectors. Isotope sales have consistently met business plan projections while contributing to Ontario Hydro's net income.

Despite facing unusual production demands during 1998, Fossil met or bettered all of its key performance targets.

FOSSIL

The Fossil business was called on to dramatically increase its production during 1998 and the first quarter of 1999 to offset reductions in Nuclear. It delivered 35 terawatt-hours of energy in 1998 – its highest production level in over a decade. As a result, provincial electricity supply reliability and service to export customers was never compromised, even during the unprecedented surge in summer peak demand.

In the first quarter of 1999, even with strong secondary sales and January production that was the highest for any single month this decade, Fossil production was slightly below target because of higher than expected Hydroelectric and Nuclear production.

Despite facing unusual production demands during 1998, Fossil met or bettered all of its key performance targets, including those related to the environment. Generating-unit reliability was significantly better than targeted levels and, at the same time, both OM&A and fuel unit energy costs were kept under budget. Not only did the business meet its ambitious safety targets, but its performance in this area was the best ever.

To achieve this dramatic increase in production from previous years, Fossil stepped up virtually all its production plans. Throughout the period, reliability and flexibility were the hallmarks of Fossil's operation. When very favourable market conditions developed, Fossil was able to quickly change its plans – by realigning maintenance outages, fuel deliveries and staffing – to take advantage of higher prices.

Another key factor in Fossil's performance was its fuel supply program, which had to be ramped up quickly but economically. During 1998, the program not only provided the 15 million tons of coal and 3 million barrels of oil required to generate 35 terawatt-hours, it also was able to increase the proportion of low-sulphur, high-quality coal in the fuel mix. This helped ensure that the business met acid gas emission regulations and self-imposed emission rate targets for both acid gas and carbon dioxide emissions.

In December, the Thunder Bay plant achieved ISO 14001 certification, and at Lennox the return to service of two mothballed units was completed. Also late in the year, the Lennox plant celebrated the successful completion of its gas pipeline and boiler conversion project, enabling two of the plant's four units to burn both natural gas and oil. The conversion lowers the plant's operating costs by about 20%. It also reduces sulphur dioxide, nitrogen oxide and greenhouse gas emissions by about 25%.

The Nanticoke and Lambton plants made progress on major remedial programs, including a variety of turbine and boiler projects that will improve future reliability, operating efficiency and environmental performance. In addition, Nanticoke made modifications so it could use natural gas instead of oil in the furnace ignition system, as well as to fire a coal drying process to improve the combustion of lower-cost, low-sulphur coal from the western United States. The plant also completed installation of new burners on five of its eight generating units, reducing nitrogen oxide emissions from those units by about 30%.

HYDROELECTRIC

A shortened spring snow melt coupled with below-normal precipitation across the province

resulted in Hydroelectric's total 1998 energy production from its 69 generating stations being 2.7 terawatt-hours less than the target of 34.6. The lower water levels, however, gave the Hydroelectric business the opportunity to perform necessary facility maintenance and more aggressively implement its ongoing program of capital investments. During the year, the 14th unit of a 16-unit rehabilitation program was completed at Robert H. Saunders Generating Station. At the Sir Adam Beck 2 Generating Station, the third and fourth units of a 16-unit upgrade were completed, with new runners and major components replaced or refurbished. In total, Hydroelectric invested $134 million in 1998 on these and other refurbishment programs.

Also in 1998, Hydroelectric completed significant portions of a program leading to ISO 14001 certification of its Environmental Management System (EMS) for its production facilities. The EMS ensures that Hydroelectric facilities are operated in a manner that meets internationally recognized quality standards for environmental performance, which is increasingly important in a competitive marketplace.

Hydroelectric formed a Small Hydro Division in 1998, comprising 26 stations accounting for almost 2% of the total Hydroelectric capacity. The new division creates a more distinct business focus for these assets, providing a greater degree of operational flexibility and better positioning them for the growing consumer interest in environment-friendly power.

Hydroelectric had many occasions to celebrate both its past and present achievements in 1998. In March, Ear Falls G.S. was reopened after a fire in 1997 that badly damaged the powerhouse and the generators. The station was refurbished in record time, complete with a new powerhouse and four new generators.

In August, celebrations marked the 100th anniversary of DeCew Falls G.S. 1 in St. Catharines, Ontario's oldest operating hydroelectric station. Other significant service milestones this year were the 50th anniversary of Stewartville G.S. on the Madawaska River and the 40th anniversary of Robert H. Saunders G.S. on the St. Lawrence River. These celebrations were all reminders of the enduring value of our hydroelectric system and give greater meaning to our reinvestments to preserve and enhance our ability to produce safe and reliable energy from a renewable water resource.

WORKING WITH OUR CUSTOMERS

Our core product is electricity but our flexibility in pricing, supply conditions, energy services and account management allowed us to tailor offerings to best meet customer needs.

Here are some examples of how Ontario Hydro strengthened customer relationships through new services, communications and business initiatives.

- Customers learned how to understand and benefit from the coming competitive electricity marketplace through the Quest – Learning Together series of day-long sessions held throughout the year.
- Customers participating in the Interconnected Market Gain Sharing Program made money in June 1998 during a major price spike in the U.S. Northeast. The program allowed firm power customers to reduce their purchases in exchange for a share of OPG's gains from selling power at higher market prices.
- In response to customer demand, Ontario Hydro designed a wholesale green power offering that is EcoLogo certified. It includes new and existing renewables such as small hydro, landfill gas and wind.

Focused on Reliability – Poised for Growth

MAINTAINING AND IMPROVING WIRES NETWORKS THAT COULD CIRCLE THE GLOBE NEARLY FOUR TIMES WAS THE FIRST RESPONSIBILITY OF ONTARIO HYDRO SERVICES COMPANY. THE SECOND WAS THE GROWTH OF COMPETITIVE BUSINESSES THROUGH THE MARKETING OF ENERGY, NETWORK AND RELATED SERVICES THAT CUSTOMERS WANT, NEED AND VALUE.

ICE STORM SHOWCASES CRISIS CAPABILITIES

The fundamental strengths of Ontario Hydro Services Company (OHSC) were never more impressively illustrated than in January 1998, when over 600,000 people in an area of 25,000 square kilometres in Eastern Ontario lost power during the most severe ice storm on record. In five devastating days, the sheer weight of unprecedented accumulations of ice – nearly twice the typical amount for an entire year – literally crushed the electricity system. Hundreds of steel transmission towers crumpled. Seven thousand wooden distribution poles snapped like matchsticks, bringing 1,800 pole-top transformers down with them. By the time it was over, the storm had damaged 40% of Eastern Ontario's transmission and distribution systems.

Local OHSC and municipal crews began power restoration efforts even before the storm abated, and reinforcements quickly flowed into the region from across the province and beyond. At the peak of the effort, nearly 2,200 front-line workers laboured 16 hours a day, seven days a week, in piercing cold and sometimes blizzard-like snowstorms. Over half were Ontario Hydro staff; the rest were from other utilities in Ontario and elsewhere. Nearly 1,000 Canadian Armed Forces personnel worked tirelessly alongside the utility crews. Behind the scenes, hundreds more OHSC staff orchestrated the supply lines, answered a quarter-million calls from worried customers, and handled the countless details that went into speeding the recovery. Within two weeks, over 90% of all affected Ontario Hydro residential and business customers had their power restored, an incredible feat by any standards. A post-event analysis led to an updating and reorganization of OHSC emergency response procedures, so that if such an event occurs again, the recovery would be even quicker.

The historic response of Ontario Hydro Services Company staff to the ice storm will long serve as the reminder we all perhaps need occasionally that the most important element of power system reliability is the human one. The skill, dedication and professionalism brought by OHSC staff to this crisis are with us all year long. They are the reason OHSC is confident it can continue to maintain the transmission and distribution reliability standards Ontario has come to expect, and do so with increasing efficiency and continuously renewed sensitivity to our customers' needs.

ASSET MANAGEMENT BUSINESS MODEL

OHSC has adopted an asset management

business model for its wires networks that separates decisions on the investments needed to maintain and improve assets from the actual work on those assets. Under this model, which is also in use at best-practice utilities worldwide, OHSC's Network Asset Management Group makes the investment decisions and the Network Services Group performs the work. This approach ensures reliability and optimum use of assets with the most efficient use of OHSC's human and financial resources.

At the transmission level, the new model has been implemented with the creation of the Transmission Operation Management (TOM) Centre – OHSC's link to other key electricity system participants: suppliers, customers, the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) and Network Services. The centre also coordinates and implements emergency response plans during significant transmission system events. It also contains Outage Management, System Performance, Operating Effectiveness and Operating Strategy Implementation departments.

At the distribution level, OHSC has launched its new Distribution Operations Management Centre, which will take over responsibility for answering after-hours trouble calls for the entire province by September 15, 1999. The centre allows much better coordination of work crews and lets us inform customers when they can expect their power to be restored. Eventually, the Distribution Operations Management Centre will operate a sophisticated Distribution Outage Management System, which will further improve customer service.

OHSC has also initiated a major re-engineering of its business processes, with a new work management, material management and financial system and an upgrade of computer technology infrastructure.

NEW GENERATION PLANT IN REMOTE NORTHERN COMMUNITY

To ensure future reliability to the Northern logging community of Armstrong, the Remote Communities program installed a new diesel generating plant comprising three generators with a total capacity of 2,550 kilowatts (kW) and a prime rating of 1,450 kW. Peak load in the service area is now 900 kW, allowing community and local industry growth. The prime rating of the existing 25-year-old plant was being exceeded. With the old plant located close to a trout stream, relocation to another, lower-risk site was the preferred option.

The new installation incorporates the latest in operational and environmental controls, such as a SCADA system. It is housed in a diesel plant that employs the most up-to-date environmental technology for these remote applications.

As part of the legal separation of OPG and OHSC, a special legislative provision was put in place to keep the generation business within OHSC in remote Far North communities.

CUSTOMER COMMUNICATION CENTRES UPGRADED, EXPANDED

The centralized Customer Communication Centres (CCC), which celebrated their first full year of operation in 1998, experienced their "trial by ice" in January by fielding as many as 30,000 calls a day in round-the-clock operations. An analysis of the ice storm response led to the installation of new call flooding technologies that enable automated reporting of outages directly from the customer to the appropriate service centre.

During the year as well, a Customer Loyalty Centre was set up within CCC's operation. The centres handle billing and service inquiries and issues for over 900,000 retail customers. The Customer Loyalty Centre works with customers to quickly resolve their concerns, taking corrective or compensatory action when necessary. By tracking complaints, the centre can help determine the nature and scope of service failures and assist in identifying policy and process changes that lead to improvements.

Consolidating the customer telephone service to the Customer Communication Centres allowed the extension of service hours: customers can now call from 7:30 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. This year the centres will increase availability to customers even more. Although 24-hour emergency outage response service has always been provided, a new call answering system will be brought on line, allowing a higher volume of outage emergency calls. As well, the centres will implement a further extension to hours, opening up our regular lines until 8:00 p.m.

OH TELECOM VENTURE

OHSC began preparing in 1998 to launch telecommunications. As a "carriers' carrier," OH Telecom may transmit data and voice communications through its optical fibre network in Ontario for clients such as long-distance telephone carriers, Internet service providers and corporations with large-scale data transfer requirements.

RETAIL MERCHANT COMPETITIVE SERVICES

Commercially oriented services were introduced by OHSC in 1998. Indeed, this is an example of the OHSC strategy of building competitive businesses by leveraging existing assets and expertise. All its non-regulated energy services are offshoots of its resident skills and are aimed at identified market opportunities that have been carefully analyzed for their growth potential.

PAYONE PROGRAM LAUNCHED

PayONE is a sophisticated bill consolidation and utility accounting service aimed at commercial and institutional customers with multiple sites, such as restaurant chains, property management companies, retailers and school boards. The program, piloted with McDonald's locations in Ontario, collects all the utility bills the customer receives (such as electricity, gas, water and sewage), verifies them, pays the utility and sends a single, electronic consolidated bill in a format that best suits the customer's needs. Besides freeing up accounting staff and saving customers money in other ways, the service provides utility usage and cost profiles, trending and benchmarking that will support operating decisions and help set budgets. PayONE signed up several clients in 1998 and more are expected in 1999.

CUSTOM SOLUTIONS

Commercial and industrial energy management is a growing business sector and Custom Solutions is already in this business, with some early notable successes under its belt. The largest was a project to identify, design, implement and finance utility cost-saving opportunities for Cadillac Fairview at 18 commercial properties across Ontario. Total savings of $1.1 million annually were identified on a one-time investment of $3.2 million.

Other services include PowerSelect, which addresses power quality requirements, and Utility Accounting and Analysis. This latter service, among other things, simplifies, compares and analyzes billing data for multi-site customers and gives them a historical view of their electricity consumption and operating costs.

NORTHWIND TORONTO PROJECT

OHSC, in a commercial alliance with Toronto

Hydro and Unicom Thermal Technologies of Chicago, is developing Canada's first major district cooling project, which will provide services in Toronto's downtown core.

OPEX 2000

In January 1999, OHSC's program to achieve operational excellence was launched. By overhauling old processes or introducing new ones, OpEx 2000 will enable OHSC to optimize capital and productivity, and deliver excellent customer service. In short, through OpEx 2000, we will ensure we are running effectively and efficiently – and that we have what it takes to thrive in the competitive marketplace.

Several key processes and initiatives, critical to business success, constitute OpEx 2000: Customer Service; Distribution Network Asset Management; Transmission Network Asset Management; Design and Construction; Resource Management (Scheduling and Bid/Work Ordering); Operations, Maintenance and Restoration; Logistical Support (Trades Training, Supply Management, Fleet Management); Facility Management; Performance Management; Health, Safety and Environment; and Change Management/Communications.

In 1998, OHSC Forestry achieved the type of productivity gains to be realized through OpEx 2000 process improvements. Through such measures as the consolidation of crews, use of temporary work headquarters to reduce traveling time and the establishment of clear performance objectives, more work was accomplished, more safely, in 1998 than in 1997. This achievement is even more significant given the fact that all regular forestry work had to be suspended for six weeks in early 1998 because of the ice storm restoration demands.

LARGE-SCALE YEAR 2000 TEST

On March 6, 1999, Ontario's first major test of Y2K readiness of OHSC's transmission network was successfully conducted without any interruption of power to the 180,000 customers of Toronto Hydro that might have been affected. At midnight, the SCADA system for Manby Transmission Station and the seven other transmission stations it controls, as well as all associated protection and communications equipment, underwent a simulated rollover to midnight, January 1, 2000. While each of these systems had been previously tested individually and certified Year 2000 ready, this was the first test of all the equipment working together. The test then continued until the clocks on the equipment successfully passed the simulated date of February 29, 2000, another critical date because next year is a leap year.

ARC2000 PROJECT

Another key program was launched in the first quarter of 1999 to develop an information technology architecture for OHSC that will govern how the business acquires, builds, modifies and uses information technology (IT) resources, from applications and databases, to network, software and hardware components. OHSC's independence, and the expanded information demands of an open marketplace, require considerable investment in these areas. Electronic interactions with the Independent Electricity Market Operator and generating companies, emerging regulatory requirements and both the OpEx 2000 and Market Ready initiatives are examples of significant IT-enabled projects either in progress or in the advanced planning stages. ARC2000 will establish an integrated framework of principles, specifications, standards and directions to guide these and all other such projects in OHSC's future.

Ontario Hydro's investment in Luz del Sur yielded a 16% dividend as the Peruvian electricity distribution company continued to grow and improve productivity.

PHASE SHIFTERS AUGMENT MICHIGAN-ONTARIO CONNECTION

Under the terms of the recently signed Michigan-Ontario Interconnection Facilities Expansion Agreement between OHSC and two Michigan utilities, two phase-shifting transformers will be installed and operational by mid-2000 at Lambton and another will be installed in Michigan by Detroit Edison, along with a new autotransformer. This joint project will enhance electricity transactions between the two jurisdictions and increase Ontario's capacity to import from the U.S. and relieve congestion on the east-to-west movement of power.

GREENCHOICE GENERATION

Some customers want to choose to have part of their electricity come from renewable energy sources. Through our GreenChoice Generation pilot, some of OHSC's retail customers have that option. Although "green" energy costs slightly more, some companies are willing to pay the extra dollars to know that green power is being added to the grid. GreenChoice Generation customers receive a plaque showing how much of their energy comes from environment-friendly sources and are authorized to use the EcoLogo symbol on company letterhead and promotional materials.

ONTARIO HYDRO INTERNATIONAL INC.

Ontario Hydro International's 15% investment in Luz del Sur yielded a 16% dividend for 1998 as the Peruvian electricity distribution company continued to grow and improve productivity. Although the Peruvian economy was hit by adverse El Niño weather and affected by the Asian economic slowdown, Luz del Sur's energy sales grew by 10% as the number of customers grew by 2%. Continuing efforts to improve the performance of the distribution system resulted in a 17% reduction in energy losses.

During 1998, Ontario Hydro assisted Luz del Sur to introduce a state-of-the-art thermovision unit for preventive maintenance on its transmission and distribution network. This technology will help LDS further reduce operations and maintenance costs.

In Central America, OHII directed Ontario Hydro's assistance to Honduras in the wake of Hurricane Mitch. Hydro pledged $500,000 for expertise and equipment to help restore electricity to the devastated country. Two technicians were quickly sent to work with the Honduran utility to assess reconstruction needs.

Gateway to the Electricity Marketplace

CENTRAL MARKET OPERATIONS' ROLE AS THE MINUTE-BY-MINUTE GUARDIAN OF ONTARIO'S TRANSMISSION SYSTEM SECURITY DID NOT CHANGE WHEN IT BECAME THE PROVINCE'S INDEPENDENT ELECTRICITY MARKET OPERATOR, BUT ITS MANDATE WAS GREATLY ENLARGED TO INCLUDE MANAGEMENT OF ONE OF NORTH AMERICA'S LARGEST POWER MARKETPLACES.

Ontario Hydro's Central Market Operations (CMO) has faced extraordinary challenges during the past 15 months, beginning with the January 1998 ice storm, which felled several large sections of the transmission system in Eastern Ontario. During the storm and its aftermath, CMO staff worked around the clock, and in close cooperation with both the Generation and Services companies, to deal with the numerous outages, adjust system equipment and minimize the impact of the storm on the rest of Ontario and on interconnections with other jurisdictions.

Six months later, another climatic extreme, this time a prolonged heat wave in several large areas of North America, shattered peak power demand records and put unprecedented pressures on the continental interconnected network. Again, CMO staff worked closely with the rest of Ontario Hydro and with other jurisdictions to not only meet the province's record demand but also export power to other jurisdictions. Despite these challenges posed by the heat wave and the ice storm, CMO met or exceeded all performance targets of the North American Electricity Reliability Council (NERC) throughout this period.

In addition to safeguarding bulk electricity system security, CMO staff played a key role in the development of Ontario's future competitive electricity marketplace. CMO specialists were represented on all technical panels of the government-appointed Market Design Committee, as well as on the rules drafting team and the Coordination Committee.

CMO TO IMO: THE TRANSITION

During 1998, work began on the infrastructure program to transform CMO into the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) called for in the Energy Competition Act, 1998, the provincial legislation that restructures Ontario's electricity system. This program, which will continue throughout the rest of 1999, will deliver the design, development, documentation, testing, commissioning and implementation of the critical operational infrastructure of the IMO. By year-end, independent systems for financial and treasury management were already in place, and the entire program is on schedule to meet all deadlines required for the opening of the marketplace.

Ontario Hydro Corporate Activities

Sustainable Development: A Key Element of Future Competitive Success

Environmental performance is increasingly viewed as a key customer consideration that will grow in importance as the competitive power market matures. Given similar prices, many customers will prefer a supplier with a strong environmental track record. Market research shows that many customers are willing to pay at least a modest premium for power that they know has been produced in environmentally sensitive ways. Moreover, investors are becoming keenly interested in how environmental obligations are managed, ongoing compliance assured and potential liabilities avoided.

For these reasons, Ontario Hydro's commitment to sustainable development practices has laid the foundation for the competitive success of its successor companies. Sustainable development – conducting business in a way that meets current needs without compromising the ability of future generations to meet theirs – is not so much a specific program as a way of thinking about three "bottom lines": financial, social and environmental.

The financial aspects of sustainable development activities in both successor companies focus on two major objectives: getting more value from environmental expenditures and reducing future environmental risks and liabilities through sound environmental management programs and, where necessary, remediation efforts. The social bottom line, on the other hand, drives us to earn the respect and loyalty of our customers, including those in the communities within which we operate. There are many ways in which this objective is pursued, principal of which is an honest and transparent disclosure of the environmental impacts of our operations. OPG, for example, will continue to consult with established environmental advisory groups around its major generating stations and is actively engaging the local community, as did Ontario Hydro, on how it can better respond to their needs.

Ontario Hydro's environmental performance commitments were embodied in the adoption of the ISO 14001 standards for Environmental Management Systems by all of the businesses within the corporation.

The following are some of the many sustainable-development-oriented projects completed during the past 15 months.

Deer Lake Mini-Hydro

Deer Lake is one of the 23 communities served by OHSC's Remote Communities group. It is accessible only by air or winter road. Until recently, the community's electricity was supplied by three diesel generators. With the community load demand outstripping existing plant capability, Ontario Hydro Technologies installed two 245-kilowatt mini-hydroelectric generators at nearby Shoulderblade Falls. This project was partnered with the Remote Communities group, Deer Lake First Nation and the federal Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. This installation will provide nearly 90% of the community's power needs and significantly reduce dependence on diesel fuel.

Emissions Reduction Trading

Since 1996, Ontario Hydro has participated with other industries, government and non-governmental organizations in the Pilot Emissions Reduction Trading (PERT) Project. The goal of the project, in which Ontario Hydro's successors will continue to participate, is to provide market incentives to improve environmental performance. By voluntarily investing in equipment and practices that reduce emissions, PERT member companies earn credits, which can be bought or sold, for each tonne of emissions reduced. In 1998, Ontario Hydro purchased credits from Beaver Fuels, enabling that company to sell cleaner gasoline without raising prices at the pump, and sold nitrogen oxide credits to the Hartford Steam Boiler Company in Connecticut. Ontario Hydro's participation in this innovative program helped reduce nitrogen oxide emissions in eastern North America, and its generation successor company will steadily add to that contribution.

Ontario Hydro has helped reduce nitrogen oxide emissions in eastern North America, and its generation successor company will steadily add to that contribution.

Restoring the Storm-Damaged Landscape

Thousands of trees in Eastern Ontario were killed by the January 1998 ice storm. Estimates placed tree damage as high as 70% in the Ottawa-Kingston corridor alone. To aid in environmental restoration, Ontario Hydro donated $50,000 to the Evergreen Foundation to fund a program enlisting volunteer support to plant new trees in the region. Three thousand trees – among them red maple, grey birch, green ash, white spruce, trembling aspen, white oak, white elm and linden – were distributed to 35 schools and 28 community groups.

Human Resources/Health and Safety Performance

To meet the needs of the business, including the unique requirements of the nuclear recovery program and the challenges associated with the demerger of Ontario Hydro, Corporate Human Resources:

- redefined the business relationship with 95% of 21,000 employees and greatly improved operational flexibility by successfully negotiating separate collective agreements for each of the successor businesses;
- allocated approximately 21,000 employees and 15,000 pensioners to the successor companies without a single grievance;
- due to excellent cooperation with the unions, resolved a backlog of more than 3,100 grievances with as few as 10% being resolved by a third party;
- defined new organizational structures, responsibilities and accountabilities;
- introduced a new, contemporary Code of Business Conduct designed to reinforce the culture required of the companies in a competitive marketplace;
- introduced a new and integrated payroll system designed to contribute to improved productivity and ensure Year 2000 compliance;
- enhanced recruitment systems for new and existing skills;
- developed succession planning and executive development programs to ensure effective leadership and management capability in the future; and
- organized and administered Ontario Hydro's 10th annual Corporate Awards program to recognize and celebrate the excellence, ingenuity and capability of employees in the areas of customer service, safety, environmental sustainability, technology and innovation; the various projects saved the corporation over $154 million.

Health and Safety

- The unfortunate death of an employee in a March 1999 motor vehicle accident was the corporation's first fatality since 1994.
- Although the number of days lost/charged per million hours worked (Accident Severity Rate) was higher in 1998 than in 1997, this critical indicator of occupational health and safety has nevertheless improved by more than 200% over the last five years.

• The All Injury Frequency Rate, which tracks the number of incidents occurring within the corporation, improved in 1998.

Ontario Hydro Technologies

Throughout 1998, Ontario Hydro Technologies (OHT) supported a wide range of specialized needs from Hydro's business units. OHT achieved ISO 9001 certification in 1998. In April 1999, OHT was renamed Ontario Power Technologies, a wholly owned subsidiary of Ontario Power Generation.

Environmental Land Assessment: OHT conducted a major soils testing program for OHSC, sampling nearly 1,000 transmission, distribution and microwave communication sites in the province, and conducted comprehensive testing through its analytical chemistry laboratory. This project was part of OHSC's Land Assessment and Remediation Program and was one of the largest programs of its kind ever conducted in Canada.

Extensive assistance was provided to generating station operations including:
• a comprehensive review and predictions of corrosion and deuterium uptake in operating pressure tubes for Nuclear;
• new methods for flaw assessment in fuel channels at Bruce B and assessments for Bruce, Darlington and Pickering;

Strategic Research and Development focused on three program areas: Customer Power, including energy efficiency and power quality enhancement; Smart Systems, including advanced system monitoring technologies; and Distributed Generation, such as fuel cells and micro turbines.

Business Development: With its strategic partner, Babcock & Wilcox, OHT launched a new applications company in March 1999 named Integran Technologies Inc. The new company will market an advanced materials technology developed at OHT in collaboration with researchers at the University of Toronto and Queen's University. Applications vary from improved lead acid batteries to wear-resistant materials coatings.

OHT successfully negotiated an exclusive licence agreement with Sumitomo Corporation for the commercialization in Japan of OHT's proprietary technologies for the destruction of PCBs in mineral oil and askarels, as well as for the decontamination of electrical equipment containing PCBs.

Ready for Year 2000

Ontario Hydro's Year 2000 readiness program was always a top priority of the corporation since 1996, when it began. The scope of the program, which continues under the successor companies, includes all necessary remediation of computer-dependent systems, contingency planning and close cooperation with stakeholders and strategic partners. The Y2K team, at times more than 600 professionals, is working with a budget in excess of $100 million on the three-stage program.

Stage One – Operational Sustainability – included the analysis, remediation, testing and Y2K readiness certification of all critical systems. This stage had essentially been completed by year-end 1998. An independent assessment of the program early in 1999 confirmed its basic soundness.

Stage Two – Operational Readiness – tests how the individually certified systems work together. These large-scale integration tests have been successfully conducted at generation sites (Bruce nuclear site, two of four planned fossil generation sites, and at five of seven planned hydroelectric generation sites) as well as at a major representative grid location (a set of transformer stations in the Toronto area). Ontario Hydro and its successor companies have been working with the North American Electricity Reliability Council (NERC) to test interoperability within the continent's Eastern Interconnection, of which Ontario is a component. Also during this stage, which is expected to be completed by mid-1999, Ontario Hydro's successor companies will assess the Y2K readiness of external suppliers, direct customers, municipal electric utilities and independent power producer partners.

Stage Three – Event Readiness. Based on the findings in Stage Two, emergency response and preparedness plans will be developed to ensure safety and reliability across Ontario and to minimize the potential risk from external suppliers and from other external entities. Drills and event simulations will be conducted in cooperation with NERC, and Ontario Hydro's successor companies will work with provincial and municipal agencies to pre-establish responses to unplanned power interruptions. Plans will be put in place to operate the electricity system in a conservative, precautionary posture during the Year 2000 rollover. This stage will be completed by November 1999.

Throughout the entire program, Ontario Hydro shared information with other utilities and participated in cross-industry programs to identify common risks and help find solutions. Moreover, information on Y2K readiness progress is made available to customers and other stakeholders through frequent publications and on the OPG and OHSC websites.

As this overview shows, Ontario Hydro took all possible actions to ensure the reliability of Ontario's power system when the clock ticks over at the end of 1999. As a result of these precautions, which the successor companies are completing, the direct impact of this unique event in human history is expected to be manageable in Ontario.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31, 1999

Ontario Hydro carried on business for the three months ended March 31, 1999, before operations were transferred to one of the successor entities upon the restructuring of the Corporation. During the three months, operations were typical compared to previous years' experiences, and were in accordance with plan. There were no significant, unforeseen events that affected the Corporation's operating results or financial position.

| (millions of dollars) | MARCH 31 1999 | 1998 (unaudited) |
|---|---|---|
| Revenues | 2,594 | 2,484 |
| Costs | 1,463 | 1,250 |
| Financing charges | 687 | 734 |
| Net income | 444 | 500 |
| Cash provided from operations | 806 | 719 |
| Cash used for investing activities | 149 | 228 |
| Cash used for financing activities | 587 | 401 |
| Interest coverage | 1.66 | 1.71 |
| Debt ratio | 1.086 | 1.135 |

Net income for the first three months of 1999 was $444 million, down $56 million from 1998's first quarter. While revenue for the three months ended March 31, 1999, was $110 million higher and financing charges were $47 million lower, these were more than offset by a $213 million increase in costs.

Total revenue of $2,594 million for the first three months of 1999 is $110 million higher than revenue during the first quarter of 1998. Primary power and energy revenue of $2,511 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $86 million higher than the $2,425 million revenue for the first three months of 1998. Energy sales increased in 1999 because warmer than usual weather conditions during the first quarter of 1998 lowered demand during that period.

Secondary power and energy revenue of $21 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $16 million higher than the same period in 1998 because of increased energy sales outside the Province.

Other revenue of $62 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $8 million higher than the $54 million for the first three months of 1998 because of a gain on investments.

Costs of $1,463 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, are $213 million higher than the $1,250 million of costs for the first three months of 1998. The changes are as follows:

- $167 million increase in operation, maintenance & administration (OM&A) costs,
- $44 million increase in fuel used for electric generation,
- $17 million decrease in power purchased, and
- $19 million increase in depreciation and amortization.

OM&A costs are higher by $167 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to the same period in 1998. Significant variances are as follows:

- $50 million for repairs resulting from the 1998 ice storm, which were charged to the provision for future costs, lowered the costs charged to OM&A in 1998 compared to 1999,
- $30 million for increased integrated improvement program work in nuclear operations,
- $15 million preparing the Electricity Production, Merchant Function and Business Services groups to operate in the new business environment beginning April 1, 1999.

Included in OM&A costs for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $37 million attributable to the final closing of Ontario Hydro's financial records, and a $23 million adjustment for obsolete nuclear materials inventory. This is dissimilar to March 31, 1998, because the prior year's first quarter results are on the basis of operations continuing as usual for the remainder of 1998.

The cost of $141 million for fuel used for electric generation during the first three months of 1999 is $44 million higher than the cost for the first three months of 1998, which is consistent with increased fossil generation and higher energy sales. Power purchased costs are $17 million less for the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to the same period last year, because some of the purchases during the first three months of 1999 supported the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP) and the costs were charged to the provision for future costs.

Depreciation costs of $402 million are $19 million higher for the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to the same period in 1998, which is consistent with fixed assets in service being higher as at March 31, 1999.

Financing charges of $687 million decreased $47 million for the first three months of 1999 compared to the same period in 1998, because of lower debt outstanding and lower interest rates on refinancings.

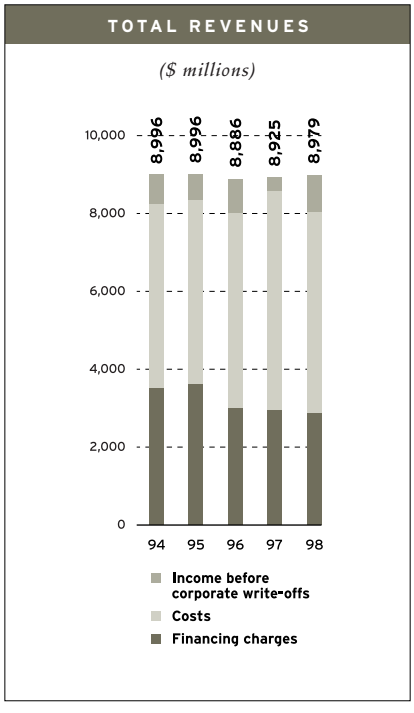
During the three months ended March 31, 1999, there was a $587 million reduction in debt compared to a $401 million reduction in the first quarter of 1998.

$149 million of cash from operations was invested in fixed and other assets during the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to $228 million during the first quarter of 1998. Debt outstanding was reduced to $30,527 million as at March 31, 1999 from $31,221 million as at December 31, 1998.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

Ontario Hydro's net income for 1998 was $1,831 million, compared with a net loss of $6,326 million in 1997. The results for the two years are not comparable due to the following significant items, which affected net income in each year. In 1997, the Board of Directors approved a number of charges and write-offs to current year's operations totaling $6,580 million, while in 1998 there were no write-offs. In 1998, there was a $887 million favourable adjustment to income to recognize the benefit associated with the Corporation having access to pension fund surplus. Access to the pension fund surplus arose as the result of changes included in the Energy Competition Act, 1998, enacted by the Government of Ontario (Government) in October 1998.

Ontario Hydro's 1998 income, before adjustment for the impact of the future employer pension contribution holidays, was $944 million. While this is $690 million higher than the corresponding figure for 1997, again, the results are not completely comparable because, in 1998, costs totaling $1,486 million were charged against a provision established at the end of 1997 for future costs, related principally to the nuclear recovery program, which could not be recovered through existing rates. In 1997, similar expenditures at a lower level were charged to operations.



Total revenues for 1998 were $8,979 million, $54 million higher than in 1997. This is the result of an $88 million increase in primary sales, partially offset by lower secondary sales and other revenues. Operating costs for 1998, excluding financing charges, amounted to $5,159 million, a decrease of $423 million from 1997. This reduction primarily reflects use of the 1997 provision for future costs. Financing charges of $2,876 million were $213 million lower than in 1997 mainly due to lower interest and foreign exchange costs.

Cash provided from operations decreased to $1,488 million in 1998 from $2,026 million in 1997. Proceeds of $5,698 million were received from the issuance of debt for long-term financing in 1998, compared to $2,321 million in 1997. The 1998 proceeds include three Canadian dollar domestic issues, a global market United States dollar bond issue, a global market Canadian dollar bond issue, a Canadian dollar Euro medium-term note issue, a private placement with the Province of Ontario (Province) and the issuance of Canadian dollar short-term notes and United States dollar-denominated commercial paper. In 1998, $5,899 million of cash was used to retire debt issued for long-term financing, compared with $3,257 million in 1997. Cash paid on settlement of swaptions amounted to $142 million in 1998, compared with $292 million in 1997.

Cash invested in fixed assets during 1998 was $823 million, compared with $881 million in 1997. Including changes in non-cash balances related to fixed assets, investment in fixed assets was $865 million in 1998 and $852 million in 1997.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS FOR THE YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

REVENUES

Primary Revenues

Primary revenues for 1998 amounted to $8,524 million, an increase of $88 million over 1997. The increase reflects broadly based growth in demand in the municipal, commercial and industrial sectors. Demand was sufficiently robust to offset the impact of the January ice storm, negative winter weather effects due to El Niño, and strikes affecting two large industrial customers. Municipal sales revenues rose by $145 million or 2.5 per cent over 1997, primarily due to higher sales volumes from air conditioning load in the warmer summer months and an increased level of commercial activity. Sales to retail customers in 1998 fell by $50 million or 3.1 per cent, reflecting milder winter weather and the continuing impact of moving customers to lower rate classes, as well as a reduction in late payment and service charges. Sales to direct industrial customers remained fairly steady at $917 million, compared with $924 million in 1997.

Secondary Revenues

Secondary power and energy revenues, mainly from surplus energy exports to utilities in the United States, amounted to $148 million in 1998, a $25 million or 14.4 per cent decrease from 1997. The lower sales are primarily due to a lack of available generation as a result of the nuclear recovery program, partially offset by very favourable spot market prices during the June to September period due to tight supply conditions in the midwestern portion of the United States, and hotter than normal weather.

Other Revenues

Other revenues of $307 million in 1998 decreased by $9 million from 1997, due mainly to lower heavy water and isotope sales and a decrease in consulting revenues, partially offset by a gain on the sale of surplus land.

COSTS

In 1997, Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to establish a provision for future costs against which certain expenditures, primarily related to the nuclear recovery program, would be charged as incurred from 1998 to 2001. This provision included an allowance for additional fuel costs expected to be incurred by having to place greater reliance upon fossil generation and purchased power, as well as related financing costs. The provision is more fully described in note 7 to the 1998 Consolidated Financial Statements. In 1998, a total of $1,486 million was charged to the provision for future costs. $1,231 million of this was related to the nuclear recovery program and the remainder was related to other costs.

Ontario Hydro's operating costs for 1998, excluding financing charges, totaled $5,159 million, $423 million lower than in 1997. This is primarily the result of the use in 1998 of the provision for future costs established at the end of 1997. Fixed operating costs of $4,662 million, consisting of provincial government levies, depreciation and amortization and financing charges, decreased by $282 million or 5.7 per cent from $4,944 million for 1997, mainly as a result of lower interest and foreign exchange costs.

Operation, Maintenance and Administration

OM&A costs of $2,178 million for the year ended December 31, 1998, decreased by $13 million from 1997. As indicated earlier, this variance results principally from the fact that preliminary costs of the nuclear recovery program in 1997 were charged to operations. In 1998, OM&A costs of $589 million, relating mainly to the nuclear recovery program, were charged to the 1997 provision for future costs.

Fuel Used For Electric Generation

The cost of fuel used for electric generation comprises the costs for coal, uranium, oil and water rental payments other than those made to the Province. The cost of fuel used for electric generation in 1998 was $350 million, a decrease of $347 million or 49.8 per cent from 1997, after charging $690 million in costs related to the replacement of nuclear production by higher-cost fossil production to the 1997 provision for future costs. Overall, internal generation in 1998 of 125,972 million kilowatt-hours was lower than generation in 1997 of 131,005 million kilowatt-hours, due to the nuclear recovery program. The shortfall in generation was compensated for by higher power purchases.

Power Purchased

Electricity purchases in 1998 amounted to $845 million, an increase of $6 million over 1997, after charging $78 million in costs related to the replacement of nuclear production by increased power purchases to the 1997 provision for future costs. The amount of power purchased in 1998 amounted to 16,992 million kilowatt-hours compared to 13,750 million kilowatt-hours in 1997, an increase of 24 per cent. The increase reflects a rise in power purchases from utilities in Canada and the United States as a result of lower internal generation due to the nuclear recovery program, and an increase in contracted generation from independent power producers. Ontario Hydro also buys electricity when it is economical to do so, during periods of peak demand or in emergencies, and to manage acid gas emission levels.

Provincial Government Levies

Provincial government levies totaled $274 million in 1998, a slight reduction from $277 million in 1997.

Ontario Hydro is required to pay to the Province an annual debt guarantee fee equal to one half of one per cent on the total debt guaranteed by the Province outstanding on the preceding December 31. The fee for 1998, based on guaranteed debt outstanding as at December 31, 1997, was relatively unchanged at $155 million compared with $156 million in 1997, as the year-over-year guaranteed debt level remained stable.

Provincial water rental payments, related to

Ontario Hydro's use of provincial waters in the operation of its hydroelectric stations, also remained relatively stable at $119 million in 1998 compared with $121 million in 1997.

In 1998, Ontario Hydro paid approximately $224 million to various government agencies for provincial sales taxes, employment insurance premiums, Canada Pension Plan contributions, employer health tax payments and payments in lieu of realty taxes.

Depreciation and Amortization

Depreciation and amortization charged to operations totaled $1,512 million in 1998, a decrease of $66 million or 4.2 per cent from 1997 mainly due to reversals in 1998 of decommissioning and rehabilitation provisions for certain generating stations. In 1998, depreciation and amortization of $83 million, relating to the nuclear recovery program, was charged to the 1997 provision for future costs.

Financing Charges

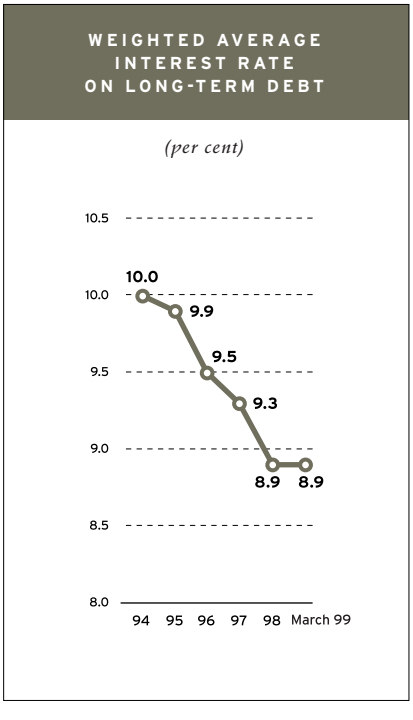
Financing charges comprise interest charged to operations and foreign exchange costs. Interest charged to operations represents gross interest costs reduced by capitalized interest and interest earned on investments.



Foreign exchange costs comprise amounts related primarily to the amortization of exchange gains or losses on the principal amount of foreign debt and foreign exchange risk management activities.

Interest and foreign exchange charged to operations was $2,876 million in 1998, $213 million or 6.9 per cent lower than in 1997, after charging $46 million in interest costs related to the nuclear recovery program to the 1997 provision for future costs. Favourable impacts, due to a net reduction in the average level of long and short-term debt outstanding and a lower net weighted average interest rate on debt and accumulated provisions for fixed asset removal and used nuclear fuel disposal costs, were partially offset by an increase in the level of accrued provisions and a reduction in interest capitalized. Foreign exchange costs for 1998 decreased by $88 million, primarily due to favourable results from foreign exchange risk management activities.

Financial Indicators

The Corporation's financial performance is monitored using two main indicators: interest coverage ratio and debt ratio.

The level of interest coverage measures the extent to which net income enables Ontario Hydro to meet its gross interest payments. An increase in the interest coverage ratio indicates a strengthening in the Corporation's financial condition. The 1998 level of interest coverage was 1.34 based on income before the deferred pension asset adjustment, compared to the 1997 interest coverage level of 1.09 based on income before corporate write-offs.

The debt ratio measures the extent to which Hydro's assets are financed by debt. A reduction in the debt ratio indicates a strengthening in financial position, as a relative increase in equity provides additional financial flexibility. The debt ratio at the end of 1998 was 1.100, compared to the 1997 ratio of 1.153. The improvement is due primarily to net income.

FINANCING AND INVESTING ACTIVITIES

Financing and Capital Markets

Ontario Hydro's cash from operations in 1998 was sufficient to cover capital expenditures for 1998 and to reduce the level of outstanding debt. Gross borrowing was required primarily for refinancing maturing issues and taking advantage of opportunities to minimize interest expense.

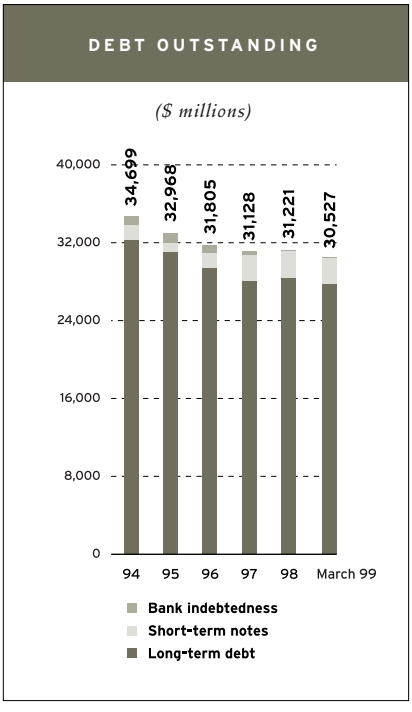
In 1998, on a cash basis, there was a net debt reduction of $343 million, compared to a net debt reduction of $458 million in 1997.



Proceeds of $5,698 million were received from the issuance of debt for long-term financing in 1998, compared to $2,321 million in 1997. The 1998 proceeds include three Canadian dollar domestic issues totaling $675 million; a global market United States dollar bond issue of $750 million (Cdn. $1,092 million); a global market Canadian dollar bond issue of $1,350 million; a Canadian dollar Euro medium-term note issue of $250 million; a $500 million private placement with the Province; and the issuance of Canadian dollar short-term notes and United States dollar-denominated commercial paper.

In 1998, $5,899 million of cash was used to retire debt issued for long-term financing, compared to $3,257 million in 1997. Cash paid on settlement of swaptions amounted to $142 million in 1998, compared to $292 million in 1997.

Investment in Fixed Assets

Ontario Hydro invests in fixed assets to maintain service, reliability, safety and environmental performance and to meet regulatory requirements. The total assets of the Corporation at the end of 1998 were $40,023 million, 88 per cent of which represented fixed assets in service or under construction.

The cash required by Ontario Hydro, to finance its investment in fixed assets, has historically come from two major sources; operations and financing through borrowing. As was the case in 1997, sufficient cash was generated from operations in 1998 to finance investment in fixed assets.

Investment in fixed assets was $865 million in 1998 and $852 million in 1997. Of this total investment, $503 million (1997: $591 million) was spent on generating facilities and $362 million (1997: $261 million) was invested in major transmission and distribution facilities.

Management Report

MANAGEMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY FOR FINANCIAL REPORTING

The accompanying financial statements of Ontario Hydro are the responsibility of management and have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Canada, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. Ontario Hydro chooses accounting principles appropriate to its circumstances. The significant accounting policies followed by Ontario Hydro are described in the Summary of Significant Accounting Policies contained in note 2 to the financial statements. The preparation of financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates based on management's judgement, particularly when transactions affecting the current accounting period cannot be finalized with certainty until future periods. The financial statements have been properly prepared within reasonable limits of materiality and in light of information available up to June 23, 1999.

Management maintained a system of internal controls designed to provide reasonable assurance that the assets were safeguarded and that reliable financial information was available on a timely basis. The system included formal policies and procedures and an organizational structure that provided for appropriate delegation of authority and segregation of responsibilities. An internal audit function independently evaluated the effectiveness of these internal controls on an ongoing basis and reported its findings to management and the Audit Committee of the Ontario Hydro Board of Directors.

The financial statements have been examined by Ernst & Young LLP, independent external auditors appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council of Ontario. The external auditors' responsibility is to express their opinion on whether the financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The Auditors' Report, which appears below, outlines the scope of their examination and their opinion.

For the three months ended March 31, 1999 and year ended December 31, 1998, the Ontario Hydro Board of Directors, through the Audit Committee, was responsible for ensuring that management fulfilled its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal controls. The Audit Committee met periodically with management, the internal auditors and the external auditors to satisfy itself that each group had properly discharged its respective responsibility, and to review the financial statements before recommending approval by the Board of Directors. The external auditors had direct and full access to the Audit Committee, with and without the presence of management, to discuss their audit and their findings as to the integrity of Ontario Hydro's financial reporting and the effectiveness of the system of internal controls.

As at April 1, 1999, the Board of Directors of Ontario Hydro was dissolved and Ontario Hydro continues as the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) with a new Board of Directors appointed pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998.

On behalf of Ontario Hydro Management,

President & Chief Executive Officer, Ontario Hydro, as at March 31, 1999

Chief Financial Officer, Ontario Hydro, as at March 31, 1999

Auditors' Report

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF ONTARIO ELECTRICITY FINANCIAL CORPORATION:

We have audited the consolidated statement of financial position of Ontario Hydro as at March 31, 1999 and December 31, 1998, and the consolidated statements of operations and (deficit) retained earnings, and cash flows for the three months ended March 31, 1999 and year ended December 31, 1998. These financial statements are the responsibility of Ontario Hydro's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Ontario Hydro as at March 31, 1999 and December 31, 1998, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the three months ended March 31, 1999 and year ended December 31, 1998, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Ontario Hydro's accounting policies differ from those followed by enterprises that are not rate-regulated as described in note 2(a) to these financial statements.

* In 1997, Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to establish a provision for future costs against which certain expenditures, primarily related to the nuclear recovery program, would be charged as incurred from 1998 to 2001. This Supplementary Statement isolates the effect upon the 1999 and 1998 results of operations of charging certain costs of the year to the 1997 provision for future costs.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. RESTRUCTURING OF THE ONTARIO ELECTRICITY INDUSTRY AND EVENTS SUBSEQUENT TO MARCH 31, 1999

The North American electrical utility industry has undertaken initiatives to move away from traditional monopolies towards competitive models that are more conducive to customer choice. On October 30, 1998, the Government of Ontario (Government) enacted the Energy Competition Act, 1998 (ECA) to restructure the Ontario electricity industry and introduce competition during the year 2000.

Prior to the restructuring, Ontario Hydro was a vertically integrated, rate-regulated electricity utility. On April 1, 1999, Ontario Hydro was restructured into a number of successor entities, as follows:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG) is a generation company;
- Ontario Hydro Services Company Inc. (OHSC) is a regulated transmission and distribution business, and operates certain energy service businesses in an unregulated business environment;
- Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) is a non-profit corporation, which is the independent system co-ordinator responsible for directing system operations and operating the electricity market;
- Electrical Safety Authority (ESA) is a non-profit corporation, which will carry out electrical inspections previously conducted by Ontario Hydro; and
- Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) is the continued Ontario Hydro entity with the objectives of managing debt, administering assets, liabilities, rights and obligations not transferred to a successor entity, and acting as administrator of the existing pension plan until arrangements are completed to transfer assets and liabilities to the new pension plans of the successor entities.

On April 1, 1999, each successor entity acquired Ontario Hydro's respective business operations in exchange for debt and equity securities equal to the fair values. The fair values were based on the present value of expected future operating results. Ontario Hydro's debt remained with OEFC.

Stranded debt is defined as debt that the successor entities could not service as commercial entities in a competitive market. Stranded debt has been determined, on a preliminary basis, by assigning fair values to OPG, OHSC, and the IMO, and subtracting these values from Ontario Hydro's total debt and liabilities. Using this methodology, the stranded debt is estimated at $21 billion as per the Ministry of Finance announcement of April 1, 1999. The actual stranded debt will be known once a final determination can be made for other items; principally valuing power purchase obligations (note 15).

The government has identified that certain of the OEFC's revenue streams in the new electricity market (e.g. payments-in-lieu of corporate income and capital taxes made by the new restructured companies and local distribution utilities) will be dedicated to service stranded debt.

The Province of Ontario (Province) continues to guarantee all existing Ontario Hydro debt.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in Canada, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. The significant accounting policies followed by Ontario Hydro are described below.

a) Rate setting

Up to March 31, 1999, Ontario Hydro had broad powers to generate, supply and deliver electric power throughout the Province of Ontario. The Corporation operated under the Power Corporation Act (PCA) and was subject to the provisions of the Ontario Energy Board Act.

Under the provisions of the PCA, the price payable by municipal and other Ontario power customers was the cost of supplying the power. Such cost was defined in the PCA to include the cost of operating and maintaining the power system, the cost of energy conservation programs, depreciation, interest and the annual amounts for statutory debt retirement (SDR) and stabilization of rates and contingencies.

Under the provisions of the Ontario Energy Board Act, a public hearing before the Ontario Energy Board (OEB) was required to review any changes in electricity rates proposed by Ontario Hydro which affect its municipal utilities, direct industrial customers, or, if the Minister of Energy so directed, rural retail customers. The OEB tabled its recommendations with the Minister of Energy, Science and Technology. After considering the recommendations of the OEB, Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors, under the authority of the PCA, established the electricity rates to be charged to customers.

The Board of Directors may have specified for rate-setting purposes that an amount be included in the determination of the operating results of a period which differed from the period in which it would have been recognized under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment. If so, the accounting treatment given the amount was the same as its treatment for rate-setting purposes. This authority of the Board of Directors could have been used in respect of a specific transaction or an accounting policy.

Ontario Hydro's accounting policies relating to the deferral of discounts and premiums arising from the acquisition of debt prior to maturity and foreign exchange gains and losses on United States dollar-denominated short-term financing replacing United States dollar-denominated long-term debt ,which has been redeemed prior to maturity, reflected the rate-setting treatment of these items as specified by the Board of Directors. Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, these amounts would have been included as gains or losses of the current period (see note 2g).

In 1994, the Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to specify that costs of the rehabilitation program for steam generators at Pickering A and B and Bruce A Nuclear Generating Stations be deferred for recovery in future periods. Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment these costs would have been expensed as incurred.

In 1996, the Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to charge the nuclear recovery expenditures planned to be incurred over the period 1997 to 2001 to operations in 1996. In 1997, as a result of the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP), which included the planned nuclear recovery expenditures, the Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to specify that the incremental costs associated with improving nuclear performance, specifically NAOP and other related costs, to be incurred over the period 1998 to 2001, be charged to operations in 1997. This rate-setting treatment was selected to enable Ontario Hydro to meet its SDR requirement over the period 1998 to 2001. As a result of the Board's decision, the related costs were not recovered through rates and represented a loss which was provided for in 1997. Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, these costs would have been expensed as incurred (see note 7).

The Board of Directors also used its rate-setting authority to specify that certain additional future costs be charged to operations in 1997 (see note 7). Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, these costs would have been expensed as incurred.

b) Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the financial statements of Ontario Hydro and its wholly-owned subsidiaries Ontario Hydro International Inc. (OHI Inc.) and Ontario Hydro Interconnected Markets

Inc. (OHIM Inc.). OHI Inc. was incorporated under the Business Corporations Act (Ontario) and was established as a subsidiary of Ontario Hydro in September 1993. OHIM Inc. was incorporated on July 9, 1996, under the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware in the United States. Both OHI Inc. and OHIM Inc. publish separate financial statements.

c) Fixed assets

Fixed assets in service include operating facilities, non-operating reserve facilities, and heavy water contained in nuclear generating stations. Construction in progress includes fixed assets under construction.

Fixed assets are capitalized at cost which comprises material, labour, engineering costs, overheads, depreciation on service equipment, interest applicable to capital construction activities, and for new facilities, the costs of training initial operating staff. In the case of generating facilities, the cost also includes the net cost of commissioning which comprises the cost of start-up less the value attributed to energy produced by generation facilities during their commissioning period. For multi-unit facilities, a proportionate share of the cost of common facilities is placed in service with each major operating unit. The cost of heavy water comprises the direct cost of production plus applicable overheads, as well as interest and depreciation on the heavy water production facilities and the estimated removal costs of these facilities. Leases which transfer the benefits and risks of ownership of assets to Ontario Hydro are capitalized.

|---|---|
| 1999 | 9.2% |
| 1997 | 9.6% |

If the construction period of a project is extended and the construction activities are continued, interest is capitalized during the period of extension provided that the project has a reasonable expectation of being completed.

If a project is deferred as a result of a management decision and there is a reasonable expectation of completion, interest capitalization ceases and amortization for any loss in value commences.

If a project is cancelled or deferred indefinitely with a low probability of construction being resumed, all costs, including the costs of cancellation, are written off to operations.

If fixed assets are removed from operations and mothballed for future use, mothballing costs are charged to operations. These assets are classified as non-operating reserve facilities.

d) Depreciation

The capital costs of fixed assets in service are depreciated on a straight-line basis. Depreciation rates for the various classes of assets are based on their estimated service lives. Major components of fossil and nuclear generating stations are depreciated over the lesser of the service life expectancy of the major component or the remaining service life of the associated generating station. Hydroelectric generating stations are assumed to have a perpetual life. Major components of hydroelectric generating stations are depreciated over the service life expectancy of the component, ranging from 25 to 100 years. Heavy water in nuclear generating stations is depreciated over the remaining service life of the associated station with the exception of heavy water in Pickering Nuclear Generating Station (NGS) A, which is depreciated to the year 2032, since this heavy water is planned to be used to maintain operating levels in the remaining nuclear plants once Pickering NGS A has completed its useful life. The estimated service lives of assets in the major classes are:

|---|---|
| Generating Stations | |
| fossil | 40 years |
| nuclear | 40 years |
| Transmission and distribution facilities | 10 to 100 years |
| Administration and service facilities | 5 to 50 years |

In accordance with group depreciation practices, the costs of normal fixed asset retirements are charged to accumulated depreciation. However, gains and losses on sales of fixed assets and losses on premature retirements are charged to operations as adjustments to depreciation expense.

When the net costs of removal of fixed assets can be reasonably estimated and are significant, provisions for these costs are charged to depreciation expense on an annuity basis prospectively over the remaining service life of the related fixed assets. Removal costs that are provided for include the estimated costs of decommissioning nuclear and fossil stations and the estimated costs of removing certain nuclear reactor fuel channels. Other removal costs are charged to depreciation expense as incurred.

The estimated service lives of fixed assets and the significant assumptions underlying the estimates of fixed asset removal costs are subject to periodic review. Any changes arising out of such a review are implemented on a remaining service life basis from the year the changes can first be reflected in electricity prices.

Non-operating reserve facilities are amortized so that any estimated loss in value during the non-operating period is charged to depreciation expense on a straight-line basis over their expected non-operating period.

e) Fuel for electric generation

Fuel used for electric generation comprises the average inventory costs of fuel consumed, less the value attributed to energy produced during the commissioning phase of placing a new or refurbished unit (i.e., after replacement of fuel channels or steam generators) in service, plus provisions for disposal of nuclear fuel used during the period. The cost of fuel inventory comprises fuel purchases, transportation and handling costs.

The provision for disposal of used nuclear fuel is charged to operations based on estimated future expenditures and interest accumulating to the estimated date of disposal. Effective January 1, 1998, estimates of disposal costs which do not vary with the amount of fuel to be disposed of ("fixed" disposal costs) are charged to operations on an annuity basis over the estimated service lives of the associated nuclear stations. Estimates of disposal costs which vary with the amount of fuel to be disposed of ("variable" disposal costs) are charged to operations based on the present value of the future estimated disposal costs attributable to the fuel bundles used in that period. Prior to 1998, nuclear fuel provisions were charged to operations based on the present value of the future estimated disposal costs, fixed and variable, attributable to the fuel bundles used in that period. The impact of this change is an increase in costs of approximately $83 million per year plus interest on the increase in accumulated provision.

Estimates of expenditures, interest and escalation rates, and the date of disposal are subject to periodic review. Adjustments resulting from changes in any of these factors are charged to operations on an annuity basis prospectively over the remaining years the nuclear units will be in operation.

f) Foreign currency translation

Current monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated to Canadian currency at year-end rates of exchange and the resulting exchange gains or losses are credited or charged to operations. Long-term debt payable in foreign currencies is translated to Canadian currency at year-end rates of exchange. Resulting unrealized exchange gains or losses are deferred and included in deferred debt costs, and are amortized to operations on an annuity basis over the remaining life of the related debt.

Foreign exchange gains or losses on hedges of long-term debt payable in foreign currencies are deferred and included in deferred debt costs. The deferred gains or losses on hedges are amortized to operations on an annuity basis in the periods the hedges provide benefit.

Foreign exchange gains or losses on early redemption of long-term debt, including subsequent gains and losses on short-term replacement financing, are deferred and included in deferred debt costs if the exposure in the foreign currency related to the redeemed debt is continued by refinancing the redeemed debt in the same currency. These deferred gains or losses are amortized on an annuity basis over the period to the original maturity date of the redeemed debt (see note 2a).

If the foreign currency exposure is reduced as a result of the early redemption of debt, the resulting foreign exchange gains or losses related to the redeemed debt are credited or charged to operations.

g) Deferred debt costs

Deferred debt costs include the unamortized amounts related to unrealized foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of foreign currency long-term debt; deferred foreign exchange gains or losses on hedges; deferred foreign exchange gains or losses on the early redemption of long-term debt; discounts or premiums arising from the issuance of debt or the acquisition of debt prior to maturity; discounts or premiums accrued on foreign currency hedges; and net unamortized premiums on settled, exercised or expired swaption contracts.

Discounts or premiums arising from the issuance of debt are amortized over the period to maturity of the debt on an annuity basis when the term of the debt exceeds one year and on a straight-line basis when the term is one year or less. Discounts or premiums on debt acquired prior to the date of maturity are amortized on an annuity basis over the period from the acquisition date to the original maturity date of the debt (see note 2a). Discounts or premiums on foreign currency hedges are credited or charged to operations on an annuity basis over the terms of the individual hedges. Net unamortized premiums on settled, exercised or expired swaption contracts are amortized on an annuity basis over the period from the settlement, exercise or expiry date to the original maturity date of the related debt.

h) Pension plan

The pension plan is a contributory, defined benefit plan covering all regular employees of Ontario Hydro. Pension costs for accounting purposes are actuarially determined using the projected benefit method prorated on services and based on assumptions that reflect management's best estimate of the effect of future events on the actuarial present value of accrued pension benefits. Pension plan assets are valued using current fair values and pension plan adjustments are amortized on a straight-line basis over the expected average remaining period of service of the employees covered by the Ontario Hydro pension plan (see note 18).

In the last quarter of 1998, Ontario Hydro adopted the new method of accounting for pension costs recently approved by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants (CICA). The effect of this was to change the discount rate used to determine pension costs and obligations from a long-term average rate to a current market settlement rate. This change had no significant impact on the financial statements for the year ended December 31, 1998.

i) Other post-employment benefits

In addition to pension benefits, Ontario Hydro provides group life insurance and health-care benefits to its retired employees and, in certain cases, their surviving spouses and unmarried dependents. As well, Ontario Hydro provides long-term disability benefits to qualifying employees during extended absences from work due to sickness or injury.

Prior to January 1, 1997, the costs of other post-employment benefits (OPEB) were charged to operations as the benefits were paid. Effective January 1, 1997, Ontario Hydro implemented accrual accounting for OPEB whereby the expected costs of providing those benefits are charged to operations as employees render services. Accordingly, the costs of OPEB are actuarially determined for accounting purposes based on assumptions that reflect management's best estimates of the effect of future events on the actuarial present value of the accrued benefits. The transition obligation arising on conversion to accrual accounting was charged to retained earnings on January 1, 1997 (see note 16). In 1998, the Corporation changed the discount rate used to measure the OPEB obligation from a long-term average rate to a current market settlement rate. The transition amount resulting from this change was charged to the deficit in 1998 (see note 16).

j) Research and development

Research and development (R&D) costs related directly to the design or construction of a specific fixed asset are capitalized as part of the cost of the asset. R&D costs incurred to discharge long-term obligations, and for which specific provision has already been made, are charged to the related provision. All other R&D costs are charged to operations in the year incurred.

k) Applications software and the Year 2000 expenditures

Ontario Hydro capitalizes major applications software acquisition costs when future benefit is reasonably assured. Expenditures incurred to address the Year 2000 Issue are charged to operations as incurred, unless existing assets are replaced with new versions or completely new systems. In this case, the expenditures are capitalized consistent with the accounting for any acquisition project.

3. SECONDARY POWER AND ENERGY

Secondary power and energy revenues include $10 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999 (1998: $111 million, 1997: $158 million) from sales of electricity to United States utilities.

4. PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT LEVIES

Provincial water rentals are paid to the Province for the use of water for hydroelectric generation. The debt guarantee fee, equal to one half of one percent on the total debt guaranteed by the Province outstanding as of the preceding December 31, is a legislated payment made by Ontario Hydro to the Province.

7. CORPORATE WRITE-OFFS

| (millions of dollars) | YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31 1997 |
|---|---|
| Nuclear recovery | 4,595 |
| Other future expenditures | 1,495 |
| Staff reduction and employee relocation costs | 238 |
| Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A | 170 |
| Surplus buildings and equipment and associated business exit costs | 82 |
| | 6,580 |

There were no corporate write-offs during the three months ended March 31, 1999, and year ended December 31, 1998. In 1997, the Board of Directors of Ontario Hydro approved a number of charges and write-offs to operations, totalling $6,580 million, to 1997 operations. Two of these charges were for future costs expected to be incurred over the 1998 to 2001 period, which, under GAAP for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, would be expensed as incurred. Accordingly, these charges required use of the Board's rate-setting authority, to establish a provision for future costs. The first such charge was for additional future costs associated with improving nuclear performance, specifically the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP) and other related costs such as replacement energy and interest. While Ontario Hydro expects to incur additional costs of $4,895 million for the improvement of nuclear performance, the charge to 1997 operations was $4,595 million, before using a $300 million provision made in a previous year for planned nuclear recovery expenditures. The second charge, of $1,495 million, was for additional future costs associated with transmission and distribution assets, nuclear decommissioning and used fuel disposal provisions.

The remaining $490 million in charges to 1997 operations did not require use of the Board's rate-setting authority and related to the following:

• A charge of $238 million to cover the costs associated with a targeted reduction of 850 staff, including those expected to become surplus to Corporate needs before the end of 1998, and costs associated with the large-scale staff relocations required under the NAOP.
• A write-off of $170 million in capital project expenditures associated with the three units of Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A that were laid-up in 1998. Management's assessment was that the related capital projects would have no future benefit due to the lengthy duration of the lay-up.
• A write-off of $82 million associated with certain buildings and equipment identified as surplus due to Hydro's transition towards a more competitive environment and to reflect the wind-up of several small ancillary business ventures.

The following table shows the extent to which the provision for future costs was used in 1998 and the three months ended March 31, 1999.

Nuclear steam generator rehabilitation costs

Ontario Hydro has undertaken a major program to rehabilitate steam generators at the Pickering A and B Nuclear Generating Stations. The costs of the program, which will continue until 2001, are being deferred and amortized over the remaining service lives of the individual generators commencing as each generator is returned to service.

The deferred nuclear steam generator rehabilitation amounts included in fixed assets, construction in progress and accumulated depreciation are detailed as follows:

The weighted average interest rate represents the effective rate of interest on fixed-rate bonds and notes and the current interest rate in effect at March 31, 1999, for floating-rate bonds and notes, all before considering the effect of derivative financial instruments used to manage interest rate risk. Bonds and notes payable are either held, or guaranteed as to principal and interest, by the Province.

Bonds and notes payable include:

[2] Bonds callable by Ontario Hydro are at fixed prices on dates before their stated maturities, which are over the period 2002 to 2012. These bonds are callable at a weighted average call price equal to 100% of the bond's principal amounts callable on specific dates within the period 1999 to 2005.

As described in note 12, Ontario Hydro has used various derivative financial instruments to hedge the foreign exchange exposure related to long-term debt denominated in foreign currencies and to manage the interest rate risk associated with its outstanding long-term debt.

12. DERIVATIVE FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

FORWARD EXCHANGE CONTRACTS. Ontario Hydro has entered into forward exchange contracts to hedge against the impact of a potential decline in the value of the Canadian dollar in 1999, and to manage the foreign exchange risk associated with its long-term debt. Forward exchange contracts have also been entered into to hedge firm commitments for future purchases and sales denominated in a foreign currency.

CROSS CURRENCY SWAP CONTRACTS. Ontario Hydro has entered into cross currency swap contracts to effectively convert principal and interest payments on selected debt issues into Canadian or United States dollars.

The following table summarizes the currencies in which Ontario Hydro's long-term debt, bank indebtedness and short-term notes are payable, before and after giving effect to Ontario Hydro's foreign exchange risk management activities related to debt:

SWAPTION CONTRACTS. In 1993, Ontario Hydro converted future potential interest savings, related to call options embedded in certain of its bonds to cash by selling offsetting swaption contracts. These contracts permit holders to require Ontario Hydro to enter into interest rate swaps commencing on the call date. If exercised, the swaptions result in Ontario Hydro making payments based on a fixed interest rate equal to the related bonds' coupon rates, and receiving floating rate payments.

United States dollar-denominated swaptions may be cash settled on their exercise dates. Premiums received from the sale of these contracts are being amortized to income, as a reduction of interest expense, over the remaining terms of the related bond issues.

INTEREST RATE SWAP CONTRACTS. As at March 31, 1999, the outstanding receive-fixed interest rate swap contracts have effectively converted fixed interest rates on long-term debt to floating interest rates. These contracts have maturity dates over the period 1999 to 2026 (1998: 1999 to 2026; 1997: 1998 to 2026). The outstanding pay-fixed interest rate swap contracts have effectively converted floating interest rates on outstanding debt into fixed interest rates. These contracts have maturity dates over the period 1999 to 2027 (1998: 1999 to 2027; 1997: 1998 to 2027).

FORWARD RATE AGREEMENTS. Prior to 1999, Ontario Hydro had entered into forward rate agreements to manage its exposure to short-term interest rates.

BOND OPTIONS. Prior to 1999, Ontario Hydro had purchased options to buy long-term government bonds to mitigate the adverse impact of a potential decline in long-term interest rates on its fixed-rate debt.

FORWARD BOND PURCHASES. Prior to 1999, Ontario Hydro had entered into forward purchase contracts for Government of Canada bonds to manage its exposure to short-term interest rates.

The following table summarizes the total amount of long-term debt, short-term notes and bank indebtedness maturing or subject to interest rate resetting within one year and after one year, before and after giving effect to Ontario Hydro's interest rate risk management activities:

13. FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS AND CREDIT RISK

Fair value

The following table presents the carrying amounts and fair values of Ontario Hydro's financial instruments:

1 Period-end and year-end quoted market prices for specific or similar instruments are used to estimate the fair value of each class of financial instrument for which it is practical to estimate that value. For over-the-counter derivative financial instruments, the fair value is determined using pricing models that take into account the current value of the underlying instruments, the time value of money, and mid-market yield curve and volatility factors. The carrying values of cash, temporary investments, accounts receivable, bank indebtedness, short-term notes payable and accounts payable and accrued charges approximate fair value because of the short maturity of those instruments.

Credit risk

Financial assets expose Ontario Hydro to credit risk and concentration of credit risk. As at March 31, 1999, there were no significant concentrations of credit risk with respect to any class of financial assets. Derivative financial instruments expose Ontario Hydro to credit risk, since there is a risk of counter party default. This risk is limited to the cost of replacing contracts in which Ontario Hydro has an unrealized gain.

Credit risk is monitored and minimized by dealing only with a diverse group of highly rated counter parties. In addition, as a means of further reducing its credit exposure on derivative financial instruments, Ontario Hydro enters into master netting agreements with its counter parties to enable it to settle derivative financial assets and liabilities with the counter party on a net basis in the event that the counter party defaults. The existence of these master netting agreements had the effect of reducing Ontario Hydro's current credit risk exposure on derivative financial assets from $437 million to $86 million as at March 31, 1999 (1998: from $374 million to $152 million; 1997: from $349 million to $142 million).

14. ACCRUED FIXED ASSET REMOVAL AND USED NUCLEAR FUEL DISPOSAL COSTS

| (millions of dollars) | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| ACCRUED FIXED ASSET REMOVAL COSTS | | | |
| Accrued decommissioning costs | 1,059 | 1,042 | 962 |
| Accrued fuel channel removal costs | 699 | 674 | 616 |
| | 1,758 | 1,716 | 1,578 |
| ACCRUED USED NUCLEAR FUEL DISPOSAL COSTS | 1,549 | 1,485 | 1,264 |
| | 3,307 | 3,201 | 2,842 |

Accrued fixed asset removal costs

Accrued fixed asset removal costs are the costs of decommissioning nuclear and fossil generating stations and heavy water production facilities after the end of their service lives, and the costs of removing certain fuel channels and steam generators, which are expected to be replaced during the life of the nuclear reactors. The significant assumptions used in estimating future fixed asset removal costs are consistent with 1998:

• decommissioning of nuclear generating stations in the 2042 to 2071 period on a deferred dismantlement basis (dismantlement following storage with surveillance for a 30-year period after shutdown of the reactors), and an average transportation distance of 1,000 kilometres from nuclear generating facilities to disposal facilities;

• interest and cost escalation rates through to 2071 ranging from:

| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Interest rates | 6% to 8% | 6% to 8% | 6% to 9% |
| Cost escalation rates | 2% to 4% | 2% to 4% | 2% to 5% |

• removal and replacement of certain fuel channels and steam generators in nuclear generating stations during the following periods :

| | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bruce A Units 3 & 4 | 2001–2008 | 2006–2008 | 2005–2008 |
| Bruce B | 2010–2013 | 2011–2017 | 2015–2018 |

• decommissioning of fossil generating stations in the 2006 to 2025 period.

The significant assumptions underlying the estimates of accrued fixed asset removal costs are subject to periodic review. These assumptions, as well as, the existing methods and technology used for decommissioning, fuel channel removal and replacement, and steam generator replacement are subject to change which could result in changes to these costs.

Accrued used nuclear fuel disposal costs

The significant assumptions used in estimating the future used nuclear fuel disposal costs are consistent with 1998:

- an in-service date of the year 2025 for permanent disposal facilities;
- an average transportation distance of 1,000 kilometres from nuclear generating facilities to disposal facilities;
- interest and cost escalation rates through to 2071 ranging from:

| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Interest rates | 6% to 8% | 6% to 8% | 6% to 9% |
| Cost escalation rates | 2% to 4% | 2% to 4% | 2% to 5% |

The significant assumptions underlying the estimates of accrued used nuclear fuel disposal costs are subject to periodic review. These assumptions, as well as the existing methods and technology used for used fuel disposal, are subject to change which could result in changes to these costs.

15. CONTINGENCIES & COMMITMENTS

Uncertainty due to the Year 2000 Issue

The Year 2000 Issue arises because many computerized systems use two digits rather than four to identify a year. Date-sensitive systems may recognize the year 2000 as 1900 or some other date, resulting in errors when information using year 2000 dates is processed. In addition, similar problems may arise in 1999 in some systems which use the digits "99" in a date field to represent something other than a date. The effects of the Year 2000 Issue may be experienced before, on, or after January 1, 2000, and, if not addressed, the impact on operations and financial reporting may range from minor errors to significant systems failure which could affect an entity's ability to conduct normal business operations.

The Corporation is in the process of completing a significant program designed to upgrade or replace affected systems on which it and its customers depend, prior to the year 2000. However, it is not possible to be certain that all aspects of the Year 2000 Issue affecting Ontario Hydro, including those related to the efforts of customers, suppliers, or other third parties, will be fully resolved.

Renewable Energy Technology Program Class Action

In 1997, a class action suit was commenced on behalf of all bidders in the renewable energy technology program based on allegations of misrepresentation and bad faith in requesting bids and carrying on discussions with bidders prior to cancellation of the project. The plaintiffs named Ontario Hydro, as well as, certain individual officers of Ontario Hydro as defendants. The plaintiffs seek declaratory relief and damages in the amount of $250 million for loss of income and profits, loss of opportunity, conversion of trade secrets, and exemplary, aggravated and punitive damages. A motion to certify the class was argued in November 1998 and in December the Court refused to certify the action. Subject to appeal rights, the action may now proceed as a claim by the named plaintiff, and the damages claimed would be reduced substantially. At this time, the outcome of this claim is not determinable, and as such, no provision has been accrued in Ontario Hydro's financial statements with respect to any amounts in dispute. However, Ontario Hydro believes it has no liability, and that the damages claimed are, in any event, excessive.

Municipal electric utilities' lawsuit

On April 24, 1997, three municipal electric utilities (Applicants) issued a notice of application against Ontario Hydro for which they have since received certification as a class proceeding on behalf of all municipal electric utilities in Ontario. No supporting affidavit materials have been served. The Applicants seek declarations that certain rates and pricing options offered by Ontario Hydro to corporations contravene the provisions of the PCA and that these rates and pricing options have improperly increased costs to the municipal electric utilities who purchase their power from Ontario Hydro. They also seek recovery of these increased costs in the amount of $145 million. They further seek a declaration that Ontario Hydro has improperly diverted, from revenues derived from the sale of power to municipal electric utilities, monies, of an indeterminate amount, which should have been used to reduce the cost of power being supplied to these municipal electric utilities. They are also seeking declarations that Ontario Hydro has breached legislative provisions prescribing the operation of the Reserve for Stabilization of Rates and Contingencies and the equity account, and an order requiring Ontario Hydro to replenish the equity account in the amount of $5.0 billion. Ontario Hydro has denied the allegations, and believes that it has valid and meritorious defences against such allegations and will, in due course, file responding materials. At this time, the outcome of these claims is not determinable.

Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A

As a result of the NAOP, Ontario Hydro laid up the three operating units at Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A over the Spring of 1998. Consistent with the phased recovery approach adopted for NAOP, these three units plus Bruce A Unit 2, which was shut down in 1995, are currently planned to be returned to service within the period 2003 to 2009.

In the event that a future decision is made not to return the four Bruce A units to service, a loss would have to be recognized. The current estimate of such a loss is about $1,050 million, which takes into account the undepreciated book value of the generating and heavy water assets, the carrying value of remaining construction in progress amounts, and the impact of recognizing unaccrued net fixed asset removal provisions.

Power Purchase Agreements

Ontario Hydro has committed to the purchase of a portion of its electricity requirements, pursuant to long-term contractual Power Purchase Agreements (PPAs), with various power producers.

The PPAs expire on various dates from 1999 to 2048. Other details are:

| | AS AT MARCH 31 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
| In-service capacity (megawatts) | 1,670 | 1,864 | 1,584 |
| Net present value of purchase obligations over 20 years (millions of dollars) | 6,689 | 6,910 | 6,203 |

Estimated annual payments for purchase obligations range from $755 million to $865 million over the next five years.

Deliveries in the aggregate for the first three months of 1999 account for approximately 8.0% of Ontario Hydro's total electric energy requirements (1998: 7.6%; 1997: 7.2%). The amount of energy received and the total payments made under these agreements are:

| | THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31 | YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31 | |
| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
| Gigawatthours received | 3,043 | 11,108 | 10,366 |
| Power purchases (millions of dollars) | 217 | 680 | 642 |

Ontario Hydro has issued a Request for Expressions of Interest for the financial restructuring of its power purchase contracts with independent power producers in Ontario.

Loan guarantees

Ontario Hydro is contingently liable under guarantees given to third-party lenders who have provided long-term financing to certain independent power producers. These guarantees total approximately $157 million as at March 31, 1999 (1998: $160 million, 1997: $171 million).

Fuel used for electric generation

Ontario Hydro has entered into firm fuel supply agreements, some of which extend beyond 2000. The future obligation as at March 31, 1999, under these agreements for the remainder of 1999 is estimated to be $504 million. Beyond 1999, the estimated amount is $228 million (1998: $639 million).

16. (DEFICIT) RETAINED EARNINGS

On January 1, 1997, the opening retained earnings balance of $2,552 million was reduced by $763 million as a result of charging the transition obligation associated with the change in accounting for other post-employment benefits (see note 2i). The change was introduced as a first step to the early implementation of accounting recommendations from the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants (CICA), effective January 1, 2000. The future OPEB obligation was discounted using a long-term average rate, consistent with the rate used to determine pension costs and obligations.

In 1998, the CICA approved new recommendations on accounting for employees' future benefits. To complete the implementation of the new accounting recommendations, the Corporation changed the discount rate used to measure the OPEB obligation from a long-term average rate to a current market settlement rate. As a result, a transition amount of $460 million was charged to the deficit in 1998.

17. CONSOLIDATED STATEMENT OF CASH FLOWS

The changes in non-cash balances related to operations consisted of the following:

18. BENEFIT PLANS

Pension plan

Effective November 7, 1998, certain sections of the Energy Competition Act, 1998, came into force whereby Ontario Hydro and its successor entities were allowed to adopt funding practices that are more consistent with Canadian business practices. The Plan has a substantial surplus. As agreed in the Union negotiation processes,

Ontario Hydro ceased remitting employer contributions effective April 1, 1998. Also, commencing November 7, 1998, the direct costs of investment management and administration of the Plan have been absorbed as a cost of the Plan. Information about Ontario Hydro's pension plan is as follows:

| (millions of dollars) | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pension costs | 7 | 23 | 116 |
| Pension costs charged to operations | 7 | 18 | 93 |
| Pension costs capitalized as part of fixed assets | – | 5 | 23 |
| Pension fund assets at fair market value | 10,853 | 10,816 | 10,173 |
| Accrued pension benefits at actuarial present value | 9,830 | 9,707 | 6,455 |
| Plan surplus for accounting purposes | 1,023 | 1,109 | 3,718 |
| Deferred pension asset | 972 | 979 | 112 |
| Expected return on plan assets | 7.25% | 9% | 9% |
| Rate used to discount future pension benefits | 6% | 6% | 8.25% |
| Salary schedule escalation rate | 3.5% | 3.5% | 3.5% |
| Rate of cost of living increases to pensions | 2.5% | 2.5% | 1.88% |
| Average remaining service life for employee (years) | 12 | 12 | 14 |

The actuarial present value of the accrued pension benefits was based on a projection of the valuation at December 31, 1997. Estimated accrued pension benefits increased dramatically in 1998 as a result of an accounting change. The Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants has recommended that the rate used for discounting future pension benefits should be based on the current market interest rate. Previously, Ontario Hydro used its best estimate as to the long-term average interest rate of corporate bonds for this computation.

The deferred pension asset of $972 million as at March 31, 1999 (1998: $979 million, 1997: $112 million), represents the cumulative difference between funding contributions and pension costs. The $7 million decline to March 31, 1999, is the pension cost charged to operations. The $887 million increase to the deferred pension asset in 1998 results from recognizing the access to the pension fund surplus. Ontario Hydro also recognized a corresponding credit to the 1998 operating statement.

The $51 million difference as at March 31, 1999 (1998: $130 million), between the $1,023 million pension fund surplus and the $972 million deferred pension asset represents experience gains and losses, which will be amortized over the average remaining service period of employees.

The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation was established effective April 1, 1999, to assume transitional responsibility, as an agent for OEFC, for administering the pension benefits and investing pension assets on behalf of the successor entities of Ontario Hydro.

Group life insurance, health care plans, and other post-employment benefits

Ontario Hydro's costs are detailed as follows:

|---|---|---|---|
| Group life insurance premiums basic coverage | 1 | 5 | 4 |

| Post-employment benefits | | | |
| Retiree group life insurance & health-care | 26 | 92 | 71 |
| Long-term disability | 10 | 32 | 17 |

Group life premiums for additional coverage, if requested, are remitted by the employee. In certain cases, retiree group life insurance and health care costs include payments for surviving spouses, as well as unmarried dependents. Long-term disability applies to qualifying employees in extended absence from work due to sickness or injury.

19. RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

Research and development costs are detailed as follows:

20. FEDERAL ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW PANEL

On March 13, 1998, a Federal Government Panel issued its report (known as the Seaborn Report) on Atomic Energy of Canada Limited's concept for nuclear waste disposal. On December 3, 1998, the Federal Government responded to the Panel's recommendations, concurring with the Panel's major recommendations that:

- the search for a specific disposal site not proceed at this time because broad public support has not been demonstrated;
- a separately incorporated waste management organization be formed by waste producers to manage used fuel;
- a segregated fund be established; and
- a study of alternatives for long-term disposal be commissioned.

The Federal Government has defined the parameters within which each of these recommendations will be implemented, and has charged Natural Resources Canada with initiating and reporting back on a consultative process with the appropriate stakeholders to develop options to meet the key objectives of :

- establishing a dedicated fund;
- specifying the reporting relationships between the government, the waste management organization and stakeholders; and
- establishing a federal review and approval mechanism to provide oversight and access to funds.

Note 14 outlines Ontario Hydro's estimation of future costs and timing of used nuclear fuel disposals.

21. SEGMENT INFORMATION

Ontario Hydro's reportable electricity segments are generation (Generation); transmission, distribution and other electricity services (Distribution); and all other activities (Other). The reportable segments are strategic business units that produce or deliver the same product to the customer. The production of the product is managed separately from the transmission and distribution of the product. The accounting policies followed by the segments are the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies (see note 2).

Ontario Hydro accounts for intersegment sales and transfers at cost. These segments are confirmed by the Government of Ontario through its passage of the Energy Competition Act, 1998, which establishes five successor entities as described in Note 1.

Corporate Governance Practices

Under the Power Corporation Act (PCA), Ontario Hydro was governed by a Board of Directors consisting of up to 22 members. Included in this membership was the Deputy Minister of Energy, Science and Technology, a Director who did not vote at any meeting of the Board. The Chairman and Directors of the Board were appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, and the President was appointed by the Board. The Board of Directors recommended to the Government of Ontario that it appoint either the Chairman or the President as the Chief Executive Officer. In 1998 and the first quarter of 1999, Ontario Hydro had a 12-member Board. Ten of the Corporation's 12 directors were independent of management. External Board members were provided the opportunity to meet in executive session with the Chairman, and the Chief Executive Officer, during each Board meeting, and to meet in executive session without the Chief Executive Officer and members of management several times during the year and/or as required.

As stipulated in the PCA [Section 4(1)], the Board supervised management who managed the affairs of the Corporation, and it was consequently involved in considering significant issues facing the Corporation. The Chairman of the Board and the Chairs of the Board Committees, in working with management, determined which matters were put before the Board.

The Hydro Board also recognized that it may supervise, direct or oversee the business and affairs of the Corporation, but that it should not manage them, at least not in a day-to-day sense. This kind of management was delegated to the CEO and other senior Hydro officers, who were accountable to, and reported back to, the Board from time to time and who operated within prescribed limits of authority.

The Board of Directors discharged its responsibilities directly and through committees. While there were 12 meetings of the Board of Directors in 1998 – including three site visits of Bruce, Pickering and Darlington nuclear generating facilities – and three Board meetings in the first quarter of 1999, the number of Committee meetings varied. The following is a brief description of the mandate of each Board Committee, its composition, and the number of meetings held in the past year.

AUDIT/FINANCE COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Audit/Finance Committee was to advise the Board and to make recommendations for its consideration with respect to: the review of financial reporting matters, the system of internal accounting and financial controls and procedure, and the audit procedures and audit plans; the nomination, remuneration, function and performance of the external auditors; the form and content of the Corporation's annual financial statements, the annual report and any interim or ad hoc documents required by regulatory authorities; the review, on an annual basis, of the financial plans and objectives of the Corporation; the review of matters relating to the funding and investment of funds of the Corporation's pension plan; an annual review of the risks inherent in the Corporation's business and related risk-management programs; the Corporation's policies with respect to debt management, money market activities and the Corporation's banking resolutions; and the Corporation's policies with respect to debt management, foreign exchange management and corporate financial investments.

As defined in the PCA, the President and CEO was a member of the Committee for that section of the mandate related specifically to financial matters.

In carrying out its responsibilities, the Committee could meet with both the external and internal auditors, without the Chief Executive Officer and members of management present.

The Audit/Finance Committee met nine times during 1998, and three times in the first quarter of 1999.

ENVIRONMENT & PUBLIC POLICY COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Environment and Public Policy Committee was to advise the Board and to make recommendations for its consideration with respect to the Corporation's strategic focus and direction on matters relating to: health and safety; social obligations; relations with Aboriginal peoples; and sustainable development and the environment. Specifically, the Committee ensured that the Corporation's actions reflected the interests of governments, non-governmental organizations, the people of Ontario and the employees of Ontario Hydro.

The Environment and Public Policy Committee met five times during 1998.

HUMAN RESOURCES & CORPORATE GOVERNANCE COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Human Resources & Corporate Governance Committee was to advise the Board and to make recommendations for its consideration with respect to: the strategic prospects and options for the future of Ontario's electric power industry in general, and Ontario Hydro specifically; the review of written objectives of the CEO and the provision of guidance for the development and placement, including promotion, of senior management; the annual review and assessment of the performances of the Chairman and the President & CEO; the annual review of organizational structure matters; the monitoring of the quality of the relationship between management and the Board; and the responsibility for Board governance of the Corporation, including the mandate to review the Board Committee structure and to undertake such other initiatives as required to ensure the Board has exemplary corporate governance.

The Human Resources & Corporate Governance Committee met nine times in 1998, and twice in the first quarter of 1999.

NUCLEAR REVIEW COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Nuclear Review Committee was to advise the Board and make recommendations for its consideration with respect to the safe performance of the Corporation's nuclear operations and its effectiveness in achieving desired results. Specifically, the Committee ensured that Ontario Hydro's nuclear facilities were operated and maintained in a rigorous and vigilant manner to ensure that the radiological risk to workers, the public and the environment is acceptably low, and in keeping with the best practices in the international nuclear community.

The Nuclear Review Committee met 12 times during 1998, and twice in the first quarter of 1999.

Hi
I spoke to Sheen at OPG. The initial protection agreement maximum is best if it covers 25 months ie 01Dec2017 to 31Dec2019 since the MoE estimates are per calendar year.
The next protection agreement maximum would then be calculated by adding the estimated issuance in the following 2 more calendar years.

4.01 Protection Agreement Maximum

(a) Not less than 15 Business Days prior to the proposed incurrence of the first Funding Obligation, OPG shall, as the FSM, deliver to the Province: (i) a forecast setting out OPG's expectations regarding the aggregate maximum amount of Repayments that would arise in the future under Approved Obligations to be incurred during the next following 24 month period (the "Initial Forecast Period"), which expectations shall be consistent with the Financing Plan (the "Initial Forecast"); and (ii) notice of the initial Protection Agreement Maximum, which may not exceed the Initial Forecast.

(b) Not more than 10 Business Days following receipt of the Initial Forecast and notice of the initial Protection Agreement Maximum from OPG pursuant to Section 4.01(a), the Province may disagree with the Initial Forecast and the initial Protection Agreement Maximum on the basis that (i) there appears to be inaccuracies in the Financing Plan or the Initial Forecast, (ii) the Initial Forecast is inconsistent with the Financing Plan, or (iii) the initial Protection Agreement Maximum is not less than the Initial Forecast. If the Province disagrees, OPG shall discuss any discrepancies with the Province, address any inaccuracies and inconsistencies to the reasonable satisfaction of the Province, and the initial Protection Agreement Maximum will be revised accordingly and confirmed by an amended notice to the Province.

(c) Between nine (9) and twelve (12) months prior to the end of the Initial Forecast Period, OPG shall, as the FSM, deliver to the Province an updated forecast setting out the sum of (1) the aggregate amount of Repayments that will arise in the future under Approved Obligations that are then outstanding and (2) OPG's expectations regarding the aggregate maximum amount of Repayments that would arise in the future under Approved Obligations to be incurred during the period ending 24 months following the Initial Forecast Period, which expectation shall be consistent with the then applicable Financing Plan. Such updated forecast shall be further updated on a similar basis with respect to each successive 24 month period or more frequently with the consent of the Province if at any time OPG has knowledge that the most recent forecast is materially inaccurate (the Initial Forecast and each such updated forecast, each a "Forecast"). Together with each Forecast, OPG shall also provide a revised Protection Agreement Maximum, which may not exceed such Forecast.

I read that as depending financing factors, and on the fact that principal repayments, based on the fair allocation curve, cannot begin until at least 2030, so that they would be looking for 15 year debt to start, not based on any legal or regulatory restriction on the term of the debt.

Malle / Tobias

I am reading the Financing Plan … and there is a section where they indicate a minimum term of the initial debt issuance of 15 years.

Is there anything that you have come across in the FHP Master Trust Indenture or any other document that prevents the FHT to issue in a term for example of 5y or 10yr?

Thanks

Hi Anna -

Attached are edits to the TB sub as well as comments from our Legal below. Note that these are still with Energy MO.

Please also note LSB's comments:

"The discussions around a cap on liability are still ongoing and I don't have any updates on the status of the financing plan.

In terms of the likelihood of the triggering events (i.e., future legislative action or adverse judicial determination), I think any guess would be wholly speculative. I would prefer simply to indicate that the province has undertaken to assume the risk associated with future legislative changes (which are within the province's control) or adverse judicial determination (which would be a direct result of the model adopted by the province)."

PROVINCIAL SUPPORT AGREEMENT TO OPG FINANCING ENTITY

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide a guarantee or guarantees in respect of debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with investment interests acquired by one or more financing entities established by Ontario Power Generation Inc. pursuant to s. 22 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 ("OPG Financing Entities"), that, under certain circumstances as set out in the support agreement, the Province would pay when due amounts in respect of the ~~debt~~ obligations of the Financing Entity.

This submission is to request that Treasury Board:

(a) Authorize that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide a support agreement, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to Cabinet an Order in Council, to be made under subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and

~~(ii)~~ to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

(ii) specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and

(iii)

(iv) specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

Commented [RK1]: In this case, could it be tied to the requirements of the Act, without a specific maximum, or tied to amount consistent to some determination under the Act, such as the fair allocation amount determination, or cumulative annual fair adjustment amounts under the Act (including financing costs)?

Commented [AS2]: Analysis on maximum liability still underway by energy, working with OPG (Matt).

~~(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the support agreement.~~

3. BACKGROUND:

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) to lower electricity bills by 25%~~, on average~~, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As part of OFHP, it was announced that a portion of the Global Adjustment (GA) would be refinanced in order to fairly allocate costs across present and future generations of electricity consumers with respect to investments made to decarbonize (i.e., phase-out coal) and modernize Ontario's electricity system (i.e., build and maintain a reliable electricity system).~~The OFHP includes the deferral of a portion of the Global Adjustment portion of the cost of electricity. The deferral is built around the principle that the costs incurred to put in place assets for generation and support conservation to move to a clean, reliable system, would last longer than their typical 20-year contract period and would be able to provide benefits for future ratepayers, and that the costs should be spread more fairly between current and future rates.~~ This would be achieved by spreading the cost of electricity investments so that they are shared proportionately by future consumers who cause a need for or benefit from the province's multi-billion dollar investments in electricity infrastructure.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years.~~ This estimate is being updated and will be presented to [TB/MBC/Cabinet] as part of a report back by the Ministry of Energy.~~ The Ministry of Energy will report back to TB/MBC in fall 2017-18 with an update on out-year projections following analysis on rate applications before the Ontario Energy Board.

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (the "OFHPA"~~Act~~)~~,~~, which enables GA Refinancing, the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) will have a funding gap resulting from the reduction in amounts collected over four years. The legislation enables IESO to record the under-collection of GA in a variance account, and deems this under-collected amount to be a "Regulatory Asset". ~~which came into effect on June 1, 2017, the IESO is able to establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts arising from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account.~~

The OFHPA~~Act~~ provides for the IESO to sell all or a portion of the regulatory asset; i.e., the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the OFHPA~~Act~~, a Financing Entity (i.e., an entity established or caused to be established by OPG as the Financial Services Manager under the OFHPA) will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the ratepayers. ~~Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager under section 18, is authorized under section 22 to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations. Such a Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the eligible~~ ratepayers~~.~~

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG ~~is~~, therefore, has advised~~requesting~~ that the Government of Ontario provide a support agreement to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

OFA, the Ministry of Finance and external advisors – consistent with OPG advice – recommend limiting activation of the provincial guarantee to the following circumstances~~Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Support Agreement~~:

- Actions of~~Decisions by~~ the Legislative Assembly that undermine the financing arrangement, i.e., repeal or amendment of the OFHPA ~~of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments~~ or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity;
- A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- [Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO ~~adversely impacting the Financing Entity.~~or a change in the electricity market structure or operations that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations.]

