The accounting for interest costs related to the loan being considered to finance the IESO's recovery of CDM costs incurred over an extended period of time would be dependent on how the Ministry of Energy proposes that the IESO will recover these costs. To the extent that the Minister revises the calculation of the global adjustment, then the IESO may be able to recognize an asset for these costs (i.e. see the arguments listed in sections (1) and (2) above).

If the Ministry of Energy proposes that the IESO recover the interest costs through the revenue requirement, the IESO will need to evaluate its ability to recover the interest costs through future rates. To the extent that the there is significant risk associated with recovering these costs, interest costs should be recognized as an expense in the current period. Otherwise, the IESO may be able to capitalize the interest costs as an asset by applying the arguments in sections (1) and (2) noted above.

If a recovery mechanism is not established for the interest costs related to the loan, the interest costs would be recognized as an expense of the current period.

Hi Suzie, Blake,

We've confirmed that we are able to do an additional one-time extension to the current SOW that is currently in effect to August 10 to March 31, 2019. We are drawing up an amendment to the original SOW for your review and signature. The extension covers the duration of the contract, but keep the ceiling as agreed upon initially.

I will ask Shyrose to send this through to you shortly.

Please call me if you have any questions - 416.325.8027

Thanks,
Mark

Hi Suzie - nice to speak with you.

Further to our t/c, attached is the extension we had signed earlier this year to June 30. It has come to our attention that the applicable dates of the original Statement of Work took us to February 10, 2018 (item #5 in the SOW), not December 30 as previously thought. Therefore, our extension for six months does allow us to go through to August 10. In the attachment, I have amended and initialed the dates that take us up to six months. If that meets with your approval, if you can also initial and return a copy for our files, that would be most helpful.

Under that agreement, we'd like to schedule a quick call for next week with yourself, Blake and Lee Anne just to provide an update on where things are at here w.r.t. reporting for the electricity sector and the 2017-18 Public Accounts. We'll work to make ourselves available based on whatever works best for you.

Thanks in advance,
Mark

Hi Suzie - nice to speak with you.

Further to our t/c, attached is the extension we had signed earlier this year to June 30. It has come to our attention that the applicable dates of the original Statement of Work took us to February 10, 2018 (item #5 in the SOW), not December 30 as previously thought. Therefore, our extension for six months does allow us to go through to August 10. In the attachment, I have amended and initialed the dates that take us up to six months. If that meets with your approval, if you can also initial and return a copy for our files, that would be most helpful.

Under that agreement, we'd like to schedule a quick call for next week with yourself, Blake and Lee Anne just to provide an update on where things are at here w.r.t. reporting for the electricity sector and the 2017-18 Public Accounts. We'll work to make ourselves available based on whatever works best for you.

Thanks in advance,
Mark

Hi Susan,

From speaking with John, I understand that you wanted to know the impacts of the specific components of the Fair Hydro Trust within OPG's consolidated financial information. A brief summary of this is presented below:

- An intangible asset of $1,639 million, representing the purchase of deferred global adjustment costs from the IESO for collection from ratepayers in the future.
- Long-term debt of $836 million, representing debt issued by the Fair Hydro Trust to external lenders to fund 51% of the consideration for the purchase of the intangible assets.

- Class A shares of $721 million, representing the equity injection by the Province in OPG to fund 44% of the contribution to the Fair Hydro Trust through debt issued to OPG for the purchase of the intangible assets.
- Intercompany debt between OPG and the Fair Hydro Trust (eliminated within OPG's consolidated financial information and therefore not presented within the schedules submitted by Ernst & Young) of $82 million, representing OPG's 5% funding contribution in the Trust for the purchase of the intangible assets.
- Earnings generated from the Fair Hydro Trust of $4 million for the year ended March 31, 2018, representing net earnings from the Fair Hydro Trust attributable to OPG as Financial Services Manager of the Trust.

Please let me know if you have any more queries.

Thanks
Michael

Good morning.
We had suggested that EY list some of their questions in advance of today's call (see below). I personally think however, that we first need to establish a common understanding of RRA (eg. Clarity of accounting guidance wrt governing board, independence, different types of RRAs), and perhaps address some of EY's questions/confusion following their read of the AG's recent comments/postings and how they might relate (or not) to the IESO's situation.
Just forwarding these Q's as an info item. Talk soon, N

Subject: Discussion Items for IESO Call

Hi Nadine,

Below is a list of the items I would like to discuss on our call with the IESO.

Please let me know if you have any questions/concerns with the list.

Regards,
Lee Anne

IESO Financial Statements

Current supply cost variance account

· Where is this recorded on the 2016 balance sheet (Amounts due to/from market participants?)

· Why is this not a regulatory asset? Is it considered to be a financial asset?

· There are similarities between this variance account and the new FHP variance account, but FHP variance account is going to be accounted for a regulatory asset. What is driving different treatment?

Market accounts

· Can we walk through the entries that are booked as part of the settlement process (timing and DRs/CRs)

· What are 'Other liabilities' (Note 3)

Market Administration/Settlement

Confirm/correct the following:

Price consumers pay comprised of:

o Electricity commodity price (HOEP)

o Transmission price

o Distribution price

· Global Adjustment

IESO only settles the electricity commodity price component and the related portion of the Global Adjustment

Supply of electricity comes from:

1. OPG (rate set by OEB)

2. Non-utility generators (rate set by contract – contracts held by OEFC)

3. Generation facilities under contract with IESO (rate set by contract)

4. Imports (paid HOEP)

Are there are other suppliers that are paid HOEP?

Portion of Global Adjustment determined by IESO driven by variances relating to #1, #2, #3 above

What is the nature of the contracts IESO enters into?
Participation agreements

· IESO enters into participation agreements with all market participants (buyers and sellers)

· Participation agreements bind IESO and counterparty to follow market rules

· Participation agreement would be the only contract IESO enters into with #1, #2, #4 above
Supply contracts

· Since IESO does not buy and sell electricity, what is the contract for? (IESO paying for commitment that the counterparty will supply electricity into the IESO grid?)

· Does the IESO negotiate the terms of these contracts?

Buyers of electricity from IESO grid are comprised of:

· LDCs

The electricity commodity price paid by all buyers is HOEP.
IESO determines HOEP.
Although IESO determines HOEP, IESO is not really determining rates charged to buyers because total price is a bundle of electricity at HOEP plus/minus Global Adjustment and OEB mandates that bundle must (over time) equal cost.

Preamble

The Government of Ontario is committed to fostering the development of a clean, modern and reliable electricity system with a diverse supply mix. The Government is also committed to removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for renewable and clean energy projects.[1] These commitments can only be achieved if costs are shared fairly among consumers, today and in the future.

~~The Government of Ontario has established a regulatory framework related to the generation and sale of electricity, which has promoted and continues to promote significant investment to enable phasing out of coal fired generation, modernizing sites and facilities in the Province for the generation of electrical energy and the production therefrom,~~[2] ~~and conservation and demand management.~~

Electricity rates have risen for two key reasons. First, decades of under-investment in the electricity system resulted in the need to invest more than $50 billion in generation, transmission and distribution assets to ensure the system is clean and reliable. Second,

[1] ~~Note~~FLS: please see the preamble of the Green Energy Act, 2009.

[2] ~~Note: please see clause 92A (4) (b) of the Constitution, 1867: "des emplacements et des installations de la province destinés à la production d'énergie électrique, ainsi que de cette production meme".~~

the decision to eliminate Ontario's use of coal and produce clean, renewable power has created additional costs.

The actions taken to achieve a clean, modern and reliable electricity system have resulted in significant costs to consumers today. The burden of financing these system improvements and funding key programs has unfairly fallen almost entirely on the shoulders of today's consumers.

The Government of Ontario is committed to ensuring that the costs of financing these investments~~,~~ and the ~~raising of money~~associated charges to ~~fund the investments,~~[3] consumers are allocated fairly among present and future generations of consumers.

~~Therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows:~~

Recognizing that the electricity infrastructure that has been built and the policy decisions that have been made will create benefits for years to come, costs should be allocated fairly over time, so that consumers in the future pay their fair share for the benefits that they receive from the investments already made.

Tim,

On yesterday's call you mentioned restrictions on circulating the draft FAO report. I assume that we would be able to share with IESO, OPG (and they in turn with their external advisors), in advance of the meeting/call?

Yes – I believe those in attendance at the briefing should include Kim Marshall – IESO and Michel Picard – KPMG as well as John Mauti or Ken Hartwick from OPG, and perhaps EY (although FAO has not focused on the accounting issues re: OPG that much). In addition, we should also be in attendance. We were not in attendance at the technical briefing held for the FAO on FHP and have not had any discussions with them on the accounting. We can help coordinate those folks.

Thanks Cindy – fyi, I've been asked, as part of my call with the FAO this morning, to offer up a briefing for them with KPMG (who provided the external advice on this). Are you guys supportive of this and could help make those arrangements?

Want your input before I offer this up.

Subject: Financing of a regulatory asset

Alec, John,

The issue is the following:

· IESO, the System operator, has been asked by the province of Ontario to delay the recovery of 10% of the energy purchased from the generators.

· The 10% will be financed by Ontario Power Generation (OPG) and will be recovered over a period of 20-30 years to smooth the impact on rates.

· IESO and OPG are both rate-regulated by the Ontario Energy Board (OEB).

· IESO is an agent to the market participants – ie. IESO records the energy transactions on a net basis – since it is a pass-through there is no net impact on the statement of income.

· IESO currently recovers most of the energy costs paid to the generators in the same month with the remaining amount being recovered in the following month.

The journal entries to reflect the above discussion are as follows:

1. to record the energy purchased from generators

Cr Generators 100

2. to record the amount collected from the distributors

Cr Revenue 90

3. to record the remaining amount to be collected from the distributors over a period of 20-30 years in accordance with legislation and the OEB ‘s direction

Dr Regulatory asset 10 Can IESO record a regulatory asset?

Cr Revenue 10

4. to record the cash received from OPG to finance the remaining 10% payments to the generators

Dr Cash rec’d OPG 10

Cr Due to OPG 10 The alternative is to eliminate the regulatory asset instead of creating a liability.

5. to record the payments to generators

Cr Cash 100

As noted in the example above, there are a few questions that I need to address.

1. Although IESO is rate-regulated, can it recognize a regulatory asset for the pass-through? The issue at play is that IESO is an agent of the market participants and the definition of a regulatory asset under ASC 980 requires to be an incurred cost by IESO.

2. Assuming IESO can recognize a regulatory asset for the 10% of the uncollected energy costs, does IESO derecognize the regulatory asset when IESO receives the cash from OPG? Or does it maintains the regulatory asset and records cash with an offsetting liability to OPG?

3. What type of asset will OPG recognize? A regulatory asset or an intangible asset?

The Board of Directors

Dear Sirs,

We have been engaged to provide you with an accounting opinion on the application of Public Sector Accounting Standards to the consolidation of a trust and to the recognition and derecognition of a variance account in relation to Bill 132, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 as tabled in the first reading ("Bill 132") (Appendix A to this letter). This letter is being issued to the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO" or the "Company") in connection with its evaluation of the consolidation requirements and the accounting for the variance account under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards ("PSAS"). Our engagement has been conducted in accordance with generally accepted standards in Canada for such engagements.

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific issues described below rests with management of the Company as preparers of the financial statements.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act, 1998 ("the Electricity Act") and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB" or the "Board") Act, 1998 ("the OEB Act")), and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the trust to be established by OPG) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific matters described below is based on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us. The finalization of the legislation, regulations, financing structure and other agreements may impact the comments and conclusions set out herein. Our comments and conclusions are based on Bill 132 and related matters as they exist at the date of this letter.

The following three issues are addressed in this letter:

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by Ontario Power Generation (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and therefore subject to consolidation by IESO?

KPMG LLP is a Canadian limited liability partnership and a member firm of the KPMG network of independent member firms affiliated with KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity. KPMG Canada provides services to KPMG LLP.

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Background for issue #1

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party) are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act. Management of the IESO has determined that the Company is an Other Governmental Organization and accordingly prepares its financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

2. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act and the OEB Act.

3. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 3 New Accounting Policies, audited by KPMG "As of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy regarding the recognition of assets and liabilities subject to rate regulation. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model. This change has been applied retroactively and has increased amounts previously unrecorded for regulatory assets and decreased amounts previously reported for accumulated deficit."

4. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 2(d) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, Regulatory assets and liabilities. "As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO applies guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations ("ASC 980"), in this policy."

5. Extract from Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act: In approving or fixing rates under subsection (3.1),

   (a) the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect these costs; and

   (b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct.

6. Currently, IESO recognizes two regulatory assets for unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items as permitted by rates approved by the OEB. In addition, in accordance with section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, IESO also recognizes variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation ("OEFC"), distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract.

7. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts of Bill 132:

   Section 1 Definitions, Transfer of regulatory asset

   (3) In this Act, a reference to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset is a reference to the following, as provided for in subsection 26 (3):

1. A reduction in the balance in the variance account.
2. The adjustment of the regulatory asset.
3. The acquisition by a financing entity of the investment interest corresponding to the specified portion of the regulatory asset.

Section 24 Variance account to be established, maintained

(1) IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.
2. All payments received by IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.
3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

(3) No change made by IESO to the balance in the variance account shall, if the previous balance was relied upon by an investment interest owner in the context of a transfer under section 26, affect the rights acquired by the investment interest owner under the transfer.

Section 25 Regulatory asset established

(1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

(3) IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Section 34 Board's Authority

(2) Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing.

8. It is expected that the IESO deferral recorded by the IESO in the variance account (the regulatory asset) will be transferred to an investment asset owner (i.e. a trust to be established by OPG) on a monthly basis and cash collected within a short period of time. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #1

ASC 980 Regulated Operations

– For general-purpose financial reporting, an incurred cost for which a regulator permits recovery in a future period is accounted for like an incurred cost that is reimbursable under a cost-reimbursement-type contract. [980-10-05-6]

- Unless an accounting order indicates the way a cost will be handled for rate-making purposes, it causes no economic effects that would justify deviation from the GAAP applicable to business entities in general. The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP. [980-10-05-8]
- The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:
  (a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
  (b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form.
  (c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs. [980-10-15-2]
- Incurred Cost - A cost arising from cash paid out or obligation to pay for an acquired asset or service, a loss from any cause that has been sustained and has been or must be paid for. [980-10-20] Glossary
- Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:
  (a) Deregulation.
  (b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.
  (c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).
  (d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [980-20-15-2]
- Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:
  (a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
  (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date. [980-340-25-1]

- Rate actions of a regulator can reduce or eliminate the value of an asset. If a regulator excludes all or part of a cost from allowable costs, the carrying amount of any asset recognized pursuant to paragraph 980-340-25-1 shall be reduced to the extent of the excluded cost. Whether other assets have been impaired shall be judged the same as for entities in general and the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets Subsections of Subtopic 360-10 shall apply. [980-340-35-1]
- If at any time an entity's incurred cost no longer meets the criteria for the capitalization of an incurred cost (see paragraph 980-340-25-1), that cost shall be charged to earnings. [980-340-40-1]
- In some cases, a regulator may approve rates that are intended to recover an incurred cost over an extended period without a return on the unrecovered cost during the recovery period. [980-340-55-2]
- The regulator's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset (see paragraph 980-340-25-1). Accordingly, the regulated entity would capitalize the cost and amortize it over the period during which it will be allowed for rate-making purposes. That cost would not be recorded at discounted present value. An exception to this general rule is provided for costs of abandoned plants. [980-340-55-3]

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

As noted above, as of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation and now applies guidance from US GAAP Topic 980, Regulated Operations, as PSAS does not have any specific guidance for entities with rate-regulated activities.

IESO concluded that it met the requirements of PS2120.02, which allows them to reflect the impacts of rate regulation, as it is considered that the change of accounting policy in its 2016 financial statements resulted in a more appropriate presentation of transactions in its financial statements. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model.

The regulatory framework in Ontario relating to the generation and sale of electricity will be significantly impacted by Bill 132. Currently, a substantial amount of the energy purchased from the generators is collected by IESO from the local distribution companies through the customer billing, with the remaining being recovered through variance accounts over a period of 12 months maximum. As mentioned above, the effect of Bill 132 is to defer the collection of a total estimated amount of $28 billion (plus interest) of energy purchased from the generators over a period of 30 years. Bill 132 will not permit IESO to collect the IESO deferral before May 1, 2021 and the recovery process will be established through regulations. Such a long-term deferred recovery plan requires IESO to consider whether the uncollected energy costs qualify for deferral as a regulatory asset and whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow IESO to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980. These two accounting issues are analyzed in the two tables below.

Criteria for the recognition of regulatory assets

ASC 980-340-25-1 states that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) It is probable that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. (emphasis added) If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.	Bill 132 notes that, • A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording. • Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers. • The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. • The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021. Based on Bill 132, IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. As a result, it is clear that the IESO will be able to recover the amount previously incurred rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs.	Met

Criteria for the adoption and continued use of ASC 980 guidance

Deferred recovery plans are plans adopted by regulators or legislations in response to significant increases in costs (e.g. purchased power costs). These plans typically provide for rates to remain fixed or increase moderately with a variance account mechanism to capture costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. A regulated utility subject to such plans is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow it to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980, especially criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

The proposed plan for the recovery of purchase power costs over a 30 year period is considered a deferred recovery plan as the rates for the first four years will remain fixed and subsequently the rates will increase moderately with a variance account to capture energy costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. The following is an analysis of the ASC 980-10-15-2 criteria.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party	Currently, IESO recognizes regulatory assets related to smart meters and PSAS transition costs as permitted by rates approved by the OEB and regulatory liabilities related to the variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act related to the procurement of energy.	Met

regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.	It is important to note that both Hydro One and OPG are classified as Government Business Enterprises and are reporting under IFRS in their consolidated financial statements, are consolidated by the modified equity method into the province's books, are regulated by the OEB, and their respective regulatory assets and liabilities are reported in the province's books.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.	Currently, the rates approved by the OEB are designed to recover the IESO's costs of providing the regulated services and the pass-through related to the energy purchased from the generators.

	As mentioned above, a regulated utility subject to a deferred recovery plan is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

	This criterion requires a cause-and-effect relationship between a reporting entity's costs and its revenue. In addition, the timing of cost recovery and the related frequency of ratemaking is important. A reporting entity should consider its rate case experience, including the design of its rates and timing of recovery, when determining whether this criterion is met. These factors are analyzed below.

	Frequency of rate case

	- Currently, IESO is subject to OEB's annual reviews.
	- Although the recovery of purchase energy costs will be frozen at the approved rate on May 1, 2017 for the first four years, the IESO will be granted a right to recover after May 1, 2021 the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account during the four-year period.
	  - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance, as of the time of the recording. (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review by the OEB)
	  - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  - Obligation on the part of the OEB to dispose the variance account in accordance with the regulation.
	- Subsequent to May 1, 2021, the OEB will be required to determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
		Met

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	- The Board shall, from time to time, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing. Rates are designed to recover incurred costs - There is a cause-and-effect relationship between the purchase energy costs and revenue, as IESO will be allowed to recover the costs incurred. - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review). - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Obligation on the part of the OEB to ensure IESO will recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Periods of alternative ratemaking (e.g., rate freezes) Evaluation of the second criterion requires additional judgment if the regulated utility is subject to any form of ratemaking that introduces uncertainty about the cause-and-effect relationship between costs and rates. A rate freeze period is defined as a fixed rate that is charged to customers during a period of time (more than two years) and the utilities are exposed to increases in operating and energy costs with no ability to recover the variances. This is not the case as IESO will be granted the right to recover fully the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, including the first four-year period. - The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Costs uncertainty As the IESO will be granted the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no uncertainty about the recovery of the costs.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	Disallowances of costs The OEB has never disallowed the recovery of any material costs incurred by the IESO. More importantly, as the IESO will be granted by legislation the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no risk of the potential disallowance of the purchase power costs. Based on the analysis of the above factors, there are no indications that this criterion would not be met. The above factors establish that there will be a direct cause-and-effect relationship between IESO's costs and its future collection.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."	The remaining criterion is whether limitations, including considering demand levels at the approved rates, on the extent of recovery of the regulatory asset could prevent the IESO from recognizing a regulatory asset for the entire balance in the recovery right granted to the IESO.

	Bill 132 notes that:

	- Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO's right to recover the balance in the variance account is subject to the following:
	  o The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified customers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  o IESO shall not be entitled to collect the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

	Although the process, especially the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not been established yet by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over the period of 30 years. Further, given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. As with the other criteria, this will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period.
		Met

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the IESO can recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132 based on the foregoing analysis.

The variance account created by Bill 132 is subject to rate regulation by the OEB and the variance account will be established with the right to collect funds against the variance amount in the future. In these circumstances, the IESO is able to establish a regulatory asset. The IESO financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards. Although PSAB does not provide specific guidance on rate regulated accounting, it does under PS 1150 Generally Accepted Accounting Principles allow for guidance to be followed from other accounting frameworks. IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations in its accounting policies.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Background for Issue #2

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issue #1, are as follows:

1. The IESO currently has the right to collect the global adjustment ("GA") monthly from ratepayers through provisions in the Electricity Act. It is proposed that collection of a certain portion of the monthly GA be deferred in a regulatory asset for collection in the future, and that the right to recover the deferred GA from ratepayers be used as the basis for structured financing/ securitization.
2. In connection with Bill 132, it is proposed that a trust be established as a financial vehicle by OPG (the "OPG Trust") in connection with the deferred GA. The OPG Trust will finance the deferral of the GA by purchasing the regulatory asset from the IESO for the principal amount of the GA being deferred.
3. The OPG Trust is expected to finance these purchases from the IESO through a combination of senior secured financing raised in the capital markets, and subordinated financing from OPG (the funding for which will mostly be from equity injections from the OEFC/Province of Ontario).
4. OPG will be appointed as the Financial Services Manager and will be given the responsibility to direct the activities of the OPG Trust, through a services agreement and/or through the Trust's constating documents.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #2

PS1300 Government Reporting Entity:

PSAS refer to government or government organizations. For the purpose of this analysis, the PSAS guidance below relating to government or government organizations should be read and understood as being the IESO (emphasis added).

- The government reporting entity should comprise government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government. [PS 1300.07]
- Control is the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities. [PS 1300.08] (emphasis added).
- Whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that must be determined by reference to the definition of control established in paragraph PS 1300.08 and the particular circumstances of each case. The determination of the fact that control exists will require the application of professional judgment. Government achieves its objectives through a wide range of organizations which individually will fall somewhere along a continuum. At one end of the continuum, it will be clear that an organization does not have the power to act independently and is controlled by the government. At the other end, the organization will have the power to act independently and, while government will have a level of influence on the organization, it will be clear that it does not have control. Along the continuum, consideration needs to be given to the nature of the relationship between the government and the organization in order to determine whether control exists. This Section provides guidance intended to assist in this assessment. [PS 1300.10]
- In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between the government and the organization. The true nature of certain relationships may not be completely reflected by their legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. Where various aspects of the relationship are designed, in effect, to achieve an overall objective, they would be viewed as a whole. [PS 1300.11]
- Financial and operating policies are principles and practices that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control because it establishes the fundamental basis for the conduct of the organization's operations and the achievement of its mission and mandate. [PS 1300.13]
- There are a variety of ways to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization. For example:
  (a) a government may establish an organization's fundamental purpose and eliminate or significantly limit the ability of the organization to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the organization;
  (b) a government may direct the financial and operating policies of an organization on an ongoing basis; or
  (c) a government may veto, overrule or modify the financial and operating policies established by an organization. [PS 1300.14]
- A government does not need to manage an organization's activities on a day-to-day basis to control the organization. It is the government's existing authority to determine the policies governing those activities that is important. [PS 1300.15]

– For the purposes of this Section, it is assumed that where the government has the power to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization, it expects to derive a financial or non-financial benefit. The government may also be exposed to the risk of loss. [PS 1300.16]

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by OPG (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and, therefore, subject to consolidation by IESO?

Under PSAS, IESO is required to consolidate all entities that are considered to be part of its reporting entity, applying the guidance provided in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity. Under PS 1300, IESO must consolidate all entities it "controls".

In determining whether or not the OPG Trust should be consolidated by IESO, it must first be determined whether or not the IESO exercises control as a consequence of power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust resulting in expected benefits to the IESO or the risk of loss from the activities of the OPG Trust.

PS 1300.17 indicates that "whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that requires the application of professional judgment based on the definition of control in this Section and the substance of the relationship in each case." Under PS 1300.08 control is defined as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities". Therefore, the determination of whether IESO will consolidate the OPG Trust will be based on an assessment of whether IESO is considered to control the OPG Trust based on the indicia of control set out in PS 1300. The assessment of the IESO's control of the OPG Trust is made based on Bill 132, facts and nature of the relationship between the IESO and the OPG Trust and based on facts and assumptions provided by IESO. PS 1300.18 and .19 set out 11 potential indicia of control. Several of these indicia have been categorized as more persuasive of a finding of control (see the first four indicators in the table below). For each indicator that applies, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. Finally, the indicia are considered both collectively and individually.

A detailed analysis of the 11 Indicators of control is provided in the following table.

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
Primary (more persuasive) indicators (PS 1300.18):
Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	- Bill 132 states: - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18) - The Financial Services Manager shall perform the duties assigned to it under this Act and may administer the investment asset on behalf of the investment interest owners. (Section 19 (1)) - Subject to any prescribed limitations, the Financial Services Manager may establish and charge fees in relation to such matters as may be prescribed in accordance with the regulations, which regulations may provide for the ability to recover costs and expenditures and to earn a return. (Section 19 (3))	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?

	- The Electricity Act will be amended as follows:
	  - In addition to the objects mentioned in subsection (1), the objects of OPG include exercising the powers and rights and performing the duties and obligations assigned to it under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and engaging in activities to facilitate the implementation of that Act, including entering into contracts and undertakings on behalf of financing entities and performing other services on behalf of financing entities, subject to the right to be paid by the financing entities for those services. (Section 53.1 (1.1))
	  - OPG may create or invest in one or more subsidiaries, trusts, partnerships or special purpose entities in order to more efficiently conduct its activities or achieve its objects. (Section 53.1 (1.2))
	- OPG will establish a trust to manage the collection of the regulatory asset and related financing and administrative expenses. The Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust will be the governing body of the Trust and will be appointed by OPG. OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees.
	- The IESO will not have any rights in respect of the appointment or replacement of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust.

Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	- Section 27 of Bill 132 states:
	  - A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.
	  - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.
		No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. - Based on Bill 132, upon transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, the investment asset resulting from the transfer is immediately vested in the OPG Trust, free and clear of any adverse claim. (Section 28 (2)). - Therefore, upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, IESO will no longer have access/ability to direct the regulatory asset nor have the ongoing responsibility for losses. - The credit risk related to the collection of the investment asset is borne by the OPG Trust.
Government holds the majority of the voting shares or a "golden share" that confers the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the organization	- IESO will not have any ownership in the OPG Trust and will not have the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust.	No
Government has the unilateral power to dissolve the organization and thereby access its assets and become responsible for its obligations	- IESO will not have the power to dissolve the organization.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
Other indicators that may provide evidence of control exist when government has the power to (PS 1300.18):
Provide significant input into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust. - IESO will not provide any input in the appointment of members of the Board of Trustees.	No
Appoint or remove the CEO or other key personnel	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust and other key personnel.	No
Establish or amend the mission or mandate of the organization	- The Trust will be established by OPG and the mandate of the Trust will be set based on Bill 132.	No

Approve the business plans or budgets for the organization and require amendments, either on a net or line-by-line basis	- Bill 132 states:
	  - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18)
	  - The Financial Services Manager shall prepare a written plan entitled the Financing Plan to be used by the Financial Services Manager to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred for the purposes of acquiring and financing an investment asset in accordance with this Act or for the purposes of refinancing. (Section 16 (1))
	- OPG is the Financial Services Manager, not IESO.
	- IESO is not involved in the preparation or approval of the business plans or budget of the OPG Trust.
		No

Establish borrowing or investment limits or restrict the organization's investments	- Section 22 of Bill 132 states: - The Financial Services Manager shall ensure that funding obligations incurred for the purposes of this Act are incurred in a manner that is consistent with the applicable Financing Plan.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- OPG not IESO, is responsible for ensuring that the borrowings of the OPG Trust meet the above conditions.
Restrict the revenue-generating capacity of the organization, notably the sources of revenue	- N/A	No
Establish or amend the policies that the organization uses to manage, such as those relating to accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources	- As mentioned above, OPG will be granted by legislation the power to establish or amend the policies of the OPG Trust and the ability to appoint and remove all members of the Board of Trustees.	No

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the OPG Trust to be established would not be controlled by the IESO and therefore is not subject to consolidation by the IESO.

Based on the foregoing analysis of the 11 indicators of control as defined in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity, considered both individually and collectively there is no evidence of control by the IESO in respect of the OPG Trust. The IESO will not have the power to govern the Trust, nor have ongoing access to Trust's assets. The IESO will also not have any voting shares or future rights to the Trust nor the power to dissolve the Trust. Without control, the Trust is not subject to consolidation within the IESO financial statements.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that based on Bill 132, none of the four primary (more persuasive) indicators of control are considered to be met, and none of the seven other indicators of control are considered to be met. Accordingly, we concur that the IESO does not control the OPG Trust under Bill 132 and hence would not consolidate the OPG Trust.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act and the OEB Act) and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the OPG Trust) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS to the conclusion on control may change subject to further analysis of any changes to the terms of Bill 132 or review of the final regulations, financing structure and other agreements.

Background for Issue #3

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issues #1 and 2, are as follows:

1. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest and will be recorded by the IESO in a variance account recognized as a regulatory asset.
2. The IESO does not currently have the financial capability to finance the regulatory asset and will transfer the variance account to an investment asset owner (i.e. OPG Trust) on a monthly basis.
3. The IESO will obtain a written legal opinion as to the validity and enforceability of the transfer and sale of the regulatory asset.
4. Based on an assessment of control performed under the issue #2, IESO will not consolidate the OPG Trust. We understand that an assessment of control under International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") has been performed by OPG and they have concluded that the OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG; we note that the financial reporting framework used by OPG in preparing its financial statements for consolidation into the Province's books is IFRS.
5. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts from Bill 132:

   Section 16 IESO to receive amounts

   (2) The IESO shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, receive amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment paid to it from electricity vendors in accordance with the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or the regulations.

   (4) All amounts received by the IESO in respect of the clean energy adjustment shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owner, be held in trust by the IESO for the investment interest owners.

   (5) The IESO shall remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, inclusive of interest earned on the amounts referred to in subsection (1), to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with the regulations.

   Section 17 Pro rating of payments

   (4) If an electricity vendor receives a payment made by or on behalf of a specified consumer in respect of amounts payable under one or more invoices and the amount paid is less than the total amount payable, the electricity vendor shall allocate the payment on a pro rata basis to the clean energy adjustment and other amounts payable under the relevant invoices in respect of electricity charges in respect of the same invoice period.

   Section 26 Transfer of regulatory asset

   (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

   (2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the investment interest.

Section 27 Validity of transfer

(1) A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer and the property rights and interests acquired by the transferee shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons.

Section 29 Investment asset, irrevocable rights and interests

(1) The investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of investment interest owners:

1. The right and interest to impose, invoice, collect, receive and recover the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers, including the right to determine the clean energy adjustment in accordance with this Act.

2. The right to receive, collect and recover the clean energy adjustment that is imposed, invoiced and recoverable under this Act, including any amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment that are held by electricity vendors, IESO and other prescribed parties.

Section 30 Transfer of investment interest

(2) An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan.

Section 32 Investment interest owner may grant security interest

(1) An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation.

(3) All provisions of the Personal Property Security Act shall apply to the investment asset and each investment interest on the basis that the investment asset and each investment interest is intangible personal property, except as otherwise provided for in this section, and any granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner to secure a funding obligation shall, subject to the terms of the funding obligation, give rise to a security interest in respect of which that Act applies and may be perfected by registering a financing statement under that Act on that basis.

6. The terms of the transfer agreement between the IESO and the OPG Trust that will be signed and executed upon transfer of the regulatory assets will be in compliance with the dispositions of Bill 132.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #3

The Derecognition Section of ASC 980-20-40 provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation. [ASC 980-20-40]

Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:

(a) Deregulation.

(b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.

(c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).

(d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [ASC 980-20-15-2]

PS1000 Financial statement concepts:

– This Section is to be used by preparers and auditors of financial statements in exercising their professional judgment as to the application of generally accepted accounting principles and in establishing accounting policies in areas in which accounting principles are developing. [PS1000.03]

– Financial statements should communicate information that is relevant to the needs of those for whom the statements are prepared, reliable, comparable, understandable and clearly presented in a manner that maximizes its usefulness. [PS1000.24]

– An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [PS3210.04]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

  (a) no future economic benefit;

  (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or

  (c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred. [PS1000.37]

PS3210 Assets:

- Assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. [PS3210.03]
- Assets have three essential characteristics:
  (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows.
  (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits.
  (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. [PS3210.04]
- Control of an economic resource and of access to the future economic benefits are essential characteristics of an asset, whereas possession or ownership is not. [PS3210.22]

PS3430 Restructuring transactions [1]

- Individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date. [PS3430.21]
- When a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether:
  (a) derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate; and
  (b) its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized. [PS3430.24]
- A new asset or new liability may arise from a restructuring due to a transferor's continued involvement in the individual assets and liabilities transferred (for example, if it agrees to guarantee repayment of all or a portion of a transferred liability or leases back a portion of a transferred asset). As the new asset or new liability is not transferred, together with related program or operating responsibilities, they are not part of the restructuring transaction. They would be accounted for in accordance with individual Sections of the PSA Handbook by both the transferors and recipients. [PS3430.25]

1 This Section applies to fiscal years beginning on or after April 1, 2018. […] Earlier adoption is permitted."

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Although ASC 980-20-40 states that

> "Derecognition Section provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation."

Subtopic 980-20 relates to discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting when an entity no longer meets the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2. ASC 980-20-15-2 provides examples of when an entity no longer meets the criteria, including deregulation and change of the form of regulation. Thus, ASC 980 does not provide clear guidance for the derecognition of a regulatory asset other than in connection with the discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting.

The above guidance in ASC 980-20-40 provides general principles for the derecognition of assets.

It should also be noted that PSAS provide limited guidance on derecognition of non-financial assets and liabilities. Section 3430 Restructuring transactions, which is applicable for fiscal years on or after April 1, 2018 with early application permitted, has guidance for the derecognition of assets and liabilities.

- Paragraph 21 states that individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date.
- As stated in paragraph 24, when a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate and whether its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized.

Recognizing the proposed transaction is not a restructuring transaction, Section 3430, which has recently been issued by PSAB, provides current evidence of thinking in the application of the general PSAS principles in respect of the recognition and derecognition of assets and liabilities. Accordingly, the analysis as to whether the regulatory asset transferred to the OPG Trust can be derecognized is based on the foregoing guidance.

Criteria for the recognition of an asset

PS3210.03 states that assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. More generally, PSAS PS1000.37 suggests that an asset would no longer be recognized when it fails to meet the definition of an asset:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
Assets (PS3210.04/ PS1000.36): Assets have three essential characteristics: (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows,	Based on the guidance, the regulatory asset does not qualify as an asset of IESO if it cannot obtain the future economic benefits. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, IESO will have no further rights or obligations in connection with the asset transferred. - IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section. - Upon receipt by IESO of the payment by the financing entity, IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.	Not Met

or to reduce cash outflows. (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits. (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. Financial statement concepts (PS1000.37): An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [see above]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves: (a) no future economic benefit (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it.	- A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee. - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest. - At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, the OPG Trust will have the right to sell the asset to another party or to grant a security interest in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. - Upon transfer, the financing entity becomes an investment asset owner and acquires an investment interest. - An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan. - An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. Based on Bill 132, it is clear that IESO will have no rights to the benefits associated with the future cash inflows related to the regulatory asset as it will have transferred its right to recover the IESO deferral to the OPG Trust. Further, it is also clear that IESO will have lost control over the regulatory asset once it is transferred to OPG Trust.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the regulatory asset will be derecognized upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust.

The transfer of the regulatory asset transfers the control and the benefits associated with the right to collect funds in the future against the variance amount to the OPG Trust. This will eliminate the IESO asset by the amount of the transfer as the IESO will no longer control an economic resource or have access to future economic benefits for that amount. The funds collected from the transfer will in turn reduce the associated debt held by the IESO, maintaining the IESO's net $ nil balance in the market accounts.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the regulatory asset should be derecognized on transfer to the OPG Trust as IESO no longer has rights or future economic benefits associated with the asset.

Other Matters

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transactions rests with management as preparers of the financial statements. Our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transaction is based solely on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us as described above. Should these facts and circumstances differ, our conclusion may change.

Bill 132, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017

Caution:

Fair Hydro Act, 2017

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Bill enacts a new Act and makes amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

SCHEDULE 1
ONTARIO FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACT, 2017

The Schedule enacts the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. The Act establishes a framework under which the costs and benefits associated with the "clean energy initiative" are to be allocated among present and future consumers of electricity. The "clean energy initiative" is defined in Part I as consisting of the policies of the Government of Ontario related to such matters as eliminating coal generation and fostering the growth of and investment in clean, modern and reliable energy sources and technologies.

Under Part II, the Ontario Energy Board is required to determine reduced electricity rates and to determine other adjustments to be made for certain classes of consumers in respect of specified periods of time. For example, for the class of consumers referred to as "regulated rate consumers", the electricity rates payable for the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 are the rates, as determined by the Board, that would achieve a 25 per cent reduction in certain costs for a hypothetical member of the class who meets prescribed criteria. Details regarding the determinations are prescribed by regulations.

Part III requires certain electricity consumers to pay an amount in respect of the "clean energy adjustment". The clean energy adjustment is determined by the Financial Services Manager in accordance with rules set out in the Act and the regulations. (Section 18 of the Act appoints Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager.) Part III also specifies the roles and responsibilities of electricity vendors and the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO") with respect to the collection and remittance of amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment.

Part IV requires the Minister of Energy to calculate a "fair allocation amount" by taking specified steps in accordance with principles and assumptions set out in the Act. For example, the Act provides that the purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among certain consumers. Part IV also requires the Financial Services Manager to prepare a written plan entitled the "Financing Plan", which is to be used to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred. Principles and limitations regarding the preparation and implementation of the plan are provided.

Part V requires the IESO to determine the "IESO deferral" in accordance with the regulations and to establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the IESO deferral each month. A "regulatory asset" is created under section 25; the IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from certain consumers. The IESO is authorized to transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity; this transfer results in the creation of the investment asset and the acquisition by the transferee of a corresponding "investment interest". Various rules respecting the validity and priority of a transfer of an investment asset are set out.

In Part VI, rules in respect of the "investment asset" are provided. Section 29 provides that the investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest, consisting collectively of various specified rights and interests of investment interest owners. Rules respecting the validity and priority of such a transfer and the granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner are included.

Part VII deals with various miscellaneous matters, including regulation-making authority of the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

The Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 are amended to address various matters relating to the enactment of the new Act. For example, the objects of the IESO and Ontario Power Generation Inc. are expanded to address powers and duties under the new Act.

AMENDMENTS TO THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD ACT, 1998

The Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 is amended. Among the amendments:

1. Section 79 of the Act is amended so that compensation for the rate protection provided to certain classes of rural or remote consumers may be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature, rather than by consumers.

2. Section 79.2 of the Act, which governs the Ontario Electricity Support Program, is repealed and replaced. The program is continued, but will be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature after the variance account maintained by the Independent Electricity System Operator, formerly established under the Plan, is exhausted, rather than by consumers. There are provisions relating to the sharing, use and disclosure of information relating to the administration of the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

3. Programs are established to aid certain distribution rate-protected residential consumers and on-reserve consumers.

4. Various amendments of a technical and administrative nature are made to support the implementation and oversight of these programs including provisions related to auditing, record-keeping, inspections and inquiries, offences and penalties.

Preamble

The Government of Ontario is committed to fostering the development of a clean, modern and reliable electricity system with a diverse supply mix. The Government is also committed to removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for renewable and clean energy projects. These commitments can only be achieved if costs are shared fairly among consumers, today and in the future.

Electricity rates have risen for two key reasons. First, decades of under-investment in the electricity system resulted in the need to invest more than $50 billion in generation, transmission and distribution assets to ensure the system is clean and reliable. Second, the decision to eliminate Ontario's use of coal and produce clean, renewable power has created additional costs.

The actions taken to achieve a clean, modern and reliable electricity system have resulted in significant costs to residential consumers. The burden of financing these system improvements and funding key programs has unfairly fallen almost entirely on the shoulders of those consumers.

The Government of Ontario is committed to ensuring that the costs of financing these investments and the associated charges to consumers are allocated fairly among present and future generations.

Recognizing that the electricity infrastructure that has been built and the policy decisions that have been made will create benefits for years to come, costs should be allocated fairly over time, so that residential consumers in the future pay their fair share for the benefits that they receive from the investments already made.

Principles

(3) In preparing the Financing Plan, the Financial Services Manager shall have regard to the following principles:

1. Funding obligations should be incurred such that, along with any funding obligations already incurred, the estimated finance amount that would, subject to any refinancing, become due and payable during a reference period will reasonably align with the fair allocation amount determined in respect of the reference period, in each case after reducing the fair allocation amount to reflect determinations of the Board under Part II in respect of the reference period.

2. Incurrences should be implemented in a manner that, in the opinion of the Financial Services Manager, is reasonable, cost effective and that reflects prevailing market terms and conditions.

(a) the amounts are payable in respect of a reference period in respect of which the Board has not made any determinations under Part II; or

Same

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

Deemed perfection, etc.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

Investment asset, irrevocable rights and interests

29. (1) The investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of investment interest owners:

1. The right and interest to impose, invoice, collect, receive and recover the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers, including the right to determine the clean energy adjustment in accordance with this Act.

No set off, etc.

(3) The investment asset shall not be set off,

Collective action required

(5) If one investment interest owner owns a right or interest in the investment asset that comprises less than the entire property right and interest constituted by the investment asset, the right or interest shall only be enforced by the investment interest owner collectively and in coordination with all other investment interest owners, and any agreement among that collective in furtherance of the collective action shall be valid and binding on the investment interest owners as a collective in accordance with its terms.

Transfer of investment interest

30. An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan.

Validity of transfer

31. (1) A transfer of an investment interest under this Act is a valid and enforceable sale and absolute transfer of the investment interest and confers upon the transferee a valid property right and interest in, to and under the applicable investment interest acquired in accordance with the terms of the transfer.

Same

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), a transfer that by its terms is intended to constitute a sale or absolute transfer shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute transfer of an investment interest owner's right, title and interest in, to and under an investment interest, and not merely as a security interest, and upon such absolute transfer the transferor shall retain no right, title or interest in the investment interest subject to the transfer, including all rights to the investment interest arising after the transfer.

Deemed perfection, etc.

(3) At the time a transfer of an investment interest is made, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected as described in the Personal Property Security Act, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

Priority of transfer, assignment, etc.

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer, and the property rights and interests acquired by the investment interest owner shall have priority over any liens in favour of such other persons.

Investment interest owner may grant security interest

32. (1) An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation.

Validity

(2) A security interest granted under this Act shall be valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms.

Perfection and priority of security interests

(3) All provisions of the Personal Property Security Act shall apply to the investment asset and each investment interest on the basis that the investment asset and each investment interest is intangible personal property, except as otherwise provided for in this section, and any granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner to secure a funding obligation shall, subject to the terms of the funding obligation, give rise to a security interest in respect of which that Act applies and may be perfected by registering a financing statement under that Act on that basis.

Proceeds

(4) All proceeds of an investment interest that are subject to the security interest and that are received by the investment interest owner shall immediately be subject to the security interest and shall be perfected without any physical delivery of the proceeds, registration of any financing statement or any further act.

Perfection

(5) The security interest shall be a continuously perfected security interest and shall have priority over any other lien, created by operation of law or otherwise, that may subsequently attach to the property rights and interests in the investment interest subject to the security interest, unless the person to whom the security interest has been granted consents otherwise.

Same

(6) The person to whom the security interest has been granted shall have a perfected security interest in revenues or other proceeds that are deposited in any account of any electricity vendor, an agent of an electricity vendor or other person who may have commingled such revenues or other proceeds with other funds.

The Board of Directors

Dear Sirs,

We have been engaged to provide you with an accounting opinion on the application of Public Sector Accounting Standards to the consolidation of a trust and to the recognition and derecognition of a variance account in relation to Bill 132, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 as tabled in the first reading ("Bill 132") (Appendix A to this letter). This letter is being issued to the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO" or the "Company") in connection with its evaluation of the consolidation requirements and the accounting for the variance account under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards ("PSAS"). Our engagement has been conducted in accordance with generally accepted standards in Canada for such engagements.

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific issues described below rests with management of the Company as preparers of the financial statements.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act, 1998 ("the Electricity Act") and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB" or the "Board") Act, 1998 ("the OEB Act")), and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the trust to be established by OPG) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific matters described below is based on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us. The finalization of the legislation, regulations, financing structure and other agreements may impact the comments and conclusions set out herein. Our comments and conclusions are based on Bill 132 and related matters as they exist at the date of this letter.

The following three issues are addressed in this letter:

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by Ontario Power Generation (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and therefore subject to consolidation by IESO?

KPMG LLP is a Canadian limited liability partnership and a member firm of the KPMG network of independent member firms affiliated with KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity. KPMG Canada provides services to KPMG LLP.

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Background for issue #1

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party) are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act. Management of the IESO has determined that the Company is an Other Governmental Organization and accordingly prepares its financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

2. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act and the OEB Act.

3. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 3 New Accounting Policies, audited by KPMG "As of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy regarding the recognition of assets and liabilities subject to rate regulation. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model. This change has been applied retroactively and has increased amounts previously unrecorded for regulatory assets and decreased amounts previously reported for accumulated deficit."

4. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 2(d) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, Regulatory assets and liabilities. "As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO applies guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations ("ASC 980"), in this policy."

5. Extract from Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act: In approving or fixing rates under subsection (3.1),

   (a) the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect these costs; and

   (b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct.

6. Currently, IESO recognizes two regulatory assets for unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items as permitted by rates approved by the OEB. In addition, in accordance with section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, IESO also recognizes variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation ("OEFC"), distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract.

7. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts of Bill 132:

   Section 1 Definitions, Transfer of regulatory asset

   (3) In this Act, a reference to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset is a reference to the following, as provided for in subsection 26 (3):

1. A reduction in the balance in the variance account.
2. The adjustment of the regulatory asset.
3. The acquisition by a financing entity of the investment interest corresponding to the specified portion of the regulatory asset.

Section 24 Variance account to be established, maintained

(1) IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.
2. All payments received by IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.
3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

(3) No change made by IESO to the balance in the variance account shall, if the previous balance was relied upon by an investment interest owner in the context of a transfer under section 26, affect the rights acquired by the investment interest owner under the transfer.

Section 25 Regulatory asset established

(1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

(3) IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Section 34 Board's Authority

(2) Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing.

8. It is expected that the IESO deferral recorded by the IESO in the variance account (the regulatory asset) will be transferred to an investment asset owner (i.e. a trust to be established by OPG) on a monthly basis and cash collected within a short period of time. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #1

ASC 980 Regulated Operations

– For general-purpose financial reporting, an incurred cost for which a regulator permits recovery in a future period is accounted for like an incurred cost that is reimbursable under a cost-reimbursement-type contract. [980-10-05-6]

- Unless an accounting order indicates the way a cost will be handled for rate-making purposes, it causes no economic effects that would justify deviation from the GAAP applicable to business entities in general. The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP. [980-10-05-8]
- The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:
  (a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
  (b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form.
  (c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs. [980-10-15-2]
- Incurred Cost - A cost arising from cash paid out or obligation to pay for an acquired asset or service, a loss from any cause that has been sustained and has been or must be paid for. [980-10-20] Glossary
- Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:
  (a) Deregulation.
  (b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.
  (c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).
  (d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [980-20-15-2]
- Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:
  (a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
  (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date. [980-340-25-1]

- Rate actions of a regulator can reduce or eliminate the value of an asset. If a regulator excludes all or part of a cost from allowable costs, the carrying amount of any asset recognized pursuant to paragraph 980-340-25-1 shall be reduced to the extent of the excluded cost. Whether other assets have been impaired shall be judged the same as for entities in general and the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets Subsections of Subtopic 360-10 shall apply. [980-340-35-1]
- If at any time an entity's incurred cost no longer meets the criteria for the capitalization of an incurred cost (see paragraph 980-340-25-1), that cost shall be charged to earnings. [980-340-40-1]
- In some cases, a regulator may approve rates that are intended to recover an incurred cost over an extended period without a return on the unrecovered cost during the recovery period. [980-340-55-2]
- The regulator's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset (see paragraph 980-340-25-1). Accordingly, the regulated entity would capitalize the cost and amortize it over the period during which it will be allowed for rate-making purposes. That cost would not be recorded at discounted present value. An exception to this general rule is provided for costs of abandoned plants. [980-340-55-3]

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

As noted above, as of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation and now applies guidance from US GAAP Topic 980, Regulated Operations, as PSAS does not have any specific guidance for entities with rate-regulated activities.

IESO concluded that it met the requirements of PS2120.02, which allows them to reflect the impacts of rate regulation, as it is considered that the change of accounting policy in its 2016 financial statements resulted in a more appropriate presentation of transactions in its financial statements. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model.

The regulatory framework in Ontario relating to the generation and sale of electricity will be significantly impacted by Bill 132. Currently, a substantial amount of the energy purchased from the generators is collected by IESO from the local distribution companies through the customer billing, with the remaining being recovered through variance accounts over a period of 12 months maximum. As mentioned above, the effect of Bill 132 is to defer the collection of a total estimated amount of $28 billion (plus interest) of energy purchased from the generators over a period of 30 years. Bill 132 will not permit IESO to collect the IESO deferral before May 1, 2021 and the recovery process will be established through regulations. Such a long-term deferred recovery plan requires IESO to consider whether the uncollected energy costs qualify for deferral as a regulatory asset and whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow IESO to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980. These two accounting issues are analyzed in the two tables below.

Criteria for the recognition of regulatory assets

ASC 980-340-25-1 states that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) It is probable that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. (emphasis added) If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.	Bill 132 notes that, • A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording. • Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers. • The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. • The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021. Based on Bill 132, IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. As a result, it is clear that the IESO will be able to recover the amount previously incurred rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs.	Met

Deferred recovery plans are plans adopted by regulators or legislations in response to significant increases in costs (e.g. purchased power costs). These plans typically provide for rates to remain fixed or increase moderately with a variance account mechanism to capture costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. A regulated utility subject to such plans is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow it to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980, especially criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

The proposed plan for the recovery of purchase power costs over a 30 year period is considered a deferred recovery plan as the rates for the first four years will remain fixed and subsequently the rates will increase moderately with a variance account to capture energy costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. The following is an analysis of the ASC 980-10-15-2 criteria.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party	Currently, IESO recognizes regulatory assets related to smart meters and PSAS transition costs as permitted by rates approved by the OEB and regulatory liabilities related to the variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act related to the procurement of energy.	Met

regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.	It is important to note that both Hydro One and OPG are classified as Government Business Enterprises and are reporting under IFRS in their consolidated financial statements, are consolidated by the modified equity method into the province's books, are regulated by the OEB, and their respective regulatory assets and liabilities are reported in the province's books.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.	Currently, the rates approved by the OEB are designed to recover the IESO's costs of providing the regulated services and the pass-through related to the energy purchased from the generators.

	As mentioned above, a regulated utility subject to a deferred recovery plan is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

	This criterion requires a cause-and-effect relationship between a reporting entity's costs and its revenue. In addition, the timing of cost recovery and the related frequency of ratemaking is important. A reporting entity should consider its rate case experience, including the design of its rates and timing of recovery, when determining whether this criterion is met. These factors are analyzed below.

	Frequency of rate case

	- Currently, IESO is subject to OEB's annual reviews.
	- Although the recovery of purchase energy costs will be frozen at the approved rate on May 1, 2017 for the first four years, the IESO will be granted a right to recover after May 1, 2021 the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account during the four-year period.
	  - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance, as of the time of the recording. (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review by the OEB)
	  - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  - Obligation on the part of the OEB to dispose the variance account in accordance with the regulation.
	- Subsequent to May 1, 2021, the OEB will be required to determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
		Met

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	- The Board shall, from time to time, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing. Rates are designed to recover incurred costs - There is a cause-and-effect relationship between the purchase energy costs and revenue, as IESO will be allowed to recover the costs incurred. - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review). - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Obligation on the part of the OEB to ensure IESO will recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Periods of alternative ratemaking (e.g., rate freezes) Evaluation of the second criterion requires additional judgment if the regulated utility is subject to any form of ratemaking that introduces uncertainty about the cause-and-effect relationship between costs and rates. A rate freeze period is defined as a fixed rate that is charged to customers during a period of time (more than two years) and the utilities are exposed to increases in operating and energy costs with no ability to recover the variances. This is not the case as IESO will be granted the right to recover fully the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, including the first four-year period. - The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Costs uncertainty As the IESO will be granted the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no uncertainty about the recovery of the costs.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	Disallowances of costs The OEB has never disallowed the recovery of any material costs incurred by the IESO. More importantly, as the IESO will be granted by legislation the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no risk of the potential disallowance of the purchase power costs. Based on the analysis of the above factors, there are no indications that this criterion would not be met. The above factors establish that there will be a direct cause-and-effect relationship between IESO's costs and its future collection.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."	The remaining criterion is whether limitations, including considering demand levels at the approved rates, on the extent of recovery of the regulatory asset could prevent the IESO from recognizing a regulatory asset for the entire balance in the recovery right granted to the IESO.

	Bill 132 notes that:

	- Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO's right to recover the balance in the variance account is subject to the following:
	  o The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified customers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  o IESO shall not be entitled to collect the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

	Although the process, especially the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not been established yet by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over the period of 30 years. Further, given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. As with the other criteria, this will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the IESO can recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132 based on the foregoing analysis.

The variance account created by Bill 132 is subject to rate regulation by the OEB and the variance account will be established with the right to collect funds against the variance amount in the future. In these circumstances, the IESO is able to establish a regulatory asset. The IESO financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards. Although PSAB does not provide specific guidance on rate regulated accounting, it does under PS 1150 Generally Accepted Accounting Principles allow for guidance to be followed from other accounting frameworks. IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations in its accounting policies.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Background for Issue #2

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issue #1, are as follows:

1. The IESO currently has the right to collect the global adjustment ("GA") monthly from ratepayers through provisions in the Electricity Act. It is proposed that collection of a certain portion of the monthly GA be deferred in a regulatory asset for collection in the future, and that the right to recover the deferred GA from ratepayers be used as the basis for structured financing/ securitization.
2. In connection with Bill 132, it is proposed that a trust be established as a financial vehicle by OPG (the "OPG Trust") in connection with the deferred GA. The OPG Trust will finance the deferral of the GA by purchasing the regulatory asset from the IESO for the principal amount of the GA being deferred.
3. The OPG Trust is expected to finance these purchases from the IESO through a combination of senior secured financing raised in the capital markets, and subordinated financing from OPG (the funding for which will mostly be from equity injections from the OEFC/Province of Ontario).
4. OPG will be appointed as the Financial Services Manager and will be given the responsibility to direct the activities of the OPG Trust, through a services agreement and/or through the Trust's constating documents.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #2

PS1300 Government Reporting Entity:

PSAS refer to government or government organizations. For the purpose of this analysis, the PSAS guidance below relating to government or government organizations should be read and understood as being the IESO (emphasis added).

- The government reporting entity should comprise government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government. [PS 1300.07]
- Control is the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities. [PS 1300.08] (emphasis added).
- Whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that must be determined by reference to the definition of control established in paragraph PS 1300.08 and the particular circumstances of each case. The determination of the fact that control exists will require the application of professional judgment. Government achieves its objectives through a wide range of organizations which individually will fall somewhere along a continuum. At one end of the continuum, it will be clear that an organization does not have the power to act independently and is controlled by the government. At the other end, the organization will have the power to act independently and, while government will have a level of influence on the organization, it will be clear that it does not have control. Along the continuum, consideration needs to be given to the nature of the relationship between the government and the organization in order to determine whether control exists. This Section provides guidance intended to assist in this assessment. [PS 1300.10]
- In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between the government and the organization. The true nature of certain relationships may not be completely reflected by their legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. Where various aspects of the relationship are designed, in effect, to achieve an overall objective, they would be viewed as a whole. [PS 1300.11]
- Financial and operating policies are principles and practices that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control because it establishes the fundamental basis for the conduct of the organization's operations and the achievement of its mission and mandate. [PS 1300.13]
- There are a variety of ways to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization. For example:
  (a) a government may establish an organization's fundamental purpose and eliminate or significantly limit the ability of the organization to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the organization;
  (b) a government may direct the financial and operating policies of an organization on an ongoing basis; or
  (c) a government may veto, overrule or modify the financial and operating policies established by an organization. [PS 1300.14]
- A government does not need to manage an organization's activities on a day-to-day basis to control the organization. It is the government's existing authority to determine the policies governing those activities that is important. [PS 1300.15]

– For the purposes of this Section, it is assumed that where the government has the power to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization, it expects to derive a financial or non-financial benefit. The government may also be exposed to the risk of loss. [PS 1300.16]

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by OPG (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and, therefore, subject to consolidation by IESO?

Under PSAS, IESO is required to consolidate all entities that are considered to be part of its reporting entity, applying the guidance provided in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity. Under PS 1300, IESO must consolidate all entities it "controls".

In determining whether or not the OPG Trust should be consolidated by IESO, it must first be determined whether or not the IESO exercises control as a consequence of power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust resulting in expected benefits to the IESO or the risk of loss from the activities of the OPG Trust.

PS 1300.17 indicates that "whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that requires the application of professional judgment based on the definition of control in this Section and the substance of the relationship in each case." Under PS 1300.08 control is defined as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities". Therefore, the determination of whether IESO will consolidate the OPG Trust will be based on an assessment of whether IESO is considered to control the OPG Trust based on the indicia of control set out in PS 1300. The assessment of the IESO's control of the OPG Trust is made based on Bill 132, facts and nature of the relationship between the IESO and the OPG Trust and based on facts and assumptions provided by IESO. PS 1300.18 and .19 set out 11 potential indicia of control. Several of these indicia have been categorized as more persuasive of a finding of control (see the first four indicators in the table below). For each indicator that applies, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. Finally, the indicia are considered both collectively and individually.

A detailed analysis of the 11 Indicators of control is provided in the following table.

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
Primary (more persuasive) indicators (PS 1300.18):
Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	- Bill 132 states: - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18) - The Financial Services Manager shall perform the duties assigned to it under this Act and may administer the investment asset on behalf of the investment interest owners. (Section 19 (1)) - Subject to any prescribed limitations, the Financial Services Manager may establish and charge fees in relation to such matters as may be prescribed in accordance with the regulations, which regulations may provide for the ability to recover costs and expenditures and to earn a return. (Section 19 (3))	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?

	- The Electricity Act will be amended as follows:
	  - In addition to the objects mentioned in subsection (1), the objects of OPG include exercising the powers and rights and performing the duties and obligations assigned to it under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and engaging in activities to facilitate the implementation of that Act, including entering into contracts and undertakings on behalf of financing entities and performing other services on behalf of financing entities, subject to the right to be paid by the financing entities for those services. (Section 53.1 (1.1))
	  - OPG may create or invest in one or more subsidiaries, trusts, partnerships or special purpose entities in order to more efficiently conduct its activities or achieve its objects. (Section 53.1 (1.2))
	- OPG will establish a trust to manage the collection of the regulatory asset and related financing and administrative expenses. The Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust will be the governing body of the Trust and will be appointed by OPG. OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees.
	- The IESO will not have any rights in respect of the appointment or replacement of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust.

Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	- Section 27 of Bill 132 states:
	  - A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.
	  - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.
		No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. - Based on Bill 132, upon transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, the investment asset resulting from the transfer is immediately vested in the OPG Trust, free and clear of any adverse claim. (Section 28 (2)). - Therefore, upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, IESO will no longer have access/ability to direct the regulatory asset nor have the ongoing responsibility for losses. - The credit risk related to the collection of the investment asset is borne by the OPG Trust.
Government holds the majority of the voting shares or a "golden share" that confers the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the organization	- IESO will not have any ownership in the OPG Trust and will not have the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust.	No
Government has the unilateral power to dissolve the organization and thereby access its assets and become responsible for its obligations	- IESO will not have the power to dissolve the organization.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
Other indicators that may provide evidence of control exist when government has the power to (PS 1300.18):
Provide significant input into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust. - IESO will not provide any input in the appointment of members of the Board of Trustees.	No
Appoint or remove the CEO or other key personnel	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust and other key personnel.	No
Establish or amend the mission or mandate of the organization	- The Trust will be established by OPG and the mandate of the Trust will be set based on Bill 132.	No

Approve the business plans or budgets for the organization and require amendments, either on a net or line-by-line basis	- Bill 132 states:
	  - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18)
	  - The Financial Services Manager shall prepare a written plan entitled the Financing Plan to be used by the Financial Services Manager to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred for the purposes of acquiring and financing an investment asset in accordance with this Act or for the purposes of refinancing. (Section 16 (1))
	- OPG is the Financial Services Manager, not IESO.
	- IESO is not involved in the preparation or approval of the business plans or budget of the OPG Trust.
		No

Establish borrowing or investment limits or restrict the organization's investments	- Section 22 of Bill 132 states: - The Financial Services Manager shall ensure that funding obligations incurred for the purposes of this Act are incurred in a manner that is consistent with the applicable Financing Plan.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- OPG not IESO, is responsible for ensuring that the borrowings of the OPG Trust meet the above conditions.
Restrict the revenue-generating capacity of the organization, notably the sources of revenue	- N/A	No
Establish or amend the policies that the organization uses to manage, such as those relating to accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources	- As mentioned above, OPG will be granted by legislation the power to establish or amend the policies of the OPG Trust and the ability to appoint and remove all members of the Board of Trustees.	No

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the OPG Trust to be established would not be controlled by the IESO and therefore is not subject to consolidation by the IESO.

Based on the foregoing analysis of the 11 indicators of control as defined in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity, considered both individually and collectively there is no evidence of control by the IESO in respect of the OPG Trust. The IESO will not have the power to govern the Trust, nor have ongoing access to Trust's assets. The IESO will also not have any voting shares or future rights to the Trust nor the power to dissolve the Trust. Without control, the Trust is not subject to consolidation within the IESO financial statements.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that based on Bill 132, none of the four primary (more persuasive) indicators of control are considered to be met, and none of the seven other indicators of control are considered to be met. Accordingly, we concur that the IESO does not control the OPG Trust under Bill 132 and hence would not consolidate the OPG Trust.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act and the OEB Act) and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the OPG Trust) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS to the conclusion on control may change subject to further analysis of any changes to the terms of Bill 132 or review of the final regulations, financing structure and other agreements.

Background for Issue #3

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issues #1 and 2, are as follows:

1. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest and will be recorded by the IESO in a variance account recognized as a regulatory asset.
2. The IESO does not currently have the financial capability to finance the regulatory asset and will transfer the variance account to an investment asset owner (i.e. OPG Trust) on a monthly basis.
3. The IESO will obtain a written legal opinion as to the validity and enforceability of the transfer and sale of the regulatory asset.
4. Based on an assessment of control performed under the issue #2, IESO will not consolidate the OPG Trust. We understand that an assessment of control under International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") has been performed by OPG and they have concluded that the OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG; we note that the financial reporting framework used by OPG in preparing its financial statements for consolidation into the Province's books is IFRS.
5. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts from Bill 132:

   Section 16 IESO to receive amounts

   (2) The IESO shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, receive amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment paid to it from electricity vendors in accordance with the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or the regulations.

   (4) All amounts received by the IESO in respect of the clean energy adjustment shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owner, be held in trust by the IESO for the investment interest owners.

   (5) The IESO shall remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, inclusive of interest earned on the amounts referred to in subsection (1), to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with the regulations.

   Section 17 Pro rating of payments

   (4) If an electricity vendor receives a payment made by or on behalf of a specified consumer in respect of amounts payable under one or more invoices and the amount paid is less than the total amount payable, the electricity vendor shall allocate the payment on a pro rata basis to the clean energy adjustment and other amounts payable under the relevant invoices in respect of electricity charges in respect of the same invoice period.

   Section 26 Transfer of regulatory asset

   (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

   (2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the investment interest.

Section 27 Validity of transfer

(1) A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer and the property rights and interests acquired by the transferee shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons.

