Of course people will make a decision based on all sorts of things

There will be a lot of change come Jan 1

All of that is about us continuing to make Ontario fairer and provide more opportunity for people

You can compare it to a mortgage

We've said it's not fair for people in this generation to pay for years of neglect to the energy sector

We've given people 25 per cent reduction because we've spread those costs over a longer time

But that's just not true

The AG has that opinion

The fact is that we brought in a panel of expert accountants and we are following what has been done for years

There are economists on both sides of this

There are economists who saying raising the minimum wage is necessary

People need to be able to look after themselves and their families

That's an overstatement - I respect both the FAO and the AG

We have thousands of businesses who are already paying more than 15 dollars an hour

A thriving economy needs infrastructure

People will benefit today and in the future

Thanks, Evan