In the event the support agreement is triggered by one of these events, the Province would be required to pay principal and interest on debt issued by the Financing Entity and other obligations of the Financing Entity as it comes due (without acceleration). In addition, the Province would also have the option to assume the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities.~~take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers~~.

The support agreement would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

Commented [ESP3]: Suggest use of this language (from an earlier ''version 3'' of this document).

Commented [MOF LSB4]: Might be helpful to include more information about OPG developing the Financing Plan, what funding obligations are, etc.

Commented [RK5]: I'd see if Energy can share its description on this.

Commented [AS6]:

Commented [ESP7]: Recommend deleting.

This does not appear to be consistent with the latest term sheet shared on Wednesday Sept. 6. That version did not include this circumstance/event in its list of ''Assumption Events''

Commented [ESP8]: Is this consistent with Term Sheet?

Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act (FAA), 1990 requires that the Minister of Finance's approval is required before a ministry seeks an Order in Council authorizing a guarantee or indemnity or before a ministry enters into a guarantee or indemnity that would increase the contingent liabilities of Ontario. In this case, the Minister of Finance, together with the Minister of Energy, is recommending the OIC to Cabinet and will, acting together with the Minister of Energy, determine the terms and conditions of and execute the proposed guarantee/indemnity in accordance with the OIC, if approved.

Commented [ESP9]: Believe this is what is being referenced?

Formatted: Font: Italic

Commented [ESP10]: Is there an OIC drafted or is this just a proposed approach should an OIC be required?

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the support agreement is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the support agreement is provided the Province of Ontario takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability would increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated [$24B to $26B (to be revised as Energy re-estimates)] of debt, including principal and accumulated~~, along with associated~~ interest ~~payments~~.

Commented [ESP11]: Pending finalization of costs forecasts - this work is still ongoing with OPG.

In the event the support agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the guarantee.

Commented [MOF LSB12]: OPCD to review

Commented [RK13]: Could include Energy's curve from the March 2nd CabSub, as well as the interim update in the more recent LTEP deck---but would be subject to updates per Energy's anticipated forthcoming submissions cited above.

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between [$0.8B and $1.3B] per annum, depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at.

Commented [ESP14]: Work is still ongoing between ENERGY and OPG regarding finalizing amounts - including interest.

Commented [MOF LSB15]: Include of a discussion of the risk associated with the trigger events – what are the risks – are there legal risks regarding the legislation and whether a court might find it to be invalid for some reason – have legal opinions been obtained on this? Are some of these risks within the control of the government so can be mitigated in some way?

It is important to note that, if the support agreement is triggered, and the Province assumes the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the OFHPA~~Act~~ continue or not, in some form. If the payment streams from ratepayers via the collection of~~in~~ the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue,

Commented [RK16]: We should get input from Energy on this, to be consistent with what is, or will be, in Energy submissions.

Commented [ESP17]: I don't believe our TB Subs spoke to this point.

this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if the OFHPA is repealed or is determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

7. COMMUNICATION PLAN

Commented [ESP18]: This section was not in earlier version - unsure of its necessity?

Key Messages

- Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan has ~~will~~ resulted in the biggest electricity rate reduction in Ontario's history.
- We have heard from Ontarians across the province that the price of electricity has risen too quickly, which is why we ~~are~~ moved~~ing~~ forward with a plan to ensure the costs are shared more evenly over the years ahead.
- The government is following through on its commitment to balance the books as announced in its 2017 Budget, while continuing to make investments in priority areas such as electricity price relief.

Strategic Approach

- Low-profile, reactive and targeted to industry stakeholders and government employees as necessary. Reactive messaging contingent upon legislative changes only with back-pocket QAs to support as needed.
- Communications support will continue to be led by the Ministry of Energy.

~~7.~~9. RECOMMENDATION

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a support agreement, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to~~that~~ Cabinet ~~approve~~ an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

(ii) specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and

(iii)

(iv) specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

~~(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the support agreement.~~

Commented [MOF LSB19]: It may be the case that this is a more general approval and the 2 Ministers will determine the terms and condition in accordance with the authorization given to them by the OIC. It depends on how soon the actual wording of the guarantee can be confirmed as opposed to the draft term sheet – The province should not sign of commit to the term sheet as the province's authority comes from the OIC.

Hi Steen,

Our lawyers have indicated that it would be prudent to have both Ministers of Energy and Finance sign the TB submission for the Provincial Support Agreement since both Ministers will recommend the OIC and both will sign the Support Agreement. Gadi is signing off on the TB submission at the end of the day today and then it will track to both DMOs for early next week.

I'm attaching the latest version of the TB submission (v.5) for your review and comment. Changes (from the version you received last Thursday) have been tracked. You'll see there remains three areas that would benefit from Energy's input:

- Maximum liability – and if analysis is still underway, would be good to indicate that
- Additional information on the Financing Plan
- Discussion of the risk/likelihood of trigger events

I also have removed the minute relating to the s. 28 request from the Minister of Energy. I understand that, because the Minister of Finance is recommending the OIC, his approval of the contingent liability is implicit.

Please don't hesitate to contact me or Gadi should you have any questions.

Hi All,

Please find attached the latest version of the TB submission, which includes some comments in the margins that still need to be addressed. Thanks to everyone who has provided edits so far. I'd like to reiterate that we're still tracking the Sept. 26 TB/MBC meeting, which means we'll have to brief our Minister next week in order to provide a final submission to TBS three weeks before the meeting.

As many of you may already know, we are now calling it a "Provincial Support Agreement" as opposed to "Provincial guarantee" as MOF legal advised this is not a true guarantee as the agreement would be contingent on certain events (whereas a guarantee would not).

Please provide further comments and edits as appropriate. We're looking to have program area and legal sign-off by Wed. Sept. 6.

Thanks,

Hi Cindy, Steen, Kelly (for Scott), and Malle,

Attached, for your review and comment, is a draft TB submission for the Provincial Guarantee.

This submission is somewhat premature, as there continue to be discussions about which Ministry might bring this forward (for instance, the Provincial Guarantee piece could be incorporated into a broader report back by the Ministry of Energy) and when this might go to TB/MBC (mid to late September); however, Gadi is on vacation for two weeks starting Monday, so we wanted to get a head start on something that could be moved forward in his absence.

I apologize for the tight timelines, but we are hoping to have your comments (even preliminary comments) by noon tomorrow. I expect that subsequent iterations of this submission and/or the TB Assessment Note will be circulated again for your input.

Please don't hesitate to contact me should you have any questions.

PROVINCIAL SUPPORT AGREEMENT TO OPG FINANCING ENTITY

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide a guarantee or guarantees in respect of debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with investment interests acquired by one or more financing entities established by Ontario Power Generation Inc. pursuant to s. 22 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 ("OPG Financing Entities"), that, under certain circumstances as set out in the support agreement, the Province would pay when due amounts in respect of the ~~debt~~ obligations of the Financing Entity.

This submission is to request that Treasury Board:

(a) Authorize that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide a support agreement, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to Cabinet an Order in Council, to be made under subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

~~(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the support agreement.~~

3. BACKGROUND:

Commented [RK1]: In this case, could it be tied to the requirements of the Act, without a specific maximum, or tied to amount consistent to some determination under the Act, such as the fair allocation amount determination, or cumulative annual fair adjustment amounts under the Act (including financing costs)?

Commented [AS2]: Analysis on maximum liability still underway by energy, working with OPG (Matt).

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) to lower electricity bills by 25%, on average, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years. The OFHP includes the deferral of a portion of the Global Adjustment portion of the cost of electricity. The deferral is built around the principle that the costs incurred to put in place assets for generation and support conservation to move to a clean, reliable system, would last longer than their typical 20-year contract period and would be able to provide benefits for future ratepayers, and that the costs should be spread more fairly between current and future rates.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years. This estimate is being updated and will be presented to [TB/MBC/Cabinet] as part of a report-back by the Ministry of Energy.

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (the Act), which came into effect on June 1, 2017, the IESO is able to establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts arising from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account. The Act provides for the IESO to sell the regulatory asset; i.e., the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the Act, Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager under section 18, is authorized under section 22 to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations. Such a Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the eligible ratepayers.

Commented [MOF LSB3]: Might be helpful to include more information about OPG developing the Financing Plan, what funding obligations are, etc.

Commented [RK4]: I'd see if Energy can share its description on this.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG is, therefore, requesting that the Government of Ontario provide a support agreement to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Support Agreement:

- Decisions by the Legislative Assembly, i.e., repeal of the Ontario Fair

Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity;

- A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- [Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO ~~adversely impacting the Financing Entity.~~or a change in the electricity market structure or operations that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations.]

Commented [AS5]:

In the event the support agreement is triggered, the Province would be required to pay principal and interest on debt issued by the Financing Entity and other obligations of the Financing Entity as it comes due (without acceleration). In addition, the Province would also have the option to assume the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities.~~take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers~~.

The support agreement would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

~~———~~Section 28 of the FAA requires that the Minister of Finance's approval is required before a ministry seeks an Order in Council authorizing a guarantee or indemnity or before a ministry enters into a guarantee or indemnity that would increase the contingent liabilities of Ontario. In this case, the Minister of Finance, together with the Minister of Energy, is recommending the OIC to Cabinet and will, acting together with the Minister of Energy, determine the terms and conditions of and execute the proposed guarantee/indemnity in accordance with the OIC, if approved.

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the support agreement is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the support agreement is provided the Province of Ontario takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability would increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated [$24B to $26B (to be revised as Energy re-estimates)] of debt principal, along with associated interest payments.

In the event the support agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the guarantee.

Commented [MOF LSB6]: OPCD to review

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between [$0.8B and $1.3B] per annum, depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at.

Commented [RK7]: Could include Energy's curve from the March 2nd CabSub, as well as the interim update in the more recent LTEP deck---but would be subject to updates per Energy's anticipated forthcoming submissions cited above.

It is important to note that, if the support agreement is triggered, and the Province assumes the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the Act continue or not, in some form. If the payment streams from ratepayers in the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

Commented [MOF LSB8]: Include of a discussion of the risk associated with the trigger events – what are the risks – are there legal risks regarding the legislation and whether a court might find it to be invalid for some reason – have legal opinions been obtained on this? Are some of these risks within the control of the government so can be mitigated in some way?

Commented [RK9]: We should get input from Energy on this, to be consistent with what is, or will be, in Energy submissions.

7. COMMUNICATION PLAN

Key Messages

- Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan will result in the biggest electricity rate reduction in Ontario's history.
- We have heard from Ontarians across the province that the price of electricity has risen too quickly, which is why we are moving forward with a plan to ensure the costs are shared more evenly over the years ahead.
- The government is following through on its commitment to balance the books as announced in its 2017 Budget, while continuing to make investments in priority areas such as electricity price relief.

Strategic Approach

- Low-profile, reactive and targeted to industry stakeholders and government employees as necessary. Reactive messaging contingent upon legislative changes only with back-pocket QAs to support as needed.
- Communications support will continue to be led by the Ministry of Energy.

~~7.~~9. RECOMMENDATION

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a support agreement, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

~~(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the support agreement.~~

Commented [MOF LSB10]: It may be the case that this is a more general approval and the 2 Ministers will determine the terms and condition in accordance with the authorization given to them by the OIC. It depends on how soon the actual wording of the guarantee can be confirmed as opposed to the draft term sheet – The province should not sign of commit to the term sheet as the province's authority comes from the OIC.

Subject: FW: IESO credit facility
Date: Friday, October 20, 2017 12:55:05 PM

Hi Mike,

As an update on IESO, according to John K "IESO has not provided any edits [to the Credit Facility Agreement] but seem to be indicating that they are getting close to being prepared to sign."

At the same time,"[OPG] Trust is looking for the IESO to give a 1st priority/security over all IESO assets including accounts receivables in favour of the Trust. This item is being discussed amongst all parties. If this proceeds, the IESO will have to amend/restructure its current credit facilities with TD Bank, OFA, and OEFC as all are unsecured pari-passu."

Will and I met with John K, Francisco, Sarah Neville, Lisa Stein and Toby from LSB to discuss this. The issues are as follows:

1 – Under the draft FHP draft facility, OFA ranks pari passu with all other unsubordinated debt and unsecured Indebtedness of IESO, subject to the existence of any Liens that secure Indebtedness. If the Trust has 1st priority/security over all IESO assets, this (as we currently understand OPG's request) renders the protection our Permitted Liens section moot, and also renders the Negative Pledge section moot since it states that

> The IESO will not, and will not permit any Material Subsidiary to, create, incur or assume any Lien, charging the interest of the IESO or any Material Subsidiary in any property, to secure any obligations (including any Indebtedness) unless, at or prior to the time such Lien is created, incurred or assumed, all amounts owing under this Agreement are secured equally and rateably with any and all such obligations secured or to be secured by such Lien, for so long as such obligations shall be secured

Based on my understanding, this would be a fundamental change in the OFA's approach if we permit the Trust to have 1st priority/security over all IESO assets.

2 – If IESO is close to execution, it would be important for the OFA not to give any undertaking to IESO that it would be willing to restructuring any existing facilities, and that any such change would be dependent at that time on analysis of the circumstances and any approvals.

3 – From a simplicity standpoint, the directive to exempt the intercept provision from the credit facility is still the most immediately simple option. However, within the next week it is thought that we should proceed with the tripartite letter PROVIDED that the OFA gives no undertaking to amend its credit facilities down the road. Our speculation is that IESO has some resistance to OPG taking 1st priority interest in all IESO assets and that it may be levering the inclusion of the intercept provision as a reason why OPG can't have a 1st priority claim in all IESO assets. There was also some discussion as to whether the intercept provision could be "secured" by OPG Trust – on the face we don't think so, but more analysis would need to be done as to the legislature appropriations status under the PPSA and the ability for OPG Trust take a security into legislature appropriations.

4- Also, according to Francisco, following the AG's report there is sensitivity around the pricing of the OPG Asset. Particularly if it is thought that the exclusion of the intercept provision from the agreement will add to credit rating agencies view that IESO's assets and cashflows will be unencumbered, it adds suasion to the argument for the Minister to sign an exempting directive.

John Kim will update Ron Kwan who will hopefully in turn brief Gadi. Time is of the essence, since the next IESO draw is on November 21, and the existing credit facility limit would be exceeded by the next draw.

Thanks,
Sarah

IESO has indicated the following and I will ask you to give it some thought:
"DRAFT - The Trust is looking for the IESO to give a 1st priority/security over all IESO assets including accounts receivables in favour of the Trust. This item is being discussed amongst all parties. If this proceeds, the IESO will have to amend/restructure its current credit facilities with TD Bank, OFA, and OEFC as all are unsecured pari-passu."

Thanks everyone for joining the chat on short notice and also to Francisco for helping out. And sorry, didn't mean to leave out Sarah H. in my email this morning.

One of the takeaways from the meeting for me was that we need to let IESO know within reasonable timeframe that amending the existing facilities at any point would require appropriate approvals, likely involving a Directive and that we cannot actively or passively acquiesce [not sure if this is the appropriate word] by not responding. That it would require appropriate approvals when IESO has reasonably concluded its discussion on the matter. I just sent that in an email response following a phone call and also wanted to flag that IESO is expecting the next draft on Wednesday so I think we are looking at that as when we will have a sense of where the two entities stand.

All said, we are working on the Directive option in parallel.

I agree with Lisa re intercept.

As a sidebar, not an OFA issue and way beyond my expertise, but is there any concern/discussion that the Trust, if given a first priority over ALL the asset of the IESO could potentially enforce a security interest and liquidate a significant entity responsible for overseeing the supply of electricity into Ontario? Is anyone weighing in on this question -IESO/MOE?

If the IESO gives the Trust a 1st priority over all IESO assets, it follows that the intercept provisions as drafted in the proposed credit facility agreement will not work. This further strengthens the case for a directive.

Interest Rate Scenarios: Energy LTEP Model

DRAFT

- The preliminary interest cost estimates are based on Ministry of Energy Global Adjustment cost amounts to be deferred consistent with LTEP modelling assumptions.
  - The sensitivities were modelled by assuming alternate interest rates and allowing term to differ from the status quo 30-year assumption.
  - There are other assumptions in the Energy model, such as the YOY increase after 2022, that could also be changed. The current analysis does not explore all scenarios.
  - GA deferral estimates are subject to updates from the Ministry of Energy.
  - Actual annual and cumulative interest costs are sensitive to actual borrowing rates.
  - Sensitivities shown on lower interest rates assume faster debt pay down.

2% inflation cap: 2018-2021

| Interest Rate | Peak Annual Interest Cost | Total Life-cycle Accumulated Interest Costs | Peak Debt | Term (Approximate) |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 3.5% | $0.648 billion in 2029 | $10.7 billion | $18.4 billion | 2042 (25-year term) |

Good afternoon,
Ministry of Energy has taken the lead on preparing Q&As (attached) to support our Ministers upon release of the AG's report on the Fair Hydro Plan (release is expected to be imminent). Energy has asked OFA to review the highlighted question on page four, which they've pulled from speaking points the OFA prepared for Minister Sousa. Gadi, I note they've taken the response verbatim from what we submitted, so I don't expect it will require further editing; however, there could be other questions that the OFA would like to weigh in on.
Please review the attached and send me your edits in track changes by 3:00pm. Ali has asked for materials by 4:00pm today.

I suspect these materials would benefit our Ministers equally, so I'd like to suggest we divvy up the responsibility the same way we did for the speaking points, addressing the key assertions of the report, and then I'll compile.

Q& A Response – OAG's Report on Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan

Q. Why did the government introduce Ontario Fair Hydro Plan?

The government has been making important investments in a cleaner and more reliable electricity system, but these investments have led to higher bills. Since 2003, nearly $70 billion has been invested in the electricity system, including more than $37 billion in electricity generation to ensure the system is clean and reliable.

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) is delivering the single-largest reduction in electricity rates in the province's history. OFHP has introduced new measures to lower electricity bills by 25 per cent on average for residential consumers and will hold increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As many as half a million small businesses and farms are also benefitting from a reduction.

In developing the policy to refinance the Global Adjustment (GA), the government considered a range of implementation options and consulted with legal, accounting, financial and energy sector third-party experts to provide advice and ensure due diligence was completed.

GA refinancing is designed so that deferred costs are borne by the rate-base, as the beneficiaries of the electricity system, and not the tax-base.

OFHP operates under a financial and accounting framework that is appropriate for the intended purpose and in accordance with Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) and ensures that the fairness goals underlying the program are achieved in a cost-effective manner.

Q. The Auditor General and the Financial Accountability Office both suggest that the cost of borrowing will be more expensive than traditional government borrowing? Is this true?

In the development of Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan, the government made the policy decision that deferred costs should be borne by the rate-base and not the tax-base.

Based on this policy decision, it was decided that the debt obligation would be recognized as a regulatory asset that would be sold and securitized. This design appropriately aligns the costs and benefits within the group of eligible consumers.

Ontario Power Generation (OPG) was identified as the Financial Services Manager responsible for the financing plans and the financing entity (i.e., Fair Hydro Plan Trust) that will manage the debt obligations. OPG has the necessary financing and commercial expertise to assist with refinancing the Global Adjustment (GA) and will ensure that it is done in an efficient and cost-effective manner.

OPG has a demonstrated track record in the financial markets with its Corporate Debt platform, private placement of insurance linked bonds, participation in securitization program and highly successful project debt issuances tied to new hydroelectric developments. The innovative, cost saving and precedent setting aspects of these structures have resulted in international recognition.

With respect to the $4 billion figure referenced by the Financial Accountability Office (FAO) in its May 2017, it should be note that FAO's report was based on initial Ministry of Energy estimates from March 2017. Subsequent analysis conducted by the Ministry of Energy refined a number of variables, including the cost of borrowing and electricity system cost forecasts.

Accumulated interest is projected to be considerably less than estimated in the FAO's May 2017 report. Peak debt for the program has been revised down substantially since May, from $27.7 billion to $18.5 billion.

In addition, a number of variables, including interest rates, electricity demand and electricity costs, will vary over the 30-year life of the program and cost estimates will continue to be revised to reflect these changing conditions. The total cost of the program has already been revised downwards substantially to reflect revised inputs.

The government will continue to identify and implement initiatives to take costs out of the electricity system, which would reduce the cost of the GA refinancing program. Further details will be released in the upcoming 2017 Long-Term Energy Plan.

Q. Have the Ministry of Energy's estimates for "peak debt" and "total interest costs" related to Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) changed? I understand that the Office of the Audit General (OAG) has asked what are the factors that resulted in the changes in estimates from March 1 to August 31?

The Ministry of Energy's estimates of peak debt for OFHP decreased between March 1, 2017 and August 31, 2017 from $27.7 billion to $18.5 billion. The Ministry estimates of total interest cost also decreased from $25.1 billion to $18.3 billion.

The revised estimates are the result of the following factors:

- The Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) updated its long-term cost projections for the electricity system and residential bills;
- The Ontario Energy Board (OEB) provided "actual data" with respect to residential bills for the May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2017 period; and
- Based on expert third-party advice the interest rate assumptions for OFHP were updated (i.e., from 5% to 4.5%).

In addition, for the August 31, 2017 estimate, the Ministry converted debt and interest amounts from calendar year to Regulated Price Plan (RPP) periods.

Q. In the development of Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan, did the government set up the financing structure intentionally to keep it off government books?

No. Global Adjustment (GA) refinancing is designed so that deferred costs are borne by the rate-base, as the beneficiaries of the electricity system, and not the tax-base.

GA refinancing operates under a financial and accounting framework that is appropriate for the intended purpose and in accordance with Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) and ensures that the fairness goals underlying the program are achieved in a cost-effective manner.

Q. Why is the government using Ontario Power Generation (OPG) as a borrowing agent for Ontario's Fair Hydro Act? Would it be easier to use a traditional government borrowing agent like the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA)?

Ontario Power Generation (OPG) has the necessary financing and commercial expertise to assist with refinancing the Global Adjustment (GA).

OPG currently manages an $18 billion nuclear fund and as an entity regulated by the Ontario Energy Board (OEB), OPG also has extensive experience with regulatory deferral and variance accounts.

OPG also has the breadth and demonstrated track record in the financial markets with its Corporate Debt platform, private placement of insurance linked bonds, participation in securitization program and highly successful project debt issuances tied to new hydroelectric developments. These financing initiatives have been well received by investors at a reasonable cost to OPG. The innovative, cost saving and precedent setting aspects of these structures have resulted in international recognition.

OPG has developed solid investor relationships and has a large investor base in the structured finance space that would be the target market for financing Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan initiative. For example, Lower Mattagami project financing attracted a broad investor base of ~80 institutional investors, including major investors in the Canadian power and utility bonds market.

In terms of administration, OPG is currently managing its own Corporate public debt program and three project financing programs totalling more than $2 billion and two commercial paper programs.

Finally, OPG's Treasury functions are well positioned given their management of existing multiple debt programs.

Q. The Financial Accountability Office (FAO) suggested that using Ontario Power Generation as the borrowing agent will cost $4 billion more?

The $4 billion figure was an estimate made by the Financial Accountability Office (FAO) based on initial Ministry of Energy estimates from March 2017. Subsequent analysis conducted by the Ministry of Energy refined a number of variables, including the cost of borrowing and electricity system cost forecasts.

The Ministry of Energy's estimates of peak debt for OFHP decreased between March 1, 2017 and August 31, 2017 from $27.7 billion to $18.5 billion. The Ministry estimates of total interest cost also decreased from $25.1 billion to $18.3 billion.

The FAO report itself concludes by saying "the FAO's estimates are subject to many assumptions and uncertainties … Fiscal impact may differ significantly from the FAO's estimates."

In addition, a number of variables, including interest rates, electricity demand and electricity costs, will vary over the 30-year life of the program and cost estimates will continue to be revised to reflect these changing conditions. The total cost of the program has already been revised downwards substantially to reflect revised inputs.

The government will continue to identify and implement initiatives to take costs out of the electricity system, which would reduce the cost of the GA refinancing program. Further details will be released in the upcoming 2017 Long-Term Energy Plan.

Q. Do you disagree with the FAO on financial costs?

The $4 billion figure was an estimate made by the Financial Accountability Office (FAO) based on initial Ministry of Energy estimates from March 2017. Subsequent analysis conducted by the Ministry of Energy, refined a number of variables, including the cost of borrowing and electricity system cost forecasts.

Base on updated analysis, the total interest is projected to be considerably less than estimated in the FAO's May 2017 report. For example, peak debt for Global Adjustment (GA) refinancing has been revised down substantially since May 2017 from $27.7 billion to $18.5 billion. The Ministry estimates of total interest cost also decreased from $25.1 billion to $18.3 billion.

The Ministry of Energy's latest estimates reflect the best available information regarding the parameters that impact OFHP cost (e.g., electricity bills, consumption, etc.) and are more likely to reflect how OFHP will progress over time.

Response prepared by MOF/ OFA as Part of the Minister's Speaking Points

Q. The OAG's report claims that consumers will pay an additional $4 billion in interest costs over the life of OFHP since OPG and its Financing Entity will pay a higher rate of interest compared to the Province.

The policy objective of OFHP is to smooth the cost to ratepayers over the useful life, not the contractual life, of the electricity generating assets. Therefore, it was a primary policy objective to ensure that the costs are borne by the beneficiaries of the electricity system – the ratepayers – not the tax-base. The Province has not calculated a differential between the Province and the Financing Entity's borrowing costs, because of this policy decision.

We believe it is appropriate for ratepayers to pay for the financing of electricity assets. The rate-base has a different risk profile than the tax-base, resulting in higher interest costs.

The $4 billion figure was sourced from the FAO's May 2017 report, and a similar figure was never calculated by the Province. However, it is important to note, that the FAO's calculation was based on preliminary estimates of the program when peak debt estimates for the thirty year program were substantially higher and interest costs were forecast to be higher than current projections.

Q. Why did the IESO change its accounting practices?

The Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) began recognizing its market accounts' assets (i.e., amounts due from power distributors) and liabilities (i.e., amounts due to power producers) in their financial results.

This accounting change was accepted by IESO's independent external auditor, which issued an unqualified, or "clean," audit opinion. These accounting changes were highlighted in IESO's annual report which was published online in March 2017.

The IESO has chosen to recognize these markets accounts on its books for transparency reasons, as it better reflects its net financial position on behalf of IESO-administered markets at year-end.

Further, this accounting is consistent with the presentation used previously by the Ontario Power Authority (which was merged with IESO on January 1, 2013) in its financial statements.

Additionally this accounting change has been supported by the professional accounting staff of the Office of the Provincial Controller.

This change has no impact to the province's annual deficit, net debt, accumulated deficit or on the ratepayers of Ontario.

We will continue to work with the Auditor General to build on the government's track record of responsible fiscal management and high quality financial reporting.

Q. Why did the government not use the Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS)? How was Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) financing structure determined?

The Province's financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian PSAS and will follow PSAS in accounting for the transactions resulting from OFHP in 2017-18 as well as in the following years. Presenting its financial statements in accordance with PSAS results in transparent financial reporting for the Province of Ontario.

PSAS is however silent on the recognition, measurement, presentation or disclosure of rate-regulated activities. In absence of a clear position on an issue, standard accounting practice dictates that an entity should consult other accounting standards. In this case, the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) consulted US GAAP, the only accounting framework in North America that provides guidance on rate regulated operations.

This financing structure is similar to several jurisdictions in the U.S., and uses a form or securitization that is commonly used in the financial markets. It ensures the impact of the plan will be transparent. Under this system, credit rating agencies, securities regulators and the public at large get full information and full reporting of the impacts of the OFHP that are visible and specific.

Q. What is the Global Adjustment (GA)?

The Global Adjustment (GA) is a mechanism that recovers certain electricity system costs, such as capital costs incurred by generators. The GA is calculated by the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) based on the difference between the market price for electricity, which represents the marginal cost of electricity production, and rates paid to regulated and contracted generators to ensure they can recover their fixed costs. It also accounts for costs associated with running conservation programs in the province.

GA has been an important factor in providing stable prices while ensuring that sufficient generating capacity is in place to deliver a reliable supply of electricity.

GA pays for the bulk of the recent investments in the electricity system. The majority of the province's electricity generators operate under 20-year contracts. Third-party experts have confirmed that many of these generators will be able to continue to operate beyond the end of their contract. This means that generating assets are expected to have ongoing useful life and benefit future ratepayers by reducing the need to finance the development of new generating assets.

Refinancing the GA is providing significant and immediate rate relief by spreading the cost of electricity investments over the expected lifecycle of the infrastructure that has been built. This more fairly shares the cost of our investments across the generations of electricity ratepayers who will benefit from them.

Q. Some say you are unfairly placing the burden of debt on future generations through things like Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan, how do you respond?

Future generations will be paying their fair share for a system they will be benefiting from in their lifetime. Not only will they benefit from a reliable electricity system, but from the cleaner air from the reduction of coal-fired generation.

Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan acts much like taking out a new mortgage – providing much-needed relief now by spreading costs across the life of our assets. Current ratepayers are paying less now, and future ratepayers will in turn help to pay for their fair share of the significant investments that we've made to build a clean and reliable electricity system. This more fairly shares the cost of our investments across the generations of electricity ratepayers who will benefit from them.

Moving forward, Ontario is developing its 2017 Long-Term Energy Plan (2017 LTEP) which will focus on continuing to put downward pressure on electricity bills over the long term. Our robust electricity supply puts us in a good position to improve efficiency, increase transparency and enhance opportunities for innovation and competition to further reduce system costs. That is why Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan includes a commitment to improving sector efficiency and modernizing Ontario's electricity market, building on the collaboration of the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) and the Ontario Energy Board (OEB).

For example, IESO's Market Renewal initiative will result in a more efficient marketplace with competitive and transparent mechanisms that meet future system needs at the lowest cost. The initiative is expected to save up to $5.2 billion over a 10-year period and forms a key component of Ontario's plan to ensure the affordability of electricity in the longer term.

Q. Who was involved in the decision making process to meet the mandate?

Senior officials and staff from several departments and agencies, led by the Ministry of Energy, collaborated to plan an accounting/ finance structure, identify risks, make decisions and take other actions to meet the mandate.

The senior officials and staff were from:

- Ministry of Energy;
- Ministry of Finance;
- Treasury Board Secretariat;
- Office of the Provincial Controller;
- Cabinet Office;
- Ontario Financial Authority (OFA);
- Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO); and
- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG).

In development and implementation of Global Adjustment (GA) refinancing, the government considered a range of implementation options and consulted with legal, accounting, financial and energy sector third-party experts to provide advice and ensure due diligence was completed.

Response prepared by TBS as Part of the Minister's Speaking Points

Q. How do you respond to the Auditor General's claim that the government ignored warnings regarding a potential adverse audit opinion of Ontario's public accounts?

The government's financial statements are prepared in accordance with Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS), and will continue to follow these standards for the transactions resulting from Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) in 2017-18 and in future years.

In regards to rate-regulated accounting, PSAS are silent on the use of regulated accounting:

- PSAS acknowledges that it does not provide guidance on all possible transactions and notes that it is necessary to refer to other sources of guidance that are consistent with the PSAS framework; and
- US GAAP, with the most developed guidance on rate-regulated accounting, is the appropriate guidance to reference.

Many entities in Canada, including OPG and Hydro One use rate-regulated accounting:

- The OAG can refer to the CPA Canada research study that was shared.
- Rate-regulated accounting is well understood in the electricity sector.

IESO management, IESO's Audit Committee, IESO's Board of Directors, IESO's external auditor and the Office of the Provincial Controller all support the use of rate-regulated accounting by IESO.

In the development of OFHP, the government consulted with several third party advisors in the application of accounting standards. This is normal course of business governments take for complex transactions.

Subject: OFA role in reviewing fees

Hi Mike,

DM of Energy was interested in whether OFA could play a role in reviewing the OPG trust fee structure on an ongoing basis. As you may know, Energy and OPG have been discussing how fees to act as financial services manager for the trust will be set for some time. OPG would like to use a traditional asset manager model (management fee based on AUM + performance fee). Energy would prefer to replace the fixed management fee with a "cost +" model that is reviewed and approved by the OEB.

Energy has received strong push back from OPG from an accounting perspective on this model and on OEB oversight. The DM was blue-skying and wondered whether OFA could step into the role of reviewer of the fee structure to ensure it was reasonable. This would help with optics and hopefully result in a more reasonable cost to ratepayers on an ongoing basis. I think OFA will be doing something similar on sub-debt so wondered if that could be extended.

I realize Gadi will need to weigh in on this, but if you have any preliminary thoughts that would be helpful. We have a meeting tomorrow AM with the broader group on OFHP and I will be asked this question. Any early insights would be much appreciated.

Thanks,
Scott

Hi Ken and Mike,
Last week, we attended a meeting with Energy and OPG to discuss the Master Subscription Agreement for the equity injection process. Ken Russell drafted a MOU between OFA and Energy before about making the equity injection payments on Energy's behalf. Also, Ken R. drafted a FAA section 11.4 certificate form as well. After the meeting, Ken R. has updated both document, see attached, based on the discussion.
Could you please kindly review and let us know if you have any comments/concerns by noon tomorrow, Wednesday, November 15th, 2017? In addition, could you please review and confirm questions 2&3 from Energy in below email?
Please let me know if you would like to discuss this in person, and we can set up a brief meeting.
Thanks in advance for your cooperation.

Subject: OFA/Energy MOU - Follow up from Nov 9 meeting
Hi John,
Thanks for meeting with us yesterday on the equity injection process. It was helpful to have everyone together in one place.

I hope to get the ENERGY-OFA MOU completed and ready for approvals by the end of next week. In order to do that, these are the following outstanding pieces. Right now, the OFA is holding the pen on the document, so it makes sense for you to include these items in the version you are working off and we can review next week:

1. Template for the FAA Section 11.4 certificate. I propose we include this as a schedule to the MOU. Also, please confirm the timing of when the certificate should be provided to OFA each month i.e., alongside the share subscription form, or after the payments have been made.
2. Identify how ENERGY should confirm that there is sufficient Appropriated Amount for the payments each month. The need for this is identified in 2b of the draft MOU. As discussed yesterday, it would be ideal if this could be done in the same certificate mentioned above.
3. Confirm the following:
    - OFA has OPG's wire transfer information (suggest including this information as a separate schedule)

- Scanned electronic copies for the share subscription form & FAA certificate are acceptable
- Every month, the OFA will inform the Ministry of Energy via email once the payments have been made.

Let us know if you have any questions. We are working with our legal on the delegation memos. Also as discussed at yesterday's meeting, we will update the flowchart and circulate.

Thanks,

Shruti

3. An OPG Financing Entity is expected to acquire the Assets monthly from the IESO and will finance the Assets in accordance with the financing plan, which includes both senior debt (minimum of 51%) from external sources and subordinated debt (up to 49%) from OPG.

4. The ~~Minister~~Ministry has agreed to provide up to 44% of the total funding requirement for the Assets through equity injections in OPG and OPG has agreed to use the equity injections solely for funding an OPG Financing Entity's subordinated debt (the "Equity Injection Plan").

5. For purposes of the Equity Injection Plan, OPG has amended its articles to create a new class of non-voting, redeemable shares (the "Class A Shares").

6. The ~~Minister~~Ministry will subscribe for Class A Shares monthly.

7. Each month OPG will deliver to the ~~Minister~~Ministry a share subscription form (the "Share Subscription") setting out the amount of equity injection required (the "Subscription Payment") and the corresponding number of Class A Shares to be issued by OPG and subscribed for by the ~~Minister~~Ministry.

8. The ~~Minister~~Ministry is required to pay the Subscription Payments out of amounts appropriated by the Legislature for that purpose for the fiscal year in which the payment is made ("Appropriated Amount").

~~b) The Minister shall ensure that the certificate under section 11.4 of the Financial Administration Act (reproduced as Schedule A to this MOU) required for each of the Subscription Payments is completed, and shall provide the OFA with a copy of such certificate within [*] days after the Subscription Payment is made to OPG.~~

~~c)~~b) It is agreed by the ~~Minister~~Ministry and the OFA that the OFA is acting as an agent, on behalf of the ~~Minister~~Ministry, for the purposes of

i) Transacting with the Ontario Shared Services "IFIS" system in order to access funds appropriated for the ~~Minister~~Ministry in respect of the Fair Hydro Plan, and

ii) Making the required Subscription Payments on behalf of the ~~Minister~~Ministry as further described in this MOU.

2) Payment Process

a) The ~~Minister~~Ministry will take all necessary steps to provide the OFA with a good quality unapproved electronic copy of each Share Subscription, on the same day the ~~Minister~~Ministry receives the Share Subscription from OPG to allow the OFA to begin the procedures for making the Subscription Payment.

b) The ~~Minister~~Ministry will deliver to the OFA at least three business days before the Share Subscription Payment Date:

a. a good quality copy of each Share Subscription executed and approved for payment by [insert appropriate MoE official], and ~~b)~~b. a certificate confirming that ~~at least three business days before the Share Subscription Payment Date. The approval for payment shall include confirmation that~~ there is a sufficient Appropriated Amount from which to make the Subscription Payment and, under Section 11.4 of the Financial Administration Act, that OPG is entitled to receive the Subscription Payment (the "Certificate"). The form of the Certificate is attached as Schedule A to this MOU. Upon receipt of the executed and approved Share Subscription and the Certificate, the OFA will make the Subscription Payment on behalf of the ~~Minister~~Ministry, in the amount of the Share Subscription.

c) The OFA shall not be required to make any Subscription Payment on behalf of the ~~Minister~~Ministry if the ~~Minister~~Ministry has not delivered to the OFA an executed and approved Share Subscription and the Certificate as provided in paragraph b) above.

Hi everyone,

We're pulling together a product summarizing all the outstanding business issues including status/next steps with respect to the Fair Hydro Plan for the Minister of Energy

I've attempted to fill out as much as possible (Hilary there's a couple placeholder slides where I had no content but I think those would be for ESP? Please correct me if I'm wrong).

Each of you are involved in various aspects of these issues so I'm hoping you can take a look to ensure we're accurately capturing each item.

I'm away next week but if you could provide your suggested edits to Keley by next Wednesday we would appreciate it. The briefing has not yet been set up so we will keep you posted if that timing needs to change.

Thanks in advance,

CONFIDENTIAL & COMMERCIALLY SENSITIVE

Context: GA Financing

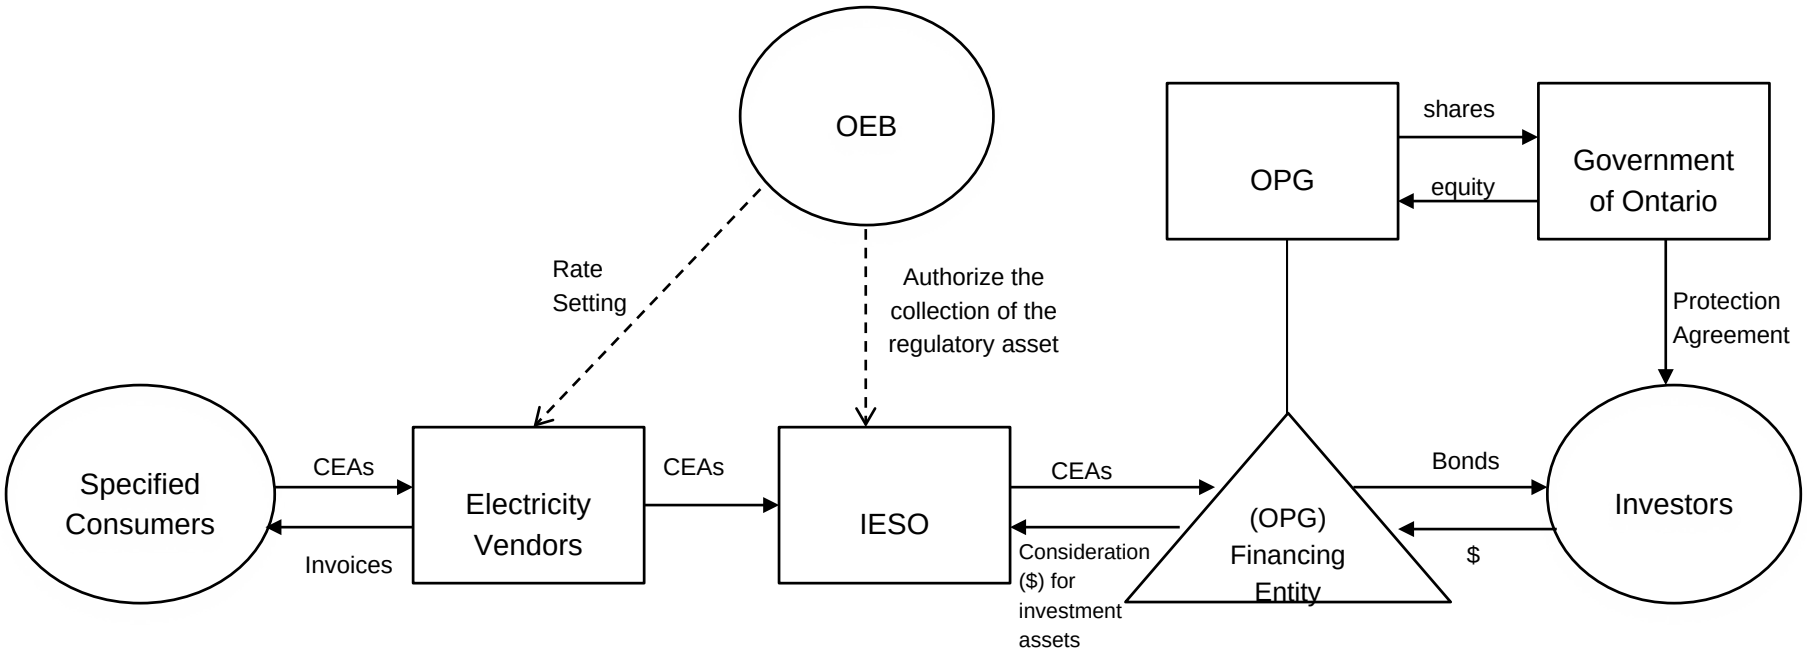
- The Ontario Fair Hydro Act, 2017, enables the IESO to establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset as the Act provides the IESO the right to recover the balance in the variance account
  - The IESO can then sell the regulatory asset – the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future
  - OPG, as the Financial Services Manager, is authorized to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations
  - The financing entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the IESO's shortfall in current rates not received from ratepayers
- In order to support the establishment of a financing entity, facilitate ongoing funding requirements of the Global Adjustment and optimize ratepayer impacts, OPG and the Province are working on finalizing the details for a number of business issues, including:
  - Provincial Protection and Assurances Agreement (PPAA)
  - Fair Allocation Amount (FAA)
  - Management Fees Regulation
  - Moratorium Period Interest and Fee Recovery
  - Equity Injections
  - Subordinated Debt Agreement
  - PILs Exemption

Global Adjustment Refinancing – Roles and Responsibilities



Note: CEAs are “clean energy adjustments”

Provincial Protection and Assurances Agreement

Overview:

- To purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds from capital markets (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province)
    - OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable or would result in higher financing costs, to be passed on to ratepayers
- Upon receiving TB/MBC approval, and as contemplated under the Act, the Province has agreed to provide a protection agreement that supports the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would take over the funding obligations of the Financing Entity, including:
    - Actions of the Legislative Assembly that undermine the financing arrangement, i.e., repeal or amendment of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity
    - A court decision that declares the rights of the Financing Entity to recover amounts from ratepayers to be invalid or unenforceable
    - Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO or a change in the electricity market structure or operations that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to recover amounts related to funding obligations.

Provincial Protection and Assurances Agreement (Con't)

- In the event the protection agreement is triggered, the Province will be required to pay the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date, any payments to derivatives counterparties and any outstanding payments to service providers
    - The Province could potentially service the debt and other obligations and could replace OPG as the financial services manager
- The protection agreement may need to be revised at a future date, or approval from the Province may be required, if the financing entity must access US market as investors in that market will likely require additional compensation if the assumption agreement is triggered
- The Province will take on a contingent liability, which will increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated $20B of debt (final cost forecasts TBC), including principal and accumulated interest
- In the event the protection agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt will most likely increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability at that point in time
    - The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the protection agreement
    - IOD expense may increase between $0.8B and $1.0B per annum, assuming the protection agreement is triggered when debt is at its peak, and depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at

Next Steps:

- Province to work with OPG and external legal counsel to finalise the Protection Agreement

Management Fees Regulation

Overview:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG) has been appointed the Financial Services Manager under the Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 to, among other things evaluate whether funding obligations should be incurred by the Trust for the purpose of acquiring and financing an investment interest.
- The Act enables OPG to achieve its accounting objective of consolidation of the Trust with OPG, and the ability to earn a return and take on risk, through its control of the Trust.
- The fee will have a fixed and variable component and be determined by formulas set out in a regulation, which as currently drafted includes:
    - Base fee: Monthly fee calculated as 10 basis points on monthly funding obligation when the annual funding obligation is less than $10B, and 8 basis points on the monthly funding obligation when the annual funding obligation is greater than $10B.
    - Variable fee: Annual fee of 5% of the difference difference between forecast and actual interest rates achieved for each of its funding tranches
- The OEB will have a role in reviewing OPG's fees to ensure that the fees are consistent with prevailing market comparators

Next Steps:

- The Province is working with the OEB and OPG to develop a regulation setting out how the fees would be calculated including appropriate comparators for the OEBs review

Moratorium Period Interest and Fee Recovery

Overview:

- xx

Next Steps:

Equity Injections

Overview:

- To purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO, an OPG financing entity would be established and borrow funds from the following:
  - Capital markets (51%)
  - Subordinated OPG debt, financed through equity injections from the Province (44%) and OPG, financing from capital markets (5%)
- OPG will require equity injections on an ongoing basis in order to provide the 44% share of financing for the financing entity to acquire the regulatory asset from IESO and keep its capital structure in line, and will require flexibility in order to issue shares to the Province as needed, under a share subscription agreement
- The Ministry of Energy will be responsible for seeking approval for the investment envelope each year and managing the share subscription arrangement with OPG
  - On a periodic basis, OPG will send a notice of share subscription to the Ministry of Energy, requesting a certain amount of equity based on the amount of the regulatory asset it plans to purchase in a fiscal year; the Ontario Financing Authority will flow the funds

Next Steps:

- OPG and the Ministry of Energy have approved the Master Subscription Agreement and will proceed to execute in the coming weeks
- The Ministry of Energy will work with the OFA to ensure a mechanism is in place to flow the funds within the required timeframes after the request is made by OPG

Subordinated Debt Agreement

Overview:

- OPG intends to lend the equity injection from the Province to the Trust by way of subordinated debt
- OPG proposes that OPG, the Fair Hydro Trust and the OFA will enter into a subordinated debt loan agreement, which outlines the terms of the subordinated debt [TBD]
- OPG has proposed that interest rates on the subordinated debt be established as follows:
  - During the Trust short term financing period, when bank facilities are used as funding vehicles, the interest rate on subordinated debt will be the sum of (1) funding rate on senior debt, and (2) additional spread margin of [xx], reflecting the credit rating difference between the senior and subordinated debt [TBD]
  - At the time when senior bonds are being issued to take out (term out) the short term financing, OPG will seek indicative coupon rates on the subordinated debt from dealers, reflecting the sum of underlying Government of Canada yield of equivalent term and the appropriate credit spread. The average indicative coupon rate from dealers will be calculated and set as the subordinated debt rate. [TBD]

Next Steps:

- OPG to incorporate the Province's comments into the next draft of the Subordinated Debt Agreement, which is tracking to be finalized by the end of September [TBD]

PILs Exemption

Overview:

- It is currently contemplated that the first financing entity to be established by OPG, in its capacity as Financial Services Manager, will be a trust (Trust)
- The Trust would be subject to tax under the Income Tax Act (Canada) and the Ontario Taxation Act, 2007
- The beneficiary of the Trust will be a corporation (Subco) that will be directly or indirectly wholly-owned by OPG
  - Subco, given it is owned by OPG, would be exempt from federal and provincial corporate taxes and property taxes payable by private sector companies, and instead make payments in lieu of taxes (PILs) to the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC)
  - PILs are used by the OEFC to help pay down its debt and other liabilities – OEFC is the legal continuation of the former Ontario Hydro
- In order to mitigate the cost to ratepayers, the Ministry of Finance plans to bring forward a proposed Minister of Finance's regulation under the Electricity Act , 1998 that would exempt Subco from paying PILs on income received as beneficiary of the Trust
- The Ministry of Finance will also consider similar regulations in the future should OPG establish another financing entity in its role as the Financial Services Manager

Next Steps:

- Draft letter from the Minister of Finance to OPG is in development that will provide comfort that Subco will be exempt from PILs on income received as beneficiary of the Trust.
- The Ministry of Finance is working with OPG on a draft regulation, which will be brought forward in the Fall

  - A regulation to minimize Payments in Lieu (PILs) of taxes by the financing entity
  - An equity injection by the Province to OPG that OPG would use to lend to the financing entity
  - A subordinated debt agreement related to OPG lending to the financing entity

PILs Exemption

Overview:

- It is currently contemplated that the first financing entity to be established by OPG, in its capacity as financial services manager will be a Trust
- The Trust would be subject to tax under the Income Tax Act (Canada) (ITA) and the Ontario Taxation Act, 2007 (TA)

  - PILs are used by the OEFC to help pay down the stranded debt of the former Ontario Hydro
- In order to mitigate the cost to ratepayers, the Province plans to bring forward a regulation under the Electricity Act that would exempt the corporation from paying PILs
- The Province will also consider similar regulations in the future should OPG establish another financing entity in its role as the Financing Entity

Next Steps:

- Draft letter from the Minister of Finance to OPG in development that will provide comfort that the financing entity will be exempt from PILs

  - On a monthly/quarterly basis, OPG will send a notice of share subscription to the Province, requesting a certain amount of equity based on the amount of the regulatory asset it plans to purchase; the Ontario Financing Authority will flow the funds

Next Steps:

- OPG is seeking Board approval on September 29th
- The Province is working with appropriate parties internally to ensure a mechanism is in place to provide the equity injection to OPG

Subordinated Debt Agreement

- OPG intends to lend the equity injection from the Province to the Trust by way of subordinated debt
- OPG, the Fair Hydro Trust and the OFA will enter into a subordinated debt loan agreement which outlines the terms of the subordinated debt

Hi everyone,
We're pulling together a product summarizing all the outstanding business issues including status/next steps with respect to the Fair Hydro Plan for the Minister of Energy
I've attempted to fill out as much as possible (Hilary there's a couple placeholder slides where I had no content but I think those would be for ESP? Please correct me if I'm wrong).
Each of you are involved in various aspects of these issues so I'm hoping you can take a look to ensure we're accurately capturing each item.
I'm away next week but if you could provide your suggested edits to Keley by next Wednesday we would appreciate it. The briefing has not yet been set up so we will keep you posted if that timing needs to change.
Thanks in advance,
Kaitlin

Instead, Subco would be subject to tax under the payments in lieu of taxes (PILs) regime under the Electricity Act, 1998 (EA), and would pay PILs to the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC);
  - PILs are used by the OEFC to help pay down ~~its~~ debt and other liabilities – OEFC is the legal continuation of the former Ontario Hydro.
- In order to mitigate the cost to ratepayers, a recommendation will be made to the Minister of Finance ~~to~~ to make a regulation under the EA that would exempt Subco from PILs on income received by Subco as beneficiary of the Trust.
- Should OPG, as Financial Services Manager, establish other financing entities in the future for purposes of the OFHP, the Ministry of Finance will ~~also~~ consider making similar recommendations to the Minister of Finance.

Next Steps:

- Letter to OPG provide comfort that Subco will be exempt from PILs on income received as beneficiary of the Trust.
- The Ministry of Finance is working with OPG on a draft regulation, which is intended to be made by the Minister of Finance in the Fall of 2017.

Hi John – our lawyers have a few questions below related to the OPG fair hydro plan fees reg that they were hoping to get your input on as soon as possible. Please let me know if you think a call with us/our lawyers would be faster than getting us written answers.

1 – On the process for establishing the base fee and variable fee, which could theoretically spill over into the year to which the new fees would apply (if OEB approval was not obtained until then), the thinking would be to have the old fees apply until the new fees were approved by the OEB, and then have a "retroactive" adjustment of the fees (retroactively adjusting them back to the beginning of the year the new fees take effect). Since the base fee and variable fee are payable monthly, the "retroactive" adjustment would be made in the month following the month in which the new fees were finalized. The question for OFA is whether it would be appropriate to have a retroactive fee adjustment.

2 – Re: discussion between OPG and OFA about what "market comparable fees", OPG has proposed that there be a requirement for five sets of fees, four of which would be fees charged by full-service managers of securitization vehicles, and the fifth of which would be fees charged by an asset manager (or management and financial services provider) in respect of any one of pension funds, other structured investment funds, hedge funds or other similar structured funds. Does the OFA have any comments on this approach or the viability of finding five such comparators? The Board has suggested that the FSM be required to submit fee comparators but that the Board have the ability to also include comparators that it chooses (e.g. on the advice of consultants/experts it retains).

3 – Are there "market comparable fees" that allow the person charging the fees to also recover out-of-pocket costs over and above the fees?

4 – Can the OFA provide comments on the below draft definition of "market comparable fees" reads as follows (the NTDs are for OFA's input)?

arket comparable fees" means fees, expressed as a [yearly?] percentage rate, charged by asset managers [or management and financial service providers?] in Canada or another jurisdiction specified by the Board for services that are similar to the services provided by the Financial Services Manager under the Act in terms of,

TD: (1) Confirm yearly percentage rate. (2) Confirm whether to include "or management and financial service providers". If this is to be included, what does this mean? Is it a well-recognized industry term of art?]

pe of services provided, being services in respect of funds including securitization vehicles, pension funds, other structured investment funds, hedge funds and other similar structured funds, [NTD: Confirm "securitization vehicles" and "structured".]

ope of the services provided,

Hi John,
Further to my call, attached is the latest draft reg. Could you review the NTD for the OFA and also address any outstanding questions per below? This was discussed at a meeting that Gadi and Ron attended this morning and it's likely tracking to Cabinet next week with the goal of finalizing before the weekend.
Thanks,
Keley

Subject: OFHP fees reg

Hi John – our lawyers have a few questions below related to the OPG fair hydro plan fees reg that they were hoping to get your input on as soon as possible. Please let me know if you think a call with us/our lawyers would be faster than getting us written answers.

1 – On the process for establishing the base fee and variable fee, which could theoretically spill over into the year to which the new fees would apply (if OEB approval was not obtained until then), the thinking would be to have the old fees apply until the new fees were approved by the OEB, and then have a "retroactive" adjustment of the fees (retroactively adjusting them back to the beginning of the year the new fees take effect). Since the base fee and variable fee are payable monthly, the "retroactive" adjustment would be made in the month following the month in which the new fees were finalized. The question for OFA is whether it would be appropriate to have a retroactive fee adjustment.

2 – Re: discussion between OPG and OFA about what "market comparable fees", OPG has proposed that there be a requirement for five sets of fees, four of which would be fees charged by full-service managers of securitization vehicles, and the fifth of which would be fees charged by an asset manager (or management and financial services provider) in respect of any one of pension funds, other structured investment funds, hedge funds or other similar structured funds. Does the OFA have any comments on this approach or the viability of finding five such comparators? The Board has suggested that the FSM be required to submit fee comparators but that the Board have the ability to also include comparators that it chooses (e.g. on the advice of consultants/experts it retains).

3 – Are there "market comparable fees" that allow the person charging the fees to also recover out-of-pocket costs over and above the fees?

4 – Can the OFA provide comments on the below draft definition of "market comparable fees" reads as follows (the NTDs are for OFA's input)?

arket comparable fees" means fees, expressed as a [yearly?] percentage rate, charged by asset managers [or management and financial service providers?] in Canada or another jurisdiction specified by the Board for services that are similar to the services provided by the Financial Services Manager under the Act in terms of,

TD: (1) Confirm yearly percentage rate. (2) Confirm whether to include "or management and financial service providers". If this is to be included, what does this mean? Is it a well-recognized industry term of art?]

ONTARIO REGULATION

made under the

ONTARIO FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACT, 2017

FEES

Definitions

1. (1) In this Regulation,

"average monthly funding obligation" means, in respect of a month, the amount determined in accordance with subsection (2);

"average annual funding obligation" means, in respect of a year, the sum of the average monthly funding obligations for the year;

"market comparable fees" means fees, expressed as a yearly percentage rate, charged by asset managers [or management and financial service providers] in Canada or another jurisdiction specified by the Board for services that are similar to the services provided by the Financial Services Manager under the Act in terms of,

[NTD for leg counsel: I am trying to get more clarity around "management and financial service providers". I am not sure whether the intent is to say "management service providers or financial service providers". If the intent is to refer to a "management and financial service provider", I will try to ascertain whether this is a well-understood industry "term of art" (since based on a brief search it did not appear to be).]

(a) the type of services provided, being services in respect of funds including securitization vehicles, pension funds, other structured investment funds, hedge funds and other similar structured funds,

(b) the scope of the services provided,

Commented [DS1]: NTD for OEB: Is "specified by" the right way to say this?

Commented [DS2]: NTD for ESP/MoF: Should there be a "temporal" connection too? E.g. "… services that are similar to, and provided at a time that is similar to the time the services are provided by, the FSM …".

(c) the level of the services provided, and

(d) the dollar amount of assets under management;

"funding tranche" means an ~~specific~~ issuance of ~~debt by a financing entity and constitutes all or part of a~~ funding obligations of a particular series, class or type that have the same terms;

"FSM services" means services provided by the Financial Services Manager to financing entities in relation to the management and administration of the financing entities and the investment asset, including in relation to funding obligations incurred or that are planned to be incurred by the financing entities;

"market comparable forecast interest rates" means, in relation to a potential funding tranche described in the submissions mentioned in subsection 6 (3) or 6 (4), interest rates charged by lenders in Canada [at the time the submissions are made] for a debt obligation that,

(a) has a principal amount that is comparable to the principal amount of the funding tranche,

(b) has a term that is comparable to the term of the funding tranche [in terms of length and commencement],

(c) is based on a type of instrument that is comparable to the type of instrument of the funding tranche,

(d) has payment rights that are similar to the payment rights of the funding tranche, and

(e) is issued by an issuer with a risk profile comparable to the risk profile of the financing entity issuing the funding tranche;

Commented [DS3]: NTD for OPG/MoF: Should this contemplate "posted" rates rather than rates "charged by"?

"net annual funding obligation" means, in respect of a year, the sum of the principal amounts of funding tranches issued in the year, other than any funding tranches that constitute a refinancing;

(2) For the purposes of determining the average monthly funding obligation for a month, the following formula applies:

$$(A + B) / 2$$

Where,

A = the sum of the balances on the first day of the month of the principal amount of all outstanding funding obligations incurred by financing entities,

B = the sum of the balances on the last day of the month of the principal amount of all outstanding funding obligations incurred by financing entities.

Forecast interest rate

1.1 For the purposes of this Regulation, the Financial Services Manager shall determine the forecast interest rate for a funding tranche that forms part of the net annual funding obligation for a year, by taking into account the following factors:

1. The interest rate for debt of or guaranteed by the Government of Ontario with a term or duration that is comparable to the term or duration of the funding tranche.
[NTD for leg counsel: We are confirming whether we need to refer to both "term" and "duration" here and in 2 ii below (and if yes, how these terms mean different things).]

2. The estimated credit spread, relative to the interest rate described in paragraph 1, for a debt obligation that, i. has a principal amount that is comparable to the principal amount of the funding tranche,

   ii. has a term that is comparable to the term of the funding tranche [in terms of length and commencement],

   iii. is based on a type of instrument that is comparable to the type of instrument of the funding tranche, ~~and~~

   iv. has payment rights that are similar to the payment rights of the funding tranche, and

   v. is issued by an issuer with a risk profile comparable to the risk profile of the financing entity issuing the funding tranche.

3. Anticipated fees and commissions expected to be payable in connection with the issuance of the funding tranche.

Commented [DS4]: NTD for OPG/MoF: Even if the term is the same length, would the commencement date of the term not also be relevant?

Commented [DS5]: NTD for OPG: Energy Policy is asking whether the fees and commissions are relevant to the determination of the forecast interest rate for the tranche, given that they are recoverable by the FSM under s. 7(2) below.

Fees that may be established, charged

2. (1) For the purposes of subsection 19 (3) of the Act, the fees established and charged by the Financial Services Manager may be charged to financing entities ~~in relation to the management and administration of financing entities and the investment asset, including in relation to funding obligations incurred or that are planned to be incurred by~~for FSM services provided to the financing entities.

(2) A fee mentioned in subsection (1) shall be comprised of a base fee calculated under section [3] and a variable fee calculated under section [6].

(3) For the purposes of subsection 19 (3) of the Act, fees may be established and charged by the Financial Services Manager to financing entities for the recovery of costs and expenditures, as provided for in section [7].

(4) The Financial Services Manager shall not establish or charge any fees to financing entities other than those fees provided for under this Regulation.

Base fee

3. (1) Subject to sections [5.1] and [5.2], the Financial Services Manager shall establish the proposed base fee for a month as follows:

1. Determine the amount that is 0.075 per cent of the average monthly funding obligation for the preceding month.

2. Divide the amount determined under paragraph 1 by 12.

(2) The first month in respect of which the base fee may be established is ~~July~~ November 2017.

[OLC Note: Just need to confirm -- will there be an average monthly funding obligation for the month of June 2017? If not, it would not be possible to apply this method in respect of July 2017.] [NTD for leg counsel: The first funding obligation may not be incurred until around November 2017. The base fee for a month would be zero if there was no average monthly funding obligation for the preceding month (i.e. if it was zero).]

(3) The Financial Services Manager shall submit to the Board the base fee proposed to be charged in respect of the period from November 1, 2017 to December 31, 2018 no later than October 31, 2017.

(4) The Financial Services Manager shall submit to the Board the base fee proposed to be charged in respect of any year after 2018 no later than 120 days before the start of the year in respect of which the base fee would be charged.

[NTD for leg counsel: Let's move the submission provisions (other than the amendment submission provision) from section 9 to the respective sections that deal with the fee in question. As you will see in s. 6 and 7 below, the submission process will be different for each of the types of fees (base, variable, and costs/expenditures).]

[Further NTD for leg counsel: The Board's review of the base fee for the period from July 1, 2017 to December 31, 2018 will be limited to ensuring that the base fee is calculated correctly (i.e. calculated in accordance with ss. 5 (3)).]

Commented [DS6]: NTD for OPG/OEB: The policy instruction is to provide that costs and expenditures are recoverable so long as they relate to the matters described in s. 7.1(1), and that the Board review the costs and expenditures from that perspective.

In order to implement this instruction and give the Board the authority to review, we have to deem the costs and expenditures to be fees.

Commented [DS7]: NTD for OPG/OEB: Ss. 19(4) of the OFHPA requires the Board to approve fees.

Board review of base fee

5.1 (1) The Board shall refuse to approve the proposed base fee mentioned in subsection 5 (3) if the Board is of the view that the proposed base fee was not established in accordance with subsection 3 (1).

(2) If the Board refuses to approve the proposed base fee,

(a) the Board shall provide reasons for the refusal; and

(b) the Financial Services Manager shall submit to the Board a revised proposed base fee that is established in accordance with subsection 3 (1)

[NTD for leg counsel: If the Board does not refuse to approve a proposed base fee under ss. (1) or (3), then we should explicitly say that the Board will approve the proposed base fee. Please tweak ss. 5.1 (1) and (3) accordingly.]

(3) The Board may refuse to approve a proposed base fee mentioned in subsection 5 (4) if the Board is of the view that the proposed base fee is materially inconsistent with market comparable fees.

[OLC Note: Should this section only apply starting January 1, 2019?]

[OLC Note: Are you sure that this is the only reason why the Board can refuse the proposed base fee?]

[NTD for leg counsel: In response to your notes, for the proposed base fee applicable in 2019 and beyond, the only basis upon with the Board can withhold approval is inconsistency with market comparable fees. For the proposed base fee applicable July 1 – Dec31/17 and Jan1 – Dec31/18, the Board can only withhold approval if the base fee is inconsistent with the formula in s. 3(1).]

Commented [DS8]: Explanatory note for OEB: The reg-making powers in s. 19 of the OFHPA don't appear to provide the same ability to impose on the Board (by reg.) the base fee as with the OESP reg-making powers in ss. 79.2(6) of the OEBA.

(~~1.1~~4) If the Board refuses to approve the proposed base fee,

(a) the Board shall provide reasons for the refusal and may make recommendations to the Financial Services Manager regarding the determination of a base fee that is consistent with market comparable fees; and

(b) the Financial Services Manager shall submit to the Board,

(i) a revised proposed base fee that takes into consideration the recommendations of the Board, if any; and

(ii) a description of the methodology that the Financial Services Manager has applied to determine the revised proposed base fee, including details concerning the market comparable fees that the Financial Services Manager considered.

(5) [NTD for leg counsel: Please add a provision that says that the process (i.e. the process outlined in ss. (1) and (2) above, or (3) and (4) above) will be repeated until the Board approves a proposed base fee for the year in question, unless you are of the view that that is already clearly implicit in those provisions.]

(6) [NTD for leg counsel: Please add a provision that says that:

- Until a new proposed base fee is approved, the FSM may continue to charge the most current Board-approved base fee (if any).

- Once the new proposed base fee is approved by the Board, the FSM shall make a "retrospective" adjustment to the base fee (in the month following the month in which the approval is given). The adjustment will be the difference (positive or negative) between the base fee actually charged in the relevant period up to that point, and the new base fee approved by the Board for that period. In other words, the Board approved fee would be "retrospectively" applied to the whole period. By "period" I mean either the initial period from Nov1/17 – Dec31/18 or any calendar year starting with 2019. Note that any amendment to fees (under s. 9.1) would only apply prospectively starting in the month following the month in which the amendments were approved by the Board.]

Variable fee

6. (1) Subject to subsection (2) and section 6.1, the Financial Services Manager shall establish the variable fee for a year after 2017 as follows:

1. Apply the following formula in respect of each funding tranche that forms part of the net annual funding obligation for the year:

$$(A \times (B - C)) \times 0.05$$

Where,

A = the principal amount of the funding tranche,

B = the forecast interest rate for the funding tranche, and

C = the actual interest rate for the funding tranche.

2. Calculate the sum of the amounts determined by applying the formula under paragraph 1.

(2) If the circumstances set out in Column 1 of the following Table apply in a year, the variable fee payable for a year is subject to the rules set out opposite those circumstances in Column 2 of the Table:

| Item | Column 1Circumstances | Column 2Rules |
|---|---|---|
| 1. | The average annual funding obligations are $10 billion or less. | The variable fee payable for the year shall not be more than 1 per cent of the amount that is 5 per cent of the net annual funding obligation for the year.The variable fee payable for the year shall not be less than -1per cent of the amount that is 5 per cent of the net annual funding obligation. |
| 2. | The average annual funding obligations are greater than $10 billion. | The variable fee payable for the year shall not be more than 2 per cent of the amount that is 5 per cent of the net annual funding obligation for the year.The variable fee payable for the year shall not be less than -2 per cent of the amount that is 5 per cent of the net annual funding obligation for the year. |

(3) The Financial Services Manager shall make submissions to the Board in respect of the [variable fee proposed to be charged in 2018, including the] forecast interest rates for the funding tranches anticipated to be issued in 2018, no later than [October 31, 2017].

Commented [DS9]: NTD for OPG/OEB: Is this wording appropriate?

(4) The Financial Services Manager shall make submissions to the Board in respect of the variable fee proposed to be charged in any year after 2018, including the forecast interest rates for the funding tranches anticipated to be issued in the year, no later than 120 days before the beginning of the year.

(5) If the Financial Services Manager has not submitted a forecast interest rate under subsection (3) or (4) for a funding tranche that will be issued in a year after 2017, the Board may require the Financial Services Manager to submit a proposed forecast interest rate for the funding tranche [and may specify the time by which the submission must be made], or the Board may determine the funding tranche taking into consideration the forecast interest rates submitted by the Financial Services Manager for the year under subsection (3) or (4).

Commented [DS10]: NTD for OPG: The policy instruction is to not require the Board to apply linear interpolation to come up with a forecast interest rate, because the approach would be too prescriptive for this fairly limited subset of total fees.

Board review of variable fee

6.1 (1) The Board may refuse to approve a proposed variable fee if the Board is of the view that any forecast interest rate used for the purposes of subsection 6 (1) is inconsistent with ~~[~~market comparable forecast interest rates~~]~~.

[OLC Note: We provide an explanation for how to determine "market comparable fees" but we say nothing about how to determine "market comparable forecast interest rates". Please instruct.]

[NTD for leg counsel: We have created a new defined term "market comparable forecast interest rates" to address this.]

[OLC Note: Are you sure this is the only reason why the Board may refuse the proposed variable fee?] [NTD for leg counsel: Yes.]

(2) If the Board refuses to approve the proposed variable fee,

(a) the Board shall provide reasons for the refusal and may make recommendations to the Financial Services Manager regarding each forecast interest rate that the Board found was inconsistent with [market comparable forecast interest rates]; and

(b) the Financial Services Manager shall submit to the Board,

(i) a revised proposed fee that takes into consideration the recommendations of the Board, if any, and

(ii) a description of the methodology that the Financial Services Manager has applied to determine revised forecast interest rates for each funding tranche in respect of which the Board found an inconsistency with [market comparable forecast interest rates].

Fees for costs and expenditures

7. (1) The Financial Services Manager may establish and charge fees for the recovery from a financing entity of any costs and expenditures incurred by the Financial Services Manager,

(a) on behalf of the financing entity in connection with the Financial Services Manager's duties under the Act in relation to the financing entity; or

(b) under a management agreement between the Financial Services Manager and the financing entity, where the agreement provides for the reimbursement of the costs and expenditures.

(2) The costs and expenditures referred to in subsection (1) may include costs and expenditures in respect of the following:

1. Underwriters or selling agents for funding obligations.

2. Banking fees, including structuring fees or work fees.

3. Fees of issuing and paying agents for funding obligations.

4. Fees of trustees.

5. Fees incurred in the preparation of financial statements, financial reports, compliance certificates and tax returns.

6. Fees of legal counsel.

7. Rating agency fees.

8. Filing or registration fees.

9. Direct costs of the Financial Services Manager for employees who are dedicated to providing FSM services to financing entities.

~~(3) The costs and expenditures referred to in subsection (1) shall not include any overhead costs of the Financial Services Manager, including [….].~~
~~[OLC Note: The phrase "overhead costs" seems a bit vague. Examples would help.]~~

Board review of fees for costs, expenditures

7.1 (1) The Board may refuse to approve a proposed fee for costs and expenditures or a portion of a proposed fee for costs and expenditures if the Board is of the view that the proposed fee is in respect of costs and expenditures that were not incurred in relation to the management and administration of financing entities and the investment asset, including in relation to funding obligations incurred or that are planned to be incurred by the financing entities.

(2) If the Board refuses to approve the proposed fee or a portion of the proposed fee, the amount not approved shall not be payable to the Financial Services Manager and the associated costs and expenditures shall not be recoverable by the Financial Services Manager from the financing entity.

~~(a) the Board shall provide reasons for the refusal and may make recommendations to the Financial Services Manager regarding the proposed fee; and~~

~~(b) the Financial Services Manager shall submit to the Board,~~

~~(i) a revised proposed fee that takes into consideration the recommendations of the Board, if any, and~~

~~(ii) a description of how the proposed fee is in respect of costs and expenditures that were incurred in relation to the management and administration of financing entities and the investment asset.~~

Charging of fees

8. (1) Subject to sections [5.1], [6.1] and [7.1], in charging fees, the Financial Services Manager shall provide for,

(a) the base fee for a month to be payable within [x] days after the end of the month;

Commented [DS11]: NTD: Need to specify when the base fee is payable.

(b) the variable fee for a year to be payable in the following calendar year in twelve equal monthly instalments that coincide with the payment of the base fee for each month; and

(c) the fee for costs and expenditures for a month to be payable within [x] days after the end of the month.

Commented [DS12]: NTD: Need to specify when the fee for costs and expenditures is payable.

(2) If the variable fee for a year is a negative amount, it shall be deducted in twelve equal monthly instalments from the base fee payable in the following year.

(3) Where there is more than one financing entity, the portion of the fees allocated to and payable by a financing entity shall be based on its proportionate share of the average principal amount of funding obligations for the applicable period.

Commented [DS13]: NTD: Should this be based on the average of the opening and closing balances for the applicable period (e.g. year)?

(4) For the purposes of determining the average principal amount of funding obligations under subsection (3), the formula set out in subsection 1 (2) applies with necessary modifications.
[OLC Note: Please confirm that this works.]

Submissions to Board

9.1 ~~(1) The Financial Services Manager shall make submissions to the Board in respect of fees proposed to be charged in 2018 no later than October 31, 2017.~~

Formatted: section-e

~~(2) The Financial Services Manager shall make submissions to the Board in respect of fees proposed to be charged in respect of any year after 2018 no later than 120 days before the start of the year in respect of which the fees would be charged.~~

~~(3)~~ The Financial Services Manager may, no more frequently than once in any consecutive twelve month period, make submissions to the Board to amend any base fee or variable fee~~s~~ approved by the Board, and the provisions of section [5.1]. [6.1] or [7.1], as applicable, apply in respect of the submissions.

Board approval, general

10. (1) For the purpose of determining whether to approve a proposed fee, the Board shall consider the information provided by the Financial Service Manager in its submission relating to the proposed fee.

(2) For the purpose of determining whether to approve a proposed base fee or variable fee, the Board may consider, as it determines to be appropriate, the advice provided by third party consultants and experts. [NTD for leg counsel: We want to retain this provision, but the Board noted that they already have this ability without needing to specifically include it here. The Board flagged the risk of an adverse interpretation in other contexts where the Board is not given explicit statutory authority to consider advice of third party consultants and experts. Can we word this ss. 10(2) in such a way that it is just "for greater clarity"?]

Subject: Re: Proposed Watay Term Sheet

Thanks. That's a very good note, but I'm concerned that in an effort to be helpful to getting an important project through, we may not be as clear on the risks as we should be, and are underestimating the rate that would have to be charged on the loan (or overstating what our spread is).

Where did the 2.80% long term Ontario rate come from? Our 10-year rate is currently about 2.6% before fees and our 20 and 30-year rates are about 3.10%, so this looks like a pretty low rate given the tenor of the proposed bond.

Also this is an amortizing structure , which in the marketplace usually has at least a 25 basis point premium, and in Alan's proposal that I saw last week, he had included an option to prepay at any time without a penalty, which is a highly expensive option (ask Alan what the Bank would charge him for that feature on a 5-year mortgage, never mind a 40-year debt instrument).

A further point is that we wouldn't borrow the full $1.5 billion today, as we'd borrow and on-lend over a number of years as the project is built, so this is a future starting loan which also has a number of basis points added to it if we were to hedge the rate as soon as it would be approved be TB and agreed to with Watay.

Another question that I have is whether we'd have any additional liability or risk if the project goes over budget and needs more money - who comes up with that? Does our $1.5 billion potentially grow? What about the senior debt? I assume that this will, to be a proper financing structure, come with a lower yield than what we'd be charging to be subordinated to it, but that it would carry less risk in the case of a cost overrun on the project.

Put all that together and our spread would be considerably below the 150 basis points indicated, and the PV of the gain that we would get if the Federal government keeps making these appropriations annually for the next 40-years would be considerably the amount included in the note. Also, and this is an accounting question, I'm assuming that any provision that we'd have to take would be in this fiscal year, while the gains on the loan rate versus our cost of funds would be on an annual basis as they're realized, so I think even if we got a true spread of 150 basis points by adding in all of what I've suggested above and charging a rate that would likely be well above 5%, putting forward a big amount like $300-400 million may give TB, or other decision makers, a false sense of comfort in that that may think that we can take a provision of that size and be fiscally neutral, so we should make the timing difference on when gains and the provision would hit the Province's books.

As you can see, I'm very nervous about this structure, the potential for cost overruns and the viability of depending on the next dozen or so elected Federal governments continuing to make their annual appropriations to keep us whole. I understand the importance of this project and the need to ensure that it goes forward, but I'm very leery of the transfer of risk from the Federal government to the Ontario government. I understand their desire to not take the fiscal hit up front, but why should we take some, or much, of it in their place? Why can't the Feds, or one of their agencies like BDC, provide the loan, or a loan guarantee, like they have recently done for Nalcor in considerably larger size?

One last point that I think should be included in any note that goes up to decision makers, so they're aware of the Ontario government's full involvement in this project, is our guarantee under the ALGP, which means that we're also backing the equity injection, not just the $1.5 billion subordinated loan.

Thanks,
Gadi

Hi Gadi,
Pls. see attached draft note on the Watay term sheet, drafted by Emily's branch. Will share with Mike as we have a few questions on the spread.
We are checking with OPCD on the TBC question.
Thanks,
John

Ken, Mike, Ron,

The latest draft of the TB Assessment note is attached. I don't expect this to change again between now and the meeting on Monday.

The TB/MBC meeting is scheduled to run from 3-6pm on Monday, September 25, 2017. While the official agenda isn't out as yet, unofficially the item is scheduled for 3:20pm. It's in the TB/MBC Boardroom first floor Frost South.

I would recommend planning to arrive just before 3:00pm. I will let you know as soon as I receive the final agenda.

IV. KEY COMMENTS AND CONSIDERATIONS

Under the Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (FHPA), which enables Global Adjustments (GA) Refinancing, the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) will have a funding gap resulting from the reduction in amounts collected from consumers.

- IESO will incur a cash shortfall, as the amounts collected from the consumers of electricity (collected by local distribution companies) will be reduced, but the amounts paid to the generators of electricity will remain at the market and/or contractual rates.

The legislation enables IESO to record the under-collection of GA in a variance account, and deems this under-collected amount to be a "Regulatory Asset".

The OFHPA provides for IESO to sell all or a portion of the Regulatory Asset (i.e., to sell the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future). Under the FHPA, a Financing Entity (i.e., an entity established or caused to be established by OPG as the Financial Services Manager under the FHPA) will he the right, but not the obligation to purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall generated by the reduction in amounts collected from eligible ratepayers.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity will borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly the Province) from the capital markets.

OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative and judicial risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG, therefore, has advised that the Government of Ontario provide a protection agreement to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would pay the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

- Providing this through Provincial assurance and guarantee provisions was recommended in a May 2017 TB/MBC item reviewing proposed FHPA.

What would trigger the protection agreement?

Ontario Financing Authority (OFA), the Ministry of Finance and external advisors recommend limiting activation of the protection agreement to the following circumstances (Appendix C provides the non-binding term sheet):

- Actions of the Legislative Assembly that undermine the financing arrangement, i.e., repeal or amendment of the FHPA/related regulations or new legislation that materially and adversely affects the ability of an OPG Financing Entity to receive amounts relating to its investments interest so that it can pay its funding obligations
- A court decision that declares the ability of an OPG Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so it can pay its funding obligations to be invalid; and
- A change in the organization or structure of the IESO or Ontario's electricity market undertaken at the initiative of the Province or an entity controlled by the Province that materially and adversely affects the ability of an OPG Financing Entity to receive amounts relating to its investment interest so that it can pay its funding obligations.

Financial:

If the protection agreement is provided, the Province takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the contingent liability would increase over the duration of Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) and peak at approximately $20B of debt (final cost forecasts TBC), including principal and accumulated interest.

- In the event the protection agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time.

- The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it will be required to make under the protection agreement. In addition there may be additional payments related to derivatives agreements and for service providers that the Province will be required to make. The fiscal impact of the increased interest payments will depend on the circumstances of the change (e.g. will the amounts continue to be recovered from the ratepayers through the clean energy adjustment as provided for under the FHPA).

Financial (Risk) – In the event the protection agreement is triggered:

The Province would be required to pay principal and interest on debt issued by the Financing Entity and other obligations of the Financing Entity as they come due (without acceleration). The Province may also be required to pay other obligations which may include payments under derivatives agreements (e.g. the Financing Entity might enter into interest rate swap agreements to hedge the interest rate payable on its issued debt) and to service providers.

- The Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy will negotiate terms and conditions as part of the proposed protection agreement that would provide a process for determining which future obligations, securities/derivatives would have the benefit of the protection agreement. The process and framework is currently under development but may include approving standard terms and conditions of debt issuances in advance, setting a maximum amount of debt that may be issued within a period.

This would likely have implications for the Province's fiscal plan and appropriation requirements.

- The Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time, and the Province may incur an expense equal to the amount of the debt.
- The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it will be required to make under the protection agreement. The worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak at which point interest on debt (IOD) expense could increase between $0.8B and $1.3B per annum (final cost forecasts TBC), depending on the interest rate at which the Financing Entity will be able to borrow at.
- In addition there may be additional payments on derivatives agreements and for service providers that the Province will be required to make.

The protection agreement would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged. In addition, the Province would have the option to directly replace the OPG Financing Entity with respect to its outstanding rights obligations and liabilities, but if the Province decided to do so additional authority would be required and may require a change in legislation.

The Ministries indicate that if the protection agreement is triggered, and the Province becomes responsible for the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the OFHPA continue in some form, or not.

- For example, if the payment streams from ratepayers via the collection of the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments, albeit not necessarily in the same fiscal period; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if the OFHPA is repealed or is determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense as well as any continued impact of reduced electricity rates would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used.

- Debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer could become the responsibility of the taxpayer.

TBS staff note the protection agreement, assuming the Board proceeds with the request, would be approved prior to the commercial agreements being finalized. Also from an accounting perspective, previously provided opinions/memos from KPMG re: IESO and EY re: OPG have yet to be updated.

Implementation
The Minister of Finance will be asked to approve for the purpose of FAA s. 28 the two Ministers seeking the OIC in the form attached to the final TB/MBC Submission.

The Minister of Finance will also be requested to approve under FAA s. 28 the final form of protection agreement to be entered into by the Minister of Energy and the Ministry of Finance as authorized by the OIC.

MOF Legal indicates the intention is that the protection agreement signed by the two Ministers would apply to all subsequent agreements entered into by the Financing Entity subject to compliance with the terms and conditions set out in the protection agreement. A section 28 approval of the protection agreement should cover these subsequent agreements. This may change as the protection agreement and the terms and conditions of the process have not been determined by the Ministers.

APPENDIX F: RISK UPDATE

The current submission, Provincial Protection Agreement, is reflected under the risk "Refinancing GA costs through an OPG SPV Trust may increase costs and/or require provincial funding" as part of risk mitigating strategy.

| Risk | Level of Risk | Risk Response |
|---|---|---|
| Refinancing GA costs through an OPG SPV Trust may increase costs and/or require provincial funding. | Risk Likelihood: PossibleRisk Impact: MajorTime Scale: 12 to 24 monthsRationale• The proposed borrowing structure will be reviewed by credit agencies to allow OPG to borrow in the open market. Depending on assessment, there may be an impact on the interest rate for borrowing, the amount of equity / funding the province may need to provide and the requirement for a provincial guarantee.• As the OPG SPV/Trust will be borrowing in its own corporate capacity from the public markets, it will likely incur a higher interest cost compared to the Province's borrowing.• There is a risk that credit rating agencies may perceive OPG SPV/Trust's borrowing as debt supported by Province, impacting Province's own ratings and cost of borrowing.• If the Trust can't raise the full funding requirements, additional cash injections would be required. If the borrowing cap of $28B (in the March 1, 2017 Cabinet Submission) is reached sooner than forecast, the province may have to provide incremental funding to float the program to 2047.• Beyond 2022, when steep increases are required, there will likely be additional pressure on the province to offset a part of the scheduled increases.• Fiscal impacts will be subject to fluctuations in Ontario electricity demand, GA and interests rates in the medium-to long term. As well as if a protection agreement is called upon:o OPG, has advised that the Government of Ontario provide a change of law protection agreement to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would pay the funding obligations of the Financing Entity. | Risk can be mitigated by:• Providing a "provincial guarantee" for the cost of borrowing.• Drafting legislation to provide assurance to OPG and investors regarding the permanence of the GA refinancing framework and the authority of the legislation to pass the legislation; and enable the Province to guarantee borrowing of the trust in the event of a market disruption.• Specifics of a guarantee are dependent on the negotiation of agreements not yet initiated. Limiting triggers of a protection agreement to legislative (regulatory) changes and/or judicial decisions etc.• Equity injections from the province to support OPG as the owner and manager of GA refinancing and allow OPG to strengthen the capital structure of the Trust in order to secure financing at a reasonable cost. |

Subject: Provincial Protection Agreement - Dealer Comments

All,

We (Osler and the dealers) have discussed the several drafts of the Provincial Protections and Assurances Term Sheet that were circulated yesterday. Below are the issues the dealers would like to discuss. We understand that a meeting is being arranged for Monday.

1. In several places, the term sheet provides that decisions will be made by the Ministers or by the Ministers and the Financing Entity/Manager. There is no reference to the Indenture Trustee/dealers. For example, the third sentence of the document provides that the agreement will include "such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate." Either all anticipated parties to the definitive agreement should have the benefit of statements of this nature or they should not be included.
2. The clause headed Specified Claims refers to "payment obligations" that are secured. Is there an intention to exclude any Obligations Secured (to use the Trust Indenture term)?
3. There was a request to expand the scope of the regulations covered to include "connected" regulations; the intention being to include the regulations relating to the recovery of interest during the moratorium period through the Global Adjustment. The Province did not make the requested change. Will these GA regulations be covered? They need to be.
4. While we understand the IESO LC for defaulted LDCs and the step-up pricing for warehouse take-out risk are not specifically the subject of this agreement, they are substitutes for provincial protections that were originally requested. We need to have confirmation that these issues have been resolved.
5. The requirement that the change of law have a "material" adverse effect is not acceptable.
6. We do not want the phrase "in a final and non-appealable judgement" being included in the ultra vires provision. Investors will be looking for timely payment.
7. We need it to be clear that the exclusion for "economic loss or loss of profits" does not cover the obvious economic loss/loss of profits that occurs when debt is not paid. The exclusion of consequential, special or punitive damages should be sufficient.
8. We need to understand exactly what is contemplated by an obligation to pay under the heading "Obligation to Pay Specified Claims" versus the option to assume under the heading of "Optional Assumption". We do not see a distinction. We also note that in the subrogation section there is a reference to the Obligor as guarantor. Our view is that if a Protection Event occurs, the Province assumes all the obligations and is subrogated to all of the rights of the specified creditors against the Financing Entity and in respect of the clean energy adjustment. The Province can then retain as little or as much of the existing structure as it sees fit.

9. A proposal was made to address the issues arising from a post-default acceleration of the funding obligations by giving the province an option to assume the funding obligations to avoid acceleration. If that option is to be pursued, it would need to be in this term sheet. If it is not the solution, what is the solution?
10. We understand that the obligor approval mechanic has been deferred. Investors will need a provision that contemplates either (a) before each funding obligation is incurred, explicit confirmation by the Province that the provincial protection will apply to the protection, or (b) a process for non-specific approvals that the Financing Entity and the Province agree to implement that includes a provision to the effect that if a funding obligation is issued, the provincial protection is applicable. Put another way, the investors will have no obligation to insure that the province and the Financing Entity/Manager followed their agreed process for approvals.

We look forward to discussing.

Jonathan, Keley, Anthony,

Please find attached the final TB submission for the Provincial Protection Agreement tracking to TB/MBC on September 25. The first attachment (v9_clean) includes the submission, term sheet (in appendix), OIC, s. 28 and slide deck.

I'm bringing the hard copy package over to Legal for signature and then will drop it off to Jonathan. Note, Keley will share with Energy. A track change version (from the version the Minister of Energy already signed) is attached for Keley's reference.

Anthony, I take it you will be bringing the TB20 form to the briefing for the Minister to sign?

PROVINCIAL PROTECTION AND ASSURANCES AGREEMENT

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide protection and assurance arrangements in respect of debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with investment interests acquired by one or more financing entities established by Ontario Power Generation Inc. pursuant to s. 22 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 ("OPG Financing Entities"), that, under certain circumstances as set out in the proposed arrangements the Province would pay when due amounts in respect of the obligations of the Financing Entity.

The Ministry of Finance and Ministry of Energy request that Treasury Board/Management Board of Cabinet:

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide a protection agreement, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities substantially reflecting the terms set out in the Provincial Protection and Assurances Indicative Term Sheet and subject to such revisions that the two ministers acting together may determine;

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, to be made under subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Energy, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest; and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

3. BACKGROUND:

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) to lower electricity bills by 25%, on average, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As part of OFHP, it was announced that a portion of the Global Adjustment (GA) would be refinanced in order to fairly allocate costs across present and future generations of electricity consumers with respect to investments made to decarbonize (i.e., phase-out coal) and modernize Ontario's electricity system (i.e., build and maintain a reliable electricity system). This would be achieved by spreading the cost of electricity investments so that they are shared proportionately by future consumers who cause a need for, or benefit from, the province's multi-billion dollar investments in electricity infrastructure.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years. The Ministry of Energy will report back to TB/MBC in fall 2017-18 with an update on out-year projections following analysis on rate applications before the Ontario Energy Board.

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (the "OFHPA"), which enables GA Refinancing, the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) will have a funding gap resulting from the reduction in amounts collected over four years. The legislation enables IESO to record the under-collection of GA in a variance account, and deems this under-collected amount to be a "Regulatory Asset". The OFHPA provides for the IESO to sell all or a portion of the regulatory asset; i.e., the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the OFHPA, a Financing Entity (i.e., an entity established or caused to be established by OPG as the Financial Services Manager under the OFHPA) will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the ratepayers.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative and judicial risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG, therefore, has advised that the Government of Ontario provide a protection agreement to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would pay the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

OFA, the Ministry of Finance and external advisors – consistent with OPG advice – recommend limiting activation of the protection agreement to the following circumstances:

- Actions of the Legislative Assembly that undermine the financing arrangement, i.e., repeal or amendment of the OFHPA or new legislation that adversely affects the ability of an OPG Financing Entity to receive amounts relating to its investments interest so that it can pay its funding obligations;
- A court decision that declares the ability of an OPG Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so it can pay its funding obligations to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO or a change in the electricity market structure or operations that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations.

In the event the protection agreement is triggered, the Province would be required to pay principal and interest on debt issued by the Financing Entity and other obligations of the Financing Entity as they come due (without acceleration). The Province may also be required to pay other obligations which may include payments under derivatives agreements and to service providers.

In addition, the Province would also have the option to directly replace the OPG Financing Entity with respect to its outstanding rights obligations and liabilities, but if the Province decided to do so additional authority would be required.

The protection agreement would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act (FAA), 1990 requires that the Minister of Finance's approval is obtained before a ministry seeks an Order in Council (OIC) to enter into a guarantee or indemnity that would increase the contingent liabilities of Ontario. The Minister of Finance has given Section 28 approval for the Minister of Energy, together with the Minister of Finance to recommend the OIC to Cabinet and will, acting together with the Minister of Energy, determine the terms and conditions of and execute the proposed guarantee/indemnity in accordance with the OIC, if approved.

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the protection agreement is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the protection agreement is provided, the Province takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability would increase over the duration of the OFHP and peak at an estimated $24B to $26B of debt (final cost forecasts TBC), including principal and accumulated interest.

In the event the protection agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it will be required to make under the protection agreement. In addition there may be additional payments on derivatives agreements and for service providers that the Province will be required to make.

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between $0.8B and $1.3B per annum (final cost forecasts TBC), depending on the interest rate at which the Financing Entity will be able to borrow at.

It is important to note that, if the protection agreement is triggered, and the Province becomes responsible for the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the OFHPA continue in some form, or not. If the payment streams from ratepayers via the collection of the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if the OFHPA is repealed or is determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

7. COMMUNICATION PLAN

Key Messages

- Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan has resulted in the biggest electricity rate reduction in Ontario's history.

- We have heard from Ontarians across the province that the price of electricity has risen too quickly, which is why we moved forward with a plan to ensure the costs are shared more evenly over the years ahead.
- The government is following through on its commitment to balance the books as announced in its 2017 Budget, while continuing to make investments in priority areas such as electricity price relief.

Strategic Approach

- Low-profile, reactive and targeted to industry stakeholders and government employees as necessary. Reactive messaging contingent upon legislative changes only with back-pocket QAs to support as needed.
- Communications support will continue to be led by the Ministry of Energy.

8. RECOMMENDATION

The Ministry of Finance and Ministry of Energy request that Treasury Board/Management Board of Cabinet:

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a protection agreement, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities substantially reflecting the terms set out in the Provincial Protection and Assurances Indicative Term Sheet and subject to such revisions that the two ministers acting together may determine;

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, that authorizes the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Energy, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest; and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

Approval pursuant to section 28 of the Financial Administration Act

For the purpose of subsection 28(1) of the Financial Administration Act, I hereby approve the Minister of Energy and Minister of Finance seeking approval from the Lieutenant Governor in Council for the attached recommendation for an order in council pursuant to section 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017.

