Thanks for this. I would prefer not to make an exception to get him into the room. I find that most people get what they need from the viewing gallery. See you Monday.

Subject: Info for Monday's Tour with Justin Giovannetti

Nicholas,

Please find attached a draft of the presentation for Monday and a summary of articles by Justin Giovannetti. Our goal is to provide him with some greater insight into how the electricity system works in Ontario, who and what the IESO does, and actually try and build a stronger relationship with him. He's someone that is likely to write about electricity sector issues in the future, and putting a face to the organization can be helpful.

I don't think anything in the presentation will be new or surprising for you, and as you'll see, Justin has some limited experience writing about energy related items, with only one article focused on Ontario and it was about the Fair Hydro Plan. He used to be the Alberta provincial and municipal correspondent for the Globe. He did recently write about the Ring of Fire, so our work on that may come up, but Chuck and I will be prepared to answer those questions.

As we discussed today, I will try and use a break in between the presentation and the tour to provide you with some insight into the areas that we have discussed during the overview presentation.

Out of curiosity, what do you think the chances are of getting Justin into the control room? If it's going to be problematic, don't worry about it.

Let me know if you need anything and I'll flag anything further that comes up in the interim.

Cheers,

Jordan
