separate social services agencies [not under the control of the Government of Ontario] and one individual member, who will be anon-voting member, will be an employee or representative of the Government of Ontario; and
d) it is expected that representation by the Government of Ontario will be non-controlling. The Board of Trustees, once selected is expected to include 6 persons (five voting and one non-voting) of individuals from among those individuals who have been recommended for appointment to the Board of Trustees by the Advisory Committee.

The Trustees will have the discretion to hire Hydro One or other entities as service providers to assist with administering the Fund, using Administrative Services Agreements to clearly document services and expectations. The Trust would distribute funds to LDCs across the province (including Hydro One) at the discretion of the Trustees.

The draft TPA includes terms which allow for unfettered control by the Trust to operate in the best interest of the beneficiaries, including making decisions on the administration and distribution of funds to LDCs across the province. The Trustees are expected to conduct themselves in good faith and give regard to guiding principles established by the Province in exercising their duties under the Trust Declaration and TPA in distributing funds to LDCs for the benefit of beneficiaries across the province, including Hydro One.

The Trust Declaration will be subject to further modification based on agreement by both parties, but not unilaterally by either party. The input and involvement of LDCs across the province is anticipated and integral to the success of the Trust in meeting its purpose. The non-compulsory Principles of the Fund will be clearly articulated in the Trust Declaration and the TPA. Language in the documents will clearly reflect that the principles are not mandatory requirements.

In addition, a Permitted Delegation Annex will be included which refers to expectation between the parties that the Trust would plan to rely on LDCs to assist with achieving its purpose, while maintaining unfettered discretion and power to (a) appoint, employ or retain Administrative Services Agents for the purpose of discharging its duties and obligations under the Declaration; and (b) enter into, perform, enforce and amend Administrative Services Agreements.

Without limiting the Trustee's discretion to negotiate and settle the terms and conditions of the above-mentioned Administrative Services Agreements, the Permitted Delegation Annex also outlines certain terms and conditions that the Trustees might consider for inclusion in the services agreements, recognizing that the ultimate agreements would be subject to the acceptance and agreement of the applicable Electricity Distributor counterparty. While the Annex appears quite specific in nature, it is non-mandatory and intended as guidance only which may be helpful as the Trust seeks to commence discussions with LDCs in the spirit of serving the interests of the primary beneficiaries. As noted, the Trustees are not bound to use the guidance.

Commented [NP1]: But there is a suggestion that they would as referenced in the audit clause which states that the scope of the audit would include review/validation of processes and control related to LDCs.

There is also a requirement under the Declaration that any changes would only be possible if they are in agreement with the Principles.

CONTROL ANALYSIS

In accordance with PSAB, "the Government Reporting Entity should comprise the organizations that are controlled by the government" (PS 1300.07). PSAB defines control as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organizations activities" (PS 1300.08). Benefits may be financial or non-financial, for example, the government may require the organization to cooperate in pursuing the government's public policy objectives.

DRAFT

PSAB's "indicators of control" are the relevant guidance in determining the degree of control for inclusion of the Affordability Fund Trust in the Government Reporting Entity (GRE). In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between a government and an organization in addition to its legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. In addition to PS 1300, consideration is also given the Trust Guidance and One-Time Transfer Guidance developed by OPCD in conjunction with the Office of the Auditor General which are attached as Appendices.

There are a total of 11 PSAB prescribed control indicators that provide evidence of control: 4 persuasive indicators of control and 7 other control indicators. It is the preponderance of evidence that would be considered in assessing whether a government controls an organization.

The following governing documents were reviewed in support of the analysis of the Province's control over the Affordability Fund Trust:

1) Draft Trust Declaration (March 20 5:30 pm), including related schedules (Principles Annex, Delegations Annex)
2) Draft Transfer Payment Agreement (March 20 5:30 pm)
3) OPCD Trust Guidance
4) OPCD Guidance on One-Time Transfers

Appendix I shows the detailed analysis of the PSAB indicators of control. Based on this assessment and the preponderance of evidence, informed by a review of the wording in the draft Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement, there are a number of features of the proposed arrangements which may be pertinent in assessing whether, an overall basis, the Affordability Fund Trust might be controlled by the Province as at March 31, 2017.

Primary (i.e., more persuasive) indicators (CICA PS 1300.18):
1. Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	• Original Trustee (Computershare) is the governing body of the Trust until the Replacement Board of Trustees is selected. The Declaration describes the process expected to be used to establish the Replacement Board. The government will not control the Original Trustee, the Advisory Committee, or the appointment of the Replacement Board of Trustees.	X
2. Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	• The government will not have an on-going access to assets transferred to the Trust, and any future access will only be through protective clauses (termination/default for material breach). At the Final Distribution Date, any excess funds will be distributed to a non-controlled Residual Beneficiary in accordance with clause 3.3 of the Trust Declaration. • The government will not have any exposure to losses of the Trust. In addition, section 1.1 (interpretations) of the TPA includes the following: it is intended that the transfer of the Funds to the Recipient will be a transfer made to a "non-controlled trust" (as that term is given meaning in - applicable to the accounting rules and principles applicable to the Province as of the date of the Agreement), and so if a term or condition of the Agreement is determined to conflict with the requirements applicable to the Province recording the transfers to the Recipient of Funds contemplated hereunder as an expense incurred by the Province on the date of the transfer of Funds under the Agreement otherwise in connection with activities undertaken by the Province with such a "non-controlled trust", then such term or condition shall be given a meaning and shall have an effect insofar as it is possible to interpret such term or condition in a manner that eliminates such conflict while preserving the other provisions of the Agreement and furthering the Purpose.	X
3. Government holds the majority of the voting shares or a "golden share" that confers the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the	• Neither in the Trust Declaration or the TPA can the government unilaterally direct the financial and operating policies of the Trust. Any Trustee initiated changes to the Declaration or TPA would need to be consistent with the Principles Annex. • • The Trust Declaration and TPA do not interfere with the

TPA: The TPA is silent on amendments to the TPA.

The TPA states in section 20.2 that the Trustee covenants that it shall not amend, restate or terminate the Declaration without the written consent of the Province, such consent not to be unreasonably withheld.

Trust Declaration:
Section 6.1 of the Trust Declaration states that, subject to the TPA, the Trustee shall have the power in its sole and absolute discretion to amend the Declaration [provided that no amendment shall conflict with the principles set forth in the Principles Annex or as to the scope or effect of the permitted delegations and activities of any Administrative Services Agent pursuant to the Permitted Delegations Annex.]

Section 6.1(e) permits the Trustee to add to or reasonably clarify the principles set forth in the Principles Annex.

The 'Principles Annex' describes non-mandatory guiding principles to be considered by the Trustees in applying their discretion in relation to administration of the Trust. The Annex clearly indicates that the Trustees shall only have regard to the principles but that they shall not be specifically bound by the listed principles. Furthermore, the declaration and TPA are subject to change. Under the Declaration of Trust, section 1.2 Definitions , "Declaration of Trust" means the declaration of trust made as of March [□], 2017, under whi o the Affordability Fund Trust was established, as such declaration of trust may be amended, restated, supplemented or otherwise modified from time to time with the consent of the Province. • The Trust Declaration also includes a schedule which lists 'suggested' initial eligible measures for consideration by the Trustees, and elements for consideration in the Administrative Services Agreements that the Trust may chose to enter into with LDCs. • The Trust Declaration does not direct a specific governance structure, but rather includes the following reference under 2.3 Governance. The Recipient represents, warrants and covenants that it has, and will maintain, in writing for the period during which the Agreement is in effect: (a) decision-making mechanisms and procedures to enable the Recipient to hold, invest, manage, apply and distribute the Funds in accordance with the Declaration of Trust in furtherance of the Purpose; and (b) procedures to enable the preparation and delivery of all Reports required pursuant to Article 7.0	✓
4. Government has the unilateral power to dissolve the organization and thereby access its assets and become responsible for its obligations	Only after the Final Distribution Date or in the event of default will the government have any power or rights in relation to the remaining funds in the Trust, including the power to redirect distribution of remaining funds and seek remediation for any mis-used funds. SECTION 7 - TERMINATION 7.1 Duration Subject to sections 7.2 and 7.3, the Trust will continue in full force and effect so long as there are any Assets and until all of the debts, liabilities and obligations of the Trust have been paid and satisfied in full. 7.2 Termination and Distribution of Assets The Trustee shall terminate the Trust and wind up its affairs as soon as practicable after the Final Distribution Date. In connection with the termination of the Trust, the Trustee shall identify the Residual Beneficiaries and distribute or cause to be distributed the remaining Assets, in cash or in kind or partly in each, to the Residual Beneficiaries, in each case in accordance with section

If an Event of Default occurs, the Province may, at any time, take one or more of the following actions: (a) provide the Recipient with Notice allowing the Recipient an opportunity to remedy the Event of Default during a specified Notice Period; No right to access assets following Final Date of Distribution: 3.3 Distributions to Residual Beneficiaries Prior to the Final Distribution Date, the Trustee shall identify the Residual Beneficiary, or if more than one the Residual Beneficiaries and their respective allocations, by consulting with and having regard to the recommendations of the Ontario Energy Board, based on [Identify criteria that will narrow the scope to charities to those having an energy/social focus]those charitable organizations which provide support services for Low Income Energy Assistance Program Emergency Financial Assistance (LEAP EFA) and the Ontario Electricity Support Program (OESP) or other charities that OEB may identify as relating to the Purpose. Following the Final Distribution Date, the Trustee shall, subject to compliance with section 7.3,7.3 and completion of a final audit, distribute all remaining Assets (including capital or income) to the Residual Beneficiaries, in each case in the amounts and to the extent determined by the Trustee in its discretion hereunder (having consulted with and having had regard the recommendations of the Ontario Energy Board as aforesaid) and to the exclusion of the other Beneficiaries. The government also cannot unilaterally extend the term of the agreement. Rather, the term of the Agreement can only be extended by further agreement between the Parties. 3.3 Extension of the Declaration of Trust. If the Province determines that an extension of the Declaration of Trust (beyond the "Final Distribution Date" and time for termination, each as specified or determined thereunder) is consistent with and in furtherance of the Purpose and the Province's original intentions and expectations in establishing the Project, the Province may request that the Recipient extend the Declaration of Trust to a date specified by the Province in a Notice (such date not to be later than •), whereupon the Recipient, so long as the Trustee does not have a reasonable basis to believe that such an extension would be inconsistent with the Purpose or weaken the protections intended for the benefit of the Trustee pursuant to the Declaration of Trust, will undertake such actions as it may consider to be necessary or appropriate to so extend the Declaration of Trust, including by amending the Declaration of Trust to provide for such an extension and to modify any other term or requirement as would be necessary or prudent to conform such term or requirement in light of such extension.

5. Provide significant input into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	In accordance with the Trust Declaration and the TPA, the government will not control the Original Trustee, and will not have a controlling interest in either the Advisory Committee nor the Replacement Trustee Board. The process Replacement of the Original Trustee is described in section 5.7 of the Trust Declaration which describes a logical process to select subsequent trustees but which does not result in a Trust that will be controlled by the government (as above). Although the Ministry of Energy provided input to the selection of the Advisory Committee with will help the Trustee to select the Replacement Trustees by nominating candidates based on the selection criteria, the Advisory Committee is not the governing body. As at March 31st, the Original Trustee is the governing body and although selection thereof may have been influenced by the government, the Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement have been drafted to reflect a non-controlling relationship. PSAS also includes the following guidance w.r.t. government involvement in appointing governing bodies: 20 For each indicator that applies in a particular circumstance, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. In weighing the evidence, it would be necessary to consider the indicators collectively as well as individually. For example, where an organization is governed by a publicly elected board, this is not necessarily, in and of itself, sufficient evidence to conclude that the government does not control the organization. Similarly, where a government appoints a majority of the members of the governing body of an organization, this is not necessarily, in and of itself, sufficient evidence that the government controls the organization In addition, section 1.1 (interpretations) of the TPA includes the following: it is intended that the transfer of the Funds to the Recipient will be a transfer made to a “non-controlled trust” (as that term is given meaning in • applicable to the accounting rules and principles applicable to the Province as of the date of the Agreement), and so if a term or condition of the Agreement is determined to conflict with the requirements applicable to the Province recording the transfers to the Recipient of Funds contemplated hereunder as an expense incurred by the Province on the date of the transfer of Funds under the Agreement otherwise in connection with activities undertaken by the Province with such a “non-controlled trust”, then such term or condition shall be given a meaning and shall have an effect insofar as it is possible to interpret such term or condition in a manner that eliminates such conflict while preserving the other provisions of the Agreement and furthering the Purpose. ACCOUNTING CONSIDERATIONS FOR GOVERNMENT-FUNDED TRUSTS

Purpose:

The purpose of this guidance is to explore accounting-related considerations related to government-funded trusts which are established by the government to fund a specific purpose or activity. This guidance deals specifically with the difference between controlled and non-controlled trusts, the introduction of accountability provisions which can now be reflected in trust agreements, and key timing considerations for trusts contemplated towards year-end. It is important that these factors be taken into account when establishing a trust, in order to achieve the intended fiscal impact and appropriate accountability over the use of public funds.

Introduction:

Trusts are usually established by way of trust declaration or trust agreement, and are one of several means by which the government can direct funding to support key policy initiatives. Simply stated, trustees hold title to property for the benefit of, and stand in a fiduciary relationship to the beneficiaries. Trustees are accountable to third parties (beneficiaries) for the use and disposition of trust assets and for the funds derived from those trust activities. The trust itself is not a separate legal entity. The trustees carry out the activities of the trust in the name of the trustees.

Generally, direct year-end transfers are the preferred alternative over trusts where the province wants to retain ultimate decision-making authority regarding amounts to be transferred to recipients. Direct transfers are more appropriate where the identity of eligible transfer payment recipients is known and the amounts to be transferred to each recipient can be or has been determined.

Year-end transfers to a trust might be considered where the province desires to delegate to third parties ultimate decision-making authority regarding allocation of amounts amongst eligible beneficiaries.

A trust must be valid for legal purposes in order to be recognized for accounting purposes. Key requirements for a trust to be valid include: an intention to create a trust ('certainty of intention'), certainty of subject-matter of the trust ("certainty of subject matter") and the objects of the trust must be certain ('certainty of objects"). There are generally two different types of trust, a trust in which the objects are the "beneficiaries" and trust in which the objects are a "purpose" (e.g. for charitable purposes). Where a trust is under serious consideration, it is imperative that ministries seek legal advice to ensure that the contemplated trust will be valid.

Trustees are obligated to follow the terms of the trust declaration or trust agreement which will usually detail the powers and duties of the trustees including the number of trustees and how decisions will be made by the trustees.

Controlled versus Non-Controlled Government-Funded Trusts

From an accounting perspective, it is important to distinguish whether the design and governance of a particular trust results in the trust being controlled by the Province for accounting purposes. Control stems from the nature of the relationship between the government and the trust. Financial and operating policies are principles that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control.

The means by which a trust is established, the government's representation among the trustees, the government's involvement in the trust's governance processes and ability to impact trustee discretion in decision-making are but some of the factors to be considered in assessing whether a trust is 'controlled' or 'not controlled' by the government.

DRAFT

In establishing a trust, it is important to achieve the intended relationship between the province and the trust in order to achieve the intended fiscal impact.

Non-Controlled Trusts:

Where trusts are not controlled by the Province, they are excluded from the government reporting entity. For non-controlled trusts, the following accounting would apply to trust funding:

- Where funds provided to the "trust" are unconditional, the Province would record a transfer payment expense for any transfers approved in the current period (and flowed by finalization of public accounts).

- Where funds provided to the "trust" are conditional (i.e. upon the trust completing some specific task or result), the Province would initially record funding to the trust as a prepaid expense until the conditions are met at which time the Province would record a transfer payment expense, with the corresponding credit to prepaid expense. This may occur over a number of fiscal years.

In determining whether a trust is controlled, there are a variety of ways that a government might be perceived to be governing the financial and operating policies of a trust. These include:
- Eliminating or significantly limiting the ability of the trustees to make future decisions
- Directing the financial and operating policies of the trust
- Overruling, modifying or vetoing the financial and operating policies established by the trust.

Specific factors that should be considered in establishing a non-controlled trust include:
- Government representation in the trustees (should be in a minority position), and non-government trustees should be nominated by non-government sources
- Government influence over day-to-day trust governance and trustee discretion to make decisions (e.g. selection of eligibility criteria, selection of recipients).
- degree of influence over how funds are disbursed (i.e. the Declaration of Trust can provide general guidelines but not be overly prescriptive)
- the government's power to unilaterally appoint or remove the majority of trustees
- the government's on-going access to the trust's assets, or right to direct decisions regarding the flow of those assets to specific beneficiaries
- the government's unilateral power to dissolve the trust, except under specified circumstances as stipulated by the trust agreement (i.e. corrective action)
- the government's ability to establish or amend the policies used by the trust to manage accounting, personnel, deployment of resources, etc.

In some cases, it may be advantageous for ministries to provide administrative support to trusts. In these cases it is important that the extent of such support is not so pervasive as to influence or direct the day-to-day financial or operating policies of the trust, otherwise the trust will be deemed controlled and will be subject to consolidation in the government reporting entity.

Controlled Trusts:

If the Province controls the trust (for example, through its power to appoint a majority of the trustees on the board of trustees), the Province would be deemed to have control of the trust, resulting in the trust being accounted for in the same manner as other organizations controlled by the province (i.e. on a consolidated basis). As a result, the Province's contribution to the trust would not be expensed when it is transferred, but rather over time as the funds are disbursed to trust beneficiaries.

DRAFT

Accountability Related Considerations:

The Auditor General has confirmed that the new accountability provisions developed for one-time transfers can also be applied to trusts without impacting the expense treatment of any transfers to non-controlled trusts.

These new accountability provisions will enable the government and the Legislature to:

- obtain assurance that a trust is spending public funds prudently and for the purposes intended and to take corrective action if it is not;
- ensure ministerial accountability to the Legislative Assembly for the trust's activities; and
- ensure that the province is able to take corrective action where warranted and as stipulated under terms of the trust agreement.

It should also be noted that the Auditor General's Act now allows the Province's Legislative Auditor to conduct special audits of any person or organization receiving transfers from the government, including trusts.

To enhance accountability controls over government transfers to non-controlled trusts, Ministries can consider incorporating some or all of the following accountability provisions as part of their trust agreement/declaration without impacting the accounting treatment of the trust.

The inclusion of any of these provisions should not result in a trust being assessed as 'controlled'. Note that the key determinant in identifying appropriate provisions for any individual trust is a ministry's assessment of the risk associated with a particular trust, as per the Transfer Payment Directive.

1. Description of intended use of trust funds;
    - specific purpose(s) for which the funds are to be used;
    - description of intended recipients and related eligibility criteria*; and,
    - the nature of eligible expenditures relevant to the transfers.

    *Note: avoid overly prescriptive eligibility criteria which would effectively eliminate or significantly limit the trustees' discretion to make funding decisions.

2. Requirement for information
    - Information to be provided by the trust at a future date (e.g. requirement for trustees to advise the government of trustee-developed performance criteria, and provide annual assessments against those criteria)

3. Report-back requirement for Public Accountability
    - information to be provided by the trust at a future date with respect to the stewardship and payment of transfer funds (e.g. audited financial statements, audited list of recipients and amounts funded).

4. Right to independent verification/audit
    - The Province reserves the right to audit any transfer payment recipients. The trust agreement should make reference to this fact.

5. Right to take corrective action
    - Where stipulated under the trust agreement, the Province reserves the right to re-direct unused funds where results of a trust assessment (where required by the trust agreement) indicate original purpose of the trust is not being achieved, or if there remain unused funds at the end of the trust term.
    - Province may also reserve the right to extend the term of the trust agreement, where funds remain at the end of the trust period.

To qualify for in-year expense treatment, the non-controlled trusts must satisfy the following:

DRAFT

- the decision to establish the trust must have been approved by Treasury Board/Management Board of Cabinet and ratified by Cabinet by March 31st;
- the ministry providing the transfer must have approved appropriations and spending authority by March 31st;
- Trustees must have been identified and signed the trust declaration or agreement to establish a valid trust by March 31st ;
- the trust must be set up and ready to receive funds, and a nominal amount transferred to the trust by March 31s;t ; and,
- the government should have communicated publicly (e.g. in the Budget document) the pending or final establishment of the trust.

In addition, all remaining funds beyond those initially transferred at March 31st should be transferred to the trust by June 30th.

Trusts
Questions and Answers on Trust Guidance

Question: Where a trust is announced in the Budget document, must the trust be established by March 31st, or could such a trust be established shortly thereafter without impacting the expensing of transfers to the trust in 2007-08?

Answer: A trust would have to be established prior to the end of a fiscal period in order to satisfy the recognition criteria for government transfers. If the intended recipient for a government transfer does not exist at March 31st, the province cannot record a payable owing to it under existing accounting standards.

Question*: Does the transfer of funds to a non-controlled trust need to occur by March 31st or before the date of Public Accounts finalization?*

Answer: Consistent with the new requirements for one-time transfers, as long as the trust is established by March 31st, the transfer is authorized and a reasonable estimate of the amount can be made, cash payments can be made after year-end.

Question: Can beneficiaries of a non-controlled trust include consolidated entities provided that the ultimate selection of recipients is at the discretion of the Trustees?

Answer: Any amounts provided to a trust which are in turn be provided to an organization inside the government reporting entity should not be expensed at the time of the transfer to the trust. Any amount that is flowed to a trust with the intention of subsequently flowing the funds to a consolidated entity should not be recorded as an expense to the government.

Question: Can a Ministry provide administrative support to a trust without compromising the non-controlled status of the trust?

Answer: The government can provide administrative support as long as the extent of government administrative support is not so pervasive so that the government is in substance establishing and managing the trust's policies in the areas of accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources. Where such administrative support is assessed as pervasive, it could impair the trust's non-controlled trust and the trust will be consolidated onto the province's financial statements.

Can the following clauses appear in a trust agreement for a non-controlled trust to ensure adequate accountability over public funds without impacting the expense treatment of such trusts?

Question*: Specific description of purpose of the trust (possibly including nominal allocation among various objectives)*
Answer: Yes.

Question: Can the trust agreement include a specific description of the intended groups of beneficiaries and detailed eligibility criteria.

Answer: Specificity should be applied cautiously, so as not to limit the discretion of the trustees in their subsequent grant making processes. For the trust to be considered 'not controlled' it should not be seen as 'establishing the trust's fundamental purpose and eliminating or significantly limiting the ability of the trust to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the trust.

DRAFT

Question: Can trustees stipulate that funding is to be provided to beneficiaries on a cost-sharing basis?
Answer: Yes.

Question: Can the trust agreement include a requirement for a trust to report back to the province on trustee-established performance criteria and results, audit of financial statements, audited recipients and amounts, confirmation that trustees communicated to beneficiaries the intended purpose of the funding, etc.
Answer: Yes.

Question*: Requirement for Trust to publicly post communications on existence, availability of funds, eligibility criteria, recipients and amounts granted to each recipient.*
Answer: Yes

Question: Inclusion of a 'suggested' drawdown schedule over a period of years, with discretion left to Trustees as to actual results.
Answer: The inclusion of a drawdown schedule is not suggested for one-time, up-front transfers.

Question: Trust agreement can suggest accountability provisions which might be attached by Trustees to beneficiary payments (e.g. specific purpose of funding, requirement for report-back, right to audit, corrective actions).
Answer: Yes

Question: Trust agreement to reserve the province's right to re-direct any unspent funds to specified parties (e.g. non-consolidated entities or another non-controlled trust) at the end of the trust term, or alternatively to extend the term of the trust where unspent funds remain.
Answer: Yes

Question*: Can the trust agreement include the requirement for evaluations of the trust at certain times (e.g. years 3, 7, 10 of the trust agreement), with the right for the government to decide either to terminate the trust (corrective action) based on the results of the assessment, or extend the trust beyond the initial term as per the agreement.*
Answer: Yes.

Question: Trust agreement can require Trustees to request as part of the funding process that beneficiaries acknowledge receipt of government funding in their public communications on specific projects.
Answer: Yes.

Appendix III

ACCOUNTING TREATMENT FOR ONE-TIME TRANSFERS WITH ENHANCED ACCOUNTABILITY PROVISIONS

Purpose:

The purpose of this guidance is to identify the nature of the accountability provisions which may be associated with one-time transfer payments that qualify for immediate expense treatment in the current period.

Definition of One-time transfers:

One-time transfers are defined as lump-sum operating or capital transfers that

- are not advancing currently planned future transfer payments under an existing on-going program, or
- are not identified as being intended to be spent in specified future periods or over a specified period of time.

Background:

Transfer payments are a means by which the government works with third parties to deliver public services. Transfer payment recipients must be held responsible by the government to deliver the provincially-funded services and be accountable for the funds they receive. Consistent with the Transfer Payment Accountability Directive, August, 2007, a risk-based approach is to be followed in designing the appropriate accountability and reporting mechanisms for specific funding agreements.

The current PSAB Handbook Section 3410, Government Transfers requires that a government transfer should be recognized by a transferring government as an expense in the period the transfer is authorized and all eligibility criteria have been met by the recipient.

To recognize a liability and expense as at year-end:

- the government must create a valid expectation of the recipient by year-end, leaving the government little or no discretion to avoid but to settle its obligation;
- no significant, contingent actions should be outstanding which if unfulfilled by year end might cause the transfer not to occur.

It is understood that the intention of negotiating a transfer payment agreement following the government's commitment to the recipient is to work out the administrative details of the arrangement, not to change any key elements of the government's commitment. As such, any correspondence which indicates that funds will not be flowed until a TPA is signed should make clear that the nature of additional details to be negotiated is logistical and administrative in nature (bank account info, reporting requirements, etc.)

The government should not suggest or direct the recipients to use the funding for future periods.

DRAFT

To enhance accountability controls over one-time transfers accountability provisions one through five below are required for one-time transfers.

1. Description of intended use of one-time transfer funds;
   - specific purpose(s) for which the funds are to be used; and,
   - the nature of eligible expenditures relevant to the transfers.

2. Report-back requirement for Public Accountability
   - Periodic reporting on the use of transfer funds, service deliverables, outputs or outcomes achieved.

3. Right to independent verification/audit
   - at the discretion of the Province to verify/audit information submitted by the recipient is complete and accurate, and that funds were used for purposes intended.

4. Right to recover funds (corrective action)
   - If the funds were not used, or will not be used, for the intended purpose(s), specified services were not delivered, or intended outputs were not achieved, the Province has the right at a future date to recover funds transferred.

5. Requirement for information (this item optional)
   - information to be provided by the recipient at a future date with respect to the use of transfer funds, service deliverables, outputs or outcomes achieved.

To qualify for in-year expense treatment, the transfers must satisfy the following:

- be approved by Treasury Board / Management Board of Cabinet and then ratified by Cabinet by March 31st;
- the ministry providing the transfer must have approved appropriations and spending authority by March 31st;
- the recipients must be eligible to receive the grant by March 31st (i.e. eligibility criteria have been met prior to March 31st), and the intent to make the transfer payment must be communicated to the recipients by March 31st;
- In addition, funding details including accountability provisions must be communicated to the recipients, and the transfer payments must be made to the recipients prior to the finalization of the Public Accounts (currently June 30th);
- Where funds are flowed to recipients by March 31st, all eligibility criteria are assumed met for accounting purposes[1], and all amounts flowed are recorded as an expense, even where conditions might exist which remain unmet at March 31st.

[1] PS 3410, Government Transfers, states that "no matter how a transfer term is identified in legislation, regulations, by-laws or a transfer agreement (i.e., as an eligibility criterion or a stipulation), the crucial characteristic that distinguishes the substance of these two types of transfer terms is when they are required to be or are met by a recipient. If a term is required to be and is met before the transfer is provided, it is an eligibility criterion for the purposes of this Section. If a transfer term is met after the transfer is provided, it is a stipulation for the purposes of this Section".

SCHEDULE "C"
PROJECT

For the purposes of this Agreement, the "Project" is the distribution of the Funds in accordance with the Declaration of Trust.

It is intended the Project will be undertaken by the Recipient in furtherance of the Purpose and in accordance with the Declaration of Trust. In this regard, it is expected that the Recipient will undertake the Program having regard to the Budget and the Principles set forth in Annex A.

The following are the Provinces expectations regarding the circumstances in which the Recipient will begin to distribute any Funds to any Beneficiary.

1. The Original Trustee Replacement Date (as defined in the Declaration of Trust) will have occurred.
2. An administrative services agreement will have been entered into between the Recipient and an Administrative Services Agent providing for the administrative services necessary for the Recipient to perform its obligations herein and execute the Project.
3. Administrative procedures will have been developed and implemented under which Electricity Distributors (as defined in the Declaration of Trust) will be invited to assist with (a) the identification and selection of Primary Beneficiaries under the Declaration of Trust, (b) the determination of the amount of Funds to be distributed to particular Primary Beneficiaries, and (c) the distribution of Funds to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiaries (in each case substantially on the basis contemplated in the Permitted Delegations Annex).
4. The Recipient will have obtained commercial general liability insurance from insurers having a secure A.M. Best rating of B+ or greater, or the equivalent, that in the opinion of the Recipient a prudent person similar to the Recipient would maintain, and having an inclusive limit of not less than $2,000,000 per occurrence and providing for contractual liability coverage. If requested, the Recipient will provide the Province (for its information purposes) with copies of the certificates of insurance and policies for such insurance coverage.

The Province recognizes that the foregoing may involve the Recipient entering into agreements as may be the Recipient considers to be necessary or expedient, including any required amendment or amendment and restatement of the Declaration of Trust. Funds may be expended to pay the expenses of the Trustee in completing these matters. The Recipient will confirm to the Province once such matters have been completed.

DRAFT

5.7 Replacement of the Original Trustee

As soon as practicable and in any event on or prior to March 31, 2017, the Original Trustee shall appoint the Persons identified by the Trustee Replacement Annex to comprise the Advisory Committee contemplated therein (once constituted, the "Advisory Committee"). As soon as practicable thereafter, the Original Trustee shall request that the Advisory Committee make recommendations with respect to the composition of the "Board of Trustees", as contemplated by the Trustee Replacement Annex. The Trustee shall have no duty or obligation to investigate the basis for any of the Advisory Committee's recommendations and may rely on such recommendations without any duty of enquiry, supervision or oversight with respect to the activities and decision-making processes adopted by the Advisory Committee in its discretion, in full satisfaction of the Original Trustee's Standard of Care with respect to such matters hereunder. Except if the Original Trustee determines that the individuals recommended by the Advisory Committee to become members of such Board of Trustees are disqualified from so acting on the basis of manifest non-compliance with the "Selection Factors" set forth in the Trustee Replacement Annex, the Original Trustee shall appoint, as members of the Board of Trustees, the [six] (five voting and one non-voting) individuals recommended for appointment to the Board of Trustees by the Advisory Committee. Upon the appointment of such [six] individuals pursuant to this provision and their agreement to act as members of the Board of Trustees, the Original Trustee shall be deemed to have resigned and shall cease to be a trustee (such resignation occurring on the "Original Trustee Replacement Date").

Stephen/Michel,

Attached is an updated DRAFT control analysis reflecting current information based on the updated draft TPA and Declaration (5:30 pm version) attached.

Your review of the analysis in Appendix 1 would be valuable as follows:

Stephen – please advise of any factual inaccuracies in the extracts listed

Michel – please advise of any additional elements that should be reflected, comments inserted and conclusions for each of the control criteria w.r.t. control (yes or no).

MOE is expecting the updated control analysis as soon as possible. Your feedback by tomorrow at noon would be most appreciated, if possible.

Thanks in advance.

BLAKES COMMENTS ADDED IN COMMENT BUBBLES (3/21/2017)

Draft Control Assessment of Affordability Fund Trust (Rev. Mar 20, 2017) for Inclusion in the Government's Reporting Entity

ISSUE

Would the Ministry of Energy's proposed Affordability Fund Trust be assessed as controlled under Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) standard on the Government Reporting Entity (PS 1300) and therefore be included in the Province's consolidated financial statements?

RECOMMENDATION

Conclusion outstanding pending confirmation of accuracy of extracts/references in Appendix 1.

Elements of the Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement have been assessed by OPCD as aligned with both OPCD's One-Time Guidance on Transfers as well as OPCD's Trust Guidance document, both of which are attached as Appendices to this analysis. Both of these documents have been reviewed and concurred to with the Office of the Auditor General in the past and have been important references in ensuring that the public interest will continue to be served through the establishment and administration of the Affordability Fund Trust.

BACKGROUND

The Ministry of Energy plans to transfer $100M to a Trust in relation to a new Affordability Fund for the purpose of providing energy efficiency measures to electricity customers who do not qualify for existing low income conservation programs (e.g. the existing Home Assistance Program (HAP), delivered by LDCs under the Conservation First Framework) and who have difficulty paying their electricity bills.

The Affordability Fund would be available to LDCs who would identify eligible customers in accordance with criteria established by the Trustees and could include customers in frequent arrears or facing disconnection. Priority would be given to homes primarily heated by electricity.

In order to establish the Fund, the Ministry of Energy plans to enter in a Trust Declaration and a Transfer Payment Agreement (TPA) with a non-controlled Trustee (Computershare) which will shortly thereafter be replaced by an independent Board of Trustees based on the advice of an independent Advisory Committee. The Ministry of Energy anticipates entering into the Trust Declaration and TPA with Computershare and flowing the approved funding prior to March 31st.

The Board is expected to be comprised of:

- [six] residents of Ontario who have expressed that they are willing to act as members of the Board of Trustees and who, individually and collectively, satisfy the following criteria (collectively, the "Selection Factors"):
  a) each member demonstrates an understanding of the electricity sector including the electricity distribution sector;
  b) each member demonstrates an expertise in conservation and low income programs;
  c) three of the identified individuals will be representatives from separate electricity distributors [not under the control of the Government of Ontario], two individuals will be representatives from separate social services agencies [not under the control of the Government of Ontario] and one individual member, who will be anon-voting member, will be an employee or representative of the Government of Ontario; and

d) it is expected that representation by the Government of Ontario will be non-controlling. The Board of Trustees, once selected is expected to include 6 persons (five voting and one non-voting) of individuals from among those individuals who have been recommended for appointment to the Board of Trustees by the Advisory Committee.

The Trustees will have the discretion to hire Hydro One or other entities as service providers to assist with administering the Fund, using Administrative Services Agreements to clearly document services and expectations. The Trust would distribute funds to LDCs across the province (including Hydro One) at the discretion of the Trustees.

The draft TPA includes terms which allow for unfettered control by the Trust to operate in the best interest of the beneficiaries, including making decisions on the administration and distribution of funds to LDCs across the province. The Trustees are expected to conduct themselves in good faith and give regard to guiding principles established by the Province in exercising their duties under the Trust Declaration and TPA in distributing funds to LDCs for the benefit of beneficiaries across the province, including Hydro One.

The Trust Declaration will be subject to further modification based on agreement by both parties, but not unilaterally by either party. The input and involvement of LDCs across the province is anticipated and integral to the success of the Trust in meeting its purpose. The non-compulsory Principles of the Fund will be clearly articulated in the Trust Declaration and the TPA. Language in the documents will clearly reflect that the principles are not mandatory requirements.

In addition, a Permitted Delegation Annex will be included which refers to expectation between the parties that the Trust would plan to rely on LDCs to assist with achieving its purpose, while maintaining unfettered discretion and power to (a) appoint, employ or retain Administrative Services Agents for the purpose of discharging its duties and obligations under the Declaration; and (b) enter into, perform, enforce and amend Administrative Services Agreements.

Without limiting the Trustee's discretion to negotiate and settle the terms and conditions of the above-mentioned Administrative Services Agreements, the Permitted Delegation Annex also outlines certain terms and conditions that the Trustees might consider for inclusion in the services agreements, recognizing that the ultimate agreements would be subject to the acceptance and agreement of the applicable Electricity Distributor counterparty. While the Annex appears quite specific in nature, it is non-mandatory and intended as guidance only which may be helpful as the Trust seeks to commence discussions with LDCs in the spirit of serving the interests of the primary beneficiaries. As noted, the Trustees are not bound to use the guidance.

Commented [NP1]: But there is a suggestion that they would as referenced in the audit clause which states that the scope of the audit would include review/validation of processes and control related to LDCs.

There is also a requirement under the Declaration that any changes would only be possible if they are in agreement with the Principles.

CONTROL ANALYSIS

In accordance with PSAB, "the Government Reporting Entity should comprise the organizations that are controlled by the government" (PS 1300.07). PSAB defines control as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organizations activities" (PS 1300.08). Benefits may be financial or non-financial, for example, the government may require the organization to cooperate in pursuing the government's public policy objectives.

DRAFT

PSAB's "indicators of control" are the relevant guidance in determining the degree of control for inclusion of the Affordability Fund Trust in the Government Reporting Entity (GRE). In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between a government and an organization in addition to its legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. In addition to PS 1300, consideration is also given the Trust Guidance and One-Time Transfer Guidance developed by OPCD in conjunction with the Office of the Auditor General which are attached as Appendices.

There are a total of 11 PSAB prescribed control indicators that provide evidence of control: 4 persuasive indicators of control and 7 other control indicators. It is the preponderance of evidence that would be considered in assessing whether a government controls an organization.

The following governing documents were reviewed in support of the analysis of the Province's control over the Affordability Fund Trust:

1) Draft Trust Declaration (March 20 5:30 pm), including related schedules (Principles Annex, Delegations Annex)
2) Draft Transfer Payment Agreement (March 20 5:30 pm)
3) OPCD Trust Guidance
4) OPCD Guidance on One-Time Transfers

Appendix I shows the detailed analysis of the PSAB indicators of control. Based on this assessment and the preponderance of evidence, informed by a review of the wording in the draft Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement, there are a number of features of the proposed arrangements which may be pertinent in assessing whether, an overall basis, the Affordability Fund Trust might be controlled by the Province as at March 31, 2017.

APPENDIX I

Affordability Fund Trust Indicators of Control Analysis
DRAFT

INDICATORS OF CONTROL	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXISTS?
Primary (i.e., more persuasive) indicators (CICA PS 1300.18):
1. Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	• Original Trustee (Computershare) is the governing body of the Trust until the Replacement Board of Trustees is selected. The Declaration describes the process expected to be used to establish the Replacement Board. The government will not control the Original Trustee, the Advisory Committee, or the appointment of the Replacement Board of Trustees.	X
2. Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	• The government will not have an on-going access to assets transferred to the Trust, and any future access will only be through protective clauses (termination/default for material breach). At the Final Distribution Date, any excess funds will be distributed to a non-controlled Residual Beneficiary in accordance with clause 3.3 of the Trust Declaration. • The government will not have any exposure to losses of the Trust. In addition, section 1.1 (interpretations) of the TPA includes the following: it is intended that the transfer of the Funds to the Recipient will be a transfer made to a "non-controlled trust" (as that term is given meaning in - applicable to the accounting rules and principles applicable to the Province as of the date of the Agreement), and so if a term or condition of the Agreement is determined to conflict with the requirements applicable to the Province recording the transfers to the Recipient of Funds contemplated hereunder as an expense incurred by the Province on the date of the transfer of Funds under the Agreement otherwise in connection with activities undertaken by the Province with such a "non-controlled trust", then such term or condition shall be given a meaning and shall have an effect insofar as it is possible to interpret such term or condition in a manner that eliminates such conflict while preserving the other provisions of the Agreement and furthering the Purpose.	X
3. Provide significant input into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	In accordance with the Trust Declaration and the TPA, the government will not control the Original Trustee, and will not have a controlling interest in either the Advisory Committee nor the Replacement Trustee Board. The process Replacement of the Original Trustee is described in section 5.7 of the Trust Declaration which describes a logical process to select subsequent trustees but which does not result in a Trust that will be controlled by the government (as above). Although the Ministry of Energy provided input to the selection of the Advisory Committee with will help the Trustee to select the Replacement Trustees by nominating candidates based on the selection criteria, the Advisory Committee is not the governing body. As at March 31st, the Original Trustee is the governing body and although selection thereof may have been influenced by the government, the Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement have been drafted to reflect a non-controlling relationship. PSAS also includes the following guidance w.r.t. government involvement in appointing governing bodies: 20 For each indicator that applies in a particular circumstance, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. In weighing the evidence, it would be necessary to consider the indicators collectively as well as individually. For example, where an organization is governed by a publicly elected board, this is not necessarily, in and of itself, sufficient evidence to conclude that the government does not control the organization. Similarly, where a government appoints a majority of the members of the governing body of an organization, this is not necessarily, in and of itself, sufficient evidence that the government controls the organization In addition, section 1.1 (interpretations) of the TPA includes the following: it is intended that the transfer of the Funds to the Recipient will be a transfer made to a “non-controlled trust” (as that term is given meaning in • applicable to the accounting rules and principles applicable to the Province as of the date of the Agreement), and so if a term or condition of the Agreement is determined to conflict with the requirements applicable to the Province recording the transfers to the Recipient of Funds contemplated hereunder as an expense incurred by the Province on the date of the transfer of Funds under the Agreement otherwise in connection with activities undertaken by the Province with such a “non-controlled trust”, then such term or condition shall be given a meaning and shall have an effect insofar as it is possible to interpret such term or condition in a manner that eliminates such conflict while preserving the other provisions of the Agreement and furthering the Purpose. Appendix II

ACCOUNTING CONSIDERATIONS FOR GOVERNMENT-FUNDED TRUSTS

Purpose:

The purpose of this guidance is to explore accounting-related considerations related to government-funded trusts which are established by the government to fund a specific purpose or activity. This guidance deals specifically with the difference between controlled and non-controlled trusts, the introduction of accountability provisions which can now be reflected in trust agreements, and key timing considerations for trusts contemplated towards year-end. It is important that these factors be taken into account when establishing a trust, in order to achieve the intended fiscal impact and appropriate accountability over the use of public funds.

Introduction:

Trusts are usually established by way of trust declaration or trust agreement, and are one of several means by which the government can direct funding to support key policy initiatives. Simply stated, trustees hold title to property for the benefit of, and stand in a fiduciary relationship to the beneficiaries. Trustees are accountable to third parties (beneficiaries) for the use and disposition of trust assets and for the funds derived from those trust activities. The trust itself is not a separate legal entity. The trustees carry out the activities of the trust in the name of the trustees.

Generally, direct year-end transfers are the preferred alternative over trusts where the province wants to retain ultimate decision-making authority regarding amounts to be transferred to recipients. Direct transfers are more appropriate where the identity of eligible transfer payment recipients is known and the amounts to be transferred to each recipient can be or has been determined.

Year-end transfers to a trust might be considered where the province desires to delegate to third parties ultimate decision-making authority regarding allocation of amounts amongst eligible beneficiaries.

A trust must be valid for legal purposes in order to be recognized for accounting purposes. Key requirements for a trust to be valid include: an intention to create a trust ('certainty of intention'), certainty of subject-matter of the trust ("certainty of subject matter") and the objects of the trust must be certain ('certainty of objects"). There are generally two different types of trust, a trust in which the objects are the "beneficiaries" and trust in which the objects are a "purpose" (e.g. for charitable purposes). Where a trust is under serious consideration, it is imperative that ministries seek legal advice to ensure that the contemplated trust will be valid.

Trustees are obligated to follow the terms of the trust declaration or trust agreement which will usually detail the powers and duties of the trustees including the number of trustees and how decisions will be made by the trustees.

From an accounting perspective, it is important to distinguish whether the design and governance of a particular trust results in the trust being controlled by the Province for accounting purposes. Control stems from the nature of the relationship between the government and the trust. Financial and operating policies are principles that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control.

The means by which a trust is established, the government's representation among the trustees, the government's involvement in the trust's governance processes and ability to impact trustee discretion in decision-making are but some of the factors to be considered in assessing whether a trust is 'controlled' or 'not controlled' by the government.

DRAFT

In establishing a trust, it is important to achieve the intended relationship between the province and the trust in order to achieve the intended fiscal impact.

Non-Controlled Trusts:

Where trusts are not controlled by the Province, they are excluded from the government reporting entity. For non-controlled trusts, the following accounting would apply to trust funding:

- Where funds provided to the "trust" are unconditional, the Province would record a transfer payment expense for any transfers approved in the current period (and flowed by finalization of public accounts).

- Where funds provided to the "trust" are conditional (i.e. upon the trust completing some specific task or result), the Province would initially record funding to the trust as a prepaid expense until the conditions are met at which time the Province would record a transfer payment expense, with the corresponding credit to prepaid expense. This may occur over a number of fiscal years.

In determining whether a trust is controlled, there are a variety of ways that a government might be perceived to be governing the financial and operating policies of a trust. These include:
- Eliminating or significantly limiting the ability of the trustees to make future decisions
- Directing the financial and operating policies of the trust
- Overruling, modifying or vetoing the financial and operating policies established by the trust.

Specific factors that should be considered in establishing a non-controlled trust include:
- Government representation in the trustees (should be in a minority position), and non-government trustees should be nominated by non-government sources
- Government influence over day-to-day trust governance and trustee discretion to make decisions (e.g. selection of eligibility criteria, selection of recipients).
- degree of influence over how funds are disbursed (i.e. the Declaration of Trust can provide general guidelines but not be overly prescriptive)
- the government's power to unilaterally appoint or remove the majority of trustees
- the government's on-going access to the trust's assets, or right to direct decisions regarding the flow of those assets to specific beneficiaries
- the government's unilateral power to dissolve the trust, except under specified circumstances as stipulated by the trust agreement (i.e. corrective action)
- the government's ability to establish or amend the policies used by the trust to manage accounting, personnel, deployment of resources, etc.

In some cases, it may be advantageous for ministries to provide administrative support to trusts. In these cases it is important that the extent of such support is not so pervasive as to influence or direct the day-to-day financial or operating policies of the trust, otherwise the trust will be deemed controlled and will be subject to consolidation in the government reporting entity.

Controlled Trusts:

If the Province controls the trust (for example, through its power to appoint a majority of the trustees on the board of trustees), the Province would be deemed to have control of the trust, resulting in the trust being accounted for in the same manner as other organizations controlled by the province (i.e. on a consolidated basis). As a result, the Province's contribution to the trust would not be expensed when it is transferred, but rather over time as the funds are disbursed to trust beneficiaries.

DRAFT

Accountability Related Considerations:

The Auditor General has confirmed that the new accountability provisions developed for one-time transfers can also be applied to trusts without impacting the expense treatment of any transfers to non-controlled trusts.

These new accountability provisions will enable the government and the Legislature to:

- obtain assurance that a trust is spending public funds prudently and for the purposes intended and to take corrective action if it is not;
- ensure ministerial accountability to the Legislative Assembly for the trust's activities; and
- ensure that the province is able to take corrective action where warranted and as stipulated under terms of the trust agreement.

It should also be noted that the Auditor General's Act now allows the Province's Legislative Auditor to conduct special audits of any person or organization receiving transfers from the government, including trusts.

To enhance accountability controls over government transfers to non-controlled trusts, Ministries can consider incorporating some or all of the following accountability provisions as part of their trust agreement/declaration without impacting the accounting treatment of the trust.

The inclusion of any of these provisions should not result in a trust being assessed as 'controlled'. Note that the key determinant in identifying appropriate provisions for any individual trust is a ministry's assessment of the risk associated with a particular trust, as per the Transfer Payment Directive.

1. Description of intended use of trust funds;
    - specific purpose(s) for which the funds are to be used;
    - description of intended recipients and related eligibility criteria*; and,
    - the nature of eligible expenditures relevant to the transfers.

    *Note: avoid overly prescriptive eligibility criteria which would effectively eliminate or significantly limit the trustees' discretion to make funding decisions.

2. Requirement for information
    - Information to be provided by the trust at a future date (e.g. requirement for trustees to advise the government of trustee-developed performance criteria, and provide annual assessments against those criteria)

3. Report-back requirement for Public Accountability
    - information to be provided by the trust at a future date with respect to the stewardship and payment of transfer funds (e.g. audited financial statements, audited list of recipients and amounts funded).

4. Right to independent verification/audit
    - The Province reserves the right to audit any transfer payment recipients. The trust agreement should make reference to this fact.

5. Right to take corrective action
    - Where stipulated under the trust agreement, the Province reserves the right to re-direct unused funds where results of a trust assessment (where required by the trust agreement) indicate original purpose of the trust is not being achieved, or if there remain unused funds at the end of the trust term.
    - Province may also reserve the right to extend the term of the trust agreement, where funds remain at the end of the trust period.

To qualify for in-year expense treatment, the non-controlled trusts must satisfy the following:

DRAFT

- the decision to establish the trust must have been approved by Treasury Board/Management Board of Cabinet and ratified by Cabinet by March 31st;
- the ministry providing the transfer must have approved appropriations and spending authority by March 31st;
- Trustees must have been identified and signed the trust declaration or agreement to establish a valid trust by March 31st ;
- the trust must be set up and ready to receive funds, and a nominal amount transferred to the trust by March 31s;t ; and,
- the government should have communicated publicly (e.g. in the Budget document) the pending or final establishment of the trust.

In addition, all remaining funds beyond those initially transferred at March 31st should be transferred to the trust by June 30th.

Trusts
Questions and Answers on Trust Guidance

Question: Where a trust is announced in the Budget document, must the trust be established by March 31st, or could such a trust be established shortly thereafter without impacting the expensing of transfers to the trust in 2007-08?

Answer: A trust would have to be established prior to the end of a fiscal period in order to satisfy the recognition criteria for government transfers. If the intended recipient for a government transfer does not exist at March 31st, the province cannot record a payable owing to it under existing accounting standards.

Question*: Does the transfer of funds to a non-controlled trust need to occur by March 31st or before the date of Public Accounts finalization?*

Answer: Consistent with the new requirements for one-time transfers, as long as the trust is established by March 31st, the transfer is authorized and a reasonable estimate of the amount can be made, cash payments can be made after year-end.

Question: Can beneficiaries of a non-controlled trust include consolidated entities provided that the ultimate selection of recipients is at the discretion of the Trustees?

Answer: Any amounts provided to a trust which are in turn be provided to an organization inside the government reporting entity should not be expensed at the time of the transfer to the trust. Any amount that is flowed to a trust with the intention of subsequently flowing the funds to a consolidated entity should not be recorded as an expense to the government.

Question: Can a Ministry provide administrative support to a trust without compromising the non-controlled status of the trust?

Answer: The government can provide administrative support as long as the extent of government administrative support is not so pervasive so that the government is in substance establishing and managing the trust's policies in the areas of accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources. Where such administrative support is assessed as pervasive, it could impair the trust's non-controlled trust and the trust will be consolidated onto the province's financial statements.

Can the following clauses appear in a trust agreement for a non-controlled trust to ensure adequate accountability over public funds without impacting the expense treatment of such trusts?

Question*: Specific description of purpose of the trust (possibly including nominal allocation among various objectives)*
Answer: Yes.

Question: Can the trust agreement include a specific description of the intended groups of beneficiaries and detailed eligibility criteria.

Answer: Specificity should be applied cautiously, so as not to limit the discretion of the trustees in their subsequent grant making processes. For the trust to be considered 'not controlled' it should not be seen as 'establishing the trust's fundamental purpose and eliminating or significantly limiting the ability of the trust to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the trust.

DRAFT

Question: Can trustees stipulate that funding is to be provided to beneficiaries on a cost-sharing basis?
Answer: Yes.

Question: Can the trust agreement include a requirement for a trust to report back to the province on trustee-established performance criteria and results, audit of financial statements, audited recipients and amounts, confirmation that trustees communicated to beneficiaries the intended purpose of the funding, etc.
Answer: Yes.

Question*: Requirement for Trust to publicly post communications on existence, availability of funds, eligibility criteria, recipients and amounts granted to each recipient.*
Answer: Yes

Question: Inclusion of a 'suggested' drawdown schedule over a period of years, with discretion left to Trustees as to actual results.
Answer: The inclusion of a drawdown schedule is not suggested for one-time, up-front transfers.

Question: Trust agreement can suggest accountability provisions which might be attached by Trustees to beneficiary payments (e.g. specific purpose of funding, requirement for report-back, right to audit, corrective actions).
Answer: Yes

Question: Trust agreement to reserve the province's right to re-direct any unspent funds to specified parties (e.g. non-consolidated entities or another non-controlled trust) at the end of the trust term, or alternatively to extend the term of the trust where unspent funds remain.
Answer: Yes

Question*: Can the trust agreement include the requirement for evaluations of the trust at certain times (e.g. years 3, 7, 10 of the trust agreement), with the right for the government to decide either to terminate the trust (corrective action) based on the results of the assessment, or extend the trust beyond the initial term as per the agreement.*
Answer: Yes.

Question: Trust agreement can require Trustees to request as part of the funding process that beneficiaries acknowledge receipt of government funding in their public communications on specific projects.
Answer: Yes.

Appendix III

ACCOUNTING TREATMENT FOR ONE-TIME TRANSFERS WITH ENHANCED ACCOUNTABILITY PROVISIONS

Purpose:

The purpose of this guidance is to identify the nature of the accountability provisions which may be associated with one-time transfer payments that qualify for immediate expense treatment in the current period.

Definition of One-time transfers:

One-time transfers are defined as lump-sum operating or capital transfers that

- are not advancing currently planned future transfer payments under an existing on-going program, or
- are not identified as being intended to be spent in specified future periods or over a specified period of time.

Background:

Transfer payments are a means by which the government works with third parties to deliver public services. Transfer payment recipients must be held responsible by the government to deliver the provincially-funded services and be accountable for the funds they receive. Consistent with the Transfer Payment Accountability Directive, August, 2007, a risk-based approach is to be followed in designing the appropriate accountability and reporting mechanisms for specific funding agreements.

The current PSAB Handbook Section 3410, Government Transfers requires that a government transfer should be recognized by a transferring government as an expense in the period the transfer is authorized and all eligibility criteria have been met by the recipient.

To recognize a liability and expense as at year-end:

- the government must create a valid expectation of the recipient by year-end, leaving the government little or no discretion to avoid but to settle its obligation;
- no significant, contingent actions should be outstanding which if unfulfilled by year end might cause the transfer not to occur.

It is understood that the intention of negotiating a transfer payment agreement following the government's commitment to the recipient is to work out the administrative details of the arrangement, not to change any key elements of the government's commitment. As such, any correspondence which indicates that funds will not be flowed until a TPA is signed should make clear that the nature of additional details to be negotiated is logistical and administrative in nature (bank account info, reporting requirements, etc.)

The government should not suggest or direct the recipients to use the funding for future periods.

DRAFT

To enhance accountability controls over one-time transfers accountability provisions one through five below are required for one-time transfers.

1. Description of intended use of one-time transfer funds;
   - specific purpose(s) for which the funds are to be used; and,
   - the nature of eligible expenditures relevant to the transfers.

2. Report-back requirement for Public Accountability
   - Periodic reporting on the use of transfer funds, service deliverables, outputs or outcomes achieved.

3. Right to independent verification/audit
   - at the discretion of the Province to verify/audit information submitted by the recipient is complete and accurate, and that funds were used for purposes intended.

4. Right to recover funds (corrective action)
   - If the funds were not used, or will not be used, for the intended purpose(s), specified services were not delivered, or intended outputs were not achieved, the Province has the right at a future date to recover funds transferred.

5. Requirement for information (this item optional)
   - information to be provided by the recipient at a future date with respect to the use of transfer funds, service deliverables, outputs or outcomes achieved.

To qualify for in-year expense treatment, the transfers must satisfy the following:

- be approved by Treasury Board / Management Board of Cabinet and then ratified by Cabinet by March 31st;
- the ministry providing the transfer must have approved appropriations and spending authority by March 31st;
- the recipients must be eligible to receive the grant by March 31st (i.e. eligibility criteria have been met prior to March 31st), and the intent to make the transfer payment must be communicated to the recipients by March 31st;
- In addition, funding details including accountability provisions must be communicated to the recipients, and the transfer payments must be made to the recipients prior to the finalization of the Public Accounts (currently June 30th);
- Where funds are flowed to recipients by March 31st, all eligibility criteria are assumed met for accounting purposes[1], and all amounts flowed are recorded as an expense, even where conditions might exist which remain unmet at March 31st.

[1] PS 3410, Government Transfers, states that "no matter how a transfer term is identified in legislation, regulations, by-laws or a transfer agreement (i.e., as an eligibility criterion or a stipulation), the crucial characteristic that distinguishes the substance of these two types of transfer terms is when they are required to be or are met by a recipient. If a term is required to be and is met before the transfer is provided, it is an eligibility criterion for the purposes of this Section. If a transfer term is met after the transfer is provided, it is a stipulation for the purposes of this Section".

SCHEDULE "C"
PROJECT

For the purposes of this Agreement, the "Project" is the distribution of the Funds in accordance with the Declaration of Trust.

It is intended the Project will be undertaken by the Recipient in furtherance of the Purpose and in accordance with the Declaration of Trust. In this regard, it is expected that the Recipient will undertake the Program having regard to the Budget and the Principles set forth in Annex A.

The following are the Provinces expectations regarding the circumstances in which the Recipient will begin to distribute any Funds to any Beneficiary.

1. The Original Trustee Replacement Date (as defined in the Declaration of Trust) will have occurred.
2. An administrative services agreement will have been entered into between the Recipient and an Administrative Services Agent providing for the administrative services necessary for the Recipient to perform its obligations herein and execute the Project.
3. Administrative procedures will have been developed and implemented under which Electricity Distributors (as defined in the Declaration of Trust) will be invited to assist with (a) the identification and selection of Primary Beneficiaries under the Declaration of Trust, (b) the determination of the amount of Funds to be distributed to particular Primary Beneficiaries, and (c) the distribution of Funds to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiaries (in each case substantially on the basis contemplated in the Permitted Delegations Annex).
4. The Recipient will have obtained commercial general liability insurance from insurers having a secure A.M. Best rating of B+ or greater, or the equivalent, that in the opinion of the Recipient a prudent person similar to the Recipient would maintain, and having an inclusive limit of not less than $2,000,000 per occurrence and providing for contractual liability coverage. If requested, the Recipient will provide the Province (for its information purposes) with copies of the certificates of insurance and policies for such insurance coverage.

The Province recognizes that the foregoing may involve the Recipient entering into agreements as may be the Recipient considers to be necessary or expedient, including any required amendment or amendment and restatement of the Declaration of Trust. Funds may be expended to pay the expenses of the Trustee in completing these matters. The Recipient will confirm to the Province once such matters have been completed.

DRAFT

5.7 Replacement of the Original Trustee

As soon as practicable and in any event on or prior to March 31, 2017, the Original Trustee shall appoint the Persons identified by the Trustee Replacement Annex to comprise the Advisory Committee contemplated therein (once constituted, the "Advisory Committee"). As soon as practicable thereafter, the Original Trustee shall request that the Advisory Committee make recommendations with respect to the composition of the "Board of Trustees", as contemplated by the Trustee Replacement Annex. The Trustee shall have no duty or obligation to investigate the basis for any of the Advisory Committee's recommendations and may rely on such recommendations without any duty of enquiry, supervision or oversight with respect to the activities and decision-making processes adopted by the Advisory Committee in its discretion, in full satisfaction of the Original Trustee's Standard of Care with respect to such matters hereunder. Except if the Original Trustee determines that the individuals recommended by the Advisory Committee to become members of such Board of Trustees are disqualified from so acting on the basis of manifest non-compliance with the "Selection Factors" set forth in the Trustee Replacement Annex, the Original Trustee shall appoint, as members of the Board of Trustees, the [six] (five voting and one non-voting) individuals recommended for appointment to the Board of Trustees by the Advisory Committee. Upon the appointment of such [six] individuals pursuant to this provision and their agreement to act as members of the Board of Trustees, the Original Trustee shall be deemed to have resigned and shall cease to be a trustee (such resignation occurring on the "Original Trustee Replacement Date").

Cindy & Nadine,

Attached is the latest draft from late yesterday based on Monday's call; Suzie and I have not had a chance to review but wanted it in your hands as a just in case when Lee Anne talks through what she's done and the areas she's still thinking about and/or is looking for your thoughts – she'll cover that on this morning's call.

Both Suzie and Lee Anne will be joining too but from calling from cars.

Talk soon.

Introduction

Ontario's consolidated financial reports are prepared in accordance with the accounting principles for governments recommended by the Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) of the Chartered Professional Accountants of Canada (CPA Canada). In order to meet the needs of users, including the legislature and the public, for accountability in government reporting and decision making, it is essential that public sector financial statements reflect the economic substance of the government's activities.

In March 2017, the Government of Ontario (the Province) announced its Fair Hydro Plan (FHP). In assessing the appropriate accounting treatment for the Global Adjustment refinancing (GA Refinancing) component of the FHP on Ontario's consolidated financial statements, the Office of the Provincial Controller considered the authoritative guidance issued by PSAB, as well as the accounting assessments of the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) and Ontario Power Generation (OPG) management, including the accounting opinions of their external accounting advisors. Given the complexity of the GA Refinancing structure, the exercise of professional judgement is necessary to ensure that key financial reporting objectives of transparency and accountability are best served. This accounting analysis considers currently available information, including efforts underway by the International Accounting Standards Board as related to rate regulated accounting. It also draws upon publicly available information including previous studies and bases for conclusions dealing with rate-regulated accounting, both in the public sector and the private sector.

Background

The FHP will reduce electricity bills for Regulated Price Plan (RPP) customers (as well as those non-RPP consumers who receive the 8% rebate as specified in the Ontario Rebate for Electricity Act, 2016) by approximately 25% for a period of one year, starting in the summer of 2017, and limit the increase in electricity bills to the rate of inflation over the following four years.

Because distribution rates vary across the province and customers use different amounts of electricity, the goal in calculating the new RPP electricity prices is to achieve a 25% reduction for a "proxy" customer, which is established under the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 (FHP Act) as a residential customer of Toronto Hydro who uses 750 kWh of electricity a month, pays time-of-use RPP electricity prices and has the time-of-use consumption profile of a typical residential customer.

The measures that make up the 25% average reduction include:

1. Spreading the cost of Ontario's clean energy investments over the expected lifecycle of the generation infrastructure assets. This is expected to account for ~~15~~18-~~17~~19% of the overall reduction.
2. Shifting the cost of the Ontario Electricity Support Program (OESP) and Rural or Remote Rate Protection (RRRP) program from ratepayers to taxpayer-funded programs.
3. An 8% rebate equal to the provincial portion of the HST, which took effect on January 1, 2017.

Under the first measure, the Province will borrow funds to pay a portion of current electricity costs, thereby temporarily reducing the amount paid by eligible ratepayers. The deferred amounts, including interest and other costs, will be recoverable from ratepayers through future rates over an estimated 18-year period starting in approximately 2028. In other words, the impact of #1 above is fully borne by the ratepayers – it is a shift in the timing of payment for the clean energy investments, while the impacts of #2 and #3 are reducing the cost to the ratepayer, but at the cost of the taxpayer.

Objective

The objective of this memo is to assess the impact of the first measure of the FHP (i.e. deferred recovery of clean energy costs) on the consolidated financial statements of the Province. [NTD – Consider if document should discuss #2 and #3. This would contrast the different treatment by the Province]

Background

The Ontario Energy Board (OEB) has been established by the Province to be Ontario's independent energy regulator.

In accordance with Section 78(3.1) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 (the OEB Act), the OEB is responsible for determining electricity commodity prices for RPP consumers. Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act requires the OEB to forecast the cost of electricity used by RPP consumers and ensure the prices they are charged reflect that cost. The rate setting process is highly complex and involves numerous forecasts and estimates. As a result, the OEB regulatory framework allows for variances between the actual cost of supplying electricity and the amount collected from RPP consumers.

In setting the rates for RPP consumers, Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act requires the OEB to settle any such variances through rates over a 12-month period. This is achieved through a price adjustment charged or credited to RPP consumers. This adjustment forms part of the Global Adjustment paid by consumers.

The IESO is the administrator of Ontario's wholesale electricity market. The IESO settles the market with all participants, as an agent.

As part of its role as market administrator, the IESO calculates the market price for electricity (the Market Clearing Price, or MCP) by running the bids and offers of the market participants through an algorithm. The actual cost of supplying electricity, however, is greater than the MCP as certain generators are paid additional amounts relating to the cost of clean energy initiatives they have undertaken. From a government policy perspective, decisions as to what is in the best interest of the public regarding electricity generation in Ontario are not based solely on economics, they are also influenced by environmental, social and political factors. Accordingly, generators receive compensation for investing in clean energy infrastructure when it is relatively less economical. In these instances, the IESO (and previously the XXX) entered into contracts to pay the generators the excess costs (plus a reasonable rate of return thereon) over an extended period of time, typically 20 years. The amounts paid to the generators under the terms of these contracts are currently included in the rates set by the OEB (as part of the Global Adjustment) with the intention they will be recovered from consumers in the same period they are paid to the generators. As previously noted, the complexity of the rate setting process results in variances between the amount paid to the generators and the amount collected from RPP consumers.

Under existing legislation, the IESO is required to fund any cash shortfall relating to differences arising between the actual cost of supplying electricity and the amount collected from RPP consumers. In accordance with Section 25.33(5) of the Electricity Act, 1998 (the Electricity Act), the IESO has established and maintains a variance account to track these temporary differences (the original variance account) for subsequent settlement with ratepayers. Cash shortfalls in the IESO arising from the original variance account are funded through financing provided by the OFA.

As described below, once the FHP is implemented, the cost of supplying electricity to RPP consumers that is paid to generators will no longer be fully collected over a 12-month period~~, but over a longer period defined by legislation~~.

Under the FHP, while generators would continue to be paid over a twenty year period as contracted, the amounts paid by the IESO to the generators would be recovered from ratepayers over a thirty year period. Deferring the recovery of these costs from the consumers on a longer-term basis would create a significant interim cash shortfall for the IESO.

Section 24(1) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act (the FHP Act) requires the IESO to establish and maintain a variance account (separate from the original variance account described above) to track the cash shortfall specifically resulting from the implementation of the FHP (the FHP variance account). Due to the longer recovery period, and additional recoverable financing and management fee costs, the balance in the account is forecast to increase significantly. The balance in this variance account is defined in Section 1(1) of the FHP Act to be a regulatory asset[1]. The IESO is entitled under Section 25 of the FHP Act to recover the regulatory asset from RPP consumers in the future, which will be achieved through the OEB setting rates to allow for such recovery. Section 26 of the FHP Act also permits the IESO to transfer or sell the regulatory asset to a financing entity to fund its cash shortfall, thus commoditizing the future cash flow stream.

The Province has requested that OPG administer the deferral of the Global Adjustment under the FHP because of OPG's participation in the market, the regulatory knowledge OPG possesses and the ~~potential~~ expected ability to consolidate the accounting of the related activity ~~and accounting with~~ in the financial statements of OPG. To fulfill this role, OPG intends to establish a financing entity (OPG Trust) to purchase the IESO's regulatory asset on a monthly basis and eliminate any cash shortfall in the IESO. Through this arrangement, OPG Trust will finance these purchases through a combination of provincial borrowing (flowed through OPG as an equity investment), amounts advanced from OPG and direct borrowing from capital markets.

Basis of Accounting

In accordance with PSAS 1300.07, the government reporting entity (GRE) for the Province comprises government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government.

As defined in the Introduction to PSAS, the following types of organizations are controlled by the government: (a) government business enterprises (GBE), government non-for profit organizations (GNPO), and other government organizations (OGO).

[1] To avoid confusion in the remainder of this document, the term regulatory asset will refer to the defined term in the FHP Act and the term regulated asset or rate-regulated asset (RRA) will refer to an asset recognized for accounting purposes.

GNPOs and OGOs are considered government units and, in accordance with PSAS 1300.27, are consolidated in the GRE on a line-by-line basis. For consolidation purposes, the financial information of government units is required to be prepared in accordance with PSAS.

GBEs, on the other hand, are accounted for in the GRE using the modified equity method as prescribed by PSAS 1300.35. Under the modified equity method, which is described in detail in PSAS 3070, INVESTMENTS IN GOVERNMENT BUSINESS ENTERPRISES, the equity method of accounting is modified only to the extent that the GBE's accounting principles (which are required to be IFRS in accordance with paragraph 17 of the Introduction to PSAS) are not adjusted to conform to those of the government.

As documented in Schedule 8 to the consolidated financial statements of the Province, the IESO is an OGO and OPG is a GBE. The current accounting for these entities is as follows:

		ENTITY STATEMENTS	GRE STATEMENTS
ENTITY	CLASSIFICATION	GAAP	ACCOUNTING METHOD	GAAP
IESO	OGO	PSAS[1]	Consolidation	PSAS
OPG	GBE	US GAAP[2]	Modified equity method	IFRS[3]

1. For purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, an OGO applies PSAS unless those standards do not meet the needs of its financial statement users. In that situation, IFRS should be considered and the most appropriate set of standards applied.
2. Although a GBE is required to apply IFRS for purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, the Ontario Securities Commission has approved an exemption that allows OPG to apply US GAAP up to January 1, 2019 for purposes of filing its financial statements with the OSC.
3. OPG applies IFRS 14, which permits it to continue to account for rate-regulated activities using US GAAP guidance for its general purpose financial statements.

This memo does not reconsider the classification of these existing entities.

As discussed in detail in a subsequent section, OPG expects that it will control OPG Trust. If this is the case, OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG and, therefore, reflected in the GRE through the modified equity accounting of OPG under IFRS. If, however, it is determined that OPG Trust is controlled by the Province, OPG Trust will either (a) be consolidated in the GRE on a line-by-line basis under PSAS if determined to be an OGO, or (b) reflected in the GRE through modified equity accounting under IFRS if determined to be a GBE.

Example

For simplicity, the following example will be used in this document to illustrate the accounting impact of the FHP on the various entities involved:

- Ratepayer bill is currently $588, and the 17% reduction related to the FHP is $100.
- The Province directly borrows 44%, or $44, to make an equity contribution to OPG, which OPG then loans to OPG Trust.
- OPG directly borrows 5%, or $5, and loans it to OPG Trust.
- OPG Trust directly borrows 51%, or $51, from capital markets.

Analysis

IESO

The IESO is presently classified as an OGO and prepares its standalone, general purpose financial statements in accordance with PSAS, which is consistent with the basis of presentation required for purposes of consolidating the IESO into the GRE. ~~Under PSAS, the IESO would also have the option of reporting based on IFRS. If the IESO were classified as a GBE, it would also report based on IFRS. Since the IESO has rate regulated balances, it would likely report using IFRS14, consistent with the IFRS related information provided by both Hydro One and OPG which are rate regulated.~~

Current State

Effective January 1, 2016, the IESO adopted on a retrospective basis a new accounting policy that requires its market-settlement activities[2] to be reflected in the financial statements. Under the new policy, the assets and liabilities recognized on the IESO's statement of financial position relating to the IESO-administered markets include cash, amounts due from market participants, interest receivable, revolving line of credit, HST receivable, amounts due to market participants and other liabilities. The IESO's statement of operations and accumulated surplus ~~financial statements~~ does not include the revenue and expenses of the financial transactions of market participants within the IESO-administered markets. This indicates IESO management has taken the position that the IESO is an agent, not a principal, in the IESO-administered markets and, accordingly, records revenue on a net basis.

PSAS doesn't provide any specific guidance as to how it should be determined whether an entity is acting as a principal or an agent in the context of revenue recognition, but both IFRS and US GAAP do. The relevant guidance in IFRS is as follows:

IAS 18.8

Revenue includes only the gross inflows of economic benefits received and receivable by the entity on its own account. Amounts collected on behalf of third parties such as sales taxes, goods and services taxes and value added taxes are not economic benefits which flow to the entity and do not result in increases in equity. Therefore, they are excluded from revenue. Similarly, in an agency relationship, the gross inflows of economic benefits include amounts collected on behalf of the principal and which do not result in increases in equity for the entity. The amounts collected on behalf of the principal are not revenue. Instead, revenue is the amount of commission.

Determining whether an entity is acting as a principal or as an agent (2009 amendment).

Paragraph 8 states that 'in an agency relationship, the gross inflows of economic benefits include amounts collected on behalf of the principal and which do not result in increases in equity for the entity. The amounts collected on behalf of the principal are not revenue. Instead, revenue is the amount of commission.' Determining whether an entity is acting as a principal or as an agent requires judgement and consideration of all relevant facts and circumstances.

An entity is acting as a principal when it has exposure to the significant risks and rewards associated with the sale of goods or the rendering of services. Features that indicate that an entity is acting as a principal include:

a) the entity has the primary responsibility for providing the goods or services to the customer or for fulfilling the order, for example by being responsible for the acceptability of the products or services ordered or purchased by the customer;
b) the entity has inventory risk before or after the customer order, during shipping or on return;

[2] The IESO itself does not buy or sell electricity. It administers the wholesale electricity market by authorizing market participants, publishing system forecasts and market information, producing statements and invoices, and performing financial settlement transactions for the markets.

c) the entity has latitude in establishing prices, either directly or indirectly, for example by providing additional goods or services; and

d) the entity bears the customer's credit risk for the amount receivable from the customer.

An entity is acting as an agent when it does not have exposure to the significant risks and rewards associated with the sale of goods or the rendering of services. One feature indicating that an entity is acting as an agent is that the amount the entity earns is predetermined, being either a fixed fee per transaction or a stated percentage of the amount billed to the customer.

Application of the above IFRS guidance supports the conclusion that the IESO is an agent in the market-settlement process and, therefore, recognizing revenue on a net basis is appropriate. IESO has completed a more thorough analysis of their position that it is an agent in the settlement of the market and reconsideration of that decision is not the topic of this memo.

The IESO is required by legislation to carry out its operations without the purpose of gain or profit~~, making the IESO a self-sustaining entity~~. Other than the amounts the IESO is permitted to keep in accordance with its own rate order from the OEB to cover its internal operating costs, which makes it a self-sustaining entity, all amounts the IESO receives from market participants must be paid out to other market participants who have regulatory or contractual rights to receive payments from those collected amounts.

In the context of applying the principal vs. agent guidance, the amounts the IESO is permitted to keep in accordance with its own rate order from the OEB to cover its internal operating costs are recorded as system fee revenue in the IESO's financial statements. System fees are not characterized as being part of the IESO-administered markets. Accordingly, any references to the IESO-administered markets in this document exclude system fees.

As stated in the IESO financial statements, the IESO-administered markets is a balancing system, and as such, the net position of market accounts will ultimately settle to a nil balance in accordance with market rules. However, due to settlement timing differences, the net position of market accounts will not be in a nil position from a cash flow perspective at the end of any reporting period.

This raises a question as to how a cash flow deficit related to the market-settlement process should be accounted for in the financial statements of the IESO. Two approaches are as follows:

1. The cash flow deficit is recognized as an asset when it occurs and then derecognized in the period in which it is settled. Under this approach, the net position of market accounts will always be in a nil balance in the IESO's balance sheet and there is no impact on the IESO's income statement.
2. The cash flow deficit is recognized as a charge to income when it occurs and then reversed through income in the period in which it is settled.

IESO management has concluded it is appropriate to recognize existing cash flow deficits arising from the market-settlement process as an asset. This is evidenced by the fact the components of the market accounts net to a nil closing balance at year end in the IESO's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2016. These financial statements also explicitly state there is no impact to the accumulated deficit or revenues and expenses as the IESO is not party to these transactions as per the market rules.

Although the IESO's financial statements include the following accounting policy on regulated assets and liabilities, the asset relating to the cash flow deficit discussed above has not been specifically labeled as a regulated asset:

As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations, in this policy.

The only two balances specifically labeled as being recognized in the IESO's financial statements under the above policy are (i) unrecovered smart metering expenses, and (ii) unrecovered PSAB transition items. IESO management has, however, indicated in discussions that the cash flow deficit/surplus associated with the original variance account is also considered to be a regulated asset/liability under ASC 980 even though it has been presented as part of the Market Accounts balances in the statement of financial position.

Impact of FHP

The implementation of the FHP results in the IESO establishing and maintaining the FHP variance account to track the resulting cash flow deficit, the balance of which is defined for the purposes of the FHP Act to be a 'regulatory asset'.

The act of legislating the balance in the FHP variance account to be a regulatory asset does not, in and of itself, result in its recognition as an asset for accounting purposes. Accordingly, the primary issue at hand is whether the legislated regulatory asset is eligible for recognition as an asset in both the standalone financial statements of the IESO and the consolidated financial statements of the GRE. As discussed in a later section, the conclusion reached with respect to ~~When~~ the standalone financial statements of the IESO ~~are considered in isolation, the impact of the conclusion reached on this issue would be eliminated to the extent the regulatory asset has been sold to OPG Trust by the end of the reporting period. The conclusion remains significant, however, due to its~~may impact ~~on~~ the consolidated financial statements of the GRE~~, which is discussed in a later section~~.

As noted above, the IESO has adopted a policy to apply the U.S. GAAP guidance in ASC 980 in connection with accounting for rate regulated assets. IESO management has applied this guidance and concluded the regulatory asset created by the FHP can be recognized as a regulated asset for accounting purposes in the financial statements of the IESO. The IESO's auditors, KPMG, concur with this position, as evidenced from the following excerpt from a draft letter issued by KPMG on May 16, 2017 (the KPMG Letter):

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Commented [NPP1]: Insert reference to consistency with previous treatment of OPA (2013 Terry Gabriel email).

Recognizing the regulatory asset as a regulated asset for accounting purposes in the financial statements of the IESO in accordance with ASC 980 is appropriate only if all of the following conditions are met:

a) the operations of the IESO (or the relevant portion thereof) are within the scope of ASC 980 based on the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2,
b) the FHP variance account meets the criteria in ASC 980-340-25-1 for capitalization as a regulatory asset, and
c) ASC 980 is an appropriate source of GAAP under PSAS.

Each of these items is addressed in turn:

a) Scope of ASC 980

ASC 980-10-15-2 states the following:

The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:

a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form. If an entity's regulated rates are based on the costs of a group of entities and the entity is so large in relation to the group of entities that its costs are, in essence, the group's costs, the regulation would meet this criterion for that entity.
c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers.

The Office of the Auditor General of Ontario (OAGO) does not believe the IESO meets the criteria to be within the scope of ASC 980. This is evidenced by the following statement included in Legislated Accounting Included in Bill 132, Including the Proposed Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 – Submission to Standing Committee on Justice Policy dated May 25, 2017 (OAGO Submission):

Moreover, IESO is not engaging in rate-regulated activities, and the contracts under its administration were never subject to rate regulation.

Ontario's electricity industry is rate-regulated. Rates paid by electricity consumers are regulated by the OEB such that over time rates equal cost plus, where applicable, a reasonable rate of return. Providing electricity to consumers involves several different parties, including generators, transmitters, distributors and the IESO. Some of these parties engage in rate-regulated activities, some do not.

The IESO serves an important and active role in Ontario's electricity market, irrespective of the fact that it records market transactions on net basis in the financial statements. The IESO balances the supply of and demand for electricity in Ontario and directs its flow across the province's transmission lines, oversees the wholesale electricity market, where the price of energy is determined, and administers the rules that govern the market. In determining whether the IESO has regulated operations, the focus is on whether the rates the IESO charges its customers are regulated and not whether the costs incurred by the IESO are regulated (although a number of them are).

The following supports the position of IESO management that the above criteria are met and the IESO's operations are within the scope of ASC 980:

The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
As noted in a research paper issued in 2001 by a taskforce established by the CICA (the CICA Research Report), there is a view held by some that, with respect to rate regulation in the public sector, there is usually no independent, third-party regulator because the government controls both the enterprise and the regulatory agency. Accordingly, it is important to point out that independence is not required to meet the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a). The requirement is an independent, third-party regulator or its own governing board empowered by statute or contract. In fact, paragraph 64 of the Basis for Conclusions for FAS 71, ACCOUNTING FOR THE EFFECTS OF CERTAIN TYPES OF REGULATION (which is the pre-codified version of ASC 980), specifically states that the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a) was modified so as not to preclude application by government utilities with rates set by their own governing board. The OEB has been established by the Province to be Ontario's independent energy regulator and, therefore, is considered the governing board of the IESO. The OEB's mandate and authority come from the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, the Electricity Act, 1998, and a number of other provincial statutes. As described in more detail below, the IESO's rates are established in accordance with these statutes. In the context of its market-settlement role, the IESO's 'customers' are the Market Participants buying electricity from the IESO-controlled grid. All Market Participants are required to execute a Participation Agreement with the IESO. In accordance with Article 3.1 of the standard Participation Agreement, each Market Participant has agreed to be bound by and to comply with all of the provisions of the Market Rules, which includes the following: Chapter 9, Section 1.2.3 Notwithstanding any other provision within the market rules, market participants shall remit to the IESO such applicable settlement amounts and other payments as may be required under the relevant provisions of the Electricity Act, 1998, the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and any related regulations, as amended from time to time. The IESO's operations meet the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a) because the rates charged by the IESO are based on statutes. As discussed in more detail below, the rates are designed to recover the IESO's expenditure for providing the regulated services and the pass-through costs related to the energy purchased from the generators and to government programs.

The main components of invoices issued by the IESO to Market Participants are as follows:

- Commodity Charges
  - Hourly Ontario Energy Price
  - Global Adjustment
- Wholesale Market Service Charges
  - IESO Administration Fee
  - Uplift Charges
  - Rural and Remote Electricity Rate Protection
- Wholesale Transmission Charges
- Debt Retirement Charge

Each component is determined as follows:

Commodity Charges

In accordance with Section 25.33(1) of the Electricity Act, the IESO is required to price electricity to recover costs:

Electricity pricing to reflect costs

IESO to make adjustments

25.33 (1) The IESO shall, through its billing and settlement systems, make adjustments in accordance with the regulations that ensure that, over time, payments by classes of market participants in Ontario that are prescribed by regulation reflect,

a) amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation and distributors, whether the amounts are determined under the market rules or under section 78.1, 78.2 or 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998;

b) amounts paid to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract, as determined under the procurement contract; and

c) such amounts as may be prescribed that are paid or incurred by the IESO in relation to the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 8 (1); 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1, s. 43 (2).

Market Participants are initially invoiced for consumed electricity at the Hourly Ontario Energy Price (HOEP), which is calculated as the average of the twelve market clearing prices set in each hour. In accordance with Section 25.33(5) of the Electricity Act, the IESO is required to track differences between the amounts invoiced to Market Participants at HOEP and actual costs incurred in a variance account:

Variance accounts

(5) The IESO shall establish and maintain such variance accounts as may be necessary to record all amounts payable or receivable by it under this section or under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. 2004, c. 23, Sched. A, s. 37; 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 8 (5); 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1, s. 43 (5).

Sections 3.1 and 3.3 of the OEB Act require the variance account to be settled over a twelve-month period, which is done through the Global Adjustment on a Market Participant's invoice:

Annual rate plan and separate rates for situations prescribed by regulation

(3.1) The Board shall, in accordance with rules prescribed by the regulations, approve or fix separate rates for the retailing of electricity,

a) to such different classes of consumers as may be prescribed by the regulations; and

b) for such different situations as may be prescribed by the regulations. 2004, c. 23, Sched. B, s. 14 (1).

Rates to reflect cost of electricity

(3.3) In approving or fixing rates under subsection (3.1),

a) the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect these costs; and

b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct. 2004, c. 23, Sched. B, s. 14 (1); 2014, c. 7, Sched. 23, s. 6 (2).

Although the implementation of the FHP involves the deferral of costs over an extended period of time, it does not change the IESO's obligation under the OEB Act to price electricity to recover incurred costs in full. The deferral relating to the FHP is tracked in a separate variance account in accordance with Section 24(1) of the Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the FHP Act):

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

The right for the IESO to recover the variance account is set out in Section 25 of the FHP Act:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Wholesale Market Service Charges

The IESO charges Market Participants administrative fees to operate the wholesale electricity market and manage the electric power system in Ontario. These fees are required to be approved by the OEB under Section 25(1) of the Electricity Act on an annual basis.

Review of requirements and fees

25 (1) The IESO shall, at least 60 days before the beginning of each fiscal year, submit its proposed expenditure and revenue requirements for the fiscal year and the fees it proposes to charge during the fiscal year to the Board for review, but shall not do so until after the Minister approves the IESO's proposed business plan for the fiscal year under section 24. 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 3 (1).

Uplift charges

Commented [LAP2]: Uplift charges are comprised of a number of things. To ask IESO for help to summarize succinctly.

Need details

RRRP charges

The RRRP program provides a rate subsidy to rural and remote residential customers who face higher distribution costs. Under the FHP Act, the cost of the RRRP program has shifted from ratepayers to provincial revenues and, therefore, is no longer a component of the IESO's invoice.

Wholesale Transmission Charge

This charge to LDCs and some large consumers covers the cost incurred by transmission companies to construct and maintain the high-voltage transmission lines needed to transport electricity from generating stations to LDCs or consumers. In accordance with Section 78(1) of the OEB Act, the rate for this service is approved by the OEB.

Debt Retirement Charge

When the Ontario electricity sector was restructured in April 1999, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) took on $20.9 million of stranded debt from Ontario Hydro. The OEFC services and retires the stranded debt with cash flows from a number of sources in the electricity sector, one of those currently being debt retirement charges paid by certain ratepayers (ratepayers cease paying debt retirement charges April 1, 2018).

Under Regulation 494/01, DEBT RETIREMENT CHARGE – ADMINISTRATION, the IESO is appointed as a collector of debt retirement charges (Section 2) and is required to collect a debt retirement charge on behalf of the OEFA from every entity who withdraws electricity from the IESO-controlled grid (Section 6(2)). The prescribed rate for the debt retirement charge is set out in Regulation 493/01, DEBT RETIREMENT CHARGE – RATES AND EXEMPTIONS.

The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.

As discussed in detail above, the IESO is required by statute to set prices to recover costs.

In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers.

As discussed in detail above, the IESO is required by statute to set prices to recover costs.

The majority of the monthly amount invoiced by the IESO to Market Participants represents a direct flow through of costs as they are incurred, but there are certain types of costs for which recovery may be deferred. For those deferred costs, the IESO is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers to fully recover costs.

Based on relatively short recovery periods, it is reasonable to assume there will be sufficient demand to recover the deferred costs that currently exist. Specifically:

- RPP and RRRP variance accounts are recovered over twelve months in accordance with Section 3.3(b) of the OEB Act. (Note - Under the FHP, responsibility for the cost of the RRRP program is being transferred to the Provincial budget and rate-payers will no longer be directly charged)

Commented [LAP3]: To confirm with Energy if all costs have shifted.

Commented [LAP4]: CV to determine if there is anything else to add from IESO's analysis.

Commented [LAP5]: To confirm with Energy if all costs have shifted.

- The Smart Metering Entity charge is recovered over the period from May 1, 2013 to October 31, 2018 in accordance with ~~XX~~OEB Decision and Order EB-2015-0298.

Under the FHP, responsibility for the cost of the OESP program is being transferred to the Provincial budget and rate-payers will no longer be charged for the cost of this program. The OESP variance account, which is currently in a credit balance, will be used to fund the cost of the program until depleted.

Although the timing of the recovery of the FHP variance account has not yet been established by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over a period of 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan, will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

In addition to the general scope requirements of ASC 980 discussed above, specific consideration is made as to whether the following scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7 applies to the FHP:

The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic does not apply to any of the following transactions:

a) Accounting for price controls that are imposed by governmental action in times of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions, or accounting for contracts in general. However, if the terms of a contract between an entity and its customer are subject to regulation and the criteria of paragraph 980-10-15-2 are met with respect to that contract, the guidance in this Topic shall apply.

Based on the discussion below, this scope exemption is not applicable to the FHP.

Electricity cost reductions resulting from the FHP do not represent price controls imposed by the Province in a time of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions. As noted in the 2017 budget speech, the 2017 Ontario Budget – A Stronger, Healthier Ontario, the FHP is a fairer way to share the costs of building a cleaner, more modern and reliable electricity generation system. In particular, the budget speech states:

Commented [NPP6]: Navigant report/other support

Recognizing that existing electricity infrastructure is expected to last for decades to come, the Province would refinance the cost of those capital investments to ensure that system costs are more equitably distributed over time.

The following paragraph from the Basis for Conclusion for FAS 71 also provides some insight as to the specific concerns relating to government imposed price controls that resulted in the scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7(a):

70. The first scope limitation of paragraph 8—excluding accounting for price controls imposed by governmental action in times of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions—was included in the Discussion Memorandum. Price controls imposed in periods of unusual conditions are not expected to be applied consistently over an extended period. Indeed, their duration usually is limited by statute. In that environment, assurance of future benefits cannot be provided by probable future actions of the price control regulator because that regulator may not exist at a given future date.

The implementation of the FHP does not create the type of environment described in FAS 71.BC70 as it is governed by the OEB and there is no concern the OEB will not continue to exist.

The second part of the scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7(a) relating to the accounting for contracts is further explained in the following paragraph from the Basis for Conclusion for FAS 71:

71. Accounting for contracts in general was also excluded from the scope of the Discussion Memorandum. The economic effects of cost reimbursement contracts are in some respects similar to the economic effects of the type of regulation addressed by this Statement. However, most contracts tend to be relatively short-term, whereas regulation of enterprises covered by this Statement is expected to continue beyond the foreseeable future. The Board noted that other authoritative literature addresses contract accounting and concluded that it should exclude the general issue of contract accounting from the scope of this Statement.

Although the impetus for the FHP relates to term of contracts the IESO has entered into with certain generators, the FHP does not change the existing accounting for these contracts.

Application of ASC 980-340-25-1 to the regulatory asset

ASC 980-340-25-1 states the following:

Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date.

The following supports the IESO's position that the FHP variance account meets the above criteria for capitalization:

It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
The following excerpts from the FHP Act make it clear that the IESO is entitled to recover the regulatory asset through rates in the future:

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

The recovery of the regulatory asset is, however, dependent on future consumption of electricity by rate-payers. Although the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not yet been established by statute, the recovery period is intended to be 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that it is probable there will be sufficient demand in the future to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan (Appendix B), will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties (e.g., investors) to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

Based on the above excerpts from the FHP Act, it is clear the IESO will be recovering costs previously incurred rather than providing for expected levels of similar future costs.

In assessing whether ASC 980-340-25-1 is an acceptable source of guidance under PSAS, Paragraph 5 of PSAS 1150, GENERALLY ACCEPTED ACCOUNTED PRINCIPLES, states the following:

[3] If the accounting for GBEs were to change in the future such that line by line consolidation is required using PSAS, the importance of this consideration increases significantly.

When the primary sources of GAAP do not deal with the accounting and reporting in financial statements of transactions or events encountered by the public sector reporting entity, or additional guidance is needed to apply a primary source to specific circumstances, the selection of an appropriate accounting policy requires the exercise of professional judgment. In these circumstances, a public sector reporting entity should adopt accounting policies and disclosures that are consistent with:

a) the primary sources of GAAP; and

b) the application of the concepts described in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000.

Related guidance is also provided in PSAS 1150.18-.20:

Paragraphs PS 1150.19-.24 identify some of the other sources that a public sector reporting entity might consult to assist in selecting accounting policies and disclosures that comply with paragraph PS 1150.05.

Pronouncements issued by other bodies authorized to issue accounting standards may be useful sources to consult. For example, accounting pronouncements published with the authority of the Canadian Accounting Standards Board (AcSB), International Accounting Standards Board (IASB), US Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board (FASAB), US Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), or International Public Sector Accounting Standards Board (IPSASB) are often important sources to consult on matters not covered by primary sources of GAAP or for assistance in applying a primary source of GAAP to specific circumstances.

When a public sector reporting entity chooses to consult a source described in paragraph PS 1150.19, it applies professional judgment and evaluates the source in the context of the relative manner in which the standard setter requires its pronouncements to be applied, as well as in the context of the related pronouncement. When an accounting standard setter does not have a conceptual framework that is similar to the concepts referred to in paragraph PS 1150.05(b), the public sector reporting entity needs to ensure that the selected source is consistent with those concepts.

Since PSAS does not specifically address the treatment of costs incurred that will be recovered through regulatory operations in future periods, the IESO would not be precluded from following the guidance in ASC 980-340-25-1. However, PSAS 1000.05 makes it clear that in order to do so, it must first be demonstrated that such guidance is consistent with the application of the concepts described in PSAS 1000, FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS.

The relevant guidance in PSAS 1000 relating to the recognition of an asset is as follows:

PSAS 1000.35

Assets are economic resources controlled by a government as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained.

PSAS 1000.36

Assets have three essential characteristics:

a) they embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows;

b) the public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits; and
c) the transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred.

PSAS 1000.37

An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

a) no future economic benefit;
b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or
c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred

The following supports the IESO's position that the regulatory asset possesses the three essential characteristics of an asset:

Embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows

The following excerpts from the FHP Act make it clear that the IESO is entitled to recover the regulatory asset through rates in the future:

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Accordingly, the regulatory asset, by statute, has the capacity to provide future cash inflows.

While perhaps obvious, paragraph 13 of PSAS 3210, ASSETS, confirms the generation of future cash flows represents a future economic benefit:

The future economic benefits embodied in an asset may also be in the form of generating future cash inflows. Cash inflows benefit the public sector entity because cash can be used to purchase or to provide goods and services, redistribute wealth or settle liabilities. Benefits in the form of cash inflows relate to resources, such as loans receivable, inventory for resale and portfolio investments. Also, some public sector resources generate cash inflows because they have user fees associated with them.

The ability of the regulatory asset to generate future cash flows is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers. Although the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not yet been established by statute, the recovery period is intended to be 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, sufficient demand is expected to exist in the future to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan, will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits

Paragraph 16 of PSAS 3210, ASSETS, states the following:

A public sector entity controls the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits when it:

- a) can benefit from the economic resource through its capacity to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows or to reduce cash outflows;
- b) can deny or regulate access to those benefits by others; and
- c) is exposed to the risks associated with the economic resource.

The IESO can benefit from the regulatory asset through its capacity to provide future cash inflows in one of two ways:

1. Collection through future rates

Section 25 of the FHP gives the IESO the right to recover the regulatory asset through future rates:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

2. Sale to a financing entity

Section 26 of the FHP Act permits the IESO to sell the regulatory asset:

Commented [LAP7]: CV - Are there other examples to provide as analogies – anything in tangible capital assets?

.31 When conditions indicate that a tangible capital asset no longer contributes to a government's ability to provide goods and services, or that the value

.07 When there has been a loss in value of a portfolio investment that is other than a temporary decline, the investment should be written down to recognize the loss. The write-down should be included in the statement of operations. In the case of an item in the fair value category, a reversal of any net remeasurements should be reported in the statement of remeasurement gains and losses.

26 (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

Agreement

(2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

Effect of payment

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.

Since (a) the statutory right to recover the regulatory asset belongs solely to the IESO, and (b) the IESO is permitted, but not required, to sell the regulatory asset, the IESO can deny or regulate access to the future economic benefits of the regulatory asset by others.

The IESO is exposed to the risks associated with the regulatory asset, with the primary risk being that collection through the mechanism set out in Section 25 of the FHP Act is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers.

The above analysis supports the position that the IESO controls the regulatory asset and access to the future economic benefits.

In reaching this conclusion, consideration was given to the following excerpt included on Page 37 of the 2008 Annual Report of the OAGO:

With regard to the second characteristic, we simply point again to the legacy of the former Ontario Hydro and its stranded debt. This in our view provides concrete evidence that even in monopoly situations governments do not have sufficient assurance that an enterprise will generate enough profits in future years to recover all of its past costs.

Although there needs to be sufficient assurance regarding the recovery of past costs, all relevant facts and circumstances need to be taken into consideration. Accordingly, the stranded debt of Ontario Hydro can be a relevant to the analysis, but not determinative on its own. As noted in the previous section, the recoverability of past costs will be continually assessed.

The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred

When evaluating whether a transaction or event gives rise to control, the following guidance from PSAS 3210, ASSETS, provides helpful guidance:

The past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource resulting from exchange agreements or contracts usually occurs at the point of exchange. This arises when substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership have been transferred to the public sector entity and normally coincides with the disbursement of funds, exchange of other assets or assumption of liabilities.
The existence of a law, by-law or policy in relation to a particular program is not a past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource. Control does not exist until the underlying event occurs.

The past transaction or event giving rise to control of an economic resource must have occurred by the financial statement date. Legislation having retroactive application cannot create a past transaction or event. Any economic resources related to that legislation would be accounted for in the current and relevant future periods, not in the period of the effective date of the legislation.

In the case of the regulatory asset, the above guidance in PSAS 3210 makes it clear that it is not the statute itself that is the transaction or event giving rise to the asset, it is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute. Accordingly, control over the economic benefits of the regulatory asset occurs when the IESO incurs a cash flow deficit that is recorded in the FHP variance account in accordance with Section 24(1) of the FHP Act:

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

At this point in time, the IESO has incurred a cash outflow for which it is entitled to recover under Section 25 of the FHP Act:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

The following excerpt from the IFRS Staff Paper on Rate-Regulated Activities prepared for discussion at the June 2017 IASB meeting presents a consistent view and dismisses the potential dissenting view that the transaction or event giving rise to the IESO's control is the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers:

A right arises from the rate-adjustment mechanism if the entity has already partially or fully fulfilled a regulatory requirement (past event) but the current regulated rate does not yet reflect the compensation that the entity is entitled to in exchange. Even though the entity cannot compel its customers to buy the regulated goods or services, the entity's right to charge an increased future regulated rate has the potential to produce for the entity an inflow of economic benefits that are not available to other parties. That right will be consumed as the entity includes the rate increase in future regulated rates and will lead to an inflow of economic benefits if customers pay the increased future regulated rate for the future delivery of goods or services.

In April 2011, Torys LLP issued a letter to OPG relating to the legal basis of OPG's regulatory deferral and variance accounts which, as evidenced by the following excerpts, also takes the position that the transaction or event giving rise to the asset is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute:

OPG's deferral and variance accounts are established either by regulation or by orders of the Ontario Energy Board (the "OEB") through the proper exercise of its jurisdiction as the administrative tribunal responsible for regulating the electricity industry in Ontario. The establishing of such an account pursuant to regulation or the granting of approval by the OEB to establish such an account confers upon OPG a right to record amounts in the account and to account for the amounts recorded on the basis that they have been prudently incurred.

The OEB has broad jurisdiction in setting payment amounts for OPG and it would not be reasonable for the legislature to have given the OEB the legislative power to authorize the establishment of accounts without also giving the OEB the power to dispose of the amounts recorded in such accounts, including in circumstances where there is no future output. Moreover, to interpret the applicable legislation in a manner that only allows for payment amounts on a volumetric basis is in our view unreasonable because it would not be consistent with the rules of statutory interpretation.

With regard to the third characteristic, we do not believe that a rate-regulation decision can be considered a transaction or event giving rise to an asset or obligation because, as stated above, from the level of the government's consolidated financial statements such a decision is an internal event between two government-controlled entities. An equivalent analysis for rate-regulated liabilities leads to the same conclusion. PSAB standards preclude the inclusion of both gains and losses from such inter-company transactions. Therefore, our contention is that, at the consolidated financial statement level, rate-regulated assets and liabilities have no place and should be removed upon consolidation of the government's controlled entities.

It should be noted, however, that the OAGO's belief that a rate-regulation decision cannot be considered a transaction or event giving rise to an asset or obligation is not contrary to the IESO's position. As noted above, it is not the statute itself that is being considered the transaction or event giving rise to the asset, it is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute.

In addition, one could argue the creation of the relevant statutes is not an internal event from the point of view of the consolidated government. Statutes must be passed by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario to become law. Since the Legislative Assembly is comprised of elected members, it can be viewed as the government's governing body.

Concluding the regulatory asset possesses the three essential characteristics of an asset in PSAS 1000.05 then begs the question as to whether the application of the guidance in ASC 980 is even necessary in this particular situation. Consistent with the statement in ASC 980 –340-25-1 that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset, ASC 980 provides guidance as to how to apply the primary source of PSAS in the regulatory environment.

In a letter from the OAGO to the Board of Directors of the IESO dated June 22, 2017 (the OAGO Letter), the OAGO makes the following statement:

The definitions of an asset in the PSAS and FASB Conceptual Framework are similar. Similar to PSAS, rate regulated deferral accounts do not generally meet the definition of an asset in the FASB's Conceptual Framework.

However, the following excerpts from the Basis for Conclusions for FAS 71 (paragraph 58 in particular), clearly support that ASC 980 is an application of, not an exception from, the basic definition of an asset in the Conceptual Framework:

Economic Effects of Regulation

56. The second threshold issue in the Discussion Memorandum was: "Does rate regulation introduce an economic dimension in some circumstances that should affect the application of generally accepted accounting principles to rate-regulated enterprises?"

57. Most respondents to the Discussion Memorandum indicated that rate regulation does introduce such an economic dimension in some circumstances. Respondents cited the cause-and-effect relationship of costs and revenues as the principal economic effect of regulation that affects accounting for regulated enterprises. They noted that cost might be one factor used by unregulated enterprises to establish prices, but it would often not be the most important factor. Usually, prices are limited by the market. An unregulated enterprise might desire to price its goods or services at a level that would recover all costs and a reasonable profit; however, the market might not permit that price. Alternatively, an unregulated enterprise might be able to increase its prices and its profit if competition does not limit its prices. In either case, cost often is not the principal determinant of prices. In contrast, for an enterprise with prices regulated on the basis of its costs, allowable costs are the principal factor that influences its prices.

58. The economic effect cited by most respondents is the ability of a regulatory action to create a future economic benefit—the essence of an asset. For example, consider a regulated enterprise that incurs costs to repair damage caused by a major storm. If the regulator approves recovery of the costs through rates over some future period or is expected to do so, the rate action of the regulator creates a new asset that offsets the reduction in the damaged asset. The enterprise has probable future economic benefits—the additional revenue that will result from including the cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. The future benefits are obtained or controlled by the enterprise as a result of a past event—incurring the cost that results in the rate order. Thus, the criteria of Concepts Statement 3 for an asset are met.

The fact that many Canadian rate-regulated entities recognized regulated assets under Part V of the CPA Canada Handbook – Pre-changeover Accounting Standards (Part V GAAP) further supports the position that regulated assets do meet the basic definition of an asset under PSAS. Although Part V GAAP refers to rate regulation in several standards, it does not include cost capitalization guidance equivalent to ASC 980-340-25-1. It does, however, specify in paragraph 32B of Section 1100, Generally accepted accounting principles, that Section 1100 applies to the recognition and measurement of assets and liabilities arising from rate regulation beginning January 1, 2009. Since Section 1100.04 only permits the use of an alternate source of GAAP if it is consistent with Part V GAAP, regulated assets need to meet the basic definition of an asset under Part V GAAP in order to be recognized. The Part V GAAP definition of an asset in Section 1000, Financial Statement Concepts is consistent with the PSAS definition.

Commented [npp8]: And where reporting under IFRS14, ASC980 continues to be the basis for reporting such assets.

Commented [LAP9R8]: To discuss

The CICA Research Report also concluded regulated assets meet the basic definition of an asset under Part V GAAP:

In the Study Group's view, the economic benefits and obligations created by rate regulation and resulting from past transactions or events, and the changes in these amounts, meet the definition of a financial statement element set out in Handbook Section 1000.

The OAGO Letter suggests that IFRS should be consulted prior to referring to ASC 980 under PSAS's GAAP hierarchy in PSAS 1150 and points out the following:

- In 2005 the International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee (IFRIC) indicated the US GAAP recognition criteria for regulated assets were not fully consistent with IFRS and could not be applied by analogy.
- When the question of rate regulated accounting was posed to the IFRIC again in 2008, the IFRIC noted the topic had been previously addressed and there was a well-established practice of first time IFRS adopters ceasing rate regulated accounting and removing regulatory deferral accounts from their financial statements.
- In the Basis for Conclusions on IFRS 14, IFRS 14.BC30 noted the differences in the recognition criteria between IFRS and ASC 980 resulted in almost all existing regulatory deferral accounts being derecognized upon transition to IFRS.

It should be noted, however, that the IASB's project on rate-regulated activities is still in progress and the OAGO Letter does not reference more recent and relevant activity. In September 2014, the IASB issued Discussion Paper DP/2014/02, Reporting the Financial Effects of Rate Regulation. The Discussion Paper presents the opposing views as to whether regulatory deferral account balances meet the definitions of an asset or a liability and specifically states the following in paragraph 5.09:

Consequently, the IASB has not formed a preliminary view on whether regulatory deferral account balances meet either the current or proposed revised Conceptual Framework definitions of an asset and a liability. It will use the input received from the responses to this Discussion Paper and the Conceptual Framework project to help it assess whether to develop any specific accounting guidance or requirements for rate-regulated activities.

In addition, the most recent paper issued by the IASB staff in June 2017 includes the following:

17. During the May 2017 Board meeting we also considered the interaction between the definitions of assets and liabilities and the characteristics of defined rate regulation (see paragraphs 5 and 6). We concluded that a combination of those characteristics suggested that the rights and obligations created by the rate-adjustment mechanism are assets and liabilities, as those terms are expected to be defined in the forthcoming revised Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting.

The Exposure Draft ED/2015/3, Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting, defines an asset as follows:

4.5 An asset is a present economic resource controlled by the entity as a result of past events.
4.6 An economic resource is a right that has the potential to produce economic benefits.

This recent activity suggests that it would be premature to assume that the IASB will conclude that regulatory deferral account balances will not meet the definitions of an asset or a liability.

Once it is determined that the regulatory asset meets the basic characteristics of an asset in PSAS 1000.36, consideration also needs to be made as to what type of asset it is. This is important because PSAS 1000.58 does not permit the recognition of intangible assets:

In the absence of appropriate public sector recognition and measurement criteria for intangibles, all intangibles, including those that have been purchased, developed, constructed or inherited in right of the Crown, are not recognized as assets in government financial statements. The intangible often called "human capital" that embodies the talent or intellectual capital of government employees is not recognized as an asset under existing accounting principles.

PSAS 1000 identifies two types of assets: financial assets and non-financial assets and provides the following commentary:

.39 Financial assets are assets that could be used to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations and are not for consumption in the normal course of operations.

.40 A financial asset is any asset that is:

- a) Cash
- b) a realizable asset that is convertible to cash;
- c) a contractual right to receive cash or another financial asset from another party;
- d) a contractual right to exchange financial instruments with another party under conditions that are potentially favourable to the government;
- e) an equity instrument of another entity;
- f) an investment in a government business enterprise or government business partnership;
- g) a financial claim on an outside organization or individual; or

h) an inventory or item for sale that meets the criteria in FINANCIAL STATEMENT PRESENTATION, paragraph PS 1201.055.

.41 Non-financial assets include tangible capital assets, and other assets such as prepaid expenses and inventories of supplies.

.42 Non-financial assets are acquired, constructed or developed assets that do not normally provide resources to discharge existing liabilities, but instead:

a) are normally employed to deliver government services;
b) may be consumed in the normal course of operations; and
c) are not for sale in the normal course of operations.

PSAS 3210, ASSETS, also provides some relevant guidance:

.24 Non-financial resources include all items of a fixed or permanent nature (such as tangible capital property), claims to goods and services (such as prepaid items) and consumable goods (such as inventories of supplies). Non-financial resources also include intangibles, Crown lands and natural resources.

.25 Certain non-financial resources are, however, not given accounting recognition as assets in government financial statements. For example, all government intangibles, and all natural resources and Crown lands that have not been purchased by the government, are not given accounting recognition in government financial statements. A government's non-financial assets, as defined in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000, comprise the recognized non-financial resources of a government.

Although PSAS does not permit the recognition of intangibles, it also does not provide a definition of intangibles. In absence of specific guidance in PSAS as to what constitutes an intangible, U.S. GAAP is probably the most appropriate source to consult, in light of the fact that it deals specifically with regulated assets. Under U.S. GAAP, a regulated asset is not treated as an intangible. ASC 980 contains separate subsections for 'Intangibles – Goodwill and Other' and 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs' and regulated assets are included in the guidance on 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs'.

