Stephan:

I've left the 4 sheets to update the package plus 2 copies of all the [redacted] and [redacted] comparisons on your desk. Let me know if you need anything more copies or a different price point comparison. I think it's prudent to note that the reduced amenities comparisons do not take into account that having a reduction in marketing and overall level of service would most likely reduce ridership relative to a fully marketed and premium level system. Also, there is ridership and fare revenue data for a [redacted] ticket which may provide an interesting comparison. If you would like I could prepare it without much difficulty.

Stephan:

Here is the updated workbook containing the [redacted] ticket comparisons. Also, I checked all the added formulae and noticed the [redacted] ticket with 20 minute headway sheet had a totaling error with the expenses. I've fixed that in this version as well and printed out the updated sheets so I can add them to the package I gave you this morning.

Thanks Thomas.

Could you print the set for me and leave it on my desk? Am in a meeting at the moment.

Thanks

Stef

Hello Stephan,

Here is the updated workbook including the 15$ ticket comparisons and the graphs of the operating profits/deficits after amortization. I put the after amortization graphs to the right of the data table so each sheet can fit onto a 11x17 paper when printed. Let me know if there is anything else you would like to add to the comparisons.
