What we are hearing on the call is that term debt is expected to be issued in late November just as Mike's info indicated.

OPG doesn't have a full financing plan at this time. I believe they are hoping to firm up numbers from Energy fairly shortly, before they meet the ratings agencies. They are currently thinking of issuing $300 to $500 million in late September/early October. Roughly $125 million of this will be to fund the subordinated (5% requirement on roughly $2.5 billion of annual funding). The senior debt (the 51% that we are focussing on) is roughly planned for late November with roughly $400 million of issuance and then follow-up issuance on a fairly regular basis thereafter. Hope this is helpful.

Regards, Mike

Subject: Fair Hydro - Option for Province to Cure Default before Acceleration of Debt

Dear James,

During the discussions of the Provincial guarantee at a recent Thursday rate mitigation meeting, OPG raised the issue of potential acceleration of financing entity debt where the guarantee is not applicable. That would occur if there is an event of default (e.g. if the trust is not able to pay/service the debt) for a reason that doesn't trigger the guarantee (e.g. for a reason other than a change of the legislation).

When there is an acceleration, all of the principal amount becomes due and a large payment would need to be made by the financing entity to bondholders. If the acceleration occurs after the moratorium period, the amount payable to bondholders would be put through the Clean Energy Adjustment to specified consumers. That could result in a significant increase in consumer bills in a short period of time.

We understand that the Province may not want consumers to experience such a sharp bill increase. We discussed the Dealers whether the Province could be given the option to cure an event of default of a financing entity before it results in acceleration of debt. The Dealers were amenable to providing this option.

When we raised this possibility, the Province indicated it would like to have such an option, and asked us to put together a note describing the terms.

Please find attached a note describing the proposed terms of the option.

Let us know if you have any questions or comments, or if this should be directed to someone else.

No it wouldn't, but that is a good question. I have been assuming that the provincial support agreement would only apply to the 51% senior debt, but OPG just let me know that the subordinated debt will be quite a bit more expensive without a provincial support agreement. Roughly, they currently estimate that the senior debt will be priced 20-25 bps over the Province of Ontario. The subordinated they see about 100 bps back of the Senior if it has a provincial support agreement. They are now indicating, based on dealer feedback, that without a provincial support agreement, the subordinated will be about 100-200 bps more expensive if it doesn't have a provincial support agreement. Anyway, I don't think we should be expanding the support to the subordinated debt as this will greatly increase the Province's exposure. We may have to address ways to keep the subordinated more cost-effective. Thoughts appreciated.

Hi Dave. This meeting is scheduled at the same time as Serge has invited Ron and me to a multi Ministry meeting on Watay and the proposed $1.5 billion loan to finance the remote grid connection for First National communities in the northwest. I'm guessing that Scott Nelms was probably also invited to that meeting.

Would it be possible to move this briefing so that we can participate in both? If not we'll send others to the Energy multi-ministry.

Memorandum

To: Her Majesty the Queen in Right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (the "Province")

Date: August 30, 2017

From: Ontario Power Generation Inc.

Subject: Acceleration of Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act Obligations

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, clean energy adjustments are designed to recover the "funding obligations" and "finance amounts" (as defined in the Act and regulations thereunder, respectively, collectively referred to as the "Obligations") that become due during a reference period (each generally a six month period). This means that if there is an event of default under the master trust indenture (the "Indenture") that is not or cannot be cured, the full amount of the accelerated Obligations may become due and payable and be included in the calculation of the clean energy adjustments for the next reference period. Furthermore, it is likely that all funding obligations will be cross-defaulted to each other, so acceleration of one series of funding obligations will likely result in acceleration of all funding obligations. Accordingly, electricity rates for specified consumers would be set at a rate for a six-month period that would result in repayment in full of all outstanding and accelerated Obligations. On the assumption that all interested parties would like to avoid such a scenario, we have discussed with the dealers the following as an approach in the context of an event of default:

1. Upon the occurrence of a Default under the Indenture (being an event which, with the passage of time or giving of notice could become an Event of Default), the Province would have the following rights:

(a) a right to receive written notice from the trustee under the Indenture (at the same time that such trustee provides a notice to the financing entity through OPG as the manager) that a Default has occurred;

(b) in the event of the occurrence of an Event of Default that is not based upon the occurrence of a Default followed by a cure period (such as insolvency of the financing entity), a right to receive written notice from the trustee under the Indenture that an Event of Default has occurred; and

(c) a right to cure the Default or the Event of Default, as the case may be, within a specified cure period, which will run concurrently with any cure period available under the Indenture with respect to the applicable Event of Default.

2. The Indenture will provide that notwithstanding the occurrence of an Event of Default, the Obligations may not be accelerated until the expiry of the cure period available to the Province. If the Default or Event of Default in question cannot be cured by the Province on behalf of the financing entity within this cure period, then the Province will have the option to "cure" and avoid acceleration of the Obligations by assuming those Obligations. This option would be set out in the provincial protection and assurances agreement. In such circumstances, as in the case of a change of law, the Fair Hydro program would be discontinued and the Obligations owing under the program would be those of the Province.

Hi all,

We have received comments back on the term sheet from Steve Ashbourne, the Province's external counsel, and think it would be helpful to have an internal Provincial meeting to review the comments on the draft. On the legal side, it might be helpful to get some more insight into how the proposed guarantee and warehouse facility are to work from a business perspective. In addition, we are awaiting further draft documents that set the context and describe what is to be guaranteed as I understand that Torys (OPG's counsel) has been working on these.

It would be helpful to coordinate such a meeting soon with the appropriate Provincial representatives.

Thanks.

Malle

Hi Ken,

Thanks for the additional information. I have already sent the draft to Energy Legal and will send it to Steve Ashbourne this morning.

Here are my very high level preliminary comments on this. This appears to be a fresh document drafted by OPG and its counsel after the meeting in July and then further business discussion since then. There are no track changes in this document, but I compared it to the version the Province sent to OPG on June 22nd and there are quite a few differences.

- The last sentence in the opening italics that "the arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate" has been deleted.
- It has been changed back to a guarantee from an indemnity.
- The Guarantee Activation Events have been expanded to include 5 as it seems that it has been restructured so that some of what was previously in the "performance" guarantee is added into (E), i.e. IESO's role.
- Concept of "materiality" has been deleted for (B) and (D).
- A concept of "any other discriminatory action including OEB Orders has been introduced.
- The Guarantee wording includes the word "assume" as opposed to just "pay".
- Also, the guarantee has reverted to some of the very general wording that the Province is guarantee "all of the obligations of the Financing Entity" not just the debt obligations. These include any other obligation of the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (such as trustees, auditors, etc), rating agencies and any fees due to the securities commission??
- Approval requirement has been changed so that Province does not have right to approve any specific guarantee of funding obligations or set of documents before the guarantee is applied as long as documents are consistent – but who decides?
- Also the second portion called Warehousing Takeout Risk and Servicing – it's mentioned that this is for information purposes only as these risk were included in previous versions – current proposals described here and it doesn't contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks. I would say perhaps similar risks might have been dealt with but this section looks new and I don't' understand what the Province's role is in providing these assurances. Legal would need more background on how this is supposed to work.

The authority for the Province's guarantee is contained in s. 5(3) of the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 and requires an OIC to authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province to agree to guarantee/indemnity obligations associated with an investment interest. The LGIC may delegate to the Ministers to determine the terms and conditions of the guarantee and the maximum liability for the guarantee or may also specify this in the OIC. Given that it appears there will be multiple debt issuances as part of this financing program of the Financing Entity, we will have to determine how best to approach the drafting of the OIC and the guarantee in the context of this debt program. So far, we have not received any draft documents for the program such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc and as a result it is difficult to provide comments on the term sheet and in particular scope of the guarantee and how the province's approval of the terms and conditions might work in order to make the debt financing program of the Financing Entity work smoothly and effectively.

Is it possible to obtain drafts from OPG at this point. I believe that back in July on a call, it was mentioned that the next step was to ask for these drafts so that we can better understand how the proposed guarantee will fit with the proposed program documents. It's not possible to actually draft a guarantee without seeing these documents. Drafting provisions that contains "discriminatory action" type language can be difficult to ensure that there are no unforeseen consequences and that the Province's intent is captured.

It would also be helpful to find out a bit more about the timing as the briefing note mentions a TB decision in September to approve the guarantee. Is a TB submission being drafted as it would be helpful to see a draft of this as well.

I will pass on my general comments to Energy Legal and Steve as well. I understand that Scott's group is the business contact and I believe that there were Energy policy staff involved in some of the earlier calls and meetings as well.

Perhaps it might be helpful to schedule a meeting for next week to discuss the various comments on this. If in the meantime, there is any more background or you are able to obtain draft agreements, this would be helpful.

Thanks.

Hi all,

We have received comments back on the term sheet from Steve Ashbourne, the Province's external counsel, and think it would be helpful to have an internal Provincial meeting to review the comments on the draft. On the legal side, it might be helpful to get some more insight into how the proposed guarantee and warehouse facility are to work from a business perspective. In addition, we are awaiting further draft documents that set the context and describe what is to be guaranteed as I understand that Torys (OPG's counsel) has been working on these.

It would be helpful to coordinate such a meeting soon with the appropriate Provincial representatives.

Thanks.

Hi Ken,

Thanks for the additional information. I have already sent the draft to Energy Legal and will send it to Steve Ashbourne this morning.

Here are my very high level preliminary comments on this. This appears to be a fresh document drafted by OPG and its counsel after the meeting in July and then further business discussion since then. There are no track changes in this document, but I compared it to the version the Province sent to OPG on June 22nd and there are quite a few differences.

- The last sentence in the opening italics that "the arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate" has been deleted.
- It has been changed back to a guarantee from an indemnity.
- The Guarantee Activation Events have been expanded to include 5 as it seems that it has been restructured so that some of what was previously in the "performance" guarantee is added into (E), i.e. IESO's role.
- Concept of "materiality" has been deleted for (B) and (D).
- A concept of "any other discriminatory action including OEB Orders has been introduced.
- The Guarantee wording includes the word "assume" as opposed to just "pay".
- Also, the guarantee has reverted to some of the very general wording that the Province is guarantee "all of the obligations of the Financing Entity" not just the debt obligations. These include any other obligation of the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (such as trustees, auditors, etc), rating agencies and any fees due to the securities commission??
- Approval requirement has been changed so that Province does not have right to approve any specific guarantee of funding obligations or set of documents before the guarantee is applied as long as documents are consistent – but who decides?
- Also the second portion called Warehousing Takeout Risk and Servicing – it's mentioned that this is for information purposes only as these risk were included in previous versions – current proposals described here and it doesn't contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks. I would say perhaps similar risks might have been dealt with but this section looks new and I don't' understand what the Province's role is in providing these assurances. Legal would need more background on how this is supposed to work.

The authority for the Province's guarantee is contained in s. 5(3) of the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 and requires an OIC to authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province to agree to guarantee/indemnity obligations associated with an investment interest. The LGIC may delegate to the Ministers to determine the terms and conditions of the guarantee and the maximum liability for the guarantee or may also specify this in the OIC. Given that it appears there will be multiple debt issuances as part of this financing program of the Financing Entity, we will have to determine how best to approach the drafting of the OIC and the guarantee in the context of this debt program. So far, we have not received any draft documents for the program such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc and as a result it is difficult to provide comments on the term sheet and in particular scope of the guarantee and how the province's approval of the terms and conditions might work in order to make the debt financing program of the Financing Entity work smoothly and effectively.

Is it possible to obtain drafts from OPG at this point. I believe that back in July on a call, it was mentioned that the next step was to ask for these drafts so that we can better understand how the proposed guarantee will fit with the proposed program documents. It's not possible to actually draft a guarantee without seeing these documents. Drafting provisions that contains "discriminatory action" type language can be difficult to ensure that there are no unforeseen consequences and that the Province's intent is captured.

It would also be helpful to find out a bit more about the timing as the briefing note mentions a TB decision in September to approve the guarantee. Is a TB submission being drafted as it would be helpful to see a draft of this as well.

I will pass on my general comments to Energy Legal and Steve as well. I understand that Scott's group is the business contact and I believe that there were Energy policy staff involved in some of the earlier calls and meetings as well.

Perhaps it might be helpful to schedule a meeting for next week to discuss the various comments on this. If in the meantime, there is any more background or you are able to obtain draft agreements, this would be helpful.

Thanks.

Malle

Hi Mike, who's working on the OPG guarantee while you're away? I'm at a meeting with Energy and Steen came up to me quite concerned to say that the latest version they saw from OPG and Tories was for quite a broad guarantee, including a make whole provision. If that's the case, it doesn't sound like they've taken on our comments and our unwillingness to provide a make whole, or a put, or any structure that could expose to the Province to having to make a multi-billion dollar payment rather than just stepping having to step in to replace OPG's coupon and principal payment obligations when they come due.

Thanks,

Please find attached, for your review and comment, a draft OIC authorizing the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Energy to give a guarantee/indemnity under the Fair Hydro Plan Act.

This draft gives a lot of authority to the Ministers to determine the scope and content of the guarantee. It would be helpful to consider whether additional terms and conditions (including a maximum amount or other limitations) should be included.

WHEREAS pursuant to subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act"), the Lieutenant Governor in Council may by order authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest as described under the Act;

AND WHEREAS pursuant to subsection 22(2) of the Act, Ontario Power Generation Inc. as financial services manager, may establish or cause to be established one or more financing entities (a "Financing Entity") that may incur funding obligations in connection with investment interests;

AND WHEREAS it is considered desirable to authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance to agree to guarantee or indemnify debts, obligations, securities or undertakings of a Financing Entity associated with investment interests acquired by a Financing Entity;

NOW THEREFORE:

1. Pursuant to subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of Ontario, are authorized to enter into one or more agreements to guarantee or indemnify the debts, obligations securities or undertakings of a Financing Entity associated with investment interests acquired by a Financing Entity. [NTD: This mirrors the wording of the section so doesn't scope the guarantee in any way except by relating it to a Financing Entity.]

[Should the OIC narrow the scope of the guarantee? principal/interest/penalties/costs/ expenses/other obligations such as fees to service providers and payments under derivatives agreements? Some more specificity may be desirable here – usually the Province guarantees payment of principal and interest only, not penalties or other costs on debt securities and loans. We should consider whether the OIC needs to specify if guaranteeing payments on other agreements other than debt securities issued or loans taken out, understanding that a broader form of guarantee may be desired in this case. Fees payable to service providers and derivatives counterparties would generally be established under separate agreements although they are referenced in the waterfall provisions in the master trust indenture.]

2. The Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of Ontario are authorized to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee and indemnity authorized under paragraph 1 of this Order, [provided that the maximum aggregate [principal amount] guaranteed/[maximum liability] shall not exceed $XX.] [NTD: Need to determine whether maximum amount will be inserted here or the two Ministers will determine maximum liability in guarantee agreement].

Hi Ron,

I just wanted to touch base on the status of the TB submission before you're off next week.

As it stands, once you're done with your review, I'll distribute the latest copy to Anthony, and once he's commented distribute it to the wider group next week.

I also wanted to ask about the FHP briefing for the energy Minister on Tuesday. Gadi mentioned that if no one else is available I could attend on behalf of the OFA, which I'm happy to do. However, if there is someone more senior who you'd like to attend as well, please let me know.

Thanks,

Hi Ron,

As promised, here is the latest version for your review.

The only comments we've received so far are from Malle, but they are mostly general and I was unsure how to translate them into specific edits given my unfamiliarity with this file.

Before she left Anna gave me some direction on who I could follow up with to address Malle's various points. I've followed up, but the responses I've received are essentially "TBD/ still under review". I've left comments in the margins indicating each individual response.

Please let me know if you have any questions and what I can do to help going forward.

Hi Ron,

No, Anna has not sent any feedback to Malle from Gadi.

My plan is to follow up on the feedback Malle has provided with a variety of parties (Anna left a list) send the draft over to you for review, share it with Anthony Reiss in corporate and then distribute it to the wider distribution group after that.

Please let me know if that sounds like a reasonable approach to you.

Hi Malle

Sorry for the delay in responding to your questions. First can you pls share the revised term sheet with Steven Ashbourne for his comments. Secondly, following protocol I have requested OPG to forward the same document to Energy Legal who may then reach out to you for consolidated comments.

With regard to business decisions from the last version: OPG and their advisors have removed any obligation on the part of the Province to either accelerate payments on the outstanding debt or pay a 1% premium in case the guarantee is invoked. The debt guarantee is now palatable from the Province's perspective and subject to Legal review of not only the Term Sheet but the draft guarantee document once we receive same from OPG, we are recommending provincial approval.

The servicing guarantee has now been restated as an IESO obligation requiring the Operator to either provide an Letter of Credit or assume responsibility for any shortfalls in the CEA arising from lower than investment grade/Non rated LDCs failing to remit their collections, for whatever reason, once the CEA kicks in

IESO is not comfortable with this requirement and is regrouping internally to respond, OPG has also agreed to examine other potential solutions for this issue. I am attaching a summary sheet that you may find useful, that outlines the issues in the Term Sheet and our responses.

Pls note that I have expanded the cc's to this email since I will on vacation starting tomorrow to Labour Day.

Thanks

so I wouldn't think he'd have reviewed this new version either -- Ken, your sense on that?

Hi Ken,

Thank you for passing on the draft. I should send this on to Energy Legal as well in case they have not received it yet. Do you know if Steve Ashbourne of Blakes has been reviewing the term sheet recently and been involved in discussions on this?

This is the first version of the term sheet that we have received since it was sent over to OPG on late June. After that there was a response from Torys dated June 30th with some high level comments on the revised term sheet and an internal Provincial call to discuss the Province's response. Subsequently there was a meeting of representatives of the Province and OPG on July 13th which Toby and also Tom McKinlay of Energy legal attended to discuss considerations regarding the guarantee. It looks like there have been some further discussions regarding the term sheet and understand that there may have been a meeting on the business side last week but MOF LSB was not asked to participate. In order to provide comments on this term sheet, it will be helpful for us to find out more about what the business discussions have been and what approach the Province wishes to take and also consult with Energy Legal and Blakes.

Is there a track changes version of this term sheet from June? Also, as I recall back in early July, we were going to ask OPG to provide to us some of the more detailed documents and drafts that would be associated with this guarantee such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc. Do you know if OPG has shared any of that with the Province?

Thanks.

Ron and John one section particularly for your review, the Takeout Risk at the end of the Term Sheet indicates the link between the clean energy adjustment and the fair allocation amount as they impact the Takeout risk. I am not very clear about this so you may want to review this closely.

Hi John

Just to follow up on Andrew Maciel's commitment to provide us with a revised term sheet for the guarantee reflecting yesterday's discussion, I was wondering if that can be done EOD Monday. I had a chat with Gadi and given some upcoming internal meetings at senior levels it would be helpful to provide the revised guarantee in front of decision makers.

Thanks

Memorandum

To: Her Majesty the Queen in Right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (the "Province")

Date: August 30, 2017

From: Ontario Power Generation Inc.

Subject: Acceleration of Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act Obligations

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, clean energy adjustments are designed to recover the "funding obligations" and "finance amounts" (as defined in the Act and regulations thereunder, respectively, collectively referred to as the "Obligations") that become due during a reference period (each generally a six month period). This means that if there is an event of default under the master trust indenture (the "Indenture") that is not or cannot be cured, the full amount of the accelerated Obligations may become due and payable and be included in the calculation of the clean energy adjustments for the next reference period. Furthermore, it is likely that all funding obligations will be cross-defaulted to each other, so acceleration of one series of funding obligations will likely result in acceleration of all funding obligations. Accordingly, electricity rates for specified consumers would be set at a rate for a six-month period that would result in repayment in full of all outstanding and accelerated Obligations. On the assumption that all interested parties would like to avoid such a scenario, we have discussed with the dealers the following as an approach in the context of an event of default:

1. Upon the occurrence of a Default under the Indenture (being an event which, with the passage of time or giving of notice could become an Event of Default), the Province would have the following rights:

(a) a right to receive written notice from the trustee under the Indenture (at the same time that such trustee provides a notice to the financing entity through OPG as the manager) that a Default has occurred;

(b) in the event of the occurrence of an Event of Default that is not based upon the occurrence of a Default followed by a cure period (such as insolvency of the financing entity), a right to receive written notice from the trustee under the Indenture that an Event of Default has occurred; and

(c) a right to cure the Default or the Event of Default, as the case may be, within a specified cure period, which will run concurrently with any cure period available under the Indenture with respect to the applicable Event of Default.

2. The Indenture will provide that notwithstanding the occurrence of an Event of Default, the Obligations may not be accelerated until the expiry of the cure period available to the Province. If the Default or Event of Default in question cannot be cured by the Province on behalf of the financing entity within this cure period, then the Province will have the option to "cure" and avoid acceleration of the Obligations by assuming those Obligations. This option would be set out in the provincial protection and assurances agreement. In such circumstances, as in the case of a change of law, the Fair Hydro program would be discontinued and the Obligations owing under the program would be those of the Province.

Hi Matt,

They seemed to have picked up similar text to the draft TB submission that Anna had circulated, which we had some wording suggestions on. Suggesting conforming edits to the slides would make sense.

I'd suggest a slide on the provision in the Act for the LGIC to authorise the two ministers, acting together, to provide guarantees and indemnities, subject to terms and conditions. It would help remind the Minister of Energy that he'd be signing things too (presumably the OIC submission and the agreement(s) (and what about the TB submission too?).

Also, I would suggest that the slide on the IESO and LC note that the proposal was from OPG and the IESO was going to review the proposal (unless Keley has now heard back from the IESO and the option is fine with them?).

Generally, then, it might be good to note the work-in-progress status.

And the next steps should include the requirement to go to LRC and Cabinet for the OIC too.

Also, is IGB planning on sharing this with MOF DMO, or Energy DMO, or both?

CONFIDENTIAL & COMMERCIALLY SENSITIVE

Background

- The Ontario Fair Hydro Act, 2017, enables the IESO to create a regulatory asset approximately equal to the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators
    - The IESO can then sell the regulatory asset and has the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future
    - OPG as the Financial Services Manager is authorized to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations
    - The Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from ratepayers
- To purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds from capital markets
    - OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable
- OPG has requested that the Province provide a guarantee to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity

Provincial Guarantee

- Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Guarantee, including:
  - Decisions by the Legislative Assembly, i.e., repeal of the Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity
  - A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable
  - Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO adversely impacting the Financing Entity
- In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province would take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers [Comment from OPG: I think the assumption should be that the Province services the debt and service providers rather than replacing the debt with Provincial debt. Similarly, service providers would continue on except for maybe OPG as FSM but the Province already has that ability so there is nothing additional required.]
- The guarantee would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged
- The guarantee may need to be revised at a future date, or approval from the Province may be required, if the financing entity must access US market as investors in that market will likely require additional compensation if the guarantee is triggered

Considerations

- If a guarantee is not provided, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be
- If a guarantee is provided, the Province takes on a contingent liability
  - The creation of a contingent liability will not currently affect net debt
  - The amount of the liability will increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated [$24B to $26B (TBC)] of debt principal, along with associated interest payments
- In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province's net debt will most likely increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability at that point in time
  - The Province's interest payments will also increase by an amount equal to the weighted average cost of the debt it has assumed is servicing under the guarantee

Events Not Covered by the Provincial Guarantee

Short Term Debt Financing Takeout Risk

- Monthly purchases by the financing entity would initially be financed using short term debt as the financing entity needs to warehouse a larger amount for efficient execution in the term debt markets
    - Short term debt providers are exposed to the risk that takeout funding is not available in term debt markets for a period of time
    - The structure of the warehousing is subject to change
- If this short term debt is not repaid by the end of the short term debt facility commitment this risk would be addressed through an escalation of the pricing of such short term debt:
    - Interest rate for short term debt increases by a specified amount at the time of the event until the moratorium period ends [OPG COMMENT: Interest rate continues to increase every 6 months and is not related to ending of moratorium period. At end of moratorium period if the short term debt is paid off then there is no issue. However, if short term debt continues to be outstanding then rate should continue to increase until fully repaid]
    - Thereafter, interest rate increases by a further specified amount for every additional 6 month interval during which the short term debt remains unpaid

Events Not Covered by Provincial Guarantee

LDC Comingling Risk

- Clean Energy Adjustment amounts will be collected from consumers by LDCs and held until remitted to the IESO / financing entity
    - For any LDC which is not rated by rating agencies which are rating the funding obligations, the agencies will require these LDCs to remit collections daily, unless a mitigation strategy is in place
- The majority of LDCs are not rated and it would be cost prohibitive to establish ratings for these entities; 10 LDCs are collectively rated by S&P, DBRS and Moody's
    - It is estimated that LDCs not rated by any agency deliver power to ~25% of the Ontario electricity market
- This risk could be addressed through providing the financing entity with a letter of credit:
    - Amount of letter of credit is approximately one to two months estimated collections from all unrated or non-investment grade LDCs
    - Letter of credit to be provided by the IESO on behalf of the LDCs
    - Cost of the letter of credit and any amounts drawn can be recovered by the IESO through the Global Adjustment
- Alternatively, this risk may be addressed by the IESO depositing funds into a reserve account for a similar amount or the IESO contractually agreeing to assume responsibility for paying the CEA amounts required to be remitted by such LDCs

Approvals

- [NEW SLIDE]

Next Steps

- Continue to work through outstanding issues related to the provincial guarantee
- Finalize draft term sheet, working with OPG / OFA / MOF / Legal / Dealers
- Ministry of Finance to seek necessary approvals from TB / MBC
- Seek LRC / Cabinet approval for OIC

Hi John,

We should mark this up. It seems to have drawn from Anna`s draft TB submission, without, of course, the markup changes I'd be recommending to Matt.

Provincial Guarantee

DRAFT – Thursday August 24th, 2017

CONFIDENTIAL & COMMERCIALLY SENSITIVE

Background

- The Ontario Fair Hydro Act, 2017, enables the IESO to establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account
    - The IESO can then sell the regulatory asset – the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future
    - OPG, as the Financial Services Manager, is authorized to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations
    - The Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from ratepayers
- To purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds from capital markets (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province)
    - OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable or would result in higher financing costs, to be passed on to ratepayers
- OPG has requested that the Province provide a guarantee to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity

Provisions Under the Act

- As contemplated under the Act, OPG is requesting a Provincial Guarantee to support the planned Financing Entity's ability to borrow to finance the deferral of global adjustment amounts
- Under s.5(3) of the OFHP Act,
  - The LGIC may by order,
    - Authorize the Minister (of Energy) and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,
      - To agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
      - To determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity
    - Specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance
    - Specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity

Provincial Guarantee

- Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Guarantee, including:
    - Decisions by the Legislative Assembly, i.e., repeal of the Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity
    - A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable
    - Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO adversely impacting the Financing Entity
- In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province would take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers
    - The Province would service the debt and service providers rather than replace the debt with Provincial debt but could replace OPG as the financial services manager
- The guarantee would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged
- The guarantee may need to be revised at a future date, or approval from the Province may be required, if the financing entity must access US market as investors in that market will likely require additional compensation if the guarantee is triggered
- Additional details, including terms and conditions to be specified by the LGIC in an Order-In-Council (OIC), or by the Ministers, need to be settled on, as the approvals process proceeds

Considerations

- If a guarantee is not provided, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be
- OPCD will need to review the details of the proposed Provincial Guarantee to be provided for any accounting implications
    - E.g., an unlimited Provincial Guarantee may cause the debt to be treated as Provincial debt
- If a guarantee is provided, the Province takes on a contingent liability
    - The creation of a contingent liability will not currently affect net debt
    - The amount of the liability will increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan
        - The most recent estimate for total debt to be financed by a financing entity would be in the range of $11 billion (assuming a 5% interest rate)
- In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province's net debt will most likely increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability at that point in time
    - The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the guarantee

Next Steps

- Continue to work through outstanding issues related to the provincial guarantee
- Finalize draft term sheet, working with OPG / OFA / MOF / Legal / Dealers
- Ministry of Finance to seek necessary approvals from TB / MBC
- Seek LRC / Cabinet approval for OIC
    - The term sheet would inform a proposed OIC
        - Whether to include a maximum liability amount would need to be considered in developing the TB submission and the request for the OIC
- The guarantee agreement would need to be drafted in accordance with the OIC

Subject: RE: Draft Provincial Guarantee Deck for Minister of Energy Briefing

Hi Toby,
Thanks for these comments. We had provided an initial draft to ENERGY legal to review but have not received any comments. We are planning to make it clear at the briefing that this is a work in progress.

Keley,

I have attached some comments. Because it is a powerpoint, there are no track changes.

I have some larger concerns. The current proposal in the draft term sheet is based on the proposal of OPG and the Dealers, and there are a number of issues with the new way that it is structured. I think the materials need to reflect the contingent nature and the fact that some of these points are still subject to negotiation. For instance, the recent version of the term sheet collapses the former "performance guarantee" of the Province with respect to the IESO to a change in law type of provision, which may be acceptable after some more consideration and negotiation, but is a new concept that has not been discussed between the parties. This is one of several issues that is still up for negotiation and may change significantly from the current form.

In addition, I have changed the use of "guarantee" to "support agreement" to reflect the limited and contingent nature of the Province's obligations.

I also wonder, if given that the presentation is to the Minister of Energy, that Energy legal should take a look as well.

Let me know if I can be of further assistance.

Best,
Toby

Subject: Draft Provincial Guarantee Deck for Minister of Energy Briefing

HI Toby,

We've been asked to brief the Minister of Energy on the Provincial Guarantee next week. Attached is a draft deck developed with input from the OFA. We are hoping you can review and provide any comments you may have by mid-day tomorrow so that we can finalize and send to ENERGY for weekend review.

Happy to discuss if you have any questions.

Thanks,
Keley

Provincial Support Agreement

DRAFT – Thursday August 24th, 2017

CONFIDENTIAL & COMMERCIALLY SENSITIVE

Background

- The Ontario Fair Hydro Act, 2017, enables the IESO to establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account
    - The IESO can then sell the regulatory asset – the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future
    - OPG, as the Financial Services Manager, is authorized to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations
    - The Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from ratepayers
- To purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds from capital markets (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province)
    - OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable or would result in higher financing costs, to be passed on to ratepayers
- OPG has requested that the Province provide a support agreement that supports the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would guarantee the repayment of the funding obligations of the Financing Entity

- As contemplated under the Act, OPG is requesting a Provincial commitment to support the planned Financing Entity's ability to borrow to finance the deferral of global adjustment amounts in certain limited circumstances
- Under s.5(3) of the OFHP Act,
  - The LGIC may by order,
    - Authorize the Minister (of Energy) and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,
      - To agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
      - To determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity
    - Specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance
    - Specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity

Provincial Support Agreement

- Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial support, including:
  - Decisions by the Legislative Assembly, i.e., repeal of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity
  - A court decision that declares the rights of the Financing Entity to recover amounts from ratepayers to be invalid or unenforceable
  - Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO adversely impacting the Financing Entity
- In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province may take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers
  - The Province could potentially service the debt and service providers rather than replace the debt with Provincial debt and could replace OPG as the financial services manager
- The support agreement may need to be revised at a future date, or approval from the Province may be required, if the financing entity must access US market as investors in that market will likely require additional compensation if the guarantee is triggered
- Additional details, including terms and conditions to be specified by the LGIC in an Order-In-Council (OIC), or by the Ministers, need to be settled on, as the approvals process proceeds

Considerations

- If a support agreement is not provided, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from the IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be
- OPCD will need to review the details of the proposed Provincial support agreement for any accounting implications
    - E.g., an unlimited Provincial guarantee would cause the debt to be treated as Provincial debt
- If a support agreement is provided, the Province takes on a contingent liability
    - The creation of a contingent liability will not currently affect net debt
    - The amount of the liability will increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan
        - The most recent estimate for total debt to be financed by a financing entity would be in the range of $11 billion (assuming a 5% interest rate)
- In the event the support agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt will most likely increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability at that point in time
    - The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the support agreement

Next Steps

- Continue to work through outstanding issues related to the provincial support agreement
- Negotiate draft term sheet, working with OPG / OFA / MOF / Legal / Dealers
- Ministry of Finance to seek necessary approvals from TB / MBC
- Seek LRC / Cabinet approval for OIC
    - The term sheet would inform a proposed OIC
        - Whether to include a maximum liability amount would need to be considered in developing the TB submission and the request for the OIC
- The support agreement would need to be drafted in accordance with the OIC

Subject: Draft Provincial Support Agreement

Hi John,

Please see the attached markup of the Provincial Support Agreement. This has been reviewed by lawyers and policy folks from Energy, MoF, OFA and TBS. Please treat this as an early draft designed to spur discussion. It takes some concepts up a level as we felt that some of the detail in the OPG draft should be settled once the specific loan documents were available for review.

I would suggest we find time to regroup with appropriate people to discuss once we are through regulation approvals next week.

Thanks and have a good weekend,

Scott

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate.

Servicing Guarantees
Servicing Guarantor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Beneficiaries:	Each Financing Entity that owns an investment interest from time to time. A Financing Entity may grant a security interest over its rights and interests under a Servicing Guarantee to its creditors and contractual counterparties, including any indenture trustee acting on behalf of itself and other persons having debt or other claims against the Financing Entity that are secured under a related trust indenture.

[1] This draft term sheet is intended for discussion purposes only and does not represent a commitment of any party. Any agreement or undertaking of the Province contemplated in this term sheet may only be made either (a) with the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council as contemplated in subsection 5(2) of the Act or (b) under, and subject to, an order made by the Lieutenant Governor in Council as contemplated in subsection 5(3) of the Act.

Servicing Guarantee:	Pursuant to a Servicing Guarantee, the Servicing Guarantor will guarantee the performance, or cause the performance, of the obligations of IESO as servicer under the Act and under any agreement under which the applicable Financing Entity acquires an investment interest from IESO and IESO undertakes on-going obligations in respect of such investment interest, including servicing obligations undertaken by IESO to enforce the performance by electricity vendors of their respective obligations under the Act. It is anticipated that such obligations will include matters related to the billing, collection and remittance of clean energy adjustments by IESO and electricity vendors, as the case may be, and regarding the commingling by IESO and electricity vendors of collections of clean energy adjustments with other amounts. In the event that the Servicing Guarantee is held to be unenforceable against the Servicing Guarantor, the Servicing Guarantee will contemplate, in the alternative, a functionally equivalent direct covenant of the Servicing Guarantor.
Term:	The Servicing Guarantor's obligations under a Servicing Guarantee in respect of a Financing Entity will continue during the term of any obligation incurred by the Financing Entity that is or is intended to be secured by the Servicing Guarantee.
Satisfaction of a Servicing Guarantee:	The Servicing Guarantor will have the option to satisfy its obligations under a Servicing Guarantee by paying when due the amounts that would be remitted to the applicable Financing Entity as if IESO and each electricity vendor had complied with its obligations under the Act and under any agreement under which the applicable Financing Entity acquires an investment interest from IESO and IESO undertakes on-going obligations in respect of such investment interest.
Approval Requirement:	The servicing obligations (including any amendments) to which the Servicing Guarantee relates, together with the provisions of any Servicing Guarantee itself, will be subject to the approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Limits under Servicing Guarantee:	Under no circumstances shall the Servicing Guarantor be obligated to pay consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.

Indemnity
Indemnitor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together, or an entity owned by the Province of Ontario whose indemnity obligations, as contemplated by this Term Sheet, are in turn unconditionally guaranteed by the Province of Ontario.
Indemnitees:	Each Financing Entity that owns an investment interest from time to time. A Financing Entity may grant a security interest over the Indemnity to specified creditors, including to an indenture trustee under a trust indenture on behalf of itself and other persons having debt or other claims against the Financing Entity secured under the trust indenture.
Indemnity of the Province:	The Indemnitor will indemnify each Indemnitee for its costs, expenses and losses reasonably incurred by the Indemnitee because of third party claims made against the Indemnitee by one or more of its specified creditors that result from any of the following: (A) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repealing (and not replacing on an equivalent basis) the Act; (B) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario amending the Act or a Regulation made thereunder in a way that materially and adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest; or (C) a court of competent jurisdiction in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act is ultra vires in a way that materially and adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest.
Term:	An Indemnity will continue during the term of any obligation incurred by a Financing Entity that is or is intended to be secured by the Indemnity.

Satisfaction of an Indemnity:	The Indemnitor will have the option to satisfy its obligations under an Indemnity in respect of a funding obligation by: (x) assuming and paying when due (without acceleration) the regularly scheduled amounts due and payable in respect of the funding obligation during the term and to the extent of the applicable Financing Entity's contractual obligations thereunder; or (y) causing the acceleration of the funding obligation and paying the outstanding amount owing thereunder in full, including in the case of debt instruments issued by the applicable Financing Entity by causing the redemption of the debt instruments and paying an amount equal to the then outstanding principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest up to the date of payment (without any default, penalty, prepayment or make whole premium).
Approval Requirement:	The terms and conditions of the obligations incurred by a Financing Entity that are secured or intended to be secured by an Indemnity, together with the provisions of any Indemnity itself, will be subject to the approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Limits under Indemnity:	Under no circumstances shall the Indemnitor be obligated to indemnify any Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.
Undertakings regarding Certain Mismatches
Addressing Mismatches	If a Financing Entity proposes to incur one or more funding obligations that would require the Financing Entity to pay an aggregate amount during any reference period that would exceed the amount otherwise expected to be available to the Financing Entity during the reference period from its investment interests to pay such amounts (a "Mismatch"), the Financing Entity will, before incurring such funding obligations, undertake commercially reasonable efforts to arrange for commitments from highly creditworthy, market-based funding sources in accordance with the Financing Plan to enable it to satisfy its related payment obligations and thereby address any Mismatch.

Possible Undertaking to Fund Mismatches	If a Financing Entity is unable to arrange for commitments from one or more highly creditworthy, market-based funding sources in accordance with the Financing Plan to address a Mismatch on commercially reasonable terms and conditions, the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together may undertake on behalf of the Province of Ontario to provide funding commitments to the extent necessary to provide the Financing Entity with required funding to address the Mismatch. Any such undertaking would be provided at or before the incurrence of the funding obligation that would otherwise result in the Mismatch and, if given, would be on such terms, including appropriate compensation to the Province of Ontario, and be subject to such conditions (for example and without limitation, funding being conditional on the occurrence of a market disruption that results in the non-availability of capital markets term funding to effect a refinancing of the funding obligation) as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine are reasonable and appropriate in the circumstances. The decision to provide such an undertaking will be in the sole discretion of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance.
Documentation
Representations, Terms and Conditions:	Subject to approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
FIPPA:	Acknowledgement that the Servicing Guarantor and the Indemnitor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Servicing Guarantor or the Indemnitor, or any agent or representative of the Servicing Guarantor or the Indemnitor, in connection with the transaction documents may be subject to disclosure in accordance with that act or as otherwise required by law.
Confidentiality Obligations:	Confidentiality obligations of each Financing Entity and its assignees, representatives and agents as may be determined to be appropriate by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario.

Here's Ken's response, and my follow-up question to him as to why we can't do the borrowing to reduce the cost to ratepayers.

Thanks, Ken. The challenge that many on our side of the table have, including me, is that given the interest rate sensitivity of this program, we'd like to squeeze whatever excess costs we can out of it, and if we're guaranteeing the debt anyhow, why pay third party investors a premium?

I realize that the guarantee is, for now, only related to legislative changes, but that's the most likely, by far, potential point of failure of this structure, so I'd suggest that the risk transfer to third party investors is pretty limited if we have this guarantee. That being the case, I'm having trouble seeing why direct borrowing on on-lending by the Province would be treated differently from an accounting perspective than this guarantee would be, and am still wondering why we wouldn't be able to do the borrowing on your behalf?

We are looking at this now but I do not think we get a different accounting inclusion. The guarantee would not be related to performance of the trust but rather a material legislative change that would allow the trust to collect the GA and fulfil its obligations. We are looking at this now but believe the accounting works with this as one element of a 14 element test and focused on a specific change. We may issue over the paper for 130 and then need to confirm my view.

Hi Ken, we all had to rush off to our next meetings following our meeting this morning, so we didn't get a chance to have a discussion about why a Provincial guarantee of all of OPG's debt related to the trust isn't a problem for the accounting treatment that we'd need to get to in order to make the GA smoothing plan work, while direct borrowing and on-lending from the Province would be, if it's greater than 49% of the total borrowing (actually 44% in your current model).

From a capital markets, investor and rating agency perspective, the guarantee is extremely likely to be lumped in with the rest of the Province's debt, and the guaranteed debt would be considered just as much of a provincial obligation as the rest of our debt, particularly in this case where the reason that the guarantee is needed is because investors will demand it in order to protect themselves from legislative amendments by a future government. For that reason, it could be hard to justify, from a capital markets or cost perspective, having OPG borrowing in its own name with a government guarantee, so is it possible to revisit the potential accounting treatment and determine whether, now that we've effectively moved to a guaranteed structure, we could just have the Province, through the OFA or OEFC, do all of the borrowing and on-lend to OPG? Is this something that you'd been planning to address in the accounting material that you're sending over today?

Thanks,
Gadi

Further to our discussion on the outstanding issues, please find below the comments from the Dealers on the "Markup" of the Provincial Protection and Assurance term sheet.
As noted below, the next step should be to get the appropriate parties from the Province to sit down with the dealers and OPG to go over the points and agree on a basis to move forward.
We should try to do that sometime next week. Let us know what times work on the Province side and we will coordinate with the Dealers & counsels.

John/Les/Ken,

Please find below an issues list on the Province's comments on the Provincial Protection and Assurances Term Sheet (formerly the Provincial Support Agreement). This list reflects input from the dealers, Oslers and Torys. Please let us know if you have any additional comments or questions. If not, will you be reaching out to the Province to schedule a meeting next week (with the dealers, OPG, the Province and their counsels) to discuss these points? The dealers and their counsel don't see value in exchanging further drafts of the term sheet until they have had an opportunity to meet with the Province. We agree with this approach and are happy to assist in coordinating a meeting for next week. It would also be helpful to hear the Province's rationale and concerns for making some of these changes. Please let us know.

Many thanks,
Nina

1. The Servicing Guarantee:

(a) It is written in favour of only the financing entity. However, in the MTSA, we are asking for covenants directly in favour of Indenture Trustee. The Indenture Trustee/specified creditors should have the direct benefit of the guarantee rather than relying on an indirect security interest in the servicing guarantee.

(b) It should be clarified that the servicing obligations of the electricity vendors are covered.

(c) If the guarantee is unenforceable, we should fall back to an indemnity, not a "functionally equivalent direct covenant" which is an uncertain concept.

(d) We don't want an exclusion for economic loss. That may cover whatever losses the specified creditors do suffer.

2. Change of Law.

(a) This should be written as a guarantee not an indemnity.

(b) It should be directly in favour of the Indenture Trustee/specified creditors and it should cover all the "finance amount" and not just funding obligations.

(c) We do not want the guarantee to be provided by another entity which is in turn guaranteed by Ontario. It should come directly from Ontario.

(d) There should be no "materiality" threshold for a claim. If obligations are not paid in full, then there should be a claim.

(e) The choice to assume or accelerate should be at the option of the holders, not the guarantor.

(f) If accelerated, then the 1% premium should be payable. This is a voluntary termination by the Province.

3. Undertaking Regarding Mismatches (market disruption)

(a) At best this structure defers the discussion of protection for a market disruption. At worst, it is impractical that take-out financing needs to be arranged in advance of each warehouse financing. We should rely on a definition of market disruption.

4. Approvals.

(a) Province to clarify what is contemplated under the heading "Approval Requirement". Is Province proposing to approve any obligation incurred by the Financing Entity?

(b) Approval under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act to be attained (in case the OFHPA is declared void in its entirety).

Hi Scott

I had to leave a little early for the tele conference, I believe that Gadi did make this point, however, we just want to reiterate it. We are not in favour of the acceleration option residing in the hands of the bondholders. As a matter of fact removing it entirely is acceptable, if it has to stay the ability to exercise has to be limited to the Province.

Assuming the option remains at the discretion of the Province, the 1% premium should be removed. Hopefully you can pass this on to Stephen for inclusion in any feedback to OPG. If there is no feedback intended at this time and the decision is to meet with OPG on the indemnity, we can make these points at the meeting.

Thanks

Thanks. Has TD seen this, or commented on it? The make whole provision, rather than just moving the outstanding bonds up to being provincial debt could be extremely expensive if the guarantee is triggered and exercised.

I assume the challenge to the rating is that we're not AAA, so the debt would be downgraded to our level, but this shows the flaw in the ratings methodology, because why would you want a guarantee from someone who is supposedly less credit worthy? This is definitely, in my mind, worth pushing back on.

Gadi

Hey John, Ken,

Further to our discussion earlier today, please see the note below which outlines our collective views on the Provincial guarantee that would be required for the Fair Hydro Program. Happy to discuss further.

There are two types of “guarantees” that we are looking for from the Province in relation to this program on the basis that any debt issued under the Fair Hydro Program will be AAA-rated. In addition, the following is based on the understanding that the transition charges collected from prescribed consumers will begin upon the commencement of the program and will not be subject to any cap or restrictions.

The legislation must include a specific reference to the Province being required to provide a guarantee on debt repayment and servicing in certain circumstances.

The first is “Springing Guarantee”, which would be via a legal agreement put in place when establishing the program and would require the Province to step in and assume responsibility for paying all amounts that are or become due in respect of (i) any of the outstanding funding obligations; (ii) the operation and maintenance of the financing entity; and (iii) any other amounts due in relation to the program that have not yet been paid (collectively, the “Fair Hydro Program Costs”). This Springing Guarantee would kick in should any of the following happen:

(1) There is any change in the legislation or regulations that is, or could be, adverse to finance entity noteholders or the legislation is determined to be ultra vires. In this situation, the Springing Guarantee would require the immediate repayment of all Fair Hydro Program Costs (including any makewhole prepayment obligations).

(2) There is a market disruption (i.e. there is a period of time when capital markets term funding is not available to take out the warehouse facilities (bank facility or ABCP)). In this situation, either (i) we start to charge ratepayers for principal recovery via transition charges; or (ii) the Province must be responsible for the immediate repayment of those warehouse facilities.

The period of time that must lapse before this Springing Guarantee becomes applicable with respect to the warehouse facilities can be set to accommodate a short term dislocation in the term funding market (6-18 months). We would note that depending on the size of the warehouse facility, if there is no term takeout for an extended period of time, it is likely that the warehouse facilities will also quickly reach their credit limits and the province would likely have to fund any future shortfalls if they wished to continue the program.

To the extent that the Springing Guarantee does not require the Province to make the repayment contemplated under scenario (1), but simply requires the Province to repay the debt in accordance with its original repayment terms, this may adversely impact the rating of the Fair Hydro Program.

The second type of guarantee we are looking for from the province is a performance guarantee. This is not a credit guarantee. The performance guarantee would require the Province to stand behind certain obligations of the Servicer (initially IESO) in the program. This performance guarantee would be included as part of the Securitization documents for the program. It would, amongst other things, require the province to stand behind (including taking responsibility for helping remedy any breaches in) the representations, warranties, or covenants made by the servicer. It would also require the province to ensure that the servicer performs its servicing activities as set out in the securitization documents and if it does not, put in place an alternative servicer who would perform those servicing activities. The performance guarantee would also include standing behind any indemnities that may be owing by the servicer.

Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") is provided exclusively to the parties listed herein in connection with the draft Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial support agreement (the "Provincial Support Agreement") will contain the terms and conditions set out in this Term Sheet in addition to such other representations, warranties, indemnities, and other terms and conditions as the Guarantor and the Beneficiaries (each as defined below) may reasonably require.

Guarantor:	Her Majesty the Queen in right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Energy.
Beneficiaries:	The indenture trustee (together with its successors, the "Indenture Trustee") under the master trust indenture (the "Master Trust Indenture") on behalf of itself and all other persons having debt or other claims against a Financing Entity secured under the Master Trust Indenture (collectively, the "Beneficiaries") including, without limitation, holders of senior and subordinated notes, senior and subordinated lenders, hedge counterparties, credit enhancers, liquidity providers, the Financial Services Manager, the Indenture Trustee, the trustee of the Financing Entity if the Financing Entity is a trust, and any other administrator of the Financing Entity.
Term:	The Guarantor's obligations under the Provincial Support Agreement will continue until [one year][1] after all funding obligations (to be defined to include principal, interest, fees, hedge settlement and termination obligations and other related amounts) of all Financing Entities have been repaid.

[1] This mirrors the requirement expected to be in the Regulations under the Act not to wind up, dissolve or liquidate a Financing Entity until at least one year after all of its Funding Obligations have been repaid.

Performance Guarantee:	Under the Master Sale and Servicing Agreement to be entered into by IESO and the Financing Entity, [and OPG as Financial Services Manager] ("MSSA"), IESO will have obligations both as a seller and as a servicer. Pursuant to a performance guarantee, the Guarantor will guarantee in favour of the Beneficiaries to perform, or cause the performance of (which may be by way of the appointment of a replacement servicer), the obligations of IESO as servicer under the MSSA and the Act including the obligations of any replacement servicer. The Guarantor will also guarantee the servicing obligations of the electricity vendors under the Act. The servicing obligations covered will include all obligations related to the collecting and remitting of clean energy adjustments and will protect the Beneficiaries from any risks arising from collections of clean energy adjustments being commingled with other amounts. In the event that the performance guarantee is unenforceable against the Guarantor, the Provincial Support Agreement will contemplate a separate legal obligation by the Guarantor to indemnify the Beneficiaries for any losses that result.
Payment Guarantee Event:	A Payment Guarantee Event will occur if: (A) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repeals the Act; or (B) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario amends the Act or a Regulation thereunder is amended in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all funding obligations and other obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest; or (C) a court of competent jurisdiction (i) determines all or a portion of the Act to be ultra vires in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all funding obligations and other obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest or (ii) declares any funding obligations to be invalid or unenforceable; or (D) funding obligations are due and payable at a time when a market disruption (a period of [six months or more] when capital markets term funding is not available to effect refinancings of funding obligations) is occurring and, in the case of long term funding obligations only, a moratorium or limitation on the imposition and collection of clean energy adjustments to repay such funding obligations is in effect under the Act.

Payment Guarantee:	Upon the occurrence of a Payment Guarantee Event under clauses (A), (B) or (C) of the above definition: (x) the Guarantor shall assume and pay when due (without acceleration) all funding obligations and all other obligations of the Financing Entities to the Beneficiaries by paying all regularly scheduled amounts in respect thereof during the term of each Financing Entity's contractual obligation to such Beneficiaries; and (y) Beneficiaries holding funding obligations consisting of bonds [with a remaining term to maturity of greater than one year] shall have the option to put the bonds to the Financing Entity for a put price equal to 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest. In connection with any put under this clause (y), the Guarantor shall guarantee payment of the put price and any related hedge breakage but shall not be responsible for any other default, penalty, prepayment or make whole amounts.
Limits under Guarantees:	Under no circumstances shall the Guarantor be obligated to indemnify any Beneficiary for special or punitive damages, or loss of profits.
Priority of Payments:	The priority of the Beneficiaries to any payment made by the Guarantor under the Provincial Support Agreement shall be governed by the priority provisions in the Master Trust Indenture.
Subrogation:	Where the Guarantor has repaid all Beneficiaries in full, to the extent of such payments the Guarantor shall be subrogated in and to all the rights of recovery of the Beneficiaries in respect of their applicable indebtedness and obligations and the security granted by a Financing Entity to the Indenture Trustee. After repayment by the Guarantor of all indebtedness and obligations owing to the Beneficiaries, the Indenture Trustee will acknowledge and agree on behalf of the Beneficiaries that the Guarantor is entitled to exercise all of the rights, powers and privileges that the Beneficiaries have or may exercise in respect of the repaid indebtedness and obligations, all in accordance with the terms of the Master Trust Indenture. Prior to the repayment in full of the indebtedness and obligations owed to the Beneficiaries, the Guarantor shall have no rights of subrogation.
Notice Requirements:	The Indenture Trustee will be required to provide notice to the Guarantor of a Payment Guarantee Event and may in such notice demand payment or performance of the Guarantor's obligation under the Provincial Support Agreement, as applicable.

Closing:	Date to be determined but no later than [■, 2017]. The Closing is the date on which the documents in respect of the MSSA, the Master Trust Indenture and all related documentation are executed and delivered.
Reporting Requirements of a Financing Entity:	The Guarantor will be entitled to receive all reports received by the Indenture Trustee under the Master Trust Indenture.
Conditions Precedent to Closing:	Conditions precedent to Closing shall be those conditions set out in the Master Trust Indenture.[2]
Representations:	Customary representations and warranties of the Guarantor.
FIPPA:	Acknowledgement that the Guarantor is bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Guarantor or its agents or representatives in connection with the Transaction Documents may be subject to disclosure in accordance with that act or as otherwise required by law.
Confidentiality Obligations:	Customary confidentiality obligations to be negotiated and included. A Financing Entity and the Beneficiaries shall not, subject to applicable law, issue any press releases and other public announcements in respect of the Provincial Support Agreement without the prior written consent of the Guarantor.
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario

[2] Opinions on the validity and enforceability of Provincial Support Agreement will be required.

Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") is provided exclusively to the parties listed herein in connection with the draft Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial support agreement (the "Provincial Support Agreement") will contain the terms and conditions set out in this Term Sheet in addition to such other representations, warranties, indemnities, and other terms and conditions as the Guarantor and the Beneficiaries (each as defined below) may reasonably require.

Guarantor:	Her Majesty the Queen in right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Energy.
Beneficiaries:	The indenture trustee (together with its successors, the "Indenture Trustee") under the master trust indenture (the "Master Trust Indenture") on behalf of itself and all other persons having debt or other claims against a Financing Entity secured under the Master Trust Indenture (collectively, the "Beneficiaries") including, without limitation, holders of senior and subordinated notes, senior and subordinated lenders, hedge counterparties, credit enhancers, liquidity providers, the Financial Services Manager, the Indenture Trustee, the trustee of the Financing Entity if the Financing Entity is a trust, and any other administrator of the Financing Entity.
Term:	The Guarantor's obligations under the Provincial Support Agreement will continue until [one year][1] after all funding obligations (to be defined to include principal, interest, fees, hedge settlement and termination obligations and other related amounts) of all Financing Entities have been repaid.

[1] This mirrors the requirement expected to be in the Regulations under the Act not to wind up, dissolve or liquidate a Financing Entity until at least one year after all of its Funding Obligations have been repaid.

Performance Guarantee:	Under the Master Sale and Servicing Agreement to be entered into by IESO and the Financing Entity, [and OPG as Financial Services Manager] ("MSSA"), IESO will have obligations both as a seller and as a servicer. Pursuant to a performance guarantee, the Guarantor will guarantee in favour of the Beneficiaries to perform, or cause the performance of (which may be by way of the appointment of a replacement servicer), the obligations of IESO as servicer under the MSSA and the Act including the obligations of any replacement servicer. The Guarantor will also guarantee the servicing obligations of the electricity vendors under the Act. The servicing obligations covered will include all obligations related to the collecting and remitting of clean energy adjustments and will protect the Beneficiaries from any risks arising from collections of clean energy adjustments being commingled with other amounts. In the event that the performance guarantee is unenforceable against the Guarantor, the Provincial Support Agreement will contemplate a separate legal obligation by the Guarantor to indemnify the Beneficiaries for any losses that result.
Payment Guarantee Event:	A Payment Guarantee Event will occur if: (A) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repeals the Act; or (B) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario amends the Act or a Regulation thereunder is amended in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all funding obligations and other obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest; or (C) a court of competent jurisdiction (i) determines all or a portion of the Act to be ultra vires in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all funding obligations and other obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest or (ii) declares any funding obligations to be invalid or unenforceable; or (D) funding obligations are due and payable at a time when a market disruption (a period of [six months or more] when capital markets term funding is not available to effect refinancings of funding obligations) is occurring and, in the case of long term funding obligations only, a moratorium or limitation on the imposition and collection of clean energy adjustments to repay such funding obligations is in effect under the Act.

Payment Guarantee:	Upon the occurrence of a Payment Guarantee Event under clauses (A), (B) or (C) of the above definition: (x) the Guarantor shall assume and pay when due (without acceleration) all funding obligations and all other obligations of the Financing Entities to the Beneficiaries by paying all regularly scheduled amounts in respect thereof during the term of each Financing Entity's contractual obligation to such Beneficiaries; and (y) Beneficiaries holding funding obligations consisting of bonds [with a remaining term to maturity of greater than one year] shall have the option to put the bonds to the Financing Entity for a put price equal to 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest. In connection with any put under this clause (y), the Guarantor shall guarantee payment of the put price and any related hedge breakage but shall not be responsible for any other default, penalty, prepayment or make whole amounts.
Limits under Guarantees:	Under no circumstances shall the Guarantor be obligated to indemnify any Beneficiary for special or punitive damages, or loss of profits.
Priority of Payments:	The priority of the Beneficiaries to any payment made by the Guarantor under the Provincial Support Agreement shall be governed by the priority provisions in the Master Trust Indenture.
Subrogation:	Where the Guarantor has repaid all Beneficiaries in full, to the extent of such payments the Guarantor shall be subrogated in and to all the rights of recovery of the Beneficiaries in respect of their applicable indebtedness and obligations and the security granted by a Financing Entity to the Indenture Trustee. After repayment by the Guarantor of all indebtedness and obligations owing to the Beneficiaries, the Indenture Trustee will acknowledge and agree on behalf of the Beneficiaries that the Guarantor is entitled to exercise all of the rights, powers and privileges that the Beneficiaries have or may exercise in respect of the repaid indebtedness and obligations, all in accordance with the terms of the Master Trust Indenture. Prior to the repayment in full of the indebtedness and obligations owed to the Beneficiaries, the Guarantor shall have no rights of subrogation.
Notice Requirements:	The Indenture Trustee will be required to provide notice to the Guarantor of a Payment Guarantee Event and may in such notice demand payment or performance of the Guarantor's obligation under the Provincial Support Agreement, as applicable.

Closing:	Date to be determined but no later than [■, 2017]. The Closing is the date on which the documents in respect of the MSSA, the Master Trust Indenture and all related documentation are executed and delivered.
Reporting Requirements of a Financing Entity:	The Guarantor will be entitled to receive all reports received by the Indenture Trustee under the Master Trust Indenture.
Conditions Precedent to Closing:	Conditions precedent to Closing shall be those conditions set out in the Master Trust Indenture.[2]
Representations:	Customary representations and warranties of the Guarantor.
FIPPA:	Acknowledgement that the Guarantor is bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Guarantor or its agents or representatives in connection with the Transaction Documents may be subject to disclosure in accordance with that act or as otherwise required by law.
Confidentiality Obligations:	Customary confidentiality obligations to be negotiated and included. A Financing Entity and the Beneficiaries shall not, subject to applicable law, issue any press releases and other public announcements in respect of the Provincial Support Agreement without the prior written consent of the Guarantor.
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario

Hi Ron,

As promised, here is the latest version for your review.

The only comments we've received so far are from Malle, but they are mostly general and I was unsure how to translate them into specific edits given my unfamiliarity with this file.

Before she left Anna gave me some direction on who I could follow up with to address Malle's various points. I've followed up, but the responses I've received are essentially "TBD/ still under review". I've left comments in the margins indicating each individual response.

Please let me know if you have any questions and what I can do to help going forward.

Thanks,
Matt on behalf of Anna Strathy

Hi Ron,

No, Anna has not sent any feedback to Malle from Gadi.

My plan is to follow up on the feedback Malle has provided with a variety of parties (Anna left a list) send the draft over to you for review, share it with Anthony Reiss in corporate and then distribute it to the wider distribution group after that.

Please let me know if that sounds like a reasonable approach to you.

Thanks,
Matt

Hi Ken,

Thanks for the additional information. I have already sent the draft to Energy Legal and will send it to Steve Ashbourne this morning.

Here are my very high level preliminary comments on this. This appears to be a fresh document drafted by OPG and its counsel after the meeting in July and then further business discussion since then. There are no track changes in this document, but I compared it to the version the Province sent to OPG on June 22nd and there are quite a few differences.

- The last sentence in the opening italics that "the arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate" has been deleted.
- It has been changed back to a guarantee from an indemnity.
- The Guarantee Activation Events have been expanded to include 5 as it seems that it has been restructured so that some of what was previously in the "performance" guarantee is added into (E), i.e. IESO's role.
- Concept of "materiality" has been deleted for (B) and (D).
- A concept of "any other discriminatory action including OEB Orders has been introduced.
- The Guarantee wording includes the word "assume" as opposed to just "pay".
- Also, the guarantee has reverted to some of the very general wording that the Province is guarantee "all of the obligations of the Financing Entity" not just the debt obligations. These include any other obligation of the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (such as trustees, auditors, etc), rating agencies and any fees due to the securities commission??
- Approval requirement has been changed so that Province does not have right to approve any specific guarantee of funding obligations or set of documents before the guarantee is applied as long as documents are consistent – but who decides?
- Also the second portion called Warehousing Takeout Risk and Servicing – it's mentioned that this is for information purposes only as these risk were included in previous versions – current proposals described here and it doesn't contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks. I would say perhaps similar risks might have been dealt with but this section looks new and I don't' understand what the Province's role is in providing these assurances. Legal would need more background on how this is supposed to work.

The authority for the Province's guarantee is contained in s. 5(3) of the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 and requires an OIC to authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province to agree to guarantee/indemnity obligations associated with an investment interest. The LGIC may delegate to the Ministers to determine the terms and conditions of the guarantee and the maximum liability for the guarantee or may also specify this in the OIC. Given that it appears there will be multiple debt issuances as part of this financing program of the Financing Entity, we will have to determine how best to approach the drafting of the OIC and the guarantee in the context of this debt program. So far, we have not received any draft documents for the program such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc and as a result it is difficult to provide comments on the term sheet and in particular scope of the guarantee and how the province's approval of the terms and conditions might work in order to make the debt financing program of the Financing Entity work smoothly and effectively.

Is it possible to obtain drafts from OPG at this point. I believe that back in July on a call, it was mentioned that the next step was to ask for these drafts so that we can better understand how the proposed guarantee will fit with the proposed program documents. It's not possible to actually draft a guarantee without seeing these documents. Drafting provisions that contains "discriminatory action" type language can be difficult to ensure that there are no unforeseen consequences and that the Province's intent is captured.

It would also be helpful to find out a bit more about the timing as the briefing note mentions a TB decision in September to approve the guarantee. Is a TB submission being drafted as it would be helpful to see a draft of this as well.

I will pass on my general comments to Energy Legal and Steve as well. I understand that Scott's group is the business contact and I believe that there were Energy policy staff involved in some of the earlier calls and meetings as well.

Perhaps it might be helpful to schedule a meeting for next week to discuss the various comments on this. If in the meantime, there is any more background or you are able to obtain draft agreements, this would be helpful.

Thanks.

Hi Malle

Sorry for the delay in responding to your questions. First can you pls share the revised term sheet with Steven Ashbourne for his comments. Secondly, following protocol I have requested OPG to forward the same document to Energy Legal who may then reach out to you for consolidated comments.

With regard to business decisions from the last version: OPG and their advisors have removed any obligation on the part of the Province to either accelerate payments on the outstanding debt or pay a 1% premium in case the guarantee is invoked. The debt guarantee is now palatable from the Province's perspective and subject to Legal review of not only the Term Sheet but the draft guarantee document once we receive same from OPG, we are recommending provincial approval.

The servicing guarantee has now been restated as an IESO obligation requiring the Operator to either provide an Letter of Credit or assume responsibility for any shortfalls in the CEA arising from lower than investment grade/Non rated LDCs failing to remit their collections, for whatever reason, once the CEA kicks in

IESO is not comfortable with this requirement and is regrouping internally to respond, OPG has also agreed to examine other potential solutions for this issue. I am attaching a summary sheet that you may find useful, that outlines the issues in the Term Sheet and our responses.

Pls note that I have expanded the cc's to this email since I will on vacation starting tomorrow to Labour Day.

Thanks

Ken k

Hi Malle,

I would not know f this has been passed on to Energy Legal; by OPG yet. Ken, would you know?

As you stated, last week's meeting was a business meeting, without Legal representatives from various sides, including not having Steve Ashbourne attend, so I wouldn't think he'd have reviewed this new version either -- Ken, your sense on that?

Hi Ken,

Thank you for passing on the draft. I should send this on to Energy Legal as well in case they have not received it yet. Do you know if Steve Ashbourne of Blakes has been reviewing the term sheet recently and been involved in discussions on this?

This is the first version of the term sheet that we have received since it was sent over to OPG on late June. After that there was a response from Torys dated June 30th with some high level comments on the revised term sheet and an internal Provincial call to discuss the Province's response. Subsequently there was a meeting of representatives of the Province and OPG on July 13th which Toby and also Tom McKinlay of Energy legal attended to discuss considerations regarding the guarantee. It looks like there have been some further discussions regarding the term sheet and understand that there may have been a meeting on the business side last week but MOF LSB was not asked to participate. In order to provide comments on this term sheet, it will be helpful for us to find out more about what the business discussions have been and what approach the Province wishes to take and also consult with Energy Legal and Blakes.

Is there a track changes version of this term sheet from June? Also, as I recall back in early July, we were going to ask OPG to provide to us some of the more detailed documents and drafts that would be associated with this guarantee such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc. Do you know if OPG has shared any of that with the Province?

Thanks.

Hi John

Just to follow up on Andrew Maciel's commitment to provide us with a revised term sheet for the guarantee reflecting yesterday's discussion, I was wondering if that can be done EOD Monday. I had a chat with Gadi and given some upcoming internal meetings at senior levels it would be helpful to provide the revised guarantee in front of decision makers.

Thanks

PROVINCIAL GUARANTEE TO OPG FINANCING ENTITY

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide a guarantee or guarantees in respect of debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with investment interests acquired by ~~to~~ one or more financing entities established by Ontario Power Generation Inc. ~~OPG Financing Entities established to perform under~~ pursuant to s. 22 of the ~~Ontario~~ Fair ~~H~~hydro ~~Plan~~ Act, 2017 ("OPG Financing Entities") ~~and such entity or entities prospective debt holders~~, that, under certain circumstances as set out in the guarantee, the Province would pay when due amounts in respect of ~~assume~~ the debt obligations of the Financing Entity.

This submission is to request that Treasury Board:

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide a ~~provincial~~ guarantee, to be authorized by Order in Council ~~as contemplated~~ under the ~~Ontario~~ Fair Hydro ~~Plan~~ Act, 2017 in ~~to~~ respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to~~that~~ Cabinet ~~approve~~ an Order in Council, ~~in accordance with~~ to be made under subsection 5(3) of the ~~Ontario~~ Fair Hydro Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the

Commented [AS1]: Matt, as I understand it, the Province has agreed to take over fees of service providers, rating agencies, etc. Please ask Ron or Malle if this needs to be more explicit in the summary of request.

Commented [MOF LSB2]: It would be useful to be able to narrow the scope of the guarantee wording. Currently it is not limited to principal and interest on the debt issued by the financing entity but could cover fees of service providers, rating agencies, etc. We should work toward making this clearer and if we could get copies of draft agreements such as the Master Trust Indenture, Supplemental Indenture, draft offering documents, any other agreements that would shed some light on how the debt instruments are issued and their terms and conditions this would be helpful.

Commented [RK3R2]: Need to confirm direction.

Commented [RK4]: Wouldn't it be better to write out the name of the Act in full, at least the first time?

Commented [MOF LSB5]: Not sure that it is TB's role to approve the guarantee given that it is to be authorized by OIC and that either the OIC or the two Ministers determine the terms, but we can leave this wording to a later time.

Commented [AS6R5]: Matt, this is a good question and you may want to raise it with Anthony to raise with TBS. As I understand it, this is coming to TB/MBC on the recommendation of TBS, given the size of the guarantee and its policy implications for the FHP. TB/MBC approval may not be needed, but TBS felt it important for the Board to be aware. Wording may need to be adjusted.

Commented [AS7R5]: Anthony mentioned TBS is still reviewing the draft submission, but that TB could authorize (instead of Approve). (Matt).

Commented [MOF LSB8]: Not sure that it is TB's role to approve the guarantee given that it is to be authorized by OIC and that either the OIC or the two Ministers determine the terms, but we can leave this wording to a later time.

Commented [RK9R8]: Suggest discussing with TB analyst the form of the request to TB and the TB Minute.

Commented [AS10R9]: You may want to flag this comment for Keley Katona - has Energy landed on a maximum liability?

Commented [MOF LSB11]: Assume that the draft OIC would be attached but depending on when this goes to TB, is there sufficient detail and certainty to draft the OIC. Will there be a maximum liability set out in the OIC – usually there is in the OIC as well as in the guarantee itself.

Commented [RK12R11]: In this case, could it be tied to the requirements of the Act, without a specific maximum, or tied to amount consistent to some determination under the Act, such as the fair allocation amout determination, or cumualative annual fair adjustment amounts under the Act (including financing costs)?

Commented [AS13R11]: Analysis is still underway by energy, working with OPG (Matt).

Commented [MOF LSB14]: Is it expected that both Ministers will sign the recommendation on the OIC? Need to consider whether and how the s. 28 process would work. If Minister of Finance recommends the OIC and also signs the guarantee, it may be that a separate approval is not required.

Commented [AS15R14]: I'm not sure I understand this. I would go back to Malle for explanation. Ultimately, we will need Legal to provide advice on how the s. 28 would work.

Commented [AS16R14]: Followed up with Malle, agreed it should be TBD for now as LSB should provide further advice. (Matt)

3. BACKGROUND:

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP)~~, which would~~to lower electricity bills by 25~~%~~%, on average, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years~~, starting in the summer of 2017~~. The OFHP includes the deferral of a portion of the Global Adjustment portion of the cost of electricity. The deferral is built around the principle that the costs incurred to put in place assets for generation and support conservation to move to a clean, reliable system, would last longer than their typical 20-year contract period and would be able to provide benefits for future ratepayers, and that the costs should be spread more fairly between current and future rates.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years. This estimate is being updated and will be presented to [TB/MBC/Cabinet] as part of a report-back by the Ministry of Energy.

Under the ~~Ontario~~ Fair Hydro ~~Plan~~ Act, 2017, (the Act), which came into effect on June 1, 2017, the IESO is able to ~~create a regulatory asset~~ establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts arising from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account~~approximately equal to the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation~~. The Act provides for the IESO to sell the regulatory asset; i.e., ~~and~~ the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the Act, ~~a~~ Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial SevicesServices Manager under section 18, is authorized under section 22 to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations. Such a Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the eligible ratepayers.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG is, therefore, requesting that the Government of Ontario provide a guarantee to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of

Commented [MOF LSB17]: This is the short title of the Act.

Commented [MOF LSB18]: Might be helpful to include more information about OPG developing the Financing Plan, what funding obligations are, etc.

Commented [AS19R18]: Check with Ron.

Commented [RK20R18]: I'd see if Energy can share its description on this.

Commented [MOF LSB21]: Might be helpful to include more information about OPG developing the Financing Plan, what funding obligations are, etc.

Commented [MOF LSB22]: Depending on what the scope of the guarantee is, wording should be refined to describe it more accurately – i.e. it is a guarantee of the Financing Entity's debt obligations in favour of the holders of the debt or maybe it's broader than that.

Commented [AS23R22]: Not sure we need to incorporate this suggestion. Malle can provide line edits on a subsequent draft if she thinks it requires more specificity. Check with Ron.

the Financing Entity.

Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Guarantee:

- Decisions by the Legislative Assembly, i.e., repeal of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity;
- A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO adversely impacting the Financing Entity.

In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province would take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers.

The guarantee would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the guarantee is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the guarantee is providedgiven approved, the GovernmentProvince of Ontario takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability willwouldill increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated [$24B to $26B (to be revised as Energy re-estimates)] of debt principal, along with associated interest payments.

In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province's net debt willwouldill be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by an amount equal to the weighted average cost of the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the guarantee.

Commented [MOF LSB24]: The wording in this section will need more work once we have reviewed the current term sheet.

Commented [MOF LSB25]: Not sure it is correct that Province will "take over the obligations" – isn't the Province just going to pay as they come due? Also again note outstanding payments to service providers (whoever they might be) is broader than payments on the financing entities debt.

Commented [AS26R25]: Check with Ron, but I think this reflects that Legal is only getting up to speed now on the guarantee discussions over the last month. But she's right that we'll need to be consistent in how we refer to the guarantee (it is broader than the debt payments).

Commented [MOF LSB27]: OPCD to review

Commented [AS28R27]: Recommend sending the draft submission (v. 3) to Sarah Hosick (copy Anthony) and asking if Mark Donaldson can review the submission and provide comment. Cindy likely hasn't had time to review because she's busy with Public Accounts.

Commented [AS29R27]: I've followed up but still waiting for a response(Matt).

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between [$0.8B and $1.3B] per annum, depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at.

It is important to note that, if the guarantee is triggered, and the Province assumes the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the Act continue or not, in some form. If the payment streams from ratepayers in the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

7. RECOMMENDATION

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a provincial guarantee, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the guarantee.

Commented [MOF LSB30]: In general, this TB submission needs more information on:
-The amount of debt that will be issued and over what time period.
-The maximum amount that the Province will guarantee.
-Where the debt will be issued
-In order to describe the risk

Commented [RK31R30]: Could include Energy's curve from the March 2nd CabSub, as well as the interim update in the more recent LTEP deck--- but would be subject to updates per Energy's anticipated forthcoming submissions cited above.

Commented [AS32R30]: This issue came up at the term sheet meeting, still TBD (Matt).

Commented [MOF LSB33]: Include of a discussion of the risk associated with the trigger events – what are the risks – are there legal risks regarding the legislation and whether a court might find it to be invalid for some reason – have legal opinions been obtained on this? Are some of these risks within the control of the government so can be mitigated in some way?

Commented [RK34R33]: We should get input from Energy on this, to be consistent with what is, or will be, in Energy submissions.

Commented [MOF LSB35]: It may be the case that this is a more general approval and the 2 Ministers will determine the terms and condition in accordance with the authorization given to them by the OIC. It depends on how soon the actual wording of the guarantee can be confirmed as opposed to the draft term sheet – The province should not sign of commit to the term sheet as the province's authority comes from the OIC.

Commented [AS36R35]: Check with Ron.

Hi all,

We have received comments back on the term sheet from Steve Ashbourne, the Province's external counsel, and think it would be helpful to have an internal Provincial meeting to review the comments on the draft. On the legal side, it might be helpful to get some more insight into how the proposed guarantee and warehouse facility are to work from a business perspective. In addition, we are awaiting further draft documents that set the context and describe what is to be guaranteed as I understand that Torys (OPG's counsel) has been working on these.

It would be helpful to coordinate such a meeting soon with the appropriate Provincial representatives.

Thanks.

Hi Ken,

Thanks for the additional information. I have already sent the draft to Energy Legal and will send it to Steve Ashbourne this morning.

Here are my very high level preliminary comments on this. This appears to be a fresh document drafted by OPG and its counsel after the meeting in July and then further business discussion since then. There are no track changes in this document, but I compared it to the version the Province sent to OPG on June 22nd and there are quite a few differences.

- The last sentence in the opening italics that "the arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate" has been deleted.
- It has been changed back to a guarantee from an indemnity.
- The Guarantee Activation Events have been expanded to include 5 as it seems that it has been restructured so that some of what was previously in the "performance" guarantee is added into (E), i.e. IESO's role.
- Concept of "materiality" has been deleted for (B) and (D).
- A concept of "any other discriminatory action including OEB Orders has been introduced.
- The Guarantee wording includes the word "assume" as opposed to just "pay".
- Also, the guarantee has reverted to some of the very general wording that the Province is guarantee "all of the obligations of the Financing Entity" not just the debt obligations. These include any other obligation of the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (such as trustees, auditors, etc), rating agencies and any fees due to the securities commission??
- Approval requirement has been changed so that Province does not have right to approve any specific guarantee of funding obligations or set of documents before the guarantee is applied as long as documents are consistent – but who decides?
- Also the second portion called Warehousing Takeout Risk and Servicing – it's mentioned that this is for information purposes only as these risk were included in previous versions – current proposals described here and it doesn't contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks. I would say perhaps similar risks might have been dealt with but this section looks new and I don't' understand what the Province's role is in providing these assurances. Legal would need more background on how this is supposed to work.

The authority for the Province's guarantee is contained in s. 5(3) of the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 and requires an OIC to authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province to agree to guarantee/indemnity obligations associated with an investment interest. The LGIC may delegate to the Ministers to determine the terms and conditions of the guarantee and the maximum liability for the guarantee or may also specify this in the OIC. Given that it appears there will be multiple debt issuances as part of this financing program of the Financing Entity, we will have to determine how best to approach the drafting of the OIC and the guarantee in the context of this debt program. So far, we have not received any draft documents for the program such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc and as a result it is difficult to provide comments on the term sheet and in particular scope of the guarantee and how the province's approval of the terms and conditions might work in order to make the debt financing program of the Financing Entity work smoothly and effectively.

Is it possible to obtain drafts from OPG at this point. I believe that back in July on a call, it was mentioned that the next step was to ask for these drafts so that we can better understand how the proposed guarantee will fit with the proposed program documents. It's not possible to actually draft a guarantee without seeing these documents. Drafting provisions that contains "discriminatory action" type language can be difficult to ensure that there are no unforeseen consequences and that the Province's intent is captured.

It would also be helpful to find out a bit more about the timing as the briefing note mentions a TB decision in September to approve the guarantee. Is a TB submission being drafted as it would be helpful to see a draft of this as well.

I will pass on my general comments to Energy Legal and Steve as well. I understand that Scott's group is the business contact and I believe that there were Energy policy staff involved in some of the earlier calls and meetings as well.

Perhaps it might be helpful to schedule a meeting for next week to discuss the various comments on this. If in the meantime, there is any more background or you are able to obtain draft agreements, this would be helpful.

Thanks.

Indicative Term Sheet

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate.

Change in Law Guarantee
Guarantor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Beneficiaries:	The indenture trustee, acting on behalf of itself and other persons having debt or other claims against the Financing Entity that are secured under a related trust indenture.[1]
Guarantee Activation Events:	Any of the following would constitute a Guarantee Activation Event: (A) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repealing (and not replacing on an equivalent basis) the Act or any Regulation[2] made thereunder; (B) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario causing to come into force any statute (including any amendment to the Act or a Regulation[3] made thereunder), or causing to come into force or making [any order-in-council or regulation, or causing to come into force any other discriminatory action

[1] The proposal is that the direct beneficiary of the Guarantee will be the indenture trustee acting on behalf of the secured obligees of the FE (rather than the FE itself, as we initially proposed). Assuming that characterization is okay for the Province (e.g., Would the Province be considered to be an issuer under US securities laws? How would the Province get the benefit of the joint enforcement and governance arrangements in the Trust Indenture? Accounting implications?), the ordinary right of subrogation should entitle the Province to claim against the FE in respect of the assumed obligations, including to enforce the security given by the FE in relation to the assumed obligations.

[2] Confirm description. Should this refer to LGIC for Regulations?

[3] LGIC?

	(including by way of any order by the Ontario Energy Board)][4], that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations; (C) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario directly or indirectly amending the Guarantee or any of the financing transaction agreements without the agreement of the indenture trustee; (D) a court of competent jurisdiction (i) [declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable[5] or (ii)] in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act is ultra vires in a way that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations; or (E) [there is a change in the organization, structure or operations of the IESO or a change in the electricity market structure or operations in each case in any way that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations.][6]

[4] Too broad and unlimited.

[5] Delete. The Province will not be directly involved in creating or issuing FE obligations, and so the Province should not be asked to take responsibility for the validity or enforceability of FE obligations. OPG will be in charge of structuring, documenting and implementing the FE obligations, and so any problem should be the responsibility of OPG.

[6] Consider if the Province should take responsibility for IESO/market related changes that have an incidental effect on the underlying cash flows?

Guarantee:	The indenture trustee will have the right to require that, upon the occurrence of a Guarantee Activation Event, the Guarantor will assume and pay when due (without acceleration) all of the specified obligations[7] of the Financing Entity.[8] The specified obligations of the Financing Entity will include its funding obligations as well as any other obligation of the Financing Entity that ranks ahead of or equally with the rated debt obligations of the Financing Entity pursuant to the trust indenture. The exercise of such right by the indenture trustee in accordance with the trust indenture shall constitute the only remedy available under the Guarantee. Under no circumstances shall the Guarantor be obligated to pay or indemnify the Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.
Rights of Subrogation:	Without limiting the Guarantor's rights of subrogation as a guarantor by operation of law, upon becoming obligated to assume the obligations of a Financing Entity under the Guarantee, the Guarantor shall become entitled to all of the Beneficiaries' rights and interests under and in respect of each related investment interest and property of the Financing Entity, including under the agreements to which the Financing Entity is a party.[9]
Term:	The Guarantee will continue for as long as the Financing Entity has any outstanding financing or other contractual obligations that are or are intended to be secured by the Guarantee [and until such obligations have all been paid in full or otherwise satisfied][10]

[7] Need to discuss how best to narrow this. Practical issues arise. Perhaps can limit to amounts payable in priority to or pari passu with rated debt obligations in the priority of payments waterfall. For example, if amounts payable to OPG are lower priority, these could be excluded. This would require the Province to pre-agree to the priority of payments permitted under the program. In any event, need to limit to "specified creditors".

[8] Need to come up with a mechanic where the Province is subrogated to the FE's cash flow rights under the investment interest(s) and the FE's contractual rights in relation to the transfer, swaps, indemnities, etc.

[9] If the Province assumes the obligations of an FE, it should become directly entitled to all of the FEs rights and interests. This wording is intended to give the Province direct rights to collect CEAs and claim indemnities otherwise available to FEs.

[10] Not sure what this phrase adds to the concept of "outstanding"?

Approval Requirements:	A Guarantee will become effective in respect of a Financing Entity's obligations (including any modification) only after the Guarantor has confirmed in writing that the Guarantee applies to such obligations. A guarantee agreement between the Guarantor (subject to approval by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together) and a Financing Entity, setting forth the terms and conditions of the Guarantee on a basis consistent with this term sheet, will annex the applicable forms of program and series documents under which obligations of the Financing Entity may arise (e.g., form of trust indenture and series supplemental indenture). As long as the documents under which an obligation arises are and remain consistent in all material respects with such agreed upon forms, the Guarantee provided for under the guarantee agreement will be effective in relation to such obligation. The forms of program and series documents may include alternative terms and conditions, including such matters such as tenor and pricing parameters, on which the specific terms of permitted obligations may be based without the further written agreement of the Guarantor.[11]
FIPPA:	The parties will acknowledge that the Guarantor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Guarantor, or any agent or representative of the Guarantor in connection with the Guarantee may be subject to disclosure in accordance with the act or as otherwise required by law.
Representations and Warranties:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Guarantor and the Financing Entity.
No Changes to an Investment Interest:	A Financing Entity may not change its rights and interests under an investment interest in any way that could adversely affect the Guarantor's prospective rights and entitlements upon subrogation in respect of the investment interest.
Confidentiality Obligations:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Guarantor and the Financing Entity

[11] As a separate matter, consider whether the Province needs the ability to pre-agree the form of any IESO/FE transfer agreement and approve any amendments. Is it sufficient that IESO will be a party?

Governing Law:	Province of Ontario

Warehousing Takeout Risk and Servicing (Commingling) Risk Note – these items are provided for information purposes only[12] as these risks were included in the previous version of the term sheet as items that the Dealers/OPG were looking for the Province for protection against. The current proposals with respect to these items is described below. These do not contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks.
Commingling Risk (applies to Warehouse as well as any Term transactions)

[12] This mark-up is limited to identifying items of commercial significance that would impact the Province upon assumption of the related obligations under the Guarantee.

Commingling Risk[13] Mitigant:	For any LDC which is not investment grade rated by each of the rating agencies which are rating the funding obligations (the "Non-Investment Grade LDCs"), either: (A) The IESO must post a Letter of Credit (L/C)[14], or deposit funds[15] in a Commingling Reserve Account in a quantum equal to the Commingling Risk Amount; or (B) The IESO, for so long as it is rated investment grade by the rating agencies which are rating the funding obligations, will assume responsibility for commingling risk by the LDCs and will agree to remit to the Financing Entity any clean energy adjustment amounts collected by the LDC, regardless of whether the LDC remitted those amounts to the IESO for remittance to the Financing Entity. [16]
Commingling Risk Amount:	An amount equal to the sum of the expected Clean Energy Adjustment collections from the Non-Investment Grade LDCs over the next [45-60][17] days.
Commingling Risk Amount Reset Date:	Each settlement date for the Financing Entity (monthly)
Beneficiary:	The beneficiary of the L/C or the Commingling Reserve Account would be the Financing Entity and the Indenture Trustee for the benefit of the creditors of the Financing Entity[18]. The Financing Entity and/or the Indenture Trustee would have the ability to draw down the L/C or draw on the Commingling Reserve Account for any clean energy adjustment amounts expected to be received from the IESO but which were not received due to those funds not being remitted from an LDC to the IESO for that period.[19]

[14] Consider accounting implications.

[15] Economically inefficient due to negative carry implications.

[16] Consider accounting implications.

[17] Consider rationale. Monthly reconciliations and settlement suggest that 30 days would be sufficient.

[18] Make consistent with Guarantee arrangement, so that the indenture trustee would be the direct beneficiary.

[19] Address rights of subrogation.

L/C Provider:	An entity rated at least A+ (or equivalent).
Approvals:	The approach is subject to approval from the IESO, by the rating agencies rating the funding obligations of the Financing Entity and the risk management areas of the banks providing the warehouse facilities. Consideration of the arrangements will also form part of the approval process undertaken by the Ministers, on behalf of the Province.
Warehouse Takeout Risk
Commitment Period for Warehouse[20]:	Expected to be 12-24 months.[21]
Takeout for Warehouse:	Expected to be every 3-6 months.
Warehouse Default Event:	One of the events of default[22] for the warehouse will be the failure to repay the warehouse facility at the end of the commitment term.
Consequences of Warehouse Default Event:	If the Warehouse Default Event[23] described above occurs, all amounts funded through the warehouse would become immediately due and payable, subject to the Warehouse Default Payment Cap, and Default Pricing will be charged on any amounts funded through the warehouse facility.

[20] Please note that this is not intended to be an exhaustive list of terms for the warehouse facility, but rather is a summary of a few select terms that relate to the warehouse takeout risk.

[21] The rationale for the limited terms of the bank commitments should be understood. For example, if the reason is due to regulatory capital implications (e.g., which are customarily a governor under ABCP programs), the banks may be willing to consider longer commitments provided the additional costs associated with increased regulatory capital obligations are included in the economic model.

[22] These should be spelled out in detail in the term sheet, given the economic consequences to the structure.

[23] Note there may be other Warehouse Default Events beyond the takeout risk item described above. The consequences for a breach of these other Warehouse Default Events may be different than the one described above where the default is related to failure to takeout the warehouse facility by the end of the commitment period.

Default Pricing:	Step up in pricing to [x] until the moratorium period ends and thereafter stepping-up in increments of [y] every six months until the warehouse facility is repaid.[24]
Warehouse Default Payment Cap:	For any given reference period following the occurrence of a Warehouse Default Event, the amount that shall be remitted[25] to the Financing Entity for repayment of the warehouse facilities will be the sum of (x) the interest amount due on the warehouse facilities (which, for greater certainty will include any program fees) and (y) the lessor of: (a) The outstanding amount funded through the warehouse facilities; and (b) The maximum amount that can be charged for that period so that clean energy adjustments are equal to, but do not exceed, the fair allocation amount for such period.[26]
Approval Requirement:	Subject to approval by the risk management areas of the banks providing the warehouse facilities which will in part depend on receipt of information on the fair allocation curve and an understanding of how long the "tail risk" could be following a Warehouse Default Event. Consideration of the arrangements will also form part of the approval process undertaken by the Ministers, on behalf of the Province.

[24] Consider cost consequences, including on assumption.

[25] This seems to conflict with the reality that the cash will not be available to service these amounts. Consider what is the consequence under the structure of an unremedied default event. If the impact is limited to step-up pricing on outstanding amounts, then there should be clarity that an unremedied default does not permit a realization of FE security (e.g., rights in relation to the CEAs opposite the specified consumers).

[26] It seems unclear how this relates to the requirements of section 21 of the OFHPA. This should not conflict with the implied limitation on charging CEAs during the moratorium period. For example, it does not reflect the readjustment amount concept.

On another issue related to the guarantee, MOF Legal has asked again about being able to review this in the full context of the proposed draft set of legal documents that set out, e.g. what the bond or debt instruments to be issued by the Financing Entity would look like such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc.

Not sure if OPG might have provided earlier drafts, say to Ken, who is now on vacation. Would you be able to send the latest drafts, so that MOF Legal can review the OPG draft term sheet in context.

Thanks,

Hi John and John

One issue that I forgot to raise at the tele conference yesterday is the potential for the Province to purchase debt issued by the Financing Entity in the event of an impending warehouse default event coupled with the inability, for whatever reason, for the Entity to access the markets. Of course once, markets have stabilized the Province has the option to sell this note.

OPG was going to run this by E&Y to ascertain if such purchases impact the accounting treatment. Pls let us know.

Thanks and if you haven't already done so can you pls forward the revised term sheet to Energy Legal as well.

Thanks

Hi Ron,

What Malle is looking for is essentially a set of legal documents that set out what the bond or debt instruments to be issued by the Financing Entity would look like.

And Energy Legal is not in the know about the matter and it would require OPG to provide such documents. Essentially, either John Lee or John Mauti would then be the potential contacts. If to go through John Lee, I can ask Mike Manning to follow up. If the other option, then we can do it or have GBED follow up. I am okay either way.

Thanks,

John

– it's mentioned that this is for information purposes only as these risk were included in previous versions – current proposals described here and it doesn't contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks. I would say perhaps similar risks might have been dealt with but this section looks new and I don't' understand what the Province's role is in providing these assurances. Legal would need more background on how this is supposed to work.

The authority for the Province's guarantee is contained in s. 5(3) of the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 and requires an OIC to authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province to agree to guarantee/indemnity obligations associated with an investment interest. The LGIC may delegate to the Ministers to determine the terms and conditions of the guarantee and the maximum liability for the guarantee or may also specify this in the OIC. Given that it appears there will be multiple debt issuances as part of this financing program of the Financing Entity, we will have to determine how best to approach the drafting of the OIC and the guarantee in the context of this debt program. So far, we have not received any draft documents for the program such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc and as a result it is difficult to provide comments on the term sheet and in particular scope of the guarantee and how the province's approval of the terms and conditions might work in order to make the debt financing program of the Financing Entity work smoothly and effectively.

Is it possible to obtain drafts from OPG at this point. I believe that back in July on a call, it was mentioned that the next step was to ask for these drafts so that we can better understand how the proposed guarantee will fit with the proposed program documents. It's not possible to actually draft a guarantee without seeing these documents. Drafting provisions that contains "discriminatory action" type language can be difficult to ensure that there are no unforeseen consequences and that the Province's intent is captured.

It would also be helpful to find out a bit more about the timing as the briefing note mentions a TB decision in September to approve the guarantee. Is a TB submission being drafted as it would be helpful to see a draft of this as well.

I will pass on my general comments to Energy Legal and Steve as well. I understand that Scott's group is the business contact and I believe that there were Energy policy staff involved in some of the earlier calls and meetings as well.

Perhaps it might be helpful to schedule a meeting for next week to discuss the various comments on this. If in the meantime, there is any more background or you are able to obtain draft agreements, this would be helpful.

Thanks.

Hi Malle

Sorry for the delay in responding to your questions. First can you pls share the revised term sheet with Steven Ashbourne for his comments. Secondly, following protocol I have requested OPG to forward the same document to Energy Legal who may then reach out to you for consolidated comments.

With regard to business decisions from the last version: OPG and their advisors have removed any obligation on the part of the Province to either accelerate payments on the outstanding debt or pay a 1% premium in case the guarantee is invoked. The debt guarantee is now palatable from the Province's perspective and subject to Legal review of not only the Term Sheet but the draft guarantee document once we receive same from OPG, we are recommending provincial approval.

The servicing guarantee has now been restated as an IESO obligation requiring the Operator to either provide an Letter of Credit or assume responsibility for any shortfalls in the CEA arising from lower than investment grade/Non rated LDCs failing to remit their collections, for whatever reason, once the CEA kicks in

IESO is not comfortable with this requirement and is regrouping internally to respond, OPG has also agreed to examine other potential solutions for this issue. I am attaching a summary sheet that you may find useful, that outlines the issues in the Term Sheet and our responses.

Pls note that I have expanded the cc's to this email since I will on vacation starting tomorrow to Labour Day.

Thanks

Hi Ken,

Thank you for passing on the draft. I should send this on to Energy Legal as well in case they have not received it yet. Do you know if Steve Ashbourne of Blakes has been reviewing the term sheet recently and been involved in discussions on this?

This is the first version of the term sheet that we have received since it was sent over to OPG on late June. After that there was a response from Torys dated June 30th with some high level comments on the revised term sheet and an internal Provincial call to discuss the Province's response. Subsequently there was a meeting of representatives of the Province and OPG on July 13th which Toby and also Tom McKinlay of Energy legal attended to discuss considerations regarding the guarantee. It looks like there have been some further discussions regarding the term sheet and understand that there may have been a meeting on the business side last week but MOF LSB was not asked to participate. In order to provide comments on this term sheet, it will be helpful for us to find out more about what the business discussions have been and what approach the Province wishes to take and also consult with Energy Legal and Blakes.

Is there a track changes version of this term sheet from June? Also, as I recall back in early July, we were going to ask OPG to provide to us some of the more detailed documents and drafts that would be associated with this guarantee such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc. Do you know if OPG has shared any of that with the Province?

Thanks.

however, I will take another more detailed look. Ron and John one section particularly for your review, the Takeout Risk at the end of the Term Sheet indicates the link between the clean energy adjustment and the fair allocation amount as they impact the Takeout risk. I am not very clear about this so you may want to review this closely.

The request for the Letter of Credit still stands however, there is an alternative also provided we have to see tomorrow how comfortable IESO is with the latter.

note mentions a TB decision in September to approve the guarantee. Is a TB submission being drafted as it would be helpful to see a draft of this as well.

I will pass on my general comments to Energy Legal and Steve as well. I understand that Scott's group is the business contact and I believe that there were Energy policy staff involved in some of the earlier calls and meetings as well.

Perhaps it might be helpful to schedule a meeting for next week to discuss the various comments on this. If in the meantime, there is any more background or you are able to obtain draft agreements, this would be helpful.

Thanks.

Malle

Hi Malle

Sorry for the delay in responding to your questions. First can you pls share the revised term sheet with Steven Ashbourne for his comments. Secondly, following protocol I have requested OPG to forward the same document to Energy Legal who may then reach out to you for consolidated comments.

With regard to business decisions from the last version: OPG and their advisors have removed any obligation on the part of the Province to either accelerate payments on the outstanding debt or pay a 1% premium in case the guarantee is invoked. The debt guarantee is now palatable from the Province's perspective and subject to Legal review of not only the Term Sheet but the draft guarantee document once we receive same from OPG, we are recommending provincial approval.

The servicing guarantee has now been restated as an IESO obligation requiring the Operator to either provide an Letter of Credit or assume responsibility for any shortfalls in the CEA arising from lower than investment grade/Non rated LDCs failing to remit their collections, for whatever reason, once the CEA kicks in

IESO is not comfortable with this requirement and is regrouping internally to respond, OPG has also agreed to examine other potential solutions for this issue. I am attaching a summary sheet that you may find useful, that outlines the issues in the Term Sheet and our responses.

Pls note that I have expanded the cc's to this email since I will on vacation starting tomorrow to Labour Day.

Thanks

Hi Malle,

I would not know f this has been passed on to Energy Legal; by OPG yet. Ken, would you know?

As you stated, last week's meeting was a business meeting, without Legal representatives from various sides, including not having Steve Ashbourne attend, so I wouldn't think he'd have reviewed this new version either -- Ken, your sense on that?

Hi Ken,

Thank you for passing on the draft. I should send this on to Energy Legal as well in case they have not received it yet. Do you know if Steve Ashbourne of Blakes has been reviewing the term sheet recently and been involved in discussions on this?

This is the first version of the term sheet that we have received since it was sent over to OPG on late June. After that there was a response from Torys dated June 30th with some high level comments on the revised term sheet and an internal Provincial call to discuss the Province's response. Subsequently there was a meeting of representatives of the Province and OPG on July 13th which Toby and also Tom McKinlay of Energy legal attended to discuss considerations regarding the guarantee. It looks like there have been some further discussions regarding the term sheet and understand that there may have been a meeting on the business side last week but MOF LSB was not asked to participate. In order to provide comments on this term sheet, it will be helpful for us to find out more about what the business discussions have been and what approach the Province wishes to take and also consult with Energy Legal and Blakes.

Is there a track changes version of this term sheet from June? Also, as I recall back in early July, we were going to ask OPG to provide to us some of the more detailed documents and drafts that would be associated with this guarantee such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc. Do you know if OPG has shared any of that with the Province?

Thanks.

Indicative Term Sheet

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act.

Change in Law Guarantee
Guarantor:	The Province of Ontario
Guarantee Activation Events:	Any of the following would constitute a Guarantee Activation Event: (A) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repealing (and not replacing on an equivalent basis) the Act or any Regulation made thereunder; (B) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario causing to come into force any statute (including any amendment to the Act or a Regulation made thereunder), or causing to come into force or making any order-in-council or regulation, or causing to come into force any other discriminatory action (including by way of any order by the Ontario Energy Board), in any case, in a way that adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest, including, for greater certainty, in any manner that is reasonably expected to limit the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations on the same basis as before such amendment was effected; (C) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario directly or indirectly amending the Guarantee or any of the financing transaction agreements without the agreement of the Financing Entity; (D) a court of competent jurisdiction (i) declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable or (ii) in a final and non-appealable

	judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act is ultra vires in a way that adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity, including, for greater certainty, in any manner that is reasonably expected to limit the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its funding obligations on the same basis as before such judgement; or (E) there is a change in the organization, structure or operations of the IESO or a change in the electricity market structure or operations in any way that adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest, including, for greater certainty, in any manner that is reasonably expected to limit the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations on the same basis as before such amendment was effected [NTD: Alternatively, with respect to the IESO servicing obligations, include the Servicing Guarantee language with respect to the IESO that was included in the last mark-up of the term sheet received from the Province.]
Guarantee:	Upon the occurrence of a Guarantee Activation Event, the Guarantor shall immediately assume and pay when due (without acceleration) all of the obligations of the Financing Entity. The obligations of the Financing Entity include its funding obligations as well as any other obligation the Financing Entity has related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (such as trustees, auditors, etc), rating agencies and any fees due to the securities commissions
Term:	The Guarantee will continue for as long as the Financing Entity has any outstanding financing or other contractual obligations and until such obligations have all been paid in full or otherwise satisfied

Approval Requirement:	The guarantee agreement containing the terms and conditions contemplated by this term sheet shall be entered into prior to the Financing Entity incurring its first funding obligation. The Province shall enter into the guarantee based on forms of program and series financing documents required for each financing transaction (e.g., form of supplemental indenture). As long as the financing transaction documents are generally consistent with the agreed upon form, the Province's specific approval for specific funding obligations incurred by the Financing Entity will not be required. Subsequent approval is only needed if the form of such documents are materially changed. For greater certainty, deal specific terms (such as tenor, pricing, etc) shall not be considered a change in the form of transaction and series documents
FIPPA:	The parties will acknowledge that the Guarantor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Guarantor, or any agent or representative of the Guarantor in connection with the Guarantee may be subject to disclosure in accordance with the act or as otherwise required by law
Representations and Warranties:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Guarantor and the Financing Entity
Confidentiality Obligations:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Guarantor and the Financing Entity
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario

Warehousing Takeout Risk and Servicing (Commingling) Risk Note – these items are provided for information purposes only as these risks were included in the previous version of the term sheet as items that the Dealers/OPG were looking for the Province for protection against. The current proposals with respect to these items is described below. These do not contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks.
Commingling Risk (applies to Warehouse as well as any Term transactions)
Commingling Risk Mitigant:	For any LDC which is not investment grade rated by each of the rating agencies which are rating the funding obligations (the "Non-Investment Grade LDCs"), either: (A) The IESO must post a Letter of Credit (L/C), or deposit funds in a Commingling Reserve Account in a quantum equal to the Commingling Risk Amount; or (B) The IESO, for so long as it is rated investment grade by the rating agencies which are rating the funding obligations, will assume responsibility for commingling risk by the LDCs and will agree to remit to the Financing Entity any clean energy adjustment amounts collected by the LDC, regardless of whether the LDC remitted those amounts to the IESO for remittance to the Financing Entity
Commingling Risk Amount:	An amount equal to the sum of the expected Clean Energy Adjustment collections from the Non-Investment Grade LDCs over the next [45-60] days
Commingling Risk Amount Reset Date:	Each settlement date for the Financing Entity (monthly)
Beneficiary:	The beneficiary of the L/C or the Commingling Reserve Account would be the Financing Entity and the Indenture Trustee for the benefit of the creditors of the Financing Entity. The Financing Entity and/or the Indenture Trustee would have the ability to draw down the L/C or draw on the Commingling Reserve Account for any clean energy adjustment amounts expected to be received from the IESO but which were not received due to those funds not being remitted from an LDC to the IESO for that period
L/C Provider:	An entity rated at least A+ (or equivalent)

Approvals:	The approach is subject to approval from the IESO, by the rating agencies rating the funding obligations of the Financing Entity and the risk management areas of the banks providing the warehouse facilities
Warehouse Takeout Risk
Commitment Period for Warehouse[1]:	Expected to be 12-24 months
Takeout for Warehouse:	Expected to be every 3-6 months
Warehouse Default Event:	One of the events of default for the warehouse will be the failure to repay the warehouse facility at the end of the commitment term
Consequences of Warehouse Default Event:	If the Warehouse Default Event[2] described above occurs, all amounts funded through the warehouse would become immediately due and payable, subject to the Warehouse Default Payment Cap, and Default Pricing will be charged on any amounts funded through the warehouse facility
Default Pricing:	Step up in pricing to [x] until the moratorium period ends and thereafter stepping-up in increments of [y] every six months until the warehouse facility is repaid

[1] Please note that this is not intended to be an exhaustive list of terms for the warehouse facility, but rather is a summary of a few select terms that relate to the warehouse takeout risk.