In accordance with PSAS 1201.040(a), financial assets are presented separately on the statement of financial position. The IESO classifies its regulated assets (i.e., the original variance account and the regulated assets relating to unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items) as financial assets. Consistent with these other regulated assets, ~~The~~ the regulatory asset created under the FHP meets the definition of a financial asset in PSAS 1000.39 since it will be available to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations. Although the regulatory asset is not available to discharge liabilities existing at the date of the statement of financial position, that is no different than, for example, accounts receivable. ~~does not meet the criteria in PSAS 1000.40 to be a financial asset as it does not represent a current contractual right to receive cash. Accordingly, the regulatory asset is a non-financial resource. As noted above, to be recognized as an asset in the financial statements a non-financial resource cannot be an intangible.~~

~~Although PSAS does not permit the recognition of intangibles, it also does not provide a definition of intangibles. While PSAS 1000.40 provides a finite list of items that represent financial assets, the guidance in PSAS 1000.41 .42 on non-financial assets is less definitive, using words like "such as" and "normally". In absence of specific guidance in PSAS as to what constitutes an intangible, U.S. GAAP is probably the most appropriate source to consult, in light of the fact that it deals specifically with regulated assets. Under U.S. GAAP, a regulated asset is not treated as an intangible. ASC 980 contains separate subsections for 'Intangibles – Goodwill and Other' and 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs' and regulated assets are included in the guidance on 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs'. Consistent with the treatment under U.S. GAAP, the regulatory asset is categorized as an other asset under PSAS and recognized in the financial statements as a non-financial asset.~~

By recognizing the regulatory asset as a financial asset, the FHP will have a neutral impact on both the Province's net debt and accumulated deficit, which is consistent with the guidance in PSAS 1100, Financial statement objectives:

Financial statements should present information to describe the government's financial position at the end of the accounting period. Such information should be useful in evaluating:

a) the government's ability to finance its activities and to meet its liabilities and contractual obligations; and
b) the government's ability to provide future services.

A government's net debt is an important indicator of a government's financial position, highlighting the financial affordability of future government service provision. A net debt position represents a "lien" on the ability of the government to apply financial resources and future revenues to provide services. Non-financial assets are added to net debt to calculate the other indicator of a government's financial position — its accumulated surplus or deficit. Non-financial assets are "prepaid service potential". Reporting a government's recognized non-financial resources as part of its financial position provides information necessary for a more complete understanding of a government's debt position, financial position and future operating requirements.

Governments provide public services and redistribute wealth for a variety of social and economic purposes. To meet those objectives, governments need information about the cost of services and the affordability of services. An understanding of the extent of the financial "lien" the government has on its ability to provide future services as a result of past transactions and events is essential information. Governments also need to have an appreciation of the magnitude of the total economic resources they have on hand to deliver services. A government's net financial resources / net debt position, assessed in combination with the non-financial resources position of the government, provides a measure of the net recognized economic resources available to the government at the financial statement date to provide services in the future.

If the regulatory asset is not recognized as a financial asset, the Province's net debt will increase significantly, suggesting that the Province has a much higher future revenue requirement. This would be inaccurate, however, since the regulatory asset is going to be recovered under statute from electricity consumers, not taxpayers.

Debits and Credits

Based on the example provided earlier, the IESO pays the contracted power generator $400 for electricity used by the ratepayer and collects $300 from the ratepayer through their local distribution company (LDC). The $100 recovery shortfall is recorded in a variance account created by Bill 132 and deemed to be a regulatory asset. The IESO sells the regulatory asset to OPG Trust for $100 to obtain cash to make up the shortfall.

The accounting for the above transactions in the financial statements of the IESO, which are prepared in accordance with PSAS, depends on whether the regulatory asset is eligible for recognition as an asset for accounting purposes under PSAS. To avoid confusion in the remainder of this document, the term regulatory asset will refer to the defined term in the FHP Act and the term regulated asset or rate-regulated asset (RRA) will refer to an asset recognized for accounting purposes. The following table illustrates the journal entries to be booked by the IESO under both scenarios:

Scenario A – Regulated Asset			Scenario B – Not a Regulated Asset
Market Settlement
DR	Cash	300	DR	Cash	300
DR	Asset	100	DR	Expense	100
CR	Cash	(400)	CR	Cash	(400)
Sale of Regulatory Asset to OPG Trust
CR	Asset	(100)	CR	Gain	(100)

At any given point in time, the accounting result will be the same under both scenarios provided the cash shortfall has been fully funded. If a funding deficit exists, however, the deficit would be recognized as an asset under Scenario A and recognized as an expense under Scenario B. A funding deficit may arise due to, for example, temporary timing differences between the creation and sale of a regulatory asset. A funding deficit may also arise if OPG Trust (or another financing entity) ceases to purchase the IESO's regulatory assets on an on-going basis.

Notes: The Planned Flexibility identified in Figure 19 is required to meet peak requirements and represents less than 1 TWh of energy per year. Forecasting of electricity production includes the expectation of imports and exports of electricity in all years. Imports and exports are an important component in managing the operation of the electricity system. As a result, electricity production forecast exceeds the forecast Ontario consumer demand.

Cindy & Nadine,

Attached is the latest draft from late yesterday based on Monday's call; Suzie and I have not had a chance to review but wanted it in your hands as a just in case when Lee Anne talks through what she's done and the areas she's still thinking about and/or is looking for your thoughts – she'll cover that on this morning's call.

Both Suzie and Lee Anne will be joining too but from calling from cars.

Talk soon.

Introduction

Ontario's consolidated financial reports are prepared in accordance with the accounting principles for governments recommended by the Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) of the Chartered Professional Accountants of Canada (CPA Canada). In order to meet the needs of users, including the legislature and the public, for accountability in government reporting and decision making, it is essential that public sector financial statements reflect the economic substance of the government's activities.

In March 2017, the Government of Ontario (the Province) announced its Fair Hydro Plan (FHP). In assessing the appropriate accounting treatment for the Global Adjustment refinancing (GA Refinancing) component of the FHP on Ontario's consolidated financial statements, the Office of the Provincial Controller considered the authoritative guidance issued by PSAB, as well as the accounting assessments of the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) and Ontario Power Generation (OPG) management, including the accounting opinions of their external accounting advisors. Given the complexity of the GA Refinancing structure, the exercise of professional judgement is necessary to ensure that key financial reporting objectives of transparency and accountability are best served. This accounting analysis considers currently available information, including efforts underway by the International Accounting Standards Board as related to rate regulated accounting. It also draws upon publicly available information including previous studies and bases for conclusions dealing with rate-regulated accounting, both in the public sector and the private sector.

Background

The FHP will reduce electricity bills for Regulated Price Plan (RPP) customers (as well as those non-RPP consumers who receive the 8% rebate as specified in the Ontario Rebate for Electricity Act, 2016) by approximately 25% for a period of one year, starting in the summer of 2017, and limit the increase in electricity bills to the rate of inflation over the following four years.

Because distribution rates vary across the province and customers use different amounts of electricity, the goal in calculating the new RPP electricity prices is to achieve a 25% reduction for a "proxy" customer, which is established under the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 (FHP Act) as a residential customer of Toronto Hydro who uses 750 kWh of electricity a month, pays time-of-use RPP electricity prices and has the time-of-use consumption profile of a typical residential customer.

The measures that make up the 25% average reduction include:

1. Spreading the cost of Ontario's clean energy investments over the expected lifecycle of the generation infrastructure assets. This is expected to account for ~~15~~18-~~17~~19% of the overall reduction.
2. Shifting the cost of the Ontario Electricity Support Program (OESP) and Rural or Remote Rate Protection (RRRP) program from ratepayers to taxpayer-funded programs.
3. An 8% rebate equal to the provincial portion of the HST, which took effect on January 1, 2017.

Under the first measure, the Province will borrow funds to pay a portion of current electricity costs, thereby temporarily reducing the amount paid by eligible ratepayers. The deferred amounts, including interest and other costs, will be recoverable from ratepayers through future rates over an estimated 18-year period starting in approximately 2028. In other words, the impact of #1 above is fully borne by the ratepayers – it is a shift in the timing of payment for the clean energy investments, while the impacts of #2 and #3 are reducing the cost to the ratepayer, but at the cost of the taxpayer.

Objective

The objective of this memo is to assess the impact of the first measure of the FHP (i.e. deferred recovery of clean energy costs) on the consolidated financial statements of the Province. [NTD – Consider if document should discuss #2 and #3. This would contrast the different treatment by the Province]

Background

The Ontario Energy Board (OEB) has been established by the Province to be Ontario's independent energy regulator.

In accordance with Section 78(3.1) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 (the OEB Act), the OEB is responsible for determining electricity commodity prices for RPP consumers. Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act requires the OEB to forecast the cost of electricity used by RPP consumers and ensure the prices they are charged reflect that cost. The rate setting process is highly complex and involves numerous forecasts and estimates. As a result, the OEB regulatory framework allows for variances between the actual cost of supplying electricity and the amount collected from RPP consumers.

In setting the rates for RPP consumers, Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act requires the OEB to settle any such variances through rates over a 12-month period. This is achieved through a price adjustment charged or credited to RPP consumers. This adjustment forms part of the Global Adjustment paid by consumers.

The IESO is the administrator of Ontario's wholesale electricity market. The IESO settles the market with all participants, as an agent.

As part of its role as market administrator, the IESO calculates the market price for electricity (the Market Clearing Price, or MCP) by running the bids and offers of the market participants through an algorithm. The actual cost of supplying electricity, however, is greater than the MCP as certain generators are paid additional amounts relating to the cost of clean energy initiatives they have undertaken. From a government policy perspective, decisions as to what is in the best interest of the public regarding electricity generation in Ontario are not based solely on economics, they are also influenced by environmental, social and political factors. Accordingly, generators receive compensation for investing in clean energy infrastructure when it is relatively less economical. In these instances, the IESO (and previously the XXX) entered into contracts to pay the generators the excess costs (plus a reasonable rate of return thereon) over an extended period of time, typically 20 years. The amounts paid to the generators under the terms of these contracts are currently included in the rates set by the OEB (as part of the Global Adjustment) with the intention they will be recovered from consumers in the same period they are paid to the generators. As previously noted, the complexity of the rate setting process results in variances between the amount paid to the generators and the amount collected from RPP consumers.

Under existing legislation, the IESO is required to fund any cash shortfall relating to differences arising between the actual cost of supplying electricity and the amount collected from RPP consumers. In accordance with Section 25.33(5) of the Electricity Act, 1998 (the Electricity Act), the IESO has established and maintains a variance account to track these temporary differences (the original variance account) for subsequent settlement with ratepayers. Cash shortfalls in the IESO arising from the original variance account are funded through financing provided by the OFA.

As described below, once the FHP is implemented, the cost of supplying electricity to RPP consumers that is paid to generators will no longer be fully collected over a 12-month period~~, but over a longer period defined by legislation~~.

Under the FHP, while generators would continue to be paid over a twenty year period as contracted, the amounts paid by the IESO to the generators would be recovered from ratepayers over a thirty year period. Deferring the recovery of these costs from the consumers on a longer-term basis would create a significant interim cash shortfall for the IESO.

Section 24(1) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act (the FHP Act) requires the IESO to establish and maintain a variance account (separate from the original variance account described above) to track the cash shortfall specifically resulting from the implementation of the FHP (the FHP variance account). Due to the longer recovery period, and additional recoverable financing and management fee costs, the balance in the account is forecast to increase significantly. The balance in this variance account is defined in Section 1(1) of the FHP Act to be a regulatory asset[1]. The IESO is entitled under Section 25 of the FHP Act to recover the regulatory asset from RPP consumers in the future, which will be achieved through the OEB setting rates to allow for such recovery. Section 26 of the FHP Act also permits the IESO to transfer or sell the regulatory asset to a financing entity to fund its cash shortfall, thus commoditizing the future cash flow stream.

The Province has requested that OPG administer the deferral of the Global Adjustment under the FHP because of OPG's participation in the market, the regulatory knowledge OPG possesses and the ~~potential~~ expected ability to consolidate the accounting of the related activity ~~and accounting with~~ in the financial statements of OPG. To fulfill this role, OPG intends to establish a financing entity (OPG Trust) to purchase the IESO's regulatory asset on a monthly basis and eliminate any cash shortfall in the IESO. Through this arrangement, OPG Trust will finance these purchases through a combination of provincial borrowing (flowed through OPG as an equity investment), amounts advanced from OPG and direct borrowing from capital markets.

Basis of Accounting

In accordance with PSAS 1300.07, the government reporting entity (GRE) for the Province comprises government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government.

As defined in the Introduction to PSAS, the following types of organizations are controlled by the government: (a) government business enterprises (GBE), government non-for profit organizations (GNPO), and other government organizations (OGO).

[1] To avoid confusion in the remainder of this document, the term regulatory asset will refer to the defined term in the FHP Act and the term regulated asset or rate-regulated asset (RRA) will refer to an asset recognized for accounting purposes.

GNPOs and OGOs are considered government units and, in accordance with PSAS 1300.27, are consolidated in the GRE on a line-by-line basis. For consolidation purposes, the financial information of government units is required to be prepared in accordance with PSAS.

GBEs, on the other hand, are accounted for in the GRE using the modified equity method as prescribed by PSAS 1300.35. Under the modified equity method, which is described in detail in PSAS 3070, INVESTMENTS IN GOVERNMENT BUSINESS ENTERPRISES, the equity method of accounting is modified only to the extent that the GBE's accounting principles (which are required to be IFRS in accordance with paragraph 17 of the Introduction to PSAS) are not adjusted to conform to those of the government.

As documented in Schedule 8 to the consolidated financial statements of the Province, the IESO is an OGO and OPG is a GBE. The current accounting for these entities is as follows:

		ENTITY STATEMENTS	GRE STATEMENTS
ENTITY	CLASSIFICATION	GAAP	ACCOUNTING METHOD	GAAP
OPG	GBE	US GAAP[2]	Modified equity method	IFRS[3]

1. For purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, an OGO applies PSAS unless those standards do not meet the needs of its financial statement users. In that situation, IFRS should be considered and the most appropriate set of standards applied.
2. Although a GBE is required to apply IFRS for purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, the Ontario Securities Commission has approved an exemption that allows OPG to apply US GAAP up to January 1, 2019 for purposes of filing its financial statements with the OSC.
3. OPG applies IFRS 14, which permits it to continue to account for rate-regulated activities using US GAAP guidance for its general purpose financial statements.

This memo does not reconsider the classification of these existing entities.

As discussed in detail in a subsequent section, OPG expects that it will control OPG Trust. If this is the case, OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG and, therefore, reflected in the GRE through the modified equity accounting of OPG under IFRS. If, however, it is determined that OPG Trust is controlled by the Province, OPG Trust will either (a) be consolidated in the GRE on a line-by-line basis under PSAS if determined to be an OGO, or (b) reflected in the GRE through modified equity accounting under IFRS if determined to be a GBE.

Example

For simplicity, the following example will be used in this document to illustrate the accounting impact of the FHP on the various entities involved:

- Ratepayer bill is currently $588, and the 17% reduction related to the FHP is $100.
- The Province directly borrows 44%, or $44, to make an equity contribution to OPG, which OPG then loans to OPG Trust.
- OPG directly borrows 5%, or $5, and loans it to OPG Trust.
- OPG Trust directly borrows 51%, or $51, from capital markets.

IESO

The IESO is presently classified as an OGO and prepares its standalone, general purpose financial statements in accordance with PSAS, which is consistent with the basis of presentation required for purposes of consolidating the IESO into the GRE. ~~Under PSAS, the IESO would also have the option of reporting based on IFRS. If the IESO were classified as a GBE, it would also report based on IFRS. Since the IESO has rate regulated balances, it would likely report using IFRS14, consistent with the IFRS related information provided by both Hydro One and OPG which are rate regulated.~~

Current State

Effective January 1, 2016, the IESO adopted on a retrospective basis a new accounting policy that requires its market-settlement activities[2] to be reflected in the financial statements. Under the new policy, the assets and liabilities recognized on the IESO's statement of financial position relating to the IESO-administered markets include cash, amounts due from market participants, interest receivable, revolving line of credit, HST receivable, amounts due to market participants and other liabilities. The IESO's statement of operations and accumulated surplus ~~financial statements~~ does not include the revenue and expenses of the financial transactions of market participants within the IESO-administered markets. This indicates IESO management has taken the position that the IESO is an agent, not a principal, in the IESO-administered markets and, accordingly, records revenue on a net basis.

PSAS doesn't provide any specific guidance as to how it should be determined whether an entity is acting as a principal or an agent in the context of revenue recognition, but both IFRS and US GAAP do. The relevant guidance in IFRS is as follows:

IAS 18.8

Revenue includes only the gross inflows of economic benefits received and receivable by the entity on its own account. Amounts collected on behalf of third parties such as sales taxes, goods and services taxes and value added taxes are not economic benefits which flow to the entity and do not result in increases in equity. Therefore, they are excluded from revenue. Similarly, in an agency relationship, the gross inflows of economic benefits include amounts collected on behalf of the principal and which do not result in increases in equity for the entity. The amounts collected on behalf of the principal are not revenue. Instead, revenue is the amount of commission.

Determining whether an entity is acting as a principal or as an agent (2009 amendment).

Paragraph 8 states that 'in an agency relationship, the gross inflows of economic benefits include amounts collected on behalf of the principal and which do not result in increases in equity for the entity. The amounts collected on behalf of the principal are not revenue. Instead, revenue is the amount of commission.' Determining whether an entity is acting as a principal or as an agent requires judgement and consideration of all relevant facts and circumstances.

An entity is acting as a principal when it has exposure to the significant risks and rewards associated with the sale of goods or the rendering of services. Features that indicate that an entity is acting as a principal include:

a) the entity has the primary responsibility for providing the goods or services to the customer or for fulfilling the order, for example by being responsible for the acceptability of the products or services ordered or purchased by the customer;
b) the entity has inventory risk before or after the customer order, during shipping or on return;

[2] The IESO itself does not buy or sell electricity. It administers the wholesale electricity market by authorizing market participants, publishing system forecasts and market information, producing statements and invoices, and performing financial settlement transactions for the markets.

c) the entity has latitude in establishing prices, either directly or indirectly, for example by providing additional goods or services; and

d) the entity bears the customer's credit risk for the amount receivable from the customer.

An entity is acting as an agent when it does not have exposure to the significant risks and rewards associated with the sale of goods or the rendering of services. One feature indicating that an entity is acting as an agent is that the amount the entity earns is predetermined, being either a fixed fee per transaction or a stated percentage of the amount billed to the customer.

Application of the above IFRS guidance supports the conclusion that the IESO is an agent in the market-settlement process and, therefore, recognizing revenue on a net basis is appropriate. IESO has completed a more thorough analysis of their position that it is an agent in the settlement of the market and reconsideration of that decision is not the topic of this memo.

The IESO is required by legislation to carry out its operations without the purpose of gain or profit~~, making the IESO a self-sustaining entity~~. Other than the amounts the IESO is permitted to keep in accordance with its own rate order from the OEB to cover its internal operating costs, which makes it a self-sustaining entity, all amounts the IESO receives from market participants must be paid out to other market participants who have regulatory or contractual rights to receive payments from those collected amounts.

In the context of applying the principal vs. agent guidance, the amounts the IESO is permitted to keep in accordance with its own rate order from the OEB to cover its internal operating costs are recorded as system fee revenue in the IESO's financial statements. System fees are not characterized as being part of the IESO-administered markets. Accordingly, any references to the IESO-administered markets in this document exclude system fees.

As stated in the IESO financial statements, the IESO-administered markets is a balancing system, and as such, the net position of market accounts will ultimately settle to a nil balance in accordance with market rules. However, due to settlement timing differences, the net position of market accounts will not be in a nil position from a cash flow perspective at the end of any reporting period.

This raises a question as to how a cash flow deficit related to the market-settlement process should be accounted for in the financial statements of the IESO. Two approaches are as follows:

1. The cash flow deficit is recognized as an asset when it occurs and then derecognized in the period in which it is settled. Under this approach, the net position of market accounts will always be in a nil balance in the IESO's balance sheet and there is no impact on the IESO's income statement.
2. The cash flow deficit is recognized as a charge to income when it occurs and then reversed through income in the period in which it is settled.

IESO management has concluded it is appropriate to recognize existing cash flow deficits arising from the market-settlement process as an asset. This is evidenced by the fact the components of the market accounts net to a nil closing balance at year end in the IESO's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2016. These financial statements also explicitly state there is no impact to the accumulated deficit or revenues and expenses as the IESO is not party to these transactions as per the market rules.

Although the IESO's financial statements include the following accounting policy on regulated assets and liabilities, the asset relating to the cash flow deficit discussed above has not been specifically labeled as a regulated asset:

As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations, in this policy.

The only two balances specifically labeled as being recognized in the IESO's financial statements under the above policy are (i) unrecovered smart metering expenses, and (ii) unrecovered PSAB transition items. IESO management has, however, indicated in discussions that the cash flow deficit/surplus associated with the original variance account is also considered to be a regulated asset/liability under ASC 980 even though it has been presented as part of the Market Accounts balances in the statement of financial position.

Impact of FHP

The implementation of the FHP results in the IESO establishing and maintaining the FHP variance account to track the resulting cash flow deficit, the balance of which is defined for the purposes of the FHP Act to be a 'regulatory asset'.

The act of legislating the balance in the FHP variance account to be a regulatory asset does not, in and of itself, result in its recognition as an asset for accounting purposes. Accordingly, the primary issue at hand is whether the legislated regulatory asset is eligible for recognition as an asset in both the standalone financial statements of the IESO and the consolidated financial statements of the GRE. As discussed in a later section, the conclusion reached with respect to ~~When~~ the standalone financial statements of the IESO ~~are considered in isolation, the impact of the conclusion reached on this issue would be eliminated to the extent the regulatory asset has been sold to OPG Trust by the end of the reporting period. The conclusion remains significant, however, due to its~~may impact ~~on~~ the consolidated financial statements of the GRE~~, which is discussed in a later section~~.

As noted above, the IESO has adopted a policy to apply the U.S. GAAP guidance in ASC 980 in connection with accounting for rate regulated assets. IESO management has applied this guidance and concluded the regulatory asset created by the FHP can be recognized as a regulated asset for accounting purposes in the financial statements of the IESO. The IESO's auditors, KPMG, concur with this position, as evidenced from the following excerpt from a draft letter issued by KPMG on May 16, 2017 (the KPMG Letter):

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Commented [NPP1]: Insert reference to consistency with previous treatment of OPA (2013 Terry Gabriel email).

Recognizing the regulatory asset as a regulated asset for accounting purposes in the financial statements of the IESO in accordance with ASC 980 is appropriate only if all of the following conditions are met:

a) the operations of the IESO (or the relevant portion thereof) are within the scope of ASC 980 based on the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2,
b) the FHP variance account meets the criteria in ASC 980-340-25-1 for capitalization as a regulatory asset, and
c) ASC 980 is an appropriate source of GAAP under PSAS.

Each of these items is addressed in turn:

a) Scope of ASC 980

ASC 980-10-15-2 states the following:

The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:

a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form. If an entity's regulated rates are based on the costs of a group of entities and the entity is so large in relation to the group of entities that its costs are, in essence, the group's costs, the regulation would meet this criterion for that entity.
c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers.

The Office of the Auditor General of Ontario (OAGO) does not believe the IESO meets the criteria to be within the scope of ASC 980. This is evidenced by the following statement included in Legislated Accounting Included in Bill 132, Including the Proposed Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 – Submission to Standing Committee on Justice Policy dated May 25, 2017 (OAGO Submission):

Moreover, IESO is not engaging in rate-regulated activities, and the contracts under its administration were never subject to rate regulation.

Ontario's electricity industry is rate-regulated. Rates paid by electricity consumers are regulated by the OEB such that over time rates equal cost plus, where applicable, a reasonable rate of return. Providing electricity to consumers involves several different parties, including generators, transmitters, distributors and the IESO. Some of these parties engage in rate-regulated activities, some do not.

The IESO serves an important and active role in Ontario's electricity market, irrespective of the fact that it records market transactions on net basis in the financial statements. The IESO balances the supply of and demand for electricity in Ontario and directs its flow across the province's transmission lines, oversees the wholesale electricity market, where the price of energy is determined, and administers the rules that govern the market. In determining whether the IESO has regulated operations, the focus is on whether the rates the IESO charges its customers are regulated and not whether the costs incurred by the IESO are regulated (although a number of them are).

The following supports the position of IESO management that the above criteria are met and the IESO's operations are within the scope of ASC 980:

The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
As noted in a research paper issued in 2001 by a taskforce established by the CICA (the CICA Research Report), there is a view held by some that, with respect to rate regulation in the public sector, there is usually no independent, third-party regulator because the government controls both the enterprise and the regulatory agency. Accordingly, it is important to point out that independence is not required to meet the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a). The requirement is an independent, third-party regulator or its own governing board empowered by statute or contract. In fact, paragraph 64 of the Basis for Conclusions for FAS 71, ACCOUNTING FOR THE EFFECTS OF CERTAIN TYPES OF REGULATION (which is the pre-codified version of ASC 980), specifically states that the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a) was modified so as not to preclude application by government utilities with rates set by their own governing board. The OEB has been established by the Province to be Ontario's independent energy regulator and, therefore, is considered the governing board of the IESO. The OEB's mandate and authority come from the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, the Electricity Act, 1998, and a number of other provincial statutes. As described in more detail below, the IESO's rates are established in accordance with these statutes. In the context of its market-settlement role, the IESO's 'customers' are the Market Participants buying electricity from the IESO-controlled grid. All Market Participants are required to execute a Participation Agreement with the IESO. In accordance with Article 3.1 of the standard Participation Agreement, each Market Participant has agreed to be bound by and to comply with all of the provisions of the Market Rules, which includes the following: Chapter 9, Section 1.2.3 Notwithstanding any other provision within the market rules, market participants shall remit to the IESO such applicable settlement amounts and other payments as may be required under the relevant provisions of the Electricity Act, 1998, the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and any related regulations, as amended from time to time. The IESO's operations meet the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a) because the rates charged by the IESO are based on statutes. As discussed in more detail below, the rates are designed to recover the IESO's expenditure for providing the regulated services and the pass-through costs related to the energy purchased from the generators and to government programs.

The main components of invoices issued by the IESO to Market Participants are as follows:

- Commodity Charges
  - Hourly Ontario Energy Price
  - Global Adjustment
- Wholesale Market Service Charges
  - IESO Administration Fee
  - Uplift Charges
  - Rural and Remote Electricity Rate Protection
- Wholesale Transmission Charges
- Debt Retirement Charge

Each component is determined as follows:

Commodity Charges

In accordance with Section 25.33(1) of the Electricity Act, the IESO is required to price electricity to recover costs:

Electricity pricing to reflect costs

IESO to make adjustments

25.33 (1) The IESO shall, through its billing and settlement systems, make adjustments in accordance with the regulations that ensure that, over time, payments by classes of market participants in Ontario that are prescribed by regulation reflect,

a) amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation and distributors, whether the amounts are determined under the market rules or under section 78.1, 78.2 or 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998;

b) amounts paid to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract, as determined under the procurement contract; and

c) such amounts as may be prescribed that are paid or incurred by the IESO in relation to the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 8 (1); 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1, s. 43 (2).

Market Participants are initially invoiced for consumed electricity at the Hourly Ontario Energy Price (HOEP), which is calculated as the average of the twelve market clearing prices set in each hour. In accordance with Section 25.33(5) of the Electricity Act, the IESO is required to track differences between the amounts invoiced to Market Participants at HOEP and actual costs incurred in a variance account:

Variance accounts

(5) The IESO shall establish and maintain such variance accounts as may be necessary to record all amounts payable or receivable by it under this section or under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. 2004, c. 23, Sched. A, s. 37; 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 8 (5); 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1, s. 43 (5).

Sections 3.1 and 3.3 of the OEB Act require the variance account to be settled over a twelve-month period, which is done through the Global Adjustment on a Market Participant's invoice:

Annual rate plan and separate rates for situations prescribed by regulation

(3.1) The Board shall, in accordance with rules prescribed by the regulations, approve or fix separate rates for the retailing of electricity,

a) to such different classes of consumers as may be prescribed by the regulations; and

b) for such different situations as may be prescribed by the regulations. 2004, c. 23, Sched. B, s. 14 (1).

Rates to reflect cost of electricity

a) the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect these costs; and

b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct. 2004, c. 23, Sched. B, s. 14 (1); 2014, c. 7, Sched. 23, s. 6 (2).

Although the implementation of the FHP involves the deferral of costs over an extended period of time, it does not change the IESO's obligation under the OEB Act to price electricity to recover incurred costs in full. The deferral relating to the FHP is tracked in a separate variance account in accordance with Section 24(1) of the Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the FHP Act):

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

The right for the IESO to recover the variance account is set out in Section 25 of the FHP Act:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Wholesale Market Service Charges

The IESO charges Market Participants administrative fees to operate the wholesale electricity market and manage the electric power system in Ontario. These fees are required to be approved by the OEB under Section 25(1) of the Electricity Act on an annual basis.

Review of requirements and fees

25 (1) The IESO shall, at least 60 days before the beginning of each fiscal year, submit its proposed expenditure and revenue requirements for the fiscal year and the fees it proposes to charge during the fiscal year to the Board for review, but shall not do so until after the Minister approves the IESO's proposed business plan for the fiscal year under section 24. 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 3 (1).

Uplift charges

Commented [LAP2]: Uplift charges are comprised of a number of things. To ask IESO for help to summarize succinctly.

Need details

RRRP charges

The RRRP program provides a rate subsidy to rural and remote residential customers who face higher distribution costs. Under the FHP Act, the cost of the RRRP program has shifted from ratepayers to provincial revenues and, therefore, is no longer a component of the IESO's invoice.

Wholesale Transmission Charge

This charge to LDCs and some large consumers covers the cost incurred by transmission companies to construct and maintain the high-voltage transmission lines needed to transport electricity from generating stations to LDCs or consumers. In accordance with Section 78(1) of the OEB Act, the rate for this service is approved by the OEB.

Debt Retirement Charge

When the Ontario electricity sector was restructured in April 1999, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) took on $20.9 million of stranded debt from Ontario Hydro. The OEFC services and retires the stranded debt with cash flows from a number of sources in the electricity sector, one of those currently being debt retirement charges paid by certain ratepayers (ratepayers cease paying debt retirement charges April 1, 2018).

Under Regulation 494/01, DEBT RETIREMENT CHARGE – ADMINISTRATION, the IESO is appointed as a collector of debt retirement charges (Section 2) and is required to collect a debt retirement charge on behalf of the OEFA from every entity who withdraws electricity from the IESO-controlled grid (Section 6(2)). The prescribed rate for the debt retirement charge is set out in Regulation 493/01, DEBT RETIREMENT CHARGE – RATES AND EXEMPTIONS.

The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.

As discussed in detail above, the IESO is required by statute to set prices to recover costs.

In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers.

As discussed in detail above, the IESO is required by statute to set prices to recover costs.

The majority of the monthly amount invoiced by the IESO to Market Participants represents a direct flow through of costs as they are incurred, but there are certain types of costs for which recovery may be deferred. For those deferred costs, the IESO is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers to fully recover costs.

Based on relatively short recovery periods, it is reasonable to assume there will be sufficient demand to recover the deferred costs that currently exist. Specifically:

- RPP and RRRP variance accounts are recovered over twelve months in accordance with Section 3.3(b) of the OEB Act. (Note - Under the FHP, responsibility for the cost of the RRRP program is being transferred to the Provincial budget and rate-payers will no longer be directly charged)

Commented [LAP3]: To confirm with Energy if all costs have shifted.

Commented [LAP4]: CV to determine if there is anything else to add from IESO's analysis.

Commented [LAP5]: To confirm with Energy if all costs have shifted.

- The Smart Metering Entity charge is recovered over the period from May 1, 2013 to October 31, 2018 in accordance with ~~XX~~OEB Decision and Order EB-2015-0298.

Under the FHP, responsibility for the cost of the OESP program is being transferred to the Provincial budget and rate-payers will no longer be charged for the cost of this program. The OESP variance account, which is currently in a credit balance, will be used to fund the cost of the program until depleted.

Although the timing of the recovery of the FHP variance account has not yet been established by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over a period of 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan, will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

In addition to the general scope requirements of ASC 980 discussed above, specific consideration is made as to whether the following scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7 applies to the FHP:

The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic does not apply to any of the following transactions:

a) Accounting for price controls that are imposed by governmental action in times of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions, or accounting for contracts in general. However, if the terms of a contract between an entity and its customer are subject to regulation and the criteria of paragraph 980-10-15-2 are met with respect to that contract, the guidance in this Topic shall apply.

Based on the discussion below, this scope exemption is not applicable to the FHP.

Electricity cost reductions resulting from the FHP do not represent price controls imposed by the Province in a time of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions. As noted in the 2017 budget speech, the 2017 Ontario Budget – A Stronger, Healthier Ontario, the FHP is a fairer way to share the costs of building a cleaner, more modern and reliable electricity generation system. In particular, the budget speech states:

Commented [NPP6]: Navigant report/other support

Recognizing that existing electricity infrastructure is expected to last for decades to come, the Province would refinance the cost of those capital investments to ensure that system costs are more equitably distributed over time.

The following paragraph from the Basis for Conclusion for FAS 71 also provides some insight as to the specific concerns relating to government imposed price controls that resulted in the scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7(a):

70. The first scope limitation of paragraph 8—excluding accounting for price controls imposed by governmental action in times of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions—was included in the Discussion Memorandum. Price controls imposed in periods of unusual conditions are not expected to be applied consistently over an extended period. Indeed, their duration usually is limited by statute. In that environment, assurance of future benefits cannot be provided by probable future actions of the price control regulator because that regulator may not exist at a given future date.

The implementation of the FHP does not create the type of environment described in FAS 71.BC70 as it is governed by the OEB and there is no concern the OEB will not continue to exist.

The second part of the scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7(a) relating to the accounting for contracts is further explained in the following paragraph from the Basis for Conclusion for FAS 71:

71. Accounting for contracts in general was also excluded from the scope of the Discussion Memorandum. The economic effects of cost reimbursement contracts are in some respects similar to the economic effects of the type of regulation addressed by this Statement. However, most contracts tend to be relatively short-term, whereas regulation of enterprises covered by this Statement is expected to continue beyond the foreseeable future. The Board noted that other authoritative literature addresses contract accounting and concluded that it should exclude the general issue of contract accounting from the scope of this Statement.

Although the impetus for the FHP relates to term of contracts the IESO has entered into with certain generators, the FHP does not change the existing accounting for these contracts.

ASC 980-340-25-1 states the following:

Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date.

The following supports the IESO's position that the FHP variance account meets the above criteria for capitalization:

It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
The following excerpts from the FHP Act make it clear that the IESO is entitled to recover the regulatory asset through rates in the future:

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

The recovery of the regulatory asset is, however, dependent on future consumption of electricity by rate-payers. Although the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not yet been established by statute, the recovery period is intended to be 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that it is probable there will be sufficient demand in the future to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan (Appendix B), will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties (e.g., investors) to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

Based on the above excerpts from the FHP Act, it is clear the IESO will be recovering costs previously incurred rather than providing for expected levels of similar future costs.

ASC 980 is an acceptable source of guidance under PSAS[3]

In assessing whether ASC 980-340-25-1 is an acceptable source of guidance under PSAS, Paragraph 5 of PSAS 1150, GENERALLY ACCEPTED ACCOUNTED PRINCIPLES, states the following:

[3] If the accounting for GBEs were to change in the future such that line by line consolidation is required using PSAS, the importance of this consideration increases significantly.

When the primary sources of GAAP do not deal with the accounting and reporting in financial statements of transactions or events encountered by the public sector reporting entity, or additional guidance is needed to apply a primary source to specific circumstances, the selection of an appropriate accounting policy requires the exercise of professional judgment. In these circumstances, a public sector reporting entity should adopt accounting policies and disclosures that are consistent with:

a) the primary sources of GAAP; and

b) the application of the concepts described in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000.

Related guidance is also provided in PSAS 1150.18-.20:

Paragraphs PS 1150.19-.24 identify some of the other sources that a public sector reporting entity might consult to assist in selecting accounting policies and disclosures that comply with paragraph PS 1150.05.

Pronouncements issued by other bodies authorized to issue accounting standards may be useful sources to consult. For example, accounting pronouncements published with the authority of the Canadian Accounting Standards Board (AcSB), International Accounting Standards Board (IASB), US Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board (FASAB), US Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), or International Public Sector Accounting Standards Board (IPSASB) are often important sources to consult on matters not covered by primary sources of GAAP or for assistance in applying a primary source of GAAP to specific circumstances.

When a public sector reporting entity chooses to consult a source described in paragraph PS 1150.19, it applies professional judgment and evaluates the source in the context of the relative manner in which the standard setter requires its pronouncements to be applied, as well as in the context of the related pronouncement. When an accounting standard setter does not have a conceptual framework that is similar to the concepts referred to in paragraph PS 1150.05(b), the public sector reporting entity needs to ensure that the selected source is consistent with those concepts.

Since PSAS does not specifically address the treatment of costs incurred that will be recovered through regulatory operations in future periods, the IESO would not be precluded from following the guidance in ASC 980-340-25-1. However, PSAS 1000.05 makes it clear that in order to do so, it must first be demonstrated that such guidance is consistent with the application of the concepts described in PSAS 1000, FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS.

The relevant guidance in PSAS 1000 relating to the recognition of an asset is as follows:

PSAS 1000.35

Assets are economic resources controlled by a government as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained.

PSAS 1000.36

Assets have three essential characteristics:

a) they embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows;

b) the public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits; and
c) the transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred.

PSAS 1000.37

An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

a) no future economic benefit;
b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or
c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred

The following supports the IESO's position that the regulatory asset possesses the three essential characteristics of an asset:

Embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows

The following excerpts from the FHP Act make it clear that the IESO is entitled to recover the regulatory asset through rates in the future:

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Accordingly, the regulatory asset, by statute, has the capacity to provide future cash inflows.

While perhaps obvious, paragraph 13 of PSAS 3210, ASSETS, confirms the generation of future cash flows represents a future economic benefit:

The future economic benefits embodied in an asset may also be in the form of generating future cash inflows. Cash inflows benefit the public sector entity because cash can be used to purchase or to provide goods and services, redistribute wealth or settle liabilities. Benefits in the form of cash inflows relate to resources, such as loans receivable, inventory for resale and portfolio investments. Also, some public sector resources generate cash inflows because they have user fees associated with them.

The ability of the regulatory asset to generate future cash flows is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers. Although the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not yet been established by statute, the recovery period is intended to be 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, sufficient demand is expected to exist in the future to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan, will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits

Paragraph 16 of PSAS 3210, ASSETS, states the following:

A public sector entity controls the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits when it:

- a) can benefit from the economic resource through its capacity to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows or to reduce cash outflows;
- b) can deny or regulate access to those benefits by others; and
- c) is exposed to the risks associated with the economic resource.

The IESO can benefit from the regulatory asset through its capacity to provide future cash inflows in one of two ways:

1. Collection through future rates

Section 25 of the FHP gives the IESO the right to recover the regulatory asset through future rates:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

2. Sale to a financing entity

Section 26 of the FHP Act permits the IESO to sell the regulatory asset:

Commented [LAP7]: CV - Are there other examples to provide as analogies – anything in tangible capital assets?

.31 When conditions indicate that a tangible capital asset no longer contributes to a government's ability to provide goods and services, or that the value

.07 When there has been a loss in value of a portfolio investment that is other than a temporary decline, the investment should be written down to recognize the loss. The write-down should be included in the statement of operations. In the case of an item in the fair value category, a reversal of any net remeasurements should be reported in the statement of remeasurement gains and losses.

26 (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

Agreement

(2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

Effect of payment

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.

Since (a) the statutory right to recover the regulatory asset belongs solely to the IESO, and (b) the IESO is permitted, but not required, to sell the regulatory asset, the IESO can deny or regulate access to the future economic benefits of the regulatory asset by others.

The IESO is exposed to the risks associated with the regulatory asset, with the primary risk being that collection through the mechanism set out in Section 25 of the FHP Act is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers.

The above analysis supports the position that the IESO controls the regulatory asset and access to the future economic benefits.

In reaching this conclusion, consideration was given to the following excerpt included on Page 37 of the 2008 Annual Report of the OAGO:

With regard to the second characteristic, we simply point again to the legacy of the former Ontario Hydro and its stranded debt. This in our view provides concrete evidence that even in monopoly situations governments do not have sufficient assurance that an enterprise will generate enough profits in future years to recover all of its past costs.

Although there needs to be sufficient assurance regarding the recovery of past costs, all relevant facts and circumstances need to be taken into consideration. Accordingly, the stranded debt of Ontario Hydro can be a relevant to the analysis, but not determinative on its own. As noted in the previous section, the recoverability of past costs will be continually assessed.

The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred

The past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource resulting from exchange agreements or contracts usually occurs at the point of exchange. This arises when substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership have been transferred to the public sector entity and normally coincides with the disbursement of funds, exchange of other assets or assumption of liabilities.
The existence of a law, by-law or policy in relation to a particular program is not a past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource. Control does not exist until the underlying event occurs.

The past transaction or event giving rise to control of an economic resource must have occurred by the financial statement date. Legislation having retroactive application cannot create a past transaction or event. Any economic resources related to that legislation would be accounted for in the current and relevant future periods, not in the period of the effective date of the legislation.

In the case of the regulatory asset, the above guidance in PSAS 3210 makes it clear that it is not the statute itself that is the transaction or event giving rise to the asset, it is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute. Accordingly, control over the economic benefits of the regulatory asset occurs when the IESO incurs a cash flow deficit that is recorded in the FHP variance account in accordance with Section 24(1) of the FHP Act:

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

At this point in time, the IESO has incurred a cash outflow for which it is entitled to recover under Section 25 of the FHP Act:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

The following excerpt from the IFRS Staff Paper on Rate-Regulated Activities prepared for discussion at the June 2017 IASB meeting presents a consistent view and dismisses the potential dissenting view that the transaction or event giving rise to the IESO's control is the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers:

A right arises from the rate-adjustment mechanism if the entity has already partially or fully fulfilled a regulatory requirement (past event) but the current regulated rate does not yet reflect the compensation that the entity is entitled to in exchange. Even though the entity cannot compel its customers to buy the regulated goods or services, the entity's right to charge an increased future regulated rate has the potential to produce for the entity an inflow of economic benefits that are not available to other parties. That right will be consumed as the entity includes the rate increase in future regulated rates and will lead to an inflow of economic benefits if customers pay the increased future regulated rate for the future delivery of goods or services.

In April 2011, Torys LLP issued a letter to OPG relating to the legal basis of OPG's regulatory deferral and variance accounts which, as evidenced by the following excerpts, also takes the position that the transaction or event giving rise to the asset is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute:

OPG's deferral and variance accounts are established either by regulation or by orders of the Ontario Energy Board (the "OEB") through the proper exercise of its jurisdiction as the administrative tribunal responsible for regulating the electricity industry in Ontario. The establishing of such an account pursuant to regulation or the granting of approval by the OEB to establish such an account confers upon OPG a right to record amounts in the account and to account for the amounts recorded on the basis that they have been prudently incurred.

The OEB has broad jurisdiction in setting payment amounts for OPG and it would not be reasonable for the legislature to have given the OEB the legislative power to authorize the establishment of accounts without also giving the OEB the power to dispose of the amounts recorded in such accounts, including in circumstances where there is no future output. Moreover, to interpret the applicable legislation in a manner that only allows for payment amounts on a volumetric basis is in our view unreasonable because it would not be consistent with the rules of statutory interpretation.

With regard to the third characteristic, we do not believe that a rate-regulation decision can be considered a transaction or event giving rise to an asset or obligation because, as stated above, from the level of the government's consolidated financial statements such a decision is an internal event between two government-controlled entities. An equivalent analysis for rate-regulated liabilities leads to the same conclusion. PSAB standards preclude the inclusion of both gains and losses from such inter-company transactions. Therefore, our contention is that, at the consolidated financial statement level, rate-regulated assets and liabilities have no place and should be removed upon consolidation of the government's controlled entities.

It should be noted, however, that the OAGO's belief that a rate-regulation decision cannot be considered a transaction or event giving rise to an asset or obligation is not contrary to the IESO's position. As noted above, it is not the statute itself that is being considered the transaction or event giving rise to the asset, it is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute.

In addition, one could argue the creation of the relevant statutes is not an internal event from the point of view of the consolidated government. Statutes must be passed by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario to become law. Since the Legislative Assembly is comprised of elected members, it can be viewed as the government's governing body.

Concluding the regulatory asset possesses the three essential characteristics of an asset in PSAS 1000.05 then begs the question as to whether the application of the guidance in ASC 980 is even necessary in this particular situation. Consistent with the statement in ASC 980 –340-25-1 that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset, ASC 980 provides guidance as to how to apply the primary source of PSAS in the regulatory environment.

In a letter from the OAGO to the Board of Directors of the IESO dated June 22, 2017 (the OAGO Letter), the OAGO makes the following statement:

The definitions of an asset in the PSAS and FASB Conceptual Framework are similar. Similar to PSAS, rate regulated deferral accounts do not generally meet the definition of an asset in the FASB's Conceptual Framework.

However, the following excerpts from the Basis for Conclusions for FAS 71 (paragraph 58 in particular), clearly support that ASC 980 is an application of, not an exception from, the basic definition of an asset in the Conceptual Framework:

Economic Effects of Regulation

56. The second threshold issue in the Discussion Memorandum was: "Does rate regulation introduce an economic dimension in some circumstances that should affect the application of generally accepted accounting principles to rate-regulated enterprises?"

57. Most respondents to the Discussion Memorandum indicated that rate regulation does introduce such an economic dimension in some circumstances. Respondents cited the cause-and-effect relationship of costs and revenues as the principal economic effect of regulation that affects accounting for regulated enterprises. They noted that cost might be one factor used by unregulated enterprises to establish prices, but it would often not be the most important factor. Usually, prices are limited by the market. An unregulated enterprise might desire to price its goods or services at a level that would recover all costs and a reasonable profit; however, the market might not permit that price. Alternatively, an unregulated enterprise might be able to increase its prices and its profit if competition does not limit its prices. In either case, cost often is not the principal determinant of prices. In contrast, for an enterprise with prices regulated on the basis of its costs, allowable costs are the principal factor that influences its prices.

58. The economic effect cited by most respondents is the ability of a regulatory action to create a future economic benefit—the essence of an asset. For example, consider a regulated enterprise that incurs costs to repair damage caused by a major storm. If the regulator approves recovery of the costs through rates over some future period or is expected to do so, the rate action of the regulator creates a new asset that offsets the reduction in the damaged asset. The enterprise has probable future economic benefits—the additional revenue that will result from including the cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. The future benefits are obtained or controlled by the enterprise as a result of a past event—incurring the cost that results in the rate order. Thus, the criteria of Concepts Statement 3 for an asset are met.

The fact that many Canadian rate-regulated entities recognized regulated assets under Part V of the CPA Canada Handbook – Pre-changeover Accounting Standards (Part V GAAP) further supports the position that regulated assets do meet the basic definition of an asset under PSAS. Although Part V GAAP refers to rate regulation in several standards, it does not include cost capitalization guidance equivalent to ASC 980-340-25-1. It does, however, specify in paragraph 32B of Section 1100, Generally accepted accounting principles, that Section 1100 applies to the recognition and measurement of assets and liabilities arising from rate regulation beginning January 1, 2009. Since Section 1100.04 only permits the use of an alternate source of GAAP if it is consistent with Part V GAAP, regulated assets need to meet the basic definition of an asset under Part V GAAP in order to be recognized. The Part V GAAP definition of an asset in Section 1000, Financial Statement Concepts is consistent with the PSAS definition.

Commented [npp8]: And where reporting under IFRS14, ASC980 continues to be the basis for reporting such assets.

Commented [LAP9R8]: To discuss

The CICA Research Report also concluded regulated assets meet the basic definition of an asset under Part V GAAP:

In the Study Group's view, the economic benefits and obligations created by rate regulation and resulting from past transactions or events, and the changes in these amounts, meet the definition of a financial statement element set out in Handbook Section 1000.

The OAGO Letter suggests that IFRS should be consulted prior to referring to ASC 980 under PSAS's GAAP hierarchy in PSAS 1150 and points out the following:

- In 2005 the International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee (IFRIC) indicated the US GAAP recognition criteria for regulated assets were not fully consistent with IFRS and could not be applied by analogy.
- When the question of rate regulated accounting was posed to the IFRIC again in 2008, the IFRIC noted the topic had been previously addressed and there was a well-established practice of first time IFRS adopters ceasing rate regulated accounting and removing regulatory deferral accounts from their financial statements.
- In the Basis for Conclusions on IFRS 14, IFRS 14.BC30 noted the differences in the recognition criteria between IFRS and ASC 980 resulted in almost all existing regulatory deferral accounts being derecognized upon transition to IFRS.

It should be noted, however, that the IASB's project on rate-regulated activities is still in progress and the OAGO Letter does not reference more recent and relevant activity. In September 2014, the IASB issued Discussion Paper DP/2014/02, Reporting the Financial Effects of Rate Regulation. The Discussion Paper presents the opposing views as to whether regulatory deferral account balances meet the definitions of an asset or a liability and specifically states the following in paragraph 5.09:

Consequently, the IASB has not formed a preliminary view on whether regulatory deferral account balances meet either the current or proposed revised Conceptual Framework definitions of an asset and a liability. It will use the input received from the responses to this Discussion Paper and the Conceptual Framework project to help it assess whether to develop any specific accounting guidance or requirements for rate-regulated activities.

In addition, the most recent paper issued by the IASB staff in June 2017 includes the following:

17. During the May 2017 Board meeting we also considered the interaction between the definitions of assets and liabilities and the characteristics of defined rate regulation (see paragraphs 5 and 6). We concluded that a combination of those characteristics suggested that the rights and obligations created by the rate-adjustment mechanism are assets and liabilities, as those terms are expected to be defined in the forthcoming revised Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting.

The Exposure Draft ED/2015/3, Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting, defines an asset as follows:

4.5 An asset is a present economic resource controlled by the entity as a result of past events.
4.6 An economic resource is a right that has the potential to produce economic benefits.

This recent activity suggests that it would be premature to assume that the IASB will conclude that regulatory deferral account balances will not meet the definitions of an asset or a liability.

Once it is determined that the regulatory asset meets the basic characteristics of an asset in PSAS 1000.36, consideration also needs to be made as to what type of asset it is. This is important because PSAS 1000.58 does not permit the recognition of intangible assets:

In the absence of appropriate public sector recognition and measurement criteria for intangibles, all intangibles, including those that have been purchased, developed, constructed or inherited in right of the Crown, are not recognized as assets in government financial statements. The intangible often called "human capital" that embodies the talent or intellectual capital of government employees is not recognized as an asset under existing accounting principles.

PSAS 1000 identifies two types of assets: financial assets and non-financial assets and provides the following commentary:

.39 Financial assets are assets that could be used to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations and are not for consumption in the normal course of operations.

.40 A financial asset is any asset that is:

- a) Cash
- b) a realizable asset that is convertible to cash;
- c) a contractual right to receive cash or another financial asset from another party;
- d) a contractual right to exchange financial instruments with another party under conditions that are potentially favourable to the government;
- e) an equity instrument of another entity;
- f) an investment in a government business enterprise or government business partnership;
- g) a financial claim on an outside organization or individual; or

h) an inventory or item for sale that meets the criteria in FINANCIAL STATEMENT PRESENTATION, paragraph PS 1201.055.

.41 Non-financial assets include tangible capital assets, and other assets such as prepaid expenses and inventories of supplies.

.42 Non-financial assets are acquired, constructed or developed assets that do not normally provide resources to discharge existing liabilities, but instead:

a) are normally employed to deliver government services;
b) may be consumed in the normal course of operations; and
c) are not for sale in the normal course of operations.

PSAS 3210, ASSETS, also provides some relevant guidance:

.24 Non-financial resources include all items of a fixed or permanent nature (such as tangible capital property), claims to goods and services (such as prepaid items) and consumable goods (such as inventories of supplies). Non-financial resources also include intangibles, Crown lands and natural resources.

.25 Certain non-financial resources are, however, not given accounting recognition as assets in government financial statements. For example, all government intangibles, and all natural resources and Crown lands that have not been purchased by the government, are not given accounting recognition in government financial statements. A government's non-financial assets, as defined in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000, comprise the recognized non-financial resources of a government.

Although PSAS does not permit the recognition of intangibles, it also does not provide a definition of intangibles. In absence of specific guidance in PSAS as to what constitutes an intangible, U.S. GAAP is probably the most appropriate source to consult, in light of the fact that it deals specifically with regulated assets. Under U.S. GAAP, a regulated asset is not treated as an intangible. ASC 980 contains separate subsections for 'Intangibles – Goodwill and Other' and 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs' and regulated assets are included in the guidance on 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs'.

In accordance with PSAS 1201.040(a), financial assets are presented separately on the statement of financial position. The IESO classifies its regulated assets (i.e., the original variance account and the regulated assets relating to unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items) as financial assets. Consistent with these other regulated assets, ~~The~~ the regulatory asset created under the FHP meets the definition of a financial asset in PSAS 1000.39 since it will be available to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations. Although the regulatory asset is not available to discharge liabilities existing at the date of the statement of financial position, that is no different than, for example, accounts receivable. ~~does not meet the criteria in PSAS 1000.40 to be a financial asset as it does not represent a current contractual right to receive cash. Accordingly, the regulatory asset is a non-financial resource. As noted above, to be recognized as an asset in the financial statements a non-financial resource cannot be an intangible.~~

~~Although PSAS does not permit the recognition of intangibles, it also does not provide a definition of intangibles. While PSAS 1000.40 provides a finite list of items that represent financial assets, the guidance in PSAS 1000.41 .42 on non-financial assets is less definitive, using words like "such as" and "normally". In absence of specific guidance in PSAS as to what constitutes an intangible, U.S. GAAP is probably the most appropriate source to consult, in light of the fact that it deals specifically with regulated assets. Under U.S. GAAP, a regulated asset is not treated as an intangible. ASC 980 contains separate subsections for 'Intangibles – Goodwill and Other' and 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs' and regulated assets are included in the guidance on 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs'. Consistent with the treatment under U.S. GAAP, the regulatory asset is categorized as an other asset under PSAS and recognized in the financial statements as a non-financial asset.~~

By recognizing the regulatory asset as a financial asset, the FHP will have a neutral impact on both the Province's net debt and accumulated deficit, which is consistent with the guidance in PSAS 1100, Financial statement objectives:

Financial statements should present information to describe the government's financial position at the end of the accounting period. Such information should be useful in evaluating:

a) the government's ability to finance its activities and to meet its liabilities and contractual obligations; and
b) the government's ability to provide future services.

A government's net debt is an important indicator of a government's financial position, highlighting the financial affordability of future government service provision. A net debt position represents a "lien" on the ability of the government to apply financial resources and future revenues to provide services. Non-financial assets are added to net debt to calculate the other indicator of a government's financial position — its accumulated surplus or deficit. Non-financial assets are "prepaid service potential". Reporting a government's recognized non-financial resources as part of its financial position provides information necessary for a more complete understanding of a government's debt position, financial position and future operating requirements.

Governments provide public services and redistribute wealth for a variety of social and economic purposes. To meet those objectives, governments need information about the cost of services and the affordability of services. An understanding of the extent of the financial "lien" the government has on its ability to provide future services as a result of past transactions and events is essential information. Governments also need to have an appreciation of the magnitude of the total economic resources they have on hand to deliver services. A government's net financial resources / net debt position, assessed in combination with the non-financial resources position of the government, provides a measure of the net recognized economic resources available to the government at the financial statement date to provide services in the future.

If the regulatory asset is not recognized as a financial asset, the Province's net debt will increase significantly, suggesting that the Province has a much higher future revenue requirement. This would be inaccurate, however, since the regulatory asset is going to be recovered under statute from electricity consumers, not taxpayers.

Debits and Credits

Based on the example provided earlier, the IESO pays the contracted power generator $400 for electricity used by the ratepayer and collects $300 from the ratepayer through their local distribution company (LDC). The $100 recovery shortfall is recorded in a variance account created by Bill 132 and deemed to be a regulatory asset. The IESO sells the regulatory asset to OPG Trust for $100 to obtain cash to make up the shortfall.

The accounting for the above transactions in the financial statements of the IESO, which are prepared in accordance with PSAS, depends on whether the regulatory asset is eligible for recognition as an asset for accounting purposes under PSAS. To avoid confusion in the remainder of this document, the term regulatory asset will refer to the defined term in the FHP Act and the term regulated asset or rate-regulated asset (RRA) will refer to an asset recognized for accounting purposes. The following table illustrates the journal entries to be booked by the IESO under both scenarios:

Scenario A – Regulated Asset			Scenario B – Not a Regulated Asset
Market Settlement
DR	Cash	300	DR	Cash	300
DR	Asset	100	DR	Expense	100
CR	Cash	(400)	CR	Cash	(400)
Sale of Regulatory Asset to OPG Trust
CR	Asset	(100)	CR	Gain	(100)

At any given point in time, the accounting result will be the same under both scenarios provided the cash shortfall has been fully funded. If a funding deficit exists, however, the deficit would be recognized as an asset under Scenario A and recognized as an expense under Scenario B. A funding deficit may arise due to, for example, temporary timing differences between the creation and sale of a regulatory asset. A funding deficit may also arise if OPG Trust (or another financing entity) ceases to purchase the IESO's regulatory assets on an on-going basis.

Notes: The Planned Flexibility identified in Figure 19 is required to meet peak requirements and represents less than 1 TWh of energy per year. Forecasting of electricity production includes the expectation of imports and exports of electricity in all years. Imports and exports are an important component in managing the operation of the electricity system. As a result, electricity production forecast exceeds the forecast Ontario consumer demand.

Hi Cindy,

Further to our meeting last week at the EY Tower on the implications of the moratorium and IESO accounting, please find below a table which compares the credit metrics between OPG Business Plan (BP), BP with FHP and "BP with FHP & Moratorium accounting". The primary metric which will drive the Credit analysis is the FFO/Total Debt ratio. As noted below in yellow this metric is breached in 3 of the 4 years if the IESO accounting under the moratorium as currently contemplated moves forward. This will have negative credit rating implications resulting in a likely downgrade. Further, there will be additional accounting risk that E&Y would have concerns about the "commercial" aspects of us entering into a transaction which will result in a credit downgrade thus jeopardizing OPG's ability to consolidate the trust. Further, when the Trust is consolidated with OPG, OPG would have losses from the FHP Trust for the entire moratorium period since there is no interest revenue to offset the interest expense that the Trust incurs.

Let me know if you have any further questions.

Introduction

Ontario's consolidated financial reports are prepared in accordance with the accounting principles for governments recommended by the Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) of the Chartered Professional Accountants of Canada (CPA Canada). In order to meet the needs of users, including the legislature and the public, for accountability in government reporting and for decision making, it is essential that public sector financial statements reflect the economic substance of the government's activities.

In March 2017, the Government of Ontario (the Province) announced its Fair Hydro Plan (FHP). In assessing the appropriate accounting treatment for the Global Adjustment refinancing (GA Refinancing) component of the FHP on Ontario's consolidated financial statements, the Office of the Provincial Controller considered the authoritative guidance issued by PSAB, as well as the accounting assessments of the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) and Ontario Power Generation (OPG) management and their external auditors and/or advisors. Given the complexity of the GA Refinancing structure, the exercise of professional judgement is necessary to ensure that key financial reporting objectives of transparency and accountability are best served.

Background

The FHP ~~will~~ reduces electricity bills for Regulated Price Plan (RPP) customers (as well as those non-RPP consumers who receive the 8% rebate as specified in the Ontario Rebate for Electricity Act, 2016) by approximately 25% for a period of one year, starting in the summer of 2017, and limits the increase in electricity bills to the rate of inflation over the next four years.

Because distribution rates vary across the province and customers use different amounts of electricity, the goal in calculating the new RPP electricity prices ~~is~~ was to achieve a 25% reduction for a "proxy" customer, ~~which is~~ established under the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 and related regulations (FHP Act) as a residential customer of Toronto Hydro who uses 750 kWh of electricity a month, pays time-of-use RPP electricity prices and has the time-of-use consumption profile of a typical residential customer. From this analysis, a modifier for non-RPP consumers to achieve similar savings was also established.

The measures that make up the 25% average reduction include:

1. Spreading the cost of Ontario's clean energy investments over the expected lifecycle of the generation infrastructure assets. This is expected to account for 18-19% of the overall reduction.
2. Shifting the cost of the Ontario Electricity Support Program (OESP) and most of the Rural or Remote Rate Protection (RRRP) program costs from ratepayers to taxpayer-funded programs.
3. An 8% rebate equal to the provincial portion of the HST, which took effect on January 1, 2017.

Under the first measure, the Province (i.e. the government reporting entity) will borrow funds to pay a portion of current electricity costs, thereby temporarily reducing the amount paid by eligible ratepayers. The deferred amounts, including interest and other costs, will be recoverable from ratepayers through future rates over a future period, ending in 30 years (2047). In other words, the impact of #1 above is fully borne by the ratepayers – it is a shift in the timing of payment for the clean energy investments, while the impacts of #2 and #3 are reducing the cost to the ratepayer, but at the cost of the taxpayer.

Objective

The objective of this memo is to assess the appropriate accounting for the first measure of the FHP (i.e. deferred recovery of clean energy costs) on the consolidated financial statements of the Province in accordance with PSAS. [NTD – Consider if document should discuss #2 and #3. This would contrast the different treatment by the Province]

Background

The Ontario Energy Board (OEB) has been established by the Province to be Ontario's independent energy regulator.

Prior to consideration of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act (~~-~~FHP Act), in accordance with Section 78(3.1) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 (the OEB Act), the OEB is responsible for determining ~~electricity commodity prices for~~ RPP prices for consumers. Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act requires the OEB to forecast the cost of electricity (commodity charge) used by RPP consumers in the rate setting. ~~and ensure the prices they are charged reflect that cost.~~ The rate setting process is highly complex and involves numerous forecasts and estimates. As a result, the OEB regulatory framework allows for variances between the actual commodity charge ~~os~~t of supplying electricity and the amount collected from RPP consumers.

In setting the rates for RPP consumers, Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act requires the OEB to settle any such variances through rates over a 12-month period. This is achieved through a price adjustment charged or credited when~~to RPP consumers. This adjustment forms part of the Global Adjustment~~ setting the next RPP rate to be paid by RPP consumers. The monthly accumulated variance account balance is held by the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO).

The IESO is the administrator of Ontario's wholesale electricity market. The IESO settles the market with all participants, as an agent.

As part of its role as market administrator, the IESO ~~calculates~~ oversees the market price for electricity (the Market Clearing Price, or MCP) by running the bids and offers of the market participants through an algorithm. The ~~actual~~ total commodity cost of ~~supplying~~ electricity, however, is ~~higher or lower than the~~not simply the MCP. ~~The actual cost can be higher than the MCP as~~ For example, certain generators are paid additional amounts relating to the cost of clean energy initiatives they have undertaken. From a government policy perspective, decisions as to what is in the best interest of the public regarding electricity generation in Ontario are not based solely on economics, they are also influenced by environmental, social and political factors. Accordingly, generators may receive compensation for investing in clean energy infrastructure ~~when it is relatively less economical~~. In these instances, the IESO (and previously the Ontario Power Authority) entered into contracts to pay the generators ~~ther~~their costs (plus a reasonable rate of return thereon) over an extended period of time, typically 20 years. The amounts paid to the generators under the terms of these contracts that are in excess of the MCP are currently included in the RPP rates set by the OEB (as part of the commodity charges ~~Global Adjustment)~~ with the intention they will be recovered from RPP consumers within 12 months. ~~in the~~ Commented [BJ6]: There is much more in GA than clean energy initiatives such as prescribed asset regulated rates and OECF NUG contracts.

~~same period they are paid to the generators. As previously noted, the complexity of the rate setting process results in variances between the amount paid to the generators and the amount collected from RPP consumers.~~

Under existing legislation, the IESO is ~~required~~ permitted to fund any cash shortfall relating to differences arising between the actual commodity cost ~~of supplying electricity~~ and the amount collected from RPP consumers. In accordance with Section 25.33(5) of the Electricity Act, 1998 (the Electricity Act), the IESO has established and maintains a variance account to track these temporary differences (the original variance account) for subsequent ~~settlement with~~RPP rate setting by the OEB ~~ratepayers~~. Cash shortfalls in the IESO arising from the original variance account are funded through financing provided by the OFA.

As described below, once the FHP is implemented, ~~the~~ the total commodity cost of ~~supplying~~ electricity to RPP consumers ~~that is paid to generators~~ will no longer be fully collected over a 12-month period. As well, FHP includes non-RPP consumers who receive the 8% rebate as specified in the Ontario Rebate for Electricity Act, 2016). Together these ratepayers are called specified consumers.

Under the FHP, while generators would continue to be paid over a twenty year period as contracted, the amounts paid by the IESO to the generators would be recovered from specified ~~ratepayers~~ consumers over a longer period. Deferring the recovery of these costs from the specified consumers on a longer-term basis would create a significant interim cash shortfall for the IESO.

Section 24(1) of the ~~Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act (the~~ FHP Act~~)~~ requires that IESO establish and maintain a variance account (separate from the original variance account described above) to track the cash shortfall specifically resulting from the implementation of the FHP (the FHP variance account). Due to the longer recovery period, and additional recoverable financing and management fee costs, the balance in the account is forecast to increase significantly. The balance in this variance account is defined in Section 1(1) of the FHP Act to be a regulatory asset[1]. The IESO is entitled under Section 25 of the FHP Act to recover the regulatory asset from ~~RPP~~ specified consumers in the future, which will be achieved through the OEB setting rates to allow for such recovery. This role of the OEB is not dissimilar to its ~~current~~ past role with respect to the setting of RPP rates to recover the ~~global adjustment~~commodity charge of supplying electricity, albeit over 12 months. Section 26 of the FHP Act also permits the IESO to transfer ~~or sell~~ the regulatory asset from time to time to a financing entity to fund its cash shortfall, thus commoditizing the future cash flow stream.

The Province has ~~requested that~~appointed OPG as the first Financial Services Manager to administer ~~the deferral of the Global Adjustment under the FHP because of OPG's participation in the market and the regulatory knowledge OPG possesses.~~the investment asset. To fulfill this role as outlined in the FHP Act, OPG ~~intends~~ must~~to~~ establish a financing entity (OPG Trust) to purchase the IESO's regulatory asset ~~on a monthly basis~~ and eliminate any cash shortfall in the IESO. OPG Trust will not be required to purchase the regulatory assets from IESO. ~~Reasons for it deciding not to purchase the regulatory assets could relate to a capital markets disruption such that OPG Trust would not be able to finance the~~

In accordance with PSAS 1300.07, the government reporting entity (GRE) for the Province comprises government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government.

As defined in the Introduction to PSAS, the following types of organizations are controlled by the government: (a) government business enterprises (GBE), government non-for profit organizations (GNPO), and other government organizations (OGO).

GNPOs and OGOs are considered government units and, in accordance with PSAS 1300.27, are consolidated in the GRE on a line-by-line basis. For consolidation purposes, the financial information of government units is required to be prepared in accordance with PSAS.

GBEs, on the other hand, are accounted for in the GRE using the modified equity method as prescribed by PSAS 1300.35. Under the modified equity method, which is described in detail in PSAS 3070, INVESTMENTS IN GOVERNMENT BUSINESS ENTERPRISES, the equity method of accounting is modified only to the extent that the GBE's accounting principles (which are required to be IFRS in accordance with paragraph 17 of the Introduction to PSAS) are not adjusted to conform to those of the government.

As documented in Schedule 8 to the consolidated financial statements of the Province, the IESO is an OGO and OPG is a GBE. The current accounting for these entities is as follows:

		ENTITY STATEMENTS	GRE STATEMENTS
ENTITY	CLASSIFICATION	GAAP	ACCOUNTING METHOD	GAAP
OPG	GBE	US GAAP[2]	Modified equity method	IFRS[3]

1. For purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, an OGO applies PSAS unless those standards do not meet the needs of its financial statement users. In that situation, IFRS should be considered and the most appropriate set of standards applied.
2. Although a GBE is required to apply IFRS for purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, the Ontario Securities Commission has approved an exemption that allows OPG to apply US GAAP up to January 1, 2019 for purposes of filing its financial statements with the OSC. US GAAP to IFRS adjustments are made for the purposes of preparing the consolidated provincial accounts.
3. OPG applies IFRS 14, which permits it to continue to account for rate-regulated activities using US GAAP guidance for purposes of determining the differences between US GAAP and IFRS..

This memo does not reconsider the classification of these existing entities (i.e., such classifications are based on past published Public Accounts).

As discussed in detail in a subsequent section, OPG expects that under IFRS it will be considered to control OPG Trust. As such, OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG and, therefore, reflected in the GRE through the modified equity accounting of OPG under IFRS.

Example

For simplicity, the following example will be used in this document to illustrate the accounting impact of the FHP on the various entities involved:

- Ratepayer bill is currently $588, and the 17% reduction related to the FHP is $100.
- The Province directly borrows 44%, or $44, to make an equity contribution to OPG, which OPG then loans to OPG Trust.
- OPG directly borrows 5%, or $5, and loans it to OPG Trust.
- OPG Trust directly borrows 51%, or $51, from capital markets.

IESO

The IESO is presently classified as an OGO and prepares its standalone, general purpose financial statements in accordance with PSAS based on an assessment of its user needs, which is consistent with the basis of presentation required for purposes of consolidating the IESO into the GRE.

Current State

Effective January 1, 2016, the IESO adopted on a retrospective basis a new accounting policy that requires its market ~~settlement activities~~[2] accounts – namely assets and liabilities as of the statement date to be reflected ~~in~~ on the ~~financial statements~~statement of financial position. Under the new policy, the assets and liabilities ~~recognized on the IESO's statement of financial position~~ relating to the IESO-administered markets include cash, amounts due from market participants, interest receivable, revolving line of credit, HST receivable, amounts due to market participants and other liabilities. The IESO statement of operations and accumulated surplus does not include the revenue and expenses of the financial transactions of market participants within the IESO-administered markets. This indicates IESO management has taken the position that the IESO is an agent, not a principal, in the IESO-administered markets and, accordingly, records revenue on a net basis.

PSAS does not provide any specific guidance as to how it should be determined whether an entity is acting as a principal or an agent in the context of revenue recognition, but both IFRS and US GAAP do. The relevant guidance in IFRS is as follows:

IAS 18.8

Revenue includes only the gross inflows of economic benefits received and receivable by the entity on its own account. Amounts collected on behalf of third parties such as sales taxes, goods and services taxes and value added taxes are not economic benefits which flow to the entity and do not result in increases in equity. Therefore, they are excluded from revenue. Similarly, in an agency relationship, the gross inflows of economic benefits include amounts collected on behalf of the principal and which do not result in increases in equity for the entity. The amounts collected on behalf of the principal are not revenue. Instead, revenue is the amount of commission.

Determining whether an entity is acting as a principal or as an agent (2009 amendment).

Paragraph 8 states that 'in an agency relationship, the gross inflows of economic benefits include amounts collected on behalf of the principal and which do not result in increases in equity for the entity. The amounts collected on behalf of the principal are not revenue. Instead, revenue is the amount of commission.' Determining whether an entity is acting as a principal or as an agent requires judgement and consideration of all relevant facts and circumstances.

[2] The IESO administers the wholesale electricity market by authorizing market participants, publishing system forecasts and market information, producing statements and invoices, and performing financial settlement transactions for the markets.

An entity is acting as a principal when it has exposure to the significant risks and rewards associated with the sale of goods or the rendering of services. Features that indicate that an entity is acting as a principal include:

a) the entity has the primary responsibility for providing the goods or services to the customer or for fulfilling the order, for example by being responsible for the acceptability of the products or services ordered or purchased by the customer;
b) the entity has inventory risk before or after the customer order, during shipping or on return;
c) the entity has latitude in establishing prices, either directly or indirectly, for example by providing additional goods or services; and
d) the entity bears the customer's credit risk for the amount receivable from the customer.

An entity is acting as an agent when it does not have exposure to the significant risks and rewards associated with the sale of goods or the rendering of services. One feature indicating that an entity is acting as an agent is that the amount the entity earns is predetermined, being either a fixed fee per transaction or a stated percentage of the amount billed to the customer.

Application of the above IFRS guidance supports the conclusion that the IESO is an agent in the market-settlement process and, therefore, recognizing revenue on a net basis is appropriate. IESO has completed a more thorough analysis of their position that it is an agent in the settlement of the market and reconsideration of that decision is not the topic of this memo.

The IESO is required by legislation to carry out its operations without the purpose of gain or profit. Other than the amounts the IESO is permitted to keep in accordance with its own rate order from the OEB to cover its internal operating costs, which makes it a self-sustaining entity, all amounts the IESO receives from market participants must be paid out to other market participants who have regulatory or contractual rights to receive payments from those collected amounts.

Commented [VC(14]: Does the legislation speak to IESO incurring a loss?

In the context of applying the principal vs. agent guidance, the amounts the IESO is permitted to keep in accordance with its own rate order from the OEB to cover its internal operating costs are recorded as system fee revenue in the IESO financial statements. System fees are not characterized as being part of the IESO-administered markets. Accordingly, any references to the IESO-administered markets in this document exclude system fees.

As stated in the IESO financial statements, the IESO-administered markets is a balancing system, and as such, the net position of market accounts will ultimately settle to a nil balance in accordance with market rules. However, due to settlement timing differences, the net position of market accounts will not be in a nil position from a cash flow perspective at the end of any reporting period.

This raises a question as to how a cash flow deficit related to the market-settlement process should be accounted for in the financial statements of the IESO. Two approaches are as follows:

1. The cash flow deficit is recognized as an asset when it occurs and then derecognized in the period in which it is settled. Under this approach, the net position of market accounts will always be in a nil balance in the IESO's balance sheet and there is no impact on the IESO's income statement.
2. The cash flow deficit is recognized as a charge to income when it occurs and then reversed through income in the period in which it is settled.

IESO management has concluded it is appropriate to recognize existing cash flow deficits arising from the market-settlement process as an asset. This is evidenced by the fact the components of the market accounts net to a nil closing balance at year end in the IESO financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2016. These financial statements also explicitly state there is no impact to the accumulated deficit or revenues and expenses as the IESO is not party to these transactions as per the market rules. This treatment is consistent with the conclusion that the IESO is acting as an agent in the market-settlement process.

Commented [VC(15]: Is there a reference for this statement?

Commented [BJ16]: Is this true? We are counter-party to contracts, Not party to transactions from a rules perspective means we do not put in bids and offers and we are permitted to socialize losses – we are net neutral.

Although the IESO's financial statements include the following accounting policy on regulated assets and liabilities, the asset relating to the cash flow deficit discussed above has not been specifically labeled as a regulated asset:

As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations, in this policy.

The only two balances specifically labeled as being recognized in the IESO's financial statements under the above policy are (i) unrecovered smart metering expenses, and (ii) unrecovered PSAB transition items. IESO management has, however, indicated in discussions that the cash flow deficit/surplus associated with the original variance account is also considered to be a regulated asset/liability under ASC 980 even though it has been presented as part of the Market Accounts balances in the statement of financial position.

Impact of FHP

The implementation of the FHP results in the IESO establishing and maintaining the FHP variance account to track the resulting cash flow deficit, the balance of which is ~~defined~~ recognized by the IESO ~~for the purposes of the FHP Act~~ to be a 'regulatory asset'. This variance account is similar in nature to the current variance account established under Section 25.33(5) of the Electricity Act, 1998 , discussed in the Background Section to this memo.

The act of legislating the balance in the FHP variance account ~~to be a regulatory asset~~ does not, in and of itself, result in its recognition as an asset for accounting purposes. Accordingly, the primary issue at hand is whether the legislated variance account value ~~regulatory asset~~ is eligible for recognition as an asset in both the standalone financial statements of the IESO and the consolidated financial statements of the GRE. As discussed in a later section, the conclusion reached with respect to the appropriate accounting for the FHP in the standalone financial statements of the IESO as an OGO reporting under PSAS may impact the consolidated financial statements of the GRE.

As noted above, the IESO has adopted a policy to apply the U.S. GAAP guidance in ASC 980 in connection with accounting for rate regulated assets. IESO management has applied this guidance and concluded the value of the variance account~~regulatory asset~~ created by the FHP can be recognized as a regulated asset for accounting purposes in the financial statements of the IESO. The IESO's auditors, KPMG, concur with this position, as evidenced from the following excerpt from a draft letter issued by KPMG on May 16, 2017 (the KPMG Letter):

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Recognizing the regulatory asset as a regulated asset for accounting purposes in the financial statements of the IESO in accordance with ASC 980 is appropriate only if all of the following conditions are met:

a) the operations of the IESO (or the relevant portion thereof) are within the scope of ASC 980 based on the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2,
b) the FHP variance account meets the criteria in ASC 980-340-25-1 for capitalization as a regulatory asset, and
c) ASC 980 is an appropriate source of GAAP under PSAS.

Each of these items is addressed in turn:

a) Scope of ASC 980

ASC 980-10-15-2 states the following:

The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:

a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form. If an entity's regulated rates are based on the costs of a group of entities and the entity is so large in relation to the group of entities that its costs are, in essence, the group's costs, the regulation would meet this criterion for that entity.
c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers.

The Office of the Auditor General of Ontario (OAGO) has publicly stated that it does not believe the IESO meets the criteria to be within the scope of ASC 980. This is evidenced by the following statement included in Legislated Accounting Included in Bill 132, Including the Proposed Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 – Submission to Standing Committee on Justice Policy dated May 25, 2017 (OAGO Submission):

Moreover, IESO is not engaging in rate-regulated activities, and the contracts under its administration were never subject to rate regulation.

Ontario's electricity industry is rate-regulated. Rates paid by electricity consumers are regulated by the OEB such that over time rates equal cost plus, where applicable, a reasonable rate of return. Providing electricity to consumers involves several different parties, including generators, transmitters, distributors and the IESO. Some of these parties engage in rate-regulated activities, some do not.

The IESO serves an important and active role in Ontario's electricity market, irrespective of the fact that it records market transactions on net basis in the financial statements. The IESO balances the supply of and demand for electricity in Ontario and directs its flow across the province's transmission lines, oversees the wholesale electricity market, where the price of energy is determined, and administers the rules that govern the market. In determining whether the IESO has regulated operations, the focus is on whether the rates the IESO charges its customers are regulated and not whether the costs incurred by the IESO are regulated (although a number of them are).

The following supports the position of IESO management that the above criteria are met and the IESO's operations are within the scope of ASC 980:

The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.

As noted in a research paper issued in 2001 by a taskforce established by the CICA (the CICA Research Report), there is a view held by some that, with respect to rate regulation in the public sector, there is usually no independent, third-party regulator because the government controls both the enterprise and the regulatory agency. Accordingly, it is important to point out that independence is not required to meet the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a). The requirement is an independent, third-party regulator or its own governing board empowered by statute or contract. In fact, paragraph 64 of the Basis for Conclusions for FAS 71, ACCOUNTING FOR THE EFFECTS OF CERTAIN TYPES OF REGULATION (which is the pre-codified version of ASC 980), specifically states that the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a) was modified so as not to preclude application by government utilities with rates set by their own governing board.

The OEB has been established by the Province to be Ontario's independent energy regulator and, therefore, is considered the governing board of the IESO. The OEB's mandate and authority come from the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, the Electricity Act, 1998, and a number of other provincial statutes. As described in more detail below, the IESO's rates are established in accordance with these statutes.

In the context of its market-settlement role, the IESO's 'customers' are the Market Participants buying electricity from the IESO-controlled grid. All Market Participants are required to execute a Participation Agreement with the IESO. In accordance with Article 3.1 of the standard Participation Agreement, each Market Participant has agreed to be bound by and to comply with all of the provisions of the Market Rules, which includes the following:

Chapter 9, Section 1.2.3
Notwithstanding any other provision within the market rules, market participants shall remit to the IESO such applicable settlement amounts and other payments as may be required under the relevant provisions of the Electricity Act, 1998, the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and any related regulations, as amended from time to time.

The IESO's operations meet the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a) because the rates charged by the IESO are based on statutes. As discussed in more detail below, the rates are designed to recover the IESO's expenditure for providing the regulated services and the pass-through costs related to the energy purchased from the generators and to government programs.

The main components of invoices issued by the IESO to Market Participants are as follows:

- Commodity Charges
  - Hourly Ontario Energy Price
  - Global Adjustment
- Wholesale Market Service Charges
  - IESO Administration Fee
  - Uplift Charges
  - Rural and Remote Electricity Rate Protection
- Wholesale Transmission Charges
- Debt Retirement Charge

Each component is determined as follows:

Commodity Charges

In accordance with Section 25.33(1) of the Electricity Act, the IESO is required to price electricity to recover costs:

Electricity pricing to reflect costs

IESO to make adjustments

25.33 (1) The IESO shall, through its billing and settlement systems, make adjustments in accordance with the regulations that ensure that, over time, payments by classes of market participants in Ontario that are prescribed by regulation reflect,

a) amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation and distributors, whether the amounts are determined under the market rules or under section 78.1, 78.2 or 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998;

b) amounts paid to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract, as determined under the procurement contract; and

c) such amounts as may be prescribed that are paid or incurred by the IESO in relation to the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 8 (1); 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1, s. 43 (2).

Market Participants are ~~initially~~ invoiced for consumed electricity at the Hourly Ontario Energy Price (HOEP), which is calculated as the average of the twelve market clearing prices set in each hour. In addition and in accordance with Section 25.33(5) of the Electricity Act, the IESO charges for global adjustment. In advance of IESO's monthly invoicing, LDCs submit to the IESO their excess/shortfall related to RPP prices which is included on their IESO invoice. The monthly accumulated excess/shortfall is held separately in a variance account. ~~is required to track differences between the amounts invoiced to Market Participants at HOEP and actual costs incurred in a variance account:~~

~~b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct. 2004, c. 23, Sched. B, s. 14 (1); 2014, c. 7, Sched. 23, s. 6 (2).~~

Although the implementation of the FHP involves the deferral of costs over an extended period of time, it does not change the IESO's obligation under the OEB Act to price electricity to recover incurred costs in full. The deferral relating to the FHP is tracked in a separate variance account in accordance with Section 24(1) of the Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the FHP Act):

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

The right for the IESO to recover the variance account is set out in Section 25 of the FHP Act:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Wholesale Market Service Charges

The IESO charges Market Participants an administration~~ve~~ fee~~s~~ to operate the wholesale electricity market and manage the electric power system in Ontario. ~~These~~ This fee~~s are~~ is required to be approved by the OEB under Section 25(1) of the Electricity Act on an annual basis.

Commented [BJ19]: To be clear other hourly and non-hourly fees are set by the market rules not by the OEB.

Commented [LAP20]: Uplift charges are comprised of a number of things. To ask IESO for help to summarize succinctly.

Commented [DM(21]: Will provide ASAP (Following up with IESO)

The RRRP program provides a rate subsidy to rural and remote residential customers who face higher distribution costs. Under the FHP Act, ~~the~~ a significant portion of the cost of the RRRP program has shifted from ratepayers to provincial revenues and, therefore, ~~is no longer a~~the component on the ~~of the~~ IESO invoice is much smaller (reduc~~moved~~ from $3.10 to $0.30/ MWh.

Wholesale Transmission Charge

This charge to LDCs and some large consumers covers the cost incurred by transmission companies to construct and maintain the high-voltage transmission lines needed to transport electricity from generating stations to LDCs or consumers. In accordance with Section 78(1) of the OEB Act, the rate for this service is approved by the OEB.

Debt Retirement Charge

When the Ontario electricity sector was restructured in April 1999, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) took on $20.9 million of stranded debt from Ontario Hydro. The OEFC services and retires the stranded debt with cash flows from a number of sources in the electricity sector, one of those currently being debt retirement charges paid by certain ratepayers (ratepayers cease paying debt retirement charges April 1, 2018).

Under Regulation 494/01, DEBT RETIREMENT CHARGE – ADMINISTRATION, the IESO is appointed as a collector of debt retirement charges (Section 2) and is required to collect a debt retirement charge on behalf of the OEFA from every entity who withdraws electricity from the IESO-controlled grid (Section 6(2)). The prescribed rate for the debt retirement charge is set out in Regulation 493/01, DEBT RETIREMENT CHARGE – RATES AND EXEMPTIONS.

The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.

As discussed in detail above, the IESO is required by statute to set prices to recover costs.

In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers.

As discussed in detail above, the IESO is required by statute to set prices to recover costs.

The majority of the monthly amount invoiced by the IESO to Market Participants represents a direct flow through of costs as they are incurred, but there are certain types of costs for which recovery may be deferred. For those deferred costs, the IESO is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers to fully recover costs.

Based on relatively short recovery periods, it is reasonable to assume there will be sufficient demand to recover the deferred costs that currently exist. Specifically:

- RPP and RRRP variance accounts are recovered over twelve months in accordance with Section 3.3(b) of the OEB Act. (Note - Under the FHP, responsibility for the most of the cost of the RRRP program is being transferred to the Provincial budget and rate-payers will no longer be directly charged)
- The Smart Metering Entity charge is recovered over the period from May 1, 2013 to October 31, 2018 in accordance with OEB Decision and Order EB-2015-0298.

Commented [DM(22]: Understanding is not all costs have shifted; need to confirm where the line is drawn

Commented [LAP23]: To confirm with Energy if all costs have shifted.

Commented [LAP24]: CV to determine if there is anything else to add from IESO's analysis.

Commented [LAP25]: To confirm with Energy if all costs have shifted.

Under the FHP, responsibility for the cost of the OESP program is being transferred to the Provincial budget and rate-payers will no longer be charged for the cost of this program. The OESP variance account, which is currently in a credit balance, will be used to fund the cost of the program until depleted.

Although the timing of the recovery of the FHP variance account has not yet been established by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over a period of 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan, will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

In addition to the general scope requirements of ASC 980 discussed above, specific consideration is made as to whether the following scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7 applies to the FHP:

The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic does not apply to any of the following transactions:

a) Accounting for price controls that are imposed by governmental action in times of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions, or accounting for contracts in general. However, if the terms of a contract between an entity and its customer are subject to regulation and the criteria of paragraph 980-10-15-2 are met with respect to that contract, the guidance in this Topic shall apply.

Based on the discussion below, this scope exemption is not applicable to the FHP.

Electricity cost reductions resulting from the FHP do not represent price controls imposed by the Province in a time of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions. As noted in the 2017 budget speech, the 2017 Ontario Budget – A Stronger, Healthier Ontario, the FHP is a fairer way to share the costs of building a cleaner, more modern and reliable electricity generation system. In particular, the budget speech states:

Commented [LAP26]: Consider Navigant report if/when becomes available

Recognizing that existing electricity infrastructure is expected to last for decades to come, the Province would refinance the cost of those capital investments to ensure that system costs are more equitably distributed over time.

The following paragraph from the Basis for Conclusion for FAS 71 also provides some insight as to the specific concerns relating to government imposed price controls that resulted in the scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7(a):

70. The first scope limitation of paragraph 8—excluding accounting for price controls imposed by governmental action in times of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions—was included in the Discussion Memorandum. Price controls imposed in periods of unusual conditions are not expected to be applied consistently over an extended period. Indeed, their duration usually is limited by statute. In that environment, assurance of future benefits cannot be provided by probable future actions of the price control regulator because that regulator may not exist at a given future date.

The implementation of the FHP does not create the type of environment described in FAS 71.BC70 as it is governed by the OEB and there is no concern the OEB will not continue to exist.

The second part of the scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7(a) relating to the accounting for contracts is further explained in the following paragraph from the Basis for Conclusion for FAS 71:

71. Accounting for contracts in general was also excluded from the scope of the Discussion Memorandum. The economic effects of cost reimbursement contracts are in some respects similar to the economic effects of the type of regulation addressed by this Statement. However, most contracts tend to be relatively short-term, whereas regulation of enterprises covered by this Statement is expected to continue beyond the foreseeable future. The Board noted that other authoritative literature addresses contract accounting and concluded that it should exclude the general issue of contract accounting from the scope of this Statement.

Although the impetus for the FHP relates to term of contracts the IESO has entered into with certain generators, the FHP does not change the existing accounting for these contracts.

ASC 980-340-25-1 states the following:

Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date.

The following supports the IESO's position that the FHP variance account meets the above criteria for capitalization:

It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
The following excerpts from the FHP Act make it clear that the IESO is entitled to recover the regulatory asset through rates in the future: Variance account to be established, maintained 24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following: 1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

The recovery of the regulatory asset is, however, dependent on future consumption of electricity by rate-payers. The recovery period is intended to be 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that it is probable there will be sufficient demand in the future to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan (Appendix B), will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period.

The willingness of unrelated third parties (e.g., investors) to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

Based on the above excerpts from the FHP Act, it is clear the IESO will be recovering costs previously incurred rather than providing for expected levels of similar future costs.

The IESO is considered an agent in the market-settlement process and, therefore, recognizes revenue on a net basis. Although this conclusion impacts whether the recovery of costs through rates are presented as revenue in the financial statements of the IESO, it is not considered to preclude these amounts from being considered 'future revenue' for purposes of assessing the criteria in ASC 980-340-25-1. In fact, the capitalization of the incurred costs in the FHP variance account preserves the treatment of the IESO as an agent (i.e., if these costs are not capitalized, it results the recognition of costs in the period incurred and the recognition of revenue in a subsequent period when electricity is consumed, which, in effect, is gross presentation). To put another way, not capitalizing the costs in FHP variance account treats the IESO as a principal in the transaction by showing costs and revenue.

Commented [VC(27]: Suggest we expand this analysis – not sure this is technically true (the price set would just be very high), but practically, this would probably not be permitted to occur

Commented [LAP28]: Once the terms of the guarantee are finalized, I think we should comment (if true) that the guarantee relates to regulatory changes and does not cover lack of demand.

CV – will share a copy of the current agreement – does not cover lack of demand

Is ASC 980 an acceptable source of guidance under PSAS[3]

In assessing whether ASC 980-340-25-1 is an acceptable source of guidance under PSAS, Paragraph 5 of PSAS 1150, GENERALLY ACCEPTED ACCOUNTED PRINCIPLES, states the following:

When the primary sources of GAAP do not deal with the accounting and reporting in financial statements of transactions or events encountered by the public sector reporting entity, or additional guidance is needed to apply a primary source to specific circumstances, the selection of an appropriate accounting policy requires the exercise of professional judgment. In these circumstances, a public sector reporting entity should adopt accounting policies and disclosures that are consistent with:

a) the primary sources of GAAP; and

b) the application of the concepts described in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000.

Related guidance is also provided in PSAS 1150.18-.20:

Paragraphs PS 1150.19-.24 identify some of the other sources that a public sector reporting entity might consult to assist in selecting accounting policies and disclosures that comply with paragraph PS 1150.05.

Pronouncements issued by other bodies authorized to issue accounting standards may be useful sources to consult. For example, accounting pronouncements published with the authority of the Canadian Accounting Standards Board (AcSB), International Accounting Standards Board (IASB), US Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board (FASAB), US Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), or International Public Sector Accounting Standards Board (IPSASB) are often important sources to consult on matters not covered by primary sources of GAAP or for assistance in applying a primary source of GAAP to specific circumstances.

When a public sector reporting entity chooses to consult a source described in paragraph PS 1150.19, it applies professional judgment and evaluates the source in the context of the relative manner in which the standard setter requires its pronouncements to be applied, as well as in the context of the related pronouncement. When an accounting standard setter does not have a conceptual framework that is similar to the concepts referred to in paragraph PS 1150.05(b), the public sector reporting entity needs to ensure that the selected source is consistent with those concepts.

Since PSAS does not specifically address the treatment of costs incurred that will be recovered through regulatory operations in future periods, the IESO would not be precluded from following the guidance in ASC 980-340-25-1 (i.e., silence under PSAS on this specific topic does not, on its own, mean that such guidance is to be ignored). However, PSAS 1000.05 makes it clear that in order to do so, it must first be demonstrated that such guidance is consistent with the application of the concepts described in PSAS 1000, FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS.

Assets are economic resources controlled by a government as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained.

[3] If the accounting for GBEs were to change in the future such that line by line consolidation is required using PSAS, the importance of this consideration increases significantly.

PSAS 1000.36

Assets have three essential characteristics:

a) they embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows;
b) the public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits; and
c) the transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred.

PSAS 1000.37

An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

a) no future economic benefit;
b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or
c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred

The following supports the IESO's position that the regulatory asset possesses the three essential characteristics of an asset:

Embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows

The following excerpts from the FHP Act make it clear that the IESO is entitled to recover the regulatory asset through rates in the future:

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Accordingly, the regulatory asset, by statute, has the capacity to provide future cash inflows.

While perhaps obvious, paragraph 13 of PSAS 3210, ASSETS, confirms the generation of future cash flows represents a future economic benefit:

The future economic benefits embodied in an asset may also be in the form of generating future cash inflows. Cash inflows benefit the public sector entity because cash can be used to purchase or to provide goods and services, redistribute wealth or settle liabilities. Benefits in the form of cash inflows relate to resources, such as loans receivable, inventory for resale and portfolio investments. Also, some public sector resources generate cash inflows because they have user fees associated with them.

The ability of the regulatory asset to generate future cash flows is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers. Although the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not yet been established by statute, the recovery period is intended to be 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, sufficient demand is expected to exist in the future to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan, will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period.

The willingness of unrelated third parties to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

The guidance on forgivable loans in PSAS 3050, Loans receivable, provides an example where an asset can be recognized under PSAS based on the existence of sufficient evidence of a reasonable expectation of its recovery.

The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits

Paragraph 16 of PSAS 3210, ASSETS, states the following:

A public sector entity controls the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits when it:

- a) can benefit from the economic resource through its capacity to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows or to reduce cash outflows;
- b) can deny or regulate access to those benefits by others; and
- c) is exposed to the risks associated with the economic resource.

The IESO can benefit from the regulatory asset through its capacity to provide future cash inflows in one of two ways:

1. Collection through future rates

Section 25 of the FHP gives the IESO the right to recover the regulatory asset through future rates:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Commented [VC(29]: To update based on the new LTEP to be issued this fall.

Commented [LAP30]: Once the terms of the guarantee are finalized, I think we should comment (if true) that the guarantee relates to regulatory changes and does not cover lack of demand.

Also need to consider whether a different conclusion is reached on consolidation

CV -- agreed

2. Sale to a financing entity

Section 26 of the FHP Act permits the IESO to sell the regulatory asset:

26 (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

Agreement

(2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

Effect of payment

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.

Since (a) the statutory right to recover the regulatory asset belongs solely to the IESO, and (b) the IESO is permitted, but not required, to sell the regulatory asset, the IESO can deny or regulate access to the future economic benefits of the regulatory asset by others.

The IESO is exposed to the risks associated with the regulatory asset, with the primary risk being that collection through the mechanism set out in Section 25 of the FHP Act is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers.

The above analysis supports the position that the IESO controls the regulatory asset and access to the future economic benefits.

In reaching this conclusion, consideration was given to the following excerpt included on Page 37 of the 2008 Annual Report of the OAGO:

With regard to the second characteristic, we simply point again to the legacy of the former Ontario Hydro and its stranded debt. This in our view provides concrete evidence that even in monopoly situations governments do not have sufficient assurance that an enterprise will generate enough profits in future years to recover all of its past costs.

Although there needs to be sufficient assurance regarding the recovery of past costs, all relevant facts and circumstances need to be taken into consideration. Accordingly, the stranded debt of Ontario Hydro may be relevant to the analysis, but not determinative on its own. As noted in the previous section, the recoverability of past costs will be continually assessed.

The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred

The past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource resulting from exchange agreements or contracts usually occurs at the point of exchange. This arises when substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership have been transferred to the public sector entity and normally coincides with the disbursement of funds, exchange of other assets or assumption of liabilities.

Commented [NS31]: Transfer instead of sale

Commented [LAP32]: Once terms of guarantee are finalized, need to consider if it impacts this discussion. Impact may not be at IESO level, but on consolidation.

Commented [VC(33]: See previous point – to reference to that discussion.

The existence of a law, by-law or policy in relation to a particular program is not a past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource. Control does not exist until the underlying event occurs.
The past transaction or event giving rise to control of an economic resource must have occurred by the financial statement date. Legislation having retroactive application cannot create a past transaction or event. Any economic resources related to that legislation would be accounted for in the current and relevant future periods, not in the period of the effective date of the legislation.

In the case of the regulatory asset, the above guidance in PSAS 3210 makes it clear that it is not the statute itself that is the transaction or event giving rise to the asset, it is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute. Accordingly, control over the economic benefits of the regulatory asset occurs when the IESO incurs a cash flow deficit that is recorded in the FHP variance account in accordance with Section 24(1) of the FHP Act:

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

At this point in time, the IESO has incurred a cash outflow for which it is entitled to recover under Section 25 of the FHP Act:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

The following excerpt from the IFRS Staff Paper on Rate-Regulated Activities prepared for discussion at the June 2017 IASB meeting presents a consistent view and dismisses the potential dissenting view that the transaction or event giving rise to the IESO's control is the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers:

A right arises from the rate-adjustment mechanism if the entity has already partially or fully fulfilled a regulatory requirement (past event) but the current regulated rate does not yet reflect the compensation that the entity is entitled to in exchange. Even though the entity cannot compel its customers to buy the regulated goods or services, the entity's right to charge an increased future regulated rate has the potential to produce for the entity an inflow of economic benefits that are not available to other parties. That right will be consumed as the entity includes the rate increase in future regulated rates and will lead to an inflow of economic benefits if customers pay the increased future regulated rate for the future delivery of goods or services.

With regard to the third characteristic, we do not believe that a rate-regulation decision can be considered a transaction or event giving rise to an asset or obligation because, as stated above, from the level of the government's consolidated financial statements such a decision is an internal event between two government-controlled entities. An equivalent analysis for rate-regulated liabilities leads to the same conclusion. PSAB standards preclude the inclusion of both gains and losses from such inter-company transactions. Therefore, our contention is that, at the consolidated financial statement level, rate-regulated assets and liabilities have no place and should be removed upon consolidation of the government's controlled entities.

It should be noted, however, that the OAGO's belief that a rate-regulation decision cannot be considered a transaction or event giving rise to an asset or obligation is not contrary to the IESO position. As noted above, it is not the statute itself that is being considered the transaction or event giving rise to the asset, it is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute.

In addition, one could argue the creation of the relevant statutes is not an internal event from the point of view of the consolidated government. Statutes must be passed by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario to become law. Since the Legislative Assembly is comprised of elected members, it can be viewed as the government's governing body.

Concluding the regulatory asset possesses the three essential characteristics of an asset in PSAS 1000.05 then begs the question as to whether the application of the guidance in ASC 980 is even necessary in this particular situation. Consistent with the statement in ASC 980 –340-25-1 that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset, ASC 980 provides guidance as to how to apply the primary source of PSAS in the regulatory environment.

In a letter from the OAGO to the Board of Directors of the IESO dated June 22, 2017 (the OAGO Letter), the OAGO makes the following statement:

The definitions of an asset in the PSAS and FASB Conceptual Framework are similar. Similar to PSAS, rate regulated deferral accounts do not generally meet the definition of an asset in the FASB's Conceptual Framework.

However, the following excerpts from the Basis for Conclusions for FAS 71 (paragraph 58 in particular), clearly support that ASC 980 is an application of, not an exception from, the basic definition of an asset in the Conceptual Framework:

Economic Effects of Regulation

56. The second threshold issue in the Discussion Memorandum was: "Does rate regulation introduce an economic dimension in some circumstances that should affect the application of generally accepted accounting principles to rate-regulated enterprises?"

57. Most respondents to the Discussion Memorandum indicated that rate regulation does introduce such an economic dimension in some circumstances. Respondents cited the cause-and-effect relationship of costs and revenues as the principal economic effect of regulation that affects accounting for regulated enterprises. They noted that cost might be one factor used by unregulated enterprises to establish prices, but it would often not be the most important factor. Usually, prices are limited by the market. An unregulated enterprise might desire to price its goods or services at a level that would recover all costs and a reasonable profit; however, the market might not permit that price. Alternatively, an unregulated enterprise might be able to increase its prices and its profit if competition does not limit its prices. In either case, cost often is not the principal determinant of prices. In contrast, for an enterprise with prices regulated on the basis of its costs, allowable costs are the principal factor that influences its prices.

58. The economic effect cited by most respondents is the ability of a regulatory action to create a future economic benefit—the essence of an asset. For example, consider a regulated enterprise that incurs costs to repair damage caused by a major storm. If the regulator approves recovery of the costs through rates over some future period or is expected to do so, the rate action of the regulator creates a new asset that offsets the reduction in the damaged asset. The enterprise has probable future economic benefits—the additional revenue that will result from including the cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. The future benefits are obtained or controlled by the enterprise as a result of a past event—incurring the cost that results in the rate order. Thus, the criteria of Concepts Statement 3 for an asset are met.

The fact that many Canadian rate-regulated entities recognized regulated assets under Part V of the CPA Canada Handbook – Pre-changeover Accounting Standards (Part V GAAP) further supports the position that regulated assets do meet the basic definition of an asset under PSAS. Although Part V GAAP refers to rate regulation in several standards, it does not include cost capitalization guidance equivalent to ASC 980-340-25-1. It does, however, specify in paragraph 32B of Section 1100, Generally accepted accounting principles, that Section 1100 applies to the recognition and measurement of assets and liabilities arising from rate regulation beginning January 1, 2009. Since Section 1100.04 only permits the use of an alternate source of GAAP if it is consistent with Part V GAAP, regulated assets need to meet the basic definition of an asset under Part V GAAP in order to be recognized. The Part V GAAP definition of an asset in Section 1000, Financial Statement Concepts is consistent with the PSAS definition.

The CICA Research Report also concluded regulated assets meet the basic definition of an asset under Part V GAAP:

In the Study Group's view, the economic benefits and obligations created by rate regulation and resulting from past transactions or events, and the changes in these amounts, meet the definition of a financial statement element set out in Handbook Section 1000.

The OAGO Letter suggests that IFRS should be consulted prior to referring to ASC 980 under PSAS's GAAP hierarchy in PSAS 1150 and points out the following:

- In 2005 the International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee (IFRIC) indicated the US GAAP recognition criteria for regulated assets were not fully consistent with IFRS and could not be applied by analogy.
- When the question of rate regulated accounting was posed to the IFRIC again in 2008, the IFRIC noted the topic had been previously addressed and there was a well-established practice of first time IFRS adopters ceasing rate regulated accounting and removing regulatory deferral accounts from their financial statements.
- In the Basis for Conclusions on IFRS 14, IFRS 14.BC30 noted the differences in the recognition criteria between IFRS and ASC 980 resulted in almost all existing regulatory deferral accounts being derecognized upon transition to IFRS.

While PSAS does not prescribe an ordering of consideration for sources other than primary sources, the statements made with respect to IFRS by the OAG have been considered. It should be noted, however, that the IASB's project on rate-regulated activities is still in progress and the OAGO Letter does not reference more recent and relevant activity. In September 2014, the IASB issued Discussion Paper DP/2014/02, Reporting the Financial Effects of Rate Regulation. The Discussion Paper presents the opposing views as to whether regulatory deferral account balances meet the definitions of an asset or a liability and specifically states the following in paragraph 5.09:

Consequently, the IASB has not formed a preliminary view on whether regulatory deferral account balances meet either the current or proposed revised Conceptual Framework definitions of an asset and a liability. It will use the input received from the responses to this Discussion Paper and the Conceptual Framework project to help it assess whether to develop any specific accounting guidance or requirements for rate-regulated activities.

In addition, the most recent paper issued by the IASB staff in June 2017 includes the following:

17. During the May 2017 Board meeting we also considered the interaction between the definitions of assets and liabilities and the characteristics of defined rate regulation (see paragraphs 5 and 6). We concluded that a combination of those characteristics suggested that the rights and obligations created by the rate-adjustment mechanism are assets and liabilities, as those terms are expected to be defined in the forthcoming revised Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting.

The Exposure Draft ED/2015/3, Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting, defines an asset as follows:

4.5 An asset is a present economic resource controlled by the entity as a result of past events.
4.6 An economic resource is a right that has the potential to produce economic benefits.

This recent activity suggests that it would be premature to assume that the IASB will conclude that regulatory deferral account balances will not meet the definitions of an asset or a liability.

Once it is determined that the regulatory asset meets the basic characteristics of an asset in PSAS 1000.36, consideration also needs to be made as to what type of asset it is. This is important because PSAS 1000.58 does not permit the recognition of intangible assets:

In the absence of appropriate public sector recognition and measurement criteria for intangibles, all intangibles, including those that have been purchased, developed, constructed or inherited in right of the Crown, are not recognized as assets in government financial statements. The intangible often called "human capital" that embodies the talent or intellectual capital of government employees is not recognized as an asset under existing accounting principles.

PSAS 1000 identifies two types of assets: financial assets and non-financial assets and provides the following commentary:

.39 Financial assets are assets that could be used to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations and are not for consumption in the normal course of operations.

.40 A financial asset is any asset that is:

- a) Cash
- b) a realizable asset that is convertible to cash;
- c) a contractual right to receive cash or another financial asset from another party;
- d) a contractual right to exchange financial instruments with another party under conditions that are potentially favourable to the government;
- e) an equity instrument of another entity;
- f) an investment in a government business enterprise or government business partnership;
- g) a financial claim on an outside organization or individual; or
- h) an inventory or item for sale that meets the criteria in FINANCIAL STATEMENT PRESENTATION, paragraph PS 1201.055.

.41 Non-financial assets include tangible capital assets, and other assets such as prepaid expenses and inventories of supplies.

.42 Non-financial assets are acquired, constructed or developed assets that do not normally provide resources to discharge existing liabilities, but instead:

- a) are normally employed to deliver government services;
- b) may be consumed in the normal course of operations; and
- c) are not for sale in the normal course of operations.

PSAS 3210, ASSETS, also provides some relevant guidance:

.24 Non-financial resources include all items of a fixed or permanent nature (such as tangible capital property), claims to goods and services (such as prepaid items) and consumable goods (such as inventories of supplies). Non-financial resources also include intangibles, Crown lands and natural resources.

.25 Certain non-financial resources are, however, not given accounting recognition as assets in government financial statements. For example, all government intangibles, and all natural resources and Crown lands that have not been purchased by the government, are not given accounting recognition in government financial statements. A government's non-financial assets, as defined in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000, comprise the recognized non-financial resources of a government.

Although PSAS does not permit the recognition of intangibles, it also does not provide a definition of intangibles. In absence of specific guidance in PSAS as to what constitutes an intangible, U.S. GAAP is probably the most appropriate source to consult, in light of the fact that it deals specifically with regulated assets. Under U.S. GAAP, a regulated asset is not treated as an intangible. ASC 980 contains separate subsections for 'Intangibles – Goodwill and Other' and 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs' and regulated assets are included in the guidance on 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs'.

In accordance with PSAS 1201.040(a), financial assets are presented separately on the statement of financial position. The IESO classifies its regulated assets (i.e., the original variance account and the regulated assets relating to unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items) as financial assets.

Although the regulatory asset created under the FHP does not clearly meet the definition of either a financial asset or a non-financial asset under PSAS, it possesses characteristics more consistent with that of a financial asset since it will be available to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations and is not for consumption in the normal course of operations.

Commented [LAP34]: Consider need to specifically address PS 3450.

The FHP is expected to be executed in a manner such that the regulatory asset will be available to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations in the short term through its commoditization (i.e., transfer to the OPG Trust). However, even if not commoditized, the regulatory asset will be available to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations in the future similar to, for example, a long-term receivable.

By recognizing the regulatory asset in a manner consistent with that of a financial asset, the FHP will have a neutral impact on both the Province's net debt and accumulated deficit, which appears appropriate and aligned with the intent of guidance in PSAS 1100, Financial statement objectives:

Financial statements should present information to describe the government's financial position at the end of the accounting period. Such information should be useful in evaluating:

a) the government's ability to finance its activities and to meet its liabilities and contractual obligations; and
b) the government's ability to provide future services.

A government's net debt is an important indicator of a government's financial position, highlighting the financial affordability of future government service provision. A net debt position represents a "lien" on the ability of the government to apply financial resources and future revenues to provide services. Non-financial assets are added to net debt to calculate the other indicator of a government's financial position — its accumulated surplus or deficit. Non-financial assets are "prepaid service potential". Reporting a government's recognized non-financial resources as part of its financial position provides information necessary for a more complete understanding of a government's debt position, financial position and future operating requirements.

Governments provide public services and redistribute wealth for a variety of social and economic purposes. To meet those objectives, governments need information about the cost of services and the affordability of services. An understanding of the extent of the financial "lien" the government has on its ability to provide future services as a result of past transactions and events is essential information. Governments also need to have an appreciation of the magnitude of the total economic resources they have on hand to deliver services. A government's net financial resources / net debt position, assessed in combination with the non-financial resources position of the government, provides a measure of the net recognized economic resources available to the government at the financial statement date to provide services in the future.

If the regulatory asset is not recognized in a manner consistent with that of a financial asset by the GRE, the Province's net debt will increase significantly, suggesting that the Province has a much higher future revenue requirement. This would be inaccurate, however, since the regulatory asset is going to be recovered under statute from electricity consumers, not taxpayers.

