Odessa, Sept. 22.—We learn from our camp before Varna, that the Captain Pacha, after most of the houses, and a great part of the fortifications had been destroyed, has asked to leave the town unmolested. This proposal was rejected by Count Worowzow. Further accounts are impatiently expected. The news from Asia continues to be favourable, and the victorious progress of General Paskewitsch has exceeded the most sanguine expectations. After the departure of the Empress and Count Nesselrode, the official bulletins will no longer be published, but at St. Petersburgh. The diplomatic body is still there, and will return to St. Petersburgh, if His Majesty the Emperor should leave the head quarters.

Hamburgh, Oct. 18.—A letter from Frankfort says, that stafettes, received from Vienna, represented the present campaign of the Russians as completely at an end, and the Emperor as about to return to St. Petersburgh, Count Wittgenstein, it is said, is to supersede in his command, and Gen. Ugarow appointed to succeed him.

Jassy, Sept. 30.—Gen. Roth has appointed Kirsowa as the point of rendezvous for his corps. The unfavorable result of the combat of the 13th near Silistria, was the consequence of a panic, occasioned by the appearance of some Spahis in the rear of the Turkish troops. The operations against Silistria will probably commence after the arrival of reinforcements.

Bucharest, Sept. 28.—The inhabitants of Little Wallachia are still very uneasy, as the troops which were to reinforce General Geismar have received counter orders, and march towards Silistria. Gen. Geismar is, therefore, not able to contend with the Pacha of Widdin, and has taken up his quarters with his corps of 5,000 infantry, 1,000 cavalry, and about 20 pieces of cannon, in Crajova, in order to protect that town against a surprise, and has sent a battalion of infantry and two squadrons of light cavalry to occupy the heights of Syrjan in order to oppose the passage of the enemy over the Selyl. The corps of Prince Schebatow is following the army of the Danube, and it is believed that it has been resolved at head quarters, above all things to get possession of Silistria and Varna, in order to obtain by means of those two fortresses, a secure basis for the operations, and, in case of need, to cover the winter quarters of the army. For this purpose the corps of General Roth is to be reinforced, and the subsistence of the army be sent as far as possible from his place.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 18.—Arrest of Mr. Lawless.—By the Freeman's Journal of yesterday, which we have just received, we learn that Dublin was thrown into a state of very great excitement, by the arrest of Mr. Lawless. Mr. Lawless was taken into custody on a charge of sedition, by Mr. Farrell, under a warrant from Judge Burton. Mr. Lawless, accompanied by Mr. Shiel, Mr. Brady, Mr. Stanton, and others, attended the Police Office to the Judges' Chambers, where he gave bail himself in £500, and two sureties in a like sum, for his appearance at the next Assizes for the County Monaghan, and was then released from custody.

[And One Thousand Four Hundred and Thirty-four others.]

To which His Excellency was pleased to make the following REPLY.

Gentlemen,

I receive your Address with satisfaction; and I sincerely hope, that with your aid and exertions, we shall no longer hear of the political dissensions to which you allude; fully aware, that should they ever prevail in this Colony, whether they proceed from misconception, or from the pertinacity and selfish views of a few individuals, the interests of the people will inevitably be sacrificed, the beneficent intentions of our Sovereign frustrated, and His paternal care prove unavailing.

Accept my best thanks for your kind wishes, and congratulations on my arrival in this Country.

To His Excellency SIR JOHN COLBORNE, K.C.B. Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Excellency,

We His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects the Inhabitants of York and its Vicinity, beg leave to congratulate your Excellency upon your safe arrival amongst us, and to assure your Excellency that we shall feel it a matter, both of duty and of pleasure, to promote your Excellency's exertions for the peace, happiness and welfare of the Province.

We cannot conceal from Your Excellency, without a sacrifice of candour, that there are many very important subjects which have deeply affected the feelings of the People; but we are solicitous to regard the accession of your Excellency to the Government of this Province, as the commencement of a new era, in which Your Excellency, above the prevailing influence of political dissensions and unhappy advice, will prove our Constitutional Benefactor, and realize the paternal wishes of our most gracious Sovereign to bless His People, with mild, just, and conciliatory principles of Government.

We further beg leave respectfully to tender to your Excellency, our sincere wishes for the health and happiness of Lady Colborne, and family.

DISCOVERY OF A WONDERFUL CAVE NEAR THE CHAUDIERE FALLS.

(From our Correspondent at Bytown.)