[2] Note there may be other Warehouse Default Events beyond the takeout risk item described above. The consequences for a breach of these other Warehouse Default Events may be different than the one described above where the default is related to failure to takeout the warehouse facility by the end of the commitment period.

Warehouse Default Payment Cap:	For any given reference period following the occurrence of a Warehouse Default Event, the amount that shall be remitted to the Financing Entity for repayment of the warehouse facilities will be the sum of (x) the interest amount due on the warehouse facilities (which, for greater certainty will include any program fees) and (y) the lessor of: (a) The outstanding amount funded through the warehouse facilities; and (b) The maximum amount that can be charged for that period so that clean energy adjustments are equal to, but do not exceed, the fair allocation amount for such period.
Approval Requirement:	Subject to approval by the risk management areas of the banks providing the warehouse facilities which will in part depend on receipt of information on the fair allocation curve and an understanding of how long the "tail risk" could be following a Warehouse Default Event

Provincial Protection and Assurances

Change in Law Risk

- Holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt could be negatively impacted by:
  - Changes to legislation or other discriminatory action by the Province as no government can limit the ability of future governments to amend or enact legislation or take other actions as it may deem appropriate
  - Court decision that the Fair Hydro Plan does not have the authority to levy the charge to consumers or declares any funding obligations to be invalid or unenforceable
  - Changes to the organization, structure or operations of the IESO or the electricity market
- Debt is not financeable without protection for these risks
- Risk is addressed through contractual guarantee that would be triggered upon the occurrence of specified events
- If guarantee is triggered there would not be an acceleration of payment
- If guarantee is triggered the Province would step in to service the obligations of the financing entity
- Guarantee may need to be revised at a future date, or approval from the Province may be required, if the financing entity must access US market as investors in that market will likely require additional compensation if the guarantee is triggered

Risks Not Covered by Provincial Guarantee

Short Term Debt Financing Takeout Risk

- Monthly purchases by the financing entity would initially be financed using short term debt as the financing entity needs to warehouse a larger amount for efficient execution in the term debt markets
  - Short term debt providers are exposed to the risk that takeout funding is not available in term debt markets for a period of time
- If this short term debt is not repaid by the end of the short term debt facility commitment this risk is addressed through an escalation of the pricing of such short term debt:
  - Interest rate for short term debt increases by a specified amount at the time of the event until the moratorium period ends
  - Thereafter, interest rate increases by a further specified amount for every additional 6 month interval during which the short term debt remains unpaid

LDC Commingling Risk

- Clean Energy Adjustment amounts will be collected from consumers by LDCs and held until remitted to the IESO / financing entity. For any LDC which is not rated or non-investment grade rated by each of the rating agencies which are rating the funding obligations, the agencies will require these LDCs to remit collections daily, unless other credit mitigants are established
- The majority of LDCs are not rated and it would be cost prohibitive to establish ratings for these entities; 10 LDCs are collectively rated by S&P, DBRS and Moody's (Moody's only rates Hydro One)
  - It is estimated that LDCs not rated by any agency deliver power to ~25% of the Ontario electricity market
- This risk is addressed through providing the financing entity with a letter of credit:
  - Amount of letter of credit is approximately one to two month's estimated collections from all unrated or non-investment grade LDCs
  - Letter of credit to be provided by the IESO on behalf of the LDCs
  - Cost of the letter of credit and any amounts drawn can be recovered by the IESO through the Global Adjustment
- Alternatively, this risk may be addressed by the IESO depositing funds into a commingling reserve account for a similar amount or the IESO contractually agreeing to assume responsibility for paying the CEA amounts required to be remitted by such LDCs

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act.

Change in Law Guarantee
Guarantor:	The Province of Ontario
Guarantee Activation Events:	Any of the following would constitute a Guarantee Activation Event: (A) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repealing (and not replacing on an equivalent basis) the Act or any Regulation made thereunder; (B) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario causing to come into force any statute (including any amendment to the Act or a Regulation made thereunder), or causing to come into force or making any order-in-council or regulation, or causing to come into force any other discriminatory action (including by way of any order by the Ontario Energy Board), in any case, in a way that adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest, including, for greater certainty, in any manner that is reasonably expected to limit the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations on the same basis as before such amendment was effected; (C) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario directly or indirectly amending the Guarantee or any of the financing transaction agreements without the agreement of the Financing Entity; (D) a court of competent jurisdiction (i) declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable or (ii) in a final and non-appealable

	judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act is ultra vires in a way that adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity, including, for greater certainty, in any manner that is reasonably expected to limit the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its funding obligations on the same basis as before such judgement; or (E) there is a change in the organization, structure or operations of the IESO or a change in the electricity market structure or operations in any way that adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest, including, for greater certainty, in any manner that is reasonably expected to limit the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations on the same basis as before such amendment was effected [NTD: Alternatively, with respect to the IESO servicing obligations, include the Servicing Guarantee language with respect to the IESO that was included in the last mark-up of the term sheet received from the Province.]
Guarantee:	Upon the occurrence of a Guarantee Activation Event, the Guarantor shall immediately assume and pay when due (without acceleration) all of the obligations of the Financing Entity. The obligations of the Financing Entity include its funding obligations as well as any other obligation the Financing Entity has related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (such as trustees, auditors, etc), rating agencies and any fees due to the securities commissions
Term:	The Guarantee will continue for as long as the Financing Entity has any outstanding financing or other contractual obligations and until such obligations have all been paid in full or otherwise satisfied

Approval Requirement:	The guarantee agreement containing the terms and conditions contemplated by this term sheet shall be entered into prior to the Financing Entity incurring its first funding obligation. The Province shall enter into the guarantee based on forms of program and series financing documents required for each financing transaction (e.g., form of supplemental indenture). As long as the financing transaction documents are generally consistent with the agreed upon form, the Province's specific approval for specific funding obligations incurred by the Financing Entity will not be required. Subsequent approval is only needed if the form of such documents are materially changed. For greater certainty, deal specific terms (such as tenor, pricing, etc) shall not be considered a change in the form of transaction and series documents
FIPPA:	The parties will acknowledge that the Guarantor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Guarantor, or any agent or representative of the Guarantor in connection with the Guarantee may be subject to disclosure in accordance with the act or as otherwise required by law
Representations and Warranties:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Guarantor and the Financing Entity
Confidentiality Obligations:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Guarantor and the Financing Entity
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario

Warehousing Takeout Risk and Servicing (Commingling) Risk Note – these items are provided for information purposes only as these risks were included in the previous version of the term sheet as items that the Dealers/OPG were looking for the Province for protection against. The current proposals with respect to these items is described below. These do not contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks.
Commingling Risk (applies to Warehouse as well as any Term transactions)
Commingling Risk Mitigant:	For any LDC which is not investment grade rated by each of the rating agencies which are rating the funding obligations (the "Non-Investment Grade LDCs"), either: (A) The IESO must post a Letter of Credit (L/C), or deposit funds in a Commingling Reserve Account in a quantum equal to the Commingling Risk Amount; or (B) The IESO, for so long as it is rated investment grade by the rating agencies which are rating the funding obligations, will assume responsibility for commingling risk by the LDCs and will agree to remit to the Financing Entity any clean energy adjustment amounts collected by the LDC, regardless of whether the LDC remitted those amounts to the IESO for remittance to the Financing Entity
Commingling Risk Amount:	An amount equal to the sum of the expected Clean Energy Adjustment collections from the Non-Investment Grade LDCs over the next [45-60] days
Commingling Risk Amount Reset Date:	Each settlement date for the Financing Entity (monthly)
Beneficiary:	The beneficiary of the L/C or the Commingling Reserve Account would be the Financing Entity and the Indenture Trustee for the benefit of the creditors of the Financing Entity. The Financing Entity and/or the Indenture Trustee would have the ability to draw down the L/C or draw on the Commingling Reserve Account for any clean energy adjustment amounts expected to be received from the IESO but which were not received due to those funds not being remitted from an LDC to the IESO for that period
L/C Provider:	An entity rated at least A+ (or equivalent)

Approvals:	The approach is subject to approval from the IESO, by the rating agencies rating the funding obligations of the Financing Entity and the risk management areas of the banks providing the warehouse facilities
Warehouse Takeout Risk
Commitment Period for Warehouse[1]:	Expected to be 12-24 months
Takeout for Warehouse:	Expected to be every 3-6 months
Warehouse Default Event:	One of the events of default for the warehouse will be the failure to repay the warehouse facility at the end of the commitment term
Consequences of Warehouse Default Event:	If the Warehouse Default Event[2] described above occurs, all amounts funded through the warehouse would become immediately due and payable, subject to the Warehouse Default Payment Cap, and Default Pricing will be charged on any amounts funded through the warehouse facility
Default Pricing:	Step up in pricing to [x] until the moratorium period ends and thereafter stepping-up in increments of [y] every six months until the warehouse facility is repaid

[1] Please note that this is not intended to be an exhaustive list of terms for the warehouse facility, but rather is a summary of a few select terms that relate to the warehouse takeout risk.

[2] Note there may be other Warehouse Default Events beyond the takeout risk item described above. The consequences for a breach of these other Warehouse Default Events may be different than the one described above where the default is related to failure to takeout the warehouse facility by the end of the commitment period.

Warehouse Default Payment Cap:	For any given reference period following the occurrence of a Warehouse Default Event, the amount that shall be remitted to the Financing Entity for repayment of the warehouse facilities will be the sum of (x) the interest amount due on the warehouse facilities (which, for greater certainty will include any program fees) and (y) the lessor of: (a) The outstanding amount funded through the warehouse facilities; and (b) The maximum amount that can be charged for that period so that clean energy adjustments are equal to, but do not exceed, the fair allocation amount for such period.
Approval Requirement:	Subject to approval by the risk management areas of the banks providing the warehouse facilities which will in part depend on receipt of information on the fair allocation curve and an understanding of how long the "tail risk" could be following a Warehouse Default Event

Change in Law Risk

- Holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt could be negatively impacted by:
  - Changes to legislation or other discriminatory action by the Province as no government can limit the ability of future governments to amend or enact legislation or take other actions as it may deem appropriate
  - Court decision that the Fair Hydro Plan does not have the authority to levy the charge to consumers or declares any funding obligations to be invalid or unenforceable
  - Changes to the organization, structure or operations of the IESO or the electricity market
- Debt is not financeable without protection for these risks
- Risk is addressed through contractual guarantee that would be triggered upon the occurrence of specified events
- If guarantee is triggered there would not be an acceleration of payment
- If guarantee is triggered the Province would step in to service the obligations of the financing entity
- Guarantee may need to be revised at a future date, or approval from the Province may be required, if the financing entity must access US market as investors in that market will likely require additional compensation if the guarantee is triggered

Short Term Debt Financing Takeout Risk

- Monthly purchases by the financing entity would initially be financed using short term debt as the financing entity needs to warehouse a larger amount for efficient execution in the term debt markets
  - Short term debt providers are exposed to the risk that takeout funding is not available in term debt markets for a period of time
- If this short term debt is not repaid by the end of the short term debt facility commitment this risk is addressed through an escalation of the pricing of such short term debt:
  - Interest rate for short term debt increases by a specified amount at the time of the event until the moratorium period ends
  - Thereafter, interest rate increases by a further specified amount for every additional 6 month interval during which the short term debt remains unpaid

LDC Commingling Risk

- Clean Energy Adjustment amounts will be collected from consumers by LDCs and held until remitted to the IESO / financing entity. For any LDC which is not rated or non-investment grade rated by each of the rating agencies which are rating the funding obligations, the agencies will require these LDCs to remit collections daily, unless other credit mitigants are established
- The majority of LDCs are not rated and it would be cost prohibitive to establish ratings for these entities; 10 LDCs are collectively rated by S&P, DBRS and Moody's (Moody's only rates Hydro One)
  - It is estimated that LDCs not rated by any agency deliver power to ~25% of the Ontario electricity market
- This risk is addressed through providing the financing entity with a letter of credit:
  - Amount of letter of credit is approximately one to two month's estimated collections from all unrated or non-investment grade LDCs
  - Letter of credit to be provided by the IESO on behalf of the LDCs
  - Cost of the letter of credit and any amounts drawn can be recovered by the IESO through the Global Adjustment
- Alternatively, this risk may be addressed by the IESO depositing funds into a commingling reserve account for a similar amount or the IESO contractually agreeing to assume responsibility for paying the CEA amounts required to be remitted by such LDCs

Yes something strange seems to have happened to the file format.

I believe I have it fixed, all the comments on comments that I had added appear to be in this version.

We had started a markup on the third floor, so tried to merge the two docs, but some of the comments on comments seemed to have been lost.

Hi Ron,

As promised, here is the latest version for your review.

The only comments we've received so far are from Malle, but they are mostly general and I was unsure how to translate them into specific edits given my unfamiliarity with this file.

Before she left Anna gave me some direction on who I could follow up with to address Malle's various points. I've followed up, but the responses I've received are essentially "TBD/ still under review". I've left comments in the margins indicating each individual response.

Please let me know if you have any questions and what I can do to help going forward.

Thanks,
Matt on behalf of Anna Strathy

Hi Ron,

No, Anna has not sent any feedback to Malle from Gadi.

My plan is to follow up on the feedback Malle has provided with a variety of parties (Anna left a list) send the draft over to you for review, share it with Anthony Reiss in corporate and then distribute it to the wider distribution group after that.

Please let me know if that sounds like a reasonable approach to you.

Thanks,
Matt

Hi Ken,

Thanks for the additional information. I have already sent the draft to Energy Legal and will send it to Steve Ashbourne this morning.

Here are my very high level preliminary comments on this. This appears to be a fresh document drafted by OPG and its counsel after the meeting in July and then further business discussion since then. There are no track changes in this document, but I compared it to the version the Province sent to OPG on June 22nd and there are quite a few differences.

- The last sentence in the opening italics that "the arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate" has been deleted.
- It has been changed back to a guarantee from an indemnity.
- The Guarantee Activation Events have been expanded to include 5 as it seems that it has been restructured so that some of what was previously in the "performance" guarantee is added into (E), i.e. IESO's role.
- Concept of "materiality" has been deleted for (B) and (D).
- A concept of "any other discriminatory action including OEB Orders has been introduced.
- The Guarantee wording includes the word "assume" as opposed to just "pay".
- Also, the guarantee has reverted to some of the very general wording that the Province is guarantee "all of the obligations of the Financing Entity" not just the debt obligations. These include any other obligation of the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (such as trustees, auditors, etc), rating agencies and any fees due to the securities commission??

- Approval requirement has been changed so that Province does not have right to approve any specific guarantee of funding obligations or set of documents before the guarantee is applied as long as documents are consistent – but who decides?
- Also the second portion called Warehousing Takeout Risk and Servicing – it's mentioned that this is for information purposes only as these risk were included in previous versions – current proposals described here and it doesn't contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks. I would say perhaps similar risks might have been dealt with but this section looks new and I don't' understand what the Province's role is in providing these assurances. Legal would need more background on how this is supposed to work.

The authority for the Province's guarantee is contained in s. 5(3) of the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 and requires an OIC to authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province to agree to guarantee/indemnity obligations associated with an investment interest. The LGIC may delegate to the Ministers to determine the terms and conditions of the guarantee and the maximum liability for the guarantee or may also specify this in the OIC. Given that it appears there will be multiple debt issuances as part of this financing program of the Financing Entity, we will have to determine how best to approach the drafting of the OIC and the guarantee in the context of this debt program. So far, we have not received any draft documents for the program such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc and as a result it is difficult to provide comments on the term sheet and in particular scope of the guarantee and how the province's approval of the terms and conditions might work in order to make the debt financing program of the Financing Entity work smoothly and effectively.

Is it possible to obtain drafts from OPG at this point. I believe that back in July on a call, it was mentioned that the next step was to ask for these drafts so that we can better understand how the proposed guarantee will fit with the proposed program documents. It's not possible to actually draft a guarantee without seeing these documents. Drafting provisions that contains "discriminatory action" type language can be difficult to ensure that there are no unforeseen consequences and that the Province's intent is captured.

It would also be helpful to find out a bit more about the timing as the briefing note mentions a TB decision in September to approve the guarantee. Is a TB submission being drafted as it would be helpful to see a draft of this as well.

I will pass on my general comments to Energy Legal and Steve as well. I understand that Scott's group is the business contact and I believe that there were Energy policy staff involved in some of the earlier calls and meetings as well.

Perhaps it might be helpful to schedule a meeting for next week to discuss the various comments on this. If in the meantime, there is any more background or you are able to obtain draft agreements, this would be helpful.

Thanks.

Hi Malle

Sorry for the delay in responding to your questions. First can you pls share the revised term sheet with Steven Ashbourne for his comments. Secondly, following protocol I have requested OPG to forward the same document to Energy Legal who may then reach out to you for consolidated comments.

With regard to business decisions from the last version: OPG and their advisors have removed any obligation on the part of the Province to either accelerate payments on the outstanding debt or pay a 1% premium in case the guarantee is invoked. The debt guarantee is now palatable from the Province's perspective and subject to Legal review of not only the Term Sheet but the draft guarantee document once we receive same from OPG, we are recommending provincial approval.

The servicing guarantee has now been restated as an IESO obligation requiring the Operator to either provide an Letter of Credit or assume responsibility for any shortfalls in the CEA arising from lower than investment grade/Non rated LDCs failing to remit their collections, for whatever reason, once the CEA kicks in

IESO is not comfortable with this requirement and is regrouping internally to respond, OPG has also agreed to examine other potential solutions for this issue. I am attaching a summary sheet that you may find useful, that outlines the issues in the Term Sheet and our responses.

Pls note that I have expanded the cc's to this email since I will on vacation starting tomorrow to Labour Day.

Thanks

Hi Malle,

I would not know f this has been passed on to Energy Legal; by OPG yet. Ken, would you know?

As you stated, last week's meeting was a business meeting, without Legal representatives from various sides, including not having Steve Ashbourne attend, so I wouldn't think he'd have reviewed this new version either -- Ken, your sense on that?

Hi Ken,

Thank you for passing on the draft. I should send this on to Energy Legal as well in case they have not received it yet. Do you know if Steve Ashbourne of Blakes has been reviewing the term sheet recently and been involved in discussions on this?

This is the first version of the term sheet that we have received since it was sent over to OPG on late June. After that there was a response from Torys dated June 30th with some high level comments on the revised term sheet and an internal Provincial call to discuss the Province's response. Subsequently there was a meeting of representatives of the Province and OPG on July 13th which Toby and also Tom McKinlay of Energy legal attended to discuss considerations regarding the guarantee. It looks like there have been some further discussions regarding the term sheet and understand that there may have been a meeting on the business side last week but MOF LSB was not asked to participate. In order to provide comments on this term sheet, it will be helpful for us to find out more about what the business discussions have been and what approach the Province wishes to take and also consult with Energy Legal and Blakes.

Is there a track changes version of this term sheet from June? Also, as I recall back in early July, we were going to ask OPG to provide to us some of the more detailed documents and drafts that would be associated with this guarantee such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc. Do you know if OPG has shared any of that with the Province?

Thanks.

Gadi, Ron and John

Pls see the attached revised guarantee and a short presentation on the salient points. It seems to include all of the revisions we requested, however, I will take another more detailed look. Ron and John one section particularly for your review, the Takeout Risk at the end of the Term Sheet indicates the link between the clean energy adjustment and the fair allocation amount as they impact the Takeout risk. I am not very clear about this so you may want to review this closely.

The request for the Letter of Credit still stands however, there is an alternative also provided we have to see tomorrow how comfortable IESO is with the latter.

Thanks

Hi John

Just to follow up on Andrew Maciel's commitment to provide us with a revised term sheet for the guarantee reflecting yesterday's discussion, I was wondering if that can be done EOD Monday. I had a chat with Gadi and given some upcoming internal meetings at senior levels it would be helpful to provide the revised guarantee in front of decision makers.

Thanks

This submission is to request that Treasury Board:

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide a ~~provincial~~ guarantee, to be authorized by Order in Council ~~as contemplated~~ under the ~~Ontario~~ Fair Hydro ~~Plan~~ Act, 2017 in ~~to~~ respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to~~that~~ Cabinet ~~approve~~ an Order in Council, ~~in accordance with~~ to be made under subsection 5(3) of the ~~Ontario~~ Fair Hydro Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the

Commented [AS1]: Matt, as I understand it, the Province has agreed to take over fees of service providers, rating agencies, etc. Please ask Ron or Malle if this needs to be more explicit in the summary of request.

Commented [MOF LSB2]: It would be useful to be able to narrow the scope of the guarantee wording. Currently it is not limited to principal and interest on the debt issued by the financing entity but could cover fees of service providers, rating agencies, etc. We should work toward making this clearer and if we could get copies of draft agreements such as the Master Trust Indenture, Supplemental Indenture, draft offering documents, any other agreements that would shed some light on how the debt instruments are issued and their terms and conditions this would be helpful.

Commented [RK3]: Need to confirm direction.

Commented [RK4]: Wouldn't it be better to write out the name of the Act in full, at least the first time?

Commented [MOF LSB5]: Not sure that it is TB's role to approve the guarantee given that it is to be authorized by OIC and that either the OIC or the two Ministers determine the terms, but we can leave this wording to a later time.

Commented [AS6]: Matt, this is a good question and you may want to raise it with Anthony to raise with TBS. As I understand it, this is coming to TB/MBC on the recommendation of TBS, given the size of the guarantee and its policy implications for the FHP. TB/MBC approval may not be needed, but TBS felt it important for the Board to be aware. Wording may need to be adjusted.

Commented [AS7]: Anthony mentioned TBS is still reviewing the draft submission, but that TB could authorize (instead of Approve). (Matt).

Commented [MOF LSB8]: Not sure that it is TB's role to approve the guarantee given that it is to be authorized by OIC and that either the OIC or the two Ministers determine the terms, but we can leave this wording to a later time.

Commented [RK9]: Suggest discussing with TB analyst the form of the request to TB and the TB Minute.

Commented [AS10]: You may want to flag this comment for Keley Katona - has Energy landed on a maximum liability?

Commented [MOF LSB11]: Assume that the draft OIC would be attached but depending on when this goes to TB, is there sufficient detail and certainty to draft the OIC. Will there be a maximum liability set out in the OIC – usually there is in the OIC as well as in the guarantee itself.

Commented [RK12]: In this case, could it be tied to the requirements of the Act, without a specific maximum, or tied to amount consistent to some determination under the Act, such as the fair allocation amout determination, or cumualative annual fair adjustment amounts under the Act (including financing costs)?

Commented [AS13]: Analysis is still underway by energy, working with OPG (Matt).

Commented [MOF LSB14]: Is it expected that both Ministers will sign the recommendation on the OIC? Need to consider whether and how the s. 28 process would work. If Minister of Finance recommends the OIC and also signs the guarantee, it may be that a separate approval is not required.

Commented [AS15]: I'm not sure I understand this. I would go back to Malle for explanation. Ultimately, we will need Legal to provide advice on how the s. 28 would work.

Commented [AS16]: Followed up with Malle, agreed it should be TBD for now as LSB should provide further advice. (Matt)

3. BACKGROUND:

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP)~~, which would~~to lower electricity bills by 25~~%~~%, on average, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years~~, starting in the summer of 2017~~. The OFHP includes the deferral of a portion of the Global Adjustment portion of the cost of electricity. The deferral is built around the principle that the costs incurred to put in place assets for generation and support conservation to move to a clean, reliable system, would last longer than their typical 20-year contract period and would be able to provide benefits for future ratepayers, and that the costs should be spread more fairly between current and future rates.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years. This estimate is being updated and will be presented to [TB/MBC/Cabinet] as part of a report-back by the Ministry of Energy.

Under the ~~Ontario~~ Fair Hydro ~~Plan~~ Act, 2017, (the Act), which came into effect on June 1, 2017, the IESO is able to ~~create a regulatory asset~~ establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts arising from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account~~approximately equal to the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation~~. The Act provides for the IESO to sell the regulatory asset; i.e., ~~and~~ the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the Act, ~~a~~ Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial SevicesServices Manager under section 18, is authorized under section 22 to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations. Such a Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the eligible ratepayers.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG is, therefore, requesting that the Government of Ontario provide a guarantee to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

Commented [MOF LSB17]: This is the short title of the Act.

Commented [MOF LSB18]: Might be helpful to include more information about OPG developing the Financing Plan, what funding obligations are, etc.

Commented [AS19]: Check with Ron.

Commented [RK20]: I'd see if Energy can share its description on this.

Commented [MOF LSB21]: Might be helpful to include more information about OPG developing the Financing Plan, what funding obligations are, etc.

Commented [MOF LSB22]: Depending on what the scope of the guarantee is, wording should be refined to describe it more accurately – i.e. it is a guarantee of the Financing Entity's debt obligations in favour of the holders of the debt or maybe it's broader than that.

Commented [AS23]: Not sure we need to incorporate this suggestion. Malle can provide line edits on a subsequent draft if she thinks it requires more specificity. Check with Ron.

Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Guarantee:

- Decisions by the Legislative Assembly, i.e., repeal of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity;
- A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO adversely impacting the Financing Entity.

In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province would take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers.

The guarantee would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the guarantee is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the guarantee is providedgiven approved, the GovernmentProvince of Ontario takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability willwouldill increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated [$24B to $26B (to be revised as Energy re-estimates)] of debt principal, along with associated interest payments.

In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province's net debt willwouldill be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by an amount equal to the weighted average cost of the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the guarantee.

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt

Commented [MOF LSB24]: The wording in this section will need more work once we have reviewed the current term sheet.

Commented [MOF LSB25]: Not sure it is correct that Province will "take over the obligations" – isn't the Province just going to pay as they come due? Also again note outstanding payments to service providers (whoever they might be) is broader than payments on the financing entities debt.

Commented [AS26]: Check with Ron, but I think this reflects that Legal is only getting up to speed now on the guarantee discussions over the last month. But she's right that we'll need to be consistent in how we refer to the guarantee (it is broader than the debt payments).

Commented [MOF LSB27]: OPCD to review

Commented [AS28]: Recommend sending the draft submission (v. 3) to Sarah Hosick (copy Anthony) and asking if Mark Donaldson can review the submission and provide comment. Cindy likely hasn't had time to review because she's busy with Public Accounts.

Commented [AS29]: I've followed up but still waiting for a response(Matt).

(IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between [$0.8B and $1.3B] per annum, depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at.

It is important to note that, if the guarantee is triggered, and the Province assumes the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the Act continue or not, in some form. If the payment streams from ratepayers in the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

7. RECOMMENDATION

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a provincial guarantee, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the guarantee.

Commented [MOF LSB30]: In general, this TB submission needs more information on:
-The amount of debt that will be issued and over what time period.
-The maximum amount that the Province will guarantee.
-Where the debt will be issued
-In order to describe the risk

Commented [RK31]: Could include Energy's curve from the March 2nd CabSub, as well as the interim update in the more recent LTEP deck---but would be subject to updates per Energy's anticipated forthcoming submissions cited above.

Commented [AS32]: This issue came up at the term sheet meeting, still TBD (Matt).

Commented [MOF LSB33]: Include of a discussion of the risk associated with the trigger events – what are the risks – are there legal risks regarding the legislation and whether a court might find it to be invalid for some reason – have legal opinions been obtained on this? Are some of these risks within the control of the government so can be mitigated in some way?

Commented [RK34]: We should get input from Energy on this, to be consistent with what is, or will be, in Energy submissions.

Commented [MOF LSB35]: It may be the case that this is a more general approval and the 2 Ministers will determine the terms and condition in accordance with the authorization given to them by the OIC. It depends on how soon the actual wording of the guarantee can be confirmed as opposed to the draft term sheet – The province should not sign of commit to the term sheet as the province's authority comes from the OIC.

Commented [AS36]: Check with Ron.

Please find attached, for your review and comment, a draft OIC authorizing the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Energy to give a guarantee/indemnity under the Fair Hydro Plan Act.

This draft gives a lot of authority to the Ministers to determine the scope and content of the guarantee. It would be helpful to consider whether additional terms and conditions (including a maximum amount or other limitations) should be included.

WHEREAS pursuant to subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act"), the Lieutenant Governor in Council may by order authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest as described under the Act;

Pursuant to subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of Ontario, are authorized to enter into one or more agreements to guarantee or indemnify the debts, obligations securities or undertakings of a Financing Entity associated with investment interests acquired by a Financing Entity. [NTD: This mirrors the wording of the section so doesn't scope the guarantee in any way except by relating it to a Financing Entity.]

Some more specificity may be desirable here – usually the Province guarantees payment of principal and interest only, not penalties or other costs on debt securities and loans. We should consider whether the OIC needs to specify if guaranteeing payments on other agreements other than debt securities issued or loans taken out, understanding that a broader form of guarantee may be desired in this case. Fees payable to service providers and derivatives counterparties would generally be established under separate agreements although they are referenced in the waterfall provisions in the master trust indenture.]

the maximum aggregate [principal amount] guaranteed/[maximum liability] shall not exceed $XX.] [NTD: Need to determine whether maximum amount will be inserted here or the two Ministers will determine maximum liability in guarantee agreement].

Hi Matt,

I didn`t review any more following the consolidated set of markups you sent me, with CEFD edits.

I think it`s fine to send that out to the group for further feedback.

As for next week`s meeting, I`d be fine if you attend, unless John can.

Hi Ron,

I just wanted to touch base on the status of the TB submission before you're off next week.

As it stands, once you're done with your review, I'll distribute the latest copy to Anthony, and once he's commented distribute it to the wider group next week.

I also wanted to ask about the FHP briefing for the energy Minister on Tuesday. Gadi mentioned that if no one else is available I could attend on behalf of the OFA, which I'm happy to do. However, if there is someone more senior who you'd like to attend as well, please let me know.

Thanks,

Hi Ron,

As promised, here is the latest version for your review.

The only comments we've received so far are from Malle, but they are mostly general and I was unsure how to translate them into specific edits given my unfamiliarity with this file.

Before she left Anna gave me some direction on who I could follow up with to address Malle's various points. I've followed up, but the responses I've received are essentially "TBD/ still under review". I've left comments in the margins indicating each individual response.

Please let me know if you have any questions and what I can do to help going forward.

No, Anna has not sent any feedback to Malle from Gadi.

My plan is to follow up on the feedback Malle has provided with a variety of parties (Anna left a list) send the draft over to you for review, share it with Anthony Reiss in corporate and then distribute it to the wider distribution group after that.

Please let me know if that sounds like a reasonable approach to you.

> Here are my very high level preliminary comments on this. This appears to be a fresh document drafted by OPG and its counsel after the meeting in July and then further business discussion since then. There are no track changes in this document, but I compared it to the version the Province sent to OPG on June 22nd and there are quite a few differences.
> - The last sentence in the opening italics that "the arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate" has been deleted.
> - It has been changed back to a guarantee from an indemnity.
> - The Guarantee Activation Events have been expanded to include 5 as it seems that it has been restructured so that some of what was previously in the "performance" guarantee is added into (E), i.e. IESO's role.
> - Concept of "materiality" has been deleted for (B) and (D).
> - A concept of "any other discriminatory action including OEB Orders has been introduced.
> - The Guarantee wording includes the word "assume" as opposed to just "pay".
> - Also, the guarantee has reverted to some of the very general wording that the Province is guarantee “all of the obligations of the Financing Entity” not just the debt obligations. These include any other obligation of the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (such as trustees, auditors, etc), rating agencies and any fees due to the securities commission??

- Approval requirement has been changed so that Province does not have right to approve any specific guarantee of funding obligations or set of documents before the guarantee is applied as long as documents are consistent – but who decides?
- Also the second portion called Warehousing Takeout Risk and Servicing – it’s mentioned that this is for information purposes only as these risk were included in previous versions – current proposals described here and it doesn’t contain any requirement for the Province to directly backstop these risks. I would say perhaps similar risks might have been dealt with but this section looks new and I don’t’ understand what the Province’s role is in providing these assurances. Legal would need more background on how this is supposed to work.

The authority for the Province’s guarantee is contained in s. 5(3) of the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 and requires an OIC to authorize the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province to agree to guarantee/indemnity obligations associated with an investment interest. The LGIC may delegate to the Ministers to determine the terms and conditions of the guarantee and the maximum liability for the guarantee or may also specify this in the OIC. Given that it appears there will be multiple debt issuances as part of this financing program of the Financing Entity, we will have to determine how best to approach the drafting of the OIC and the guarantee in the context of this debt program. So far, we have not received any draft documents for the program such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc and as a result it is difficult to provide comments on the term sheet and in particular scope of the guarantee and how the province’s approval of the terms and conditions might work in order to make the debt financing program of the Financing Entity work smoothly and effectively.

Is it possible to obtain drafts from OPG at this point. I believe that back in July on a call, it was mentioned that the next step was to ask for these drafts so that we can better understand how the proposed guarantee will fit with the proposed program documents. It’s not possible to actually draft a guarantee without seeing these documents. Drafting provisions that contains “discriminatory action” type language can be difficult to ensure that there are no unforeseen consequences and that the Province’s intent is captured.

It would also be helpful to find out a bit more about the timing as the briefing note mentions a TB decision in September to approve the guarantee. Is a TB submission being drafted as it would be helpful to see a draft of this as well.

I will pass on my general comments to Energy Legal and Steve as well. I understand that Scott’s group is the business contact and I believe that there were Energy policy staff involved in some of the earlier calls and meetings as well.

Perhaps it might be helpful to schedule a meeting for next week to discuss the various comments on this. If in the meantime, there is any more background or you are able to obtain draft agreements, this would be helpful.

Thanks.

Hi Malle

Sorry for the delay in responding to your questions. First can you pls share the revised term sheet with Steven Ashbourne for his comments. Secondly, following protocol I have requested OPG to forward the same document to Energy Legal who may then reach out to you for consolidated comments.

With regard to business decisions from the last version: OPG and their advisors have removed any obligation on the part of the Province to either accelerate payments on the outstanding debt or pay a 1% premium in case the guarantee is invoked. The debt guarantee is now palatable from the Province's perspective and subject to Legal review of not only the Term Sheet but the draft guarantee document once we receive same from OPG, we are recommending provincial approval.

The servicing guarantee has now been restated as an IESO obligation requiring the Operator to either provide an Letter of Credit or assume responsibility for any shortfalls in the CEA arising from lower than investment grade/Non rated LDCs failing to remit their collections, for whatever reason, once the CEA kicks in

IESO is not comfortable with this requirement and is regrouping internally to respond, OPG has also agreed to examine other potential solutions for this issue. I am attaching a summary sheet that you may find useful, that outlines the issues in the Term Sheet and our responses.

Pls note that I have expanded the cc's to this email since I will on vacation starting tomorrow to Labour Day.

Thanks

Hi Malle,

I would not know f this has been passed on to Energy Legal; by OPG yet. Ken, would you know?

As you stated, last week's meeting was a business meeting, without Legal representatives from various sides, including not having Steve Ashbourne attend, so I wouldn't think he'd have reviewed this new version either -- Ken, your sense on that?

Hi Ken,

Thank you for passing on the draft. I should send this on to Energy Legal as well in case they have not received it yet. Do you know if Steve Ashbourne of Blakes has been reviewing the term sheet recently and been involved in discussions on this?

This is the first version of the term sheet that we have received since it was sent over to OPG on late June. After that there was a response from Torys dated June 30th with some high level comments on the revised term sheet and an internal Provincial call to discuss the Province's response. Subsequently there was a meeting of representatives of the Province and OPG on July 13th which Toby and also Tom McKinlay of Energy legal attended to discuss considerations regarding the guarantee. It looks like there have been some further discussions regarding the term sheet and understand that there may have been a meeting on the business side last week but MOF LSB was not asked to participate. In order to provide comments on this term sheet, it will be helpful for us to find out more about what the business discussions have been and what approach the Province wishes to take and also consult with Energy Legal and Blakes.

Is there a track changes version of this term sheet from June? Also, as I recall back in early July, we were going to ask OPG to provide to us some of the more detailed documents and drafts that would be associated with this guarantee such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc. Do you know if OPG has shared any of that with the Province?

Thanks.

Gadi, Ron and John

Pls see the attached revised guarantee and a short presentation on the salient points. It seems to include all of the revisions we requested, however, I will take another more detailed look. Ron and John one section particularly for your review, the Takeout Risk at the end of the Term Sheet indicates the link between the clean energy adjustment and the fair allocation amount as they impact the Takeout risk. I am not very clear about this so you may want to review this closely.

The request for the Letter of Credit still stands however, there is an alternative also provided we have to see tomorrow how comfortable IESO is with the latter.

Thanks

Hi John

Just to follow up on Andrew Maciel's commitment to provide us with a revised term sheet for the guarantee reflecting yesterday's discussion, I was wondering if that can be done EOD Monday. I had a chat with Gadi and given some upcoming internal meetings at senior levels it would be helpful to provide the revised guarantee in front of decision makers.

Thanks

PROVINCIAL GUARANTEE TO OPG FINANCING ENTITY

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide a guarantee or guarantees in respect of debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with investment interests acquired by one or more financing entities established by Ontario Power Generation Inc. pursuant to s. 22 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 ("OPG Financing Entities"), that, under certain circumstances as set out in the guarantee, the Province would pay when due amounts in respect of the debt obligations of the Financing Entity.

This submission is to request that Treasury Board:

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide a guarantee, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to Cabinet an Order in Council, to be made under subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the guarantee.

3. BACKGROUND:

Commented [MOF LSB1]: It would be useful to be able to narrow the scope of the guarantee wording. Currently it is not limited to principal and interest on the debt issued by the financing entity but could cover fees of service providers, rating agencies, etc. We should work toward making this clearer and if we could get copies of draft agreements such as the Master Trust Indenture, Supplemental Indenture, draft offering documents, any other agreements that would shed some light on how the debt instruments are issued and their terms and conditions this would be helpful.

Commented [RK2]: Need to confirm direction.

Commented [RK3]: Suggest discussing with TB analyst the form of the request to TB and the TB Minute.

Commented [RK4]: In this case, could it be tied to the requirements of the Act, without a specific maximum, or tied to amount consistent to some determination under the Act, such as the fair allocation amount determination, or cumulative annual fair adjustment amounts under the Act (including financing costs)?

Commented [AS5]: Analysis on maximum liability still underway by energy, working with OPG (Matt).

Commented [AS6]: TBD if both Ministers will sign the recommendation on the OIC (Matt).

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) to lower electricity bills by 25%, on average, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years. The OFHP includes the deferral of a portion of the Global Adjustment portion of the cost of electricity. The deferral is built around the principle that the costs incurred to put in place assets for generation and support conservation to move to a clean, reliable system, would last longer than their typical 20-year contract period and would be able to provide benefits for future ratepayers, and that the costs should be spread more fairly between current and future rates.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years. This estimate is being updated and will be presented to [TB/MBC/Cabinet] as part of a report-back by the Ministry of Energy.

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (the Act), which came into effect on June 1, 2017, the IESO is able to establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts arising from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account. The Act provides for the IESO to sell the regulatory asset; i.e., the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the Act, Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager under section 18, is authorized under section 22 to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations. Such a Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the eligible ratepayers.

Commented [MOF LSB7]: Might be helpful to include more information about OPG developing the Financing Plan, what funding obligations are, etc.

Commented [RK8]: I'd see if Energy can share its description on this.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG is, therefore, requesting that the Government of Ontario provide a guarantee to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Guarantee:

- Decisions by the Legislative Assembly, i.e., repeal of the Ontario Fair

Commented [MOF LSB9]: The wording in this section will need more work once we have reviewed the current term sheet.

Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity;
- A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO adversely impacting the Financing Entity.

In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province would take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers.

The guarantee would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

Commented [MOF LSB10]: Not sure it is correct that Province will "take over the obligations" – isn't the Province just going to pay as they come due? Also again note outstanding payments to service providers (whoever they might be) is broader than payments on the financing entities debt.

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the guarantee is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the guarantee is provided the Province of Ontario takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability would increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated [$24B to $26B (to be revised as Energy re-estimates)] of debt principal, along with associated interest payments.

In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the guarantee.

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between [$0.8B and $1.3B] per annum, depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at.

Commented [MOF LSB11]: OPCD to review

Commented [MOF LSB12]: In general, this TB submission needs more information on:
-The amount of debt that will be issued and over what time period.
-The maximum amount that the Province will guarantee.
-Where the debt will be issued
-In order to describe the risk

Commented [RK13]: Could include Energy's curve from the March 2nd CabSub, as well as the interim update in the more recent LTEP deck---but would be subject to updates per Energy's anticipated forthcoming submissions cited above.

Commented [AS14]: This issue came up at the term sheet meeting, still TBD (Matt).

It is important to note that, if the guarantee is triggered, and the Province assumes the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the Act continue or not, in some form. If the payment streams from ratepayers in the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

Commented [MOF LSB15]: Include of a discussion of the risk associated with the trigger events – what are the risks – are there legal risks regarding the legislation and whether a court might find it to be invalid for some reason – have legal opinions been obtained on this? Are some of these risks within the control of the government so can be mitigated in some way?

Commented [RK16]: We should get input from Energy on this, to be consistent with what is, or will be, in Energy submissions.

7. RECOMMENDATION

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a provincial guarantee, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

Commented [MOF LSB17]: It may be the case that this is a more general approval and the 2 Ministers will determine the terms and condition in accordance with the authorization given to them by the OIC. It depends on how soon the actual wording of the guarantee can be confirmed as opposed to the draft term sheet – The province should not sign of commit to the term sheet as the province's authority comes from the OIC.

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the guarantee.

Subject: Fair Hydro - Option for Province to Cure Default before Acceleration of Debt

Dear James,

During the discussions of the Provincial guarantee at a recent Thursday rate mitigation meeting, OPG raised the issue of potential acceleration of financing entity debt where the guarantee is not applicable. That would occur if there is an event of default (e.g. if the trust is not able to pay/service the debt) for a reason that doesn't trigger the guarantee (e.g. for a reason other than a change of the legislation).

When there is an acceleration, all of the principal amount becomes due and a large payment would need to be made by the financing entity to bondholders. If the acceleration occurs after the moratorium period, the amount payable to bondholders would be put through the Clean Energy Adjustment to specified consumers. That could result in a significant increase in consumer bills in a short period of time.

We understand that the Province may not want consumers to experience such a sharp bill increase. We discussed the Dealers whether the Province could be given the option to cure an event of default of a financing entity before it results in acceleration of debt. The Dealers were amenable to providing this option.

When we raised this possibility, the Province indicated it would like to have such an option, and asked us to put together a note describing the terms.

Please find attached a note describing the proposed terms of the option.

Let us know if you have any questions or comments, or if this should be directed to someone else.

Memorandum

To: Her Majesty the Queen in Right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (the "Province")

Date: August 30, 2017

From: Ontario Power Generation Inc.

Subject: Acceleration of Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act Obligations

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, clean energy adjustments are designed to recover the "funding obligations" and "finance amounts" (as defined in the Act and regulations thereunder, respectively, collectively referred to as the "Obligations") that become due during a reference period (each generally a six month period). This means that if there is an event of default under the master trust indenture (the "Indenture") that is not or cannot be cured, the full amount of the accelerated Obligations may become due and payable and be included in the calculation of the clean energy adjustments for the next reference period. Furthermore, it is likely that all funding obligations will be cross-defaulted to each other, so acceleration of one series of funding obligations will likely result in acceleration of all funding obligations. Accordingly, electricity rates for specified consumers would be set at a rate for a six-month period that would result in repayment in full of all outstanding and accelerated Obligations. On the assumption that all interested parties would like to avoid such a scenario, we have discussed with the dealers the following as an approach in the context of an event of default:

1. Upon the occurrence of a Default under the Indenture (being an event which, with the passage of time or giving of notice could become an Event of Default), the Province would have the following rights:

(a) a right to receive written notice from the trustee under the Indenture (at the same time that such trustee provides a notice to the financing entity through OPG as the manager) that a Default has occurred;

(b) in the event of the occurrence of an Event of Default that is not based upon the occurrence of a Default followed by a cure period (such as insolvency of the financing entity), a right to receive written notice from the trustee under the Indenture that an Event of Default has occurred; and

(c) a right to cure the Default or the Event of Default, as the case may be, within a specified cure period, which will run concurrently with any cure period available under the Indenture with respect to the applicable Event of Default.

2. The Indenture will provide that notwithstanding the occurrence of an Event of Default, the Obligations may not be accelerated until the expiry of the cure period available to the Province. If the Default or Event of Default in question cannot be cured by the Province on behalf of the financing entity within this cure period, then the Province will have the option to "cure" and avoid acceleration of the Obligations by assuming those Obligations. This option would be set out in the provincial protection and assurances agreement. In such circumstances, as in the case of a change of law, the Fair Hydro program would be discontinued and the Obligations owing under the program would be those of the Province.

OPG doesn't have a full financing plan at this time. I believe they are hoping to firm up numbers from Energy fairly shortly, before they meet the ratings agencies. They are currently thinking of issuing $300 to $500 million in late September/early October. Roughly $125 million of this will be to fund the subordinated (5% requirement on roughly $2.5 billion of annual funding). The senior debt (the 51% that we are focussing on) is roughly planned for late November with roughly $400 million of issuance and then follow-up issuance on a fairly regular basis thereafter. Hope this is helpful.

to permit reconciliation between the Servicer CEA Collections and the Clean Energy Adjustment;

(e) instituting any action or proceeding necessary to compel performance by the Board, the IESO, the Province of Ontario, the Indenture Trustee, the Issuer Trustee or any of their respective agents of any of their obligations or duties under the Act or any Program Agreement, as the case may be, and taking such legal or administrative actions, including defending against or instituting and pursuing legal actions and appearing or testifying at hearings or similar proceedings, in each case as may be reasonably necessary;

(f) seeking to block or overturn any attempts to cause a repeal of, modification of or supplement to the Act or the Regulations or the rights of holders of any Funding Obligations, by legislative enactment that would be materially adverse to the Issuer or the Specified Creditors or that would otherwise cause an impairment of the rights of the Issuer or the Specified Creditors; and

(g) instituting any action or proceeding necessary to appeal or challenge the decision of a court that would be materially adverse to the Issuer or the Specified Creditors or that would otherwise cause an impairment of the rights of the Issuer or the Specified Creditors.

4.3 Investment Interest Records

(a) The Manager will act as custodian of the Investment Interest Records as agent for and on behalf of and for the account of the Issuer, which are hereby constructively delivered to the Indenture Trustee, as pledgee of the Issuer with respect to the Issuer Investment Interest, and, in this regard, the Manager shall:

(i) hold the Investment Interest Records on behalf of the Issuer and the Indenture Trustee and maintain such accurate and complete accounts, records and computer systems pertaining to the Investment Interest Records as shall enable the Issuer and the Indenture Trustee, as applicable, to comply with the Program Agreements;

(ii) promptly report to the Issuer, the Indenture Trustee and the Rating Agencies any failure on its part to hold the Investment Interest Records and maintain its accounts, records and computer systems as herein provided and promptly take appropriate action to remedy any such failure;

(iii) maintain the Investment Interest Records at its offices at 700 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario or at such other office as shall be specified to the Issuer and the Indenture Trustee by written notice at least 30 days prior to any change in location;

(iv) make available for inspection, audit and copying to the Issuer and the Indenture Trustee or their respective duly authorized representatives, attorneys or auditors the Investment Interest Records at such times during normal business hours as the Issuer or the Indenture Trustee shall reasonably request and that do not unreasonably interfere with the Manager's normal operations; and

(v) upon instruction from the Indenture Trustee in accordance with the Indenture or any other Person in accordance with another Program Agreement, release any Investment Interest Records to the Indenture Trustee, the Indenture Trustee's agent or the Indenture Trustee's designee, as the case may be, at such place or places as the Indenture Trustee may designate, as soon as practicable.

(b) Nothing in this Section 4.3 shall affect the obligation of the Manager to observe any applicable law prohibiting disclosure of information regarding Specified Consumers, and the failure of the Manager to provide access to such information as a result of such obligation shall not constitute a breach of this Section 4.3.

(c) Nothing in this Section 4.3 shall be deemed to require an initial review or any periodic review by the Issuer or the Indenture Trustee of the Investment Interest Records. The Manager's duties to hold the Investment Interest Records set forth in this Section 4.3, to the extent the Investment Interest Records have not been previously transferred to a successor Manager pursuant to Section 7.1, shall terminate one year and one day after the earlier of (i) the date on which the Manager is succeeded by a successor Manager in accordance with Section 7.1 and (ii) the day after the termination of the Indenture and payment in full of the Issuer Funding Obligations or any other amounts owed under the Indenture.

4.4 Payment of Other Issuer Fees and Expenses

The Manager in accordance with the Program Agreements may, at its option, pay from its own funds the fees and expenses properly incurred on behalf of the Issuer in the ordinary course of the Issuer's operations. To the extent such fees and expenses are paid by the Manager from its own funds, the Issuer will reimburse the Manager for such payments, subject to the payment priorities specified in the Program Agreements.

4.5 Delegation

In connection with the services to be provided or duties to be performed by it under this Agreement, the Manager may, subject to any limitation on delegation imposed by applicable law, by the Declaration of Trust or by the Issuer, engage or employ any Persons as employees, agents, representatives, independent contractors or otherwise, including, without limitation, banks, underwriters, accountants, investment advisers, tax advisers, insurance advisers, lawyers, appraisers, bankers, brokers, dealers, depositories, custodians, agents for collection or others in one or more capacities and any other advisers which the Manager deems advisable, and may delegate any of the powers and duties of the Manager to any such Persons upon such terms and conditions as it may determine. For greater certainty, the Manager shall remain liable and responsible for any of the powers and duties of the Manager which it delegates to a third party.

4.6 Annual Compliance Certificates

The Manager shall provide to the Issuer Trustee a certificate in the form of Exhibit A within 120 days after the end of each fiscal year of the Issuer confirming compliance with the matters referred to in such certificate. The Issuer shall be entitled to rely on such certificate for the period between the effective dates of two consecutive certificates certifying such compliance unless the Issuer has received written notice to the contrary.

4.7 Acknowledgment of Duties as Financial Services Manager

The parties hereto acknowledge that, for so long as Ontario Power Generation Inc. is the Financial Services Manager appointed under the Act, Ontario Power Generation Inc., in its capacity as the Financial Services Manager, will satisfy its obligations as Financial Services Manager in accordance with the Act and the Regulations, and, for greater certainty, its services and duties in this regard will include:

(a) preparing the Financing Plan and, in accordance therewith, evaluating whether Funding Obligations should be incurred by the Issuer for the purposes of acquiring an Investment Interest or refinancing maturing Issuer Funding Obligations;

(b) determining the Clean Energy Adjustment (inclusive of any True Up Amount) payable by Specified Consumers in respect of each month in a Reference Period;

(c) calculating the True Up Amount;

(d) notifying the Board of the Clean Energy Adjustment (inclusive of any True Up Amount) in respect of a Reference Period or such other period as prescribed by the Regulations and sending a copy of such notice, as required, to the Issuer, the Indenture Trustee and the Rating Agencies concurrently therewith; and

(e) if, for any reason any Clean Energy Adjustment is not implemented and effective in respect of the Reference Period set forth in the notice and commencing on the date required under the Act, notifying the Issuer, the Indenture Trustee and each Rating Agency by the end of the second Business Day after such applicable date.

ARTICLE 5
OTHER PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE DUTIES AND COMPENSATION

5.1 Standard of Care

The Manager will perform its duties hereunder (including, for so long as it is the Financial Services Manager, its duties as Financial Services Manager under the Act and the Regulations) diligently and in conformity with the Issuer's obligations under the Program Agreements and with the Act and the Regulations, as applicable, and honestly, in good faith and in the best interests of the Issuer and, in connection therewith, will exercise the degree of care, diligence and skill that a reasonably prudent Person would exercise in comparable circumstances (the "Standard of Care"). In carrying out its obligations hereunder, the Manager may rely upon the opinion or advice of or information obtained from any counsel, auditor, valuer or certificates from officers of any of the other parties to Program Agreements. Unless otherwise required by applicable law, the Manager will not be required to give bond, surety or security in any jurisdiction for the performance of any duties or obligations hereunder. The Manager will not be required to devote its entire time to its duties hereunder. Notwithstanding anything else to the contrary herein contained, nothing herein shall be interpreted or construed as an obligation of or on the part of the Manager, and the Manager shall not be liable or obligated, to pay or make any payment of, on or in respect of any debt, liability or obligation of the Issuer (including any payment of, on or in respect of any Issuer Funding Obligations or under any other Program Agreement), as agent for or on behalf of the Issuer or otherwise, except from the monies or funds of the Issuer which are made available to the Manager pursuant to this Agreement or the other Program Agreements for the purpose of such payment.

5.2 Compliance with Program Agreements; Conformity with Law

The Manager acknowledges that it has received copies of the Program Agreements, the Act and the Regulations in effect on the date hereof and is familiar with and understands the duties of the respective parties thereto or governed thereby, including those duties of the Issuer which are being delegated to the Manager hereunder. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Manager shall perform its duties hereunder in a manner consistent with any applicable provisions of the Program Agreements in effect from time to time, and the Manager will not, in performing its obligations hereunder, take any action which it knows or ought reasonably to know would cause it or the Issuer to be in violation of any law, rule or regulation applicable to it. The Manager will use reasonable commercial efforts to comply with the terms applicable to the Issuer when acting on its behalf under all Program Agreements and will use reasonable commercial efforts in accordance with its Standard of Care to take such actions as would reasonably be expected to result in the representations and warranties given by the Issuer in any Program Agreement being true and correct in all material respects when made.

5.3 Liabilities

Except as provided in Section 5.6,

(a) the Manager will not be liable for any liabilities of the Issuer; and

(b) subject to the payment priorities specified in the Program Agreements, the Issuer agrees to indemnify, defend and hold harmless the Manager from and against any and all liabilities which may be imposed on, incurred by or assessed against the Manager as a result of any act or omission of the Issuer or the Manager under this Agreement or under any Program Agreement; provided that this Section 5.3(b) does not apply to the extent that in any circumstances there has been wilful misconduct or gross negligence of the Manager or its respective officers, employees or agents or any failure to comply with the standard of care required under Section 5.1.

To the extent that a liability is attributable solely to a single Series or a number of specific Series of Issuer Funding Obligations, the Manager will first exhaust its recourse against the assets available for recovery of such liability and designated to such Series of Issuer Funding Obligations. If such assets are insufficient to satisfy the indemnity set out in this Section 5.3, or if the liability is not attributable to a single Series or a number of specific Series of Issuer Funding Obligations, the liability will be satisfied on a pro rata basis as among the assets available for recovery of such liability and designated to all Issuer Funding Obligations.

Each party expressly disclaims any intention to create a partnership, and neither the Issuer nor the Manager will be deemed to be carrying on business in partnership by reason of its execution and delivery of this Agreement or the exercise or performance by it of its respective rights and obligations hereunder.

5.4 Compensation of the Manager

In consideration of and as compensation for all services provided and duties performed by the Manager pursuant to this Agreement, the Issuer will pay to the Manager, subject to the payment priorities specified in the Program Agreements: (i) the Management Base Fee on a monthly basis and (ii) the Management Variable Fee on an annual basis.[4] The Management Base Fee and the Management Variable Fee are exclusive of any applicable sales taxes and the Issuer shall pay to the Manager the amount of any applicable sales taxes in addition to such fees.

5.5 Compensation of the Issuer

In consideration of the Issuer engaging in the activities contemplated by the Act, the Manager will pay to the Issuer, on a monthly basis, the sum of $10 per month for any month or part thereof that the Issuer is engaged in such activities (the "Issuer Compensation"). The Issuer Compensation is exclusive of any applicable sales taxes and the Manager shall pay to the Issuer the amount of any applicable sales taxes in addition to the Issuer Compensation.

The Issuer and the Manager agree that in respect of any month that the Issuer has an amount payable to the Manager under Section 5.4 in an amount that is not less than $10 (plus the amount of any applicable sales taxes on the Issuer Compensation), the Manager's obligation to pay the compensation to the Issuer under this Section will be fully satisfied by way of setting-off $10 (plus the amount of any applicable sales taxes on the Issuer Compensation) of the amount payable by the Issuer to the Manager under Section 5.4 against the Manager's amount payable to the Issuer under this Section.

5.6 Indemnification by Manager

The Manager agrees to indemnify, defend and hold harmless the Issuer from and against any and all liabilities which may be imposed on, incurred by or assessed against the Issuer as the result of any wilful misconduct or gross negligence by the Manager, its officers, employees or agents or any failure to comply with the standard of care required under Section 5.1, provided that the Manager will have the exclusive right to compromise or defend, through counsel selected and retained by the Manager, any such liabilities or related claims at its own expense, which decision will be binding upon the Issuer. It is, however, expressly understood that the Manager is not agreeing to indemnify or hold the Issuer harmless with respect to any of the following:

[4] NTD: Section 5.4 and the related defined terms are subject to finalization of the fee regulations.

(a) payments due on Issuer Funding Obligations or other amounts borrowed;

(b) any breach or failure to perform on the part of any other third party under any Program Agreement;

(c) any claim arising out of the assessment of any tax or payments in lieu of tax by a taxing authority against the Issuer;

(d) any amount for which the Issuer agrees to indemnify the Manager hereunder;

(e) any liability of the Issuer accruing after the termination of this Agreement unless attributable to the actions or omissions of the Manager prior to such termination;

(f) any losses of the Issuer arising due to risks inherent in the Issuer Investment Interest; or

(g) any statements or certificates provided by the Issuer to the effect that

(i) any Funding Obligation is consistent with the Financing Plan, or

(ii) the estimated Finance Amount that would have become due and payable in any Reference Period is expected to align with the Fair Allocation Amount determined in respect of such Reference Period.

It is further understood that the Manager is not agreeing to indemnify or hold harmless the Issuer Trustee with respect to any liabilities resulting from the failure of the Issuer Trustee to satisfy the standard of care set out in the Declaration of Trust. Where the Manager has assumed total defense of a claim, it shall agree to ensure that any settlement of such claim does not include any form of admission of liability on the part of the Issuer Trustee (in its personal capacity).

The Manager agrees to indemnify, defend and hold harmless the Indenture Trustee from and against any and all liabilities which may be imposed on, incurred by or asserted against the Indenture Trustee as the result of any wilful misconduct or gross negligence relating to the maintenance and custody by the Manager, as custodian, of the Investment Interest Records; provided that (a) the Manager will have the exclusive right to compromise or defend, through counsel selected and retained by the Manager, any such liabilities or related claims at its own expense, which decision will be binding upon the Indenture Trustee and (b) the Manager shall not be liable for any portion of any liability resulting from the wilful misconduct, bad faith or gross negligence of the Indenture Trustee.

5.7 Contracting with Itself and Affiliates

In the exercise of its rights, duties and obligations, the Manager may, if it is acting in good faith, enter into, as Manager for the Issuer, agreements and other contracts to which the Manager, in its personal capacity, or an Affiliate of the Manager, is a party.

ARTICLE 6
REPRESENTATIONS AND WARRANTIES

6.1 Representations of the Issuer

The Issuer represents and warrants to the Manager that the execution, delivery and performance by the Issuer of this Agreement are within the powers of the Issuer and have been duly authorized by all necessary action on the part of the Issuer and do not contravene (i) the Program Agreements in effect on the date hereof or (ii) any law or contractual restriction binding on or affecting the Issuer and the Agreement is a legal, valid and binding obligation of the Issuer, enforceable against the Issuer.

6.2 Representations of the Manager

The Manager represents and warrants to the Issuer that (i) the execution, delivery and performance by the Manager of this Agreement are within the powers of the Manager and have been duly authorized by all necessary action on the part of the Manager and do not contravene any law or contractual restriction binding on or affecting the Manager and the Agreement is a legal, valid and binding obligation of the Manager enforceable against the Manager and (ii) it is not a non-resident of Canada for purposes of the Income Tax Act (Canada).

TERMINATION AND RESIGNATION

7.1 Termination

The Manager shall not be entitled to resign as manager of the Issuer or to terminate this Agreement for so long as any Funding Obligations remain outstanding. The Manager's rights and obligations under this Agreement (other than under Sections 5.3, 5.4, 5.6 and 8.3) will terminate, if the Manager receives a termination notice from (i) the Issuer Trustee, with the consent of the Indenture Trustee, or (ii) the Indenture Trustee, subject to the terms and conditions of the Indenture, in each case, on the 30th day after receipt of such notice. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no termination shall be effective until a replacement manager that satisfies the Rating Agency Condition has been approved and has entered into a management agreement whereby the replacement manager agrees to assume, in substance, the obligations of the Manager hereunder. Upon the termination of its rights and obligations under this Agreement, the Manager will notify the Rating Agencies and, promptly and upon the request of the Issuer, deliver to the Issuer all records (including Investment Interest Records) in the possession of the Manager relating to the performance of its services hereunder.

MISCELLANEOUS

8.1 Appointment of Manager as Attorney-in-Fact

Subject to any Program Agreement, the Issuer hereby irrevocably appoints the Manager as the Issuer's attorney-in-fact during the term of this Agreement, with full authority in the place and stead of and in the name of the Issuer or otherwise, including full power of substitution, from time to time in the Manager's discretion or as required by this Agreement, to take such actions on behalf of the Issuer as the Manager may deem necessary or advisable to comply with or effect the purposes of this Agreement and any Program Agreement including, without limitation, to execute any documents, instruments or certificates in connection therewith, to ask, demand, collect, sue for, recover, compound, receive and give acquittances and receipts for monies due or becoming due to the Issuer or otherwise owed thereto, to receive, endorse and collect any drafts or other instruments, documents and chattel paper in connection therewith, and to file any claims or take any action or institute any proceedings which the Manager may deem necessary or desirable for the collection thereof, or to enforce compliance with the terms and conditions of any Program Agreement.

8.2 Amendments and Waivers

(a) Subject to Section 8.2(b), this Agreement may be amended, supplemented, modified, restated or replaced from time to time by written instrument signed by the Issuer and the Manager. The Manager will forthwith after the execution of any such instrument by the Issuer and the Manager provide the Rating Agencies with a copy of such instrument.

(b) No provision of this Agreement may be amended, supplemented, modified, restated or replaced in any material respect without first obtaining the written consent of the Indenture Trustee in accordance with the Indenture and such amendment, supplement, modification or replacement will only be effective if the Rating Agency Condition has been satisfied.

(c) No waiver of any provision of this Agreement, nor consent to any departure by any party therefrom, shall in any event be effective unless the same shall be in writing and signed by such party and such waiver or consent, if material, will only be effective if the Rating Agency Condition has been satisfied, and then said waiver or consent shall be effective only in the specific instance and for the specific purpose for which given. No failure on the part of any party to exercise, and no delay in exercising, any right hereunder shall operate as a waiver thereof.

8.3 Withholding Rights

The parties hereto shall be entitled to deduct and withhold from amounts payable under this Agreement such amounts as each is required to deduct and withhold with respect to such payment under the Income Tax Act (Canada) or any provision of any applicable federal, provincial, territorial, state, local or foreign tax law. To the extent that amounts are so withheld, such withheld amounts shall be treated for all purposes as having been paid to the recipient of the payment in respect of which such deduction and withholding was made, provided that such withheld amounts are actually remitted in accordance with applicable law to the appropriate taxing authority.

8.4 No Petition

The Manager hereby agrees that it will not, prior to the date that is one year and one day after the termination of the Indenture and payment in full of the Issuer Funding Obligations and any other amounts owed under the Indenture, institute or encourage against the Issuer, or join or acquiesce in any institution against the Issuer of, any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, winding-up or liquidation proceedings, or other proceedings under any federal or provincial bankruptcy, insolvency or similar law in connection with any obligations relating to this Agreement or any of the other Program Agreements. The foregoing shall not limit the rights of the Manager to file any claim in or otherwise take any action with respect to any insolvency proceeding that was instituted against the Issuer by any Person other than the Manager.

The obligations hereunder are not binding upon the Issuer Trustee except in its capacity as trustee of the Issuer nor will resort be had to the property of the Issuer Trustee except where liability is expressly imposed on the Issuer Trustee in its personal capacity hereunder, but the Issuer Property will be bound hereby.

8.7 Severability

If one or more provision of this Agreement is for any reason whatever held invalid, such provision will be deemed severable from the remaining covenants, agreements and provisions of this Agreement and will in no way affect the validity or enforceability of such remaining provisions or the rights of any parties hereto.

8.8 Execution of Counterparts; Electronic Delivery

This Agreement may be executed in several counterparts, each of which when so executed shall be deemed to be an original and the counterparts together shall constitute one and the same instrument. 8.9 Governing Law

This Agreement will be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the Province of Ontario and the laws of Canada applicable therein.

8.10 Grant of Security Interest to Indenture Trustee

ARTICLE 2
THE TRUST

2.1 Purpose and Activities of the Trust

The purpose of the Trust is to establish and carry on activities for the exclusive benefit of the Unitholders and to distribute the Trust Property upon termination of those activities by the Trust in accordance with Article 11. The Trust is permitted to engage in any activity, undertaking, transaction or event authorized or permitted by the Act (the "Trust Activities"), including:

2.2 Limitation on Certain Activities

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration of Trust, the Administrative Services Agreement or the Management Agreement, at any time that any Funding Obligations remain outstanding, the consent of the Indenture Trustee shall be required for the Trust to:

(b) institute any voluntary proceedings to be adjudicated bankrupt or insolvent, or consent to the institution of any bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings against it, or file a petition seeking or consent to any assignment, petition, application or proceeding under any applicable bankruptcy or insolvency law, or consent to the appointment of a receiver, liquidator, assignee, trustee or other similar official of the Trust or a substantial part of its property, or make any assignment for the benefit of creditors, or admit in writing its inability to pay its debts generally as they become due, or take any similar action in respect of the Trust.

2.3 Name and Head Office

The English form of the name of the Trust is ["■"] and the French form of the name of the Trust is ["■"]. The Trust may use and may be legally designated by either the English form or the French form of its name. Should the Issuer Trustee determine that the use of such name is not practicable, legal or convenient, it may use such other designation or adopt such other name for the Trust as it deems proper and the Trust may hold property and conduct the Trust Activities under such other designation or name. The head office, chief executive office, chief place of business and situs of administration of the Trust will initially be situated at the offices of the Issuer Trustee situated at [address of Issuer Trustee].

2.4 Nature of the Trust

The Trust is an unincorporated open-ended unit trust established for the purposes specified in Section 2.1. The Trust shall be governed by the general law of trusts, except as such general law of trusts has been or is from time to time modified, altered or abridged for the Trust by:

(a) applicable laws and regulations or other requirements imposed by applicable securities or other regulatory authorities, including the Act and Regulations; and

(b) the terms, conditions and trusts set forth in this Declaration of Trust.

The beneficial interest and rights generally of the Unitholders in the Trust shall be limited to the right to participate in distributions when and as declared by the Issuer Trustee and distributions upon the termination of the Trust. The Trust is not and is not intended to be, shall not be deemed to be and shall not be treated as a general partnership, limited partnership, syndicate, association, joint venture, company, corporation or joint stock company nor shall the Issuer Trustee or the Unitholders or any of them for any purpose be, or be deemed to be treated in any way whatsoever to be, liable or responsible hereunder as partners or joint venturers. The Issuer Trustee shall not be, or be deemed to be, an agent of the Unitholders. The relationship of the Unitholders to the Issuer Trustee, to the Trust and to the Trust Property shall be solely that of beneficiaries in accordance with this Declaration of Trust.

2.5 Rights of Unitholders

No Unitholder shall be entitled to call for any partition or division of the Trust Property or for a distribution of any particular asset forming part of the Trust Property or of any particular monies or funds received by the Issuer Trustee. The legal ownership of the Trust Property and the right to conduct the activities of the Trust are vested exclusively in the Issuer Trustee, and no Unitholder has or is deemed to have any right of ownership in any of the Trust Property, except as specifically provided herein. Except as specifically provided herein, no Unitholder or Unitholders shall be entitled to interfere with or give any direction to the Issuer Trustee with respect to the affairs of the Trust or in connection with the exercise of any powers or authorities conferred upon the Issuer Trustee under this Declaration of Trust. The Units shall be personal property and shall confer upon the holders thereof only the interest and rights, and impose upon the holders thereof only those liabilities and obligations, specifically set forth in this Declaration of Trust.

UNITS

3.1 Nature of Units

The beneficial interests in the Trust shall be divided into a single class of Units. Each Unit represents an equal undivided beneficial interest in any distributions by the Trust, whether of Income of the Trust (other than Income of the Trust allocated and distributed to redeeming Unitholders), net realized capital gains of the Trust (other than net realized capital gains of the Trust allocated and distributed to redeeming Unitholders), or other amounts, and, in the event of termination or winding up of the Trust, in the net assets of the Trust remaining after satisfaction of all liabilities. All Units rank equally among themselves and rateably without discrimination, preference or priority. Each Unit will entitle the Unitholder of record thereof to one vote at all meetings of the Unitholders or in respect of any written resolution of the Unitholders. Each Unit, when issued, shall vest indefeasibly in the holder thereof.

The number of Units which the Trust may issue is unlimited. The issued and outstanding Units may be subdivided or consolidated from time to time by the Issuer Trustee without notice to or approval of the Unitholders. Unless the Issuer Trustee determines otherwise, immediately after any pro rata issuance of additional Units to all Unitholders pursuant to subsection 11.3(3), the number of outstanding Units will automatically be consolidated such that each such holder will hold after the consolidation the same number of Units as such holder held before the issuance of additional Units.

3.2 Consideration of Units

A Unit will not be fully paid until the consideration therefor has been received in full by or on behalf of the Trust. The consideration for any Unit will be paid in money or in property (including, without limitation, a debt instrument issued to the Trust) or in past services received by the Trust that are not less in value than the fair equivalent of the money that the Trust would have received if the Unit had been issued for money. In determining whether property or past services are the fair equivalent of consideration paid in money, the Issuer Trustee may take into account reasonable charges and expenses of organization and reorganization and payments for property and past services reasonably expected to benefit the Trust. In no case will a Unit be issued to a Designated Beneficiary.

3.3 No Pre-Emptive Rights

No Person shall be entitled, as a matter of right, to subscribe for or purchase any Units of the Trust. There are no pre-emptive rights attaching to the Units.

3.4 Fractional Units

If as a result of any act of the Issuer Trustee hereunder, any Person becomes entitled to a fraction of a Unit, such Person will not be entitled to receive a certificate therefor. Fractional Units will not, except to the extent that they may represent in the aggregate one or more whole Units, entitle the holders thereof to notice of or to attend or to vote at meetings of the Unitholders. Subject to the foregoing, such fractional Units will have attached thereto the rights, restrictions, conditions and limitations attaching to whole Units in the proportion that they bear to a whole Unit.

3.5 Allotment and Issue

Subject to Section 3.6, the Issuer Trustee may allot and issue Units at such time or times and in such manner (including pursuant to any plan from time to time in effect relating to reinvestment by the Unitholders of distributions of the Trust in Units) and to such Person, Persons or class of Persons as the Issuer Trustee in its sole discretion will determine. The price or the value of the consideration for which Units may be issued and the terms and conditions of issuance of the Units will be determined by the Issuer Trustee in its sole discretion. Not restricting the generality of the foregoing, the Issuer Trustee may accept amounts received from a Unitholder as a prepayment in respect of the obligation of the Unitholder to pay all or any part of the subscription price of Units to be issued at a later date by the Issuer Trustee. In such circumstances, such prepayment will form part of the Trust Property. In the event that Units are issued in whole or in part for a consideration other than money, the resolution of the Issuer Trustee allotting and issuing such Units will express the fair equivalent in money of the other consideration received.

3.6 Prohibited Issuances and Transfers

(1) Notwithstanding any other provision in this Declaration of Trust, at no time, may Units be issued or transferred to a Person who would be a "designated beneficiary" within the meaning of Part XII.2 of the ITA ("Designated Beneficiary"), and the Issuer Trustee will not accept a subscription for Units from, or issue or register a transfer of Units to, a Person unless the Person provides a declaration to the Issuer Trustee that it would not be a Designated Beneficiary and covenants to maintain such representation true for as long as it continues to hold one or more Units. If, notwithstanding the foregoing, the Issuer Trustee determines that a Person has purported to become or remain a Unitholder in breach of the above mentioned declaration or covenant, or if the Unitholder fails to provide, upon request, a declaration in form and content satisfactory to the Issuer Trustee that it is not a Designated Beneficiary, (i) the Issuer Trustee will require such Person to dispose of the Units within a specified period not to exceed 60 days to a Person who does not contravene the above mentioned limitation on ownership ("New Holder"), and (ii) effective immediately prior to the breach, such Person will be deemed to have ceased to be a holder of such Units, the voting and distribution rights attached to such Units will be suspended and such Units will be deemed not to be outstanding until acquired by a New Holder (provided that holders of other Units will not be entitled to any portion of the distributions that may have been paid in respect of Units that have been so deemed not to be outstanding) and such Person's rights in respect of such Units will be limited to receiving the net proceeds of the sale thereof. If such Person has not, within such period, sold such Units or provided the Issuer Trustee with a declaration in form and content satisfactory to the Issuer Trustee that it is not a Designated Beneficiary, the Issuer Trustee may sell such Units on behalf of such Person (and the Issuer Trustee will have the power of attorney of such Person to do so), and such Person's rights in respect of such Units will be limited to receiving the net proceeds of sale upon surrender of the certificates representing such Units.

(2) Subject to this section 3.6, and until the Issuer Trustee will have been required to do so under the terms hereof, the Issuer Trustee will not be bound to do or take any proceeding or action with respect to this section 3.6 by virtue of the powers conferred on it hereby. The Issuer Trustee will have the sole right and authority to make any determination required for the administration of the provisions of, or contemplated under this section 3.6, and without limiting the generality of the foregoing, if the Issuer Trustee considers that there are reasonable grounds for believing that a contravention of the above mentioned limitation on ownership has occurred or may occur, the Issuer Trustee will make a determination with respect to the matter. Any such determination will be conclusive, final and binding for the purposes of this section 3.6 except to the extent modified by any subsequent determination by the Issuer Trustee. The Issuer Trustee may require declarations as to whether a Unitholder is a Designated Beneficiary or as to factual information that will enable the Issuer Trustee to determine whether a Unitholder or a prospective transferee of a Unit may be a Designated Beneficiary. In any situation where it is unclear whether Units may be held by a Person who may be a Designated Beneficiary, the Issuer Trustee may exercise its discretion in determining whether such Person is or is not a Designated Beneficiary, and any such exercise by it of its discretion will be binding for the purposes of this section 3.6.

3.7 Liability of Unitholders

No Unitholder of the Trust, in its capacity as such, will incur or be subject to any liability, direct or indirect, absolute or contingent, in contract or in tort or of any other kind, to any Person in connection with: (i) the Trust Property or the ownership, use, operation, acquisition or disposition thereof or exercise or enjoyment of the rights, privileges, conditions or benefits attached thereto, associated therewith or derived therefrom; (ii) the obligations, liabilities, activities or affairs of the Trust; (iii) any actual or alleged act or omission of the Issuer Trustee or any other Person in respect of the activities or affairs of the Trust (whether or not authorized by or pursuant to this Declaration of Trust); (iv) any actual or alleged act or omission of the Issuer Trustee or any other Person in the performance or exercise, or purported or attempted performance or exercise, of any obligation, power, discretion or authority conferred upon the Issuer Trustee or such other Person in respect of the activities or affairs of the Trust (whether or not authorized by or pursuant to this Declaration of Trust); (v) any transaction entered into by the Issuer Trustee or by any other Person in respect of the activities or affairs of the Trust (whether or not authorized by or pursuant to this Declaration of Trust); or (vi) any taxes, levies, imposts or charges or fines, penalties or interest in respect thereof payable by the Trust or by the Issuer Trustee or by any other Person (except the Unitholders to the extent required by applicable tax laws) on behalf of or in connection with the activities or affairs of the Trust. No Unitholder will be liable to indemnify the Issuer Trustee or any other Person with respect to any such liability or liabilities incurred by the Issuer Trustee or by any such other Person or Persons or with respect to any taxes payable by the Trust or by the Issuer Trustee or any other Person on behalf of or in connection with the Trust. To the extent that any such liabilities of the Unitholders may arise, they will be enforceable only against, and will be satisfied only out of, the Trust Property to the full extent of such liability and the costs of any litigation or other proceedings in which such liability will have been determined, including without limitation, the fees and disbursements of counsel.

ARTICLE 4
REDEMPTION OF UNITS

4.1 Redemption of Units

Each Unitholder will be entitled to require the Trust to redeem at any time and from time to time at the demand of such Unitholder all or any part of the Units held by such Unitholder as follows:

(1) The Unitholder will give notice in writing to the Trust at its head office of its intention to redeem Units and the number of Units to be redeemed.

(2) Upon receipt by the Trust of such notice from the Unitholder to redeem Units, the Unitholder will be entitled to receive, subject to subsection 4.1(3), an amount equal to the fair market value (the "Redemption Price") of such Units established by the Issuer Trustee, acting reasonably (which, for greater certainty, will not necessarily be net asset value), payable by certified cheque or via wire transfer of funds.

(3) In the event that the Trust has insufficient funds to make the payment required pursuant to subsection 4.1(2) or such payment is restricted under the terms of the Indenture, the Trust will, subject to compliance with any regulatory requirements, distribute to the redeeming Unitholder in specie a proportionate amount of the Trust Property, the fair market value of which, as determined by the Issuer Trustee, acting reasonably, is equal to the Redemption Price.

(4) Upon satisfaction of the Redemption Price, the redeeming Unitholder will not be entitled to any rights or benefits, including voting and the right to receive distributions, in connection with the Units redeemed.

(5) On redemption of a Unit, the Issuer Trustee may designate and pay to the redeeming Unitholder as part of, and not in addition to, the Redemption Price, such part of the net realized capital gains of the Trust and/or Income of the Trust as is realized by the Trust in order to fund the Redemption Price.

ARTICLE 5
RIGHTS AND POWERS OF ISSUER TRUSTEE

5.1 General Rights and Powers

Subject to the specific restrictions and limitations set forth in this Declaration of Trust and notwithstanding the provisions of the Trustee Act (Ontario) or any other similar legislation in any jurisdiction, the Issuer Trustee will have, without the necessity of authorization by, and free from any power or control on the part of, the Unitholders, full, exclusive and absolute power, control and authority over the Trust Property and the Trust Activities to the same extent as if the Issuer Trustee were the sole and absolute owner thereof in its own right including, without limitation, such power, control and authority to do all such acts and things as in its sole judgment and discretion are necessary, incidental or desirable for carrying on the Trust Activities in accordance with the Program Agreements with such powers of delegation as may be permitted by this Declaration of Trust, including the right, power and authority to amend this Declaration of Trust subject to and in accordance with the terms hereof and to appoint, employ or contract with any Person as the Issuer Trustee may deem necessary, appropriate or desirable for the transaction of the Trust Activities, including for the administration of the Trust. For greater certainty, the powers of the Issuer Trustee that may be exercised as aforesaid include the powers set forth in Section 5.2 to and including Section 5.18. The enumeration of any specific power or authority in this Declaration of Trust will not be construed as limiting the aforesaid power or authority or any other specific power or authority. Subject only to the express limitations contained in this Declaration of Trust, every discretion or power hereby conferred on the Issuer Trustee is an absolute and uncontrolled discretion or power.

5.2 Acquisition of Assets and Deposit of Funds

Subject to Section 2.1, the Issuer Trustee will have the power to acquire Investment Interests in accordance with the Program Agreements. Subject to compliance with the terms of the Program Agreements, the Issuer Trustee will have the power to deposit any money forming part of the Trust Property with any bank (which bank may be an Affiliate of the Issuer Trustee) licensed under the laws of Canada or any trust company (which includes the Issuer Trustee) licensed under the laws of any province of Canada and to withdraw such deposits in accordance with the Program Agreements. The Issuer Trustee will have no liability for any loss which may occur by reason of the failure of any depository with whom such money has been deposited or for the depreciation of any investment.

5.3 Legal Title and Custody

The Issuer Trustee will have the power to cause any and all Trust Property to be held by and/or registered in the name of any Person.

In accordance with and subject to the terms of the Program Agreements, the Issuer Trustee will have the power to sell, convey, transfer and assign all Trust Property free and clear of any and all trusts hereby established, at public or private sale, for cash or on terms, with or without advertisement and subject to such restrictions, stipulations, agreements and reservations as it may deem proper.

5.5 Management of Trust Property

In accordance with and subject to the terms of the Program Agreements, the Issuer Trustee will have the power to own, manage, use, invest and hold the Trust Property (including, without limitation, the power to make investments in Eligible Investments) and to enter into agreements in respect of the Trust Property or its use including, without limitation, agreements to modify, amend, extend, renew or terminate any grant or agreement relating to the Trust Property and to waive compliance with any of the terms and conditions thereof, all, in each case, without the approval of or notice to the Unitholders.

5.6 Power to Borrow Money and Issue Funding Obligations

In accordance with and subject to the terms of the Program Agreements, the Issuer Trustee will have the power to:

(a) borrow or in any other manner raise money and to evidence the same by the issuance of Funding Obligations, by private placement, public offering or otherwise;

(b) reacquire or redeem Funding Obligations;

(c) execute and deliver any trust indenture or supplement thereto, security agreement, mortgage, pledge, hypothec, assignment or other instrument to secure Funding Obligations, and amendments, modifications, restatements or replacements thereof, whether by fixed or floating charge or by assignment or by the granting of a security interest, free and clear of any and all trusts hereby established and, in lieu of or in addition to granting any security, to grant to any Person a negative pledge whereby the Issuer Trustee agrees not to encumber any Trust Property and such other covenants as may be consistent with those set out in the Program Agreements or as may otherwise be specified by any applicable Rating Agency in accordance with the foregoing; and

(d) execute and/or deliver any agreement, instrument, certificate, direction or other document necessary or desirable in order to permit or give effect to the provisions of this Section 5.6, including, without limitation, prospectuses, offering memoranda, regulatory filings, dealer agreements, Underwriting Agreements, subscription agreements, letters of representation, consent letters, and any instruments ancillary thereto.

5.8 Execution of Instruments

Every deed, transfer, assignment, hypothec, agreement, certificate, direction, instrument, prospectus, or any other document which is necessary or desirable to be executed by the Trust, including, without limitation, any document evidencing Funding Obligations or relating to the issuance of Funding Obligations, will be signed on behalf of the Trust by the Issuer Trustee or its duly appointed agent, including the Administrative Agent or the Manager.

5.9 Facsimile Signatures

The Issuer Trustee may authorize the use of facsimile signatures on the documents evidencing Funding Obligations, provided, however, that where facsimile signatures are so used, documents evidencing Funding Obligations will be manually countersigned or certified by a transfer agent, trustee, registrar or similar Person. If a Funding Obligation contains a printed or mechanically reproduced signature of a Person, the Issuer Trustee may issue the Funding Obligation notwithstanding that the Person has ceased to be a director, officer or signing officer of the Issuer Trustee, and the Funding Obligation will be as valid as if the Person were a director, an officer or a signing officer at the date of its issue.

5.10 Taxes

The Issuer Trustee will have the power to pay all taxes or assessments of whatever kind or nature imposed upon the Issuer Trustee and/or the Trust in connection with the Trust Property or the Trust Activities or upon or against the income from the Trust Activities or any part thereof, to settle and compromise disputed tax liabilities and, for the foregoing purposes, to make such returns and do all such other acts and things as may be deemed by the Issuer Trustee necessary or desirable. (b) consent to extensions of time for payment of, or the renewal of, any securities or obligations of the Trust;

(c) engage or intervene in, prosecute, defend, compound, compromise, abandon or adjust by arbitration or otherwise deal with or settle any actions, suits, proceedings, disputes, claims, demands or things relating to the Trust Property or the Trust Activities;

(d) exercise any and all remedies available to it under any Program Agreements or otherwise, including any power of foreclosure or sale available to the Issuer Trustee at law or pursuant to any agreement and, in connection with any such foreclosure or sale, to purchase or otherwise acquire title to any property and to convey good title thereto free of any and all trusts hereby established, or to take or retake possession of any property secured or unsecured thereunder or such other security;

(e) extend the time, with or without security, for the payment or delivery of any debts or property and to execute and enter into releases, agreements and other instruments; and

(f) pay or satisfy any debts or claims upon any evidence that the Issuer Trustee determines to be sufficient.

5.12 Expenses and Compensation of Issuer Trustee

(a) The Issuer Trustee will have the power to incur and make payment of any charges or expenses which in the opinion of the Issuer Trustee are necessary or incidental to or proper for carrying out any of the purposes of this Declaration of Trust and the Trust Activities, and to pay appropriate compensation or fees from the Trust Property to Persons with whom the Trust has contracted or transacted business including, without limitation, any charges, expenses, compensation or fees payable under or in connection with the Program Agreements.

(b) The Issuer Trustee will be entitled to be paid from the funds of the Trust, without any requirement of a passing of accounts in respect thereof or approval of the Unitholders, such fees as the Issuer Trustee and the Manager may agree to from time to time for its services hereunder and all reasonable expenses, disbursements and advances incurred or made by the Issuer Trustee in the administration or execution of the trusts hereby created (including the reasonable compensation and the disbursements of its counsel and all other advisers and assistants not regularly in its employ) until all the duties of the Issuer Trustee under the trusts hereby created shall be finally and fully performed, except any such expense, disbursement or advance as may arise from or in connection with the dishonesty, bad faith, wilful misconduct, negligence or reckless disregard of any duty or the failure to comply with the standard of care referred to in Section 7.1 by the Issuer Trustee, its officers, employees or agents. All such amounts will be payable at such times as the Issuer Trustee and the Manager may agree from time to time. Any amount not paid when due shall bear interest at a rate per annum equal to the rate designated by the Issuer Trustee as the then current rate charged by the Issuer Trustee or its successors from time to time to its corporate customers, payable on demand. After default and unless otherwise provided in the Indenture and any documents contemplated thereunder, all amounts so payable and the interest thereon shall be payable out of any funds coming into the possession of the Issuer Trustee or its successors in the trusts hereunder in priority to any payments to other Specified Creditors.

5.13 Allocation

The Issuer Trustee will have the power to determine conclusively whether money or other assets received by the Trust or expenses or disbursements made by the Trust will be charged or credited to income or capital or allocated between income and capital, provided, however, that such determination will not be inconsistent with calculation of income in accordance with the ITA at the time the determination is made.

5.14 Fiscal Year and Form of Accounts

The fiscal year of the Trust will end on December 31. The Issuer Trustee will have the power to determine and from time to time change the method or form in which the accounts of the Trust will be kept, provided such method or form reasonably complies with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles as applicable from time to time.

5.15 Power to Contract

In accordance with and subject to the terms of the Program Agreements, the Issuer Trustee will have the power to appoint, employ or contract with any Person as the Issuer Trustee may deem necessary or desirable for the transaction of the Trust Activities and may transfer assets to such Person and, save and except for such matters as are listed in Section 2.2, delegate to such Person any or all of the discretionary powers given to the Issuer Trustee with respect to the management of the Trust Property. Without in any way limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Issuer Trustee will have the power to:

(a) enter into, execute, deliver, perform the obligations of the Trust under, and grant security as provided for in, the Program Agreements;

(b) appoint, employ or contract with the Manager or the Administrative Agent or any other Person who, under the supervision of the Manager or Administrative Agent, may, among other things: (i) furnish and supervise or cause to be furnished and supervised the performance of the clerical and administrative services necessary to the administration of the Trust and the Trust Property including, without limitation, the provision of office space, office equipment and personnel for the performance of such services, property management, administration and servicing, the maintenance of documents, books and Records for the Trust (including those described in Section 8.1), the receipt and disbursement of Trust Property, the servicing and payment of debt and other obligations and generally all matters relating to the obtaining of and the administration and servicing of Trust Property, including, without limitation, as provided in the Administrative Services Agreement or Management Agreement; (ii) serve as an advisor to the Issuer Trustee, furnish reports to the Issuer Trustee and provide research, economic and statistical data in connection with the Trust Activities; (iii) act as consultant, accountant, correspondent, lender, technical advisor, counsel, broker and dealer, underwriter, fiscal agent, corporate fiduciary, escrow agent, depository, custodian or agent for collection from obligors, loan administrator, appraiser, bank, insurer or insurance agent, transfer agent or registrar or issuing and paying agent for Funding Obligations or in any other capacity deemed by the Issuer Trustee necessary or desirable; (iv) act as attorney or agent in the purchase or sale or other disposition of the Trust Property or the property secured thereby and the handling, prosecution or settling of any claims of the Trust and assist in the performance of such functions necessary in the management of the Trust as may be agreed upon with the Issuer Trustee; and (v) execute and deliver the Program Agreements. For greater certainty, the appointment by the Issuer Trustee of the Administrative Agent under the Administrative Services Agreement and the Manager under the Management Agreement will, where applicable, be deemed to constitute adequate supervision by the Issuer Trustee for purposes of the Trustee Act (Ontario) and this Declaration of Trust of any Person thereby engaged in connection with the foregoing activities; and

(c) investigate, select and conduct negotiations with Persons acting in the capacities referred to in Section 5.15(b) and pay appropriate fees to, and enter into appropriate contracts with, employ or retain the services of, any of them in connection with the Trust Property or property secured thereby, other assets and any security related thereto funded, acquired, sold or otherwise disposed of, or committed, negotiated or contemplated to be funded, acquired, sold, or otherwise disposed of in connection with Funding Obligations.

5.16 Indemnification

In accordance with and subject to the terms of the Program Agreements, the Issuer Trustee will have the power to indemnify or enter into agreements with respect to indemnification with any Person with whom the Issuer Trustee or the Trust deals to such extent as the Issuer Trustee determines necessary or desirable.

5.17 Further Powers

Subject to Section 2.1, the Issuer Trustee will have the power to perform and do all such other acts and things and to execute itself (or have executed by any Person appointed by it pursuant to Section 5.15) all such deeds, transfers, assignments, hypothecs, agreements, certificates, directions, instruments or other documents whatsoever as it deems necessary, proper or desirable in order to carry on the Trust Activities in accordance with and subject to the Program Agreements notwithstanding that such acts, things, deeds, transfers, assignments, hypothecs, agreements, certificates, directions, instruments or other documents are not herein specifically mentioned. Any determination as to what is necessary, proper or desirable in order to carry on the Trust Activities in accordance with the Program Agreements or otherwise, provided it is made by the Issuer Trustee honestly and in good faith, will be conclusive. Any construction of this Declaration of Trust or the existence of any power or authority hereunder, made honestly and in good faith by the Issuer Trustee upon the advice of counsel, will be conclusive to the extent consistent with the law. In construing the provisions of this Declaration of Trust, there will be a presumption in favour of a grant of power to the Issuer Trustee.

5.18 Auditors

In accordance with and subject to the terms of the Program Agreements, the Issuer Trustee will have the power from time to time to select and appoint and discharge and reappoint an auditor of the Trust in its discretion and to negotiate and fix the fees of any such auditor.

5.19 Defect in Appointment

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein contained, no action taken by the Issuer Trustee will be invalid by reason only of any defect that is thereafter discovered in its appointment.

5.20 Status

The Issuer Trustee shall not have the status of bankrupt and shall be resident in Canada for purposes of the ITA.

ARTICLE 6
REPLACEMENT OF ISSUER TRUSTEE

6.1 Resignation of Issuer Trustee

(a) If the Issuer Trustee desires to resign and be discharged from the trusts and powers reposed in or conferred on it by this Declaration of Trust, it will provide 120 days written notice (or such shorter period of notice as the Unitholders , the Indenture Trustee and the Rating Agencies may agree to) thereof to the Unitholders, the Indenture Trustee and the Rating Agencies provided that no such voluntary resignation shall be effective until a replacement Issuer Trustee acceptable to the Unitholders and the Indenture Trustee has been appointed and has executed a written agreement whereby such replacement Issuer Trustee agrees to assume the obligations of the Issuer Trustee hereunder, under the Program Agreements and under any other contract pursuant to which the Issuer Trustee is obligated.

(b) The Issuer Trustee shall resign if a material conflict of interest arises in its role as a trustee under this Declaration of Trust that is not eliminated within 90 days after the Issuer Trustee becomes aware that it has such a material conflict of interest. Forthwith after the Issuer Trustee becomes aware that it has such a material conflict of interest, it shall provide the Unitholders, the Indenture Trustee and the Rating Agencies with written notice of the nature of such material conflict of interest. Upon such resignation, the Issuer Trustee shall (subject to Section 6.6) be discharged from its office under this Declaration of Trust. If, notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this Section 6.1(b), the Issuer Trustee has such a material conflict of interest, the validity and enforceability of this Declaration of Trust and any agreement entered into by the Issuer Trustee shall not be affected in any manner whatsoever by reason only of the existence of such material conflict of interest. If the Issuer Trustee contravenes the foregoing provisions of this Section 6.1(b), the Unitholders, may apply, on notice to the Rating Agencies, to a court of competent jurisdiction for an order that the Issuer Trustee be replaced as Issuer Trustee hereunder.

6.2 Removal of Issuer Trustee

The Issuer Trustee may be removed from its office under this Declaration of Trust by the Unitholders, at any time by notice in writing delivered to the Issuer Trustee not less than 90 days prior to the date that such removal is to take effect.

6.3 Vacancy

In the event of the bankruptcy or insolvency of the Issuer Trustee or the inability of the Issuer Trustee to exercise its duties under this Declaration of Trust, the Unitholders may forthwith terminate the term of office of the Issuer Trustee as trustee and, in such instance, a vacancy will occur. No vacancy (including upon a resignation of the Issuer Trustee pursuant to Section 6.1(b)) shall operate to annul this Declaration of Trust or affect the continuity of the Trust or terminate the appointment of the Administrative Agent under the Administrative Services Agreement or the Manager under the Management Agreement.

6.4 Appointment of New Issuer Trustee

If, pursuant to this Article 6, the Issuer Trustee resigns or a vacancy occurs in the office of the Issuer Trustee for any reason, the Unitholders may by instrument in writing appoint a Trust Company, which either (i) has risk-based capital of at least $50,000,000 or, in the case of an entity that is not subject to risk-based capital adequacy requirements, has a combined capital and surplus of at least $50,000,000; or (ii) has been approved in writing by each Rating Agency prior to its appointment by the Unitholders, in order to replace the Issuer Trustee. If the Unitholders fails to make such appointment within 60 days of the occurrence of any such resignation, removal or vacancy, then the Issuer Trustee may make an application, on notice to the Rating Agencies, to a court of competent jurisdiction to appoint a successor Issuer Trustee hereunder. If the Issuer Trustee elects not to make such an application, the Unitholders may do so on notice to the Rating Agencies. The expense of any act, document, deed or other instrument or thing required under this Section 6.4 will be satisfied from the Trust Property.

6.5 Merger, Consolidation and Amalgamation

Any company into which the Issuer Trustee may be merged or with which it may be consolidated or amalgamated, or any company resulting from any merger, consolidation or amalgamation to which the Issuer Trustee is a party or any company succeeding to the corporate trust business of the Issuer Trustee will be a successor Issuer Trustee under this Declaration of Trust without any further action on the part of the Issuer Trustee, provided that such company shall be a Trust Company.

6.6 Vesting in Successor Issuer Trustee

Any successor Issuer Trustee will become vested with all the estates, properties, rights, powers, duties, responsibilities and trusts of its predecessors in the trusts hereunder as if it had been originally named as Issuer Trustee pursuant to this Declaration of Trust. In furtherance of the foregoing, upon written request of the successor Issuer Trustee, the Issuer Trustee ceasing to act will do, make, execute, deliver or cause to be done, made, executed or delivered all such acts, documents, deeds or other instruments and things as may be necessary or desirable in order to more effectively assign, transfer and deliver to, and vest in, the successor Issuer Trustee, upon the trusts herein expressed, all the rights, powers and trusts of, and all property and money held by the Issuer Trustee so ceasing to act. The expense of any act, document, deed or other instrument or thing required under this Section 6.6 will be satisfied from the Trust Property.

6.7 Confidentiality

At all times (including, without limitation, at any time the Issuer Trustee should resign or be discharged from the trusts and powers reposed in or conferred on it by this Declaration of Trust), the Issuer Trustee (or the trustee so resigning and being discharged, as the case may be) will treat as confidential all information relating to the Trust, the Trust Activities and the transactions contemplated by the Program Agreements obtained by it in its capacity as Issuer Trustee.

6.8 Right to Disclose

The Issuer Trustee shall have the right to disclose any information disclosed or released to it if in the opinion of legal counsel to the Issuer Trustee it is required to disclose under any applicable laws, court order or directions of Governmental Authorities or if it is requested by a Rating Agency. The Issuer Trustee shall not be responsible or liable to any party for any loss or damage arising out of or in any way sustained or incurred or in any way relating to such disclosure.

ARTICLE 7
STANDARD OF CARE, LIMITATION OF LIABILITY OF ISSUER TRUSTEE AND OTHER MATTERS

7.1 Standard of Care

The Issuer Trustee will exercise its powers and carry out its obligations hereunder as Issuer Trustee honestly, in good faith and in the best interests of the Trust and the Unitholders and in connection therewith will exercise that degree of care, diligence and skill that a reasonably prudent Person would exercise in comparable circumstances. To the extent that the Issuer Trustee has delegated or subcontracted the performance of all or a portion of its duties to the Administrative Agent or Manager as contemplated by Section 5.15, it will be deemed to have satisfied the aforesaid standard of care. Unless otherwise required by law, the Issuer Trustee will not be required to give bond, surety or security in any jurisdiction for the performance of any duties or obligations hereunder. The Issuer Trustee will not be required to devote its entire time to the Trust Activities. For greater certainty, the entering into of any Program Agreement by the Trust and the performance by the Trust of its obligations thereunder will be deemed to be in the best interests of the Unitholders and the Trust.

7.2 Limitation of Liability of Issuer Trustee

The Issuer Trustee has entered into this Declaration of Trust solely in its capacity as trustee of the Trust and not in its personal capacity, and any and all of the representations, warranties, undertakings, covenants, indemnities, agreements and other obligations made on the part of the Issuer Trustee herein are made and intended not as personal representations, warranties, undertakings, covenants, indemnities, agreements and other obligations by the Issuer Trustee or for the purpose or with the intention of binding the Issuer Trustee in its personal capacity, but are made and intended for the purpose of binding only the Trust Property or a specific portion thereof. No property or assets of the Issuer Trustee, whether owned beneficially by it in its personal capacity or otherwise (other than the Trust Property), will be subject to levy, execution or other enforcement procedures with regard to any of the representations, warranties, undertakings, covenants, indemnities, agreements and other obligations of the Trust or the Issuer Trustee hereunder, and no recourse may be had or taken, directly or indirectly, against the Issuer Trustee in its personal capacity, any Unitholder or any Affiliate, shareholder, director, officer, representative, employee or agent of the Issuer Trustee or any predecessor or successor of the Issuer Trustee with regard to the representations, warranties, undertakings, covenants, indemnities, agreements and other obligations of the Trust or the Issuer Trustee hereunder; provided that the foregoing limitation will not apply in respect of any action or failure to act arising from or in connection with the wilful misconduct, negligence or the failure to comply with the standard of care referred to in Section 7.1. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Article 7, but subject to the Indenture, each Specified Creditor is entitled to recourse to the Trust Property to satisfy in full the obligations of the Trust to it even if the Issuer Trustee has no right, or only an impaired right, to seek indemnification from the Trust Property or to apply the Trust Property in satisfaction of such obligations.

