I believe the 7 days paid leave will hurt and put a lot of small business's out of business. Where are they to find the money to pay the workers for a week and a half when they are really working themselves for a living nothing. Two days may be manageable. Seven is to many. Base it on the amount of profit for the business.

Phone and internet should be available to all if any. Or once again bases on income, however income that supports the middle class. The people that continue to work and really do not get much ahead, once again working to make a living. Time to get real.

Thank you for opportunity for my input, agreeable to the other suggestions.

Cathy

Sincerely,