Section 29 Investment asset, irrevocable rights and interests

(1) The investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of investment interest owners:

1. The right and interest to impose, invoice, collect, receive and recover the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers, including the right to determine the clean energy adjustment in accordance with this Act.

2. The right to receive, collect and recover the clean energy adjustment that is imposed, invoiced and recoverable under this Act, including any amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment that are held by electricity vendors, IESO and other prescribed parties.

Section 30 Transfer of investment interest

(2) An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan.

Section 32 Investment interest owner may grant security interest

(1) An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation.

(3) All provisions of the Personal Property Security Act shall apply to the investment asset and each investment interest on the basis that the investment asset and each investment interest is intangible personal property, except as otherwise provided for in this section, and any granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner to secure a funding obligation shall, subject to the terms of the funding obligation, give rise to a security interest in respect of which that Act applies and may be perfected by registering a financing statement under that Act on that basis.

6. The terms of the transfer agreement between the IESO and the OPG Trust that will be signed and executed upon transfer of the regulatory assets will be in compliance with the dispositions of Bill 132.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #3

The Derecognition Section of ASC 980-20-40 provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation. [ASC 980-20-40]

Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:

(a) Deregulation.

(b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.

(c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).

(d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [ASC 980-20-15-2]

PS1000 Financial statement concepts:

– This Section is to be used by preparers and auditors of financial statements in exercising their professional judgment as to the application of generally accepted accounting principles and in establishing accounting policies in areas in which accounting principles are developing. [PS1000.03]

– Financial statements should communicate information that is relevant to the needs of those for whom the statements are prepared, reliable, comparable, understandable and clearly presented in a manner that maximizes its usefulness. [PS1000.24]

– An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [PS3210.04]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

  (a) no future economic benefit;

  (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or

  (c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred. [PS1000.37]

PS3210 Assets:

- Assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. [PS3210.03]
- Assets have three essential characteristics:
  (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows.
  (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits.
  (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. [PS3210.04]
- Control of an economic resource and of access to the future economic benefits are essential characteristics of an asset, whereas possession or ownership is not. [PS3210.22]

PS3430 Restructuring transactions [1]

- Individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date. [PS3430.21]
- When a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether:
  (a) derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate; and
  (b) its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized. [PS3430.24]
- A new asset or new liability may arise from a restructuring due to a transferor's continued involvement in the individual assets and liabilities transferred (for example, if it agrees to guarantee repayment of all or a portion of a transferred liability or leases back a portion of a transferred asset). As the new asset or new liability is not transferred, together with related program or operating responsibilities, they are not part of the restructuring transaction. They would be accounted for in accordance with individual Sections of the PSA Handbook by both the transferors and recipients. [PS3430.25]

1 This Section applies to fiscal years beginning on or after April 1, 2018. […] Earlier adoption is permitted."

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Although ASC 980-20-40 states that

> "Derecognition Section provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation."

Subtopic 980-20 relates to discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting when an entity no longer meets the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2. ASC 980-20-15-2 provides examples of when an entity no longer meets the criteria, including deregulation and change of the form of regulation. Thus, ASC 980 does not provide clear guidance for the derecognition of a regulatory asset other than in connection with the discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting.

The above guidance in ASC 980-20-40 provides general principles for the derecognition of assets.

It should also be noted that PSAS provide limited guidance on derecognition of non-financial assets and liabilities. Section 3430 Restructuring transactions, which is applicable for fiscal years on or after April 1, 2018 with early application permitted, has guidance for the derecognition of assets and liabilities.

- Paragraph 21 states that individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date.
- As stated in paragraph 24, when a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate and whether its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized.

Recognizing the proposed transaction is not a restructuring transaction, Section 3430, which has recently been issued by PSAB, provides current evidence of thinking in the application of the general PSAS principles in respect of the recognition and derecognition of assets and liabilities. Accordingly, the analysis as to whether the regulatory asset transferred to the OPG Trust can be derecognized is based on the foregoing guidance.

Criteria for the recognition of an asset

PS3210.03 states that assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. More generally, PSAS PS1000.37 suggests that an asset would no longer be recognized when it fails to meet the definition of an asset:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
Assets (PS3210.04/ PS1000.36): Assets have three essential characteristics: (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows,	Based on the guidance, the regulatory asset does not qualify as an asset of IESO if it cannot obtain the future economic benefits. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, IESO will have no further rights or obligations in connection with the asset transferred. - IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section. - Upon receipt by IESO of the payment by the financing entity, IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.	Not Met

or to reduce cash outflows. (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits. (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. Financial statement concepts (PS1000.37): An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [see above]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves: (a) no future economic benefit (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it.	- A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee. - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest. - At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, the OPG Trust will have the right to sell the asset to another party or to grant a security interest in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. - Upon transfer, the financing entity becomes an investment asset owner and acquires an investment interest. - An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan. - An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. Based on Bill 132, it is clear that IESO will have no rights to the benefits associated with the future cash inflows related to the regulatory asset as it will have transferred its right to recover the IESO deferral to the OPG Trust. Further, it is also clear that IESO will have lost control over the regulatory asset once it is transferred to OPG Trust.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the regulatory asset will be derecognized upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust.

The transfer of the regulatory asset transfers the control and the benefits associated with the right to collect funds in the future against the variance amount to the OPG Trust. This will eliminate the IESO asset by the amount of the transfer as the IESO will no longer control an economic resource or have access to future economic benefits for that amount. The funds collected from the transfer will in turn reduce the associated debt held by the IESO, maintaining the IESO's net $ nil balance in the market accounts.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the regulatory asset should be derecognized on transfer to the OPG Trust as IESO no longer has rights or future economic benefits associated with the asset.

Other Matters

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transactions rests with management as preparers of the financial statements. Fair Hydro Act, 2017

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Bill enacts a new Act and makes amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

ONTARIO FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACT, 2017

The Schedule enacts the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. The Act establishes a framework under which the costs and benefits associated with the "clean energy initiative" are to be allocated among present and future consumers of electricity. The "clean energy initiative" is defined in Part I as consisting of the policies of the Government of Ontario related to such matters as eliminating coal generation and fostering the growth of and investment in clean, modern and reliable energy sources and technologies.

Under Part II, the Ontario Energy Board is required to determine reduced electricity rates and to determine other adjustments to be made for certain classes of consumers in respect of specified periods of time. For example, for the class of consumers referred to as "regulated rate consumers", the electricity rates payable for the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 are the rates, as determined by the Board, that would achieve a 25 per cent reduction in certain costs for a hypothetical member of the class who meets prescribed criteria. Details regarding the determinations are prescribed by regulations.

Part III requires certain electricity consumers to pay an amount in respect of the "clean energy adjustment". The clean energy adjustment is determined by the Financial Services Manager in accordance with rules set out in the Act and the regulations. (Section 18 of the Act appoints Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager.) Part III also specifies the roles and responsibilities of electricity vendors and the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO") with respect to the collection and remittance of amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment.

Part IV requires the Minister of Energy to calculate a "fair allocation amount" by taking specified steps in accordance with principles and assumptions set out in the Act. For example, the Act provides that the purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among certain consumers. Part IV also requires the Financial Services Manager to prepare a written plan entitled the "Financing Plan", which is to be used to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred. Principles and limitations regarding the preparation and implementation of the plan are provided.

Part V requires the IESO to determine the "IESO deferral" in accordance with the regulations and to establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the IESO deferral each month. A "regulatory asset" is created under section 25; the IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from certain consumers. The IESO is authorized to transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity; this transfer results in the creation of the investment asset and the acquisition by the transferee of a corresponding "investment interest". Various rules respecting the validity and priority of a transfer of an investment asset are set out.

In Part VI, rules in respect of the "investment asset" are provided. Section 29 provides that the investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest, consisting collectively of various specified rights and interests of investment interest owners. Rules respecting the validity and priority of such a transfer and the granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner are included.

Part VII deals with various miscellaneous matters, including regulation-making authority of the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

The Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 are amended to address various matters relating to the enactment of the new Act. For example, the objects of the IESO and Ontario Power Generation Inc. are expanded to address powers and duties under the new Act.

AMENDMENTS TO THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD ACT, 1998

The Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 is amended. Among the amendments:

1. Section 79 of the Act is amended so that compensation for the rate protection provided to certain classes of rural or remote consumers may be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature, rather than by consumers.

2. Section 79.2 of the Act, which governs the Ontario Electricity Support Program, is repealed and replaced. The program is continued, but will be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature after the variance account maintained by the Independent Electricity System Operator, formerly established under the Plan, is exhausted, rather than by consumers. There are provisions relating to the sharing, use and disclosure of information relating to the administration of the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

3. Programs are established to aid certain distribution rate-protected residential consumers and on-reserve consumers.

4. Various amendments of a technical and administrative nature are made to support the implementation and oversight of these programs including provisions related to auditing, record-keeping, inspections and inquiries, offences and penalties.

Preamble

The Government of Ontario is committed to fostering the development of a clean, modern and reliable electricity system with a diverse supply mix. The Government is also committed to removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for renewable and clean energy projects. These commitments can only be achieved if costs are shared fairly among consumers, today and in the future.

Electricity rates have risen for two key reasons. First, decades of under-investment in the electricity system resulted in the need to invest more than $50 billion in generation, transmission and distribution assets to ensure the system is clean and reliable. Second, the decision to eliminate Ontario's use of coal and produce clean, renewable power has created additional costs.

The actions taken to achieve a clean, modern and reliable electricity system have resulted in significant costs to residential consumers. The burden of financing these system improvements and funding key programs has unfairly fallen almost entirely on the shoulders of those consumers.

The Government of Ontario is committed to ensuring that the costs of financing these investments and the associated charges to consumers are allocated fairly among present and future generations.

Recognizing that the electricity infrastructure that has been built and the policy decisions that have been made will create benefits for years to come, costs should be allocated fairly over time, so that residential consumers in the future pay their fair share for the benefits that they receive from the investments already made.

Comparison rates

(2) The comparison rates are the rates that would have been effective May 1, 2017 if they had been determined by the Board solely using the method prescribed by the regulations made under clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, without taking into account any forecasted impact of any other provisions of this Act.

Subsequent adjustments

11. (1) Despite clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and subject to subsection (2), the Lieutenant Governor in Council may prescribe the methodology to be applied by the Board after April 30, 2018 for the purpose of determining,

Regulations re true up amount

(2) The Lieutenant Governor in Council shall, in making regulations with respect to the determination of the true up amount, have regard to the following principles:

1. The true up amount should serve to ensure that the collection of the clean energy adjustment is sufficient to pay the finance amount when it is due.

2. The method for determining the true up amount should take into account historical and reasonably foreseeable,

    i. differences between the estimated and actual finance amount for the applicable reference period,

Fair Allocation Amount

Minister to calculate fair allocation amount

20. (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), before the first funding obligation is incurred the Minister shall calculate a fair allocation amount in respect of each reference period, applying such method as the Minister considers appropriate and in accordance with the following steps:

1. Determine the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits allocated to specified consumers in respect of the reference period.

2. Determine the estimated reduction in the amounts payable by specified consumers as a result of determinations of the Board under Part II in respect of all previous reference periods, including the estimated reduction in clean energy costs described in clause (a) of the definition of "clean energy costs" in subsection 1 (1) that would otherwise have been payable by specified consumers in the absence of this Act.

3. Determine the amount, if any, by which the determination under paragraph 1 exceeds the determination under paragraph 2.

4. Calculate the sum of the amount determined under paragraph 3 and such other amounts as may be prescribed.

Principles

(2) In calculating the fair allocation amount, the Minister shall have regard to the following principles:

1. The purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among the specified consumers in respect of each reference period.

2. Calculations should be made having regard to the need to align each fair allocation amount with the estimated finance amount payable during the reference period.

3. Estimated clean energy costs allocated to specified consumers in respect of a reference period should be allocated in proportion to the estimated clean energy benefits attributed to the specified consumers in respect of the reference period.

4. Such other principles as may be prescribed.

Assumptions

(3) In calculating the fair allocation amount, the Minister shall make such assumptions as the Minister considers to be reasonable regarding the following:

1. The time value of money or the rate of inflation, for the purpose of equating nominal amounts over time.

2. The expected number of specified consumers in respect of each reference period.

3. The expected electricity consumption rates in respect of each reference period.

4. Such other assumptions as may be prescribed.

Minister to provide amount to Financial Services Manager

(4) The Minister shall provide the fair allocation amount in respect of each reference period to the Financial Services Manager.

Recalculation

(5) A calculation of the fair allocation amount under this Part may be changed by such person as may be prescribed in accordance with such requirements as may be prescribed.

Same

(6) No change under subsection (5) shall affect any clean energy adjustment that has already been determined under section 15 or any funding obligations that have already been incurred before the change.

Information

(7) The Minister, the IESO, the Financial Services Manager, the Board and electricity vendors shall provide such information as may be prescribed in accordance with the regulations for the purposes of facilitating a change to a calculation of the fair allocation amount.

FINANCING PLAN

Financial Services Manager to prepare Financing Plan

21. (1) The Financial Services Manager shall prepare a written plan entitled the Financing Plan to be used by the Financial Services Manager to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred for the purposes of acquiring and financing an investment asset in accordance with this Act or for the purposes of a refinancing.

Plan to be provided to Minister

(2) The Financial Services Manager shall provide the Financing Plan to the Minister.

Principles

(3) In preparing the Financing Plan, the Financial Services Manager shall have regard to the following principles:

1. Funding obligations should be incurred such that, along with any funding obligations already incurred, the estimated finance amount that would, subject to any refinancing, become due and payable during a reference period will reasonably align with the fair allocation amount determined in respect of the reference period, in each case after reducing the fair allocation amount to reflect determinations of the Board under Part II in respect of the reference period.

2. Incurrences should be implemented in a manner that, in the opinion of the Financial Services Manager, is reasonable, cost effective and that reflects prevailing market terms and conditions.

3. Reasonable assumptions should be made regarding such matters as may be prescribed.

4. Such other principles as may be prescribed.

Limitation

(4) In respect of each reference period from July 1, 2017 to April 30, 2021, no funding obligation shall be incurred that would result in amounts payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment in respect of the reference period unless,

(a) the amounts are payable in respect of a reference period in respect of which the Board has not made any determinations under Part II; or

(b) if the Board has made a determination under Part II in respect of the reference period, the funding obligations incurred would not result in amounts payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment during the reference period in an amount that exceeds the limit determined in accordance with the regulations.

Other reports

(5) The Financial Services Manager shall submit to the Minister such reports and information as the Minister may require from time to time and shall, if required by the Minister to do so, examine, report and advise on any question relating to the Financing Plan.

Amendments to plan

(6) The Financial Services Manager may amend the Financing Plan at any time.

Same

(7) In the event that the Financing Plan is amended, any reference in this Act to the Financing Plan is deemed to be a reference to the plan as amended.

Incurrence of funding obligations

22. (1) The Financial Services Manager shall ensure that funding obligations incurred for the purposes of this Act are incurred in a manner that is consistent with the applicable Financing Plan.

Financing entities

(2) In accordance with the Financing Plan, the Financial Services Manager may establish or cause to be established one or more financing entities that may incur funding obligations.

Prohibition

(3) The Financial Services Manager shall not provide for funding obligations to be incurred with any recourse to any assets of an electricity vendor, the Board, Ontario Power Generation Inc., the Province or the Lieutenant Governor in Council, except to the extent that any of these persons or entities may be liable to perform obligations or duties arising under this Act or under the express terms of a funding obligation or other agreement.

Effect of amendment to fair allocation amount

(4) Each funding obligation incurred and each transfer made by a financing entity is deemed to be consistent with the Financing Plan and to provide for the reasonable alignment of the estimated finance amount with the fair allocation amount.

Same

(5) For greater certainty, subsection (4) applies despite the failure of the Financial Services Manager to comply with subsection (1).

Recording determinative

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

Rights of investment interest owner

(3) No change made by the IESO to the balance in the variance account shall, if the previous balance was relied upon by an investment interest owner in the context of a transfer under section 26, affect the rights acquired by the investment interest owner under the transfer.

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.

Validity of transfer

27. (1) A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.

Same

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

Deemed perfection, etc.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

Priority of transfer

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer and the property rights and interests acquired by the transferee shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons.

PART VI
THE INVESTMENT ASSET

Investment asset established

28. (1) The transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 creates an investment asset or, if it is not the first transfer, adds to the investment asset.

Same

(2) Upon transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 to a financing entity, the investment asset resulting from the transfer is immediately vested in the financing entity, free and clear of any adverse claim.

Investment asset, irrevocable rights and interests

5. The right to enforce the duties and obligations under this Act of each electricity vendor and the IESO to collect, receive and remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, including all collections and the proceeds of any enforcement action undertaken by any electricity vendor to recover payment of the clean energy adjustment.

6. All rights of any kind related to any of the other property rights or interests that comprise the investment interest, including any rights to receive funding rebates.

7. All revenue, collections, claims, payments, money and proceeds of or derived from the rights described in paragraphs 1 to 6, regardless of whether it is invoiced, collected and maintained together with or commingled with other revenue, collections, claims, payments, money and proceeds.

Not affected by failure to impose etc. clean energy adjustment

(2) An investment interest is not affected by any failure to impose, attribute, invoice, accrue or collect amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment.

No set off, etc.

(3) The investment asset shall not be set off,

(a) by a consumer, an electricity vendor, the IESO, an agent of the investment interest owners or an owner in the Province of a distribution system within the meaning of the Electricity Act, 1998;

(4) The rights of the investment interest owners to collect the clean energy adjustment and enforce their rights and interests in, to and in respect of the investment asset against a specified consumer shall be exercised in accordance with Part III of this Act.

Collective action required

(5) If one investment interest owner owns a right or interest in the investment asset that comprises less than the entire property right and interest constituted by the investment asset, the right or interest shall only be enforced by the investment interest owner collectively and in coordination with all other investment interest owners, and any agreement among that collective in furtherance of the collective action shall be valid and binding on the investment interest owners as a collective in accordance with its terms.

Transfer of investment interest

30. An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan.

Validity of transfer

31. (1) A transfer of an investment interest under this Act is a valid and enforceable sale and absolute transfer of the investment interest and confers upon the transferee a valid property right and interest in, to and under the applicable investment interest acquired in accordance with the terms of the transfer.

Same

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), a transfer that by its terms is intended to constitute a sale or absolute transfer shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute transfer of an investment interest owner's right, title and interest in, to and under an investment interest, and not merely as a security interest, and upon such absolute transfer the transferor shall retain no right, title or interest in the investment interest subject to the transfer, including all rights to the investment interest arising after the transfer.

Deemed perfection, etc.

(3) At the time a transfer of an investment interest is made, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected as described in the Personal Property Security Act, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

Priority of transfer, assignment, etc.

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer, and the property rights and interests acquired by the investment interest owner shall have priority over any liens in favour of such other persons.

Investment interest owner may grant security interest

32. (1) An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation.

Validity

(2) A security interest granted under this Act shall be valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms.

Perfection and priority of security interests

(3) All provisions of the Personal Property Security Act shall apply to the investment asset and each investment interest on the basis that the investment asset and each investment interest is intangible personal property, except as otherwise provided for in this section, and any granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner to secure a funding obligation shall, subject to the terms of the funding obligation, give rise to a security interest in respect of which that Act applies and may be perfected by registering a financing statement under that Act on that basis.

Proceeds

(4) All proceeds of an investment interest that are subject to the security interest and that are received by the investment interest owner shall immediately be subject to the security interest and shall be perfected without any physical delivery of the proceeds, registration of any financing statement or any further act.

Perfection

(5) The security interest shall be a continuously perfected security interest and shall have priority over any other lien, created by operation of law or otherwise, that may subsequently attach to the property rights and interests in the investment interest subject to the security interest, unless the person to whom the security interest has been granted consents otherwise.

Same

(6) The person to whom the security interest has been granted shall have a perfected security interest in revenues or other proceeds that are deposited in any account of any electricity vendor, an agent of an electricity vendor or other person who may have commingled such revenues or other proceeds with other funds.

The Board of Directors

Dear Sirs,

We have been engaged to provide you with an accounting opinion on the application of Public Sector Accounting Standards to the consolidation of a trust and to the recognition and derecognition of a variance account in relation to Bill 132, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 as tabled in the first reading ("Bill 132") (Appendix A to this letter). This letter is being issued to the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO" or the "Company") in connection with its evaluation of the consolidation requirements and the accounting for the variance account under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards ("PSAS"). Our engagement has been conducted in accordance with generally accepted standards in Canada for such engagements.

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific issues described below rests with management of the Company as preparers of the financial statements.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act, 1998 ("the Electricity Act") and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB" or the "Board") Act, 1998 ("the OEB Act")), and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the trust to be established by OPG) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific matters described below is based on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us. The finalization of the legislation, regulations, financing structure and other agreements may impact the comments and conclusions set out herein. Our comments and conclusions are based on Bill 132 and related matters as they exist at the date of this letter.

The following three issues are addressed in this letter:

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by Ontario Power Generation (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and therefore subject to consolidation by IESO?

KPMG LLP is a Canadian limited liability partnership and a member firm of the KPMG network of independent member firms affiliated with KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity. KPMG Canada provides services to KPMG LLP.

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Background for issue #1

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party) are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act. Management of the IESO has determined that the Company is an Other Governmental Organization and accordingly prepares its financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

2. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act and the OEB Act.

3. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 3 New Accounting Policies, audited by KPMG "As of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy regarding the recognition of assets and liabilities subject to rate regulation. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model. This change has been applied retroactively and has increased amounts previously unrecorded for regulatory assets and decreased amounts previously reported for accumulated deficit."

4. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 2(d) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, Regulatory assets and liabilities. "As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO applies guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations ("ASC 980"), in this policy."

5. Extract from Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act: In approving or fixing rates under subsection (3.1),

   (a) the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect these costs; and

   (b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct.

6. Currently, IESO recognizes two regulatory assets for unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items as permitted by rates approved by the OEB. In addition, in accordance with section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, IESO also recognizes variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation ("OEFC"), distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract.

7. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts of Bill 132:

   Section 1 Definitions, Transfer of regulatory asset

   (3) In this Act, a reference to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset is a reference to the following, as provided for in subsection 26 (3):

1. A reduction in the balance in the variance account.
2. The adjustment of the regulatory asset.
3. The acquisition by a financing entity of the investment interest corresponding to the specified portion of the regulatory asset.

Section 24 Variance account to be established, maintained

(1) IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.
2. All payments received by IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.
3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

(3) No change made by IESO to the balance in the variance account shall, if the previous balance was relied upon by an investment interest owner in the context of a transfer under section 26, affect the rights acquired by the investment interest owner under the transfer.

Section 25 Regulatory asset established

(1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

(3) IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Section 34 Board's Authority

(2) Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing.

8. It is expected that the IESO deferral recorded by the IESO in the variance account (the regulatory asset) will be transferred to an investment asset owner (i.e. a trust to be established by OPG) on a monthly basis and cash collected within a short period of time. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #1

ASC 980 Regulated Operations

– For general-purpose financial reporting, an incurred cost for which a regulator permits recovery in a future period is accounted for like an incurred cost that is reimbursable under a cost-reimbursement-type contract. [980-10-05-6]

- Unless an accounting order indicates the way a cost will be handled for rate-making purposes, it causes no economic effects that would justify deviation from the GAAP applicable to business entities in general. The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP. [980-10-05-8]
- The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:
  (a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
  (b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form.
  (c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs. [980-10-15-2]
- Incurred Cost - A cost arising from cash paid out or obligation to pay for an acquired asset or service, a loss from any cause that has been sustained and has been or must be paid for. [980-10-20] Glossary
- Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:
  (a) Deregulation.
  (b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.
  (c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).
  (d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [980-20-15-2]
- Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:
  (a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
  (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date. [980-340-25-1]

- Rate actions of a regulator can reduce or eliminate the value of an asset. If a regulator excludes all or part of a cost from allowable costs, the carrying amount of any asset recognized pursuant to paragraph 980-340-25-1 shall be reduced to the extent of the excluded cost. Whether other assets have been impaired shall be judged the same as for entities in general and the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets Subsections of Subtopic 360-10 shall apply. [980-340-35-1]
- If at any time an entity's incurred cost no longer meets the criteria for the capitalization of an incurred cost (see paragraph 980-340-25-1), that cost shall be charged to earnings. [980-340-40-1]
- In some cases, a regulator may approve rates that are intended to recover an incurred cost over an extended period without a return on the unrecovered cost during the recovery period. [980-340-55-2]
- The regulator's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset (see paragraph 980-340-25-1). Accordingly, the regulated entity would capitalize the cost and amortize it over the period during which it will be allowed for rate-making purposes. That cost would not be recorded at discounted present value. An exception to this general rule is provided for costs of abandoned plants. [980-340-55-3]

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

As noted above, as of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation and now applies guidance from US GAAP Topic 980, Regulated Operations, as PSAS does not have any specific guidance for entities with rate-regulated activities.

IESO concluded that it met the requirements of PS2120.02, which allows them to reflect the impacts of rate regulation, as it is considered that the change of accounting policy in its 2016 financial statements resulted in a more appropriate presentation of transactions in its financial statements. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model.

The regulatory framework in Ontario relating to the generation and sale of electricity will be significantly impacted by Bill 132. Currently, a substantial amount of the energy purchased from the generators is collected by IESO from the local distribution companies through the customer billing, with the remaining being recovered through variance accounts over a period of 12 months maximum. As mentioned above, the effect of Bill 132 is to defer the collection of a total estimated amount of $28 billion (plus interest) of energy purchased from the generators over a period of 30 years. Bill 132 will not permit IESO to collect the IESO deferral before May 1, 2021 and the recovery process will be established through regulations. Such a long-term deferred recovery plan requires IESO to consider whether the uncollected energy costs qualify for deferral as a regulatory asset and whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow IESO to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980. These two accounting issues are analyzed in the two tables below.

Criteria for the recognition of regulatory assets

ASC 980-340-25-1 states that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) It is probable that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. (emphasis added) If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.	Bill 132 notes that, • A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording. • Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers. • The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. • The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021. Based on Bill 132, IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. As a result, it is clear that the IESO will be able to recover the amount previously incurred rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs.	Met

Deferred recovery plans are plans adopted by regulators or legislations in response to significant increases in costs (e.g. purchased power costs). These plans typically provide for rates to remain fixed or increase moderately with a variance account mechanism to capture costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. A regulated utility subject to such plans is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow it to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980, especially criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

The proposed plan for the recovery of purchase power costs over a 30 year period is considered a deferred recovery plan as the rates for the first four years will remain fixed and subsequently the rates will increase moderately with a variance account to capture energy costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. The following is an analysis of the ASC 980-10-15-2 criteria.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party	Currently, IESO recognizes regulatory assets related to smart meters and PSAS transition costs as permitted by rates approved by the OEB and regulatory liabilities related to the variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act related to the procurement of energy.	Met

regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.	It is important to note that both Hydro One and OPG are classified as Government Business Enterprises and are reporting under IFRS in their consolidated financial statements, are consolidated by the modified equity method into the province's books, are regulated by the OEB, and their respective regulatory assets and liabilities are reported in the province's books.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.	Currently, the rates approved by the OEB are designed to recover the IESO's costs of providing the regulated services and the pass-through related to the energy purchased from the generators.

	As mentioned above, a regulated utility subject to a deferred recovery plan is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

	This criterion requires a cause-and-effect relationship between a reporting entity's costs and its revenue. In addition, the timing of cost recovery and the related frequency of ratemaking is important. A reporting entity should consider its rate case experience, including the design of its rates and timing of recovery, when determining whether this criterion is met. These factors are analyzed below.

	Frequency of rate case

	- Currently, IESO is subject to OEB's annual reviews.
	- Although the recovery of purchase energy costs will be frozen at the approved rate on May 1, 2017 for the first four years, the IESO will be granted a right to recover after May 1, 2021 the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account during the four-year period.
	  - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance, as of the time of the recording. (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review by the OEB)
	  - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  - Obligation on the part of the OEB to dispose the variance account in accordance with the regulation.
	- Subsequent to May 1, 2021, the OEB will be required to determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
		Met

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	- The Board shall, from time to time, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing. Rates are designed to recover incurred costs - There is a cause-and-effect relationship between the purchase energy costs and revenue, as IESO will be allowed to recover the costs incurred. - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review). - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Obligation on the part of the OEB to ensure IESO will recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Periods of alternative ratemaking (e.g., rate freezes) Evaluation of the second criterion requires additional judgment if the regulated utility is subject to any form of ratemaking that introduces uncertainty about the cause-and-effect relationship between costs and rates. A rate freeze period is defined as a fixed rate that is charged to customers during a period of time (more than two years) and the utilities are exposed to increases in operating and energy costs with no ability to recover the variances. This is not the case as IESO will be granted the right to recover fully the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, including the first four-year period. - The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Costs uncertainty As the IESO will be granted the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no uncertainty about the recovery of the costs.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	Disallowances of costs The OEB has never disallowed the recovery of any material costs incurred by the IESO. More importantly, as the IESO will be granted by legislation the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no risk of the potential disallowance of the purchase power costs. Based on the analysis of the above factors, there are no indications that this criterion would not be met. The above factors establish that there will be a direct cause-and-effect relationship between IESO's costs and its future collection.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."	The remaining criterion is whether limitations, including considering demand levels at the approved rates, on the extent of recovery of the regulatory asset could prevent the IESO from recognizing a regulatory asset for the entire balance in the recovery right granted to the IESO.

	Bill 132 notes that:

	- Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO's right to recover the balance in the variance account is subject to the following:
	  o The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified customers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  o IESO shall not be entitled to collect the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

	Although the process, especially the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not been established yet by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over the period of 30 years. Further, given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. As with the other criteria, this will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the IESO can recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132 based on the foregoing analysis.

The variance account created by Bill 132 is subject to rate regulation by the OEB and the variance account will be established with the right to collect funds against the variance amount in the future. In these circumstances, the IESO is able to establish a regulatory asset. The IESO financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards. Although PSAB does not provide specific guidance on rate regulated accounting, it does under PS 1150 Generally Accepted Accounting Principles allow for guidance to be followed from other accounting frameworks. IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations in its accounting policies.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Background for Issue #2

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issue #1, are as follows:

1. The IESO currently has the right to collect the global adjustment ("GA") monthly from ratepayers through provisions in the Electricity Act. It is proposed that collection of a certain portion of the monthly GA be deferred in a regulatory asset for collection in the future, and that the right to recover the deferred GA from ratepayers be used as the basis for structured financing/ securitization.
2. In connection with Bill 132, it is proposed that a trust be established as a financial vehicle by OPG (the "OPG Trust") in connection with the deferred GA. The OPG Trust will finance the deferral of the GA by purchasing the regulatory asset from the IESO for the principal amount of the GA being deferred.
3. The OPG Trust is expected to finance these purchases from the IESO through a combination of senior secured financing raised in the capital markets, and subordinated financing from OPG (the funding for which will mostly be from equity injections from the OEFC/Province of Ontario).
4. OPG will be appointed as the Financial Services Manager and will be given the responsibility to direct the activities of the OPG Trust, through a services agreement and/or through the Trust's constating documents.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #2

PS1300 Government Reporting Entity:

PSAS refer to government or government organizations. For the purpose of this analysis, the PSAS guidance below relating to government or government organizations should be read and understood as being the IESO (emphasis added).

- The government reporting entity should comprise government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government. [PS 1300.07]
- Control is the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities. [PS 1300.08] (emphasis added).
- Whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that must be determined by reference to the definition of control established in paragraph PS 1300.08 and the particular circumstances of each case. The determination of the fact that control exists will require the application of professional judgment. Government achieves its objectives through a wide range of organizations which individually will fall somewhere along a continuum. At one end of the continuum, it will be clear that an organization does not have the power to act independently and is controlled by the government. At the other end, the organization will have the power to act independently and, while government will have a level of influence on the organization, it will be clear that it does not have control. Along the continuum, consideration needs to be given to the nature of the relationship between the government and the organization in order to determine whether control exists. This Section provides guidance intended to assist in this assessment. [PS 1300.10]
- In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between the government and the organization. The true nature of certain relationships may not be completely reflected by their legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. Where various aspects of the relationship are designed, in effect, to achieve an overall objective, they would be viewed as a whole. [PS 1300.11]
- Financial and operating policies are principles and practices that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control because it establishes the fundamental basis for the conduct of the organization's operations and the achievement of its mission and mandate. [PS 1300.13]
- There are a variety of ways to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization. For example:
  (a) a government may establish an organization's fundamental purpose and eliminate or significantly limit the ability of the organization to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the organization;
  (b) a government may direct the financial and operating policies of an organization on an ongoing basis; or
  (c) a government may veto, overrule or modify the financial and operating policies established by an organization. [PS 1300.14]
- A government does not need to manage an organization's activities on a day-to-day basis to control the organization. It is the government's existing authority to determine the policies governing those activities that is important. [PS 1300.15]

– For the purposes of this Section, it is assumed that where the government has the power to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization, it expects to derive a financial or non-financial benefit. The government may also be exposed to the risk of loss. [PS 1300.16]

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by OPG (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and, therefore, subject to consolidation by IESO?

Under PSAS, IESO is required to consolidate all entities that are considered to be part of its reporting entity, applying the guidance provided in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity. Under PS 1300, IESO must consolidate all entities it "controls".

In determining whether or not the OPG Trust should be consolidated by IESO, it must first be determined whether or not the IESO exercises control as a consequence of power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust resulting in expected benefits to the IESO or the risk of loss from the activities of the OPG Trust.

PS 1300.17 indicates that "whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that requires the application of professional judgment based on the definition of control in this Section and the substance of the relationship in each case." Under PS 1300.08 control is defined as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities". Therefore, the determination of whether IESO will consolidate the OPG Trust will be based on an assessment of whether IESO is considered to control the OPG Trust based on the indicia of control set out in PS 1300. The assessment of the IESO's control of the OPG Trust is made based on Bill 132, facts and nature of the relationship between the IESO and the OPG Trust and based on facts and assumptions provided by IESO. PS 1300.18 and .19 set out 11 potential indicia of control. Several of these indicia have been categorized as more persuasive of a finding of control (see the first four indicators in the table below). For each indicator that applies, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. Finally, the indicia are considered both collectively and individually.

A detailed analysis of the 11 Indicators of control is provided in the following table.

Primary (more persuasive) indicators (PS 1300.18):
Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	- Bill 132 states: - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18) - The Financial Services Manager shall perform the duties assigned to it under this Act and may administer the investment asset on behalf of the investment interest owners. (Section 19 (1)) - Subject to any prescribed limitations, the Financial Services Manager may establish and charge fees in relation to such matters as may be prescribed in accordance with the regulations, which regulations may provide for the ability to recover costs and expenditures and to earn a return. (Section 19 (3))	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?

	- The Electricity Act will be amended as follows:
	  - In addition to the objects mentioned in subsection (1), the objects of OPG include exercising the powers and rights and performing the duties and obligations assigned to it under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and engaging in activities to facilitate the implementation of that Act, including entering into contracts and undertakings on behalf of financing entities and performing other services on behalf of financing entities, subject to the right to be paid by the financing entities for those services. (Section 53.1 (1.1))
	  - OPG may create or invest in one or more subsidiaries, trusts, partnerships or special purpose entities in order to more efficiently conduct its activities or achieve its objects. (Section 53.1 (1.2))
	- OPG will establish a trust to manage the collection of the regulatory asset and related financing and administrative expenses. The Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust will be the governing body of the Trust and will be appointed by OPG. OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees.
	- The IESO will not have any rights in respect of the appointment or replacement of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust.

Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	- Section 27 of Bill 132 states:
	  - A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.
	  - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.
		No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. - Based on Bill 132, upon transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, the investment asset resulting from the transfer is immediately vested in the OPG Trust, free and clear of any adverse claim. (Section 28 (2)). - Therefore, upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, IESO will no longer have access/ability to direct the regulatory asset nor have the ongoing responsibility for losses. - The credit risk related to the collection of the investment asset is borne by the OPG Trust.
Government holds the majority of the voting shares or a "golden share" that confers the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the organization	- IESO will not have any ownership in the OPG Trust and will not have the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust.	No
Government has the unilateral power to dissolve the organization and thereby access its assets and become responsible for its obligations	- IESO will not have the power to dissolve the organization.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
Other indicators that may provide evidence of control exist when government has the power to (PS 1300.18):
Provide significant input into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust. - IESO will not provide any input in the appointment of members of the Board of Trustees.	No
Appoint or remove the CEO or other key personnel	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust and other key personnel.	No
Establish or amend the mission or mandate of the organization	- The Trust will be established by OPG and the mandate of the Trust will be set based on Bill 132.	No

Approve the business plans or budgets for the organization and require amendments, either on a net or line-by-line basis	- Bill 132 states:
	  - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18)
	  - The Financial Services Manager shall prepare a written plan entitled the Financing Plan to be used by the Financial Services Manager to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred for the purposes of acquiring and financing an investment asset in accordance with this Act or for the purposes of refinancing. (Section 16 (1))
	- OPG is the Financial Services Manager, not IESO.
	- IESO is not involved in the preparation or approval of the business plans or budget of the OPG Trust.
		No

Establish borrowing or investment limits or restrict the organization's investments	- Section 22 of Bill 132 states: - The Financial Services Manager shall ensure that funding obligations incurred for the purposes of this Act are incurred in a manner that is consistent with the applicable Financing Plan.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- OPG not IESO, is responsible for ensuring that the borrowings of the OPG Trust meet the above conditions.
Restrict the revenue-generating capacity of the organization, notably the sources of revenue	- N/A	No
Establish or amend the policies that the organization uses to manage, such as those relating to accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources	- As mentioned above, OPG will be granted by legislation the power to establish or amend the policies of the OPG Trust and the ability to appoint and remove all members of the Board of Trustees.	No

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the OPG Trust to be established would not be controlled by the IESO and therefore is not subject to consolidation by the IESO.

Based on the foregoing analysis of the 11 indicators of control as defined in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity, considered both individually and collectively there is no evidence of control by the IESO in respect of the OPG Trust. The IESO will not have the power to govern the Trust, nor have ongoing access to Trust's assets. The IESO will also not have any voting shares or future rights to the Trust nor the power to dissolve the Trust. Without control, the Trust is not subject to consolidation within the IESO financial statements.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that based on Bill 132, none of the four primary (more persuasive) indicators of control are considered to be met, and none of the seven other indicators of control are considered to be met. Accordingly, we concur that the IESO does not control the OPG Trust under Bill 132 and hence would not consolidate the OPG Trust.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act and the OEB Act) and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the OPG Trust) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS to the conclusion on control may change subject to further analysis of any changes to the terms of Bill 132 or review of the final regulations, financing structure and other agreements.

Background for Issue #3

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issues #1 and 2, are as follows:

1. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest and will be recorded by the IESO in a variance account recognized as a regulatory asset.
2. The IESO does not currently have the financial capability to finance the regulatory asset and will transfer the variance account to an investment asset owner (i.e. OPG Trust) on a monthly basis.
3. The IESO will obtain a written legal opinion as to the validity and enforceability of the transfer and sale of the regulatory asset.
4. Based on an assessment of control performed under the issue #2, IESO will not consolidate the OPG Trust. We understand that an assessment of control under International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") has been performed by OPG and they have concluded that the OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG; we note that the financial reporting framework used by OPG in preparing its financial statements for consolidation into the Province's books is IFRS.
5. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts from Bill 132:

   Section 16 IESO to receive amounts

   (2) The IESO shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, receive amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment paid to it from electricity vendors in accordance with the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or the regulations.

   (4) All amounts received by the IESO in respect of the clean energy adjustment shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owner, be held in trust by the IESO for the investment interest owners.

   (5) The IESO shall remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, inclusive of interest earned on the amounts referred to in subsection (1), to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with the regulations.

   Section 17 Pro rating of payments

   (4) If an electricity vendor receives a payment made by or on behalf of a specified consumer in respect of amounts payable under one or more invoices and the amount paid is less than the total amount payable, the electricity vendor shall allocate the payment on a pro rata basis to the clean energy adjustment and other amounts payable under the relevant invoices in respect of electricity charges in respect of the same invoice period.

   Section 26 Transfer of regulatory asset

   (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

   (2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the investment interest.

Section 27 Validity of transfer

(1) A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer and the property rights and interests acquired by the transferee shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons.

Section 29 Investment asset, irrevocable rights and interests

(1) The investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of investment interest owners:

1. The right and interest to impose, invoice, collect, receive and recover the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers, including the right to determine the clean energy adjustment in accordance with this Act.

2. The right to receive, collect and recover the clean energy adjustment that is imposed, invoiced and recoverable under this Act, including any amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment that are held by electricity vendors, IESO and other prescribed parties.

Section 30 Transfer of investment interest

(2) An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan.

Section 32 Investment interest owner may grant security interest

(1) An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation.

(3) All provisions of the Personal Property Security Act shall apply to the investment asset and each investment interest on the basis that the investment asset and each investment interest is intangible personal property, except as otherwise provided for in this section, and any granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner to secure a funding obligation shall, subject to the terms of the funding obligation, give rise to a security interest in respect of which that Act applies and may be perfected by registering a financing statement under that Act on that basis.

6. The terms of the transfer agreement between the IESO and the OPG Trust that will be signed and executed upon transfer of the regulatory assets will be in compliance with the dispositions of Bill 132.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #3

The Derecognition Section of ASC 980-20-40 provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation. [ASC 980-20-40]

Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:

(a) Deregulation.

(b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.

(c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).

(d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [ASC 980-20-15-2]

PS1000 Financial statement concepts:

– This Section is to be used by preparers and auditors of financial statements in exercising their professional judgment as to the application of generally accepted accounting principles and in establishing accounting policies in areas in which accounting principles are developing. [PS1000.03]

– Financial statements should communicate information that is relevant to the needs of those for whom the statements are prepared, reliable, comparable, understandable and clearly presented in a manner that maximizes its usefulness. [PS1000.24]

– An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [PS3210.04]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

  (a) no future economic benefit;

  (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or

  (c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred. [PS1000.37]

PS3210 Assets:

- Assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. [PS3210.03]
- Assets have three essential characteristics:
  (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows.
  (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits.
  (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. [PS3210.04]
- Control of an economic resource and of access to the future economic benefits are essential characteristics of an asset, whereas possession or ownership is not. [PS3210.22]

PS3430 Restructuring transactions [1]

- Individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date. [PS3430.21]
- When a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether:
  (a) derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate; and
  (b) its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized. [PS3430.24]
- A new asset or new liability may arise from a restructuring due to a transferor's continued involvement in the individual assets and liabilities transferred (for example, if it agrees to guarantee repayment of all or a portion of a transferred liability or leases back a portion of a transferred asset). As the new asset or new liability is not transferred, together with related program or operating responsibilities, they are not part of the restructuring transaction. They would be accounted for in accordance with individual Sections of the PSA Handbook by both the transferors and recipients. [PS3430.25]

1 This Section applies to fiscal years beginning on or after April 1, 2018. […] Earlier adoption is permitted."

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Although ASC 980-20-40 states that

> "Derecognition Section provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation."

Subtopic 980-20 relates to discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting when an entity no longer meets the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2. ASC 980-20-15-2 provides examples of when an entity no longer meets the criteria, including deregulation and change of the form of regulation. Thus, ASC 980 does not provide clear guidance for the derecognition of a regulatory asset other than in connection with the discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting.

The above guidance in ASC 980-20-40 provides general principles for the derecognition of assets.

It should also be noted that PSAS provide limited guidance on derecognition of non-financial assets and liabilities. Section 3430 Restructuring transactions, which is applicable for fiscal years on or after April 1, 2018 with early application permitted, has guidance for the derecognition of assets and liabilities.

- Paragraph 21 states that individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date.
- As stated in paragraph 24, when a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate and whether its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized.

Recognizing the proposed transaction is not a restructuring transaction, Section 3430, which has recently been issued by PSAB, provides current evidence of thinking in the application of the general PSAS principles in respect of the recognition and derecognition of assets and liabilities. Accordingly, the analysis as to whether the regulatory asset transferred to the OPG Trust can be derecognized is based on the foregoing guidance.

Criteria for the recognition of an asset

PS3210.03 states that assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. More generally, PSAS PS1000.37 suggests that an asset would no longer be recognized when it fails to meet the definition of an asset:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
Assets (PS3210.04/ PS1000.36): Assets have three essential characteristics: (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows,	Based on the guidance, the regulatory asset does not qualify as an asset of IESO if it cannot obtain the future economic benefits. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, IESO will have no further rights or obligations in connection with the asset transferred. - IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section. - Upon receipt by IESO of the payment by the financing entity, IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.	Not Met

or to reduce cash outflows. (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits. (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. Financial statement concepts (PS1000.37): An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [see above]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves: (a) no future economic benefit (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it.	- A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee. - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest. - At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, the OPG Trust will have the right to sell the asset to another party or to grant a security interest in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. - Upon transfer, the financing entity becomes an investment asset owner and acquires an investment interest. - An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan. - An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. Based on Bill 132, it is clear that IESO will have no rights to the benefits associated with the future cash inflows related to the regulatory asset as it will have transferred its right to recover the IESO deferral to the OPG Trust. Further, it is also clear that IESO will have lost control over the regulatory asset once it is transferred to OPG Trust.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the regulatory asset will be derecognized upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust.

The transfer of the regulatory asset transfers the control and the benefits associated with the right to collect funds in the future against the variance amount to the OPG Trust. This will eliminate the IESO asset by the amount of the transfer as the IESO will no longer control an economic resource or have access to future economic benefits for that amount. The funds collected from the transfer will in turn reduce the associated debt held by the IESO, maintaining the IESO's net $ nil balance in the market accounts.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the regulatory asset should be derecognized on transfer to the OPG Trust as IESO no longer has rights or future economic benefits associated with the asset.

Other Matters

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transactions rests with management as preparers of the financial statements. Our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transaction is based solely on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us as described above. Should these facts and circumstances differ, our conclusion may change.

Fair Hydro Act, 2017

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Bill enacts a new Act and makes amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

ONTARIO FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACT, 2017

The Schedule enacts the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. The Act establishes a framework under which the costs and benefits associated with the "clean energy initiative" are to be allocated among present and future consumers of electricity. The "clean energy initiative" is defined in Part I as consisting of the policies of the Government of Ontario related to such matters as eliminating coal generation and fostering the growth of and investment in clean, modern and reliable energy sources and technologies.

Under Part II, the Ontario Energy Board is required to determine reduced electricity rates and to determine other adjustments to be made for certain classes of consumers in respect of specified periods of time. For example, for the class of consumers referred to as "regulated rate consumers", the electricity rates payable for the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 are the rates, as determined by the Board, that would achieve a 25 per cent reduction in certain costs for a hypothetical member of the class who meets prescribed criteria. Details regarding the determinations are prescribed by regulations.

Part III requires certain electricity consumers to pay an amount in respect of the "clean energy adjustment". The clean energy adjustment is determined by the Financial Services Manager in accordance with rules set out in the Act and the regulations. (Section 18 of the Act appoints Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager.) Part III also specifies the roles and responsibilities of electricity vendors and the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO") with respect to the collection and remittance of amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment.

Part IV requires the Minister of Energy to calculate a "fair allocation amount" by taking specified steps in accordance with principles and assumptions set out in the Act. For example, the Act provides that the purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among certain consumers. Part IV also requires the Financial Services Manager to prepare a written plan entitled the "Financing Plan", which is to be used to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred. Principles and limitations regarding the preparation and implementation of the plan are provided.

Part V requires the IESO to determine the "IESO deferral" in accordance with the regulations and to establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the IESO deferral each month. A "regulatory asset" is created under section 25; the IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from certain consumers. The IESO is authorized to transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity; this transfer results in the creation of the investment asset and the acquisition by the transferee of a corresponding "investment interest". Various rules respecting the validity and priority of a transfer of an investment asset are set out.

In Part VI, rules in respect of the "investment asset" are provided. Section 29 provides that the investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest, consisting collectively of various specified rights and interests of investment interest owners. Rules respecting the validity and priority of such a transfer and the granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner are included.

Part VII deals with various miscellaneous matters, including regulation-making authority of the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

The Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 are amended to address various matters relating to the enactment of the new Act. For example, the objects of the IESO and Ontario Power Generation Inc. are expanded to address powers and duties under the new Act.

SCHEDULE 2
AMENDMENTS TO THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD ACT, 1998

The Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 is amended. Among the amendments:

1. Section 79 of the Act is amended so that compensation for the rate protection provided to certain classes of rural or remote consumers may be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature, rather than by consumers.

2. Section 79.2 of the Act, which governs the Ontario Electricity Support Program, is repealed and replaced. The program is continued, but will be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature after the variance account maintained by the Independent Electricity System Operator, formerly established under the Plan, is exhausted, rather than by consumers. There are provisions relating to the sharing, use and disclosure of information relating to the administration of the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

3. Programs are established to aid certain distribution rate-protected residential consumers and on-reserve consumers.

4. Various amendments of a technical and administrative nature are made to support the implementation and oversight of these programs including provisions related to auditing, record-keeping, inspections and inquiries, offences and penalties.

Preamble

The Government of Ontario is committed to fostering the development of a clean, modern and reliable electricity system with a diverse supply mix. The Government is also committed to removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for renewable and clean energy projects. These commitments can only be achieved if costs are shared fairly among consumers, today and in the future.

Electricity rates have risen for two key reasons. First, decades of under-investment in the electricity system resulted in the need to invest more than $50 billion in generation, transmission and distribution assets to ensure the system is clean and reliable. Second, the decision to eliminate Ontario's use of coal and produce clean, renewable power has created additional costs.

The actions taken to achieve a clean, modern and reliable electricity system have resulted in significant costs to residential consumers. The burden of financing these system improvements and funding key programs has unfairly fallen almost entirely on the shoulders of those consumers.

The Government of Ontario is committed to ensuring that the costs of financing these investments and the associated charges to consumers are allocated fairly among present and future generations.

Recognizing that the electricity infrastructure that has been built and the policy decisions that have been made will create benefits for years to come, costs should be allocated fairly over time, so that residential consumers in the future pay their fair share for the benefits that they receive from the investments already made.

PART II
FAIR ADJUSTMENT

Definition

2. The consumer would, if the consumer were not subject to this Act, be invoiced the rates determined by the Board under clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

Regulated rate consumers, first adjustments

7. (1) Despite any order under subsection 78 (3.1) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and despite section 79.16 of that Act, the electricity rates payable by regulated rate consumers for the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 are the rates, as determined by the Board, that would result in a hypothetical regulated rate consumer who meets the prescribed criteria being charged an invoice amount that is 25 per cent less than the invoice amount that would have been charged to that consumer under the comparison rates described in subsection (2).

Comparison rates

(2) The comparison rates are the rates that would have been effective May 1, 2017 if they had been determined by the Board solely using the method prescribed by the regulations made under clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, without taking into account any forecasted impact of any other provisions of this Act.

Invoice amounts

(3) The types of amounts to be included or excluded in each invoice amount mentioned in subsection (1) are the types of amounts specified in the regulations.

Other specified consumers, first adjustments

8. (1) For the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018, the adjustments made by the IESO under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 shall, with respect to specified consumers who are not regulated rate consumers, be further adjusted by electricity vendors in accordance with the determinations of the Board under subsection (2).

Board to make determinations

(2) The Board shall, in accordance with the regulations, determine the adjustments to be made by electricity vendors.

Same, regulations

(3) The regulations may specify different adjustments to be made in respect of prescribed classes of specified consumers who are not regulated rate consumers.

Implementation by electricity vendors

10. (1) As soon as possible after the Board makes determinations under section 9, each electricity vendor shall, in respect of electricity used on or after July 1, 2017, ensure that its invoices reflect the determinations of the Board.

Same

(2) The electricity vendor shall ensure that, if any of its customers who are specified consumers have been invoiced in a manner that does not reflect the determinations of the Board under section 9, the specified consumer receives the difference between the amounts shown on the invoice and the amounts reflecting the Board's determinations, provided as a lump sum credit on the first invoice issued after the electricity vendor has adapted its invoices or by such other means as may be prescribed.

Subsequent adjustments

11. (1) Despite clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and subject to subsection (2), the Lieutenant Governor in Council may prescribe the methodology to be applied by the Board after April 30, 2018 for the purpose of determining,

(a) electricity rates for regulated rate consumers; or

(b) adjustments to be applied by electricity vendors to the adjustments made by the IESO under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 in respect of prescribed classes of specified consumers who are not regulated rate consumers.

Limitation

1. The purposes of this Act.

2. The clean energy costs borne by specified consumers over time.

3. Such other matters as may be prescribed.

Sub-metering

12. (1) This section applies if a specified consumer provides to another person electricity in respect of which a determination of the Board referred to in section 9 or 11 applies.

Same

(2) If an invoice for the electricity is issued to the person by the specified consumer or a unit sub-meter provider providing unit sub-metering for the specified consumer, the amount payable for the electricity by the person who is liable to pay the invoice shall be determined in accordance with the regulations.

PART III
CLEAN ENERGY ADJUSTMENT

Specified consumers to pay

13. (1) Upon receipt of an invoice from an electricity vendor that includes an amount in respect of the clean energy adjustment, a specified consumer shall pay the amount to the electricity vendor as agent of the investment interest owners.

Same

(2) For greater certainty, subsection (1) applies regardless of,

(a) whether the clean energy adjustment was determined in a manner that was inconsistent with this Act; and

(b) whether the amount payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment relates to funding obligations that were incurred in a manner that was inconsistent with the Financing Plan, including in a manner that failed to provide for the reasonable alignment of the estimated finance amount with the fair allocation amount.

Terms

(3) The payment shall be made in accordance with such terms of payment as may be specified in the invoice, which may include terms relating to late payment fees and interest charges.

Indebtedness of specified consumer

(4) An unpaid amount that is required to be paid by a specified consumer under this section constitutes indebtedness of the specified consumer to each investment interest owner to the extent of each owner's respective interest in the investment asset.

Same

(5) The indebtedness mentioned in subsection (4) is a single and separate debt obligation owed by the specified consumer and may be enforced independently from any other payment obligation or indebtedness owing by the specified consumer.

Unit sub-metering

(6) A specified consumer who provides electricity through unit sub-metering may collect amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment payable under this section in accordance with the regulations.

Irrevocability of amount

14. (1) An amount in respect of the clean energy adjustment shown on an invoice issued to a specified consumer under this Act is determinative of the amount of the consumer's indebtedness resulting from the clean energy adjustment and is irrevocable upon invoicing the consumer and may not be set off or bypassed.

Exception

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to the extent that the invoice reflects a clerical, typographical or calculation-related error.

Determination of clean energy adjustment
Financial Services Manager to determine

15. (1) The Financial Services Manager shall determine the clean energy adjustment payable by all specified consumers in respect of each month in a reference period by taking the following steps:

1. Calculate the sum of the following:

    i. The estimated finance amount in respect of the reference period.

    ii. The true up amount in respect of the reference period.

2. Divide the sum calculated under paragraph 1 by the number of months in the reference period.

Regulations re true up amount

(2) The Lieutenant Governor in Council shall, in making regulations with respect to the determination of the true up amount, have regard to the following principles:

1. The true up amount should serve to ensure that the collection of the clean energy adjustment is sufficient to pay the finance amount when it is due.

2. The method for determining the true up amount should take into account historical and reasonably foreseeable,

    i. differences between the estimated and actual finance amount for the applicable reference period,

    ii. differences between amounts invoiced and amounts collected due to various factors, including applicable taxes, consumer defaults and delays, billing lags and write-offs, and

    iii. variations in billings due to variations in electricity consumption.

Financial Services Manager to notify Board

(3) The Financial Services Manager shall, in accordance with the regulations, notify the Board of the clean energy adjustment in respect of a reference period and such other information related to the determination of the clean energy adjustment as may be prescribed.

Board to determine rates

IESO to receive amounts

16. (1) The IESO shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, receive amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment paid to it from electricity vendors in accordance with the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or the regulations.

Account

(2) All of the following amounts received by the IESO shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with subsection (4), be deposited promptly into an account established for the purposes of receiving those amounts:

1. Amounts described in subsection (1).

2. Payments made by specified consumers directly to the IESO as electricity vendor under subsection 13 (1).

3. Proceeds of amounts described in paragraphs 1 and 2.

Same, held in trust

Fair Allocation Amount

Minister to calculate fair allocation amount

20. (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), before the first funding obligation is incurred the Minister shall calculate a fair allocation amount in respect of each reference period, applying such method as the Minister considers appropriate and in accordance with the following steps:

1. Determine the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits allocated to specified consumers in respect of the reference period.

2. Determine the estimated reduction in the amounts payable by specified consumers as a result of determinations of the Board under Part II in respect of all previous reference periods, including the estimated reduction in clean energy costs described in clause (a) of the definition of "clean energy costs" in subsection 1 (1) that would otherwise have been payable by specified consumers in the absence of this Act.

3. Determine the amount, if any, by which the determination under paragraph 1 exceeds the determination under paragraph 2.

4. Calculate the sum of the amount determined under paragraph 3 and such other amounts as may be prescribed.

Principles

(2) In calculating the fair allocation amount, the Minister shall have regard to the following principles:

1. The purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among the specified consumers in respect of each reference period.

2. Calculations should be made having regard to the need to align each fair allocation amount with the estimated finance amount payable during the reference period.

3. Estimated clean energy costs allocated to specified consumers in respect of a reference period should be allocated in proportion to the estimated clean energy benefits attributed to the specified consumers in respect of the reference period.

4. Such other principles as may be prescribed.

Assumptions

(3) In calculating the fair allocation amount, the Minister shall make such assumptions as the Minister considers to be reasonable regarding the following:

1. The time value of money or the rate of inflation, for the purpose of equating nominal amounts over time.

Plan to be provided to Minister

(2) The Financial Services Manager shall provide the Financing Plan to the Minister.

Principles

(3) In preparing the Financing Plan, the Financial Services Manager shall have regard to the following principles:

1. Funding obligations should be incurred such that, along with any funding obligations already incurred, the estimated finance amount that would, subject to any refinancing, become due and payable during a reference period will reasonably align with the fair allocation amount determined in respect of the reference period, in each case after reducing the fair allocation amount to reflect determinations of the Board under Part II in respect of the reference period.

2. Incurrences should be implemented in a manner that, in the opinion of the Financial Services Manager, is reasonable, cost effective and that reflects prevailing market terms and conditions.

3. Reasonable assumptions should be made regarding such matters as may be prescribed.

4. Such other principles as may be prescribed.

Limitation

(4) In respect of each reference period from July 1, 2017 to April 30, 2021, no funding obligation shall be incurred that would result in amounts payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment in respect of the reference period unless,

(a) the amounts are payable in respect of a reference period in respect of which the Board has not made any determinations under Part II; or

(b) if the Board has made a determination under Part II in respect of the reference period, the funding obligations incurred would not result in amounts payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment during the reference period in an amount that exceeds the limit determined in accordance with the regulations.

Other reports

Same

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

Deemed perfection, etc.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

The Board of Directors

Dear Sirs,

We have been engaged to provide you with an accounting opinion on the application of Public Sector Accounting Standards to the consolidation of a trust and to the recognition and derecognition of a variance account in relation to Bill 132, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 as tabled in the first reading ("Bill 132") (Appendix A to this letter). This letter is being issued to the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO" or the "Company") in connection with its evaluation of the consolidation requirements and the accounting for the variance account under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards ("PSAS"). Our engagement has been conducted in accordance with generally accepted standards in Canada for such engagements.

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific issues described below rests with management of the Company as preparers of the financial statements.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act, 1998 ("the Electricity Act") and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB" or the "Board") Act, 1998 ("the OEB Act")), and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the trust to be established by OPG) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific matters described below is based on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us. The finalization of the legislation, regulations, financing structure and other agreements may impact the comments and conclusions set out herein. Our comments and conclusions are based on Bill 132 and related matters as they exist at the date of this letter.

The following three issues are addressed in this letter:

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by Ontario Power Generation (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and therefore subject to consolidation by IESO?

KPMG LLP is a Canadian limited liability partnership and a member firm of the KPMG network of independent member firms affiliated with KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity. KPMG Canada provides services to KPMG LLP.

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Background for issue #1

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party) are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act. Management of the IESO has determined that the Company is an Other Governmental Organization and accordingly prepares its financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

2. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act and the OEB Act.

3. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 3 New Accounting Policies, audited by KPMG "As of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy regarding the recognition of assets and liabilities subject to rate regulation. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model. This change has been applied retroactively and has increased amounts previously unrecorded for regulatory assets and decreased amounts previously reported for accumulated deficit."

4. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 2(d) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, Regulatory assets and liabilities. "As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO applies guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations ("ASC 980"), in this policy."

5. Extract from Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act: In approving or fixing rates under subsection (3.1),

   (a) the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect these costs; and

   (b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct.

6. Currently, IESO recognizes two regulatory assets for unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items as permitted by rates approved by the OEB. In addition, in accordance with section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, IESO also recognizes variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation ("OEFC"), distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract.

7. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts of Bill 132:

   Section 1 Definitions, Transfer of regulatory asset

   (3) In this Act, a reference to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset is a reference to the following, as provided for in subsection 26 (3):

1. A reduction in the balance in the variance account.
2. The adjustment of the regulatory asset.
3. The acquisition by a financing entity of the investment interest corresponding to the specified portion of the regulatory asset.

Section 24 Variance account to be established, maintained

(1) IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.
2. All payments received by IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.
3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

(3) No change made by IESO to the balance in the variance account shall, if the previous balance was relied upon by an investment interest owner in the context of a transfer under section 26, affect the rights acquired by the investment interest owner under the transfer.

Section 25 Regulatory asset established

(1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

(3) IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Section 34 Board's Authority

(2) Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing.

8. It is expected that the IESO deferral recorded by the IESO in the variance account (the regulatory asset) will be transferred to an investment asset owner (i.e. a trust to be established by OPG) on a monthly basis and cash collected within a short period of time. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #1

ASC 980 Regulated Operations

– For general-purpose financial reporting, an incurred cost for which a regulator permits recovery in a future period is accounted for like an incurred cost that is reimbursable under a cost-reimbursement-type contract. [980-10-05-6]

- Unless an accounting order indicates the way a cost will be handled for rate-making purposes, it causes no economic effects that would justify deviation from the GAAP applicable to business entities in general. The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP. [980-10-05-8]
- The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:
  (a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
  (b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form.
  (c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs. [980-10-15-2]
- Incurred Cost - A cost arising from cash paid out or obligation to pay for an acquired asset or service, a loss from any cause that has been sustained and has been or must be paid for. [980-10-20] Glossary
- Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:
  (a) Deregulation.
  (b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.
  (c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).
  (d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [980-20-15-2]
- Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:
  (a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
  (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date. [980-340-25-1]

- Rate actions of a regulator can reduce or eliminate the value of an asset. If a regulator excludes all or part of a cost from allowable costs, the carrying amount of any asset recognized pursuant to paragraph 980-340-25-1 shall be reduced to the extent of the excluded cost. Whether other assets have been impaired shall be judged the same as for entities in general and the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets Subsections of Subtopic 360-10 shall apply. [980-340-35-1]
- If at any time an entity's incurred cost no longer meets the criteria for the capitalization of an incurred cost (see paragraph 980-340-25-1), that cost shall be charged to earnings. [980-340-40-1]
- In some cases, a regulator may approve rates that are intended to recover an incurred cost over an extended period without a return on the unrecovered cost during the recovery period. [980-340-55-2]
- The regulator's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset (see paragraph 980-340-25-1). Accordingly, the regulated entity would capitalize the cost and amortize it over the period during which it will be allowed for rate-making purposes. That cost would not be recorded at discounted present value. An exception to this general rule is provided for costs of abandoned plants. [980-340-55-3]

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

As noted above, as of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation and now applies guidance from US GAAP Topic 980, Regulated Operations, as PSAS does not have any specific guidance for entities with rate-regulated activities.

IESO concluded that it met the requirements of PS2120.02, which allows them to reflect the impacts of rate regulation, as it is considered that the change of accounting policy in its 2016 financial statements resulted in a more appropriate presentation of transactions in its financial statements. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model.