7.3 Indemnification of the Issuer Trustee

The Issuer Trustee, its directors, officers, agents, representatives and employees will at all times be indemnified and saved harmless out of the Trust Property from and against all claims (including any claim arising out of the assessment of any tax on income by a taxing authority), demands, levies, penalties, suits, losses, actions, causes of action, costs, charges, fees and expenses, damages and liabilities whatsoever, including, without limitation, those arising out of or related to actions taken or omitted to be taken by any agent of the Issuer Trustee, including, without limitation, the Administrative Agent or the Manager, as contemplated hereby, legal fees and disbursements on a substantial indemnity basis and costs and expenses incurred in connection with the enforcement of this indemnity (each, a "Claim"), which the Issuer Trustee, its directors, officers, representatives and employees may suffer or incur, whether at law or in equity, in any way caused by or arising, directly or indirectly, in respect of any act, deed, matter or thing whatsoever made, done, acquiesced in or omitted in or about or in relation to the execution of its duties as Issuer Trustee or which it sustains or incurs in or about or in relation to the Trust Property and the Trust Activities. Further, the Issuer Trustee will not be liable to the Trust, to any Unitholder or to any other Person for any loss or damage relating to any matter regarding the Trust, including any loss or diminution in the value of the Trust Property. The foregoing provisions of this Section 7.3 do not apply to the extent that in any circumstances there has been wilful misconduct, gross negligence or the failure to comply with standard of care referred to in Section 7.1 on the part of the Issuer Trustee, its directors, officers, agents, representatives or employees excluding the other parties to the Program Agreements. Notwithstanding any other provision hereof, this indemnity will survive the removal or resignation of the Issuer Trustee, the termination of this Declaration of Trust and the termination of any trust created hereby.

7.4 Reliance upon Advice

The Issuer Trustee may rely and act upon any statement, notice, report or opinion prepared by or any advice received from the Administrative Agent or the Manager or from the auditors, counsel or other professional advisors of the Issuer Trustee and will not be responsible or held liable for any loss or damage resulting from so relying or acting if the Issuer Trustee acted reasonably and in good faith relied upon the advice received and if the professional advisor was aware that the Issuer Trustee was receiving the advice in its capacity as Issuer Trustee. The Issuer Trustee is entitled to be reimbursed from the Trust Property for all costs, charges and expenses it incurs in connection with obtaining any such statement, notice, report, opinion or advice. The Issuer Trustee is entitled to rely and act upon the genuineness and authenticity of any writing submitted to it that it in good faith believes to be genuine.

7.5 Retain Experts

The Issuer Trustee may appoint such agents and employ or retain such counsel, accountants, engineers, appraisers or other experts or advisers as it may reasonably require for the purpose of discharging its duties hereunder and shall not be responsible for any misconduct on the part of any of them. The Issuer Trustee may pay remuneration out of the Trust Property for all services performed for it in the discharge of the trusts hereof without taxation for costs or fees of any counsel, solicitor or attorney.

7.6 Reliance on Experts

The Issuer Trustee may act and rely and shall be protected in acting in good faith on the opinion or advice of or information obtained from any agent, counsel, accountant, engineer, appraiser or other expert or adviser in relation to any matter arising in the performance of its duties under the Program Agreements.

7.7 Provisions Regarding Liability

Any written instrument creating an obligation of the Issuer Trustee will be conclusively deemed to have been executed by the Issuer Trustee only in its capacity as Issuer Trustee. Any written instrument creating an obligation of the Issuer Trustee will contain a provision to the effect that the obligations thereunder are not binding upon the Issuer Trustee except in its capacity as Issuer Trustee, nor will recourse be had to the property of the Issuer Trustee except in its capacity as Issuer Trustee, but that the Trust Property or a specific portion thereof only will be bound, and may at the request of the Issuer Trustee make specific provision to the foregoing effect and contain any further provisions which the Issuer Trustee may deem appropriate, but the omission of any such provisions will not operate to invalidate any such instrument or to impose liability on the Issuer Trustee, except as aforesaid. The Issuer Trustee shall not be required to expend or risk its own funds or otherwise incur financial liability in the performance of its duties hereunder.

ARTICLE 8
RECORDS

8.1 Records to be Kept

The Issuer Trustee will keep or cause to be kept at the head office of the Trust a copy of this Declaration of Trust, a register of Unitholders, minutes of meetings and resolutions of Unitholders, minutes of meetings and resolutions of the Issuer Trustee, and such Records as are by law or good business practice necessary. The Records may be kept at the office of any Person whom the Issuer Trustee has appointed to maintain the same, provided that the Issuer Trustee has access to the Records on one Business Day’s notice to such Person.

8.2 Segregation of Assets

The Issuer Trustee shall maintain the Trust Property separate from all other property in its possession.

8.3 Method of Keeping Records

Where this Declaration of Trust requires the Issuer Trustee to cause a Record to be kept, it may be kept in bound or loose-leaf form or by means of a mechanical, electronic or other device.

8.4 Annual Financial Statements

A copy of the annual financial statements of the Trust, signed by the Issuer Trustee, shall be mailed or otherwise made available within 120 days following the end of a fiscal year to which they relate to each Unitholder. The financial statements shall include all information required to be included in annual financial statements of the Trust by applicable laws.

ARTICLE 9
MEETINGS OF UNITHOLDERS AND DECISION OF UNITHOLDERS

9.1 Annual Meeting

There will not be an annual meeting of the Unitholders.

9.2 Other Meetings

The Issuer Trustee will have power at any time to call meetings of the Unitholders at such time and place as the Issuer Trustee may determine. Unitholders holding in the aggregate not less than a majority of the outstanding Units may requisition the Issuer Trustee in writing to call a meeting of the Unitholders for the purposes stated in the requisition. The requisition shall state in reasonable detail the business proposed to be transacted at the meeting and will be sent to the Issuer Trustee at the address of the Issuer Trustee. Upon receiving the requisition, the Issuer Trustee will call a meeting of the Unitholders to transact the business referred to in the requisition. If the Issuer Trustee does not within 10 days after receiving the requisition call a meeting, any Unitholder who signed the requisition may call the meeting.

9.3 Quorum and Voting

A quorum for any meeting of the Unitholders will be persons present being Unitholders or representing by proxy Unitholders who hold in the aggregate a majority of the total number of outstanding Units. Unitholders may attend and vote at all meetings of the Unitholders either in person or by proxy. Each Unit will be entitled to one vote at all meetings of the Unitholders. Any action to be taken by the Unitholders will, except as otherwise required by this Declaration of Trust, or by law, be authorized when approved by a majority of the votes cast at a meeting of the Unitholders. The chairman of any such meeting will not have a second or casting vote.

9.4 Written Resolution

Any business which may be conducted at a meeting of the Unitholders may be approved by a resolution in writing in lieu thereof. Notice of such resolution will be given to all Unitholders and approval of such resolution will be evidenced by the signature on any such resolution or counterpart thereof by the required percentage of Unitholders for the matter to be determined.

ARTICLE 10
AMENDMENT

10.1 Amendment

Subject to Section 2.1 and compliance with the terms of the applicable Program Agreements, the Issuer Trustee may, from time to time, amend, vary, supplement, replace or restate the provisions of this Declaration of Trust without the consent or approval of the Unitholders or any court as follows:

(a) to the extent deemed necessary by the Issuer Trustee in good faith to be necessary to ensure compliance with, or to remove any conflicts or other inconsistencies which may exist between any term of this Declaration of Trust and the provisions of, any applicable law in effect from time to time;

(b) to the extent deemed necessary by the Issuer Trustee in good faith to be necessary to make any change or correction in this Declaration of Trust which is a typographical change or correction or which the Issuer Trustee has been advised by legal counsel is required for the purpose of curing any ambiguity or defect or inconsistent provision or clerical omission or mistake or manifest error contained herein, or

(c) subject to the satisfaction of the Rating Agency Condition, to the extent deemed necessary or desirable in the sole discretion of the Issuer Trustee to permit or facilitate the carrying on of the Trust Activities, including the accommodation of requests made by the Rating Agencies or regulatory authorities in relation to the issuance of Funding Obligations.

However, any such amendment may be made only if it will not materially adversely affect the interest of any Unitholder, unless that Unitholder has also approved of the amendment in writing. The Issuer Trustee will immediately upon the entering into thereof, provide the Rating Agencies and the Indenture Trustee with a copy of any amendment, variation, supplement, replacement or restatement of this Declaration of Trust.

10.2 Automatic Amendment

Upon the Issuer Trustee ceasing to be a trustee of the Trust, this Declaration of Trust will be automatically amended to delete any reference to the name of the trustee so ceasing to be a trustee of the Trust and to substitute therefor the name of the successor trustee of the Trust. Notice of any change in the Issuer Trustee may be endorsed upon or attached to this Declaration of Trust and signed by the successor Issuer Trustee and every such notice will be sufficient evidence to any Person dealing with the Issuer Trustee under this Declaration of Trust as to the facts to which it relates.

10.3 Supplemental Declaration of Trust

The Issuer Trustee is authorized to execute any supplemental declaration of trust to give effect to amendments to this Declaration of Trust made pursuant to this Article 10. The Issuer

Trustee shall not be obligated to enter into any such supplemental declaration if it adversely affects the Issuer Trustee's rights, duties or immunities under this Declaration of Trust or otherwise. No amendment to or amendment and restatement of this Declaration of Trust, whether pursuant to this Article 10 or otherwise, shall be construed as a termination of the Trust or the settlement or establishment of a new trust.

ARTICLE 11
DISTRIBUTION OF TRUST PROPERTY[2]

11.1 Distributions

(1) The Issuer Trustee may declare to be payable and make distributions, from time to time, out of Income of the Trust, net realized capital gains of the Trust, capital of the Trust or otherwise, in any year, in such amount or amounts, and on such dates as the Issuer Trustee may determine, to the Unitholders at the record date for such distribution. The Issuer Trustee may declare such amounts to be payable or authorize such distributions in advance by way of a standing resolution that is effective for a period not exceeding 12 months after the date of the resolution.

(2) If the Issuer Trustee declares to be payable or makes a distribution pursuant to subsection 11.1(1) without determining the portion of such distribution that is payable out of Income of the Trust, net realized capital gains of the Trust, capital of the Trust or otherwise, such allocation shall be made pursuant to subsection 11.2(2).

(3) Having regard to the present intention of the Issuer Trustee to make payable to Unitholders all of the Income of the Trust and net realized capital gains of the Trust for each taxation year so that the Trust will not have any liability for tax under Part I of the ITA in any taxation year (other than alternative minimum tax or taxes payable under the "SIFT trust" rules in the ITA), unless the Issuer Trustee, in its sole discretion determines otherwise, the following amounts will, without any further actions on the part of the Issuer Trustee, be due and payable to the Unitholders of record on the last day in each such taxation year:

(a) an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which the Income of the Trust for such year exceeds the aggregate of (A) any amount of the Income of the Trust payable to redeeming Unitholders pursuant to subsection 4.1(5), (B) the aggregate of the portions of the distributions paid or payable by the Trust which have been determined by the Issuer Trustee to have been payable by the Trust out of the Income of the Trust for such year, if any, and (C) the aggregate of the portions of distributions deemed by subsection 11.2(2)(a) to be paid or payable by the Trust out of the Income of the Trust for such year; and

(b) an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which the net realized capital gains of the Trust for such year exceeds the aggregate of (A) any amount of the net realized capital gains of the Trust payable to redeeming Unitholders pursuant to subsection 4.1(5), (B) the aggregate of the portions of the distributions paid or payable by the Trust which have been determined by the Issuer Trustee to have been payable by the Trust out of net realized capital gains of the Trust for such year, if any, and (C) the aggregate of the portions of distributions deemed by subsection 11.2(2)(b) to be paid or payable by the Trust out of the net realized capital gains of the Trust for such year, if any.

Any determinations by the Issuer Trustee not to make a distribution described in this subsection 11.1(3) must be exercised by the Issuer Trustee in writing prior to December 31 of the applicable taxation year.

(4) The proportionate share of each Unit of the amount of any distribution made pursuant to this section will be determined by dividing such amount by the number of issued and outstanding Units on the applicable record date in respect of a distribution pursuant to subsection 11.1(1) and on the last day of the taxation year in respect of a distribution pursuant to subsection 11.1(3). Each Unitholder's share of the amount of any such distribution will be an amount equal to the proportionate share of each Unit of such amount multiplied by the number of Units owned of record by each such Unitholder on such applicable record date or the last day of the taxation year, as the case may be, and such Unitholder shall, on such date, be entitled to enforce payment of the Unitholder's share. Subject to section 11.3, amounts which are payable to Unitholders will be paid in cash.

11.2 Allocation

(1) Subject to subsection 11.2(2), distributions payable to the Unitholders pursuant to Article 11 will be deemed to be distributions of Income of the Trust (including dividends), net realized capital gains of the Trust, returns of capital or other items in such amount as the Issuer Trustee in its absolute discretion determines and will be allocated to the Unitholders in the same proportions as distributions received by the Unitholders, subject to the discretion of the Issuer Trustee to adopt an allocation method which the Issuer Trustee considers to be more reasonable in the circumstances.

(2) If the Issuer Trustee has declared to be payable or made one or more distributions in a taxation year pursuant to subsection 11.1(1) without determining the portion of such distributions that is payable out of Income of the Trust, net realized capital gains of the Trust, capital of the Trust or otherwise, such distributions shall be deemed to be paid or payable out of:

(a) first, the Income of the Trust for such year to the extent, if any, that the Income of the Trust for such year exceeds the aggregate of the amounts in subsection 11.1(3)(a)(A) and 11.1(3)(a)(B);

(b) second, the net realized capital gains of the Trust for such year to the extent, if any, that the net realized capital gains of the Trust for such year exceeds the aggregate of the amounts in subsection 11.1(3)(b)(A) and 11.1(3)(b)(B); and

(c) as to any balance, the capital of the Trust; and such amounts will be allocated to the Unitholders in the same proportions as such distributions were received by the Unitholders.

(3) For greater certainty it is hereby declared that any distribution of net realized capital gains of the Trust will include the non-taxable portion of the capital gains of the Trust which are included in such distribution.

11.3 Payment of Distributions

(1) Distributions to a Unitholder will be made by cash, wire transfer or cheque payable to or to the order of the Unitholder or by such other manner provided for in subsection 11.3(3). The payment, if made by cheque, will be conclusively deemed to have been made upon hand delivery of a cheque to the Unitholder or to its agent duly authorized in writing or upon the mailing of a cheque by prepaid first-class mail addressed to the Unitholder at its address set out in the records of the Issuer Trustee unless the cheque is not paid on presentation, or in any other manner determined by the Issuer Trustee in its discretion. The Issuer Trustee may issue a replacement cheque if it is satisfied that the original cheque has not been received or has been lost or destroyed upon being furnished with such evidence of loss, indemnity or other document in connection therewith that the Issuer Trustee may in its discretion consider necessary.

(2) The Issuer Trustee may, in its sole discretion, transfer temporarily from capital to income within the Trust sufficient cash to facilitate payments of Income of the Trust to Unitholders. A permanent transfer from capital to income may be effected if payments made by and /or expenses of the Trust in any year exceed the aggregate of the net income and net realized capital gains of the Trust in such year.

(3) Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, a distribution to a Unitholder may be paid (i) by the issuance of additional Units, or fractions of Units having a fair market value equal to the amount of such distribution, (ii) by the issuance of a promissory note for a principal amount equal to the amount of such distribution and/or (iii) in specie by the transfer of Trust Property having a fair market value equal to the amount of such distribution, all as may be determined by the Issuer Trustee. The Issuer Trustee acknowledges and agrees that it will elect to make payment to a Unitholder of the amount of a distribution in the manner described in this subsection 11.3(3) only if it has received prior written notice from the Unitholder that such payment method is acceptable, and the Unitholder makes the cash payment described in Section 11.7 to the Issuer Trustee, which written notice may be revoked in writing by the Unitholder at any time. If the Issuer Trustee elects to make payment of the amount of a distribution by the issuance of a promissory note, such promissory note shall bear interest at a fixed or floating rate, shall be repayable on demand or on the expiry of a stated term, and shall contain such other terms all of which may be determined by the Issuer Trustee such that the fair market value of such promissory note is equal to the amount of the distribution. Any such promissory note or additional Units issued, or Trust Property transferred, by the Trust shall constitute absolute and unconditional payment in full of the distribution and, by becoming a Unitholder, each Unitholder hereby acknowledges that any such note, additional Units or transfer of Trust

Property will be accepted by the Unitholder as such absolute and unconditional payment of the distribution payable to the Unitholder.

11.4 Legal Rights

For greater certainty, it is hereby declared that the Unitholders shall have the legal right to enforce payment of any amount to be distributed or payable hereunder at the time such amount is due and payable.

11.5 Income Tax Matters

In reporting income for income tax purposes, the Trust will claim the maximum amount available to it as deductions under the relevant law, unless the Issuer Trustee determines otherwise.

11.6 Designations

In accordance with and to the extent permitted by the ITA, the Issuer Trustee will, in each taxation year, make such designations for income tax purposes in respect of amounts paid or payable or deemed to be paid to the Unitholders for such amounts that the Issuer Trustee considers to be reasonable in all circumstances, including designations relating to taxable dividends received or deemed to be received by the Trust in the year on shares of taxable Canadian corporations, net taxable capital gains of the Trust in the year and foreign source income of the Trust and foreign taxes in respect of such foreign source income for the year, if any.

11.7 Withholding Taxes

The Issuer Trustee will deduct or withhold from distributions payable to a Unitholder amounts required by law to be deducted or withheld from such Unitholder's distributions, whether such distributions are in the form of cash, a promissory note, additional Units or otherwise. To the extent that any amounts are deducted or withheld from payments described in subsection 11.3(1), such deducted or withheld amounts shall be treated for all purposes as having been paid to a Unitholder in respect of the distribution payable, provided that such deducted or withheld amounts are actually remitted in accordance with applicable law to the appropriate taxing authority. In the event that the Issuer Trustee elects to pay a distribution pursuant to subsection 11.3(3), the Unitholder shall provide cash to the Issuer Trustee in amount equal to any required deduction or withholding, which the Issuer Trustee shall forthwith remit to the appropriate taxing authority on behalf of the Unitholder.

Please see below for our comments on the draft term sheet for the Provincial Support Agreement. Let us know when you would like to discuss further. Also, please note that we have not sent the comments or the term sheet to Steve Ashbourne at Blakes. Please let us know if you would like us to do so.

Attached is a sample servicing guarantee for a general securitization transaction to provide examples of common features. Note that the sample guarantee is formatted for a corporate transaction and would have to be adjusted accordingly. Also attached is a brief description of the servicing obligations typically covered by a servicing guarantee.

In reviewing the term sheet, we believe that the Servicing Guarantee is narrow in scope.

- Not a conventional servicing guarantee for securitization transactions
- It may not be acceptable for the rating agencies, particularly if monthly remittances of collections from the LCDs are necessary.

As drafted, it solely allows for the appointment of a replacement servicer by the Guarantor upon the occurrence of a Servicer Default (due to breach of servicing performance).

- It does not cover any losses arising from a breach of the electricity vendors' servicing obligations (typical servicing obligations described in attachment)
- It would preclude the monthly remittance of collections by the LDS to IESO for deposit into the Trust's collection account.

Other Items of Consideration:

- Not typical for the Indenture Trustee to be obligated to provide any reporting to the Guarantor
- Confidentiality would be difficult to maintain for a public issuance. The guarantee is a material component of the transaction and will have to be disclosed in detail in the IM, and possibly posted as a material contract
- Consistent with other "AAA" transactions, performance under the guarantee is expected to occur promptly, typically within 2 business days for payment obligations
- Guarantee does not cover a market disruption and the inability to refinance existing due and maturing issuances (including ABCP)

Servicing Obligations Covered by a Servicing Guarantee

The Servicing Guarantee covers the performance and payment of any party's (Electricity Vendor) covenants, agreement, liabilities, indemnities and obligations in connection to its servicing duties pursuant to the master purchase agreement/servicing agreement.

We expect that IESO as agent to the investment interest owners would perform the servicing duties. As such the Servicer would include the IESO and each other electricity vendor (which is typically a sub-servicer retained/appointed by the Servicer as each sub-servicer is not likely to be a party to the master purchase agreement/servicing agreement). IESO (Servicer) will remain liable for the performance of the duties and obligations so subcontracted and all other duties and obligations of the Servicer as outlined in the master purchase agreement/servicing agreement.

The Servicer's covenants, agreement, liabilities and obligations pursuant to the master purchase agreement/servicing agreement covered by the Servicing Guarantor generally include:

- Servicing of the investment assets, generally includes:
    - Invoicing and collecting the invoice amounts;
    - Recording and holding the assets in a secure manner, available for examination if requested;
    - Maintaining prudent and reasonable administrative and operating procedures;
    - Requiring its auditors to report on the status of the investment assets;
    - Effecting all filings and recordings;
    - Using reasonable efforts in accordance with the regulation to collect the investment assets;
    - Comply with the regulations in connection with the investment assets, all in accordance with the regulations and established credit and collection policies; and

    - Not make material changes to its credit and collection policies unless Rating Agency Condition is satisfied
    - Prepare and deliver a monthly report to the investment interest owners.
- Amounts held in trust by the electricity vendor until remitted and deposited into an trust account
    - Collections will be remitted monthly into a trust account unless the Guarantor fails to maintain an acceptable rating, in which case amounts will be deposited within 2 business days of receipt. Losses arising from the commingling of funds, due to such events as bankruptcy/insolvency of the electricity vendor, would be covered by the Servicing Guarantee.
- Losses arising from amounts invested in permitted investments in trust accounts at the direction of the Servicer
- Amounts to be received from the seller/servicer in connection with deemed collections where either a valid lien is asserted against any part of the investment asset or the investment asset is reduced cancelled as a result of a set-off in respect of any claim by the specified against the Servicer/Electricity Vendor

Provincial Support Agreement Term Sheet –

Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") is provided exclusively to the parties listed herein in connection with the draft Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial support agreement (the "Provincial Support Agreement") will contain the terms and conditions set out in this Term Sheet in addition to such other representations, warranties, indemnities, and other terms and conditions as the Guarantor and the Beneficiaries (each as defined below) may reasonably require.

Guarantor:	Her Majesty the Queen in right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Energy.
Beneficiaries:	The trust company acting as indenture trustee (together with its successors, the "Indenture Trustee") under the master trust indenture (the "Master Trust Indenture") acting for the benefit of all persons who may have contractual claims against a Financing Entity (collectively, the "Beneficiaries") (including, without limitation, holders of senior and subordinated notes, senior and subordinated lenders, hedge counterparties, credit enhancers, liquidity providers, the Financial Services Manager, the Indenture Trustee and the trustee of the Financing Entity[1]).
Term:	The Guarantor's obligations under the Provincial Support Agreement will continue until [one year][2] after all Funding Obligations of all Financing Entities have been repaid.
Performance Guarantee:	[Upon the occurrence of a Performance Guarantee Event], the Indenture Trustee will be entitled to require the Guarantor to appoint a replacement servicer who will perform IESO's duties as servicer under the Master Sale and Servicing Agreement between IESO, as seller and servicer, and the Financing Entity, as purchaser, [and OPG as Financial Services Manager] ("MSSA"). In the event that the performance guarantee is unenforceable against the Guarantor, the Provincial Support Agreement will contemplate a separate legal obligation by the Guarantor to indemnify the Indenture Trustee.

[1] We have assumed that the initial Financing Entity will be a trust.

[2] This mirrors the requirement expected to be in the Regulations under the Act not to wind up, dissolve or liquidate a Financing Entity until at least one year after all of its Funding Obligations have been repaid.

Performance Guarantee Event:	A "Servicer Default" occurs under the MSSA[3]
Payment Guarantee:	[Upon the occurrence of a Payment Guarantee Event and within [5/10] business days after receiving a demand from the Indenture Trustee], the Guarantor shall [guarantee and indemnify the Indenture Trustee (for and on behalf of the Beneficiaries) by paying all regularly scheduled interest and principal payments during the term of a Financing Entity's contractual obligation to such Beneficiary]/[assume the contractual obligations of a Financing Entity to the Beneficiaries][4], which for greater certainty shall not include any default, penalty, prepayment, or make whole amounts.
Payment Guarantee Event:	(A) if the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repeals the Act; or (B) if the Legislative Assembly of Ontario amends the Act or Regulation thereunder in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest; or (C) if a court of competent jurisdiction (i) determines all or a portion of the Act to be ultra vires in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest or (ii) declares any funding obligations to be invalid or unenforceable.
Limits under Guarantees:	Under no circumstances shall the Guarantor be obligated to indemnify any Beneficiary for special or punitive damages, or loss of profits.
Priority of Payments:	The priority of the Beneficiaries to any payment made by the Guarantor under the Provincial Support Agreement shall be governed by the priority provisions in the Master Trust Indenture.

[3] Each Servicer Default will include its own cure period before the event becomes a Servicer Default.

[4] To confirm if Province will become the debtor under the applicable debt documentation or if the Financing Entity will continue to be the primary obligor with the Province acting as secondary obligor.

Subrogation:	Where the Guarantor has repaid a Beneficiary, to the extent of such payment, the Guarantor is subrogated in and to all the rights of recovery of such Beneficiary in respect of the applicable indebtedness and the security granted by a Financing Entity to the Indenture Trustee. After repayment by the Guarantor of all amounts owing to a Beneficiary, the Indenture Trustee will acknowledge and agree on behalf of such Beneficiary that the Guarantor is entitled to exercise all of the rights, powers and privileges that the Beneficiary has or may exercise in respect of the repaid indebtedness, all in accordance with the terms of the Master Trust Indenture.
Notice Requirements:	The Indenture Trustee will be required to provide notice to the Guarantor of a Performance Guarantee Event or Payment Guarantee Event and may in such notice demand payment or performance of the Guarantor's obligation under the Provincial Support Agreement, as applicable.
Closing:	Date to be determined but no later than [■, 2017]. The Closing is the date on which the documents in respect of the MSSA, the Master Trust Indenture and all related documentation are executed and delivered.
Reporting Requirements of a Financing Entity:	The Guarantor will be entitled to receive all reports received by the Indenture Trustee under the Master Trust Indenture.
Conditions Precedent to Closing:	Conditions precedent to Closing shall be those conditions set out in the Master Trust Indenture.[5]
Representations:	Customary representations and warranties of the Guarantor.
FIPPA:	Acknowledgement that the Guarantor is bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Guarantor or its agents or representatives in connection with the Transaction Documents may be subject to disclosure in accordance with that act or as otherwise required by law.
Confidentiality Obligations:	Customary confidentiality obligations to be negotiated and included. A Financing Entity and the Beneficiaries shall not, subject to applicable law, issue any press releases and other public announcements in respect of the Provincial Support Agreement without the prior written consent of the Guarantor.

[5] Opinions on the validity and enforceability of Provincial Support Agreement will be required.

Susan
Here is the latest draft from OPG with input from CIBC/RBC/GS.

We are starting to review the document. Can you also review and forward comments back to us. I am also expecting OPG and IESO to review and provide more feedback regarding servicing guarantee and LDC co-mingling risks.

Please call if you have any questions - we can discuss timeline.

Regards
Carlos

Comments on the Provincial Protection and Assurances Term Sheet

Our review of the Term Sheet focused on three key aspects:

- Change in Law
- Servicing (commingling)
- Warehouse Takeout Risk

Change in Law:

On Guarantee Activation Events:

- Consider whether some of these types of events should be subject to having a "materially adverse effect" standard on the rights and interest of the special purpose entity, possibly (B), (C) and (E). Generally, imposing this standard for guarantees is not that common. Legal counsel should be able to provide more guidance.
- Guarantee Activation Event (C) – It would be helpful to understand under what circumstances the Province can have the ability to change its contractual obligations under a Guarantee and/or transaction documents without the consent of the Financing Entity. Material changes to transaction documents are typically also subject to the satisfaction of Rating Agency Condition "RAC" (i.e. the action does not result in the rating agency lowering the transaction rating). Investors place great reliance on the RACs in transaction documents to ensure that their interests are protected.

  If it's possible to make changes to the Guarantee and transaction documents without the Financing Entity consent than consider if a Guarantee Activation Event to occur if RAC is not satisfied (i.e. this action results in a ratings downgrade of the transaction).
- Guarantee Activation Event (E) - Is the concern here that a change in IESO's organization, structure, etc or change in the electricity market structure will affect IESO's servicing ability [as alluded in the NTD] or financial capability due to its strong linkage to the Province?

  If so, it seems the focus of IESO servicing capability is more fixated on its strong linkage with the Province rather than the actual rating of the Province or IESO. With the addition of this Guarantee Activation Event, there is no specific servicing guarantee for IESO needed (and there is at this point no minimum rating requirement for IESO as servicer other than if it wishes to assume the commingling risks of the LDCs). If so, this Event is a reasonable compromise in lieu of a servicing guarantee for IESO.
- Approval Requirement: Consider whether the Province wishes to have the right of "subsequent approval" if the form of the document if the document is materially changed or the changes adversely affect the Provinces rights/interest and obligations under the transaction.
- Last Point in Power Point Presentation – What are the additional compensations that US investors would require if the guarantee is triggered? We would expect that the additional compensation would also be available for existing and future Canada investors.

Servicing (commingling)

Commingling Risk of Non-Investment Grade LDCs:

- Mitigants proposed to address the commingling risk (backed by a L/C or deposit funds in the Commingling Reserve Account) are commonly used in securitization transactions.
- Commingling Risk Amount based on 45-60 days collections is generally the standard time frame applied for securitization transactions to determine the amount to cover for the commingling risk. The rating agency will determine the amount based on the frequency with which collections are remitted by the LDC's to IESO and also the time frame over which the LDC can be replaced as servicer
- L/C Provider rating of A+ is consistent with the rating requirement needed by rating agencies for credit enhancers. But, consider if there are two or more rating agencies involved in the transaction, if the rating test should be met for all rating agencies or at least one rating agency.

Warehouse Takeout Risk

- Warehouse Default Event: Failure to repay the warehouse facility at the end of the commitment period, results in the occurrence of a "default event" with the warehouse facility becoming immediately due and payable. In the securitization context, declaration of a "default event" and acceleration of the debt, would typically also allow the purchaser/warehouse banks to sell and realize on their collateral. It does not appear that the intent here is to allow the banks to sell the collateral, but the occurrence of the event simply allows for the amortization of the facility and increased pricing. If so, it would be more appropriate to use the term "Warehouse Amortization Event". Generally, lenders of the warehouse facilities would not have the ability to "sell" the collateral, but the pricing would be very punitive.
- Warehouse Default Payment Cap - If repayment is also due to existing note holders after the occurrence of a Warehouse Default Event, the amount under clause (b) for warehouse default payment cap amount would typically be calculated pro-rata with payments due to the other note holders of the Financing Entity

We do have an underwriting agreement with them already, which I'd suggest would cover this. Mike and I are in my office now, and his suggestion is that he will call TD and BMO today and ask them to come in for half an hour each early next week to discuss how they could provide value in this process. A bit of competition is probably a good idea, and Mike has narrowed it down to these two as the best options given that RBC and CIBC are already taken by OPG. Scott, would you be able to come over here for those discussions, and then between you and Mike, you can decide which of the two would be the best fit?

We pay TD plenty of commissions for underwriting our bonds, and those commissions are understood to also include providing other services to us, including advice, so I don't think that I'd consider this as free advice and don't see the need to pay more money to them beyond what we already pay.

I talked this over with Serge. He is comfortable moving forward with one of the banks (maybe TD?). Although free advice sounds good, he was worried about perception and conflicts. His preference is to have Blakes procure their services. Any concerns with that approach?

Hi Gadi:
I think having dealer advice on our side would be beneficial. I expect that OPG will have us outgunned with the dealer input that they will be receiving. It would be quite easy for us to pick from our dealer syndicate (thinking TD or BMO or Scotia Capital) and hopefully benefit from the advice we would receive. This could be done very quickly (i.e., as early as next week) and I expect could be done at no cost. The larger dealers would have utilities and U.S. expertise which would be beneficial and also have good input into what investors will require going forward. After all, the major Canadian dealers will be the ones making markets and having the most expertise on the structure. They would likely be quite eager to provide us advice on this matter and get involved.

TD did the Muskrat Falls deal, and structured it in what, at the time, was the most cost-effective way of doing it, but I don't think there was any legislation involved so it didn't have the same complexities. I don't know if there's a particularly big difference between any of the six banks, and they'll all likely push for the most iron clad guarantee that we're able to give, so maybe my idea isn't a great one on reflection, and we should fall back on a Blair Franklin type. Mike, any thoughts?

In the end, it's really about what the accountants say is acceptable or not, so I'm not sure having a second opinion from a financial advisor is of as much value as a second opinion on the direction that E&Y is giving OPG.

I'm not sure how much value added that any of these boutiques would provide. The people that know the markets are the investment bankers that are actually going to be part of the syndicate that will have to market, sell and trade these bonds. Why not have one of TD, Scotia, National or BMO provide this double-checking? If we're worried about the conflict that they are going to give advice that will make it easier to sell the bonds to ultimately make their life as syndicate members easier, then I can see the potential attraction of an advisor that isn't in that business, but why can't Alan be that guy? I don't see that any of those that you've named would provide better external advice to the Province than he would, unless we're concerned that he's too embedded with OPG, but I don't think so.

As for the names you've mentioned, Hansel, if that turns out to be the third one, is run by a lawyer which might be helpful, but I don't know if they know much about bonds, maybe that's where Bill Gula comes in, Blair Franklin definitely knows bonds, as Fred Mifflin used to be head of government Finance at BMO many years ago and they advised the Feds on Muskrat Falls, and I haven't heard of Origin.

I've added Mike, because he knows way more about the bond market and what investors will want than anyone we've talked about in this exchange, so he may have some ideas as to where the Province should go for external advice.

Hope that helps.

Hi Gadi,

Energy and Blakes suggest that the Province needs its own financial advisor to test what we are hearing from OPG. As I understand it, there are some elements that OPG believes are requirements in the legislation. The Province would like someone with a market perspective (in addition to your team) that can test the need for each of those requirements as they arise. Given timing, they need someone who can be available in real time to provide this advice.

I will circle back as to whether that is Hansell and not Hanslep. Let me know if there are other names that you might suggest.

Scott

Hi Scott, what is it that we're looking for from a financial advisor? Is this to help with the structuring of OPG Trust's debt issuance? I know Blair Franklin, and they advised Canada on Muskrat Falls. I'm not familiar with Origin, and I don't know Bill Gula, but is that Hansell LLP, not Hanslep?

In any case, I'm not sure what any of them bring to the table beyond what the three banks already engaged would provide, with Alan and the OFA weighing in when their inevitable conflicts get in the way?

I'd be happy to discuss further to get more colour on what you're looking for.

Hi,

I spoke with Alan Hibben. He's fully engaged on the file with OPG. He suggested three other firms/people -- Origin Financial, Blair Franklin, and Bill Gula (Hanslep LLP). Carolyn, suggest you chat with Judy if Blakes has worked with any of the above. Scott, you could talk to Gadi etc if he has some thoughts on the above as well.
Let's group after your chats.

Hi Gadi,

CQSD is asking for a justification as to why we're pressuring to proceed with the Sept, 26 TB/MBC meeting.

Apparently a Minister to Minister reach out is required and as there are multiple submissions scheduled for that date Anthony says he'll need a rational to make sure it stays on the agenda. If it doesn't make the Sept 26 meeting it would be bumped to October 17th, which is the next board meeting.

I'm not entirely sure what rational to give him. Could we make the case that the financing entity will need to go to market this calendar year, which essentially means November, making an October 17th meeting fairly late?

Thanks,
Matt

Hi Matt,

Who is the legal lead on it ? Need that info as well.

Also what is the rush to proceed to the Sept. 26 TB/MBC meeting ?

A MO to MO reach out is required and I need to support that with a rational.

Subject: RE: For Review and Comment: TB/MBC Submission on Provincial Guarantee

Thanks for the review Anthony,

In response to your questions:

TB/MBC should "Authorize", maybe it's not "Approve"

- Good point I will make the change.

Are we taking out the term guarantee throughout the document?

- No not everywhere. I'm trying to be consistent with a deck recently presented to the energy Minister on this topic (see attached). Essentially, We're referring to the agreement as a "support agreement" which guarantees the debt under certain conditions. However, I did update it ina few locations compared to the version I'd sent you earlier, so pelase refer to the file attached.

How does this request relate to MOE's previous submission(s) on Fair Hydro Plan ? Is it consistent ? What is MOE saying ?

- Hoping energy can follow up on this, maybe in the next round.

Where is the contingent liability going to reside ? Which Ministry ? Interest on debt…MOF ? What process will be used to report it ? How often ?

- Ultimately a question for OPCD, again still waiting on feedback.

Has it been determined that MOE Minister will sign the submission ? If so by when ? It will impact when our DM and Minister would sign.

- Not entirely sure, can follow up with energy on this.

I still have the same questions as earlier i.e. showing a diagram explaining the process, chart showing term of loan principal + interest. etc.

- In regards to the diagram, there is one in the attached power point presentation, will this be sufficient?
- Regarding the chart showing loan principal and interest, some staff on our end are having a look at that.

When would the numbers from Energy be finalized ? OPCD review as well ?

- Still waiting on this information.

Still need the answer of the 5 questions I sent last week by my Director.

- I've passed them along, but can follow up regarding status.

I'd like to send this version around to the broader group if you think that would be appropriate. I understand your point that senior staff on our end should review first, but most of them are still away on vacation (Gadi, Ron, Ken) and it might be a good idea to keep the ball rolling in the meantime, since as you said we need to keep moving forward to the Sep 26th date.

Let me know what you think.

Thanks,
Matt Breadner on behalf of Anna Strathy

When would the numbers from Energy be finalized ? OPCD review as well ?

Still need the answer of the 5 questions I sent last week by my Director.

We would need to share a copy soon with TBS as there is a large number of submissions moving forward for Sept. 26 TB/MBC date.

I pretty much agree with Legal points.

Thanks,
Anthony

Hi Matt,

I'm going to review tomorrow morning and will provide feedback then.

You may want your Senior Management and Legal review one more time before sending out to a broader audience.

Thanks,
Anthony

Hi Anthony and Lindsay,

Please find attached the latest draft of the TB submission, note we are now calling it a "Provincial Support Agreement" as opposed to "Provincial guarantee" as MOF legal advised this is not a true guarantee as the agreement would be contingent on certain events (whereas a guarantee would not).

This version incorporates line edits made on our end, as well as by MOF legal. However it still contains several comments in the margins pertaining to issues that have not been resolved as of yet (hopefully on the next iteration). Lindsay, as you mentioned if you send something high level for now perhaps we can circle back later?

Anthony, Anna mentioned that you might want to provide thoughts on any new version before I distribute to the broader group, so I was wondering if you had any comments/concerns on this draft before we send something out for a second round?

Thanks,

Hi Lindsay and Anthony,

I'll have another draft ready soon that incorporates some feedback from MOF legal and the OFA, I plan on sharing it with the both of you for feedback before distributing again to the wider group. We have reached out to energy for feedback as well, I understand they're working on it, but in the meantime I plan on proceeding with sending out an updated version before that. And as Anthony stated, yes it is still very much in a draft form.

Thanks,

Hi all,

Couple questions on this. I'm working on a tailored comms snapshot that will focus on messaging and strategic approach. As you mentioned this is still an early draft, can we expect to see another draft of this come through later? Also is the expectation that MO or CO will be looking at this? I ask because I would like to avoid sending comms materials through approvals more than once. If this is still being developed I can send you something high-level for now and then we can circle back later.

Also wondering if anyone from Energy is looking at this. They will have some KMs around the Fair Hydro Plan/issues mitigation that I would like to draw from so we don't mix messages. Let me know if you have been working with someone at Energy or if I should reach out.

I am still aiming to have something by the 31st but we are short-staffed right now so it may be a day or two later.

Thanks!

Hi Lindsay,

Based on the recommendation of Anthony in our Corporate shop (copied), I'm sharing this early draft of a TB Submission for your review. You'll see from the attached email chain that the submission would create a contingent liability that would be disclosed to the public (but not booked/no fiscal impact) in Public Accounts. Anthony suggested that we include a communications strategy in the attached submission, given that the contingent liability will be made public. Could I ask for you expertise in crafting some messaging/strategy?

Thanks, Anna

Hi Cindy, Steen, Kelly (for Scott), and Malle,

Attached, for your review and comment, is a draft TB submission for the Provincial Guarantee.

This submission is somewhat premature, as there continue to be discussions about which Ministry might bring this forward (for instance, the Provincial Guarantee piece could be incorporated into a broader report back by the Ministry of Energy) and when this might go to TB/MBC (mid to late September); however, Gadi is on vacation for two weeks starting Monday, so we wanted to get a head start on something that could be moved forward in his absence.

I apologize for the tight timelines, but we are hoping to have your comments (even preliminary comments) by noon tomorrow. I expect that subsequent iterations of this submission and/or the TB Assessment Note will be circulated again for your input.

Please don't hesitate to contact me should you have any questions.

Hi John, Bruno,

We've received a request to provide the IOD impact of the FHP if the Province had to assume the financial obligations but by fiscal year and displayed in chart form. Currently in the draft submission we outline what the worst case IOD impact would be if we assumed the debt at its peak.

I recall back in March a spreadsheet on this had been put together (with assistance from the IOD group), but not sure what/where the latest version would be. If you have it hand, could we have a simple table/chart that summarizes the impact by year?

Thanks Matt.

I was hoping to see a chart with the yearly amounts over the term of the loans with corresponding estimated amounts.

The submission itself is has a number of components, the process established around the financing activities, the financing costs principal and interest, the potential liabilities to the Province, the communication vehicle (through Public Accounts) and the risks associated with each step.

The submission is very high level, but would like some details on the various components. You already initiated the communication risk mitigation with COMMs.

I think it would be good to show the actual process itself.

We can talk about this today.

Hi Anna -
Attached are edits to the TB sub as well as comments from our Legal below. Note that these are still with Energy MO.

Please also note LSB's comments:

"The discussions around a cap on liability are still ongoing and I don't have any updates on the status of the financing plan.

In terms of the likelihood of the triggering events (i.e., future legislative action or adverse judicial determination), I think any guess would be wholly speculative. I would prefer simply to indicate that the province has undertaken to assume the risk associated with future legislative changes (which are within the province's control) or adverse judicial determination (which would be a direct result of the model adopted by the province)."

PROVINCIAL SUPPORT AGREEMENT TO OPG FINANCING ENTITY

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide a guarantee or guarantees in respect of debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with investment interests acquired by one or more financing entities established by Ontario Power Generation Inc. pursuant to s. 22 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 ("OPG Financing Entities"), that, under certain circumstances as set out in the support agreement, the Province would pay when due amounts in respect of the ~~debt~~ obligations of the Financing Entity.

This submission is to request that Treasury Board:

(a) Authorize that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide a support agreement, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to Cabinet an Order in Council, to be made under subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and

~~(ii)~~ to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

(ii)

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and

(iii)

(iv) specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

Commented [RK1]: In this case, could it be tied to the requirements of the Act, without a specific maximum, or tied to amount consistent to some determination under the Act, such as the fair allocation amount determination, or cumulative annual fair adjustment amounts under the Act (including financing costs)?

Commented [AS2]: Analysis on maximum liability still underway by energy, working with OPG (Matt).

~~(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the support agreement.~~

3. BACKGROUND:

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) to lower electricity bills by 25%~~, on average~~, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years. As part of OFHP, it was announced that a portion of the Global Adjustment (GA) would be refinanced in order to fairly allocate costs across present and future generations of electricity consumers with respect to investments made to decarbonize (i.e., phase-out coal) and modernize Ontario's electricity system (i.e., build and maintain a reliable electricity system).~~The OFHP includes the deferral of a portion of the Global Adjustment portion of the cost of electricity. The deferral is built around the principle that the costs incurred to put in place assets for generation and support conservation to move to a clean, reliable system, would last longer than their typical 20-year contract period and would be able to provide benefits for future ratepayers, and that the costs should be spread more fairly between current and future rates.~~ This would be achieved by spreading the cost of electricity investments so that they are shared proportionately by future consumers who cause a need for or benefit from the province's multi-billion dollar investments in electricity infrastructure.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years.~~ This estimate is being updated and will be presented to [TB/MBC/Cabinet] as part of a report back by the Ministry of Energy.~~ The Ministry of Energy will report back to TB/MBC in fall 2017-18 with an update on out-year projections following analysis on rate applications before the Ontario Energy Board.

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (the "OFHPA"~~Act~~)~~,~~, which enables GA Refinancing, the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) will have a funding gap resulting from the reduction in amounts collected over four years. The legislation enables IESO to record the under-collection of GA in a variance account, and deems this under-collected amount to be a "Regulatory Asset". ~~which came into effect on June 1, 2017, the IESO is able to establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts arising from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account.~~

The OFHPA~~Act~~ provides for the IESO to sell all or a portion of the regulatory asset; i.e., the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers

in the future. Under the OFHPA~~Act~~, a Financing Entity (i.e., an entity established or caused to be established by OPG as the Financial Services Manager under the OFHPA) will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the ratepayers. ~~Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager under section 18, is authorized under section 22 to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations. Such a Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the eligible~~ ratepayers~~.~~

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG ~~is~~, therefore, has advised~~requesting~~ that the Government of Ontario provide a support agreement to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

OFA, the Ministry of Finance and external advisors – consistent with OPG advice – recommend limiting activation of the provincial guarantee to the following circumstances~~Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Support Agreement~~:

- Actions of~~Decisions by~~ the Legislative Assembly that undermine the financing arrangement, i.e., repeal or amendment of the OFHPA ~~of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments~~ or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity;
- A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- [Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO ~~adversely impacting the Financing Entity.~~or a change in the electricity market structure or operations that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations.]

In the event the support agreement is triggered by one of these events, the Province would be required to pay principal and interest on debt issued by the Financing Entity and other obligations of the Financing Entity as it comes due (without acceleration). In addition, the Province would also have the option to assume the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities.~~take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers~~.

The support agreement would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

Commented [ESP3]: Suggest use of this language (from an earlier ''version 3'' of this document).

Commented [MOF LSB4]: Might be helpful to include more information about OPG developing the Financing Plan, what funding obligations are, etc.

Commented [RK5]: I'd see if Energy can share its description on this.

Commented [AS6]:

Commented [ESP7]: Recommend deleting.

This does not appear to be consistent with the latest term sheet shared on Wednesday Sept. 6. That version did not include this circumstance/event in its list of ''Assumption Events''

Commented [ESP8]: Is this consistent with Term Sheet?

Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act (FAA), 1990 requires that the Minister of Finance's approval is required before a ministry seeks an Order in Council authorizing a guarantee or indemnity or before a ministry enters into a guarantee or indemnity that would increase the contingent liabilities of Ontario. In this case, the Minister of Finance, together with the Minister of Energy, is recommending the OIC to Cabinet and will, acting together with the Minister of Energy, determine the terms and conditions of and execute the proposed guarantee/indemnity in accordance with the OIC, if approved.

Commented [ESP9]: Believe this is what is being referenced?

Formatted: Font: Italic

Commented [ESP10]: Is there an OIC drafted or is this just a proposed approach should an OIC be required?

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the support agreement is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the support agreement is provided the Province of Ontario takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability would increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated [$24B to $26B (to be revised as Energy re-estimates)] of debt, including principal and accumulated~~, along with associated~~ interest ~~payments~~.

Commented [ESP11]: Pending finalization of costs forecasts - this work is still ongoing with OPG.

In the event the support agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the guarantee.

Commented [MOF LSB12]: OPCD to review

Commented [RK13]: Could include Energy's curve from the March 2nd CabSub, as well as the interim update in the more recent LTEP deck---but would be subject to updates per Energy's anticipated forthcoming submissions cited above.

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between [$0.8B and $1.3B] per annum, depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at.

Commented [ESP14]: Work is still ongoing between ENERGY and OPG regarding finalizing amounts - including interest.

Commented [MOF LSB15]: Include of a discussion of the risk associated with the trigger events – what are the risks – are there legal risks regarding the legislation and whether a court might find it to be invalid for some reason – have legal opinions been obtained on this? Are some of these risks within the control of the government so can be mitigated in some way?

It is important to note that, if the support agreement is triggered, and the Province assumes the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the OFHPA~~Act~~ continue or not, in some form. If the payment streams from ratepayers via the collection of~~in~~ the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue,

Commented [RK16]: We should get input from Energy on this, to be consistent with what is, or will be, in Energy submissions.

Commented [ESP17]: I don't believe our TB Subs spoke to this point.

this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if the OFHPA is repealed or is determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

7. COMMUNICATION PLAN

Commented [ESP18]: This section was not in earlier version - unsure of its necessity?

Key Messages

- Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan has ~~will~~ resulted in the biggest electricity rate reduction in Ontario's history.
- We have heard from Ontarians across the province that the price of electricity has risen too quickly, which is why we ~~are~~ moveding forward with a plan to ensure the costs are shared more evenly over the years ahead.
- The government is following through on its commitment to balance the books as announced in its 2017 Budget, while continuing to make investments in priority areas such as electricity price relief.

Strategic Approach

- Low-profile, reactive and targeted to industry stakeholders and government employees as necessary. Reactive messaging contingent upon legislative changes only with back-pocket QAs to support as needed.
- Communications support will continue to be led by the Ministry of Energy.

~~7.~~9. RECOMMENDATION

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a support agreement, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to~~that~~ Cabinet ~~approve~~ an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

(ii)

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and

(iii)

(iv) specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

~~(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the support agreement.~~

Commented [MOF LSB19]: It may be the case that this is a more general approval and the 2 Ministers will determine the terms and condition in accordance with the authorization given to them by the OIC. It depends on how soon the actual wording of the guarantee can be confirmed as opposed to the draft term sheet – The province should not sign of commit to the term sheet as the province's authority comes from the OIC.

Hi Steen,

Our lawyers have indicated that it would be prudent to have both Ministers of Energy and Finance sign the TB submission for the Provincial Support Agreement since both Ministers will recommend the OIC and both will sign the Support Agreement. Gadi is signing off on the TB submission at the end of the day today and then it will track to both DMOs for early next week.

I'm attaching the latest version of the TB submission (v.5) for your review and comment. Changes (from the version you received last Thursday) have been tracked. You'll see there remains three areas that would benefit from Energy's input:

- Maximum liability – and if analysis is still underway, would be good to indicate that
- Additional information on the Financing Plan
- Discussion of the risk/likelihood of trigger events

I also have removed the minute relating to the s. 28 request from the Minister of Energy. I understand that, because the Minister of Finance is recommending the OIC, his approval of the contingent liability is implicit.

Please don't hesitate to contact me or Gadi should you have any questions.

Thanks, Anna

Hi All,

Please find attached the latest version of the TB submission, which includes some comments in the margins that still need to be addressed. Thanks to everyone who has provided edits so far. I'd like to reiterate that we're still tracking the Sept. 26 TB/MBC meeting, which means we'll have to brief our Minister next week in order to provide a final submission to TBS three weeks before the meeting.

As many of you may already know, we are now calling it a "Provincial Support Agreement" as opposed to "Provincial guarantee" as MOF legal advised this is not a true guarantee as the agreement would be contingent on certain events (whereas a guarantee would not).

Please provide further comments and edits as appropriate. We're looking to have program area and legal sign-off by Wed. Sept. 6.

Thanks,
Matt Breadner on behalf of Anna Strathy

Subject: For Review and Comment: TB/MBC Submission on Provincial Guarantee

Hi Cindy, Steen, Kelly (for Scott), and Malle,

Attached, for your review and comment, is a draft TB submission for the Provincial Guarantee.

This submission is somewhat premature, as there continue to be discussions about which Ministry might bring this forward (for instance, the Provincial Guarantee piece could be incorporated into a broader report back by the Ministry of Energy) and when this might go to TB/MBC (mid to late September); however, Gadi is on vacation for two weeks starting Monday, so we wanted to get a head start on something that could be moved forward in his absence.

I apologize for the tight timelines, but we are hoping to have your comments (even preliminary comments) by noon tomorrow. I expect that subsequent iterations of this submission and/or the TB Assessment Note will be circulated again for your input.

Please don't hesitate to contact me should you have any questions.

PROVINCIAL SUPPORT AGREEMENT TO OPG FINANCING ENTITY

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide a guarantee or guarantees in respect of debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with investment interests acquired by one or more financing entities established by Ontario Power Generation Inc. pursuant to s. 22 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 ("OPG Financing Entities"), that, under certain circumstances as set out in the support agreement, the Province would pay when due amounts in respect of the ~~debt~~ obligations of the Financing Entity.

This submission is to request that Treasury Board:

(a) Authorize that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy, on behalf of Ontario, provide a support agreement, to be authorized by Order in Council under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 in respect of the debts, obligations, securities and undertakings of one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend to Cabinet an Order in Council, to be made under subsection 5(3) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

~~(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the support agreement.~~

3. BACKGROUND:

Commented [RK1]: In this case, could it be tied to the requirements of the Act, without a specific maximum, or tied to amount consistent to some determination under the Act, such as the fair allocation amount determination, or cumulative annual fair adjustment amounts under the Act (including financing costs)?

Commented [AS2]: Analysis on maximum liability still underway by energy, working with OPG (Matt).

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP) to lower electricity bills by 25%, on average, for a typical residential consumer, and holding increases to the rate of inflation for four years. The OFHP includes the deferral of a portion of the Global Adjustment portion of the cost of electricity. The deferral is built around the principle that the costs incurred to put in place assets for generation and support conservation to move to a clean, reliable system, would last longer than their typical 20-year contract period and would be able to provide benefits for future ratepayers, and that the costs should be spread more fairly between current and future rates.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by deferring and spreading the cost recovery of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years. This estimate is being updated and will be presented to [TB/MBC/Cabinet] as part of a report-back by the Ministry of Energy.

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (the Act), which came into effect on June 1, 2017, the IESO is able to establish a variance account to record the deferral amounts arising from the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation, and to create a regulatory asset to recover the balance in the variance account. The Act provides for the IESO to sell the regulatory asset; i.e., the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the Act, Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager under section 18, is authorized under section 22 to establish one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations. Such a Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the eligible ratepayers.

Commented [MOF LSB3]: Might be helpful to include more information about OPG developing the Financing Plan, what funding obligations are, etc.

Commented [RK4]: I'd see if Energy can share its description on this.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG is, therefore, requesting that the Government of Ontario provide a support agreement to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Support Agreement:

- Decisions by the Legislative Assembly, i.e., repeal of the Ontario Fair

Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity;

- A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable; and
- [Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO ~~adversely impacting the Financing Entity.~~or a change in the electricity market structure or operations that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest such that it can pay its specified creditors, including making payments on its debt obligations.]

Commented [AS5]:

In the event the support agreement is triggered, the Province would be required to pay principal and interest on debt issued by the Financing Entity and other obligations of the Financing Entity as it comes due (without acceleration). In addition, the Province would also have the option to assume the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities.~~take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers~~.

The support agreement would continue until all guaranteed obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

~~———~~Section 28 of the FAA requires that the Minister of Finance's approval is required before a ministry seeks an Order in Council authorizing a guarantee or indemnity or before a ministry enters into a guarantee or indemnity that would increase the contingent liabilities of Ontario. In this case, the Minister of Finance, together with the Minister of Energy, is recommending the OIC to Cabinet and will, acting together with the Minister of Energy, determine the terms and conditions of and execute the proposed guarantee/indemnity in accordance with the OIC, if approved.

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the support agreement is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the support agreement is provided the Province of Ontario takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability would increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated [$24B to $26B (to be revised as Energy re-estimates)] of debt principal, along with associated interest payments.

In the event the support agreement is triggered, the Province's net debt would be expected to increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability for the debt outstanding at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by the debt interest servicing of the debt payment obligations it has assumed under the guarantee.

Commented [MOF LSB6]: OPCD to review

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between [$0.8B and $1.3B] per annum, depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at.

Commented [RK7]: Could include Energy's curve from the March 2nd CabSub, as well as the interim update in the more recent LTEP deck---but would be subject to updates per Energy's anticipated forthcoming submissions cited above.

It is important to note that, if the support agreement is triggered, and the Province assumes the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the Act continue or not, in some form. If the payment streams from ratepayers in the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

Commented [MOF LSB8]: Include of a discussion of the risk associated with the trigger events – what are the risks – are there legal risks regarding the legislation and whether a court might find it to be invalid for some reason – have legal opinions been obtained on this? Are some of these risks within the control of the government so can be mitigated in some way?

Commented [RK9]: We should get input from Energy on this, to be consistent with what is, or will be, in Energy submissions.

7. COMMUNICATION PLAN

Key Messages

- Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan will result in the biggest electricity rate reduction in Ontario's history.
- We have heard from Ontarians across the province that the price of electricity has risen too quickly, which is why we are moving forward with a plan to ensure the costs are shared more evenly over the years ahead.
- The government is following through on its commitment to balance the books as announced in its 2017 Budget, while continuing to make investments in priority areas such as electricity price relief.

Strategic Approach

- Low-profile, reactive and targeted to industry stakeholders and government employees as necessary. Reactive messaging contingent upon legislative changes only with back-pocket QAs to support as needed.
- Communications support will continue to be led by the Ministry of Energy.

~~7.~~9. RECOMMENDATION

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a support agreement, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

~~(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the support agreement.~~

Commented [MOF LSB10]: It may be the case that this is a more general approval and the 2 Ministers will determine the terms and condition in accordance with the authorization given to them by the OIC. It depends on how soon the actual wording of the guarantee can be confirmed as opposed to the draft term sheet – The province should not sign of commit to the term sheet as the province's authority comes from the OIC.

We have discussed this with the OFA, and we have endeavoured to provide a provision that we think should allow the financial guarantee being contemplated. Please let us know if you think it provides the necessary scope for what would be required to meet the Province's needs. We deleted the existing provision, although if you think that more general contractual authority is needed, something else could be considered. However, we don't think that it is appropriate to have a statutory appropriation for such general indemnity and guarantee provisions.

We would expect that the guarantee would be capped and only provide for the repayment of the principal and interest of the debt securities of the financial asset owner, and that would usually be done in the OIC.

We don't have any experience with performance guarantees. Is there a need for the Minister of Energy to require performance by the LDCs? We were also wondering if Blakes or another party involved in these discussions might have an example of what is being considered.

We also removed the exemption from s. 28 of the FAA. We have discussed this with OFA staff, and given the importance and breadth of this Act and Program, it doesn't seem appropriate to exempt the entire Act from s. 28 of the FAA.

Hi Carolyn,

Thanks for your email. Would it be possible to arrange a conference call today with yourself or your counsel most knowledgeable on this proposed securitization and transaction so that we can get an understanding of it and how it fits into any proposed authorizing legislation. Unfortunately we are not familiar with the proposed transaction although we have seen some general background information about the proposal. What role would a guarantee of investment dealers have in the transaction? We do have a copy of the legislation that we got via our clients at OFA and they were more engaged in the issue of a future proposed equity injection, but the most recent version that we have seen does not mention guarantees although there seems to be a very general contract authorization section. Of course, we have to generally think about s. 28 as well.

A call today to over the main elements of the proposed transaction and the legislation would be very helpful so that we can get back to Gadi.

Hi Michael & Malle – we will be sending you draft legislation to take a look at. Actual guarantees will follow later.

This relates to the government's Fair Hydro Plan and the promise to reduce rates by 25% by July. We are doing a sort of securitization, for which the legislation will provide a framework. We are contemplating provisions that allow "the Minister" to enter into agreements with respect to transactions contemplated by the legislation. Gadi and DM Angus are of the view that Minister should be MOF, as the agreements are likely to be guarantees to investment dealers. Indemnities for the boards of OPG and IESO will also be required, although we didn't talk about who would sign those.

Happy to answer your questions or walk you through the proposed bill.

Preamble

The Government of Ontario is committed to fostering the development of a clean, modern and reliable electricity system with a diverse supply mix. The Government is also committed to removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for renewable and clean energy projects.[1]

The Government of Ontario has established a regulatory framework related to the generation and sale of electricity, which has promoted and continues to promote significant investment to enable phasing out of coal fired generation, modernizing sites and facilities in the Province for the generation of electrical energy and the production therefrom,[2] and conservation and demand management.

The Government of Ontario is committed to ensuring that the costs of these investments, and the raising of money to fund the investments,[3] are allocated fairly among present and future generations of consumers.

Therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows:

Sub-meter customers

(3) A specified consumer who provides electricity to a sub-meter customer and any unit sub-meter provider who provides unit sub-metering for the specified consumer shall

(a) determined by the Board within seven business days after this section receives Royal Assent; and

(b) effective as of the first day of the calendar month immediately following the determination.

True up amount

(2) For the purposes of paragraph 2 of subsection (1), the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations prescribing the method for determining the true up amount, having regard to the following principles:

1. The true up amount should serve to ensure that the collection of the clean energy adjustment is sufficient to pay the estimated finance amount when it is due.

2. The method for determining the true up amount should take into account historical and reasonably foreseeable,

    i. differences between amounts billed and amounts collected due to various factors, including applicable taxes, consumer defaults and delays, billing lags and write-offs, and

    ii. variations in billings due to variations in electricity consumption.

IESO to issue remittance notice to electricity vendors

Amount

(1.1) The fair allocation amount in respect of a reference period is the sum of the following amounts:

borne by the specified consumers in respect of clean energy costs [in the absence of this Act].

2. An allocable portion of the value of any fair adjustment, determined in accordance with subsection (3).

Principles

(2) In calculating the fair allocation amount [or in developing the fair allocation calculation?], subject to subsection (3), the Financial Services Manager shall have regard to the following principles:

1. Clean energy costs allocated to the specified consumers in respect of a reference period should be allocated in proportion to the clean energy benefits attributed to the specified consumers in respect of the reference period.

1. Any incurrence of a funding obligation should reasonably align the expected finance amount determined under Schedule 1 that would become due and payable during a reference period with the fair allocation amount determined for the reference period under this Part as of the time of the incurrence, in each case after reducing the fair allocation calculation by the amount of any fair adjustment for the reference period.

2. Incurrences and transfers should be implemented in a manner that, as the Financial Services Manager considers to be reasonable, is cost effective and reflects prevailing market terms and conditions.

3. Reasonable assumptions should be made regarding such matters as may be prescribed.

Hi Carolyn,

Thanks for your email. Would it be possible to arrange a conference call today with yourself or your counsel most knowledgeable on this proposed securitization and transaction so that we can get an understanding of it and how it fits into any proposed authorizing legislation. Unfortunately we are not familiar with the proposed transaction although we have seen some general background information about the proposal. What role would a guarantee of investment dealers have in the transaction? We do have a copy of the legislation that we got via our clients at OFA and they were more engaged in the issue of a future proposed equity injection, but the most recent version that we have seen does not mention guarantees although there seems to be a very general contract authorization section. Of course, we have to generally think about s. 28 as well.

A call today to over the main elements of the proposed transaction and the legislation would be very helpful so that we can get back to Gadi.

Hi Michael & Malle – we will be sending you draft legislation to take a look at. Actual guarantees will follow later.

This relates to the government's Fair Hydro Plan and the promise to reduce rates by 25% by July. We are doing a sort of securitization, for which the legislation will provide a framework. We are contemplating provisions that allow "the Minister" to enter into agreements with respect to transactions contemplated by the legislation. Gadi and DM Angus are of the view that Minister should be MOF, as the agreements are likely to be guarantees to investment dealers. Indemnities for the boards of OPG and IESO will also be required, although we didn't talk about who would sign those.

Happy to answer your questions or walk you through the proposed bill.

Hi Carolyn,

Gadi Mayman gave us a heads up that you might be giving us a call about a proposed guarantee that the Minister of Finance may be required to sign in relation to the changes to the global adjustment.

We're happy to discuss this. This afternoon is busy but tomorrow afternoon may work.

Thanks!

§ 3-b. Long Island office of the department.

1. There is hereby established in the department an office to review and make recommendations with respect to the operations and terms and conditions of service of, and rates and budgets established by, the Long Island power authority and/or its service provider.

2. Definitions. As used or referred to in this section:

(a) "Authority" means the Long Island power authority.

(b) "Service provider" means the entity under contract with the authority to provide management and operation services associated with the authority's electric transmission and distribution system and any subsidiary of such entity that provides such services under contract. (c) "Operations services agreement" means an agreement and any amendments thereto between the Long Island lighting company dba LIPA or the Long Island power authority and the service provider to provide management and operation services associated with the authority's electric transmission and distribution system.

3. General powers. In undertaking the requirements of this section, subject to subdivisions (u) and (bb) through (hh) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law, the department shall be empowered and authorized to:

(a) Review and make recommendations to the board of the Long Island power authority with respect to the rates and charges, including charges related to energy efficiency and renewable energy programs, to be established by the authority and become applicable on or after January first, two thousand sixteen pursuant to subdivision (u) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law.

(i) The purpose of such review is to make recommendations designed to ensure that the authority and the service provider provide safe and adequate transmission and distribution service at rates set at the lowest level consistent with sound fiscal operating practices.

(ii) The department's recommendations shall be designed to be consistent with ensuring that the revenue requirements related to such rate review are sufficient to satisfy the authority's obligations with respect to its bonds, notes and all other contracts.

(iii) In the context of such review, the department may not make any recommendation that would modify the compensation or fee structure included within the operations services agreement.

(iv) In undertaking such review and in making recommendations related to the proposed rates and charges, the department shall establish standards, policies and procedures that, at a minimum, provide for public statement and evidentiary hearings and participation of intervenors and other parties, and ensure that any final recommendations related to the proposed rates and charges are provided to the authority within two hundred forty days of the filing with the department of such plan.

(v) The parties to any such rate review proceeding shall include, but not be limited to, department staff, the authority, the service provider and, to the extent it deems necessary or appropriate, the utility intervention unit.

(b) Review the annual capital expenditures proposed by the service provider and recommend such improvement in the manufacture, conveying, transportation, distribution or supply of electricity, or in the methods employed by the service provider as in the department's judgment allows for safe and adequate service.

(c) Annually review the emergency response plan of the authority and the service provider in accordance with the following requirements:

(i) Examine and determine whether the emergency response plan is consistent with the requirements of paragraph (a) of subdivision twenty-one of section sixty-six of this chapter and any regulations or orders promulgated thereto, and to recommend amendments of same; and

(ii) Review and make recommendations to the authority with respect to the performance of the service provider in restoring service or otherwise meeting the requirements of the emergency response plan during an emergency event, defined for purposes of this section as an event where widespread outages have occurred in the authority's service territory due to a storm or other causes beyond the control of the authority and its service provider, including making determinations with respect to whether the service provider is reasonably able to implement the emergency response plan, whether the length of any outages related to such emergency were materially longer than they would otherwise have been because the service provider failed to reasonably implement the emergency response plan, the reasonableness of costs associated with such emergency response, the costs, if any, that were unreasonably and imprudently incurred by the service provider, and whether the service provider would be liable for any such costs pursuant to the terms and conditions of the operations services agreement.

(d) Upon notification to the Long Island power authority, undertake a comprehensive and regular management and operations audit of the authority and service provider pursuant to subdivision (bb) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law. Such contract shall provide further that the auditor shall work for and under the direction of the department according to such terms as the department may determine are necessary and reasonable.

(e) Accept, investigate, mediate to resolve and make recommendations to the Long Island power authority and/or the service provider regarding the resolution of complaints from consumers in the authority's service

4. Review and inspection. To undertake the requirements of subdivision two of this section, the department shall be authorized to inspect all premises and facilities owned or operated by the authority and the service provider, review all books and records of the authority and the service provider, interview all appropriate personnel, and require annual reporting consistent with the requirements of subdivision six of section sixty-six of this chapter and any regulations and orders adopted thereto; provided, however, that this authority shall not extend to affiliates of the service provider.

public service commission of this state, the interstate commerce commission or other federal regulatory body and so long as such person is thus actually and exclusively employed and no longer, or (ii) exclusively as an officer or employee of the Long Island power authority or its service provider, as defined under section three-b of the public service law, by rendering to such authority or provider such services in connection with its lines and property which are located in such authority's service area and so long as such person is thus actually and exclusively employed and no longer;

§ 16. Repowering. If after the Long Island power authority, or its successor, determines, in accordance with the terms and conditions contained in the amended and restated power supply agreement ("A&R PSA"), dated October 10, 2012, between the authority and the owner of the legacy LILCO power generating facilities, that repowering any such generating facility is in the best interests of its ratepayers and will enhance the authority's ability to provide a more efficient, reliable and economical supply of electric energy in its service territory, consistent with the goal of improving environmental quality, the authority will exercise its rights under the A&R PSA related to repowering such facility, and shall enter into an agreement related to payments in lieu-of-taxes for a term commensurate with any power purchase agreement entered into related to such repowered facility, consistent with other such agreements related to generating facilities under contract to the authority in the service territory.

§ 17. This act shall take effect January 1, 2014; provided, however, that section twelve of this act shall take effect April 1, 2014, sections five, ten, eleven, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen and sixteen of this act shall take effect immediately; provided further that section thirteen of this act shall expire and be deemed repealed January 1, 2015; and provided further that the amendments to subdivision 6 of section 18-a of the public service law made by section two of this act shall not affect the repeal of such subdivision and shall be deemed repealed therewith.

PART B

Section 1. Legislative findings. The legislature hereby finds and determines:

1. On May 28, 1998, Long Island Power Authority (the authority) acquired all the capital stock and associated assets, including transmission and distribution (T&D) system assets of Long Island Lighting Company (LILCO) which does business as the retail electric utility on Long Island, New York under the name of LIPA. In connection with that acquisition, the authority took over ultimate responsibility for providing electric utility service to residential, commercial, industrial, nonprofit and governmental customers in the counties of Suffolk and Nassau and a portion of the county of Queens (hereinafter referred to as the "service area"). Such acquisition effectively converted LILCO from an investor-owned utility that was comprehensively regulated by the New York Public Service Commission (PSC) and the United States Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), to a municipal utility that is not comprehensively regulated either by the PSC or FERC.

2. Since May 28, 1998, neither the authority nor LIPA has directly operated or maintained the T&D system assets, provided electric service or billed and collected T&D rates from LIPA's customers; instead, the authority and LIPA have contracted out virtually all of these activities to other companies. Most of these operations and service responsibilities have been contracted out to affiliates of a company now known as National Grid plc (National Grid), a multi-national electric and gas utility company organized under the laws of England and Wales pursuant to a management services agreement. Thus, while the LIPA name appears on customer bills as well as on service trucks and other equipment used in the service area, affiliates of National Grid have been principally in charge of management and operation of the T&D system assets and providing electricity to consumers in the service area. The authority and LIPA have now contracted with affiliates of Public Service Enterprise Group and Lockheed Martin Services Inc. (PSEG-Lockheed) to provide operation and maintenance services for the T&D system assets for ten years starting January 1, 2014, when the National Grid contract expires.

3. High costs of electric utility service poses a serious threat to the economic well-being, health and safety of the residents of and the commerce and industry in the service area. High costs of electric utility service deter commerce and industry from locating in the service area and have caused existing commerce and industry to consider seriously moving out of the service area.

4. High debt and associated debt service contribute to the authority's high electric rates. The authority has approximately seven billion dollars in outstanding debt, a substantial portion of which was issued to refinance debt associated with construction of the now abandoned Shoreham nuclear power plant. The annual debt service associated with such bonds puts pressure on the authority's customer rates.

5. As of December 31, 2012, the three major rating agencies generally rated the authority's debt in the single-A range, though Moody's Investors Services assigns approximately seven hundred million dollars of the authority's debt slightly lower ratings of Baa1 and Baa2.

6. If securitized restructuring bonds were issued by a bankruptcy-remote entity with a AAA or equivalent rating in current market conditions to finance a portion of the costs of purchasing, redeeming or defeasing outstanding debt of the authority, and other associated costs, the debt service on the authority's debt could be reduced and the costs of electric utility service could be lowered.

7. Securitized restructuring bonds are likely to be most attractive to the investing public and result in the lowest possible yields if they are issued by a newly organized, special purpose public benefit corporation or other corporate municipal instrumentality of the state.

8. The purpose of this act is to provide a legislative foundation for the issuance of securitized restructuring bonds to refinance outstanding debt of the authority, a significant portion of which relates to LILCO's costs of constructing and financing the now abandoned Shoreham nuclear power plant, including the creation of restructuring property by the authority to provide for the redemption or defeasance of a portion of the outstanding debt of the authority. It is the intent of the legislature to authorize, for the purpose of reducing electric utility costs to consumers in the service area, the following: (a) the organization of a restructuring bond issuer as a special purpose corporate municipal instrumentality of the state, created for the limited purpose of issuing securitized restructuring bonds to purchase restructuring property to finance the cost of purchasing, redeeming or defeasing a portion of the outstanding debt of the authority and associated costs, which securitized restructuring bonds create no new financial obligations or liabilities for the authority or for the state; and (b) implementation of contracts with owners of the securitized restructuring bonds through a statutory pledge and agreement that the state will not in any way take or permit any action to revoke, modify, impair, postpone, terminate or amend this act in any manner that is materially adverse to the owners of the restructuring bonds until those bonds are no longer outstanding and all amounts due and owing under the related transaction documents have been paid in full.

9. Accordingly, the issuance of securitized restructuring bonds is expected to result in lower aggregate distribution and transmission charges and transition charges, compared to other available alternatives.

§ 2. Definitions. As used or referred to in this act, unless a differing meaning clearly appears from the context:

1. "Ancillary agreement" means any bond insurance policy, letter of credit, reserve account, surety bond, swap arrangement, hedging arrangement, liquidity or credit support arrangement or other similar agreement or arrangement entered into in connection with the issuance of restructuring bonds that is designed to promote the credit quality and marketability of such restructuring bonds or to mitigate the risk of an increase in interest rates.

2. "Approved restructuring costs" means, to the extent approved as such under a restructuring cost financing order,

(a) costs of purchasing, redeeming or defeasing a portion of outstanding debt of the authority, including bonds and notes issued by the authority, debt issued by the New York state energy research and development authority for the benefit of the LILCO;

(b) costs of terminating interest rate swap contracts and other financial contracts entered into by or for the benefit of the authority and related to debt obligations of the authority;

(c) rebate, yield reduction payments and any other amounts payable to the United States Treasury or to the Internal Revenue Service to preserve or protect the federal tax-exempt status of outstanding debt obligations of the authority; and (d) upfront financing costs associated with restructuring bonds.

3. "Assignee" means any individual, corporation, limited liability company, partnership or limited partnership, trust or other legally-recognized entity to which an interest in restructuring property is assigned, sold or transferred, other than as security, including any assignee of that party.

4. "Authority" means Long Island Power Authority, a corporate municipal instrumentality and political subdivision of the state.

5. "Consumer" means any individual, governmental body, trust, business entity, nonprofit organization or other legally-recognized entity that takes electric delivery service within the service area by means of electric transmission or distribution facilities, whether those electric transmission or distribution facilities are owned by LIPA or any other entity.

6. "Financing cost" means the costs to issue, service, or repay restructuring bonds, whether incurred upon issuance of such restructuring bonds or over the life of the restructuring bonds, and approved for recovery in a restructuring cost financing order. Without limitation, "financing cost" may include, as applicable, any of the following:

(a) principal, interest and redemption premiums payable on restructuring bonds;

(b) any payment required under an ancillary agreement and any amount required to fund or replenish a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to the restructuring bonds;

(c) any federal, state or local taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, franchise fees or license fees imposed on transition charge revenues; and

(d) any cost related to issuing restructuring bonds, administering the restructuring bond issuer and servicing restructuring property and

restructuring bonds, or related to the efforts to prepare or obtain approval of a restructuring cost financing order, including, without limitation, costs of calculating adjustments of transition charges, servicing fees and expenses, trustee fees and expenses, legal fees and expenses, accounting fees and expenses, administrative fees and expenses, placement fees, underwriting fees, fees and expenses of the authority's advisors and outside counsel, if any, rating agency fees and any other related cost that is approved for recovery in the restructuring cost financing order.

7. "Financing entity" means the restructuring bond issuer, the authority or any servicer, trustee, collateral agent, and other person or entity acting for the benefit of owners of the restructuring bonds, the restructuring bond issuer or the authority that may own restructuring property or have rights to receive proceeds of restructuring bonds or to receive proceeds from the sale of restructuring property.

8. "LIPA" means Long Island Lighting Company, currently doing business under the name of LIPA.

9. "Ongoing financing costs" means financing costs that are not upfront financing costs. Ongoing financing costs include: (a) principal, interest and redemption premiums payable on restructuring bonds; (b) any payment required under an ancillary agreement and any amount required to replenish a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to restructuring bonds; (c) any federal, state or local taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, franchise fees or license fees imposed on transition charge revenues; and (d) any cost related to administering the restructuring bond issuer and servicing restructuring property or restructuring bonds, including, without limitation, costs of calculating adjustments of transition charges, servicing fees and expenses, administrative fees and expenses, trustee fees and expenses, and legal fees and expenses, accounting fees and expenses, and rating agency fees, approved for recovery in the restructuring cost financing order. Ongoing financing costs shall include any excess of actual upfront financing costs over the estimate of upfront financing costs included in the principal amount of the restructuring bonds.

10. "Restructuring bond issuer" means the corporate municipal instrumentality of the state created under section four of this act.

11. "Restructuring bonds" means bonds or other evidences of indebtedness that are issued pursuant to an indenture or other agreement of the restructuring bond issuer under a restructuring cost financing order (a) the proceeds of which are used, directly or indirectly, to recover, finance, or refinance approved restructuring costs, (b) that are directly or indirectly secured by, or payable from, restructuring property, and (c) that have a term no longer than thirty years.

12. "Restructuring cost financing order" means an order by the authority, adopted in accordance with this act, which approves the imposition and collection of transition charges, and the financing of approved restructuring costs and upfront financing costs through the sale of restructuring property and the issuance of restructuring bonds, and which includes a procedure to require periodic adjustments to transition charges to ensure the collection of transition charges sufficient to provide for the timely payment of scheduled debt service on the restructuring bonds and all other ongoing financing costs contemplated by the restructuring cost financing order.

13. "Restructuring property" means the property rights and interests created pursuant to this act, including, without limitation, the right, title, and interest: (a) in and to the transition charges established

pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order, as adjusted from time to time in accordance with the restructuring cost financing order; (b) in and to all revenues, collections, claims, payments, money, or proceeds of or arising from the transition charges or constituting transition charges that are the subject of a restructuring cost financing order, regardless of whether such revenues, collections, claims, payments, money, or proceeds are imposed, billed, received, collected or maintained together with or commingled with other revenues, collections, claims, payments, money or proceeds; and (c) in and to all rights to obtain adjustments to the transition charges pursuant to the terms of the restructuring cost financing order. Restructuring property shall constitute a vested, presently existing property right notwithstanding the fact that the value of the property right will depend on further acts that have not yet occurred, including but not limited to, consumers remaining or becoming connected to the T&D system assets and taking electric delivery service, the imposition and billing of transition charges, or, in those instances where consumers are customers of LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, such owner performing certain services.

14. "Service area" means the geographical area within which LIPA provided electric distribution services as of the implementation date of this act.

15. "Servicer" means an entity authorized and required, by contract or otherwise, to impose, bill and collect transition charges, to prepare periodic reports regarding billings and collections of transition charges, to remit collections to the appropriate financing entity, and to provide other services contemplated by the restructuring cost financing order, which may include calculation of periodic adjustments to the transition charges or providing other services related to the restructuring property. Without limitation, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, their agents or subcontractors, or any entity authorized to bill and collect T&D rates may be a servicer.

16. "Servicing fee" means, except to the extent otherwise specified in a restructuring cost financing order, the periodic amount paid pursuant to a servicing agreement, indenture or other such document to a servicer of restructuring property which amount shall approximate the estimated incremental cost of imposing, billing and collecting transition charges, preparing servicing reports and performing other customary servicing services required in connection with securitized bonds. A restructuring cost financing order may authorize a smaller fee payable to a successor servicer that is affiliated with a successor owner of the T&D system assets if the incremental cost of providing servicing services is less than LIPA's incremental costs. A restructuring cost financing order may authorize a larger fee payable to a successor servicer that is not affiliated with the owner of the T&D system assets or is not performing similar services with respect to the base rates of the owner of the T&D system assets if such larger fee is reasonably necessary to employ a reliable successor servicer.

17. "Successor regulator" means a regulatory department, commission or other instrumentality or subdivision of the state with jurisdiction to regulate the T&D rates of LIPA or its successor as owner of the T&D system assets.

18. "Third-party biller" means any person or entity authorized, required or entitled to bill or collect transition charges or T&D rates other than the authority, LIPA or a successor owner of the T&D system assets, or a servicer.

19. "T&D rates" means rates and charges for electric transmission and distribution services in the service area. "T&D rates" shall not include charges for the generation or resale of electricity or any charges imposed to fund public purpose programs.

20. "T&D system assets" means the physically integrated system of electric transmission and distribution facilities (and other general property and equipment used in connection therewith) owned by LIPA as of the effective date of this act or thereafter acquired for use by LIPA or its successors in providing retail electric utility service to consumers in the service area.

21. "Transition charges" means those rates and charges relating to the T&D system assets that are separate and apart from base rates of LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets and that are authorized in a restructuring cost financing order to recover from consumers the principal, interest and premium payable on restructuring bonds and the other ongoing financing costs associated with the restructuring bonds. As provided in paragraph (c) of subdivision 5 of section five of this act, transition charges shall be imposed on all consumers in the service area and collected by LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, their agents, subcontractors, assignees, collection agents or any other entity designated under the restructuring cost financing order.

22. "Upfront financing costs" means the fees and expenses to issue restructuring bonds, including, without limitation, expenses associated with the efforts to prepare or obtain approval of a restructuring cost financing order, as well as the fees and expenses associated with the structuring, marketing, and issuance of restructuring bonds, including, without limitation, counsel fees, structural advisory fees, underwriting fees and original issue discount, rating agency and trustee fees (including fees of trustee's counsel), accounting and auditing fees, printing and marketing expenses, stock exchange listing fees and compliance fees, filing fees, any applicable taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, the amount required to fund a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to the restructuring bonds, and fees and expenses of the authority's advisors and outside counsel, if any. Upfront financing costs include reimbursement to any person of amounts advanced for payment of such costs. Upfront financing costs do not include scheduled debt service or other ongoing financing costs, to the extent such ongoing financing costs are payable from transition charge revenues. If any upfront financing costs cannot be reasonably determined before the principal amount of restructuring bonds is fixed, such financing costs shall be estimated and the aggregate of such estimates shall be included as an upfront financing cost for purposes of determining the principal amount of restructuring bonds to be issued. If the actual upfront financing costs are greater than the estimated upfront financing costs, the difference shall be deemed to be an ongoing financing cost; if the actual upfront financing costs are less than the estimated upfront financing costs, the proceeds corresponding to such difference shall be used to pay ongoing financing costs.

§ 3. Procedure; judicial review. 1. Standard. The authority may prepare a restructuring cost financing order for the purpose of issuing restructuring bonds to refinance outstanding debt of the authority based on a finding that such bond issuance is expected to result in savings to consumers of electric transmission and distribution services in the service area on a net present value basis.

2. Public hearings. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, at any time after the effective date of this act, after making such finding, the authority shall schedule and hold one or more expedited public statement hearings on the proposed restructuring cost financing order. After the conclusion of such hearings and its review of any comments received, the authority shall finalize the restructuring cost financing order for submission to the board of trustees of the authority and to the public authorities control board ("PACB"). The PACB shall have the power and it shall be its duty to, upon receiving an application for approval of a restructuring cost financing order, within thirty days after receipt of such order, either approve, absent any conditions of approval, or disapprove such order based solely on the assumptions and conditions set forth in the restructuring cost financing order and whether such order complies with the standards set forth in this act. If the public authorities control board fails to approve or disapprove such restructuring cost financing order within such thirty day period, the PACB shall be deemed to have approved the restructuring cost financing order. If the board of trustees of the authority approves such restructuring cost financing order and the PACB approves or is deemed to have approved such restructuring cost financing order, the restructuring cost financing order shall become a final rate order by the authority.

3. Appeals. Because delay in the final determination of the petition will delay the issuance of restructuring bonds, thereby diminishing savings to consumers that might be achieved if the restructuring bonds were issued promptly after the issuance of the restructuring cost financing order, notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, any action, suit or proceeding to which the authority or the restructuring bond issuer may be a party, in which any question arises as to the validity of this act or any restructuring cost financing order, shall be preferred over all other civil causes in all courts of the state, except election matters, and shall be heard and determined in preference to all other civil business pending therein, except election matters, irrespective of position on the calendar. Such preference shall also be granted upon application of counsel to the authority in any action or proceeding questioning the validity of this act or any restructuring cost financing order in which such counsel may be allowed to intervene. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the validity of this act may only be challenged by an aggrieved party pursuant to an action, suit or proceeding filed within thirty days of the effective date of this act, and the validity of any restructuring cost financing order may only be challenged by an aggrieved party pursuant to an action, suit or proceeding filed within thirty days after such restructuring cost financing order becomes a final rate order by the authority; provided, however, that any such action, suit or proceeding and all supporting papers shall be filed directly to the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department.

4. Expiration of appeals. The authority shall provide written notification to the restructuring bond issuer upon the authority's determination that any and all actions, suits and proceedings challenging this act and the final restructuring cost financing order have been denied or dismissed or the timing associated with the filing of such actions, suits and proceedings has lapsed or expired, and any related appeals have been exhausted or the timing related to such appeals has lapsed or expired.

5. Agreement to sell restructuring bonds. Within the time specified in the restructuring cost financing order, after receiving notice from the authority that the time for petitions and appeals has lapsed or expired, the restructuring bond issuer shall enter into an agreement with one or more underwriters or purchasers satisfactory to the authority to sell the restructuring bonds in compliance with the restructuring cost financing order. No later than the third business day after the pricing of the restructuring bonds in accordance with such agreement, the initial servicer shall determine the initial transition charges and the expected savings to consumers in accordance with the restructuring cost financing order and shall file an issuance advice letter with the authority and the restructuring bond issuer setting forth the principal amount of restructuring bonds to be issued, the pricing, the net proceeds, the initial transition charges, the expected savings to consumers and any other information required by the restructuring cost financing order. No later than the end of the third business day after the filing of such issuance advice letter, the authority shall confirm in a notice to the restructuring bond issuer that such pricing complies with the restructuring cost financing order.

6. Issuance of restructuring bonds. Within ninety days after receiving notice of confirmation from the authority, the restructuring bond issuer shall issue the restructuring bonds, in one or more series or tranches and at one or more times, pursuant to the agreement to sell the restructuring bonds. The restructuring bond issuer shall purchase the restructuring property from the authority for a purchase price equal to the net proceeds from the sale of the restructuring bonds less any amounts of such proceeds required to fund or pay upfront financing costs.

7. Irrevocability. Upon the issuance of the restructuring bonds, the transition charges, including any adjustments thereof as provided in the restructuring cost financing order, shall be deemed established by the authority as irrevocable, final and effective without further action by the authority, or any other entity. The state, including the authority or any successor regulator, thereafter may not in any way take or permit any action to reduce, impair, postpone or terminate the transition charges approved in the restructuring cost financing order, as the same may be adjusted from time to time pursuant to subdivision 3 of section five of this act, or impair the restructuring property or the collection or recovery of transition charge revenues, including, but not limited to, either directly or indirectly by taking transition charges into account when setting other rates for any owner of the T&D system assets; nor shall the amount of revenues arising with respect to restructuring property be subject in any way to reduction, impairment, postponement, or termination.

8. Application of proceeds. The restructuring bond issuer shall cause the proceeds from its issuance of the restructuring bonds to be placed in one or more separate accounts and used only to pay or fund upfront financing costs and to purchase the restructuring property from the authority. The authority shall cause the proceeds from its sale of restructuring property to be placed in one or more separate accounts and used only to pay approved restructuring costs, and if funds remain in those accounts after the payment of all approved restructuring costs, to make a refund or credit to consumers on the same basis that transition charges are then being imposed, to the extent such a refund or credit is practical.

§ 4. Creation of restructuring bond issuer. 1. Creation of restructuring bond issuer. For the purpose of effectuating the purposes declared in section one of this act, there is hereby created a special purpose corporate municipal instrumentality of the state to be known as "utility debt securitization authority", which shall be a body corporate and politic, a political subdivision of the state, and a public benefit corporation, exercising essential governmental and public powers for the good of the public. The restructuring bond issuer shall not be created or organized, and its operations shall not be conducted, for the purpose of making a profit. No part of the revenues or assets of the restructuring bond issuer shall inure to the benefit of or be distributable to its trustees or officers or any other private persons, except as herein provided for actual services rendered.

2. Activities limited to issuing restructuring bonds and related activities.

(a) The restructuring bond issuer is hereby authorized to:

(i) issue the restructuring bonds contemplated by a restructuring cost financing order, and use the proceeds thereof to purchase or acquire, and to own, hold and use restructuring property or to pay or fund upfront financing costs provided, however, that the restructuring bond issuer shall only issue and sell restructuring bonds once;

(ii) contract for servicing of restructuring property and restructuring bonds and for administrative services; and

(iii) pledge the restructuring property to secure the restructuring bonds and the payment of ongoing financing costs, all pursuant to section seven of this act.

(b) So long as any restructuring bonds remain outstanding, the restructuring bond issuer shall not be authorized to merge or consolidate, directly or indirectly, with any person or entity. Additionally, the restructuring bond issuer shall not have the power or authority to incur, guarantee or otherwise become obligated to pay any debt or other obligations other than the restructuring bonds and financing costs unless otherwise permitted by the restructuring cost financing order. The restructuring bond issuer shall keep its assets and liabilities separate and distinct from those of any other entity.

(c) The restructuring bond issuer shall have no additional authority to engage in other business activities; provided, however, that in connection with the powers specified in paragraph (a) of subdivision 2 of this section, as a financing entity, the restructuring bond issuer shall have the power to:

(i) sue and be sued;

(ii) have a seal and alter the same at pleasure;

(iii) make and alter by-laws for its organization and internal management and make rules and regulations governing the use of its property;

(iv) make and execute contracts and all other instruments necessary or convenient for the exercise of its powers and functions under this act and to commence any action to protect or enforce any right conferred upon it by any law, contract or other agreement, including, without limitation, make and execute contracts with the authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, any servicers, any financing entity or any other public or private entities to service restructuring property owned by restructuring bond issuer, to service restructuring bonds issued by restructuring bond issuer, and to provide services in administering the restructuring bond issuer, and to pay compensation for such services;

(v) appoint officers, agents and employees, prescribe their duties and qualifications, fix their compensation and engage the services of

private consultants, accountants, counsel and others on a contract basis for rendering professional and technical assistance and advice;

(vi) pay its operating expenses, scheduled debt service on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs;

(vii) issue restructuring bonds and provide for the rights of the holders thereof;

(viii) procure insurance against any loss in connection with its activities, properties and assets in such amount and from such insurers as it deems desirable;

(ix) invest any funds or other moneys under its custody and control in investment securities or under any ancillary agreement;

(x) establish and maintain such reserves, special funds and accounts, to be held in trust or otherwise, as may be required by agreements made in connection with the restructuring bonds, or any agreement between itself and third parties;

(xi) as security for the payment of the principal of and interest on any restructuring bonds issued by it pursuant to this act, and any agreement made in connection therewith, pledge all or any part of its revenues or assets, including, without limitation, restructuring property, unspent proceeds of its restructuring bonds, transition charge revenues, and earnings from the investment and reinvestment of unspent proceeds of its restructuring bonds and transition charge revenues; and

(xii) do any and all things necessary or convenient to carry out its purposes and exercise the powers expressly given and granted in this section.

3. No authority to file for bankruptcy protection. The restructuring bond issuer shall not be authorized to be a debtor under chapter 9 of the United States Bankruptcy Code or any other provision of the United States Bankruptcy Code. No governmental officer or organization is empowered to authorize, whether by executive order or otherwise, restructuring bond issuer to be a debtor under chapter 9 of the United States Bankruptcy Code or any other provision of the United States Bankruptcy Code. Until at least one year and one day after all restructuring bonds issued by restructuring bond issuer have ceased to be outstanding and all unpaid financing costs have been paid, the state hereby pledges, contracts and agrees with owners of restructuring bonds issued by restructuring bond issuer that the state will not limit or alter the denial of authority to the restructuring bond issuer to be a debtor under chapter 9 of the United States Bankruptcy Code or any other provision of the United States Bankruptcy Code.

4. Governance. The restructuring bond issuer shall be governed by a board consisting of three trustees appointed by the governor. The trustees shall not be trustees, directors, officers, or employees of the authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets.

(a) One of the trustees first appointed shall serve for a term ending four years from January first next succeeding his appointment; one of such trustees shall serve for a term ending five years from such date; and one of such trustees shall serve for a term ending six years from such date. Their successors shall serve for terms of six years each. Trustees shall continue in office until their successors have been appointed and qualified and the provisions of section 39 of the public officers law shall apply. In the event of a vacancy occurring in the office of a trustee by death, removal, resignation or otherwise, the Governor shall appoint a successor to serve for the balance of the unexpired term.

(b) Trustees shall serve without salary or other compensation, but each trustee shall be entitled to reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of his or her official duties.

(c) A majority of the trustees shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business or the exercise of any power or function of restructuring bond issuer. Any one or more trustees may participate in a meeting of the board by means of a conference telephone or similar communications equipment allowing all persons participating in the meeting to hear each other at the same time. Participation by such means shall constitute presence in person at a meeting. The board may delegate to one or more of its trustees, or officers, agents and employees, such powers and duties as the board may deem proper.

(d) Such trustees may engage in private employment, or in a profession or business. Restructuring bond issuer, its trustees, officers and employees shall be subject to the provisions of sections 73 and 74 of the public officers law.

(e) Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of law to the contrary, general, special or local, no officer of the state or of any civil division thereof shall be deemed to have forfeited or shall forfeit his or her office or employment by reason of his or her acceptance of an appointment as trustee of restructuring bond issuer.

(f) The governor may remove any trustee for inefficiency, neglect of duty or misconduct in office after giving him or her a copy of the charges against him or her and an opportunity to be heard, in person or by counsel, in his or her defense, upon not less than ten days notice. If any trustee shall be so removed, the governor shall file in the office of the department of state a complete statement of the charges made against such trustee and his or her findings thereon, together with a complete record of the proceedings.

(g) Each trustee shall have a fiduciary duty to act in the best interests of the restructuring bond issuer, including its creditors, the owners of the restructuring bonds, and such other duties as may be specified in the organizational documents or other agreements of the restructuring bond issuer.

(h) The restructuring bond issuer and its corporate existence shall continue until one year and one day after all restructuring bonds and ongoing financing costs and other indebtedness of restructuring bond issuer have been actually paid and all its other liabilities and obligations have been paid, met or otherwise discharged. Upon termination of the existence of restructuring bond issuer, all of its rights and property shall pass to and be vested in the state.

§ 5. Restructuring cost financing orders. 1. Content of restructuring cost financing orders. The restructuring cost financing order shall include the following: (i) a description of the approved restructuring costs; (ii) the amount of approved restructuring costs that the authority proposes to pay through the sale of the restructuring property and the issuance of the restructuring bonds; (iii) designation of the authority as the entity in which initial ownership of restructuring property will vest; (iv) an estimate of the date on which restructuring bonds will be issued and the expected scheduled term to maturity of the restructuring bonds; (v) a description of the estimated debt service on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs that may be recovered through transition charges; as part of this description, the restructuring cost financing order may include qualitative or quantitative limitations on financing costs approved to be recovered provided

that no such limitation on financing costs shall impair the ability of the restructuring bond issuer to pay and service the restructuring bonds in accordance with their terms; (vi) a proposed methodology for allocating transition charges on an equal percentage basis among customer service classifications and among volumetric (kWh) and demand (kW) charges within those customer service classifications, along with an associated bill impact analysis of the proposed methodology; (vii) a description of the proposed adjustment mechanism to reconcile actual collections with forecasted collection on at least an annual basis and a finding that the adjustment mechanism is just and reasonable; (viii) a description of the benefits to consumers in the service area that are expected to result from the sale of the restructuring property and the issuance of restructuring bonds as opposed to traditional alternative financing mechanisms; (ix) specifying the entity that will contract to act as servicer with respect to the restructuring property and the restructuring bonds on terms and conditions mutually acceptable to such servicer and the restructuring bond issuer; (x) specifying the entity or entities that will contract to provide administrative or other services to the restructuring bond issuer; (xi) specifying when the restructuring property will be created and vest and addressing such other matters as may be necessary or desirable for the marketing or servicing of the restructuring bonds or the servicing of the restructuring property; (xii) authorizing the imposition, billing and collection of transition charges to pay debt service on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs; (xiii) a description of the restructuring property that will be created and that may be used to pay and secure the payment of the restructuring bonds approved to be issued in the restructuring cost financing order; (xiv) a requirement that the amounts in the debt service reserve accounts or other accounts funded with the proceeds of restructuring bonds or transition charges be fully used, to the extent practical, to make the final payments of principal and interest on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs or to make refunds to consumers on the same basis as such consumers would have then been obligated to pay transition costs; and (xv) the finding required by subdivision 1 of section 3 of this act.

2. Periodic reports. A restructuring cost financing order shall require the restructuring bond issuer or the servicer to file at least annually with the authority and the appropriate financing entity a periodic report showing the billing and collection of transition charges, the application of transition charge revenues to debt service on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs, and the balances in any debt service reserve accounts or other accounts required by the restructuring cost financing order.

3. Adjustment mechanism.

(a) Each restructuring cost financing order shall include a mathematical formula for making periodic adjustments to the transition charges. The mathematical formula shall apply the following principles:

(i) The transition charges will be adjusted at least annually to ensure that the collections of transition charges are adequate to pay principal and interest on the associated restructuring bonds when due pursuant to the expected amortization schedule, to fund all debt service reserve accounts to the required levels and to pay when due all other expected ongoing financing costs.

(ii) The adjustments of transition charges will take into account historical and reasonably foreseeable differences between amounts billed and amounts collected due to applicable taxes, consumer defaults and delays, billing lags, write-offs and other factors.

(iii) The adjustments of transition charges will take into account historical and reasonably foreseeable variations in billings due to variations in electricity consumption associated with the seasons, storms and other weather conditions, outages, gain or loss of consumers, efficiencies, electric vehicles, economic conditions or other factors.

(iv) The adjustments of transition charges will take into account any over-collection or under-collection of transition charges so that, to the extent practical, the outstanding balance of restructuring bonds is equal to the scheduled balance on the expected amortization schedule, the amounts in the debt service reserve accounts are equal to the required reserve level, and all ongoing financing costs are paid when due.

(v) The adjustments of transition charges will be applied ratably to the transition charges for each customer service classification.

(b) Once restructuring bonds have been issued, the adjustment mechanism specified in the restructuring cost financing order shall be applied to correct for any over-collection or under-collection of transition charges and to provide for timely payment of scheduled principal of and interest on the restructuring bonds and the payment and recovery of other ongoing financing costs in accordance with the restructuring cost financing order. Application of the adjustment mechanism shall occur at least annually or more frequently as provided in the restructuring cost financing order. A notice of such periodic adjustment of transition charges shall be filed with the authority by or on behalf of the owner of restructuring property and a copy shall be provided to the owner of the T&D system assets at least sixty days before the adjustment is to take effect, provided that the restructuring bond issuer may request an earlier effective date.

(c) Each adjustment to the transition charge, in amounts as calculated by or on behalf of the owner of restructuring property, shall automatically become effective sixty days following the date on which the notice of periodic adjustment is filed with the authority unless the authority approves an earlier effective date requested by the restructuring bond issuer.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the authority shall allow interested parties thirty days from the date of filing of the notice for adjustment within which to make comments. Such comments shall be limited to the mathematical accuracy of the calculations of the amount of the adjustments. If the authority determines that the calculation of the transition charge adjustment in the notice was mathematically inaccurate, the transition charge adjustment shall be changed as soon as it is reasonably practical to do so, but estimated overcollections or undercollections resulting from the mathematical error shall be taken into account in the next succeeding periodic adjustment.

(e) No adjustment pursuant to this section shall in any way affect the irrevocability of the restructuring cost financing order as specified in subdivision 4 of section five of this act. No adjustment pursuant to this section shall require any approvals or action under any other law or shall be deemed to be the establishment of a new charge, fee or rate under any law.

