To whom it may concern:

I am a TCM practitioner and an acupuncturist registered under CTCMPAO since 2013. A business should be regulated under law to protect the public's interest and health. If language is a barrier for some people trying to register with the College, we can find a way for them to do so. It's not repealing the TCM act and cancel the licenses for all the existed TCM practitioners and acupuncturists. This is a health care profession, it's very important to make sure the practitioners and acupuncturists are well educated and qualified. If everyone can do it without a license and regulations, who can guarantee the public's health and their best interest?