Among the interesting scenery which surrounds the above place, a curious cave has been discovered, which has excited the attention of all who have visited it, and is reported as being well deserving the notice of the curious and scientific traveller. The opening to it is through a fissure of the rock, which appears to have been at one period a rent, but is now, from the upper place having fallen together, of the form of a Gothic arch. The entrance is low, only capable of admitting a person crawling on the hands and knees. After proceeding in this way for a short distance, the height of the cave, as well as its width, expands so as to admit of a person standing upright, and is nearly eight feet in diameter. This forms what may be termed the first chamber. The sides and roof of this part is covered with beautiful stalactical formations, which can be readily detached from the solid rock, which under them presents a smooth surface of the same appearance as the limestone rock about the Falls. From this first apartment there are several other openings branching off in various directions, and which in all probability lead to other caverns. The whole appears to have been excavated by some convulsion of nature, and at one period the course of the water.

Our informant not being provided with the necessary implements, was not able to ascertain the exact dimensions, nor would his time permit of exploring this interesting object farther. It has been very appropriately denominated Cobb's Cave, from the name of a lady who first discovered it.—M. Herald.

To the Editor of the Quebec Star.

It is well known that in Scotland there exist remains of structures of high but unknown antiquity called Pictsfield Forts. It is probable that they were erected in places where no lime was to be readily procured, and that they were made by cementing together the stones with clay, containing a portion of sand and gravel. Such a fort has been found in this province of the same—that the structure was then filled with, and surrounded by wood or other fuel, by the ignition of which the vitrification of the sand was occasioned. The fused mass would be a coarse production. In this country it is conjectured, that in many of our new settlements where no lime-stone is to be had, very strong and very durable foundations, chimnies and houses might be made. It is certain that, with the clay and sand, wood ashes should be combined. It would tend to prevent the cracking of the clay in drying, if half the clay were burned and coarsely powdered previous to the mixing of the paste.

Domestic.

We regret to state, that the operations at the Deep Cut have been suspended for the present, in consequence of the late casualties mentioned in our last, and others which have since occurred. The Directors are to meet here this week, to take the matter into consideration, when, we understand, arrangements will be made for noticing the contracts for constructing the harbour at the mouth of Grand River, on Lake Erie—for making the towing path on the Bever Welland, and all other remaining unfinished work on the line of the Canal, with a view of completing the western section the ensuing year.—Farmers' Journal, Nov. 19.

To which His Excellency was pleased to make the following REPLY.

Gentlemen,

Your loyal Address I receive with great satisfaction; and in thanking you for your kind wishes, I must observe, that the labors and zeal of Ministers with your pious sentiments and intentions, cannot fail being profitable in a Colony where the temptations are many, the Pastors few, and the flock scattered; particularly, living as you do, under the Government of a Sovereign, solicitous, that all should be equally protected in the conscientious discharge of their religious duties.

COMMISSARIAT OFFICE, YORK,
21st November, 1828. } 2 25

PROSPECTUS of a Newspaper, about to be published at Hallowell, in the County of Prince Edward, Upper Canada; and entitled THE HALLOWELL GAZETTE, or General Advertiser for the Counties of Prince Edwards and Hastings—JOHN CLARK, ESQUIRE, Editor and Proprietor.

TO THE PUBLIC:—When it is considered that there is not a single Printing Establishment between Kingston and York, for a distance of nearly 200 miles, through a well settled country, it must be generally admitted that the time has arrived when such an establishment is necessary. The Editor, some time since, gave publicity to a Prospectus for a Newspaper he intended to publish at Port Hope, to be entitled "The Port Hope Monitor," but has changed his mind and fixed on Hallowell for his Establishment; from the known respectability of the inhabitants of that village and its vicinity, the Editor flatters himself with the most sanguine hopes of a liberal and generous support.

To the inhabitants of the Counties of Prince Edward and Hastings, in particular, it is hoped this undertaking will prove a general benefit, and they will no longer have to send as far as York, or Kingston, for a few Handbills, or other work in the printing line, as the proprietor is determined to spare no pains to ensure the due execution of every kind of work submitted to him. The Types and Press, and every thing connected with the office, are entirely new, and have been selected by a competent judge.

As to the NEWSPAPER which it is intended to publish, it is hoped a few numbers will prove its character to be worthy of the estimation of the public. Its principles shall be purely and soundly constitutional, by which is meant a due deference to every branch of the happiest system of Government ever devised by man, and such as is established in England. The CANADAS will at all times be considered as forming an INTEGRAL part of the British Empire. This paper will never lose sight of the particular interests of these Provinces. All party spirit and feeling will be avoided. By respecting the public authorities, it is hoped the best respect will be shown to the people for whose Government they are appointed. Personal abuse never yet obtained any one satisfactory result, and insolence to those in superior station neither evinces the Gentleman nor the Christian—at the same time that a genuine spirit of loyalty to the best system of government ever known to mankind, and a reference to religion will be found to pervade the pages of this work; it will neither be unmindful nor sparing of correction, when abuses of power, on either side, shall render correction necessary.