4. Irrevocability of restructuring cost financing orders.

(a) A restructuring cost financing order shall be an irrevocable final

rate order when the time for any actions, suits, proceedings and appeals challenging such final restructuring cost financing order has lapsed or expired as provided in subdivision 3 of section three of this act.

(b) A restructuring cost financing order may be amended on or after the date of issuance of restructuring bonds approved thereunder only: (i) at the request of the authority; (ii) in accordance with any restrictions and limitations on amendment set forth in the restructuring cost financing order; (iii) subject to the limitations set forth in subdivision 7 of section three of this act; and (iv) upon approval by the PACB within thirty days of receipt of such amendment; provided, however, that if no approval or disapproval is made within such time, the amendment shall be deemed approved.

(c) This act, and any restructuring cost financing order made pursuant to this act, shall not be interpreted to alter or limit the rights vested in the authority to establish sufficient T&D rates to pay and perform all of its obligations and contracts with the authority's bondholders and others when due.

5. Effect of restructuring cost financing order.

(a) A restructuring cost financing order shall remain in effect and unabated until the restructuring bonds issued pursuant to the restructuring cost financing order have been paid in full and all ongoing financing and all amounts to be paid to an assignee or financing party under an ancillary agreement are paid or performed in full.

(b) A restructuring cost financing order shall remain in effect and unabated notwithstanding the bankruptcy, reorganization or insolvency of the authority, the restructuring bond issuer, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, or any affiliate of the aforementioned, or the commencement of any judicial or nonjudicial proceeding therefor.

(c) For so long as restructuring bonds issued pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order are outstanding, and the related approved restructuring costs have not been paid in full, the transition charges authorized in the restructuring cost financing order shall be non-bypassable and shall apply to all consumers connected to the T&D system assets and taking electric delivery service located within the service area, whether or not the consumers produce their own electricity or purchase electric generation services from a provider of electric generation services other than the owner of the T&D system assets and whether or not the T&D system assets continue to be owned by LIPA.

§ 6. Restructuring bonds. 1. No recourse. Restructuring bonds shall be without recourse to the credit or any assets of the authority, LIPA and the restructuring bond issuer, other than the restructuring property and other assets and revenues of restructuring bond issuer as specified in the pertinent restructuring cost financing order.

2. Exemption from taxation.

(a) It is hereby found and declared that the activities of the restructuring bond issuer are primarily for the benefit of the people of the state of New York, for the improvement of their welfare and prosperity, and is a public purpose, and the restructuring bond issuer shall be regarded as performing an essential governmental function in carrying out the provisions of this act.

(b) The restructuring bond issuer shall not be required to pay taxes or assessments upon any of the property acquired or controlled by it or upon its activities in the use thereof or upon income derived therefrom.

(c) Restructuring bonds, their transfer and the income therefrom shall, at all times, be free from taxation by the state or any municipality, except for estate and gift taxes.

3. Restructuring bonds not debt of the state. Restructuring bonds issued pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order and the provisions of this act shall not constitute a debt, general obligation or a pledge of the faith and credit or taxing power of the state or of any county, municipality or any other political subdivision, agency or instrumentality of the state. Holders of restructuring bonds shall not be taxed by the legislature or the taxing authority of any county, municipality or any other political subdivision, agency or instrumentality of this state for the payment of the principal thereof or interest thereon. The issuance of restructuring bonds does not obligate the state or any county, municipality or any other political subdivision, agency or instrumentality of the state to levy any tax or make any appropriation for payment of the principal of or interest on the restructuring bonds. All restructuring bonds must contain a statement to the following effect: "Neither the full faith and credit nor the taxing power of the state of New York is pledged to the payment of the principal of, or interest on, this bond."

4. Restructuring bonds as legal investments. Any restructuring bonds issued by the restructuring bond issuer are hereby made securities in which all public officers and bodies of this state and all municipalities, all insurance companies and associations and other persons carrying on an insurance business, all banks, bankers, trust companies, savings banks and savings associations, including savings and loan associations, building and loan associations, investment companies and other persons carrying on a banking business, all trusts, estates and guardianships and all other persons whatsoever, who are now or may hereafter be authorized to invest in bonds or other obligations of this state, may properly and legally invest funds, including capital in their control or belonging to them. The restructuring bonds are also hereby made securities which may be deposited with and shall be received by all public officers and bodies of the state and all municipalities for any purpose for which the deposit of bonds or other obligations of the state is now or may hereafter be authorized.

§ 7. Restructuring property. 1. (a) Restructuring property that is created pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order shall constitute an existing, present property right, notwithstanding the fact that the imposition and collection of transition charges will depend on further acts that have not yet occurred, including but not limited to: (i) LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets delivering electric energy or related services, (ii) a servicer performing servicing functions relating to the collection of transition charges, or (iii) the level of future consumption of electric energy. Restructuring property shall exist whether or not transition charges have been imposed, billed, accrued or collected and notwithstanding the fact that the value or amount of the restructuring property is dependent on the future provision of service to customers by LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets.

(b) All restructuring property created pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order shall continue to exist until the restructuring bonds issued pursuant to such restructuring cost financing order are paid in full and all ongoing financing costs relating to the restructuring bonds have been paid in full.

(c) The restructuring property may be transferred, sold, conveyed or assigned to the restructuring bond issuer. All or any portion of restructuring property may be pledged to secure the payment of restructuring bonds, amounts payable to financing parties, amounts payable to holders of restructuring bonds, amounts payable under any ancillary agreement and other ongoing financing costs. So long as the restructuring property remains pledged to secure the restructuring bonds, revenues from the collection of transition charges shall be applied solely to the repayment of restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs. After the occurrence of an event of default with respect to the restructuring bonds, all or any portion of restructuring property may be transferred, sold, conveyed or assigned to any person or entity. Any transfer, sale, conveyance, assignment, grant of a security interest in or pledge of restructuring property by the authority, the restructuring bond issuer, or other financing entity, to the extent previously approved in a restructuring cost financing order, does not require the prior consent and approval of any other person or entity under the public service law or any other law.

(d) If the owner of the T&D system assets, servicer, third-party biller, or any other person or entity authorized to collect transition charges, defaults on any required remittance of transition charge revenues, any court in the state, upon application by an interested party and without limiting any other remedies available to the applying party, shall order the sequestration and payment of the transition charge revenues for the benefit of the owners or pledgees of restructuring property. The order shall remain in full force and effect notwithstanding any bankruptcy, reorganization, or other insolvency proceedings with respect to a servicer, authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets or any affiliate thereof or of any other person or entity.

(e) Restructuring property, transition charges, transition charge revenues, and the interests of an assignee, bondholder, financing party or any other person in restructuring property or in transition charge revenues, are not subject to setoff, counterclaim, surcharge or defense by a servicer, any consumer, the authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets or any other person or in connection with any default, bankruptcy, reorganization or other insolvency proceeding of the authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, any affiliate thereof or any other entity or otherwise. To the extent that any consumer makes a partial payment of a bill containing both transition charges and any other charges, such payment shall be allocated pro rata between the transition charges and the other charges unless the consumer specifies that a greater proportion of such payment is to be allocated to the transition charges, except that the other charges shall be reduced by the amount of any claims of setoff, counterclaim, surcharge or defense for purposes of such allocation.

(f) Any successor owner of the T&D system assets and any successor servicer shall be bound by the requirements of this act and shall perform and satisfy all obligations of a servicer in the same manner and to the same extent under a restructuring cost financing order as did LIPA and the initial servicer, including, without limitation, the obligation to impose, bill and collect the transition charges and to pay such collections to the person entitled to receive the transition charge revenues.

2. Security interests. Any pledge of restructuring property or proceeds thereof, including any moneys, revenues or property or of a revenue producing contract or contracts constituting part of the restructuring property, made by the owner of restructuring property,

shall be perfected, valid and binding from the time when the pledge is made. The proceeds, moneys, revenues or proceeds so pledged and thereafter received by the owner of restructuring property shall immediately be subject to the lien of such pledge, and such lien shall be perfected, without any physical delivery thereof or further act. The lien of any such pledge shall be perfected, valid and binding as against all parties having claims of any kind in tort, contract or otherwise against the owner of restructuring property irrespective of whether such parties have notice thereof and shall be superior to any judicial liens or other liens obtained by such claimants or transferees. The description of the restructuring property in a pledge or security agreement and any financing statement is sufficient if and only if the description refers to this Act and the restructuring cost financing order creating such restructuring property. No instrument by which a pledge or lien is created pursuant to this subdivision need be recorded in order to perfect such pledge or lien. However, the restructuring bond issuer shall cause a financing statement describing the pledge and referring to the restructuring cost financing order and the restructuring property described therein to be filed for informational purposes only under article 9 of the uniform commercial code. The secretary of state shall maintain any financing statement filed under this section in the same manner that the secretary maintains financing statements filed by transmitting utilities under section 9-501 of the uniform commercial code until a termination statement is filed. A pledge of restructuring property is a continuously perfected security interest and has priority over any other lien, created by operation of law or otherwise, that may subsequently attach to that restructuring property or proceeds thereof unless the holder of any such lien has agreed in writing otherwise. Any pledgee of restructuring property shall have a perfected security interest in the amount of all restructuring property revenues or other proceeds that are deposited in any deposit account or other account of the servicer or other entity in which restructuring property revenues or other proceeds have been commingled with other funds. Any other security interest that may apply to restructuring revenues or other proceeds shall be terminated when such revenues or proceeds are transferred to a segregated account for an assignee or a financing party. No application of the adjustment mechanism as described in this act shall affect the validity, perfection, or priority of a pledge of, security interest in or the sale or transfer of restructuring property.

3. Sales of restructuring property.

(a) A transfer of all or any portion of restructuring property, which the parties in the governing documentation have expressly stated to be a sale or other absolute transfer, in a transaction approved in a restructuring cost financing order, shall be treated as an absolute transfer of all of the transferor's right, title, and interest (as in a true sale), and not as a pledge or other financing, of the restructuring property, other than for federal, state and local income and franchise tax purposes.

(b) Any transfer of an interest in restructuring property shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding from the time when the transfer is made. Such transfer shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor, all parties having claims of any kind in tort, contract or otherwise against the transferor, and all other transferees of the transferor, irrespective of whether such parties have notice thereof and shall be superior to any judicial liens or other liens obtained by such claimants or transferees. The description of the restructuring property in a sale or transfer agreement and any financing statement is sufficient if and only if the description refers to this act and the restructuring cost financing order creating such restructuring property. No instrument by which a transfer is created pursuant to this section need be recorded in order to perfect such transfer. However, the restructuring bond issuer shall cause a financing statement describing the pledge and referring to the restructuring cost financing order and the restructuring property described therein to be filed for informational purposes only under article nine of the uniform commercial code. The secretary of state shall maintain any financing statement filed under this section in the same manner that such secretary maintains financing statements filed by transmitting utilities under section 9-501 of the uniform commercial code until a termination statement is filed.

(c) The characterization of the sale, assignment or transfer as an absolute transfer and true sale and the corresponding characterization of the property interest of the purchaser, shall not adversely be affected or impaired by, among other things, the occurrence of any of the following factors: (i) commingling of revenues or other proceeds from transition charges with other amounts; (ii) the retention by the seller of: (A) a partial or residual interest, including an equity interest, in the restructuring property, whether direct or indirect, or whether subordinate or otherwise; or (B) the right to recover costs associated with taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, franchise fees or license fees imposed on the collection of transition charges; (iii) any recourse that the purchaser may have against the seller; (iv) any indemnification rights, obligations or repurchase rights made or provided by the seller; (v) the obligation of the seller to collect transition charges on behalf of an assignee, including but not limited to, any retention by the seller to bare legal title for the purpose of collecting transition charges; (vi) the treatment of the sale, assignment or transfer for tax, financial reporting or other purposes; (vii) any subsequent order of the authority amending a restructuring cost financing order pursuant to paragraph (b) of subdivision 4 of section five of this act; or (viii) any application of the adjustment mechanism as provided in subdivision 3 of section five of this act.

(d) An assignee or financing party shall not be considered to be a public utility or person providing electric service solely by virtue of the transactions described in this act.

§ 8. Rights and duties while restructuring bonds are outstanding. 1. Responsibilities of the authority. (a) For the purpose of investigating compliance with the provisions of this act and the applicable restructuring cost financing order, the authority shall have the right, jurisdiction, power and authority to examine the books and records of LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, the restructuring bond issuer, any other financing entity, any servicer, any third-party biller and any other person or entity that owns restructuring property or has the right to impose, bill or collect transition charges until the restructuring bonds issued pursuant to the restructuring cost financing order have been paid in full and all financing costs relating to such restructuring bonds have been paid in full.

(b) Neither the authority nor any successor regulator may, in exercising its powers and carrying out its duties regarding regulation and ratemaking, consider restructuring bonds issued pursuant to the restructuring cost financing order to be the debt of any owner of the T&D

system assets, consider transition charges paid under the restructuring cost financing order to be revenue of any owner of the T&D system assets, or consider the approved restructuring costs or ongoing financing costs specified in the restructuring cost financing order to be costs of any owner of the T&D system assets or any affiliate, nor may the authority or any successor regulator determine that any action taken by any owner of the T&D system assets that is consistent with the restructuring cost financing order is unjust or unreasonable from a regulatory or ratemaking perspective; provided that, subject to the limitations set forth in subdivision 4 of section five of this act and the state pledge in section nine of this act, nothing in this subdivision shall (i) affect the authority to apply the adjustment mechanism as provided in subdivision 3 of section five of this act; (ii) prevent or preclude the authority from investigating the compliance of any owner of the T&D system assets and of any financing entity with the terms and conditions of a restructuring cost financing order and requiring compliance therewith; or (iii) prevent or preclude the authority or any successor regulator from imposing regulatory sanctions against any owner of the T&D system assets for failure to comply with the terms and conditions of a restructuring cost financing order or the requirements of this act. When setting other rates for any owner of the T&D system assets, nothing in this act shall prevent the authority or any successor regulator from taking into account the collection by such owner of servicing fees in excess of incremental costs of providing servicing services, or the collection by such owner of administration fees in excess of incremental costs of providing administration services; provided that this would not result in a recharacterization of the tax, accounting, and other intended characteristics of the financing, including, but not limited to, either of the following: (i) treating restructuring bonds as debt for federal income tax purposes; or (ii) treating any transfer of the restructuring property to the restructuring bond issuer or to any other financing entity as a true sale for bankruptcy purposes.

2. Duties of financing entities and any owner of T&D system assets.

(a) Any failure of any financing entity to apply the proceeds of restructuring bonds, or proceeds from the sale of restructuring property, in a reasonable, prudent and appropriate manner or otherwise comply with any provision of this act shall not invalidate, impair or affect any restructuring cost financing order, restructuring property, transition charge, or restructuring bonds.

(b) Any owner of T&D system assets, any servicer, any third-party biller and any other entity that bills or collects T&D rates shall simultaneously impose, bill and collect any transition charges applicable to consumers in the service area, including all consumers connected to the T&D system assets and taking electric delivery service located within the service area, shall allocate partial payments by consumers as provided in this act, shall terminate service to non-paying consumers on the same basis as termination of service is permitted for non-payment of T&D rates, shall exercise all enforcement rights of the owner or pledgee of the restructuring property for the benefit of such owner or pledgee, and shall remit any transition charge revenue to the owner or pledgee of the restructuring property.

§ 9. State pledge. (a) The state pledges to and agrees with the holders of restructuring bonds, any assignee and all financing entities that the state will not in any way take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of restructuring property or, except as required by the adjustment mechanism described in the restructuring cost financing order, reduce, alter or impair transition charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the owners of restructuring bonds, any assignee, and all financing entities, until any principal, interest and redemption premium in respect of restructuring bonds, all ongoing financing costs and all amounts to be paid to an assignee or financing party under an ancillary agreement are paid or performed in full.

(b) Any person who issues restructuring bonds is permitted to include the pledge specified in subdivision (a) of this section in the restructuring bonds, ancillary agreements and documentation related to the issuance and marketing of the restructuring bonds.

§ 10. Choice of law. The law governing, as applicable, the validity, enforceability, attachment, perfection, priority and exercise of remedies with respect to the transfer of an interest or right or creation of a security interest in any restructuring property, transition charge or restructuring cost financing order, shall be the laws of the state of New York.

§ 11. Conflicts. In the event of conflict between this act and any other law regarding the attachment, assignment or perfection, or the effect of perfection, or priority of any pledge of, security interest in or transfer of restructuring property, this act shall govern to the extent of the conflict. In the event of conflict between this act and the public service law, the Long Island power authority act or any other law, this act shall govern to the extent of the conflict. Notwithstanding any provisions of law to the contrary, no approvals, notices or authorizations other than those specified in this act shall be required with respect to any restructuring cost financing order, and the transactions and contracts authorized in or contemplated by this act or any restructuring cost financing order, including but not limited to the incurrence and payment of any financing costs, the incurrence or payment of any approved restructuring costs, the issuance of restructuring bonds, the sale or other transfer of restructuring property, and any contracts and expenses incurred to facilitate the preparation of any restructuring cost financing order.

§ 12. Effect of invalidity on actions. Effective on the date that restructuring bonds are first issued under this act, if any provision of this act is held to be invalid or is invalidated, superseded, replaced, repealed or expires for any reason, that occurrence shall not affect any action allowed under this act that is taken by the authority, LIPA, the restructuring bond issuer, any owner of T&D system assets, an assignee, a collection agent, a financing party, a holder of restructuring bonds or a party to an ancillary agreement and any such action shall remain in full force and effect.

§ 13. Effectiveness of the act. The authority may not adopt its first restructuring cost financing order after the five year period after the effective date of this act.

§ 14. Severability. If any section, subdivision, paragraph or subparagraph of this act or the application thereof to any person, circumstance or transaction is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or invalid, the unconstitutionality or invalidity shall not affect the constitutionality or validity of any other section, subdivision, paragraph or subparagraph of this act or its application or validity to any person, circumstance or transaction, including, without limitation, the irrevocability of a restructuring cost financing order ing bonds, the imposition of transition charges, the transfer or assignment of restructuring property or the collection and recovery of revenues from transition charges. To these ends, the legislature hereby declares that the provisions of this act are intended to be severable and that the legislature would have enacted this act even if any section, subdivision, paragraph or subparagraph of this act held to be unconstitutional or invalid had not been included in this act.

§ 15. Standing. (a) The owner of restructuring property, or the trustee representing holders of restructuring bonds, shall be expressly permitted hereby to bring actions against any owner of the T&D system assets, any third-party biller, or any other entity authorized to bill or collect T&D rates, any consumers in the service area or any other person or entity for failure to impose, bill, pay or collect any transition charges constituting part of the restructuring property then held pledged as security for such restructuring bonds or for enforcement of any other provision of this act or the applicable restructuring cost financing order.

(b) Except as provided in section three of this act, any court and the authority shall have jurisdiction over any actions for failure to impose, bill, pay or collect any transition charges or for enforcement of other provision of this act or any restructuring cost financing order.

§ 16. Third-party billing. If and to the extent that third parties are allowed to bill and/or collect any transition charges, the authority, any successor regulator, and any owner of the T&D system assets will take steps to ensure non-bypassability and minimize the likelihood of default by third-party billers, which generally would include (i) operational standards and minimum credit requirements for any such third-party biller, or require a cash deposit, letter of credit or other credit mitigant in lieu thereof, to minimize the likelihood that defaults by a third-party biller would result in an increase in transition charges thereafter billed to consumers, (ii) a finding that, regardless of who is responsible for billing, consumers shall continue to be responsible for transition charges, (iii) if a third party meters and bills for the transition charges, that the owner of the T&D system assets and any servicer must have access to information on billing and usage by consumers to provide for proper reporting to the restructuring bond issuer and to perform its obligations as servicer, (iv) in the case of a default by a third-party biller, billing responsibilities must be promptly transferred to another party to minimize potential losses, and (v) the failure of consumers to pay transition charges shall allow service termination by the owner of the T&D system assets on behalf of the restructuring bond issuer of the consumers failing to pay transition charges in accordance with service termination rules and orders applicable to T&D rates. Any costs associated with such third-party billing and/or collection shall be included as part of the recoverable ongoing financing costs or other rates or charges, as appropriate. Further, the authority and any successor regulator shall not permit implementation of any third-party billing or collection that would result in a reduction or withdrawal of the then current ratings on any tranche or series of the restructuring bonds by any nationally recognized statistical rating organization designated by the restructuring bond issuer.

§ 2. Severability clause. If any clause, sentence, paragraph, subdivision, section or part of this act shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not take affect, impair, or invalidate the remainder thereof, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph, subdivision, section or part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment shall have been rendered. It is hereby declared to be the intent of the legislature that this act would have been enacted even if such invalid provisions had not been included herein.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately; provided, however, that the applicable effective date of Parts A through B of this act shall be as specifically set forth in the last section of such Parts.

Overview of Long Island Power Authority

Long Island Power Authority (LIPA) is a not-for-profit public utility and the owner of transmission and distribution networks in Long Island, New York. It is established by statute and the state governor has power to appoint board members. LIPA has entered into a management contracts with the Public Service Enterprise Group (PSEG), a publicly traded utility company in New Jersey, and PSEG's subsidiary now manages the billing and day-to-day operations of the distribution network.

Summary of LIPA Reform Act

Section 1(8) of Part B of the Long Island Power Authority Reform Act, 2013 (the LIPA Reform Act) provides the legislative purpose of the act, which is "to refinance outstanding debt of LIPA, a significant portion of which relates to the cost of constructing and financing the now abandoned Shoreham nuclear power plant". The Act authorizes the creation of a restructuring bond issuer for the limited purpose of "issuing securitized restructuring bonds to purchase restructuring property to finance the cost of purchasing, redeeming or defeasing a portion of the outstanding debt". This section also makes it clear that it is the intention of the legislature to provide a statutory pledge (found in s. 9 of the LIPA Reform Act) that until the restructuring bonds are paid in full, "the state will not in any way take or permit any action to revoke, modify, impair, postpone, terminate or amend this act in any manner that is materially adverse to the owners of the restructuring bonds".

The definitions in section 2 of the LIPA Reform Act provide some clarity to the mechanisms for the securitization regime. Restructuring bonds are issued by the "restructuring bond issuer" (which is established under section 4 of the LIPA Reform Act and known as the "Utility Debt Securitization Authority", or UDSA) and secured by the "restructuring property", which is essentially the property interest in a future revenue stream. In section 2(13), "restructuring property" is defined to include the property rights and interests in the "transition charges". As defined in s. 2(21), transition charges are established and may be amended from time to time in accordance with a restructuring cost financing order, and they are a component of the delivery line on the utility bills.

Section 3 provides the procedures for issuing restructuring bonds by the restructuring bond issuer, and includes appeal procedures and public hearing provisions. Section 4 provides the authority to establish the UDSA as a public corporation, the scope of its activities and its governance structure. It should be noted that section 4(2)(a)(i) provides that "the restructuring bond issuer shall only issue and sell restructuring bonds once" (please also see summary of 2015 amendments below). The UDSA also issues the restructuring cost financing orders in accordance with section 5.

Section 6 sets out the features of the restructuring bonds. Section 6(1) limits bond purchaser's remedies to the restructuring property, i.e. the property interest in a future revenue stream. The restructuring bonds are tax-exempt (section 6(2)), and are not debt of the state (section 6(3)).

Section 7 governs the restructuring property and creates a property interest and security interest in the future revenue stream arising from "transition charges". Section 7(1)(c) provides that "[t]he restructuring property may be transferred, sold, conveyed or assigned to the restructuring bond issuer. All or any portion of restructuring property may be pledged to secure the payment of restructuring bonds", and "revenues from the collection of transition charges shall be applied solely to the repayment of restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs."

Section 8(2) provides that any owner of the transmission and distribution network or any other entity that collects the delivery charges on behalf of the owner shall impose the transition charges on the consumers, and shall remit such revenues to the owner or pledgee of the restructuring property.

Section 9 provides the pledge from the state not to take actions to impair the value of the restructuring property. Sections 10 to 17 include procedural provisions such as conflicts, third-party billing and standing.

Summary of 2015 Amendments to LIPA Reform Act

The LIPA Reform Act was further amended in 2015 to permit the issuance of additional restructuring bonds by UDSA or a separate "Utility Debt Securitization Authority No. 2" up to an aggregate maximum amount (including the previously-issued Restructuring Bonds) of $4.5 billion. Any additional issuance of restructuring bonds, whether issued by UDSA or by a new issuer, will be separately secured by distinct collateral pursuant to a new financing order and transaction documents.

Background Information on Duke Energy and Duke Energy Florida

Duke Energy is a publicly-traded utility company with electricity generation and transmission networks in the Carolinas, Florida, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana. Duke Energy Florida ("DEF") is a subsidiary of Duke Energy and distributes power over much of central and north Florida. The Florida Public Service Commission (the "Commission") regulates DEF and other electric utilities in Florida (including municipal or investor-owned electric utility, and rural electric cooperative which owns, maintains, or operates an electric generation, transmission, or distribution system).

Summary of Legislative Provisions on Asset Securitization

In 2015, section 366.95 of the Florida Statutes is created to enable "financing for certain nuclear generating asset retirement or abandonment costs". This section includes asset securitization provisions to allow investor-owned electric utilities to set up a special-purpose vehicle ("SPV") to issue secured bonds to finance the utility's costs ("nuclear asset-recovery costs") associated with the "early retirement or abandonment of a nuclear generating asset unit". These provisions were likely introduced in response to the closing of Duke Energy's Crystal River nuclear plant in 2013. According to DEF, "[t]his process, called Asset Securitization, will save customers approximately $600 million as compared to traditional cost recovery methods."[1]

Subsection (1) sets out the definitions of some key terms used in the section. The definition of "Assignee" provides examples of different legal structures to set up the SPV, including corporation, limited liability company, trust, partnership or public authority. The definition of "utility" limits the scope of this section to "investor-owned electric utilities" by referring to the same definition in another section of the statute book. "Nuclear asset-recovery bonds" are issued by the utility or assignee, and secured by the "nuclear asset-recovery property", which is the property interest in the revenue stream arising from "nuclear asset-recovery charges".

Subsection (2) requires the utility to submit a petition to the Commission for a financing order before the nuclear asset-recovery bonds can be issued. The petition needs to demonstrate that securitization would result in cost savings or would avoid or mitigate rate impacts compared to the traditional method of cost recovery. Subsection (2) further requires the Commission to address specific areas in its financing order, including: (i) the amount of nuclear asset-recovery costs to be financed by the bonds and the period during which the charges can be imposed on customers; (ii) detailed fact findings on cost-effectiveness and rate impacts; (iii) a requirement that charges be nonbypassable and paid by all existing and future customers receiving transmission or distribution services; and (iv) mechanisms for periodic adjustment in the nuclear asset-recovery charges.

Subsection (3) provides that the bonds are considered debt for the utility only for federal income tax purposes, and limits the Commission's power to impose certain requirements in the financing order.

Subsection (4) sets out specific requirements for utility bills, such as showing the nuclear asset-recovery charge as a separate line item on the utility bill.

Subsection (5) creates a property right in the nuclear asset-recovery charges, which exists even if the charges have not been billed and may be pledged to secure the nuclear asset-recovery bonds. The utility may create a wholly owned subsidiary (the SPV) for the limited purpose of "acquiring, owning, or administering nuclear asset-recovery property or issuing nuclear asset-recovery bonds under the financing order", which also protects the nuclear asset-recovery property from potential creditor claims. This subsection also provides priority rules for competing security interests in the nuclear asset-recovery property. Subsections (6) to (8) provides further guidance in connection with the transfer of nuclear asset-recovery property to an SPV.

Subsection (9) provides that the nuclear asset-recovery bonds are not debt of the state of Florida. An issue of such bonds does not obligate the state to levy any tax for its payment, although the state may provide bond guarantees or enhancements. Subsection (10) provides statutory authority for certain entities to invest in nuclear asset-recovery bonds. Subsection (11) provides a pledge from the state not to take actions to impair the value of the nuclear asset-recovery property. Subsections (12) to (15) include boilerplate provisions such as conflicts, severability and penalties for incompliance.

Duke Energy Florida's Financing Order and Bond Issuance

In November 2015, the Commission released Financing Order PSC-15-0537-FOF-EI to approve DEF's petition for the issuance of nuclear asset-recovery bonds in the amount of $1,283,012,000 plus financing costs. Under the financing order, DEF is authorized to impose a nuclear asset-recovery charge to repay the nuclear asset-recovery bonds and associated financing costs, which will be collected on a per-kWh basis from all applicable customer rate classes. The financing order authorizes DEF to impose the charge for a period not exceeding 276 months (23 years) from the issuance of the nuclear asset-recovery bond.

DEF created Duke Energy Florida Project Finance LLC for the issuance of of nuclear asset-recovery bonds in June 2016.

1. Scope

This methodology describes our global approach to rating securities backed by utility cost recovery charges ("UCRC" bonds) that are established by special legislation and financing orders issued by utility regulatory bodies. The charges backing UCRC bonds rated by us have been established by state legislation and state utility regulatory bodies in the United States. For UCRC bonds backed by charges authorized by other jurisdictions, we will analyze the specifics of the securitization's legal framework and regulations – and their implications for the quality of the protections afforded to investors – within the general methodology described in this report.

Examples of cost recovery charges include those imposed to cover certain costs of utility companies that had been incurred in a regulated environment but could no longer be recovered because of a change to a more competitive regulatory regime (i.e., charges sometimes referred to as "stranded utility charges") and those imposed to pay for environmental cleanups, clean energy or for the replenishment of reserves established for repair of facilities damaged by natural calamities, such as hurricanes or tornados.

2. Executive Summary

A utility cost recovery charge bond is a bond typically issued by a special purpose entity of a utility, or by a special borrowing conduit, to recover specified costs as authorized by special legislation and a specific financing order issued by a public service utility regulatory body. The bonds are backed by a property right created by the legislation, which provides the right to impose and collect special charges on customers' monthly electric bills.

This credit rating methodology was republished on June 22, 2015 containing an updated monitoring section and minor other editorial updates in the body of the text and in certain footnotes. The content of this Credit Rating Methodology has not been changed.

The credit quality of the bonds depends on the legal strength of the property right, which in turn depends on the specifics of the related legislation and financing order, and on the size and economic strength and stability of the ratepayer base against which the costs will be imposed. Therefore, our credit analysis of cost recovery charge securitizations focuses on both legal and economic factors that can influence whether investors in UCRC bonds will be paid as promised.

On the legal side, we assess the extent to which the legislation that authorizes the cost recovery charges[1] provides clear procedures for insulating the transaction from claims by other parties and is likely to be able to withstand challenges to rescind or alter the legislation prior to the legal final maturity of the securities. Consequently, our analysis focuses on the extent to which the legislation clearly defines (1) a property that entitles the owner of such property – the utility, or, in some cases, a public trust or corporation – the right to charge the fee throughout the life of the security in an amount sufficient to make full and timely repayment of principal and interest on the security, (2) the process the owner of the property must follow to charge the fee, (3) the irrevocable right of the owner of the property to transfer the fee to a special purpose financing vehicle for securitization purposes, (4) the type of financing vehicle authorized to issue securities backed by the fees, and (5) the process to be followed such that the transfer would be viewed as a "true sale" of the rights to the cash flows rather than a pledge of collateral for a financing for transactions that involve the transfer of the property from the utility to the issuer. A true sale would insulate the securitization from a bankruptcy of the utility, protecting securitization investors from potential claims on the cash flows by the utility's creditors. In addition, we assess whether the legislation has a government pledge not to impair the utility's right to collect the charges and the consequences if the government nevertheless does attempt to impair the right.

We also examine the likelihood that other potential claimants, such as other creditors of the financing vehicle if it were to become bankrupt or investors in other securities that have been issued by the utility, might make a successful claim on the cash flows of the securitization. Furthermore, we consider the breadth of the market to whom the charge will be applied and the extent to which the charge might be "bypassable," that is, the extent to which current or future customers might be categorized as outside the scope of the applicability of the charge.

Our assessment of the overall legal strength of the property right involves qualitative and judgmental factors. Transactions that are strong with respect to each of such characteristics may achieve the highest rating while the impact of weakening any of the attributes would be evaluated on a case-by-case basis.

On the economic side, our analysis focuses on the likelihood that the charges established by the legislation and accompanying regulations will be sufficient to repay the securitization bonds and on whether the charges might become onerous enough to cause pressure to rescind or alter the charges through future legislative or legal actions. As part of that assessment, we evaluate (1) possible changes in the size and composition of the customer base against whom the fee is to be charged, incorporating an evaluation of the breadth and diversity of the customer base, (2) the likely per capita energy usage (in those cases in which the fee charged is based on the usage amount), and (3) the fee rate, including any mechanism built in by the legislation that enables the fee to be reset over time to offset shortfalls that might develop over the life of the securitization (i.e., the transaction's "true up" mechanism). Generally the true-up mechanism is in effect the most important credit protection for UCRC transactions, limiting the risk that the cost recovery charges will be insufficient to pay off the bonds, thereby limiting the need for traditional sources of credit enhancement such as subordination and reserve funds.[2]

In analyzing a transaction's true-up mechanism, we examine how high rates would need to be set under "stressful" future scenarios to fully pay off the bonds, to assess the risk that onerous future rates might cause pressure to overturn or change the legislation and/or regulations establishing the charges. The variables that we typically "stress" test for UCRC bonds are the base against which the charge is to be applied (usually energy usage) and the servicing fee. To obtain a high rating, we would expect that even in a stressful environment, such as one in which energy usage declined dramatically, the charge per customer necessary to pay off the bonds would be reasonably low both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the customer's energy bill. The specific stresses that we place on the variables are issuer-specific and are determined on a case-by-case basis.

[1] Throughout this report we use the terms "cost recovery charges" and "cost recovery fees" interchangeably.

[2] The true-up mechanism also limits the need to analyze the underwriting of the customer base, since the mechanism adjusts for all shortfalls, including those caused by customer defaults.

In addition, we analyze the implications of other structural features of the securitization that could affect the risk of investor loss. For example, we examine the risk implications of how the cash flows are allocated among the various classes of investors and the other participants in the transaction, and the extent to which any other sources of funds are likely to be sufficient to offset any remaining shortfalls to investors, whether the shortfalls are temporary ("liquidity") or permanent ("credit enhancement").

3. Analyzing the Risk Factors

Because of the unique characteristics of this highly regulated asset class, our credit analysis of UCRC securitizations focuses primarily on the legislation and the true-up mechanism. The degree of certainty that the fees generated through the legislation will be sufficient to pay off the securitizations in full is a complementary aspect of the analysis. .

Depending on the risks and mitigants in the relevant jurisdiction, transaction ratings will typically be positioned between the government rating and the country ceiling. Risks that could lead us to determine transaction ratings to be lower than the country ceiling include, for example, continued high levels of debt burden in a utility system. Such high levels of debt, if deemed unsustainable in the long term, may lead to political pressure to adjust the regulatory framework around the system deficit, with some potential negative impact on the related securitization transactions.

In the following sections, we describe the factors that typically lead to a high degree of certainty and thus high ratings on the bonds.

3.1 Protection against Future Impairment of the Right to Collect the Charges

Utility cost recovery charges are established by special legislation that authorizes the creation of a property right to collect future surcharges on customers' monthly electricity bills as the means to pay back the UCRC bonds. Consequently, we analyze the extent to which investors are protected against the enactment of future legislative changes that would weaken that right. For example, investor risk would be mitigated in a situation in which (1) the legislation contained a pledge by the jurisdiction not to impair the right to collect the special charges until the maturity of the bonds and (2) violation of that pledge would be a violation of law [3].

3.2 Irrevocability of the Financing Order

The legislation is typically accompanied by a financing order issued by the public service commission that authorizes the utilities to impose and collect the surcharges on the customer's monthly electric bill during the term of the bonds. Our analysis assesses whether the financing order is irrevocable, which would protect investors against future adverse changes that may reduce the charges backing the bonds.

3.3 Sufficiency of the Charges and the True-Up Mechanism

The charges are usually assessed as an amount linked to a customer's energy usage. Our analysis considers whether the financing order places any limits on charges – e.g., caps on the levels of charges or limits on the length of time that the charges can be imposed – that might cause the collections to be insufficient to provide for timely payment of the principal and interest on the UCRC bonds. In addition, we analyze whether the period over which the charges are allowed to be levied provides sufficient cushion to pay off the bonds by maturity in the event that collections come in more slowly than originally projected.

[3] Violation of the non-impairment pledge would be a violation of the Contract Clause and the Takings Clause under the Federal and State constitutions.

As part of that analysis, we evaluate the power of any true-up mechanism that is provided for in the legislation and detailed in the financing order to correct for shortfalls that may develop over the life of the securities. A true-up mechanism typically adjusts future fee rates on a scheduled periodic basis (e.g., semiannually or annually) to correct for any under- (or over-) collections in a preceding period and to ensure the full and timely payment of future scheduled debt service, based on updated usage forecasts. The greater the frequency with which the true-up adjustments are made, the less likely that investors will suffer a shortfall at the final maturity date.[4]

That is particularly important as the security approaches the final maturity date; frequent rate adjustments based on then-current projections mitigate the risk that actual collections will deviate substantially from those projections, limiting the possibility of shortfalls at the final maturity date. Consequently, our analysis assesses the conditions under which more frequent true-ups are allowed, especially near the final maturity.[5]

3.4 Non-Bypassability of the Charges

We evaluate whether the charges are "non-bypassable," that is, whether the charges must be collected from all existing and future customers of the utility or its successors or assignees within the utility's service territory, and whether the financing order provides that a severance fee be charged to customers who switch to other service providers within the territory during the life of the bonds. We evaluate any exceptions to the non-bypassabilty rule, and consider the materiality of those exemptions to the cash collections. Charges that cannot be bypassed (i.e., those that cannot be avoided by the customers in the utility's service area) ensure a continuing payer base for the charges, leading to less risk for investors. As described in the Structural Features section (Section 3.8), the power of the true-up mechanism to protect investors is dependent on the non-bypassability of the charges. As a result, non-bypassability (with limited, immaterial exemptions) has been a key factor behind the high ratings that are typically assigned to these transactions, without the need for considerable protection from traditional types of credit protection, such as reserve accounts or subordination.

3.5 Bankruptcy of the Utility

For structures in which the initial owner of the property is a utility, a bankruptcy of the utility could expose securitization investors to the risk that other creditors of the utility might make a claim on the cost recovery charges or that payments to securitization investors might be delayed as a result of an imposition of an automatic stay on payments from the utility company.[6,7] However, that risk would be limited if it were clear that a bankruptcy court would view the transfer of the rights to the charges as a "true sale" of those rights, rather than as a financing of the company. As a result, we analyze whether the legislation clearly establishes the utility's right to receive and transfer the rights to the charges and provides unambiguous procedures for transferring those rights to the financing vehicle as a true sale, and whether those procedures are followed in the financing order.

In cases where the utility is the servicer of the transaction, we analyze whether a bankruptcy of the utility could lead to a disruption in servicing, e.g., billing and collecting. However, given the essential service provided by the utility, we expect that government authorities would intervene to prevent any disruption in servicing that might result from a bankruptcy. As a result, where the servicer is a regulated utility, we view operational risk as low. Consequently, we typically would consider a transaction to be consistent with a Aaa rating even if the servicer were not investment grade, as long as the transaction were structured with some mitigants for operational risk, such as the inclusion of a backup servicer and/or provision for additional liquidity.[8]

[4] Generally, the charges collected rank senior to other charges of a utility system and represent only a small amount of the total revenues of such system .
[5] Transactions typically allow for more frequent true-ups during the "tail period" between the transaction's stated "expected" maturity (determined by the sponsor) and the "legal" final maturity. The legal final maturity is the important date from our rating perspective, the date by which all principal must be repaid.
[6] In some transactions, the property is created by law for the benefit of a public trust or corporation that also is created by the same law. In such cases, the true sale risk would be non-existent as there is no sale or transfer of the property.
[7] For a discussion of how Moody's analyzes legal risks in structured finance transactions, see Moody's Related Research section at the end of this report.
[8] The rating standard for a backup servicer likely would be lower than investment grade, but would depend on the specific facts and circumstances of the transaction and servicer.

In addition, we analyze whether the bankruptcy of the utility could cause a disruption in the remittance of payments by the utility to bondholders. Such a disruption could occur if the remittances of the charges were "commingled" with the other funds of the utility and the bankruptcy court ordered a halt to payments until proper ownership of the funds could be sorted out. Our analysis includes an assessment of the ways in which the utility separates the cost recovery charges received from its other funds and the frequency with which it transfers the funds to the trust.

3.6 Bankruptcy of the Financing Vehicle

Another potential risk to investors in UCRC securitizations is a bankruptcy of the financing vehicle. That could expose investors to the risk that other creditors of the vehicle might make a claim on the cost recovery charges or that payments to investors might be delayed by the imposition of an automatic stay. Consequently, we analyze (1) the likelihood that a third-party creditor would be able to successfully petition the owner of the assets (i.e., the financing vehicle) into an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding or (2) the likelihood that the owner of the assets would voluntarily seek the protection of the bankruptcy courts.

To analyze the likelihood of an involuntary bankruptcy, we assess the characteristics that would mitigate that risk, such as if the financing vehicle had (1) no assets other than the right to the cost recovery charges, (2) no indebtedness other that the securitization debt, (3) limited activities that could give rise to contractual or other liabilities, and (4) agreements with the sponsor and other contracting parties not to petition for the dissolution, liquidation or bankruptcy of the securitization vehicle. Similarly, factors that would mitigate the risk of a voluntary bankruptcy would include (1) charter documents of the owner of the assets that require directors who are independent of the utility and (2) a unanimous vote of directors as a condition to filing a voluntary bankruptcy.

3.7 Economic Factors

Even if the financing order is irrevocable, the charges or the law that authorizes them could be subject to challenge in the courts or to future political pressure to rescind or change them through legislation. That is more likely the higher the charges, i.e., the more the economic incentive for a challenge or in circumstances where the financial imbalances in a utility system increase. Consequently, our economic analysis focuses on the size of the cost recovery charge, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the customer's energy bill. Typically the percentage of a residential customer's monthly bill devoted to the cost recovery charge is less than 10%.

We typically also look at stressful collection scenarios. For example, in one scenario, we assume (1) that energy usage falls short of the utility's projections[9] by a progressively increasing amount each year (typically 5% per year), (2) that forecasted collections in peak usage months do not materialize (for example, 100% of the collections in the peak month and 50% of the collections in the second highest-usage month), and (3) that the servicing fee is considerably higher than the current, "normal," servicing fee, representing the fee that would be required if the original servicer needed to be replaced in a stressful environment. In another scenario, we typically assume that energy usage is lower than projected by a set amount throughout the life of the securitization (typically 25%). For highly rated transactions, we would expect that the cost recovery charge would remain relatively low even in those highly stressful scenarios.

While the specific stresses that we place on the variables have been quite similar to date, this reflects the fact that all rated transactions to date have involved requests for the highest ratings and been supported by highly diverse, broad-based service areas. However, in general, stresses are issuer-specific and are determined on a case-by-case basis. One of the factors that we use to determine the appropriate stress level for a transaction is the variability of the base against which the charge is applied, for example, the population in the service area or the energy usage in the service area. Customer bases that are less broad-based and diversified tend to be more variable; as a result, we would apply more severe stresses in those situations.

[9] We typically assess the reasonableness of the utility's projections by analyzing (1) the historical energy usage in the utility's service region and the variances between past projections and actual outcomes, and (2) the likely growth in electricity usage in the service area of the utility, taking into account the projected economic growth in the region and the possible competitive impact of technological advances, such as those in the development of solar energy.

In particular, we evaluate the economic diversity of the utility's service region to assess the potential variability in its economic health, which tends to drive changes in population and energy usage. An area that relies on multiple industries for economic growth will likely have a more stable business climate than an area that is dependent on the fortunes of one industry. In the latter case, the area's prospects will falter if that particular industry runs into hard times.

We also consider the mix in the customer base among residential, commercial, and industrial users. A utility with a large residential base relative to commercial and industrial users will tend to have less volatility in energy consumption, since energy consumption by commercial and industrial operations is more closely tied to the business cycle. Furthermore, residential customers are less likely to quickly embrace new energy production technologies and are less likely to cut back energy consumption dramatically if the price of energy were to rise. The higher variability of a commercial and industrial base can be exacerbated further if the service area's customer usage is concentrated in a few large commercial or industrial operations, which could make the overall energy consumption vulnerable if those entities were to decline or leave the area.

3.8 Structural Features

The key structural feature of UCRC transactions is the true-up mechanism. Our rating is highly dependent on the extent to which the mechanism adjusts the charges to correct for past shortfalls or forecasted future shortfalls. The effectiveness of those rate changes in raising funds depends, in turn, on how easily customers can escape the charges and how sensitive electricity usage is to increases in the utility charges. Therefore, our analysis of the true-up mechanism goes together with our analysis of how bypassable the cost recovery charges are and how easily customers can cut back on electricity usage (through alternative sources of energy or conservation). To be consistent with a particular rating, a strong true-up mechanism combined with non-bypassable charges mitigates the need for credit enhancement in the form of alternative sources of funds.

In addition, our analysis of the credit risk of a UCRC transaction incorporates our assessment of the implications of the transaction's cash flow allocation structure (sometimes referred to as the cash flow "waterfall"). In particular, we focus on the seniority of principal and interest payments to the bond's investors vis-à-vis payments to other participants. In addition, we analyze the extent to which the transaction has an alternative source of liquidity to pay principal and interest in the event that there is a temporary interruption in the flow of the cost recovery charges. For example, in many transactions there is a capital or reserve account with funds sufficient to pay interest for at least 1-2 months, if needed. Furthermore, we assess the extent to which the credit enhancement that is available in the transaction is likely to be sufficient to offset any shortfalls that might develop in the period between the final true-up adjustment and the maturity of the bonds.

4. Monitoring

In monitoring UCRC transactions, we apply the key components of this methodology. More specifically, we analyze, whether bond balances are in line with the scheduled principal amortization, which indicates the extent to which payments have been in line with our original expectations.

We review the periodic information received and look at whether there has been a draw on the reserve accounts. This data point provides further clues as to the steadiness of the cash flows and accuracy of true-up adjustments.

In addition, we analyze the factors that determine the future strength of the transaction. For example, we monitor any legal or political developments that could indicate an increased risk of changes in the legislation that could impair future cash flows to the transactions. Such risk may materialise, for example, in case of continued high financial imbalances in the system that may lead the system deficit to be viewed as unsustainable over the long-term.

Depending on the jurisdiction, we also follow the rating of the utility as a proxy to assess any changes to the economic health of the service region and the potential for changes in the size and composition of the ratepayer base. Furthermore, we monitor the rating of the utility collecting the charges (as an indicator of its financial condition) to track the risk, typically quite small, that a bankruptcy could lead to disruption in billing and collections and in the remittance of payments to the bondholders.

In other instances, we may be more concerned with the behavior of the regulator of the utility system and less with individual utility companies. This could lead to a lower rating in the space between the local currency ceiling and the sovereign rating or the utility rating.

Thus changes on our expectations and other analytical components could have an impact on the rating of the securities and may result in a reassessment of the rating.

The ratings address the expected loss posed to investors by the legal final maturity date. In Moody's opinion, the structure allows for timely payment of interest and ultimate payment of principal at par on or before the rated final legal maturity date. Moody's ratings address only the credit risks associated with the securitization. Other non-credit risks have not been addressed, but may have a significant effect on yield to investors.

Summary Rating Rationale

The Utility Debt Securitization Authority (the issuer) intends to issue Restructuring Bonds, Series 2016A. The bond issuance will enable the Long Island Power Authority (LIPA, Baa1 stable) to retire a portion of its outstanding debt. This will be the third utility cost recovery charge (UCRC) securitization that LIPA has sponsored since 2013. These bonds are backed by restructuring property which consists of, among other things, the right to impose usage-based restructuring charges on all current and future retail electric customers in LIPA's service area.

Our provisional ratings on the bonds reflect our assessment of (1) the strength of the State of New York's legislation including the State's non-impairment pledge, which strongly protects the restructuring property backing the bonds; (2) the strength of LIPA's irrevocable financing order authorizing the creation of the restructuring property; (3) the size, stability

This pre-sale report addresses the structure and characteristics of the proposed transaction based on the information provided to Moody's as of 18 February 2016. Investors should be aware that certain issues concerning this transaction have yet to be finalized. Upon conclusive review of all documents and legal information as well as any subsequent changes in information, Moody's will endeavor to assign definitive ratings to this transaction. The definitive ratings may differ from the provisional ratings set forth in this report. Moody's will disseminate the assignment of definitive ratings through its Client Service Desk. This report does not constitute an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy any securities, and it may not be used or circulated in connection with any such offer or solicitation.

and diversity of the ratepayer base in LIPA's service area; (4) the ability and experience of LIPA, who is responsible for the billing and collection of the 2016A restructuring charges, as the initial servicer of the restructuring property, and of PSEG Long Island LLC (PSEG-LI), who will perform LIPA's key servicing functions; and (5) the credit enhancement supporting the bonds in the form of a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the restructuring charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full, a non-declining operating reserve account and a debt service reserve account.

Credit Strengths

Strength of Legislation and Financing Order: The State of New York's legislation (Part B of the LIPA Reform Act, or the securitization law), coupled with an irrevocable financing order that became final and non-appealable on August 14, 2015 permits the securitization and strongly protects the restructuring property securing the bonds. Similar to other UCRC securitizations, this transaction benefits from the securitization law's inclusion of a state non-impairment pledge under which the State of New York pledges to UCRC bondholders that it will not 1) take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of the restructuring property, or 2) except as required by the adjustment mechanism, reduce, alter or impair restructuring charges until the bonds have been repaid in full (the state pledge). In addition, the LIPA Reform Act and financing order contain the typical strong true-sale and security interest provisions.

LIPA's irrevocable financing order authorizes the creation of restructuring property, which grants the issuer the irrevocable right to impose, bill and collect irrevocable, non-bypassable restructuring charges based on electricity usage from all of LIPA's existing and future retail electric customers in LIPA's service area, and related rights, including a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full.

The financing order authorizes LIPA to recover the costs of retiring certain of its outstanding debt and the issuer to recover the costs of issuing, supporting and servicing the bonds. The issuer will recover these costs by collecting restructuring charges until the bonds are repaid in full, without any specified time limit.

True-Up Adjustment Mechanism: The true-up adjustment mechanism is the key form of credit enhancement supporting the bonds. The financing order authorizes an uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism that mandatorily adjusts restructuring charges annually, and if necessary, semiannually (and quarterly after the last scheduled maturity date of the bonds of any series), in each case to ensure timely bond payments. In addition, the financing order authorizes more frequent interim adjustments, at any time without limitation as to frequency, if the servicer deems necessary to ensure timely bond payments. New to the 2016A transaction, the servicer may elect to perform an additional voluntary mid-year true-up adjustment to decrease charges to customers to correct for overcollections in any year (in addition to the requirement that the servicer perform a mandatory mid-year adjustment to increase charges to customers to correct for undercollections). Also, the timing of the mid-year and annual true-ups has changed to help smooth charges over the course of the year.

Strength of the Ratepayer Base: The size, economic stability and diversity of the ratepayer base in LIPA's service area is a credit strength. The service area is fixed by the securitization law and primarily includes the Long Island counties of Nassau and Suffolk, which are two of the most affluent counties in the United States. The service area primarily includes a mix of residential customers (89%) and commercial customers (10%). Unlike most other UCRC securitizations, the service area includes very few industrial customers, which is a credit positive. Energy consumption by industrial customers is more volatile compared with other types of customers, because consumption by industrial operations is more closely tied to the business cycle.

Credit Challenges

Challenges to LIPA Reform Act and Financing Order: Potential state and federal legislative and regulatory actions could weaken the strength of the legal protections of the securitizable restructuring property; however we view this risk as remote. New York does not have a referendum or initiative process by which voters could challenge the LIPA Reform Act. Therefore, the only way to repeal or amend the LIPA Reform Act, or for LIPA to amend or revoke the financing order, would be through a legislative action which would violate the state pledge. The risk that the State of New York would take legislative action that compromises its state pledge to the significant detriment of bondholders is remote because state impairment would give rise to claims under state and federal laws prohibiting government impairment of contracts and taking of private property without reasonable reimbursement under state and federal "taking" claims. The irrevocable and unconditional nature of the financing order mitigates any concern that it could be altered.

Potential for Insufficient Collections: Collections arising from the restructuring property could fall short of required distributions on the bonds resulting from inaccurate forecasting of electrical consumption by the servicer, unanticipated delinquencies and defaults, population migration and self-generation. PSEG-LI's estimates of market demand, energy prices and growth within LIPA's service area could also be inaccurate. These concerns are mitigated by the mandatory uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism, in which the servicer is required to adjust the charges periodically throughout the year to ensure timely payment of the bonds. These true-up adjustments occur annually, semiannually and on an interim basis as needed.

Relatively High Restructuring Charge: LIPA expects the securitization's initial restructuring charge to represent around [0.79%] of the total monthly bill that an average 1,000 kilowatt hour (kWh) residential customer in LIPA's service area will receive as of June 1, 2016. The initial restructuring charge for the 2016A transaction, combined with the current restructuring charge for the 2013 and 2015 transactions, is expected to represent approximately [6.91%] of a typical residential customer's bill, and is relatively high compared to other utility cost recovery transactions. This concern is mitigated by LIPA's securitization offset rider, which reduces LIPA's delivery charge in an amount equal to any increase in the restructuring charge to keep customers' total monthly bills stable.

Assets Overview

The collateral for this pool is the restructuring property consisting of the irrevocable right to impose, charge and collect non-bypassable, usage-based restructuring charges from all existing and future retail electric customers in LIPA's service area, and related rights, including a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full.

Assets Description

The Securitization Law

The purpose of the securitization law is to create the issuer and allow LIPA to finance the retirement of a portion of its outstanding debt through the issuer's issuance of restructuring bonds, resulting in savings to LIPA's customers on a net present value basis. The securitization law gives LIPA the right to impose restructuring charges, which are the key asset of this securitization.

Prior to the legislature's amendment of the securitization law on March 26, 2015, the law permitted only one issuance of restructuring bonds by the issuer, and that issuance took place in December 2013 pursuant to Financing Order No. 1. The amended securitization law permits LIPA's Board of Trustees to adopt additional financing orders to, among other things, authorize the creation of additional restructuring property and the issuance of additional restructuring bonds in an aggregate additional amount not to exceed $4.5 billion (inclusive of the $2,022,324,000 previously issued 2013 restructuring bonds and the $1,002,100,000 previously issued 2015 restructuring bonds). After the 2016A issuance, LIPA will have authority to issue an additional [$1,093,846,000] billion of restructuring bonds under the securitization law.

Specifically, the securitization law coupled with the financing order authorizes LIPA to sponsor multiple bond issuances to finance the recovery of the costs of retiring a portion of its outstanding debt and financing costs, including the costs of issuing, supporting and servicing the bonds.

Similar to other UCRC securitizations, this securitization benefits from the securitization law's inclusion of a state non-impairment pledge, subject to the true-up mechanism, that will be incorporated into the securitization documents for the benefit of the trustee on behalf of bondholders. A breach of such pledge triggers an event of default under the indenture.

Specifically, the State of New York pledges to and agrees with the bondholders, the issuer and LIPA that the State will not in any way: 1) take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of the restructuring property; or 2) except as required by the adjustment mechanism authorized by the securitization law and set forth in the financing order, reduce, alter or impair restructuring charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the bondholders until all principal of and interest on the bonds and all ongoing financing costs have been repaid in full.

The state pledge provides protection to bondholders; to the extent LIPA or the State of New York have obligations under the financing order, the LIPA Reform Act provides that the owner of the restructuring property (the issuer), or the trustee representing the bondholders, are expressly permitted to bring actions for enforcement of the financing order.

New York does not have a referendum or initiative process by which voters could challenge the securitization law. Therefore, the only way to change the securitization law would be through a legislative action which would be subject to the state pledge.

The risk that the State of New York would take legislative action that compromises its state pledge to the significant detriment of bondholders is remote because state impairment would give rise to claims under state and federal laws prohibiting government impairment of contracts and taking of private property without reasonable reimbursement under state and federal "taking" claims.

Under the laws of New York and the United States, New York could not constitutionally take any legislative action, including the repeal or amendment of the securitization law, which would substantially limit, alter or impair the restructuring property or other rights vested in the bondholders pursuant to the financing order or substantially limit, alter, impair or reduce the value or amount of the restructuring property, unless (1) such action is a reasonable exercise of the State of New York's sovereign powers that appropriately furthers a legitimate public purpose; and (2) if such action constituted a permanent appropriation of the bondholders' substantial property interest in the restructuring property and deprived them of their reasonable expectations arising from their investments in the bonds, under the takings clauses of the federal and New York Constitutions, New York could not take such action without paying just compensation to the bondholders as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Hawkins Delafield & Wood LLP, LIPA's special counsel, will provide a legal opinion prior to securitization closing to the effect that the bondholders (or the trustee acting on their behalf) could successfully challenge under the contracts clause of the United States Constitution the constitutionality of any repeal or amendment of the securitization law or any other action or failure to take any action required by the state pledge that limits, alters or reduces the value of the restructuring property or the restructuring charges before the bonds are repaid in full, unless such action is necessary to further a significant and legitimate public purpose.

Hawkins Delafield & Wood LLP, LIPA's bond counsel, will provide a legal opinion prior to securitization closing to the effect that under existing case law, assuming the takings clause applies under the federal and New York Constitutions, respectively, the State of New York would be required to pay just compensation to the bondholders if the State undertook a repeal or amendment of the securitization law or took any other action or failed to take any action required by the state pledge before the bonds are repaid in full that: 1) permanently appropriates the related restructuring property or denies all economically productive use of the related restructuring property; 2) destroys the restructuring property, other than in response to emergency conditions; or 3) substantially reduces, alters or impairs the value of the restructuring property so as to unduly interfere with the bondholders' reasonable expectations arising from their investments in the bonds.

The Financing Order

The securitization law authorizes LIPA's securitization program, while a separate financing order implements each issuance of bonds under the program.

On June 26, 2015, LIPA Trustees adopted Financing Order No. 3 (the financing order), together with Financing Order No. 2 and Financing Order No. 4 and on July 15, 2015, the New York Public Authorities Control Board approved them. On August 14, 2015, they became irrevocable, final and non-appealable. Each financing order authorizes restructuring bonds that will be secured by a separate restructuring property that would be created pursuant to that financing order.

Similarly, the 2013 restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 1 are secured by the 2013 restructuring property, and the 2015 restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 2 are secured by the 2015 restructuring property.

The issuer is issuing the 2016A restructuring bonds pursuant to Financing Order No. 3, which authorizes: 1) the creation of the 2016A restructuring property; 2) LIPA to sell the 2016A restructuring property to the issuer under the financing order (the 2016A restructuring property is created simultaneously with its sale to the issuer); 3) the imposition, billing and collection of restructuring charges on, to and from the customers in the service area; 4) the issuance of the bonds by the issuer; 5) the issuer to use the bond proceeds to purchase the 2016A restructuring property from LIPA and pay upfront financing costs; and 6) LIPA to use the proceeds of the sale of the 2016A restructuring property to retire a portion of its outstanding debt

The securitization law provides that the financing order is irrevocable and is not subject to modification or termination. The financing order acknowledges the state pledge.

Prior to the issuance of the bonds, the financing order requires the servicer to file an issuance advice letter with LIPA setting forth: 1) the expected savings to customers from the securitization; 2) the estimated ongoing financing costs; 3) the initial restructuring charge; and 4) the final terms of the bonds. The financing order authorizes a designee of LIPA to review and approve the issuance advice letter for the purpose of confirming that the stated terms are consistent with the financing order. The designee's approval will be final and incontestable.

The 2016A Restructuring Charges

Under the financing order, the servicer (on behalf of the issuer as owner of the restructuring property) has the right to impose, bill and collect irrevocable and non-bypassable restructuring charges from all of LIPA's customers in an amount sufficient to: 1) pay interest on the bonds when due and principal of each tranche of bonds according to the related expected amortization schedule; 2) pay the fees and expenses of the securitizations' service providers; and 3) replenish the operating reserve and debt service reserve subaccounts to the required levels.

There is no cap on the level of restructuring charges that the servicer may impose on ratepayers through the true-up adjustment mechanism to ensure the expected collection of amounts sufficient to pay the amounts specified above on time. Accordingly, the restructuring charges may continue to be imposed and collected until the bonds are repaid in full, without any specified time limit.

The financing order authorizes the servicer to collect restructuring charges directly from LIPA's customers. The restructuring charge will be the same for all customer classes. Under the securitization law, the charges and any adjustments thereto are not subject to review or regulation by the New York State Department of Public Service, the staff arm of the Public Service Commission.

Restructuring Charges are Non-Bypassable

The securitization law provides that the restructuring charges are non-bypassable. "Non-bypassable" as set forth in the securitization law and the financing order means that the customer is obligated to pay the restructuring charges (and may not legally avoid payment of such charges) as long as such customer is connected to the transmission and distribution (T&D) system assets (LIPA's delivery system, which includes transmission and distribution lines and substations) and is taking electric delivery service in the service area, even if such customer produces its own electricity or purchases electric generation services from a provider of electric generation services other than the owner of the T&D system assets and even if LIPA no longer owns the T&D system assets. Thus, the only way customers can avoid restructuring charges is if they are fully cut off from the T&D system assets.

Self-Generation in the Service Area is Low

Self-generation, which primarily includes solar and wind, reduces the ratepayer base and increases the burden of restructuring charges on other non-self-generating ratepayers. Self-generation is currently very small in the service area at roughly 0.3% of energy sales. LIPA forecasts self-generation to grow slowly over the next three years, and incorporates self-generation into its electricity consumption forecasts. Certain customers that self-generate will only be responsible for paying restructuring charges based upon their "net-billed" consumption.

Municipalization

Municipalization, or the transfer of the T&D system assets to a municipal owner, would not affect restructuring charge collections because the customers are required to pay the restructuring charges even if the T&D system assets are no longer owned by LIPA. Since 1998, no municipalizations have occurred.

The Service Area

LIPA provides electric transmission and distribution services in its service area which includes two counties in Long Island, NY – Nassau County and Suffolk County (except for the Nassau County villages of Freeport and Rockville Centre and the Suffolk County village of Greenport, each of which has its own municipal electric system) – and a small portion in Queens, NY known as the Rockaways. The population of the service area is around three million.

The securitization law defines the service area as the geographical area within which LIPA provided electric transmission and distribution services as of July 29, 2013. Thus, the service area is fixed by the legislation.

As of December 31, 2015, the service area included approximately 1.1 million customers. Of these, approximately 89.3% were residential, 10.2% commercial (with very few industrial customers), 0.5% street lighting and 0.0% other public authorities; the average number of customers has been fairly stable over the last 10 years, with very small year-over-year changes ranging from -0.2% to 0.7%. Retail electric usage was 48.2% residential, 48.8% commercial, 0.7% street lighting and 2.2% other public authorities.

Statutory Uncapped True-Up Adjustment Mechanism

Under the securitization law and the financing order, the servicer will adjust the restructuring charges through the securitization's true-up mechanism to ensure timely bond payments. The adjustments to the charges will continue until the bonds are repaid in full and there is no cap on the amount of charges that may be imposed on customers resulting from the adjustments.

The mechanics of the true-up adjustments are as follows:

1. initial true-up adjustment to the restructuring charges will be made on November 15, 2016
2. standard mandatory annual adjustments to the restructuring charges to correct for any over-collections or under-collections to date and anticipated to be experienced up to the date of the next annual adjustment and to ensure that the expected collections are sufficient to timely pay interest and scheduled principal (according to the expected amortization schedule) on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs (the revenue requirement)

3. mandatory semiannual adjustments to the restructuring charges only if the servicer forecasts that charge collections will be insufficient to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
4. voluntary semiannual adjustments to decrease the restructuring charges to customers if the servicer forecasts that charge collections will be greater than the amount required to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
5. more frequent adjustments at any time without limits as to the frequency to ensure that the expected charge collections are adequate to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
6. after the last scheduled maturity date of the bonds (of any series), quarterly adjustments to ensure that charge collections will be sufficient to timely pay interest and principal on the next payment date, in addition to all other ongoing financing costs; the adjustments will be set at levels estimated to generate revenues sufficient to fully repay the bonds on the next payment date, plus all other ongoing financing costs

All adjustments will be designed to cause: 1) the outstanding principal balance of the bonds (or any series of bonds) to be equal to the scheduled balance (based on the expected amortization schedule); 2) the amount in the operating reserve and debt service reserve subaccounts to be equal to the required levels; and 3) with respect to the annual true-up only, any amount in the excess funds subaccount to be equal to zero by the payment date immediately preceding the effective date of the next annual adjustment.

Under the financing order, the adjustments are to be based on actual charge collections and the servicer's updated assumptions for projected future charge collections, projected uncollectibles and loss in collection of billed charges, and future payments and expenses relating to the restructuring property and the bonds.

No Third-Party Billing/Collection of Charges

Under the securitization law and the financing order, if and to the extent that third parties are allowed to bill and/or collect any restructuring charges in the future while the bonds are outstanding, LIPA, any successor regulator, and any owner of the T&D system assets will take steps to ensure non-bypassability and minimize the likelihood of default by third-party billers. Further, LIPA and any successor regulator will not permit implementation of any third-party billing or collection that would result in a reduction or withdrawal of the current ratings on the bonds.

Assets Analysis

Strong Service Area

Long Island's economy benefits from a highly skilled labor force, close proximity to New York City, 19 colleges and universities and core research institutions, such as Brookhaven National Laboratory, Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory, and the technology and science developmental centers at Stony Brook and Farmingdale Universities that specialize in the areas of biotechnology, computer sciences, wireless and internet technologies, and energy.

Long Island's median household income is substantially above that of New York and the US. According to estimates from the US Census Bureau, the 2014 median household income for Nassau County and Suffolk County was $98,401 and $88,323, respectively, considerably higher than the $58,687 for New York and the $53,482 for the US. According to LIPA, while the cost of electricity in the service area is higher than the national average, the cost of electricity as a percentage of income is below the national average.

Exhibit 4 shows that the Nassau-Suffolk unemployment rate is lower than that of the US, and we forecast the rate will remain lower.

Exhibit 5 shows Moody's Analytics' forecasted average year-over-year changes in various economic stability measures for the service area, compared with New York and the US. The data include Nassau and Suffolk counties, but exclude the Rockaways in Queens, NY. The exhibit shows that forecasted population growth will be relatively flat.

Remote Risk of Severe Ratepayer Base Declines

The securitization's performance is exposed to the risk of declines in the ratepayer base in the service area. However, declines in the ratepayer base dramatic enough to impact the rating of the bonds are unlikely given the size, projected population growth and economic stability of the service area's diverse ratepayer base.

LIPA expects the combined initial restructuring charge for the 2013, 2015 and 2016A transactions to be around [6.91%] of the total monthly bill that an average 1,000 kWh residential customer in the service area would receive as of June 1, 2016, which is higher than most other UCRC securitizations we rate. The [6.91%] is preliminary and subject to change based on market conditions.

Exhibit 6 shows LIPA's expected restructuring charge, which is the same for all customer classes, and annual debt service of the bonds over the securitization's life. The exhibit shows that the restructuring charge will vary over time to cover the unlevel debt service of the bonds, which mirrors the unlevel debt service of the retired LIPA bonds.

Cash Flow Analysis

We examined the cash flows that the restructuring charges will generate under various scenarios. In light of the strength of the ratepayer base, the purpose was primarily to see how high the restructuring charges can go as a percentage of a typical residential customer's bill and also to illustrate how the restructuring charges behave under various stress scenarios of customer demand.

Our rating is primarily based on qualitative analysis of the political, legal and regulatory aspects of the securitization and the strength of the ratepayer base. However, we run these stress scenarios to confirm the level of the restructuring charges is consistent with other comparable transactions.

Even if the financing order is irrevocable, the charges or the law that authorizes them could be subject to challenge in the courts or to future political pressure to rescind or change them through legislation. That is more likely the higher the charges, i.e., the more the economic incentive for a challenge or in circumstances where the financial imbalances in a utility system increase. Consequently, our economic analysis focuses on the size of the cost recovery charge, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the customer's energy bill. Typically the percentage of a residential customer's monthly bill devoted to the cost recovery charge is less than 10%.

We looked at three scenarios. In our base case, we assumed 1) electricity consumption as per LIPA's projections, 2) annual net charge-offs as per LIPA's projections, 3) collection curve as per LIPA's projections and 4) actual servicing fee and other expenses (Scenario A).

In our first stress scenario, we assumed 1) electricity consumption decreases linearly by 5% every year until it reaches 50% of the projected consumption for residential customers and 65% for non-residential customers, 2) annual net charge-offs are the same as in base case, 3) collection curve is the same as in base case, 4) loss of 100% of the collections from the peak consumption month and 50% of the collections from the second highest consumption month each year and 4) replacement servicing fee of 0.60% per year of the initial bond balance with other expenses the same as in the base case (Scenario B).

In our second stress scenario, we assumed 1) electricity consumption is reduced by 25% permanently against the first year base case projection, 2) annual net charge-offs the same as in base case, 3) collection curve is the same as in base case and 4) servicing fee and all other fees the same as in base case (Scenario C).

For all of the scenarios, the bonds are fully paid by their legal final maturity dates. Exhibit 7 shows the projected restructuring charges for customers in cents per kWh, and Exhibit 8 shows the projected restructuring charge as a percentage of the typical residential customer's total bill assuming monthly usage of 1,000 kWh over the securitization's life.

Forecasting Electricity Consumption

The company monitors the accuracy of each forecast by conducting variance analysis on a monthly basis taking into account weather impacts on kWh sales and deviations from forecast within the customer count. LIPA factors the impact of weather and the growth in self generation, energy efficiencies and the use of electric vehicles into its forecasts.

Exhibit 9 shows LIPA's annual forecast variance for ultimate electric delivery by customer class.

Additional Assets Analysis

Servicing

LIPA, acting as servicer under the servicing agreement, or any successor servicer as the financing order provides, will be responsible for servicing the restructuring property, including: 1) obtaining meter reads; 2) forecasting electricity usage; 3) calculating, billing and collecting the restructuring charges; 4) processing, accounting for and depositing charge collections and making periodic remittances; 5) calculating and implementing the true-up adjustments to the restructuring charges; 6) investigating and handling delinquencies and selling defaulted or written off accounts; 7) responding to inquiries from customers, LIPA or any governmental authority regarding the restructuring property and the restructuring charges; and 8) furnishing periodic reports and statements.

PSEG LI will perform, and is capable of performing, LIPA's key servicing duties, including billing and collecting restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage, among other things. LIPA will be responsible for the true-up adjustments and certain reporting requirements.

PSEG is a publicly traded energy and energy services company. As of September 30, 2015, it had total assets of approximately $36.5 billion, latest twelve months revenues of approximately $10.9 billion; and employed approximately 12,700 people. PSEG is the parent holding company of PSEG Power LLC, New Jersey's largest wholesale merchant generator with approximately 13.1 GW of capacity; Public Service Electric and Gas Company (PSE&G), New Jersey's largest regulated electric and gas transmission and distribution utility; and PSEG Energy Holdings L.L.C., which owns a portfolio of leveraged leases and is also pursuing investments in renewable generation.

There is no named backup servicer at closing though the financing order allows for a replacement servicer if the current servicer defaults in its performance obligations. In addition, the financing order allows the servicing fee to step-up from 0.05% to 0.60% of the initial principal balance of the bonds if LIPA is replaced as servicer by a successor servicer not affiliated with the owner of the T&D system assets, pursuant to the securitization documents.

The provision of electric service to customers by LIPA is governed by the Home Energy Fair Practices Act (HEFPA). LIPA's credit and collections practices, including the ability to terminate (disconnect) service, are governed by HEFPA.

Securitization Structure Overview

LIPA intends to issue one series of tax-exempt, fixed rate bonds, Series 2016A, secured by the collateral on a pari passu basis. Some of the Series 2016A Bonds will be serial bonds, while others will be term bonds, with the term bonds subject to mandatory sinking fund payments. The issuer will have the option to redeem the Series 2016A Bonds with a legal final maturity date on or after [ ], in whole or in part and in any order, on and after [ ]. All dates in this paragraph will be determined prior to closing.

Securitization Structure Description

Bond Structure

The issuer will make payments on the bonds semiannually, on June 15 and December 15 of each year, beginning in December 2016. Interest will be paid pro rata among the tranches.

All tranches of bonds will be paid pro rata if the bonds are accelerated following an event of default under the indenture. Partial payments of any scheduled payments will be allocated pro rata between tranches of bonds with the same legal final maturity date.

Optional Redemption

The issuer will not have the option to redeem the Series 2016A Bonds with a final maturity date prior to [ ]. The issuer will have the option to redeem the Series 2016A Bonds with a final maturity date on or after [ ], in whole or in part and in any order, on and after [ ], at a redemption price of 100% of the principal amount of the Series 2016A Bonds to be redeemed, plus accrued interest to the redemption date. All dates in this paragraph will be determined prior to closing.

Indenture Accounts

The trustee will hold the collection account in its name and will deposit the restructuring charge collections and all other amounts it receives with respect to the collateral. The collection account will consist of five subaccounts: the general subaccount, the excess funds subaccount, the operating reserve subaccount, the debt service reserve subaccount and the upfront financing cost subaccount.

Payment Priority

On each semiannual payment date, or for items 1 through 4 below, on any business day, the trustee will pay or allocate, at the direction of the servicer, all amounts on deposit in the collection account in the following order of priority:

1. to the trustee, i) all fees, expenses and ii) any outstanding indemnity amounts not to exceed $800,000 in each year;
2. to the servicer, the servicing fee and all prior unpaid servicing fees, capped at 0.60% of the aggregate principal balance of the bonds in each year;
3. to the administrator, the administration fee ($100,000 per year) and all prior unpaid administration fees;
4. the payment of all other ongoing financing costs to the persons entitled to such payment;
5. to the bondholders, first, any overdue interest (together with, to the extent lawful, interest on such overdue interest at the applicable bond interest rate) and second, interest due on such payment date;

6. to the bondholders, principal due and payable on the bonds as a result of an event of default and an acceleration of the bonds or on the legal final maturity date of a tranche of bonds;
7. to the bondholders, principal for such payment date, sequentially according to the related expected amortization schedule;
8. to the trustee, indemnity amounts in excess of $800,000 in each year;
9. to the servicer, the servicing fee and all prior unpaid servicing fees in excess of 0.60% of the aggregate initial principal balance of the bonds in each year;
10. to the debt service reserve subaccount, the amount, if any, by which the required reserve level (1.5% of the aggregate outstanding principal balance of the bonds) exceeds the amount in the debt service reserve subaccount as of such payment date;
11. to the operating reserve subaccount, the amount, if any, by which the required operating reserve level (0.5% of the aggregate initial principal balance of the bonds) exceeds the amount in the operating reserve subaccount as of such payment date;
12. any funds in the debt service reserve subaccount in excess of the required debt service reserve level shall be retained in the debt service reserve subaccount and applied to clauses 5 through 7 above on the next payment date; and
13. to the excess funds subaccount, the balance, if any, for distribution on subsequent payment dates.

If funds in the general subaccount are insufficient to make the payments required under items 1 through 9, the trustee will first, draw from amounts in the excess funds subaccount and second, draw from amounts in the operating reserve subaccount, in each case, to make the payments required under items 1 through 9. In addition, if funds in the general subaccount, together with moneys available in the excess funds subaccount and the operating reserve subaccount, are insufficient to make the payments required under items 5 through 7, the trustee will draw from amounts in the debt service reserve subaccount, up to the amount of such shortfall. If funds in the general subaccount are insufficient to make the allocations under item 10, the trustee will draw from amounts in the excess funds subaccount to make such allocations.

The annual true-up adjustment will be calculated to eliminate any amounts in the excess funds subaccount by the payment date immediately preceding the effective date of the next annual true-up adjustment.

Events of Default

The Events of Default under the indenture are:

1. failure to pay interest or redemption price on any bond when due (after a five day cure period);
2. failure to pay principal of any tranche of a bond on the legal final maturity date for such tranche;
3. failure of the issuer to perform a covenant (after a cure period);
4. breach by the issuer of its representations or warranties (after a cure period); or
5. an action violating the financing order or state pledge.

Flow of Funds

Exhibit 14 shows a general summary of the securitization's flow of funds: PSEG-LI will bill and collect the restructuring charges from LIPA's customers on behalf of the servicer. The servicer will be required to cause all customer payments (including restructuring charge collections) to be deposited into the allocation account, which LIPA established to hold all payments until the checks clear. Initially, the account will be held by J.P. Morgan Chase Bank. If customers make payments directly to the servicer instead of to the allocation account, the servicer must remit such payments to the allocation account within two business days' receipt by the servicer or LIPA. LIPA, as allocation agent, will control and administer the allocation account for the benefit of the trustee for the holders of the bonds and the trustee for the holders of LIPA bonds. On each business day, the allocation agent must transfer to the collection account the amount of restructuring charge collections that the servicer estimates to have been received and deposited into the allocation account on such day.

Legal Structure

The primary steps of the securitization are as follows:

1. The securitization law created the issuer, a bankruptcy-remote special purpose corporate municipal instrumentality, and a political subdivision and public benefit corporation of the State of New York. Under the securitization law, the issuer is not authorized to be a debtor under chapter 9 or any other provision of the Bankruptcy Code. The securitization law formed the issuer solely to purchase and own the restructuring property, to issue the bonds which are to be secured by the restructuring property, and to perform any activity incidental thereto. The issuer has no commercial operations.
2. The issuer will issue the bonds under an indenture with the trustee and will use the bond proceeds to purchase the restructuring property from LIPA and to pay the cost of issuing the bonds. The issuer will pledge the restructuring property to secure the bonds.
3. LIPA will use the proceeds from the sale of its restructuring property to retire certain of its outstanding debt. LIPA will act as the servicer of the restructuring property under a servicing agreement with the issuer and as the issuer's administrator under an administration agreement with the issuer. PSEG-LI will act as LIPA's service provider and will perform LIPA's key servicing duties under an operations servicing agreement with LIPA.

Sponsor and Seller

LIPA will be the securitization's sponsor and the seller of the restructuring property. LIPA is a corporate municipal instrumentality and a political subdivision of the State of New York, and is authorized to be a chapter 9 debtor pursuant to its enabling legislation.

LIPA took over as the retail supplier of electric service in the service area in 1998 by acquiring the Long Island Lighting Company (LILCO) as a wholly-owned subsidiary of LIPA through a merger. Since the merger, LILCO has done business under the name "LIPA." LIPA, acting through LILCO provides electric delivery service in the service area.

LIPA is governed by a Board of Trustees (LIPA Trustees) and is generally not regulated by the New York Public Service Commission (PSC) or the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. LIPA is authorized under its enabling statute to set rates for electric service in the service area without obtaining the approval of the PSC or any other State regulatory body.

Pursuant to LILCO's organizational documents, LIPA conducts and manages LILCO's business and affairs. Accordingly, LILCO is controlled by LIPA.

LIPA and LILCO are parties to a financing agreement providing for their respective duties and obligations relating to the financing and operation of the retail electric business. Under the agreement, LILCO conducts the electric business in the service area and is responsible for providing service to customers in the service area. LIPA and LILCO are also parties to an administrative services agreement pursuant to which LIPA provides personnel, personnel-related services and other services necessary for LILCO to provide electric service in the service area.

To assist LIPA (acting through LILCO) in providing electric service in the service area, LIPA and LILCO have entered into operating agreements to provide them with the operating personnel and a significant portion of the power supply resources necessary for LILCO to continue to provide such electric service. From 1998 through 2013, National Grid plc, certain of its subsidiaries (National Grid subs) or their predecessors performed most such operations.

Beginning in 1998, a National Grid sub was the manager of LILCO's electric T&D system under a management services agreement which expired at the end of 2013. Beginning January 2014, PSEG-LI assumed the role from the National Grid sub. T&D system management services include, among other functions, the day-to-day operation and maintenance of the T&D system, customer service, billing and collection, meter reading and forecasting energy consumption.

In July 2013, New York Governor Andrew Cuomo signed the LIPA Reform Act, codified as Chapter 173, Laws of New York, into law. On March 30, 2015, the New York State Assembly and Senate adopted Chapter 58 of the Laws of New York, 2015, which amended the LIPA Reform Act to authorize the issuer to issue additional restructuring bonds. On April 13, 2015, the Governor signed Chapter 58 into law. On May 13, 2015, the time for filing any challenges to the LIPA Reform Act, as amended, expired and no such challenges were filed.

The LIPA Reform Act effectively shifted the major operational and policy-making responsibilities for the T&D system, including significant responsibilities relating to capital expenditures, budgets and emergency response, from LIPA to PSEG-LI. PSEG-LI's scope of services and LIPA's reserved rights have been adjusted to reflect the shift in operations, management and policy making responsibilities while enhancing LIPA's oversight rights. The LIPA Reform Act also requires that staffing be kept at levels only necessary to ensure that LIPA is able to meet obligations with respect to its bonds and notes and all applicable statutes and contracts, and to oversee the activities of PSEG-LI.

Summary Rating Rationale

We have assigned provisional ratings to the single series of bonds (Series 2016B bonds, or the bonds) that Utility Debt Securitization Authority (the issuer) will issue. The Long Island Power Authority ("the Authority", Baa1 stable), which is a corporate municipal instrumentality and a political subdivision of the State of New York, is sponsoring the transaction. The Authority wholly owns the Long Island Lighting Company (doing business as "LIPA", the servicer), which provides electric transmission and distribution services in most of Nassau and Suffolk counties and a portion of Queens county. New York State legislation formed the issuer to securitize a special charge (the restructuring charge) imposed on the Authority's customers' utility bills. The Authority will use the proceeds of the securitization to retire a portion of its outstanding debt. The Series 2016B bonds will be the fourth utility cost recovery bonds sponsored by the Authority since 2013.

This pre-sale report addresses the structure and characteristics of the proposed transaction based on the information provided to Moody's as of 28 July 2016. Investors should be aware that certain issues concerning this transaction have yet to be finalized. Upon conclusive review of all documents and legal information as well as any subsequent changes in information, Moody's will endeavor to assign definitive ratings to this transaction. The definitive ratings may differ from the provisional ratings set forth in this report. Moody's will disseminate the assignment of definitive ratings through its Client Service Desk. This report does not constitute an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy any securities, and it may not be used or circulated in connection with any such offer or solicitation.

The primary collateral backing the Series 2016B bonds is the irrevocable contract right to impose, bill and collect nonbypassable consumption-based restructuring charges from all existing and future retail electric customers taking electric transmission or distribution service within the Authority's service area (the restructuring property). New York State legislation, along with an irrevocable financing order adopted by the Authority on June 26, 2015, authorizes the creation of the restructuring property.

Our provisional ratings on the bonds reflect our assessment of (1) the strength of the State of New York's legislation including the State's non-impairment pledge, which strongly protects the restructuring property backing the bonds; (2) the strength of the Authority's irrevocable financing order authorizing the creation of the restructuring property; (3) the size, stability and diversity of the ratepayer base in the Authority's service area; (4) the ability and experience of LIPA, who is responsible for the billing and collection of the restructuring charges, as the initial servicer of the restructuring property, and of PSEG Long Island LLC (PSEG-LI), who will perform LIPA's key servicing functions; and (5) the credit enhancement supporting the bonds in the form of a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the restructuring charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full, a non-declining operating reserve account and a debt service reserve account.

Credit Strengths

Strength of legislation and financing order: The State of New York's legislation (Part B of the LIPA Reform Act, or the securitization law), coupled with an irrevocable financing order that became final and non-appealable on August 14, 2015, permits the securitization and strongly protects the restructuring property securing the bonds. Similar to other utility cost recovery charge securitizations, this transaction benefits from the securitization law's inclusion of a state non-impairment pledge under which the State of New York pledges to bondholders that it will not (1) take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of restructuring property; or (2) reduce, alter or impair transition charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the owners of restructuring bonds, any assignee, and all financing entities, until any principal, interest and redemption premium in respect of restructuring bonds, all ongoing financing costs and all amounts to be paid to an assignee or financing party under an ancillary agreement are paid or performed in full, except as required by the adjustment mechanism described in the restructuring cost financing order (the state pledge). In addition, the securitization and financing order contain the typical true-sale and security interest provisions.

The Authority's irrevocable financing order authorizes the Authority to recover specified costs of retiring its corporate debt by collecting restructuring charges. The restructuring property grants the issuer the irrevocable right to impose, bill and collect irrevocable, nonbypassable restructuring charges based on electricity usage, and related rights, including a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full. Nonbypassable refers to the requirement that the charges be levied on all of the Authority's existing and future retail electric customers receiving transmission and distribution services in its service area, including customers of any Authority successor or assignee.

True-up adjustment mechanism: The true-up adjustment mechanism is the key form of credit enhancement supporting the bonds. The financing order authorizes an uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism that mandatorily adjusts restructuring charges annually and, if necessary, semiannually, to ensure timely bond payments. In addition, the financing order authorizes more frequent interim adjustments at any time if the servicer deems necessary to ensure timely bond payments. The servicer may also elect to perform a voluntary mid-year true-up adjustment to decrease charges to customers to correct for overcollections in any year (in addition to the requirement that the servicer perform a mandatory mid-year adjustment to increase charges to customers to correct for undercollections). This voluntary mid-year adjustment helps reduce the volatility of the restructuring charge to customers. The inclusion of an operating reserve account and a debt service account provide sufficient funds to offset the typical variance in collections versus projections in order to meet the projected amortization schedule between true-ups.

Affluent ratepayer base: The size, economic stability and diversity of the ratepayer base in the Authority's service area are credit strengths. The service area is fixed by the securitization law and primarily includes the Long Island counties of Nassau and Suffolk, which are two of the most affluent counties in the United States. The service area primarily includes a mix of residential customers (54% by revenue) and commercial customers (43% by revenue).

This publication does not announce a credit rating action. For any credit ratings referenced in this publication, please see the ratings tab on the issuer/entity page on www.moodys.com for the most updated credit rating action information and rating history.

Experienced servicer: LIPA has considerable prior servicing experience with restructuring charges, including acting as servicer for the Authority's three outstanding utility cost recovery charge securitizations.

Although LIPA is the named servicer for this securitization, PSEG Long Island LLC (PSEG-LI, unrated), a subsidiary of Public Service Enterprise Group Incorporated (Baa2, positive), will perform LIPA's key servicing duties pursuant to an operations services agreement, including billing and collecting restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage, among others. PSEG-LI currently performs these same functions for the three outstanding utility cost recovery charge securitizations sponsored by the Authority. LIPA will be responsible for the true-up adjustments and certain reporting requirements.

Credit Challenges

Challenges to securitization law and financing order: Potential state and federal legislative and regulatory actions could weaken the strength of the legal protections of the restructuring property. However, we view this risk as remote. New York does not have a referendum or initiative process by which voters could challenge the securitization law. Therefore, the only way to repeal or amend the securitization law, or for the Authority to amend or revoke the financing order, would be through a legislative action which would violate the state pledge. The risk that the State of New York would take legislative action that compromises its state pledge to the significant detriment of bondholders is remote because state impairment would give rise to claims under state and federal laws prohibiting government impairment of contracts and taking of private property without reasonable reimbursement under state and federal "taking" claims. The irrevocable and unconditional nature of the financing order mitigates any concern that it could be altered. Several past challenges to securitization laws such as this in other jurisdictions have been unsuccessful.

Potential for insufficient collections: Collections arising from the restructuring property could fall short of required distributions on the bonds resulting from inaccurate forecasting of electrical consumption by the servicer, unanticipated delinquencies and defaults, population migration, self-generation and storm damage. The Authority's estimates of market demand, energy prices and growth within its service area could also be inaccurate. These concerns are mitigated by the mandatory uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism, by which the servicer is required to adjust the charges periodically throughout the year to ensure timely payment of the bonds. These true-up adjustments are required to occur annually and can occur semi-annually and at the discretion of the servicer on an interim basis as needed.

Relatively high restructuring charge: The Authority expects the securitization's initial restructuring charge to represent around 2.55% of the total monthly bill that a 1,000 kilowatt hour (kWh) residential customer in the Authority's service area will receive as of June 15, 2017. The initial restructuring charge for the 2016B transaction, combined with the current restructuring charge for the 2013, 2015 and 2016A transactions, is expected to represent approximately 7.8% of a 1,000 kWh residential customer's bill. This percentage charge is relatively high compared to charges in other utility cost recovery bond transactions. For context, the three most recent utility cost recovery bond issuances we rated, Duke Energy Florida Project Finance, LLC, Entergy New Orleans Storm Recovery Funding I, LLC, and the Louisiana Utilities Restoration Corporation Project/ ELL, had a cumulative (including prior utility cost recovery charges to the same customer base) initial recovery charge amounting to 2.5%, 2.5%, and 3.7% of a 1,000 kWh residential bill, respectively. A high cumulative recovery charge could incentivize a legal challenge to the restructuring charges or the securitization law, or could increase political pressure to rescind or change the securitization law through legislation. This concern is mitigated by the Authority's securitization offset rider, which reduces the Authority's delivery charge in an amount equal to any increase in the restructuring charge to keep customers' total monthly bills stable.

Assets Overview

The collateral for this pool is the restructuring property, consisting of the irrevocable contract right to impose, bill and collect nonbypassable consumption-based restructuring charges from all existing and future retail electric customers taking electric transmission or distribution service within the Authority's service area.

The bonds are also secured by funds on deposit in the collection account, including the debt service reserve subaccount and the excess funds subaccount, by the issuer's rights under the various transaction documents, by the issuer's right to compel the servicer to file for and obtain true-up adjustments, and by all payments on or under the pledged collateral and by all proceeds with respect to the pledged collateral.

Assets Description

The Securitization Law

The purpose of the securitization law is to create the issuer and allow the Authority to finance the retirement of a portion of its outstanding debt through the issuance of restructuring bonds by the issuer, resulting in savings to the Authority's customers on a net present value basis. The securitization law gives the Authority the right to impose restructuring charges, which is the key asset backing this securitization.

The securitization law, coupled with the adoption of additional financing orders, authorizes the Authority to create additional restructuring property as collateral for the issuance of bonds. The Authority will use this issuance to retire a portion of its outstanding debt and financing costs, including the costs of issuing, supporting and servicing the bonds. The current financing order allows for an aggregate amount not to exceed $4.5 billion (inclusive of the previously-issued bonds: $2,022,324,000 in 2013, $1,002,115,100 in 2015 and $636,770,000 in 2016). After the Series 2016B issuance, the issuer has capacity issue an additional $363.8 million of restructuring bonds under the initial authorization.

Similar to other utility cost recovery charge securitizations, this securitization benefits from the securitization law's inclusion of a state non-impairment pledge, subject to the true-up mechanism, that is incorporated into the securitization documents for the benefit of the trustee on behalf of bondholders. A breach of such pledge triggers an event of default under the indenture.

The Financing Order

On June 26, 2015, the Authority adopted Financing Order No. 4 (the financing order), together with Financing Order No. 2 and Financing Order No. 3; all of which were approved by the New York Public Authorities Control Board on July 15, 2015. On August 14, 2015, the financing orders became irrevocable, final and non-appealable. Each financing order authorizes restructuring bonds that will be secured by a separate restructuring property that would be created pursuant to that financing order.

Similarly, the Series 2013 restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 1 are secured by the 2013 restructuring property, the Series 2015 restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 2 are secured by the 2015 restructuring property and the Series 2016A restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 3 are secured by the 2016A restructuring property.

The issuer is issuing the bonds pursuant to the financing order, which authorizes: 1) the creation of the restructuring property; 2) the Authority to sell the restructuring property to the issuer under the financing order (the restructuring property is created simultaneous with its sale to the issuer); 3) the imposition, billing and collection of restructuring charges on, to and from the customers in the service area; 4) the issuance of the bonds by the issuer; 5) the issuer to use the bond proceeds to purchase the restructuring property from the Authority and pay upfront financing costs; and 6) the Authority to use the proceeds of the sale of the restructuring property to retire a portion of its outstanding debt.

The securitization law provides that the financing order is irrevocable and is not subject to modification or termination. The financing order acknowledges the state pledge.

Prior to the issuance of the bonds, the financing order requires the servicer to file an issuance advice letter with the Authority setting forth: 1) the expected savings to customers from the securitization; 2) the estimated ongoing financing costs; 3) the initial restructuring charge; and 4) the final terms of the bonds. The financing order authorizes a designee of the Authority to review and approve the issuance advice letter for the purpose of confirming that the stated terms are consistent with the financing order. The designee's approval will be final and incontestable.

The State Pledge

The securitization law includes a pledge from the State of New York to the bondholders that it will not (1) take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of restructuring property; or (2) reduce, alter or impair transition charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the owners of restructuring bonds, any assignee, and all financing entities, until any principal, interest and redemption premium in respect of restructuring bonds, all ongoing financing costs and all amounts to be paid to an assignee or financing party under an ancillary agreement are paid or performed in full, except as required by the adjustment mechanism described in the restructuring cost financing order.

Any action of the New York legislature adversely affecting the restructuring charges or the ability to impose, charge or collect the restructuring charges would likely require the State of New York to pay just compensation under the "takings clause" of the United States and State of New York Constitutions.

The state pledge provides protection to bondholders. To the extent the Authority or the State of New York have obligations under the financing order (e.g. to file for true-up adjustments), the securitization law provides that the owner of the restructuring property (the issuer), or the trustee representing the bondholders, are expressly permitted to bring actions for enforcement of the financing order.

The Restructuring Charges

Under the financing order, the servicer (on behalf of the issuer as owner of the restructuring property) has the right to impose, bill and collect irrevocable and nonbypassable restructuring charges from all of the Authority's customers in an amount sufficient to: 1) pay interest on the bonds when due and principal of each tranche of bonds according to the related expected amortization schedule; 2) pay the fees and expenses of the securitizations' service providers; and 3) replenish the operating reserve and debt service reserve subaccounts to the required levels.

There is no cap on the level of restructuring charges that the servicer may impose on ratepayers through the true-up adjustment mechanism. This is designed to ensure the expected collection of amounts sufficient to timely pay the amounts specified above. Accordingly, the restructuring charges may continue to be imposed and collected until the bonds are repaid in full, without any specified time limit.

The financing order authorizes the servicer to collect restructuring charges directly from the Authority's customers. The restructuring charge will be the same for all customer classes. Under the securitization law, the charges and any adjustments thereto are not subject to review or regulation by the New York State Department of Public Service, the staff arm of the New York Public Service Commission.

The restructuring charges are nonbypassable; "nonbypassable" as set forth in the securitization law and the financing order means that the customer is obligated to pay the restructuring charges (and may not legally avoid payment of such charges) as long as such customer is connected to the transmission and distribution (T&D) system assets (the Authority's delivery system, which includes transmission and distribution lines and substations) and is taking electric delivery service in the service area, even if such customer produces its own electricity or purchases electric generation services from a provider of electric generation services other than the owner of the T&D system assets and even if the Authority no longer owns the T&D system assets. Thus, the only way customers can avoid restructuring charges is if they are fully cut off from the T&D system assets.

The Service Area

The Authority provides electric T&D services in its service area which includes two counties in Long Island, NY – Nassau County and Suffolk County (except for the Nassau County villages of Freeport and Rockville Centre and the Suffolk County village of Greenport, each of which has its own municipal electric system) – and a small portion in Queens, NY known as the Rockaways. The population of the service area is around three million.

The securitization law defines the service area as the geographical area within which the Authority provided electric T&D services as of July 29, 2013. Thus, the service area is fixed by the legislation.

As of December 31, 2015, the service area included approximately 1.1 million customers. In 2015, retail electric usage was 54.4% residential, 43.5% commercial, 0.7% street lighting and 1.5% other public authorities. Exhibit 4 below shows the service area.

Statutory Uncapped True-Up Adjustment Mechanism

Under the securitization law and the financing order, the servicer will adjust the restructuring charges through the securitization's true-up mechanism to ensure timely bond payments. The adjustments to the charges will continue until the bonds are repaid in full and there is no cap on the amount of charges that may be imposed on customers resulting from the adjustments.

The mechanics of the true-up adjustments are as follows:

1. Initial true-up adjustment to the restructuring charges will be made on November 15, 2016
2. Standard mandatory annual adjustments to the restructuring charges to correct for any over-collections or under-collections to date and anticipated to be experienced up to the date of the next annual adjustment and to ensure that the expected collections are sufficient to timely pay interest and scheduled principal (according to the expected amortization schedule) on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
3. Mandatory semiannual adjustments to the restructuring charges only if the servicer forecasts that charge collections will be insufficient to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
4. Voluntary semiannual adjustments to decrease the restructuring charges to customers if the servicer forecasts that charge collections will be greater than the amount required to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs

5. More frequent adjustments at any time without limits as to the frequency to ensure that the expected charge collections are adequate to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
6. After the last scheduled maturity date of the bonds (of any series), quarterly adjustments to ensure that charge collections will be sufficient to timely pay interest and principal on the next payment date, in addition to all other ongoing financing costs; the adjustments will be set at levels estimated to generate revenues sufficient to fully repay the bonds on the next payment date, plus all other ongoing financing costs

All adjustments will be designed to cause: 1) the outstanding principal balance of the bonds (or any series of bonds) to be equal to the scheduled balance (based on the expected amortization schedule); 2) the amount in the operating reserve and debt service reserve subaccounts to be equal to the required levels; and 3) with respect to the annual true-up only, any amount in the excess funds subaccount to be equal to zero by the payment date immediately preceding the effective date of the next annual adjustment.

Servicing

LIPA, acting as servicer under the servicing agreement, or any successor servicer as the financing order provides, will be responsible for servicing the restructuring property, including: 1) obtaining meter reads; 2) forecasting electricity usage; 3) calculating, billing and collecting the restructuring charges; 4) processing, accounting for and depositing charge collections and making periodic remittances; 5) calculating and implementing the true-up adjustments to the restructuring charges; 6) investigating and handling delinquencies and selling defaulted or written off accounts; 7) responding to inquiries from customers, the Authority, or any governmental authority regarding the restructuring property and the restructuring charges; and 8) furnishing periodic reports and statements.

Although LIPA is the named servicer for this securitization, PSEG-LI, a subsidiary of Public Service Enterprise Group Incorporated (PSEG, Baa2 positive), will perform LIPA's key servicing duties pursuant to an operations services agreement, including billing and collecting the restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage, among others. PSEG is a publicly traded energy and energy services company. As of December 31, 2015, it had total assets of approximately $37.5 billion, last twelve months revenues of approximately $10.4 billion; and employed approximately 13,000 people. PSEG is the parent holding company of PSEG Power LLC, New Jersey's largest wholesale merchant generator with approximately 13.1 GW of capacity; Public Service Electric and Gas Company, New Jersey's largest regulated electric and gas T&D utility; and PSEG Energy Holdings L.L.C., which owns a portfolio of leveraged leases and is also pursuing investments in renewable generation.

There is no named backup servicer at closing though the financing order allows for a replacement servicer if the current servicer defaults in its performance obligations. In addition, the financing order allows the servicing fee to step-up from 0.05% to 0.60% of the initial principal balance of the bonds if LIPA is replaced as servicer by a successor servicer not affiliated with the owner of the T&D system assets.

Billing

PSEG-LI will perform LIPA's duties of billing and collecting the restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage. LIPA will be responsible for the true-up adjustments and certain reporting requirements.

Under the securitization law and the financing order, if and to the extent that third parties are allowed to bill and/or collect any restructuring charges in the future while the bonds are outstanding, LIPA, any successor servicer, and any owner of the T&D system assets will take steps to ensure nonbypassability and minimize the likelihood of default by third-party billers. Further, LIPA and any successor servicer will not permit implementation of any third-party billing or collection that would result in a reduction or withdrawal of the current ratings on the bonds.

The provision of electric service to customers by LIPA is governed by the Home Energy Fair Practices Act (HEFPA). LIPA's credit and collections practices, including the ability to terminate (disconnect) service, are governed by HEFPA.

Assets Analysis

Legal Analysis

Under the laws of New York and the United States, New York could not constitutionally take any legislative action, including the repeal or amendment of the securitization law, which would substantially limit, alter or impair the restructuring property or other rights vested in the bondholders pursuant to the financing order or substantially limit, alter, impair or reduce the value or amount of the restructuring property, unless (1) such action is a reasonable exercise of the State of New York's sovereign powers that appropriately furthers a legitimate public purpose; and (2) if such action constituted a permanent appropriation of the bondholders' substantial property interest in the restructuring property and deprived them of their reasonable expectations arising from their investments in the bonds, under the takings clauses of the federal and New York Constitutions, New York could not take such action without paying just compensation to the bondholders as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction.

New York does not have a referendum or initiative process by which the securitization law may be challenged. Therefore, the only way for the securitization law to be changed would be through a legislative action which would be subject to the state pledge.