Minister of Finance

Provincial Protection and Assurances Agreement

September 19, 2017

Background

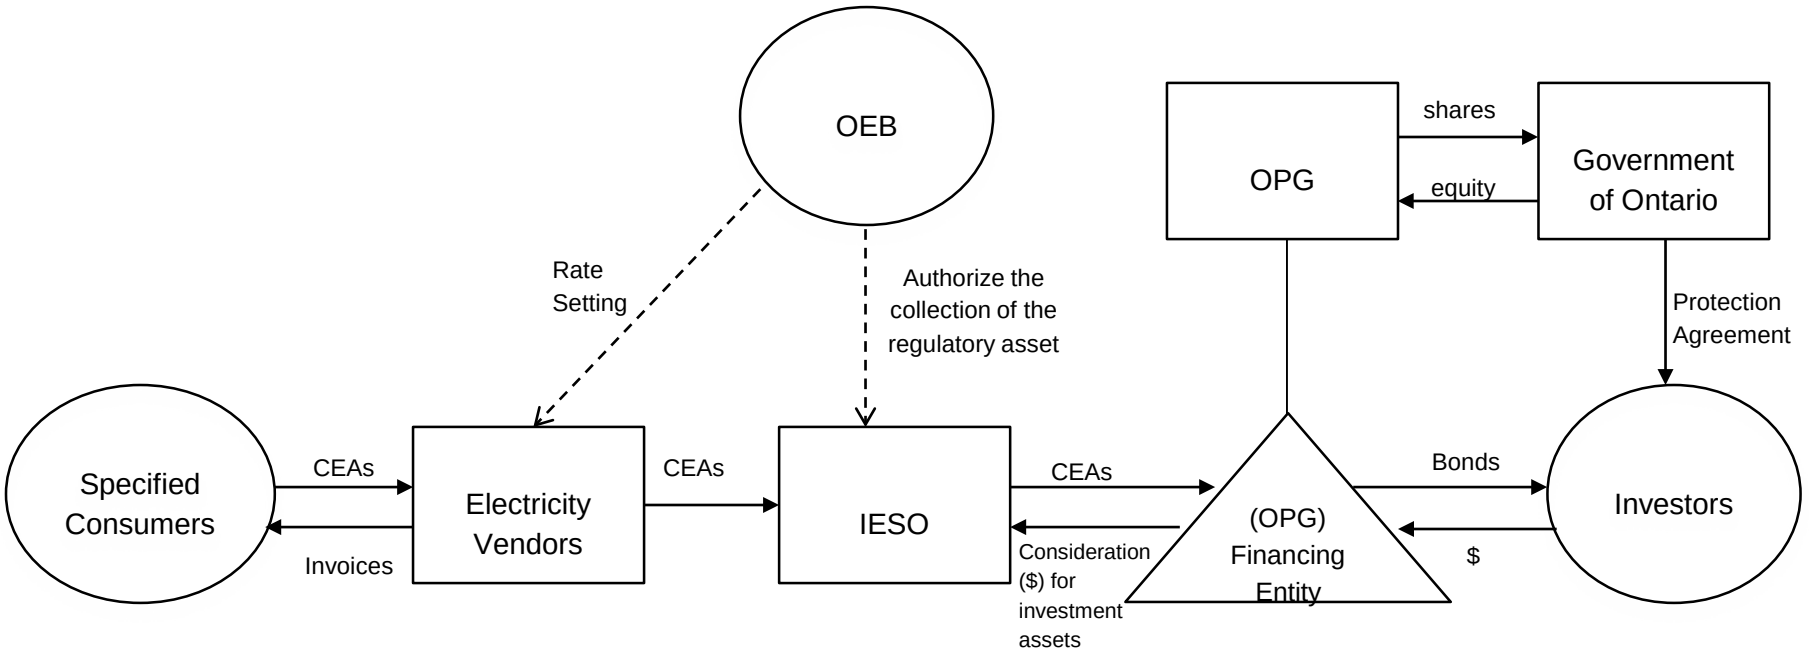
- The Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, enables the IESO to establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account
    - The IESO can then sell the regulatory asset – the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future
    - OPG, as the Financial Services Manager, is authorized to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations
    - The Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from ratepayers
- To purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds from capital markets (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province)
    - OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable or would result in higher financing costs, to be passed on to ratepayers
- OPG has requested that the Province provide a protection agreement that supports the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would take over the funding obligations of the Financing Entity

Global Adjustment Refinancing – Roles and Responsibilities



Note: CEAs are “clean energy adjustments”

Provisions Under the Act

- As contemplated under the Act, OPG is requesting a Provincial commitment to support the planned Financing Entity's ability to borrow to finance the deferral of global adjustment amounts in certain limited circumstances
- Under s.5(3) of the OFHP Act,
  - The LGIC may by order,
    - Authorize the Minister (of Energy) and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,
      - To agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
      - To determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity
    - Specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance
    - Specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity

Provincial Protection Agreement

- OFA, the Ministry of Finance and external advisors – consistent with OPG advice – recommend limiting activation of the protection agreement to the following circumstances:
    - Actions of the Legislative Assembly that undermine the financing arrangement, i.e., repeal or amendment of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity
    - A court decision that declares the rights of the Financing Entity to recover amounts from ratepayers to be invalid or unenforceable
    - Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO or a change in the electricity market structure or operations that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to recover amounts related to funding obligations.
- In the event the protection agreement is triggered, the Province will be required to pay the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date, any payments to derivatives counterparties and any outstanding payments to service providers
    - The Province could potentially service the debt and other obligations and could replace OPG as the financial services manager
- The protection agreement may need to be revised at a future date, or approval from the Province may be required, if the financing entity must access US market as investors in that market will likely require additional compensation if the assumption agreement is triggered

Considerations

- If a protection agreement is not provided, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be
- If a protection agreement is provided, the Province takes on a contingent liability
  - The creation of a contingent liability will not currently affect net debt
  - The amount of the contingent liability will increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated $24B to $26B of debt (final cost forecasts TBC), including principal and accumulated interest
- In the event the protection agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt will most likely increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability at that point in time
  - The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the protection agreement
  - IOD expense may increase between $0.8B and $1.3B per annum, assuming the protection agreement is triggered when debt is at its peak, and depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at

Proposed Minute

The Ministry of Finance and Ministry of Energy request that Treasury Board/Management Board of Cabinet:

a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a protection agreement, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities substantially reflecting the terms set out in the Provincial Protection and Assurances Indicative Term Sheet and subject to such revisions that the two ministers acting together may determine;

b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Energy, acting together on behalf of the Province,

   i. to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest; and

   ii. to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

~~CHANGE OF LAW~~PROVINCIAL ~~-~~PROTECTION AND ASSURANCES AGREEMENT

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide protection and assurance arrangements in respect of debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with investment interests acquired by one or more financing entities established by Ontario Power Generation Inc. pursuant to s. 22 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 ("OPG Financing Entities"), that, under certain circumstances as set out in the proposed arrangements the Province would pay when due amounts in respect of the obligations of the Financing Entity.

The Ministry of Finance and Ministry of Energy request that Treasury Board/Management Board of Cabinet:

(a) ~~Authorize~~ Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide a protection agreement, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities substantially reflecting the terms set out in the Provincial Protection and Assurances Indicative Term Sheet and subject to such revisions that the two ministers acting together may determine;

(b) Recommend ~~to~~ that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, to be made under subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Energy, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest; and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

3. BACKGROUND:

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) to lower electricity bills by 25%, on average, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As part of OFHP, it was announced that a portion of the Global Adjustment (GA) would be refinanced in order to fairly allocate costs across present and future generations of electricity consumers with respect to investments made to decarbonize (i.e., phase-out coal) and modernize Ontario's electricity system (i.e., build and maintain a reliable electricity system). This would be achieved by spreading the cost of electricity investments so that they are shared proportionately by future consumers who cause a need for, or benefit from, the province's multi-billion dollar investments in electricity infrastructure.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years. The Ministry of Energy will report back to TB/MBC in fall 2017-18 with an update on out-year projections following analysis on rate applications before the Ontario Energy Board.

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (the "OFHPA"), which enables GA Refinancing, the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) will have a funding gap resulting from the reduction in amounts collected over four years. The legislation enables IESO to record the under-collection of GA in a variance account, and deems this under-collected amount to be a "Regulatory Asset". The OFHPA provides for the IESO to sell all or a portion of the regulatory asset; i.e., the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the OFHPA, a Financing Entity (i.e., an entity established or caused to be established by OPG as the Financial Services Manager under the OFHPA) will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the ratepayers.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative and judicial risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG, therefore, has advised that the Government of Ontario provide a ~~change of law~~ protection agreement to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would pay the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

OFA, the Ministry of Finance and external advisors – consistent with OPG advice – recommend limiting activation of the protection agreement to the following circumstances:

- Actions of the Legislative Assembly that undermine the financing arrangement, i.e., repeal or amendment of the OFHPA or new legislation that adversely affects the ability of an OPG Financing Entity to receive amounts relating to its investments interest so that it can pay its funding obligations;
- A court decision that declares the ability of an OPG Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so it can pay its funding obligations to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- ~~[~~Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO or a change in the electricity market structure or operations that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations. ~~Note: this third protection event is not included in the current draft of the term sheet agreed to by Ministry of Finance staff; however, OPG is expected to continue to negotiate for its inclusion. It has been included in the TB submission, but may be removed once negotiations are complete, prior to TB/MBC consideration of this item on September 26, 2017.~~]

In the event the protection agreement is triggered, the Province would be required to pay principal and interest on debt issued by the Financing Entity and other obligations of the Financing Entity as they come due (without acceleration). The Province may also be required to pay other obligations which may include payments under derivatives agreements and to service providers.

In addition, the Province would also have the option to directly replace the OPG Financing Entity with respect to its outstanding rights obligations and liabilities, but if the Province decided to do so additional authority would be required.

The protection agreement would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act (FAA), 1990 requires that the Minister of Finance's approval is obtained before a ministry seeks an Order in Council (OIC) to enter into a guarantee or indemnity that would increase the contingent liabilities of Ontario. ~~In this case, t~~The Minister of Finance has given Section 28 approval for the ~~, together with the~~ Minister of Energy, together with the Minister of Finance to~~, is~~ recommend~~ing~~ the OIC to Cabinet and will, acting together with the Minister of Energy, determine the terms and conditions of and execute the proposed guarantee/indemnity in accordance with the OIC, if approved.

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the protection agreement is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the protection agreement is provided, the Province takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability would increase over the duration of the OFHP and peak at an estimated $24B to $26B of debt (final cost forecasts TBC), including principal and accumulated interest.

In the event the protection agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it will be required to make under the protection agreement. In addition there may be additional payments on derivatives agreements and for service providers that the Province will be required to make.

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between $0.8B and $1.3B per annum (final cost forecasts TBC), depending on the interest rate at which the Financing Entity will be able to borrow at.

It is important to note that, if the protection agreement is triggered, and the Province becomes responsible for the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the OFHPA continue in some form, or not. If the payment streams from ratepayers via the collection of the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if the OFHPA is repealed or is determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

- The government is following through on its commitment to balance the books as announced in its 2017 Budget, while continuing to make investments in priority areas such as electricity price relief.

Strategic Approach

- Low-profile, reactive and targeted to industry stakeholders and government employees as necessary. Reactive messaging contingent upon legislative changes only with back-pocket QAs to support as needed.
- Communications support will continue to be led by the Ministry of Energy.

Hi John:
As per Tobias's email, would it be possible for you to send me the right version ("shared clean") which I can share with OPG? I think we only want to send Appendix "A".

Thanks, Mike

I agree that it makes sense to share it right away.

I just want to make sure that we are sharing the right version, which should be in the version that John shared yesterday afternoon and with "shared clean" in the file name.

Hi Ken,

I think Gadi's email addressed this too but understanding clearly was that we would share drafts with OPG.

Hi Mike, Ken,

I had a call with Adrian Nalasco who is acting for Steen. He has indicated that along with Steen, Energy's Deputy is away so it is difficult for him to provide a formal go-ahead to us. I explained to him the time sensitivity and that we would have a discussion with OPG on an informal basis to get their feedback on the latest draft which MOF Legal and Energy Legal have drafted. I gave him a bit of a background that OPG has had back and forth with us on previous versions of the draft.

With these caveats, Adrian is comfortable with various members of the OFA having discussions with OPG counterparts on the latest draft support agreement.

Thanks,

John

Hi Steen,

I'm sending the attached revised draft, non-binding term sheet on behalf of various parts of the OFA that are working on the Provincial guarantee / support agreement to support the OPG financing entity.

As you may have been informed, the attached draft term sheet was drafted jointly by MOF Legal, Energy Legal and Blakes' and is somewhat narrower in scope of the guarantee/support than the version that was provided by OPG in mid-August.

To discuss, we would like to host a meeting tomorrow, if possible, including your team and Energy Legal, MOF Legal and GBED. Also, Capital Markets folks here at the OFA are looking to share the draft term sheet with their counterparts at OPG. Pls. advise if you would have any issue with the sharing of the draft term sheet.

If you could advise of your availability, I would be happy to coordinate on behalf of everyone here at the OFA.

Thanks,

John

John,

Together with our outside counsel at Blake's and Energy Legal we have revised the term sheet further.

The attached note, prepared by Energy Legal is a good summary of the issues and where things stand.

I think the next step is to have you and Ron discuss this draft, and prepare to meet with staff at the OFA and Energy once Gadi returns next week and has been briefed on the progress.

Please share as you think makes sense at the OFA, and let me know if you want to discuss further.

Good afternoon,

FYI, please find attached, the CEO-approved TB Submission for the Change of Law Assumption Agreement (no longer a "Support Agreement") tracking to TB/MBC for the Sep 26 meeting. This version incorporates input received from Energy.

We can confirm that both Ministers of Energy and Finance will be asked to sign the TB submission since both Ministers will recommend the OIC and both will sign the Assumption Agreement.

Please don't hesitate to contact me should you have any questions or comments. This version is tracking for CAO/DM/Minister approval in both Ministries.

Thanks, Anna

Hi All,

Please find attached the latest version of the TB submission, which includes some comments in the margins that still need to be addressed. Thanks to everyone who has provided edits so far. I'd like to reiterate that we're still tracking the Sept. 26 TB/MBC meeting, which means we'll have to brief our Minister next week in order to provide a final submission to TBS three weeks before the meeting.

As many of you may already know, we are now calling it a "Provincial Support Agreement" as opposed to "Provincial guarantee" as MOF legal advised this is not a true guarantee as the agreement would be contingent on certain events (whereas a guarantee would not).
Please provide further comments and edits as appropriate. We're looking to have program area and legal sign-off by Wed. Sept. 6.
Thanks,
Matt Breadner on behalf of Anna Strathy

Subject: For Review and Comment: TB/MBC Submission on Provincial Guarantee

Hi Cindy, Steen, Kelly (for Scott), and Malle,

Attached, for your review and comment, is a draft TB submission for the Provincial Guarantee. This submission is somewhat premature, as there continue to be discussions about which Ministry might bring this forward (for instance, the Provincial Guarantee piece could be incorporated into a broader report back by the Ministry of Energy) and when this might go to TB/MBC (mid to late September); however, Gadi is on vacation for two weeks starting Monday, so we wanted to get a head start on something that could be moved forward in his absence.

I apologize for the tight timelines, but we are hoping to have your comments (even preliminary comments) by noon tomorrow. I expect that subsequent iterations of this submission and/or the TB Assessment Note will be circulated again for your input.

Please don't hesitate to contact me should you have any questions.

CHANGE OF LAW ASSUMPTION AGREEMENT

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide protection and assurance arrangements in respect of debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with investment interests acquired by one or more financing entities established by Ontario Power Generation Inc. pursuant to s. 22 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 ("OPG Financing Entities"), that, under certain circumstances as set out in the Change of Law Assumption Agreement ("assumption agreement"), the Province would pay when due amounts in respect of the obligations of the Financing Entity.

This submission is to request that Treasury Board:

(a) Authorize that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide an assumption agreement, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to Cabinet an Order in Council, to be made under subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

3. BACKGROUND:

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) to lower electricity bills by 25%, on average, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As part of OFHP, it was announced that a portion of the Global Adjustment (GA) would be refinanced in order to fairly allocate costs across present and future generations of electricity consumers with respect to investments made to decarbonize (i.e., phase-out coal) and modernize Ontario's electricity system (i.e., build and maintain a reliable electricity system). This would be achieved by spreading the cost of electricity investments so that they are shared proportionately by future consumers who cause a need for, or benefit from, the province's multi-billion dollar investments in electricity infrastructure.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years. The Ministry of Energy will report back to TB/MBC in fall 2017-18 with an update on out-year projections following analysis on rate applications before the Ontario Energy Board.

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (the "OFHPA"), which enables GA Refinancing, the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) will have a funding gap resulting from the reduction in amounts collected over four years. The legislation enables IESO to record the under-collection of GA in a variance account, and deems this under-collected amount to be a "Regulatory Asset". The OFHPA provides for the IESO to sell all or a portion of the regulatory asset; i.e., the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the OFHPA, a Financing Entity (i.e., an entity established or caused to be established by OPG as the Financial Services Manager under the OFHPA) will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the ratepayers.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative and judicial risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG, therefore, has advised that the Government of Ontario provide a change of law assumption agreement to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

OFA, the Ministry of Finance and external advisors – consistent with OPG advice – recommend limiting activation of the assumption agreement to the following circumstances:

- Actions of the Legislative Assembly that undermine the financing arrangement, i.e., repeal or amendment of the OFHPA or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity;
- A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- [Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO or a change in the electricity market structure or operations that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations. Note: this third assumption event is not included in the current draft of the term sheet agreed to by Ministry of Finance staff; however, OPG is expected to continue to negotiate for its inclusion. It has been included in the TB submission, but may be removed once negotiations are complete, prior to TB/MBC consideration of this item on September 26, 2017.]

In the event the assumption agreement is triggered, the Province would be required to pay principal and interest on debt issued by the Financing Entity and other obligations of the Financing Entity as it comes due (without acceleration). In addition, the Province would also have the option to assume the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities.

The assumption agreement would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act (FAA), 1990 requires that the Minister of Finance's approval is obtained before a ministry seeks an Order in Council (OIC) before a ministry enters into a guarantee or indemnity that would increase the contingent liabilities of Ontario. In this case, the Minister of Finance, together with the Minister of Energy, is recommending the OIC to Cabinet and will, acting together with the Minister of Energy, determine the terms and conditions of and execute the proposed guarantee/indemnity in accordance with the OIC, if approved.

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the assumption agreement is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the assumption agreement is provided, the Province of Ontario takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability would increase over the duration of the OFHP and peak at an estimated $24B to $26B of debt (final cost forecasts TBC), including principal and accumulated interest.

In the event the assumption agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the guarantee.

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between $0.8B and $1.3B per annum (final cost forecasts TBC), depending on the interest rate at which the Financing Entity will be able to borrow at.

It is important to note that, if the assumption agreement is triggered, and the Province assumes the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the OFHPA continue or not, in some form. If the payment streams from ratepayers via the collection of the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if the OFHPA is repealed or is determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

7. COMMUNICATION PLAN

Key Messages

- Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan has resulted in the biggest electricity rate reduction in Ontario's history.

- We have heard from Ontarians across the province that the price of electricity has risen too quickly, which is why we moved forward with a plan to ensure the costs are shared more evenly over the years ahead.
- The government is following through on its commitment to balance the books as announced in its 2017 Budget, while continuing to make investments in priority areas such as electricity price relief.

Strategic Approach

- Low-profile, reactive and targeted to industry stakeholders and government employees as necessary. Reactive messaging contingent upon legislative changes only with back-pocket QAs to support as needed.
- Communications support will continue to be led by the Ministry of Energy.

8. RECOMMENDATION

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a support agreement, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

WATAYNIKANEYAP TRANSMISSION PROJECT

CONTEXT

- Wataynikaneyap Power LP is planning to develop and operate electrical transmission and distribution lines in northwestern Ontario (the "Project").

- The Project will be financed with equity, senior debt and a possible contribution from the federal government. This potential federal contribution is currently under discussion between the provincial and federal governments.

- An advisor to the Ministry of Energy has provided for review the following structure for the federal contribution. Its stated intention is to meet the following:

  1. The federal government to provide support on a basis that is largely fixed, but with some flexibility relating to the quality of the power outcome.
  2. Minimize the accounting effects on the Province and federal governments at the inception of the project.
  3. The Ontario ratepayer is highly likely not to be disadvantaged by the conversion of the Watay communities to the Northern Grid.
  4. That Canada will likely be fiscally better off.
  5. There is a significant capital contribution to the Northern Grid such that, for purposes of the Ontario Energy Board rules and regulations, a. the capital required by the proponents is minimized and
     b. the rate base of the Northern Grid is minimized.

OPTIONS

- The following section presents the advisor's proposed structure as well as other options:
  1. Proposed Structure: Ontario to provide $1.5 billion of limited recourse debt to the Project, to be secured by annual federal contributions over a 40 year term. The debt would be excluded from the Project rate base.
  2. Reduced Tenor: Reduce the tenor of the proposed Ontario debt to mitigate appropriations risk to some extent.
  3. Include Ontario Loan in OEB Rate Base Calculation: Include the Ontario debt in the rate base calculation, thereby reflecting the full capital structure of the Project and transferring some risk from the Province to equity holders, ratepayers and the federal government.
  4. No Ontario Loan: This option entails the Project securing the required debt from the private sector, with federal support continuing as a subsidy.

1. Proposed Structure

Description

- The federal contribution will take the form of annual payments to the Province, once the Project is in service. The federal government may be willing to contribute $80-90 million per years over 40 years.
- Based upon the net present value of expected contributions from Canada, Ontario will provide, approximately $1.5 billion of limited recourse debt to the Project. This debt will be subordinated to senior debt and only secured with a first charge assignment of the payments to be made by Canada to the Project.
  - Note that as this debt would be to an external entity, it would be a loan provided by a ministry (e.g., Energy), not the OFA, which provides loans to Public Bodies.
- Assuming an estimated capital cost of $1.9 billion and that the senior debt and equity has a 60/40 ratio, based on an OEB deemed capital structure, excluding the provincial debt, this structure would entail:
  - Senior debt: $240 million
  - Limited recourse debt: $1.5 billion
  - Equity: $160 million
- The $1.5 billion loan would be excluded from the OEB's determination of the rate base for the project.

Considerations

- The proposed structure may not be able to meet both the accounting and OEB-related stated objectives.

Accounting & Appropriation Risk:

- Key risks related to the proposed $1.5 billion limited recourse debt include the following:
  - According to the advisor to Ministry of Energy, were the federal government to commit to 40 years of payments, it would need to recognize the full present value amount upfront as a fiscal impact. To avoid this effect, federal payments would be subject to annual appropriations over a period estimated to 2063. Consequently, there is a risk payments may cease in the future, in which case the Province would be liable for large amount of debt without an associated payment stream or financially viable security due to the subordinated nature of the loan, and lack of a firm obligation for the loan to be repaid.
  - The annual payment may vary by a certain percentage each year due to over/under performance of the Project. Therefore, there may be a shortfall in cash available for debt service in certain years.
  - The proposed structure only includes approximately 8 per cent total equity. With a minimal equity investment, Fortis, the First Nations' partner in the project, may have a reduced incentive to ensure appropriate oversight of the project.
- As a limited recourse debt structure appears to be currently proposed, all risk would lie with the Province if there is a shortfall in cash flows from the federal government.
- Therefore, there is an accounting risk on whether the Province would need to take a provision for some or all of the loan amount [to be confirmed by OPCD].

- It is proposed that the Province should receive a spread over its cost of borrowing to reflect the appropriation risk. The advisor to the Province is proposing a spread of 150 basis points. Assuming the province's long-term borrowing rate is 2.8% (based on an Ontario issued 32-year bond in 2016), a 1.5% spread would equate to an interest rate of 4.3%.
    - A discount rate of 4.3% applied to the proposed federal contribution cash stream does indeed result in a present value amount of approximately $1.5 billion.
    - Staff estimates the present value of benefits to the province from receiving a 150 basis point spread would be in the $300-$380 million range, depending on assumptions used. However, since the receipt of this benefit is dependent on continued payments from the federal government, it may need to be further discounted.
- A 4.3% interest rate may be considered minimal. For example, loans to First Nations entities that are secured by residual assets have been shown to demand an interest rate of 9.1%-18% (with a term of approximately 20 years). Relative to these types of loans, the proposed provincial loan would be completely unsecured, have a longer term and be for a significantly larger amount, all of which would support a higher interest rate.

OEB and Rate Regulation:

- The advisor to the Ministry of Energy's proposal assumes the $1.5 billion debt would be excluded from the capital structure used in the calculation of transmission rates and the revenue requirement. This results in a 60:40 debt equity structure where only senior debt and equity are taken into account, consistent with the OEB's deemed debt equity ratio for transmission investments.
- The advisor suggests one purpose of this proposal is to "buy down the rate base". By excluding the provincial loan from the calculation of the rate base, the rate base would be kept low. However, it is noted that even if the initial capital associated with a provincial loan is excluded, as sustaining capital is invested in the Project, the rate base would increase. Therefore the "buying down of the rate base" would only be temporary.
- By excluding the $1.5 billion of capital cost supported by provincial subordinated debt from the regulated rate base and associated revenue requirement, electricity rates (and Ontario ratepayers) would be unaffected by any fluctuations in cash flow requirements, or external (federal) revenues to service the limited recourse debt.
    - I.e. if there was a shortfall in federal payments, the revenue requirement would remain unchanged and the electricity rate would not increase to compensate for the shortfall in cash flows to the Project.
    - Although this structure helps protect Ontario ratepayers, all risk related to the $1.5 billion debt falls on the Province, with no risk to the federal government.
- The analysis in this note is caveated by the fact that OEB rate decisions are difficult to predict. So while the analysis here is based on what has been seen in the past, the final rate determination for the Project is solely dependent on the OEB's judgment.

2. Reduced Tenor

Description

- An option that would reduce the appropriation risk to the province would be to reduce the time frame for the repayment of the loan.
  - Were the repayment period to be reduced from 40 years to 20 years, the federal contribution would have to increase from $85 million to approximately $120 million per year.
  - Were the repayment period to be reduced from 40 years to 10 years, the federal contribution would have to increase from $85 million to approximately $200 million per year.
- Other than the reduced term, the other elements of the loan would be similar to option 1 above.

Considerations

- This option would entail the Ontario debt being repaid quicker, thus reducing repayment risk to some extent. Although the tenor of appropriation risk is reduced, the risk is still present. It is unclear whether the reduced repayment risk would be sufficient to allow the Province to not take a provision for some or all of the loan amount [to be confirmed by OPCD].
- In addition, there would be a requirement for significantly higher annual contributions from the federal government, which the government may be unwilling to meet.

3. Include Ontario Loan in OEB Rate Base Calculation

Description

- This option removes a portion of the risks related to the proposed $1.5 billion debt from the Province by including the debt as part of the financing structure in the calculation of the revenue requirement.
  - Including this debt in the rate base would result in a 92:8 debt to equity structure, which is unusual in that the traditional OEB structure is a 60:40 debt to equity structure. However, a 92:8 debt to equity structure would reflect the advisor's proposed financing structure of the Project.
  - Alternatives could be explored, but higher equity components would have a rate impact (spread across Ontario transmission users). Consequently the OEB may see the higher debt ratio as a more favourable structure, where the overall cost of capital is lower due the lower required rate of return on debt versus equity.
- The OEB would determine the approved revenue requirement such that it would recover the full cost of capital, including the debt service of the limited recourse debt. A portion of the revenue requirement would be offset by estimated federal payments, with the balance recovered in rates.
  - The capital to build transmission lines is typically included in the rate base and is paid for by Ontario ratepayers. Consequently, including the capital paid for by a provincial loan in the rate base would be consistent with how other network transmission lines are treated.

- A variance account on estimated vs actual federal contributions could be approved by the OEB, with the difference recovered or returned to ratepayers in future rate settings.
- In this case, if there were a shortfall in the federal payments, the Province would still be paid by the utility, with the utility being able to recover the costs from ratepayers.

- This option would transfer federal appropriations risk related to the limited recourse debt from the Province to the Project's equity holders and Ontario ratepayers.
  - It would also leave the federal commitment to support the First Nations co-owned corporation in place (now for debt-service vs electricity supply costs), not transferred to the Province.
- If there is a shortfall in Canadian payments, the transmission costs could rise by varying amounts, depending on the year, up to an estimated maximum of $0.51/MWh.

Considerations:

- As the federal contribution is intended to replace Canada's current responsibility to support diesel generation capacity in the communities, it would be reasonable to suggest the political responsibility, commitment and risks should largely be borne by Canada rather than the Province (or Ontario ratepayers). The alternative structure would keep the responsibility to make payments to the First Nations with the federal government as opposed to the Province. This may make it more difficult for the federal government to discontinue payments.
- The original proposal results in all risk related to the debt being borne by the Province while the alternative transfers a portion of this risk to the equity investors in the Project and Ontario ratepayers, and, politically, to the federal government.
  - The federal government could also re-consider an upfront capital contribution. If the federal government were to loan the $1.5 billion limited recourse debt directly to the Project, the Provincial government and Ontario rate payers would not be responsible for any shortfalls in the annual Canadian payments, but this option may not meet the federal accounting treatment objective.
- If the OEB were to choose a traditional 60:40 structure for the Project (as in option #1), the return to equity holders would be higher than merited, considering the actual amount of equity in the Project. Although a 60:40 structure would be to equity holders' benefit, it would be at rate payers' expense. Consequently Option #3 may be more attractive to the OEB than Option #1. The revenue requirement would be lower with a reduced equity proportion (8% vs. the typical 40%) as the return on equity is typically higher than the return on debt.

4. No Ontario Loan

Description

- If the Province were to decline the opportunity to provide a loan, the Project would have to seek the required debt from the private sector [or the federal government directly]. In this case, the Project would likely have a typical 60:40 debt to equity structure, with a traditional rate base.

- If the federal government was unable to make an upfront capital contribution, it would presumably continue to provide its annual subsidy to defray the costs of electricity generation in the communities.
- The OEB would consider any payments expected to be received from the federal government, and reduce the revenue requirement by those amounts.

Considerations:

- With 40 per cent equity, this option would entail a higher required rate of return on capital than the other options, which would be passed on to rate payers.
- The federal government would continue to provide its subsidy and if it were to opt out in the future, the provincial government would not be at risk financially or politically. Due to the political sensitivity around withdrawing financial support from First Nations communities, it may be unlikely that the federal government would cease these payments. Especially under this option, a withdrawal of federal financial support would be seen as directly impairing improvements in First Nations communities (vs. the other options where the provincial government acts as an intermediary via the proposed Ontario loan).
- The First Nations equity holder in the Project has applied for a Provincial guarantee (under the Aboriginal Loan Guarantee Program) to cover the financing for its equity component. Under this option, the First Nation's equity component would be significantly higher, resulting in a higher requested Provincial guarantee.
- Under this option, the Province avoids risks related to the requested debt. Instead, the risk is borne by the Project and its equity holders. If the Province were to provide a guarantee to the First Nations for their equity stake, the amount to be covered would be significantly higher under this option. Consequently it could be seen that providing a guarantee for a lower amount is overall less risky than providing outright debt.

BACKGROUND:

- The Project plans to connect 17 remote communities to the Ontario electricity grid. Transmission lines will traverse five communities that are already grid connected, replace diesel-generated electricity at 16 communities and bring generation to one community that has no electrical service at all.
- The Project is owned by Fortis-RES (49%) and First Nations communities via First Nation LP ("FNLP"). FNLP is owned equally by 22 northwestern Ontario First Nation communities with traditional territories potentially impacted by the Project. All twenty two communities will have equal representation on FNLP.

Project Highlights

- The first phase will involve reinforcing an unreliable existing line to Pickle Lake (~300 km). The second phase will connect remote communities north of Pickle Lake to the Ontario grid (~ 1,500 km).
- Construction is expected to commence Q1/2019. Phase 1 to be in service Q3/2020. Phase 2 to be in service Q3/2023.

- Based on a 2012 study of a project to connect 20 remote communities, the Independent Electricity System Operator estimated that this project will produce nominal savings in financial costs of approximately $900 million versus continued use of diesel generation to service the full electricity demand in remote communities over 40 years. The IESO study was based on a capital cost estimate that was lower and is no longer accurate. Consequently, it should be noted the financial cost savings may in fact be lower.
- Aside from the financial cost savings for Ontario and Canada, remote communities will reap socioeconomic benefits:
  - Clean and accessible electricity
    - Freedom from electrical load restrictions that limit housing and economic development
    - Environmental benefits including reduced GHG emissions and diesel spills
  - First Nation ownership and control of development in their traditional territories
  - Distribution income from the Project to communities from equity investment
  - First Nation commercial and employment opportunities

Project Funding

- Funding for the current diesel generation system is primarily provided by the Government of Canada and Ontario ratepayers via the Rural or Remote Rate Protection Program. Community ratepayers pay a small portion of the actual cost of the subsidized rates. The cost of the Project will be borne by these same principal funders. Community ratepayers will pay the prevailing grid price for generation and transmission costs once the project is in-service, but the communities do not have access to sufficient capital to contribute materially to up-front Project capital costs. Consequently a contribution from the Canadian government could aid in meeting the required funding requirements.

Good morning,
In an effort to keep the word and page count down, we have made a few edits to the report. My DM would like to try to limit the length as much as possible.
Please ask staff to make any final edits to the attached clean version.
Patrick – there's a question in the tracked version. It's about a sentence that I believe OPCD added it. The boss is looking for where in the report the AG makes that assertion.
Thanks,
Dave

Hi all,
I've attached clean and tracked versions of the government response and consolidated comments. The joint-DM memo remains unchanged from what was shared at the meeting today, so only including a clean version of that.
Next Steps:

- In the consolidated comments document, please have staff confirm that any required supporting evidence is provided to me. If anything in that column is marked with a 'Y', please have staff add in "Please see [name of document/attachment]". If we can direct the AG to something online (e.g., standards), a hyperlink would be fine. If no material can be provided, please ensure the box is changed to 'N'.
- Please have staff review the documents one last time and ask that they note any required changes in the clean versions.
- The key focus at this point should be the government response. At this stage, changes to the consolidated comments should be kept to a minimum.

- Please reply-all with any edits by 11:00AM.
- I will coordinate having the joint-DM memo signed. We'll have to work together to get it in front of each of them (separately is fine) before 12:30.
- I will aim to distribute a final package by 1:00. The target for getting it to the AG is 2:00.

Thanks again to you and your teams for all the help.

ONTARIO HYDRO FINAL ANNUAL REPORT
JANUARY 1998 – MARCH 1999

Ontario Hydro

CORPORATE PROFILE Ontario Hydro ceased operations on March 31, 1999; its assets and functions were transferred by provincial statute to two commercial successor corporations, Ontario Power Generation Inc. and Ontario Hydro Services Company Inc., as well as to two not-for-profit agencies, the Independent Electricity Market Operator and the Electrical Safety Authority.

Ontario Hydro, a self-sustaining corporation without share capital, was created by provincial statute and operated under the Power Corporation Act of Ontario, which has now been succeeded by the Energy Competition Act, 1998. Bonds and notes issued by Ontario Hydro prior to April 1, 1999, are guaranteed by the Province of Ontario.

Until the demerger of the company on April 1, 1999, Ontario Hydro served 108 direct industrial customers, almost one million retail customers and 255 municipal utilities, which in turn serve almost 3 million customers.

Ontario Power Generation (OPG) inherited Ontario Hydro's generating portfolio, making it one of the largest power producers in North America in terms of installed capacity. The OPG system includes 69 hydroelectric stations, three nuclear sites and six operating fossil-fueled stations. Total installed system capacity is approximately 31,000 megawatts. Ontario Hydro's total energy sales in 1998 were almost 139 terawatt-hours.

Ontario Hydro Services Company (OHSC), the other successor company, is an energy-services-based transmission and distribution company. It owns and maintains 29,000 kilometres of transmission lines, 114,700 kilometres of distribution lines, 240 kilometres of high-voltage underground cable, 256 transformer stations, 928 distribution and regulating stations and 20 microwave stations. OHSC also retains the retail business formerly held by Ontario Hydro, which serves over 950,000 customers, and the transmission and generating business for 23 remote communities in Northern Ontario.

LETTER TO THE MINISTER

To the Honourable Jim Wilson,
Minister of Energy, Science and Technology:

I am pleased to submit to you Ontario Hydro's report of the financial position of the Corporation, as of March 31, 1999, when operations ceased, in accordance with provincial statute. This 15-month report also contains discussion and analysis of issues and initiatives for 1998-99 and beyond.

We want to thank your staff at the Ministry of Energy, Science and Technology for their cooperation during this period of great change in Ontario's electricity sector.

DESPITE THE MANY OPERATIONAL AND RESTRUCTURING CHALLENGES OF 1998 AND THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1999, ONTARIO HYDRO'S FINANCIAL HISTORY CONCLUDES ON A HIGH NOTE. REVENUES AND NET INCOME WERE STRONG AND SIX YEARS OF STABLE RATES HAVE SIGNIFICANTLY REDUCED ELECTRICITY COSTS AS A PROPORTION OF PROVINCIAL ECONOMIC ACTIVITY, BOOSTING ONTARIO'S ENERGY PRODUCTIVITY AND, AS A RESULT, ITS INDUSTRIAL COMPETITIVENESS.

Reliability and Commitment During Challenges and Change

RONALD OSBORNE
President & CEO

FROM WINTER ICE STORM TO SUMMER HEAT WAVE, FROM THE NEED TO RELIABLY MEET ONTARIO'S ELECTRICITY DEMAND TODAY TO THE MANDATE TO LOOK BEYOND ONTARIO TOMORROW, ONTARIO HYDRO'S FINAL 15 MONTHS AS AN OPERATING ENTITY WERE FILLED WITH GREAT CHALLENGES AND GREAT CHANGE. THROUGHOUT IT ALL, OUR EMPLOYEES DISPLAYED EQUAL MEASURES OF COOPERATION AND COMPETITIVENESS. THEY ARE ONTARIO HYDRO'S MOST VALUABLE LEGACY TO THE FUTURE.

We are preparing for competition; our aim is to make our commercial successor companies successful in the new energy services marketplace.

This is the Final Annual Report of Ontario Hydro, which ceased operations on March 31, 1999; its assets and functions have been transferred to successor companies and agencies. For this reason, the 1998 Annual Report was delayed to include a report on the company's final quarter.

The 15 months since our last Annual Report was a historic period for Ontario Hydro and the province's electricity industry. It began with the most devastating ice storm on record and the largest emergency power restoration effort ever undertaken by Ontario Hydro and its municipal utility allies in Eastern Ontario. Record summertime peak demand briefly approached the limits of our current in-service generating capacity. By the end of 1998, a new provincial statute, the Energy Competition Act, 1998, had rewritten the fundamental rules under which our industry has operated throughout most of this century. And these are only the major highlights of the period.

Despite unprecedented demands on Ontario Hydro's people, everything that happened during this period strengthened our conviction that we will be prepared for competition and that both commercial successor companies will be successful in the emerging North American energy services marketplace.

Our response to the ice storm showed how deep the reservoir of our organizational and technical skills really is and how committed our people are to the safety and well-being of our customers, regardless of the conditions that must be braved or workloads endured. They proved once again that reliability begins with people and that only people can sustain it.

But the wires networks are only one side – the delivery side – of the reliability equation. The other is supply reliability, and here too Ontario Hydro's generation staff, at our nuclear, hydroelectric and fossil-fueled stations, proved their resourcefulness and commitment to customers.

To replace the output of reactors laid up under the Nuclear Asset Optimization Program (NAOP), the Fossil business boosted its production to its highest level in more than a decade, and did so without exceeding provincial air emissions regulations. In Hydroelectric, production was constrained by low water levels, but staff nonetheless extracted every possible kilowatt out of their facilities. Both businesses, along with Central Market Operations, helped ensure that Ontario suffered no supply interruptions during the record spikes in summer peak demand that threatened shortages in other areas of North America.

The Nuclear business made substantial progress towards its multi-year goal of moving performance back to the top quartile of world nuclear industry standards. When Ontario Hydro's generating portfolio was assumed by Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG) on April 1, 1999, nuclear production and capability factors were up; forced outages were down; most performance targets were exceeded; and new agreements with our unions gave us more operational flexibility to speed the recovery to excellence and help position the company to seize more quickly the growing opportunities in the U.S. power marketplace.

All of the above was accomplished, moreover, during the restructuring of the corporation in line with the passage of the Energy Competition Act, 1998. This legislation marks Ontario as the first jurisdiction in North America to plan to introduce electricity competition at both the wholesale and the retail level at the same time. The Act ended Ontario Hydro's statutory existence and replaced it with two legally separate, commercially oriented successor companies – OPG and Ontario Hydro Services Company Inc. (OHSC). At the same time, Ontario Hydro's Central Market Operator became yet another separate entity, the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO), which will not only oversee the marketplace but direct the operation of the transmission system owned by OHSC. Municipal electric utilities and the Ontario Hydro Services Company alike are required to separate their monopoly wires businesses from their competitive merchant functions. Finally, Ontario Hydro's responsibility for electrical inspection throughout the province was transferred to a not-for-profit public agency, the Electrical Safety Authority.

These changes, large as they are, define only the barest framework of what Ontario's electricity marketplace will look like once competition is introduced by the government, expected sometime in the year 2000. Rules to assure both suppliers and customers of a level playing field must be fully developed before competition can begin. Much of this work was done during 1998 by the multi-stakeholder Market Design Committee (MDC), established at the beginning of 1998 to advise the government on detailed marketplace rules.

The MDC proposed a ten-year, staged reduction of Ontario Power Generation's control over provincial electricity supply, accompanied by measures to ensure price stability during the transition period when competition is first being established. As part of the proposal, the Ontario Hydro Services Company will make every effort to increase the province's interconnection capacity by 50% over the next five years. This plan has been accepted by the government. The future has begun.

The two commercial successor companies will use the remainder of 1999 to finalize their preparations for the open marketplace. One of their critical tasks will be to help customers prepare as well. Public education programs, through advertising and other forms of customer outreach, will be prominent this year. It is important to the success of customer choice that they understand the marketplace and their own energy service needs. Both companies will work with others in the industry to promote that understanding among all customers, not just their own.

In 1999, Ontario Hydro's successors will also finalize plans to ensure that the province enters the new millennium on January 1, 2000, without any interruption of power. Analysis, remediation, testing and Y2K-readiness certification of all critical systems was complete by the end of 1998. Coordination with suppliers, customers and interconnected systems will take place throughout the first half of 1999. All signs point to a successful rollover into 2000, but contingency planning is under way for the sake of prudence and public reassurance.

Throughout these final months, even as we planned for the future, we were determined not to lose our focus on what is most critical to our customers every single day: safety, reliability, service and competitive prices. We looked forward to the future, but we lived and worked in the present. Our customers' needs always took precedence. No matter what else may change for our successor companies, this basic operating principle will not.

As our successors move closer to a competitive future, they will build on Ontario Hydro's historic achievements. We expect that the new companies will contribute to the prosperity of Ontario in the next century at least as much as Ontario Hydro did in this one.

Ontario Hydro's Successors

THE YEAR 1998 WAS THE 92ND AND LAST FULL YEAR OF OPERATIONS FOR ONTARIO HYDRO. ON APRIL 1, 1999, IT WAS SUCCEEDED BY FIVE NEW SUCCESSOR ENTITIES, TWO OF WHICH ARE SEPARATELY MANAGED, COMMERCIALLY ORIENTED COMPANIES. THESE SUCCESSORS WERE INCORPORATED IN LATE 1998.

ONTARIO POWER GENERATION INC.

Ontario Power Generation (OPG) inherits Ontario Hydro's 31,000 megawatts of installed generating capacity at its 80 hydroelectric, nuclear and fossil-fueled stations, making it one of North America's largest power producers. OPG is very cost-competitive with U.S. generators in our region of the continent – a growing market for low-unit-cost, low-emission energy.

OPG facilities now supply about 85% of the province's electricity demand. Under an agreement with the provincial government, that proportion will be gradually reduced so that by about 2010, OPG will control no more than 35% of the province's total supply options. The company will increasingly compete in the U.S., as markets there open to competition.

ONTARIO HYDRO SERVICES COMPANY INC.

Ontario Hydro Services Company (OHSC) is a holding company with two major holdings: the 29,000-kilometre transmission grid and the 114,700-kilometre distribution system. It serves almost one million customers, mostly in rural and remote communities.

OHSC plans to leverage its infrastructure assets and the expertise of its employees to enter new businesses that will contribute to the company's growth and shareholder value.

INDEPENDENT ELECTRICITY MARKET OPERATOR

The Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) will serve two major functions in Ontario's electricity market. It will manage the spot market, reconciling transactions among buyers and sellers; and direct the operation of the provincial transmission system to ensure reliability and fair access under market rules. The IMO will have no commercial connection to any market participant.

ELECTRICAL SAFETY AUTHORITY

The Electrical Safety Authority will continue Ontario Hydro's former inspection service. It is a stand-alone, self-funded entity with no commercial ties to any utility or other energy services company.

ONTARIO ELECTRICITY FINANCIAL CORPORATION

The Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation is a Crown agent responsible for servicing and retiring Ontario Hydro's provincially guaranteed debt. It provides the risk management, cash management, banking and accounting services to manage and retire the debt. The OEFC is also responsible for administering the pension assets of Ontario Hydro until they can be allocated among the successor companies' pension plans.

AN ONTARIO HYDRO REPRESENTATIVE AT INCO SMELTING PLANT

ENSURING A RELIABLE SUPPLY OF POWER WAS LONG ONTARIO HYDRO'S DOMINANT CUSTOMER SERVICE VALUE. In the competitive marketplace, however, there are as many service objectives as there are customers; each relationship can be unique. OPG and OHSC, Ontario Hydro's commercial successors, see this new reality as an opportunity to provide an ever-expanding array of services that customers say they need and value.

ONTARIO HYDRO HAS FULFILLED THE AMBITIOUS MANDATE OF ITS VISIONARY FOUNDERS. A vast and sturdy network of wires brings electricity to everyone in Ontario. The hydroelectric potential of the province has largely been tapped. New technologies and processes have been readily embraced. Many major industries, the main source of Ontario's prosperity in this century, were attracted here by Ontario Hydro's low-cost, abundant power. These achievements are an enduring legacy to Ontario, as well as to the commercial corporations that succeed Ontario Hydro in the new era of customer choice. Bridging the accomplishments of the past and the opportunities of the future are four defining values: safety, reliability, competitiveness and customer service. Each of these is grounded in Ontario Hydro's traditional strengths. And each has been carried forward into the successor companies, guiding them to new achievements – beyond the imagination of Ontario Hydro's founders, perhaps, but not beyond their values.

Operations Report

IN A TIME OF CLIMATIC EXTREMES, UNPRECEDENTED OPERATIONAL CHALLENGES AND HISTORIC RESTRUCTURING LEGISLATION, THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO HYDRO NEVER LOST FOCUS ON THEIR CORE MISSION: RELIABLY AND SAFELY MEETING PROVINCIAL ELECTRICITY DEMAND. AT THE SAME TIME, THEY IMPROVED ASSET VALUE, LAUNCHED NEW SERVICES, ENHANCED CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIPS AND RESPONDED TO EMERGENCIES WITH PROFESSIONALISM AND COMMITMENT.

The Demerger Project

ORCHESTRATING THE LARGEST CORPORATE DEMERGER IN CANADIAN HISTORY TO ENSURE ITS SUCCESSOR COMPANIES WERE FULLY OPERATIONAL ON APRIL 1, 1999, WAS ONTARIO HYDRO'S FINAL SUCCESS.

The seamless transition of Ontario Hydro into its successor companies without even a momentary interruption of critical activities was the mission of the Demerger Project launched in mid-1998. Nearly one hundred employees were directly assigned to the complex undertaking and over one thousand more were indirectly involved at some point. The project was guided by the provincial government's 1997 White Paper on electricity industry restructuring and its enabling legislation, the Energy Competition Act, 1998.

A Demerger Project Office was charged with coordinating, monitoring and expediting the approximately 800 separate project activities identified by a Task Implementation Committee and assigned to one of six Task Working Groups, each responsible for a key aspect of the transition. An overview of the project's accomplishments:

• Corporate Finance Restructuring. The financial architecture of the new business entities was defined, including their debt/equity structures, credit ratings, asset valuation, initial balance sheets and business plans. The approach taken for each successor business involved balancing three key considerations: establishing a competitive electricity marketplace; allowing for the enhancement of shareholder value; and optimizing the repayment of the provincially backed Ontario Hydro debt.

• Governance/New Legislation. Transfer Orders for transfer of assets, contracts, liabilities, litigation and staff to the successor companies were prepared for government execution, and operating licences for OPG and OHSC were obtained from the regulator, the Ontario Energy Board. This area of activity also involved coordinating Ontario Hydro's position on restructuring legislation and regulation and recommending a schedule for the proclamation of sections of the Energy Competition Act, 1998 (ECA) and repeal of corresponding sections of the law it superseded, the Power Corporation Act (PCA).

• Operations. The specific functional requirements of each successor company were identified and addressed. These included each entity's organizational structure and staffing, initial operating plans and budgets, and due diligence in areas such as environment, contingency/emergency planning and First Nations considerations. Of particular importance in this area was coordinating the complex functional needs of large projects under way prior to demerger planning, such as the Nuclear Asset

The Demerger Project built the bridge between the achievements of our singular past and the opportunities that lie in our separate futures.

Optimization Plan, that were critical to the operation of a successor company.

• Legal/Transition Issues. All of Ontario Hydro's legislative and regulatory obligations under the PCA were transferred to a successor, in accordance with the new legislation. Some of these responsibilities, such as the regulation of municipal electric utilities, were assigned to regulatory bodies, such as the Ontario Energy Board.

• Corporate Functions. The necessary infrastructure for services and functions previously provided by a business unit in Ontario Hydro was developed for each successor. Services such as purchasing, health, security, telecom, real estate, information technology, corporate records, investment recovery and office space were provided through inter-company service agreements or make/buy decisions. Functions such as law, human resources, audit, finance, pension, treasury and corporate affairs were similarly addressed.

• Human Resources. Each employee of Ontario Hydro as of March 31, 1999, was transferred to a successor company, which had in place all necessary records and applicable labour agreements, as well as pension, compensation, benefits, and health and safety plans.

A full report on all the above activities was provided to each successor company prior to April 1. This report included an analysis of the subsequent work to be completed before the government declares the Ontario electricity market open to competition.

The success of the Demerger Project was twofold. Not only did it meet all its objectives, it also allowed everyone else in the corporation to continue devoting all their time and expertise to serving Ontario Hydro customers and, after the transition date, the customers of its successors. It built the bridge between the achievements of our singular past and the opportunities that lie in our separate futures.

Excellence Today Means Competitiveness Tomorrow

GETTING READY TO COMPETE AS ONTARIO POWER GENERATION IN WHAT WILL SOON BE ONE OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST POWER MARKETPLACES, THE GENERATION COMPANY INCREASED OPERATIONAL EFFICIENCIES, TECHNOLOGICALLY UPGRADED SEVERAL FACILITIES AND MADE SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS TOWARDS ITS GOAL OF BECOMING ONE OF THE WORLD'S TOP PERFORMERS.

NUCLEAR

Ontario Hydro Nuclear (OHN) made substantial progress during the last 15 months towards its multi-year goal of bringing its operations back into the top quartile of global nuclear industry performance.

Early in 1998, the Board of Directors approved the Integrated Improvement Program (IIP), the operational underpinning of the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP) that had been recommended in 1997 by the Nuclear Performance Advisory Group. The NAOP called for the temporary lay-up of eight reactor units at Pickering A and Bruce A and the concentration of OHN resources on the remaining 12, four each at Pickering B, Bruce B and Darlington.

By the end of April 1998, the major elements of the IIP had been identified, including milestone dates and key deliverables. A team from the World Association of Nuclear Operators (WANO) visited Pickering, Bruce and Darlington in the spring of 1998 and confirmed that the IIP was a comprehensive statement of the problems needing correction in OHN and that the program was sound. Key areas for performance improvement included the planning and execution of planned outages; the implementation of standardized policies, procedures and processes; and the establishment of an organization needed to achieve all objectives.

By March 1998, the four Pickering A units were safely laid up, following some 100,000 hours of work. Most of the staff were then transferred to Pickering B to work on IIP projects on those four reactors. In March as well, the Board reconfirmed its August 1997 decision to temporarily lay up Bruce A units 3 and 4 in order to free up more resources for the IIP. The Bruce lay-up work began in April 1998 and will be completed in 1999. Some of the Bruce A staff moved over to the Bruce B units; others have been deployed to Darlington.

The most fundamental indicator of nuclear performance improvement is a composite index based on nine measures specified by WANO:

- Capability Factor
- Safety System Performance
- Chemistry Performance
- Unplanned Capability Loss Factor
- Thermal Performance
- Collective Radiation Exposure
- Reactor Trip Rate
- Fuel Reliability
- Industrial Safety Accident Rate

By the end of the first quarter of 1999, the OHN Performance Index had reached a level of 69.2

– out of a total index of 100 – exceeding its target for the fifth consecutive quarter and bettering by nearly 11 index points the level at the end of 1997.

Stakeholder Communications

In late 1997, OHN began issuing monthly performance report cards to keep government and other stakeholders apprised of nuclear recovery progress. These report cards continued throughout 1998 and into 1999. In addition to the WANO-specified OHN Performance Index, the card also reported on 14 other monthly performance indicators, grouped in the following four areas:

- Public Safety
- Production Performance
- Environment
- Employee Safety

Of the 15 indicators on the monthly report card, OHN had met or exceeded the target in 12 categories by the end of March 1999, compared with only six at the end of January 1998. In the area of Production Performance, for example, OHN's net electrical production for 1998 was 59.9 terawatt-hours, compared with the target, 56.3 terawatt-hours; and the capability factor was better than its target, as was the total of outage days per unit.

While these numbers were very encouraging, Nuclear is determined to accelerate IIP progress during the remainder of 1999, to improve its ability to supply competitively priced power in the Ontario and North American energy marketplaces as they open to competition.

Also in the Reporting Period

In March 1998, Pickering was granted a 12-month operating licence by the Atomic Energy Control Board, and in March 1999, the licence was renewed for a further two years. In November 1998, Darlington was granted a two-year licence renewal.

In the first quarter of 1998, the Bruce Heavy Water Plant was decommissioned.

Between June and December 1998, Pickering set a new employee safety record of 2.6 million person-hours worked without a lost-time injury.

Nuclear Waste Management

Ontario Hydro has always had responsibility for the management of nuclear waste in a manner that is safe, as well as environmentally, socially and financially responsible. Finding a safe and acceptable long-term way to manage Canada's nuclear fuel waste has been studied for several years by the federal government, with support from Ontario Hydro. In December, a major step towards this goal was taken when the government of Canada responded to the report of the Nuclear Fuel Waste Management and Disposal Concept Environmental Assessment Panel.

Ontario Hydro welcomed the federal government response and the direction it provided for the long-term management of nuclear fuel waste in Canada. Work is continuing with the federal and Ontario governments and other Canadian nuclear utilities to implement work programs designed to achieve the goals of the federal government's nuclear waste management policy.

Isotope Sales

Ontario Power Generation also succeeds Ontario Hydro as the world's largest supplier of the radioactive isotopes cobalt 60 and tritium, and is one of the largest suppliers of deuterium oxide (heavy water). These isotopes, which are byproducts of the company's Nuclear operations, are in great demand in the medical, industrial and research sectors. Isotope sales have consistently met business plan projections while contributing to Ontario Hydro's net income.

Despite facing unusual production demands during 1998, Fossil met or bettered all of its key performance targets.

FOSSIL

The Fossil business was called on to dramatically increase its production during 1998 and the first quarter of 1999 to offset reductions in Nuclear. It delivered 35 terawatt-hours of energy in 1998 – its highest production level in over a decade. As a result, provincial electricity supply reliability and service to export customers was never compromised, even during the unprecedented surge in summer peak demand.

In the first quarter of 1999, even with strong secondary sales and January production that was the highest for any single month this decade, Fossil production was slightly below target because of higher than expected Hydroelectric and Nuclear production.

Despite facing unusual production demands during 1998, Fossil met or bettered all of its key performance targets, including those related to the environment. Generating-unit reliability was significantly better than targeted levels and, at the same time, both OM&A and fuel unit energy costs were kept under budget. Not only did the business meet its ambitious safety targets, but its performance in this area was the best ever.

To achieve this dramatic increase in production from previous years, Fossil stepped up virtually all its production plans. Throughout the period, reliability and flexibility were the hallmarks of Fossil's operation. When very favourable market conditions developed, Fossil was able to quickly change its plans – by realigning maintenance outages, fuel deliveries and staffing – to take advantage of higher prices.

Another key factor in Fossil's performance was its fuel supply program, which had to be ramped up quickly but economically. During 1998, the program not only provided the 15 million tons of coal and 3 million barrels of oil required to generate 35 terawatt-hours, it also was able to increase the proportion of low-sulphur, high-quality coal in the fuel mix. This helped ensure that the business met acid gas emission regulations and self-imposed emission rate targets for both acid gas and carbon dioxide emissions.

In December, the Thunder Bay plant achieved ISO 14001 certification, and at Lennox the return to service of two mothballed units was completed. Also late in the year, the Lennox plant celebrated the successful completion of its gas pipeline and boiler conversion project, enabling two of the plant's four units to burn both natural gas and oil. The conversion lowers the plant's operating costs by about 20%. It also reduces sulphur dioxide, nitrogen oxide and greenhouse gas emissions by about 25%.

The Nanticoke and Lambton plants made progress on major remedial programs, including a variety of turbine and boiler projects that will improve future reliability, operating efficiency and environmental performance. In addition, Nanticoke made modifications so it could use natural gas instead of oil in the furnace ignition system, as well as to fire a coal drying process to improve the combustion of lower-cost, low-sulphur coal from the western United States. The plant also completed installation of new burners on five of its eight generating units, reducing nitrogen oxide emissions from those units by about 30%.

HYDROELECTRIC

A shortened spring snow melt coupled with below-normal precipitation across the province

resulted in Hydroelectric's total 1998 energy production from its 69 generating stations being 2.7 terawatt-hours less than the target of 34.6. The lower water levels, however, gave the Hydroelectric business the opportunity to perform necessary facility maintenance and more aggressively implement its ongoing program of capital investments. During the year, the 14th unit of a 16-unit rehabilitation program was completed at Robert H. Saunders Generating Station. At the Sir Adam Beck 2 Generating Station, the third and fourth units of a 16-unit upgrade were completed, with new runners and major components replaced or refurbished. In total, Hydroelectric invested $134 million in 1998 on these and other refurbishment programs.

Also in 1998, Hydroelectric completed significant portions of a program leading to ISO 14001 certification of its Environmental Management System (EMS) for its production facilities. The EMS ensures that Hydroelectric facilities are operated in a manner that meets internationally recognized quality standards for environmental performance, which is increasingly important in a competitive marketplace.

Hydroelectric formed a Small Hydro Division in 1998, comprising 26 stations accounting for almost 2% of the total Hydroelectric capacity. The new division creates a more distinct business focus for these assets, providing a greater degree of operational flexibility and better positioning them for the growing consumer interest in environment-friendly power.

Hydroelectric had many occasions to celebrate both its past and present achievements in 1998. In March, Ear Falls G.S. was reopened after a fire in 1997 that badly damaged the powerhouse and the generators. The station was refurbished in record time, complete with a new powerhouse and four new generators.

In August, celebrations marked the 100th anniversary of DeCew Falls G.S. 1 in St. Catharines, Ontario's oldest operating hydroelectric station. Other significant service milestones this year were the 50th anniversary of Stewartville G.S. on the Madawaska River and the 40th anniversary of Robert H. Saunders G.S. on the St. Lawrence River. These celebrations were all reminders of the enduring value of our hydroelectric system and give greater meaning to our reinvestments to preserve and enhance our ability to produce safe and reliable energy from a renewable water resource.

WORKING WITH OUR CUSTOMERS

Our core product is electricity but our flexibility in pricing, supply conditions, energy services and account management allowed us to tailor offerings to best meet customer needs.

Here are some examples of how Ontario Hydro strengthened customer relationships through new services, communications and business initiatives.

- Customers learned how to understand and benefit from the coming competitive electricity marketplace through the Quest – Learning Together series of day-long sessions held throughout the year.
- Customers participating in the Interconnected Market Gain Sharing Program made money in June 1998 during a major price spike in the U.S. Northeast. The program allowed firm power customers to reduce their purchases in exchange for a share of OPG's gains from selling power at higher market prices.
- In response to customer demand, Ontario Hydro designed a wholesale green power offering that is EcoLogo certified. It includes new and existing renewables such as small hydro, landfill gas and wind.

Focused on Reliability – Poised for Growth

MAINTAINING AND IMPROVING WIRES NETWORKS THAT COULD CIRCLE THE GLOBE NEARLY FOUR TIMES WAS THE FIRST RESPONSIBILITY OF ONTARIO HYDRO SERVICES COMPANY. THE SECOND WAS THE GROWTH OF COMPETITIVE BUSINESSES THROUGH THE MARKETING OF ENERGY, NETWORK AND RELATED SERVICES THAT CUSTOMERS WANT, NEED AND VALUE.

ICE STORM SHOWCASES CRISIS CAPABILITIES

The fundamental strengths of Ontario Hydro Services Company (OHSC) were never more impressively illustrated than in January 1998, when over 600,000 people in an area of 25,000 square kilometres in Eastern Ontario lost power during the most severe ice storm on record. In five devastating days, the sheer weight of unprecedented accumulations of ice – nearly twice the typical amount for an entire year – literally crushed the electricity system. Hundreds of steel transmission towers crumpled. Seven thousand wooden distribution poles snapped like matchsticks, bringing 1,800 pole-top transformers down with them. By the time it was over, the storm had damaged 40% of Eastern Ontario's transmission and distribution systems.

Local OHSC and municipal crews began power restoration efforts even before the storm abated, and reinforcements quickly flowed into the region from across the province and beyond. At the peak of the effort, nearly 2,200 front-line workers laboured 16 hours a day, seven days a week, in piercing cold and sometimes blizzard-like snowstorms. Over half were Ontario Hydro staff; the rest were from other utilities in Ontario and elsewhere. Nearly 1,000 Canadian Armed Forces personnel worked tirelessly alongside the utility crews. Behind the scenes, hundreds more OHSC staff orchestrated the supply lines, answered a quarter-million calls from worried customers, and handled the countless details that went into speeding the recovery. Within two weeks, over 90% of all affected Ontario Hydro residential and business customers had their power restored, an incredible feat by any standards. A post-event analysis led to an updating and reorganization of OHSC emergency response procedures, so that if such an event occurs again, the recovery would be even quicker.

The historic response of Ontario Hydro Services Company staff to the ice storm will long serve as the reminder we all perhaps need occasionally that the most important element of power system reliability is the human one. The skill, dedication and professionalism brought by OHSC staff to this crisis are with us all year long. They are the reason OHSC is confident it can continue to maintain the transmission and distribution reliability standards Ontario has come to expect, and do so with increasing efficiency and continuously renewed sensitivity to our customers' needs.

ASSET MANAGEMENT BUSINESS MODEL

OHSC has adopted an asset management

business model for its wires networks that separates decisions on the investments needed to maintain and improve assets from the actual work on those assets. Under this model, which is also in use at best-practice utilities worldwide, OHSC's Network Asset Management Group makes the investment decisions and the Network Services Group performs the work. This approach ensures reliability and optimum use of assets with the most efficient use of OHSC's human and financial resources.

At the transmission level, the new model has been implemented with the creation of the Transmission Operation Management (TOM) Centre – OHSC's link to other key electricity system participants: suppliers, customers, the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) and Network Services. The centre also coordinates and implements emergency response plans during significant transmission system events. It also contains Outage Management, System Performance, Operating Effectiveness and Operating Strategy Implementation departments.

At the distribution level, OHSC has launched its new Distribution Operations Management Centre, which will take over responsibility for answering after-hours trouble calls for the entire province by September 15, 1999. The centre allows much better coordination of work crews and lets us inform customers when they can expect their power to be restored. Eventually, the Distribution Operations Management Centre will operate a sophisticated Distribution Outage Management System, which will further improve customer service.

OHSC has also initiated a major re-engineering of its business processes, with a new work management, material management and financial system and an upgrade of computer technology infrastructure.

NEW GENERATION PLANT IN REMOTE NORTHERN COMMUNITY

To ensure future reliability to the Northern logging community of Armstrong, the Remote Communities program installed a new diesel generating plant comprising three generators with a total capacity of 2,550 kilowatts (kW) and a prime rating of 1,450 kW. Peak load in the service area is now 900 kW, allowing community and local industry growth. The prime rating of the existing 25-year-old plant was being exceeded. With the old plant located close to a trout stream, relocation to another, lower-risk site was the preferred option.

The new installation incorporates the latest in operational and environmental controls, such as a SCADA system. It is housed in a diesel plant that employs the most up-to-date environmental technology for these remote applications.

As part of the legal separation of OPG and OHSC, a special legislative provision was put in place to keep the generation business within OHSC in remote Far North communities.

CUSTOMER COMMUNICATION CENTRES UPGRADED, EXPANDED

The centralized Customer Communication Centres (CCC), which celebrated their first full year of operation in 1998, experienced their "trial by ice" in January by fielding as many as 30,000 calls a day in round-the-clock operations. An analysis of the ice storm response led to the installation of new call flooding technologies that enable automated reporting of outages directly from the customer to the appropriate service centre.

During the year as well, a Customer Loyalty Centre was set up within CCC's operation. The centres handle billing and service inquiries and issues for over 900,000 retail customers. The Customer Loyalty Centre works with customers to quickly resolve their concerns, taking corrective or compensatory action when necessary. By tracking complaints, the centre can help determine the nature and scope of service failures and assist in identifying policy and process changes that lead to improvements.

Consolidating the customer telephone service to the Customer Communication Centres allowed the extension of service hours: customers can now call from 7:30 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. This year the centres will increase availability to customers even more. Although 24-hour emergency outage response service has always been provided, a new call answering system will be brought on line, allowing a higher volume of outage emergency calls. As well, the centres will implement a further extension to hours, opening up our regular lines until 8:00 p.m.

OH TELECOM VENTURE

OHSC began preparing in 1998 to launch telecommunications. As a "carriers' carrier," OH Telecom may transmit data and voice communications through its optical fibre network in Ontario for clients such as long-distance telephone carriers, Internet service providers and corporations with large-scale data transfer requirements.

RETAIL MERCHANT COMPETITIVE SERVICES

Commercially oriented services were introduced by OHSC in 1998. Indeed, this is an example of the OHSC strategy of building competitive businesses by leveraging existing assets and expertise. All its non-regulated energy services are offshoots of its resident skills and are aimed at identified market opportunities that have been carefully analyzed for their growth potential.

PAYONE PROGRAM LAUNCHED

PayONE is a sophisticated bill consolidation and utility accounting service aimed at commercial and institutional customers with multiple sites, such as restaurant chains, property management companies, retailers and school boards. The program, piloted with McDonald's locations in Ontario, collects all the utility bills the customer receives (such as electricity, gas, water and sewage), verifies them, pays the utility and sends a single, electronic consolidated bill in a format that best suits the customer's needs. Besides freeing up accounting staff and saving customers money in other ways, the service provides utility usage and cost profiles, trending and benchmarking that will support operating decisions and help set budgets. PayONE signed up several clients in 1998 and more are expected in 1999.

CUSTOM SOLUTIONS

Commercial and industrial energy management is a growing business sector and Custom Solutions is already in this business, with some early notable successes under its belt. The largest was a project to identify, design, implement and finance utility cost-saving opportunities for Cadillac Fairview at 18 commercial properties across Ontario. Total savings of $1.1 million annually were identified on a one-time investment of $3.2 million.

Other services include PowerSelect, which addresses power quality requirements, and Utility Accounting and Analysis. This latter service, among other things, simplifies, compares and analyzes billing data for multi-site customers and gives them a historical view of their electricity consumption and operating costs.

NORTHWIND TORONTO PROJECT

OHSC, in a commercial alliance with Toronto

Hydro and Unicom Thermal Technologies of Chicago, is developing Canada's first major district cooling project, which will provide services in Toronto's downtown core.

OPEX 2000

In January 1999, OHSC's program to achieve operational excellence was launched. By overhauling old processes or introducing new ones, OpEx 2000 will enable OHSC to optimize capital and productivity, and deliver excellent customer service. In short, through OpEx 2000, we will ensure we are running effectively and efficiently – and that we have what it takes to thrive in the competitive marketplace.

Several key processes and initiatives, critical to business success, constitute OpEx 2000: Customer Service; Distribution Network Asset Management; Transmission Network Asset Management; Design and Construction; Resource Management (Scheduling and Bid/Work Ordering); Operations, Maintenance and Restoration; Logistical Support (Trades Training, Supply Management, Fleet Management); Facility Management; Performance Management; Health, Safety and Environment; and Change Management/Communications.

In 1998, OHSC Forestry achieved the type of productivity gains to be realized through OpEx 2000 process improvements. Through such measures as the consolidation of crews, use of temporary work headquarters to reduce traveling time and the establishment of clear performance objectives, more work was accomplished, more safely, in 1998 than in 1997. This achievement is even more significant given the fact that all regular forestry work had to be suspended for six weeks in early 1998 because of the ice storm restoration demands.

LARGE-SCALE YEAR 2000 TEST

On March 6, 1999, Ontario's first major test of Y2K readiness of OHSC's transmission network was successfully conducted without any interruption of power to the 180,000 customers of Toronto Hydro that might have been affected. At midnight, the SCADA system for Manby Transmission Station and the seven other transmission stations it controls, as well as all associated protection and communications equipment, underwent a simulated rollover to midnight, January 1, 2000. While each of these systems had been previously tested individually and certified Year 2000 ready, this was the first test of all the equipment working together. The test then continued until the clocks on the equipment successfully passed the simulated date of February 29, 2000, another critical date because next year is a leap year.

ARC2000 PROJECT

Another key program was launched in the first quarter of 1999 to develop an information technology architecture for OHSC that will govern how the business acquires, builds, modifies and uses information technology (IT) resources, from applications and databases, to network, software and hardware components. OHSC's independence, and the expanded information demands of an open marketplace, require considerable investment in these areas. Electronic interactions with the Independent Electricity Market Operator and generating companies, emerging regulatory requirements and both the OpEx 2000 and Market Ready initiatives are examples of significant IT-enabled projects either in progress or in the advanced planning stages. ARC2000 will establish an integrated framework of principles, specifications, standards and directions to guide these and all other such projects in OHSC's future.

Ontario Hydro's investment in Luz del Sur yielded a 16% dividend as the Peruvian electricity distribution company continued to grow and improve productivity.

PHASE SHIFTERS AUGMENT MICHIGAN-ONTARIO CONNECTION

Under the terms of the recently signed Michigan-Ontario Interconnection Facilities Expansion Agreement between OHSC and two Michigan utilities, two phase-shifting transformers will be installed and operational by mid-2000 at Lambton and another will be installed in Michigan by Detroit Edison, along with a new autotransformer. This joint project will enhance electricity transactions between the two jurisdictions and increase Ontario's capacity to import from the U.S. and relieve congestion on the east-to-west movement of power.

GREENCHOICE GENERATION

Some customers want to choose to have part of their electricity come from renewable energy sources. Through our GreenChoice Generation pilot, some of OHSC's retail customers have that option. Although "green" energy costs slightly more, some companies are willing to pay the extra dollars to know that green power is being added to the grid. GreenChoice Generation customers receive a plaque showing how much of their energy comes from environment-friendly sources and are authorized to use the EcoLogo symbol on company letterhead and promotional materials.

ONTARIO HYDRO INTERNATIONAL INC.

Ontario Hydro International's 15% investment in Luz del Sur yielded a 16% dividend for 1998 as the Peruvian electricity distribution company continued to grow and improve productivity. Although the Peruvian economy was hit by adverse El Niño weather and affected by the Asian economic slowdown, Luz del Sur's energy sales grew by 10% as the number of customers grew by 2%. Continuing efforts to improve the performance of the distribution system resulted in a 17% reduction in energy losses.

During 1998, Ontario Hydro assisted Luz del Sur to introduce a state-of-the-art thermovision unit for preventive maintenance on its transmission and distribution network. This technology will help LDS further reduce operations and maintenance costs.

In Central America, OHII directed Ontario Hydro's assistance to Honduras in the wake of Hurricane Mitch. Hydro pledged $500,000 for expertise and equipment to help restore electricity to the devastated country. Two technicians were quickly sent to work with the Honduran utility to assess reconstruction needs.

Gateway to the Electricity Marketplace

CENTRAL MARKET OPERATIONS' ROLE AS THE MINUTE-BY-MINUTE GUARDIAN OF ONTARIO'S TRANSMISSION SYSTEM SECURITY DID NOT CHANGE WHEN IT BECAME THE PROVINCE'S INDEPENDENT ELECTRICITY MARKET OPERATOR, BUT ITS MANDATE WAS GREATLY ENLARGED TO INCLUDE MANAGEMENT OF ONE OF NORTH AMERICA'S LARGEST POWER MARKETPLACES.

Ontario Hydro's Central Market Operations (CMO) has faced extraordinary challenges during the past 15 months, beginning with the January 1998 ice storm, which felled several large sections of the transmission system in Eastern Ontario. During the storm and its aftermath, CMO staff worked around the clock, and in close cooperation with both the Generation and Services companies, to deal with the numerous outages, adjust system equipment and minimize the impact of the storm on the rest of Ontario and on interconnections with other jurisdictions.

Six months later, another climatic extreme, this time a prolonged heat wave in several large areas of North America, shattered peak power demand records and put unprecedented pressures on the continental interconnected network. Again, CMO staff worked closely with the rest of Ontario Hydro and with other jurisdictions to not only meet the province's record demand but also export power to other jurisdictions. Despite these challenges posed by the heat wave and the ice storm, CMO met or exceeded all performance targets of the North American Electricity Reliability Council (NERC) throughout this period.

In addition to safeguarding bulk electricity system security, CMO staff played a key role in the development of Ontario's future competitive electricity marketplace. CMO specialists were represented on all technical panels of the government-appointed Market Design Committee, as well as on the rules drafting team and the Coordination Committee.

CMO TO IMO: THE TRANSITION

During 1998, work began on the infrastructure program to transform CMO into the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) called for in the Energy Competition Act, 1998, the provincial legislation that restructures Ontario's electricity system. This program, which will continue throughout the rest of 1999, will deliver the design, development, documentation, testing, commissioning and implementation of the critical operational infrastructure of the IMO. By year-end, independent systems for financial and treasury management were already in place, and the entire program is on schedule to meet all deadlines required for the opening of the marketplace.

Ontario Hydro Corporate Activities

Sustainable Development: A Key Element of Future Competitive Success

Environmental performance is increasingly viewed as a key customer consideration that will grow in importance as the competitive power market matures. Given similar prices, many customers will prefer a supplier with a strong environmental track record. Market research shows that many customers are willing to pay at least a modest premium for power that they know has been produced in environmentally sensitive ways. Moreover, investors are becoming keenly interested in how environmental obligations are managed, ongoing compliance assured and potential liabilities avoided.

For these reasons, Ontario Hydro's commitment to sustainable development practices has laid the foundation for the competitive success of its successor companies. Sustainable development – conducting business in a way that meets current needs without compromising the ability of future generations to meet theirs – is not so much a specific program as a way of thinking about three "bottom lines": financial, social and environmental.

The financial aspects of sustainable development activities in both successor companies focus on two major objectives: getting more value from environmental expenditures and reducing future environmental risks and liabilities through sound environmental management programs and, where necessary, remediation efforts. The social bottom line, on the other hand, drives us to earn the respect and loyalty of our customers, including those in the communities within which we operate. There are many ways in which this objective is pursued, principal of which is an honest and transparent disclosure of the environmental impacts of our operations. OPG, for example, will continue to consult with established environmental advisory groups around its major generating stations and is actively engaging the local community, as did Ontario Hydro, on how it can better respond to their needs.

Ontario Hydro's environmental performance commitments were embodied in the adoption of the ISO 14001 standards for Environmental Management Systems by all of the businesses within the corporation.

The following are some of the many sustainable-development-oriented projects completed during the past 15 months.

Deer Lake Mini-Hydro

Deer Lake is one of the 23 communities served by OHSC's Remote Communities group. It is accessible only by air or winter road. Until recently, the community's electricity was supplied by three diesel generators. With the community load demand outstripping existing plant capability, Ontario Hydro Technologies installed two 245-kilowatt mini-hydroelectric generators at nearby Shoulderblade Falls. This project was partnered with the Remote Communities group, Deer Lake First Nation and the federal Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. This installation will provide nearly 90% of the community's power needs and significantly reduce dependence on diesel fuel.

Emissions Reduction Trading

Since 1996, Ontario Hydro has participated with other industries, government and non-governmental organizations in the Pilot Emissions Reduction Trading (PERT) Project. The goal of the project, in which Ontario Hydro's successors will continue to participate, is to provide market incentives to improve environmental performance. By voluntarily investing in equipment and practices that reduce emissions, PERT member companies earn credits, which can be bought or sold, for each tonne of emissions reduced. In 1998, Ontario Hydro purchased credits from Beaver Fuels, enabling that company to sell cleaner gasoline without raising prices at the pump, and sold nitrogen oxide credits to the Hartford Steam Boiler Company in Connecticut. Ontario Hydro's participation in this innovative program helped reduce nitrogen oxide emissions in eastern North America, and its generation successor company will steadily add to that contribution.

Ontario Hydro has helped reduce nitrogen oxide emissions in eastern North America, and its generation successor company will steadily add to that contribution.

Restoring the Storm-Damaged Landscape

Thousands of trees in Eastern Ontario were killed by the January 1998 ice storm. Estimates placed tree damage as high as 70% in the Ottawa-Kingston corridor alone. To aid in environmental restoration, Ontario Hydro donated $50,000 to the Evergreen Foundation to fund a program enlisting volunteer support to plant new trees in the region. Three thousand trees – among them red maple, grey birch, green ash, white spruce, trembling aspen, white oak, white elm and linden – were distributed to 35 schools and 28 community groups.

Human Resources/Health and Safety Performance

To meet the needs of the business, including the unique requirements of the nuclear recovery program and the challenges associated with the demerger of Ontario Hydro, Corporate Human Resources:

- redefined the business relationship with 95% of 21,000 employees and greatly improved operational flexibility by successfully negotiating separate collective agreements for each of the successor businesses;
- allocated approximately 21,000 employees and 15,000 pensioners to the successor companies without a single grievance;
- due to excellent cooperation with the unions, resolved a backlog of more than 3,100 grievances with as few as 10% being resolved by a third party;
- defined new organizational structures, responsibilities and accountabilities;
- introduced a new, contemporary Code of Business Conduct designed to reinforce the culture required of the companies in a competitive marketplace;
- introduced a new and integrated payroll system designed to contribute to improved productivity and ensure Year 2000 compliance;
- enhanced recruitment systems for new and existing skills;
- developed succession planning and executive development programs to ensure effective leadership and management capability in the future; and
- organized and administered Ontario Hydro's 10th annual Corporate Awards program to recognize and celebrate the excellence, ingenuity and capability of employees in the areas of customer service, safety, environmental sustainability, technology and innovation; the various projects saved the corporation over $154 million.

Health and Safety

- The unfortunate death of an employee in a March 1999 motor vehicle accident was the corporation's first fatality since 1994.
- Although the number of days lost/charged per million hours worked (Accident Severity Rate) was higher in 1998 than in 1997, this critical indicator of occupational health and safety has nevertheless improved by more than 200% over the last five years.

• The All Injury Frequency Rate, which tracks the number of incidents occurring within the corporation, improved in 1998.

Ontario Hydro Technologies

Throughout 1998, Ontario Hydro Technologies (OHT) supported a wide range of specialized needs from Hydro's business units. OHT achieved ISO 9001 certification in 1998. In April 1999, OHT was renamed Ontario Power Technologies, a wholly owned subsidiary of Ontario Power Generation.

Environmental Land Assessment: OHT conducted a major soils testing program for OHSC, sampling nearly 1,000 transmission, distribution and microwave communication sites in the province, and conducted comprehensive testing through its analytical chemistry laboratory. This project was part of OHSC's Land Assessment and Remediation Program and was one of the largest programs of its kind ever conducted in Canada.

Extensive assistance was provided to generating station operations including:
• a comprehensive review and predictions of corrosion and deuterium uptake in operating pressure tubes for Nuclear;
• new methods for flaw assessment in fuel channels at Bruce B and assessments for Bruce, Darlington and Pickering;
• leak detection technologies for steam generators;
• seismic testing of Darlington components;
• outage support for ultrasonic inspection of steam generator tubes at nuclear stations;
• engineering support for nuclear maintenance operations;
• generator stator chemical cleaning at Pickering;
• flow-induced vibration analysis of Bruce B preheater tubes;
• accident/impact/handling analysis of radioactive waste transportation containers;
• emission characterization and consultation on stack sampling methods for Fossil; and
• penstock repairs at High Falls and specialized concrete services at Saunders G.S. for Hydroelectric.

Strategic Research and Development focused on three program areas: Customer Power, including energy efficiency and power quality enhancement; Smart Systems, including advanced system monitoring technologies; and Distributed Generation, such as fuel cells and micro turbines.

Business Development: With its strategic partner, Babcock & Wilcox, OHT launched a new applications company in March 1999 named Integran Technologies Inc. The new company will market an advanced materials technology developed at OHT in collaboration with researchers at the University of Toronto and Queen's University. Applications vary from improved lead acid batteries to wear-resistant materials coatings.

OHT successfully negotiated an exclusive licence agreement with Sumitomo Corporation for the commercialization in Japan of OHT's proprietary technologies for the destruction of PCBs in mineral oil and askarels, as well as for the decontamination of electrical equipment containing PCBs.

Ready for Year 2000

Ontario Hydro's Year 2000 readiness program was always a top priority of the corporation since 1996, when it began. The scope of the program, which continues under the successor companies, includes all necessary remediation of computer-dependent systems, contingency planning and close cooperation with stakeholders and strategic partners. The Y2K team, at times more than 600 professionals, is working with a budget in excess of $100 million on the three-stage program.

Stage One – Operational Sustainability – included the analysis, remediation, testing and Y2K readiness certification of all critical systems. This stage had essentially been completed by year-end 1998. An independent assessment of the program early in 1999 confirmed its basic soundness.

Stage Two – Operational Readiness – tests how the individually certified systems work together. These large-scale integration tests have been successfully conducted at generation sites (Bruce nuclear site, two of four planned fossil generation sites, and at five of seven planned hydroelectric generation sites) as well as at a major representative grid location (a set of transformer stations in the Toronto area). Ontario Hydro and its successor companies have been working with the North American Electricity Reliability Council (NERC) to test interoperability within the continent's Eastern Interconnection, of which Ontario is a component. Also during this stage, which is expected to be completed by mid-1999, Ontario Hydro's successor companies will assess the Y2K readiness of external suppliers, direct customers, municipal electric utilities and independent power producer partners.

Stage Three – Event Readiness. Based on the findings in Stage Two, emergency response and preparedness plans will be developed to ensure safety and reliability across Ontario and to minimize the potential risk from external suppliers and from other external entities. Drills and event simulations will be conducted in cooperation with NERC, and Ontario Hydro's successor companies will work with provincial and municipal agencies to pre-establish responses to unplanned power interruptions. Plans will be put in place to operate the electricity system in a conservative, precautionary posture during the Year 2000 rollover. This stage will be completed by November 1999.

Throughout the entire program, Ontario Hydro shared information with other utilities and participated in cross-industry programs to identify common risks and help find solutions. Moreover, information on Y2K readiness progress is made available to customers and other stakeholders through frequent publications and on the OPG and OHSC websites.

As this overview shows, Ontario Hydro took all possible actions to ensure the reliability of Ontario's power system when the clock ticks over at the end of 1999. As a result of these precautions, which the successor companies are completing, the direct impact of this unique event in human history is expected to be manageable in Ontario.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31, 1999

Ontario Hydro carried on business for the three months ended March 31, 1999, before operations were transferred to one of the successor entities upon the restructuring of the Corporation. During the three months, operations were typical compared to previous years' experiences, and were in accordance with plan. There were no significant, unforeseen events that affected the Corporation's operating results or financial position.

A summary of the financial highlights for the three months ended March 31, 1999, and March 31, 1998, is as follows:

| (millions of dollars) | MARCH 31 1999 | 1998 (unaudited) |
|---|---|---|
| Revenues | 2,594 | 2,484 |
| Costs | 1,463 | 1,250 |
| Financing charges | 687 | 734 |
| Net income | 444 | 500 |
| Cash provided from operations | 806 | 719 |
| Cash used for investing activities | 149 | 228 |
| Cash used for financing activities | 587 | 401 |
| Interest coverage | 1.66 | 1.71 |
| Debt ratio | 1.086 | 1.135 |

Net income for the first three months of 1999 was $444 million, down $56 million from 1998's first quarter. While revenue for the three months ended March 31, 1999, was $110 million higher and financing charges were $47 million lower, these were more than offset by a $213 million increase in costs.

Total revenue of $2,594 million for the first three months of 1999 is $110 million higher than revenue during the first quarter of 1998. Primary power and energy revenue of $2,511 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $86 million higher than the $2,425 million revenue for the first three months of 1998. Energy sales increased in 1999 because warmer than usual weather conditions during the first quarter of 1998 lowered demand during that period.

Secondary power and energy revenue of $21 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $16 million higher than the same period in 1998 because of increased energy sales outside the Province.

Other revenue of $62 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $8 million higher than the $54 million for the first three months of 1998 because of a gain on investments.

Costs of $1,463 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, are $213 million higher than the $1,250 million of costs for the first three months of 1998. The changes are as follows:

- $167 million increase in operation, maintenance & administration (OM&A) costs,
- $44 million increase in fuel used for electric generation,
- $17 million decrease in power purchased, and
- $19 million increase in depreciation and amortization.

OM&A costs are higher by $167 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to the same period in 1998. Significant variances are as follows:

- $50 million for repairs resulting from the 1998 ice storm, which were charged to the provision for future costs, lowered the costs charged to OM&A in 1998 compared to 1999,
- $30 million for increased integrated improvement program work in nuclear operations,
- $15 million preparing the Electricity Production, Merchant Function and Business Services groups to operate in the new business environment beginning April 1, 1999.

Included in OM&A costs for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $37 million attributable to the final closing of Ontario Hydro's financial records, and a $23 million adjustment for obsolete nuclear materials inventory. This is dissimilar to March 31, 1998, because the prior year's first quarter results are on the basis of operations continuing as usual for the remainder of 1998.

The cost of $141 million for fuel used for electric generation during the first three months of 1999 is $44 million higher than the cost for the first three months of 1998, which is consistent with increased fossil generation and higher energy sales. Power purchased costs are $17 million less for the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to the same period last year, because some of the purchases during the first three months of 1999 supported the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP) and the costs were charged to the provision for future costs.

Depreciation costs of $402 million are $19 million higher for the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to the same period in 1998, which is consistent with fixed assets in service being higher as at March 31, 1999.

Financing charges of $687 million decreased $47 million for the first three months of 1999 compared to the same period in 1998, because of lower debt outstanding and lower interest rates on refinancings.

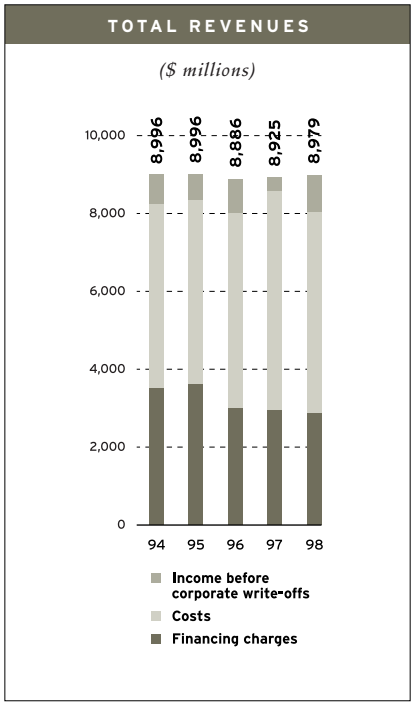
During the three months ended March 31, 1999, there was a $587 million reduction in debt compared to a $401 million reduction in the first quarter of 1998.

$149 million of cash from operations was invested in fixed and other assets during the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to $228 million during the first quarter of 1998. Debt outstanding was reduced to $30,527 million as at March 31, 1999 from $31,221 million as at December 31, 1998.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

Ontario Hydro's net income for 1998 was $1,831 million, compared with a net loss of $6,326 million in 1997. The results for the two years are not comparable due to the following significant items, which affected net income in each year. In 1997, the Board of Directors approved a number of charges and write-offs to current year's operations totaling $6,580 million, while in 1998 there were no write-offs. In 1998, there was a $887 million favourable adjustment to income to recognize the benefit associated with the Corporation having access to pension fund surplus. Access to the pension fund surplus arose as the result of changes included in the Energy Competition Act, 1998, enacted by the Government of Ontario (Government) in October 1998.

Ontario Hydro's 1998 income, before adjustment for the impact of the future employer pension contribution holidays, was $944 million. While this is $690 million higher than the corresponding figure for 1997, again, the results are not completely comparable because, in 1998, costs totaling $1,486 million were charged against a provision established at the end of 1997 for future costs, related principally to the nuclear recovery program, which could not be recovered through existing rates. In 1997, similar expenditures at a lower level were charged to operations.



Total revenues for 1998 were $8,979 million, $54 million higher than in 1997. This is the result of an $88 million increase in primary sales, partially offset by lower secondary sales and other revenues. Operating costs for 1998, excluding financing charges, amounted to $5,159 million, a decrease of $423 million from 1997. This reduction primarily reflects use of the 1997 provision for future costs. Financing charges of $2,876 million were $213 million lower than in 1997 mainly due to lower interest and foreign exchange costs.

Cash provided from operations decreased to $1,488 million in 1998 from $2,026 million in 1997. Proceeds of $5,698 million were received from the issuance of debt for long-term financing in 1998, compared to $2,321 million in 1997. The 1998 proceeds include three Canadian dollar domestic issues, a global market United States dollar bond issue, a global market Canadian dollar bond issue, a Canadian dollar Euro medium-term note issue, a private placement with the Province of Ontario (Province) and the issuance of Canadian dollar short-term notes and United States dollar-denominated commercial paper. In 1998, $5,899 million of cash was used to retire debt issued for long-term financing, compared with $3,257 million in 1997. Cash paid on settlement of swaptions amounted to $142 million in 1998, compared with $292 million in 1997.

Cash invested in fixed assets during 1998 was $823 million, compared with $881 million in 1997. Including changes in non-cash balances related to fixed assets, investment in fixed assets was $865 million in 1998 and $852 million in 1997.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS FOR THE YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

REVENUES

Primary Revenues

Primary revenues for 1998 amounted to $8,524 million, an increase of $88 million over 1997. The increase reflects broadly based growth in demand in the municipal, commercial and industrial sectors. Demand was sufficiently robust to offset the impact of the January ice storm, negative winter weather effects due to El Niño, and strikes affecting two large industrial customers. Municipal sales revenues rose by $145 million or 2.5 per cent over 1997, primarily due to higher sales volumes from air conditioning load in the warmer summer months and an increased level of commercial activity. Sales to retail customers in 1998 fell by $50 million or 3.1 per cent, reflecting milder winter weather and the continuing impact of moving customers to lower rate classes, as well as a reduction in late payment and service charges. Sales to direct industrial customers remained fairly steady at $917 million, compared with $924 million in 1997.

Secondary Revenues

Secondary power and energy revenues, mainly from surplus energy exports to utilities in the United States, amounted to $148 million in 1998, a $25 million or 14.4 per cent decrease from 1997. The lower sales are primarily due to a lack of available generation as a result of the nuclear recovery program, partially offset by very favourable spot market prices during the June to September period due to tight supply conditions in the midwestern portion of the United States, and hotter than normal weather.

Other Revenues

Other revenues of $307 million in 1998 decreased by $9 million from 1997, due mainly to lower heavy water and isotope sales and a decrease in consulting revenues, partially offset by a gain on the sale of surplus land.

COSTS

In 1997, Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to establish a provision for future costs against which certain expenditures, primarily related to the nuclear recovery program, would be charged as incurred from 1998 to 2001. This provision included an allowance for additional fuel costs expected to be incurred by having to place greater reliance upon fossil generation and purchased power, as well as related financing costs. The provision is more fully described in note 7 to the 1998 Consolidated Financial Statements. In 1998, a total of $1,486 million was charged to the provision for future costs. $1,231 million of this was related to the nuclear recovery program and the remainder was related to other costs.

Ontario Hydro's operating costs for 1998, excluding financing charges, totaled $5,159 million, $423 million lower than in 1997. This is primarily the result of the use in 1998 of the provision for future costs established at the end of 1997. Fixed operating costs of $4,662 million, consisting of provincial government levies, depreciation and amortization and financing charges, decreased by $282 million or 5.7 per cent from $4,944 million for 1997, mainly as a result of lower interest and foreign exchange costs.

Operation, Maintenance and Administration

OM&A costs of $2,178 million for the year ended December 31, 1998, decreased by $13 million from 1997. As indicated earlier, this variance results principally from the fact that preliminary costs of the nuclear recovery program in 1997 were charged to operations. In 1998, OM&A costs of $589 million, relating mainly to the nuclear recovery program, were charged to the 1997 provision for future costs.

Fuel Used For Electric Generation

The cost of fuel used for electric generation comprises the costs for coal, uranium, oil and water rental payments other than those made to the Province. The cost of fuel used for electric generation in 1998 was $350 million, a decrease of $347 million or 49.8 per cent from 1997, after charging $690 million in costs related to the replacement of nuclear production by higher-cost fossil production to the 1997 provision for future costs. Overall, internal generation in 1998 of 125,972 million kilowatt-hours was lower than generation in 1997 of 131,005 million kilowatt-hours, due to the nuclear recovery program. The shortfall in generation was compensated for by higher power purchases.

Power Purchased

Electricity purchases in 1998 amounted to $845 million, an increase of $6 million over 1997, after charging $78 million in costs related to the replacement of nuclear production by increased power purchases to the 1997 provision for future costs. The amount of power purchased in 1998 amounted to 16,992 million kilowatt-hours compared to 13,750 million kilowatt-hours in 1997, an increase of 24 per cent. The increase reflects a rise in power purchases from utilities in Canada and the United States as a result of lower internal generation due to the nuclear recovery program, and an increase in contracted generation from independent power producers. Ontario Hydro also buys electricity when it is economical to do so, during periods of peak demand or in emergencies, and to manage acid gas emission levels.

