My only comment is I would be concerned if the announcement were to be pushed off any further than next week. We want to move on the consumer engagement and talking to utilities. We have tight timelines given need to wrap things in October.

Since this is a good news item for the OEB I was wondering if if we should advance the release and letter to 4pm what's new on Wednesday. That gives us the Thursday as a clear day for media. Thoughts?

The reference to written comments was to assure stakeholders that when we get to code changes there will be a formal comment process - as required, so I now see your point that it's projecting to far ahead. We will address.

mostly about avoiding FHP. It was more related to getting the broader announcement about charter out. I se John has set out the plan for Thursday and that works fine.