Bondholders (or the trustee acting on their behalf) could challenge under the Contract Clause of the United States Constitution the constitutionality of any repeal or amendment of the securitization law or any other action or failure to take any action required by the state pledge that limits, alters or reduces the value of the restructuring property or the restructuring charges before the bonds are repaid in full, unless such action is necessary to further a significant and legitimate public purpose.

Under existing case law, assuming the takings clause applies under the federal and New York Constitutions, respectively, the State of New York would likely be required to pay just compensation to the bondholders if the State undertook a repeal or amendment of the securitization law or took any other action or failed to take any action required by the state pledge before the bonds are repaid in full that: 1) permanently appropriates the related restructuring property or denies all economically productive use of the related restructuring property; 2) destroys the restructuring property, other than in response to emergency conditions; or 3) substantially reduces, alters or impairs the value of the restructuring property so as to unduly interfere with the bondholders' reasonable expectations arising from their investments in the bonds.

The financing order provides that the restructuring property may be pledged to secure the payment of the bonds, financing costs, and other amounts owed. The securitization law provides that a valid and enforceable security interest in the restructuring propery will attach and be perfected at the time the pledge is made. The lien and security interest attach without any physical delivery of collateral or other act. The securitization law provides that the pledge is continuously perfected and has priority over any other lien created by the operation of law or otherwise that may be created subsequently.

Strong Service Area

Long Island's economy benefits from a highly skilled labor force, close proximity to New York City, more than 20 colleges and universities and core research institutions.

Long Island's median household income is substantially above that of New York State and the US. According to estimates from the US Census Bureau, the 2014 median household income for Nassau County and Suffolk County was $99,035 and $86,266, respectively, considerably higher than the $58,878 for New York State and the $54,562 for the US. According to the Authority, while the cost of electricity in the service area is higher than the national average, the cost of electricity as a percentage of income is below the national average.

Remote Risk of Severe Ratepayer Base Declines

The Series 2016B bonds are exposed to the risk of declines in the ratepayer base in the service area. However, declines in the ratepayer base dramatic enough to impact the rating of the bonds are unlikely given the size, projected population growth and economic stability of the service area's stable ratepayer base. We view the risks to the transaction of ratepayer base declines due to any of these factors to be low.

Self-Generation

We look at the potential for increased use of self-generation as a minor headwind to the transaction. Self-generation, which primarily includes solar, reduces the ratepayer base and increases the burden of restructuring charges on other non-self-generating ratepayers. Customers that self-generate will only be responsible for paying restructuring charges based upon their net-billed consumption. The securitization law and financing order do not provide for exit fees to be charged to any customers that might leave the grid to self-generate.

Change in Service Area

We look at the risk of a ratepayer base decline due to a change in the service are to be minimal. The restructuring charge will be recoverable from all customers taking T&D service. As of July 29, 2013, the securitization law defines the service area to include two counties in Long Island, NY – Nassau County and Suffolk County (except for the Nassau County villages of Freeport and Rockville Centre and the Suffolk County village of Greenport, each of which has its own municipal electric system) – and a small portion in Queens, NY known as the Rockaways. Thus, the service area is fixed by the legislation. If the service area expands in the future, the new customers would be subject to the restructuring charge on a going-forward basis.

Municipalization

We view the risk to the ratepayer base due to municipalization as low due to the nonbypassability of the charges. Moreover, municipalization would not affect restructuring charge collections since a successor and its customers will be subject to the restructuring charges, even if the T&D system assets are no longer owned by the Authority. Since 1998, no municipalizations have occurred in the service area.

Storm Damage

We view the risk of reduced collections due to weather to be low, and substantially mitigated via the true-up mechanism. Hurricanes, tropical storms or wind storms may impact the Authority's operations, temporarily interrupting transmission, distribution and consumption of electricity, hence reducing the collections of restructuring charges. There might be longer-lasting weather-related adverse effects on residential and commercial development and economic activity in the Authority's service area, which could cause the per-kWh restructuring charge to be greater than expected.

Forecasting Electricity Consumption

The Authority's internal company forecasts are used for projections of electricity price and weather conditions. The forecast incorporates customer usage, delinquencies and write-offs, among other inputs.

The Authority assesses the restructuring charges based on its forecasts of customer usage. The amount and the rate of restructuring charge collections will depend in part on actual electricity consumption and the amount of collections and write-offs.

Exhibit 9 below shows the forecasted restructuring charge per 1,000 kWh and scheduled debt service payments.

Forecast Variance

For there to be insufficient funds to pay ultimate principal and timely interest on the bonds, there would need to be unexpected, persistent and extensive drops in electricity consumption. Additionally, there may be insufficient funds if the servicer inaccurately forecasts electricity consumption or uses inaccurate customer delinquency or charge-off data when setting or adjusting the 2016B restructuring charges. We view this risk as remote, as the maximum forecast variance since 2011 has been less than 6% per customer category, as shown in Exhibit 10.

Cash Flow Analysis

We examined the cash flows that the restructuring charges will generate under various scenarios. In light of the strength of the ratepayer base, the purpose was primarily to see how high the restructuring charges can go as a percentage of a 1,000 kWh residential customer's bill and also to illustrate how the restructuring charges behave under various stress scenarios of customer demand. Our rating is primarily based on qualitative analysis of the political, legal and regulatory aspects of the securitization and the strength of the ratepayer base. However, we run these stress scenarios to confirm that the level of the restructuring charges is consistent with other comparable transactions.

Even if the financing order is irrevocable, the restructuring charges or the law that authorizes them could be subject to challenge in the courts or to future political pressure to rescind or change them through legislation. Such challenge is more likely the higher the charges, i.e., the more the economic incentive for a challenge, or in circumstances where the financial imbalances in a utility system increase. Consequently, our economic analysis focuses on the size of the restructuring charge, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the customer's energy bill. In our more extreme scenarios, the percentage of a residential customer's monthly bill devoted to the restructuring charge is as high as 22.74%, higher than most other utility cost recovery charge securitizations. This concern is mitigated by the Authority's securitization offset rider, which reduces the delivery charge in an amount equal to any increase in the restructuring charge to keep customers' total monthly bills stable.

The Authority expects the combined initial restructuring charge for the 2013, 2015, 2016A and 2016B transactions to be around 7.8% of the total monthly bill that an average 1,000 kWh residential customer in the service area would receive as of June 15, 2017, which is higher than most other utility cost recovery charge securitizations we rate. The 7.8% is preliminary and subject to change based on market conditions.

We looked at three scenarios:

Scenario Description and Projected Output

Base Scenario

1. Electricity consumption as per the Authority's projections
2. Implied net charge-offs of 0.62%
3. Collection curve projects 20.0% of collections within 30 days and 80.0% of collections between 30-60 days
4. Servicing fee is 0.05% on an annualized basis of the original principal amount of bonds so long as the servicer remains LIPA or an affiliate. While a back-up servicer has not been retained, the issuer can increase servicing fees to 0.60% to attract one if needed.

Stress Scenario 1

1. Electricity consumption decreases linearly by 5% every year until it reaches 50% of the projected consumption for residential customers and 65% for non-residential customers
2. Annual net charge-offs are the same as in base case
3. Collection curve is the same as in base case

4. Loss of 100% of the collections from the peak consumption month and 50% of the collections from the second highest consumption month each year

5. Replacement servicing fee of 0.60% per year of the initial bond balance with other expenses the same as in the base case

Stress Scenario 2

1. Electricity consumption is reduced by 25% permanently against the first year base case projection

2. Annual net charge-offs the same as in base case

3. Collection curve is the same as in base case

4. Servicing fee and all other fees the same as in base case

For all of the scenarios, the bonds are fully paid by their legal final maturity dates. Exhibit 11 shows the projected restructuring charge as a percentage of a 1,000 kWh residential customer's total bill, and Exhibit 12 shows the projected restructuring charges for customers per 1,000 kWh over the securitization's life. The periodic variance in the charges under the stress scenarios is due to the semiannual true-ups capturing seasonality in electricity usage.

Comparables

As shown in Exhibit 13, stress scenario 1 is more stressful and results in a peak restructuring charge equal to about 22.74% of a 1,000 kWh per month customer's bill. This is high compared to other utility cost recovery deals.

Exhibit 13

Securitization Structure Overview

On the closing date, the Authority will sell the restructuring property to the issuer pursuant to a sale agreement between the issuer and the Authority. LIPA will be the servicer of the restructuring property. PSEG-LI will perform LIPA's key servicing duties pursuant to an operations services agreement, including billing and collecting restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage, among others.

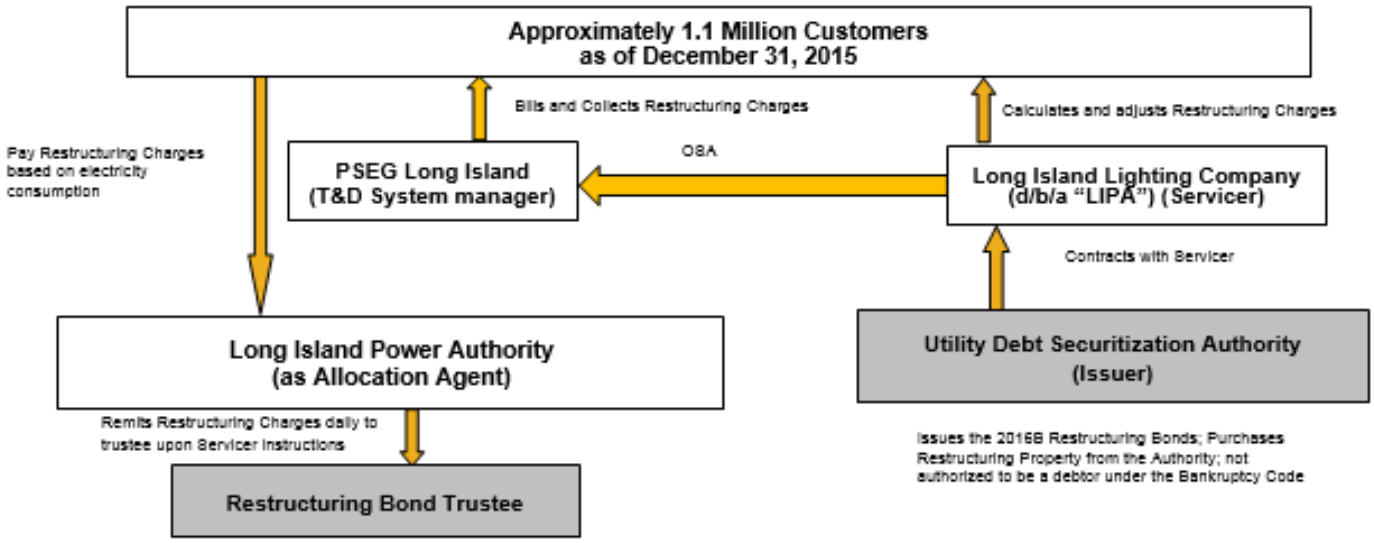
Securitization Structure Description

Structural Diagram

Exhibit 14 below illustrates the relationships between the transaction parties and bondholders.

Exhibit 14

Structural Diagram



Source: Utility Debt Securitization Authority, Restructuring Bonds, Series 2016B Preliminary Official Statement dated July 28, 2016

1. The issuer purchases the restructuring property from the Authority and issues the Series 2016B bonds
2. The issuer contracts with LIPA as servicer to calculate and adjust the restructuring charges
3. LIPA contracts with PSEG-LI to bill and collect the restructuring charges

4. Electric utility customers pay restructuring charge on electricity bills based on electricity consumption
5. The Authority, as allocation agent, remits the restructuring charges to the trustee on a daily basis

Detailed Description of the Structure

Credit Enhancement

Credit enhancement for the bonds will be provided by the true-up mechanism, as well as by the debt service reserve account. The primary purpose of the excess funds subaccount is not to provide credit enhancement for the bonds but to hold funds collected in amounts that were more than necessary to pay current debt service. However, amounts in the excess funds subaccount may be used to make debt service payments on the bonds when needed.

Operating Reserve Account

On or before the date of issuance of the bonds, the Authority will deliver to the trustee for deposit into the operating reserve account an amount not less than 0.50% of the initial aggregate principal amount of the Series 2016B bonds. Amounts may be withdrawn from the account to pay scheduled principal on the Series 2016B bonds, provided however that an amount not less than 0.50% remains on deposit in the account.

Debt Service Reserve Account

On or before the date of issuance of the bonds, the issuer will make a capital contribution to the trustee in an amount not less than 1.5% of the aggregate outstanding principal amount of the bonds, which will be deposited in the debt service reserve account. Under the financing order, any funds in the debt service reserve subaccount in excess of the required debt service reserve level shall be retained in the subaccount and applied to subsequent payments.

Cash Commingling

The servicer is entitled to commingle the restructuring charges that it receives with its own funds until it remits the funds to the indenture trustee on a daily basis. The securitization law provides that the priority of a lien and security interest is not impaired by the commingling of funds arising from restructuring charges with other funds.

No less often than annually, the servicer and the indenture trustee will reconcile remittances of estimated recovery charge collections with actual payments received. To the extent the remittances of estimated payments exceed the amounts that should have been remitted, the servicer will be entitled to withhold the excess amount from any subsequent remittance. To the extent the remittances of estimated payments are less than the amount that should have been remitted, the servicer will remit the amount of the shortfall to the allocation account within two business days. Any discrepancy between estimated and actual collections is mitigated by the true-up mechanism, which allows the Authority to adjust the restructuring charges at any time as needed to make timely interest and principal payments on the bonds.

Payment Priority

On each semiannual payment date, or for items 1 through 4 below, on any business day, the trustee will pay or allocate, at the direction of the servicer, all amounts on deposit in the collection account in the following order of priority:

1. to the trustee, i) all fees, expenses and ii) any outstanding indemnity amounts not to exceed $800,000 in each year;
2. to the servicer, the servicing fee and all prior unpaid servicing fees, capped at 0.60% of the aggregate principal balance of the bonds in each year;
3. to the administrator, the administration fee ($100,000 per year) and all prior unpaid administration fees;
4. the payment of all other operating expenses to the persons entitled to such payment;
5. to the bondholders, first, any overdue interest (together with, to the extent lawful, interest on such overdue interest at the applicable bond interest rate) and second, interest due on such payment date;
6. to the bondholders, principal due and payable on the bonds as a result of an event of default and an acceleration of the bonds or on the legal final maturity date of a tranche of bonds;

7. to the bondholders, principal for such payment date, sequentially according to the related expected amortization schedule;
8. to the trustee, indemnity amounts in excess of $800,000 in each year;
9. to the servicer, the servicing fee and all prior unpaid servicing fees in excess of 0.60% of the aggregate initial principal balance of the bonds in each year;
10. to the debt service reserve subaccount, the amount, if any, by which the required reserve level (1.5% of the aggregate outstanding principal balance of the bonds) exceeds the amount in the debt service reserve subaccount as of such payment date;
11. to the operating reserve subaccount, the amount, if any, by which the required operating reserve level (0.5% of the aggregate initial principal balance of the bonds) exceeds the amount in the operating reserve subaccount as of such payment date;
12. any funds in the debt service reserve subaccount in excess of the required debt service reserve level shall be retained in the debt service reserve subaccount and applied to clauses 5 through 7 above on the next payment date; and

If funds in the general subaccount are insufficient to make the payments required under items 1 through 9, the trustee will first, draw from amounts in the excess funds subaccount and second, draw from amounts in the operating reserve subaccount, in each case, to make the payments required under items 1 through 9. In addition, if funds in the general subaccount, together with moneys available in the excess funds subaccount and the operating reserve subaccount, are insufficient to make the payments required under items 5 through 7, the trustee will draw from amounts in the debt service reserve subaccount, up to the amount of such shortfall. If funds in the general subaccount are insufficient to make the allocations under item 10, the trustee will draw from amounts in the excess funds subaccount to make such allocations.

LIPA will calculate the annual true-up adjustment to eliminate any amounts in the excess funds subaccount by the payment date immediately preceding the effective date of the next annual true-up adjustment. Should LIPA perform a mid-year true-up adjustment, LIPA will similarly calculate the mid-year true-up adjustment to eliminate any amounts in the excess funds subaccount by the payment date immediately preceding the effective date of the next mid-year true-up adjustment.

Events of Default

An event of default with respect to the bonds is defined in the indenture as any one of the following events:

1. failure to pay interest or redemption price on any bond when due (after a five day cure period);
2. failure to pay principal of any tranche of a bond on the legal final maturity date for such tranche;
3. failure of the issuer to perform a covenant (after a cure period);
4. breach by the issuer of its representations or warranties (after a cure period);
5. commencement of an involuntary bankruptcy or similar proceeding against the issuer which remains in effect for 90 days;
6. commencement of a voluntary bankruptcy or similar proceeding by the issuer; or
7. an action violating the financing order or state pledge.

Issuance of Additional Bonds

The issuer can issue up to $4.5 billion in restructuring bonds over four distinct financing orders. To the extent the amount authorized is not issued under this fourth and final financing order, additional financings may be authorized by new financing orders to be adopted at a later date. Each series of restructuring bonds that may be issued will be backed by separate restructuring property the issuer acquires for the separate purpose of repaying that series. Any new series of such securities may include terms and provisions that would be unique to that particular series of restructuring bonds. However, the issuer may not issue additional restructuring bonds unless the rating agency condition for the bonds has been satisfied.

Asset Transfer, True Sale and Bankruptcy Remoteness

The securitization law provides that an electric utility's transfer of restructuring property is a true sale and is not a pledge of or a secured transaction relating to the electric utility's right, title and interest in the restructuring property (other than for federal and state income and franchise tax purposes) and that legal and equitable title passes to the transferee, if the agreement governing that transfer expressly states that the transfer is a sale or other absolute transfer.

The securitization law created the issuer, a bankruptcy-remote special purpose corporate municipal instrumentality, and a political subdivision and public benefit corporation of the State of New York. Under the securitization law, the issuer is not authorized to be a debtor under Chapter 9 or any other provision of the Bankruptcy Code.

The issuer was formed solely to purchase and own the restructuring property, to issue the bonds which are to be secured by the restructuring property, and to perform any activity incidental thereto. The issuer has no commercial operations.

The issuer will issue the bonds under an indenture with the trustee and will use the bond proceeds to purchase the restructuring property from the Authority and to pay the cost of issuing the bonds. The issuer will pledge the restructuring property to secure the bonds.

Sponsor and Seller

The Long Island Power Authority will be the securitization's sponsor and the seller of the restructuring property. The Authority is a corporate municipal instrumentality and a political subdivision of the State of New York, and is authorized to be a Chapter 9 debtor pursuant to its enabling legislation.

The Authority took over as the retail supplier of electric service in the service area in 1998 by acquiring the Long Island Lighting Company (LILCO) as a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Authority through a merger. Since the merger, LILCO has done business under the name "LIPA." LIPA, acting through LILCO provides electric delivery service in the service area.

The Authority is governed by a Board of Trustees and is generally not regulated by the New York Public Service Commission (PSC) or the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. The Authority is authorized under its enabling statute to set rates for electric service in the service area without obtaining the approval of the PSC or any other State regulatory body.

The Authority and LIPA are parties to a financing agreement providing for their respective duties and obligations relating to the financing and operation of the retail electric business. Under the agreement, LIPA conducts the electric business in the service area and is responsible for providing service to customers in the service area. The Authority and LIPA are also parties to an administrative services agreement pursuant to which the Authority provides personnel, personnel-related services and other services necessary for LIPA to provide electric service in the service area.

Administrator

LIPA will provide or arrange for the provision of administrative services to the issuer pursuant to an administration agreement, including services relating to the preparation of financial statements, required filings with the SEC, any tax returns the issuer might be required to file, qualifications to do business, and minutes of the issuer's managers' meetings. LIPA, as administrator, will be entitled to receive an annual administration fee of $100,000 payable annually, in arrears.

Securitization Structure Analysis

The key structural feature of this transaction is the true-up mechanism. Our rating is highly dependent on the extent to which the mechanism adjusts the charges to correct for past shortfalls or forecasted future shortfalls. The effectiveness of those rate changes in raising funds depends, in turn, on how easily customers can escape the charges and how sensitive electricity usage is to increases in the utility charges. Therefore, our analysis of the true-up mechanism goes together with our analysis of how bypassable the cost recovery charges are and how easily customers can cut back on electricity usage.

In this transaction, the strong true-up mechanism combined with nonbypassable charges mitigates the need for credit enhancement in the form of alternative sources of funds. The operating reserve and debt service accounts provide sufficient funds to offset the typical variance in collections versus projections in order to meet the projected amortization schedule between the semi-annual true-ups.

Methodology and Monitoring

The principal methodology used in this rating was Moody's Approach to Rating Securities Backed by Utility Cost Recovery Charges published in June 2015. Please see the Credit Policy page on www.moodys.com for a copy of this methodology.

Other methodologies and factors that may have been considered in the process of rating this issue can also be found in the Rating Methodologies sub-directory on www.moodys.com.

In monitoring this transaction, we apply the key components of our methodology. More specifically, we analyze whether bond balances are in line with the scheduled principal amortization, which indicates the extent to which payments have been in line with our original expectations.

We review the periodic information received and look at whether there has been a draw on the reserve accounts. This data point provides further clues as to the steadiness of the cash flows and accuracy of true-up adjustments.

In addition, we analyze the factors that determine the future strength of the transaction. For example, we monitor any legal or political developments that could indicate an increased risk of changes in the legislation that could impair future cash flows to the transactions. Such risk may materialize, for example, in case of continued high financial imbalances in the system that may lead the system deficit to be viewed as unsustainable over the long-term.

We also follow the economic health of the service region and the potential for changes in the size and composition of the ratepayer base. Furthermore, we monitor the rating of LIPA (as an indicator of its financial condition) to track the risk, typically quite small, that a bankruptcy could lead to disruption in billing and collections and in the remittance of payments to the bondholders.

Thus changes in our expectations and other analytical components could have an impact on the rating of the securities and may result in a reassessment of the rating.

Summary Rating Rationale

We have assigned provisional ratings to the five classes of bonds (Series A bonds, or the bonds) that Duke Energy Florida Project Finance, LLC (the issuer) will issue. The issuer is wholly-owned by Duke Energy Florida, LLC (DEF; A3 Stable), a subsidiary of Duke Energy Corporation (Baa1 negative), one of the largest utility holding companies in the US. DEF formed the issuer to securitize a special charge on DEF customers' utility bills. The charge is imposed to recover certain costs associated with DEF's retirement of its Crystal River Unit 3 (CR3) nuclear power plant, including certain capitalized costs of the retired nuclear generating asset and ancillary costs and fees, as well as financing costs associated with this issuance. The Series A bonds will be the first utility cost recovery bonds sponsored by DEF.

This pre-sale report addresses the structure and characteristics of the proposed transaction based on the information provided to Moody's as of 15 June 2016. Investors should be aware that certain issues concerning this transaction have yet to be finalized. Upon conclusive review of all documents and legal information as well as any subsequent changes in information, Moody's will endeavor to assign definitive ratings to this transaction. The definitive ratings may differ from the provisional ratings set forth in this report. Moody's will disseminate the assignment of definitive ratings through its Client Service Desk. This report does not constitute an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy any securities, and it may not be used or circulated in connection with any such offer or solicitation.

As a regulated utility, DEF is typically entitled to recover specified costs of acquiring, constructing and improving energy generating assets which are generally capitalized and recovered over the useful life of that asset. The Florida Public Service Commission (FPSC) has authorized DEF to recover a specified portion of DEF's remaining unrecovered capitalized and newly incurred costs associated with the early retirement of the CR3 nuclear plant (nuclear asset-recovery costs). The nuclear asset-recovery costs, together with interest and other financing costs, are recovered by irrevocable, binding, nonbypassable charges (nuclear asset-recovery charges) imposed on all DEF transmission and distribution customers for the total value of the nuclear asset-recovery costs. The right to impose, bill, collect and receive the nuclear asset-recovery charges (nuclear asset-recovery property) is the primary collateral backing the Series A bonds.

Our provisional ratings reflect our assessment of the legal and structural aspects of the transaction including the State of Florida's legislation, financing order and state pledge, the mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism, the relatively low level of the recovery charge as compared to prior rated utility cost recovery transactions, the large and diversified ratepayer base, and the credit quality of the servicer.

Credit Strengths

Strength of Legislation and Financing Order: The State of Florida's legislation (Section 366.95, Florida Statutes, or the securitization law), coupled with an irrevocable financing order that became final and non-appealable on December 19, 2015 permits the securitization and strongly protects the nuclear asset-recovery property securing the bonds. Similar to other utility cost recovery securitizations, this transaction benefits from the securitization law's inclusion of a state non-impairment pledge under which the State of Florida pledges to bondholders that it will not (1) alter provisions of the securitization law which make the nuclear asset-recovery charges irrevocable, binding, and nonbypassable; (2) take or permit any action that impairs the value of the nuclear asset-recovery property, or (3) except as authorized by the true-up adjustment mechanism, reduce, alter or impair nuclear asset-recovery charges until the bonds have been repaid in full (the state pledge). In addition, the securitization law and financing order contain the typical strong true-sale and security interest provisions.

FPSC's irrevocable financing order authorizes DEF to recover specified costs of retiring the CR3 nuclear plant by collecting nuclear asset-recovery charges. This nuclear asset-recovery property grants the issuer the right to impose, bill and collect, nonbypassable nuclear asset-recovery charges based on electricity usage, and related rights, including a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full. In this context, nonbypassable refers to the requirement that the charges be levied on all of DEF's existing and future retail electric customers receiving transmission and distribution services in DEF's service area, including customers of any DEF successor or assignee, and even if a customer elects to purchase electricity from an alternative electric supplier following a deregulation of public utilities in Florida.

True-Up Adjustment Mechanism: The true-up adjustment mechanism is the key form of credit enhancement supporting the bonds. The financing order authorizes an uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism that mandatorily adjusts nuclear-asset recovery charges semiannually (and quarterly after the last scheduled maturity date of the bonds of any series) to ensure timely bond payments. In addition, the financing order authorizes more frequent interim adjustments, at any time if the servicer deems necessary to ensure timely bond payments.

Relatively Low Recovery Charge: DEF expects the securitization's initial nuclear asset-recovery charge to represent around 2.5% of the total monthly bill that a 1,000 kilowatt hour (kWh) residential customer in DEF's service area will receive as of April 2016; this percentage charge is relatively low compared to charges in other utility cost recovery transactions. For context, the three most recent utility cost recovery bond issuances we rated, Utility Debt Securitization Authority, sponsored by LIPA, Entergy New Orleans Storm Recovery Funding I, LLC, and the Louisiana Utilities Restoration Corporation Project/ ELL, had a cumulative (including prior utility cost recovery charges to the same customer base) initial recovery charge amounting to 6.9%, 2.5%, and 3.7% of a 1,000 kWh residential bill, respectively.

Strength of the Ratepayer Base: The size, economic stability and diversity of the ratepayer base in DEF's service area is a credit strength. The service area includes the greater Gainesville, Orlando, St. Petersburg, and Tallahassee areas. The service area primarily includes a mix of residential customers (59% by revenue) and commercial customers (28% by revenue). Unlike most other utility cost recovery securitizations, the service area includes very few industrial customers (6% by revenue), which is a credit positive. Energy consumption by industrial customers is more volatile compared with other types of customers, because consumption by industrial operations is more closely tied to the business cycle.

Strength and Experience of the Servicer: We rate DEF A3 with a stable outlook. DEF does not have prior servicing experience with nuclear asset-recovery charges, but is highly experienced in calculating and implementing similar rates and charges under various cost recovery statutes and billing those amounts to customers. DEF has over one hundred years of experience in collecting similar charges from its customers.

Credit Challenges

Challenges to Securitization Law and Financing Order: Potential state and federal legislative and regulatory actions could weaken the legal protections of the nuclear asset-recovery property; however we view this risk as remote. Florida does not have a referendum or initiative process by which voters could challenge the securitization law. Therefore, the only way to repeal or amend the securitization law, or for FPSC to amend or revoke the financing order, would be through an amendment to the state constitution or a legislative action, either of which would violate the state pledge. The risk that the State of Florida would take legislative action that compromises its state pledge to the significant detriment of bondholders is remote because state impairment would give rise to claims under state and federal laws prohibiting government impairment of contracts and taking of private property without reasonable reimbursement under state and federal "taking" claims. The irrevocable and unconditional nature of the financing order mitigates any concern that it could be altered.

The people of the State of Florida have the right to amend the Florida Constitution through initiative powers. It is possible that the people of Florida, using their initiative powers, might amend or repeal the Florida Constitution in a manner affecting the securitization law. The process to propose a revision or amendment to the Florida Constitution by initiative is extremely burdensome. DEF is currently unaware of any efforts to amend the Florida Constitution in a manner which would affect the securitization law in any way.

On February 26, 2016, DEF was served with a class action lawsuit in which the plaintiffs allege that the nuclear cost recovery statute (Section 366.93, Florida Statutes) is unconstitutional on various grounds. The putative plaintiffs seek a refund of costs paid by DEF customers pursuant to the nuclear cost recovery statute. The securitization law is not the subject of this litigation.

We view the risk to bondholders from this litigation as remote. Several past challenges to securitization laws such as this have been unsuccessful, and even in the low likelihood event that this challenge is successful, the arguments put forward by the plaintiffs are generally not relevant to the securitization law.

Potential for Insufficient Collections: Collections arising from the nuclear asset-recovery property could fall short of required distributions on the bonds resulting from inaccurate forecasting of electrical consumption by the servicer, unanticipated delinquencies and defaults, population migration, self-generation and storm damage. DEF's estimates of market demand, energy prices and growth within its service area could also be inaccurate. These concerns are mitigated by the mandatory uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism, in which the servicer is required to adjust the charges periodically throughout the year to ensure timely payment of the bonds. These true-up adjustments occur semiannually and on an interim basis as needed.

Assets Overview

In February 2013, DEF announced it would close and decommission the CR3 nuclear power plant. The FPSC has authorized DEF to recover a portion of its remaining unrecovered capitalized and newly incurred costs associated with the early retirement of the plant (nuclear asset-recovery costs). The nuclear asset-recovery costs, together with interest and other financing costs, are recovered by irrevocable, binding, nonbypassable charges (nuclear asset-recovery charges) imposed on all DEF transmission and distribution customers for the total value of the nuclear asset-recovery costs. The right to impose, bill, collect and receive the nuclear asset-recovery charges is the primary collateral (nuclear asset-recovery property) backing the Series A bonds.

The bonds are also secured by funds on deposit in the collection account, including the general subaccount, the capital subaccount and the excess funds subaccount, by the issuer's rights under the various transaction documents, by the issuer's right to compel the servicer to file for and obtain true-up adjustments, and by all payments on or under the pledged collateral and by all proceeds in respect to the pledged collateral.

Assets Description

The Securitization Law

In 2015, the Florida legislature enacted the securitization law, codified as Section 366.95, Florida Statutes. The securitization law allows electric utilities to access lower-cost funds through nuclear asset-recovery bonds pursuant to financing orders issued by the FPSC. One purpose of the securitization law is to lower the cost to customers associated with the long-term financing of costs incurred in connection with the early retirement or abandonment of a nuclear generating asset unit. The early retirement or abandonment must be deemed reasonable and prudent by the FPSC through a final order approving a settlement or other final order issued by the FPSC before July 1, 2017, and the pretax costs to be financed must exceed $750 million.

The securitization law permits DEF to impose irrevocable, binding, nonbypassable nuclear asset-recovery charges on all future and existing customers receiving transmission or distribution service from DEF or its successors or assignees under FPSC-approved rate schedules or under special contracts sufficient to pay principal of and interest on the bonds and other administrative expenses of the offering. The FPSC governs the amount and terms for collections of these nuclear asset-recovery charges through one or more financing orders issued to DEF. Upon the issuance of the bonds these nuclear asset-recovery charges may not be reduced, impaired, postponed, terminated or otherwise adjusted by the FPSC except as adjusted pursuant to the true-up mechanism.

Florida and other states have passed legislation similar to the securitization law to authorize recoveries by utilities of specified costs, such as hurricane recovery costs, environmental control costs, or costs associated with deregulation of the electricity market, and some of those laws have been challenged by judicial actions or utility commission proceedings. To date, none of those challenges has succeeded.

The securitization law provides that a valid and enforceable security interest in nuclear asset-recovery property will attach only upon the later of: the issuance of a financing order, the execution and delivery of a security agreement with the indenture trustee in connection with issuance of a series of bonds, and the receipt of value for such bonds. Although not governed by the UCC, upon filing notice with the Florida UCC registry the lien and security interest will be continuously perfected. The security interest will have priority in the order of filing and take precedence over any subsequent judicial or other lien creditor. No continuation statements are necessary to maintain such perfection. The servicer pledges in the servicing agreement to file in the Florida UCC registry on or before the closing date and the seller will represent that no prior filing has been made.

The Financing Order

The FPSC issued an irrevocable financing order to DEF on November 19, 2015. That financing order became final and non-appealable on December 19, 2015. Pursuant to the financing order, DEF established the issuer to be a bankruptcy-remote special purpose subsidiary to issue the nuclear asset-recovery bonds. In the financing order, the FPSC authorized the imposition and collection of nuclear asset-recovery charges on all DEF transmission and distribution customers. DEF, as initial servicer, will collect nuclear asset-recovery charges on the issuer's behalf and will remit the nuclear asset-recovery charges to the indenture trustee.

The FPSC expects the financing order to result in a substantial cost savings to ratepayers of $708 million or $1.95 per month for 1,000 kWh, versus the traditional method of cost recovery under current and expected market conditions. The financing order has been praised publicly by regulators and consumer advocacy groups, further insulating the financing order from challenge.

The State Pledge

The securitization law includes a pledge from the State of Florida to the bondholders that it will not (1) alter the provisions of the securitization law which make the nuclear asset-recovery charges irrevocable, binding, and nonbypassable; (2) take or permit any action that impairs the value of nuclear asset-recovery property; or (3) except as authorized by the true-up adjustment mechanism, reduce, alter, or impair the nuclear asset-recovery charges until the bonds have been repaid in full.

Any action of the Florida legislature adversely affecting the nuclear asset-recovery charges or the ability to charge or collect the charges would likely require the State of Florida to pay just compensation under the "takings clause" of the US and Florida Constitutions. The seller agrees that it will institute any action or proceeding necessary to compel performance by the FPSC, the State of Florida or any of their respective agents of any of their obligations or duties under the securitization law or any financing order.

The Nuclear Asset-Recovery Charges

The nuclear asset-recovery charges are nonbypassable, consumption-based charges separate and apart from DEF's base rates; the nuclear asset-recovery charges are to be paid by all existing and future customers receiving transmission or distribution service from DEF or its successors or assignees under FPSC-approved rate schedules or under special contracts. Such customers must pay nuclear asset-recovery charges even if DEF goes out of business and its transmission and distribution services are taken over by another utility or if a customer elects to purchase electricity from an alternative electric supplier following a fundamental change in regulation of public utilities in Florida. No customer receiving transmission or distribution service from DEF can avoid the charge. The only way to avoid the charge is to disconnect from DEF's electric grid.

The nuclear asset-recovery charges are permitted to continue for 276 months from issuance, or until the bonds are paid in full. The expected scheduled final payment date for the Series A 2033 bonds is 240 months from issuance, providing up to an additional 36 months of nuclear asset-recovery charges if necessary to pay the bonds.

The Nuclear Asset-Recovery Costs

The nuclear asset-recovery charges authorized by the financing order allow DEF to recover nuclear asset-recovery costs related to retiring the CR3 nuclear plant located in Citrus County, Florida. CR3 was originally placed in service in 1977. In February 2013, DEF announced the early retirement of the project. DEF's unrecovered net investment in the project was approximately $1.6 billion. In October 2013, the FPSC approved a settlement agreement whereby DEF agreed to write-off approximately $300 million of its unrecovered net investment in CR3. The settlement agreement allowed DEF to recover its remaining unrecovered net investment in the project of approximately $1.3 billion over a 240 month period beginning no later than the first billing period of January 2017.

The nuclear asset-recovery costs financed by the bonds are equal to (i) the balance of the CR3 regulatory asset as of December 31, 2015 as allowed under the financing order minus (ii) $35,894,547, which, pursuant to the FPSC's Final Order PSC-16-0138-FOF-EI issued on April 5, 2016, shall not be included as part of the CR3 regulatory asset, plus (iii) carrying charges accruing at 6.0% per annum on the balance of the CR3 regulatory asset (adjusted as described in (ii) above) from December 31, 2015 through June 21, 2016.

Excluded from the amount being financed is $35,894,547 of costs claimed pursuant to Section 366.93, Florida Statutes. On February 26, 2016, DEF was served with a class action lawsuit in which the plaintiffs allege that the nuclear cost recovery statute (366.93) is unconstitutional on various grounds. The putative plaintiffs seek a refund of costs paid by DEF customers pursuant to the nuclear cost recovery statute. The securitization law is not the subject of this litigation.

The suit claims DEF unlawfully charged customer higher rates to cover more than $1.2 billion in expenses at its Crystal River nuclear power plant and at its proposed (and now shelved) Levy County nuclear plant site. In addition to the suit seeking relief for nuclear recovery costs, it also seeks to nullify as unconstitutional the nuclear cost recovery system and all nuclear cost recovery orders issued by the FPSC, and it seeks an order enjoining defendants from further unlawful charges. The likelihood of the lawsuit prevailing is low considering other lawsuits challenging the constitutionality of Florida's nuclear cost recovery statute have been found to be without merit and rejected by Florida courts.

The Service Area

DEF's service area covers approximately 13,000 square miles, including the greater Gainesville, Orlando, St. Petersburg, and Tallahassee areas, and supplies electric service to approximately 1.7 million residential, commercial and industrial customers. During the twelve months ended December 31, 2015, DEF billed approximately 38.6 billion kilowatt hours of electricity to its covered electric customers in Florida, resulting in revenues of approximately $4.4 billion. Exhibit 4 below shows a map of DEF's service area.

Statutory Uncapped True-Up Adjustment Mechanism

The securitization law and the financing order require that the issuer or DEF file with the FPSC at least semi-annually (and quarterly after the scheduled final payment date for the latest maturing bond) a letter applying the true-up mechanism to correct for any overcollection or undercollection of the nuclear asset-recovery charges and make any adjustments to ensure the recovery of revenues sufficient to provide for the timely payment of scheduled principal and interest on the bonds and other required amounts and charges. The FPSC's review of any adjustment request is limited solely to determining whether there is any mathematical error in the application of the formula-based mechanism.

Under the servicing agreement, the servicer will make adjustments to the nuclear asset-recovery charges at least semi-annually. In addition to the semi-annual true-up adjustment, the servicer is authorized to make interim adjustments at any time for any reason to ensure the timely payment on the bonds. In addition, the servicer will make a non-standard true-up adjustment to be effective simultaneously with a base rate change that includes any change in the rate allocation among customers used to determine the nuclear asset-recovery charges. Exhibit 5 below illustrates the true-up mechanism.

Under the irrevocable financing order, the FPSC guarantees it will act, as directed by the securitization law, to implement the true-up mechanism for making any adjustments that are necessary to correct for any overcollection or undercollection of the nuclear asset-recovery charges or to otherwise ensure the timely payment of principal of and interest on the bonds when due.

Servicing

DEF will be the initial servicer of the bonds. DEF, as servicer, will be responsible for, among other things, calculating, billing, collecting and posting the nuclear asset-recovery charges from customers, submitting requests to the FPSC to adjust these charges, monitoring the collateral for the bonds and taking certain actions in the event of non-payment by a customer. The indenture trustee's receipt of collections in respect of the nuclear asset-recovery charges, which will be used to make payments on bonds, will depend in part on the skill and diligence of the servicer in performing these functions.

DEF does not have prior servicing experience with nuclear asset-recovery charges, but is highly experienced in calculating and implementing similar rates and charges under various cost recovery statutes and billing those amounts to customers. DEF has over one hundred years of experience in collecting similar charges from its customers.

DEF will be entitled to receive an annual servicing fee in an amount equal to 0.05% of the aggregate initial principal amount of the bonds. This servicing fee will be payable in equal installments on each semi-annual payment date, in arrears. If DEF or any of its affiliates is not the servicer, the successor servicing fee may be up to 0.60% of the initial principal amount of the bonds unless a higher fee is approved by the FPSC.

In the event of a servicer default, the indenture trustee, at the direction of a majority of bondholders or at the direction of the FPSC, may terminate the rights and obligations of the servicer under the servicing agreement. However, replacement of the servicer would require the agreement of the indenture trustee and the administrative agents under DEF's accounts receivable sale programs.

Credit, Billing and Budget Billing

DEF is required to provide transmission and distribution service to all qualified customers. First time customers establishing residential electric accounts are generally required to pay a deposit as are customers that do not satisfy threshold credit score requirements.

The amount of the deposit reflects the estimated use over a two-month period, which is the maximum DEF may collect by law. As a general rule, non-residential accounts require deposit coverage. Consumer credit is not used to determine credit worthiness on non-residential accounts.

DEF bills its customers once every 24 to 39 days and distributes approximately 85,000 bills on each business day to its customers. Approximately 6% of DEF's residential customers choose to be billed using DEF's budget billing program. For these customers, DEF determines and bills a monthly budget based on the last twelve months of billing history for each account. Budget billing does not affect the amount of nuclear asset-recovery charges that the servicer remits to the indenture trustee on a daily basis.

Bills are due 21 calendar days after the issue date at which time they are considered delinquent. For the year ended December 31, 2015, approximately 6% of total billed retail revenue became eligible for disconnect and 1% was disconnected. Approximately 87% of accounts disconnected for nonpayment ultimately make full payment and have service restored. Unpaid final bills are written off approximately 30 days after the final bill is issued.

Exhibit 6 below shows net write-offs since 2004, which have ranged from a low of 16bps of billed revenue in 2004 to a crisis period peak of 37bps in 2009. DEF's forecast is 26 bps, consistent with the post-crisis performance history.

While more than 7.5% of customers are typically 30-59 days past due, by the third month most delinquencies are cured, with those still outstanding past 90 days well under 1% throughout the observation period. Exhibit 7 shows DEF customer delinquency data since 2005.

Strong Service Area

This transaction benefits from the size and diversity of the ratepayer base within DEF's service area and the projected population growth and economic stability of the ratepayer base. During 2015, approximately 9% of DEF's total retail billed electric consumption was by industrial customers, approximately 31% was by commercial customers and approximately 52% was by residential customers, with other entities comprising approximately 8%. Exhibit 8 shows the percentage of total billed revenue attributable to each customer class since 2004.

For the year ended December 31, 2015, the ten largest retail electric customers represented approximately 8.3% of DEF's retail kilowatt-hour sales. There are no material concentrations in the residential class. As of the closing date, no customer or group of related commercial or industrial customers will be obligated to pay more than 10% of the nuclear asset-recovery charges.

Remote Risk of Severe Ratepayer Base Declines

The ratepayer base is sensitive to many macroeconomic factors, including service area population and household formation growth, expected disconnects due to use of self-generation, changes in the service area and potential municipalizations. We view the risks to the transaction of ratepayer base declines due to any of these factors to be low.

Population Growth

Florida's robust population trend is a benefit to the transaction. According to the Census Bureau, the state's population grew an average of 1,000 residents per day in 2015. This 1.8% increase was the largest since 2006 and the strongest in the South. Despite the rapid rise, population growth will likely accelerate further because the pace remains historically weak. In the 50 years before the Great Recession, annual population growth in the state exceeded last year's pace by 47 times. Florida should also expect faster expansion because its cities appeal to Hispanics—the nation's fastest growing ethnic group—and retiring baby boomers— the fastest-growing age group in the U.S. In 2015, for the third consecutive year, The Villages, Central Florida's retiree haven, was the nation's fastest growing metro area in population. Exhibit 10 shows that growth in the average number of DEF retail electric customers since 2010.

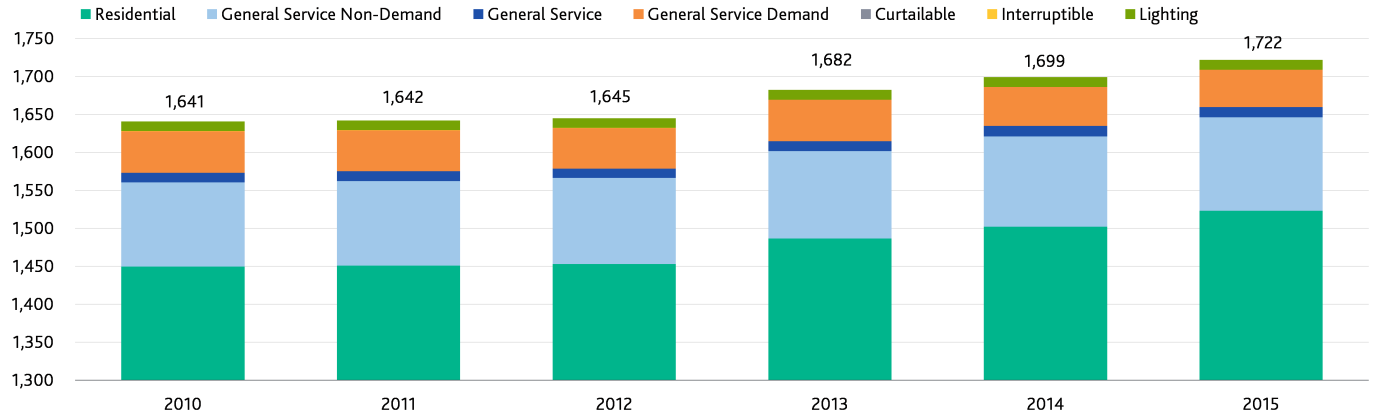
Exhibit 10
Average Number of Retail Electric Customers



Source: DEF

Self-Generation

We look at the potential for increased use of self-generation as a minor headwind to the transaction. Self-generation, which primarily includes solar, reduces the ratepayer base and increases the burden of nuclear asset-recovery charges on other non-self-generating ratepayers. Based on existing legislation precluding the use of third-party owned solar equipment, DEF expects the estimated cost of self-generation for customers, combined with the practical obstacles to installing on-site generation, to limit self-generation from being installed by any meaningful number of customers within the service area. DEF forecasts self-generation to grow slowly over the next three years, and incorporates self-generation into its electricity consumption forecasts. The securitization law and financing order do not provide for exit fees to be charged to any customers that might leave the grid to self-generate.

Change in Service Area

We look at the risk of a ratepayer base decline due to a change in the service are to be minimal. The nuclear asset-recovery charge will be recoverable from all DEF customers taking transmission or distribution service from DEF. Thus, if the service area expands in the future, the new DEF customers would be subject to the nuclear asset-recovery charge on a going-forward basis. Pursuant to the financing order, any successor to DEF is required to perform all obligations and have the same rights under the financing order as DEF, including the collection of the nuclear asset-recovery charges from customers and payment of appropriate amounts to the issuer.

Municipalization

We view the risk to the ratepayer base due to municipalization as low due to the nonbypassability of the charges and the likelihood that even after a municipalization, DEF's transmission and distribution services will continue to be used. While multiple municipal utilities exist in Florida, DEF is unaware of any municipality that has municipalized, or attempted to municipalize, a portion of an investor-owned utility's service territory in the absence of an agreement. One municipality, the City of Winter Park, was municipalized pursuant to such an agreement. DEF previously had a franchise agreement that provided Winter Park with a unilateral purchase option at the expiration of the franchise agreement. In the instance of the Winter Park municipalization, DEF sought affirmative permission from the FPSC to be relieved of its obligation to serve the City of Winter Park, which the FPSC subsequently approved. Any municipality using DEF's transmission and distribution system following a municipalization will be considered a successor and its customers will be subject to the nuclear asset-recovery charge.

Storm Damage

We view the risk of reduced collections due to weather to be low, and substantially mitigated via the true-up mechanism. Hurricanes, tropical storms or wind storms may impact DEF's operations, temporarily interrupting transmission, distribution and consumption of electricity, hence reducing the collections of nuclear asset-recovery charges. There might be longer-lasting weather-related adverse effects on residential and commercial development and economic activity in the DEF service area, which could cause the per-kWh nuclear asset-recovery charge to be greater than expected.

The only year with any significant loss of energy consumption due to natural disasters was 2004, when a series of three Hurricanes struck the DEF service area. The impacts came from "Charley" (Aug 13-20), "Frances" (Sep 4-10) and "Jeanne" (Sep 25-30). Estimated lost energy sales came from studying reduced levels of daily system requirements totaling 400,000 MWh over these three disasters. This represents about 1% of the total annual electric usage for 2004 (38,193 GWh).

Forecasting Electricity Consumption

The nuclear asset-recovery charges are assessed based on forecasted customer usage. The amount and the rate of nuclear asset-recovery charge collections will depend in part on actual electricity consumption and the amount of collections and write-offs. If the servicer inaccurately forecasts electricity consumption or underestimates customer delinquency or write-offs when setting or adjusting the nuclear asset-recovery charges, there could be a shortfall or material delay in nuclear asset-recovery charge collections prior to the next true-up.

The forecast utilized in the proposed bond structure is the 2016 Ten Year Site Plan filed with the FPSC in April 2016. Internal forecasts are updated at least twice per year but are not filed with the FPSC. The DEF forecast of customers, energy sales, and peak demand applies both an econometric and end-use methodology. External sources of data include economic series from Moody's Analytics and State population data from the University of Florida's Bureau of Economic & Business Research. Internal company forecasts are used for projections of electricity price, and weather conditions. The forecast incorporates population and household trends, employment and production trends, technology and energy efficiency trends, and weather and climate trends. DEF has a more granular forecast for the phosphate industry, at the customer level, due to the high concentration of customers in this industry among DEF's industrial customer base.

Exhibit 11 shows the forecasted nuclear asset-recovery charge per 1,000 kWh and scheduled debt service payments.

Forecast Variance

For there to be insufficient funds to pay ultimate principal and timely interest on the bonds, there would need to be unexpected, persistent and extensive drops in electricity consumption. Without an interim true-up adjustment, greater than 60% forecast variance would be needed leading up to any payment date to cause a payment default. Greater than 65% forecast variance would be needed in the first payment period to cause a payment default, assuming the servicer makes an interim true-up adjustment midway into the first payment period. By contrast the maximum forecast variance since 2011 has been less than 6%, as shown in Exhibit 12.

Cash Flow Analysis

We examined the cash flows that the nuclear asset-recovery charges will generate under various scenarios. In light of the strength of the ratepayer base, the purpose was primarily to see how high the nuclear asset-recovery charges can go as a percentage of a 1,000 kWh residential customer's bill and also to illustrate how the nuclear asset-recovery charges behave under various stress scenarios of customer demand. Our rating is primarily based on qualitative analysis of the political, legal and regulatory aspects of the securitization and the strength of the ratepayer base. However, we run these stress scenarios to confirm the level of the nuclear asset-recovery charges is consistent with other comparable transactions.

Even if the financing order is irrevocable, the nuclear asset-recovery charges or the law that authorizes them could be subject to challenge in the courts or to future political pressure to rescind or change them through legislation. Such challenge is more likely the higher the charges, i.e., the more the economic incentive for a challenge, or in circumstances where the financial imbalances in a utility system increase. Consequently, our economic analysis focuses on the size of the nuclear asset-recovery charge, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the customer's energy bill. Even in our more extreme scenarios, the percentage of a residential customer's monthly bill devoted to the nuclear asser-recovery charge is less than 7%.

We looked at three scenarios:

Scenario Description and Projected Output

Base Scenario

1. Electricity consumption as per the projections by DEF, which increases annually by a compounded 1 - 1.5%, through bond maturity
2. Implied net charge-offs of 0.2615%
3. Collection Curve projects 13.3% of collections within 30 days and 86.4% of collections between 30-60 days
4. Servicing fee is 0.05% on an annualized basis of the original principal amount of bonds so long as the servicer remains DEF or an affiliate. While a back-up servicer has not been retained, the issuer can increase servicing fees to 0.60% to attract one if needed.

Stress Scenario 1

1. Electricity consumption decreases linearly by 5% every year until it reaches 50% of the projected consumption for residential customers and 65% for non-residential customers
2. Annual net charge-offs are the same as in base case
3. Collection curve is the same as in base case
4. Loss of 100% of the collections from the peak consumption month and 50% of the collections from the second highest consumption month each year
5. Replacement servicing fee of 0.60% per year of the initial bond balance with other expenses the same as in the base case

Stress Scenario 2

1. Electricity consumption is reduced by 25% permanently against the first year base case projection

2. Annual net charge-offs the same as in base case
3. Collection curve is the same as in base case
4. Servicing fee and all other fees the same as in base case

For all of the scenarios, the bonds are fully paid by their legal final maturity dates. Exhibit 13 shows the projected nuclear asset-recovery charge as a percentage of a 1,000 kWh residential customer's total bill, and Exhibit 14 shows the projected nuclear asset-recovery charges for customers per 1,000 kWh over the securitization's life. The periodic variance in the charges under the stress scenarios is due to the semiannual true-ups capturing seasonality in electricity usage.

Comparables

As shown in Exhibit 15, stress scenario 1 is more stressful and results in a peak nuclear asset-recovery charge equal to about 6.94% of a 1,000 kWh per month customer's bill. This is low compared to other utility cost recovery deals.

Exhibit 15
Maximum Recovery Charge Comparison (% of a 1,000 kWh Customer's Bill)

Securitization Structure Overview

On the closing date, DEF will sell the nuclear asset-recovery property to the issuer pursuant to a sale agreement between the issuer and DEF. DEF will service the nuclear asset-recovery property pursuant to a servicing agreement between the issuer and DEF.

Securitization Structure Description

Structural Diagram

Exhibit 16 below illustrates the relationships between the transaction parties and bondholders.

Exhibit 16

Source: DEF

1. FPSC issues financing order, permitted under state statute, that creates nuclear asset-recovery property in the hands of DEF
2. Via a true sale, DEF transfers the nuclear asset-recovery property to the issuer in exchange for cash payment
3. (a) Nuclear asset-recovery bonds issued in exchange for cash payment from bondholders (b) Nuclear asset-recovery property is pledged to indenture trustee for benefit of the bondholders
4. Electric utility customers pay charge on electricity bills on joint and several basis
5. Payments from electric utility customers used to pay principal and interest on the bonds
6. At least semi-annually, and, as frequently as monthly (any time), charge on all electricity customers adjusted to whatever level necessary (i.e., not subject to cap) to ensure timely principal and interest payments on the bonds

Credit Enhancement

Credit enhancement for the bonds will be provided by the true-up mechanism, as well as by the capital subaccount. The primary purpose of the excess funds subaccount is not to provide credit enhancement for the bonds but to hold funds collected in amounts that were more than necessary to pay current debt service. However, amounts in the excess funds subaccount may be used to make debt service payments on the bonds when needed.

Capital Subaccount

On or before the date of issuance of the bonds, DEF will make a capital contribution to the issuer in an amount not less than 0.5% of the initial principal amount of the bonds, which will be deposited in the capital subaccount. Under the financing order, DEF will be entitled to a return on this capital contribution equal to the rate of interest on the latest maturing bond and payable according to the priority of payment set forth in the indenture and the series supplement.

Cash Commingling

The servicer is entitled to commingle the nuclear asset-recovery charges that it receives with its own funds until the funds are remitted to the indenture trustee on a daily basis. The securitization law provides that the priority of a lien and security interest is not impaired by the commingling of funds arising from nuclear asset-recovery charges with other funds.

The servicer will remit nuclear asset-recovery charges based on estimated collections using a weighted average balance of days outstanding on DEF's retail bills. Nuclear asset-recovery charge collections remitted will represent the charges estimated to be received for any period based upon the average days outstanding and an estimated system-wide write-off percentage.

No less often than annually, the servicer and the indenture trustee will reconcile remittances of estimated nuclear asset-recovery charge collections with actual payments received. To the extent the remittances of estimated payments exceed the amounts that should have been remitted, the servicer will be entitled to withhold the excess amount from any subsequent remittance. To the extent the remittances of estimated payments are less than the amount that should have been remitted, the servicer will remit the amount of the shortfall to the indenture trustee within two business days.

Payment Priority

On each payment date, the indenture trustee will pay all amounts on deposit in the general subaccount of the collection account in the following order of priority:

1. payment of the indenture trustee's fees, expenses and outstanding indemnity amounts in an amount not to exceed annually $500,000 in the then current calendar year;
2. payment of the servicing fee plus any unpaid servicing fees from prior payment dates;
3. payment of the administration fee to the extent due on that payment date and of the fees of our independent manager plus any unpaid administration or management fees from prior payment dates;

4. payment of all of our other ordinary periodic operating expenses;
5. payment of the interest then due, including any past-due interest;
6. payment of the principal required to be paid on the final maturity date for each series or as a result of acceleration upon an event of default;
7. payment of the principal then scheduled to be paid in accordance with the expected sinking fund schedule, including any previously unpaid scheduled principal, paid pro rata among the bonds if there is a deficiency;
8. payment of any of our remaining unpaid operating expenses and any remaining amounts owed pursuant to the basic documents;
9. replenishment of any amounts drawn from the capital subaccount;
10. release to DEF of an amount equal to the rate of return on the amount contributed to the capital subaccount, including any portion of such rate of return for any prior payment date that has not yet been paid, so long as no event of default has occurred and is continuing; and
11. allocation of the remainder collected, if any, to the excess funds subaccount for future payments.

Events of Default

An event of default with respect to the bonds is defined in the indenture as any one of the following events:

1. a default for five business days in the payment when due of any interest on any bond;
2. a default in the payment of the then unpaid principal with respect to any series on the final maturity date for that series;
3. a default in the observance or performance of any covenants or agreements made by the issuer in the indenture or the series supplement (other than defaults described above) which continues for 30 days;
4. any representation or warranty made by the issuer having been incorrect in any material respect as of the time made, and such breach not having been cured within 30 days;
5. certain events of bankruptcy, insolvency, receivership or liquidation with respect to the issuer; or
6. a breach by the State of Florida or any of its agencies (including the FPSC), officers or employees that violates the pledge of the State of Florida.

Issuance of Additional Bonds

As authorized by the financing order, the issuer's organizational documents and the transaction documents give the issuer authority and flexibility to issue additional nuclear asset-recovery bonds in future transactions, with the approval of the FPSC. Each series of nuclear asset-recovery bonds that may be issued will be backed by separate nuclear asset-recovery property the issuer acquires for the separate purpose of repaying that series. Any new series of such securities may include terms and provisions that would be unique to that particular series of nuclear asset-recovery bonds. However, the issuer may not issue additional nuclear asset-recovery bonds unless the rating agency condition for the bonds has been satisfied.

Asset Transfer, True Sale and Bankruptcy Remoteness

The securitization law provides that an electric utility's transfer of nuclear asset-recovery property is a true sale and is not a pledge of or a secured transaction relating to the electric utility's right, title and interest in the nuclear asset-recovery property (other than for federal and state income and franchise tax purposes) and that legal and equitable title passes to the transferee, if the agreement governing that transfer expressly states that the transfer is a sale or other absolute transfer.

The issuer's limited liability company agreement requires that it have at least one independent manager, whose selection and replacement will be subject to ratification by the FPSC. The limited liability company agreement does not permit the issuer to engage in any activities not directly related to purchasing and owning the nuclear asset-recovery property and issuing one or more series of nuclear asset-recovery bonds. The list of permitted activities set forth in the limited liability company agreement may not be altered, amended or repealed without the affirmative vote of a majority of the managers, which vote must include the affirmative vote of the independent manager.

Sponsor and Seller

DEF is the sponsor of the transaction and the seller of the nuclear asset-recovery property. DEF, a Florida limited liability company, is a regulated public utility primarily engaged in the generation, transmission, distribution, and sale of electricity in portions of Florida. DEF is an indirect, wholly-owned subsidiary of Duke Energy Corporation, one of the largest regulated utility holding company in the US.

DEF is subject to the jurisdiction of the Florida Commission with respect to retail utility rates, accounting, utility services, certain facilities, certain asset transfers, certain corporate mergers and other matters. DEF is subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission under the Federal Power Act with respect to acquisitions, operations and disposals of certain assets and facilities, services provided and rates charged, conduct among affiliates and other matters, and its nuclear power plant is also subject to the jurisdiction of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Administrator

DEF will provide or arrange for the provision of administrative services to the issuer pursuant to an administration agreement, including services relating to the preparation of financial statements, required filings with the SEC, any tax returns the issuer might be required to file, qualifications to do business, and minutes of the issuer's managers' meetings. DEF, as administrator, will be entitled to receive an annual administration fee of $50,000 payable annually, in arrears. The administrator may not resign or be removed without satisfaction of the rating agency condition.

Securitization Structure Analysis

The Series A bonds are a relatively simple sequential structure without subordination and the capital subaccount provides sufficient funds to offset the typical variance in collections versus projections in order to meet the projected amortization schedule between the semi-annual true-ups.

Methodology and Monitoring

The principal methodology used in this rating was Moody's Approach to Rating Securities Backed by Utility Cost Recovery Charges published in June 2015. Please see the Credit Policy page on www.moodys.com for a copy of this methodology.

Other methodologies and factors that may have been considered in the process of rating this issue can also be found in the Rating Methodologies sub-directory on www.moodys.com.

In monitoring this transaction, we apply the key components of our methodology. More specifically, we analyze, whether bond balances are in line with the scheduled principal amortization, which indicates the extent to which payments have been in line with our original expectations.

We review the periodic information received and look at whether there has been a draw on the reserve accounts. This data point provides further clues as to the steadiness of the cash flows and accuracy of true-up adjustments.

In addition, we analyze the factors that determine the future strength of the transaction. For example, we monitor any legal or political developments that could indicate an increased risk of changes in the legislation that could impair future cash flows to the transactions. Such risk may materialize, for example, in case of continued high financial imbalances in the system that may lead the system deficit to be viewed as unsustainable over the long-term.

We also follow the economic health of the service region and the potential for changes in the size and composition of the ratepayer base. Furthermore, we monitor the rating of DEF (as an indicator of its financial condition) to track the risk, typically quite small, that a bankruptcy could lead to disruption in billing and collections and in the remittance of payments to the bondholders.

Thus changes in our expectations and other analytical components could have an impact on the rating of the securities and may result in a reassessment of the rating

OVERVIEW

- We affirmed our ratings on 68 classes from 31 stranded cost securitizations.
- All of the transactions are backed by stranded assets created by statute with credit enhancement provided by true-up mechanisms and reserve accounts supporting our 'AAA (sf)' ratings in accordance with our criteria for stranded cost securitizations.

NEW YORK (Standard & Poor's) Feb. 25, 2013--Standard & Poor's Ratings Services today affirmed its ratings on 68 classes from 31 stranded cost securitizations (see list).

The affirmations reflect the transactions' ongoing stable performance and their continued ability to pay interest and principal in a manner commensurate with an 'AAA (sf)' rating stress, in our view.

Stranded cost securitizations are typically backed by stranded assets created by statute with credit enhancement provided by true-up mechanisms and reserve accounts. As currently constructed, the enhancement supports our 'AAA (sf)' ratings in accordance with our criteria for stranded cost securitizations. These securities traditionally have been created under state legislation in conjunction with the state utility commission, with the utility as the seller/servicer of the assets. Key features of the deals include:

- There are irrevocable statutory provisions and regulatory approvals, including the creation of mandatory periodic true-up of a nonbypassable transition charge and an absolute transfer and first-priority security interest in transition property;
- The true-up mechanisms are in place to ensure the transition charge can be adjusted to reflect any deficit in collections, as well as any other credit enhancement accounts; and
- There are typically cross-collateralization features such that all the customer classes help pay down the bonds. There may be certain deals that have rate caps and/or do not allow cross-collateralization.

For more information on legal and economic defeasance, please see "Securitizing Stranded Costs," published Jan. 18, 2001 on RatingsDirect.

As part of our regular surveillance, we reviewed and affirmed 68 classes from 31 stranded cost transactions.

Standard & Poor's will continue to monitor the securitizations and take rating actions as we deem necessary according to our criteria.

STANDARD & POOR'S 17G-7 DISCLOSURE REPORT

SEC Rule 17g-7 requires an NRSRO, for any report accompanying a credit rating relating to an asset-backed security as defined in the Rule, to include a description of the representations, warranties and enforcement mechanisms available to investors and a description of how they differ from the representations, warranties and enforcement mechanisms in issuances of similar securities. Securitizing Stranded Costs

Electric utilities historically have enjoyed protected monopolistic status, in return for an obligation to provide service to the customer base whenever requested. In return, utilities have made significant long-term investments and entered into long-term power purchase contracts with the expectation that these would be recoverable through customer rates. In 1992, the enactment of the National Energy Policy Act introduced wholesale electric competition into the industry. Since then, almost half the states have taken steps toward a competitive retail market by legislating or ordering frameworks for "retail access," through which all customers will be able to choose their own electric generation supplier. With a competitive market taking shape, many utilities have found themselves saddled with significant unrecoverable contractual and sunk costs, generically known as stranded costs. These stranded costs are not new, but rather have already been approved by regulators and are incorporated in existing utility rates as part of traditional cost-plus regulation. If utilities are to compete in a deregulated market, however, they cannot pass these stranded costs along to customers. In many cases, the inability of a utility to recover a significant portion of these costs would result in significant financial deterioration, and in the worst cases, insolvency.

As noted, many legislatures and state regulatory commissions have established the means by which utilities can avert financial deterioration while also providing customers with lower rates. Asset-backed securitization is one such alternative. In several states, such as California, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Texas, New Jersey, Michigan, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Illinois, legislatures have enacted laws that enable utilities to finance the recover-y of at least a portion of their stranded costs by issuing bonds backed by a statutory right to recover stranded costs.

In December 1997, the three California investor-owned utilities: Pacific Gas & Electric Co., Southern California Edison Co., and San Diego Gas & Electric Co., securitized more than $6 billion of their approximately $28 billion of total stranded investment. During 1998, Illinois Power Co. securitized $864 million followed by Commonwealth Edison Co.'s $34 billion securitization transaction. In 1999, one Massachusetts utility and three Pennsylvania utilities completed securitization transactions. Boston Edison Company issued $725 million of rate reduction certificates. PECO Energy Co. issued $4 billion, PP & L Inc. issued $2.42 billion and West Penn Power Company issued $600 million of transaction bonds. In 2000, PECO issued an additional $1 billion and in 2001, utilities in New Jersey, Connecticut, Michigan, and Texas may come to market with rate reduction bonds.

Utilities in states that have not yet addressed industry restructuring through legislative action or regulatory order, such as Indiana, Kentucky, Florida, and North Carolina, are generally low-cost producers with limited, if any, stranded assets. These states are much less motivated, therefore, to pursue industry restructuring, let alone securitization, at the present time. Whether or not these states ultimately pass relevant legislation, however, the relative competitive standing of their utilities will inevitably be diluted as high-cost utilities in other states shed a substantial portion of their high-cost assets through securitization.

Standard & Poor's believes that securitization of stranded costs is at least neutral, and generally positive for utility credit quality. The utility acquires cash up front, instead of receiving an increasingly at-risk revenue stream over time. Proceeds of the securitization are expected to be used principally to shrink a utility's total capitalization structure, including retiring debt that carries a higher coupon than that borne by the highly rated securitized bonds. In most cases, these interest savings are passed along directly to customers in the form of lower rates. Generally, the amount of rate reduction bonds that the utilities issued was designed specifically to generate a legislatively mandated rate reduction for customers.

Business and Legal Overview

What Are Stranded Costs?

Stranded costs are broadly defined to include any costs that were incorporated in the traditional regulatory cost-plus scheme that cannot be passed on to customers in a competitive marketplace. The most significant of these stranded costs are investments in high-cost nuclear and fossil plants. They also include deferred and capitalized operating costs, conservation and economic development expenditures, nuclear decommissioning costs, and long-term contractual obligations with high cost nonutility generators.

In the past, utilities constructed large, centrally located plants to gain economies of scale in producing electricity. Extremely long construction lead times and overly aggressive demand forecasts caused management to err on the side of oversupply to meet customer demand. Furthermore, the monopoly environment meant utilities lacked a strong incentive to contain costs. Indeed, the larger a utility's rate base was, the more investment on which the utility could earn a return. In addition, costs were exacerbated by circumstances. The last round of base-load construction occurred in the late 1970s and early 1980s, which was an era of high inflation and high interest rates. Finally, the nuclear incident at Three Mile Island in 1979 resulted in heightened Nuclear Regulatory Commission supervision, extending the timetable for plant completions and elevating capital costs significantly.

Since that time, new technologies have greatly reduced the cost of building generating facilities. Even more importantly, the economics of building smaller plants have continued to advance. The lead time for construction has been drastically reduced, from as much as 10 years to as little as 18 months. This reduction is in part due to the construction of much smaller-scale highly efficient plants. As a result, the cost of incremental generation today is significantly lower than the embedded cost of plant of most utilities. The differential is most evident in nuclear plants. For instance, the 1,143 megawatt (MW) Nine Mile Point 2 nuclear plant, operated by Niagara Mohawk Power, was completed in 1988 at a cost of about $5,000 per kilowatt (kW), after a construction period of more than 10 years. This compares with a 500 MW gas-fired combined-cycle plant today that can be built in about 18 months at a cost of $450 to $550 per kW. While prudency hearings did lead to significant write-offs during the rate base proceedings of Nine Mile Point 2, the bulk of these costs were simply included in rates and are now being recovered from customers over a lengthy period of time.

Developments in Industry Environment

The enactment of the National Energy Policy Act of 1992 (NEPA) marks the beginning of the end of the last major government-protected monopoly. NEPA authorized the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) to mandate that utilities become open-access common carriers for wholesale electric sales, known as wholesale wheeling. Wholesale sales are bulk power sales between utilities or between a utility and a third-party producer. If two utilities are not interconnected, they would need access to a third party's transmission network to complete such a transaction.

The ability of a utility to sell power to an end user that is not within its franchise service territory, or the sale of power from an independent power producer to an end user, is called "retail wheeling." Currently, utilities are not permitted to engage in retail wheeling. However, retail customers, aware that there may be cheaper power sources than their current supplier, are pressuring state regulators to permit them to buy power from alternative suppliers. While most regulators agree that competition will lower the price of power, some assert that the objective is not merely to lower rates, but to provide customers with the option to choose their power provider. The vast majority of utilities and regulators concur that retail wheeling is inevitable, so states have had to grapple with how to make the transition from a regulated to a competitive environment. As mentioned earlier, many states have passed laws to phase in direct access to all customers and most of these legislative initiatives include securitization of stranded costs as a means of reducing utilities' financial exposure to a competitive retail environment.

Recovery of Stranded Costs

Vertically integrated electric utilities provide customers with three basic functions: generation, transmission, and distribution. Because of legal, regulatory, and technological advances, generation no longer displays monopoly characteristics. Transmission and distribution, or the "wires" function, on the other hand, will likely remain natural monopolies for the foreseeable future since it would be prohibitively expensive, and environmentally difficult, to construct redundant wires. Transmission consists of the high-voltage system that moves power in bulk from generating plants to an electric distribution system or a load center. Distribution receives stepped-down power, which is then transported at lower voltages to individual end users.

As part of various state legislative initiatives, utilities are being required to functionally, if not legally, disaggregate the vertically integrated components of their business. The costs of each function will be determined and itemized, or "unbundled," on customers' bills. While customers may purchase the actual electrons from a source other than their local utility, they must continue to transport this power over the distribution wires owned by their local utility. The local utility will use its wires system to charge customers for the services it provides, which will include transmission of power bought from other suppliers. Other services, such as billing and metering, could be maintained by the utility or could be opened to competition as well. Any stranded cost that is identified, isolated, and by mandate recoverable in utility rates, will also be recovered as a "wires charge;" it cannot be recovered as part of a generation charge, since customers may purchase generation from an alternative source.

Stranded costs, which have been realized as such only with the prospect of a competitive market, are included in current utility rates, but they are being amortized over as long a period as 30 to 40 years. Utilities need to accelerate the recovery of these above-market costs as quickly as possible if they are to lower their rates in preparation for a competitive environment.

Statutory Securitization of Stranded Costs

Until now, securitization of stranded assets has been made possible by state statute. In general, such statutes provide that the stranded assets themselves, plus interest on any bonds backed by stranded assets, the costs of servicing the bonds, and the costs of bond issuance all be collected through imposition of a tariff that is collectible from the utility's customers. While differing in particulars, the legislation in Pennsylvania, California, Illinois, Massachusetts, Texas, Connecticut, New Jersey, and elsewhere shares certain characteristics that are significant from a rating perspective.

The statutes specifically provide for securitization of the stranded costs through their sale to a financing subsidiary, and ultimately, to a trust that issues the bonds. The statutes award true sale status to the transfer of the stranded assets to a finance subsidiary. This should help support the legal conclusion that the transfer constitutes a true sale for bankruptcy purposes.

The statutes also provide that any proposal for a securitization of stranded assets be approved on an irrevocable basis by the relevant utility regulatory commission. The commission must set a tariff schedule. A tariff would be included in the ordinary bills sent to customers, and would amortize the stranded assets over the life of the proposed securitization. The tariff would be a separate itemized charge on the customer's bill, and could be either a fixed charge or tied to electricity usage, in either case included in the utility's wires charge. In scheduling the tariff needed to amortize the assets fully, the commission will take into account the utility's forecast regarding the projected size and demographics of its customer base. Where the tariff is tied to electricity usage, predicted customer usage will be important.

The tariffs that are actually collected from customers may fall short of what was originally anticipated. In addition to defaults in bill payments, the customer base might decline due to economic and/or technological factors, or usage might vary from what was originally predicted. This might happen, for instance, if the winter is unusually warm or the summer particularly cool. These are credit risks that could impact the ability of the tariff to amortize the assets fully. To address these risks, the legislatures have created a statutory form of credit support, known as the "true-up" mechanism. The statutes provide that the utility periodically apply to the commission for a readjustment of the tariffs. The commission must then readjust the tariffs charged to customers, so that the bond amortization schedule is met. This minimizes credit risk, except in the tail end of the transaction after the final true-up has occurred. Liquidity risk will, of course, exist during the periods between true-ups, to the extent that collection shortfalls occur.

The true-up mechanism also may effectively minimize prepayment risk. While there may be a tariff collection shortfall, it is also conceivable that excess collections may be received. This might occur, for example, if the customer base grows at a greater rate than originally anticipated when the tariffs were established. If collections exceed expectations for a particular period, the true-up mechanism could potentially reduce the remaining tariffs accordingly, so that the remaining transaction amortizes as scheduled.

When the utility applies for a true-up, the commission may not grant it immediately. The commission's delay will add to liquidity risk, because the shortfalls in collections to be remedied by the true-up will last for a longer period, until the commission finally grants the true-up. A delay by the commission will not create credit risk during the transaction, because once the true-up is in place, the adjusted tariff will take into account any collection shortfalls caused by its delay. But a delay in the true-up could result in a credit loss at the tail end of the transaction. The commission might take so long to grant the true-up that the final true-up never occurs. The statutes prevent this potential credit loss, as well as limit liquidity risk caused by a delay, by setting a deadline for implementation of the true-up. For example, California requires that the commission implement a true-up within 90 days of each anniversary date of the transaction. Other statutes simply require that the true-up filing with the commission becomes effective as early as the subsequent month.

The duration of these transactions and the ability to impose true-up periods and tariff collections indefinitely depend initially on whether the statutes impose a limit on how long the tariff may be collected from the utility's customers. Even where no limit is set as a statutory matter, the final true-up period, and the deadline for tariff collection, will depend on the legal final maturity date set for the bonds.

A utility might change hands for some reason, or file under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code. Such an event could strike at the heart of a potential securitization. Stranded assets will not be recovered unless the utility continues to provide electricity, bill its customers, transfer the tariff to the securitization trust, and apply for true-ups when necessary. The statutes address this problem by requiring that any successors to the utility, whether through bankruptcy, merger, or sale, must perform all of the utility's obligations in connection with the securitization.

The statutes provide another feature, by providing that, contrary to what would usually occur under the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC), there is a continued security interest in collections that have been commingled with other funds of the utility. This eliminates the usual credit risk associated with commingled funds in the event of a bankruptcy of the utility, although it fails to alleviate the liquidity risk and potential credit risk caused by the automatic stay (see Protection Against Credit Risk Caused By Commingling).

Finally, the statutes purport to create new property interests that must be perfected in a manner different from a UCC security interest. However, there is the possibility that stranded assets might still be considered subject to the prior lien of existing mortgage bonds. As a result, proceeds of the securitization might need to be applied to pay down the debt secured by the prior lien. This would, in any event, be positive from a credit perspective, because the bonds being retired (typically general obligation bonds bearing the rating of the utility) would have a higher interest rate than the 'AAA' rated securitized bonds used to retire the obligations.

Significance of Statutory Securitization

To date, stranded cost securitizations rated by Standard & Poor's have been based on legislation promulgated specifically for that purpose. Nevertheless, Standard & Poor's understands that, as a regulatory matter, state public utility commissions have, de facto, historically permitted recovery of stranded costs through rate adjustment.

While public utility commission regulatory action may well be sufficient to accomplish a securitized recovery of stranded costs, Standard & Poor's believes that there may be certain advantages to a legislation-backed securitization. Statutes have the benefit of having undergone the political process. Affected interests are given the opportunity to introduce, and argue for, their respective views. Hearings, drafting and amendments, floor debate, and overall legislative, and press and public scrutiny is the process by which political compromise is achieved and consensus built. The political process is viewed as investing the resulting legislation with a considerable degree of stability and support.

Viewed from the perspective of legal capacity, legislation has other advantages. At the heart of stranded cost securitization is the creation of a property right in the transition charges that serve as the basis for debt service. While it is clear that state legislatures are empowered by due process of law to create property rights, and to define and record how these rights are to be enjoyed, the ability of a state public utility commission to achieve the same end by regulatory compact may not be as certain.

Statutory status provides both constitutional and political protection against the risk that the creation and pledge of securitization property might be impaired by subsequent amendment. Historical precedent indicates that a legislature is unlikely to reverse itself once it has enacted a statute. Even if a political reversal were to occur, the Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and California statutes recognize that the bondholders possess certain constitutionally protected rights. Both statutes provide that if the right to recover stranded assets is compromised in any way, the bondholders are entitled to adequate compensation.

Nevertheless, in jurisdictions where public utility commissions may reasonably be viewed to have the capacity and authorization to order a recovery of stranded costs through a securitization-type procedure, and in which the commission has a stable history of consistent regulatory action, and in which the courts have paid regular deference to commission order, Standard & Poor's will consider regulatory-based recovery procedures case by case. However, any such consideration will necessarily involve a comparison by Standard & Poor's of the proposed regulating action and its enactment in contrast to rated, statute-based recovery plans.

Overview of Stranded Cost Securitization

Differences From Traditional Asset-Backed Transactions

Several key aspects differentiate the securitization of stranded costs from the securitization of more conventional asset types.

Cash Flow Receivables In a typical securitization, the originator of the assets transfers a pool of receivables to a trust and receives payment based on an agreed-upon value for those receivables. The key in this case is that the receivables have already been created. In contrast, stranded assets are not traditional receivables. Although the statutes create a present property right to future collection there is no initial cash flow backing the debt. Stranded assets represent the present right to the cash flow from receivables that will be created in the future when performance, in this case power generation and delivery, has been provided. But until this performance by the utility company takes place, the customer is not obligated to make any payments. Power generation is thus critical to assure full and timely payment to securityholders. As a result, there is a greater dependence on the utility as seller/servicer to do more than just collect payments on existing receivables and liquidate collateral to the extent needed.

Dependence on Servicer Servicer bankruptcy filings generally cause a change in servicer in most asset-backed transactions to prevent any disruptions in the required servicing and collections on the portfolio. Therefore, a substitute servicer must be ready and willing to take over all servicing responsibilities, if necessary. But unlike in typical securitizations, the transaction cannot fully rely on a substitute servicer. A utility does not just collect payments; it must continue to provide power. Because provision of electricity is fundamentally a necessary service, however, Chapter 7 liquidations are unlikely. In contrast, utilities will continue to operate in Chapter 11 reorganization, and thus, provide power and enforce collection from customers. Security is provided by the statutory mandate that collection obligations must be assumed by any successor corporation, including successors pursuant to reorganization, or otherwise. Due to the regulated nature of the industry a state-by-state review of successor servicing arrangements will be performed by Standard & Poor's.

True-up as Credit Support Credit support is entirely structured within the finances of the typical securitization. In contrast, in these transactions credit support has been provided by the statutory true-up mechanism. The parties must initially come up with a proposed amortization schedule. This schedule determines the tariff to be charged to recover the stranded costs, as well as the costs of the securitization itself. In setting this tariff schedule, the utility makes certain assumptions about charge-offs and sales over the following year or even decade. These assumptions will necessarily be inaccurate, especially as the date of forecast becomes increasingly remote. As a result, the stranded costs collected from customers could be less than those needed to repay the bonds. The true-up addresses this risk. The statutes provide that the utility periodically apply to the commission for a readjustment of the tariffs. The commission must then readjust the tariffs charged to customers. This effectively eliminates credit risk, except in the tail end of the transaction after the final true-up has occurred.

It should be understood that the true-up is not quite the same thing as an unlimited cash collateral account. Because the true-up will only be as good as collections in the following year, the amount of a current year's shortfall will not be fully recovered in the next year, due to charge-offs and forecast error occurring in that year. The amount will decrease over time, however, as successive true-ups are implemented. Where statutes do not place a limit on the tenor of the bonds and permit indefinite true-ups, the legal final maturity can simply be extended as a structural matter to gain the benefit of additional true-ups. This allows for as many true-ups as necessary to reduce the shortfalls that cannot be collected because they occur in what may have been originally contemplated as the final year of the transaction.

The true-up can make the amortization schedule for the bonds more predictable, unless dramatic consumption changes occur. This is because the true-up may adjust the amount payable to the trust by the customer base to the extent that there has been a shortfall or surplus in the prior period.

Perfection Mechanisms As stated above, the statutes provide for their own methods and location for filing and perfecting stranded assets. This may or may not result in the conclusion that stranded assets are new property interests not subject to UCC filing and priority rules, and thus are not subject to prior liens under the UCC.

Overcollateralization as Additional Credit Enhancement As mentioned earlier, the true-up mechanism will play an integral role in the transaction structure. The frequency of the true-up, for example, will influence the need for additional credit enhancement. Overcollateralization is the most likely form of credit support. Overcollateralization would cover the risks in the stub period following the final true-up, as well as make up for past shortfalls in collections that were never fully trued-up in the past.

Sale Accounting and FAS 125 Stranded cost securitizations do not possess sale status as an accounting matter under FAS 125. The Security Exchange Commission's Office of Chief Accountant has indicated that while the utilities may be able to sell the right to recover stranded costs as a legal matter, they will not be able to remove the assets (and associated debt) from their balance sheets under FAS 125. Nevertheless, as long as the transaction is structured as a true sale for legal purposes, Standard & Poor's will "back out" for analytical purposes nonrecourse debt and associated carrying costs from the utility's consolidated financial statements. While off-balance-sheet treatment would have enabled a more clear-cut analysis, Standard & Poor's will attempt to recognize the economic (as opposed to the accounting) reality.

Debt for Tax Treatment Any utility intending to securitize stranded costs will likely seek a private letter ruling from the IRS that states that the sale of the assets constitutes a "debt for tax transaction." In other words, the sale would not result in the immediate recognition of income. If the sale were deemed to provide immediate income, the utility would incur an immediate tax liability as well. This would destroy the economics of a securitization.

The Rating Approach

Specific credit and legal risks that arise in securitizing stranded costs are addressed below. Standard & Poor's pursues a general rating methodology that attempts to stress in cash flows the ability of the true-up mechanism to ensure timely payment of interest and repayment of principal. In addition, it attempts to determine the number of true ups needed to meet these payments, that is, the structure's ability to meet its legal final maturity.

Credit Risks

Inaccuracy in Forecasting As mentioned earlier, the funds necessary to pay the stranded assets of the issuer are dependent on the tariff set by the commission and collected from the utility's customers. Tariff schedules are compiled for each customer class so that, taken together, the tariffs charged will amortize the stranded assets over the life of the securitization, while making timely interest payments. The tariff amounts themselves are based on estimates of cash flows to be collected from the customer base. The tariff amounts are thus determined based on such factors as the utility's forecast of population growth or decline, and seasonality in expected usage.

A shortfall in tariff collections can be caused by lower than expected usage due to:

Unanticipated customer migration (anticipated migration is included in the forecasting). Residential and small business customers are considered low risk in terms of customer migration. Large industrial customers, on the other hand, are considered a significant risk that requires additional stress to the cash flows (see Cash Flows). Additionally, as the term of transition bond issued exceeds the 6-8 years historically seen, technology driven customer migration increases significantly and begins to impact usage from commercial and small business customers.

Unanticipated weather conditions. Seasonal weather fluctuations are studied, and typically accounted for in setting the tariff charge.

Forecast error negatively impacts liquidity on the bonds and may "push out" the maturity of the bonds by requiring additional true-ups before the bonds can be paid out. To capture this risk, historical forecasting error is stressed at a certain multiple depending on the rating sought.

Where the tariff is recoverable from large industrial and commercial customers, Standard & Poor's will require data stratifying these customers by revenues generated. The cash flows will be additionally stressed to account for a potential loss in revenues caused by relocation of those customers with a high concentration risk in revenue generation for the utility.

Certain states have legislated rate caps on either the transaction charge for specific customer classes or on the total customer charge (i.e. through mandated rate reductions). Standard & Poor's will review the cash flow models to confirm that these rate caps are respected in stress scenarios.

Higher-Than-Expected Charge-Off Experience Like other forecasting variables, anticipated charge-offs are included in forecasting for purposes of setting the tariffs. Charge-offs may be higher than expected based on historical experience due to a variety of factors, including economic changes and unforeseen disasters. To account for this risk, charge-off history is stressed by the multiple relevant to the rating sought.

Commingling by Aggregators The recent mandated unbundling of generation, transmission, and distribution charges has paved the way for alternative generation suppliers. The consumer may choose to purchase its generation services from an alternative supplier, while continuing to pay transmission and distribution (wires charge) to the utility. As discussed earlier, the tariff would be included in the wires charge, so that collection of the tariff itself would not be endangered by the existence of competition for generation services. However, commingling risk could exist as a result of potential billing arrangements for the utility's transmission and distribution services on the one hand, and the alternative energy provider's generation services on the other.

Generally, alternative energy service providers (retail electric providers; third-party servicers) may provide a consolidated bill for their generation services and the tariff owed to the utility. Where this is the case, the energy services provider is liable to pay the tariff regardless of whether it has received collections from the ultimate users. As a result, the securitization is exposed to commingling risk, and the resulting loss of commingled tariffs, in the event of the bankruptcy of an energy services provider.

This risk can be mitigated by certain restrictions on the length of time that an energy services provider may commingle funds before consolidated billing and service is terminated. If the energy services provider becomes delinquent, direct and consolidated billing may cease and service and separate billing to the end-user customer would be made up for the tariff. This means that the aggregator could commingle funds for a number of days before consolidated billing were terminated. To address this risk, Standard & Poor's stressed cash flow runs eliminate one month of collections per year at the utility's peak billing cycle.

This or other risks involving alternative energy providers may exist in other stranded cost securitizations. Standard & Poor's will assess these risks and the resulting necessary cash flow stresses on a case-by-case basis.

Estimate of Tariff Based on Collections Curve Generally, utilities are unable to allocate amounts received to various charges on the bill, so they were unable to calculate what percentage of collections constituted tariff collections. To address this problem, the utilities prepared forecasts of the percentages of amounts expected to be received during each of the following six months. These forecasts were based on collections curves developed periodically based on accounting studies and collections studies performed by the companies. For each monthly billing period, collections were estimated over six months based on the collections curve.

When the actual tariff remittances by customers are calculated (on the seventh month following each monthly billing period), either too much or too little may have been paid for that billing period. If the amount remitted has been less than the actual tariffs collected during that six-month period, the shortfall will be made up the following month out of the servicer's (the utility's) own funds. Thus, if the servicer is bankrupt (Standard & Poor's assumption), there is a risk the bondholders will lose that portion of the tariff. If the actual tariff amount has been less than the estimated tariff collections remitted to the trust, the servicer would be entitled to withhold the excess amount paid from the next month's remittances.

It is not clear whether this risk will be present in other securitizations. To date, the risk of lower-than-actual remittances has not been separately stressed in the cash flow runs. The one month of lost collections (see Commingling by Aggregators) has been sufficient to cover this risk. Standard & Poor's also has relied on data provided by the company showing relative lack of volatility in the collections curve.

Higher Tariff An increase in tariff resulting from higher true-ups might become burdensome to consumers. This risk might have a spiraling effect, because greater charge-offs or customer migration or decreased usage might result, which in turn would result in the need for increased true-ups. Standard & Poor's will assess this risk by examining the highest per kWh tariff charge reached under the relevant stress scenarios. This risk increases as the term of the transaction increases to 10-15 years given greater technological/migration risk.

Cash Flows Two cash flow runs are generally required in rating stranded costs: a compounding forecast error run and an oscillating forecast error run, implementing the stress scenarios described below. These runs are created to test liquidity as well as the transaction's ability to meet the final maturity of each class of bonds in the transaction. They do so by creating scenarios where the true-up in the tariff amount (the reset of the tariff to reflect prior experience with actual collections and recover prior shortfalls in collections) continuously fails to reflect actual collections.

Compounding Forecast Error Run The compounding forecast error run assumes a compounding stressed error in forecasting resulting in a continual decline in actual tariff collections over what was forecast for that year. Assume, for example, that during year one, sales are 90% of the original sales forecast, that is, forecast error reflecting a multiple of the average forecast error for the customer class, where actual collections are less than expected collections.

At the end of year one, the tariff charge is recalculated assuming that year two customer sales will be what was experienced in year one, that is, 90% of the original expected forecast. Instead, year two sales are only 81% (90% of 90%) of the original sales forecast.

The sales decline is generally based on a multiple of the absolute value of the largest historical non-weather-normalized forecast variance by customer class. This compounding is assumed to continue from year to year over the life of the transaction.

Oscillating Forecast Error Run The oscillating forecast error run assumes a scenario where in one-year tariff collections exceed expectations, so that in the following year, the tariff is reset based on the prior year, only to experience a shortfall in actual collections. Assume for example that the appropriate stressed forecast error is 10%. During year one, sales are 90% (10% below) the original sales forecast. At the end of year one, the tariff is recalculated assuming that year two sales are also 90% of the original forecast. Instead, year two sales are 99% (110% of 90% level) of the original forecast. The tariff for the following year is reset assuming 99% of original forecast collections, only to receive 90% of originally forecast collections. This oscillation between 90% and 99% of original forecast is assumed to continue over the life of the transaction.

Legal Final Maturity The legal final maturity dates on stranded cost transactions are often set at up to two years beyond expected maturities. This additional period acknowledges the long-term nature of the liabilities being rated, and the corresponding possibility that fundamental changes in technology might take place that further stress the transaction in an unforeseen manner. One currently known possibility is that over time customers may increasingly switch to self-generation, which would enable them to cease paying the wires charge and thus, the tariff. Certain transactions have reduced this period by requiring more frequent (e.g. monthly) true-ups during the final year or two of the transaction.

Legal Risks

Reliance on Commission to Implement True-Up, and Potential Delay in Approving the True-Up Standard & Poor's believes that so long as the statute clearly specifies the maximum period before which the commission is compelled to implement the true-up, any shortfall in collections resulting from the delay can be sized and factored into the cash flow projections. Certain structures may permit the application of principal collections as liquidity for any interest payments due to noteholders during any true-up delay. In the absence of such features, adequate provision for liquidity and additional credit support should be demonstrated to Standard & Poor's.

Adequate Provision Law permits alteration or limitation of right to transition property and right to collect tariffs if "adequate provision" is made to the bondholders. Although there has been no conclusive demonstration as to what constitutes "adequate provision," and how such alteration or limitation would affect timely interest and principal payments on the bonds, Standard & Poor's, in rated transactions, has received legal assurances that any such alteration would be constitutionally prohibited were it substantially to impair the security for the bonds. While such assurances do not really define adequate provision, Standard & Poor's believes, in practice, that adequate provision should prove to be the functional equivalent of the pledged transition property.

Stranded Assets to Aid Industry Restructuring

Securitization of stranded assets provides an efficient method electric utilities can use to quickly free themselves from the high cost of stranded assets that prevents them from becoming players in the emerging competitive retail generation market. At the same time, the statutory true-up mechanism provides strong credit support that has withstood 'AAA' stress criteria applied by Standard & Poor's.

Preamble

The Government of Ontario is committed to fostering the development of a clean, modern and reliable electricity system with a diverse supply mix. The Government is also committed to removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for renewable and clean energy projects.[1]

The Government of Ontario has established a regulatory framework related to the generation and sale of electricity, which has promoted and continues to promote significant investment to enable phasing out of coal fired generation, modernizing sites and facilities in the Province for the generation of electrical energy and the production therefrom,[2] and conservation and demand management.

The Government of Ontario is committed to ensuring that the costs of these investments, and the raising of money to fund the investments,[3] are allocated fairly among present and future generations of consumers.

Therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows:

FAIR ADJUSTMENT

[6] Note: Please see the Electricity Act, 1998 for much of the wording proposed in this section.

Confidential Draft

Fair adjustment, May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2018
Definition

6xx. (1) In this section,

"average baseline invoice amount" means the average monthly invoice amount that would be payable by a representative consumer under the average baseline rate; ("French")

"average baseline rate" means the average rate that would be payable effective May 1, 2017 by the class of consumers prescribed by the regulations under the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 for the purposes of subsection 79.16 (1) of that Act, as determined by the Board by applying the method prescribed by the regulations under clause 79.16 (1) (b) of that Act; ("French")

"sub-meter customer" means a person who is supplied electricity by a specified consumer, if an invoice for the electricity is issued to the person by the specified consumer, by an agent of the specified consumer or by a unit sub-meter provider providing unit sub-metering for the specified consumer; ("French")

Rate determination

(2) Subject to subsection (3), [to more fairly measure and allocate the clean energy costs and clean energy benefits among present and future generations of specified consumers,] the rate for electricity payable by a specified consumer for the period beginning on May 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 is the average rate that would be payable by a representative consumer in order for the representative consumer to receive a monthly invoice amount that is 25 per cent less than the average baseline invoice amount.

Sub-meter customers

(3) A specified consumer who provides electricity to a sub-meter customer and any unit sub-meter provider who provides unit sub-metering for the specified consumer shall ensure that the rate payable by each sub-meter customer is the rate determined under subsection (2).

Determining rate

(4) The rate mentioned in subsection (2) shall be,

(a) determined by the Board within seven business days after this section receives Royal Assent; and

(b) effective as of the first day of the calendar month immediately following the determination.

Confidential Draft

Transition

(5) If, for technical or operational reasons, an electricity vendor, specified consumer or unit sub-meter provider is unable to adapt its invoices to comply with this section by the time it issues its first invoice for electricity consumed on or after May 1, 2017,

(a) the electricity vendor, specified consumer or unit sub-meter provider shall adapt its invoices as soon as possible and, in any event, no later than [August 1, 2017]; and

(b) the electricity vendor, specified consumer or unit sub-meter provider shall ensure that any specified consumer or sub-meter customer invoiced at a rate higher than the applicable rate receives the difference between the rate shown on their invoice and the applicable rate as a lump sum credit on the first invoice issued after the invoices have been adapted or by such other means as may be prescribed by the regulations.

Fair adjustment, May 1, 2018 to April 30, 2022

7xx. The Lieutenant Governor in Council may, [to more fairly measure and allocate the clean energy costs and clean energy benefits among present and future generations of specified consumers,] make regulations prescribing the rate for electricity payable by specified consumers and sub-meter customers during the period beginning on May 1, 2018 and ending on April 30, 2022.

PART III
CLEAN ENERGY ADJUSTMENT

Specified consumers to pay clean energy adjustment

8xx. (1) Upon receipt of an invoice that includes a clean energy adjustment, a specified consumer shall pay the clean energy adjustment to the electricity vendor, as agent of the investment asset owners, in accordance with such terms of payment as may be specified in the invoice, which may include terms relating to late payment fees and interest charges.

Same

(2) For greater certainty, subsection (1) applies regardless of,

(a) whether the clean energy adjustment is inconsistent with the fair allocation calculation applicable at the time when the payment is due; and

(b) whether the clean energy adjustment relates to funding obligations that were incurred in a manner that was inconsistent with the Financing Plan.

Confidential Draft

Indebtedness of specified consumer

(4) An unpaid clean energy adjustment that is required to be paid by a specified consumer under this section constitutes indebtedness of the consumer to each investment asset owner in respect of each owner's respective interest in the investment asset.

Same

(5) The indebtedness mentioned in subsection (4) is a single and separate debt obligation owed by the specified consumer and may be enforced independently from any other payment obligation or indebtedness owing by the specified consumer under the invoice or otherwise.

Irrevocability of clean energy adjustment

9xx. (1) The amount of the clean energy adjustment shown on an invoice issued to a specified consumer under this Act is determinative of the amount of the consumer's indebtedness created by the adjustment and is irrevocable upon invoicing the consumer and may not be set off or by passed.

Exception

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to the extent that there is a calculation error by the electricity vendor.

Determination of clean energy adjustment

10xx. (1) The clean energy adjustment payable by all specified consumers in respect of a reference period shall be determined as follows:

1. Calculate the estimated finance amount for the reference period in accordance with Schedule 1 and such additional rules as may be prescribed.

2. Add the true up amount for the reference period, as determined in accordance with the prescribed method, to the estimated finance amount calculated under paragraph 1.

True up amount

(2) For the purposes of paragraph 2 of subsection (1), the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations prescribing the method for determining the true up amount, having regard to the following principles:

1. The true up amount should serve to ensure that the collection of the clean energy adjustment is sufficient to pay the estimated finance amount when it is due.

2. The method for determining the true up amount should take into account historical and reasonably foreseeable,

Confidential Draft

i. differences between amounts billed and amounts collected due to various factors, including applicable taxes, consumer defaults and delays, billing lags and write-offs, and

ii. variations in billings due to variations in electricity consumption.

IESO to issue remittance notice to electricity vendors

11xx. (1) The IESO shall, in accordance with the regulations, issue a remittance notice to each electricity vendor for the electricity vendor's portion, as determined in accordance with the regulations, of the clean energy adjustment in respect of a reference period.

IESO to collect

(2) The IESO shall, as an agent of the investment asset owners, collect the clean energy adjustment from electricity vendors [in accordance with the monthly settlement process set out in the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998].

Collection account

(3) All of the following amounts received by the IESO shall, until paid to or for the benefit of the investment asset owner in accordance with subsection (5), be deposited promptly into an account established for the purposes of collecting those accounts:

1. Amounts described in subsection 12 (4).

2. Payments made by specified consumers directly to the IESO as electricity vendor under subsection 8 (1).

Same, held in trust

(4) All amounts received by the IESO in respect of the clean energy adjustment shall, until paid to or for the benefit of the investment asset owner in accordance with subsection (6), be held in trust for the investment asset owners or a secured party to whom a security interest in an investment interest is granted under this Act.

IESO to remit

(5) The IESO shall remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment to or for the benefit of the investment asset owners in accordance with the regulations.

Collection of outstanding amounts, regulatory asset

1. Any incurrence of a funding obligation should reasonably align the expected finance amount determined under Schedule 1 that would become due and payable during a reference period with the fair allocation amount determined for the reference period under this Part as of the time of the incurrence, in each case after reducing the fair allocation calculation by the amount of any fair adjustment for the reference period.

2. Incurrences and transfers should be implemented in a manner that, as the Financial Services Manager considers to be reasonable, is cost effective and reflects prevailing market terms and conditions.

3. Reasonable assumptions should be made regarding such matters as may be prescribed.

Amendments to approved plan

(3) The Financial Services Manager may amend the Financing Plan at any time, without the approval of the Minister, subject to the requirements set out in this section.

Limitation, first five year period

(4) In respect of each reference period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2022, no funding obligation shall be incurred that would become payable during the reference period and result in a clean energy adjustment for the reference period unless,

Confidential Draft

(a) no fair adjustment has been made under Part II in respect of the reference period; or

We recently received a draft term sheet for the guarantee, and wanted to make sure you have seen it as well in order to move this discussion forward. Please let me know if you haven't seen it.

Also, we have been discussing section "5xx.", the Protection and assurance provision of the draft legislation. We wonder if CLOC has been consulted on these provisions, particularly the reference to adversely affecting an investment asset in clause 5(1)(c). We were wondering if there is a risk that this provision is so broad as to inadvertently fetter the Crown in developing tax policy (e.g. could it prohibit a new general tax on the proceeds from investments), or to undermine new general securities regulatory activity that the Crown might legislate or the OSC might carry out.