Provincial Government Levies

Provincial government levies totaled $274 million in 1998, a slight reduction from $277 million in 1997.

Ontario Hydro is required to pay to the Province an annual debt guarantee fee equal to one half of one per cent on the total debt guaranteed by the Province outstanding on the preceding December 31. The fee for 1998, based on guaranteed debt outstanding as at December 31, 1997, was relatively unchanged at $155 million compared with $156 million in 1997, as the year-over-year guaranteed debt level remained stable.

Provincial water rental payments, related to

Ontario Hydro's use of provincial waters in the operation of its hydroelectric stations, also remained relatively stable at $119 million in 1998 compared with $121 million in 1997.

In 1998, Ontario Hydro paid approximately $224 million to various government agencies for provincial sales taxes, employment insurance premiums, Canada Pension Plan contributions, employer health tax payments and payments in lieu of realty taxes.

Depreciation and Amortization

Depreciation and amortization charged to operations totaled $1,512 million in 1998, a decrease of $66 million or 4.2 per cent from 1997 mainly due to reversals in 1998 of decommissioning and rehabilitation provisions for certain generating stations. In 1998, depreciation and amortization of $83 million, relating to the nuclear recovery program, was charged to the 1997 provision for future costs.

Financing Charges

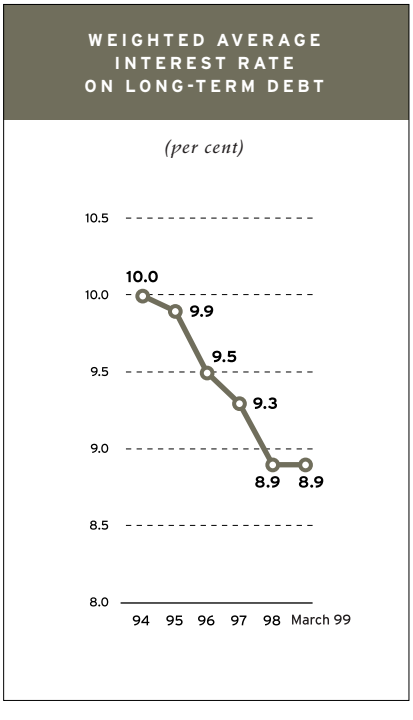
Financing charges comprise interest charged to operations and foreign exchange costs. Interest charged to operations represents gross interest costs reduced by capitalized interest and interest earned on investments.



Foreign exchange costs comprise amounts related primarily to the amortization of exchange gains or losses on the principal amount of foreign debt and foreign exchange risk management activities.

Interest and foreign exchange charged to operations was $2,876 million in 1998, $213 million or 6.9 per cent lower than in 1997, after charging $46 million in interest costs related to the nuclear recovery program to the 1997 provision for future costs. Favourable impacts, due to a net reduction in the average level of long and short-term debt outstanding and a lower net weighted average interest rate on debt and accumulated provisions for fixed asset removal and used nuclear fuel disposal costs, were partially offset by an increase in the level of accrued provisions and a reduction in interest capitalized. Foreign exchange costs for 1998 decreased by $88 million, primarily due to favourable results from foreign exchange risk management activities.

Financial Indicators

The Corporation's financial performance is monitored using two main indicators: interest coverage ratio and debt ratio.

The level of interest coverage measures the extent to which net income enables Ontario Hydro to meet its gross interest payments. An increase in the interest coverage ratio indicates a strengthening in the Corporation's financial condition. The 1998 level of interest coverage was 1.34 based on income before the deferred pension asset adjustment, compared to the 1997 interest coverage level of 1.09 based on income before corporate write-offs.

The debt ratio measures the extent to which Hydro's assets are financed by debt. A reduction in the debt ratio indicates a strengthening in financial position, as a relative increase in equity provides additional financial flexibility. The debt ratio at the end of 1998 was 1.100, compared to the 1997 ratio of 1.153. The improvement is due primarily to net income.

FINANCING AND INVESTING ACTIVITIES

Financing and Capital Markets

Ontario Hydro's cash from operations in 1998 was sufficient to cover capital expenditures for 1998 and to reduce the level of outstanding debt. Gross borrowing was required primarily for refinancing maturing issues and taking advantage of opportunities to minimize interest expense.

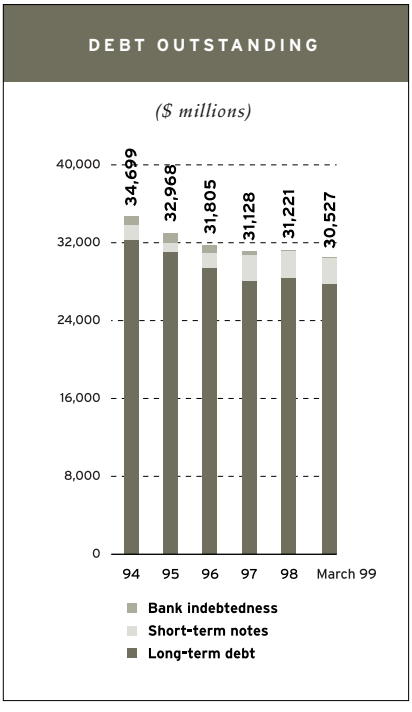
In 1998, on a cash basis, there was a net debt reduction of $343 million, compared to a net debt reduction of $458 million in 1997.



Proceeds of $5,698 million were received from the issuance of debt for long-term financing in 1998, compared to $2,321 million in 1997. The 1998 proceeds include three Canadian dollar domestic issues totaling $675 million; a global market United States dollar bond issue of $750 million (Cdn. $1,092 million); a global market Canadian dollar bond issue of $1,350 million; a Canadian dollar Euro medium-term note issue of $250 million; a $500 million private placement with the Province; and the issuance of Canadian dollar short-term notes and United States dollar-denominated commercial paper.

In 1998, $5,899 million of cash was used to retire debt issued for long-term financing, compared to $3,257 million in 1997. Cash paid on settlement of swaptions amounted to $142 million in 1998, compared to $292 million in 1997.

Investment in Fixed Assets

Ontario Hydro invests in fixed assets to maintain service, reliability, safety and environmental performance and to meet regulatory requirements. The total assets of the Corporation at the end of 1998 were $40,023 million, 88 per cent of which represented fixed assets in service or under construction.

The cash required by Ontario Hydro, to finance its investment in fixed assets, has historically come from two major sources; operations and financing through borrowing. As was the case in 1997, sufficient cash was generated from operations in 1998 to finance investment in fixed assets.

Investment in fixed assets was $865 million in 1998 and $852 million in 1997. Of this total investment, $503 million (1997: $591 million) was spent on generating facilities and $362 million (1997: $261 million) was invested in major transmission and distribution facilities.

Management Report

MANAGEMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY FOR FINANCIAL REPORTING

The accompanying financial statements of Ontario Hydro are the responsibility of management and have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Canada, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. Ontario Hydro chooses accounting principles appropriate to its circumstances. The significant accounting policies followed by Ontario Hydro are described in the Summary of Significant Accounting Policies contained in note 2 to the financial statements. The preparation of financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates based on management's judgement, particularly when transactions affecting the current accounting period cannot be finalized with certainty until future periods. The financial statements have been properly prepared within reasonable limits of materiality and in light of information available up to June 23, 1999.

Management maintained a system of internal controls designed to provide reasonable assurance that the assets were safeguarded and that reliable financial information was available on a timely basis. The system included formal policies and procedures and an organizational structure that provided for appropriate delegation of authority and segregation of responsibilities. An internal audit function independently evaluated the effectiveness of these internal controls on an ongoing basis and reported its findings to management and the Audit Committee of the Ontario Hydro Board of Directors.

The financial statements have been examined by Ernst & Young LLP, independent external auditors appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council of Ontario. The external auditors' responsibility is to express their opinion on whether the financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The Auditors' Report, which appears below, outlines the scope of their examination and their opinion.

For the three months ended March 31, 1999 and year ended December 31, 1998, the Ontario Hydro Board of Directors, through the Audit Committee, was responsible for ensuring that management fulfilled its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal controls. The Audit Committee met periodically with management, the internal auditors and the external auditors to satisfy itself that each group had properly discharged its respective responsibility, and to review the financial statements before recommending approval by the Board of Directors. The external auditors had direct and full access to the Audit Committee, with and without the presence of management, to discuss their audit and their findings as to the integrity of Ontario Hydro's financial reporting and the effectiveness of the system of internal controls.

As at April 1, 1999, the Board of Directors of Ontario Hydro was dissolved and Ontario Hydro continues as the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) with a new Board of Directors appointed pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998.

On behalf of Ontario Hydro Management,

President & Chief Executive Officer, Ontario Hydro, as at March 31, 1999

Chief Financial Officer, Ontario Hydro, as at March 31, 1999

Auditors' Report

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF ONTARIO ELECTRICITY FINANCIAL CORPORATION:

We have audited the consolidated statement of financial position of Ontario Hydro as at March 31, 1999 and December 31, 1998, and the consolidated statements of operations and (deficit) retained earnings, and cash flows for the three months ended March 31, 1999 and year ended December 31, 1998. These financial statements are the responsibility of Ontario Hydro's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Ontario Hydro as at March 31, 1999 and December 31, 1998, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the three months ended March 31, 1999 and year ended December 31, 1998, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Ontario Hydro's accounting policies differ from those followed by enterprises that are not rate-regulated as described in note 2(a) to these financial statements.

* In 1997, Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to establish a provision for future costs against which certain expenditures, primarily related to the nuclear recovery program, would be charged as incurred from 1998 to 2001. This Supplementary Statement isolates the effect upon the 1999 and 1998 results of operations of charging certain costs of the year to the 1997 provision for future costs.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. RESTRUCTURING OF THE ONTARIO ELECTRICITY INDUSTRY AND EVENTS SUBSEQUENT TO MARCH 31, 1999

The North American electrical utility industry has undertaken initiatives to move away from traditional monopolies towards competitive models that are more conducive to customer choice. On October 30, 1998, the Government of Ontario (Government) enacted the Energy Competition Act, 1998 (ECA) to restructure the Ontario electricity industry and introduce competition during the year 2000.

Prior to the restructuring, Ontario Hydro was a vertically integrated, rate-regulated electricity utility. On April 1, 1999, Ontario Hydro was restructured into a number of successor entities, as follows:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG) is a generation company;
- Ontario Hydro Services Company Inc. (OHSC) is a regulated transmission and distribution business, and operates certain energy service businesses in an unregulated business environment;
- Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) is a non-profit corporation, which is the independent system co-ordinator responsible for directing system operations and operating the electricity market;
- Electrical Safety Authority (ESA) is a non-profit corporation, which will carry out electrical inspections previously conducted by Ontario Hydro; and
- Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) is the continued Ontario Hydro entity with the objectives of managing debt, administering assets, liabilities, rights and obligations not transferred to a successor entity, and acting as administrator of the existing pension plan until arrangements are completed to transfer assets and liabilities to the new pension plans of the successor entities.

On April 1, 1999, each successor entity acquired Ontario Hydro's respective business operations in exchange for debt and equity securities equal to the fair values. The fair values were based on the present value of expected future operating results. Ontario Hydro's debt remained with OEFC.

Stranded debt is defined as debt that the successor entities could not service as commercial entities in a competitive market. Stranded debt has been determined, on a preliminary basis, by assigning fair values to OPG, OHSC, and the IMO, and subtracting these values from Ontario Hydro's total debt and liabilities. Using this methodology, the stranded debt is estimated at $21 billion as per the Ministry of Finance announcement of April 1, 1999. The actual stranded debt will be known once a final determination can be made for other items; principally valuing power purchase obligations (note 15).

The government has identified that certain of the OEFC's revenue streams in the new electricity market (e.g. payments-in-lieu of corporate income and capital taxes made by the new restructured companies and local distribution utilities) will be dedicated to service stranded debt.

The Province of Ontario (Province) continues to guarantee all existing Ontario Hydro debt.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in Canada, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. The significant accounting policies followed by Ontario Hydro are described below.

a) Rate setting

Up to March 31, 1999, Ontario Hydro had broad powers to generate, supply and deliver electric power

throughout the Province of Ontario. The Corporation operated under the Power Corporation Act (PCA) and was subject to the provisions of the Ontario Energy Board Act.

Under the provisions of the PCA, the price payable by municipal and other Ontario power customers was the cost of supplying the power. Such cost was defined in the PCA to include the cost of operating and maintaining the power system, the cost of energy conservation programs, depreciation, interest and the annual amounts for statutory debt retirement (SDR) and stabilization of rates and contingencies.

Under the provisions of the Ontario Energy Board Act, a public hearing before the Ontario Energy Board (OEB) was required to review any changes in electricity rates proposed by Ontario Hydro which affect its municipal utilities, direct industrial customers, or, if the Minister of Energy so directed, rural retail customers. The OEB tabled its recommendations with the Minister of Energy, Science and Technology. After considering the recommendations of the OEB, Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors, under the authority of the PCA, established the electricity rates to be charged to customers.

The Board of Directors may have specified for rate-setting purposes that an amount be included in the determination of the operating results of a period which differed from the period in which it would have been recognized under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment. If so, the accounting treatment given the amount was the same as its treatment for rate-setting purposes. This authority of the Board of Directors could have been used in respect of a specific transaction or an accounting policy.

Ontario Hydro's accounting policies relating to the deferral of discounts and premiums arising from the acquisition of debt prior to maturity and foreign exchange gains and losses on United States dollar-denominated short-term financing replacing United States dollar-denominated long-term debt ,which has been redeemed prior to maturity, reflected the rate-setting treatment of these items as specified by the Board of Directors. Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, these amounts would have been included as gains or losses of the current period (see note 2g).

In 1994, the Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to specify that costs of the rehabilitation program for steam generators at Pickering A and B and Bruce A Nuclear Generating Stations be deferred for recovery in future periods. Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment these costs would have been expensed as incurred.

In 1996, the Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to charge the nuclear recovery expenditures planned to be incurred over the period 1997 to 2001 to operations in 1996. In 1997, as a result of the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP), which included the planned nuclear recovery expenditures, the Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to specify that the incremental costs associated with improving nuclear performance, specifically NAOP and other related costs, to be incurred over the period 1998 to 2001, be charged to operations in 1997. This rate-setting treatment was selected to enable Ontario Hydro to meet its SDR requirement over the period 1998 to 2001. As a result of the Board's decision, the related costs were not recovered through rates and represented a loss which was provided for in 1997. Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, these costs would have been expensed as incurred (see note 7).

The Board of Directors also used its rate-setting authority to specify that certain additional future costs be charged to operations in 1997 (see note 7). Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, these costs would have been expensed as incurred.

b) Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the financial statements of Ontario Hydro and its wholly-owned subsidiaries Ontario Hydro International Inc. (OHI Inc.) and Ontario Hydro Interconnected Markets

Inc. (OHIM Inc.). OHI Inc. was incorporated under the Business Corporations Act (Ontario) and was established as a subsidiary of Ontario Hydro in September 1993. OHIM Inc. was incorporated on July 9, 1996, under the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware in the United States. Both OHI Inc. and OHIM Inc. publish separate financial statements.

c) Fixed assets

Fixed assets in service include operating facilities, non-operating reserve facilities, and heavy water contained in nuclear generating stations. Construction in progress includes fixed assets under construction.

Fixed assets are capitalized at cost which comprises material, labour, engineering costs, overheads, depreciation on service equipment, interest applicable to capital construction activities, and for new facilities, the costs of training initial operating staff. In the case of generating facilities, the cost also includes the net cost of commissioning which comprises the cost of start-up less the value attributed to energy produced by generation facilities during their commissioning period. For multi-unit facilities, a proportionate share of the cost of common facilities is placed in service with each major operating unit. The cost of heavy water comprises the direct cost of production plus applicable overheads, as well as interest and depreciation on the heavy water production facilities and the estimated removal costs of these facilities. Leases which transfer the benefits and risks of ownership of assets to Ontario Hydro are capitalized.

|---|---|
| 1999 | 9.2% |
| 1998 | 9.4% |
| 1997 | 9.6% |

If the construction period of a project is extended and the construction activities are continued, interest is capitalized during the period of extension provided that the project has a reasonable expectation of being completed.

If a project is deferred as a result of a management decision and there is a reasonable expectation of completion, interest capitalization ceases and amortization for any loss in value commences.

If a project is cancelled or deferred indefinitely with a low probability of construction being resumed, all costs, including the costs of cancellation, are written off to operations.

If fixed assets are removed from operations and mothballed for future use, mothballing costs are charged to operations. These assets are classified as non-operating reserve facilities.

d) Depreciation

The capital costs of fixed assets in service are depreciated on a straight-line basis. Depreciation rates for the various classes of assets are based on their estimated service lives. Major components of fossil and nuclear generating stations are depreciated over the lesser of the service life expectancy of the major component or the remaining service life of the associated generating station. Hydroelectric generating stations are assumed to have a perpetual life. Major components of hydroelectric generating stations are depreciated over the service life expectancy of the component, ranging from 25 to 100 years. Heavy water in nuclear generating stations is depreciated over the remaining service life of the associated station with the exception of heavy water in Pickering Nuclear Generating Station (NGS) A, which is depreciated to the year 2032, since this heavy water is planned to be used to maintain operating levels in the remaining nuclear plants once Pickering NGS A has completed its useful life. The estimated service lives of assets in the major classes are:

|---|---|
| Generating Stations | |
| fossil | 40 years |
| nuclear | 40 years |
| Transmission and distribution facilities | 10 to 100 years |
| Administration and service facilities | 5 to 50 years |

In accordance with group depreciation practices, the costs of normal fixed asset retirements are charged to accumulated depreciation. However, gains and losses on sales of fixed assets and losses on premature retirements are charged to operations as adjustments to depreciation expense.

When the net costs of removal of fixed assets can be reasonably estimated and are significant, provisions for these costs are charged to depreciation expense on an annuity basis prospectively over the remaining service life of the related fixed assets. Removal costs that are provided for include the estimated costs of decommissioning nuclear and fossil stations and the estimated costs of removing certain nuclear reactor fuel channels. Other removal costs are charged to depreciation expense as incurred.

The estimated service lives of fixed assets and the significant assumptions underlying the estimates of fixed asset removal costs are subject to periodic review. Any changes arising out of such a review are implemented on a remaining service life basis from the year the changes can first be reflected in electricity prices.

Non-operating reserve facilities are amortized so that any estimated loss in value during the non-operating period is charged to depreciation expense on a straight-line basis over their expected non-operating period.

e) Fuel for electric generation

Fuel used for electric generation comprises the average inventory costs of fuel consumed, less the value attributed to energy produced during the commissioning phase of placing a new or refurbished unit (i.e., after replacement of fuel channels or steam generators) in service, plus provisions for disposal of nuclear fuel used during the period. The cost of fuel inventory comprises fuel purchases, transportation and handling costs.

The provision for disposal of used nuclear fuel is charged to operations based on estimated future expenditures and interest accumulating to the estimated date of disposal. Effective January 1, 1998, estimates of disposal costs which do not vary with the amount of fuel to be disposed of ("fixed" disposal costs) are charged to operations on an annuity basis over the estimated service lives of the associated nuclear stations. Estimates of disposal costs which vary with the amount of fuel to be disposed of ("variable" disposal costs) are charged to operations based on the present value of the future estimated disposal costs attributable to the fuel bundles used in that period. Prior to 1998, nuclear fuel provisions were charged to operations based on the present value of the future estimated disposal costs, fixed and variable, attributable to the fuel bundles used in that period. The impact of this change is an increase in costs of approximately $83 million per year plus interest on the increase in accumulated provision.

Estimates of expenditures, interest and escalation rates, and the date of disposal are subject to periodic review. Adjustments resulting from changes in any of these factors are charged to operations on an annuity basis prospectively over the remaining years the nuclear units will be in operation.

f) Foreign currency translation

Current monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated to Canadian currency at year-end rates of exchange and the resulting exchange gains or losses are credited or charged to operations. Long-term debt payable in foreign currencies is translated to Canadian currency at year-end rates of exchange. Resulting unrealized exchange gains or losses are deferred and included in deferred debt costs, and are amortized to operations on an annuity basis over the remaining life of the related debt.

Foreign exchange gains or losses on hedges of long-term debt payable in foreign currencies are deferred and included in deferred debt costs. The deferred gains or losses on hedges are amortized to operations on an annuity basis in the periods the hedges provide benefit.

Foreign exchange gains or losses on early redemption of long-term debt, including subsequent gains and losses on short-term replacement financing, are deferred and included in deferred debt costs if the exposure in the foreign currency related to the redeemed debt is continued by refinancing the redeemed debt in the same currency. These deferred gains or losses are amortized on an annuity basis over the period to the original maturity date of the redeemed debt (see note 2a).

If the foreign currency exposure is reduced as a result of the early redemption of debt, the resulting foreign exchange gains or losses related to the redeemed debt are credited or charged to operations.

g) Deferred debt costs

Deferred debt costs include the unamortized amounts related to unrealized foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of foreign currency long-term debt; deferred foreign exchange gains or losses on hedges; deferred foreign exchange gains or losses on the early redemption of long-term debt; discounts or premiums arising from the issuance of debt or the acquisition of debt prior to maturity; discounts or premiums accrued on foreign currency hedges; and net unamortized premiums on settled, exercised or expired swaption contracts.

Discounts or premiums arising from the issuance of debt are amortized over the period to maturity of the debt on an annuity basis when the term of the debt exceeds one year and on a straight-line basis when the term is one year or less. Discounts or premiums on debt acquired prior to the date of maturity are amortized on an annuity basis over the period from the acquisition date to the original maturity date of the debt (see note 2a). Discounts or premiums on foreign currency hedges are credited or charged to operations on an annuity basis over the terms of the individual hedges. Net unamortized premiums on settled, exercised or expired swaption contracts are amortized on an annuity basis over the period from the settlement, exercise or expiry date to the original maturity date of the related debt.

h) Pension plan

The pension plan is a contributory, defined benefit plan covering all regular employees of Ontario Hydro. Pension costs for accounting purposes are actuarially determined using the projected benefit method prorated on services and based on assumptions that reflect management's best estimate of the effect of future events on the actuarial present value of accrued pension benefits. Pension plan assets are valued using current fair values and pension plan adjustments are amortized on a straight-line basis over the expected average remaining period of service of the employees covered by the Ontario Hydro pension plan (see note 18).

In the last quarter of 1998, Ontario Hydro adopted the new method of accounting for pension costs recently approved by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants (CICA). The effect of this was to change the discount rate used to determine pension costs and obligations from a long-term average rate to a current market settlement rate. This change had no significant impact on the financial statements for the year ended December 31, 1998.

i) Other post-employment benefits

In addition to pension benefits, Ontario Hydro provides group life insurance and health-care benefits to its retired employees and, in certain cases, their surviving spouses and unmarried dependents. As well, Ontario Hydro provides long-term disability benefits to qualifying employees during extended absences from work due to sickness or injury.

Prior to January 1, 1997, the costs of other post-employment benefits (OPEB) were charged to operations

as the benefits were paid. Effective January 1, 1997, Ontario Hydro implemented accrual accounting for OPEB whereby the expected costs of providing those benefits are charged to operations as employees render services. Accordingly, the costs of OPEB are actuarially determined for accounting purposes based on assumptions that reflect management's best estimates of the effect of future events on the actuarial present value of the accrued benefits. The transition obligation arising on conversion to accrual accounting was charged to retained earnings on January 1, 1997 (see note 16). In 1998, the Corporation changed the discount rate used to measure the OPEB obligation from a long-term average rate to a current market settlement rate. The transition amount resulting from this change was charged to the deficit in 1998 (see note 16).

j) Research and development

Research and development (R&D) costs related directly to the design or construction of a specific fixed asset are capitalized as part of the cost of the asset. R&D costs incurred to discharge long-term obligations, and for which specific provision has already been made, are charged to the related provision. All other R&D costs are charged to operations in the year incurred.

k) Applications software and the Year 2000 expenditures

Ontario Hydro capitalizes major applications software acquisition costs when future benefit is reasonably assured. Expenditures incurred to address the Year 2000 Issue are charged to operations as incurred, unless existing assets are replaced with new versions or completely new systems. In this case, the expenditures are capitalized consistent with the accounting for any acquisition project.

3. SECONDARY POWER AND ENERGY

Secondary power and energy revenues include $10 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999 (1998: $111 million, 1997: $158 million) from sales of electricity to United States utilities.

7. CORPORATE WRITE-OFFS

| (millions of dollars) | YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31 1997 |
|---|---|
| Nuclear recovery | 4,595 |
| Other future expenditures | 1,495 |
| Staff reduction and employee relocation costs | 238 |
| Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A | 170 |
| Surplus buildings and equipment and associated business exit costs | 82 |
| | 6,580 |

There were no corporate write-offs during the three months ended March 31, 1999, and year ended December 31, 1998. In 1997, the Board of Directors of Ontario Hydro approved a number of charges and write-offs to operations, totalling $6,580 million, to 1997 operations. Two of these charges were for future costs expected to be incurred over the 1998 to 2001 period, which, under GAAP for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, would be expensed as incurred. Accordingly, these charges required use of the Board's rate-setting authority, to establish a provision for future costs. The first such charge was for additional future costs associated with improving nuclear performance, specifically the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP) and other related costs such as replacement energy and interest. While Ontario Hydro expects to incur additional costs of $4,895 million for the improvement of nuclear performance, the charge to 1997 operations was $4,595 million, before using a $300 million provision made in a previous year for planned nuclear recovery expenditures. The second charge, of $1,495 million, was for additional future costs associated with transmission and distribution assets, nuclear decommissioning and used fuel disposal provisions.

The remaining $490 million in charges to 1997 operations did not require use of the Board's rate-setting authority and related to the following:

• A charge of $238 million to cover the costs associated with a targeted reduction of 850 staff, including those expected to become surplus to Corporate needs before the end of 1998, and costs associated with the large-scale staff relocations required under the NAOP.
• A write-off of $170 million in capital project expenditures associated with the three units of Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A that were laid-up in 1998. Management's assessment was that the related capital projects would have no future benefit due to the lengthy duration of the lay-up.
• A write-off of $82 million associated with certain buildings and equipment identified as surplus due to Hydro's transition towards a more competitive environment and to reflect the wind-up of several small ancillary business ventures.

The following table shows the extent to which the provision for future costs was used in 1998 and the three months ended March 31, 1999.

Nuclear steam generator rehabilitation costs

Ontario Hydro has undertaken a major program to rehabilitate steam generators at the Pickering A and B Nuclear Generating Stations. The costs of the program, which will continue until 2001, are being deferred and amortized over the remaining service lives of the individual generators commencing as each generator is returned to service.

The deferred nuclear steam generator rehabilitation amounts included in fixed assets, construction in progress and accumulated depreciation are detailed as follows:

| (millions of dollars) | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |

The weighted average interest rate represents the effective rate of interest on fixed-rate bonds and notes and the current interest rate in effect at March 31, 1999, for floating-rate bonds and notes, all before considering the effect of derivative financial instruments used to manage interest rate risk. Bonds and notes payable are either held, or guaranteed as to principal and interest, by the Province.

Bonds and notes payable include:

[2] Bonds callable by Ontario Hydro are at fixed prices on dates before their stated maturities, which are over the period 2002 to 2012. These bonds are callable at a weighted average call price equal to 100% of the bond's principal amounts callable on specific dates within the period 1999 to 2005.

As described in note 12, Ontario Hydro has used various derivative financial instruments to hedge the foreign exchange exposure related to long-term debt denominated in foreign currencies and to manage the interest rate risk associated with its outstanding long-term debt.

12. DERIVATIVE FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

FORWARD EXCHANGE CONTRACTS. Ontario Hydro has entered into forward exchange contracts to hedge against the impact of a potential decline in the value of the Canadian dollar in 1999, and to manage the foreign exchange risk associated with its long-term debt. Forward exchange contracts have also been entered into to hedge firm commitments for future purchases and sales denominated in a foreign currency.

CROSS CURRENCY SWAP CONTRACTS. Ontario Hydro has entered into cross currency swap contracts to effectively convert principal and interest payments on selected debt issues into Canadian or United States dollars.

The following table summarizes the currencies in which Ontario Hydro's long-term debt, bank indebtedness and short-term notes are payable, before and after giving effect to Ontario Hydro's foreign exchange risk management activities related to debt:

SWAPTION CONTRACTS. In 1993, Ontario Hydro converted future potential interest savings, related to call options embedded in certain of its bonds to cash by selling offsetting swaption contracts. These contracts permit holders to require Ontario Hydro to enter into interest rate swaps commencing on the call date. If exercised, the swaptions result in Ontario Hydro making payments based on a fixed interest rate equal to the related bonds' coupon rates, and receiving floating rate payments.

United States dollar-denominated swaptions may be cash settled on their exercise dates. Premiums received from the sale of these contracts are being amortized to income, as a reduction of interest expense, over the remaining terms of the related bond issues.

INTEREST RATE SWAP CONTRACTS. As at March 31, 1999, the outstanding receive-fixed interest rate swap contracts have effectively converted fixed interest rates on long-term debt to floating interest rates. These contracts have maturity dates over the period 1999 to 2026 (1998: 1999 to 2026; 1997: 1998 to 2026). The outstanding pay-fixed interest rate swap contracts have effectively converted floating interest rates on outstanding debt into fixed interest rates. These contracts have maturity dates over the period 1999 to 2027 (1998: 1999 to 2027; 1997: 1998 to 2027).

FORWARD RATE AGREEMENTS. Prior to 1999, Ontario Hydro had entered into forward rate agreements to manage its exposure to short-term interest rates.

BOND OPTIONS. Prior to 1999, Ontario Hydro had purchased options to buy long-term government bonds to mitigate the adverse impact of a potential decline in long-term interest rates on its fixed-rate debt.

FORWARD BOND PURCHASES. Prior to 1999, Ontario Hydro had entered into forward purchase contracts for Government of Canada bonds to manage its exposure to short-term interest rates.

The following table summarizes the total amount of long-term debt, short-term notes and bank indebtedness maturing or subject to interest rate resetting within one year and after one year, before and after giving effect to Ontario Hydro's interest rate risk management activities:

1 Period-end and year-end quoted market prices for specific or similar instruments are used to estimate the fair value of each class of financial instrument for which it is practical to estimate that value. For over-the-counter derivative financial instruments, the fair value is determined using pricing models that take into account the current value of the underlying instruments, the time value of money, and mid-market yield curve and volatility factors. The carrying values of cash, temporary investments, accounts receivable, bank indebtedness, short-term notes payable and accounts payable and accrued charges approximate fair value because of the short maturity of those instruments.

Credit risk

Financial assets expose Ontario Hydro to credit risk and concentration of credit risk. As at March 31, 1999, there were no significant concentrations of credit risk with respect to any class of financial assets. Derivative financial instruments expose Ontario Hydro to credit risk, since there is a risk of counter party default. This risk is limited to the cost of replacing contracts in which Ontario Hydro has an unrealized gain.

Credit risk is monitored and minimized by dealing only with a diverse group of highly rated counter parties. In addition, as a means of further reducing its credit exposure on derivative financial instruments, Ontario Hydro enters into master netting agreements with its counter parties to enable it to settle derivative financial assets and liabilities with the counter party on a net basis in the event that the counter party defaults. The existence of these master netting agreements had the effect of reducing Ontario Hydro's current credit risk exposure on derivative financial assets from $437 million to $86 million as at March 31, 1999 (1998: from $374 million to $152 million; 1997: from $349 million to $142 million).

14. ACCRUED FIXED ASSET REMOVAL AND USED NUCLEAR FUEL DISPOSAL COSTS

| (millions of dollars) | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| ACCRUED FIXED ASSET REMOVAL COSTS | | | |
| Accrued decommissioning costs | 1,059 | 1,042 | 962 |

Accrued fixed asset removal costs

Accrued fixed asset removal costs are the costs of decommissioning nuclear and fossil generating stations and heavy water production facilities after the end of their service lives, and the costs of removing certain fuel channels and steam generators, which are expected to be replaced during the life of the nuclear reactors. The significant assumptions used in estimating future fixed asset removal costs are consistent with 1998:

• decommissioning of nuclear generating stations in the 2042 to 2071 period on a deferred dismantlement basis (dismantlement following storage with surveillance for a 30-year period after shutdown of the reactors), and an average transportation distance of 1,000 kilometres from nuclear generating facilities to disposal facilities;

• interest and cost escalation rates through to 2071 ranging from:

| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Interest rates | 6% to 8% | 6% to 8% | 6% to 9% |
| Cost escalation rates | 2% to 4% | 2% to 4% | 2% to 5% |

• removal and replacement of certain fuel channels and steam generators in nuclear generating stations during the following periods :

| | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bruce A Units 3 & 4 | 2001–2008 | 2006–2008 | 2005–2008 |
| Pickering B | 2008–2012 | 2009–2014 | 2013–2017 |
| Bruce B | 2010–2013 | 2011–2017 | 2015–2018 |

• decommissioning of fossil generating stations in the 2006 to 2025 period.

The significant assumptions underlying the estimates of accrued fixed asset removal costs are subject to periodic review. These assumptions, as well as, the existing methods and technology used for decommissioning, fuel channel removal and replacement, and steam generator replacement are subject to change which could result in changes to these costs.

Accrued used nuclear fuel disposal costs

The significant assumptions used in estimating the future used nuclear fuel disposal costs are consistent with 1998:

- an in-service date of the year 2025 for permanent disposal facilities;
- an average transportation distance of 1,000 kilometres from nuclear generating facilities to disposal facilities;
- interest and cost escalation rates through to 2071 ranging from:

| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Interest rates | 6% to 8% | 6% to 8% | 6% to 9% |
| Cost escalation rates | 2% to 4% | 2% to 4% | 2% to 5% |

The significant assumptions underlying the estimates of accrued used nuclear fuel disposal costs are subject to periodic review. These assumptions, as well as the existing methods and technology used for used fuel disposal, are subject to change which could result in changes to these costs.

15. CONTINGENCIES & COMMITMENTS

Uncertainty due to the Year 2000 Issue

The Year 2000 Issue arises because many computerized systems use two digits rather than four to identify a year. Date-sensitive systems may recognize the year 2000 as 1900 or some other date, resulting in errors when information using year 2000 dates is processed. In addition, similar problems may arise in 1999 in some systems which use the digits "99" in a date field to represent something other than a date. The effects of the Year 2000 Issue may be experienced before, on, or after January 1, 2000, and, if not addressed, the impact on operations and financial reporting may range from minor errors to significant systems failure which could affect an entity's ability to conduct normal business operations.

The Corporation is in the process of completing a significant program designed to upgrade or replace affected systems on which it and its customers depend, prior to the year 2000. However, it is not possible to be certain that all aspects of the Year 2000 Issue affecting Ontario Hydro, including those related to the efforts of customers, suppliers, or other third parties, will be fully resolved.

Renewable Energy Technology Program Class Action

In 1997, a class action suit was commenced on behalf of all bidders in the renewable energy technology program based on allegations of misrepresentation and bad faith in requesting bids and carrying on discussions with bidders prior to cancellation of the project. The plaintiffs named Ontario Hydro, as well as, certain individual officers of Ontario Hydro as defendants. The plaintiffs seek declaratory relief and damages in the amount of $250 million for loss of income and profits, loss of opportunity, conversion of trade secrets, and exemplary, aggravated and punitive damages. A motion to certify the class was argued in November 1998 and in December the Court refused to certify the action. Subject to appeal rights, the action may now proceed as a claim by the named plaintiff, and the damages claimed would be reduced substantially. At this time, the outcome of this claim is not determinable, and as such, no provision has been accrued in Ontario Hydro's financial statements with respect to any amounts in dispute. However, Ontario Hydro believes it has no liability, and that the damages claimed are, in any event, excessive.

Municipal electric utilities' lawsuit

On April 24, 1997, three municipal electric utilities (Applicants) issued a notice of application against Ontario Hydro for which they have since received certification as a class proceeding on behalf of all municipal electric utilities in Ontario. No supporting affidavit materials have been served. The Applicants seek declarations that certain rates and pricing options offered by Ontario Hydro to corporations contravene the provisions of the PCA and that these rates and pricing options have improperly increased costs to the municipal electric utilities who purchase their power from Ontario Hydro. They also seek recovery of these increased costs in the amount of $145 million. They further seek a declaration that Ontario Hydro has improperly diverted, from revenues derived from the sale of power to municipal electric utilities, monies, of an indeterminate amount, which should have been used to reduce the cost of power being supplied to these municipal electric utilities. They are also seeking declarations that Ontario Hydro has breached legislative provisions prescribing the operation of the Reserve for Stabilization of Rates and Contingencies and the equity account, and an order requiring Ontario Hydro to replenish the equity account in the amount of $5.0 billion. Ontario Hydro has denied the allegations, and believes that it has valid and meritorious defences against such allegations and will, in due course, file responding materials. At this time, the outcome of these claims is not determinable.

Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A

As a result of the NAOP, Ontario Hydro laid up the three operating units at Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A over the Spring of 1998. Consistent with the phased recovery approach adopted for NAOP, these three units plus Bruce A Unit 2, which was shut down in 1995, are currently planned to be returned to service within the period 2003 to 2009.

In the event that a future decision is made not to return the four Bruce A units to service, a loss would have to be recognized. The current estimate of such a loss is about $1,050 million, which takes into account the undepreciated book value of the generating and heavy water assets, the carrying value of remaining construction in progress amounts, and the impact of recognizing unaccrued net fixed asset removal provisions.

Power Purchase Agreements

Ontario Hydro has committed to the purchase of a portion of its electricity requirements, pursuant to long-term contractual Power Purchase Agreements (PPAs), with various power producers.

The PPAs expire on various dates from 1999 to 2048. Other details are:

| | AS AT MARCH 31 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
| In-service capacity (megawatts) | 1,670 | 1,864 | 1,584 |
| Net present value of purchase obligations over 20 years (millions of dollars) | 6,689 | 6,910 | 6,203 |

Estimated annual payments for purchase obligations range from $755 million to $865 million over the next five years.

Deliveries in the aggregate for the first three months of 1999 account for approximately 8.0% of Ontario Hydro's total electric energy requirements (1998: 7.6%; 1997: 7.2%). The amount of energy received and the total payments made under these agreements are:

| | THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31 | YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31 | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
| Gigawatthours received | 3,043 | 11,108 | 10,366 |
| Power purchases (millions of dollars) | 217 | 680 | 642 |

Ontario Hydro has issued a Request for Expressions of Interest for the financial restructuring of its power purchase contracts with independent power producers in Ontario.

Loan guarantees

Ontario Hydro is contingently liable under guarantees given to third-party lenders who have provided long-term financing to certain independent power producers. These guarantees total approximately $157 million as at March 31, 1999 (1998: $160 million, 1997: $171 million).

Fuel used for electric generation

Ontario Hydro has entered into firm fuel supply agreements, some of which extend beyond 2000. The future obligation as at March 31, 1999, under these agreements for the remainder of 1999 is estimated to be $504 million. Beyond 1999, the estimated amount is $228 million (1998: $639 million).

16. (DEFICIT) RETAINED EARNINGS

On January 1, 1997, the opening retained earnings balance of $2,552 million was reduced by $763 million as a result of charging the transition obligation associated with the change in accounting for other post-employment benefits (see note 2i). The change was introduced as a first step to the early implementation of accounting recommendations from the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants (CICA), effective January 1, 2000. The future OPEB obligation was discounted using a long-term average rate, consistent with the rate used to determine pension costs and obligations.

In 1998, the CICA approved new recommendations on accounting for employees' future benefits. To complete the implementation of the new accounting recommendations, the Corporation changed the discount rate used to measure the OPEB obligation from a long-term average rate to a current market settlement rate. As a result, a transition amount of $460 million was charged to the deficit in 1998.

17. CONSOLIDATED STATEMENT OF CASH FLOWS

The changes in non-cash balances related to operations consisted of the following:

| (millions of dollars) | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Accounts receivable – decrease (increase) | 7 | (9) | (22) |

| Accounts payable and accrued charges – increase | 47 | 68 | 200 |
| Accrued interest – increase (decrease) | 57 | (38) | (47) |
| Long-term accounts payable and accrued charges – increase (decrease) | 24 | 202 | (237) |

18. BENEFIT PLANS

Pension plan

Effective November 7, 1998, certain sections of the Energy Competition Act, 1998, came into force whereby Ontario Hydro and its successor entities were allowed to adopt funding practices that are more consistent with Canadian business practices. The Plan has a substantial surplus. As agreed in the Union negotiation processes,

Ontario Hydro ceased remitting employer contributions effective April 1, 1998. Also, commencing November 7, 1998, the direct costs of investment management and administration of the Plan have been absorbed as a cost of the Plan. Information about Ontario Hydro's pension plan is as follows:

| (millions of dollars) | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pension costs | 7 | 23 | 116 |
| Pension costs charged to operations | 7 | 18 | 93 |
| Pension costs capitalized as part of fixed assets | – | 5 | 23 |
| Pension fund assets at fair market value | 10,853 | 10,816 | 10,173 |
| Accrued pension benefits at actuarial present value | 9,830 | 9,707 | 6,455 |
| Plan surplus for accounting purposes | 1,023 | 1,109 | 3,718 |
| Deferred pension asset | 972 | 979 | 112 |
| Expected return on plan assets | 7.25% | 9% | 9% |
| Rate used to discount future pension benefits | 6% | 6% | 8.25% |
| Salary schedule escalation rate | 3.5% | 3.5% | 3.5% |
| Rate of cost of living increases to pensions | 2.5% | 2.5% | 1.88% |
| Average remaining service life for employee (years) | 12 | 12 | 14 |

The actuarial present value of the accrued pension benefits was based on a projection of the valuation at December 31, 1997. Estimated accrued pension benefits increased dramatically in 1998 as a result of an accounting change. The Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants has recommended that the rate used for discounting future pension benefits should be based on the current market interest rate. Previously, Ontario Hydro used its best estimate as to the long-term average interest rate of corporate bonds for this computation.

The deferred pension asset of $972 million as at March 31, 1999 (1998: $979 million, 1997: $112 million), represents the cumulative difference between funding contributions and pension costs. The $7 million decline to March 31, 1999, is the pension cost charged to operations. The $887 million increase to the deferred pension asset in 1998 results from recognizing the access to the pension fund surplus. Ontario Hydro also recognized a corresponding credit to the 1998 operating statement.

The $51 million difference as at March 31, 1999 (1998: $130 million), between the $1,023 million pension fund surplus and the $972 million deferred pension asset represents experience gains and losses, which will be amortized over the average remaining service period of employees.

The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation was established effective April 1, 1999, to assume transitional responsibility, as an agent for OEFC, for administering the pension benefits and investing pension assets on behalf of the successor entities of Ontario Hydro.

Group life insurance, health care plans, and other post-employment benefits

Ontario Hydro's costs are detailed as follows:

| (millions of dollars) | THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31 1999 | YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Group life insurance premiums basic coverage | 1 | 5 | 4 |

| Post-employment benefits | | | |
| Retiree group life insurance & health-care | 26 | 92 | 71 |
| Long-term disability | 10 | 32 | 17 |

Group life premiums for additional coverage, if requested, are remitted by the employee. In certain cases, retiree group life insurance and health care costs include payments for surviving spouses, as well as unmarried dependents. Long-term disability applies to qualifying employees in extended absence from work due to sickness or injury.

19. RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

Research and development costs are detailed as follows:

| (millions of dollars) | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |

| Capitalized | – | 3 | 2 |
| Charged to accrued provisions | 2 | 7 | 19 |

20. FEDERAL ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW PANEL

On March 13, 1998, a Federal Government Panel issued its report (known as the Seaborn Report) on Atomic Energy of Canada Limited's concept for nuclear waste disposal. On December 3, 1998, the Federal Government responded to the Panel's recommendations, concurring with the Panel's major recommendations that:

- the search for a specific disposal site not proceed at this time because broad public support has not been demonstrated;
- a separately incorporated waste management organization be formed by waste producers to manage used fuel;
- a segregated fund be established; and
- a study of alternatives for long-term disposal be commissioned.

The Federal Government has defined the parameters within which each of these recommendations will be implemented, and has charged Natural Resources Canada with initiating and reporting back on a consultative process with the appropriate stakeholders to develop options to meet the key objectives of :

- establishing a dedicated fund;
- specifying the reporting relationships between the government, the waste management organization and stakeholders; and
- establishing a federal review and approval mechanism to provide oversight and access to funds.

Note 14 outlines Ontario Hydro's estimation of future costs and timing of used nuclear fuel disposals.

21. SEGMENT INFORMATION

Ontario Hydro's reportable electricity segments are generation (Generation); transmission, distribution and other electricity services (Distribution); and all other activities (Other). The reportable segments are strategic business units that produce or deliver the same product to the customer. The production of the product is managed separately from the transmission and distribution of the product. The accounting policies followed by the segments are the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies (see note 2).

Ontario Hydro accounts for intersegment sales and transfers at cost. These segments are confirmed by the Government of Ontario through its passage of the Energy Competition Act, 1998, which establishes five successor entities as described in Note 1.

Corporate Governance Practices

Under the Power Corporation Act (PCA), Ontario Hydro was governed by a Board of Directors consisting of up to 22 members. Included in this membership was the Deputy Minister of Energy, Science and Technology, a Director who did not vote at any meeting of the Board. The Chairman and Directors of the Board were appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, and the President was appointed by the Board. The Board of Directors recommended to the Government of Ontario that it appoint either the Chairman or the President as the Chief Executive Officer. In 1998 and the first quarter of 1999, Ontario Hydro had a 12-member Board. Ten of the Corporation's 12 directors were independent of management. External Board members were provided the opportunity to meet in executive session with the Chairman, and the Chief Executive Officer, during each Board meeting, and to meet in executive session without the Chief Executive Officer and members of management several times during the year and/or as required.

As stipulated in the PCA [Section 4(1)], the Board supervised management who managed the affairs of the Corporation, and it was consequently involved in considering significant issues facing the Corporation. The Chairman of the Board and the Chairs of the Board Committees, in working with management, determined which matters were put before the Board.

The Hydro Board also recognized that it may supervise, direct or oversee the business and affairs of the Corporation, but that it should not manage them, at least not in a day-to-day sense. This kind of management was delegated to the CEO and other senior Hydro officers, who were accountable to, and reported back to, the Board from time to time and who operated within prescribed limits of authority.

The Board of Directors discharged its responsibilities directly and through committees. While there were 12 meetings of the Board of Directors in 1998 – including three site visits of Bruce, Pickering and Darlington nuclear generating facilities – and three Board meetings in the first quarter of 1999, the number of Committee meetings varied. The following is a brief description of the mandate of each Board Committee, its composition, and the number of meetings held in the past year.

AUDIT/FINANCE COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Audit/Finance Committee was to advise the Board and to make recommendations for its consideration with respect to: the review of financial reporting matters, the system of internal accounting and financial controls and procedure, and the audit procedures and audit plans; the nomination, remuneration, function and performance of the external auditors; the form and content of the Corporation's annual financial statements, the annual report and any interim or ad hoc documents required by regulatory authorities; the review, on an annual basis, of the financial plans and objectives of the Corporation; the review of matters relating to the funding and investment of funds of the Corporation's pension plan; an annual review of the risks inherent in the Corporation's business and related risk-management programs; the Corporation's policies with respect to debt management, money market activities and the Corporation's banking resolutions; and the Corporation's policies with respect to debt management, foreign exchange management and corporate financial investments.

As defined in the PCA, the President and CEO was a member of the Committee for that section of the mandate related specifically to financial matters.

In carrying out its responsibilities, the Committee could meet with both the external and internal auditors, without the Chief Executive Officer and members of management present.

The Audit/Finance Committee met nine times during 1998, and three times in the first quarter of 1999.

ENVIRONMENT & PUBLIC POLICY COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Environment and Public Policy Committee was to advise the Board and to make recommendations for its consideration with respect to the Corporation's strategic focus and direction on matters relating to: health and safety; social obligations; relations with Aboriginal peoples; and sustainable development and the environment. Specifically, the Committee ensured that the Corporation's actions reflected the interests of governments, non-governmental organizations, the people of Ontario and the employees of Ontario Hydro.

The Environment and Public Policy Committee met five times during 1998.

HUMAN RESOURCES & CORPORATE GOVERNANCE COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Human Resources & Corporate Governance Committee was to advise the Board and to make recommendations for its consideration with respect to: the strategic prospects and options for the future of Ontario's electric power industry in general, and Ontario Hydro specifically; the review of written objectives of the CEO and the provision of guidance for the development and placement, including promotion, of senior management; the annual review and assessment of the performances of the Chairman and the President & CEO; the annual review of organizational structure matters; the monitoring of the quality of the relationship between management and the Board; and the responsibility for Board governance of the Corporation, including the mandate to review the Board Committee structure and to undertake such other initiatives as required to ensure the Board has exemplary corporate governance.

The Human Resources & Corporate Governance Committee met nine times in 1998, and twice in the first quarter of 1999.

NUCLEAR REVIEW COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Nuclear Review Committee was to advise the Board and make recommendations for its consideration with respect to the safe performance of the Corporation's nuclear operations and its effectiveness in achieving desired results. Specifically, the Committee ensured that Ontario Hydro's nuclear facilities were operated and maintained in a rigorous and vigilant manner to ensure that the radiological risk to workers, the public and the environment is acceptably low, and in keeping with the best practices in the international nuclear community.

The Nuclear Review Committee met 12 times during 1998, and twice in the first quarter of 1999.

Message from the Chair and Chief Executive Officer

We are pleased to present the second Annual Report of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). The report describes the OEFC's objectives and responsibilities, operational highlights and financial results for the year ended March 31, 2001.

As outlined in the Electricity Act, 1998, the OEFC's mandate is to ensure that the outstanding debt and derivatives and certain assets and liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro are managed efficiently and prudently and are ultimately retired. The OEFC is also responsible for the administration of the OEFC Pension Plan until its assets and liabilities can be transferred to pension plans of the other successor entities. The Ontario Financing Authority (OFA), Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (OEPSC) and Ministry of Finance provide the OEFC with the staff and expertise needed for its operations and to fulfill its mandate.

For the year ended March 31, 2001, revenues totalled $3,936 million, while expenses totalled $3,692 million. To meet its 2000-01 financing requirements, the Province raised $2,924 million in long-term debt. Total debt outstanding as of March 31, 2001 was $30.6 billion, down $0.8 billion from the previous fiscal year.

During the year, the OEFC retained a contract manager to manage the non-utility generator (NUGs) contracts. Significant progress was also made in renegotiating the 90 power purchase agreements (PPAs) with the NUGs, with the objective of facilitating their integration into the open market.

In April 2001, the government announced that it is committed to opening the electricity market to competition by May 2002, possibly earlier if the necessary conditions for competition are in place.

We are pleased with the operation of the OEFC and look forward to the challenges of the upcoming year.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

Electricity Industry Financial Structure

The Energy Competition Act, 1998, set out the Government of Ontario's plan to restructure Ontario's electricity industry. The plan called for the restructuring of Ontario Hydro and the elimination of its long-standing monopoly on electricity production with the introduction of competition to Ontario's electricity sector.

A key component of this initiative was to introduce a new financial structure for the electricity sector. This structure was announced on April 1, 1999. At this time, Ontario Hydro ceased operations and its assets and liabilities were transferred to five successor corporations and their subsidiaries.

Two commercial companies, Hydro One Inc. (HOI) and Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), together with their subsidiaries, received the majority of Ontario Hydro's assets and in return issued $17.1 billion of debt to the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC), the legal continuation of Ontario Hydro.

To ensure fairness, reliability and safety in the new electricity market, the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) and the Electrical Safety Authority (ESA) were also established. The IMO issued $0.1 billion of debt to the OEFC in return for Ontario Hydro's central market operator and regulatory assets.

To achieve commercially viable capital structures, HOI and OPG entered into debt-for-equity swaps with the Province of Ontario. In exchange for $3.8 billion of equity in HOI and $5.1 billion of equity in OPG, the Province assumed $8.9 billion of the debt issued to the OEFC by the successor corporations. The Province is the sole shareholder of HOI and OPG.

Role of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC)

As the legal continuation of Ontario Hydro, the OEFC became responsible for ensuring the prudent and efficient management and retirement of $38.1 billion (as of April 1, 1999) in debt and other liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro. The OEFC, an agency of the Province, is a statutory, non-share capital corporation.

The OEFC's Board of Directors is responsible for supervising the OEFC's operations. As the OEFC does not have staff, it retains the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA) and the Ministry of Finance and established the Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (OEPSC) to carry out its daily operations.

The OFA is an agency of the Province of Ontario responsible for provincial borrowing and debt management activities. The OFA manages the OEFC's debt and derivative portfolios, and provides cash management, accounting and other financial services and support to the corporation.

The OEFC relies on a stream of dedicated revenues from the electricity sector to service its outstanding debt obligations. The Ministry of Finance is responsible for the administration and collection of the payments-in-lieu of taxes and the Debt Retirement Charge (DRC), which becomes effective upon market opening, on behalf of the OEFC.

The OEFC is also the administrator of the former Ontario Hydro Pension and Insurance Plan (since renamed the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation Pension Plan). The OEFC will remain as the administrator until the assets and liabilities of the pension plan are transferred to the pension plans of the four successor corporations. The OEPSC acts as the agent of the OEFC in the administration of the pension plan and management of the pension fund during the transition period.

The Electricity Act, 1998 requires the OEFC to enter into an agreement with the four successor corporations providing for the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the successor corporations. The five companies signed an agreement in principle on January 19, 2001. The final agreement was submitted to the Superintendent of Financial Services, on March 29, 2001, and was subsequently approved on June 6, 2001.

Stranded Debt and Residual Stranded Debt

At April 1st 1999, the OEFC assumed approximately $38.1 billion in total liabilities from the former Ontario Hydro. The OEFC received a total of $17.2 billion represented by notes owing to it from the Province, OPG, HOI, and the IMO. The difference of approximately $20.9 billion represents "stranded debt", which is defined under the Act as the amount of debt and other liabilities of the OEFC that cannot reasonably be serviced and retired in a competitive electricity market.

The Electricity Act, 1998 requires that dedicated electricity revenues must be paid by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities (MEUs) to the OEFC to service stranded debt. As of April 1, 1999, the present value of these revenue streams was estimated at $13.1 billion, resulting in an estimated $7.8 billion of residual stranded debt. The Electricity Act, 1998 also provides for a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid to the OEFC to retire residual stranded debt.

The April 1, 1999 Unfunded Liability (the stranded debt from electricity sector restructuring to be recovered from ratepayers) of $19.4 billion of the OEFC is comprised of the liabilities of $38.1 billion (described above) less notes receivable above of $17.2 billion, less other loans receivable of $200 million, less other assets of $1.3 billion.

Debt Repayment Plan

Pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998 and consistent with the principles of electricity sector restructuring, the government has established a long-term plan to retire debt from within the electricity sector. The $38.1 billion in obligations is being repaid from the following sources:

- Notes receivable from the Province, OPG, HOI and IMO;
- Payments-in-lieu (PILs) of corporate income, capital, and property taxes, made by OPG, HOI and municipal electric utilities (MEUs);
- A Debt Retirement Charge (DRC), to be paid by electricity consumers when the market opens to competition; and
- Electricity Sector Dedicated Income. Consistent with the government's commitment to keep electricity income in the electricity sector, the combined net incomes of OPG and HOI in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries is dedicated to the retirement of the OEFC's debt.

The government has committed to opening the electricity market by May 2002, but will work towards the earliest possible date for opening, if all of the necessary conditions are met. These conditions include: consumer protection and choice; a strong business climate with a reliable supply of safe, affordable electricity; environmental protection; and encouraging new ways of doing business and supporting the search for alternative sources of power.

2000-01 In Review

Highlights for the OEFC's second year of operation include:

- Completing long-term public borrowing of almost $3.0 billion;
- Cost-effective management of the debt and derivatives portfolios;
- Retention of an external manager to oversee the day-to-day administration and the sale of power acquired under the power purchase agreements with non-utility generators (NUGs);
- Ensuring the effective administration of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund and finalizing an agreement on the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor corporations to Ontario Hydro.

Financing and Debt

Revenue in 2000-01 totalled $3,936 million, including $1,070 million of interest payments from HOI, OPG, IMO and the Province, $988 million from payments-in-lieu of tax, $408 million in electricity sector dedicated income, $695 million from power sales and $748 million from the revenue pool residual.

Expenses totalled $3,692 million, including $2,671 million in interest on the debt and nuclear funding liability, $146 million of amortization of deferred charges, $695 million for power purchases, $157 million for a debt guarantee fee and $23 million for operating costs.

As the OEFC does not have its own credit rating, the Province, through the OFA, borrows on the OEFC's behalf. In turn, the OEFC issues debt to the Province. To meet its 2000-01 financing requirements, the Province raised $2,924 million in long-term debt, while paying down short-term debt by $876 million and pre-borrowing $400 million for fiscal 2001-02. In 2000-01, the Province raised the majority of the OEFC's long-term financing in the Canadian dollar market.

As of March 31, 2001, total debt outstanding was $30.6 billion, decreasing by $0.8 billion from the previous fiscal year. This decrease is primarily due to principal repayments of notes receivable by HOI and OPG totalling $1,533 million.

With maturing debt and planned redemptions of $4.4 billion, along with a projected cash surplus of $0.8 billion in 2001-02, total financing requirements as of March 31, 2001 are projected at $3.6 billion. Total debt outstanding is projected to decrease to $29.4 billion at March 31, 2002.

The increase in Ontario Power Generation's (OPG) wholesale electricity rates, effective June 1, 2001, will improve OEFC's results in 2001-02 by increasing the OEFC's revenues from the revenue pool residual.

Management of Power Purchase Contracts

In the late 1980s and early 1990s, the former Ontario Hydro entered into approximately 90 long-term power purchase agreements (PPAs) with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. These PPAs, which expire on various dates until the year 2048, provide for the purchase of power at prices that are expected to exceed the market price. As the continuation of Ontario Hydro, the OEFC is now the purchaser under these contracts.

The OEFC purchases about 1700 megawatts (MW) under the PPAs, representing approximately six per cent of the generating capacity available to meet Ontario's energy requirements.

Currently, the power purchased by the OEFC from the NUGs is resold at cost to the revenue pool managed by OPG. After open access, the power will be sold in the market. The net present value of the liability of the above-market costs resulting from the difference between the purchase price and the selling price over the life of the contracts was estimated at $4.3 billion at April 1, 1999.

In 2000-01, the OEFC issued a Request for Proposals (RFP) to retain a contract manager to manage the NUG contracts. Enron Canada Corporation was selected as the successful respondent to the RFP.

The OEFC is currently in the process of negotiating revisions to the PPAs to facilitate the transition to an open market and to replace certain contract provisions that have become obsolete as a result of the electricity restructuring.

OEFC Pension Plan

The OEFC is the administrator of the OEFC Pension Plan (formerly the Ontario Hydro Pension and Insurance Plan), including the pension fund.

The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (OEPSC) was established as a subsidiary of the OEFC to act as the OEFC's agent in the administration and day-to-day operations of the OEFC Pension Plan until the assets and liabilities can be transferred to the pension plans of the other Ontario Hydro successor corporations.

The Electricity Act, 1998 provides for the transfer of assets and liabilities from the OEFC Pension Plan to the successor companies' pension plans in accordance with a transfer agreement to be entered into by the OEFC with the administrators of each successor company pension plan. The OEPSC is responsible for preparing the transfer agreement in accordance with the guidelines set out in the Electricity Act, 1998 and under the supervision of the OEFC's pension committee and in consultation with the successor corporations. On June 6, 2001, the Superintendent of Financial Services consented in writing to the transfer of assets from the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor corporations.

Risk Management

The OEFC has a number of policies in place to address the financial risks to which it is exposed through its borrowing and debt management activities.

Market Risk

The market risk policy provides a framework for the management of foreign exchange and interest rate risks to which the OEFC is exposed through the financing and debt management programs.

Foreign Exchange Exposures: The target for unhedged foreign currency exposure by the end of fiscal 2001-02 is five per cent of outstanding debt. When the OFA became responsible for the management of the OEFC's debt portfolio, total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies was 14.5 per cent. The OFA reduced the OEFC's exposure to 7.1 per cent as of March 31, 2001. The OFA will continue to reduce the level of exposure towards the five per cent target in a prudent manner.

Floating Interest Rate Exposure: The limit on the OEFC's floating interest rate exposure (net of liquid reserves) is 20 per cent of debt outstanding. Actual floating interest rate exposure was 5.7 per cent as of March 31, 2001.

Debt Maturity Profile: When issuing new debt, the OFA, on behalf of the OEFC, will aim for a smooth debt maturity profile to diversify the interest rate risk for the refinancing of maturing and floating rate debt. The maturity profile can be found in Note 8 to the Financial Statements.

Credit Risk

Credit risk is the risk that a counterparty does not meet, or defaults, on its obligations. Credit risk arises when the OEFC undertakes financial and derivatives transactions. The minimum credit rating of a counterparty is A- and R1-mid for money market investments. However, for a new swap transaction the OEFC typically deals with AA- or better credit. The resulting exposure is capped at mark-to-market limits, depending on the counterparty's credit rating.

Risk Management Reporting

At its regular quarterly meetings, the OEFC Board of Directors is kept informed of the OEFC's activities, positions and risk exposures through three types of reports:

- CEO's report;
- Exposure and performance report; and
- Exception report provided by the Director of Risk Control, OFA.

The CEO provides the Board of Directors with a progress report on the implementation of the financing and debt management plan, staffing and other administrative and operational matters. The CEO also reports on the OEFC's compliance with applicable government directives, and OFA Legal Counsel reports on compliance with applicable laws.

The Director of Risk Control, OFA, reports additional details on the OEFC's exposures and performance.

Exception reports are provided to the Board of Directors immediately when required.

OFA Management is kept informed of the OEFC's risk exposures and positions on a daily basis. The OEFC's Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan, which shows how the OFA will ensure that risk exposures and losses remain within the approved exposure and loss limits, is approved by the Board of Directors.

Use of Financial Instruments and Derivatives

New instruments can be used only after approval by the OEFC Board of Directors and if their use is authorized under the OEFC's by-laws, which are approved by the Minister of Finance. All instruments are used only to advance the OEFC's objective of managing the OEFC's debt and its financing and liquidity requirements in a prudent and cost-effective manner.

Derivatives and financial instruments can be used only if the OFA can price and value them and quantify their risks. Furthermore, risks that arise with the use of derivatives are identified, evaluated, reported, monitored and managed prudently.

Corporate Governance and Board of Directors

Appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, the Board of Directors is responsible for supervising the OEFC's operations, which are carried out by the Ontario Financing Authority, Ministry of Finance and Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation on a day-to-day basis. The Board of Directors meets at least quarterly.

The OEFC Audit Committee supports the Board of Directors with the review and recommendation for approval of the OEFC's financial statements. The Audit Committee also recommends the annual internal audit plan and reviews the findings of the internal auditors regarding the adequacy of internal controls.

The OEFC Pension Committee is a committee of the Board of Directors that makes decisions concerning the OEFC Pension Plan and oversees the activities of the OEPSC.

Responsibility for Financial Reporting

The accompanying financial statements of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Canada and are the responsibility of management. The preparation of financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates based on management's judgment, particularly when transactions affecting the current accounting period cannot be finalized with certainty until future periods. The financial statements have been properly prepared within reasonable limits of materiality and in light of information available up to June 1, 2001.

Management maintains a system of internal controls designed to provide reasonable assurance that the assets are safeguarded and that reliable financial information is available on a timely basis. The system includes formal policies and procedures and an organizational structure that provides for appropriate delegation of authority and segregation of responsibilities. An internal audit function independently evaluates the effectiveness of these internal controls on an ongoing basis and reports its findings to management and the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors, through the Audit Committee, is responsible for ensuring that management fulfills its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal controls. The Audit Committee meets periodically with management, the internal auditors and the external auditor to deal with issues raised by them and to review the financial statements before recommending approval by the Board of Directors.

The financial statements have been audited by the Provincial Auditor. The Provincial Auditor's responsibility is to express an opinion on whether the financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The Auditor's Report, which appears on the following page, outlines the scope of the Auditor's examination and his opinion.

Auditor's Report

To the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation
and to the Minister of Finance

I have audited the consolidated balance sheet of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation as at March 31, 2001 and the consolidated statements of revenue, expense and unfunded liability and of cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Corporation's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation as at March 31, 2001 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended, in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Restructuring of the Ontario Electricity Industry

Effective April 1, 1999, pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998, Ontario Hydro was continued as a corporation without share capital under the name Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). OEFC is a corporation established under the laws of Ontario. It is exempt from federal and provincial income taxes under paragraph 149(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act of Canada. OEFC is a Crown agency created to manage the debt and administer the assets, liabilities, rights and obligations of Ontario Hydro not transferred to other successor entities. These other successor entities include:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), an electricity generation company;
- Hydro One Inc. (HOI), a regulated electricity transmission and distribution business that operates certain energy service businesses in an unregulated, competitive environment;
- Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO), the regulated centralized independent system co-ordinator responsible for directing system operations and operating the electricity market; and
- Electrical Safety Authority (ESA), which performs a regulatory function related to electrical inspections.

On April 1, 1999, the respective business units, including assets, liabilities, employees, rights and obligations of the former Ontario Hydro were transferred to OPG and HOI (and their subsidiaries) and the IMO for $8.5 billion, $8.6 billion and $78 million respectively in exchange for debt payable to OEFC. On the same day, the Province exchanged equity of $5,126 million and $3,759 million in OPG and HOI respectively for debt payable to OEFC.

OEFC debt, liabilities and associated financing costs will be repaid from interest on notes receivable from the Province and successor entities, and, as provided under the Energy Competition Act, 1998, from dedicated electricity revenues in the form of payments-in-lieu (PILs) of corporate income, capital and property taxes made by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities. Any residual debt will be serviced through a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid by electricity consumers after open access. Until open access, OEFC will continue to be a party to a revenue-allocation agreement among successor entities and is entitled to the forecast residual amount in the revenue pool after allocations to OPG, HOI and the IMO are paid.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Accounting

These financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) as recommended in the Handbook of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Measurement Uncertainty

Uncertainty in the determination of the amount at which an item is recognized in the financial statements is known as measurement uncertainty. Such uncertainty exists when it is reasonably possible that there could be a material variance between the recognized amount and another reasonably possible amount, as there is whenever estimates are used. Measurement uncertainty in these financial statements exists in the estimated liability for power purchase agreements (see Note 9 for additional details). In addition, the amount of the nuclear funding liability is dependent on an agreement currently under negotiation between the Province and OPG. Estimates are based on the best information available at the time of preparation of the financial statements and will be adjusted annually to reflect new information as it becomes available.

Consolidation

These financial statements include the accounts of OEFC's wholly owned subsidiary, Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (see Note 3).

Deferred Debt Costs

Deferred debt costs includes the unamortized amounts related to unrealized foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of long-term debt issued in foreign currencies and discounts or premiums arising from the issuance of debt or the acquisition of debt prior to maturity.

Revenue Recognition

Revenues are recognized in the period in which they are earned. Amounts received prior to being earned are reflected as deferred revenues.

Foreign Currency Translation

Debt is composed of short-, medium- and long-term bonds, notes and debentures. Debt denominated in foreign currencies that has been hedged is recorded at the Canadian dollar equivalent using the rates of exchange established by the terms of the hedge agreements. Other foreign currency debt, liabilities and assets are translated to Canadian dollars at period-end rates of exchange and any exchange gains or losses are deferred and amortized over the remaining term to maturity.

3. Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation

OEFC is the administrator of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation Pension Plan and Fund. It is responsible for negotiating an agreement with each of the successor corporations for the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC pension plan to the pension plans of the successor corporations. The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation, (OEPSC), a wholly owned subsidiary of OEFC, acts as agent for OEFC to carry out the required administrative, investment and other responsibilities of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund. Costs associated with the administration of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund amounting to approximately $17 million in calendar 2000 (calendar 1999 - $17 million) are charged to and payable by the pension fund.

OEPSC has made application to the Superintendent of Financial Services for Ontario for approval to transfer all of the assets of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor operating entities. The Superintendent agreed to the transfer on June 6, 2001.

4. Economic Dependence

OEFC does not have its own credit rating and is, therefore, dependent on the Province to borrow and on-lend the funds required to refinance maturing debt and to cover any cash shortfalls in the Corporation. It is also dependent on the long-term plan to defease the unfunded liability described in Note 11. Based on the Province's support in refinancing maturing debt and the long-term plan, OEFC is considered a going concern.

5. Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents includes cash on deposit and highly liquid investments with maturities of less than three months. They are recorded at cost, which approximates current market value.

6. Electricity Sector Dedicated Income

The Province has committed to dedicate the combined net income of OPG and HOI in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries to OEFC. In the year ended March 31, 2001, OPG and HOI earned an aggregate amount of $928 million ($903 million for 2000) i.e., $408 million ($383 million for 2000) in excess of the Province's $520 million interest cost of the equity investments in those companies. The $408 million amount has been reflected as income in OEFC and as an increase in the receivable from the Province.

7. Notes and Loans Receivable

| | Interest rate | Interest payable | March 31, 2001 | Maturity date | March 31, 2000 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Province of Ontario | 5.85 | Monthly | $ 8,885 | 2039 - 2041 | $ 8,885 |
| OPG | 5.3 to 6.65 | Semi-annually | 3,300 | 2002 - 2011 | 3,400 |
| HOI | 5.4 to 14.3 | Semi-annually | 3,412 | 2001 - 2007 | 4,845 |
| IMO | 7.90 | Semi-annually | 78 | 2009 | 78 |
| | | | 15,675 | | 17,208 |
| Less: current portion of notes receivable | | | 640 | | 1,533 |
| | | | 15,035 | | 15,675 |
| Loans receivable from non-utility generators (NUGs) (See Note 9) | | | 244 | | 219 |
| | | | $ 15,279 | | $ 15,894 |

8. Debt

Debt at March 31, 2001 is set out below by maturity and by original currency of issue.

| ($ millions) Currency | Canadian Dollar | U.S. Dollar | Japanese Yen | 2001 Total | 2000 Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Maturing before: | | | | | |

| March 31, 2005 | 2,700 | — | — | 2,700 | 2,000 |
| March 31, 2006 | 1,000 | — | — | 1,000 | — |
| 1-5 years | 12,199 | 1,141 | 65 | 13,405 | 15,041 |
| 6-10 years | 7,124 | 1,530 | — | 8,654 | 6,787 |
| 11-15 years | 648 | 1,183 | — | 1,831 | 2,876 |
| 16-20 years | 1,078 | — | — | 1,078 | 500 |
| 21-25 years | 3,558 | — | — | 3,558 | 3,133 |
| 26-50 years | 2,040 | — | — | 2,040 | 3,001 |
| Total | $ 26,647 | $ 3,854 | $ 65 | $ 30,566 | $ 31,338 |

The effective rate of interest on the debt portfolio is 7.85% before considering the effect of derivative instruments used to manage interest rate risk. As at March 31, 2001, $2.2 billion of the $3.9 billion foreign debt is hedged. Bonds and notes payable are either held, or guaranteed as to principal and interest, by the Province as set out below:

| | March 31, 2001 | | | March 31, 2000 | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| ($ millions) | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total |
| Short-term debt | 2,570 | — | 2,570 | 3,446 | — | 3,446 |
| Current portion of long-term debt | 569 | 2,205 | 2,774 | 500 | 1,726 | 2,226 |
| Long-term debt | 8,056 | 17,166 | 25,222 | 5,701 | 19,965 | 25,666 |
| Total | $ 11,195 | $ 19,371 | $ 30,566 | $ 9,647 | $ 21,691 | $ 31,338 |

Fair value of debt issued approximates amounts at which debt instruments could be exchanged in a current transaction between willing parties. In valuing the OEFC's debt, fair value is estimated using discounted cash flows and other valuation techniques and is compared to public market quotations where available. These estimates are affected by the assumptions made concerning discount rates and the amount and timing of future cash flows.

The estimated fair value of OEFC debt at March 31, 2001 is $34.4 billion (March 31, 2000 - $35.4 billion). This is higher than the book value of $30.6 billion (March 31, 2000 - $31.3 billion) because current interest rates are generally lower than the interest rates at which the debt was issued and because of exchange rate movements. The fair value of debt does not reflect the effect of related derivative contracts.

9. Long-Term Liabilities

Power purchase contracts and related loan agreements were entered into by Ontario Hydro with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. These contracts, expiring on various dates to 2048, provide for the purchase of power at prices that are expected to be in excess of the market price. This liability has been valued at $4,286 million on a discounted cash-flow basis. As the continued Ontario Hydro, OEFC is the counterparty to these contracts. Currently, the power purchased from NUGs is resold at cost to the power grid managed by OPG. However, after open access, this power will be sold at market prices that may be greater or less than cost.

During the year, OEFC purchased power in the amount of $695 million (March 31, 2000 - $741 million) and sold this power to the power grid for the same amount. HOI manages the NUG power purchase contracts and the related loans on behalf of OEFC for an annual fee of $3 million (March 31, 2000 - $3 million), partially offset by a recovery of $2 million (March 31, 2000 - Nil) of transmission expansion costs originally paid by Ontario Hydro, which net cost is included in operating expense. Loans to NUGs increased during the year by $25 million to $244 million at March 31, 2001 (March 31, 2000 - $219 million), primarily due to interest revenue during the year which has been added to the principal balance.

Nuclear funding liability - OEFC as the continued Ontario Hydro received a liability in the amount of $2,378 million representing nuclear waste management and asset removal liabilities that were incurred prior to April 1, 1999. Interest has been accrued at an estimated 5.75 per cent and is included in the total value of $2,659 million as at March 31, 2001 (March 31, 2000 - $2,515 million). The interest rate is still under negotiation with the Province and is subject to change. The impact of the finalization of the interest rate for the fiscal year is not expected to result in a material difference to the liability balance.

10. Revenue Pool Residual

As explained in Note 1, OEFC is the beneficial owner of the forecast residual of the revenue pool, managed by OPG, which collects revenues from electricity consumers and allocates revenues to OPG, Hydro One and the IMO. The forecast residual of the revenue pool is cyclical in nature due to seasonal variations in pricing. As a result, the residual, while positive in the first and fourth quarters of the calendar year, is negative in the second and third quarters.

It was agreed by OEFC and OPG that OEFC would receive an average payment per month which would eliminate the seasonal variation in the pool residual and ensure that OEFC would never need to borrow cash to make up the shortfall. In the accounts, this revenue stream was recorded as received, adjusted for the one month accrual at each year-end.

These interim arrangements were to remain in effect until open access at which time the revenue pool would cease to operate and the Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) would be collected direct from electricity consumers. Open access was originally announced for November 2000 and OEFC's forecast residual for calendar 2000 was calculated over the ten months ended October in anticipation of the November opening. Once open access was delayed past November, it became apparent that the term over which the average should be calculated was unknown. Consequently, beginning in November 2000, OEFC began to receive the forecast residual as earned each month and reflected this stream as revenue in the accounts. The revenue in OEFC in fiscal 2000-01 has benefitted by including both the increased revenue over the summer of 2000 and the real earnings in the pool over the winter of 2000-01.

11. Unfunded Liability

In the previous year, PILs revenue was recognized on a cash basis and reflected only cash received during the year. For fiscal 2000-01, OEFC has changed its accounting policy to recognize PILs revenue on an accrual basis. The change was made to conform with accounting policies of the Province. Therefore, PILs earned during the year will now include deferred taxes, regardless of when those taxes will be paid.

The previously unrecognized $200 million accrual of PILs revenue has been added to the balance of the opening unfunded liability. In addition, the opening unfunded liability has also been adjusted to account for working capital adjustments in successor companies in the amount of $247 million. The effect of these adjustments is as follows:

|---|---|
| Unfunded Liability, March 31, 2000 | $ 19,987 |
| Adjustments during the year: | |
| Accrual for PILs revenue | (200) |
| Working capital for OPG and HOI | 247 |
| Balance after adjustments | $ 20,034 |

The opening unfunded liability of $19.4 billion at April 1, 1999 was composed of $38.1 billion in liabilities assumed from old Ontario Hydro less the value of assets transferred to OEFC at April 1, 1999 including $17.2 billion in notes receivable and $1.5 billion in loans receivable and other assets. Pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998 and consistent with the principles of electricity restructuring, the government has a long-term plan in place to retire OEFC liabilities, from within the electricity industry. The Plan includes cash flows from the following sources as at April 1, 1999:

Notes receivable from the Province of $8.9 billion, OPG of $3.4 billion, HOI of $4.8 billion and IMO for $0.1 billion for a total of $17.2 billion as a result of the transfer of assets to successor companies,

Payments-in-lieu of corporate income, property and capital taxes made by OPG, HOI and municipal electric utilities.

A Debt Retirement Charge to be paid by ratepayers based on the consumption of electricity, and

Electricity Sector Dedicated Income - Consistent with the Government's commitment to keep electricity income in the electricity sector, the combined net income of OPG and HOI in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries will be set aside for the retirement of OEFC's debt.

The long-term plan supports estimates that OEFC's obligations will be defeased in the years ranging from 2010 to 2017.

12. Risk Management and Derivative Financial Instruments

OEFC employs prudent risk management strategies and operates within strict risk exposure limits to ensure exposure to risk is well managed. A variety of strategies are used, including the use of derivative financial instruments ("derivatives").

Derivatives are financial contracts, the value of which is derived from underlying assets. OEFC uses derivatives for the purpose of hedging and to minimize interest costs. Hedges are created primarily through swaps, which are legal arrangements under which OEFC agrees with another party to exchange cash flows based upon one or more notional amounts during a specified period. This allows OEFC to offset its existing obligations and thereby effectively convert them into obligations with more desirable characteristics. Other derivative instruments used by OEFC include forward foreign exchange contracts, forward rate agreements, futures and options.

Foreign exchange or currency risk is the risk of debt servicing costs and principal payments varying due to fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. To minimize currency risk, OEFC uses derivative contracts to convert foreign currency cash flows into Canadian dollar denominated cash flows. The current policy allows unhedged foreign currency cash flows to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At year end, 7.1 per cent of this debt was unhedged, with most of the currency exposure to US dollars.

Interest rate risk is the risk of debt servicing costs varying due to changes in interest rates. OEFC reduces its exposure to rate changes by entering into derivative contracts that convert floating interest payments to fixed interest payments. The current policy allows unhedged floating rate debt, net of liquid reserves, to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At year end, OEFC's floating rate debt as a percentage of total debt was 5.7 per cent.

The table below presents a maturity schedule of OEFC's derivatives, by type, outstanding at March 31, 2001, based on the notional amounts of the contracts. Notional amounts represent the volume of outstanding derivative contracts and are not indicative of credit or market risk. Notional amounts are not representative of actual cash flows.

Entering into derivatives contracts results in credit risk, which is the risk of a counterparty defaulting on contractual derivative obligations in which OEFC has an unrealized gain. The table below presents the credit risk associated with the derivative financial instrument portfolio, measured through the replacement value of derivative contracts, at March 31, 2001.

| Credit Risk Exposure ($ millions) | March 31, 2001 | March 31, 2000 |
|---|---|---|
| Gross credit risk exposure | 5,437 | 4,850 |
| Less: Netting agreements | (5,519) | (5,019) |
| Net credit risk exposure | $ (82) | $ (169) |

Note:

Contracts do not have coterminous settlement dates. Netting agreements use generally accepted forms and terms developed by the International Swaps and Derivatives Association (ISDA). Based on ISDA definitions, total exposure to counterparties with positive exposure was $210 million (meaning that counterparties owed OEFC) and total exposure to counterparties with negative exposure was $292 million (meaning that OEFC owed counterparties) for a total net credit exposure to ($82) million on March 31, 2001.

OEFC manages its credit risk exposure through daily monitoring compliance with credit limits and by dealing with counterparties with good credit ratings of A- or higher. Counterparties for money market and other short-term transactions must have at least an R1-mid rating by Dominion Bond Rating Service or an A-1 or P-1 rating by Standard and Poor's or Moody's respectively.

OEFC also limits its credit risk exposure on derivatives by entering into contractual netting agreements with virtually all of its counterparties, which enables it to settle derivative contracts on a net basis in the event of a counterparty default. The gross credit risk exposure represents the amount of loss that OEFC would suffer if every counterparty to which OEFC was exposed were to default at the same time and no netting of negative exposures was allowed. The net credit risk exposure includes the mitigating impact of these netting agreements.

13. Guarantees

Subject to a $10 million and $20 million deductible respectively, OEFC has agreed to indemnify HOI and OPG in respect of any adverse claim to title to any asset, right or thing transferred or intended to be transferred to the companies at April 1, 1999, any failure of the transfer order to transfer such assets, rights or things and with respect to payment to or from or other dealing with any equity account of Ontario Hydro, including certain related litigation. The Province of Ontario has guaranteed any liability arising from these indemnifications.

OEFC is contingently liable under guarantees given to third parties that have provided long-term financing to certain independent power producers in connection with the power purchase agreements described in Note 9. These guarantees total approximately $135 million at March 31, 2001 (March 31, 2000 - $146 million).

Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation

Corporate Overview

Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC), an agency of the Province of Ontario, is a statutory, non-share capital corporation and the legal continuation of Ontario Hydro.

OEFC retains services from the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA) and the Ministry of Finance to carry out its daily operations. The OFA is the agency of the Province of Ontario responsible for provincial borrowing and debt management activities. The OFA manages OEFC's debt, derivatives and non-utility generator (NUG) portfolios, and provides cash management, accounting and other financial services and support to the corporation. The Ministry of Finance manages the collection and reporting of payments-in-lieu of tax on behalf of OEFC.

OEFC's Board of Directors is responsible for supervising OEFC's operations, which are as follows:

- Manage the outstanding debt and derivatives portfolios, financial risks and other liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro;
- Manage the long-term power purchase agreements and provide the associated risk management infrastructure;
- Manage the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF);
- Receive payments and administer assets, liabilities, rights and obligations of the Corporation that have not been transferred to other Ontario Hydro successor corporations, and dispose of these as it deems appropriate or as directed by the Minister of Finance; and

Message from the Chair

I am pleased to present the 2003 Annual Report of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). The report describes OEFC's objectives and responsibilities, operational highlights and financial results for the year ended March 31, 2003.

As outlined in the Electricity Act, 1998, OEFC's primary objective is to ensure that the outstanding debt and derivatives portfolios and certain other liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro are managed efficiently and prudently and are ultimately retired.

For the year ended March 31, 2003, revenues totalled $3,797 million, while expenses totalled $3,895 million, resulting in a deficiency of revenue over expense of $98 million, compared to the prior year's deficiency of revenue over expense of $69 million. In 2002-03, the Province completed OEFC's borrowing requirements, including long-term debt maturities of $2,775 million, through $2,084 million raised from the sale of Hydro One notes held since April 1, 1999 and the issuance of $967 million in long-term debt.

During the year, OEFC achieved its objectives of cost-effective borrowing and debt management and prudent risk management, negotiated revisions to non-utility generator (NUG) contracts to facilitate their integration into the competitive electricity market, and continued to develop the necessary infrastructure to manage the NUG contracts and related exposures in a competitive market in a cost-effective and prudent manner.

On December 9, 2002, the Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002 was passed to freeze the price that low volume and designated consumers pay for electricity at 4.3 cents per kilowatt-hour until at least 2006. OEFC is responsible for managing the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF) established as a result of the Act.

OEFC will continue to monitor new developments in the electricity industry that will affect the operating results of the corporation in the 2003-04 fiscal year.

Bob Christie
Chair

Management's Discussion and Analysis

OEFC accomplished its key objectives for 2002-03:

- Achieved cost-effective borrowing and debt management and prudent risk management;
- Negotiated revisions to certain contracts with non-utility generators (NUG contracts) to facilitate their integration into the competitive electricity market;
- Continued to develop the necessary infrastructure to manage the NUG contracts and related exposures in a competitive market in a cost-effective and prudent manner; and
- Managed the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF) created under the Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002.

2002-03 Highlights

- Sold $1.9 billion of the Hydro One notes held since April 1, 1999, resulting in a gain of $206 million for OEFC. This sale represented the largest-ever corporate debt trade in the Canadian domestic debt market.
- Reduced total debt outstanding by $2.5 billion to $26.8 billion from $29.4 billion as at March 31, 2002.
- Lowered total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies to 6.3 per cent of outstanding debt from 7.5 per cent and down from 14.5 per cent at the time of OEFC's establishment in 1999.

Overview of Financial Results

For the year ended March 31, 2003, revenues totalled $3,797 million, while expenses totalled $3,895 million, resulting in a deficiency of revenue over expense of $98 million, compared to the prior year's deficiency of revenue over expense of $69 million.

Revenues

OEFC's total revenues for 2002-03 were $3,797 million, an increase of $253 million from 2002. OEFC's revenues consisted of the Debt Retirement Charge and revenue pool residual up to market opening; payments-in-lieu of tax; interest income from the Province, OPG, Hydro One, and IMO; power sales; a net reduction of power purchase contracts; a gain on the sale of Hydro One notes; and electricity sector dedicated income.

The Debt Retirement Charge, which replaced the revenue pool residual when Ontario's electricity market opened to competition on May 1, 2002, amounted to $889 million over 11 months in 2002-03.

In the year ended March 31, 2003, OPG and Hydro One earned an aggregate amount of $717 million. After taking into account the Province's financing cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries of $520 million, OEFC recorded $197 million in electricity sector dedicated income. In 2001-02, the aggregate earnings of the subsidiaries did not exceed the Province's financing cost.

In February 2003, OPG reached an agreement with OEFC to defer payment on $700 million principal amount of senior notes owing to OEFC by extending the maturity dates by two years. The interest rates on these notes remain unchanged.

Expenses

OEFC's total expenses for 2002-03 were $3,895 million, an increase of $282 million from 2002. OEFC's expenses consist of interest on its debt and nuclear funding liability, amortization of deferred charges, expenditures in the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF), power purchases, a debt guarantee fee and operating costs.

Borrowing Program

In 2002-03, the Province completed OEFC's borrowing requirements, including long-term debt maturities of $2,775 million, through $2,084 million raised from the sale of Hydro One notes held since April 1, 1999, and the issuance of $967 million in long-term debt.

Long-term borrowing was completed through two Province of Ontario U.S. dollar global issues and two domestic issues that were on-lent to OEFC:

- C$425 million (Canadian dollar equivalent) raised through a portion of a US$750 million U.S. dollar global issue maturing in December 2005;
- C$447 million (Canadian dollar equivalent) raised from a US$300 million U.S. dollar global issue maturing in March 2008; and
- C$95 million raised from two non-public debentures maturing in January and June 2022.

Debt Management

The repayment of OEFC obligations remains a priority and is an integral part of Ontario's electricity sector restructuring objectives. Pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998, a long-term plan was established to retire debt from within the electricity sector. The long-term debt repayment plan supports a current estimate that OEFC's obligations will likely be defeased in 2012.

Debt Repayment Plan

OEFC's obligations are being repaid from the following revenue sources:

Notes Receivable

OEFC receives principal and interest payments from the Province, Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), Hydro One and the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) arising from the restructuring of the electricity sector.

Payments-in-Lieu of Tax (PILs)

OEFC receives payments-in-lieu of corporate income, capital and property taxes made by OPG, Hydro One and municipal electric utilities (MEUs).

Debt Retirement Charge (DRC)

The DRC was introduced on May 1, 2002, the date the electricity market opened to competition, and is paid by electricity consumers. The DRC is administered by the Ministry of Finance on behalf of OEFC and will end once the residual stranded debt is retired. Prior to May 1, 2002, OEFC received the residual of the revenue pool. This pool, managed by OPG, collected revenues from electricity consumers and allocated revenues to OPG, Hydro One and IMO, with the residual going to OEFC.

Electricity Sector Dedicated Income

The combined net incomes of OPG and Hydro One in excess of the Province's interest cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries are dedicated to the retirement of OEFC's debt.

Stranded Debt and Residual Stranded Debt

OEFC assumed approximately $38.1 billion in total debt and other liabilities from the former Ontario Hydro upon the restructuring of Ontario's electricity sector on April 1, 1999. As part of the restructuring, OEFC received a total of $17.2 billion in notes owing from the Province, OPG, Hydro One and the IMO. The difference of approximately $20.9 billion represented "stranded debt," which is defined under the Electricity Act, 1998 as the amount of debt and other liabilities of OEFC that cannot reasonably be serviced and retired by commercial companies in a competitive electricity market.

The Electricity Act, 1998 requires that payments-in-lieu of taxes must be paid by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities (MEUs) to OEFC to service stranded debt. As at April 1, 1999, the present value of these dedicated revenues and Electricity Sector Dedicated Income was estimated at $13.1 billion, resulting in an estimated $7.8 billion of residual stranded debt. The Electricity Act, 1998 provided for a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid by consumers until the residual stranded debt is retired.

The April 1, 1999 Unfunded Liability (the stranded debt from electricity sector restructuring to be recovered from ratepayers) of $19.4 billion of OEFC was composed of the $38.1 billion (described above) less notes receivable of $17.2 billion, less loans receivable and other assets of $1.5 billion.

Unfunded Liability as of March 31, 2003 was $20.2 billion.

Debt and Liabilities

OEFC's total debt outstanding declined by $2.5 billion to $26.8 billion as of March 31, 2003. OEFC has reduced total debt outstanding by over $4.5 billion from its peak on March 31, 2000.

OEFC's total debt and liabilities are $34.7 billion as of March 31, 2003, down from $37.6 billion as of March 31, 2002.

On March 5, 2003, with the prior approval of Hydro One, OEFC completed the sale of $1,878 million (face value) of Hydro One notes. OEFC realized a gain of $206 million on the sale, as interest rates payable on the notes were above market interest rates, which allowed the Province to reduce OEFC's total debt. The notes had maturities ranging from January 2004 to August 2007 and coupons ranging between 5.375 per cent to 14.25 per cent. In order to facilitate the sale of these notes in the Canadian public capital markets, OEFC and Hydro One agreed to restructure the debt by converting the coupons and principal amounts to reflect current interest rates. The sale represented the largest ever corporate debt trade in the Canadian domestic debt market.

For more information on debt and other liabilities, see Notes 8 to 12 to the Financial Statements.

Risk Management

OEFC has risk management policies and procedures in place to address the management of OEFC's market, credit and operational risk exposures, primarily pertaining to OEFC's debt, derivatives and NUG portfolios, and capital markets transactions. A description of OEFC's risk management policies can be found in the Corporate Policies section.

| Risk Exposures (Percentage of Outstanding Debt) | 2003 | 2002 | Policy Limit |
|---|---|---|---|
| Foreign Exchange Exposure | 6.3 | 7.5 | 20.0* |
| Floating Interest Rate Exposure (net of liquid reserves) | 13.5 | 9.8 | 20.0 |

*The foreign exchange policy limit will be reduced to five per cent as soon as feasible and prudent.
March 31, 2003

OEFC's foreign exchange and floating interest rate exposures remained within policy limits of 20 per cent in 2002-03.

OEFC's total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies ("foreign exchange exposure") declined to 6.3 per cent as a result of active debt management and hedging strategies which took advantage of a strengthening Canadian dollar to reduce the foreign exchange exposure of OEFC's debt portfolio. The reduction in the OEFC's foreign exchange exposure was in line with the OEFC's Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan. When the OFA became responsible for the management of OEFC's debt portfolio, total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies was 14.5 per cent.

The OEFC's exposure to changes in short-term rates ("floating interest rate exposure") was 13.5 per cent as at March 31, 2003.

When issuing new debt, the OFA, on behalf of OEFC, aims for a smooth debt maturity profile to diversify the interest rate risk inherent in refinancing maturing and floating rate debt.

OEFC has also developed the NUG Market Risk Policy and Credit and Related Legal Risks Policy to address risks related to the sale of electricity from NUG contracts. NUG contracts involve risk in both financial and commodity markets.

Management of Power Purchase Agreements

In the late 1980s and early 1990s, the former Ontario Hydro entered into approximately 90 long-term power purchase agreements (PPAs) with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. These PPAs, which expire on various dates until 2048, represent approximately 1,700 megawatts of generating capacity and approximately $750 million per year in cash outflow. The PPAs account for about six to eight per cent of the generating capacity available to meet Ontario's energy requirements.

As the continuation of Ontario Hydro, OEFC is responsible for these contracts. The NUG liability had been valued at $4,286 million on a discounted cash-flow (DCF) basis since Ontario Hydro was continued as OEFC on April 1, 1999. Since the electricity market was opened in this fiscal year, the DCF model was updated as of March 31, 2003, which reduced the estimated liability from $4,286 million to $3,745 million. The revaluation change will be amortized to operations over a 10-year period. In addition, each year, interest at the DCF rate is added to the liability and the estimated in-year loss in the DCF model is deducted from the liability. Details are set out in Note 10 to the Financial Statements.

OEFC has retained UBS Warburg Energy (Canada) Ltd. to act as settlement services manager of the PPAs with the NUGs, and to establish systems and procedures for the administration of the PPAs in the open electricity market as well as develop and implement strategies for hedging OEFC's price risk associated with sales of electricity. OEFC continues to negotiate revisions to the NUG contracts to ensure that the contracts are consistent with the open electricity market.

A policy framework for the prudent risk management of NUG electricity sales associated with the PPAs, including market and credit risk management policies, was approved. These policies establish the foundation for the assessment, monitoring and reporting of electricity market and credit risks and are similar in structure to the corresponding policies for the management of traditional financial market and credit exposures.

The Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002

Ontario's electricity market opened to competition on May 1, 2002. The wholesale price of electricity is determined by supply and demand in a competitive market.

While the wholesale market continues to operate in a competitive environment, on December 9, 2002, the Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002 was passed to freeze the price that low volume and designated consumers pay for electricity at 4.3 cents per kilowatt-hour (¢/kWh) until at least 2006. OEFC is responsible for managing the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF or the "Fund") established as a result of the Act.

Fund Management

OEFC is required to pay to or receive from the IMO any difference between the current market price (the "spot price") and the fixed 4.3¢/kWh charged to consumers designated under the Act.