Commented [LAP35]: Consider if Balanced Budget Legislation should be addressed

Additionally, while an increase in net debt and/or accumulated deficit in the financial statements of the GRE would be an indicator the Province's financial position has deteriorated in accordance with PSAS 1200.036, the FHP is designed to, in substance, have a neutral impact on the Province's financial position.

Sale of the Regulatory Asset [NTD – Need to consider impact of guarantee when finalized, but may only impact at consolidated level if IESO not a party to guarantee]

Commented [VC(36]: To add

As discussed above, IESO management has concluded the value of the variance account ~~regulatory asset~~ created by the FHP can be recognized as a regulated asset for accounting purposes in the financial statements of the IESO in accordance with the guidance in ASC 980.

Since the IESO does not have the financial capability to finance the regulatory asset, ~~OPG intends to establish~~ a separate financing ~~entity~~ entities (currently only OPG Trust) ~~to~~ will purchase the IESO's regulatory asset from time to time ~~on a monthly basis~~ to eliminate any cash shortfall in the IESO. Through this arrangement, OPG Trust will finance these purchases through a combination of provincial borrowing (flowed through OPG as an equity investment), amounts advanced from OPG and direct borrowing from capital markets.

The sale of the regulatory asset to OPG Trust is permitted under Section 26 of the FHP Act:

> 26 (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.
>
> (2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.
>
>
> (3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,
>
> (a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;
>
> (b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;
>
> (c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

Consideration needs to be made as to whether the sale of the regulatory asset is accounted for as a sale transaction or a financing transaction. If treated as a sale transaction, the existing regulated asset is derecognized (DR Expense, CR Regulated Asset) and the cash received is recognized as sales proceeds (DR Cash, CR Revenue). Since the cash proceeds received are equal to the book value of the regulated asset, there is no net impact to income. If treated as a financing transaction, the existing regulated asset continues to be recognized and the cash proceeds received are treated as a loan (DR Cash, CR Payable).

Commented [VC(37]: Do you think IESO should recognize revenue and expense – vs. a gain of NIL?

Commented [NS38]: This is my expectation, i.e. no income statement transactions.

IESO management has concluded the sale of the regulatory asset to OPG Trust will result in the derecognition of the regulated asset (i.e., sale transaction). The IESO's auditors, KPMG, concur with this position, as evidenced from the following excerpt from the KPMG Letter:

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the regulatory asset should be derecognized on transfer to the OPG Trust as IESO no longer has rights or future economic benefits associated with the asset.

PSAS provides little guidance relating to the derecognition of an asset. In particular, PSAS 1000, Financial statement concepts, PSAS 3210, Assets, and PSAS 3450, Financial instruments, are all silent on the topic. Although the transfer of the regulatory asset is not within the scope of PSAS 3430, Restructuring Transactions, the following derecognition guidance in this standard provides some relevant insight:

.21 Individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date.

.24 When a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether:

(a) derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate; and
(b) its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized.

.25 A new asset or new liability may arise from a restructuring due to a transferor's continued involvement in the individual assets and liabilities transferred (for example, if it agrees to guarantee repayment of all or a portion of a transferred liability or leases back a portion of a transferred asset). As the new asset or new liability is not transferred, together with related program or operating responsibilities, they are not part of the restructuring transaction. They would be accounted for in accordance with individual Sections of the PSA Handbook by both the transferors and recipients.

The IESO should derecognize the regulated asset when transferred to OPG Trust if it no longer meets the definition of an asset in PSAS 1000.35-.36. However, consideration should also be made as to whether the IESO has any continued involvement in the regulatory asset that would result in the recognition of a new asset and/or a new liability (i.e. financing transaction).

The following supports the IESO's position that subsequent to the transfer to OPG Trust, the regulatory asset no longer possesses the three essential characteristics of an asset in PSAS 1000.36 and, therefore, should be derecognized:

Embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows
The future economic benefits embodied in the regulated asset are realized by the IESO through the transfer of the regulatory asset to OPG Trust in exchange for cash. As noted above, under Section 26(2)(d) of the FHP, the IESO retains no further right, title or interest in the regulatory asset transferred to OPG Trust. Accordingly, there is no remaining future economic benefit to the IESO.

The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits

Although the IESO will collect funds on behalf of OPG Trust, the following sections of the FHP support that control of and access to the future economic benefits of the regulatory asset pass to OPG Trust:

Section 16 - IESO to receive amounts

2) The IESO shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, receive amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment paid to it from electricity vendors in accordance with the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or the regulations.
4) All amounts received by the IESO in respect of the clean energy adjustment shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owner, be held in trust by the IESO for the investment interest owners.
5) The IESO shall remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, inclusive of interest earned on the amounts referred to in subsection (1), to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with the regulations.

Section 29 - Irrevocable rights and interests

1) The investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of investment interest owners:
    1. The right and interest to impose, invoice, collect, receive and recover the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers, including the right to determine the clean energy adjustment in accordance with this Act.
    2. The right to receive, collect and recover the clean energy adjustment that is imposed, invoiced and recoverable under this Act, including any amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment that are held by electricity vendors, IESO and other prescribed parties.

The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred

Not applicable as IESO does not control.

As previously noted, the IESO relinquishes its rights, title and interest in the regulatory asset upon transfer to OPG Trust. Subsequent to the transfer, the IESO's only continuing involvement is to act as agent of OPG Trust, which involves receiving funds and holding them in trust on behalf of OPG Trust. This level of continuing involvement does not result in the recognition of a new asset and/or a new liability by the IESO. Accordingly, it is appropriate to account for the transfer of the regulatory asset as a sale and derecognize the regulated asset.

Derecognition of the regulated asset is also consistent with ASC 980. ASC 980-340-40-1 provides the following guidance on the derecognition of an asset that has been recognized in accordance with ASC 980-340-25-1:

If at any time an entity's incurred cost no longer meets the criteria for the capitalization of an incurred cost (see paragraph 980-340-25-1), that cost shall be charged to earnings.

In order for an incurred cost to be capitalized, ASC 980-340-25-1(a) requires the following:

It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.

The capitalization criterion in ASC 980-340-25-1(a) is no longer met after the regulatory asset is transferred to OPG Trust because there are no future cash inflows that benefit the IESO. As mentioned above, the IESO realized the economic benefits associated with the regulatory asset upon the transfer. In accordance with Section 16 of the FHP, any future cash collected by the IESO is on behalf of OPG Trust.

Based on the example provided earlier, the IESO pays the contracted power generator $400 for electricity used by the ratepayer and collects $300 from the ratepayer through their local distribution company (LDC). The $100 recovery shortfall is recorded in a variance account created by Bill 132 and deemed to be a regulatory asset. The IESO sells the regulatory asset to OPG Trust for $100 to obtain cash to make up the shortfall.

The accounting for the above transactions in the financial statements of the IESO, which are prepared in accordance with PSAS are set out in Scenario A in the table below. For comparison purposes, Scenario B in the table below sets out the accounting if it is determined the regulatory asset is not eligible for recognition as an asset under PSAS.

Scenario A – Regulated Asset			Scenario B – Not a Regulated Asset
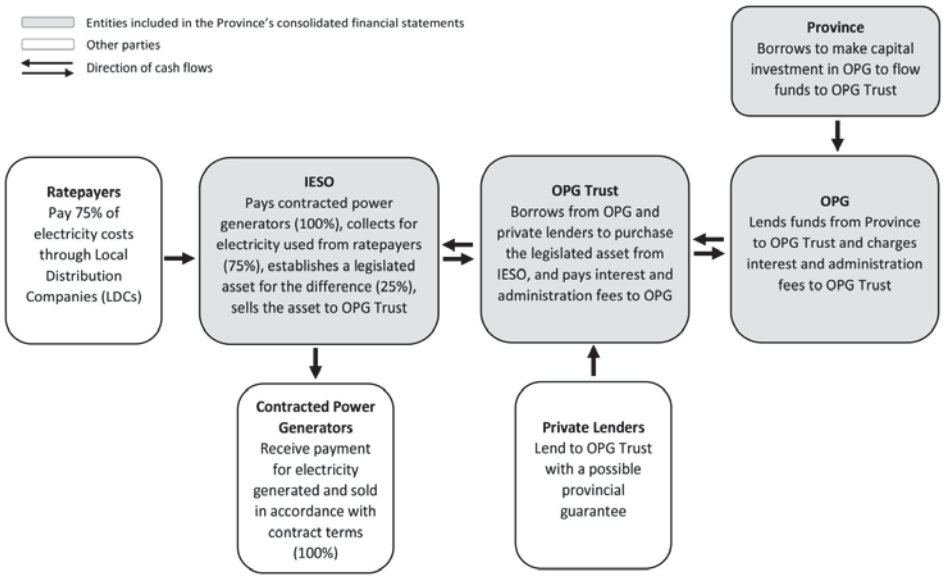
Market Settlement
DR	Cash	300	DR	Cash	300
DR	Asset	100	DR	Expense	100
CR	Cash	(400)	CR	Cash	(400)
Sale of Regulatory Asset to OPG Trust
DR	Cash	100	DR	Cash	100
CR	Revenue	(100)	CR	Gain	(100)
DR	Expense	100
CR	Asset	(100)

Commented [LAP39]: Maybe better to do once we add the consolidation section which would reverse the gain.

At any given point in time, the accounting result will be the same under both scenarios provided the cash shortfall has been fully funded. If a funding deficit exists, however, the deficit would be recognized as an asset under Scenario A and recognized as an expense under Scenario B. A funding deficit may arise due to, for example, temporary timing differences between the creation and sale of a regulatory asset. A funding deficit may also arise if OPG Trust (or another financing entity) ceases to purchase the IESO's regulatory assets on an on-going basis.

APPENDIX A

Proposed Legislated Transaction Structure
Prepared by the Office of the Auditor General of Ontario



Commented [OPCD40]: Can chart be expanded to include impact on CFS (consolidation of IESO reflecting RRA on CFS, Interest Income from OPG through revenue of GBE will help to offset borrowing costs incurred by Province on equity injection).

Notes: The Planned Flexibility identified in Figure 19 is required to meet peak requirements and represents less than 1 TWh of energy per year. Forecasting of electricity production includes the expectation of imports and exports of electricity in all years. Imports and exports are an important component in managing the operation of the electricity system. As a result, electricity production forecast exceeds the forecast Ontario consumer demand.

In conversation with OPG, KPMG and E&Y, it seems that the regulatory option to financing costs during the moratorium period is a good approach to pursue. Attached is the material Michael previously sent. Can we touch on next steps, if not tomorrow early next week? thanks

Hi Carolyn,

Attached for discussion is an outline of a potential regulatory option that may enable the financing entity's cost recovery from the market. This has not been socialized outside the IESO and its advisors. We wanted to send it to you so you could assess whether it seemed viable, including from a regulation making authority perspective.

Please let me know if you would like to discuss.

Privileged & Confidential Draft

Regulatory Option for Temporary Funding of Financing Entity's Cost/Interests

For discussion purposes, the following is a potential regulatory mechanism whereby IESO market settlement mechanisms might be used to fund the financing entity's costs until the clean energy adjustment may be charged to specified consumers. This is subject to the there being sufficient regulation making authority to enact the regulations contemplated below.

1. A regulation could be passed (possibly pursuant to section 26(1) of FHA) requiring IESO, as part of the regulatory asset transfer, to fund financing entity's costs/interest in relation to such transferred regulatory asset for the period during which the clean energy adjustment may not be recovered from specified consumers. The regulation may indicate these funding amounts will be added to the global adjustment (GA) but only allocated to specified consumers (i.e. not form part of GA payable by Class A or Class B consumers who are not also specified consumers under Fair Hydro).
    a. This regulatory funding mechanism would be similar to other existing mechanisms whereby a third party's costs are funded from the GA via IESO settlement processes. For example, section 26.1 of the Ontario Energy Board Act creates a mechanism for IESO to collect costs incurred by the Ministry from consumers. Likewise, section 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act requires the IESO to make payments to distributors with respect to amounts approved by the OEB for CDM programs and to recover such payment amounts from prescribed consumers as part of the GA.

2. A regulation could be passed (or amend O. Reg for 430/04 and/or O. Reg 429/04) pursuant to section 25.33(1)(c) and 25.33(2)(c) of the Electricity Act:

    - prescribing funding amounts incurred/paid for by the IESO pursuant to paragraph 1 above

    - prescribing specified consumers (as defined in Fair Hydro Act) as class of market participants and class of consumers for which adjustments will be made relating to funding amounts

    - prescribing, as necessary, payment adjustments and variance account treatment

3. If the above regulations were passed, amounts the IESO invoices electricity vendors monthly would include each electricity vendor's proportionate share of the funding amount. Proportionate share would likely be determined based on volume of electricity withdrawn by the electricity vendor's specified consumers during that month compared to total electricity withdrawn by all specified consumers in province for that month.

4. Difference between gross amounts billed by IESO to electricity vendors (which include funding amounts referred to above) and net amounts received by IESO from electricity vendors taking into account fair hydro adjustment constitutes IESO deferral (s. 23, FHA and s. 15, O. Reg 206/17).

5. IESO deferral is included in a variance account (s. 24(1), FHA)

6. All amounts in variance account constitute a regulatory asset (s. 25, FHA), which the IESO:

    - may transfer to the financing entity (s. 26(1), FHA)

    - or, if any balance remains in the variance account, recover through OEB-approved rates from specified consumers on or after May 1, 2021 (s. 25, FHA)

Subject: IESO - Follow up question

Dear Kim and Cindy,

We wanted to thank you again for your time the other day. I am going through my notes and I had a few questions for clarification.

I suspect these will be fairly straightforward for you to answer, but I also want to be respectful of your time and if they are too complicated – please let me know.

Would it be the IESO or would it be OPG that would ultimately go to the Ontario Energy Board to recover these costs?

If it is the IESO, my understanding is the OFHPA creates the deferral and variance account that enables the IESO to recover costs from future rates. If it is OPG, would they already have a deferral and variance account to house these costs until it is recovered? Or does the legislation apply to OPG as well?

Finally, when it comes time to recover those costs, would it go through the OEB prudence review or is that not necessary as a result of the OFHPA legislation?

I want to ensure I am understanding the process for recovering costs through future rates and the role of the OEB, OFHPA accurately.

I know this is a busy time for both of you and your help is very much appreciated.

Sincerely,

Umar

Cindy & Nadine,

Attached is the latest draft from late yesterday based on Monday's call; Suzie and I have not had a chance to review but wanted it in your hands as a just in case when Lee Anne talks through what she's done and the areas she's still thinking about and/or is looking for your thoughts – she'll cover that on this morning's call.

Both Suzie and Lee Anne will be joining too but from calling from cars.

Talk soon.

Introduction

Ontario's consolidated financial reports are prepared in accordance with the accounting principles for governments recommended by the Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) of the Chartered Professional Accountants of Canada (CPA Canada). In order to meet the needs of users, including the legislature and the public, for accountability in government reporting and decision making, it is essential that public sector financial statements reflect the economic substance of the government's activities.

In March 2017, the Government of Ontario (the Province) announced its Fair Hydro Plan (FHP). In assessing the appropriate accounting treatment for the Global Adjustment refinancing (GA Refinancing) component of the FHP on Ontario's consolidated financial statements, the Office of the Provincial Controller considered the authoritative guidance issued by PSAB, as well as the accounting assessments of the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) and Ontario Power Generation (OPG) management, including the accounting opinions of their external accounting advisors. Given the complexity of the GA Refinancing structure, the exercise of professional judgement is necessary to ensure that key financial reporting objectives of transparency and accountability are best served. This accounting analysis considers currently available information, including efforts underway by the International Accounting Standards Board as related to rate regulated accounting. It also draws upon publicly available information including previous studies and bases for conclusions dealing with rate-regulated accounting, both in the public sector and the private sector.

Background

The FHP will reduce electricity bills for Regulated Price Plan (RPP) customers (as well as those non-RPP consumers who receive the 8% rebate as specified in the Ontario Rebate for Electricity Act, 2016) by approximately 25% for a period of one year, starting in the summer of 2017, and limit the increase in electricity bills to the rate of inflation over the following four years.

Because distribution rates vary across the province and customers use different amounts of electricity, the goal in calculating the new RPP electricity prices is to achieve a 25% reduction for a "proxy" customer, which is established under the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 (FHP Act) as a residential customer of Toronto Hydro who uses 750 kWh of electricity a month, pays time-of-use RPP electricity prices and has the time-of-use consumption profile of a typical residential customer.

The measures that make up the 25% average reduction include:

1. Spreading the cost of Ontario's clean energy investments over the expected lifecycle of the generation infrastructure assets. This is expected to account for ~~15~~18-~~17~~19% of the overall reduction.
2. Shifting the cost of the Ontario Electricity Support Program (OESP) and Rural or Remote Rate Protection (RRRP) program from ratepayers to taxpayer-funded programs.
3. An 8% rebate equal to the provincial portion of the HST, which took effect on January 1, 2017.

Under the first measure, the Province will borrow funds to pay a portion of current electricity costs, thereby temporarily reducing the amount paid by eligible ratepayers. The deferred amounts, including interest and other costs, will be recoverable from ratepayers through future rates over an estimated 18-year period starting in approximately 2028. In other words, the impact of #1 above is fully borne by the ratepayers – it is a shift in the timing of payment for the clean energy investments, while the impacts of #2 and #3 are reducing the cost to the ratepayer, but at the cost of the taxpayer.

Objective

The objective of this memo is to assess the impact of the first measure of the FHP (i.e. deferred recovery of clean energy costs) on the consolidated financial statements of the Province. [NTD – Consider if document should discuss #2 and #3. This would contrast the different treatment by the Province]

Background

The Ontario Energy Board (OEB) has been established by the Province to be Ontario's independent energy regulator.

In accordance with Section 78(3.1) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 (the OEB Act), the OEB is responsible for determining electricity commodity prices for RPP consumers. Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act requires the OEB to forecast the cost of electricity used by RPP consumers and ensure the prices they are charged reflect that cost. The rate setting process is highly complex and involves numerous forecasts and estimates. As a result, the OEB regulatory framework allows for variances between the actual cost of supplying electricity and the amount collected from RPP consumers.

In setting the rates for RPP consumers, Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act requires the OEB to settle any such variances through rates over a 12-month period. This is achieved through a price adjustment charged or credited to RPP consumers. This adjustment forms part of the Global Adjustment paid by consumers.

The IESO is the administrator of Ontario's wholesale electricity market. The IESO settles the market with all participants, as an agent.

As part of its role as market administrator, the IESO calculates the market price for electricity (the Market Clearing Price, or MCP) by running the bids and offers of the market participants through an algorithm. The actual cost of supplying electricity, however, is greater than the MCP as certain generators are paid additional amounts relating to the cost of clean energy initiatives they have undertaken. From a government policy perspective, decisions as to what is in the best interest of the public regarding electricity generation in Ontario are not based solely on economics, they are also influenced by environmental, social and political factors. Accordingly, generators receive compensation for investing in clean energy infrastructure when it is relatively less economical. In these instances, the IESO (and previously the XXX) entered into contracts to pay the generators the excess costs (plus a reasonable rate of return thereon) over an extended period of time, typically 20 years. The amounts paid to the generators under the terms of these contracts are currently included in the rates set by the OEB (as part of the Global Adjustment) with the intention they will be recovered from consumers in the same period they are paid to the generators. As previously noted, the complexity of the rate setting process results in variances between the amount paid to the generators and the amount collected from RPP consumers.

Under existing legislation, the IESO is required to fund any cash shortfall relating to differences arising between the actual cost of supplying electricity and the amount collected from RPP consumers. In accordance with Section 25.33(5) of the Electricity Act, 1998 (the Electricity Act), the IESO has established and maintains a variance account to track these temporary differences (the original variance account) for subsequent settlement with ratepayers. Cash shortfalls in the IESO arising from the original variance account are funded through financing provided by the OFA.

As described below, once the FHP is implemented, the cost of supplying electricity to RPP consumers that is paid to generators will no longer be fully collected over a 12-month period~~, but over a longer period defined by legislation~~.

Under the FHP, while generators would continue to be paid over a twenty year period as contracted, the amounts paid by the IESO to the generators would be recovered from ratepayers over a thirty year period. Deferring the recovery of these costs from the consumers on a longer-term basis would create a significant interim cash shortfall for the IESO.

Section 24(1) of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act (the FHP Act) requires the IESO to establish and maintain a variance account (separate from the original variance account described above) to track the cash shortfall specifically resulting from the implementation of the FHP (the FHP variance account). Due to the longer recovery period, and additional recoverable financing and management fee costs, the balance in the account is forecast to increase significantly. The balance in this variance account is defined in Section 1(1) of the FHP Act to be a regulatory asset[1]. The IESO is entitled under Section 25 of the FHP Act to recover the regulatory asset from RPP consumers in the future, which will be achieved through the OEB setting rates to allow for such recovery. Section 26 of the FHP Act also permits the IESO to transfer or sell the regulatory asset to a financing entity to fund its cash shortfall, thus commoditizing the future cash flow stream.

The Province has requested that OPG administer the deferral of the Global Adjustment under the FHP because of OPG's participation in the market, the regulatory knowledge OPG possesses and the ~~potential~~ expected ability to consolidate the accounting of the related activity ~~and accounting with~~ in the financial statements of OPG. To fulfill this role, OPG intends to establish a financing entity (OPG Trust) to purchase the IESO's regulatory asset on a monthly basis and eliminate any cash shortfall in the IESO. Through this arrangement, OPG Trust will finance these purchases through a combination of provincial borrowing (flowed through OPG as an equity investment), amounts advanced from OPG and direct borrowing from capital markets.

Basis of Accounting

In accordance with PSAS 1300.07, the government reporting entity (GRE) for the Province comprises government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government.

As defined in the Introduction to PSAS, the following types of organizations are controlled by the government: (a) government business enterprises (GBE), government non-for profit organizations (GNPO), and other government organizations (OGO).

[1] To avoid confusion in the remainder of this document, the term regulatory asset will refer to the defined term in the FHP Act and the term regulated asset or rate-regulated asset (RRA) will refer to an asset recognized for accounting purposes.

GNPOs and OGOs are considered government units and, in accordance with PSAS 1300.27, are consolidated in the GRE on a line-by-line basis. For consolidation purposes, the financial information of government units is required to be prepared in accordance with PSAS.

GBEs, on the other hand, are accounted for in the GRE using the modified equity method as prescribed by PSAS 1300.35. Under the modified equity method, which is described in detail in PSAS 3070, INVESTMENTS IN GOVERNMENT BUSINESS ENTERPRISES, the equity method of accounting is modified only to the extent that the GBE's accounting principles (which are required to be IFRS in accordance with paragraph 17 of the Introduction to PSAS) are not adjusted to conform to those of the government.

As documented in Schedule 8 to the consolidated financial statements of the Province, the IESO is an OGO and OPG is a GBE. The current accounting for these entities is as follows:

		ENTITY STATEMENTS	GRE STATEMENTS
ENTITY	CLASSIFICATION	GAAP	ACCOUNTING METHOD	GAAP
OPG	GBE	US GAAP[2]	Modified equity method	IFRS[3]

1. For purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, an OGO applies PSAS unless those standards do not meet the needs of its financial statement users. In that situation, IFRS should be considered and the most appropriate set of standards applied.
2. Although a GBE is required to apply IFRS for purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, the Ontario Securities Commission has approved an exemption that allows OPG to apply US GAAP up to January 1, 2019 for purposes of filing its financial statements with the OSC.
3. OPG applies IFRS 14, which permits it to continue to account for rate-regulated activities using US GAAP guidance for its general purpose financial statements.

This memo does not reconsider the classification of these existing entities.

As discussed in detail in a subsequent section, OPG expects that it will control OPG Trust. If this is the case, OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG and, therefore, reflected in the GRE through the modified equity accounting of OPG under IFRS. If, however, it is determined that OPG Trust is controlled by the Province, OPG Trust will either (a) be consolidated in the GRE on a line-by-line basis under PSAS if determined to be an OGO, or (b) reflected in the GRE through modified equity accounting under IFRS if determined to be a GBE.

Example

For simplicity, the following example will be used in this document to illustrate the accounting impact of the FHP on the various entities involved:

- Ratepayer bill is currently $588, and the 17% reduction related to the FHP is $100.
- The Province directly borrows 44%, or $44, to make an equity contribution to OPG, which OPG then loans to OPG Trust.
- OPG directly borrows 5%, or $5, and loans it to OPG Trust.
- OPG Trust directly borrows 51%, or $51, from capital markets.

IESO

The IESO is presently classified as an OGO and prepares its standalone, general purpose financial statements in accordance with PSAS, which is consistent with the basis of presentation required for purposes of consolidating the IESO into the GRE. ~~Under PSAS, the IESO would also have the option of reporting based on IFRS. If the IESO were classified as a GBE, it would also report based on IFRS. Since the IESO has rate regulated balances, it would likely report using IFRS14, consistent with the IFRS related information provided by both Hydro One and OPG which are rate regulated.~~

Current State

Effective January 1, 2016, the IESO adopted on a retrospective basis a new accounting policy that requires its market-settlement activities[2] to be reflected in the financial statements. Under the new policy, the assets and liabilities recognized on the IESO's statement of financial position relating to the IESO-administered markets include cash, amounts due from market participants, interest receivable, revolving line of credit, HST receivable, amounts due to market participants and other liabilities. The IESO's statement of operations and accumulated surplus ~~financial statements~~ does not include the revenue and expenses of the financial transactions of market participants within the IESO-administered markets. This indicates IESO management has taken the position that the IESO is an agent, not a principal, in the IESO-administered markets and, accordingly, records revenue on a net basis.

PSAS doesn't provide any specific guidance as to how it should be determined whether an entity is acting as a principal or an agent in the context of revenue recognition, but both IFRS and US GAAP do. The relevant guidance in IFRS is as follows:

IAS 18.8

Revenue includes only the gross inflows of economic benefits received and receivable by the entity on its own account. Amounts collected on behalf of third parties such as sales taxes, goods and services taxes and value added taxes are not economic benefits which flow to the entity and do not result in increases in equity. Therefore, they are excluded from revenue. Similarly, in an agency relationship, the gross inflows of economic benefits include amounts collected on behalf of the principal and which do not result in increases in equity for the entity. The amounts collected on behalf of the principal are not revenue. Instead, revenue is the amount of commission.

Determining whether an entity is acting as a principal or as an agent (2009 amendment).

Paragraph 8 states that 'in an agency relationship, the gross inflows of economic benefits include amounts collected on behalf of the principal and which do not result in increases in equity for the entity. The amounts collected on behalf of the principal are not revenue. Instead, revenue is the amount of commission.' Determining whether an entity is acting as a principal or as an agent requires judgement and consideration of all relevant facts and circumstances.

An entity is acting as a principal when it has exposure to the significant risks and rewards associated with the sale of goods or the rendering of services. Features that indicate that an entity is acting as a principal include:

a) the entity has the primary responsibility for providing the goods or services to the customer or for fulfilling the order, for example by being responsible for the acceptability of the products or services ordered or purchased by the customer;
b) the entity has inventory risk before or after the customer order, during shipping or on return;

[2] The IESO itself does not buy or sell electricity. It administers the wholesale electricity market by authorizing market participants, publishing system forecasts and market information, producing statements and invoices, and performing financial settlement transactions for the markets.

c) the entity has latitude in establishing prices, either directly or indirectly, for example by providing additional goods or services; and

d) the entity bears the customer's credit risk for the amount receivable from the customer.

An entity is acting as an agent when it does not have exposure to the significant risks and rewards associated with the sale of goods or the rendering of services. One feature indicating that an entity is acting as an agent is that the amount the entity earns is predetermined, being either a fixed fee per transaction or a stated percentage of the amount billed to the customer.

Application of the above IFRS guidance supports the conclusion that the IESO is an agent in the market-settlement process and, therefore, recognizing revenue on a net basis is appropriate. IESO has completed a more thorough analysis of their position that it is an agent in the settlement of the market and reconsideration of that decision is not the topic of this memo.

The IESO is required by legislation to carry out its operations without the purpose of gain or profit~~, making the IESO a self-sustaining entity~~. Other than the amounts the IESO is permitted to keep in accordance with its own rate order from the OEB to cover its internal operating costs, which makes it a self-sustaining entity, all amounts the IESO receives from market participants must be paid out to other market participants who have regulatory or contractual rights to receive payments from those collected amounts.

In the context of applying the principal vs. agent guidance, the amounts the IESO is permitted to keep in accordance with its own rate order from the OEB to cover its internal operating costs are recorded as system fee revenue in the IESO's financial statements. System fees are not characterized as being part of the IESO-administered markets. Accordingly, any references to the IESO-administered markets in this document exclude system fees.

As stated in the IESO financial statements, the IESO-administered markets is a balancing system, and as such, the net position of market accounts will ultimately settle to a nil balance in accordance with market rules. However, due to settlement timing differences, the net position of market accounts will not be in a nil position from a cash flow perspective at the end of any reporting period.

This raises a question as to how a cash flow deficit related to the market-settlement process should be accounted for in the financial statements of the IESO. Two approaches are as follows:

1. The cash flow deficit is recognized as an asset when it occurs and then derecognized in the period in which it is settled. Under this approach, the net position of market accounts will always be in a nil balance in the IESO's balance sheet and there is no impact on the IESO's income statement.
2. The cash flow deficit is recognized as a charge to income when it occurs and then reversed through income in the period in which it is settled.

IESO management has concluded it is appropriate to recognize existing cash flow deficits arising from the market-settlement process as an asset. This is evidenced by the fact the components of the market accounts net to a nil closing balance at year end in the IESO's financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2016. These financial statements also explicitly state there is no impact to the accumulated deficit or revenues and expenses as the IESO is not party to these transactions as per the market rules.

Although the IESO's financial statements include the following accounting policy on regulated assets and liabilities, the asset relating to the cash flow deficit discussed above has not been specifically labeled as a regulated asset:

As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations, in this policy.

The only two balances specifically labeled as being recognized in the IESO's financial statements under the above policy are (i) unrecovered smart metering expenses, and (ii) unrecovered PSAB transition items. IESO management has, however, indicated in discussions that the cash flow deficit/surplus associated with the original variance account is also considered to be a regulated asset/liability under ASC 980 even though it has been presented as part of the Market Accounts balances in the statement of financial position.

Impact of FHP

The implementation of the FHP results in the IESO establishing and maintaining the FHP variance account to track the resulting cash flow deficit, the balance of which is defined for the purposes of the FHP Act to be a 'regulatory asset'.

The act of legislating the balance in the FHP variance account to be a regulatory asset does not, in and of itself, result in its recognition as an asset for accounting purposes. Accordingly, the primary issue at hand is whether the legislated regulatory asset is eligible for recognition as an asset in both the standalone financial statements of the IESO and the consolidated financial statements of the GRE. As discussed in a later section, the conclusion reached with respect to ~~When~~ the standalone financial statements of the IESO ~~are considered in isolation, the impact of the conclusion reached on this issue would be eliminated to the extent the regulatory asset has been sold to OPG Trust by the end of the reporting period. The conclusion remains significant, however, due to its~~may impact ~~on~~ the consolidated financial statements of the GRE~~, which is discussed in a later section~~.

As noted above, the IESO has adopted a policy to apply the U.S. GAAP guidance in ASC 980 in connection with accounting for rate regulated assets. IESO management has applied this guidance and concluded the regulatory asset created by the FHP can be recognized as a regulated asset for accounting purposes in the financial statements of the IESO. The IESO's auditors, KPMG, concur with this position, as evidenced from the following excerpt from a draft letter issued by KPMG on May 16, 2017 (the KPMG Letter):

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Commented [NPP1]: Insert reference to consistency with previous treatment of OPA (2013 Terry Gabriel email).

Recognizing the regulatory asset as a regulated asset for accounting purposes in the financial statements of the IESO in accordance with ASC 980 is appropriate only if all of the following conditions are met:

a) the operations of the IESO (or the relevant portion thereof) are within the scope of ASC 980 based on the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2,
b) the FHP variance account meets the criteria in ASC 980-340-25-1 for capitalization as a regulatory asset, and
c) ASC 980 is an appropriate source of GAAP under PSAS.

Each of these items is addressed in turn:

a) Scope of ASC 980

ASC 980-10-15-2 states the following:

The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:

a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form. If an entity's regulated rates are based on the costs of a group of entities and the entity is so large in relation to the group of entities that its costs are, in essence, the group's costs, the regulation would meet this criterion for that entity.
c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers.

The Office of the Auditor General of Ontario (OAGO) does not believe the IESO meets the criteria to be within the scope of ASC 980. This is evidenced by the following statement included in Legislated Accounting Included in Bill 132, Including the Proposed Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 – Submission to Standing Committee on Justice Policy dated May 25, 2017 (OAGO Submission):

Moreover, IESO is not engaging in rate-regulated activities, and the contracts under its administration were never subject to rate regulation.

Ontario's electricity industry is rate-regulated. Rates paid by electricity consumers are regulated by the OEB such that over time rates equal cost plus, where applicable, a reasonable rate of return. Providing electricity to consumers involves several different parties, including generators, transmitters, distributors and the IESO. Some of these parties engage in rate-regulated activities, some do not.

The IESO serves an important and active role in Ontario's electricity market, irrespective of the fact that it records market transactions on net basis in the financial statements. The IESO balances the supply of and demand for electricity in Ontario and directs its flow across the province's transmission lines, oversees the wholesale electricity market, where the price of energy is determined, and administers the rules that govern the market. In determining whether the IESO has regulated operations, the focus is on whether the rates the IESO charges its customers are regulated and not whether the costs incurred by the IESO are regulated (although a number of them are).

The following supports the position of IESO management that the above criteria are met and the IESO's operations are within the scope of ASC 980:

The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
As noted in a research paper issued in 2001 by a taskforce established by the CICA (the CICA Research Report), there is a view held by some that, with respect to rate regulation in the public sector, there is usually no independent, third-party regulator because the government controls both the enterprise and the regulatory agency. Accordingly, it is important to point out that independence is not required to meet the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a). The requirement is an independent, third-party regulator or its own governing board empowered by statute or contract. In fact, paragraph 64 of the Basis for Conclusions for FAS 71, ACCOUNTING FOR THE EFFECTS OF CERTAIN TYPES OF REGULATION (which is the pre-codified version of ASC 980), specifically states that the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a) was modified so as not to preclude application by government utilities with rates set by their own governing board. The OEB has been established by the Province to be Ontario's independent energy regulator and, therefore, is considered the governing board of the IESO. The OEB's mandate and authority come from the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, the Electricity Act, 1998, and a number of other provincial statutes. As described in more detail below, the IESO's rates are established in accordance with these statutes. In the context of its market-settlement role, the IESO's 'customers' are the Market Participants buying electricity from the IESO-controlled grid. All Market Participants are required to execute a Participation Agreement with the IESO. In accordance with Article 3.1 of the standard Participation Agreement, each Market Participant has agreed to be bound by and to comply with all of the provisions of the Market Rules, which includes the following: Chapter 9, Section 1.2.3 Notwithstanding any other provision within the market rules, market participants shall remit to the IESO such applicable settlement amounts and other payments as may be required under the relevant provisions of the Electricity Act, 1998, the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and any related regulations, as amended from time to time. The IESO's operations meet the criteria in ASC 980-10-15-2(a) because the rates charged by the IESO are based on statutes. As discussed in more detail below, the rates are designed to recover the IESO's expenditure for providing the regulated services and the pass-through costs related to the energy purchased from the generators and to government programs.

The main components of invoices issued by the IESO to Market Participants are as follows:

- Commodity Charges
  - Hourly Ontario Energy Price
  - Global Adjustment
- Wholesale Market Service Charges
  - IESO Administration Fee
  - Uplift Charges
  - Rural and Remote Electricity Rate Protection
- Wholesale Transmission Charges
- Debt Retirement Charge

Each component is determined as follows:

Commodity Charges

In accordance with Section 25.33(1) of the Electricity Act, the IESO is required to price electricity to recover costs:

Electricity pricing to reflect costs

IESO to make adjustments

25.33 (1) The IESO shall, through its billing and settlement systems, make adjustments in accordance with the regulations that ensure that, over time, payments by classes of market participants in Ontario that are prescribed by regulation reflect,

a) amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation and distributors, whether the amounts are determined under the market rules or under section 78.1, 78.2 or 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998;

b) amounts paid to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract, as determined under the procurement contract; and

c) such amounts as may be prescribed that are paid or incurred by the IESO in relation to the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 8 (1); 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1, s. 43 (2).

Market Participants are initially invoiced for consumed electricity at the Hourly Ontario Energy Price (HOEP), which is calculated as the average of the twelve market clearing prices set in each hour. In accordance with Section 25.33(5) of the Electricity Act, the IESO is required to track differences between the amounts invoiced to Market Participants at HOEP and actual costs incurred in a variance account:

Variance accounts

(5) The IESO shall establish and maintain such variance accounts as may be necessary to record all amounts payable or receivable by it under this section or under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. 2004, c. 23, Sched. A, s. 37; 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 8 (5); 2017, c. 16, Sched. 1, s. 43 (5).

Sections 3.1 and 3.3 of the OEB Act require the variance account to be settled over a twelve-month period, which is done through the Global Adjustment on a Market Participant's invoice:

Annual rate plan and separate rates for situations prescribed by regulation

(3.1) The Board shall, in accordance with rules prescribed by the regulations, approve or fix separate rates for the retailing of electricity,

a) to such different classes of consumers as may be prescribed by the regulations; and

b) for such different situations as may be prescribed by the regulations. 2004, c. 23, Sched. B, s. 14 (1).

Rates to reflect cost of electricity

a) the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect these costs; and

b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct. 2004, c. 23, Sched. B, s. 14 (1); 2014, c. 7, Sched. 23, s. 6 (2).

Although the implementation of the FHP involves the deferral of costs over an extended period of time, it does not change the IESO's obligation under the OEB Act to price electricity to recover incurred costs in full. The deferral relating to the FHP is tracked in a separate variance account in accordance with Section 24(1) of the Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the FHP Act):

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

The right for the IESO to recover the variance account is set out in Section 25 of the FHP Act:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Wholesale Market Service Charges

The IESO charges Market Participants administrative fees to operate the wholesale electricity market and manage the electric power system in Ontario. These fees are required to be approved by the OEB under Section 25(1) of the Electricity Act on an annual basis.

Review of requirements and fees

25 (1) The IESO shall, at least 60 days before the beginning of each fiscal year, submit its proposed expenditure and revenue requirements for the fiscal year and the fees it proposes to charge during the fiscal year to the Board for review, but shall not do so until after the Minister approves the IESO's proposed business plan for the fiscal year under section 24. 2014, c. 7, Sched. 7, s. 3 (1).

Uplift charges

Commented [LAP2]: Uplift charges are comprised of a number of things. To ask IESO for help to summarize succinctly.

Need details

RRRP charges

The RRRP program provides a rate subsidy to rural and remote residential customers who face higher distribution costs. Under the FHP Act, the cost of the RRRP program has shifted from ratepayers to provincial revenues and, therefore, is no longer a component of the IESO's invoice.

Wholesale Transmission Charge

This charge to LDCs and some large consumers covers the cost incurred by transmission companies to construct and maintain the high-voltage transmission lines needed to transport electricity from generating stations to LDCs or consumers. In accordance with Section 78(1) of the OEB Act, the rate for this service is approved by the OEB.

Debt Retirement Charge

When the Ontario electricity sector was restructured in April 1999, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation (OEFC) took on $20.9 million of stranded debt from Ontario Hydro. The OEFC services and retires the stranded debt with cash flows from a number of sources in the electricity sector, one of those currently being debt retirement charges paid by certain ratepayers (ratepayers cease paying debt retirement charges April 1, 2018).

Under Regulation 494/01, DEBT RETIREMENT CHARGE – ADMINISTRATION, the IESO is appointed as a collector of debt retirement charges (Section 2) and is required to collect a debt retirement charge on behalf of the OEFA from every entity who withdraws electricity from the IESO-controlled grid (Section 6(2)). The prescribed rate for the debt retirement charge is set out in Regulation 493/01, DEBT RETIREMENT CHARGE – RATES AND EXEMPTIONS.

The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.

As discussed in detail above, the IESO is required by statute to set prices to recover costs.

In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers.

As discussed in detail above, the IESO is required by statute to set prices to recover costs.

The majority of the monthly amount invoiced by the IESO to Market Participants represents a direct flow through of costs as they are incurred, but there are certain types of costs for which recovery may be deferred. For those deferred costs, the IESO is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers to fully recover costs.

Based on relatively short recovery periods, it is reasonable to assume there will be sufficient demand to recover the deferred costs that currently exist. Specifically:

- RPP and RRRP variance accounts are recovered over twelve months in accordance with Section 3.3(b) of the OEB Act. (Note - Under the FHP, responsibility for the cost of the RRRP program is being transferred to the Provincial budget and rate-payers will no longer be directly charged)

Commented [LAP3]: To confirm with Energy if all costs have shifted.

Commented [LAP4]: CV to determine if there is anything else to add from IESO's analysis.

Commented [LAP5]: To confirm with Energy if all costs have shifted.

- The Smart Metering Entity charge is recovered over the period from May 1, 2013 to October 31, 2018 in accordance with ~~XX~~OEB Decision and Order EB-2015-0298.

Under the FHP, responsibility for the cost of the OESP program is being transferred to the Provincial budget and rate-payers will no longer be charged for the cost of this program. The OESP variance account, which is currently in a credit balance, will be used to fund the cost of the program until depleted.

Although the timing of the recovery of the FHP variance account has not yet been established by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over a period of 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan, will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

In addition to the general scope requirements of ASC 980 discussed above, specific consideration is made as to whether the following scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7 applies to the FHP:

The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic does not apply to any of the following transactions:

a) Accounting for price controls that are imposed by governmental action in times of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions, or accounting for contracts in general. However, if the terms of a contract between an entity and its customer are subject to regulation and the criteria of paragraph 980-10-15-2 are met with respect to that contract, the guidance in this Topic shall apply.

Based on the discussion below, this scope exemption is not applicable to the FHP.

Electricity cost reductions resulting from the FHP do not represent price controls imposed by the Province in a time of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions. As noted in the 2017 budget speech, the 2017 Ontario Budget – A Stronger, Healthier Ontario, the FHP is a fairer way to share the costs of building a cleaner, more modern and reliable electricity generation system. In particular, the budget speech states:

Commented [NPP6]: Navigant report/other support

Recognizing that existing electricity infrastructure is expected to last for decades to come, the Province would refinance the cost of those capital investments to ensure that system costs are more equitably distributed over time.

The following paragraph from the Basis for Conclusion for FAS 71 also provides some insight as to the specific concerns relating to government imposed price controls that resulted in the scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7(a):

70. The first scope limitation of paragraph 8—excluding accounting for price controls imposed by governmental action in times of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions—was included in the Discussion Memorandum. Price controls imposed in periods of unusual conditions are not expected to be applied consistently over an extended period. Indeed, their duration usually is limited by statute. In that environment, assurance of future benefits cannot be provided by probable future actions of the price control regulator because that regulator may not exist at a given future date.

The implementation of the FHP does not create the type of environment described in FAS 71.BC70 as it is governed by the OEB and there is no concern the OEB will not continue to exist.

The second part of the scope exception in ASC 980-10-15-7(a) relating to the accounting for contracts is further explained in the following paragraph from the Basis for Conclusion for FAS 71:

71. Accounting for contracts in general was also excluded from the scope of the Discussion Memorandum. The economic effects of cost reimbursement contracts are in some respects similar to the economic effects of the type of regulation addressed by this Statement. However, most contracts tend to be relatively short-term, whereas regulation of enterprises covered by this Statement is expected to continue beyond the foreseeable future. The Board noted that other authoritative literature addresses contract accounting and concluded that it should exclude the general issue of contract accounting from the scope of this Statement.

Although the impetus for the FHP relates to term of contracts the IESO has entered into with certain generators, the FHP does not change the existing accounting for these contracts.

Application of ASC 980-340-25-1 to the regulatory asset

ASC 980-340-25-1 states the following:

Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date.

The following supports the IESO's position that the FHP variance account meets the above criteria for capitalization:

It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
The following excerpts from the FHP Act make it clear that the IESO is entitled to recover the regulatory asset through rates in the future:

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

The recovery of the regulatory asset is, however, dependent on future consumption of electricity by rate-payers. Although the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not yet been established by statute, the recovery period is intended to be 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that it is probable there will be sufficient demand in the future to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan (Appendix B), will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties (e.g., investors) to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

Based on the above excerpts from the FHP Act, it is clear the IESO will be recovering costs previously incurred rather than providing for expected levels of similar future costs.

ASC 980 is an acceptable source of guidance under PSAS[3]

In assessing whether ASC 980-340-25-1 is an acceptable source of guidance under PSAS, Paragraph 5 of PSAS 1150, GENERALLY ACCEPTED ACCOUNTED PRINCIPLES, states the following:

[3] If the accounting for GBEs were to change in the future such that line by line consolidation is required using PSAS, the importance of this consideration increases significantly.

When the primary sources of GAAP do not deal with the accounting and reporting in financial statements of transactions or events encountered by the public sector reporting entity, or additional guidance is needed to apply a primary source to specific circumstances, the selection of an appropriate accounting policy requires the exercise of professional judgment. In these circumstances, a public sector reporting entity should adopt accounting policies and disclosures that are consistent with:

a) the primary sources of GAAP; and

b) the application of the concepts described in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000.

Related guidance is also provided in PSAS 1150.18-.20:

Paragraphs PS 1150.19-.24 identify some of the other sources that a public sector reporting entity might consult to assist in selecting accounting policies and disclosures that comply with paragraph PS 1150.05.

Pronouncements issued by other bodies authorized to issue accounting standards may be useful sources to consult. For example, accounting pronouncements published with the authority of the Canadian Accounting Standards Board (AcSB), International Accounting Standards Board (IASB), US Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board (FASAB), US Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), or International Public Sector Accounting Standards Board (IPSASB) are often important sources to consult on matters not covered by primary sources of GAAP or for assistance in applying a primary source of GAAP to specific circumstances.

When a public sector reporting entity chooses to consult a source described in paragraph PS 1150.19, it applies professional judgment and evaluates the source in the context of the relative manner in which the standard setter requires its pronouncements to be applied, as well as in the context of the related pronouncement. When an accounting standard setter does not have a conceptual framework that is similar to the concepts referred to in paragraph PS 1150.05(b), the public sector reporting entity needs to ensure that the selected source is consistent with those concepts.

Since PSAS does not specifically address the treatment of costs incurred that will be recovered through regulatory operations in future periods, the IESO would not be precluded from following the guidance in ASC 980-340-25-1. However, PSAS 1000.05 makes it clear that in order to do so, it must first be demonstrated that such guidance is consistent with the application of the concepts described in PSAS 1000, FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS.

The relevant guidance in PSAS 1000 relating to the recognition of an asset is as follows:

PSAS 1000.35

Assets are economic resources controlled by a government as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained.

PSAS 1000.36

Assets have three essential characteristics:

a) they embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows;

b) the public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits; and
c) the transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred.

PSAS 1000.37

An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

a) no future economic benefit;
b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or
c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred

The following supports the IESO's position that the regulatory asset possesses the three essential characteristics of an asset:

Embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows

The following excerpts from the FHP Act make it clear that the IESO is entitled to recover the regulatory asset through rates in the future:

Variance account to be established, maintained

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Accordingly, the regulatory asset, by statute, has the capacity to provide future cash inflows.

While perhaps obvious, paragraph 13 of PSAS 3210, ASSETS, confirms the generation of future cash flows represents a future economic benefit:

The future economic benefits embodied in an asset may also be in the form of generating future cash inflows. Cash inflows benefit the public sector entity because cash can be used to purchase or to provide goods and services, redistribute wealth or settle liabilities. Benefits in the form of cash inflows relate to resources, such as loans receivable, inventory for resale and portfolio investments. Also, some public sector resources generate cash inflows because they have user fees associated with them.

The ability of the regulatory asset to generate future cash flows is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers. Although the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not yet been established by statute, the recovery period is intended to be 30 years. Given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, sufficient demand is expected to exist in the future to recover the regulatory asset. This conclusion, which is supported by Figure 19: Ontario's Forecast Electricity Production in Achieving Balance – Ontario's Long-Term Energy Plan, will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period. The willingness of unrelated third parties to fund the purchase of the regulatory asset from the IESO by OPG Trust also demonstrates the belief that sufficient demand will exist to permit its future recovery.

The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits

Paragraph 16 of PSAS 3210, ASSETS, states the following:

A public sector entity controls the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits when it:

- a) can benefit from the economic resource through its capacity to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows or to reduce cash outflows;
- b) can deny or regulate access to those benefits by others; and
- c) is exposed to the risks associated with the economic resource.

The IESO can benefit from the regulatory asset through its capacity to provide future cash inflows in one of two ways:

1. Collection through future rates

Section 25 of the FHP gives the IESO the right to recover the regulatory asset through future rates:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

2. Sale to a financing entity

Section 26 of the FHP Act permits the IESO to sell the regulatory asset:

Commented [LAP7]: CV - Are there other examples to provide as analogies – anything in tangible capital assets?

.31 When conditions indicate that a tangible capital asset no longer contributes to a government's ability to provide goods and services, or that the value

.07 When there has been a loss in value of a portfolio investment that is other than a temporary decline, the investment should be written down to recognize the loss. The write-down should be included in the statement of operations. In the case of an item in the fair value category, a reversal of any net remeasurements should be reported in the statement of remeasurement gains and losses.

26 (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

Agreement

(2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

Effect of payment

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.

Since (a) the statutory right to recover the regulatory asset belongs solely to the IESO, and (b) the IESO is permitted, but not required, to sell the regulatory asset, the IESO can deny or regulate access to the future economic benefits of the regulatory asset by others.

The IESO is exposed to the risks associated with the regulatory asset, with the primary risk being that collection through the mechanism set out in Section 25 of the FHP Act is dependent on the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers.

The above analysis supports the position that the IESO controls the regulatory asset and access to the future economic benefits.

In reaching this conclusion, consideration was given to the following excerpt included on Page 37 of the 2008 Annual Report of the OAGO:

With regard to the second characteristic, we simply point again to the legacy of the former Ontario Hydro and its stranded debt. This in our view provides concrete evidence that even in monopoly situations governments do not have sufficient assurance that an enterprise will generate enough profits in future years to recover all of its past costs.

Although there needs to be sufficient assurance regarding the recovery of past costs, all relevant facts and circumstances need to be taken into consideration. Accordingly, the stranded debt of Ontario Hydro can be a relevant to the analysis, but not determinative on its own. As noted in the previous section, the recoverability of past costs will be continually assessed.

The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred

When evaluating whether a transaction or event gives rise to control, the following guidance from PSAS 3210, ASSETS, provides helpful guidance:

The past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource resulting from exchange agreements or contracts usually occurs at the point of exchange. This arises when substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership have been transferred to the public sector entity and normally coincides with the disbursement of funds, exchange of other assets or assumption of liabilities.
.28
The existence of a law, by-law or policy in relation to a particular program is not a past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource. Control does not exist until the underlying event occurs.

The past transaction or event giving rise to control of an economic resource must have occurred by the financial statement date. Legislation having retroactive application cannot create a past transaction or event. Any economic resources related to that legislation would be accounted for in the current and relevant future periods, not in the period of the effective date of the legislation.

In the case of the regulatory asset, the above guidance in PSAS 3210 makes it clear that it is not the statute itself that is the transaction or event giving rise to the asset, it is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute. Accordingly, control over the economic benefits of the regulatory asset occurs when the IESO incurs a cash flow deficit that is recorded in the FHP variance account in accordance with Section 24(1) of the FHP Act:

24 (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

At this point in time, the IESO has incurred a cash outflow for which it is entitled to recover under Section 25 of the FHP Act:

Regulatory asset established

25 (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

The following excerpt from the IFRS Staff Paper on Rate-Regulated Activities prepared for discussion at the June 2017 IASB meeting presents a consistent view and dismisses the potential dissenting view that the transaction or event giving rise to the IESO's control is the future consumption of electricity by rate-payers:

A right arises from the rate-adjustment mechanism if the entity has already partially or fully fulfilled a regulatory requirement (past event) but the current regulated rate does not yet reflect the compensation that the entity is entitled to in exchange. Even though the entity cannot compel its customers to buy the regulated goods or services, the entity's right to charge an increased future regulated rate has the potential to produce for the entity an inflow of economic benefits that are not available to other parties. That right will be consumed as the entity includes the rate increase in future regulated rates and will lead to an inflow of economic benefits if customers pay the increased future regulated rate for the future delivery of goods or services.

In April 2011, Torys LLP issued a letter to OPG relating to the legal basis of OPG's regulatory deferral and variance accounts which, as evidenced by the following excerpts, also takes the position that the transaction or event giving rise to the asset is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute:

OPG's deferral and variance accounts are established either by regulation or by orders of the Ontario Energy Board (the "OEB") through the proper exercise of its jurisdiction as the administrative tribunal responsible for regulating the electricity industry in Ontario. The establishing of such an account pursuant to regulation or the granting of approval by the OEB to establish such an account confers upon OPG a right to record amounts in the account and to account for the amounts recorded on the basis that they have been prudently incurred.

The OEB has broad jurisdiction in setting payment amounts for OPG and it would not be reasonable for the legislature to have given the OEB the legislative power to authorize the establishment of accounts without also giving the OEB the power to dispose of the amounts recorded in such accounts, including in circumstances where there is no future output. Moreover, to interpret the applicable legislation in a manner that only allows for payment amounts on a volumetric basis is in our view unreasonable because it would not be consistent with the rules of statutory interpretation.

With regard to the third characteristic, we do not believe that a rate-regulation decision can be considered a transaction or event giving rise to an asset or obligation because, as stated above, from the level of the government's consolidated financial statements such a decision is an internal event between two government-controlled entities. An equivalent analysis for rate-regulated liabilities leads to the same conclusion. PSAB standards preclude the inclusion of both gains and losses from such inter-company transactions. Therefore, our contention is that, at the consolidated financial statement level, rate-regulated assets and liabilities have no place and should be removed upon consolidation of the government's controlled entities.

It should be noted, however, that the OAGO's belief that a rate-regulation decision cannot be considered a transaction or event giving rise to an asset or obligation is not contrary to the IESO's position. As noted above, it is not the statute itself that is being considered the transaction or event giving rise to the asset, it is the incurrence of costs for which recovery is provided for under statute.

In addition, one could argue the creation of the relevant statutes is not an internal event from the point of view of the consolidated government. Statutes must be passed by the Legislative Assembly of Ontario to become law. Since the Legislative Assembly is comprised of elected members, it can be viewed as the government's governing body.

Concluding the regulatory asset possesses the three essential characteristics of an asset in PSAS 1000.05 then begs the question as to whether the application of the guidance in ASC 980 is even necessary in this particular situation. Consistent with the statement in ASC 980 –340-25-1 that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset, ASC 980 provides guidance as to how to apply the primary source of PSAS in the regulatory environment.

In a letter from the OAGO to the Board of Directors of the IESO dated June 22, 2017 (the OAGO Letter), the OAGO makes the following statement:

The definitions of an asset in the PSAS and FASB Conceptual Framework are similar. Similar to PSAS, rate regulated deferral accounts do not generally meet the definition of an asset in the FASB's Conceptual Framework.

However, the following excerpts from the Basis for Conclusions for FAS 71 (paragraph 58 in particular), clearly support that ASC 980 is an application of, not an exception from, the basic definition of an asset in the Conceptual Framework:

Economic Effects of Regulation

56. The second threshold issue in the Discussion Memorandum was: "Does rate regulation introduce an economic dimension in some circumstances that should affect the application of generally accepted accounting principles to rate-regulated enterprises?"

57. Most respondents to the Discussion Memorandum indicated that rate regulation does introduce such an economic dimension in some circumstances. Respondents cited the cause-and-effect relationship of costs and revenues as the principal economic effect of regulation that affects accounting for regulated enterprises. They noted that cost might be one factor used by unregulated enterprises to establish prices, but it would often not be the most important factor. Usually, prices are limited by the market. An unregulated enterprise might desire to price its goods or services at a level that would recover all costs and a reasonable profit; however, the market might not permit that price. Alternatively, an unregulated enterprise might be able to increase its prices and its profit if competition does not limit its prices. In either case, cost often is not the principal determinant of prices. In contrast, for an enterprise with prices regulated on the basis of its costs, allowable costs are the principal factor that influences its prices.

58. The economic effect cited by most respondents is the ability of a regulatory action to create a future economic benefit—the essence of an asset. For example, consider a regulated enterprise that incurs costs to repair damage caused by a major storm. If the regulator approves recovery of the costs through rates over some future period or is expected to do so, the rate action of the regulator creates a new asset that offsets the reduction in the damaged asset. The enterprise has probable future economic benefits—the additional revenue that will result from including the cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. The future benefits are obtained or controlled by the enterprise as a result of a past event—incurring the cost that results in the rate order. Thus, the criteria of Concepts Statement 3 for an asset are met.

The fact that many Canadian rate-regulated entities recognized regulated assets under Part V of the CPA Canada Handbook – Pre-changeover Accounting Standards (Part V GAAP) further supports the position that regulated assets do meet the basic definition of an asset under PSAS. Although Part V GAAP refers to rate regulation in several standards, it does not include cost capitalization guidance equivalent to ASC 980-340-25-1. It does, however, specify in paragraph 32B of Section 1100, Generally accepted accounting principles, that Section 1100 applies to the recognition and measurement of assets and liabilities arising from rate regulation beginning January 1, 2009. Since Section 1100.04 only permits the use of an alternate source of GAAP if it is consistent with Part V GAAP, regulated assets need to meet the basic definition of an asset under Part V GAAP in order to be recognized. The Part V GAAP definition of an asset in Section 1000, Financial Statement Concepts is consistent with the PSAS definition.

Commented [npp8]: And where reporting under IFRS14, ASC980 continues to be the basis for reporting such assets.

Commented [LAP9R8]: To discuss

The CICA Research Report also concluded regulated assets meet the basic definition of an asset under Part V GAAP:

In the Study Group's view, the economic benefits and obligations created by rate regulation and resulting from past transactions or events, and the changes in these amounts, meet the definition of a financial statement element set out in Handbook Section 1000.

The OAGO Letter suggests that IFRS should be consulted prior to referring to ASC 980 under PSAS's GAAP hierarchy in PSAS 1150 and points out the following:

- In 2005 the International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee (IFRIC) indicated the US GAAP recognition criteria for regulated assets were not fully consistent with IFRS and could not be applied by analogy.
- When the question of rate regulated accounting was posed to the IFRIC again in 2008, the IFRIC noted the topic had been previously addressed and there was a well-established practice of first time IFRS adopters ceasing rate regulated accounting and removing regulatory deferral accounts from their financial statements.
- In the Basis for Conclusions on IFRS 14, IFRS 14.BC30 noted the differences in the recognition criteria between IFRS and ASC 980 resulted in almost all existing regulatory deferral accounts being derecognized upon transition to IFRS.

It should be noted, however, that the IASB's project on rate-regulated activities is still in progress and the OAGO Letter does not reference more recent and relevant activity. In September 2014, the IASB issued Discussion Paper DP/2014/02, Reporting the Financial Effects of Rate Regulation. The Discussion Paper presents the opposing views as to whether regulatory deferral account balances meet the definitions of an asset or a liability and specifically states the following in paragraph 5.09:

Consequently, the IASB has not formed a preliminary view on whether regulatory deferral account balances meet either the current or proposed revised Conceptual Framework definitions of an asset and a liability. It will use the input received from the responses to this Discussion Paper and the Conceptual Framework project to help it assess whether to develop any specific accounting guidance or requirements for rate-regulated activities.

In addition, the most recent paper issued by the IASB staff in June 2017 includes the following:

17. During the May 2017 Board meeting we also considered the interaction between the definitions of assets and liabilities and the characteristics of defined rate regulation (see paragraphs 5 and 6). We concluded that a combination of those characteristics suggested that the rights and obligations created by the rate-adjustment mechanism are assets and liabilities, as those terms are expected to be defined in the forthcoming revised Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting.

The Exposure Draft ED/2015/3, Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting, defines an asset as follows:

4.5 An asset is a present economic resource controlled by the entity as a result of past events.
4.6 An economic resource is a right that has the potential to produce economic benefits.

This recent activity suggests that it would be premature to assume that the IASB will conclude that regulatory deferral account balances will not meet the definitions of an asset or a liability.

Once it is determined that the regulatory asset meets the basic characteristics of an asset in PSAS 1000.36, consideration also needs to be made as to what type of asset it is. This is important because PSAS 1000.58 does not permit the recognition of intangible assets:

In the absence of appropriate public sector recognition and measurement criteria for intangibles, all intangibles, including those that have been purchased, developed, constructed or inherited in right of the Crown, are not recognized as assets in government financial statements. The intangible often called "human capital" that embodies the talent or intellectual capital of government employees is not recognized as an asset under existing accounting principles.

PSAS 1000 identifies two types of assets: financial assets and non-financial assets and provides the following commentary:

.39 Financial assets are assets that could be used to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations and are not for consumption in the normal course of operations.

.40 A financial asset is any asset that is:

- a) Cash
- b) a realizable asset that is convertible to cash;
- c) a contractual right to receive cash or another financial asset from another party;
- d) a contractual right to exchange financial instruments with another party under conditions that are potentially favourable to the government;
- e) an equity instrument of another entity;
- f) an investment in a government business enterprise or government business partnership;
- g) a financial claim on an outside organization or individual; or

h) an inventory or item for sale that meets the criteria in FINANCIAL STATEMENT PRESENTATION, paragraph PS 1201.055.

.41 Non-financial assets include tangible capital assets, and other assets such as prepaid expenses and inventories of supplies.

.42 Non-financial assets are acquired, constructed or developed assets that do not normally provide resources to discharge existing liabilities, but instead:

a) are normally employed to deliver government services;
b) may be consumed in the normal course of operations; and
c) are not for sale in the normal course of operations.

PSAS 3210, ASSETS, also provides some relevant guidance:

.24 Non-financial resources include all items of a fixed or permanent nature (such as tangible capital property), claims to goods and services (such as prepaid items) and consumable goods (such as inventories of supplies). Non-financial resources also include intangibles, Crown lands and natural resources.

.25 Certain non-financial resources are, however, not given accounting recognition as assets in government financial statements. For example, all government intangibles, and all natural resources and Crown lands that have not been purchased by the government, are not given accounting recognition in government financial statements. A government's non-financial assets, as defined in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000, comprise the recognized non-financial resources of a government.

Although PSAS does not permit the recognition of intangibles, it also does not provide a definition of intangibles. In absence of specific guidance in PSAS as to what constitutes an intangible, U.S. GAAP is probably the most appropriate source to consult, in light of the fact that it deals specifically with regulated assets. Under U.S. GAAP, a regulated asset is not treated as an intangible. ASC 980 contains separate subsections for 'Intangibles – Goodwill and Other' and 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs' and regulated assets are included in the guidance on 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs'.

In accordance with PSAS 1201.040(a), financial assets are presented separately on the statement of financial position. The IESO classifies its regulated assets (i.e., the original variance account and the regulated assets relating to unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items) as financial assets. Consistent with these other regulated assets, ~~The~~ the regulatory asset created under the FHP meets the definition of a financial asset in PSAS 1000.39 since it will be available to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations. Although the regulatory asset is not available to discharge liabilities existing at the date of the statement of financial position, that is no different than, for example, accounts receivable. ~~does not meet the criteria in PSAS 1000.40 to be a financial asset as it does not represent a current contractual right to receive cash. Accordingly, the regulatory asset is a non-financial resource. As noted above, to be recognized as an asset in the financial statements a non-financial resource cannot be an intangible.~~

~~Although PSAS does not permit the recognition of intangibles, it also does not provide a definition of intangibles. While PSAS 1000.40 provides a finite list of items that represent financial assets, the guidance in PSAS 1000.41 .42 on non-financial assets is less definitive, using words like "such as" and "normally". In absence of specific guidance in PSAS as to what constitutes an intangible, U.S. GAAP is probably the most appropriate source to consult, in light of the fact that it deals specifically with regulated assets. Under U.S. GAAP, a regulated asset is not treated as an intangible. ASC 980 contains separate subsections for 'Intangibles – Goodwill and Other' and 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs' and regulated assets are included in the guidance on 'Other Assets and Deferred Costs'. Consistent with the treatment under U.S. GAAP, the regulatory asset is categorized as an other asset under PSAS and recognized in the financial statements as a non-financial asset.~~

By recognizing the regulatory asset as a financial asset, the FHP will have a neutral impact on both the Province's net debt and accumulated deficit, which is consistent with the guidance in PSAS 1100, Financial statement objectives:

Financial statements should present information to describe the government's financial position at the end of the accounting period. Such information should be useful in evaluating:

a) the government's ability to finance its activities and to meet its liabilities and contractual obligations; and
b) the government's ability to provide future services.

A government's net debt is an important indicator of a government's financial position, highlighting the financial affordability of future government service provision. A net debt position represents a "lien" on the ability of the government to apply financial resources and future revenues to provide services. Non-financial assets are added to net debt to calculate the other indicator of a government's financial position — its accumulated surplus or deficit. Non-financial assets are "prepaid service potential". Reporting a government's recognized non-financial resources as part of its financial position provides information necessary for a more complete understanding of a government's debt position, financial position and future operating requirements.

Governments provide public services and redistribute wealth for a variety of social and economic purposes. To meet those objectives, governments need information about the cost of services and the affordability of services. An understanding of the extent of the financial "lien" the government has on its ability to provide future services as a result of past transactions and events is essential information. Governments also need to have an appreciation of the magnitude of the total economic resources they have on hand to deliver services. A government's net financial resources / net debt position, assessed in combination with the non-financial resources position of the government, provides a measure of the net recognized economic resources available to the government at the financial statement date to provide services in the future.

If the regulatory asset is not recognized as a financial asset, the Province's net debt will increase significantly, suggesting that the Province has a much higher future revenue requirement. This would be inaccurate, however, since the regulatory asset is going to be recovered under statute from electricity consumers, not taxpayers.

Debits and Credits

Based on the example provided earlier, the IESO pays the contracted power generator $400 for electricity used by the ratepayer and collects $300 from the ratepayer through their local distribution company (LDC). The $100 recovery shortfall is recorded in a variance account created by Bill 132 and deemed to be a regulatory asset. The IESO sells the regulatory asset to OPG Trust for $100 to obtain cash to make up the shortfall.

The accounting for the above transactions in the financial statements of the IESO, which are prepared in accordance with PSAS, depends on whether the regulatory asset is eligible for recognition as an asset for accounting purposes under PSAS. To avoid confusion in the remainder of this document, the term regulatory asset will refer to the defined term in the FHP Act and the term regulated asset or rate-regulated asset (RRA) will refer to an asset recognized for accounting purposes. The following table illustrates the journal entries to be booked by the IESO under both scenarios:

Scenario A – Regulated Asset			Scenario B – Not a Regulated Asset
Market Settlement
DR	Cash	300	DR	Cash	300
DR	Asset	100	DR	Expense	100
CR	Cash	(400)	CR	Cash	(400)
Sale of Regulatory Asset to OPG Trust
CR	Asset	(100)	CR	Gain	(100)

At any given point in time, the accounting result will be the same under both scenarios provided the cash shortfall has been fully funded. If a funding deficit exists, however, the deficit would be recognized as an asset under Scenario A and recognized as an expense under Scenario B. A funding deficit may arise due to, for example, temporary timing differences between the creation and sale of a regulatory asset. A funding deficit may also arise if OPG Trust (or another financing entity) ceases to purchase the IESO's regulatory assets on an on-going basis.

APPENDIX A

Proposed Legislated Transaction Structure
Prepared by the Office of the Auditor General of Ontario

Notes: The Planned Flexibility identified in Figure 19 is required to meet peak requirements and represents less than 1 TWh of energy per year. Forecasting of electricity production includes the expectation of imports and exports of electricity in all years. Imports and exports are an important component in managing the operation of the electricity system. As a result, electricity production forecast exceeds the forecast Ontario consumer demand.

Good morning.
We had suggested that EY list some of their questions in advance of today's call (see below). I personally think however, that we first need to establish a common understanding of RRA (eg. Clarity of accounting guidance wrt governing board, independence, different types of RRAs), and perhaps address some of EY's questions/confusion following their read of the AG's recent comments/postings and how they might relate (or not) to the IESO's situation.
Just forwarding these Q's as an info item. Talk soon, N

Hi Nadine,

Below is a list of the items I would like to discuss on our call with the IESO.

Please let me know if you have any questions/concerns with the list.

Regards,
Lee Anne

IESO Financial Statements

Current supply cost variance account

- Where is this recorded on the 2016 balance sheet (Amounts due to/from market participants?)
- Why is this not a regulatory asset? Is it considered to be a financial asset?
- There are similarities between this variance account and the new FHP variance account, but FHP variance account is going to be accounted for a regulatory asset. What is driving different treatment?

Market accounts

- Can we walk through the entries that are booked as part of the settlement process (timing and DRs/CRs)
- What are 'Other liabilities' (Note 3)

Market Administration/Settlement

Confirm/correct the following:

Price consumers pay comprised of:

- Electricity price:
  - Electricity commodity price (HOEP)
  - Transmission price
  - Distribution price
- Global Adjustment

IESO only settles the electricity commodity price component and the related portion of the Global Adjustment

Supply of electricity comes from:

1. OPG (rate set by OEB)
2. Non-utility generators (rate set by contract – contracts held by OEFC)
3. Generation facilities under contract with IESO (rate set by contract)
4. Imports (paid HOEP)

Are there are other suppliers that are paid HOEP?

Portion of Global Adjustment determined by IESO driven by variances relating to #1, #2, #3 above

What is the nature of the contracts IESO enters into?

Participation agreements

- IESO enters into participation agreements with all market participants (buyers and sellers)
- Participation agreements bind IESO and counterparty to follow market rules
- Participation agreement would be the only contract IESO enters into with #1, #2, #4 above

Supply contracts

- Since IESO does not buy and sell electricity, what is the contract for? (IESO paying for commitment that the counterparty will supply electricity into the IESO grid?)
- Does the IESO negotiate the terms of these contracts?

Buyers of electricity from IESO grid are comprised of:

- LDCs
- Large consumers

The electricity commodity price paid by all buyers is HOEP.
IESO determines HOEP.
Although IESO determines HOEP, IESO is not really determining rates charged to buyers because total price is a bundle of electricity at HOEP plus/minus Global Adjustment and OEB mandates that bundle must (over time) equal cost.

Hello,

Some of the largest Generators are:

Bruce Power, Brookfield Renewable Power, Goreway Station Partnership, Portlands Energy Centre LP, Iroquois Falls Power Corp and Portlands Energy Centre LP. OPG is typically within the top 10.

Our top LDCs include:

Toronto Hydro, Hydro One Networks Inc., Alectra Utilities, Hydro Ottawa and HQ Energy Marketing Inc.

Thanks,

Marina

> Subject: Meeting between AGO and Elio Luongo - Privileged and Confidential
>
> Elio and I went to AGO office on Thursday afternoon. In attendance from AGO were bonnie Lysyk, Susan Klein and an individual that took notes. There was no indication of any reason why we wouldn't share the outcome of this discussion with our client.
>
> Summary of the discussion:
>
> · Bonnie talked through the background, providing Elio with her perspective on the problem and concern. Her comments here were similar to those of previous meetings
> · She talked about how she knows that they are right, because they understand government accounting;
> · She referred to her due diligence involving Tim Beauchamp (former director/staff at PSAB);
> · She referred to letters from other AG offices in Canada
> · She referred to letters from other firms. She acknowledged the comments in our letter of earlier in the day. Elio asked about whether any of those firms were big 4 firms. Again she refused to provide any info on who they were, noting that to do so would make it difficult for them to work with her in the future (which is a curious comment that transparency of their work would be concern to them)
> · She criticized us for not engaging in discussion with her team on the technical aspects of the materials provided to us.
> · She asked about our internal due diligence. We indicated that we had involved many senior people including Dowad, Owen, Dotzlaw, Janet Allen, Picard, and Betik. She asked about Janel Allen, and we indicated that she was a retired partner that had been involved prior to her retirement. Bonnie made a somewhat vague comment about how she understood that someone that had left the firm might now have a different view. (I Subsequently spoke to Janet Allen and she has not had any discussions with AGO reps since retirement).
> · Bonnie referred to emails that indicated contrary views to the final view. She did not seem to accept that the thought process, and accordingly the emails, reflected a process of research, and evolving thinking on basis of that research.
> · Bonnie referred to her right to timely communication on accounting policy changes, and how we had missed those deadlines in Feb 2017, until it was too late. She did not acknowledge that the Province reporting timeline is 3 months later;
> · Bonnie referred to our participation in the press briefing with our client and reps from the Province. I indicated that our role there was no different than at any AGM. Our client asked us to attend in case there were questions about our audit. (there were no questions)
> · Bonnie referred to Mat advising the Board/AC of IESO that "this" wasn't a good idea (subsequently Mat Betik advises that he has not recollection of any such comments)
> · Bonnie referred to conflict (from her perspective) of being involved in advising IESO and also as auditors;
> · Bonnie asked us why we would not accept her suggestion of changing to "an appropriately disclosed basis of accounting". I indicated that this would require a regulation to be issued, and IESO to make a different decision on accounting policies, both of which were out of our control. She suggested that a regulation could be passed quickly. I suggested that it might be unlikely that the Government would do that > · Bonnie asked again why we didn't encourage our client to have us do a joint audit. We indicated that this was a matter for them to decide. We indicated that we ensured they were aware of her comments, but that this was out of our control;
> · Bonnie encouraged us to resign for a period of 1 or 2 years, and that the AGO could "clean this up" and we could resume our role as auditors after that – noted that "I don't want to be auditors for the long term". It was not clear whether she was referring to resigning before the completion of our 2017 audit, or form future audits.
> · Bonnie referred to the Board of IESO saying that "I have never seen anything like it". Not clear what she meant.
> · Elio spoke about how Bill Thomas had advised him of this matter after the AGO call to Bill last year, and how he had ensured we were taking this matter seriously, and had ensure we had the right people involved such as Gordon and our most senior technical people, and that we had engaged DT
> · Bonnie asked about our process to select the partner at DT. We indicated again, that our request was to the leader of their professional Practice Group. She indicated that Kerry Danyluk did not have experience in the area. We indicated that our report was from DT as a firm, and that we were aware that they had involved a number of people rather than just KD.
> · I indicated that while our team had previous opportunities to hear the AGOs perspective, this discussion had been useful for Elio, and that it would be constructive for him to go back and discuss with our team. We referred to the acceptance (as noted in our letter) of the AGOs request for another technical session. She had not yet had a chance to read that letter, or share it with her team. She asked about the adjustment to the iESO process/timing and we referred to our understanding that they were willing to wait until after March 6th .

Nadine - timing of the events surrounding the approval of the audited IESO financial statements was as follows:

- February 28 – in accordance with the audit committee calendar, KPMG and management presented financial statements prior to accounting policy changes to the Audit Committee for information purposes. Management and KPMG discussed the proposed accounting policy changes with the objective of bringing policies and revised financial statements back to the Audit Committee in March.
- March 1 – the Board delegated authority to the Audit Committee to review the accounting policy changes, adjust financial statements for the changes and approve on behalf of the Board
- March 15 – KPMG and management presented the accounting policy changes for rate regulated assets and market accounts to the Audit Committee at a special meeting. The presentation of materials included a memo from KPMG on the accounting policies as well as pro forma financial statements and proposed changes to the notes of the financial statements
- March 22 – KPMG and management presented the audited financial statements to the Audits Committee for approval based on the delegated authority of Board from March 1st. The financial statements were approved on March 22nd.

Nadine, happy to have a discussion

Hi Kim.
Cindy has asked that I follow up regarding a comment made by the AG in a meeting last week. With regards to the IESO's recent decision to adopt rate regulated accounting, the AG said that a set of IESO f/s had presented to the IESO Board on March 21st which did not reflect rate regulated accounting even though IESO management and the external auditors would have known about the impending accounting and the anticipated adoption of rate regulated accounting to follow shortly thereafter.
Can you please confirm the accuracy of the AG's statement.
Thanks in advance.

Dear Madam:

In connection with the preparation of a technical accounting paper by the Office of the Provincial Controller Division, Treasury Board Secretariat (the "OPCD") related to the Fair Hydro Plan, 2017, KPMG LLP ("KPMG") understands that the OPCD has requested that a copy of our Memorandum to File dated July 25, 2017 be provided to their accounting adviser, Ernst and Young LLP ("EY"). In regards to this request, the Independent Electricity System Operator ("the IESO") has asked that we allow EY access to our Memorandum to File prepared in connection with our audit of the 2016 financial statements of the IESO. We have received authorization from IESO management to allow EY such access to our Memorandum prepared in the course of the audit.

Our audit of the 2016 financial statements of the IESO was conducted in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, the objective of which was to form an opinion on whether the financial statements, which are the responsibility and representations of management of the IESO, present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position and results of operations and cash flows of the IESO in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Under those standards, we have the responsibility, within the inherent limitations of the auditing process, to design our audit to provide reasonable assurance of detecting errors and irregularities that are material to the financial statements and to exercise due care in the conduct of our audit. The concept of selective testing of the data being audited, which involves judgment regarding both the number of transactions to be audited and the areas to be tested, has been generally accepted as a valid and sufficient basis for an auditor to express an opinion on financial statements. Thus, our audit, based on the concept of selective testing, is subject to the inherent risk that material errors or irregularities, if they exist, will not be detected. In addition, an audit does not address the possibility that material errors or irregularities may occur in the future. The conduct of an audit requires the application of professional judgment and the assessment of materiality in connection with financial statement assertions.

Our audit of the IESO's 2016 financial statements was not planned or conducted in contemplation of the preparation of a technical accounting paper related to the Fair Hydro Plan and may not be appropriate for your purposes. Items of possible interest to OPCD may not have been specifically addressed.

We have not reported on the IESO's financial statements for any period subsequent to December 31, 2016 and significant events may have occurred since that date. Our Memorandum prepared in connection therewith and our responses to EY's questions, should not be taken to supplant other inquiries and procedures that OPCD should undertake for the preparation of the technical accounting paper described above or for any other purpose.

We accept no responsibility whatsoever for any reliance that OPCD, EY or any other person or body may place on the information provided by us.

In consideration of our permitting access to the Memorandum referred to above and for providing explanations relating to it if asked, and to the information contained therein, OPCD (on behalf of itself and all parties for which it is legally responsible - "the OPCD Parties") and EY agree that:

a) such access to our Memorandum and provision of information and explanations is not provided pursuant to any agreement or other arrangements of a contractually binding nature between our firm and any of the OPCD Parties or EY;

b) the OPCD Parties and EY do not acquire any rights against our firm or otherwise as a result of such access or as a result of what our Memorandum contain;

c) our firm, our partners and staff do not have any duties, responsibilities, liabilities, or obligations to the OPCD Parties or to EY as a result of permitting such access or providing such information and explanations;

d) the OPCD Parties and EY will not commence any action, suit or proceeding or make any demand, complaint or claim against us arising out of permitting such access or providing such information and explanation, or for any omission therein unless such action, suit or proceeding arises from our willful misconduct or failure to act in good faith in responding to specific questions raised by Ernst and Young.

OPCD also agrees that except as required by law, the information acquired as a result of the review of our Memorandum will be maintained in confidence and will not be disclosed to any third party (except as otherwise permitted herein) and will be used by it and EY in connection with the preparation of the technical accounting paper described above and that it will show this letter to, and secure the commitment to the provisions of this paragraph by EY.

Please confirm your agreement with the foregoing by signing and dating a copy of this letter and returning it to us.

Yours very truly

Subject: RE: "Fair" Legislation (Discussion Draft)

Good evening-

In order to assist everyone as we prepare for Monday's call, attached please find a mark-up of the draft of the legislation that Stephen sent last night. I have attempted to highlight our thoughts to explain some of the changes throughout the document.

Have a nice weekend,

Adam

Subject: "Fair" Legislation (Discussion Draft)

Thanks for your comments, Michael. The attached version picks up many of your, Peter's and H&W's comments. In some cases it defers consideration, pending dealer input (such as your suggestion of tracking individual, standalone Regulatory Assets per transaction; delinking the investors from the LDCs, in favour of having IESO be the main servicer; and deleting some of the US precedent language). The regulatory input included in your mark-up was particularly helpful, although not easily dealt with tonight without the Province's input, so many of those points have simply been brought forward with additional footnotes for now. The manner and extent of delegations (primarily the Financing Plan and the Fair Allocation Plan), the nature of OEB review and regulatory actions, the scope of the undertaking and other similar issues, are still under consideration by MOE. Your comments to the effect that nothing can affect a funding obligation once incurred were referenced, as I think that is a pervasive and correct idea. The ultimate location of provisions (Part of the Electricity Act; new Act; Regulations) is still under consideration – for now it's all in this document to facilitate this group review. Finally, there are a number of "validity" type points, which arose in your mark-up and which we are still thinking about. We can discuss those further in the morning. Steve

Subject: Torys Comments on Blakes Draft Legislation

All,

I am attaching our comments on the last version of the draft legislation sent to us by Blakes. Both a clean and blacklined version are attached.

This is being distributed to OPG at the same time as everyone else and so remains subject to their comments as this is very much a work in process.

We also just received comments from Hunton & Williams but in the interests of time we have not been able to include those in our mark up, but expect to be in a position to raise any of their big issues at our meeting tomorrow. Also, I will send their comments separately to Blakes.

Regards,

Michael K. Feldman

Preliminary Draft for Discussion Purposes Only

"Fair Hydro" – Part V.2

Article 1 – Purpose[1]

IESO has entered into Power Contracts with Generators. The agreed-upon reference prices and quantities set out therein were determined based on commitments made by IESO to provide Generators with long-term price certainty, so as to encourage the construction and development of facilities for the purpose of long-term operation and generation of electricity using sustainable, lower carbon-based technologies such as new gas-fired generation, renewable facilities, energy from waste and biomass, including under the Province's various procurement, standard offer and feed in tariff programs (the "Green Generation Initiative"). [The terms of the Power Contracts were intended to approximate the anticipated useful life of the related generation assets]; however, it has been determined that the useful life of many of these assets will be well in excess of the actual term of the related Power Contracts and will extend over more than one generation of ratepayers. The long-term benefits of the Green Generation Initiative accrue over time and have benefited and will benefit present and future ratepayers of the Province. Currently, market prices for electricity are less than the reference prices set out in the Power Contracts, leaving a gap in funding which is funded by charging consumers a "Global Adjustment" (part of which is available to IESO to pay this shortfall).

Each month, the IESO determines the Global Adjustment payable by consumers for the consumption of electricity in the Province. A component of the Global Adjustment is the amount by which the reference prices in the Power Contracts exceed the market price for electricity for the quantities of electricity specified under the Power Contracts for the relevant period[2]. The relationship between the past, present and future benefits to Ratepayers from the Green Generation Initiative, on the one hand, and the costs of the Green Generation Initiative borne by past, present and future Ratepayers through their respective allocations of the Global Adjustment, on the other hand, do not necessarily reflect an equitable allocation of such benefits and costs over time, with the result that an adjustment may be appropriate to address inter-generational fairness considerations. Such an adjustment should reflect principles and parameters that can be applied from time to time in order to establish a reasonable basis for measuring and allocating the relative costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative across present and future Ratepayers. A plan to allocate such costs and benefits equitably across present and future Ratepayers may be developed based on those principles and parameters (a "Fair Allocation Plan").

If a Fair Allocation Plan determines that the equitable allocation of the Global Adjustment to the Ratepayers of a particular time period in respect of the Power Contracts should be reduced below the amount otherwise determined, the amount payable by such Ratepayers to Electricity Distributors in respect of such period, and in turn by the Electricity Distributors to the IESO, would, in the aggregate, be less than the amount payable by the IESO to the Generators under the Power Contracts in respect of such period. If the difference is greater than any net Power Contract surpluses available to IESO from earlier periods, IESO will have a funding shortfall.[3] In order for IESO to cover such a funding shortfall for a period, IESO will need to obtain funding from another source, which could include funding from third party sources operating in public and private capital markets. If a funding obligation is incurred in order to enable the IESO to cover a funding shortfall during one period, the repayment of such funding obligation will be required in a future period, and any related repayments, finance costs, hedging costs and other transaction costs will be incurred and may become payable in one or more other periods.

[1] Consider the scope and breadth of the Purpose section. This text is considered to be useful to establish the legislative basis for the statute, which text will be useful in the event of a challenge.

It will be necessary to provide a reliable and committed source of cash flows to enable IESO to repay such funding obligations and to pay related funding costs with certainty when the funding obligations become due and payable. This Part imposes irrevocable and non-bypassable financial obligations of Ratepayers to pay amounts incurred in respect of such funding obligations when they become due and payable and establishes a right to invoice and collect such amounts . The right and interest in and to collect such financial obligations, which will take the form of the Regulatory Asset contemplated in this Part and will constitute property rights and interests. The Regulatory Asset will be sold and absolutely assigned and will belong to one or more newly created financing entities, which in turn will finance their purchase of such Regulatory Asset by incurring funding obligations. The incurrence and payment of such funding obligations will be administered on behalf the financing entities by an administrative agent (initially OPG), under the Financing Plan contemplated in this Part. The Financing Plan will seek to reasonably match the payment obligations arising under funding obligations and borne by the future Ratepayers of the period in which such payment obligations become due, with the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative charged to such future Ratepayers under the Fair Allocation Plan.

The purpose of this Part is to establish the basis upon which intergenerational fairness can be achieved by charging the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative to present and future Ratepayers on an equitable and cost effective basis.

Article 2 - Definitions

In this Part:

> “Absolute Assignee” means a person to whom a Regulatory Asset Owner effects a Disposition.
> “Actual” means, in relation to costs, expenses or payments in respect of Funding Obligations during a Reference Period, the actual amount of such costs, expenses or payments paid or made (net of any Finance Reserve Withdrawals applied to pay such amounts), which amounts shall be recorded by the Administrative Agent whose records shall be determinative for the purposes of this Part in the absence of a manifest calculation error.
> “Additional Funding Charges” means, for a Reference Period, the fees, charges, expenses, costs, indemnities, reimbursements and other amounts (including any applicable tax amounts) that are or become payable by or on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners during the Reference Period and that were incurred or committed to directly or indirectly in connection with the incurrence of Funding Obligations under the Financing Plan (whether at the time of such incurrence or over the term of the Funding Obligation and whether directly or indirectly), including (without duplication and without limitation): (a) any payment required under an ancillary agreement entered into by, or by the Administrative Agent on behalf of, a Regulatory Asset Owner under the Financing Plan; (b) any federal, provincial or local taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, franchise fees or license fees imposed on a Regulatory Asset Owner or incurred by on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner under any obligation to pay tax gross-up amounts to counterparties under Funding Obligations; (c) any amounts payable to the Administrative Agent, including amounts payable to its advisors and outside counsel; (d) any amounts incurred to prepare, confirm, amend and implement the Financing Plan; (e) any amounts payable to any Alternative Collection Agent or Alternative Servicer, including amounts payable to each's advisors and outside counsel; (f) any amounts incurred to make the calculations, determinations or confirmations to be made by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner; (g) any servicing fees and expenses; (h) any trustee fees and expenses; (i) any legal fees, expenses and disbursements; (j) any accounting fees and expenses; (k) any administrative fees and expenses; (l) any manager or director fees of a Financing Entity; (m) any registration fees and expenses; (n) any placement fees, underwriting fees, fees and related issuing expenses; (o) any rating agency fees; and (p) any other related fees, charges, expenses, costs, indemnities, reimbursements and other amounts that are approved [NTD: APPROVED BY WHOM?] in good faith for recovery and payment under the Financing Plan.

[3] Confirm whether any RPP forecasting variance is to be included in (i) a funding shortfall; and (ii) related IESO financing costs to be included in Transition Charges.]

"Administrative Agent" means [OPG] or, following any Replacement Event, such other person or persons who may be appointed as the administrative agent of the Regulatory Asset Owner under the Financing Plan in compliance with the requirements set out in Schedule 3. [NTD: We should understand what will be the responsibility of the Administrative Agent and the Servicing Agent. Note: Why should OPG be the Administrative Agent if the Regulatory Asset Owner is a third party?]

"Allocation Factor" means, in respect of a Ratepayer for a Reference Period, the schedule (expressed as a percentage) determined in respect of the Ratepayer by [OPG] [To the extent the schedule is in the Financing Plan, it would be OPG] based on the application of the Attribution Methodology in respect of the Reference Period.[4] [NTD: a schedule will need to be set forth in the [Financing Plan] to spell out the percentage of the Period Transition Amount to be applied to each rate class.]

"Alternative Collection Agent" means a person appointed under Section 5(11) and in compliance with the requirements set out in Schedule 2 to assume the collection activities and activities of any Electricity Distributor or IESO under Article 5, as agent for and on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners.

[4] Consider basing this on forecast volumes of demand (like RPP). To the extent amounts do not get recovered due to differences between forecast and actual, those would be identified and rolled into the True-Up.

"Alternative Servicer" means a person appointed under Section 4(8) to assume the obligations of the Servicer under Article 4, as agent for and on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners.

"Attribution Methodology"[5] means the methodology specified in the [Financing Plan] [Shouldn't the methodology be specified in the Financing Plan? Concern is if the methodology is specified in the Fair Allocation Plan, it would cause rating agency implications if such methodology was amended after a debt issuance through a change in the Fair Allocation Plan] for allocating the Period Transition Amount.

"Bypass Charge" means [To be developed].[6] [As discussed, is this necessary?]

["Collected Amount Adjustment" means, in respect of a Reference Period, the amount (which may be a negative amount) calculated by the Servicer or the Administrative Agent, as applicable, equal to (a) the Estimate of the Finance Amount for the True-Up Period, minus (b) the sum of all Transition Charge Collections for the True-Up Period.][7] [Could this concept be moved to the Financing Plan where we can include a more detailed discussion of the true-up mechanism?]

"Collective Rights Agreement" means an agreement among all of the Regulatory Asset Owners (including each Absolute Assignee) and each Pledgee that governs the enforcement of their respective rights and interests in, to and under the Regulatory Asset on a coordinated and collective basis. [NTD: This sounds like an intercreditor arrangement. If so, it should also include IESO, any Alternate Servicer or subservicer.]

"Disposition" means an assignment, transfer, conveyance, sale, contribution, set-over, exchange or other disposition of all or a specified portion (including a specified portion on a divided basis or by way of an undivided interest) of a Regulatory Asset Owner's right, title and interest in, to and under the Regulatory Asset to an Absolute Assignee pursuant to a Disposition Document.

"Disposition Document" means the agreement, deed, conveyance, instrument or other document under which a Regulatory Asset Owner effects a Disposition to an Absolute Assignee.

"Electricity Distributor" means, in respect of a Service Area, the distributor licensed by the OEB in respect of such Service Area.

[5] A key question will be how the overall costs will be spread across the rate base. For example, the allocation may be volumetric or not, or some combination of a flat amount and a volumetric charge. This will also impact any discussion regarding any bypass (e.g., grid exit) charge in connection with the bypass discussion. [NTD: At H&W we are assuming that allocations will be volumetric based on usage?]

[6] Consideration needs to be given to any amount that will be charged to a ratepayer who successfully bypasses (e.g., leaves the grid). In allocating Transition Charges, considerations would include whether to reserve Bypass Charges and spread them over the life of the program, and correspondingly how to factor those into the calculation of Transition Charges.

[7] This would pick up adjustments based on actual collection experience, changes in the Consumer Base, changes in the actual costs (versus earlier estimates) included in the Transition Charge calculation, etc.

“Electricity Distributor Remittances” means, for an Electricity Distributor on a Remittance Date, all Transition Charge Collections received or deemed received [How will the Electricity Distributors calculate this?] by the Electricity Distributor prior to the Remittance Date and that have not otherwise been remitted to IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent in accordance with Section 5(3) , including the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by the Electricity Distributor or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to recover payment of Transition Charges in accordance with Article 5.

“Electricity Invoice” means an invoice issued by an Electricity Distributor (or in its stead, an Alternative Servicer) or by the Servicer in respect of electricity charges and related services and amounts incurred, assessed or charged in respect of connectivity to a distribution network in the Electricity Distributor’s designated Service Area.

“Estimate” means, in relation to costs, expenses or payments in respect of Funding Obligations or any Finance Amount for a Reference Period, the estimated amount of such costs, expenses or payments determined by the Administrative Agent having regard to the applicable principles and parameters set out in Schedule 1, which estimated amounts shall be determinative as the applicable estimate for the purposes of this Part in the absence of a manifest calculation error.

“Fair Allocation Plan” [has the meaning given in Article 1].

“Finance Amount” means, in respect of a Reference Period, the sum (without duplication) of the following amounts that are or become payable during the Reference Period: (a) Repayments; (b) Funding Costs; (c) Redemption Amounts; (d) Finance Reserve Deposits; and (e) Additional Funding Charges.

“Finance Receipts” means, for a Reference Period, all amounts received by or on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners during the Reference Period in respect of a Funding Obligation, including from any reimbursement of standby commitment fees or charges paid by a lender, any reimbursement of credit enhancement fees or charges paid by any credit enhancer, any reimbursement of liquidity fees or charges paid by any liquidity provider, any amounts (including any termination payments) paid to the Regulatory Asset Owners under derivatives and any withdrawal made or required to be made from a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to a Funding Obligation.

“Finance Reserve Deposits” means, for a Reference Period, the amount by which (a) deposits made or to be made during the Reference Period in order to pre-fund, collateralize, over-collateralize or establish reserves for the ultimate payment of Funding Obligations or for related contingencies specified in the Financing Plan, exceed (b) any Finance Reserve Withdrawals.

“Finance Reserve Withdrawals” means, for a Reference Period, the amount withdrawn during the Reference Period from deposits previously made to pre-fund, collateralize, over-collateralize or establish reserves for the payment of Funding Obligations or to pay amounts in respect of related contingencies that had been specified in the Financing Plan.

"Financing Entity" means an entity established in accordance with the Financing Plan to acquire all or an interest in the Regulatory Asset as an Absolute Assignee and to enter into Funding Obligations to finance such acquisition.[8]

"Financing Plan" means the written plan [prepared by the Administrative Agent] in compliance with Article 8 to set forth the basis upon which, among other things: (a) any Disposition may be made or effected; (b) any Funding Obligations may be incurred in order to fund a Funding Shortfall, including any Refinancing; (c) any Pledge may be given or effected; (d) any Funding Obligations may be redeemed, prepaid, repurchased, amended or otherwise effected; (e) any obligations for Additional Funding Charges may be incurred and paid; (f) any Repayments, Funding Costs and Redemption Amounts may be paid or provided for; (g) any Finance Reserve Deposits may be made; (h) the establishment and operation of any Financing Entity; and (i) the cash flows arising from time to time or otherwise derived from the Regulatory Asset may otherwise be applied.

"Funding Costs" means, for a Reference Period, the amount by which (a) the aggregate of all schedule payments of principal, interest and other periodic finance charges accruing due and becoming payable or paid by or on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owner during the Reference Period in respect of all Funding Obligations, including any standby commitment fees or charges paid to any lender, credit enhancement fees or charges paid to any credit enhancer, liquidity fees or charges paid to any liquidity provider, amounts (including any termination payments) paid under derivatives and any deposit amount made or required to fund or replenish a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to a Funding Obligation, exceeds (b) the aggregate of all Finance Receipts for the Reference Period.

"Funding Obligation" means each payment obligation (including[9] indebtedness, payment obligations arising under or in respect of derivatives, payment obligations owing to service providers, administrative agents, finance entity intermediaries, capital markets intermediaries, advisors, lenders, credit enhancement providers, liquidity providers, disbursement counterparties, regulatory agencies and rating agencies and [all taxes payable in connection with the foregoing] [NTD: Shouldn't taxes be Additional Funding Charges?]) incurred by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner under the Financing Plan in order to fund a Funding Shortfall for a Reference Period, including any Refinancing of another such payment obligation.[10]

[8] OPG has suggested that the legislation provide that any Financing Entity that is a wholly-owned subsidiary of OPG (1) would not be subject to Part VI of the Electricity Act (Ontario) and (2) in the case of any Financing Entity that is a trust, any income of such trust (for purposes of the Income Tax Act (Canada) or the Taxation Act, 2007 Ontario)) which is paid or made payable to OPG or a wholly-owned subsidiary of OPG as a beneficiary of such trust will not be taken into account in calculating the amount of a payment required to be made by OPG (or such subsidiary) by section 89 or 90 of the Electricity Act. These raise issues for consideration by the stakeholders.

[9] Note: Payments of scheduled principal, interest and other financing charges was moved to the definition of funding costs.

[10] OPG has asked whether this should include IESO finance arrangements.

"Funding Shortfall" means, for a Reference Period, (a) the amount, if any, by which (i) the IESO Power Contract Net Payment for the Reference Periods, exceeds (ii) the GA Power Contract Contribution for Reference Period, minus (b) the IESO Applied Surplus for the Reference Period.[11]

"GA Power Contract Contribution" means, for a Reference Period, the aggregate of the payments to be made by the applicable Ratepayer Group in respect of the portion of the Global Adjustment [attributable to the Power Contracts] in accordance with the Fair Allocation Plan.[12]

"Generator" means a generator of electricity that is subject to [this Act][13].

"Global Adjustment" means the amount calculated from time to time under [Section • of the Electricity Act], which includes among other things an amount determined in respect of the costs associated with the Green Generation Initiative, including amounts attributable to the Power Contracts.[14]

"Green Generation Initiative" [has the meaning given in Article 1].

"IESO" means the Independent Electricity System Operator created pursuant to [insert].

"IESO Applied Surplus" means, for a Reference Period, the lesser of (a) the amount, if any, by which (i) the IESO Power Contract Net Payment for the Reference Period, exceeds (ii) the GA Power Contract Contribution for the Reference Period and (b) the IESO Unapplied Surplus on the last day of the immediately preceding Reference Period.

"IESO Power Contract Net Payment" means, for a Reference Period, the amount by which (a) the sum of amounts payable by IESO to the Generators under all Power Contracts for the Reference Period, exceeds (b) the sum of amounts payable by the Generators to IESO under all Power Contracts for the Reference Period.

"IESO Power Contract Net Receipt" means, for a Reference Period, the amount by which (a) the sum of amounts payable by the Generators to IESO under all Power

[11] Consider whether to simplify by referring to the calculations of GA, with vs. without Fair. The issue would be that Fair is then linked into the GA calculation specifically, rather than to the specific assets that are subject to revised amortization under Fair. The constitutional position requires a clear nexus to the assets. Also, confirm whether RPP forecasting variances are to be included.

[12] IESO to confirm its ability to allocate a shortfall in a given month between what it receives and what it owes under the GA, in order to calculate (a) existing volume-based variances which are rolled into subsequent month GA and trued-up every 6 months under RPP, (b) existing variances attributable to OREC which are funded by the Province, and (c) new variances attributable to Fair Hydro program.]

[13] Revise once determine whether this will be a standalone Act or remain part of the Electricity Act. "Generator is a defined term in other legislation (OEB Act, Electricity Act) so this should ultimately be a distinct term such as "FH Generator" to avoid confusion.

[14] Note that if adjustments for Fair Hydro program are to be applied after existing GA adjustments, then this may need a new name (such as "FH Adjustment").

Contracts for the Reference Period, exceeds (b) the sum of amounts payable by IESO to the Generators under all Power Contracts for the Reference Period.

"IESO Remittances" means, for a Settlement Date, all Electricity Distributor Remittances received by IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent prior to the Settlement Date and that have not otherwise been remitted to the Regulatory Asset Owners (each with respect to its Regulatory Asset) in accordance with Section 5(6), including the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to recover payment of amounts payable by Electricity Distributors to IESO in accordance with Article 5.

"IESO Successor" means the entity appointed by the Province to succeed to the rights and obligations of IESO as the entity responsible for [managing the Province's power system].

"IESO Unapplied Surplus" means, at a particular time, the amount, if any, by which (a) the sum of (i) all IESO Power Contract Net Receipts for Reference Periods occurring prior to the time, and (ii) all GA Power Contract Contributions for Reference Periods occurring prior to the time, exceeds (b) the sum of (i) all IESO Power Contract Net Payments for Reference Periods occurring prior to the time, and (ii) all IESO Applied Surpluses for Reference Periods occurring prior to the time.

"Period Transition Amount" means, for a Reference Period, the sum of (a) the Estimate of the Finance Amount and (b) the True-Up Amount in respect of the immediately preceding Reference Period.

"Pledge" means a lien, mortgage, charge or security interest granted to or in favour of a Pledgee by a Regulatory Asset Owner in, to and over all or a specified portion (including a specified portion on a divided basis or by way of an undivided interest) of the Regulatory Asset.

"Pledgee" means a person to whom a Regulatory Asset Owner grants a Pledge.

"Power Contracts" means long-term power contracts entered into by IESO with certain Generators, under which IESO has agreed to pay such Generators amounts, determined in respect of quantities of electricity over specified periods, to the extent that applicable market prices for such quantities of electricity during a specified period are less than specified reference prices for such quantities of electricity, and, correspondingly, Generators have agreed to pay IESO amounts if the market prices for such quantities exceed the applicable reference prices for such quantities.[15]

"Province" means the Province of Ontario.

"Ratepayer" means present and future [retail] consumers of electricity [in the Province] who are [RPP][or OREC-eligible] consumers, which shall include all such retail consumers who are connected, directly or indirectly and whether a customer of an [15] Consider expanding to include PPAs that are not contracts for differences. Should this contemplate the possibility of additional or amended power contracts?

Electricity Distributor or not, to the transmission and distribution system assets located in the Province and who are taking electric delivery service within the Province, whether or not such retail consumers produce their own electricity or purchase electric generation services from a provider of electric generation services other than the owner of the Province's transmission and distribution system assets and whether or not the transmission and distribution system assets continue to be owned or operated by Electricity Distributors or operated by IESO.[16]

"Ratepayer Group" means, in relation to a Reference Period, the Ratepayers who receive Electricity Invoices[17] during the Reference Period.

"Redemption Amount" means the amount payable by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner to redeem, prepay or repurchase a Funding Obligation, including any premium, make-whole or other additional amount becoming payable under the Funding Obligation to give effect to such redemption, prepayment or repurchase.

"Reference Period" means (a) the period from (and including) the [Legislation Implementation Date] to (and including) June 30, 2017, (b) each six month period commencing [May 1st and November 1st] thereafter and (c) any other period specified as such in the Fair Allocation Plan.

"Refinancing" means that a Funding Obligation is repaid or repurchased for cancellation by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner by applying the net proceeds obtained by a Regulatory Asset Owner incurring one or more other Funding Obligations.

"Regulatory Asset" means the property right and interest described in Section 6(1), or if the context requires, a specified portion or undivided interest in such property right and interest that is described in the applicable Disposition Document.

"Regulatory Asset Account" means (a) for an Electricity Distributor, any bank account into which the Electricity Distributor deposits or receives Transition Charge Collections; (b) for the Servicer, any bank account into which the Servicer deposits or receives Transition Charges, Electricity Distributor Remittances or IESO Remittances; and (c) if applicable, for the Alternative Collection Agent, any bank account into which the Alternative Collection Agent deposits or receives Transition Charge Collections, Electricity Distributor Remittances or IESO Remittances.

"Regulatory Asset Owner" means each Absolute Assignee, to the extent that it has acquired and owns any ownership interest (including a specified portion on a divided basis or by way of an undivided interest) in, to or under the Regulatory Asset, and "Regulatory Asset Owners" means collectively all of the Regulatory Asset Owners, who [16] Need to describe consumers in a fashion that is broad and not weakened by a bypass risk. Consider terminology to align with the description of the eligible customer class provided by the Ministry, e.g., same as OREC-eligible consumers except for consumers served by Independent Power Authorities (who do not pay GA). Also, consider use of the word "retail", to avoid limiting to customers of retailers and confirm removal of reference to transmission-connected customers.

[17] Expand to include eligible consumers who are not customers of Electricity Distributors (e.g., suite-metered customers).

together own the entirety of the Regulatory Asset and are required to exercise their individual rights of ownership in accordance with Section 6(7). For greater certainty, where one Regulatory Asset Owner owns the entirety of the Regulatory Asset, "Regulatory Asset Owners" refers to this Regulatory Asset Owner. [NTD: For purposes of the legislation and the financing to the capital markets, we look at it as though the IESO owns a different type of "regulatory asset". The whole idea of this financing structure is to "ring fence" the asset owned by the Absolute Assignee.]

"Related Generation Assets" means the [facilities, plants and equipment] constructed, acquired or developed in connection with the Green Generation Initiative.

"Related Rights" means, with respect to a Regulatory Asset Owner's Regulatory Asset, all rights of any kind (whether in tort, contract or otherwise) that attach or are attendant or incidental to any of the other property rights or interests that comprise such Regulatory Asset.

"Remittance Date" means, in respect of an Electricity Distributor, each day on which it is required to remit Electricity Distribution Remittances to IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent in accordance with any Funding Obligation or, if no such day is specified in relation to any Funding Obligation, then the Business Day preceding each Settlement Date.

"Repayment Obligation" means an obligation to repay, redeem or repurchase, or to provide for the repayment, redemption or repurchase (including by making a Finance Reserve Deposit) of, all or a portion of the amount advanced to the Regulatory Asset Owner under a Funding Obligation.

"Repayment" means a payment by a Regulatory Asset Owner made to satisfy a Repayment Obligation, other than to the extent that the payment is made by applying the proceeds of a Refinancing.

"Replacement Event" means any event specified as such in a Funding Obligation.

"Service Area" means, in respect of an Electricity Distributor, the geographic area or region in which it is licensed to distribute electricity in accordance with [this Act[18]].

"Servicer" means [To be determined], as agent for and on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owner [To be determined – collective invoicing agent, and consider expanding].

"Settlement Date" means the [last Business Day of any month].

"Transition Charge" means the nonbypassable charge based on usage or availability of electric service to fully recover amounts sufficient for all payments of Funding Obligations and such Transition Charges would be subject to a true-up adjustment mechanism. [NTD: This should be a usage based charge. We suggest this more general definition with the calculation of Transition Charges should go into the Financing Plan.]

[18] Revise once determine whether this will be a standalone Act or remain part of the Electricity Act.

"Transition Charge Collection" means any amount received or deemed by this Part to have been received upon the collection of a Transition Charge paid by or on behalf of a Ratepayer, including any proceeds arising from the exercise and enforcement of any related rights and interests under or in respect of the Regulatory Asset.

["True-Up Amount" means, in respect of a Reference Period, the amount (which may be a negative amount) calculated by the Administrative Agent equal to (a) the Estimate of the Finance Amount for the related True-Up Period, minus (b) the Actual Finance Amount for such related True-Up Period, plus (c) the Collected Amount Adjustment.] [NTD: Can we move this to the Financing Plan where we can get into a discussion of the breakdown of Transition Charges as applied to each rate class?]

"True-Up Period" means, in relation to a Reference Period, the period from and including the [30th] day immediately preceding the first day of the Reference Period, to but excluding the [30th] day immediately preceding the last day of the Reference Period.

"Undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council" means the undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council given under Section 10(2).

"Unrecovered Transition Costs" means the [unrecovered][unamortized] costs incurred in connection with the creation, adoption and implementation of the Green Generation Initiative, including any negative value of the Power Contracts and [other].[19]

Article 3 – Transition Charges

(1) Ratepayer Obligation to Pay a Transition Charge – Each Ratepayer shall pay each Transition Charge charged to it in any Electricity Invoice issued to such Ratepayer by its Electricity Distributor or by an Alternative Servicer under Section 4(1), in each case on the terms of payment specified in the related Electricity Invoice.

(2) Indebtedness of Ratepayers – Until paid, a Transition Charge charged to a Ratepayer in an Electricity Invoice shall, together with any applicable late payment fees and finance charges arising under the terms of the Electricity Invoice with respect to such Transition Charge, constitute non-bypassable indebtedness of the Ratepayer to the Regulatory Asset Owners (each with respect to its Regulatory Asset). Such indebtedness shall constitute a single and separate debt obligation owing by the Ratepayer, which subject to Article 5 may be enforced independently from any other payment obligation or indebtedness owing by the Ratepayer under the Electricity Invoice or otherwise.[20]

[19] Note that this is the term that describes the "asset" that we are amortizing over a longer period of time.

