Michael,

It is through Online IESO registration that the Trust receives a unique ID and password to access their form for submission of carrying costs. For the time being is it through the IESO Portal Settlements Community that they access their form which is granted through their Online IESO registration. (This is changing and it will be through Online IESO that they will access this form shortly). However, they can request to participate in other markets like the Transmission Rights Market which the IESO would verify that they have an MP ID, banking information, signed participation agreement, contacts and request necessary prudential.

Hi Jeannette,

Can you assist with this? I assume it would be engaging in activities for which an entity would need to register as a market participant, but is there a guide or some other description of what can be done in the portal?

Michael. Thanks. I am unfortunately double booked for calls and meetings pretty much the whole day. However, if the full participation agreement is triggered only if the Trust intentionally engages in market activities, it would be helpful to know what could trigger that. Is there a background document on how the portal works so that we can understand the potential risk of tripping that provision?

Hi Les,

I understand you are off site today, but it would be good if you had 5 minutes for you and I to discuss this agreement.

This agreement needs to be completed in order for the Fair Hydro Trust to register as a program participant in Online IESO. The agreement and approach the IESO proposed is an approach which already differs from the IESO's standard approach. We proposed this to address the concern that was raised with having the Trust sign the participation agreement. The IESO understood that concern and proposed an alternative that would only require the participation agreement to become active if the Trust intentionally engages in an activity in the IESO-administered market.

The issue seems to come down to Torsys not wanting to have the Trust become bound by the participation agreement if the Trust engages in an activity that would have required execution of the participation agreement in the first place. Agreeing with IESO's approach seems very low risk since it is entirely within the Trust's control to not engage in market activities, and there is no reason for it to do so. The agreement is drafted so that the Trust would need to intentionally engage in this activity in order for the participation agreement to become active.

On the IESO side, this arrangement is important as it is an auditable control measure and as such is the basis for which we obtained the approval of our market entry team to this non-standard approach. It could take us a week or more to change this approach internally and there is no guarantee a change will be agreed to.

Torsys proposal of the remedy being to terminate the program agreement is not practical because IESO and Trust will continue to need to use Online IESO to effect settlements for Fair Hydro.

I'm hopeful we can take the pragmatic approach and move forward with the agreement as the IESO has proposed. Alternatively, we need a clear indication of the concern so we can try to address it within the framework of the proposed approach.

I am generally around today if you would like to discuss. 416-969-6023.

Glenn,

Having now seen the revised draft agreement, I can confirm that we are not agreeable to the standard form Participation Agreement applying as a consequence of breach under the Program Agreement and that, in our view, the appropriate consequence is that the Issuer loses access to the portal. Les Wong is expecting to hear from Michael Boll, but advises that he is in meetings out of the office today so they may not be able to connect until tomorrow.

Glenn - Please send the intended attachment. It was not included in your email this morning.

Though I will comment more fully once I see the revised draft, the work-around approach, as I discussed with you previously, contemplated using the side agreement in place of the standard form PA. We never agreed to the PA becoming triggered by anything under the side agreement for the very same reasons we determined not to use the PA in the first instance. Having the consequence of a breach under the side agreement be that the PA is triggered is inconsistent with the agreed-upon need for and use of the side agreement.

Jonathan -

See our proposed edits.

We have reverted to the previous draft whereby the issuer would be bound by the PA if it "intentionally" participates in the IESO-administered markets. This was the compromise/work-around approach we had initially proposed and which we got internal IESO approval on. The IESO is not agreeable to OPG's proposed change - Michael Boll I understand may call Les Wong about this later today. I would not think that this poses any real risks for OPG since the PA is only triggered if the issuer intentionally uses its access to Online IESO to participate in the market. Give me a call if you want to discuss further.

Hi Jonathan -

See proposed edits (clean and blackline version).

In answer to your questions:

- With regards to what information needs to be exchanged by IESO/Issuer via Online IESO under the MTSA - carrying cost will be submitted monthly for payment; the portal allows for a secured mechanism to submit costs that can be machine read and transferred to an invoice for payment.

- With regards to what confidential information Issuer would gain access to - it is a secured site and Issuer is only be able to access its own confidential information, i.e., banking info, address, submitted data, etc.

- With regards to whether other Online IESO participants will have access to any confidential information of the Issuer - as a secured site, other participants will not be able to access confidential information of the Issuer.
Please get back to me ASAP with any suggested changes. I understand that this needs to be completed and the Trust registered in Online IESO promptly in order to be able to complete the scheduled transfers.

Regards,
Glenn