- When spot prices are higher than 4.3¢/kWh, OEFC will make a payment to the IMO equal to the difference between spot price and 4.3¢/kWh based on the quantity consumed. The IMO will reduce the amount payable by the distributors for amounts consumed by a corresponding amount down to 4.3¢/kWh.
- When spot prices are lower than 4.3¢/kWh, OEFC will receive a payment from the IMO equal to the difference between spot price and 4.3¢/kWh based on the quantity consumed. The IMO will increase the amount payable by the distributors for amounts consumed by a corresponding amount up to 4.3¢/kWh.

The Fund will receive a large proportion of its funding from the portion of the Market Power Mitigation Agreement (MPMA) rebate paid by OPG that is attributable to the low volume and designated consumers. The initial $75 consumer refund for the May 1, 2002 to November 30, 2002 period was funded from OPG's MPMA rebate liability.

Net costs were higher than originally expected due to higher-than-expected prices arising from a long and severe winter. Program costs were also higher than initially expected due to higher costs to maintain the contractual rights of retailers. Annual results for the Fund are expected to improve as new supply comes on-line and reduces electricity prices.

The financial statements reflect the net expense of the Fund for this fiscal year. More information on the Fund can be found in Note 13 to the Financial Statements.

Objectives for 2003-04

OEFC's activities for 2003-04 will be focused on the following corporate objectives:

- Continue to perform borrowing, risk management, cash management, banking and accounting services as required in managing and retiring the outstanding debt and derivative contracts of the former Ontario Hydro;
- Assist in the implementation of the government's electricity policy decisions and coordinate economic and financial issues related to the industry. This includes management of the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund, managing financial relationships with the successor companies of Ontario Hydro (Hydro One, Ontario Power Generation Inc. and the Independent Electricity Market Operator) and assisting the Ministry of Energy and the Ministry of Finance in analyzing and implementing new supply initiatives, such as the temporary generation initiatives for the summer and fall of 2003;
- Continue negotiating revisions to the non-utility generator (NUG) contracts to ensure that the contracts are consistent with the competitive market. Develop and implement the necessary infrastructure to manage, in a cost-effective and prudent manner, the NUG contracts and related exposures and their integration into the power market administered by the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO); and
- Discharge OEFC's liability to the nuclear decommissioning fund related to generating stations of the former Ontario Hydro.

Responsibility for Financial Reporting

The accompanying consolidated financial statements of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles recommended for governments by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants and are the responsibility of management. The preparation of financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates based on management's judgment, particularly when transactions affecting the current accounting period cannot be finalized with certainty until future periods. The financial statements have been properly prepared within reasonable limits of materiality and in light of information available up to July 25, 2003.

Management maintains a system of internal controls designed to provide reasonable assurance that the assets are safeguarded and that reliable financial information is available on a timely basis. The system includes formal policies and procedures and an organizational structure that provides for appropriate delegation of authority and segregation of responsibilities. Internal Audit Services of the Ministry of Finance independently evaluates the effectiveness of these internal controls on an ongoing basis and reports its findings to management and the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors, through the Audit Committee, is responsible for ensuring that management fulfills its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal controls. The Audit Committee meets periodically with management, the internal auditors and the external auditor to deal with issues raised by them and to review the financial statements before recommending approval by the Board of Directors.

The financial statements have been audited by the Provincial Auditor. The Provincial Auditor's responsibility is to express an opinion on whether the financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with accounting principles recommended for governments by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants. The Auditor's Report, which appears on the following page, outlines the scope of the Auditor's examination and his opinion.

To the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation
and to the Minister of Finance

I have audited the consolidated balance sheet of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation as at March 31, 2003 and the consolidated statements of revenue, expense and unfunded liability and of cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Corporation's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation as at March 31, 2003 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended, in accordance with the accounting principles recommended for governments by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation
Notes to Financial Statements

1. Restructuring of the Ontario Electricity Industry

Effective April 1, 1999, pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998, Ontario Hydro was continued as a corporation without share capital under the name Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). It is exempt from federal and provincial income taxes under paragraph 149(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act of Canada. OEFC is a Crown agency created to manage the debt and administer the assets, liabilities, rights and obligations of Ontario Hydro not transferred to other successor entities. These other successor entities include:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), an electricity generation company;
- Hydro One Inc. (Hydro One), a regulated electricity transmission and distribution business;
- Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO), the regulated centralized independent system co-ordinator responsible for directing system operations and operating the electricity market; and
- Electrical Safety Authority (ESA), which performs a regulatory function related to electrical inspections.

On April 1, 1999, the respective business units, including assets, liabilities, employees, rights and obligations of the former Ontario Hydro, were transferred to OPG and Hydro One (and their subsidiaries) and the IMO for $8.5 billion, $8.6 billion and $78 million respectively in exchange for debt payable to OEFC. On the same day, the Province exchanged equity of $5,126 million and $3,759 million in OPG and Hydro One respectively for debt payable to OEFC.

OEFC debt, liabilities and associated financing costs will be repaid from interest on notes receivable from the Province and successor entities, and, as provided under the Energy Competition Act, 1998, from dedicated electricity revenues in the form of payments-in-lieu (PILs) of corporate income, capital and property taxes made by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities. Any residual debt will be serviced through a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid by electricity consumers after open access at a rate of 0.7 cents per kilowatt hour in most Ontario communities. Until open access on May 1, 2002, OEFC continued to be a party to a revenue-allocation agreement among successor entities and was entitled to the forecast residual amount in the revenue pool after allocations to OPG, Hydro One and the IMO are paid.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Accounting

As OEFC is a government organization, these financial statements are prepared in accordance with the recommendations of the Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Measurement Uncertainty

Uncertainty in the determination of the amount at which an item is recognized in the financial statements is known as measurement uncertainty. Such uncertainty exists when it is reasonably possible that there could be a material variance between the recognized amount and another reasonably possible amount, as there is whenever estimates are used. Measurement uncertainty in these financial statements exists in the estimated amount for the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund, the valuation of the power purchase contracts and the estimated defeasance date for OEFC's obligations. Estimates are based on the best information available at the time of preparation of the financial statements and will be updated annually to reflect new information as it becomes available.

Consolidation

These financial statements include the residual accounts of OEFC's wholly owned subsidiary, Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (see Note 3).

Deferred Debt Costs

Deferred debt costs includes the unamortized amounts related to unrealized foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of long-term debt issued in foreign currencies and discounts, premiums or commissions arising from the issuance of debt or the acquisition of debt prior to maturity. These costs are amortized to operations over the life of the underlying debt.

Revenue Recognition

Revenues are recognized in the period in which they are earned.

Foreign Currency Translation

Debt is composed of short-, medium- and long-term bonds, notes and debentures. Debt denominated in foreign currencies that have been hedged is recorded at the Canadian dollar equivalent using the rates of exchange established by the terms of the hedge agreements. Other foreign currency debt, liabilities and assets are translated to Canadian dollars at period-end rates of exchange and any exchange gains or losses are deferred and amortized over the remaining term to maturity.

Power Purchase Contracts

The power purchase contracts liability is valued on a discounted cash-flow (DCF) basis. Periodic revaluations of this liability will give rise to changes in the estimated cost of the contracts and will be amortized to operations over a maximum 10-year period.

3. Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation

OEFC was the administrator of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation Pension Plan and Fund. It was responsible for negotiating an agreement with each of the successor corporations for the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC pension plan to the pension plans of the successor corporations. The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation, (OEPSC), a wholly owned subsidiary of OEFC, acted as agent for OEFC to carry out the required administrative, investment and other responsibilities of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund.

OEPSC made application to the Superintendent of Financial Services for Ontario for approval to transfer all of the assets of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor operating entities. The Superintendent agreed to the transfer on June 6, 2001. With the exception of certain records and assets of nominal value, all pension fund assets were transferred to the pension plans of successor corporations on June 29, 2001. As OEPSC's functions have been completed, OEFC is in the process of winding up the company.

4. Economic Dependence

OEFC does not have its own credit rating and is, therefore, dependent on the Province to borrow and on-lend the funds required to refinance maturing debt and to cover any cash shortfalls in the Corporation. It is also dependent on the long-term plan to defease the unfunded liability described in Note 12. Based on the Province's support in refinancing maturing debt and the long-term plan, OEFC is considered a going concern.

5. Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents includes cash on deposit and highly liquid investments with maturities of less than three months. They are recorded at cost, which approximates current market value.

6. Due from Province of Ontario

The Province has committed to dedicate the combined net income of OPG and Hydro One in excess of the Province's financing cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries to OEFC. In the year ended March 31, 2003, OPG and Hydro One earned an aggregate amount of $717 million, $197 million in excess of the Province's $520 million financing cost of its investment. In 2001-02, the aggregate earnings of the subsidiaries did not exceed the Province's financing cost. The $197 million amount has been reflected as income in OEFC. In July 2002, the Province paid $370 million to OEFC towards the outstanding balance.

7. Notes and Loans Receivable

| | Maturity date | Interest rate | Interest payable | March 31, 2003 | March 31, 2002 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Province of Ontario | 2039 - 2041 | 5.85 | Monthly | $ 8,885 | $ 8,885 |
| OPG | 2005 - 2011 | 5.44 to 6.65 | Semi-annually | 3,200 | 3,200 |
| Hydro One | 2003 | 5.4 to 13.5 | Semi-annually | 651 | 2,972 |
| IMO | 2009 | 7.90 | Semi-annually | 78 | 78 |
| | | | | 12,814 | 15,135 |
| Less: Current portion of notes receivable | | | | 651 | 443 |
| | | | | 12,163 | 14,692 |
| Loans receivable from non-utility generators (NUGs) (See Note 10) | | | | 174 | 257 |
| | | | | $ 12,337 | $ 14,949 |

OEFC has agreed with OPG and IMO not to sell notes owing from these successor entities without their prior approval.

On March 5, 2003, with the prior approval of Hydro One, OEFC completed the sale of $1,878 million (face value) of Hydro One notes. OEFC realized a gain of $206 million on the sale as interest rates payable on the notes were above market interest rates.

In 2002, OEFC had agreed with OPG to defer principal payments of $200 million originally due in March and September, 2002 until December 2004. These maturities totalling $200 million have been further deferred until December 2006. In addition, OEFC has agreed with OPG to defer principal repayments totalling $500 million originally due in the period March 2003 to September 2004. The new maturity dates on these notes have been extended until March 2005 to September 2006.

8. Debt

Debt at March 31, 2003 is set out below by maturity and by currency of repayment, expressed in Canadian dollars.

| ($ millions) Currency | Canadian Dollar | U.S. Dollar | Japanese Yen | 2003 Total | 2002 Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Maturing in: | | | | | |
| 1 year | 4,781 | 232 | 65 | 5,078 | 6,544 |

| 3 years | 1,000 | 425 | — | 1,425 | 3,250 |
| 4 years | 119 | — | — | 119 | 1,000 |
| 5 years | 389 | 1,570 | — | 1,959 | 119 |
| 1-5 years | 9,539 | 2,227 | 65 | 11,831 | 12,579 |
| 6-10 years | 6,178 | 1,489 | — | 7,667 | 8,237 |
| 11-15 years | 648 | — | — | 648 | 1,843 |
| 16-20 years | 3,678 | — | — | 3,678 | 2,702 |
| 21-25 years | 2,077 | — | — | 2,077 | 3,037 |
| 26-50 years | 929 | — | — | 929 | 966 |
| Total | $ 23,049 | $ 3,716 | $ 65 | $ 26,830 | $ 29,364 |

The effective rate of interest on the debt portfolio is 6.78 per cent (March 2002 - 6.96 per cent) before considering the effect of derivative instruments used to manage interest rate risk. The longest term to maturity is to October 17, 2031. Total foreign currency denominated debt at March 31, 2003 was $3.8 billion (March 2002 - $3.6 billion), of which $2.6 billion or 67.7 per cent (March 2002 - $1.9 billion or 52.8 per cent) was fully hedged to Canadian funds. Bonds and notes payable are either held, or guaranteed as to principal and interest, by the Province as set out below:

| | March 31, 2003 | | | March 31, 2002 | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| ($ millions) | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total |
| Short-term debt | 3,413 | — | 3,413 | 3,996 | — | 3,996 |
| Current portion of long-term debt | 350 | 1,315 | 1,665 | 48 | 2,500 | 2,548 |
| Long-term debt | 9,791 | 11,961 | 21,752 | 9,173 | 13,647 | 22,820 |
| Total | $ 13,554 | $ 13,276 | $ 26,830 | $ 13,217 | $ 16,147 | $ 29,364 |

Fair value of debt issued approximates amounts at which debt instruments could be exchanged in a current transaction between willing parties. In valuing the OEFC's debt, fair value is estimated using discounted cash flows and other valuation techniques and is compared to public market quotations where available. These estimates are affected by the assumptions made concerning discount rates and the amount and timing of future cash flows.

The estimated fair value of OEFC debt at March 31, 2003 is $31.2 billion (March 2002 - $32.8 billion). This is higher than the book value of $26.8 billion (March 2002 - $29.4 billion) because current interest rates are generally lower than the interest rates at which the debt was issued and because of exchange rate movements. The fair value of debt does not reflect the effect of related derivative contracts.

9. Risk Management and Derivative Financial Instruments

OEFC employs various risk management strategies and operates within strict risk exposure limits to ensure exposure to risk is managed in a prudent and cost-effective manner. A variety of strategies are used, including the use of derivative financial instruments ("derivatives"). Derivatives are financial contracts, the value of which is derived from underlying instruments. OEFC uses derivatives for the purpose of hedging and to minimize interest costs. Hedges are created primarily through swaps, which are legal arrangements under which OEFC agrees with another party to exchange cash flows based upon one or more notional amounts during a specified period. This allows OEFC to offset its existing obligations and thereby effectively convert them into obligations with more desirable characteristics. Other derivative instruments used by OEFC include forward foreign exchange contracts, forward rate agreements, futures and options.

Foreign exchange or currency risk is the risk of debt servicing costs and principal payments varying due to fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. To minimize currency risk, OEFC uses derivative contracts to convert foreign currency cash flows into Canadian dollar denominated cash flows. The current policy allows unhedged foreign currency cash flows to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At March 31, 2003, 6.3 per cent (March 2002 - 7.5 per cent) of this debt was unhedged, with most of the currency exposure to US dollars.

Floating rate risk is the exposure of OEFC to changes in short-term interest rates over a 12-month period. OEFC reduces its exposure to rate changes by entering into derivative contracts that convert floating interest payments to fixed interest payments. The current policy allows unhedged floating rate debt, net of liquid reserves, to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At March 31, 2003, OEFC's floating rate debt as a percentage of total debt was 13.5 per cent (March 2002 - 9.8 per cent).

Liquidity risk is the risk that OEFC will not be able to meet its current short-term financial obligations. As explained in Note 4, OEFC is dependent on the Province to borrow and on-lend the funds required to refinance maturing debt and to cover any cash shortfalls in the Corporation.

The table below presents a maturity schedule of OEFC's derivatives, by type, outstanding at March 31, 2003, based on the notional amounts of the contracts. Notional amounts represent the volume of outstanding derivative contracts and are not indicative of credit risk, market risk or actual cash flows.

Derivative Portfolio Notional Value

| Maturity in Fiscal Year | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 | 2008 | 6-10 Years | Over 10 Years | Total 2003 | Total 2002 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cross-currency swaps | 1,046 | - | 425 | - | 496 | 388 | - | 2,355 | 1,528 |

[1]Other includes swaptions and forward rate agreements.

The use of derivatives introduces credit risk, which is the risk of a counterparty defaulting on contractual derivative obligations in which OEFC has an unrealized gain. The table below presents the credit risk associated with the derivative financial instrument portfolio, measured through the replacement value of derivative contracts, at March 31, 2003.

| Credit Risk Exposure ($ millions) | March 31, 2003 | March 31, 2002 |
|---|---|---|
| Gross credit risk exposure[1] | 4,167 | 4,569 |
| Less: Netting[2] | (4,293) | (4,709) |
| Net credit risk exposure[3] | $ (126) | $ (140) |

Notes:
1 Gross credit risk exposure includes credit exposure on swaps, options, futures, forward rate agreements and forward foreign exchange agreements.
2 Master agreements provide for close out netting as contracts do not have coterminous settlement dates.
3 Total exposure to counterparties with positive exposure (meaning that counterparties owed OEFC) was $202 million (March 2002 - $111 million) and the total exposure to counterparties with negative exposure (meaning that OEFC owed the counterparties) was $328 million (March 2002 - $251 million) for a total net credit exposure of ($126) million (March 2002 - ($140) million).

OEFC manages its credit risk exposure from derivatives by, among other things, dealing only with high credit quality counterparties and regularly monitoring compliance to credit limits. In addition, OEFC enters into contractual agreements (master agreements) that provide for termination netting and, if applicable, payment netting with virtually all of its counterparties. Gross credit risk exposure represents the loss OEFC would incur if every counterparty to which OEFC had credit risk exposure were to default at the same time and the contracted netting provisions were not exercised or could not be enforced. Net credit risk exposure is the loss including the mitigating impact of these netting provisions.

As at March 31, 2003, OEFC's most significant concentrations of credit risk were with three A+ or higher rated counterparties, each of which represented more than 10 per cent of the Net Credit Risk Exposure. The net cost to OEFC, if it had to replace all of the swap contracts with these three counterparties is $23 million, $62 million and $85 million, respectively.

10. Power Purchase Contracts

Power purchase agreements and related loan agreements were entered into by Ontario Hydro with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. As the continued Ontario Hydro, OEFC is the counterparty to these contracts. These contracts, expiring on various dates to 2048, provide for the purchase of power at prices that are expected to be in excess of the market price. Since open access on May 1, 2002, this power has been sold at market prices that generally have been less than cost. Prior to open access, power purchased from NUGs was resold at cost to the revenue pool managed by OPG.

During the year, OEFC purchased power in the amount of $786 million (2002 - $815 million) and sold this power for $635 million (2002 - $815 million). Effective April 18, 2002, the NUG Contract Management Agreement between Enron Canada Corporation and OEFC was assigned to UBS Warburg Energy (Canada) Ltd. Annual fees include both a fixed fee of approximately $750,000 plus a variable fee based on performance in minimizing losses under NUG power purchase agreements that amounted to $10 million (2002 - $ nil).

The NUG liability had been valued at $4,286 million on a discounted cash-flow (DCF) basis since Ontario Hydro was continued as OEFC on April 1, 1999. Since the electricity market was opened in this fiscal year, the DCF model was updated as of March 31, 2003 which reduced the estimated liability from $4,286 million to $3,745 million. The revaluation change will be amortized to operations over a 10-year period. In addition, each year, interest at the DCF rate is added to the liability and the estimated in-year loss in the DCF model is deducted from the liability as set out below:

Statement of NUG Liability
($ millions)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| NUG Liability, March 31, 2002 | | $ 4,286 |
| Interest charged during the year | | 253 |
| Deduct estimated in-year loss | | (372) |
| Revaluation as of March 31, 2003 | | (422) |
| Sub total | | 3,745 |
| Add: Unamortized Revaluation Changes | | |
| Gross Revaluation | 422 | |
| Accumulated Amortization | (42) | 380 |
| | | $ 4,125 |

Loans to NUGs decreased during the period by a net $83 million to $174 million at March 31, 2003 (March 31, 2002 - $257 million), primarily due to principal repayments.

11. Nuclear Funding Liability

OEFC as the continued Ontario Hydro received a liability in the amount of $2,378 million representing nuclear waste management and asset removal liabilities that were incurred prior to April 1, 1999. In March 2002, the Province and OPG entered into the Ontario Nuclear Funds Agreement (ONFA) to establish, fund and manage segregated funds to ensure that sufficient funds are available to pay for costs of nuclear waste management and station decommissioning. The OEFC liability will be directed to the Decommissioning Custodial Fund, which is expected to be established later in 2003.

The Board of Directors of OEFC approved the funding of the Decommissioning Custodial Fund over the next four years, thus discharging the nuclear funding liability. OEFC reflected the nuclear funding liability at April 1, 1999 and has been accruing interest annually at an estimated 5.75 per cent since that time. At March 31, 2003, this estimated accrued interest was included in the liability amount of $2,974 million (2002 - $2,812 million). The calculation of the interest rate is still under negotiation between the parties, but is expected to be finalized later in 2003. The impact of the finalization of the interest rate calculation is not expected to result in a material difference to the liability balance.

12. Unfunded Liability

The opening unfunded liability of $19.4 billion at April 1, 1999 was composed of $38.1 billion in liabilities assumed from old Ontario Hydro less the value of assets transferred to OEFC at April 1, 1999 including $17.2 billion in notes receivable and $1.5 billion in loans receivable and other assets. A long-term plan was established to retire OEFC liabilities from within the electricity sector. The Plan includes cash flows from the following sources as at April 1, 1999:

Notes receivable from the Province of $8.9 billion, OPG of $3.4 billion, Hydro One of $4.8 billion and IMO for $0.1 billion for a total of $17.2 billion as a result of the transfer of assets to successor companies,

Payments-in-lieu of corporate income, property and capital taxes made by OPG, Hydro One and municipal electric utilities,

a Debt Retirement Charge to be paid by ratepayers based on the consumption of electricity, and

Electricity Sector Dedicated Income - The combined net income of OPG and Hydro One in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries will be allocated to the retirement of OEFC's debt.

The long-term plan supports a current estimate that OEFC's obligations will likely be defeased in 2012.

13. Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund

On November 11, 2002, the Province announced a program designed to provide electricity to low volume and designated consumers at a fixed price of 4.3 cents per kilowhatt-hour (kWh) until at least 2006, retroactive to May 1, 2002. Power generators continue to receive the free market price as set in the IMO electricity market. The program is administered through the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF) managed by OEFC.

During periods where the average price of electricity is greater than the fixed rate of 4.3 cents per kWh, the balance is funded by the ECPPF. Conversely, the ECPPF will receive funds during periods where the average price of electricity is lower than the fixed rate of 4.3 cents per kWh. Expenditures from the Fund amounting to $1,461 million in the year were reduced by a portion of the rebate paid by OPG under the Market Power Mitigation Agreement (MPMA) in the amount of $796 million leaving a net cost in OEFC of $665 million.

14. Contingencies and Guarantees

OEFC is involved in various legal actions arising out of the ordinary course and conduct of business, some of which relate to the former Ontario Hydro prior to the establishment of OEFC on April 1, 1999. Under the terms of the April 1, 1999 restructuring of Ontario Hydro, each successor entity (OPG, Hydro One, ESA and IMO, and their respective subsidiaries) is responsible for any liabilities relating to those operations of the former Ontario Hydro that were transferred to it. In the event any such liabilities remained with OEFC, the successor entity is also required to indemnify OEFC. With respect to legal actions relating to operations of Ontario Hydro that were retained by OEFC, the outcome and ultimate disposition of these legal actions is not determinable at this time. Accordingly, no provision for the above actions is reflected in the financial statements. Settlements of these contingencies, if any, will be reflected in the period in which settlement occurs.

Subject to a $10 million and $20 million deductible respectively, OEFC has agreed to indemnify Hydro One and OPG with respect to any adverse claim to title to any asset, right or thing transferred or intended to be transferred to the companies at April 1, 1999 and any failure of the transfer order to transfer such assets, rights or things and with respect to payment to or from or other dealing with any equity account of Ontario Hydro, including certain related litigation. The Province of Ontario has guaranteed any liability arising from these indemnifications.

OEFC is contingently liable under guarantees given to third parties that have provided long-term financing to certain independent power producers in connection with the power purchase agreements described in Note 10. These guarantees total approximately $113 million at March 31, 2003 (2002 - $124 million).

Corporate Governance

Appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, the Board of Directors is responsible for supervising OEFC's business. OEFC retains services from the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA) and the Ministry of Finance to carry out its daily operations. The Board of Directors meets at least quarterly. It monitors OEFC's financial performance and approves OEFC's financial policies and its business plan for each year.

The Minister of Finance reviews and approves the OEFC's annual business plan, which contains long- and short-term objectives and reports on accomplishments for the preceding year. In keeping with the government's Agency Establishment and Accountability Directive, once every three years the Minister of Finance recommends the OEFC business plan to Management Board of Cabinet for approval.

The OEFC Audit Committee supports the Board of Directors with the review and recommendation for approval of OEFC's financial statements. The Audit Committee also recommends the annual internal audit plan and reviews the findings of the internal auditors regarding the adequacy of internal controls. The OEFC Audit Committee has recommended to the Board that the legislation regarding the timing of the delivery and tabling of the Corporation's annual report, including audited financial statements, be made consistent with the timing of the Province's Public Accounts, because of the relationship of OEFC's statements to the Public Accounts.

OEFC's Board also has a NUG Committee. This committee makes decisions concerning OEFC's Power Purchase Agreements. Membership includes OEFC Directors representing the Ministry of Finance and the Ministry of Energy.

Risk Management Policies and Procedures for Borrowing and Debt Management

The OFA incurs credit, market, operational and liquidity risks for OEFC in managing the debt of OEFC. These risks are managed in accordance with risk management policies approved by the OEFC Board of Directors. The Board and management committees establish and approve risk management policies and monitor OEFC's compliance with the policies and the performance of the OFA's OEFC-related capital market activities.

OEFC has a number of policies in place to mitigate financial risks: market risk, credit risk, operational risk and risks related to the use of derivatives. These policies were developed following the Group of Thirty's best practices, the guidelines and directives of regulatory bodies, such as the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions of Canada, the Bank for International Settlements (BIS), and consulting with Canadian bank representatives on their risk management practices.

With the advent of the electricity market and the exposures inherent in the management of the NUGs contracts and related transactions, policies specifically addressing these exposures were recommended to the Board of Directors and approved. These policies and associated procedures will be used to develop and implement an infrastructure for monitoring and assessing NUG-related exposures.

Market Risk

- Market Risk is the risk of financial loss attributable to changes in the values of financial indices including interest rates, credit spreads, foreign exchange rates and liquidity condition.
- This policy provides a framework for borrowing and integrates several aspects dealing with the management of market risk.
    - Foreign Exchange Exposure Limit - OEFC's exposure to unhedged foreign currencies is limited to 20 per cent of outstanding debt. This limit will be reduced to five per cent as soon as feasible and prudent. Foreign exchange exposures are limited to Group of Seven currencies and the Swiss franc or the equivalent currencies (i.e., the Euro).
    - Floating Rate Exposure - OEFC is limited to a maximum floating rate exposure of 20 per cent of debt.
    - Risk Management Loss Limits - The total amount of financial losses resulting from market risk and the default of counterparties shall not exceed a debt cost loss limit specified by the Board of Directors. Additionally, the CEO establishes a debt management trigger level to ensure that losses will not reach the debt cost loss limit. The trigger level is included in the Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan.
    - Risk Measurement - OEFC identifies and quantifies exposures to market risk in its Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan to ensure that risk exposures and losses remain within the approved exposure and loss limits. Exposure to market, credit and liquidity risk is measured daily.
    - Debt Maturity Profile - When issuing new debt on behalf of OEFC, the OFA will aim for a smooth debt maturity profile to diversify the interest rate risk for the refinancing of maturing and floating rate debt.

Credit Risk

Credit risk is risk that a counterparty does not meet, or defaults on its obligations. Credit risk arises when the OFA undertakes financial and derivative transactions on behalf of OEFC. The minimum credit rating of a counterparty for a new swap transaction is AA- and R1-mid for money market investments. The resulting exposure is capped at mark-to-market limits depending on the counterparty's credit rating and capital base.

Operational Risk

OEFC's operational risk is managed through procedures that deal with model risk, legal risk, settlement risk and information systems risks.

Model Risk

OEFC's pricing models are regularly reviewed for accuracy and compliance with industry standards. OEFC's valuation of financial instruments is also reviewed regularly.

Legal Risk

Procedures and standards have been implemented to ensure that documentation of OEFC debt issues, debt management and money market transactions meet industry standards and is enforceable.

Settlement Risk

On behalf of OEFC, the OFA has established internal control procedures and systems, involved external service providers and trained its staff to ensure that transactions are settled correctly and in a timely manner, are recorded accurately, and that service providers are appropriately involved.

Information Systems Risk

As OEFC's service provider, on behalf of OEFC, the OFA has taken measures to protect computer systems and access to the offices of the OFA, monitoring the computer room environment, the establishment of a back-up power source, regular data back-ups, off-site storage, firewalls to protect against unauthorized network intrusions and computer virus scanning. Security is reviewed periodically and when major changes occur.

Use of Derivatives

Derivatives are used solely to advance the objective of providing OEFC's financing and liquidity requirements in a sound and cost-effective manner. Derivatives are used to manage exposures arising from existing and planned debt, and in a manner consistent with the Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan. Risks arising from the use of derivatives are identified, monitored, evaluated and managed prudently.

Risk Management Policies for NUG Power Sales

Market Risk

The NUG Market Risk Policy for Electricity Risk Management provides for a framework governing the use of electricity derivatives for the program, as well as volumetric limits on the level of forward sales and financial loss limits. A key requirement for electricity forwards and other derivative contracts is OEFC's ability to price and measure the risk associated with them. The policy mandates an annual NUG risk management plan, which delineates the assumptions for the upcoming fiscal year, including economic and electricity price assumptions, base case and contingency plans for managing and diversifying risk, and supply availability assumptions. A risk assessment for all assumptions is also required.

Credit Risk

OEFC incurs credit risk in the course of its forward transactions with counterparties in the marketplace. This policy addresses that risk through minimum credit ratings and through exposure, term-, and concentration limits. Additionally, the policy sets out requirements for documentation and enforceability. Monitoring and reporting of credit exposures and credit quality are performed by Risk Control Division.

Supply Availability Risk

Supply Availability Risk is the risk associated with having to meet contractual obligations associated with portfolio hedging transactions through open market transactions. As with financial market activities, management of OEFC's NUGs electricity generation portfolio must assess both market and counterparty credit risks. In addition, managing these risks is further complicated by such risks as equipment breakdown, fuel availability and fuel costs, all of which could affect OEFC's ability to meet its contractual obligations through NUGs supply.

Risk Management Reporting

At its regular quarterly meetings, the OEFC Board of Directors is informed of OEFC's activities, positions and risk exposures through three types of reports:

- CEO's report;
- Exposure and performance report; and
- Exception report provided by the Director of Risk Control, OFA.

OEFC's Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan, which indicates how OEFC risk exposures and losses will be maintained within the approved exposure and loss limits, is approved by the Board of Directors each year.

The CEO provides the Board of Directors with a progress report on the implementation of the Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan, staffing and other administrative and operational matters. The CEO also reports on OEFC's compliance with applicable government directives, and OFA Legal Counsel reports on compliance with applicable laws.

In addition, OFA Management is kept informed of OEFC's risk exposures and positions on a daily basis.

GOVERNMENT RESPONSE TO OAG REPORT ON THE FAIR HYDRO PLAN

The government of Ontario does not agree with the assertions and conclusions expressed by the Office of the Auditor General (OAG) in its report on Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP)..

OFHP is delivering the single-largest reduction in electricity rates in the province's history. In developing OFHP, the government considered a range of implementation options. The government consulted with legal, accounting, financial and energy sector third-party experts to provide advice and ensure due diligence was completed. OFHP operates under a financial and accounting framework that is appropriate for the intended purpose and in accordance with Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) and ensures that the fairness goals underlying the program are achieved in a cost-effective manner.

The government has been making important investments in a cleaner and more reliable energy system, but these investments have led to higher electricity bills. OFHP has introduced new measures to lower electricity bills by 25 per cent on average for residential consumers and will hold increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As many as half a million small businesses and farms are also benefitting from a reduction.

Since 2003, nearly $70 billion has been invested in the electricity system, including more than $37 billion in electricity generation to ensure the system is clean and reliable. The majority of the province's electricity generators operate under 20-year contracts. Despite the OAG's assertion that it is "not at all" certain if these generating assets will be operating beyond their contract lives, third-party experts have confirmed that many of these generators will be able to continue to operate. This means that generating assets are expected to have ongoing useful life and benefit future ratepayers by reducing the need to finance the development of new generating assets. .

The Global Adjustment (GA) pays for the majority of the recent investments in the electricity system. Refinancing the GA provides significant and immediate rate relief by matching the cost of electricity investments with the expected useful life of the generation that has been built. Despite the OAG's assertion that the government's intention was to avoid recording a deficit in the fiscal plan, the decisions made to implement GA refinancing most effectively achieves the goals of the refinancing program and ensures that the deferred costs are borne by the rate-base, as the beneficiaries of the electricity system, and not the tax-base. The accounting for this transaction will reflect the substance of this transaction.

With respect to the Province's financial statements, they are prepared in accordance with Canadian PSAS and will follow PSAS in accounting for the transactions resulting from OFHP in 2017-18 as well as in the following years. As PSAS is set by an independent standard setting body in Canada focused specifically on the public sector, and because PSAS is used by all senior governments in Canada, presenting its financial statements in accordance with PSAS results in transparent financial reporting for the Province of Ontario.

The government of Ontario also disagrees with two fundamental accounting assertions in the report of OAG related to legislated accounting and rate-regulated accounting:

- Legislated Accounting – The Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and its related regulations do not "create accounting rules" or "legislate the accounting". This is a fundamental disagreement with the report of the OAG. As previously noted, the Province will prepare its consolidated financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

- Rate-Regulated Accounting – In commenting on the use of rate-regulated accounting and the role of the Ontario Energy Board (OEB), the report of the OAG makes reference to a requirement under U.S. accounting standards in connection with the use of rate-regulated accounting that "there must be an independent regulator". This reference is misleading as it does not provide the criteria in its entirety, which is as follows:

  The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers [ASC 980-10-15-2].

The U.S. accounting standard was developed specifically not to preclude the application of rate-regulated accounting by government utilities where the rate regulator would not necessarily be viewed as independent [FAS 71, par. 64]. In addition, the position that rate-regulated accounting is precluded because the OEB is not considered independent of the government of Ontario is contradictory to accepting the use of rate-regulated accounting by Ontario Power Generation (OPG) and Hydro One, both regulated by the OEB and whose results, using rate-regulated accounting, are and have been included in the consolidated financial statements of the Province.

Some costs of OFHP will be borne by taxpayers and some will be borne by ratepayers. The accounting will reflect the economic substance of the transactions in accordance with PSAS and will differentiate those costs of OFHP borne by taxpayers vs. those borne by ratepayers. The OAG suggests that all of the costs of OFHP should be reflected as if they will all be borne by taxpayers, which is inaccurate.

OPG is beginning the process of raising funds to finance the deferred costs, and while total borrowing costs will not be known until the ~~transaction~~ program is complete, accumulated interest is projected to be considerably less than the estimates in the report of the Financial Accountability Office (FAO), cited by the OAG. Total borrowing estimates over the thirty year life of the program have been revised down substantially by the government since the FAO released its report in May 2017 and borrowing costs are now forecast to be substantially lower than original estimates. Current government estimates forecast that the peak debt over the ~~30-~~ thirty year life of OFHP will be below $20 billion. The preliminary estimate from March 2017 was about $28 billion.

Based on the comments above, and given that implementation of OFHP is ongoing with significant accounting and financing decisions still being finalized, the government believes that this report by the OAG is premature and does not reflect the substance of this transaction.

| | | Under Canadian PSAS, assets are defined by three characteristics: a) they embody future economic benefits (of which one is the ability to generate future cash flows); b) the entity has full control in order to access those benefits, and c) they must result from a past event.The decision by the IESO to apply the rate-regulated rules under US GAAP does not create an inconsistency with the definition of an asset under Canadian PSAS. The shortfall which is being reported as an asset by the IESO embodies a future economic benefit based on the requirement of the specified ratepayers to pay these deferred amounts in the future. IESO has control to access those benefits either by selling the regulatory asset or by holding the asset until the payments by the specified ratepayers are received in the future. Finally, the asset results from a past event which is the payment to the generators for the generation of power.It is important to distinguish legislating the accounting from legislating the right for the government to recover amounts from specified ratepayers in the future, based on costs incurred today. Enabling the IESO to sell the future right to recover of this shortfall from specified ratepayers provided under the FHP Act is not legislating the accounting. The statute does not direct the government how to account for the shortfall. The statute provides for recovery of the current shortfalls from the specified ratepayers in the future, reflecting the policy decision to have the GA refinancing borne by the specified ratepayers, and in doing so, creates an obligation on the specified ratepayers to pay an amount in the future. The obligation on the part of the specified ratepayers is a future economic benefit to the government. | |

Instead, starting in 2002, ratepayers began paying down the stranded debt through a "debt retirement charge" on their bills.~~~~The collection of the debt retirement charge and the Fair Hydro future reduction recovery are similar in that both stem from government policy decisions and did not result from an independent regulatory process. As well, the payments were/will be made much later, "after the fact." However, in the 1999/2000 fiscal year, the government followed Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards properly, and included the debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the debt retirement charge was added to electricity bills, the charge to ratepayers was taken in as revenue in the Province's consolidated financial statements. This treatment allowed the government to track ratepayer costs and taxpayer costs separately, helping to ensure that only ratepayers, not taxpayers, pay for electricity services.~~~~The same accounting should be applied to the Fair Hydro Plan rate reduction: include the debt being accumulated through the 10 years of the reduction as Provincial debt, and record interest expense on this debt as an expense in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the clean energy adjustment is added to electricity bills, the amount charged to ratepayers can then be taken in as revenue in the consolidated financial statements, as well as be tracked separately from taxpayer expenses/revenue"~~The report makes a comparison between the OFHP and the OEFC stranded debt. There are, however, crucial differences. The latter had already been incurred when the restructuring took place. In the case of the OFHP, the difference between what will be collected and what will be paid to generators will be set up as an asset which ~~and in accordance with the accounting definition,~~ generates a specific revenue stream in the form of the CEA, in accordance with the accounting definition.Also, it is important to note that the 1999 restructuring led to an "unbundling" of the electricity rate. Prior to the 1999 restructuring and 2002 market opening, there was a "bundled rate" for electricity that included cost recovery of generation and transmission costs, operating and capital – including debt costs, as well as central market operations costs. This was a normal regulatory practice which matched the timing of the capital cost recovery with the benefit to the ratepayer. The DRC represented the unbundling of a portion of the debt service costs. It effectively amortized the cost of the investments in long-lived assets (including debt incurred).The OFHP GA deferral is also intended to have costs recovered from specified ratepayers over a time period ~~to~~ that better reflects the expected lives of those assets (vs the contract lengths, that may be shorter than the expected useful ~~like~~ life of the assets). The difference | |

| | | between the 1999 restructuring and the OFHP is that the DRC continued to pay down, over time, debt that had already been incurred, while under the OFHP, an asset is being created to ensure a fair allocation of electricity costs between current and future ratepayers. The intention of the OFHP is to be forward looking to ensure that ratepayers are fairly paying their share of current and future costs, while the DRC was backward looking, replacing part of a bundled rate that was already spreading the cost recovery of the debt over time.The penultimate paragraph in section 3.0 notes the government, in 1999/2000, "…included debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements". This statement is incorrect. The recording of the stranded debt never resulted in an expense in the consolidated financial statements. The amount of the debt was charged directly to accumulated deficit. | |
| | 12 | Related to the above argument on the value / existence of an asset – The "substance over form"The government differentiated the reductions in consumers' electricity bills that are being borne by the tax-base as a whole (i.e., 8% Rebate, certain programs to help rural customers) from those that have a long term benefit (the 17% referenced in the AG report). By establishing the deferral amounts off today's bill and charging it to future consumers, that is providing substance by ensuring future ratepayers pay their share of system costs at the right time. | |
| | 13 | The role of the OEB and its mandate, is provided in legislation. It is not uncommon for government policy, through Regulations, to provide the ground rules over which the OEB is to preside. That is the case with the OFHP itself as the Act and the various regulations provide the direction and processes over which the OEB is to exercise oversight, review and make conclusions on submissions brought forward (rates to charge certain customer classes, basis of interest and appropriateness of fees charged to ensure they are benchmarked and reasonable, etc.). | |
| 4.3 | 13 | The first sentence of the second paragraph states: As introduced in Section 1.3.2, the asset that the Fair Hydro Act creates is referred to as a "regulatory" or "rate-regulated" asset.The terms regulatory and rate-regulated are not interchangeable and the sentence suggests they are. Regulatory asset is a defined term in the legislation and rate-regulated asset is an accounting concept used to appropriate account for rate-regulated entities meeting the appropriate criteria. In addition, the legislation does not create an asset. The recording of any asset resulting from transactions of the Fair Hydro Plan will be assessed for recognition based on Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS), and where appropriate other accounting guidance where PSAS is silent on the issue. Good morning,

In an effort to keep the word and page count down, we have made a few edits to the report. My DM would like to try to limit the length as much as possible.

Please ask staff to make any final edits to the attached clean version.

Patrick – there's a question in the tracked version. It's about a sentence that I believe OPCD added it. The boss is looking for where in the report the AG makes that assertion.

Thanks,

Dave

Hi all,

I've attached clean and tracked versions of the government response and consolidated comments. The joint-DM memo remains unchanged from what was shared at the meeting today, so only including a clean version of that.

Next Steps:

- In the consolidated comments document, please have staff confirm that any required supporting evidence is provided to me. If anything in that column is marked with a 'Y', please have staff add in "Please see [name of document/attachment]". If we can direct the AG to something online (e.g., standards), a hyperlink would be fine. If no material can be provided, please ensure the box is changed to 'N'.

- Please have staff review the documents one last time and ask that they note any required changes in the clean versions.
- The key focus at this point should be the government response. At this stage, changes to the consolidated comments should be kept to a minimum.
- Please reply-all with any edits by 11:00AM.
- I will coordinate having the joint-DM memo signed. We'll have to work together to get it in front of each of them (separately is fine) before 12:30.
- I will aim to distribute a final package by 1:00. The target for getting it to the AG is 2:00.

Thanks again to you and your teams for all the help.

ONTARIO HYDRO FINAL ANNUAL REPORT
JANUARY 1998 – MARCH 1999

Ontario Hydro

CORPORATE PROFILE Ontario Hydro ceased operations on March 31, 1999; its assets and functions were transferred by provincial statute to two commercial successor corporations, Ontario Power Generation Inc. and Ontario Hydro Services Company Inc., as well as to two not-for-profit agencies, the Independent Electricity Market Operator and the Electrical Safety Authority.

Ontario Hydro, a self-sustaining corporation without share capital, was created by provincial statute and operated under the Power Corporation Act of Ontario, which has now been succeeded by the Energy Competition Act, 1998. Bonds and notes issued by Ontario Hydro prior to April 1, 1999, are guaranteed by the Province of Ontario.

Until the demerger of the company on April 1, 1999, Ontario Hydro served 108 direct industrial customers, almost one million retail customers and 255 municipal utilities, which in turn serve almost 3 million customers.

Ontario Power Generation (OPG) inherited Ontario Hydro's generating portfolio, making it one of the largest power producers in North America in terms of installed capacity. The OPG system includes 69 hydroelectric stations, three nuclear sites and six operating fossil-fueled stations. Total installed system capacity is approximately 31,000 megawatts. Ontario Hydro's total energy sales in 1998 were almost 139 terawatt-hours.

Ontario Hydro Services Company (OHSC), the other successor company, is an energy-services-based transmission and distribution company. It owns and maintains 29,000 kilometres of transmission lines, 114,700 kilometres of distribution lines, 240 kilometres of high-voltage underground cable, 256 transformer stations, 928 distribution and regulating stations and 20 microwave stations. OHSC also retains the retail business formerly held by Ontario Hydro, which serves over 950,000 customers, and the transmission and generating business for 23 remote communities in Northern Ontario.

LETTER TO THE MINISTER

To the Honourable Jim Wilson,
Minister of Energy, Science and Technology:

I am pleased to submit to you Ontario Hydro's report of the financial position of the Corporation, as of March 31, 1999, when operations ceased, in accordance with provincial statute. This 15-month report also contains discussion and analysis of issues and initiatives for 1998-99 and beyond.

We want to thank your staff at the Ministry of Energy, Science and Technology for their cooperation during this period of great change in Ontario's electricity sector.

FROM WINTER ICE STORM TO SUMMER HEAT WAVE, FROM THE NEED TO RELIABLY MEET ONTARIO'S ELECTRICITY DEMAND TODAY TO THE MANDATE TO LOOK BEYOND ONTARIO TOMORROW, ONTARIO HYDRO'S FINAL 15 MONTHS AS AN OPERATING ENTITY WERE FILLED WITH GREAT CHALLENGES AND GREAT CHANGE. THROUGHOUT IT ALL, OUR EMPLOYEES DISPLAYED EQUAL MEASURES OF COOPERATION AND COMPETITIVENESS. THEY ARE ONTARIO HYDRO'S MOST VALUABLE LEGACY TO THE FUTURE.

We are preparing for competition; our aim is to make our commercial successor companies successful in the new energy services marketplace.

This is the Final Annual Report of Ontario Hydro, which ceased operations on March 31, 1999; its assets and functions have been transferred to successor companies and agencies. For this reason, the 1998 Annual Report was delayed to include a report on the company's final quarter.

The 15 months since our last Annual Report was a historic period for Ontario Hydro and the province's electricity industry. It began with the most devastating ice storm on record and the largest emergency power restoration effort ever undertaken by Ontario Hydro and its municipal utility allies in Eastern Ontario. Record summertime peak demand briefly approached the limits of our current in-service generating capacity. By the end of 1998, a new provincial statute, the Energy Competition Act, 1998, had rewritten the fundamental rules under which our industry has operated throughout most of this century. And these are only the major highlights of the period.

Despite unprecedented demands on Ontario Hydro's people, everything that happened during this period strengthened our conviction that we will be prepared for competition and that both commercial successor companies will be successful in the emerging North American energy services marketplace.

Our response to the ice storm showed how deep the reservoir of our organizational and technical skills really is and how committed our people are to the safety and well-being of our customers, regardless of the conditions that must be braved or workloads endured. They proved once again that reliability begins with people and that only people can sustain it.

But the wires networks are only one side – the delivery side – of the reliability equation. The other is supply reliability, and here too Ontario Hydro's generation staff, at our nuclear, hydroelectric and fossil-fueled stations, proved their resourcefulness and commitment to customers.

To replace the output of reactors laid up under the Nuclear Asset Optimization Program (NAOP), the Fossil business boosted its production to its highest level in more than a decade, and did so without exceeding provincial air emissions regulations. In Hydroelectric, production was constrained by low water levels, but staff nonetheless extracted every possible kilowatt out of their facilities. Both businesses, along with Central Market Operations, helped ensure that Ontario suffered no supply interruptions during the record spikes in summer peak demand that threatened shortages in other areas of North America.

The Nuclear business made substantial progress towards its multi-year goal of moving performance back to the top quartile of world nuclear industry standards. When Ontario Hydro's generating portfolio was assumed by Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG) on April 1, 1999, nuclear production and capability factors were up; forced outages were down; most performance targets were exceeded; and new agreements with our unions gave us more operational flexibility to speed the recovery to excellence and help position the company to seize more quickly the growing opportunities in the U.S. power marketplace.

All of the above was accomplished, moreover, during the restructuring of the corporation in line with the passage of the Energy Competition Act, 1998. This legislation marks Ontario as the first jurisdiction in North America to plan to introduce electricity competition at both the wholesale and the retail level at the same time. The Act ended Ontario Hydro's statutory existence and replaced it with two legally separate, commercially oriented successor companies – OPG and Ontario Hydro Services Company Inc. (OHSC). At the same time, Ontario Hydro's Central Market Operator became yet another separate entity, the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO), which will not only oversee the marketplace but direct the operation of the transmission system owned by OHSC. Municipal electric utilities and the Ontario Hydro Services Company alike are required to separate their monopoly wires businesses from their competitive merchant functions. Finally, Ontario Hydro's responsibility for electrical inspection throughout the province was transferred to a not-for-profit public agency, the Electrical Safety Authority.

These changes, large as they are, define only the barest framework of what Ontario's electricity marketplace will look like once competition is introduced by the government, expected sometime in the year 2000. Rules to assure both suppliers and customers of a level playing field must be fully developed before competition can begin. Much of this work was done during 1998 by the multi-stakeholder Market Design Committee (MDC), established at the beginning of 1998 to advise the government on detailed marketplace rules.

The MDC proposed a ten-year, staged reduction of Ontario Power Generation's control over provincial electricity supply, accompanied by measures to ensure price stability during the transition period when competition is first being established. As part of the proposal, the Ontario Hydro Services Company will make every effort to increase the province's interconnection capacity by 50% over the next five years. This plan has been accepted by the government. The future has begun.

The two commercial successor companies will use the remainder of 1999 to finalize their preparations for the open marketplace. One of their critical tasks will be to help customers prepare as well. Public education programs, through advertising and other forms of customer outreach, will be prominent this year. It is important to the success of customer choice that they understand the marketplace and their own energy service needs. Both companies will work with others in the industry to promote that understanding among all customers, not just their own.

In 1999, Ontario Hydro's successors will also finalize plans to ensure that the province enters the new millennium on January 1, 2000, without any interruption of power. Analysis, remediation, testing and Y2K-readiness certification of all critical systems was complete by the end of 1998. Coordination with suppliers, customers and interconnected systems will take place throughout the first half of 1999. All signs point to a successful rollover into 2000, but contingency planning is under way for the sake of prudence and public reassurance.

Throughout these final months, even as we planned for the future, we were determined not to lose our focus on what is most critical to our customers every single day: safety, reliability, service and competitive prices. We looked forward to the future, but we lived and worked in the present. Our customers' needs always took precedence. No matter what else may change for our successor companies, this basic operating principle will not.

As our successors move closer to a competitive future, they will build on Ontario Hydro's historic achievements. We expect that the new companies will contribute to the prosperity of Ontario in the next century at least as much as Ontario Hydro did in this one.

Ontario Hydro's Successors

THE YEAR 1998 WAS THE 92ND AND LAST FULL YEAR OF OPERATIONS FOR ONTARIO HYDRO. ON APRIL 1, 1999, IT WAS SUCCEEDED BY FIVE NEW SUCCESSOR ENTITIES, TWO OF WHICH ARE SEPARATELY MANAGED, COMMERCIALLY ORIENTED COMPANIES. THESE SUCCESSORS WERE INCORPORATED IN LATE 1998.

ONTARIO POWER GENERATION INC.

Ontario Power Generation (OPG) inherits Ontario Hydro's 31,000 megawatts of installed generating capacity at its 80 hydroelectric, nuclear and fossil-fueled stations, making it one of North America's largest power producers. OPG is very cost-competitive with U.S. generators in our region of the continent – a growing market for low-unit-cost, low-emission energy.

OPG facilities now supply about 85% of the province's electricity demand. Under an agreement with the provincial government, that proportion will be gradually reduced so that by about 2010, OPG will control no more than 35% of the province's total supply options. The company will increasingly compete in the U.S., as markets there open to competition.

ONTARIO HYDRO SERVICES COMPANY INC.

Ontario Hydro Services Company (OHSC) is a holding company with two major holdings: the 29,000-kilometre transmission grid and the 114,700-kilometre distribution system. It serves almost one million customers, mostly in rural and remote communities.

OHSC plans to leverage its infrastructure assets and the expertise of its employees to enter new businesses that will contribute to the company's growth and shareholder value.

INDEPENDENT ELECTRICITY MARKET OPERATOR

The Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) will serve two major functions in Ontario's electricity market. It will manage the spot market, reconciling transactions among buyers and sellers; and direct the operation of the provincial transmission system to ensure reliability and fair access under market rules. The IMO will have no commercial connection to any market participant.

ELECTRICAL SAFETY AUTHORITY

The Electrical Safety Authority will continue Ontario Hydro's former inspection service. It is a stand-alone, self-funded entity with no commercial ties to any utility or other energy services company.

ONTARIO ELECTRICITY FINANCIAL CORPORATION

The Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation is a Crown agent responsible for servicing and retiring Ontario Hydro's provincially guaranteed debt. It provides the risk management, cash management, banking and accounting services to manage and retire the debt. The OEFC is also responsible for administering the pension assets of Ontario Hydro until they can be allocated among the successor companies' pension plans.

ONTARIO HYDRO HAS FULFILLED THE AMBITIOUS MANDATE OF ITS VISIONARY FOUNDERS. A vast and sturdy network of wires brings electricity to everyone in Ontario. The hydroelectric potential of the province has largely been tapped. New technologies and processes have been readily embraced. Many major industries, the main source of Ontario's prosperity in this century, were attracted here by Ontario Hydro's low-cost, abundant power. These achievements are an enduring legacy to Ontario, as well as to the commercial corporations that succeed Ontario Hydro in the new era of customer choice. Bridging the accomplishments of the past and the opportunities of the future are four defining values: safety, reliability, competitiveness and customer service. Each of these is grounded in Ontario Hydro's traditional strengths. And each has been carried forward into the successor companies, guiding them to new achievements – beyond the imagination of Ontario Hydro's founders, perhaps, but not beyond their values.

Operations Report

IN A TIME OF CLIMATIC EXTREMES, UNPRECEDENTED OPERATIONAL CHALLENGES AND HISTORIC RESTRUCTURING LEGISLATION, THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO HYDRO NEVER LOST FOCUS ON THEIR CORE MISSION: RELIABLY AND SAFELY MEETING PROVINCIAL ELECTRICITY DEMAND. AT THE SAME TIME, THEY IMPROVED ASSET VALUE, LAUNCHED NEW SERVICES, ENHANCED CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIPS AND RESPONDED TO EMERGENCIES WITH PROFESSIONALISM AND COMMITMENT.

The Demerger Project

ORCHESTRATING THE LARGEST CORPORATE DEMERGER IN CANADIAN HISTORY TO ENSURE ITS SUCCESSOR COMPANIES WERE FULLY OPERATIONAL ON APRIL 1, 1999, WAS ONTARIO HYDRO'S FINAL SUCCESS.

The seamless transition of Ontario Hydro into its successor companies without even a momentary interruption of critical activities was the mission of the Demerger Project launched in mid-1998. Nearly one hundred employees were directly assigned to the complex undertaking and over one thousand more were indirectly involved at some point. The project was guided by the provincial government's 1997 White Paper on electricity industry restructuring and its enabling legislation, the Energy Competition Act, 1998.

A Demerger Project Office was charged with coordinating, monitoring and expediting the approximately 800 separate project activities identified by a Task Implementation Committee and assigned to one of six Task Working Groups, each responsible for a key aspect of the transition. An overview of the project's accomplishments:

• Corporate Finance Restructuring. The financial architecture of the new business entities was defined, including their debt/equity structures, credit ratings, asset valuation, initial balance sheets and business plans. The approach taken for each successor business involved balancing three key considerations: establishing a competitive electricity marketplace; allowing for the enhancement of shareholder value; and optimizing the repayment of the provincially backed Ontario Hydro debt.

• Governance/New Legislation. Transfer Orders for transfer of assets, contracts, liabilities, litigation and staff to the successor companies were prepared for government execution, and operating licences for OPG and OHSC were obtained from the regulator, the Ontario Energy Board. This area of activity also involved coordinating Ontario Hydro's position on restructuring legislation and regulation and recommending a schedule for the proclamation of sections of the Energy Competition Act, 1998 (ECA) and repeal of corresponding sections of the law it superseded, the Power Corporation Act (PCA).

• Operations. The specific functional requirements of each successor company were identified and addressed. These included each entity's organizational structure and staffing, initial operating plans and budgets, and due diligence in areas such as environment, contingency/emergency planning and First Nations considerations. Of particular importance in this area was coordinating the complex functional needs of large projects under way prior to demerger planning, such as the Nuclear Asset

The Demerger Project built the bridge between the achievements of our singular past and the opportunities that lie in our separate futures.

Optimization Plan, that were critical to the operation of a successor company.

• Legal/Transition Issues. All of Ontario Hydro's legislative and regulatory obligations under the PCA were transferred to a successor, in accordance with the new legislation. Some of these responsibilities, such as the regulation of municipal electric utilities, were assigned to regulatory bodies, such as the Ontario Energy Board.

• Corporate Functions. The necessary infrastructure for services and functions previously provided by a business unit in Ontario Hydro was developed for each successor. Services such as purchasing, health, security, telecom, real estate, information technology, corporate records, investment recovery and office space were provided through inter-company service agreements or make/buy decisions. Functions such as law, human resources, audit, finance, pension, treasury and corporate affairs were similarly addressed.

• Human Resources. Each employee of Ontario Hydro as of March 31, 1999, was transferred to a successor company, which had in place all necessary records and applicable labour agreements, as well as pension, compensation, benefits, and health and safety plans.

A full report on all the above activities was provided to each successor company prior to April 1. This report included an analysis of the subsequent work to be completed before the government declares the Ontario electricity market open to competition.

The success of the Demerger Project was twofold. Not only did it meet all its objectives, it also allowed everyone else in the corporation to continue devoting all their time and expertise to serving Ontario Hydro customers and, after the transition date, the customers of its successors. It built the bridge between the achievements of our singular past and the opportunities that lie in our separate futures.

Excellence Today Means Competitiveness Tomorrow

GETTING READY TO COMPETE AS ONTARIO POWER GENERATION IN WHAT WILL SOON BE ONE OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST POWER MARKETPLACES, THE GENERATION COMPANY INCREASED OPERATIONAL EFFICIENCIES, TECHNOLOGICALLY UPGRADED SEVERAL FACILITIES AND MADE SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS TOWARDS ITS GOAL OF BECOMING ONE OF THE WORLD'S TOP PERFORMERS.

NUCLEAR

Ontario Hydro Nuclear (OHN) made substantial progress during the last 15 months towards its multi-year goal of bringing its operations back into the top quartile of global nuclear industry performance.

Early in 1998, the Board of Directors approved the Integrated Improvement Program (IIP), the operational underpinning of the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP) that had been recommended in 1997 by the Nuclear Performance Advisory Group. The NAOP called for the temporary lay-up of eight reactor units at Pickering A and Bruce A and the concentration of OHN resources on the remaining 12, four each at Pickering B, Bruce B and Darlington.

By the end of April 1998, the major elements of the IIP had been identified, including milestone dates and key deliverables. A team from the World Association of Nuclear Operators (WANO) visited Pickering, Bruce and Darlington in the spring of 1998 and confirmed that the IIP was a comprehensive statement of the problems needing correction in OHN and that the program was sound. Key areas for performance improvement included the planning and execution of planned outages; the implementation of standardized policies, procedures and processes; and the establishment of an organization needed to achieve all objectives.

By March 1998, the four Pickering A units were safely laid up, following some 100,000 hours of work. Most of the staff were then transferred to Pickering B to work on IIP projects on those four reactors. In March as well, the Board reconfirmed its August 1997 decision to temporarily lay up Bruce A units 3 and 4 in order to free up more resources for the IIP. The Bruce lay-up work began in April 1998 and will be completed in 1999. Some of the Bruce A staff moved over to the Bruce B units; others have been deployed to Darlington.

The most fundamental indicator of nuclear performance improvement is a composite index based on nine measures specified by WANO:

- Capability Factor
- Safety System Performance
- Chemistry Performance
- Unplanned Capability Loss Factor
- Thermal Performance
- Collective Radiation Exposure
- Reactor Trip Rate
- Fuel Reliability
- Industrial Safety Accident Rate

By the end of the first quarter of 1999, the OHN Performance Index had reached a level of 69.2

– out of a total index of 100 – exceeding its target for the fifth consecutive quarter and bettering by nearly 11 index points the level at the end of 1997.

Stakeholder Communications

In late 1997, OHN began issuing monthly performance report cards to keep government and other stakeholders apprised of nuclear recovery progress. These report cards continued throughout 1998 and into 1999. In addition to the WANO-specified OHN Performance Index, the card also reported on 14 other monthly performance indicators, grouped in the following four areas:

- Public Safety
- Production Performance
- Environment
- Employee Safety

Of the 15 indicators on the monthly report card, OHN had met or exceeded the target in 12 categories by the end of March 1999, compared with only six at the end of January 1998. In the area of Production Performance, for example, OHN's net electrical production for 1998 was 59.9 terawatt-hours, compared with the target, 56.3 terawatt-hours; and the capability factor was better than its target, as was the total of outage days per unit.

While these numbers were very encouraging, Nuclear is determined to accelerate IIP progress during the remainder of 1999, to improve its ability to supply competitively priced power in the Ontario and North American energy marketplaces as they open to competition.

Also in the Reporting Period

In March 1998, Pickering was granted a 12-month operating licence by the Atomic Energy Control Board, and in March 1999, the licence was renewed for a further two years. In November 1998, Darlington was granted a two-year licence renewal.

In the first quarter of 1998, the Bruce Heavy Water Plant was decommissioned.

Between June and December 1998, Pickering set a new employee safety record of 2.6 million person-hours worked without a lost-time injury.

Nuclear Waste Management

Ontario Hydro has always had responsibility for the management of nuclear waste in a manner that is safe, as well as environmentally, socially and financially responsible. Finding a safe and acceptable long-term way to manage Canada's nuclear fuel waste has been studied for several years by the federal government, with support from Ontario Hydro. In December, a major step towards this goal was taken when the government of Canada responded to the report of the Nuclear Fuel Waste Management and Disposal Concept Environmental Assessment Panel.

Ontario Hydro welcomed the federal government response and the direction it provided for the long-term management of nuclear fuel waste in Canada. Work is continuing with the federal and Ontario governments and other Canadian nuclear utilities to implement work programs designed to achieve the goals of the federal government's nuclear waste management policy.

Isotope Sales

Ontario Power Generation also succeeds Ontario Hydro as the world's largest supplier of the radioactive isotopes cobalt 60 and tritium, and is one of the largest suppliers of deuterium oxide (heavy water). These isotopes, which are byproducts of the company's Nuclear operations, are in great demand in the medical, industrial and research sectors. Isotope sales have consistently met business plan projections while contributing to Ontario Hydro's net income.

Despite facing unusual production demands during 1998, Fossil met or bettered all of its key performance targets.

FOSSIL

The Fossil business was called on to dramatically increase its production during 1998 and the first quarter of 1999 to offset reductions in Nuclear. It delivered 35 terawatt-hours of energy in 1998 – its highest production level in over a decade. As a result, provincial electricity supply reliability and service to export customers was never compromised, even during the unprecedented surge in summer peak demand.

In the first quarter of 1999, even with strong secondary sales and January production that was the highest for any single month this decade, Fossil production was slightly below target because of higher than expected Hydroelectric and Nuclear production.

Despite facing unusual production demands during 1998, Fossil met or bettered all of its key performance targets, including those related to the environment. Generating-unit reliability was significantly better than targeted levels and, at the same time, both OM&A and fuel unit energy costs were kept under budget. Not only did the business meet its ambitious safety targets, but its performance in this area was the best ever.

To achieve this dramatic increase in production from previous years, Fossil stepped up virtually all its production plans. Throughout the period, reliability and flexibility were the hallmarks of Fossil's operation. When very favourable market conditions developed, Fossil was able to quickly change its plans – by realigning maintenance outages, fuel deliveries and staffing – to take advantage of higher prices.

Another key factor in Fossil's performance was its fuel supply program, which had to be ramped up quickly but economically. During 1998, the program not only provided the 15 million tons of coal and 3 million barrels of oil required to generate 35 terawatt-hours, it also was able to increase the proportion of low-sulphur, high-quality coal in the fuel mix. This helped ensure that the business met acid gas emission regulations and self-imposed emission rate targets for both acid gas and carbon dioxide emissions.

In December, the Thunder Bay plant achieved ISO 14001 certification, and at Lennox the return to service of two mothballed units was completed. Also late in the year, the Lennox plant celebrated the successful completion of its gas pipeline and boiler conversion project, enabling two of the plant's four units to burn both natural gas and oil. The conversion lowers the plant's operating costs by about 20%. It also reduces sulphur dioxide, nitrogen oxide and greenhouse gas emissions by about 25%.

The Nanticoke and Lambton plants made progress on major remedial programs, including a variety of turbine and boiler projects that will improve future reliability, operating efficiency and environmental performance. In addition, Nanticoke made modifications so it could use natural gas instead of oil in the furnace ignition system, as well as to fire a coal drying process to improve the combustion of lower-cost, low-sulphur coal from the western United States. The plant also completed installation of new burners on five of its eight generating units, reducing nitrogen oxide emissions from those units by about 30%.

HYDROELECTRIC

A shortened spring snow melt coupled with below-normal precipitation across the province

resulted in Hydroelectric's total 1998 energy production from its 69 generating stations being 2.7 terawatt-hours less than the target of 34.6. The lower water levels, however, gave the Hydroelectric business the opportunity to perform necessary facility maintenance and more aggressively implement its ongoing program of capital investments. During the year, the 14th unit of a 16-unit rehabilitation program was completed at Robert H. Saunders Generating Station. At the Sir Adam Beck 2 Generating Station, the third and fourth units of a 16-unit upgrade were completed, with new runners and major components replaced or refurbished. In total, Hydroelectric invested $134 million in 1998 on these and other refurbishment programs.

Also in 1998, Hydroelectric completed significant portions of a program leading to ISO 14001 certification of its Environmental Management System (EMS) for its production facilities. The EMS ensures that Hydroelectric facilities are operated in a manner that meets internationally recognized quality standards for environmental performance, which is increasingly important in a competitive marketplace.

Hydroelectric formed a Small Hydro Division in 1998, comprising 26 stations accounting for almost 2% of the total Hydroelectric capacity. The new division creates a more distinct business focus for these assets, providing a greater degree of operational flexibility and better positioning them for the growing consumer interest in environment-friendly power.

Hydroelectric had many occasions to celebrate both its past and present achievements in 1998. In March, Ear Falls G.S. was reopened after a fire in 1997 that badly damaged the powerhouse and the generators. The station was refurbished in record time, complete with a new powerhouse and four new generators.

In August, celebrations marked the 100th anniversary of DeCew Falls G.S. 1 in St. Catharines, Ontario's oldest operating hydroelectric station. Other significant service milestones this year were the 50th anniversary of Stewartville G.S. on the Madawaska River and the 40th anniversary of Robert H. Saunders G.S. on the St. Lawrence River. These celebrations were all reminders of the enduring value of our hydroelectric system and give greater meaning to our reinvestments to preserve and enhance our ability to produce safe and reliable energy from a renewable water resource.

WORKING WITH OUR CUSTOMERS

Our core product is electricity but our flexibility in pricing, supply conditions, energy services and account management allowed us to tailor offerings to best meet customer needs.

Here are some examples of how Ontario Hydro strengthened customer relationships through new services, communications and business initiatives.

- Customers learned how to understand and benefit from the coming competitive electricity marketplace through the Quest – Learning Together series of day-long sessions held throughout the year.
- Customers participating in the Interconnected Market Gain Sharing Program made money in June 1998 during a major price spike in the U.S. Northeast. The program allowed firm power customers to reduce their purchases in exchange for a share of OPG's gains from selling power at higher market prices.
- In response to customer demand, Ontario Hydro designed a wholesale green power offering that is EcoLogo certified. It includes new and existing renewables such as small hydro, landfill gas and wind.

Focused on Reliability – Poised for Growth

MAINTAINING AND IMPROVING WIRES NETWORKS THAT COULD CIRCLE THE GLOBE NEARLY FOUR TIMES WAS THE FIRST RESPONSIBILITY OF ONTARIO HYDRO SERVICES COMPANY. THE SECOND WAS THE GROWTH OF COMPETITIVE BUSINESSES THROUGH THE MARKETING OF ENERGY, NETWORK AND RELATED SERVICES THAT CUSTOMERS WANT, NEED AND VALUE.

ICE STORM SHOWCASES CRISIS CAPABILITIES

The fundamental strengths of Ontario Hydro Services Company (OHSC) were never more impressively illustrated than in January 1998, when over 600,000 people in an area of 25,000 square kilometres in Eastern Ontario lost power during the most severe ice storm on record. In five devastating days, the sheer weight of unprecedented accumulations of ice – nearly twice the typical amount for an entire year – literally crushed the electricity system. Hundreds of steel transmission towers crumpled. Seven thousand wooden distribution poles snapped like matchsticks, bringing 1,800 pole-top transformers down with them. By the time it was over, the storm had damaged 40% of Eastern Ontario's transmission and distribution systems.

Local OHSC and municipal crews began power restoration efforts even before the storm abated, and reinforcements quickly flowed into the region from across the province and beyond. At the peak of the effort, nearly 2,200 front-line workers laboured 16 hours a day, seven days a week, in piercing cold and sometimes blizzard-like snowstorms. Over half were Ontario Hydro staff; the rest were from other utilities in Ontario and elsewhere. Nearly 1,000 Canadian Armed Forces personnel worked tirelessly alongside the utility crews. Behind the scenes, hundreds more OHSC staff orchestrated the supply lines, answered a quarter-million calls from worried customers, and handled the countless details that went into speeding the recovery. Within two weeks, over 90% of all affected Ontario Hydro residential and business customers had their power restored, an incredible feat by any standards. A post-event analysis led to an updating and reorganization of OHSC emergency response procedures, so that if such an event occurs again, the recovery would be even quicker.

The historic response of Ontario Hydro Services Company staff to the ice storm will long serve as the reminder we all perhaps need occasionally that the most important element of power system reliability is the human one. The skill, dedication and professionalism brought by OHSC staff to this crisis are with us all year long. They are the reason OHSC is confident it can continue to maintain the transmission and distribution reliability standards Ontario has come to expect, and do so with increasing efficiency and continuously renewed sensitivity to our customers' needs.

ASSET MANAGEMENT BUSINESS MODEL

OHSC has adopted an asset management

business model for its wires networks that separates decisions on the investments needed to maintain and improve assets from the actual work on those assets. Under this model, which is also in use at best-practice utilities worldwide, OHSC's Network Asset Management Group makes the investment decisions and the Network Services Group performs the work. This approach ensures reliability and optimum use of assets with the most efficient use of OHSC's human and financial resources.

At the transmission level, the new model has been implemented with the creation of the Transmission Operation Management (TOM) Centre – OHSC's link to other key electricity system participants: suppliers, customers, the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) and Network Services. The centre also coordinates and implements emergency response plans during significant transmission system events. It also contains Outage Management, System Performance, Operating Effectiveness and Operating Strategy Implementation departments.

At the distribution level, OHSC has launched its new Distribution Operations Management Centre, which will take over responsibility for answering after-hours trouble calls for the entire province by September 15, 1999. The centre allows much better coordination of work crews and lets us inform customers when they can expect their power to be restored. Eventually, the Distribution Operations Management Centre will operate a sophisticated Distribution Outage Management System, which will further improve customer service.

OHSC has also initiated a major re-engineering of its business processes, with a new work management, material management and financial system and an upgrade of computer technology infrastructure.

NEW GENERATION PLANT IN REMOTE NORTHERN COMMUNITY

To ensure future reliability to the Northern logging community of Armstrong, the Remote Communities program installed a new diesel generating plant comprising three generators with a total capacity of 2,550 kilowatts (kW) and a prime rating of 1,450 kW. Peak load in the service area is now 900 kW, allowing community and local industry growth. The prime rating of the existing 25-year-old plant was being exceeded. With the old plant located close to a trout stream, relocation to another, lower-risk site was the preferred option.

The new installation incorporates the latest in operational and environmental controls, such as a SCADA system. It is housed in a diesel plant that employs the most up-to-date environmental technology for these remote applications.

As part of the legal separation of OPG and OHSC, a special legislative provision was put in place to keep the generation business within OHSC in remote Far North communities.

CUSTOMER COMMUNICATION CENTRES UPGRADED, EXPANDED

The centralized Customer Communication Centres (CCC), which celebrated their first full year of operation in 1998, experienced their "trial by ice" in January by fielding as many as 30,000 calls a day in round-the-clock operations. An analysis of the ice storm response led to the installation of new call flooding technologies that enable automated reporting of outages directly from the customer to the appropriate service centre.

During the year as well, a Customer Loyalty Centre was set up within CCC's operation. The centres handle billing and service inquiries and issues for over 900,000 retail customers. The Customer Loyalty Centre works with customers to quickly resolve their concerns, taking corrective or compensatory action when necessary. By tracking complaints, the centre can help determine the nature and scope of service failures and assist in identifying policy and process changes that lead to improvements.

Consolidating the customer telephone service to the Customer Communication Centres allowed the extension of service hours: customers can now call from 7:30 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. This year the centres will increase availability to customers even more. Although 24-hour emergency outage response service has always been provided, a new call answering system will be brought on line, allowing a higher volume of outage emergency calls. As well, the centres will implement a further extension to hours, opening up our regular lines until 8:00 p.m.

OH TELECOM VENTURE

OHSC began preparing in 1998 to launch telecommunications. As a "carriers' carrier," OH Telecom may transmit data and voice communications through its optical fibre network in Ontario for clients such as long-distance telephone carriers, Internet service providers and corporations with large-scale data transfer requirements.

RETAIL MERCHANT COMPETITIVE SERVICES

Commercially oriented services were introduced by OHSC in 1998. Indeed, this is an example of the OHSC strategy of building competitive businesses by leveraging existing assets and expertise. All its non-regulated energy services are offshoots of its resident skills and are aimed at identified market opportunities that have been carefully analyzed for their growth potential.

PAYONE PROGRAM LAUNCHED

PayONE is a sophisticated bill consolidation and utility accounting service aimed at commercial and institutional customers with multiple sites, such as restaurant chains, property management companies, retailers and school boards. The program, piloted with McDonald's locations in Ontario, collects all the utility bills the customer receives (such as electricity, gas, water and sewage), verifies them, pays the utility and sends a single, electronic consolidated bill in a format that best suits the customer's needs. Besides freeing up accounting staff and saving customers money in other ways, the service provides utility usage and cost profiles, trending and benchmarking that will support operating decisions and help set budgets. PayONE signed up several clients in 1998 and more are expected in 1999.

CUSTOM SOLUTIONS

Commercial and industrial energy management is a growing business sector and Custom Solutions is already in this business, with some early notable successes under its belt. The largest was a project to identify, design, implement and finance utility cost-saving opportunities for Cadillac Fairview at 18 commercial properties across Ontario. Total savings of $1.1 million annually were identified on a one-time investment of $3.2 million.

Other services include PowerSelect, which addresses power quality requirements, and Utility Accounting and Analysis. This latter service, among other things, simplifies, compares and analyzes billing data for multi-site customers and gives them a historical view of their electricity consumption and operating costs.

NORTHWIND TORONTO PROJECT

OHSC, in a commercial alliance with Toronto

Hydro and Unicom Thermal Technologies of Chicago, is developing Canada's first major district cooling project, which will provide services in Toronto's downtown core.

OPEX 2000

In January 1999, OHSC's program to achieve operational excellence was launched. By overhauling old processes or introducing new ones, OpEx 2000 will enable OHSC to optimize capital and productivity, and deliver excellent customer service. In short, through OpEx 2000, we will ensure we are running effectively and efficiently – and that we have what it takes to thrive in the competitive marketplace.

Several key processes and initiatives, critical to business success, constitute OpEx 2000: Customer Service; Distribution Network Asset Management; Transmission Network Asset Management; Design and Construction; Resource Management (Scheduling and Bid/Work Ordering); Operations, Maintenance and Restoration; Logistical Support (Trades Training, Supply Management, Fleet Management); Facility Management; Performance Management; Health, Safety and Environment; and Change Management/Communications.

In 1998, OHSC Forestry achieved the type of productivity gains to be realized through OpEx 2000 process improvements. Through such measures as the consolidation of crews, use of temporary work headquarters to reduce traveling time and the establishment of clear performance objectives, more work was accomplished, more safely, in 1998 than in 1997. This achievement is even more significant given the fact that all regular forestry work had to be suspended for six weeks in early 1998 because of the ice storm restoration demands.

LARGE-SCALE YEAR 2000 TEST

On March 6, 1999, Ontario's first major test of Y2K readiness of OHSC's transmission network was successfully conducted without any interruption of power to the 180,000 customers of Toronto Hydro that might have been affected. At midnight, the SCADA system for Manby Transmission Station and the seven other transmission stations it controls, as well as all associated protection and communications equipment, underwent a simulated rollover to midnight, January 1, 2000. While each of these systems had been previously tested individually and certified Year 2000 ready, this was the first test of all the equipment working together. The test then continued until the clocks on the equipment successfully passed the simulated date of February 29, 2000, another critical date because next year is a leap year.

ARC2000 PROJECT

Another key program was launched in the first quarter of 1999 to develop an information technology architecture for OHSC that will govern how the business acquires, builds, modifies and uses information technology (IT) resources, from applications and databases, to network, software and hardware components. OHSC's independence, and the expanded information demands of an open marketplace, require considerable investment in these areas. Electronic interactions with the Independent Electricity Market Operator and generating companies, emerging regulatory requirements and both the OpEx 2000 and Market Ready initiatives are examples of significant IT-enabled projects either in progress or in the advanced planning stages. ARC2000 will establish an integrated framework of principles, specifications, standards and directions to guide these and all other such projects in OHSC's future.

Ontario Hydro's investment in Luz del Sur yielded a 16% dividend as the Peruvian electricity distribution company continued to grow and improve productivity.

PHASE SHIFTERS AUGMENT MICHIGAN-ONTARIO CONNECTION

Under the terms of the recently signed Michigan-Ontario Interconnection Facilities Expansion Agreement between OHSC and two Michigan utilities, two phase-shifting transformers will be installed and operational by mid-2000 at Lambton and another will be installed in Michigan by Detroit Edison, along with a new autotransformer. This joint project will enhance electricity transactions between the two jurisdictions and increase Ontario's capacity to import from the U.S. and relieve congestion on the east-to-west movement of power.

GREENCHOICE GENERATION

Some customers want to choose to have part of their electricity come from renewable energy sources. Through our GreenChoice Generation pilot, some of OHSC's retail customers have that option. Although "green" energy costs slightly more, some companies are willing to pay the extra dollars to know that green power is being added to the grid. GreenChoice Generation customers receive a plaque showing how much of their energy comes from environment-friendly sources and are authorized to use the EcoLogo symbol on company letterhead and promotional materials.

ONTARIO HYDRO INTERNATIONAL INC.

Ontario Hydro International's 15% investment in Luz del Sur yielded a 16% dividend for 1998 as the Peruvian electricity distribution company continued to grow and improve productivity. Although the Peruvian economy was hit by adverse El Niño weather and affected by the Asian economic slowdown, Luz del Sur's energy sales grew by 10% as the number of customers grew by 2%. Continuing efforts to improve the performance of the distribution system resulted in a 17% reduction in energy losses.

During 1998, Ontario Hydro assisted Luz del Sur to introduce a state-of-the-art thermovision unit for preventive maintenance on its transmission and distribution network. This technology will help LDS further reduce operations and maintenance costs.

In Central America, OHII directed Ontario Hydro's assistance to Honduras in the wake of Hurricane Mitch. Hydro pledged $500,000 for expertise and equipment to help restore electricity to the devastated country. Two technicians were quickly sent to work with the Honduran utility to assess reconstruction needs.

Gateway to the Electricity Marketplace

CENTRAL MARKET OPERATIONS' ROLE AS THE MINUTE-BY-MINUTE GUARDIAN OF ONTARIO'S TRANSMISSION SYSTEM SECURITY DID NOT CHANGE WHEN IT BECAME THE PROVINCE'S INDEPENDENT ELECTRICITY MARKET OPERATOR, BUT ITS MANDATE WAS GREATLY ENLARGED TO INCLUDE MANAGEMENT OF ONE OF NORTH AMERICA'S LARGEST POWER MARKETPLACES.

Ontario Hydro's Central Market Operations (CMO) has faced extraordinary challenges during the past 15 months, beginning with the January 1998 ice storm, which felled several large sections of the transmission system in Eastern Ontario. During the storm and its aftermath, CMO staff worked around the clock, and in close cooperation with both the Generation and Services companies, to deal with the numerous outages, adjust system equipment and minimize the impact of the storm on the rest of Ontario and on interconnections with other jurisdictions.

Six months later, another climatic extreme, this time a prolonged heat wave in several large areas of North America, shattered peak power demand records and put unprecedented pressures on the continental interconnected network. Again, CMO staff worked closely with the rest of Ontario Hydro and with other jurisdictions to not only meet the province's record demand but also export power to other jurisdictions. Despite these challenges posed by the heat wave and the ice storm, CMO met or exceeded all performance targets of the North American Electricity Reliability Council (NERC) throughout this period.

In addition to safeguarding bulk electricity system security, CMO staff played a key role in the development of Ontario's future competitive electricity marketplace. CMO specialists were represented on all technical panels of the government-appointed Market Design Committee, as well as on the rules drafting team and the Coordination Committee.

CMO TO IMO: THE TRANSITION

During 1998, work began on the infrastructure program to transform CMO into the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) called for in the Energy Competition Act, 1998, the provincial legislation that restructures Ontario's electricity system. This program, which will continue throughout the rest of 1999, will deliver the design, development, documentation, testing, commissioning and implementation of the critical operational infrastructure of the IMO. By year-end, independent systems for financial and treasury management were already in place, and the entire program is on schedule to meet all deadlines required for the opening of the marketplace.

Ontario Hydro Corporate Activities

Sustainable Development: A Key Element of Future Competitive Success

Environmental performance is increasingly viewed as a key customer consideration that will grow in importance as the competitive power market matures. Given similar prices, many customers will prefer a supplier with a strong environmental track record. Market research shows that many customers are willing to pay at least a modest premium for power that they know has been produced in environmentally sensitive ways. Moreover, investors are becoming keenly interested in how environmental obligations are managed, ongoing compliance assured and potential liabilities avoided.

For these reasons, Ontario Hydro's commitment to sustainable development practices has laid the foundation for the competitive success of its successor companies. Sustainable development – conducting business in a way that meets current needs without compromising the ability of future generations to meet theirs – is not so much a specific program as a way of thinking about three "bottom lines": financial, social and environmental.

The financial aspects of sustainable development activities in both successor companies focus on two major objectives: getting more value from environmental expenditures and reducing future environmental risks and liabilities through sound environmental management programs and, where necessary, remediation efforts. The social bottom line, on the other hand, drives us to earn the respect and loyalty of our customers, including those in the communities within which we operate. There are many ways in which this objective is pursued, principal of which is an honest and transparent disclosure of the environmental impacts of our operations. OPG, for example, will continue to consult with established environmental advisory groups around its major generating stations and is actively engaging the local community, as did Ontario Hydro, on how it can better respond to their needs.

Ontario Hydro's environmental performance commitments were embodied in the adoption of the ISO 14001 standards for Environmental Management Systems by all of the businesses within the corporation.

The following are some of the many sustainable-development-oriented projects completed during the past 15 months.

Deer Lake Mini-Hydro

Deer Lake is one of the 23 communities served by OHSC's Remote Communities group. It is accessible only by air or winter road. Until recently, the community's electricity was supplied by three diesel generators. With the community load demand outstripping existing plant capability, Ontario Hydro Technologies installed two 245-kilowatt mini-hydroelectric generators at nearby Shoulderblade Falls. This project was partnered with the Remote Communities group, Deer Lake First Nation and the federal Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. This installation will provide nearly 90% of the community's power needs and significantly reduce dependence on diesel fuel.

Emissions Reduction Trading

Since 1996, Ontario Hydro has participated with other industries, government and non-governmental organizations in the Pilot Emissions Reduction Trading (PERT) Project. The goal of the project, in which Ontario Hydro's successors will continue to participate, is to provide market incentives to improve environmental performance. By voluntarily investing in equipment and practices that reduce emissions, PERT member companies earn credits, which can be bought or sold, for each tonne of emissions reduced. In 1998, Ontario Hydro purchased credits from Beaver Fuels, enabling that company to sell cleaner gasoline without raising prices at the pump, and sold nitrogen oxide credits to the Hartford Steam Boiler Company in Connecticut. Ontario Hydro's participation in this innovative program helped reduce nitrogen oxide emissions in eastern North America, and its generation successor company will steadily add to that contribution.

Ontario Hydro has helped reduce nitrogen oxide emissions in eastern North America, and its generation successor company will steadily add to that contribution.

Restoring the Storm-Damaged Landscape

Thousands of trees in Eastern Ontario were killed by the January 1998 ice storm. Estimates placed tree damage as high as 70% in the Ottawa-Kingston corridor alone. To aid in environmental restoration, Ontario Hydro donated $50,000 to the Evergreen Foundation to fund a program enlisting volunteer support to plant new trees in the region. Three thousand trees – among them red maple, grey birch, green ash, white spruce, trembling aspen, white oak, white elm and linden – were distributed to 35 schools and 28 community groups.

Human Resources/Health and Safety Performance

To meet the needs of the business, including the unique requirements of the nuclear recovery program and the challenges associated with the demerger of Ontario Hydro, Corporate Human Resources:

- redefined the business relationship with 95% of 21,000 employees and greatly improved operational flexibility by successfully negotiating separate collective agreements for each of the successor businesses;
- allocated approximately 21,000 employees and 15,000 pensioners to the successor companies without a single grievance;
- due to excellent cooperation with the unions, resolved a backlog of more than 3,100 grievances with as few as 10% being resolved by a third party;
- defined new organizational structures, responsibilities and accountabilities;
- introduced a new, contemporary Code of Business Conduct designed to reinforce the culture required of the companies in a competitive marketplace;
- introduced a new and integrated payroll system designed to contribute to improved productivity and ensure Year 2000 compliance;
- enhanced recruitment systems for new and existing skills;
- developed succession planning and executive development programs to ensure effective leadership and management capability in the future; and
- organized and administered Ontario Hydro's 10th annual Corporate Awards program to recognize and celebrate the excellence, ingenuity and capability of employees in the areas of customer service, safety, environmental sustainability, technology and innovation; the various projects saved the corporation over $154 million.

Health and Safety

- The unfortunate death of an employee in a March 1999 motor vehicle accident was the corporation's first fatality since 1994.
- Although the number of days lost/charged per million hours worked (Accident Severity Rate) was higher in 1998 than in 1997, this critical indicator of occupational health and safety has nevertheless improved by more than 200% over the last five years.

• The All Injury Frequency Rate, which tracks the number of incidents occurring within the corporation, improved in 1998.

Ontario Hydro Technologies

Throughout 1998, Ontario Hydro Technologies (OHT) supported a wide range of specialized needs from Hydro's business units. OHT achieved ISO 9001 certification in 1998. In April 1999, OHT was renamed Ontario Power Technologies, a wholly owned subsidiary of Ontario Power Generation.

Environmental Land Assessment: OHT conducted a major soils testing program for OHSC, sampling nearly 1,000 transmission, distribution and microwave communication sites in the province, and conducted comprehensive testing through its analytical chemistry laboratory. This project was part of OHSC's Land Assessment and Remediation Program and was one of the largest programs of its kind ever conducted in Canada.

Extensive assistance was provided to generating station operations including:
• a comprehensive review and predictions of corrosion and deuterium uptake in operating pressure tubes for Nuclear;
• new methods for flaw assessment in fuel channels at Bruce B and assessments for Bruce, Darlington and Pickering;
• leak detection technologies for steam generators;
• seismic testing of Darlington components;
• outage support for ultrasonic inspection of steam generator tubes at nuclear stations;
• engineering support for nuclear maintenance operations;
• generator stator chemical cleaning at Pickering;
• flow-induced vibration analysis of Bruce B preheater tubes;
• accident/impact/handling analysis of radioactive waste transportation containers;
• emission characterization and consultation on stack sampling methods for Fossil; and
• penstock repairs at High Falls and specialized concrete services at Saunders G.S. for Hydroelectric.

Strategic Research and Development focused on three program areas: Customer Power, including energy efficiency and power quality enhancement; Smart Systems, including advanced system monitoring technologies; and Distributed Generation, such as fuel cells and micro turbines.

Business Development: With its strategic partner, Babcock & Wilcox, OHT launched a new applications company in March 1999 named Integran Technologies Inc. The new company will market an advanced materials technology developed at OHT in collaboration with researchers at the University of Toronto and Queen's University. Applications vary from improved lead acid batteries to wear-resistant materials coatings.

OHT successfully negotiated an exclusive licence agreement with Sumitomo Corporation for the commercialization in Japan of OHT's proprietary technologies for the destruction of PCBs in mineral oil and askarels, as well as for the decontamination of electrical equipment containing PCBs.

Ready for Year 2000

Ontario Hydro's Year 2000 readiness program was always a top priority of the corporation since 1996, when it began. The scope of the program, which continues under the successor companies, includes all necessary remediation of computer-dependent systems, contingency planning and close cooperation with stakeholders and strategic partners. The Y2K team, at times more than 600 professionals, is working with a budget in excess of $100 million on the three-stage program.

Stage One – Operational Sustainability – included the analysis, remediation, testing and Y2K readiness certification of all critical systems. This stage had essentially been completed by year-end 1998. An independent assessment of the program early in 1999 confirmed its basic soundness.

Stage Two – Operational Readiness – tests how the individually certified systems work together. These large-scale integration tests have been successfully conducted at generation sites (Bruce nuclear site, two of four planned fossil generation sites, and at five of seven planned hydroelectric generation sites) as well as at a major representative grid location (a set of transformer stations in the Toronto area). Ontario Hydro and its successor companies have been working with the North American Electricity Reliability Council (NERC) to test interoperability within the continent's Eastern Interconnection, of which Ontario is a component. Also during this stage, which is expected to be completed by mid-1999, Ontario Hydro's successor companies will assess the Y2K readiness of external suppliers, direct customers, municipal electric utilities and independent power producer partners.

Stage Three – Event Readiness. Based on the findings in Stage Two, emergency response and preparedness plans will be developed to ensure safety and reliability across Ontario and to minimize the potential risk from external suppliers and from other external entities. Drills and event simulations will be conducted in cooperation with NERC, and Ontario Hydro's successor companies will work with provincial and municipal agencies to pre-establish responses to unplanned power interruptions. Plans will be put in place to operate the electricity system in a conservative, precautionary posture during the Year 2000 rollover. This stage will be completed by November 1999.

Throughout the entire program, Ontario Hydro shared information with other utilities and participated in cross-industry programs to identify common risks and help find solutions. Moreover, information on Y2K readiness progress is made available to customers and other stakeholders through frequent publications and on the OPG and OHSC websites.

As this overview shows, Ontario Hydro took all possible actions to ensure the reliability of Ontario's power system when the clock ticks over at the end of 1999. As a result of these precautions, which the successor companies are completing, the direct impact of this unique event in human history is expected to be manageable in Ontario.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31, 1999

Ontario Hydro carried on business for the three months ended March 31, 1999, before operations were transferred to one of the successor entities upon the restructuring of the Corporation. During the three months, operations were typical compared to previous years' experiences, and were in accordance with plan. There were no significant, unforeseen events that affected the Corporation's operating results or financial position.

A summary of the financial highlights for the three months ended March 31, 1999, and March 31, 1998, is as follows:

| (millions of dollars) | MARCH 31 1999 | 1998 (unaudited) |
|---|---|---|
| Revenues | 2,594 | 2,484 |
| Costs | 1,463 | 1,250 |
| Financing charges | 687 | 734 |
| Net income | 444 | 500 |
| Cash provided from operations | 806 | 719 |
| Cash used for investing activities | 149 | 228 |
| Cash used for financing activities | 587 | 401 |
| Interest coverage | 1.66 | 1.71 |
| Debt ratio | 1.086 | 1.135 |

Net income for the first three months of 1999 was $444 million, down $56 million from 1998's first quarter. While revenue for the three months ended March 31, 1999, was $110 million higher and financing charges were $47 million lower, these were more than offset by a $213 million increase in costs.

Total revenue of $2,594 million for the first three months of 1999 is $110 million higher than revenue during the first quarter of 1998. Primary power and energy revenue of $2,511 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $86 million higher than the $2,425 million revenue for the first three months of 1998. Energy sales increased in 1999 because warmer than usual weather conditions during the first quarter of 1998 lowered demand during that period.

Secondary power and energy revenue of $21 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $16 million higher than the same period in 1998 because of increased energy sales outside the Province.

Other revenue of $62 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $8 million higher than the $54 million for the first three months of 1998 because of a gain on investments.

Costs of $1,463 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, are $213 million higher than the $1,250 million of costs for the first three months of 1998. The changes are as follows:

- $167 million increase in operation, maintenance & administration (OM&A) costs,
- $44 million increase in fuel used for electric generation,
- $17 million decrease in power purchased, and
- $19 million increase in depreciation and amortization.

OM&A costs are higher by $167 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to the same period in 1998. Significant variances are as follows:

- $50 million for repairs resulting from the 1998 ice storm, which were charged to the provision for future costs, lowered the costs charged to OM&A in 1998 compared to 1999,
- $30 million for increased integrated improvement program work in nuclear operations,
- $15 million preparing the Electricity Production, Merchant Function and Business Services groups to operate in the new business environment beginning April 1, 1999.

Included in OM&A costs for the three months ended March 31, 1999, is $37 million attributable to the final closing of Ontario Hydro's financial records, and a $23 million adjustment for obsolete nuclear materials inventory. This is dissimilar to March 31, 1998, because the prior year's first quarter results are on the basis of operations continuing as usual for the remainder of 1998.

The cost of $141 million for fuel used for electric generation during the first three months of 1999 is $44 million higher than the cost for the first three months of 1998, which is consistent with increased fossil generation and higher energy sales. Power purchased costs are $17 million less for the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to the same period last year, because some of the purchases during the first three months of 1999 supported the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP) and the costs were charged to the provision for future costs.

Depreciation costs of $402 million are $19 million higher for the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to the same period in 1998, which is consistent with fixed assets in service being higher as at March 31, 1999.

Financing charges of $687 million decreased $47 million for the first three months of 1999 compared to the same period in 1998, because of lower debt outstanding and lower interest rates on refinancings.

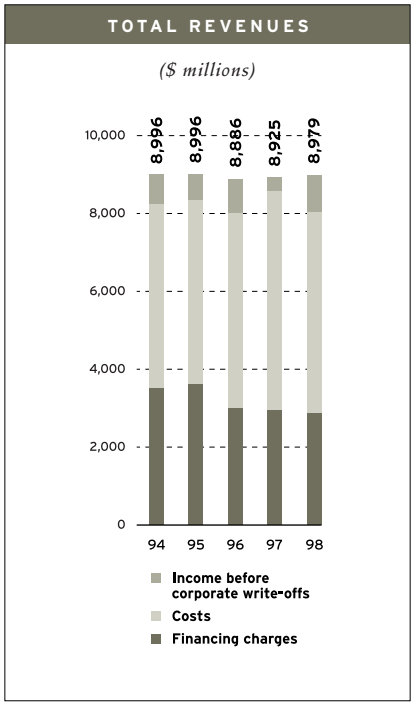
During the three months ended March 31, 1999, there was a $587 million reduction in debt compared to a $401 million reduction in the first quarter of 1998.

