ONTARIO'S HONOURS AND AWARDS

The province has established several official honours and awards, which are conferred by the Lieutenant Governor on the government's formal advice. Members of the public are invited to submit nominations for these honours and awards to respective advisory bodies.³

The Ontario Honours Advisory Council (the Council), established by Order in Council in 2015, considers nominations for the following honours and provides recommendations to the Government.

- The Ontario Medal for Good Citizenship, created in 1973, recognizes individuals for their exceptional long-term efforts and outstanding contributions to the well-being of their communities. The medal is considered the Province's second-highest civilian honour.
- The Ontario Medal for Police Bravery, created in 1975, recognizes police officers for individual acts of outstanding courage. Nominations must be made through a police service.
- The Ontario Medal for Firefighter Bravery, created in 1976, recognizes firefighters for individual acts of outstanding courage. Nominations must be made through a firefighting service.
- The Ontario Medal for Young Volunteers, created in 1998, recognizes the outstanding contributions of young volunteers in Ontario.

All of the above are non-monetary awards.

STRUCTURE OF THE COUNCIL

The Council is divided into two divisions for citizenship and bravery.

- The Citizenship Division is composed of up to nine members appointed by Cabinet, one of whom is designated vice-chair.
- The Bravery Division is composed of up to seven members appointed by Cabinet, one of whom is designated vice-chair.

The Cabinet appoints a Chair to oversee both divisions.

The Fire Marshal of Ontario and the Associate Chair of the Ontario Civilian Police Commission are ex-officio, non-voting members of the Bravery Division.⁴

Meetings

The Citizenship Division holds meetings twice a year to select medal recipients. The Bravery Division holds one annual meeting to select medal recipients.⁵

Financial Information

The Council is accountable to the Ministry of Heritage, Sport, Tourism and Culture Industries (the Ministry) which coordinates and delivers Ontario's honours and recognition programs.⁶ According to the Ministry's 2020-2021 Estimates Briefing Book, the recognition program has an operating expense of $1000.⁷

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

The most recent awards given in the above categories include

- the 2018 Ontario Medal for Good Citizenship which honoured eight distinguished individuals for their contributions to their communities and the province in an award ceremony held in March 2019;⁸
- the 2017 Ontario Medal for Firefighter Bravery and the 2017 Ontario Medal for Police Bravery which honoured one firefighter and five police officers, respectively, in an award ceremony held in November 2017;⁹ and
- the 2018 Ontario Medal for Young Volunteers which honoured ten young people across the province in April 2018.¹⁰

In June 2019, Global News reported that the Ministry had started a review of the honours and recognition program. According to the article, the review included the Ontario Medal for Police Bravery, Ontario Medal for Firefighter Bravery, Ontario Award for Paramedic Bravery, and the Lieutenant Governor's Community Volunteer Award for Students.¹¹

THE WITNESS

The witness, Richard Boyes, is seeking appointment as a part-time member.

According to the Office of the Premier, the witness, of Corunna, is a former Executive Director for the Ontario Association of Fire Chiefs. His community involvement includes serving as former Director and President of the Ontario