The regulatory framework in Ontario relating to the generation and sale of electricity will be significantly impacted by Bill 132. Currently, a substantial amount of the energy purchased from the generators is collected by IESO from the local distribution companies through the customer billing, with the remaining being recovered through variance accounts over a period of 12 months maximum. As mentioned above, the effect of Bill 132 is to defer the collection of a total estimated amount of $28 billion (plus interest) of energy purchased from the generators over a period of 30 years. Bill 132 will not permit IESO to collect the IESO deferral before May 1, 2021 and the recovery process will be established through regulations. Such a long-term deferred recovery plan requires IESO to consider whether the uncollected energy costs qualify for deferral as a regulatory asset and whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow IESO to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980. These two accounting issues are analyzed in the two tables below.

Criteria for the recognition of regulatory assets

ASC 980-340-25-1 states that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) It is probable that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. (emphasis added) If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.	Bill 132 notes that, • A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording. • Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers. • The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. • The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021. Based on Bill 132, IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. As a result, it is clear that the IESO will be able to recover the amount previously incurred rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs.	Met

Deferred recovery plans are plans adopted by regulators or legislations in response to significant increases in costs (e.g. purchased power costs). These plans typically provide for rates to remain fixed or increase moderately with a variance account mechanism to capture costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. A regulated utility subject to such plans is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow it to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980, especially criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

The proposed plan for the recovery of purchase power costs over a 30 year period is considered a deferred recovery plan as the rates for the first four years will remain fixed and subsequently the rates will increase moderately with a variance account to capture energy costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. The following is an analysis of the ASC 980-10-15-2 criteria.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party	Currently, IESO recognizes regulatory assets related to smart meters and PSAS transition costs as permitted by rates approved by the OEB and regulatory liabilities related to the variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act related to the procurement of energy.	Met

regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.	It is important to note that both Hydro One and OPG are classified as Government Business Enterprises and are reporting under IFRS in their consolidated financial statements, are consolidated by the modified equity method into the province's books, are regulated by the OEB, and their respective regulatory assets and liabilities are reported in the province's books.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.	Currently, the rates approved by the OEB are designed to recover the IESO's costs of providing the regulated services and the pass-through related to the energy purchased from the generators.

	As mentioned above, a regulated utility subject to a deferred recovery plan is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

	This criterion requires a cause-and-effect relationship between a reporting entity's costs and its revenue. In addition, the timing of cost recovery and the related frequency of ratemaking is important. A reporting entity should consider its rate case experience, including the design of its rates and timing of recovery, when determining whether this criterion is met. These factors are analyzed below.

	Frequency of rate case

	- Currently, IESO is subject to OEB's annual reviews.
	- Although the recovery of purchase energy costs will be frozen at the approved rate on May 1, 2017 for the first four years, the IESO will be granted a right to recover after May 1, 2021 the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account during the four-year period.
	  - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance, as of the time of the recording. (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review by the OEB)
	  - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  - Obligation on the part of the OEB to dispose the variance account in accordance with the regulation.
	- Subsequent to May 1, 2021, the OEB will be required to determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
		Met

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	- The Board shall, from time to time, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing. Rates are designed to recover incurred costs - There is a cause-and-effect relationship between the purchase energy costs and revenue, as IESO will be allowed to recover the costs incurred. - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review). - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Obligation on the part of the OEB to ensure IESO will recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Periods of alternative ratemaking (e.g., rate freezes) Evaluation of the second criterion requires additional judgment if the regulated utility is subject to any form of ratemaking that introduces uncertainty about the cause-and-effect relationship between costs and rates. A rate freeze period is defined as a fixed rate that is charged to customers during a period of time (more than two years) and the utilities are exposed to increases in operating and energy costs with no ability to recover the variances. This is not the case as IESO will be granted the right to recover fully the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, including the first four-year period. - The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Costs uncertainty As the IESO will be granted the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no uncertainty about the recovery of the costs.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	Disallowances of costs The OEB has never disallowed the recovery of any material costs incurred by the IESO. More importantly, as the IESO will be granted by legislation the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no risk of the potential disallowance of the purchase power costs. Based on the analysis of the above factors, there are no indications that this criterion would not be met. The above factors establish that there will be a direct cause-and-effect relationship between IESO's costs and its future collection.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."	The remaining criterion is whether limitations, including considering demand levels at the approved rates, on the extent of recovery of the regulatory asset could prevent the IESO from recognizing a regulatory asset for the entire balance in the recovery right granted to the IESO.

	Bill 132 notes that:

	- Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO's right to recover the balance in the variance account is subject to the following:
	  o The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified customers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  o IESO shall not be entitled to collect the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

	Although the process, especially the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not been established yet by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over the period of 30 years. Further, given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. As with the other criteria, this will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the IESO can recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132 based on the foregoing analysis.

The variance account created by Bill 132 is subject to rate regulation by the OEB and the variance account will be established with the right to collect funds against the variance amount in the future. In these circumstances, the IESO is able to establish a regulatory asset. The IESO financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards. Although PSAB does not provide specific guidance on rate regulated accounting, it does under PS 1150 Generally Accepted Accounting Principles allow for guidance to be followed from other accounting frameworks. IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations in its accounting policies.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Background for Issue #2

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issue #1, are as follows:

1. The IESO currently has the right to collect the global adjustment ("GA") monthly from ratepayers through provisions in the Electricity Act. It is proposed that collection of a certain portion of the monthly GA be deferred in a regulatory asset for collection in the future, and that the right to recover the deferred GA from ratepayers be used as the basis for structured financing/ securitization.
2. In connection with Bill 132, it is proposed that a trust be established as a financial vehicle by OPG (the "OPG Trust") in connection with the deferred GA. The OPG Trust will finance the deferral of the GA by purchasing the regulatory asset from the IESO for the principal amount of the GA being deferred.
3. The OPG Trust is expected to finance these purchases from the IESO through a combination of senior secured financing raised in the capital markets, and subordinated financing from OPG (the funding for which will mostly be from equity injections from the OEFC/Province of Ontario).
4. OPG will be appointed as the Financial Services Manager and will be given the responsibility to direct the activities of the OPG Trust, through a services agreement and/or through the Trust's constating documents.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #2

PS1300 Government Reporting Entity:

PSAS refer to government or government organizations. For the purpose of this analysis, the PSAS guidance below relating to government or government organizations should be read and understood as being the IESO (emphasis added).

- The government reporting entity should comprise government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government. [PS 1300.07]
- Control is the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities. [PS 1300.08] (emphasis added).
- Whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that must be determined by reference to the definition of control established in paragraph PS 1300.08 and the particular circumstances of each case. The determination of the fact that control exists will require the application of professional judgment. Government achieves its objectives through a wide range of organizations which individually will fall somewhere along a continuum. At one end of the continuum, it will be clear that an organization does not have the power to act independently and is controlled by the government. At the other end, the organization will have the power to act independently and, while government will have a level of influence on the organization, it will be clear that it does not have control. Along the continuum, consideration needs to be given to the nature of the relationship between the government and the organization in order to determine whether control exists. This Section provides guidance intended to assist in this assessment. [PS 1300.10]
- In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between the government and the organization. The true nature of certain relationships may not be completely reflected by their legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. Where various aspects of the relationship are designed, in effect, to achieve an overall objective, they would be viewed as a whole. [PS 1300.11]
- Financial and operating policies are principles and practices that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control because it establishes the fundamental basis for the conduct of the organization's operations and the achievement of its mission and mandate. [PS 1300.13]
- There are a variety of ways to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization. For example:
  (a) a government may establish an organization's fundamental purpose and eliminate or significantly limit the ability of the organization to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the organization;
  (b) a government may direct the financial and operating policies of an organization on an ongoing basis; or
  (c) a government may veto, overrule or modify the financial and operating policies established by an organization. [PS 1300.14]
- A government does not need to manage an organization's activities on a day-to-day basis to control the organization. It is the government's existing authority to determine the policies governing those activities that is important. [PS 1300.15]

– For the purposes of this Section, it is assumed that where the government has the power to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization, it expects to derive a financial or non-financial benefit. The government may also be exposed to the risk of loss. [PS 1300.16]

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by OPG (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and, therefore, subject to consolidation by IESO?

Under PSAS, IESO is required to consolidate all entities that are considered to be part of its reporting entity, applying the guidance provided in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity. Under PS 1300, IESO must consolidate all entities it "controls".

In determining whether or not the OPG Trust should be consolidated by IESO, it must first be determined whether or not the IESO exercises control as a consequence of power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust resulting in expected benefits to the IESO or the risk of loss from the activities of the OPG Trust.

PS 1300.17 indicates that "whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that requires the application of professional judgment based on the definition of control in this Section and the substance of the relationship in each case." Under PS 1300.08 control is defined as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities". Therefore, the determination of whether IESO will consolidate the OPG Trust will be based on an assessment of whether IESO is considered to control the OPG Trust based on the indicia of control set out in PS 1300. The assessment of the IESO's control of the OPG Trust is made based on Bill 132, facts and nature of the relationship between the IESO and the OPG Trust and based on facts and assumptions provided by IESO. PS 1300.18 and .19 set out 11 potential indicia of control. Several of these indicia have been categorized as more persuasive of a finding of control (see the first four indicators in the table below). For each indicator that applies, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. Finally, the indicia are considered both collectively and individually.

A detailed analysis of the 11 Indicators of control is provided in the following table.

Primary (more persuasive) indicators (PS 1300.18):
Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	- Bill 132 states: - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18) - The Financial Services Manager shall perform the duties assigned to it under this Act and may administer the investment asset on behalf of the investment interest owners. (Section 19 (1)) - Subject to any prescribed limitations, the Financial Services Manager may establish and charge fees in relation to such matters as may be prescribed in accordance with the regulations, which regulations may provide for the ability to recover costs and expenditures and to earn a return. (Section 19 (3))	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?

	- The Electricity Act will be amended as follows:
	  - In addition to the objects mentioned in subsection (1), the objects of OPG include exercising the powers and rights and performing the duties and obligations assigned to it under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and engaging in activities to facilitate the implementation of that Act, including entering into contracts and undertakings on behalf of financing entities and performing other services on behalf of financing entities, subject to the right to be paid by the financing entities for those services. (Section 53.1 (1.1))
	  - OPG may create or invest in one or more subsidiaries, trusts, partnerships or special purpose entities in order to more efficiently conduct its activities or achieve its objects. (Section 53.1 (1.2))
	- OPG will establish a trust to manage the collection of the regulatory asset and related financing and administrative expenses. The Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust will be the governing body of the Trust and will be appointed by OPG. OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees.
	- The IESO will not have any rights in respect of the appointment or replacement of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust.

Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	- Section 27 of Bill 132 states:
	  - A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.
	  - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.
		No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. - Based on Bill 132, upon transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, the investment asset resulting from the transfer is immediately vested in the OPG Trust, free and clear of any adverse claim. (Section 28 (2)). - Therefore, upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, IESO will no longer have access/ability to direct the regulatory asset nor have the ongoing responsibility for losses. - The credit risk related to the collection of the investment asset is borne by the OPG Trust.
Government holds the majority of the voting shares or a "golden share" that confers the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the organization	- IESO will not have any ownership in the OPG Trust and will not have the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust.	No
Government has the unilateral power to dissolve the organization and thereby access its assets and become responsible for its obligations	- IESO will not have the power to dissolve the organization.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
Other indicators that may provide evidence of control exist when government has the power to (PS 1300.18):
Provide significant input into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust. - IESO will not provide any input in the appointment of members of the Board of Trustees.	No
Appoint or remove the CEO or other key personnel	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust and other key personnel.	No
Establish or amend the mission or mandate of the organization	- The Trust will be established by OPG and the mandate of the Trust will be set based on Bill 132.	No

Approve the business plans or budgets for the organization and require amendments, either on a net or line-by-line basis	- Bill 132 states:
	  - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18)
	  - The Financial Services Manager shall prepare a written plan entitled the Financing Plan to be used by the Financial Services Manager to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred for the purposes of acquiring and financing an investment asset in accordance with this Act or for the purposes of refinancing. (Section 16 (1))
	- OPG is the Financial Services Manager, not IESO.
	- IESO is not involved in the preparation or approval of the business plans or budget of the OPG Trust.
		No

Establish borrowing or investment limits or restrict the organization's investments	- Section 22 of Bill 132 states: - The Financial Services Manager shall ensure that funding obligations incurred for the purposes of this Act are incurred in a manner that is consistent with the applicable Financing Plan.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- OPG not IESO, is responsible for ensuring that the borrowings of the OPG Trust meet the above conditions.
Restrict the revenue-generating capacity of the organization, notably the sources of revenue	- N/A	No
Establish or amend the policies that the organization uses to manage, such as those relating to accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources	- As mentioned above, OPG will be granted by legislation the power to establish or amend the policies of the OPG Trust and the ability to appoint and remove all members of the Board of Trustees.	No

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the OPG Trust to be established would not be controlled by the IESO and therefore is not subject to consolidation by the IESO.

Based on the foregoing analysis of the 11 indicators of control as defined in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity, considered both individually and collectively there is no evidence of control by the IESO in respect of the OPG Trust. The IESO will not have the power to govern the Trust, nor have ongoing access to Trust's assets. The IESO will also not have any voting shares or future rights to the Trust nor the power to dissolve the Trust. Without control, the Trust is not subject to consolidation within the IESO financial statements.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that based on Bill 132, none of the four primary (more persuasive) indicators of control are considered to be met, and none of the seven other indicators of control are considered to be met. Accordingly, we concur that the IESO does not control the OPG Trust under Bill 132 and hence would not consolidate the OPG Trust.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act and the OEB Act) and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the OPG Trust) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS to the conclusion on control may change subject to further analysis of any changes to the terms of Bill 132 or review of the final regulations, financing structure and other agreements.

Background for Issue #3

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issues #1 and 2, are as follows:

1. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest and will be recorded by the IESO in a variance account recognized as a regulatory asset.
2. The IESO does not currently have the financial capability to finance the regulatory asset and will transfer the variance account to an investment asset owner (i.e. OPG Trust) on a monthly basis.
3. The IESO will obtain a written legal opinion as to the validity and enforceability of the transfer and sale of the regulatory asset.
4. Based on an assessment of control performed under the issue #2, IESO will not consolidate the OPG Trust. We understand that an assessment of control under International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") has been performed by OPG and they have concluded that the OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG; we note that the financial reporting framework used by OPG in preparing its financial statements for consolidation into the Province's books is IFRS.
5. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts from Bill 132:

   Section 16 IESO to receive amounts

   (2) The IESO shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, receive amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment paid to it from electricity vendors in accordance with the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or the regulations.

   (4) All amounts received by the IESO in respect of the clean energy adjustment shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owner, be held in trust by the IESO for the investment interest owners.

   (5) The IESO shall remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, inclusive of interest earned on the amounts referred to in subsection (1), to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with the regulations.

   Section 17 Pro rating of payments

   (4) If an electricity vendor receives a payment made by or on behalf of a specified consumer in respect of amounts payable under one or more invoices and the amount paid is less than the total amount payable, the electricity vendor shall allocate the payment on a pro rata basis to the clean energy adjustment and other amounts payable under the relevant invoices in respect of electricity charges in respect of the same invoice period.

   Section 26 Transfer of regulatory asset

   (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

   (2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the investment interest.

Section 27 Validity of transfer

(1) A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer and the property rights and interests acquired by the transferee shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons.

Section 29 Investment asset, irrevocable rights and interests

(1) The investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of investment interest owners:

1. The right and interest to impose, invoice, collect, receive and recover the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers, including the right to determine the clean energy adjustment in accordance with this Act.

2. The right to receive, collect and recover the clean energy adjustment that is imposed, invoiced and recoverable under this Act, including any amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment that are held by electricity vendors, IESO and other prescribed parties.

Section 30 Transfer of investment interest

(2) An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan.

Section 32 Investment interest owner may grant security interest

(1) An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation.

(3) All provisions of the Personal Property Security Act shall apply to the investment asset and each investment interest on the basis that the investment asset and each investment interest is intangible personal property, except as otherwise provided for in this section, and any granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner to secure a funding obligation shall, subject to the terms of the funding obligation, give rise to a security interest in respect of which that Act applies and may be perfected by registering a financing statement under that Act on that basis.

6. The terms of the transfer agreement between the IESO and the OPG Trust that will be signed and executed upon transfer of the regulatory assets will be in compliance with the dispositions of Bill 132.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #3

The Derecognition Section of ASC 980-20-40 provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation. [ASC 980-20-40]

Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:

(a) Deregulation.

(b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.

(c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).

(d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [ASC 980-20-15-2]

PS1000 Financial statement concepts:

– This Section is to be used by preparers and auditors of financial statements in exercising their professional judgment as to the application of generally accepted accounting principles and in establishing accounting policies in areas in which accounting principles are developing. [PS1000.03]

– Financial statements should communicate information that is relevant to the needs of those for whom the statements are prepared, reliable, comparable, understandable and clearly presented in a manner that maximizes its usefulness. [PS1000.24]

– An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [PS3210.04]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

  (a) no future economic benefit;

  (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or

  (c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred. [PS1000.37]

PS3210 Assets:

- Assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. [PS3210.03]
- Assets have three essential characteristics:
  (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows.
  (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits.
  (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. [PS3210.04]
- Control of an economic resource and of access to the future economic benefits are essential characteristics of an asset, whereas possession or ownership is not. [PS3210.22]

PS3430 Restructuring transactions [1]

- Individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date. [PS3430.21]
- When a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether:
  (a) derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate; and
  (b) its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized. [PS3430.24]
- A new asset or new liability may arise from a restructuring due to a transferor's continued involvement in the individual assets and liabilities transferred (for example, if it agrees to guarantee repayment of all or a portion of a transferred liability or leases back a portion of a transferred asset). As the new asset or new liability is not transferred, together with related program or operating responsibilities, they are not part of the restructuring transaction. They would be accounted for in accordance with individual Sections of the PSA Handbook by both the transferors and recipients. [PS3430.25]

1 This Section applies to fiscal years beginning on or after April 1, 2018. […] Earlier adoption is permitted."

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Although ASC 980-20-40 states that

> "Derecognition Section provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation."

Subtopic 980-20 relates to discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting when an entity no longer meets the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2. ASC 980-20-15-2 provides examples of when an entity no longer meets the criteria, including deregulation and change of the form of regulation. Thus, ASC 980 does not provide clear guidance for the derecognition of a regulatory asset other than in connection with the discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting.

The above guidance in ASC 980-20-40 provides general principles for the derecognition of assets.

It should also be noted that PSAS provide limited guidance on derecognition of non-financial assets and liabilities. Section 3430 Restructuring transactions, which is applicable for fiscal years on or after April 1, 2018 with early application permitted, has guidance for the derecognition of assets and liabilities.

- Paragraph 21 states that individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date.
- As stated in paragraph 24, when a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate and whether its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized.

Recognizing the proposed transaction is not a restructuring transaction, Section 3430, which has recently been issued by PSAB, provides current evidence of thinking in the application of the general PSAS principles in respect of the recognition and derecognition of assets and liabilities. Accordingly, the analysis as to whether the regulatory asset transferred to the OPG Trust can be derecognized is based on the foregoing guidance.

Criteria for the recognition of an asset

PS3210.03 states that assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. More generally, PSAS PS1000.37 suggests that an asset would no longer be recognized when it fails to meet the definition of an asset:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
Assets (PS3210.04/ PS1000.36): Assets have three essential characteristics: (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows,	Based on the guidance, the regulatory asset does not qualify as an asset of IESO if it cannot obtain the future economic benefits. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, IESO will have no further rights or obligations in connection with the asset transferred. - IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section. - Upon receipt by IESO of the payment by the financing entity, IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.	Not Met

or to reduce cash outflows. (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits. (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. Financial statement concepts (PS1000.37): An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [see above]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves: (a) no future economic benefit (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it.	- A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee. - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest. - At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, the OPG Trust will have the right to sell the asset to another party or to grant a security interest in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. - Upon transfer, the financing entity becomes an investment asset owner and acquires an investment interest. - An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan. - An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. Based on Bill 132, it is clear that IESO will have no rights to the benefits associated with the future cash inflows related to the regulatory asset as it will have transferred its right to recover the IESO deferral to the OPG Trust. Further, it is also clear that IESO will have lost control over the regulatory asset once it is transferred to OPG Trust.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the regulatory asset will be derecognized upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust.

The transfer of the regulatory asset transfers the control and the benefits associated with the right to collect funds in the future against the variance amount to the OPG Trust. This will eliminate the IESO asset by the amount of the transfer as the IESO will no longer control an economic resource or have access to future economic benefits for that amount. The funds collected from the transfer will in turn reduce the associated debt held by the IESO, maintaining the IESO's net $ nil balance in the market accounts.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the regulatory asset should be derecognized on transfer to the OPG Trust as IESO no longer has rights or future economic benefits associated with the asset.

Other Matters

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transactions rests with management as preparers of the financial statements. Our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transaction is based solely on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us as described above. Should these facts and circumstances differ, our conclusion may change.

Fair Hydro Act, 2017

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Bill enacts a new Act and makes amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

ONTARIO FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACT, 2017

The Schedule enacts the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. The Act establishes a framework under which the costs and benefits associated with the "clean energy initiative" are to be allocated among present and future consumers of electricity. The "clean energy initiative" is defined in Part I as consisting of the policies of the Government of Ontario related to such matters as eliminating coal generation and fostering the growth of and investment in clean, modern and reliable energy sources and technologies.

Under Part II, the Ontario Energy Board is required to determine reduced electricity rates and to determine other adjustments to be made for certain classes of consumers in respect of specified periods of time. For example, for the class of consumers referred to as "regulated rate consumers", the electricity rates payable for the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 are the rates, as determined by the Board, that would achieve a 25 per cent reduction in certain costs for a hypothetical member of the class who meets prescribed criteria. Details regarding the determinations are prescribed by regulations.

Part III requires certain electricity consumers to pay an amount in respect of the "clean energy adjustment". The clean energy adjustment is determined by the Financial Services Manager in accordance with rules set out in the Act and the regulations. (Section 18 of the Act appoints Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager.) Part III also specifies the roles and responsibilities of electricity vendors and the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO") with respect to the collection and remittance of amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment.

Part IV requires the Minister of Energy to calculate a "fair allocation amount" by taking specified steps in accordance with principles and assumptions set out in the Act. For example, the Act provides that the purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among certain consumers. Part IV also requires the Financial Services Manager to prepare a written plan entitled the "Financing Plan", which is to be used to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred. Principles and limitations regarding the preparation and implementation of the plan are provided.

Part V requires the IESO to determine the "IESO deferral" in accordance with the regulations and to establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the IESO deferral each month. A "regulatory asset" is created under section 25; the IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from certain consumers. The IESO is authorized to transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity; this transfer results in the creation of the investment asset and the acquisition by the transferee of a corresponding "investment interest". Various rules respecting the validity and priority of a transfer of an investment asset are set out.

In Part VI, rules in respect of the "investment asset" are provided. Section 29 provides that the investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest, consisting collectively of various specified rights and interests of investment interest owners. Rules respecting the validity and priority of such a transfer and the granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner are included.

Part VII deals with various miscellaneous matters, including regulation-making authority of the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

The Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 are amended to address various matters relating to the enactment of the new Act. For example, the objects of the IESO and Ontario Power Generation Inc. are expanded to address powers and duties under the new Act.

SCHEDULE 2
AMENDMENTS TO THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD ACT, 1998

The Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 is amended. Among the amendments:

1. Section 79 of the Act is amended so that compensation for the rate protection provided to certain classes of rural or remote consumers may be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature, rather than by consumers.

2. Section 79.2 of the Act, which governs the Ontario Electricity Support Program, is repealed and replaced. The program is continued, but will be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature after the variance account maintained by the Independent Electricity System Operator, formerly established under the Plan, is exhausted, rather than by consumers. There are provisions relating to the sharing, use and disclosure of information relating to the administration of the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

3. Programs are established to aid certain distribution rate-protected residential consumers and on-reserve consumers.

4. Various amendments of a technical and administrative nature are made to support the implementation and oversight of these programs including provisions related to auditing, record-keeping, inspections and inquiries, offences and penalties.

Preamble

The Government of Ontario is committed to fostering the development of a clean, modern and reliable electricity system with a diverse supply mix. The Government is also committed to removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for renewable and clean energy projects. These commitments can only be achieved if costs are shared fairly among consumers, today and in the future.

Electricity rates have risen for two key reasons. First, decades of under-investment in the electricity system resulted in the need to invest more than $50 billion in generation, transmission and distribution assets to ensure the system is clean and reliable. Second, the decision to eliminate Ontario's use of coal and produce clean, renewable power has created additional costs.

The actions taken to achieve a clean, modern and reliable electricity system have resulted in significant costs to residential consumers. The burden of financing these system improvements and funding key programs has unfairly fallen almost entirely on the shoulders of those consumers.

The Government of Ontario is committed to ensuring that the costs of financing these investments and the associated charges to consumers are allocated fairly among present and future generations.

Recognizing that the electricity infrastructure that has been built and the policy decisions that have been made will create benefits for years to come, costs should be allocated fairly over time, so that residential consumers in the future pay their fair share for the benefits that they receive from the investments already made.

PART II
FAIR ADJUSTMENT

Definition

6. In this Part,

"regulated rate consumer" means a specified consumer who meets the following criteria:

1. The consumer is a member of the class of consumers prescribed by the regulations made under the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 for the purposes of subsection 79.16 (1) of that Act.

2. The consumer would, if the consumer were not subject to this Act, be invoiced the rates determined by the Board under clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

Regulated rate consumers, first adjustments

7. (1) Despite any order under subsection 78 (3.1) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 and despite section 79.16 of that Act, the electricity rates payable by regulated rate consumers for the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 are the rates, as determined by the Board, that would result in a hypothetical regulated rate consumer who meets the prescribed criteria being charged an invoice amount that is 25 per cent less than the invoice amount that would have been charged to that consumer under the comparison rates described in subsection (2).

Comparison rates

(2) The comparison rates are the rates that would have been effective May 1, 2017 if they had been determined by the Board solely using the method prescribed by the regulations made under clause 79.16 (1) (b) of the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998, without taking into account any forecasted impact of any other provisions of this Act.

Invoice amounts

(3) The types of amounts to be included or excluded in each invoice amount mentioned in subsection (1) are the types of amounts specified in the regulations.

Other specified consumers, first adjustments

1. Determine the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits allocated to specified consumers in respect of the reference period.

2. Determine the estimated reduction in the amounts payable by specified consumers as a result of determinations of the Board under Part II in respect of all previous reference periods, including the estimated reduction in clean energy costs described in clause (a) of the definition of "clean energy costs" in subsection 1 (1) that would otherwise have been payable by specified consumers in the absence of this Act.

3. Determine the amount, if any, by which the determination under paragraph 1 exceeds the determination under paragraph 2.

4. Calculate the sum of the amount determined under paragraph 3 and such other amounts as may be prescribed.

Principles

(2) In calculating the fair allocation amount, the Minister shall have regard to the following principles:

1. The purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among the specified consumers in respect of each reference period.

2. Calculations should be made having regard to the need to align each fair allocation amount with the estimated finance amount payable during the reference period.

Principles

(3) In preparing the Financing Plan, the Financial Services Manager shall have regard to the following principles:

1. Funding obligations should be incurred such that, along with any funding obligations already incurred, the estimated finance amount that would, subject to any refinancing, become due and payable during a reference period will reasonably align with the fair allocation amount determined in respect of the reference period, in each case after reducing the fair allocation amount to reflect determinations of the Board under Part II in respect of the reference period.

2. Incurrences should be implemented in a manner that, in the opinion of the Financial Services Manager, is reasonable, cost effective and that reflects prevailing market terms and conditions.

3. Reasonable assumptions should be made regarding such matters as may be prescribed.

4. Such other principles as may be prescribed.

Limitation

(4) In respect of each reference period from July 1, 2017 to April 30, 2021, no funding obligation shall be incurred that would result in amounts payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment in respect of the reference period unless,

(a) the amounts are payable in respect of a reference period in respect of which the Board has not made any determinations under Part II; or

(b) if the Board has made a determination under Part II in respect of the reference period, the funding obligations incurred would not result in amounts payable in respect of the clean energy adjustment during the reference period in an amount that exceeds the limit determined in accordance with the regulations.

Penalty

(5) If the Finance Minister makes an assessment or reassessment under subsection (4) and is satisfied that the person's non-compliance with the required steps in the notice was attributable to neglect, carelessness, wilful default or fraud, the Finance Minister may assess a penalty against the person equal to the outstanding balance of the overpayment when the penalty is assessed.

Time limit

(6) The Finance Minister shall not assess or reassess under subsection (4) more than 48 months after the end of the month in which the person received the overpayment.

(d) sections 23 and 36, subsections 37 (1), (1.1) and (2) and sections 37.1, 38 and 39 of the Retail Sales Tax Act apply with necessary modifications.

(9) If all or part of an overpayment is repaid to the Finance Minister, the Minister of Energy shall make such financial arrangements and payments as may be necessary to ensure that any person entitled to all or part of the overpayment receives the appropriate amount.

NAV CANADA is completely separate from the Government of Canada and is sometimes described as a quasi crown even though it is not. In 1996 it purchased the Canadian air navigation assets from Transport Canada. It has no shares and no shareholder. The interest groups are represented on its Board but have no equity rights and no one party can control the Board. The Board also has a number of in dependent directors with no interest group affiliation. The public debt is secured only by the assets of the company and their is no third party guarantee. Pursuant to the Air Navigation Services act the company has the right to set and charge rates related to the services it provides subject to the concept in the act that is a not for profit entity

Hope that helps. Let me know if you need anything else

Best regards

Sandy

Hi Sandy,

Hope this finds you well.

I have a couple of quick questions for you related to NAV Canada.

Is NAV considered an OGO or a GBE? Is NAV consolidated by the GVT of Canada?

Thanks a million.

Cindy had to head into a meeting for the next couple hours after trying to connect with you just now but please let me know if any questions.

The Board of Directors

Dear Sirs,

We have been engaged to provide you with an accounting opinion on the application of Public Sector Accounting Standards to the consolidation of a trust and to the recognition and derecognition of a variance account in relation to Bill 132, Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 as tabled in the first reading ("Bill 132") (Appendix A to this letter). This letter is being issued to the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO" or the "Company") in connection with its evaluation of the consolidation requirements and the accounting for the variance account under Canadian Public Sector Accounting Standards ("PSAS"). Our engagement has been conducted in accordance with generally accepted standards in Canada for such engagements.

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific issues described below rests with management of the Company as preparers of the financial statements.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act, 1998 ("the Electricity Act") and the Ontario Energy Board ("OEB" or the "Board") Act, 1998 ("the OEB Act")), and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the trust to be established by OPG) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific matters described below is based on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us. The finalization of the legislation, regulations, financing structure and other agreements may impact the comments and conclusions set out herein. Our comments and conclusions are based on Bill 132 and related matters as they exist at the date of this letter.

The following three issues are addressed in this letter:

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by Ontario Power Generation (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and therefore subject to consolidation by IESO?

KPMG LLP is a Canadian limited liability partnership and a member firm of the KPMG network of independent member firms affiliated with KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity. KPMG Canada provides services to KPMG LLP.

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Background for issue #1

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party) are as follows:

1. The IESO's legal status is a not-for-profit, non-taxable, corporation established pursuant to Part II of the Electricity Act. Management of the IESO has determined that the Company is an Other Governmental Organization and accordingly prepares its financial statements in accordance with PSAS.

2. IESO is rate regulated by the OEB in accordance with the Electricity Act and the OEB Act.

3. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 3 New Accounting Policies, audited by KPMG "As of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy regarding the recognition of assets and liabilities subject to rate regulation. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model. This change has been applied retroactively and has increased amounts previously unrecorded for regulatory assets and decreased amounts previously reported for accumulated deficit."

4. Extract from the 2016 IESO financial statements, note 2(d) Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, Regulatory assets and liabilities. "As a rate-regulated entity, the IESO, in appropriate circumstances establishes regulated assets or liabilities and thereby defers the impact on the statement of operations of certain expenses or revenues because they are probable to be collected or refunded to market participants through future billings. The IESO applies guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations ("ASC 980"), in this policy."

5. Extract from Section 78(3.3) of the OEB Act: In approving or fixing rates under subsection (3.1),

   (a) the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect these costs; and

   (b) the Board shall take into account balances in the IESO's variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall make adjustments with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct.

6. Currently, IESO recognizes two regulatory assets for unrecovered smart metering expenses and unrecovered PSAB transition items as permitted by rates approved by the OEB. In addition, in accordance with section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, IESO also recognizes variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) to record all amounts payable or receivable by it in connection with the amounts paid to generators, the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation ("OEFC"), distributors and to entities with whom the IESO has a procurement contract.

7. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts of Bill 132:

   Section 1 Definitions, Transfer of regulatory asset

   (3) In this Act, a reference to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset is a reference to the following, as provided for in subsection 26 (3):

1. A reduction in the balance in the variance account.
2. The adjustment of the regulatory asset.
3. The acquisition by a financing entity of the investment interest corresponding to the specified portion of the regulatory asset.

Section 24 Variance account to be established, maintained

(1) IESO shall establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the following:

1. The IESO deferral for each month.
2. All payments received by IESO resulting from the exercise of the right of recovery under section 25 and any transfer under section 26.
3. Such other adjustments as may be prescribed, including adjustments in respect of the period that commences on or after May 1, 2017 and before the day this section comes into force.

(2) Subject to the correction of any obvious error by the IESO, its recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording.

(3) No change made by IESO to the balance in the variance account shall, if the previous balance was relied upon by an investment interest owner in the context of a transfer under section 26, affect the rights acquired by the investment interest owner under the transfer.

Section 25 Regulatory asset established

(1) Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.

(3) IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

Section 34 Board's Authority

(2) Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing.

8. It is expected that the IESO deferral recorded by the IESO in the variance account (the regulatory asset) will be transferred to an investment asset owner (i.e. a trust to be established by OPG) on a monthly basis and cash collected within a short period of time. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #1

ASC 980 Regulated Operations

– For general-purpose financial reporting, an incurred cost for which a regulator permits recovery in a future period is accounted for like an incurred cost that is reimbursable under a cost-reimbursement-type contract. [980-10-05-6]

- Unless an accounting order indicates the way a cost will be handled for rate-making purposes, it causes no economic effects that would justify deviation from the GAAP applicable to business entities in general. The mere issuance of an accounting order not tied to rate treatment does not change an entity's economic resources or obligations. In other words, the economic effect of regulatory decisions—not the mere existence of regulation—is the pervasive factor that determines the application of GAAP. [980-10-05-8]
- The guidance in the Regulated Operations Topic applies to general-purpose external financial statements of an entity that has regulated operations that meet all of the following criteria:
  (a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.
  (b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products. This criterion is intended to be applied to the substance of the regulation, rather than its form.
  (c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs. [980-10-15-2]
- Incurred Cost - A cost arising from cash paid out or obligation to pay for an acquired asset or service, a loss from any cause that has been sustained and has been or must be paid for. [980-10-20] Glossary
- Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:
  (a) Deregulation.
  (b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.
  (c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).
  (d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [980-20-15-2]
- Rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:
  (a) It is probable (as defined in Topic 450) that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes.
  (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.

A cost that does not meet these asset recognition criteria at the date the cost is incurred shall be recognized as a regulatory asset when it does meet those criteria at a later date. [980-340-25-1]

- Rate actions of a regulator can reduce or eliminate the value of an asset. If a regulator excludes all or part of a cost from allowable costs, the carrying amount of any asset recognized pursuant to paragraph 980-340-25-1 shall be reduced to the extent of the excluded cost. Whether other assets have been impaired shall be judged the same as for entities in general and the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets Subsections of Subtopic 360-10 shall apply. [980-340-35-1]
- If at any time an entity's incurred cost no longer meets the criteria for the capitalization of an incurred cost (see paragraph 980-340-25-1), that cost shall be charged to earnings. [980-340-40-1]
- In some cases, a regulator may approve rates that are intended to recover an incurred cost over an extended period without a return on the unrecovered cost during the recovery period. [980-340-55-2]
- The regulator's action provides reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset (see paragraph 980-340-25-1). Accordingly, the regulated entity would capitalize the cost and amortize it over the period during which it will be allowed for rate-making purposes. That cost would not be recorded at discounted present value. An exception to this general rule is provided for costs of abandoned plants. [980-340-55-3]

Issue #1: Can the IESO recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132?

As noted above, as of January 1, 2016, the IESO changed its accounting policy to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation and now applies guidance from US GAAP Topic 980, Regulated Operations, as PSAS does not have any specific guidance for entities with rate-regulated activities.

IESO concluded that it met the requirements of PS2120.02, which allows them to reflect the impacts of rate regulation, as it is considered that the change of accounting policy in its 2016 financial statements resulted in a more appropriate presentation of transactions in its financial statements. The change was made to better reflect the economic substance of certain types of expenses that may not be directly recovered through the normal revenue requirement model.

The regulatory framework in Ontario relating to the generation and sale of electricity will be significantly impacted by Bill 132. Currently, a substantial amount of the energy purchased from the generators is collected by IESO from the local distribution companies through the customer billing, with the remaining being recovered through variance accounts over a period of 12 months maximum. As mentioned above, the effect of Bill 132 is to defer the collection of a total estimated amount of $28 billion (plus interest) of energy purchased from the generators over a period of 30 years. Bill 132 will not permit IESO to collect the IESO deferral before May 1, 2021 and the recovery process will be established through regulations. Such a long-term deferred recovery plan requires IESO to consider whether the uncollected energy costs qualify for deferral as a regulatory asset and whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow IESO to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980. These two accounting issues are analyzed in the two tables below.

Criteria for the recognition of regulatory assets

ASC 980-340-25-1 states that rate actions of a regulator can provide reasonable assurance of the existence of an asset. An entity shall capitalize all or part of an incurred cost that would otherwise be charged to expense if both of the following criteria are met:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) It is probable that future revenue in an amount at least equal to the capitalized cost will result from inclusion of that cost in allowable costs for rate-making purposes. (b) Based on available evidence, the future revenue will be provided to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs. (emphasis added) If the revenue will be provided through an automatic rate-adjustment clause, this criterion requires that the regulator's intent clearly be to permit recovery of the previously incurred cost.	Bill 132 notes that, • A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording. • Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO has the right, exercisable in accordance with this Act and the regulations, to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers. • The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. • The IESO shall not be entitled to collect all or part of the balance recorded in the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021. Based on Bill 132, IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. As a result, it is clear that the IESO will be able to recover the amount previously incurred rather than to provide for expected levels of similar future costs.	Met

Deferred recovery plans are plans adopted by regulators or legislations in response to significant increases in costs (e.g. purchased power costs). These plans typically provide for rates to remain fixed or increase moderately with a variance account mechanism to capture costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. A regulated utility subject to such plans is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria that allow it to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980, especially criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

The proposed plan for the recovery of purchase power costs over a 30 year period is considered a deferred recovery plan as the rates for the first four years will remain fixed and subsequently the rates will increase moderately with a variance account to capture energy costs in excess of the level allowed in current rates. The following is an analysis of the ASC 980-10-15-2 criteria.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
(a) The entity's rates for regulated services or products provided to its customers are established by or are subject to approval by an independent, third-party	Currently, IESO recognizes regulatory assets related to smart meters and PSAS transition costs as permitted by rates approved by the OEB and regulatory liabilities related to the variance accounts (eg. OESP, RPP and RRRP variance accounts) established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act related to the procurement of energy.	Met

regulator or by its own governing board empowered by statute or contract to establish rates that bind customers.	It is important to note that both Hydro One and OPG are classified as Government Business Enterprises and are reporting under IFRS in their consolidated financial statements, are consolidated by the modified equity method into the province's books, are regulated by the OEB, and their respective regulatory assets and liabilities are reported in the province's books.

(b) The regulated rates are designed to recover the specific entity's costs of providing the regulated services or products.	Currently, the rates approved by the OEB are designed to recover the IESO's costs of providing the regulated services and the pass-through related to the energy purchased from the generators.

	As mentioned above, a regulated utility subject to a deferred recovery plan is required to consider whether it continues to meet the criteria ASC 980-10-15-2 (b).

	This criterion requires a cause-and-effect relationship between a reporting entity's costs and its revenue. In addition, the timing of cost recovery and the related frequency of ratemaking is important. A reporting entity should consider its rate case experience, including the design of its rates and timing of recovery, when determining whether this criterion is met. These factors are analyzed below.

	Frequency of rate case

	- Currently, IESO is subject to OEB's annual reviews.
	- Although the recovery of purchase energy costs will be frozen at the approved rate on May 1, 2017 for the first four years, the IESO will be granted a right to recover after May 1, 2021 the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account during the four-year period.
	  - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance, as of the time of the recording. (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review by the OEB)
	  - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  - Obligation on the part of the OEB to dispose the variance account in accordance with the regulation.
	- Subsequent to May 1, 2021, the OEB will be required to determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
		Met

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	- The Board shall, from time to time, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Despite anything to the contrary in the OEB Act, the Board may exercise any of its responsibilities under this Act without a hearing. Rates are designed to recover incurred costs - There is a cause-and-effect relationship between the purchase energy costs and revenue, as IESO will be allowed to recover the costs incurred. - A recording of the balance in the variance account is determinative of the balance as of the time of the recording (We note that this confirms that there will be no prudence review). - Right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. - Obligation on the part of the OEB to ensure IESO will recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Periods of alternative ratemaking (e.g., rate freezes) Evaluation of the second criterion requires additional judgment if the regulated utility is subject to any form of ratemaking that introduces uncertainty about the cause-and-effect relationship between costs and rates. A rate freeze period is defined as a fixed rate that is charged to customers during a period of time (more than two years) and the utilities are exposed to increases in operating and energy costs with no ability to recover the variances. This is not the case as IESO will be granted the right to recover fully the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, including the first four-year period. - The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified consumers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account. Costs uncertainty As the IESO will be granted the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no uncertainty about the recovery of the costs.

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
	Disallowances of costs The OEB has never disallowed the recovery of any material costs incurred by the IESO. More importantly, as the IESO will be granted by legislation the right to fully recover the IESO deferral recorded in the variance account, there is no risk of the potential disallowance of the purchase power costs. Based on the analysis of the above factors, there are no indications that this criterion would not be met. The above factors establish that there will be a direct cause-and-effect relationship between IESO's costs and its future collection.

(c) In view of the demand for the regulated services or products and the level of competition, direct and indirect, it is reasonable to assume that rates set at levels that will recover the entity's costs can be charged to and collected from customers. This criterion requires consideration of anticipated changes in levels of demand or competition during the recovery period for any capitalized costs."	The remaining criterion is whether limitations, including considering demand levels at the approved rates, on the extent of recovery of the regulatory asset could prevent the IESO from recognizing a regulatory asset for the entire balance in the recovery right granted to the IESO.

	Bill 132 notes that:

	- Effective May 1, 2017, the IESO's right to recover the balance in the variance account is subject to the following:
	  o The Board shall, from time to time and in accordance with the regulations, determine and set rates payable by specified customers to allow for the IESO to recover the balance recorded in the variance account.
	  o IESO shall not be entitled to collect the variance account from specified consumers before May 1, 2021.

	Although the process, especially the timing of the recovery of the regulatory asset has not been established yet by the OEB, the wording and intent of the proposed legislation is clear that it is intended by law to be recoverable over the period of 30 years. Further, given the nature and extent of customer demand for the power generated and distributed in Ontario, both at this time and projected in the future, it is reasonable to conclude that there will be sufficient demand to recover the regulatory asset. As with the other criteria, this will need to be continually evaluated throughout the recovery period.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the IESO can recognize a regulatory asset related to the variance account created by Bill 132 based on the foregoing analysis.

The variance account created by Bill 132 is subject to rate regulation by the OEB and the variance account will be established with the right to collect funds against the variance amount in the future. In these circumstances, the IESO is able to establish a regulatory asset. The IESO financial statements are prepared in accordance with Canadian public sector accounting standards. Although PSAB does not provide specific guidance on rate regulated accounting, it does under PS 1150 Generally Accepted Accounting Principles allow for guidance to be followed from other accounting frameworks. IESO has applied guidance from United States Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (US GAAP) Topic 980, Regulated Operations in its accounting policies.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the variance account created by Bill 132 will meet the criteria for the recognition of a regulatory asset stated in ASC 980-340-25-1. Furthermore, we have also considered the criteria stated in ASC 980-10-15-2 and believe that IESO should be allowed to continue to use the guidance for regulated operations of Topic 980.

Background for Issue #2

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issue #1, are as follows:

1. The IESO currently has the right to collect the global adjustment ("GA") monthly from ratepayers through provisions in the Electricity Act. It is proposed that collection of a certain portion of the monthly GA be deferred in a regulatory asset for collection in the future, and that the right to recover the deferred GA from ratepayers be used as the basis for structured financing/ securitization.
2. In connection with Bill 132, it is proposed that a trust be established as a financial vehicle by OPG (the "OPG Trust") in connection with the deferred GA. The OPG Trust will finance the deferral of the GA by purchasing the regulatory asset from the IESO for the principal amount of the GA being deferred.
3. The OPG Trust is expected to finance these purchases from the IESO through a combination of senior secured financing raised in the capital markets, and subordinated financing from OPG (the funding for which will mostly be from equity injections from the OEFC/Province of Ontario).
4. OPG will be appointed as the Financial Services Manager and will be given the responsibility to direct the activities of the OPG Trust, through a services agreement and/or through the Trust's constating documents.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #2

PS1300 Government Reporting Entity:

PSAS refer to government or government organizations. For the purpose of this analysis, the PSAS guidance below relating to government or government organizations should be read and understood as being the IESO (emphasis added).

- The government reporting entity should comprise government components and those organizations that are controlled by the government. [PS 1300.07]
- Control is the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities. [PS 1300.08] (emphasis added).
- Whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that must be determined by reference to the definition of control established in paragraph PS 1300.08 and the particular circumstances of each case. The determination of the fact that control exists will require the application of professional judgment. Government achieves its objectives through a wide range of organizations which individually will fall somewhere along a continuum. At one end of the continuum, it will be clear that an organization does not have the power to act independently and is controlled by the government. At the other end, the organization will have the power to act independently and, while government will have a level of influence on the organization, it will be clear that it does not have control. Along the continuum, consideration needs to be given to the nature of the relationship between the government and the organization in order to determine whether control exists. This Section provides guidance intended to assist in this assessment. [PS 1300.10]
- In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between the government and the organization. The true nature of certain relationships may not be completely reflected by their legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. Where various aspects of the relationship are designed, in effect, to achieve an overall objective, they would be viewed as a whole. [PS 1300.11]
- Financial and operating policies are principles and practices that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control because it establishes the fundamental basis for the conduct of the organization's operations and the achievement of its mission and mandate. [PS 1300.13]
- There are a variety of ways to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization. For example:
  (a) a government may establish an organization's fundamental purpose and eliminate or significantly limit the ability of the organization to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the organization;
  (b) a government may direct the financial and operating policies of an organization on an ongoing basis; or
  (c) a government may veto, overrule or modify the financial and operating policies established by an organization. [PS 1300.14]
- A government does not need to manage an organization's activities on a day-to-day basis to control the organization. It is the government's existing authority to determine the policies governing those activities that is important. [PS 1300.15]

– For the purposes of this Section, it is assumed that where the government has the power to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization, it expects to derive a financial or non-financial benefit. The government may also be exposed to the risk of loss. [PS 1300.16]

Issue #2: Is the trust to be established by OPG (the "OPG Trust") controlled by the IESO according to the guidance issued under PSAS 1300 Government Reporting Entity and, therefore, subject to consolidation by IESO?

Under PSAS, IESO is required to consolidate all entities that are considered to be part of its reporting entity, applying the guidance provided in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity. Under PS 1300, IESO must consolidate all entities it "controls".

In determining whether or not the OPG Trust should be consolidated by IESO, it must first be determined whether or not the IESO exercises control as a consequence of power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust resulting in expected benefits to the IESO or the risk of loss from the activities of the OPG Trust.

PS 1300.17 indicates that "whether a government controls an organization is a question of fact that requires the application of professional judgment based on the definition of control in this Section and the substance of the relationship in each case." Under PS 1300.08 control is defined as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organization's activities". Therefore, the determination of whether IESO will consolidate the OPG Trust will be based on an assessment of whether IESO is considered to control the OPG Trust based on the indicia of control set out in PS 1300. The assessment of the IESO's control of the OPG Trust is made based on Bill 132, facts and nature of the relationship between the IESO and the OPG Trust and based on facts and assumptions provided by IESO. PS 1300.18 and .19 set out 11 potential indicia of control. Several of these indicia have been categorized as more persuasive of a finding of control (see the first four indicators in the table below). For each indicator that applies, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. Finally, the indicia are considered both collectively and individually.

A detailed analysis of the 11 Indicators of control is provided in the following table.

Primary (more persuasive) indicators (PS 1300.18):
Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	- Bill 132 states: - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18) - The Financial Services Manager shall perform the duties assigned to it under this Act and may administer the investment asset on behalf of the investment interest owners. (Section 19 (1)) - Subject to any prescribed limitations, the Financial Services Manager may establish and charge fees in relation to such matters as may be prescribed in accordance with the regulations, which regulations may provide for the ability to recover costs and expenditures and to earn a return. (Section 19 (3))	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?

	- The Electricity Act will be amended as follows:
	  - In addition to the objects mentioned in subsection (1), the objects of OPG include exercising the powers and rights and performing the duties and obligations assigned to it under the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017 and engaging in activities to facilitate the implementation of that Act, including entering into contracts and undertakings on behalf of financing entities and performing other services on behalf of financing entities, subject to the right to be paid by the financing entities for those services. (Section 53.1 (1.1))
	  - OPG may create or invest in one or more subsidiaries, trusts, partnerships or special purpose entities in order to more efficiently conduct its activities or achieve its objects. (Section 53.1 (1.2))
	- OPG will establish a trust to manage the collection of the regulatory asset and related financing and administrative expenses. The Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust will be the governing body of the Trust and will be appointed by OPG. OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees.
	- The IESO will not have any rights in respect of the appointment or replacement of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust.

Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	- Section 27 of Bill 132 states:
	  - A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.
	  - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for the IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of the IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.
		No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. - Based on Bill 132, upon transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, the investment asset resulting from the transfer is immediately vested in the OPG Trust, free and clear of any adverse claim. (Section 28 (2)). - Therefore, upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust, IESO will no longer have access/ability to direct the regulatory asset nor have the ongoing responsibility for losses. - The credit risk related to the collection of the investment asset is borne by the OPG Trust.
Government holds the majority of the voting shares or a "golden share" that confers the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the organization	- IESO will not have any ownership in the OPG Trust and will not have the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the OPG Trust.	No
Government has the unilateral power to dissolve the organization and thereby access its assets and become responsible for its obligations	- IESO will not have the power to dissolve the organization.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
Other indicators that may provide evidence of control exist when government has the power to (PS 1300.18):
Provide significant input into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust. - IESO will not provide any input in the appointment of members of the Board of Trustees.	No
Appoint or remove the CEO or other key personnel	- OPG will have the power to unilaterally appoint or remove all members of the Board of Trustees of the OPG Trust and other key personnel.	No
Establish or amend the mission or mandate of the organization	- The Trust will be established by OPG and the mandate of the Trust will be set based on Bill 132.	No

Approve the business plans or budgets for the organization and require amendments, either on a net or line-by-line basis	- Bill 132 states:
	  - OPG is appointed as the Financial Services Manager for the purposes of this Act. (Section 18)
	  - The Financial Services Manager shall prepare a written plan entitled the Financing Plan to be used by the Financial Services Manager to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred for the purposes of acquiring and financing an investment asset in accordance with this Act or for the purposes of refinancing. (Section 16 (1))
	- OPG is the Financial Services Manager, not IESO.
	- IESO is not involved in the preparation or approval of the business plans or budget of the OPG Trust.
		No

Establish borrowing or investment limits or restrict the organization's investments	- Section 22 of Bill 132 states: - The Financial Services Manager shall ensure that funding obligations incurred for the purposes of this Act are incurred in a manner that is consistent with the applicable Financing Plan.	No

INDICATOR OF CONTROLS	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXIST?
	- OPG not IESO, is responsible for ensuring that the borrowings of the OPG Trust meet the above conditions.
Restrict the revenue-generating capacity of the organization, notably the sources of revenue	- N/A	No
Establish or amend the policies that the organization uses to manage, such as those relating to accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources	- As mentioned above, OPG will be granted by legislation the power to establish or amend the policies of the OPG Trust and the ability to appoint and remove all members of the Board of Trustees.	No

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the OPG Trust to be established would not be controlled by the IESO and therefore is not subject to consolidation by the IESO.

Based on the foregoing analysis of the 11 indicators of control as defined in Section PS 1300 Government Reporting Entity, considered both individually and collectively there is no evidence of control by the IESO in respect of the OPG Trust. The IESO will not have the power to govern the Trust, nor have ongoing access to Trust's assets. The IESO will also not have any voting shares or future rights to the Trust nor the power to dissolve the Trust. Without control, the Trust is not subject to consolidation within the IESO financial statements.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that based on Bill 132, none of the four primary (more persuasive) indicators of control are considered to be met, and none of the seven other indicators of control are considered to be met. Accordingly, we concur that the IESO does not control the OPG Trust under Bill 132 and hence would not consolidate the OPG Trust.

The adoption of Bill 132 (including the subsequent amendments of the Electricity Act and the OEB Act) and the finalization of the financing structure (including the bylaws and regulations of the OPG Trust) and other agreements will take several months. Accordingly, our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS to the conclusion on control may change subject to further analysis of any changes to the terms of Bill 132 or review of the final regulations, financing structure and other agreements.

Background for Issue #3

The facts, circumstances, and assumptions relevant to the specific transactions as provided to us by the management of the Company (responsible party), in addition to those described in the background for issues #1 and 2, are as follows:

1. The total IESO deferral for the period from May 1, 2017 to April 30, 2047 is estimated at $28 billion plus interest and will be recorded by the IESO in a variance account recognized as a regulatory asset.
2. The IESO does not currently have the financial capability to finance the regulatory asset and will transfer the variance account to an investment asset owner (i.e. OPG Trust) on a monthly basis.
3. The IESO will obtain a written legal opinion as to the validity and enforceability of the transfer and sale of the regulatory asset.
4. Based on an assessment of control performed under the issue #2, IESO will not consolidate the OPG Trust. We understand that an assessment of control under International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") has been performed by OPG and they have concluded that the OPG Trust will be consolidated by OPG; we note that the financial reporting framework used by OPG in preparing its financial statements for consolidation into the Province's books is IFRS.
5. The Electricity Act, OEB Act and other regulations will be amended to reflect the following extracts from Bill 132:

   Section 16 IESO to receive amounts

   (2) The IESO shall, as agent of the investment interest owners, receive amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment paid to it from electricity vendors in accordance with the market rules made under section 32 of the Electricity Act, 1998 or the regulations.

   (4) All amounts received by the IESO in respect of the clean energy adjustment shall, until remitted to or for the benefit of the investment interest owner, be held in trust by the IESO for the investment interest owners.

   (5) The IESO shall remit amounts received by it in respect of the clean energy adjustment, inclusive of interest earned on the amounts referred to in subsection (1), to or for the benefit of the investment interest owners in accordance with the regulations.

   Section 17 Pro rating of payments

   (4) If an electricity vendor receives a payment made by or on behalf of a specified consumer in respect of amounts payable under one or more invoices and the amount paid is less than the total amount payable, the electricity vendor shall allocate the payment on a pro rata basis to the clean energy adjustment and other amounts payable under the relevant invoices in respect of electricity charges in respect of the same invoice period.

   Section 26 Transfer of regulatory asset

   (1) The IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section.

   (2) An agreement between the IESO and a financing entity in relation to the transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset shall provide for consideration of a payment by the financing entity to the IESO in an amount equal to the amount of the specified portion.

(3) Upon receipt by the IESO of the payment by the financing entity,

(a) the balance in the variance account shall be reduced by the amount of the payment;

(b) the regulatory asset shall be adjusted accordingly;

(c) the financing entity shall acquire a corresponding investment interest; and

(d) the IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the investment interest.

Section 27 Validity of transfer

(1) A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee.

(2) Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest.

(3) At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made under section 26, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor.

(4) Subsection (3) applies regardless of whether the persons who have claims have received notice of the transfer and the property rights and interests acquired by the transferee shall have priority over any liens in favour of those persons.

Section 29 Investment asset, irrevocable rights and interests

(1) The investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest consisting, collectively, of the following rights and interests of investment interest owners:

1. The right and interest to impose, invoice, collect, receive and recover the clean energy adjustment from specified consumers, including the right to determine the clean energy adjustment in accordance with this Act.

2. The right to receive, collect and recover the clean energy adjustment that is imposed, invoiced and recoverable under this Act, including any amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment that are held by electricity vendors, IESO and other prescribed parties.

Section 30 Transfer of investment interest

(2) An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan.

Section 32 Investment interest owner may grant security interest

(1) An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation.

(3) All provisions of the Personal Property Security Act shall apply to the investment asset and each investment interest on the basis that the investment asset and each investment interest is intangible personal property, except as otherwise provided for in this section, and any granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner to secure a funding obligation shall, subject to the terms of the funding obligation, give rise to a security interest in respect of which that Act applies and may be perfected by registering a financing statement under that Act on that basis.

6. The terms of the transfer agreement between the IESO and the OPG Trust that will be signed and executed upon transfer of the regulatory assets will be in compliance with the dispositions of Bill 132.

Appropriate Accounting Principle for Issue #3

The Derecognition Section of ASC 980-20-40 provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation. [ASC 980-20-40]

Failure of an entity's operations to continue to meet the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2 can result from different causes. Examples include the following:

(a) Deregulation.

(b) A change in the regulator's approach to setting rates from cost-based rate-making to another form of regulation.

(c) Increasing competition that limits the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs (as used in paragraph 980-10-15-2).

(d) Regulatory actions resulting from resistance to rate increases that limit the entity's ability to sell utility services or products at rates that will recover costs if the entity is unable to obtain (or chooses not to seek) relief from prior regulatory actions through appeals to the regulator or the courts. [ASC 980-20-15-2]

PS1000 Financial statement concepts:

– This Section is to be used by preparers and auditors of financial statements in exercising their professional judgment as to the application of generally accepted accounting principles and in establishing accounting policies in areas in which accounting principles are developing. [PS1000.03]

– Financial statements should communicate information that is relevant to the needs of those for whom the statements are prepared, reliable, comparable, understandable and clearly presented in a manner that maximizes its usefulness. [PS1000.24]

– An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [PS3210.04]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves:

  (a) no future economic benefit;

  (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it; or

  (c) future economic benefit that the government may obtain, but the events or circumstances that give the government control of the benefit have not yet occurred. [PS1000.37]

PS3210 Assets:

- Assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. [PS3210.03]
- Assets have three essential characteristics:
  (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows, or to reduce cash outflows.
  (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits.
  (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. [PS3210.04]
- Control of an economic resource and of access to the future economic benefits are essential characteristics of an asset, whereas possession or ownership is not. [PS3210.22]

PS3430 Restructuring transactions [1]

- Individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date. [PS3430.21]
- When a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether:
  (a) derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate; and
  (b) its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized. [PS3430.24]
- A new asset or new liability may arise from a restructuring due to a transferor's continued involvement in the individual assets and liabilities transferred (for example, if it agrees to guarantee repayment of all or a portion of a transferred liability or leases back a portion of a transferred asset). As the new asset or new liability is not transferred, together with related program or operating responsibilities, they are not part of the restructuring transaction. They would be accounted for in accordance with individual Sections of the PSA Handbook by both the transferors and recipients. [PS3430.25]

1 This Section applies to fiscal years beginning on or after April 1, 2018. […] Earlier adoption is permitted."

Issue #3: What is the accounting treatment for derecognition of the regulatory asset by the IESO upon transfer of the variance account to the OPG Trust?

Although ASC 980-20-40 states that

> "Derecognition Section provides guidance on determining whether and when an entity should remove an item from the financial statements. For example, the entity would derecognize an asset because it no longer has rights to the asset or it would derecognize a liability because it no longer has any obligation."

Subtopic 980-20 relates to discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting when an entity no longer meets the criteria in paragraph 980-10-15-2. ASC 980-20-15-2 provides examples of when an entity no longer meets the criteria, including deregulation and change of the form of regulation. Thus, ASC 980 does not provide clear guidance for the derecognition of a regulatory asset other than in connection with the discontinuation of rate-regulated accounting.

The above guidance in ASC 980-20-40 provides general principles for the derecognition of assets.

It should also be noted that PSAS provide limited guidance on derecognition of non-financial assets and liabilities. Section 3430 Restructuring transactions, which is applicable for fiscal years on or after April 1, 2018 with early application permitted, has guidance for the derecognition of assets and liabilities.

- Paragraph 21 states that individual assets and liabilities transferred in a restructuring transaction should be derecognized by the transferor if they no longer meet the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria at the restructuring date.
- As stated in paragraph 24, when a transferor continues to be involved in the individual assets and/or liabilities it transferred to a recipient subsequent to the restructuring date, it would assess the nature and extent of its continued involvement against the definitions of assets and liabilities and applicable recognition criteria to evaluate whether derecognition of the asset and liability transferred would be appropriate and whether its continued involvement gives rise to a new asset or new liability that needs to be recognized.

Recognizing the proposed transaction is not a restructuring transaction, Section 3430, which has recently been issued by PSAB, provides current evidence of thinking in the application of the general PSAS principles in respect of the recognition and derecognition of assets and liabilities. Accordingly, the analysis as to whether the regulatory asset transferred to the OPG Trust can be derecognized is based on the foregoing guidance.

Criteria for the recognition of an asset

PS3210.03 states that assets are economic resources controlled by a public sector entity as a result of past transactions or events and from which future economic benefits are expected to be obtained. More generally, PSAS PS1000.37 suggests that an asset would no longer be recognized when it fails to meet the definition of an asset:

Criteria	Comment	Evaluation
Assets (PS3210.04/ PS1000.36): Assets have three essential characteristics: (a) They embody future economic benefits that involve a capacity, singly or in combination with other assets, to provide goods and services, to provide future cash inflows,	Based on the guidance, the regulatory asset does not qualify as an asset of IESO if it cannot obtain the future economic benefits. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, IESO will have no further rights or obligations in connection with the asset transferred. - IESO may from time to time, in accordance with this Act and the regulations, transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity in accordance with this section. - Upon receipt by IESO of the payment by the financing entity, IESO shall retain no further right, title or interest in the corresponding investment interest.	Not Met

or to reduce cash outflows. (b) The public sector entity can control the economic resource and access to the future economic benefits. (c) The transaction or event giving rise to the public sector entity's control has already occurred. Financial statement concepts (PS1000.37): An item is not an asset of a government if it lacks one or more of the essential characteristics listed in the preceding paragraph [see above]. Thus, for example, an item does not qualify as an asset of a government if the item involves: (a) no future economic benefit (b) future economic benefit, but the government cannot obtain it.	- A transfer of a specified portion of the regulatory asset under section 26 constitutes a valid and enforceable absolute assignment, conveyance and sale of the corresponding investment interest to the transferee. - Without limiting subsection (1), any transfer agreement that states an intention of the parties for IESO to dispose of a specified portion of the regulatory asset and to assign, convey or sell a corresponding investment interest shall be treated for all purposes as an absolute assignment, conveyance, disposition and sale of IESO's right to recover the corresponding amount in the variance account and not merely as a security interest. - At the time a transfer of the regulatory asset is made, the transfer shall be deemed to have been and shall be perfected, vested, valid and binding as against the transferor and all other persons who have claims of any kind against the transferor. Upon transfer of the regulatory asset, the OPG Trust will have the right to sell the asset to another party or to grant a security interest in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. - Upon transfer, the financing entity becomes an investment asset owner and acquires an investment interest. - An investment interest owner may transfer all or a portion of an investment interest to any other investment interest owner, including by way of a transfer of a divided or an undivided interest, in accordance with the Financing Plan. - An investment interest owner may grant a security interest over all or a specified portion of its right, title and interest in, to and under the investment interest to or in favour of any person to secure a funding obligation. Based on Bill 132, it is clear that IESO will have no rights to the benefits associated with the future cash inflows related to the regulatory asset as it will have transferred its right to recover the IESO deferral to the OPG Trust. Further, it is also clear that IESO will have lost control over the regulatory asset once it is transferred to OPG Trust.

Management conclusion

IESO management has concluded that the regulatory asset will be derecognized upon transfer of the regulatory asset to the OPG Trust.

The transfer of the regulatory asset transfers the control and the benefits associated with the right to collect funds in the future against the variance amount to the OPG Trust. This will eliminate the IESO asset by the amount of the transfer as the IESO will no longer control an economic resource or have access to future economic benefits for that amount. The funds collected from the transfer will in turn reduce the associated debt held by the IESO, maintaining the IESO's net $ nil balance in the market accounts.