$149 million of cash from operations was invested in fixed and other assets during the three months ended March 31, 1999, compared to $228 million during the first quarter of 1998. Debt outstanding was reduced to $30,527 million as at March 31, 1999 from $31,221 million as at December 31, 1998.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

Ontario Hydro's net income for 1998 was $1,831 million, compared with a net loss of $6,326 million in 1997. The results for the two years are not comparable due to the following significant items, which affected net income in each year. In 1997, the Board of Directors approved a number of charges and write-offs to current year's operations totaling $6,580 million, while in 1998 there were no write-offs. In 1998, there was a $887 million favourable adjustment to income to recognize the benefit associated with the Corporation having access to pension fund surplus. Access to the pension fund surplus arose as the result of changes included in the Energy Competition Act, 1998, enacted by the Government of Ontario (Government) in October 1998.

Ontario Hydro's 1998 income, before adjustment for the impact of the future employer pension contribution holidays, was $944 million. While this is $690 million higher than the corresponding figure for 1997, again, the results are not completely comparable because, in 1998, costs totaling $1,486 million were charged against a provision established at the end of 1997 for future costs, related principally to the nuclear recovery program, which could not be recovered through existing rates. In 1997, similar expenditures at a lower level were charged to operations.



Total revenues for 1998 were $8,979 million, $54 million higher than in 1997. This is the result of an $88 million increase in primary sales, partially offset by lower secondary sales and other revenues. Operating costs for 1998, excluding financing charges, amounted to $5,159 million, a decrease of $423 million from 1997. This reduction primarily reflects use of the 1997 provision for future costs. Financing charges of $2,876 million were $213 million lower than in 1997 mainly due to lower interest and foreign exchange costs.

Cash provided from operations decreased to $1,488 million in 1998 from $2,026 million in 1997. Proceeds of $5,698 million were received from the issuance of debt for long-term financing in 1998, compared to $2,321 million in 1997. The 1998 proceeds include three Canadian dollar domestic issues, a global market United States dollar bond issue, a global market Canadian dollar bond issue, a Canadian dollar Euro medium-term note issue, a private placement with the Province of Ontario (Province) and the issuance of Canadian dollar short-term notes and United States dollar-denominated commercial paper. In 1998, $5,899 million of cash was used to retire debt issued for long-term financing, compared with $3,257 million in 1997. Cash paid on settlement of swaptions amounted to $142 million in 1998, compared with $292 million in 1997.

Cash invested in fixed assets during 1998 was $823 million, compared with $881 million in 1997. Including changes in non-cash balances related to fixed assets, investment in fixed assets was $865 million in 1998 and $852 million in 1997.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS FOR THE YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998

REVENUES

Primary Revenues

Primary revenues for 1998 amounted to $8,524 million, an increase of $88 million over 1997. The increase reflects broadly based growth in demand in the municipal, commercial and industrial sectors. Demand was sufficiently robust to offset the impact of the January ice storm, negative winter weather effects due to El Niño, and strikes affecting two large industrial customers. Municipal sales revenues rose by $145 million or 2.5 per cent over 1997, primarily due to higher sales volumes from air conditioning load in the warmer summer months and an increased level of commercial activity. Sales to retail customers in 1998 fell by $50 million or 3.1 per cent, reflecting milder winter weather and the continuing impact of moving customers to lower rate classes, as well as a reduction in late payment and service charges. Sales to direct industrial customers remained fairly steady at $917 million, compared with $924 million in 1997.

Secondary Revenues

Secondary power and energy revenues, mainly from surplus energy exports to utilities in the United States, amounted to $148 million in 1998, a $25 million or 14.4 per cent decrease from 1997. The lower sales are primarily due to a lack of available generation as a result of the nuclear recovery program, partially offset by very favourable spot market prices during the June to September period due to tight supply conditions in the midwestern portion of the United States, and hotter than normal weather.

Other Revenues

Other revenues of $307 million in 1998 decreased by $9 million from 1997, due mainly to lower heavy water and isotope sales and a decrease in consulting revenues, partially offset by a gain on the sale of surplus land.

COSTS

In 1997, Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to establish a provision for future costs against which certain expenditures, primarily related to the nuclear recovery program, would be charged as incurred from 1998 to 2001. This provision included an allowance for additional fuel costs expected to be incurred by having to place greater reliance upon fossil generation and purchased power, as well as related financing costs. The provision is more fully described in note 7 to the 1998 Consolidated Financial Statements. In 1998, a total of $1,486 million was charged to the provision for future costs. $1,231 million of this was related to the nuclear recovery program and the remainder was related to other costs.

Ontario Hydro's operating costs for 1998, excluding financing charges, totaled $5,159 million, $423 million lower than in 1997. This is primarily the result of the use in 1998 of the provision for future costs established at the end of 1997. Fixed operating costs of $4,662 million, consisting of provincial government levies, depreciation and amortization and financing charges, decreased by $282 million or 5.7 per cent from $4,944 million for 1997, mainly as a result of lower interest and foreign exchange costs.

Operation, Maintenance and Administration

OM&A costs of $2,178 million for the year ended December 31, 1998, decreased by $13 million from 1997. As indicated earlier, this variance results principally from the fact that preliminary costs of the nuclear recovery program in 1997 were charged to operations. In 1998, OM&A costs of $589 million, relating mainly to the nuclear recovery program, were charged to the 1997 provision for future costs.

Fuel Used For Electric Generation

The cost of fuel used for electric generation comprises the costs for coal, uranium, oil and water rental payments other than those made to the Province. The cost of fuel used for electric generation in 1998 was $350 million, a decrease of $347 million or 49.8 per cent from 1997, after charging $690 million in costs related to the replacement of nuclear production by higher-cost fossil production to the 1997 provision for future costs. Overall, internal generation in 1998 of 125,972 million kilowatt-hours was lower than generation in 1997 of 131,005 million kilowatt-hours, due to the nuclear recovery program. The shortfall in generation was compensated for by higher power purchases.

Power Purchased

Electricity purchases in 1998 amounted to $845 million, an increase of $6 million over 1997, after charging $78 million in costs related to the replacement of nuclear production by increased power purchases to the 1997 provision for future costs. The amount of power purchased in 1998 amounted to 16,992 million kilowatt-hours compared to 13,750 million kilowatt-hours in 1997, an increase of 24 per cent. The increase reflects a rise in power purchases from utilities in Canada and the United States as a result of lower internal generation due to the nuclear recovery program, and an increase in contracted generation from independent power producers. Ontario Hydro also buys electricity when it is economical to do so, during periods of peak demand or in emergencies, and to manage acid gas emission levels.

Provincial Government Levies

Provincial government levies totaled $274 million in 1998, a slight reduction from $277 million in 1997.

Ontario Hydro is required to pay to the Province an annual debt guarantee fee equal to one half of one per cent on the total debt guaranteed by the Province outstanding on the preceding December 31. The fee for 1998, based on guaranteed debt outstanding as at December 31, 1997, was relatively unchanged at $155 million compared with $156 million in 1997, as the year-over-year guaranteed debt level remained stable.

Provincial water rental payments, related to

Ontario Hydro's use of provincial waters in the operation of its hydroelectric stations, also remained relatively stable at $119 million in 1998 compared with $121 million in 1997.

In 1998, Ontario Hydro paid approximately $224 million to various government agencies for provincial sales taxes, employment insurance premiums, Canada Pension Plan contributions, employer health tax payments and payments in lieu of realty taxes.

Depreciation and Amortization

Depreciation and amortization charged to operations totaled $1,512 million in 1998, a decrease of $66 million or 4.2 per cent from 1997 mainly due to reversals in 1998 of decommissioning and rehabilitation provisions for certain generating stations. In 1998, depreciation and amortization of $83 million, relating to the nuclear recovery program, was charged to the 1997 provision for future costs.

Financing Charges

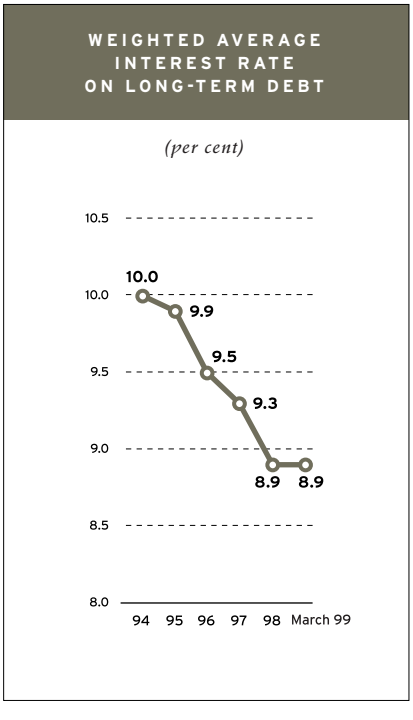
Financing charges comprise interest charged to operations and foreign exchange costs. Interest charged to operations represents gross interest costs reduced by capitalized interest and interest earned on investments.



Foreign exchange costs comprise amounts related primarily to the amortization of exchange gains or losses on the principal amount of foreign debt and foreign exchange risk management activities.

Interest and foreign exchange charged to operations was $2,876 million in 1998, $213 million or 6.9 per cent lower than in 1997, after charging $46 million in interest costs related to the nuclear recovery program to the 1997 provision for future costs. Favourable impacts, due to a net reduction in the average level of long and short-term debt outstanding and a lower net weighted average interest rate on debt and accumulated provisions for fixed asset removal and used nuclear fuel disposal costs, were partially offset by an increase in the level of accrued provisions and a reduction in interest capitalized. Foreign exchange costs for 1998 decreased by $88 million, primarily due to favourable results from foreign exchange risk management activities.

Financial Indicators

The Corporation's financial performance is monitored using two main indicators: interest coverage ratio and debt ratio.

The level of interest coverage measures the extent to which net income enables Ontario Hydro to meet its gross interest payments. An increase in the interest coverage ratio indicates a strengthening in the Corporation's financial condition. The 1998 level of interest coverage was 1.34 based on income before the deferred pension asset adjustment, compared to the 1997 interest coverage level of 1.09 based on income before corporate write-offs.

The debt ratio measures the extent to which Hydro's assets are financed by debt. A reduction in the debt ratio indicates a strengthening in financial position, as a relative increase in equity provides additional financial flexibility. The debt ratio at the end of 1998 was 1.100, compared to the 1997 ratio of 1.153. The improvement is due primarily to net income.

FINANCING AND INVESTING ACTIVITIES

Financing and Capital Markets

Ontario Hydro's cash from operations in 1998 was sufficient to cover capital expenditures for 1998 and to reduce the level of outstanding debt. Gross borrowing was required primarily for refinancing maturing issues and taking advantage of opportunities to minimize interest expense.

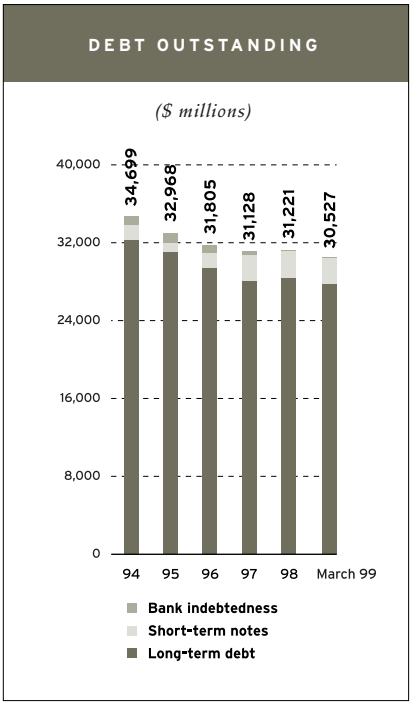
In 1998, on a cash basis, there was a net debt reduction of $343 million, compared to a net debt reduction of $458 million in 1997.



Proceeds of $5,698 million were received from the issuance of debt for long-term financing in 1998, compared to $2,321 million in 1997. The 1998 proceeds include three Canadian dollar domestic issues totaling $675 million; a global market United States dollar bond issue of $750 million (Cdn. $1,092 million); a global market Canadian dollar bond issue of $1,350 million; a Canadian dollar Euro medium-term note issue of $250 million; a $500 million private placement with the Province; and the issuance of Canadian dollar short-term notes and United States dollar-denominated commercial paper.

In 1998, $5,899 million of cash was used to retire debt issued for long-term financing, compared to $3,257 million in 1997. Cash paid on settlement of swaptions amounted to $142 million in 1998, compared to $292 million in 1997.

Investment in Fixed Assets

Ontario Hydro invests in fixed assets to maintain service, reliability, safety and environmental performance and to meet regulatory requirements. The total assets of the Corporation at the end of 1998 were $40,023 million, 88 per cent of which represented fixed assets in service or under construction.

The cash required by Ontario Hydro, to finance its investment in fixed assets, has historically come from two major sources; operations and financing through borrowing. As was the case in 1997, sufficient cash was generated from operations in 1998 to finance investment in fixed assets.

Investment in fixed assets was $865 million in 1998 and $852 million in 1997. Of this total investment, $503 million (1997: $591 million) was spent on generating facilities and $362 million (1997: $261 million) was invested in major transmission and distribution facilities.

Management Report

MANAGEMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY FOR FINANCIAL REPORTING

The accompanying financial statements of Ontario Hydro are the responsibility of management and have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Canada, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. Ontario Hydro chooses accounting principles appropriate to its circumstances. The significant accounting policies followed by Ontario Hydro are described in the Summary of Significant Accounting Policies contained in note 2 to the financial statements. The preparation of financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates based on management's judgement, particularly when transactions affecting the current accounting period cannot be finalized with certainty until future periods. The financial statements have been properly prepared within reasonable limits of materiality and in light of information available up to June 23, 1999.

Management maintained a system of internal controls designed to provide reasonable assurance that the assets were safeguarded and that reliable financial information was available on a timely basis. The system included formal policies and procedures and an organizational structure that provided for appropriate delegation of authority and segregation of responsibilities. An internal audit function independently evaluated the effectiveness of these internal controls on an ongoing basis and reported its findings to management and the Audit Committee of the Ontario Hydro Board of Directors.

The financial statements have been examined by Ernst & Young LLP, independent external auditors appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council of Ontario. The external auditors' responsibility is to express their opinion on whether the financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The Auditors' Report, which appears below, outlines the scope of their examination and their opinion.

For the three months ended March 31, 1999 and year ended December 31, 1998, the Ontario Hydro Board of Directors, through the Audit Committee, was responsible for ensuring that management fulfilled its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal controls. The Audit Committee met periodically with management, the internal auditors and the external auditors to satisfy itself that each group had properly discharged its respective responsibility, and to review the financial statements before recommending approval by the Board of Directors. The external auditors had direct and full access to the Audit Committee, with and without the presence of management, to discuss their audit and their findings as to the integrity of Ontario Hydro's financial reporting and the effectiveness of the system of internal controls.

As at April 1, 1999, the Board of Directors of Ontario Hydro was dissolved and Ontario Hydro continues as the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) with a new Board of Directors appointed pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998.

Auditors' Report

TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF ONTARIO ELECTRICITY FINANCIAL CORPORATION:

We have audited the consolidated statement of financial position of Ontario Hydro as at March 31, 1999 and December 31, 1998, and the consolidated statements of operations and (deficit) retained earnings, and cash flows for the three months ended March 31, 1999 and year ended December 31, 1998. These financial statements are the responsibility of Ontario Hydro's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Ontario Hydro as at March 31, 1999 and December 31, 1998, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the three months ended March 31, 1999 and year ended December 31, 1998, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Ontario Hydro's accounting policies differ from those followed by enterprises that are not rate-regulated as described in note 2(a) to these financial statements.

* In 1997, Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to establish a provision for future costs against which certain expenditures, primarily related to the nuclear recovery program, would be charged as incurred from 1998 to 2001. This Supplementary Statement isolates the effect upon the 1999 and 1998 results of operations of charging certain costs of the year to the 1997 provision for future costs.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. RESTRUCTURING OF THE ONTARIO ELECTRICITY INDUSTRY AND EVENTS SUBSEQUENT TO MARCH 31, 1999

The North American electrical utility industry has undertaken initiatives to move away from traditional monopolies towards competitive models that are more conducive to customer choice. On October 30, 1998, the Government of Ontario (Government) enacted the Energy Competition Act, 1998 (ECA) to restructure the Ontario electricity industry and introduce competition during the year 2000.

Prior to the restructuring, Ontario Hydro was a vertically integrated, rate-regulated electricity utility. On April 1, 1999, Ontario Hydro was restructured into a number of successor entities, as follows:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG) is a generation company;
- Ontario Hydro Services Company Inc. (OHSC) is a regulated transmission and distribution business, and operates certain energy service businesses in an unregulated business environment;
- Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) is a non-profit corporation, which is the independent system co-ordinator responsible for directing system operations and operating the electricity market;
- Electrical Safety Authority (ESA) is a non-profit corporation, which will carry out electrical inspections previously conducted by Ontario Hydro; and
- Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) is the continued Ontario Hydro entity with the objectives of managing debt, administering assets, liabilities, rights and obligations not transferred to a successor entity, and acting as administrator of the existing pension plan until arrangements are completed to transfer assets and liabilities to the new pension plans of the successor entities.

On April 1, 1999, each successor entity acquired Ontario Hydro's respective business operations in exchange for debt and equity securities equal to the fair values. The fair values were based on the present value of expected future operating results. Ontario Hydro's debt remained with OEFC.

Stranded debt is defined as debt that the successor entities could not service as commercial entities in a competitive market. Stranded debt has been determined, on a preliminary basis, by assigning fair values to OPG, OHSC, and the IMO, and subtracting these values from Ontario Hydro's total debt and liabilities. Using this methodology, the stranded debt is estimated at $21 billion as per the Ministry of Finance announcement of April 1, 1999. The actual stranded debt will be known once a final determination can be made for other items; principally valuing power purchase obligations (note 15).

The government has identified that certain of the OEFC's revenue streams in the new electricity market (e.g. payments-in-lieu of corporate income and capital taxes made by the new restructured companies and local distribution utilities) will be dedicated to service stranded debt.

The Province of Ontario (Province) continues to guarantee all existing Ontario Hydro debt.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in Canada, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. The significant accounting policies followed by Ontario Hydro are described below.

a) Rate setting

Up to March 31, 1999, Ontario Hydro had broad powers to generate, supply and deliver electric power

throughout the Province of Ontario. The Corporation operated under the Power Corporation Act (PCA) and was subject to the provisions of the Ontario Energy Board Act.

Under the provisions of the PCA, the price payable by municipal and other Ontario power customers was the cost of supplying the power. Such cost was defined in the PCA to include the cost of operating and maintaining the power system, the cost of energy conservation programs, depreciation, interest and the annual amounts for statutory debt retirement (SDR) and stabilization of rates and contingencies.

Under the provisions of the Ontario Energy Board Act, a public hearing before the Ontario Energy Board (OEB) was required to review any changes in electricity rates proposed by Ontario Hydro which affect its municipal utilities, direct industrial customers, or, if the Minister of Energy so directed, rural retail customers. The OEB tabled its recommendations with the Minister of Energy, Science and Technology. After considering the recommendations of the OEB, Ontario Hydro's Board of Directors, under the authority of the PCA, established the electricity rates to be charged to customers.

The Board of Directors may have specified for rate-setting purposes that an amount be included in the determination of the operating results of a period which differed from the period in which it would have been recognized under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment. If so, the accounting treatment given the amount was the same as its treatment for rate-setting purposes. This authority of the Board of Directors could have been used in respect of a specific transaction or an accounting policy.

Ontario Hydro's accounting policies relating to the deferral of discounts and premiums arising from the acquisition of debt prior to maturity and foreign exchange gains and losses on United States dollar-denominated short-term financing replacing United States dollar-denominated long-term debt ,which has been redeemed prior to maturity, reflected the rate-setting treatment of these items as specified by the Board of Directors. Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, these amounts would have been included as gains or losses of the current period (see note 2g).

In 1994, the Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to specify that costs of the rehabilitation program for steam generators at Pickering A and B and Bruce A Nuclear Generating Stations be deferred for recovery in future periods. Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment these costs would have been expensed as incurred.

In 1996, the Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to charge the nuclear recovery expenditures planned to be incurred over the period 1997 to 2001 to operations in 1996. In 1997, as a result of the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP), which included the planned nuclear recovery expenditures, the Board of Directors used its rate-setting authority to specify that the incremental costs associated with improving nuclear performance, specifically NAOP and other related costs, to be incurred over the period 1998 to 2001, be charged to operations in 1997. This rate-setting treatment was selected to enable Ontario Hydro to meet its SDR requirement over the period 1998 to 2001. As a result of the Board's decision, the related costs were not recovered through rates and represented a loss which was provided for in 1997. Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, these costs would have been expensed as incurred (see note 7).

The Board of Directors also used its rate-setting authority to specify that certain additional future costs be charged to operations in 1997 (see note 7). Under generally accepted accounting principles for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, these costs would have been expensed as incurred.

b) Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the financial statements of Ontario Hydro and its wholly-owned subsidiaries Ontario Hydro International Inc. (OHI Inc.) and Ontario Hydro Interconnected Markets

Inc. (OHIM Inc.). OHI Inc. was incorporated under the Business Corporations Act (Ontario) and was established as a subsidiary of Ontario Hydro in September 1993. OHIM Inc. was incorporated on July 9, 1996, under the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware in the United States. Both OHI Inc. and OHIM Inc. publish separate financial statements.

c) Fixed assets

Fixed assets in service include operating facilities, non-operating reserve facilities, and heavy water contained in nuclear generating stations. Construction in progress includes fixed assets under construction.

Fixed assets are capitalized at cost which comprises material, labour, engineering costs, overheads, depreciation on service equipment, interest applicable to capital construction activities, and for new facilities, the costs of training initial operating staff. In the case of generating facilities, the cost also includes the net cost of commissioning which comprises the cost of start-up less the value attributed to energy produced by generation facilities during their commissioning period. For multi-unit facilities, a proportionate share of the cost of common facilities is placed in service with each major operating unit. The cost of heavy water comprises the direct cost of production plus applicable overheads, as well as interest and depreciation on the heavy water production facilities and the estimated removal costs of these facilities. Leases which transfer the benefits and risks of ownership of assets to Ontario Hydro are capitalized.

Interest is capitalized on construction in progress at rates, which approximate the average cost of long-term debts, as follows:

|---|---|
| 1999 | 9.2% |
| 1998 | 9.4% |
| 1997 | 9.6% |

If the construction period of a project is extended and the construction activities are continued, interest is capitalized during the period of extension provided that the project has a reasonable expectation of being completed.

If a project is deferred as a result of a management decision and there is a reasonable expectation of completion, interest capitalization ceases and amortization for any loss in value commences.

If a project is cancelled or deferred indefinitely with a low probability of construction being resumed, all costs, including the costs of cancellation, are written off to operations.

If fixed assets are removed from operations and mothballed for future use, mothballing costs are charged to operations. These assets are classified as non-operating reserve facilities.

d) Depreciation

The capital costs of fixed assets in service are depreciated on a straight-line basis. Depreciation rates for the various classes of assets are based on their estimated service lives. Major components of fossil and nuclear generating stations are depreciated over the lesser of the service life expectancy of the major component or the remaining service life of the associated generating station. Hydroelectric generating stations are assumed to have a perpetual life. Major components of hydroelectric generating stations are depreciated over the service life expectancy of the component, ranging from 25 to 100 years. Heavy water in nuclear generating stations is depreciated over the remaining service life of the associated station with the exception of heavy water in Pickering Nuclear Generating Station (NGS) A, which is depreciated to the year 2032, since this heavy water is planned to be used to maintain operating levels in the remaining nuclear plants once Pickering NGS A has completed its useful life. The estimated service lives of assets in the major classes are:

|---|---|
| Generating Stations | |
| fossil | 40 years |
| nuclear | 40 years |
| Transmission and distribution facilities | 10 to 100 years |
| Administration and service facilities | 5 to 50 years |

In accordance with group depreciation practices, the costs of normal fixed asset retirements are charged to accumulated depreciation. However, gains and losses on sales of fixed assets and losses on premature retirements are charged to operations as adjustments to depreciation expense.

When the net costs of removal of fixed assets can be reasonably estimated and are significant, provisions for these costs are charged to depreciation expense on an annuity basis prospectively over the remaining service life of the related fixed assets. Removal costs that are provided for include the estimated costs of decommissioning nuclear and fossil stations and the estimated costs of removing certain nuclear reactor fuel channels. Other removal costs are charged to depreciation expense as incurred.

The estimated service lives of fixed assets and the significant assumptions underlying the estimates of fixed asset removal costs are subject to periodic review. Any changes arising out of such a review are implemented on a remaining service life basis from the year the changes can first be reflected in electricity prices.

Non-operating reserve facilities are amortized so that any estimated loss in value during the non-operating period is charged to depreciation expense on a straight-line basis over their expected non-operating period.

e) Fuel for electric generation

Fuel used for electric generation comprises the average inventory costs of fuel consumed, less the value attributed to energy produced during the commissioning phase of placing a new or refurbished unit (i.e., after replacement of fuel channels or steam generators) in service, plus provisions for disposal of nuclear fuel used during the period. The cost of fuel inventory comprises fuel purchases, transportation and handling costs.

The provision for disposal of used nuclear fuel is charged to operations based on estimated future expenditures and interest accumulating to the estimated date of disposal. Effective January 1, 1998, estimates of disposal costs which do not vary with the amount of fuel to be disposed of ("fixed" disposal costs) are charged to operations on an annuity basis over the estimated service lives of the associated nuclear stations. Estimates of disposal costs which vary with the amount of fuel to be disposed of ("variable" disposal costs) are charged to operations based on the present value of the future estimated disposal costs attributable to the fuel bundles used in that period. Prior to 1998, nuclear fuel provisions were charged to operations based on the present value of the future estimated disposal costs, fixed and variable, attributable to the fuel bundles used in that period. The impact of this change is an increase in costs of approximately $83 million per year plus interest on the increase in accumulated provision.

Estimates of expenditures, interest and escalation rates, and the date of disposal are subject to periodic review. Adjustments resulting from changes in any of these factors are charged to operations on an annuity basis prospectively over the remaining years the nuclear units will be in operation.

f) Foreign currency translation

Current monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated to Canadian currency at year-end rates of exchange and the resulting exchange gains or losses are credited or charged to operations. Long-term debt payable in foreign currencies is translated to Canadian currency at year-end rates of exchange. Resulting unrealized exchange gains or losses are deferred and included in deferred debt costs, and are amortized to operations on an annuity basis over the remaining life of the related debt.

Foreign exchange gains or losses on hedges of long-term debt payable in foreign currencies are deferred and included in deferred debt costs. The deferred gains or losses on hedges are amortized to operations on an annuity basis in the periods the hedges provide benefit.

Foreign exchange gains or losses on early redemption of long-term debt, including subsequent gains and losses on short-term replacement financing, are deferred and included in deferred debt costs if the exposure in the foreign currency related to the redeemed debt is continued by refinancing the redeemed debt in the same currency. These deferred gains or losses are amortized on an annuity basis over the period to the original maturity date of the redeemed debt (see note 2a).

If the foreign currency exposure is reduced as a result of the early redemption of debt, the resulting foreign exchange gains or losses related to the redeemed debt are credited or charged to operations.

g) Deferred debt costs

Deferred debt costs include the unamortized amounts related to unrealized foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of foreign currency long-term debt; deferred foreign exchange gains or losses on hedges; deferred foreign exchange gains or losses on the early redemption of long-term debt; discounts or premiums arising from the issuance of debt or the acquisition of debt prior to maturity; discounts or premiums accrued on foreign currency hedges; and net unamortized premiums on settled, exercised or expired swaption contracts.

Discounts or premiums arising from the issuance of debt are amortized over the period to maturity of the debt on an annuity basis when the term of the debt exceeds one year and on a straight-line basis when the term is one year or less. Discounts or premiums on debt acquired prior to the date of maturity are amortized on an annuity basis over the period from the acquisition date to the original maturity date of the debt (see note 2a). Discounts or premiums on foreign currency hedges are credited or charged to operations on an annuity basis over the terms of the individual hedges. Net unamortized premiums on settled, exercised or expired swaption contracts are amortized on an annuity basis over the period from the settlement, exercise or expiry date to the original maturity date of the related debt.

h) Pension plan

The pension plan is a contributory, defined benefit plan covering all regular employees of Ontario Hydro. Pension costs for accounting purposes are actuarially determined using the projected benefit method prorated on services and based on assumptions that reflect management's best estimate of the effect of future events on the actuarial present value of accrued pension benefits. Pension plan assets are valued using current fair values and pension plan adjustments are amortized on a straight-line basis over the expected average remaining period of service of the employees covered by the Ontario Hydro pension plan (see note 18).

In the last quarter of 1998, Ontario Hydro adopted the new method of accounting for pension costs recently approved by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants (CICA). The effect of this was to change the discount rate used to determine pension costs and obligations from a long-term average rate to a current market settlement rate. This change had no significant impact on the financial statements for the year ended December 31, 1998.

i) Other post-employment benefits

In addition to pension benefits, Ontario Hydro provides group life insurance and health-care benefits to its retired employees and, in certain cases, their surviving spouses and unmarried dependents. As well, Ontario Hydro provides long-term disability benefits to qualifying employees during extended absences from work due to sickness or injury.

Prior to January 1, 1997, the costs of other post-employment benefits (OPEB) were charged to operations

as the benefits were paid. Effective January 1, 1997, Ontario Hydro implemented accrual accounting for OPEB whereby the expected costs of providing those benefits are charged to operations as employees render services. Accordingly, the costs of OPEB are actuarially determined for accounting purposes based on assumptions that reflect management's best estimates of the effect of future events on the actuarial present value of the accrued benefits. The transition obligation arising on conversion to accrual accounting was charged to retained earnings on January 1, 1997 (see note 16). In 1998, the Corporation changed the discount rate used to measure the OPEB obligation from a long-term average rate to a current market settlement rate. The transition amount resulting from this change was charged to the deficit in 1998 (see note 16).

j) Research and development

Research and development (R&D) costs related directly to the design or construction of a specific fixed asset are capitalized as part of the cost of the asset. R&D costs incurred to discharge long-term obligations, and for which specific provision has already been made, are charged to the related provision. All other R&D costs are charged to operations in the year incurred.

k) Applications software and the Year 2000 expenditures

Ontario Hydro capitalizes major applications software acquisition costs when future benefit is reasonably assured. Expenditures incurred to address the Year 2000 Issue are charged to operations as incurred, unless existing assets are replaced with new versions or completely new systems. In this case, the expenditures are capitalized consistent with the accounting for any acquisition project.

3. SECONDARY POWER AND ENERGY

Secondary power and energy revenues include $10 million for the three months ended March 31, 1999 (1998: $111 million, 1997: $158 million) from sales of electricity to United States utilities.

7. CORPORATE WRITE-OFFS

| (millions of dollars) | YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31 1997 |
|---|---|
| Nuclear recovery | 4,595 |
| Other future expenditures | 1,495 |
| Staff reduction and employee relocation costs | 238 |
| Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A | 170 |
| Surplus buildings and equipment and associated business exit costs | 82 |
| | 6,580 |

There were no corporate write-offs during the three months ended March 31, 1999, and year ended December 31, 1998. In 1997, the Board of Directors of Ontario Hydro approved a number of charges and write-offs to operations, totalling $6,580 million, to 1997 operations. Two of these charges were for future costs expected to be incurred over the 1998 to 2001 period, which, under GAAP for enterprises operating in a non-rate-regulated environment, would be expensed as incurred. Accordingly, these charges required use of the Board's rate-setting authority, to establish a provision for future costs. The first such charge was for additional future costs associated with improving nuclear performance, specifically the Nuclear Asset Optimization Plan (NAOP) and other related costs such as replacement energy and interest. While Ontario Hydro expects to incur additional costs of $4,895 million for the improvement of nuclear performance, the charge to 1997 operations was $4,595 million, before using a $300 million provision made in a previous year for planned nuclear recovery expenditures. The second charge, of $1,495 million, was for additional future costs associated with transmission and distribution assets, nuclear decommissioning and used fuel disposal provisions.

The remaining $490 million in charges to 1997 operations did not require use of the Board's rate-setting authority and related to the following:

• A charge of $238 million to cover the costs associated with a targeted reduction of 850 staff, including those expected to become surplus to Corporate needs before the end of 1998, and costs associated with the large-scale staff relocations required under the NAOP.
• A write-off of $170 million in capital project expenditures associated with the three units of Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A that were laid-up in 1998. Management's assessment was that the related capital projects would have no future benefit due to the lengthy duration of the lay-up.
• A write-off of $82 million associated with certain buildings and equipment identified as surplus due to Hydro's transition towards a more competitive environment and to reflect the wind-up of several small ancillary business ventures.

The following table shows the extent to which the provision for future costs was used in 1998 and the three months ended March 31, 1999.

Nuclear steam generator rehabilitation costs

Ontario Hydro has undertaken a major program to rehabilitate steam generators at the Pickering A and B Nuclear Generating Stations. The costs of the program, which will continue until 2001, are being deferred and amortized over the remaining service lives of the individual generators commencing as each generator is returned to service.

The deferred nuclear steam generator rehabilitation amounts included in fixed assets, construction in progress and accumulated depreciation are detailed as follows:

The weighted average interest rate represents the effective rate of interest on fixed-rate bonds and notes and the current interest rate in effect at March 31, 1999, for floating-rate bonds and notes, all before considering the effect of derivative financial instruments used to manage interest rate risk. Bonds and notes payable are either held, or guaranteed as to principal and interest, by the Province.

Bonds and notes payable include:

[2] Bonds callable by Ontario Hydro are at fixed prices on dates before their stated maturities, which are over the period 2002 to 2012. These bonds are callable at a weighted average call price equal to 100% of the bond's principal amounts callable on specific dates within the period 1999 to 2005.

As described in note 12, Ontario Hydro has used various derivative financial instruments to hedge the foreign exchange exposure related to long-term debt denominated in foreign currencies and to manage the interest rate risk associated with its outstanding long-term debt.

12. DERIVATIVE FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

FORWARD EXCHANGE CONTRACTS. Ontario Hydro has entered into forward exchange contracts to hedge against the impact of a potential decline in the value of the Canadian dollar in 1999, and to manage the foreign exchange risk associated with its long-term debt. Forward exchange contracts have also been entered into to hedge firm commitments for future purchases and sales denominated in a foreign currency.

CROSS CURRENCY SWAP CONTRACTS. Ontario Hydro has entered into cross currency swap contracts to effectively convert principal and interest payments on selected debt issues into Canadian or United States dollars.

The following table summarizes the currencies in which Ontario Hydro's long-term debt, bank indebtedness and short-term notes are payable, before and after giving effect to Ontario Hydro's foreign exchange risk management activities related to debt:

SWAPTION CONTRACTS. In 1993, Ontario Hydro converted future potential interest savings, related to call options embedded in certain of its bonds to cash by selling offsetting swaption contracts. These contracts permit holders to require Ontario Hydro to enter into interest rate swaps commencing on the call date. If exercised, the swaptions result in Ontario Hydro making payments based on a fixed interest rate equal to the related bonds' coupon rates, and receiving floating rate payments.

United States dollar-denominated swaptions may be cash settled on their exercise dates. Premiums received from the sale of these contracts are being amortized to income, as a reduction of interest expense, over the remaining terms of the related bond issues.

INTEREST RATE SWAP CONTRACTS. As at March 31, 1999, the outstanding receive-fixed interest rate swap contracts have effectively converted fixed interest rates on long-term debt to floating interest rates. These contracts have maturity dates over the period 1999 to 2026 (1998: 1999 to 2026; 1997: 1998 to 2026). The outstanding pay-fixed interest rate swap contracts have effectively converted floating interest rates on outstanding debt into fixed interest rates. These contracts have maturity dates over the period 1999 to 2027 (1998: 1999 to 2027; 1997: 1998 to 2027).

FORWARD RATE AGREEMENTS. Prior to 1999, Ontario Hydro had entered into forward rate agreements to manage its exposure to short-term interest rates.

BOND OPTIONS. Prior to 1999, Ontario Hydro had purchased options to buy long-term government bonds to mitigate the adverse impact of a potential decline in long-term interest rates on its fixed-rate debt.

FORWARD BOND PURCHASES. Prior to 1999, Ontario Hydro had entered into forward purchase contracts for Government of Canada bonds to manage its exposure to short-term interest rates.

The following table summarizes the total amount of long-term debt, short-term notes and bank indebtedness maturing or subject to interest rate resetting within one year and after one year, before and after giving effect to Ontario Hydro's interest rate risk management activities:

| Forward rate agreements | – | – | – | 1 | – | 1 |

1 Period-end and year-end quoted market prices for specific or similar instruments are used to estimate the fair value of each class of financial instrument for which it is practical to estimate that value. For over-the-counter derivative financial instruments, the fair value is determined using pricing models that take into account the current value of the underlying instruments, the time value of money, and mid-market yield curve and volatility factors. The carrying values of cash, temporary investments, accounts receivable, bank indebtedness, short-term notes payable and accounts payable and accrued charges approximate fair value because of the short maturity of those instruments.

Credit risk

Financial assets expose Ontario Hydro to credit risk and concentration of credit risk. As at March 31, 1999, there were no significant concentrations of credit risk with respect to any class of financial assets. Derivative financial instruments expose Ontario Hydro to credit risk, since there is a risk of counter party default. This risk is limited to the cost of replacing contracts in which Ontario Hydro has an unrealized gain.

Credit risk is monitored and minimized by dealing only with a diverse group of highly rated counter parties. In addition, as a means of further reducing its credit exposure on derivative financial instruments, Ontario Hydro enters into master netting agreements with its counter parties to enable it to settle derivative financial assets and liabilities with the counter party on a net basis in the event that the counter party defaults. The existence of these master netting agreements had the effect of reducing Ontario Hydro's current credit risk exposure on derivative financial assets from $437 million to $86 million as at March 31, 1999 (1998: from $374 million to $152 million; 1997: from $349 million to $142 million).

Accrued fixed asset removal costs

Accrued fixed asset removal costs are the costs of decommissioning nuclear and fossil generating stations and heavy water production facilities after the end of their service lives, and the costs of removing certain fuel channels and steam generators, which are expected to be replaced during the life of the nuclear reactors. The significant assumptions used in estimating future fixed asset removal costs are consistent with 1998:

• decommissioning of nuclear generating stations in the 2042 to 2071 period on a deferred dismantlement basis (dismantlement following storage with surveillance for a 30-year period after shutdown of the reactors), and an average transportation distance of 1,000 kilometres from nuclear generating facilities to disposal facilities;

• interest and cost escalation rates through to 2071 ranging from:

| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Interest rates | 6% to 8% | 6% to 8% | 6% to 9% |
| Cost escalation rates | 2% to 4% | 2% to 4% | 2% to 5% |

• removal and replacement of certain fuel channels and steam generators in nuclear generating stations during the following periods :

| | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Bruce A Units 3 & 4 | 2001–2008 | 2006–2008 | 2005–2008 |
| Pickering B | 2008–2012 | 2009–2014 | 2013–2017 |
| Bruce B | 2010–2013 | 2011–2017 | 2015–2018 |
| Darlington | 2016-2019 | 2016-2022 | 2022-2024 |

• decommissioning of fossil generating stations in the 2006 to 2025 period.

The significant assumptions underlying the estimates of accrued fixed asset removal costs are subject to periodic review. These assumptions, as well as, the existing methods and technology used for decommissioning, fuel channel removal and replacement, and steam generator replacement are subject to change which could result in changes to these costs.

Accrued used nuclear fuel disposal costs

The significant assumptions used in estimating the future used nuclear fuel disposal costs are consistent with 1998:

- an in-service date of the year 2025 for permanent disposal facilities;
- an average transportation distance of 1,000 kilometres from nuclear generating facilities to disposal facilities;
- interest and cost escalation rates through to 2071 ranging from:

| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Interest rates | 6% to 8% | 6% to 8% | 6% to 9% |
| Cost escalation rates | 2% to 4% | 2% to 4% | 2% to 5% |

The significant assumptions underlying the estimates of accrued used nuclear fuel disposal costs are subject to periodic review. These assumptions, as well as the existing methods and technology used for used fuel disposal, are subject to change which could result in changes to these costs.

15. CONTINGENCIES & COMMITMENTS

Uncertainty due to the Year 2000 Issue

The Year 2000 Issue arises because many computerized systems use two digits rather than four to identify a year. Date-sensitive systems may recognize the year 2000 as 1900 or some other date, resulting in errors when information using year 2000 dates is processed. In addition, similar problems may arise in 1999 in some systems which use the digits "99" in a date field to represent something other than a date. The effects of the Year 2000 Issue may be experienced before, on, or after January 1, 2000, and, if not addressed, the impact on operations and financial reporting may range from minor errors to significant systems failure which could affect an entity's ability to conduct normal business operations.

The Corporation is in the process of completing a significant program designed to upgrade or replace affected systems on which it and its customers depend, prior to the year 2000. However, it is not possible to be certain that all aspects of the Year 2000 Issue affecting Ontario Hydro, including those related to the efforts of customers, suppliers, or other third parties, will be fully resolved.

Renewable Energy Technology Program Class Action

In 1997, a class action suit was commenced on behalf of all bidders in the renewable energy technology program based on allegations of misrepresentation and bad faith in requesting bids and carrying on discussions with bidders prior to cancellation of the project. The plaintiffs named Ontario Hydro, as well as, certain individual officers of Ontario Hydro as defendants. The plaintiffs seek declaratory relief and damages in the amount of $250 million for loss of income and profits, loss of opportunity, conversion of trade secrets, and exemplary, aggravated and punitive damages. A motion to certify the class was argued in November 1998 and in December the Court refused to certify the action. Subject to appeal rights, the action may now proceed as a claim by the named plaintiff, and the damages claimed would be reduced substantially. At this time, the outcome of this claim is not determinable, and as such, no provision has been accrued in Ontario Hydro's financial statements with respect to any amounts in dispute. However, Ontario Hydro believes it has no liability, and that the damages claimed are, in any event, excessive.

Municipal electric utilities' lawsuit

On April 24, 1997, three municipal electric utilities (Applicants) issued a notice of application against Ontario Hydro for which they have since received certification as a class proceeding on behalf of all municipal electric utilities in Ontario. No supporting affidavit materials have been served. The Applicants seek declarations that certain rates and pricing options offered by Ontario Hydro to corporations contravene the provisions of the PCA and that these rates and pricing options have improperly increased costs to the municipal electric utilities who purchase their power from Ontario Hydro. They also seek recovery of these increased costs in the amount of $145 million. They further seek a declaration that Ontario Hydro has improperly diverted, from revenues derived from the sale of power to municipal electric utilities, monies, of an indeterminate amount, which should have been used to reduce the cost of power being supplied to these municipal electric utilities. They are also seeking declarations that Ontario Hydro has breached legislative provisions prescribing the operation of the Reserve for Stabilization of Rates and Contingencies and the equity account, and an order requiring Ontario Hydro to replenish the equity account in the amount of $5.0 billion. Ontario Hydro has denied the allegations, and believes that it has valid and meritorious defences against such allegations and will, in due course, file responding materials. At this time, the outcome of these claims is not determinable.

Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A

As a result of the NAOP, Ontario Hydro laid up the three operating units at Bruce Nuclear Generating Station A over the Spring of 1998. Consistent with the phased recovery approach adopted for NAOP, these three units plus Bruce A Unit 2, which was shut down in 1995, are currently planned to be returned to service within the period 2003 to 2009.

In the event that a future decision is made not to return the four Bruce A units to service, a loss would have to be recognized. The current estimate of such a loss is about $1,050 million, which takes into account the undepreciated book value of the generating and heavy water assets, the carrying value of remaining construction in progress amounts, and the impact of recognizing unaccrued net fixed asset removal provisions.

Power Purchase Agreements

Ontario Hydro has committed to the purchase of a portion of its electricity requirements, pursuant to long-term contractual Power Purchase Agreements (PPAs), with various power producers.

The PPAs expire on various dates from 1999 to 2048. Other details are:

| | AS AT MARCH 31 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
| In-service capacity (megawatts) | 1,670 | 1,864 | 1,584 |
| Net present value of purchase obligations over 20 years (millions of dollars) | 6,689 | 6,910 | 6,203 |

Estimated annual payments for purchase obligations range from $755 million to $865 million over the next five years.

Deliveries in the aggregate for the first three months of 1999 account for approximately 8.0% of Ontario Hydro's total electric energy requirements (1998: 7.6%; 1997: 7.2%). The amount of energy received and the total payments made under these agreements are:

| | THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31 | YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31 | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | 1999 | 1998 | 1997 |
| Gigawatthours received | 3,043 | 11,108 | 10,366 |
| Power purchases (millions of dollars) | 217 | 680 | 642 |

Ontario Hydro has issued a Request for Expressions of Interest for the financial restructuring of its power purchase contracts with independent power producers in Ontario.

Loan guarantees

Ontario Hydro is contingently liable under guarantees given to third-party lenders who have provided long-term financing to certain independent power producers. These guarantees total approximately $157 million as at March 31, 1999 (1998: $160 million, 1997: $171 million).

Fuel used for electric generation

Ontario Hydro has entered into firm fuel supply agreements, some of which extend beyond 2000. The future obligation as at March 31, 1999, under these agreements for the remainder of 1999 is estimated to be $504 million. Beyond 1999, the estimated amount is $228 million (1998: $639 million).

16. (DEFICIT) RETAINED EARNINGS

On January 1, 1997, the opening retained earnings balance of $2,552 million was reduced by $763 million as a result of charging the transition obligation associated with the change in accounting for other post-employment benefits (see note 2i). The change was introduced as a first step to the early implementation of accounting recommendations from the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants (CICA), effective January 1, 2000. The future OPEB obligation was discounted using a long-term average rate, consistent with the rate used to determine pension costs and obligations.

In 1998, the CICA approved new recommendations on accounting for employees' future benefits. To complete the implementation of the new accounting recommendations, the Corporation changed the discount rate used to measure the OPEB obligation from a long-term average rate to a current market settlement rate. As a result, a transition amount of $460 million was charged to the deficit in 1998.

17. CONSOLIDATED STATEMENT OF CASH FLOWS

The changes in non-cash balances related to operations consisted of the following:

18. BENEFIT PLANS

Pension plan

Effective November 7, 1998, certain sections of the Energy Competition Act, 1998, came into force whereby Ontario Hydro and its successor entities were allowed to adopt funding practices that are more consistent with Canadian business practices. The Plan has a substantial surplus. As agreed in the Union negotiation processes,

Ontario Hydro ceased remitting employer contributions effective April 1, 1998. Also, commencing November 7, 1998, the direct costs of investment management and administration of the Plan have been absorbed as a cost of the Plan. Information about Ontario Hydro's pension plan is as follows:

| (millions of dollars) | AS AT MARCH 31 1999 | AS AT DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pension costs | 7 | 23 | 116 |
| Pension costs charged to operations | 7 | 18 | 93 |
| Pension costs capitalized as part of fixed assets | – | 5 | 23 |
| Pension fund assets at fair market value | 10,853 | 10,816 | 10,173 |
| Accrued pension benefits at actuarial present value | 9,830 | 9,707 | 6,455 |
| Plan surplus for accounting purposes | 1,023 | 1,109 | 3,718 |
| Deferred pension asset | 972 | 979 | 112 |
| Expected return on plan assets | 7.25% | 9% | 9% |
| Rate used to discount future pension benefits | 6% | 6% | 8.25% |
| Salary schedule escalation rate | 3.5% | 3.5% | 3.5% |
| Rate of cost of living increases to pensions | 2.5% | 2.5% | 1.88% |
| Average remaining service life for employee (years) | 12 | 12 | 14 |

The actuarial present value of the accrued pension benefits was based on a projection of the valuation at December 31, 1997. Estimated accrued pension benefits increased dramatically in 1998 as a result of an accounting change. The Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants has recommended that the rate used for discounting future pension benefits should be based on the current market interest rate. Previously, Ontario Hydro used its best estimate as to the long-term average interest rate of corporate bonds for this computation.

The deferred pension asset of $972 million as at March 31, 1999 (1998: $979 million, 1997: $112 million), represents the cumulative difference between funding contributions and pension costs. The $7 million decline to March 31, 1999, is the pension cost charged to operations. The $887 million increase to the deferred pension asset in 1998 results from recognizing the access to the pension fund surplus. Ontario Hydro also recognized a corresponding credit to the 1998 operating statement.

The $51 million difference as at March 31, 1999 (1998: $130 million), between the $1,023 million pension fund surplus and the $972 million deferred pension asset represents experience gains and losses, which will be amortized over the average remaining service period of employees.

The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation was established effective April 1, 1999, to assume transitional responsibility, as an agent for OEFC, for administering the pension benefits and investing pension assets on behalf of the successor entities of Ontario Hydro.

Group life insurance, health care plans, and other post-employment benefits

Ontario Hydro's costs are detailed as follows:

| (millions of dollars) | THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31 1999 | YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31 1998 | 1997 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Group life insurance premiums basic coverage | 1 | 5 | 4 |

| Post-employment benefits | | | |
| Retiree group life insurance & health-care | 26 | 92 | 71 |
| Long-term disability | 10 | 32 | 17 |

Group life premiums for additional coverage, if requested, are remitted by the employee. In certain cases, retiree group life insurance and health care costs include payments for surviving spouses, as well as unmarried dependents. Long-term disability applies to qualifying employees in extended absence from work due to sickness or injury.

19. RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

Research and development costs are detailed as follows:

20. FEDERAL ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW PANEL

On March 13, 1998, a Federal Government Panel issued its report (known as the Seaborn Report) on Atomic Energy of Canada Limited's concept for nuclear waste disposal. On December 3, 1998, the Federal Government responded to the Panel's recommendations, concurring with the Panel's major recommendations that:

- the search for a specific disposal site not proceed at this time because broad public support has not been demonstrated;
- a separately incorporated waste management organization be formed by waste producers to manage used fuel;
- a segregated fund be established; and
- a study of alternatives for long-term disposal be commissioned.

The Federal Government has defined the parameters within which each of these recommendations will be implemented, and has charged Natural Resources Canada with initiating and reporting back on a consultative process with the appropriate stakeholders to develop options to meet the key objectives of :

- establishing a dedicated fund;
- specifying the reporting relationships between the government, the waste management organization and stakeholders; and
- establishing a federal review and approval mechanism to provide oversight and access to funds.

Note 14 outlines Ontario Hydro's estimation of future costs and timing of used nuclear fuel disposals.

21. SEGMENT INFORMATION

Ontario Hydro's reportable electricity segments are generation (Generation); transmission, distribution and other electricity services (Distribution); and all other activities (Other). The reportable segments are strategic business units that produce or deliver the same product to the customer. The production of the product is managed separately from the transmission and distribution of the product. The accounting policies followed by the segments are the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies (see note 2).

Ontario Hydro accounts for intersegment sales and transfers at cost. These segments are confirmed by the Government of Ontario through its passage of the Energy Competition Act, 1998, which establishes five successor entities as described in Note 1.

Corporate Governance Practices

Under the Power Corporation Act (PCA), Ontario Hydro was governed by a Board of Directors consisting of up to 22 members. Included in this membership was the Deputy Minister of Energy, Science and Technology, a Director who did not vote at any meeting of the Board. The Chairman and Directors of the Board were appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, and the President was appointed by the Board. The Board of Directors recommended to the Government of Ontario that it appoint either the Chairman or the President as the Chief Executive Officer. In 1998 and the first quarter of 1999, Ontario Hydro had a 12-member Board. Ten of the Corporation's 12 directors were independent of management. External Board members were provided the opportunity to meet in executive session with the Chairman, and the Chief Executive Officer, during each Board meeting, and to meet in executive session without the Chief Executive Officer and members of management several times during the year and/or as required.

As stipulated in the PCA [Section 4(1)], the Board supervised management who managed the affairs of the Corporation, and it was consequently involved in considering significant issues facing the Corporation. The Chairman of the Board and the Chairs of the Board Committees, in working with management, determined which matters were put before the Board.

The Hydro Board also recognized that it may supervise, direct or oversee the business and affairs of the Corporation, but that it should not manage them, at least not in a day-to-day sense. This kind of management was delegated to the CEO and other senior Hydro officers, who were accountable to, and reported back to, the Board from time to time and who operated within prescribed limits of authority.

The Board of Directors discharged its responsibilities directly and through committees. While there were 12 meetings of the Board of Directors in 1998 – including three site visits of Bruce, Pickering and Darlington nuclear generating facilities – and three Board meetings in the first quarter of 1999, the number of Committee meetings varied. The following is a brief description of the mandate of each Board Committee, its composition, and the number of meetings held in the past year.

AUDIT/FINANCE COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Audit/Finance Committee was to advise the Board and to make recommendations for its consideration with respect to: the review of financial reporting matters, the system of internal accounting and financial controls and procedure, and the audit procedures and audit plans; the nomination, remuneration, function and performance of the external auditors; the form and content of the Corporation's annual financial statements, the annual report and any interim or ad hoc documents required by regulatory authorities; the review, on an annual basis, of the financial plans and objectives of the Corporation; the review of matters relating to the funding and investment of funds of the Corporation's pension plan; an annual review of the risks inherent in the Corporation's business and related risk-management programs; the Corporation's policies with respect to debt management, money market activities and the Corporation's banking resolutions; and the Corporation's policies with respect to debt management, foreign exchange management and corporate financial investments.

As defined in the PCA, the President and CEO was a member of the Committee for that section of the mandate related specifically to financial matters.

In carrying out its responsibilities, the Committee could meet with both the external and internal auditors, without the Chief Executive Officer and members of management present.

The Audit/Finance Committee met nine times during 1998, and three times in the first quarter of 1999.

ENVIRONMENT & PUBLIC POLICY COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Environment and Public Policy Committee was to advise the Board and to make recommendations for its consideration with respect to the Corporation's strategic focus and direction on matters relating to: health and safety; social obligations; relations with Aboriginal peoples; and sustainable development and the environment. Specifically, the Committee ensured that the Corporation's actions reflected the interests of governments, non-governmental organizations, the people of Ontario and the employees of Ontario Hydro.

The Environment and Public Policy Committee met five times during 1998.

HUMAN RESOURCES & CORPORATE GOVERNANCE COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Human Resources & Corporate Governance Committee was to advise the Board and to make recommendations for its consideration with respect to: the strategic prospects and options for the future of Ontario's electric power industry in general, and Ontario Hydro specifically; the review of written objectives of the CEO and the provision of guidance for the development and placement, including promotion, of senior management; the annual review and assessment of the performances of the Chairman and the President & CEO; the annual review of organizational structure matters; the monitoring of the quality of the relationship between management and the Board; and the responsibility for Board governance of the Corporation, including the mandate to review the Board Committee structure and to undertake such other initiatives as required to ensure the Board has exemplary corporate governance.

The Human Resources & Corporate Governance Committee met nine times in 1998, and twice in the first quarter of 1999.

NUCLEAR REVIEW COMMITTEE

The mandate of the Nuclear Review Committee was to advise the Board and make recommendations for its consideration with respect to the safe performance of the Corporation's nuclear operations and its effectiveness in achieving desired results. Specifically, the Committee ensured that Ontario Hydro's nuclear facilities were operated and maintained in a rigorous and vigilant manner to ensure that the radiological risk to workers, the public and the environment is acceptably low, and in keeping with the best practices in the international nuclear community.

The Nuclear Review Committee met 12 times during 1998, and twice in the first quarter of 1999.

Message from the Chair and Chief Executive Officer

We are pleased to present the second Annual Report of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). The report describes the OEFC's objectives and responsibilities, operational highlights and financial results for the year ended March 31, 2001.

As outlined in the Electricity Act, 1998, the OEFC's mandate is to ensure that the outstanding debt and derivatives and certain assets and liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro are managed efficiently and prudently and are ultimately retired. The OEFC is also responsible for the administration of the OEFC Pension Plan until its assets and liabilities can be transferred to pension plans of the other successor entities. The Ontario Financing Authority (OFA), Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (OEPSC) and Ministry of Finance provide the OEFC with the staff and expertise needed for its operations and to fulfill its mandate.

For the year ended March 31, 2001, revenues totalled $3,936 million, while expenses totalled $3,692 million. To meet its 2000-01 financing requirements, the Province raised $2,924 million in long-term debt. Total debt outstanding as of March 31, 2001 was $30.6 billion, down $0.8 billion from the previous fiscal year.

During the year, the OEFC retained a contract manager to manage the non-utility generator (NUGs) contracts. Significant progress was also made in renegotiating the 90 power purchase agreements (PPAs) with the NUGs, with the objective of facilitating their integration into the open market.

In April 2001, the government announced that it is committed to opening the electricity market to competition by May 2002, possibly earlier if the necessary conditions for competition are in place.

We are pleased with the operation of the OEFC and look forward to the challenges of the upcoming year.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

Electricity Industry Financial Structure

The Energy Competition Act, 1998, set out the Government of Ontario's plan to restructure Ontario's electricity industry. The plan called for the restructuring of Ontario Hydro and the elimination of its long-standing monopoly on electricity production with the introduction of competition to Ontario's electricity sector.

A key component of this initiative was to introduce a new financial structure for the electricity sector. This structure was announced on April 1, 1999. At this time, Ontario Hydro ceased operations and its assets and liabilities were transferred to five successor corporations and their subsidiaries.

Two commercial companies, Hydro One Inc. (HOI) and Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), together with their subsidiaries, received the majority of Ontario Hydro's assets and in return issued $17.1 billion of debt to the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC), the legal continuation of Ontario Hydro.

To ensure fairness, reliability and safety in the new electricity market, the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) and the Electrical Safety Authority (ESA) were also established. The IMO issued $0.1 billion of debt to the OEFC in return for Ontario Hydro's central market operator and regulatory assets.

To achieve commercially viable capital structures, HOI and OPG entered into debt-for-equity swaps with the Province of Ontario. In exchange for $3.8 billion of equity in HOI and $5.1 billion of equity in OPG, the Province assumed $8.9 billion of the debt issued to the OEFC by the successor corporations. The Province is the sole shareholder of HOI and OPG.

Role of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC)

As the legal continuation of Ontario Hydro, the OEFC became responsible for ensuring the prudent and efficient management and retirement of $38.1 billion (as of April 1, 1999) in debt and other liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro. The OEFC, an agency of the Province, is a statutory, non-share capital corporation.

The OEFC's Board of Directors is responsible for supervising the OEFC's operations. As the OEFC does not have staff, it retains the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA) and the Ministry of Finance and established the Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (OEPSC) to carry out its daily operations.

The OFA is an agency of the Province of Ontario responsible for provincial borrowing and debt management activities. The OFA manages the OEFC's debt and derivative portfolios, and provides cash management, accounting and other financial services and support to the corporation.

The OEFC relies on a stream of dedicated revenues from the electricity sector to service its outstanding debt obligations. The Ministry of Finance is responsible for the administration and collection of the payments-in-lieu of taxes and the Debt Retirement Charge (DRC), which becomes effective upon market opening, on behalf of the OEFC.

The OEFC is also the administrator of the former Ontario Hydro Pension and Insurance Plan (since renamed the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation Pension Plan). The OEFC will remain as the administrator until the assets and liabilities of the pension plan are transferred to the pension plans of the four successor corporations. The OEPSC acts as the agent of the OEFC in the administration of the pension plan and management of the pension fund during the transition period.

The Electricity Act, 1998 requires the OEFC to enter into an agreement with the four successor corporations providing for the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the successor corporations. The five companies signed an agreement in principle on January 19, 2001. The final agreement was submitted to the Superintendent of Financial Services, on March 29, 2001, and was subsequently approved on June 6, 2001.

Stranded Debt and Residual Stranded Debt

At April 1st 1999, the OEFC assumed approximately $38.1 billion in total liabilities from the former Ontario Hydro. The OEFC received a total of $17.2 billion represented by notes owing to it from the Province, OPG, HOI, and the IMO. The difference of approximately $20.9 billion represents "stranded debt", which is defined under the Act as the amount of debt and other liabilities of the OEFC that cannot reasonably be serviced and retired in a competitive electricity market.

The Electricity Act, 1998 requires that dedicated electricity revenues must be paid by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities (MEUs) to the OEFC to service stranded debt. As of April 1, 1999, the present value of these revenue streams was estimated at $13.1 billion, resulting in an estimated $7.8 billion of residual stranded debt. The Electricity Act, 1998 also provides for a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid to the OEFC to retire residual stranded debt.

The April 1, 1999 Unfunded Liability (the stranded debt from electricity sector restructuring to be recovered from ratepayers) of $19.4 billion of the OEFC is comprised of the liabilities of $38.1 billion (described above) less notes receivable above of $17.2 billion, less other loans receivable of $200 million, less other assets of $1.3 billion.

Debt Repayment Plan

Pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998 and consistent with the principles of electricity sector restructuring, the government has established a long-term plan to retire debt from within the electricity sector. The $38.1 billion in obligations is being repaid from the following sources:

- Notes receivable from the Province, OPG, HOI and IMO;
- Payments-in-lieu (PILs) of corporate income, capital, and property taxes, made by OPG, HOI and municipal electric utilities (MEUs);
- A Debt Retirement Charge (DRC), to be paid by electricity consumers when the market opens to competition; and
- Electricity Sector Dedicated Income. Consistent with the government's commitment to keep electricity income in the electricity sector, the combined net incomes of OPG and HOI in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries is dedicated to the retirement of the OEFC's debt.

The government has committed to opening the electricity market by May 2002, but will work towards the earliest possible date for opening, if all of the necessary conditions are met. These conditions include: consumer protection and choice; a strong business climate with a reliable supply of safe, affordable electricity; environmental protection; and encouraging new ways of doing business and supporting the search for alternative sources of power.

2000-01 In Review

Highlights for the OEFC's second year of operation include:

- Completing long-term public borrowing of almost $3.0 billion;
- Cost-effective management of the debt and derivatives portfolios;
- Retention of an external manager to oversee the day-to-day administration and the sale of power acquired under the power purchase agreements with non-utility generators (NUGs);
- Ensuring the effective administration of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund and finalizing an agreement on the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor corporations to Ontario Hydro.

Financing and Debt

Revenue in 2000-01 totalled $3,936 million, including $1,070 million of interest payments from HOI, OPG, IMO and the Province, $988 million from payments-in-lieu of tax, $408 million in electricity sector dedicated income, $695 million from power sales and $748 million from the revenue pool residual.

Expenses totalled $3,692 million, including $2,671 million in interest on the debt and nuclear funding liability, $146 million of amortization of deferred charges, $695 million for power purchases, $157 million for a debt guarantee fee and $23 million for operating costs.

As the OEFC does not have its own credit rating, the Province, through the OFA, borrows on the OEFC's behalf. In turn, the OEFC issues debt to the Province. To meet its 2000-01 financing requirements, the Province raised $2,924 million in long-term debt, while paying down short-term debt by $876 million and pre-borrowing $400 million for fiscal 2001-02. In 2000-01, the Province raised the majority of the OEFC's long-term financing in the Canadian dollar market.

As of March 31, 2001, total debt outstanding was $30.6 billion, decreasing by $0.8 billion from the previous fiscal year. This decrease is primarily due to principal repayments of notes receivable by HOI and OPG totalling $1,533 million.

With maturing debt and planned redemptions of $4.4 billion, along with a projected cash surplus of $0.8 billion in 2001-02, total financing requirements as of March 31, 2001 are projected at $3.6 billion. Total debt outstanding is projected to decrease to $29.4 billion at March 31, 2002.

The increase in Ontario Power Generation's (OPG) wholesale electricity rates, effective June 1, 2001, will improve OEFC's results in 2001-02 by increasing the OEFC's revenues from the revenue pool residual.

Management of Power Purchase Contracts

In the late 1980s and early 1990s, the former Ontario Hydro entered into approximately 90 long-term power purchase agreements (PPAs) with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. These PPAs, which expire on various dates until the year 2048, provide for the purchase of power at prices that are expected to exceed the market price. As the continuation of Ontario Hydro, the OEFC is now the purchaser under these contracts.

The OEFC purchases about 1700 megawatts (MW) under the PPAs, representing approximately six per cent of the generating capacity available to meet Ontario's energy requirements.

Currently, the power purchased by the OEFC from the NUGs is resold at cost to the revenue pool managed by OPG. After open access, the power will be sold in the market. The net present value of the liability of the above-market costs resulting from the difference between the purchase price and the selling price over the life of the contracts was estimated at $4.3 billion at April 1, 1999.

In 2000-01, the OEFC issued a Request for Proposals (RFP) to retain a contract manager to manage the NUG contracts. Enron Canada Corporation was selected as the successful respondent to the RFP.

The OEFC is currently in the process of negotiating revisions to the PPAs to facilitate the transition to an open market and to replace certain contract provisions that have become obsolete as a result of the electricity restructuring.

OEFC Pension Plan

The OEFC is the administrator of the OEFC Pension Plan (formerly the Ontario Hydro Pension and Insurance Plan), including the pension fund.

The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (OEPSC) was established as a subsidiary of the OEFC to act as the OEFC's agent in the administration and day-to-day operations of the OEFC Pension Plan until the assets and liabilities can be transferred to the pension plans of the other Ontario Hydro successor corporations.

The Electricity Act, 1998 provides for the transfer of assets and liabilities from the OEFC Pension Plan to the successor companies' pension plans in accordance with a transfer agreement to be entered into by the OEFC with the administrators of each successor company pension plan. The OEPSC is responsible for preparing the transfer agreement in accordance with the guidelines set out in the Electricity Act, 1998 and under the supervision of the OEFC's pension committee and in consultation with the successor corporations. On June 6, 2001, the Superintendent of Financial Services consented in writing to the transfer of assets from the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor corporations.

Risk Management

The OEFC has a number of policies in place to address the financial risks to which it is exposed through its borrowing and debt management activities.

Market Risk

The market risk policy provides a framework for the management of foreign exchange and interest rate risks to which the OEFC is exposed through the financing and debt management programs.

Foreign Exchange Exposures: The target for unhedged foreign currency exposure by the end of fiscal 2001-02 is five per cent of outstanding debt. When the OFA became responsible for the management of the OEFC's debt portfolio, total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies was 14.5 per cent. The OFA reduced the OEFC's exposure to 7.1 per cent as of March 31, 2001. The OFA will continue to reduce the level of exposure towards the five per cent target in a prudent manner.

Floating Interest Rate Exposure: The limit on the OEFC's floating interest rate exposure (net of liquid reserves) is 20 per cent of debt outstanding. Actual floating interest rate exposure was 5.7 per cent as of March 31, 2001.

Debt Maturity Profile: When issuing new debt, the OFA, on behalf of the OEFC, will aim for a smooth debt maturity profile to diversify the interest rate risk for the refinancing of maturing and floating rate debt. The maturity profile can be found in Note 8 to the Financial Statements.

Credit Risk

Credit risk is the risk that a counterparty does not meet, or defaults, on its obligations. Credit risk arises when the OEFC undertakes financial and derivatives transactions. The minimum credit rating of a counterparty is A- and R1-mid for money market investments. However, for a new swap transaction the OEFC typically deals with AA- or better credit. The resulting exposure is capped at mark-to-market limits, depending on the counterparty's credit rating.

Risk Management Reporting

At its regular quarterly meetings, the OEFC Board of Directors is kept informed of the OEFC's activities, positions and risk exposures through three types of reports:

- CEO's report;
- Exposure and performance report; and
- Exception report provided by the Director of Risk Control, OFA.

The CEO provides the Board of Directors with a progress report on the implementation of the financing and debt management plan, staffing and other administrative and operational matters. The CEO also reports on the OEFC's compliance with applicable government directives, and OFA Legal Counsel reports on compliance with applicable laws.

The Director of Risk Control, OFA, reports additional details on the OEFC's exposures and performance.

Exception reports are provided to the Board of Directors immediately when required.

OFA Management is kept informed of the OEFC's risk exposures and positions on a daily basis. The OEFC's Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan, which shows how the OFA will ensure that risk exposures and losses remain within the approved exposure and loss limits, is approved by the Board of Directors.

Use of Financial Instruments and Derivatives

New instruments can be used only after approval by the OEFC Board of Directors and if their use is authorized under the OEFC's by-laws, which are approved by the Minister of Finance. All instruments are used only to advance the OEFC's objective of managing the OEFC's debt and its financing and liquidity requirements in a prudent and cost-effective manner.

Derivatives and financial instruments can be used only if the OFA can price and value them and quantify their risks. Furthermore, risks that arise with the use of derivatives are identified, evaluated, reported, monitored and managed prudently.

Corporate Governance and Board of Directors

Appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, the Board of Directors is responsible for supervising the OEFC's operations, which are carried out by the Ontario Financing Authority, Ministry of Finance and Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation on a day-to-day basis. The Board of Directors meets at least quarterly.

The OEFC Audit Committee supports the Board of Directors with the review and recommendation for approval of the OEFC's financial statements. The Audit Committee also recommends the annual internal audit plan and reviews the findings of the internal auditors regarding the adequacy of internal controls.

The OEFC Pension Committee is a committee of the Board of Directors that makes decisions concerning the OEFC Pension Plan and oversees the activities of the OEPSC.

Responsibility for Financial Reporting

The accompanying financial statements of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in Canada and are the responsibility of management. The preparation of financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates based on management's judgment, particularly when transactions affecting the current accounting period cannot be finalized with certainty until future periods. The financial statements have been properly prepared within reasonable limits of materiality and in light of information available up to June 1, 2001.

Management maintains a system of internal controls designed to provide reasonable assurance that the assets are safeguarded and that reliable financial information is available on a timely basis. The system includes formal policies and procedures and an organizational structure that provides for appropriate delegation of authority and segregation of responsibilities. An internal audit function independently evaluates the effectiveness of these internal controls on an ongoing basis and reports its findings to management and the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors, through the Audit Committee, is responsible for ensuring that management fulfills its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal controls. The Audit Committee meets periodically with management, the internal auditors and the external auditor to deal with issues raised by them and to review the financial statements before recommending approval by the Board of Directors.

The financial statements have been audited by the Provincial Auditor. The Provincial Auditor's responsibility is to express an opinion on whether the financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The Auditor's Report, which appears on the following page, outlines the scope of the Auditor's examination and his opinion.

Auditor's Report

To the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation
and to the Minister of Finance

I have audited the consolidated balance sheet of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation as at March 31, 2001 and the consolidated statements of revenue, expense and unfunded liability and of cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Corporation's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation as at March 31, 2001 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended, in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Restructuring of the Ontario Electricity Industry

Effective April 1, 1999, pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998, Ontario Hydro was continued as a corporation without share capital under the name Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). OEFC is a corporation established under the laws of Ontario. It is exempt from federal and provincial income taxes under paragraph 149(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act of Canada. OEFC is a Crown agency created to manage the debt and administer the assets, liabilities, rights and obligations of Ontario Hydro not transferred to other successor entities. These other successor entities include:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), an electricity generation company;
- Hydro One Inc. (HOI), a regulated electricity transmission and distribution business that operates certain energy service businesses in an unregulated, competitive environment;
- Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO), the regulated centralized independent system co-ordinator responsible for directing system operations and operating the electricity market; and
- Electrical Safety Authority (ESA), which performs a regulatory function related to electrical inspections.

On April 1, 1999, the respective business units, including assets, liabilities, employees, rights and obligations of the former Ontario Hydro were transferred to OPG and HOI (and their subsidiaries) and the IMO for $8.5 billion, $8.6 billion and $78 million respectively in exchange for debt payable to OEFC. On the same day, the Province exchanged equity of $5,126 million and $3,759 million in OPG and HOI respectively for debt payable to OEFC.

OEFC debt, liabilities and associated financing costs will be repaid from interest on notes receivable from the Province and successor entities, and, as provided under the Energy Competition Act, 1998, from dedicated electricity revenues in the form of payments-in-lieu (PILs) of corporate income, capital and property taxes made by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities. Any residual debt will be serviced through a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid by electricity consumers after open access. Until open access, OEFC will continue to be a party to a revenue-allocation agreement among successor entities and is entitled to the forecast residual amount in the revenue pool after allocations to OPG, HOI and the IMO are paid.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Accounting

These financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) as recommended in the Handbook of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Measurement Uncertainty

Uncertainty in the determination of the amount at which an item is recognized in the financial statements is known as measurement uncertainty. Such uncertainty exists when it is reasonably possible that there could be a material variance between the recognized amount and another reasonably possible amount, as there is whenever estimates are used. Measurement uncertainty in these financial statements exists in the estimated liability for power purchase agreements (see Note 9 for additional details). In addition, the amount of the nuclear funding liability is dependent on an agreement currently under negotiation between the Province and OPG. Estimates are based on the best information available at the time of preparation of the financial statements and will be adjusted annually to reflect new information as it becomes available.

Consolidation

These financial statements include the accounts of OEFC's wholly owned subsidiary, Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (see Note 3).

Deferred Debt Costs

Deferred debt costs includes the unamortized amounts related to unrealized foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of long-term debt issued in foreign currencies and discounts or premiums arising from the issuance of debt or the acquisition of debt prior to maturity.

Revenue Recognition

Revenues are recognized in the period in which they are earned. Amounts received prior to being earned are reflected as deferred revenues.

Foreign Currency Translation

Debt is composed of short-, medium- and long-term bonds, notes and debentures. Debt denominated in foreign currencies that has been hedged is recorded at the Canadian dollar equivalent using the rates of exchange established by the terms of the hedge agreements. Other foreign currency debt, liabilities and assets are translated to Canadian dollars at period-end rates of exchange and any exchange gains or losses are deferred and amortized over the remaining term to maturity.

3. Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation

OEFC is the administrator of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation Pension Plan and Fund. It is responsible for negotiating an agreement with each of the successor corporations for the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC pension plan to the pension plans of the successor corporations. The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation, (OEPSC), a wholly owned subsidiary of OEFC, acts as agent for OEFC to carry out the required administrative, investment and other responsibilities of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund. Costs associated with the administration of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund amounting to approximately $17 million in calendar 2000 (calendar 1999 - $17 million) are charged to and payable by the pension fund.

OEPSC has made application to the Superintendent of Financial Services for Ontario for approval to transfer all of the assets of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor operating entities. The Superintendent agreed to the transfer on June 6, 2001.

4. Economic Dependence

OEFC does not have its own credit rating and is, therefore, dependent on the Province to borrow and on-lend the funds required to refinance maturing debt and to cover any cash shortfalls in the Corporation. It is also dependent on the long-term plan to defease the unfunded liability described in Note 11. Based on the Province's support in refinancing maturing debt and the long-term plan, OEFC is considered a going concern.

5. Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents includes cash on deposit and highly liquid investments with maturities of less than three months. They are recorded at cost, which approximates current market value.

6. Electricity Sector Dedicated Income

The Province has committed to dedicate the combined net income of OPG and HOI in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries to OEFC. In the year ended March 31, 2001, OPG and HOI earned an aggregate amount of $928 million ($903 million for 2000) i.e., $408 million ($383 million for 2000) in excess of the Province's $520 million interest cost of the equity investments in those companies. The $408 million amount has been reflected as income in OEFC and as an increase in the receivable from the Province.

7. Notes and Loans Receivable

| | Interest rate | Interest payable | March 31, 2001 | Maturity date | March 31, 2000 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Province of Ontario | 5.85 | Monthly | $ 8,885 | 2039 - 2041 | $ 8,885 |
| OPG | 5.3 to 6.65 | Semi-annually | 3,300 | 2002 - 2011 | 3,400 |
| HOI | 5.4 to 14.3 | Semi-annually | 3,412 | 2001 - 2007 | 4,845 |
| IMO | 7.90 | Semi-annually | 78 | 2009 | 78 |
| | | | 15,675 | | 17,208 |
| Less: current portion of notes receivable | | | 640 | | 1,533 |
| | | | 15,035 | | 15,675 |
| Loans receivable from non-utility generators (NUGs) (See Note 9) | | | 244 | | 219 |
| | | | $ 15,279 | | $ 15,894 |

OEFC has agreed with OPG, HOI and IMO not to sell notes owing from these successor entities without their prior approval.

8. Debt

Debt at March 31, 2001 is set out below by maturity and by original currency of issue.

| ($ millions) Currency | Canadian Dollar | U.S. Dollar | Japanese Yen | 2001 Total | 2000 Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Maturing before: | | | | | |

| March 31, 2005 | 2,700 | — | — | 2,700 | 2,000 |
| March 31, 2006 | 1,000 | — | — | 1,000 | — |
| 1-5 years | 12,199 | 1,141 | 65 | 13,405 | 15,041 |
| 6-10 years | 7,124 | 1,530 | — | 8,654 | 6,787 |
| 11-15 years | 648 | 1,183 | — | 1,831 | 2,876 |
| 16-20 years | 1,078 | — | — | 1,078 | 500 |
| 21-25 years | 3,558 | — | — | 3,558 | 3,133 |
| 26-50 years | 2,040 | — | — | 2,040 | 3,001 |
| Total | $ 26,647 | $ 3,854 | $ 65 | $ 30,566 | $ 31,338 |

The effective rate of interest on the debt portfolio is 7.85% before considering the effect of derivative instruments used to manage interest rate risk. As at March 31, 2001, $2.2 billion of the $3.9 billion foreign debt is hedged. Bonds and notes payable are either held, or guaranteed as to principal and interest, by the Province as set out below:

| | March 31, 2001 | | | March 31, 2000 | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| ($ millions) | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total |
| Short-term debt | 2,570 | — | 2,570 | 3,446 | — | 3,446 |
| Current portion of long-term debt | 569 | 2,205 | 2,774 | 500 | 1,726 | 2,226 |
| Long-term debt | 8,056 | 17,166 | 25,222 | 5,701 | 19,965 | 25,666 |
| Total | $ 11,195 | $ 19,371 | $ 30,566 | $ 9,647 | $ 21,691 | $ 31,338 |

Fair value of debt issued approximates amounts at which debt instruments could be exchanged in a current transaction between willing parties. In valuing the OEFC's debt, fair value is estimated using discounted cash flows and other valuation techniques and is compared to public market quotations where available. These estimates are affected by the assumptions made concerning discount rates and the amount and timing of future cash flows.

The estimated fair value of OEFC debt at March 31, 2001 is $34.4 billion (March 31, 2000 - $35.4 billion). This is higher than the book value of $30.6 billion (March 31, 2000 - $31.3 billion) because current interest rates are generally lower than the interest rates at which the debt was issued and because of exchange rate movements. The fair value of debt does not reflect the effect of related derivative contracts.

9. Long-Term Liabilities

Power purchase contracts and related loan agreements were entered into by Ontario Hydro with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. These contracts, expiring on various dates to 2048, provide for the purchase of power at prices that are expected to be in excess of the market price. This liability has been valued at $4,286 million on a discounted cash-flow basis. As the continued Ontario Hydro, OEFC is the counterparty to these contracts. Currently, the power purchased from NUGs is resold at cost to the power grid managed by OPG. However, after open access, this power will be sold at market prices that may be greater or less than cost.

During the year, OEFC purchased power in the amount of $695 million (March 31, 2000 - $741 million) and sold this power to the power grid for the same amount. HOI manages the NUG power purchase contracts and the related loans on behalf of OEFC for an annual fee of $3 million (March 31, 2000 - $3 million), partially offset by a recovery of $2 million (March 31, 2000 - Nil) of transmission expansion costs originally paid by Ontario Hydro, which net cost is included in operating expense. Loans to NUGs increased during the year by $25 million to $244 million at March 31, 2001 (March 31, 2000 - $219 million), primarily due to interest revenue during the year which has been added to the principal balance.

Nuclear funding liability - OEFC as the continued Ontario Hydro received a liability in the amount of $2,378 million representing nuclear waste management and asset removal liabilities that were incurred prior to April 1, 1999. Interest has been accrued at an estimated 5.75 per cent and is included in the total value of $2,659 million as at March 31, 2001 (March 31, 2000 - $2,515 million). The interest rate is still under negotiation with the Province and is subject to change. The impact of the finalization of the interest rate for the fiscal year is not expected to result in a material difference to the liability balance.

10. Revenue Pool Residual

As explained in Note 1, OEFC is the beneficial owner of the forecast residual of the revenue pool, managed by OPG, which collects revenues from electricity consumers and allocates revenues to OPG, Hydro One and the IMO. The forecast residual of the revenue pool is cyclical in nature due to seasonal variations in pricing. As a result, the residual, while positive in the first and fourth quarters of the calendar year, is negative in the second and third quarters.

It was agreed by OEFC and OPG that OEFC would receive an average payment per month which would eliminate the seasonal variation in the pool residual and ensure that OEFC would never need to borrow cash to make up the shortfall. In the accounts, this revenue stream was recorded as received, adjusted for the one month accrual at each year-end.

These interim arrangements were to remain in effect until open access at which time the revenue pool would cease to operate and the Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) would be collected direct from electricity consumers. Open access was originally announced for November 2000 and OEFC's forecast residual for calendar 2000 was calculated over the ten months ended October in anticipation of the November opening. Once open access was delayed past November, it became apparent that the term over which the average should be calculated was unknown. Consequently, beginning in November 2000, OEFC began to receive the forecast residual as earned each month and reflected this stream as revenue in the accounts. The revenue in OEFC in fiscal 2000-01 has benefitted by including both the increased revenue over the summer of 2000 and the real earnings in the pool over the winter of 2000-01.

11. Unfunded Liability

In the previous year, PILs revenue was recognized on a cash basis and reflected only cash received during the year. For fiscal 2000-01, OEFC has changed its accounting policy to recognize PILs revenue on an accrual basis. The change was made to conform with accounting policies of the Province. Therefore, PILs earned during the year will now include deferred taxes, regardless of when those taxes will be paid.

The previously unrecognized $200 million accrual of PILs revenue has been added to the balance of the opening unfunded liability. In addition, the opening unfunded liability has also been adjusted to account for working capital adjustments in successor companies in the amount of $247 million. The effect of these adjustments is as follows:

|---|---|
| Unfunded Liability, March 31, 2000 | $ 19,987 |
| Adjustments during the year: | |
| Accrual for PILs revenue | (200) |
| Working capital for OPG and HOI | 247 |
| Balance after adjustments | $ 20,034 |

The opening unfunded liability of $19.4 billion at April 1, 1999 was composed of $38.1 billion in liabilities assumed from old Ontario Hydro less the value of assets transferred to OEFC at April 1, 1999 including $17.2 billion in notes receivable and $1.5 billion in loans receivable and other assets. Pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998 and consistent with the principles of electricity restructuring, the government has a long-term plan in place to retire OEFC liabilities, from within the electricity industry. The Plan includes cash flows from the following sources as at April 1, 1999:

Notes receivable from the Province of $8.9 billion, OPG of $3.4 billion, HOI of $4.8 billion and IMO for $0.1 billion for a total of $17.2 billion as a result of the transfer of assets to successor companies,

Payments-in-lieu of corporate income, property and capital taxes made by OPG, HOI and municipal electric utilities.

A Debt Retirement Charge to be paid by ratepayers based on the consumption of electricity, and

Electricity Sector Dedicated Income - Consistent with the Government's commitment to keep electricity income in the electricity sector, the combined net income of OPG and HOI in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries will be set aside for the retirement of OEFC's debt.

The long-term plan supports estimates that OEFC's obligations will be defeased in the years ranging from 2010 to 2017.

12. Risk Management and Derivative Financial Instruments

OEFC employs prudent risk management strategies and operates within strict risk exposure limits to ensure exposure to risk is well managed. A variety of strategies are used, including the use of derivative financial instruments ("derivatives").

Derivatives are financial contracts, the value of which is derived from underlying assets. OEFC uses derivatives for the purpose of hedging and to minimize interest costs. Hedges are created primarily through swaps, which are legal arrangements under which OEFC agrees with another party to exchange cash flows based upon one or more notional amounts during a specified period. This allows OEFC to offset its existing obligations and thereby effectively convert them into obligations with more desirable characteristics. Other derivative instruments used by OEFC include forward foreign exchange contracts, forward rate agreements, futures and options.

Foreign exchange or currency risk is the risk of debt servicing costs and principal payments varying due to fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. To minimize currency risk, OEFC uses derivative contracts to convert foreign currency cash flows into Canadian dollar denominated cash flows. The current policy allows unhedged foreign currency cash flows to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At year end, 7.1 per cent of this debt was unhedged, with most of the currency exposure to US dollars.

Interest rate risk is the risk of debt servicing costs varying due to changes in interest rates. OEFC reduces its exposure to rate changes by entering into derivative contracts that convert floating interest payments to fixed interest payments. The current policy allows unhedged floating rate debt, net of liquid reserves, to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At year end, OEFC's floating rate debt as a percentage of total debt was 5.7 per cent.

The table below presents a maturity schedule of OEFC's derivatives, by type, outstanding at March 31, 2001, based on the notional amounts of the contracts. Notional amounts represent the volume of outstanding derivative contracts and are not indicative of credit or market risk. Notional amounts are not representative of actual cash flows.

Entering into derivatives contracts results in credit risk, which is the risk of a counterparty defaulting on contractual derivative obligations in which OEFC has an unrealized gain. The table below presents the credit risk associated with the derivative financial instrument portfolio, measured through the replacement value of derivative contracts, at March 31, 2001.

| Credit Risk Exposure ($ millions) | March 31, 2001 | March 31, 2000 |
|---|---|---|
| Gross credit risk exposure | 5,437 | 4,850 |
| Less: Netting agreements | (5,519) | (5,019) |
| Net credit risk exposure | $ (82) | $ (169) |

Note:

Contracts do not have coterminous settlement dates. Netting agreements use generally accepted forms and terms developed by the International Swaps and Derivatives Association (ISDA). Based on ISDA definitions, total exposure to counterparties with positive exposure was $210 million (meaning that counterparties owed OEFC) and total exposure to counterparties with negative exposure was $292 million (meaning that OEFC owed counterparties) for a total net credit exposure to ($82) million on March 31, 2001.

OEFC manages its credit risk exposure through daily monitoring compliance with credit limits and by dealing with counterparties with good credit ratings of A- or higher. Counterparties for money market and other short-term transactions must have at least an R1-mid rating by Dominion Bond Rating Service or an A-1 or P-1 rating by Standard and Poor's or Moody's respectively.

OEFC also limits its credit risk exposure on derivatives by entering into contractual netting agreements with virtually all of its counterparties, which enables it to settle derivative contracts on a net basis in the event of a counterparty default. The gross credit risk exposure represents the amount of loss that OEFC would suffer if every counterparty to which OEFC was exposed were to default at the same time and no netting of negative exposures was allowed. The net credit risk exposure includes the mitigating impact of these netting agreements.

13. Guarantees

Subject to a $10 million and $20 million deductible respectively, OEFC has agreed to indemnify HOI and OPG in respect of any adverse claim to title to any asset, right or thing transferred or intended to be transferred to the companies at April 1, 1999, any failure of the transfer order to transfer such assets, rights or things and with respect to payment to or from or other dealing with any equity account of Ontario Hydro, including certain related litigation. The Province of Ontario has guaranteed any liability arising from these indemnifications.

OEFC is contingently liable under guarantees given to third parties that have provided long-term financing to certain independent power producers in connection with the power purchase agreements described in Note 9. These guarantees total approximately $135 million at March 31, 2001 (March 31, 2000 - $146 million).

Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation

Corporate Overview

Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC), an agency of the Province of Ontario, is a statutory, non-share capital corporation and the legal continuation of Ontario Hydro.

OEFC retains services from the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA) and the Ministry of Finance to carry out its daily operations. The OFA is the agency of the Province of Ontario responsible for provincial borrowing and debt management activities. The OFA manages OEFC's debt, derivatives and non-utility generator (NUG) portfolios, and provides cash management, accounting and other financial services and support to the corporation. The Ministry of Finance manages the collection and reporting of payments-in-lieu of tax on behalf of OEFC.

OEFC's Board of Directors is responsible for supervising OEFC's operations, which are as follows:

- Manage the outstanding debt and derivatives portfolios, financial risks and other liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro;
- Manage the long-term power purchase agreements and provide the associated risk management infrastructure;
- Manage the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF);
- Receive payments and administer assets, liabilities, rights and obligations of the Corporation that have not been transferred to other Ontario Hydro successor corporations, and dispose of these as it deems appropriate or as directed by the Minister of Finance; and

Message from the Chair

I am pleased to present the 2003 Annual Report of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). The report describes OEFC's objectives and responsibilities, operational highlights and financial results for the year ended March 31, 2003.

As outlined in the Electricity Act, 1998, OEFC's primary objective is to ensure that the outstanding debt and derivatives portfolios and certain other liabilities of the former Ontario Hydro are managed efficiently and prudently and are ultimately retired.

For the year ended March 31, 2003, revenues totalled $3,797 million, while expenses totalled $3,895 million, resulting in a deficiency of revenue over expense of $98 million, compared to the prior year's deficiency of revenue over expense of $69 million. In 2002-03, the Province completed OEFC's borrowing requirements, including long-term debt maturities of $2,775 million, through $2,084 million raised from the sale of Hydro One notes held since April 1, 1999 and the issuance of $967 million in long-term debt.

During the year, OEFC achieved its objectives of cost-effective borrowing and debt management and prudent risk management, negotiated revisions to non-utility generator (NUG) contracts to facilitate their integration into the competitive electricity market, and continued to develop the necessary infrastructure to manage the NUG contracts and related exposures in a competitive market in a cost-effective and prudent manner.

On December 9, 2002, the Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002 was passed to freeze the price that low volume and designated consumers pay for electricity at 4.3 cents per kilowatt-hour until at least 2006. OEFC is responsible for managing the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF) established as a result of the Act.

OEFC will continue to monitor new developments in the electricity industry that will affect the operating results of the corporation in the 2003-04 fiscal year.

Bob Christie
Chair

Management's Discussion and Analysis

OEFC accomplished its key objectives for 2002-03:

- Achieved cost-effective borrowing and debt management and prudent risk management;
- Negotiated revisions to certain contracts with non-utility generators (NUG contracts) to facilitate their integration into the competitive electricity market;
- Continued to develop the necessary infrastructure to manage the NUG contracts and related exposures in a competitive market in a cost-effective and prudent manner; and
- Managed the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF) created under the Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002.

2002-03 Highlights

- Sold $1.9 billion of the Hydro One notes held since April 1, 1999, resulting in a gain of $206 million for OEFC. This sale represented the largest-ever corporate debt trade in the Canadian domestic debt market.
- Reduced total debt outstanding by $2.5 billion to $26.8 billion from $29.4 billion as at March 31, 2002.
- Lowered total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies to 6.3 per cent of outstanding debt from 7.5 per cent and down from 14.5 per cent at the time of OEFC's establishment in 1999.

Overview of Financial Results

For the year ended March 31, 2003, revenues totalled $3,797 million, while expenses totalled $3,895 million, resulting in a deficiency of revenue over expense of $98 million, compared to the prior year's deficiency of revenue over expense of $69 million.

Revenues

OEFC's total revenues for 2002-03 were $3,797 million, an increase of $253 million from 2002. OEFC's revenues consisted of the Debt Retirement Charge and revenue pool residual up to market opening; payments-in-lieu of tax; interest income from the Province, OPG, Hydro One, and IMO; power sales; a net reduction of power purchase contracts; a gain on the sale of Hydro One notes; and electricity sector dedicated income.

The Debt Retirement Charge, which replaced the revenue pool residual when Ontario's electricity market opened to competition on May 1, 2002, amounted to $889 million over 11 months in 2002-03.

In the year ended March 31, 2003, OPG and Hydro One earned an aggregate amount of $717 million. After taking into account the Province's financing cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries of $520 million, OEFC recorded $197 million in electricity sector dedicated income. In 2001-02, the aggregate earnings of the subsidiaries did not exceed the Province's financing cost.

In February 2003, OPG reached an agreement with OEFC to defer payment on $700 million principal amount of senior notes owing to OEFC by extending the maturity dates by two years. The interest rates on these notes remain unchanged.

Expenses

OEFC's total expenses for 2002-03 were $3,895 million, an increase of $282 million from 2002. OEFC's expenses consist of interest on its debt and nuclear funding liability, amortization of deferred charges, expenditures in the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF), power purchases, a debt guarantee fee and operating costs.

Borrowing Program

In 2002-03, the Province completed OEFC's borrowing requirements, including long-term debt maturities of $2,775 million, through $2,084 million raised from the sale of Hydro One notes held since April 1, 1999, and the issuance of $967 million in long-term debt.

Long-term borrowing was completed through two Province of Ontario U.S. dollar global issues and two domestic issues that were on-lent to OEFC:

- C$425 million (Canadian dollar equivalent) raised through a portion of a US$750 million U.S. dollar global issue maturing in December 2005;
- C$447 million (Canadian dollar equivalent) raised from a US$300 million U.S. dollar global issue maturing in March 2008; and
- C$95 million raised from two non-public debentures maturing in January and June 2022.

Debt Management

The repayment of OEFC obligations remains a priority and is an integral part of Ontario's electricity sector restructuring objectives. Pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998, a long-term plan was established to retire debt from within the electricity sector. The long-term debt repayment plan supports a current estimate that OEFC's obligations will likely be defeased in 2012.

Debt Repayment Plan

OEFC's obligations are being repaid from the following revenue sources:

Notes Receivable

OEFC receives principal and interest payments from the Province, Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), Hydro One and the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO) arising from the restructuring of the electricity sector.

Payments-in-Lieu of Tax (PILs)

OEFC receives payments-in-lieu of corporate income, capital and property taxes made by OPG, Hydro One and municipal electric utilities (MEUs).

Debt Retirement Charge (DRC)

The DRC was introduced on May 1, 2002, the date the electricity market opened to competition, and is paid by electricity consumers. The DRC is administered by the Ministry of Finance on behalf of OEFC and will end once the residual stranded debt is retired. Prior to May 1, 2002, OEFC received the residual of the revenue pool. This pool, managed by OPG, collected revenues from electricity consumers and allocated revenues to OPG, Hydro One and IMO, with the residual going to OEFC.