[20] Torys suggests that we not create a debtor/creditor relationship between ratepayers and regulatory asset owners. Instead, ratepayers would only have relationships with electricity distributors and the Fair program would rely on consumers paying distributors and distributors to collecting those amounts and remitting them to IESO. The current draft goes further to bridge the investors more directly with ratepayers. There are differences in the approaches, including reliance from a credit perspective on the LDCs (rather than an ability to replace the individual LDCs with the investors choice). This depends on the credit analysis, and comfort that a later requirement will not be accommodated without a change in

(3) No Set-Off or Reduction – A Ratepayer may not set-off or reduce (by counterclaim, defense or otherwise) the amount payable by it in respect of any Transition Charge, including any set-off against or in respect of any amount owing or becoming payable to such Ratepayer by its Electricity Distributor, any Regulatory Asset Owner or any other person.

(4) Allocation of Ratepayer Payments – If an Electricity Distributor receives a payment made by or on behalf of a Ratepayer in respect of amounts due and payable under one or more Electricity Invoices that is less than the total amount payable thereunder, such payment shall be allocated on a pro rata basis to the payment of related Transition Charges and other invoiced amounts and the amount so allocated as a payment of related Transition Charges shall be deemed to constitute a Transition Charge Collection.

(5) Transition Charges are Irrevocable – The Transition Charges arising under or in respect of Funding Obligations incurred under the Financing Plan (including any adjustments based on modifications to such Funding Obligations made in compliance with the Financing Plan or as a result of amendments to the Financing Plan made in accordance with Section 8(3)) are deemed to be irrevocable, final and effective without any further action, in the absence of manifest calculation error. For greater certainty, a Transition Charge may include Finance Amounts for a Reference Period whether or not the payment of such Finance Amounts are inconsistent with the Fair Allocation Plan applicable at the time such payments are due and payable whether or not the related Funding Obligation was properly incurred under the Financing Plan. In no case shall a Funding Obligation incurred under the Financing Plan be affected by a subsequent amendment to the Fair Allocation Plan.

(6) [Anti-avoidance; No-by-pass – Transition Charges charged to a Ratepayer in respect of any Finance Amount incurred under with the Financing Plan applicable at the time the related Funding Obligation was incurred may not be avoided and shall be [non-by-passable].]

(7) True-up Mechanism – The [Financing Plan] shall include a mechanism requiring the Transition Charges be reviewed and adjusted by the Servicer at least [semi-annually] to correct for any overcollections or undercollections of the preceding Reference Period and to ensure the expected recovery of amounts sufficient to timely provide all payments of Funding Obligations.

Article 4 – Invoicing of Transition Charges[21]

(1) Inclusion of Transition Charges in Electricity Invoices – Each Electricity Distributor and if applicable any Alternative Servicer shall, as an agent of the Regulatory Asset the legislation. Torys has also suggested that deemed conditions of licenses for distributors, retailers and unit sub-metering providers, could be included as conditions, to require them to collect and remit amounts in accordance with this legislation. Consideration should be given to whether that achieves the same direct relationship and whether the effectiveness of the current regulatory licensing regime should be suggested as the basis for a market-based credit decision.

[21] Details concerning Invoicing of Transition Charges (Article 4) and Collections and Remittances (Article 5) are complex. Consider how much of this can be addressed through regulations, or if acceptable based on existing OEB license conditions/codes, IESO market rules/manuals, etc.

Owners, specify the Transition Charge to be charged to a Ratepayer pursuant to Section 4(4) in respect of a related Reference Period in each Electricity Invoice issued by the Electricity Distributor or if applicable by the Alternative Servicer to the Ratepayer in respect of such Reference Period. Upon the inclusion of a Transition Charge in an Electricity Invoice, the obligation to pay such amount shall be binding on the applicable Ratepayer.

(2) Calculation of the Period Transition Amount – Not later than [35] days prior to the first day of a Reference Period, each Regulatory Asset Owner (or the Administrative Agent on its behalf) shall provide the Servicer with written notice of each Estimate of a Finance Amount payable by it or on its behalf in respect of the Reference Period. Not later than one month prior to the first day of a Reference Period, the Servicer or if applicable the Alternative Servicer[22] shall calculate the Period Transition Amount applicable to the Reference Period based on the calculations and information set forth in such written notices received from the Regulatory Asset Owners, which shall be determinative in the absence of manifest calculation error or misstatement.

(3) Calculation and Attribution of Transition Charges – Not later than 25 days prior to the first day of a Reference Period, the Servicer or if applicable the Alternative Servicer shall apply the Attribution Methodology to determine the Allocation Factor for each Ratepayer of the applicable Ratepayer Group.

(4) Notice of Transition Charges – Not later than 20 days prior to the first day of a Reference Period, the Servicer or if applicable the Alternative Servicer shall inform each Electricity Distributor and if applicable any Alternative Servicer of the Transition Charges to be specified in the Electricity Invoices to be issued to each Ratepayer of the applicable Ratepayer Group who has a billing address in the Electricity Distributor's Service Area.

(5) Adjustments – The amount of any Transition Charge charged to a Ratepayer by the Servicer and specified as such in an Electricity Invoice shall be determinative of the amount of indebtedness created thereby and owing in respect of such Transition Charge, in the absence of any manifest calculation error.

(6) Successors of Electricity Distributors – Any successor of an Electricity Distributor shall be bound by the requirements of Article 4 and shall perform and satisfy all duties and obligations of such Electricity Distributor under Article 4 in the same manner and to the same extent as such Electricity Distributor, including the obligation under Article 4 to impose, attribute, charge, bill and invoice the Transition Charges.

(7) IESO Successor – Any IESO Successor shall be bound by the requirements of Article 4 and shall perform and satisfy all duties and obligations of IESO under Article 4 in the same manner and to the same extent as IESO, including the obligation to calculate and provide notice of Transition Charges.

(8) Appointment of an Alternative Servicer – If a Replacement Event occurs in respect of any Electricity Distributor, the Regulatory Asset Owners shall, in accordance with the [22] Should this be a designated government official, rather than an agent appointed by investors?

Collective Rights Agreement, be permitted, by an instrument in writing, to appoint an Alternative Servicer to perform some or all of the obligations and duties required to be undertaken by such Electricity Distributor under this Article 4, as and to the extent specified in such appointment. Upon acceptance of such appointment, the Alternative Servicer shall become obligated to perform such assumed obligations in replacement of such Electricity Distributor. Any Electricity Distributor that is replaced under this Section 4(8) shall promptly transfer all rights, powers, privileges and property interests in its possession or within its control in the performance of such obligations and duties to the Alternative Servicer and shall take such further actions, including the execution of instruments, necessary to give full and final effect to such transfer and to permit the Alternative Servicer to perform such obligations and duties on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners.

(9) Regulatory Asset Owners have Standing – The Regulatory Asset Owners may bring actions against any Electricity Distributor, IESO, the Servicer, Alternative Servicer or any other person who may be authorized to issue Electricity Invoices to Ratepayers for a failure to impose, attribute, charge, bill or invoice Transition Charges. Any court of the Province [and the OEB] shall have jurisdiction over any actions brought before it by the Regulatory Asset Owners in relation to any such failure.[23]

(10) No Set-Off or Reduction – No Servicer or Electricity Distributor may set off or reduce (by counterclaim, defence or otherwise) the amount payable by it pursuant to this Article 4.

(11) Regulations – Regulations may be enacted for the purpose of specifying further rights, powers, privileges, duties and obligations that shall apply to IESO, any Electricity Distributor, any Alternative Servicer or any [Alternative Collection Agent] to ensure that Transition Charges are properly charged to Ratepayers and specified as such in Electricity Invoices.

Article 5 – Collections and Remittances

(1) Duty to Collect as Agent – Electricity Distributors or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall, as an agent of the Regulatory Asset Owners, undertake [diligent efforts] to collect amounts owing by Ratepayers in respect of Transition Charges charged to such Ratepayers in Electricity Invoices issued by the Electricity Distributor or if applicable such Alternative Collection Agent.

(2) Segregation of Transition Charge Collections – An Electricity Distributor or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall promptly segregate Transition Charge Collections from other payments received by it from Ratepayers and deposit such Transition Charge Collections into its Regulatory Asset Account. Prior to and following a deposit of Transition Charge Collections having been made into its Regulatory Asset Account, the Electricity Distributor or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall hold such amounts in trust for each Regulatory Asset Owner.

[23] Consider having such matters first go through the OEB, particularly if the obligation to bill, collect or remit is deemed to be a condition of license for distributors, IESO, retailers and unit sub-metering providers, which would be enforceable provisions under the OEB Act and within OEB jurisdiction to enforce.

(3) Electricity Distributor Remittances – On each [applicable Remittance Date], an Electricity Distributor shall remit all Transition Charge Collections received by it from Ratepayers in respect of the related Reference Period to or to the account of IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent.

(4) Duty to Collect Electricity Distributor Remittances – IESO or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall, as an agent of the Regulatory Asset Owners, undertake [diligent][reasonable] efforts to accept and collect Electricity Distributor Remittances from Electricity Distributors and Transition Charge Collections from Ratepayers that pay their Electricity Invoices directly to the Servicer.[24]

(5) Segregation of Electricity Distributor Remittances – IESO and if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent shall [promptly] segregate Electricity Distributor Remittances from other payments received or held by it and deposit such Electricity Distributor Remittances into its Regulatory Asset Account. Prior to and following a deposit of Electricity Distributor Remittances having been made into its Regulatory Asset Account, IESO or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall hold such amounts in trust for each Regulatory Asset Owner.

(6) IESO Remittances – On each [Settlement Date][25], IESO and if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent shall remit all amounts on deposit in its Regulatory Asset Account to or to the account of the Regulatory Asset Owner.

(7) Successors of Electricity Distributors – Any successor of an Electricity Distributor shall be bound by the requirements of Article 5 and shall perform and satisfy all duties and obligations of such Electricity Distributor under Article 5 in the same manner and to the same extent as such Electricity Distributor, including the obligation under Article 5 to collect Transition Charges and make remittances of Electricity Distributor Remittances.

(8) Successors of IESO – Any successor of IESO shall be bound by the requirements of Article 5 and shall perform and satisfy all duties and obligations of IESO under Article 5 in the same manner and to the same extent as IESO, including the obligation to collect Transition Charge Collections, Electricity Distributor Remittances and to remit IESO Remittances.

(9) Owners of Distribution Assets - If any person other than an Electricity Distributor acquires distribution system assets in the Province or invoices or collects electricity distribution rates in the Province[26], then such person shall, if requested by the Regulatory Asset Owners, be obligated to act diligently to (a) facilitate the invoicing and collection of any Transition Charges applicable to Ratepayers in its applicable service area, including all consumers connected to the electricity distribution system assets and taking electric delivery service located within such service area; (b) allocate partial payments by Ratepayers as provided in this Part; (c) terminate service to non-paying

[25] Consider frequency of remittances in light of rating requirements.

[26] This is in anticipation of a possible future restructuring of the distribution system. Also, this would cover any OREC-eligible customer (market participant) of IESO.

Ratepayers on the same basis as termination of service is permitted for non-payment of electricity transmission and distribution rates; (d) exercise all enforcement rights of the Regulatory Asset Owners or Pledgee for the benefit of a Regulatory Asset Owner or Pledgee; and (e) remit any Transition Charge Collections to the Regulatory Asset Owner or Pledgee, as applicable, each in accordance with its Regulatory Asset.

(10) Regulatory Asset Owners have Standing – The Regulatory Asset Owners and any Pledgee may bring actions against any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Servicer, any owner of electricity distribution system assets in the Province or any other person who may be authorized to collect electricity distribution and use charges from Ratepayers for a failure to collect Transition Charges, remit or collect Electricity Distributor Remittances or remit IESO Remittances, as and to the extent applicable under Article 5. Any court of the Province [and the OEB] shall have jurisdiction over any actions brought before it by the Regulatory Asset Owners in relation to any such failure. [27]

(11) Appointment of an Alternative Collection Agent – If a Replacement Event occurs in respect of any Electricity Distributor or IESO, the Regulatory Asset Owners shall, in accordance with the Collective Rights Agreement, be permitted, by an instrument in writing, to appoint an Alternative Collection Agent to perform some or all of the collection, segregation and remittance obligations otherwise required to be undertaken by such Electricity Distributor or IESO, as applicable, under Article 5, as and to the extent specified in such appointment. Upon acceptance of such appointment, the Alternative Collection Agent shall become obligated to perform such assumed obligations in replacement of such Electricity Distributor or IESO, as applicable. Any Electricity Distributor or IESO, as applicable, that is replaced under this Section 5(11) shall promptly transfer all rights, powers, privileges and property interests in its possession or within its control in, to and over the Regulatory Asset, including its Regulatory Asset Account, to the Alternative Collection Agent and shall take such further actions, including the execution of instruments, necessary to give full and final effect to such transfer and to permit the Alternative Collection Agent to enforce the Regulatory Asset on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners.

(12) No Set-off, etc. - The Regulatory Asset, including rights in Transition Charges, Transition Charge Collections, and the interests of a Regulatory Asset Owner, an Absolute Assignee and a Pledgee therein, may not be setoff or reduced (including by counterclaim, surcharge or defense) by any Ratepayer, any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or any owner of distribution system assets in the Province or any other person or in connection with any default, bankruptcy, reorganization or other insolvency proceeding of any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or any owner of distribution system assets in the Province, any affiliate or successor thereof or any other entity or otherwise.[28]

[27] Consider having such matters first go through the OEB, particularly if the obligation to bill, collect or remit is deemed to be a condition of license for distributors, IESO, retailers and unit sub-metering providers, which would be enforceable provisions under the OEB Act and within OEB jurisdiction to enforce.

[28] Consider whether it makes sense to create a "deemed collection" payment obligation on Electricity Distributors to the extent a Ratepayer reduces its payment of Transition Charges, despite this language, and same for Electricity Distributor Remittances and IESO Remittances.

(13) Sequestration – If any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or any owner of distribution system assets in the Province or any other person or entity authorized to collect Transition Charges, defaults on any required remittance of Transition Charge Collections, Electricity Distribution Remittances or IESO Remittances under Article 5, any court in the Province, upon application by the Regulatory Asset Owners or Pledgee and without limiting any other remedies available to the applying party, shall order the sequestration and payment of the Transition Charge Collections, Electricity Distribution Remittances and IESO Remittances, as applicable, for the benefit of the Regulatory Asset Owners or Pledgee, each with respect to its Regulatory Asset. [Such order shall remain in full force and effect notwithstanding any bankruptcy, reorganization, or other insolvency proceeding with respect to any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or any owner of distribution system assets in the Province or other person or entity authorized to collection Transition Charges, as applicable.] [NTD: Is it possible to include the bracketed language under Ontario bankruptcy law?]

(14) Regulations – Regulations may be enacted for the purpose of specifying further rights, powers, privileges, duties and obligations that shall apply to IESO, any Electricity Distributor or any Alternative Collection Agent to ensure that rights, interests, entitlements, benefits and proceeds in, to, under and from the Regulatory Asset are of fully realized by the Regulatory Asset Owner.

Article 6 – The Regulatory Asset

(1) Composition – The Regulatory Asset shall constitute an existing, present property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of a Regulatory Asset Owner in the following (without duplication):

a. the right of a Regulatory Asset Owner to record its portion of the Regulatory Asset in its accounts;

b. the right to impose, bill, invoice, collect and receive Transition Charges from Ratepayers, including the right to determine the amount of Transition Charges in accordance with this Part;

c. the right to enforce the obligations and indebtedness of each Ratepayer to pay the Transition Charges charged to the Ratepayer from time to time in accordance with Article 2, together with all related late payment fees or interest charges arising in respect thereof under the related Electricity Invoices;

d. the right to enforce the duties and obligations of each Electricity Distributor and if applicable the Alternative Servicer to impose, attribute, charge, bill and invoice the Transition Charges in accordance with Article 4;

e. the right to enforce the duties and obligations of each Electricity Distributor and if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to collect, receive and remit amounts received by it in respect of Transition Charges as Electricity Distributor Remittances to or to the account of IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent in accordance with Article 5, including all collections and the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by the Electricity Distributor or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to recover payment of Transition Charges in accordance with Article 4;

f. the right to enforce the duties and obligations of IESO and if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to collect and receive Electricity Distributor Remittances and to remit IESO Remittances to or to the accounts of the Regulatory Asset Owners, each with respect to its Regulatory Asset, in each case in accordance with Article 5, including all collections and the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by it to recover payment of Electricity Distributor Remittances in accordance with Article 4;

g. the right to receive and collect all Transition Charge Collections, all Electricity Distributor Remittances and all IESO Remittances in accordance with Article 5;

h. all rights and entitlements under each Regulatory Asset Account and all amounts on deposit in any such Regulatory Asset Account;

i. all Related Rights; and

j. all revenue, collections, claims, payments, money and proceeds of or derived from the rights described in (a) through (i), regardless of whether such revenue, collections, claims, payments and proceeds are imposed, invoiced, collected and maintained together with or commingled with other revenue, collections, claims, payments, money and proceeds.

A Regulatory Asset and the property rights and interests therein shall exist whether or not Transition Charges have been imposed, charged, invoiced, accrued or collected and notwithstanding that the imposition, attribution, invoicing and collection of Transition Charges will depend on further actions that may not have occurred.

(2) Validity of Dispositions – Despite any limitations or restrictions on a Disposition that may arise by contract or by operation of any applicable law of the Province [or any consent requirement applicable to a Disposition that may arise by contract or by operation of any applicable law of the Province], a Disposition by a Regulatory Asset Owner made under the Financing Plan pursuant to a Disposition Document shall be permitted and when made shall be valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms and shall be effective to confer upon the Absolute Assignee a valid property right and interest in, to and under the Regulatory Asset (or relevant portion thereof) in accordance with the terms of such Disposition, provided that the parties to the applicable Disposition Document have expressly stated therein that such Disposition is a sale or other absolute transfer. Without limiting the foregoing, any Disposition that by its terms is intended to constitute a sale or absolute transfer shall be treated for all purposes as a true sale and absolute transfer of the Regulatory Asset Owner's applicable right, title, and interest in, to and under the Regulatory Asset (or relevant portion thereof), and not merely as a Pledge thereof. [A Disposition shall not be subject to recharacterization or challenge on any other basis and the validity of a Disposition shall not be affected or impaired by: (a) the commingling of Transition Charge Collections or other proceeds from Transition Charges with other amounts; (b) the retention of any interest (including any partial, residual or subordinated interest, whether direct or indirect) in the Regulatory Asset by the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner; (c) any right to repurchase the Regulatory Asset in favour of the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner; (d) any recourse that an Absolute Assignee may have against the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner; (e) any indemnification rights or obligations provided by the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner; (f) any obligation of the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner to collect and remit Transition Charge Collections on behalf of an Absolute Assignee, including but not limited to, any retention by the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner to bare legal title for the purpose of collecting Transition Charges; or (g) the ascribed or intended treatment of the Disposition by the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner or the Absolute Assignee on any different basis including for tax, financial reporting or other purposes.][29] [NTD: Should we include language that provides for the Regulatory Asset to continue to exist until all Funding Obligations and other costs are repaid?]

(3) Perfection and Priority[30] of Dispositions – Any Disposition of an interest in a Regulatory Asset shall be vested, valid, binding and perfected from the time when such Disposition is made. Such Disposition shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner and all other persons who have claims of any kind (whether in tort, contract or otherwise) against the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner, irrespective of whether such persons have notice of the Disposition and the property rights and interests acquired by the Absolute Assignee under such Disposition shall be free and clear of any liens in favour of such other persons.

(4) Validity of Pledges – Despite any limitations or restriction on a Pledge that may arise by contract or by operation of any applicable law of the Province [or any consent requirement applicable to a Pledge that may arise by contract or by operation of any applicable law of the Province], a Pledge by a Regulatory Asset Owner may be made to secure any Funding Obligation and when made shall be valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms and shall be effective to confer upon the Pledgee a valid security interest in, to and in respect of the Regulatory Asset in accordance with the terms of the Pledge. Other than as required by the Financing Plan, no consent of any person shall be required to give effect to a Pledge made to secure any Funding Obligation.

(5) Perfection and Priority of Pledges - Any Pledge made by a Regulatory Asset Owner in respect of a Funding Obligation incurred under the Financing Plan shall be perfected, valid and binding from the time when the Pledge is made and shall be valid and binding as against the Regulatory Asset, the Regulatory Asset Owner making the Pledge and all other persons who have claims of any kind (whether in tort, contract or otherwise) against the Regulatory Asset or the pledging Regulatory Asset Owner, irrespective of whether such persons have notice of the Pledge and the security interests of the Pledgee under such Pledge shall have priority over any liens in favour of such other persons. All proceeds of the Regulatory Asset that are subject to such a Pledge that are received by the Regulatory Asset Owner shall immediately be subject to the such Pledge, and the security interest in such proceeds shall be perfected, without any physical delivery thereof, registration of any financing statement with respect thereto pursuant to the [PPSA] or any other further act.[31] A Pledge shall be a continuously perfected security interest and shall have priority over any other lien, created by operation of law or otherwise, that may subsequently attach to the property rights and interests in the Regulatory Asset subject to the Pledge unless the Pledgee has otherwise agreed in writing. Any Pledgee shall have a perfected security interest in Transition Charge Collections or other related proceeds that are deposited in any Regulatory Asset Account or other account of any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or other person who may have commingled such Transition Charge Collections or such other proceeds with other funds. [A Pledgee shall cause a financing statement to be filed in respect of a Pledge on the basis that the Regulatory Asset is "intangible" property, for informational purposes only under the [PPSA].

(6) Enforcement of Property Rights – The rights of any Regulatory Asset Owner to collect and enforce its rights and interests in, to or in respect of the Regulatory Asset shall be exercised in the manner set forth in Article 5.

(7) Owners of a Specified Portion of the Regulatory Asset – A Regulatory Asset Owner may effect a Disposition to an Absolute Assignee of a specified portion of its rights and interests in the Regulatory Asset, including by way of a Disposition of a divided or an undivided interest therein. In no circumstance may the specified portions of the rights and interests in the Regulatory Asset owned by all Regulatory Asset Owners be greater than all of the rights and interests that comprise the Regulatory Asset in the aggregate.

(8) Collective Action Required – If a Regulatory Asset Owner's right and interest in the Regulatory Asset comprises less than the entire property right and interest constituted by the Regulatory Asset, such Regulatory Asset Owner shall only enforce such right and interest on a collective [and joint] basis with each other Regulatory Asset Owner in accordance with the Collective Rights Agreement.[32]

Article 7 – Establishment of the Fair Allocation Plan[33]

(1) Adoption of the Fair Allocation Plan – The [Minister of Energy][34] may by written order designate and adopt a Fair Allocation Plan in compliance with Article 7. The Fair Allocation Plan so designated and adopted shall be the Fair Allocation Plan for all purposes of this Part, [except if amended, amended and restated or terminated by a further written order issued by the Minister of Energy in compliance with Section •].

(2) Principles and Parameters[35] – A Fair Allocation Plan shall seek to allocate Unrecovered Transition Costs across present and future Ratepayer Groups on a basis

[32] This is necessary to ensure that if there are multiple regulatory asset owners and pledgees, they will be coordinated in the application of their rights of enforcement, etc.

33 The idea is that the Fair Allocation Plan will be set once at the outset based on the principles and parameters described here, all applied based on information available and the reasonable expectations and discretion of the delegate at such time. If the expectations are not fulfilled (e.g., generators may choose to retire their facilities at the end of their current Power Contracts and not invest in extending service lives to secure further power contracts), the Fair Allocation Plan will be unaffected, unless it is specifically amended (assuming amendments will be permitted by the legislation).

[34] Input required. If the MOE is given this power, conform to applicable authorities (e.g., plans and directives).

[35] Consideration will be given as to whether these details should be included in the Regulation.

that the Minister of Energy, in its sole and absolute discretion, determines to be equitable, having regard to the following principles and parameters[36]:

1. Unrecovered Transition Costs should be allocated over a period not to exceed the later of (a) the estimated remaining useful life of the Related Generating Assets and (b) the remaining term of IESO's commitments under the Power Contracts.

2. The Fair Allocation Plan should specify the Reference Periods (e.g., 6 month periods), for the purpose of identifying applicable Ratepayer Groups and allocating among them responsibility to bear the Unrecovered Transition Costs on a relative basis over time.

3. The share of Unrecovered Transition Costs allocable to a particular Ratepayer Group in respect of a Reference Period should be proportionate to a reasonable assessment of the benefits of the Green Generation Initiative to the Ratepayer Group over such Reference Period.

4. The estimated Unrecovered Transition Costs to be allocated to a Ratepayer Group and any future Ratepayer Group at a particular time should not exceed the estimated value of the Related Generating Assets based on their remaining useful lives or terms, measured in respect of the period following such particular time.

5. No future Ratepayer Group should bear an unreasonably disproportionate share of the Unrecovered Transition Costs. Except in exceptional circumstances or in the case of any backward-looking adjustment made as contemplated in 7, below, the share of the Unrecovered Transition Costs to be allocated under a Fair Allocation Plan to any future Ratepayer Group should have regard to [Insert formula if a year-over-year maximum amount is determined to be appropriate][37].

6. A reasonable estimate of the rate of inflation should be applied to equate the relative values of the nominal amount of Unrecovered Transition Costs to be allocable to Ratepayer Groups over time.

7. Backward-looking adjustments to a Fair Allocation Plan may be made to achieve a fair distribution among Ratepayers of the benefits of the Green Generation Initiative.

(3) Attribution Methodology – The Fair Allocation Plan [shall] specify an objective methodology (the "Attribution Methodology") for the purposes of allocating the Period Transition Amount across all of the Ratepayers of a particular Ratepayer Group. The Attribution Methodology shall result in an attribution of such Transition Charges that are [36] We have provided a few examples of what could be the basic principles. These will depend on market considerations, the Province's decision on the required amount of detail and the ability to sustain the legal basis for the program. These examples are not meant to suggest the appropriate balance – just illustrative to advance a discussion among the stakeholders.

[37] Consider if a quantitative limit needs to be included in the legislation.

considered by the Minister of Energy to be equitable, and may have regard to such principles and parameters as may be further set forth in a Regulation.

(4) [Confirmation][Review] of the Fair Allocation Plan – [OEB?][38]

Article 8 – The Financing Plan[39]

(1) Power to Prepare and Implement the Financing Plan – In compliance with a [written order][MOE to confirm process.] of the Minister of Energy, the Administrative Agent shall prepare and propose the adoption of a Financing Plan. If the Administrative Agent is unwilling or unable to prepare and propose the adoption of a Financing Plan, the Minister of Energy may by written order designate one or more other persons to prepare and implement such a Financing Plan.

(2) Required Terms and Conditions of the Financing Plan – The Financing Plan shall establish the basis for funding decisions that have the effect of allocating the Unrecovered Transition Costs across present and future Ratepayer Groups on a basis that is consistent with the Fair Allocation Plan. The Financing Plan shall be consistent with the principles, parameters, requirements and conditions set forth in Schedule 3 and such other conditions and requirements as may be specified in a written order of the Minister of Energy [or in accordance with the Regulation].

(3) Power to Review and Approve the Financing Plan – The Minister of Energy may, by written order, designate one or more persons to review the Financing Plan and to review and assess the consistency of the Funding Obligations incurred with such Financing Plan, and the Minister of Energy may specify requirements in respect of such review in such written order. The Administrative Agent, or such other person(s) as may be designated by written order of the Minister of Energy made pursuant to Section 8(1), shall make any such amendments to the Financing Plan, and submit a revised Financing Plan to the designated reviewer for approval within [the time period specified in such written order]/[[●] days of such written order].[Consider periodic amendments to the Financing Plan following an annual review; provided that amendments cannot affect the existing Funding Obligations. Consider the level of oversight the MoE/OEB will have over this process?]

(4) Approval of Financing Plan – The [OEB] shall have the power to and shall approve or disapprove of the Financing Plan based solely on whether the Financing Plan is consistent with (i) the principles, parameters, requirements and conditions set forth in Schedule 3, (ii) such other conditions and requirements as may be specified in a written order of the Minister of Energy [or in accordance with the Regulation] [and (iii) the Fair Allocation Plan]. If the [OEB] approves the Financing Plan, then such Financing Plan

[38] Any approvals or consents by the OEB will be obtained before any Funding Obligation that is dependent on such approval or consent is incurred. Any such approval or consent will be irrevocable and non-appealable. Any regulatory action occurring after any incurrence will not affect the related Funding Obligation or underlying rights in the Regulatory Asset.

[39] Consideration will be given as to whether these details should be included in the Regulation.

shall be implemented by the Administrative Agent. If the OEB disapproves of the Financing Plan or otherwise fails to approve the Financing Plan, then the Administrative Agent shall re-submit the Financing Plan with such amendments as the Administrative Agent shall consider necessary for the Financing Plan to be approved by the OEB.[40]

(5) Consistency with the Fair Allocation Plan - Funding Obligations should only be incurred if Repayments and Funding Costs would be borne by present and future Designated Ratepayers on a basis that is [generally] consistent with their respective allocations of the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative contemplated in the Fair Allocation Plan. In that regard, at the time of setting the Fair Allocation Plan for any particular period, the aggregate amount payable during future Reference Periods on account of Funding Obligations incurred on or before the date on which a new Funding Obligation is incurred should not exceed the allocation of the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative to the applicable Ratepayer Group contemplated in the Fair Allocation Plan. If, despite the foregoing, the Administrative Agent determines that the anticipated amount of any Repayment (together with payments of other Finance Amounts) to be made in respect of a Reference Period would materially exceed the allocation of the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative to the applicable Ratepayer Group under the then current Fair Allocation Plan, the Financing Plan shall require the Administrative Agent to make diligent efforts to determine whether a Refinancing or deferral of such Repayment may be reasonably and cost-effectively effected based on then prevailing market terms, conditions an circumstances, if such a Refinancing or deferral is determined to be available the Financing Plan shall require the Administrative Agent to make diligent efforts to implement such Refinancing or deferral on a basis that is consistent with the Fair Allocation Plan.

(6) Establishment of Special Purpose Entities – If the implementation of the Financing Plan contemplates the establishment of one or more special purpose finance entities to incur Funding Obligations as a Financing Entity under the Financing Plan, as an Absolute Assignee and on a basis that limits the recourse for the payment of such Funding Obligations to such Absolute Assignee's interest in, to and under the Regulatory Asset, the Administrative Agent shall have regard to the characteristics specified in Schedule 4 in establishing such special purpose entity.]

(7) Obligation to Apply IESO Remittances – The Administrative Agent shall ensure that amounts transferred to it under Article 5, as agent for and on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners, or otherwise in respect of or as proceeds from the Regulatory Asset shall only be applied or used to pay Finance Amounts when they are due and payable and for no other purpose.[41]

[40] Once the Financing Plan is reviewed and approved there would be no further OEB review. If there is opportunity for further review, such review will have no impact on prior issued debt. Any further financings would be put on hold until such review is completed (during which time the IESO would again need to fund the shortfall on an interim basis and obtain necessary funding).

[41] We need to work in the idea that there may be Finance Reserve Deposits or other amounts that remain after paying Finance Amounts. Those surplus amounts should be credited back to Ratepayers.

(8) Non-Recourse – The Financing Plan shall be implemented so that Funding Obligations incurred shall be without recourse to or to any assets of the Electricity Distributors, IESO, any Alternative Servicer, and Alternative Collection Agent, the Administrative Agent, the OEB, the Province or the Lieutenant Governor in Council, other than if and to the extent that such persons or entities are liable for the performance of obligations or duties arising under this Part or expressly pursuant to any Funding Obligation or obligation in relation to a Finance Amount. [All Funding Obligations shall contain a statement to the following effect: "Neither the full faith and credit nor the taxing power of the Province of Ontario is pledged to the payment of the principal of, or interest on, this [obligation].]

(9) Incurrences are Binding – Despite any failure to adhere to the Financing Plan or to comply with any requirement of this Part, all amounts payable or becoming due and payable by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner under or in connection with any obligation purporting to be a Funding Obligation, shall be binding for the purposes of this Part, including in determining the amount of Transition Charges, despite any impairment or defect resulting from such failure.

Article 9 – Compliance Matters[42]

(1) Right of the [OEB] to Inspect Books and Records - For the purpose of investigating compliance with the provisions of this Part, the [OEB] shall have the right, jurisdiction, power and authority to examine the books and records of any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part or any Funding Obligation.

(2) Power to Investigate Compliance and Impose Regulatory Sanctions - Subject to the limitations set forth regarding the irrevocability of Transition Charges and the Undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, nothing in this Part shall (a) prevent or preclude the [OEB] from investigating the compliance of any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part [or any Funding Obligation] with the terms and conditions of this Part and requiring compliance by such person therewith; or (b) prevent or preclude the [OEB] or any successor regulator from imposing regulatory sanctions against any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part for its failure to comply with the terms and conditions of this Part[43].[NTD: We this this best practice would be to exclude any Financing Entity or Absolute Assignee from any Regulatory Sanctions or Regulatory Oversight]

(3) [Other Rating Settings – When setting other rates for or in respect of any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part, including any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Generator or the Administrative Agent, nothing in this Part shall prevent the [OEB] or any successor regulator from taking into account the collection by or attribution to such person of administrative or servicing fees in excess of the actual incremental costs incurred by such person of providing administrative or servicing services.][44]

Article 10 – Undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council[45]

(1) No Action to limit, alter, or impair or terminate Transition Charges, the Regulatory Asset or Collections – The [Lieutenant Governor in Council] shall not in any way take or permit any action to reduce, impair, postpone or terminate the obligation of Ratepayers to pay Transition Charges or impair the Regulatory Asset or the collection or recovery of Transition Charge Collections, either directly or indirectly[,including through the introduction of any bill or the passing of any legislation or regulation]. The amount of Transition Charges determined hereunder shall not be subject in any way to reduction, impairment, postponement or termination as a result of any action taken or failure by the Lieutenant Governor in Council[,including through the introduction of any bill or the passing of any legislation or regulation].

(2) Undertaking and Agreement – The Lieutenant Governor in Council shall not in any way take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of the Regulatory Asset or, except as required by the estimates and adjustments made in determining the True-up Amount, reduce, alter or impair Transition Charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the Regulatory Asset Owners, including any Absolute Assignee from time to time, and any Pledgee from time to time[,including through the introduction of any bill or the passing of any legislation or regulation].

[If IESO becomes insolvent or otherwise incapable of performing its obligations under this Part, an IESO Successor will be established that is capable of performing such obligations in order that the Regulatory Asset Owners may appoint the IESO Successor as an Alternative Servicer or Alternative Collection Agent. Regulatory Asset Owners shall be fully compensated for any failure by the Lieutenant Governor in Council to comply with its undertakings and agreements in this Article 10(2) for any loss suffered by the Regulatory Asset Owner as a result of such failure.[46]]

(3) References to the Undertaking and Agreement – Any non-confidential reference to the Undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, including in marketing materials and other documentation authorized for use by the Administrative in connection with any Funding Obligation, may be made provided that [Add conditions to protect the Province].

Article 11 – Regulations

Regulations may be made under this Part for the purposes described in Sections •,•,• and • and may be promulgated for any of the following purposes:

[45] Under consideration.

[46] Requested by Torys. For discussion.

(a) to set standards and measures regarding the commercially reasonable requirements of the Province associated with a Regulatory Asset Owner incurring Funding Obligations or becoming obligated to pay any Finance Amount, including to establish guidelines regarding all-in funding costs; permitted Additional Funding Costs; required maturities and redemption and termination rights of Funding Obligations; liquidity requirements, in each case to a Financing Plan that is consistent in its effect with the Fair Allocation Plan;

(b) to establish and empower one or more regulated entities to undertake decision-making activities with respect to this Part;

(c) to set out reasonable requirements regarding the appointment or retention of advisors, agents, service providers, contract counterparties, including in relation to 'market terms and conditions' parameters;

(d) to provide for audit and compliance standards applicable to those persons who are or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part [or under any Funding Obligation];

(e) to provide for any pre-vetting and approval requirements in relation to any incurrence by a Regulatory Asset Owner of any Funding Obligation or obligation to pay any Finance Amount; and

(f) to provide for appeal and due process considerations in connection with the establishment, adoption, implementation and review of the Fair Allocation Plan or the Financing Plan.

Article 12- Miscellaneous[47]

(1) Choice of law – The law governing, as applicable, the validity, enforceability, attachment, perfection, priority and exercise of remedies with respect to the transfer of an interest or right or creation of a security interest in the Regulatory Asset, any Transition Charge or the Undertaking of the Province shall be the laws of the Province.

(2) Conflict of law – In the event of conflict between this Part and any other law of the Province regarding the attachment, assignment or perfection, or the effect of perfection, or priority of any Disposition or Pledge, this Part shall govern to the extent of the conflict.

(3) No further acts or approvals required - Notwithstanding any provisions of any law of the Province to the contrary, no approvals, notices or authorizations other than those specified in this Part shall be required with respect to the actions to be taken in compliance with this Part, including under the Financing Plan or in relation to the establishment of the Fair Allocation Plan, and the transactions and contracts authorized in or contemplated by this Part or the Financing Plan, including the incurrence of any Funding Obligation, any Disposition, any Pledge or in the payment and performance of any attendant or incidental contract and any related expenses incurred to facilitate the preparation and implementation of the Financing Plan.

(4) Effect of invalidity after the Incurrence of any Funding Obligation - Effective on the date that a Funding Obligation is incurred under this Part, if any provision of this Part is held to be invalid or is invalidated, superseded, replaced, repealed or expires for any reason, that occurrence shall not affect any action allowed under this Part that is taken by any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part and any such action shall remain in full force and effect.

(5) Severability - If any Article, Section, paragraph or subparagraph of this Part or the application thereof to any person, circumstance or transaction is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or invalid, the unconstitutionality or invalidity shall not affect the constitutionality or validity of any other Article, Section, paragraph or subparagraph of this act or its application or validity to any person, circumstance or transaction, including the irrevocability of Transition Charges, the validity of the Regulatory Asset, the incurrence of any Funding Obligation, any Disposition, any Pledge, or the collection and recovery of Transition Charge Collections. To these ends, the Legislature hereby declares that the provisions of this Part are intended to be severable and that the Legislature would have enacted this Part even if any Article, Section, paragraph or subparagraph of this Part held to be unconstitutional or invalid had not been included in this Part.

Schedule 3

Principles, Parameters, Requirements and Conditions for Establishing the Financing Plan

The Financing Plan shall have regard to the following principles, parameters, requirements and conditions:[Consider others.]

(1) the Financing Plan shall, in respect of each Reference Period, describe the allocations of Unrecovered Transition Costs to each Reference Group as contemplated by the Fair Allocation Plan;

(2) the Administrative Agent shall make a good faith estimate of the Funding Shortfalls for each Reference Period, based on the terms of the Power Contracts and assumptions considered to be reasonable respecting forward market prices for electricity;

(3) the Administrative Agent shall describe alternative funding arrangements considered to be suitable for the purpose of funding the estimated Funding Shortfalls, including by reference to short term and/or long term Funding Obligations that could reasonably be incurred by the Regulatory Asset Owners for such purpose;

(4) such Funding Obligations shall reflect quantities, maturities, payment obligations, prepayment or redemption rights and such other features so that the effect of incurring such Funding Obligations would be that the payments made thereunder in respect of each Reference Period (including the anticipated Finance Amounts becoming payable in relation to such Funding Obligations) would reasonably correspond to the allocations of Unrecovered Transition Costs to the applicable Reference Group under the Fair Allocation Plan;

(5) the Financing Plan shall reflect the outcome of a financial model that incorporates the assumptions and requirements specified in any contemplated Funding Obligation (e.g., any limit on the maximum amount of Transition Charges charged to a hypothetical Ratepayer relative to his or her monthly electricity bill, as prescribed by any rating agency that ascribes its credit rating to or in respect of the Funding Obligation having regard to the application of the Allocation Methodology); [Consider what outputs from OPG will be tested by the OEB and when. The modelling in the Financing Plan may permit the OEB to check progress against the model from time to time, which may provide a basis for the MoE/OEB to require a review/amendment to the Financing Plan if the ongoing operation of the program results in significant deviation from the model. Consider whether this flexibility is desirable.]

(6) the Administrative Agent, for and on behalf of each Regulatory Asset Owner, shall seek to incur Funding Obligations from time to time on the best terms available at such time for a financing transaction of the size and type contemplated, and having regarding to the following parameters:

a. whether the Regulatory Asset Owners will require committed access to short term liquidity to cover estimated Funding Shortfalls prior to incurring fixed term Funding Obligations, and the amount and repayment terms of any such required liquidity; provided that any Repayment required to be made under the terms of such short-term liquidity would not obligate a Regulatory Asset Owner to repay an amount in relation to a Reference Period that would have the effect of the Financing Plan permitting incurrences of Funding Obligations payable in such Reference Period that would exceed the allocations of Unrecovered Transition Costs to the applicable Reference Group under the Fair Allocation Plan;

b. the basis upon which the Administrative Agent will select the term to maturity of any other Funding Obligations; provided that any Repayments required to be made under the terms of such Funding Obligations shall not obligate a Regulatory Asset Owner to repay an amount in relation to a Reference Period that would have the effect of the Financing Plan permitting incurrences of Funding Obligations payable in such Reference Period that would exceed the allocations of Unrecovered Transition Costs to the applicable Reference Group under the Fair Allocation Plan;

c. the basis upon which the interest rates applicable to such Funding Obligations would be determined;

d. the reference capital or finance market in which such Funding Obligation would be incurred, including markets outside of Canada if considered by the Administrative Agent to be appropriate in the circumstances;

e. the currency of payments under such Funding Obligations and, if the Funding Obligations are denominated in a currency other than Canadian dollars, the basis upon which the Administrative Agent shall cause the applicable Regulatory Asset Owner to enter into hedging transactions to mitigate currency risk, including acceptable minimum and maximum coverage levels, having regard to the availability of related derivatives having notional amounts corresponding to the repayment and maturity profile of such Funding Obligations;

f. the basis upon which the Administrative Agent will select counterparties under any transaction to be entered into by a Regulatory Asset Owner, including any paying agent, servicer, cash manager, liquidity provider, hedge counterparty, account bank, lender, note trustee, security trustee, paying agent, registrar/transfer agent, financial services agent, arranger or manager;

g. the basis upon which the Administrative Agent will manage counterparty risk, including by providing for maximum counterparty exposure limits having regard to concentration, credit and other identified risks with respect to individual counterparties or countries;

h. the basis upon which the Administrative Agent will negotiate and settle Finance Amounts, including the amount of any Redemption Amounts, Finance Reserve Deposits and Additional Funding Charges;

(7) the basis upon which Funding Obligations may be redeemed, prepaid, repurchased or otherwise affected, having regard for the need to minimize debt service charges and other Funding Costs, and the need to maintain a stable funding platform to finance the Funding Shortfall from time to time on a basis that is consistent with the allocations of Unrecovered Transition Costs to applicable Reference Groups under the Fair Allocation Plan;

(8) the basis upon which any Repayments, Funding Costs and Redemption Amounts will be paid, including any defeasance, sinking fund or through other reserves or liquidity facilities;

(9) the basis upon which fees, charges, expenses, costs, indemnities, reimbursements and other amounts payable to or for the benefit of the Administrative Agent and other agents and service providers to the Regulatory Asset Owners may be determined, allocated and paid;

(10) the timing and basis upon which Finance Reserve Deposits and Finance Reserve Withdrawals may be made;

(11) the basis upon which any obligations for any other Additional Funding Charges may be incurred and paid;

(12) the basis upon which the cash flows arising from time to time or otherwise derived from the Regulatory Asset may otherwise be applied, including in relation to any counterparty enforcement and realization scenario;

(13) the transmittal to [the IESO] of information related to the amounts to be included in the determination of the Period Transition Amount for a Reference Period;

(14) the basis upon which any Disposition may be made or effected by a Regulatory Asset Owner, including parameters for determining the purchase price for the interest in the Regulatory Asset that is the subject matter of such Disposition, and any consents and releases that may be usefully obtained in connection with such Disposition;

(15) a description of each special purchase entity that will purchase the Regulatory Asset from the IESO, including proposed capitalization, governance, and restrictions on their powers and activities having regard to the parameters in Schedule 4; and

(16) the basis on which any Pledge may be given or effected.

"Fair Hydro" – Part V.2

Article 1 – Purpose[1]

IESO has entered into Power Contracts with Generators. The agreed-upon reference prices and quantities set out therein were determined based on commitments made by IESO to provide Generators with long-term price certainty, so as to encourage the construction and development of facilities for the purpose of long-term operation and generation of electricity using sustainable, lower carbon-based technologies such as new gas-fired generation, renewable facilities, energy from waste and biomass, including under the Province's various procurement, standard offer and feed in tariff programs (the "Green Generation Initiative"). [The terms of the Power Contracts were intended to approximate the anticipated useful life of the related generation assets]; however, it has been determined that the useful life of many of these assets will be well in excess of the actual term of the related Power Contracts and will extend over more than one generation of ratepayers. The long-term benefits of the Green Generation Initiative accrue over time and have benefited and will benefit present and future ratepayers of the Province. Currently, market prices for electricity are less than the reference prices set out in the Power Contracts, leaving a gap in funding which is funded by charging consumers a "Global Adjustment" (part of which is available to IESO to pay this shortfall).

Each month, the IESO determines the Global Adjustment payable by consumers for the consumption of electricity in the Province. A component of the Global Adjustment is the amount by which the reference prices in the Power Contracts exceed the market price for electricity for the quantities of electricity specified under the Power Contracts for the relevant period[2]. The relationship between the past, present and future benefits to Ratepayers from the Green Generation Initiative, on the one hand, and the costs of the Green Generation Initiative borne by past, present and future Ratepayers through their respective allocations of the Global Adjustment, on the other hand, do not necessarily reflect an equitable allocation of such benefits and costs over time, with the result that an adjustment may be appropriate to address inter-generational fairness considerations. Such an adjustment should reflect principles and parameters that can be applied from time to time in order to establish a reasonable basis for measuring and allocating the relative costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative across present and future Ratepayers. A plan to allocate such costs and benefits equitably across present and future Ratepayers may be developed based on those principles and parameters (a "Fair Allocation Plan").

If a Fair Allocation Plan determines that the equitable allocation of the Global Adjustment to the Ratepayers of a particular time period in respect of the Power Contracts should be reduced below the amount otherwise determined, the amount payable by such Ratepayers to Electricity Distributors in respect of such period, and in turn by the Electricity Distributors to the IESO, would, in the aggregate, be less than the amount payable by the IESO to the Generators under the Power Contracts in respect of such period. If the difference is greater than any net

[1] Consider the scope and breadth of the Purpose section. This text is considered to be useful to establish the legislative basis for the statute, which text will be useful in the event of a challenge.

[2] Consider modifying this to also refer to gas contracts and hydroelectric contracts, which provide for mechanics that are not based on contracts for differences.

Power Contract surpluses available to IESO from earlier periods, IESO will have a funding shortfall.[3] In order for IESO to cover such a funding shortfall for a period, IESO will need to obtain funding from another source, which could include funding from third party sources operating in public and private capital markets. If a funding obligation is incurred in order to enable the IESO to cover a funding shortfall during one period, the repayment of such funding obligation will be required in a future period, and any related repayments, finance costs, hedging costs and other transaction costs will be incurred and may become payable in one or more other periods.

It will be necessary to provide a reliable and committed source of cash flows to enable IESO to repay such funding obligations and to pay related funding costs with certainty when the funding obligations become due and payable. This Part imposes irrevocable and non-bypassable financial obligations of Ratepayers to pay amounts incurred in respect of such funding obligations when they become due and payable and establishes a right to invoice and collect such amounts . The right and interest in and to collect such financial obligations, which will take the form of the Regulatory Asset contemplated in this Part and will constitute property rights and interests. The Regulatory Asset will be sold and absolutely assigned and will belong to one or more newly created financing entities, which in turn will finance their purchase of such Regulatory Asset by incurring funding obligations. The incurrence and payment of such funding obligations will be administered on behalf the financing entities by an administrative agent (initially OPG), under the Financing Plan contemplated in this Part. The Financing Plan will seek to reasonably match the payment obligations arising under funding obligations and borne by the future Ratepayers of the period in which such payment obligations become due, with the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative charged to such future Ratepayers under the Fair Allocation Plan.

The purpose of this Part is to establish the basis upon which intergenerational fairness can be achieved by charging the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative to present and future Ratepayers on an equitable and cost effective basis.

Article 2 - Definitions

In this Part:

> “Absolute Assignee” means a person to whom a Regulatory Asset Owner effects a Disposition.
> “Actual” means, in relation to costs, expenses or payments in respect of Funding Obligations during a Reference Period, the actual amount of such costs, expenses or payments paid or made (net of any Finance Reserve Withdrawals applied to pay such amounts), which amounts shall be recorded by the Administrative Agent whose records shall be determinative for the purposes of this Part in the absence of a manifest calculation error.
> “Additional Funding Charges” means, for a Reference Period, the fees, charges, expenses, costs, indemnities, reimbursements and other amounts (including any applicable tax amounts) that are or become payable by or on behalf of the Regulatory

Asset Owners during the Reference Period and that were incurred or committed to directly or indirectly in connection with the incurrence of Funding Obligations under the Financing Plan (whether at the time of such incurrence or over the term of the Funding Obligation and whether directly or indirectly), including (without duplication and without limitation): (a) any payment required under an ancillary agreement entered into by, or by the Administrative Agent on behalf of, a Regulatory Asset Owner under the Financing Plan; (b) any federal, provincial or local taxes, payments in lieu of taxes, franchise fees or license fees imposed on a Regulatory Asset Owner or incurred by on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner under any obligation to pay tax gross-up amounts to counterparties under Funding Obligations; (c) any amounts payable to the Administrative Agent, including amounts payable to its advisors and outside counsel; (d) any amounts incurred to prepare, confirm, amend and implement the Financing Plan; (e) any amounts payable to any Alternative Collection Agent or Alternative Servicer, including amounts payable to each's advisors and outside counsel; (f) any amounts incurred to make the calculations, determinations or confirmations to be made by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner; (g) any servicing fees and expenses; (h) any trustee fees and expenses; (i) any legal fees, expenses and disbursements; (j) any accounting fees and expenses; (k) any administrative fees and expenses; (l) any manager ~~of~~or director fees of a Financing Entity; (m) any registration fees and expenses; (n) any placement fees, underwriting fees, fees and related issuing expenses; (o) any rating agency fees; and (p) any other related fees, charges, expenses, costs, indemnities, reimbursements and other amounts that are approved [NTD: APPROVED BY WHOM?] in good faith for recovery and payment under the Financing Plan.

"Administrative Agent" means [OPG] or, following any Replacement Event, such other person or persons who may be appointed as the administrative agent of the Regulatory Asset Owner under the Financing Plan in compliance with the requirements set out in Schedule ~~2.~~3. [NTD: We should understand what will be the responsibility of the Administrative Agent and the Servicing Agent. Note: Why should OPG be the Administrative Agent if the Regulatory Asset Owner is a third party?]

"Allocation Factor" means, in respect of a Ratepayer for a Reference Period, the ~~number~~schedule (expressed as a percentage) determined in respect of the Ratepayer by [~~IESO~~OPG] [To the extent the schedule is in the Financing Plan, it would be OPG] based on the application of the Attribution Methodology in respect of the Reference Period.[4] [NTD: a schedule will need to be set forth in the [Financing Plan] to spell out the percentage of the Period Transition Amount to be applied to each rate class.]

"Alternative Collection Agent" means a person appointed under Section 5(11) and in compliance with the requirements set out in Schedule 2 to assume the collection activities and activities of any Electricity Distributor or IESO under Article 5, as agent for and on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners.

[4] Consider basing this on forecast volumes of demand (like RPP). To the extent amounts do not get recovered due to differences between forecast and actual, those would be identified and rolled into the True-Up.

"Alternative Servicer" means a person appointed under Section 4(8) to assume the obligations of the Servicer under Article 4, as agent for and on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners.

"Attribution Methodology"[5] means the methodology specified in the [Financing Plan] [Shouldn't the methodology be specified in the Financing Plan? "Bypass Charge" means [To be developed].[6] [As discussed, is this necessary?]

["Collected Amount Adjustment" means, in respect of a Reference Period, the amount (which may be a negative amount) calculated by the Servicer or the Administrative Agent, as applicable, equal to (a) the Estimate of the Finance Amount for the True-Up Period, minus (b) the sum of all Transition Charge Collections for the True-Up Period.][7] [Could this concept be moved to the Financing Plan where we can include a more detailed discussion of the true-up mechanism?]

"Collective Rights Agreement" means an agreement among all of the Regulatory Asset Owners (including each Absolute Assignee) and each Pledgee that governs the enforcement of their respective rights and interests in, to and under the Regulatory Asset on a coordinated and collective basis. [NTD: This sounds like an intercreditor arrangement. If so, it should also include IESO, any Alternate Servicer or subservicer.]

"Disposition" means an assignment, transfer, conveyance, sale, contribution, set-over, exchange or other disposition of all or a specified portion (including a specified portion on a divided basis or by way of an undivided interest) of a Regulatory Asset Owner's right, title and interest in, to and under the Regulatory Asset to an Absolute Assignee pursuant to a Disposition Document.

"Disposition Document" means the agreement, deed, conveyance, instrument or other document under which a Regulatory Asset Owner effects a Disposition to an Absolute Assignee.

[5] A key question will be how the overall costs will be spread across the rate base. For example, the allocation may be volumetric or not, or some combination of a flat amount and a volumetric charge. This will also impact any discussion regarding any bypass (e.g., grid exit) charge in connection with the bypass discussion. [NTD: At H&W we are assuming that allocations will be volumetric based on usage?]

[6] Consideration needs to be given to any amount that will be charged to a ratepayer who successfully bypasses (e.g., leaves the grid). In allocating Transition Charges, considerations would include whether to reserve Bypass Charges and spread them over the life of the program, and correspondingly how to factor those into the calculation of Transition Charges.

[7] This would pick up adjustments based on actual collection experience, changes in the Consumer Base, changes in the actual costs (versus earlier estimates) included in the Transition Charge calculation, etc.

"Electricity Distributor" means, in respect of a Service Area, the distributor licensed by the OEB in respect of such Service Area.

"Electricity Distributor Remittances" means, for an Electricity Distributor on a Remittance Date, all Transition Charge Collections received or deemed received [How will the Electricity Distributors calculate this?] by the Electricity Distributor prior to the Remittance Date and that have not otherwise been remitted to IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent in accordance with Section 5(3) , including the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by the Electricity Distributor or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to recover payment of Transition Charges in accordance with Article 5.

"Electricity Invoice" means an invoice issued by an Electricity Distributor (or in its stead, an Alternative Servicer) or by the Servicer in respect of electricity charges and related services and amounts incurred, assessed or charged in respect of connectivity to a distribution network in the Electricity Distributor's designated Service Area.

"Estimate" means, in relation to costs, expenses or payments in respect of Funding Obligations or any Finance Amount for a Reference Period, the estimated amount of such costs, expenses or payments determined by the Administrative Agent having regard to the applicable principles and parameters set out in Schedule 1, which estimated amounts shall be determinative as the applicable estimate for the purposes of this Part in the absence of a manifest calculation error.

"Fair Allocation Plan" [has the meaning given in Article 1].

"Finance Amount" means, in respect of a Reference Period, the sum (without duplication) of the following amounts ~~for~~that are or become payable during the Reference Period: (a) Repayments; (b) Funding Costs; (c) Redemption Amounts; (d) Finance Reserve Deposits; and (e) Additional Funding Charges.

"Finance Receipts" means, for a Reference Period, all amounts received by or on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners during the Reference Period in respect of a Funding Obligation, including from any reimbursement of standby commitment fees or charges paid by a lender, any reimbursement of credit enhancement fees or charges paid by any credit enhancer, any reimbursement of liquidity fees or charges paid by any liquidity provider, any amounts (including any termination payments) paid to the Regulatory Asset Owners under derivatives and any withdrawal made or required to be made from a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to a Funding Obligation.

"Finance Reserve Deposits" means, for a Reference Period, the amount by which (a) deposits made or to be made during the Reference Period in order to pre-fund, collateralize, over-collateralize or establish reserves for the ultimate payment of Funding Obligations or for related contingencies specified in the Financing Plan, exceed (b) any Finance Reserve Withdrawals.

"Finance Reserve Withdrawals" means, for a Reference Period, the amount withdrawn during the Reference Period from deposits previously made to pre-fund, collateralize, over-collateralize or establish reserves for the payment of Funding Obligations or to pay amounts in respect of related contingencies that had been specified in the Financing Plan.

"Financing Entity" means an entity established in accordance with the Financing Plan to acquire all or an interest in the Regulatory Asset as an Absolute Assignee and to enter into Funding Obligations to finance such acquisition.[8]

"Financing Plan" means the written plan [prepared by the Administrative Agent] in compliance with Article 8 to set forth the basis upon which, among other things: (a) any Disposition may be made or effected; (b) any Funding Obligations may be incurred in order to fund a Funding Shortfall, including any Refinancing; (c) any Pledge may be given or effected; (d) any Funding Obligations may be redeemed, prepaid, repurchased, amended or otherwise effected; (e) any obligations for Additional Funding Charges may be incurred and paid; (f) any Repayments, Funding Costs and Redemption Amounts may be paid or provided for; (g) any Finance Reserve Deposits may be made; (h) the establishment and operation of any Financing Entity; and (i) the cash flows arising from time to time or otherwise derived from the Regulatory Asset may otherwise be applied.

"Funding Costs" means, for a Reference Period, the amount by which (a) the aggregate of all schedule payments of principal, interest and other periodic finance charges accruing due and becoming payable or paid by or on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owner during the Reference Period in respect of all Funding Obligations, including any standby commitment fees or charges paid to any lender, credit enhancement fees or charges paid to any credit enhancer, liquidity fees or charges paid to any liquidity provider, amounts (including any termination payments) paid under derivatives and any deposit amount made or required to fund or replenish a debt service reserve account or other account established under any indenture, ancillary agreement or other financing document relating to a Funding Obligation, exceeds (b) the aggregate of all Finance Receipts for the Reference Period.

"Funding Obligation" means each payment obligation (including ~~principal, interest and other financing charges,~~ [9] indebtedness, payment obligations arising under or in respect of derivatives, payment obligations owing to service providers, administrative agents, finance entity intermediaries, capital markets intermediaries, advisors, lenders, credit enhancement providers, liquidity providers, disbursement counterparties, regulatory agencies and rating agencies and [all taxes payable in connection with the foregoing] [NTD: Shouldn't taxes be Additional Funding Charges?]) incurred by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner under the Financing Plan in order to fund a

[8] OPG has suggested that the legislation provide that any Financing Entity that is a wholly-owned subsidiary of OPG (1) would not be subject to Part VI of the Electricity Act (Ontario) and (2) in the case of any Financing Entity that is a trust, any income of such trust (for purposes of the Income Tax Act (Canada) or the Taxation Act, 2007 Ontario)) which is paid or made payable to OPG or a wholly-owned subsidiary of OPG as a beneficiary of such trust will not be taken into account in calculating the amount of a payment required to be made by OPG (or such subsidiary) by section 89 or 90 of the Electricity Act. These raise issues for consideration by the stakeholders.

[9] Note: Payments of scheduled principal, interest and other financing charges was moved to the definition of funding costs.

Funding Shortfall for a Reference Period, including any Refinancing of another such payment obligation.[9][10]

"Funding Shortfall" means, for a Reference Period, (a) the amount, if any, by which (i) the IESO Power Contract Net Payment for the Reference Periods, exceeds (ii) the GA Power Contract Contribution for Reference Period, minus (b) the IESO Applied Surplus for the Reference Period.[10][11]

"GA Power Contract Contribution" means, for a Reference Period, the aggregate of the payments to be made by the applicable Ratepayer Group in respect of the portion of the Global Adjustment [attributable to the Power Contracts] in accordance with the Fair Allocation Plan.[11][12]

"Generator" means a generator of electricity that is subject to [this Act][12][13].

"Global Adjustment" means the amount calculated from time to time under [Section • of the Electricity Act], which includes among other things an amount determined in respect of the costs associated with the Green Generation Initiative, including amounts attributable to the Power Contracts.[13][14]

"Green Generation Initiative" [has the meaning given in Article 1].

"IESO" means the Independent Electricity System Operator created pursuant to [insert].

"IESO Applied Surplus" means, for a Reference Period, the lesser of (a) the amount, if any, by which (i) the IESO Power Contract Net Payment for the Reference Period, exceeds (ii) the GA Power Contract Contribution for the Reference Period and (b) the IESO Unapplied Surplus on the last day of the immediately preceding Reference Period.

[9][10] OPG has asked whether this should include IESO finance arrangements.

[10][11] Consider whether to simplify by referring to the calculations of GA, with vs. without Fair. The issue would be that Fair is then linked into the GA calculation specifically, rather than to the specific assets that are subject to revised amortization under Fair. The constitutional position requires a clear nexus to the assets. Also, confirm whether RPP forecasting variances are to be included.

[11][12] IESO to confirm its ability to allocate a shortfall in a given month between what it receives and what it owes under the GA, in order to calculate (a) existing volume-based variances which are rolled into subsequent month GA and trued-up every 6 months under RPP, (b) existing variances attributable to OREC which are funded by the Province, and (c) new variances attributable to Fair Hydro program.]

[12][13] Revise once determine whether this will be a standalone Act or remain part of the Electricity Act. "Generator is a defined term in other legislation (OEB Act, Electricity Act) so this should ultimately be a distinct term such as "FH Generator" to avoid confusion.

[13][14] Note that if adjustments for Fair Hydro program are to be applied after existing GA adjustments, then this may need a new name (such as "FH Adjustment").

"IESO Power Contract Net Payment" means, for a Reference Period, the amount by which (a) the sum of amounts payable by IESO to the Generators under all Power Contracts for the Reference Period, exceeds (b) the sum of amounts payable by the Generators to IESO under all Power Contracts for the Reference Period.

"IESO Power Contract Net Receipt" means, for a Reference Period, the amount by which (a) the sum of amounts payable by the Generators to IESO under all Power Contracts for the Reference Period, exceeds (b) the sum of amounts payable by IESO to the Generators under all Power Contracts for the Reference Period.

"IESO Remittances" means, for a Settlement Date, all Electricity Distributor Remittances received by IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent prior to the Settlement Date and that have not otherwise been remitted to the Regulatory Asset Owners (each with respect to its Regulatory Asset) in accordance with Section 5(6), including the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to recover payment of amounts payable by Electricity Distributors to IESO in accordance with Article 5.

"IESO Successor" means the entity appointed by the Province to succeed to the rights and obligations of IESO as the entity responsible for [managing the Province's power system].

"IESO Unapplied Surplus" means, at a particular time, the amount, if any, by which (a) the sum of (i) all IESO Power Contract Net Receipts for Reference Periods occurring prior to the time, and (ii) all GA Power Contract Contributions for Reference Periods occurring prior to the time, exceeds (b) the sum of (i) all IESO Power Contract Net Payments for Reference Periods occurring prior to the time, and (ii) all IESO Applied Surpluses for Reference Periods occurring prior to the time.

"Period Transition ~~Charge~~Amount" means, for a Reference Period, the sum of (a) the Estimate of the Finance Amount and (b) the True-Up Amount in respect of the immediately preceding Reference Period.

"Pledge" means a lien, mortgage, charge or security interest granted to or in favour of a Pledgee by a Regulatory Asset Owner in, to and over all or a specified portion (including a specified portion on a divided basis or by way of an undivided interest) of the Regulatory Asset.

"Pledgee" means a person to whom a Regulatory Asset Owner grants a Pledge.

"Power Contracts" means long-term power contracts entered into by IESO with certain Generators, under which IESO has agreed to pay such Generators amounts, determined in respect of quantities of electricity over specified periods, to the extent that applicable market prices for such quantities of electricity during a specified period are less than specified reference prices for such quantities of electricity, and, correspondingly, Generators have agreed to pay IESO amounts if the market prices for such quantities exceed the applicable reference prices for such quantities.[~~14~~15]

[~~14~~15] Consider expanding to include PPAs that are not contracts for differences. Should this contemplate the possibility of additional or amended power contracts?

"Province" means the Province of Ontario.

"Ratepayer" means present and future [retail] consumers of electricity [in the Province] who are [RPP][or OREC-eligible] consumers, which shall include all such retail consumers who are connected, directly or indirectly and whether a customer of an Electricity Distributor or not, to the transmission and distribution system assets located in the Province and who are taking electric delivery service within the Province, whether or not such retail consumers produce their own electricity or purchase electric generation services from a provider of electric generation services other than the owner of the Province's transmission and distribution system assets and whether or not the transmission and distribution system assets continue to be owned or operated by Electricity Distributors or operated by IESO.[~~15~~16]

"Ratepayer Group" means, in relation to a Reference Period, the Ratepayers who receive Electricity Invoices[~~16~~17] during the Reference Period.

"Redemption Amount" means the amount payable by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner to redeem, prepay or repurchase a Funding Obligation, including any premium, make-whole or other additional amount becoming payable under the Funding Obligation to give effect to such redemption, prepayment or repurchase.

"Reference Period" means (a) the period from (and including) the [Legislation Implementation Date] to (and including) June 30, 2017, (b) each six month period commencing [May 1st and November 1st] thereafter and (c) any other period specified as such in the Fair Allocation Plan.

"Refinancing" means that a Funding Obligation is repaid or repurchased for cancellation by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner by applying the net proceeds obtained by ~~the~~a Regulatory Asset Owner incurring one or more other Funding Obligations.

"Regulatory Asset" means the property right and interest described in Section 6(1), or if the context requires, a specified portion or undivided interest in such property right and interest that is described in the applicable Disposition Document.

"Regulatory Asset Account" means (a) for an Electricity Distributor, any bank account into which the Electricity Distributor deposits or receives Transition Charge Collections; (b) for the Servicer, any bank account into which the Servicer deposits or receives Transition Charges, Electricity Distributor Remittances or IESO Remittances; and (c) if applicable, for the Alternative Collection Agent, any bank account into which the Alternative Collection Agent deposits or receives Transition Charge Collections, Electricity Distributor Remittances or IESO Remittances.

[~~15~~16] Need to describe consumers in a fashion that is broad and not weakened by a bypass risk. Consider terminology to align with the description of the eligible customer class provided by the Ministry, e.g., same as OREC-eligible consumers except for consumers served by Independent Power Authorities (who do not pay GA). Also, consider use of the word "retail", to avoid limiting to customers of retailers and confirm removal of reference to transmission-connected customers.

"Regulatory Asset Owner" means each ~~of (a) IESO, to the extent that it has retained any ownership interest in, to or under the Regulatory Asset and (b) each~~ Absolute Assignee, to the extent that it has acquired and owns any ownership interest (including a specified portion on a divided basis or by way of an undivided interest) in, to or under the Regulatory Asset, and "Regulatory Asset Owners" means collectively all of the Regulatory Asset Owners, who together own the entirety of the Regulatory Asset and are required to exercise their individual rights of ownership in accordance with Section 6(7). For greater certainty, where one Regulatory Asset Owner owns the entirety of the Regulatory Asset, "Regulatory Asset Owners" refers to this Regulatory Asset Owner. [NTD: For purposes of the legislation and the financing to the capital markets, we look at it as though the IESO owns a different type of "regulatory asset". The whole idea of this financing structure is to "ring fence" the asset owned by the Absolute Assignee.]

"Related Generation Assets" means the [facilities, plants and equipment] constructed, acquired or developed in connection with the Green Generation Initiative.

"Related Rights" means, with respect to a Regulatory Asset Owner's Regulatory Asset, all rights of any kind (whether in tort, contract or otherwise) that attach or are attendant or incidental to any of the other property rights or interests that comprise such Regulatory Asset.

"Remittance Date" means, in respect of an Electricity Distributor, each day on which it is required to remit Electricity Distribution Remittances to IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent in accordance with any Funding Obligation or, if no such day is specified in relation to any Funding Obligation, then the Business Day preceding each Settlement Date.

"Repayment Obligation" means an obligation to repay, redeem or repurchase, or to provide for the repayment, redemption or repurchase (including by making a Finance Reserve Deposit) of, all or a portion of the amount advanced to the Regulatory Asset Owner under a Funding Obligation.

"Repayment" means a payment by a Regulatory Asset Owner made to satisfy a Repayment Obligation, other than to the extent that the payment is made by applying the proceeds of a Refinancing.

"Replacement Event" means any event specified as such in a Funding Obligation.

"Service Area" means, in respect of an Electricity Distributor, the geographic area or region in which it is licensed to distribute electricity in accordance with [this Act~~17~~18].

"Servicer" means [To be determined], as agent for and on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owner [To be determined – collective invoicing agent, and consider expanding].

"Settlement Date" means the [last Business Day of any month].

~~17~~18 Revise once determine whether this will be a standalone Act or remain part of the Electricity Act.

"Transition Charge" means~~, for a Ratepayer in respect of a Reference Period, the sum of (a) [one-sixth] of the Period Transition Charge multiplied by its Allocation Factor and (b) any Bypass Charge charged to the Ratepayer in respect of the Reference Period.~~ the nonbypassable charge based on usage or availability of electric service to fully recover amounts sufficient for all payments of Funding Obligations and such Transition Charges would be subject to a true-up adjustment mechanism. [NTD: This should be a usage based charge. We suggest this more general definition with the calculation of Transition Charges should go into the Financing Plan.]

"Transition Charge Collection" means any amount received or deemed by this Part to have been received upon the collection of a Transition Charge paid by or on behalf of a Ratepayer, including any proceeds arising from the exercise and enforcement of any related rights and interests under or in respect of the Regulatory Asset.

[~~"True-Up Amount" means, in respect of a Reference Period, the amount (which may be a negative amount) calculated by the Administrative Agent equal to (a) the Estimate of the Finance Amount for the related True-Up Period, minus (b) the Actual Finance Amount for such related True-Up Period, plus (c) the Collected Amount Adjustment.~~] [NTD: Can we move this to the Financing Plan where we can get into a discussion of the breakdown of Transition Charges as applied to each rate class?]

"True-Up Period" means, in relation to a Reference Period, the period from and including the [30th] day immediately preceding the first day of the Reference Period, to but excluding the [30th] day immediately preceding the last day of the Reference Period.

"Undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council" means the undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council given under Section 10(2).

"Unrecovered Transition Costs" means the [unrecovered][unamortized] costs incurred in connection with the creation, adoption and implementation of the Green Generation Initiative, including any negative value of the Power Contracts and [other].~~18~~19

Article 3 – Transition Charges

(1) Ratepayer Obligation to Pay a Transition Charge – Each Ratepayer shall pay each Transition Charge charged to it in any Electricity Invoice issued to such Ratepayer by its Electricity Distributor or by an Alternative Servicer under Section 4(1), in each case on the terms of payment specified in the related Electricity Invoice.

(2) Indebtedness of Ratepayers – Until paid, a Transition Charge charged to a Ratepayer in an Electricity Invoice shall, together with any applicable late payment fees and finance charges arising under the terms of the Electricity Invoice with respect to such Transition Charge, constitute non-bypassable indebtedness of the Ratepayer to the

~~18~~19 Note that this is the term that describes the "asset" that we are amortizing over a longer period of time.

Regulatory Asset Owners (each with respect to its Regulatory Asset). Such indebtedness shall constitute a single and separate debt obligation owing by the Ratepayer, which subject to Article 5 may be enforced independently from any other payment obligation or indebtedness owing by the Ratepayer under the Electricity Invoice or otherwise.[1920]

(3) No Set-Off or Reduction – A Ratepayer may not set-off or reduce (by counterclaim, defense or otherwise) the amount payable by it in respect of any Transition Charge, including any set-off against or in respect of any amount owing or becoming payable to such Ratepayer by its Electricity Distributor, any Regulatory Asset Owner or any other person.

(4) Allocation of Ratepayer Payments – If an Electricity Distributor receives a payment made by or on behalf of a Ratepayer in respect of amounts due and payable under one or more Electricity Invoices that is less than the total amount payable thereunder, such payment shall be allocated on a pro rata basis to the payment of related Transition Charges and other invoiced amounts and the amount so allocated as a payment of related Transition Charges shall be deemed to constitute a Transition Charge Collection.

(5) Transition Charges are Irrevocable – The Transition Charges arising under or in respect of Funding Obligations incurred under the Financing Plan (including any adjustments based on modifications to such Funding Obligations made in compliance with the Financing Plan or as a result of amendments to the Financing Plan made in accordance with Section 8(3)) are deemed to be irrevocable, final and effective without any further action, in the absence of manifest calculation error. For greater certainty, a Transition Charge may include Finance Amounts for a Reference Period whether or not the payment of such Finance Amounts are inconsistent with the Fair Allocation Plan applicable at the time such payments are due and payable whether or not the related Funding Obligation was properly incurred under the Financing Plan. In no case shall a Funding Obligation incurred under the Financing Plan be affected by a subsequent amendment to the Fair Allocation Plan.

(6) [Anti-avoidance; No-by-pass – Transition Charges charged to a Ratepayer in respect of any Finance Amount incurred under with the Financing Plan applicable at the time

[1920] Torys suggests that we not create a debtor/creditor relationship between ratepayers and regulatory asset owners. Instead, ratepayers would only have relationships with electricity distributors and the Fair program would rely on consumers paying distributors and distributors to collecting those amounts and remitting them to IESO. The current draft goes further to bridge the investors more directly with ratepayers. There are differences in the approaches, including reliance from a credit perspective on the LDCs (rather than an ability to replace the individual LDCs with the investors choice). This depends on the credit analysis, and comfort that a later requirement will not be accommodated without a change in the legislation. Torys has also suggested that deemed conditions of licenses for distributors, retailers and unit sub-metering providers, could be included as conditions, to require them to collect and remit amounts in accordance with this legislation. Consideration should be given to whether that achieves the same direct relationship and whether the effectiveness of the current regulatory licensing regime should be suggested as the basis for a market-based credit decision.

the related Funding Obligation was incurred may not be avoided and shall be [non-by-passable].]

(7) True-up Mechanism – The [Financing Plan] shall include a mechanism requiring the Transition Charges be reviewed and adjusted by the Servicer at least [semi-annually] to correct for any overcollections or undercollections of the preceding Reference Period and to ensure the expected recovery of amounts sufficient to timely provide all payments of Funding Obligations.

Article 4 – Invoicing of Transition Charges[2021]

(1) Inclusion of Transition Charges in Electricity Invoices – Each Electricity Distributor and if applicable any Alternative Servicer shall, as an agent of the Regulatory Asset Owners, specify the Transition Charge to be charged to a Ratepayer pursuant to Section 4(4) in respect of a related Reference Period in each Electricity Invoice issued by the Electricity Distributor or if applicable by the Alternative Servicer to the Ratepayer in respect of such Reference Period. Upon the inclusion of a Transition Charge in an Electricity Invoice, the obligation to pay such amount shall be binding on the applicable Ratepayer.

(2) Calculation of the Period Transition ~~Charge~~Amount – Not later than [35] days prior to the first day of a Reference Period, each Regulatory Asset Owner (or the Administrative Agent on its behalf) shall provide the Servicer with written notice of each Estimate of a Finance Amount payable by it or on its behalf in respect of the Reference Period. Not later than one month prior to the first day of a Reference Period, the Servicer or if applicable the Alternative Servicer[2122] shall calculate the Period Transition ~~Charge~~Amount applicable to the Reference Period based on the calculations and information set forth in such written notices received from the Regulatory Asset Owners, which shall be determinative in the absence of manifest calculation error or misstatement.

(3) Calculation and Attribution of Transition Charges – Not later than 25 days prior to the first day of a Reference Period, the Servicer or if applicable the Alternative Servicer shall apply the Attribution Methodology to determine the Allocation Factor for each Ratepayer of the applicable Ratepayer Group.

(4) Notice of Transition Charges – Not later than 20 days prior to the first day of a Reference Period, the Servicer or if applicable the Alternative Servicer shall inform each Electricity Distributor and if applicable any Alternative Servicer of the Transition Charges to be specified in the Electricity Invoices to be issued to each Ratepayer of the applicable Ratepayer Group who has a billing address in the Electricity Distributor's Service Area.

(5) Adjustments – The amount of any Transition Charge charged to a Ratepayer by the Servicer and specified as such in an Electricity Invoice shall be determinative of the amount of indebtedness created thereby and owing in respect of such Transition Charge, in the absence of any manifest calculation error.

(6) Successors of Electricity Distributors – Any successor of an Electricity Distributor shall be bound by the requirements of Article 4 and shall perform and satisfy all duties and obligations of such Electricity Distributor under Article 4 in the same manner and to the same extent as such Electricity Distributor, including the obligation under Article 4 to impose, attribute, charge, bill and invoice the Transition Charges.

(7) IESO Successor – Any IESO Successor shall be bound by the requirements of Article 4 and shall perform and satisfy all duties and obligations of IESO under Article 4 in the same manner and to the same extent as IESO, including the obligation to calculate and provide notice of Transition Charges.

(8) Appointment of an Alternative Servicer – If a Replacement Event occurs in respect of any Electricity Distributor, the Regulatory Asset Owners shall, in accordance with the Collective Rights Agreement, be permitted, by an instrument in writing, to appoint an Alternative Servicer to perform some or all of the obligations and duties required to be undertaken by such Electricity Distributor under this Article 4, as and to the extent specified in such appointment. Upon acceptance of such appointment, the Alternative Servicer shall become obligated to perform such assumed obligations in replacement of such Electricity Distributor. Any Electricity Distributor that is replaced under this Section 4(8) shall promptly transfer all rights, powers, privileges and property interests in its possession or within its control in the performance of such obligations and duties to the Alternative Servicer and shall take such further actions, including the execution of instruments, necessary to give full and final effect to such transfer and to permit the Alternative Servicer to perform such obligations and duties on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners.

(9) Regulatory Asset Owners have Standing – The Regulatory Asset Owners may bring actions against any Electricity Distributor, IESO, the Servicer, Alternative Servicer or any other person who may be authorized to issue Electricity Invoices to Ratepayers for a failure to impose, attribute, charge, bill or invoice Transition Charges. Any court of the Province [and the OEB] shall have jurisdiction over any actions brought before it by the Regulatory Asset Owners in relation to any such failure.[~~22~~23]

(10) No Set-Off or Reduction – No Servicer or Electricity Distributor may set off or reduce (by counterclaim, defence or otherwise) the amount payable by it pursuant to this Article 4.

(11) Regulations – Regulations may be enacted for the purpose of specifying further rights, powers, privileges, duties and obligations that shall apply to IESO, any Electricity Distributor, any Alternative Servicer or any [Alternative Collection Agent] to ensure that Transition Charges are properly charged to Ratepayers and specified as such in Electricity Invoices.

[~~22~~23] Consider having such matters first go through the OEB, particularly if the obligation to bill, collect or remit is deemed to be a condition of license for distributors, IESO, retailers and unit sub-metering providers, which would be enforceable provisions under the OEB Act and within OEB jurisdiction to enforce.

Article 5 – Collections and Remittances

(1) Duty to Collect as Agent – Electricity Distributors or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall, as an agent of the Regulatory Asset Owners, undertake [diligent efforts] to collect amounts owing by Ratepayers in respect of Transition Charges charged to such Ratepayers in Electricity Invoices issued by the Electricity Distributor or if applicable such Alternative Collection Agent.

(2) Segregation of Transition Charge Collections – An Electricity Distributor or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall promptly segregate Transition Charge Collections from other payments received by it from Ratepayers and deposit such Transition Charge Collections into its Regulatory Asset Account. Prior to and following a deposit of Transition Charge Collections having been made into its Regulatory Asset Account, the Electricity Distributor or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall hold such amounts in trust for each Regulatory Asset Owner.

(3) Electricity Distributor Remittances – On each [applicable Remittance Date], an Electricity Distributor shall remit all Transition Charge Collections received by it from Ratepayers in respect of the related Reference Period to or to the account of IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent.

(4) Duty to Collect Electricity Distributor Remittances – IESO or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall, as an agent of the Regulatory Asset Owners, undertake [diligent][reasonable] efforts to accept and collect Electricity Distributor Remittances from Electricity Distributors and Transition Charge Collections from Ratepayers that pay their Electricity Invoices directly to the Servicer.[~~23~~24]

(5) Segregation of Electricity Distributor Remittances – IESO and if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent shall [promptly] segregate Electricity Distributor Remittances from other payments received or held by it and deposit such Electricity Distributor Remittances into its Regulatory Asset Account. Prior to and following a deposit of Electricity Distributor Remittances having been made into its Regulatory Asset Account, IESO or if applicable any Alternative Collection Agent shall hold such amounts in trust for each Regulatory Asset Owner.

(6) IESO Remittances – On each [Settlement Date][~~24~~25], IESO and if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent shall remit all amounts on deposit in its Regulatory Asset Account to or to the account of the Regulatory Asset Owner.

(7) Successors of Electricity Distributors – Any successor of an Electricity Distributor shall be bound by the requirements of Article 5 and shall perform and satisfy all duties and obligations of such Electricity Distributor under Article 5 in the same manner and to the same extent as such Electricity Distributor, including the obligation under Article 5 to collect Transition Charges and make remittances of Electricity Distributor Remittances.

(8) Successors of IESO – Any successor of IESO shall be bound by the requirements of Article 5 and shall perform and satisfy all duties and obligations of IESO under Article 5 in the same manner and to the same extent as IESO, including the obligation to collect Transition Charge Collections, Electricity Distributor Remittances and to remit IESO Remittances.

(9) Owners of Distribution Assets - If any person other than an Electricity Distributor acquires distribution system assets in the Province or invoices or collects electricity distribution rates in the Province[25][26], then such person shall, if requested by the Regulatory Asset Owners, be obligated to act diligently to (a) facilitate the invoicing and collection of any Transition Charges applicable to Ratepayers in its applicable service area, including all consumers connected to the electricity distribution system assets and taking electric delivery service located within such service area; (b) allocate partial payments by Ratepayers as provided in this Part; (c) terminate service to non-paying Ratepayers on the same basis as termination of service is permitted for non-payment of electricity transmission and distribution rates; (d) exercise all enforcement rights of the Regulatory Asset Owners or Pledgee for the benefit of a Regulatory Asset Owner or Pledgee; and (e) remit any Transition Charge Collections to the Regulatory Asset Owner or Pledgee, as applicable, each in accordance with its Regulatory Asset.

(10) Regulatory Asset Owners have Standing – The Regulatory Asset Owners and any Pledgee may bring actions against any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Servicer, any owner of electricity distribution system assets in the Province or any other person who may be authorized to collect electricity distribution and use charges from Ratepayers for a failure to collect Transition Charges, remit or collect Electricity Distributor Remittances or remit IESO Remittances, as and to the extent applicable under Article 5. Any court of the Province [and the OEB] shall have jurisdiction over any actions brought before it by the Regulatory Asset Owners in relation to any such failure. [26][27]

(11) Appointment of an Alternative Collection Agent – If a Replacement Event occurs in respect of any Electricity Distributor or IESO, the Regulatory Asset Owners shall, in accordance with the Collective Rights Agreement, be permitted, by an instrument in writing, to appoint an Alternative Collection Agent to perform some or all of the collection, segregation and remittance obligations otherwise required to be undertaken by such Electricity Distributor or IESO, as applicable, under Article 5, as and to the extent specified in such appointment. Upon acceptance of such appointment, the Alternative Collection Agent shall become obligated to perform such assumed obligations in replacement of such Electricity Distributor or IESO, as applicable. Any Electricity Distributor or IESO, as applicable, that is replaced under this Section 5(11)

[25][26] This is in anticipation of a possible future restructuring of the distribution system. Also, this would cover any OREC-eligible customer (market participant) of IESO.

[26][27] Consider having such matters first go through the OEB, particularly if the obligation to bill, collect or remit is deemed to be a condition of license for distributors, IESO, retailers and unit sub-metering providers, which would be enforceable provisions under the OEB Act and within OEB jurisdiction to enforce.

shall promptly transfer all rights, powers, privileges and property interests in its possession or within its control in, to and over the Regulatory Asset, including its Regulatory Asset Account, to the Alternative Collection Agent and shall take such further actions, including the execution of instruments, necessary to give full and final effect to such transfer and to permit the Alternative Collection Agent to enforce the Regulatory Asset on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners.

(12) No Set-off, etc. - The Regulatory Asset, including rights in Transition Charges, Transition Charge Collections, and the interests of a Regulatory Asset Owner, an Absolute Assignee and a Pledgee therein, may not be setoff or reduced (including by counterclaim, surcharge or defense) by any Ratepayer, any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or any owner of distribution system assets in the Province or any other person or in connection with any default, bankruptcy, reorganization or other insolvency proceeding of any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or any owner of distribution system assets in the Province, any affiliate or successor thereof or any other entity or otherwise.[~~27~~28]

(13) Sequestration – If any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or any owner of distribution system assets in the Province or any other person or entity authorized to collect Transition Charges, defaults on any required remittance of Transition Charge Collections, Electricity Distribution Remittances or IESO Remittances under Article 5, any court in the Province, upon application by the Regulatory Asset Owners or Pledgee and without limiting any other remedies available to the applying party, shall order the sequestration and payment of the Transition Charge Collections, Electricity Distribution Remittances and IESO Remittances, as applicable, for the benefit of the Regulatory Asset Owners or Pledgee, each with respect to its Regulatory Asset. [Such order shall remain in full force and effect notwithstanding any bankruptcy, reorganization, or other insolvency proceeding with respect to any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or any owner of distribution system assets in the Province or other person or entity authorized to collection Transition Charges, as applicable.] [NTD: Is it possible to include the bracketed language under Ontario bankruptcy law?]

(14) Regulations – Regulations may be enacted for the purpose of specifying further rights, powers, privileges, duties and obligations that shall apply to IESO, any Electricity Distributor or any Alternative Collection Agent to ensure that rights, interests, entitlements, benefits and proceeds in, to, under and from the Regulatory Asset are of fully realized by the Regulatory Asset Owner.

Article 6 – The Regulatory Asset

(1) Composition – The Regulatory Asset shall constitute an existing, present property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of a Regulatory Asset Owner in the following (without duplication):

[~~27~~28] Consider whether it makes sense to create a "deemed collection" payment obligation on Electricity Distributors to the extent a Ratepayer reduces its payment of Transition Charges, despite this language, and same for Electricity Distributor Remittances and IESO Remittances.

a. the right of a Regulatory Asset Owner to record its portion of the Regulatory Asset in its accounts;

b. the right to impose, bill, invoice, collect and receive Transition Charges from Ratepayers, including the right to determine the amount of Transition Charges in accordance with this Part;

c. the right to enforce the obligations and indebtedness of each Ratepayer to pay the Transition Charges charged to the Ratepayer from time to time in accordance with Article 2, together with all related late payment fees or interest charges arising in respect thereof under the related Electricity Invoices;

d. the right to enforce the duties and obligations of each Electricity Distributor and if applicable the Alternative Servicer to impose, attribute, charge, bill and invoice the Transition Charges in accordance with Article 4;

e. the right to enforce the duties and obligations of each Electricity Distributor and if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to collect, receive and remit amounts received by it in respect of Transition Charges as Electricity Distributor Remittances to or to the account of IESO or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent in accordance with Article 5, including all collections and the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by the Electricity Distributor or if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to recover payment of Transition Charges in accordance with Article 4;

f. the right to enforce the duties and obligations of IESO and if applicable the Alternative Collection Agent to collect and receive Electricity Distributor Remittances and to remit IESO Remittances to or to the accounts of the Regulatory Asset Owners, each with respect to its Regulatory Asset, in each case in accordance with Article 5, including all collections and the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by it to recover payment of Electricity Distributor Remittances in accordance with Article 4;

g. the right to receive and collect all Transition Charge Collections, all Electricity Distributor Remittances and all IESO Remittances in accordance with Article 5;

h. all rights and entitlements under each Regulatory Asset Account and all amounts on deposit in any such Regulatory Asset Account;

i. all Related Rights; and

j. all revenue, collections, claims, payments, money and proceeds of or derived from the rights described in (a) through (i), regardless of whether such revenue, collections, claims, payments and proceeds are imposed, invoiced, collected and maintained together with or commingled with other revenue, collections, claims, payments, money and proceeds.

A Regulatory Asset and the property rights and interests therein shall exist whether or not Transition Charges have been imposed, charged, invoiced, accrued or collected and notwithstanding that the imposition, attribution, invoicing and collection of Transition Charges will depend on further actions that may not have occurred.

(2) Validity of Dispositions – Despite any limitations or restrictions on a Disposition that may arise by contract or by operation of any applicable law of the Province [or any consent requirement applicable to a Disposition that may arise by contract or by operation of any applicable law of the Province], a Disposition by a Regulatory Asset Owner made under the Financing Plan pursuant to a Disposition Document shall be permitted and when made shall be valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms and shall be effective to confer upon the Absolute Assignee a valid property right and interest in, to and under the Regulatory Asset (or relevant portion thereof) in accordance with the terms of such Disposition, provided that the parties to the applicable Disposition Document have expressly stated therein that such Disposition is a sale or other absolute transfer. Without limiting the foregoing, any Disposition that by its terms is intended to constitute a sale or absolute transfer shall be treated for all purposes as a true sale and absolute transfer of the Regulatory Asset Owner's applicable right, title, and interest in, to and under the Regulatory Asset (or relevant portion thereof), and not merely as a Pledge thereof. [A Disposition shall not be subject to recharacterization or challenge on any other basis and the validity of a Disposition shall not be affected or impaired by: (a) the commingling of Transition Charge Collections or other proceeds from Transition Charges with other amounts; (b) the retention of any interest (including any partial, residual or subordinated interest, whether direct or indirect) in the Regulatory Asset by the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner; (c) any right to repurchase the Regulatory Asset in favour of the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner; (d) any recourse that an Absolute Assignee may have against the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner; (e) any indemnification rights or obligations provided by the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner; (f) any obligation of the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner to collect and remit Transition Charge Collections on behalf of an Absolute Assignee, including but not limited to, any retention by the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner to bare legal title for the purpose of collecting Transition Charges; or (g) the ascribed or intended treatment of the Disposition by the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner or the Absolute Assignee on any different basis including for tax, financial reporting or other purposes.][28][29] [NTD: Should we include language that provides for the Regulatory Asset to continue to exist until all Funding Obligations and other costs are repaid?]

(3) Perfection and Priority[30] of Dispositions – Any Disposition of an interest in a Regulatory Asset shall be vested, valid, binding and perfected from the time when such Disposition is made. Such Disposition shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner and all other persons who have claims of any kind (whether in tort, contract or otherwise) against the transferring Regulatory Asset Owner, irrespective of whether such persons have notice of the Disposition and the property rights and interests acquired by the Absolute Assignee under such Disposition shall be free and clear of any liens in favour of such other persons.

[28][29] Consider if helpful to investors, or delete. H&W: We consider this helpful

[30] It looks like Priority was deleted from this clause.

(4) Validity of Pledges – Despite any limitations or restriction on a Pledge that may arise by contract or by operation of any applicable law of the Province [or any consent requirement applicable to a Pledge that may arise by contract or by operation of any applicable law of the Province], a Pledge by a Regulatory Asset Owner may be made to secure any Funding Obligation and when made shall be valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms and shall be effective to confer upon the Pledgee a valid security interest in, to and in respect of the Regulatory Asset in accordance with the terms of the Pledge. Other than as required by the Financing Plan, no consent of any person shall be required to give effect to a Pledge made to secure any Funding Obligation.

(5) Perfection and Priority of Pledges - Any Pledge made by a Regulatory Asset Owner in respect of a Funding Obligation incurred under the Financing Plan shall be perfected, valid and binding from the time when the Pledge is made and shall be valid and binding as against the Regulatory Asset, the Regulatory Asset Owner making the Pledge and all other persons who have claims of any kind (whether in tort, contract or otherwise) against the Regulatory Asset or the pledging Regulatory Asset Owner, irrespective of whether such persons have notice of the Pledge and the security interests of the Pledgee under such Pledge shall have priority over any liens in favour of such other persons. All proceeds of the Regulatory Asset that are subject to such a Pledge that are received by the Regulatory Asset Owner shall immediately be subject to the such Pledge, and the security interest in such proceeds shall be perfected, without any physical delivery thereof, registration of any financing statement with respect thereto pursuant to the [PPSA] or any other further act.[~~29~~31] A Pledge shall be a continuously perfected security interest and shall have priority over any other lien, created by operation of law or otherwise, that may subsequently attach to the property rights and interests in the Regulatory Asset subject to the Pledge unless the Pledgee has otherwise agreed in writing. Any Pledgee shall have a perfected security interest in Transition Charge Collections or other related proceeds that are deposited in any Regulatory Asset Account or other account of any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Alternative Collection Agent or other person who may have commingled such Transition Charge Collections or such other proceeds with other funds. [A Pledgee shall cause a financing statement to be filed in respect of a Pledge on the basis that the Regulatory Asset is "intangible" property, for informational purposes only under the [PPSA].

(6) Enforcement of Property Rights – The rights of any Regulatory Asset Owner to collect and enforce its rights and interests in, to or in respect of the Regulatory Asset shall be exercised in the manner set forth in Article 5.

(7) Owners of a Specified Portion of the Regulatory Asset – A Regulatory Asset Owner may effect a Disposition to an Absolute Assignee of a specified portion of its rights and interests in the Regulatory Asset, including by way of a Disposition of a divided or an undivided interest therein. In no circumstance may the specified portions of the rights and interests in the Regulatory Asset owned by all Regulatory Asset Owners be greater than all of the rights and interests that comprise the Regulatory Asset in the aggregate.

[~~29~~31] Consider whether to simply leave this and have a financing statement be filed under the PPSA. This would normalize the security interest and reduce any adverse suggestion that security would not otherwise arise.

(8) Collective Action Required – If a Regulatory Asset Owner's right and interest in the Regulatory Asset comprises less than the entire property right and interest constituted by the Regulatory Asset, such Regulatory Asset Owner shall only enforce such right and interest on a collective [and joint] basis with each other Regulatory Asset Owner in accordance with the Collective Rights Agreement.[30][32]

Article 7 – Establishment of the Fair Allocation Plan[31][33]

(1) Adoption of the Fair Allocation Plan – The [Minister of Energy][32][34] may by written order designate and adopt a Fair Allocation Plan in compliance with Article 7. The Fair Allocation Plan so designated and adopted shall be the Fair Allocation Plan for all purposes of this Part, [except if amended, amended and restated or terminated by a further written order issued by the Minister of Energy in compliance with Section •].

(2) Principles and Parameters[33][35] – A Fair Allocation Plan shall seek to allocate Unrecovered Transition Costs across present and future Ratepayer Groups on a basis that the Minister of Energy, in its sole and absolute discretion, determines to be equitable, having regard to the following principles and parameters[34][36]:

1. Unrecovered Transition Costs should be allocated over a period not to exceed the later of (a) the estimated remaining useful life of the Related Generating Assets and (b) the remaining term of IESO's commitments under the Power Contracts.

2. The Fair Allocation Plan should specify the Reference Periods (e.g., 6 month periods), for the purpose of identifying applicable Ratepayer Groups and allocating among them responsibility to bear the Unrecovered Transition Costs on a relative basis over time.

3. The share of Unrecovered Transition Costs allocable to a particular Ratepayer Group in respect of a Reference Period should be proportionate to a reasonable assessment of the benefits of the Green Generation Initiative to the Ratepayer Group over such Reference Period.

[30][32] This is necessary to ensure that if there are multiple regulatory asset owners and pledgees, they will be coordinated in the application of their rights of enforcement, etc.

[31][33] The idea is that the Fair Allocation Plan will be set once at the outset based on the principles and parameters described here, all applied based on information available and the reasonable expectations and discretion of the delegate at such time. If the expectations are not fulfilled (e.g., generators may choose to retire their facilities at the end of their current Power Contracts and not invest in extending service lives to secure further power contracts), the Fair Allocation Plan will be unaffected, unless it is specifically amended (assuming amendments will be permitted by the legislation).

[32][34] Input required. If the MOE is given this power, conform to applicable authorities (e.g., plans and directives).

[33][35] Consideration will be given as to whether these details should be included in the Regulation.

[34][36] We have provided a few examples of what could be the basic principles. These will depend on market considerations, the Province's decision on the required amount of detail and the ability to sustain the legal basis for the program. These examples are not meant to suggest the appropriate balance – just illustrative to advance a discussion among the stakeholders.

4. The estimated Unrecovered Transition Costs to be allocated to a Ratepayer Group and any future Ratepayer Group at a particular time should not exceed the estimated value of the Related Generating Assets based on their remaining useful lives or terms, measured in respect of the period following such particular time.

5. No future Ratepayer Group should bear an unreasonably disproportionate share of the Unrecovered Transition Costs. Except in exceptional circumstances or in the case of any backward-looking adjustment made as contemplated in 7, below, the share of the Unrecovered Transition Costs to be allocated under a Fair Allocation Plan to any future Ratepayer Group should have regard to [Insert formula if a year-over-year maximum amount is determined to be appropriate][~~35~~37].

6. A reasonable estimate of the rate of inflation should be applied to equate the relative values of the nominal amount of Unrecovered Transition Costs to be allocable to Ratepayer Groups over time.

7. Backward-looking adjustments to a Fair Allocation Plan may be made to achieve a fair distribution among Ratepayers of the benefits of the Green Generation Initiative.

(3) Attribution Methodology – The Fair Allocation Plan [shall] specify an objective methodology (the "Attribution Methodology") for the purposes of allocating the Period Transition ~~Charges~~Amount across all of the Ratepayers of a particular Ratepayer Group. The Attribution Methodology shall result in an attribution of such Transition Charges that are considered by the Minister of Energy to be equitable, and may have regard to such principles and parameters as may be further set forth in a Regulation.

(4) [Confirmation][Review] of the Fair Allocation Plan – [OEB?][~~36~~38]

Article 8 – The Financing Plan[~~37~~39]

(1) Power to Prepare and Implement the Financing Plan – In compliance with a [written order][MOE to confirm process.] of the Minister of Energy, the Administrative Agent shall prepare and propose the adoption of a Financing Plan. If the Administrative Agent is unwilling or unable to prepare and propose the adoption of a Financing Plan, the Minister of Energy may by written order designate one or more other persons to prepare and implement such a Financing Plan.

[~~35~~37] Consider if a quantitative limit needs to be included in the legislation.

[~~36~~38] Any approvals or consents by the OEB will be obtained before any Funding Obligation that is dependent on such approval or consent is incurred. Any such approval or consent will be irrevocable and non-appealable. Any regulatory action occurring after any incurrence will not affect the related Funding Obligation or underlying rights in the Regulatory Asset.

[~~37~~39] Consideration will be given as to whether these details should be included in the Regulation.

(2) Required Terms and Conditions of the Financing Plan – The Financing Plan shall establish the basis for funding decisions that have the effect of allocating the Unrecovered Transition Costs across present and future Ratepayer Groups on a basis that is consistent with the Fair Allocation Plan. The Financing Plan shall be consistent with the principles, parameters, requirements and conditions set forth in Schedule 3 and such other conditions and requirements as may be specified in a written order of the Minister of Energy [or in accordance with the Regulation].

(3) Power to Review and Approve the Financing Plan – The Minister of Energy may, by written order, designate one or more persons to review the Financing Plan and to review and assess the consistency of the Funding Obligations incurred with such Financing Plan, and the Minister of Energy may specify requirements in respect of such review in such written order. The Administrative Agent, or such other person(s) as may be designated by written order of the Minister of Energy made pursuant to Section 8(1), shall make any such amendments to the Financing Plan, and submit a revised Financing Plan to the designated reviewer for approval within [the time period specified in such written order]/[[●] days of such written order].[Consider periodic amendments to the Financing Plan following an annual review; provided that amendments cannot affect the existing Funding Obligations. Consider the level of oversight the MoE/OEB will have over this process?]

(4) Approval of Financing Plan – The [OEB] shall have the power to and shall approve or disapprove of the Financing Plan based solely on whether the Financing Plan is consistent with (i) the principles, parameters, requirements and conditions set forth in Schedule 3, (ii) such other conditions and requirements as may be specified in a written order of the Minister of Energy [or in accordance with the Regulation] [and (iii) the Fair Allocation Plan]. If the [OEB] approves the Financing Plan, then such Financing Plan shall be implemented by the Administrative Agent. If the OEB disapproves of the Financing Plan or otherwise fails to approve the Financing Plan, then the Administrative Agent shall re-submit the Financing Plan with such amendments as the Administrative Agent shall consider necessary for the Financing Plan to be approved by the OEB.[38~~38~~40]

(5) Consistency with the Fair Allocation Plan - Funding Obligations should only be incurred if Repayments and Funding Costs would be borne by present and future Designated Ratepayers on a basis that is [generally] consistent with their respective allocations of the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative contemplated in the Fair Allocation Plan. In that regard, at the time of setting the Fair Allocation Plan for any particular period, the aggregate amount payable during future Reference Periods on account of Funding Obligations incurred on or before the date on which a new Funding Obligation is incurred should not exceed the allocation of the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative to the applicable Ratepayer Group contemplated in the Fair Allocation Plan. If, despite the foregoing, the Administrative [38~~38~~40] Once the Financing Plan is reviewed and approved there would be no further OEB review. If there is opportunity for further review, such review will have no impact on prior issued debt. Any further financings would be put on hold until such review is completed (during which time the IESO would again need to fund the shortfall on an interim basis and obtain necessary funding).

Agent determines that the anticipated amount of any Repayment (together with payments of other Finance Amounts) to be made in respect of a Reference Period would materially exceed the allocation of the costs and benefits of the Green Generation Initiative to the applicable Ratepayer Group under the then current Fair Allocation Plan, the Financing Plan shall require the Administrative Agent to make diligent efforts to determine whether a Refinancing or deferral of such Repayment may be reasonably and cost-effectively effected based on then prevailing market terms, conditions an circumstances, if such a Refinancing or deferral is determined to be available the Financing Plan shall require the Administrative Agent to make diligent efforts to implement such Refinancing or deferral on a basis that is consistent with the Fair Allocation Plan.

(6) Establishment of Special Purpose Entities – If the implementation of the Financing Plan contemplates the establishment of one or more special purpose finance entities to incur Funding Obligations as a Financing Entity under the Financing Plan, as an Absolute Assignee and on a basis that limits the recourse for the payment of such Funding Obligations to such Absolute Assignee's interest in, to and under the Regulatory Asset, the Administrative Agent shall have regard to the characteristics specified in Schedule 4 in establishing such special purpose entity.]

(7) Obligation to Apply IESO Remittances – The Administrative Agent shall ensure that amounts transferred to it under Article 5, as agent for and on behalf of the Regulatory Asset Owners, or otherwise in respect of or as proceeds from the Regulatory Asset shall only be applied or used to pay Finance Amounts when they are due and payable and for no other purpose.[39][41]

(8) Non-Recourse – The Financing Plan shall be implemented so that Funding Obligations incurred shall be without recourse to or to any assets of the Electricity Distributors, IESO, any Alternative Servicer, and Alternative Collection Agent, the Administrative Agent, the OEB, the Province or the Lieutenant Governor in Council, other than if and to the extent that such persons or entities are liable for the performance of obligations or duties arising under this Part or expressly pursuant to any Funding Obligation or obligation in relation to a Finance Amount. [All Funding Obligations shall contain a statement to the following effect: "Neither the full faith and credit nor the taxing power of the Province of Ontario is pledged to the payment of the principal of, or interest on, this [obligation].]

(9) Incurrences are Binding – Despite any failure to adhere to the Financing Plan or to comply with any requirement of this Part, all amounts payable or becoming due and payable by or on behalf of a Regulatory Asset Owner under or in connection with any obligation purporting to be a Funding Obligation, shall be binding for the purposes of this Part, including in determining the amount of Transition Charges, despite any impairment or defect resulting from such failure.

[39][41] We need to work in the idea that there may be Finance Reserve Deposits or other amounts that remain after paying Finance Amounts. Those surplus amounts should be credited back to Ratepayers.

Article 9 – Compliance Matters[40][42]

(1) Right of the [OEB] to Inspect Books and Records - For the purpose of investigating compliance with the provisions of this Part, the [OEB] shall have the right, jurisdiction, power and authority to examine the books and records of any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part or any Funding Obligation.

(2) Power to Investigate Compliance and Impose Regulatory Sanctions - Subject to the limitations set forth regarding the irrevocability of Transition Charges and the Undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, nothing in this Part shall (a) prevent or preclude the [OEB] from investigating the compliance of any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part [or any Funding Obligation] with the terms and conditions of this Part and requiring compliance by such person therewith; or (b) prevent or preclude the [OEB] or any successor regulator from imposing regulatory sanctions against any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part for its failure to comply with the terms and conditions of this Part[41].[43] [NTD: We this this best practice would be to exclude any Financing Entity or Absolute Assignee from any Regulatory Sanctions or Regulatory Oversight]

(3) [Other Rating Settings – When setting other rates for or in respect of any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part, including any Electricity Distributor, IESO, Generator or the Administrative Agent, nothing in this Part shall prevent the [OEB] or any successor regulator from taking into account the collection by or attribution to such person of administrative or servicing fees in excess of the actual incremental costs incurred by such person of providing administrative or servicing services.][42][44]

Article 10 – Undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council[43][45]

(1) No Action to limit, alter, or impair or terminate Transition Charges, the Regulatory Asset or Collections – The [Lieutenant Governor in Council] shall not in any way take or permit any action to reduce, impair, postpone or terminate the obligation of Ratepayers to pay Transition Charges or impair the Regulatory Asset or the collection or recovery of Transition Charge Collections, either directly or indirectly[,including through the introduction of any bill or the passing of any legislation or regulation]. The amount of Transition Charges determined hereunder shall not be subject in any way to reduction, impairment, postponement or termination as a result of any action taken or failure by the Lieutenant Governor in Council[,including through the introduction of any bill or the passing of any legislation or regulation].

(2) Undertaking and Agreement – The Lieutenant Governor in Council shall not in any way take or permit any action that limits, alters or impairs the value of the Regulatory Asset or, except as required by the estimates and adjustments made in determining the True-up Amount, reduce, alter or impair Transition Charges that are imposed, collected and remitted for the benefit of the Regulatory Asset Owners, including any Absolute Assignee from time to time, and any Pledgee from time to time[,including through the introduction of any bill or the passing of any legislation or regulation].

[If IESO becomes insolvent or otherwise incapable of performing its obligations under this Part, an IESO Successor will be established that is capable of performing such obligations in order that the Regulatory Asset Owners may appoint the IESO Successor as an Alternative Servicer or Alternative Collection Agent. Regulatory Asset Owners shall be fully compensated for any failure by the Lieutenant Governor in Council to comply with its undertakings and agreements in this Article 10(2) for any loss suffered by the Regulatory Asset Owner as a result of such failure.[4446]]

(3) References to the Undertaking and Agreement – Any non-confidential reference to the Undertaking of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, including in marketing materials and other documentation authorized for use by the Administrative in connection with any Funding Obligation, may be made provided that [Add conditions to protect the Province].

Article 11 – Regulations

Regulations may be made under this Part for the purposes described in Sections •,•,• and • and may be promulgated for any of the following purposes:

(a) to set standards and measures regarding the commercially reasonable requirements of the Province associated with a Regulatory Asset Owner incurring Funding Obligations or becoming obligated to pay any Finance Amount, including to establish guidelines regarding all-in funding costs; permitted Additional Funding Costs; required maturities and redemption and termination rights of Funding Obligations; liquidity requirements, in each case to a Financing Plan that is consistent in its effect with the Fair Allocation Plan;

(b) to establish and empower one or more regulated entities to undertake decision-making activities with respect to this Part;

(c) to set out reasonable requirements regarding the appointment or retention of advisors, agents, service providers, contract counterparties, including in relation to 'market terms and conditions' parameters;

[4446] Requested by Torys. For discussion.

(d) to provide for audit and compliance standards applicable to those persons who are or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part [or under any Funding Obligation];

(e) to provide for any pre-vetting and approval requirements in relation to any incurrence by a Regulatory Asset Owner of any Funding Obligation or obligation to pay any Finance Amount; and

(f) to provide for appeal and due process considerations in connection with the establishment, adoption, implementation and review of the Fair Allocation Plan or the Financing Plan.

Article 12- Miscellaneous[4547]

(1) Choice of law – The law governing, as applicable, the validity, enforceability, attachment, perfection, priority and exercise of remedies with respect to the transfer of an interest or right or creation of a security interest in the Regulatory Asset, any Transition Charge or the Undertaking of the Province shall be the laws of the Province.