Our conclusion

We have considered the foregoing analysis and management's conclusion. We concur that the regulatory asset should be derecognized on transfer to the OPG Trust as IESO no longer has rights or future economic benefits associated with the asset.

Other Matters

The ultimate responsibility for the decision on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transactions rests with management as preparers of the financial statements. Our judgment on the appropriate application of PSAS for the specific transaction is based solely on the facts, circumstances and assumptions provided to us as described above. Should these facts and circumstances differ, our conclusion may change.

Fair Hydro Act, 2017

The Bill enacts a new Act and makes amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998.

ONTARIO FAIR HYDRO PLAN ACT, 2017

The Schedule enacts the Ontario Fair Hydro Plan Act, 2017. The Act establishes a framework under which the costs and benefits associated with the "clean energy initiative" are to be allocated among present and future consumers of electricity. The "clean energy initiative" is defined in Part I as consisting of the policies of the Government of Ontario related to such matters as eliminating coal generation and fostering the growth of and investment in clean, modern and reliable energy sources and technologies.

Under Part II, the Ontario Energy Board is required to determine reduced electricity rates and to determine other adjustments to be made for certain classes of consumers in respect of specified periods of time. For example, for the class of consumers referred to as "regulated rate consumers", the electricity rates payable for the period beginning on July 1, 2017 and ending on April 30, 2018 are the rates, as determined by the Board, that would achieve a 25 per cent reduction in certain costs for a hypothetical member of the class who meets prescribed criteria. Details regarding the determinations are prescribed by regulations.

Part III requires certain electricity consumers to pay an amount in respect of the "clean energy adjustment". The clean energy adjustment is determined by the Financial Services Manager in accordance with rules set out in the Act and the regulations. (Section 18 of the Act appoints Ontario Power Generation Inc. as the Financial Services Manager.) Part III also specifies the roles and responsibilities of electricity vendors and the Independent Electricity System Operator ("IESO") with respect to the collection and remittance of amounts in respect of the clean energy adjustment.

Part IV requires the Minister of Energy to calculate a "fair allocation amount" by taking specified steps in accordance with principles and assumptions set out in the Act. For example, the Act provides that the purpose of calculating the fair allocation amount is to measure and allocate the estimated clean energy costs and estimated clean energy benefits fairly among certain consumers. Part IV also requires the Financial Services Manager to prepare a written plan entitled the "Financing Plan", which is to be used to evaluate whether potential funding obligations should be incurred. Principles and limitations regarding the preparation and implementation of the plan are provided.

Part V requires the IESO to determine the "IESO deferral" in accordance with the regulations and to establish and maintain a variance account in which it records the IESO deferral each month. A "regulatory asset" is created under section 25; the IESO has the right to recover the balance recorded in the variance account from certain consumers. The IESO is authorized to transfer a specified portion of the regulatory asset to a financing entity; this transfer results in the creation of the investment asset and the acquisition by the transferee of a corresponding "investment interest". Various rules respecting the validity and priority of a transfer of an investment asset are set out.

In Part VI, rules in respect of the "investment asset" are provided. Section 29 provides that the investment asset constitutes a current and irrevocable property right and interest, consisting collectively of various specified rights and interests of investment interest owners. Rules respecting the validity and priority of such a transfer and the granting of a security interest by an investment interest owner are included.

Part VII deals with various miscellaneous matters, including regulation-making authority of the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

The Electricity Act, 1998 and the Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 are amended to address various matters relating to the enactment of the new Act. For example, the objects of the IESO and Ontario Power Generation Inc. are expanded to address powers and duties under the new Act.

SCHEDULE 2
AMENDMENTS TO THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD ACT, 1998

The Ontario Energy Board Act, 1998 is amended. Among the amendments:

1. Section 79 of the Act is amended so that compensation for the rate protection provided to certain classes of rural or remote consumers may be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature, rather than by consumers.

2. Section 79.2 of the Act, which governs the Ontario Electricity Support Program, is repealed and replaced. The program is continued, but will be funded out of money appropriated by the Legislature after the variance account maintained by the Independent Electricity System Operator, formerly established under the Plan, is exhausted, rather than by consumers. There are provisions relating to the sharing, use and disclosure of information relating to the administration of the Ontario Electricity Support Program.

3. Programs are established to aid certain distribution rate-protected residential consumers and on-reserve consumers.

4. Various amendments of a technical and administrative nature are made to support the implementation and oversight of these programs including provisions related to auditing, record-keeping, inspections and inquiries, offences and penalties.

Preamble

The Government of Ontario is committed to fostering the development of a clean, modern and reliable electricity system with a diverse supply mix. The Government is also committed to removing barriers to and promoting opportunities for renewable and clean energy projects. These commitments can only be achieved if costs are shared fairly among consumers, today and in the future.

Electricity rates have risen for two key reasons. First, decades of under-investment in the electricity system resulted in the need to invest more than $50 billion in generation, transmission and distribution assets to ensure the system is clean and reliable. Second, the decision to eliminate Ontario's use of coal and produce clean, renewable power has created additional costs.

The actions taken to achieve a clean, modern and reliable electricity system have resulted in significant costs to residential consumers. The burden of financing these system improvements and funding key programs has unfairly fallen almost entirely on the shoulders of those consumers.

The Government of Ontario is committed to ensuring that the costs of financing these investments and the associated charges to consumers are allocated fairly among present and future generations.

Recognizing that the electricity infrastructure that has been built and the policy decisions that have been made will create benefits for years to come, costs should be allocated fairly over time, so that residential consumers in the future pay their fair share for the benefits that they receive from the investments already made.

"overpayment" means an amount received by a person in excess of that to which the person is entitled under sections 79, 79.2, 79.3 and 79.4 or the regulations made in association with them. ("trop-perçu")

Notice of overpayment

(2) If it appears to an inspector that a person has received an overpayment, the Finance Minister may send a written notice to the person advising the person of the following:

1. That the person has received an overpayment.

2. The amount of the overpayment and how it was calculated.

3. The required steps to be taken by the person with respect to the overpayment.

4. The date, not more than six months after the date of the notice, by which these steps must be completed.

Penalty

(5) If the Finance Minister makes an assessment or reassessment under subsection (4) and is satisfied that the person's non-compliance with the required steps in the notice was attributable to neglect, carelessness, wilful default or fraud, the Finance Minister may assess a penalty against the person equal to the outstanding balance of the overpayment when the penalty is assessed.

Time limit

(6) The Finance Minister shall not assess or reassess under subsection (4) more than 48 months after the end of the month in which the person received the overpayment.

Exception, where misrepresentation, etc.

(c) the regulations made under that Act for the purposes of calculating the rate or rates of interest payable under section 85.11 of that Act and the manner of calculating the amount of interest apply with necessary modifications; and

(d) sections 23 and 36, subsections 37 (1), (1.1) and (2) and sections 37.1, 38 and 39 of the Retail Sales Tax Act apply with necessary modifications.

Hi all,

Thanks again for your time on Friday.

As per our conversation, could each organization please send on a list of key day to day contacts that can interface with lawyers? I would suggest either one point of contact with back-ups, or if relevant, specific subject matter experts. We will combine the list and send it back around.

Again thank you,

Scott

Hi Nadine,

Just checking in to see if you have heard back from KPMG.

We will likely need to make a decision on the control language by EOD today or tomorrow afternoon.

Thanks,

Not an exclusive contract

When time permits, will want to go to other firms as well (make sure have the best partner available) vs. spending a lot of time on procurement related matters

Took estimated fee at 250 working days and averaged per diem rates to compare (KPMG was 3rd)

Was in top 3 for assessment

RFS response was very high quality in terms of layout against criteria and level of detail on examples (great for future reference)

P3s – PSAB future standard

Involvement with Federal TB on Accounting Standards

Involvement with Auditors of BC (not just ON) useful and relevant

References to position paper – good (shared experience with pension asset documentation)

PAC work and Rate Regulated file noted

Mr. Serge Imbrogno
Deputy Minister,
Ministry of Energy
4th Floor, Hearst Block

Dear Deputy:

Below is a summary of OPG's preliminary views on the implementation of the Province's proposed Global Adjustment Smoothing Account and financing structure. These views are contingent on the proposed terms and conditions that were sent to the Ministry of Energy on February 21, 2017.

Understanding that the finalization of the legal terms, the Trust indentures, financing structure and other detailed terms will take several months and will involve collaboration between legal counsel, input from capital markets, parties involved and other stakeholders, this letter is intended to provide the guideline and framework which could form the foundation of the plan.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions regarding this summary.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ken Hartwick

Background:

The Province has indicated that it will take steps to reduce electricity bills in the near term. It has identified reductions in the Global Adjustment Charge (GAC) charged to electricity customers as a means to achieve its policy goals. The Province is proposing to temporarily reduce the amount of the GAC charged to electricity customers (primarily RPP-eligible customers). The exact quantum and duration of the program is still not known but based on discussions with the Province GAC charges of approximately $2-5B per year for the next 5-10 years would be deferred and collected over future periods commencing after the deferral period. A combination of senior debt and subordinated debt (mainly sourced by additional equity from the shareholder) would be issued to fund the amount deferred. The financing cost of the debt and other costs of running the program would form part of the amounts recovered from customers over the term of the program.

The Province has requested that OPG administer the GAC deferral, because of OPG's participation in the market, regulatory knowledge and the potential ability to consolidate the activity and accounting with OPG. Given the significant amount of financing required for the GAC deferral, OPG has developed a financing structure (depicted below) to:

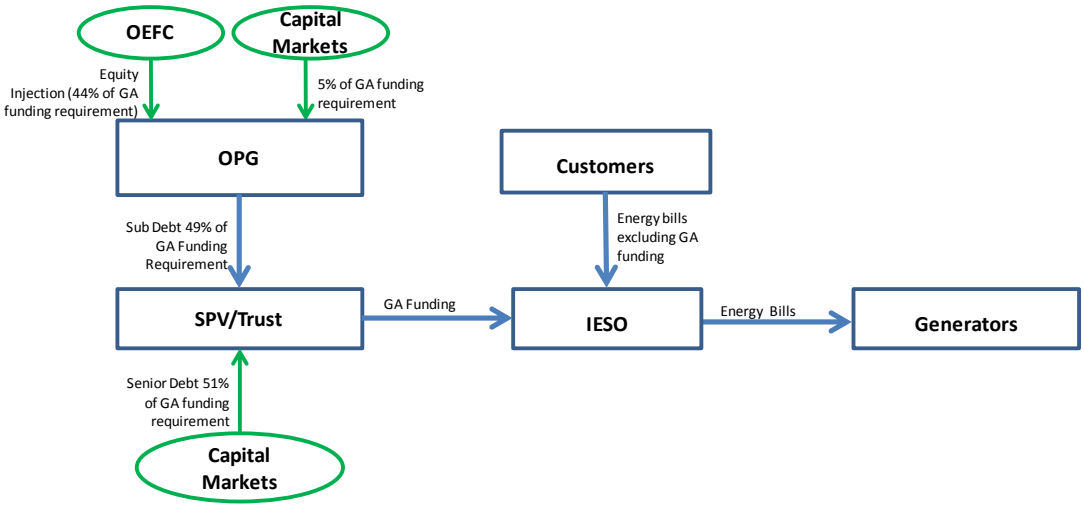
- restrict the risk to OPG;

- maximize the cost-effectiveness of the Trust or the Special Purpose Vehicle ("SPV") financing vehicle; and
- allow for consolidation into OPG financial statements.

The success of this structure is dependent on achieving a number of objectives which are reviewed in the following sections:

A. Ability to Recognize an Asset and Record Revenue
B. Ability to Consolidate the SPV into OPG
C. Ability to Finance
D. External Assessment
E. Risk Summary

All of the percentages shown in the graphic below are indicative and will be highly dependent on the legislation that the Province will enact:



Process:

The IESO will effectively sell the 'right to collect' deferred future revenue from ratepayers (GA Recovery Right asset) to the SPV in return for cash proceeds. In order for the SPV to purchase this asset the SPV will obtain the financing from two key sources: 51% directly from capital markets and 49% as subordinated debt from OPG. OPG will obtain 44% of this financing as an equity injection from the Province and 5% from capital markets.

A. Ability to Recognize an Asset and Record Revenue

Accounting Requirements under International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS)

1) It is our understanding that the IESO and KPMG have concluded that the sale of this 'right to collect' future revenue (or regulatory asset) is not a financing transaction and will not be recorded as a financial liability. Based on that conclusion, the right to collect will be accounted for as an intangible asset in the SPV.

2) In order to the SPV to record this right as an intangible asset, the right must meet the following conditions:
   - The intangible asset must be separable and arise from a contractual or legal right (i.e. mandated by the Legislation and SPV Indenture Agreement).
   - The SPV must have the control and power to obtain future economic benefits from the intangible asset.
   - The SPV must be able to demonstrate that the intangible asset is purchased at fair value.

3) In order for the SPV to recognize appropriate revenue to offset any ongoing costs, the Legislation must require interest, carrying and administrative costs to be paid to the SPV on a monthly basis. This may result in additional amounts to be deferred to achieve the desired customer impact. Payment of revenue to the SPV is also important to service the interest expenses of the debt.

B. Ability to Consolidate the SPV into OPG under IFRS

OPG 'Control' of the SPV - Accounting Requirements

1) In order to meet the accounting definition of 'control', accounting guidance must be considered. There are no bright lines to determine whether OPG has exposure, or rights, to variable returns from its involvement with the SPV, or whether it has the ability to affect the returns of the SPV through its power over the SPV. Rather, all facts and circumstances are considered when assessing whether an entity has control over another entity. Based on the relevant accounting guidance under IFRS, OPG has proposed terms necessary to demonstrate that OPG has control over the SPV. OPG's external auditors, Ernst & Young, has provided their concurrence that based on the information provided to them to date that the following conditions should permit consolidation of the SPV by OPG.

Directive:

1. The SPV must be undertaken by OPG as a business initiative on its merits. A Shareholder Directive is to be limited to direct OPG to investigate the option of establishing a SPV vehicle to administer, finance and operate the Global Adjustment plan. The control, risk and rewards of that SPV will determine its consolidation into OPG as a business enterprise.

SPV:

2. The SPV should not operate in a predetermined way such that OPG does not have decision-making authority over the SPV's ongoing activities after its formation (i.e. should not operate on 'autopilot').
3. OPG must have the ability to appoint and remove the Trustee (or Board of Trustees), with no veto right by the Province. No party shall have the ability to remove OPG from its role and authority in the SPV.
4. The Province cannot have the right to veto OPG's decisions about the relevant activities of the SPV. OPG must have the power over the relevant activities of the SPV and be compensated. The relevant activities of the SPV include (but are not limited to) the evaluation and decisions on financing alternatives, duration, and the strategy to minimize financing costs. OPG must have the power to establish operating and capital budgets of the SPV.
5. OPG must have the power to determine or change operating and financing policies of the SPV, which will affect the variability of risks and returns.
6. The Province or its agencies must not directly or indirectly fund (through debt or equity) more than 50% of the following:
    - The SPV
    - Any of OPG's investments in the most subordinated debt of the Trust
7. OPG must own greater than 50% of the most subordinated debt and targeted to be no less than 5%[1] of the total debt of the SPV. Such ownership must be financed entirely by OPG through operating cash flows or external debt, without assistance from Provincial sources. A quantitative analysis should be performed at a later date to corroborate the appropriateness of the 5% threshold to support that the 5% subordinated debt investment is sufficient to absorb most of the expected variability in the SPV.
8. OPG must have the ability to earn variable returns by exercising its authority, which shall be accomplished as follows:

[1] While the rest of the letter refers to a 10% investment in the most junior subordinated debt with OPG owning 5%, it should be noted that OPG should own more than 50% of the most subordinate debt. For simplicity, the degree to which OPG's ownership beyond 50% is not shown in this letter.

a. The cash flow from the restructured asset shall include interest determined based on a relevant benchmark that is appropriate relative to the restructured asset, plus an appropriate margin consistent with the relevant market and other risks
b. OPG shall have the authority to determine the financing strategy, which will vary the financing costs with the objective of enabling the SPV to achieve a more favourable return compared to the return from the restructured asset
c. The SPV shall establish classes of liabilities (senior, subordinated and the most subordinated). The classes would allow the SPV to delineate financing of lower risk investment and investment that would bear higher residual risk. The delineation would limit OPG's self-funded investment to a reasonable level in order to allow OPG to remain a self-sustaining entity.
d. OPG shall, through its ownership of the most subordinated liability, be able to capture and retain the pricing difference between cost of financing and benchmark for interest on the restructured asset, or any residual risk of restructured asset. The targeted return of the subordinated liability should be reflective of the underlying risks and compensate holders for active management that would be required.
e. OPG should participate in the detailed design of the above and the SPV documentation to ensure that it has substantive power and variability, which will allow OPG's Board of Directors to evaluate the opportunity as a business initiative instead of through a shareholder directive.

Nothwithstanding the above, under certain Defined Forced Majeure for emergency events (e.g. unlikely credit market event or disruption where it is not possible to borrow from the market at a reasonable rate), the OEFC may provide bridge financing beyond the designated percentage for a defined period. The relevant terms should ensure that this temporary measure does not detract from the rights of OPG to direct all of the relevant activities of the SPV. Additionally, OPG should not be protected from risk of loss by the OEFC with respect to its subordinated investment, nor should it lose its right to derive the residual returns should such bridge financing be required.

Legislation

9. The Legislation must require interest, carrying and administrative costs to be paid to the SPV on a monthly basis, so that the SPV is able to recognize appropriate revenue to offset any ongoing costs.
10. The Legislation must dictate the manner in which the restructured asset would be determined, collected, and the period of collection, so that the determination of the restructured asset will not be subject to the Province's decisions on an ongoing basis, but determined based on a formula. Alternatively, the Legislation may allow for an adjustment to the pre-determined deferral formula based on specific parameters that would limit the adjustment to the restructured asset. Adjustments beyond the specific parameters would require approval by the Board of Trustees.
11. The Legislation must be written to avoid legal or constitutional challenges and be irrevocable to reduce the cost of borrowing and with a specific formula which determines the deferral amount. As irrevocability would be difficult under Canadian law one mitigation would be to provide a Provincial guarantee which only applies with cancellation or amendment of the legislation.
12. The spirit of the above terms should be reflected in the SPV Indenture Agreement as well as Legislation, wherever possible.

2) The Trust is expected to be financed as follows:
   - 51% senior secured debt from external markets
   - 39% senior subordinated debt from OPG (via Province equity injection into OPG)

- 10% junior subordinated debt from OPG (5% from external markets and 5% from Province equity injection into OPG).

When assessing control, an investor shall consider the nature of its relationship with other parties and whether those parties are acting on the investor's behalf (i.e. they are 'de facto agents'). If OPG is assessed to be a 'de facto agent' of the Province, it will compromise the ability for OPG to consolidate the Trust. The split above is to meet the following conditions to ensure that OPG is not considered a 'de facto agent' of the Province:

- The Province or its agencies must not directly or indirectly fund (through debt or equity) more than 50% of the following:
  - The Trust
  - Any of OPG's investments in the most subordinated debt of the Trust
- OPG must own greater than 50% of the most subordinated debt and targeted to own no less than 5% of the total debt of the Trust. Such ownership must be financed entirely by OPG through operating cash flows or external debt, without assistance from Provincial sources.

3) The Province will need to conclude on whether OPG still meets the definition of a Government Business Enterprise as defined under Public Sector Accounting Board standards in order to obtain the preferred consolidation treatment after the transaction. We also recommend that the Province to undertake the analysis deemed necessary to confirm the accounting treatment in its consolidated Public Accounts, including if the recognition of the intangible asset would result in an offsetting liability in the Public Accounts.

C. Ability to Finance

Property Right or Right to Collect
Legislative Requirements for Financing
The GA Recovery Right must be structured to encompass the following elements:

- Right to recover from and bill Ontario electricity customers for (1) the principal amount of GA that is being deferred, (2) all interest and other financing costs incurred in respect of the deferral of the GA, (3) all fees, expenses and other administrative costs associated with such financing;
- Repayment/amortization schedule as agreed by the IESO and any purchaser of such GA Recovery Right (or pursuant to a pre-defined schedule/formula that covers all of the purchaser's principal, interest and ongoing financing costs on a monthly basis);
- Repayment/amortization schedule must include a true up mechanism to ensure all costs associated with the deferral can be recovered from customers;
- IESO may dispose of the GA Recovery Right, provided that any such disposition shall be a true sale and absolute transfer to the purchaser of the IESO's right, title and interest in and to the GA Recovery Right;
- Purchaser will have the right to require the IESO (or any successor) to collect the principal amount of GA Recovery Right, together with interest, financing and administration costs, on the agreed repayment/amortization schedule;
- Right must be irrevocable and, if amended by future governments, debt holders have the right of action against the government to recover the amount outstanding including interest, fees, expenses and any damages resulting from the amendment;
- GA Recovery Right will not be subject to any set-off, counterclaim or other defence by the IESO or any successor or affiliated entity; and
- Make certain amendments to the Electricity Act to allow OPG to implement the SPV financing structure (e.g. allowing OPG to create subsidiaries and holding companies, and to have a beneficial interest in the SPV, etc). This would provide flexibility to accommodate possible variations to the financing structure that may be desirable over time.

Detailed legislative requirements are specified in the attachments as follows:

Attachment 1 Legislative requirements to allow deferral of global adjustment amounts to be financeable

Attachment 2 Statutory amendments

The proposed financing structure for the SPV is:

	Risk Profile	Source	% of Total Funding Requirements
Tranche A Senior Debt	The least risky	Capital Markets	51%
Tranche B Sub Debt	In between A&C	OPG via OEFC	39%
Tranche C Sub Debt)	The most risky	OPG via OEFC	5%
		OPG via Capital Markets	5%

SPV structure is used to accomplish the following:

- SPV holds right to charge customers for the benefit of debt holders;
- Allows the financing vehicle to be ring-fenced from OPG as an SPV structure is set up as generally single purpose entities with no other operations that could add risk to the SPV, dilute debt holder rights, allow parties from other operations to claim rights to the future recovery from customers or allow these other parties to initiate bankruptcy proceedings;
- Enables SPV to potentially get a higher credit rating than OPG;
- Supports consolidation with OPG provided accounting requirements are satisfied;

This approach supports a number of objectives of the GA Recovery Right:

- 51% external senior debt supports separation of the SPV from the Province
- 5% junior subordinated debt establishes OPG's "at risk" equity which supports separation of the SPV from the Province
- Subordinated debt provides flexibility to the financing structure and additional credit support to external debt holders
- Subordinated debt sourced from OPG (mainly funded by equity injection from the Province) minimizes impact on OPG credit metrics reducing risk of an OPG rating downgrade that could result in the SPV being consolidated directly with the Province as the SPV would be considered an arm of the Province.

Recent transactions used as precedents are:

August 2016
Amount issued USD$0.5B
Weighted average life of 7 years and weighted average yield of 2.0%

Credit rating AAA

Cumulative outstanding (including previous issuances): USD$4.2B

D. External Assessment

Shakerhill Partners, an external advisor, identified the following items in an assessment of the structure and financeability of the structure:

- The structure is financeable however there are a number of significant risks to the structure:
  - Canadian and Ontario law does not provide the same protection to property right as exists in the US federal and state constitutions to limit the ability of governments to adversely impair contracts to the detriment of the holder;
  - Legislation could mitigate some of the risks – deferred recovery asset to be "uncapped", regular semi-annual true up to ensure recovery, Province provides sufficient committed liquidity to the IESO so that temporary shortfall in recovery does not affect payments to SPV, term of the deferral recovery substantially exceeds the longest maturity of debt of the SPV and that true-up mechanism take account of potential for currency, interest rate and duration mis-match between the debt of the SPV and the recovery mechanism;
  - Size of the program may be too large for Canadian securitization market requiring access to the US securitization market;
- Final maturity of debt should not exceed 30 years from inception of the program
- True up mechanism should be designed such that the forecast of recovery is less than 10% of the customer bill under downside scenarios to limit growth of the deferral balance as a higher portion of the customer bill increases the political risk to debt holders which could result in a lower credit rating and potential impact on financeability
- Securitized debt products are specialized and price at a premium to other fixed rate instruments however a successful program supported by a strong credit rating this premium could shrink over time to a minor spread over Provincial debt
- OPG's credit rating should be maintained provided sufficient equity is injected to maintain credit metrics
- While the structure is not expected to impact the Province there are risks that the program could negatively impact the rating agencies view of the Province's financial management.

E. Risk Summary

i. Consolidation

- Elements of the proposed structure were established to support consolidation of the SPV into OPG. These items may not be sufficient to establish OPG as risk owner of the SPV and the SPV may need to be consolidated directly with the Province.

ii. Financeability

- The legislation establishing the structure and the property right for recovering the financing and associated costs may not be adequate for financing purposes resulting in more expensive financing or an inability to obtain the required external financing.

iii. Cost of Financing

- Future governments may enact legislation that changes the right of the SPV to recover amounts from customers.
- The right to recover amounts from future customers must be irrevocable and subject to full recovery from the government in the event that future governments reduce or eliminate the recovery. A legal structure that is weaker than the precedent US transactions increases the risk to debt holders and the cost of financing.
- Interest rates on bonds in the securitization market are higher than equivalent rated bonds. Rate for a AAA securitization credit is about 50 bps higher than GOC (rated AAA) for a 5 year term. This difference is attributable to the specialized structure of the bond, smaller investor pool for this bond, smaller size of the market and higher perceived risks of the bond.
- Any regulator involvement must not be seen to modify any terms of debt issued or the property right securing the debt as this would increase risk to debt holders.

- It may not be possible to issue debt to match the terms of the deferred asset so shorter term debt would be used which raises risk to re-finance the maturing debt as the market may no longer be interested in this product. As well, underlying reference interest rates may be higher and the market may require a higher spread to invest in this product.
- With the GA Recovery Right program continuing for 10 years, debt issued over this period is subject to changes in both the underlying reference interest rates and appetite of the market for this product.

iv. OPG Credit Rating

- Minimizing the impact of significant additional debt on OPG's credit rating is dependent on higher EBITDA arising from earned income on the GA Recovery Right in excess of external debt. Ability of the SPV to record revenue reflecting the growth in asset value.
- Potential OPG credit rating downgrade if legislative structure is not adequate to support long term recoverability, inability to record revenue from growth in asset value or agencies view equity injection as debt.
- OPG credit rating downgrade could result in loss of GBE status or result in SPV being consolidated directly with the Province.

Attachment 1

LEGISLATIVE REQUIREMENTS TO ALLOW DEFERRAL OF GLOBAL ADJUSTMENT AMOUNTS TO BE FINANCEABLE

The IESO currently has a right to collect GA monthly from ratepayers through provisions in the Electricity Act, 1998. It is proposed that collection of a certain portion of the monthly GA be deferred for collection in the future, and that the right to recover the deferred GA from ratepayers be used as a basis for structured financing/securitization.

The current proposal is for a trust to be created as a financing vehicle (the "Trust") in connection the deferred GA. The Trust will finance the deferral of the GA by purchasing the right to recover such deferred GA from the IESO for the principal amount of the GA being deferred. For example, if the amount of GA that is being deferred is $200 million in a given month, the Trust will purchase from the IESO the right to future recovery of the deferred GA and the associated financing costs (including interest and transaction costs) for $200 million in cash.

The Trust is expected to finance these purchases from the IESO through a combination of senior secured financing raised in the capital markets and subordinated financing from OPG (the funding for which will mostly be from equity injections from the OEFC/Province).

For accounting purposes, OPG will need to have the ability to direct the activities of the Trust, through a services agreement and/or through the Trust's constating document.

Based on securitized financing raised by utilities in the US (backed by utility cost recovery orders) and the current regulatory framework in Ontario, the legislation in Ontario would need to be amended to provide the following, at a minimum:

1. The IESO will be empowered to create an asset (the "Regulatory Asset") consisting of all right, title and interest in and to:

   (a) right to recover from and bill Ontario electricity ratepayers for:

   (i) the principal amount of GA that is being deferred for collection;
   (ii) all interest and other financing costs incurred in respect of the deferral of the GA (whether through senior debt raised in the public markets or subordinated debt raised from OPG or others); and
   (iii) (subject to the comments in paragraph 5 below in respect of OPG's internal administrative costs only) all fees, expenses and other administrative costs associated with such financing, including up-front and ongoing financing costs and any indemnity payments;

all on such repayment/amortization schedule as agreed by the IESO and any purchaser of such right (or pursuant to a pre-defined schedule/formula in the legislation that covers all of the purchaser's principal, interest and ongoing financing costs on a monthly basis); and

(b) all revenues, collections, claims, rights to payments, money or proceeds arising from the rights and interests set out in paragraph (a) above, regardless of whether such revenues, collections, claims, rights to payments, money or proceeds are imposed, billed, received, collected or maintained together with or commingled with other revenues, collections, rights to payments, payments, money or proceeds.

2. The IESO may dispose of the Regulatory Assets created from time to time on such terms as the IESO determines in accordance with the terms of directives to be issued to the IESO from time to time by the Minister, provided that any such disposition shall be a true sale and absolute transfer of the IESO's right, title and interest in and to a Regulatory Asset to the purchaser of the Regulatory Asset.

3. The Regulatory Assets will not be subject to any set-off, counterclaim or other defence by the IESO or any successor or affiliated entity thereof.

4. The legislation will need to recognize the Regulatory Assets as amounts that may be recovered by the IESO (e.g. it could be designated as a "GA Deferral" and would be included in the amounts collectible by the IESO through the GA collection mechanism, and would include interest and financing costs).

5. The purchaser of the Regulatory Asset will have the right to require the IESO (or any successor) to collect the principal amount of GA deferred, together with interest, financing and administration costs, on the agreed repayment/amortization schedule. [NTD: In the LIPA securitization rate order, if the entity that is authorized to collect rates to service the bonds ends up defaulting, there is the ability to request a court to order "sequestration" and payments of amounts owing to the owner of the Regulatory Asset. Consider whether to include a similar right here. Alternatively, consider whether a security interest over the moneys collected by the IESO could be provided to the purchaser.]

OEB would be provided with oversight over the internal administrative costs collected by the Financing Trust. This could be accomplished by (a) providing the purchaser of the Regulatory Asset with the right to require the IESO or a successor to collect only the principal amount of GA together with interest and financing costs and third party fees and expenses, and (b) requiring the IESO to collect amounts through the global adjustment and make payments to the purchaser of the Regulatory Asset with respect to the internal administrative costs incurred by the purchaser in connection with the purchase and management of the Regulatory Asset and the Financing Trust, in accordance with the order of the OEB then in effect. Under this mechanism, the OEB would be required to review the purchaser's internal administrative costs through a streamlined process and issue such orders in accordance with rules to be prescribed under a new regulation under the OEB Act, which would clearly limit the OEB's scope of review and could establish the basis for the purchaser to receive an appropriate fee for its services.

6. In the event that any action is taken or permitted by the Province or any regulatory authority that limits, alters, or impairs the value of a Regulatory Asset or reduces the ability of the IESO or the purchaser of the Regulatory Asset to collect or recover the costs associated therewith, the owner of the Regulatory Asset and the holders of any bonds or other securities issued to finance the purchase of the Regulatory Asset, will have a right of action against the Province for any damages suffered as a result of such amendment.

STATUTORY AMENDMENTS

The following is preliminary and is based on our current understanding of the proposed structure and objectives. For example, we have assumed that the structure will not entail the insertion of a new Holdco between OPG and the Province. As these aspects are refined, some of the suggested amendments described below may not be needed and other aspects that we are not aware of may need to be considered. Accordingly, these suggested amendments are provided for discussion purposes and are subject to change. We would welcome the opportunity to work with OPG and the Ministry on refining the scope and substance of required legislative and regulatory amendments.

A. Amendments to Implement Structure

Certain Electricity Act, 1998 amendments would be needed to implement the anticipated structure (which we understand, as noted above, would not include a Holdco), as follows:

- Section 53.1(1): Amend to permit owning and operating generation facilities through subsidiaries (not only directly through OPG). In addition, amend to permit OPG to administer, manage, loan moneys to and have a beneficial interest in, if applicable, Financing Trust.

- Section 53.2: Amend to permit the Minister to acquire, hold, dispose of or otherwise deal with securities or debt obligations of, or any other interest in, OPG or any subsidiaries. This is to accommodate possible variations to the financing structure that may be desirable over time.

- Section 53.■ (new): New statutory section to permit the Minister to enter into arrangements relating to an exercise of powers under 53.2.

- Section 53.■ (new): New statutory section providing that creditors of Financing Trust have no recourse to the assets of OPG or any of its subsidiaries (other than Financing Trust, if applicable). In addition, consideration should be given as to whether the Act should be amended so that the Financing Trust cannot be wound up or liquidated.

B. Miscellaneous Corporate Items to Address

- OPG Articles: Amend the OPG's articles to remove the private company restrictions.

- MOA with Province: Consider whether any amendments to OPG's MOA with the Province are required to contemplate the Financing Trust.

C. Amendments Under Electricity Act to Implement GA Smoothing

Based on our understanding that the global adjustment smoothing mechanism is intended to benefit residential and small business customers only and that the Minister will be responsible for determining how much global adjustment smoothing is to be applied in a given month, if any, amendments to the Electricity Act, 1998 and Ontario Regulation 429/04 (Adjustments Under Section 25.33 of the Act) would be needed to implement the mechanism, as follows:

(i) Electricity Act:

- Section ■ (New): Establish a new power for the Minister to make directives to the IESO in relation to the global adjustment smoothing mechanism and, particularly, for purposes of establishing global adjustment smoothing amounts from time to time (expected to be monthly). To the extent possible, the directive power should be drafted so as to limit the ability for a future Minister to require the IESO to do anything that would materially and adversely affect the Financing Trust or its lenders. [NTD: While our understanding is that the Minister would direct this, we note from other materials we have seen that OPG may instead be recommending a formula approach. It is not clear what the formula would look like, where it would be set out or how it would be applied and by whom]

- Paragraph 25.33(1): This section says that IESO shall make adjustments in accordance with the regulations to ensure that, over time, payments by prescribed classes of market participants reflect amounts paid to OPG, OEFC and distributors, as well as amounts paid to entities with whom IESO has a procurement contract. Add new subsection (c) so as to require IESO to ensure that, over time, payments by prescribed classes of market participants also reflect amounts paid to Financing Trust. [NTD: Not certain this is needed if only to benefit residential and small business consumers, who are not market participants. May be needed in reference to payments from distributors and retailers]

- Paragraph 25.33(2): This section says that distributors and retailers shall make adjustments in accordance with the regulations to ensure that, over time, payments by prescribed classes of consumers reflect amounts paid to OPG, OEFC and distributors, as well as amounts paid to entities with whom IESO has a procurement contract. Add new subsection (c) so as to require distributors and retailers to ensure that, over time, payments by prescribed classes of consumers also reflect amounts paid to Financing Trust.

- Note: As described below, the regulation will need to include new requirements for the IESO to record the global adjustment smoothing amounts in one or more variance accounts and to use those amounts to offset amounts otherwise recorded in the variance accounts under Section 25.33(3) of the Act. For context, we note:

    - Section 25.33(3) says that adjustments under (1) or (2) relating to electricity consumed by consumers whose rates are determined by the OEB under s. 79.16 of the OEB Act (i.e. RPP Customers) shall instead be made in accordance with the regulations to one or more variance accounts established and maintained by the IESO.

- Section 25.33(4) says IESO, distributors and retailers shall make and receive such payments, set-offs and credits as may be required or permitted by the regulations with respect to consumers described in (3), i.e. RPP Customers.

- Section 25.33(5) says that IESO shall establish and maintain such variance accounts as may be needed to record all amounts payable or receivable by it under 25.33.

(ii) O. Reg. 429/04 (Adjustments Under Section 25.33 of the Act):

- Section 1(1): Consider adding definitions for "Financing Trust" and "global adjustment smoothing amount" or such other terms as may be preferred.

- Section 1.2(1) (New): Add section providing that, for the purposes of this Regulation, the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month is the amount determined by the IESO in accordance with a directive from the Minister under section ■ of the Electricity Act in respect of the month. [NTD: See above note re use of Minister directives]

- Section 1.2(2) (New): Consider adding a section providing that the IESO shall publish the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month by no later than the 10th business day of the following month [to align with general publication requirements for global adjustment under s. 1.1(2)].

- Section 10(1): Amend formula for calculating Class B GA rate by subtracting the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month from "M", which is the total amount of the global adjustment for the month. The global adjustment smoothing amount could be designated as "X", such that the formula would be (M-X-N)/(P-Q). Define "X" as the global adjustment smoothing amount for the month as determined by the IESO in accordance with the Minister's directive under section ■ of the Electricity Act for the month. [NTD: See above note re use of Minister directives]

- Section 10.1 (New): Add new section to deal with adjustments under subsection 25.33(3) of the Act, i.e. in respect of RPP consumers. This section should require the IESO to establish, within the variance account(s) it maintains pursuant to subsection 25.33(3) of the Act, one or more subaccounts in which it shall record the global adjustment smoothing amounts applicable to the classes of consumers described in subsection 25.33(3) of the Act. This section must also specify that the IESO shall apply the amounts recorded in the subaccounts against the balances in the variance accounts for purposes of section 79.16(3) of the OEB Act.

  - Note: This is a key aspect because, when the OEB determines RPP rates, it must take into account the balances in the variance accounts established by the IESO under s. 25.33 of the Electricity Act and make adjustments with a view to eliminating the balances within 12 months. This proposed new section 10.1 causes the IESO to reduce (in the near term) the variance account balances by the global adjustment smoothing amounts, as provided by Financing Trust, thereby enabling the OEB to determine RPP rates that, despite being lower for RPP consumers in the near term, still eliminate the relevant variance account balances within 12 months.

- Paragraph 11(2)2.ii: Amend the formula for calculating the allocation of global adjustment for a month to a licensed distributor that is a market participant by subtracting the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month from "M", which has the same meaning as under section 10(1). The global adjustment smoothing amount could be designated as "X", such that the formula would be [(M-X-N) x (R+S-T)]/(P-Q). Define "X" as suggested under section 10(1).

- Paragraph 11(2)3: Amend the formula for calculating the allocation of global adjustment for a month to each Class B market participant by subtracting the global adjustment smoothing amount for a month from "M", which has the same meaning as under section 10(1). The global adjustment smoothing amount could be designated as "X", such that the formula would be [(M-X-N) x U]/(P-Q). Define "X" as suggested under section 10(1).

- Paragraph 16(7)4: Consider amending the description of "Global Adjustment" that is required to be included on certain invoices so as to inform consumers that their portion of the global adjustment for the month (i) may have been reduced by the application of a global adjustment smoothing amount from the Financing Trust, or (ii) may include amounts payable to the Financing Trust in respect of global adjustment smoothing amounts previously applied.

- Section 20(1): This section establishes an obligation for the Ontario Electricity Financial Corporation and every licensed distributor that is a market participant to give the IESO such information as the IESO may require for the purposes of the Regulation in the form specified by the IESO and before the expiry of the period specified by the IESO. Consider amending to extend this obligation to the Financing Trust.

- Section 20(6): This section provides that on request by the OEB, the IESO, a licensed distributor, an embedded generator, a retailer or the OEFC shall give the OEB such information relating to this Regulation as the OEB may require, in the form and within the period specified by the OEB. Consider amending to extend this obligation to the Financing Trust.

D. Amendments Under OEB Act to Implement Cost Recovery for Financing Trust

Amendments to the Ontario Energy Board Act, including amendments to O. Reg. 95/05 (Classes of Consumers and Determination of Rates) and the introduction of a new regulation, would be needed to implement a cost recovery process for the Financing Trust in relation to the global adjustment smoothing mechanism, potentially with limited OEB oversight, as follows:

(i) Ontario Energy Board Act:

- Section 78(3.3): This provision establishes an obligation for the OEB, when determining rates for the retailing of electricity, to take into account balances in variance accounts established under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act and to make adjustments "with a view to eliminating those balances within 12 months or such shorter time periods as the Minister may direct." Consider whether any amendments are needed, and confirm this works with the framework being proposed.

- Section 78.7 (New): We understand that the Province may want the OEB to have an oversight role. One possible approach would be to establish a new statutory section establishing that the IESO shall make payments to the Financing Trust with respect to the internal administrative costs incurred by the Financing Trust in connection with the purchase and management of the Regulatory Asset and the Financing Trust. Such payments by the IESO would need to be made in accordance with the order of the OEB then in effect, which orders shall be made by the OEB in accordance with rules prescribed under a new regulation.

    - The new regulation would need to be clear that the OEB does not have jurisdiction to consider the principal amount or any interest, financing costs, third party fees or expenses. Rather, OEB's role would be limited to considering the internal administrative costs of the Financing Trust and ensuring the Financing Trust receives an appropriate fee for its services, all of which would be recovered by the Financing Trust from the IESO, which would collect those amounts in the global adjustment. Note that, if this approach is accepted, the IESO and distributors and retailers would need the authority to collect such amounts as part of the GA and IESO would need the authority to pay such amounts to the Financing Trust. As such, additional amendments would be needed under O. Reg. 429/04.

- Note: Section 79.16 of the OEB Act does not require changes, but the significance of this provision should be understood.

    - Section 79.16 gives the OEB responsibility for determining electricity commodity prices for eligible consumers. Eligibility is determined under Reg. 95/05 (Classes of Consumers and Determination of Rates), which is also known as the Regulated Price Plan (RPP) Regulation.
    - Section 4(2) of the RPP Regulation defines RPP-eligible consumers as low volume consumers (i.e. those who annually use less than 150,000 kWh or such other amount as prescribed), consumers with demand of 50 kW or less, residential consumers that have accounts with distributors, consumers who annually use 150,000 to 250,000 kW of electricity, and consumers who have accounts with distributors if in the farming business.

- Paragraph 6(1)3 of the RPP Regulation provides that "In determining the rates (for RPP-eligible consumers), the Board shall forecast the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, taking into consideration adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, 1998 and shall ensure that the rates reflect those costs."
- The Ontario Energy Board has developed a Regulated Price Plan Manual (revised February 16, 2016) to describe the processes and methodologies it uses for determining electricity commodity prices that are charged to RPP consumers pursuant to Section 79.16 of the OEB Act and paragraph 6(1)3 of the RPP Regulation.

(ii) O. Reg. 95/05 (Classes of Consumers and Determination of Rates)

- Paragraph 6(1)3: Amend so as to require the Board, when forecasting the cost of electricity to be consumed by the consumers to whom the rates apply, to take into consideration not only the adjustments required under section 25.33 of the Electricity Act but also the application or prior application of global adjustment smoothing amounts determined by the IESO in accordance with Minister directives under section ■ of the Electricity Act, and to ensure that the RPP rates reflect those amounts. [NTD: See above note re use of Minister directives]

(iii) New Regulation (Payments to the Financing Trust)

- If the OEB is to be given the role of reviewing and approving the recovery of OPG's internal administrative costs for the Financing Trust under the potential section 78.7 (see above), then this regulation should describe the process and criteria pursuant through which the OEB would determine the amounts that the IESO would be required to collect through the global adjustment, in accordance with section 25.33 of the Electricity Act, and pay to the Financing Trust in respect of the provision of global adjustment smoothing amounts. This part of the regulation should establish:

    - any reporting requirements from the Financing Trust and/or the IESO to the OEB in connection with the global adjustment smoothing mechanism;
    - the frequency of the OEB making determinations under this part of the regulation;
    - the process through which the OEB shall make these determinations, which should be a streamlined administrative process rather than a public hearing process or, if a hearing is needed, then the scope of the proceeding should be clearly and narrowly constrained so as to deter intervenor involvement, lengthy proceedings and reduce/eliminate risk to recovery by Financing Trust;

- the basis for the OEB's determinations as to the payments that shall be made to the Financing Trust, which should specify that:
  - the Financing Trust shall recover its prudently incurred internal administrative costs on a forecast basis each year;
  - the Financing Trust shall receive an appropriate fee each year (with some guidance as to what would be appropriate); and
  - the approved payment amounts shall be collected by the IESO through the global adjustment and paid to the Financing Trust in accordance with the order of the OEB then in effect. Note that O. Reg. 429/04 would likely need amendments to permit IESO (and distributors and retailers) to collect these amounts through the global adjustment.

GA Smoothing – OPG Accounting Considerations

- An SPV/Trust is a stand-alone entity able to conduct business separately under a Trust agreement

The conditions required for OPG to consolidate the SPV/Trust are outlined in the following table

Issue	Response
1. Decision Making	• OPG must have decision making authority on the operation of the SPV/Trust (without a veto right by the Province), including naming of trustees, establishing operating plans and budgets, setting or changing financing policies. • The SPV/Trust while operating within the legislation, must be controlled by OPG to operate freely and to alter terms and conditions not specified in the legislation to ensure recovery of the deferred amounts
2. Business Risk	• The SPV/Trust must have variability of returns as a normal business enterprise would, including such things as interest charged on deferred amounts, decisions on how to finance these deferred amounts, the ability to make / lose and keep any spread from financing
3. Funding	• The Province cannot directly or indirectly fund more than 50% of SPV/Trust or any investment in the SPV/Trust • OPG must own at least 50% of the most exposed equity /sub-debt in the SPV/Trust
4. Directive	• Directive that is issued should not be prescriptive or direct OPG to set up this business. The directive should only be “guiding” i.e. to allow OPG to evaluate options and put forward to the OPG Board a recommended plan for Shareholder approval

Issue	Response
5. Other required Attributes:	The legislation that supports the formation of the SPV/Trust must have the following attributes: • Must require interest, carrying and administrative costs be paid to the Trust to allow for Revenue recognition • The amount to be deferred must either be specified or be calculated based on a specific formula that is not subject to ongoing decision making by the Province. The Province cannot have the ability to override this formula • Legislation should be written to avoid the possibility of being revoked with wording to ensure the SPV/Trust and its debt holders would have their capital guaranteed and paid for directly by the Province if such a situation were to happen • The spirit of the legislation should be reflected in the Trust Indenture Agreement

GA Financing Structure Requirements

KEY ELEMENTS REQUIRED TO ENSURE THE DEFERRAL OF GA CHARGES CAN BE FINANCED:

Creation of Strong Property Rights

- Legislation enshrines the ability of the IESO to create a Right to charge customers in the future for the Global Adjustment (GA) deferred today including principal amount deferred, interest and other financing costs on the amount deferred and fees, expenses and other administrative costs.
- The Right can be sold to an appropriate Trust or Special Purpose Vehicle (SPV) to obtain funds to pay amounts due to generators under contracts or regulation. These SPVs are generally single purpose entities with no other operations that could add risk to the entity, dilute debt holder rights, allow parties from other operations to claim rights to the future recovery from customers or allow these other parties to initiate bankruptcy proceedings.
- Right must be irrevocable and if the Right is amended by future governments the debt holders have the right of action against the government to recover the amount outstanding including interest, fees, expenses and any damages resulting from the amendment.
- Right must specify the recovery period or the mechanism for setting the recovery rate including true up of the rate to ensure all amounts are recovered

Economic Factors

- Limits on the recovery amount (principal, interest, fees and expenses) charged to customers in future periods must have compensating elements such as longer recovery period to ensure the full amount deferred plus interest, financing and other administration costs is recovered from customers.
- Need to balance customer relief with debt holder risk. Longer recovery periods and larger deferred balances increase risk to the debt holder of future government intervention.
- The amount required by the SPV to purchase and service the Right will be funded 51% from debt holders, 5% from OPG through capital markets and 44% from OPG via equity injection to OPG from the Province. The funding from OPG will be loaned to the SPV as subordinated debt.

- SPV will be used to raise the GA financing and ring fence OPG from its legal obligations
- SPV will be structured to allow for GBE accounting consolidation into OPG
- Given that SPV will be consolidated into OPG for accounting purposes, the significant amount of debt required to fund the GA deferral will have a severe impact on OPG's credit rating. If 100% of the requirement is funded by debt OPG would be downgraded.
- To manage this exposure and minimize the cost of funding. The required funding would be split into 2 buckets:
    1. 56% from capital markets, and
    2. The remainder provided by the Province via equity injection, which would be loaned to SPV as subordinated debt.
- The use of equity to fund a portion of the GA deferral also allows for an improvement in both Net Income and EBITDA as incremental revenue is captured by the increase in the value of the deferral which would offset the fiscal impact of the borrowing at Province level.
- Credit rating metrics are generally maintained within established limits.

Subject: Ontario pension funding changes

The Ontario government recently announced changes to the defined benefit pension framework, which include significant changes to funding rules (resulting from its funding framework review which began July 2016). The funding changes are designed to reduce volatility of cash costs and to help ensure benefit security for members.

Key changes to the funding framework include:

- Elimination of solvency funding requirements for plans which are over 85% funded on a solvency basis.
- Shortening the period of funding for going concern deficits from 15 to 10 years, and consolidation of existing going concern special payments into a single payment schedule.
- Requirement for funding of a reserve called a Provision for Adverse Deviation (PfAD) within the plan.

Further details are expected to be released later this spring, with draft legislation to be introduced in the fall. The changes will include interim measures (expected to be released in the coming weeks) applicable to plans that are filing valuation reports with effective dates between December 31, 2016 and December 31, 2017, which will address cases where solvency funding would otherwise be required.

As many plans are funded above 85% on a solvency basis, the changes may result in a greater emphasis from plan sponsors and other interested parties (e.g. unions, regulators) on the going concern valuation and underlying assumptions.

Not sure what the current status is w.r.t. the FAO meeting, but I assume that we're subject to the FAO's availability? Can you check if there are further details available w.r.t timing? I assume that the FAO has suggested an afternoon meeting which is the reason for the request to confirm availability after 2 pm? n

Thanks Michel.

I have copied Cindy's assistant, Sarah Hosick, so that she is aware of the requirements. We are still awaiting confirmation of the details for a meeting. Given the short turnaround time, do you think it would be prudent to initiate the requisite approvals on a 'contingency' basis?

Thanks again.

Hi Nadine,

I have availability to attend a meeting after 2pm tomorrow. It should not be a call. However, I am required to obtain authorization from our risk management department. Assuming they accept, we will need, as a minimum, to obtain from IESO a consent, release and indemnity letter.

Regards,

Michel

Kim/Michel,

I understand that a call/meeting is being contemplated for tomorrow afternoon with staff from the FAO to discuss accounting for the FHP. The primary purpose for the meeting is to help the FAO staff to better understand the accounting elements of the GA Refinancing structure to help them as they finalize a report on the topic.

I have been asked to confirm your availability for a 1 hour meeting/call tomorrow afternoon after 2 pm.

Thanks in advance.

Nadine

Shyrose makes a good point below. The contract ends December 31. Should we be looking to extend it for six months to get through the rest of the memo and the other accounting issue we are considering at the moment?

Hi Nadine,

I am getting questions from Energy lawyers on what is needed to meet accounting requirements as drafting proceeds. They are getting the OPG perspective, but would like to cross check with OPCD to ensure this aligns with the Province's views. I wonder if you or someone from your team involved in this initiative could spare a few minutes. Tons going on, but legal drafting is probably now on the critical path.

Thanks,

Ladies,

I believe it is important for IESO to recognize the economic impacts of rate regulation in 2016 under PSAB. Assuming that the AG rejects it under PSAB, then it will require IESO to move to option b) ie. to create a GBE in 2017 to execute the contemplated transaction. As you will remember, IFRS 14 requires IESO to have recognized regulatory balances in its prior year FS. This would be an easier sale than the market books.

Hi Michel.
I just wanted to check on your availability over the next few days (Fri/Mon/Tues) to participate in a meeting with OPG/H1 and their external auditors to discuss potential approach to IFRS info and assurance.
We've heard that the AG may be planning to reach out to the respective orgs directly in the near term and there is a desire to have a 'huddle' in advance of receiving the AG's suggestions to confirm that we are on a common front as to what might be reasonable to expect. Your experience with Quebec Hydro would be invaluable to our discussion.
Thanks in advance.
Nadine

Hi Bailey,

Hope all is well ... the calculations outlined below are consistent with what we are carrying/forecasting. On the latter question, the answer is yes, the 53.55% should be referenced as common shares.

Hope this helps. Let me know if you want to have a check-in around mid-January to discuss any outstanding items and confirm a timeframe to bring this home.

Much appreciated ... happy holidays!

Hi Mark

Thanks very much for sharing this additional information for our H1 analysis. I just wanted to clarify the document that you provided which outlined the percentage of share ownership for the Province in H1. Based on our calculations, we estimate the Province's ownership interest at 47.3% at March 31st 2018 after distributions for the long term incentive plan, the Power Workers Union, and potential distributions to First Nation's from the Province's holdings. We have made a number of assumptions for 2019 regarding incentive plan distributions, which would bring the ownership percentage to 42.2%. Does this match your understanding of the Province's position, or are there alternative assumptions we should reflect? The document "Institutional Share Ownership and 3Q17 Buyers/Sellers" references the top 20 institutional investors as having a 53.55% of the shares. Should this be read as 53.55% of total publically owned common shares?

Subject: Questions

Hi Cindy,

Subsequent to our call of last Thursday, we have the following questions for you.

Questions to be asked of H1 by the Province
1. KPMG would like to obtain a listing of major Hydro One common shareholders. Could investor relations please provide a listing of the top 20 common shareholders? See attached.

2. What process is followed by investor relations to verify that no investor other than the Province of Ontario accumulates a common share position in excess of 10%? Hydro One does not track ownership levels

Questions for the Province

3. During our Thursday meeting we had discussed the question of when voting rights would be granted on common shares provided to First Nations. First Nations in Ontario will obtain up to 15 million common shares directly from the Province's existing share ownership, subject to an agreement in principle pending ratification by affected First Nations. We understand that the share purchases will be financed by loans from the Province, for which the underlying Hydro One shares will serve as collateral. We would like to clarify if the First Nations receive full voting rights on the common shares at the time of transfer, or only upon repayment of the loan from the Province.
Voting rights are immediate, and are not linked to repayment of the loan.
4. Are there any further documents which support the Province's role in establishing the mission of Hydro One prior to the IPO, beyond what is established in the Electricity Act? What do the constating documents include?
We have attached the articles of incorporation and bylaws. Torys has advised that OBCA corporations do not typically include a mission statement in these documents however in Hydro One's case, the Governance Agreement includes key provisions regarding how the company is governed and is relevant. As well, the initial board of directors (which sets strategy and continues to have the same composition today) was appointed by the Province.
Torys has also dug up some previous notes that were developed at the time of the IPO to advise on accounting/consolidation/control in case its helpful, and are happy to help if there's any follow ups on these items.

RE: RFS-TBS-OTB-OPCD-21

This letter shall serve as our affirmation, in connection with the first project described in the Statement of Work for Management Consulting Services between KPMG LLP ("KPMG") and Her Majesty the Queen in Right of Ontario dated June 7, 2017 (the "SOW"), of the absence of a conflict of interest on the part of KPMG.

It is KPMG's understanding that the first project under the SOW shall be to provide advice in respect of whether Hydro One is controlled by the Province of Ontario such that Hydro One may be consolidated for provincial accounting purposes using the modified equity accounting method.

Based on the information provided to KPMG in respect of the first project under the SOW as described above, KPMG confirms that it does not have a legal or professional conflict of interest in connection with such first project. However, as the definition of the term "conflict of interest" in the Master Services Agreement between the parties goes beyond legal and professional conflicts of interest to also potentially capture business conflicts, KPMG hereby advises the Office of the Treasury Board ("OTB") that it is the auditor of Hydro One, and that KPMG performs significant tax and advisory services for Hydro One.

Out of an abundance of caution, KPMG will establish an ethical wall between the engagement team performing work in respect of the first project under the SOW and the engagement team performing the audit of Hydro One.

We understand that OTB acknowledges the foregoing potential business conflict, and that OTB is comfortable proceeding with the first project under the SOW notwithstanding such potential business conflict.

We further understand that OTB acknowledges and agrees that, in connection with each project under the SOW, KPMG shall be entitled to take all steps as are required in order to comply with its legal, regulatory and professional obligations, and that KPMG shall not be required to perform any services under the SOW which would result in non-compliance by KPMG with its legal, regulatory and professional obligations.

KPMG LLP is a Canadian limited liability partnership and a member firm of the KPMG network of independent member firms affiliated with KPMG International Cooperative ("KPMG International"), a Swiss entity. KPMG Canada provides services to KPMG LLP.

If OTB does not agree with any of the foregoing, please advise me accordingly.

Yours truly,

Michel Picard
Partner

Thanks Stephen.

For Emma's (MOE's) purpose, the PSAS reference I quoted earlier as quite relevant to addressing the remaining terminology is:

0.14 There are a variety of ways to govern the financial and operating policies of an organization. For example:

(a) a government may establish an organization's fundamental purpose and eliminate or significantly limit the ability of the organization to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the organization;

(b) a government may direct the financial and operating policies of an organization on an ongoing basis; or

(c) a government may veto, overrule or modify the financial and operating policies established by an organization.

With the above guidance in mind, to further mitigate the accounting risk, I would further suggest edits as noted below. I will review additional feedback from H1 and provide additional comments, if in any, shortly (I hope).

Hi everyone. Here are revised versions of the Declaration and the TPA, which try to reflect the consolidated comments passed on over the past few days. Please note that the attached blacklines show changes back to the versions of these documents we last circulated (early Thursday, see below). I appreciate that you may have been working with a later version, but I have gone back to the earlier versions so we can get everyone onto the same page. Also, please let me know if you would like to see the cumulative bubble notes (Track Changes) from earlier versions – we can generate these separately if useful, but our 'cleaning software' has automatically deleted these in making this particular circulation of documents. Lastly, I do not have Michel (KPMG)'s coordinates (I was copied into the appointment yesterday so my invite does not include all of the attendees). Would one of you please forward this to Michel (cc. me) and anyone else who should be looking at these drafts at this time. Regards, Steve

Hi David, Paul,

Find attached our comments on Blake's edits and comments on the TPA and the Trust Declaration. Also attached is the one time AG guidance on accounting principles (we realize Blakes may already have this, but OPCD's comments refer to this document).

Could you kindly share these with Blakes this evening. We have left some placeholders for additional input from CSD and OPCD (cc'd) and will look to provide additional comments at our call tomorrow with Blakes.

Our comments to the Trust Deed are on top of a clean version Blakes had sent. Our comments on the TPA are on top of a tracked version Blakes had sent. Apologies for the inconsistency – we ran into some version control issues on our end.

Charlotte (cc'd) will be in touch with regards to setting up a call with Blakes, as well as LSB, CSD and OPCD, tomorrow morning.

Thank you,
Emma

PRINCIPLES ANNEX

The Trustee shall have regard to [, but shall not be specifically bound by,] the following principles in applying its discretion in relation to the administration of the Trust:

1. Identification of Primary Beneficiary Payees

1.1 [Except in exceptional circumstances,] a Primary Beneficiary would not be expected to receive a benefit from the Trust unless at the time of consideration it satisfies, in addition to the requirements contemplated in the definition of "Primary Beneficiary", each of the following criteria (the "Selection Factors"):

(i) it has a participant agreement [with an applicable Electricity Distributor] to undertake measures (its "Energy Plan") to improve the electricity efficiency and/or promote the conservation of electricity at its Ontario residence;

(ii) its Energy Plan involves one or more Eligible Measures, as may be designated by the Trustee from time to time from;

(iii) it confirms that:

1. the primary purpose of its Energy Plan is the conservation and efficient use by the Primary Beneficiary of electricity, and is not for the purposes of the Primary Beneficiary making a profit;

2. it would otherwise not have the financial resources to undertake the Eligible Measures included in its Energy Plan; and

3. it would otherwise not be [a HAP Eligible Person||eligible to receive amounts in respect of the Eligible Measures under HAP];

(iv) it has demonstrated a need for financial assistance on the basis that its periodic electricity bills represent a financial burden, relative to its available financial resources; and

(v) such other criteria as the Trustee may determine, including based on the recommendations of Electricity Distributors or other knowledgeable Persons made on the basis and having regard to the delegations contemplated by the Permitted Delegations Annex or any applicable Administrative Services Agreement.

1.2 It is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, an efficient basis upon which to allocate funds to the Primary Beneficiaries across different areas and regions within Ontario may be based on the areas and regions serviced by the Electricity Distributors operating within Ontario.

1.3 It would not be contrary to the Purposes if funds are made available by the Trustee to the Primary Beneficiaries unequally across different areas and regions within Ontario, and it is expect that in making such an unequal division it would be appropriate to have regard to:

(i) broad economic parameters of economic activity and the specific financial resources of the residents of the areas and regions, in each case as an indication of the relative need of such residents across the areas and regions;

(ii) electricity use and efficiency levels of non-commercial electricity customers across the areas and regions;

(iii) specific regional indicators of economic weakness and need; and

(iv) such other factors as the Trustee may determine are relevant, including based on the submissions, advice and recommendations of Electricity Distributors or other knowledgeable Persons made on the basis and having regard to the delegations contemplated by the Permitted Delegations Annex or any applicable Administrative Services Agreement.

1.4 It is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, the designated Electricity Distributor for an area or region in which a Primary Beneficiary resides would be expected to:

(i) be a reliable source for the purpose of assessing and confirming whether the Primary Beneficiary satisfies the Selection Factors;

(ii) be an efficient intermediary for the purpose of communicating with the Primary Beneficiary, including regarding the availability, terms, conditions and intended purposes of Program[3];

(iii) be able to facilitate an efficient payment of distribution determined to be made to or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary, having regard to the Electricity Distributor's established practices, procedures and systems for dealing with its customers; and

(iv) have established contractual arrangements with the Primary Beneficiary that may apply to the protection and confidentiality of information provided by or respecting the Primary Beneficiary, which information may be useful in the consideration by the Electricity Distributor in its assessment of whether the Primary Beneficiary satisfies the Selection Factors, which information may not otherwise be available or readily accessible or verifiable by the Trustee.

1.5 It is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, the Electricity Distributor for an area or region in which a Primary Beneficiary resides will have market and utilization information that may be useful in assessing the relative needs of Primary Beneficiaries within its area or region. Such information is expected to be relevant in assessing the extent to which one such Primary Beneficiary's financial needs and the merits of its Energy Plan are greater or more compelling than those of another such Primary Beneficiary, which comparison may be relevant to the extent that the funds allocable to the Primary Beneficiaries resident in the area or region are otherwise insufficient to meet the requests for funding by all such Primary Beneficiaries.

Commented [A16]: Re: footnote – suggestive language might be included, but avoid 'shall'

[3] NTD: Consider if the Trustees should control the messaging to ensure consistency across the Province.

1.6 Accordingly, it is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, it is consistent with the Purpose that the recommendations of Electricity Distributors be utilized and relied upon by the Trustee to guide the process of identifying particular Primary Beneficiaries in making distributions to the Primary Beneficiaries.

1.7 If an Electricity Distributor for a particular area or region is unable or unwilling to assess or confirm the application of the Selection Factors to Primary Beneficiaries residing in the area or region or to make recommendations in relation to such matters, one or more of the following may provide a suitable alternative source of information and for information gathering, assessment and confirmation purposes in relation to such area or region:

(i) other Electricity Distributors operating in adjacent or other areas or regions in Ontario;

(ii) [the Ontario Energy Board];

(iii) the Independent Electricity System Operator; and

(iv) anyone else having relevant expertise and access to information regarding the electricity market of the Province, in each case as may be considered relevant by the Trustee.

1.8 To the extent that privacy law or other legal requirements limit an Electricity Distributor from providing or making available specific information respecting the application of the Selection Factors to a particular Primary Beneficiary or group of Primary Beneficiaries, it is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, it may be appropriate to redact or make generic affected information regarding such Primary Beneficiary in connection with the identification and confirmation of a Primary Beneficiary's eligibility and participation in the Program. If such limitations or restrictions would limit an Electricity Distributor from providing or confirming the name of a particular Primary Beneficiary to the Trustee, then it should be sufficient that such information may be obtained or disseminated on a confidential basis if and when required by the Trustee for the proper administration of the Trust and on that basis such impediments should not disqualify a Primary Beneficiary from participating in the benefits of the Program, provided that that the confidential record-keeping of the Electricity Distributor would be available in connection with the application of any applicable legal process predicated on the identification of such Primary Beneficiary for the purposes of substantiating its rights as a Primary Beneficiary of the Trust or as to the validity or subsistence of the Trust.

2. Eligible Measures

2.1 It is expected that the Trust will identify eligible measures that, taking into consideration the principles set forth in the Principles Annex, have regard to the following (the "Measures Factors"):

(i) electricity cost savings [NTD: Insert generic list of considerations relevant to the identification of the applicable spending uses].