Thanks for getting back to us, Toby. I have added James as he is also discussing this provision with CLOC.

I have asked Blakes for a form of performance guarantee and will share what I receive.

We have discussed this with the OFA, and we have endeavoured to provide a provision that we think should allow the financial guarantee being contemplated. Please let us know if you think it provides the necessary scope for what would be required to meet the Province's needs. We deleted the existing provision, although if you think that more general contractual authority is needed, something else could be considered. However, we don't think that it is appropriate to have a statutory appropriation for such general indemnity and guarantee provisions.

We would expect that the guarantee would be capped and only provide for the repayment of the principal and interest of the debt securities of the financial asset owner, and that would usually be done in the OIC.

We don't have any experience with performance guarantees. Is there a need for the Minister of Energy to require performance by the LDCs? We were also wondering if Blakes or another party involved in these discussions might have an example of what is being considered.

We also removed the exemption from s. 28 of the FAA. We have discussed this with OFA staff, and given the importance and breadth of this Act and Program, it doesn't seem appropriate to exempt the entire Act from s. 28 of the FAA.

Hi Carolyn,

Thanks for your email. Would it be possible to arrange a conference call today with yourself or your counsel most knowledgeable on this proposed securitization and transaction so that we can get an understanding of it and how it fits into any proposed authorizing legislation. Unfortunately we are not familiar with the proposed transaction although we have seen some general background information about the proposal. What role would a guarantee of investment dealers have in the transaction? We do have a copy of the legislation that we got via our clients at OFA and they were more engaged in the issue of a future proposed equity injection, but the most recent version that we have seen does not mention guarantees although there seems to be a very general contract authorization section. Of course, we have to generally think about s. 28 as well.

A call today to over the main elements of the proposed transaction and the legislation would be very helpful so that we can get back to Gadi.

Hi Michael & Malle – we will be sending you draft legislation to take a look at. Actual guarantees will follow later.

This relates to the government's Fair Hydro Plan and the promise to reduce rates by 25% by July. We are doing a sort of securitization, for which the legislation will provide a framework. We are contemplating provisions that allow "the Minister" to enter into agreements with respect to transactions contemplated by the legislation. Gadi and DM Angus are of the view that Minister should be MOF, as the agreements are likely to be guarantees to investment dealers. Indemnities for the boards of OPG and IESO will also be required, although we didn't talk about who would sign those.

Happy to answer your questions or walk you through the proposed bill.

Gadi Mayman gave us a heads up that you might be giving us a call about a proposed guarantee that the Minister of Finance may be required to sign in relation to the changes to the global adjustment.

We're happy to discuss this. This afternoon is busy but tomorrow afternoon may work.

FYI, MO is asking CO that we add the Provincial Guarantee to our list of topics to cover with PO on the 16th.

We'll need to think about what a briefing product could look like and who would lead it. Perhaps this is something we could discuss at our RMI meeting this afternoon.

Good Morning:

Had wanted to update folks planning for our time on 16 August.

We have those two hours and am now proposing that we attempt to cover three separate topics (3 x ~ 40 mins each).

1. Hydro Quebec
2. OFHP / LTEP curve
3. NEW : OFHP "Provincial Guarantee"

Note : the Provincial Guarantee is a core requirement of the debt / borrowing platform that is required for the dealers and rating agencies to confirm a score for this product so that OPG trust can go to market this fall.

Gadi has been doing battle with dealers on this and we think that 16th would be an appropriate milestone to brief decision makers on the results. Forward planning, this would require a TB/MBC conversation and the overall goal for that would be to have that done when Cabinet is around that last week of August.

Anyway, if we can add this to the agenda to 16th, then we'd probably want to increase size of room to have a sort of mini-FPC so that MOF and TBS MO are participants.

I think that Hydro Quebec item will be quick based on where we are at with discussions and the LTEP curve we got really good directional thinking at yesterday afternoon's multicorners, so if we invited counterparts for 1.15pm then we should be okay, I wager / hope?

Hope this makes sense - let me know if this works for your end and then I'll make sure that I bring TBS and MOF (Ali and Jason) up the curve and ensure they are ready for 16th in advance.

Many thanks, in advance.

Appreciate that we are not yet through tomorrow's multicorners discussions regarding Hydro Quebec, however to ensure continued coordination and to plan ahead for when senior PO staff have returned from various holidays, a "next date" has been provided to us via Bevan's calendar.

Wednesday 16 August @ noon - 1pm.

If CO would be so kind as to organize calendar invitation would be terrific.

 Exercise caution. This is an EXTERNAL email. DO NOT open attachments or click links from unknown senders or unexpected email. ***

John, as discussed, below is our summary for the discussion with the Province –
Thanks, Sunil.

Change in Law
* We are okay with the province assuming the financing obligations of the Financing Entity ("FE") with no early redemption rights (by either the province or investors) in the circumstance of a Change in Law.
* We note that in the US, the potential downgrade on the bonds once the province steps could result in the bonds spreads widening, which would result in losses for US investors. US investors would expect to be compensated for that risk (either through a pre-determined step-up in pricing when the province assumes the obligation, and/or through a premium they would require for this risk when purchasing the notes initially).

Approval Process
* The province (OFA) will want to see the form of the various program and series documents that will be captured by the guarantee/support before approving any guarantee. As long as the documents are in the agreed form, they would NOT need to provide specific approval for each series.
* We understand that Provincial control of the financing program would eliminate OPG's consolidation of the Financing Entity so Provincial approval of transaction terms needs to be avoided.
* Since the financing documents cannot affect how or when the Provincial Guarantee is triggered (Change in Law and Constitutionality of the Program) then specific Provincial approval of transaction documentation would be seen as exerting control and must be avoided.

Warehousing Risk
* The issue is the moratorium period and the length of time for the warehouse provider to be taken out if there is an extended period of time where the program can no longer be funded in the term markets
* Option here if the warehouse providers are to absorb the risk is: o On default, pricing would step up materially o After [one] year following the moratorium ended, pricing would step up again and would continue to do so every 6 months until the warehouse is repaid
o This mechanic helps compensate the warehouse providers to the extended tail risk in this transaction and creates alignment of interest
* The warehouse providers cannot control the maturity of other pieces of FE debt issues. The step up schedule incents the financial manager to ensure that there are no competing maturities (so that the warehouse provider can be repaid as quickly as possible) during the first few years after the moratorium period ends
* This would be subject to banks receiving necessary approvals as the tail risk is longer than anticipated. That process will require a greater understanding of how long the tail could be (i.e. how quickly could we be repaid through clean energy adjustments after the moratorium period has ended)
* The higher pricing will result in higher clean energy pricing during this default scenario. As an alternative to letting the warehouse provider being repaid over time through these clean-energy adjustments, the province could voluntarily choose to purchase a term note to take out the warehouse provider
* The province could resell that note in the secondary market if that market opens
* Assuming there are other series of notes outstanding by the FE that are sold to others, the province may need to confirm whether there are consolidation concerns from being an investor in the FE (and if so, what threshold of notes would result in that consolidation risk)
* The province is not obligated to purchase notes in this scenario, this is just an option they would have at their disposal if they did not want to clean energy adjustment amounts (and hence charges to ratepayers) to increase because the default pricing
* Other options
o IESO provides the warehouse instead of the banks – note that this will likely be limited based on the size of the IESO's credit facility. If there is a prolonged period of market disruption, then this credit facility will likely fill up fast and at that point the Province will likely have to increase the facility or backstop further rebates --> essentially under a market disruption, the Province may ultimately have to backstop the funding. Based on this, it may be preferable for the Province to provide a market disruption guarantee to the short-term ABCP facilities?

Servicing Guarantee
* The substantive risk not addressed through regulation/legislation/contract so far is commingling risk
* In general, the rating agencies require daily cash remittance of any collections for non-investment grade entities unless a suitable mitigant is in place
o The investment grade test will generally need to be by the same rating agency rating the FE debt
* (E.g. if an entity is not rated by Moody's, but is rated investment grade by DBRS and S&P, and the FE debt is rated by Moody's, Moody's may not consider that entity to be investment grade and may not permit them to commingle)
* Fitch often gives an exception for this where they may allow commingling for investment grade entities even if Fitch does not rate that counterparty
o This should not be an issue from IESO perspective, but can be an issue from an LDC perspective
* The majority of the LDCs are not
* Rating individual LDCs by each of the rating agencies that rate the FE debt will be time consuming and expensive and is not a viable option
* Proposal would be for IESO or another highly rated entity to post a L/C facility to mitigate the servicing risks of the LDCs and thereby avoiding any review of the LDCs by the agenciesand avoid daily cash remittances for any LDC assessed to be non-investment grade

FYI, I have written to Energy legal to ask about making sure that deal counsel review the draft language around the guarantee to make sure it works for the current state of the deal.

James,

Thanks for forwarding the draft. With respect to the guarantee language, we want to make sure that it works for the transaction. Since we are not familiar with the proposed transaction, we think that it makes sense for counsel that are familiar with the deal to review the guarantee provisions in the statute to ensure that it is sufficient to give authority for the type of guarantee that is contemplated. We note that the term sheet that we have seen provides for a very broad guarantee, although we also understand that there are ongoing discussions about the scope and content of the guarantee.

Hi, Toby. I am pleased to attach the most recent version of the draft legislation pertaining to the electricity rate reductions and intergenerational cost transfer.

Thanks for your help on all of this, and note that this version does not include amendments to EA ss.89 and 90 (PILS amendments). Those discussions are ongoing between MOF policy, OPG/Tory's and ENERGY is awaiting those discussions to close before finalizing the legislation on these matters.

I agree with your perspective on this. The Newfoundland guarantee for the Churchill Falls dam is a good point that I'd forgotten about.
I'm copying Ron and Gavin, as they're preparing a slide for Energy on this.

Just a few random thoughts:

- I would think OPG borrowing with a guarantee is a game changer. As we've seen with Newfoundland, guarantees can be expensive, and I expect this one would be too, relative to Ontario's regular borrowing costs. If it is going on the Province's balance sheet, shouldn't that be done in the most efficient way. In addition, I'm surprised the Ontario borrowing and on-lending approach doesn't have more traction as it certainly provides more cost-savings potential, and this might definitely be required.
- I'm also unclear of the benefits of OPG direct borrowing, given that it appears to be direct government policy to me, and is anyone going to think otherwise? Again I don't have the full perspective and may be missing some of the rationale.

It would be great to discuss when you have the time.

Hi Mike,

Ken is familiar with what I'm asking about here, so either he or I could fill you in on more details if you'd like. The bottom line is that OPG has now determined, not surprisingly to me, that the debt that they issue to public markets for the GA smoothing option, would require a provincial guarantee. Not a full guarantee, they pointed out this morning, but just a guarantee that investors would be made whole, and have all of their costs covered, if a future government were to change the legislation under which this structure would be created. To me, that is pretty much equivalent to a full guarantee, as that's likely the only way the system fails, and investors would take on any risk.

My question is why that guarantee, and therefore the diminishment of risk to investors, is treated differently from an accounting perspective than the simpler process of us just borrowing and on-lending to them.

Please let me know if you have any questions, or would like to discuss this further.

Thanks,
Gadi

Subject: Provincial Guarantee

Hi Ken, we all had to rush off to our next meetings following our meeting this morning, so we didn't get a chance to have a discussion about why a Provincial guarantee of all of OPG's debt related to the trust isn't a problem for the accounting treatment that we'd need to get to in order to make the GA smoothing plan work, while direct borrowing and on-lending from the Province would be, if it's greater than 49% of the total borrowing (actually 44% in your current model).

From a capital markets, investor and rating agency perspective, the guarantee is extremely likely to be lumped in with the rest of the Province's debt, and the guaranteed debt would be considered just as much of a provincial obligation as the rest of our debt, particularly in this case where the reason that the guarantee is needed is because investors will demand it in order to protect themselves from legislative amendments by a future government. For that reason, it could be hard to justify, from a capital markets or cost perspective, having OPG borrowing in its own name with a government guarantee, so is it possible to revisit the potential accounting treatment and determine whether, now that we've effectively moved to a guaranteed structure, we could just have the Province, through the OFA or OEFC, do all of the borrowing and on-lend to OPG? Is this something that you'd been planning to address in the accounting material that you're sending over today?

Thanks,
Gadi

Confidential and Privileged Legal Advice

The below note is a summary of preliminary concerns with the draft term sheet for a Provincial Support Agreement (the "Guarantee") raised by MOF LSB, Ministry of Energy LSB and the Province's outside counsel, Blakes. The concerns are grouped in categories for convenience.

Beneficiaries – The Guarantee's description of proposed beneficiaries is very broad. The Guarantee provides that the legal beneficiary is the Indenture Trustee under the Master Trust Indenture on behalf of itself and all persons that have claims against the Financing Entity secured under the master trust indenture. This would include persons ranging from the Financial Services Manager (OPG) to holders of various types of debt and hedge counterparties. Because we have not seen a term sheet for the Master Trust Indenture, we cannot be sure of the actual extent of beneficiaries.

- Need to clarify which obligations the Province is being requested to guarantee and under what various agreements to determine scope and limit of guarantee.
- Should the subordinated notes (held by OPG) be guaranteed?
- Should the beneficiaries be limited to holders of the notes issued by the financing entity?
- Is there a term sheet for the proposed financing to be issued by the Financing Entity?
- Is there a request for a guarantee of payment on other back-up or ancillary borrowing and obligations other than those issued in the market?
- Is there a draft of the Master Trust Indenture?

Scope of Financial Guarantee – The proposed Guarantee is not restricted to any particular debt offering or related transaction. Rather, it is currently framed as a "program-wide" guarantee that encompasses any and all future transactions undertaken by OPG in connection with this initiative. This is too broad and the Guarantee should be limited to individual transactions and specified creditors, negotiated at the time of each transaction.

Term of Guarantee – Currently the Guarantee continues for one year beyond the last obligation to be repaid. This does not seem necessary and it should end when the last repayment is made.

Performance Guarantee – The province does not typically provide performance guarantees. Blakes noted that performance guarantees are quite typical in structured finance offerings and that they are generally regarded as being less onerous than an outright payment guarantee (because the guarantor is only guaranteeing the performance of certain specified obligations, as opposed to the payment of the underlying obligation). Ultimately the performance guarantee may result in a payment if the Province cannot compel performance.

Usually a performance guarantee is given by a parent, where some of the obligations rely on the actions of subsidiaries. However, under the current structure of the Term Sheet, Ontario would be guaranteeing the performance obligations of Local Distribution Companies (LDCs) directly and since these are not akin to subsidiaries and the Province has very little authority to compel performance by LDCs, this type of guarantee could expose the Province to some difficulty if an LDC ever failed to perform. Therefore, it would be appropriate that the performance guarantee should be limited to the performance of the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO). The IESO, on the other hand, may have direct relationships with the LDCs, and it may be more appropriate for some type of commitment for the performance of the LDCs to be made by the IESO.

Payment Guarantee – There are three triggers of this part of the guarantee: (1) changing the legislation or regulations to undermine the future payment stream constituting the regulatory asset; (2) the legislation and/or the fair hydro plan being deemed by a court to be unconstitutional or unenforceable; and (3) a liquidity problem that makes it impossible to continue financing the structure or to refinance maturing debt.

With respect to the changes in law, because the Fair Hydro Plan is modelled on some US transactions, a concern has arisen that there is no legal barrier in Canada to changing the law or passing a law that undermines the value of the regulatory asset and the repayment of the obligations. Therefore, it may be that a payment guarantee triggered by adverse legislative action would go a long way to reassure potential investors and he thought that this kind of assurance (at least in some form) will be necessary to support any transaction. However, the kinds of future legislative actions that would trigger a Payment Guarantee Event are framed in vague terms. This could mean that a Beneficiary of the guarantee would try to trigger the guarantee even where there was no repayment failure, but only upon a theoretical diminution in the value of the regulatory asset or some kind of timing issue that delays payment, but not in a material way that undermines the repayment capacity of the Financing Entity.

The second trigger, arising from a finding that the structure is unconstitutional or otherwise unenforceable at law, should also be narrowed to only apply to a “final, non-appealable decision”, otherwise a lower court ruling that is not upheld and does not unwind the structure could trigger a claim on the guarantee even where there is no risk of payment default.

Similarly, Blakes suggested that the concept of "market disruption" in the Term Sheet is also too vague and would unreasonably expose the government to risks around future refinancing transactions (i.e., by effectively requiring Ontario to be the "standby purchaser" of any securities in the case of a lack of liquidity in the financial markets). This is the type of risk that is probably best addressed at the time such a risk arises, as it is impossible to predict the context and effect of such an event.

The put option is of particular concern because the current model might allow noteholders to require the province to buy back their investments in response to regulatory amendments affecting the value of their investments in only incidental or immaterial ways. Blakes cautioned that we need to guard against providing a form of assurance that enables U.S. hedge funds to hold the government hostage for the next 30 years.

Further action items and questions:

- Time Lines and Communication with OPG – We need to understand where this Guarantee fits into the transaction and find out why it is moving forward at this early stage. The Province needs to communicate to OPG that the Province does not agree with this draft term sheet and is not implied to be something the Province is agreeing to at such a preliminary stage.

- Market Demands –What precisely is the market going to demand to support the transaction? The Province's interest would seem to be in providing the most limited guarantee that is both (i) necessary to support the transaction; and (ii) ensures the highest value for both ratepayers and taxpayers.

Doesn't look like Cindy can make that time either, so there are too many people that should be involved in this discussion with OPG that can't make it. I'd suggest that we leave it in the hands of everyone who is going to be around next week, and then I can weigh in when I get back. I think you're all aware of the firm direction that I've left with the banks and OPG, without much room to move, even though I'm guessing the banks are going to try to come back with a structure that attempts to transfer as much risk on to us as possible.

Provincial Protection and Assurances

Indicative Term Sheet[1]

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate.

Performance Guarantees
Performance Guarantor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Beneficiaries:	Each Financing Entity that owns an investment interest from time to time. A Financing Entity may grant a security interest over its rights and interests under a Performance Guarantee to its creditors and contractual counterparties, including any indenture trustee acting on behalf of itself and other persons having debt or other claims against the Financing Entity that are secured under a related trust indenture.

[1] This draft term sheet is intended for discussion purposes only and does not represent a commitment of any party. Any agreement or undertaking of the Province contemplated in this term sheet may only be made either (a) with the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council as contemplated in subsection 5(2) of the Act or (b) under, and subject to, an order made by the Lieutenant Governor in Council as contemplated in subsection 5(3) of the Act.

Performance Guarantee:	Pursuant to a Performance Guarantee, the Performance Guarantor will guarantee the performance, or cause the performance, of the obligations of IESO as servicer under the Act and under any agreement under which the applicable Financing Entity acquires an investment interest from IESO and IESO undertakes on-going obligations in respect of such investment interest, including servicing obligations undertaken by IESO to enforce the performance by electricity vendors of their respective obligations under the Act. It is anticipated that such obligations will include matters related to the billing, collection and remittance of clean energy adjustments by IESO and electricity vendors, as the case may be, and regarding the commingling by IESO and electricity vendors of collections of clean energy adjustments with other amounts. In the event that the Performance Guarantee is held to be unenforceable against the Performance Guarantor, the Performance Guarantee will contemplate, in the alternative, a functionally equivalent direct covenant of the Performance Guarantor.
Term:	The Performance Guarantor's obligations under a Performance Guarantee in respect of a Financing Entity will continue during the term of any obligation incurred by the Financing Entity that is or is intended to be secured by the Performance Guarantee.
Approval Requirement:	The servicing obligations (including any amendments) to which the Performance Guarantee relates, together with the provisions of any Performance Guarantee itself, will be subject to the approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Limits under Performance Guarantee:	Under no circumstances shall the Performance Guarantor be obligated to pay special or punitive damages, or for loss of profits.
Indemnity
Indemnitor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Indemnitees:	Each Financing Entity that owns an investment interest from time to time. A Financing Entity may grant a security interest over the Indemnity to specified creditors, including to an indenture trustee under a trust indenture on behalf of itself and other persons having debt or other claims against the Financing Entity secured under the trust indenture.

Indemnity of the Province:	The Indemnitor will indemnify each Indemnitee for its costs, expenses and losses reasonably incurred by the Indemnitee because of third party claims made against the Indemnitee by one or more of its specified creditors that result from any of the following (each, an "Indemnification Event"): (A) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repealing (and not replacing on an equivalent basis) the Act; (B) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario amending the Act or a Regulation made thereunder in a way that materially and adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest; or (C) a court of competent jurisdiction in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act is ultra vires in a way that materially and adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest.
Term:	The Indemnity will continue during the term of any obligation incurred by a Financing Entity that is or is intended to be secured by the Indemnity.
Approval Requirement:	The terms and conditions of the obligations incurred by a Financing Entity that are secured or intended to be secured by an Indemnity, together with the provisions of any Indemnity itself, will be subject to the approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Limits under Indemnity:	Under no circumstances shall the Indemnitor be obligated to indemnify any Beneficiary for special or punitive damages, or for loss of profits.
Undertakings regarding Certain Mismatches
Avoidance of Mismatches	If a Financing Entity proposes to incur one or more funding obligations that would require the Financing Entity to pay an aggregate amount during any reference period that would exceed the amount otherwise expected to be available to the Financing Entity during the reference period from its investment interests to pay such amounts (a "Mismatch"), the Financing Entity will, before incurring such funding obligations, undertake commercially reasonable efforts to arrange for commitments from highly creditworthy, market-based funding sources in accordance with the Financing Plan to enable it to satisfy its related payment obligations and thereby avoid any Mismatch.

Possible Undertaking to Fund Mismatches	If a Financing Entity is unable to arrange for commitments from one or more highly creditworthy, market-based funding sources in accordance with the Financing Plan to avoid a Mismatch on commercially reasonable terms and conditions, the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together may undertake on behalf of the Province of Ontario to provide funding commitments to the extent necessary to provide the Financing Entity with required funding to avoid the Mismatch. Any such undertaking may only be given at or before the incurrence of the funding obligation that would otherwise result in the Mismatch and, if given, would be on such terms, including appropriate compensation to the Province of Ontario, and be subject to such conditions (for example and without limitation, funding being conditional on the occurrence of a market disruption that results in an inability to refinance the funding obligation) as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine are reasonable and appropriate in the circumstances. The decision to provide such an undertaking will be in the sole discretion of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance.

Hi Steen,

I'm sending the attached revised draft, non-binding term sheet on behalf of various parts of the OFA that are working on the Provincial guarantee / support agreement to support the OPG financing entity.

As you may have been informed, the attached draft term sheet was drafted jointly by MOF Legal, Energy Legal and Blakes' and is somewhat narrower in scope of the guarantee/support than the version that was provided by OPG in mid-August.

To discuss, we would like to host a meeting tomorrow, if possible, including your team and Energy Legal, MOF Legal and GBED. Also, Capital Markets folks here at the OFA are looking to share the draft term sheet with their counterparts at OPG. Pls. advise if you would have any issue with the sharing of the draft term sheet.

If you could advise of your availability, I would be happy to coordinate on behalf of everyone here at the OFA.

Thanks,

John

John,

Together with our outside counsel at Blake's and Energy Legal we have revised the term sheet further.

The attached note, prepared by Energy Legal is a good summary of the issues and where things stand.

I think the next step is to have you and Ron discuss this draft, and prepare to meet with staff at the OFA and Energy once Gadi returns next week and has been briefed on the progress.

Please share as you think makes sense at the OFA, and let me know if you want to discuss further.

Change of Law Assumption Agreement

Indicative Term Sheet

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This indicative term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act") and the regulations made thereunder (the "Regulation"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate. This Term Sheet is not intended to create any obligations or be binding on the parties.

Change of Law Assumption Agreement:	A Change of Law Assumption Agreement will be among the Obligor, a Financing Entity and an Indenture Trustee, acting for and on behalf of the Beneficiaries in accordance with a Trust Indenture.
Obligor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Indenture Trustee:	An indenture trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under an applicable Trust Indenture.
Beneficiaries:	The Indenture Trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under Specified Claims.
Specified Claims:	Payment obligations of the Financing Entity that are secured under the Trust Indenture and that are approved as contemplated below under Obligor Approval. Specified Claims are expected to include principal and interest on senior debt obligations issued by the Financing Entity [and any other monetary obligations of the Financing Entity that rank ahead of or equally in priority of payment with the senior debt obligations of the Financing Entity pursuant to the Trust Indenture].
Assumption Events:	Any of the following would constitute an Assumption Event: (A) (1) the Legislature repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) or amends the Act or any portion thereof; (2) the Legislature enacts or amends any other statute;

	(3) the Lieutenant Governor in Council repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) the General Regulation made under the Act or any portion thereof; or (4) the Lieutenant Governor in Council, a minister of the Crown, an official of the government or a board or commission all the members of which are appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council makes or amends any "regulation" (as defined in Part III of the Legislation Act, 2006), in each case, that materially and adversely affects (a) the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims or (b) the Change of Law Assumption Agreement or any of the agreements under which Specified Claims arise without the agreement of the Indenture Trustee; or (B) a court of competent jurisdiction in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act or the Regulation is ultra vires in a way that materially and adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims.
Obligation to Assume Specified Claims:	Upon the occurrence of an Assumption Event, the Indenture Trustee will have the right to require the Obligor to pay the amount of Specified Claims on behalf of the Financing Entity when they become due and payable (without acceleration). The exercise of such right by the Indenture Trustee in accordance with the Trust Indenture shall constitute the only remedy available under the Change of Law Assumption Agreement. Under no circumstances shall the Obligor be obligated to pay or indemnify a Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.
Subrogation:	Upon paying an amount to a Beneficiary in respect of a Specified Claim, the Obligor shall become entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Specified Claim, including the security interest in each related investment interest and related property of the Financing Entity and the obligations of the Financing Entity owing under the agreements under which the Specified Claim arises. The Financing Entity may not change or consent to any change in such rights and interests without the Obligor's prior written consent.

Optional Replacement:	At any time following the exercise by the Indenture Trustee of its right to require the Obligor to pay Specified Claims when due and payable, the Obligor shall be entitled (but not obligated) to replace the Financing Entity as obligor and debtor and directly assume all of the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities. The Financing Entity (including through the Financial Services Manager) will ensure that any obligation and liabilities undertaken or assumed by it will by their terms permit such a replacement and assumption (or, if applicable, satisfaction and termination) by the Obligor without additional cost or penalty and without any requirement for further consent, approval or agreement.
Term:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will continue for as long as any Specified Claim remains outstanding.
Obligor Approval:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will become effective in respect of a Specified Claim (including any modification) only after the Obligor has confirmed in writing that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement applies to such Specified Claim. The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will annex the applicable forms of program and series documents under which obligations of the Financing Entity may arise (e.g., including the form of trust indenture and series supplemental indenture) and set out the terms and conditions and process for obtaining the Obligor's approval and confirmation that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement will apply to Specified Claims. Such approval may be made conditional on such matters as may be specified by the Obligor, including a maximum amount applicable to Specified Claims. The Province's approval of the form of any IESO/Financing Entity transfer agreement and any amendments will also be required.
FIPPA:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will acknowledge that the Obligor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Obligor, or any agent or representative of the Obligor in connection with the Change of Law Assumption Agreement, may be subject to disclosure in accordance with the act or as otherwise required by law.
Representations and Warranties:	To be determined by the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy in negotiation with the Financing Entity.

Confidentiality Obligations:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Obligor and the Financing Entity.
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario.

FAIR HYDRO PLAN – PROVINCIAL GUARANTEE

A. Issue

- Provincial Support Agreement Term Sheet

B. Background

- Under the terms of the proposed Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act"),[1] it is anticipated that the Ontario Power Generation ("OPG") will establish a subsidiary entity (the "Financing Entity") that will undertake a public debt offering to finance the implementation of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan (the "Fair Hydro Plan").

- The Ontario Finance Authority (the "OFA") is leading the negotiation of a term sheet with OPG that would outline the basis upon which the government of Ontario ("Ontario") would provide financial assurance to support such a debt offering.

- OPG has advised that a term sheet codifying Ontario's commitment, at least at a high level, will be necessary to support OPG's pending discussions with credit rating agencies, as well as the anticipated triple-A rating of the proposed debt offering.

- OPG provided the OFA with a draft of a proposed term sheet dated May 12, 2017 (the "May Term Sheet"). The May Term Sheet included a number of features that were unacceptable to Ontario, including, most notably, a performance guarantee covering obligations of the Independent Electricity System Operator (the "IESO") and a liquidity guarantee that would be triggered in the case of financial market disruption.

- In a meeting on July 12, 2017, the OFA communicated Ontario's concerns about the May Term Sheet and indicated that the province would be willing to provide financial assurance to prospective investors in respect of only two kinds of risk:

    - the possibility of future legislative by the government of Ontario compromising the economic rights of investors; and

[1] S.O. 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1.

- the possibility that the Fair Hydro Plan is ultimately found to be invalid from a constitutional perspective by a court of competent jurisdiction.

- The OFA accepted that it was fair and reasonable for the province to provide a guarantee in respect of these two risks because they would be a consequence of the government`s past and future policy decisions. However, the OFA indicated that investors would need to assume the risk associated with other aspects of the Fair Hydro Plan and the risk of future market disruption.

C. Current Status

- The OPG took Ontario's position back to the investment dealers and worked with them to develop a revised term sheet that better reflected this more limited form of provincial guarantee (the "August Term Sheet").

- Ontario's external counsel (Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP ("Blakes")) provided a mark-up of the August Term Sheet identifying a number of continuing concerns arising out of the draft provisions and to propose further amendments intended to address those concerns.

- On August 22, 2017, counsel from the Ministry of Energy, the Ministry of Finance ("MOF-LSB") and Blakes met with representatives from the OFA to discuss a number the issues identified by Blakes, as well as a number of further concerns identified by counsel in MOF-LSB.

D. Analysis

Purpose of Term Sheet

- As a preliminary matter, it is important to recognize that the purpose of the proposed Term Sheet is not to create enforceable rights or obligations. Section 5(3) of the Act makes it clear that any guarantee provided by the province must be agreed to by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (acting together) as authorized by order of the Lieutenant Governor in Council (the "LGIC"). The LGIC has not yet made an OIC authorizing the responsible Ministers to enter into any guarantee and therefore the Ministers do not yet have any legal authority to do so.

- Against this backdrop, it is clear that the purpose of the Term Sheet is to outline, in a general way, a high level understanding of the type of financial assurance that the province might be willing to provide to prospective investors in appropriate circumstances. The actual terms and conditions of any future assurance agreement entered into by Ontario will need to be fully negotiated in the context of a specific transaction and would necessarily be subject to LGIC and Ministerial approval.

Continuing Legal Concerns

- Attached to this briefing note as Appendix "A" is a revised draft of the August Term Sheet reflecting the consolidated legal comments of Blakes, MOF-LSB and ENE-LSB. The revisions are broadly intended to address the following concerns:

  - Title – Blakes is of the view that the proposed provincial assurance agreement is more accurately characterized as an indemnity arrangement, than a guarantee. There are highly technical reasons underlying this position and we note that OPG's external counsel (Torys LLP) does not agree with this concern. Rather than engaging in this debate, we have simply re-titled the proposed agreement as a "Change of Law Assumption Agreement," which more specifically reflects the substantive nature of the assurances that the province intends to provide.

  - Preamble – We have added a provision to the preamble to more explicitly confirm that the arrangements contemplated in the Term Sheet are subject to further government approvals and that the document is not intended to create any legally binding obligations.

  - Beneficiaries – Torys has indicated that the provincial guarantee must be given directly in favour of the Indenture Trustee, rather than the Financing Entity. The purpose of this change is to ensure that bondholders would have a direct remedy against Ontario. We have revised the draft Term Sheet to reflect this intention on the basis that it would not materially increase the scope of Ontario's legal or financial liability under the guarantee. However, we note that one consequence of this change is that Ontario would be considered a separate issuer for U.S. securities law purposes.

  - Specified Claims – The August Term Sheet purported to extend to all of the "rights and interests of the Financing Entity", including, but not limited to, the right to receive the payments contemplated under the Fair Hydro Plan. The OFA has previously indicated to OPG that the province is only willing to be responsible for the payment of principal and interest on Senior Debt Obligations. This would exclude other costs and fees incurred by the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (e.g., law firms, accountants) and other types of claims that might be advanced by Beneficiaries in connection with the proposed guarantee. Limiting the province's liability to "senior" debt holders excludes OPG (who is a subordinated debt holder) on the basis that the province has already funded OPG's contribution by way of a liquidity injection. We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect these more limited concepts (primarily by way of a new definition of "Specified Claims").

- Materiality Threshold – The August Term Sheet included a series of "Guarantee Activation Events" that would trigger Ontario's obligations under the provincial assurance agreement. Although the enumerated list of events substantially reflected the limited form of guarantee proposed by the OFA, the August Term Sheet removed the "materiality" threshold for guaranteed claims. The intent of this change is to make the province liable in any case where the obligations of bondholders are not paid in full. However, this strict form of guarantee would expose the province to any unreasonable degree of risk. Beneficiaries could potentially seek to trigger the guarantee in response to routine legislative amendments affecting the value of their investment interest only indirectly or in insignificant ways (e.g., a merely theoretical diminution in the value of the regulatory asset or some kind of timing issue that modestly delays payment). For this reason, we have reintroduced the concept of "materiality" in the list of Guarantee Activation Events (now described as "Assumption Events").

- Right of Subrogation – We have added a provision to the Term Sheet making it clear that Ontario will be subrogated to the rights of Beneficiaries who receive payments under the guarantee. This ensures that the province will be entitled to pursue any civil remedies against third parties that may have been available to the Beneficiary in respect of such amounts.

- "Assumption" of Obligations – The provisions of the August Term Sheet stated that, upon the occurrence of a Guarantee Activation Event, Ontario "assume and pay" all of the obligations of the Financing Entity. This language seems to intend that the province would directly assume all of the Financing Entities obligations to the Indenture Trustee and bondholders. The OFA has previously indicated that Ontario is only willing to commit to pay the principal and interest obligations of the Financing Entity as they come due, and not to replace the Financing Entity and become directly liable for all its obligations (except at its own option as discussed below). We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect this more limited commitment.

- Optional Replacement – We have added to the Term Sheet an optional right on the part of the province to assume all of the rights and liabilities of the Financing Entity, without the need for any further consent or approval of the Indenture Trustee. This would provide Ontario with greater flexibility in determining how to deal with any claims arising under the guarantee, without imposing this more onerous obligation on the province.

- Approval Requirements – We have revised the approval requirement section of the Term Sheet to modestly strengthen Ontario's rights associated with the process for approving future transactions that will be covered by the provincial assurance agreement.

- Warehousing/Commingling Risks – The August Term Sheet included a series of provisions dealing with ongoing business concerns associated with debt warehousing risks and LDC credit rating commingling. As far as we are aware, the arrangements contemplated in these sections have not been agreed to by Ontario and it is not helpful to link them in this way to the ongoing negotiations around the proposed guarantee. For this reason, we have deleted them from the Term Sheet.

E. Recommendations and Next Steps

- MOF-LSB will be arranging a meeting with the OFA as early as practicable next week to discuss the communication of these comments and the revised draft Term Sheet to OPG.

Change of Law Assumption Agreement

Indicative Term Sheet

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This indicative term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act") and the regulations made thereunder (the "Regulation"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate. This Term Sheet is not intended to create any obligations or be binding on the parties.

Change of Law Assumption Agreement:	A Change of Law Assumption Agreement will be among the Obligor, a Financing Entity and an Indenture Trustee, acting for and on behalf of the Beneficiaries in accordance with a Trust Indenture.
Obligor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Indenture Trustee:	An indenture trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under an applicable Trust Indenture.
Beneficiaries:	The Indenture Trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under Specified Claims.
Specified Claims:	Payment obligations of the Financing Entity that are secured under the Trust Indenture and that are approved as contemplated below under Obligor Approval. Specified Claims are expected to include principal and interest on senior debt obligations issued by the Financing Entity [and any other monetary obligations of the Financing Entity that rank ahead of or equally in priority of payment with the senior debt obligations of the Financing Entity pursuant to the Trust Indenture].
Assumption Events:	Any of the following would constitute an Assumption Event: (A) (1) the Legislature repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) or amends the Act or any portion thereof; (2) the Legislature enacts or amends any other statute;

	(3) the Lieutenant Governor in Council repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) the General Regulation made under the Act or any portion thereof; or (4) the Lieutenant Governor in Council, a minister of the Crown, an official of the government or a board or commission all the members of which are appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council makes or amends any "regulation" (as defined in Part III of the Legislation Act, 2006), in each case, that materially and adversely affects (a) the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims or (b) the Change of Law Assumption Agreement or any of the agreements under which Specified Claims arise without the agreement of the Indenture Trustee; or (B) a court of competent jurisdiction in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act or the Regulation is ultra vires in a way that materially and adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims.
Obligation to Assume Specified Claims:	Upon the occurrence of an Assumption Event, the Indenture Trustee will have the right to require the Obligor to pay the amount of Specified Claims on behalf of the Financing Entity when they become due and payable (without acceleration). The exercise of such right by the Indenture Trustee in accordance with the Trust Indenture shall constitute the only remedy available under the Change of Law Assumption Agreement. Under no circumstances shall the Obligor be obligated to pay or indemnify a Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.
Subrogation:	Upon paying an amount to a Beneficiary in respect of a Specified Claim, the Obligor shall become entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Specified Claim, including the security interest in each related investment interest and related property of the Financing Entity and the obligations of the Financing Entity owing under the agreements under which the Specified Claim arises. The Financing Entity may not change or consent to any change in such rights and interests without the Obligor's prior written consent.

Optional Replacement:	At any time following the exercise by the Indenture Trustee of its right to require the Obligor to pay Specified Claims when due and payable, the Obligor shall be entitled (but not obligated) to replace the Financing Entity as obligor and debtor and directly assume all of the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities. The Financing Entity (including through the Financial Services Manager) will ensure that any obligation and liabilities undertaken or assumed by it will by their terms permit such a replacement and assumption (or, if applicable, satisfaction and termination) by the Obligor without additional cost or penalty and without any requirement for further consent, approval or agreement.
Term:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will continue for as long as any Specified Claim remains outstanding.
Obligor Approval:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will become effective in respect of a Specified Claim (including any modification) only after the Obligor has confirmed in writing that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement applies to such Specified Claim. The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will annex the applicable forms of program and series documents under which obligations of the Financing Entity may arise (e.g., including the form of trust indenture and series supplemental indenture) and set out the terms and conditions and process for obtaining the Obligor's approval and confirmation that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement will apply to Specified Claims. Such approval may be made conditional on such matters as may be specified by the Obligor, including a maximum amount applicable to Specified Claims. The Province's approval of the form of any IESO/Financing Entity transfer agreement and any amendments will also be required.
FIPPA:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will acknowledge that the Obligor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Obligor, or any agent or representative of the Obligor in connection with the Change of Law Assumption Agreement, may be subject to disclosure in accordance with the act or as otherwise required by law.
Representations and Warranties:	To be determined by the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy in negotiation with the Financing Entity.

Confidentiality Obligations:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Obligor and the Financing Entity.
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario.

How about we raise that at the meeting this afternoon?

I am thinking that CEO's office will be leading that effort potentially but we will see. I am happy to coordinate it too.

John – Energy have been asking me about scheduling a meeting with OFA, Finance, Energy and perhaps OPCD on this. I am not sure if you would be dealing with that, but I wonder if we should get something in the calendar perhaps even as early as tomorrow in order to move this forward.

John,

Together with our outside counsel at Blake's and Energy Legal we have revised the term sheet further.

The attached note, prepared by Energy Legal is a good summary of the issues and where things stand.

I think the next step is to have you and Ron discuss this draft, and prepare to meet with staff at the OFA and Energy once Gadi returns next week and has been briefed on the progress.

Please share as you think makes sense at the OFA, and let me know if you want to discuss further.

Best

Hi Cindy, Mark,

Ron and Ken are both away this week so I'm sending this at Gadi's request. As you will recall from the implementation meeting this morning, FHP-related bond issues by OPG FE will require a Provincial support to make it financeable.

The attached note by MOF Legal and Energy Legal staff [still draft for discussion purpose] would provide you with a sense of where the term sheet discussions currently are. It is possible that OPG may require more support than envisioned in the attached draft, which would be based on factors such as financeability, etc.

Apologies for the request just before your vacation but could you let us know if OPCD would have any concerns?

Thanks,

John

FAIR HYDRO PLAN – PROVINCIAL GUARANTEE

A. Issue

- Provincial Support Agreement Term Sheet

B. Background

- Under the terms of the proposed Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act"),[1] it is anticipated that the Ontario Power Generation ("OPG") will establish a subsidiary entity (the "Financing Entity") that will undertake a public debt offering to finance the implementation of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan (the "Fair Hydro Plan").

- The Ontario Finance Authority (the "OFA") is leading the negotiation of a term sheet with OPG that would outline the basis upon which the government of Ontario ("Ontario") would provide financial assurance to support such a debt offering.

- OPG has advised that a term sheet codifying Ontario's commitment, at least at a high level, will be necessary to support OPG's pending discussions with credit rating agencies, as well as the anticipated triple-A rating of the proposed debt offering.

- OPG provided the OFA with a draft of a proposed term sheet dated May 12, 2017 (the "May Term Sheet"). The May Term Sheet included a number of features that were unacceptable to Ontario, including, most notably, a performance guarantee covering obligations of the Independent Electricity System Operator (the "IESO") and a liquidity guarantee that would be triggered in the case of financial market disruption.

- In a meeting on July 12, 2017, the OFA communicated Ontario's concerns about the May Term Sheet and indicated that the province would be willing to provide financial assurance to prospective investors in respect of only two kinds of risk:

    - the possibility of future legislative by the government of Ontario compromising the economic rights of investors; and

[1] S.O. 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1.

- the possibility that the Fair Hydro Plan is ultimately found to be invalid from a constitutional perspective by a court of competent jurisdiction.

- The OFA accepted that it was fair and reasonable for the province to provide a guarantee in respect of these two risks because they would be a consequence of the government`s past and future policy decisions. However, the OFA indicated that investors would need to assume the risk associated with other aspects of the Fair Hydro Plan and the risk of future market disruption.

C. Current Status

- The OPG took Ontario's position back to the investment dealers and worked with them to develop a revised term sheet that better reflected this more limited form of provincial guarantee (the "August Term Sheet").

- Ontario's external counsel (Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP ("Blakes")) provided a mark-up of the August Term Sheet identifying a number of continuing concerns arising out of the draft provisions and to propose further amendments intended to address those concerns.

- On August 22, 2017, counsel from the Ministry of Energy, the Ministry of Finance ("MOF-LSB") and Blakes met with representatives from the OFA to discuss a number the issues identified by Blakes, as well as a number of further concerns identified by counsel in MOF-LSB.

Purpose of Term Sheet

- As a preliminary matter, it is important to recognize that the purpose of the proposed Term Sheet is not to create enforceable rights or obligations. Section 5(3) of the Act makes it clear that any guarantee provided by the province must be agreed to by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (acting together) as authorized by order of the Lieutenant Governor in Council (the "LGIC"). The LGIC has not yet made an OIC authorizing the responsible Ministers to enter into any guarantee and therefore the Ministers do not yet have any legal authority to do so.

- Against this backdrop, it is clear that the purpose of the Term Sheet is to outline, in a general way, a high level understanding of the type of financial assurance that the province might be willing to provide to prospective investors in appropriate circumstances. The actual terms and conditions of any future assurance agreement entered into by Ontario will need to be fully negotiated in the context of a specific transaction and would necessarily be subject to LGIC and Ministerial approval.

Continuing Legal Concerns

- Attached to this briefing note as Appendix "A" is a revised draft of the August Term Sheet reflecting the consolidated legal comments of Blakes, MOF-LSB and ENE-LSB. The revisions are broadly intended to address the following concerns:

  - Title – Blakes is of the view that the proposed provincial assurance agreement is more accurately characterized as an indemnity arrangement, than a guarantee. There are highly technical reasons underlying this position and we note that OPG's external counsel (Torys LLP) does not agree with this concern. Rather than engaging in this debate, we have simply re-titled the proposed agreement as a "Change of Law Assumption Agreement," which more specifically reflects the substantive nature of the assurances that the province intends to provide.

  - Preamble – We have added a provision to the preamble to more explicitly confirm that the arrangements contemplated in the Term Sheet are subject to further government approvals and that the document is not intended to create any legally binding obligations.

  - Beneficiaries – Torys has indicated that the provincial guarantee must be given directly in favour of the Indenture Trustee, rather than the Financing Entity. The purpose of this change is to ensure that bondholders would have a direct remedy against Ontario. We have revised the draft Term Sheet to reflect this intention on the basis that it would not materially increase the scope of Ontario's legal or financial liability under the guarantee. However, we note that one consequence of this change is that Ontario would be considered a separate issuer for U.S. securities law purposes.

  - Specified Claims – The August Term Sheet purported to extend to all of the "rights and interests of the Financing Entity", including, but not limited to, the right to receive the payments contemplated under the Fair Hydro Plan. The OFA has previously indicated to OPG that the province is only willing to be responsible for the payment of principal and interest on Senior Debt Obligations. This would exclude other costs and fees incurred by the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (e.g., law firms, accountants) and other types of claims that might be advanced by Beneficiaries in connection with the proposed guarantee. Limiting the province's liability to "senior" debt holders excludes OPG (who is a subordinated debt holder) on the basis that the province has already funded OPG's contribution by way of a liquidity injection. We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect these more limited concepts (primarily by way of a new definition of "Specified Claims").

- Materiality Threshold – The August Term Sheet included a series of "Guarantee Activation Events" that would trigger Ontario's obligations under the provincial assurance agreement. Although the enumerated list of events substantially reflected the limited form of guarantee proposed by the OFA, the August Term Sheet removed the "materiality" threshold for guaranteed claims. The intent of this change is to make the province liable in any case where the obligations of bondholders are not paid in full. However, this strict form of guarantee would expose the province to any unreasonable degree of risk. Beneficiaries could potentially seek to trigger the guarantee in response to routine legislative amendments affecting the value of their investment interest only indirectly or in insignificant ways (e.g., a merely theoretical diminution in the value of the regulatory asset or some kind of timing issue that modestly delays payment). For this reason, we have reintroduced the concept of "materiality" in the list of Guarantee Activation Events (now described as "Assumption Events").

- Right of Subrogation – We have added a provision to the Term Sheet making it clear that Ontario will be subrogated to the rights of Beneficiaries who receive payments under the guarantee. This ensures that the province will be entitled to pursue any civil remedies against third parties that may have been available to the Beneficiary in respect of such amounts.

- "Assumption" of Obligations – The provisions of the August Term Sheet stated that, upon the occurrence of a Guarantee Activation Event, Ontario "assume and pay" all of the obligations of the Financing Entity. This language seems to intend that the province would directly assume all of the Financing Entities obligations to the Indenture Trustee and bondholders. The OFA has previously indicated that Ontario is only willing to commit to pay the principal and interest obligations of the Financing Entity as they come due, and not to replace the Financing Entity and become directly liable for all its obligations (except at its own option as discussed below). We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect this more limited commitment.

- Optional Replacement – We have added to the Term Sheet an optional right on the part of the province to assume all of the rights and liabilities of the Financing Entity, without the need for any further consent or approval of the Indenture Trustee. This would provide Ontario with greater flexibility in determining how to deal with any claims arising under the guarantee, without imposing this more onerous obligation on the province.

- Approval Requirements – We have revised the approval requirement section of the Term Sheet to modestly strengthen Ontario's rights associated with the process for approving future transactions that will be covered by the provincial assurance agreement.

- Warehousing/Commingling Risks – The August Term Sheet included a series of provisions dealing with ongoing business concerns associated with debt warehousing risks and LDC credit rating commingling. As far as we are aware, the arrangements contemplated in these sections have not been agreed to by Ontario and it is not helpful to link them in this way to the ongoing negotiations around the proposed guarantee. For this reason, we have deleted them from the Term Sheet.

E. Recommendations and Next Steps

- MOF-LSB will be arranging a meeting with the OFA as early as practicable next week to discuss the communication of these comments and the revised draft Term Sheet to OPG.

Fyi.

In case you're checking emails, I have a question for you…..from the implementation meeting this morning, I learned that Cindy will be away for 2 weeks after this week. Given Gadi's question below about checking OPCD on the accounting, should someone ask OPCD on the accounting aspect sooner rather than later vis-à-vis the support agreement? This is accounting so I am reluctant to step in.

Hi Gadi,

Toby mentioned that the document was just finalized this morning, likely meaning that other than the various legal staff involved, not widely shared. We will need to start involving OPCD and others.

Mike gave me a call that he had a quick chat with John Lee at OPG and that OPG may be open to the proposed direction but TBD.

Thanks,

John

Thanks, John. Do you know if OPCD is comfortable with the revisions made by the lawyers, and if they are OK with it from an accounting perspective, do we know whether OPG will find this satisfactory for their bankers and the rating agencies?

Thanks again,
Gadi

Hi,

Pls. see attached note and the revised term sheet per MOF Legal, Energy Legal and Blake's. I believe the note is quite clear and self-explanatory. It was indicated at this morning's implementation meeting that things are moving along for September TB/MBC approval.

As suggested by MOF Legal, I am happy to coordinate a meeting for Wednesday when everyone (hopefully) is back and has had time to review.

Thanks,

John

John,

Together with our outside counsel at Blake's and Energy Legal we have revised the term sheet further.

The attached note, prepared by Energy Legal is a good summary of the issues and where things stand.

I think the next step is to have you and Ron discuss this draft, and prepare to meet with staff at the OFA and Energy once Gadi returns next week and has been briefed on the progress.

Please share as you think makes sense at the OFA, and let me know if you want to discuss further.

FAIR HYDRO PLAN – PROVINCIAL GUARANTEE

A. Issue

- Provincial Support Agreement Term Sheet

B. Background

- Under the terms of the proposed Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act"),[1] it is anticipated that the Ontario Power Generation ("OPG") will establish a subsidiary entity (the "Financing Entity") that will undertake a public debt offering to finance the implementation of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan (the "Fair Hydro Plan").

- The Ontario Finance Authority (the "OFA") is leading the negotiation of a term sheet with OPG that would outline the basis upon which the government of Ontario ("Ontario") would provide financial assurance to support such a debt offering.

- OPG has advised that a term sheet codifying Ontario's commitment, at least at a high level, will be necessary to support OPG's pending discussions with credit rating agencies, as well as the anticipated triple-A rating of the proposed debt offering.

- OPG provided the OFA with a draft of a proposed term sheet dated May 12, 2017 (the "May Term Sheet"). The May Term Sheet included a number of features that were unacceptable to Ontario, including, most notably, a performance guarantee covering obligations of the Independent Electricity System Operator (the "IESO") and a liquidity guarantee that would be triggered in the case of financial market disruption.

- In a meeting on July 12, 2017, the OFA communicated Ontario's concerns about the May Term Sheet and indicated that the province would be willing to provide financial assurance to prospective investors in respect of only two kinds of risk:

    - the possibility of future legislative by the government of Ontario compromising the economic rights of investors; and

[1] S.O. 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1.

- the possibility that the Fair Hydro Plan is ultimately found to be invalid from a constitutional perspective by a court of competent jurisdiction.

- The OFA accepted that it was fair and reasonable for the province to provide a guarantee in respect of these two risks because they would be a consequence of the government`s past and future policy decisions. However, the OFA indicated that investors would need to assume the risk associated with other aspects of the Fair Hydro Plan and the risk of future market disruption.

C. Current Status

- The OPG took Ontario's position back to the investment dealers and worked with them to develop a revised term sheet that better reflected this more limited form of provincial guarantee (the "August Term Sheet").

- Ontario's external counsel (Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP ("Blakes")) provided a mark-up of the August Term Sheet identifying a number of continuing concerns arising out of the draft provisions and to propose further amendments intended to address those concerns.

- On August 22, 2017, counsel from the Ministry of Energy, the Ministry of Finance ("MOF-LSB") and Blakes met with representatives from the OFA to discuss a number the issues identified by Blakes, as well as a number of further concerns identified by counsel in MOF-LSB.

Purpose of Term Sheet

- As a preliminary matter, it is important to recognize that the purpose of the proposed Term Sheet is not to create enforceable rights or obligations. Section 5(3) of the Act makes it clear that any guarantee provided by the province must be agreed to by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (acting together) as authorized by order of the Lieutenant Governor in Council (the "LGIC"). The LGIC has not yet made an OIC authorizing the responsible Ministers to enter into any guarantee and therefore the Ministers do not yet have any legal authority to do so.

- Against this backdrop, it is clear that the purpose of the Term Sheet is to outline, in a general way, a high level understanding of the type of financial assurance that the province might be willing to provide to prospective investors in appropriate circumstances. The actual terms and conditions of any future assurance agreement entered into by Ontario will need to be fully negotiated in the context of a specific transaction and would necessarily be subject to LGIC and Ministerial approval.

Continuing Legal Concerns

- Attached to this briefing note as Appendix "A" is a revised draft of the August Term Sheet reflecting the consolidated legal comments of Blakes, MOF-LSB and ENE-LSB. The revisions are broadly intended to address the following concerns:

  - Title – Blakes is of the view that the proposed provincial assurance agreement is more accurately characterized as an indemnity arrangement, than a guarantee. There are highly technical reasons underlying this position and we note that OPG's external counsel (Torys LLP) does not agree with this concern. Rather than engaging in this debate, we have simply re-titled the proposed agreement as a "Change of Law Assumption Agreement," which more specifically reflects the substantive nature of the assurances that the province intends to provide.

  - Preamble – We have added a provision to the preamble to more explicitly confirm that the arrangements contemplated in the Term Sheet are subject to further government approvals and that the document is not intended to create any legally binding obligations.

  - Beneficiaries – Torys has indicated that the provincial guarantee must be given directly in favour of the Indenture Trustee, rather than the Financing Entity. The purpose of this change is to ensure that bondholders would have a direct remedy against Ontario. We have revised the draft Term Sheet to reflect this intention on the basis that it would not materially increase the scope of Ontario's legal or financial liability under the guarantee. However, we note that one consequence of this change is that Ontario would be considered a separate issuer for U.S. securities law purposes.

  - Specified Claims – The August Term Sheet purported to extend to all of the "rights and interests of the Financing Entity", including, but not limited to, the right to receive the payments contemplated under the Fair Hydro Plan. The OFA has previously indicated to OPG that the province is only willing to be responsible for the payment of principal and interest on Senior Debt Obligations. This would exclude other costs and fees incurred by the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (e.g., law firms, accountants) and other types of claims that might be advanced by Beneficiaries in connection with the proposed guarantee. Limiting the province's liability to "senior" debt holders excludes OPG (who is a subordinated debt holder) on the basis that the province has already funded OPG's contribution by way of a liquidity injection. We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect these more limited concepts (primarily by way of a new definition of "Specified Claims").

- Materiality Threshold – The August Term Sheet included a series of "Guarantee Activation Events" that would trigger Ontario's obligations under the provincial assurance agreement. Although the enumerated list of events substantially reflected the limited form of guarantee proposed by the OFA, the August Term Sheet removed the "materiality" threshold for guaranteed claims. The intent of this change is to make the province liable in any case where the obligations of bondholders are not paid in full. However, this strict form of guarantee would expose the province to any unreasonable degree of risk. Beneficiaries could potentially seek to trigger the guarantee in response to routine legislative amendments affecting the value of their investment interest only indirectly or in insignificant ways (e.g., a merely theoretical diminution in the value of the regulatory asset or some kind of timing issue that modestly delays payment). For this reason, we have reintroduced the concept of "materiality" in the list of Guarantee Activation Events (now described as "Assumption Events").

- Right of Subrogation – We have added a provision to the Term Sheet making it clear that Ontario will be subrogated to the rights of Beneficiaries who receive payments under the guarantee. This ensures that the province will be entitled to pursue any civil remedies against third parties that may have been available to the Beneficiary in respect of such amounts.

- "Assumption" of Obligations – The provisions of the August Term Sheet stated that, upon the occurrence of a Guarantee Activation Event, Ontario "assume and pay" all of the obligations of the Financing Entity. This language seems to intend that the province would directly assume all of the Financing Entities obligations to the Indenture Trustee and bondholders. The OFA has previously indicated that Ontario is only willing to commit to pay the principal and interest obligations of the Financing Entity as they come due, and not to replace the Financing Entity and become directly liable for all its obligations (except at its own option as discussed below). We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect this more limited commitment.

- Optional Replacement – We have added to the Term Sheet an optional right on the part of the province to assume all of the rights and liabilities of the Financing Entity, without the need for any further consent or approval of the Indenture Trustee. This would provide Ontario with greater flexibility in determining how to deal with any claims arising under the guarantee, without imposing this more onerous obligation on the province.

- Approval Requirements – We have revised the approval requirement section of the Term Sheet to modestly strengthen Ontario's rights associated with the process for approving future transactions that will be covered by the provincial assurance agreement.

- Warehousing/Commingling Risks – The August Term Sheet included a series of provisions dealing with ongoing business concerns associated with debt warehousing risks and LDC credit rating commingling. As far as we are aware, the arrangements contemplated in these sections have not been agreed to by Ontario and it is not helpful to link them in this way to the ongoing negotiations around the proposed guarantee. For this reason, we have deleted them from the Term Sheet.

E. Recommendations and Next Steps

- MOF-LSB will be arranging a meeting with the OFA as early as practicable next week to discuss the communication of these comments and the revised draft Term Sheet to OPG.

Change of Law Assumption Agreement

Indicative Term Sheet

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This indicative term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act") and the regulations made thereunder (the "Regulation"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate. This Term Sheet is not intended to create any obligations or be binding on the parties.

Change of Law Assumption Agreement:	A Change of Law Assumption Agreement will be among the Obligor, a Financing Entity and an Indenture Trustee, acting for and on behalf of the Beneficiaries in accordance with a Trust Indenture.
Obligor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Indenture Trustee:	An indenture trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under an applicable Trust Indenture.
Beneficiaries:	The Indenture Trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under Specified Claims.
Specified Claims:	Payment obligations of the Financing Entity that are secured under the Trust Indenture and that are approved as contemplated below under Obligor Approval. Specified Claims are expected to include principal and interest on senior debt obligations issued by the Financing Entity [and any other monetary obligations of the Financing Entity that rank ahead of or equally in priority of payment with the senior debt obligations of the Financing Entity pursuant to the Trust Indenture].
Assumption Events:	Any of the following would constitute an Assumption Event: (A) (1) the Legislature repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) or amends the Act or any portion thereof; (2) the Legislature enacts or amends any other statute;

	(3) the Lieutenant Governor in Council repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) the General Regulation made under the Act or any portion thereof; or (4) the Lieutenant Governor in Council, a minister of the Crown, an official of the government or a board or commission all the members of which are appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council makes or amends any "regulation" (as defined in Part III of the Legislation Act, 2006), in each case, that materially and adversely affects (a) the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims or (b) the Change of Law Assumption Agreement or any of the agreements under which Specified Claims arise without the agreement of the Indenture Trustee; or (B) a court of competent jurisdiction in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act or the Regulation is ultra vires in a way that materially and adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims.
Obligation to Assume Specified Claims:	Upon the occurrence of an Assumption Event, the Indenture Trustee will have the right to require the Obligor to pay the amount of Specified Claims on behalf of the Financing Entity when they become due and payable (without acceleration). The exercise of such right by the Indenture Trustee in accordance with the Trust Indenture shall constitute the only remedy available under the Change of Law Assumption Agreement. Under no circumstances shall the Obligor be obligated to pay or indemnify a Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.
Subrogation:	Upon paying an amount to a Beneficiary in respect of a Specified Claim, the Obligor shall become entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Specified Claim, including the security interest in each related investment interest and related property of the Financing Entity and the obligations of the Financing Entity owing under the agreements under which the Specified Claim arises. The Financing Entity may not change or consent to any change in such rights and interests without the Obligor's prior written consent.

Optional Replacement:	At any time following the exercise by the Indenture Trustee of its right to require the Obligor to pay Specified Claims when due and payable, the Obligor shall be entitled (but not obligated) to replace the Financing Entity as obligor and debtor and directly assume all of the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities. The Financing Entity (including through the Financial Services Manager) will ensure that any obligation and liabilities undertaken or assumed by it will by their terms permit such a replacement and assumption (or, if applicable, satisfaction and termination) by the Obligor without additional cost or penalty and without any requirement for further consent, approval or agreement.
Term:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will continue for as long as any Specified Claim remains outstanding.
Obligor Approval:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will become effective in respect of a Specified Claim (including any modification) only after the Obligor has confirmed in writing that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement applies to such Specified Claim. The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will annex the applicable forms of program and series documents under which obligations of the Financing Entity may arise (e.g., including the form of trust indenture and series supplemental indenture) and set out the terms and conditions and process for obtaining the Obligor's approval and confirmation that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement will apply to Specified Claims. Such approval may be made conditional on such matters as may be specified by the Obligor, including a maximum amount applicable to Specified Claims. The Province's approval of the form of any IESO/Financing Entity transfer agreement and any amendments will also be required.
FIPPA:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will acknowledge that the Obligor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Obligor, or any agent or representative of the Obligor in connection with the Change of Law Assumption Agreement, may be subject to disclosure in accordance with the act or as otherwise required by law.
Representations and Warranties:	To be determined by the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy in negotiation with the Financing Entity.

Confidentiality Obligations:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Obligor and the Financing Entity.
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario.

Indicative Term Sheet

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This indicative term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act") and the regulations made thereunder (the "Regulation"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate. This Term Sheet is not intended to create any obligations or be binding on the parties.

Change of Law Assumption Agreement:	A Change of Law Assumption Agreement will be among the Obligor, a Financing Entity and an Indenture Trustee, acting for and on behalf of the Beneficiaries in accordance with a Trust Indenture.
Obligor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Indenture Trustee:	An indenture trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under an applicable Trust Indenture.
Beneficiaries:	The Indenture Trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under Specified Claims.
Specified Claims:	Payment obligations of the Financing Entity that are secured under the Trust Indenture and that are approved as contemplated below under Obligor Approval. Specified Claims are expected to include principal and interest on senior debt obligations issued by the Financing Entity [and any other monetary obligations of the Financing Entity that rank ahead of or equally in priority of payment with the senior debt obligations of the Financing Entity pursuant to the Trust Indenture].
Assumption Events:	Any of the following would constitute an Assumption Event: (A) (1) the Legislature repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) or amends the Act or any portion thereof; (2) the Legislature enacts or amends any other statute;

	(3) the Lieutenant Governor in Council repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) the General Regulation made under the Act or any portion thereof; or (4) the Lieutenant Governor in Council, a minister of the Crown, an official of the government or a board or commission all the members of which are appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council makes or amends any "regulation" (as defined in Part III of the Legislation Act, 2006), in each case, that materially and adversely affects (a) the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims or (b) the Change of Law Assumption Agreement or any of the agreements under which Specified Claims arise without the agreement of the Indenture Trustee; or (B) a court of competent jurisdiction in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act or the Regulation is ultra vires in a way that materially and adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims.
Obligation to Assume Specified Claims:	Upon the occurrence of an Assumption Event, the Indenture Trustee will have the right to require the Obligor to pay the amount of Specified Claims on behalf of the Financing Entity when they become due and payable (without acceleration). The exercise of such right by the Indenture Trustee in accordance with the Trust Indenture shall constitute the only remedy available under the Change of Law Assumption Agreement. Under no circumstances shall the Obligor be obligated to pay or indemnify a Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.
Subrogation:	Upon paying an amount to a Beneficiary in respect of a Specified Claim, the Obligor shall become entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Specified Claim, including the security interest in each related investment interest and related property of the Financing Entity and the obligations of the Financing Entity owing under the agreements under which the Specified Claim arises. The Financing Entity may not change or consent to any change in such rights and interests without the Obligor's prior written consent.

Optional Replacement:	At any time following the exercise by the Indenture Trustee of its right to require the Obligor to pay Specified Claims when due and payable, the Obligor shall be entitled (but not obligated) to replace the Financing Entity as obligor and debtor and directly assume all of the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities. The Financing Entity (including through the Financial Services Manager) will ensure that any obligation and liabilities undertaken or assumed by it will by their terms permit such a replacement and assumption (or, if applicable, satisfaction and termination) by the Obligor without additional cost or penalty and without any requirement for further consent, approval or agreement.
Term:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will continue for as long as any Specified Claim remains outstanding.
Obligor Approval:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will become effective in respect of a Specified Claim (including any modification) only after the Obligor has confirmed in writing that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement applies to such Specified Claim. The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will annex the applicable forms of program and series documents under which obligations of the Financing Entity may arise (e.g., including the form of trust indenture and series supplemental indenture) and set out the terms and conditions and process for obtaining the Obligor's approval and confirmation that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement will apply to Specified Claims. Such approval may be made conditional on such matters as may be specified by the Obligor, including a maximum amount applicable to Specified Claims. The Province's approval of the form of any IESO/Financing Entity transfer agreement and any amendments will also be required.
FIPPA:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will acknowledge that the Obligor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Obligor, or any agent or representative of the Obligor in connection with the Change of Law Assumption Agreement, may be subject to disclosure in accordance with the act or as otherwise required by law.
Representations and Warranties:	To be determined by the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy in negotiation with the Financing Entity.

Confidentiality Obligations:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Obligor and the Financing Entity.
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario.

Hi Mike, Ken,

I had a call with Adrian Nalasco who is acting for Steen. He has indicated that along with Steen, Energy's Deputy is away so it is difficult for him to provide a formal go-ahead to us. I explained to him the time sensitivity and that we would have a discussion with OPG on an informal basis to get their feedback on the latest draft which MOF Legal and Energy Legal have drafted. I gave him a bit of a background that OPG has had back and forth with us on previous versions of the draft.

With these caveats, Adrian is comfortable with various members of the OFA having discussions with OPG counterparts on the latest draft support agreement.

Thanks,

John

Hi Steen,

I'm sending the attached revised draft, non-binding term sheet on behalf of various parts of the OFA that are working on the Provincial guarantee / support agreement to support the OPG financing entity.

As you may have been informed, the attached draft term sheet was drafted jointly by MOF Legal, Energy Legal and Blakes' and is somewhat narrower in scope of the guarantee/support than the version that was provided by OPG in mid-August.

To discuss, we would like to host a meeting tomorrow, if possible, including your team and Energy Legal, MOF Legal and GBED. Also, Capital Markets folks here at the OFA are looking to share the draft term sheet with their counterparts at OPG. Pls. advise if you would have any issue with the sharing of the draft term sheet.

If you could advise of your availability, I would be happy to coordinate on behalf of everyone here at the OFA.

Thanks,

John

John,

Together with our outside counsel at Blake's and Energy Legal we have revised the term sheet further.

The attached note, prepared by Energy Legal is a good summary of the issues and where things stand.

I think the next step is to have you and Ron discuss this draft, and prepare to meet with staff at the OFA and Energy once Gadi returns next week and has been briefed on the progress.

Please share as you think makes sense at the OFA, and let me know if you want to discuss further.

Obligor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.

Beneficiaries:	The Indenture Trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under Specified Claims.
Specified Claims:	Payment obligations of the Financing Entity that are secured under the Trust Indenture and that are approved as contemplated below under Obligor Approval. Specified Claims are expected to include principal and interest on senior debt obligations issued by the Financing Entity [and any other monetary obligations of the Financing Entity that rank ahead of or equally in priority of payment with the senior debt obligations of the Financing Entity pursuant to the Trust Indenture].

Obligation to Assume Specified Claims:	Upon the occurrence of an Assumption Event, the Indenture Trustee will have the right to require the Obligor to pay the amount of Specified Claims on behalf of the Financing Entity when they become due and payable (without acceleration). The exercise of such right by the Indenture Trustee in accordance with the Trust Indenture shall constitute the only remedy available under the Change of Law Assumption Agreement. Under no circumstances shall the Obligor be obligated to pay or indemnify a Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.
Subrogation:	Upon paying an amount to a Beneficiary in respect of a Specified Claim, the Obligor shall become entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Specified Claim, including the security interest in each related investment interest and related property of the Financing Entity and the obligations of the Financing Entity owing under the agreements under which the Specified Claim arises. Such approval may be made conditional on such matters as may be specified by the Obligor, including a maximum amount applicable to Specified Claims. The Province's approval of the form of any IESO/Financing Entity transfer agreement and any amendments will also be required.

Representations and Warranties:	To be determined by the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy in negotiation with the Financing Entity.

Confidentiality Obligations:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Obligor and the Financing Entity.

CONFIDENTIAL AND PRIVILEGED LEGAL ADVICE

ISSUES LIST – PROVINCIAL SUPPORT AGREEMENT DRAFT MAY 12, 2017

1. Guarantor will be the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance on behalf of the Province (see. 5(3) of proposed Fair Hydro Act, 2017).

2. Description of proposed beneficiaries of guarantee is very broad. Provides that beneficiary is Indenture trustee under master trust indenture on behalf of itself and all persons that have claims against a Financing Entity secured under the master trust indenture. Persons range from the Financial Services Manager (OPG) to holders of various types of debt and hedge counterparties. Need to clarify which obligations the Province is being requested to guarantee and under what various agreements to determine scope and limit of guarantee. Is there a term sheet for the proposed financing to be issued by the Financing Entity? Is there a request for a guarantee of payment on other back-up or ancillary borrowing and obligations other than those issued in the market? Is there a draft of the Master Trust Indenture?

3. Why does the term of the guarantee continue for one year after the obligations have been repaid?

4. Performance Guarantee – This is also a very broad guarantee of performance of the IESO and all electricity services providers in favour of the same broad group of beneficiaries. How can the Province ensure that these entities perform their obligations practically? Also the Province is to protect beneficiaries from any commingling risk. It is noted that in the event the performance guarantee is unenforceable against the Province, there would be a separate legal obligation in the provincial support agreement to indemnify beneficiaries for any losses. Would there be any trigger events applicable to the obligation to indemnify as there are for the payment guarantee. If not, is this an issue for accounting treatment purposes? Also, is there an overlap between the performance and payment guarantee? So long as the funding obligations are paid on time by the financing entity, is there a need for other guarantees from the Province? Note that the Province does have immunity from specific types of enforcement under the Proceedings against the Crown Act. Is there a sample term sheet for the Master Sale and Servicing Agreement? Which provisions of the proposed bill are being relied on for this – is it section 5(2)? section 33. There doesn't seem to be a mechanism in the Act to replace the IESO as servicer. Should the Guarantee specify that the Province can appoint a replacement servicer?

5. Payment Guarantee Event – Regarding (B) and (C), the interpretation of when the triggering event has occurred will be an issue – is there a way to make it more objective or how can this be handled if there is a dispute? Regarding (D), think that there is going to be more discussion of the need for this provision from a business perspective. However, is this assuming, that the Province is guaranteeing both long term and short term funding obligations? Need to clarify when and which obligations the province will be guaranteeing?

6. Payment Guarantee – Again it will be necessary to clarify which obligations the province is guaranteeing to understand what the range of payments to be made are. Also, (y) does not seem acceptable to the Province from a business perspective.

7. Limits under Guarantee – The guarantee wording should be clear so that the Province is guaranteeing payment of certain debt or specific obligations only and the Province's liability should be capped. Province should not be exposed to the risk of any other types of damages or losses.

8. Priority of Payments – Until we know who the beneficiaries are and with respect to what obligations, it is difficult to comment on this.

9. Subrogation – Need to ensure that the Province has appropriate recovery rights and not sure that it is appropriate that all beneficiaries are paid in full before Province gets subrogation rights. Also there is no acceleration here and Province really pays on an ongoing basis so how should subrogation work in such a case.

10. Conditions Precedent – Need to know what they are proposed to be.

11. Representations – Need to know what they are proposed to be as Province does not typically provide representations in connection with guarantees it provides.

12. Confidentiality Obligations – Thought the guarantee is part of a public financing so wouldn't the terms all be known?

13. Legal Opinions – Content, who will be providing them and to whom would they be provided.

General Questions on proposed legislation and interaction with guarantee:

14. General review of relevant sections would be appreciated and how the provisions fit with the requirements of the financing. In particular, s. 5, 13, 19, 21, 22, 33, 41 par 7

Hi all,

We had a very useful meeting with Blakes (Steven Ashbourne) and Energy Legal this morning. There are quite a few legal issues and concerns to discuss regarding this term sheet as it is overly broad. At this point in the development of the province's role in support, it seems that the development of this type of term sheet is premature given the uncertainties.

At our meeting we discussed, that a useful next step would be to have another meeting with Provincial representatives and Blakes which would include yourselves from the OFA, Energy legal and Energy reps as well as the Provincial Controller and likely TD as well as the Province's financial advisor so that we can all discuss next steps and the best approach.

In the meantime, Toby and I can have an internal call to give you an update on our meeting this morning. Possibly at 3pm today if that works.

Thanks.

Malle

Provincial Support Arrangement

Here are some questions to frame our discussion at 9 a.m. this morning, based on the May 12th version of the Term Sheet:

1. Should the Province's support covenant run in favour of the indenture trustee (for beneficiaries) or only the finance entity and be pledged? This may impact matters such as whether the Province is seen as a 'co-issuer' under US securities laws and perhaps the Province's accounting treatment.

2. Should the support covenant be given in respect of all potential claimants from the financing entit(y/ies), or only specified creditors? For example, should the 'subordinated notes' be given the full benefit of the support covenant?

3. Should the support covenant be given up-front in an open-ended, program-wide fashion, or be given in relation to individual transactions and specified creditors of the financing entity at the relevant time of transacting and only for the duration of the relevant underlying obligations?

4. Should the support covenant purport to extend to more than one financing entity?

5. Extending the arrangement to 1 year beyond the latest obligation (broadly construed) essentially means the support covenant will hang out there indefinitely – is this intended?

6. Is the scope of the "performance guarantee" (i.e., servicing, commingling; EV's and IESO) appropriate? Should we make clear that it would not extend to "seller" obligations arising under the MSSA? Can the Province commit to "perform or cause the performance" as a powers matter?

7. Consider the deletions of the "Performance Guarantee Event" concept. As marked up, the performance guarantee would not require any process to first pursue remedies against IESO.

8. If a "payment guarantee" is to be provided, it will raise issues for the Province, including accounting treatment and scope of the support undertaking. Has this sort of investigation been undertaken by the Province at this point?

9. Consider the overall scope of the "payment guarantee event" provision. Issues include the risk that an amendment of the Act or Regulation has a non-material, incidental impact on the timing of payment (i.e., the receipt of funds from an EV), which triggers an effective put at a premium. Another is that a lower court finding of ultra vires could trigger the obligation, rather than a "final, non-appealable decision".

10. Should the support arrangement extend to cover "invalidity" or "unenforceability" (see (C) under "Payment Guarantee Event") that arises for reasons other than the validity of the Act and Regulation (e.g., if the actual funding obligation, which the Province may not even be aware of, is impugned for an unrelated reason, such as entity governance or contracting issues)?

11. The "market disruption" provision (see (D) under "Payment Guarantee Event") needs considerable further thought and refinement (e.g., as proposed, the event is based on the ability to refinance the particular funding obligations, rather than "general market disruption"). Is the Province prepared to be a standby purchaser of any funding obligations in any market-based illiquidity scenario? Note that private market liquidity or "extendable note features" may be available at a cost. In any event, support from the Province of this type should probably only be addressed very specifically and at the time of the specific transaction and narrowly with respect to the obligations for which this sort of protection is specifically required. Note that depending on the maturities incurred under the financing plan, this could cause a major funding requirement for the Province.

12. The "stand-in" payment provisions contemplated in clause (x) under "Payment Guarantee" need to be better understood. Assuming that they result in the rating of any bonds being downgraded to the Province's then rating, should the Province have a redemption option in that scenario?

13. The "put at a premium" provisions contemplated in clause (y) under "Payment Guarantee" would need to be refined so that the entire structure (i.e., all related finding obligations, such as swaps, sub debt and liquidity commitments) would be 'unwound' in total, rather than only certain debt to avoid standing or perpetuating attendant obligations. Is the 101% pay-out always appropriate? If the Province is liable for payments under obligations, will it need certainty as to the underlying terms and conditions?

14. What is the consequence of the market disruption scenario described in (D) under "Payment Guarantee Event" – it doesn't seem to be covered under "Payment Guarantee"?

15. The postponement of subrogation rights is a problem. In effect, a payment to a senior ranking creditor would provide credit enhancement to all junior ranking obligations which may not have been the intended beneficiaries of the support arrangement (including service providers and sub debt). The general approach to subrogation needs to be considered at the time of incurrence of a funding obligation in relation to the particular scenario and circumstances.

16. "Notice", "Closing", "Governing Law" and other mechanics will need to be revised as required to the extent that the provision of support is intended to be transaction-specific, creditor-specific, etc.

17. To the extent that the support is given up-front, the Province will need to have the benefit of its own very specific condition precedents, including to approve each future transaction and finding obligation – would this disrupt the accounting treatment anticipated for OPG based on excessive control over financings?

18. Consider whether accepting or acknowledging "customary representations" and "customary confidentiality obligations" in this context makes sense. Customary for the Province?

19. Has anyone considered the Province's related governance requirements and related due diligence (e.g., the implications of a US offering under US securities laws). In the absence of a structure and contracts, how can the Province be assured that it is not inadvertently becoming liable for unintended obligations, duties and liabilities (e.g., servicer buy-backs; "servicer advances"; entity-level tax payments; etc.)?

20. Has the Province's own accounting treatment for these been investigated? What limitations should be tabled at this stage?

21. Does the Province have concerns regarding potential for incongruences between the level of actual "independence" from the Province and public perception in relation to the OFHPA generally?

John,

I have been in touch with Energy Legal, and they have been working on drafting. They are going back to the policy folks on their side, and trying to better set out what roles everyone will play in the process. If you haven't heard from them on this, maybe it makes sense for you to reach out to them (and Kaitlin).

I think that the roles and process needs to be set out before we can move the drafting forward.

I think it probably makes sense for your team to have a discussion with Kaitlin as well as policy staff at ENERGY to figure out what the process for making calculations and confirming monthly calculations should be. My sense is that ENERGY thinks that the OFA should be doing the analysis on a monthly basis, but I have no basis for making such a call. It is an ENERGY program, and the Minister of Energy will be making the share purchases, but I am not sure where the expertise or the role lies for the analysis should be, or what kinds of confirmations/analysis is even being done on a monthly basis. If you can work that out with Kaitlin/ENERGY, then we can move forward with the drafting.

Happy to discuss further.

HI Toby,

Just wanted to get a sense of where things were with respect to the support agreement.

I've been a bit out of the loop on it and looking to update Ron.

Thanks,

John

Please see attached, for your review and comment, a revised draft that Stephen prepared based on our conversation yesterday. MOF Legal has no further comments on this draft.

I think that the two significant changes to note are:

1. The addition of the concept of "third party claims" as the driver of the indemnity section, meaning that the Indemnitee (which is a Financing Entity) can only bring a claim after a claim has been brought against them by a creditor.
2. The addition of the concept of conditions that would be required to step in in the event of funding mismatches, such as a market disruption event. As discussed yesterday, this provision is soft, so it is not clear what exactly this commits the Province to, but does give some comfort based on the language in this section.

Since there is a large group on this email, I think the best approach is to wait until noon for comments. If there are none by then, I will let Stephen and Energy know that we are ok with the draft, and Scott Nelms and whoever else needs to be involved with opening the discussions with OPG can use this version.

Hi. As a follow-up to our meeting earlier today, here is a revised version of the draft term sheet. The blackline shows changes from the June 14th version. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns with the comments – including the deletion of the 'privilege' reference. Scott has the OFA's green light to share the draft term sheet with OPG. Please send along any final thoughts as soon as you can. The plan will be for Scott to send it out tomorrow morning. Provincial Protection and Assurances

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate.

Performance Guarantees
Performance Guarantor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Beneficiaries:	Each Financing Entity that owns an investment interest from time to time. A Financing Entity may grant a security interest over its rights and interests under a Performance Guarantee to its creditors and contractual counterparties, including any indenture trustee acting on behalf of itself and other persons having debt or other claims against the Financing Entity that are secured under a related trust indenture.

[1] This draft term sheet is intended for discussion purposes only and does not represent a commitment of any party. Any agreement or undertaking of the Province contemplated in this term sheet may only be made either (a) with the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council as contemplated in subsection 5(2) of the Act or (b) under, and subject to, an order made by the Lieutenant Governor in Council as contemplated in subsection 5(3) of the Act.

Performance Guarantee:	Pursuant to a Performance Guarantee, the Performance Guarantor will guarantee the performance, or cause the performance, of the obligations of IESO as servicer under the Act and under any agreement under which the applicable Financing Entity acquires an investment interest from IESO and IESO undertakes on-going obligations in respect of such investment interest, including servicing obligations undertaken by IESO to enforce the performance by electricity vendors of their respective obligations under the Act. It is anticipated that such obligations will include matters related to the billing, collection and remittance of clean energy adjustments by IESO and electricity vendors, as the case may be, and regarding the commingling by IESO and electricity vendors of collections of clean energy adjustments with other amounts. In the event that the Performance Guarantee is held to be unenforceable against the Performance Guarantor, the Performance Guarantee will contemplate, in the alternative, a functionally equivalent direct covenant of the Performance Guarantor.
Term:	The Performance Guarantor's obligations under a Performance Guarantee in respect of a Financing Entity will continue during the term of any obligation incurred by the Financing Entity that is or is intended to be secured by the Performance Guarantee.
Approval Requirement:	The servicing obligations (including any amendments) to which the Performance Guarantee relates, together with the provisions of any Performance Guarantee itself, will be subject to the approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Limits under Performance Guarantee:	Under no circumstances shall the Performance Guarantor be obligated to pay special or punitive damages, or for loss of profits.
Indemnity
Indemnitor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Indemnitees:	Each Financing Entity that owns an investment interest from time to time. A Financing Entity may grant a security interest over the Indemnity to specified creditors, including to an indenture trustee under a trust indenture on behalf of itself and other persons having debt or other claims against the Financing Entity secured under the trust indenture.

Indemnity of the Province:	The Indemnitor will indemnify each Indemnitee for its costs, expenses and losses reasonably incurred by the Indemnitee because of third party claims made against the Indemnitee by one or more of its specified creditors that result from any of the following (each, an "Indemnification Event"): (A) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repealing (and not replacing on an equivalent basis) the Act; (B) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario amending the Act or a Regulation made thereunder in a way that materially and adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest; or (C) a court of competent jurisdiction in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act is ultra vires in a way that materially and adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest.
Term:	The Indemnity will continue during the term of any obligation incurred by a Financing Entity that is or is intended to be secured by the Indemnity.
Approval Requirement:	The terms and conditions of the obligations incurred by a Financing Entity that are secured or intended to be secured by an Indemnity, together with the provisions of any Indemnity itself, will be subject to the approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Limits under Indemnity:	Under no circumstances shall the Indemnitor be obligated to indemnify any Beneficiary for special or punitive damages, or for loss of profits.
Undertakings regarding Certain Mismatches
Avoidance of Mismatches	If a Financing Entity proposes to incur one or more funding obligations that would require the Financing Entity to pay an aggregate amount during any reference period that would exceed the amount otherwise expected to be available to the Financing Entity during the reference period from its investment interests to pay such amounts (a "Mismatch"), the Financing Entity will, before incurring such funding obligations, undertake commercially reasonable efforts to arrange for commitments from highly creditworthy, market-based funding sources in accordance with the Financing Plan to enable it to satisfy its related payment obligations and thereby avoid any Mismatch.

Possible Undertaking to Fund Mismatches	If a Financing Entity is unable to arrange for commitments from one or more highly creditworthy, market-based funding sources in accordance with the Financing Plan to avoid a Mismatch on commercially reasonable terms and conditions, the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together may undertake on behalf of the Province of Ontario to provide funding commitments to the extent necessary to provide the Financing Entity with required funding to avoid the Mismatch. Any such undertaking may only be given at or before the incurrence of the funding obligation that would otherwise result in the Mismatch and, if given, would be on such terms, including appropriate compensation to the Province of Ontario, and be subject to such conditions (for example and without limitation, funding being conditional on the occurrence of a market disruption that results in an inability to refinance the funding obligation) as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine are reasonable and appropriate in the circumstances. The decision to provide such an undertaking will be in the sole discretion of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance.
Documentation
Representations, Terms and Conditions:	Subject to approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
FIPPA:	Acknowledgement that the Performance Guarantor and the Indemnitor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Performance Guarantor or the Indemnitor, or any agent or representative of the Performance Guarantor or the Indemnitor, in connection with the transaction documents may be subject to disclosure in accordance with that act or as otherwise required by law.
Confidentiality Obligations:	Confidentiality obligations of each Financing Entity and its assignees, representatives and agents as may be determined to be appropriate by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario.

Any such undertaking may only be given at or before the incurrence of the funding obligation that would otherwise result in the Mismatch and, if given, would be on such terms ~~and conditions~~, including appropriate compensation to the Province of Ontario, and be subject to such conditions (for example and without limitation, funding being conditional on the occurrence of a market disruption that results in an inability to refinance the funding obligation) as

Good suggestion from Gadi – we should probably touch base internally in advance of meeting with OPG. I wonder if we could try for a quick 30 min phone call either tomorrow or Friday.

I will reach out to OPG to set something up for next week.

Subject: FW: EXTERNAL – Comments on Provincial Protection and Assurances Term Sheet - Fair Hydro

Hi,

Please see the following comments from OPG / Torys on the guarantees.

I wonder if we are now at a point we should suggest sitting down with OPG on this perhaps early next week.

Thanks,

Scott

Scott:

Further to our discussion on the outstanding issues, please find below the comments from the Dealers on the "Markup" of the Provincial Protection and Assurance term sheet.

As noted below, the next step should be to get the appropriate parties from the Province to sit down with the dealers and OPG to go over the points and agree on a basis to move forward.

We should try to do that sometime next week. Let us know what times work on the Province side and we will coordinate with the Dealers & counsels.

John/Les/Ken,

Please find below an issues list on the Province's comments on the Provincial Protection and Assurances Term Sheet (formerly the Provincial Support Agreement). This list reflects input from the dealers, Oslers and Torys. Please let us know if you have any additional comments or questions. If not, will you be reaching out to the Province to schedule a meeting next week (with the dealers, OPG, the Province and their counsels) to discuss these points? The dealers and their counsel don't see value in exchanging further drafts of the term sheet until they have had an opportunity to meet with the Province. We agree with this approach and are happy to assist in coordinating a meeting for next week. It would also be helpful to hear the Province's rationale and concerns for making some of these changes. Please let us know.

Many thanks,

Nina

1. The Servicing Guarantee:

(a) It is written in favour of only the financing entity. However, in the MTSA, we are asking for covenants directly in favour of Indenture Trustee. The Indenture Trustee/specified creditors should have the direct benefit of the guarantee rather than relying on an indirect security interest in the servicing guarantee.

(b) It should be clarified that the servicing obligations of the electricity vendors are covered.

(c) If the guarantee is unenforceable, we should fall back to an indemnity, not a "functionally equivalent direct covenant" which is an uncertain concept.

(d) We don't want an exclusion for economic loss. That may cover whatever losses the specified creditors do suffer.

2. Change of Law.

(a) This should be written as a guarantee not an indemnity.

(b) It should be directly in favour of the Indenture Trustee/specified creditors and it should cover all the “finance amount” and not just funding obligations.

(c) We do not want the guarantee to be provided by another entity which is in turn guaranteed by Ontario. It should come directly from Ontario.

(d) There should be no “materiality” threshold for a claim. If obligations are not paid in full, then there should be a claim.

(e) The choice to assume or accelerate should be at the option of the holders, not the guarantor.

(f) If accelerated, then the 1% premium should be payable. This is a voluntary termination by the Province.

3. Undertaking Regarding Mismatches (market disruption)

(a) At best this structure defers the discussion of protection for a market disruption. At worst, it is impractical that take-out financing needs to be arranged in advance of each warehouse financing. We should rely on a definition of market disruption.

4. Approvals.

(a) Province to clarify what is contemplated under the heading “Approval Requirement”. Is Province proposing to approve any obligation incurred by the Financing Entity?

(b) Approval under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act to be attained (in case the OFHPA is declared void in its entirety).

Provincial Support Agreement Term Sheet –

Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") is provided exclusively to the parties listed herein in connection with the draft Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial support agreement (the "Provincial Support Agreement") will contain the terms and conditions set out in this Term Sheet in addition to such other representations, warranties, indemnities, and other terms and conditions as the Guarantor and the Beneficiaries (each as defined below) may reasonably require.

Guarantor:	Her Majesty the Queen in right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Energy.
Beneficiaries:	The trust company acting as indenture trustee (together with its successors, the "Indenture Trustee") under the master trust indenture (the "Master Trust Indenture") acting for the benefit of all persons who may have contractual claims against a Financing Entity (collectively, the "Beneficiaries") (including, without limitation, holders of senior and subordinated notes, senior and subordinated lenders, hedge counterparties, credit enhancers, liquidity providers, the Financial Services Manager, the Indenture Trustee and the trustee of the Financing Entity[1]).
Term:	The Guarantor's obligations under the Provincial Support Agreement will continue until [one year][2] after all Funding Obligations of all Financing Entities have been repaid.
Performance Guarantee:	[Upon the occurrence of a Performance Guarantee Event], the Indenture Trustee will be entitled to require the Guarantor to appoint a replacement servicer who will perform IESO's duties as servicer under the Master Sale and Servicing Agreement between IESO, as seller and servicer, and the Financing Entity, as purchaser, [and OPG as Financial Services Manager] ("MSSA"). In the event that the performance guarantee is unenforceable against the Guarantor, the Provincial Support Agreement will contemplate a separate legal obligation by the Guarantor to indemnify the Indenture Trustee.

[1] We have assumed that the initial Financing Entity will be a trust.

[2] This mirrors the requirement expected to be in the Regulations under the Act not to wind up, dissolve or liquidate a Financing Entity until at least one year after all of its Funding Obligations have been repaid.

Performance Guarantee Event:	A "Servicer Default" occurs under the MSSA[3]
Payment Guarantee:	[Upon the occurrence of a Payment Guarantee Event and within [5/10] business days after receiving a demand from the Indenture Trustee], the Guarantor shall [guarantee and indemnify the Indenture Trustee (for and on behalf of the Beneficiaries) by paying all regularly scheduled interest and principal payments during the term of a Financing Entity's contractual obligation to such Beneficiary]/[assume the contractual obligations of a Financing Entity to the Beneficiaries][4], which for greater certainty shall not include any default, penalty, prepayment, or make whole amounts.
Payment Guarantee Event:	(A) if the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repeals the Act; or (B) if the Legislative Assembly of Ontario amends the Act or Regulation thereunder in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest; or (C) if a court of competent jurisdiction (i) determines all or a portion of the Act to be ultra vires in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest or (ii) declares any funding obligations to be invalid or unenforceable.
Limits under Guarantees:	Under no circumstances shall the Guarantor be obligated to indemnify any Beneficiary for special or punitive damages, or loss of profits.
Priority of Payments:	The priority of the Beneficiaries to any payment made by the Guarantor under the Provincial Support Agreement shall be governed by the priority provisions in the Master Trust Indenture.

[3] Each Servicer Default will include its own cure period before the event becomes a Servicer Default.

[4] To confirm if Province will become the debtor under the applicable debt documentation or if the Financing Entity will continue to be the primary obligor with the Province acting as secondary obligor.

Subrogation:	Where the Guarantor has repaid a Beneficiary, to the extent of such payment, the Guarantor is subrogated in and to all the rights of recovery of such Beneficiary in respect of the applicable indebtedness and the security granted by a Financing Entity to the Indenture Trustee. After repayment by the Guarantor of all amounts owing to a Beneficiary, the Indenture Trustee will acknowledge and agree on behalf of such Beneficiary that the Guarantor is entitled to exercise all of the rights, powers and privileges that the Beneficiary has or may exercise in respect of the repaid indebtedness, all in accordance with the terms of the Master Trust Indenture.
Notice Requirements:	The Indenture Trustee will be required to provide notice to the Guarantor of a Performance Guarantee Event or Payment Guarantee Event and may in such notice demand payment or performance of the Guarantor's obligation under the Provincial Support Agreement, as applicable.
Closing:	Date to be determined but no later than [■, 2017]. The Closing is the date on which the documents in respect of the MSSA, the Master Trust Indenture and all related documentation are executed and delivered.
Reporting Requirements of a Financing Entity:	The Guarantor will be entitled to receive all reports received by the Indenture Trustee under the Master Trust Indenture.
Conditions Precedent to Closing:	Conditions precedent to Closing shall be those conditions set out in the Master Trust Indenture.[5]
Representations:	Customary representations and warranties of the Guarantor.
FIPPA:	Acknowledgement that the Guarantor is bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Guarantor or its agents or representatives in connection with the Transaction Documents may be subject to disclosure in accordance with that act or as otherwise required by law.

[5] Opinions on the validity and enforceability of Provincial Support Agreement will be required.

Confidentiality Obligations:	Customary confidentiality obligations to be negotiated and included. A Financing Entity and the Beneficiaries shall not, subject to applicable law, issue any press releases and other public announcements in respect of the Provincial Support Agreement without the prior written consent of the Guarantor.

Subject: RE: Term Sheet - Provincial Support Agreement relating to the Fair Hydro Trust

My take:

- IESO is responsible for paying the interest/admin costs to the Trust to ensure Trust's investors are paid.
- If any of the following events occur, [its assumed that IESO, as servicer, is in default, as per another agreement, Master Sale and Servicing Agreement – we should ask to see this agreement], the Province guarantees those payments to the investors in the Trust

Conditions for Guarantee to kick in if IESO cannot make payment:

a) if the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repeals the Act; or
b) if the Legislative Assembly of Ontario amends the Act or Regulation thereunder in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest; or
c) if a court of competent jurisdiction (i) determines all or a portion of the Act to be ultra vires in a way that adversely impacts the ability of a Financing Entity to fully recover an investment interest in order to fully pay all obligations incurred by such Financing Entity in respect of such investment interest or (ii) declares any funding obligations to be invalid or unenforceable.

We should ask to see what triggers IESO default in the Master Sale and Servicing Agreement. Given what it says, IESO may still be able to "service" the obligations of the Financing Entity. The language in the guarantee, however, leads me to believe that should the above conditions come into play, IESO automatically defaults and Province takes over.

Furthermore:
In the event that the performance guarantee is unenforceable against the Guarantor, the Provincial Support Agreement will contemplate a separate legal obligation by the Guarantor to indemnify the Indenture Trustee.

FAIR HYDRO PLAN – PROVINCIAL GUARANTEE

A. Issue

- Provincial Support Agreement Term Sheet

B. Background

- Under the terms of the proposed Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act"),[1] it is anticipated that the Ontario Power Generation ("OPG") will establish a subsidiary entity (the "Financing Entity") that will undertake a public debt offering that is part of the ~~to~~ financing~~e~~ required for the implementation of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan (the "Fair Hydro Plan").

- The Ontario Finance Authority (the "OFA") is leading the negotiation of a term sheet with OPG that would outline the basis upon which the government of Ontario ("Ontario") would provide financial assurance to support such a debt offering.

- OPG has advised that a term sheet codifying Ontario's commitment, at least at a high level, will be necessary to support OPG's pending discussions with credit rating agencies. OPG and its advisors are of the opinion that a robust provincial guarantee has the potential positively impact on the eventual credit rating assigned to the financing entity. , ~~as well as the anticipated triple-A rating of the proposed debt offering.~~

- OPG provided the OFA with a draft of a proposed term sheet dated May 12, 2017 (the "May Term Sheet"). The May Term Sheet included a number of features that were unacceptable to Ontario, including, most notably, a requirement to pay off all debt obligations of the Financing Entity including a 1% premium under certain circumstances. Other features that presented difficulties from the Province's perspective included a performance guarantee covering obligations of the Independent Electricity System Operator (the "IESO") and a liquidity guarantee that would be triggered in the case of financial market disruption.

Commented [KK1]: Note that the public debt offering is only 51%

[1] S.O. 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1.

- In a meeting on July 12, 2017, the OFA communicated Ontario's concerns about the May Term Sheet and indicated that the province would be willing to provide financial assurance to prospective investors in respect of only two kinds of risk:

    - the possibility of future legislative by the government of Ontario compromising the economic rights of investors; and

    - the possibility that the Fair Hydro Plan is ultimately found to be invalid from a constitutional perspective by a court of competent jurisdiction.

    - A change in the organization, structure or operations of the IESO or a change in the electricity market structure that adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to make payments on its debt obligations

- The OFA accepted that it was fair and reasonable for the province to provide a guarantee in respect of these three~~wo~~ risks because they would be a consequence of the government`s past and future policy decisions. However, the OFA indicated that investors would need to assume the risk associated with other aspects of the Fair Hydro Plan and the risk of future capital market disruptions.

C. Current Status

- The OPG took Ontario's position back to the investment dealers and worked with them to develop a revised term sheet that better reflected this more limited form of provincial guarantee (the "August Term Sheet").

- Ontario's external counsel (Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP ("Blakes")) provided a mark-up of the August Term Sheet identifying a number of continuing concerns arising out of the draft provisions and to propose further amendments intended to address those concerns.

- On August 22, 2017, counsel from the Ministry of Energy, the Ministry of Finance ("MOF-LSB") and Blakes met with representatives from the OFA to discuss a number the issues identified by Blakes, as well as a number of further concerns identified by counsel in MOF-LSB.

Purpose of Term Sheet

- As a preliminary matter, it is important to recognize that the purpose of the proposed Term Sheet is not to create enforceable rights or obligations. Section 5(3) of the Act makes it clear that any guarantee provided by the province must be agreed to by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance (acting together) as authorized by order of the

Formatted: List Paragraph, No bullets or numbering

Lieutenant Governor in Council (the "LGIC"). The LGIC has not yet made an OIC authorizing the responsible Ministers to enter into any guarantee and therefore the Ministers do not yet have any legal authority to do so.

- Against this backdrop, it is clear that the purpose of the Term Sheet is to outline, in a general way, a high level understanding of the type of financial assurance that the province might be willing to provide to prospective investors in appropriate circumstances. The actual terms and conditions of any future assurance agreement entered into by Ontario will need to be fully negotiated in the context of a specific transaction and would necessarily be subject to LGIC and Ministerial approval.

Continuing Legal Concerns

- Attached to this briefing note as Appendix "A" is a revised draft of the August Term Sheet reflecting the consolidated legal comments of Blakes, MOF-LSB and ENE-LSB. The revisions are broadly intended to address the following concerns:

  - Title – Blakes is of the view that the proposed provincial assurance agreement is more accurately characterized as an indemnity arrangement, than a guarantee. There are highly technical reasons underlying this position and we note that OPG's external counsel (Torys LLP) does not agree with this concern. Rather than engaging in this debate, we have simply re-titled the proposed agreement as a "Change of Law Assumption Agreement," which more specifically reflects the substantive nature of the assurances that the province intends to provide.

  - Preamble – We have added a provision to the preamble to more explicitly confirm that the arrangements contemplated in the Term Sheet are subject to further government approvals and that the document is not intended to create any legally binding obligations.

  - Beneficiaries – Torys has indicated that the provincial guarantee must be given directly in favour of the Indenture Trustee, rather than the Financing Entity. The purpose of this change is to ensure that bondholders would have a direct remedy against Ontario. We have revised the draft Term Sheet to reflect this intention on the basis that it would not materially increase the scope of Ontario's legal or financial liability under the guarantee. However, we note that one consequence of this change is that Ontario would be considered a separate issuer for U.S. securities law purposes.

  - Specified Claims – The August Term Sheet purported to extend to all of the "rights and interests of the Financing Entity", including, but not limited to, the right to receive the payments contemplated under the Fair Hydro Plan. The OFA has previously indicated to OPG that the province is only willing to be responsible for the payment of principal and interest on Senior Debt Obligations. This would Commented [KK2]: Reading the comments from Steve Ashbourne, I am not sure if he conclusively states that Ontario will in fact become an issuer, rater he simply raises the possibility. In any event this is only an issue if the FE has to raise funds in the US Markets, something that the OFA is not in favour, at least over the next few years.

exclude other costs and fees incurred by the Financing Entity related to the Fair Hydro program such as payments to service providers (e.g., law firms, accountants) and other types of claims that might be advanced by Beneficiaries in connection with the proposed guarantee. Limiting the province's liability to "senior" debt holders excludes OPG (who is a subordinated debt holder) on the basis that the province has already funded OPG's contribution by way of a liquidity injection. We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect these more limited concepts (primarily by way of a new definition of "Specified Claims").

Commented [KK3]: The OFA is not particularly fussed about extending the guarantee to cover these payments; within the overall context of the FHP these amounts will not be material.