Electricity Sector Dedicated Income

The combined net incomes of OPG and Hydro One in excess of the Province's interest cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries are dedicated to the retirement of OEFC's debt.

Stranded Debt and Residual Stranded Debt

OEFC assumed approximately $38.1 billion in total debt and other liabilities from the former Ontario Hydro upon the restructuring of Ontario's electricity sector on April 1, 1999. As part of the restructuring, OEFC received a total of $17.2 billion in notes owing from the Province, OPG, Hydro One and the IMO. The difference of approximately $20.9 billion represented "stranded debt," which is defined under the Electricity Act, 1998 as the amount of debt and other liabilities of OEFC that cannot reasonably be serviced and retired by commercial companies in a competitive electricity market.

The Electricity Act, 1998 requires that payments-in-lieu of taxes must be paid by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities (MEUs) to OEFC to service stranded debt. As at April 1, 1999, the present value of these dedicated revenues and Electricity Sector Dedicated Income was estimated at $13.1 billion, resulting in an estimated $7.8 billion of residual stranded debt. The Electricity Act, 1998 provided for a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid by consumers until the residual stranded debt is retired.

The April 1, 1999 Unfunded Liability (the stranded debt from electricity sector restructuring to be recovered from ratepayers) of $19.4 billion of OEFC was composed of the $38.1 billion (described above) less notes receivable of $17.2 billion, less loans receivable and other assets of $1.5 billion.

Unfunded Liability as of March 31, 2003 was $20.2 billion.

Debt and Liabilities

OEFC's total debt outstanding declined by $2.5 billion to $26.8 billion as of March 31, 2003. OEFC has reduced total debt outstanding by over $4.5 billion from its peak on March 31, 2000.

OEFC's total debt and liabilities are $34.7 billion as of March 31, 2003, down from $37.6 billion as of March 31, 2002.

On March 5, 2003, with the prior approval of Hydro One, OEFC completed the sale of $1,878 million (face value) of Hydro One notes. OEFC realized a gain of $206 million on the sale, as interest rates payable on the notes were above market interest rates, which allowed the Province to reduce OEFC's total debt. The notes had maturities ranging from January 2004 to August 2007 and coupons ranging between 5.375 per cent to 14.25 per cent. In order to facilitate the sale of these notes in the Canadian public capital markets, OEFC and Hydro One agreed to restructure the debt by converting the coupons and principal amounts to reflect current interest rates. The sale represented the largest ever corporate debt trade in the Canadian domestic debt market.

For more information on debt and other liabilities, see Notes 8 to 12 to the Financial Statements.

Risk Management

OEFC has risk management policies and procedures in place to address the management of OEFC's market, credit and operational risk exposures, primarily pertaining to OEFC's debt, derivatives and NUG portfolios, and capital markets transactions. A description of OEFC's risk management policies can be found in the Corporate Policies section.

| Risk Exposures (Percentage of Outstanding Debt) | 2003 | 2002 | Policy Limit |
|---|---|---|---|
| Foreign Exchange Exposure | 6.3 | 7.5 | 20.0* |
| Floating Interest Rate Exposure (net of liquid reserves) | 13.5 | 9.8 | 20.0 |

*The foreign exchange policy limit will be reduced to five per cent as soon as feasible and prudent.
March 31, 2003

OEFC's foreign exchange and floating interest rate exposures remained within policy limits of 20 per cent in 2002-03.

OEFC's total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies ("foreign exchange exposure") declined to 6.3 per cent as a result of active debt management and hedging strategies which took advantage of a strengthening Canadian dollar to reduce the foreign exchange exposure of OEFC's debt portfolio. The reduction in the OEFC's foreign exchange exposure was in line with the OEFC's Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan. When the OFA became responsible for the management of OEFC's debt portfolio, total debt exposed to fluctuations in foreign currencies was 14.5 per cent.

The OEFC's exposure to changes in short-term rates ("floating interest rate exposure") was 13.5 per cent as at March 31, 2003.

When issuing new debt, the OFA, on behalf of OEFC, aims for a smooth debt maturity profile to diversify the interest rate risk inherent in refinancing maturing and floating rate debt.

OEFC has also developed the NUG Market Risk Policy and Credit and Related Legal Risks Policy to address risks related to the sale of electricity from NUG contracts. NUG contracts involve risk in both financial and commodity markets.

Management of Power Purchase Agreements

In the late 1980s and early 1990s, the former Ontario Hydro entered into approximately 90 long-term power purchase agreements (PPAs) with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. These PPAs, which expire on various dates until 2048, represent approximately 1,700 megawatts of generating capacity and approximately $750 million per year in cash outflow. The PPAs account for about six to eight per cent of the generating capacity available to meet Ontario's energy requirements.

As the continuation of Ontario Hydro, OEFC is responsible for these contracts. The NUG liability had been valued at $4,286 million on a discounted cash-flow (DCF) basis since Ontario Hydro was continued as OEFC on April 1, 1999. Since the electricity market was opened in this fiscal year, the DCF model was updated as of March 31, 2003, which reduced the estimated liability from $4,286 million to $3,745 million. The revaluation change will be amortized to operations over a 10-year period. In addition, each year, interest at the DCF rate is added to the liability and the estimated in-year loss in the DCF model is deducted from the liability. Details are set out in Note 10 to the Financial Statements.

OEFC has retained UBS Warburg Energy (Canada) Ltd. to act as settlement services manager of the PPAs with the NUGs, and to establish systems and procedures for the administration of the PPAs in the open electricity market as well as develop and implement strategies for hedging OEFC's price risk associated with sales of electricity. OEFC continues to negotiate revisions to the NUG contracts to ensure that the contracts are consistent with the open electricity market.

A policy framework for the prudent risk management of NUG electricity sales associated with the PPAs, including market and credit risk management policies, was approved. These policies establish the foundation for the assessment, monitoring and reporting of electricity market and credit risks and are similar in structure to the corresponding policies for the management of traditional financial market and credit exposures.

The Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002

Ontario's electricity market opened to competition on May 1, 2002. The wholesale price of electricity is determined by supply and demand in a competitive market.

While the wholesale market continues to operate in a competitive environment, on December 9, 2002, the Electricity Pricing, Conservation and Supply Act, 2002 was passed to freeze the price that low volume and designated consumers pay for electricity at 4.3 cents per kilowatt-hour (¢/kWh) until at least 2006. OEFC is responsible for managing the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF or the "Fund") established as a result of the Act.

Fund Management

OEFC is required to pay to or receive from the IMO any difference between the current market price (the "spot price") and the fixed 4.3¢/kWh charged to consumers designated under the Act.

- When spot prices are higher than 4.3¢/kWh, OEFC will make a payment to the IMO equal to the difference between spot price and 4.3¢/kWh based on the quantity consumed. The IMO will reduce the amount payable by the distributors for amounts consumed by a corresponding amount down to 4.3¢/kWh.
- When spot prices are lower than 4.3¢/kWh, OEFC will receive a payment from the IMO equal to the difference between spot price and 4.3¢/kWh based on the quantity consumed. The IMO will increase the amount payable by the distributors for amounts consumed by a corresponding amount up to 4.3¢/kWh.

The Fund will receive a large proportion of its funding from the portion of the Market Power Mitigation Agreement (MPMA) rebate paid by OPG that is attributable to the low volume and designated consumers. The initial $75 consumer refund for the May 1, 2002 to November 30, 2002 period was funded from OPG's MPMA rebate liability.

Net costs were higher than originally expected due to higher-than-expected prices arising from a long and severe winter. Program costs were also higher than initially expected due to higher costs to maintain the contractual rights of retailers. Annual results for the Fund are expected to improve as new supply comes on-line and reduces electricity prices.

The financial statements reflect the net expense of the Fund for this fiscal year. More information on the Fund can be found in Note 13 to the Financial Statements.

Objectives for 2003-04

OEFC's activities for 2003-04 will be focused on the following corporate objectives:

- Continue to perform borrowing, risk management, cash management, banking and accounting services as required in managing and retiring the outstanding debt and derivative contracts of the former Ontario Hydro;
- Assist in the implementation of the government's electricity policy decisions and coordinate economic and financial issues related to the industry. This includes management of the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund, managing financial relationships with the successor companies of Ontario Hydro (Hydro One, Ontario Power Generation Inc. and the Independent Electricity Market Operator) and assisting the Ministry of Energy and the Ministry of Finance in analyzing and implementing new supply initiatives, such as the temporary generation initiatives for the summer and fall of 2003;
- Continue negotiating revisions to the non-utility generator (NUG) contracts to ensure that the contracts are consistent with the competitive market. Develop and implement the necessary infrastructure to manage, in a cost-effective and prudent manner, the NUG contracts and related exposures and their integration into the power market administered by the Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO); and
- Discharge OEFC's liability to the nuclear decommissioning fund related to generating stations of the former Ontario Hydro.

Responsibility for Financial Reporting

The accompanying consolidated financial statements of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles recommended for governments by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants and are the responsibility of management. The preparation of financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates based on management's judgment, particularly when transactions affecting the current accounting period cannot be finalized with certainty until future periods. The financial statements have been properly prepared within reasonable limits of materiality and in light of information available up to July 25, 2003.

Management maintains a system of internal controls designed to provide reasonable assurance that the assets are safeguarded and that reliable financial information is available on a timely basis. The system includes formal policies and procedures and an organizational structure that provides for appropriate delegation of authority and segregation of responsibilities. Internal Audit Services of the Ministry of Finance independently evaluates the effectiveness of these internal controls on an ongoing basis and reports its findings to management and the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors.

The Board of Directors, through the Audit Committee, is responsible for ensuring that management fulfills its responsibilities for financial reporting and internal controls. The Audit Committee meets periodically with management, the internal auditors and the external auditor to deal with issues raised by them and to review the financial statements before recommending approval by the Board of Directors.

The financial statements have been audited by the Provincial Auditor. The Provincial Auditor's responsibility is to express an opinion on whether the financial statements are fairly presented in accordance with accounting principles recommended for governments by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants. The Auditor's Report, which appears on the following page, outlines the scope of the Auditor's examination and his opinion.

Auditor's Report

To the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation
and to the Minister of Finance

I have audited the consolidated balance sheet of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation as at March 31, 2003 and the consolidated statements of revenue, expense and unfunded liability and of cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Corporation's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In my opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation as at March 31, 2003 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended, in accordance with the accounting principles recommended for governments by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation
Notes to Financial Statements

1. Restructuring of the Ontario Electricity Industry

Effective April 1, 1999, pursuant to the Electricity Act, 1998, Ontario Hydro was continued as a corporation without share capital under the name Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC). It is exempt from federal and provincial income taxes under paragraph 149(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act of Canada. OEFC is a Crown agency created to manage the debt and administer the assets, liabilities, rights and obligations of Ontario Hydro not transferred to other successor entities. These other successor entities include:

- Ontario Power Generation Inc. (OPG), an electricity generation company;
- Hydro One Inc. (Hydro One), a regulated electricity transmission and distribution business;
- Independent Electricity Market Operator (IMO), the regulated centralized independent system co-ordinator responsible for directing system operations and operating the electricity market; and
- Electrical Safety Authority (ESA), which performs a regulatory function related to electrical inspections.

On April 1, 1999, the respective business units, including assets, liabilities, employees, rights and obligations of the former Ontario Hydro, were transferred to OPG and Hydro One (and their subsidiaries) and the IMO for $8.5 billion, $8.6 billion and $78 million respectively in exchange for debt payable to OEFC. On the same day, the Province exchanged equity of $5,126 million and $3,759 million in OPG and Hydro One respectively for debt payable to OEFC.

OEFC debt, liabilities and associated financing costs will be repaid from interest on notes receivable from the Province and successor entities, and, as provided under the Energy Competition Act, 1998, from dedicated electricity revenues in the form of payments-in-lieu (PILs) of corporate income, capital and property taxes made by the successor entities and municipal electric utilities. Any residual debt will be serviced through a Debt Retirement Charge (DRC) to be paid by electricity consumers after open access at a rate of 0.7 cents per kilowatt hour in most Ontario communities. Until open access on May 1, 2002, OEFC continued to be a party to a revenue-allocation agreement among successor entities and was entitled to the forecast residual amount in the revenue pool after allocations to OPG, Hydro One and the IMO are paid.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Accounting

As OEFC is a government organization, these financial statements are prepared in accordance with the recommendations of the Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

Measurement Uncertainty

Uncertainty in the determination of the amount at which an item is recognized in the financial statements is known as measurement uncertainty. Such uncertainty exists when it is reasonably possible that there could be a material variance between the recognized amount and another reasonably possible amount, as there is whenever estimates are used. Measurement uncertainty in these financial statements exists in the estimated amount for the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund, the valuation of the power purchase contracts and the estimated defeasance date for OEFC's obligations. Estimates are based on the best information available at the time of preparation of the financial statements and will be updated annually to reflect new information as it becomes available.

Consolidation

These financial statements include the residual accounts of OEFC's wholly owned subsidiary, Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation (see Note 3).

Deferred Debt Costs

Deferred debt costs includes the unamortized amounts related to unrealized foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from the translation of long-term debt issued in foreign currencies and discounts, premiums or commissions arising from the issuance of debt or the acquisition of debt prior to maturity. These costs are amortized to operations over the life of the underlying debt.

Revenue Recognition

Revenues are recognized in the period in which they are earned.

Foreign Currency Translation

Debt is composed of short-, medium- and long-term bonds, notes and debentures. Debt denominated in foreign currencies that have been hedged is recorded at the Canadian dollar equivalent using the rates of exchange established by the terms of the hedge agreements. Other foreign currency debt, liabilities and assets are translated to Canadian dollars at period-end rates of exchange and any exchange gains or losses are deferred and amortized over the remaining term to maturity.

Power Purchase Contracts

The power purchase contracts liability is valued on a discounted cash-flow (DCF) basis. Periodic revaluations of this liability will give rise to changes in the estimated cost of the contracts and will be amortized to operations over a maximum 10-year period.

3. Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation

OEFC was the administrator of the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation Pension Plan and Fund. It was responsible for negotiating an agreement with each of the successor corporations for the division and transfer of the assets and liabilities of the OEFC pension plan to the pension plans of the successor corporations. The Ontario Electricity Pension Services Corporation, (OEPSC), a wholly owned subsidiary of OEFC, acted as agent for OEFC to carry out the required administrative, investment and other responsibilities of the OEFC Pension Plan and Fund.

OEPSC made application to the Superintendent of Financial Services for Ontario for approval to transfer all of the assets of the OEFC Pension Plan to the pension plans of the four successor operating entities. The Superintendent agreed to the transfer on June 6, 2001. With the exception of certain records and assets of nominal value, all pension fund assets were transferred to the pension plans of successor corporations on June 29, 2001. As OEPSC's functions have been completed, OEFC is in the process of winding up the company.

4. Economic Dependence

OEFC does not have its own credit rating and is, therefore, dependent on the Province to borrow and on-lend the funds required to refinance maturing debt and to cover any cash shortfalls in the Corporation. It is also dependent on the long-term plan to defease the unfunded liability described in Note 12. Based on the Province's support in refinancing maturing debt and the long-term plan, OEFC is considered a going concern.

5. Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents includes cash on deposit and highly liquid investments with maturities of less than three months. They are recorded at cost, which approximates current market value.

6. Due from Province of Ontario

The Province has committed to dedicate the combined net income of OPG and Hydro One in excess of the Province's financing cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries to OEFC. In the year ended March 31, 2003, OPG and Hydro One earned an aggregate amount of $717 million, $197 million in excess of the Province's $520 million financing cost of its investment. In 2001-02, the aggregate earnings of the subsidiaries did not exceed the Province's financing cost. The $197 million amount has been reflected as income in OEFC. In July 2002, the Province paid $370 million to OEFC towards the outstanding balance.

7. Notes and Loans Receivable

| | Maturity date | Interest rate | Interest payable | March 31, 2003 | March 31, 2002 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Province of Ontario | 2039 - 2041 | 5.85 | Monthly | $ 8,885 | $ 8,885 |
| OPG | 2005 - 2011 | 5.44 to 6.65 | Semi-annually | 3,200 | 3,200 |
| Hydro One | 2003 | 5.4 to 13.5 | Semi-annually | 651 | 2,972 |
| IMO | 2009 | 7.90 | Semi-annually | 78 | 78 |
| | | | | 12,814 | 15,135 |
| Less: Current portion of notes receivable | | | | 651 | 443 |
| | | | | 12,163 | 14,692 |
| Loans receivable from non-utility generators (NUGs) (See Note 10) | | | | 174 | 257 |
| | | | | $ 12,337 | $ 14,949 |

OEFC has agreed with OPG and IMO not to sell notes owing from these successor entities without their prior approval.

On March 5, 2003, with the prior approval of Hydro One, OEFC completed the sale of $1,878 million (face value) of Hydro One notes. OEFC realized a gain of $206 million on the sale as interest rates payable on the notes were above market interest rates.

In 2002, OEFC had agreed with OPG to defer principal payments of $200 million originally due in March and September, 2002 until December 2004. These maturities totalling $200 million have been further deferred until December 2006. In addition, OEFC has agreed with OPG to defer principal repayments totalling $500 million originally due in the period March 2003 to September 2004. The new maturity dates on these notes have been extended until March 2005 to September 2006.

8. Debt

Debt at March 31, 2003 is set out below by maturity and by currency of repayment, expressed in Canadian dollars.

| ($ millions) Currency | Canadian Dollar | U.S. Dollar | Japanese Yen | 2003 Total | 2002 Total |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|

| 21-25 years | 2,077 | — | — | 2,077 | 3,037 |
| 26-50 years | 929 | — | — | 929 | 966 |
| Total | $ 23,049 | $ 3,716 | $ 65 | $ 26,830 | $ 29,364 |

The effective rate of interest on the debt portfolio is 6.78 per cent (March 2002 - 6.96 per cent) before considering the effect of derivative instruments used to manage interest rate risk. The longest term to maturity is to October 17, 2031. Total foreign currency denominated debt at March 31, 2003 was $3.8 billion (March 2002 - $3.6 billion), of which $2.6 billion or 67.7 per cent (March 2002 - $1.9 billion or 52.8 per cent) was fully hedged to Canadian funds. Bonds and notes payable are either held, or guaranteed as to principal and interest, by the Province as set out below:

| | March 31, 2003 | | | March 31, 2002 | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| ($ millions) | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total | Held by the Province | Guaranteed by the Province | Total |
| Short-term debt | 3,413 | — | 3,413 | 3,996 | — | 3,996 |
| Current portion of long-term debt | 350 | 1,315 | 1,665 | 48 | 2,500 | 2,548 |
| Long-term debt | 9,791 | 11,961 | 21,752 | 9,173 | 13,647 | 22,820 |
| Total | $ 13,554 | $ 13,276 | $ 26,830 | $ 13,217 | $ 16,147 | $ 29,364 |

Fair value of debt issued approximates amounts at which debt instruments could be exchanged in a current transaction between willing parties. In valuing the OEFC's debt, fair value is estimated using discounted cash flows and other valuation techniques and is compared to public market quotations where available. These estimates are affected by the assumptions made concerning discount rates and the amount and timing of future cash flows.

The estimated fair value of OEFC debt at March 31, 2003 is $31.2 billion (March 2002 - $32.8 billion). This is higher than the book value of $26.8 billion (March 2002 - $29.4 billion) because current interest rates are generally lower than the interest rates at which the debt was issued and because of exchange rate movements. The fair value of debt does not reflect the effect of related derivative contracts.

9. Risk Management and Derivative Financial Instruments

OEFC employs various risk management strategies and operates within strict risk exposure limits to ensure exposure to risk is managed in a prudent and cost-effective manner. A variety of strategies are used, including the use of derivative financial instruments ("derivatives"). Derivatives are financial contracts, the value of which is derived from underlying instruments. OEFC uses derivatives for the purpose of hedging and to minimize interest costs. Hedges are created primarily through swaps, which are legal arrangements under which OEFC agrees with another party to exchange cash flows based upon one or more notional amounts during a specified period. This allows OEFC to offset its existing obligations and thereby effectively convert them into obligations with more desirable characteristics. Other derivative instruments used by OEFC include forward foreign exchange contracts, forward rate agreements, futures and options.

Foreign exchange or currency risk is the risk of debt servicing costs and principal payments varying due to fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. To minimize currency risk, OEFC uses derivative contracts to convert foreign currency cash flows into Canadian dollar denominated cash flows. The current policy allows unhedged foreign currency cash flows to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At March 31, 2003, 6.3 per cent (March 2002 - 7.5 per cent) of this debt was unhedged, with most of the currency exposure to US dollars.

Floating rate risk is the exposure of OEFC to changes in short-term interest rates over a 12-month period. OEFC reduces its exposure to rate changes by entering into derivative contracts that convert floating interest payments to fixed interest payments. The current policy allows unhedged floating rate debt, net of liquid reserves, to reach a maximum of 20 per cent of total debt. At March 31, 2003, OEFC's floating rate debt as a percentage of total debt was 13.5 per cent (March 2002 - 9.8 per cent).

Liquidity risk is the risk that OEFC will not be able to meet its current short-term financial obligations. As explained in Note 4, OEFC is dependent on the Province to borrow and on-lend the funds required to refinance maturing debt and to cover any cash shortfalls in the Corporation.

The table below presents a maturity schedule of OEFC's derivatives, by type, outstanding at March 31, 2003, based on the notional amounts of the contracts. Notional amounts represent the volume of outstanding derivative contracts and are not indicative of credit risk, market risk or actual cash flows.

Derivative Portfolio Notional Value

As at March 31, 2003

| Maturity in Fiscal Year | 2004 | 2005 | 2006 | 2007 | 2008 | 6-10 Years | Over 10 Years | Total 2003 | Total 2002 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cross-currency swaps | 1,046 | - | 425 | - | 496 | 388 | - | 2,355 | 1,528 |

[1]Other includes swaptions and forward rate agreements.

The use of derivatives introduces credit risk, which is the risk of a counterparty defaulting on contractual derivative obligations in which OEFC has an unrealized gain. The table below presents the credit risk associated with the derivative financial instrument portfolio, measured through the replacement value of derivative contracts, at March 31, 2003.

| Credit Risk Exposure ($ millions) | March 31, 2003 | March 31, 2002 |
|---|---|---|
| Gross credit risk exposure[1] | 4,167 | 4,569 |
| Less: Netting[2] | (4,293) | (4,709) |
| Net credit risk exposure[3] | $ (126) | $ (140) |

Notes:
1 Gross credit risk exposure includes credit exposure on swaps, options, futures, forward rate agreements and forward foreign exchange agreements.
2 Master agreements provide for close out netting as contracts do not have coterminous settlement dates.
3 Total exposure to counterparties with positive exposure (meaning that counterparties owed OEFC) was $202 million (March 2002 - $111 million) and the total exposure to counterparties with negative exposure (meaning that OEFC owed the counterparties) was $328 million (March 2002 - $251 million) for a total net credit exposure of ($126) million (March 2002 - ($140) million).

OEFC manages its credit risk exposure from derivatives by, among other things, dealing only with high credit quality counterparties and regularly monitoring compliance to credit limits. In addition, OEFC enters into contractual agreements (master agreements) that provide for termination netting and, if applicable, payment netting with virtually all of its counterparties. Gross credit risk exposure represents the loss OEFC would incur if every counterparty to which OEFC had credit risk exposure were to default at the same time and the contracted netting provisions were not exercised or could not be enforced. Net credit risk exposure is the loss including the mitigating impact of these netting provisions.

As at March 31, 2003, OEFC's most significant concentrations of credit risk were with three A+ or higher rated counterparties, each of which represented more than 10 per cent of the Net Credit Risk Exposure. The net cost to OEFC, if it had to replace all of the swap contracts with these three counterparties is $23 million, $62 million and $85 million, respectively.

10. Power Purchase Contracts

Power purchase agreements and related loan agreements were entered into by Ontario Hydro with non-utility generators (NUGs) located in Ontario. As the continued Ontario Hydro, OEFC is the counterparty to these contracts. These contracts, expiring on various dates to 2048, provide for the purchase of power at prices that are expected to be in excess of the market price. Since open access on May 1, 2002, this power has been sold at market prices that generally have been less than cost. Prior to open access, power purchased from NUGs was resold at cost to the revenue pool managed by OPG.

During the year, OEFC purchased power in the amount of $786 million (2002 - $815 million) and sold this power for $635 million (2002 - $815 million). Effective April 18, 2002, the NUG Contract Management Agreement between Enron Canada Corporation and OEFC was assigned to UBS Warburg Energy (Canada) Ltd. Annual fees include both a fixed fee of approximately $750,000 plus a variable fee based on performance in minimizing losses under NUG power purchase agreements that amounted to $10 million (2002 - $ nil).

The NUG liability had been valued at $4,286 million on a discounted cash-flow (DCF) basis since Ontario Hydro was continued as OEFC on April 1, 1999. Since the electricity market was opened in this fiscal year, the DCF model was updated as of March 31, 2003 which reduced the estimated liability from $4,286 million to $3,745 million. The revaluation change will be amortized to operations over a 10-year period. In addition, each year, interest at the DCF rate is added to the liability and the estimated in-year loss in the DCF model is deducted from the liability as set out below:

Statement of NUG Liability
($ millions)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| NUG Liability, March 31, 2002 | | $ 4,286 |
| Interest charged during the year | | 253 |
| Deduct estimated in-year loss | | (372) |
| Revaluation as of March 31, 2003 | | (422) |
| Sub total | | 3,745 |
| Add: Unamortized Revaluation Changes | | |
| Gross Revaluation | 422 | |
| Accumulated Amortization | (42) | 380 |
| | | $ 4,125 |

Loans to NUGs decreased during the period by a net $83 million to $174 million at March 31, 2003 (March 31, 2002 - $257 million), primarily due to principal repayments.

11. Nuclear Funding Liability

OEFC as the continued Ontario Hydro received a liability in the amount of $2,378 million representing nuclear waste management and asset removal liabilities that were incurred prior to April 1, 1999. In March 2002, the Province and OPG entered into the Ontario Nuclear Funds Agreement (ONFA) to establish, fund and manage segregated funds to ensure that sufficient funds are available to pay for costs of nuclear waste management and station decommissioning. The OEFC liability will be directed to the Decommissioning Custodial Fund, which is expected to be established later in 2003.

The Board of Directors of OEFC approved the funding of the Decommissioning Custodial Fund over the next four years, thus discharging the nuclear funding liability. OEFC reflected the nuclear funding liability at April 1, 1999 and has been accruing interest annually at an estimated 5.75 per cent since that time. At March 31, 2003, this estimated accrued interest was included in the liability amount of $2,974 million (2002 - $2,812 million). The calculation of the interest rate is still under negotiation between the parties, but is expected to be finalized later in 2003. The impact of the finalization of the interest rate calculation is not expected to result in a material difference to the liability balance.

12. Unfunded Liability

The opening unfunded liability of $19.4 billion at April 1, 1999 was composed of $38.1 billion in liabilities assumed from old Ontario Hydro less the value of assets transferred to OEFC at April 1, 1999 including $17.2 billion in notes receivable and $1.5 billion in loans receivable and other assets. A long-term plan was established to retire OEFC liabilities from within the electricity sector. The Plan includes cash flows from the following sources as at April 1, 1999:

Notes receivable from the Province of $8.9 billion, OPG of $3.4 billion, Hydro One of $4.8 billion and IMO for $0.1 billion for a total of $17.2 billion as a result of the transfer of assets to successor companies,

Payments-in-lieu of corporate income, property and capital taxes made by OPG, Hydro One and municipal electric utilities,

a Debt Retirement Charge to be paid by ratepayers based on the consumption of electricity, and

Electricity Sector Dedicated Income - The combined net income of OPG and Hydro One in excess of the Province's cost of its investment in its electricity subsidiaries will be allocated to the retirement of OEFC's debt.

The long-term plan supports a current estimate that OEFC's obligations will likely be defeased in 2012.

13. Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund

On November 11, 2002, the Province announced a program designed to provide electricity to low volume and designated consumers at a fixed price of 4.3 cents per kilowhatt-hour (kWh) until at least 2006, retroactive to May 1, 2002. Power generators continue to receive the free market price as set in the IMO electricity market. The program is administered through the Electricity Consumer Price Protection Fund (ECPPF) managed by OEFC.

During periods where the average price of electricity is greater than the fixed rate of 4.3 cents per kWh, the balance is funded by the ECPPF. Conversely, the ECPPF will receive funds during periods where the average price of electricity is lower than the fixed rate of 4.3 cents per kWh. Expenditures from the Fund amounting to $1,461 million in the year were reduced by a portion of the rebate paid by OPG under the Market Power Mitigation Agreement (MPMA) in the amount of $796 million leaving a net cost in OEFC of $665 million.

14. Contingencies and Guarantees

OEFC is involved in various legal actions arising out of the ordinary course and conduct of business, some of which relate to the former Ontario Hydro prior to the establishment of OEFC on April 1, 1999. Under the terms of the April 1, 1999 restructuring of Ontario Hydro, each successor entity (OPG, Hydro One, ESA and IMO, and their respective subsidiaries) is responsible for any liabilities relating to those operations of the former Ontario Hydro that were transferred to it. In the event any such liabilities remained with OEFC, the successor entity is also required to indemnify OEFC. With respect to legal actions relating to operations of Ontario Hydro that were retained by OEFC, the outcome and ultimate disposition of these legal actions is not determinable at this time. Accordingly, no provision for the above actions is reflected in the financial statements. Settlements of these contingencies, if any, will be reflected in the period in which settlement occurs.

Subject to a $10 million and $20 million deductible respectively, OEFC has agreed to indemnify Hydro One and OPG with respect to any adverse claim to title to any asset, right or thing transferred or intended to be transferred to the companies at April 1, 1999 and any failure of the transfer order to transfer such assets, rights or things and with respect to payment to or from or other dealing with any equity account of Ontario Hydro, including certain related litigation. The Province of Ontario has guaranteed any liability arising from these indemnifications.

OEFC is contingently liable under guarantees given to third parties that have provided long-term financing to certain independent power producers in connection with the power purchase agreements described in Note 10. These guarantees total approximately $113 million at March 31, 2003 (2002 - $124 million).

Corporate Governance

Appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, the Board of Directors is responsible for supervising OEFC's business. OEFC retains services from the Ontario Financing Authority (OFA) and the Ministry of Finance to carry out its daily operations. The Board of Directors meets at least quarterly. It monitors OEFC's financial performance and approves OEFC's financial policies and its business plan for each year.

The Minister of Finance reviews and approves the OEFC's annual business plan, which contains long- and short-term objectives and reports on accomplishments for the preceding year. In keeping with the government's Agency Establishment and Accountability Directive, once every three years the Minister of Finance recommends the OEFC business plan to Management Board of Cabinet for approval.

The OEFC Audit Committee supports the Board of Directors with the review and recommendation for approval of OEFC's financial statements. The Audit Committee also recommends the annual internal audit plan and reviews the findings of the internal auditors regarding the adequacy of internal controls. The OEFC Audit Committee has recommended to the Board that the legislation regarding the timing of the delivery and tabling of the Corporation's annual report, including audited financial statements, be made consistent with the timing of the Province's Public Accounts, because of the relationship of OEFC's statements to the Public Accounts.

OEFC's Board also has a NUG Committee. This committee makes decisions concerning OEFC's Power Purchase Agreements. Membership includes OEFC Directors representing the Ministry of Finance and the Ministry of Energy.

Risk Management Policies and Procedures for Borrowing and Debt Management

The OFA incurs credit, market, operational and liquidity risks for OEFC in managing the debt of OEFC. These risks are managed in accordance with risk management policies approved by the OEFC Board of Directors. The Board and management committees establish and approve risk management policies and monitor OEFC's compliance with the policies and the performance of the OFA's OEFC-related capital market activities.

OEFC has a number of policies in place to mitigate financial risks: market risk, credit risk, operational risk and risks related to the use of derivatives. These policies were developed following the Group of Thirty's best practices, the guidelines and directives of regulatory bodies, such as the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions of Canada, the Bank for International Settlements (BIS), and consulting with Canadian bank representatives on their risk management practices.

With the advent of the electricity market and the exposures inherent in the management of the NUGs contracts and related transactions, policies specifically addressing these exposures were recommended to the Board of Directors and approved. These policies and associated procedures will be used to develop and implement an infrastructure for monitoring and assessing NUG-related exposures.

Market Risk

- Market Risk is the risk of financial loss attributable to changes in the values of financial indices including interest rates, credit spreads, foreign exchange rates and liquidity condition.
- This policy provides a framework for borrowing and integrates several aspects dealing with the management of market risk.
    - Foreign Exchange Exposure Limit - OEFC's exposure to unhedged foreign currencies is limited to 20 per cent of outstanding debt. This limit will be reduced to five per cent as soon as feasible and prudent. Foreign exchange exposures are limited to Group of Seven currencies and the Swiss franc or the equivalent currencies (i.e., the Euro).
    - Floating Rate Exposure - OEFC is limited to a maximum floating rate exposure of 20 per cent of debt.
    - Risk Management Loss Limits - The total amount of financial losses resulting from market risk and the default of counterparties shall not exceed a debt cost loss limit specified by the Board of Directors. Additionally, the CEO establishes a debt management trigger level to ensure that losses will not reach the debt cost loss limit. The trigger level is included in the Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan.
    - Risk Measurement - OEFC identifies and quantifies exposures to market risk in its Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan to ensure that risk exposures and losses remain within the approved exposure and loss limits. Exposure to market, credit and liquidity risk is measured daily.
    - Debt Maturity Profile - When issuing new debt on behalf of OEFC, the OFA will aim for a smooth debt maturity profile to diversify the interest rate risk for the refinancing of maturing and floating rate debt.

Credit Risk

Credit risk is risk that a counterparty does not meet, or defaults on its obligations. Credit risk arises when the OFA undertakes financial and derivative transactions on behalf of OEFC. The minimum credit rating of a counterparty for a new swap transaction is AA- and R1-mid for money market investments. The resulting exposure is capped at mark-to-market limits depending on the counterparty's credit rating and capital base.

Operational Risk

OEFC's operational risk is managed through procedures that deal with model risk, legal risk, settlement risk and information systems risks.

Model Risk

OEFC's pricing models are regularly reviewed for accuracy and compliance with industry standards. OEFC's valuation of financial instruments is also reviewed regularly.

Legal Risk

Procedures and standards have been implemented to ensure that documentation of OEFC debt issues, debt management and money market transactions meet industry standards and is enforceable.

Settlement Risk

On behalf of OEFC, the OFA has established internal control procedures and systems, involved external service providers and trained its staff to ensure that transactions are settled correctly and in a timely manner, are recorded accurately, and that service providers are appropriately involved.

Information Systems Risk

As OEFC's service provider, on behalf of OEFC, the OFA has taken measures to protect computer systems and access to the offices of the OFA, monitoring the computer room environment, the establishment of a back-up power source, regular data back-ups, off-site storage, firewalls to protect against unauthorized network intrusions and computer virus scanning. Security is reviewed periodically and when major changes occur.

Use of Derivatives

Derivatives are used solely to advance the objective of providing OEFC's financing and liquidity requirements in a sound and cost-effective manner. Derivatives are used to manage exposures arising from existing and planned debt, and in a manner consistent with the Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan. Risks arising from the use of derivatives are identified, monitored, evaluated and managed prudently.

Risk Management Policies for NUG Power Sales

Market Risk

The NUG Market Risk Policy for Electricity Risk Management provides for a framework governing the use of electricity derivatives for the program, as well as volumetric limits on the level of forward sales and financial loss limits. A key requirement for electricity forwards and other derivative contracts is OEFC's ability to price and measure the risk associated with them. The policy mandates an annual NUG risk management plan, which delineates the assumptions for the upcoming fiscal year, including economic and electricity price assumptions, base case and contingency plans for managing and diversifying risk, and supply availability assumptions. A risk assessment for all assumptions is also required.

Credit Risk

OEFC incurs credit risk in the course of its forward transactions with counterparties in the marketplace. This policy addresses that risk through minimum credit ratings and through exposure, term-, and concentration limits. Additionally, the policy sets out requirements for documentation and enforceability. Monitoring and reporting of credit exposures and credit quality are performed by Risk Control Division.

Supply Availability Risk

Supply Availability Risk is the risk associated with having to meet contractual obligations associated with portfolio hedging transactions through open market transactions. As with financial market activities, management of OEFC's NUGs electricity generation portfolio must assess both market and counterparty credit risks. In addition, managing these risks is further complicated by such risks as equipment breakdown, fuel availability and fuel costs, all of which could affect OEFC's ability to meet its contractual obligations through NUGs supply.

Risk Management Reporting

At its regular quarterly meetings, the OEFC Board of Directors is informed of OEFC's activities, positions and risk exposures through three types of reports:

- CEO's report;
- Exposure and performance report; and
- Exception report provided by the Director of Risk Control, OFA.

OEFC's Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan, which indicates how OEFC risk exposures and losses will be maintained within the approved exposure and loss limits, is approved by the Board of Directors each year.

The CEO provides the Board of Directors with a progress report on the implementation of the Annual Financing and Debt Management Plan, staffing and other administrative and operational matters. The CEO also reports on OEFC's compliance with applicable government directives, and OFA Legal Counsel reports on compliance with applicable laws.

In addition, OFA Management is kept informed of OEFC's risk exposures and positions on a daily basis.

GOVERNMENT RESPONSE TO OAG REPORT ON THE FAIR HYDRO PLAN

The government of Ontario does not agree with the assertions and conclusions expressed by the Office of the Auditor General (OAG) in its report on Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP)..

OFHP is delivering the single-largest reduction in electricity rates in the province's history. In developing OFHP, the government considered a range of implementation options. The government consulted with legal, accounting, financial and energy sector third-party experts to provide advice and ensure due diligence was completed. OFHP operates under a financial and accounting framework that is appropriate for the intended purpose and in accordance with Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) and ensures that the fairness goals underlying the program are achieved in a cost-effective manner.

The government has been making important investments in a cleaner and more reliable energy system, but these investments have led to higher electricity bills. OFHP has introduced new measures to lower electricity bills by 25 per cent on average for residential consumers and will hold increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As many as half a million small businesses and farms are also benefitting from a reduction.

Since 2003, nearly $70 billion has been invested in the electricity system, including more than $37 billion in electricity generation to ensure the system is clean and reliable. The majority of the province's electricity generators operate under 20-year contracts. Despite the OAG's assertion that it is "not at all" certain if these generating assets will be operating beyond their contract lives, third-party experts have confirmed that many of these generators will be able to continue to operate. This means that generating assets are expected to have ongoing useful life and benefit future ratepayers by reducing the need to finance the development of new generating assets. .

The Global Adjustment (GA) pays for the majority of the recent investments in the electricity system. Refinancing the GA provides significant and immediate rate relief by matching the cost of electricity investments with the expected useful life of the generation that has been built. Despite the OAG's assertion that the government's intention was to avoid recording a deficit in the fiscal plan, the decisions made to implement GA refinancing most effectively achieves the goals of the refinancing program and ensures that the deferred costs are borne by the rate-base, as the beneficiaries of the electricity system, and not the tax-base. The accounting for this transaction will reflect the substance of this transaction.

With respect to the Province's financial statements, they are prepared in accordance with Canadian PSAS and will follow PSAS in accounting for the transactions resulting from OFHP in 2017-18 as well as in the following years. As PSAS is set by an independent standard setting body in Canada focused specifically on the public sector, and because PSAS is used by all senior governments in Canada, presenting its financial statements in accordance with PSAS results in transparent financial reporting for the Province of Ontario.

The government of Ontario also disagrees with two fundamental accounting assertions in the report of OAG related to legislated accounting and rate-regulated accounting:

- Legislated Accounting – The Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and its related regulations do not "create accounting rules" or "legislate the accounting". This is a fundamental disagreement with the report of the OAG. As previously noted, the Province will prepare its consolidated financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

- Rate-Regulated Accounting – In commenting on the use of rate-regulated accounting and the role of the Ontario Energy Board (OEB), the report of the OAG makes reference to a requirement under U.S. accounting standards in connection with the use of rate-regulated accounting that "there must be an independent regulator". This reference is misleading as it does not provide the criteria in its entirety, which is as follows:

  The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers [ASC 980-10-15-2].

The U.S. accounting standard was developed specifically not to preclude the application of rate-regulated accounting by government utilities where the rate regulator would not necessarily be viewed as independent [FAS 71, par. 64]. In addition, the position that rate-regulated accounting is precluded because the OEB is not considered independent of the government of Ontario is contradictory to accepting the use of rate-regulated accounting by Ontario Power Generation (OPG) and Hydro One, both regulated by the OEB and whose results, using rate-regulated accounting, are and have been included in the consolidated financial statements of the Province.

Some costs of OFHP will be borne by taxpayers and some will be borne by ratepayers. The accounting will reflect the economic substance of the transactions in accordance with PSAS and will differentiate those costs of OFHP borne by taxpayers vs. those borne by ratepayers. The OAG suggests that all of the costs of OFHP should be reflected as if they will all be borne by taxpayers, which is inaccurate.

OPG is beginning the process of raising funds to finance the deferred costs, and while total borrowing costs will not be known until the ~~transaction~~ program is complete, accumulated interest is projected to be considerably less than the estimates in the report of the Financial Accountability Office (FAO), cited by the OAG. Total borrowing estimates over the thirty year life of the program have been revised down substantially by the government since the FAO released its report in May 2017 and borrowing costs are now forecast to be substantially lower than original estimates. Current government estimates forecast that the peak debt over the ~~30-~~ thirty year life of OFHP will be below $20 billion. The preliminary estimate from March 2017 was about $28 billion.

Based on the comments above, and given that implementation of OFHP is ongoing with significant accounting and financing decisions still being finalized, the government believes that this report by the OAG is premature and does not reflect the substance of this transaction.

The shortfall which is being reported as an asset by the IESO embodies a future economic benefit based on the requirement of the specified ratepayers to pay these deferred amounts in the future. IESO has control to access those benefits either by selling the regulatory asset or by holding the asset until the payments by the specified ratepayers are received in the future. Finally, the asset results from a past event which is the payment to the generators for the generation of power.It is important to distinguish legislating the accounting from legislating the right for the government to recover amounts from specified ratepayers in the future, based on costs incurred today. Enabling the IESO to sell the future right to recover of this shortfall from specified ratepayers provided under the FHP Act is not legislating the accounting. The statute does not direct the government how to account for the shortfall. The statute provides for recovery of the current shortfalls from the specified ratepayers in the future, reflecting the policy decision to have the GA refinancing borne by the specified ratepayers, and in doing so, creates an obligation on the specified ratepayers to pay an amount in the future. The obligation on the part of the specified ratepayers is a future economic benefit to the government. | |

Instead, starting in 2002, ratepayers began paying down the stranded debt through a "debt retirement charge" on their bills.~~~~The collection of the debt retirement charge and the Fair Hydro future reduction recovery are similar in that both stem from government policy decisions and did not result from an independent regulatory process. As well, the payments were/will be made much later, "after the fact." However, in the 1999/2000 fiscal year, the government followed Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards properly, and included the debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the debt retirement charge was added to electricity bills, the charge to ratepayers was taken in as revenue in the Province's consolidated financial statements. This treatment allowed the government to track ratepayer costs and taxpayer costs separately, helping to ensure that only ratepayers, not taxpayers, pay for electricity services.~~~~The same accounting should be applied to the Fair Hydro Plan rate reduction: include the debt being accumulated through the 10 years of the reduction as Provincial debt, and record interest expense on this debt as an expense in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the clean energy adjustment is added to electricity bills, the amount charged to ratepayers can then be taken in as revenue in the consolidated financial statements, as well as be tracked separately from taxpayer expenses/revenue"~~The report makes a comparison between the OFHP and the OEFC stranded debt. There are, however, crucial differences. The latter had already been incurred when the restructuring took place. In the case of the OFHP, the difference between what will be collected and what will be paid to generators will be set up as an asset which ~~and in accordance with the accounting definition,~~ generates a specific revenue stream in the form of the CEA, in accordance with the accounting definition.Also, it is important to note that the 1999 restructuring led to an "unbundling" of the electricity rate. Prior to the 1999 restructuring and 2002 market opening, there was a "bundled rate" for electricity that included cost recovery of generation and transmission costs, operating and capital – including debt costs, as well as central market operations costs. This was a normal regulatory practice which matched the timing of the capital cost recovery with the benefit to the ratepayer. The DRC represented the unbundling of a portion of the debt service costs. It effectively amortized the cost of the investments in long-lived assets (including debt incurred).The OFHP GA deferral is also intended to have costs recovered from specified ratepayers over a time period ~~to~~ that better reflects the expected lives of those assets (vs the contract lengths, that may be shorter than the expected useful ~~like~~ life of the assets). The intention of the OFHP is to be forward looking to ensure that ratepayers are fairly paying their share of current and future costs, while the DRC was backward looking, replacing part of a bundled rate that was already spreading the cost recovery of the debt over time.The penultimate paragraph in section 3.0 notes the government, in 1999/2000, "…included debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements". This statement is incorrect. The recording of the stranded debt never resulted in an expense in the consolidated financial statements. The amount of the debt was charged directly to accumulated deficit. | |

By establishing the deferral amounts off today's bill and charging it to future consumers, that is providing substance by ensuring future ratepayers pay their share of system costs at the right time. | |
| | 13 | The role of the OEB and its mandate, is provided in legislation. It is not uncommon for government policy, through Regulations, to provide the ground rules over which the OEB is to preside. That is the case with the OFHP itself as the Act and the various regulations provide the direction and processes over which the OEB is to exercise oversight, review and make conclusions on submissions brought forward (rates to charge certain customer classes, basis of interest and appropriateness of fees charged to ensure they are benchmarked and reasonable, etc.). | |

Regulatory asset is a defined term in the legislation and rate-regulated asset is an accounting concept used to appropriate account for rate-regulated entities meeting the appropriate criteria. In addition, the legislation does not create an asset. The recording of any asset resulting from transactions of the Fair Hydro Plan will be assessed for recognition based on Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS), and where appropriate other accounting guidance where PSAS is silent on the issue. GOVERNMENT RESPONSE TO OAG REPORT ON THE FAIR HYDRO PLAN

The government of Ontario does not agree with the assertions and conclusions expressed in the report by the Office of the Auditor General (OAG) on Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP).

OFHP is delivering the single-largest reduction in electricity rates in the province's history. In developing OFHP, the government considered a range of implementation options and consulted with legal, accounting, financial and energy sector third-party experts to provide advice and ensure due diligence was completed. OFHP operates under a financial and accounting framework that is appropriate for the intended purpose and in accordance with Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) and ensures that the fairness goals underlying the program are achieved in a cost-effective manner.

The government has been making important investments in a cleaner and more reliable energy system, but these investments have led to higher electricity bills. OFHP has introduced new measures to lower electricity bills by 25 per cent on average for residential consumers and will hold increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As many as half a million small businesses and farms are also benefitting from a reduction.

Since 2003, nearly $70 billion has been invested in the electricity system, including more than $37 billion in electricity generation to ensure the system is clean and reliable. The majority of the province's electricity generators operate under 20-year contracts. Despite the report's assertion that it is "not at all" certain if these generating assets will be operating beyond their contract lives, third-party experts have confirmed that many of these generators will be able to continue to operate. This means that generating assets are expected to have ongoing useful life and benefit future ratepayers by reducing the need to finance the development of new generating assets.

The Global Adjustment (GA) pays for the bulk of the recent investments in the electricity system. Refinancing the GA provides significant and immediate rate relief by matching the cost of electricity investments with the expected useful life of the generation that has been built. Despite the report's assertion that the government's intention was to avoid recording a deficit in the fiscal plan, the decisions made to implement GA refinancing most effectively achieves the goals of the refinancing program and ensures that the deferred costs are borne by the rate-base, as the beneficiaries of the electricity system, and not the tax-base. The accounting for this transaction will reflect the substance of this transaction.

With respect to the Province's financial statements, they are prepared in accordance with Canadian PSAS and will follow PSAS in accounting for the transactions resulting from OFHP in 2017-18 as well as in the following years. As PSAS is set by an independent standard setting body in Canada focused specifically on the public sector, and because PSAS is used by all senior governments in Canada, presenting its financial statements in accordance with PSAS results in transparent financial reporting for the Province of Ontario.

The government of Ontario also disagrees with two fundamental accounting assertions in the report related to legislated accounting and rate-regulated accounting:

- Legislated Accounting – The Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and its related regulations do not create accounting rules or legislate the accounting. This is a fundamental disagreement with the report. As previously noted, the Province will prepare its consolidated financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

Commented [MD(1]: Quotation marks removed, as those exact quotes don't seem to appear in the report.

- Rate-Regulated Accounting – In commenting on the use of rate-regulated accounting and the role of the Ontario Energy Board (OEB), the report makes reference to a requirement under U.S. accounting standards in connection with the use of rate-regulated accounting that "there must be an independent regulator". This reference is misleading as it does not provide the criteria in its entirety, which is as follows:

  The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers [ASC 980-10-15-2].

The U.S. accounting standard was developed specifically not to preclude the application of rate-regulated accounting by government utilities where the rate regulator would not necessarily be viewed as independent [FAS 71, par. 64]. In addition, the position that rate-regulated accounting is precluded because the OEB is not considered independent of the government of Ontario is contradictory to accepting the use of rate-regulated accounting by Ontario Power Generation (OPG) and Hydro One, both regulated by the OEB and whose results, using rate-regulated accounting, are and have been included in the consolidated financial statements of the Province.

The OFHP is comprised of a series of policy decisions, some of which will be borne by taxpayers where appropriate, such as sales tax relief and shifting social programs to the tax base, and some will be borne by ratepayers, such as spreading the investment costs and benefits across ratepayers more fairly. The accounting will reflect the economic substance of the transactions in accordance with PSAS and will differentiate those costs of OFHP borne by taxpayers vs. those borne by ratepayers. The report suggests that all of the costs of OFHP should be reflected as if they will all be borne by taxpayers, which is inaccurate and could be seen as blurring the line between auditing the activities of government and making policy prescriptions.

Commented [MD(2]: Is this verbatim? Please provide page number/section number.

Commented [MD(3]: Someone needs to confirm that this is correct.

OPG is beginning the process of raising funds to finance the deferred costs, and while total borrowing costs will not be known until the program is complete, accumulated interest is projected to be considerably less than the estimates in the report of the Financial Accountability Office (FAO), cited by the report. Total borrowing estimates over the thirty year life of the program have been revised down substantially by the government since the FAO released its report in May 2017 and borrowing costs are now forecast to be substantially lower than original estimates. Current government estimates forecast that the peak debt over the thirty -year life of OFHP will be below $20 billion. The preliminary estimate from March 2017 was about $28 billion.

Based on the comments above, and given that implementation of OFHP is ongoing with significant accounting and financing decisions still being finalized, the government believes that this report does not reflect the technical substance of the OFHP, some of which have yet to be implemented.

October 4, 2017

Dear Ms. Lysyk,

Thank you for the opportunity to review and provide feedback on your draft special report, The Fair Hydro Plan: Concerns About Fiscal Transparency, Accountability and Value for Money.

As per your letter to Deputy Thompson, dated September 26, 2017, our review focused on confirming the factual accuracy of the report. Please find enclosed succinct written comments and suggestions resulting from our ministries' coordinated review.

We have also enclosed a government response to the special report. Given the nature and the complexity of the issues, the response needed to be longer than the word limit you proposed.

As you know, as part of its preparations for the development of the implementation of the Government's Fair Hydro Act, Navigant Consulting was engaged to conduct analysis and prepare a report. The report was commissioned in June 2017 and completed at the end of September 2017. Although the report was not commissioned as a result of your audit or to respond to any questions raised by your office as part of your audit process, we believe it does contain information relevant to your audit. As per your letter which noted that we should share any other information that may be relevant, we felt it would be appropriate to share a confidential copy of the report with your office while we continue to assess whether the report will be made public.

Once your office has had the opportunity to review the enclosed information, you may find it useful to have further meetings with ourselves and/or staff from our ministries. We will be pleased to make ourselves available to provide clarification or to answer any additional questions. Our Ministers are also available to meet with you to discuss your report and the government response during the week of October 9th.

The Ministry of Finance, Treasury Board Secretariat and the Ministry of Energy are committed to assisting the Office of the Auditor General so that it can provide its independent views to the Legislative Assembly.

Sincerely,

Auditor General of Ontario
Office of the Auditor General of Ontario

Toronto, Ontario M5G 2C2

October 4, 2017

Dear Ms. Lysyk,

Thank you for the opportunity to review and provide feedback on your draft special report, The Fair Hydro Plan: Concerns About Fiscal Transparency, Accountability and Value for Money.

As per your letter to Deputy Thompson, dated September 26, 2017, our review focused on confirming the factual accuracy of the report. Please find enclosed succinct written comments and suggestions resulting from our ministries' coordinated review.

We have also enclosed a government response to the special report. Given the nature and the complexity of the issues, the response needed to be longer than the word limit you proposed.

As you know, as part of its preparations for the development of the implementation of the Government's Fair Hydro Act, Navigant Consulting was engaged to conduct analysis and prepare a report. The report was commissioned in June 2017 and completed at the end of September 2017. Although the report was not commissioned as a result of your audit or to respond to any questions raised by your office as part of your audit process, we believe it does contain information relevant to your audit. As per your letter which noted that we should share any other information that may be relevant, we felt it would be appropriate to share a confidential copy of the report with your office while we continue to assess whether the report will be made public~~be appropriate to share a confidential copy of the report with your office in advance of it being made public~~.

Once your office has had the opportunity to review the enclosed information, you may find it useful to have further meetings with ourselves and/or staff from our ministries. We will be pleased to make ourselves available to provide clarification or to answer any additional questions. Our Ministers are also available to meet with you to discuss your report and the government response during the week of October 9th.

The Ministry of Finance, Treasury Board Secretariat and the Ministry of Energy are committed to assisting the Office of the Auditor General so that it can provide its independent views to the Legislative Assembly.

Sincerely,

| General | Throughout | The 8% Provincial Rebate is often referred to as a "HST rebate." The program is an 8% rebate on the consumer's pre-tax electricity charges. While this is equivalent to the provincial component of HST, the program is not a tax rebate. Tax is assessed in full and is not credited back to customers.Suggest correcting this reference throughout the OAG report. | N |

Although the retainer agreement includes a cap of up to $500,000 as of September 27, 2017 only $41,775.75 has actually been spent. | Summary of Concerns | 3 | *"… so IESO will sell its statutory right to recover the shortfall and use the proceeds of that sale to recover the shortfall ~~the government needs to borrow cash to cover the shortfall~~"Updated statement with language in "bold and underlined" and remove text in "strike-out". This statement is factually incorrect in two respects. First, in its reference to "government". It is Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) that needs to cover the shortfall. The IESO is not the "government" because IESO is not owned by the Crown, and under statute (Electricity Act, 1998) is explicitly not an agent of the Crown. Second, in its reference to "borrowing cash". IESO is not borrowing cash to cover the shortfall (except initially). IESO can sell its statutory right to recover the shortfall and use the proceeds of that sale to cover the shortfall. | N |
| Summary of Concerns, 2.0 | 3, 10 | The report concludes that as a result of the government's decision to not borrow directly in connection with GA refinancing, an additional $4 billion in interest costs will be imposed on consumers over the life of OFHP, as OPG/OPG trust must pay a higher rate of interest compared to the Province.This $4 billion figure was sourced from the Financial Accountability Officer's (FAO) May 2017 report on OFHP; however, accumulated interest is projected to be considerably less than estimated in the FAO's May report. Total borrowing for the program has been revised down substantially since May, from $27.7 billion to $18.5 billion, and OPG's borrowing costs are now forecast to be lower than original estimates. | N |
| Summary of concerns | 4 | The first bullet on the page notes that the OFHP legislates the accounting which is factually incorrect and should be deleted. | N – Legislation – already in the report |
| Summary of Concerns | 4 and throughout | The AG report notes throughout that the Ontario Rebate for Electricity Consumers (OREC) is 8% of the OFHP's 25% bill reduction for the proxy consumer.The 25% figure is an after-tax figure whereas the 8% figure is before-tax (i.e., 8% before tax is equivalent to 7.1% after-tax). | Summary of Concerns | 4 and throughout | Under OFHP, consumers of all sizes will benefit from shifting cost recovery for the Ontario Electricity Support Program (OESP) and the majority of the Rural or Remote Rate Protection (RRRP) program from electricity bills to provincial revenues.This action is expected to lower regulatory charges for all consumers by approximately $3/MWh (or about 2% for a residential consumer). The AG report does not mention this aspect of OFHP.Suggest including the two sentences above in the AG report and adjusting the commentary in the report accordingly such that this information about RRRP and OESP costs are reflected in the report. | N |
| Summary of Concerns | 4 and throughout | The AG report indicates on several occasions a 17% reduction in ratepayers electricity bills. However, due to the fact that the 8% OREC is a before-tax rebate and that the shifting of social programs (i.e., OESP and RRRP) to the tax-base constitutes a portion of the 25% reduction, the impact of GA refinancing on the proxy consumer's bill is about 16%.Note: The breakdown is more like: 7% (OREC) + 16% (GA Refinancing) + 2% (tax-basing Ontario Electricity Support Program and Rural or Remote Rate Protection).Suggest correcting this reference throughout the AG report. | N |

Government was mitigating risks not working around them. | N |
| 1.2 | 6 | The design options were not all rejected because they would show an increase in the deficit or net debt. For example, one option considered was to have the LDCs finance the difference between the amounts paid to the generators and the amounts collected from the ratepayers. This was rejected because of the inability of some of the LDCs to finance the balances. This option was detailed in an email provided to the OAG from Cindy Veinot dated February 2, 2017 at 7:02 pm. | Copy of email |

| | 7 | Implication in several sections that the OFHP roll out results in a "less transparent" process. With the financing plan, similar to several jurisdictions in the U.S., and a form or securitization that is commonly used in the financial markets the impact of the plan will be transparent. Credit rating agencies, securities regulators and the public at large get full information and full reporting of the impacts of the OFHP that are visible and specific. | N |
| | 8 | "Province shows no increase in net expense because the revenue OPG earns from charging the OPG Trust interest and administration and other fees offsets the interest expense on the amount borrowed…"This is not factually correct as stated. There is no explicit legislative or regulatory requirement for the revenue Ontario Power Generation (OPG) earns from charging the OPG Trust interest and fees to bear any relationship to the interest expense incurred by the Province in borrowing money for its equity infusions into OPG. | N |

| 1.3.1 | 8 and Figure 3 | The OFHP costs included in the AG report (e.g., interest, debt, etc.) are higher than ENERGY's August 31 estimates (s*ee Exhibit 1 below for further detail).* ENERGY'S August 31 estimates reflect the best available information regarding the parameters that impact OFHP cost (e.g., electricity bills, consumption, etc.) and are more likely to reflect how OFHP will progress over time.Consider including ENERGY's August 31 interest, debt and total cost estimates in the report, or, at a minimum note that ENERGY's recent estimates are significantly lower than the FAO cost estimates. | N |

| 1.3.2 | 9 | The AG report states that it is not at all certain that the electricity generators whose costs have been smoothed under OFHP will be in use to produce power in the future. Third-party expert analysis advised that the electricity generators that form the basis for GA refinancing will be able to operate after expiry of IESO contracts.The report also points out that future ratepayers do not yet owe anything until they consume electricity in the future. Electricity has always been priced according to this approach in Ontario, as currently represented through the Global Adjustment (GA) which varies based on consumption levels for Class B consumers. OFHP takes into account the best available long-term projection of Ontario electricity demand.Suggest updating the content in the AG report to acknowledge third-party expert analysis (i.e., that the electricity generators that form the basis for GA refinancing will be able to operate after expiry of IESO contracts). | Y |
| 1.3.2 | 9 | The statement is made "key to achieving this result is calling the 17% revenue shortfall or net expense a "regulatory asset". This is factually incorrect. It does not matter what an item is labeled within the legislation. The accounting for the transaction will be based on Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards. This sentence should be deleted.As previously provided to the OAG by IESO and KPMG, the transaction is expected to result in an asset that meets the definition of an asset based on PSAS and the guidance on rate-regulated accounting in US GAAP. | | | Under Canadian PSAS, assets are defined by three characteristics: a) they embody future economic benefits (of which one is the ability to generate future cash flows); b) the entity has full control in order to access those benefits, and c) they must result from a past event.The decision by the IESO to apply the rate-regulated rules under US GAAP does not create an inconsistency with the definition of an asset under Canadian PSAS. The shortfall which is being reported as an asset by the IESO embodies a future economic benefit based on the requirement of the specified ratepayers to pay these deferred amounts in the future. IESO has control to access those benefits either by selling the regulatory asset or by holding the asset until the payments by the specified ratepayers are received in the future. Finally, the asset results from a past event which is the payment to the generators for the generation of power.It is important to distinguish legislating the accounting from legislating the right for the government to recover amounts from specified ratepayers in the future, based on costs incurred today. Enabling the IESO to sell the future right to recover of this shortfall from specified ratepayers provided under the FHP Act is not legislating the accounting. The statute does not direct the government how to account for the shortfall. The statute provides for recovery of the current shortfalls from the specified ratepayers in the future, reflecting the policy decision to have the GA refinancing borne by the specified ratepayers, and in doing so, creates an obligation on the specified ratepayers to pay an amount in the future. The obligation on the part of the specified ratepayers is a future economic benefit to the government. | |

Instead, starting in 2002, ratepayers began paying down the stranded debt through a "debt retirement charge" on their bills.~~~~The collection of the debt retirement charge and the Fair Hydro future reduction recovery are similar in that both stem from government policy decisions and did not result from an independent regulatory process. As well, the payments were/will be made much later, "after the fact." However, in the 1999/2000 fiscal year, the government followed Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards properly, and included the debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the debt retirement charge was added to electricity bills, the charge to ratepayers was taken in as revenue in the Province's consolidated financial statements. This treatment allowed the government to track ratepayer costs and taxpayer costs separately, helping to ensure that only ratepayers, not taxpayers, pay for electricity services.~~~~The same accounting should be applied to the Fair Hydro Plan rate reduction: include the debt being accumulated through the 10 years of the reduction as Provincial debt, and record interest expense on this debt as an expense in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the clean energy adjustment is added to electricity bills, the amount charged to ratepayers can then be taken in as revenue in the consolidated financial statements, as well as be tracked separately from taxpayer expenses/revenue"~~The report makes a comparison between the OFHP and the OEFC stranded debt. There are, however, crucial differences. The latter had already been incurred when the restructuring took place. In the case of the OFHP, the difference between what will be collected and what will be paid to generators will be set up as an asset and in accordance with the accounting definition, generates a specific revenue stream in the form of the CEA.Also, it is important to note that the 1999 restructuring led to an "unbundling" of the electricity rate. Prior to the 1999 restructuring and 2002 market opening, there was a "bundled rate" for electricity that included cost recovery of generation and transmission costs, operating and capital – including debt costs, as well as central market operations costs. This was a normal regulatory practice which matched the timing of the capital cost recovery with the benefit to the ratepayer. The DRC represented the unbundling of a portion of the debt service costs. It effectively amortized the cost of the investments in long-lived assets (including debt incurred).The OFHP GA deferral is also intended to have costs recovered from specified ratepayers over a time period to better reflect the expected lives of those assets (vs the contract lengths, that may be shorter than the expected useful like of the assets). | | | 1999 restructuring and the OFHP is that the DRC continued to pay down, over time, debt that had already been incurred, while under the OFHP, an asset is being created to ensure a fair allocation of electricity costs between current and future ratepayers. The intention of the OFHP is to be forward looking to ensure that ratepayers are fairly paying their share of current and future costs, while the DRC was backward looking, replacing part of a bundled rate that way already spreading the cost recovery of the debt over time.Finally, ~~T~~the penultimate paragraph in section 3.0 notes the government, in 1999/2000, "…included debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements". This statement is incorrect. The recording of the stranded debt never resulted in an expense in the consolidated financial statements. The amount of the debt was charged directly to accumulated deficit. | |
| | 12 | Related to the above argument on the value / existence of an asset – The "substance over form"The government differentiated the reductions in consumers' electricity bills that are being borne by the tax-base as a whole (i.e., 8% Rebate, certain programs to help rural customers) from those that have a long term benefit (the 17% referenced in the AG report). By establishing the deferral amounts off today's bill and charging it to future consumers, that is providing substance by ensuring future ratepayers pay their share of system costs at the right time. | N |
| | 13 | The role of the OEB and its mandate, is provided in legislation. It is not uncommon for government policy, through Regulations, to provide the ground rules over which the OEB is to preside. That is the case with the OFHP itself as the Act and the various regulations provide the direction and processes over which the OEB is to exercise oversight, review and make conclusions on submissions brought forward (rates to charge certain customer classes, basis of interest and appropriateness of fees charged to ensure they are benchmarked and reasonable, etc.). | N |
| 4.3 | 13 | The first sentence of the second paragraph states: As introduced in Section 1.3.2, the asset that the Fair Hydro Act creates is referred to as a "regulatory" or "rate-regulated" asset.The terms regulatory and rate-regulated are not interchangeable and the sentence suggests they are. # FAIR HYDRO PLAN – PROVINCIAL GUARANTEE

A. Issue

- Provincial Support Agreement Term Sheet

B. Background

- Under the terms of the proposed Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act"),[1] it is anticipated that the Ontario Power Generation ("OPG") will establish a subsidiary entity (the "Financing Entity") that will undertake a public debt offering that is part of the ~~to~~ financing~~e~~ required for the implementation of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan (the "Fair Hydro Plan").

- The Ontario Finance Authority (the "OFA") is leading the negotiation of a term sheet with OPG that would outline the basis upon which the government of Ontario ("Ontario") would provide financial assurance to support such a debt offering.

- OPG has advised that a term sheet codifying Ontario's commitment, at least at a high level, will be necessary to support OPG's pending discussions with credit rating agencies. OPG and its advisors are of the opinion that a robust provincial guarantee has the potential positively impact on the eventual credit rating assigned to the financing entity. , ~~as well as the anticipated triple-A rating of the proposed debt offering.~~

- OPG provided the OFA with a draft of a proposed term sheet dated May 12, 2017 (the "May Term Sheet"). The May Term Sheet included a number of features that were unacceptable to Ontario, including, most notably, a requirement to pay off all debt obligations of the Financing Entity including a 1% premium under certain circumstances. Other features that presented difficulties from the Province's perspective included a performance guarantee covering obligations of the Independent Electricity System Operator (the "IESO") and a liquidity guarantee that would be triggered in the case of financial market disruption.

- In a meeting on July 12, 2017, the OFA communicated Ontario's concerns about the May Term Sheet and indicated that the province would be willing to provide financial assurance to prospective investors in respect of only two kinds of risk:

    - the possibility of future legislative by the government of Ontario compromising the economic rights of investors; and

    - the possibility that the Fair Hydro Plan is ultimately found to be invalid from a constitutional perspective by a court of competent jurisdiction.

    - A change in the organization, structure or operations of the IESO or a change in the electricity market structure that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to make payments on its debt obligations

- The OFA accepted that it was fair and reasonable for the province to provide a guarantee in respect of these three~~wo~~ risks because they would be a consequence of the government`s past and future policy decisions. However, the OFA indicated that investors would need to assume the risk associated with other aspects of the Fair Hydro Plan and the risk of future capital market disruptions.

C. Current Status

- The OPG took Ontario's position back to the investment dealers and worked with them to develop a revised term sheet that better reflected this more limited form of provincial guarantee (the "August Term Sheet").

- Ontario's external counsel (Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP ("Blakes")) provided a mark-up of the August Term Sheet identifying a number of continuing concerns arising out of the draft provisions and to propose further amendments intended to address those concerns.

- On August 22, 2017, counsel from the Ministry of Energy, the Ministry of Finance ("MOF-LSB") and Blakes met with representatives from the OFA to discuss a number the issues identified by Blakes, as well as a number of further concerns identified by counsel in MOF-LSB.

D. Analysis

Purpose of Term Sheet

- As a preliminary matter, it is important to recognize that the purpose of the proposed Term Sheet is not to create enforceable rights or obligations. Section 5(3) of the Act makes it clear that any guarantee provided by the province must be agreed to by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (acting together) as authorized by order of the

Formatted: English (United States)

Formatted: List Paragraph, No bullets or numbering

Lieutenant Governor in Council (the "LGIC"). The LGIC has not yet made an OIC authorizing the responsible Ministers to enter into any guarantee and therefore the Ministers do not yet have any legal authority to do so.

- Against this backdrop, it is clear that the purpose of the Term Sheet is to outline, in a general way, a high level understanding of the type of financial assurance that the province might be willing to provide to prospective investors in appropriate circumstances. The actual terms and conditions of any future assurance agreement entered into by Ontario will need to be fully negotiated in the context of a specific transaction and would necessarily be subject to LGIC and Ministerial approval.

Continuing Legal Concerns

- Attached to this briefing note as Appendix "A" is a revised draft of the August Term Sheet reflecting the consolidated legal comments of Blakes, MOF-LSB and ENE-LSB. The revisions are broadly intended to address the following concerns:

  - Title – Blakes is of the view that the proposed provincial assurance agreement is more accurately characterized as an indemnity arrangement, than a guarantee. There are highly technical reasons underlying this position and we note that OPG's external counsel (Torys LLP) does not agree with this concern. Rather than engaging in this debate, we have simply re-titled the proposed agreement as a "Change of Law Assumption Agreement," which more specifically reflects the substantive nature of the assurances that the province intends to provide.

  - Preamble – We have added a provision to the preamble to more explicitly confirm that the arrangements contemplated in the Term Sheet are subject to further government approvals and that the document is not intended to create any legally binding obligations.

  - Beneficiaries – Torys has indicated that the provincial guarantee must be given directly in favour of the Indenture Trustee, rather than the Financing Entity. The purpose of this change is to ensure that bondholders would have a direct remedy against Ontario. We have revised the draft Term Sheet to reflect this intention on the basis that it would not materially increase the scope of Ontario's legal or financial liability under the guarantee. However, we note that one consequence of this change is that Ontario would be considered a separate issuer for U.S. securities law purposes.

  - Specified Claims – The August Term Sheet purported to extend to all of the "rights and interests of the Financing Entity", including, but not limited to, the right to receive the payments contemplated under the Fair Hydro Plan. The OFA has previously indicated to OPG that the province is only willing to be responsible for the payment of principal and interest on Senior Debt Obligations. This would exclude other costs and fees incurred by the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (e.g., law firms, accountants) and other types of claims that might be advanced by Beneficiaries in connection with the proposed guarantee. Limiting the province's liability to "senior" debt holders excludes OPG (who is a subordinated debt holder) on the basis that the province has already funded OPG's contribution by way of a liquidity injection. We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect these more limited concepts (primarily by way of a new definition of "Specified Claims").

Commented [KK2]: Reading the comments from Steve Ashbourne, I am not sure if he conclusively states that Ontario will in fact become an issuer, rater he simply raises the possibility. In any event this is only an issue if the FE has to raise funds in the US Markets, something that the OFA is not in favour, at least over the next few years.

Commented [KK3]: The OFA is not particularly fussed about extending the guarantee to cover these payments; within the overall context of the FHP these amounts will not be material.

- Materiality Threshold – The August Term Sheet included a series of "Guarantee Activation Events" that would trigger Ontario's obligations under the provincial assurance agreement. Although the enumerated list of events substantially reflected the limited form of guarantee proposed by the OFA, the August Term Sheet removed the "materiality" threshold for guaranteed claims. The intent of this change is to make the province liable in any case where the obligations of bondholders are not paid in full. However, this strict form of guarantee would expose the province to any unreasonable degree of risk. Beneficiaries could potentially seek to trigger the guarantee in response to routine legislative amendments affecting the value of their investment interest only indirectly or in insignificant ways (e.g., a merely theoretical diminution in the value of the regulatory asset or some kind of timing issue that modestly delays payment). For this reason, we have reintroduced the concept of "materiality" in the list of Guarantee Activation Events (now described as "Assumption Events").

- Right of Subrogation – We have added a provision to the Term Sheet making it clear that Ontario will be subrogated to the rights of Beneficiaries who receive payments under the guarantee. This ensures that the province will be entitled to pursue any civil remedies against third parties that may have been available to the Beneficiary in respect of such amounts.

- "Assumption" of Obligations – The provisions of the August Term Sheet stated that, upon the occurrence of a Guarantee Activation Event, Ontario "assume and pay" all of the obligations of the Financing Entity. This language seems to intend that the province would directly assume all of the Financing Entities obligations to the Indenture Trustee and bondholders. The OFA has previously indicated that Ontario is only willing to commit to pay the principal and interest obligations of the Financing Entity as they come due, and not to replace the Financing Entity and become directly liable for all its obligations (except at its own option as discussed below). We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect this more limited commitment.

- Optional Replacement – We have added to the Term Sheet an optional right on the part of the province to assume all of the rights and liabilities of the Financing Entity, without the need for any further consent or approval of the Indenture

Trustee. This would provide Ontario with greater flexibility in determining how to deal with any claims arising under the guarantee, without imposing this more onerous obligation on the province.

- Approval Requirements – We have revised the approval requirement section of the Term Sheet to modestly strengthen Ontario's rights associated with the process for approving future transactions that will be covered by the provincial assurance agreement.

- Warehousing/Commingling Risks – The August Term Sheet included a series of provisions dealing with ongoing business concerns associated with debt warehousing risks and LDC credit rating commingling. As far as we are aware, the arrangements contemplated in these sections have not been agreed to by Ontario and it is not helpful to link them in this way to the ongoing negotiations around the proposed guarantee. For this reason, we have deleted them from the Term Sheet.

E. Recommendations and Next Steps

- MOF-LSB will be arranging a meeting with the OFA as early as practicable next week to discuss the communication of these comments and the revised draft Term Sheet to OPG.

| Subject: | Fair Hydro - Option for Province to Cure Default before Acceleration of Debt |
| Date: | Thursday, September 07, 2017 4:19:41 PM |
| Attachments: | Memorandum on Acceleration Proposal.docx |

Dear James,

During the discussions of the Provincial guarantee at a recent Thursday rate mitigation meeting, OPG raised the issue of potential acceleration of financing entity debt where the guarantee is not applicable. That would occur if there is an event of default (e.g. if the trust is not able to pay/service the debt) for a reason that doesn't trigger the guarantee (e.g. for a reason other than a change of the legislation).

When there is an acceleration, all of the principal amount becomes due and a large payment would need to be made by the financing entity to bondholders. If the acceleration occurs after the moratorium period, the amount payable to bondholders would be put through the Clean Energy Adjustment to specified consumers. That could result in a significant increase in consumer bills in a short period of time.

We understand that the Province may not want consumers to experience such a sharp bill increase. We discussed the Dealers whether the Province could be given the option to cure an event of default of a financing entity before it results in acceleration of debt. The Dealers were amenable to providing this option.

When we raised this possibility, the Province indicated it would like to have such an option, and asked us to put together a note describing the terms.

Please find attached a note describing the proposed terms of the option.

Let us know if you have any questions or comments, or if this should be directed to someone else.

Memorandum

To: Her Majesty the Queen in Right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (the "Province")

Date: August 30, 2017

From: Ontario Power Generation Inc.

Subject: Acceleration of Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act Obligations

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, clean energy adjustments are designed to recover the "funding obligations" and "finance amounts" (as defined in the Act and regulations thereunder, respectively, collectively referred to as the "Obligations") that become due during a reference period (each generally a six month period). This means that if there is an event of default under the master trust indenture (the "Indenture") that is not or cannot be cured, the full amount of the accelerated Obligations may become due and payable and be included in the calculation of the clean energy adjustments for the next reference period. Furthermore, it is likely that all funding obligations will be cross-defaulted to each other, so acceleration of one series of funding obligations will likely result in acceleration of all funding obligations. Accordingly, electricity rates for specified consumers would be set at a rate for a six-month period that would result in repayment in full of all outstanding and accelerated Obligations. On the assumption that all interested parties would like to avoid such a scenario, we have discussed with the dealers the following as an approach in the context of an event of default:

1. Upon the occurrence of a Default under the Indenture (being an event which, with the passage of time or giving of notice could become an Event of Default), the Province would have the following rights:

(a) a right to receive written notice from the trustee under the Indenture (at the same time that such trustee provides a notice to the financing entity through OPG as the manager) that a Default has occurred;

(b) in the event of the occurrence of an Event of Default that is not based upon the occurrence of a Default followed by a cure period (such as insolvency of the financing entity), a right to receive written notice from the trustee under the Indenture that an Event of Default has occurred; and

(c) a right to cure the Default or the Event of Default, as the case may be, within a specified cure period, which will run concurrently with any cure period available under the Indenture with respect to the applicable Event of Default.

2. The Indenture will provide that notwithstanding the occurrence of an Event of Default, the Obligations may not be accelerated until the expiry of the cure period available to the Province. If the Default or Event of Default in question cannot be cured by the Province on behalf of the financing entity within this cure period, then the Province will have the option to "cure" and avoid acceleration of the Obligations by assuming those Obligations. This option would be set out in the provincial protection and assurances agreement. In such circumstances, as in the case of a change of law, the Fair Hydro program would be discontinued and the Obligations owing under the program would be those of the Province.

Good evening,

Please find attached, the final term sheet for the Provincial Protection Agreement (clean and black-lined). You'll see the attached reflects today's decision to square bracket the word "materially". This version also incorporates minor edits from Tory's sent by Rima on Thursday evening (the addition of "or amends" and the word "electricity").

| Optional Assumption: | At any time following the occurrence of a Protection Event, the Obligor shall be entitled (but not obligated) to assume the Financing Entity's obligations in respect of Specified Claims as obligor and debtor. The Financing Entity (including through the Financial Services Manager) will ensure that Specified Claims permit such an assumption by the Obligor without any penalty or make-whole payment (or, in the case of any contract for the provision of on-going services to the Financing Entity, the satisfaction and termination of the Specified Claims without any acceleration of future fees, profits or other like amounts), or any requirement for further consent, approval or agreement. |
| Term: | The Change of Law Protection Agreement will continue for as long as any Specified Claim remains outstanding. |
| Obligor Approval: | The process by which a Specified Claim will become subject to the Change of Law Protection Agreement will be determined by the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy in negotiation with the Financing Entity. |

Process Agreement

- 2.01 Deliveries to the Province
    - No concerns with removing PILS/tax language
- 2.02 Covenants
    - First use of commercially reasonable efforts and then throughout
    - Need legal opinion on whether to change to best efforts
- 2.02 (b) (iv) Province to review any description of the protection agreement
    - No concerns with this deletion
    - OPG likely to use boilerplate description of the guarantee
- 2.02 (c) Indemnity
    - No concerns, likely a requirement for OPG Board
- 4.01 Protection Agreement Maximum
    - CRITICAL – we can be flexible on the wording but we can't agree to removing Provincial approval of a maximum – compromise option would be to use the Financing Plan number as the Protection Agreement Maximum, the plan will be reviewed by MOE and the assumptions rigorously vetted.
    - Subject to OPCD review/input
- 5.02 Reps and Warranties of the Province
    - No concerns

Protection Agreement

- Need to review the Indemnity Agreement
- 1.17 References to the Financing Entity
    - No concerns with removing Trustee
- 2.09c Modifications of Approved Obligations
    - Why not seek consent of the Province when changing its obligations?
- Article V
    - Edit title to Provincial Matters
- 5.01 Assignment and Subrogation
    - Why remove the subrogation after the Province has taken on the obligations?
- 7.04 Release of All Collateral
    - What is meant by collateral? Would it include sinking funds? If it does, the Province should get the sinking funds, not leave them with OPG
- 9.07 Force Majeure
    - Why remove the Force Majeure clause?

Subject: Draft Documents

CONFIDENTIAL AND PRIVILEGED ,

Hi all,

There are quite a few points for discussion raised by the drafts and included in Blakes' comments. Here are some of the main ones that we could discuss tomorrow morning at 9:30. I understand that the OFA will be arranging a meeting of the group for Tuesday morning. As mentioned previously, it has conveyed that OPG would like to receive revised drafts of these agreements by the end of the day on Wednesday that it can take to its board meeting on Monday November 20th. As a result, I think that this will require a lot of time on Tuesday and Wednesday to do this. Thanks to you all for being available tomorrow morning.

Protection Agreement

1. Parties to the Agreement.

- Status of Financing Entity and how it is entering into the Protection Agreement as well as all of the other agreements relating to the program. Is the Financing Entity still the named party (i.e. legal entity would be trustee) even if some of these agreements are signed by its agent?

- Who controls and makes the decisions for the Financing Entity? Trust Declaration mentions unit holders – who are the unit holders?

- This is also goes to the standard of "commercially reasonable efforts" that OPG is seeking to include in the Process Agreement. This standard doesn't make sense where FE is a subsidiary of OPG. Explain standard and how it compares with other possible standards to apply. Should the Financing Entity also directly be a party to the Process Agreement?

- OPG and directors, employees and officers have provincial indemnity for activities undertaken in connection with FHP – agreement dated June 1, 2017

- How does this affect the Province's rights of subrogation, etc.

2. The Provincial Indemnity Agreement in favour of OPG should not be referenced in the Protection Agreement. It is not relevant to the Province's obligations under the Protection Agreement which are for the benefit of the beneficiaries, not OPG and its employees, officers etc. The Province is not obliged to indemnify the Financing Entity under that indemnity – it is specifically excluded.

3. Limited Guarantee Wording

- Discuss deletion of “without acceleration” by OPG – what could be their rationale?

- Need to discuss alternative wording suggested.

- “Protection Account” and “Available Collections” – Need to work through these concepts to see why they are being proposed and are they prejudicial

4. 2.03 FAA s. 43 provides for statutory set-off right for Province

5. 2.09 – Modifications of Approved Obligations – what could be OPG’s rationale for deleting this?

6. 4.02 Adherence Conditions

- Appears that OPG only want to include a confirmation that certificate was sent to Province under Process Agreement.

- What are the implications to the Province of deleting the requirement to advise the Indenture Trustee of the Protection Agreement Maximum and that the issuance does not exceed the Protection Agreement Maximum? Beneficiaries and the Indenture Trustee are not given direct information on Protection Agreement Maximum.

- Agreed that it should be a condition that there has not been a Suspension Notice

7. 5.01 Assignment and Subrogation -

- Shouldn’t the subrogation issue be dealt with separately for the circumstance in which the Province pays on an ongoing basis and does not directly assume the Obligations? Does 5.01 just cover that scenario?

8. 5.05 Reps and Warranties – If Province determines to include the representations should be more general (not include references to specific statutes and approvals) and also enforceability must include qualifications – Need more review to compare to ones previously given. However generally in a guarantee, Province does not include reps as OIC clearly authorizes province to enter into guarantee agreement.

(a) Authority. The execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement by the Province have been authorized by all necessary action on the part of the Province.
(b) No Conflict. The execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement by the Province do not result in the violation of any Applicable Law.
(c) Execution and Binding Obligation. This Agreement has been duly executed and delivered by the Province and constitutes a legal, valid and binding obligation of the Province, enforceable against the Province in accordance with its terms, subject only to (i) a court in the Province of Ontario may not against the Province grant an injunction or make an order for specific performance, make an order for recovery of real or personal property, or issue execution or attachment process in the nature thereof, other than garnishment in certain limited circumstances, (ii) pursuant to section 43 of the Financial Administration Act (Ontario), as amended, where in the opinion of the Minister of Finance of Ontario, X is indebted to the Province or any agency of the Province, the Minister of Finance of Ontario has the discretion to retain by way of deduction or set-off, out of the money that is due and payable by the Province to X, such sum as such Minister considers fit in the circumstances to be applied against the indebtedness of X, and (iii) pursuant to the Proceedings Against the Crown Act (Ontario), X is not entitled to claim set-off or to make a counterclaim in a proceeding by the Province for recovery of taxes, duties or penalties and is not entitled, in a proceeding of any other nature by the Province, to claim set-off or to make a counterclaim arising out of a right or claim in respect of any taxes, duties or penalties.

9. 6.01 – Delivery of Assumption Notice, etc.
OPG would like to move details from Process Agreement to Protection Agreement. Is it necessary to attach a form or even a draft form of Assumption Agreement at this point? Most likely if Province decides to assume the debt and any other obligations directly, it will have to obtain other internal approvals. The reason we included this now is so that the agreements that the FE enters into would enable such an assumption if the Province determined that it would be appropriate, i.e. there are sometimes provisions that do not permit assignment in these sorts of agreements. See 6.05 of Process Agreement. Also, although a range of Specified Creditors benefit from the security held by Indenture Trustee, not all obligations are created by Master Trust Indenture, etc. so how could there be a global assumption agreement. Some of the timelines in the Process Agreement are too short, i.e. 20 days for Province to decide once it receives particulars of obligations is too short.

10. 7.04 Release of all Collateral - The collateral is key to the Province should it be called upon – on what basis should Indenture Trustee be allowed to release collateral?

11. Suspension Notice v. Termination Notice – Province does not want to be compelled to assume debt in any instance. Province can elect to assume debt if Suspension Notice given.

Termination Notice won't take effect until all amounts are paid so there would not be a reason to assume debt at that point Is OPG concerned that all debt could be paid off for a period of time while the Master Trust Indenture is still in effect for program and Province then terminate the guarantee even though more debt is planned to be issued in future under the MTI. Is this a realistic possibility? They included this in an earlier provision to s. 2.08.

12. Definition of Protection Event. Do not agree to delete "materially" from Protection Event definition. Under (a) (iv) how could an official or a board or commission make or amend a regulation? See question re: OEB?

Process Agreement

1. Parties to Agreement: Consider OPG signing as FSM? Also should FE be a party? Who directly controls and makes FE decisions? Consider "commercially reasonable efforts" requested by OPG throughout. This affects reps and warranties – could there be separate sections from reps and warranties from both.

2. 2.02(d) What would be considered "reasonable" for Province to request in order to enable the Province to assess the nature and extent of its obligations under the Protection Agreement?

3. 2.02(b)(ix) – Discussion with OFA on Friday propose to move this so it is a confirmation in the "process certificate" that no disclosure, press release or other written communication intended for dissemination to third parties that refers to or describes the terms, effect or adherence of or to this process agreement or protection agreement shall not be used or made unless the disclosure is substantially the same as disclosure previous made.

4. 3.04(b) – Should discuss proposed deletion of (b) – is it ok to merge (a) and (b)?

5. 4.01 – if Province determines that this formulation is acceptable, should also add into (b) and (d) the Province and OPG will discuss and address any inaccuracies in the Initial Forecast and further Forecast not just the Financing Plan to the reasonable satisfaction of both parties? Meaning of "accord with the Financing Plan".

6. Election to assume by Province – see above discussion under Protection Agreement.

7. 7.01 – Breach Events

Is there a document by which OPG was appointed FSM – statute says OPG will be appointed unless unable or unwilling? Would a shorter cure period be workable?

Hi Mike

Although we are not really going to give much input to the terms of the, various agreements etc I am wondering whether it makes sense to have the documentation group involved in this project. I know that Opal came to one of the early meetings as there are going to be quite a few agreements to review.

Perhaps we can discuss this tomorrow?

Thanks

(v) If Party B requests Party A in writing to obtain Market Quotations, Party A will use reasonable efforts to do so before the Early Termination Date.

Part 6. FX Transaction and Currency Option Transaction Provisions

(a) FX Definitions

(i) Incorporated Into Agreement. The 1998 ISDA FX and Currency Option Transaction Definitions, as published by the International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc., (the "FX Definitions") are incorporated by reference into this Agreement. Any terms used and not otherwise defined in this Agreement that are contained in the FX Definitions shall have the respective meanings specified therein (without regard to any amendments thereto after the date of this Agreement).

(ii) Inconsistency. In the event of any inconsistency between the FX Definitions and any other provisions or definitions that are incorporated by reference into this Agreement, the FX Definitions shall prevail with respect to an FX Transaction or a Currency Option Transaction. In the event of any inconsistency between the FX Definitions and the provisions otherwise contained in this Agreement, those provisions otherwise contained in this Agreement shall prevail.

(b) Confirmations. Any FX Transaction or Currency Option Transaction into which the parties may before the date of this Agreement have entered, or may in the future enter, where the relevant Confirmation on its face does not expressly exclude the application of this Agreement, shall (to the extent not otherwise provided for in this Agreement) be subject to, governed by and construed in accordance with this Agreement (in substitution for any existing terms, if any, whether express or implied). Each such FX Transaction and Currency Option Transaction shall be a Transaction, and the documents and other confirming evidence (including electronic messages on an electronic messaging service) exchanged between the parties confirming such FX Transaction or Currency Option Transaction shall each be a Confirmation (even where not so specified therein), for the purposes of this Agreement.

(c) Payment Instructions. All payments to be made in respect of FX Transactions and Currency Option Transactions shall be made in accordance with standing payment instructions provided by the parties (or as otherwise specified in a Confirmation). Any such instructions from a party must be received no later than one Business Day prior to the Value Date or Premium Payment Date (as the case may be) for such Transaction and otherwise be in conformity with standard inter-dealer market practice regarding foreign currency delivery.

(d) FX Transaction Novation Netting.

(i) Automatic Novation Netting. In addition to the settlement netting provisions of Section 2(c) of this Agreement, unless otherwise agreed, if the parties enter into an FX Transaction that is governed by this Agreement through a pair of Novation Netting Offices giving rise to an obligation of a party under this Agreement to pay an amount of currency (a "Currency Obligation") on the same date and in the same currency as a then existing Currency Obligation between the same pair of Novation Netting Offices, then immediately upon entering into such FX Transaction, each such Currency Obligation shall automatically and without further action be cancelled and simultaneously replaced by a new Currency Obligation for such date determined as follows: the amount of such currency that would otherwise have been payable by each party on such date shall be aggregated and the party with the larger aggregate amount shall have a new Currency Obligation to pay to the other party the amount of such currency by which its aggregate amount exceeds the other party's aggregate amount, provided that if the aggregate amounts are equal, no new Currency Obligation shall arise. This paragraph (d) shall not affect any other Currency Obligation of a party to pay any different currency on the same date. This provision shall apply notwithstanding that either party (i) may fail to send out a Confirmation in respect of any such novation, or (ii) may fail to make changes in any of its books as a result of any such novation.

(ii) "Novation Netting Office" means, as to either party, the office or offices specified in Part 4, Section A in the Schedule and any other office specified from time to time by one party and agreed to in writing by the other party.

(e) Currency Option Transaction Discharge and Termination

(i) Automatic Discharge and Termination of Offsetting Options. Unless otherwise agreed, any Call Option or any Put Option written by a party will automatically be terminated and discharged, in whole or in part, as applicable, against a Call Option or a Put Option, respectively, written by the other party, such termination and discharge to occur automatically upon the payment in full of the last Premium payable in respect of such Currency Option Transactions; provided that such termination and discharge may only occur in respect of Currency Option Transactions:

(1) each being with respect to the same Put Currency and the same Call Currency;
(2) each having the same Expiration Date and Expiration Time;
(3) each being of the same style, i.e. either both being American Style Options or both being European Style Options;
(4) each having the same Strike Price;
(5) neither of which shall have been exercised by delivery of a Notice of Exercise; and, upon occurrence of such termination and discharge, neither party shall have any further obligation to the other party in respect of the relevant Currency Option Transactions or, as the case may be, parts thereof so terminated and discharged. In the case of a partial termination and discharge (i.e. where the relevant Currency Option Transactions are for different amounts of the Currency Pair), the remaining portion of the Currency Option Transaction which is partially discharged and terminated shall continue to be a Currency Option Transaction for all purposes of this Agreement. This provision shall apply notwithstanding that either party (i) may fail to send out a Confirmation in respect of any such discharge and termination, or (ii) may fail to make changes in any of its books as a result of any such discharge and termination.

(ii) Additional Definitions

(1) "Call Option" means a Currency Option Transaction entitling, but not obligating, the Buyer to purchase from the Seller at the Strike Price a specified quantity of the Call Currency.

(2) "Put Option" means a Currency Option Transaction entitling, but not obligating, the Buyer to sell to the Seller at the Strike Price a specified quantity of the Put Currency.

Please find attached for discussion at our meeting this afternoon Blake's comments on the OPG/Dealer's comments. There are two versions. One shows a blackline against the OPG/Dealer's comments, and the other shows a blackline against what we circulated last week. Note that Stephen has not had a chance to review these in detail, so these are preliminary comments that are subject to further consideration and discussion.

Refinancing the Global Adjustment (GA) provides significant and immediate rate relief by matching the cost of current electricity investments with the expected useful life of those investments.

This refinancing is being done in the most effective manner within the electricity system, while ensuring the costs are borne by the beneficiaries ~~of the electricty system~~ - the rate payers - not the tax-base.

The government considered a range of options and sought advice from third-party legal, accounting, financial and energy experts to ensure due diligence was completed. The OFHP financial and accounting framework is appropriate for the intended purpose and ensures the fairness goals underlying the program are achieved in a cost-effective manner.

The Province's financial statements are prepared in accordance with PSAS and will follow PSAS in accounting for the OFHP transactions in 2017-18 and the following years.
As PSAS is set by an independent standard setting body focused specifically on the public sector, and because PSAS is used by all senior governments in Canada, presenting its financial statements in accordance with PSAS results in transparent financial reporting for the Province of Ontario.

Hi Scott,

Given the time and effort we spent preparing the response, I would just call it a response to recommendations but happy to chat further.

I guess this occurred bcs we didn't call our 2 pager a Response to the Recommendations. So we have a choice to make here: do we simply clarify that the "Response" we gave (2 pager) was our response to the recommendations. Or we can try to trim back the number of words and give her a more focused version. I can take a first run at a shortened version if you think we should do the latter.

Hi,

Thank you for providing this material. We noted that while you've provide some general government commentary in response to the report that we will definitely read and review for information along with the other comments, feedback and supporting evidence, we did not receive the requested 200 word direct response to the two recommendations in the report.

If you would prefer not to provide this, please let me know. If you would like to provide

Scott was in touch with the AG yesterday afternoon, and she thanked him for providing the detailed response and indicated that they would thoroughly review the points raised. She also welcomed the opportunity offered in the cover letter to meet with the three Ministers next week. The reason for the attached is that the AG asked why the 200 word government response that she'd requested wasn't included.