(ii) primary home heating sources

[Blakes: MOE may wish to consider:

(iii) is the measure generally expected to result in improved energy conservation by a Primary Beneficiary if properly installed and used;

(iv) is the measure recognized under another Provincial program as being appropriate for achieving electricity conservation among a population analogous to the Primary Beneficiaries;

(v) has an independent source recognized the measure as being (x) energy efficient in design, (y) more energy efficient than similar products available in the market intended for similar usage, or (z) effective in promoting energy conservation;

(vi) does the measure present any unacceptable health or safety considerations, either with respect to the Primary Beneficiary, a party providing or installing the measure, or the physical environment;

(vii) is the measure broadly available to residents across different areas and regions of the Province;

(viii) is it reasonable to expect that the measure would, over its anticipated useful life, generate greater costs savings in respect of electricity efficiency or conservation than the cost of the measure itself; or

(ix) is the measure a requirement or precursor to another measure, the other measure being one which meets any of the other Measures Factors.]

2.2 In identifying and applying the Measures Factors, Electricity Distributors would be expected to have expertise in assessing the suitability of efficiency and conservation measures in their respective areas and regions, which may differ across areas and regions across the Province based on factors (among other things) such as the climate, geography, density, electricity infrastructure, residential structures, and electricity use rates applicable within such areas or regions.

2.3 The measures specified in Schedule A to this Principles Annex may initially be considered to be consistent with the Measures Factors (subject to change as contemplated under the Permitted Delegations Annex).

3. Promotion of the Program

3.1 It is expected that the Trustee will undertake or engage others to undertake efforts to promote the availability, terms and benefits of the Program to Primary Beneficiaries.

Commented [A17]: Per comment above – could insert expectation that the Trust will provide comms materials for LDCs to use

3.2 [NTD: Insert any expectations of the Province regarding associating the Program to the Government, including in any external communications to or marketing directed at Electricity Distributors and Primary Beneficiaries.]

3.3 [NTD: Indicate that the Trustee would be free to enter into License Agreements with the Province, provided that the terms of such License Agreements are consistent with the Purpose and the Program, and that such License Agreements may permit the sub-license of IP to Electricity Distributors and permit the engagement of the Province to provide services related to the use of related IP rights.]

3.4 [NTD: Insert any expectations regarding the observance of License Agreements]

4. Conduct of the Trust and the Program

4.1 It is expected that administrative expenses of the Board of Trustees and its members, including any expenses relating to the Trust, to the establishment of the [Trust][Affordability Fund] and any expenses related to the implementation and operation of the Program, including by or through Electricity Distributors and other relevant entities, will be recognized and subject to reimbursement on a basis that is substantially consistent with the accountability provisions contemplated in the Transfer Payment Agreement and the principles in the [~~Province's Transfer Payment Accountability Directive~~/Travel, Meal and Hospitality Expenses Directive[4]], the current form of which attached as Schedule B to this Principles Annex.

4.2 The Trustee is expected to conduct its activities in a manner that complies in all material respects with the Transfer Payment Agreement, including to:

(i) act prudently and in furtherance of the Purpose;

(ii) report not less frequently than annually the results of its activities for information purposes to the Province in connection with the Program;

(iii) comply with the Province's request for any independent verification or audit if determined to be necessary or appropriate by the Province;

(iv) return of Assets that have not been distributed if it is [determined][manifestly demonstrated by the Province] that the Trustee has breached its Standard of Care in discharging its material duties under the Declaration, and has not cured such material breach despite having been given a reasonable opportunity by the Province to do so in light of the circumstances of such material breach, with the result that all or a significant part of the Assets have not been or are not being applied and distributed in furtherance of the Purpose or are being applied and distributed in a manner that is directly contrary or without regard to the Purpose.]

4.3 Electricity Distributors are not intended to directly profit from distributions of funds made from the Trust, although it is recognized that the objectives of electricity efficiency and conservation of Primary Beneficiaries located in the service area or region of an Electricity Distributor, and the cost savings and improved credit worthiness of such Primary Beneficiaries, may be financially beneficial to the Electricity Distributor.

Commented [A18]: Deleted reference to TP Directive as not relevant.

Commented [A19]: So if these are not honoured then the Trust would be assessed as in 'material breach'. In other words, a material break is only in connection with these requirements? If yes, should 4.2 (1) refer specifically to the principles and delegation annex?

[4] NTD: Ministry to confirm applicable Directive(s).

4.4 Distributions from the Trust are intended to allow receiving Primary Beneficiaries to undertake Eligible Measures at no or minimal personal cost.

4.5 Without in any way limiting the discretion of the Board of Trustees to extend the period during which the benefits of the Program may be available to the Primary Beneficiaries, up to and including the Final Distribution Date, it is expected that the Trust Assets would be distributed to Primary Beneficiaries during the period from the Original Trustee Replacement Date to [March 31, 2019].

Commented [A20]: Confirm if Apr.

PERMITTED DELEGATION ANNEX

1. Under section 4.2(g) of the Declaration, the Trustee has the power to: [(a) appoint, employ or retain Administrative Services Agents for the purpose of discharging its duties and obligations under the Declaration; and (b) enter into, perform, enforce and amend Administrative Services Agreements].

2. In accordance with section 4.2(g) of the Declaration, consistent with the principles set forth in the Principles Annex, the Trustee or its agent will seek to enter into one or more Administrative Services Agreements with individual Electricity Distributors under which the Electricity Distributors will act as Administrative Service Agents to the Trustee. In this manner, the Trustee will delegate certain of its powers and duties to the Electricity Distributors.

3. Under section 5.1 of the Declaration, to the extent the Trustee has delegated any of its duties or powers, it shall be deemed to have satisfied the Standard of Care in respect of the subject matter of such delegation, subject to the Trustee's overall duty to exercise prudent oversight thereof. The Trustee is entitled to rely on an Electricity Distributor to discharge the duties delegated to it, as Administrative Services Agent, pursuant to an Administrative Services Agreement as described in this Annex.

4. Accordingly, and without limiting the Trustee's right to delegate under the Declaration and its other rights, powers and discretion as Trustee, the Trustee will be permitted to, and is expected to seek to, enter into Administrative Services Agreements with Electricity Distributors in order to further the Purpose. Without limiting the Trustee's discretion to negotiate and settle the terms and conditions of such Administrative Services Agreements, it is expected that such Administrative Services Agreements will include customary terms and conditions for an administrative services arrangement of this type and, in addition, ~~would~~ might (subject to the acceptance and agreement of the applicable Electricity Distributor counterparty) address the following points in particular:

    a. Identification of Applicable Primary Beneficiary Payees and Determination of Individual Distribution Amounts

        i. Each Electricity Distributor would make an initial assessment of the financial needs of Primary Beneficiaries within its designated service area or region, having regard to the Selection Factors set forth in section 1.3 of the Principles Annex, together with applicable economic data, in order to prepare and provide to the Trustee an estimate of the number of Primary Beneficiaries who the Electricity Distributor reasonably expects would satisfy the Selection Factors.

        ii. Each Electricity Distributor would make an initial assessment of the measures it would recommend be included as Eligible Measures, having regard to the Measures Factors set forth in section 2.1 of the Principles Annex, in order to prepare and provide to the Trustee an estimate of the average cost per Primary Beneficiary Payee (as defined below) of such Eligible Measures that the Electricity Distributor reasonably expects would apply in respect of Primary Beneficiaries resident in its service area or region.

Formatted: Highlight

Commented [A22]: Suggest wording change (AG may feel this is very specific and indicative of control)

iii. Based on the product of (i) and (ii), above, and such other considerations as it considers to be directly relevant, each Electricity Distributor would make a written recommendation to the Trustee regarding the aggregate funding amount that the Electricity Distributor anticipates would be utilized under the Program by the Primary Beneficiaries resident in its service area or region (the "Local Funding Estimate"). Such recommendation would be accompanied, when submitted to the Trustee, by a detailed explanation regarding the assumptions, financial parameters, suitability considerations and other information underlying the Local Funding Estimate (including the type of information contemplated by the Selections Factors and the Measures Factors, which would be relied upon by the Trustee in its assessment regarding the allocation of available funding to or for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiaries across the specified areas and regions of Ontario.

iv. The Trustee would inform the Electricity Distributor regarding the aggregate of the amount determined by the Trustee to be made available under the Program for Primary Beneficiaries in the Electricity Distributor's designated service area or region (for each Electricity Distributor, its "Maximum Electricity Distributor Allocation") and as to any maximum amount that may be paid to or for the benefit of any single Primary Beneficiary [or group of related Primary Beneficiaries] located in the servicer area or region of the Electricity Distributor (the "Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount"). The Maximum Electricity Distributor Allocation and Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount may vary between areas and regions, among the Primary Beneficiaries within such areas and regions, and may be increased by the Trustee from time to time in its discretion.

v. Each Electricity Distributor would apply the principles set forth under "Identification of Primary Beneficiary Payees" in the Principles Annex to identify and make recommendations to the Trustee regarding the amount of funds (if any) to be distributed to or for the benefit of Primary Beneficiaries resident within its service area or region from time to time (the "Primary Beneficiary Payees").

vi. Each Electricity Distributor would ensure that the aggregate of the amounts it recommends be distributed to or for the benefit of Primary Beneficiary Payees from time to time does not exceed (1) its Maximum Electricity Distributor Allocation and (2) for any single Primary Beneficiary [or group of related Primary Beneficiaries] located in the service area or region of the Electricity Distributor, the lesser of (x) the applicable Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount and (y) the estimated costs (including any applicable taxes, but excluding any amount payable to the Electricity Distributor by or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary) to be incurred by or on behalf of such Primary Beneficiary (whether or not such costs have been paid or remain outstanding) in respect of Eligible Measures applied or to be applied in respect of the Primary Beneficiary's Ontario residence.

vii. The Trustee would provide written confirmation to each Electricity Distributor:

1. Either (x) that the recommendations specified of the Electricity Distributor in clause (v), above, have been accepted, or (y) as to the specific reasons for any non-acceptance; and

2. The amount of the distributions to be paid to or for the benefit of each Primary Beneficiary Payee that is resident in the Electricity Distributor's service area or region.

viii. With respect to each Primary Beneficiary resident in a Electricity Distributor's service area or region that is confirmed as a Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Electricity Distributor would provide the Trustee written confirmation as to:

1. The identity of such Primary Beneficiary Payee; and

2. The amount of the distribution paid to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiary Payee.

ix. If the amount of a distribution to be made to a Primary Beneficiary Payee is based on the estimated costs to be incurred by or on behalf of such Primary Beneficiary and, prior to making the distribution to the Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Electricity Distributor determines that the actual costs (including any applicable taxes but excluding any amount payable to the Electricity Distributor by or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary) incurred or to be incurred by or on behalf of such Primary Beneficiary in respect of Eligible Measures applied or to be applied in respect of the Primary Beneficiary's Ontario residence has or would be less than such estimated costs, then the amount to be distributed to the Primary Beneficiary shall be based on such actual costs.

b. Making of Distributions to Primary Beneficiaries

i. It is expected that promptly after the Trustee confirms the identity of a Primary Beneficiary Payee resident in an Electricity Distributor's service area or region and the amount of the distribution to be paid to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Trustee would arrange for payment to or on the direction of the Electricity Distributor of an amount equal to the amount of such distribution.

ii. It is expected that promptly upon receipt of funds in respect of a distribution to be made to a Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Electricity Distributor would arrange for payment of the full amount of such distribution to or for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payee (including by direct payment to a third party of, or as a reimbursement or rebate of, the costs of applicable Eligible Measures installed at the residence of and for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payee), without reduction or set-off by the Electricity Distributor.

iii. If the amount paid to an Electricity Distributor in respect of a distribution to be made to a Primary Beneficiary exceeds the actual amount of the distribution made to or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary, it is expected that the Trustee would require Electricity Distributor to promptly return such excess to the Trustee, whereupon the proceeds of such returned amount shall continue to form part of the Assets.

c. Promotion of the Program

   i. [NTD: Insert any specific items regarding the use of IP by Electricity Distributors]

d. Establishment of Operational, Administrative, Record-Keeping and Other Systems and Policies by Electricity Distributors to facilitate the Program

   i. It is expected that the Electricity Distributor would establish such operational, administrative, record-keeping and other systems and policies as are necessary to facilitate the Program and perform its duties under the Administrative Services Agreement, including systems or policies to: identify Primary Beneficiary Payees; comply with applicable privacy and regulatory laws; communicate with Primary Beneficiaries on behalf of the Trust; assess Eligible Measures; determine the Local Funding Estimate; monitor its recommendations to the Trustee against its Maximum Electricity Distributor Allocation and the Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount; receive funds from the Trust in respect of distributions to the Primary Beneficiary Payees and transfer such funds to the appropriate recipients for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payees; preparation and timely delivery to Primary Beneficiary Payees of such documents as are required by the Income Tax Act (Canada); and create and maintain records in respect of the foregoing.

   ii. The Electricity Distributor would set up a separate bank account for the purpose of receiving funds from the Trust in respect of distributions to the Primary Beneficiary Payees and the transfer of such funds to the appropriate recipients for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payees.

e. Reporting, Record-Keeping, Inspection and Disclosure and Compliance Matters

   i. The Electricity Distributor would provide record-keeping, clerical and bookkeeping services relating to all matters relating to its recommendations and the performance of its other duties and obligations under its Administrative Services Agreement.

   ii. The Electricity Distributor would keep and maintain all financial records and non-financial documents and records relating to the provision of services under its Administrative Services Agreement. [NTD: Consider specifying any particular records regarding individual Primary Beneficiary Payees needed to ensure the proper function of the Trust or the Program]

   iii. The Electricity Distributor would provide to the Trustee quarterly and annual reports ("Reports") for the duration of its Administrative Services Agreement. Such Reports would set out, among other things, the amounts of the distributions paid to or for the benefit of applicable Primary Beneficiary Payees, the average distribution amount per such Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Eligible Measures for which distributions have been made, and the uptake of energy efficiency measures.

iv. The Electricity Distributor would agree to provide to the Trustee such information as is necessary for the Trustee to (v) comply with applicable law; (w) prepare financial statements for the Trust; (x) prepare and submit such documents as are required under the Income Tax Act (Canada); (y) comply with the Trust's applicable obligations under the Transfer Payment Agreement; and (z) such other matters as the Trustee reasonably requests.

v. The Trustee, its authorized representatives or an independent auditor would be permitted to, at its own expense, on twenty-four hours' notice to the Electricity Distributor and during normal business hours, inspect the records of and information respecting the Electricity Distributor to confirm its compliance with the Administrative Services Agreement, including regarding its processes for recommending the Primary Beneficiary Payees and their respective distribution amounts and regarding the delivery of Trust funds on behalf of the Trustee to or for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payees.

f. Standard of Care

Hi everyone. Here are revised versions of the Declaration and the TPA, which try to reflect the consolidated comments passed on over the past few days. Please note that the attached blacklines show changes back to the versions of these documents we last circulated (early Thursday, see below). I appreciate that you may have been working with a later version, but I have gone back to the earlier versions so we can get everyone onto the same page. Also, please let me know if you would like to see the cumulative bubble notes (Track Changes) from earlier versions – we can generate these separately if useful, but our 'cleaning software' has automatically deleted these in making this particular circulation of documents. Lastly, I do not have Michel (KPMG)'s coordinates (I was copied into the appointment yesterday so my invite does not include all of the attendees). Would one of you please forward this to Michel (cc. me) and anyone else who should be looking at these drafts at this time. Regards, Steve

Hi David, Paul,

Find attached our comments on Blake's edits and comments on the TPA and the Trust Declaration. Also attached is the one time AG guidance on accounting principles (we realize Blakes may already have this, but OPCD's comments refer to this document).

Could you kindly share these with Blakes this evening. We have left some placeholders for additional input from CSD and OPCD (cc'd) and will look to provide additional comments at our call tomorrow with Blakes.

Our comments to the Trust Deed are on top of a clean version Blakes had sent. Our comments on the TPA are on top of a tracked version Blakes had sent. Apologies for the inconsistency – we ran into some version control issues on our end.

Charlotte (cc'd) will be in touch with regards to setting up a call with Blakes, as well as LSB, CSD and OPCD, tomorrow morning.

Thank you,
Emma

(g) [it is intended that the transfer of the Funds to the Recipient will be a transfer made to a "non-controlled trust" (as that term is given meaning in • applicable to the accounting rules and principles applicable to the Province as of the date of the Agreement), and so if a term or condition of the Agreement is determined to conflict with the requirements applicable to the Province recording the transfers to the Recipient of Funds contemplated hereunder as an expense incurred by the Province on the date of the transfer of Funds under the Agreement otherwise in connection with activities undertaken by the Province with such a "non-controlled trust", then such term or condition shall be given a meaning and shall have an effect insofar as it is possible to interpret such term or condition in a manner that eliminates such conflict while preserving the other provisions of the Agreement and furthering the Purpose.][1]

1.2 Definitions. In the Agreement, the following terms will have the following meanings:

"Affordability Fund Trust" means the trust established and governed by the Declaration of Trust, and for greater certainty includes such trust operating under any other name that may be designated from time to time by the Trustee in accordance with the Declaration of Trust.

"BPSAA" means the Broader Public Sector Accountability Act, 2010 (Ontario).

[1] NTD: Consider if this sort of fail-safe is helpful.

"Declaration of Trust" means the declaration of trust made as of March [•], 2017, under which the Affordability Fund Trust was established by the Trustee, as such declaration of trust may be amended, restated, supplemented or otherwise modified from time to time with the consent of the Province.

2.0 REPRESENTATIONS, WARRANTIES AND COVENANTS

2.1 General. The Recipient represents, warrants and covenants that:

(a) the Trustee is the trustee of the Affordability Fund Trust; and

(b) the Affordability Fund Trust is, and will continue to be for the term of the Agreement, a trust existing under and governed by the laws of the Province of Ontario.

2.2 Execution of Agreement. The Recipient represents and warrants that it has:

(a) the full power and authority to enter into the Agreement; and

(b) taken all necessary actions to authorize the execution of the Agreement.

2.3 Governance. The Recipient represents, warrants and covenants that it has, and will maintain, in writing for the period during which the Agreement is in effect:

(a) decision-making mechanisms and procedures to enable the Recipient to hold, invest, manage, apply and distribute the Funds in accordance with the Declaration of Trust in furtherance of the Purpose; and

(b) procedures to enable the preparation and delivery of all Reports required pursuant to Article 5.0.

2.4 Supporting Documentation. Upon request, the Recipient will provide the Province with proof of the matters referred to in this Article 2.0.

3.0 TERM OF THE AGREEMENT

3.1 Term. The term of the Agreement will commence on the Effective Date and will expire on the later of the Expiration Date and the date on which the Affordability Fund Trust is terminated in accordance with the Declaration of Trust.

3.2 Extension. The term of the Agreement may be extended by further agreement between the Parties.

3.3 Extension of the Declaration of Trust. If the Province determines that an extension of the Declaration of Trust (beyond the "Final Distribution Date" and time for termination, each as specified or determined thereunder) is consistent with and in furtherance of the Purpose and the Province's original intentions and expectations in establishing the Project, the Province may request that the Recipient extend the Declaration of Trust to a date specified by the Province in a Notice (such date not to be later than •), whereupon the Recipient, so long as the Trustee does not have a reasonable basis to believe that such an extension would be inconsistent with the Purpose or weaken the protections intended for the benefit of the Trustee pursuant to the Declaration of Trust, will undertake such actions as it may consider to be necessary or appropriate to so extend the Declaration of Trust, including by amending the Declaration of Trust to provide for such an extension and to modify any other term or requirement as would be necessary or prudent to conform such term or requirement in light of such extension.

4.0 FUNDS AND CARRYING OUT THE PROJECT

4.1 Funds Provided. The Province will:

(a) provide the Recipient up to the Maximum Funds to be held, invested, applied and distributed in accordance with the terms of the Project and the Declaration of Trust;

(b) provide the Funds to the Recipient in accordance with the Payment Plan attached to the Agreement as Schedule "E"; and

(c) deposit the Funds into an account designated by the Recipient, provided that the account:

(i) resides at a Canadian financial institution; and

(ii) is in the name of the Recipient.

4.2 Limitation on Payment of Funds. Despite section 4.1, the Province is not obligated to provide any Funds to the Recipient until the Requirements (as specified and defined in Schedule C) have been satisfied.

4.3 Use of Funds and Project. The Recipient will use, apply and distribute the Funds only for and in furtherance of the Purpose, including having regard to the Principles set forth in Annex A.

4.4 Province's Role Limited to Providing Funds. For greater clarity, the Province's role under the Agreement is limited to providing Funds to the Recipient and the Province is not responsible for carrying out or overseeing the terms of the Declaration of Trust.

4.5 Maximum Funds. The Recipient acknowledges that the Funds available to it pursuant to the Agreement will not exceed the Maximum Funds.

4.6 Funding, Not Procurement. For greater clarity, the Recipient acknowledges that:

(a) it is receiving funding from the Province for the Project and is not providing goods or services to the Province[2]; and

(b) the funding the Province is providing under the Agreement is funding for the purposes of the PSSDA.

5.0 RECIPIENT'S ACQUISITION OF GOODS OR SERVICES, AND DISPOSAL OF ASSETS

5.1 Acquisition. If the Recipient acquires goods, services, or both with or by applying the proceeds of the Funds, it will do so through a process that promotes the best value for money and will take reasonable steps to ensure that its Administrative Services Agents also follow a process that promotes the best value for money when acquiring goods and services with or by applying the proceeds of the Funds.

6.0 CONFLICT OF INTEREST

6.1 No Conflict of Interest. The Recipient will carry out the Program and use, apply and distribute the Funds without an actual, potential or perceived conflict of interest.

6.2 Conflict of Interest Includes. For the purposes of this Article, a conflict of interest includes any circumstances where:

(a) the Recipient; or
(b) any person who has the capacity to influence the Recipient's decisions[3], has outside commitments, relationships or financial interests that could, or could be seen to, interfere with the Recipient's objective, unbiased and impartial judgment relating to the Project, or the Recipient's use, application or distribution of the Funds, or both.

6.3 Disclosure to Province. The Recipient will disclose to the Province, without delay, any situation that a reasonable person would interpret as an actual, potential or perceived conflict of interest.

7.0 REPORTING, ACCOUNTING AND REVIEW

7.1 Preparation and Submission. The Recipient will:

(a) submit to the Province at the address referred to in Schedule "B", all Reports in accordance with the timelines and content requirements set out in Schedule "F", or in a form as specified by the Province from time to time;

(b) submit to the Province at the address referred to in Schedule "B", any other reports as may be requested by the Province from time to time in accordance with the timelines and content requirements specified by the Province;

[2] NTD: Consider in relation to promotional objectives and in the context of any License Agreement.
[3] NTD: Need to consider how this works in relation to Administrative Services Agents. Is the intention that the Trustee will be in breach of the Agreement if an Administrative Services Agent is itself in a conflict, or should this be recast to require the Trustee to seek remedies (i.e., termination) if an Administrative Agent is determined to be (diligence requirement?) in breach of the conflicts of interest requirements contemplated in the Permitted Delegations Annex?

(c) ensure that all Reports and other reports are completed to the satisfaction of the Province; and

(d) ensure that all Reports and other reports are signed on behalf of the Recipient by an authorized signatory.

7.2 Record Maintenance. The Recipient will keep and maintain financial and other records necessary to permit it to satisfy its obligations under section 7.1 and to permit the Province to exercise its rights under section 7.3.

7.3 Inspection. The Province, its authorized representatives or an independent auditor identified by the Province may, at its own expense, upon twenty-four hours' Notice to the Recipient and during normal business hours, inspect the records of and information respecting the Recipient to confirm its compliance with the terms of this Agreement, including to ensure consistency with the Purpose and, for these purposes, the Province, its authorized representatives or an independent auditor identified by the Province may take one or more of the following actions:

(a) inspect and copy the records and documents referred to in section 7.2;

(b) keep any copies made pursuant to section 7.3(a); and

(c) conduct an audit or investigation of the Recipient in respect of the expenditure of the Funds to confirm that the Funds have been used, applied and distributed for and in furtherance of the Purpose, including a review of the Trust's processes, records, documents and information to ensure that funds disbursed to Electricity Distributors were used, applied and distributed for and in furtherance of the Purpose.

7.4 Disclosure. To assist in respect of the rights set out in section 7.3, the Recipient will disclose any information requested by the Province, its authorized representatives or an independent auditor identified by the Province, and will do so in the form requested by the Province, its authorized representatives or an independent auditor identified by the Province, as the case may be.

7.5 No Control of Records. No provision of the Agreement will be construed so as to give the Province any control whatsoever over the Recipient's records.

7.6 Auditor General. For greater certainty, the Province's rights under this Article are in addition to and do not limit any rights[4] provided to the Auditor General pursuant to section 9.1 of the Auditor General Act (Ontario).

8.0 COMMUNICATIONS REQUIREMENTS

8.1 Publication. The Recipient will indicate, in any of its Program -related publications, whether written, oral, or visual, that the views expressed in the publication are the views of the Recipient and do not necessarily reflect those of the Province.[5]

9.0 FREEDOM OF INFORMATION AND PROTECTION OF PRIVACY

9.1 FIPPA. The Recipient acknowledges that the Province is bound by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (Ontario) and that any information provided to the Province in connection with the Project or otherwise in connection with the Agreement may be subject to disclosure in accordance with that Act.

[4] NTD: Does the AG have any authority in respect of an non-controlled trust? If not, this probably needs to be rephrased so that the Trustee agrees to facilitate the Province's compliance with this statutute.
[5] NTD: Consider in light of possible additions to the Declaration/Principles regarding the promotion of the Program.

10.0 INSURANCE

10.1 Insurance. The Recipient [has made enquiries to confirm][believes] that insurance policies of the type contemplated in Schedule C are generally available in Canada.[6]

11.0 EVENT OF DEFAULT, CORRECTIVE ACTION AND TERMINATION FOR DEFAULT

11.1 Events of Default. An Event of Default will occur if:

(a) the Recipient fails to perform or observe any covenant in this Agreement and such failure has and continues to have a material adverse effect on the Province and remains unremedied during any Notice period applicable under section 11.2 after the earlier of (i) actual knowledge thereof by the Recipient, or (ii) receipt by the Recipient of Notice thereof from the Province;

(b) any representation or warranty made by the Recipient in the Agreement shall prove to have been incorrect in any material respect when made or deemed made, and, if capable of remedy, continues to be incorrect in any material respect during any Notice period applicable under section 11.2 after the earlier to occur of (i) the actual knowledge thereof by the Recipient or (ii) receipt by the Recipient of Notice thereof from the Province;

(c) it is [determined][manifestly demonstrated by the Province] that the Recipient has breached its Standard of Care (within the meaning given in and context of the Declaration of Trust) in discharging its material duties under the Declaration of Trust, with the result that all or a significant part of the Funds have not been or are not being applied in furtherance of the Purpose or are being applied in a manner that is directly contrary or without regard to the Purpose, and, if such breach is capable of remedy, it continues and remains unremedied during any Notice period applicable under section 11.2 after the earlier of (i) actual knowledge thereof by the Recipient, or (ii) receipt by the Recipient of Notice thereof from the Province;

(d) an [Insolvency Event] shall have occurred and be continuing with respect to the Recipient.

11.2 Consequences of Events of Default and Corrective Action. If an Event of Default occurs, the Province may, at any time, take one or more of the following actions:

(a) provide the Recipient with Notice allowing the Recipient an opportunity to remedy the Event of Default during a specified Notice Period[7];

(b) seek an order of specific performance, including an order that the Recipient pursue its available remedies under the Agreement against third parties;

(c) require, by Notice of demand, that the Recipient transfer to the Province (without any need for compensation, indemnity or consideration to the Recipient or any Beneficiary or other third party) any and all Assets remaining in the possession or under the control of the Recipient [that can reasonably be traced or attributed to the Funds][after first providing for the completion and performance by the Recipient of any unperformed contractual obligations of the Recipient undertaken in compliance with the Declaration of Trust on or prior to transfer]; and

(d) terminate the Agreement, including immediately, without liability, penalty or costs to the Province upon giving Notice to the Recipient.

[6] NTD: Consider if this is helpful from an accounting perspective.
[7] NTD: Consider whether to provide for a notice period within the specific Events of Default, rather than making cures entirely in the Provinces discretion.

The transfer of Funds in accordance with the Agreement is made by the Province with the expressed intention and reservation that the transferred Funds shall be returned to the Province and the entitlements of the Recipient in remaining Funds shall thereby be revoked with reversion thereof to the Province in the circumstances contemplated in Section 11.2(c).

11.3 Opportunity to Remedy. If, in accordance with section 11.2, the Province provides the Recipient with an opportunity to remedy the Event of Default, the Province will provide Notice to the Recipient of:

(a) the particulars of the Event of Default; and

(b) the Notice Period.

11.4 Recipient not Remedying. If the Province has provided the Recipient with an opportunity to remedy the Event of Default pursuant to section 11.2(a), and:

(a) the Recipient does not remedy the Event of Default within the Notice Period;

(b) it becomes apparent to the Province that the Recipient cannot adequately remedy the Event of Default within the Notice Period; or

(c) the Recipient is not proceeding to remedy the Event of Default in a way that is satisfactory to the Province, the Province may extend any Notice period, or initiate any one or more of the actions provided for in section 11.2.

12.0 REPAYMENT

12.1 Debt Due. If, pursuant to the Agreement: the Province demands the payment of any Funds from the Recipient pursuant to section 11.2(c) such Funds or other amount will be deemed to be a debt due and owing to the Province by the Recipient, and the Recipient will pay or return the amount to the Province immediately, unless the Province directs otherwise.

[Blakes: A Day 1 Administrative Services Agreement would likely be requested by Computershare to address the possibility of interim administrative issues. It would also be useful to the extent that it is necessary for someone to advise Computershare if an unforeseen event arises or amendments are required to the Declaration, in the event initial changes are necessary to make the Declaration acceptable to potential Board members. [Blakes: The intention has been to make the Principles and the Delegations clear and firm, so that MOE has greater certainty. There is scope for the Trustees to add to Principles. PRINCIPLES ANNEX

The Trustee shall have regard to [, but shall not be specifically bound by,] the following principles in applying its discretion in relation to the administration of the Trust:

1. Identification of Primary Beneficiary Payees

1.1 [Except in exceptional circumstances,] a Primary Beneficiary would not be expected to receive a benefit from the Trust unless at the time of consideration it satisfies, in addition to the requirements contemplated in the definition of "Primary Beneficiary", each of the following criteria (the "Selection Factors"):

(i) it has a participant agreement [with an applicable Electricity Distributor] to undertake measures (its "Energy Plan") to improve the electricity efficiency and/or promote the conservation of electricity at its Ontario residence;

(ii) its Energy Plan involves one or more Eligible Measures, as may be designated by the Trustee from time to time from;

(iii) it confirms that:

1. the primary purpose of its Energy Plan is the conservation and efficient use by the Primary Beneficiary of electricity, and is not for the purposes of the Primary Beneficiary making a profit;

2. it would otherwise not have the financial resources to undertake the Eligible Measures included in its Energy Plan; and

3. it would otherwise not be [a HAP Eligible Person][eligible to receive amounts in respect of the Eligible Measures under HAP];

(iv) it has demonstrated a need for financial assistance on the basis that its periodic electricity bills represent a financial burden, relative to its available financial resources; and

(v) such other criteria as the Trustee may determine, including based on the recommendations of Electricity Distributors or other knowledgeable Persons made on the basis and in accordance with the delegations contemplated by the Permitted Delegations Annex or any applicable Administrative Services Agreement.

1.2 It is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, an efficient basis upon which to allocate funds to the Primary Beneficiaries across different areas and regions within Ontario may be based on the areas and regions serviced by the Electricity Distributors operating within Ontario.

1.3 It would not be contrary to the Purposes if funds are made available by the Trustee to the Primary Beneficiaries unequally across different areas and regions within Ontario, and it is expect that in making such an unequal division it would be appropriate to have regard to:

(i) broad economic parameters of economic activity and the specific financial resources of the residents of the areas and regions, in each case as an indication of the relative need of such residents across the areas and regions;

(ii) electricity use and efficiency levels of non-commercial electricity customers across the areas and regions;

(iii) specific regional indicators of economic weakness and need; and

(iv) such other factors as the Trustee may determine are relevant, including based on the submissions, advice and recommendations of Electricity Distributors or other knowledgeable Persons made on the basis and in accordance with the delegations contemplated by the Permitted Delegations Annex or any applicable Administrative Services Agreement.

1.4 It is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, the designated Electricity Distributor for an area or region in which a Primary Beneficiary resides would be expected to:

(i) be a reliable source for the purpose of assessing and confirming whether the Primary Beneficiary satisfies the Selection Factors;

(ii) be an efficient intermediary for the purpose of communicating with the Primary Beneficiary, including regarding the availability, terms, conditions and intended purposes of Program[8];

(iii) be able to facilitate an efficient payment of distribution determined to be made to or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary, having regard to the Electricity Distributor's established practices, procedures and systems for dealing with its customers; and

(iv) have established contractual arrangements with the Primary Beneficiary that may apply to the protection and confidentiality of information provided by or respecting the Primary Beneficiary, which information may be useful in the consideration by the Electricity Distributor in its assessment of whether the Primary Beneficiary satisfies the Selection Factors, which information may not otherwise be available or readily accessible or verifiable by the Trustee. [Blakes: These statements are included to substantiate the very significant delegation of decision making (dispositive powers) to and influence of the Electricity Distributors.]

1.5 It is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, the Electricity Distributor for an area or region in which a Primary Beneficiary resides will have market and utilization information that may be useful in assessing the relative needs of Primary Beneficiaries within its area or region. Such information is expected to be relevant in assessing the extent to which one such Primary Beneficiary's financial needs and the merits of its Energy Plan are greater or more compelling than those of another such Primary Beneficiary, which comparison may be relevant to the extent that the funds allocable to the Primary Beneficiaries resident in the area or region are otherwise insufficient to meet the requests for funding by all such Primary Beneficiaries.

1.6 Accordingly, it is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, it is consistent with the Purpose that the recommendations of Electricity Distributors be utilized and relied upon by the Trustee to guide the process of identifying particular Primary Beneficiaries in making distributions to the Primary Beneficiaries.

1.7 If an Electricity Distributor for a particular area or region is unable or unwilling to assess or confirm the application of the Selection Factors to Primary Beneficiaries residing in the area or region or to make recommendations in relation to such matters, one or more of the following may provide a suitable alternative source of information and for information gathering, assessment and confirmation purposes in relation to such area or region:

(i) other Electricity Distributors operating in adjacent or other areas or regions in Ontario;

(ii) [the Ontario Energy Board];

(iii) the Independent Electricity System Operator; and

(iv) anyone else having relevant expertise and access to information regarding the electricity market of the Province, in each case as may be considered relevant by the Trustee.

1.8 To the extent that privacy law or other legal requirements limit an Electricity Distributor from providing or making available specific information respecting the application of the Selection Factors to a particular Primary Beneficiary or group of Primary Beneficiaries, it is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, it may be appropriate to redact or make generic affected information regarding such Primary Beneficiary in connection with the identification and confirmation of a Primary Beneficiary's eligibility and participation in the Program. If such limitations or restrictions would limit an Electricity Distributor from providing or confirming the name of a particular Primary Beneficiary to the Trustee, then it should be sufficient that such information may be obtained or disseminated on a confidential basis if and when required by the Trustee for the proper administration of the Trust and on that basis such impediments should not disqualify a Primary Beneficiary from participating in the benefits of the Program, provided that that the confidential record-keeping of the Electricity Distributor would be available in connection with the application of any applicable legal process predicated on the identification of such Primary Beneficiary for the purposes of substantiating its rights as a Primary Beneficiary of the Trust or as to the validity or subsistence of the Trust.

2. Eligible Measures

2.1 Eligible Measures shall be identified having regard to the following (the "Measures Factors"):

(i) electricity cost savings [NTD: Insert generic list of considerations relevant to the identification of the applicable spending uses].

(ii) primary home heating sources

[Blakes: MOE may wish to consider:

(iii) is the measure generally expected to result in improved energy conservation by a Primary Beneficiary if properly installed and used;

(iv) is the measure recognized under another Provincial program as being appropriate for achieving electricity conservation among a population analogous to the Primary Beneficiaries;

(v) has an independent source recognized the measure as being (x) energy efficient in design, (y) more energy efficient than similar products available in the market intended for similar usage, or (z) effective in promoting energy conservation;

(vi) does the measure present any unacceptable health or safety considerations, either with respect to the Primary Beneficiary, a party providing or installing the measure, or the physical environment;

(vii) is the measure broadly available to residents across different areas and regions of the Province;

(viii) is it reasonable to expect that the measure would, over its anticipated useful life, generate greater costs savings in respect of electricity efficiency or conservation than the cost of the measure itself; or

(ix) is the measure a requirement or precursor to another measure, the other measure being one which meets any of the other Measures Factors.]

2.2 In identifying and applying the Measures Factors, Electricity Distributors would be expected to have expertise in assessing the suitability of efficiency and conservation measures in their respective areas and regions, which may differ across areas and regions across the Province based on factors (among other things) such as the climate, geography, density, electricity infrastructure, residential structures, and electricity use rates applicable within such areas or regions.

2.3 Unless otherwise specified by the Board of Trustees, the measures specified in Schedule A to this Principles Annex may initially be considered to be consistent with the Measures Factors (subject to change as contemplated under the Permitted Delegations Annex).

3. Promotion of the Program

3.1 It is expected that the Trustee will undertake or engage others to undertake efforts to promote the availability, terms and benefits of the Program to Primary Beneficiaries.

3.2 [NTD: Insert any expectations of the Province regarding associating the Program to the Government, including in any external communications to or marketing directed at Electricity Distributors and Primary Beneficiaries.]

3.3 [NTD: Indicate that the Trustee would be free to enter into License Agreements with the Province, provided that the terms of such License Agreements are consistent with the Purpose and the Program, and that such License Agreements may permit the sub-license of IP to Electricity Distributors and permit the engagement of the Province to provide services related to the use of related IP rights.

3.4 [NTD: Insert any expectations regarding the observance of License Agreements]

4. Conduct of the Trust and the Program

4.1 It is expected that administrative expenses of the Board of Trustees and its members, including any expenses relating to the Trust, to the establishment of the [Trust][Affordability Fund] and any expenses related to the implementation and operation of the Program, including by or through Electricity Distributors and other relevant entities, will be recognized and subject to reimbursement on a basis that is substantially consistent with the principles outlined in the [Province's Transfer Payment Accountability Directive/Travel, Meal and Hospitality Expenses Directive][9], the current form of which attached as Schedule B to this Principles Annex.

4.2 The Trustee is expected to conduct its activities in a manner that complies in all material respects with the Transfer Payment Agreement, including to:

(i) act prudently and in furtherance of the Purpose;

(ii) report annually the results of its activities for information purposes to the Province in connection with the Program;

(iii) comply with the Province's request for any independent verification or audit if determined to be necessary or appropriate by the Province;

(iv) return of Assets that have not been distributed if it is [determined][manifestly demonstrated by the Province] that the Trustee has breached its Standard of Care in discharging its material duties under the Declaration, and has not cured such material breach despite having been given a reasonable opportunity by the Province to do so in light of the circumstances of such material breach, with the result that all or a significant part of the Assets have not been or are not being applied in furtherance of the Purpose or are being applied in a manner that is directly contrary or without regard to the Purpose.]

[9] NTD: Ministry to confirm applicable Directive(s).

4.3 Electricity Distributors are not intended to directly profit from distributions of funds made from the Trust, although it is recognized that the objectives of electricity efficiency and conservation of Primary Beneficiaries located in the service area or region of an Electricity Distributor, and the cost savings and improved credit worthiness of such Primary Beneficiaries, may be financially beneficial to the Electricity Distributor.

4.4 Distributions from the Trust are intended to allow receiving Primary Beneficiaries to undertake Eligible Measures at no or minimal personal cost.

4.5 Without in any way limiting the discretion of the Board of Trustees to extend the period during which the benefits of the Program may be available to the Primary Beneficiaries, up to and including the Final Distribution Date, it is expected that the Trust Assets would be distributed to Primary Beneficiaries during the period from the Original Trustee Replacement Date to [March 31, 2019].

SCHEDULE B TO THE PRINCIPLES ANNEX PERMITTED EXPENSE REIMBURSEMENTS

[NTD: Insert the Province's Transfer Payment Accountability Directive/Travel, Meal and Hospitality Expenses Directive. Please forward a Word version if available.]

PERMITTED DELEGATION ANNEX

1. Under section 4.2(g) of the Declaration, the Trustee has the power to: [(a) appoint, employ or retain Administrative Services Agents for the purpose of discharging its duties and obligations under the Declaration; and (b) enter into, perform, enforce and amend Administrative Services Agreements].

2. In accordance with section 4.2(g) of the Declaration, consistent with the principles set forth in the Principles Annex, the Trustee or its agent will seek to enter into one or more Administrative Services Agreements with individual Electricity Distributors under which the Electricity Distributors will act as Administrative Service Agents to the Trustee. In this manner, the Trustee will delegate certain of its powers and duties to the Electricity Distributors.

3. Under section 5.1 of the Declaration, to the extent the Trustee has delegated any of its duties or powers, it shall be deemed to have satisfied the Standard of Care in respect of the subject matter of such delegation, subject to the Trustee's overall duty to exercise prudent oversight thereof. The Trustee is entitled to rely on an Electricity Distributor to discharge the duties delegated to it, as Administrative Services Agent, pursuant to an Administrative Services Agreement as described in this Annex.

4. Accordingly, and without limiting the Trustee's right to delegate under the Declaration and its other rights, powers and discretion as Trustee, the Trustee will be permitted to, and is expected to seek to, enter into Administrative Services Agreements with Electricity Distributors in order to further the Purpose. It is expected that such Administrative Services Agreements will include customary terms and conditions for an administrative services arrangement of this type and, in addition, would be expected (subject to the acceptance and agreement of the applicable Electricity Distributor counterparty) to address the following points in particular:

    a. Identification of Applicable Primary Beneficiary Payees and Determination of Individual Distribution Amounts

        i. Each Electricity Distributor would make an initial assessment of the financial needs of Primary Beneficiaries within its designated service area or region, having regard to the Selection Factors set forth in section 1.3 of the Principles Annex, together with applicable economic data, in order to prepare and provide to the Trustee an estimate of the number of Primary Beneficiaries who the Electricity Distributor reasonably expects would satisfy the Selection Factors.

        ii. Each Electricity Distributor would make an initial assessment of the measures it would recommend be included as Eligible Measures, having regard to the Measures Factors set forth in section 2.1 of the Principles Annex, in order to prepare and provide to the Trustee an estimate of the average cost per Primary Beneficiary Payee (as defined below) of such Eligible Measures that the Electricity Distributor reasonably expects would apply in respect of Primary Beneficiaries resident in its service area or region.

iii. Based on the product of (i) and (ii), above, and such other considerations as it considers to be directly relevant, each Electricity Distributor would make a written recommendation to the Trustee regarding the aggregate funding amount that the Electricity Distributor anticipates would be utilized under the Program by the Primary Beneficiaries resident in its service area or region (the "Local Funding Estimate"). Such recommendation would be accompanied, when submitted to the Trustee, by a detailed explanation regarding the assumptions, financial parameters, suitability considerations and other information underlying the Local Funding Estimate (including the type of information contemplated by the Selections Factors and the Measures Factors, which would be relied upon by the Trustee in its assessment regarding the allocation of available funding to or for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiaries across the specified areas and regions of Ontario.

iv. The Trustee would inform the Electricity Distributor regarding the aggregate of the amount determined by the Trustee to be made available under the Program for Primary Beneficiaries in the Electricity Distributor's designated service area or region (for each Electricity Distributor, its "Maximum Electricity Distributor Allocation") and as to any maximum amount that may be paid to or for the benefit of any single Primary Beneficiary [or group of related Primary Beneficiaries] located in the servicer area or region of the Electricity Distributor (the "Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount"). The Maximum Electricity Distributor Allocation and Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount may vary between areas and regions, among the Primary Beneficiaries within such areas and regions, and may be increased by the Trustee from time to time in its discretion.

v. Each Electricity Distributor would apply the principles set forth under "Identification of Primary Beneficiary Payees" in the Principles Annex to identify and make recommendations to the Trustee regarding the amount of funds (if any) to be distributed to or for the benefit of Primary Beneficiaries resident within its service area or region from time to time (the "Primary Beneficiary Payees").

vi. Each Electricity Distributor would ensure that the aggregate of the amounts it recommends be distributed to or for the benefit of Primary Beneficiary Payees from time to time does not exceed (1) its Maximum Electricity Distributor Allocation and (2) for any single Primary Beneficiary [or group of related Primary Beneficiaries] located in the service area or region of the Electricity Distributor, the lesser of (x) the applicable Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount and (y) the estimated costs (including any applicable taxes, but excluding any amount payable to the Electricity Distributor by or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary) to be incurred by or on behalf of such Primary Beneficiary (whether or not such costs have been paid or remain outstanding) in respect of Eligible Measures applied or to be applied in respect of the Primary Beneficiary's Ontario residence.

vii. The Trustee would provide written confirmation to each Electricity Distributor:

1. Either (x) that the recommendations specified of the Electricity Distributor in clause (v), above, have been accepted, or (y) as to the specific reasons for any non-acceptance; and

2. The amount of the distributions to be paid to or for the benefit of each Primary Beneficiary Payee that is resident in the Electricity Distributor's service area or region.

viii. With respect to each Primary Beneficiary resident in a Electricity Distributor's service area or region that is confirmed as a Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Electricity Distributor would provide the Trustee written confirmation as to:

1. The identity of such Primary Beneficiary Payee; and

2. The amount of the distribution paid to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiary Payee.

ix. If the amount of a distribution to be made to a Primary Beneficiary Payee is based on the estimated costs to be incurred by or on behalf of such Primary Beneficiary and, prior to making the distribution to the Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Electricity Distributor determines that the actual costs (including any applicable taxes but excluding any amount payable to the Electricity Distributor by or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary) incurred or to be incurred by or on behalf of such Primary Beneficiary in respect of Eligible Measures applied or to be applied in respect of the Primary Beneficiary's Ontario residence has or would be less than such estimated costs, then the amount to be distributed to the Primary Beneficiary shall be based on such actual costs.

b. Making of Distributions to Primary Beneficiaries

i. Promptly after the Trustee confirms the identity of a Primary Beneficiary Payee resident in an Electricity Distributor's service area or region and the amount of the distribution to be paid to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Trustee would arrange for payment to or on the direction of the Electricity Distributor of an amount equal to the amount of such distribution.

ii. Promptly upon receipt of funds in respect of a distribution to be made to a Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Electricity Distributor would arrange for payment of the full amount of such distribution to or for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payee (including by direct payment to a third party of, or as a reimbursement or rebate of, the costs of applicable Eligible Measures installed at the residence of and for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payee), without reduction or set-off by the Electricity Distributor.

iii. If the amount paid to an Electricity Distributor in respect of a distribution to be made to a Primary Beneficiary exceeds the actual amount of the distribution made to or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary, the Electricity

Distributor shall promptly return such excess to the Trustee, whereupon the proceeds of such returned amount shall continue to form part of the Assets.

c. Promotion of the Program

i. [NTD: Insert any specific items regarding the use of IP by Electricity Distributors]

d. Establishment of Operational, Administrative, Record-Keeping and Other Systems and Policies to facilitate the Program

i. The Electricity Distributor would establish such operational, administrative, record-keeping and other systems and policies as are necessary to facilitate the Program and perform its duties under the Administrative Services Agreement, including systems or policies to: identify Primary Beneficiary Payees; comply with applicable privacy and regulatory laws; communicate with Primary Beneficiaries on behalf of the Trust; assess Eligible Measures; determine the Local Funding Estimate; monitor its recommendations to the Trustee against its Maximum Electricity Distributor Allocation and the Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount; receive funds from the Trust in respect of distributions to the Primary Beneficiary Payees and transfer such funds to the appropriate recipients for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payees; preparation and timely delivery to Primary Beneficiary Payees of such documents as are required by the Income Tax Act (Canada); and create and maintain records in respect of the foregoing.

ii. The Electricity Distributor would set up a separate bank account for the purpose of receiving funds from the Trust in respect of distributions to the Primary Beneficiary Payees and the transfer of such funds to the appropriate recipients for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payees.

e. Reporting, Record-Keeping, Inspection and Disclosure and Compliance Matters

i. The Electricity Distributor would provide record-keeping, clerical and bookkeeping services relating to all matters relating to its recommendations and the performance of its other duties and obligations under its Administrative Services Agreement.

ii. The Electricity Distributor would keep and maintain all financial records and non-financial documents and records relating to the provision of services under its Administrative Services Agreement. [NTD: Consider specifying any particular records regarding individual Primary Beneficiary Payees needed to ensure the proper function of the Trust or the Program]

iii. The Electricity Distributor would provide to the Trustee quarterly and annual reports ("Reports") for the duration of its Administrative Services Agreement. Such Reports would set out, among other things, the amounts of the distributions paid to or for the benefit of applicable Primary Beneficiary Payees, the average distribution amount per such Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Eligible Measures for which distributions have been made, and the uptake of energy efficiency measures.

iv. The Electricity Distributor would agree to provide to the Trustee such information as is necessary for the Trustee to (v) comply with applicable law; (w) prepare financial statements for the Trust; (x) prepare and submit such documents as are required under the Income Tax Act (Canada); (y) comply with the Trust's applicable obligations under the Transfer Payment Agreement; and (z) such other matters as the Trustee reasonably requests.

v. (iii) be able to ~~efficiently integrate and reflect any~~facilitate an efficient payment of distribution ~~payments~~ determined to be made to or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary ~~within its~~, having regard to the Electricity Distributor's established practices, procedures and systems for dealing with its customers; and

(iv) have established contractual arrangements with the Primary Beneficiary that may apply to the protection and confidentiality of information provided by or respecting the Primary Beneficiary, which information may be useful in the consideration by the Electricity Distributor in its assessment of whether the

Primary Beneficiary satisfies the Selection ~~Criteria~~Factors, which information may not otherwise be available or readily accessible ~~by the Trustee.~~or verifiable by the Trustee. [Blakes: These statements are included to substantiate the very significant delegation of decision making (dispositive powers) to and influence of the Electricity Distributors.]

1.5 ~~The designated~~It is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, the Electricity Distributor for an area or region in which a Primary Beneficiary resides will have market and utilization information that may be useful in assessing the relative needs of Primary Beneficiaries within its ~~designated~~ area or region. Such information ~~will~~is expected to be relevant in assessing the extent to which one such Primary Beneficiary's financial needs and the merits of its Energy Plan are greater or more compelling than those of another such Primary Beneficiary, which comparison may be relevant to the extent that the funds allocable to the Primary Beneficiaries resident in the area or region are otherwise insufficient to meet the requests for funding by all such Primary Beneficiaries.

1.6 Accordingly, it is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, it is consistent with the ~~Purposes of the Trust~~Purpose that the recommendations of Electricity Distributors be utilized and relied upon by the Trustee to guide the process of identifying particular Primary Beneficiaries ~~for~~in making distributions ~~under~~to the ~~[Project]~~Primary Beneficiaries.

1.7 If an Electricity Distributor for a particular area or region is unable or unwilling to assess or confirm the application of the Selection ~~Criteria~~Factors to Primary Beneficiaries residing in the area or region or to make recommendations in relation to such matters, one or more of the following may provide a suitable alternative source of information and for information gathering, assessment and confirmation purposes in relation to such area or region:

(i) other Electricity Distributors operating in adjacent or other areas or regions in ~~the Province~~Ontario;

(ii) [the Ontario Energy Board];

(iii) the Independent Electricity System Operator; and

(iv) anyone else having relevant expertise and access to information regarding the electricity market of the Province, in each case as may be considered relevant by the Trustee.

1.8 To the extent that privacy law or other legal requirements limit an Electricity Distributor from providing or making available specific information respecting the application of the Selection ~~Criteria~~Factors to a particular Primary Beneficiary or group of Primary Beneficiaries, it is recognized that, in furthering the Purpose, it may be appropriate to redact or make generic affected information regarding such Primary Beneficiary in connection with the identification and confirmation of a Primary Beneficiary's eligibility and participation in the ~~[Project]~~Program. If such limitations or restrictions would limit an Electricity ~~Distributors~~Distributor from providing or confirming the name of a particular Primary Beneficiary~~,~~ to the Trustee, then it should be sufficient that such information may be obtained or disseminated on a confidential basis ~~and~~if and when required by the Trustee for the proper administration of the Trust and on that basis such impediments should not disqualify a Primary Beneficiary from participating in the benefits of the ~~[Project] to the extent~~Program, provided that that the confidential record-keeping of the Electricity Distributor would be available in connection with the application of any applicable legal process predicated on the identification of such Primary Beneficiary for the purposes of substantiating its rights as a Primary Beneficiary of the Trust or as to the validity or subsistence of the Trust.

2. Eligible Measures

2.1 Eligible Measures shall be identified having regard to the following (the "Measures ~~Criteria~~Factors"):

(i) ~~[~~electricity cost savings [NTD: Insert generic list of considerations relevant to the identification of the applicable spending uses].

(ii) primary home heating sources

[Blakes: MOE may wish to consider:

(iii) is the measure generally expected to result in improved energy conservation by a Primary Beneficiary if properly installed and used;

(iv) is the measure recognized under another Provincial program as being appropriate for achieving electricity conservation among a population analogous to the Primary Beneficiaries;

(v) has an independent source recognized the measure as being (x) energy efficient in design, (y) more energy efficient than similar products available in the market intended for similar usage, or (z) effective in promoting energy conservation;

(vi) does the measure present any unacceptable health or safety considerations, either with respect to the Primary Beneficiary, a party providing or installing the measure, or the physical environment;

(vii) is the measure broadly available to residents across different areas and regions of the Province;

(viii) is it reasonable to expect that the measure would, over its anticipated useful life, generate greater costs savings in respect of electricity efficiency or conservation than the cost of the measure itself; or

(ix) is the measure a requirement or precursor to another measure, the other measure being one which meets any of the other Measures Factors.]

2.2 In identifying and applying the Measures ~~Criteria~~Factors, Electricity Distributors ~~will~~would be expected to have expertise in assessing the suitability of efficiency and conservation measures in their respective areas and regions, which may differ across areas and regions across the Province based on factors (among other things) such as the climate, geography, density, electricity infrastructure, residential structures, and electricity use rates applicable within such areas or regions.

2.3 Unless otherwise specified by the Board of Trustees, the ~~following~~ measures ~~will be considered Eligible Measures: See Schedule A~~ specified in Schedule A to this Principles Annex may initially be considered to be consistent with the Measures Factors (subject to change as contemplated under the Permitted Delegations Annex).

3. ~~Other~~Promotion of the Program

3.1 It is expected that the Trustee will undertake or engage others to undertake efforts to promote the availability, terms and benefits of the Program to Primary Beneficiaries.

3.3 [NTD: Indicate that the Trustee would be free to enter into License Agreements with the Province, provided that the terms of such License Agreements are consistent with the Purpose and the Program, and that such License Agreements may permit the sub-license of IP to Electricity Distributors and permit the engagement of the Province to provide services related to the use of related IP rights.

3.4 [NTD: Insert any expectations regarding the observance of License Agreements]

4. Conduct of the Trust and the Program

4.1 ~~3.1~~ It is expected that administrative expenses of the ~~Trustee~~Board of Trustees and its members, including any expenses relating to the Trust, to the establishment of the [Trust][Affordability Fund] and any expenses related to ~~delivery of the program by~~the implementation and operation of the Program, including by or through Electricity Distributors~~, will be in accordance~~ and other relevant entities, will be recognized and subject to reimbursement on a basis that is substantially consistent with the principles outlined in the [Province's Transfer Payment Accountability Directive/Travel, Meal and Hospitality Expenses Directive][~~5~~9], ~~in~~ the current form of which attached as Schedule B to this Principles Annex ~~as Exhibit 1.~~ .

4.2 ~~3.2~~ The Trustee is expected to conduct its activities ~~to ensure that~~in a manner that complies in all material respects with the Transfer Payment Agreement, including to:

(i) ~~public funds are spent~~act prudently and in furtherance of the Purpose;

(ii) ~~the Trustee is accountable~~report annually the results of its activities for information purposes to the Province ~~for program activities~~in connection with the Program;

[~~5~~9] NTD: Ministry to confirm applicable Directive(s).

(iii) ~~it complies~~comply with the Province's request for any independent verification~~/audit~~ or audit if determined to be necessary or appropriate by the Province;

(iv) ~~the Province can recover the funds if they are not being used for the purposes intended.~~return of Assets that have not been distributed if it is [determined][manifestly demonstrated by the Province] that the Trustee has breached its Standard of Care in discharging its material duties under the Declaration, and has not cured such material breach despite having been given a reasonable opportunity by the Province to do so in light of the circumstances of such material breach, with the result that all or a significant part of the Assets have not been or are not being applied in furtherance of the Purpose or are being applied in a manner that is directly contrary or without regard to the Purpose.]

4.3 ~~3.3 It is expected that~~ Electricity Distributors ~~will~~are not intended to directly profit from distributions ~~made from the Trust~~of funds made from the Trust, although it is recognized that the objectives of electricity efficiency and conservation of Primary Beneficiaries located in the service area or region of an Electricity Distributor, and the cost savings and improved credit worthiness of such Primary Beneficiaries, may be financially beneficial to the Electricity Distributor.

4.4 ~~3.4 It is expected that distributions~~Distributions from the Trust ~~will~~are intended to allow receiving Primary Beneficiaries to undertake Eligible Measures at no or minimal personal cost.

4.5 ~~3.5 It~~Without in any way limiting the discretion of the Board of Trustees to extend the period during which the benefits of the Program may be available to the Primary Beneficiaries, up to and including the Final Distribution Date, it is expected that the Trust Assets ~~will~~would be distributed ~~between April 1, 2017 and March 31, 2019.~~to Primary Beneficiaries during the period from the Original Trustee Replacement Date to [March 31, 2019].

PERMITTED DELEGATION ANNEX

1. Under ~~Section~~section 4.2(~~d~~g) of the Declaration, the Trustee has the power to: [(~~A~~a) appoint, employ or retain Administrative Services Agents for the purpose of discharging its duties and obligations under the Declaration; and (~~B~~b) enter into, perform, enforce and amend Administrative Services Agreements].

2. In accordance with ~~Section~~section 4.2(g) of the Declaration, consistent with the principles set forth in the Principles Annex, the Trustee or its agent will seek to enter into one or more Administrative Services Agreements with individual Electricity Distributors under which the Electricity Distributors will act as Administrative Service Agents to the Trustee. In this manner, the Trustee will delegate certain of its powers and duties to the Electricity Distributors.

3. Under ~~Section~~section 5.1 of the Declaration, to the extent the Trustee has delegated any of its duties or powers, it shall be deemed to have satisfied the Standard of Care in respect of the subject matter of such delegation, subject to the Trustee's overall duty to exercise prudent oversight thereof. The Trustee is entitled to rely on an Electricity Distributor to discharge the duties delegated to it, as Administrative Services Agent, pursuant to an Administrative Services Agreement as described in this Annex.

4. ~~Without limitation, the Administrative Services Agreements may provide for the following:~~Accordingly, and without limiting the Trustee's right to delegate under the Declaration and its other rights, powers and discretion as Trustee, the Trustee will be permitted to, and is expected to seek to, enter into Administrative Services Agreements with Electricity Distributors in order to further the Purpose. It is expected that such Administrative Services Agreements will include customary terms and conditions for an administrative services arrangement of this type and, in addition, would be expected (subject to the acceptance and agreement of the applicable Electricity Distributor counterparty) to address the following points in particular:

    a. Identification of Applicable Primary Beneficiary Payees and Determination of Individual Distribution Amounts

        i. Each Electricity Distributor ~~will~~would make an initial assessment of the financial needs of Primary Beneficiaries within its designated service area or region, having regard to ~~[~~the Selection Factors set forth in section 1.3 of the Principles Annex, together with applicable economic data~~]~~, in order to prepare and provide to the Trustee an estimate of the number of Primary Beneficiaries who the Electricity Distributor reasonably expects would satisfy the ~~selection factors set forth under clause 1.1 ["Identification of Beneficiary Payees"] in the Principles Annex~~Selection Factors.

        ii. Each Electricity Distributor ~~will~~would make an initial assessment of the measures it would recommend be included as Eligible Measures, having regard to ~~[considerations]~~the Measures Factors set forth in section 2.1 of the Principles Annex, in order to prepare and provide to the Trustee an estimate of the average cost per Primary Beneficiary Payee (as defined below) of such Eligible Measures that the Electricity Distributor reasonably expects would apply in respect of Primary Beneficiaries resident in its service area or region.

iii. Based on the product of (i) and (ii), above, and such other considerations as it considers to be directly relevant, each Electricity Distributor ~~will~~would make a written recommendation to the Trustee regarding the aggregate funding amount that the Electricity Distributor anticipates ~~may~~would be utilized under the ~~[Project]~~Program by the Primary Beneficiaries resident in its service area or region (the "Local Funding Estimate"). Such recommendation ~~will~~would be accompanied, when submitted to the Trustee, by a detailed explanation regarding the assumptions, financial parameters, suitability considerations and other information underlying the Local Funding Estimate (including the type of information contemplated by ~~"[Insert]" under the Principles Annex, which will~~the Selections Factors and the Measures Factors, which would be relied upon by the Trustee in its assessment regarding the allocation of available funding to or for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiaries across the specified areas and regions of ~~the Province of~~ Ontario ~~(the "Province")~~.

iv. The Trustee ~~will~~would inform the Electricity Distributor regarding the aggregate of the amount determined by the Trustee to be made available under the ~~[Project]~~Program for Primary Beneficiaries in the Electricity Distributor's designated service area or region (for each ~~LDC~~Electricity Distributor, its "Maximum ~~LDC~~Electricity Distributor Allocation") and as to any maximum amount that may be paid to or for the benefit of any single Primary Beneficiary [or group of related Primary Beneficiaries] located in the servicer area or region of the Electricity Distributor (the "Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount"). The Maximum ~~LDC Amount~~Electricity Distributor Allocation and Maximum Primary Beneficiary Amount may vary between areas and regions, among the Primary Beneficiaries within such areas and regions, and may be increased by the Trustee~~,~~ from time to time in its discretion.

v. Each Electricity Distributor ~~will~~would apply the principles set forth under ~~[~~"Identification of Primary Beneficiary Payees" in the Principles Annex~~]~~ to identify and make recommendations to the Trustee regarding the amount of funds (if any) to be distributed to or for the benefit of Primary Beneficiaries resident within its ~~designated~~ service area or region from time to time (the "Primary Beneficiary Payees").

vi. Each Electricity Distributor ~~will~~would ensure that the aggregate of the amounts it recommends be distributed to or for the benefit of Primary Beneficiary Payees from time to time does not exceed (1) its Maximum ~~LDC~~Electricity Distributor Allocation and (2) for any single Primary Beneficiary [or group of related Primary Beneficiaries] located in the ~~servicer~~service area or region of the Electricity Distributor, the lesser of (x) the applicable Maximum ~~Beneficiary Amount~~Primary Beneficiary Amount and (y) the estimated costs (including any applicable taxes, but excluding any amount payable to the Electricity Distributor by or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary) to be incurred by or on behalf of such Primary Beneficiary (whether or not such costs have been paid or remain outstanding) in respect of Eligible Measures applied or to be applied in respect of the Primary Beneficiary's Ontario residence.

vii. The Trustee ~~will~~would provide written confirmation to each Electricity Distributor:

1. Either (x) that the recommendations specified of the Electricity Distributor in clause (v), above, have been accepted, or (y) as to the specific reasons for any non-acceptance; and

2. The amount of the distributions to be paid to or for the benefit of each Primary Beneficiary Payee that is resident in the Electricity Distributor's service area or region.

viii. With respect to each Primary Beneficiary resident in a Electricity Distributor's service area or region that is confirmed as a Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Electricity Distributor would provide the Trustee written confirmation as to:

1. ~~2.~~ The identity of ~~each~~such Primary Beneficiary Payee ~~resident in the Electricity Distributor's service area or region and its residential address;~~; and

2. The amount of the distribution paid to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiary Payee.

ix. ~~3. The amount of the distribution to be paid to or for the benefit of each such Beneficiary Payee.~~If the amount of a distribution to be made to a Primary Beneficiary Payee is based on the estimated costs to be incurred by or on behalf of such Primary Beneficiary and, prior to making the distribution to the Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Electricity Distributor determines that the actual costs (including any applicable taxes but excluding any amount payable to the Electricity Distributor by or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary) incurred or to be incurred by or on behalf of such Primary Beneficiary in respect of Eligible Measures applied or to be applied in respect of the Primary Beneficiary's Ontario residence has or would be less than such estimated costs, then the amount to be distributed to the Primary Beneficiary shall be based on such actual costs.

b. Making of Distributions to Primary Beneficiaries

i. Promptly after the Trustee confirms the identity of a Primary Beneficiary Payee resident in ~~a~~an Electricity Distributor's service area or region and the amount of the distribution to be paid to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Trustee ~~will~~would arrange for payment to or on the direction of the Electricity Distributor of an amount equal to the amount of such distribution.

ii. Promptly upon receipt of funds in respect of a distribution to ~~a~~be made to a Primary Beneficiary Payee, the Electricity Distributor ~~will~~would arrange for payment of the full amount of such distribution to or for the benefit of the ~~Beneficiary Payee~~Primary Beneficiary Payee (including by direct payment to a third party of, or as a reimbursement or rebate of, the costs of applicable Eligible Measures installed at the residence of and for the benefit of the Primary Beneficiary Payee), without reduction or set-off by the Electricity Distributor.

iii. If the amount paid to an Electricity Distributor in respect of a distribution to be made to a Primary Beneficiary exceeds the actual amount of the distribution made to or on behalf of the Primary Beneficiary, the Electricity Distributor shall promptly return such excess to the Trustee, whereupon the proceeds of such returned amount shall continue to form part of the Assets.