From the importance of AGRICULTURE as the basis of the physical power of nations, that subject will be a prominent feature in the work—and no subject that can elucidate, or advance the domestic interests of the Colony shall be overlooked.

The most extensive arrangements have been made to insure the earliest and most authentic foreign news—and if the most zealous exertion to give general satisfaction can avail,—THE HALLOWELL GAZETTE will be found worthy of that general patronage which is now solicited.

It will be printed on a ROYAL Sheet, and the terms are Four Dollars per annum, exclusive of postage—6 months payable in advance. In order to induce the farmers to support a paper so warmly in their interest as it is intended this shall be—GRAIN of all kinds, PORK, and other country produce, will be received in payment of subscriptions at the Market price, deliverable at the office in Hallowell.

IMPROMPTU ON WASTE.—By the late Ed. Knight Esq

Oh! waste not thou the smallest thing
Created by Divinity;
For grains of sands the mountains make,
And atomies infinity.

Waste thou not then the smallest time,
'Tis imbecile infirmity.
For well thou know'st, if aught thou know'st,
That seconds form eternity.

ON THE RECITATION OF "PALESTINE."

A Prize Poem, by Reginald Heber, in the Theatre at Oxford, on the 15th of June, 1803.

BY MISS LETITIA JERMYN.

None who heard Reginald Heber recite his "Palestine" will ever forget his appearance. His old father was among the audience, when his son ascended the rostrum; and the sudden thunder of applause so shook his frame, weak by long illness, that he never recovered it, and may be said to have died of the joy dearest to a parent's heart.—Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine v. xxii. p. 619.

Hush'd was the busy hum; nor voice, nor sound,
Through the vast concourse mark'd the moment near;
A deep and holy silence breathed around,
And mute attention fix'd the listening ear;

When from the rostrum burst the hallowed strain,
And Heber, kindling with poetic fire,
Stood 'mid the gazing and expectant train,
And woke to eloquence his sacred lyre.

He sang of Palestine—that holy land,
Where saints and martyrs, and the warrior brave,
The cross in triumph planting on its strand,
Beneath its banners sought a glorious grave.

He sang of Calvary, of his Saviour sang.
Of the rich mercies of redeeming love;
When through the crowd spontaneous plaudits rang,
Breathing a foretaste of rewards above.

What means that stifled sob, that groan of joy?
Why fall those tears upon the furrow'd cheek?
The aged father hears his darling boy,
And sobs and tears alone his feelings speak.

From his full heart the tide of rapture flows;
In vain to stem its rapid course he tries:
He hears th' applauding shouts, the solemn close,
And sinking from excess of Joy, he dies!

INFANCY ASLEEP.

The fairest thing that human eyes may view,
Now breathes beneath my own,—a sleeping child,
Smiling amid its thoughts and visions mild;
Its face in hope's prevading hue,
As the glad morning of the mind dawns through.
These wordless lips as yet have only smiled
On life, nor hath an evil taint defil'd
Eyes that are clos'd like flowers—whose tears are dew
From the heart's inmost heaven. Oh! infant heir
Of nature, in thy fresh and delicate dust
If aught of ill be mingled, 'twere unjust
To deem it thine; for on thy forehead fair
Sit purity and peace; be ours the trust
That age shall find them still unchill'd by crime or care.

BLANCHARD.

Lower Canada.

Quebec, Nov. 13.

The John Francis, which sails for Liverpool in a few days, takes home 150 bales of cotton wool, imported from the United States via Halifax, and shipped to Great Britain, under the reduction of duty provided for in the late Customs amendment act.

In Quebec superfine flour was held this morning at 12 dollars. It is understood that a portion of that brought from New York, will be reshipped for England.

The Steam Boat St. Laurence, now in port is preparing to put her furniture on shore, and retire to winter quarters; all the other boats running between this and Quebec, are expected to be laid up for the winter as they successively arrive here.—Canadian Courant.

A fraud, to a considerable amount, has lately been committed on a respectable house in this town, similar to those some time ago practiced in the United States. A person having the address and manners of a gentleman, called at the ware-house and purchased a considerable quantity of linens. During the transaction he took occasion to shew the clerk that wanted on him, a considerable sum of money in his possession in a manner that then was supposed to be an act of inadvertence; having finished the transaction he stated that he would in a few days make additional purchases, but being about to visit the country, he would entrust his valise and cash in the care of the house till his return; this being accordingly done and the linens delivered, nothing more transpired, until the delay of the gentleman, in returning for his valise led to an examination of its contents which were found to consist principally of old bottons. All inquiries after the delinquent have hitherto been fruitless.—ib.