- Materiality Threshold – The August Term Sheet included a series of "Guarantee Activation Events" that would trigger Ontario's obligations under the provincial assurance agreement. Although the enumerated list of events substantially reflected the limited form of guarantee proposed by the OFA, the August Term Sheet removed the "materiality" threshold for guaranteed claims. The intent of this change is to make the province liable in any case where the obligations of bondholders are not paid in full. However, this strict form of guarantee would expose the province to any unreasonable degree of risk. Beneficiaries could potentially seek to trigger the guarantee in response to routine legislative amendments affecting the value of their investment interest only indirectly or in insignificant ways (e.g., a merely theoretical diminution in the value of the regulatory asset or some kind of timing issue that modestly delays payment). For this reason, we have reintroduced the concept of "materiality" in the list of Guarantee Activation Events (now described as "Assumption Events").

- Right of Subrogation – We have added a provision to the Term Sheet making it clear that Ontario will be subrogated to the rights of Beneficiaries who receive payments under the guarantee. This ensures that the province will be entitled to pursue any civil remedies against third parties that may have been available to the Beneficiary in respect of such amounts.

- "Assumption" of Obligations – The provisions of the August Term Sheet stated that, upon the occurrence of a Guarantee Activation Event, Ontario "assume and pay" all of the obligations of the Financing Entity. This language seems to intend that the province would directly assume all of the Financing Entities obligations to the Indenture Trustee and bondholders. The OFA has previously indicated that Ontario is only willing to commit to pay the principal and interest obligations of the Financing Entity as they come due, and not to replace the Financing Entity and become directly liable for all its obligations (except at its own option as discussed below). We have revised the Term Sheet to reflect this more limited commitment.

- Optional Replacement – We have added to the Term Sheet an optional right on the part of the province to assume all of the rights and liabilities of the Financing Entity, without the need for any further consent or approval of the Indenture

Trustee. This would provide Ontario with greater flexibility in determining how to deal with any claims arising under the guarantee, without imposing this more onerous obligation on the province.

- Approval Requirements – We have revised the approval requirement section of the Term Sheet to modestly strengthen Ontario's rights associated with the process for approving future transactions that will be covered by the provincial assurance agreement.

- Warehousing/Commingling Risks – The August Term Sheet included a series of provisions dealing with ongoing business concerns associated with debt warehousing risks and LDC credit rating commingling. As far as we are aware, the arrangements contemplated in these sections have not been agreed to by Ontario and it is not helpful to link them in this way to the ongoing negotiations around the proposed guarantee. For this reason, we have deleted them from the Term Sheet.

E. Recommendations and Next Steps

- MOF-LSB will be arranging a meeting with the OFA as early as practicable next week to discuss the communication of these comments and the revised draft Term Sheet to OPG.

Change of Law Assumption Agreement

Indicative Term Sheet

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This indicative term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Act") and the regulations made thereunder (the "Regulation"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate. This Term Sheet is not intended to create any obligations or be binding on the parties.

Change of Law Assumption Agreement:	A Change of Law Assumption Agreement will be among the Obligor, a Financing Entity and an Indenture Trustee, acting for and on behalf of the Beneficiaries in accordance with a Trust Indenture.
Obligor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Indenture Trustee:	An indenture trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under an applicable Trust Indenture.
Beneficiaries:	The Indenture Trustee, acting for itself and on behalf of other persons entitled under Specified Claims.
Specified Claims:	Payment obligations of the Financing Entity that are secured under the Trust Indenture and that are approved as contemplated below under Obligor Approval. Specified Claims are expected to include principal and interest on senior debt obligations issued by the Financing Entity [and any other monetary obligations of the Financing Entity that rank ahead of or equally in priority of payment with the senior debt obligations of the Financing Entity pursuant to the Trust Indenture].
Assumption Events:	Any of the following would constitute an Assumption Event: (A) (1) the Legislature repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) or amends the Act or any portion thereof; (2) the Legislature enacts or amends any other statute;

	(3) the Lieutenant Governor in Council repeals (and does not replace on an equivalent basis) the General Regulation made under the Act or any portion thereof; or (4) the Lieutenant Governor in Council, a minister of the Crown, an official of the government or a board or commission all the members of which are appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council makes or amends any "regulation" (as defined in Part III of the Legislation Act, 2006), in each case, that materially and adversely affects (a) the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims or (b) the Change of Law Assumption Agreement or any of the agreements under which Specified Claims arise without the agreement of the Indenture Trustee; or (B) a court of competent jurisdiction in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act or the Regulation is ultra vires in a way that materially and adversely affects the ability of the Financing Entity to receive amounts on its investment interest so that it can pay Specified Claims.
Obligation to Assume Specified Claims:	Upon the occurrence of an Assumption Event, the Indenture Trustee will have the right to require the Obligor to pay the amount of Specified Claims on behalf of the Financing Entity when they become due and payable (without acceleration). The exercise of such right by the Indenture Trustee in accordance with the Trust Indenture shall constitute the only remedy available under the Change of Law Assumption Agreement. Under no circumstances shall the Obligor be obligated to pay or indemnify a Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.
Subrogation:	Upon paying an amount to a Beneficiary in respect of a Specified Claim, the Obligor shall become entitled to all of the applicable Beneficiary's rights and interests under and in respect of the Specified Claim, including the security interest in each related investment interest and related property of the Financing Entity and the obligations of the Financing Entity owing under the agreements under which the Specified Claim arises. The Financing Entity may not change or consent to any change in such rights and interests without the Obligor's prior written consent.

Optional Replacement:	At any time following the exercise by the Indenture Trustee of its right to require the Obligor to pay Specified Claims when due and payable, the Obligor shall be entitled (but not obligated) to replace the Financing Entity as obligor and debtor and directly assume all of the Financing Entity's outstanding obligations and liabilities. The Financing Entity (including through the Financial Services Manager) will ensure that any obligation and liabilities undertaken or assumed by it will by their terms permit such a replacement and assumption (or, if applicable, satisfaction and termination) by the Obligor without additional cost or penalty and without any requirement for further consent, approval or agreement.
Term:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will continue for as long as any Specified Claim remains outstanding.
Obligor Approval:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will become effective in respect of a Specified Claim (including any modification) only after the Obligor has confirmed in writing that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement applies to such Specified Claim. The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will annex the applicable forms of program and series documents under which obligations of the Financing Entity may arise (e.g., including the form of trust indenture and series supplemental indenture) and set out the terms and conditions and process for obtaining the Obligor's approval and confirmation that the Change of Law Assumption Agreement will apply to Specified Claims. Such approval may be made conditional on such matters as may be specified by the Obligor, including a maximum amount applicable to Specified Claims. The Province's approval of the form of any IESO/Financing Entity transfer agreement and any amendments will also be required.
FIPPA:	The Change of Law Assumption Agreement will acknowledge that the Obligor will be bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Obligor, or any agent or representative of the Obligor in connection with the Change of Law Assumption Agreement, may be subject to disclosure in accordance with the act or as otherwise required by law.
Representations and Warranties:	To be determined by the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy in negotiation with the Financing Entity.

Confidentiality Obligations:	To be determined based on what would be customary and appropriate for similar types of arrangements and is acceptable to the Obligor and the Financing Entity.
Governing Law:	Province of Ontario.

Hi Cindy, Steen, Kelly (for Scott), and Malle,

Attached, for your review and comment, is a draft TB submission for the Provincial Guarantee.

This submission is somewhat premature, as there continue to be discussions about which Ministry might bring this forward (for instance, the Provincial Guarantee piece could be incorporated into a broader report back by the Ministry of Energy) and when this might go to TB/MBC (mid to late September); however, Gadi is on vacation for two weeks starting Monday, so we wanted to get a head start on something that could be moved forward in his absence.

I apologize for the tight timelines, but we are hoping to have your comments (even preliminary comments) by noon tomorrow. I expect that subsequent iterations of this submission and/or the TB Assessment Note will be circulated again for your input.

Please don't hesitate to contact me should you have any questions.

PROVINCIAL GUARANTEE TO OPG FINANCING ENTITY

1. PROGRAM/BRANCH: Ontario Financing Authority

2. SUMMARY OF REQUEST:

Provide a guarantee or guarantees to one or more OPG Financing Entities established to perform under the Ontario Fair hydro Plan Act and such entity or entities prospective debt holders, that, under certain circumstances, the Province would assume the debt obligations of the Financing Entity.

This submission is to request that Treasury Board:

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a provincial guarantee, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the guarantee.

3. BACKGROUND:

On March 2, 2017, the government announced its proposed Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan (OFHP), which would lower bills by 25% for a typical residential consumer, starting in the summer of 2017. The OFHP includes the deferral of a portion of the Global Adjustment portion of the cost of electricity. The deferral is built around the principle that the costs incurred to put in place assets for generation and support conservation to move to a clean, reliable system, would last longer than their typical 20-year contract period and would be able to provide benefits for future ratepayers, and that the costs should be spread more fairly.

To this end, immediate rate relief to eligible ratepayers is provided by spreading the cost of electricity investments over a longer period of time. Under forecasts provided by the Ministry of Energy at the time of the OFHP announcement in March, the immediate reduction would be about $2.5 billion per year on average over the first ten years. This estimate is being updated and will be presented to TB/MBC as part of a report-back by the Ministry of Energy.

Under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, (the Act), which came into effect on June 1, 2017, the IESO is able to create a regulatory asset approximately equal to the difference between collections from current ratepayers and payment obligations to generators and conservation. The Act provides for the IESO to sell the regulatory asset and the right to recover those deferred amounts from specified consumers in the future. Under the Act, a Financing Entity will purchase the regulatory asset, effectively financing the shortfall in current rates not received from the ratepayers.

To purchase the regulatory asset from IESO, the Financing Entity must borrow a portion of the funds (planned to be 51%, with other financing to come from OPG and, indirectly, the Province) from the capital markets; however, OPG's financial advisors have indicated that without adequate protection against legislative, judicial and organizational risk, the debt would not be financeable. OPG is, therefore, requesting that the Government of Ontario provide a guarantee to the Financing Entity and prospective debt holders such that, under certain circumstances, the Province would step in and assume the funding obligations of the Financing Entity.

Certain events that would negatively impact holders of Fair Hydro Plan debt would activate the Provincial Guarantee:

- Decisions by the Legislative Assembly, i.e., repeal of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, or amendments or new legislation that adversely affect the Financing Entity;
- A court decision that declares any funding obligations of the Financing Entity to be invalid or unenforceable; and

- Changes to the organization, structure or operations of IESO adversely impacting the Financing Entity.

In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province would take over the obligations of the Financing Entity including principal and interest payments on debt issued to date and any outstanding payments to service providers.

The guarantee would continue until all obligations of the Financing Entity are fully discharged.

5. ADMINISTRATIVE IMPACTS:

To be managed by existing staff.

6. RISKS:

If the guarantee is not approved, the Financing Entity would either be unable to raise sufficient financing from capital markets to purchase the regulatory asset from IESO or the cost of the financing will be potentially materially greater than it otherwise would be.

If the guarantee is approved, the Government of Ontario takes on a contingent liability. The amount of the liability will increase over the duration of the Fair Hydro Plan and peak at an estimated [$24B to $26B (to be revised as Energy re-estimates)] of debt principal, along with associated interest payments.

In the event the guarantee is triggered, the Province's net debt will increase by an amount equal to the contingent liability at that point in time. The Province's interest payments will also increase by an amount equal to the weighted average cost of the debt it has assumed under the guarantee.

While it is difficult to estimate the actual impact to the Province's interest on debt (IOD) expense, the worst case scenario would be the Province assuming the debt at its peak. If so, IOD expense may increase between [$0.8B and $1.3B] per annum, depending on the interest rate at which the Financing entity will be able to borrow at.

It is important to note that, if the guarantee is triggered, and the Province assumes the obligation to service and pay down the debt, that the magnitude of the fiscal impact (IOD expense) will depend on whether or not some portions of the Act continue or not, in some form. If the payment streams from ratepayers in the Clean Energy Adjustment (CEA) continue, this would offset the debt and interest payments; however, if the CEA is ended (e.g., if determined by a court not to be constitutional) and not replaced by another authorized charge, the incremental IOD expense would impact the Government's fiscal plan and likely takes away fiscal resources that can be otherwise used. Also, debt incurred to benefit the ratepayer becomes the responsibility of the taxpayer.

7. RECOMMENDATION

(a) Approve that the Minister of Finance and Minister of Energy provide a provincial guarantee, as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, to one or more OPG Financing Entities under the terms set out in Appendix;

(b) Recommend that Cabinet approve an Order in Council, in accordance with section 5 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Act, that authorizes the Minister and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and
(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance; and

specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

(c) Note that the ministry of Energy will also be submitting to the Minister of Finance a request for approval, under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act, contingent liabilities arising from the provision of the guarantee.

Hi Matt,

They seemed to have picked up similar text to the draft TB submission that Anna had circulated, which we had some wording suggestions on. Suggesting conforming edits to the slides would make sense.

I'd suggest a slide on the provision in the Act for the LGIC to authorise the two ministers, acting together, to provide guarantees and indemnities, subject to terms and conditions. It would help remind the Minister of Energy that he'd be signing things too (presumably the OIC submission and the agreement(s) (and what about the TB submission too?).

Also, I would suggest that the slide on the IESO and LC note that the proposal was from OPG and the IESO was going to review the proposal (unless Keley has now heard back from the IESO and the option is fine with them?).

Generally, then, it might be good to note the work-in-progress status.

And the next steps should include the requirement to go to LRC and Cabinet for the OIC too.

Also, is IGB planning on sharing this with MOF DMO, or Energy DMO, or both?

Hi Matt,

ENERGY has asked us to prepare a product for a Minister's briefing next week on the OFHP. They wanted a specific product on the Provincial Guarantee. Given the main OFA folks working on this file are on vacation, I've prepared the attached draft deck. I was hoping you could circulate this to folks internally for review and comment. We've been asked to provide a draft deck to the DMO tomorrow. Could you please aim to provide any OFA comments by end of day today.

Also, is there someone from the OFA who could attend next week's briefing to answer questions as required? Please let me know who that might be.

Hi John,

Please see the attached markup of the Provincial Support Agreement. This has been reviewed by lawyers and policy folks from Energy, MoF, OFA and TBS. Please treat this as an early draft designed to spur discussion. It takes some concepts up a level as we felt that some of the detail in the OPG draft should be settled once the specific loan documents were available for review.

I would suggest we find time to regroup with appropriate people to discuss once we are through regulation approvals next week.

Thanks and have a good weekend,

Provincial Protection and Assurances

Indicative Term Sheet[1]

Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This term sheet (the "Term Sheet") relates to transactions contemplated to be undertaken under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations to be made thereunder (the "Act"). This Term Sheet is to be held confidential. Unless otherwise specified, defined terms used herein have the meanings ascribed to them in the Act. The provincial protection and assurance arrangements contemplated in this Term Sheet will include such terms and conditions as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine to be appropriate.

Servicing Guarantees
Servicing Guarantor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Beneficiaries:	Each Financing Entity that owns an investment interest from time to time. A Financing Entity may grant a security interest over its rights and interests under a Servicing Guarantee to its creditors and contractual counterparties, including any indenture trustee acting on behalf of itself and other persons having debt or other claims against the Financing Entity that are secured under a related trust indenture.

[1] This draft term sheet is intended for discussion purposes only and does not represent a commitment of any party. Any agreement or undertaking of the Province contemplated in this term sheet may only be made either (a) with the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council as contemplated in subsection 5(2) of the Act or (b) under, and subject to, an order made by the Lieutenant Governor in Council as contemplated in subsection 5(3) of the Act.

Servicing Guarantee:	Pursuant to a Servicing Guarantee, the Servicing Guarantor will guarantee the performance, or cause the performance, of the obligations of IESO as servicer under the Act and under any agreement under which the applicable Financing Entity acquires an investment interest from IESO and IESO undertakes on-going obligations in respect of such investment interest, including servicing obligations undertaken by IESO to enforce the performance by electricity vendors of their respective obligations under the Act. It is anticipated that such obligations will include matters related to the billing, collection and remittance of clean energy adjustments by IESO and electricity vendors, as the case may be, and regarding the commingling by IESO and electricity vendors of collections of clean energy adjustments with other amounts. In the event that the Servicing Guarantee is held to be unenforceable against the Servicing Guarantor, the Servicing Guarantee will contemplate, in the alternative, a functionally equivalent direct covenant of the Servicing Guarantor.
Term:	The Servicing Guarantor's obligations under a Servicing Guarantee in respect of a Financing Entity will continue during the term of any obligation incurred by the Financing Entity that is or is intended to be secured by the Servicing Guarantee.
Satisfaction of a Servicing Guarantee:	The Servicing Guarantor will have the option to satisfy its obligations under a Servicing Guarantee by paying when due the amounts that would be remitted to the applicable Financing Entity as if IESO and each electricity vendor had complied with its obligations under the Act and under any agreement under which the applicable Financing Entity acquires an investment interest from IESO and IESO undertakes on-going obligations in respect of such investment interest.
Approval Requirement:	The servicing obligations (including any amendments) to which the Servicing Guarantee relates, together with the provisions of any Servicing Guarantee itself, will be subject to the approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Limits under Servicing Guarantee:	Under no circumstances shall the Servicing Guarantor be obligated to pay consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.

Indemnity
Indemnitor:	The Province of Ontario, by the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together, or an entity owned by the Province of Ontario whose indemnity obligations, as contemplated by this Term Sheet, are in turn unconditionally guaranteed by the Province of Ontario.
Indemnitees:	Each Financing Entity that owns an investment interest from time to time. A Financing Entity may grant a security interest over the Indemnity to specified creditors, including to an indenture trustee under a trust indenture on behalf of itself and other persons having debt or other claims against the Financing Entity secured under the trust indenture.
Indemnity of the Province:	The Indemnitor will indemnify each Indemnitee for its costs, expenses and losses reasonably incurred by the Indemnitee because of third party claims made against the Indemnitee by one or more of its specified creditors that result from any of the following: (A) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario repealing (and not replacing on an equivalent basis) the Act; (B) the Legislative Assembly of Ontario amending the Act or a Regulation made thereunder in a way that materially and adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest; or (C) a court of competent jurisdiction in a final and non-appealable judgement determines that all or a portion of the Act is ultra vires in a way that materially and adversely affects the rights and interests of the Financing Entity under its investment interest.
Term:	An Indemnity will continue during the term of any obligation incurred by a Financing Entity that is or is intended to be secured by the Indemnity.

Satisfaction of an Indemnity:	The Indemnitor will have the option to satisfy its obligations under an Indemnity in respect of a funding obligation by: (x) assuming and paying when due (without acceleration) the regularly scheduled amounts due and payable in respect of the funding obligation during the term and to the extent of the applicable Financing Entity's contractual obligations thereunder; or (y) causing the acceleration of the funding obligation and paying the outstanding amount owing thereunder in full, including in the case of debt instruments issued by the applicable Financing Entity by causing the redemption of the debt instruments and paying an amount equal to the then outstanding principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest up to the date of payment (without any default, penalty, prepayment or make whole premium).
Approval Requirement:	The terms and conditions of the obligations incurred by a Financing Entity that are secured or intended to be secured by an Indemnity, together with the provisions of any Indemnity itself, will be subject to the approval of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together.
Limits under Indemnity:	Under no circumstances shall the Indemnitor be obligated to indemnify any Beneficiary for consequential, special or punitive damages, or for economic loss or loss of profits.
Undertakings regarding Certain Mismatches
Addressing Mismatches	If a Financing Entity proposes to incur one or more funding obligations that would require the Financing Entity to pay an aggregate amount during any reference period that would exceed the amount otherwise expected to be available to the Financing Entity during the reference period from its investment interests to pay such amounts (a "Mismatch"), the Financing Entity will, before incurring such funding obligations, undertake commercially reasonable efforts to arrange for commitments from highly creditworthy, market-based funding sources in accordance with the Financing Plan to enable it to satisfy its related payment obligations and thereby address any Mismatch.

Possible Undertaking to Fund Mismatches	If a Financing Entity is unable to arrange for commitments from one or more highly creditworthy, market-based funding sources in accordance with the Financing Plan to address a Mismatch on commercially reasonable terms and conditions, the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance acting together may undertake on behalf of the Province of Ontario to provide funding commitments to the extent necessary to provide the Financing Entity with required funding to address the Mismatch. Any such undertaking would be provided at or before the incurrence of the funding obligation that would otherwise result in the Mismatch and, if given, would be on such terms, including appropriate compensation to the Province of Ontario, and be subject to such conditions (for example and without limitation, funding being conditional on the occurrence of a market disruption that results in the non-availability of capital markets term funding to effect a refinancing of the funding obligation) as the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance determine are reasonable and appropriate in the circumstances. The decision to provide such an undertaking will be in the sole discretion of the Minister of Energy and the Minister of Finance.

Governing Law:	Province of Ontario.

Good suggestion from Gadi – we should probably touch base internally in advance of meeting with OPG. I wonder if we could try for a quick 30 min phone call either tomorrow or Friday.

I will reach out to OPG to set something up for next week.

Hi,

Please see the following comments from OPG / Torys on the guarantees.

I wonder if we are now at a point we should suggest sitting down with OPG on this perhaps early next week.

Thanks,
Scott

Scott:

Further to our discussion on the outstanding issues, please find below the comments from the Dealers on the "Markup" of the Provincial Protection and Assurance term sheet.
As noted below, the next step should be to get the appropriate parties from the Province to sit down with the dealers and OPG to go over the points and agree on a basis to move forward.
We should try to do that sometime next week. Let us know what times work on the Province side and we will coordinate with the Dealers & counsels.

John/Les/Ken,

Please find below an issues list on the Province's comments on the Provincial Protection and Assurances Term Sheet (formerly the Provincial Support Agreement). This list reflects input from the dealers, Oslers and Torys. Please let us know if you have any additional comments or questions. If not, will you be reaching out to the Province to schedule a meeting next week (with the dealers, OPG, the Province and their counsels) to discuss these points? The dealers and their counsel don't see value in exchanging further drafts of the term sheet until they have had an opportunity to meet with the Province. We agree with this approach and are happy to assist in coordinating a meeting for next week. It would also be helpful to hear the Province's rationale and concerns for making some of these changes. Please let us know.

Many thanks,
Nina

1. The Servicing Guarantee:

(a) It is written in favour of only the financing entity. However, in the MTSA, we are asking for covenants directly in favour of Indenture Trustee. The Indenture Trustee/specified creditors should have the direct benefit of the guarantee rather than relying on an indirect security interest in the servicing guarantee.

(b) It should be clarified that the servicing obligations of the electricity vendors are covered.

(c) If the guarantee is unenforceable, we should fall back to an indemnity, not a "functionally equivalent direct covenant" which is an uncertain concept.

(d) We don't want an exclusion for economic loss. That may cover whatever losses the specified creditors do suffer.

2. Change of Law.

(a) This should be written as a guarantee not an indemnity.

(b) It should be directly in favour of the Indenture Trustee/specified creditors and it should cover all the "finance amount" and not just funding obligations.

(c) We do not want the guarantee to be provided by another entity which is in turn guaranteed by Ontario. It should come directly from Ontario.

(d) There should be no "materiality" threshold for a claim. If obligations are not paid in full, then there should be a claim.

(e) The choice to assume or accelerate should be at the option of the holders, not the guarantor.

(f) If accelerated, then the 1% premium should be payable. This is a voluntary termination by the Province.

3. Undertaking Regarding Mismatches (market disruption)

(a) At best this structure defers the discussion of protection for a market disruption. At worst, it is impractical that take-out financing needs to be arranged in advance of each warehouse financing. We should rely on a definition of market disruption.

4. Approvals.

(a) Province to clarify what is contemplated under the heading "Approval Requirement". Is Province proposing to approve any obligation incurred by the Financing Entity?

(b) Approval under Section 28 of the Financial Administration Act to be attained (in case the OFHPA is declared void in its entirety).

Hi Ken,

Thank you for passing on the draft. I should send this on to Energy Legal as well in case they have not received it yet. Do you know if Steve Ashbourne of Blakes has been reviewing the term sheet recently and been involved in discussions on this?

This is the first version of the term sheet that we have received since it was sent over to OPG on late June. After that there was a response from Torys dated June 30th with some high level comments on the revised term sheet and an internal Provincial call to discuss the Province's response. Subsequently there was a meeting of representatives of the Province and OPG on July 13th which Toby and also Tom McKinlay of Energy legal attended to discuss considerations regarding the guarantee. It looks like there have been some further discussions regarding the term sheet and understand that there may have been a meeting on the business side last week but MOF LSB was not asked to participate. In order to provide comments on this term sheet, it will be helpful for us to find out more about what the business discussions have been and what approach the Province wishes to take and also consult with Energy Legal and Blakes.

Is there a track changes version of this term sheet from June? Also, as I recall back in early July, we were going to ask OPG to provide to us some of the more detailed documents and drafts that would be associated with this guarantee such as the Master Trust Indenture, etc. Do you know if OPG has shared any of that with the Province?

Thanks.

Ron and John one section particularly for your review, the Takeout Risk at the end of the Term Sheet indicates the link between the clean energy adjustment and the fair allocation amount as they impact the Takeout risk. I am not very clear about this so you may want to review this closely.

Hi John

Just to follow up on Andrew Maciel's commitment to provide us with a revised term sheet for the guarantee reflecting yesterday's discussion, I was wondering if that can be done EOD Monday. I had a chat with Gadi and given some upcoming internal meetings at senior levels it would be helpful to provide the revised guarantee in front of decision makers.

Thanks

I'm not sure how much value added that any of these boutiques would provide. The people that know the markets are the investment bankers that are actually going to be part of the syndicate that will have to market, sell and trade these bonds. Why not have one of TD, Scotia, National or BMO provide this double-checking? If we're worried about the conflict that they are going to give advice that will make it easier to sell the bonds to ultimately make their life as syndicate members easier, then I can see the potential attraction of an advisor that isn't in that business, but why can't Alan be that guy? I don't see that any of those that you've named would provide better external advice to the Province than he would, unless we're concerned that he's too embedded with OPG, but I don't think so.

As for the names you've mentioned, Hansel, if that turns out to be the third one, is run by a lawyer which might be helpful, but I don't know if they know much about bonds, maybe that's where Bill Gula comes in, Blair Franklin definitely knows bonds, as Fred Mifflin used to be head of government Finance at BMO many years ago and they advised the Feds on Muskrat Falls, and I haven't heard of Origin.

I've added Mike, because he knows way more about the bond market and what investors will want than anyone we've talked about in this exchange, so he may have some ideas as to where the Province should go for external advice.

Hope that helps.

Hi Gadi,

Energy and Blakes suggest that the Province needs its own financial advisor to test what we are hearing from OPG. As I understand it, there are some elements that OPG believes are requirements in the legislation. The Province would like someone with a market perspective (in addition to your team) that can test the need for each of those requirements as they arise. Given timing, they need someone who can be available in real time to provide this advice.

I will circle back as to whether that is Hansell and not Hanslep. Let me know if there are other names that you might suggest.

Scott

Hi Scott, what is it that we're looking for from a financial advisor? Is this to help with the structuring of OPG Trust's debt issuance? I know Blair Franklin, and they advised Canada on Muskrat Falls. I'm not familiar with Origin, and I don't know Bill Gula, but is that Hansell LLP, not Hanslep?

In any case, I'm not sure what any of them bring to the table beyond what the three banks already engaged would provide, with Alan and the OFA weighing in when their inevitable conflicts get in the way?

I'd be happy to discuss further to get more colour on what you're looking for.

Hi,

I spoke with Alan Hibben. He's fully engaged on the file with OPG. He suggested three other firms/people -- Origin Financial, Blair Franklin, and Bill Gula (Hanslep LLP). Carolyn, suggest you chat with Judy if Blakes has worked with any of the above. Scott, you could talk to Gadi etc if he has some thoughts on the above as well.
Let's group after your chats.

Hi Carolyn,

Thanks for your email. Would it be possible to arrange a conference call today with yourself or your counsel most knowledgeable on this proposed securitization and transaction so that we can get an understanding of it and how it fits into any proposed authorizing legislation.

Unfortunately we are not familiar with the proposed transaction although we have seen some general background information about the proposal. What role would a guarantee of investment dealers have in the transaction? We do have a copy of the legislation that we got via our clients at OFA and they were more engaged in the issue of a future proposed equity injection, but the most recent version that we have seen does not mention guarantees although there seems to be a very general contract authorization section. Of course, we have to generally think about s. 28 as well.

A call today to over the main elements of the proposed transaction and the legislation would be very helpful so that we can get back to Gadi.

Hi Michael & Malle – we will be sending you draft legislation to take a look at. Actual guarantees will follow later.

This relates to the government's Fair Hydro Plan and the promise to reduce rates by 25% by July. We are doing a sort of securitization, for which the legislation will provide a framework. We are contemplating provisions that allow "the Minister" to enter into agreements with respect to transactions contemplated by the legislation. Gadi and DM Angus are of the view that Minister should be MOF, as the agreements are likely to be guarantees to investment dealers. Indemnities for the boards of OPG and IESO will also be required, although we didn't talk about who would sign those.

Happy to answer your questions or walk you through the proposed bill.

We're happy to discuss this. This afternoon is busy but tomorrow afternoon may work.

In every case in which an audit is required pursuant to subdivision (bb) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law performed by an independent auditor, the department shall have the authority to select the auditor, and to require the Long Island power authority to enter into a contract with the auditor that is consistent with the contracting-related requirements specified in subdivision nineteen of section sixty-six of this chapter and the requirements of subdivision (bb) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law. Such contract shall provide further that the auditor shall work for and under the direction of the department according to such terms as the department may determine are necessary and reasonable.~~]

§ 3-b. Long Island office of the department.

1. There is hereby established in the department an office to review and make recommendations with respect to the operations and terms and conditions of service of, and rates and budgets established by, the Long Island power authority and/or its service provider.

2. Definitions. As used or referred to in this section:

(a) "Authority" means the Long Island power authority.

(b) "Service provider" means the entity under contract with the authority to provide management and operation services associated with the authority's electric transmission and distribution system and any subsidiary of such entity that provides such services under contract. However, the service provider and any affiliate of the service provider with whom the authority or service provider contracts to provide services associated with the authority's electric transmission and distribution system shall not be considered an electric corporation under this chapter.

(c) "Operations services agreement" means an agreement and any amendments thereto between the Long Island lighting company dba LIPA or the Long Island power authority and the service provider to provide management and operation services associated with the authority's electric transmission and distribution system.

3. General powers. In undertaking the requirements of this section, subject to subdivisions (u) and (bb) through (hh) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law, the department shall be empowered and authorized to:

(a) Review and make recommendations to the board of the Long Island power authority with respect to the rates and charges, including charges related to energy efficiency and renewable energy programs, to be established by the authority and become applicable on or after January first, two thousand sixteen pursuant to subdivision (u) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law.

(i) The purpose of such review is to make recommendations designed to ensure that the authority and the service provider provide safe and adequate transmission and distribution service at rates set at the lowest level consistent with sound fiscal operating practices.

(ii) The department's recommendations shall be designed to be consistent with ensuring that the revenue requirements related to such rate review are sufficient to satisfy the authority's obligations with respect to its bonds, notes and all other contracts.

(iii) In the context of such review, the department may not make any recommendation that would modify the compensation or fee structure included within the operations services agreement.

(iv) In undertaking such review and in making recommendations related to the proposed rates and charges, the department shall establish standards, policies and procedures that, at a minimum, provide for public statement and evidentiary hearings and participation of intervenors and other parties, and ensure that any final recommendations related to the proposed rates and charges are provided to the authority within two hundred forty days of the filing with the department of such plan.

(v) The parties to any such rate review proceeding shall include, but not be limited to, department staff, the authority, the service provider and, to the extent it deems necessary or appropriate, the utility intervention unit.

(b) Review the annual capital expenditures proposed by the service provider and recommend such improvement in the manufacture, conveying, transportation, distribution or supply of electricity, or in the methods employed by the service provider as in the department's judgment allows for safe and adequate service.

(c) Annually review the emergency response plan of the authority and the service provider in accordance with the following requirements:

(i) Examine and determine whether the emergency response plan is consistent with the requirements of paragraph (a) of subdivision twenty-one of section sixty-six of this chapter and any regulations or orders promulgated thereto, and to recommend amendments of same; and

(ii) Review and make recommendations to the authority with respect to the performance of the service provider in restoring service or otherwise meeting the requirements of the emergency response plan during an emergency event, defined for purposes of this section as an event where widespread outages have occurred in the authority's service territory due to a storm or other causes beyond the control of the authority and its service provider, including making determinations with respect to whether the service provider is reasonably able to implement the emergency response plan, whether the length of any outages related to such emergency were materially longer than they would otherwise have been because the service provider failed to reasonably implement the emergency response plan, the reasonableness of costs associated with such emergency response, the costs, if any, that were unreasonably and imprudently incurred by the service provider, and whether the service provider would be liable for any such costs pursuant to the terms and conditions of the operations services agreement.

(d) Upon notification to the Long Island power authority, undertake a comprehensive and regular management and operations audit of the authority and service provider pursuant to subdivision (bb) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law. The department shall have discretion to have such an audit performed by its staff, or by an independent contractor. In every case in which an audit is required pursuant to subdivision (bb) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law performed by an independent auditor, the department shall have the authority to select the auditor, and to require the authority to enter into a contract with the auditor that is consistent with the contracting-related requirements specified in subdivision nineteen of section sixty-six of this chapter and the requirements of subdivision (bb) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law. Such contract shall provide further that the auditor shall work for and under the direction of the department according to such terms as the department may determine are necessary and reasonable.

(e) Accept, investigate, mediate to resolve and make recommendations to the Long Island power authority and/or the service provider regarding the resolution of complaints from consumers in the authority's service territory relating to, among other things, the provision of electric service provided by the service provider and/or the authority.

(f) Review the net metering program implemented under subdivision (h) of section one thousand twenty-g of the public authorities law and make recommendations designed to ensure consistency with the requirements of sections sixty-six-j and sixty-six-l of this chapter, and any regulations and orders adopted thereto.

(g) Review and make recommendations with respect to any proposed plan submitted by the Long Island power authority and/or the service provider related to implementation of energy efficiency measures, distributed generation or advanced grid technology programs having the purpose of providing customers with tools to more efficiently and effectively manage their energy usage and utility bills, and improving system reliability and power quality.

(h) Review the data, information and reports submitted pursuant to subdivision (hh) of section one thousand twenty-f of the public authorities law and other pertinent information related to the metrics in the operations services agreement, the Long Island power authority's evaluation of such data, information and reports, and make recommendations to the authority with respect to the service provider's annual incentive based compensation within thirty days of receipt of such evaluation and information.

4. Review and inspection. To undertake the requirements of subdivision two of this section, the department shall be authorized to inspect all premises and facilities owned or operated by the authority and the service provider, review all books and records of the authority and the service provider, interview all appropriate personnel, and require annual reporting consistent with the requirements of subdivision six of section sixty-six of this chapter and any regulations and orders adopted thereto; provided, however, that this authority shall not extend to affiliates of the service provider.

§ 2. Subdivision 2 and paragraph (b) of subdivision 6 of section 18-a of the public service law, subdivision 2 as amended by section 2 of part NN of chapter 59 of the laws of 2009 and paragraph (b) of subdivision 6 as amended by section 1 of part BB of chapter 59 of the laws of 2013, are amended and a new subdivision 1-a is added to read as follows:

1-a. All costs and expenses of the department related to the department's responsibilities under section three-b of this chapter shall be paid pursuant to appropriation on the certification of the chairman of the department and upon the audit and warrant of the comptroller. For the state fiscal year beginning on April first, two thousand fourteen and each state fiscal year thereafter, payments are to be made from all moneys collected from the Long Island power authority pursuant to this section. The total of such costs and expenses shall be assessed on such authority in the manner provided in subdivisions two, three and four of this section.

2. (a) The chairman of the department shall estimate prior to the start of each state fiscal year the total costs and expenses, including the compensation and expenses of the commission and the department, their officers, agents and employees, and including the cost of retirement contributions, social security, health and dental insurance, survivor's benefits, workers' compensation, unemployment insurance and other fringe benefits required to be paid by the state for the personnel of the commission and the department, and including all other items of maintenance and operation expenses, and all other direct and indirect costs. Based on such estimates, the chairman shall determine the amount to be paid by each assessed public utility company and the Long Island power authority and a bill shall be rendered to each such public utility company and authority.

(b) The bill for each public utility company and the Long Island power authority shall be rendered on or before February first preceding each fiscal year, and shall be for the amount equal to the product of the aforesaid estimated costs and expenses of conducting the department's and commission's total operations during the fiscal year for which billing is being made multiplied by the proportion which compares:

(1) the gross operating revenues, over and above five hundred thousand dollars, for that utility company or the authority derived from intrastate utility operations in the last preceding calendar year, or other twelve month period as determined by the chairman, to:

(2) the total of the gross operating revenues, derived from intrastate utility operations for all utility companies and the authority in the state which revenues are included under subparagraph one of this paragraph.

For the purposes of calculating the commodity cost component of its gross operating revenue, where the utility delivers to end-use customers electricity and/or natural gas commodities that are sold to such customers by a third party, such utility shall include in its revenues an estimate of the sales revenue for the electric and/or natural gas commodities that it delivers, including all such commodities sold to end-use customers by third parties, in such manner as to assure that all end-use delivery customers, regardless of the entity from which they purchase their electric and/or natural gas commodities, bear a fair and proportionate share of the assessment imposed herein, as the commission may determine.

(c) The minimum assessment for any utility company, as well as the Long Island power authority, whose gross revenues from intrastate utility operations are in excess of five hundred thousand dollars in the preceding calendar year shall be two hundred dollars.

(d) The amount of such bill for fiscal years beginning on or after April first, nineteen hundred eighty-three so rendered shall be paid by such public utility company and such authority to the department on or before April first; provided, however, that [~~a~~] any such utility company or such authority may elect to make partial payments for such costs and expenses on March tenth of the preceding fiscal year and on September tenth of such fiscal year. Each such partial payment shall be a sum equal to fifty percentum of the estimate of costs and expenses to be assessed against such utility company or authority under the provisions of this subdivision and shall not be less than two hundred dollars.

(e) During the course of any state fiscal year, the chairman may increase or decrease the estimate of costs and expenses. In such case, revised bills shall be sent to each public utility company and such authority, and such increase or decrease shall be equally apportioned against the remaining payments for such fiscal year.

(f) On or before October tenth of each year, the chairman shall compute the actual costs and expenses of the department and the commission and adjustments or other corrections as needed for the preceding state fiscal year and, after deducting the amounts recovered pursuant to subdivisions three and four of this section, shall, on or before October twentieth, send to each public utility company and/or the authority affected thereby a statement setting forth the amount due and payable by, or the amount standing to the credit of, such public utility company and/or the authority. Any amount owing by any public utility company and/or the authority shall be paid not later than thirty days following the date such statement is received. Any such amount standing to the credit of any public utility company shall be refunded by the commission or, at the option of such utility company, shall be applied as a credit against any succeeding payment due.

(g) The total amount which may be charged to any public utility company and the Long Island power authority under authority of this subdivision for any state fiscal year shall not exceed one per centum of such public utility company's or authority's gross operating revenues derived from intrastate utility operations in the last preceding calendar year, or other twelve month period as determined by the chairman; provided, however, that no corporation or person that is subject to the jurisdiction of the commission only with respect to safety, or the power authority of the state of New York, shall be subject to the general assessment provided for under this subdivision.

Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision one of this section, for telephone corporations as defined in subdivision seventeen of section two of this article, the total amount which may be charged such corporations for department expenses under the authority of subdivision one of this section for any state fiscal year shall not exceed one-third of one percentum of such corporation's gross operating revenue, over and above five hundred thousand dollars, derived from intrastate utility operations in the last preceding calendar year, or other twelve month period as determined by the chairman.

(h) On-bill recovery charges billed pursuant to section sixty-six-m of this chapter shall be excluded from any determination of an entity's gross operating revenues derived from intrastate utility operations for purposes of this section.

(b) The temporary state energy and utility service conservation assessment shall be based upon the following percentum of the utility entity's gross operating revenues derived from intrastate utility operations in the last preceding calendar year, minus the amount, if any, that such utility entity is assessed pursuant to subdivisions one and two of this section for the corresponding state fiscal year period: (1) two percentum for the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand thirteen and the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand fourteen; (2) one and three-quarters percentum for the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand fifteen; and (3) one and one-half percentum for the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand sixteen. With respect to the temporary state energy and utility service conservation assessment to be paid for the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand seventeen and notwithstanding clause (i) of paragraph (d) of this subdivision, on or before March tenth, two thousand seventeen, utility entities shall make a payment equal to one-half of the assessment paid by such entities pursuant to this paragraph for the state fiscal year beginning on April first, two thousand sixteen. With respect to the Long Island power authority, the temporary state energy and utility service conservation assessment shall be based upon the following percentum of such authority's gross operating revenues derived from intrastate utility operations in the last preceding calendar year, minus the amount, if any, that such authority is assessed pursuant to subdivisions one-a and two of this section for the corresponding state fiscal year period: (1) one percentum for the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand thirteen and the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand fourteen; (2) three- quarters of one percentum for the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand fifteen; and (3) one-half percentum for the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand sixteen; provided, however, that should the amount assessed by the department for costs and expenses pursuant to such subdivisions equal or exceed such authority's temporary state energy and utility service conservation assessment for a particular fiscal year, the amount to be paid under this subdivision by such authority shall be zero. With respect to the temporary state energy and utility service conservation assessment to be paid for the state fiscal year beginning April first, two thousand seventeen and notwithstanding clause (i) of paragraph (d) of this subdivision, on or before March tenth, two thousand seventeen, the Long Island power authority shall make a payment equal to one-half of the assessment it paid for the state fiscal year beginning on April first, two thousand sixteen. No corporation or person subject to the jurisdiction of the commission only with respect to safety, or the power authority of the state of New York, shall be subject to the temporary state energy and utility service conservation assessment provided for under this subdivision. Utility entities whose gross operating revenues from intrastate utility operations are five hundred thousand dollars or less in the preceding calendar year shall not be subject to the temporary state energy and utility service conservation assessment. The minimum temporary state energy and utility service conservation assessment to be billed to any utility entity whose gross revenues from intrastate utility operations are in excess of five hundred thousand dollars in the preceding calendar year shall be two hundred dollars.

§ 3. Section 1020-b of the public authorities law is amended by adding two new subdivisions 23 and 24 to read as follows:

23. "Service provider" means the entity under contract with the authority to provide management and operation services associated with the authority's electric transmission and distribution system and any subsidiary of such entity that provides such services under contract.

24. "Operations services agreement" means an agreement and any amendments thereto between the Long Island lighting company dba LIPA or the authority and the service provider to provide management and operation services associated with the authority's electric transmission and distribution system.

and one appointee of the temporary president of the senate and one appointee of the speaker of the assembly shall serve initial terms of [~~two~~] three years. Thereafter, all terms shall be for a period of four years. In the event of a vacancy occurring in the office of trustee by death, resignation or otherwise, the respective appointing officer shall appoint a successor who shall hold office for the unexpired portion of the term.

§ 5. On or before December 1, 2013 the governor, the temporary president of the senate and the speaker of the assembly shall choose and announce their appointments to the board of the Long Island power authority to be made pursuant to section 1020-d of the public authorities law, as amended by section four of this act, giving due consideration to continuity of business. § 6. Subdivision (u) of section 1020-f of the public authorities law is REPEALED.

§ 7. Subdivisions (c) and (bb) of section 1020-f of the public authorities law, subdivision (c) as amended by chapter 506 of the laws of 2009 and subdivision (bb) as added by chapter 8 of the laws of 2012, are amended and seven new subdivisions (u), (cc), (dd), (ee), (ff), (gg) and (hh) are added to read as follows:

(c) To appoint officers, agents and employees, without regard to any personnel or civil service law, rule or regulation of the state and in accordance with guidelines adopted by the authority, prescribe their duties and qualifications and fix and pay their compensation [~~, provided, however, that the appointment of the chief executive officer shall be subject to confirmation by the senate in accordance with section twenty-eight hundred fifty-two of this chapter;~~]. By January first, two thousand fourteen, the authority, through its governance committee, shall amend such guidelines to require that staffing at the authority is kept at levels only necessary to ensure that the authority is able to meet obligations with respect to its bonds and notes and all applicable statutes and contracts, and oversee the activities of the service provider;

(u) Rate plans. Subject to subdivision six of section one thousand twenty-k of this title to fix rates and charges for the furnishing or rendition of gas or electric power or of any related service at the lowest level consistent with sound fiscal and operating practices of the authority and which provide for safe and adequate service. In implementing this power:

1. The authority and the service provider shall, on or before February first, two thousand fifteen, submit for review to the department of public service a three-year rate proposal for rates and charges to take effect on or after January first, two thousand sixteen.

2. The authority and the service provider shall thereafter submit for review to the department of public service any rate proposal that would increase the rates and charges and thus increase the aggregate revenues of the authority by more than two and one-half percent to be measured on an annual basis; provided, however, that the authority may place such rates and charges into effect on an interim basis, subject to prospective rate adjustment; provided, further, that a final rate plan issued by the authority that would not so increase such rates and charges shall not be subject to the requirements of paragraph four of this subdivision and shall be considered final for the purposes of review under article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules. The authority and/or the service provider may otherwise submit for review to such department any rate proposal irrespective of its effect on revenues.

3. The authority shall not fix any final rates and charges proposed that would not be subject to review by the department of public service pursuant to paragraphs one and two of this subdivision until after holding public hearings thereon upon reasonable public notice, with at least one such hearing to be held each in the county of Suffolk and the county of Nassau.

4. Any recommendations associated with a rate proposal submitted pursuant to paragraphs one and two of this subdivision shall be provided by the department of public service to the board of the authority immediately upon their finalization by the department. Unless the board of the authority makes a preliminary determination in its discretion that any particular recommendation is inconsistent with the authority's sound fiscal operating practices, any existing contractual or operating obligations, or the provision of safe and adequate service, the board shall implement such recommendations as part of its final rate plan and such final determination shall be deemed to satisfy the requirements of this subdivision and be considered final for the purposes of review under article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules. The board shall make any such preliminary determination of inconsistency within thirty days of receipt of such recommendations, with notice and the basis of such determination being provided to the department of public service, and contemporaneously posted on the websites of the authority and its service provider. The board shall thereafter, within thirty days of such posting and with due advance notice to the public, hold a public hearing with respect to its preliminary determination of inconsistency.

At such hearing, the department of public service shall present the basis for its recommendations, the board shall present the basis for its determination of inconsistency and the service provider may present its position. The authority and the service provider may, during the time period before such public hearing reach agreement with the department on disputed issues. Within thirty days after such public hearing, the board of the authority shall announce its final determination and planned implementation with respect to any such recommendations. The authority's final determination of inconsistency shall be subject to any applicable judicial review proceeding, including review available under article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules.

(bb) Comprehensive and regular management and operations audits.

1. The authority and the service provider shall cooperate in the undertaking and completion of a regular and comprehensive management and operations audit conducted pursuant to the requirements of this subdivision and [~~subdivision two of section three~~] paragraph (d) of subdivision three of section three-b of the public service law. Such audit shall review and evaluate the [~~authority's~~] overall operations and management of the authority and service provider, including [~~the authority's~~] such operations and management in the context of [~~its~~] the authority's duty to set rates at the lowest level consistent with standards and procedures provided in subdivision (u) of this section, and include, but not be limited to: (i) the [~~authority's~~] service provider's construction and capital program planning in relation to the needs of [~~its~~] customers for reliable service; (ii) the overall efficiency of the authority's and service provider's operations; (iii) the manner in which the authority is meeting its debt service obligations; (iv) the authority's Fuel and Purchased Power Cost Adjustment clause and recovery of costs associated with such clause; (v) the authority's and service provider's annual budgeting procedures and process; (vi) the application, if any, of the performance metrics designated in the operations services agreement and the accuracy of the data relied upon with respect to such application; and [~~(vi)~~] (vii) the authority's compliance with debt covenants.

2. The department of public service shall notify the authority that said department is in the process of initiating a comprehensive management and operations audit as described in paragraph one of this subdivision in a manner that ensures the timeliness of such audit, and in accordance with the following timeframe: the first comprehensive management and operations audit shall be initiated as of the effective date of [~~this subdivision~~] chapter eight of the laws of two thousand twelve and undertaken in a manner and to an extent that is practicable in the context of the authority's transition to a new management service structure; the second comprehensive management and operations audit shall be initiated no later than December fifteenth, two thousand [~~fifteen~~] sixteen; and all additional comprehensive management and operations audits shall be initiated at least once every five years thereafter.

Within a reasonable time after such notification to the authority, said department or the independent auditor retained by the authority to undertake such audit shall hold public statement hearings, with proper notice, in both Nassau and Suffolk counties for the purpose of receiving both oral and written comments from the public on matters related to such audit as described in paragraph one of this subdivision.

3. Each such audit shall be completed within eighteen months of initiation absent an extension for good cause shown by the department of public service or the independent auditor under contract with the authority with notice of such extension to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, and the chairs of the authority and the department of public service. Such audit shall be provided to the board of the authority immediately upon its completion.

The department of public service shall provide notice of completion of such audit to the governor, the temporary president of the senate, the speaker of the assembly, and the minority leaders of the senate and assembly, and the authority, upon receipt of such audit, shall post a copy of such audit, including findings and recommendations, on its website and the website of the service provider. Unless the board of the authority makes a preliminary determination that any particular finding or recommendation contained in such audit is inconsistent with the authority's sound fiscal operating practices, any existing contractual or operating obligation, or the provision for safe and adequate service, the board shall implement or cause its service provider to implement such findings and recommendations in accordance with the timeframe specified under such audit.

4. The board of the authority shall make any preliminary determination of inconsistency with respect to any such finding or recommendation within thirty days of receipt of the audit, with notice and the basis of such determination being provided to the department of public service.

Such notice and basis shall be posted contemporaneously on the authority's website and the website of the service provider and the board shall, within thirty days of such posting and with due advance notice to the public, hold a public hearing with respect to its preliminary determination of inconsistency. At such hearing the department of public service or the independent auditor responsible for undertaking such audit shall present the basis for its findings and recommendations and the board shall present the basis for its determination of inconsistency and the service provider may present is position. The authority, service provider and auditor may during the time period prior to such public hearing reach agreement on disputed issues. Within thirty days after such public hearing, the board of the authority shall announce its final determination and planned implementations with respect to any such findings and/or recommendations. The [~~board's~~] authority's final determination of inconsistency shall be subject to any applicable judicial review proceeding, including review available under article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules.

(cc) To prepare an emergency response plan pursuant to this subdivision. 1. The service provider shall, in consultation with the authority, prepare and maintain an emergency response plan (i) to assure the reasonably prompt restoration of service in the case of an emergency event, defined for purposes of this subdivision as an event where wide-spread outages have occurred in the authority's service territory due to a storm or other causes beyond the control of the authority and the service provider, (ii) consistent with the requirements of paragraph (a) of subdivision twenty-one of section sixty-six of the public service law and any regulations and orders adopted thereto, and (iii) establishing the separate responsibilities of the authority and service provider.

2. On or before February third, two thousand fourteen, the authority and service provider shall submit an emergency response plan to the department of public service for review. Contemporaneously with such submission, the authority shall provide notice of such proposed plan to the secretary of state for publication in the state register, the authority and service provider each shall post such plan on their websites and otherwise make such plan available for review in-person, and afford members of the public an opportunity to submit written comments and oral comments pursuant to at least one hearing to be held each in the county of Suffolk and the county of Nassau. Such written comments must be submitted by March fourteenth, two thousand fourteen.

The authority and service provider shall provide a copy of all written comments they receive and a transcript of such public hearings to the department of public service for its consideration in reviewing the emergency response plan. The department shall provide any recommendations to the authority and service provider with respect to such plan on or before April fifteenth, two thousand fourteen. Such plan must be made final by June second, two thousand fourteen. For each year thereafter, the service provider shall submit an emergency response plan to the department of public service, and such department shall provide its recommendations, in accordance with a schedule to be established by such department and that is consistent with the schedule associated with such department's review of similar such plans provided by electric corporations pursuant to subdivision twenty-one of section sixty-six of the public service law.

3. By June second, two thousand fourteen, and by June first annually thereafter, the authority and service provider shall jointly certify to the department of homeland security and emergency services that the emergency response plan ensures, to the greatest extent feasible, the timely and safe restoration of energy services after an emergency consistent with the requirements of paragraph (a) of subdivision twenty-one of the public service law and the department's recommendations. The filing of such emergency response plan shall also include a copy of all written mutual assistance agreements among utilities. The authority and service provider shall file with the county executives of Nassau and Suffolk county and the mayor of the city of New York the most recent version of the emergency response plan, and make sure that such amended versions are timely filed.

4. Starting in calendar year two thousand fourteen, the service provider annually shall undertake at least one drill to implement procedures to practice its emergency response plan. The service provider shall notify and allow participation in such drill of all appropriate municipal emergency responders and officials.

5. If, during an emergency event, electric service is not restored in three days, the service provider shall within sixty days from the date of full restoration file with the department a report constituting a review of all aspects of the preparation and system restoration performance during the event, and shall thereafter take into consideration any recommendations made by the department associated with such review.

(dd) On or before January first, two thousand fifteen, and by January first of each calendar year thereafter, to submit for review to the department of public service a report detailing the service provider's planned capital expenditures.

(ee) On or before July first, two thousand fourteen, and annually thereafter, to submit for review to the department of public service any proposed plan related to implementing energy efficiency measures, distributed generation or advanced grid technology programs for the purpose provided pursuant to paragraph (g) of subdivision three of section three-b of the public service law.

(ff) To assist and cooperate with the department of public service with respect to any review undertaken pursuant to section three-b of the public service law, including providing the department with reasonable access to all facilities and premises owned or operated by the authority or its service provider, allowing review of all books and records of the authority and its service provider, providing copies of requested documents, allowing interviews of all appropriate personnel, and responding in a reasonable and timely manner to any inquiries or reporting requests made by the department; provided, however, that the obligations set forth in this subdivision shall not extend to affiliates of the service provider.

(gg) Renewable generation and energy efficiency programs. 1. The authority in coordination with the service provider, the power authority of the state of New York and the New York state energy research and development authority shall, to the extent the authority's rates are sufficient to provide safe and adequate transmission and distribution service, and the measures herein, undertake actions to design and administer renewable energy and energy efficiency measures in the service area, with the goal of continuing and expanding such measures that cost-effectively reduce system-wide peak demand, minimize long-term fuel price risk to rate payers, lower emissions, improve environmental quality, and seek to meet New York state climate change and environmental goals. Such actions shall also include implementation of any renewable energy competitive procurement or feed-in-tariff programs that were approved by the authority as of the effective date of the chapter of the laws of two thousand thirteen which added this subdivision.

2. The service provider shall consider, consistent with maintaining system reliability, renewable generation and energy efficiency program results and options in establishing capital plans.

(hh) Starting in calendar year two thousand fifteen, the authority and the service provider shall submit to the department of public service for review, any and all data, information and reports which set forth the service provider's actual performance related to the metrics in the operations services agreement, including the authority's evaluation thereof, no less than forty-five days prior to the authority's determination of the service provider's annual incentive compensation.

§ 8. Section 1020-q of the public authorities law, as added by chapter 517 of the laws of 1986 and subdivision 2 as amended by section 19 of part Y of chapter 63 of the laws of 2000, is amended to read as follows:

In each succeeding year such in lieu of tax payments shall be decreased by ten percent until such time as such payments equal taxes and assessments which would have been levied on such plant in a nonoperative state~~] provided, however, that for the calendar year starting on January first, two thousand fifteen, and for each calendar year thereafter, such payments in lieu of taxes shall not exceed the in lieu of tax payments made to such municipalities and school districts in the immediately preceding year by more than two percent.

Any judicial determination that the Shoreham plant assessment was excessive, unequal or unlawful for any of the years from nineteen hundred seventy-six to the effective date of this title shall not result in a refund by any taxing jurisdiction of taxes previously paid by LILCO pursuant to such Shoreham plant assessment. The authority shall discontinue and abandon all proceedings, brought by its predecessor in interest, which seek the repayment of all or part of the taxes assessed against the Shoreham plant.

PART B

Section 1. Legislative findings. The legislature hereby finds and determines:

1. On May 28, 1998, Long Island Power Authority (the authority) acquired all the capital stock and associated assets, including transmission and distribution (T&D) system assets of Long Island Lighting Company (LILCO) which does business as the retail electric utility on Long Island, New York under the name of LIPA. In connection with that acquisition, the authority took over ultimate responsibility for providing electric utility service to residential, commercial, industrial, nonprofit and governmental customers in the counties of Suffolk and Nassau and a portion of the county of Queens (hereinafter referred to as the "service area"). Such acquisition effectively converted LILCO from an investor-owned utility that was comprehensively regulated by the New York Public Service Commission (PSC) and the United States Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), to a municipal utility that is not comprehensively regulated either by the PSC or FERC.

2. Since May 28, 1998, neither the authority nor LIPA has directly operated or maintained the T&D system assets, provided electric service or billed and collected T&D rates from LIPA's customers; instead, the authority and LIPA have contracted out virtually all of these activities to other companies. Most of these operations and service responsibilities have been contracted out to affiliates of a company now known as National Grid plc (National Grid), a multi-national electric and gas utility company organized under the laws of England and Wales pursuant to a management services agreement. Thus, while the LIPA name appears on customer bills as well as on service trucks and other equipment used in the service area, affiliates of National Grid have been principally in charge of management and operation of the T&D system assets and providing electricity to consumers in the service area. The authority and LIPA have now contracted with affiliates of Public Service Enterprise Group and Lockheed Martin Services Inc. (PSEG-Lockheed) to provide operation and maintenance services for the T&D system assets for ten years starting January 1, 2014, when the National Grid contract expires.

3. High costs of electric utility service poses a serious threat to the economic well-being, health and safety of the residents of and the commerce and industry in the service area. High costs of electric utility service deter commerce and industry from locating in the service area and have caused existing commerce and industry to consider seriously moving out of the service area.

4. High debt and associated debt service contribute to the authority's high electric rates. The authority has approximately seven billion dollars in outstanding debt, a substantial portion of which was issued to refinance debt associated with construction of the now abandoned Shoreham nuclear power plant. The annual debt service associated with such bonds puts pressure on the authority's customer rates.

5. As of December 31, 2012, the three major rating agencies generally rated the authority's debt in the single-A range, though Moody's Investors Services assigns approximately seven hundred million dollars of the authority's debt slightly lower ratings of Baa1 and Baa2.

6. If securitized restructuring bonds were issued by a bankruptcy-remote entity with a AAA or equivalent rating in current market conditions to finance a portion of the costs of purchasing, redeeming or defeasing outstanding debt of the authority, and other associated costs, the debt service on the authority's debt could be reduced and the costs of electric utility service could be lowered.

7. Securitized restructuring bonds are likely to be most attractive to the investing public and result in the lowest possible yields if they are issued by a newly organized, special purpose public benefit corporation or other corporate municipal instrumentality of the state.

8. The purpose of this act is to provide a legislative foundation for the issuance of securitized restructuring bonds to refinance outstanding debt of the authority, a significant portion of which relates to LILCO's costs of constructing and financing the now abandoned Shoreham nuclear power plant, including the creation of restructuring property by the authority to provide for the redemption or defeasance of a portion of the outstanding debt of the authority. It is the intent of the legislature to authorize, for the purpose of reducing electric utility costs to consumers in the service area, the following: (a) the organization of a restructuring bond issuer as a special purpose corporate municipal instrumentality of the state, created for the limited purpose of issuing securitized restructuring bonds to purchase restructuring property to finance the cost of purchasing, redeeming or defeasing a portion of the outstanding debt of the authority and associated costs, which securitized restructuring bonds create no new financial obligations or liabilities for the authority or for the state; and (b) implementation of contracts with owners of the securitized restructuring bonds through a statutory pledge and agreement that the state will not in any way take or permit any action to revoke, modify, impair, postpone, terminate or amend this act in any manner that is materially adverse to the owners of the restructuring bonds until those bonds are no longer outstanding and all amounts due and owing under the related transaction documents have been paid in full.

9. Accordingly, the issuance of securitized restructuring bonds is expected to result in lower aggregate distribution and transmission charges and transition charges, compared to other available alternatives.

§ 2. Definitions. As used or referred to in this act, unless a differing meaning clearly appears from the context:

1. "Ancillary agreement" means any bond insurance policy, letter of credit, reserve account, surety bond, swap arrangement, hedging arrangement, liquidity or credit support arrangement or other similar agreement or arrangement entered into in connection with the issuance of restructuring bonds that is designed to promote the credit quality and marketability of such restructuring bonds or to mitigate the risk of an increase in interest rates.

2. "Approved restructuring costs" means, to the extent approved as such under a restructuring cost financing order,

(a) costs of purchasing, redeeming or defeasing a portion of outstanding debt of the authority, including bonds and notes issued by the authority, debt issued by the New York state energy research and development authority for the benefit of the LILCO;

(b) costs of terminating interest rate swap contracts and other financial contracts entered into by or for the benefit of the authority and related to debt obligations of the authority;

4. "Authority" means Long Island Power Authority, a corporate municipal instrumentality and political subdivision of the state.

5. "Consumer" means any individual, governmental body, trust, business entity, nonprofit organization or other legally-recognized entity that takes electric delivery service within the service area by means of electric transmission or distribution facilities, whether those electric transmission or distribution facilities are owned by LIPA or any other entity.

6. "Financing cost" means the costs to issue, service, or repay restructuring bonds, whether incurred upon issuance of such restructuring bonds or over the life of the restructuring bonds, and approved for recovery in a restructuring cost financing order. Without limitation, "financing cost" may include, as applicable, any of the following:

(a) principal, interest and redemption premiums payable on restructuring bonds;

(b) any payment required under an ancillary agreement and any amount required to fund or replenish a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to the restructuring bonds;

(c) any federal, state or local taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, franchise fees or license fees imposed on transition charge revenues; and

(d) any cost related to issuing restructuring bonds, administering the restructuring bond issuer and servicing restructuring property and

restructuring bonds, or related to the efforts to prepare or obtain approval of a restructuring cost financing order, including, without limitation, costs of calculating adjustments of transition charges, servicing fees and expenses, trustee fees and expenses, legal fees and expenses, accounting fees and expenses, administrative fees and expenses, placement fees, underwriting fees, fees and expenses of the authority's advisors and outside counsel, if any, rating agency fees and any other related cost that is approved for recovery in the restructuring cost financing order.

8. "LIPA" means Long Island Lighting Company, currently doing business under the name of LIPA.

9. "Ongoing financing costs" means financing costs that are not upfront financing costs. Ongoing financing costs include: (a) principal, interest and redemption premiums payable on restructuring bonds; (b) any payment required under an ancillary agreement and any amount required to replenish a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to restructuring bonds; (c) any federal, state or local taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, franchise fees or license fees imposed on transition charge revenues; and (d) any cost related to administering the restructuring bond issuer and servicing restructuring property or restructuring bonds, including, without limitation, costs of calculating adjustments of transition charges, servicing fees and expenses, administrative fees and expenses, trustee fees and expenses, and legal fees and expenses, accounting fees and expenses, and rating agency fees, approved for recovery in the restructuring cost financing order. Ongoing financing costs shall include any excess of actual upfront financing costs over the estimate of upfront financing costs included in the principal amount of the restructuring bonds.

10. "Restructuring bond issuer" means the corporate municipal instrumentality of the state created under section four of this act.

11. "Restructuring bonds" means bonds or other evidences of indebtedness that are issued pursuant to an indenture or other agreement of the restructuring bond issuer under a restructuring cost financing order (a) the proceeds of which are used, directly or indirectly, to recover, finance, or refinance approved restructuring costs, (b) that are directly or indirectly secured by, or payable from, restructuring property, and (c) that have a term no longer than thirty years.

12. "Restructuring cost financing order" means an order by the authority, adopted in accordance with this act, which approves the imposition and collection of transition charges, and the financing of approved restructuring costs and upfront financing costs through the sale of restructuring property and the issuance of restructuring bonds, and which includes a procedure to require periodic adjustments to transition charges to ensure the collection of transition charges sufficient to provide for the timely payment of scheduled debt service on the restructuring bonds and all other ongoing financing costs contemplated by the restructuring cost financing order.

13. "Restructuring property" means the property rights and interests created pursuant to this act, including, without limitation, the right, title, and interest: (a) in and to the transition charges established

pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order, as adjusted from time to time in accordance with the restructuring cost financing order; (b) in and to all revenues, collections, claims, payments, money, or proceeds of or arising from the transition charges or constituting transition charges that are the subject of a restructuring cost financing order, regardless of whether such revenues, collections, claims, payments, money, or proceeds are imposed, billed, received, collected or maintained together with or commingled with other revenues, collections, claims, payments, money or proceeds; and (c) in and to all rights to obtain adjustments to the transition charges pursuant to the terms of the restructuring cost financing order. Restructuring property shall constitute a vested, presently existing property right notwithstanding the fact that the value of the property right will depend on further acts that have not yet occurred, including but not limited to, consumers remaining or becoming connected to the T&D system assets and taking electric delivery service, the imposition and billing of transition charges, or, in those instances where consumers are customers of LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, such owner performing certain services.

14. "Service area" means the geographical area within which LIPA provided electric distribution services as of the implementation date of this act.

15. "Servicer" means an entity authorized and required, by contract or otherwise, to impose, bill and collect transition charges, to prepare periodic reports regarding billings and collections of transition charges, to remit collections to the appropriate financing entity, and to provide other services contemplated by the restructuring cost financing order, which may include calculation of periodic adjustments to the transition charges or providing other services related to the restructuring property. Without limitation, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, their agents or subcontractors, or any entity authorized to bill and collect T&D rates may be a servicer.

16. "Servicing fee" means, except to the extent otherwise specified in a restructuring cost financing order, the periodic amount paid pursuant to a servicing agreement, indenture or other such document to a servicer of restructuring property which amount shall approximate the estimated incremental cost of imposing, billing and collecting transition charges, preparing servicing reports and performing other customary servicing services required in connection with securitized bonds. A restructuring cost financing order may authorize a smaller fee payable to a successor servicer that is affiliated with a successor owner of the T&D system assets if the incremental cost of providing servicing services is less than LIPA's incremental costs. A restructuring cost financing order may authorize a larger fee payable to a successor servicer that is not affiliated with the owner of the T&D system assets or is not performing similar services with respect to the base rates of the owner of the T&D system assets if such larger fee is reasonably necessary to employ a reliable successor servicer.

17. "Successor regulator" means a regulatory department, commission or other instrumentality or subdivision of the state with jurisdiction to regulate the T&D rates of LIPA or its successor as owner of the T&D system assets.

18. "Third-party biller" means any person or entity authorized, required or entitled to bill or collect transition charges or T&D rates other than the authority, LIPA or a successor owner of the T&D system assets, or a servicer.

19. "T&D rates" means rates and charges for electric transmission and distribution services in the service area. "T&D rates" shall not include charges for the generation or resale of electricity or any charges imposed to fund public purpose programs.

20. "T&D system assets" means the physically integrated system of electric transmission and distribution facilities (and other general property and equipment used in connection therewith) owned by LIPA as of the effective date of this act or thereafter acquired for use by LIPA or its successors in providing retail electric utility service to consumers in the service area.

21. "Transition charges" means those rates and charges relating to the T&D system assets that are separate and apart from base rates of LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets and that are authorized in a restructuring cost financing order to recover from consumers the principal, interest and premium payable on restructuring bonds and the other ongoing financing costs associated with the restructuring bonds. As provided in paragraph (c) of subdivision 5 of section five of this act, transition charges shall be imposed on all consumers in the service area and collected by LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, their agents, subcontractors, assignees, collection agents or any other entity designated under the restructuring cost financing order.

22. "Upfront financing costs" means the fees and expenses to issue restructuring bonds, including, without limitation, expenses associated with the efforts to prepare or obtain approval of a restructuring cost financing order, as well as the fees and expenses associated with the structuring, marketing, and issuance of restructuring bonds, including, without limitation, counsel fees, structural advisory fees, underwriting fees and original issue discount, rating agency and trustee fees (including fees of trustee's counsel), accounting and auditing fees, printing and marketing expenses, stock exchange listing fees and compliance fees, filing fees, any applicable taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, the amount required to fund a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to the restructuring bonds, and fees and expenses of the authority's advisors and outside counsel, if any. Upfront financing costs include reimbursement to any person of amounts advanced for payment of such costs. Upfront financing costs do not include scheduled debt service or other ongoing financing costs, to the extent such ongoing financing costs are payable from transition charge revenues. If any upfront financing costs cannot be reasonably determined before the principal amount of restructuring bonds is fixed, such financing costs shall be estimated and the aggregate of such estimates shall be included as an upfront financing cost for purposes of determining the principal amount of restructuring bonds to be issued. If the actual upfront financing costs are greater than the estimated upfront financing costs, the difference shall be deemed to be an ongoing financing cost; if the actual upfront financing costs are less than the estimated upfront financing costs, the proceeds corresponding to such difference shall be used to pay ongoing financing costs.

§ 3. Procedure; judicial review. 1. Standard. The authority may prepare a restructuring cost financing order for the purpose of issuing restructuring bonds to refinance outstanding debt of the authority based on a finding that such bond issuance is expected to result in savings to consumers of electric transmission and distribution services in the service area on a net present value basis.

2. Public hearings. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, at any time after the effective date of this act, after making such finding, the authority shall schedule and hold one or more expedited public statement hearings on the proposed restructuring cost financing order. After the conclusion of such hearings and its review of any comments received, the authority shall finalize the restructuring cost financing order for submission to the board of trustees of the authority and to the public authorities control board ("PACB"). The PACB shall have the power and it shall be its duty to, upon receiving an application for approval of a restructuring cost financing order, within thirty days after receipt of such order, either approve, absent any conditions of approval, or disapprove such order based solely on the assumptions and conditions set forth in the restructuring cost financing order and whether such order complies with the standards set forth in this act. If the public authorities control board fails to approve or disapprove such restructuring cost financing order within such thirty day period, the PACB shall be deemed to have approved the restructuring cost financing order. If the board of trustees of the authority approves such restructuring cost financing order and the PACB approves or is deemed to have approved such restructuring cost financing order, the restructuring cost financing order shall become a final rate order by the authority.

3. Appeals. Because delay in the final determination of the petition will delay the issuance of restructuring bonds, thereby diminishing savings to consumers that might be achieved if the restructuring bonds were issued promptly after the issuance of the restructuring cost financing order, notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, any action, suit or proceeding to which the authority or the restructuring bond issuer may be a party, in which any question arises as to the validity of this act or any restructuring cost financing order, shall be preferred over all other civil causes in all courts of the state, except election matters, and shall be heard and determined in preference to all other civil business pending therein, except election matters, irrespective of position on the calendar. Such preference shall also be granted upon application of counsel to the authority in any action or proceeding questioning the validity of this act or any restructuring cost financing order in which such counsel may be allowed to intervene. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the validity of this act may only be challenged by an aggrieved party pursuant to an action, suit or proceeding filed within thirty days of the effective date of this act, and the validity of any restructuring cost financing order may only be challenged by an aggrieved party pursuant to an action, suit or proceeding filed within thirty days after such restructuring cost financing order becomes a final rate order by the authority; provided, however, that any such action, suit or proceeding and all supporting papers shall be filed directly to the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department.

4. Expiration of appeals. The authority shall provide written notification to the restructuring bond issuer upon the authority's determination that any and all actions, suits and proceedings challenging this act and the final restructuring cost financing order have been denied or dismissed or the timing associated with the filing of such actions, suits and proceedings has lapsed or expired, and any related appeals have been exhausted or the timing related to such appeals has lapsed or expired.

5. Agreement to sell restructuring bonds. Within the time specified in the restructuring cost financing order, after receiving notice from the authority that the time for petitions and appeals has lapsed or expired, the restructuring bond issuer shall enter into an agreement with one or more underwriters or purchasers satisfactory to the authority to sell the restructuring bonds in compliance with the restructuring cost financing order. No later than the third business day after the pricing of the restructuring bonds in accordance with such agreement, the initial servicer shall determine the initial transition charges and the expected savings to consumers in accordance with the restructuring cost financing order and shall file an issuance advice letter with the authority and the restructuring bond issuer setting forth the principal amount of restructuring bonds to be issued, the pricing, the net proceeds, the initial transition charges, the expected savings to consumers and any other information required by the restructuring cost financing order. No later than the end of the third business day after the filing of such issuance advice letter, the authority shall confirm in a notice to the restructuring bond issuer that such pricing complies with the restructuring cost financing order.

6. Issuance of restructuring bonds. Within ninety days after receiving notice of confirmation from the authority, the restructuring bond issuer shall issue the restructuring bonds, in one or more series or tranches and at one or more times, pursuant to the agreement to sell the restructuring bonds. The restructuring bond issuer shall purchase the restructuring property from the authority for a purchase price equal to the net proceeds from the sale of the restructuring bonds less any amounts of such proceeds required to fund or pay upfront financing costs.

7. Irrevocability. Upon the issuance of the restructuring bonds, the transition charges, including any adjustments thereof as provided in the restructuring cost financing order, shall be deemed established by the authority as irrevocable, final and effective without further action by the authority, or any other entity. The state, including the authority or any successor regulator, thereafter may not in any way take or permit any action to reduce, impair, postpone or terminate the transition charges approved in the restructuring cost financing order, as the same may be adjusted from time to time pursuant to subdivision 3 of section five of this act, or impair the restructuring property or the collection or recovery of transition charge revenues, including, but not limited to, either directly or indirectly by taking transition charges into account when setting other rates for any owner of the T&D system assets; nor shall the amount of revenues arising with respect to restructuring property be subject in any way to reduction, impairment, postponement, or termination.

8. Application of proceeds. The restructuring bond issuer shall cause the proceeds from its issuance of the restructuring bonds to be placed in one or more separate accounts and used only to pay or fund upfront financing costs and to purchase the restructuring property from the authority. The authority shall cause the proceeds from its sale of restructuring property to be placed in one or more separate accounts and used only to pay approved restructuring costs, and if funds remain in those accounts after the payment of all approved restructuring costs, to make a refund or credit to consumers on the same basis that transition charges are then being imposed, to the extent such a refund or credit is practical.

§ 4. Creation of restructuring bond issuer. 1. Creation of restructuring bond issuer. For the purpose of effectuating the purposes declared in section one of this act, there is hereby created a special purpose corporate municipal instrumentality of the state to be known as "utility debt securitization authority", which shall be a body corporate and politic, a political subdivision of the state, and a public benefit corporation, exercising essential governmental and public powers for the good of the public. The restructuring bond issuer shall not be created or organized, and its operations shall not be conducted, for the purpose of making a profit. No part of the revenues or assets of the restructuring bond issuer shall inure to the benefit of or be distributable to its trustees or officers or any other private persons, except as herein provided for actual services rendered.

2. Activities limited to issuing restructuring bonds and related activities.

(a) The restructuring bond issuer is hereby authorized to:

(i) issue the restructuring bonds contemplated by a restructuring cost financing order, and use the proceeds thereof to purchase or acquire, and to own, hold and use restructuring property or to pay or fund upfront financing costs provided, however, that the restructuring bond issuer shall only issue and sell restructuring bonds once;

(ii) contract for servicing of restructuring property and restructuring bonds and for administrative services; and

(iii) pledge the restructuring property to secure the restructuring bonds and the payment of ongoing financing costs, all pursuant to section seven of this act.

(b) So long as any restructuring bonds remain outstanding, the restructuring bond issuer shall not be authorized to merge or consolidate, directly or indirectly, with any person or entity. Additionally, the restructuring bond issuer shall not have the power or authority to incur, guarantee or otherwise become obligated to pay any debt or other obligations other than the restructuring bonds and financing costs unless otherwise permitted by the restructuring cost financing order. The restructuring bond issuer shall keep its assets and liabilities separate and distinct from those of any other entity.

(c) The restructuring bond issuer shall have no additional authority to engage in other business activities; provided, however, that in connection with the powers specified in paragraph (a) of subdivision 2 of this section, as a financing entity, the restructuring bond issuer shall have the power to:

(i) sue and be sued;

(ii) have a seal and alter the same at pleasure;

(iii) make and alter by-laws for its organization and internal management and make rules and regulations governing the use of its property;

(iv) make and execute contracts and all other instruments necessary or convenient for the exercise of its powers and functions under this act and to commence any action to protect or enforce any right conferred upon it by any law, contract or other agreement, including, without limitation, make and execute contracts with the authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, any servicers, any financing entity or any other public or private entities to service restructuring property owned by restructuring bond issuer, to service restructuring bonds issued by restructuring bond issuer, and to provide services in

administering the restructuring bond issuer, and to pay compensation for such services;

(v) appoint officers, agents and employees, prescribe their duties and qualifications, fix their compensation and engage the services of

private consultants, accountants, counsel and others on a contract basis for rendering professional and technical assistance and advice;

(vi) pay its operating expenses, scheduled debt service on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs;

(vii) issue restructuring bonds and provide for the rights of the holders thereof;

(viii) procure insurance against any loss in connection with its activities, properties and assets in such amount and from such insurers as it deems desirable;

(ix) invest any funds or other moneys under its custody and control in investment securities or under any ancillary agreement;

(x) establish and maintain such reserves, special funds and accounts, to be held in trust or otherwise, as may be required by agreements made in connection with the restructuring bonds, or any agreement between itself and third parties;

(xi) as security for the payment of the principal of and interest on any restructuring bonds issued by it pursuant to this act, and any agreement made in connection therewith, pledge all or any part of its revenues or assets, including, without limitation, restructuring property, unspent proceeds of its restructuring bonds, transition charge revenues, and earnings from the investment and reinvestment of unspent proceeds of its restructuring bonds and transition charge revenues; and

(xii) do any and all things necessary or convenient to carry out its purposes and exercise the powers expressly given and granted in this section.

3. No authority to file for bankruptcy protection. The restructuring bond issuer shall not be authorized to be a debtor under chapter 9 of the United States Bankruptcy Code or any other provision of the United States Bankruptcy Code. No governmental officer or organization is empowered to authorize, whether by executive order or otherwise, restructuring bond issuer to be a debtor under chapter 9 of the United States Bankruptcy Code or any other provision of the United States Bankruptcy Code. Until at least one year and one day after all restructuring bonds issued by restructuring bond issuer have ceased to be outstanding and all unpaid financing costs have been paid, the state hereby pledges, contracts and agrees with owners of restructuring bonds issued by restructuring bond issuer that the state will not limit or alter the denial of authority to the restructuring bond issuer to be a debtor under chapter 9 of the United States Bankruptcy Code or any other provision of the United States Bankruptcy Code.

4. Governance. The restructuring bond issuer shall be governed by a board consisting of three trustees appointed by the governor. The trustees shall not be trustees, directors, officers, or employees of the authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets.

(a) One of the trustees first appointed shall serve for a term ending four years from January first next succeeding his appointment; one of such trustees shall serve for a term ending five years from such date; and one of such trustees shall serve for a term ending six years from such date. Their successors shall serve for terms of six years each. Trustees shall continue in office until their successors have been appointed and qualified and the provisions of section 39 of the public officers law shall apply. In the event of a vacancy occurring in the office of a trustee by death, removal, resignation or otherwise, the Governor shall appoint a successor to serve for the balance of the unexpired term.

(b) Trustees shall serve without salary or other compensation, but each trustee shall be entitled to reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of his or her official duties.

(c) A majority of the trustees shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business or the exercise of any power or function of restructuring bond issuer. Any one or more trustees may participate in a meeting of the board by means of a conference telephone or similar communications equipment allowing all persons participating in the meeting to hear each other at the same time. Participation by such means shall constitute presence in person at a meeting. The board may delegate to one or more of its trustees, or officers, agents and employees, such powers and duties as the board may deem proper.

(d) Such trustees may engage in private employment, or in a profession or business. Restructuring bond issuer, its trustees, officers and employees shall be subject to the provisions of sections 73 and 74 of the public officers law.

(e) Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of law to the contrary, general, special or local, no officer of the state or of any civil division thereof shall be deemed to have forfeited or shall forfeit his or her office or employment by reason of his or her acceptance of an appointment as trustee of restructuring bond issuer.

(f) The governor may remove any trustee for inefficiency, neglect of duty or misconduct in office after giving him or her a copy of the charges against him or her and an opportunity to be heard, in person or by counsel, in his or her defense, upon not less than ten days notice. If any trustee shall be so removed, the governor shall file in the office of the department of state a complete statement of the charges made against such trustee and his or her findings thereon, together with a complete record of the proceedings.

(g) Each trustee shall have a fiduciary duty to act in the best interests of the restructuring bond issuer, including its creditors, the owners of the restructuring bonds, and such other duties as may be specified in the organizational documents or other agreements of the restructuring bond issuer.

(h) The restructuring bond issuer and its corporate existence shall continue until one year and one day after all restructuring bonds and ongoing financing costs and other indebtedness of restructuring bond issuer have been actually paid and all its other liabilities and obligations have been paid, met or otherwise discharged. Upon termination of the existence of restructuring bond issuer, all of its rights and property shall pass to and be vested in the state.

§ 5. Restructuring cost financing orders. 1. Content of restructuring cost financing orders. The restructuring cost financing order shall include the following: (i) a description of the approved restructuring costs; (ii) the amount of approved restructuring costs that the authority proposes to pay through the sale of the restructuring property and the issuance of the restructuring bonds; (iii) designation of the authority as the entity in which initial ownership of restructuring property will vest; (iv) an estimate of the date on which restructuring bonds will be issued and the expected scheduled term to maturity of the restructuring bonds; (v) a description of the estimated debt service on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs that may be recovered through transition charges; as part of this description, the

that no such limitation on financing costs shall impair the ability of the restructuring bond issuer to pay and service the restructuring bonds in accordance with their terms; (vi) a proposed methodology for allocating transition charges on an equal percentage basis among customer service classifications and among volumetric (kWh) and demand (kW) charges within those customer service classifications, along with an associated bill impact analysis of the proposed methodology; (vii) a description of the proposed adjustment mechanism to reconcile actual collections with forecasted collection on at least an annual basis and a finding that the adjustment mechanism is just and reasonable; (viii) a description of the benefits to consumers in the service area that are expected to result from the sale of the restructuring property and the issuance of restructuring bonds as opposed to traditional alternative financing mechanisms; (ix) specifying the entity that will contract to act as servicer with respect to the restructuring property and the restructuring bonds on terms and conditions mutually acceptable to such servicer and the restructuring bond issuer; (x) specifying the entity or entities that will contract to provide administrative or other services to the restructuring bond issuer; (xi) specifying when the restructuring property will be created and vest and addressing such other matters as may be necessary or desirable for the marketing or servicing of the restructuring bonds or the servicing of the restructuring property; (xii) authorizing the imposition, billing and collection of transition charges to pay debt service on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs; (xiii) a description of the restructuring property that will be created and that may be used to pay and secure the payment of the restructuring bonds approved to be issued in the restructuring cost financing order; (xiv) a requirement that the amounts in the debt service reserve accounts or other accounts funded with the proceeds of restructuring bonds or transition charges be fully used, to the extent practical, to make the final payments of principal and interest on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs or to make refunds to consumers on the same basis as such consumers would have then been obligated to pay transition costs; and (xv) the finding required by subdivision 1 of section 3 of this act.

2. Periodic reports. A restructuring cost financing order shall require the restructuring bond issuer or the servicer to file at least annually with the authority and the appropriate financing entity a periodic report showing the billing and collection of transition charges, the application of transition charge revenues to debt service on the restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs, and the balances in any debt service reserve accounts or other accounts required by the restructuring cost financing order.

3. Adjustment mechanism.

(a) Each restructuring cost financing order shall include a mathematical formula for making periodic adjustments to the transition charges. The mathematical formula shall apply the following principles:

(i) The transition charges will be adjusted at least annually to ensure that the collections of transition charges are adequate to pay principal and interest on the associated restructuring bonds when due pursuant to the expected amortization schedule, to fund all debt service reserve accounts to the required levels and to pay when due all other expected ongoing financing costs.

(ii) The adjustments of transition charges will take into account historical and reasonably foreseeable differences between amounts billed and amounts collected due to applicable taxes, consumer defaults and delays, billing lags, write-offs and other factors.

(iii) The adjustments of transition charges will take into account historical and reasonably foreseeable variations in billings due to variations in electricity consumption associated with the seasons, storms and other weather conditions, outages, gain or loss of consumers, efficiencies, electric vehicles, economic conditions or other factors.

(iv) The adjustments of transition charges will take into account any over-collection or under-collection of transition charges so that, to the extent practical, the outstanding balance of restructuring bonds is equal to the scheduled balance on the expected amortization schedule, the amounts in the debt service reserve accounts are equal to the required reserve level, and all ongoing financing costs are paid when due.

(v) The adjustments of transition charges will be applied ratably to the transition charges for each customer service classification.

(b) Once restructuring bonds have been issued, the adjustment mechanism specified in the restructuring cost financing order shall be applied to correct for any over-collection or under-collection of transition charges and to provide for timely payment of scheduled principal of and interest on the restructuring bonds and the payment and recovery of other ongoing financing costs in accordance with the restructuring cost financing order. Application of the adjustment mechanism shall occur at least annually or more frequently as provided in the restructuring cost financing order. A notice of such periodic adjustment of transition charges shall be filed with the authority by or on behalf of the owner of restructuring property and a copy shall be provided to the owner of the T&D system assets at least sixty days before the adjustment is to take effect, provided that the restructuring bond issuer may request an earlier effective date.

(c) Each adjustment to the transition charge, in amounts as calculated by or on behalf of the owner of restructuring property, shall automatically become effective sixty days following the date on which the notice of periodic adjustment is filed with the authority unless the authority approves an earlier effective date requested by the restructuring bond issuer.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the authority shall allow interested parties thirty days from the date of filing of the notice for adjustment within which to make comments. Such comments shall be limited to the mathematical accuracy of the calculations of the amount of the adjustments. If the authority determines that the calculation of the transition charge adjustment in the notice was mathematically inaccurate, the transition charge adjustment shall be changed as soon as it is reasonably practical to do so, but estimated overcollections or undercollections resulting from the mathematical error shall be taken into account in the next succeeding periodic adjustment.

(e) No adjustment pursuant to this section shall in any way affect the irrevocability of the restructuring cost financing order as specified in subdivision 4 of section five of this act. No adjustment pursuant to this section shall require any approvals or action under any other law or shall be deemed to be the establishment of a new charge, fee or rate under any law.

4. Irrevocability of restructuring cost financing orders.

(a) A restructuring cost financing order shall be an irrevocable final

rate order when the time for any actions, suits, proceedings and appeals challenging such final restructuring cost financing order has lapsed or expired as provided in subdivision 3 of section three of this act.

(b) A restructuring cost financing order may be amended on or after the date of issuance of restructuring bonds approved thereunder only: (i) at the request of the authority; (ii) in accordance with any restrictions and limitations on amendment set forth in the restructuring cost financing order; (iii) subject to the limitations set forth in subdivision 7 of section three of this act; and (iv) upon approval by the PACB within thirty days of receipt of such amendment; provided, however, that if no approval or disapproval is made within such time, the amendment shall be deemed approved.

(c) This act, and any restructuring cost financing order made pursuant to this act, shall not be interpreted to alter or limit the rights vested in the authority to establish sufficient T&D rates to pay and perform all of its obligations and contracts with the authority's bondholders and others when due.

5. Effect of restructuring cost financing order.

(a) A restructuring cost financing order shall remain in effect and unabated until the restructuring bonds issued pursuant to the restructuring cost financing order have been paid in full and all ongoing financing and all amounts to be paid to an assignee or financing party under an ancillary agreement are paid or performed in full.

(b) A restructuring cost financing order shall remain in effect and unabated notwithstanding the bankruptcy, reorganization or insolvency of the authority, the restructuring bond issuer, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, or any affiliate of the aforementioned, or the commencement of any judicial or nonjudicial proceeding therefor.

(c) For so long as restructuring bonds issued pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order are outstanding, and the related approved restructuring costs have not been paid in full, the transition charges authorized in the restructuring cost financing order shall be non-bypassable and shall apply to all consumers connected to the T&D system assets and taking electric delivery service located within the service area, whether or not the consumers produce their own electricity or purchase electric generation services from a provider of electric generation services other than the owner of the T&D system assets and whether or not the T&D system assets continue to be owned by LIPA.

§ 6. Restructuring bonds. 1. No recourse. Restructuring bonds shall be without recourse to the credit or any assets of the authority, LIPA and the restructuring bond issuer, other than the restructuring property and other assets and revenues of restructuring bond issuer as specified in the pertinent restructuring cost financing order.

2. Exemption from taxation.

(a) It is hereby found and declared that the activities of the restructuring bond issuer are primarily for the benefit of the people of the state of New York, for the improvement of their welfare and prosperity, and is a public purpose, and the restructuring bond issuer shall be regarded as performing an essential governmental function in carrying out the provisions of this act.

(b) The restructuring bond issuer shall not be required to pay taxes or assessments upon any of the property acquired or controlled by it or upon its activities in the use thereof or upon income derived therefrom.

(c) Restructuring bonds, their transfer and the income therefrom shall, at all times, be free from taxation by the state or any municipality, except for estate and gift taxes.

3. Restructuring bonds not debt of the state. Restructuring bonds issued pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order and the provisions of this act shall not constitute a debt, general obligation or a pledge of the faith and credit or taxing power of the state or of any county, municipality or any other political subdivision, agency or instrumentality of the state. Holders of restructuring bonds shall not be taxed by the legislature or the taxing authority of any county, municipality or any other political subdivision, agency or instrumentality of this state for the payment of the principal thereof or interest thereon. The issuance of restructuring bonds does not obligate the state or any county, municipality or any other political subdivision, agency or instrumentality of the state to levy any tax or make any appropriation for payment of the principal of or interest on the restructuring bonds. All restructuring bonds must contain a statement to the following effect: "Neither the full faith and credit nor the taxing power of the state of New York is pledged to the payment of the principal of, or interest on, this bond."

4. Restructuring bonds as legal investments. Any restructuring bonds issued by the restructuring bond issuer are hereby made securities in which all public officers and bodies of this state and all municipalities, all insurance companies and associations and other persons carrying on an insurance business, all banks, bankers, trust companies, savings banks and savings associations, including savings and loan associations, building and loan associations, investment companies and other persons carrying on a banking business, all trusts, estates and guardianships and all other persons whatsoever, who are now or may hereafter be authorized to invest in bonds or other obligations of this state, may properly and legally invest funds, including capital in their control or belonging to them. The restructuring bonds are also hereby made securities which may be deposited with and shall be received by all public officers and bodies of the state and all municipalities for any purpose for which the deposit of bonds or other obligations of the state is now or may hereafter be authorized.

§ 7. Restructuring property. 1. (a) Restructuring property that is created pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order shall constitute an existing, present property right, notwithstanding the fact that the imposition and collection of transition charges will depend on further acts that have not yet occurred, including but not limited to: (i) LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets delivering electric energy or related services, (ii) a servicer performing servicing functions relating to the collection of transition charges, or (iii) the level of future consumption of electric energy. Restructuring property shall exist whether or not transition charges have been imposed, billed, accrued or collected and notwithstanding the fact that the value or amount of the restructuring property is dependent on the future provision of service to customers by LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets.

(b) All restructuring property created pursuant to a restructuring cost financing order shall continue to exist until the restructuring bonds issued pursuant to such restructuring cost financing order are paid in full and all ongoing financing costs relating to the restructuring bonds have been paid in full.

(c) The restructuring property may be transferred, sold, conveyed or assigned to the restructuring bond issuer. All or any portion of restructuring property may be pledged to secure the payment of restructuring bonds, amounts payable to financing parties, amounts payable to holders of restructuring bonds, amounts payable under any ancillary agreement and other ongoing financing costs. So long as the restructuring property remains pledged to secure the restructuring bonds, revenues from the collection of transition charges shall be applied solely to the repayment of restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs. After the occurrence of an event of default with respect to the restructuring bonds, all or any portion of restructuring property may be transferred, sold, conveyed or assigned to any person or entity. Any transfer, sale, conveyance, assignment, grant of a security interest in or pledge of restructuring property by the authority, the restructuring bond issuer, or other financing entity, to the extent previously approved in a restructuring cost financing order, does not require the prior consent and approval of any other person or entity under the public service law or any other law.

(d) If the owner of the T&D system assets, servicer, third-party biller, or any other person or entity authorized to collect transition charges, defaults on any required remittance of transition charge revenues, any court in the state, upon application by an interested party and without limiting any other remedies available to the applying party, shall order the sequestration and payment of the transition charge revenues for the benefit of the owners or pledgees of restructuring property. The order shall remain in full force and effect notwithstanding any bankruptcy, reorganization, or other insolvency proceedings with respect to a servicer, authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets or any affiliate thereof or of any other person or entity.

(e) Restructuring property, transition charges, transition charge revenues, and the interests of an assignee, bondholder, financing party or any other person in restructuring property or in transition charge revenues, are not subject to setoff, counterclaim, surcharge or defense by a servicer, any consumer, the authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets or any other person or in connection with any default, bankruptcy, reorganization or other insolvency proceeding of the authority, LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, any affiliate thereof or any other entity or otherwise. To the extent that any consumer makes a partial payment of a bill containing both transition charges and any other charges, such payment shall be allocated pro rata between the transition charges and the other charges unless the consumer specifies that a greater proportion of such payment is to be allocated to the transition charges, except that the other charges shall be reduced by the amount of any claims of setoff, counterclaim, surcharge or defense for purposes of such allocation.

(f) Any successor owner of the T&D system assets and any successor servicer shall be bound by the requirements of this act and shall perform and satisfy all obligations of a servicer in the same manner and to the same extent under a restructuring cost financing order as did LIPA and the initial servicer, including, without limitation, the obligation to impose, bill and collect the transition charges and to pay such collections to the person entitled to receive the transition charge revenues.

2. Security interests. Any pledge of restructuring property or proceeds thereof, including any moneys, revenues or property or of a revenue producing contract or contracts constituting part of the restructuring property, made by the owner of restructuring property,

shall be perfected, valid and binding from the time when the pledge is made. The proceeds, moneys, revenues or proceeds so pledged and thereafter received by the owner of restructuring property shall immediately be subject to the lien of such pledge, and such lien shall be perfected, without any physical delivery thereof or further act. The lien of any such pledge shall be perfected, valid and binding as against all parties having claims of any kind in tort, contract or otherwise against the owner of restructuring property irrespective of whether such parties have notice thereof and shall be superior to any judicial liens or other liens obtained by such claimants or transferees. The description of the restructuring property in a pledge or security agreement and any financing statement is sufficient if and only if the description refers to this Act and the restructuring cost financing order creating such restructuring property. No instrument by which a pledge or lien is created pursuant to this subdivision need be recorded in order to perfect such pledge or lien. However, the restructuring bond issuer shall cause a financing statement describing the pledge and referring to the restructuring cost financing order and the restructuring property described therein to be filed for informational purposes only under article 9 of the uniform commercial code. The secretary of state shall maintain any financing statement filed under this section in the same manner that the secretary maintains financing statements filed by transmitting utilities under section 9-501 of the uniform commercial code until a termination statement is filed. A pledge of restructuring property is a continuously perfected security interest and has priority over any other lien, created by operation of law or otherwise, that may subsequently attach to that restructuring property or proceeds thereof unless the holder of any such lien has agreed in writing otherwise. Any pledgee of restructuring property shall have a perfected security interest in the amount of all restructuring property revenues or other proceeds that are deposited in any deposit account or other account of the servicer or other entity in which restructuring property revenues or other proceeds have been commingled with other funds. Any other security interest that may apply to restructuring revenues or other proceeds shall be terminated when such revenues or proceeds are transferred to a segregated account for an assignee or a financing party. No application of the adjustment mechanism as described in this act shall affect the validity, perfection, or priority of a pledge of, security interest in or the sale or transfer of restructuring property.

3. Sales of restructuring property.

(a) A transfer of all or any portion of restructuring property, which the parties in the governing documentation have expressly stated to be a sale or other absolute transfer, in a transaction approved in a restructuring cost financing order, shall be treated as an absolute transfer of all of the transferor's right, title, and interest (as in a true sale), and not as a pledge or other financing, of the restructuring property, other than for federal, state and local income and franchise tax purposes.

(b) Any transfer of an interest in restructuring property shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding from the time when the transfer is made. Such transfer shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor, all parties having claims of any kind in tort, contract or otherwise against the transferor, and all other transferees of the transferor, irrespective of whether such parties have notice thereof and shall be superior to any judicial liens or other liens obtained by such claimants or transferees. The description of the restructuring property in a sale or transfer agreement and any financing statement is sufficient if and only if the description refers to this act and the restructuring cost financing order creating such restructuring property. No instrument by which a transfer is created pursuant to this section need be recorded in order to perfect such transfer. However, the restructuring bond issuer shall cause a financing statement describing the pledge and referring to the restructuring cost financing order and the restructuring property described therein to be filed for informational purposes only under article nine of the uniform commercial code. The secretary of state shall maintain any financing statement filed under this section in the same manner that such secretary maintains financing statements filed by transmitting utilities under section 9-501 of the uniform commercial code until a termination statement is filed.

(c) The characterization of the sale, assignment or transfer as an absolute transfer and true sale and the corresponding characterization of the property interest of the purchaser, shall not adversely be affected or impaired by, among other things, the occurrence of any of the following factors: (i) commingling of revenues or other proceeds from transition charges with other amounts; (ii) the retention by the seller of: (A) a partial or residual interest, including an equity interest, in the restructuring property, whether direct or indirect, or whether subordinate or otherwise; or (B) the right to recover costs associated with taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, franchise fees or license fees imposed on the collection of transition charges; (iii) any recourse that the purchaser may have against the seller; (iv) any indemnification rights, obligations or repurchase rights made or provided by the seller; (v) the obligation of the seller to collect transition charges on behalf of an assignee, including but not limited to, any retention by the seller to bare legal title for the purpose of collecting transition charges; (vi) the treatment of the sale, assignment or transfer for tax, financial reporting or other purposes; (vii) any subsequent order of the authority amending a restructuring cost financing order pursuant to paragraph (b) of subdivision 4 of section five of this act; or (viii) any application of the adjustment mechanism as provided in subdivision 3 of section five of this act.

(d) An assignee or financing party shall not be considered to be a public utility or person providing electric service solely by virtue of the transactions described in this act.

§ 8. Rights and duties while restructuring bonds are outstanding. 1. Responsibilities of the authority. (a) For the purpose of investigating compliance with the provisions of this act and the applicable restructuring cost financing order, the authority shall have the right, jurisdiction, power and authority to examine the books and records of LIPA or any successor owner of the T&D system assets, the restructuring bond issuer, any other financing entity, any servicer, any third-party biller and any other person or entity that owns restructuring property or has the right to impose, bill or collect transition charges until the restructuring bonds issued pursuant to the restructuring cost financing order have been paid in full and all financing costs relating to such restructuring bonds have been paid in full.

(b) Neither the authority nor any successor regulator may, in exercising its powers and carrying out its duties regarding regulation and ratemaking, consider restructuring bonds issued pursuant to the restructuring cost financing order to be the debt of any owner of the T&D

system assets, consider transition charges paid under the restructuring cost financing order to be revenue of any owner of the T&D system assets, or consider the approved restructuring costs or ongoing financing costs specified in the restructuring cost financing order to be costs of any owner of the T&D system assets or any affiliate, nor may the authority or any successor regulator determine that any action taken by any owner of the T&D system assets that is consistent with the restructuring cost financing order is unjust or unreasonable from a regulatory or ratemaking perspective; provided that, subject to the limitations set forth in subdivision 4 of section five of this act and the state pledge in section nine of this act, nothing in this subdivision shall (i) affect the authority to apply the adjustment mechanism as provided in subdivision 3 of section five of this act; (ii) prevent or preclude the authority from investigating the compliance of any owner of the T&D system assets and of any financing entity with the terms and conditions of a restructuring cost financing order and requiring compliance therewith; or (iii) prevent or preclude the authority or any successor regulator from imposing regulatory sanctions against any owner of the T&D system assets for failure to comply with the terms and conditions of a restructuring cost financing order or the requirements of this act. When setting other rates for any owner of the T&D system assets, nothing in this act shall prevent the authority or any successor regulator from taking into account the collection by such owner of servicing fees in excess of incremental costs of providing servicing services, or the collection by such owner of administration fees in excess of incremental costs of providing administration services; provided that this would not result in a recharacterization of the tax, accounting, and other intended characteristics of the financing, including, but not limited to, either of the following: (i) treating restructuring bonds as debt for federal income tax purposes; or (ii) treating any transfer of the restructuring property to the restructuring bond issuer or to any other financing entity as a true sale for bankruptcy purposes.