(2) Conflict of law – In the event of conflict between this Part and any other law of the Province regarding the attachment, assignment or perfection, or the effect of perfection, or priority of any Disposition or Pledge, this Part shall govern to the extent of the conflict.

(3) No further acts or approvals required - Notwithstanding any provisions of any law of the Province to the contrary, no approvals, notices or authorizations other than those specified in this Part shall be required with respect to the actions to be taken in compliance with this Part, including under the Financing Plan or in relation to the establishment of the Fair Allocation Plan, and the transactions and contracts authorized in or contemplated by this Part or the Financing Plan, including the incurrence of any Funding Obligation, any Disposition, any Pledge or in the payment and performance of any attendant or incidental contract and any related expenses incurred to facilitate the preparation and implementation of the Financing Plan.

(4) Effect of invalidity after the Incurrence of any Funding Obligation - Effective on the date that a Funding Obligation is incurred under this Part, if any provision of this Part is held to be invalid or is invalidated, superseded, replaced, repealed or expires for any reason, that occurrence shall not affect any action allowed under this Part that is taken by any person who is or may become obligated or have duties that arise under this Part and any such action shall remain in full force and effect.

(5) Severability - If any Article, Section, paragraph or subparagraph of this Part or the application thereof to any person, circumstance or transaction is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional or invalid, the unconstitutionality or invalidity shall not affect the constitutionality or validity of any other Article, Section, paragraph or subparagraph of this act or its application or validity to any person, circumstance or transaction, including the irrevocability of Transition Charges, the validity of the Regulatory Asset, the incurrence of any Funding Obligation, any Disposition, any Pledge, or the collection and recovery of Transition Charge Collections. To these ends, the Legislature hereby declares that the provisions of this Part are intended to be severable and that the Legislature would have enacted this Part even if any Article, Section, paragraph or subparagraph of this Part held to be unconstitutional or invalid had not been included in this Part.

Schedule 3

Principles, Parameters, Requirements and Conditions for Establishing the Financing Plan

The Financing Plan shall have regard to the following principles, parameters, requirements and conditions:[Consider others.]

(1) the Financing Plan shall, in respect of each Reference Period, describe the allocations of Unrecovered Transition Costs to each Reference Group as contemplated by the Fair Allocation Plan;

(2) the Administrative Agent shall make a good faith estimate of the Funding Shortfalls for each Reference Period, based on the terms of the Power Contracts and assumptions considered to be reasonable respecting forward market prices for electricity;

(3) the Administrative Agent shall describe alternative funding arrangements considered to be suitable for the purpose of funding the estimated Funding Shortfalls, including by reference to short term and/or long term Funding Obligations that could reasonably be incurred by the Regulatory Asset Owners for such purpose;

(4) such Funding Obligations shall reflect quantities, maturities, payment obligations, prepayment or redemption rights and such other features so that the effect of incurring such Funding Obligations would be that the payments made thereunder in respect of each Reference Period (including the anticipated Finance Amounts becoming payable in relation to such Funding Obligations) would reasonably correspond to the allocations of Unrecovered Transition Costs to the applicable Reference Group under the Fair Allocation Plan;

(5) the Financing Plan shall reflect the outcome of a financial model that incorporates the assumptions and requirements specified in any contemplated Funding Obligation (e.g., any limit on the maximum amount of Transition Charges charged to a hypothetical Ratepayer relative to his or her monthly electricity bill, as prescribed by any rating agency that ascribes its credit rating to or in respect of the Funding Obligation having regard to the application of the Allocation Methodology); [Consider what outputs from OPG will be tested by the OEB and when. The modelling in the Financing Plan may permit the OEB to check progress against the model from time to time, which may provide a basis for the MoE/OEB to require a review/amendment to the Financing Plan if the ongoing operation of the program results in significant deviation from the model. Consider whether this flexibility is desirable.]

(6) the Administrative Agent, for and on behalf of each Regulatory Asset Owner, shall seek to incur Funding Obligations from time to time on the best terms available at such time for a financing transaction of the size and type contemplated, and having regarding to the following parameters:

a. whether the Regulatory Asset Owners will require committed access to short term liquidity to cover estimated Funding Shortfalls prior to incurring fixed term Funding Obligations, and the amount and repayment terms of any such required liquidity; provided that any Repayment required to be made under the terms of such short-term liquidity would not obligate a Regulatory Asset Owner to repay an amount in relation to a Reference Period that would have the effect of the Financing Plan permitting incurrences of Funding Obligations payable in such Reference Period that would exceed the allocations of Unrecovered Transition Costs to the applicable Reference Group under the Fair Allocation Plan;

b. the basis upon which the Administrative Agent will select the term to maturity of any other Funding Obligations; provided that any Repayments required to be made under the terms of such Funding Obligations shall not obligate a Regulatory Asset Owner to repay an amount in relation to a Reference Period that would have the effect of the Financing Plan permitting incurrences of Funding Obligations payable in such Reference Period that would exceed the allocations of Unrecovered Transition Costs to the applicable Reference Group under the Fair Allocation Plan;

c. the basis upon which the interest rates applicable to such Funding Obligations would be determined;

d. the reference capital or finance market in which such Funding Obligation would be incurred, including markets outside of Canada if considered by the Administrative Agent to be appropriate in the circumstances;

e. the currency of payments under such Funding Obligations and, if the Funding Obligations are denominated in a currency other than Canadian dollars, the basis upon which the Administrative Agent shall cause the applicable Regulatory Asset Owner to enter into hedging transactions to mitigate currency risk, including acceptable minimum and maximum coverage levels, having regard to the availability of related derivatives having notional amounts corresponding to the repayment and maturity profile of such Funding Obligations;

f. the basis upon which the Administrative Agent will select counterparties under any transaction to be entered into by a Regulatory Asset Owner, including any paying agent, servicer, cash manager, liquidity provider, hedge counterparty, account bank, lender, note trustee, security trustee, paying agent, registrar/transfer agent, financial services agent, arranger or manager;

g. the basis upon which the Administrative Agent will manage counterparty risk, including by providing for maximum counterparty exposure limits having regard to concentration, credit and other identified risks with respect to individual counterparties or countries;

h. the basis upon which the Administrative Agent will negotiate and settle Finance Amounts, including the amount of any Redemption Amounts, Finance Reserve Deposits and Additional Funding Charges;

(7) the basis upon which Funding Obligations may be redeemed, prepaid, repurchased or otherwise affected, having regard for the need to minimize debt service charges and other Funding Costs, and the need to maintain a stable funding platform to finance the Funding Shortfall from time to time on a basis that is consistent with the allocations of

Unrecovered Transition Costs to applicable Reference Groups under the Fair Allocation Plan;

(8) the basis upon which any Repayments, Funding Costs and Redemption Amounts will be paid, including any defeasance, sinking fund or through other reserves or liquidity facilities;

(9) the basis upon which fees, charges, expenses, costs, indemnities, reimbursements and other amounts payable to or for the benefit of the Administrative Agent and other agents and service providers to the Regulatory Asset Owners may be determined, allocated and paid;

(10) the timing and basis upon which Finance Reserve Deposits and Finance Reserve Withdrawals may be made;

(11) the basis upon which any obligations for any other Additional Funding Charges may be incurred and paid;

(12) the basis upon which the cash flows arising from time to time or otherwise derived from the Regulatory Asset may otherwise be applied, including in relation to any counterparty enforcement and realization scenario;

(13) the transmittal to [the IESO] of information related to the amounts to be included in the determination of the Period Transition ~~Charge~~Amount for a Reference Period;

(14) the basis upon which any Disposition may be made or effected by a Regulatory Asset Owner, including parameters for determining the purchase price for the interest in the Regulatory Asset that is the subject matter of such Disposition, and any consents and releases that may be usefully obtained in connection with such Disposition;

(15) a description of each special purchase entity that will purchase the Regulatory Asset from the IESO, including proposed capitalization, governance, and restrictions on their powers and activities having regard to the parameters in Schedule 4; and

(16) the basis on which any Pledge may be given or effected.

a. No part of the revenue or assets of a Regulatory Asset Owner shall enure to the benefit or be distributable to its trustees, officers or directors, as the case may be, or any other private persons, except as may be provided for actual services rendered;

b. Each Regulatory Asset Owner shall be authorized to:

i. incur the Funding Obligations contemplated by a Financing Plan and use the proceeds thereof to purchase or acquire, and to own, hold and use the Regulatory Asset;

ii. contract for servicing of the Restructuring Asset and any bonds contemplated by a Financing Plan and for administrative services; and

iii. pledge the Regulatory Asset to secure the Funding Obligations incurred by the Regulatory Asset Owner;

c. So long as any Funding Obligations contemplated under a Financing Plan are outstanding, a Regulatory Asset Owner shall not be authorized to merge or consolidate, directly or indirectly, with any person or entity;

d. a Regulatory Asset Owner shall not have the power or authority to incur or guarantee or otherwise become obligated to pay any debt or obligations other than what is contemplated under a Financing Plan;

e. a Regulatory Asset Owner shall cause the proceeds obtained by incurring any Funding Obligation to be placed in one or more separate accounts and used only to purchase the Regulatory Asset and pay any costs as provided for in a Financing Plan; and

f. so long as the Regulatory Asset is pledged to secure Funding Obligations, the Regulatory Asset Owner must apply revenues from the collection of Transition Charges only to repay such Funding Obligations and other costs as provided for in a Financing Plan.

(2) Governance of Regulatory Asset Owner – A Regulatory Asset Owner shall be created having regard to the following principles:[OPG to confirm if SPE will be a trust or another type of entity.]

Re: Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO")

In connection with the accounting advisory work performed by KPMG LLP ("KPMG") for IESO, IESO has requested that KPMG attend a meeting with IESO, the Province of Ontario's Treasury Board Secretariat ("TBS"), and the Recipient, in your capacity as external advisor to TBS, in order to answer your questions related to:

1 IESO's market related activities and their potential adoption of rate regulated accounting; and

2 the interpretation and application of Generally Accepted Accounting Principles regarding regulator independence

(collectively, the "Information").

The Information was derived solely in accordance with the specific terms of reference (the "Engagement Letter") agreed between ourselves and IESO for their exclusive use and for no other purpose.

The Information should not be regarded as suitable for use by any person or persons other than IESO or for any purpose other than set out in the Engagement Letter. We accept no responsibility or liability for any reliance that the Recipient may place on the Information.

You should note that we have not sought to update the Information for events subsequent to [X] and significant events may well have occurred since that date.

In consideration of our providing to the Recipient the Information the parties hereto agree to the following:

a) No one at KPMG is authorized by KPMG to make any representations to the Recipient with respect to IESO. Nor may anyone at KPMG provide the Recipient with the Information on any basis which is inconsistent with or varies or adds to the terms of this letter;

b) KPMG neither warrants nor represents that the Information is accurate, complete, sufficient or appropriate for any purpose contemplated by the Recipient;

c) The Information is not provided pursuant to any agreement or other arrangement of a contractually binding nature between our firm and the Recipient;

d) The Recipient does not acquire any rights against our firm or otherwise as a result of our providing the Information;

e) Our firm and personnel do not have any duties, responsibilities, liabilities or obligations to the Recipient as a result of our providing the Information; and

f) The Recipient will not commence any action, suit or proceeding or make any demand, complaint or claim against us as a result of KPMG providing the Information or for any omission thereto.

Further, the Recipient agrees that the Information will be maintained by them in strict confidence and not disclosed to any other party, and will be used by them only in connection with purpose described above. The Recipient agrees to notify KPMG promptly of any request received by the Recipient from any court or applicable regulatory authority with respect to the Information.

This letter sets out the entire understanding of the parties in relation to the conditions upon which access to the Information is provided and replaces all prior understandings, if any, made by KPMG.

Please indicate your acceptance to the terms of this letter by signing and returning one copy of this letter to the undersigned.

Yours very truly,

In connection with the preparation of a technical accounting paper (the "Accounting Paper") by the Office of the Provincial Controller Division, Treasury Board Secretariat (the "OPC") and their advisors at Ernst & Young LLP ("EY") (OPC and EY collectively being the "Recipients") related to the Fair Hydro Plan, 2017, KPMG LLP ("KPMG") understands that the Recipients have requested a copy of our letter to IESO dated February 12, 2018 regarding the application of PSAS to the consolidation of a trust and to the recognition and derecognition of a variance account in relation to the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Document").

KPMG is prepared to consent to IESO providing the Recipients with a copy of the Document subject to their agreement to the terms of this letter agreement.

The Document was prepared solely in accordance with the specific terms of reference (the "Engagement Letter") agreed between ourselves and IESO for their exclusive use and for no other purpose.

The Document should not be regarded as suitable for use by any person or persons other than the addressees of the Document or for any purpose other than set out in the Engagement Letter. We accept no responsibility or liability for any reliance that the Recipients may place on the Document.

The Recipients should note that we have not sought to update the Document for events subsequent to February 12, 2018 and significant events may well have occurred since that date.

In consideration of IESO providing the Document to the Recipients, the Recipients hereby agrees to the following:

a) No one at KPMG is authorized by KPMG to make any representations to the Recipients with respect to IESO. Nor may anyone at KPMG provide the Recipients with the

b) KPMG neither warrants nor represents that the Document is accurate, complete, sufficient or appropriate for any purpose contemplated by the Recipients;

c) The Document is not provided pursuant to any agreement or other arrangement of a contractually binding nature between our firm and the Recipients;

d) The Recipients do not acquire any rights against our firm or otherwise as a result of our agreement to disclose the Document to the Recipients;

e) Our firm and personnel do not have any duties, responsibilities, liabilities or obligations to the Recipients relating to the Document;

f) The Recipients will not commence any action, suit or proceeding or make any demand, complaint or claim against us relating to the Document; and

g) The Recipients will provide KPMG with a copy of the Accounting Paper as soon as it is available.

Further the Recipients agree that the Document will be maintained by them in strict confidence and not disclosed to any other party, will be used by them only in connection with purpose described above, and that the Recipients will notify KPMG promptly of any request received by Recipients from any court, regulatory authority or other person or entity with respect to the Document.

This letter sets out the entire understanding of the parties in relation to the conditions upon which access to the Document is provided and replaces all prior understandings, if any, made by KPMG.

Please indicate your acceptance to the terms of this letter by signing and returning one copy of this letter to the undersigned.

Dear Madam:

In connection with the Government of Ontario's Fair Hydro Plan, IESO has requested that KPMG LLP ("KPMG") consent to the provision of a copy of our letter to IESO dated February 12, 2018 regarding the application of PSAS to the consolidation of a trust and to the recognition and derecognition of a variance account in relation to the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Document") to the Office of the Provincial Controller, Ontario Treasury Board Secretariat and their advisors at Ernst & Young LLP (collectively, the "Recipients").

We are prepared to agree to IESO providing the Document to the Recipients subject to the Recipients agreeing to KPMG's terms and conditions for such disclosure, and to your agreement to the terms of this letter.

IESO will accept the risk, and not hold KPMG responsible, if providing the Document to the Recipients directly or indirectly results in any actions, damages, claims, fines, penalties, complaints, demands, suits, proceedings, liabilities, costs, expenses, or losses (collectively "Claims") against or to IESO.

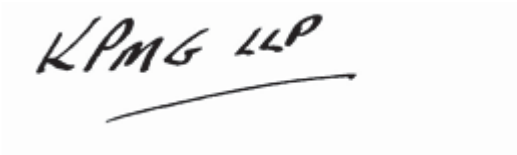
In the event of any Claims by any third party against KPMG that directly or indirectly arise out of or relate to IESO providing a copy of the Document to the Recipients, IESO will indemnify and hold harmless KPMG from all such Claims, including without limitation, reasonable legal fees, except to the extent finally determined to have resulted from intentional, deliberate or fraudulent misconduct of KPMG.

For purposes of this letter, the term KPMG shall include it subsidiaries, its associated and affiliated entities and their respective current and former partners, directors, officers, employees, agents and representatives. This letter shall apply regardless of the form of the Claim, whether in contract, statute, tort (including, without limitation, negligence) or otherwise.

KPMG LLP is a Canadian limited liability partnership and a member firm of the KPMG network of independent member firms affiliated with KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity. KPMG Canada provides services to KPMG LLP.

Please indicate your acceptance to the terms of this letter by signing and returning a copy of this letter to the undersigned.

Yours very truly,



Michel Picard

Hello,

In the interest of time I'm sending to several at once.

Please find below the paragraph provided by Deloitte:

Summary of Deloitte Report

KPMG is the auditor of the IESO. Deloitte was engaged by KPMG to provide its opinion (the “Deloitte Report”) asson whether a public sector entity could use rate regulated accounting under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards (“PSAS”), as established by CPA Canada.

PSAS are silent on the question of how to account for the impacts of rate regulation.

Through an analysis of the guidance provided in PSAS, the Deloitte Report concluded that it is appropriate for a public sector entity to select accounting policies that would result in the recognition of the impacts of rate regulation, by analogy to US accounting standards and the related eligibility criteria on the topic. The Deloitte report further concluded that any regulatory assets and liabilities recognized through the appropriate application of these policies would meet the criteria for recognition under PSAS.

It should be noted, however, that the Deloitte Report did not include in its scope an assessment of the specific regulatory assets or liabilities recognized by the IESO through the application of this accounting policy under PSAS."

At the meeting at E&Y on June 28, the prospect of the IESO funding the Financing Entity's costs in the early years through a regulatory mechanism, as opposed to contract, was raised. Attached is a rough outline of what such a regulatory mechanism may look like. Before discussing this with the Ministry, we would like to understand how this regulatory funding mechanism would be treated from an IESO accounting perspective.

Michael

Regulatory Option for Temporary Funding of Financing Entity's Cost/Interests during Moratorium Period

The following is a potential regulatory mechanism whereby IESO settlement mechanisms would be used to fund the financing entity's costs until the clean energy adjustment may be charged to specified consumers. We want to confirm how this would be treated from an accounting perspective prior to discussing it with the Ministry. Since we have not yet discussed with the Ministry, we do not know whether the government will agree that this mechanism can be implemented with the existing regulatory tools.

1. A regulation could be passed (possibly pursuant to section 26(1) of FHA) requiring IESO, as part of regulatory asset transfer, to fund financing entity's costs/interest in relation to such transferred regulatory asset for the period during which clean energy adjustment may not be recovered directly from specified consumers. The regulation may indicate these funding amounts will be added to the global adjustment (GA) but only allocated to specified consumers (i.e. not form part of GA payable by Class A or Class B consumers who are not also specified consumers under Fair Hydro).
    a. This regulatory funding mechanism would be similar to other existing mechanisms whereby a third party's costs are funded from the GA via IESO settlement processes. For example, section 26.1 of the Ontario Energy Board Act creates a mechanism for IESO to collect costs incurred by the Ministry from consumers. Likewise, section 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, requires the IESO to make payments to distributors with respect to amounts approved by the OEB for CDM programs and to recover such payment amounts from prescribed consumers as part of the GA.

2. A regulation could be passed (or amend O. Reg for 430/04 and/or O. Reg 429/04) pursuant to section 25.33(1)(c) and 25.33(2)(c) of the Electricity Act:

    - prescribing funding amounts incurred/paid for by the IESO pursuant to paragraph 1 above.

    - prescribing specified consumers (as defined in Fair Hydro Act) as class of market participants and class of consumers for which adjustments will be made relating to funding amounts

    - prescribing, as necessary, payment adjustments and variance account treatment

3. If the above regulations were passed, amounts IESO invoices electricity vendors monthly would include each electricity vendor's proportionate share of the funding amount. Proportionate share will likely be determined based on volume of electricity withdrawn by the electricity vendor's specified consumers during that month compared to total electricity withdrawn by all specified consumers in province.

4. Difference between gross amounts billed by IESO to electricity vendors (which include funding amounts referred to above) and net amounts received by IESO from electricity vendors taking into account fair hydro adjustment constitutes IESO deferral (s. 23, FHA and s. 15, O. Reg 206/17).

5. IESO deferral is included in a variance account (s. 24(1), FHA)

6. All amounts in variance account constitute a regulatory asset (s. 25, FHA), which the IESO:

    - may transfer to the financing entity (s. 26(1), FHA)

    - or, if any balance remains in the variance account, recover through OEB-approved rates from specified consumers on or after May 1, 2021 (s. 25, FHA)

Subject: Lawyers proposed wording on IESO funding mechanism

Hi All,

See below for the lawyer's proposed draft on how the language around the funding mechanism is supposed to work. In speaking with them, it sounds like the IESO will have to be contractually obligated to pay the interest and fees to the Trust.

. From July 1, 2017 – April 30, 2021 (the "moratorium period"), it is not expected that any clean energy adjustment amounts will be charged to specified consumers. As a result, there will need to be another source of cash flow to fund financing costs incurred by the financing entity to acquire investment interests during the moratorium period.
2. During the moratorium period, it is proposed that at any time the IESO transfers a specified portion of the regulatory asset to the financing entity (which is expected to occur on a monthly basis), the IESO will, as part of the consideration for the transfer, agree to pay all (i) Funding Costs, (ii) Finance Reserve Deposits, (iii) Expenses and (iv) Tax Liabilities net of Tax Refunds (as such terms are defined in the attached proposed definition of "Finance Amount") which are incurred by the financing entity relating to the purchase of the specified portion of the regulatory asset. (The attached definition of "Finance Amount" is a working draft of what OPG and the Dealers are expecting to be in the Regulations – it is still being reviewed by the Dealers and does not yet reflect any impact of funds coming from IESO through funding rebates or otherwise.)
Any such amounts paid by the IESO to the financing entity are referred to as "funding rebates". These funding rebates can be viewed as inducement payments made by the IESO in order to induce the financing entity to pay par for the regulatory asset in light of the moratorium period.
3. It is expected that the Regulations will provide that concurrent with the payment of any funding rebate by the IESO, the IESO will be entitled to record an amount equal to such funding rebate in the variance account it maintains for the Fair Hydro program. As a result, any funding rebates paid by the IESO will form part of the regulatory asset that may be subsequently transferred to a financing entity (and recoverable by the financing entity through the clean energy adjustment after the moratorium period). We did not discuss how the IESO's carrying costs for providing the funding rebates would be dealt with. One option is that these costs are dealt with in the same way as the carrying costs of the IESO's current credit facility are dealt with; that is, they are socialized among all ratepayers. However, if the carrying costs are to be funded only from Specified Consumers then these IESO costs would also have to be tracked separately and added to the IESO Deferral pursuant to the Regulations. Michel – can you let us know how this proposed wording will impact IESO accounting? Thanks.

No worries, see below.

I refer to my firm's opinion, dated December 21, 2017, attached. This opinion is identical to what you have previously reviewed with the exception that there is a broader list of addressees.

With respect to this opinion I can confirm as follows:

Notwithstanding any language to the contrary in our opinion of even date with respect to certain bankruptcy issues relating to the above-referenced transaction, you are authorized to make available to your auditors such opinion solely as evidential matter in support of their evaluation of management's assertion that the transfer of the specified portion of the regulatory asset pursuant to which the financing entity will acquire a corresponding investment interest (Sections 26 and 27 of the FHP Act) meets the conditions for derecognition under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards, provided a copy of this letter is furnished to them in connection therewith. In authorizing you to make copies of such opinions available to your auditors for such purpose, we are not undertaking or assuming any duty or obligation to your auditors or establishing any lawyer-client relationship with them. Further, we do not undertake or assume any responsibility with respect to financial statements of you or your affiliates.

Dear Sirs:

We have acted as counsel for Independent System Operator (the "IESO") in connection with a Master Transfer and Services Agreement dated December 21, 2017 (the "Master Agreement") entered into between the IESO and Fair Hydro Trust (the "Trust").

The opinions expressed herein relate only to the laws of the Province of Ontario (the "Province") and the federal laws of Canada applicable therein in effect on the date hereof, and no opinions are expressed as to the laws of any other jurisdiction.

Interpretation

Terms with initial capital letters in this opinion have the meanings given to them in the Master Agreement unless otherwise defined herein. Terms both underlined and in italics have the meanings given to them in the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act (the "Act").

Documents

As such counsel, we have participated in the preparation of and examined an executed copy of each of:

(a) the Master Agreement;

(b) a Transfer Notice dated December 21, 2017 executed by the Trust and accepted by the IESO (the "Initial Transfer Notice");

(c) an acknowledgment and indemnity agreement dated December 21, 2017 entered into between the IESO and the Trust (the "Indenture Trustee") (the "Acknowledgment"); and

(d) a security agreement dated December 21, 2017 made by the IESO in favour of the Trust (the "Security Agreement").

The Master Agreement and the Initial Transfer Notice are referred to as the "Initial Transfer Documents." The Initial Transfer Documents, the Acknowledgment and the Security Agreement are referred to as the "Documents".

Assumptions

For the purposes of the opinions expressed herein, we have assumed:

(a) the genuineness of all signatures of all parties and the legal capacity of all individuals signing any documents;

(b) the authenticity of all documents submitted to us as originals, the conformity to originals of all documents submitted to us as certified or photostatic or electronically transmitted copies or facsimiles thereof and the authenticity of the originals of such certified, photostatic or electronically transmitted copies or facsimiles;

(c) that each of the parties, other than the IESO, to the Documents has all requisite capacity, power and authority to execute and deliver the Documents and to perform its obligations thereunder, and has taken all necessary action to authorize the execution and delivery of each of the Documents and the performance of its obligations thereunder;

(d) the Trust has all requisite capacity, power and authority to acquire and hold an investment asset;

(e) that each of the parties, other than the IESO, to the Documents has duly executed and delivered the Documents;

(f) that each of the Documents is a legal, valid and binding obligation of each of the parties thereto, other than the IESO, enforceable against each such party by each other party thereto, in accordance with its terms;

(g) that, as at the date of the Transfer specified in the Initial Transfer Notice, all of the conditions precedent to a "Transfer" under the Master Agreement have been satisfied or waived;

(h) that the Trust is a financing entity;

(i) that the parties to the Security Agreement have not agreed orally or in any written agreement to postpone the time for attachment of any security interest expressed to have been created under the Security Agreement;

(j) that the property and assets subject to security interests created by the Security Agreement do not include consumer goods (as defined in the Personal Property Security Act (Ontario) (the "PPSA");

(k) that the Act and the regulations thereunder (the "Regulations", and together with the Act, the "Fair Hydro Legislation") are constitutional, have been duly enacted and are in full force and effect and in the event of any conflict or inconsistency between the Fair Hydro Legislation and any other legislation, guidelines or rules, such inconsistency will be resolved in favour of the Fair Hydro Legislation;

(l) the IESO has received payment by the Trust pursuant to the Initial Transfer Notice of an amount equal to the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice;

(m) the value of the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice is not greater than the consideration received for it by the IESO.

For greater certainty, a specific assumption, limitation or qualification in this opinion is not to be interpreted to restrict the generality of an assumption, limitation or qualification expressed in general terms that include the subject matter of the specific assumption, limitation or qualification.

Searches

We have conducted, or have caused to be conducted, the searches identified in Schedule "A" for filings or registrations made in those offices of public record, as of December 19, 2017. These searches were conducted in respect of the current name of the IESO. The results of these searches are set out in Schedule "A".

Opinions

Based on and subject to the foregoing and the assumptions and qualifications set out at the end of this opinion, we are of the opinion that:

1. The IESO is a corporation without share capital continued under Part II of the Electricity Act.

2. The IESO has the necessary corporate power and authority to execute and deliver the Documents and to perform its obligations thereunder.

3. All necessary corporate action has been taken to authorize the execution and delivery of the Documents by the IESO and the performance of its obligations thereunder.

4. The Documents have been duly executed and delivered on behalf of the IESO.

5. Each of the Documents constitutes a legal, valid and binding obligation of the IESO, enforceable against the IESO in accordance with its terms.

6. The execution and delivery by the IESO of the Documents and the performance by the IESO of its obligations thereunder, and the performance by IESO of its obligations thereunder, do not and will not violate or result in a breach of any statute or regulation of the Province or of Canada that is applicable therein.

7. The execution and delivery by the IESO of the Documents and the performance of its obligations thereunder do not require the IESO to obtain any consent, authorization or approval of any governmental authority or any court or tribunal, in the Province, or to make any filing or provide any notice to any such entity, other than such consents and approvals as have been obtained or filings or notices that have been made, in each case copies of which have been provided to you.

8. The Security Agreement creates a valid security interest in favour of the Trust in the personal property described in the Security Agreement as being subject to a security interest (the "Collateral") in which the IESO now has rights and is sufficient to create a valid security interest in favour of the Trust in any such Collateral in which the IESO acquires rights after the date of this opinion when those rights are acquired by the IESO, in each case to secure payment and performance of the obligations described in the Security Agreement as being secured by it.

9. Registration has been made in all public offices provided for under the laws of Ontario where such registration is necessary at this time to perfect the security interests created by the Security Agreement with respect to the personal property of the IESO and particulars of the registration are set forth in Schedule "B" hereto.

10. Section 26(3) of the Act provides that upon receipt by the IESO of payment by the Trust pursuant to the Initial Transfer Notice of an amount equal to the portion of the IESO's regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice, (a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment; (b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly; (c) the Trust shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and (d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.

11. Section 27(1) of the Act, provides that a transfer in favour of the Trust of a specified portion of a regulatory asset under Section 26 of the Act constitutes a "valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale by the IESO to the Trust of the corresponding investment interest". Pursuant to Section 27(3) and (4) of the Act such transfer "shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the IESO", regardless of whether such persons having claims "have received notice of the transfer, and the property rights and interests acquired by the Trust in the corresponding investment interest shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons".

Insolvency

For the purposes of our opinions below, "Insolvency Statutes" means the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (Canada) (the "BIA"), the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (Canada) (the "CCAA"), the Assignments and Preferences Act (Ontario), the Winding-Up and Restructuring Act (Canada) (the "WURA") and the Fraudulent Conveyances Act (Ontario).

For purposes of our opinions in paragraphs 12 and 13 below, we have assumed that,

(a) the IESO is not an insolvent person, in insolvent circumstances or on the eve of or in contemplation of insolvency or unable to meet its engagements, as applicable, within the meaning of any of the Insolvency Statutes;

(b) the IESO will not become an insolvent person or be put in insolvent circumstances or become unable to meet its engagements, as applicable, within the meaning of any of the Insolvency Statutes by entering into, or immediately after completing the transactions contemplated by the Documents;

(c) there has not been filed by or in respect of the IESO a petition for a receiving order, an assignment in bankruptcy, a notice of intention to file a proposal in bankruptcy, a proposal, an application to hold a meeting of creditors, an application seeking to propose a plan to creditors or an application seeking to obtain a stay, or any similar proceedings under any of the Insolvency Statutes;

(d) at the date of the transfer, no person shall have assumed control of any portion of the regulatory asset through execution, attachment, garnishment, charging order, equitable execution or other legal process;

(e) the IESO has entered into the Initial Transfer Documents for the purpose of effecting a transfer of the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice in return for payment by the Trust of an amount equal to the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice;

(f) the IESO has entered into the Documents in good faith and not with a view to giving the Trust or any other person a preference over creditors of the IESO and not for the purpose or with the intent of injuring, obstructing, impeding, defeating, hindering, delaying, prejudicing or defrauding the rights and claims of Creditors or others against the IESO, providing payment or security for payment to the Trust or for any other purpose relating in any way to the claims of Creditors or others against the IESO; and

(g) the (i) consideration given by the Trust for the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice represents fair and reasonable value for such portion of the regulatory asset as at the time of the transfer; and (ii) lesser of the value and fair market value of such consideration is not less than the approximate value or fair market value of such portion of the regulatory asset as at the time of the transfer.

For purposes of our opinion in paragraph 13 below we have assumed that,

(a) the IESO is not a party to any agreement with the Trust under which the Trust would be legally responsible for the obligations of the IESO;

(b) the creditors of the Trust will on a timely basis oppose any attempt to obtain (and will not consent to) the substantive consolidation of the assets and liabilities of the Trust with the assets and liabilities of the IESO and the creditors of the Trust would be materially prejudiced by substantive consolidation; and

(c) the IESO will not be involved in the day-to-day management of the Trust;

(d) the IESO will maintain separate organizational records and books of account from the Trust;

(e) the IESO's consolidated financial statements made available to the public will not consolidate the Trust;

(f) the IESO will maintain its funds and assets separately from the assets of the Trust, and, except for current collections not yet remitted to the Trust, the Trust's assets, funds, and records relating thereto, have not been, are not, and will not be, commingled with those of the IESO or any other Person;

(g) none of the Trust's business correspondence and other communications will be conducted in the name of the IESO;

(h) except as servicer under the Master Agreement and the Fair Hydro Legislation, the IESO will not act as an agent for the Trust, and will not present itself to the public as an agent for the Trust and will present itself as a legal entity separate from the Trust;

(i) the IESO will not directly pay any liabilities of the Trust out of its own funds or assets;

(j) the IESO will not assume or guarantee or become obligated for the debts of the Trust; and

(k) except pursuant to the Fair Hydro Legislation, the IESO will not enter into, or be a party to, any transaction with the Trust, except in the ordinary course of its business and on terms which are intrinsically fair and not less favorable to it than would be obtained in a comparable arm's-length transaction with an unrelated third party.

12. The transfer by the IESO of the specified portion of the regulatory asset provided for in the Initial Transfer Notice would not be declared void or be set aside by a court as a preference or a fraudulent conveyance upon the application of a Creditor pursuant to the applicable preferences and fraudulent conveyances provisions of any of the Insolvency Statutes and would not be held by a court to constitute a transfer at undervalue under the Insolvency Statutes.

13. The Trust is a separate entity from the IESO, and absent an agreement to the contrary or a further transfer of the investment interest, (i) in a bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding under the Insolvency Statutes in relation to the IESO, the corresponding investment interest would not constitute property of the IESO within the meaning of the applicable Insolvency Statutes (ii) the Trust would not be legally responsible for the general obligations of the IESO and (iii) creditors of the IESO could not look successfully to the corresponding investment interest to satisfy a claim which they may have against the IESO.

Assumptions, Limitations and Qualifications

The foregoing opinions are subject to the following assumptions, limitations and qualifications:

(a) with respect to opinions 1 to 11, inclusive, enforceability of the rights and remedies provided in the Documents may be limited by bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, arrangement, fraudulent preference and conveyance, transfer at undervalue, assignment and preference and other similar laws of general application relating to or affecting creditors' rights;

(b) the availability of equitable remedies, including, without limitation, the remedies of specific performance and injunctive relief, may only be granted in the discretion of a court of competent jurisdiction;

(c) indemnification provisions set out in any of the Documents may be unenforceable to the extent that a court decides that any payment required thereunder would derogate from the court's discretion in respect of indemnified amounts, or would be inconsistent with the court's determination by whom and to what extent indemnified amounts shall be paid;

(d) the awarding of costs of or incidental to proceedings authorized to be taken in court or before a judge are in the discretion of the court or judge and the court or judge has the full power to determine by whom and to what extent such costs shall be paid;

(e) the provisions contained in any of the Documents which purport to sever any provision therein which is prohibited or unenforceable under applicable law without affecting the enforceability or validity of the remainder of such Agreement would be enforced only to the extent that a court determined that such prohibited or unenforceable provision could be severed without impairing the interpretation and application of the remainder of such Document;

(f) the effectiveness of terms exculpating a party from a liability or duty otherwise owed by it to another may be limited by law;

(g) enforcement may be limited to the extent that a court construes any provision of the Documents to constitute a penalty or forfeiture;

(h) the records or a certificate, determination, notification or opinion of a party to the Documents as to any matter provided for in the Documents may be held by a court not to be conclusive if it can be shown to have an unreasonable or arbitrary basis or in the event of manifest error;

(i) a court may give effect to waivers or amendments notwithstanding that they are not in writing and executed by the parties;

(j) no opinion is expressed as to the enforceability of Section 7.2 of the Master Agreement (i) as it relates to the right of the Trust to appoint a Successor Servicer by reason that the IESO is insolvent or that a notice of intention or a proposal has been filed in respect of the IESO pursuant to the BIA; or (ii) in the face of any applicable order made by a court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to the CCAA;

Stikeman Elliott

(k) the Personal Property Security Act (Ontario) may affect the enforcement of certain rights and remedies under the Initial Transfer Documents and the Security Agreement to the extent that these rights and remedies are inconsistent with or contrary to such legislation;

(l) we express no opinion as to the creation or perfection of a security interest in, nor have we effected any registrations or given any notices in respect of, any security interest in any property to which the PPSA does not apply pursuant to Section 4 of the PPSA;

(m) we express no opinion as to (i) the title of the IESO to any property; or (ii) the rank or priority of any security interest created by the Security Agreement;

(n) we express no opinion as to whether any security interest is created by the Security Agreement with respect to any property or assets which are not identifiable or traceable;

(o) no opinion is expressed with respect to the effectiveness of any covenant of any party to any Document not to institute bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency or liquidation proceedings or take any action to appoint a receiver or order the winding-up or liquidation of another Person;

(p) no opinion is expressed as to compliance with the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (Canada) or any other privacy laws; and

(q) the enforceability of the Agreements is subject to the limitations contained in the Limitations Act, 2002 (Ontario).

This opinion is given in connection with the transactions contemplated by the Agreements, for the benefit of the addressees, and is not to be relied upon for any other purposes or by any other party (except the permitted assigns of the addressees), nor is it to be quoted from or made public in any way, without our prior written consent.

Yours truly,

Stikeman Elliott LLP

What would be the impact if IESO was not allowed to recognize a regulatory asset?

Assuming that the right is sold to OPG on a daily basis, then IESO would have an expense for the energy cost and a revenue for the sale of an unrecognized right for the same amount. Since IESO is acting as an agent then the revenue and expense would be shown net.

Kim,

Further to our meeting of today, I have the following comments:

1. Based on the following requirements, I believe IESO can only recognize a regulatory asset if the activities are rate regulated i.e. meet the criteria in par. 15-2.

980-10-15-2 The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:

a. A) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers. [Is this test met – maybe another body could regulate the GAM recovery but it needs to be a body that meet the requirements in 980-10-15-7 below)

b. b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form. If an entity's regulated rates are based on the costs of a group of entities and the entity is so large in relation to the group of entities that its costs are, in essence, the group's costs, the regulation would meet this criterion for that entity.

c. C) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs. This last criterion is not intended as a requirement that the entity earn a fair return on shareholders' investment under all conditions; an entity can earn less than a fair return for many reasons unrelated to the ability to bill and collect rates that will recover allowable costs<https://workspaces.ema.kworld.kpmg.com/aro/AROWeb/documentwindow.aspx?from=Doc&ref=US_FASB_COD_TOC_980_10&sec=4&q=&csw=>. For example, mild weather might reduce demand for energy utility services. In that case, rates that were expected to recover an entity's allowable costs might not do so. The resulting decreased earnings do not demonstrate an inability to charge and collect rates that would recover the entity's costs; rather, they demonstrate the uncertainty inherent in estimating weather conditions. This requirement must also be evaluated in light of the circumstances. For example, if the entity has an exclusive franchise to provide regulated services or products in an area and competition from other services or products is minimal, there is usually a reasonable expectation that it will continue to meet the other criteria. Exclusive franchises can be revoked, but they seldom are. If the entity has no exclusive franchise but has made the very large capital investment required to provide either the regulated services or products or an acceptable substitute, future competition also may be unlikely.

2. As indicated in par. 15-4, if the “market books” are not rate regulated then IESO cannot adopt regulatory accounting – ie cannot recognize regulatory assets. I was under the impression that the RPP variance accounts were approved by the OEB. Today, I learned that they are not.

980-10-15-4 If some of an entity's operations are regulated and meet the criteria of paragraph 980-10-15-2, this Topic shall be applied to only that portion of the entity's operations.

3. According to 5-08, IESO needs an accounting order from a regulator.

980-10-05-8 Unless an accounting order indicates the way a cost will be handled for rate-making purposes, it causes no economic effects that would justify deviation from the GAAP applicable to business entities in general. The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP.

4. According to 15-7, you need a regulator that is not a party to the contract.

<image003.png>980-10-15-7 The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic does not apply to any of the following transactions:

a. <image003.png>a) Accounting for price controls that are imposed by governmental action in times of emergency, high inflation, or other unusual conditions, or accounting for contracts in general. However, if the terms of a contract between an entity and its customer are subject to regulation and the criteria of paragraph 980-10-15-2 are met with respect to that contract, the guidance in this Topic shall apply.

b. C) The criterion in paragraph 980-10-15-2(a)<https://workspaces.ema.kworld.kpmg.com/aro/AROWeb/documentwindow.aspx?from=Doc&ref=US_FASB_COD_TOC_980_10&sec=4&q=&csw=#US_FASB_ASC_980_010_15_2> is intended to exclude contractual arrangements in which the government, or another party that could be viewed as a regulator, is a party to a contract and is the entity's principal customer.

5. I am not sure how to read this next par.

980-10-05-7 Accounting requirements that are not directly related to the economic effects of rate actions may be imposed on regulated businesses by orders of regulatory authorities and occasionally by court decisions or statutes. This does not necessarily mean that those accounting requirements conform with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP). For example, a regulatory authority may order an entity to capitalize<https://workspaces.ema.kworld.kpmg.com/aro/AROWeb/documentwindow.aspx?from=Doc&ref=US_FASB_COD_TOC_980_10&sec=4&q=&csw=> and amortize a cost that would be charged to income currently by an unregulated entity. Unless capitalization of that cost is appropriate under this Topic, GAAP requires the regulated entity to charge the cost to current income.

I still believe that absent a rate regulator or a governing body approving the rates, then there is no recognition of regulatory asset.

Since the MOE can change the rule, I would suggest that the OEB Act be amended requiring the OEB to oversee the GAM recovery.

Can we discuss over the weekend?

Cindy, Nadine,

We had a meeting with the OEB today. They do not believe they have a role to play in the review of the GAM recovery if the legislation is not leaving any room for them to regulate.

See my comments below on the analysis.

This will be discussed on Monday. Happy to chat before if needed.

Introduction and Context

This Report describes the policy of the Ontario Energy Board (OEB) for the regulatory treatment of the cost of pensions and other post-employment benefits (OPEBs) incurred by rate-regulated Ontario energy utilities as part of the overall compensation paid to their employees. Specifically, this Report addresses the manner in which approved pension and OPEB costs are recovered from customers, and establishes principles for the review of the level of these costs for future rate proceedings.

Ontario energy utilities, such as electricity and natural gas distributors and Ontario Power Generation, recover their labour costs in the rates or charges their customers pay. The compensation packages utilities offer their employees include pension plans and OPEBs such as health and dental care. The OEB, consumer advocates and the general public have raised concerns about the generosity of the pensions and benefits offered by utilities.

It is not the role of the OEB to design or require a particular compensation package that utilities must offer. It is the role of the OEB to ensure that the costs that go into the rates paid by customers are reasonable. In deciding what is reasonable, the OEB has to consider present and future ratepayers, as well as the financial health of the utilities. Customers are not well served if a utility cannot afford to maintain reliable service or if they are unable to attract employees with the necessary skills to operate and manage the utility.

This Report does not address the magnitude or level of these costs. The longer term intention of the OEB is to use benchmarking, comparing a utility's proposed costs to those of similar businesses, to assess whether costs are reasonable. The labour costs of utilities, whether outsourced or internal, could be compared to the labour costs of others in the energy industry, and to businesses with employees with comparable skill sets outside the energy industry. The determinations made in this Report are intended to facilitate benchmarking, or at least not to hinder it.

This Report is the conclusion of the consultation on the issues identified by the OEB regarding the recovery of utility pension and OPEB expense. The materials from the consultation are available on the OEB's website. This Report provides principles to guide the review of the costs, addresses mechanisms by which costs are to be presented to the OEB, and considers customer protection from the risk of over-charging both now and in the future.

In summary, this Report establishes the use of the accrual accounting method as the default method on which to set rates for pension and OPEB amounts in cost-based[1] applications. A panel of the OEB can use another method if accrual accounting does not result in just and reasonable rates. This Report also provides for the establishment of a variance account to track the difference between the forecasted accrual amount in rates and actual cash payment(s) made, with an asymmetric carrying charge in favour of ratepayers applied to the differential. The variance account will be effective from the 1st of the month following issuance of this Report, unless otherwise ordered by the OEB.

For some utilities, the OEB has set rates using the cash method and used variance accounts to keep these prior periods open to further adjustments pending the outcome of this consultation. For these utilities, disposition of the variance account would be considered in the next cost-based rate application, if the OEB approves the accrual method to recover pension and OPEB costs in rates. In addition, the new variance account provided for in this Report will be effective upon a transition to the accrual method (if approved) as of the date of a utility's next cost-based rate order.

The OEB will continue to assess compensation strategies in cost-based applications when establishing revenue requirements. As the OEB updates filing requirements for utility rate applications, it will consider the extent to which additional information filings are required to support the assessment of pension and OPEB costs as part of a utility's total cost of compensation.

Principles and Practices

The regulatory principles developed in this Report are intended to guide the OEB, rate regulated utilities, and other stakeholders in evaluating proposals for the recovery of pension and OPEB costs in rates and charges. The OEB reviewed three main sources in establishing the principles:

- Principles put forward by KPMG in a report prepared for the OEB consultation (see Appendix B for consultation process)
- Submissions made by participants in the consultation
- Principles enunciated by the OEB in its Report of the Board: Transition to International Financial Reporting Standards

The OEB has concluded that there is no need for separate and distinct principles to guide its approach to the treatment of utility pension and OPEB costs. The regulatory treatment of pension and OPEB costs will be based on established regulatory principles. These principles are:

- fairness
- minimizing intergenerational inequity
- minimizing rate volatility
- appropriate allocation of risk
- transparency
- providing value to customers

The OEB believes that adherence to these principles should achieve a stable, reasonable and efficient level of these costs for ratepayers, and a predictable and fair level of recovery of these costs by utilities. The objective of approving or setting just and reasonable rates will continue to be the primary driver of the regulatory treatment of pension and OPEB costs. The OEB has and will retain the authority to establish regulatory requirements and rate setting methods consistent with these principles.

The policy of the OEB for reviewing utility pension and OPEB costs will be based on principles, and supported by best practices. The OEB will adopt the following practices in its treatment of these costs:

> The regulatory treatment of pension and OPEB costs will be aligned with the financial accounting treatment of these costs where that alignment is consistent with sound rate-making principles and the setting of just and reasonable rates.

The OEB will generally keep its choice of regulatory treatment of pension and OPEB costs (e.g. method used to determine recovery) consistent over time for any given utility.

The OEB, when assessing the reasonableness of pension and OPEB costs, will consider the entire compensation package of a utility, and will in the future be developing more detailed benchmarking for utility costs.

Description of Recovery Methods

A. Pensions

Pension plans are generally identified as Defined Benefit (DB) or Defined Contribution (DC) plans. In a DB plan, the benefits are defined – the amount to be paid out to the retiree is guaranteed. In a DC plan, the amount to be paid out is not guaranteed. It is the contribution which is defined. The eventual payout will depend on the monies accumulated through the contributions made and the returns generated over time.

Pension plans may be multi-employer or single employer. Enbridge Gas Distribution Inc., Union Gas Ltd., Ontario Power Generation Inc., the Independent Electricity System Operator, Hydro One Networks Inc. and some other utilities have single employer plans. Some of these utilities have DB plans, and others a mix of DB and DC plans.

The Pension Benefits Act (PBA) establishes minimum standards for registered pension plans in Ontario, including entitlements under the plan, plan administration and funding. For DB pension plans in particular, the PBA mandates that these plans must be funded; in other words, the plan's assets must be sufficient to pay for its liabilities, as determined by a triennial actuarial valuation. The PBA requirements, however, do not apply to non-registered pension plans such as supplemental employee retirement pension plans. For these types of plans, cash payments are often paid directly from the employer to the plan beneficiaries.

Most municipally-owned electricity distributors are under a multi-employer plan, the Ontario Municipal Employees Retirement System (OMERS) Plan. While OMERS is a DB plan, for accounting purposes, it is effectively treated as a DC plan by the participating distributors. This means that the annual employer contributions made to the plan are the same as the accrual accounting expense recorded for financial statement purposes. OMERS determines the level of contribution required from each of the participating organizations and all plan risks are borne and shared by its participating organizations and the organizations' employees.

Currently, there are two main ways in which pension costs are recovered in rates.

Accrual accounting is the method required for financial statement reporting purposes and is based on the underlying accounting standard for pension costs. On an accrual accounting basis, pension expenses are incurred and recognized when an employee's service is rendered and the benefit is earned, not when the actual benefit payments are made to retirees, nor when the contributions to the plan are made by the employer. Amounts recovered in rates represent the estimated cost of the benefits earned by a utility's employees in a given year as determined by an accounting based actuarial valuation.

The second method used to recover pension costs is the funding contribution method, sometimes referred to as the "cash" method. Under this method, costs recovered are based on estimated annual employer contributions to the pension plan, calculated through an actuarial funding valuation. The funding valuation calculates the annual contribution necessary to fund the future pension liabilities. It is prepared in accordance with the requirements of the PBA and the assumptions and methods recommended by the actuary as discussed with the management of the utility.

Since most electricity distributors in Ontario participate in the OMERS pension plan, they are not affected by the accrual versus funding contribution debate for recovery of pension costs. As OMERS is accounted for as a DC plan for financial statement reporting purposes, the annual contributions made to the plan (funding contribution method) will equal the accrual accounting cost (accrual method).

However, for those utilities that have single employer pension plans, the difference between the costs calculated under the accrual method and the funding contribution method can be significant (see example in Appendix A to this Report). While these utilities must record the amounts generated by the accrual method in their financial statements, there is no requirement that the OEB must set rates to recover the accrual amount. Because of the current economic situation with persistent low interest rates and other factors, for some utilities with single employer DB plans, the actuarial accounting valuations have led to an accrual number that is higher than the number calculated on a funding contribution basis. However, there is no guarantee that this trend will continue in the future.

The OEB's consultant, KPMG, put forward a third method for recovering pension costs in the rates of utilities with single employer DB or mixed plans. This "modified funding contribution" method uses a subset of the costs included in a utility's required funding contribution as governed by the PBA, along with a deferral account for the remainder (which may include any voluntary payments that a utility may wish to include for strategic reasons[2]).

[2] The strategic reasons typically include consideration of such factors as: the corporate tax benefits, market risk management strategy for fund assets, lower Pension Benefits Guarantee Fund fees and the potential to avoid the necessity of an annual funding valuation. (KMPG Report, page 26)

B. OPEBs

Most Ontario energy utilities recover their OPEB costs based on the accrual method. This method, as for pensions, recognizes the cost of OPEBs as an employee's service is rendered and the benefit is earned. An alternative is the cash or "pay-as-you-go" method, in which the OPEB costs for a given year are based on what the utility actually pays to retired employees (or more likely, pays in premiums to an insurer) for OPEBs. The cash method fails to consider the level of post-retirement benefits that a current employee has earned in a given year. Along with the absence of a funding plan, this means that the difference between the OPEB costs calculated under the accrual method and the cash method can be significant for some utilities (see example in Appendix A to this Report).

Some utilities that do not incur material amounts of OPEB costs may not conduct actuarial valuations for accounting purposes, and therefore the OPEB expense reported on their financial statements may be equivalent to the pay-as-you-go amount.

KPMG also put forward a potential third method for recovering OPEB costs in the rates of utilities, the "adjusted pay-as-you-go" method. Under this approach, the cash method would be the starting point and would then be increased by an additional amount that is established by the OEB. KPMG suggested that this additional amount could be based on an approach such as the annual amortization of OPEB costs that are included in Other Comprehensive Income plus a portion of the OPEB costs determined using the accrual accounting method.

Policy of the OEB

A. Accrual Method

The OEB will use the pension and OPEB amounts determined through accrual accounting in rate-setting, unless that method does not result in just and reasonable rates. If the accrual accounting method is used, a variance account will be used to track the difference between the forecasted accrual amount in rates and actual cash payment(s) made. An asymmetric carrying charge sub-account in favour of ratepayers will be used, for the reasons given in the next section.

Aligning regulatory treatment with the financial accounting treatment of the costs supports using the accrual method as the default method for calculating the amount of pension and OPEB costs to go into rates. However, OEB panels are not bound by this policy to use the accrual method for rate-setting if the use of that method produces a result that is not just and reasonable in the circumstances of any given utility. The principles enunciated above can assist the OEB and stakeholders in determining the best method for setting rates.

Utilities currently on the accrual method, and proposing to remain on accrual for rate-setting, are not required to justify the use of that method, but must still file the evidence required by the OEB to support the quantum . The approved accrual amount embedded in rates is not expected to change or escalate during an IRM or Custom IR term expect in cases where in a Custom IR term, updated forecasts for subsequent years of the term were approved. The OEB has determined that the actual cash payments (including any special payments for pensions), should be supported by an objective source such as an actuarial report or audited financial statements.

The result of setting rates based on the accrual method could be unacceptable in some cases. As setting just and reasonable rates is the primary driver of the regulatory treatment of pension and OPEB costs, providing value to customers and assuring fairness to both present and future ratepayers is a necessary component of the regulatory treatment of pension and OPEB costs.

Utilities proposing to set rates using a method other than accrual must support such a proposal with evidence giving consideration to these factors, and the principles and practices enunciated in this Report. The intended practice of maintaining a consistent method used to determine recovery over time may be one reason for not adopting the accrual method for rate setting. Stability and predictability in regulation are desirable unless unintended and undesirable effects occur.

The issues raised by transitioning between recovery methods may be serious and difficult to resolve fairly, whether the transition is from or to the accrual method. For example, a change to the cash method could involve a difficult calculation to determine the cumulative amount that a regulated utility has already recovered from customers in the rates charged to date, compared to what would have been collected in the rates to date had these amounts been recovered using the cash method (the cumulative difference to date). The KPMG Report refers to this cumulative difference to date as a potential "windfall" for regulated entities because customers could end up paying for the same cost twice[3].

The OEB is of the view that if a particular case demonstrates that a transition is necessary to set just and reasonable rates and the transition issues are manageable for that particular utility, it is open to a panel to require a transition to a recovery mechanism suitable for that utility's particular circumstances. In such a case, the OEB could require the utility to calculate the cumulative difference to date for disposition.

Having considered the modified funding contribution method for pensions and the adjusted pay-as-you-go method for OPEBs, the OEB has determined that these methods are complicated and involve significant judgement on the part of the regulator. The OEB finds that the accrual method, supplemented with a mechanism to address over-collection, is the best alternative for most Ontario utilities[4].

While consistency in the choice of recovery method among utilities might be desirable, the movement towards greater benchmarking is not compromised if an inconsistency exists. Benchmarking will be performed on the basis of the figures in utility financial statements, not the amount that is collected in rates in a given year. In addition, pension and OPEB costs are one part of the compensation package offered by a utility and therefore only a portion of its labour costs. The OEB intends to compare costs at a higher level than the pension and OPEB amounts.

B. Variance Tracking Account

The difference between the costs calculated under the accrual method and the cash payment(s) made in a specific time period (e.g. a year) can be significant. There is no guarantee that any particular method will produce a lower cost in a given year.[5] Whatever method is selected on which to base cost recovery, the principles of fairness, appropriate allocation of risk, and value to customers dictate that some response to over-collection should be part of the OEB's regulatory treatment of pension and OPEB costs.

[3] KPMG Report, pages 37-38 (pensions) and 78 (OPEBs)

[4] In its submission, the IESO stated that due to its unique nature and structure as a not-for-profit entity, it does not believe it is practical or beneficial to ratepayers for the OEB to apply the same reporting (and recovery) methods as it may determine for other enterprises with share capital. The OEB is of the view that the IESO is a rate regulated entity and the extent that the mechanism established in this Report (or an alternative mechanism that meets the spirit of this policy) should apply to the IESO will be reviewed and determined in the IESO's next fees case.

Where pension and OPEB amounts collected in rates are higher than payments made by the utility, current ratepayers are in effect lending money to the utility to fund future obligations. KPMG suggested four possible methods to provide value to customers for this loan. Two methods dealt with over-collection and the other two dealt with ensuring solvency. The solvency issue, which primarily concerns OPEBs, is dealt with in the next section of this Report. The two mechanisms suggested for over-collection were a regulatory variance tracking account that attracts carrying charges which would be returned to ratepayers and a reduction to rate base by an amount equivalent to the excess recoveries.

The OEB finds that using a variance account is preferable to adjusting rate base, given the principles established in this Report. A reduction to rate base results in a return to ratepayers at a utility's weighted average cost of capital, which may not be an accurate reflection of what a utility's borrowing cost would be at a point in time. As current ratepayers are in effect lending money to the utility to fund future obligations, the tracking account option would provide the OEB with flexibility to ensure that the value being returned to ratepayers is fair, that it reasonably approximates what the utility would pay for a loan made against its borrowing capacity, and that is within the utility's debt capacity. The OEB also finds that the use of a tracking account provides for greater transparency to facilitate the eventual disposition of the carrying charges.

The application of the carrying charges will be asymmetric, similar to the asymmetric approaches established by the OEB from time to time for capital cost variances and earnings sharing mechanisms. The utility will not be compensated for under-recoveries unless the financial viability of the utility would be compromised by such an arrangement.

The account will be established at a point in time, and for most utilities it is difficult to know with certainty whether over- or under-collection occurred in the past. Whatever the past trends, the utilities had and continue to have, significant control over the costs of their pension and OPEB plans: they design their compensation structure, negotiate collective bargaining agreements, and have input on the actuarial assumptions upon which the costs in the financial statements are based. Ratepayers are required to pay the rates the OEB approves based on a review of information filed by the utilities. Therefore, where the amount collected in rates exceeds the monies paid out by a utility for its pension and OPEB plans, ratepayers should be paid a return on the money they have "lent" the utility.

[5] See example in Appendix A

A control variance account (with appropriate sub-accounts) will be established on a generic basis effective on the 1st of the month following the issuance of this Report, to be used by all rate regulated utilities subject to the parameters outlined in Appendix C. The variance account will act as a tracking account and only carrying charges applied to the account will be subject to disposition. Utility-specific accounting orders will not be required for the use of this account. Guidance is provided with respect to journal entries in Appendix D. It is open to panels of the OEB in future rate applications to issue revised accounting orders if the evidence in a particular case requires deviations from this policy.

For some utilities, the OEB approved the recovery of their pension and OPEB costs on a cash basis as an interim measure pending the outcome of this pension and OPEB consultation. Variance accounts were used to capture the difference between the cash and accrual methods in order to keep the period open for final adjustments once the outcome of the consultation was known. These utilities are required to continue to record amounts into the previously approved account(s) until the effective date of a utility's next cost-based rate order. Utilities will be expected to dispose of the account(s) at their next cost-based application[6] if the OEB approves the accrual method to recover pension and OPEB costs in rates. The affected utilities may have to consider mitigation measures if the net impact on ratepayers from the disposition of these accounts is significant. Presuming that the OEB orders that these utilities will recover costs for that interim period based on the accrual method, they will be required to credit to ratepayers the carrying charges on the balance on a prospective basis. Appendix C of this Report provides guidance as to how this is to be done.

These utilities are also required to begin recording entries in the new variance account, effective from the date that the utilities' rates are set based on the accrual amount for pensions and OPEBs (i.e. typically the effective date of the rate order of its next cost-based application).

[6] This will depend on the timing of a cost-based application (cost of service or Custom IR) and the availability of audited financial statements to support balances.

C. Interest Rate

Carrying charges on the new tracking account will be assessed on the monthly opening account balance at the OEB's prescribed Construction Work In Progress (CWIP) rate. Several different interest rate options were considered in this consultation ranging from the low end of the OEB's prescribed rate for deferral and variance accounts (currently at 1.1%) to a utility's weighted average cost of capital (WACC), which may be in the 6.5% range for most utilities. The OEB views the prescribed CWIP rate (currently at 2.81%) as establishing a balance between the longer term nature of financial loans and investments required to support pension and OPEB costs and the shorter term nature of the time required for a utility to carry any differential between the accrual and cash amounts (typically five years at the maximum).

The OEB is of the view that ideally, the CWIP rate (representing more of a mid-term rate) could apply for amounts expensed, while a utility's WACC could apply for amounts that a utility may capitalize. However, this approach may not provide sufficient incremental value to justify the added complexity of tracking amounts that are capitalized separately from those that are expensed. Utilities are instead expected to track the gross cost flowing from their actuarial valuations. Utilities that do experience a material impact due to the capitalization of a significant portion of pensions and OPEBs may propose an enhanced methodology for determining the account balance and the appropriate carrying charge to be applied.

D. Accounting Frameworks

As noted in the KPMG report, a utility's accounting framework would affect the level of accrual expense a utility recognizes for its pension and OPEBs. This is partially due to the difference in the accounting treatment of actuarial gains and losses, which are the gains and losses that arise from experience adjustments and changes in actuarial assumptions. Under United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles, a utility can choose to recognize these gains and losses immediately in net income, or initially in Other Comprehensive Income (OCI) and then amortize them into net income over time. Under International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS), a utility must recognize all actuarial gains and losses in OCI, but these amounts are never amortized into net income. Under Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises, all actuarial gains and losses are immediately recognized in net income. As the pension and OPEBs accrual amount that is recovered in rates is derived from the accounting expense recognized in net income, utilities who are recovering their pension and OPEB costs on an accrual basis under IFRS will not be able to dispose of any amounts pertaining to actuarial gains and losses because they will never form part of net income.

The OEB recognizes that this issue may not affect a large number of utilities because most utilities under IFRS participate in the OMERS pension plan, where the accrual expense equals the employer contributions made to the plan. Furthermore, for those utilities with OPEB plans, their OPEB expense and any actuarial gains and losses may not be significant relative to other costs incurred by these utilities. For some utilities, the OEB has already approved the use of a deferral account to capture the cumulative actuarial gains or losses in post-retirement benefits.

As at the date of this Report, utilities that have approved deferral accounts have not requested disposition.[7] In some cases, gains and losses may offset each other over time, and no material amount may remain for disposition. In these cases, the account may act only as a tracking account. In addition, this matter was not the focus of this consultation. For these reasons, the OEB has not made a determination on a generic approach to the regulatory treatment of actuarial gains and losses under IFRS. The OEB will consider the potential need for further analysis and guidance on this matter in due course.

E. Set-Aside Mechanism

Solvency of the pension and OPEB plans of Ontario utilities is important: will the money be there to provide the promised benefits to future retirees? The OEB is not the regulator responsible for ensuring solvency of pension plans. In Ontario, the PBA legislates the solvency requirements for defined benefit pension plans and, in particular, requires that a registered defined benefit pension plan must be fully funded (the assets of the plan are adequate to cover its liabilities). The funding status of a plan is determined by a triennial actuarial valuation. If the valuation identifies a funding shortfall (liabilities greater than assets), then the PBA requires that the employer make special payments in addition to the employer's usual contributions to the plan, over a specified period of time in order to fund this shortfall. In addition, due partially to the funding requirements of pension plans, it is likely that neither the accrual nor cash (funding contribution) method will consistently produce a higher cost. The direction of the variance would generally be expected to reverse over time (see Appendix A: example of OPG's pension costs for the next five year period). No set-aside mechanism is necessary for pensions at this time.

Regulations and requirements for OPEBs and unregistered pension plans are less rigorous than for registered pension plans. There is no legislative requirement imposed on plan administrators to ensure that these plans are adequately funded. Most utilities

[7] Four of the seven utilities with this deferral account have had the opportunity to request disposition of this account but have proposed to defer disposition.

have used amounts collected in rates for OPEBs for example, to pay benefits to employees who are already retired, and where the amount collected exceeded the amount needed for this purpose, the excess has been used for “general corporate purposes”, e.g. to fund capital investments or ongoing operating costs.

KPMG suggested two possible set-aside mechanisms that could be used to ensure the funds collected for future OPEB costs remain available for their intended purpose: a separate trust fund, similar to a retirement compensation arrangement, or an internally segregated account.

The OEB recognizes that the disadvantages to these set-aside mechanisms could include:

- Tax implications: Neither mechanism is tax-efficient, and the taxes paid by utilities (and recovered from ratepayers) may increase
- Potential implications for credit risk: Internally segregated funds remove cash from general funds. This means the utility may need to increase its debt, possibly affecting its credit risk profile
- Potential increase in debt costs: Costs to ratepayers could increase to cover increased debt costs

In its letter following the consultation[8], the OEB recognized the concerns with internally segregated accounts and retirement compensation arrangements.

The OEB will not prescribe a set-aside mechanism for OPEBs as part of this policy. However, the OEB expects that utilities will manage and accept the risks inherent in funding OPEB plans. Utilities have the responsibility to manage their cash flows over time. The OEB expects that utilities will not seek further recovery from ratepayers if their cash requirements exceed their accrual expense in the future.

The OEB monitors the performance of utilities and the financial viability of the sector. For some utilities, OPEB costs can be a significant component of their overall compensation envelope and have the potential to adversely affect the financial health of utilities if not managed appropriately. The OEB will consider if and how a further reporting mechanism related to OPEBs can assist in enhancing the OEB’s existing monitoring of overall financial viability. The OEB will consider the best way to monitor how a utility is demonstrating accountability for management of OPEB funding and the steps taken to ensure that it will have sufficient cash available as a corporation when its cash needs exceed accrual amounts in any given year.

[8] August 10, 2016

If the OEB observes over time that utilities are in general not taking responsibility for adequate OPEB funding and not accepting the risk of under-funding, the OEB will consider a further review of set-aside mechanisms on a generic basis.

Appendix B: The Consultation Process

The OEB used a consultative process to gather information and advice from stakeholders for the preparation of this Report. The OEB dedicated a specific page on its website to the consultation, which provides links to all materials considered by the OEB.

The main steps in the consultation were:

May 14, 2015 Initiation letter

The OEB issued a letter on May 14, 2015, in which the OEB:

- Set out the objectives of the consultation
- Described the initial steps in the consultation
- Invited registration for participation in the consultation
- Invited applications for cost award eligibility
- Invited submissions on an initial set of questions in three areas: general principles, information requirements, and accounting and recovery in rates of pension and OPEB costs (as well as any other issues participants cared to address)
- Announced the retention of the accounting firm KPMG by the OEB to provide assistance on relevant technical issues

June 10, 2015 letter

In this letter the OEB:

- Noted the registration of 28 participants, including rate regulated utilities, labour unions of energy sector employees and representatives of energy consumers
- Granted cost eligibility to six associations representing energy consumers
- Extended the filing deadline for initial submissions, in response to requests from participants

July 31, 2015 submissions filed

Nineteen registrants filed submissions on July 31, 2015.

Over the following nine months, KPMG prepared a Report for the OEB, and the OEB received the report and considered the next steps for the consultation.

May 19, 2016 letter

By way of a letter dated May 19, 2016, the OEB provided a link to the KPMG Report which was posted on the OEB website, and announced a stakeholder forum to be held July 19 and 20, 2016. With respect to the forum, the OEB:

- Set out the structure of the forum
- Provided a draft issues list for the forum and invited comments on the draft issues
- Invited registrants to indicate their intention to make a presentation at the forum

July 19 and 20, 2016 Stakeholder Forum

The forum was held over two days in July, 2016, and consisted of three parts:

- A presentation by KPMG consultants giving an overview of pension and OPEB accounting, and methods presently used by Ontario regulated utilities for accounting and recovery of these costs
- A presentation by KPMG of the content of the KPMG Report
- Presentations from representatives of five regulated utilities

At each stage of the forum, presenters answered questions posed by forum participants. Participation was available by webcast and telephone.

August 10, 2016 letter

In its letter of August 10, 2016, the OEB provided guidance for written submissions to be filed on September 22, 2016. The OEB asked that participants focus their submissions on:

- The principles the OEB should adopt in considering the regulatory treatment of pension and OPEB costs
- The best options for cost recovery mechanisms for these costs
- Two of the “set-aside” mechanisms proposed by KPMG should accrual accounting values be used in rate setting

September 22, 2016 submissions received

Fourteen submissions were filed by participants on this date. The OEB considered these submissions, as well as the other material obtained through this consultation, in preparing this Report.

Appendix C: Accounting Guidance

Pension and OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential variance account

The OEB provides for the establishment of the Pension and OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential variance account on a generic basis in this Report. This account will track the differences between the forecast accrual amounts recovered in rates and the actual cash payments made for both pension and OPEBs in one account, on a go-forward basis from the date the account is established. The account will not capture differences that occurred in the past, although the OEB may have previously approved a variance account to capture the accrual versus cash differential for certain utilities, pending the outcome of this consultation. This is discussed further below.

For most utilities, the account will be effective on the 1st of the month following the issuance of this Report. For those utilities with a previously approved variance account, the new account will be effective as of their next approved cost-based rate order if the accrual numbers for pension and OPEB costs are included in rates.

The forecast accrual reference amount that will be used to calculate the entries recorded in this new account assumes that the total gross accrual cost as determined by an actuarial valuation is what is recorded in a utility's total OM&A expense. If a utility capitalizes a material portion of its total pension and OPEB accrual costs, and there is sufficient incremental value to warrant the added complexity of tracking amounts that are capitalized separately from those that are expensed, the utility may propose an enhanced methodology for determining the reference amount and the appropriate carrying charge to be applied, including journal entries consistent with the intent of the account as outlined in this Report.

The actual cash payments would include all cash payments a utility makes for its pension and OPEB obligations. For pensions, the word "cash" refers to the funding contribution method.

Utilities who are members of OMERS do not need to post pension entries to the account. Utilities do not need to post OPEB entries if both the amount embedded in rates and recognized on the financial statements is based on the cash paid to beneficiaries for the period. This would likely be the case for smaller utilities with OPEB plans that are not material and therefore, do not warrant the cost of an actuarial valuation.

The account is to be used by utilities that are approved to recover their pension and OPEB costs on an accrual basis. Therefore, pension and/or OPEB entries will not need to be posted to the account if the OEB approves the cash method to recover these costs in a utility's rates.

A primary sub-account (as described) and a second, contra sub-account to enable book-keeping with offsetting entries must be established. When the cumulative accrual amount exceeds the cumulative cash payments, the primary account will hold a credit balance. When the cumulative cash payments exceed the cumulative accrual amount, the primary account will hold a debit balance. The primary account will accrue carrying charges to be returned to ratepayers when the cumulative opening monthly balance of the account is in a credit position. The contra account will not accrue carrying charges. The primary sub-account and contra sub-account are offsetting. Disposition can only result in a credit refund of carrying charges to ratepayers.

Effective the 1st of the month following the issuance of this Report, utilities will establish three sub-accounts:

- Pension & OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential
- Pension & OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential Contra Account
- Pension & OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential Carrying Charges

Electricity distributors and transmitters are to establish sub-accounts under Account 1522. Gas distributors are to establish sub-accounts under Account 179.

Separate monthly entries for pension and OPEBs are required to be recorded into the sub-accounts of the variance account. Entries will be based on the approved accrual amount embedded in rates (normally a forecast number) and the actual cash payments made. The OEB has determined that the actual cash payments (including any special payments for pensions), should be supported by an objective source such as an actuarial report or audited financial statements. The approved accrual amount embedded in rates is not expected to change or escalate during an IRM or Custom IR term expect in cases where in a Custom IR term, updated forecasts for subsequent years of the term were approved.

Carrying charges shall apply to the primary sub-account only (not the contra sub-account), calculated using simple interest applied to the monthly opening balances in the primary sub-account. The interest rate shall be the CWIP rate prescribed by the OEB.

Previously Approved Accounts: Accrual versus Cash Variances

For some utilities, the OEB approved the recovery of their pension and OPEB costs on a cash basis as an interim measure pending the outcome of this consultation, and directed them to establish a variance account(s) to capture the difference between the cash and accrual methods in order to keep the period open for final adjustments once the outcome of the consultation is known. These utilities are required to continue to record amounts into this account(s) until the effective date of the utility's next cost based rate order. Utilities will be expected to dispose of this account(s) at their next cost-based rate application through a separate rate rider, provided that the OEB approves rates using the accrual method.[9] Recoveries from this rate rider should be applied against the approved balance within this account(s) until the recovery period has expired. No carrying charges will apply on the existing account after disposition consistent with the OEB's approach to accounts that track non-cash items. Any residual balance within the account will not be subject to true-up.

As these utilities are collecting amounts from monthly rate riders relating to the previously approved account(s), they will also be required to record a corresponding monthly entry to the new Pension & OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential variance account. Generally, the disposition of the previously approved account balance will be a recovery from ratepayers (i.e. the previously approved account is in a debit position). Accordingly, a credit entry to the new Pension & OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential variance account will be made with an offsetting debit entry to the contra account on a monthly basis to capture the portion of the previously approved account balance that is now being collected from ratepayers.

Carrying charges will be required to apply against the net balance in the new variance account. The intent is that carrying charges on the previously approved account balance are calculated on the amounts as they are actually recovered from ratepayers on a month to month basis prospectively. Carrying charges will be applied asymmetrically as amounts are recorded in the new Pension & OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential variance account in accordance with the accounting treatment outlined for this variance account in the section above. These entries will be recorded simultaneously with the accounting requirements for the new variance account, as described in the section above.

[9] This will depend on the timing of a cost-based application (cost of service or Custom IR) and the availability of audited financial statements to support balances.

Appendix D: Journal Entries

The following is a simplified example that illustrates the accounting treatment for recording transactions in the sub-accounts of Pension & OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential Account. The specific accounting treatment that may apply to a distributor may vary depending on the specific circumstances of the distributor.

Assumptions:

- Pension and OPEB costs are approved for recovery on an accrual basis.
- In utility A's rate application, pension and OPEBs are forecasted to be $1,000 ($700 pension, $300 OPEBs) on an accrual basis and $700 ($500 pension, $200 OPEBs) on a cash basis as supported by the latest actuarial valuation for the test year (Year 1).
- Capitalized pension and OPEB amounts are assumed to be immaterial and therefore, have no impact on the differential calculation.
- After rates have been set and implemented, utility A receives an updated actuarial funding valuation during year 1 that changes the cash payment requirements for years 2 and 3 to $1,200 ($800 pension, $400 OPEBs) and $1,500 ($1,000 pension, $500 OPEBs), respectively. These are the actual amounts the utility pays in years 2 and 3. The utility's accrual versus cash payment differential for years 1 to 3 is summarized as follows:

	Year 1			Year 2			Year 3
	Pension	OPEB	Total	Pension	OPEB	Total	Pension	OPEB	Total
Accrual in Rates	700	300	1000	700	300	1000	700	300	1000
Cash Payments Made	500	200	700	800	400	1200	1000	500	1500
Difference	-200	-100	-300	100	100	200	300	200	500
Cumulative Difference			-300			-100			400

- In its next rebasing application in year 6, utility A requests to dispose and refund the cumulative net carrying charge balance of $75 in the carrying charges sub-account. Disposition of this sub-account is approved.
- Assumes no previously approved variance account to capture the difference between the cash and accrual methods that the OEB approved for some utilities as an interim measure pending the outcome of this consultation. If such an account exists, utilities must follow the accounting treatment in Appendix C.

For illustrative purposes, the journal entries required to record the accrual versus cash differential amounts and corresponding carrying charges into the Pension & OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential sub-accounts are shown below only for years 1-3. Instead of the required monthly journal entries, the journal entries below are simplified to reflect the cumulative annual amounts that would be recorded in the accounts.

Also note the asymmetric nature of the carrying charges as shown in year 3, where no carrying charges have been calculated. Recording of carrying charges ceases once the balance within the Pension & OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential sub-account is no longer in a credit position (i.e. once the cumulative cash payments equal or exceed the cumulative accrual amount).

Year 1

Dr. P&OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential Contra Account	200
Cr. P&OPEB Forecast Accrual versus Actual Cash Payment Differential		200

Hi Kim,

Cindy will only need an opinion for the recognition and derecognition of the regulatory assets when the transaction is finalized. In the meantime, she needs a white paper on those two items by Tuesday.

She also needs a white paper on the Market books that should hopefully conclude that recognition of the market books is acceptable, if not required. If the view is that it cannot be in the books, then the she needs to know ASAP.

She does not need a white paper on the adoption of regulatory accounting under PSAB since the firm will be issuing an audit opinion in the coming weeks that will include regulatory assets for smart meters/pension costs charged to OCI.

Happy to discuss further.

Michel

Re: Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO")

In connection with the accounting advisory work performed by KPMG LLP ("KPMG") for IESO, IESO has requested that KPMG attend a meeting with IESO, the Province of Ontario's Treasury Board Secretariat ("TBS"), and the Recipient, in your capacity as external advisor to TBS, in order to answer your questions related to:

1 IESO's market related activities and their potential adoption of rate regulated accounting; and

2 the interpretation and application of Generally Accepted Accounting Principles regarding regulator independence

(collectively, the "Information").

The Information was derived solely in accordance with the specific terms of reference (the "Engagement Letter") agreed between ourselves and IESO for their exclusive use and for no other purpose.

The Information should not be regarded as suitable for use by any person or persons other than IESO or for any purpose other than set out in the Engagement Letter. We accept no responsibility or liability for any reliance that the Recipient may place on the Information.

You should note that we have not sought to update the Information for events subsequent to [X] and significant events may well have occurred since that date.

In consideration of our providing to the Recipient the Information the parties hereto agree to the following:

a) No one at KPMG is authorized by KPMG to make any representations to the Recipient with respect to IESO. Nor may anyone at KPMG provide the Recipient with the Information on any basis which is inconsistent with or varies or adds to the terms of this letter;

b) KPMG neither warrants nor represents that the Information is accurate, complete, sufficient or appropriate for any purpose contemplated by the Recipient;

c) The Information is not provided pursuant to any agreement or other arrangement of a contractually binding nature between our firm and the Recipient;

d) The Recipient does not acquire any rights against our firm or otherwise as a result of our providing the Information;

e) Our firm and personnel do not have any duties, responsibilities, liabilities or obligations to the Recipient as a result of our providing the Information; and

f) The Recipient will not commence any action, suit or proceeding or make any demand, complaint or claim against us as a result of KPMG providing the Information or for any omission thereto.

Further, the Recipient agrees that the Information will be maintained by them in strict confidence and not disclosed to any other party, and will be used by them only in connection with purpose described above. The Recipient agrees to notify KPMG promptly of any request received by the Recipient from any court or applicable regulatory authority with respect to the Information.

This letter sets out the entire understanding of the parties in relation to the conditions upon which access to the Information is provided and replaces all prior understandings, if any, made by KPMG.

Please indicate your acceptance to the terms of this letter by signing and returning one copy of this letter to the undersigned.

Yours very truly,

KPMG LLP

Hello,

In the interest of time I'm sending to several at once.

Please find below the paragraph provided by Deloitte:

Summary of Deloitte Report

KPMG is the auditor of the IESO. Deloitte was engaged by KPMG to provide its opinion (the "Deloitte Report") asson whether a public sector entity could use rate regulated accounting under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards ("PSAS"), as established by CPA Canada.

PSAS are silent on the question of how to account for the impacts of rate regulation. Through an analysis of the guidance provided in PSAS, the Deloitte Report concluded that it is appropriate for a public sector entity to select accounting policies that would result in the recognition of the impacts of rate regulation, by analogy to US accounting standards and the related eligibility criteria on the topic. The Deloitte report further concluded that any regulatory assets and liabilities recognized through the appropriate application of these policies would meet the criteria for recognition under PSAS.

It should be noted, however, that the Deloitte Report did not include in its scope an assessment of the specific regulatory assets or liabilities recognized by the IESO through the application of this accounting policy under PSAS."

> Hi All,
> See below for the lawyer's proposed draft on how the language around the funding mechanism is supposed to work. In speaking with them, it sounds like the IESO will have to be contractually obligated to pay the interest and fees to the Trust.

. From July 1, 2017 – April 30, 2021 (the "moratorium period"), it is not expected that any clean energy adjustment amounts will be charged to specified consumers. As a result, there will need to be another source of cash flow to fund financing costs incurred by the financing entity to acquire investment interests during the moratorium period.

2. During the moratorium period, it is proposed that at any time the IESO transfers a specified portion of the regulatory asset to the financing entity (which is expected to occur on a monthly basis), the IESO will, as part of the consideration for the transfer, agree to pay all (i) Funding Costs, (ii) Finance Reserve Deposits, (iii) Expenses and (iv) Tax Liabilities net of Tax Refunds (as such terms are defined in the attached proposed definition of "Finance Amount") which are incurred by the financing entity relating to the purchase of the specified portion of the regulatory asset. (The attached definition of "Finance Amount" is a working draft of what OPG and the Dealers are expecting to be in the Regulations – it is still being reviewed by the Dealers and does not yet reflect any impact of funds coming from IESO through funding rebates or otherwise.)

   Any such amounts paid by the IESO to the financing entity are referred to as "funding rebates". These funding rebates can be viewed as inducement payments made by the IESO in order to induce the financing entity to pay par for the regulatory asset in light of the moratorium period.

3. It is expected that the Regulations will provide that concurrent with the payment of any funding rebate by the IESO, the IESO will be entitled to record an amount equal to such funding rebate in the variance account it maintains for the Fair Hydro program. As a result, any funding rebates paid by the IESO will form part of the regulatory asset that may be subsequently transferred to a financing entity (and recoverable by the financing entity through the clean energy adjustment after the moratorium period). We did not discuss how the IESO's carrying costs for providing the funding rebates would be dealt with. One option is that these costs are dealt with in the same way as the carrying costs of the IESO's current credit facility are dealt with; that is, they are socialized among all ratepayers. However, if the carrying costs are to be funded only from Specified Consumers then these IESO costs would also have to be tracked separately and added to the IESO Deferral pursuant to the Regulations.

Michel – can you let us know how this proposed wording will impact IESO accounting? Thanks.

No worries, see below.

I refer to my firm's opinion, dated December 21, 2017, attached. This opinion is identical to what you have previously reviewed with the exception that there is a broader list of addressees.

With respect to this opinion I can confirm as follows:

Notwithstanding any language to the contrary in our opinion of even date with respect to certain bankruptcy issues relating to the above-referenced transaction, you are authorized to make available to your auditors such opinion solely as evidential matter in support of their evaluation of management's assertion that the transfer of the specified portion of the regulatory asset pursuant to which the financing entity will acquire a corresponding investment interest (Sections 26 and 27 of the FHP Act) meets the conditions for derecognition under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards, provided a copy of this letter is furnished to them in connection therewith. In authorizing you to make copies of such opinions available to your auditors for such purpose, we are not undertaking or assuming any duty or obligation to your auditors or establishing any lawyer-client relationship with them. Further, we do not undertake or assume any responsibility with respect to financial statements of you or your affiliates.

Dear Sirs:

We have acted as counsel for Independent System Operator (the "IESO") in connection with a Master Transfer and Services Agreement dated December 21, 2017 (the "Master Agreement") entered into between the IESO and Fair Hydro Trust (the "Trust").

The opinions expressed herein relate only to the laws of the Province of Ontario (the "Province") and the federal laws of Canada applicable therein in effect on the date hereof, and no opinions are expressed as to the laws of any other jurisdiction.

Interpretation

Terms with initial capital letters in this opinion have the meanings given to them in the Master Agreement unless otherwise defined herein. Terms both underlined and in italics have the meanings given to them in the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act (the "Act").

Documents

As such counsel, we have participated in the preparation of and examined an executed copy of each of:

(a) the Master Agreement;

(b) a Transfer Notice dated December 21, 2017 executed by the Trust and accepted by the IESO (the "Initial Transfer Notice");

(c) an acknowledgment and indemnity agreement dated December 21, 2017 entered into between the IESO and the Trust (the "Indenture Trustee") (the "Acknowledgment"); and

(d) a security agreement dated December 21, 2017 made by the IESO in favour of the Trust (the "Security Agreement").

The Master Agreement and the Initial Transfer Notice are referred to as the "Initial Transfer Documents." The Initial Transfer Documents, the Acknowledgment and the Security Agreement are referred to as the "Documents".

Assumptions

For the purposes of the opinions expressed herein, we have assumed:

(a) the genuineness of all signatures of all parties and the legal capacity of all individuals signing any documents;

(b) the authenticity of all documents submitted to us as originals, the conformity to originals of all documents submitted to us as certified or photostatic or electronically transmitted copies or facsimiles thereof and the authenticity of the originals of such certified, photostatic or electronically transmitted copies or facsimiles;

(c) that each of the parties, other than the IESO, to the Documents has all requisite capacity, power and authority to execute and deliver the Documents and to perform its obligations thereunder, and has taken all necessary action to authorize the execution and delivery of each of the Documents and the performance of its obligations thereunder;

(d) the Trust has all requisite capacity, power and authority to acquire and hold an investment asset;

(e) that each of the parties, other than the IESO, to the Documents has duly executed and delivered the Documents;

(f) that each of the Documents is a legal, valid and binding obligation of each of the parties thereto, other than the IESO, enforceable against each such party by each other party thereto, in accordance with its terms;

(g) that, as at the date of the Transfer specified in the Initial Transfer Notice, all of the conditions precedent to a "Transfer" under the Master Agreement have been satisfied or waived;

(h) that the Trust is a financing entity;

(i) that the parties to the Security Agreement have not agreed orally or in any written agreement to postpone the time for attachment of any security interest expressed to have been created under the Security Agreement;

(j) that the property and assets subject to security interests created by the Security Agreement do not include consumer goods (as defined in the Personal Property Security Act (Ontario) (the "PPSA");

(k) that the Act and the regulations thereunder (the "Regulations", and together with the Act, the "Fair Hydro Legislation") are constitutional, have been duly enacted and are in full force and effect and in the event of any conflict or inconsistency between the Fair Hydro Legislation and any other legislation, guidelines or rules, such inconsistency will be resolved in favour of the Fair Hydro Legislation;

(l) the IESO has received payment by the Trust pursuant to the Initial Transfer Notice of an amount equal to the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice;

(m) the value of the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice is not greater than the consideration received for it by the IESO.

For greater certainty, a specific assumption, limitation or qualification in this opinion is not to be interpreted to restrict the generality of an assumption, limitation or qualification expressed in general terms that include the subject matter of the specific assumption, limitation or qualification.

Searches

We have conducted, or have caused to be conducted, the searches identified in Schedule "A" for filings or registrations made in those offices of public record, as of December 19, 2017. These searches were conducted in respect of the current name of the IESO. The results of these searches are set out in Schedule "A".

Opinions

Based on and subject to the foregoing and the assumptions and qualifications set out at the end of this opinion, we are of the opinion that:

1. The IESO is a corporation without share capital continued under Part II of the Electricity Act.

2. The IESO has the necessary corporate power and authority to execute and deliver the Documents and to perform its obligations thereunder.

3. All necessary corporate action has been taken to authorize the execution and delivery of the Documents by the IESO and the performance of its obligations thereunder.

4. The Documents have been duly executed and delivered on behalf of the IESO.

5. Each of the Documents constitutes a legal, valid and binding obligation of the IESO, enforceable against the IESO in accordance with its terms.

6. The execution and delivery by the IESO of the Documents and the performance by the IESO of its obligations thereunder, and the performance by IESO of its obligations thereunder, do not and will not violate or result in a breach of any statute or regulation of the Province or of Canada that is applicable therein.

7. The execution and delivery by the IESO of the Documents and the performance of its obligations thereunder do not require the IESO to obtain any consent, authorization or approval of any governmental authority or any court or tribunal, in the Province, or to make any filing or provide any notice to any such entity, other than such consents and approvals as have been obtained or filings or notices that have been made, in each case copies of which have been provided to you.

8. The Security Agreement creates a valid security interest in favour of the Trust in the personal property described in the Security Agreement as being subject to a security interest (the "Collateral") in which the IESO now has rights and is sufficient to create a valid security interest in favour of the Trust in any such Collateral in which the IESO acquires rights after the date of this opinion when those rights are acquired by the IESO, in each case to secure payment and performance of the obligations described in the Security Agreement as being secured by it.

9. Registration has been made in all public offices provided for under the laws of Ontario where such registration is necessary at this time to perfect the security interests created by the Security Agreement with respect to the personal property of the IESO and particulars of the registration are set forth in Schedule "B" hereto.

10. Section 26(3) of the Act provides that upon receipt by the IESO of payment by the Trust pursuant to the Initial Transfer Notice of an amount equal to the portion of the IESO's regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice, (a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment; (b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly; (c) the Trust shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and (d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.

11. Section 27(1) of the Act, provides that a transfer in favour of the Trust of a specified portion of a regulatory asset under Section 26 of the Act constitutes a "valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale by the IESO to the Trust of the corresponding investment interest". Pursuant to Section 27(3) and (4) of the Act such transfer "shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the IESO", regardless of whether such persons having claims "have received notice of the transfer, and the property rights and interests acquired by the Trust in the corresponding investment interest shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons".

Insolvency

For the purposes of our opinions below, "Insolvency Statutes" means the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (Canada) (the "BIA"), the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (Canada) (the "CCAA"), the Assignments and Preferences Act (Ontario), the Winding-Up and Restructuring Act (Canada) (the "WURA") and the Fraudulent Conveyances Act (Ontario).

For purposes of our opinions in paragraphs 12 and 13 below, we have assumed that,

(a) the IESO is not an insolvent person, in insolvent circumstances or on the eve of or in contemplation of insolvency or unable to meet its engagements, as applicable, within the meaning of any of the Insolvency Statutes;

(b) the IESO will not become an insolvent person or be put in insolvent circumstances or become unable to meet its engagements, as applicable, within the meaning of any of the Insolvency Statutes by entering into, or immediately after completing the transactions contemplated by the Documents;

(c) there has not been filed by or in respect of the IESO a petition for a receiving order, an assignment in bankruptcy, a notice of intention to file a proposal in bankruptcy, a proposal, an application to hold a meeting of creditors, an application seeking to propose a plan to creditors or an application seeking to obtain a stay, or any similar proceedings under any of the Insolvency Statutes;

(d) at the date of the transfer, no person shall have assumed control of any portion of the regulatory asset through execution, attachment, garnishment, charging order, equitable execution or other legal process;

(e) the IESO has entered into the Initial Transfer Documents for the purpose of effecting a transfer of the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice in return for payment by the Trust of an amount equal to the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice;

(f) the IESO has entered into the Documents in good faith and not with a view to giving the Trust or any other person a preference over creditors of the IESO and not for the purpose or with the intent of injuring, obstructing, impeding, defeating, hindering, delaying, prejudicing or defrauding the rights and claims of Creditors or others against the IESO, providing payment or security for payment to the Trust or for any other purpose relating in any way to the claims of Creditors or others against the IESO; and

(g) the (i) consideration given by the Trust for the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice represents fair and reasonable value for such portion of the regulatory asset as at the time of the transfer; and (ii) lesser of the value and fair market value of such consideration is not less than the approximate value or fair market value of such portion of the regulatory asset as at the time of the transfer.

For purposes of our opinion in paragraph 13 below we have assumed that,

(a) the IESO is not a party to any agreement with the Trust under which the Trust would be legally responsible for the obligations of the IESO;

(b) the creditors of the Trust will on a timely basis oppose any attempt to obtain (and will not consent to) the substantive consolidation of the assets and liabilities of the Trust with the assets and liabilities of the IESO and the creditors of the Trust would be materially prejudiced by substantive consolidation; and

(c) the IESO will not be involved in the day-to-day management of the Trust;

(d) the IESO will maintain separate organizational records and books of account from the Trust;

(e) the IESO's consolidated financial statements made available to the public will not consolidate the Trust;

(f) the IESO will maintain its funds and assets separately from the assets of the Trust, and, except for current collections not yet remitted to the Trust, the Trust's assets, funds, and records relating thereto, have not been, are not, and will not be, commingled with those of the IESO or any other Person;

(g) none of the Trust's business correspondence and other communications will be conducted in the name of the IESO;

(h) except as servicer under the Master Agreement and the Fair Hydro Legislation, the IESO will not act as an agent for the Trust, and will not present itself to the public as an agent for the Trust and will present itself as a legal entity separate from the Trust;

(i) the IESO will not directly pay any liabilities of the Trust out of its own funds or assets;

(j) the IESO will not assume or guarantee or become obligated for the debts of the Trust; and

(k) except pursuant to the Fair Hydro Legislation, the IESO will not enter into, or be a party to, any transaction with the Trust, except in the ordinary course of its business and on terms which are intrinsically fair and not less favorable to it than would be obtained in a comparable arm's-length transaction with an unrelated third party.

12. The transfer by the IESO of the specified portion of the regulatory asset provided for in the Initial Transfer Notice would not be declared void or be set aside by a court as a preference or a fraudulent conveyance upon the application of a Creditor pursuant to the applicable preferences and fraudulent conveyances provisions of any of the Insolvency Statutes and would not be held by a court to constitute a transfer at undervalue under the Insolvency Statutes.

13. The Trust is a separate entity from the IESO, and absent an agreement to the contrary or a further transfer of the investment interest, (i) in a bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding under the Insolvency Statutes in relation to the IESO, the corresponding investment interest would not constitute property of the IESO within the meaning of the applicable Insolvency Statutes (ii) the Trust would not be legally responsible for the general obligations of the IESO and (iii) creditors of the IESO could not look successfully to the corresponding investment interest to satisfy a claim which they may have against the IESO.

Assumptions, Limitations and Qualifications

The foregoing opinions are subject to the following assumptions, limitations and qualifications:

(a) with respect to opinions 1 to 11, inclusive, enforceability of the rights and remedies provided in the Documents may be limited by bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, arrangement, fraudulent preference and conveyance, transfer at undervalue, assignment and preference and other similar laws of general application relating to or affecting creditors' rights;

(b) the availability of equitable remedies, including, without limitation, the remedies of specific performance and injunctive relief, may only be granted in the discretion of a court of competent jurisdiction;

(c) indemnification provisions set out in any of the Documents may be unenforceable to the extent that a court decides that any payment required thereunder would derogate from the court's discretion in respect of indemnified amounts, or would be inconsistent with the court's determination by whom and to what extent indemnified amounts shall be paid;

(d) the awarding of costs of or incidental to proceedings authorized to be taken in court or before a judge are in the discretion of the court or judge and the court or judge has the full power to determine by whom and to what extent such costs shall be paid;

(e) the provisions contained in any of the Documents which purport to sever any provision therein which is prohibited or unenforceable under applicable law without affecting the enforceability or validity of the remainder of such Agreement would be enforced only to the extent that a court determined that such prohibited or unenforceable provision could be severed without impairing the interpretation and application of the remainder of such Document;

(f) the effectiveness of terms exculpating a party from a liability or duty otherwise owed by it to another may be limited by law;

(g) enforcement may be limited to the extent that a court construes any provision of the Documents to constitute a penalty or forfeiture;

(h) the records or a certificate, determination, notification or opinion of a party to the Documents as to any matter provided for in the Documents may be held by a court not to be conclusive if it can be shown to have an unreasonable or arbitrary basis or in the event of manifest error;

(i) a court may give effect to waivers or amendments notwithstanding that they are not in writing and executed by the parties;

(j) no opinion is expressed as to the enforceability of Section 7.2 of the Master Agreement (i) as it relates to the right of the Trust to appoint a Successor Servicer by reason that the IESO is insolvent or that a notice of intention or a proposal has been filed in respect of the IESO pursuant to the BIA; or (ii) in the face of any applicable order made by a court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to the CCAA;

Stikeman Elliott

(k) the Personal Property Security Act (Ontario) may affect the enforcement of certain rights and remedies under the Initial Transfer Documents and the Security Agreement to the extent that these rights and remedies are inconsistent with or contrary to such legislation;

(l) we express no opinion as to the creation or perfection of a security interest in, nor have we effected any registrations or given any notices in respect of, any security interest in any property to which the PPSA does not apply pursuant to Section 4 of the PPSA;

(m) we express no opinion as to (i) the title of the IESO to any property; or (ii) the rank or priority of any security interest created by the Security Agreement;

(n) we express no opinion as to whether any security interest is created by the Security Agreement with respect to any property or assets which are not identifiable or traceable;

(o) no opinion is expressed with respect to the effectiveness of any covenant of any party to any Document not to institute bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency or liquidation proceedings or take any action to appoint a receiver or order the winding-up or liquidation of another Person;

(p) no opinion is expressed as to compliance with the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (Canada) or any other privacy laws; and

(q) the enforceability of the Agreements is subject to the limitations contained in the Limitations Act, 2002 (Ontario).

This opinion is given in connection with the transactions contemplated by the Agreements, for the benefit of the addressees, and is not to be relied upon for any other purposes or by any other party (except the permitted assigns of the addressees), nor is it to be quoted from or made public in any way, without our prior written consent.

Yours truly,

Stikeman Elliott LLP

No worries, see below.

I refer to my firm's opinion, dated December 21, 2017, attached. This opinion is identical to what you have previously reviewed with the exception that there is a broader list of addressees.

With respect to this opinion I can confirm as follows:

Notwithstanding any language to the contrary in our opinion of even date with respect to certain bankruptcy issues relating to the above-referenced transaction, you are authorized to make available to your auditors such opinion solely as evidential matter in support of their evaluation of management's assertion that the transfer of the specified portion of the regulatory asset pursuant to which the financing entity will acquire a corresponding investment interest (Sections 26 and 27 of the FHP Act) meets the conditions for derecognition under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards, provided a copy of this letter is furnished to them in connection therewith. In authorizing you to make copies of such opinions available to your auditors for such purpose, we are not undertaking or assuming any duty or obligation to your auditors or establishing any lawyer-client relationship with them. Further, we do not undertake or assume any responsibility with respect to financial statements of you or your affiliates.

Dear Sirs:

We have acted as counsel for Independent System Operator (the "IESO") in connection with a Master Transfer and Services Agreement dated December 21, 2017 (the "Master Agreement") entered into between the IESO and Fair Hydro Trust (the "Trust").

The opinions expressed herein relate only to the laws of the Province of Ontario (the "Province") and the federal laws of Canada applicable therein in effect on the date hereof, and no opinions are expressed as to the laws of any other jurisdiction.

Interpretation

Terms with initial capital letters in this opinion have the meanings given to them in the Master Agreement unless otherwise defined herein. Terms both underlined and in italics have the meanings given to them in the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act (the "Act").

Documents

As such counsel, we have participated in the preparation of and examined an executed copy of each of:

(a) the Master Agreement;

(b) a Transfer Notice dated December 21, 2017 executed by the Trust and accepted by the IESO (the "Initial Transfer Notice");

(c) an acknowledgment and indemnity agreement dated December 21, 2017 entered into between the IESO and the Trust (the "Indenture Trustee") (the "Acknowledgment"); and

(d) a security agreement dated December 21, 2017 made by the IESO in favour of the Trust (the "Security Agreement").

The Master Agreement and the Initial Transfer Notice are referred to as the "Initial Transfer Documents." The Initial Transfer Documents, the Acknowledgment and the Security Agreement are referred to as the "Documents".

Assumptions

For the purposes of the opinions expressed herein, we have assumed:

(a) the genuineness of all signatures of all parties and the legal capacity of all individuals signing any documents;

(b) the authenticity of all documents submitted to us as originals, the conformity to originals of all documents submitted to us as certified or photostatic or electronically transmitted copies or facsimiles thereof and the authenticity of the originals of such certified, photostatic or electronically transmitted copies or facsimiles;

(c) that each of the parties, other than the IESO, to the Documents has all requisite capacity, power and authority to execute and deliver the Documents and to perform its obligations thereunder, and has taken all necessary action to authorize the execution and delivery of each of the Documents and the performance of its obligations thereunder;

(d) the Trust has all requisite capacity, power and authority to acquire and hold an investment asset;

(e) that each of the parties, other than the IESO, to the Documents has duly executed and delivered the Documents;

(f) that each of the Documents is a legal, valid and binding obligation of each of the parties thereto, other than the IESO, enforceable against each such party by each other party thereto, in accordance with its terms;

(g) that, as at the date of the Transfer specified in the Initial Transfer Notice, all of the conditions precedent to a "Transfer" under the Master Agreement have been satisfied or waived;

(h) that the Trust is a financing entity;

(i) that the parties to the Security Agreement have not agreed orally or in any written agreement to postpone the time for attachment of any security interest expressed to have been created under the Security Agreement;

(j) that the property and assets subject to security interests created by the Security Agreement do not include consumer goods (as defined in the Personal Property Security Act (Ontario) (the "PPSA");

(k) that the Act and the regulations thereunder (the "Regulations", and together with the Act, the "Fair Hydro Legislation") are constitutional, have been duly enacted and are in full force and effect and in the event of any conflict or inconsistency between the Fair Hydro Legislation and any other legislation, guidelines or rules, such inconsistency will be resolved in favour of the Fair Hydro Legislation;

(l) the IESO has received payment by the Trust pursuant to the Initial Transfer Notice of an amount equal to the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice;

(m) the value of the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice is not greater than the consideration received for it by the IESO.

For greater certainty, a specific assumption, limitation or qualification in this opinion is not to be interpreted to restrict the generality of an assumption, limitation or qualification expressed in general terms that include the subject matter of the specific assumption, limitation or qualification.

Searches

We have conducted, or have caused to be conducted, the searches identified in Schedule "A" for filings or registrations made in those offices of public record, as of December 19, 2017. These searches were conducted in respect of the current name of the IESO. The results of these searches are set out in Schedule "A".

Opinions

Based on and subject to the foregoing and the assumptions and qualifications set out at the end of this opinion, we are of the opinion that:

1. The IESO is a corporation without share capital continued under Part II of the Electricity Act.

2. The IESO has the necessary corporate power and authority to execute and deliver the Documents and to perform its obligations thereunder.

3. All necessary corporate action has been taken to authorize the execution and delivery of the Documents by the IESO and the performance of its obligations thereunder.

4. The Documents have been duly executed and delivered on behalf of the IESO.

5. Each of the Documents constitutes a legal, valid and binding obligation of the IESO, enforceable against the IESO in accordance with its terms.

6. The execution and delivery by the IESO of the Documents and the performance by the IESO of its obligations thereunder, and the performance by IESO of its obligations thereunder, do not and will not violate or result in a breach of any statute or regulation of the Province or of Canada that is applicable therein.

7. The execution and delivery by the IESO of the Documents and the performance of its obligations thereunder do not require the IESO to obtain any consent, authorization or approval of any governmental authority or any court or tribunal, in the Province, or to make any filing or provide any notice to any such entity, other than such consents and approvals as have been obtained or filings or notices that have been made, in each case copies of which have been provided to you.

8. The Security Agreement creates a valid security interest in favour of the Trust in the personal property described in the Security Agreement as being subject to a security interest (the "Collateral") in which the IESO now has rights and is sufficient to create a valid security interest in favour of the Trust in any such Collateral in which the IESO acquires rights after the date of this opinion when those rights are acquired by the IESO, in each case to secure payment and performance of the obligations described in the Security Agreement as being secured by it.

9. Registration has been made in all public offices provided for under the laws of Ontario where such registration is necessary at this time to perfect the security interests created by the Security Agreement with respect to the personal property of the IESO and particulars of the registration are set forth in Schedule "B" hereto.

10. Section 26(3) of the Act provides that upon receipt by the IESO of payment by the Trust pursuant to the Initial Transfer Notice of an amount equal to the portion of the IESO's regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice, (a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment; (b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly; (c) the Trust shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and (d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.

11. Section 27(1) of the Act, provides that a transfer in favour of the Trust of a specified portion of a regulatory asset under Section 26 of the Act constitutes a "valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale by the IESO to the Trust of the corresponding investment interest". Pursuant to Section 27(3) and (4) of the Act such transfer "shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the IESO", regardless of whether such persons having claims "have received notice of the transfer, and the property rights and interests acquired by the Trust in the corresponding investment interest shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons".

Insolvency

For the purposes of our opinions below, "Insolvency Statutes" means the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (Canada) (the "BIA"), the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act (Canada) (the "CCAA"), the Assignments and Preferences Act (Ontario), the Winding-Up and Restructuring Act (Canada) (the "WURA") and the Fraudulent Conveyances Act (Ontario).

For purposes of our opinions in paragraphs 12 and 13 below, we have assumed that,

(a) the IESO is not an insolvent person, in insolvent circumstances or on the eve of or in contemplation of insolvency or unable to meet its engagements, as applicable, within the meaning of any of the Insolvency Statutes;

(b) the IESO will not become an insolvent person or be put in insolvent circumstances or become unable to meet its engagements, as applicable, within the meaning of any of the Insolvency Statutes by entering into, or immediately after completing the transactions contemplated by the Documents;

(c) there has not been filed by or in respect of the IESO a petition for a receiving order, an assignment in bankruptcy, a notice of intention to file a proposal in bankruptcy, a proposal, an application to hold a meeting of creditors, an application seeking to propose a plan to creditors or an application seeking to obtain a stay, or any similar proceedings under any of the Insolvency Statutes;

(d) at the date of the transfer, no person shall have assumed control of any portion of the regulatory asset through execution, attachment, garnishment, charging order, equitable execution or other legal process;

(e) the IESO has entered into the Initial Transfer Documents for the purpose of effecting a transfer of the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice in return for payment by the Trust of an amount equal to the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice;

(f) the IESO has entered into the Documents in good faith and not with a view to giving the Trust or any other person a preference over creditors of the IESO and not for the purpose or with the intent of injuring, obstructing, impeding, defeating, hindering, delaying, prejudicing or defrauding the rights and claims of Creditors or others against the IESO, providing payment or security for payment to the Trust or for any other purpose relating in any way to the claims of Creditors or others against the IESO; and

(g) the (i) consideration given by the Trust for the portion of the regulatory asset set out in the Initial Transfer Notice represents fair and reasonable value for such portion of the regulatory asset as at the time of the transfer; and (ii) lesser of the value and fair market value of such consideration is not less than the approximate value or fair market value of such portion of the regulatory asset as at the time of the transfer.

For purposes of our opinion in paragraph 13 below we have assumed that,

(a) the IESO is not a party to any agreement with the Trust under which the Trust would be legally responsible for the obligations of the IESO;

(b) the creditors of the Trust will on a timely basis oppose any attempt to obtain (and will not consent to) the substantive consolidation of the assets and liabilities of the Trust with the assets and liabilities of the IESO and the creditors of the Trust would be materially prejudiced by substantive consolidation; and

(c) the IESO will not be involved in the day-to-day management of the Trust;

(d) the IESO will maintain separate organizational records and books of account from the Trust;

(e) the IESO's consolidated financial statements made available to the public will not consolidate the Trust;

(f) the IESO will maintain its funds and assets separately from the assets of the Trust, and, except for current collections not yet remitted to the Trust, the Trust's assets, funds, and records relating thereto, have not been, are not, and will not be, commingled with those of the IESO or any other Person;

(g) none of the Trust's business correspondence and other communications will be conducted in the name of the IESO;

(h) except as servicer under the Master Agreement and the Fair Hydro Legislation, the IESO will not act as an agent for the Trust, and will not present itself to the public as an agent for the Trust and will present itself as a legal entity separate from the Trust;

(i) the IESO will not directly pay any liabilities of the Trust out of its own funds or assets;

(j) the IESO will not assume or guarantee or become obligated for the debts of the Trust; and

(k) except pursuant to the Fair Hydro Legislation, the IESO will not enter into, or be a party to, any transaction with the Trust, except in the ordinary course of its business and on terms which are intrinsically fair and not less favorable to it than would be obtained in a comparable arm's-length transaction with an unrelated third party.

12. The transfer by the IESO of the specified portion of the regulatory asset provided for in the Initial Transfer Notice would not be declared void or be set aside by a court as a preference or a fraudulent conveyance upon the application of a Creditor pursuant to the applicable preferences and fraudulent conveyances provisions of any of the Insolvency Statutes and would not be held by a court to constitute a transfer at undervalue under the Insolvency Statutes.

13. The Trust is a separate entity from the IESO, and absent an agreement to the contrary or a further transfer of the investment interest, (i) in a bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding under the Insolvency Statutes in relation to the IESO, the corresponding investment interest would not constitute property of the IESO within the meaning of the applicable Insolvency Statutes (ii) the Trust would not be legally responsible for the general obligations of the IESO and (iii) creditors of the IESO could not look successfully to the corresponding investment interest to satisfy a claim which they may have against the IESO.