CHINESE PRISON.

Prisoners who have money to spend, can be accommodated with private apartments, cards, servants, and every luxury. The prisoners' chains and fetters are removed from their bodies, and suspended against the wall, till the hour of going the rounds occurs; after that ceremony is over, the fetters are again placed where they hurt nobody. But those who have not money to bribe the keepers, are in a woful condition. Not only in every alleviation of their sufferings removed, but actual infliction of punishment is added, to extort money to buy "burnt offerings" (of paper) to the god of the jail, as the phrase is. For this purpose the prisoners are tied up, or rather hung up, and flogged. At night, they are fettered down to a board, neck, wrists, and ankles, amidst ordure and filth, whilst the rats, unmolested, are permitted to gnaw their limbs!

REMEDY FOR DULNESS.

Lord Dorset used to say of a very goodnatured dull fellow, "'Tis a thousand pities that man is not illnatured, that one might kick him out of company!"

PICTURE OF LIFE.

In youth we seem to be climbing a hill on whose top eternal sunshine appears to rest. How eagerly we pant to attain its summit; but when we have gained it, how different is the prospect on the other side! We sigh as we contemplate the dreary waste before us, and look back with a wistful eye upon the flowery path we have passed, but may never more retrace. Life is like yon portentous cold, fraught with thunder, storm, and rain; but religion, like those streaming rays of sunshine, will clothe it with light as with a garment, and fringe its shadowy skirts with gold.

The congregation of East Hoathly Church, on Sunday se'night, was somewhat amazed at hearing the clerk, during service, bawl out from his reading-desk to the singers on the gallery, "I say, be ye gaeen to sing, or beant you? because if ye beant, I shant come up!" The choir, it appears, have frequently deceived the old man, by getting him in the gallery to assist them, and then refusing to sing; not choosing to be again made a fool of, he had recourse to the above expedient.—Brighton paper.

Counsellor Lamb (an old man, at the time the late Lord Erskine was in the height of his reputation) was a man of timid manners and nervous disposition, and usually prefaced his pleadings with an apology, to that effect; and on one occasion, when opposed to Erskine happened to remark, that, "he felt himself growing more and more timid as he grew older." "No wonder," replied the witty but relentless barrister, "every one knows, the older a lamb grows the more sheepish he becomes."

There has been a squabble in Limerick, in which a Mr. Steel, a Roman Catholic agitator, having shewn himself to be very unruly, was seized by the manual force, and committed to prison by the magisterial authority of Mr Alderman Jarvis—our friend Rogers observed, that this Steel, though an Irish blade, appeared not to be well tempered, but that fortunately Jarvis had given him a set down.

TECUMSEH;
OR,
THE WARRIOR OF THE WEST.
A Poem,
IN FOUR CANTOS.

BY AN ENGLISH OFFICER,
(AUTHOR OF THE CANADIAN CAMPAIGN.)

THE name and actions of Tecumseh must be familiar to every inhabitant of Canada: and a desire to see the memory of so distinguished and extraordinary a man perpetuated by any writer, however humble, must be a sentiment co-equal with the admiration so universally excited during his enterprising career, not less among his enemies than among his allies and his friends.

The Author of this Epic Poem, which is illustrated by copious notes, is himself a Canadian, and has often combated at the side of Tecumseh, to whom he was more immediately known. On that memorable day which deprived nature of one of her brightest though rudest gems, and the nearly now exterminated Indian tribes of a leader devoted to their interests and their liberties, he beheld the remains of that glorious Chieftain mangled and disfigured even as he has described them. Scarcely an Officer of the division on that untoward occasion failed to pay the just tribute of regret to his memory, and but few there were who did not lose sight of their own personal feelings in the depth and sincerity of their grief for the noble and unfortunate Tecumseh.

The principal and original view of the Author, in composing his Poem, was to rescue the name of this truly great man from the unmerited oblivion to which it had been consigned; but aware of the difficulty under which, as an unknown writer, he labors in giving his work all necessary publicity, he has adopted the suggestions of numerous literary friends, to print the volume by subscription among naval and military men. He trusts moreover that by his own countrymen some encouragement will be afforded, not simply in his character of Poet—the first of his native soil who has adventured on the dangerous shoals of verse—but also in that of the Historian—the panegyrist of him who is now no more, but whose name and whose memory there can be few Canadians unwilling to see transmitted to posterity.

The Poem opens with a description of the action on Lake Erie, where the gallant and unfortunate Barclay, after essaying all that human courage and resolution could attain, was compelled to strike to a superior enemy; and on this leading feature the several other incidents of the Poem are made to hang.

