

Confidentiality – Effective Separation of Functions (ESAF)

- To ensure the operation of the market free from influence from specific confidential information obtained and generated by IESO's procurement and contract management activities
 - e.g. parameters bid into competitive processes for generation supply, conservation or ancillary services contracts
 - e.g. information provided by industrial firms as part of a procurement process related to their operations
 - e.g. information contained in bilateral contracts that is identified as being Confidential Information (such as contract prices and heat rates) and information generated by the administration of such contracts (such as payment particulars)