OPG- Preliminary IFRS Analysis and Impact on the Province's Consolidated Financial Statements

Confidential – For Internal Discussion Purposes

Overall comments:

- We need to discuss the application of IAS 19.122 to ensure we are aligned in our understanding as well as the positioning of the AcSB's comment
- Are you summarizing Hydro One's IFRS result for the AG?

Background

- OPG is regulated by the OEB based on US GAAP, and reports its financial results using US GAAP as required by Regulation 395/11 under the F.A.A. OPG has been directed by the Province to report under Canadian GAAP (CGAAP) for consolidation purposes.
- To date, the Province has been consolidating OPG on a CGAAP basis in accordance with AcSB's extension for the deferral of the mandatory IFRS changeover date for entities with qualifying rate-regulated activities which expired on January 1, 2015. Since AcSB has not extended the deferral period, the AG may argue that the results of the entity must be consolidated in accordance with IFRS as of January 1, 2015.
- For GBEs with a different reporting year-end, the Province's accounting policy is to reflect the change in the Province's subsequent reporting period (without restatement to prior periods). Therefore, for the 2014-15 Public Accounts, the Province would consolidate OPG's results using CGAAP for the full 12-month period.
- The AG has asked for comparative IFRS vs.CGAAP analysis be provided for Q1 2015 to assess the impact on the Province's Public Accounts. Note that she has requested that it be done to the entity's level of materiality.
- This analysis reflects OPG's preliminary analysis reflecting 9 months CGAAP results and 3 months IFRS results (including transitional b/s adjustments as at January 1, 2015). Further details on P&L impacts for the three months ended March 31, 2015 are forthcoming. ~~Note that the figures presented are preliminary and have not been audited~~.

IFRS 14 – Regulatory Deferral Accounts

- In 2014, the IASB issued IFRS 14 Regulatory Deferral Accounts effective January 1, 2016 (early adoption permitted), which is an interim standard in effect while the IASB undertakes its comprehensive project on rate regulated activities. IFRS 14 grandfathers regulatory accounting for first time adopters.

- For purposes of this analysis, it is assumed that OPG will elect to apply IFRS 14 upon transition.

- Note that IFRS 14 is expected to be removed or replaced with different guidance after completion of the IASB's comprehensive project. There is no assurance that the IASB will conclude on standards for Regulatory Accounting that will mirror OPG's current policies / practices. In that case, OPG may have to stop recording some or all regulatory balances it would have recognized under IFRS 14 (i.e. accounts which do not meet the IFRS definition of an asset or liability under the conceptual framework or another IFRS standard). This would result in material adjustments to the consolidated results.

Preliminary IFRS Analysis

- OPG identified the following significant items that would impact opening equity (transitional b/s impact) on transition to IFRS as well as net income on a go-forward basis:
  - Nuclear Asset Retirement Obligations (ARO)
  - Pension and Other Post Retirement Benefits (OPEB)
- In addition, if the Province adopts IFRS based reporting for OPG (and H1), future IFRS changes with potential impact would also include:
  - IFRS 14 may be eliminated if the IASB decides against RRA in the future
  - Financial Instruments – IFRS 9 *
  - Lease Accounting *
  - Revenue Accounting *

  * Changes may also occur under US GAAP (which is OPG's basis for rate recovery), but may not be converged with IFRS. The impact of any un-converged differences would need to be assessed for regulatory offset treatment under IFRS 14 or other IASB RRA guidance, if any, in effect at that time. There is a risk that results reported under OPG's US-GAAP based financial reports would require further reconciliation and could be complex.
- In addition, any accounting implications of the OEB's recently announced sector-wide consultation on rate recovery mechanisms for pension/OPEB costs would need to be considered.

Pension & OPEB Transition Balance Sheet Adjustments

Transitional Impact before Tax – R/E	-	1,050	Due to CGAAP/IFRS differences that result in reclassification of amounts within equity (R/E vs AOCI)
Transitional Impact before Tax – AOCI	500	(550)

Potential Application of IAS 19, para. 122 (Re-class)

- Under current IAS 19, amounts recognized in AOCI for pension/OPEB (such as differences between discount rate and expected return on assets) are not recycled through the income statement and remain in AOCI permanently. The AcSB has previously advised the IASB of its concerns with the inconsistency between the IASB treatment for the return on assets, which creates a mismatch on the P&L. IAS 19 includes an accounting policy election to reclassify amounts from OCI to Retained Earnings.
- Since OPG's regulated revenue is determined based on US GAAP, which includes the impact of recycling, it may be considered whether this option could be used in addressing the mismatch between income and expense. [note: this affect H1 as well]
- At the Province's direction, OPG could apply this option in providing its IFRS results for the Province's consolidation and reflect a transfer of the OCI amount to better match OPG's recovery basis.
- For purposes of this analysis, it is argued that recycling ~~of the regulated portion~~ is appropriate (annual impact on the CFS annual? surplus/deficit immaterial).

With application of IAS 19.122 to re-class amount that has been recorded through P&L and recovered in rates	(1,050)	1,050
After Para 122 re-class	-	500

- Notes for Province's consideration: Do we need to discuss how AOCI would be included?

Preliminary IFRS Analysis – Nuclear ARO

- OPG has identified two significant adjustments in Nuclear ARO which will impact equity:
  a. Change in discount rate
  b. Treatment of certain lifecycle costs

a) Discount Rate

- Under IFRS, a single current discount rate is used in measuring ARO. Under CGAAP, historical rates are retained for existing obligations when additions to ARO are recorded.
- Given that the rate recovery mechanism for OPG's ARO for the Bruce assets includes the recovery of accretion expense, any impact from a change in discount rate would be offset with a regulatory balance under IFRS 14.
- For the prescribed facilities (Pickering and Darlington), accretion expense is not a component of the ARO rate recovery mechanism; therefore, the impact of a discount rate change would not be offset by a regulatory balance.
- On transition, the ARO will be updated to the current discount rate with the net impact for the prescribed facilities charged to retained earnings on transition. After the transition, OPG expects that under its IFRS methodology, the discount rate will likely not change after the transition date, other than in years of an ONFA update. The next ONFA update is expected at the end of 2016 and, therefore the next change would likely significantly impact the Province's 2016/2017 CFS.

Nuclear ARO Change in Discount Rate to 5% - Transition Balance Sheet Adjustments

$ Millions (Note – current average US GAAP discount rate is 5.4%) Pre-tax	OPG's Prescribed facilities (Pickering & Darlington) 5% Discount Rate	OPG's facilities on lease to Bruce Power 5% Discount Rate	Combined
Balance-sheet Dr/(Cr)
Nuclear Asset Retirement Obligation ~~(IFRS)~~ – Adjustment to changes to discount rate	(800)	400	(400)
Asset Retirement Cost (PP&E) – Calculated using a short-cut method allowed for IFRS transition purposes due to a different discount rate	100	(100)	-
Offset by Reg. Asset/(Liability) under IFRS 14	-	(300)	(300)
Retained Earnings - Net ARO Transitional Impact to opening balance sheet – pre-tax	700	-	700

Prescribed facilities: OPG does not recover accretion expense or credit ratepayers with segregated fund earnings related to Pickering or Darlington under the methodology established by the OEB. Since those two components are not part of the items that are eligible for recovery, a change in the discount rate that impacts accretion expense ~~those two components~~ is not eligible for IFRS 14 offset.

Bruce facilities: The Bruce rate recovery method prescribed by the OEB produces no profit (return) for OPG but does cover OPG for all accounting costs, including accretion and other ~~the~~ costs of the nuclear ARO. Therefore, a regulatory balance is recognized for differences in discount rates, resulting in no net equity impact.

Nuclear ARO - Treatment of certain lifecycle costs ~~on transition~~

b) Treatment of certain lifecycle costs

- Certain costs included in the nuclear ARO and ARC (fixed assets) under Canadian GAAP and US GAAP are reflected under IFRS in different time periods.
- This results in the removal of a portion of the lifecycle costs included in the Canadian GAAP ARO and ARC upon transition to IFRS. The changes in accounting result in certain differences in the timing of OEB cost recovery and their recognition under IFRS. Accordingly, a regulatory balance is recognized.
- However, certain of the differences related to the Prescribed Facilities would ~~are~~ not be offset through the OEB recovery mechanism, because the recovery mechanism does not include an accretion component for the time value of money. As such, a regulatory balance is not recorded for these time value of money differences resulting in a net increase in retained earnings on transition. The higher retained earnings will be offset by higher future period expenses, resulting in a reduction to income in future years.
- [note: moved the table to the next slide]

Nuclear ARO - Treatment of certain lifecycle costs ~~on transition~~

[note: inserted a new slide]

b) Treatment of certain lifecycle costs

Account (pre-tax)	Impact DR / (CR)
Asset Retirement Cost (PP&E) – adjust asset retirement costs that are to be recognized through P&L under IFRS.	(1,500)
Asset Retirement Obligation (ARO) – remove certain lifecycle costs that are not recognized under IFRS.	1,300
Net Regulatory Balance – record regulatory balance based on the existing regulatory mechanism	600
Retained Earnings (Net Debt decrease) – impact of not recording certain regulatory balance related to the prescribed facilities due to the recovery mechanism as described in the previous slide	(400)

Risks to Annual Surplus/Deficit

1. Volatility due to mismatch between income statement and OCI for pension and OPEB expenses and associated regulated rate revenue, if IAS 19 para. 122 is not included in annual surplus/deficit results. OPCD recommends to reclassify AOCI balances (using IAS 19.122) consistent with US GAAP and record the reclassification through P&L each year to eliminate the risk of mismatch and potentially misleading results (annual impact on CFS surplus/deficit immaterial).

2. Surplus / deficits could be affected by changes in ARO and changes in related period costs, which are not offset by a regulatory balance as described further on slides 13 and 14 (check). The high volatility is likely given the IFRS requirement to fair value and flow changes through P&L.

3. Future IFRS Changes:
   - Permanency of IFRS rate regulated accounting is uncertain (IFRS 14 is an interim standard, final outcome of RRA project is not known)
   - Other uncertainty of IFRS changes to lease accounting, financial instruments and revenue standards, which could diverge from US GAAP and therefore require evaluation for regulatory offset treatment under IFRS 14 (or other IASB RRA guidance then in effect, if any).

4. Any accounting implications resulting from the outcome of the OEB's

Additional considerations

- Cost of OPG maintaining 2 sets of books (running detailed models, monitoring for future differences, and internal staff time).
- Costs of experts (including external actuary and Nuclear Waste Management Organization) to prepare estimates for OPG under two frameworks.
- Cost of consulting with external auditors and accounting advisors.
- OEB is expected to continue to regulate OPG based on US GAAP; there is no user need for IFRS based financial information ~~statements~~.
- OEFC calculation of Electricity Sector Dedicated Income will be impacted.

Fiscal Risk- IFRS current discount rate for Nuclear ARO

- Rate of 5% used at transition is calculated based on a 20 year rolling average of a 30 year Provincial bond (using 15 years of historical rates and 5 of forecasted rates). Under this methodology, the discount rate is expected to drop significantly over time to reflect a higher weighting on the current discount rate level. Rates would be updated at ONFA update time (likely in 2016/2017 fiscal year). The full impact related to the prescribed facilities would be reportable in year of change. This change in discount rate is likely to result in an increase in ARO in the magnitude of up to a few billion dollars. (note: will not be available in time for the meeting).

- The IFRS discount rate compares to a weighted average historical rate for US GAAP of 5.4%, which does not change for the existing ARO tranches when an additional tranche is recognized. IFRS requires the ARO to be valued using a single discount rate for the entire balance of the obligation rather than the tranche approach under US GAAP.

Fiscal Risk- Future Change in Valuation of ARO

- Future changes, such as changes in station useful lives or changes in certain lifecycle cost estimates, may have a more significant impact under IFRS due to the ARO valuation methodology and the interaction with OEB recovery mechanisms.

- Change in discount rate would also impact Province's fiscal plans in future years (as a result of accretion not being recoverable through rates for prescribed facilities and therefore no IFRS14 protection).

- For amounts already collected through US GAAP-based rates for expenses that will be recognized in the future under IFRS, reductions in future IFRS income are expected when these expenses are recognized, due to reflecting the time value of money discount.

Impact Analysis on CFS if IFRS reporting for OPG adopted effective January 1, 2015 ~~on CFS~~

ARO- lifecycle cost [5] - [footnote missing]	(400)	(400)	TBD

Notes:

(1) IFRS transitional impact (before tax) is reflected as at Jan 1, 2015.

(2) Under IFRS there is no recycling of amounts from OCI to net income (USGAAP recycles the OCI to net income). IAS 19 paragraph 122 as a minimum permits the reclassification of amounts from AOCI to retained earnings which would preserve the balance sheet. For purposes of this analysis, a policy choice would be made to recycle amounts from OCI through net income on a basis consistent with US GAAP. Annual impact on CFS not material.

(3) OPG does not recover accretion expense or credit seg fund earnings related to nuclear waste decommissioning obligations for Pickering or Darlington. As under the OEB directed methodology, these components are not part of the costs eligible for rate recovery by the OEB, a change in the discount rate that impacts accretion expense is, by definition, not recoverable and therefore not eligible for IFRS 14 offset. The net increase in the liabiltiy would therefore directly impact the Province's balance sheet under IFRS. In the future, any changes to the discount rate would immediately impact the Province's books in the year in which the update occurs.

(4) P&L impact for Q1 TBD (estimated to be received in June, 2015)

Alex – I do not see an issue on this as we are only providing administrative support. I have copied Michel Picard from KPMG to get his thoughts as well.

Ms. Kelly Danyluk

Ms. Clair Grindley

PWC:

Martin Boucher

Michael Walke

You may wish to confirm spelling with Nadine.

I will reply to Michael and let him know you may be in touch if further assistance is required. Please copy Ray and I when you reach out to Supply Chain Ontario at OSS, if they are being slow we can expedite this (by harassing Brain Khoo J).

As a reminder, Cindy is screened from all these matters so will be important to ensure she remains out of the loop.

Thanks very much.

Hi Patrick,

Supply Chain maintains a vendor of record to facilitate security screening. The vendor's name is Triton Canada Inc and the VOR is set-up as a user-pay model. This means, the successful vendor supplying the consultants will need to engage Triton to have their people screened. There is a small cost for this however; this cost is paid by the vendor – not TBS.

I have attached the VOR user guide for easy reference. There is only 1 vendor on the VOR so there is no second stage selection process. You simply select the type of screening required and direct the supplier to Triton using OPS pricing through this VOR. Once the screening has been completed, Triton will provide each consultant with a clearance number that lasts for 5 years. This is the number you will need to retain to prove that the consultants were screened before beginning work at TBS.

Incidentally, before you direct the consultants to Triton, it might be worth asking them for their 10-didgit clearance number up front (assuming they have one). Many of the consultants have already been screened for prior work so if their clearance number is still valid, there is no need to rescreen them. On the other hand, if they haven't worked for the OPS before, or if they haven't been screened in the past 5 years, they will need to pay Triton to be screened.

Program and Policy Enablement Branch, Supply Chain Ontario (SCO), MGCS is responsible for administering Ontario's Contractor Security Screening Program. They use a general contact email address however; once you are assigned a screening analyst, they can search their database to see if any of the consultants you are bringing in are already screened. Their contact info is in the user guide.

Best Regards,

Michael Chamberlin

2.2.5 Contractor Security Screening

Any director or officer of the Vendor, and any employee, agent or subcontractor (including the subcontractor's directors, officers, shareholders, employees, agents or contractors) engaged in the performance of the Services under the SOW resulting from this RFS process, may be required to undergo a Security Screening Check.

Upon notification, a Vendor is expected to provide the necessary information for each individual requiring Security Clearance, as may be requested. The OPS Contractor Security Screening Operating Policy (CSSOP) has been revised effective November 30, 2013. Contractors will obtain and pay for their criminal record checks through an OPS Vendor of Record arrangement, local police, or a RCMP accredited agency.

Security Screening Checks, when required, must be completed before the Vendor and the Client enter into the SOW.

Failure of the Vendor to provide all of the necessary information or failure of the Vendor (or any individual required to undergo a Contractor Security Screening Check) to be issued a Security Clearance number or failure of any individual required to undergo a Security Screening Check to be issued a Security Clearance number may result in the selection of another Vendor and may adversely impact the Vendor's eligibility to participate in future RFS processes.

1. Introduction

1.1. Purpose of this Guide

This User Guide was developed by the Program and Policy Enablement Branch (PPEB), Supply Chain Ontario (SCO), Ministry of Government and Consumer Services (MGCS) to provide instructions to Ontario Public Service (OPS) ministries, commission public bodies (CPB) that appoint employees under the Public Service of Ontario Act, 2006, and Infrastructure Ontario (IO) [but only with respect to those activities formerly carried out by the Ontario Realty Corporation] on how to acquire services under the non-mandatory Vendor of Record (VOR) arrangement OSS_00389272 for Security Screening Services. Clients are encouraged to read this User Guide before utilizing the Vendor for security screening services.

This VOR arrangement enables OPS ministries, CPBs and IO to have access to a qualified security screening service provider.

Further information regarding the new Vendor of Record arrangement may be obtained at the Contractor Security Screening intranet site.

1.2 Eligibility to Use This VOR Arrangement

This VOR arrangement is eligible to be used by all OPS ministries, CPBs and IO.

This is a non-mandatory enterprise-wide VOR arrangement. While PPEB, SCO, MGCS encourages the use of the Vendor of Record to administer security screening checks, other service provider options remain available. Ministries, CPBs or IO may permit contractors or employees and may also include appointees to obtain a general check from a local police service or a RCMP accredited third party agency.

1.3 Benefits of Using This VOR Arrangement

- Convenience of "one stop shopping"; the Vendor offers a variety of screening services (i.e. criminal record checks, driver's record checks, and out of country checks);
- Guaranteed pricing and service times;
- Secure electronic process is efficient, paperless, and available 24/7;
- Paper based process remains an option, for those who require it; and
- Safeguards on the protection of personal and confidential information.

2. VOR General Information

2.1. Term of the VOR Arrangement

The Security Screening Services VOR Arrangement is a non-mandatory enterprise-wide contract. The duration of the Contract is three years, from November 1, 2013 and expires on October 30, 2016. There are two, one-year extension options identified in the Agreement with the final expiry date of this VOR Arrangement, once all extension options have been exercised, of October 30, 2018.

2.2. Categories of Services

The following categories of services are included in this VOR Arrangement (see Appendix A for detailed descriptions of these services):

2.2.1 Service Category One: General Level Checks

Criminal record (CPIC) checks, out-of-country police certificates and driver's record checks.

2.2.2 Service Category Two: Other/Enhanced Level Checks

Credit checks, local police record checks, and fingerprint-based criminal record (CPIC) checks are available, in addition to general level checks under Service Category One. Services will be utilized by PPEB, SCO, MGCS as deemed necessary.

2.3. Vendor Selected to Perform the Services

Triton Canada, Inc. is the only Vendor under the VOR Arrangement.

Triton is contracted to perform services in support of Service Category One and Service Category Two.

2.4. Objectives of the Services

The objective of using this VOR Arrangement is to support the efficient and effective delivery of security screening services to OPS contractors and employees and provide high quality, cost effective and timely services.

3. Acquiring Services

3.1 Service Provider Selection Process

Individuals requiring security screening will determine which service provider to utilize to obtain and pay for their general level screening check. As the VOR Arrangement is non-mandatory, all individuals must be provided with information about the VOR and alternative check processing options.

Ministry Program Area Managers (PAMs) and Company Security Officers (CSOs) play coordinating roles in the security screening process.

Information on the security screening processes and instructions on the use of the Vendor services can be found on the Contractor Security Screening intranet site.

3.2 Service and Vendor Specific Pricing Information

The Vendor's guaranteed fixed pricing is provided under the following appendices:

Appendix B: Vendor Pricing for Service Category One – Triton Canada Inc.

Appendix C: Vendor Pricing for Service Category Two – Triton Canada Inc.

3.3 Distribution of Services

The Vendor under this non-mandatory VOR Arrangement provides services across the province of Ontario. Services are also accessible by applicants outside Ontario.

The Vendor's website is to be available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and 365 days a year, with the exception of when upgrades or servicing is required. The Vendor will endeavour to post a notice in such circumstances.

The MBC Procurement Directive governs the acquisition of these services. Refer to the MBC Procurement Directive for details on the acquisition process.

3.4 Payment Arrangements

As this is a user pay model, the Vendor under the VOR Arrangement will receive payments from recipients for services provided on an individualized basis for general screening checks. However, there may be some exceptions.

In the case of general level contractor screening checks, companies may arrange payment for some or all of their workers. Program Area Managers are to work with the PPEB, SCO, MGCS to process such requests for centralized or bulk billing.

Where enhanced level checks are required, individuals will not pay for the enhanced portion of screening checks. These checks will be paid for by the Ministry. The general portion of screening checks will be paid by the individual.

The Vendor under the VOR Arrangement provides for the use of on line processes to facilitate convenient, secure payments for services. This will require an individual to have a credit card. Alternative methods of making payments may also be possible, for those who do not wish to make use of the online system.

3.5 Forms

In the case of security screening involving a VOR arrangement, the VOR will provide the applicant (contractor/employee) or hiring manager as appropriate with a link. This link will direct the applicant to the Vendor's secure website, where he or she will land on an application web page specifically established by the Vendor for the OPS contractor security screening program.

The applicant will then proceed to move forward with his/her security screening check by completing Vendor generated online forms, which will include consent and declaration components. These forms were developed by the Vendor under the VOR Arrangement and approved by the PPEB, SCO, MGCS. Online applications will also include an electronic identification verification component (E-IV).

Alternatively, the Vendor will also provide paper based application forms, downloadable and printable from their site, as an alternative application process. Information on the security screening process and instructions on the use of the Vendor's services are available on the Contractor Security Screening intranet site.

3.6 Process

Individuals may utilize the Vendor for Service Category One screening checks and Service Category Two enhanced checks. Prior authorization from PPEB, SCO, MGCS is required before PAMs may request enhanced checks from the Vendor. Ministry PAMs may not move forward with any enhanced screening check requests, without prior consultation and recommendation by PPEB, SCO, MGCS.

If an alternative service provider is used (other than a Vendor of Record), the individual must obtain and provide the screening check and complete the MGCS security screening forms. It should be noted that the electronic application and administration process (end-to-end service) provided by the VOR are not supported through the use of alternative service providers (e.g. local police). For more information, visit the Contractor Security Screening intranet site.

3.7 Further Information

Should Program Area Managers have questions or require additional information on how to acquire security screening check services from the Vendor of Record, they should refer to the Contractor Security Screening intranet site for more detailed information.

PAM questions may be directed to the general email account at AskContractorScreening@ontario.ca.

For general instructions and information, contractors may refer to the Doing Business with Government website, Supply Chain Ontario (SCO), Ministry of Government and Consumer Services.

OPG- Preliminary IFRS Analysis and Impact on the Province's Consolidated Financial Statements

Confidential – For Internal Discussion Purposes

Overall comments:

- We need to discuss the application of IAS 19.122 to ensure we are aligned in our understanding as well as the positioning of the AcSB's comment
- Are you summarizing Hydro One's IFRS result for the AG?

Background

- OPG is regulated by the OEB based on US GAAP, and reports its financial results using US GAAP as required by Regulation 395/11 under the F.A.A. OPG has been directed by the Province to report under Canadian GAAP (CGAAP) for consolidation purposes.
- To date, the Province has been consolidating OPG on a CGAAP basis in accordance with AcSB's extension for the deferral of the mandatory IFRS changeover date for entities with qualifying rate-regulated activities which expired on January 1, 2015. Since AcSB has not extended the deferral period, the AG may argue that the results of the entity must be consolidated in accordance with IFRS as of January 1, 2015.
- For GBEs with a different reporting year-end, the Province's accounting policy is to reflect the change in the Province's subsequent reporting period (without restatement to prior periods). Therefore, for the 2014-15 Public Accounts, the Province would consolidate OPG's results using CGAAP for the full 12-month period.
- The AG has asked for comparative IFRS vs.CGAAP analysis be provided for Q1 2015 to assess the impact on the Province's Public Accounts. Note that she has requested that it be done to the entity's level of materiality.
- This analysis reflects OPG's preliminary analysis reflecting 9 months CGAAP results and 3 months IFRS results (including transitional b/s adjustments as at January 1, 2015). Further details on P&L impacts for the three months ended March 31, 2015 are forthcoming. ~~Note that the figures presented are preliminary and have not been audited~~.

IFRS 14 – Regulatory Deferral Accounts

- In 2014, the IASB issued IFRS 14 Regulatory Deferral Accounts effective January 1, 2016 (early adoption permitted), which is an interim standard in effect while the IASB undertakes its comprehensive project on rate regulated activities. IFRS 14 grandfathers regulatory accounting for first time adopters.

- For purposes of this analysis, it is assumed that OPG will elect to apply IFRS 14 upon transition.

- Note that IFRS 14 is expected to be removed or replaced with different guidance after completion of the IASB's comprehensive project. There is no assurance that the IASB will conclude on standards for Regulatory Accounting that will mirror OPG's current policies / practices. In that case, OPG may have to stop recording some or all regulatory balances it would have recognized under IFRS 14 (i.e. accounts which do not meet the IFRS definition of an asset or liability under the conceptual framework or another IFRS standard). This would result in material adjustments to the consolidated results.

Preliminary IFRS Analysis

- OPG identified the following significant items that would impact opening equity (transitional b/s impact) on transition to IFRS as well as net income on a go-forward basis:
  - Nuclear Asset Retirement Obligations (ARO)
  - Pension and Other Post Retirement Benefits (OPEB)
- In addition, if the Province adopts IFRS based reporting for OPG (and H1), future IFRS changes with potential impact would also include:
  - IFRS 14 may be eliminated if the IASB decides against RRA in the future
  - Financial Instruments – IFRS 9 *
  - Lease Accounting *
  - Revenue Accounting *

  * Changes may also occur under US GAAP (which is OPG's basis for rate recovery), but may not be converged with IFRS. The impact of any un-converged differences would need to be assessed for regulatory offset treatment under IFRS 14 or other IASB RRA guidance, if any, in effect at that time. There is a risk that results reported under OPG's US-GAAP based financial reports would require further reconciliation and could be complex.
- In addition, any accounting implications of the OEB's recently announced sector-wide consultation on rate recovery mechanisms for pension/OPEB costs would need to be considered.

Pension & OPEB Transition Balance Sheet Adjustments

Transitional Impact before Tax – R/E	-	1,050	Due to CGAAP/IFRS differences that result in reclassification of amounts within equity (R/E vs AOCI)
Transitional Impact before Tax – AOCI	500	(550)

Potential Application of IAS 19, para. 122 (Re-class)

- Under current IAS 19, amounts recognized in AOCI for pension/OPEB (such as differences between discount rate and expected return on assets) are not recycled through the income statement and remain in AOCI permanently. The AcSB has previously advised the IASB of its concerns with the inconsistency between the IASB treatment for the return on assets, which creates a mismatch on the P&L. IAS 19 includes an accounting policy election to reclassify amounts from OCI to Retained Earnings.
- Since OPG's regulated revenue is determined based on US GAAP, which includes the impact of recycling, it may be considered whether this option could be used in addressing the mismatch between income and expense. [note: this affect H1 as well]
- At the Province's direction, OPG could apply this option in providing its IFRS results for the Province's consolidation and reflect a transfer of the OCI amount to better match OPG's recovery basis.
- For purposes of this analysis, it is argued that recycling ~~of the regulated portion~~ is appropriate (annual impact on the CFS annual? surplus/deficit immaterial).

With application of IAS 19.122 to re-class amount that has been recorded through P&L and recovered in rates	(1,050)	1,050
After Para 122 re-class	-	500

- Notes for Province's consideration: Do we need to discuss how AOCI would be included?

Preliminary IFRS Analysis – Nuclear ARO

- OPG has identified two significant adjustments in Nuclear ARO which will impact equity:
  a. Change in discount rate
  b. Treatment of certain lifecycle costs

a) Discount Rate

- Under IFRS, a single current discount rate is used in measuring ARO. Under CGAAP, historical rates are retained for existing obligations when additions to ARO are recorded.
- Given that the rate recovery mechanism for OPG's ARO for the Bruce assets includes the recovery of accretion expense, any impact from a change in discount rate would be offset with a regulatory balance under IFRS 14.
- For the prescribed facilities (Pickering and Darlington), accretion expense is not a component of the ARO rate recovery mechanism; therefore, the impact of a discount rate change would not be offset by a regulatory balance.
- On transition, the ARO will be updated to the current discount rate with the net impact for the prescribed facilities charged to retained earnings on transition. After the transition, OPG expects that under its IFRS methodology, the discount rate will likely not change after the transition date, other than in years of an ONFA update. The next ONFA update is expected at the end of 2016 and, therefore the next change would likely significantly impact the Province's 2016/2017 CFS.

Nuclear ARO Change in Discount Rate to 5% - Transition Balance Sheet Adjustments

$ Millions (Note – current average US GAAP discount rate is 5.4%) Pre-tax	OPG's Prescribed facilities (Pickering & Darlington) 5% Discount Rate	OPG's facilities on lease to Bruce Power 5% Discount Rate	Combined
Balance-sheet Dr/(Cr)
Nuclear Asset Retirement Obligation ~~(IFRS)~~ – Adjustment to changes to discount rate	(800)	400	(400)
Asset Retirement Cost (PP&E) – Calculated using a short-cut method allowed for IFRS transition purposes due to a different discount rate	100	(100)	-
Offset by Reg. Asset/(Liability) under IFRS 14	-	(300)	(300)
Retained Earnings - Net ARO Transitional Impact to opening balance sheet – pre-tax	700	-	700

Prescribed facilities: OPG does not recover accretion expense or credit ratepayers with segregated fund earnings related to Pickering or Darlington under the methodology established by the OEB. Since those two components are not part of the items that are eligible for recovery, a change in the discount rate that impacts accretion expense ~~those two components~~ is not eligible for IFRS 14 offset.

Bruce facilities: The Bruce rate recovery method prescribed by the OEB produces no profit (return) for OPG but does cover OPG for all accounting costs, including accretion and other ~~the~~ costs of the nuclear ARO. Therefore, a regulatory balance is recognized for differences in discount rates, resulting in no net equity impact.

Nuclear ARO - Treatment of certain lifecycle costs ~~on transition~~

b) Treatment of certain lifecycle costs

- Certain costs included in the nuclear ARO and ARC (fixed assets) under Canadian GAAP and US GAAP are reflected under IFRS in different time periods.
- This results in the removal of a portion of the lifecycle costs included in the Canadian GAAP ARO and ARC upon transition to IFRS. The changes in accounting result in certain differences in the timing of OEB cost recovery and their recognition under IFRS. Accordingly, a regulatory balance is recognized.
- However, certain of the differences related to the Prescribed Facilities would ~~are~~ not be offset through the OEB recovery mechanism, because the recovery mechanism does not include an accretion component for the time value of money. As such, a regulatory balance is not recorded for these time value of money differences resulting in a net increase in retained earnings on transition. The higher retained earnings will be offset by higher future period expenses, resulting in a reduction to income in future years.
- [note: moved the table to the next slide]

Nuclear ARO - Treatment of certain lifecycle costs ~~on transition~~

[note: inserted a new slide]

b) Treatment of certain lifecycle costs

Account (pre-tax)	Impact DR / (CR)
Asset Retirement Cost (PP&E) – adjust asset retirement costs that are to be recognized through P&L under IFRS.	(1,500)
Asset Retirement Obligation (ARO) – remove certain lifecycle costs that are not recognized under IFRS.	1,300
Net Regulatory Balance – record regulatory balance based on the existing regulatory mechanism	600
Retained Earnings (Net Debt decrease) – impact of not recording certain regulatory balance related to the prescribed facilities due to the recovery mechanism as described in the previous slide	(400)

Risks to Annual Surplus/Deficit

1. Volatility due to mismatch between income statement and OCI for pension and OPEB expenses and associated regulated rate revenue, if IAS 19 para. 122 is not included in annual surplus/deficit results. OPCD recommends to reclassify AOCI balances (using IAS 19.122) consistent with US GAAP and record the reclassification through P&L each year to eliminate the risk of mismatch and potentially misleading results (annual impact on CFS surplus/deficit immaterial).

2. Surplus / deficits could be affected by changes in ARO and changes in related period costs, which are not offset by a regulatory balance as described further on slides 13 and 14 (check). The high volatility is likely given the IFRS requirement to fair value and flow changes through P&L.

3. Future IFRS Changes:
   - Permanency of IFRS rate regulated accounting is uncertain (IFRS 14 is an interim standard, final outcome of RRA project is not known)
   - Other uncertainty of IFRS changes to lease accounting, financial instruments and revenue standards, which could diverge from US GAAP and therefore require evaluation for regulatory offset treatment under IFRS 14 (or other IASB RRA guidance then in effect, if any).

4. Any accounting implications resulting from the outcome of the OEB's

Additional considerations

- Cost of OPG maintaining 2 sets of books (running detailed models, monitoring for future differences, and internal staff time).
- Costs of experts (including external actuary and Nuclear Waste Management Organization) to prepare estimates for OPG under two frameworks.
- Cost of consulting with external auditors and accounting advisors.
- OEB is expected to continue to regulate OPG based on US GAAP; there is no user need for IFRS based financial information ~~statements~~.
- OEFC calculation of Electricity Sector Dedicated Income will be impacted.

Fiscal Risk- IFRS current discount rate for Nuclear ARO

- Rate of 5% used at transition is calculated based on a 20 year rolling average of a 30 year Provincial bond (using 15 years of historical rates and 5 of forecasted rates). Under this methodology, the discount rate is expected to drop significantly over time to reflect a higher weighting on the current discount rate level. Rates would be updated at ONFA update time (likely in 2016/2017 fiscal year). The full impact related to the prescribed facilities would be reportable in year of change. This change in discount rate is likely to result in an increase in ARO in the magnitude of up to a few billion dollars. (note: will not be available in time for the meeting).

- The IFRS discount rate compares to a weighted average historical rate for US GAAP of 5.4%, which does not change for the existing ARO tranches when an additional tranche is recognized. IFRS requires the ARO to be valued using a single discount rate for the entire balance of the obligation rather than the tranche approach under US GAAP.

Fiscal Risk- Future Change in Valuation of ARO

- Future changes, such as changes in station useful lives or changes in certain lifecycle cost estimates, may have a more significant impact under IFRS due to the ARO valuation methodology and the interaction with OEB recovery mechanisms.

- Change in discount rate would also impact Province's fiscal plans in future years (as a result of accretion not being recoverable through rates for prescribed facilities and therefore no IFRS14 protection).

- For amounts already collected through US GAAP-based rates for expenses that will be recognized in the future under IFRS, reductions in future IFRS income are expected when these expenses are recognized, due to reflecting the time value of money discount.

Impact Analysis on CFS if IFRS reporting for OPG adopted effective January 1, 2015 ~~on CFS~~

Preliminary Estimated Accumulated Deficit, Net Debt and Annual Deficit Impacts ($ Millions)

Increase/(decrease)
Unaudited / Pre-tax

Potential IFRS Transitional Impact on 2014-15 CFS [1]	[Note not sure what is the dif
Pension & OPEB $1,050M ~~($550 regulated, $500 non-regulated)~~ [2]	1,050	1,050	TBD
ARO-Accretion/Discount rate (PN/DN OPG' sPrescribed facilities) [3]	700	700	TBD
ARO- lifecycle cost [5] - [footnote missing]	(400)	(400)	TBD

Notes:

(1) IFRS transitional impact (before tax) is reflected as at Jan 1, 2015.

(2) Under IFRS there is no recycling of amounts from OCI to net income (USGAAP recycles the OCI to net income). IAS 19 paragraph 122 as a minimum permits the reclassification of amounts from AOCI to retained earnings which would preserve the balance sheet. For purposes of this analysis, a policy choice would be made to recycle amounts from OCI through net income on a basis consistent with US GAAP. Annual impact on CFS not material.

(3) OPG does not recover accretion expense or credit seg fund earnings related to nuclear waste decommissioning obligations for Pickering or Darlington. As under the OEB directed methodology, these components are not part of the costs eligible for rate recovery by the OEB, a change in the discount rate that impacts accretion expense is, by definition, not recoverable and therefore not eligible for IFRS 14 offset. The net increase in the liabiltiy would therefore directly impact the Province's balance sheet under IFRS. In the future, any changes to the discount rate would immediately impact the Province's books in the year in which the update occurs.

(4) P&L impact for Q1 TBD (estimated to be received in June, 2015)

Hi Michel.

I just wanted to check on your availability over the next few days (Fri/Mon/Tues) to participate in a meeting with OPG/H1 and their external auditors to discuss potential approach to IFRS info and assurance.

We've heard that the AG may be planning to reach out to the respective orgs directly in the near term and there is a desire to have a 'huddle' in advance of receiving the AG's suggestions to confirm that we are on a common front as to what might be reasonable to expect. Your experience with Quebec Hydro would be invaluable to our discussion.

Thanks in advance.

RE: Mercury Contamination at the Dryden Industrial Site – Analysis of legal obligations to inform the considerations of liability for the purposes of the application of the Section 3260 "Liability for Contaminated Sites" of the Public Sector Accounting Board standards

You have asked us whether Ontario has a legal obligation to expend funds related to the delineation and remediation of mercury contamination within the Dryden Industrial Site, which includes the Mercury Waste Disposal Site owned by the numbered company as well as the Gordon Road Property and the Mill portions of the site owned by Domtar, and at various sites within the English and Wabigoon rivers. The advice is provided to assist the Provincial Controller in the Controller's application of the public sector accounting standards on accounting for and reporting liabilities associated with the remediation of contaminated sites.

This analysis considers: (1) the honour of the Crown and its relationship to the Premier's meeting with Chief Fobister on February 10, 2017 (the Meeting), the public statement issued jointly by the Minister of Indigenous Relations and Reconciliation and the Minister of the Environment and Climate Change on February 13, 2017 (the Statement), and the radio interview given on February 14, 2017 (the Interview) by Ministers of the Crown; (2) Ontario's ownership of the beds of the English and Wabigoon rivers; and (3) the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario, as it has been interpreted by the courts in the Weyerhaeuser litigation.

In our view, based on the facts as we currently understand them, there is a moderately low risk that a court would find that Ontario is legally required to expend funds to remediate the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers outside of what is already required as a result of the Weyerhaeuser litigation. A moderately low risk means that although it is difficult to predict the outcome because there are good arguments on both sides, the court would be more likely than not to dismiss a claim that the Crown has a legal obligation to effect the remediation.

The level of risk would increase significantly were the Crown to look to the owners or previous owners to undertake delineation or remediation work on the broader Dryden Industrial Site or to do further work on the smaller Mercury Waste Disposal Site portion, as the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario is likely to apply to create further and larger financial obligations for Ontario.

As the Ministry of the Environment and Climate Change (MOECC) moves forward with an assessment of the delineation and remediation options the Crown should be cognizant that, while the Statement itself does not raise any concerns in relation to negligence, there is an underlying risk that in the event the Crown does not meet the commitments made in the Statement that it, together with the Crown's long involvement in the matter, could be used to form an assertion of negligence.

Honour of the Crown

Our opinion is that there is a moderately low risk that the Statement engages the honour of the Crown in a manner that gives rise to a legal obligation to pay for the remediation costs related to both the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers. This means that there is a moderately low risk that if the government were to proceed in a manner different to the commitment made in the Statement, a court would, if asked, declare that the Crown had a legal obligation to remediate, and that the change in government direction amounted to breach of the honour of the Crown and of that legal obligation.

Our analysis in this area is limited by the lack of jurisprudence, but we are able to draw on a number of contextual factors that point to how a court might approach the problem.

1. Factors that may mitigate risk

The honour of the Crown is always at stake in dealings with Aboriginal peoples, but that does not mean the doctrine is always engaged in a legal sense. Under the law as it currently stands, the honour of the Crown does not add legal force to political commitments – rather it provides a standard against which to assess the Crown's satisfaction of already existing constitutional commitments. We are not aware of legal authority that has found that political commitments such as those contained in the Statement have a sufficient degree of formality or solemnity to engage the honour of the Crown. In general the courts have been cautious to avoid giving legal force to commitments that would traditionally be seen as political in nature.

The following additional factors specific to the present commitment also suggest a lower than moderate risk. The first factor is that the government did not indicate expressly or implicitly that it would be legally bound, from which it can reasonably be inferred that the government did not intend to be legally bound. Not only did the government choose not to confirm the commitment through legislation, executive order or a contract, the commitment lacked a degree of solemnity associated with commitments concerning constitutional interests. The commitment could have been made more formally than via a private meeting, a press release and a CBC radio interview.

A second factor is that the exercise of constitutional rights is not explicitly stated to be a purpose of the commitment, nor can this be reasonably inferred as the purpose. There is reference to "ensuring the First Nations' rights and interests are at the forefront of decision making around options and implementation", but that is concerned with the manner of remediation, and is not enough, in our view, to ground the commitment in constitutional rights.

The third factor is that at the same time that Ontario communicated the commitment to the First Nations, and although it stated that commitment in clear terms, Ontario also indicated that its commitment may be subject to other interests. We understand that the Premier told Chief Fobister on February 10th that a remediation plan would have to go to Treasury Board for approval. This implies that the commitment was conditional on a balancing exercise involving not only the First Nation's interests but other interests as well, including fiscal realities. Such balancing of interests between First Nation and general public interests is a factor that suggests that there is no legal obligation to remediate.

2. Factors that may increase risk

There are contextual factors that suggest the risk is greater than low. First, the case law is evolving and courts are, in general terms, expanding the reach and operation of the doctrine of the honour of the Crown. Second, satisfaction of the commitment in the Statement would likely affect the capacity of certain First Nations to exercise their constitutional rights, which is the subject matter generally engaged by the honour of the Crown. Third, the equities of the present situation, including the pollution of the river system and the effect of that pollution on the First Nations' fishing rights and general community well-being, would make a court more inclined to conclude that the honour of the Crown was engaged.

There are additional factors specific to the Statement that also move the risk from low to moderately low. First, the commitment was written in the Statement, spoken to the First Nations, and repeated to the public, in clear and definite terms. The Statement itself says that the Ministers are "completely committed…to creating and implementing a comprehensive remediation plan". Further, in a Toronto Star article on February 13, 2017, Chief Fobister is quoted as saying that the Premier told him in the Meeting that the river and mill site would be cleaned. We assume that this accurately reflects what the Premier said and that Chief Fobister would swear to that effect. Next, Minister Murray said in the Interview that Ontario was "absolutely" committed to funding the remediation.

Second, in the February 13, 2017, Toronto Star article, Chief Fobister referred to the commitment as "historic". This suggests that from the First Nation's perspective the commitment has a degree of importance that goes beyond the merely short-term and contingent.

Third, a court might consider whether the commitment, political or otherwise, was made in good faith. A court will be more comfortable concluding that the honour of the Crown was engaged where the facts show that the Crown made a commitment in bad faith. Evidence that the Crown did not take steps necessary to meet this commitment, could be taken to suggest the Crown never intended to meet the commitment and so had acted in bad faith.

3. Summary of risk

We expect that there are individual Superior Court judges who would likely declare that the Province breached the honour of the Crown if the commitment were not kept, particularly if a different position was taken by the current government in the absence of materially altered circumstances. But the ultimate question is what an appeal court would do when confronted with such a case, possibly in the context of a decision made by a different government. It remains our view that it is more likely than not that an appeal court would decline to declare that the honour of the Crown had been breached by a decision not to remediate.

The precedents that are available indicate that the legal doctrine of the honour of the Crown does not apply here. But we also have a body of law that is still developing, very sympathetic circumstances, and a judicial trend to develop Aboriginal law to respond to bad facts. For all these reasons we continue to assess the risk as moderately low, although we would place the risk within the upper end of that band.

Crown Ownership of the beds of the river system

The MNRF has the authority to manage public lands through the Public Lands Act. The MOECC has the statutory responsibility to determine the appropriate remediation options for the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers. The Statement alone, however, does not create any obligations on either of these Ministries to effect remediation. In the absence of an order issued by the MOECC or some other legal instrument, there is no legal responsibility on Ontario to remediate either the Dryden Industrial Site or contaminated sites within the rivers.

Impact of the 1985 Indemnity and the effect on Weyerhaeuser litigation

Should the Crown look to the current or previous owners to undertake delineation or remediation work on the Dryden Industrial Site, subject to the appeal referenced below, the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario is likely to apply to create a financial obligation for Ontario.

The 1985 Indemnity applies in respect of the presence of “any pollutant” on the Dryden Industrial Site as of 1979, and the discharge of any pollutants, including mercury, from the site. The application of the 1985 Indemnity to work required as a result of a 2011

Order issued by the MOECC to previous owners of the mercury waste disposal site portion of the broader site, Resolute and Weyerhaeuser, has been confirmed by the Superior Court of Ontario. Ontario has appealed this decision to the Court of Appeal. The appeal is scheduled to be heard on May 2nd and 3rd, 2017.

Domtar has now asserted that it benefits from the 1985 Indemnity such that Ontario is required to reimburse Domtar's costs of compliance with an order. The decision of the Ontario Superior Court in Weyerhaeuser would support this view. If Ontario disagrees litigation similar to the ongoing Weyerhaeuser litigation (currently before the Court of Appeal) would be required.

This means that if the Superior Court's judgment is upheld by the Court of Appeal (and subject to any further appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada) then Ontario will be liable to repay Resolute and Weyerhaeuser for costs they incur or have incurred as a result of the order. This would be the case as well for any future orders that might be issued to Resolute, Weyerhaeuser and Domtar or to any future owner of the Site. In light of equally good arguments on both sides, the outcome of the appeal is not reasonably predictable.

Negligence

It is unlikely that the statement would, by itself, give rise to civil liability under the law of either contract or negligence. However, there is an underlying risk that in the event the Crown does not meet the commitments made in the statement that it together with the Crown's long involvement in the matter could be used to form an assertion of negligence on the part of the Crown.

The law of negligence does not normally impose any affirmative duty on parties to take positive steps to protect possible plaintiffs from anticipated risks of harm. Duties to take positive action in the face of a known risk or danger are not free-standing; the mere fact that a person faces danger does not itself impose any kind of duty on those in a position to become involved. As a result the law of negligence would not ordinarily impose any positive duty on the Crown to take any action to mitigate that risk.

However, the situation is complicated by the fact that, as the responsible regulator, MOECC has been involved in the efforts to address the risk of mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows for decades. The courts have been clear that regulatory authorities may owe a duty of care in negligence to members of the public who are adversely affected by the regulator's activities. Claims based on alleged regulatory negligence are highly fact-specific and going forward the MOECC and other Ministries involved will need to carefully consider the applicable regulatory frameworks and the full history of the government's factual involvement in this matter, including, most notably, any interactions between government officials and the affected FN communities.

A claim for regulatory negligence could relate exclusively to MOECC's recent efforts to address mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows and may also incorporate issues related to the Crown's past conduct. However, it is clear that the recent commitments made by the Minister could be asserted as part of the contextual foundation for a duty of care on the part of MOECC. Canadian courts have been clear that representations made by responsible regulatory authorities, coupled with reasonable reliance on the part of affected members of the public, will be a highly significant feature of the proximity analysis. Depending on all of the surrounding facts, a court could construe the Ministers' Statement as evidence of either:

(a) a voluntary assumption by the Crown of a duty to take positive action to ensure the remediation of the Grassy Narrows mercury contamination on a going forward basis; or

(b) an acknowledgement of the Crown's broader involvement in the risk of harm resulting from the mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows.

Obviously, the precise manner that the Minister's commitment might be presented by an injured plaintiff will turn entirely on the surrounding circumstances and it is not possible to exhaustively assess the risks associated with the Statement in the abstract. However, we would point out that the legal risk that a court would recognize a duty of care against the Crown in this case may be aggravated by the fact that the affected First Nation communities are unusually vulnerable and dependent upon the Crown to take steps to protect their interests and, therefore, more likely to reasonably rely on the commitments made in respect of them and to them by the Minister.

RE: Mercury Contamination at the Dryden Industrial Site – Analysis of legal obligations to inform the considerations of liability for the purposes of the application of the Section 3260 "Liability for Contaminated Sites" of the Public Sector Accounting Board standards

You have asked us to update the opinion we provided dated March 8, 2017 (attached), concerning whether Ontario has a legal obligation to expend funds related to the delineation and remediation of mercury contamination within the Dryden Industrial Site, which includes a mercury waste disposal site owned by a numbered company as well as the Gordon Road Property and the mill portions of the site owned by Domtar Inc. (the "Mill site"), and at various sites within the English and Wabigoon rivers. We understand that you have requested this advice to assist the Provincial Controller in the Controller's application of the public sector accounting standards on accounting for and reporting liabilities associated with the remediation of contaminated sites.

This updated opinion adds the consideration of the following information that has come to our knowledge after the preparation of the March 8, 2017 opinion:

- statements made by Minister Murray on May 2, 2017, in the Legislative Assembly and repeated in a subsequent meeting between Ministers Murray and Zimmer and other Ontario Representatives with Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations; and

- the owner of the Mill site, Domtar Inc., will be required to investigate the extent of mercury contamination at the Mill site and within leased portions of the Wabigoon River to determine whether the site is an ongoing source of mercury contamination through the issuance of an order under the Environmental Protection Act, R.S.O. 1990 c. 19 ("EPA") (the "EPA Order").

Background

During the 1960s and 1970s, a chlor-alkali plant in Dryden discharged approximately 10 metric tonnes of mercury into the Wabigoon River, affecting the English-Wabigoon River system. In 1970, this release was reduced by 99 percent, and in 1975 the plant was decommissioned. In 1977, Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations brought a lawsuit against the current and former property owners with respect to the contamination. A settlement to the litigation was reached in 1985 and was participated in by Canada and Ontario (the "1985 Settlement Agreement").

The English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act[1], gave effect to the 1985 Settlement Agreement and established the Mercury Disability Board. Canada enacted its own more limited enabling legislation.[2]. The 1985 Settlement Agreement also included for an indemnity granted by Ontario to a the 1985 owner of the site, Great Lakes Inc., and its immediate predecessor, Reed Ltd., in respect of the presence of "any pollutant" on the Dryden Industrial Site as of December 17, 1979, and the discharge of any of those pollutants, including mercury, from the site (the "1985 Indemnity").

Wastes from the decommissioning of the chlor-alkali plant were deposited in an on-site mercury waste disposal site, the ownership of which was subsequently transferred to a numbered company (the "Mercury Waste Disposal Site"). Natural attenuation of the mercury in the rivers through sediment deposition and movement, rather than active remediation, has been the remediation method adopted since the historic mercury discharges occurred. Ontario considered other remediation options in 1986 but decided, based on scientific, fiscal and socio-economic evidence available at the time, that more active remediation options were not viable.

While mercury levels in fish in parts of the English and Wabigoon Rivers have declined since the 1970s, fish sampling has shown that mercury levels in fish remain high and consumption advisories remain in effect in many parts of the rivers for both the general and sensitive populations. Recent ground water and river sediment testing have also shown high levels of mercury. In response, Ontario has committed to "addressing mercury contamination in the river [sic] by collaborating with the First Nations and other partners on solutions based on the best available science and research". Part of this commitment includes funding Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations to undertaken sediment sampling and related research within the English-Wabigoon River system. There is also a proposal to issue the EPA Order to Domtar Inc. to determine whether the Mill site is an ongoing source of mercury contamination.

[1] S.O. 1986, C.23
[2] Grassy Narrows and Islington Indian Bands Mercury Pollution Claims Settlement Act, S.C. 1986, c. 23

Three other First Nation communities also fish and hunt within the English- Wabigoon River system: Eagle Lake First Nation, Wabigoon First Nation and the Wabauskang First Nation; and as a result may also be affected by contamination in the rivers.

Summary

The 1985 Indemnity and the Weyerhaeuser Litigation

In our view, based on the facts as we currently understand them, there is a high risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation to repay costs incurred by Domtar Inc. in respect of the remediation of the Dryden Industrial Site and sites within the leased areas of the Wabigoon River. We reach this conclusion because of the 2016 decision of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice in Weyerhaeuser v. Ontario (AG), which applied the 1985 Indemnity to a procedural order issued under the EPA to Weyerhaeuser Company Ltd ("Weyerhaeuser") and Resolute FP Canada Inc. ("Resolute") in 2011 (the "2011 Director's Order"). A high risk means that, while there are credible arguments to dismiss a challenge, the relevant court would very likely find against Ontario.

The level of risk has increased to high since the March 8, 2017 opinion because of the intention to issue the EPA Order to Domtar Inc. as the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario is likely to apply to create financial obligations for Ontario in respect of such work.

Honour of the Crown

In addition, our view is that there is a moderate risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation arising from the honour of the Crown to expend funds to remediate the English-Wabigoon River system generally, as well as the Dryden Industrial Site, including leased areas of the Wabigoon River. A moderate risk means that, in light of good arguments on each side, the outcome is not reasonably predictable.

Regulatory Negligence

We would also like to restate and expand upon our concerns with respect to the significant negligence risks inherent in the remediation approach that is being contemplated for the English- Wabigoon River system. The proposal as we understand it would have Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations as the principal actors in the remediation efforts in the river. The same concerns apply to the Mill site should the government return to its previous position of having Grassy Narrows First Narion lead that work. While these concerns do not create a current financial liability, the level of the Crown's liability would increase if there is a successful claim for regulatory negligence. A claim alleging regulatory negligence could relate to MOECC's recent efforts to address mercury contamination and may also incorporate issues related to the Crown's past conduct. Claims based on regulatory negligence are highly fact specific and consideration will need to be given to the applicable regulatory framework and the full history of government involvement including any interactions between government officials and the affected First Nation.

To the extent that the MOECC is seen to be abrogating its role as a regulatory authority by allowing Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations to take the lead in addressing environmental contamination, this may attract a regulatory negligence claim if the MOECC does not exercise its regulatory oversight in its usual way and if the contamination is not adequately addressed. Further, should those remediation efforts not result in a satisfactory remediation of the mercury contamination, there is a significant risk that Ontario will be liable in negligence for future harms resulting from that contamination. Therefore, while Ontario has committed repeatedly to an active role for both First Nations in the remediation work it will be advisable to ensure that their role does not amount to an abdication of Ontario's regulatory responsibilities.

While a relatively strong argument may be made that the 1985 Settlement Agreement and the English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act extinguished the First Nations' rights to all damages, even under a head of action for "Regulatory Negligence", Grassy Narrows and Wabaseemoong First Nations could reasonably argue that the settlement was not intended to apply to any negligent conduct occurring after the settlement was reached. In so far as post settlement discharges from the Dryden Industrial Site are concerned, the settlement does not release Ontario or the then or subsequent owners of the land in relation to new omissions or commissions that created new damages or which increased the pollution level of the river system. Early identification of issues, regular contact, and appropriate regulatory oversight of those effecting the remediation may assist in mitigating some of the risk. The settlement would also not preclude claims being made by the Eagle Lake First Nation, Wabigoon First Nation or the Wabauskang First Nation.

And finally, Grassy Narrows First Nation has asserted that at the time of the settlement it was not aware of the establishment of the mercury waste disposal site within the Dryden Industrial Site. Either Grassy Narrows or Wabaseemoong Independent Nations could assert this fact in an attempt to attack the legality of the 1985 Settlement Agreement including the extinguishment of future claims. This is an issue that would have to be further assessed if asserted by the First Nations.

Discussion

This following analysis considers:

- the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario, as it has been interpreted by the courts in the Weyerhaeuser litigation;

- the honour of the Crown and its relationship to: the Premier's meeting with Chief Fobister on February 10, 2017 (the February Meeting); the public statement (the Statement) issued jointly by the Minister of Indigenous Relations and Reconciliation (Minister Zimmer) and the Minister of the Environment and Climate Change (Minister Murray) on February 13, 2017; the radio interview given on February 14, 2017 by Ministers of the Crown (the Interview); Minister Murray's statements to the Legislative Assembly on May 2, 2017; and statements made by Ontario's representatives at the meeting with Chief Fobister on May 2, 2017 (the May Meeting);

- Ontario's ownership of the beds of the English and Wabigoon rivers; and

- the law of contract and the law of negligence.

Impact of the 1985 Indemnity and the effect on the Weyerhaeuser litigation

Subsequent to our March 8, 2017 opinion, MOECC has indicated an intention to require Domtar Inc. to investigate the extent of mercury contamination within the Mill site and the portions of the Wabigoon River leased by Domtar Inc. in accordance with the EPA Order. If contamination is found, additional orders requiring the mercury contamination to be contained and remediated are probable. Subject to a successful appeal (referenced below), the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario will apply to create a financial obligation on Ontario for the costs of Domtar Inc. and others to comply with such requirements.

We reach this conclusion because the 2016 decision of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice in Weyerhaeuser v. Ontario (AG). There, the Court held that the 1985 Indemnity which provides for indemnification in respect of any claim, action or proceeding in respect of the presence of "any pollutant" on the Dryden Industrial Site as of December 17, 1979, and the discharge of any of those pollutants, including mercury, from the site, included the 2011 Director's Order issued to Weyerhaeuser and Resolute.

The decision was premised on the findings that Weyerhaeuser, as a successor in title to a portion of the Dryden Industrial Site, could benefit from the 1985 Indemnity. Domtar Inc. has indicated that it will assert that it is also such a beneficiary of the 1985 Indemnity and will seek reimbursement of its costs.

Ontario has appealed this Superior Court decision to the Court of Appeal. The appeal was heard on May 2 and 3, 2017. The decision has been reserved and is expected by November 3, 2017. For practical purposes, Ontario's obligation to Weyerhaeuser and Resolute is stayed pending the outcome of the appeal.

If the Superior Court's judgment is upheld by the Court of Appeal (and subject to any further appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada), Ontario is liable to repay Resolute and Weyerhaeuser for costs they incur or have incurred as a result of the 2011 Director's Order. This would be the case as well for the EPA Order proposed to be issued to Domtar Inc. and any future orders that might be issued to Resolute, Weyerhaeuser, Domtar Inc. or to any future owner of the Site.

Honour of the Crown

This part considers the application of the legal doctrine of the honour of the Crown to public and private statements made by the Premier and Ministers Murray and Zimmer in February 2017 and in May 2017. In the first set of statements, in February, Ontario committed publicly via media release and by radio interview, and in person directly to the First Nations' Chiefs, that it would remediate the Dryden Industrial Site and the English-Wabigoon River system. This commitment was repeated in the second set of statements on May 2, 2017 by Minister Murray in the Legislature, and by Ministers Murray and Zimmer in person directly to the First Nations' Chiefs.

We have considered these statements in light of the emerging and relatively undeveloped legal doctrine of the honour of the Crown. Our opinion is that there is a moderate risk that the government's statements made to Grassy Narrows and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations directly and indirectly engage the honour of the Crown in a manner that gives rise to a legal obligation to pay for the remediation costs related to both the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers. More specifically, there is a moderate risk that if the current or a subsequent government were to proceed in a manner that differs from the stated commitment to remediate, a court would, if asked, declare that the Crown had a legal obligation to remediate, and that the change in government direction amounted to breach of the honour of the Crown and of that legal obligation. We further note that to the extent a court concluded that a failure to carry out commitments jeopardized constitutional rights, a court might also be willing to grant injunctive relief against the Crown and order that it honour its commitments.

On the one hand, the legal precedents that are available have not applied the doctrine of the honour of the Crown to any set of facts similar to those present here. Traditional Western formal markers of legal commitment such as a contract, or the creation of a trust, are so far absent, and there is present uncertainty over the cost of remediation and hence the bounds of the Crown commitment. Based on the existing case law it also remains open to us to argue that the honour of the Crown does not itself give rise to obligations. On the other hand, the law relating to the honour of the Crown is still developing, Ontario has made repeated public and private commitments to Grassy Narrows to remediate the river, there are very sympathetic circumstances, and there is a judicial trend to develop Aboriginal law principles expansively to respond to bad facts.

The ultimate question is what an appeal court would do when confronted with an assertion that the Province had breached the honour of the Crown if the commitment were not kept. Our view is that there is a moderate risk that an appeal court would declare that Ontario's commitments have engaged the honour of the Crown thereby creating an obligation to remediate, and that failure to do so, either by the current or a subsequent government, would represent a breach of the Crown's honour and that obligation.

As noted above, our analysis in this area is limited by the lack of jurisprudence directly on point, but we are able to draw the following contextual factors that point to how a court might approach the problem.

1. Factors that may mitigate risk

The honour of the Crown is always at stake in dealings with Aboriginal peoples, but that does not mean the doctrine is always engaged in a legal sense. Under the law as the courts have described it to date, the honour of the Crown does not add legal force to political commitments – rather, it provides a standard against which to assess the Crown's satisfaction of already existing commitments that have a constitutional character. In some respects, the issue may be framed in terms of whether the commitment was made on behalf of the Crown or merely the government as currently constituted. We are not aware of legal authority that has found that political commitments such as those contained in the Statement, and repeated since, have a sufficient degree of formality or solemnity to engage the honour of the Crown. In general the courts have been cautious to avoid giving legal force to commitments that would traditionally be seen as political in nature.

The following additional factors specific to the present commitment tend to lower the risk. The first factor is that the government did not indicate expressly that it would be legally bound, from which could reasonably be inferred that the government did not intend to be legally bound. The government has chosen not to confirm the commitment through legislation, executive order, contract, or the creation of a trust, in spite of direct requests by Grassy Narrows; moreover, the commitment lacked some of the solemnity associated with commitments concerning constitutional interests. The commitment could have been made more formally than via private meetings, a press release, a CBC radio interview, and answers to questions in the Legislative Assembly.

A second factor is that the exercise of constitutional rights is not explicitly stated to be a purpose of the commitment, nor can this be clearly inferred as the purpose. There is reference in the Statement to "ensuring the First Nations' rights and interests are at the forefront of decision making around options and implementation", but that is more concerned with the manner of remediation, and is likely not enough on its own, in our view, to ground the commitment in constitutional rights.

The third factor is that at the same time that Ontario first communicated the commitment to Grassy Narrows, and although it stated that commitment in clear terms, Ontario also indicated that its commitment may be subject to other interests. Specifically, we understand that the Premier told Chief Fobister at the February Meeting that a remediation plan would have to go to Treasury Board for approval. This implies that the commitment was conditional on a balancing exercise involving not only the First Nation's interests but other interests as well, including fiscal realities. Such balancing of interests between those of a First Nation and those of the general public is a factor that may suggest that there is no legal obligation to remediate.

At the May Meeting, Ministers Murray and Zimmer again referred to the need for a remediation plan to go to Treasury Board. On this occasion, however, they did not do so in a manner that clearly qualified the government's commitment to remediate.

2. Factors that increase risk

There are contextual factors that increase the risk. First, the case law is evolving and courts are, in general terms, expanding the reach and operation of the doctrine of the honour of the Crown. While there is no established legal principle that would apply to and govern these facts, courts have shown a willingness in this developing area of law to shape principles and to fashion results that accord with their underlying conception of fairness in relations between the Crown and Aboriginal peoples. Second, satisfaction of the commitment to remediate would likely affect the capacity of certain First Nations to exercise their constitutional rights, which is the subject matter generally engaged by the honour of the Crown. Third, the equities of the present situation, including the pollution of the river system and the effect of that pollution on the First Nations' treaty-protected fishing rights and general community well-being, would make a court more inclined to conclude that the honour of the Crown was engaged.