The Third Canto contains the celebrated speech made by Tecumseh in the council of Chiefs convened by General Proctor, when, after the capture of the little squadron, he proposed retreating from Amherstburgh to the Moravian Village.

Captain Barclay, to whom, in common with the other Officers of the Right Division, the Poem is inscribed, has been pleased to express his entire approbation of the work in terms the most satisfactory and gratifying to the Author. It remains for his own Countrymen to decide how far successful he has been in delineating the scenery of the land, and the habits, occupations, and warlike exercises of the natives.

Should any palpable omissions or errors be noticed, it must be recollected, in extenuation, that the Poem has been composed almost wholly from memory, and that fifteen years have elapsed since the Author last beheld the wild scenery of his native clime.

The price of the Poem in boards, printed on the best paper, and with the best type, will be two dollars.

The Subscribers' copies will be forwarded to their respective addresses.

THE MESSAGE TO THE DEAD.

BY MRS. HEMANS.

"Messages from the living to the dead are not uncommon in the Highlands. The Gael have such a ceaseless consciousness of Immortality, that their departed friends are considered as merely absent for a time; and permitted to relieve the hours of separation by occasional intercourse with the objects of their earliest affection."

See the Notes to Mrs. Brunton's "Discipline."

THOU'RT passing hence, my brother!
Oh! my earliest friend, farewell!
Thou'rt leaving me without thy voice,
In a lonely home to dwell;
And from the hills and from the hearth,
And from the household tree,
With thee departs the lingering mirth,
The brightness goes with thee.

But thou, my friend, my brother!
Thou'rt speeding to the shore
Where the dirge-like tone of parting words,
Shall unite the soul no more!
And thou wilt see our holy dead,
The lost on earth and main!
Into the abode of kindred hearts
Thou wilt be bound again!

Tell thou our friend of boyhood,
That yet his name is heard
On the blue mountains, whence his youth
Pass'd like a swift bright bird.
The light of his exulting brow,
The vision of his glee,
Are on me still—oh! still I trust
That smile again to see.

And tell our fair young sister,
The rose cut down in spring,
That yet my gushing soul is fill'd
With lays she loved to sing.
Her soft deep eyes look through my dreams,
Tender and sadly sweet;
Tell her my heart withithin me burns
Once more that gaze to meet!

And tell our white-hair'd father,
That in the paths he trode,
The child he loved, the last on earth,
Yet walks and worships God.
Say, that his last fond blessing yet
Rests on my soul like dew,
And by its hallowing might I trust
Once more his face to view,

And tell our gentle mother,
That o'er her grave I pour
The sorrows of my spirit forth,
As on her breast of yore!
Happy thou art, that soon how soon!
Our good and bright may see;
Oh! brother, brother! may I dwell
Ere long with them and thee!

THE SACRED BAND.

It had lately been the practice of the Greeks in general, but particularly those of the districts, to send their young men, of respectable families, for education in different Universities in Europe; generally those of Italy and Germany: such as were intended for the learned professions, studied medicine and law; such as were intended for business, mathematics. The first generally returned and practised at home; the last were usually placed in the mercantile houses, which the Greeks had now established in every capital on the Continent. When the Society of the Hetæria extended itself these young gentlemen enrolled themselves as members of it, wherever it had ramifications; and when the plan of revolution was resolved on, they were the first to offer themselves as soldiers to support it. Every man provided himself with a case of pistols, a sword, with a screwed bayonet, after the European manner, and a uniform suit of black; and, thus equipped, repaired to Ypselantes' standard. It was a singular and interesting spectacle, to see these young gentlemen voluntarily, and by a simultaneous movement, abandoning their colleges and offices, in different places in Italy, Russia and Germany, marching forward, either singly or in small bodies, from the remotest parts of Europe, and meeting at one common centre to form an army. They enrolled themselves into a corps called ieras lochas, or the sacred band; and they evinced, by their conduct, that they merited the appellation as much as the Thebans in the days of Epaminondas; they inscribed on their standards thanatos e eleutheria death or freedom; and the inscription on the Spartan shield e tan e epi tais, either this or upon it.* The greater part of them had never felt hardship, or handled a military weapon before; yet they endured fatigue, privation, and discipline, with submission and fortitude,—setting an example to the rest which was badly followed. There were of this corps, now with Ypselantes, about five hundred men; and on these he justly placed his chief reliance.

The little army, originally so small, had been further weakened by the absence of Prince Cantacuzene, who had taken a strong detachment to oppose the Pasha of Ibrail on the Danube. What remained, did not consist of more than five thousand men, who had with them a small body of Arnaut cavalry, and a few iron field pieces that had been ships' guns. They were opposed by nearly double the number of Turks, with 1500 well appointed cavalry, among whom was a corps of Delhis. I have already told you the nature of those troops.