Assumptions, Limitations and Qualifications

The foregoing opinions are subject to the following assumptions, limitations and qualifications:

(a) with respect to opinions 1 to 11, inclusive, enforceability of the rights and remedies provided in the Documents may be limited by bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, arrangement, fraudulent preference and conveyance, transfer at undervalue, assignment and preference and other similar laws of general application relating to or affecting creditors' rights;

(b) the availability of equitable remedies, including, without limitation, the remedies of specific performance and injunctive relief, may only be granted in the discretion of a court of competent jurisdiction;

(c) indemnification provisions set out in any of the Documents may be unenforceable to the extent that a court decides that any payment required thereunder would derogate from the court's discretion in respect of indemnified amounts, or would be inconsistent with the court's determination by whom and to what extent indemnified amounts shall be paid;

(d) the awarding of costs of or incidental to proceedings authorized to be taken in court or before a judge are in the discretion of the court or judge and the court or judge has the full power to determine by whom and to what extent such costs shall be paid;

(e) the provisions contained in any of the Documents which purport to sever any provision therein which is prohibited or unenforceable under applicable law without affecting the enforceability or validity of the remainder of such Agreement would be enforced only to the extent that a court determined that such prohibited or unenforceable provision could be severed without impairing the interpretation and application of the remainder of such Document;

(f) the effectiveness of terms exculpating a party from a liability or duty otherwise owed by it to another may be limited by law;

(g) enforcement may be limited to the extent that a court construes any provision of the Documents to constitute a penalty or forfeiture;

(h) the records or a certificate, determination, notification or opinion of a party to the Documents as to any matter provided for in the Documents may be held by a court not to be conclusive if it can be shown to have an unreasonable or arbitrary basis or in the event of manifest error;

(i) a court may give effect to waivers or amendments notwithstanding that they are not in writing and executed by the parties;

(j) no opinion is expressed as to the enforceability of Section 7.2 of the Master Agreement (i) as it relates to the right of the Trust to appoint a Successor Servicer by reason that the IESO is insolvent or that a notice of intention or a proposal has been filed in respect of the IESO pursuant to the BIA; or (ii) in the face of any applicable order made by a court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to the CCAA;

Stikeman Elliott

(k) the Personal Property Security Act (Ontario) may affect the enforcement of certain rights and remedies under the Initial Transfer Documents and the Security Agreement to the extent that these rights and remedies are inconsistent with or contrary to such legislation;

(l) we express no opinion as to the creation or perfection of a security interest in, nor have we effected any registrations or given any notices in respect of, any security interest in any property to which the PPSA does not apply pursuant to Section 4 of the PPSA;

(m) we express no opinion as to (i) the title of the IESO to any property; or (ii) the rank or priority of any security interest created by the Security Agreement;

(n) we express no opinion as to whether any security interest is created by the Security Agreement with respect to any property or assets which are not identifiable or traceable;

(o) no opinion is expressed with respect to the effectiveness of any covenant of any party to any Document not to institute bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency or liquidation proceedings or take any action to appoint a receiver or order the winding-up or liquidation of another Person;

(p) no opinion is expressed as to compliance with the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (Canada) or any other privacy laws; and

(q) the enforceability of the Agreements is subject to the limitations contained in the Limitations Act, 2002 (Ontario).

This opinion is given in connection with the transactions contemplated by the Agreements, for the benefit of the addressees, and is not to be relied upon for any other purposes or by any other party (except the permitted assigns of the addressees), nor is it to be quoted from or made public in any way, without our prior written consent.

Yours truly,

FINAL DRAFT

KPMG Letter to the Independent Electricity System Operator

An Accounting Opinion on the Application of PSAS to the Consolidation of a Trust and to the Recognition and Derecognition of a Variance Account in Relation to Bill 132, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

This letter has been prepared in draft form and will be updated upon receipt of the adopted legislation, if passed, (including the amendments of the Electricity Act, 1998 and the OEB Act, 1998) and finalized financial structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the Trust to be established by OPG) and other relevant agreements necessary for us to provide our final opinion, of which legislation and other relevant agreements are expected to be enacted/ finalized on or before September 30, 2017.

NOTICE OF NON RELIANCE

This Notice is regarding the accompanying Letter to provide an accounting opinion on the application of Public Sector Accounting Standards to the consolidation of a trust and to the recognition and derecognition of a variance account in relation to Bill 132, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (the "Letter") prepared by KPMG LLP for the Independent Electricity System Operator ("Client").

The Board of Directors

Dear Sirs,

We have been engaged to provide you with an accounting opinion on the application of Public Sector Accounting Standards to the consolidation of a trust and to the recognition and derecognition of a variance account in relation to Bill 132, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 as tabled in the first reading ("Bill 132") (Appendix A to this letter). This letter is being issued to the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO" or the "Company") in connection with its evaluation of the consolidation requirements and the accounting for the variance account under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards ("PSAS"). Our engagement has been conducted in accordance with generally accepted standards in Canada for such engagements.

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific issues described below rests with management of the Company as preparers of the financial statements.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act, 1998 ("the Electricity Act") and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB" or the "Board") Act, 1998 ("the OEB Act")), and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the trust to be established by OPG) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific matters described below is based on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us. The finalization of the legislation, regulations, financing structure and other agreements may impact the comments and conclusions set out herein. Our comments and conclusions are based on Bill 132 and related matters as they exist at the date of this letter.

The following three issues are addressed in this letter:

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by Ontario Power Generation (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and therefore subject to consolidation by IESO?

KPMG LLP is a Canadian limited liability partnership and a member firm of the KPMG network of independent member firms affiliated with KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity. KPMG Canada provides services to KPMG LLP.

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Background for issue #1

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party) are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act. Management of the IESO has determined that the Company is an Other Governmental Organization and accordingly prepares its financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

2. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act and the OEB Act.

3. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 3 New Accounting Policies, audited by KPMG "As of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy regarding the recognition of assets and liabilities subject to rate regulation. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model. This change has been applied retroactively and has increased amounts previously unrecorded for regulatory assets and decreased amounts previously reported for accumulated deficit."

4. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 2(d) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, Regulatory assets and liabilities. "As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO applies guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations ("ASC 980"), in this policy."

5. Extract from Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act: In approving or fixing rates under subsection (3.1),

   (a) the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect these costs; and

   (b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct.

6. Currently, IESO recognizes two regulatory assets for unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items as permitted by rates approved by the OEB. In addition, in accordance with section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, IESO also recognizes variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation ("OEFC"), distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract.

7. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts of Bill 132:

   Section 1 Definitions, Transfer of regulatory asset

   (3) In this Act, a reference to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset is a reference to the following, as provided for in subsection 26 (3):

1. A reduction in the balance in the variance account.
2. The adjustment of the regulatory asset.
3. The acquisition by a financing entity of the investment interest corresponding to the specified portion of the regulatory asset.

Section 24 Variance account to be established, maintained

(1) IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.
2. All payments received by IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.
3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

(3) No change made by IESO to the balance in the variance account shall, if the previous balance was relied upon by an investment interest owner in the context of a transfer under section 26, affect the rights acquired by the investment interest owner under the transfer.

Section 25 Regulatory asset established

(1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

(3) IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Section 34 Board's Authority

(2) Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing.

8. It is expected that the IESO deferral recorded by the IESO in the variance account (the regulatory asset) will be transferred to an investment asset owner (i.e. a trust to be established by OPG) on a monthly basis and cash collected within a short period of time. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #1

ASC 980 Regulated Operations

– For general-purpose financial reporting, an incurred cost for which a regulator permits recovery in a future period is accounted for like an incurred cost that is reimbursable under a cost-reimbursement-type contract. [980-10-05-6]

- Unless an accounting order indicates the way a cost will be handled for rate-making purposes, it causes no economic effects that would justify deviation from the GAAP applicable to business entities in general. The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP. [980-10-05-8]
- The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:
  (a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
  (b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form.
  (c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs. [980-10-15-2]
- Incurred Cost - A cost arising from cash paid out or obligation to pay for an acquired asset or service, a loss from any cause that has been sustained and has been or must be paid for. [980-10-20] Glossary
- Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:
  (a) Deregulation.
  (b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.
  (c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).
  (d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [980-20-15-2]
- Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:
  (a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
  (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date. [980-340-25-1]

- Rate actions of a regulator can reduce or eliminate the value of an asset. If a regulator excludes all or part of a cost from allowable costs, the carrying amount of any asset recognized pursuant to paragraph 980-340-25-1 shall be reduced to the extent of the excluded cost. Whether other assets have been impaired shall be judged the same as for entities in general and the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets Subsections of Subtopic 360-10 shall apply. [980-340-35-1]
- If at any time an entity's incurred cost no longer meets the criteria for the capitalization of an incurred cost (see paragraph 980-340-25-1), that cost shall be charged to earnings. [980-340-40-1]
- In some cases, a regulator may approve rates that are intended to recover an incurred cost over an extended period without a return on the unrecovered cost during the recovery period. [980-340-55-2]
- The regulator's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset (see paragraph 980-340-25-1). Accordingly, the regulated entity would capitalize the cost and amortize it over the period during which it will be allowed for rate-making purposes. That cost would not be recorded at discounted present value. An exception to this general rule is provided for costs of abandoned plants. [980-340-55-3]

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

As noted above, as of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation and now applies guidance from US GAAP Topic 980, Regulated Operations, as PSAS does not have any specific guidance for entities with rate-regulated activities.

IESO concluded that it met the requirements of PS2120.02, which allows them to reflect the impacts of rate regulation, as it is considered that the change of accounting policy in its 2016 financial statements resulted in a more appropriate presentation of transactions in its financial statements. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model.

The regulatory framework in Ontario relating to the generation and sale of electricity will be significantly impacted by Bill 132. Currently, a substantial amount of the energy purchased from the generators is collected by IESO from the local distribution companies through the customer billing, with the remaining being recovered through variance accounts over a period of 12 months maximum. As mentioned above, the effect of Bill 132 is to defer the collection of a total estimated amount of $28 billion (plus interest) of energy purchased from the generators over a period of 30 years. Bill 132 will not permit IESO to collect the IESO deferral before May 1, 2021 and the recovery process will be established through regulations. Such a long-term deferred recovery plan requires IESO to consider whether the uncollected energy costs qualify for deferral as a regulatory asset and whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow IESO to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980. These two accounting issues are analyzed in the two tables below.

Criteria for the recognition of regulatory assets

ASC 980-340-25-1 states that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) It is probable that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. (emphasis added) If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.	Bill 132 notes that, • A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording. • Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers. • The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. • The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021. Based on Bill 132, IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. As a result, it is clear that the IESO will be able to recover the amount previously incurred rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs.	Met

Criteria for the adoption and continued use of ASC 980 guidance

Deferred recovery plans are plans adopted by regulators or legislations in response to significant increases in costs (e.g. purchased power costs). These plans typically provide for rates to remain fixed or increase moderately with a variance account mechanism to capture costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. A regulated utility subject to such plans is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow it to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980, especially criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

The proposed plan for the recovery of purchase power costs over a 30 year period is considered a deferred recovery plan as the rates for the first four years will remain fixed and subsequently the rates will increase moderately with a variance account to capture energy costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. The following is an analysis of the ASC 980-10-15-2 criteria.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party	Currently, IESO recognizes regulatory assets related to smart meters and PSAS transition costs as permitted by rates approved by the OEB and regulatory liabilities related to the variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act related to the procurement of energy.	Met

regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.	It is important to note that both Hydro One and OPG are classified as Government Business Enterprises and are reporting under IFRS in their consolidated financial statements, are consolidated by the modified equity method into the province's books, are regulated by the OEB, and their respective regulatory assets and liabilities are reported in the province's books.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.	Currently, the rates approved by the OEB are designed to recover the IESO's costs of providing the regulated services and the pass-through related to the energy purchased from the generators.

	As mentioned above, a regulated utility subject to a deferred recovery plan is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

	This criterion requires a cause-and-effect relationship between a reporting entity's costs and its revenue. In addition, the timing of cost recovery and the related frequency of ratemaking is important. A reporting entity should consider its rate case experience, including the design of its rates and timing of recovery, when determining whether this criterion is met. These factors are analyzed below.

	Frequency of rate case

	- Currently, IESO is subject to OEB's annual reviews.
	- Although the recovery of purchase energy costs will be frozen at the approved rate on May 1, 2017 for the first four years, the IESO will be granted a right to recover after May 1, 2021 the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account during the four-year period.
	  - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance, as of the time of the recording. (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review by the OEB)
	  - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  - Obligation on the part of the OEB to dispose the variance account in accordance with the regulation.
	- Subsequent to May 1, 2021, the OEB will be required to determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
		Met

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	- The Board shall, from time to time, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing. Rates are designed to recover incurred costs - There is a cause-and-effect relationship between the purchase energy costs and revenue, as IESO will be allowed to recover the costs incurred. - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review). - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Obligation on the part of the OEB to ensure IESO will recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Periods of alternative ratemaking (e.g., rate freezes) Evaluation of the second criterion requires additional judgment if the regulated utility is subject to any form of ratemaking that introduces uncertainty about the cause-and-effect relationship between costs and rates. A rate freeze period is defined as a fixed rate that is charged to customers during a period of time (more than two years) and the utilities are exposed to increases in operating and energy costs with no ability to recover the variances. This is not the case as IESO will be granted the right to recover fully the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, including the first four-year period. - The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Costs uncertainty As the IESO will be granted the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no uncertainty about the recovery of the costs.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	Disallowances of costs The OEB has never disallowed the recovery of any material costs incurred by the IESO. More importantly, as the IESO will be granted by legislation the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no risk of the potential disallowance of the purchase power costs. Based on the analysis of the above factors, there are no indications that this criterion would not be met. The above factors establish that there will be a direct cause-and-effect relationship between IESO's costs and its future collection.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."	The remaining criterion is whether limitations, including considering demand levels at the approved rates, on the extent of recovery of the regulatory asset could prevent the IESO from recognizing a regulatory asset for the entire balance in the recovery right granted to the IESO.

	Bill 132 notes that:

	- Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO's right to recover the balance in the variance account is subject to the following:
	  o The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified customers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  o IESO shall not be entitled to collect the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

	Although the process, especially the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not been established yet by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over the period of 30 years. Further, given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. As with the other criteria, this will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the IESO can recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132 based on the foregoing analysis.

The variance account created by Bill 132 is subject to rate regulation by the OEB and the variance account will be established with the right to collect funds against the variance amount in the future. In these circumstances, the IESO is able to establish a regulatory asset. The IESO financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards. Although PSAB does not provide specific guidance on rate regulated accounting, it does under PS 1150 Generally Accepted Accounting Principles allow for guidance to be followed from other accounting frameworks. IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations in its accounting policies.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Background for Issue #2

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issue #1, are as follows:

1. The IESO currently has the right to collect the global adjustment ("GA") monthly from ratepayers through provisions in the Electricity Act. It is proposed that collection of a certain portion of the monthly GA be deferred in a regulatory asset for collection in the future, and that the right to recover the deferred GA from ratepayers be used as the basis for structured financing/ securitization.
2. In connection with Bill 132, it is proposed that a trust be established as a financial vehicle by OPG (the "OPG Trust") in connection with the deferred GA. The OPG Trust will finance the deferral of the GA by purchasing the regulatory asset from the IESO for the principal amount of the GA being deferred.
3. The OPG Trust is expected to finance these purchases from the IESO through a combination of senior secured financing raised in the capital markets, and subordinated financing from OPG (the funding for which will mostly be from equity injections from the OEFC/Province of Ontario).
4. OPG will be appointed as the Financial Services Manager and will be given the responsibility to direct the activities of the OPG Trust, through a services agreement and/or through the Trust's constating documents.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #2

PS1300 Government Reporting Entity:

PSAS refer to government or government organizations. For the purpose of this analysis, the PSAS guidance below relating to government or government organizations should be read and understood as being the IESO (emphasis added).

- The government reporting entity should comprise government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government. [PS 1300.07]
- Control is the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities. [PS 1300.08] (emphasis added).
- Whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that must be determined by reference to the definition of control established in paragraph PS 1300.08 and the particular circumstances of each case. The determination of the fact that control exists will require the application of professional judgment. Government achieves its objectives through a wide range of organizations which individually will fall somewhere along a continuum. At one end of the continuum, it will be clear that an organization does not have the power to act independently and is controlled by the government. At the other end, the organization will have the power to act independently and, while government will have a level of influence on the organization, it will be clear that it does not have control. Along the continuum, consideration needs to be given to the nature of the relationship between the government and the organization in order to determine whether control exists. This Section provides guidance intended to assist in this assessment. [PS 1300.10]
- In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between the government and the organization. The true nature of certain relationships may not be completely reflected by their legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. Where various aspects of the relationship are designed, in effect, to achieve an overall objective, they would be viewed as a whole. [PS 1300.11]
- Financial and operating policies are principles and practices that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control because it establishes the fundamental basis for the conduct of the organization's operations and the achievement of its mission and mandate. [PS 1300.13]
- There are a variety of ways to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization. For example:
  (a) a government may establish an organization's fundamental purpose and eliminate or significantly limit the ability of the organization to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the organization;
  (b) a government may direct the financial and operating policies of an organization on an ongoing basis; or
  (c) a government may veto, overrule or modify the financial and operating policies established by an organization. [PS 1300.14]
- A government does not need to manage an organization's activities on a day-to-day basis to control the organization. It is the government's existing authority to determine the policies governing those activities that is important. [PS 1300.15]

– For the purposes of this Section, it is assumed that where the government has the power to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization, it expects to derive a financial or non-financial benefit. The government may also be exposed to the risk of loss. [PS 1300.16]

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by OPG (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and, therefore, subject to consolidation by IESO?

Under PSAS, IESO is required to consolidate all entities that are considered to be part of its reporting entity, applying the guidance provided in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity. Under PS 1300, IESO must consolidate all entities it "controls".

In determining whether or not the OPG Trust should be consolidated by IESO, it must first be determined whether or not the IESO exercises control as a consequence of power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust resulting in expected benefits to the IESO or the risk of loss from the activities of the OPG Trust.

PS 1300.17 indicates that "whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that requires the application of professional judgment based on the definition of control in this Section and the substance of the relationship in each case." Under PS 1300.08 control is defined as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities". Therefore, the determination of whether IESO will consolidate the OPG Trust will be based on an assessment of whether IESO is considered to control the OPG Trust based on the indicia of control set out in PS 1300. The assessment of the IESO's control of the OPG Trust is made based on Bill 132, facts and nature of the relationship between the IESO and the OPG Trust and based on facts and assumptions provided by IESO. PS 1300.18 and .19 set out 11 potential indicia of control. Several of these indicia have been categorized as more persuasive of a finding of control (see the first four indicators in the table below). For each indicator that applies, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. Finally, the indicia are considered both collectively and individually.

A detailed analysis of the 11 Indicators of control is provided in the following table.

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
Primary (more persuasive) indicators (PS 1300.18):
Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	- Bill 132 states: - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18) - The Financial Services Manager shall perform the duties assigned to it under this Act and may administer the investment asset on behalf of the investment interest owners. (Section 19 (1)) - Subject to any prescribed limitations, the Financial Services Manager may establish and charge fees in relation to such matters as may be prescribed in accordance with the regulations, which regulations may provide for the ability to recover costs and expenditures and to earn a return. (Section 19 (3))	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?

	- The Electricity Act will be amended as follows:
	  - In addition to the objects mentioned in subsection (1), the objects of OPG include exercising the powers and rights and performing the duties and obligations assigned to it under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and engaging in activities to facilitate the implementation of that Act, including entering into contracts and undertakings on behalf of financing entities and performing other services on behalf of financing entities, subject to the right to be paid by the financing entities for those services. (Section 53.1 (1.1))
	  - OPG may create or invest in one or more subsidiaries, trusts, partnerships or special purpose entities in order to more efficiently conduct its activities or achieve its objects. (Section 53.1 (1.2))
	- OPG will establish a trust to manage the collection of the regulatory asset and related financing and administrative expenses. The Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust will be the governing body of the Trust and will be appointed by OPG. OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees.
	- The IESO will not have any rights in respect of the appointment or replacement of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust.

Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	- Section 27 of Bill 132 states:
	  - A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.
	  - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.
		No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. - Based on Bill 132, upon transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, the investment asset resulting from the transfer is immediately vested in the OPG Trust, free and clear of any adverse claim. (Section 28 (2)). - Therefore, upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, IESO will no longer have access/ability to direct the regulatory asset nor have the ongoing responsibility for losses. - The credit risk related to the collection of the investment asset is borne by the OPG Trust.
Government holds the majority of the voting shares or a "golden share" that confers the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the organization	- IESO will not have any ownership in the OPG Trust and will not have the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust.	No
Government has the unilateral power to dissolve the organization and thereby access its assets and become responsible for its obligations	- IESO will not have the power to dissolve the organization.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
Other indicators that may provide evidence of control exist when government has the power to (PS 1300.18):
Provide significant input into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust. - IESO will not provide any input in the appointment of members of the Board of Trustees.	No
Appoint or remove the CEO or other key personnel	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust and other key personnel.	No
Establish or amend the mission or mandate of the organization	- The Trust will be established by OPG and the mandate of the Trust will be set based on Bill 132.	No

Approve the business plans or budgets for the organization and require amendments, either on a net or line-by-line basis	- Bill 132 states:
	  - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18)
	  - The Financial Services Manager shall prepare a written plan entitled the Financing Plan to be used by the Financial Services Manager to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred for the purposes of acquiring and financing an investment asset in accordance with this Act or for the purposes of refinancing. (Section 16 (1))
	- OPG is the Financial Services Manager, not IESO.
	- IESO is not involved in the preparation or approval of the business plans or budget of the OPG Trust.
		No

Establish borrowing or investment limits or restrict the organization's investments	- Section 22 of Bill 132 states: - The Financial Services Manager shall ensure that funding obligations incurred for the purposes of this Act are incurred in a manner that is consistent with the applicable Financing Plan.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- OPG not IESO, is responsible for ensuring that the borrowings of the OPG Trust meet the above conditions.
Restrict the revenue-generating capacity of the organization, notably the sources of revenue	- N/A	No
Establish or amend the policies that the organization uses to manage, such as those relating to accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources	- As mentioned above, OPG will be granted by legislation the power to establish or amend the policies of the OPG Trust and the ability to appoint and remove all members of the Board of Trustees.	No

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the OPG Trust to be established would not be controlled by the IESO and therefore is not subject to consolidation by the IESO.

Based on the foregoing analysis of the 11 indicators of control as defined in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity, considered both individually and collectively there is no evidence of control by the IESO in respect of the OPG Trust. The IESO will not have the power to govern the Trust, nor have ongoing access to Trust's assets. The IESO will also not have any voting shares or future rights to the Trust nor the power to dissolve the Trust. Without control, the Trust is not subject to consolidation within the IESO financial statements.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that based on Bill 132, none of the four primary (more persuasive) indicators of control are considered to be met, and none of the seven other indicators of control are considered to be met. Accordingly, we concur that the IESO does not control the OPG Trust under Bill 132 and hence would not consolidate the OPG Trust.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act and the OEB Act) and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the OPG Trust) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS to the conclusion on control may change subject to further analysis of any changes to the terms of Bill 132 or review of the final regulations, financing structure and other agreements.

Background for Issue #3

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issues #1 and 2, are as follows:

1. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest and will be recorded by the IESO in a variance account recognized as a regulatory asset.
2. The IESO does not currently have the financial capability to finance the regulatory asset and will transfer the variance account to an investment asset owner (i.e. OPG Trust) on a monthly basis.
3. The IESO will obtain a written legal opinion as to the validity and enforceability of the transfer and sale of the regulatory asset.
4. Based on an assessment of control performed under the issue #2, IESO will not consolidate the OPG Trust. We understand that an assessment of control under International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") has been performed by OPG and they have concluded that the OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG; we note that the financial reporting framework used by OPG in preparing its financial statements for consolidation into the Province's books is IFRS.
5. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts from Bill 132:

   Section 16 IESO to receive amounts

   (2) The IESO shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, receive amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment paid to it from electricity vendors in accordance with the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or the regulations.

   (4) All amounts received by the IESO in respect of the clean energy adjustment shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owner, be held in trust by the IESO for the investment interest owners.

   (5) The IESO shall remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, inclusive of interest earned on the amounts referred to in subsection (1), to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with the regulations.

   Section 17 Pro rating of payments

   (4) If an electricity vendor receives a payment made by or on behalf of a specified consumer in respect of amounts payable under one or more invoices and the amount paid is less than the total amount payable, the electricity vendor shall allocate the payment on a pro rata basis to the clean energy adjustment and other amounts payable under the relevant invoices in respect of electricity charges in respect of the same invoice period.

   Section 26 Transfer of regulatory asset

   (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

   (2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the investment interest.

Section 27 Validity of transfer

(1) A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer and the property rights and interests acquired by the transferee shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons.

Section 29 Investment asset, irrevocable rights and interests

(1) The investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of investment interest owners:

1. The right and interest to impose, invoice, collect, receive and recover the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers, including the right to determine the clean energy adjustment in accordance with this Act.

2. The right to receive, collect and recover the clean energy adjustment that is imposed, invoiced and recoverable under this Act, including any amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment that are held by electricity vendors, IESO and other prescribed parties.

Section 30 Transfer of investment interest

(2) An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan.

Section 32 Investment interest owner may grant security interest

(1) An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation.

(3) All provisions of the Personal Property Security Act shall apply to the investment asset and each investment interest on the basis that the investment asset and each investment interest is intangible personal property, except as otherwise provided for in this section, and any granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner to secure a funding obligation shall, subject to the terms of the funding obligation, give rise to a security interest in respect of which that Act applies and may be perfected by registering a financing statement under that Act on that basis.

6. The terms of the transfer agreement between the IESO and the OPG Trust that will be signed and executed upon transfer of the regulatory assets will be in compliance with the dispositions of Bill 132.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #3

The Derecognition Section of ASC 980-20-40 provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation. [ASC 980-20-40]

Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:

(a) Deregulation.

(b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.

(c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).

(d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [ASC 980-20-15-2]

PS1000 Financial statement concepts:

– This Section is to be used by preparers and auditors of financial statements in exercising their professional judgment as to the application of generally accepted accounting principles and in establishing accounting policies in areas in which accounting principles are developing. [PS1000.03]

– Financial statements should communicate information that is relevant to the needs of those for whom the statements are prepared, reliable, comparable, understandable and clearly presented in a manner that maximizes its usefulness. [PS1000.24]

– An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [PS3210.04]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

  (a) no future economic benefit;

  (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or

  (c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred. [PS1000.37]

PS3210 Assets:

- Assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. [PS3210.03]
- Assets have three essential characteristics:
  (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows.
  (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits.
  (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. [PS3210.04]
- Control of an economic resource and of access to the future economic benefits are essential characteristics of an asset, whereas possession or ownership is not. [PS3210.22]

PS3430 Restructuring transactions [1]

- Individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date. [PS3430.21]
- When a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether:
  (a) derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate; and
  (b) its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized. [PS3430.24]
- A new asset or new liability may arise from a restructuring due to a transferor's continued involvement in the individual assets and liabilities transferred (for example, if it agrees to guarantee repayment of all or a portion of a transferred liability or leases back a portion of a transferred asset). As the new asset or new liability is not transferred, together with related program or operating responsibilities, they are not part of the restructuring transaction. They would be accounted for in accordance with individual Sections of the PSA Handbook by both the transferors and recipients. [PS3430.25]

1 This Section applies to fiscal years beginning on or after April 1, 2018. […] Earlier adoption is permitted."

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Although ASC 980-20-40 states that > "Derecognition Section provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation."

Subtopic 980-20 relates to discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting when an entity no longer meets the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2. ASC 980-20-15-2 provides examples of when an entity no longer meets the criteria, including deregulation and change of the form of regulation. Thus, ASC 980 does not provide clear guidance for the derecognition of a regulatory asset other than in connection with the discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting.

The above guidance in ASC 980-20-40 provides general principles for the derecognition of assets.

It should also be noted that PSAS provide limited guidance on derecognition of non-financial assets and liabilities. Section 3430 Restructuring transactions, which is applicable for fiscal years on or after April 1, 2018 with early application permitted, has guidance for the derecognition of assets and liabilities.

- Paragraph 21 states that individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date.
- As stated in paragraph 24, when a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate and whether its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized.

Recognizing the proposed transaction is not a restructuring transaction, Section 3430, which has recently been issued by PSAB, provides current evidence of thinking in the application of the general PSAS principles in respect of the recognition and derecognition of assets and liabilities. Accordingly, the analysis as to whether the regulatory asset transferred to the OPG Trust can be derecognized is based on the foregoing guidance.

Criteria for the recognition of an asset

PS3210.03 states that assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. More generally, PSAS PS1000.37 suggests that an asset would no longer be recognized when it fails to meet the definition of an asset:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
Assets (PS3210.04/ PS1000.36): Assets have three essential characteristics: (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows,	Based on the guidance, the regulatory asset does not qualify as an asset of IESO if it cannot obtain the future economic benefits. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, IESO will have no further rights or obligations in connection with the asset transferred. - IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section. - Upon receipt by IESO of the payment by the financing entity, IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.	Not Met

or to reduce cash outflows. (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits. (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. Financial statement concepts (PS1000.37): An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [see above]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves: (a) no future economic benefit (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it.	- A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee. - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest. - At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, the OPG Trust will have the right to sell the asset to another party or to grant a security interest in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. - Upon transfer, the financing entity becomes an investment asset owner and acquires an investment interest. - An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan. - An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. Based on Bill 132, it is clear that IESO will have no rights to the benefits associated with the future cash inflows related to the regulatory asset as it will have transferred its right to recover the IESO deferral to the OPG Trust. Further, it is also clear that IESO will have lost control over the regulatory asset once it is transferred to OPG Trust.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the regulatory asset will be derecognized upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust.

The transfer of the regulatory asset transfers the control and the benefits associated with the right to collect funds in the future against the variance amount to the OPG Trust. This will eliminate the IESO asset by the amount of the transfer as the IESO will no longer control an economic resource or have access to future economic benefits for that amount. The funds collected from the transfer will in turn reduce the associated debt held by the IESO, maintaining the IESO's net $ nil balance in the market accounts.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the regulatory asset should be derecognized on transfer to the OPG Trust as IESO no longer has rights or future economic benefits associated with the asset.

Other Matters

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transactions rests with management as preparers of the financial statements. Our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transaction is based solely on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us as described above. Should these facts and circumstances differ, our conclusion may change.

Fair Hydro Act, 2017

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Bill enacts a new Act and makes amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

SCHEDULE 1
ONTARIO FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACT, 2017

The Schedule enacts the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. The Act establishes a framework under which the costs and benefits associated with the "clean energy initiative" are to be allocated among present and future consumers of electricity. The "clean energy initiative" is defined in Part I as consisting of the policies of the Government of Ontario related to such matters as eliminating coal generation and fostering the growth of and investment in clean, modern and reliable energy sources and technologies.

Under Part II, the Ontario Energy Board is required to determine reduced electricity rates and to determine other adjustments to be made for certain classes of consumers in respect of specified periods of time. For example, for the class of consumers referred to as "regulated rate consumers", the electricity rates payable for the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 are the rates, as determined by the Board, that would achieve a 25 per cent reduction in certain costs for a hypothetical member of the class who meets prescribed criteria. Details regarding the determinations are prescribed by regulations.

Part III requires certain electricity consumers to pay an amount in respect of the "clean energy adjustment". The clean energy adjustment is determined by the Financial Services Manager in accordance with rules set out in the Act and the regulations. (Section 18 of the Act appoints Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager.) Part III also specifies the roles and responsibilities of electricity vendors and the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO") with respect to the collection and remittance of amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment.

Part IV requires the Minister of Energy to calculate a "fair allocation amount" by taking specified steps in accordance with principles and assumptions set out in the Act. For example, the Act provides that the purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among certain consumers. Part IV also requires the Financial Services Manager to prepare a written plan entitled the "Financing Plan", which is to be used to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred. Principles and limitations regarding the preparation and implementation of the plan are provided.

Part V requires the IESO to determine the "IESO deferral" in accordance with the regulations and to establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the IESO deferral each month. A "regulatory asset" is created under section 25; the IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from certain consumers. The IESO is authorized to transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity; this transfer results in the creation of the investment asset and the acquisition by the transferee of a corresponding "investment interest". Various rules respecting the validity and priority of a transfer of an investment asset are set out.

In Part VI, rules in respect of the "investment asset" are provided. Section 29 provides that the investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest, consisting collectively of various specified rights and interests of investment interest owners. Rules respecting the validity and priority of such a transfer and the granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner are included.

Part VII deals with various miscellaneous matters, including regulation-making authority of the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

The Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 are amended to address various matters relating to the enactment of the new Act. For example, the objects of the IESO and Ontario Power Generation Inc. are expanded to address powers and duties under the new Act.

SCHEDULE 2
AMENDMENTS TO THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD ACT, 1998

The Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 is amended. Among the amendments:

1. Section 79 of the Act is amended so that compensation for the rate protection provided to certain classes of rural or remote consumers may be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature, rather than by consumers.

2. Section 79.2 of the Act, which governs the Ontario Electricity Support Program, is repealed and replaced. The program is continued, but will be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature after the variance account maintained by the Independent Electricity System Operator, formerly established under the Plan, is exhausted, rather than by consumers. There are provisions relating to the sharing, use and disclosure of information relating to the administration of the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

3. Programs are established to aid certain distribution rate-protected residential consumers and on-reserve consumers.

4. Various amendments of a technical and administrative nature are made to support the implementation and oversight of these programs including provisions related to auditing, record-keeping, inspections and inquiries, offences and penalties.

Bill 2017

An Act to enact the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and to make amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows:

Contents of this Act

1. This Act consists of this section, sections 2 and 3 and the Schedules to this Act.

Commencement

2. (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), this Act comes into force on the day it receives Royal Assent.

Schedules

(2) The Schedules to this Act come into force as provided in each Schedule.

Different dates for same Schedule

(3) If a Schedule to this Act provides that any of its provisions are to come into force on a day to be named by proclamation of the Lieutenant Governor, a proclamation may apply to one or more of those provisions, and proclamations may be issued at different times with respect to any of those provisions.

Short title

3. The short title of this Act is the Fair Hydro Act, 2017.

Preamble

The Government of Ontario is committed to fostering the development of a clean, modern and reliable electricity system with a diverse supply mix. The Government is also committed to removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for renewable and clean energy projects. These commitments can only be achieved if costs are shared fairly among consumers, today and in the future.

Electricity rates have risen for two key reasons. First, decades of under-investment in the electricity system resulted in the need to invest more than $50 billion in generation, transmission and distribution assets to ensure the system is clean and reliable. Second, the decision to eliminate Ontario's use of coal and produce clean, renewable power has created additional costs.

The actions taken to achieve a clean, modern and reliable electricity system have resulted in significant costs to residential consumers. The burden of financing these system improvements and funding key programs has unfairly fallen almost entirely on the shoulders of those consumers.

The Government of Ontario is committed to ensuring that the costs of financing these investments and the associated charges to consumers are allocated fairly among present and future generations.

Recognizing that the electricity infrastructure that has been built and the policy decisions that have been made will create benefits for years to come, costs should be allocated fairly over time, so that residential consumers in the future pay their fair share for the benefits that they receive from the investments already made.

PART I GENERAL

Interpretation

Definitions

1. (1) In this Act,

"Board" means the Ontario Energy Board; ("Commission")

"clean energy adjustment" means the amount determined under section 15 and payable by specified consumers; ("ajustement pour l'énergie propre")

"clean energy benefits" means the value of the benefits determined to be derived by or accruing to specified consumers as a result of the clean energy initiative, including as a result of clean energy costs; ("avantages de l'énergie propre")

"clean energy costs" means the value of the costs allocated to specified consumers as a result of the clean energy initiative, including as a result of past, present and expected costs incurred in respect of,

(a) the amounts to be paid or reflected by the IESO in adjustments made under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or any provision that is the successor to that provision, which relate to contracts or amounts for,

(i) renewable energy generation or capacity,

(ii) conservation and demand management,

(iii) energy storage,

(iv) energy efficiency,

(v) natural gas generation and capacity, excluding contracts relating to amounts payable by the IESO under section 78.2 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and excluding such other contracts as may be prescribed,

(b) payments made or expected to be made under section 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, and

(c) such other costs or estimated costs as may be prescribed; ("coûts de l'énergie propre")

"clean energy initiative" means the policies of the Government of Ontario related to,

(a) eliminating coal generation and fostering the growth of and investment in clean, modern and reliable energy sources and technologies,

(b) removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for clean and renewable energy sources and technologies,

(c) promoting conservation, demand management and energy efficiency, and

(d) investing in energy infrastructure to ensure a clean, modern and reliable system; (“initiative pour l’énergie propre”)

“electricity vendor” means,

(a) a licensed distributor,

(b) a licensed retailer,

(c) the IESO in circumstances where it directly invoices a specified consumer for electricity used in Ontario, or

(d) such other person as may be prescribed; (“vendeur d’électricité”)

“fair allocation amount” means an amount calculated under section 20; (“montant de répartition équitable”)

“finance amount” means the finance amount determined in accordance with the regulations; (“montant de financement”)

“Financial Services Manager” means the Financial Services Manager appointed under section 18; (“gestionnaire des services financiers”)

“financing entity” means an entity established or caused to be established by the Financial Services Manager as described in subsection 22 (2); (“entité de financement”)

“Financing Plan” means the plan prepared under section 21; (“Plan de financement”)

“funding obligation” means a payment obligation incurred by or on behalf of an investment interest owner to fund its ownership of an investment interest or a payment obligation that meets such other criteria as may be prescribed; (“obligation de financement”)

“funding rebate” means a payment obligation incurred by the IESO as part of the transfer of the regulatory asset; (“remboursement de financement”)

“IESO deferral” means the amount determined under section 23; (“report de la SIERE”)

"investment asset" means the rights and interests described in section 29; ("actif d'investissement")

"investment interest" means,

(a) an ownership interest in the investment asset, and

(b) in circumstances where the ownership interest is transferred, the rights and benefits specified in the agreement under which the interest is transferred; ("participation d'investissement")

"investment interest owner" means a financing entity that has acquired and holds an investment interest; ("détenteur d'une participation d'investissement")

"licensed distributor" means a person licensed under Part V of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 to own or operate a distribution system within the meaning of that Act; ("distributeur titulaire d'un permis")

"licensed retailer" means a person who is licensed under Part V of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 to retail electricity; ("détaillant titulaire d'un permis")

"Minister" means the Minister of Energy or such other member of the Executive Council as may be assigned the administration of this Act under the Executive Council Act; ("ministre")

"Ontario Power Generation Inc." means the corporation incorporated as Ontario Power Generation Inc. under the Business Corporations Act on December 1, 1998; ("Ontario Power Generation Inc.")

"prescribed" means prescribed by the regulations; ("prescrit")

"reference period" means,

(a) the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on October 31, 2017, and

(b) during the period beginning on November 1, 2017 and ending on either April 30, 2047 or such later day as may be prescribed,

(i) every six-month period following the period mentioned in clause (a); or

(ii) any period shorter than six months, as may be prescribed; ("période de référence")

"refinancing" means, subject to the regulations, the incurrence of debt in connection with a redemption, repayment or repurchase of a funding obligation; ("refinancement")

"regulation" means a regulation made under this Act; ("règlement")

"regulatory asset" means the right established under section 25; ("actif réglementaire")

"specified consumer" means,

(a) a person who has an account with an electricity vendor for the supply of electricity in Ontario and meets the criteria set out in subsection (2), or

(b) such other person as may be prescribed; ("consommateur déterminé")

"transfer" includes, when used in relation to an investment interest, the assignment, conveyance, disposition or sale of the investment interest; ("transfert")

"true up amount" means a true up amount determined in accordance with the regulations; ("montant d'égalisation")

"unit sub-metering" has the same meaning as in the Energy Consumer Protection Act, 2010; ("activités liées aux compteurs divisionnaires d'unité")

"unit sub-meter provider" has the same meaning as in the Energy Consumer Protection Act, 2010; ("fournisseur de compteurs divisionnaires d'unité")

"variance account" means the variance account established by the IESO under subsection 24 (1). ("compte d'écart")

Specified consumer

(2) For the purposes of clause (a) of the definition of "specified consumer" in subsection (1), the person must meet any one of the following criteria:

1. The person has a demand for electricity of not more than 50 kilowatts, or such other amount as may be prescribed.

2. The person annually uses not more than 250,000 kilowatt hours of electricity, or such other amount as may be prescribed.

3. The person carries on a business that is a farming business for the purposes of the Farm Registration and Farm Organizations Funding Act, 1993 and either holds a valid registration number assigned under that Act or has had the obligation to file a farming business registration form waived pursuant to an order made under subsection 22 (6) of that Act.

4. The person's account with the electricity vendor relates to,

   i. a dwelling,

   ii. a property within the meaning of the Condominium Act, 1998,

   iii. a residential complex within the meaning of subsection 2 (1) of the Residential Tenancies Act, 2006, without regard to section 5 of that Act, or

   iv. a property that includes one or more housing units and that is owned or leased by a co-operative within the meaning of the Co-operative Corporations Act.

5. The person satisfies such criteria as may be prescribed.

Transfer of regulatory asset

(3) In this Act, a reference to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset is a reference to the following, as provided for in subsection 26 (3):

1. A reduction in the balance in the variance account.

2. The adjustment of the regulatory asset.

3. The acquisition by a financing entity of the investment interest corresponding to the specified portion of the regulatory asset.

Effect of invalidity

2. (1) For greater certainty, all of the provisions of this Act remain in full force and effect, even if one or more provisions are held to be invalid, the intention of the Legislature being to give separate and independent effect to the extent of its powers to every provision contained in this Act.

Same, funding obligation

(2) The fact that any provision of this Act is held to be invalid or ceases to be in effect for any reason does not affect the validity or enforceability of a funding obligation incurred before the day that the provision is held to be invalid or ceases to be in effect, or any rights or obligations associated with the funding obligation.

Purposes

3. The purposes of this Act are,

(a) to ensure that clean energy costs and clean energy benefits are fairly allocated among present and future specified consumers;

(b) to recognize that clean energy benefits have accrued and will accrue over time and will continue to benefit present and future electricity consumers in the Province; and

(c) to align clean energy costs with clean energy benefits, in order to provide fairness for specified consumers over time.

Crown bound

4. This Act binds the Crown.

Protection and assurances

Prohibition

5. (1) No action or omission by the Board, the Minister or the Crown shall be effective to reduce, impair, postpone or terminate the obligations of specified consumers to pay amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment or to impair or postpone the invoicing, collection or remittance of the clean energy adjustment.

Agreements

(2) The Minister and the Minister of Finance may together, with the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, enter into agreements on behalf of the Province of Ontario with any person in respect of this Act, including agreements regarding the performance of the IESO or electricity vendors under this Act or related transactions.

Guarantee, indemnification

(3) The Lieutenant Governor in Council may by order,

(a) authorize the Minister and the Minister of Finance, acting together on behalf of the Province,

(i) to agree to guarantee or indemnify any debts, obligations, securities or undertakings associated with an investment interest, and

(ii) to determine terms and conditions of the guarantee or indemnity and the maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity;

(b) specify terms and conditions that must be included in any guarantee or indemnity given by the Minister and the Minister of Finance; and

(c) specify a maximum liability for the guarantee or indemnity.

PART II
FAIR ADJUSTMENT

Definition

6. In this Part,

"regulated rate consumer" means a specified consumer who meets the following criteria:

1. The consumer is a member of the class of consumers prescribed by the regulations made under the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 for the purposes of subsection 79.16 (1) of that Act.

2. The consumer would, if the consumer were not subject to this Act, be invoiced the rates determined by the Board under clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

Regulated rate consumers, first adjustments

7. (1) Despite any order under subsection 78 (3.1) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and despite section 79.16 of that Act, the electricity rates payable by regulated rate consumers for the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 are the rates, as determined by the Board, that would result in a hypothetical regulated rate consumer who meets the prescribed criteria being charged an invoice amount that is 25 per cent less than the invoice amount that would have been charged to that consumer under the comparison rates described in subsection (2).

Comparison rates

(2) The comparison rates are the rates that would have been effective May 1, 2017 if they had been determined by the Board solely using the method prescribed by the regulations made under clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, without taking into account any forecasted impact of any other provisions of this Act.

Invoice amounts

(3) The types of amounts to be included or excluded in each invoice amount mentioned in subsection (1) are the types of amounts specified in the regulations.

Other specified consumers, first adjustments

8. (1) For the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018, the adjustments made by the IESO under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 shall, with respect to specified consumers who are not regulated rate consumers, be further adjusted by electricity vendors in accordance with the determinations of the Board under subsection (2).

Board to make determinations

(2) The Board shall, in accordance with the regulations, determine the adjustments to be made by electricity vendors.

Same, regulations

(3) The regulations may specify different adjustments to be made in respect of prescribed classes of specified consumers who are not regulated rate consumers.

Determinations by Board

9. The Board shall make the determinations mentioned in sections 7 and 8 no later than 15 business days after the day this section receives Royal Assent and, regardless of whether the Board makes the determinations before or after July 1, 2017, the determinations shall be effective as of July 1, 2017.

Implementation by electricity vendors

10. (1) As soon as possible after the Board makes determinations under section 9, each electricity vendor shall, in respect of electricity used on or after July 1, 2017, ensure that its invoices reflect the determinations of the Board.

Same

(2) The electricity vendor shall ensure that, if any of its customers who are specified consumers have been invoiced in a manner that does not reflect the determinations of the Board under section 9, the specified consumer receives the difference between the amounts shown on the invoice and the amounts reflecting the Board's determinations, provided as a lump sum credit on the first invoice issued after the electricity vendor has adapted its invoices or by such other means as may be prescribed.

Subsequent adjustments

11. (1) Despite clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and subject to subsection (2), the Lieutenant Governor in Council may prescribe the methodology to be applied by the Board after April 30, 2018 for the purpose of determining,

(a) electricity rates for regulated rate consumers; or

(b) adjustments to be applied by electricity vendors to the adjustments made by the IESO under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 in respect of prescribed classes of specified consumers who are not regulated rate consumers.

Limitation

(2) Any prescribed methodology shall have regard to the following:

1. The purposes of this Act.

2. The clean energy costs borne by specified consumers over time.

3. Such other matters as may be prescribed.

Sub-metering

12. (1) This section applies if a specified consumer provides to another person electricity in respect of which a determination of the Board referred to in section 9 or 11 applies.

Same

(2) If an invoice for the electricity is issued to the person by the specified consumer or a unit sub-meter provider providing unit sub-metering for the specified consumer, the amount payable for the electricity by the person who is liable to pay the invoice shall be determined in accordance with the regulations.

PART III
CLEAN ENERGY ADJUSTMENT

Specified consumers to pay

13. (1) Upon receipt of an invoice from an electricity vendor that includes an amount in respect of the clean energy adjustment, a specified consumer shall pay the amount to the electricity vendor as agent of the investment interest owners.

Same

(2) For greater certainty, subsection (1) applies regardless of,

(a) whether the clean energy adjustment was determined in a manner that was inconsistent with this Act; and

(b) whether the amount payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment relates to funding obligations that were incurred in a manner that was inconsistent with the Financing Plan, including in a manner that failed to provide for the reasonable alignment of the estimated finance amount with the fair allocation amount.

Terms

(3) The payment shall be made in accordance with such terms of payment as may be specified in the invoice, which may include terms relating to late payment fees and interest charges.

Indebtedness of specified consumer

(4) An unpaid amount that is required to be paid by a specified consumer under this section constitutes indebtedness of the specified consumer to each investment interest owner to the extent of each owner's respective interest in the investment asset.

Same

(5) The indebtedness mentioned in subsection (4) is a single and separate debt obligation owed by the specified consumer and may be enforced independently from any other payment obligation or indebtedness owing by the specified consumer.

Unit sub-metering

(6) A specified consumer who provides electricity through unit sub-metering may collect amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment payable under this section in accordance with the regulations.

Irrevocability of amount

14. (1) An amount in respect of the clean energy adjustment shown on an invoice issued to a specified consumer under this Act is determinative of the amount of the consumer's indebtedness resulting from the clean energy adjustment and is irrevocable upon invoicing the consumer and may not be set off or bypassed.

Exception

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to the extent that the invoice reflects a clerical, typographical or calculation-related error.

Determination of clean energy adjustment
Financial Services Manager to determine

15. (1) The Financial Services Manager shall determine the clean energy adjustment payable by all specified consumers in respect of each month in a reference period by taking the following steps:

1. Calculate the sum of the following:

    i. The estimated finance amount in respect of the reference period.

    ii. The true up amount in respect of the reference period.

2. Divide the sum calculated under paragraph 1 by the number of months in the reference period.

Regulations re true up amount

(2) The Lieutenant Governor in Council shall, in making regulations with respect to the determination of the true up amount, have regard to the following principles:

1. The true up amount should serve to ensure that the collection of the clean energy adjustment is sufficient to pay the finance amount when it is due.

2. The method for determining the true up amount should take into account historical and reasonably foreseeable,

    i. differences between the estimated and actual finance amount for the applicable reference period,

    ii. differences between amounts invoiced and amounts collected due to various factors, including applicable taxes, consumer defaults and delays, billing lags and write-offs, and

    iii. variations in billings due to variations in electricity consumption.

Financial Services Manager to notify Board

(3) The Financial Services Manager shall, in accordance with the regulations, notify the Board of the clean energy adjustment in respect of a reference period and such other information related to the determination of the clean energy adjustment as may be prescribed.

Board to determine rates

(4) Without changing the clean energy adjustment, the Board shall, in accordance with the regulations, determine the rates at which specified consumers are invoiced to recover the clean energy adjustment in respect of the reference period.

IESO to receive amounts

16. (1) The IESO shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, receive amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment paid to it from electricity vendors in accordance with the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or the regulations.

Account

(2) All of the following amounts received by the IESO shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with subsection (4), be deposited promptly into an account established for the purposes of receiving those amounts:

1. Amounts described in subsection (1).

2. Payments made by specified consumers directly to the IESO as electricity vendor under subsection 13 (1).

3. Proceeds of amounts described in paragraphs 1 and 2.

Same, held in trust

(3) All amounts received by the IESO in respect of the clean energy adjustment shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners, be held in trust by the IESO for the investment interest owners.

IESO to remit

(4) The IESO shall remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, inclusive of interest earned on the amounts referred to in subsection (1), to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with the regulations.

Electricity vendor to invoice specified consumers

17. (1) Each electricity vendor shall issue an invoice to each of its customers who is a specified consumer for the amount payable by the consumer in respect of the clean energy adjustment, as determined by applying the rate set by the Board under subsection 15 (4) and in accordance with the regulations.

Electricity vendor to report

(2) Each electricity vendor shall, in accordance with the regulations, promptly report to the IESO the total amount invoiced to its customers who are specified consumers in respect of the clean energy adjustment, the amount collected and such other information as may be prescribed.

Electricity vendor to collect

(3) Each electricity vendor shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, collect amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers in accordance with the regulations.

Pro rating of payments

(4) If an electricity vendor receives a payment made by or on behalf of a specified consumer in respect of amounts payable under one or more invoices and the amount paid is less than the total amount payable, the electricity vendor shall allocate the payment on a pro rata basis to the clean energy adjustment and other amounts payable under the relevant invoices in respect of electricity charges in respect of the same invoice period.

Held in trust

(5) Payments received by an electricity vendor from or on behalf of specified consumers in respect of the clean energy adjustment and all proceeds of the payments shall, until remitted to the IESO for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with subsection (6), be held by each electricity vendor in trust for the benefit of the investment interest owners.

Remittance to IESO

(6) Each electricity vendor shall remit amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment to the IESO for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with the regulations.

PART IV
IMPLEMENTATION

Financial Services Manager

Appointment

18. Ontario Power Generation Inc. is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act.

Duties and powers

19. (1) The Financial Services Manager shall perform the duties assigned to it under this Act and may administer the investment asset on behalf of the investment interest owners.

Same

(2) The administration of the investment asset may include providing information to the IESO in respect of obligations under Part III and such other activities as may be prescribed.

Fees

(3) Subject to any prescribed limitations, the Financial Services Manager may establish and charge fees in relation to such matters as may be prescribed in accordance with the regulations, which regulations may provide for the ability to recover costs and expenditures and to earn a return.

Same, Board approval

(4) Before establishing fees under subsection (3), the Financial Services Manager shall submit them to the Board for approval in accordance with the regulations.

Fair Allocation Amount

Minister to calculate fair allocation amount

20. (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), before the first funding obligation is incurred the Minister shall calculate a fair allocation amount in respect of each reference period, applying such method as the Minister considers appropriate and in accordance with the following steps:

1. Determine the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits allocated to specified consumers in respect of the reference period.

2. Determine the estimated reduction in the amounts payable by specified consumers as a result of determinations of the Board under Part II in respect of all previous reference periods, including the estimated reduction in clean energy costs described in clause (a) of the definition of "clean energy costs" in subsection 1 (1) that would otherwise have been payable by specified consumers in the absence of this Act.

3. Determine the amount, if any, by which the determination under paragraph 1 exceeds the determination under paragraph 2.

4. Calculate the sum of the amount determined under paragraph 3 and such other amounts as may be prescribed.

Principles

(2) In calculating the fair allocation amount, the Minister shall have regard to the following principles:

1. The purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among the specified consumers in respect of each reference period.

2. Calculations should be made having regard to the need to align each fair allocation amount with the estimated finance amount payable during the reference period.

3. Estimated clean energy costs allocated to specified consumers in respect of a reference period should be allocated in proportion to the estimated clean energy benefits attributed to the specified consumers in respect of the reference period.

4. Such other principles as may be prescribed.

Assumptions

(3) In calculating the fair allocation amount, the Minister shall make such assumptions as the Minister considers to be reasonable regarding the following:

1. The time value of money or the rate of inflation, for the purpose of equating nominal amounts over time.

2. The expected number of specified consumers in respect of each reference period.

3. The expected electricity consumption rates in respect of each reference period.

4. Such other assumptions as may be prescribed.

Minister to provide amount to Financial Services Manager

(4) The Minister shall provide the fair allocation amount in respect of each reference period to the Financial Services Manager.

Recalculation

(5) A calculation of the fair allocation amount under this Part may be changed by such person as may be prescribed in accordance with such requirements as may be prescribed.

Same

(6) No change under subsection (5) shall affect any clean energy adjustment that has already been determined under section 15 or any funding obligations that have already been incurred before the change.

Information

(7) The Minister, the IESO, the Financial Services Manager, the Board and electricity vendors shall provide such information as may be prescribed in accordance with the regulations for the purposes of facilitating a change to a calculation of the fair allocation amount.

FINANCING PLAN

Financial Services Manager to prepare Financing Plan

21. (1) The Financial Services Manager shall prepare a written plan entitled the Financing Plan to be used by the Financial Services Manager to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred for the purposes of acquiring and financing an investment asset in accordance with this Act or for the purposes of a refinancing.

Plan to be provided to Minister

(2) The Financial Services Manager shall provide the Financing Plan to the Minister.

Principles

(3) In preparing the Financing Plan, the Financial Services Manager shall have regard to the following principles:

1. Funding obligations should be incurred such that, along with any funding obligations already incurred, the estimated finance amount that would, subject to any refinancing, become due and payable during a reference period will reasonably align with the fair allocation amount determined in respect of the reference period, in each case after reducing the fair allocation amount to reflect determinations of the Board under Part II in respect of the reference period.

2. Incurrences should be implemented in a manner that, in the opinion of the Financial Services Manager, is reasonable, cost effective and that reflects prevailing market terms and conditions.

3. Reasonable assumptions should be made regarding such matters as may be prescribed.

4. Such other principles as may be prescribed.

Limitation

(4) In respect of each reference period from July 1, 2017 to April 30, 2021, no funding obligation shall be incurred that would result in amounts payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment in respect of the reference period unless,

(a) the amounts are payable in respect of a reference period in respect of which the Board has not made any determinations under Part II; or

(b) if the Board has made a determination under Part II in respect of the reference period, the funding obligations incurred would not result in amounts payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment during the reference period in an amount that exceeds the limit determined in accordance with the regulations.

Other reports

(5) The Financial Services Manager shall submit to the Minister such reports and information as the Minister may require from time to time and shall, if required by the Minister to do so, examine, report and advise on any question relating to the Financing Plan.

Amendments to plan

(6) The Financial Services Manager may amend the Financing Plan at any time.

Same

(7) In the event that the Financing Plan is amended, any reference in this Act to the Financing Plan is deemed to be a reference to the plan as amended.

Incurrence of funding obligations

22. (1) The Financial Services Manager shall ensure that funding obligations incurred for the purposes of this Act are incurred in a manner that is consistent with the applicable Financing Plan.

Financing entities

(2) In accordance with the Financing Plan, the Financial Services Manager may establish or cause to be established one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations.

Prohibition

(3) The Financial Services Manager shall not provide for funding obligations to be incurred with any recourse to any assets of an electricity vendor, the Board, Ontario Power Generation Inc., the Province or the Lieutenant Governor in Council, except to the extent that any of these persons or entities may be liable to perform obligations or duties arising under this Act or under the express terms of a funding obligation or other agreement.

Effect of amendment to fair allocation amount

(4) Each funding obligation incurred and each transfer made by a financing entity is deemed to be consistent with the Financing Plan and to provide for the reasonable alignment of the estimated finance amount with the fair allocation amount.

Same

(5) For greater certainty, subsection (4) applies despite the failure of the Financial Services Manager to comply with subsection (1).

PART V
THE REGULATORY ASSET

IESO deferral

23. (1) The IESO deferral for each month, commencing May 1, 2017, shall be determined by the IESO in accordance with the regulations.

Same, retrospective amounts

(2) For greater certainty, the regulations may provide for the IESO deferral to include an amount that was incurred by the IESO on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Electricity vendors to provide information

(3) Electricity vendors shall provide to the IESO such information as the IESO may reasonably request for the purposes of determining the IESO deferral under subsection (1) and such further information as may be prescribed.

Same

(4) The IESO may rely on information provided by electricity vendors for the purposes of the determination under subsection (1).

Variance account to be established, maintained

24. (1) The IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.

2. All payments received by the IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.

3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Rights of investment interest owner

(3) No change made by the IESO to the balance in the variance account shall, if the previous balance was relied upon by an investment interest owner in the context of a transfer under section 26, affect the rights acquired by the investment interest owner under the transfer.

Regulatory asset established

25. (1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

Board to set rates

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

Limitation

(3) The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Transfer of regulatory asset

26. (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

Agreement

(2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

Effect of payment

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.

Validity of transfer

27. (1) A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.

Same

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

Deemed perfection, etc.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

Priority of transfer

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer and the property rights and interests acquired by the transferee shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons.

PART VI
THE INVESTMENT ASSET

Investment asset established

28. (1) The transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 creates an investment asset or, if it is not the first transfer, adds to the investment asset.

Same

(2) Upon transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 to a financing entity, the investment asset resulting from the transfer is immediately vested in the financing entity, free and clear of any adverse claim.

Investment asset, irrevocable rights and interests

29. (1) The investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of investment interest owners:

1. The right and interest to impose, invoice, collect, receive and recover the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers, including the right to determine the clean energy adjustment in accordance with this Act.

2. The right to receive, collect and recover the clean energy adjustment that is imposed, invoiced and recoverable under this Act, including any amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment that are held by electricity vendors, the IESO and other prescribed parties.

3. All rights and entitlements under such accounts as may be prescribed by regulation and all amounts on deposit in such accounts.

4. The right to enforce the duties and obligations under this Act of each electricity vendor to impose, attribute, charge and invoice for the clean energy adjustment.

5. The right to enforce the duties and obligations under this Act of each electricity vendor and the IESO to collect, receive and remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, including all collections and the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by any electricity vendor to recover payment of the clean energy adjustment.

6. All rights of any kind related to any of the other property rights or interests that comprise the investment interest, including any rights to receive funding rebates.

7. All revenue, collections, claims, payments, money and proceeds of or derived from the rights described in paragraphs 1 to 6, regardless of whether it is invoiced, collected and maintained together with or commingled with other revenue, collections, claims, payments, money and proceeds.

Not affected by failure to impose etc. clean energy adjustment

(2) An investment interest is not affected by any failure to impose, attribute, invoice, accrue or collect amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment.

No set off, etc.

(3) The investment asset shall not be set off,

(a) by a consumer, an electricity vendor, the IESO, an agent of the investment interest owners or an owner in the Province of a distribution system within the meaning of the Electricity Act, 1998;

(b) in connection with any default of a person mentioned in clause (a); or

(c) by any affiliate or successor of a person mentioned in clause (a).

Exercise of rights

(4) The rights of the investment interest owners to collect the clean energy adjustment and enforce their rights and interests in, to and in respect of the investment asset against a specified consumer shall be exercised in accordance with Part III of this Act.

Collective action required

(5) If one investment interest owner owns a right or interest in the investment asset that comprises less than the entire property right and interest constituted by the investment asset, the right or interest shall only be enforced by the investment interest owner collectively and in coordination with all other investment interest owners, and any agreement among that collective in furtherance of the collective action shall be valid and binding on the investment interest owners as a collective in accordance with its terms.

Transfer of investment interest

30. An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan.

Validity of transfer

31. (1) A transfer of an investment interest under this Act is a valid and enforceable sale and absolute transfer of the investment interest and confers upon the transferee a valid property right and interest in, to and under the applicable investment interest acquired in accordance with the terms of the transfer.

Same

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), a transfer that by its terms is intended to constitute a sale or absolute transfer shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute transfer of an investment interest owner's right, title and interest in, to and under an investment interest, and not merely as a security interest, and upon such absolute transfer the transferor shall retain no right, title or interest in the investment interest subject to the transfer, including all rights to the investment interest arising after the transfer.

Deemed perfection, etc.

(3) At the time a transfer of an investment interest is made, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected as described in the Personal Property Security Act, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

Priority of transfer, assignment, etc.

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer, and the property rights and interests acquired by the investment interest owner shall have priority over any liens in favour of such other persons.

Investment interest owner may grant security interest

32. (1) An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation.

Validity

(2) A security interest granted under this Act shall be valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms.

Perfection and priority of security interests

(3) All provisions of the Personal Property Security Act shall apply to the investment asset and each investment interest on the basis that the investment asset and each investment interest is intangible personal property, except as otherwise provided for in this section, and any granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner to secure a funding obligation shall, subject to the terms of the funding obligation, give rise to a security interest in respect of which that Act applies and may be perfected by registering a financing statement under that Act on that basis.

Proceeds

(4) All proceeds of an investment interest that are subject to the security interest and that are received by the investment interest owner shall immediately be subject to the security interest and shall be perfected without any physical delivery of the proceeds, registration of any financing statement or any further act.

Perfection

(5) The security interest shall be a continuously perfected security interest and shall have priority over any other lien, created by operation of law or otherwise, that may subsequently attach to the property rights and interests in the investment interest subject to the security interest, unless the person to whom the security interest has been granted consents otherwise.

Same

(6) The person to whom the security interest has been granted shall have a perfected security interest in revenues or other proceeds that are deposited in any account of any electricity vendor, an agent of an electricity vendor or other person who may have commingled such revenues or other proceeds with other funds.

Notice required

(7) The secured party shall be entitled to exercise the rights of an investment interest owner only after the secured party has given notice of the enforcement of its security interest to the IESO.

Interpretation

(8) For the purposes of this section, a security interest is perfected when it is perfected as described in the Personal Property Security Act.

PART VII
MISCELLANEOUS

Appointment of agent, invoicing or collection

33. (1) If a prescribed circumstance applies, the Lieutenant Governor in Council may by regulation appoint a person to carry out some or all of the obligations of an electricity vendor under this Act in the place of an electricity vendor with respect to invoicing or collection.

Same, not Crown agent

(2) For greater certainty, a person appointed under this section is not an agent of the Crown for any purpose, despite the Crown Agency Act.

Board's authority

34. (1) Each electricity vendor, the IESO and the Financial Services Manager shall maintain such accounts and provide such information to the Board as the Board may require for the purposes of carrying out its responsibilities under this Act, in the form and manner and within the time required by the Board.

No hearing required

(2) Despite anything to the contrary in the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing.

Sequestration

35. (1) A court in the Province may, upon application by an investment interest owner or a secured party, order the sequestration and payment of amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment, collections or remittances, as applicable, for the benefit of the investment interest owner or secured party by any person or entity authorized to collect amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment.

Same

(2) An order under subsection (1) does not limit any other remedies available to the applicant.

Choice of law

36. The law governing, as applicable, the validity, enforceability, attachment, perfection, priority and exercise of remedies with respect to a transfer under this Act or the creation of a security interest in the regulatory asset, the investment asset, the clean energy adjustment or the undertaking of the Crown under section 5 shall be the laws of the Province.

Conflict

37. The provisions of this Act and the regulations apply despite any provision of any other Act regarding the attachment, assignment or perfection, or the effect of perfection or priority of any transfer or security interest.

No further approvals, etc.

38. Despite any requirement under any Act, no approvals, notices or authorizations other than those specified in this Act are required under the Financing Plan or in relation to the determination of the fair allocation amount.

Liability

39. (1) No action or other civil proceeding shall be commenced against any employee of the Province or Ontario Power Generation Inc. for any act done in good faith in the exercise or performance or the intended exercise or performance of a power or duty under this Act, the regulations or for any alleged neglect or default in the exercise or performance in good faith of such a power or duty.

Same

(2) Nothing in subsection (1) shall be read as limiting the effect of subsection 19 (1) of the Electricity Act, 1998 or subsection 11 (1) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

Same

(3) Despite subsections 5 (2) and (4) of the Proceedings Against the Crown Act, subsection (1) does not relieve the Crown of liability in respect of a tort committed by a person mentioned in subsection (1) to which it would otherwise be subject.

References in marketing materials and offering documents

40. No person shall include, in marketing materials or offering documents relating to the financing of funding obligations, references to any rights, obligations, guarantees or undertakings arising under section 5 unless the prescribed requirements, if any, are satisfied.

Regulations

41. (1) The Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations in respect of the following matters:

1. Governing anything that is required or permitted to be prescribed or that is required or permitted to be done by, or in accordance with, the regulations or as authorized, specified or provided in the regulations.

2. Defining, for the purposes of a regulation, words and expressions used in this Act that are not defined in the Act.

3. Governing the incurrence of debt for the purposes of the definition of "refinancing" in subsection 1 (1).

4. Governing the inclusion of information under this Act on or with invoices, which may include requiring notice to be provided by electricity vendors to specified consumers and other prescribed persons regarding the adjustments, including providing for different requirements in different circumstances and for different classes of specified consumers.

5. Governing the inclusion of information about the clean energy adjustment and any other matters provided for under this Act on or with invoices issued to specified consumers, including the form that the information must take and the form of the invoices and the form of any notice to be provided to the specified consumer under this Act.

6. Governing the manner by which invoices or notices provided for under this Act are to be provided to specified consumers and other prescribed persons.

7. Providing for a right of compensation for investment interest owners affected by a breach under section 29 and the manner in which such a right may be enforced under this Act.

8. Prescribing the time within which any action required by this Act may be required to be done.

9. Providing for such other matters as the Lieutenant Governor in Council considers advisable to carry out the purpose of this Act.

Limitation

(2) Despite subsection (1) or any other Act, no regulation under this Act shall have the effect of reducing, impairing, postponing or terminating the obligations of specified consumers to pay amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment or impairing or postponing the invoicing, collection, remittance or recovery of the clean energy adjustment.

PART VIII
AMENDMENTS TO OTHER ACTS

Electricity Act, 1998

42. (1) Subsection 6 (1) of the Electricity Act, 1998 is amended by adding the following clause:

(q.1) to exercise the powers and rights and to perform the duties and obligations assigned to it under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and to engage in activities to facilitate the implementation of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, including,

(i) entering into agreements or arrangements with any person for the purposes of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017,

(ii) engaging in activities related to making payments to and receiving payments as contemplated under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and related settlement activities,

(iii) engaging in activities related to the transfer and administration of the regulatory asset created under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017, which activities may include,

(A) incurring liabilities in relation to the regulatory asset,

(B) transferring the regulatory asset under section 26 of the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 for consideration, and

(C) acting as a recovery agent under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017;

(2) Subsection 25.33 (1) of the Act is amended by striking out "and" at the end of clause (a), by adding "and" at the end of clause (b) and by adding the following clause:

(c) such amounts as may be prescribed that are paid or incurred by the IESO in relation to the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017.

(3) Subsection 25.33 (2) of the Act is amended by striking out "and" at the end of clause (a), by adding "and" at the end of clause (b) and by adding the following clause:

(c) such amounts as may be prescribed that are paid or incurred by the IESO in relation to the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017.

(4) Clause 25.33 (4) (b) of the Act is amended by adding "or as may be required by a regulation made under this Act or the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017" at the end.

(5) Subsection 25.33 (5) of the Act is amended by adding "or under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017" at the end.

(6) Section 53.1 of the Act is amended by adding the following subsections:

Same, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

(1.1) In addition to the objects mentioned in subsection (1), the objects of Ontario Power Generation Inc. include exercising the powers and rights and performing the duties and obligations assigned to it under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and engaging in activities to facilitate the implementation of that Act, including entering into contracts and undertakings on behalf of financing entities and performing other services on behalf of financing entities, subject to the right to be paid by the financing entities for those services.

Subsidiaries, etc.

(1.2) Ontario Power Generation Inc. may create or invest in one or more subsidiaries, trusts, partnerships, limited partnerships or special purpose entities in order to more efficiently conduct its activities or achieve its objects.

Deemed assets, non-subsidiary

(1.3) Despite any other provision of this Act, the Business Corporations Act or any other Act, if a financing entity is not a subsidiary of Ontario Power Generation Inc.,

(a) the assets and liabilities of the financing entity shall not form part of the assets and liabilities of Ontario Power Generation Inc. or any of its subsidiaries; and

(b) the assets and liabilities of Ontario Power Generation Inc. or any of its subsidiaries shall not form part of the assets and liabilities of the financing entity.

Deemed assets, subsidiary

(1.4) Despite any other provision of this Act, the Business Corporations Act or any other Act, if a financing entity is a subsidiary of Ontario Power Generation Inc.,

(a) the assets and liabilities of that financing entity shall not form part of the assets and liabilities of Ontario Power Generation Inc. or any of its other subsidiaries; and

(b) the assets and liabilities of Ontario Power Generation Inc. or any of its other subsidiaries shall not form part of the assets and liabilities of that financing entity.

Definition, financing entity

(1.5) For the purposes of this section,

"financing entity" has the same meaning as in the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017.

Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998

43. (1) Subsection 70 (2.1) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 is amended by adding the following paragraph:

4. The licensee is required to comply with the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017.

(2) Section 70 of the Act is amended by adding the following subsection:

Deemed condition of licences, unit sub-meter provider, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

(2.4) Every licence issued to a unit sub-meter provider is deemed to contain the condition that the unit sub-meter provider is required to comply with the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and the regulations made under it.

(3) Section 78.1 of the Act is amended by adding the following subsections:

Same, limitation re Ontario Power Generation Inc.

(3) The determination of a payment to Ontario Power Generation Inc. under this section shall not include any consideration of amounts related to activities of Ontario Power Generation Inc. carried out in relation to the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017.

Same

(3.1) The amounts referred to in subsection (3) include, without limitation, the following:

1. Amounts related to the appointment of Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017.

2. Amounts related to the charging of fees for performing duties as the Financial Services Manager.

3. Amounts related to exercising the powers and performing the duties of the Financial Services Manager.

4. Amounts related to the consolidation of the assets and liabilities for accounting purposes of any special purpose financing entities established under and for the purposes of that Act.

(4) Subsection 79.16 (3) of the Act is repealed.

PART IX
COMMENCEMENT AND SHORT TITLE

Commencement

44. This Schedule comes into force on the day the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 receives Royal Assent.

Short title

45. The short title of the Act set out in this Schedule is the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017.

SCHEDULE 2
AMENDMENTS TO THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD ACT, 1998

1. (1) Subsection 79 (4) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 is repealed and the following substituted:

Liability

(4) All consumers are required, in accordance with the regulations, to contribute towards the amount of any compensation required under subsection (3) that is not otherwise provided under subsection (4.1).

Payments for certain classes

(4.1) Compensation required under subsection (3) may be provided with respect to one or more prescribed classes of consumers who receive rate protection under this section, in a manner provided for in the regulations.

Money appropriated by the Legislature

(4.2) The compensation provided for in subsection (4.1) shall be paid for out of the money appropriated for those purposes by the Legislature.

Information, etc.

(4.3) If provided for in the regulations, the Board, the IESO and distributors, or any of them, shall provide such information and reports to the Ministry of Energy and to one another as are necessary to facilitate the implementation, administration, funding and delivery of the rate protection or of anything else provided for in this section.

(2) Clause 79 (5) (e) of the Act is repealed and the following substituted:

(e) prescribing rules respecting the amounts that must be collected to compensate distributors, taking into account any compensation provided under subsection (4.1), including rules,

(i) respecting the calculation of those amounts,

(ii) respecting the calculation of any off-set to the liability of consumers under subsection (3) having regard to those amounts,

(iii) establishing the time and manner of collection,

(iv) requiring the amounts to be paid in instalments and requiring the payment of interest or penalties on late payments,

(v) prescribing methods of ensuring that the amounts required cannot be bypassed, and

(vi) respecting the distribution of those amounts to consumers;

(e.1) prescribing classes of consumers for the purposes of subsection (4.1), and governing how and when the compensation is to be provided with respect to the rate protection provided to them, including, without restricting the generality of the foregoing, requiring the IESO to receive payments or amounts from the Minister of Energy and to make payments to licensed distributors or to prescribed persons and prescribing how and when payments are to be made;

2. Section 79.2 of the Act is repealed and the following substituted:

Rate assistance

79.2 (1) The Minister shall make provision for rate assistance for rate-assisted consumers having regard to their economic circumstances, and where the Minister makes such provision, shall do so out of the money provided for in subsection (4).

OESP

(2) The program known as the "Ontario Electricity Support Program" in English and "Programme ontarien d'aide relative aux frais d'électricité" in French is continued for the purpose of providing rate assistance to rate-assisted consumers having regard to their economic circumstances.

Administered by Board

(3) The Ontario Electricity Support Program shall be administered by the Board, or when the regulations so provide, by a Minister of the Crown or other entity provided for in the regulations.

Money appropriated by the Legislature

(4) The money required for the purposes of the Ontario Electricity Support Program shall be paid out of the money appropriated for those purposes by the Legislature, once the amounts recorded in the variance account referred to in subsection (5) are no longer sufficient to provide for the funding of the program when taken on their own.

Variance account

(5) The money required for the purposes of the Ontario Electricity Support Program shall be provided out of the credit balance in the variance account maintained by the IESO under the Program as it existed before the coming into force of section 2 of Schedule 2 to the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 until the amounts recorded in the account are no longer sufficient, when taken on their own, to fund the Program.

Variance account depleted

(6) The IESO shall provide the Ministry of Energy with advance notice, on a timely basis, of the time the IESO estimates that the amounts reflected in the variance account would be less than the amount required to meet its obligations related to funding the Ontario Electricity Support Program for the upcoming month.

How provided

(7) Rate assistance provided under this section shall be provided with respect to consumers prescribed in the regulations, and shall be provided at the times provided for in the regulations and in the amounts and in the manner provided for in the regulations.

Payments with respect to prior use

(8) The regulations may require provision of rate assistance to prescribed classes of rate-assisted consumers with respect to electricity consumed during a period prior to the date of the making of the regulation, but no such rate assistance shall be required under the regulations with respect to electricity consumed before January 1, 2016.

Transitional

(9) The regulations may require the provision of rate assistance for a rate-assisted consumer with respect to a period prior to the date on which the consumer became a rate-assisted consumer if the consumer meets all of the criteria prescribed by the regulations.

Distributors, etc.

(10) A distributor, a unit sub-meter provider and any other person or entity that may be prescribed is entitled to be compensated from the money referred to in subsection (4) or subsection (5), as the case may be, for any lost revenue resulting from the provision of rate assistance under the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

Deemed licence conditions, IESO, settlements, payments, etc.

(11) Every licence issued to the IESO, a distributor or unit sub-meter provider or a retailer of electricity shall be deemed to contain conditions requiring the licensee to do anything necessary to implement and administer the provision of rate assistance under this section as may be required by the regulations or the Board, including requirements with respect to,

(a) making payments to the IESO, distributors, unit sub-meter providers and other persons and entities identified by the regulations;

(b) receiving payments or other amounts from the IESO, distributors, unit sub-meter providers and other persons and entities identified by the Minister;

(c) requiring licensees to pass any rate assistance provided for under this section through to rate-assisted consumers in the manner provided for in the regulations;

(d) engaging in settlement activities;

(e) providing information to and receiving information from the Ministry of Energy, the Board, the IESO, distributors, unit sub-meter providers, retailers of electricity and any other prescribed persons and entities in the time and in the manner provided for by the Board or as may be prescribed; and

(f) entering into agreements or arrangements with licensees and other persons.

Information, etc.

(12) If provided for in the regulations, the Board, the IESO, distributors, retailers of electricity and unit sub-meter providers, or any of them, shall provide such information and reports to the Ministry of Energy and to one another as are necessary to facilitate the implementation, administration, funding and delivery of rate-assistance or of anything else required under this section.

Conflicts, etc.

(13) Where any conflict exists between an order of the Board, a code issued by the Board or a licence condition and this section or a regulation made under this section, this section or the regulation made under this section shall prevail to the extent of the conflict.

Regulations

(14) The Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations governing anything dealt with in this section and without limiting the generality of the foregoing, may make regulations,

(a) governing anything that is described in this section as being prescribed or as being provided for in the regulations or that is required to be done in accordance with the regulations;

(b) governing the time or times at which rate assistance shall be paid or become payable to rate-assisted consumers;

(c) governing the determination of classes of consumers who are rate-assisted consumers, including providing for different classes of rate-assisted consumers;

(d) requiring that certain costs and expenditures related to the Ontario Electricity Support Program be only incurred with the prior approval of the Minister, and governing those costs and expenditures;

(e) establishing rules for the calculation of the amount of the rate assistance to be provided;

(f) governing payments under this section, including determining the method or methods of calculating the amount of rate assistance to be provided;

(g) setting maximum amounts of the total annual value of rate assistance that may be provided;

(h) requiring a distributor, the IESO or a unit sub-meter provider or other prescribed person or entity to make or receive payments in respect of rate assistance, including requiring them to make or receive payments directly to or from the Ministry of Energy or to receive overpayments directly or indirectly from consumers or other persons entitled to receive the rate assistance and prescribing the circumstances in which such payments are to be made and received and such overpayments are to be received as well as methods for determining the amounts payable or to be received;

(i) requiring the IESO to receive payments from the Minister and requiring the IESO to make payments to the Board, to licensed distributors, to unit sub-meter providers or to prescribed persons, in respect of the rate assistance provided under this section and governing methods for determining the amounts payable;

(j) governing the Board's or other prescribed entity's administration and program-related costs in administering the Ontario Electricity Support Program;

(k) governing transitional matters arising from the changes made to the Ontario Electricity Support Program as a result of the enactment of the Fair Hydro Act, 2017.

Retroactivity

(15) A regulation made under this section is, if it so provides, effective with reference to a period before it is filed.

General or particular

(16) A regulation under this section may be general or particular in application, may provide for different classes of persons and entities and may prescribe different rules for different persons or entities or different classes of persons or entities.

Verification of eligibility

(17) Section 11 of the Ministry of Revenue Act applies with respect to the Ontario Electricity Support Program as a government assistance program administered by the Board.

Definitions

(18) In this section,

"Government assistance program" has the meaning provided for in subsection 11 (2) of the Ministry of Revenue Act; ("programme d'aide gouvernementale")

"rate-assisted consumer" means a consumer referred to in subsection (7). ("consommateur admissible à l'aide tarifaire")

3. The Act is amended by adding the following section:

Confidentiality, information sharing, etc.

79.2.1 (1) For the purposes of section 79.2, the Board or the Minister or entity having responsibility for administering the Ontario Electricity Support Program may enter into an agreement with the Minister of Community and Social Services to provide the services to the public listed in subsection (2) on behalf of the Board, Minister or the entity, as the case may be, in relation to the administration of the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

Agreement, etc.

(2) The services that may be included in an agreement referred to in subsection (1) are the following:

1. Providing documents and information about the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

2. Processing applications for the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

Arrangements with others

(3) The Minister of Community and Social Services may arrange with another person or entity to provide, on behalf of that Minister, services that that Minister is authorized to provide under an agreement referred to in subsection (1).

Personal information

(4) The Minister of Community and Social Services is authorized to collect, use, disclose and retain personal information necessary to provide the services authorized by an agreement referred to in subsection (1), but shall not collect, use, disclose or retain more personal information than is reasonably necessary to provide the services.

Limitation

(5) Except where otherwise authorized under subsection (7), the Minister of Community and Social Services shall not collect, use, disclose or retain personal information provided for in subsection (4) without the consent of the individual to whom the information relates.

Duty to transfer personal information

(6) The Minister of Community and Social Services shall transfer an individual's personal information provided for in subsection (4) into the control of the Board, Minister or entity responsible for administering the Ontario Electricity Support Program promptly after processing an application for the Ontario Electricity Support Program, but may retain such personal information as is reasonably necessary to confirm that an individual has been provided a service.

Use of personal information, etc.

(7) The Minister of Community and Social Services may use personal information maintained by that Minister in connection with the administration of the Ontario Disability Support Program and the program established pursuant to the Ontario Works Act, 1997, for the purpose of identifying and contacting individuals eligible for the rate assistance provided under the Ontario Electricity Support Program, and to provide services authorized under an agreement referred to in subsection (1).

Deemed compliance

(8) The use of personal information as allowed by subsection (7) is deemed to comply with section 41 of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act.

Disclosure of list

(9) In order to assist the Minister of Community and Social Services to identify individuals eligible for rate assistance, the Board or the Minister or entity having responsibility for administering the Ontario Electricity Support Program shall, as soon as practicable after the coming into force of this section, disclose to the Minister of Community and Social Services a list of individuals who are enrolled in the Ontario Electricity Support Program, together with their mailing address and other contact information.

Use of list

(10) The Minister of Community and Social Services may use the information on the list provided under subsection (9) to determine whether an individual who is currently enrolled in the Ontario Disability Support Program or the program established under the Ontario Works Act, 1997 is also enrolled in the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

Destruction of list

(11) The Minister of Community and Social Services shall destroy the list provided under subsection (9) no later than one year after receiving the list.

Notification about the management of personal information

(12) The Minister of Community and Social Services shall ensure that a notice is published on a website describing,

(a) the purpose for which that Minister collects, uses, discloses and retains personal information in connection with the Ontario Electricity Support Program;

(b) the types of personal information that may be collected, used, disclosed and retained in connection with the Ontario Electricity Support Program, and the circumstances in which the personal information may be collected, used, disclosed and retained in connection with that Program; and

(c) the title, and contact information, including an email address, of an employee who can answer an individual's questions about the use of the personal information under this section.

4. The Act is amended by adding the following sections:

Distribution rate-protected consumers

79.3 (1) The Minister shall provide for distribution rate protection to distribution rate-protected residential consumers having regard to the costs of the distribution of electricity to such consumers with respect to electricity consumed on or after the date prescribed by the regulations.

Money appropriated by the Legislature

(2) The money required for the purposes of the provision of distribution rate protection under this section shall be paid out of the money appropriated for those purposes by the Legislature.

Maximum charge

(3) Despite any order of the Board, or anything else under this Act, where the regulations so provide, a prescribed distributor who distributes electricity to distribution rate-protected residential consumers shall not charge those consumers, or a prescribed class of those consumers, any amount for monthly base distribution charges more than,

(a) the maximum amount for the charge that is provided for in the regulations; or

(b) the amount determined by the Board after applying any calculations, processes or methods provided for in the regulations.

Distributors

(4) A distributor who is prescribed under this section is entitled to be compensated from the money referred to in subsection (2) for lost revenue resulting from the provision of the distribution rate protection to distribution rate-protected residential consumers under this section.

Information, etc.

(5) If provided for in the regulations, the Board, the IESO and distributors, or any of them shall provide such information and reports to the Ministry of Energy and to one another as are necessary to facilitate the implementation, administration, funding and delivery of distribution rate protection or of anything else required under this section.

Limitation periods for distribution rate protection, consumer

(6) Despite any past entitlement of a consumer who is eligible to distribution rate protection under this section, no distribution rate protection is payable to a consumer after a limitation period prescribed by the regulations in respect of the consumer, other than in such circumstances as may be prescribed by the regulations.

Limitation, reimbursement of distributor, etc.

(7) Despite any requirement under this Act to reimburse a prescribed distributor or other person for distribution rate protection provided by them to distribution rate-protected residential consumers under this section, no amounts for reimbursement are payable to the prescribed distributor or other person after a limitation period prescribed by the regulations in respect of the prescribed distributor or other person, where such reimbursement is based on a consumer's past entitlement under this section which has not yet been paid or reimbursed under this section, other than in such circumstances as may be prescribed by the regulations.

Transitional

(8) If, for technical or operational reasons, a distributor referred to in subsection (3) is unable to adapt its invoices to comply with this section and the regulations by the time it issues its first invoice for electricity consumed after the prescribed date in respect of an account of a consumer who is eligible for distribution rate protection under this section,

(a) the distributor shall adapt its invoices as soon as possible and, in any event, no later than a date prescribed in the regulations; and

(b) consumers continue to be entitled to receive the distribution rate protection to which they are entitled under this Act and may receive it as a lump sum credit on the invoice for the first billing period after the invoices have been adapted or by such other means as may be prescribed by the regulations.

Regulations

(9) The Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations,

(a) prescribing consumers or classes of consumers as distribution rate-protected residential consumers for the purposes of this section;

(b) prescribing dates for the purposes of subsections (1) and (8);

(c) prescribing distributors for the purposes of this section;

(d) governing anything that is described in this section as being prescribed or as being provided for in the regulations or that is required to be done in accordance with the regulations;

(e) governing the provision of distribution rate protection by the Minister in respect of distribution rate-protected residential consumers under this section including determining the method or methods of calculating the amount of rate protection to be provided;

(f) requiring the IESO to receive payments from the Minister and to make payments to licensed distributors, or to persons prescribed by the regulations, in respect of the distribution rate protection provided for under this section and prescribing methods for determining the amounts payable to distributors or distribution rate-protected residential consumers in respect of that protection.

Interpretation

(10) In this section,

"distribution rate-protected residential consumer" has the meaning provided for in the regulations; ("consommateur résidentiel protégé contre les frais de distribution")

"monthly base distribution charges" has the meaning provided for in the regulations. ("frais de distribution mensuels de base")

Delivery credit for on-reserve consumers

79.4 (1) The Minister shall provide a delivery credit to on-reserve consumers who meet the criteria prescribed under this section with respect to electricity consumed on or after the date prescribed by the regulations.

Money appropriated by the Legislature

(2) The money required for the purposes of the provision of the credits required under this section shall be paid out of the money appropriated for those purposes by the Legislature.

Eligible costs

(3) The eligible costs for the delivery credit referred to in subsection (1) are,

(a) the sum of the following charges for which the consumer would otherwise be liable,

(i) all variable and fixed distribution charges,

(ii) all charges based on the retail transmission network service rate,

(iii) all charges based on the retail transmission connection service rate,

(iv) all charges related to losses incurred in the distribution of electricity, except for such amounts that are included in regulatory charges provided for in the regulations, and

(v) any other charges that may be prescribed in the regulations; or

(b) where no separate charges for delivery are provided for by the distributor or other person or entity that may be prescribed in the regulations, the monthly service charge or such other amount as may be prescribed for or in respect of a prescribed distributor.

Delivery credit

(4) A distributor, person or entity shall, unless the regulations provide otherwise, provide the delivery credit referred to in subsection (1) by crediting the account of an on-reserve consumer.

Same

(5) The regulations may require that distributors and any other persons or entities provide a delivery credit to an on-reserve consumer who is entitled to a delivery credit under subsection (1) in such manner or in accordance with such methods as may be prescribed.

Same

(6) A distributor or any person or entity as may be prescribed is entitled to be compensated from the money referred to in subsection (2) for any lost revenue resulting from the provision of the delivery credits under this section.

Information, etc.

(7) If provided for in the regulations, the Board, the IESO and distributors, and other persons or entities, or any of them, shall provide such information and reports to the Ministry of Energy and to one another as are necessary to facilitate the implementation, administration, funding and delivery of the delivery credits or of anything else required under this section.

Limitation periods for delivery credit, consumer

(8) Despite any past entitlement of an on-reserve consumer who is eligible for a delivery credit under this section, no delivery credit is payable to an on-reserve consumer after a limitation period prescribed by the regulations in respect of the on-reserve consumer, other than in such circumstances as may be prescribed by the regulations.

Limitation, reimbursement of distributor, etc.

(9) Despite any requirement under this Act to reimburse a distributor or other persons or entities for delivery credits provided by them to on-reserve consumers under this section, no amounts for reimbursement are payable to the distributor or other persons or entities after a limitation period prescribed by the regulations in respect of the distributor or other persons or entities, where such reimbursement is based on an on-reserve consumer's past entitlement under this section which has not yet been paid or reimbursed under this section, other than in such circumstances as may be prescribed by the regulations.

Transitional

(10) If, for technical or operational reasons, a distributor referred to in subsection (4) is unable to adapt its invoices to comply with this section and the regulations by the time it issues its first invoice for electricity consumed after the prescribed date in respect of an eligible account,

(a) the distributor shall adapt its invoices as soon as possible and, in any event, no later than a date prescribed in the regulations; and

(b) on-reserve consumers continue to be entitled to receive the delivery credit to which they are entitled under this Act and may receive it as a lump sum credit on the invoice for the first billing period after the invoices have been adapted or by such other means as may be prescribed by the regulations.

Regulations

(11) The Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations,

(a) governing who is an on-reserve consumer for the purposes of this section and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, may provide that consumers who occupy certain areas are on-reserve consumers, and may do so without regard to whether those areas constitute a "reserve" under any other Act or law;

(b) prescribing dates for the purposes of subsections (1) and (10);

(c) governing provision of the delivery credits provided to on-reserve consumers under this section and, without restricting the generality of the foregoing, governing anything that under this section is to be prescribed or provided for in the regulations, or that is to be done in accordance with the regulations;

(d) determining the method or methods of calculating the amount of the delivery credits to be provided by the Minister in respect of on-reserve consumers under this section;

(e) requiring the IESO to make and receive payments to and from the Minister and to make payments to licensed distributors, or to persons prescribed by the regulations, in respect of the delivery credits provided for under this section and prescribing methods for determining the amounts payable to distributors or on-reserve consumers in respect of the credits provided.

Interpretation

(12) In this section,

"on-reserve consumer" has the meaning provided for in the regulations.

Application

79.5 Sections 79.6 through 79.11 apply to the programs provided for under sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 to the extent that they are funded by money appropriated for those purposes by the Legislature.

Definition

79.6 In sections 79.7 to 79.11,

"Finance Minister" means the Minister of Finance or such other member of the Executive Council to whom the administration of those sections is assigned under the Executive Council Act.

Records

79.7 (1) Every distributor and every other person prescribed by regulation shall keep at a location in Ontario such records as are necessary to determine and verify compliance with sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 and the regulations associated with them and any records required by those regulations to be kept.

Electronic records

(2) If a person keeps records in an electronic form, the person shall ensure that, from the time the records are first made and for as long as they are required to be retained,

(a) they remain complete and unaltered, apart from any changes or additions made in the normal course of communication, storage or display; and

(b) they are capable of being printed and of being produced in electronically readable format for inspection, examination or audit.

Retention of records

(3) Records required to be kept under subsection (1) shall not be destroyed unless authorization has been given in writing by the Finance Minister.

Offence

(4) Every person who fails to keep records in accordance with this section is guilty of an offence and, on conviction, is liable to a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $5,000.

Inspections and inquiries

79.8 (1) The Finance Minister may appoint one or more inspectors who are authorized to exercise any of the powers and perform any of the duties of a person authorized by the Minister under subsection 31 (1) of the Retail Sales Tax Act for any purpose related to the administration and enforcement of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 of this Act.

Same

(2) Subsections 31 (1), (2), (2.1) and (2.2) of the Retail Sales Tax Act apply, with necessary modifications, with respect to the administration and enforcement of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 of this Act.

Admission of evidence

(3) The Finance Minister, or a person authorized by the Finance Minister, may, for any purpose related to the administration of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them, reproduce from original data stored electronically any information previously submitted as required under those sections or regulations in any form by any person, and the electronically reproduced document shall be admissible in evidence and shall have the same probative force as the original document would have had if it had been proved in the ordinary way.

Inquiry

(4) The Finance Minister may, for any purpose related to the administration of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 of this Act or the regulations made in association with them, authorize any person, whether or not the person is an employee in the Ministry of the Finance Minister, to make such inquiry as the Finance Minister considers necessary with reference to anything relating to the administration of this Act or the regulations.

Copies

(5) If a book, record or other document is examined or produced under this section, the person by whom it is examined or to whom it is produced or any officer of the Ministry may make, or cause to be made, one or more copies of it, and a document purporting to be certified by the person to be a copy made pursuant to this section is admissible in evidence and has the same probative force as the original document would have if proved in the ordinary way.

Compliance

(6) No person shall hinder or molest or interfere with any person doing anything that the person is authorized by this section to do or prevent or attempt to prevent any person doing any such thing.

Same

(7) Despite any other law to the contrary, every person shall, unless the person is unable to do so, do everything the person is required by this section to do.

Administration of oaths

(8) Declarations or affidavits in connection with statements of information submitted pursuant to this section may be taken before any person having authority to administer an oath or before any person specially authorized for that purpose by the Lieutenant Governor in Council, but any person so specially authorized shall not charge any fee for doing so.

Application of Public Inquiries Act, 2009

(9) Section 33 of the Public Inquiries Act, 2009 applies to an inquiry under subsection (4).

Recovery of overpayments

Definitions

79.9 (1) In this section,

"inspector" means an inspector referred to in section 79.8; ("inspecteur")

"overpayment" means an amount received by a person in excess of that to which the person is entitled under sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them. ("trop-perçu")

Notice of overpayment

(2) If it appears to an inspector that a person has received an overpayment, the Finance Minister may send a written notice to the person advising the person of the following:

1. That the person has received an overpayment.

2. The amount of the overpayment and how it was calculated.

3. The required steps to be taken by the person with respect to the overpayment.

4. The date, not more than six months after the date of the notice, by which these steps must be completed.

5. That the Finance Minister has the authority to assess the person for the amount of the overpayment, plus interest, if the person fails to complete the required steps by the specified date.

Calculation of amount of overpayment

(3) For the purposes of this section, an inspector shall calculate an overpayment or the outstanding balance of an overpayment in the manner and form and using such procedures as the Finance Minister considers adequate and expedient.

Assessment

(4) If a person fails to complete the steps required in a notice under subsection (2) within the time specified in the notice, and any additional time requested by the person and permitted by the Finance Minister, the Finance Minister may assess or reassess the amount of the overpayment, or the outstanding balance of the overpayment, based on the inspector's calculation described in subsection (3).

Penalty

(5) If the Finance Minister makes an assessment or reassessment under subsection (4) and is satisfied that the person's non-compliance with the required steps in the notice was attributable to neglect, carelessness, wilful default or fraud, the Finance Minister may assess a penalty against the person equal to the outstanding balance of the overpayment when the penalty is assessed.

Time limit

(6) The Finance Minister shall not assess or reassess under subsection (4) more than 48 months after the end of the month in which the person received the overpayment.

Exception, where misrepresentation, etc.

(7) Subsection (6) does not apply if the Finance Minister establishes that the person has made a misrepresentation that is attributable to neglect, carelessness or wilful default or has committed any fraud in supplying information under this Act or the regulations or in omitting to disclose information.

Deeming

(8) An amount assessed or reassessed by the Finance Minister under this section is deemed, for the purposes of the administration and enforcement of this Act, to be a debt retirement charge owing and payable, as defined in subsection 85 (1) of the Electricity Act, 1998, that has been collected, on the last day of the month in which the person received the overpayment, by the person as a collector appointed under subsection 85.3 (1) of the Electricity Act, 1998 and, for those purposes,

(a) sections 85.11, 85.12, 85.14, 85.17 and 85.30 of that Act apply with necessary modifications;

(b) in the application of sections 85.11 and 85.14 of that Act and without limiting the generality of clause (a) of this subsection, references to the Financial Corporation are read as references to the Minister of Finance and references to the Minister of Finance are read as references to the Finance Minister as defined in section 79.6 of this Act;

(c) the regulations made under that Act for the purposes of calculating the rate or rates of interest payable under section 85.11 of that Act and the manner of calculating the amount of interest apply with necessary modifications; and

(d) sections 23 and 36, subsections 37 (1), (1.1) and (2) and sections 37.1, 38 and 39 of the Retail Sales Tax Act apply with necessary modifications.

Disposition of repaid amounts

(9) If all or part of an overpayment is repaid to the Finance Minister, the Minister of Energy shall make such financial arrangements and payments as may be necessary to ensure that any person entitled to all or part of the overpayment receives the appropriate amount.

Confidentiality

79.10 (1) Except as authorized by this section, no person employed by the Government of Ontario shall,

(a) knowingly communicate or knowingly allow to be communicated to any person any information obtained by or on behalf of the Minister of Energy or the Finance Minister for the purposes of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them; or

(b) knowingly allow any person to inspect or to have access to any record or thing obtained by or on behalf of either Minister for the purposes of this Act.

Testimony

(2) No person employed by the Government of Ontario shall be required, in connection with any legal proceedings,

(a) to give evidence relating to any information obtained by or on behalf of the Minister of Energy or Finance Minister for the purposes of this Act; or

(b) to produce any record or thing obtained by or on behalf of either Minister for the purposes of this Act.

Exception

(3) Subsections (1) and (2) do not apply in respect of,

(a) criminal proceedings under any Act of the Parliament of Canada;

(b) proceedings in respect of the trial of any person for an offence under an Act of the Legislature; or

(c) proceedings relating to the administration or enforcement of this Act or Part V.1 or VI of the Electricity Act, 1998.

Communication

(4) A person employed by the Government of Ontario may, in the course of duties in connection with the administration or enforcement of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them,

(a) communicate or allow to be communicated to another person employed by the Government of Ontario in the administration or enforcement of any law or to an employee of the Board information obtained by or on behalf of either Minister for the purposes of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them; and

(b) allow another person employed by the Government of Ontario in the administration or enforcement of any law or an employee of the Board to inspect or have access to any record or thing obtained by or on behalf of either Minister for the purposes of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them.

Reciprocal communication

(5) A person who receives information or obtains access to any record or thing under subsection (4) has a duty to communicate or furnish to that Minister on a reciprocal basis any information, record or thing obtained by the person that affects the administration or enforcement of this Act.

Use of information

(6) Any information, record or thing communicated or furnished under this section may be used only for the administration or enforcement of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them or an Act that is administered or enforced by the person receiving the information, record or thing.

Same

(7) The Finance Minister may permit information or a copy of any record or thing obtained by or on behalf of the Finance Minister for the purposes of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them to be given to,

(a) the person from whom the information, record or thing was obtained;

(b) any person by whom an amount is payable or has been paid under sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them; or

(c) the legal representative of a person mentioned in clause (a) or (b) or the agent of the person authorized in writing in that behalf.

Information

(8) The Finance Minister may permit information or a copy of any record or thing obtained by or on behalf of the Finance Minister for the purposes of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them to be given to any person employed by any government if,

(a) the information, record or thing obtained by that government for the purpose of any Act that imposes a tax or duty are communicated or furnished on a reciprocal basis to the Minister; and

(b) the information, record or thing will not be used for any purpose other than the administration or enforcement of a law that provides for the imposition of a tax or duty.

Offence

(9) Every person who contravenes any provision of this section is guilty of an offence and on conviction is liable to a fine of not more than $2,000.

Offences

False statements, etc., and fraud

79.11 (1) Every person who engages in any of the following acts or omissions is guilty of an offence:

1. Making, participating in, assenting to or acquiescing in the making of a false or deceptive statement in any document or answer required or submitted under sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them.

2. Destroying, altering, mutilating, hiding or otherwise disposing of information or records of any person, for the purpose of evading compliance with sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them.

3. Making, assenting to or acquiescing in the making of a false or deceptive entry of a material particular in a record of any person required to maintain records for the purposes of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them.

4. Omitting to make or assenting to or acquiescing in the omission of an entry of a material particular in a record of any person required to maintain records for the purposes of sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them.

5. Wilfully evading or attempting to evade, in any manner, compliance with an obligation under sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them.

Penalty upon conviction

(2) A person convicted of an offence under subsection (1) is liable to either or both of the following penalties in addition to any other penalty assessed under this Act:

1. A fine in an amount that is not less than $1,000 and not more than $10,000.

2. Imprisonment for a term of not more than two years.

General offence

(3) Every person who contravenes, by any act or omission, any other requirement imposed under sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 is guilty of an offence and, on conviction, is liable, where no other penalty is provided for the offence, to a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $5,000.

Limitation period

(4) A proceeding to prosecute an offence provided for in this section must be commenced within six years after the date on which the matter of the offence arose.

Payment of fines

(5) Fines imposed on conviction of an offence provided for in this section are payable to the Finance Minister on behalf of the Crown in right of Ontario.

Commencement

5. (1) Subject to subsection (2), this Schedule comes into force on the day the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 receives Royal Assent.

(2) Section 2 comes into force on a day to be named by proclamation of the Lieutenant Governor.

Hi Nadine:

Happy New Year – hope you enjoyed a wonderful holiday season with friends and family!

My assistant is working on an invoice for the work performed re: GBE dilution prior to the holidays but, before issuing, I wanted to discuss process with you (and the template Blake sent over just before the holidays). Do you have time to discuss at some point this week?

Thanks,

Suzie

Appendix D
General business terms

Treasury Board Secretariat, Office of the Provincial Controller
September 14, 2016

The following general business terms (the "Terms") apply to the engagement except as otherwise provided in the specific engagement letter agreement (the "engagement letter") between Firm LLP ("XXX") and the Office of the Provincial Controller (the "OPCD") to which these Terms are attached.

1. Timely performance - Deloitte will not be liable for failures or delays in performance that arise from causes beyond Deloitte's control, including the untimely performance by the OPCD of its obligations as set out in the engagement letter.
2. Right to terminate services - If the OPCD terminates the engagement or requests that Deloitte resign from the engagement prior to its completion, the OPCD will pay for time and expenses incurred by Deloitte up to the termination or resignation date together with reasonable time and expenses incurred to bring the services to a close in a prompt and orderly manner. Deloitte will not be responsible for any loss, cost or expense resulting from such termination or resignation. Should the OPCD not fulfill its obligations set out herein or in the engagement letter, and in the absence of rectification by the OPCD within thirty (30) days of notification in writing by Deloitte, upon written notification Deloitte may terminate its services immediately and will not be responsible for any loss, cost or expense resulting from such early termination.
3. Fees and taxes - Any fee estimates take into account the agreed-upon level of preparation and assistance from OPCD personnel. Deloitte undertakes to advise management of the OPCD on a timely basis should this preparation and assistance not be provided or should any other circumstances arise which cause actual time to exceed that estimate. The OPCD is responsible for the payment of any applicable federal, provincial or other goods and services or sales taxes, or any other taxes or duties, in connection with the services provided by Deloitte.
4. Expenses - In addition to professional fees, the OPCD will reimburse Deloitte for its reasonable out-of-pocket expenses including travel, meals and hotels incurred in connection with this engagement.
5. Billing - Invoices will be rendered periodically as agreed in advance. All invoices shall be due and payable when rendered. Interest shall be calculated at a simple daily rate of 0.0493% (equivalent to 18% per annum). Interest shall be charged and payable at this rate on any part of an invoice which remains unpaid from thirty (30) days after the invoice date to the date on which the outstanding invoice is paid. To the extent that as part of the services to be performed by Deloitte as described in the engagement letter, Deloitte personnel are required to perform the services in the United States of America ("U.S. Business"), the OPCD and Deloitte agree to assign performance of the U.S. Business to Deloitte Canada LLP, an affiliate of Deloitte. All services performed by Deloitte Canada LLP shall be performed under the direction of Deloitte which shall remain responsible to the OPCD for such services. Deloitte Canada LLP shall invoice the OPCD with respect to the U.S. Business and Deloitte will invoice for services performed in Canada ("Canadian Business"). Payment for U.S. Business and/or Canadian Business can be settled with one payment to Deloitte.
6. Governing law - The engagement will be governed by the laws of the Province where Deloitte's principal office performing the engagement is located and all disputes related to the engagement shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of such Province.

7. Working papers - All working papers, files and other internal materials created or produced by Deloitte related to the engagement are the property of Deloitte. In the event that Deloitte is requested by the OPCD or required by subpoena or other legal or regulatory process to produce its files related to this engagement in proceedings to which Deloitte is not a party, the OPCD will reimburse Deloitte for its professional time and expenses, including legal fees, incurred in dealing with such matters.
8. Privacy - Deloitte and the OPCD acknowledge and agree that, during the course of this engagement, Deloitte may collect, use and disclose personal information about identifiable individuals ("Personal Information"). Deloitte's services are provided on the basis that the OPCD has obtained any required consents for collection, use and disclosure to Deloitte of Personal Information required under applicable privacy legislation. The OPCD and Deloitte agree that Deloitte will collect, use, transfer, store, disclose or otherwise process Personal Information on behalf of the OPCD solely for purposes related to completing this engagement, related engagements, or providing services to the OPCD or as otherwise permitted by these Terms.
9. Third parties - Deloitte's engagement is not planned or conducted in contemplation of or for the purpose of reliance by any third party (other than the OPCD and any party to whom Deloitte's report is addressed) or with respect to any specific transaction. Therefore, items of possible interest to a third party will not be addressed and matters may exist that would be assessed differently by a third party, possibly in connection with a specific transaction.
10. Confidentiality - To the extent that, in connection with this engagement, Deloitte comes into possession of Personal Information or any proprietary or confidential information of the OPCD (collectively, "Confidential Information"), Deloitte will not disclose such information to any third party without the OPCD's consent, except:

a. as may be required or permitted by legal authority, the rules of professional conduct/code of ethics;
b. to Deloitte Entities (as such term is defined below in section 12), component auditors, permitted subcontractors and third parties that provide services to Deloitte; or
c. to the extent that such information shall have otherwise become publicly available.

Except as instructed otherwise in writing, each party consents to properly addressed fax, email (including email exchanged via Internet media) and voicemail communication of both sensitive confidential and non-sensitive documents, information and other communications concerning this Agreement, as well as other means of communication used or accepted by the other. It is recognized that the Internet may be insecure and each party will be responsible for protecting its own systems and interests and, to the fullest extent permitted by law, will not be responsible to the other on any basis (contract, tort or otherwise) for any loss, damage or omission in any way arising from the use of the Internet or from access by any Client or Deloitte personnel, including personnel of Deloitte Entities and third parties that provide services to Deloitte, to networks, applications, electronic data or other systems of the other party.

11. Assignment - Except as provided below in section 12, no party may assign, transfer, or delegate any of its rights or obligations relating to this engagement without the prior written consent of the other parties.
12. Subcontracting - Deloitte may use the services of any of its affiliates or any member firm of Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited ('DTTL") and its respective subsidiaries and affiliates, including those operating outside Canada ("Deloitte Entities"), component auditors or any other party. Deloitte remains responsible to the OPCD for services performed by Deloitte Entities and other parties under this engagement. Each member firm of DTTL is a separate and independent legal entity operating under the names "Deloitte", "Deloitte & Touche", "Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu" or other related names; and services are provided by member firms or their subsidiaries or affiliates and not by DTTL.
13. Survival of terms - The agreements and undertakings of the OPCD contained in the engagement letter, together with the appendices to the engagement letter including these Terms, will survive the completion or termination of this engagement.

14. Electronic messaging - In accordance with Canadian anti-spam legislation, the OPCD consents to Deloitte contacting the OPCD and its personnel through electronic messages relating to Deloitte's services, products and other matters of interest to the OPCD after the completion of this engagement. The OPCD may withdraw any such consent by contacting Deloitte at unsubscribe@deloitte.ca.
15. Proportionate liability - The OPCD and Deloitte acknowledge where the engagement is conducted pursuant to a statute governing the OPCD that contains proportionate liability provisions that apply to an auditor, such as the Canada Business Corporations Act, the terms of the statute shall apply to this engagement. In the event that the OPCD and Deloitte are not subject to such statutory provisions regarding proportionate liability, the OPCD agrees that in any action, claim, loss or damage arising out of the engagement, Deloitte's liability will be several and not joint and several and the OPCD may only claim payment from Deloitte of Deloitte's proportionate share of the total liability based on the degree of fault of Deloitte as finally determined by a court of competent jurisdiction.
16. Client misrepresentation - Deloitte shall not be liable to the OPCD, and the OPCD releases Deloitte, for all liabilities, claims, damages, costs, charges and expenses incurred or suffered by the OPCD related to or in any way associated with the engagement that arise from or are based on any deliberate misstatement or omission in any material information or representation provided by or approved by any member of management of the OPCD, officer of the OPCD or member of the board of directors of the OPCD.