There are additional factors specific to the commitment that also in our view increase the risk from moderately low to moderate. First, the commitment was written in the Statement, spoken to the First Nations, repeated to the public, and stated in the Legislative Assembly, in clear and definite terms. The Statement itself says that the Ministers are "completely committed…to creating and implementing a comprehensive remediation plan". Further, in a Toronto Star article on February 13, 2017, Chief Fobister is quoted as saying that the Premier told him in the February Meeting that the river and mill site would be cleaned. We assume that this accurately reflects what the Premier said and that Chief Fobister would testify to that effect. Next, Minister Murray said in the Interview that Ontario was "absolutely" committed to funding the remediation. More recently, in the Legislative Assembly Minister Murray said "This government will fully fund and implement Dr. Rudd's recommendations. …the money is on its way to Grassy Narrows, as the bills come in. Mr. Speaker, the cost of this may well be far in excess of $84 million. As a matter of fact, I am guessing that this government's commitment to Grassy Narrows is going to exceed that amount of money."

Second, in the February 13, 2017, Toronto Star article, Chief Fobister referred to the commitment as "historic". This suggests that from the First Nation's perspective the commitment has a degree of importance that goes beyond the merely short-term and contingent.

Third, at the May Meeting, Minister Zimmer read to Grassy Narrows the statements that Minister Murray had made to the Legislative Assembly earlier that same day, and responded to the First Nation's complaint that the commitment was not reflected in the budget. Ontario's representatives explained that Ontario was not able to "book" remediation as a liability in government accounts until it had received remediation recommendations from the environmental scientist Dr. Rudd. Ontario said that it needed to "fill the gaps" before it could book a liability, which we believe would reasonably be understood as referring to the need to obtain clarity on projected costs – not whether Ontario would incur costs. Minister Murray spoke of processes that must be followed to ensure due diligence. In response to a request that money be put aside into a trust as in the 1985 settlement, Minister Murray said that a trust would be complicated and would take the parties away from the progress to date. In essence, at the May Meeting, Ontario said that it was fully committed to remediation, but that it could not yet put money aside in its internal processes until a plan for remediation was developed and a more precise figure for the cost of that remediation was determined. Ontario said it was committed to remediate; the only reason it has not yet put the money aside is that it does not yet know how much to put aside. We understand Ontario representatives at the meeting also made statements that could reasonably be interpreted as suggesting that Ontario was already subject to a legal obligation to remediate, under the EPA; that the discussion was not merely political but directed at the satisfaction of legal obligations.

Fourth, a court might consider whether the commitment, political or otherwise, was made in good faith. A court would be more comfortable concluding that the honour of the Crown was engaged and breached where the facts show that the Crown made a commitment in bad faith. Evidence that the Crown did not take steps necessary to meet this commitment, could be taken to suggest the Crown never intended to meet the commitment and so had acted in bad faith. The more often the commitment is repeated in clear terms, directly, by Ministers of the Crown and senior public servants, and in person-to-person meetings, the greater will be the reasonable expectation of Grassy Narrows that it will be met, and the less will be a court's patience with a failure to meet the commitment. Further, a court will be more likely to conclude that the commitment was made on behalf of the Crown rather than by the government as currently constituted.

For all these reasons above we assess the risk associated with the honour of the Crown as moderate.

Crown Ownership of the beds of the river system

The Ministry of Natural Resources and Forests (MNRF) has the authority to manage public lands through the Public Lands Act. The MOECC has the statutory responsibility to determine the appropriate remediation options for the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers. In the absence of an order issued by the MOECC to MNRF, some other legal instrument, or a legal obligation engaging the honour of the Crown, there is no legal responsibility on Ontario to remediate either the Dryden Industrial Site or contaminated sites within the rivers.

Law of Contract and Negligence

Crown Liability for Regulatory Negligence

The law of negligence does not normally impose any affirmative duty on parties to take positive steps to protect possible plaintiffs from anticipated risks of harm. Duties to take positive action in the face of a known risk or danger are not free-standing; the mere fact that a person faces danger does not itself impose any kind of duty on those in a position to become involved. As a result, the law of negligence would not ordinarily impose any positive duty on the Crown to take any action to mitigate that risk.

However, the situation is complicated by the fact that, as the responsible regulator, the MOECC has been involved in the efforts to address the risk of mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows for decades. The courts have been clear that regulatory authorities may owe a duty of care in negligence to members of the public who are adversely affected by the regulator's activities. . In determining whether a regulatory authority owes a duty of care to a member of the public, the court will consider:

- whether the harm suffered by the member of the public was reasonably foreseeable; and
- whether the member of the public was in a "close and direct relationship" with the regulatory authority (i.e., proximity). This proximity analysis will focus on (i) the applicable regulatory scheme and (ii) the interactions between the regulatory authority and the member of the public.

Claims based on alleged regulatory negligence are highly fact-specific and, going forward, the MOECC and other Ministries involved will need to carefully consider the applicable regulatory frameworks and the full history of the province's factual involvement in this matter, including, most notably, any interactions between government officials and the affected First Nations communities. A claim for regulatory negligence could relate exclusively to the MOECC's recent efforts to address mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows and may also incorporate issues related to the Crown's past conduct.

Given the recent events on this file, including the MOECC's review of the most recent proposal by Dr. Rudd, the consultant retained by Grassy Narrows First Nation to investigate the extent of mercury contamination in the English-Wabigoon River system and implement remedial measures, we would restate our concerns with respect to the significant regulatory negligence risks inherent in the remediation approach that is being contemplated for the English-Wabigoon River system: essentially having the Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations as the principal actors in the remediation efforts in the river system. The same concerns apply to the Mill site should the government return to its previous position of having Grassy Narrows First Nation lead that work as well. We have noted these concerns in the advice we provided in respect of the Statement, as well as in oral briefings and in related materials, notably the presentation prepared for the briefing of Minister Murray on March 30, 2017.

To the extent that the MOECC is seen to be abrogating its regulatory authority by allowing Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations to take the lead in addressing environmental contamination, which is a role customarily taken by the MOECC, in accordance with applicable legislation and employing the MOECC's significant resources and expertise, this may attract a regulatory negligence claim if the MOECC does not exercise its regulatory oversight in its usual way and if the contamination is not adequately addressed. Even if Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations are directly involved in the remediation efforts, Ontario could nevertheless be liable to them or to individual members of these First Nations for any negligence committed by the MOECC in regulating such efforts (of course, if the First Nations themselves acted negligently, it is possible that they could be liable for contributory negligence).

Further, should those remediation efforts not result in a satisfactory remediation of the mercury contamination, there is a significant risk that Ontario will be liable in negligence for future harms resulting from that contamination. This concern is heightened given the historic relationship between Grassy Narrows First Nation, Wabaseemoong Independent Nations and Ontario in the matter such that there is likely a sufficient proximity between the parties to raise a duty of care on the part of Ontario in how it proceeds with the remedial work. A sufficient proximity may also exist between Ontario and other stakeholders, which may include the property owners along the river systems, Domtar Inc., and the City of Dryden, as well as other users of the river system.

The following factors contribute to these risks:

- The matter has been ongoing for decades without a satisfactory resolution, despite remediation efforts led by Ontario in the 1980s.
- Ontario would be permitting Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations to undertake remedial work in relation to mercury contamination in place of the normally responsible parties, Domtar, former property owners and the Crown, despite Grassy Narrows Fist Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations not being responsible for the mercury contamination, and not being experienced parties in terms of conducting environmental remediation of this nature.
- We understand that the remedial work currently proposed by Grassy Narrows First Nation is likely insufficient and does not meet the MOECC's requirements. Further, Grassy Narrows' own scientists have acknowledged that they do not have experience managing such a large and complex project (acknowledging that there are recent efforts in place seeking to address these gaps).
- Stakeholders beyond Grassy Narrows First Nation, including Wabaseemoong Independent Nations, Domtar Inc., the City of Dryden, other property owners and the broader public have not been consulted on the proposed work.

- Domtar Inc. and the other former property owners, who may suffer economic and legal impacts if remediation is not effected properly, have not been given a significant opportunity to address the remediation proposals, most notably the proposal for the rivers.
- The actions taken to date by all parties have not been consistent with the MOECC's compliance policies in respect to environmental contamination nor the MOECC's usual operating practices.
- Statements of government representatives as discussed below.

Therefore, while Ontario has committed repeatedly to an active role for both First nations in the remediation work it will be advisable to ensure that their role does not amount to an abdication of Ontario's regulatory responsibilities. Early identification of issues, regular contact with those effecting the remediation, and appropriate regulatory oversight may assist in mitigating some of the risk. Counsel can assist in developing mitigation strategies.

Impact of the Statements by Government Representatives

It is unlikely that the statements by the Ministers and other representatives of the government, listed above, would, by themselves, give rise to civil liability under the law of either contract or negligence. However, there is an underlying risk that in the event the Crown does not meet the commitments made in the statements that the statements together with the Crown's long involvement in the matter could be used to form an assertion of negligence on the part of the Crown. It is clear that the recent commitments made by government representatives could be asserted as part of the contextual foundation for a duty of care on the part of the MOECC. Canadian courts have been clear that representations made by responsible regulatory authorities, coupled with reasonable reliance on the part of affected members of the public, will be a highly significant feature of the proximity analysis. Depending on all of the surrounding facts, a court could construe the statements as evidence of either:

(a) a voluntary assumption by the Crown of a duty to take positive action to ensure the remediation of the mercury contamination on a going forward basis; or

(b) an acknowledgement of the Crown's broader involvement in the risk of harm resulting from the mercury contamination.

The precise manner in which the statements might be presented by an injured plaintiff will turn entirely on the surrounding circumstances and it is not possible to exhaustively assess the risks associated with the statements in the abstract. However, we would point out that the legal risk that a court would recognize a duty of care against the Crown in this case may be aggravated by the fact that the affected First Nation communities are unusually vulnerable and dependent upon the Crown to take steps to protect their interests and, therefore, more likely to reasonably rely on the commitments made in respect of them and to them by the government.

Finally, we note that the Crown could potentially argue that any statements made by the Minister in the legislature are not admissible as evidence in a court proceeding because those statements are protected by parliamentary privilege.[3] However, parliamentary privilege would not apply to a statement made by the Minister in the legislature that was subsequently repeated by the Minister outside of the legislature.

Impact of the 1986 English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act

As many as five First Nation communities may be impacted by the mercury contamination of the English and Wabigoon river system: Grassy Narrows First Nations, Wabaseemoong Independent Nations, Eagle Lake First Nation, Wabigoon First Nation and Wabauskang First Nation. It is possible that Eagle Lake First Nation, Wabigoon First Nation and Wabauskang First Nation could bring claims in negligence and regulatory negligence, as set out above.

In so far as Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations are concerned, If either of these communities sought to bring an action against the Crown, the community would need to establish that its cause of action against the Crown was not abolished pursuant to the 1985 Settlement Agreement and s. 39 of the English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act which provides:

> 39. All existing and future rights of action of the Bands and of every past, existing or future member of the Bands, and the estates thereof, in respect of claims and causes of action which are the subject of the settlement are, in consideration of and pursuant to the settlement, abolished.

The Act specifically defines the “settlement” as a settlement of disputes relating to the discharge of certain pollutants into the English and Wabigoon and related river systems and the effects which such pollutants, “and the continuing but now diminished presence of methylmercury in the related ecosystems may have had and may continue to have upon…the social and economic circumstances and the health of present and future members of the Bands”.[4]

A relatively strong argument may be made that Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations extinguished their rights to all damages, even under a head of action for “Regulatory Negligence”, for claims arising from the contamination level of the River pre-1985 and as of the date of settlement.

[3] Capital Markets Technologies, Inc. v. Prince Edward Island, 2016 PESC 4 at paras. 32-36

[4] English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act, s. 1, “settlement”.

However, Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations could reasonably argue that the settlement was not intended to apply to any possible future negligent conduct occurring after the settlement was reached. Thus, the communities could claim against Ontario and the companies for damages caused since 1985 through new omissions or commissions that created new damages or which increased the pollution level of the river system.

In so far as discharges from the Dryden Industrial Site, including the Mercury Waste Disposal Site, are concerned, the settlement does not release Ontario or the then or subsequent owners of the land from actions for damages arising from further discharges of mercury onto or into neighbouring treaty land or water.

Finally, it should be noted that in March 2016, the Chief of the Grassy Narrows First Nation wrote to Minister Murray alleging that the community had never been made aware at the time of the settlement of the existence of the Mercury Waste Disposal Site. This allegation would need to be further researched against the historical record in order to be assessed We are not aware if Wabaseemoong Independent Nations would make a similar allegation, nor whether either of the two First Nations would assert this fact in an attempt to attack the legality of the settlement agreement including the extinguishment of future claims. This is an issue that would have to be further assessed if asserted by the First Nations.

RE: Mercury Contamination at the Dryden Industrial Site – Analysis of legal obligations to inform the considerations of liability for the purposes of the application of the Section 3260 "Liability for Contaminated Sites" of the Public Sector Accounting Board standards

You have asked us whether Ontario has a legal obligation to expend funds related to the delineation and remediation of mercury contamination within the Dryden Industrial Site, which includes the Mercury Waste Disposal Site owned by the numbered company as well as the Gordon Road Property and the Mill portions of the site owned by Domtar, and at various sites within the English and Wabigoon rivers. The advice is provided to assist the Provincial Controller in the Controller's application of the public sector accounting standards on accounting for and reporting liabilities associated with the remediation of contaminated sites.

This analysis considers: (1) the honour of the Crown and its relationship to the Premier's meeting with Chief Fobister on February 10, 2017 (the Meeting), the public statement issued jointly by the Minister of Indigenous Relations and Reconciliation and the Minister of the Environment and Climate Change on February 13, 2017 (the Statement), and the radio interview given on February 14, 2017 (the Interview) by Ministers of the Crown; (2) Ontario's ownership of the beds of the English and Wabigoon rivers; and (3) the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario, as it has been interpreted by the courts in the Weyerhaeuser litigation.

In our view, based on the facts as we currently understand them, there is a moderately low risk that a court would find that Ontario is legally required to expend funds to remediate the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers outside of what is already required as a result of the Weyerhaeuser litigation. A moderately low risk means that although it is difficult to predict the outcome because there are good arguments on both sides, the court would be more likely than not to dismiss a claim that the Crown has a legal obligation to effect the remediation.

The level of risk would increase significantly were the Crown to look to the owners or previous owners to undertake delineation or remediation work on the broader Dryden Industrial Site or to do further work on the smaller Mercury Waste Disposal Site portion, as the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario is likely to apply to create further and larger financial obligations for Ontario.

As the Ministry of the Environment and Climate Change (MOECC) moves forward with an assessment of the delineation and remediation options the Crown should be cognizant that, while the Statement itself does not raise any concerns in relation to negligence, there is an underlying risk that in the event the Crown does not meet the commitments made in the Statement that it, together with the Crown's long involvement in the matter, could be used to form an assertion of negligence.

Honour of the Crown

Our opinion is that there is a moderately low risk that the Statement engages the honour of the Crown in a manner that gives rise to a legal obligation to pay for the remediation costs related to both the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers. This means that there is a moderately low risk that if the government were to proceed in a manner different to the commitment made in the Statement, a court would, if asked, declare that the Crown had a legal obligation to remediate, and that the change in government direction amounted to breach of the honour of the Crown and of that legal obligation.

Our analysis in this area is limited by the lack of jurisprudence, but we are able to draw on a number of contextual factors that point to how a court might approach the problem.

1. Factors that may mitigate risk

The honour of the Crown is always at stake in dealings with Aboriginal peoples, but that does not mean the doctrine is always engaged in a legal sense. Under the law as it currently stands, the honour of the Crown does not add legal force to political commitments – rather it provides a standard against which to assess the Crown's satisfaction of already existing constitutional commitments. We are not aware of legal authority that has found that political commitments such as those contained in the Statement have a sufficient degree of formality or solemnity to engage the honour of the Crown. In general the courts have been cautious to avoid giving legal force to commitments that would traditionally be seen as political in nature.

The following additional factors specific to the present commitment also suggest a lower than moderate risk. The first factor is that the government did not indicate expressly or implicitly that it would be legally bound, from which it can reasonably be inferred that the government did not intend to be legally bound. Not only did the government choose not to confirm the commitment through legislation, executive order or a contract, the commitment lacked a degree of solemnity associated with commitments concerning constitutional interests. The commitment could have been made more formally than via a private meeting, a press release and a CBC radio interview.

A second factor is that the exercise of constitutional rights is not explicitly stated to be a purpose of the commitment, nor can this be reasonably inferred as the purpose. There is reference to "ensuring the First Nations' rights and interests are at the forefront of decision making around options and implementation", but that is concerned with the manner of remediation, and is not enough, in our view, to ground the commitment in constitutional rights.

The third factor is that at the same time that Ontario communicated the commitment to the First Nations, and although it stated that commitment in clear terms, Ontario also indicated that its commitment may be subject to other interests. We understand that the Premier told Chief Fobister on February 10th that a remediation plan would have to go to Treasury Board for approval. This implies that the commitment was conditional on a balancing exercise involving not only the First Nation's interests but other interests as well, including fiscal realities. Such balancing of interests between First Nation and general public interests is a factor that suggests that there is no legal obligation to remediate.

2. Factors that may increase risk

There are contextual factors that suggest the risk is greater than low. First, the case law is evolving and courts are, in general terms, expanding the reach and operation of the doctrine of the honour of the Crown. Second, satisfaction of the commitment in the Statement would likely affect the capacity of certain First Nations to exercise their constitutional rights, which is the subject matter generally engaged by the honour of the Crown. Third, the equities of the present situation, including the pollution of the river system and the effect of that pollution on the First Nations' fishing rights and general community well-being, would make a court more inclined to conclude that the honour of the Crown was engaged.

There are additional factors specific to the Statement that also move the risk from low to moderately low. First, the commitment was written in the Statement, spoken to the First Nations, and repeated to the public, in clear and definite terms. The Statement itself says that the Ministers are "completely committed…to creating and implementing a comprehensive remediation plan". Further, in a Toronto Star article on February 13, 2017, Chief Fobister is quoted as saying that the Premier told him in the Meeting that the river and mill site would be cleaned. We assume that this accurately reflects what the Premier said and that Chief Fobister would swear to that effect. Next, Minister Murray said in the Interview that Ontario was "absolutely" committed to funding the remediation.

Second, in the February 13, 2017, Toronto Star article, Chief Fobister referred to the commitment as "historic". This suggests that from the First Nation's perspective the commitment has a degree of importance that goes beyond the merely short-term and contingent.

Third, a court might consider whether the commitment, political or otherwise, was made in good faith. A court will be more comfortable concluding that the honour of the Crown was engaged where the facts show that the Crown made a commitment in bad faith. Evidence that the Crown did not take steps necessary to meet this commitment, could be taken to suggest the Crown never intended to meet the commitment and so had acted in bad faith.

3. Summary of risk

We expect that there are individual Superior Court judges who would likely declare that the Province breached the honour of the Crown if the commitment were not kept, particularly if a different position was taken by the current government in the absence of materially altered circumstances. But the ultimate question is what an appeal court would do when confronted with such a case, possibly in the context of a decision made by a different government. It remains our view that it is more likely than not that an appeal court would decline to declare that the honour of the Crown had been breached by a decision not to remediate.

The precedents that are available indicate that the legal doctrine of the honour of the Crown does not apply here. But we also have a body of law that is still developing, very sympathetic circumstances, and a judicial trend to develop Aboriginal law to respond to bad facts. For all these reasons we continue to assess the risk as moderately low, although we would place the risk within the upper end of that band.

Crown Ownership of the beds of the river system

The MNRF has the authority to manage public lands through the Public Lands Act. The MOECC has the statutory responsibility to determine the appropriate remediation options for the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers. The Statement alone, however, does not create any obligations on either of these Ministries to effect remediation. In the absence of an order issued by the MOECC or some other legal instrument, there is no legal responsibility on Ontario to remediate either the Dryden Industrial Site or contaminated sites within the rivers.

Impact of the 1985 Indemnity and the effect on Weyerhaeuser litigation

Should the Crown look to the current or previous owners to undertake delineation or remediation work on the Dryden Industrial Site, subject to the appeal referenced below, the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario is likely to apply to create a financial obligation for Ontario.

The 1985 Indemnity applies in respect of the presence of “any pollutant” on the Dryden Industrial Site as of 1979, and the discharge of any pollutants, including mercury, from the site. The application of the 1985 Indemnity to work required as a result of a 2011

Order issued by the MOECC to previous owners of the mercury waste disposal site portion of the broader site, Resolute and Weyerhaeuser, has been confirmed by the Superior Court of Ontario. Ontario has appealed this decision to the Court of Appeal. The appeal is scheduled to be heard on May 2nd and 3rd, 2017.

Domtar has now asserted that it benefits from the 1985 Indemnity such that Ontario is required to reimburse Domtar's costs of compliance with an order. The decision of the Ontario Superior Court in Weyerhaeuser would support this view. If Ontario disagrees litigation similar to the ongoing Weyerhaeuser litigation (currently before the Court of Appeal) would be required.

This means that if the Superior Court's judgment is upheld by the Court of Appeal (and subject to any further appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada) then Ontario will be liable to repay Resolute and Weyerhaeuser for costs they incur or have incurred as a result of the order. This would be the case as well for any future orders that might be issued to Resolute, Weyerhaeuser and Domtar or to any future owner of the Site. In light of equally good arguments on both sides, the outcome of the appeal is not reasonably predictable.

Negligence

It is unlikely that the statement would, by itself, give rise to civil liability under the law of either contract or negligence. However, there is an underlying risk that in the event the Crown does not meet the commitments made in the statement that it together with the Crown's long involvement in the matter could be used to form an assertion of negligence on the part of the Crown.

The law of negligence does not normally impose any affirmative duty on parties to take positive steps to protect possible plaintiffs from anticipated risks of harm. Duties to take positive action in the face of a known risk or danger are not free-standing; the mere fact that a person faces danger does not itself impose any kind of duty on those in a position to become involved. As a result the law of negligence would not ordinarily impose any positive duty on the Crown to take any action to mitigate that risk.

However, the situation is complicated by the fact that, as the responsible regulator, MOECC has been involved in the efforts to address the risk of mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows for decades. The courts have been clear that regulatory authorities may owe a duty of care in negligence to members of the public who are adversely affected by the regulator's activities. Claims based on alleged regulatory negligence are highly fact-specific and going forward the MOECC and other Ministries involved will need to carefully consider the applicable regulatory frameworks and the full history of the government's factual involvement in this matter, including, most notably, any interactions between government officials and the affected FN communities.

A claim for regulatory negligence could relate exclusively to MOECC's recent efforts to address mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows and may also incorporate issues related to the Crown's past conduct. However, it is clear that the recent commitments made by the Minister could be asserted as part of the contextual foundation for a duty of care on the part of MOECC. Canadian courts have been clear that representations made by responsible regulatory authorities, coupled with reasonable reliance on the part of affected members of the public, will be a highly significant feature of the proximity analysis. Depending on all of the surrounding facts, a court could construe the Ministers' Statement as evidence of either:

(a) a voluntary assumption by the Crown of a duty to take positive action to ensure the remediation of the Grassy Narrows mercury contamination on a going forward basis; or

(b) an acknowledgement of the Crown's broader involvement in the risk of harm resulting from the mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows.

Obviously, the precise manner that the Minister's commitment might be presented by an injured plaintiff will turn entirely on the surrounding circumstances and it is not possible to exhaustively assess the risks associated with the Statement in the abstract. However, we would point out that the legal risk that a court would recognize a duty of care against the Crown in this case may be aggravated by the fact that the affected First Nation communities are unusually vulnerable and dependent upon the Crown to take steps to protect their interests and, therefore, more likely to reasonably rely on the commitments made in respect of them and to them by the Minister.

RE: Mercury Contamination at the Dryden Industrial Site – Analysis of legal obligations to inform the considerations of liability for the purposes of the application of the Section 3260 "Liability for Contaminated Sites" of the Public Sector Accounting Board standards

You have asked us to update the opinion we provided dated March 8, 2017 (attached), concerning whether Ontario has a legal obligation to expend funds related to the delineation and remediation of mercury contamination within the Dryden Industrial Site, which includes a mercury waste disposal site owned by a numbered company as well as the Gordon Road Property and the mill portions of the site owned by Domtar Inc. (the "Mill site"), and at various sites within the English and Wabigoon rivers. We understand that you have requested this advice to assist the Provincial Controller in the Controller's application of the public sector accounting standards on accounting for and reporting liabilities associated with the remediation of contaminated sites.

This updated opinion adds the consideration of the following information that has come to our knowledge after the preparation of the March 8, 2017 opinion:

- statements made by Minister Murray on May 2, 2017, in the Legislative Assembly and repeated in a subsequent meeting between Ministers Murray and Zimmer

and other Ontario Representatives with Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations; and

- the owner of the Mill site, Domtar Inc., will be required to investigate the extent of mercury contamination at the Mill site and within leased portions of the Wabigoon River to determine whether the site is an ongoing source of mercury contamination through the issuance of an order under the Environmental Protection Act, R.S.O. 1990 c. 19 ("EPA") (the "EPA Order").

Background

During the 1960s and 1970s, a chlor-alkali plant in Dryden discharged approximately 10 metric tonnes of mercury into the Wabigoon River, affecting the English-Wabigoon River system. In 1970, this release was reduced by 99 percent, and in 1975 the plant was decommissioned. In 1977, Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations brought a lawsuit against the current and former property owners with respect to the contamination. A settlement to the litigation was reached in 1985 and was participated in by Canada and Ontario (the "1985 Settlement Agreement").

The English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act[1], gave effect to the 1985 Settlement Agreement and established the Mercury Disability Board. Canada enacted its own more limited enabling legislation.[2]. The 1985 Settlement Agreement also included for an indemnity granted by Ontario to a the 1985 owner of the site, Great Lakes Inc., and its immediate predecessor, Reed Ltd., in respect of the presence of "any pollutant" on the Dryden Industrial Site as of December 17, 1979, and the discharge of any of those pollutants, including mercury, from the site (the "1985 Indemnity").

Wastes from the decommissioning of the chlor-alkali plant were deposited in an on-site mercury waste disposal site, the ownership of which was subsequently transferred to a numbered company (the "Mercury Waste Disposal Site"). Natural attenuation of the mercury in the rivers through sediment deposition and movement, rather than active remediation, has been the remediation method adopted since the historic mercury discharges occurred. Ontario considered other remediation options in 1986 but decided, based on scientific, fiscal and socio-economic evidence available at the time, that more active remediation options were not viable.

While mercury levels in fish in parts of the English and Wabigoon Rivers have declined since the 1970s, fish sampling has shown that mercury levels in fish remain high and consumption advisories remain in effect in many parts of the rivers for both the general and sensitive populations. Recent ground water and river sediment testing have also shown high levels of mercury. In response, Ontario has committed to "addressing mercury contamination in the river [sic] by collaborating with the First Nations and other partners on solutions based on the best available science and research". Part of this commitment includes funding Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations to undertaken sediment sampling and related research within the English-Wabigoon River system. There is also a proposal to issue the EPA Order to Domtar Inc. to determine whether the Mill site is an ongoing source of mercury contamination.

Three other First Nation communities also fish and hunt within the English- Wabigoon River system: Eagle Lake First Nation, Wabigoon First Nation and the Wabauskang First Nation; and as a result may also be affected by contamination in the rivers.

Summary

The 1985 Indemnity and the Weyerhaeuser Litigation

In our view, based on the facts as we currently understand them, there is a high risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation to repay costs incurred by Domtar Inc. in respect of the remediation of the Dryden Industrial Site and sites within the leased areas of the Wabigoon River. We reach this conclusion because of the 2016 decision of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice in Weyerhaeuser v. Ontario (AG), which applied the 1985 Indemnity to a procedural order issued under the EPA to Weyerhaeuser Company Ltd ("Weyerhaeuser") and Resolute FP Canada Inc. ("Resolute") in 2011 (the "2011 Director's Order"). A high risk means that, while there are credible arguments to dismiss a challenge, the relevant court would very likely find against Ontario.

The level of risk has increased to high since the March 8, 2017 opinion because of the intention to issue the EPA Order to Domtar Inc. as the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario is likely to apply to create financial obligations for Ontario in respect of such work.

Honour of the Crown

In addition, our view is that there is a moderate risk that a court would find that Ontario has a legal obligation arising from the honour of the Crown to expend funds to remediate the English-Wabigoon River system generally, as well as the Dryden Industrial Site, including leased areas of the Wabigoon River. A moderate risk means that, in light of good arguments on each side, the outcome is not reasonably predictable.

Regulatory Negligence

We would also like to restate and expand upon our concerns with respect to the significant negligence risks inherent in the remediation approach that is being contemplated for the English- Wabigoon River system. The proposal as we understand it would have Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations as the principal actors in the remediation efforts in the river. The same concerns apply to the Mill site should the government return to its previous position of having Grassy Narrows First Narion lead that work. While these concerns do not create a current financial liability, the level of the Crown's liability would increase if there is a successful claim for regulatory negligence. A claim alleging regulatory negligence could relate to MOECC's recent efforts to address mercury contamination and may also incorporate issues related to the Crown's past conduct. Claims based on regulatory negligence are highly fact specific and consideration will need to be given to the applicable regulatory framework and the full history of government involvement including any interactions between government officials and the affected First Nation.

To the extent that the MOECC is seen to be abrogating its role as a regulatory authority by allowing Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations to take the lead in addressing environmental contamination, this may attract a regulatory negligence claim if the MOECC does not exercise its regulatory oversight in its usual way and if the contamination is not adequately addressed. Further, should those remediation efforts not result in a satisfactory remediation of the mercury contamination, there is a significant risk that Ontario will be liable in negligence for future harms resulting from that contamination. Therefore, while Ontario has committed repeatedly to an active role for both First Nations in the remediation work it will be advisable to ensure that their role does not amount to an abdication of Ontario's regulatory responsibilities.

While a relatively strong argument may be made that the 1985 Settlement Agreement and the English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act extinguished the First Nations' rights to all damages, even under a head of action for "Regulatory Negligence", Grassy Narrows and Wabaseemoong First Nations could reasonably argue that the settlement was not intended to apply to any negligent conduct occurring after the settlement was reached. In so far as post settlement discharges from the Dryden Industrial Site are concerned, the settlement does not release Ontario or the then or subsequent owners of the land in relation to new omissions or commissions that created new damages or which increased the pollution level of the river system. Early identification of issues, regular contact, and appropriate regulatory oversight of those effecting the remediation may assist in mitigating some of the risk. The settlement would also not preclude claims being made by the Eagle Lake First Nation, Wabigoon First Nation or the Wabauskang First Nation.

And finally, Grassy Narrows First Nation has asserted that at the time of the settlement it was not aware of the establishment of the mercury waste disposal site within the Dryden Industrial Site. Either Grassy Narrows or Wabaseemoong Independent Nations could assert this fact in an attempt to attack the legality of the 1985 Settlement Agreement including the extinguishment of future claims. This is an issue that would have to be further assessed if asserted by the First Nations.

Discussion

This following analysis considers:

- the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario, as it has been interpreted by the courts in the Weyerhaeuser litigation;

- the honour of the Crown and its relationship to: the Premier's meeting with Chief Fobister on February 10, 2017 (the February Meeting); the public statement (the Statement) issued jointly by the Minister of Indigenous Relations and Reconciliation (Minister Zimmer) and the Minister of the Environment and Climate Change (Minister Murray) on February 13, 2017; the radio interview given on February 14, 2017 by Ministers of the Crown (the Interview); Minister Murray's statements to the Legislative Assembly on May 2, 2017; and statements made by Ontario's representatives at the meeting with Chief Fobister on May 2, 2017 (the May Meeting);

- Ontario's ownership of the beds of the English and Wabigoon rivers; and

- the law of contract and the law of negligence.

Impact of the 1985 Indemnity and the effect on the Weyerhaeuser litigation

Subsequent to our March 8, 2017 opinion, MOECC has indicated an intention to require Domtar Inc. to investigate the extent of mercury contamination within the Mill site and the portions of the Wabigoon River leased by Domtar Inc. in accordance with the EPA Order. If contamination is found, additional orders requiring the mercury contamination to be contained and remediated are probable. Subject to a successful appeal (referenced below), the 1985 Indemnity provided by Ontario will apply to create a financial obligation on Ontario for the costs of Domtar Inc. and others to comply with such requirements.

We reach this conclusion because the 2016 decision of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice in Weyerhaeuser v. Ontario (AG). There, the Court held that the 1985 Indemnity which provides for indemnification in respect of any claim, action or proceeding in respect of the presence of "any pollutant" on the Dryden Industrial Site as of December 17, 1979, and the discharge of any of those pollutants, including mercury, from the site, included the 2011 Director's Order issued to Weyerhaeuser and Resolute.

The decision was premised on the findings that Weyerhaeuser, as a successor in title to a portion of the Dryden Industrial Site, could benefit from the 1985 Indemnity. Domtar Inc. has indicated that it will assert that it is also such a beneficiary of the 1985 Indemnity and will seek reimbursement of its costs.

Ontario has appealed this Superior Court decision to the Court of Appeal. The appeal was heard on May 2 and 3, 2017. The decision has been reserved and is expected by November 3, 2017. For practical purposes, Ontario's obligation to Weyerhaeuser and Resolute is stayed pending the outcome of the appeal.

If the Superior Court's judgment is upheld by the Court of Appeal (and subject to any further appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada), Ontario is liable to repay Resolute and Weyerhaeuser for costs they incur or have incurred as a result of the 2011 Director's Order. This would be the case as well for the EPA Order proposed to be issued to Domtar Inc. and any future orders that might be issued to Resolute, Weyerhaeuser, Domtar Inc. or to any future owner of the Site.

Honour of the Crown

This part considers the application of the legal doctrine of the honour of the Crown to public and private statements made by the Premier and Ministers Murray and Zimmer in February 2017 and in May 2017. In the first set of statements, in February, Ontario committed publicly via media release and by radio interview, and in person directly to the First Nations' Chiefs, that it would remediate the Dryden Industrial Site and the English-Wabigoon River system. This commitment was repeated in the second set of statements on May 2, 2017 by Minister Murray in the Legislature, and by Ministers Murray and Zimmer in person directly to the First Nations' Chiefs.

We have considered these statements in light of the emerging and relatively undeveloped legal doctrine of the honour of the Crown. Our opinion is that there is a moderate risk that the government's statements made to Grassy Narrows and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations directly and indirectly engage the honour of the Crown in a manner that gives rise to a legal obligation to pay for the remediation costs related to both the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers. More specifically, there is a moderate risk that if the current or a subsequent government were to proceed in a manner that differs from the stated commitment to remediate, a court would, if asked, declare that the Crown had a legal obligation to remediate, and that the change in government direction amounted to breach of the honour of the Crown and of that legal obligation. We further note that to the extent a court concluded that a failure to carry out commitments jeopardized constitutional rights, a court might also be willing to grant injunctive relief against the Crown and order that it honour its commitments.

On the one hand, the legal precedents that are available have not applied the doctrine of the honour of the Crown to any set of facts similar to those present here. Traditional Western formal markers of legal commitment such as a contract, or the creation of a trust, are so far absent, and there is present uncertainty over the cost of remediation and hence the bounds of the Crown commitment. Based on the existing case law it also remains open to us to argue that the honour of the Crown does not itself give rise to obligations. On the other hand, the law relating to the honour of the Crown is still developing, Ontario has made repeated public and private commitments to Grassy Narrows to remediate the river, there are very sympathetic circumstances, and there is a judicial trend to develop Aboriginal law principles expansively to respond to bad facts.

The ultimate question is what an appeal court would do when confronted with an assertion that the Province had breached the honour of the Crown if the commitment were not kept. Our view is that there is a moderate risk that an appeal court would declare that Ontario's commitments have engaged the honour of the Crown thereby creating an obligation to remediate, and that failure to do so, either by the current or a subsequent government, would represent a breach of the Crown's honour and that obligation.

As noted above, our analysis in this area is limited by the lack of jurisprudence directly on point, but we are able to draw the following contextual factors that point to how a court might approach the problem.

1. Factors that may mitigate risk

The honour of the Crown is always at stake in dealings with Aboriginal peoples, but that does not mean the doctrine is always engaged in a legal sense. Under the law as the courts have described it to date, the honour of the Crown does not add legal force to political commitments – rather, it provides a standard against which to assess the Crown's satisfaction of already existing commitments that have a constitutional character. In some respects, the issue may be framed in terms of whether the commitment was made on behalf of the Crown or merely the government as currently constituted. We are not aware of legal authority that has found that political commitments such as those contained in the Statement, and repeated since, have a sufficient degree of formality or solemnity to engage the honour of the Crown. In general the courts have been cautious to avoid giving legal force to commitments that would traditionally be seen as political in nature.

The following additional factors specific to the present commitment tend to lower the risk. The first factor is that the government did not indicate expressly that it would be legally bound, from which could reasonably be inferred that the government did not intend to be legally bound. The government has chosen not to confirm the commitment through legislation, executive order, contract, or the creation of a trust, in spite of direct requests by Grassy Narrows; moreover, the commitment lacked some of the solemnity associated with commitments concerning constitutional interests. The commitment could have been made more formally than via private meetings, a press release, a CBC radio interview, and answers to questions in the Legislative Assembly.

A second factor is that the exercise of constitutional rights is not explicitly stated to be a purpose of the commitment, nor can this be clearly inferred as the purpose. There is reference in the Statement to "ensuring the First Nations' rights and interests are at the forefront of decision making around options and implementation", but that is more concerned with the manner of remediation, and is likely not enough on its own, in our view, to ground the commitment in constitutional rights.

The third factor is that at the same time that Ontario first communicated the commitment to Grassy Narrows, and although it stated that commitment in clear terms, Ontario also indicated that its commitment may be subject to other interests. Specifically, we understand that the Premier told Chief Fobister at the February Meeting that a remediation plan would have to go to Treasury Board for approval. This implies that the commitment was conditional on a balancing exercise involving not only the First Nation's interests but other interests as well, including fiscal realities. Such balancing of interests between those of a First Nation and those of the general public is a factor that may suggest that there is no legal obligation to remediate.

At the May Meeting, Ministers Murray and Zimmer again referred to the need for a remediation plan to go to Treasury Board. On this occasion, however, they did not do so in a manner that clearly qualified the government's commitment to remediate.

2. Factors that increase risk

There are contextual factors that increase the risk. First, the case law is evolving and courts are, in general terms, expanding the reach and operation of the doctrine of the honour of the Crown. While there is no established legal principle that would apply to and govern these facts, courts have shown a willingness in this developing area of law to shape principles and to fashion results that accord with their underlying conception of fairness in relations between the Crown and Aboriginal peoples. Second, satisfaction of the commitment to remediate would likely affect the capacity of certain First Nations to exercise their constitutional rights, which is the subject matter generally engaged by the honour of the Crown. Third, the equities of the present situation, including the pollution of the river system and the effect of that pollution on the First Nations' treaty-protected fishing rights and general community well-being, would make a court more inclined to conclude that the honour of the Crown was engaged.

There are additional factors specific to the commitment that also in our view increase the risk from moderately low to moderate. First, the commitment was written in the Statement, spoken to the First Nations, repeated to the public, and stated in the Legislative Assembly, in clear and definite terms. The Statement itself says that the Ministers are "completely committed…to creating and implementing a comprehensive remediation plan". Further, in a Toronto Star article on February 13, 2017, Chief Fobister is quoted as saying that the Premier told him in the February Meeting that the river and mill site would be cleaned. We assume that this accurately reflects what the Premier said and that Chief Fobister would testify to that effect. Next, Minister Murray said in the Interview that Ontario was "absolutely" committed to funding the remediation. More recently, in the Legislative Assembly Minister Murray said "This government will fully fund and implement Dr. Rudd's recommendations. …the money is on its way to Grassy Narrows, as the bills come in. Mr. Speaker, the cost of this may well be far in excess of $84 million. As a matter of fact, I am guessing that this government's commitment to Grassy Narrows is going to exceed that amount of money."

Second, in the February 13, 2017, Toronto Star article, Chief Fobister referred to the commitment as "historic". This suggests that from the First Nation's perspective the commitment has a degree of importance that goes beyond the merely short-term and contingent.

Third, at the May Meeting, Minister Zimmer read to Grassy Narrows the statements that Minister Murray had made to the Legislative Assembly earlier that same day, and responded to the First Nation's complaint that the commitment was not reflected in the budget. Ontario's representatives explained that Ontario was not able to "book" remediation as a liability in government accounts until it had received remediation recommendations from the environmental scientist Dr. Rudd. Ontario said that it needed to "fill the gaps" before it could book a liability, which we believe would reasonably be understood as referring to the need to obtain clarity on projected costs – not whether Ontario would incur costs. Minister Murray spoke of processes that must be followed to ensure due diligence. In response to a request that money be put aside into a trust as in the 1985 settlement, Minister Murray said that a trust would be complicated and would take the parties away from the progress to date. In essence, at the May Meeting, Ontario said that it was fully committed to remediation, but that it could not yet put money aside in its internal processes until a plan for remediation was developed and a more precise figure for the cost of that remediation was determined. Ontario said it was committed to remediate; the only reason it has not yet put the money aside is that it does not yet know how much to put aside. We understand Ontario representatives at the meeting also made statements that could reasonably be interpreted as suggesting that Ontario was already subject to a legal obligation to remediate, under the EPA; that the discussion was not merely political but directed at the satisfaction of legal obligations.

Fourth, a court might consider whether the commitment, political or otherwise, was made in good faith. A court would be more comfortable concluding that the honour of the Crown was engaged and breached where the facts show that the Crown made a commitment in bad faith. Evidence that the Crown did not take steps necessary to meet this commitment, could be taken to suggest the Crown never intended to meet the commitment and so had acted in bad faith. The more often the commitment is repeated in clear terms, directly, by Ministers of the Crown and senior public servants, and in person-to-person meetings, the greater will be the reasonable expectation of Grassy Narrows that it will be met, and the less will be a court's patience with a failure to meet the commitment. Further, a court will be more likely to conclude that the commitment was made on behalf of the Crown rather than by the government as currently constituted.

For all these reasons above we assess the risk associated with the honour of the Crown as moderate.

Crown Ownership of the beds of the river system

The Ministry of Natural Resources and Forests (MNRF) has the authority to manage public lands through the Public Lands Act. The MOECC has the statutory responsibility to determine the appropriate remediation options for the Dryden Industrial Site and contaminated sites within the rivers. In the absence of an order issued by the MOECC to MNRF, some other legal instrument, or a legal obligation engaging the honour of the Crown, there is no legal responsibility on Ontario to remediate either the Dryden Industrial Site or contaminated sites within the rivers.

Law of Contract and Negligence

Crown Liability for Regulatory Negligence

The law of negligence does not normally impose any affirmative duty on parties to take positive steps to protect possible plaintiffs from anticipated risks of harm. Duties to take positive action in the face of a known risk or danger are not free-standing; the mere fact that a person faces danger does not itself impose any kind of duty on those in a position to become involved. As a result, the law of negligence would not ordinarily impose any positive duty on the Crown to take any action to mitigate that risk.

However, the situation is complicated by the fact that, as the responsible regulator, the MOECC has been involved in the efforts to address the risk of mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows for decades. The courts have been clear that regulatory authorities may owe a duty of care in negligence to members of the public who are adversely affected by the regulator's activities. . In determining whether a regulatory authority owes a duty of care to a member of the public, the court will consider:

- whether the harm suffered by the member of the public was reasonably foreseeable; and
- whether the member of the public was in a "close and direct relationship" with the regulatory authority (i.e., proximity). This proximity analysis will focus on (i) the applicable regulatory scheme and (ii) the interactions between the regulatory authority and the member of the public.

Claims based on alleged regulatory negligence are highly fact-specific and, going forward, the MOECC and other Ministries involved will need to carefully consider the applicable regulatory frameworks and the full history of the province's factual involvement in this matter, including, most notably, any interactions between government officials and the affected First Nations communities. A claim for regulatory negligence could relate exclusively to the MOECC's recent efforts to address mercury contamination at Grassy Narrows and may also incorporate issues related to the Crown's past conduct.

Given the recent events on this file, including the MOECC's review of the most recent proposal by Dr. Rudd, the consultant retained by Grassy Narrows First Nation to investigate the extent of mercury contamination in the English-Wabigoon River system and implement remedial measures, we would restate our concerns with respect to the significant regulatory negligence risks inherent in the remediation approach that is being contemplated for the English-Wabigoon River system: essentially having the Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations as the principal actors in the remediation efforts in the river system. The same concerns apply to the Mill site should the government return to its previous position of having Grassy Narrows First Nation lead that work as well. We have noted these concerns in the advice we provided in respect of the Statement, as well as in oral briefings and in related materials, notably the presentation prepared for the briefing of Minister Murray on March 30, 2017.

To the extent that the MOECC is seen to be abrogating its regulatory authority by allowing Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations to take the lead in addressing environmental contamination, which is a role customarily taken by the MOECC, in accordance with applicable legislation and employing the MOECC's significant resources and expertise, this may attract a regulatory negligence claim if the MOECC does not exercise its regulatory oversight in its usual way and if the contamination is not adequately addressed. Even if Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations are directly involved in the remediation efforts, Ontario could nevertheless be liable to them or to individual members of these First Nations for any negligence committed by the MOECC in regulating such efforts (of course, if the First Nations themselves acted negligently, it is possible that they could be liable for contributory negligence).

Further, should those remediation efforts not result in a satisfactory remediation of the mercury contamination, there is a significant risk that Ontario will be liable in negligence for future harms resulting from that contamination. This concern is heightened given the historic relationship between Grassy Narrows First Nation, Wabaseemoong Independent Nations and Ontario in the matter such that there is likely a sufficient proximity between the parties to raise a duty of care on the part of Ontario in how it proceeds with the remedial work. A sufficient proximity may also exist between Ontario and other stakeholders, which may include the property owners along the river systems, Domtar Inc., and the City of Dryden, as well as other users of the river system.

The following factors contribute to these risks:

- The matter has been ongoing for decades without a satisfactory resolution, despite remediation efforts led by Ontario in the 1980s.
- Ontario would be permitting Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations to undertake remedial work in relation to mercury contamination in place of the normally responsible parties, Domtar, former property owners and the Crown, despite Grassy Narrows Fist Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations not being responsible for the mercury contamination, and not being experienced parties in terms of conducting environmental remediation of this nature.
- We understand that the remedial work currently proposed by Grassy Narrows First Nation is likely insufficient and does not meet the MOECC's requirements. Further, Grassy Narrows' own scientists have acknowledged that they do not have experience managing such a large and complex project (acknowledging that there are recent efforts in place seeking to address these gaps).
- Stakeholders beyond Grassy Narrows First Nation, including Wabaseemoong Independent Nations, Domtar Inc., the City of Dryden, other property owners and the broader public have not been consulted on the proposed work.

- Domtar Inc. and the other former property owners, who may suffer economic and legal impacts if remediation is not effected properly, have not been given a significant opportunity to address the remediation proposals, most notably the proposal for the rivers.
- The actions taken to date by all parties have not been consistent with the MOECC's compliance policies in respect to environmental contamination nor the MOECC's usual operating practices.
- Statements of government representatives as discussed below.

Therefore, while Ontario has committed repeatedly to an active role for both First nations in the remediation work it will be advisable to ensure that their role does not amount to an abdication of Ontario's regulatory responsibilities. Early identification of issues, regular contact with those effecting the remediation, and appropriate regulatory oversight may assist in mitigating some of the risk. Counsel can assist in developing mitigation strategies.

Impact of the Statements by Government Representatives

It is unlikely that the statements by the Ministers and other representatives of the government, listed above, would, by themselves, give rise to civil liability under the law of either contract or negligence. However, there is an underlying risk that in the event the Crown does not meet the commitments made in the statements that the statements together with the Crown's long involvement in the matter could be used to form an assertion of negligence on the part of the Crown. It is clear that the recent commitments made by government representatives could be asserted as part of the contextual foundation for a duty of care on the part of the MOECC. Canadian courts have been clear that representations made by responsible regulatory authorities, coupled with reasonable reliance on the part of affected members of the public, will be a highly significant feature of the proximity analysis. Depending on all of the surrounding facts, a court could construe the statements as evidence of either:

(a) a voluntary assumption by the Crown of a duty to take positive action to ensure the remediation of the mercury contamination on a going forward basis; or

(b) an acknowledgement of the Crown's broader involvement in the risk of harm resulting from the mercury contamination.

The precise manner in which the statements might be presented by an injured plaintiff will turn entirely on the surrounding circumstances and it is not possible to exhaustively assess the risks associated with the statements in the abstract. However, we would point out that the legal risk that a court would recognize a duty of care against the Crown in this case may be aggravated by the fact that the affected First Nation communities are unusually vulnerable and dependent upon the Crown to take steps to protect their interests and, therefore, more likely to reasonably rely on the commitments made in respect of them and to them by the government.

Finally, we note that the Crown could potentially argue that any statements made by the Minister in the legislature are not admissible as evidence in a court proceeding because those statements are protected by parliamentary privilege.[3] However, parliamentary privilege would not apply to a statement made by the Minister in the legislature that was subsequently repeated by the Minister outside of the legislature.

Impact of the 1986 English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act

As many as five First Nation communities may be impacted by the mercury contamination of the English and Wabigoon river system: Grassy Narrows First Nations, Wabaseemoong Independent Nations, Eagle Lake First Nation, Wabigoon First Nation and Wabauskang First Nation. It is possible that Eagle Lake First Nation, Wabigoon First Nation and Wabauskang First Nation could bring claims in negligence and regulatory negligence, as set out above.

In so far as Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations are concerned, If either of these communities sought to bring an action against the Crown, the community would need to establish that its cause of action against the Crown was not abolished pursuant to the 1985 Settlement Agreement and s. 39 of the English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act which provides:

> 39. All existing and future rights of action of the Bands and of every past, existing or future member of the Bands, and the estates thereof, in respect of claims and causes of action which are the subject of the settlement are, in consideration of and pursuant to the settlement, abolished.

The Act specifically defines the “settlement” as a settlement of disputes relating to the discharge of certain pollutants into the English and Wabigoon and related river systems and the effects which such pollutants, “and the continuing but now diminished presence of methylmercury in the related ecosystems may have had and may continue to have upon…the social and economic circumstances and the health of present and future members of the Bands”.[4]

A relatively strong argument may be made that Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations extinguished their rights to all damages, even under a head of action for “Regulatory Negligence”, for claims arising from the contamination level of the River pre-1985 and as of the date of settlement.

[3] Capital Markets Technologies, Inc. v. Prince Edward Island, 2016 PESC 4 at paras. 32-36

[4] English and Wabigoon River Systems Mercury Contamination Settlement Agreement Act, s. 1, “settlement”.

However, Grassy Narrows First Nation and Wabaseemoong Independent Nations could reasonably argue that the settlement was not intended to apply to any possible future negligent conduct occurring after the settlement was reached. Thus, the communities could claim against Ontario and the companies for damages caused since 1985 through new omissions or commissions that created new damages or which increased the pollution level of the river system.

In so far as discharges from the Dryden Industrial Site, including the Mercury Waste Disposal Site, are concerned, the settlement does not release Ontario or the then or subsequent owners of the land from actions for damages arising from further discharges of mercury onto or into neighbouring treaty land or water.

Finally, it should be noted that in March 2016, the Chief of the Grassy Narrows First Nation wrote to Minister Murray alleging that the community had never been made aware at the time of the settlement of the existence of the Mercury Waste Disposal Site. This allegation would need to be further researched against the historical record in order to be assessed We are not aware if Wabaseemoong Independent Nations would make a similar allegation, nor whether either of the two First Nations would assert this fact in an attempt to attack the legality of the settlement agreement including the extinguishment of future claims. This is an issue that would have to be further assessed if asserted by the First Nations.

Hi Usman.

This should not be an issue. It would be good to know the proposed wording. I assume that the wording will reflect H1 as the interim admin service provider, to be confirmed by the Trustee (preferrably prior to March 31). Nadine

Hi Nadine – Hydro One is proposing some further changes to the TPA and Declaration. Specifically, they would like to have Hydro One explicitly named in the documents as the administrative service provider. KPMG thinks there is no control issue (see email chain below), but wanted to get your opinion, thanks…

Nadine, please see the attached mark-up of the first few pages of your summary. I have not been able to work through all of your table this morning, sorry. Jon has been involved so his earlier email hopefully gives you some sense of asymmetries. You'll see that the first few pages included a fair number of disconnects, so I am a bit concerned that the document does not fully reflect the anticipated terms of the documents. I will be tied up for several hours at this point, but if it is useful I will read the back of your document when I can this evening. I hope that's somewhat useful. Steve

BLAKES COMMENTS ADDED IN COMMENT BUBBLES (3/21/2017)

Draft Control Assessment of Affordability Fund Trust (Rev. Mar 20, 2017) for Inclusion in the Government's Reporting Entity

ISSUE

Would the Ministry of Energy's proposed Affordability Fund Trust be assessed as controlled under Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) standard on the Government Reporting Entity (PS 1300) and therefore be included in the Province's consolidated financial statements?

RECOMMENDATION

Conclusion outstanding pending confirmation of accuracy of extracts/references in Appendix 1.

[Elements of] the Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement have been assessed by OPCD as aligned with both OPCD's One-Time Guidance on Transfers as well as OPCD's Trust Guidance document, both of which are attached as Appendices to this analysis. Both of these documents have been reviewed and concurred to with the Office of the Auditor General in the past and have been important references in ensuring that [the public interest will continue to be served through the establishment and administration of the Affordability Fund Trust.][UNSURE WHY THIS IS HERE]

BACKGROUND

The Ministry of Energy plans to transfer $100M to a recently formed, limited purpose Trust in relation to a new Affordability Fund for the purpose of providing energy efficiency measures to electricity customers who do not qualify for existing low income conservation programs (e.g. the existing Home Assistance Program (HAP), delivered by LDCs under the Conservation First Framework) [and who have difficulty paying their electricity bills] [THIS DOES NOT STRICTLY APPEAR ANYWHERE IN THE DOCUMENTS].

The Affordability Fund would be available for distributions to beneficiaries, to be identified based on recommendations from LDCs based on factors listed in the Declaration of Trust [and could include customers in frequent arrears or facing disconnection. Priority would be given to homes primarily heated by electricity.] [THIS DOES NOT STRICTLY APPEAR ANYWHERE IN THE DOCUMENTS]

In order to provide funding to the Trust, the Ministry of Energy plans to enter in a Transfer Payment Agreement (TPA) with the Trustee of the Trust (Computershare). Computershare will shortly thereafter be replaced by an independent Board of Trustees, to be appointed based on the advice of an independent Advisory Committee. The Ministry of Energy anticipates entering into TPA with Computershare and flowing the approved funding prior to March 31st.

The Board of Trustees is expected to be comprised of:

- [six] residents of Ontario who have expressed that they are willing to act as members of the Board of Trustees and who, individually and collectively, satisfy the following criteria (collectively, the "Selection Factors"):
  a) each member demonstrates an understanding of the electricity sector including the electricity distribution sector;
  b) each member demonstrates an expertise in conservation and low income programs;

c) three of the identified individuals will be representatives from separate electricity distributors [not under the control of the Government of Ontario], two individuals will be representatives from separate social services agencies [not under the control of the Government of Ontario] and one individual member, who will be a non-voting member, will be an employee or representative of the Government of Ontario; and
d) it is expected that representation by the Government of Ontario will be non-controlling. [RED TO BE CONFIRMED. THIS COULD PRECLUDE H1 FROM BEING ON THE BOARD?]

The Board of Trustees, once selected is expected to include 6 persons (five voting and one non-voting) of individuals from among those individuals who have been recommended for appointment to the Board of Trustees by the Advisory Committee. [REDUNDANT GIVEN ABOVE?]

The Trustees will have the discretion to hire Hydro One or other entities as service providers to assist with administering the Trust, using Administrative Services Agreements to clearly document services and expectations. The Trust would distribute funds to identified customers of LDCs across the province (including Hydro One) at the discretion of the Trustees, based primarily on the recommendations of the applicable LDCs.

The Declaration of Trust confers broad powers and discretion to the Trustee, to act in the best interest of the beneficiaries. The Trustees are expected to conduct themselves in good faith and give regard to guiding principles set out in the Declaration of Trust (and agreed by the Province in the TPA) in exercising their duties under the Trust Declaration and TPA in distributing funds to LDCs for the benefit of beneficiaries across the province, including Hydro One.

The Trust Declaration will be subject to further modification by the Trustee, subject to the Province's right under the TPA to consent, not to be unreasonably withheld The input and involvement of LDCs across the province is anticipated and integral to the success of the Trust in meeting its purpose. The Principles, which the Trustee is required to consider in the exercise of its discretion, will be set out in both the Trust Declaration and the TPA.

In addition, a Permitted Delegation Annex forms part of the Declaration of Trust, which refers to an expectation that the Trust would rely on participating LDCs to assist with achieving the purpose of the Trust, including an expectation to (a) appoint, employ or retain Administrative Services Agents for the purpose of discharging its duties and obligations under the Declaration; and (b) enter into, perform, enforce and amend Administrative Services Agreements.

Without limiting the Trustee's discretion to negotiate and settle the terms and conditions of the above-mentioned Administrative Services Agreements, the Permitted Delegation Annex also outlines certain terms and conditions that are expected to be included in the administrative services agreements, recognizing that the ultimate agreements would be subject to the acceptance and agreement of the applicable Electricity Distributor counterparty. While the Annex appears quite specific in nature, it is subject to the Trustee's overall discretion. As noted, the Trustees are not bound to use the guidance.

Commented [A1]: But there is a suggestion that they would as referenced in the audit clause which states that the scope of the audit would include review/validation of processes and control related to LDCs.

There is also a requirement under the Declaration that any changes would only be possible if they are in agreement with the Principles.

CONTROL ANALYSIS

In accordance with PSAB, "the Government Reporting Entity should comprise the organizations that are controlled by the government" (PS 1300.07). PSAB defines control as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organizations activities" (PS 1300.08). Benefits may be financial or non-financial, for example, the government may require the organization to cooperate in pursuing the government's public policy objectives.

PSAB's "indicators of control" are the relevant guidance in determining the degree of control for inclusion of the Affordability Fund Trust in the Government Reporting Entity (GRE). In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between a government and an organization in addition to its legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. In addition to PS 1300, consideration is also given the Trust Guidance and One-Time Transfer Guidance developed by OPCD in conjunction with the Office of the Auditor General which are attached as Appendices.

There are a total of 11 PSAB prescribed control indicators that provide evidence of control: 4 persuasive indicators of control and 7 other control indicators. It is the preponderance of evidence that would be considered in assessing whether a government controls an organization.

The following governing documents were reviewed in support of the analysis of the Province's control over the Affordability Fund Trust:

1) Draft Trust Declaration (March 20 5:30 pm), including related schedules (Principles Annex, Delegations Annex)
2) Draft Transfer Payment Agreement (March 20 5:30 pm)
3) OPCD Trust Guidance
4) OPCD Guidance on One-Time Transfers

Appendix I shows the detailed analysis of the PSAB indicators of control. Based on this assessment and the preponderance of evidence, informed by a review of the wording in the draft Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement, there are a number of features of the proposed arrangements which may be pertinent in assessing whether, an overall basis, the Affordability Fund Trust might be controlled by the Province as at March 31, 2017.

APPENDIX I

Affordability Fund Trust
Indicators of Control Analysis
DRAFT

INDICATORS OF CONTROL	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXISTS?
Primary (i.e., more persuasive) indicators (CICA PS 1300.18):
1. Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	• Original Trustee (Computershare) is the governing body of the Trust until the Replacement Board of Trustees is selected. The Declaration describes the process expected to be used to establish the Replacement Board. The government will not control the Original Trustee, the Advisory Committee, or the appointment of the Replacement Board of Trustees.	X
2. Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	• The government will not have an on-going access to assets transferred to the Trust, and any future access will only be through protective clauses (termination/default for material breach). At the Final Distribution Date, any excess funds will be distributed to a non-controlled Residual Beneficiary in accordance with clause 3.3 of the Trust Declaration. • The government will not have any exposure to losses of the Trust. In addition, section 1.1 (interpretations) of the TPA includes the following: it is intended that the transfer of the Funds to the Recipient will be a transfer made to a "non-controlled trust" (as that term is given meaning in - applicable to the accounting rules and principles applicable to the Province as of the date of the Agreement), and so if a term or condition of the Agreement is determined to conflict with the requirements applicable to the Province recording the transfers to the Recipient of Funds contemplated hereunder as an expense incurred by the Province on the date of the transfer of Funds under the Agreement otherwise in connection with activities undertaken by the Province with such a "non-controlled trust", then such term or condition shall be given a meaning and shall have an effect insofar as it is possible to interpret such term or condition in a manner that eliminates such conflict while preserving the other provisions of the Agreement and furthering the Purpose.	X
3. Government holds the majority of the voting shares or a "golden share" that confers the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the	• Neither in the Trust Declaration or the TPA can the government unilaterally direct the financial and operating policies of the Trust. Any Trustee initiated changes to the Declaration or TPA would need to be consistent with the Principles Annex. • • The Trust Declaration and TPA do not conflict with the overall

Commented [A2]: Blakes

Note that clause 3.3 states that the Residual Beneficiaries will be identified by consulting with and having regard to the recommendations of the Ontario Energy Board.

Commented [A3]: Blakes

Changes to TPA: The TPA is silent on amendments to the TPA.

The TPA states in section 20.2 that the Trustee covenants that it shall not amend, restate or terminate the Declaration without the written consent of the Province, such consent not to be unreasonably withheld.

Changes to Trust Declaration:
Section 6.1 of the Trust Declaration states that, subject to the TPA, the Trustee shall have the power in its sole and absolute discretion to amend the Declaration [provided that no amendment shall conflict with the principles set forth in the Principles Annex or as to the scope or effect of the permitted delegations and activities of any Administrative Services Agent pursuant to the Permitted Delegations Annex.]

Section 6.1(e) permits the Trustee to add to or reasonably clarify the principles set forth in the Principles Annex.

Consider:
Consider stating "Any Trustee initiated changes to the Trust Declaration would need to be consistent with the Principles Annex, although the Trustee may amend the Trust Declaration to, among other things, add to or reasonably clarify the principles set forth in the Principles Annex."

organization	discretion of the Trustees in exercising their fiduciary duties on behalf of the beneficiaries. The 'Principles Annex' describes principles to be considered by the Trustees in applying their discretion in relation to administration of the Trust. The Annex clearly indicates that the Trustees shall only have regard to the principles but that they shall not be specifically bound by the listed principles. Furthermore, the declaration and TPA are subject to change. Under the Declaration of Trust, section 1.2 Definitions , "Declaration of Trust" means the declaration of trust made as of March [□], 2017, under which o the Affordability Fund Trust was established, as such declaration of trust may be amended, restated, supplemented or otherwise modified from time to time with the consent of the Province. • The Trust Declaration also includes a schedule which lists 'suggested' initial eligible measures for consideration by the Trustees, and elements for consideration in the Administrative Services Agreements that the Trust may eventually enter into with LDCs. • The Trust Declaration does not direct a specific governance structure, but rather includes the following reference under 2.3 Governance. The Recipient represents, warrants and covenants that it has, and will maintain, in writing for the period during which the Agreement is in effect: (a) decision-making mechanisms and procedures to enable the Recipient to hold, invest, manage, apply and distribute the Funds in accordance with the Declaration of Trust in furtherance of the Purpose; and (b) procedures to enable the preparation and delivery of all Reports required pursuant to Article 7.0	✓
4. Government has the unilateral power to dissolve the organization and thereby access its assets and become responsible for its obligations	Only after the Final Distribution Date or in the event of default will the government have any power or rights in relation to the remaining funds in the Trust, including the power to redirect distribution of remaining funds and seek remediation for any mis-used funds. SECTION 7 - TERMINATION 7.1 Duration Subject to sections 7.2 and 7.3, the Trust will continue in full force and effect so long as there are any Assets and until all of the debts, liabilities and obligations of the Trust have been paid and satisfied in full. 7.2 Termination and Distribution of Assets The Trustee shall terminate the Trust and wind up its affairs as soon as practicable after the Final Distribution Date. In connection with the termination of the Trust, the Trustee shall identify the Residual Beneficiaries and distribute or cause to be distributed the remaining Assets, in cash or in kind or partly in each, to the Residual Beneficiaries, in each case in accordance with section

Commented [A5]: Not mandatory (will AG have concerns with level of specificity)

Commented [A6]: Blakes

This definition and section reference is from the TPA, not the Trust Declaration.

Commented [A7]: XXX Mar 20 – no reference to timeliness or not unreasonably withholding (no proviso) see sec. 4.2

Commented [A8]: Blakes

Section 2.3 of the Declaration describes the measures specified in Schedule A as measures that "may initially be considered to be consistent with the Measures Factors (subject to change as contemplated under the Permitted Delegations Annex)".