The battle began at ten o'clock in the morning of the 19th of June, 1821. After a few rounds of grapeshot from the small artillery of the Greeks, the Turks rushed with their usual impetuosity on the corps of the sacred band, who flanked and guarded it. They were repulsed with coolness by the fixed bayonets of the corps, who had a great advantage over their enemies in a close charge, as the Turks used no bayonets on their muskets, and their yatagans, or hangers, were too short to reach within their guard. The Turks retired in confusion, but returned soon again to the charge; and were again driven back. Ypselantes, now seeing the moment for decision, instantly ordered up the whole corps of his cavalry, to attack the Turks in the rear, as they were retiring in confusion. Had the orders given been obeyed, they never would have rallied again, and the victory would have been as signal as the consequences to the Greeks would have been momentous. The cavalry was commanded by Karavia, who had been so strenuous in advising an immediate battle. Instead of obeying the orders of the General, and attacking the Turks in their confusion, they turned suddenly round, headed by their infamous commander, and riding furiously through a body of their own men, threw the whole left wing into confusion. Every effort was made to remedy the disaster, but in vain. The panic or treason of the horse communicated itself with the infantry; the whole dashed headlong into the Olt, and passed to the other side, leaving the sacred band almost in the midst of the plain. It was now that the Turkish cavalry, seeing them abandoned to their fate rushed on them, and surrounded their little body on all sides with their sweeping squadrons. In this awful situation, these young men utterly unused to discipline, kept firmly together, and repelled for some time every effort to break it. The Delhis particularly rushed on them, but were received so steadily, on the chevaux de frize, which their bayonets presented, that their horses were always thrown back in confusion. At length the pistols of the cavalry effected what their sabres could not; they made repeated discharges on them beyond the reach of their bayonets; they were gradually thinned and weakened by this firing, and then the Turks rushing in with their sabres, cut down every man that remained on the spot where he stood. More than four hundred perished side by side; and of the few that escaped, almost all died of their wounds; so that hardly an individual of this admirable band, the pride and flower of the Greek nation, survived this dreadful day.

I cannot describe to you the feelings of respect and regret with which I walked over the ground that covered the remains of these young heroes. I had not long before visited the field of Marathon, and the recollection of it and Dr. Johnson's allusion were fresh in my mind; but the impressions of both were cold and feeble, compared with those of Dragoschan. Here was an act of courage and self-devotion among modern Greeks, that rivalled any thing similar in the best days of their ancestors; and I was on the spot while the event was yet recent, and their bodies, if I may so say, scarce cold in the clay that covered them. No one has hitherto dared to erect a tomb to designate the place where they lie, but they live imperishably in the memory of their country; and when England and her allies shall replace it in its due rank among the nations of Christian Europe, a monument on the field of Dragoschan will not be forgotten.

* I have frequently seen these inscriptions on Greek standards, particularly the last: the direction was literally followed: for the body of the standard bearer, who died in defending it, was wrapped in it as in a shroud, and so borne to the grave, and buried in it.

MATERNAL REVENGE.

Giannina was one of the most comely damsels in Calabria, and had many a welcome suitor. To none, however, did she seem inclined to lend a willing ear. Some of a more timid nature admired the maiden, and would fain have wooed her, but they were kept aloof by the haughty glance of her bright blue eye, a glance that was rendered more remarkable from the tender color of the eye, whose sable fringes formed another striking but agreeable contrast with its azure hue, and agreed with the glossy raven locks that shaded her snowy brow.

Giannina's father was by no means a thrifty man. His cottage had a better appearance than most of those in the village, of which it was the furthest habitation. The village itself was on the confines of a wood, which reached half way up the side of a wild, and in some places inaccessible mountain, and dreadful were the tales told of the banditti, with which it was infested. The villagers, however, having nothing to loose, had also nothing to fear from their depredations: and indeed only one instance had been given of any attempt to disturb their tranquility. This attempt was made on the abode of Giannina's father, and it was supposed to have been thus directed from his being imputed one of the wealthiest inhabitants. By the courage of Giannina it had been defeated. She was roused in the night by an attempt to force her window, when seizing a hatchet, she struck at a man who was in the act of entering. The robber fell to the ground as Giannina's father, whom her cries had brought to her assistance, arrived, but only in time to witness the intruder's escape, which he affected, although the blood with which the window was still imbued, testified he had not escaped unhurt.

