Yes – that is all correct. Can you also include a line about "lay a foundation to effectively incorporate new and emerging technologies and prepare us for the electricity sector of tomorrow"

See the attached letter from the Minister as why.

About the market renewal comments:

Is there a single figure the Minister uses? I know I've seen the ministry say "save at least $200M per year" and I've also seen them use the high-end $5B number. Am I right that we want to stick with our $3.4B figure regardless?

And here's my proposed change to the theme description:

Supported by a compelling Market Renewal benefits case that estimates $3.4 billion in cost savings over ten years, the IESO is moving forward with stakeholders to fundamentally redesign Ontario`s electricity markets. This will address market inefficiencies, increase competition, foster innovation and help meet system needs at the lowest cost.

The original said: ...to design and implement a Single Schedule Market and Incremental Capacity Auction.
