

Who's your cultural March 1st?

It's the day of the year when the city's cultural scene is in full swing. From the opening of the new season at the New York City Opera to the first of the season at the New York City Ballet, the city's cultural scene is in full swing. Union Station is probably the last place you'd expect to find most people early in the morning on a long weekend. Yet so for cyclists looking to get out of town, who loaded their wheels onto the first level of one of CTV's special bike rail coaches bound for Niagara Falls, then took their seats on the second level for the two-hour ride.
