Jordan and Chuck -- apologies for the delay in sending this to you, but I didn't hear from the last of the reviewers in conservation until today.

The narrative follows the outline requested by the publisher as closely as we could manage -- so you might find it doesn't flow as well as it could. But they have requested similar information from each of the provinces in roughly the same order so there can be some comparison.

Some reviewers requested further review by others -- so some sections, on climate change and electrification, are still being looked at. But I didn't want to wait any longer to send it to you.

I am also going to send it to Katherine and Nik while you are reviewing.

We look forward to your comments. Would appreciate if you could provide them by mid-next week if possible (Wed.)?

The gas piece has been delayed -- Miriam indicated she would get me some info on it by tomorrow, but we expect it will be substantially shorter.

Thanks.