Not long after this, a stranger made his appearance in the village, and succeeded in obtaining the affection which Giannina had so constantly withheld from her rustic admirers. The suitor to whom she was thus favourably inclined was about thirty years of age, of handsome, though wild and haughty aspect. His stature was considerably above the middle size, and he would have appeared robust, had not his extreme paleness, occasioned by a wound, that he said he had lately received at the chace, and which still obliged him to wear his arm in a sling, given a sickly delicacy to his features.

Giannina's father, whose will was entirely subservient to her own, consented to the marriage: but from the day that it took place, the bride and bridegroom disappeared, leaving the afflicted parent as completely ignorant of their fate as the rest of the villagers.

"Giannina," said Antonio to his bride, as, after the marriage ceremony, they were returning towards their father's roof, "let us escape awhile from the noisy festivity that awaits us, within the shade of the adjacent wood."

"To but a dangerous resort," rejoined Giannina. "Dost thou fear!" said Antonio; and the inflection of his voice seemed to import: re than lost thou fear?" Giannina attended but unto the words. The d used was proud of her merited renown for courage, and eplying with a degree of pique, that she would prove her daring, took with him the road that led to the ill-famed forest. They had wandered some minutes in its glades, when Giannina asked Antonio if he could still reproach her with her fears! "What should a sovereign dread within her realm!" he answered in a sarcastic tone. "My realm!" "Aye, thine, my bandit Queen" and on a loud whistle a number of well armed ruffians appeared to rise from the earth, descend from the trees, and in a moment to encompass them. "Homage to our Queen," said the robber Captain, for such he was, and taking his wounded arm from a sling—"My gentle bride," said he, "dost thou know this nerveless hand! It was not such the night it opened thy casement! But for this hand of mine, I've now a band of thine; and the few drops of blood I do forgive thee! Homage to my Queen!" And at this moment Giannina looked a Queen. She turned to Antonio as though he also were a subject. "I neither love nor fear thee! Of love thou art unworthy! and fear—what have I left to fear!—Deem not I shall attempt to forego my fate, for whither shall I fly but infamy would follow! I do devote myself thy victim, nay, thy faithful wife, and my own injuries forgive. Beware alone, no deed of thine do injure aught of mine! of that alone beware, for even a victim may revenge —Respect my father and all that is mine!" She was a faithful wife. Three years had passed, and Antonio's band had been hunted down, until some had died of hunger and fatigue—some on the scaffold Antonio and Giannina wandered now alone, except that Giannina carried in her arms an infant, that slumbered sweetly among dangers. She thought if ever she again could reach her native village, to leave the babe at her old father's door, with these words, "It is Giannina's child!" But they were distant now—far distant from her home, in the recesses which Salvator" has portrayed in all their wildness" he had wandered there with bandits, and he has left us the wild mountain scenes, and the rude bandits, and his captive self, storied on his canvass.

More than once had Antonio, for whose head a large reward was offered, been rescued by the quickness and courage of Giannina.—But the Tyrolese troops, to whom the Austrian commander at Naples had assigned the task of exterminating the banditti, left them no repose. One day, harrassed beyond measure, and closely pursued, they reached a bridge as exposed to view, that they dared not hazard passing it. It was in summer, and the river over which the bridge was built, now closed in a narrow bed, but yet too deep to ford. They determined to take refuge under one of the arches which the current had abandoned Hark! their pursuers approach! Their steps are heard on the bridge! The outlaws scarcely dared to breath—Giannina pressed her infant to her breast—it gave a feeble cry—Antonio smothered it upon its mother's bosom!

The danger was past—Giannina dug a grave in the sand, and placed within it the body of the poor lifeless child.

* * * * *

"Antonio, the robber's head!" cried the populace of a small town in Calabria, as a female with disheveled hair and haggard looks brought a bleeding head, fresh from the trunk, to the Magistrate of the district.

"A thousand crowns are thine thou second Judith!"

"I seek not the reward—Antonio was my husband—he killed my child but yesterday—this night I slew him as he slept!"

* * * * *

* Salvator Rosa is said to have been made prisoner by a Calabrian banditti, and to have been detained some months by them in the mountains. One of his landscapes in which are introduced some figures of robbers, and of a young man who appears in captivity, is supposed to relate to his own story.

Welsh Americans.—A tribe of Americans, about the 40th degree of North latitude and the 45th West longitude, are said to possess many curious manuscripts about an island named Bryden, from which their ancestors long since came. Their language resembles the Welsh, and their religion is a sort of mixed Christianity and Druidism. They know the use of letters, and are fond of music and poetry. They still call each themselves Brydones This evidence rests on the evidence of Mr. Owen Williams, of Baltimore, who visited their settlement in 1817.—He believes them descendants of some wandering Britains, expelled from home about the time of the Saxons, and carried by wind and current to the great continent of the west, into the heart of which they have been driven back by successive encroachments of modern settlers. We fear that these are scarcely sufficient grounds for plucking the laurel of discovery from the brow of Columbus, to twine it round some runaway forefathers of our own.—London Weekly Review.