2. Duties of financing entities and any owner of T&D system assets.

(a) Any failure of any financing entity to apply the proceeds of restructuring bonds, or proceeds from the sale of restructuring property, in a reasonable, prudent and appropriate manner or otherwise comply with any provision of this act shall not invalidate, impair or affect any restructuring cost financing order, restructuring property, transition charge, or restructuring bonds.

(b) Any owner of T&D system assets, any servicer, any third-party biller and any other entity that bills or collects T&D rates shall simultaneously impose, bill and collect any transition charges applicable to consumers in the service area, including all consumers connected to the T&D system assets and taking electric delivery service located within the service area, shall allocate partial payments by consumers as provided in this act, shall terminate service to non-paying consumers on the same basis as termination of service is permitted for non-payment of T&D rates, shall exercise all enforcement rights of the owner or pledgee of the restructuring property for the benefit of such owner or pledgee, and shall remit any transition charge revenue to the owner or pledgee of the restructuring property.

§ 9. State pledge. (a) The state pledges to and agrees with the holders of restructuring bonds, any assignee and all financing entities that the state will not in any way take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of restructuring property or, except as required by the adjustment mechanism described in the restructuring cost financing order, reduce, alter or impair transition charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the owners of restructuring bonds, any assignee, and all financing entities, until any principal, interest and redemption premium in respect of restructuring bonds, all ongoing financing costs and all amounts to be paid to an assignee or financing party under an ancillary agreement are paid or performed in full.

(b) Any person who issues restructuring bonds is permitted to include the pledge specified in subdivision (a) of this section in the restructuring bonds, ancillary agreements and documentation related to the issuance and marketing of the restructuring bonds.

§ 10. Choice of law. The law governing, as applicable, the validity, enforceability, attachment, perfection, priority and exercise of remedies with respect to the transfer of an interest or right or creation of a security interest in any restructuring property, transition charge or restructuring cost financing order, shall be the laws of the state of New York.

§ 11. Conflicts. In the event of conflict between this act and any other law regarding the attachment, assignment or perfection, or the effect of perfection, or priority of any pledge of, security interest in or transfer of restructuring property, this act shall govern to the extent of the conflict. In the event of conflict between this act and the public service law, the Long Island power authority act or any other law, this act shall govern to the extent of the conflict. Notwithstanding any provisions of law to the contrary, no approvals, notices or authorizations other than those specified in this act shall be required with respect to any restructuring cost financing order, and the transactions and contracts authorized in or contemplated by this act or any restructuring cost financing order, including but not limited to the incurrence and payment of any financing costs, the incurrence or payment of any approved restructuring costs, the issuance of restructuring bonds, the sale or other transfer of restructuring property, and any contracts and expenses incurred to facilitate the preparation of any restructuring cost financing order.

§ 12. Effect of invalidity on actions. Effective on the date that restructuring bonds are first issued under this act, if any provision of this act is held to be invalid or is invalidated, superseded, replaced, repealed or expires for any reason, that occurrence shall not affect any action allowed under this act that is taken by the authority, LIPA, the restructuring bond issuer, any owner of T&D system assets, an assignee, a collection agent, a financing party, a holder of restructuring bonds or a party to an ancillary agreement and any such action shall remain in full force and effect.

§ 13. Effectiveness of the act. The authority may not adopt its first restructuring cost financing order after the five year period after the effective date of this act.

§ 14. Severability. If any section, subdivision, paragraph or subparagraph of this act or the application thereof to any person, circumstance or transaction is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or invalid, the unconstitutionality or invalidity shall not affect the constitutionality or validity of any other section, subdivision, paragraph or subparagraph of this act or its application or validity to any person, circumstance or transaction, including, without limitation, the irrevocability of a restructuring cost financing order ing bonds, the imposition of transition charges, the transfer or assignment of restructuring property or the collection and recovery of revenues from transition charges. To these ends, the legislature hereby declares that the provisions of this act are intended to be severable and that the legislature would have enacted this act even if any section, subdivision, paragraph or subparagraph of this act held to be unconstitutional or invalid had not been included in this act.

§ 15. Standing. (a) The owner of restructuring property, or the trustee representing holders of restructuring bonds, shall be expressly permitted hereby to bring actions against any owner of the T&D system assets, any third-party biller, or any other entity authorized to bill or collect T&D rates, any consumers in the service area or any other person or entity for failure to impose, bill, pay or collect any transition charges constituting part of the restructuring property then held pledged as security for such restructuring bonds or for enforcement of any other provision of this act or the applicable restructuring cost financing order.

(b) Except as provided in section three of this act, any court and the authority shall have jurisdiction over any actions for failure to impose, bill, pay or collect any transition charges or for enforcement of other provision of this act or any restructuring cost financing order.

§ 16. Third-party billing. If and to the extent that third parties are allowed to bill and/or collect any transition charges, the authority, any successor regulator, and any owner of the T&D system assets will take steps to ensure non-bypassability and minimize the likelihood of default by third-party billers, which generally would include (i) operational standards and minimum credit requirements for any such third-party biller, or require a cash deposit, letter of credit or other credit mitigant in lieu thereof, to minimize the likelihood that defaults by a third-party biller would result in an increase in transition charges thereafter billed to consumers, (ii) a finding that, regardless of who is responsible for billing, consumers shall continue to be responsible for transition charges, (iii) if a third party meters and bills for the transition charges, that the owner of the T&D system assets and any servicer must have access to information on billing and usage by consumers to provide for proper reporting to the restructuring bond issuer and to perform its obligations as servicer, (iv) in the case of a default by a third-party biller, billing responsibilities must be promptly transferred to another party to minimize potential losses, and (v) the failure of consumers to pay transition charges shall allow service termination by the owner of the T&D system assets on behalf of the restructuring bond issuer of the consumers failing to pay transition charges in accordance with service termination rules and orders applicable to T&D rates. Any costs associated with such third-party billing and/or collection shall be included as part of the recoverable ongoing financing costs or other rates or charges, as appropriate. Further, the authority and any successor regulator shall not permit implementation of any third-party billing or collection that would result in a reduction or withdrawal of the then current ratings on any tranche or series of the restructuring bonds by any nationally recognized statistical rating organization designated by the restructuring bond issuer.

§ 17. This act shall take effect immediately.

§ 2. Severability clause. If any clause, sentence, paragraph, subdivision, section or part of this act shall be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not take affect, impair, or invalidate the remainder thereof, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, paragraph, subdivision, section or part thereof directly involved in the controversy in which such judgment shall have been rendered. It is hereby declared to be the intent of the legislature that this act would have been enacted even if such invalid provisions had not been included herein.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately; provided, however, that the applicable effective date of Parts A through B of this act shall be as specifically set forth in the last section of such Parts.

Overview of Long Island Power Authority

Long Island Power Authority (LIPA) is a not-for-profit public utility and the owner of transmission and distribution networks in Long Island, New York. It is established by statute and the state governor has power to appoint board members. LIPA has entered into a management contracts with the Public Service Enterprise Group (PSEG), a publicly traded utility company in New Jersey, and PSEG's subsidiary now manages the billing and day-to-day operations of the distribution network.

Summary of LIPA Reform Act

Section 1(8) of Part B of the Long Island Power Authority Reform Act, 2013 (the LIPA Reform Act) provides the legislative purpose of the act, which is "to refinance outstanding debt of LIPA, a significant portion of which relates to the cost of constructing and financing the now abandoned Shoreham nuclear power plant". The Act authorizes the creation of a restructuring bond issuer for the limited purpose of "issuing securitized restructuring bonds to purchase restructuring property to finance the cost of purchasing, redeeming or defeasing a portion of the outstanding debt". This section also makes it clear that it is the intention of the legislature to provide a statutory pledge (found in s. 9 of the LIPA Reform Act) that until the restructuring bonds are paid in full, "the state will not in any way take or permit any action to revoke, modify, impair, postpone, terminate or amend this act in any manner that is materially adverse to the owners of the restructuring bonds".

The definitions in section 2 of the LIPA Reform Act provide some clarity to the mechanisms for the securitization regime. Restructuring bonds are issued by the "restructuring bond issuer" (which is established under section 4 of the LIPA Reform Act and known as the "Utility Debt Securitization Authority", or UDSA) and secured by the "restructuring property", which is essentially the property interest in a future revenue stream. In section 2(13), "restructuring property" is defined to include the property rights and interests in the "transition charges". As defined in s. 2(21), transition charges are established and may be amended from time to time in accordance with a restructuring cost financing order, and they are a component of the delivery line on the utility bills.

Section 3 provides the procedures for issuing restructuring bonds by the restructuring bond issuer, and includes appeal procedures and public hearing provisions. Section 4 provides the authority to establish the UDSA as a public corporation, the scope of its activities and its governance structure. It should be noted that section 4(2)(a)(i) provides that "the restructuring bond issuer shall only issue and sell restructuring bonds once" (please also see summary of 2015 amendments below). The UDSA also issues the restructuring cost financing orders in accordance with section 5.

Section 6 sets out the features of the restructuring bonds. Section 6(1) limits bond purchaser's remedies to the restructuring property, i.e. the property interest in a future revenue stream. The restructuring bonds are tax-exempt (section 6(2)), and are not debt of the state (section 6(3)).

Section 7 governs the restructuring property and creates a property interest and security interest in the future revenue stream arising from "transition charges". Section 7(1)(c) provides that "[t]he restructuring property may be transferred, sold, conveyed or assigned to the restructuring bond issuer. All or any portion of restructuring property may be pledged to secure the payment of restructuring bonds", and "revenues from the collection of transition charges shall be applied solely to the repayment of restructuring bonds and other ongoing financing costs."

Section 8(2) provides that any owner of the transmission and distribution network or any other entity that collects the delivery charges on behalf of the owner shall impose the transition charges on the consumers, and shall remit such revenues to the owner or pledgee of the restructuring property.

Section 9 provides the pledge from the state not to take actions to impair the value of the restructuring property. Sections 10 to 17 include procedural provisions such as conflicts, third-party billing and standing.

Summary of 2015 Amendments to LIPA Reform Act

The LIPA Reform Act was further amended in 2015 to permit the issuance of additional restructuring bonds by UDSA or a separate "Utility Debt Securitization Authority No. 2" up to an aggregate maximum amount (including the previously-issued Restructuring Bonds) of $4.5 billion. Any additional issuance of restructuring bonds, whether issued by UDSA or by a new issuer, will be separately secured by distinct collateral pursuant to a new financing order and transaction documents.

Background Information on Duke Energy and Duke Energy Florida

Duke Energy is a publicly-traded utility company with electricity generation and transmission networks in the Carolinas, Florida, Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana. Duke Energy Florida ("DEF") is a subsidiary of Duke Energy and distributes power over much of central and north Florida. The Florida Public Service Commission (the "Commission") regulates DEF and other electric utilities in Florida (including municipal or investor-owned electric utility, and rural electric cooperative which owns, maintains, or operates an electric generation, transmission, or distribution system).

Summary of Legislative Provisions on Asset Securitization

In 2015, section 366.95 of the Florida Statutes is created to enable "financing for certain nuclear generating asset retirement or abandonment costs". This section includes asset securitization provisions to allow investor-owned electric utilities to set up a special-purpose vehicle ("SPV") to issue secured bonds to finance the utility's costs ("nuclear asset-recovery costs") associated with the "early retirement or abandonment of a nuclear generating asset unit". These provisions were likely introduced in response to the closing of Duke Energy's Crystal River nuclear plant in 2013. According to DEF, "[t]his process, called Asset Securitization, will save customers approximately $600 million as compared to traditional cost recovery methods."[1]

Subsection (1) sets out the definitions of some key terms used in the section. The definition of "Assignee" provides examples of different legal structures to set up the SPV, including corporation, limited liability company, trust, partnership or public authority. The definition of "utility" limits the scope of this section to "investor-owned electric utilities" by referring to the same definition in another section of the statute book. "Nuclear asset-recovery bonds" are issued by the utility or assignee, and secured by the "nuclear asset-recovery property", which is the property interest in the revenue stream arising from "nuclear asset-recovery charges".

Subsection (2) requires the utility to submit a petition to the Commission for a financing order before the nuclear asset-recovery bonds can be issued. The petition needs to demonstrate that securitization would result in cost savings or would avoid or mitigate rate impacts compared to the traditional method of cost recovery. Subsection (2) further requires the Commission to address specific areas in its financing order, including: (i) the amount of nuclear asset-recovery costs to be financed by the bonds and the period during which the charges can be imposed on customers; (ii) detailed fact findings on cost-effectiveness and rate impacts; (iii) a requirement that charges be nonbypassable and paid by all existing and future customers receiving transmission or distribution services; and (iv) mechanisms for periodic adjustment in the nuclear asset-recovery charges.

Subsection (3) provides that the bonds are considered debt for the utility only for federal income tax purposes, and limits the Commission's power to impose certain requirements in the financing order.

Subsection (4) sets out specific requirements for utility bills, such as showing the nuclear asset-recovery charge as a separate line item on the utility bill.

Subsection (5) creates a property right in the nuclear asset-recovery charges, which exists even if the charges have not been billed and may be pledged to secure the nuclear asset-recovery bonds. The utility may create a wholly owned subsidiary (the SPV) for the limited purpose of "acquiring, owning, or administering nuclear asset-recovery property or issuing nuclear asset-recovery bonds under the financing order", which also protects the nuclear asset-recovery property from potential creditor claims. This subsection also provides priority rules for competing security interests in the nuclear asset-recovery property. Subsections (6) to (8) provides further guidance in connection with the transfer of nuclear asset-recovery property to an SPV.

Subsection (9) provides that the nuclear asset-recovery bonds are not debt of the state of Florida. An issue of such bonds does not obligate the state to levy any tax for its payment, although the state may provide bond guarantees or enhancements. Subsection (10) provides statutory authority for certain entities to invest in nuclear asset-recovery bonds. Subsection (11) provides a pledge from the state not to take actions to impair the value of the nuclear asset-recovery property. Subsections (12) to (15) include boilerplate provisions such as conflicts, severability and penalties for incompliance.

Duke Energy Florida's Financing Order and Bond Issuance

In November 2015, the Commission released Financing Order PSC-15-0537-FOF-EI to approve DEF's petition for the issuance of nuclear asset-recovery bonds in the amount of $1,283,012,000 plus financing costs. Under the financing order, DEF is authorized to impose a nuclear asset-recovery charge to repay the nuclear asset-recovery bonds and associated financing costs, which will be collected on a per-kWh basis from all applicable customer rate classes. The financing order authorizes DEF to impose the charge for a period not exceeding 276 months (23 years) from the issuance of the nuclear asset-recovery bond.

DEF created Duke Energy Florida Project Finance LLC for the issuance of of nuclear asset-recovery bonds in June 2016.

1. Scope

This methodology describes our global approach to rating securities backed by utility cost recovery charges ("UCRC" bonds) that are established by special legislation and financing orders issued by utility regulatory bodies. The charges backing UCRC bonds rated by us have been established by state legislation and state utility regulatory bodies in the United States. For UCRC bonds backed by charges authorized by other jurisdictions, we will analyze the specifics of the securitization's legal framework and regulations – and their implications for the quality of the protections afforded to investors – within the general methodology described in this report.

Examples of cost recovery charges include those imposed to cover certain costs of utility companies that had been incurred in a regulated environment but could no longer be recovered because of a change to a more competitive regulatory regime (i.e., charges sometimes referred to as "stranded utility charges") and those imposed to pay for environmental cleanups, clean energy or for the replenishment of reserves established for repair of facilities damaged by natural calamities, such as hurricanes or tornados.

2. Executive Summary

A utility cost recovery charge bond is a bond typically issued by a special purpose entity of a utility, or by a special borrowing conduit, to recover specified costs as authorized by special legislation and a specific financing order issued by a public service utility regulatory body. The bonds are backed by a property right created by the legislation, which provides the right to impose and collect special charges on customers' monthly electric bills.

This credit rating methodology was republished on June 22, 2015 containing an updated monitoring section and minor other editorial updates in the body of the text and in certain footnotes. The content of this Credit Rating Methodology has not been changed.

The credit quality of the bonds depends on the legal strength of the property right, which in turn depends on the specifics of the related legislation and financing order, and on the size and economic strength and stability of the ratepayer base against which the costs will be imposed. Therefore, our credit analysis of cost recovery charge securitizations focuses on both legal and economic factors that can influence whether investors in UCRC bonds will be paid as promised.

On the legal side, we assess the extent to which the legislation that authorizes the cost recovery charges[1] provides clear procedures for insulating the transaction from claims by other parties and is likely to be able to withstand challenges to rescind or alter the legislation prior to the legal final maturity of the securities. Consequently, our analysis focuses on the extent to which the legislation clearly defines (1) a property that entitles the owner of such property – the utility, or, in some cases, a public trust or corporation – the right to charge the fee throughout the life of the security in an amount sufficient to make full and timely repayment of principal and interest on the security, (2) the process the owner of the property must follow to charge the fee, (3) the irrevocable right of the owner of the property to transfer the fee to a special purpose financing vehicle for securitization purposes, (4) the type of financing vehicle authorized to issue securities backed by the fees, and (5) the process to be followed such that the transfer would be viewed as a "true sale" of the rights to the cash flows rather than a pledge of collateral for a financing for transactions that involve the transfer of the property from the utility to the issuer. A true sale would insulate the securitization from a bankruptcy of the utility, protecting securitization investors from potential claims on the cash flows by the utility's creditors. In addition, we assess whether the legislation has a government pledge not to impair the utility's right to collect the charges and the consequences if the government nevertheless does attempt to impair the right.

We also examine the likelihood that other potential claimants, such as other creditors of the financing vehicle if it were to become bankrupt or investors in other securities that have been issued by the utility, might make a successful claim on the cash flows of the securitization. Furthermore, we consider the breadth of the market to whom the charge will be applied and the extent to which the charge might be "bypassable," that is, the extent to which current or future customers might be categorized as outside the scope of the applicability of the charge.

Our assessment of the overall legal strength of the property right involves qualitative and judgmental factors. Transactions that are strong with respect to each of such characteristics may achieve the highest rating while the impact of weakening any of the attributes would be evaluated on a case-by-case basis.

On the economic side, our analysis focuses on the likelihood that the charges established by the legislation and accompanying regulations will be sufficient to repay the securitization bonds and on whether the charges might become onerous enough to cause pressure to rescind or alter the charges through future legislative or legal actions. As part of that assessment, we evaluate (1) possible changes in the size and composition of the customer base against whom the fee is to be charged, incorporating an evaluation of the breadth and diversity of the customer base, (2) the likely per capita energy usage (in those cases in which the fee charged is based on the usage amount), and (3) the fee rate, including any mechanism built in by the legislation that enables the fee to be reset over time to offset shortfalls that might develop over the life of the securitization (i.e., the transaction's "true up" mechanism). Generally the true-up mechanism is in effect the most important credit protection for UCRC transactions, limiting the risk that the cost recovery charges will be insufficient to pay off the bonds, thereby limiting the need for traditional sources of credit enhancement such as subordination and reserve funds.[2]

In analyzing a transaction's true-up mechanism, we examine how high rates would need to be set under "stressful" future scenarios to fully pay off the bonds, to assess the risk that onerous future rates might cause pressure to overturn or change the legislation and/or regulations establishing the charges. The variables that we typically "stress" test for UCRC bonds are the base against which the charge is to be applied (usually energy usage) and the servicing fee. To obtain a high rating, we would expect that even in a stressful environment, such as one in which energy usage declined dramatically, the charge per customer necessary to pay off the bonds would be reasonably low both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the customer's energy bill. The specific stresses that we place on the variables are issuer-specific and are determined on a case-by-case basis.

[1] Throughout this report we use the terms "cost recovery charges" and "cost recovery fees" interchangeably.

[2] The true-up mechanism also limits the need to analyze the underwriting of the customer base, since the mechanism adjusts for all shortfalls, including those caused by customer defaults.

In addition, we analyze the implications of other structural features of the securitization that could affect the risk of investor loss. For example, we examine the risk implications of how the cash flows are allocated among the various classes of investors and the other participants in the transaction, and the extent to which any other sources of funds are likely to be sufficient to offset any remaining shortfalls to investors, whether the shortfalls are temporary ("liquidity") or permanent ("credit enhancement").

3. Analyzing the Risk Factors

Because of the unique characteristics of this highly regulated asset class, our credit analysis of UCRC securitizations focuses primarily on the legislation and the true-up mechanism. The degree of certainty that the fees generated through the legislation will be sufficient to pay off the securitizations in full is a complementary aspect of the analysis. .

Depending on the risks and mitigants in the relevant jurisdiction, transaction ratings will typically be positioned between the government rating and the country ceiling. Risks that could lead us to determine transaction ratings to be lower than the country ceiling include, for example, continued high levels of debt burden in a utility system. Such high levels of debt, if deemed unsustainable in the long term, may lead to political pressure to adjust the regulatory framework around the system deficit, with some potential negative impact on the related securitization transactions.

In the following sections, we describe the factors that typically lead to a high degree of certainty and thus high ratings on the bonds.

3.1 Protection against Future Impairment of the Right to Collect the Charges

Utility cost recovery charges are established by special legislation that authorizes the creation of a property right to collect future surcharges on customers' monthly electricity bills as the means to pay back the UCRC bonds. Consequently, we analyze the extent to which investors are protected against the enactment of future legislative changes that would weaken that right. For example, investor risk would be mitigated in a situation in which (1) the legislation contained a pledge by the jurisdiction not to impair the right to collect the special charges until the maturity of the bonds and (2) violation of that pledge would be a violation of law [3].

3.2 Irrevocability of the Financing Order

The legislation is typically accompanied by a financing order issued by the public service commission that authorizes the utilities to impose and collect the surcharges on the customer's monthly electric bill during the term of the bonds. Our analysis assesses whether the financing order is irrevocable, which would protect investors against future adverse changes that may reduce the charges backing the bonds.

3.3 Sufficiency of the Charges and the True-Up Mechanism

The charges are usually assessed as an amount linked to a customer's energy usage. Our analysis considers whether the financing order places any limits on charges – e.g., caps on the levels of charges or limits on the length of time that the charges can be imposed – that might cause the collections to be insufficient to provide for timely payment of the principal and interest on the UCRC bonds. In addition, we analyze whether the period over which the charges are allowed to be levied provides sufficient cushion to pay off the bonds by maturity in the event that collections come in more slowly than originally projected.

[3] Violation of the non-impairment pledge would be a violation of the Contract Clause and the Takings Clause under the Federal and State constitutions.

As part of that analysis, we evaluate the power of any true-up mechanism that is provided for in the legislation and detailed in the financing order to correct for shortfalls that may develop over the life of the securities. A true-up mechanism typically adjusts future fee rates on a scheduled periodic basis (e.g., semiannually or annually) to correct for any under- (or over-) collections in a preceding period and to ensure the full and timely payment of future scheduled debt service, based on updated usage forecasts. The greater the frequency with which the true-up adjustments are made, the less likely that investors will suffer a shortfall at the final maturity date.[4]

That is particularly important as the security approaches the final maturity date; frequent rate adjustments based on then-current projections mitigate the risk that actual collections will deviate substantially from those projections, limiting the possibility of shortfalls at the final maturity date. Consequently, our analysis assesses the conditions under which more frequent true-ups are allowed, especially near the final maturity.[5]

3.4 Non-Bypassability of the Charges

We evaluate whether the charges are "non-bypassable," that is, whether the charges must be collected from all existing and future customers of the utility or its successors or assignees within the utility's service territory, and whether the financing order provides that a severance fee be charged to customers who switch to other service providers within the territory during the life of the bonds. We evaluate any exceptions to the non-bypassabilty rule, and consider the materiality of those exemptions to the cash collections. Charges that cannot be bypassed (i.e., those that cannot be avoided by the customers in the utility's service area) ensure a continuing payer base for the charges, leading to less risk for investors. As described in the Structural Features section (Section 3.8), the power of the true-up mechanism to protect investors is dependent on the non-bypassability of the charges. As a result, non-bypassability (with limited, immaterial exemptions) has been a key factor behind the high ratings that are typically assigned to these transactions, without the need for considerable protection from traditional types of credit protection, such as reserve accounts or subordination.

3.5 Bankruptcy of the Utility

For structures in which the initial owner of the property is a utility, a bankruptcy of the utility could expose securitization investors to the risk that other creditors of the utility might make a claim on the cost recovery charges or that payments to securitization investors might be delayed as a result of an imposition of an automatic stay on payments from the utility company.[6,7] However, that risk would be limited if it were clear that a bankruptcy court would view the transfer of the rights to the charges as a "true sale" of those rights, rather than as a financing of the company. As a result, we analyze whether the legislation clearly establishes the utility's right to receive and transfer the rights to the charges and provides unambiguous procedures for transferring those rights to the financing vehicle as a true sale, and whether those procedures are followed in the financing order.

In cases where the utility is the servicer of the transaction, we analyze whether a bankruptcy of the utility could lead to a disruption in servicing, e.g., billing and collecting. However, given the essential service provided by the utility, we expect that government authorities would intervene to prevent any disruption in servicing that might result from a bankruptcy. As a result, where the servicer is a regulated utility, we view operational risk as low. Consequently, we typically would consider a transaction to be consistent with a Aaa rating even if the servicer were not investment grade, as long as the transaction were structured with some mitigants for operational risk, such as the inclusion of a backup servicer and/or provision for additional liquidity.[8]

[4] Generally, the charges collected rank senior to other charges of a utility system and represent only a small amount of the total revenues of such system .
[5] Transactions typically allow for more frequent true-ups during the "tail period" between the transaction's stated "expected" maturity (determined by the sponsor) and the "legal" final maturity. The legal final maturity is the important date from our rating perspective, the date by which all principal must be repaid.
[6] In some transactions, the property is created by law for the benefit of a public trust or corporation that also is created by the same law. In such cases, the true sale risk would be non-existent as there is no sale or transfer of the property.
[7] For a discussion of how Moody's analyzes legal risks in structured finance transactions, see Moody's Related Research section at the end of this report.
[8] The rating standard for a backup servicer likely would be lower than investment grade, but would depend on the specific facts and circumstances of the transaction and servicer.

In addition, we analyze whether the bankruptcy of the utility could cause a disruption in the remittance of payments by the utility to bondholders. Such a disruption could occur if the remittances of the charges were "commingled" with the other funds of the utility and the bankruptcy court ordered a halt to payments until proper ownership of the funds could be sorted out. Our analysis includes an assessment of the ways in which the utility separates the cost recovery charges received from its other funds and the frequency with which it transfers the funds to the trust.

3.6 Bankruptcy of the Financing Vehicle

Another potential risk to investors in UCRC securitizations is a bankruptcy of the financing vehicle. That could expose investors to the risk that other creditors of the vehicle might make a claim on the cost recovery charges or that payments to investors might be delayed by the imposition of an automatic stay. Consequently, we analyze (1) the likelihood that a third-party creditor would be able to successfully petition the owner of the assets (i.e., the financing vehicle) into an involuntary bankruptcy proceeding or (2) the likelihood that the owner of the assets would voluntarily seek the protection of the bankruptcy courts.

To analyze the likelihood of an involuntary bankruptcy, we assess the characteristics that would mitigate that risk, such as if the financing vehicle had (1) no assets other than the right to the cost recovery charges, (2) no indebtedness other that the securitization debt, (3) limited activities that could give rise to contractual or other liabilities, and (4) agreements with the sponsor and other contracting parties not to petition for the dissolution, liquidation or bankruptcy of the securitization vehicle. Similarly, factors that would mitigate the risk of a voluntary bankruptcy would include (1) charter documents of the owner of the assets that require directors who are independent of the utility and (2) a unanimous vote of directors as a condition to filing a voluntary bankruptcy.

3.7 Economic Factors

Even if the financing order is irrevocable, the charges or the law that authorizes them could be subject to challenge in the courts or to future political pressure to rescind or change them through legislation. That is more likely the higher the charges, i.e., the more the economic incentive for a challenge or in circumstances where the financial imbalances in a utility system increase. Consequently, our economic analysis focuses on the size of the cost recovery charge, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the customer's energy bill. Typically the percentage of a residential customer's monthly bill devoted to the cost recovery charge is less than 10%.

We typically also look at stressful collection scenarios. For example, in one scenario, we assume (1) that energy usage falls short of the utility's projections[9] by a progressively increasing amount each year (typically 5% per year), (2) that forecasted collections in peak usage months do not materialize (for example, 100% of the collections in the peak month and 50% of the collections in the second highest-usage month), and (3) that the servicing fee is considerably higher than the current, "normal," servicing fee, representing the fee that would be required if the original servicer needed to be replaced in a stressful environment. In another scenario, we typically assume that energy usage is lower than projected by a set amount throughout the life of the securitization (typically 25%). For highly rated transactions, we would expect that the cost recovery charge would remain relatively low even in those highly stressful scenarios.

While the specific stresses that we place on the variables have been quite similar to date, this reflects the fact that all rated transactions to date have involved requests for the highest ratings and been supported by highly diverse, broad-based service areas. However, in general, stresses are issuer-specific and are determined on a case-by-case basis. One of the factors that we use to determine the appropriate stress level for a transaction is the variability of the base against which the charge is applied, for example, the population in the service area or the energy usage in the service area. Customer bases that are less broad-based and diversified tend to be more variable; as a result, we would apply more severe stresses in those situations.

[9] We typically assess the reasonableness of the utility's projections by analyzing (1) the historical energy usage in the utility's service region and the variances between past projections and actual outcomes, and (2) the likely growth in electricity usage in the service area of the utility, taking into account the projected economic growth in the region and the possible competitive impact of technological advances, such as those in the development of solar energy.

In particular, we evaluate the economic diversity of the utility's service region to assess the potential variability in its economic health, which tends to drive changes in population and energy usage. An area that relies on multiple industries for economic growth will likely have a more stable business climate than an area that is dependent on the fortunes of one industry. In the latter case, the area's prospects will falter if that particular industry runs into hard times.

We also consider the mix in the customer base among residential, commercial, and industrial users. A utility with a large residential base relative to commercial and industrial users will tend to have less volatility in energy consumption, since energy consumption by commercial and industrial operations is more closely tied to the business cycle. Furthermore, residential customers are less likely to quickly embrace new energy production technologies and are less likely to cut back energy consumption dramatically if the price of energy were to rise. The higher variability of a commercial and industrial base can be exacerbated further if the service area's customer usage is concentrated in a few large commercial or industrial operations, which could make the overall energy consumption vulnerable if those entities were to decline or leave the area.

3.8 Structural Features

The key structural feature of UCRC transactions is the true-up mechanism. Our rating is highly dependent on the extent to which the mechanism adjusts the charges to correct for past shortfalls or forecasted future shortfalls. The effectiveness of those rate changes in raising funds depends, in turn, on how easily customers can escape the charges and how sensitive electricity usage is to increases in the utility charges. Therefore, our analysis of the true-up mechanism goes together with our analysis of how bypassable the cost recovery charges are and how easily customers can cut back on electricity usage (through alternative sources of energy or conservation). To be consistent with a particular rating, a strong true-up mechanism combined with non-bypassable charges mitigates the need for credit enhancement in the form of alternative sources of funds.

In addition, our analysis of the credit risk of a UCRC transaction incorporates our assessment of the implications of the transaction's cash flow allocation structure (sometimes referred to as the cash flow "waterfall"). In particular, we focus on the seniority of principal and interest payments to the bond's investors vis-à-vis payments to other participants. In addition, we analyze the extent to which the transaction has an alternative source of liquidity to pay principal and interest in the event that there is a temporary interruption in the flow of the cost recovery charges. For example, in many transactions there is a capital or reserve account with funds sufficient to pay interest for at least 1-2 months, if needed. Furthermore, we assess the extent to which the credit enhancement that is available in the transaction is likely to be sufficient to offset any shortfalls that might develop in the period between the final true-up adjustment and the maturity of the bonds.

4. Monitoring

In monitoring UCRC transactions, we apply the key components of this methodology. More specifically, we analyze, whether bond balances are in line with the scheduled principal amortization, which indicates the extent to which payments have been in line with our original expectations.

We review the periodic information received and look at whether there has been a draw on the reserve accounts. This data point provides further clues as to the steadiness of the cash flows and accuracy of true-up adjustments.

In addition, we analyze the factors that determine the future strength of the transaction. For example, we monitor any legal or political developments that could indicate an increased risk of changes in the legislation that could impair future cash flows to the transactions. Such risk may materialise, for example, in case of continued high financial imbalances in the system that may lead the system deficit to be viewed as unsustainable over the long-term.

Depending on the jurisdiction, we also follow the rating of the utility as a proxy to assess any changes to the economic health of the service region and the potential for changes in the size and composition of the ratepayer base. Furthermore, we monitor the rating of the utility collecting the charges (as an indicator of its financial condition) to track the risk, typically quite small, that a bankruptcy could lead to disruption in billing and collections and in the remittance of payments to the bondholders.

In other instances, we may be more concerned with the behavior of the regulator of the utility system and less with individual utility companies. This could lead to a lower rating in the space between the local currency ceiling and the sovereign rating or the utility rating.

Thus changes on our expectations and other analytical components could have an impact on the rating of the securities and may result in a reassessment of the rating.

The ratings address the expected loss posed to investors by the legal final maturity date. In Moody's opinion, the structure allows for timely payment of interest and ultimate payment of principal at par on or before the rated final legal maturity date. Moody's ratings address only the credit risks associated with the securitization. Other non-credit risks have not been addressed, but may have a significant effect on yield to investors.

Summary Rating Rationale

The Utility Debt Securitization Authority (the issuer) intends to issue Restructuring Bonds, Series 2016A. The bond issuance will enable the Long Island Power Authority (LIPA, Baa1 stable) to retire a portion of its outstanding debt. This will be the third utility cost recovery charge (UCRC) securitization that LIPA has sponsored since 2013. These bonds are backed by restructuring property which consists of, among other things, the right to impose usage-based restructuring charges on all current and future retail electric customers in LIPA's service area.

Our provisional ratings on the bonds reflect our assessment of (1) the strength of the State of New York's legislation including the State's non-impairment pledge, which strongly protects the restructuring property backing the bonds; (2) the strength of LIPA's irrevocable financing order authorizing the creation of the restructuring property; (3) the size, stability

This pre-sale report addresses the structure and characteristics of the proposed transaction based on the information provided to Moody's as of 18 February 2016. and diversity of the ratepayer base in LIPA's service area; (4) the ability and experience of LIPA, who is responsible for the billing and collection of the 2016A restructuring charges, as the initial servicer of the restructuring property, and of PSEG Long Island LLC (PSEG-LI), who will perform LIPA's key servicing functions; and (5) the credit enhancement supporting the bonds in the form of a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the restructuring charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full, a non-declining operating reserve account and a debt service reserve account.

Credit Strengths

Strength of Legislation and Financing Order: The State of New York's legislation (Part B of the LIPA Reform Act, or the securitization law), coupled with an irrevocable financing order that became final and non-appealable on August 14, 2015 permits the securitization and strongly protects the restructuring property securing the bonds. Similar to other UCRC securitizations, this transaction benefits from the securitization law's inclusion of a state non-impairment pledge under which the State of New York pledges to UCRC bondholders that it will not 1) take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of the restructuring property, or 2) except as required by the adjustment mechanism, reduce, alter or impair restructuring charges until the bonds have been repaid in full (the state pledge). In addition, the LIPA Reform Act and financing order contain the typical strong true-sale and security interest provisions.

LIPA's irrevocable financing order authorizes the creation of restructuring property, which grants the issuer the irrevocable right to impose, bill and collect irrevocable, non-bypassable restructuring charges based on electricity usage from all of LIPA's existing and future retail electric customers in LIPA's service area, and related rights, including a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full.

The financing order authorizes LIPA to recover the costs of retiring certain of its outstanding debt and the issuer to recover the costs of issuing, supporting and servicing the bonds. The issuer will recover these costs by collecting restructuring charges until the bonds are repaid in full, without any specified time limit.

True-Up Adjustment Mechanism: The true-up adjustment mechanism is the key form of credit enhancement supporting the bonds. The financing order authorizes an uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism that mandatorily adjusts restructuring charges annually, and if necessary, semiannually (and quarterly after the last scheduled maturity date of the bonds of any series), in each case to ensure timely bond payments. In addition, the financing order authorizes more frequent interim adjustments, at any time without limitation as to frequency, if the servicer deems necessary to ensure timely bond payments. New to the 2016A transaction, the servicer may elect to perform an additional voluntary mid-year true-up adjustment to decrease charges to customers to correct for overcollections in any year (in addition to the requirement that the servicer perform a mandatory mid-year adjustment to increase charges to customers to correct for undercollections). Also, the timing of the mid-year and annual true-ups has changed to help smooth charges over the course of the year.

Strength of the Ratepayer Base: The size, economic stability and diversity of the ratepayer base in LIPA's service area is a credit strength. The service area is fixed by the securitization law and primarily includes the Long Island counties of Nassau and Suffolk, which are two of the most affluent counties in the United States. The service area primarily includes a mix of residential customers (89%) and commercial customers (10%). Unlike most other UCRC securitizations, the service area includes very few industrial customers, which is a credit positive. Energy consumption by industrial customers is more volatile compared with other types of customers, because consumption by industrial operations is more closely tied to the business cycle.

Credit Challenges

Challenges to LIPA Reform Act and Financing Order: Potential state and federal legislative and regulatory actions could weaken the strength of the legal protections of the securitizable restructuring property; however we view this risk as remote. New York does not have a referendum or initiative process by which voters could challenge the LIPA Reform Act. Therefore, the only way to repeal or amend the LIPA Reform Act, or for LIPA to amend or revoke the financing order, would be through a legislative action which would violate the state pledge. The risk that the State of New York would take legislative action that compromises its state pledge to the significant detriment of bondholders is remote because state impairment would give rise to claims under state and federal laws prohibiting government impairment of contracts and taking of private property without reasonable reimbursement under state and federal "taking" claims. The irrevocable and unconditional nature of the financing order mitigates any concern that it could be altered.

Potential for Insufficient Collections: Collections arising from the restructuring property could fall short of required distributions on the bonds resulting from inaccurate forecasting of electrical consumption by the servicer, unanticipated delinquencies and defaults, population migration and self-generation. PSEG-LI's estimates of market demand, energy prices and growth within LIPA's service area could also be inaccurate. These concerns are mitigated by the mandatory uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism, in which the servicer is required to adjust the charges periodically throughout the year to ensure timely payment of the bonds. These true-up adjustments occur annually, semiannually and on an interim basis as needed.

Relatively High Restructuring Charge: LIPA expects the securitization's initial restructuring charge to represent around [0.79%] of the total monthly bill that an average 1,000 kilowatt hour (kWh) residential customer in LIPA's service area will receive as of June 1, 2016. The initial restructuring charge for the 2016A transaction, combined with the current restructuring charge for the 2013 and 2015 transactions, is expected to represent approximately [6.91%] of a typical residential customer's bill, and is relatively high compared to other utility cost recovery transactions. This concern is mitigated by LIPA's securitization offset rider, which reduces LIPA's delivery charge in an amount equal to any increase in the restructuring charge to keep customers' total monthly bills stable.

Assets Overview

The collateral for this pool is the restructuring property consisting of the irrevocable right to impose, charge and collect non-bypassable, usage-based restructuring charges from all existing and future retail electric customers in LIPA's service area, and related rights, including a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full.

Assets Description

The Securitization Law

The purpose of the securitization law is to create the issuer and allow LIPA to finance the retirement of a portion of its outstanding debt through the issuer's issuance of restructuring bonds, resulting in savings to LIPA's customers on a net present value basis. The securitization law gives LIPA the right to impose restructuring charges, which are the key asset of this securitization.

Prior to the legislature's amendment of the securitization law on March 26, 2015, the law permitted only one issuance of restructuring bonds by the issuer, and that issuance took place in December 2013 pursuant to Financing Order No. 1. The amended securitization law permits LIPA's Board of Trustees to adopt additional financing orders to, among other things, authorize the creation of additional restructuring property and the issuance of additional restructuring bonds in an aggregate additional amount not to exceed $4.5 billion (inclusive of the $2,022,324,000 previously issued 2013 restructuring bonds and the $1,002,100,000 previously issued 2015 restructuring bonds). After the 2016A issuance, LIPA will have authority to issue an additional [$1,093,846,000] billion of restructuring bonds under the securitization law.

Specifically, the securitization law coupled with the financing order authorizes LIPA to sponsor multiple bond issuances to finance the recovery of the costs of retiring a portion of its outstanding debt and financing costs, including the costs of issuing, supporting and servicing the bonds.

Similar to other UCRC securitizations, this securitization benefits from the securitization law's inclusion of a state non-impairment pledge, subject to the true-up mechanism, that will be incorporated into the securitization documents for the benefit of the trustee on behalf of bondholders. A breach of such pledge triggers an event of default under the indenture.

Specifically, the State of New York pledges to and agrees with the bondholders, the issuer and LIPA that the State will not in any way: 1) take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of the restructuring property; or 2) except as required by the adjustment mechanism authorized by the securitization law and set forth in the financing order, reduce, alter or impair restructuring charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the bondholders until all principal of and interest on the bonds and all ongoing financing costs have been repaid in full.

The state pledge provides protection to bondholders; to the extent LIPA or the State of New York have obligations under the financing order, the LIPA Reform Act provides that the owner of the restructuring property (the issuer), or the trustee representing the bondholders, are expressly permitted to bring actions for enforcement of the financing order.

New York does not have a referendum or initiative process by which voters could challenge the securitization law. Therefore, the only way to change the securitization law would be through a legislative action which would be subject to the state pledge.

The risk that the State of New York would take legislative action that compromises its state pledge to the significant detriment of bondholders is remote because state impairment would give rise to claims under state and federal laws prohibiting government impairment of contracts and taking of private property without reasonable reimbursement under state and federal "taking" claims.

Under the laws of New York and the United States, New York could not constitutionally take any legislative action, including the repeal or amendment of the securitization law, which would substantially limit, alter or impair the restructuring property or other rights vested in the bondholders pursuant to the financing order or substantially limit, alter, impair or reduce the value or amount of the restructuring property, unless (1) such action is a reasonable exercise of the State of New York's sovereign powers that appropriately furthers a legitimate public purpose; and (2) if such action constituted a permanent appropriation of the bondholders' substantial property interest in the restructuring property and deprived them of their reasonable expectations arising from their investments in the bonds, under the takings clauses of the federal and New York Constitutions, New York could not take such action without paying just compensation to the bondholders as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Hawkins Delafield & Wood LLP, LIPA's special counsel, will provide a legal opinion prior to securitization closing to the effect that the bondholders (or the trustee acting on their behalf) could successfully challenge under the contracts clause of the United States Constitution the constitutionality of any repeal or amendment of the securitization law or any other action or failure to take any action required by the state pledge that limits, alters or reduces the value of the restructuring property or the restructuring charges before the bonds are repaid in full, unless such action is necessary to further a significant and legitimate public purpose.

Hawkins Delafield & Wood LLP, LIPA's bond counsel, will provide a legal opinion prior to securitization closing to the effect that under existing case law, assuming the takings clause applies under the federal and New York Constitutions, respectively, the State of New York would be required to pay just compensation to the bondholders if the State undertook a repeal or amendment of the securitization law or took any other action or failed to take any action required by the state pledge before the bonds are repaid in full that: 1) permanently appropriates the related restructuring property or denies all economically productive use of the related restructuring property; 2) destroys the restructuring property, other than in response to emergency conditions; or 3) substantially reduces, alters or impairs the value of the restructuring property so as to unduly interfere with the bondholders' reasonable expectations arising from their investments in the bonds.

The Financing Order

The securitization law authorizes LIPA's securitization program, while a separate financing order implements each issuance of bonds under the program.

On June 26, 2015, LIPA Trustees adopted Financing Order No. 3 (the financing order), together with Financing Order No. 2 and Financing Order No. 4 and on July 15, 2015, the New York Public Authorities Control Board approved them. On August 14, 2015, they became irrevocable, final and non-appealable. Each financing order authorizes restructuring bonds that will be secured by a separate restructuring property that would be created pursuant to that financing order.

Similarly, the 2013 restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 1 are secured by the 2013 restructuring property, and the 2015 restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 2 are secured by the 2015 restructuring property.

The issuer is issuing the 2016A restructuring bonds pursuant to Financing Order No. 3, which authorizes: 1) the creation of the 2016A restructuring property; 2) LIPA to sell the 2016A restructuring property to the issuer under the financing order (the 2016A restructuring property is created simultaneously with its sale to the issuer); 3) the imposition, billing and collection of restructuring charges on, to and from the customers in the service area; 4) the issuance of the bonds by the issuer; 5) the issuer to use the bond proceeds to purchase the 2016A restructuring property from LIPA and pay upfront financing costs; and 6) LIPA to use the proceeds of the sale of the 2016A restructuring property to retire a portion of its outstanding debt

The securitization law provides that the financing order is irrevocable and is not subject to modification or termination. The financing order acknowledges the state pledge.

Prior to the issuance of the bonds, the financing order requires the servicer to file an issuance advice letter with LIPA setting forth: 1) the expected savings to customers from the securitization; 2) the estimated ongoing financing costs; 3) the initial restructuring charge; and 4) the final terms of the bonds. The financing order authorizes a designee of LIPA to review and approve the issuance advice letter for the purpose of confirming that the stated terms are consistent with the financing order. The designee's approval will be final and incontestable.

The 2016A Restructuring Charges

Under the financing order, the servicer (on behalf of the issuer as owner of the restructuring property) has the right to impose, bill and collect irrevocable and non-bypassable restructuring charges from all of LIPA's customers in an amount sufficient to: 1) pay interest on the bonds when due and principal of each tranche of bonds according to the related expected amortization schedule; 2) pay the fees and expenses of the securitizations' service providers; and 3) replenish the operating reserve and debt service reserve subaccounts to the required levels.

There is no cap on the level of restructuring charges that the servicer may impose on ratepayers through the true-up adjustment mechanism to ensure the expected collection of amounts sufficient to pay the amounts specified above on time. Accordingly, the restructuring charges may continue to be imposed and collected until the bonds are repaid in full, without any specified time limit.

The financing order authorizes the servicer to collect restructuring charges directly from LIPA's customers. The restructuring charge will be the same for all customer classes. Under the securitization law, the charges and any adjustments thereto are not subject to review or regulation by the New York State Department of Public Service, the staff arm of the Public Service Commission.

Restructuring Charges are Non-Bypassable

The securitization law provides that the restructuring charges are non-bypassable. "Non-bypassable" as set forth in the securitization law and the financing order means that the customer is obligated to pay the restructuring charges (and may not legally avoid payment of such charges) as long as such customer is connected to the transmission and distribution (T&D) system assets (LIPA's delivery system, which includes transmission and distribution lines and substations) and is taking electric delivery service in the service area, even if such customer produces its own electricity or purchases electric generation services from a provider of electric generation services other than the owner of the T&D system assets and even if LIPA no longer owns the T&D system assets. Thus, the only way customers can avoid restructuring charges is if they are fully cut off from the T&D system assets.

Self-Generation in the Service Area is Low

Self-generation, which primarily includes solar and wind, reduces the ratepayer base and increases the burden of restructuring charges on other non-self-generating ratepayers. Self-generation is currently very small in the service area at roughly 0.3% of energy sales. LIPA forecasts self-generation to grow slowly over the next three years, and incorporates self-generation into its electricity consumption forecasts. Certain customers that self-generate will only be responsible for paying restructuring charges based upon their "net-billed" consumption.

Municipalization

Municipalization, or the transfer of the T&D system assets to a municipal owner, would not affect restructuring charge collections because the customers are required to pay the restructuring charges even if the T&D system assets are no longer owned by LIPA. Since 1998, no municipalizations have occurred.

The Service Area

LIPA provides electric transmission and distribution services in its service area which includes two counties in Long Island, NY – Nassau County and Suffolk County (except for the Nassau County villages of Freeport and Rockville Centre and the Suffolk County village of Greenport, each of which has its own municipal electric system) – and a small portion in Queens, NY known as the Rockaways. The population of the service area is around three million.

The securitization law defines the service area as the geographical area within which LIPA provided electric transmission and distribution services as of July 29, 2013. Thus, the service area is fixed by the legislation.

As of December 31, 2015, the service area included approximately 1.1 million customers. Of these, approximately 89.3% were residential, 10.2% commercial (with very few industrial customers), 0.5% street lighting and 0.0% other public authorities; the average number of customers has been fairly stable over the last 10 years, with very small year-over-year changes ranging from -0.2% to 0.7%. Retail electric usage was 48.2% residential, 48.8% commercial, 0.7% street lighting and 2.2% other public authorities.

Statutory Uncapped True-Up Adjustment Mechanism

Under the securitization law and the financing order, the servicer will adjust the restructuring charges through the securitization's true-up mechanism to ensure timely bond payments. The adjustments to the charges will continue until the bonds are repaid in full and there is no cap on the amount of charges that may be imposed on customers resulting from the adjustments.

The mechanics of the true-up adjustments are as follows:

1. initial true-up adjustment to the restructuring charges will be made on November 15, 2016
2. standard mandatory annual adjustments to the restructuring charges to correct for any over-collections or under-collections to date and anticipated to be experienced up to the date of the next annual adjustment and to ensure that the expected collections are sufficient to timely pay interest and scheduled principal (according to the expected amortization schedule) on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs (the revenue requirement)

3. mandatory semiannual adjustments to the restructuring charges only if the servicer forecasts that charge collections will be insufficient to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
4. voluntary semiannual adjustments to decrease the restructuring charges to customers if the servicer forecasts that charge collections will be greater than the amount required to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
5. more frequent adjustments at any time without limits as to the frequency to ensure that the expected charge collections are adequate to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
6. after the last scheduled maturity date of the bonds (of any series), quarterly adjustments to ensure that charge collections will be sufficient to timely pay interest and principal on the next payment date, in addition to all other ongoing financing costs; the adjustments will be set at levels estimated to generate revenues sufficient to fully repay the bonds on the next payment date, plus all other ongoing financing costs

All adjustments will be designed to cause: 1) the outstanding principal balance of the bonds (or any series of bonds) to be equal to the scheduled balance (based on the expected amortization schedule); 2) the amount in the operating reserve and debt service reserve subaccounts to be equal to the required levels; and 3) with respect to the annual true-up only, any amount in the excess funds subaccount to be equal to zero by the payment date immediately preceding the effective date of the next annual adjustment.

Under the financing order, the adjustments are to be based on actual charge collections and the servicer's updated assumptions for projected future charge collections, projected uncollectibles and loss in collection of billed charges, and future payments and expenses relating to the restructuring property and the bonds.

No Third-Party Billing/Collection of Charges

Under the securitization law and the financing order, if and to the extent that third parties are allowed to bill and/or collect any restructuring charges in the future while the bonds are outstanding, LIPA, any successor regulator, and any owner of the T&D system assets will take steps to ensure non-bypassability and minimize the likelihood of default by third-party billers. Further, LIPA and any successor regulator will not permit implementation of any third-party billing or collection that would result in a reduction or withdrawal of the current ratings on the bonds.

Assets Analysis

Strong Service Area

Long Island's economy benefits from a highly skilled labor force, close proximity to New York City, 19 colleges and universities and core research institutions, such as Brookhaven National Laboratory, Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory, and the technology and science developmental centers at Stony Brook and Farmingdale Universities that specialize in the areas of biotechnology, computer sciences, wireless and internet technologies, and energy.

Long Island's median household income is substantially above that of New York and the US. According to estimates from the US Census Bureau, the 2014 median household income for Nassau County and Suffolk County was $98,401 and $88,323, respectively, considerably higher than the $58,687 for New York and the $53,482 for the US. According to LIPA, while the cost of electricity in the service area is higher than the national average, the cost of electricity as a percentage of income is below the national average.

Exhibit 4 shows that the Nassau-Suffolk unemployment rate is lower than that of the US, and we forecast the rate will remain lower.

Remote Risk of Severe Ratepayer Base Declines

The securitization's performance is exposed to the risk of declines in the ratepayer base in the service area. However, declines in the ratepayer base dramatic enough to impact the rating of the bonds are unlikely given the size, projected population growth and economic stability of the service area's diverse ratepayer base.

LIPA expects the combined initial restructuring charge for the 2013, 2015 and 2016A transactions to be around [6.91%] of the total monthly bill that an average 1,000 kWh residential customer in the service area would receive as of June 1, 2016, which is higher than most other UCRC securitizations we rate. The [6.91%] is preliminary and subject to change based on market conditions.

Exhibit 6 shows LIPA's expected restructuring charge, which is the same for all customer classes, and annual debt service of the bonds over the securitization's life. The exhibit shows that the restructuring charge will vary over time to cover the unlevel debt service of the bonds, which mirrors the unlevel debt service of the retired LIPA bonds.

Cash Flow Analysis

We examined the cash flows that the restructuring charges will generate under various scenarios. In light of the strength of the ratepayer base, the purpose was primarily to see how high the restructuring charges can go as a percentage of a typical residential customer's bill and also to illustrate how the restructuring charges behave under various stress scenarios of customer demand.

Our rating is primarily based on qualitative analysis of the political, legal and regulatory aspects of the securitization and the strength of the ratepayer base. However, we run these stress scenarios to confirm the level of the restructuring charges is consistent with other comparable transactions.

Even if the financing order is irrevocable, the charges or the law that authorizes them could be subject to challenge in the courts or to future political pressure to rescind or change them through legislation. That is more likely the higher the charges, i.e., the more the economic incentive for a challenge or in circumstances where the financial imbalances in a utility system increase. Consequently, our economic analysis focuses on the size of the cost recovery charge, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the customer's energy bill. Typically the percentage of a residential customer's monthly bill devoted to the cost recovery charge is less than 10%.

We looked at three scenarios. In our base case, we assumed 1) electricity consumption as per LIPA's projections, 2) annual net charge-offs as per LIPA's projections, 3) collection curve as per LIPA's projections and 4) actual servicing fee and other expenses (Scenario A).

In our first stress scenario, we assumed 1) electricity consumption decreases linearly by 5% every year until it reaches 50% of the projected consumption for residential customers and 65% for non-residential customers, 2) annual net charge-offs are the same as in base case, 3) collection curve is the same as in base case, 4) loss of 100% of the collections from the peak consumption month and 50% of the collections from the second highest consumption month each year and 4) replacement servicing fee of 0.60% per year of the initial bond balance with other expenses the same as in the base case (Scenario B).

In our second stress scenario, we assumed 1) electricity consumption is reduced by 25% permanently against the first year base case projection, 2) annual net charge-offs the same as in base case, 3) collection curve is the same as in base case and 4) servicing fee and all other fees the same as in base case (Scenario C).

For all of the scenarios, the bonds are fully paid by their legal final maturity dates. Exhibit 7 shows the projected restructuring charges for customers in cents per kWh, and Exhibit 8 shows the projected restructuring charge as a percentage of the typical residential customer's total bill assuming monthly usage of 1,000 kWh over the securitization's life.

Forecasting Electricity Consumption

The company monitors the accuracy of each forecast by conducting variance analysis on a monthly basis taking into account weather impacts on kWh sales and deviations from forecast within the customer count. LIPA factors the impact of weather and the growth in self generation, energy efficiencies and the use of electric vehicles into its forecasts.

Exhibit 9 shows LIPA's annual forecast variance for ultimate electric delivery by customer class.

Total	1.6%	-3.2%	-2.6%	-2.8%	-0.8%

Additional Assets Analysis

Servicing

LIPA, acting as servicer under the servicing agreement, or any successor servicer as the financing order provides, will be responsible for servicing the restructuring property, including: 1) obtaining meter reads; 2) forecasting electricity usage; 3) calculating, billing and collecting the restructuring charges; 4) processing, accounting for and depositing charge collections and making periodic remittances; 5) calculating and implementing the true-up adjustments to the restructuring charges; 6) investigating and handling delinquencies and selling defaulted or written off accounts; 7) responding to inquiries from customers, LIPA or any governmental authority regarding the restructuring property and the restructuring charges; and 8) furnishing periodic reports and statements.

PSEG LI will perform, and is capable of performing, LIPA's key servicing duties, including billing and collecting restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage, among other things. LIPA will be responsible for the true-up adjustments and certain reporting requirements.

PSEG is a publicly traded energy and energy services company. As of September 30, 2015, it had total assets of approximately $36.5 billion, latest twelve months revenues of approximately $10.9 billion; and employed approximately 12,700 people. PSEG is the parent holding company of PSEG Power LLC, New Jersey's largest wholesale merchant generator with approximately 13.1 GW of capacity; Public Service Electric and Gas Company (PSE&G), New Jersey's largest regulated electric and gas transmission and distribution utility; and PSEG Energy Holdings L.L.C., which owns a portfolio of leveraged leases and is also pursuing investments in renewable generation.

There is no named backup servicer at closing though the financing order allows for a replacement servicer if the current servicer defaults in its performance obligations. In addition, the financing order allows the servicing fee to step-up from 0.05% to 0.60% of the initial principal balance of the bonds if LIPA is replaced as servicer by a successor servicer not affiliated with the owner of the T&D system assets, pursuant to the securitization documents.

The provision of electric service to customers by LIPA is governed by the Home Energy Fair Practices Act (HEFPA). LIPA's credit and collections practices, including the ability to terminate (disconnect) service, are governed by HEFPA.

Securitization Structure Overview

LIPA intends to issue one series of tax-exempt, fixed rate bonds, Series 2016A, secured by the collateral on a pari passu basis. Some of the Series 2016A Bonds will be serial bonds, while others will be term bonds, with the term bonds subject to mandatory sinking fund payments. The issuer will have the option to redeem the Series 2016A Bonds with a legal final maturity date on or after [ ], in whole or in part and in any order, on and after [ ]. All dates in this paragraph will be determined prior to closing.

Securitization Structure Description

Bond Structure

The issuer will make payments on the bonds semiannually, on June 15 and December 15 of each year, beginning in December 2016. Interest will be paid pro rata among the tranches.

All tranches of bonds will be paid pro rata if the bonds are accelerated following an event of default under the indenture. Partial payments of any scheduled payments will be allocated pro rata between tranches of bonds with the same legal final maturity date.

Optional Redemption

The issuer will not have the option to redeem the Series 2016A Bonds with a final maturity date prior to [ ]. The issuer will have the option to redeem the Series 2016A Bonds with a final maturity date on or after [ ], in whole or in part and in any order, on and after [ ], at a redemption price of 100% of the principal amount of the Series 2016A Bonds to be redeemed, plus accrued interest to the redemption date. All dates in this paragraph will be determined prior to closing.

Indenture Accounts

The trustee will hold the collection account in its name and will deposit the restructuring charge collections and all other amounts it receives with respect to the collateral. The collection account will consist of five subaccounts: the general subaccount, the excess funds subaccount, the operating reserve subaccount, the debt service reserve subaccount and the upfront financing cost subaccount.

Payment Priority

On each semiannual payment date, or for items 1 through 4 below, on any business day, the trustee will pay or allocate, at the direction of the servicer, all amounts on deposit in the collection account in the following order of priority:

1. to the trustee, i) all fees, expenses and ii) any outstanding indemnity amounts not to exceed $800,000 in each year;
2. to the servicer, the servicing fee and all prior unpaid servicing fees, capped at 0.60% of the aggregate principal balance of the bonds in each year;
3. to the administrator, the administration fee ($100,000 per year) and all prior unpaid administration fees;
4. the payment of all other ongoing financing costs to the persons entitled to such payment;
5. to the bondholders, first, any overdue interest (together with, to the extent lawful, interest on such overdue interest at the applicable bond interest rate) and second, interest due on such payment date;

6. to the bondholders, principal due and payable on the bonds as a result of an event of default and an acceleration of the bonds or on the legal final maturity date of a tranche of bonds;
7. to the bondholders, principal for such payment date, sequentially according to the related expected amortization schedule;
8. to the trustee, indemnity amounts in excess of $800,000 in each year;
9. to the servicer, the servicing fee and all prior unpaid servicing fees in excess of 0.60% of the aggregate initial principal balance of the bonds in each year;
10. to the debt service reserve subaccount, the amount, if any, by which the required reserve level (1.5% of the aggregate outstanding principal balance of the bonds) exceeds the amount in the debt service reserve subaccount as of such payment date;
11. to the operating reserve subaccount, the amount, if any, by which the required operating reserve level (0.5% of the aggregate initial principal balance of the bonds) exceeds the amount in the operating reserve subaccount as of such payment date;
12. any funds in the debt service reserve subaccount in excess of the required debt service reserve level shall be retained in the debt service reserve subaccount and applied to clauses 5 through 7 above on the next payment date; and
13. to the excess funds subaccount, the balance, if any, for distribution on subsequent payment dates.

If funds in the general subaccount are insufficient to make the payments required under items 1 through 9, the trustee will first, draw from amounts in the excess funds subaccount and second, draw from amounts in the operating reserve subaccount, in each case, to make the payments required under items 1 through 9. In addition, if funds in the general subaccount, together with moneys available in the excess funds subaccount and the operating reserve subaccount, are insufficient to make the payments required under items 5 through 7, the trustee will draw from amounts in the debt service reserve subaccount, up to the amount of such shortfall. If funds in the general subaccount are insufficient to make the allocations under item 10, the trustee will draw from amounts in the excess funds subaccount to make such allocations.

The annual true-up adjustment will be calculated to eliminate any amounts in the excess funds subaccount by the payment date immediately preceding the effective date of the next annual true-up adjustment.

Events of Default

The Events of Default under the indenture are:

1. failure to pay interest or redemption price on any bond when due (after a five day cure period);
2. failure to pay principal of any tranche of a bond on the legal final maturity date for such tranche;
3. failure of the issuer to perform a covenant (after a cure period);
4. breach by the issuer of its representations or warranties (after a cure period); or
5. an action violating the financing order or state pledge.

Flow of Funds

Exhibit 14 shows a general summary of the securitization's flow of funds: PSEG-LI will bill and collect the restructuring charges from LIPA's customers on behalf of the servicer. The servicer will be required to cause all customer payments (including restructuring charge collections) to be deposited into the allocation account, which LIPA established to hold all payments until the checks clear. Initially, the account will be held by J.P. Morgan Chase Bank. If customers make payments directly to the servicer instead of to the allocation account, the servicer must remit such payments to the allocation account within two business days' receipt by the servicer or LIPA. LIPA, as allocation agent, will control and administer the allocation account for the benefit of the trustee for the holders of the bonds and the trustee for the holders of LIPA bonds. On each business day, the allocation agent must transfer to the collection account the amount of restructuring charge collections that the servicer estimates to have been received and deposited into the allocation account on such day.

Legal Structure

The primary steps of the securitization are as follows:

1. The securitization law created the issuer, a bankruptcy-remote special purpose corporate municipal instrumentality, and a political subdivision and public benefit corporation of the State of New York. Under the securitization law, the issuer is not authorized to be a debtor under chapter 9 or any other provision of the Bankruptcy Code. The securitization law formed the issuer solely to purchase and own the restructuring property, to issue the bonds which are to be secured by the restructuring property, and to perform any activity incidental thereto. The issuer has no commercial operations.
2. The issuer will issue the bonds under an indenture with the trustee and will use the bond proceeds to purchase the restructuring property from LIPA and to pay the cost of issuing the bonds. The issuer will pledge the restructuring property to secure the bonds.
3. LIPA will use the proceeds from the sale of its restructuring property to retire certain of its outstanding debt. LIPA will act as the servicer of the restructuring property under a servicing agreement with the issuer and as the issuer's administrator under an administration agreement with the issuer. PSEG-LI will act as LIPA's service provider and will perform LIPA's key servicing duties under an operations servicing agreement with LIPA.

Sponsor and Seller

LIPA will be the securitization's sponsor and the seller of the restructuring property. LIPA is a corporate municipal instrumentality and a political subdivision of the State of New York, and is authorized to be a chapter 9 debtor pursuant to its enabling legislation.

LIPA took over as the retail supplier of electric service in the service area in 1998 by acquiring the Long Island Lighting Company (LILCO) as a wholly-owned subsidiary of LIPA through a merger. Since the merger, LILCO has done business under the name "LIPA." LIPA, acting through LILCO provides electric delivery service in the service area.

LIPA is governed by a Board of Trustees (LIPA Trustees) and is generally not regulated by the New York Public Service Commission (PSC) or the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. LIPA is authorized under its enabling statute to set rates for electric service in the service area without obtaining the approval of the PSC or any other State regulatory body.

Pursuant to LILCO's organizational documents, LIPA conducts and manages LILCO's business and affairs. Accordingly, LILCO is controlled by LIPA.

LIPA and LILCO are parties to a financing agreement providing for their respective duties and obligations relating to the financing and operation of the retail electric business. Under the agreement, LILCO conducts the electric business in the service area and is responsible for providing service to customers in the service area. LIPA and LILCO are also parties to an administrative services agreement pursuant to which LIPA provides personnel, personnel-related services and other services necessary for LILCO to provide electric service in the service area.

To assist LIPA (acting through LILCO) in providing electric service in the service area, LIPA and LILCO have entered into operating agreements to provide them with the operating personnel and a significant portion of the power supply resources necessary for LILCO to continue to provide such electric service. From 1998 through 2013, National Grid plc, certain of its subsidiaries (National Grid subs) or their predecessors performed most such operations.

Beginning in 1998, a National Grid sub was the manager of LILCO's electric T&D system under a management services agreement which expired at the end of 2013. Beginning January 2014, PSEG-LI assumed the role from the National Grid sub. T&D system management services include, among other functions, the day-to-day operation and maintenance of the T&D system, customer service, billing and collection, meter reading and forecasting energy consumption.

In July 2013, New York Governor Andrew Cuomo signed the LIPA Reform Act, codified as Chapter 173, Laws of New York, into law. On March 30, 2015, the New York State Assembly and Senate adopted Chapter 58 of the Laws of New York, 2015, which amended the LIPA Reform Act to authorize the issuer to issue additional restructuring bonds. On April 13, 2015, the Governor signed Chapter 58 into law. On May 13, 2015, the time for filing any challenges to the LIPA Reform Act, as amended, expired and no such challenges were filed.

The LIPA Reform Act effectively shifted the major operational and policy-making responsibilities for the T&D system, including significant responsibilities relating to capital expenditures, budgets and emergency response, from LIPA to PSEG-LI. PSEG-LI's scope of services and LIPA's reserved rights have been adjusted to reflect the shift in operations, management and policy making responsibilities while enhancing LIPA's oversight rights. The LIPA Reform Act also requires that staffing be kept at levels only necessary to ensure that LIPA is able to meet obligations with respect to its bonds and notes and all applicable statutes and contracts, and to oversee the activities of PSEG-LI.

Summary Rating Rationale

We have assigned provisional ratings to the single series of bonds (Series 2016B bonds, or the bonds) that Utility Debt Securitization Authority (the issuer) will issue. The Long Island Power Authority ("the Authority", Baa1 stable), which is a corporate municipal instrumentality and a political subdivision of the State of New York, is sponsoring the transaction. The Authority wholly owns the Long Island Lighting Company (doing business as "LIPA", the servicer), which provides electric transmission and distribution services in most of Nassau and Suffolk counties and a portion of Queens county. New York State legislation formed the issuer to securitize a special charge (the restructuring charge) imposed on the Authority's customers' utility bills. The Authority will use the proceeds of the securitization to retire a portion of its outstanding debt. The Series 2016B bonds will be the fourth utility cost recovery bonds sponsored by the Authority since 2013.

This pre-sale report addresses the structure and characteristics of the proposed transaction based on the information provided to Moody's as of 28 July 2016. Investors should be aware that certain issues concerning this transaction have yet to be finalized. Upon conclusive review of all documents and legal information as well as any subsequent changes in information, Moody's will endeavor to assign definitive ratings to this transaction. The definitive ratings may differ from the provisional ratings set forth in this report. Moody's will disseminate the assignment of definitive ratings through its Client Service Desk. This report does not constitute an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy any securities, and it may not be used or circulated in connection with any such offer or solicitation.

The primary collateral backing the Series 2016B bonds is the irrevocable contract right to impose, bill and collect nonbypassable consumption-based restructuring charges from all existing and future retail electric customers taking electric transmission or distribution service within the Authority's service area (the restructuring property). New York State legislation, along with an irrevocable financing order adopted by the Authority on June 26, 2015, authorizes the creation of the restructuring property.

Our provisional ratings on the bonds reflect our assessment of (1) the strength of the State of New York's legislation including the State's non-impairment pledge, which strongly protects the restructuring property backing the bonds; (2) the strength of the Authority's irrevocable financing order authorizing the creation of the restructuring property; (3) the size, stability and diversity of the ratepayer base in the Authority's service area; (4) the ability and experience of LIPA, who is responsible for the billing and collection of the restructuring charges, as the initial servicer of the restructuring property, and of PSEG Long Island LLC (PSEG-LI), who will perform LIPA's key servicing functions; and (5) the credit enhancement supporting the bonds in the form of a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the restructuring charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full, a non-declining operating reserve account and a debt service reserve account.

Credit Strengths

Strength of legislation and financing order: The State of New York's legislation (Part B of the LIPA Reform Act, or the securitization law), coupled with an irrevocable financing order that became final and non-appealable on August 14, 2015, permits the securitization and strongly protects the restructuring property securing the bonds. Similar to other utility cost recovery charge securitizations, this transaction benefits from the securitization law's inclusion of a state non-impairment pledge under which the State of New York pledges to bondholders that it will not (1) take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of restructuring property; or (2) reduce, alter or impair transition charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the owners of restructuring bonds, any assignee, and all financing entities, until any principal, interest and redemption premium in respect of restructuring bonds, all ongoing financing costs and all amounts to be paid to an assignee or financing party under an ancillary agreement are paid or performed in full, except as required by the adjustment mechanism described in the restructuring cost financing order (the state pledge). In addition, the securitization and financing order contain the typical true-sale and security interest provisions.

The Authority's irrevocable financing order authorizes the Authority to recover specified costs of retiring its corporate debt by collecting restructuring charges. The restructuring property grants the issuer the irrevocable right to impose, bill and collect irrevocable, nonbypassable restructuring charges based on electricity usage, and related rights, including a mandatory uncapped true-up mechanism that periodically adjusts the charges to ensure timely bond payments until the bonds are repaid in full. Nonbypassable refers to the requirement that the charges be levied on all of the Authority's existing and future retail electric customers receiving transmission and distribution services in its service area, including customers of any Authority successor or assignee.

True-up adjustment mechanism: The true-up adjustment mechanism is the key form of credit enhancement supporting the bonds. The financing order authorizes an uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism that mandatorily adjusts restructuring charges annually and, if necessary, semiannually, to ensure timely bond payments. In addition, the financing order authorizes more frequent interim adjustments at any time if the servicer deems necessary to ensure timely bond payments. The servicer may also elect to perform a voluntary mid-year true-up adjustment to decrease charges to customers to correct for overcollections in any year (in addition to the requirement that the servicer perform a mandatory mid-year adjustment to increase charges to customers to correct for undercollections). This voluntary mid-year adjustment helps reduce the volatility of the restructuring charge to customers. The inclusion of an operating reserve account and a debt service account provide sufficient funds to offset the typical variance in collections versus projections in order to meet the projected amortization schedule between true-ups.

Affluent ratepayer base: The size, economic stability and diversity of the ratepayer base in the Authority's service area are credit strengths. The service area is fixed by the securitization law and primarily includes the Long Island counties of Nassau and Suffolk, which are two of the most affluent counties in the United States. The service area primarily includes a mix of residential customers (54% by revenue) and commercial customers (43% by revenue).

This publication does not announce a credit rating action. For any credit ratings referenced in this publication, please see the ratings tab on the issuer/entity page on www.moodys.com for the most updated credit rating action information and rating history.

Experienced servicer: LIPA has considerable prior servicing experience with restructuring charges, including acting as servicer for the Authority's three outstanding utility cost recovery charge securitizations.

Although LIPA is the named servicer for this securitization, PSEG Long Island LLC (PSEG-LI, unrated), a subsidiary of Public Service Enterprise Group Incorporated (Baa2, positive), will perform LIPA's key servicing duties pursuant to an operations services agreement, including billing and collecting restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage, among others. PSEG-LI currently performs these same functions for the three outstanding utility cost recovery charge securitizations sponsored by the Authority. LIPA will be responsible for the true-up adjustments and certain reporting requirements.

Credit Challenges

Challenges to securitization law and financing order: Potential state and federal legislative and regulatory actions could weaken the strength of the legal protections of the restructuring property. However, we view this risk as remote. New York does not have a referendum or initiative process by which voters could challenge the securitization law. Therefore, the only way to repeal or amend the securitization law, or for the Authority to amend or revoke the financing order, would be through a legislative action which would violate the state pledge. The risk that the State of New York would take legislative action that compromises its state pledge to the significant detriment of bondholders is remote because state impairment would give rise to claims under state and federal laws prohibiting government impairment of contracts and taking of private property without reasonable reimbursement under state and federal "taking" claims. The irrevocable and unconditional nature of the financing order mitigates any concern that it could be altered. Several past challenges to securitization laws such as this in other jurisdictions have been unsuccessful.

Potential for insufficient collections: Collections arising from the restructuring property could fall short of required distributions on the bonds resulting from inaccurate forecasting of electrical consumption by the servicer, unanticipated delinquencies and defaults, population migration, self-generation and storm damage. The Authority's estimates of market demand, energy prices and growth within its service area could also be inaccurate. These concerns are mitigated by the mandatory uncapped true-up adjustment mechanism, by which the servicer is required to adjust the charges periodically throughout the year to ensure timely payment of the bonds. These true-up adjustments are required to occur annually and can occur semi-annually and at the discretion of the servicer on an interim basis as needed.

Relatively high restructuring charge: The Authority expects the securitization's initial restructuring charge to represent around 2.55% of the total monthly bill that a 1,000 kilowatt hour (kWh) residential customer in the Authority's service area will receive as of June 15, 2017. The initial restructuring charge for the 2016B transaction, combined with the current restructuring charge for the 2013, 2015 and 2016A transactions, is expected to represent approximately 7.8% of a 1,000 kWh residential customer's bill. This percentage charge is relatively high compared to charges in other utility cost recovery bond transactions. For context, the three most recent utility cost recovery bond issuances we rated, Duke Energy Florida Project Finance, LLC, Entergy New Orleans Storm Recovery Funding I, LLC, and the Louisiana Utilities Restoration Corporation Project/ ELL, had a cumulative (including prior utility cost recovery charges to the same customer base) initial recovery charge amounting to 2.5%, 2.5%, and 3.7% of a 1,000 kWh residential bill, respectively. A high cumulative recovery charge could incentivize a legal challenge to the restructuring charges or the securitization law, or could increase political pressure to rescind or change the securitization law through legislation. This concern is mitigated by the Authority's securitization offset rider, which reduces the Authority's delivery charge in an amount equal to any increase in the restructuring charge to keep customers' total monthly bills stable.

Assets Overview

The collateral for this pool is the restructuring property, consisting of the irrevocable contract right to impose, bill and collect nonbypassable consumption-based restructuring charges from all existing and future retail electric customers taking electric transmission or distribution service within the Authority's service area.

The bonds are also secured by funds on deposit in the collection account, including the debt service reserve subaccount and the excess funds subaccount, by the issuer's rights under the various transaction documents, by the issuer's right to compel the servicer to file for and obtain true-up adjustments, and by all payments on or under the pledged collateral and by all proceeds with respect to the pledged collateral.

Assets Description

The Securitization Law

The purpose of the securitization law is to create the issuer and allow the Authority to finance the retirement of a portion of its outstanding debt through the issuance of restructuring bonds by the issuer, resulting in savings to the Authority's customers on a net present value basis. The securitization law gives the Authority the right to impose restructuring charges, which is the key asset backing this securitization.

The securitization law, coupled with the adoption of additional financing orders, authorizes the Authority to create additional restructuring property as collateral for the issuance of bonds. The Authority will use this issuance to retire a portion of its outstanding debt and financing costs, including the costs of issuing, supporting and servicing the bonds. The current financing order allows for an aggregate amount not to exceed $4.5 billion (inclusive of the previously-issued bonds: $2,022,324,000 in 2013, $1,002,115,100 in 2015 and $636,770,000 in 2016). After the Series 2016B issuance, the issuer has capacity issue an additional $363.8 million of restructuring bonds under the initial authorization.

Similar to other utility cost recovery charge securitizations, this securitization benefits from the securitization law's inclusion of a state non-impairment pledge, subject to the true-up mechanism, that is incorporated into the securitization documents for the benefit of the trustee on behalf of bondholders. A breach of such pledge triggers an event of default under the indenture.

The Financing Order

On June 26, 2015, the Authority adopted Financing Order No. 4 (the financing order), together with Financing Order No. 2 and Financing Order No. 3; all of which were approved by the New York Public Authorities Control Board on July 15, 2015. On August 14, 2015, the financing orders became irrevocable, final and non-appealable. Each financing order authorizes restructuring bonds that will be secured by a separate restructuring property that would be created pursuant to that financing order.

Similarly, the Series 2013 restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 1 are secured by the 2013 restructuring property, the Series 2015 restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 2 are secured by the 2015 restructuring property and the Series 2016A restructuring bonds that the issuer issued pursuant to Financing Order No. 3 are secured by the 2016A restructuring property.

The issuer is issuing the bonds pursuant to the financing order, which authorizes: 1) the creation of the restructuring property; 2) the Authority to sell the restructuring property to the issuer under the financing order (the restructuring property is created simultaneous with its sale to the issuer); 3) the imposition, billing and collection of restructuring charges on, to and from the customers in the service area; 4) the issuance of the bonds by the issuer; 5) the issuer to use the bond proceeds to purchase the restructuring property from the Authority and pay upfront financing costs; and 6) the Authority to use the proceeds of the sale of the restructuring property to retire a portion of its outstanding debt.

The securitization law provides that the financing order is irrevocable and is not subject to modification or termination. The financing order acknowledges the state pledge.

Prior to the issuance of the bonds, the financing order requires the servicer to file an issuance advice letter with the Authority setting forth: 1) the expected savings to customers from the securitization; 2) the estimated ongoing financing costs; 3) the initial restructuring charge; and 4) the final terms of the bonds. The financing order authorizes a designee of the Authority to review and approve the issuance advice letter for the purpose of confirming that the stated terms are consistent with the financing order. The designee's approval will be final and incontestable.

The State Pledge

The securitization law includes a pledge from the State of New York to the bondholders that it will not (1) take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of restructuring property; or (2) reduce, alter or impair transition charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the owners of restructuring bonds, any assignee, and all financing entities, until any principal, interest and redemption premium in respect of restructuring bonds, all ongoing financing costs and all amounts to be paid to an assignee or financing party under an ancillary agreement are paid or performed in full, except as required by the adjustment mechanism described in the restructuring cost financing order.

Any action of the New York legislature adversely affecting the restructuring charges or the ability to impose, charge or collect the restructuring charges would likely require the State of New York to pay just compensation under the "takings clause" of the United States and State of New York Constitutions.

The state pledge provides protection to bondholders. To the extent the Authority or the State of New York have obligations under the financing order (e.g. to file for true-up adjustments), the securitization law provides that the owner of the restructuring property (the issuer), or the trustee representing the bondholders, are expressly permitted to bring actions for enforcement of the financing order.

The Restructuring Charges

Under the financing order, the servicer (on behalf of the issuer as owner of the restructuring property) has the right to impose, bill and collect irrevocable and nonbypassable restructuring charges from all of the Authority's customers in an amount sufficient to: 1) pay interest on the bonds when due and principal of each tranche of bonds according to the related expected amortization schedule; 2) pay the fees and expenses of the securitizations' service providers; and 3) replenish the operating reserve and debt service reserve subaccounts to the required levels.

There is no cap on the level of restructuring charges that the servicer may impose on ratepayers through the true-up adjustment mechanism. This is designed to ensure the expected collection of amounts sufficient to timely pay the amounts specified above. Accordingly, the restructuring charges may continue to be imposed and collected until the bonds are repaid in full, without any specified time limit.

The financing order authorizes the servicer to collect restructuring charges directly from the Authority's customers. The restructuring charge will be the same for all customer classes. Under the securitization law, the charges and any adjustments thereto are not subject to review or regulation by the New York State Department of Public Service, the staff arm of the New York Public Service Commission.

The restructuring charges are nonbypassable; "nonbypassable" as set forth in the securitization law and the financing order means that the customer is obligated to pay the restructuring charges (and may not legally avoid payment of such charges) as long as such customer is connected to the transmission and distribution (T&D) system assets (the Authority's delivery system, which includes transmission and distribution lines and substations) and is taking electric delivery service in the service area, even if such customer produces its own electricity or purchases electric generation services from a provider of electric generation services other than the owner of the T&D system assets and even if the Authority no longer owns the T&D system assets. Thus, the only way customers can avoid restructuring charges is if they are fully cut off from the T&D system assets.

The Service Area

The Authority provides electric T&D services in its service area which includes two counties in Long Island, NY – Nassau County and Suffolk County (except for the Nassau County villages of Freeport and Rockville Centre and the Suffolk County village of Greenport, each of which has its own municipal electric system) – and a small portion in Queens, NY known as the Rockaways. The population of the service area is around three million.

The securitization law defines the service area as the geographical area within which the Authority provided electric T&D services as of July 29, 2013. Thus, the service area is fixed by the legislation.

As of December 31, 2015, the service area included approximately 1.1 million customers. In 2015, retail electric usage was 54.4% residential, 43.5% commercial, 0.7% street lighting and 1.5% other public authorities. Exhibit 4 below shows the service area.

Statutory Uncapped True-Up Adjustment Mechanism

Under the securitization law and the financing order, the servicer will adjust the restructuring charges through the securitization's true-up mechanism to ensure timely bond payments. The adjustments to the charges will continue until the bonds are repaid in full and there is no cap on the amount of charges that may be imposed on customers resulting from the adjustments.

The mechanics of the true-up adjustments are as follows:

1. Initial true-up adjustment to the restructuring charges will be made on November 15, 2016
2. Standard mandatory annual adjustments to the restructuring charges to correct for any over-collections or under-collections to date and anticipated to be experienced up to the date of the next annual adjustment and to ensure that the expected collections are sufficient to timely pay interest and scheduled principal (according to the expected amortization schedule) on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
3. Mandatory semiannual adjustments to the restructuring charges only if the servicer forecasts that charge collections will be insufficient to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
4. Voluntary semiannual adjustments to decrease the restructuring charges to customers if the servicer forecasts that charge collections will be greater than the amount required to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs

5. More frequent adjustments at any time without limits as to the frequency to ensure that the expected charge collections are adequate to ensure timely payment of interest and scheduled principal on the bonds and all other ongoing financing costs
6. After the last scheduled maturity date of the bonds (of any series), quarterly adjustments to ensure that charge collections will be sufficient to timely pay interest and principal on the next payment date, in addition to all other ongoing financing costs; the adjustments will be set at levels estimated to generate revenues sufficient to fully repay the bonds on the next payment date, plus all other ongoing financing costs

All adjustments will be designed to cause: 1) the outstanding principal balance of the bonds (or any series of bonds) to be equal to the scheduled balance (based on the expected amortization schedule); 2) the amount in the operating reserve and debt service reserve subaccounts to be equal to the required levels; and 3) with respect to the annual true-up only, any amount in the excess funds subaccount to be equal to zero by the payment date immediately preceding the effective date of the next annual adjustment.

Servicing

LIPA, acting as servicer under the servicing agreement, or any successor servicer as the financing order provides, will be responsible for servicing the restructuring property, including: 1) obtaining meter reads; 2) forecasting electricity usage; 3) calculating, billing and collecting the restructuring charges; 4) processing, accounting for and depositing charge collections and making periodic remittances; 5) calculating and implementing the true-up adjustments to the restructuring charges; 6) investigating and handling delinquencies and selling defaulted or written off accounts; 7) responding to inquiries from customers, the Authority, or any governmental authority regarding the restructuring property and the restructuring charges; and 8) furnishing periodic reports and statements.

Although LIPA is the named servicer for this securitization, PSEG-LI, a subsidiary of Public Service Enterprise Group Incorporated (PSEG, Baa2 positive), will perform LIPA's key servicing duties pursuant to an operations services agreement, including billing and collecting the restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage, among others. PSEG is a publicly traded energy and energy services company. As of December 31, 2015, it had total assets of approximately $37.5 billion, last twelve months revenues of approximately $10.4 billion; and employed approximately 13,000 people. PSEG is the parent holding company of PSEG Power LLC, New Jersey's largest wholesale merchant generator with approximately 13.1 GW of capacity; Public Service Electric and Gas Company, New Jersey's largest regulated electric and gas T&D utility; and PSEG Energy Holdings L.L.C., which owns a portfolio of leveraged leases and is also pursuing investments in renewable generation.

There is no named backup servicer at closing though the financing order allows for a replacement servicer if the current servicer defaults in its performance obligations. In addition, the financing order allows the servicing fee to step-up from 0.05% to 0.60% of the initial principal balance of the bonds if LIPA is replaced as servicer by a successor servicer not affiliated with the owner of the T&D system assets.

Billing

PSEG-LI will perform LIPA's duties of billing and collecting the restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage. LIPA will be responsible for the true-up adjustments and certain reporting requirements.

Under the securitization law and the financing order, if and to the extent that third parties are allowed to bill and/or collect any restructuring charges in the future while the bonds are outstanding, LIPA, any successor servicer, and any owner of the T&D system assets will take steps to ensure nonbypassability and minimize the likelihood of default by third-party billers. Further, LIPA and any successor servicer will not permit implementation of any third-party billing or collection that would result in a reduction or withdrawal of the current ratings on the bonds.

The provision of electric service to customers by LIPA is governed by the Home Energy Fair Practices Act (HEFPA). LIPA's credit and collections practices, including the ability to terminate (disconnect) service, are governed by HEFPA.

Assets Analysis

Legal Analysis

Under the laws of New York and the United States, New York could not constitutionally take any legislative action, including the repeal or amendment of the securitization law, which would substantially limit, alter or impair the restructuring property or other rights vested in the bondholders pursuant to the financing order or substantially limit, alter, impair or reduce the value or amount of the restructuring property, unless (1) such action is a reasonable exercise of the State of New York's sovereign powers that appropriately furthers a legitimate public purpose; and (2) if such action constituted a permanent appropriation of the bondholders' substantial property interest in the restructuring property and deprived them of their reasonable expectations arising from their investments in the bonds, under the takings clauses of the federal and New York Constitutions, New York could not take such action without paying just compensation to the bondholders as determined by a court of competent jurisdiction.

New York does not have a referendum or initiative process by which the securitization law may be challenged. Therefore, the only way for the securitization law to be changed would be through a legislative action which would be subject to the state pledge.

Bondholders (or the trustee acting on their behalf) could challenge under the Contract Clause of the United States Constitution the constitutionality of any repeal or amendment of the securitization law or any other action or failure to take any action required by the state pledge that limits, alters or reduces the value of the restructuring property or the restructuring charges before the bonds are repaid in full, unless such action is necessary to further a significant and legitimate public purpose.

Under existing case law, assuming the takings clause applies under the federal and New York Constitutions, respectively, the State of New York would likely be required to pay just compensation to the bondholders if the State undertook a repeal or amendment of the securitization law or took any other action or failed to take any action required by the state pledge before the bonds are repaid in full that: 1) permanently appropriates the related restructuring property or denies all economically productive use of the related restructuring property; 2) destroys the restructuring property, other than in response to emergency conditions; or 3) substantially reduces, alters or impairs the value of the restructuring property so as to unduly interfere with the bondholders' reasonable expectations arising from their investments in the bonds.

The financing order provides that the restructuring property may be pledged to secure the payment of the bonds, financing costs, and other amounts owed. The securitization law provides that a valid and enforceable security interest in the restructuring propery will attach and be perfected at the time the pledge is made. The lien and security interest attach without any physical delivery of collateral or other act. The securitization law provides that the pledge is continuously perfected and has priority over any other lien created by the operation of law or otherwise that may be created subsequently.

Strong Service Area

Long Island's economy benefits from a highly skilled labor force, close proximity to New York City, more than 20 colleges and universities and core research institutions.

Long Island's median household income is substantially above that of New York State and the US. According to estimates from the US Census Bureau, the 2014 median household income for Nassau County and Suffolk County was $99,035 and $86,266, respectively, considerably higher than the $58,878 for New York State and the $54,562 for the US. According to the Authority, while the cost of electricity in the service area is higher than the national average, the cost of electricity as a percentage of income is below the national average.

For the twelve months ending on June 30, 2016, the ten largest retail electric customers represented approximately 5.7% of the Authority's retail kilowatt-hour sales resulting in 4.8% of revenues. As of the closing date, no customer or group of related commercial is exempt from paying the restructuring charges. Remote Risk of Severe Ratepayer Base Declines

The Series 2016B bonds are exposed to the risk of declines in the ratepayer base in the service area. However, declines in the ratepayer base dramatic enough to impact the rating of the bonds are unlikely given the size, projected population growth and economic stability of the service area's stable ratepayer base. We view the risks to the transaction of ratepayer base declines due to any of these factors to be low.

Self-Generation

We look at the potential for increased use of self-generation as a minor headwind to the transaction. Self-generation, which primarily includes solar, reduces the ratepayer base and increases the burden of restructuring charges on other non-self-generating ratepayers. Customers that self-generate will only be responsible for paying restructuring charges based upon their net-billed consumption. The securitization law and financing order do not provide for exit fees to be charged to any customers that might leave the grid to self-generate.

Change in Service Area

We look at the risk of a ratepayer base decline due to a change in the service are to be minimal. The restructuring charge will be recoverable from all customers taking T&D service. As of July 29, 2013, the securitization law defines the service area to include two counties in Long Island, NY – Nassau County and Suffolk County (except for the Nassau County villages of Freeport and Rockville Centre and the Suffolk County village of Greenport, each of which has its own municipal electric system) – and a small portion in Queens, NY known as the Rockaways. Thus, the service area is fixed by the legislation. If the service area expands in the future, the new customers would be subject to the restructuring charge on a going-forward basis.

Municipalization

We view the risk to the ratepayer base due to municipalization as low due to the nonbypassability of the charges. Moreover, municipalization would not affect restructuring charge collections since a successor and its customers will be subject to the restructuring charges, even if the T&D system assets are no longer owned by the Authority. Since 1998, no municipalizations have occurred in the service area.

Storm Damage

We view the risk of reduced collections due to weather to be low, and substantially mitigated via the true-up mechanism. Hurricanes, tropical storms or wind storms may impact the Authority's operations, temporarily interrupting transmission, distribution and consumption of electricity, hence reducing the collections of restructuring charges. There might be longer-lasting weather-related adverse effects on residential and commercial development and economic activity in the Authority's service area, which could cause the per-kWh restructuring charge to be greater than expected.

Forecasting Electricity Consumption

The Authority's internal company forecasts are used for projections of electricity price and weather conditions. The forecast incorporates customer usage, delinquencies and write-offs, among other inputs.

The Authority assesses the restructuring charges based on its forecasts of customer usage. The amount and the rate of restructuring charge collections will depend in part on actual electricity consumption and the amount of collections and write-offs.

Exhibit 9 below shows the forecasted restructuring charge per 1,000 kWh and scheduled debt service payments.

Forecast Variance

For there to be insufficient funds to pay ultimate principal and timely interest on the bonds, there would need to be unexpected, persistent and extensive drops in electricity consumption. Additionally, there may be insufficient funds if the servicer inaccurately forecasts electricity consumption or uses inaccurate customer delinquency or charge-off data when setting or adjusting the 2016B restructuring charges. We view this risk as remote, as the maximum forecast variance since 2011 has been less than 6% per customer category, as shown in Exhibit 10.

Cash Flow Analysis

We examined the cash flows that the restructuring charges will generate under various scenarios. In light of the strength of the ratepayer base, the purpose was primarily to see how high the restructuring charges can go as a percentage of a 1,000 kWh residential customer's bill and also to illustrate how the restructuring charges behave under various stress scenarios of customer demand. Our rating is primarily based on qualitative analysis of the political, legal and regulatory aspects of the securitization and the strength of the ratepayer base. However, we run these stress scenarios to confirm that the level of the restructuring charges is consistent with other comparable transactions.

Even if the financing order is irrevocable, the restructuring charges or the law that authorizes them could be subject to challenge in the courts or to future political pressure to rescind or change them through legislation. Such challenge is more likely the higher the charges, i.e., the more the economic incentive for a challenge, or in circumstances where the financial imbalances in a utility system increase. Consequently, our economic analysis focuses on the size of the restructuring charge, both in absolute terms and as a percentage of the customer's energy bill. In our more extreme scenarios, the percentage of a residential customer's monthly bill devoted to the restructuring charge is as high as 22.74%, higher than most other utility cost recovery charge securitizations. This concern is mitigated by the Authority's securitization offset rider, which reduces the delivery charge in an amount equal to any increase in the restructuring charge to keep customers' total monthly bills stable.

The Authority expects the combined initial restructuring charge for the 2013, 2015, 2016A and 2016B transactions to be around 7.8% of the total monthly bill that an average 1,000 kWh residential customer in the service area would receive as of June 15, 2017, which is higher than most other utility cost recovery charge securitizations we rate. The 7.8% is preliminary and subject to change based on market conditions.

We looked at three scenarios:

Scenario Description and Projected Output

Base Scenario

1. Electricity consumption as per the Authority's projections
2. Implied net charge-offs of 0.62%
3. Collection curve projects 20.0% of collections within 30 days and 80.0% of collections between 30-60 days
4. Servicing fee is 0.05% on an annualized basis of the original principal amount of bonds so long as the servicer remains LIPA or an affiliate. While a back-up servicer has not been retained, the issuer can increase servicing fees to 0.60% to attract one if needed.

Stress Scenario 1

1. Electricity consumption decreases linearly by 5% every year until it reaches 50% of the projected consumption for residential customers and 65% for non-residential customers
2. Annual net charge-offs are the same as in base case
3. Collection curve is the same as in base case

4. Loss of 100% of the collections from the peak consumption month and 50% of the collections from the second highest consumption month each year

5. Replacement servicing fee of 0.60% per year of the initial bond balance with other expenses the same as in the base case

Stress Scenario 2

1. Electricity consumption is reduced by 25% permanently against the first year base case projection

2. Annual net charge-offs the same as in base case

3. Collection curve is the same as in base case

4. Servicing fee and all other fees the same as in base case

For all of the scenarios, the bonds are fully paid by their legal final maturity dates. Exhibit 11 shows the projected restructuring charge as a percentage of a 1,000 kWh residential customer's total bill, and Exhibit 12 shows the projected restructuring charges for customers per 1,000 kWh over the securitization's life. The periodic variance in the charges under the stress scenarios is due to the semiannual true-ups capturing seasonality in electricity usage.

Comparables

As shown in Exhibit 13, stress scenario 1 is more stressful and results in a peak restructuring charge equal to about 22.74% of a 1,000 kWh per month customer's bill. This is high compared to other utility cost recovery deals.

Securitization Structure Overview

On the closing date, the Authority will sell the restructuring property to the issuer pursuant to a sale agreement between the issuer and the Authority. LIPA will be the servicer of the restructuring property. PSEG-LI will perform LIPA's key servicing duties pursuant to an operations services agreement, including billing and collecting restructuring charges, meter reading and forecasting electricity usage, among others.

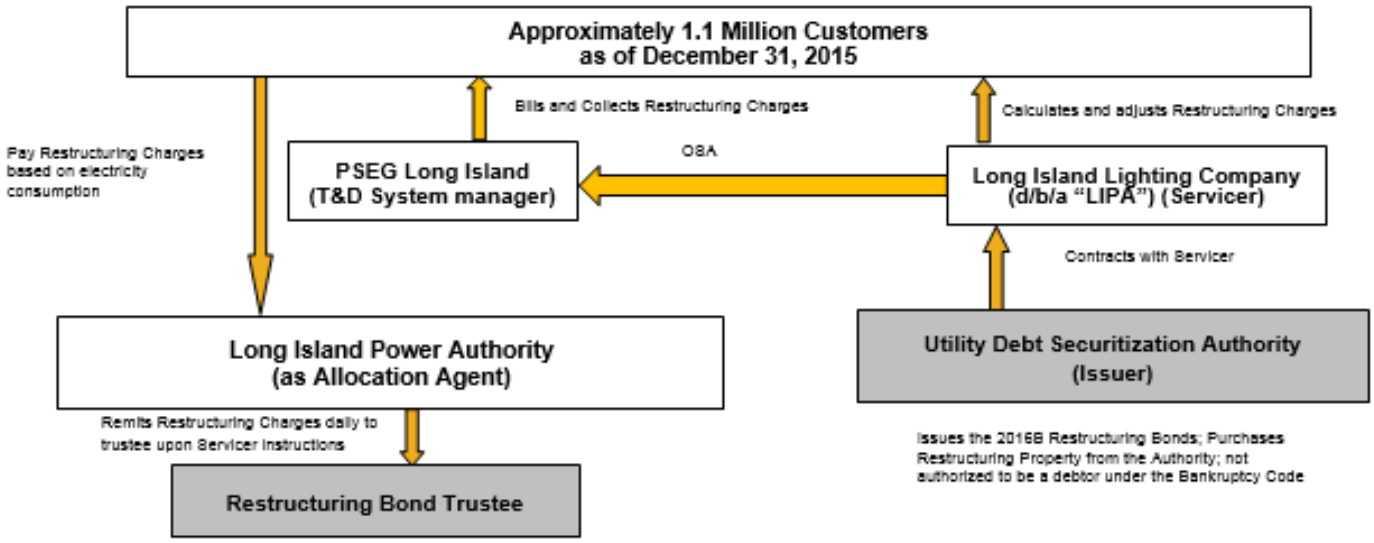
Securitization Structure Description

Structural Diagram

Exhibit 14 below illustrates the relationships between the transaction parties and bondholders.

Exhibit 14

Structural Diagram



Source: Utility Debt Securitization Authority, Restructuring Bonds, Series 2016B Preliminary Official Statement dated July 28, 2016

1. The issuer purchases the restructuring property from the Authority and issues the Series 2016B bonds
2. The issuer contracts with LIPA as servicer to calculate and adjust the restructuring charges
3. LIPA contracts with PSEG-LI to bill and collect the restructuring charges

4. Electric utility customers pay restructuring charge on electricity bills based on electricity consumption
5. The Authority, as allocation agent, remits the restructuring charges to the trustee on a daily basis

Detailed Description of the Structure

Credit Enhancement

Credit enhancement for the bonds will be provided by the true-up mechanism, as well as by the debt service reserve account. The primary purpose of the excess funds subaccount is not to provide credit enhancement for the bonds but to hold funds collected in amounts that were more than necessary to pay current debt service. However, amounts in the excess funds subaccount may be used to make debt service payments on the bonds when needed.

Operating Reserve Account

On or before the date of issuance of the bonds, the Authority will deliver to the trustee for deposit into the operating reserve account an amount not less than 0.50% of the initial aggregate principal amount of the Series 2016B bonds. Amounts may be withdrawn from the account to pay scheduled principal on the Series 2016B bonds, provided however that an amount not less than 0.50% remains on deposit in the account.

Debt Service Reserve Account

On or before the date of issuance of the bonds, the issuer will make a capital contribution to the trustee in an amount not less than 1.5% of the aggregate outstanding principal amount of the bonds, which will be deposited in the debt service reserve account. Under the financing order, any funds in the debt service reserve subaccount in excess of the required debt service reserve level shall be retained in the subaccount and applied to subsequent payments.

Cash Commingling

The servicer is entitled to commingle the restructuring charges that it receives with its own funds until it remits the funds to the indenture trustee on a daily basis. The securitization law provides that the priority of a lien and security interest is not impaired by the commingling of funds arising from restructuring charges with other funds.

No less often than annually, the servicer and the indenture trustee will reconcile remittances of estimated recovery charge collections with actual payments received. To the extent the remittances of estimated payments exceed the amounts that should have been remitted, the servicer will be entitled to withhold the excess amount from any subsequent remittance. To the extent the remittances of estimated payments are less than the amount that should have been remitted, the servicer will remit the amount of the shortfall to the allocation account within two business days. Any discrepancy between estimated and actual collections is mitigated by the true-up mechanism, which allows the Authority to adjust the restructuring charges at any time as needed to make timely interest and principal payments on the bonds.

Payment Priority

On each semiannual payment date, or for items 1 through 4 below, on any business day, the trustee will pay or allocate, at the direction of the servicer, all amounts on deposit in the collection account in the following order of priority:

1. to the trustee, i) all fees, expenses and ii) any outstanding indemnity amounts not to exceed $800,000 in each year;
2. to the servicer, the servicing fee and all prior unpaid servicing fees, capped at 0.60% of the aggregate principal balance of the bonds in each year;
3. to the administrator, the administration fee ($100,000 per year) and all prior unpaid administration fees;
4. the payment of all other operating expenses to the persons entitled to such payment;
5. to the bondholders, first, any overdue interest (together with, to the extent lawful, interest on such overdue interest at the applicable bond interest rate) and second, interest due on such payment date;