Consider: Explaining the expectation that the Trustees identify eligible measures (as set out in section 2.1) and stating that Schedule A provides a list of measures which may initially be considered to be consistent with the Measures Factors (which are the factors specified in section 2.1 to identify eligible measures.)

Commented [A9]: Not mandatory (will AG have concerns with level of specificity)

Commented [A10]: Blakes

Consider: "and a Permitted Delegation Annex which identifies matters that it is expected would be addressed in Administrative Services Agreements that the Trust may choose to enter into with LDCs (without limiting the Trustee's discretion to negotiate and settle the terms and conditions of such agreements).

(for more consistency with language in the Permitted Delegation Annex).

Commented [A11]: Blakes

This is a reference to the TPA, not the Trust Declaration.

Section 11.2(c) of the TPA - This is less of a "remediation for mis-used funds" and more of a right of the Province, on specified event of defaults, to require that the trustees transfer to the Province assets in its possession or under its control that can reasonably be traced or attributed to the funds originally transferred by the Province to the trustee.

5. Provide significant input into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	In accordance with the Trust Declaration and the TPA, the government will not control the Original Trustee, and will not have a controlling interest in either the Advisory Committee nor the Replacement Trustee Board. The process Replacement of the Original Trustee is described in section 5.7 of the Trust Declaration which describes a logical process to select subsequent trustees but which does not result in a Trust that will be controlled by the government (as above). Although the Ministry of Energy provided input to the selection of the Advisory Committee with will help the Trustee to select the Replacement Trustees by nominating candidates based on the selection criteria, the Advisory Committee is not the governing body. As at March 31st, the Original Trustee is the governing body and although selection thereof may have been influenced by the government, the Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement have been drafted to reflect a non-controlling relationship. PSAS also includes the following guidance w.r.t. government involvement in appointing governing bodies: 20 For each indicator that applies in a particular circumstance, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. In weighing the evidence, it would be necessary to consider the indicators collectively as well as individually. For example, where an organization is governed by a publicly elected board, this is not necessarily, in and of itself, sufficient evidence to conclude that the government does not control the organization. Similarly, where a government appoints a majority of the members of the governing body of an organization, this is not necessarily, in and of itself, sufficient evidence that the government controls the organization In addition, section 1.1 (interpretations) of the TPA includes the following: it is intended that the transfer of the Funds to the Recipient will be a transfer made to a “non-controlled trust” (as that term is given meaning in • applicable to the accounting rules and principles applicable to the Province as of the date of the Agreement), and so if a term or condition of the Agreement is determined to conflict with the requirements applicable to the Province recording the transfers to the Recipient of Funds contemplated hereunder as an expense incurred by the Province on the date of the transfer of Funds under the Agreement otherwise in connection with activities undertaken by the Province with such a “non-controlled trust”, then such term or condition shall be given a meaning and shall have an effect insofar as it is possible to interpret such term or condition in a manner that eliminates such conflict while preserving the other provisions of the Agreement and furthering the Purpose. ACCOUNTING CONSIDERATIONS FOR GOVERNMENT-FUNDED TRUSTS

Purpose:

The purpose of this guidance is to explore accounting-related considerations related to government-funded trusts which are established by the government to fund a specific purpose or activity. This guidance deals specifically with the difference between controlled and non-controlled trusts, the introduction of accountability provisions which can now be reflected in trust agreements, and key timing considerations for trusts contemplated towards year-end. It is important that these factors be taken into account when establishing a trust, in order to achieve the intended fiscal impact and appropriate accountability over the use of public funds.

Introduction:

Trusts are usually established by way of trust declaration or trust agreement, and are one of several means by which the government can direct funding to support key policy initiatives. Simply stated, trustees hold title to property for the benefit of, and stand in a fiduciary relationship to the beneficiaries. Trustees are accountable to third parties (beneficiaries) for the use and disposition of trust assets and for the funds derived from those trust activities. The trust itself is not a separate legal entity. The trustees carry out the activities of the trust in the name of the trustees.

Generally, direct year-end transfers are the preferred alternative over trusts where the province wants to retain ultimate decision-making authority regarding amounts to be transferred to recipients. Direct transfers are more appropriate where the identity of eligible transfer payment recipients is known and the amounts to be transferred to each recipient can be or has been determined.

Year-end transfers to a trust might be considered where the province desires to delegate to third parties ultimate decision-making authority regarding allocation of amounts amongst eligible beneficiaries.

A trust must be valid for legal purposes in order to be recognized for accounting purposes. Key requirements for a trust to be valid include: an intention to create a trust ('certainty of intention'), certainty of subject-matter of the trust ("certainty of subject matter") and the objects of the trust must be certain ('certainty of objects"). There are generally two different types of trust, a trust in which the objects are the "beneficiaries" and trust in which the objects are a "purpose" (e.g. for charitable purposes). Where a trust is under serious consideration, it is imperative that ministries seek legal advice to ensure that the contemplated trust will be valid.

Trustees are obligated to follow the terms of the trust declaration or trust agreement which will usually detail the powers and duties of the trustees including the number of trustees and how decisions will be made by the trustees.

Controlled versus Non-Controlled Government-Funded Trusts

From an accounting perspective, it is important to distinguish whether the design and governance of a particular trust results in the trust being controlled by the Province for accounting purposes. Control stems from the nature of the relationship between the government and the trust. Financial and operating policies are principles that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control.

The means by which a trust is established, the government's representation among the trustees, the government's involvement in the trust's governance processes and ability to impact trustee discretion in decision-making are but some of the factors to be considered in assessing whether a trust is 'controlled' or 'not controlled' by the government.

DRAFT

In establishing a trust, it is important to achieve the intended relationship between the province and the trust in order to achieve the intended fiscal impact.

Non-Controlled Trusts:

Where trusts are not controlled by the Province, they are excluded from the government reporting entity. For non-controlled trusts, the following accounting would apply to trust funding:

- Where funds provided to the "trust" are unconditional, the Province would record a transfer payment expense for any transfers approved in the current period (and flowed by finalization of public accounts).

- Where funds provided to the "trust" are conditional (i.e. upon the trust completing some specific task or result), the Province would initially record funding to the trust as a prepaid expense until the conditions are met at which time the Province would record a transfer payment expense, with the corresponding credit to prepaid expense. This may occur over a number of fiscal years.

In determining whether a trust is controlled, there are a variety of ways that a government might be perceived to be governing the financial and operating policies of a trust. These include:
- Eliminating or significantly limiting the ability of the trustees to make future decisions
- Directing the financial and operating policies of the trust
- Overruling, modifying or vetoing the financial and operating policies established by the trust.

Specific factors that should be considered in establishing a non-controlled trust include:
- Government representation in the trustees (should be in a minority position), and non-government trustees should be nominated by non-government sources
- Government influence over day-to-day trust governance and trustee discretion to make decisions (e.g. selection of eligibility criteria, selection of recipients).
- degree of influence over how funds are disbursed (i.e. the Declaration of Trust can provide general guidelines but not be overly prescriptive)
- the government's power to unilaterally appoint or remove the majority of trustees
- the government's on-going access to the trust's assets, or right to direct decisions regarding the flow of those assets to specific beneficiaries
- the government's unilateral power to dissolve the trust, except under specified circumstances as stipulated by the trust agreement (i.e. corrective action)
- the government's ability to establish or amend the policies used by the trust to manage accounting, personnel, deployment of resources, etc.

In some cases, it may be advantageous for ministries to provide administrative support to trusts. In these cases it is important that the extent of such support is not so pervasive as to influence or direct the day-to-day financial or operating policies of the trust, otherwise the trust will be deemed controlled and will be subject to consolidation in the government reporting entity.

Controlled Trusts:

If the Province controls the trust (for example, through its power to appoint a majority of the trustees on the board of trustees), the Province would be deemed to have control of the trust, resulting in the trust being accounted for in the same manner as other organizations controlled by the province (i.e. on a consolidated basis). As a result, the Province's contribution to the trust would not be expensed when it is transferred, but rather over time as the funds are disbursed to trust beneficiaries.

DRAFT

Accountability Related Considerations:

The Auditor General has confirmed that the new accountability provisions developed for one-time transfers can also be applied to trusts without impacting the expense treatment of any transfers to non-controlled trusts.

These new accountability provisions will enable the government and the Legislature to:

- obtain assurance that a trust is spending public funds prudently and for the purposes intended and to take corrective action if it is not;
- ensure ministerial accountability to the Legislative Assembly for the trust's activities; and
- ensure that the province is able to take corrective action where warranted and as stipulated under terms of the trust agreement.

It should also be noted that the Auditor General's Act now allows the Province's Legislative Auditor to conduct special audits of any person or organization receiving transfers from the government, including trusts.

To enhance accountability controls over government transfers to non-controlled trusts, Ministries can consider incorporating some or all of the following accountability provisions as part of their trust agreement/declaration without impacting the accounting treatment of the trust.

The inclusion of any of these provisions should not result in a trust being assessed as 'controlled'. Note that the key determinant in identifying appropriate provisions for any individual trust is a ministry's assessment of the risk associated with a particular trust, as per the Transfer Payment Directive.

1. Description of intended use of trust funds;
    - specific purpose(s) for which the funds are to be used;
    - description of intended recipients and related eligibility criteria*; and,
    - the nature of eligible expenditures relevant to the transfers.

    *Note: avoid overly prescriptive eligibility criteria which would effectively eliminate or significantly limit the trustees' discretion to make funding decisions.

2. Requirement for information
    - Information to be provided by the trust at a future date (e.g. requirement for trustees to advise the government of trustee-developed performance criteria, and provide annual assessments against those criteria)

3. Report-back requirement for Public Accountability
    - information to be provided by the trust at a future date with respect to the stewardship and payment of transfer funds (e.g. audited financial statements, audited list of recipients and amounts funded).

4. Right to independent verification/audit
    - The Province reserves the right to audit any transfer payment recipients. The trust agreement should make reference to this fact.

5. Right to take corrective action
    - Where stipulated under the trust agreement, the Province reserves the right to re-direct unused funds where results of a trust assessment (where required by the trust agreement) indicate original purpose of the trust is not being achieved, or if there remain unused funds at the end of the trust term.
    - Province may also reserve the right to extend the term of the trust agreement, where funds remain at the end of the trust period.

To qualify for in-year expense treatment, the non-controlled trusts must satisfy the following:

DRAFT

- the decision to establish the trust must have been approved by Treasury Board/Management Board of Cabinet and ratified by Cabinet by March 31st;
- the ministry providing the transfer must have approved appropriations and spending authority by March 31st;
- Trustees must have been identified and signed the trust declaration or agreement to establish a valid trust by March 31st ;
- the trust must be set up and ready to receive funds, and a nominal amount transferred to the trust by March 31s;t ; and,
- the government should have communicated publicly (e.g. in the Budget document) the pending or final establishment of the trust.

In addition, all remaining funds beyond those initially transferred at March 31st should be transferred to the trust by June 30th.

Trusts
Questions and Answers on Trust Guidance

Question: Where a trust is announced in the Budget document, must the trust be established by March 31st, or could such a trust be established shortly thereafter without impacting the expensing of transfers to the trust in 2007-08?

Answer: A trust would have to be established prior to the end of a fiscal period in order to satisfy the recognition criteria for government transfers. If the intended recipient for a government transfer does not exist at March 31st, the province cannot record a payable owing to it under existing accounting standards.

Question*: Does the transfer of funds to a non-controlled trust need to occur by March 31st or before the date of Public Accounts finalization?*

Answer: Consistent with the new requirements for one-time transfers, as long as the trust is established by March 31st, the transfer is authorized and a reasonable estimate of the amount can be made, cash payments can be made after year-end.

Question: Can beneficiaries of a non-controlled trust include consolidated entities provided that the ultimate selection of recipients is at the discretion of the Trustees?

Answer: Any amounts provided to a trust which are in turn be provided to an organization inside the government reporting entity should not be expensed at the time of the transfer to the trust. Any amount that is flowed to a trust with the intention of subsequently flowing the funds to a consolidated entity should not be recorded as an expense to the government.

Question: Can a Ministry provide administrative support to a trust without compromising the non-controlled status of the trust?

Answer: The government can provide administrative support as long as the extent of government administrative support is not so pervasive so that the government is in substance establishing and managing the trust's policies in the areas of accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources. Where such administrative support is assessed as pervasive, it could impair the trust's non-controlled trust and the trust will be consolidated onto the province's financial statements.

Can the following clauses appear in a trust agreement for a non-controlled trust to ensure adequate accountability over public funds without impacting the expense treatment of such trusts?

Question*: Specific description of purpose of the trust (possibly including nominal allocation among various objectives)*
Answer: Yes.

Question: Can the trust agreement include a specific description of the intended groups of beneficiaries and detailed eligibility criteria.

Answer: Specificity should be applied cautiously, so as not to limit the discretion of the trustees in their subsequent grant making processes. For the trust to be considered 'not controlled' it should not be seen as 'establishing the trust's fundamental purpose and eliminating or significantly limiting the ability of the trust to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the trust.

DRAFT

Question: Can trustees stipulate that funding is to be provided to beneficiaries on a cost-sharing basis?
Answer: Yes.

Question: Can the trust agreement include a requirement for a trust to report back to the province on trustee-established performance criteria and results, audit of financial statements, audited recipients and amounts, confirmation that trustees communicated to beneficiaries the intended purpose of the funding, etc.
Answer: Yes.

Question*: Requirement for Trust to publicly post communications on existence, availability of funds, eligibility criteria, recipients and amounts granted to each recipient.*
Answer: Yes

Question: Inclusion of a 'suggested' drawdown schedule over a period of years, with discretion left to Trustees as to actual results.
Answer: The inclusion of a drawdown schedule is not suggested for one-time, up-front transfers.

Question: Trust agreement can suggest accountability provisions which might be attached by Trustees to beneficiary payments (e.g. specific purpose of funding, requirement for report-back, right to audit, corrective actions).
Answer: Yes

Question: Trust agreement to reserve the province's right to re-direct any unspent funds to specified parties (e.g. non-consolidated entities or another non-controlled trust) at the end of the trust term, or alternatively to extend the term of the trust where unspent funds remain.
Answer: Yes

Question*: Can the trust agreement include the requirement for evaluations of the trust at certain times (e.g. years 3, 7, 10 of the trust agreement), with the right for the government to decide either to terminate the trust (corrective action) based on the results of the assessment, or extend the trust beyond the initial term as per the agreement.*

Appendix III

ACCOUNTING TREATMENT FOR ONE-TIME TRANSFERS WITH ENHANCED ACCOUNTABILITY PROVISIONS

Purpose:

The purpose of this guidance is to identify the nature of the accountability provisions which may be associated with one-time transfer payments that qualify for immediate expense treatment in the current period.

Definition of One-time transfers:

One-time transfers are defined as lump-sum operating or capital transfers that

- are not advancing currently planned future transfer payments under an existing on-going program, or
- are not identified as being intended to be spent in specified future periods or over a specified period of time.

Background:

Transfer payments are a means by which the government works with third parties to deliver public services. Transfer payment recipients must be held responsible by the government to deliver the provincially-funded services and be accountable for the funds they receive. Consistent with the Transfer Payment Accountability Directive, August, 2007, a risk-based approach is to be followed in designing the appropriate accountability and reporting mechanisms for specific funding agreements.

The current PSAB Handbook Section 3410, Government Transfers requires that a government transfer should be recognized by a transferring government as an expense in the period the transfer is authorized and all eligibility criteria have been met by the recipient.

To recognize a liability and expense as at year-end:

- the government must create a valid expectation of the recipient by year-end, leaving the government little or no discretion to avoid but to settle its obligation;
- no significant, contingent actions should be outstanding which if unfulfilled by year end might cause the transfer not to occur.

It is understood that the intention of negotiating a transfer payment agreement following the government's commitment to the recipient is to work out the administrative details of the arrangement, not to change any key elements of the government's commitment. As such, any correspondence which indicates that funds will not be flowed until a TPA is signed should make clear that the nature of additional details to be negotiated is logistical and administrative in nature (bank account info, reporting requirements, etc.)

The government should not suggest or direct the recipients to use the funding for future periods.

DRAFT

To enhance accountability controls over one-time transfers accountability provisions one through five below are required for one-time transfers.

1. Description of intended use of one-time transfer funds;
   - specific purpose(s) for which the funds are to be used; and,
   - the nature of eligible expenditures relevant to the transfers.

2. Report-back requirement for Public Accountability
   - Periodic reporting on the use of transfer funds, service deliverables, outputs or outcomes achieved.

3. Right to independent verification/audit
   - at the discretion of the Province to verify/audit information submitted by the recipient is complete and accurate, and that funds were used for purposes intended.

4. Right to recover funds (corrective action)
   - If the funds were not used, or will not be used, for the intended purpose(s), specified services were not delivered, or intended outputs were not achieved, the Province has the right at a future date to recover funds transferred.

5. Requirement for information (this item optional)
   - information to be provided by the recipient at a future date with respect to the use of transfer funds, service deliverables, outputs or outcomes achieved.

To qualify for in-year expense treatment, the transfers must satisfy the following:

- be approved by Treasury Board / Management Board of Cabinet and then ratified by Cabinet by March 31st;
- the ministry providing the transfer must have approved appropriations and spending authority by March 31st;
- the recipients must be eligible to receive the grant by March 31st (i.e. eligibility criteria have been met prior to March 31st), and the intent to make the transfer payment must be communicated to the recipients by March 31st;
- In addition, funding details including accountability provisions must be communicated to the recipients, and the transfer payments must be made to the recipients prior to the finalization of the Public Accounts (currently June 30th);
- Where funds are flowed to recipients by March 31st, all eligibility criteria are assumed met for accounting purposes[1], and all amounts flowed are recorded as an expense, even where conditions might exist which remain unmet at March 31st.

[1] PS 3410, Government Transfers, states that "no matter how a transfer term is identified in legislation, regulations, by-laws or a transfer agreement (i.e., as an eligibility criterion or a stipulation), the crucial characteristic that distinguishes the substance of these two types of transfer terms is when they are required to be or are met by a recipient. If a term is required to be and is met before the transfer is provided, it is an eligibility criterion for the purposes of this Section. If a transfer term is met after the transfer is provided, it is a stipulation for the purposes of this Section".

SCHEDULE "C"
PROJECT

For the purposes of this Agreement, the "Project" is the distribution of the Funds in accordance with the Declaration of Trust.

It is intended the Project will be undertaken by the Recipient in furtherance of the Purpose and in accordance with the Declaration of Trust. In this regard, it is expected that the Recipient will undertake the Program having regard to the Budget and the Principles set forth in Annex A.

The following are the Provinces expectations regarding the circumstances in which the Recipient will begin to distribute any Funds to any Beneficiary.

1. The Original Trustee Replacement Date (as defined in the Declaration of Trust) will have occurred.
2. An administrative services agreement will have been entered into between the Recipient and an Administrative Services Agent providing for the administrative services necessary for the Recipient to perform its obligations herein and execute the Project.
3. Administrative procedures will have been developed and implemented under which Electricity Distributors (as defined in the Declaration of Trust) will be invited to assist with (a) the identification and selection of Primary Beneficiaries under the Declaration of Trust, (b) the determination of the amount of Funds to be distributed to particular Primary Beneficiaries, and (c) the distribution of Funds to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiaries (in each case substantially on the basis contemplated in the Permitted Delegations Annex).
4. The Recipient will have obtained commercial general liability insurance from insurers having a secure A.M. Best rating of B+ or greater, or the equivalent, that in the opinion of the Recipient a prudent person similar to the Recipient would maintain, and having an inclusive limit of not less than $2,000,000 per occurrence and providing for contractual liability coverage. If requested, the Recipient will provide the Province (for its information purposes) with copies of the certificates of insurance and policies for such insurance coverage.

The Province recognizes that the foregoing may involve the Recipient entering into agreements as may be the Recipient considers to be necessary or expedient, including any required amendment or amendment and restatement of the Declaration of Trust. Funds may be expended to pay the expenses of the Trustee in completing these matters. The Recipient will confirm to the Province once such matters have been completed.

5.7 Replacement of the Original Trustee

As soon as practicable and in any event on or prior to March 31, 2017, the Original Trustee shall appoint the Persons identified by the Trustee Replacement Annex to comprise the Advisory Committee contemplated therein (once constituted, the "Advisory Committee"). As soon as practicable thereafter, the Original Trustee shall request that the Advisory Committee make recommendations with respect to the composition of the "Board of Trustees", as contemplated by the Trustee Replacement Annex. The Trustee shall have no duty or obligation to investigate the basis for any of the Advisory Committee's recommendations and may rely on such recommendations without any duty of enquiry, supervision or oversight with respect to the activities and decision-making processes adopted by the Advisory Committee in its discretion, in full satisfaction of the Original Trustee's Standard of Care with respect to such matters hereunder. Except if the Original Trustee determines that the individuals recommended by the Advisory Committee to become members of such Board of Trustees are disqualified from so acting on the basis of manifest non-compliance with the "Selection Factors" set forth in the Trustee Replacement Annex, the Original Trustee shall appoint, as members of the Board of Trustees, the [six] (five voting and one non-voting) individuals recommended for appointment to the Board of Trustees by the Advisory Committee. Upon the appointment of such [six] individuals pursuant to this provision and their agreement to act as members of the Board of Trustees, the Original Trustee shall be deemed to have resigned and shall cease to be a trustee (such resignation occurring on the "Original Trustee Replacement Date").

Draft Control Assessment of Affordability Fund Trust (Rev. Mar 20, 2017)
for Inclusion in the Government's Reporting Entity

ISSUE

BLAKES COMMENTS ADDED IN COMMENT BUBBLES
(3/21/2017

Would the Ministry of Energy's proposed Affordability Fund Trust be assessed as controlled under Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) standard on the Government Reporting Entity (PS 1300) and therefore be included in the Province's consolidated financial statements?

RECOMMENDATION

Conclusion outstanding pending confirmation of accuracy of extracts/references in Appendix 1.

[Elements of] the Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement have been assessed by OPCD as aligned with both OPCD's One-Time Guidance on Transfers as well as OPCD's Trust Guidance document, both of which are attached as Appendices to this analysis. Both of these documents have been reviewed and concurred to with the Office of the Auditor General in the past and have been important references in ensuring that [the public interest will continue to be served through the establishment and administration of the Affordability Fund Trust.][UNSURE WHY THIS IS HERE]

BACKGROUND

The Ministry of Energy plans to transfer $100M to a recently formed, limited purpose Trust in relation to a new Affordability Fund for the purpose of providing energy efficiency measures to electricity customers who do not qualify for existing low income conservation programs (e.g. the existing Home Assistance Program (HAP), delivered by LDCs under the Conservation First Framework) [and who have difficulty paying their electricity bills] [THIS DOES NOT STRICTLY APPEAR ANYWHERE IN THE DOCUMENTS].

The Affordability Fund would be available ~~to LDCs who would identify eligible customers in accordance with criteria established by the Trustees~~ for distributions to beneficiaries, to be identified based on recommendations from LDCs based on factors listed in the Declaration of Trust [and could include customers in frequent arrears or facing disconnection. Priority would be given to homes primarily heated by electricity.] [THIS DOES NOT STRICTLY APPEAR ANYWHERE IN THE DOCUMENTS]

In order to ~~establish~~provide funding to the ~~Fund~~Trust, the Ministry of Energy plans to enter in a ~~Trust Declaration and a~~ Transfer Payment Agreement (TPA) with ~~a non-controlled~~the Trustee of the Trust (Computershare) ~~which~~. Computershare will shortly thereafter be replaced by an independent Board of Trustees, to be appointed based on the advice of an independent Advisory Committee. The Ministry of Energy anticipates entering into ~~the Trust Declaration and~~ TPA with Computershare and flowing the approved funding prior to March 31st.

The Board of Trustees is expected to be comprised of:

- [six] residents of Ontario who have expressed that they are willing to act as members of the Board of Trustees and who, individually and collectively, satisfy the following criteria (collectively, the "Selection Factors"):
  a) each member demonstrates an understanding of the electricity sector including the electricity distribution sector;

b) each member demonstrates an expertise in conservation and low income programs;
c) three of the identified individuals will be representatives from separate electricity distributors [not under the control of the Government of Ontario], two individuals will be representatives from separate social services agencies [not under the control of the Government of Ontario] and one individual member, who will be ~~anon~~a non-voting member, will be an employee or representative of the Government of Ontario; and
d) it is expected that representation by the Government of Ontario will be non-controlling. [RED TO BE CONFIRMED. THIS COULD PRECLUDE H1 FROM BEING ON THE BOARD?]

The Board of Trustees, once selected is expected to include 6 persons (five voting and one non-voting) of individuals from among those individuals who have been recommended for appointment to the Board of Trustees by the Advisory Committee. [REDUNDANT GIVEN ABOVE?]

The Trustees will have the discretion to hire Hydro One or other entities as service providers to assist with administering the ~~Fund~~Trust, using Administrative Services Agreements to clearly document services and expectations. The Trust would distribute funds to identified customers of LDCs across the province (including Hydro One) at the discretion of the Trustees, based primarily on the recommendations of the applicable LDCs.

The ~~draft TPA includes terms which allow for unfettered control by the Trust to operate~~Declaration of Trust confers broad powers and discretion to the Trustee, to act in the best interest of the beneficiaries~~, including making decisions on the administration and distribution of funds to LDCs across the province~~. The Trustees are expected to conduct themselves in good faith and give regard to guiding principles ~~established~~set out in the Declaration of Trust (and agreed by the Province in the TPA) in exercising their duties under the Trust Declaration and TPA in distributing funds to LDCs for the benefit of beneficiaries across the province, including Hydro One.

The Trust Declaration will be subject to further modification ~~based on agreement by both parties, but not unilaterally by either party.~~ by the Trustee, subject to the Province's right under the TPA to consent, not to be unreasonably withheld The input and involvement of LDCs across the province is anticipated and integral to the success of the Trust in meeting its purpose. The ~~non-compulsory Principles of the Fund will be clearly articulated~~Principles, which the Trustee is required to consider in the exercise of its discretion, will be set out in both the Trust Declaration and the TPA~~. Language in the documents will clearly reflect that the principles are not mandatory requirements~~.

In addition, a Permitted Delegation Annex ~~will be included~~forms part of the Declaration of Trust, which refers to an expectation ~~between the parties~~ that the Trust would ~~plan to~~ rely on participating LDCs to assist with achieving ~~its purpose, while maintaining unfettered discretion and power~~the purpose of the Trust, including an expectation to (a) appoint, employ or retain Administrative Services Agents for the purpose of discharging its duties and obligations under the Declaration; and (b) enter into, perform, enforce and amend Administrative Services Agreements.

Without limiting the Trustee's discretion to negotiate and settle the terms and conditions of the above-mentioned Administrative Services Agreements, the Permitted Delegation Annex also outlines certain terms and conditions that ~~the Trustees might consider for inclusion~~are expected to be included in the administrative services agreements, recognizing that the ultimate agreements would be subject to the acceptance and agreement of the applicable Electricity Distributor counterparty. While the Annex appears quite specific in nature, it is ~~non-mandatory and intended as guidance only which may be helpful as the Trust seeks to commence discussions with LDCs in the spirit of serving the interests of the primary~~ ~~beneficiaries~~subject to the Trustee's overall discretion. As noted, the Trustees are not bound to use the guidance.

CONTROL ANALYSIS

In accordance with PSAB, "the Government Reporting Entity should comprise the organizations that are controlled by the government" (PS 1300.07). PSAB defines control as "the power to govern the financial and operating policies of another organization with expected benefits or the risk of loss to the government from the other organizations activities" (PS 1300.08). Benefits may be financial or non-financial, for example, the government may require the organization to cooperate in pursuing the government's public policy objectives.

PSAB's "indicators of control" are the relevant guidance in determining the degree of control for inclusion of the Affordability Fund Trust in the Government Reporting Entity (GRE). In applying this guidance, it is necessary to determine the substance of the relationship between a government and an organization in addition to its legal form. All relevant aspects and implications of the relationship would be considered in determining whether or not the government controls the organization. In addition to PS 1300, consideration is also given the Trust Guidance and One-Time Transfer Guidance developed by OPCD in conjunction with the Office of the Auditor General which are attached as Appendices.

There are a total of 11 PSAB prescribed control indicators that provide evidence of control: 4 persuasive indicators of control and 7 other control indicators. It is the preponderance of evidence that would be considered in assessing whether a government controls an organization.

The following governing documents were reviewed in support of the analysis of the Province's control over the Affordability Fund Trust:

1) Draft Trust Declaration (March 20 5:30 pm), including related schedules (Principles Annex, Delegations Annex)
2) Draft Transfer Payment Agreement (March 20 5:30 pm)
3) OPCD Trust Guidance
4) OPCD Guidance on One-Time Transfers

Appendix I shows the detailed analysis of the PSAB indicators of control. Based on this assessment and the preponderance of evidence, informed by a review of the wording in the draft Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement, there are a number of features of the proposed arrangements which may be pertinent in assessing whether, an overall basis, the Affordability Fund Trust might be controlled by the Province as at March 31, 2017.

INDICATORS OF CONTROL	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXISTS?
Primary (i.e., more persuasive) indicators (CICA PS 1300.18):
1. Government has the power to unilaterally appoint or remove a majority of the members of the governing body of the organization	• Original Trustee (Computershare) is the governing body of the Trust until the Replacement Board of Trustees is selected. The Declaration describes the process expected to be used to establish the Replacement Board. The government will not control the Original Trustee, the Advisory Committee, or the appointment of the Replacement Board of Trustees.	X
2. Government has ongoing access to the assets of the organization, has the ability to direct the ongoing use of those assets, or has ongoing responsibility for losses	• The government will not have an on-going access to assets transferred to the Trust, and any future access will only be through protective clauses (termination/default for material breach). At the Final Distribution Date, any excess funds will be distributed to a non-controlled Residual Beneficiary in accordance with clause 3.3 of the Trust Declaration. • The government will not have any exposure to losses of the Trust. In addition, section 1.1 (interpretations) of the TPA includes the following: it is intended that the transfer of the Funds to the Recipient will be a transfer made to a "non-controlled trust" (as that term is given meaning in • applicable to the accounting rules and principles applicable to the Province as of the date of the Agreement), and so if a term or condition of the Agreement is determined to conflict with the requirements applicable to the Province recording the transfers to the Recipient of Funds contemplated hereunder as an expense incurred by the Province on the date of the transfer of Funds under the Agreement otherwise in connection with activities undertaken by the Province with such a "non-controlled trust", then such term or condition shall be given a meaning and shall have an effect insofar as it is possible to interpret such term or condition in a manner that eliminates such conflict while preserving the other provisions of the Agreement and furthering the Purpose.	X
3. Government holds the majority of the voting shares or a "golden share" that confers the power to govern the financial and operating policies of the	• Neither in the Trust Declaration or the TPA can the government unilaterally direct the financial and operating policies of the Trust. Any Trustee initiated changes to the Declaration or TPA would need to be consistent with the Principles Annex. • • The Trust Declaration and TPA do not ~~interfere~~conflict with the organization	~~unfettered~~overall discretion of the Trustees in exercising their fiduciary duties on behalf of the beneficiaries. The 'Principles Annex' describes~~ non-mandatory guiding~~ principles to be considered by the Trustees in applying their discretion in relation to administration of the Trust. The Annex clearly indicates that the Trustees shall only have regard to the principles but that they shall not be specifically bound by the listed principles. Furthermore, the declaration and TPA are subject to change. Under the Declaration of Trust, section 1.2 Definitions , "Declaration of Trust" means the declaration of trust made as of March [□], 2017, under which ○ the Affordability Fund Trust was established, as such declaration of trust may be amended, restated, supplemented or otherwise modified from time to time with the consent of the Province. • The Trust Declaration also includes a schedule which lists 'suggested' initial eligible measures for consideration by the Trustees, and elements for consideration in the Administrative Services Agreements that the Trust may ~~chose to~~eventually enter into with LDCs. • The Trust Declaration does not direct a specific governance structure, but rather includes the following reference under 2.3 Governance. The Recipient represents, warrants and covenants that it has, and will maintain, in writing for the period during which the Agreement is in effect: (a) decision-making mechanisms and procedures to enable the Recipient to hold, invest, manage, apply and distribute the Funds in accordance with the Declaration of Trust in furtherance of the Purpose; and (b) procedures to enable the preparation and delivery of all Reports required pursuant to Article 7.0	✓

4. Government has the unilateral power to dissolve the organization and thereby access its assets and become responsible for its obligations	Only after the Final Distribution Date or in the event of default will the government have any power or rights in relation to the remaining funds in the Trust, including the power to redirect distribution of remaining funds and seek remediation for any mis-used funds. SECTION 7 - TERMINATION 7.1 Duration Subject to sections 7.2 and 7.3, the Trust will continue in full force and effect so long as there are any Assets and until all of the debts, liabilities and obligations of the Trust have been paid and satisfied in full. 7.2 Termination and Distribution of Assets The Trustee shall terminate the Trust and wind up its affairs as soon as practicable after the Final Distribution Date. In connection with the termination of the Trust, the Trustee shall identify the Residual Beneficiaries and distribute or cause to be distributed the remaining Assets, in cash or in kind or partly in each, to the Residual Beneficiaries, in each case in accordance with section

INDICATORS OF CONTROL	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXISTS?
	3.3. Despite the foregoing, the Trust will only be terminated and wound up date after the Trustee, in its sole and absolute discretion, determines that all debts, liabilities and obligations of the Trust have been paid or otherwise adequately provided for and satisfied and upon receipt of such releases, indemnities and discharges as the Trustee, relying on the opinion of counsel, deems necessary for the protection of the Beneficiaries and for its own protection. 7.3 Distribution of Assets on Final Distribution Date If the Trust holds Assets on the Final Distribution Date, the Trustee shall pay or provide reserves for the payment, and otherwise shall satisfy, all debts, liabilities and obligations of the Trust and shall provide or arrange to provide such investigations, audits, releases, indemnities and discharges as the Trustee, relying on the opinion of counsel, deems necessary for the protection of the Beneficiaries and for its own protection. Thereafter, any remaining Assets shall be paid to the Residual Beneficiaries in accordance with section 3.3. Right to assets under default (material breach provisions only, and after notice period). 11EVENT OF DEFAULT, CORRECTIVE ACTION AND TERMINATION FOR DEFAULT 11.1 Events of Default. An Event of Default will occur if: (a) the Recipient fails to perform or observe any covenant in this Agreement and such failure has and continues to have a material adverse effect on the Province and remains unremedied during any Notice period applicable under section 11.2 after the earlier of (i) actual knowledge thereof by the Recipient, or (ii) receipt by the Recipient of Notice thereof from the Province; (b) any representation or warranty made by the Recipient in the Agreement shall prove to have been incorrect in any material respect when made or deemed made, and, if capable of remedy, continues to be incorrect in any material respect during any Notice period applicable under section 11.2 after the earlier to occur of (i) the actual knowledge thereof by the Recipient or (ii) receipt by the Recipient of Notice thereof from the Province; (c) it is [determined][manifestly demonstrated by the Province] that the Recipient has breached its Standard of Care (within the meaning given in and context of the Declaration of Trust) in discharging its material duties under the Declaration of Trust, with the result that all or a significant part of the Funds have not been or are not being applied in furtherance of the Purpose or are being applied in a manner that is directly contrary or without regard to the Purpose, and, if such breach is capable of remedy, it continues and remains unremedied during any Notice period applicable under section 11.2 after the earlier of (i) actual knowledge thereof by the Recipient, or (ii) receipt by the Recipient of Notice thereof from the Province; (d) an insolvency event shall have occurred and be continuing with respect to the Recipient. 11.2 Consequences of Events of Default and Corrective Action.	X

INDICATORS OF CONTROL	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXISTS?
	If an Event of Default occurs, the Province may, at any time, take one or more of the following actions: (a) provide the Recipient with Notice allowing the Recipient an opportunity to remedy the Event of Default during a specified Notice Period; No right to access assets following Final Date of Distribution: 3.3 Distributions to Residual Beneficiaries Prior to the Final Distribution Date, the Trustee shall identify the Residual Beneficiary, or if more than one the Residual Beneficiaries and their respective allocations, by consulting with and having regard to the recommendations of the Ontario Energy Board, based on [Identify criteria that will narrow the scope to charities to those having an energy/social focus]those charitable organizations which provide support services for Low Income Energy Assistance Program Emergency Financial Assistance (LEAP EFA) and the Ontario Electricity Support Program (OESP) or other charities that OEB may identify as relating to the Purpose. Following the Final Distribution Date, the Trustee shall, subject to compliance with section 7.3,7.3 and completion of a final audit, distribute all remaining Assets (including capital or income) to the Residual Beneficiaries, in each case in the amounts and to the extent determined by the Trustee in its discretion hereunder (having consulted with and having had regard the recommendations of the Ontario Energy Board as aforesaid) and to the exclusion of the other Beneficiaries. The government also cannot unilaterally extend the term of the agreement. Rather, the term of the Agreement can only be extended by further agreement between the Parties. 3.3 Extension of the Declaration of Trust. If the Province determines that an extension of the Declaration of Trust (beyond the "Final Distribution Date" and time for termination, each as specified or determined thereunder) is consistent with and in furtherance of the Purpose and the Province's original intentions and expectations in establishing the Project, the Province may request that the Recipient extend the Declaration of Trust to a date specified by the Province in a Notice (such date not to be later than •), whereupon the Recipient, so long as the Trustee does not have a reasonable basis to believe that such an extension would be inconsistent with the Purpose or weaken the protections intended for the benefit of the Trustee pursuant to the Declaration of Trust, will undertake such actions as it may consider to be necessary or appropriate to so extend the Declaration of Trust, including by amending the Declaration of Trust to provide for such an extension and to modify any other term or requirement as would be necessary or prudent to conform such term or requirement in light of such extension.
5. Provide significant input	In accordance with the Trust Declaration and the TPA, the

INDICATORS OF CONTROL	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXISTS?
into the appointment of members of the governing body of the organization by appointing a majority of those members from a list of nominees provided by others or being otherwise involved in the appointment or removal of a significant number of members	government will not control the Original Trustee, and will not have a controlling interest in either the Advisory Committee nor the Replacement Trustee Board. The process Replacement of the Original Trustee is described in section 5.7 of the Trust Declaration which describes a logical process to select subsequent trustees but which does not result in a Trust that will be controlled by the government (as above). Although the Ministry of Energy provided input to the selection of the Advisory Committee with will help the Trustee to select the Replacement Trustees by nominating candidates based on the selection criteria, the Advisory Committee is not the governing body. As at March 31st, the Original Trustee is the governing body and although selection thereof may have been influenced by the government, the Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement have been drafted to reflect a non-controlling relationship. PSAS also includes the following guidance w.r.t. government involvement in appointing governing bodies: 20 For each indicator that applies in a particular circumstance, the degree of government influence would determine its importance as evidence of control. In weighing the evidence, it would be necessary to consider the indicators collectively as well as individually. For example, where an organization is governed by a publicly elected board, this is not necessarily, in and of itself, sufficient evidence to conclude that the government does not control the organization. Similarly, where a government appoints a majority of the members of the governing body of an organization, this is not necessarily, in and of itself, sufficient evidence that the government controls the organization In addition, section 1.1 (interpretations) of the TPA includes the following: it is intended that the transfer of the Funds to the Recipient will be a transfer made to a “non-controlled trust” (as that term is given meaning in • applicable to the accounting rules and principles applicable to the Province as of the date of the Agreement), and so if a term or condition of the Agreement is determined to conflict with the requirements applicable to the Province recording the transfers to the Recipient of Funds contemplated hereunder as an expense incurred by the Province on the date of the transfer of Funds under the Agreement otherwise in connection with activities undertaken by the Province with such a “non-controlled trust”, then such term or condition shall be given a meaning and shall have an effect insofar as it is possible to interpret such term or condition in a manner that eliminates such conflict while preserving the other provisions of the Agreement and furthering the Purpose.	X
6. Appoint or remove the CEO or other key personnel	Right does not exist. N/A	X

INDICATORS OF CONTROL	EVIDENCE OF CONTROL	CONTROL EXISTS?
7. Establish or amend the mission or mandate of the organization	Province established the Trust and has provided Principles which help to guide the Trust.	✓
8. Approve the business plans or budgets for the organization and require amendments, either on a net or line-by-line basis	Right does not exist. No intention for province to manage or influence the Trust on a line by line basis.	X
9. Establish borrowing or investment limits or restrict the organization's investments	Trust Declaration references: (j) "Eligible Investments" means (i) a deposit receipt, note, certificate or instrument issued, guaranteed or endorsed by a bank listed in Schedule I to the Bank Act (Canada), which provides that the principal and any interest shall be fully paid no later than [one year] after the day the investment was made, or (ii) a deposit account at a bank listed in Schedule I to the Bank Act (Canada). 4.2 (a) Power to Own, Hold and Manage. Subject to section 4.2(d), the Trustee shall have the power to own, hold and manage the Assets in such manner as the Trustee, in its sole and absolute discretion, may consider appropriate or advisable. (b) Power to Invest in Eligible Investments. The Trustee shall have the power to invest the Assets only in Eligible Investments, and to change such Eligible Investments at any time and from time to time, all as the Trustee, in its sole and absolute discretion, may consider appropriate or advisable, but always having regard to the Trustee's expectations regarding the timing of payments to be made to the Beneficiaries hereunder. If an investment of Assets in Eligible Investments would not be authorized under the applicable trust laws of Ontario, the Trustee shall nevertheless be permitted to make an investment of the Assets in such Eligible Investments. The Trustee will have no liability for the diminution in the value of any investment in Eligible Investments made hereunder. Although some restrictions, given the need for liquidity for the funds and envisioned short term nature of the program, it is unlikely that the Trust would have contemplated investing the funds in any different types of instruments as designated in the Trust docs.	✓
10.Restrict the revenue-generating capacity of the organization, notably the sources of revenue	There are no revenue generating restrictions in the Trust documents; however, there are references indicating that the Funds are expected to be used for not for profit purposes. It should also be noted that the nature of a Trust is not to generate revenue or make a profit, but to fulfil a fiduciary duty on behalf of the beneficiaries. No explicit restriction mentioned in the Trust Declaration or TPA related to other activities of the trust; however, expectation that funds provided by the province will not be used for profitable purposes by the LDCs. 11. Establish or amend	NO UNILATERAL GOVT POWER TO MAKE CHANGES:

the policies that the organization uses to manage, such as those relating to accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources (Suggestions for Admin Services Agreements and Principles in Trust docs are not mandatory. Replacement Board of Trustees can initiate changes which can reasonably be anticipated to be accepted if not contradictory to the Principles. References to provinces procurement directive and meals, entertaining and hospitalitiy directive only state expectation that Trust's processes would align with the principles.)	Trustees would have power to consider change in the policies in the Trust Declaration and/or modify the TPA, subject to provincial approval. Declaration: 1.1 (y) "'Transfer Payment Agreement" means the transfer payment agreement dated as of March •, 2017 between the Trustee and Her Majesty the Queen in right of Ontario as represented by the Minister of Energy, as such agreement may be amended, restated, supplemented or otherwise modified by the further agreement of the parties thereto from time to time. 4.2Specifically Enumerated Powers The Trustee shall have the following specific powers and authorities: (c) Transfer Payment Agreement. The Trustee shall have the power to enter into, amend, supplement, modify and perform its obligation under the Transfer Payment Agreement. NO GOVT CONTROL OVER OPERATING OR FINANCIAL POLICIES j)Power to Pay Trustee's Fees Trustees have general regard to sorts of limitations as are set forth in the "Travel, Meal and Hospitality Expenses Directive of the Province" 5.8 Rules and Procedures of the Board of Trustees (d) Initial Requirements. As soon as practicable and in any event no later than one month following the Original Trustee Replacement Date, the Board of Trustees shall meet to take such decisions and actions as they deem necessary to ensure the proper management and administration of the Trust. The date (and location if in person) of the initial meeting shall be determined by a majority of the Board of Trustees. 4.2 The Trustee is expected to conduct its activities in a manner that complies in all material respects with the Transfer Payment Agreement, including to: (a) act prudently and in furtherance of the Purpose; (b) report annually the results of its activities for information purposes to the Province in connection with the Program;	X

TING CONSIDERATIONS FOR GOVERNMENT-FUNDED TRUSTS

Purpose:

The purpose of this guidance is to explore accounting-related considerations related to government-funded trusts which are established by the government to fund a specific purpose or activity. This guidance deals specifically with the difference between controlled and non-controlled trusts, the introduction of accountability provisions which can now be reflected in trust agreements, and key timing considerations for trusts contemplated towards year-end. It is important that these factors be taken into account when establishing a trust, in order to achieve the intended fiscal impact and appropriate accountability over the use of public funds.

Introduction:

Trusts are usually established by way of trust declaration or trust agreement, and are one of several means by which the government can direct funding to support key policy initiatives. Simply stated, trustees hold title to property for the benefit of, and stand in a fiduciary relationship to the beneficiaries. Trustees are accountable to third parties (beneficiaries) for the use and disposition of trust assets and for the funds derived from those trust activities. The trust itself is not a separate legal entity. The trustees carry out the activities of the trust in the name of the trustees.

Generally, direct year-end transfers are the preferred alternative over trusts where the province wants to retain ultimate decision-making authority regarding amounts to be transferred to recipients. Direct transfers are more appropriate where the identity of eligible transfer payment recipients is known and the amounts to be transferred to each recipient can be or has been determined.

Year-end transfers to a trust might be considered where the province desires to delegate to third parties ultimate decision-making authority regarding allocation of amounts amongst eligible beneficiaries.

A trust must be valid for legal purposes in order to be recognized for accounting purposes. Key requirements for a trust to be valid include: an intention to create a trust ('certainty of intention'), certainty of subject-matter of the trust ("certainty of subject matter") and the objects of the trust must be certain ('certainty of objects"). There are generally two different types of trust, a trust in which the objects are the "beneficiaries" and trust in which the objects are a "purpose" (e.g. for charitable purposes). Where a trust is under serious consideration, it is imperative that ministries seek legal advice to ensure that the contemplated trust will be valid.

Trustees are obligated to follow the terms of the trust declaration or trust agreement which will usually detail the powers and duties of the trustees including the number of trustees and how decisions will be made by the trustees.

Controlled versus Non-Controlled Government-Funded Trusts

From an accounting perspective, it is important to distinguish whether the design and governance of a particular trust results in the trust being controlled by the Province for accounting purposes. Control stems from the nature of the relationship between the government and the trust. Financial and operating policies are principles that determine how an organization conducts its activities. The ability to govern these policies is an important element of government control.

The means by which a trust is established, the government's representation among the trustees, the government's involvement in the trust's governance processes and ability to impact trustee discretion in decision-making are but some of the factors to be considered in assessing whether a trust is 'controlled' or 'not controlled' by the government.

In establishing a trust, it is important to achieve the intended relationship between the province and the trust in order to achieve the intended fiscal impact.

Non-Controlled Trusts:

Where trusts are not controlled by the Province, they are excluded from the government reporting entity. For non-controlled trusts, the following accounting would apply to trust funding:

- Where funds provided to the "trust" are unconditional, the Province would record a transfer payment expense for any transfers approved in the current period (and flowed by finalization of public accounts).

- Where funds provided to the "trust" are conditional (i.e. upon the trust completing some specific task or result), the Province would initially record funding to the trust as a prepaid expense until the conditions are met at which time the Province would record a transfer payment expense, with the corresponding credit to prepaid expense. This may occur over a number of fiscal years.

In determining whether a trust is controlled, there are a variety of ways that a government might be perceived to be governing the financial and operating policies of a trust. These include:

- Eliminating or significantly limiting the ability of the trustees to make future decisions
- Directing the financial and operating policies of the trust
- Overruling, modifying or vetoing the financial and operating policies established by the trust.

Specific factors that should be considered in establishing a non-controlled trust include:

- Government representation in the trustees (should be in a minority position), and non-government trustees should be nominated by non-government sources
- Government influence over day-to-day trust governance and trustee discretion to make decisions (e.g. selection of eligibility criteria, selection of recipients).
- degree of influence over how funds are disbursed (i.e. the Declaration of Trust can provide general guidelines but not be overly prescriptive)
- the government's power to unilaterally appoint or remove the majority of trustees
- the government's on-going access to the trust's assets, or right to direct decisions regarding the flow of those assets to specific beneficiaries
- the government's unilateral power to dissolve the trust, except under specified circumstances as stipulated by the trust agreement (i.e. corrective action)
- the government's ability to establish or amend the policies used by the trust to manage accounting, personnel, deployment of resources, etc.

In some cases, it may be advantageous for ministries to provide administrative support to trusts. In these cases it is important that the extent of such support is not so pervasive as to influence or direct the day-to-day financial or operating policies of the trust, otherwise the trust will be deemed controlled and will be subject to consolidation in the government reporting entity.

Controlled Trusts:

If the Province controls the trust (for example, through its power to appoint a majority of the trustees on the board of trustees), the Province would be deemed to have control of the trust, resulting in the trust being accounted for in the same manner as other organizations controlled by the province (i.e. on a consolidated basis). As a result, the Province's contribution to the trust would not be expensed when it is transferred, but rather over time as the funds are disbursed to trust beneficiaries.

Accountability Related Considerations:

The Auditor General has confirmed that the new accountability provisions developed for one-time transfers can also be applied to trusts without impacting the expense treatment of any transfers to non-controlled trusts.

These new accountability provisions will enable the government and the Legislature to:

- obtain assurance that a trust is spending public funds prudently and for the purposes intended and to take corrective action if it is not;

- ensure ministerial accountability to the Legislative Assembly for the trust's activities; and

- ensure that the province is able to take corrective action where warranted and as stipulated under terms of the trust agreement.

It should also be noted that the Auditor General's Act now allows the Province's Legislative Auditor to conduct special audits of any person or organization receiving transfers from the government, including trusts.

To enhance accountability controls over government transfers to non-controlled trusts, Ministries can consider incorporating some or all of the following accountability provisions as part of their trust agreement/declaration without impacting the accounting treatment of the trust.

The inclusion of any of these provisions should not result in a trust being assessed as 'controlled'. Note that the key determinant in identifying appropriate provisions for any individual trust is a ministry's assessment of the risk associated with a particular trust, as per the Transfer Payment Directive.

1. Description of intended use of trust funds;
   - specific purpose(s) for which the funds are to be used;
   - description of intended recipients and related eligibility criteria*; and,
   - the nature of eligible expenditures relevant to the transfers.

   *Note: avoid overly prescriptive eligibility criteria which would effectively eliminate or significantly limit the trustees' discretion to make funding decisions.

2. Requirement for information
   - Information to be provided by the trust at a future date (e.g. requirement for trustees to advise the government of trustee-developed performance criteria, and provide annual assessments against those criteria)

3. Report-back requirement for Public Accountability
   - information to be provided by the trust at a future date with respect to the stewardship and payment of transfer funds (e.g. audited financial statements, audited list of recipients and amounts funded).

4. Right to independent verification/audit
   - The Province reserves the right to audit any transfer payment recipients. The trust agreement should make reference to this fact.

5. Right to take corrective action
   - Where stipulated under the trust agreement, the Province reserves the right to re-direct unused funds where results of a trust assessment (where required by the trust agreement) indicate original purpose of the trust is not being achieved, or if there remain unused funds at the end of the trust term.

- Province may also reserve the right to extend the term of the trust agreement, where funds remain at the end of the trust period.

To qualify for in-year expense treatment, the non-controlled trusts must satisfy the following:

- the decision to establish the trust must have been approved by Treasury Board/Management Board of Cabinet and ratified by Cabinet by March 31st;
- the ministry providing the transfer must have approved appropriations and spending authority by March 31st;
- Trustees must have been identified and signed the trust declaration or agreement to establish a valid trust by March 31st ;
- the trust must be set up and ready to receive funds, and a nominal amount transferred to the trust by March 31s;t ; and,
- the government should have communicated publicly (e.g. in the Budget document) the pending or final establishment of the trust.

In addition, all remaining funds beyond those initially transferred at March 31st should be transferred to the trust by June 30th.

Trusts
Questions and Answers on Trust Guidance

Question: Where a trust is announced in the Budget document, must the trust be established by March 31st, or could such a trust be established shortly thereafter without impacting the expensing of transfers to the trust in 2007-08?

Answer: A trust would have to be established prior to the end of a fiscal period in order to satisfy the recognition criteria for government transfers. If the intended recipient for a government transfer does not exist at March 31st, the province cannot record a payable owing to it under existing accounting standards.

Question*: Does the transfer of funds to a non-controlled trust need to occur by March 31st or before the date of Public Accounts finalization?*

Answer: Consistent with the new requirements for one-time transfers, as long as the trust is established by March 31st, the transfer is authorized and a reasonable estimate of the amount can be made, cash payments can be made after year-end.

Question: Can beneficiaries of a non-controlled trust include consolidated entities provided that the ultimate selection of recipients is at the discretion of the Trustees?

Answer: Any amounts provided to a trust which are in turn be provided to an organization inside the government reporting entity should not be expensed at the time of the transfer to the trust. Any amount that is flowed to a trust with the intention of subsequently flowing the funds to a consolidated entity should not be recorded as an expense to the government.

Question: Can a Ministry provide administrative support to a trust without compromising the non-controlled status of the trust?

Answer: The government can provide administrative support as long as the extent of government administrative support is not so pervasive so that the government is in substance establishing and managing the trust's policies in the areas of accounting, personnel, compensation, collective bargaining or deployment of resources. Where such administrative support is assessed as pervasive, it could impair the trust's non-controlled trust and the trust will be consolidated onto the province's financial statements.

Can the following clauses appear in a trust agreement for a non-controlled trust to ensure adequate accountability over public funds without impacting the expense treatment of such trusts?

Question*: Specific description of purpose of the trust (possibly including nominal allocation among various objectives)*
Answer: Yes.

Question: Can the trust agreement include a specific description of the intended groups of beneficiaries and detailed eligibility criteria.

Answer: Specificity should be applied cautiously, so as not to limit the discretion of the trustees in their subsequent grant making processes. For the trust to be considered 'not controlled' it should not be seen as 'establishing the trust's fundamental purpose and eliminating or significantly limiting the ability of the trust to make future decisions by predetermining the financial and operating policies of the trust.

DRAFT

Question: Can trustees stipulate that funding is to be provided to beneficiaries on a cost-sharing basis?
Answer: Yes.

Question: Can the trust agreement include a requirement for a trust to report back to the province on trustee-established performance criteria and results, audit of financial statements, audited recipients and amounts, confirmation that trustees communicated to beneficiaries the intended purpose of the funding, etc.
Answer: Yes.

Question*: Requirement for Trust to publicly post communications on existence, availability of funds, eligibility criteria, recipients and amounts granted to each recipient.*
Answer: Yes

Question: Inclusion of a 'suggested' drawdown schedule over a period of years, with discretion left to Trustees as to actual results.
Answer: The inclusion of a drawdown schedule is not suggested for one-time, up-front transfers.

Question: Trust agreement can suggest accountability provisions which might be attached by Trustees to beneficiary payments (e.g. specific purpose of funding, requirement for report-back, right to audit, corrective actions).
Answer: Yes

Question: Trust agreement to reserve the province's right to re-direct any unspent funds to specified parties (e.g. non-consolidated entities or another non-controlled trust) at the end of the trust term, or alternatively to extend the term of the trust where unspent funds remain.
Answer: Yes

Question*: Can the trust agreement include the requirement for evaluations of the trust at certain times (e.g. years 3, 7, 10 of the trust agreement), with the right for the government to decide either to terminate the trust (corrective action) based on the results of the assessment, or extend the trust beyond the initial term as per the agreement.*
Answer: Yes.

Question: Trust agreement can require Trustees to request as part of the funding process that beneficiaries acknowledge receipt of government funding in their public communications on specific projects.
Answer: Yes.

Appendix III

ACCOUNTING TREATMENT FOR ONE-TIME TRANSFERS WITH ENHANCED ACCOUNTABILITY PROVISIONS

Purpose:

The purpose of this guidance is to identify the nature of the accountability provisions which may be associated with one-time transfer payments that qualify for immediate expense treatment in the current period.

Definition of One-time transfers:

One-time transfers are defined as lump-sum operating or capital transfers that

- are not advancing currently planned future transfer payments under an existing on-going program, or
- are not identified as being intended to be spent in specified future periods or over a specified period of time.

Background:

Transfer payments are a means by which the government works with third parties to deliver public services. Transfer payment recipients must be held responsible by the government to deliver the provincially-funded services and be accountable for the funds they receive. Consistent with the Transfer Payment Accountability Directive, August, 2007, a risk-based approach is to be followed in designing the appropriate accountability and reporting mechanisms for specific funding agreements.

The current PSAB Handbook Section 3410, Government Transfers requires that a government transfer should be recognized by a transferring government as an expense in the period the transfer is authorized and all eligibility criteria have been met by the recipient.

To recognize a liability and expense as at year-end:

- the government must create a valid expectation of the recipient by year-end, leaving the government little or no discretion to avoid but to settle its obligation;
- no significant, contingent actions should be outstanding which if unfulfilled by year end might cause the transfer not to occur.

It is understood that the intention of negotiating a transfer payment agreement following the government's commitment to the recipient is to work out the administrative details of the arrangement, not to change any key elements of the government's commitment. As such, any correspondence which indicates that funds will not be flowed until a TPA is signed should make clear that the nature of additional details to be negotiated is logistical and administrative in nature (bank account info, reporting requirements, etc.)

The government should not suggest or direct the recipients to use the funding for future periods.

To enhance accountability controls over one-time transfers accountability provisions one through five below are required for one-time transfers.

1. Description of intended use of one-time transfer funds;
   - specific purpose(s) for which the funds are to be used; and,
   - the nature of eligible expenditures relevant to the transfers.

2. Report-back requirement for Public Accountability
   - Periodic reporting on the use of transfer funds, service deliverables, outputs or outcomes achieved.

3. Right to independent verification/audit
   - at the discretion of the Province to verify/audit information submitted by the recipient is complete and accurate, and that funds were used for purposes intended.

4. Right to recover funds (corrective action)
   - If the funds were not used, or will not be used, for the intended purpose(s), specified services were not delivered, or intended outputs were not achieved, the Province has the right at a future date to recover funds transferred.

5. Requirement for information (this item optional)
   - information to be provided by the recipient at a future date with respect to the use of transfer funds, service deliverables, outputs or outcomes achieved.

To qualify for in-year expense treatment, the transfers must satisfy the following:

- be approved by Treasury Board / Management Board of Cabinet and then ratified by Cabinet by March 31st;
- the ministry providing the transfer must have approved appropriations and spending authority by March 31st;
- the recipients must be eligible to receive the grant by March 31st (i.e. eligibility criteria have been met prior to March 31st), and the intent to make the transfer payment must be communicated to the recipients by March 31st;

DRAFT

- In addition, funding details including accountability provisions must be communicated to the recipients, and the transfer payments must be made to the recipients prior to the finalization of the Public Accounts (currently June 30th);

- Where funds are flowed to recipients by March 31st, all eligibility criteria are assumed met for accounting purposes[1], and all amounts flowed are recorded as an expense, even where conditions might exist which remain unmet at March 31st.

DRAFT

[1] PS 3410, Government Transfers, states that "no matter how a transfer term is identified in legislation, regulations, by-laws or a transfer agreement (i.e., as an eligibility criterion or a stipulation), the crucial characteristic that distinguishes the substance of these two types of transfer terms is when they are required to be or are met by a recipient. If a term is required to be and is met before the transfer is provided, it is an eligibility criterion for the purposes of this Section. If a transfer term is met after the transfer is provided, it is a stipulation for the purposes of this Section".

SCHEDULE "C"
PROJECT

For the purposes of this Agreement, the "Project" is the distribution of the Funds in accordance with the Declaration of Trust.

It is intended the Project will be undertaken by the Recipient in furtherance of the Purpose and in accordance with the Declaration of Trust. In this regard, it is expected that the Recipient will undertake the Program having regard to the Budget and the Principles set forth in Annex A.

The following are the Provinces expectations regarding the circumstances in which the Recipient will begin to distribute any Funds to any Beneficiary.

1. The Original Trustee Replacement Date (as defined in the Declaration of Trust) will have occurred.
2. An administrative services agreement will have been entered into between the Recipient and an Administrative Services Agent providing for the administrative services necessary for the Recipient to perform its obligations herein and execute the Project.
3. Administrative procedures will have been developed and implemented under which Electricity Distributors (as defined in the Declaration of Trust) will be invited to assist with (a) the identification and selection of Primary Beneficiaries under the Declaration of Trust, (b) the determination of the amount of Funds to be distributed to particular Primary Beneficiaries, and (c) the distribution of Funds to or for the benefit of such Primary Beneficiaries (in each case substantially on the basis contemplated in the Permitted Delegations Annex).
4. The Recipient will have obtained commercial general liability insurance from insurers having a secure A.M. Best rating of B+ or greater, or the equivalent, that in the opinion of the Recipient a prudent person similar to the Recipient would maintain, and having an inclusive limit of not less than $2,000,000 per occurrence and providing for contractual liability coverage. If requested, the Recipient will provide the Province (for its information purposes) with copies of the certificates of insurance and policies for such insurance coverage.

The Province recognizes that the foregoing may involve the Recipient entering into agreements as may be the Recipient considers to be necessary or expedient, including any required amendment or amendment and restatement of the Declaration of Trust. Funds may be expended to pay the expenses of the Trustee in completing these matters. The Recipient will confirm to the Province once such matters have been completed.

5.7 Replacement of the Original Trustee

As soon as practicable and in any event on or prior to March 31, 2017, the Original Trustee shall appoint the Persons identified by the Trustee Replacement Annex to comprise the Advisory Committee contemplated therein (once constituted, the "Advisory Committee"). As soon as practicable thereafter, the Original Trustee shall request that the Advisory Committee make recommendations with respect to the composition of the "Board of Trustees", as contemplated by the Trustee Replacement Annex. The Trustee shall have no duty or obligation to investigate the basis for any of the Advisory Committee's recommendations and may rely on such recommendations without any duty of enquiry, supervision or oversight with respect to the activities and decision-making processes adopted by the Advisory Committee in its discretion, in full satisfaction of the Original Trustee's Standard of Care with respect to such matters hereunder. Except if the Original Trustee determines that the individuals recommended by the Advisory Committee to become members of such Board of Trustees are disqualified from so acting on the basis of manifest non-compliance with the "Selection Factors" set forth in the Trustee Replacement Annex, the Original Trustee shall appoint, as members of the Board of Trustees, the [six] (five voting and one non-voting) individuals recommended for appointment to the Board of Trustees by the Advisory Committee. Upon the appointment of such [six] individuals pursuant to this provision and their agreement to act as members of the Board of Trustees, the Original Trustee shall be deemed to have resigned and shall cease to be a trustee (such resignation occurring on the "Original Trustee Replacement Date").

BLAKES COMMENTS ADDED IN COMMENT BUBBLES (3/21/2017)

Draft Control Assessment of Affordability Fund Trust (Rev. Mar 20, 2017) for Inclusion in the Government's Reporting Entity

ISSUE

Would the Ministry of Energy's proposed Affordability Fund Trust be assessed as controlled under Public Sector Accounting Board (PSAB) standard on the Government Reporting Entity (PS 1300) and therefore be included in the Province's consolidated financial statements?

RECOMMENDATION

Conclusion outstanding pending confirmation of accuracy of extracts/references in Appendix 1.

Elements of the Trust Declaration and Transfer Payment Agreement have been assessed by OPCD as aligned with both OPCD's One-Time Guidance on Transfers as well as OPCD's Trust Guidance document, both of which are attached as Appendices to this analysis. Both of these documents have been reviewed and concurred to with the Office of the Auditor General in the past and have been important references in ensuring that the public interest will continue to be served through the establishment and administration of the Affordability Fund Trust.

BACKGROUND

The Ministry of Energy plans to transfer $100M to a Trust in relation to a new Affordability Fund for the purpose of providing energy efficiency measures to electricity customers who do not qualify for existing low income conservation programs (e.g. the existing Home Assistance Program (HAP), delivered by LDCs under the Conservation First Framework) and who have difficulty paying their electricity bills.

The Affordability Fund would be available to LDCs who would identify eligible customers in accordance with criteria established by the Trustees and could include customers in frequent arrears or facing disconnection. Priority would be given to homes primarily heated by electricity.

In order to establish the Fund, the Ministry of Energy plans to enter in a Trust Declaration and a Transfer Payment Agreement (TPA) with a non-controlled Trustee (Computershare) which will shortly thereafter be replaced by an independent Board of Trustees based on the advice of an independent Advisory Committee. The Ministry of Energy anticipates entering into the Trust Declaration and TPA with Computershare and flowing the approved funding prior to March 31st.

The Board is expected to be comprised of:

- [six] residents of Ontario who have expressed that they are willing to act as members of the Board of Trustees and who, individually and collectively, satisfy the following criteria (collectively, the "Selection Factors"):