Thanks William. This is helpful, and would get us to within a hair of the word limit.
I would only want to add one phrase from my version – that refinancing is being done from within the electricity system – because that responds to her recommendation that the rate reduction be done in the least costly manner.
We could add that point into your paragraph 4
Thanks
Scott

Some possible edits that reduce your size. Still not 200 but closer (about 250)

The government of Ontario does not agree with the assertions and conclusions expressed in the report on Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP).

Since 2003, more than $37 billion has been invested in creating clean and reliable electricity generation. Third-party experts confirmed many of the generators in the system can operate beyond the 20-year terms of their contracts, benefiting future ratepayers by reducing the need to finance new generating assets.

Refinancing the Global Adjustment (GA) provides significant and immediate rate relief by matching the cost of current electricity investments with the expected useful life of those investments.

This refinancing is being done in the most effective manner while ensuring the costs are borne by the beneficiaries of the electricty system - the rate payers - not the tax-base.

The government considered a range of options and sought advice from third-party legal, accounting, financial and energy experts to ensure due diligence was completed. The OFHP financial and accounting framework is appropriate for the intended purpose and ensures the fairness goals underlying the program are achieved in a cost-effective manner.

The Province's financial statements are prepared in accordance with PSAS and will follow PSAS in accounting for the OFHP transactions in 2017-18 and the following years.
As PSAS is set by an independent standard setting body focused specifically on the public sector, and because PSAS is used by all senior governments in Canada, presenting its financial statements in accordance with PSAS results in transparent financial reporting for the Province of Ontario.

Hi David,

Please find enclosed the following three attachments:

<!--[if !supportLists]-->1. <!--[endif]-->Our Office's responses to the "Comments and feedback on the Special Report" document.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->2. <!--[endif]-->Samples of email and document extracts that support the bullets in Section 1.2, page 6 of our draft report. This information was requested in the "Comments and feedback on the Special Report" document.

<!--[if !supportLists]-->3. <!--[endif]-->A copy of email correspondence re: OPA accounting between B. Lysyk and C. Veinot we refer to in one of our responses.

Further, we note in one of our responses that we will be making the change requested regarding ASC 980-10-15-2. Given this, would it be fine to eliminate the second bullet on rate-regulated accounting in the government's response?

In the meantime, we have one request for additional information.

Please provide detailed supporting calculations for the "August 31 – ENERGY LTEP estimate" in Exhibit 1: OFHP Cost Comparison on the last page of the Consolidated Feedback document. In these calculations, include an estimate for the table field entitled, "Saving if Province funded entire refinancing". Please provide us with this additional information by 3:00 PM today.

| | 7 | Implication in several sections that the OFHP roll out results in a "less transparent" process. With the financing plan, similar to several jurisdictions in the U.S., and a form or securitization that is commonly used in the financial markets the impact of the plan will be transparent. Credit rating agencies, securities regulators and the public at large get full information and full reporting of the impacts of the OFHP that are visible and specific.OAG RESPONSE: No changes made. This complex model is the first of its kind to be used in Canada. Typically, securitization is done so that debt can be consolidated and refinanced at a lower interest rates for ratepayers, as per the Long Island Power Authority example provided by KPMG. This is not the case in Ontario. The complex structure ensures that there is no expense impact from borrowings and from delaying the cost of having to pay generators under contracts in the financial statements of the Province, IESO and OPG. | N |

| | | Under Canadian PSAS, assets are defined by three characteristics: a) they embody future economic benefits (of which one is the ability to generate future cash flows); b) the entity has full control in order to access those benefits, and c) they must result from a past event.The decision by the IESO to apply the rate-regulated rules under US GAAP does not create an inconsistency with the definition of an asset under Canadian PSAS. The shortfall which is being reported as an asset by the IESO embodies a future economic benefit based on the requirement of the specified ratepayers to pay these deferred amounts in the future. IESO has control to access those benefits either by selling the regulatory asset or by holding the asset until the payments by the specified ratepayers are received in the future. Finally, the asset results from a past event which is the payment to the generators for the generation of power.It is important to distinguish legislating the accounting from legislating the right for the government to recover amounts from specified ratepayers in the future, based on costs incurred today. Enabling the IESO to sell the future right to recover of this shortfall from specified ratepayers provided under the FHP Act is not legislating the accounting. The statute does not direct the government how to account for the shortfall. The statute provides for recovery of the current shortfalls from the specified ratepayers in the future, reflecting the policy decision to have the GA refinancing borne by the specified ratepayers, and in doing so, creates an obligation on the specified ratepayers to pay an amount in the future. The obligation on the part of the specified ratepayers is a future economic benefit to the government.OAG RESPONSE: No change. See Part V of the Fair Hydro Plan Act. | |

The policy decision resulted in the government becoming responsible for the former Ontario Hydro's net debt of $19.4 billion (technically referred to as "unfunded liabilities" or "stranded debt"). The costs that created the debt were incurred over a number of years before 1999, but ratepayers had not been billed for them at the time. Instead, starting in 2002, ratepayers began paying down the stranded debt through a "debt retirement charge" on their bills.~~~~The collection of the debt retirement charge and the Fair Hydro future reduction recovery are similar in that both stem from government policy decisions and did not result from an independent regulatory process. As well, the payments were/will be made much later, "after the fact." However, in the 1999/2000 fiscal year, the government followed Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards properly, and included the debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the debt retirement charge was added to electricity bills, the charge to ratepayers was taken in as revenue in the Province's consolidated financial statements. This treatment allowed the government to track ratepayer costs and taxpayer costs separately, helping to ensure that only ratepayers, not taxpayers, pay for electricity services.~~~~The same accounting should be applied to the Fair Hydro Plan rate reduction: include the debt being accumulated through the 10 years of the reduction as Provincial debt, and record interest expense on this debt as an expense in the Province's consolidated financial statements. When the clean energy adjustment is added to electricity bills, the amount charged to ratepayers can then be taken in as revenue in the consolidated financial statements, as well as be tracked separately from taxpayer expenses/revenue"~~ | YPlease refer to enclosed OEFC 2000-01 and 2002-03 Annual Reports; Ontario Hydro 1998-99 Annual Report |

| | | The report makes a comparison between the OFHP and the OEFC stranded debt. There are, however, crucial differences. The latter had already been incurred when the restructuring took place. In the case of the OFHP, the difference between what will be collected and what will be paid to generators will be set up as an asset which generates a specific revenue stream in the form of the CEA, in accordance with the accounting definition.Also, it is important to note that the 1999 restructuring led to an "unbundling" of the electricity rate. Prior to the 1999 restructuring and 2002 market opening, there was a "bundled rate" for electricity that included cost recovery of generation and transmission costs, operating and capital – including debt costs, as well as central market operations costs. Including debt cost recovery and matching the timing of the capital cost recovery with the benefit to the ratepayer is a normal rate-setting regulatory practice. The DRC represented the unbundling of a portion of the debt service costs. It effectively amortized the cost of the investments in long-lived assets (including debt incurred).The OFHP GA deferral is also intended to have costs recovered from specified ratepayers over a time period that better reflects the expected lives of those assets (vs the contract lengths) that may be shorter than the expected useful life of the assets). The difference between the 1999 restructuring and the OFHP is that the DRC continued to pay down, over time, debt that had already been incurred, while under the OFHP, an asset is being recorded to reflect a fair allocation of electricity costs between current and future ratepayers. The intention of the OFHP is to be forward looking to ensure that ratepayers are fairly paying their share of current and future costs, while the DRC was backward looking, replacing part of a bundled rate that was already spreading the cost recovery of the debt over time.Finally, the penultimate paragraph in section 3.0 notes the government, in 1999/2000, "…included debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements". This statement is incorrect. The recording of the stranded debt never resulted in an expense in the consolidated financial statements. The amount of the debt was charged directly to accumulated deficit.OAG RESPONSE: No change. We see a parallel. An adjustment to accumulated deficit is reflecting an expense impact. | |
| | 12 | Related to the above argument on the value / existence of an asset – The "substance over form"The government differentiated the reductions in consumers' electricity bills that are being borne by the tax-base as a whole (i.e., 8% Rebate, certain programs to help rural customers) from those that have a long term benefit (the 17% referenced in the AG report). By establishing the deferral amounts off today's bill and charging it to future consumers, that is providing substance by ensuring future ratepayers pay their share of system costs at the right time.OAG RESPONSE: No change. Do not agree with characterization. | N |

- In the alternative, the Province (through the OFA/OEFC) could borrow the required amounts each year, likely at a lower cost.
- Hopefully they'll come to the conclusion that it can be financed by the Province via OEFC, rather than externally, as that would be a lot simpler and cheaper.
- The only way around that is a direct guarantee of principal and interest payments from the Province to backstop every individual borrowing that the entity would do, and if you're going that rout, why would you enrich investors and bankers when it's provincial debt anyhow?
- There was also a brief aside from KPMG and Pelino on how the accounting would work if a third party financial institution got in the middle of this, which was thought to be feasible from a procurement perspective, but way more costly than a government financing of the deferral. As such, folks dismissed this option at the meeting, but I wanted to mention it should it be brought up again.
- They noted also the extra costs here are very large (interest charges in the billions) and not clear how those would survive a VFM analysis, whether by the OEB (which we understand has rejected some of the proposed energy infrastructure projects, on the basis that the cost-benefit is too negative), by the AG or by the FAO.
- From a consolidated perspective, I think this concept results in a fiscal hit as based on my current knowledge of the structure. I think the province would have to expense all of the costs in the GA and would not be able to set up a receivable or a rate regulated asset for the costs to be financed and then collected from the rate payers in the future.
- The focus on the accounting treatment is based on the impact to the consolidated financial statements of the Province. IESO is a consolidated entity of the Province and follows Public Sector Accounting Standards. As such, IESO does not follow rate-regulated accounting (no such concept exists in PSAS). Therefore, based on the proposal, it is likely that the difference between the amounts paid to the producers and the amount collected from the ratepayers (which would no differ), will be an expense in the period (e.g. an increase to the deficit of the Province). In addition, the amount of interest incurred on the new debt would also be an expense of the Province (e.g. an increase to the deficit of the Province.).
- "Desire to be involved" was never a criteria for this plan…why not compel the OEB to adhere to the legislation and write them in to limit their involvement to ensuring the recovery is as per allowed in the legislation (no ability to alter or really make any decision other than the legislation and subsequent regulation are being followed). Legislation and regulation that directs the OEB to do things is standard practice and is not something that the OEB can determine or dictate.
- The Auditor General has raised concerns regarding the appropriateness of reporting rate regulated assets on the IESO's books under public sector accounting standards, which may lead to a qualified audit opinion on the consolidated financial statements of the Province.
- I know that the AG may not like that, but we've go to pick our poison, don't we…and the AG will likely comment as has been done in the past about rate-regulated accounting and how truly independent is the OEB.
- …PSAB does not recognize rate-regulated accounting, and that the AG would very likely not accept trying to use a different account standard to support recording a regulatory asset.
- I believe there is a risk for the AG to refuse rate regulated accounting under PSAB.
- I believe it is important for IESO to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation in 2016 under PSAB.
- In developing our Energy plan, the government received advice from large accounting firms on the requirements needed to support it. We are working to meet those requirements as we draft the legislation and finalize accounting decision. The phrase finalize accounting decisions seems to downplay the significance of the outstanding actions. If they aren't able to achieve the intended fiscal impact, they will not proceed with the proposal and MOE has to consider alternative forms of GA relief.
- I still believe that absent a rate regulator or a governing body approving the rates, then there is no recognition of regulatory asset. Since the MOE can change the rule, I would suggest that the OEB Act be amended requiring the OEB to oversee the GAM recovery.

Hi Cindy:

I am following up on your comment from our meeting this week regarding the work my Office performed on the Ontario Power Authority (OPA) asset and liability balances that was raised in our 2013 and 2014 Audit Planning Report and our communication of the results of the review with OPCD.

In the 2011/12 Public Accounts, we included an $81M SUD item for the Other Liabilities balance that OPA was recording on their financial statements because the financial statements indicated that these balances were rate regulated balances.

During the 2012/13 audit, this Other Liabilities balance was $310.206M. We reviewed OPA's accounting and the Other Liabilities balance in detail with OPCD - Bharat. From this review we gained a thorough understanding of the RPP and the OPG variance accounts reflected in the Other Liabilities balance that arose from transactions between OPA, IESO, OPG and the LDCs.

This additional information enabled us to remove this issue/item from our SUD. We confirmed that the Other Liabilities balance was not rate-regulated. This Other liabilities balance represented the net payable to generators as a result of electricity consumed by rate payers that were settled in April 2013. The removal of the SUD item was discussed in detail with OPCD (Bharat Patel, and Barry worked closely together on this item, and together they jointly agreed on the SUD removal). Additional input was received from OPA's financial reporting staff and OPA's audit partner from KPMG.

Regarding the government's recent communication in the August press release for the Public Accounts:

. "Further, before the Ontario Power Authority (OPA) merged with IESO in 2015, the OPA used the same accounting presentation in its financial statements, which was not subject to qualification from the Office of the Auditor General at that time."

This is not correct. OPA disclosed components of the market accounts in their notes to their statements and recognized certain balances on a net basis versus the gross basis. As a result, when OPA was consolidated, there was no rate regulated asset on the government's consolidated financial statements, only a net payable to generators for electricity already used by ratepayers. However, the market accounts were reported on a gross basis by the IESO for the first time in its December 31, 2016 financial statements.

In addition, the Ministry has provided 4,063 documents, as of September 26, 2017. The Ministry doesn't intend to spend more than 60,000 on this request. | TBD |

First, in its reference to "government". It is Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) that needs to cover the shortfall. The IESO is not the "government" because IESO is not owned by the Crown, and under statute (Electricity Act, 1998) is explicitly not an agent of the Crown. Second, in its reference to "borrowing cash". IESO is not borrowing cash to cover the shortfall (except initially). IESO can sell its statutory right to recover the shortfall and use the proceeds of that sale to cover the shortfall. | N |

| 3.0 | 11 | OFA | The report makes a comparison between the OFHP and the OEFC stranded debt. There are however crucial differences, the latter was already incurred when the restructuring took place. In the case of the former the difference between what is collected and what will be paid out to the generators is going to be set up as an asset and in accordance with the accounting definition generates a specific revenue stream in the form of the CEA.Also, it is important to note that the 1999 restructuring led to an "unbundling" of the electricity rate. Prior to the 1999 restructuring and 2002 market opening, there was a "bundled rate" for electricity that included cost recovery of generation and transmission costs, operating and capital – including debt costs, as well as central market operations costs. The DRC represented the unbundling of a portion of the debt service costs that represented the effective amortisation of cost recovery of the debt incurred to cover the cost to invest in long-lived assets. This was a normal practice and would have been very unusual to recover the investment capital outlay in the years invested from those ratepayers, as unfair as the benefit of those assets would be in place for decades. As such, it was fair to incur debt and recover those costs over time, including as continued on through the DRC post-1999.The OFHP GA deferral is also intended to have costs recovered from specified ratepayers over a time period to better reflect the expected lives of those assets (vs the contract lengths, that may be shorter than the expected useful like of the assets). | OEFC 2016-17 Annual Report |
| 3.0 | 11 | OPCD | The penultimate paragraph notes "and included debt and the expenses related to it in the Province's consolidated financial statements". This statement in incorrect. The recording of the stranded debt never resulted in an expense in the consolidated financial statements. The amount of the debt was charged directly to accumulated surplus. | Y -- March 31, 2000 consolidated financial statements. |
| | 12 | OPG | Related to the above argument on the value / existence of an asset – The "substance over form"The government differentiated the reductions in consumers' electricity bills that are being borne by the tax-base as a whole (i.e., 8% Rebate, certain programs to help rural customers) from those that have a long term benefit (the 17% referenced in the AG report). By establishing the deferral amounts off today's bill and charging it to future consumers, that is providing substance by ensuring future ratepayers pay their share of system costs at the right time. | |
| | 13 | OPG | The role of the OEB and its mandate, is provided in legislation. It is not uncommon for government policy, through Regulations, to provide the ground rules over which the OEB is to preside. That is the case with the OFHP itself as the Act and the various regulations provide the direction and processes over which the OEB is to exercise oversight, review and make conclusions on | |

WORKING DRAFT – GOVERNMENT RESPONSE TO AGO REPORT ON THE FAIR HYDRO PLAN

The government of Ontario does not agree with the assertions and recommendations expressed by the Office of the Auditor General (OAG) in its report entitled The Fair Hydro Plan: Concerns About Fiscal transparency, Accountability and Value For Money.

The government has been making important investments in a cleaner and more reliable energy system, but these investments have led to higher electricity bills. Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) has introduced new measures to lower electricity bills by 25 per cent on average for residential consumers and will hold increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As many as half a million small businesses and farms are also benefitting from the reduction.

Since 2003, Ontario has invested nearly $50 billion in the electricity system, including more than $35 billion in electricity generation to ensure the system is clean and reliable. The costs of these investments are funded in part through the Global Adjustment (GA). The majority of the province's electricity generators operate under 20-year contracts. Despite the OAG assertion, many of these generators will be able to operate past their contract term, meaning that generating assets are expected to have ongoing useful life and will benefit future ratepayers by reducing the need to finance the development of new generating assets.

To relieve the current burden on ratepayers and share costs more fairly, OFHP is refinancing a portion of the GA. Refinancing the GA provides significant and immediate rate relief by matching the cost of electricity investments with the expected useful life of the generation that has been built. Despite the OAG assertion, the financial and accounting framework used to implement GA refinancing most effectively achieves the goals of the refinancing program and ensures that the deferred costs are borne by the rate-base, as the beneficiaries of the electricity system, and not the tax-base.

Ontario Power Generation (OPG) is beginning the process of raising funds to finance these deferred costs, and while total borrowing costs will not be known until the transaction is complete, accumulated interest is projected to be considerably less than estimated in the report of the OAG. Total borrowing estimates for the program has been revised down substantially by government since the Financial Accountability Office (FAO) released its report in May 2017 and OPG's borrowing costs are now forecast to be lower than original estimates.

With respect to the Province's financial statements, they are prepared in accordance with Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) and will follow PSAS in accounting for the transactions resulting from OFHP in 2017-18 as well as in the following years. As PSAS is set by an independent standard setting body in Canada focused specifically on the public sector and PSAS is used by all senior governments in Canada, presenting its financial statements in accordance with PSAS results in transparent financial reporting for the Province of Ontario.

The Government disagrees with two fundamental assertions in the report of OAG related to legislated accounting and rate-regulated accounting.

Legislated Accounting – The Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and its related regulations do not "create accounting rules" or "legislate the accounting". This is a fundamental disagreement with the report of the OAG. As previously noted, the Province will prepare its consolidated financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

Rate-Regulated Accounting – In commenting on the use of rate-regulated accounting and the role of the Ontario Energy Board (OEB), the report of the OAG makes reference to a requirement under U.S. accounting standards in connection with the use of rate-regulated accounting that "there must be an independent regulator". This reference is misleading as it does provide the criteria in its entirety, which is as follows:

> The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.

The U.S. accounting standard was developed specifically not to preclude the application of rate-regulated accounting by government utilities where the rate regulator would not necessarily be viewed as independent. In addition, the position that rate-regulated accounting is precluded because the OEB is not considered independent of another government organization of the Ontario government is contradictory to accepting the use of rate-regulated accounting by OPG and Hydro One, both are regulated by the OEB and whose results are and have been included in the consolidated financial statements of the Province of Ontario, using rate-regulated accounting.

The OAG states that the Province's planned accounting inappropriately transfers long-term accountability for higher electricity bills to future governments. The accounting, which will be determined once the transaction is complete, will reflect the economic substance of the transaction in accordance with PSAS. In addition, the policy decision regarding the allocation of the cost of OFHP to the ratepayers and to the taxpayers is a decision of the current government. The accounting is expected to reflect that allocation decision. A decision of a future government to, for example, move the cost of all of OFHP to the taxpayer, is a decision with economic consequences and therefore, accounting recognition. The report of the OAG suggests that such a decision has no consequences or fiscal impact.

In closing, Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan is delivering the single-largest reduction in electricity rates in the province's history. The plan operates under a financial and accounting framework that is appropriate for the intended purpose and ensures that the fairness goals are achieved in a cost-effective manner.

Subject: Draft Fees Regulation

Hi Gadi,
I hope NYC is going well and you are finding air conditioning.
We have been working with Steen's team and Energy legal on a draft of the fees regulation for OPG Trust and OFHP. As we progress through this, there are some elements of the regulation that we were hoping you and the OFA team might be able to consider (please see attached a black line for your reference):

- The draft reg outlines a base fee as well as a variable fee.
  - The base fee is provided monthly at an annual rate of 10-basis points for the first two years (we had this initially set at one year but Torys' markup changes this to two years). After 2019, the base fee is provided at an annual rate of 8 basis points should the funding obligations exceed $10B. Does this seem reasonable?
  - The variable fee structure seems consistent with previous discussions (5 basis point fee provided on the spread). Do you think this makes sense?
  - It would also be helpful if the OFA could let us know if the method for calculating the monthly funding obligation is reasonable.
- With respect to costs, our understanding is that these sorts of costs are typically a pass through; can the OFA confirm? The Torys markup removes OEB oversight on costs but we are wondering if there should be a role for the OFA in reviewing / providing oversight in this regard?
  - Also, do the costs they've outlined seem reasonable? In particular, LSB is wondering whether this leaves the door open for OPG to pass through any overhead costs (i.e. should we be explicit about excluding them)?

<!--[if !supportLists]--><!--[endif]--><!--[if !supportLists]--><!--[endif]-->On timing, the draft reg currently contemplates a fee application by OPG every two years regardless of what interest rates are in the market. Do we think this is fair or should the application occur annually? (Note that until new fees are established, the old fees are still in effect).

In terms of next steps, OPG would like to get a draft to their Board in time for the meeting on Friday. ENERGY LSB is hoping for comments by tomorrow. I don't think we need anything too detailed or formal, but a quick sniff test would be useful to ensure we are on the right track.

Thanks for your help,

Scott

1. (1) In this Regulation,

"average monthly funding obligation" means, in respect of a month, the amount determined in accordance with subsection (2);

"average annual funding obligation" means, in respect of a year, the sum of the average monthly funding obligations for the year;

"comparison fees" means ~~typical fees~~market comparable fees, expressed as a per annum percentage rate, charged by ~~[service providers?~~asset managers~~?]~~ ~~in Ontario~~ in Canada and any other jurisdiction as may be determined by the Board for services that are similar to the services provided by the Financial ~~Service Manger~~Services Manager under the Act in terms of,

(b) the scope of the services provided, ~~and~~

(c) the level of the services provided, and

(d) the amount of assets under management;

"forecast interest rate" means, in respect of each tranche of funding obligations, an interest rate forecast to be applicable to such tranche of funding obligations after taking into account (i) the interest rate for debt of or guaranteed by the Province of Ontario with a corresponding term or duration, (ii) the estimated credit spread for such tranche of funding obligations with a comparable term and based on the type of instrument and risk of the issuer, and (iii) anticipated fees and commissions expected to be payable in connection with the issuance of such tranche of funding obligations.

"net annual funding obligation" means, in respect of a year, the sum of the principal amounts of funding obligations incurred by financing entities in a year~~, other than any refinancing~~;

(2) For the purposes of determining the average monthly funding obligation for a month, the following formula applies:

$$(A + B) / 2$$

Where,

A = the sum of the balances, as at 12:00 am on the ~~start~~first calendar day of the month, of the principal amount of all outstanding funding obligations ~~incurred by~~for all financing entities,

B = the sum of the balances, as at 11:59 pm on the ~~end~~last calendar day of the month, of the principal amount of all outstanding funding obligations ~~incurred by~~for all financing entities.

Fees that may be established, charged

2. (1) For the purposes of subsection 19 (3) of the Act, the fees established and charged by the Financial Services Manager may be charged to financing entities in relation to the management and administration of financing entities and the investment asset, including in relation to funding obligations incurred or that are planned to be incurred by the financing entities.

(2) A fee mentioned in subsection (1) shall be comprised of a base fee calculated under section [3, 4 or 5], as the case may be, and a variable fee calculated under section [6].

(3) ~~For the purposes of subsection 19 (3) of the Act, fees may be~~Out-of-pocket costs and expenses of the financing entities incurred by the Financial Services Manager on behalf of the financing entities and for which the Financial Services Manager is entitled to reimbursement under a management agreement with such financing entity shall not constitute a fee established and charged by the Financial Services Manager ~~to financing entities for the recovery of costs and expenditures, as provided for in section 7.~~under subsection 19(3) of the Act.[1] The costs and expenditures of the financing entities referred to in this subsection (3) may include costs and expenditures in respect of the following:

1. Underwriters or selling agents for funding obligations;

2. Banking fees, including structuring fees or work fees;

3. Fees of issuing and paying agents for funding obligations;

4. Fees of trustees;

5. Fees incurred in the preparation of financial statements, financial reports, compliance certificates and tax returns;

6. Fees of legal counsel;

7. Rating agency fees; and

8. Filing or registration fees.

(4) The Financial Services Manager shall not establish or charge any fees to financing entities other than those provided for under this ~~R~~egulation.

Base fee, 2018 and 2019

3. Subject to section 5.1, the base fee for a month in the ~~year~~calendar years 2018 and 2019 shall be calculated using the following formula:

$$(0.1 \times B) / 12$$

Where,

B = the average monthly funding obligation for the preceding month.

Base fee, after ~~2018,~~2019, average annual funding obligation greater than $10 billion

4. (1) This section applies for the purpose of calculating the base fee for a month in any year following ~~2018~~2019 if the average annual funding obligation for the preceding year was greater than $10 billion.

[1] These represent third party costs and expenses of the financing entity, not part of the fees that OPG is charging the financing entity. From time to time, OPG may have to pay these upfront costs on behalf of financing entities but they will be a pass-through cost for which OPG would simply be reimbursed by the financing entity. Other than OPG's fees, the costs and expenditures of financing entities are not subject to OEB review under the Act but rather are recoverable as expenses through the CEA (and through IESO during the moratorium). Subsection (3) in this draft was added for greater certainty to ensure there was no misunderstanding.

(2) Subject to section 5.1, the base fee for the month shall be calculated using the following formula:

$$(0.08 \times B) / 12$$

Where,

B = the average monthly funding obligation for the preceding month.

Base fee, after ~~2018,~~2019, average annual funding obligation $10 billion or less

5. (1) This section applies for the purpose of calculating the base fee for a month in any year following ~~2018~~2019 if the average annual funding obligation for the preceding year was equal to or less than $10 billion.

(2) Subject to section 5.1, the base fee for the month shall be calculated using the following formula:

$$(0.1 \times B) / 12$$

Where,

B = the average monthly funding obligation for the preceding month.

Board review of base fee

5.1 If the Board, after reviewing a submission in respect of a proposed base fee by the Financial Services Manager under section 9, is of the view that applying the applicable formula set out in section 3, 4 or 5 results in a base fee that is inconsistent with prevailing comparison fees, the Board may refuse to approve the proposed fee. If the Board refuses to approve the proposed base fee submitted by the Financial Services Manager under section 9, the Board shall provide its reasons for such refusal and ~~may~~ make recommendations to the Financial Services Manager regarding the determination of a base fee that is consistent with comparison fees~~.~~ and based on the methodology used in the formulas set out in section 3, 4 and 5.

Variable fee

6. (1) Subject to subsection (2) and section 6.1, the variable fee for a year shall be the sum of the amounts of each tranche of net annual funding obligations for the year, calculated by using the following formula~~:~~ (which in respect of individual tranches may result in a negative number):

$$(A \times (B - C)) \times 0.05$$

Where,

A = the principal amount of the tranche,

B= the forecast interest rate for the tranche, as determined by the Financial Services Manager before the start of the year, based on the term of the tranche, and

C = the actual interest rate for the tranche.

(2) If the circumstances set out in Column 1 of the following Table apply in a year, the variable fee payable for a year is subject to the rules set out opposite the circumstances in Column 2 of the Table:

| Item | Column 1Circumstances | Column 2Rules |
|---|---|---|
| 1. | The average annual funding obligations are $10 billion or less. | The variable fee payable for the year shall not be more than 1 per cent of the amount that is 5 per cent of the net annual funding obligation for the year.The variable fee payable for the year shall not be less than -1per cent of the amount that is 5 per cent of the net annual funding obligation. |
| 2. | The average annual funding obligations are greater than $10 billion. | The variable fee payable for the year shall not be more than 2 per cent of the amount that is 5 per cent of the net annual funding obligation for the year.The variable fee payable for the year shall not be less than -2 per cent of the amount that is 5 per cent of the net annual funding obligation for the year. |

Board review of variable fee 5

6.1 If the Board, after reviewing a submission in respect of a proposed variable fee by the Financial Services Manager under section 9, is of the view that the forecast interest rate used for the purposes of the formula set out in subsection 6 (1) is ~~[unreasonable]~~not consistent with market comparable forecast interest rates, the Board may refuse to approve the proposed fee. If the Board refuses to approve the proposed variable fee submitted by the Financial Services Manager under section 9, the Board shall provide its reasons for such refusal and ~~may~~ make recommendations to the Financial Services Manager regarding the forecast interest rate that is ~~reasonable.~~consistent with market comparable forecast interest rates.

~~Fees for costs and expenditures~~

~~7. (1) The Financial Services Manager may establish and charge fees for the recovery from a financing entity of any costs and expenditures incurred in connection with the Financial Services Manager's duties under the Act in relation to the financing entity or under any management agreement with the financing entity.~~

~~(2) The costs and expenditures referred to in subsection (1) may include costs and expenditures in respect of the following:~~

~~1. Underwriters or selling agents for funding obligations.~~

~~2. Banking fees.~~

3. ~~Fees of issuing and paying agents for funding obligations.~~

4. ~~Fees of trustees.~~

5. ~~Fees incurred in the preparation of financial statements, financial reports, compliance certificates and tax returns.~~

6. ~~Fees of legal counsel.~~

7. ~~Filing or registration fees.~~

8. ~~Fees of any third party independent consultants required to be retained under the Act.~~

~~Board review of fees for costs, expenditures~~

~~7.1 If the Board, after reviewing a submission in respect of a proposed fee for costs and expenditures by the Financial Services Manager under section 9, is of the view that the proposed fee is in respect of costs and expenses that were [not prudently incurred, or not incurred in relation to funding obligations incurred or that are planned to be incurred by financing entities], the Board may refuse to approve the proposed fee or a portion of the proposed fee and may make recommendations to the Financial Services Manager regarding the proposed fee.~~

Charging of fees

8. (1) In charging fees, the Financial Services Manager shall provide for,

(a) the base fee for a month to be payable within [x] days after the end of the month; and

(b) the variable fee for a year to be payable in the following calendar year in twelve equal monthly instalments that coincide with the payment of the base fee for each month.

(2) If the variable fee is a negative amount, it shall be deducted from the base fee payable in the following calendar year in twelve equal monthly instalments.

(3) Where there is more than one financing entity, the portion of the fees allocated to and payable by a financing entity shall be based on its proportionate share of the average principal amount of funding obligations for the applicable period.

Submissions to Board re fees

9. (1) The Financial Services Manager shall make submissions to the Board in respect of the fees proposed to be charged under section ~~5.1, 6.1~~5.1 and ~~7.1~~6.1.

(2) The first submission for proposed fees to be charged for a two year period commencing in 2018 shall be made no later than [October 31, 2017].

(3) ~~The submission for each calendar year starting with 2019~~Submissions for proposed fees to be charged for a two year period commencing in 2020 and for every two year period thereafter shall be made no later than [120 days] before the start of the applicable two year period.

(4) Submissions to amend the proposed fees for a month in any year following approval of the proposed fees for any two year period may be made from time to time but no more frequently than once in any 12 month period and no later than 120 days before the start of the year in which such fees are proposed to be effective.

(5) If the Board makes recommendations as described in section ~~5.1, 6.1~~5.1 or ~~7.1,~~6.1, the Financial Services Manager shall submit to the Board,

(a) a revised proposed fee that takes into consideration the recommendations of the Board, and in the case of the base fee is consistent with comparison fees;

(b~~)~~ ~~a description of the methodology that the Financial Services Manager has applied to determine the revised proposed fee;~~

(~~c~~) in the case of the base fee, details concerning the comparison fees that the Financial Services Manager considered; and

(~~d~~c) in the case of the variable fee, a description of the methodology that the Financial Services Manager has applied to determine forecast interest rates in respect of tranches of the net annual funding obligations~~; and~~.

(~~e) in the case of a proposed fee for costs and expenditures by the Financial Services Manager, the rationale for the costs and expenditures having been [prudently incurred, and having been incurred in relation to funding obligations incurred or that are planned to be incurred by financing entities]~~ 6) Until the Board has approved the fees in respect of any two year period, the fees approved for the prior two year period shall remain in effect.

Board approval, general

10. (1) ~~The Board may approve a proposed fee submitted by the Financial Services Manager or refuse to approve and refer the proposed fee back to the Financial Services Manager with the Board's recommendations.~~

~~[OLC Note: As noted by ENE LSB, there is some redundancy at the moment between section 10 and sections 5.1 and 6.1. This matter will be addressed in a subsequent draft when we have settled the Board approval process for each of the various scenarios (e.g. base fee; variable fee; costs/expenditures fee).]~~

~~(2) The Board may specify in its approval that a fee payable in respect of any period beginning on or after July 1, 2017.~~(3) For the purpose of determining whether to approve a proposed fee~~,~~ described in section 5.1 or 6.1,

(a) the Board shall consider the information provided by the Financial Service Manager in its submission relating to the proposed fee~~.~~; and

(~~4) For the purpose of determining whether to approve a proposed fee,~~ b) the Board may consider advice provided by the Ontario Financing Authority [with respect to comparison fees, annual rates and forecast interest rates].

[OLC Note re DEFERRAL ACCOUNT:
1. You included the following instruction that would require the FSM to establish a deferral account -- what is the authority for imposing this requirement? Recall that in subs. 34 (1) of the Act, the Board is given authority to require that the FSM maintain specific accounts.

2. ENE LSB note: Necessity of this provision to be discussion with the OEB given that fees will be recovered as a financing entity expense through the Fair Hydro program and not as part of the fees to be approved by the Board.]

[If needed, deferral provision could be along the following lines: The Financial Services Manager shall establish a deferral account in connection with subsection 19 (3) of the Act that records costs incurred by the Financial Services Manager in providing services referred to in section 1 during the period from July 1, 2017 to the day before the date of the Board's first order under subsection 19 (3) of the Act.]

[OLC Note re FINANCE AMOUNT: You included the following instruction, but I think this more properly belongs somewhere in section 5 of O. Reg. 206/17? In fact, are these fees not already covered in that section (perhaps under "financing entity expenses"?). Please confirm: Fees established by the Financial Services Manager and approved by the Board, and any applicable taxes on such fees, shall be included in the definition of "expenses" for the purposes of determining finance amounts under the Act.]

[Notes Re: Determining Fees:

(1) An alternative approach involves the Board approving the initial base fee and variable fee, with any changes to those fees being triggered by the FSM submitting to the Board proposed amendments to those fees (or the Board triggering a review on its own initiative (not more than once per year). However, because interest rates (and hence forecast interest rates) change over time (and can change even within a year), consider whether variable B of the variable fee should be approved annually. Similarly, because trends for "market comparable fees charged by service providers for similar services" change over time, consider whether variable A of the base fee should be approved annually.]

(2) Once every three years after the Board has approved the fees submitted by the Financial Services Manager under section 3, or more frequently if the Board requires but not more frequently than annually, the Board may require the Financial Services Manager to engage, on behalf of and at the cost of the financing entities, a third-party independent consultant to review and advise as to the appropriate benchmarks and range of values for [annual rates?] used for the purpose of determining the base fee and forecast interest rates used for the purposes of determining the variable fee and shall give due consideration to such advice.]

Subject: Change of Law Protection Agreement and Change of Law Process Agreement

Rima, Krista, Nina and Michael,

Here are drafts of the Change of Law Protection Agreement and Change of Law Process Agreement. Please note that while various people at the Province have provided considerable thought and input into these drafts, they remain subject to on-going review, comment and consideration (including where indicated in the drafts) by the Province, and of course remain subject to ultimate consideration and approval by the Ministers. This circulation is for discussion purposes only. Please feel free to circulate these drafts to OPG, E&Y, Osler and the Dealers, reflecting that understanding.

We propose that a consolidated mark-up be prepared that reflects all of the issues that you or those others may have, and ideally reflects input from the rating agencies. Once that mark-up is available, we propose that a meeting of interested parties be held to resolve any outstanding issues.

In the meantime, please feel free to call Malle, Toby, Tom, Alena or me if you have questions or concerns.

Regards, Steve

CHANGE OF LAW PROTECTION AGREEMENT

Dated as of [■], 2017

This AGREEMENT, among Her Majesty the Queen in Right of Ontario as represented by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (the "Province"), Ontario Power Generation Inc., as the Manager and in its capacity as Manager of Fair Hydro Trust, a trust settled by the FSM under the laws of the Province of Ontario (the "Financing Entity"), Ontario Power Generation Inc. in its capacity as the Financial Services Manager in accordance with the Act (the "FSM") and BNY Trust Company of Canada, a trust company existing under the laws of Canada, as Indenture Trustee and in its capacity as trustee for the Beneficiaries in accordance with the Trust Indenture, is made and entered into as of [■], 2017.

RECITALS

Pursuant to Subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act"), the Lieutenant Governor in Council may by order, authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province of Ontario, to agree to guarantee or indemnify certain debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an Investment Interest.

Pursuant to an Order in Council dated as of ■ (the "OIC"), the Lieutenant Governor in Council has, among other things, authorized the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province of Ontario, to enter into one or more agreements to guarantee or indemnify the debts, obligations, securities or undertakings of one or more financing entities established or caused to be established pursuant to Subsection 22(2) of the Act by the FSM and that may incur Funding Obligations in connection with one or more Investment Interests.

Pursuant to a Declaration of Trust dated as of ■, 2017, the Financing Entity was established as a "financing entity" (as defined in the Act) for the purposes contemplated in the Act.

The FSM, as agent of the Financing Entity Trustee, in its capacity as trustee of the Financing Entity, and the Indenture Trustee are parties to the Trust Indenture and propose to create and issue series of notes, bonds and other securities as contemplated therein, and to provide security over the assets and undertaking of the Financing Entity in respect of such notes, bonds and securities, as well as other Obligations Secured.

The Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province of Ontario, have determined to provide protections and assurances to the Indenture Trustee, for the benefit of the Beneficiaries, in respect of Obligations Secured that constitute Approved Obligations, in order to address concerns that would arise from a change or adverse determination of law, subject in each case to the satisfaction of the Adherence Conditions at the time the Approved Obligation is incurred or amended. This Agreement sets out the terms and conditions of such protections and assurances.

The FSM and the Province will concurrently enter into the Process Agreement, under which the FSM will agree to perform certain related activities and to provide certain assurances on which the Province will rely, including for the purposes of determining whether the Adherence Conditions have been satisfied in connection with the incurrence or amendment of an Approved Obligation and ensuring that the Province's assumption right may be exercised without impediment on the terms and conditions contemplated in this Agreement.

All things necessary to make this Agreement a valid and legally binding agreement of the Province, the FSM and the Indenture Trustee, in accordance with the Act, the OIC and the Trust Indenture, have been done.

AGREEMENT OF THE PARTIES

In consideration of the respective agreements herein contained, the parties hereto covenant and agree as follows:

ARTICLE I

(e) the word "will" shall be construed to have the same meaning and effect as the word "shall". The word "or" is not exclusive;

(f) any reference to this Agreement or any other agreement, document or instrument shall be construed as a reference to this Agreement or, as the case may be, such other agreement, document or instrument as the same may have been, or may from time to time be, amended, varied, replaced, amended and restated, supplemented or otherwise modified;

1.02 Proof of Approved Obligations

The efficacy of any agreement, instrument or writing evidencing a Primary Obligation may, in the absence of manifest error, be conclusively proved in any manner that the Indenture Trustee deems to be sufficient.

Any statement of account prepared by the Indenture Trustee as regards the Primary Obligations shall constitute prima facie evidence of the amount which, as at the date of the statement so prepared, is due and payable by the Financing Entity to the Beneficiaries and/or the Indenture Trustee and the Province hereby acknowledges and agrees that, absent manifest error, it shall be bound by each such statement. The Indenture Trustee agrees to provide the Province with the computations and calculations used by the Indenture Trustee to prepare each such statement of account promptly following a request therefor.

1.03 Limitation on Rights of and Actions by Specified Creditors

Specified Creditors, as Beneficiaries, shall not have or be permitted to exercise any rights, interests, or elections under this Agreement, other than in the manner and to the extent effected and exercised through the Indenture Trustee under, in accordance with and subject to the limitations set forth in the Trust Indenture.

1.04 Province Retains Rights of Beneficiaries

Without limiting any rights of subrogation or succession that arise pursuant to applicable law or pursuant to the Province's rights as an assignee, subrogee or pursuant to Section 5.01, all of the rights, interests, elections and privileges that would arise in favour of a Beneficiary under the Trust Indenture or other Funding Obligation Agreement under which a related Primary Obligation arises shall automatically arise, vest in and be available to the Province upon performance by the Province of the Primary Obligation. To the extent of any conflict between this Agreement and the Indemnity Agreement by the Province in favour of OPG dated June 1, 2017 in respect of any matter relating to the Province's obligations to indemnify the FSM or the Financing Entity, the latter shall prevail.

1.05 Effect of Headings

The Article and Section headings herein are for convenience only and will not affect the construction hereof.

1.06 Successors and Assigns

1.07 Severability

Each of the provisions contained in this Agreement is distinct and severable and a declaration of invalidity or unenforceability of any such provision or part thereof by a court of competent jurisdiction will not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision hereof. To the extent permitted by applicable law, the parties waive any provision of law which renders any provision of this Agreement invalid or unenforceable in any respect. The parties will engage in good faith negotiations to replace any provision which is declared invalid or unenforceable with a valid and enforceable provision, the economic effect of which comes as close as possible to that of the invalid or unenforceable provision which it replaces.

1.08 Governing Law

THIS AGREEMENT WILL BE CONSTRUED IN ACCORDANCE WITH AND GOVERNED BY THE LAWS OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO AND THE FEDERAL LAWS OF CANADA APPLICABLE THEREIN, AND THE OBLIGATIONS, RIGHTS AND REMEDIES OF THE PARTIES HEREUNDER SHALL BE DETERMINED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SUCH LAWS.

1.11 Counterparts; Electronic Delivery

This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which so executed will be deemed to be an original, but all such counterparts will together constitute one and the same instrument. Delivery of an executed signature page to this Agreement by a party by electronic transmission will be as effective as delivery of a manually executed copy of the Agreement by such party.

1.12 Change of Law Protection Agreement Referred to in the Trust Indenture

This Agreement is the "Change of Law Protection Agreement" referred to in the Trust Indenture.

1.13 Non-Business Days

Whenever any payment to be made hereunder shall be stated to be due, any period of time would begin or end, any calculation is to be made or any other action to be taken hereunder shall be stated to be required to be taken, on a day other than a Business Day, then (notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement) such payment shall be made, such period of time shall begin or end, such calculations shall be made and such other action shall be taken on the next succeeding Business Day.

1.14 Waiver, Amendment

Except as expressly provided in this Agreement, no amendment or waiver of this Agreement will be binding unless executed in writing by the party to be bound thereby. No waiver of any provision of this Agreement will constitute a waiver of any other provision nor will any waiver of any provision of this Agreement constitute a continuing waiver unless otherwise expressly provided. A party's failure or delay in exercising any right under this Agreement will not operate as a waiver of that right. A single or partial exercise of any right will not preclude a party from any other or further exercise of that right or the exercise of any other right.

1.15 Interest Act

For the purpose of disclosure pursuant to the Interest Act (Canada), the yearly rate of interest to which any rate of interest payable under this Agreement that is calculated on any basis other than a full calendar year is equivalent may be determined by multiplying such rate by a fraction, the numerator of which is the actual number of days in the calendar year in which such yearly rate of interest is to be ascertained and the denominator of which is the number of days comprising such other basis. The parties further agree that for the purposes of the Interest Act (Canada), (i) the principle of deemed reinvestment of interest shall not apply to any interest calculation under this Agreement, and (ii) the rates of interest stipulated in this Agreement are intended to be nominal rates and not effective rates or yields.

1.16 Currency

Unless stated otherwise, all amounts herein are stated in Canadian Dollars.

1.17 References to Acts of the Financing Entity

For greater certainty, where any reference is made in this Agreement, or in any other instrument executed pursuant hereto or contemplated hereby to which the Financing Entity is party, to an act to be performed by, an appointment to be made by, an obligation or liability of, an asset or right of, a discharge or release to be provided by, a suit or proceeding to be taken by or against, or a covenant, representation or warranty (other than relating to the constitution or existence of the Financing Entity) by or with respect to the Financing Entity, such reference shall be construed and applied for all purposes as if it referred to an act to be performed by, an appointment to be made by, an obligation or liability of, an asset or right of, a discharge or release to be provided by, a suit or proceeding to be taken by or against or a covenant, representation or warranty (other than relating to the constitution or existence of the Financing Entity) by or with respect to, the FSM as agent for the Financing Entity Trustee (in its capacity as trustee of the Financing Entity). [NTD: Discuss whether the Financing Entity Trustee should be a party to this Agreement and references to the Financing Entity Trustee re-inserted into this section and others.]

1.18 Judgment Currency

(a) If for the purpose of obtaining judgment in any court or for any other purposes (other than conversions specifically provided for in the agreement under which an Approved Obligation arises), it is necessary to convert any amount due under this Agreement from the currency in which it is due (the "Original Currency") into another currency (the "Second Currency"), the rate of exchange applied shall be that at which, in accordance with normal banking procedures, the purchaser could purchase, in the New York foreign exchange market, the Original Currency with the Second Currency on the date on which judgment is given. The obligation of the Province in respect of any Original Currency due from it to the Indenture Trustee under this Agreement shall, notwithstanding any judgment or payment in such other currency, be discharged only to the extent that, on the Business Day following receipt of any sum so paid or adjudged to be due under this Agreement in the Second Currency, the Indenture Trustee may, in accordance with normal banking procedures, purchase in the New York foreign exchange market the Original Currency with the amount of the Second Currency so paid or so adjudged to be due; and if the amount of the Original Currency so purchased is less than the amount originally due in the Original Currency, the Province shall indemnify the Indenture Trustee against such loss.

(b) The term "rate of exchange" in this Section 1.19 means the spot rate at which the Indenture Trustee, in accordance with normal practice, is able on the relevant date to purchase the Original Currency with the Second Currency and includes any premium and costs of exchange payable in connection with such purchase.

ARTICLE II
AGREEMENT TO PERFORM APPROVED OBLIGATIONS

2.01 Limited Guarantee

(a) Upon the occurrence of a Protection Event, the Indenture Trustee may provide a written demand, in the form attached as Exhibit A (a "Payment Demand"), to the Province requiring the Province to pay the Approved Obligations owing from time to time by the Financing Entity to the Indenture Trustee as and when they become due and payable[1]. A Payment Demand will not be valid with respect to an Approved Obligation until the amount claimed becomes due and payable in respect of the Approved Obligation in accordance with the Trust Indenture and has not otherwise been paid by the Financing Entity.

(b) Following receipt of a valid Payment Demand under Subsection 2.01(a), the Province shall pay the amounts owing by the Financing Entity to the Indenture Trustee, on behalf of the applicable Beneficiaries, in respect of each Approved Obligation[2], in each case as and when the Approved Obligation becomes due and payable in accordance with its terms and on its scheduled, specified or determined payment date, in each case by the Province depositing or causing the deposit of the applicable payment amount into the Protection Account 5 Business Days prior to the fifteen day of each calendar month (the "Limited Guarantee"). For greater certainty, the Limited Guarantee will not apply to any amount or obligation of the Financing Entity that is not or does not arise under an Approved Obligation.

(c) Except as expressly provided in this Agreement, the Province's obligation to provide and perform the Limited Guarantee shall be irrevocable, absolute and unconditional.

(d) Any amount payable by the Province under the Limited Guarantee in respect of an Approved Obligation that is not paid when required herein shall bear interest from the applicable due date until paid in full at the rate or rates expressed to be payable on the Approved Obligation.

(e) The right to deliver a Payment Demand and thereupon enforce the Limited Guarantee shall constitute the only remedy available to the Indenture Trustee under this Agreement. Under no circumstances shall the Province be obligated to pay or indemnify the Indenture Trustee or any Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages.

2.02 Gross-up

All amounts payable by the Province under this Agreement shall be made free and clear of and without deduction for or on account of any present or future taxes, charges, fees, levies, duties or withholdings of any kind. If the Province is obliged to deduct or withhold an amount in respect of any such taxes, charges, fees, levies, duties or withholdings, then in such event the Province shall deposit into the Protection Account such additional amount as is necessary to ensure that the Indenture Trustee receives (on an after-tax basis, after payment of any and all income taxes on such additional amounts) an amount equal to the full amount otherwise due and payable in respect

[1] Consider mechanics for notifying the Province regarding the specific amounts payable and their due dates. Consider attaching a detailed schedule of payments under the Payment Demand and the respective due date of each payment.

[2] Under Subsection 5(3) of the Act, the Province can guarantee only obligations "associated with an investment interest". The guarantee in Section 2.01 of the draft agreement guarantees "Approved Obligations", which in turn relies on the definition of Primary Obligations. The connection between a Primary Obligations and an "investment interest" is therefore crucial. Blakes is considering how to more precisely connect these concepts.

of the related Approved Obligation, net of any such taxes, charges, fees, levies, duties or withholdings.

2.03 Absence of Set-off

The Province acknowledges and agrees that each payment to be made by the Province hereunder in respect of an Approved Obligation shall be made as required in whole, without application of any right of set-off and without regard to any equities as between or among any of the Province, the Beneficiaries and/or the Indenture Trustee.

2.04 Payment into Protection Account in Satisfaction

(a) On or before the date of delivery of a Payment Demand to the Province, the Indenture Trustee shall cause to be established and maintained an Eligible Deposit Account (the "Protection Account") in the name of the Indenture Trustee, bearing a designation clearly indicating that the funds and other property credited thereto are held for the benefit of the Indenture Trustee and the Beneficiaries. The Protection Account shall be under the control of the Indenture Trustee for the benefit of the Beneficiaries. If, at any time, the institution holding the Protection Account ceases to be an Eligible Institution, the FSM shall notify the Indenture Trustee, and the Indenture Trustee upon being notified in writing of such ineligibility (or the FSM on its behalf) shall within 30 days (or such longer period, not to exceed 45 days, so long as the Rating Agency Condition is satisfied) establish a new Protection Account that is an Eligible Deposit Account and shall transfer any funds or other property from such Protection Account to such new Protection Account. From the date each such new Protection Account is established, it shall be the "Protection Account." for purposes of this Agreement. Funds credited to the Protection Account will be invested and held in accordance with Section 7.03 of the Trust Indenture as if it were an Issuer Account.

(b) Notwithstanding the priority of payment requirements set forth in the Trust Indenture and any legal rule concerning the imputation of payments, the Indenture Trustee shall apply the full amount paid by the Province into the Protection Account in respect of an Approved Obligation to pay the corresponding amount due and payable to the applicable Beneficiaries under the Approved Obligation. Upon a payment having been made by or on behalf of the Province into the Protection Account in respect of an Approved Obligation, the amount so paid shall for all purposes be considered to have been applied to pay the applicable Beneficiaries and thereby reduce the amount due and payable under the Approved Obligation, whereupon an affected Beneficiary shall have no continuing rights, interests or entitlements (including rights as a secured party) in respect of the Approved Obligation to the extent so paid[3].

[3] Consider how Beneficiary rights under Obligations Secured will be amended under an agreement to which a Beneficiary is not directly a party. To achieve a binding relationship, a corresponding provision should appear in the Trust Indenture and each other contract under which the Obligation Secured arises, to the effect that the Beneficiaries will be deemed to be bound by the agreement of the Indenture Trustee under this Agreement. Please see our addition

2.05 Certain Waivers

The Province hereby waives:

(a) any requirement, and any right to require, that any power be exercised or any action be taken against the Financing Entity or any Collateral for any of the Approved Obligations;

(b) all notices which may be required by applicable law to preserve any rights against the Province hereunder, including any notice of default, demand, dishonour, presentment and protest;

(c) diligence; and

(d) any defence based upon, arising out of or in any way related to any claim that any election of remedies by the Beneficiaries impaired, reduced, released or extinguished any rights that the Province might otherwise have had against the Financing Entity or any other surety. [NTD: Further consideration required as to whether there should be a waiver of any other equitable defences.]

The Province agrees that each such waiver is made with full knowledge of its significance and consequences and if any such waiver is determined to be contrary to any applicable law or public policy, such waiver shall be effective only to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law.

2.06 Additional Security

This Agreement shall be in addition to and without prejudice to any other security by whomsoever given, held at any time by the Indenture Trustee or for the benefit of any of the Beneficiaries.

2.07 Continuing Liability of the Province

The Approved Obligations shall be deemed not to have been paid, observed or performed, and the liability of the Province hereunder in respect thereof shall continue and not be discharged, to the extent that any payment, observance or performance thereof by the Financing Entity, or out of the proceeds of any Collateral, is recovered from or reimbursed by or for the account of any of the Beneficiaries for any reason, including a preference or fraudulent transfer or by virtue of any subordination (whether present or future or contractual or otherwise) of the Approved Obligations, whether such recovery or payment over is effected by any judgment, decree or order of any court or Governmental Authority, by any plan of reorganization or by settlement or compromise by any of the Beneficiaries (whether or not consented to by the Financing Entity or the Province) of any claim for any such recovery or payment over.

in Section 9.08. The Specified Creditors already make the necessary acknowledgement in Article 5 of the Trust Indenture. Isn't this also addressed in section 1.03 above?

2.08 Continuance of the Limited Guarantee

Subject to Section 2.07, the Limited Guarantee shall continue in full force and effect until the indefeasible payment, observance and performance in full of the Approved Obligations and termination of the Trust Indenture, or until the Province is no longer required to provide and perform the Limited Guarantee in accordance with Section 6.03.

2.09 Modifications of Approved Obligations

The Province expressly authorizes the Indenture Trustee, at any time and from time to time, without notice and without affecting the liability of the Province hereunder, but subject to compliance with the requirements of the Program Agreements, to:

(a) accept new, additional or replacement instruments, documents, agreements or security in connection with all or any part of the Approved Obligations;

(b) accept partial payments on the Approved Obligations; and

(c) waive, release, reconvey, terminate, abandon, subordinate, exchange, substitute, transfer, compound, compromise, liquidate and enforce all or any part of the Approved Obligations and any security or guarantee therefor, and apply any such security and direct the order or manner of sale thereof as the Indenture Trustee (for the benefit of the Beneficiaries) in its discretion may determine.

ARTICLE III
THE INDENTURE TRUSTEE

3.01 The Indenture Trustee

This Agreement is made in favour of the Indenture Trustee in its capacity as trustee under the Trust Indenture. Accordingly, in the event of a new trustee being appointed under the Trust Indenture, such new trustee shall thereupon become and be the Indenture Trustee hereunder, but nevertheless, the Indenture Trustee shall forthwith assign, transfer and make over to the new trustee hereunder this Agreement. All provisions of the Trust Indenture for the protection of the Indenture Trustee or for facilitating the administration of the trusts or otherwise relating to the Indenture Trustee solely as to its holding of the rights thereunder shall apply mutatis mutandis to this Agreement and the Indenture Trustee's duties hereunder.

3.02 Acceptance of Trusts

The Indenture Trustee hereby accepts the trusts hereof and agrees to carry out and discharge the same unless and until a new trustee shall be appointed as contemplated in Section 3.01.

ARTICLE IV
APPROVED OBLIGATIONS

4.01 Approval Process

A Primary Obligation shall constitute an Approved Obligation if the Adherence Conditions applicable thereto have been satisfied.

4.02 Adherence Conditions

The following shall be the Adherence Conditions applicable in relation to a Primary Obligation:

(a) the Primary Obligation is contemplated under the Trust Indenture as an Obligation Secured; and

(b) [NTD: already covered in process certificate in section 3.01 of the Process Agreement]

(c) [NTD: already covered under Process Agreement.]

(d) the FSM delivers a certificate signed by the Chief Financial Officer and the Treasurer of OPG (or their respective designees, provided that such designees are executive officers of OPG and, for clarity, such certificate is to be provided in OPG's capacity as FSM) and addressed to the Indenture Trustee, one Business Day prior to the earlier of (i) one Business Day prior to the incurrence or any amendment of the Primary Obligation, and (ii) on the Business Day on which the financial terms of the Primary Obligation are definitively determined (including the interest or discount rate applicable to any notes, bonds or other securities), confirming that the FSM has delivered to the Province a Process Certificate in accordance with Section [3.01] of the Process Agreement; and

(e) [NTD: This is more properly dealt with in Section 8.02 of this Agreement.].

4.03 Evidence of Satisfaction

A closing certificate delivered in accordance with Section 4.02 in connection with an incurrence or amendment of a Primary Obligation shall be determinative as to whether the applicable Adherence Conditions with respect thereto have been satisfied, notwithstanding that such certificate may include inaccuracies, be incomplete or otherwise be defective or deficient, and such closing certificate may be relied upon by any addressee as conclusive evidence of same.

ARTICLE V
PROVINCE MATTERS

5.01 Assignment and Subrogation

(a) Upon paying an amount in respect of an Approved Obligation:

i. to or at the direction of the Indenture Trustee in satisfaction of the Limited Guarantee; or the Province (in addition to and without prejudice to any rights it otherwise has in law or equity) shall be subrogated and entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Approved Obligation to the extent of such payment, including (i) the right and entitlement to be paid and receive distributions of such amount by the Financing Entity in accordance with and in the priority applicable to the Approved Obligation applicable in respect of the payment under the Trust Indenture, (ii) the benefits of the related Collateral and (iii) all proceeds therefrom. Subject to Section 5.01(b), the Province shall have and be entitled to enforce all rights and interests (including as a Specified Creditor under the Trust Indenture) under such Approved Obligation as an absolute assignee of the applicable Beneficiary, with effect from and after the time of such payment, without any further requirement for notice to or acceptance by the Financing Entity of such absolute assignment and without any reduction, set-off or counterclaim on account of any amounts that may, at or after the time of payment, be or become owing by the Beneficiary to the Financing Entity and unaffected by any other rights or equities that arise thereafter as between the Beneficiary and the Financing Entity. Subject to Section 5.01(b), the Indenture Trustee shall recognize the Province as being entitled to all of the rights, interests and entitlements of the Beneficiary (including, if applicable, as a Noteholder) in respect and to the extent of the Approved Obligation so paid, determined as of the time of payment, for all purposes under the Trust Indenture, and the Province shall be treated as a Specified Creditor in respect thereof for all purposes under the Trust Indenture and any other agreement under which the Approved Obligation arises.

(b) the Province (i) acknowledges and agrees in favour of the Indenture Trustee that, upon being subrogated and entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Approved Obligation in accordance with Section 5.01(a), the Province will be a Specified Creditor hereunder and its entitlements as a Specified Creditor are subject to the provisions applicable to Specified Creditors under the Trust Indenture including, without limitation, [Section 7.11 (Payments Held in Trust), Section 8.12 (Limitation on Suits), Sections 7.04 and 8.13 (Payment Priorities), Section 8.14 (Limited Recourse) and Section 16.01 (No Petition) thereof], (ii) irrevocably authorizes and directs the Indenture Trustee on its behalf to take such action (including the execution and delivery of documents of subordination) as may be necessary or appropriate to

5.02 Priorities

For greater certainty, the rights, interests and entitlements of the Province as an assignee and subrogee of and with respect to an Approved Obligation shall rank equally with the rights, interests and entitlements of a Beneficiary for whom a Limited Guarantee payment is made in respect of, and to the extent of the payment made to satisfy, the Approved Obligation and the Province shall not be subject to postponement or subordination with respect thereto except to the extent of the priorities established in relation to the Approved Obligation under the Trust Indenture.

5.03 Voting Rights under "Outstanding Notes"

[Notwithstanding the last three sentences of the definition of "Outstanding" in the Trust Indenture[4]:

(a) Notes in connection with Approved Obligations in respect of which the Province has rights and interest pursuant to Section 5.01 shall be regarded as "Outstanding" within the meaning of the Trust Indenture; and

(b) in determining whether Noteholders of the requisite principal amount of Notes that are Outstanding (as defined in the Trust Indenture) have taken any Action under the Trust Indenture, and for the purposes of Article X of the Trust Indenture, the Province shall be deemed to have the amount of Outstanding (as defined in the Trust Indenture) Notes in proportion to its interest in such Notes based on the amounts that the Province has paid in respect of Approved Obligations under this Agreement.] [NTD: To be discussed. Giving these voting rights to the Province may affect the marketability of the debt under this program.]

5.04 Province May Perform Other Program Agreement Covenants.

If the Financing Entity fails to perform any covenant under any Program Agreement, the Province may (but, except as expressly provided for under this Agreement, shall not be obligated to) perform such covenant on behalf of the Financing Entity. If the Province performs such a covenant on behalf of the Financing Entity, all sums expended or advanced by the Province in so performing the covenant will bear interest at the rate of interest determined by the Province to reflect market terms and conditions for a borrowing made by the Province at the relevant time from the date of expenditure until repayment by the Financing Entity and will (together with such interest) be paid by the Financing Entity upon demand and will until paid form part of the Obligations Secured subject to Sections [7.04 and 8.13] of the Trust Indenture and constitute a

The words "herein", "hereof" and "hereunder" and other words of similar import refer to this Agreement as a whole and not to any particular Article, Section, Subsection, Schedule, Exhibit or other subdivision;

(h) "including" and words of similar import will be deemed to be followed by "without limitation"; and

~~1.02 Trustee to act in accordance with the Trust Indenture~~

~~Any action taken, required to be taken or permitted to be taken by the Indenture Trustee under this Agreement shall only be taken in the manner, at the times, for the purposes, subject to the prerequisites, conditions, requirements and limitations, and with the benefits, exculpations, indemnities and protections that are provided to the Indenture Trustee, in each case in respect of such action taken, required to be taken or permitted to be taken by it under the Trust Indenture.~~

1.02 ~~1.03~~ Proof of Approved Obligations

The efficacy of any agreement, instrument or writing evidencing a Primary Obligation may, in the absence of manifest error, be conclusively proved in any manner that the Indenture Trustee deems to be sufficient.

Any statement of account prepared by the Indenture Trustee as regards the Primary Obligations shall constitute prima facie evidence of the amount which, as at the date of the statement so prepared, is due and payable by the Financing Entity to the Beneficiaries and/or the Indenture Trustee and the Province hereby acknowledges and agrees that, absent manifest error, it shall be bound by each such statement. The Indenture Trustee agrees to provide the Province with the computations and calculations used by the Indenture Trustee to prepare each such statement of account promptly following a request therefor.

1.03 ~~1.04~~ Limitation on Rights of and Actions by Specified Creditors

Specified Creditors, as Beneficiaries, shall not have or be permitted to exercise any rights, interests, or elections under this Agreement, other than in the manner and to the extent effected and exercised through the Indenture Trustee under, in accordance with and subject to the limitations set forth in the Trust Indenture. ~~No Specified Creditor will have any right to institute any proceeding, judicial or otherwise, with respect to this Agreement.~~

1.04 ~~1.05~~ Province Retains Rights of Beneficiaries

Without limiting any rights of subrogation or succession that arise pursuant to applicable law or pursuant to the Province's rights as an assignee, subrogee or pursuant to Section 5.01, all of the rights, interests, elections and privileges that would arise in favour of a Beneficiary under the Trust Indenture or other ~~agreement~~Funding Obligation Agreement under which a related Primary Obligation arises shall automatically arise, vest in and be available to the Province upon performance by the Province of the Primary Obligation. To the extent of any conflict between this Agreement and the Indemnity Agreement by the Province in favour of OPG dated June 1, 2017 in respect of any matter relating to the Province's obligations to indemnify the FSM or the Financing Entity, the latter shall prevail.

1.05 ~~1.06~~ Effect of Headings

The Article and Section headings herein are for convenience only and will not affect the construction hereof.

1.06 ~~1.07~~ Successors and Assigns

All covenants and agreements in this Agreement by the parties will bind their respective successors and permitted assigns, whether so expressed or not. All covenants and agreements of the Indenture Trustee or the FSM in this Agreement shall bind their respective successors, co-trustees and agents.

1.07 ~~1.08~~ Severability

Each of the provisions contained in this Agreement is distinct and severable and a declaration of invalidity or unenforceability of any such provision or part thereof by a court of competent jurisdiction will not affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision hereof. To the extent permitted by applicable law, the parties waive any provision of law which renders any provision of this Agreement invalid or unenforceable in any respect. The parties will engage in good faith negotiations to replace any provision which is declared invalid or unenforceable with a valid and enforceable provision, the economic effect of which comes as close as possible to that of the invalid or unenforceable provision which it replaces.

1.08 ~~1.09~~ Governing Law

THIS AGREEMENT WILL BE CONSTRUED IN ACCORDANCE WITH AND GOVERNED BY THE LAWS OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO AND THE FEDERAL LAWS OF CANADA APPLICABLE THEREIN, AND THE OBLIGATIONS, RIGHTS AND REMEDIES OF THE PARTIES HEREUNDER SHALL BE DETERMINED IN ACCORDANCE WITH SUCH LAWS.

1.09 ~~1.10~~ Proceedings Against the Crown Act

NOTHING IN THIS AGREEMENT OR THE PROGRAM AGREEMENTS AFFECTS THE RIGHTS, PROTECTIONS AND IMMUNITIES OF THE CROWN UNDER THE PROCEEDINGS AGAINST THE CROWN ACT.

1.10 ~~1.11~~ Attornment

EACH PARTY SUBMITS TO THE EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION OF ANY ONTARIO COURTS SITTING IN TORONTO IN ANY ACTION, APPLICATION, REFERENCE OR OTHER PROCEEDING ARISING OUT OF OR RELATED TO THIS AGREEMENT. THE PARTIES HERETO HEREBY WAIVE ANY RIGHT THEY MAY HAVE TO REQUIRE A TRIAL BY JURY OF ANY PROCEEDING COMMENCED IN CONNECTION WITH THIS AGREEMENT.

1.11 ~~1.12~~ Counterparts; Electronic Delivery

This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which so executed will be deemed to be an original, but all such counterparts will together constitute one and the same instrument. Delivery of an executed signature page to this Agreement by a party by electronic transmission will be as effective as delivery of a manually executed copy of the Agreement by such party.

1.12 ~~1.13~~ Change of Law Protection Agreement Referred to in the Trust Indenture

This Agreement is the "Change of Law Protection Agreement" referred to in the Trust Indenture.

1.13 ~~1.14~~ Non-Business Days

Whenever any payment to be made hereunder shall be stated to be due, any period of time would begin or end, any calculation is to be made or any other action to be taken hereunder shall be stated to be required to be taken, on a day other than a Business Day, then (notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement) such payment shall be made, such period of time shall begin or end, such calculations shall be made and such other action shall be taken on the next succeeding Business Day.

1.14 ~~1.15~~ Waiver, Amendment

Except as expressly provided in this Agreement, no amendment or waiver of this Agreement will be binding unless executed in writing by the party to be bound thereby. No waiver of any provision of this Agreement will constitute a waiver of any other provision nor will any waiver of any provision of this Agreement constitute a continuing waiver unless otherwise expressly provided. A party's failure or delay in exercising any right under this Agreement will not operate as a waiver of that right. A single or partial exercise of any right will not preclude a party from any other or further exercise of that right or the exercise of any other right.

1.15 ~~1.16~~ Interest Act

For the purpose of disclosure pursuant to the Interest Act (Canada), the yearly rate of interest to which any rate of interest payable under this Agreement that is calculated on any basis other than a full calendar year is equivalent may be determined by multiplying such rate by a fraction, the numerator of which is the actual number of days in the calendar year in which such yearly rate of interest is to be ascertained and the denominator of which is the number of days comprising such other basis. The parties further agree that for the purposes of the Interest Act (Canada), (i) the principle of deemed reinvestment of interest shall not apply to any interest calculation under this Agreement, and (ii) the rates of interest stipulated in this Agreement are intended to be nominal rates and not effective rates or yields.

1.16 ~~1.17~~ Currency

Unless stated otherwise, all amounts herein are stated in Canadian Dollars.

1.17 ~~1.18~~ References to Acts of the Financing Entity ~~Trustee~~

For greater certainty, where any reference is made in this Agreement, or in any other instrument executed pursuant hereto or contemplated hereby to which the Financing Entity ~~or the Financing Entity Trustee, as trustee of the Financing Entity,~~ is party, to an act to be performed by, an appointment to be made by, an obligation or liability of, an asset or right of, a discharge or release to be provided by, a suit or proceeding to be taken by or against, or a covenant, representation or warranty (other than relating to the constitution or existence of the Financing Entity) by or with respect to ~~(i)~~ the Financing Entity ~~or (ii) the Financing Entity Trustee~~, such reference shall be construed and applied for all purposes as if it referred to an act to be performed by, an appointment to be made by, an obligation or liability of, an asset or right of, a discharge or release to be provided by, a suit or proceeding to be taken by or against or a covenant, representation or warranty (other than relating to the constitution or existence of the Financing Entity) by or with respect to, the FSM as agent for the Financing Entity Trustee (in its capacity as trustee of the Financing Entity~~,~~). [NTD: Discuss whether the Financing Entity Trustee should be a party to this Agreement and references to the Financing Entity Trustee re-inserted into this section and others.]

1.18 ~~1.19~~ Judgment Currency

(a) If for the purpose of obtaining judgment in any court or for any other purposes (other than conversions specifically provided for in the agreement under which an Approved Obligation arises), it is necessary to convert any amount due under this Agreement from the currency in which it is due (the "Original Currency") into another currency (the "Second Currency"), the rate of exchange applied shall be that at which, in accordance with normal banking procedures, the purchaser could purchase, in the New York foreign exchange market, the Original Currency with the Second Currency on the date on which judgment is given. The obligation of the Province in respect of any Original Currency due from it to the Indenture Trustee under this Agreement shall, notwithstanding any judgment or payment in such other currency, be discharged only to the extent that, on the Business Day following receipt of any sum so paid or adjudged to be due under this Agreement in the Second Currency, the Indenture Trustee may, in accordance with normal banking procedures, purchase in the New York foreign exchange market the Original Currency with the amount of the Second Currency so paid or so adjudged to be due; and if the amount of the Original Currency so purchased is less than the amount originally due in the Original Currency, the ~~Financing Entity~~Province shall indemnify the Indenture Trustee against such loss.

(b) The term "rate of exchange" in this Section 1.19 means the spot rate at which the Indenture Trustee, in accordance with normal practice, is able on the relevant date to purchase the Original Currency with the Second Currency and includes any premium and costs of exchange payable in connection with such purchase.

ARTICLE II
AGREEMENT TO PERFORM APPROVED OBLIGATIONS

2.01 Limited Guarantee

(a) Upon the occurrence of a Protection Event, the Indenture Trustee may provide a written demand, in the form attached as Exhibit A (a "Payment Demand"), to the Province requiring the Province to pay the Approved Obligations owing from time to time by the Financing Entity to the Indenture Trustee as and when they become due and payable~~, without Acceleration~~[1]. A Payment Demand will not be valid with respect to an Approved Obligation until the amount claimed becomes due and payable in respect of the Approved Obligation ~~(without Acceleration)~~ in accordance with the Trust Indenture and has not otherwise been paid by the Financing Entity.

(b) Following receipt of a valid Payment Demand under Subsection 2.01(a), the Province shall pay the amounts owing by the Financing Entity to the Indenture Trustee, on behalf of the applicable Beneficiaries, in respect of each Approved Obligation[2], in each case as and when the Approved Obligation becomes due and payable in accordance with its terms and on its scheduled, specified or determined payment date, ~~as determined without regard to any Acceleration or rights of Acceleration arising under the Approved Obligation,~~ in each case by the Province depositing or causing the deposit of the applicable payment amount into the ~~Collection~~Protection Account 5 Business Days prior to the fifteen day of each calendar month (the "Limited Guarantee"). For greater certainty, the Limited Guarantee will not apply to any amount or obligation of the Financing Entity that is not or does not arise under an Approved Obligation~~, including (i) any amounts that are or become payable as a~~ result of the exercise of an option of the Financing Entity following a Protection Event, and (ii) amounts required to be deposited by or on behalf of the Financing Entity into any Capital Account, Finance Reserve Account or a Supplemental Reserve Account.

[1] Consider mechanics for notifying the Province regarding the specific amounts payable and their due dates. Consider attaching a detailed schedule of payments under the Payment Demand and the respective due date of each payment.

[2] Under Subsection 5(3) of the Act, the Province can guarantee only obligations "associated with an investment interest". The guarantee in Section 2.01 of the draft agreement guarantees "Approved Obligations", which in turn relies on the definition of Primary Obligations. The connection between a Primary Obligations and an "investment interest" is therefore crucial. Blakes is considering how to more precisely connect these concepts.

(c) Except as expressly provided in this Agreement, the Province's obligation to provide and perform the Limited Guarantee shall be irrevocable, absolute and unconditional.

(d) Any amount payable by the Province under the Limited Guarantee in respect of an Approved Obligation that is not paid when required herein shall bear interest from the applicable due date until paid in full at the rate or rates expressed to be payable on the Approved Obligation.

(e) The right to deliver a Payment Demand and thereupon enforce the Limited Guarantee shall constitute the only remedy available to the Indenture Trustee under this Agreement. Under no circumstances shall the Province be obligated to pay or indemnify the Indenture Trustee or any Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.

2.02 Gross-up

[All amounts payable by the Province under this Agreement shall be made free and clear of and without deduction for or on account of any present or future taxes, charges, fees, levies, duties or withholdings of any kind. If the Province is obliged to deduct or withhold an amount in respect of any such taxes, charges, fees, levies, duties or withholdings, then in such event the Province shall deposit into the CollectionProtection Account such additional amount as is necessary to ensure that the Indenture Trustee receives (on an after-tax basis, after payment of any and all income taxes on such additional amounts) an amount equal to the full amount otherwise due and payable in respect of the related Approved Obligation, net of any such taxes, charges, fees, levies, duties or withholdings.][3]

2.03 Absence of Set-off

The Province acknowledges and agrees that each payment to be made by the Province hereunder in respect of an Approved Obligation shall be made as required in whole, without application of any right of set-off and without regard to any equities as between or among any of the Province, the Beneficiaries and/or the Indenture Trustee.

2.04 Payment into CollectionProtection Account in Satisfaction

(a) On or before the date of delivery of a Payment Demand to the Province, the Indenture Trustee shall cause to be established and maintained an Eligible Deposit Account (the "Protection Account") in the name of the Indenture Trustee, bearing a designation clearly indicating that the funds and other property credited thereto are held for the benefit of the Indenture Trustee and the Beneficiaries. The Protection Account shall be under the control of the Indenture Trustee for the benefit of the Beneficiaries. If, at any time, the institution holding the Protection Account ceases to be an Eligible Institution, the FSM shall notify the Indenture Trustee, and the Indenture Trustee upon being notified in writing of such ineligibility (or the FSM on its behalf) shall within 30 days (or such longer period, not to exceed 45 days, so long as the Rating Agency Condition is satisfied) establish a new Protection Account that is an Eligible Deposit Account and shall transfer any funds or other property from such Protection Account to such new Protection Account. From the date each such new Protection Account is established, it shall be the "Protection Account." for purposes of this Agreement. Funds credited to the Protection Account will be invested and held in accordance with Section 7.03 of the Trust Indenture as if it were an Issuer Account.

(b) Notwithstanding the priority of payment requirements set forth in the Trust Indenture and any legal rule concerning the imputation of payments, the Indenture Trustee shall apply the full amount paid by the Province into the ~~Collection~~Protection Account in respect of an Approved Obligation to pay the corresponding amount due and payable to the applicable Beneficiaries under the Approved Obligation.[4] Upon a payment having been made by or on behalf of the Province into the ~~Collection~~Protection Account in respect of an Approved Obligation, the amount so paid shall for all purposes be considered to have been applied to pay the applicable Beneficiaries and thereby reduce the amount due and payable under the Approved Obligation, whereupon an affected Beneficiary shall have no continuing rights, interests or entitlements (including rights as a secured party) in respect of the Approved Obligation to the extent so paid~~5~~3.

2.05 Certain Waivers

The Province hereby waives:

(a) any requirement, and any right to require, that any power be exercised or any action be taken against the Financing Entity or any Collateral for any of the Approved Obligations;

(b) all notices which may be required by applicable law to preserve any rights against the Province hereunder, including any notice of default, demand, dishonour, presentment and protest;

[4] ~~This will need to operate in tandem with the Trust Indenture waterfall. The idea is that the Approved Obligations may not necessarily follow the sequence of the "payment waterfall" included in the Trust Indenture, and so amounts from the Province would need to operate independently.~~

~~5~~3 Consider how Beneficiary rights under Obligations Secured will be amended under an agreement to which a Beneficiary is not directly a party. To achieve a binding relationship, a corresponding provision should appear in the Trust Indenture and each other contract under which the Obligation Secured arises, to the effect that the Beneficiaries will be deemed to be bound by the agreement of the Indenture Trustee under this Agreement. Please see our addition in Section 9.08. The Specified Creditors already make the necessary acknowledgement in Article 5 of the Trust Indenture. Isn't this also addressed in section 1.03 above?

(c) diligence; and

(d) any defence based upon, arising out of or in any way related to any claim that any election of remedies by the Beneficiaries impaired, reduced, released or extinguished any rights that the Province might otherwise have had against the Financing Entity or any other surety. [NTD: Further consideration required as to whether there should be a waiver of any other equitable defences.]

The Province agrees that each such waiver is made with full knowledge of its significance and consequences and if any such waiver is determined to be contrary to any applicable law or public policy, such waiver shall be effective only to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law.

2.06 Additional Security

This Agreement shall be in addition to and without prejudice to any other security by whomsoever given, held at any time by the Indenture Trustee or for the benefit of any of the Beneficiaries.

2.07 Continuing Liability of the Province

The Approved Obligations shall be deemed not to have been paid, observed or performed, and the liability of the Province hereunder in respect thereof shall continue and not be discharged, to the extent that any payment, observance or performance thereof by the Financing Entity, or out of the proceeds of any Collateral, is recovered from or reimbursed by or for the account of any of the Beneficiaries for any reason, including a preference or fraudulent transfer or by virtue of any subordination (whether present or future or contractual or otherwise) of the Approved Obligations, whether such recovery or payment over is effected by any judgment, decree or order of any court or Governmental Authority, by any plan of reorganization or by settlement or compromise by any of the Beneficiaries (whether or not consented to by the Financing Entity or the Province) of any claim for any such recovery or payment over.

2.08 Continuance of the Limited Guarantee

Subject to Section 2.07, the Limited Guarantee shall continue in full force and effect until the indefeasible payment, observance and performance in full of the Approved Obligations and termination of the Trust Indenture, or until the Province is no longer required to provide and perform the Limited Guarantee in accordance with Section 6.03~~)~~.

2.09 Modifications of Approved Obligations

The Province expressly authorizes the Indenture Trustee, at any time and from time to time, without notice and without affecting the liability of the Province hereunder, but subject to compliance with the requirements of the Program Agreements ~~and this Agreement~~, to:

(a) accept new, additional or replacement instruments, documents, agreements or security in connection with all or any part of the Approved Obligations;

(b) accept partial payments on the Approved Obligations; and

(c) waive, release, reconvey, terminate, abandon, subordinate, exchange, substitute, transfer, compound, compromise, liquidate and enforce all or any part of the Approved Obligations and any security or guarantee therefor, and apply any such security and direct the order or manner of sale thereof as the Indenture Trustee (for the benefit of the Beneficiaries) in its discretion may determine~~,provided, however, that the Indenture Trustee shall not permit any change, modification, alteration, amendment, supplement, extension, renewal, compromise, novation, replacement, suspension or waiver of the terms of all or any part of the Approved Obligations or any Collateral therefor expect with the prior written consent of the Province having first been obtained~~.

ARTICLE III
THE INDENTURE TRUSTEE

3.01 The Indenture Trustee

This Agreement is made in favour of the Indenture Trustee in its capacity as trustee under the Trust Indenture. Accordingly, in the event of a new trustee being appointed under the Trust Indenture, such new trustee shall thereupon become and be the Indenture Trustee hereunder, but nevertheless, the Indenture Trustee shall forthwith assign, transfer and make over to the new trustee hereunder this Agreement. All provisions of the Trust Indenture for the protection of the Indenture Trustee or for facilitating the administration of the trusts or otherwise relating to the Indenture Trustee solely as to its holding of the rights thereunder shall apply mutatis mutandis to this Agreement and the Indenture Trustee's duties hereunder.

3.02 Acceptance of Trusts

The Indenture Trustee hereby accepts the trusts hereof and agrees to carry out and discharge the same unless and until a new trustee shall be appointed as contemplated in Section 3.01.

ARTICLE IV
APPROVED OBLIGATIONS

4.01 Approval Process

4.02 Adherence Conditions

The following shall be the Adherence Conditions applicable in relation to a Primary Obligation:

(a) the Primary Obligation is contemplated under the Trust Indenture as an Obligation Secured; and

(b) at the time the Primary Obligation is incurred or amended, the maximum aggregate payment amounts due or becoming due in the future in respect of Repayments[6] under the Primary Obligation, together with all other outstanding amounts due or becoming due in the future in respect of Repayments under Approved Obligations, do not exceed the Protection Agreement Maximum;[NTD: already covered in process certificate in section 3.01 of the Process Agreement]

(c) the FSM delivers a notice to the Indenture Trustee, with a copy to the Province, one Business Day prior to the incurrence or any amendment of the Primary Obligation, setting out the Protection Agreement Maximum;[NTD: already covered under Process Agreement.]

(d) the FSM delivers a certificate signed by the Chief Financial Officer and the Treasurer of OPG (or their respective designees, provided that such designees are executive officers of OPG and, for clarity, such certificate is to be provided in OPG's capacity as FSM) and addressed to the Province and the Indenture Trustee, one Business Day prior to the earlier of (i) one Business Day prior to the incurrence or any amendment of the Primary Obligation, and (ii) on the Business Day on which the financial terms of the Primary Obligation are definitively determined (including the interest or discount rate applicable to any notes, bonds or other securities), setting out the following with respect to the Primary Obligation:

i. confirmation that, at the time the Primary Obligation is incurred or amended, the maximum aggregate payment amounts due or becoming due in the future in respect of Repayments under the Primary Obligation (if any), together with all other outstanding amounts due or becoming due in the future in respect of Repayments under Approved Obligations, do not and will not exceed the Protection Agreement Maximum; andii. confirmation that confirming that the FSM has delivered to the Province a certificateProcess Certificate in accordance with Section [3.01] of the Process Agreement confirming, among other things, that the transaction documents in respect of the Primary Obligation are in substantially the form of the documentation reviewed by the Province; and

(e) the Province has not provided a Suspension Notice to the Indenture Trustee, the FSM and the Financing Entity in accordance with the terms[NTD: This is more properly dealt with in Section 8.02 of this Agreement.].

[6] Use of the concept of "repayments" under the OFHPA for this purpose is under consideration.

4.03 Evidence of Satisfaction

A closing certificate ~~signed by at least two executive officers of OPG~~delivered in accordance with Section 4.02 in connection with an incurrence or amendment of a Primary Obligation shall be determinative as to whether the applicable Adherence Conditions with respect thereto have been satisfied, notwithstanding that such certificate may include inaccuracies, be incomplete or otherwise be defective or deficient, and such closing certificate may be relied upon by any addressee as conclusive evidence of same.

ARTICLE V
~~RIGHTS OF THE~~ PROVINCE MATTERS

5.01 Assignment and Subrogation

(a) Upon paying an amount in respect of an Approved Obligation:

i. ~~(a)~~ to or at the direction of the Indenture Trustee in satisfaction of the Limited Guarantee; or

ii. ~~(b)~~ [as a result of assuming the Financing Entity's obligations in respect of all Obligations Secured under Article VI,] [NTD: This requires further discussion depending on the terms of the assignment and assumption agreement. If the Obligations Secured are assigned and assumed by the Province under Article VI, how would the Province be subrogated and entitled to the Beneficiary's rights and interests under the Approved Obligation? Consider limiting the application of this section 5.01 to the Limited Guarantee.]

the Province (in addition to and without prejudice to any rights it otherwise has in law or equity) shall be subrogated and entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Approved Obligation to the extent of such payment, including (i) the right and entitlement to be paid and receive distributions of such amount by the Financing Entity in accordance with and in the priority applicable to the Approved Obligation applicable in respect of the payment under the Trust Indenture, (ii) the benefits of the related Collateral and (iii) all proceeds therefrom. ~~The~~Subject to Section 5.01(b), the Province shall have and be entitled to enforce all rights and interests (including as a ~~secured party~~Specified Creditor under the Trust Indenture) under such Approved Obligation as an absolute assignee of the applicable Beneficiary, with effect from and after the time of such payment, without any further requirement for notice to or acceptance by the Financing Entity of such absolute assignment and without any reduction, set-off or counterclaim on account of any amounts that may, at or after the time of payment, be or become owing by the Beneficiary to the Financing Entity and unaffected by any other rights or equities that arise thereafter as between the Beneficiary and the Financing Entity. ~~The~~Subject to Section 5.01(b), the Indenture Trustee shall recognize the Province as being entitled to all of the rights, interests and entitlements of the Beneficiary (including, if applicable, as a Noteholder) in respect and to the extent of the Approved Obligation so paid, determined as of the time of payment, for all purposes under the Trust Indenture, and the Province shall be treated as a Specified Creditor in respect thereof for all purposes under the Trust Indenture and any other agreement under which the Approved Obligation arises.

(b) the Province (i) acknowledges and agrees in favour of the Indenture Trustee that, upon being subrogated and entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Approved Obligation in accordance with Section 5.01(a), the Province will be a Specified Creditor hereunder and its entitlements as a Specified Creditor are subject to the provisions applicable to Specified Creditors under the Trust Indenture including, without limitation, [Section 7.11 (Payments Held in Trust), Section 8.12 (Limitation on Suits), Sections 7.04 and 8.13 (Payment Priorities), Section 8.14 (Limited Recourse) and Section 16.01 (No Petition) thereof], (ii) irrevocably authorizes and directs the Indenture Trustee on its behalf to take such action (including the execution and delivery of documents of subordination) as may be necessary or appropriate to further assure the priority arrangements provided for in [Article VI and Sections 7.04 and 8.13 of the Trust Indenture], (iii) appoints the Indenture Trustee as its agent for any and all such purposes, and (iv) confirms that the Indenture Trustee shall send notices to the Province in accordance with Section 9.02.

5.02 Priorities

For greater certainty, the rights, interests and entitlements of the Province as an assignee and subrogee of and with respect to an Approved Obligation shall rank equally with the rights, interests and entitlements of a Beneficiary for whom a Limited Guarantee payment is made in respect of, and to the extent of the payment made to satisfy, the Approved Obligation and the Province shall not be subject to postponement or subordination with respect thereto except to the extent of the priorities established in relation to the Approved Obligation under the Trust Indenture.

5.03 Voting Rights under "Outstanding Notes"

[Notwithstanding the last three sentences of the definition of "Outstanding" in the Trust Indenture[74]:

(a) Notes in connection with Approved Obligations in respect of which the Province has rights and interest pursuant to Section 5.01 shall be regarded as "Outstanding" within the meaning of the Trust Indenture; and

(b) in determining whether Noteholders of the requisite principal amount of Notes that are Outstanding (as defined in the Trust Indenture) have taken

[74] This concept needs to be reflected in the Trust Indenture. This requires further discussion (see NTD above).

any Action under the Trust Indenture, and for the purposes of Article X of the Trust Indenture, the Province shall be deemed to have the amount of Outstanding (as defined in the Trust Indenture) Notes in proportion to its interest in such Notes based on the amounts that the Province has paid in respect of Approved Obligations under this Agreement.] [NTD: To be discussed. Giving these voting rights to the Province may affect the marketability of the debt under this program.]

5.04 Province May Perform Other Program Agreement Covenants.

If the Financing Entity fails to perform any covenant under any Program Agreement, the Province may (but, except as expressly provided for under this Agreement, shall not be obligated to) perform such covenant on behalf of the Financing Entity. If the Province performs such a covenant on behalf of the Financing Entity, all sums expended or advanced by the Province in so performing the covenant will bear interest at the rate of interest determined by the Province to reflect market terms and conditions for a borrowing made by the Province at the relevant time from the date of expenditure until repayment by the Financing Entity and will (together with such interest) be paid by the Financing Entity upon demand and will until paid form part of the Obligations Secured subject to Sections [7.04 and 8.13] of the Trust Indenture and constitute a Finance Amount.[85] [NTD: Discussion required as to how these repayments will be dealt with under the MTI, and in particular, under the waterfall provisions.]

5.05 Representations and Warranties

The Province hereby represents and warrants that:

(a) the Province has the necessary power, authority and capacity to execute and perform its obligations under this Agreement;

(b) the execution, delivery and performance by the Province of this Agreement and the completion of the transactions contemplated hereby do not and will not result in a violation of any applicable law;

(c) all necessary action has been taken by the Province including, without limitation, under sections 5(2) and 5(3) of the Act and section 28(1.1) of the Financial Administration Act, R.S.O. 1990 c. F. 12, to authorize the execution and delivery of this Agreement by the Province and the performance by the Province of its obligations hereunder; and

(d) this Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered on behalf of the Province and is a legal, valid and binding obligation of the Province, enforceable against it in accordance with its terms.

[85] General Regulation to be revised such that "Finance Amount" picks up guarantor amounts. Under consideration by MOE.

ARTICLE VI
NOTICE OF ASSUMPTION OF OBLIGATIONS SECURED

6.01 Delivery of Assumption Notice

Following the occurrence of a Protection Event, the Province may provide notice (in the form of Exhibit B) to the Indenture Trustee, in accordance with the terms of the Process Agreement, that the Province has elected to assume the Financing Entity's obligations in respect of all Obligations Secured, as obligor and debtor (the "Assumption Notice"). The Assumption Notice shall specify the date on which the assignment and assumption of the Obligations Secured will be effective (the "Assumption Closing Date").

6.02 Cooperation to Implement the Assignment and Assumption

The Indenture Trustee, the FSM, the Financing Entity and the Province will cooperate and use best efforts to complete the assignment and assumption of the Obligations Secured by and from the Financing Entity to and by the Province, by the Assumption Closing Date.[96]

6.03 Effect of Assumption

On the date that the assignment and assumption of the Obligations Secured by and from the Financing Entity to and by the Province becomes effective (the "Assumption Effective Date"), the Province shall no longer be required to provide and perform the Limited Guarantee but will instead be primary obligor under the Obligations Secured. [NTD: Need to move Article VI of the Change of Law Process Agreement into this Article VI and amend accordingly. Also, we will need to attach the form of Assumption Agreement as an Exhibit to this Agreement that will be used for the assignment and assumption of all Obligations Secured. Contrary to the statement in Section 6.02(f) of the Change of Law Protection Agreement, there will not be a separate form of Assumption Agreement for each Obligation Secured.]

6.04 Interim Period

Until the effective time of the assignment and assumption of the Obligations Secured by and from the Financing Entity to and by the Province on the Assumption Effective Date, the Province shall continue to perform and be obligated under the Limited Guarantee.

ARTICLE VII
INDENTURE TRUSTEE MATTERS

CHANGE OF LAW PROCESS AGREEMENT

Dated as of [■], 2017

This CHANGE OF LAW PROCESS AGREEMENT, between Her Majesty the Queen in Right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (the "Province"), and Ontario Power Generation Inc. ("OPG"), as Financial Services Manager for the Financing Entity in accordance with the Act, is made and entered into as of [■], 2017.

RECITALS

OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager under Section 18 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act").

Pursuant to Section 22(2) of the Act, OPG, in its capacity as the Financial Services Manager (the "FSM"), may establish or cause to be established one or more financing entities (as defined in the Act), which may incur Funding Obligations in accordance with the Act.

Pursuant to a Declaration of Trust dated as of [■], 2017, the Financing Entity was established as a "financing entity" (as defined in the Act) for the purposes contemplated in the Act.[1]

Concurrent with this Agreement, the Province, the FSM, the Financing Entity and the Indenture Trustee will enter into the Change of Law Protection Agreement under which the Province will agree to provide protections and assurances to the Indenture Trustee, for the benefit of the Beneficiaries, in respect of Obligations Secured that constitute Approved Obligations, in order to address concerns that would arise from a change or adverse determination of law, subject in each case to the satisfaction of the Adherence Conditions at the time the Approved Obligation is incurred or amended.

Prior to entering into this Agreement, the FSM provided the Province with copies of certain of the Transaction Documents, and the Province has confirmed by a notice delivered to the FSM that the reviewed forms (as further described in such notice) shall be Reviewed Documentation for the purposes of this Agreement.

This Agreement sets out the obligations the FSM has agreed to perform and assurances the FSM has agreed to provide and on which the Province will rely in entering into and implementing the Change of Law Protection Agreement, including for the purposes of determining whether the Adherence Conditions have been satisfied in connection with the incurrence or amendment of an Approved Obligation, maintaining information related to the Program Agreements and the Approved Obligations, and ensuring that the Province's assumption rights pursuant to Article VI of the Change of Law Protection Agreement may be exercised without impediment on the terms and conditions contemplated in this Agreement and the Change of Law Protection Agreement.

All things necessary to make this Agreement a valid and legally binding agreement of the FSM, and of the Province in accordance with the Act, have been done.

[1] Note: This draft only addresses the first Financing Entity. If additional financing entities are established, revisions to this Agreement may be made at that time, in context. Any additional financing entities contemplated should be as contemplated in the Financing Plan.

All things necessary to make this Agreement a valid and legally binding agreement of ~~OPG~~the FSM, and of the Province in accordance with the Act, have been done.

[1] Note: This draft only addresses the first Financing Entity. If additional financing entities are established, revisions to this Agreement may be made at that time, in context. Any additional financing entities contemplated should be as contemplated in the Financing Plan.
