Upcoming Educational Programs for Not-for-Profit Boards

The Governance Centre of Excellence is pleased to offer the upcoming programs tailored for the not-for-profit sector.

Governance for the Experienced Not-for-Profit Director March 28, 2017 – Conference

As a member of a board, you understand your fiduciary duty and your duty of care, but what happens when a conflict arises? How should conflicts be managed? You understand the importance of conducting board and director evaluations - but what is the best practice in actually performing them?

By using active case analysis, the session will examine common governance issues with the goal of developing critical skills to allow participants to effectively manage them while distinguishing great directors from good directors.

Financial Literacy for Directors of Not-for-Profit Boards

June 9, 2017 – Course

Board members of not-for-profit organizations must have the keen ability to read and understand financial statements and the associated notes, as well as ask relevant questions that will probe management's decisions and estimates.

Facilitated by Terri McKinnon from PricewaterhouseCoopers, this workshop will provide participants with hands on experience and a thorough understanding of key elements of financial statements, accounting standards employed in recording transactions and areas of risk in financial statements.

Workshop participants will have the opportunity to work on several case studies specifically tailored for directors in the not-for-profit sector and interact with colleagues from the field.