Sorry, this is last minute.

But I think we can all benefit having a call so we can focus on looking at options. Do you have time to discuss at 1pm?

Hi Kim,

I believe Cindy gave you a heads up that we've received some questions from the Globe and Mail. We've put together a response that will go through our Communications team, but wanted to make sure you were comfortable.

Here are the reporter's questions:

1) On what date did Ms. Veinot ask the IESO to "look at" the issue of market accounts on the IESO's financial statements?

2) What form did this request take? (Letter, memo, personal conversation, etc.)

3) To whom at IESO did Ms. Veinot direct this request?

4) Did Ms. Veinot indicate to the IESO a time frame in which her instructions were to be executed? If so, what was that timeframe?

And here is our proposed response:

During the week of January 16, 2017, Cindy Veinot, Assistant Deputy Minister and Provincial Controller had a conversation with Kim Marshall, Vice President, Corporate Services and Chief Financial Officer regarding IESO taking a closer look at the appropriate use of market accounts on their financial statements. While no specific timeframe was discussed during the conversation, the intention of the request was to have this review completed before the province's year-end of March 31, 2017.

We need to provide a response by end of day – please let me know if any concerns as soon as possible.

Thanks

Sarah

Wabigoon River Remediation Project

Site Description

The Wabigoon River is located in the District of Kenora in Northwestern Ontario. It flows from Raleigh Lake to Wabigoon Lake to join the English River downstream of the City of Dryden. The area of interest is a 150-kilometre stretch of the river between Wabigoon Lake and the English River, and work is underway to determine the extent of contamination and confirm whether there is an ongoing source of contamination. The contaminant of concern is mercury.

The Dryden mill site has the potential to be included as an additional site in this project for reasons described below.

Five PS 3260 Criteria	Evaluation
An environmental standard exists	Sediment: Guidelines for Identifying, Assessing and Managing Contaminated Sediments in Ontario: An Integrated Approach, Ministry of the Environment, 2008 Fish: Guide to Eating Ontario Fish, Ontario Ministry of the Environment and Climate Change, 2017 (consumption advice is based mainly on Health Canada guidelines) Groundwater: Soil, Ground Water and Sediment Standards for Use Under Part XV.1 of the Environmental Protection Act, April 15, 2001, and incorporated by reference into O. Reg. 153/04 Records of Site Condition – Part XV.1 of the Environmental Protection Act, Ministry of the Environment, 2011
Contamination exceeds the environmental standard	Background During the 1960s and 1970s, a chlor-alkali plant in Dryden discharged approximately 10 metric tonnes of mercury into the Wabigoon River, affecting both the English and Wabigoon Rivers. In 1970, in response to an order from the province, actions were taken and levels of mercury in wastewater were reduced. The plant was decommissioned in 1975. In 1971, Ontario suspended the commercial fishing licences for walleye, pike and sauger for the Wabigoon and English river systems due to the elevated levels of mercury in fish; the pollution has impacted both the economies and health of the Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations. Studies by the federal and provincial governments were conducted in the 1980s in the English Wabigoon River to determine the location and the extent of contamination. Natural recovery was advised based on consideration of six factors: • Mercury discharges to the system were essentially eliminated. • Background mercury levels in lakes in the immediate area of the English Wabigoon River, but not affected by the discharges, were in most cases higher than the recommended levels for human consumption. • Concerns about the risk of possible remobilization of mercury. • Focus, at the time, was primarily on social and economic agreements and secondarily on drinking water. • Most parties contacted preferred natural recovery. • Northern communities and tourism industry did not want further attention drawn to the river system. In 1985, a settlement agreement was reached between the relevant corporate parties, Wabaseemoong, Grassy Narrows and the provincial and federal governments. The settlement provided $16.67 million in monetary compensation to the First Nations and includes a release of liability from the First Nations to the Crown and the corporate parties. It also includes an indemnification of the corporate parties by Ontario for certain potential future liability. Despite significant declines in mercury levels in fish in some areas of the English Wabigoon River system, mercury levels in fish in other areas remain high and restrictions on consumption remain in place. Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations have treaty rights to fish; the communities rely on fish from the river system for food and have expressed concerns with ongoing methylmercury levels. On May 30, 2016, Grassy Narrows First Nation publically released the report “Advice on Mercury Remediation Options for the Wabigoon-English River System” commissioned by the community and authored by Reed Harris, Dr. Patricia Sellers and Dr. John Rudd.

DRAFT

- The report called for extensive field work to determine current levels of mercury in the environment and identify the most appropriate approaches for remediation.
- This field work has been identified by the Grassy Narrows Council as their top priority and Ontario is providing funding to the community to support that work.

On September 20, 2016, Dr. Masanori Hanada (Dean of Social Welfare & Policy, Minamata Studies, Kumamoto Gakuen University) and Grassy Narrows Chief Simon Fobister Sr. held a press conference to present Dr. Hanada's research findings that more than 90 per cent of the people tested in 2014, from Grassy Narrows and Wabaseemoong showed signs of mercury poisoning.

Current Status

There is limited data on current environmental conditions in the Wabigoon River, outside of contaminant levels in fish. The ministry working with Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations and stakeholders to identify mercury contaminated sites in the Wabigoon River. This work is in the preliminary stages, steps 2-4, of the 17-step contaminated sites assessment process depicted in the file attached below. The ministry has yet to confirm the extent of contamination in the river or whether there is an ongoing source of contamination from the mill property (e.g. from groundwater).

Contaminated Sites -
from identification to

Recent work indicates that sediment in the Wabigoon River continues to exceed provincial guidelines, fish caught in some areas of the river are not safe to eat due to mercury contamination, and groundwater on the mill property exceeds provincial guidelines for mercury. The following description of exceedances of environmental standards is excerpted from the draft Director's Order to Domtar Inc. as posted on the Environmental Registry on May 29, 2017.

DRAFT

	Sediment A February 1, 2017 report titled “Evidence that the former chlor-alkali Site in Dryden, Ontario is still leaking mercury into the Wabigoon River” prepared for Grassy Narrows by Sellers et al. provided results of sediment sampling carried out in the Wabigoon River in August 2016. The report concludes mercury levels in sediment increased significantly as the river passed the mill. The sediment concentrations in samples collected adjacent to the mill and downstream of the mill exceed the Severe Effects Level as described in the “Guidelines for Identifying, Assessing and Managing Contaminated Sediments in Ontario: An Integrated Approach.” The report recommends that a “detailed ground water and soil study of the former chlor-alkali plant site and its surroundings” be undertaken to confirm whether the mill property is an ongoing source of mercury to the Wabigoon River. Fish In October 2016, ministry staff collected fish samples from the Wabigoon River system and neighbouring lakes and rivers. Mercury concentrations in tested walleye (40-50 cm) were 2.1 to 2.7 µg/g from Clay Lake and 1.3 to 1.7 µg/g in the Wabigoon River downstream from the mill. The range for Clay Lake exceeds both the general population (1.8 µg/g) and the “do not eat” benchmark for sensitive population (0.5 µg/g). The range for the Wabigoon River downstream from the mill exceeds the “do not eat” benchmark for the sensitive population. Groundwater A July 15, 2016 report titled “Domtar Inc., Summary of Available Monitoring Data, Domtar Dryden Mill, 1 Duke Street, Dryden, Ontario” prepared for Domtar Inc. by True Grit Consulting Ltd. reported that mercury levels at one well located in the vicinity of the former chlor-alkali plant exceeded the values that the ministry currently applies to assess groundwater quality (Table 9 of the “Soil, Ground Water and Sediment Standards for Use Under Part XV.1 of the Environmental Protection Act”, dated April 15, 2001, and incorporated by reference into O. Reg. 153/04 “Records of Site Condition – Part XV.1 of the EPA). In December 2016, the ministry received the results of a re-sampling of these wells, which again identified that the one well located in the vicinity of the former chlor-alkali plant exceeded the values that the ministry currently applies to assess groundwater quality.

The government: (i) is directly responsible; or (ii) accepts responsibility	While the government may not be directly responsible for remediation, it accepted a degree of responsibility in the February 13, 2017 statement made by Ministers Murray and Zimmer: "we are completely committed to working with all partners to identify all potentially contaminated sites, and to creating and implementing a comprehensive remediation action plan." Additional public and private statements made by Minister Murray to Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations have reiterated this commitment. With respect to the costs of remediating the Wabigoon River, an opinion by the MOECC's Legal Services Branch on May 25, 2017 concludes that there is a moderate risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation arising from the honour of the Crown to expend funds to remediate the Wabigoon River generally, as well as the Dryden mill site, including leased areas of the Wabigoon River. A moderate risk means that, in light of good arguments on each side, the outcome is not reasonably predictable. Remediation at the Dryden mill site, if deemed required by the ministry, has the potential to be included as an additional site in this project. An opinion by the MOECC's Legal Services Branch on May 25, 2017 concludes that there is a high risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation to repay costs incurred by Domtar Inc. in respect of the remediation of the Dryden mill site and sites within the leased areas of the Wabigoon River. A high risk means that, while there are credible arguments to dismiss a challenge, the relevant court would very likely find against Ontario. This conclusion is based on the 2016 decision of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice in Weyerhaeuser v. Ontario (AG), which applied the 1985 Indemnity to a procedural order issued under the Environmental Protection Act to Weyerhaeuser Company Ltd. ("Weyerhaeuser") and Resolute FP Canada Inc. ("Resolute") in 2011 (the "2011 Director's Order").
It is expected that future economic benefits will be given up	During Question Period on May 2, 2017, Ministry Murray was asked why funding for the English Wabigoon River clean-up was not included in the 2017/18 budget. The minister replied that, "…the money is on its way to Grassy Narrows, as the bills come in. Mr. Speaker, the cost of this may well be far in excess of $84 million. As a matter of fact, I am guessing that this government's commitment to Grassy Narrows is going to exceed that amount of money. Many other projects that were done in-year over last year...that were $150 million and under—were not explicitly stated in the budget. That didn't mean the government is less committed to it." At a meeting with the chiefs of Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations held later that day, Minister Zimmer read an excerpt of the Minister's statement above from the Hansard (attached below) and Minister Murray stated that the ministry would be preparing a Treasury Board submission for the remediation project. Ontario Hansard Issue_ L075_May 2 2

A reasonable estimate of the amount can be made	There is limited data on current environmental conditions in the Wabigoon River, outside of contaminant levels in fish. The ministry is in the preliminary stages of the contaminated sites assessment process and has yet to determine the extent of contamination in the river or whether there is an ongoing source of contamination from the mill property. The 2017 planned fieldwork will better inform the ministry on the contamination source and extent of contamination. This information will allow the ministry to better understand remediation options and next steps. However, the ministry has received and reviewed a proposal that included a cost estimate submitted by Grassy Narrows First Nation and has reviewed comparable riverine contaminated sites and their association remediation costs. Remediation proposal submitted by Grassy Narrows First Nation, May 2016 (Rudd Report) In May 2016, Grassy Narrows First Nation provided a cost estimate for remediation in the amount for $80.7 – 85.7M as part of a proposal by their science team to conduct additional assessment. This estimate cannot be relied upon to determine the cost of remediation because the proposal does not provide adequate detail on how the estimate was developed. In addition, the assessment approach outlined in the proposal omits a number of key steps required to determine the extent of contamination. Without sufficient knowledge of the dynamics of the river system (e.g. flow rates, sedimentation rates) and the extent of the contamination, it is not possible to determine the best course of action for remediation.

DRAFT

	A consultant hired by Grassy Narrows First Nation also reviewed this proposal and stated that “the remedial designs for the different aspects of the program are conceptual in nature” and “need to be validated as being feasible for the English Wabigoon River system prior to progressing to detailed design.” Refer to the file below for a detailed assessment of this cost estimate. Assessment of GNFN Cost Estimate from R
Conclusion
	The 2017 planned fieldwork will better inform the ministry on the contamination source and extent of contamination. Until this information is available, the ministry is not able to assess remediation options and their associated costs. As a result, a reasonable estimate of the liability cannot be made at this time.

Studies by the federal and provincial governments were conducted in the 1980s in the English Wabigoon River to determine the location and the extent of contamination. Natural recovery was advised based on consideration of six factors: • Mercury discharges to the system were essentially eliminated. • Background mercury levels in lakes in the immediate area of the English Wabigoon River, but not affected by the discharges, were in most cases higher than the recommended levels for human consumption. • Concerns about the risk of possible remobilization of mercury. • Focus, at the time, was primarily on social and economic agreements and secondarily on drinking water. • Most parties contacted preferred natural recovery. • Northern communities and tourism industry did not want further attention drawn to the river system. In 1985, a settlement agreement was reached between the relevant corporate parties, Wabaseemoong, Grassy Narrows and the provincial and federal governments. The settlement provided $16.67 million in monetary compensation to the First Nations and includes a release of liability from the First Nations to the Crown and the corporate parties. It also includes an indemnification of the corporate parties by Ontario for certain potential future liability. Despite significant declines in mercury levels in fish in some areas of the English Wabigoon River system, mercury levels in fish in other areas remain high and restrictions on consumption remain in place. Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations have treaty rights to fish; the communities rely on fish from the river system for food and have expressed concerns with ongoing methylmercury levels. On May 30, 2016, Grassy Narrows First Nation publically released the report “Advice on Mercury Remediation Options for the Wabigoon-English River System” commissioned by the community and authored by Reed Harris, Dr. Patricia Sellers and Dr. John Rudd.

DRAFT

- The report called for extensive field work to determine current levels of mercury in the environment and identify the most appropriate approaches for remediation.
- This field work has been identified by the Grassy Narrows Council as their top priority and Ontario is providing funding to the community to support that work.

On September 20, 2016, Dr. Masanori Hanada (Dean of Social Welfare & Policy, Minamata Studies, Kumamoto Gakuen University) and Grassy Narrows Chief Simon Fobister Sr. held a press conference to present Dr. Hanada's research findings that more than 90 per cent of the people tested in 2014, from Grassy Narrows and Wabaseemoong showed signs of mercury poisoning.

Current Status

There is limited data on current environmental conditions in the Wabigoon River, outside of contaminant levels in fish. The ministry working with Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations and stakeholders to identify mercury contaminated sites in the Wabigoon River. This work is in the preliminary stages, steps 2-4, of the 17-step contaminated sites assessment process depicted in the file attached below. The ministry has yet to confirm the extent of contamination in the river or whether there is an ongoing source of contamination from the mill property (e.g. from groundwater).

Contaminated Sites -
from identification to

Recent work indicates that sediment in the Wabigoon River continues to exceed provincial guidelines, fish caught in some areas of the river are not safe to eat due to mercury contamination, and groundwater on the mill property exceeds provincial guidelines for mercury. The following description of exceedances of environmental standards is excerpted from the draft Director's Order to Domtar Inc. as posted on the Environmental Registry on May 29, 2017.

DRAFT

	Sediment A February 1, 2017 report titled “Evidence that the former chlor-alkali Site in Dryden, Ontario is still leaking mercury into the Wabigoon River” prepared for Grassy Narrows by Sellers et al. provided results of sediment sampling carried out in the Wabigoon River in August 2016. The report concludes mercury levels in sediment increased significantly as the river passed the mill. The sediment concentrations in samples collected adjacent to the mill and downstream of the mill exceed the Severe Effects Level as described in the “Guidelines for Identifying, Assessing and Managing Contaminated Sediments in Ontario: An Integrated Approach.” The report recommends that a “detailed ground water and soil study of the former chlor-alkali plant site and its surroundings” be undertaken to confirm whether the mill property is an ongoing source of mercury to the Wabigoon River. Fish In October 2016, ministry staff collected fish samples from the Wabigoon River system and neighbouring lakes and rivers. Mercury concentrations in tested walleye (40-50 cm) were 2.1 to 2.7 µg/g from Clay Lake and 1.3 to 1.7 µg/g in the Wabigoon River downstream from the mill. The range for Clay Lake exceeds both the general population (1.8 µg/g) and the “do not eat” benchmark for sensitive population (0.5 µg/g). The range for the Wabigoon River downstream from the mill exceeds the “do not eat” benchmark for the sensitive population. Groundwater A July 15, 2016 report titled “Domtar Inc., Summary of Available Monitoring Data, Domtar Dryden Mill, 1 Duke Street, Dryden, Ontario” prepared for Domtar Inc. by True Grit Consulting Ltd. reported that mercury levels at one well located in the vicinity of the former chlor-alkali plant exceeded the values that the ministry currently applies to assess groundwater quality (Table 9 of the “Soil, Ground Water and Sediment Standards for Use Under Part XV.1 of the Environmental Protection Act”, dated April 15, 2001, and incorporated by reference into O. Reg. 153/04 “Records of Site Condition – Part XV.1 of the EPA). In December 2016, the ministry received the results of a re-sampling of these wells, which again identified that the one well located in the vicinity of the former chlor-alkali plant exceeded the values that the ministry currently applies to assess groundwater quality.

The government: (i) is directly responsible; or (ii) accepts responsibility	While the government may not be directly responsible for remediation, it accepted a degree of responsibility in the February 13, 2017 statement made by Ministers Murray and Zimmer: "we are completely committed to working with all partners to identify all potentially contaminated sites, and to creating and implementing a comprehensive remediation action plan." Additional public and private statements made by Minister Murray to Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations have reiterated this commitment. With respect to the costs of remediating the Wabigoon River, an opinion by the MOECC's Legal Services Branch on May 25, 2017 concludes that there is a moderate risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation arising from the honour of the Crown to expend funds to remediate the Wabigoon River generally, as well as the Dryden mill site, including leased areas of the Wabigoon River. A moderate risk means that, in light of good arguments on each side, the outcome is not reasonably predictable. Remediation at the Dryden mill site, if deemed required by the ministry, has the potential to be included as an additional site in this project. An opinion by the MOECC's Legal Services Branch on May 25, 2017 concludes that there is a high risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation to repay costs incurred by Domtar Inc. in respect of the remediation of the Dryden mill site and sites within the leased areas of the Wabigoon River. A high risk means that, while there are credible arguments to dismiss a challenge, the relevant court would very likely find against Ontario. This conclusion is based on the 2016 decision of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice in Weyerhaeuser v. Ontario (AG), which applied the 1985 Indemnity to a procedural order issued under the Environmental Protection Act to Weyerhaeuser Company Ltd. ("Weyerhaeuser") and Resolute FP Canada Inc. ("Resolute") in 2011 (the "2011 Director's Order").
It is expected that future economic benefits will be given up	During Question Period on May 2, 2017, Ministry Murray was asked why funding for the English Wabigoon River clean-up was not included in the 2017/18 budget. The minister replied that, "…the money is on its way to Grassy Narrows, as the bills come in. Mr. Speaker, the cost of this may well be far in excess of $84 million. As a matter of fact, I am guessing that this government's commitment to Grassy Narrows is going to exceed that amount of money. Many other projects that were done in-year over last year...that were $150 million and under—were not explicitly stated in the budget. That didn't mean the government is less committed to it." At a meeting with the chiefs of Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations held later that day, Minister Zimmer read an excerpt of the Minister's statement above from the Hansard (attached below) and Minister Murray stated that the ministry would be preparing a Treasury Board submission for the remediation project. Ontario Hansard Issue_ L075_May 2 2

A reasonable estimate of the amount can be made	There is limited data on current environmental conditions in the Wabigoon River, outside of contaminant levels in fish. The ministry is in the preliminary stages of the contaminated sites assessment process and has yet to determine the extent of contamination in the river or whether there is an ongoing source of contamination from the mill property. The 2017 planned fieldwork will better inform the ministry on the contamination source and extent of contamination. This information will allow the ministry to better understand remediation options and next steps. However, the ministry has received and reviewed a proposal that included a cost estimate submitted by Grassy Narrows First Nation and has reviewed comparable riverine contaminated sites and their association remediation costs. Remediation proposal submitted by Grassy Narrows First Nation, May 2016 (Rudd Report) In May 2016, Grassy Narrows First Nation provided a cost estimate for remediation in the amount for $80.7 – 85.7M as part of a proposal by their science team to conduct additional assessment. This estimate cannot be relied upon to determine the cost of remediation because the proposal does not provide adequate detail on how the estimate was developed. In addition, the assessment approach outlined in the proposal omits a number of key steps required to determine the extent of contamination. Without sufficient knowledge of the dynamics of the river system (e.g. flow rates, sedimentation rates) and the extent of the contamination, it is not possible to determine the best course of action for remediation.

DRAFT

	A consultant hired by Grassy Narrows First Nation also reviewed this proposal and stated that “the remedial designs for the different aspects of the program are conceptual in nature” and “need to be validated as being feasible for the English Wabigoon River system prior to progressing to detailed design.” Refer to the file below for a detailed assessment of this cost estimate. Assessment of GNFN Cost Estimate from R
Conclusion
	The 2017 planned fieldwork will better inform the ministry on the contamination source and extent of contamination. Until this information is available, the ministry is not able to assess remediation options and their associated costs. As a result, a reasonable estimate of the liability cannot be made at this time.

Wabigoon River Remediation Project

Site Description

The Wabigoon River is located in the District of Kenora in Northwestern Ontario. It flows from Raleigh Lake to Wabigoon Lake to join the English River downstream of the City of Dryden. The area of interest is a 150-kilometre stretch of the river between Wabigoon Lake and the English River, and work is underway to determine the extent of contamination and confirm whether there is an ongoing source of contamination. The contaminant of concern is mercury.

The Dryden mill site has the potential to be included as an additional site in this project for reasons described below.

Five PS 3260 Criteria	Evaluation
An environmental standard exists	Sediment: Guidelines for Identifying, Assessing and Managing Contaminated Sediments in Ontario: An Integrated Approach, Ministry of the Environment, 2008 Fish: Guide to Eating Ontario Fish, Ontario Ministry of the Environment and Climate Change, 2017 (consumption advice is based mainly on Health Canada guidelines) Groundwater: Soil, Ground Water and Sediment Standards for Use Under Part XV.1 of the Environmental Protection Act, April 15, 2001, and incorporated by reference into O. Reg. 153/04 Records of Site Condition – Part XV.1 of the Environmental Protection Act, Ministry of the Environment, 2011
Contamination exceeds the environmental standard	Background During the 1960s and 1970s, a chlor-alkali plant in Dryden discharged approximately 10 metric tonnes of mercury into the Wabigoon River, affecting both the English and Wabigoon Rivers. In 1970, in response to an order from the province, actions were taken and levels of mercury in wastewater were reduced. The plant was decommissioned in 1975. In 1971, Ontario suspended the commercial fishing licences for walleye, pike and sauger for the Wabigoon and English river systems due to the elevated levels of mercury in fish; the pollution has impacted both the economies and health of the Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations. Studies by the federal and provincial governments were conducted in the 1980s in the English Wabigoon River to determine the location and the extent of contamination. Natural recovery was advised based on consideration of six factors: • Mercury discharges to the system were essentially eliminated. • Background mercury levels in lakes in the immediate area of the English Wabigoon River, but not affected by the discharges, were in most cases higher than the recommended levels for human consumption. • Concerns about the risk of possible remobilization of mercury. • Focus, at the time, was primarily on social and economic agreements and secondarily on drinking water. • Most parties contacted preferred natural recovery. • Northern communities and tourism industry did not want further attention drawn to the river system. In 1985, a settlement agreement was reached between the relevant corporate parties, Wabaseemoong, Grassy Narrows and the provincial and federal governments. The settlement provided $16.67 million in monetary compensation to the First Nations and includes a release of liability from the First Nations to the Crown and the corporate parties. It also includes an indemnification of the corporate parties by Ontario for certain potential future liability. Despite significant declines in mercury levels in fish in some areas of the English Wabigoon River system, mercury levels in fish in other areas remain high and restrictions on consumption remain in place. Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations have treaty rights to fish; the communities rely on fish from the river system for food and have expressed concerns with ongoing methylmercury levels. On May 30, 2016, Grassy Narrows First Nation publically released the report “Advice on Mercury Remediation Options for the Wabigoon-English River System” commissioned by the community and authored by Reed Harris, Dr. Patricia Sellers and Dr. John Rudd.

DRAFT

- The report called for extensive field work to determine current levels of mercury in the environment and identify the most appropriate approaches for remediation.
- This field work has been identified by the Grassy Narrows Council as their top priority and Ontario is providing funding to the community to support that work.

On September 20, 2016, Dr. Masanori Hanada (Dean of Social Welfare & Policy, Minamata Studies, Kumamoto Gakuen University) and Grassy Narrows Chief Simon Fobister Sr. held a press conference to present Dr. Hanada's research findings that more than 90 per cent of the people tested in 2014, from Grassy Narrows and Wabaseemoong showed signs of mercury poisoning.

Current Status

There is limited data on current environmental conditions in the Wabigoon River, outside of contaminant levels in fish. The ministry working with Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations and stakeholders to identify mercury contaminated sites in the Wabigoon River. This work is in the preliminary stages, steps 2-4, of the 17-step contaminated sites assessment process depicted in the file attached below. The ministry has yet to confirm the extent of contamination in the river or whether there is an ongoing source of contamination from the mill property (e.g. from groundwater).

Contaminated Sites -
from identification to

Recent work indicates that sediment in the Wabigoon River continues to exceed provincial guidelines, fish caught in some areas of the river are not safe to eat due to mercury contamination, and groundwater on the mill property exceeds provincial guidelines for mercury. The following description of exceedances of environmental standards is excerpted from the draft Director's Order to Domtar Inc. as posted on the Environmental Registry on May 29, 2017.

DRAFT

	Sediment A February 1, 2017 report titled “Evidence that the former chlor-alkali Site in Dryden, Ontario is still leaking mercury into the Wabigoon River” prepared for Grassy Narrows by Sellers et al. provided results of sediment sampling carried out in the Wabigoon River in August 2016. The report concludes mercury levels in sediment increased significantly as the river passed the mill. The sediment concentrations in samples collected adjacent to the mill and downstream of the mill exceed the Severe Effects Level as described in the “Guidelines for Identifying, Assessing and Managing Contaminated Sediments in Ontario: An Integrated Approach.” The report recommends that a “detailed ground water and soil study of the former chlor-alkali plant site and its surroundings” be undertaken to confirm whether the mill property is an ongoing source of mercury to the Wabigoon River. Fish In October 2016, ministry staff collected fish samples from the Wabigoon River system and neighbouring lakes and rivers. Mercury concentrations in tested walleye (40-50 cm) were 2.1 to 2.7 µg/g from Clay Lake and 1.3 to 1.7 µg/g in the Wabigoon River downstream from the mill. The range for Clay Lake exceeds both the general population (1.8 µg/g) and the “do not eat” benchmark for sensitive population (0.5 µg/g). The range for the Wabigoon River downstream from the mill exceeds the “do not eat” benchmark for the sensitive population. Groundwater A July 15, 2016 report titled “Domtar Inc., Summary of Available Monitoring Data, Domtar Dryden Mill, 1 Duke Street, Dryden, Ontario” prepared for Domtar Inc. by True Grit Consulting Ltd. reported that mercury levels at one well located in the vicinity of the former chlor-alkali plant exceeded the values that the ministry currently applies to assess groundwater quality (Table 9 of the “Soil, Ground Water and Sediment Standards for Use Under Part XV.1 of the Environmental Protection Act”, dated April 15, 2001, and incorporated by reference into O. Reg. 153/04 “Records of Site Condition – Part XV.1 of the EPA). In December 2016, the ministry received the results of a re-sampling of these wells, which again identified that the one well located in the vicinity of the former chlor-alkali plant exceeded the values that the ministry currently applies to assess groundwater quality.

The government: (i) is directly responsible; or (ii) accepts responsibility	While the government may not be directly responsible for remediation, it accepted a degree of responsibility in the February 13, 2017 statement made by Ministers Murray and Zimmer: "we are completely committed to working with all partners to identify all potentially contaminated sites, and to creating and implementing a comprehensive remediation action plan." Additional public and private statements made by Minister Murray to Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations have reiterated this commitment. With respect to the costs of remediating the Wabigoon River, an opinion by the MOECC's Legal Services Branch on May 25, 2017 concludes that there is a moderate risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation arising from the honour of the Crown to expend funds to remediate the Wabigoon River generally, as well as the Dryden mill site, including leased areas of the Wabigoon River. A moderate risk means that, in light of good arguments on each side, the outcome is not reasonably predictable. Remediation at the Dryden mill site, if deemed required by the ministry, has the potential to be included as an additional site in this project. An opinion by the MOECC's Legal Services Branch on May 25, 2017 concludes that there is a high risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation to repay costs incurred by Domtar Inc. in respect of the remediation of the Dryden mill site and sites within the leased areas of the Wabigoon River. A high risk means that, while there are credible arguments to dismiss a challenge, the relevant court would very likely find against Ontario. This conclusion is based on the 2016 decision of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice in Weyerhaeuser v. Ontario (AG), which applied the 1985 Indemnity to a procedural order issued under the Environmental Protection Act to Weyerhaeuser Company Ltd. ("Weyerhaeuser") and Resolute FP Canada Inc. ("Resolute") in 2011 (the "2011 Director's Order").
It is expected that future economic benefits will be given up	During Question Period on May 2, 2017, Ministry Murray was asked why funding for the English Wabigoon River clean-up was not included in the 2017/18 budget. The minister replied that, "…the money is on its way to Grassy Narrows, as the bills come in. Mr. Speaker, the cost of this may well be far in excess of $84 million. As a matter of fact, I am guessing that this government's commitment to Grassy Narrows is going to exceed that amount of money. Many

At a meeting with the chiefs of Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations held later that day, Minister Zimmer read an excerpt of the Minister's statement above from the Hansard (attached below) and Minister Murray stated that the ministry would be preparing a Treasury Board submission for the remediation project. Ontario Hansard Issue_ L075_May 2 2
A reasonable estimate of the amount can be made	There is limited data on current environmental conditions in the Wabigoon River, outside of contaminant levels in fish. The ministry is in the preliminary stages of the contaminated sites assessment process and has yet to determine the extent of contamination in the river or whether there is an ongoing source of contamination from the mill property. The 2017 planned fieldwork will better inform the ministry on the contamination source and extent of contamination. This information will allow the ministry to better understand remediation options and next steps. However, the ministry has received and reviewed a proposal that included a cost estimate submitted by Grassy Narrows First Nation and has reviewed comparable riverine contaminated sites and their association remediation costs. Remediation proposal submitted by Grassy Narrows First Nation, May 2016 (Rudd Report) In May 2016, Grassy Narrows First Nation provided a cost estimate for remediation in the amount for $80.7 – 85.7M as part of a proposal by their science team to conduct additional assessment. This estimate cannot be relied upon to determine the cost of remediation because the proposal does not provide adequate detail on how the estimate was developed. In addition, the assessment approach outlined in the proposal omits a number of key steps required to determine the extent of contamination. Without sufficient knowledge of the dynamics of the river system (e.g. flow rates, sedimentation rates) and the extent of the contamination, it is not possible to determine the best course of action for remediation.

DRAFT

	A consultant hired by Grassy Narrows First Nation also reviewed this proposal and stated that “the remedial designs for the different aspects of the program are conceptual in nature” and “need to be validated as being feasible for the English Wabigoon River system prior to progressing to detailed design.” Refer to the file below for a detailed assessment of this cost estimate. Assessment of GNFN Cost Estimate from R
Conclusion
	The 2017 planned fieldwork will better inform the ministry on the contamination source and extent of contamination. Until this information is available, the ministry is not able to assess remediation options and their associated costs. As a result, a reasonable estimate of the liability cannot be made at this time.

Hi Kim – attached is a draft house book note for the Fair Hydro Plan – GA refinancing. Can you take a read through and we can discuss during our call later today. I want to ensure there are no inaccurate statements from IESO's perspective. I will also draft one for the market accounts and send that over when its ready.

Thanks,

FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACCOUNTING (GLOBAL ADJUSTMENT REFINANCING)

ISSUE: What is the basis for the proposed accounting for the Global Adjustment Refinancing on the Province's books?

CONTEXT: The Global Adjustment Refinancing is one component of the Fair Hydro Plan announced in March 2017, and is the most significant contributor to the reduction in hydro rates for residential consumers. The other parts of the Plan for residential consumers include: (a) expansion of the Ontario Electricity Support Program, (b) reductions in distribution rates for consumers in rural and remote areas, (c) reductions for First Nations residential consumers living on-reserve, (d) a fund set up to assist consumers in making their homes more energy efficient.

The only impacts on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements from the Fair Hydro Plan is (d) the fund set up to assist consumers in making their homes more energy efficient, which was expensed in the year and increases the annual deficit. In addition, the 8% rebate on electricity bills, introduced as of January 1, 2017, while not part of the March 2017 announcement, also impacts the 2016-17 as an expense that increases the annual deficit.

KEY MESSAGES:

GA Financing Status and Structure

- In order to meet the needs of users, including the legislature and the public, for accountability in government reporting and decision making, it is essential that public sector financial statements reflect the economic substance of the government's activities.

- All of the agreements necessary for the Global Adjustment (GA) Refinancing are not yet complete. The final accounting for the GA Refinancing will be completed once all of the elements are complete. The balance of the note is based on the expected outcome. As previously noted, there is no impact on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements from the GA Refinancing.

- In analyzing the appropriate accounting treatment for the GA refinancing component of the Fair Hydro Plan on the Province's consolidated financial statements in 2017-18 and forward, the Province considered authoritative guidance issued by the Public Sector Accounting Board, as well as the accounting assessments of the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) and Ontario Power Generation (OPG) management, including the accounting opinions of their external auditors.

- The complexity and unique structure of the GA Refinancing structure requires the use of professional judgment to ensure that key financial reporting objectives of transparency and accountability are best served.

- Under GA Refinancing, the Province will borrow funds to pay a portion of electricity costs charged by the electricity generators, thereby temporarily reducing the amount paid by eligible consumers (or ratepayers). The deferred amounts, including interest and other costs, will be recoverable from consumers/ratepayers in the future.

- Specifically, the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO), a not-for-profit organization controlled by the Province, operates the IESO-administered markets, meaning that it makes payments to the electricity generators with cash received from the local distribution companies (and ultimately the consumers/ratepayers).

- Over the last 10+ years, payments have been made for major refurbishments to the electricity grid as well as the cost to move away from coal and to cleaner, but more expensive methods of electricity generation, including wind and solar. These payments were passed on to consumers/ratepayers as incurred or based on contractual payment terms, but not based on period of benefit. The GA refinancing acknowledges that the current generation has paid more than its share for these costs, and spreads these costs incurred out over more years.

- In simple terms, the IESO will continue to make payments to the electricity generators based on their contractual terms, but will collect less from the local distribution companies, as the consumers or ratepayers will pay a reduced amount. The amount not collected from the consumers now, or the shortfall, will be collected from consumers/ratepayers in the future.

- The FHP Act permits the IESO sell that shortfall, also referred to in the Act as a regulatory asset, which represents the right to collect payments from consumers/ratepayers in the future, to a financing entity. To recap, the IESO will pay the electricity generators with cash collected from the local distribution companies for electricity consumed, but at a reduced rate, and cash received from the financing entity for the sale of the regulatory asset.

- The financing entity will be part of Ontario Power Generation (OPG Trust), a government business enterprise, wholly owned by the Province. The operations of Ontario Power Generation have been and will continue to be included in the consolidated financial statements of the Province using the modified equity method, the method Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) require for government business enterprises.

- At its discretion, OPG Trust would purchase the shortfall amounts (or regulatory asset) through a combination of provincial borrowing (flowed through OPG as an equity investment), amounts advanced from OPG and direct borrowing from capital markets.

- In the future, when the consumers/ratepayers pay for the deferred amount or shortfall to the local distribution companies, those amounts will be used to repay the accumulated debt, whether that be direct borrowing from the capital markets, amounts advanced from OPG or provincial borrowing.

IESO Accounting

- There is no impact on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements from the GA Refinancing. The GA refinancing is expected to impact the 2017-18 consolidated financial statements.

- In 2017-18, the shortfall or regulatory asset that the IESO incurs as a result of collecting less from the local distribution companies than it pays to the electricity generators would be accounted for as a rate-regulated asset. The rate-regulated asset would then be sold to OPG Trust for cash used to pay the electricity generators.

- For 2016, IESO adopted the use of rate-regulated accounting for costs incurred unrelated to the GA Refinancing; however, the impact to the financial statements of the Province was immaterial (impact on annual deficit of $24 million).
- PSAS is silent on the use of rate regulated accounting, however, like all major accounting frameworks, PSAS encourages both preparers and auditors to consider guidance in other accounting frameworks when accounting for transactions not specifically addressed by the specific standards.
- IESO management, their audit committee, their board of directors and their external auditors, agree with the adoption of rate-regulated accounting by IESO. The Office of the Provincial Controller also supports the adoption of rate-regulated accounting by IESO.
- In her opinion on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements, the Auditor General (AG) has included an "Other Matter" paragraph, drawing attention to the adoption of rate-regulated accounting by IESO. Her view is expressed as stating PSAS does not permit rate regulated accounting, but that she has not qualified her opinion on this matter because the impact is not material to the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements.
- The AG further notes, "However, the consolidated financial statements may become materially misstated in future periods, as a result of the legislated accounting prescribed under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (Fair Hydro Plan) and its related regulations, as it is not in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards."

- Neither the IESO nor OPCD agree with the statements that (a) PSAS does not permit rate-regulated accounting (as previously noted, PSAS is silent with respect to rate-regulated accounting) or (b) Fair Hydro Plan and its related regulations legislate the accounting for GA Refinancing.

OPG Accounting

- The Auditor General has not raised any concerns to date with the intended accounting for the OPG Trust on the Province's books.
- OPG Trust will be controlled and consolidated by OPG.
- Purchases by OPG Trust of the rate regulated assets from the IESO will be reflected on OPG's books as intangible assets which will be included in the Province's financial statements as part of its investments in government business enterprises.

The Province's Accounting

- In assessing the appropriate accounting for the Fair Hydro Plan on the Province's books, OPCD worked closely with key ministries, the OEB, the IESO, OPG and their respective external advisors.
- The final accounting treatment for FHP related activities will be confirmed once all elements of the GA Refinancing framework are finalized, including provincial guarantees and financing arrangements.
- Once the details and commercial agreements of the FHP are finalized, the external auditors of the IESO and OPG are expected to provide independent accounting opinions on the accounting treatment on IESO and OPG's financial statements.
- The Office of the Provincial Controller will rely on those independent accounting opinions, the audited financial statements of the IESO and OPG as of December 31, 2017 and its own research and analysis in determining the impact of the GA Refinancing on the 2017-18 consolidated financial statements.

IF PRESSED: AG ACCUSATION OF LEGISLATED ACCOUNTING

- The Auditor General has made several incorrect references to legislated accounting which should be addressed to ensure clarity and transparency in terms of the government's accounting treatment for the Fair Hydro Plan.
- In particular, that Auditor General has referred to legislated accounting prescribed by the FHP Act that is designed to in some way manipulate the Province's financial reporting in its consolidated financial statements.
- The Province's financial statements are based on Public Sector Accounting Standards as issued by the Public Sector Accounting Board of CPA Canada. There is no legislated accounting that applies to the Province's consolidated financial statements.
- While the FHP Act does, under Section 24, require that the IESO set up a variance account to track the cash shortfall amount resulting from the deferred recovery amount, it is just another type of regulatory account, similar to those that OPG reports and for which the OEB is responsible for approving rates.
- As far as the Province's financial reporting practices go, whether the deferred amounts reported in the IESO's variance account are assessed as assets for financial reporting purposes will be determined by the interpretation and application of Public Sector Accounting Standards, not by the legislation or regulations.

IESO (draft #1)

Government Business Enterprise ("GBE") analysis

References: IESO's 2015 Financial statements, PS 1300, Electricity Act, 1998 ("EA")

A GBE is defined in the CPA Accounting Handbook, Public Sector Accounting, Introduction to public sector accounting standards paragraph 6.

A GBE is a government organization that has all of the following characteristics:

Characteristics	Guidance and comments	Weighting	Recommendations
(a) It is a separate entity with the power to contract in its own name and that can sue and be sued.	• IESO is a not-for-profit organization, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act, 1998. (note 1 to FS) • The IESO is not an agent of the Crown for any purpose, despite the Crown Agency Act. 2014. (EA, 8) • The IESO has the capacity, rights, powers and privileges of a natural person for the purpose of carrying out its objects (EA, 6(3)). • The IESO is subject to various claims, legal actions and investigations that arise in the normal course of business. (note 15 to FS)	• Characteristic is met.
(b) It has been delegated the financial and operational authority to carry on a business?	• A business is an integrated set of activities and assets that is capable of being conducted and managed for the purpose of providing a return in the form of dividends, lower costs or other economic benefits directly to investors or other owners, members or participants. (IFRS 3, Appendix A))	• Characteristic is met. • IESO's board of directors has been delegated the financial and operational authority to carry on the business. IESO is managing its business to provide other economic benefits to market participants. • The key benefits include: – to direct the operation and maintain the reliability of the IESO-controlled grid; and	• Changing the type of organization from not-for-profit organization to be a for-profit organization would strengthen the argument that IESO is carrying business.

	• For example, a GBE may be required to earn a profit while operating within a specified pricing structure. (PS 6420) • The IESO is not an agent of the Crown for any purpose, despite the Crown Agency Act. 2014. (EA, 8) • The business and affairs of the IESO shall be carried on without the purpose of gain and any profits shall be used by the IESO for the purpose of carrying out its objects. (EA, 6(2)) • The IESO's board of directors shall manage and supervise the management of the IESO's business and affairs. (EA, 10(1)) • The board of directors of the IESO may make by-laws regulating the business and affairs of the IESO. (EA, 22(1)) • At least 120 days before the beginning of each fiscal year, the IESO shall submit its proposed business plan for the fiscal year to the Minister for approval. (EA, 24(1)) • The IESO may establish and charge fees to recover, (a) the costs of anything done in connection with the IESO-controlled grid or the IESO-administered markets; (b) the costs of doing anything the IESO is required or permitted to do under this or any other Act; and	– to forecast electricity demand and the adequacy and reliability of electricity resources for Ontario for the short term, medium term and long term. • The OEB has allowed the IESO to retain $10 million of profits in surplus, which is shown as a regulatory deferral account balance in the accumulated surplus (deficit) of the statement of Financial Position.

	(c) any other type of expenditure the recovery of which is permitted by the regulations (EA, 25(1)) • The Board may approve the proposed expenditure and revenue requirements and the proposed fees or may refer them back to the IESO for further consideration with the Board's recommendations. (EA, 25(4))
(c) It sells goods and services to individuals and organizations outside of the government reporting entity as its principal activity.	• Selling goods and services involves a direct exchange relationship between the revenues and the goods and services provided. Selling prices are related to the quantity and quality of goods or services sold, and not just to the recovery of administrative costs. Imposed fees and penalties, such as licenses and fines, do not represent sales of goods and services. Insurance premiums charged by a government organization are a sale of a service and not an imposed fee. (PS 1300.29). IESO is permitted to recover the costs of anything done in connection with the IESO-controlled grid or the IESO-administered markets (see above EA, 25(1)). • The objects of IESO include: (a) to exercise the powers and perform the duties assigned to it under this Act, the regulations, directions, the market rules and its licence; (b) to enter into agreements with transmitters to give it authority to	• Characteristic is met. • IESO does not sell goods but provide various services and ancillary services to market participants for the ultimate benefits of the customers of Ontario. • Principal activity is providing services outside of the government reporting entity. • IESO has two OEB approved fees: one for exports and one for withdrawals for use in Ontario and embedded generation, which is generation within an LDCs service territory. All parties charged are market participants registered with the IESO and are charged based on meter readings. • The fees charged to exporters are approximately 20% higher than the other market participants. • The fees charged for the services are determined based on meter readings and a rate per KWh, similar to LDCs and transmission companies in Ontario.

	direct the operation of their transmission systems; (c) to direct the operation and maintain the reliability of the IESO-controlled grid to promote the purposes of this Act; (d) to participate in the development by any standards authority of criteria and standards relating to the reliability of the integrated power system; (e) to establish and enforce criteria and standards relating to the reliability of the integrated power system; (f) to work with the responsible authorities outside of Ontario to co-ordinate the IESO's activities with the activities of those authorities; (g) to operate the IESO-administered markets to promote the purposes of this Act; (h) to engage in activities related to contracting for the procurement of electricity supply, electricity capacity, electricity storage, transmission systems or any part of such systems and conservation resources; (i) to engage in activities related to settlements, payments under a contract entered into under the authority of this Act and payments provided for under this Act or the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998; (j) to engage in activities in support of the goal of ensuring adequate, reliable and secure electricity supply and resources in Ontario; (k) to forecast electricity demand and the adequacy and reliability of electricity resources for Ontario for the short term, medium term and long term; (l) to conduct independent planning for electricity generation, demand management, conservation and transmission; (m) to engage in activities to facilitate the diversification of sources of electricity supply by promoting the use of cleaner energy sources and technologies, including alternative energy sources and renewable energy sources; (n) to engage in activities in support of system-wide goals for the amount of electricity to be produced from different energy sources; (o) to engage in activities that facilitate load management; (p) to engage in activities that promote electricity conservation and the efficient use of electricity; (q) to assist the Board by facilitating stability in rates for certain types of consumers; (r) to collect and make public information relating to the short term, medium term and long term electricity needs of Ontario and the adequacy and reliability of the integrated power system to meet those needs; and (s) to engage in such other objects as may be prescribed by the regulations. (EA, 6) Part I of the EA, Interpretation: • "Ancillary services" means services necessary to maintain the reliability of the IESO-controlled grid, including frequency control, voltage control, reactive power and operating reserve services. • "Fees" means, with respect to the IESO, amounts charged by the IESO to recover its costs of operations. • "IESO-controlled grid" means the transmission systems with respect to which, pursuant to agreements, the IESO has authority to direct operations. • "Integrated power system" means the IESO-controlled grid and the structures, equipment and other things that connect the IESO-controlled grid with transmission systems and distribution systems in Ontario and transmission systems outside Ontario. • Regulations 161.4 (1) The Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations, (d) requiring the IESO, OPA and the Board to enter into contracts relating to the provision of services and such other matters as the Lieutenant Governor in Council considers necessary or advisable, (i) to assist the Board and the Market Surveillance Panel with respect to market surveillance of the IESO-administered markets, (ii) to assist the OPA with respect to the forecasting of electricity demand and the adequacy and reliability of electricity resources for the medium and long term Conservation measures • Subject to section 71 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and such limits and criteria as may be prescribed by the regulations, a transmitter, distributor or the IESO may provide services that would assist the Government of Ontario in achieving its goals in electricity conservation, including services related to, (a) the promotion of electricity conservation and the efficient use of electricity; (b) electricity load management; or (c) the promotion of cleaner energy sources, including alternative energy sources and renewable energy sources.

(d) It can, in the normal course of its operations, maintain its operations and	• IESO is a not-for-profit organization, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act, 1998.	• Characteristic is met. • IESO does not receive transfers from the Province of Ontario and has demonstrated its ability of maintaining its operations and meeting its liabilities meet its liabilities from revenues received from sources outside of the government reporting entity.	• IESO does not receive transfer from the Province. All its costs are to be recovered from the market participants.	without relying on the Province of Ontario.

A GBE should, in the normal course of its operations, be able to maintain its operations and meet its liabilities from revenues received from sources outside of the government reporting entity. These revenues include not only amounts from the sale of goods and services, but also transfers received from other governments or sources outside of the government reporting entity. (PS 1300.30)

When determining if an organization can maintain its operations and meet its liabilities with revenues received from outside of the government reporting entity, the following factors should be considered:

(a) the organization's history of maintaining its operations and meeting its liabilities;

(b) whether the organization would continue to maintain its operations and meet its liabilities without relying on sales to, or subsidies in cash or kind from, the government reporting entity;

(c) past, present and future economic conditions within which the organization operates; and

(d) whether the organization has realistic and specific plans that show how it expects to be able to maintain its operations and meet its liabilities in the future. (PS 1300.31)

IESO does not receive transfers from the Province of Ontario and has demonstrated its ability of maintaining its operations and meeting its liabilities without relying on the Province of Ontario. As per the EA, IESO is permitted to recover the costs of anything done in connection with the IESO-controlled grid or the IESO-administered markets. As a result, the fees charged to the market participants cover all the costs incurred by IESO.

Although the IESO has a note payable to the OEFC of $90 million, loans are not considered transfers from a government provided it has the ability to repay the loans received.

Other considerations

The majority of the market participants reports either under IFRS (or US GAAP for OPG and Hydro One). The use of IFRS by IESO would facilitate the comparison with the market participants. It should be noted that the Alberta Electric System Operator (“AESO”) a\has adopted IFRS as its accounting framework.

Many of the WSIB organizations across Canada are considered GBE and, as a result, report under IFRS.

Although IESO has received rate orders to recover in its future rates certain costs charged to either the statement of operations or accumulated deficit (e.g. smart metering expenses charge to statement of operations and, actuarial losses and other PSAB transition item charged to accumulated deficit), these costs have not been recognized as regulatory assets as it is unclear whether PSAB permits the recognition of the economic impacts of rate regulation. As IESO is an entity regulated by the OEB, the use of IFRS by IESO would permit to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation approved by the OEB.

Conclusion: IESO

PS 1300, DEFINITIONS

.04 A government component is an integral part of government, such as a department, ministry or fund. It is not a separate entity with the power to contract in its own name and that can sue and be sued.

.05 A government organization is any organization controlled by a government that is a separate entity with the power to contract in its own name and that can sue and be sued.

.06 A government business enterprise is a government organization that has all of the following characteristics:

(a) It is a separate entity with the power to contract in its own name and that can sue and be sued.

(b) It has been delegated the financial and operational authority to carry on a business.

(c) It sells goods and services to individuals and organizations outside of the government reporting entity as its principal activity.

(d) It can, in the normal course of its operations, maintain its operations and meet its liabilities from revenues received from sources outside of the government reporting entity.

.07 A government not-for-profit organization is a government organization that has all of the following characteristics:

(a) It is a separate entity with the power to contract in its own name and that can sue and be sued.

(b) It has counterparts outside the public sector as defined in paragraph .02.

(c) It is an entity normally without transferable ownership interests.

(d) It is an entity organized and operated exclusively for social, educational, professional, religious, health, charitable or any other not-for-profit purpose.

(e) Its members, contributors and other resource providers do not, in such capacity, receive any financial return directly from the organization.

.08 An other government organization is a government organization that has all of the following characteristics:

(a) It is a separate entity with the power to contract in its own name and that can sue and be sued.

(b) It is neither a government business enterprise nor a government not-for-profit organization.

.09 A government partnership is not a government organization but is a contractual arrangement between the government or a government organization and a party or parties outside of the reporting entity that has all of the following characteristics:

(a) The partners co-operate toward achieving significant, clearly defined common goals.

(b) The partners make a financial investment in the government partnership.

(c) The partners share control of decisions related to the financial and operating policies of the government partnership on an ongoing basis.

(d) The partners share, on an equitable basis, the significant risks and benefits associated with the operations of the government partnership.

25A A governmental unit is a government component, government not-for-profit organization or other government organization.

Conclusion: Based on the above definitions, IESO is neither a government component, nor a government not-for-profit organization nor a government partnership. If it is determined that IESO is not a GBE then it would therefore be classified as an OGO.

- For purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, GBEs apply the standards for publicly accountable enterprises in Part I of the CPA Canada Handbook – Accounting (i.e. IFRS). (Introduction to public sector accounting standards, paragraph 17)

- For purposes of preparing general purpose financial statements, OGOs would normally apply the standards for governments in the PSA Handbook. When these standards do not meet their financial statement users' needs, the standards applicable to publicly accountable enterprises in Part I of the CPA Canada Handbook – Accounting should be considered. The standards determined to be most appropriate should be disclosed and consistently applied. (Introduction to public sector accounting standards, paragraph 19)

PS 1000, GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS

.06 Governments are inherently different from businesses. The unique characteristics of government have reporting implications as outlined in Appendix A.

.07 The objectives of financial reporting for governments and business are not the same. Specifically, the accounting standards for business do not adequately prescribe the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure of government financial information that is needed for accountability by governments and useful for decision making by the users of government financial statements.

.08 The goals of government are not the same as those of business. The primary goal of a business is profit and its resources are employed to that end. Investors put up capital in expectation of a return, and financial statements report the success or failure of the business in providing that return. Results of operations are measured and reported in terms of profit or loss and it is added to or deducted from the owners' investment to measure financial position. Annual and accumulated earnings or losses are key measures of the performance of a business.

.09 Governments differ from business in both their objectives and financing. In general, governments provide public services and redistribute wealth for a variety of social and economic purposes. The delivery of a service does not, however, normally give rise to revenue, and the payment of taxes does not necessarily entitle a taxpayer to any particular public service or benefit. Because governments are granted the power to tax, their revenues are not substantially dependent upon voluntary contributions nor on the profitable sale of goods and services in the marketplace. Thus, except for commercial-type activities, the relationship between revenues and costs in any given period is not the same for government as it is for business.

.10 In any given period, a government may finance its operations from tax and other revenues or by borrowing or incurring other liabilities. The financial resources required are forecast and the government's financing plan is set out in the budget. Financial statements report the actual results of government operations and the extent to which revenues raised in the period were or were not sufficient to meet the expenses of that period. Users of the statements look to the operating surplus or deficit for the period, both on its own and in relation to the government's plan, in evaluating the government's fiscal management. Expenses, however, do not necessarily represent the total financial resources required. Governments, for example, also spend, lend and invest in addition to consuming economic resources in each accounting period. It is, therefore, also important to provide information about how a government financed its activities and met its cash requirements.

.11 Over the years, a government accumulates liabilities that must be settled and assets that provide resources for future operations. Information that reports the extent of the financial obligations that will have to be settled, or the extent of the assets that are available for future operations, is useful because it bears directly on future revenue requirements and on a government's ability to settle its obligations and finance its operations.

.12 The information needed to promote accountability and to aid understanding and assessments of government operations extends beyond reporting surpluses or deficits. For example, financial statements should provide information that describes the nature and purpose of government spending and the sources of its revenues and financing. They should also provide information that describes a government's non-financial resources that can be used in future operations and the cost of using those resources in service delivery. They should also provide information on investments and on potential obligations that may result from guarantees or indemnities.

Provincial control analysis

References: PS 1300, Electricity Act, 1998 ("EA")

PS 1300.08 to 1300.24 sets out the considerations for determining whether control exists. Control is defined as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities*."* Paragraph 10 indicates that determining control is a question of fact that must be determined by reference to the definition of control established in paragraph PS 1300.08 and the particular circumstances of each case. Paragraphs 18 and 19 set out indicators of control that must be considered "in the context of the definition of control and the particular circumstances of each case" (PS 1300.17).

The indicators of control are as follows:

Reference	Indicator	Comments	Weighting	Recommendation
	Persuasive indicators:

The risk of loss to the province from the IESO's activities is very low since the market rules establish that the market participants bear this risk. The EA sets out that any profits of IESO are to be used for the operations of the IESO. Based upon 1300.08, the province does not bear risk or benefits from the operations of the IESO.

Conclusion: Based upon the preponderance of evidence (1300.17), the province does not control IESO.

Memorandum

To: THE AUDIT COMMITTEE OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS of the Independent Electricity System Operator

From: Susan Nicholson
Corporate Controller

Date: March 17, 2015

Re: Item 5 - Accounting Standards and Statutory Financial Statements

The merger of the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) and the Ontario Power Authority (OPA) created a need to establish one accounting standard for the amalgamated entity (IESO).

BACKGROUND

Pre-merger Standards

Prior to the merger, IESO and OPA followed different accounting standards. IESO followed Public Sector Accounting Standard Board (PSA) standards for government organizations as an Other Government Organization (OGO) whereas OPA followed PSA standards plus the 4200 series of CPA Canada Public Sector Accounting Handbook standards applicable to government not-for-profit organizations (GNFPO).

The main users of the amalgamated IESO financial statements will be the Ministry, OEFC and banks, OEB, and the provincial controller's office. Either standard would satisfy the needs of our financial statements users. The recommended standard aligns with the Province's accounting policy and consolidation requirements.

RATIONALE

Type of Government Enterprise

In determining what standard should be applied to IESO, we evaluated our organization type. The different types of organizations are summarized in the table below.

The activities of the amalgamated IESO are heavily characterized by the market operations. Based on a review of Canadian and select American system operators (Alberta, New York, New England), none of these entities meet the tests above as private counterparties. As such, IESO will be considered an OGO and will not qualify as a GNFPO. This is consistent with the organization type of the pre-merger IESO.

RECOMMENDATION

PSAB or IFRS
The IESO should adopt PSA standards, excluding section 4200.

OGOs have a choice of adopting either PSA standards or IFRS. If an OGO considers itself a publicly accountable enterprise (e.g. LCBO) then it could voluntarily adopt IFRS. Otherwise, an OGO should adopt PSA standards. The IESO is not an independent publicly accountable enterprise and therefore it should adopt PSA standards.

In recent discussions with both the Office of the Provincial Controller and our external auditors KPMG, there was agreement that PSA standards are the most applicable for the IESO.

Government Organization	Description	Accounting Standards
Government	• Federal, provincial, territorial & local governments	PSA standards
Government business enterprises (GBEs)	• Separate legal entity; • Delegated financial and operational authority; • Sells goods & services outside the reporting entity; and • Can maintain operations & meet liabilities from revenues received from outside the reporting entity	International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS)
Government not-for-profit organizations (GNFPO)	• Normally without transferable ownership interests; • Organized & operated exclusively for a not-for-profit purpose; and • Has counterparts outside the public sector	PSA including section 4200
Other government organizations (OGOs)	• Is not a government; and • Does not meet the criteria of a GBE, or GNFPO	PSA standards or IFRS

IMPACT ON FINANCIAL REPORTING

It was noted at the Audit Committee meeting in February that the financial statement presentation was different between the pre-merger organizations. The presentation of the pre-merger IESO financial statements and notes are aligned with the recommended PSA standards.

Highlights of some major difference in PSA Standards in comparison to PSA +4200 formerly used by the OPA:

	PSA Standards
Statement of financial position	o Net debt[1] is derived from the net of financial assets[2] and liabilities o Accumulated surplus or deficit resulted from sum of net debt and non-financial assets[3]
Statement of Operations	o Budget is required to be presented o Expenses reported by segment with disclosure of expenses by object (type). o Accumulated surplus is presented by sum of current year net income and previous year's accumulated surplus balance
Statement of changes in net debt	o Prior year balance and budget are required to be presented
Statement of cash flows	o Separate capital activities are presented

The attachment below shows the "unaudited" opening statement of financial position for the amalgamated entity as of January 1, 2015, including the adjusting entries to remove market transactions relating to the Global Adjustment and to increase the Other Post-Employment Benefit (OPEB) liability in accordance with the actuarial calculation.

As discussed in February, the market transactions relating to Global Adjustment will be moved to the market accounting process and the reporting of these transactions will be captured within the Monthly Market Report, which will provide transparency on this information. This removes these transactions from the corporate assets and liabilities. It is also in line with one of the significant accounting policies of the pre-merger IESO which is the "financial statements do not include the financial transactions of market participants with the IESO-administered markets."

[1] Net debt provides a measure of the future revenues required to pay for past transactions and events.
[2] Financial assets are defined as "assets that could be used to discharge existing liabilities or finance future operations and are not for consumption in the normal course of operations."
[3] Non-financial asset is any asset acquired, constructed or developed that does not normally provide resources to discharge existing liabilities, but:

- Is normally employed to delivered government services;
- May be consumed in the normal course of operations.
- Is not for sale in the normal course of operations.

The attached statement of operations and accumulated deficit depicts the amalgamated entity using the December 31, 2014 financial information and presents expenses by object within each segment.

Dear Kim and Cindy,

We wanted to thank you again for your time the other day. I am going through my notes and I had a few questions for clarification.

I suspect these will be fairly straightforward for you to answer, but I also want to be respectful of your time and if they are too complicated – please let me know.

Would it be the IESO or would it be OPG that would ultimately go to the Ontario Energy Board to recover these costs?

If it is the IESO, my understanding is the OFHPA creates the deferral and variance account that enables the IESO to recover costs from future rates. If it is OPG, would they already have a deferral and variance account to house these costs until it is recovered? Or does the legislation apply to OPG as well?

Finally, when it comes time to recover those costs, would it go through the OEB prudence review or is that not necessary as a result of the OFHPA legislation?

I want to ensure I am understanding the process for recovering costs through future rates and the role of the OEB, OFHPA accurately.

I know this is a busy time for both of you and your help is very much appreciated.

Sincerely,

Umar

Hi Nadine,

Attached is a copy of the cabinet document that includes our initial comments on the IESO paper. It was more difficult to insert comments because it is a PDF document, I hope they're not too hard to follow. Please let me know when you would like to discuss.

We reached out to our global network earlier this week, but they have not yet identified any entities that can be used to support the IESO's position. We will keep you posted.

Regards,

Lee Anne

Dear Deputy Imbrogno:

Attached are two documents prepared in conjunction with our KPMG advisors. The first outlines the proposed adoption by the IESO of the guidance in ASC980 Regulated Operations and the recognition of regulatory assets, as a more appropriate and transparent presentation in our financial statements.

The second is associated with the potential recognition and de-recognition of the regulatory assets associated with the IESO's role under the Global Adjustment Smoothing Account.

The conclusions of the second analysis are based on the structure of the account as the IESO currently understands it, and may vary depending on the final legislative materials.

We are available to address any questions you may have on these matters.

White Paper - Adoption of the guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations

Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO" or the "Company") is considering making changes in its accounting policies to reflect the balances of market participants within the IESO-administered markets (see separate technical analysis) and the economic impacts of rate regulation, as the changes would result in a more appropriate presentation of events or transactions in its financial statements.

Issue being considered in this document is: Can the IESO adopt the guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations (US GAAP in FASB)?

Background and Assumptions

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act, 1998. IESO is classified as an Other Governmental Organization and prepares its financial statements in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards (PSAB).
2. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB") Act, 1998 but currently does not recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation in its general purpose financial statements.
3. The IESO is required to obtain approval from the OEB under s. 25(1) of the Electricity Act, 1998 for the approval of its own expenditures, revenue requirement and fees. The last rate approval was obtained on December 29, 2016[1].
4. The OEB issued a Decision and Order on March 28, 2013 that permits IESO to recover the MDMR costs (the Smart Metering Charge) (see Appendix A). (i.e. Costs incurred in the past will be fully recovered through future rates)
5. Furthermore, in accordance with the Electricity Act, 1998 and the OEB Act, 1998, the IESO has approved variance accounts to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation, distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract. (i.e. costs incurred in the past will be fully recovered through future rates)
6. The IESO would change its accounting policies to permit the recognition of the economic impacts of rate regulation as from the 2016 financial year. IESO would adopt the guidance of ASC 980 Regulated Operations to better reflect the economic substance of its operations and enhance the transparency and accountability of its financial reporting.

Appropriate Accounting Principle

PS2120.02, "a change in an accounting policy may be made… if it is considered that the change would result in a more appropriate presentation of events or transactions in the financial statements of the government."

PS1150.05 "When the primary sources of GAAP do not deal with the accounting and reporting in financial statements of transactions or events encountered by the public sector reporting entity, or additional guidance is needed to apply a primary source to specific circumstances, the selection of an appropriate accounting policy requires the exercise of professional judgment. In these circumstances, a public sector reporting entity should adopt accounting policies and disclosures that are consistent with:

[1] http://www.rds.ontarioenergyboard.ca/webdrawer/webdrawer.dll/webdrawer/rec/556699/view/Dec_Order_IESO_20161229.PDF

Ontario

(a) the primary sources of GAAP; and

(b) the application of the concepts described in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000."

PS1150.19 "Pronouncements issued by other bodies authorized to issue accounting standards may be useful sources to consult. For example, accounting pronouncements published with the authority of the Canadian Accounting Standards Board (AcSB), International Accounting Standards Board (IASB), US Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board (FASB), US Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), or International Public Sector Accounting Standards Board (IPSASB) are often important sources to consult on matters not covered by primary sources of GAAP or for assistance in applying a primary source of GAAP to specific circumstances."

PS1150.08 "A public sector reporting entity consults sources other than primary sources of GAAP to assist in selecting accounting policies and disclosures only when these sources comply with paragraph PS1150.05. The public sector reporting entity evaluates sources in selecting the appropriate accounting policies and disclosures based on all of the following criteria:

(a) The specificity of the source — A source that deals with the specific circumstances is likely to be more relevant than one from which the public sector reporting entity must analogize.

(b) The authority of the issuer or author — A source issued by an accounting standard setter in its own jurisdiction is likely to be more relevant than a source issued by others in the same jurisdiction.

(c) The continued relevance of the source — The passage of time may diminish the relevance of certain sources.

(d) The development process for the source — A source developed after extensive consultation and debate is likely to be more relevant than a source developed without such discipline."

PS1150.10 "PSAB considers a source to be consistent with the concepts in paragraph PS 1150.05(b) when the guidance in that source is compatible with the (i) qualitative characteristics of financial information, (ii) the elements of financial statements, and (iii) the recognition and measurement criteria in paragraph PS 1150.05(b)."

PS1000.58 "In the absence of appropriate public sector recognition and measurement criteria for intangibles, all intangibles, including those that have been purchased, developed, constructed or inherited in right of the Crown, are not recognized as assets in government financial statements. The intangible often called "human capital" that embodies the talent or intellectual capital of government employees is not recognized as an asset under existing accounting principles."

PS3210.03 "Assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained."

PS3210.04 "Assets have three essential characteristics:

(a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows.

(b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits.

(c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred."

Issue: Can the IESO adopt the guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations?

In accordance with PS2120.02, the IESO can reflect the economic impacts of rate regulation only if it is considered that the change of accounting policy would result in a more appropriate presentation of events or transactions in the financial statements of the government. As mentioned in the Agenda ref. 9A of the IASB meeting of February 2017[2], rate regulated entities have long argued that, without recognizing regulatory assets and regulatory liabilities, the entity's performance is distorted by the rate regulator's intervention in the imposition of performance obligations on the entity and the timing of cash flows from the ratepayers.

Ontario

The recognition of regulatory assets and liabilities would better reflect the economic substance of IESO's operations and enhance the transparency and accountability of its financial reporting. For example, during the period from 2007 to April 2013 the IESO incurred costs relating to the Smart Meter Program amounting to $90.9 million, and these costs were expensed and are included in the accumulated deficit. In the absence of applicable regulatory accounting under PSAS, the IESO was unable to recognize a regulatory asset for this charge, despite receiving a rate order to recover it over the period from May 1, 2013 to October 31, 2018. Should the IESO choose to adopt ASC 980, a regulatory asset for the Smart Metering Charge would be recognized at December 31, 2016 for an amount of approximately $21.6 million, which would represent the remaining unamortized amount that would have been reported if the asset was recognized originally in 2013.

PSAS does not address accounting concepts in a rate regulated environment. Since there is no guidance in PSAS regarding the recognition and measurement of regulatory assets and liabilities, IESO may consider other sources based upon PSAS 1150.05 in the GAAP hierarchy to determine appropriate accounting policies in a rate regulated environment.

Within AcSB, Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises (ASPE) defines a rate regulated entity but provides no guidance on regulatory assets and liabilities however requires disclosure of such balances if they are recognized. IASB has not completed their project on rate regulated activities and current standards only include a holding standard based upon what was done under previous GAAP. It will be important for the IESO to monitor the IASB's ongoing project on rate regulated activities as this may affect the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosures of the regulatory assets and liabilities. Both FASB and GASB have guidance on accounting in a regulatory environment. IPSASB does not provide any guidance on accounting by rate regulated entities.

It is important to note that rate regulated entities in Canada that prepare their general purpose financial statements in accordance with US GAAP (e.g. Hydro One and Ontario Power Generation), ASPE (e.g. the three Fortis subsidiaries in Ontario), as well as those rate regulated entities that are eligible to elect to apply the requirements of IFRS 14 and elected to do so when they adopted IFRS (e.g. over 60 LDCs in Ontario), generally all recognize regulatory deferral and variance accounts in accordance with US GAAP accounting principles set out ASC 980 Regulated Operations.

Statement 62 issued by GASB in December 2010 is effective for financial statements for periods beginning after December 15, 2011. The objective of the Statement is to incorporate into the GASB's authoritative literature certain accounting and financial reporting guidance that is included in the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Statements and Interpretations issued on or before November 30, 1989, which does not conflict with or contradict GASB pronouncements. Paragraphs 476–500 may be applied to activities reported in business-type activities that have regulated operations that meet all of the three criteria in paragraph 476 as follows:

(a) The regulated business-type activity's rates for regulated services provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific regulated business-type activity's costs of providing the regulated services.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the regulated business-type activity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs.

The criteria above and the guidance in paragraphs 476-500 are based on ASC 980 Regulated Operations.

It is also important to note that in its statement of financial position, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation ("OEFC"), which reports under Canadian public sector accounting standards, recognizes a net unamortized liability balance for power purchase contracts, as detailed in the summary of significant accounting policies:

Ontario

"The liability for power purchase contracts was originally calculated by discounting estimated losses over the life of the contracts. Under the Electricity Restructuring Act, 2004, OEFC began receiving actual contract prices for power from electricity consumers, effective January 1, 2005, and no longer incurs losses on these power purchase contracts. At that time, the Ministry of Finance estimated that the bulk of the liability would be eliminated over 12 years as existing electricity contracts expire. As a result, the bulk of the liability is being amortized to revenue over that period."

Although this liability is not defined as a regulatory liability in the OEFC's financial statements, the argument can be made that it substantively meets the definition under ASC 980 of a regulatory liability, as the OEFC had no further obligation and should have reversed the liability into income. After consultation with the AG at that time, it was decided to amortize the gain over the remaining term of the contracts.

In summary

Rate regulated entities in North America reporting under US GAAP, ASPE, IFRS (entities which have elected to use IFRS 14) and GASB generally all recognize regulatory deferral and variance accounts in accordance with US GAAP accounting principles based on ASC 980 Regulated Operations (see Appendix B for the accounting framework used by the Canadian rate regulated entities).

Evaluation of Other Sources of GAAP

When looking to other sources of GAAP, PSAS requires the other sources of GAAP to be evaluated

1. as to whether they are consistent with accounting policies and disclosure within PSAS,
2. as to whether they are consistent with the application of concepts in PS 1000 and
3. as to all of the following criteria:
   - (a) Source deals with the specific circumstance
   - (b) Source is issued by an accounting standard setter
   - (c) Source continues to be relevant
   - (d) Source uses a consultative process and deliberation when developing policies

As required by PS 1150.05(b), we need to analyze whether the concepts in the other source (i.e. ASC 980) are compatible with the (i) qualitative characteristics of financial information, (ii) the elements of financial statements, and (iii) the recognition and measurement criteria in PS 1000.

(i) Qualitative Characteristics of Financial Information

FASB	PSAS 1000	Evaluation
Concepts and objectives are for both business and non-business organizations as well as governmental units (Concept #4.3 to 4.5)	Public, legislators, councilors, investors, analysts, other governments (par. 14)	FASB considers governmental units
Financial reporting should: – Be useful in making resource allocation decisions – Be useful in assessing services and ability to provide services – Be useful in assessing management stewardship and performance – Provide information about economic resources, obligations, net resources and changes in them (Concept # 4.33-.54)	Financial statements should be relevant to the needs of the users and reliable. Relevance is achieved through timeliness, predictability and accountability value. Reliable information has the following characteristics: representational faithfulness, completeness, neutrality, conservatism and verifiability. (par. 28-29)	Similar

(ii) Elements of Financial Statements

FASB	PSAS	Evaluation
Assets
Probable future economic benefits obtained or controlled by the entity as a result of past transactions or events. (Concept #6.25-.34)	Economic resources controlled by a government as a result of past transactions or event and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. (par. 35)	Essential characteristics similar
Liabilities
Probable future sacrifices of economic benefits arising from present obligations of the entity to transfer assets or provide services in the future as a result of past transactions or events. (Concept #6.35-.43)	Present obligations to others arising from past transactions or events, the settlement of which is expected to result in the future sacrifice of economic benefits with little or no discretion to avoid settlement. (par. 44)	Essential characteristics similar
Revenues
Inflows from delivering or producing goods, rendering services or other activities that constitute the entity's central operations. (Concept #6.78-.79)	Increases in economic resources resulting from operations, transactions and events of the accounting period. (par. 46)	Similar
Expenses
Outflows from delivering or producing goods, rendering services or carrying out other activities that constitute the entity's central operations. (Concept # 6.80-.81)	Decreases in economic resources resulting from operations, transactions and events of the accounting period. (par. 49)	Similar

(iii) Recognition Criteria

FASB	PSAS	Evaluation
To be recognized, an item must meet the definition of an element of the financial statements, must be measurable with sufficient reliability, be relevant and be reliable. (Concept # 5.64)	Item must have an appropriate basis of measurement, a reasonable estimate can be made of the amount and if the item involves obtaining or giving up future economic benefits, it is expected those benefits will be obtained or given up. (par. 55)	Similar

(iii) Measurement Criteria

FASB	PSAS	Evaluation
Measurement basis dependent upon nature of item. Historical cost basis, replacement cost, market value. (Concept # 5.65-.70)	Primarily using historical cost basis. Replacement cost and realizable value are also used, but in limited circumstances. (par. 60)	Similar

Ontario

Criteria of PS 1150.08

Criteria	Evaluation
Source deals with the specific circumstance	Yes, ASC 980 Regulated Operations
Source is issued by an accounting standard setter	Yes, FASB
Source continues to be relevant	Yes, still used by rate regulated entities
Source uses a consultative process and deliberation when developing policies	Yes, comprehensive consultative process and deliberation

Evaluation whether regulatory assets meet the definition of Assets as per Section PS3210

PS3210 defines assets as "economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained." (par. 03)

The analysis of the three essential characteristics as defined by PS3210.4 are analyzed in the next table.

Characteristics	Additional guidance	Comments
They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows. (par. 4(a))	The essence of assets are their future economic benefits. Assets embody future economic benefits that allow public sector entities to achieve their objectives. The future economic benefits embodied in assets involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows or to reduce cash outflows. (par. 11) The future economic benefits embodied in an asset may also be in the form of generating future cash inflows. Cash inflows benefit the public sector entity because cash can be used to purchase or to provide goods and services, redistribute wealth or settle liabilities. (par. 13)	The economic benefit embodied in the variance accounts (i.e regulatory asset) is the right to collect the incurred costs from ratepayers in order to settle the liability for the energy already consumed by the ratepayers. The electricity Act, 1998 ("EA") section 25.33(1) states: "The IESO shall, through its billing and settlement systems, make adjustments in accordance with the regulations that ensure that, over time, payments by classes of market participants in Ontario that are prescribed by regulation reflect, a) amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation and distributors, whether the amounts are determined under the market rules or under section 78.1, 78.2 or 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998; and b) amounts paid to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract, as determined under the procurement contract."
The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits. (par. 4(b))	Economic resources can arise from, but are not limited to, the following: government's own legislation (for example, taxes, fines and penalties); (par. 08(c)) A public sector entity controls the economic resource and access to the	The economic resources is the right created by the legislation that the energy costs IESO incurs will result in future cash flows. In the regulatory environments, incurring costs creates an enforceable right to set rates at a level that permits future economic benefits when it: a. can benefit from the economic resource through its capacity to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows or to reduce cash outflows; b. can deny or regulate access to those benefits by others; and c. is exposed to the risks associated with the economic resource. (par.16)	IESO to recover those costs. The adjustment of future rates is the mechanism the OEB uses to implement the right. Currently, the EA section 25.33(5) states: "The IESO shall establish and maintain such variance accounts as may be necessary to record all amounts payable or receivable by it under this section." The legislation would be amended to permit IESO to collect specifically the deferral of the energy costs and the related interest and administrative costs.

The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. (par.4(c))	It is the occurrence of a past transaction or event on or before the financial statement date that distinguishes a present economic resource controlled by a public sector entity from an economic resource that may be controlled by a public sector entity in the future. (par. 25) The past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource resulting from exchange agreements or contracts usually occurs at the point of exchange. This arises when substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership have been transferred to the public sector entity and normally coincides with the disbursement of funds, exchange of other assets or assumption of liabilities. (par. 26)	The past event giving rise to IESO's control occurs as the energy cost is incurred, as IESO has a right to collect it from the ratepayers.
Conclusion: The right to collect the deferral of the energy costs and the related interest and administrative costs meets the definition of assets.

When concepts are in conflict with PSAS then PSAS prevails (PS 1150.12). For example, PSAS does not recognize intangible assets (PS 3150.03, .14 and PS1000.58). So if regulatory assets are considered to be intangible assets, they would not be allowed to be recognized through another source of GAAP.

It is worth noting that the economic impacts of rate regulation are not recognized under US GAAP as intangible assets as the FASB has specific guidance to deal with this type of asset. It is also worth noting that the IASB has an ongoing project on rate regulated activities and are currently developing an accounting model based on the principles of IFRS 15 Revenue from contracts with customers to provide a principle-based framework for recognizing regulatory assets (see Agenda Ref. 9 for the IASB meeting on February 23, 2017). Furthermore, the Summary Comment Letter Analysis related to the ED/2009/8 on Rate Regulated Activities published by the IASB in July 2009 states on page 2 of 50:

"The International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee ("IFRIC") observed that it had previously discussed whether a regulatory asset should be recognized in the context of service concession arrangements, either as deferred costs or as an intangible asset to reflect an expectation that the entity will recover these costs as part of the price charged in future periods. It had concluded that entities applying IFRSs should recognize only assets that qualified for recognition in accordance with the IASB's Framework for the Preparation and Presentation of Financial Statements and relevant accounting standards, such as IAS 11 Construction Contracts, IAS 18 Revenue, IAS 16 Property, Plant and Equipment and IAS 38 Intangible Assets."

Entities that are not eligible to elect to apply the requirements of IFRS 14 do not recognize regulatory assets because in 2009 the IFRIC determined they did not meet the criteria for recognition of an intangible asset under IAS 38.

Therefore, we can conclude that ASC 980 is NOT in conflict with PS 3150.03, .14 and PS1000.58 with respect to intangible assets.

Conclusion:
FASB is appropriate to use as "other source of GAAP". FASB standard ASC 980 has extensive guidance for rate regulated entities including the recognition of regulatory assets and use of rate regulated accounting by IESO would be consistent with current reporting practices of H1, OPG and OEFC.

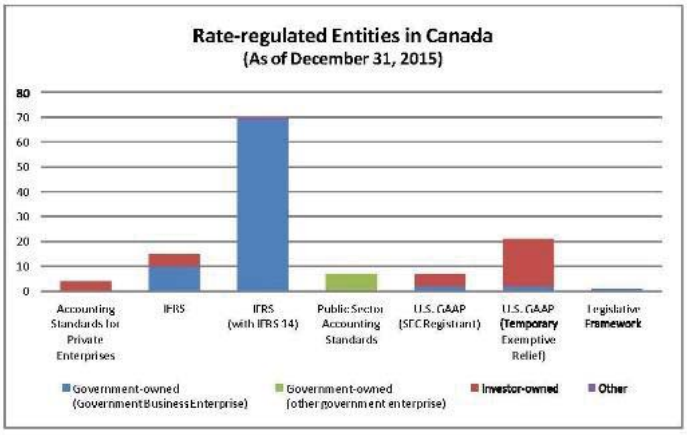
Canadian Rate-regulated Entities

18. The accounting framework landscape for Canadian rate-regulated entities is currently diverse. For annual periods beginning on or after January 1, 2015, rate-regulated entities that are Canadian publicly accountable enterprises are required to apply IFRS. Rate-regulated entities that adopted IFRS for the first time after IFRS 14 Regulatory Deferral Accounts was issued continue to recognize these balances. Government Business Enterprises (which operate to generate a profit or on a break-even basis) that are also rate-regulated entities are also directed to apply standards applicable to for-profit entities, and thus apply IFRS. Canadian securities legislation permits dual-listed entities (i.e., Canadian entities also registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission) to apply U.S. GAAP in the normal course. Temporary exemptive relief is also available from the Canadian Securities Administrators that permits rate-regulated entities that are not dual-listed to apply U.S. GAAP in place of IFRS. If a rate-regulated entity is not a publicly accountable enterprise or a Government Business Enterprise, additional accounting framework options may also include Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises or Public Sector Accounting Standards. A non-GAAP reporting framework is used when legislated by the provincial owner of a government-owned rate-regulated entity.

19. As of December 31, 2015, there were approximately 125 rate-regulated entities in Canada. These entities mainly range in size from small entities owned by municipal governments to large investor-owned entities or entities owned by provincial governments.



Source: Information compiled based on audited financial statements for fiscal year 2015, or information from rate filings that confirmed the accounting framework used by these entities. Due to data collection constraints, the population could be slightly larger.

20. The chart above highlights two key points:

Ontario

(a) The majority of investor-owned entities have chosen U.S. GAAP over IFRS. A few entities that are not reporting issuers apply Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises. Both U.S. GAAP and Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises permit the recognition of balances arising from rate regulation. Several entities that apply U.S. GAAP have told us this choice was influenced by the need to provide their users with financial statements that accurately reflect the economics of their business. Further, some entities presently using the temporary exemptive relief described in paragraph18 have said they are considering incurring the cost and effort necessary to become a registrant of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission in order to have the permanent ability to apply U.S. GAAP. While such a decision could be primarily for business reasons such as the entity expanding its operations into the U.S., it could also be attributed to the continuing uncertainty about the ultimate outcome of the IASB's Rate-regulated Activities project and the approaching expiry date of the securities regulators' exemptive relief.

(b) Public sector entities that are Government Business Enterprises tend to apply IFRS. The majority of these entities is made up of several large provincially-owned utilities, and many small municipally-owned local distribution utilities that do not issue debt or list in the U.S. stock market, and are not subject to Canadian securities legislation. As a result, they cannot apply U.S. GAAP. As shown in the chart, many of these entities adopted IFRS for the first time after the IASB issued IFRS 14, which allowed them to continue their previous accounting practices for rate-regulated activities.

21. Within the pool of government-owned rate-regulated entities, there are entities that do not meet the characteristics of Government Business Enterprises and are required to apply Public Sector Accounting Standards.

22. The data on the different accounting frameworks in Canada is unique. It demonstrates that when given a choice, rate-regulated entities select an accounting framework that captures the effects of rate regulation on their financial position and financial performance in order to communicate more decision-useful information to users.

White Paper on the Province's proposed Global Adjustment Smoothing Account

Below is a summary of IESO's preliminary views on the implementation of the Province's proposed Global Adjustment Smoothing Account.

Understanding that the finalization of the legal terms, the financing structure and other detailed terms will take several months and will involve collaboration between legal counsel, parties involved and other stakeholders, this letter is intended to provide the guideline and framework which could form the foundation of the plan.

Issues being considered in this document are:

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize deferral or variance accounts related to the annual Global Adjustment Smoothing Account as a regulatory asset on its statement of financial position?

Issue #2: Can the IESO derecognize the deferral or variance accounts related to the Global Adjustment Smoothing Account upon sale to the OPG Trust?

1. Recognition of regulatory assets (deferral and variance accounts)

Background and Assumptions for issue #1

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act, 1998. IESO is classified as an Other Governmental Organization and prepares its financial statements in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards (PSAB).
2. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB") Act, 1998 but currently does not recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation in its general purpose financial statements.
3. The IESO is required to obtain approval from the OEB under s. 25(1) of the Electricity Act, 1998 for the approval of its own expenditures, revenue requirement and fees. The last rate approval was obtained on December 29, 2016[1].
4. The OEB issued a Decision and Order on March 28, 2013 that permits IESO to recover the MDMR costs (the Smart Metering Charge) (see Appendix A). (i.e. Costs incurred in the past will be fully recovered through future rates)
5. Furthermore, in accordance with the Electricity Act, 1998 and the OEB Act, 1998, the IESO has approved variance accounts to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation, distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract. (i.e. costs incurred in the past will be fully recovered through future rates)
6. The province is contemplating deferring the recovery of a portion of the annual Global Adjustment Smoothing Account (comprised primarily of the electricity costs paid to the generators) over a period of 25-30 years, so that costs incurred would be fully recovered through future rates.
7. The Electricity Act, 1998 and the OEB Act, 1998 would be amended through legislation to require the deferral of the recovery of the Global Adjustment Smoothing Account and the future recovery in rates charged to customers.

[1] http://www.rds.ontarioenergyboard.ca/webdrawer/webdrawer.dll/webdrawer/rec/556699/view/Dec_Order_IESO_20161229.PDF

Ontario

8. The OEB would grant generic deferral or variance accounts to capture the difference between the amounts paid to generators and others, and the amounts collected in rates. Furthermore, the interest and ancillary costs related to the contemplated transaction would also be included in future rates charged to customers. In summary, the legislation would create a right to collect the incurred cost.

9. The IESO would change its accounting policies to permit the recognition of the economic impacts of rate regulation as from the 2016 financial year. IESO would adopt the guidance of ASC 980 Regulated Operations to better reflect the economic substance of its operations and enhance the transparency and accountability of its financial reporting.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for issue #1

ASC 980 Regulated Operations

- 980-10-15-2 "The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:

  (a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.

  (b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form. If an entity's regulated rates are based on the costs of a group of entities and the entity is so large in relation to the group of entities that its costs are, in essence, the group's costs, the regulation would meet this criterion for that entity.

  (c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."

- 980-10-20 Glossary, Definition of incurred costs "A cost arising from cash paid out or obligation to pay for an acquired asset or service, a loss from any cause that has been sustained and has been or must be paid for."

- 980-10-05-8 "Unless an accounting order indicates the way a cost will be handled for rate-making purposes, it causes no economic effects that would justify deviation from the GAAP applicable to business entities in general. The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP. 980-340 – Other Assets and Deferred Costs."

- 980-340-25-1 "Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

  (a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.

  (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

  A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date."

- 980-340-40-1: "If at any time an entity's incurred cost no longer meets the criteria for the capitalization of an incurred cost (see paragraph 980-340-25-1), that cost shall be charged to earnings."

Ontario

- 980-350-50-1: "In some cases, a regulator may permit an entity to include a cost that would be charged to expense by an unregulated entity as an allowable cost over a period of time by amortizing that cost for rate-making purposes, but the regulator does not include the unrecovered amount in the rate base. That procedure does not provide a return on investment during the recovery period. If recovery of such major costs is provided without a return on investment during the recovery period, the entity shall disclose the remaining amounts of such assets and the remaining recovery period applicable to them."
- 980-340-55-2: "In some cases, a regulator may approve rates that are intended to recover an incurred cost over an extended period without a return on the unrecovered cost during the recovery period."
- 980-340-55-3: "The regulator's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset (see paragraph 980-340-25-1). Accordingly, the regulated entity would capitalize the cost and amortize it over the period during which it will be allowed for rate-making purposes. That cost would not be recorded at discounted present value. An exception to this general rule is provided for costs of abandoned plants."

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize deferral or variance accounts related to the annual Global Adjustment Smoothing Account as a regulatory asset on its statement of financial position?

US GAAP includes special accounting provisions that are applicable to entities with activities that are subject to rate regulation (see White Paper - Adoption of the Guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations). The result is that rate regulated entities are required to recognize regulatory assets and liabilities provided the following three criteria are met:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.	IESO has unrecognized variance accounts related to the MDMR (smart meters), that have been approved by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act and the OEB Act (see Appendix A). It is important to note that Hydro One and OPG are both consolidated into the province's books, are both regulated by the OEB and their respective regulatory assets and liabilities are reported in the province`s books.	Met
The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.	Currently, the rates approved by the OEB are designed to recover the IESO's costs of providing the regulated services and the pass-through related to the energy purchased from the generators. The contemplated transaction is based on the fact that the OEB would grant generic deferral or variance accounts to capture the difference between the amounts paid to generators and others, and the amounts collected in rates. Furthermore, the interest and ancillary costs related to the contemplated transaction would also be included in future rates charged to customers. In summary, the legislation would create a right to collect the incurred costs.	Met

Ontario

In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."	Since the deferral or variance accounts would be sold to the OPG Trust at least on a monthly basis and cash would be received on the same day, this criteria would be met. This criteria would need to be monitored on a yearly basis to ensure that IESO and the OPG Trust would be able to recover the future deferred amount taking into account the levels of demand or competition during the recovery period.	Met
Conclusion: The three criteria would be met.

Conclusion: Based on the assumptions mentioned above, IESO should be able to recognize a regulatory asset for the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment Smoothing Account. As mentioned in the ASC 980 guidance above, it is important that an accounting order be issued by the OEB which indicates the way the incurred costs would be handled for rate-making purposes as the OEB's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of a regulatory asset.

2. Derecognition of regulatory assets (deferral and variance accounts)

Background and Assumptions for issue #2

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions are as follows:

1. The annual Global Adjustment Smoothing Account that would be deferred in the deferral or variance accounts (the "Asset") would be significant.
2. The IESO does not currently have the financial capability to finance the Asset and is contemplating selling the Asset to a Trust to be set-up by OPG (the "OPG Trust").
3. The OPG Trust would be consolidated by OPG.
4. Proposed terms of the sale agreement between the IESO and the OPG Trust:
   - The sale contract would be structured as an absolute sale, which would assign future economic benefits or cash flows related to the Asset exclusively to the OPG Trust.
   - The arrangement would be structured whereby there is no recourse or obligations remaining of IESO related to the Asset.
   - The arrangement is not considered to be a financing transaction as IESO would have no obligations to the OPG Trust after the Asset is sold to the OPG Trust.
   - IESO would not retain any rights or benefits from the Asset.
   - IESO would not have any rights to interest or penalties on the Asset once it has been transferred to the OPG Trust.
   - The contract would be clear that IESO cannot pledge the Asset as collateral to obtain future cash flows or financing.
   - IESO would continue to collect related cash flows on the OPG Trust's behalf and remit those cash flows to the OPG Trust without material delay. In addition, IESO would not be entitled to reinvest such cash flows, except for investments in cash or cash equivalents during the short settlement period from the collection date to the date of required remittance to the OPG Trust, and interest earned on such cash and cash equivalents is passed to the OPG Trust. The contract would define IESO's role strictly as that of agent, under a pass-through arrangement.
   - Servicing, origination, and arrangement fees, would be collected by IESO in rates charged to ratepayers as part of its market dealings.
   - The Asset would be sold to the OPG Trust at least, on a monthly basis and cash would be received on the same day.

Appropriate Accounting Principles for issue #2

Public Sector Accounting Standard ("PSAS") 3210, Assets, defines an asset as "... economic resources controlled by a government as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained." [par. 3]

.04 "Assets have three essential characteristics:

(a) they embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows;

(b) the public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits; and

(c) the transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred."

.22 "Control of an economic resource and of access to the future economic benefits are essential characteristics of an asset, whereas possession or ownership is not."

.24 "A public sector entity may act as trustee when it administers trusts on behalf of the beneficiaries specified in the agreement or statute. As trustee, the public sector entity merely administers the assets, following the terms and conditions set out in the agreement. It does not control the asset because it does not have access to the future economic benefits. Those benefits flow to the beneficiaries."

As noted in PS1000 Financial statement concepts:

.37 "An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

(a) no future economic benefit;

(b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or

(c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred."

As noted in PS3450, derecognition of a financial liability:

.042 "A government should remove a financial liability (or part of a financial liability) from its statement of financial position when, and only when, it is extinguished (i.e., when the obligation specified in the contract is discharged or cancelled, or expires)."

.043 "A financial liability (or part of a financial liability) is extinguished when the debtor either:

(a) discharges the liability (or part of it) by paying the creditor, normally with cash, other financial assets, goods or services; or

(b) is legally released from primary responsibility for the liability (or part of it) either by process of law or by the creditor. (When the debtor has given a guarantee, this condition may still be met.)"

.046 "Payment to a third party, including a trust (sometimes called "in-substance defeasance"), does not, by itself, relieve the debtor of its primary obligation to the creditor in the absence of legal release."

.047 "If a debtor pays a third party to assume an obligation and notifies its creditor that the third party has assumed its debt obligation, the debtor does not derecognize the debt obligation, unless the condition in paragraph PS 3450.043(b) is met. If the debtor pays a third party to assume an obligation and obtains a legal release from its creditor, the debtor has extinguished the debt. However, if the debtor agrees to make payments on the debt to the third party or direct to the original creditor, the debtor recognizes a new debt obligation to the third party."

Issue #2: Can the IESO derecognize the deferral or variance accounts related to the annual Global Adjustment Smoothing Account upon sale to the OPG Trust?

PS3210 does not specifically address the derecognition of a regulatory asset as the concept of a regulatory asset does not exist under PSAS.

As mentioned above, regulatory assets do not meet the definition of intangible asset or financial asset. Specifically, regulatory assets do not meet the definition of financial asset because they are imposed on customers through the tariff (i.e., imposed by the OEB) and do not represent a right to receive payments from another party as a result of a contract.

More generally, PSAS.3210.37 suggests that an asset would no longer be recognized when it fails to meet the definition of an asset.

Based on PS1000.37(b), an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it.

Based on the assumptions mentioned above, the legal title of the Asset would be transferred to the OPG Trust, as well as, ALL risks and rewards, including the following:

- the contract would define IESO's role strictly as that of agent, under a pass-through arrangement;
- all cash flows related to the Asset would be transferred without material delay to the OPG Trust;
- rights to interest or penalties on the Asset would be for the benefits of the OPG Trust;
- IESO cannot pledge the Asset; and
- no recourse or obligations remaining of IESO related to the Asset.

Ontario

IESO should also evaluate whether the sale of the Asset should in fact be considered as a borrowing arrangement. In the absence of detailed guidance on this subject, we can analogize to the guidance in PS3450 Financial Instruments for the derecognition of a financial liability. Par. 43 states that "A financial liability (or part of a financial liability) is extinguished when the debtor is legally released from primary responsibility for the liability (or part of it) either by process of law or by the creditor. (When the debtor has given a guarantee, this condition may still be met.)" Based on the assumptions mentioned above, since the legal title of the Asset would be transferred to the OPG Trust, as well as, ALL risks and rewards, it can be concluded that the sale of the Asset is not a borrowing arrangement.

Conclusion: Based on the proposed terms of the sale agreement between the IESO and OPG Trust mentioned above, the deferral or variance accounts would be derecognized at the point where the IESO would derive no future economic benefit from it. This would occur where the IESO ultimately transfers the rights, risk and rewards related to those deferral or variance accounts to the OPG Trust. This would occur on the receipt of cash from the OPG Trust.

Proceeding on the Ontario Energy Board's own motion to review the options for and ultimately determine the appropriate allocation and recovery of the Smart Metering Charge pursuant to section 19 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

THE BOARD ORDERS THAT:

Effective May 1, 2013, the Smart Metering Entity charge to be levied and collected by the Smart Metering Entity from all Distributors identified in the Board's annual Yearbook of Electricity Distributors shall be $0.788 per month for each Residential and General Service <50kW customers for each distributor. The Smart Metering Entity charge shall be in effect from May 1, 2013 to October 31, 2018. The number of Residential and General Service <50kW customers to which the Smart Metering Entity charge will be applied to shall be in accordance with the methodology set forth in the Settlement Agreement attached as Appendix A.

OPG Memo

ONTARIO POWER GENERATION

February 27, 2017

Mr. Serge Imbrogno
Deputy Minister,
Ministry of Energy
4th Floor, Hearst Block
900 Bay Street
Toronto, Ontario
M7A 2E1

Dear Deputy:

Below is a summary of OPG's preliminary views on the implementation of the Province's proposed Global Adjustment Smoothing Account and financing structure. These views are contingent on the proposed terms and conditions that were sent to the Ministry of Energy on February 21, 2017.

Understanding that the finalization of the legal terms, the Trust indentures, financing structure and other detailed terms will take several months and will involve collaboration between legal counsel, input from capital markets, parties involved and other stakeholders, this letter is intended to provide the guideline and framework which could form the foundation of the plan.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions regarding this summary.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ken Hartwick
Chief Financial Officer and Senior Vice President, Finance
Ontario Power Generation

Background:

The Province has indicated that it will take steps to reduce electricity bills in the near term. It has identified reductions in the Global Adjustment Charge (GAC) charged to electricity customers as a means to achieve its policy goals. The Province is proposing to temporarily reduce the amount of the GAC charged to electricity customers (primarily RPP-eligible customers). The exact quantum and duration of the program is still not known but based on discussions with the Province GAC charges of approximately $2-5B per year for the next 5-10 years would be deferred and collected over future periods commencing after the deferral period. A combination of senior debt and subordinated debt (mainly sourced by additional equity from the shareholder) would be issued to fund the amount deferred. The financing cost of the debt and other costs of running the program would form part of the amounts recovered from customers over the term of the program.

The Province has requested that OPG administer the GAC deferral, because of OPG's participation in the market, regulatory knowledge and the potential ability to consolidate the activity and accounting with OPG. Given the significant amount of financing required for the GAC deferral, OPG has developed a financing structure (depicted below) to:

- restrict the risk to OPG;

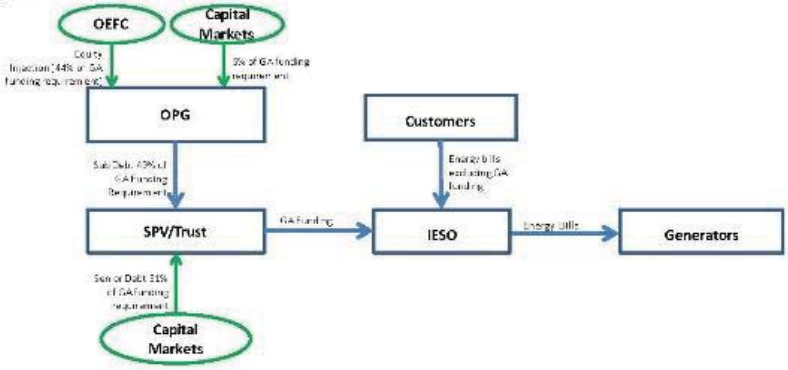
Ontario

- maximize the cost-effectiveness of the Trust or the Special Purpose Vehicle ("SPV") financing vehicle; and
- allow for consolidation into OPG financial statements.

The success of this structure is dependent on achieving a number of objectives which are reviewed in the following sections:

A. Ability to Recognize an Asset and Record Revenue
B. Ability to Consolidate the SPV into OPG
C. Ability to Finance
D. External Assessment
E. Risk Summary

All of the percentages shown in the graphic below are indicative and will be highly dependent on the legislation that the Province will enact:



Process:

The IESO will effectively sell the 'right to collect' deferred future revenue from ratepayers (GA Recovery Right asset) to the SPV in return for cash proceeds. In order for the SPV to purchase this asset the SPV will obtain the financing from two key sources: 51% directly from capital markets and 49% as subordinated debt from OPG. OPG will obtain 44% of this financing as an equity injection from the Province and 5% from capital markets.

A. Ability to Recognize an Asset and Record Revenue

Accounting Requirements under International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS)

1) It is our understanding that the IESO and KPMG have concluded that the sale of this 'right to collect' future revenue (or regulatory asset) is not a financing transaction and will not be recorded as a financial liability. Based on that conclusion, the right to collect will be accounted for as an intangible asset in the SPV.

2) In order to the SPV to record this right as an intangible asset, the right must meet the following conditions:
   - The intangible asset must be separable and arise from a contractual or legal right (i.e. mandated by the Legislation and SPV Indenture Agreement).
   - The SPV must have the control and power to obtain future economic benefits from the intangible asset.
   - The SPV must be able to demonstrate that the intangible asset is purchased at fair value.

3) In order for the SPV to recognize appropriate revenue to offset any ongoing costs, the Legislation must require interest, carrying and administrative costs to be paid to the SPV on a monthly basis. This may result in additional amounts to be deferred to achieve the desired customer impact. Payment of revenue to the SPV is also important to service the interest expenses of the debt.

B. Ability to Consolidate the SPV into OPG under IFRS

OPG 'Control' of the SPV - Accounting Requirements

1) In order to meet the accounting definition of 'control', accounting guidance must be considered. There are no bright lines to determine whether OPG has exposure, or rights, to variable returns from its involvement with the SPV, or whether it has the ability to affect the returns of the SPV through its power over the SPV. Rather, all facts and circumstances are considered when assessing whether an entity has control over another entity. Based on the relevant accounting guidance under IFRS, OPG has proposed terms necessary to demonstrate that OPG has control over the SPV. OPG's external auditors, Ernst & Young, has provided their concurrence that based on the information provided to them to date that the following conditions should permit consolidation of the SPV by OPG.

Directive:

1. The SPV must be undertaken by OPG as a business initiative on its merits. A Shareholder Directive is to be limited to direct OPG to investigate the option of establishing a SPV vehicle to administer, finance and operate the Global Adjustment plan. The control, risk and rewards of that SPV will determine its consolidation into OPG as a business enterprise.

SPV:

2. The SPV should not operate in a predetermined way such that OPG does not have decision-making authority over the SPV's ongoing activities after its formation (i.e. should not operate on 'autopilot').
3. OPG must have the ability to appoint and remove the Trustee (or Board of Trustees), with no veto right by the Province. No party shall have the ability to remove OPG from its role and authority in the SPV.
4. The Province cannot have the right to veto OPG's decisions about the relevant activities of the SPV. OPG must have the power over the relevant activities of the SPV and be compensated. The relevant activities of the SPV include (but are not limited to) the evaluation and decisions on financing alternatives, duration, and the strategy to minimize financing costs. OPG must have the power to establish operating and capital budgets of the SPV.
5. OPG must have the power to determine or change operating and financing policies of the SPV, which will affect the variability of risks and returns.
6. The Province or its agencies must not directly or indirectly fund (through debt or equity) more than 50% of the following:
    - The SPV
    - Any of OPG's investments in the most subordinated debt of the Trust
7. OPG must own greater than 50% of the most subordinated debt and targeted to be no less than 5%[1] of the total debt of the SPV. Such ownership must be financed entirely by OPG through operating cash flows or external debt, without assistance from Provincial sources. A quantitative analysis should be performed at a later date to corroborate the appropriateness of the 5% threshold to support that the 5% subordinated debt investment is sufficient to absorb most of the expected variability in the SPV.
8. OPG must have the ability to earn variable returns by exercising its authority, which shall be accomplished as follows:

[1] While the rest of the letter refers to a 10% investment in the most junior subordinated debt with OPG owning 5%, it should be noted that OPG should own more than 50% of the most subordinate debt. For simplicity, the degree to which OPG's ownership beyond 50% is not shown in this letter.

Ontario

a. The cash flow from the restructured asset shall include interest determined based on a relevant benchmark that is appropriate relative to the restructured asset, plus an appropriate margin consistent with the relevant market and other risks
b. OPG shall have the authority to determine the financing strategy, which will vary the financing costs with the objective of enabling the SPV to achieve a more favourable return compared to the return from the restructured asset
c. The SPV shall establish classes of liabilities (senior, subordinated and the most subordinated). The classes would allow the SPV to delineate financing of lower risk investment and investment that would bear higher residual risk. The delineation would limit OPG's self-funded investment to a reasonable level in order to allow OPG to remain a self-sustaining entity.
d. OPG shall, through its ownership of the most subordinated liability, be able to capture and retain the pricing difference between cost of financing and benchmark for interest on the restructured asset, or any residual risk of restructured asset. The targeted return of the subordinated liability should be reflective of the underlying risks and compensate holders for active management that would be required.
e. OPG should participate in the detailed design of the above and the SPV documentation to ensure that it has substantive power and variability, which will allow OPG's Board of Directors to evaluate the opportunity as a business initiative instead of through a shareholder directive.

Nothwithstanding the above, under certain Defined Forced Majeure for emergency events (e.g. unlikely credit market event or disruption where it is not possible to borrow from the market at a reasonable rate), the OEFC may provide bridge financing beyond the designated percentage for a defined period. The relevant terms should ensure that this temporary measure does not detract from the rights of OPG to direct all of the relevant activities of the SPV. Additionally, OPG should not be protected from risk of loss by the OEFC with respect to its subordinated investment, nor should it lose its right to derive the residual returns should such bridge financing be required.

Legislation

9. The Legislation must require interest, carrying and administrative costs to be paid to the SPV on a monthly basis, so that the SPV is able to recognize appropriate revenue to offset any ongoing costs.
10. The Legislation must dictate the manner in which the restructured asset would be determined, collected, and the period of collection, so that the determination of the restructured asset will not be subject to the Province's decisions on an ongoing basis, but determined based on a formula. Alternatively, the Legislation may allow for an adjustment to the pre-determined deferral formula based on specific parameters that would limit the adjustment to the restructured asset. Adjustments beyond the specific parameters would require approval by the Board of Trustees.
11. The Legislation must be written to avoid legal or constitutional challenges and be irrevocable to reduce the cost of borrowing and with a specific formula which determines the deferral amount. As irrevocability would be difficult under Canadian law one mitigation would be to provide a Provincial guarantee which only applies with cancellation or amendment of the legislation.
12. The spirit of the above terms should be reflected in the SPV Indenture Agreement as well as Legislation, wherever possible.

2) The Trust is expected to be financed as follows:
- 51% senior secured debt from external markets
- 39% senior subordinated debt from OPG (via Province equity injection into OPG)

- 10% junior subordinated debt from OPG (5% from external markets and 5% from Province equity injection into OPG).

When assessing control, an investor shall consider the nature of its relationship with other parties and whether those parties are acting on the investor's behalf (i.e. they are 'de facto agents'). If OPG is assessed to be a 'de facto agent' of the Province, it will compromise the ability for OPG to consolidate the Trust. The split above is to meet the following conditions to ensure that OPG is not considered a 'de facto agent' of the Province:

- The Province or its agencies must not directly or indirectly fund (through debt or equity) more than 50% of the following:
  - The Trust
  - Any of OPG's investments in the most subordinated debt of the Trust
- OPG must own greater than 50% of the most subordinated debt and targeted to own no less than 5% of the total debt of the Trust. Such ownership must be financed entirely by OPG through operating cash flows or external debt, without assistance from Provincial sources.

3) The Province will need to conclude on whether OPG still meets the definition of a Government Business Enterprise as defined under Public Sector Accounting Board standards in order to obtain the preferred consolidation treatment after the transaction. We also recommend that the Province to undertake the analysis deemed necessary to confirm the accounting treatment in its consolidated Public Accounts, including if the recognition of the intangible asset would result in an offsetting liability in the Public Accounts.

C. Ability to Finance

Property Right or Right to Collect
Legislative Requirements for Financing
The GA Recovery Right must be structured to encompass the following elements:

- Right to recover from and bill Ontario electricity customers for (1) the principal amount of GA that is being deferred, (2) all interest and other financing costs incurred in respect of the deferral of the GA, (3) all fees, expenses and other administrative costs associated with such financing;
- Repayment/amortization schedule as agreed by the IESO and any purchaser of such GA Recovery Right (or pursuant to a pre-defined schedule/formula that covers all of the purchaser's principal, interest and ongoing financing costs on a monthly basis);
- Repayment/amortization schedule must include a true up mechanism to ensure all costs associated with the deferral can be recovered from customers;
- IESO may dispose of the GA Recovery Right, provided that any such disposition shall be a true sale and absolute transfer to the purchaser of the IESO's right, title and interest in and to the GA Recovery Right;
- Purchaser will have the right to require the IESO (or any successor) to collect the principal amount of GA Recovery Right, together with interest, financing and administration costs, on the agreed repayment/amortization schedule;
- Right must be irrevocable and, if amended by future governments, debt holders have the right of action against the government to recover the amount outstanding including interest, fees, expenses and any damages resulting from the amendment;
- GA Recovery Right will not be subject to any set-off, counterclaim or other defence by the IESO or any successor or affiliated entity; and
- Make certain amendments to the Electricity Act to allow OPG to implement the SPV financing structure (e.g. allowing OPG to create subsidiaries and holding companies, and to have a beneficial interest in the SPV, etc). This would provide flexibility to accommodate possible variations to the financing structure that may be desirable over time.

Detailed legislative requirements are specified in the attachments as follows:

Ontario

Attachment 1 Legislative requirements to allow deferral of global adjustment amounts to be financeable

Attachment 2 Statutory amendments

The proposed financing structure for the SPV is:

	Risk Profile	Source	% of Total Funding Requirements
Tranche A Senior Debt	The least risky	Capital Markets	51%
Tranche B Sub Debt	In between A&C	OPG via OEFC	39%
Tranche C Sub Debt)	The most risky	OPG via OEFC	5%
		OPG via Capital Markets	5%

SPV structure is used to accomplish the following:

- SPV holds right to charge customers for the benefit of debt holders;
- Allows the financing vehicle to be ring-fenced from OPG as an SPV structure is set up as generally single purpose entities with no other operations that could add risk to the SPV, dilute debt holder rights, allow parties from other operations to claim rights to the future recovery from customers or allow these other parties to initiate bankruptcy proceedings;
- Enables SPV to potentially get a higher credit rating than OPG;
- Supports consolidation with OPG provided accounting requirements are satisfied;

This approach supports a number of objectives of the GA Recovery Right:

- 51% external senior debt supports separation of the SPV from the Province
- 5% junior subordinated debt establishes OPG's "at risk" equity which supports separation of the SPV from the Province
- Subordinated debt provides flexibility to the financing structure and additional credit support to external debt holders
- Subordinated debt sourced from OPG (mainly funded by equity injection from the Province) minimizes impact on OPG credit metrics reducing risk of an OPG rating downgrade that could result in the SPV being consolidated directly with the Province as the SPV would be considered an arm of the Province.

D. External Assessment

Shakerhill Partners, an external advisor, identified the following items in an assessment of the structure and financeability of the structure:

- The structure is financeable however there are a number of significant risks to the structure:
  - Canadian and Ontario law does not provide the same protection to property right as exists in the US federal and state constitutions to limit the ability of governments to adversely impair contracts to the detriment of the holder;
  - Legislation could mitigate some of the risks – deferred recovery asset to be "uncapped", regular semi-annual true up to ensure recovery, Province provides sufficient committed liquidity to the IESO so that temporary shortfall in recovery does not affect payments to SPV, term of the deferral recovery substantially exceeds the longest maturity of debt of the SPV and that true-up mechanism take account of potential for currency, interest rate and duration mis-match between the debt of the SPV and the recovery mechanism;
  - Size of the program may be too large for Canadian securitization market requiring access to the US securitization market;
- Final maturity of debt should not exceed 30 years from inception of the program
- True up mechanism should be designed such that the forecast of recovery is less than 10% of the customer bill under downside scenarios to limit growth of the deferral balance as a higher portion of the customer bill increases the political risk to debt holders which could result in a lower credit rating and potential impact on financeability
- Securitized debt products are specialized and price at a premium to other fixed rate instruments however a successful program supported by a strong credit rating this premium could shrink over time to a minor spread over Provincial debt
- OPG's credit rating should be maintained provided sufficient equity is injected to maintain credit metrics
- While the structure is not expected to impact the Province there are risks that the program could negatively impact the rating agencies view of the Province's financial management.

E. Risk Summary

i. Consolidation

- Elements of the proposed structure were established to support consolidation of the SPV into OPG. These items may not be sufficient to establish OPG as risk owner of the SPV and the SPV may need to be consolidated directly with the Province.

ii. Financeability

- The legislation establishing the structure and the property right for recovering the financing and associated costs may not be adequate for financing purposes resulting in more expensive financing or an inability to obtain the required external financing.

iii. Cost of Financing

- Future governments may enact legislation that changes the right of the SPV to recover amounts from customers.
- The right to recover amounts from future customers must be irrevocable and subject to full recovery from the government in the event that future governments reduce or eliminate the recovery. A legal structure that is weaker than the precedent US transactions increases the risk to debt holders and the cost of financing.
- Interest rates on bonds in the securitization market are higher than equivalent rated bonds. Rate for a AAA securitization credit is about 50 bps higher than GOC (rated AAA) for a 5 year term. This difference is attributable to the specialized structure of the bond, smaller investor pool for this bond, smaller size of the market and higher perceived risks of the bond.
- Any regulator involvement must not be seen to modify any terms of debt issued or the property right securing the debt as this would increase risk to debt holders.

Ontario

- It may not be possible to issue debt to match the terms of the deferred asset so shorter term debt would be used which raises risk to re-finance the maturing debt as the market may no longer be interested in this product. As well, underlying reference interest rates may be higher and the market may require a higher spread to invest in this product.
- With the GA Recovery Right program continuing for 10 years, debt issued over this period is subject to changes in both the underlying reference interest rates and appetite of the market for this product.

iv. OPG Credit Rating

- Minimizing the impact of significant additional debt on OPG's credit rating is dependent on higher EBITDA arising from earned income on the GA Recovery Right in excess of external debt. Ability of the SPV to record revenue reflecting the growth in asset value.
- Potential OPG credit rating downgrade if legislative structure is not adequate to support long term recoverability, inability to record revenue from growth in asset value or agencies view equity injection as debt.
- OPG credit rating downgrade could result in loss of GBE status or result in SPV being consolidated directly with the Province.

Ontario

Attachment 1

LEGISLATIVE REQUIREMENTS TO ALLOW DEFERRAL OF GLOBAL ADJUSTMENT AMOUNTS TO BE FINANCEABLE

The IESO currently has a right to collect GA monthly from ratepayers through provisions in the Electricity Act, 1998. It is proposed that collection of a certain portion of the monthly GA be deferred for collection in the future, and that the right to recover the deferred GA from ratepayers be used as a basis for structured financing/securitization.

The current proposal is for a trust to be created as a financing vehicle (the "Trust") in connection the deferred GA. The Trust will finance the deferral of the GA by purchasing the right to recover such deferred GA from the IESO for the principal amount of the GA being deferred. For example, if the amount of GA that is being deferred is $200 million in a given month, the Trust will purchase from the IESO the right to future recovery of the deferred GA and the associated financing costs (including interest and transaction costs) for $200 million in cash.

The Trust is expected to finance these purchases from the IESO through a combination of senior secured financing raised in the capital markets and subordinated financing from OPG (the funding for which will mostly be from equity injections from the OEFC/Province).

For accounting purposes, OPG will need to have the ability to direct the activities of the Trust, through a services agreement and/or through the Trust's constating document.

Based on securitized financing raised by utilities in the US (backed by utility cost recovery orders) and the current regulatory framework in Ontario, the legislation in Ontario would need to be amended to provide the following, at a minimum:

1. The IESO will be empowered to create an asset (the "Regulatory Asset") consisting of all right, title and interest in and to:

   (a) right to recover from and bill Ontario electricity ratepayers for:

   (i) the principal amount of GA that is being deferred for collection;
   (ii) all interest and other financing costs incurred in respect of the deferral of the GA (whether through senior debt raised in the public markets or subordinated debt raised from OPG or others); and
   (iii) (subject to the comments in paragraph 5 below in respect of OPG's internal administrative costs only) all fees, expenses and other administrative costs associated with such financing, including up-front and ongoing financing costs and any indemnity payments;

Ontario

all on such repayment/amortization schedule as agreed by the IESO and any purchaser of such right (or pursuant to a pre-defined schedule/formula in the legislation that covers all of the purchaser's principal, interest and ongoing financing costs on a monthly basis); and

(b) all revenues, collections, claims, rights to payments, money or proceeds arising from the rights and interests set out in paragraph (a) above, regardless of whether such revenues, collections, claims, rights to payments, money or proceeds are imposed, billed, received, collected or maintained together with or commingled with other revenues, collections, rights to payments, payments, money or proceeds.

2. The IESO may dispose of the Regulatory Assets created from time to time on such terms as the IESO determines in accordance with the terms of directives to be issued to the IESO from time to time by the Minister, provided that any such disposition shall be a true sale and absolute transfer of the IESO's right, title and interest in and to a Regulatory Asset to the purchaser of the Regulatory Asset.

3. The Regulatory Assets will not be subject to any set-off, counterclaim or other defence by the IESO or any successor or affiliated entity thereof.

4. The legislation will need to recognize the Regulatory Assets as amounts that may be recovered by the IESO (e.g. it could be designated as a "GA Deferral" and would be included in the amounts collectible by the IESO through the GA collection mechanism, and would include interest and financing costs).

5. The purchaser of the Regulatory Asset will have the right to require the IESO (or any successor) to collect the principal amount of GA deferred, together with interest, financing and administration costs, on the agreed repayment/amortization schedule. [NTD: In the LIPA securitization rate order, if the entity that is authorized to collect rates to service the bonds ends up defaulting, there is the ability to request a court to order "sequestration" and payments of amounts owing to the owner of the Regulatory Asset. Consider whether to include a similar right here. Alternatively, consider whether a security interest over the moneys collected by the IESO could be provided to the purchaser.]

OEB would be provided with oversight over the internal administrative costs collected by the Financing Trust. This could be accomplished by (a) providing the purchaser of the Regulatory Asset with the right to require the IESO or a successor to collect only the principal amount of GA together with interest and financing costs and third party fees and expenses, and (b) requiring the IESO to collect amounts through the global adjustment and make payments to the purchaser of the Regulatory Asset with respect to the internal administrative costs incurred by the purchaser in connection with the purchase and management of the Regulatory Asset and the Financing Trust, in accordance with the order of the OEB then in effect. Under this mechanism, the OEB would be required to review the purchaser's internal administrative costs through a streamlined process and issue such orders in accordance with rules to be prescribed under a new regulation under the OEB Act, which would clearly limit the OEB's scope of review and could establish the basis for the purchaser to receive an appropriate fee for its services.

6. In the event that any action is taken or permitted by the Province or any regulatory authority that limits, alters, or impairs the value of a Regulatory Asset or reduces the ability of the IESO or the purchaser of the Regulatory Asset to collect or recover the costs associated therewith, the owner of the Regulatory Asset and the holders of any bonds or other securities issued to finance the purchase of the Regulatory Asset, will have a right of action against the Province for any damages suffered as a result of such amendment.

STATUTORY AMENDMENTS

The following is preliminary and is based on our current understanding of the proposed structure and objectives. For example, we have assumed that the structure will not entail the insertion of a new Holdco between OPG and the Province. As these aspects are refined, some of the suggested amendments described below may not be needed and other aspects that we are not aware of may need to be considered. Accordingly, these suggested amendments are provided for discussion purposes and are subject to change. We would welcome the opportunity to work with OPG and the Ministry on refining the scope and substance of required legislative and regulatory amendments.

A. Amendments to Implement Structure

Certain Electricity Act, 1998 amendments would be needed to implement the anticipated structure (which we understand, as noted above, would not include a Holdco), as follows:

- Section 53.1(1): Amend to permit owning and operating generation facilities through subsidiaries (not only directly through OPG). In addition, amend to permit OPG to administer, manage, loan moneys to and have a beneficial interest in, if applicable, Financing Trust.

- Section 53.2: Amend to permit the Minister to acquire, hold, dispose of or otherwise deal with securities or debt obligations of, or any other interest in, OPG or any subsidiaries. This is to accommodate possible variations to the financing structure that may be desirable over time.

- Section 53.■ (new): New statutory section to permit the Minister to enter into arrangements relating to an exercise of powers under 53.2.

- Section 53.■ (new): New statutory section providing that creditors of Financing Trust have no recourse to the assets of OPG or any of its subsidiaries (other than Financing Trust, if applicable). In addition, consideration should be given as to whether the Act should be amended so that the Financing Trust cannot be wound up or liquidated.

B. Miscellaneous Corporate Items to Address

- OPG Articles: Amend the OPG's articles to remove the private company restrictions.

- MOA with Province: Consider whether any amendments to OPG's MOA with the Province are required to contemplate the Financing Trust.

C. Amendments Under Electricity Act to Implement GA Smoothing

Ontario

Based on our understanding that the global adjustment smoothing mechanism is intended to benefit residential and small business customers only and that the Minister will be responsible for determining how much global adjustment smoothing is to be applied in a given month, if any, amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998 and Ontario Regulation 429/04 (Adjustments Under Section 25.33 of the Act) would be needed to implement the mechanism, as follows:

(i) Electricity Act:

- Section ■ (New): Establish a new power for the Minister to make directives to the IESO in relation to the global adjustment smoothing mechanism and, particularly, for purposes of establishing global adjustment smoothing amounts from time to time (expected to be monthly). To the extent possible, the directive power should be drafted so as to limit the ability for a future Minister to require the IESO to do anything that would materially and adversely affect the Financing Trust or its lenders. [NTD: While our understanding is that the Minister would direct this, we note from other materials we have seen that OPG may instead be recommending a formula approach. It is not clear what the formula would look like, where it would be set out or how it would be applied and by whom]

- Paragraph 25.33(1): This section says that IESO shall make adjustments in accordance with the regulations to ensure that, over time, payments by prescribed classes of market participants reflect amounts paid to OPG, OEFC and distributors, as well as amounts paid to entities with whom IESO has a procurement contract. Add new subsection (c) so as to require IESO to ensure that, over time, payments by prescribed classes of market participants also reflect amounts paid to Financing Trust. [NTD: Not certain this is needed if only to benefit residential and small business consumers, who are not market participants. May be needed in reference to payments from distributors and retailers]

- Paragraph 25.33(2): This section says that distributors and retailers shall make adjustments in accordance with the regulations to ensure that, over time, payments by prescribed classes of consumers reflect amounts paid to OPG, OEFC and distributors, as well as amounts paid to entities with whom IESO has a procurement contract. Add new subsection (c) so as to require distributors and retailers to ensure that, over time, payments by prescribed classes of consumers also reflect amounts paid to Financing Trust.

- Note: As described below, the regulation will need to include new requirements for the IESO to record the global adjustment smoothing amounts in one or more variance accounts and to use those amounts to offset amounts otherwise recorded in the variance accounts under Section 25.33(3) of the Act. For context, we note:

    - Section 25.33(3) says that adjustments under (1) or (2) relating to electricity consumed by consumers whose rates are determined by the OEB under s. 79.16 of the OEB Act (i.e. RPP Customers) shall instead be made in accordance with the regulations to one or more variance accounts established and maintained by the IESO.

Ontario

- Section 25.33(4) says IESO, distributors and retailers shall make and receive such payments, set-offs and credits as may be required or permitted by the regulations with respect to consumers described in (3), i.e. RPP Customers.

- Section 25.33(5) says that IESO shall establish and maintain such variance accounts as may be needed to record all amounts payable or receivable by it under 25.33.

(ii) O. Reg. 429/04 (Adjustments Under Section 25.33 of the Act):

- Section 1(1): Consider adding definitions for "Financing Trust" and "global adjustment smoothing amount" or such other terms as may be preferred.

- Section 1.2(1) (New): Add section providing that, for the purposes of this Regulation, the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month is the amount determined by the IESO in accordance with a directive from the Minister under section ■ of the Electricity Act in respect of the month. [NTD: See above note re use of Minister directives]

- Section 1.2(2) (New): Consider adding a section providing that the IESO shall publish the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month by no later than the 10th business day of the following month [to align with general publication requirements for global adjustment under s. 1.1(2)].

- Section 10(1): Amend formula for calculating Class B GA rate by subtracting the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month from "M", which is the total amount of the global adjustment for the month. The global adjustment smoothing amount could be designated as "X", such that the formula would be (M-X-N)/(P-Q). Define "X" as the global adjustment smoothing amount for the month as determined by the IESO in accordance with the Minister's directive under section ■ of the Electricity Act for the month. [NTD: See above note re use of Minister directives]

- Section 10.1 (New): Add new section to deal with adjustments under subsection 25.33(3) of the Act, i.e. in respect of RPP consumers. This section should require the IESO to establish, within the variance account(s) it maintains pursuant to subsection 25.33(3) of the Act, one or more subaccounts in which it shall record the global adjustment smoothing amounts applicable to the classes of consumers described in subsection 25.33(3) of the Act. This section must also specify that the IESO shall apply the amounts recorded in the subaccounts against the balances in the variance accounts for purposes of section 79.16(3) of the OEB Act.

Ontario

- Note: This is a key aspect because, when the OEB determines RPP rates, it must take into account the balances in the variance accounts established by the IESO under s. 25.33 of the Electricity Act and make adjustments with a view to eliminating the balances within 12 months. This proposed new section 10.1 causes the IESO to reduce (in the near term) the variance account balances by the global adjustment smoothing amounts, as provided by Financing Trust, thereby enabling the OEB to determine RPP rates that, despite being lower for RPP consumers in the near term, still eliminate the relevant variance account balances within 12 months.

- Paragraph 11(2)2.ii: Amend the formula for calculating the allocation of global adjustment for a month to a licensed distributor that is a market participant by subtracting the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month from "M", which has the same meaning as under section 10(1). The global adjustment smoothing amount could be designated as "X", such that the formula would be [(M-X-N) x (R+S-T)]/(P-Q). Define "X" as suggested under section 10(1).

- Paragraph 11(2)3: Amend the formula for calculating the allocation of global adjustment for a month to each Class B market participant by subtracting the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month from "M", which has the same meaning as under section 10(1). The global adjustment smoothing amount could be designated as "X", such that the formula would be [(M-X-N) x U]/(P-Q). Define "X" as suggested under section 10(1).

- Paragraph 16(7)4: Consider amending the description of "Global Adjustment" that is required to be included on certain invoices so as to inform consumers that their portion of the global adjustment for the month (i) may have been reduced by the application of a global adjustment smoothing amount from the Financing Trust, or (ii) may include amounts payable to the Financing Trust in respect of global adjustment smoothing amounts previously applied.

- Section 20(1): This section establishes an obligation for the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation and every licensed distributor that is a market participant to give the IESO such information as the IESO may require for the purposes of the Regulation in the form specified by the IESO and before the expiry of the period specified by the IESO. Consider amending to extend this obligation to the Financing Trust.

- Section 20(6): This section provides that on request by the OEB, the IESO, a licensed distributor, an embedded generator, a retailer or the OEFC shall give the OEB such information relating to this Regulation as the OEB may require, in the form and within the period specified by the OEB. Consider amending to extend this obligation to the Financing Trust.

Ontario

D. Amendments Under OEB Act to Implement Cost Recovery for Financing Trust

Amendments to the Ontario Energy Board Act, including amendments to O. Reg. 95/05 (Classes of Consumers and Determination of Rates) and the introduction of a new regulation, would be needed to implement a cost recovery process for the Financing Trust in relation to the global adjustment smoothing mechanism, potentially with limited OEB oversight, as follows:

(i) Ontario Energy Board Act:

- Section 78(3.3): This provision establishes an obligation for the OEB, when determining rates for the retailing of electricity, to take into account balances in variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act and to make adjustments "with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct." Consider whether any amendments are needed, and confirm this works with the framework being proposed.

- Section 78.7 (New): We understand that the Province may want the OEB to have an oversight role. One possible approach would be to establish a new statutory section establishing that the IESO shall make payments to the Financing Trust with respect to the internal administrative costs incurred by the Financing Trust in connection with the purchase and management of the Regulatory Asset and the Financing Trust. Such payments by the IESO would need to be made in accordance with the order of the OEB then in effect, which orders shall be made by the OEB in accordance with rules prescribed under a new regulation.

    - The new regulation would need to be clear that the OEB does not have jurisdiction to consider the principal amount or any interest, financing costs, third party fees or expenses. Rather, OEB's role would be limited to considering the internal administrative costs of the Financing Trust and ensuring the Financing Trust receives an appropriate fee for its services, all of which would be recovered by the Financing Trust from the IESO, which would collect those amounts in the global adjustment. Note that, if this approach is accepted, the IESO and distributors and retailers would need the authority to collect such amounts as part of the GA and IESO would need the authority to pay such amounts to the Financing Trust. As such, additional amendments would be needed under O. Reg. 429/04.

- Note: Section 79.16 of the OEB Act does not require changes, but the significance of this provision should be understood.

    - Section 79.16 gives the OEB responsibility for determining electricity commodity prices for eligible consumers. Eligibility is determined under Reg. 95/05 (Classes of Consumers and Determination of Rates), which is also known as the Regulated Price Plan (RPP) Regulation.
    - Section 4(2) of the RPP Regulation defines RPP-eligible consumers as low volume consumers (i.e. those who annually use less than 150,000 kWh or such other amount as prescribed), consumers with demand of 50 kW or less, residential consumers that have accounts with distributors, consumers who annually use 150,000 to 250,000 kW of electricity, and consumers who have accounts with distributors if in the farming business.

- Paragraph 6(1)3 of the RPP Regulation provides that "In determining the rates (for RPP-eligible consumers), the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect those costs."
- The Ontario Energy Board has developed a Regulated Price Plan Manual (revised February 16, 2016) to describe the processes and methodologies it uses for determining electricity commodity prices that are charged to RPP consumers pursuant to Section 79.16 of the OEB Act and paragraph 6(1)3 of the RPP Regulation.

(ii) O. Reg. 95/05 (Classes of Consumers and Determination of Rates)

- Paragraph 6(1)3: Amend so as to require the Board, when forecasting the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, to take into consideration not only the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act but also the application or prior application of global adjustment smoothing amounts determined by the IESO in accordance with Minister directives under section ■ of the Electricity Act, and to ensure that the RPP rates reflect those amounts. [NTD: See above note re use of Minister directives]

(iii) New Regulation (Payments to the Financing Trust)

- If the OEB is to be given the role of reviewing and approving the recovery of OPG's internal administrative costs for the Financing Trust under the potential section 78.7 (see above), then this regulation should describe the process and criteria pursuant through which the OEB would determine the amounts that the IESO would be required to collect through the global adjustment, in accordance with section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, and pay to the Financing Trust in respect of the provision of global adjustment smoothing amounts. This part of the regulation should establish:

  - any reporting requirements from the Financing Trust and/or the IESO to the OEB in connection with the global adjustment smoothing mechanism;
  - the frequency of the OEB making determinations under this part of the regulation;
  - the process through which the OEB shall make these determinations, which should be a streamlined administrative process rather than a public hearing process or, if a hearing is needed, then the scope of the proceeding should be clearly and narrowly constrained so as to deter intervenor involvement, lengthy proceedings and reduce/eliminate risk to recovery by Financing Trust;

Ontario

- the basis for the OEB's determinations as to the payments that shall be made to the Financing Trust, which should specify that:
  - the Financing Trust shall recover its prudently incurred internal administrative costs on a forecast basis each year;
  - the Financing Trust shall receive an appropriate fee each year (with some guidance as to what would be appropriate); and
  - the approved payment amounts shall be collected by the IESO through the global adjustment and paid to the Financing Trust in accordance with the order of the OEB then in effect. Note that O. Reg. 429/04 would likely need amendments to permit IESO (and distributors and retailers) to collect these amounts through the global adjustment.

Mr. Patrick Monahan
Deputy Attorney General
Ministry of the Attorney General
720 Bay Street
8th Floor
Toronto, ON M7A 2S9

Dear Mr. Deputy Attorney General:

RE: Proposal to Reconfigure Global Adjustment Charges

You have asked for my opinion on the degree of constitutional risk if the government were to reconfigure the Global Adjustment Charge to residential and small business users so as to pay down the debt over 30 years instead of the current 20 year period. The 20 year period was designed to coincide with the duration of current contracts between ISEO and the relevant electrical generation companies. The 30 year period is the assumed useful life of 30 years of the relevant electricity generating equipment.

To the extent either the 1 to 20 year consumer group or the 20-30 year consumer group is subsidizing one or other, there will be a mismatch between the cost of facilities and those whom the facilities benefit, which may attract a constitutional challenge on the basis that the Global Adjustment has become a tax rather than a regulatory charge.

The degree of constitutional risk, in my opinion, is in direct proportion to the extent the government is not able to show a proper match between the cost of providing facilities for electricity generation and the group of consumers who benefit year to year from electricity generated by those facilities.

The legal principles applicable to regulatory charges are quite straight-forward (although there is not much jurisprudence in the area). The hurdle for the government in any constitutional challenge will be to assemble credible expert evidence to demonstrate that (1) indeed the relevant electricity generating facilities do have a useful life of 30 years or more, subject to maintenance and refurbishment costs, and (2) that the allocation of the Global Adjustment aligns, to the extent practicable, with the costs and benefits of the electricity generators and avoids cross-subsidization of current consumers by future consumers.

In terms of Risk Assessment, I understand the government has not yet obtained an expert opinion from outside experts on the expected economic lifetime of the electrical generators now subject to the Global Assessment. I suspect there may be difficulty in obtaining such a comprehensive opinion from credible experts for the reasons discussed below. On that basis, I would assess the current proposal as moderately high risk, defined as being an outcome difficult to predict because there are good arguments on both sides, but in the end the Supreme Court of Canada would be more likely than not to find against constitutional validity.

If the government were able to assemble the necessary expert evidence, of course, the risk would be re-assessed at a lower level, but how much lower depends on the quality of the expert evidence and the extent to which the Global Adjustment is shifted, i.e. reduced to current consumers at the expense of the back end (20 to 30 year) consumers, who are assumed to be still benefitting from the current generating equipment.

Overview

The Global Adjustment Charge reflects all of the fixed costs, including capital costs, of Ontario's electrical generation facilities subject to 20 year contracts[1], as well as the premium paid to renewal energy producers and the cost of conservation programs (such as subsidies to small scale manufactures to replace inefficient equipment with more efficient equipment). In 2016, the Global Adjustment Charge, allocated in different amounts to different classes of consumer, stood at $12.3 billion dollars.

Much of the Global Adjustment was necessitated by substantial capital investment promoted by the Province with financial incentives to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and decarbonize and modernize Ontario's electricity infrastructure.

The Global Adjustment paid by consumers is a regulatory charge. Residential and small business users [class B consumers] pay the Global Adjustment based on the volume of electricity they use each month. One of the requirements of a valid regulatory charge (as opposed to a tax) is that the person paying the charge either benefits from the facilities that are subject to the regulatory scheme or they create the need for (and benefit from) those facilities in the future.

[1] Most generators in Ontario are on 20 year contracts. Assets with longer operating lives are provided longer term contracts in recognition of their extended benefit. These longer term assets are not part of the current proposal.

Ontario

The Ministry of Energy is concerned that the present allocation of the Global Adjustment over 20 years is "front-end loaded" in that the consumers in the initial 20 year period are paying upfront for facilities that will still be utilized to provide electricity to consumers in the 20-30 period who will, to that extent, get a free ride. There is an equal and opposite concern that by shifting costs to the 20-30 year customers, the government may in reality be disproportionality back-end loading the Global Adjustment with the effect that the 20-30 year users will be subsidizing the 1-20 year users.

Accordingly, the Ministry of Energy anticipates a constitutional challenge based on the shifting of a portion of the existing Global Adjustment charges from current users to the 20-30 year group.

The judges can be expected to be aware of the difficult political problem of high energy costs in Ontario, and will therefore take a careful look at the government's evidence in support of the re-allocation of the Global Adjustment.

The Elements of a Proper Regulatory Scheme

In Westbank First Nation vs. British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority, 1999 [3 SCR] 134 at para. 30, the Supreme Court of Canada grappled with the distinction between a tax, a user fee and a regulatory charge. This was said to depend on:

> ...whether the levy's primary purpose is, in pith and substance; (1) to tax, i.e. to raise revenue for general purposes; (2) to finance or constitute a regulatory scheme i.e. to be a regulatory charge or to be ancillary or adhesive to a regulatory scheme; or (3) to charge for services directly rendered i.e. to be a user fee

In a regulatory scheme, as stated, the regulator is expected to align costs and benefits. While this can rarely be done with precision, and the courts will defer to some extent to the regulator's attempt to approximate a "smoothing out" of the allocation of the costs associated with the regulatory scheme, nevertheless a court would have to be satisfied that the regulator is attempting in good faith to match the cost of facilities with the class of consumers who will benefit from the generation capacity of those facilities, or whose energy needs have required their creation. As Gonthier J. stated in Westbank at para. 28:

> Finally, the individual subject to the regulatory charge will usually either benefit from the regulation, or cause the need for the regulation: Magnet, supra at page 459. In Allard, supra, the gravel trucks caused the need for the repair to the roads; in Ontario Home Builders, supra, the developers and the new homeowners caused the need for the new schools. In both cases, the individuals being charged also benefited from the regulation. (emphasis added)

A levy will be held to be a regulatory charge where there is:

(i) A complete, complex and detailed code of regulation;

(ii) A regulatory purpose which seeks to affect some behaviour;

(iii) The presence of actual or properly estimated costs of the regulation; and

(iv) A relationship between the person being regulated and the regulation, where the person being regulated either benefits from, or causes the need for, the regulation.

See: 620 Connaught Limited vs. Canada (Attorney General), 2008 SCC 7, 2008 1 SCR 132 While each of these four elements would have to be addressed in the evidence, the third and fourth elements can be expected to be the most contentious.

On the other hand, a levy will be held to be a tax if it is:

(i) Enforceable by law;

(ii) Imposed under the authority of the legislature;

Ontario

(iii) Levied by a public body;

(iv) Intended for a public purpose; and

(v) Unconnected to any form of regulatory scheme.

Re: Eurig Estate, [1998] 2 SCR 565 at paras. 15 and 43. The anticipated constitutional challenge is expected to argue that the Global Adjustment imposed on the 20-30 year consumers is a direct tax beyond the legislative competence of the Province.

The Estimated Costs and Useful Life of the Generating Facilities

(i) "Smoothing" the Charges Over 30 Years

The Global Adjustment would be funded by loans. The OPG or OPG Trust would need to borrow an additional amount each year equivalent to the shortfall brought about by the reduction in the Global Adjustment charge to current consumers. If for example the OPG Trust were to borrow $2.2 billion dollars in the current year, and transfer that amount to ISEO, the need to impose a Global Adjustment for 2017 would be reduced by that amount, and the charge to the 2017 consumer would be lowered. However, the shortfall will have to be recouped from future consumers to repay the loan. In other words, the total debt shifted into the 20-30 year period would be increased by a like amount (plus accumulating interest). The court would require an explanation of how the debt is created, financed, and allocated year by year to year 30.

Of course the lower the amount of Global Adjustment allocated in the early years, the higher the borrowings that will have to be paid off in subsequent years and the greater the need to demonstrate that consumers in those later years will still benefit economically and proportionally from the current generating equipment.

Ontario

In the figures I have been shown, the borrowings necessary to defray part of the Global Adjustment otherwise to be imposed on Ontario Consumers in years 1 to 20 would peak around the midpoint of the 30 year period and thereafter decline to zero.

(ii) Impact of Projections of Potential Reductions in the Cost of Generating Electricity in years 1 to 20

The Ministry of Energy has projected electricity demand over the 30 year period. It is noted that if energy demand in Ontario is not as great in year 25 as predicted, there will be fewer consumers paying higher electricity bills than anticipated. Equally, of course, there could be developments (a drop in the price of natural gas for example) that will reduce the actual cost of generating electricity (as represented in the wholesale "spot" market). Such forecasts are inevitably somewhat speculative over this period. Such speculation is not relevant to the Global Adjustment analysis, in my opinion, because the Global Adjustment will be paid in addition to the cost of generation, whether the cost of generation is eventually shown to be higher or lower than anticipated. Declining costs would not affect the Global Adjustment levy, but would bring the overall burden on the consumer in year 25 below the currently anticipated level.

(iii) Useful Life of the Assets Financed by the General Adjustment

I am asked to assume that the bulk of the electricity generating assets have a useful life well beyond 20 years, but if (as expected) there is a challenge to the provincial re-allocation of the Global Adjustment, the Province will of course have to call expert evidence on that point.

Ontario

It may be a very complicated calculus to address the relative useful lifetimes of different types of electrical generators including wind, solar and biomass. There seem to be a number of question marks in this respect. Renewable energy technology is advancing rapidly. Prices of solar panels, it seems, have dropped over 20% in the last year. How much will 25 year old wind turbine technology be worth in 2040? Who can say? Developers of solar and wind power are obliged to put in place a "decommissioning" plan backed up (at least in some cases) by a performance bond. It will have to be established that the decommissioning is not triggered at the conclusion of the 20 year FIT plan (and the use of the land then restored to landowners). Much of Ontario's renewable energy facilities may have little economic value to consumers in the 20-30 year period, even though still able to produce electricity inefficiently.

If the government fails to establish that the relevant electricity generating assets will continue to perform economically over the 30 year period, thereby failing to justify the imposition of an amortization of current equipment cost over the extended 30 year period, or if the Global Adjustment Charge is in the opinion of the Court disproportionality backend loaded in light of that declining benefit to future consumers, the Global Adjustment will not qualify as a regulatory charge.

(iv) Impact of Choosing Option 1 (Residential Bills Lowered 25%), Option 2 (20%) or Option 3 (18%)

The choice of option is significant because the greater the reduction of bills to current residential consumers, the greater the debt load pushed onto future consumers, and the more the Ministry's 30 year projections will attract judicial scrutiny. I expect the Province's expert would have to concede that projections into the 20-30 year time frame are inherently speculative (as to the useful economic life of the current renewable energy technology for example).

The constitutional issue remains the same: can it be demonstrated that the Global Adjustment will match costs and benefits as closely as is practicable, and not operate as a cross-subsidy of present consumers, who are the source of considerable political pressure. Judges do, as we know, read newspapers. The more the debt load is pushed onto future consumers based on 20-30 year projections, the bigger the challenge to the Province's experts to satisfy a court that the reduction is based on sound economics and a realistic appraisal of the future value of the current electrical generation facilities. In short, the bigger the reduction in charges to current consumers, the greater the constitutional risk, in my opinion.

Conclusion

If it can be established that the underlying electricity generating assets have useful life-expectancies beyond the terms of their 20 year contracts, with the result that future consumers whose electricity needs require the existence of the electricity generating infrastructure put in place in the initial 1 to 20 year period, and who will benefit from the existence of that capacity, I believe a Court would, in those circumstances, conclude that the consumers in the 20 to 30 year period could constitutionally be required to share equitably and proportionately in the cost of financing the required assets.

The challenge, in my view, is not with establishing the legal principles. The problem will be to find leading experts to convincingly establish the necessary facts.

Ontario

I would be glad to expand on this analysis or respond to any questions.

Yours truly,

Hon. Ian Binnie, C.C., Q.C.

Kim,

Please find attached the TBS house book notes edited to reflect the messaging developed by the IESO. These notes get into more detail around accounting practices than ours, so let me know if I have misunderstood anything with my edits.

Kim – earlier today you mentioned there may be some next steps in regards to KPMG, I believe that Michael Boll had flagged that as well. Can you advise on whether we need to engage them on anything in this document?

If we've landed on our messages we can use them to update the TBS messages, which I can do first thing in the morning. I will also need to share the KM and Q&A with the Ministry tomorrow.

FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACCOUNTING (GLOBAL ADJUSTMENT REFINANCING)

ISSUE: What is the basis for the proposed accounting for the Global Adjustment Refinancing on the Province's books?

CONTEXT: The Global Adjustment Refinancing is one component of the Fair Hydro Plan announced in March 2017, and is the most significant contributor to the reduction in hydro rates for residential consumers. The other parts of the Plan for residential consumers include: (a) expansion of the Ontario Electricity Support Program, (b) reductions in distribution rates for consumers in rural and remote areas, (c) reductions for First Nations residential consumers living on-reserve, (d) a fund set up to assist consumers in making their homes more energy efficient.

The only impacts on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements from the Fair Hydro Plan is (d) the fund set up to assist consumers in making their homes more energy efficient, which was expensed in the year and increases the annual deficit. In addition, the 8% rebate on electricity bills, introduced as of January 1, 2017, while not part of the March 2017 announcement, also impacts the 2016-17 as an expense that increases the annual deficit.

KEY MESSAGES:

GA Financing Status and Structure

- In order to meet the needs of users, including the legislature and the public, for accountability in government reporting and decision making, it is essential that public sector financial statements reflect the economic substance of the government's activities.

- All of the agreements necessary for the Global Adjustment (GA) Refinancing are not yet complete. The final accounting for the GA Refinancing will be completed once all of the elements are complete. The balance of the note is based on the expected outcome. As previously noted, there is no impact on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements from the GA Refinancing.

- In analyzing the appropriate accounting treatment for the GA refinancing component of the Fair Hydro Plan on the Province's consolidated financial statements in 2017-18 and forward, the Province considered authoritative guidance issued by the Public Sector Accounting Board, as well as the accounting assessments of the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO) and Ontario Power Generation (OPG) management, including the accounting opinions of their external auditors.
- The complexity and unique structure of the GA Refinancing structure requires the use of professional judgment to ensure that key financial reporting objectives of transparency and accountability are best served.
- Under GA Refinancing, the Province will borrow funds to pay a portion of electricity costs charged by the electricity generators, thereby temporarily reducing the amount paid by eligible consumers (or ratepayers). The deferred amounts, including interest and other costs, will be recoverable from consumers/ratepayers in the future.
- Specifically, the Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO), a not-for-profit organization controlled by the Province, operates the IESO-administered markets, meaning that it makes payments to the electricity generators with cash received from the local distribution companies (and ultimately the consumers/ratepayers).
- Over the last 10+ years, payments have been made for major refurbishments to the electricity grid as well as the cost to move away from coal and to cleaner, but more expensive methods of electricity generation, including wind and solar. These payments were passed on to consumers/ratepayers as incurred or based on contractual payment terms, but not based on period of benefit. The GA refinancing acknowledges that the current generation has paid more than its share for these costs, and spreads these costs incurred out over more years.
- In simple terms, the IESO will continue to make payments to the electricity generators based on their contractual terms, but will collect less from the local distribution companies, as the consumers or ratepayers will pay a reduced amount. The amount not collected from the consumers now, or the shortfall, will be collected from consumers/ratepayers in the future.

- The FHP Act permits the IESO sell that shortfall, also referred to in the Act as a regulatory asset, which represents the right to collect payments from consumers/ratepayers in the future, to a financing entity. To recap, the IESO will pay the electricity generators with cash collected from the local distribution companies for electricity consumed, but at a reduced rate, and cash received from the financing entity for the sale of the regulatory asset.

- The financing entity will be part of Ontario Power Generation (OPG Trust), a government business enterprise, wholly owned by the Province. The operations of Ontario Power Generation have been and will continue to be included in the consolidated financial statements of the Province using the modified equity method, the method Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) require for government business enterprises.

- At its discretion, OPG Trust would purchase the shortfall amounts (or regulatory asset) through a combination of provincial borrowing (flowed through OPG as an equity investment), amounts advanced from OPG and direct borrowing from capital markets.

- In the future, when the consumers/ratepayers pay for the deferred amount or shortfall to the local distribution companies, those amounts will be used to repay the accumulated debt, whether that be direct borrowing from the capital markets, amounts advanced from OPG or provincial borrowing.

IESO Accounting

- There is no impact on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements from the GA Refinancing. The GA refinancing is expected to impact the 2017-18 consolidated financial statements.

- In 2017-18, the shortfall or regulatory asset that the IESO incurs as a result of collecting less from the local distribution companies than it pays to the electricity generators would be accounted for as a rate-regulated asset. The rate-regulated asset would then be sold to OPG Trust for cash used to pay the electricity generators.

- For 2016, IESO adopted the use of rate-regulated accounting to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of IESO expenses. This change is in line with accounting practices followed by (6 of 7) other independent system operators in North America; however, the impact to the financial statements of the Province was immaterial (impact on annual deficit of $24 million).~~For 2016, IESO adopted the use of rate-regulated accounting for costs incurred unrelated to the GA Refinancing; however, the impact to the financial statements of the Province was immaterial (impact on annual deficit of $24 million).~~

- PSAS is silent on the use of rate regulated accounting, however, like all major accounting frameworks, PSAS encourages both preparers and auditors to consider guidance in other accounting frameworks when accounting for transactions not specifically addressed by the specific standards.

- IESO management, their audit committee, their board of directors and their external auditors, agree with the adoption of rate-regulated accounting by IESO. The Office of the Provincial Controller also supports the adoption of rate-regulated accounting by IESO.

- In her opinion on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements, the Auditor General (AG) has included an “Other Matter” paragraph, drawing attention to the adoption of rate-regulated accounting by IESO. Her view is expressed as stating PSAS does not permit rate regulated accounting, but that she has not qualified her opinion on this matter because the impact is not material to the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements.

- The AG further notes, “However, the consolidated financial statements may become materially misstated in future periods, as a result of the legislated accounting prescribed under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 (Fair Hydro Plan) and its related regulations, as it is not in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards."

- Neither the IESO nor OPCD agree with the statements that (a) PSAS does not permit rate-regulated accounting (as previously noted, PSAS is silent with respect to rate-regulated accounting) or (b) Fair Hydro Plan and its related regulations legislate the accounting for GA Refinancing.

- The change to rate regulated accounting enables more transparency around the IESO's right to collect the deferred costs described in the Fair Hydro Plan, in the future. However, the IESO would maintain this accounting change regardless of government policy.

Formatted: No bullets or numbering

Formatted: Font: Arial, 16 pt

Formatted: Font: 20 pt

OPG Accounting

- The Auditor General has not raised any concerns to date with the intended accounting for the OPG Trust on the Province's books.
- OPG Trust will be controlled and consolidated by OPG.
- Purchases by OPG Trust of the rate regulated assets from the IESO will be reflected on OPG's books as intangible assets which will be included in the Province's financial statements as part of its investments in government business enterprises.

The Province's Accounting

- In assessing the appropriate accounting for the Fair Hydro Plan on the Province's books, OPCD worked closely with key ministries, the OEB, the IESO, OPG and their respective external advisors.
- The final accounting treatment for FHP related activities will be confirmed once all elements of the GA Refinancing framework are finalized, including provincial guarantees and financing arrangements.

- Once the details and commercial agreements of the FHP are finalized, the external auditors of the IESO and OPG are expected to provide independent accounting opinions on the accounting treatment on IESO and OPG's financial statements.

- The Office of the Provincial Controller will rely on those independent accounting opinions, the audited financial statements of the IESO and OPG as of December 31, 2017 and its own research and analysis in determining the impact of the GA Refinancing on the 2017-18 consolidated financial statements.

IF PRESSED: AG ACCUSATION OF LEGISLATED ACCOUNTING

- The Auditor General has made several incorrect references to legislated accounting which should be addressed to ensure clarity and transparency in terms of the government's accounting treatment for the Fair Hydro Plan.
- In particular, that Auditor General has referred to legislated accounting prescribed by the FHP Act that is designed to in some way manipulate the Province's financial reporting in its consolidated financial statements.
- The Province's financial statements are based on Public Sector Accounting Standards as issued by the Public Sector Accounting Board of CPA Canada. There is no legislated accounting that applies to the Province's consolidated financial statements.
- While the FHP Act does, under Section 24, require that the IESO set up a variance account to track the cash shortfall amount resulting from the deferred recovery amount, it is just another type of regulatory account, similar to those that OPG reports and for which the OEB is responsible for approving rates.
- As far as the Province's financial reporting practices go, whether the deferred amounts reported in the IESO's variance account are assessed as assets for financial reporting purposes will be determined by the interpretation and application of Public Sector Accounting Standards, not by the legislation or regulations.

Market accounts HBN - August 23 2017 v1 ieso edits.pdf

Confidential Drafted: August 23, 2017

FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACCOUNTING (GLOBAL ADJUSTMENT REFINANCING)

ISSUE: Why did the Auditor General qualify her opinion on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements for including the market accounts of IESO in the consolidated financial statements?

CONTEXT: The Auditor General included the following qualification in her opinion on the 2016-17 consolidated financial statements:

> As described in Note 16c to these consolidated financial statements, the IESO changed its accounting policy and applied it retroactively to recognize market account assets and liabilities. The market accounts track mainly buy and sell transactions between market participants (electricity power generators and power distributors). These market accounts, as recorded on the Province of Ontario's consolidated financial statements are not assets and liabilities of the Province of Ontario. The Government has no access or discretion to use the market account assets for their own benefit, nor does the Government have an obligation to settle the market account liabilities in the event of default by market participants. As a result, Other Assets and Other Liabilities are both overstated by $1.652 billion (2016- $1.443 billion). There is no effect on the Consolidated Statement of Operations.

KEY MESSAGES:

- IESO financial statements are prepared in accordance with Public Sector Accounting Standards (PSAS) and audited by a public accounting firm. IESO received an unqualified audit opinion on their December 31, 2016 financial statements that included the market accounts.
- IESO revisited its accounting for the market accounts in 2016 ~~to determine what~~and determined that including the market accounts on ~~accounting policy~~ its financial statements was more transparent to the users of the financial statements.

- ~~In completing its research, IESO analyzed the accounting used by the other independent system operators in North America, of which one is in Alberta and the balance (7) are in the United States. Seven of eight of these entities (excluding IESO) recognize the assets and liabilities of the market participants on a gross basis (i.e. they recognize their market accounts in their financial statements as IESO now does.) While none of these other entities prepare their financial statements in accordance with PSAS, the definitions of an asset and liability are very similar between PSAS and the accounting frameworks used by the North American ISOs (US GAAP and GASB).~~

- In its role as the market administrator, the IESO operates and settles approximately $17 billion through the electricity market, where money is constantly flowing to and from market participants, such as consumers and generators. This role requires the IESO to temporarily hold and transfer money between market participants (like Local Distribution Companies and Generators), including recovering costs associated with Global Adjustment.

- The change to include market account assets and liabilities on their financial statements provides increased transparency around the costs associated with the administration of Ontario's electricity market.

- ~~2016 is not the first year that amounts due to power generators have been included in the financial statements.~~

    - ~~IESO is the amalgamation of the former IESO and the Ontario Power Authority (OPA).~~

    - ~~OPA, when it was a standalone entity, prepared its financial statements in accordance with Public Sector Accounting Standards, and recognized on its financial statements, the amounts due to the power generators and the amounts due from the IESO. These financial statements were audited by a public accounting firm, and an unqualified opinion was issued. The inclusion of the amounts due to the power generators was not~~ raised as a concern by the current auditor general in 2013-14 or 2014-15 or by previous auditors general in the years since the OPA was established in fiscal 2004-2005.

Commented [IESO1]: The 6 of 7 ISOs statement applies to the use of regulatory accounting, not market accounts on other ISO financial statements.

- OPA and IESO were amalgamated during 2015-16 and 2015-16 was the only year that balances related to a portion of the market accounts were not included in the province's consolidated financial statements.

- IESO is the contractual counterparty to the legal agreements with market participants – both power generators and local distribution companies. IESO has the responsibility for procuring supply, capacity and conservation measures, all of which are managed through the contracting with the generators. While IESO does not take ownership or control of the power generated prior to delivery to the ultimate consumers, it is nonetheless a party to the contracts, with an obligation to settle the market by paying the power generators and collecting from the local distribution entities, supporting recognition of the assets and liabilities.

Commented [VC(2]: Need a similar sentence for the LDCs

Commented [IESO3]: This confuses the market vs. the contractual aspects of our business.

Hi Michel.

Additional points for your consideration.

IESO white papers draft #6.pdf

WHITE PAPERS – WORKING DRAFT #6

Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO" or the "Company") is considering making changes in its accounting policies to reflect the balances of market participants within the IESO-administered markets (see separate technical analysis) and the economic impacts of rate regulation, as the Company believes that the changes would result in a more appropriate presentation of events or transactions in its financial statements.

Issues being considered in this document are:

Issue #1: Can the IESO adopt the guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations (US GAAP in FASB)?

Issue #2: Can the IESO recognize deferral or variance accounts related to the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account as a regulatory asset on its statement of financial position?

Issue #3: Can the IESO derecognize the variance accounts related to the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account?

1. Adoption of the guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations

Background and Assumptions for issues #1 and #2

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act, 1998. IESO is classified as an Other Governmental Organization and prepares its financial statements in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards (PSAB).
2. The IESO is required to submit its proposed expenditures, revenue requirements and fees yearly to the OEB for review and approval.
3. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB") Act, 1998 but currently does not recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation on its financial reports.
4. The OEB issued a Decision and Order on March 28, 2013 that permits IESO to recover the MDMR costs (the Smart Metering Charge) (see Appendix B). (i.e. Costs incurred in the past will be fully recovered through future rates)
5. Furthermore, in accordance with the Electricity Act, 1998 and the OEB Act, 1998, the IESO has approved variance accounts to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation, distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract. (i.e. costs incurred in the past will be fully recovered through future rates)
6. The province is contemplating deferring the recovery of a portion of the annual Global Adjustment account (comprised primarily of the electricity costs paid to the generators) over a period of 25-30 years, so that costs incurred would be fully recovered through future rates.
7. The Electricity Act, 1998 and the OEB Act, 1998 ~~will~~ would be amended through legislation to require the deferral of the recovery of the Global Adjustment account and the future recovery in rates charged to customers.
8. The OEB ~~will~~ would grant generic deferral or variance accounts to capture the difference between the amounts paid to generators and others, and the amounts collected in rates. Furthermore, the interest and ancillary costs related to the contemplated transaction ~~will~~ would also be included in future rates charged to customers. In summary, the legislation will create a right to collect the incurred cost.
9. Regardless of whether the GAM initiative proceeds, the IESO will change its accounting policies to permit the recognition of the economic impacts of rate regulation as from the 2016 financial year. IESO will adopt the guidance of ASC 980 Regulated Operations to better reflect the economic substance of its operations and enhance the transparency and accountability of its financial reporting~~.~~

Commented [NP2]: Insert short intro?

PS1150.05 "When the primary sources of GAAP do not deal with the accounting and reporting in financial statements of transactions or events encountered by the public sector reporting entity, or additional guidance is needed to apply a primary source to specific circumstances, the selection of an appropriate accounting policy requires the exercise of professional judgment. In these circumstances, a public sector reporting entity should adopt accounting policies and disclosures that are consistent with:

(a) the primary sources of GAAP; and

(b) the application of the concepts described in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000."

PS1150.19 "Pronouncements issued by other bodies authorized to issue accounting standards may be useful sources to consult. For example, accounting pronouncements published with the authority of the Canadian Accounting Standards Board (AcSB), International Accounting Standards Board (IASB), US Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board (FASB), US Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), or International Public Sector Accounting Standards Board (IPSASB) are often important sources to consult on matters not covered by primary sources of GAAP or for assistance in applying a primary source of GAAP to specific circumstances."

PS1150.08 "A public sector reporting entity consults sources other than primary sources of GAAP to assist in selecting accounting policies and disclosures only when these sources comply with paragraph PS1150.05. The public sector reporting entity evaluates sources in selecting the appropriate accounting policies and disclosures based on all of the following criteria:

(a) The specificity of the source — A source that deals with the specific circumstances is likely to be more relevant than one from which the public sector reporting entity must analogize.

(b) The authority of the issuer or author — A source issued by an accounting standard setter in its own jurisdiction is likely to be more relevant than a source issued by others in the same jurisdiction.

(c) The continued relevance of the source — The passage of time may diminish the relevance of certain sources.

(d) The development process for the source — A source developed after extensive consultation and debate is likely to be more relevant than a source developed without such discipline."

PS1150.10 "PSAB considers a source to be consistent with the concepts in paragraph PS 1150.05(b) when the guidance in that source is compatible with the (i) qualitative characteristics of financial information, (ii) the elements of financial statements, and (iii) the recognition and measurement criteria in paragraph PS 1150.05(b)."

PS1000.58 "In the absence of appropriate public sector recognition and measurement criteria for intangibles, all intangibles, including those that have been purchased, developed, constructed or inherited in right of the Crown, are not recognized as assets in government financial statements. The intangible often called "human capital" that embodies the talent or intellectual capital of government employees is not recognized as an asset under existing accounting principles."

PS3210.03 "Assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained."

PS3210.04 "Assets have three essential characteristics:

(a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows.

(b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits.

Issue #1: Can the IESO adopt the guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations?

PSAS does not address accounting concepts in a rate regulated environment. Since there is no guidance in PSAS regarding the recognition and measurement of regulatory assets and liabilities, IESO may consider other sources based upon PSAS 1150.05 in the GAAP hierarchy to determine appropriate accounting policies in a rate regulated environment.

Within AcSB, Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises (ASPE) defines a rate regulated entity but provides no guidance on regulatory assets and liabilities, however requires disclosure of such balances if they are recognized. IASB has not completed their project on rate regulated activities and current standards only include a holding standard based upon what was done under previous GAAP. It will be important for the IESO to monitor the IASB's ongoing project on rate regulated activities as this may affect the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosures of the regulatory assets and liabilities. Both FASB and GASB have guidance on accounting in a regulatory environment. IPSASB does not provide any guidance on accounting by rate regulated entities.

It is important to note that rate regulated entities that prepare their general purpose financial statements in accordance with ASPE (e.g. the three Fortis subsidiaries in Ontario), as well as those rate regulated entities that are eligible to elect to apply the requirements of IFRS 14 and elected to do so when they adopted IFRS, generally all recognize regulatory deferral and variance accounts in accordance with US GAAP accounting principles set out ASC 980 Regulated Operations.

Statement 62 issued by GASB in December 2010 is effective for financial statements for periods beginning after December 15, 2011. The objective of the Statement is to incorporate into the GASB's authoritative literature certain accounting and financial reporting guidance that is included in the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Statements and Interpretations issued on or before November 30, 1989, which does not conflict with or contradict GASB pronouncements. Paragraphs 476–500 may be applied to activities reported in business-type activities that have regulated operations that meet all of the three criteria in paragraph 476 as follows:

(a) The regulated business-type activity's rates for regulated services provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific regulated business-type activity's costs of providing the regulated services.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the regulated business-type activity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs.

The criteria above and the guidance in paragraphs 476-500 are based on ASC 980 Regulated Operations.

It is also important to note that in its statement of financial position, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation ("OEFC") recognizes a net unamortized liability balance for power purchase contracts, as detailed in the summary of significant accounting policies:

"The liability for power purchase contracts was originally calculated by discounting estimated losses over the life of the contracts. Under the Electricity Restructuring Act, 2004, OEFC began receiving actual contract prices for power from electricity consumers, effective January 1, 2005, and no longer incurs losses on these power purchase contracts. At that time, the Ministry of Finance estimated that the bulk of the liability would be eliminated over 12 years as existing electricity contracts expire. As a result, the bulk of the liability is being amortized to revenue over that period."

Although this liability is not defined as a regulatory liability in the OEFC's financial statements, the argument can be made that it substantively meets the criteria under ASC 980.

In summary

Rate regulated entities in North America reporting under ASPE, IFRS (entities which have elected to use IFRS 14) and GASB generally all recognize regulatory deferral and variance accounts in accordance with US GAAP accounting principles based on ASC 980 Regulated Operations (see Appendix A for the accounting framework used by the Canadian rate regulated entities).

Evaluation of Other Sources of GAAP

As required by PS 1150.05(b), we need to analyze whether the concepts in the other source (i.e. ASC 980) are compatible with the (i) qualitative characteristics of financial information, (ii) the elements of financial statements, and (iii) the recognition and measurement criteria in PS 1000.

When looking to other sources of GAAP, PSAS requires the other sources of GAAP to be evaluated

1. as to whether they are consistent with accounting policies and disclosure within PSAS,
2. as to whether they are consistent with the application of concepts in PS 1000 and
3. as to all of the following criteria:
   - (a) Source deals with the specific circumstance
   - (b) Source is issued by an accounting standard setter
   - (c) Source continues to be relevant
   - (d) Source uses a consultative process and deliberation when developing policies

(i) Qualitative Characteristics of Financial Information

FASB	PSAS 1000	Evaluation
Concepts and objectives are for both business and non-business organizations as well as governmental units (Concept #4.3 to 4.5)	Public, legislators, councilors, investors, analysts, other governments (par. 14)	FASB considers governmental units
Financial reporting should: – Be useful in making resource allocation decisions – Be useful in assessing services and ability to provide services – Be useful in assessing management stewardship and performance – Provide information about economic resources, obligations, net resources and changes in them (Concept # 4.33-.54)	Financial statements should be relevant to the needs of the users and reliable. Relevance is achieved through timeliness, predictability and accountability value. Reliable information has the following characteristics: representational faithfulness, completeness, neutrality, conservatism and verifiability. (par. 28-29)	Similar

Liabilities (Concept #6.35-.43)
Probable future sacrifices of economic benefits arising from present obligations of the entity to transfer assets or provide services in the future as a result of past transactions or events.	Present obligations to others arising from past transactions or events, the settlement of which is expected to result in the future sacrifice of economic benefits with little or no discretion to avoid settlement. (par. 44)	Essential characteristics similar
Revenues (Concept #6.78-.79)
Inflows from delivering or producing goods, rendering services or other activities that constitute the entity's central operations.	Increases in economic resources resulting from operations, transactions and events of the accounting period. (par. 46)	Similar
Expenses (Concept # 6.80-.81)
Outflows from delivering or producing goods, rendering services or carrying out other activities that constitute the entity's central operations.	Decreases in economic resources resulting from operations, transactions and events of the accounting period. (par. 49)	Similar

(iii) Recognition Criteria

FASB	PSAS	Evaluation
To be recognized, an item must meet the definition of an element of the financial statements, must be measurable with sufficient reliability, be relevant and be reliable. Evaluation whether a deferral or variance accounts meet the definition of Assets as per Section PS3210

PS3210 defines assets as "economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained." (par. 03)

The analysis of the three essential characteristics as defined by PS3210.4 are analyzed in the next table.

This document is strictly confidential and intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Company and the Comptroller of the Province, and is not intended to be and should not be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to by anyone other than these specified parties or for any other purpose.

They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows. (par. 4(a))	The essence of assets are their future economic benefits. Assets embody future economic benefits that allow public sector entities to achieve their objectives. The future economic benefits embodied in assets involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows or to reduce cash outflows. (par. 11) The future economic benefits embodied in an asset may also be in the form of generating future cash inflows. Cash inflows benefit the public sector entity because cash can be used to purchase or to provide goods and services, redistribute wealth or settle liabilities. (par. 13)	The economic benefit embodied in the variance accounts (i.e regulatory asset) is the right to collect the incurred costs from ratepayers in order to settle the liability for the energy already consumed by the ratepayers. The electricity Act, 1998 ("EA") section 25.33(1) states: "The IESO shall, through its billing and settlement systems, make adjustments in accordance with the regulations that ensure that, over time, payments by classes of market participants in Ontario that are prescribed by regulation reflect, a) amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation and distributors, whether the amounts are determined under the market rules or under section 78.1, 78.2 or 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998; and b) amounts paid to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract, as determined under the procurement contract."
The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits. (par. 4(b))	Economic resources can arise from, but are not limited to, the following: government's own legislation (for example, taxes, fines and penalties); (par. 08(c)) A public sector entity controls the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits when it: a. can benefit from the economic resource through its capacity to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows or to reduce cash outflows; b. can deny or regulate access to those benefits by others; and c. is exposed to the risks associated with the economic resource. (par.16)	The economic resources is the right created by the legislation that the energy costs IESO incurs will result in future cash flows. In the regulatory environments, incurring costs creates an enforceable right to set rates at a level that permits IESO to recover those costs. The adjustment of future rates is the mechanism the OEB uses to implement the right. Currently, the EA section 25.33(5) states: "The IESO shall establish and maintain such variance accounts as may be necessary to record all amounts payable or receivable by it under this section." The legislation will be amended to permit IESO to collect specifically the deferral of the energy costs and the related interest and administrative costs.

This document is strictly confidential and intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Company and the Comptroller of the Province, and is not intended to be and should not be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to by anyone other than these specified parties or for any other purpose.

The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. (par.4(c))	It is the occurrence of a past transaction or event on or before the financial statement date that distinguishes a present economic resource controlled by a public sector entity from an economic resource that may be controlled by a public sector entity in the future. (par. 25) The past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource resulting from exchange agreements or contracts usually occurs at the point of exchange. This arises when substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership have been transferred to the public sector entity and normally coincides with the disbursement of funds, exchange of other assets or assumption of liabilities. (par. 26)	The past event giving rise to IESO's control occurs as the energy cost is incurred, as IESO has a right to collect it from the ratepayers.
Conclusion: The right to collect the deferral of the energy costs and the related interest and administrative costs meets the definition of assets.

When concepts are in conflict with PSAS then PSAS prevails (PS 1150.12). For example, PSAS does not recognize intangible assets (PS 3150.03, .14 and PS1000.58). So if regulatory assets are considered to be intangible assets, they would not be allowed to be recognized through another source of GAAP.

It is worth noting that the economic impacts of rate regulation are not recognized under US GAAP as intangible assets as the FASB has specific guidance to deal with this type of asset. It is also worth noting that the IASB has an ongoing project on rate regulated activities and are currently developing an accounting model based on the principles of IFRS 15 Revenue from contracts with customers to provide a principle-based framework for recognizing regulatory assets (see Agenda Ref. 9 for the IASB meeting on February 23, 2017). Furthermore, the Summary Comment Letter Analysis related to the ED/2009/8 on Rate Regulated Activities published by the IASB in July 2009 states on page 2 of 50

"The IFRIC observed that it had previously discussed whether a regulatory asset should be ~~recognised~~recognized in the context of service concession arrangements, either as deferred costs or as an intangible asset to reflect an expectation that the entity will recover these costs as part of the price charged in future periods. It had concluded that entities applying IFRSs should ~~recognise~~recognize only assets that qualified for recognition in accordance with the IASB's Framework for the Preparation and Presentation of Financial Statements and relevant accounting standards, such as IAS 11 Construction Contracts, IAS 18 Revenue, IAS 16 Property, Plant and Equipment and IAS 38 Intangible Assets."

Therefore, we can conclude that ASC 980 is NOT in conflict with PS 3150.03, .14 and PS1000.58 with respect to intangible assets.

Conclusion:
FASB is appropriate to use as "other source of GAAP". FASB standard ASC 980 has extensive guidance for rate regulated entities including the recognition of regulatory assets and use of rate regulated accounting by IESO would be consistent with current reporting practices of H1, OPG and OEFC.~~.~~

(a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form. If an entity's regulated rates are based on the costs of a group of entities and the entity is so large in relation to the group of entities that its costs are, in essence, the group's costs, the regulation would meet this criterion for that entity.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."

The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP.980-340 – Other Assets and Deferred Costs."*
- 980-340-25-1 "Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

  (a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.

  (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

  A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date."

That procedure does not provide a return on investment during the recovery period. If recovery of such major costs is provided without a return on investment during the recovery period, the entity shall disclose the remaining amounts of such assets and the remaining recovery period applicable to them."*
- 980-340-55-2: "In some cases, a regulator may approve rates that are intended to recover an incurred cost over an extended period without a return on the unrecovered cost during the recovery period."
- 980-340-55-3: "The regulator's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset (see paragraph 980-340-25-1). Accordingly, the regulated entity would capitalize the cost and amortize it over the period during which it will be allowed for rate-making purposes. That cost would not be recorded at discounted present value. An exception to this general rule is provided for costs of abandoned plants."

Issue #2: Can the IESO recognize deferral or variance accounts related to the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account as a regulatory asset on its statement of financial position?

As described in issue #1, US GAAP includes special accounting provisions that are applicable to entities with activities that are subject to rate regulation. The result is that rate regulated entities are required to recognize regulatory assets and liabilities provided the following three criteria are met:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.	IESO has unrecognized variance accounts related to the MDMR (smart meters), that have been approved by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act and the OEB Act (see Appendix B). It is important to note that Hydro One and OPG are both consolidated into the province's books, are both regulated by the OEB and their respective regulatory assets and liabilities are reported in the province's books.	Met
The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.	Currently, the rates approved by the OEB are designed to recover the IESO's costs of providing the regulated services and the pass-through related to the energy purchased from the generators. The contemplated transaction is based on the fact that the OEB will grant generic deferral or variance accounts to capture the difference between the amounts paid to generators and others, and the amounts collected in rates. Furthermore, the interest and ancillary costs related to the contemplated transaction will also be included in future rates charged to customers. In summary, the legislation will create a right to collect the incurred costs.	Met
In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."	Since the deferral or variance accounts will be sold to the OPG Trust at least on a monthly basis and cash will be received on the same day, this criteria will be met. This criteria will need to be monitored on a yearly basis to ensure that IESO and the OPG Trust will be able to recover the future deferred amount taking into account the levels of demand or competition during the recovery period.	Met
Conclusion: Since the three criteria are met, IESO should be able to adopt the guidance in ASC 980.

Conclusion: Based on the assumptions mentioned above, IESO should be able to recognize a regulatory asset for the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account. As mentioned in the ASC 980 guidance above, it is important that an accounting order be issued by the OEB which indicates the way the incurred costs will be

2. Derecognition of the regulatory assets

Background and Assumptions for issue #3

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions are as follows:

1. The annual Global Adjustment account that will be deferred in the deferral or variance accounts (the "Asset") will be significant.
2. The IESO does not currently have the financial capability to finance the Asset and is contemplating selling the Asset to a Trust to be set-up by OPG (the "OPG Trust").
3. The OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG.
4. Proposed terms of the sale agreement between the IESO and the OPG Trust:
   - The sale contract will be structured as an absolute sale, which will assign future economic benefits or cash flows related to the Asset exclusively to the OPG Trust.
   - The arrangement will be structured whereby there is no recourse or obligations remaining of IESO related to the Asset.
   - The arrangement is not considered to be a financing transaction as IESO will have no obligations to the OPG Trust after the Asset is sold to the OPG Trust.
   - IESO will not retain any rights or benefits from the Asset.
   - IESO would not have any rights to interest or penalties on the Asset once it has been transferred to the OPG Trust.
   - The contract will be clear that IESO cannot pledge the Asset as collateral to obtain future cash flows or financing.
   - IESO will continue to collect related cash flows on the OPG Trust's behalf and remit those cash flows to the OPG Trust without material delay. In addition, IESO will not be entitled to reinvest such cash flows, except for investments in cash or cash equivalents during the short settlement period from the collection date to the date of required remittance to the OPG Trust, and interest earned on such cash and cash equivalents is passed to the OPG Trust. The contract will define IESO's role strictly as that of agent, under a pass-through arrangement.
   - Servicing, origination, and arrangement fees, will be collected by IESO in rates charged to ratepayers as part of its market dealings.
   - The Asset will be sold to the OPG Trust at least, on a monthly basis and cash will be received on the same day.

Appropriate Accounting Principles for issue #3

Public Sector Accounting Standard ("PSAS") 3210, Assets, defines an asset as "…economic resources controlled by a government as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained." [par. 3]

.04 "Assets have three essential characteristics:

(a) they embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows;

(b) the public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits; and

(c) the transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred."

.22 "Control of an economic resource and of access to the future economic benefits are essential characteristics of an asset, whereas possession or ownership is not."

This document is strictly confidential and intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Company and the Comptroller of the Province, and is not intended to be and should not be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to by anyone other than these specified parties or for any other purpose.

.24 "A public sector entity may act as trustee when it administers trusts on behalf of the beneficiaries specified in the agreement or statute. As trustee, the public sector entity merely administers the assets, following the terms and conditions set out in the agreement. It does not control the asset because it does not have access to the future economic benefits. Those benefits flow to the beneficiaries."

As noted in PS1000 Financial statement concepts:

".37 An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

(a) no future economic benefit;

(b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or

(c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred."

Issue #3: Can the IESO derecognize the variance accounts related to the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account (upon sale to OPGTrust)?

PS3210 does not specifically address the derecognition of a regulatory asset. The concept of a regulatory asset does not exist under PSAS.

Commented [NP6]: AG will look to accounting for securitized assets. Consider other alternative accounting treatments?

It is also well understood in this industry that regulatory assets do not meet the definition of intangible asset or financial asset. Specifically, regulatory assets do not meet the definition of financial asset because they are imposed on customers through the tariff (i.e., imposed by the OEB) and do not represent a right to receive payments from another party as a result of a contract.

More generally, PSAS.3210.37 suggests that an asset would no longer be recognized when it fails to meet the definition of an asset.

Based on PS1000.37(b), an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it.

Based on the assumptions mentioned above, ALL risks and rewards will be transferred to the OPG Trust including the following:

- the contract will define IESO's role strictly as that of agent, under a pass-through arrangement;
- all cash flows related to the Asset will be transferred without material delay to the OPG Trust;
- rights to interest or penalties on the Asset will be for the benefits of the OPG Trust;
- IESO cannot pledge the Asset; and
- no recourse or obligations remaining of IESO related to the Asset.

Conclusion: Based on the proposed terms of the sale agreement between the IESO and OPG Trust mentioned above, the deferral or variance accounts would be derecognized at the point where the IESO will derive no future economic benefit from it. This would occur where the IESO ultimately transfers the rights, risk and rewards related to those deferral or variance accounts to the OPG Trust.

Commented [NP7]: Should conclude at which point this is envisioned to be.

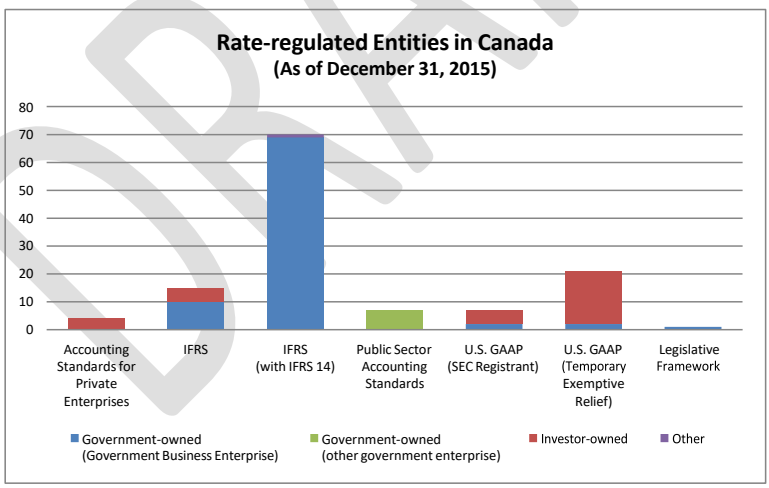
Canadian Rate-regulated Entities

18. The accounting framework landscape for Canadian rate-regulated entities is currently diverse. For annual periods beginning on or after January 1, 2015, rate-regulated entities that are Canadian publicly accountable enterprises are required to apply IFRS. Rate-regulated entities that adopted IFRS for the first time after IFRS 14 Regulatory Deferral Accounts was issued continue to recognize these balances. Government Business Enterprises (which operate to generate a profit or on a break-even basis) that are also rate-regulated entities are also directed to apply standards applicable to for-profit entities, and thus apply IFRS. Canadian securities legislation permits dual-listed entities (i.e., Canadian entities also registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission) to apply U.S. GAAP in the normal course. Temporary exemptive relief is also available from the Canadian Securities Administrators that permits rate-regulated entities that are not dual-listed to apply U.S. GAAP in place of IFRS. If a rate-regulated entity is not a publicly accountable enterprise or a Government Business Enterprise, additional accounting framework options may also include Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises or Public Sector Accounting Standards. A non-GAAP reporting framework is used when legislated by the provincial owner of a government-owned rate-regulated entity.

19. As of December 31, 2015, there were approximately 125 rate-regulated entities in Canada. These entities mainly range in size from small entities owned by municipal governments to large investor-owned entities or entities owned by provincial governments.



Source: Information compiled based on audited financial statements for fiscal year 2015, or information from rate filings that confirmed the accounting framework used by these entities. Due to data collection constraints, the population could be slightly larger.

This document is strictly confidential and intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Company and the Comptroller of the Province, and is not intended to be and should not be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to by anyone other than these specified parties or for any other purpose.

20. The chart above highlights two key points:

    (a) The majority of investor-owned entities have chosen U.S. GAAP over IFRS. A few entities that are not reporting issuers apply Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises. Both U.S. GAAP and Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises permit the recognition of balances arising from rate regulation. Several entities that apply U.S. GAAP have told us this choice was influenced by the need to provide their users with financial statements that accurately reflect the economics of their business. Further, some entities presently using the temporary exemptive relief described in paragraph18 have said they are considering incurring the cost and effort necessary to become a registrant of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission in order to have the permanent ability to apply U.S. GAAP. While such a decision could be primarily for business reasons such as the entity expanding its operations into the U.S., it could also be attributed to the continuing uncertainty about the ultimate outcome of the IASB's Rate-regulated Activities project and the approaching expiry date of the securities regulators' exemptive relief.

    (b) Public sector entities that are Government Business Enterprises tend to apply IFRS. The majority of these entities is made up of several large provincially-owned utilities, and many small municipally-owned local distribution utilities that do not issue debt or list in the U.S. stock market, and are not subject to Canadian securities legislation. As a result, they cannot apply U.S. GAAP. As shown in the chart, many of these entities adopted IFRS for the first time after the IASB issued IFRS 14, which allowed them to continue their previous accounting practices for rate-regulated activities.

21. Within the pool of government-owned rate-regulated entities, there are entities that do not meet the characteristics of Government Business Enterprises and are required to apply Public Sector Accounting Standards.

22. The data on the different accounting frameworks in Canada is unique. It demonstrates that when given a choice, rate-regulated entities select an accounting framework that captures the effects of rate regulation on their financial position and financial performance in order to communicate more decision-useful information to users.

WHITE PAPERS – WORKING DRAFT #~~9~~7

Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO" or the "Company") is considering making changes in its accounting policies to reflect the balances of market participants within the IESO-administered markets (see separate technical analysis) and the economic impacts of rate regulation, as the Company believes that the changes would result in a more appropriate presentation of events or transactions in its financial statements.

Issues being considered in this document are:

Issue #1: Can the IESO adopt the guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations (US GAAP in FASB)?

Issue #2: Can the IESO recognize deferral or variance accounts related to the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account as a regulatory asset on its statement of financial position?

Issue #3: Can the IESO derecognize the variance accounts related to the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account upon sale to OPG Trust?

1. Adoption of the guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations

Background and Assumptions for issues #1 and #2

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act, 1998. IESO is classified as an Other Governmental Organization and prepares its financial statements in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards (PSAB).
2. The IESO is required to submit its proposed expenditures, revenue requirements and fees yearly to the OEB for review and approval.
3. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB") Act, 1998 but currently does not recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation in its general purpose financial statements. The IESO is required to obtain approval from the OEB under s. 25(1) of the Electricity Act, 1998 for the approval of its own expenditures, revenue requirement and fees. The last rate approval was obtained on December 29, 2016[1].
4. The OEB issued a Decision and Order on March 28, 2013 that permits IESO to recover the MDMR costs (the Smart Metering Charge) (see Appendix B). (i.e. Costs incurred in the past will be fully recovered through future rates)
5. Furthermore, in accordance with the Electricity Act, 1998 and the OEB Act, 1998, the IESO has approved variance accounts to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation, distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract. (i.e. costs incurred in the past will be fully recovered through future rates)
6. The province is contemplating deferring the recovery of a portion of the annual Global Adjustment account (comprised primarily of the electricity costs paid to the generators) over a period of 25-30 years, so that costs incurred would be fully recovered through future rates.
7. The Electricity Act, 1998 and the OEB Act, 1998 would be amended through legislation to require the deferral of the recovery of the Global Adjustment account and the future recovery in rates charged to customers.
8. The OEB would grant generic deferral or variance accounts to capture the difference between the amounts paid to generators and others, and the amounts collected in rates. Furthermore, the interest and ancillary costs related to the contemplated transaction would also be included in future rates charged to customers. In summary, the legislation would create a right to collect the incurred cost.

Commented [CV1]: To clarify what parts of the IESO's operations are regulated.

Commented [CV2]: To determine if this assumption remains Commented [np3]: I thought that Serge suggested that the OEB's role might be more akin to oversight w.r.t. compliance with the legislation, applying prudence tests, etc.? That is a different risk profile than if they are to regulate over actual periods of recovery, rates, etc.

Commented [m4]: Based on today's discussion, I believe it is correct.

DRAFT

9. The IESO would change its accounting policies to permit the recognition of the economic impacts of rate regulation as from the 2016 financial year. IESO would adopt the guidance of ASC 980 Regulated Operations to better reflect the economic substance of its operations and enhance the transparency and accountability of its financial reporting.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for issue #1

PSAS requires

PS2120.02, "a change in an accounting policy may be made… if it is considered that the change would result in a more appropriate presentation of events or transactions in the financial statements of the government."

PS1150.05 "When the primary sources of GAAP do not deal with the accounting and reporting in financial statements of transactions or events encountered by the public sector reporting entity, or additional guidance is needed to apply a primary source to specific circumstances, the selection of an appropriate accounting policy requires the exercise of professional judgment. In these circumstances, a public sector reporting entity should adopt accounting policies and disclosures that are consistent with:

(a) the primary sources of GAAP; and

(b) the application of the concepts described in FINANCIAL STATEMENT CONCEPTS, Section PS 1000."

PS1150.19 "Pronouncements issued by other bodies authorized to issue accounting standards may be useful sources to consult. For example, accounting pronouncements published with the authority of the Canadian Accounting Standards Board (AcSB), International Accounting Standards Board (IASB), US Federal Accounting Standards Advisory Board (FASB), US Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), or International Public Sector Accounting Standards Board (IPSASB) are often important sources to consult on matters not covered by primary sources of GAAP or for assistance in applying a primary source of GAAP to specific circumstances."

PS1150.08 "A public sector reporting entity consults sources other than primary sources of GAAP to assist in selecting accounting policies and disclosures only when these sources comply with paragraph PS1150.05. The public sector reporting entity evaluates sources in selecting the appropriate accounting policies and disclosures based on all of the following criteria:

(a) The specificity of the source — A source that deals with the specific circumstances is likely to be more relevant than one from which the public sector reporting entity must analogize.

(b) The authority of the issuer or author — A source issued by an accounting standard setter in its own jurisdiction is likely to be more relevant than a source issued by others in the same jurisdiction.

(c) The continued relevance of the source — The passage of time may diminish the relevance of certain sources.

(d) The development process for the source — A source developed after extensive consultation and debate is likely to be more relevant than a source developed without such discipline."

PS1150.10 "PSAB considers a source to be consistent with the concepts in paragraph PS 1150.05(b) when the guidance in that source is compatible with the (i) qualitative characteristics of financial information, (ii) the elements of financial statements, and (iii) the recognition and measurement criteria in paragraph PS 1150.05(b)."

PS1000.58 "In the absence of appropriate public sector recognition and measurement criteria for intangibles, all intangibles, including those that have been purchased, developed, constructed or inherited in right of the Crown, are not recognized as assets in government financial statements. The intangible often called "human capital" that embodies the talent or intellectual capital of government employees is not recognized as an asset under existing accounting principles."

PS3210.03 "Assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained."

This document is strictly confidential and intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Company and the Comptroller of the Province, and is not intended to be and should not be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to by anyone other than these specified parties or for any other purpose.

PS3210.04 "Assets have three essential characteristics:

(a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows.

(b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits.

(c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred."

Issue #1: Can the IESO adopt the guidance in ASC 980 Regulated Operations?

In accordance with PS2120.02, the IESO can reflect the economic impacts of rate regulation only if it is considered that the change of accounting policy would result in a more appropriate presentation of events or transactions in the financial statements of the government. As mentioned in the Agenda ref. 9A of the IASB meeting of February 2017[2], rRate regulated entities have long argued that, without recognizing regulatory assets and regulatory liabilities, the entity's performance is distorted by the rate regulator's intervention in the imposition of performance obligations on the entity and the timing of cash flows from the ratepayers.. The recognition of regulatory assets and liabilities would better reflect the economic substance of IESO's operations and enhance the transparency and accountability of its financial reporting. For example, in 20XX the IESO incurred a cost relating to the smart meter program amounting to $ million. The cost was expensed and is included in the accumulated deficit, as the IESO did not have the ability to recognize a regulatory asset despite receiving a rate order to recover it over a period from May 1, 2013 to October 31, 2018. As a result of adopting ASC 980, a regulatory asset for the Smart metering Charge would be recognized at December 31, 2016 for an amount of approximately $ which is the balance that would have been reported if the IESO had applied rate regulated accounting effective XXX.

~~Currently, the IESO has received a rate order to recover the Smart Metering Charge over a period from May 1, 2013 to October 31, 2018. The initial costs related to the smart meter program amounting to $ million has been expensed and is included in the accumulated deficit, as the IESO did not recognize a regulatory asset.~~

PSAS does not address accounting concepts in a rate regulated environment. Since there is no guidance in PSAS regarding the recognition and measurement of regulatory assets and liabilities, IESO may consider other sources based upon PSAS 1150.05 in the GAAP hierarchy to determine appropriate accounting policies in a rate regulated environment.

Within AcSB, Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises (ASPE) defines a rate regulated entity but provides no guidance on regulatory assets and ~~liabilities,~~liabilities however requires disclosure of such balances if they are recognized. IASB has not completed their project on rate regulated activities and current standards only include a holding standard based upon what was done under previous GAAP. It will be important for the IESO to monitor the IASB's ongoing project on rate regulated activities as this may affect the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosures of the regulatory assets and liabilities. Both FASB and GASB have guidance on accounting in a regulatory environment. IPSASB does not provide any guidance on accounting by rate regulated entities.

It is important to note that rate regulated entities in Canada that prepare their general purpose financial statements in accordance ~~with~~with US GAAP, ASPE (e.g. the three Fortis subsidiaries in Ontario, Hydro One and Ontario Power Generation), as well as those rate regulated entities that are eligible to elect to apply the requirements of IFRS 14 and elected to do so when they adopted IFRS, generally all recognize regulatory deferral and variance accounts in accordance with US GAAP accounting principles set out ASC

Commented [CV6]: Should this memo also address the regulatory assets/liabilities that will be recognized re: moving the market books on-book?

This was an example to explain the impact.

Commented [np7]: Similar transactions should be treated the same (where in substance they are the same)

Statement 62 issued by GASB in December 2010 is effective for financial statements for periods beginning after December 15, 2011. The objective of the Statement is to incorporate into the GASB's authoritative literature certain accounting and financial reporting guidance that is included in the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Statements and Interpretations issued on or before November 30, 1989, which does not conflict with or contradict GASB pronouncements. Paragraphs 476–500 may be applied to activities reported in business-type activities that have regulated operations that meet all of the three criteria in paragraph 476 as follows:

(a) The regulated business-type activity's rates for regulated services provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific regulated business-type activity's costs of providing the regulated services.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the regulated business-type activity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs.

The criteria above and the guidance in paragraphs 476-500 are based on ASC 980 Regulated Operations.

It is also important to note that in its statement of financial position, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation ("OEFC") recognizes a net unamortized liability balance for power purchase contracts, as detailed in the summary of significant accounting policies:

"The liability for power purchase contracts was originally calculated by discounting estimated losses over the life of the contracts. Under the Electricity Restructuring Act, 2004, OEFC began receiving actual contract prices for power from electricity consumers, effective January 1, 2005, and no longer incurs losses on these power purchase contracts. At that time, the Ministry of Finance estimated that the bulk of the liability would be eliminated over 12 years as existing electricity contracts expire. As a result, the bulk of the liability is being amortized to revenue over that period."

Although this liability is not defined as a regulatory liability in the OEFC's financial statements, the argument can be made that it substantively meets the ~~criteria~~ definition under ASC 980 of a regulatory liability, as the OEFC has~~ds~~ no further obligation and should have reversed the liability into income. After consultation with the AG at that time, it was decided to amortize the gain over the remaining term of the contracts.

In summary

Rate regulated entities in North America reporting under ASPE, IFRS (entities which have elected to use IFRS 14) and GASB generally all recognize regulatory deferral and variance accounts in accordance with US GAAP accounting principles based on ASC 980 Regulated Operations (see Appendix A for the accounting framework used by the Canadian rate regulated entities).

Evaluation of Other Sources of GAAP

When looking to other sources of GAAP, PSAS requires the other sources of GAAP to be evaluated

1. as to whether they are consistent with accounting policies and disclosure within PSAS,
2. as to whether they are consistent with the application of concepts in PS 1000 and
3. as to all of the following criteria:
   - (a) Source deals with the specific circumstance
   - (b) Source is issued by an accounting standard setter
   - (c) Source continues to be relevant

Commented [CV8]: Should we also add a comment that many rate regulated entities prepare there f/s in accordance with US GAAP and therefore, also follow ASC 980.

Michel Done

Commented [CV9]: I'm not sure this is totally accurate – my understanding is the liability that remains related to the NUGs corresponds to the NUG contracts that continue to exist. Also, I think that the liability was calculated as the difference between the contractual rate in the NUG contracts and the fair value of the value of electricity being generated and I suspect this was part of the stranded debt that was booked directly to the accumulated deficit of the Province when Ontario Hydro was split up. How is this a regulatory liability?

Kim – can you check this wording with Ken Kandeepan if you haven't already done that.

(d) Source uses a consultative process and deliberation when developing policies

As required by PS 1150.05(b), we need to analyze whether the concepts in the other source (i.e. ASC 980) are compatible with the (i) qualitative characteristics of financial information, (ii) the elements of financial statements, and (iii) the recognition and measurement criteria in PS 1000.

(i) Qualitative Characteristics of Financial Information

(par. 11) The future economic benefits embodied in an asset may also be in the form of generating future cash inflows. Cash inflows benefit the public sector entity because cash can be used to purchase or to provide goods and services, redistribute wealth or settle liabilities. (par. 13)	consumed by the ratepayers. The electricity Act, 1998 ("EA") section 25.33(1) states: "The IESO shall, through its billing and settlement systems, make adjustments in accordance with the regulations that ensure that, over time, payments by classes of market participants in Ontario that are prescribed by regulation reflect, a) amounts paid to generators, the Financial Corporation and distributors, whether the amounts are determined under the market rules or under section 78.1, 78.2 or 78.5 of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998; and b) amounts paid to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract, as determined under the procurement contract."
The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits. (par. 4(b))	Economic resources can arise from, but are not limited to, the following: government's own legislation (for example, taxes, fines and penalties); (par. 08(c)) A public sector entity controls the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits when it: a. can benefit from the economic resource through its capacity to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows or to reduce cash outflows; b. can deny or regulate access to those benefits by others; and c. is exposed to the risks associated with the economic resource. (par.16)	The economic resources is the right created by the legislation that the energy costs IESO incurs will result in future cash flows. In the regulatory environments, incurring costs creates an enforceable right to set rates at a level that permits IESO to recover those costs. The adjustment of future rates is the mechanism the OEB uses to implement the right. Currently, the EA section 25.33(5) states: "The IESO shall establish and maintain such variance accounts as may be necessary to record all amounts payable or receivable by it under this section." The legislation would be amended to permit IESO to collect specifically the deferral of the energy costs and the related interest and administrative costs.
The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. Commented [CV10]: Can we also analyze control from the context of being able to sell the asset – while related party at the initial point, there is private financing that is based on the strength of the legislation which permits the government to monetize the asset (hence control the economic benefits from the asset)

Is there anything in the IFRS14 papers that would be helpful here?

Michel: There is nothing under PSAB, IFRS, US GAAP or conceptual framework that link control and monetize.

	controlled by a public sector entity in the future. (par. 25) The past transaction or event that gives rise to control of an economic resource resulting from exchange agreements or contracts usually occurs at the point of exchange. This arises when substantially all the benefits and risks of ownership have been transferred to the public sector entity and normally coincides with the disbursement of funds, exchange of other assets or assumption of liabilities. (par. 26)
Conclusion: The right to collect the deferral of the energy costs and the related interest and administrative costs meets the definition of assets.

When concepts are in conflict with PSAS then PSAS prevails (PS 1150.12). For example, PSAS does not recognize intangible assets (PS 3150.03, .14 and PS1000.58). So if regulatory assets are considered to be intangible assets, they would not be allowed to be recognized through another source of GAAP.

It is worth noting that the economic impacts of rate regulation are not recognized under US GAAP as intangible assets as the FASB has specific guidance to deal with this type of asset. It is also worth noting that the IASB has an ongoing project on rate regulated activities and are currently developing an accounting model based on the principles of IFRS 15 Revenue from contracts with customers to provide a principle-based framework for recognizing regulatory assets (see Agenda Ref. 9 for the IASB meeting on February 23, 2017). Furthermore, the Summary Comment Letter Analysis related to the ED/2009/8 on Rate Regulated Activities published by the IASB in July 2009 states on page 2 of 50:-

"The International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee ("IFRIC") observed that it had previously discussed whether a regulatory asset should be recognized in the context of service concession arrangements, either as deferred costs or as an intangible asset to reflect an expectation that the entity will recover these costs as part of the price charged in future periods. It had concluded that entities applying IFRSs should recognize only assets that qualified for recognition in accordance with the IASB's Framework for the Preparation and Presentation of Financial Statements and relevant accounting standards, such as IAS 11 Construction Contracts, IAS 18 Revenue, IAS 16 Property, Plant and Equipment and IAS 38 Intangible Assets."," Entities that are not eligible to elect to apply the requirements of IFRS 14 do not recognize regulatory assets because in 2009 the IFRIC determined they did not meet the criteria for recognition of an intangible asset under IAS 38".

Therefore, we can conclude that ASC 980 is NOT in conflict with PS 3150.03, .14 and PS1000.58 with respect to intangible assets.

Conclusion:
FASB is appropriate to use as "other source of GAAP". FASB standard ASC 980 has extensive guidance for rate regulated entities including the recognition of regulatory assets and use of rate regulated accounting by IESO would be consistent with current reporting practices of H1, OPG and OEFC.

ASC 980 Regulated Operations

(a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form. If an entity's regulated rates are based on the costs of a group of entities and the entity is so large in relation to the group of entities that its costs are, in essence, the group's costs, the regulation would meet this criterion for that entity.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."

- 980-10-05-8 "Unless an accounting order indicates the way a cost will be handled for rate-making purposes, it causes no economic effects that would justify deviation from the GAAP applicable to business entities in general. The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP.980-340 – Other Assets and Deferred Costs."
- 980-340-25-1 "Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

  (a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.

  (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

  A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date."
- 980-340-40-1: "If at any time an entity's incurred cost no longer meets the criteria for the capitalization of an incurred cost (see paragraph 980-340-25-1), that cost shall be charged to earnings."
- 980-350-50-1: "In some cases, a regulator may permit an entity to include a cost that would be charged to expense by an unregulated entity as an allowable cost over a period of time by amortizing that cost for rate-making purposes, but the regulator does not include the unrecovered amount in the rate base. That procedure does not provide a return on investment during the recovery period. If recovery of such major costs is provided without a return on investment during the recovery period, the entity shall disclose the remaining amounts of such assets and the remaining recovery period applicable to them."
- 980-340-55-2: "In some cases, a regulator may approve rates that are intended to recover an incurred cost over an extended period without a return on the unrecovered cost during the recovery period."
- 980-340-55-3: "The regulator's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset (see paragraph 980-340-25-1). That cost would not be recorded at discounted present value. An exception to this general rule is provided for costs of abandoned plants."

Issue #2: Can the IESO recognize deferral or variance accounts related to the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account as a regulatory asset on its statement of financial position?

As described in issue #1, US GAAP includes special accounting provisions that are applicable to entities with activities that are subject to rate regulation. The result is that rate regulated entities are required to recognize regulatory assets and liabilities provided the following three criteria are met:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.	IESO has unrecognized variance accounts related to the MDMR (smart meters), that have been approved by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act and the OEB Act (see Appendix B). It is important to note that Hydro One and OPG are both consolidated into the province's books, are both regulated by the OEB and their respective regulatory assets and liabilities are reported in the province's books.	Met
The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.	Currently, the rates approved by the OEB are designed to recover the IESO's costs of providing the regulated services and the pass-through related to the energy purchased from the generators. The contemplated transaction is based on the fact that the OEB would grant generic deferral or variance accounts to capture the difference between the amounts paid to generators and others, and the amounts collected in rates. Furthermore, the interest and ancillary costs related to the contemplated transaction would also be included in future rates charged to customers. In summary, the legislation would create a right to collect the incurred costs.	Met
In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."	Since the deferral or variance accounts would be sold to the OPG Trust at least on a monthly basis and cash would be received on the same day, this criteria would be met. This criteria would need to be monitored on a yearly basis to ensure that IESO and the OPG Trust would be able to recover the future deferred amount taking into account the levels of demand or competition during the recovery period.	Met
Conclusion: Since the three criteria are met, IESO should be able to adopt the guidance in ASC 980.

Conclusion: Based on the assumptions mentioned above, IESO should be able to recognize a regulatory asset for the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account. As mentioned in the ASC 980 guidance above, it is important that an accounting order be issued by the OEB which indicates the way the incurred costs would Commented [np14]: These types of costs are normally allowed for under regulatory frameworks? Perhaps we should state that since the Trust will be planning to report them as recoverable.

Commented [CV16]: Is this an issue for IESO if the structure remains in place? I'm not sure it's clear what risk IESO has.

Yes for the future deferred amount. IESO may not be able to sell them to OPG if the level of demand has decreased.

2. Derecognition of the regulatory assets

Background and Assumptions for issue #3

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions are as follows:

1. The annual Global Adjustment account that would be deferred in the deferral or variance accounts (the "Asset") would be significant.
2. The IESO does not currently have the financial capability to finance the Asset and is contemplating selling the Asset to a Trust to be set-up by OPG (the "OPG Trust").
3. The OPG Trust would be consolidated by OPG.
4. Proposed terms of the sale agreement between the IESO and the OPG Trust:
   - The sale contract would be structured as an absolute sale, which would assign future economic benefits or cash flows related to the Asset exclusively to the OPG Trust.
   - The arrangement would be structured whereby there is no recourse or obligations remaining of IESO related to the Asset.
   - The arrangement is not considered to be a financing transaction as IESO would have no obligations to the OPG Trust after the Asset is sold to the OPG Trust.
   - IESO would not retain any rights or benefits from the Asset.
   - IESO would not have any rights to interest or penalties on the Asset once it has been transferred to the OPG Trust.
   - The contract would be clear that IESO cannot pledge the Asset as collateral to obtain future cash flows or financing.
   - IESO would continue to collect related cash flows on the OPG Trust's behalf and remit those cash flows to the OPG Trust without material delay. In addition, IESO would not be entitled to reinvest such cash flows, except for investments in cash or cash equivalents during the short settlement period from the collection date to the date of required remittance to the OPG Trust, and interest earned on such cash and cash equivalents is passed to the OPG Trust. The contract would define IESO's role strictly as that of agent, under a pass-through arrangement.
   - Servicing, origination, and arrangement fees, would be collected by IESO in rates charged to ratepayers as part of its market dealings.
   - The Asset would be sold to the OPG Trust at least, on a monthly basis and cash would be received on the same day.

Appropriate Accounting Principles for issue #3

Public Sector Accounting Standard ("PSAS") 3210, Assets, defines an asset as "…economic resources controlled by a government as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained." [par. 3]

.04 "Assets have three essential characteristics:

(a) they embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows;

(b) the public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits; and

(c) the transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred."

.22 "Control of an economic resource and of access to the future economic benefits are essential characteristics of an asset, whereas possession or ownership is not."

This document is strictly confidential and intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Company and the Comptroller of the Province, and is not intended to be and should not be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to by anyone other than these specified parties or for any other purpose.

.24 "A public sector entity may act as trustee when it administers trusts on behalf of the beneficiaries specified in the agreement or statute. As trustee, the public sector entity merely administers the assets, following the terms and conditions set out in the agreement. It does not control the asset because it does not have access to the future economic benefits. Those benefits flow to the beneficiaries."

As noted in PS1000 Financial statement concepts:

.37 "An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

(a) no future economic benefit;

(b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or

(c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred."

As noted in PS3450, derecognition of a financial liability:

.042 "A government should remove a financial liability (or part of a financial liability) from its statement of financial position when, and only when, it is extinguished (i.e., when the obligation specified in the contract is discharged or cancelled, or expires)."

.043 "A financial liability (or part of a financial liability) is extinguished when the debtor either:

(a) discharges the liability (or part of it) by paying the creditor, normally with cash, other financial assets, goods or services; or

(b) is legally released from primary responsibility for the liability (or part of it) either by process of law or by the creditor. (When the debtor has given a guarantee, this condition may still be met.)"

.046 "Payment to a third party, including a trust (sometimes called "in-substance defeasance"), does not, by itself, relieve the debtor of its primary obligation to the creditor in the absence of legal release."

.047 "If a debtor pays a third party to assume an obligation and notifies its creditor that the third party has assumed its debt obligation, the debtor does not derecognize the debt obligation, unless the condition in paragraph PS 3450.043(b) is met. If the debtor pays a third party to assume an obligation and obtains a legal release from its creditor, the debtor has extinguished the debt. However, if the debtor agrees to make payments on the debt to the third party or direct to the original creditor, the debtor recognizes a new debt obligation to the third party."

Issue #3: Can the IESO derecognize the variance accounts related to the deferral of the annual Global Adjustment account upon sale to OPG Trust?

PS3210 does not specifically address the derecognition of a regulatory asset as the concept of a regulatory asset does not exist under PSAS.

As mentioned above, regulatory assets do not meet the definition of intangible asset or financial asset. Specifically, regulatory assets do not meet the definition of financial asset because they are imposed on customers through the tariff (i.e., imposed by the OEB) and do not represent a right to receive payments from another party as a result of a contract.

More generally, PSAS.3210.37 suggests that an asset would no longer be recognized when it fails to meet the definition of an asset.

Based on PS1000.37(b), an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it.

Based on the assumptions mentioned above, the legal title of the Asset would be transferred to the OPG Trust, as well as, ALL risks and rewards, including the following:

- the contract would define IESO's role strictly as that of agent, under a pass-through arrangement;

This document is strictly confidential and intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Company and the Comptroller of the Province, and is not intended to be and should not be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to by anyone other than these specified parties or for any other purpose.

- all cash flows related to the Asset would be transferred without material delay to the OPG Trust;
- rights to interest or penalties on the Asset would be for the benefits of the OPG Trust;
- IESO cannot pledge the Asset; and
- no recourse or obligations remaining of IESO related to the Asset.

IESO should also evaluate whether the sale of the Asset should in fact be considered as a borrowing arrangement. In the absence of detailed guidance on this subject, we can analogize to the guidance in PS3450 Financial Instruments for the derecognition of a financial liability. Par. 43 states that "A financial liability (or part of a financial liability) is extinguished when the debtor is legally released from primary responsibility for the liability (or part of it) either by process of law or by the creditor. (When the debtor has given a guarantee, this condition may still be met.)" Based on the assumptions mentioned above, since the legal title of the Asset would be transferred to the OPG Trust, as well as, ALL risks and rewards, it can be concluded that the sale of the Asset is not a borrowing arrangement.

Conclusion: Based on the proposed terms of the sale agreement between the IESO and OPG Trust mentioned above, the deferral or variance accounts would be derecognized at the point where the IESO would derive no future economic benefit from it. This would occur where the IESO ultimately transfers the rights, risk and rewards related to those deferral or variance accounts to the OPG Trust. This would occur on the receiptption of cash from the OPG Trust.

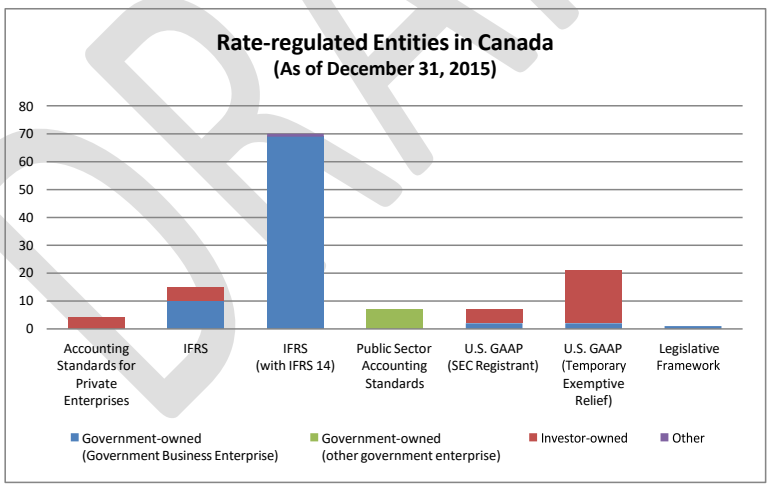
Canadian Rate-regulated Entities

18. The accounting framework landscape for Canadian rate-regulated entities is currently diverse. For annual periods beginning on or after January 1, 2015, rate-regulated entities that are Canadian publicly accountable enterprises are required to apply IFRS. Rate-regulated entities that adopted IFRS for the first time after IFRS 14 Regulatory Deferral Accounts was issued continue to recognize these balances. Government Business Enterprises (which operate to generate a profit or on a break-even basis) that are also rate-regulated entities are also directed to apply standards applicable to for-profit entities, and thus apply IFRS. Canadian securities legislation permits dual-listed entities (i.e., Canadian entities also registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission) to apply U.S. GAAP in the normal course. Temporary exemptive relief is also available from the Canadian Securities Administrators that permits rate-regulated entities that are not dual-listed to apply U.S. GAAP in place of IFRS. If a rate-regulated entity is not a publicly accountable enterprise or a Government Business Enterprise, additional accounting framework options may also include Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises or Public Sector Accounting Standards. A non-GAAP reporting framework is used when legislated by the provincial owner of a government-owned rate-regulated entity.

19. As of December 31, 2015, there were approximately 125 rate-regulated entities in Canada. These entities mainly range in size from small entities owned by municipal governments to large investor-owned entities or entities owned by provincial governments.



Source: Information compiled based on audited financial statements for fiscal year 2015, or information from rate filings that confirmed the accounting framework used by these entities. Due to data collection constraints, the population could be slightly larger.

This document is strictly confidential and intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Company and the Comptroller of the Province, and is not intended to be and should not be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to by anyone other than these specified parties or for any other purpose.

20. The chart above highlights two key points:

(a) The majority of investor-owned entities have chosen U.S. GAAP over IFRS. A few entities that are not reporting issuers apply Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises. Both U.S. GAAP and Accounting Standards for Private Enterprises permit the recognition of balances arising from rate regulation. Several entities that apply U.S. GAAP have told us this choice was influenced by the need to provide their users with financial statements that accurately reflect the economics of their business. Further, some entities presently using the temporary exemptive relief described in paragraph18 have said they are considering incurring the cost and effort necessary to become a registrant of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission in order to have the permanent ability to apply U.S. GAAP. While such a decision could be primarily for business reasons such as the entity expanding its operations into the U.S., it could also be attributed to the continuing uncertainty about the ultimate outcome of the IASB's Rate-regulated Activities project and the approaching expiry date of the securities regulators' exemptive relief.

(b) Public sector entities that are Government Business Enterprises tend to apply IFRS. The majority of these entities is made up of several large provincially-owned utilities, and many small municipally-owned local distribution utilities that do not issue debt or list in the U.S. stock market, and are not subject to Canadian securities legislation. As a result, they cannot apply U.S. GAAP. As shown in the chart, many of these entities adopted IFRS for the first time after the IASB issued IFRS 14, which allowed them to continue their previous accounting practices for rate-regulated activities.

21. Within the pool of government-owned rate-regulated entities, there are entities that do not meet the characteristics of Government Business Enterprises and are required to apply Public Sector Accounting Standards.

22. The data on the different accounting frameworks in Canada is unique. It demonstrates that when given a choice, rate-regulated entities select an accounting framework that captures the effects of rate regulation on their financial position and financial performance in order to communicate more decision-useful information to users.

Hi Nadine,

Not sure if you're checking e-mails this evening, but I've been doing some more thinking……

If the Province sets up a new entity and can demonstrate that it meets the definition of a GBE (which may not be possible), I don't think that new entity will be able to apply IFRS 14 in its financial statements.

The following is an excerpt from the scope section of IFRS 14:

5 An entity is permitted to apply the requirements of this Standard in its first IFRS financial statements if and only if it:

(a) conducts rate-regulated activities; and

(b) recognised amounts that qualify as regulatory deferral account balances in its financial statements in accordance with its previous GAAP.

Even if the activities of the new entity meet the definition of "rate-regulated activities" (which I'm not sure they will), the entity has not recognized regulatory amounts in its financial statement in accordance with its previous GAAP (IFRS will be its one and only GAAP).

Since IFRS 14 was issued to permit certain entities to continue recognizing regulatory assets and liabilities until the IASB concludes whether they meet the definition of an asset/liability under IFRS, I think most people would be reluctant to take a position that a regulatory asset can be recognized under IFRS without relying on IFRS 14.

Let me know when you have a few minutes to discuss.

Regards,

Lee Anne

Ladies,

I believe it is important for IESO to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation in 2016 under PSAB. Assuming that the AG rejects it under PSAB, then it will require IESO to move to option b) ie. to create a GBE in 2017 to execute the contemplated transaction. As you will remember, IFRS 14 requires IESO to have recognized regulatory balances in its prior year FS. This would be an easier sale than the market books.

Attached is an updated paper from the KPMG audit partner on IESO. In Matt's own words he has : added additional insights around the components of assets/liabilities, recognizing the differing views and significantly updated the conclusions to indicate that multiple conclusions could be reached. Happy to revisit as needed.

Matt and I have had a conversation about potential impacts and what we should say to the IESO board and when. So happy to discuss next steps.

E&Y will deliver an updated memo by tomorrow.

Michel, when can we have the other KPMG memo?

Should we have a conf call at some point today before the 4pm meeting, although Cindy maybe you are not at the 4pm meeting?

Ladies,

I believe it is important for IESO to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation in 2016 under PSAB. Assuming that the AG rejects it under PSAB, then it will require IESO to move to option b) ie. to create a GBE in 2017 to execute the contemplated transaction. As you will remember, IFRS 14 requires IESO to have recognized regulatory balances in its prior year FS. This would be an easier sale than the market books.

Regards,

Michel

August 29, 2017

Dear Madam:

In connection with the preparation of a technical accounting paper by the Office of the Provincial Controller Division, Treasury Board Secretariat (the "OPCD") related to the Fair Hydro Plan, 2017, KPMG LLP ("KPMG") understands that the OPCD has requested that a copy of our Memorandum to File dated July 25, 2017 be provided to their accounting adviser, Ernst and Young LLP ("EY"). In regards to this request, the Independent Electricity System Operator ("the IESO") has asked that we allow EY access to our Memorandum to File prepared in connection with our audit of the 2016 financial statements of the IESO. We have received authorization from IESO management to allow EY such access to our Memorandum prepared in the course of the audit.

Our audit of the 2016 financial statements of the IESO was conducted in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, the objective of which was to form an opinion on whether the financial statements, which are the responsibility and representations of management of the IESO, present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position and results of operations and cash flows of the IESO in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Under those standards, we have the responsibility, within the inherent limitations of the auditing process, to design our audit to provide reasonable assurance of detecting errors and irregularities that are material to the financial statements and to exercise due care in the conduct of our audit. The concept of selective testing of the data being audited, which involves judgment regarding both the number of transactions to be audited and the areas to be tested, has been generally accepted as a valid and sufficient basis for an auditor to express an opinion on financial statements. Thus, our audit, based on the concept of selective testing, is subject to the inherent risk that material errors or irregularities, if they exist, will not be detected. In addition, an audit does not address the possibility that material errors or irregularities may occur in the future. The conduct of an audit requires the application of professional judgment and the assessment of materiality in connection with financial statement assertions.

Our audit of the IESO's 2016 financial statements was not planned or conducted in contemplation of the preparation of a technical accounting paper related to the Fair Hydro Plan and may not be appropriate for your purposes. Items of possible interest to OPCD may not have been specifically addressed.

We have not reported on the IESO's financial statements for any period subsequent to December 31, 2016 and significant events may have occurred since that date. Our Memorandum prepared in connection therewith and our responses to EY's questions, should not be taken to supplant other inquiries and procedures that OPCD should undertake for the preparation of the technical accounting paper described above or for any other purpose.

KPMG LLP is a Canadian limited liability partnership and a member firm of the KPMG network of independent member firms affiliated with KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity. KPMG Canada provides services to KPMG LLP.

We accept no responsibility whatsoever for any reliance that OPCD, EY or any other person or body may place on the information provided by us.

In consideration of our permitting access to the Memorandum referred to above and for providing explanations relating to it if asked, and to the information contained therein, OPCD (on behalf of itself and all parties for which it is legally responsible - "the OPCD Parties") and EY agree that:

a) such access to our Memorandum and provision of information and explanations is not provided pursuant to any agreement or other arrangements of a contractually binding nature between our firm and any of the OPCD Parties or EY;

b) the OPCD Parties and EY do not acquire any rights against our firm or otherwise as a result of such access or as a result of what our Memorandum contain;

c) our firm, our partners and staff do not have any duties, responsibilities, liabilities, or obligations to the OPCD Parties or to EY as a result of permitting such access or providing such information and explanations;

d) the OPCD Parties and EY will not commence any action, suit or proceeding or make any demand, complaint or claim against us arising out of permitting such access or providing such information and explanation, or for any omission therein unless such action, suit or proceeding arises from our willful misconduct or failure to act in good faith in responding to specific questions raised by Ernst and Young.

OPCD also agrees that except as required by law, the information acquired as a result of the review of our Memorandum will be maintained in confidence and will not be disclosed to any third party (except as otherwise permitted herein) and will be used by it and EY in connection with the preparation of the technical accounting paper described above and that it will show this letter to, and secure the commitment to the provisions of this paragraph by EY.

Please confirm your agreement with the foregoing by signing and dating a copy of this letter and returning it to us.

Yours very truly