FINE ARTS.

David Wilkie, R. A. returned to London on Saturday last after a long residence in Italy, Germany, and Spain. Wherever he went he found the fame of his works before him, and was received with distinction and kindness. He went abroad to amend his health; he has come back with an increase of fame. He has painted various pictures, in the spirit of the nations which he has visited, or, more properly speaking, in the general spirit of human nature. Four paintings for Italy, and three for Spain, and numerous sketches—each containing the germ of future picture are the fruits of his study. Of these, three are finished; the others are in a forward state. The Washing the Feet of the Female, and the Washing the Feet of the Male, Pilgrims—the Confessional and the Shrine—are in his finest manner, both in conception and execution. There is a devout and tranquil loveliness, and air of reverence and awe, breathed over them, united with the most exquisite care, grace, and delicacy. The colouring is deep, massive, and brilliant. His Spanish pictures are in a similar spirit, though the subjects are essentially different. A Midnight Council of Priests and Warriors, the Repulse of the French by the Heroine of Saragossa, the Guerilla Chief departing to Battle—are all conceived in the same style of simplicity, and touched with the same vigorous hand. Wilkie has taken in these works, a step or two higher up the ascent of fame. This deeper feeling—this devouter and loftier mood—this expression of sentiment by few figures—and this solid and splendid style of colouring—are all improvements We are glad of this; for no one wore his honors more meekly, or seems less conscious of the hold he has taken of his country's heart, than this great artist.—We wish he would paint us a Sacrament among his native mountains during the persecution.—Literary Gazette.

The most curious objects of human industry that are to be met in the course of the navigation on the Rhine, are the celebrated timber-rafts. These singular floating machines are composed of many thousand trees, disposed in layers, and properly lashed together. There are frequently from 900 to 1000 feet in length, and from 60 to 90 feet in breadth, and draw perhaps as much as six or eight feet water. They are rowed by eight hundred men, who are disposed at the end of the float.—This crew is lodged in a small village of wooden huts neatly erected on the float, presenting a very curious appearance.—Every arrangement as to the discipline, provisions, and such other regulations, as are generally prevalent on board of a large vessel at sea, obtains in this case. To these machines may with propriety be applied the motto vires acquirit eundo—for at first starting they consist of a few trees fastened loosely together, and their more regular construction by gradual additions takes place at certain fixed stations, in proportion as the navigation becomes less entangled, until at last, the whole assumes the appearance I have described.

Hair Restorative.—It has been ascertained that the daily ointion of salt will restore hair to the heads of those who, from fever or other causes, have suffered its loss. The constant application of salt has been found to give strength and luxuriance to hair which was falling off, and causing rapid baldness. This is a simple and cheap remedy worth trying.

PROSPECTUS of a Newspaper, about to be published at Hallowell, in the County of Prince Edward, Upper Canada; and entitled THE HALLOWELL GAZETTE, or General Advertiser for the Counties of Prince Edwards and Hastings—John Clark, Esquire, Editor and Proprietor.

To the Public:—When it is considered that there is not a single Printing Establishment between Kingston and York, for a distance of nearly 200 miles, through a well settled country, it must be generally admitted that the time has arrived when such an establishment is necessary. The Editor, some time since, gave publicity to a Prospectus for a Newspaper he intended to publish at Port Hope, to be entitled "The Port Hope Monitor," but has changed his mind and fixed on Hallowell for his Establishment; from the known respectability of the inhabitants of that village and its vicinity, the Editor flatters himself with the most sanguine hopes of a liberal and generous support.

To the inhabitants of the Counties of Prince Edward and Hastings, in particular, it is hoped this undertaking will prove a general benefit, and they will no longer have to send as far as York, or Kingston, for a few Handbills, or other work in the printing line, as the proprietor is determined to spare no pains to ensure the best execution of every kind of work submitted to him. The Types and Press, and every thing connected with the office, are entirely new, and have been selected by a competent judge.

As to the Newspaper which it is intended to publish, it is hoped a few numbers will prove its character to be worthy of the estimation of the public. Its principles shall be purely and soundly constitutional, by which is meant a due deference to every branch of the happiest system of Government ever devised by man, and such as is established in England. The Canadas will at all times be considered as forming an integral part of the British Empire. This paper will never lose sight of the particular interests of these Provinces. All party spirit and feeling will be avoided. By respecting the public authorities, it is hoped the best respect will be shown to the people for whose Government they are appointed. Personal abuse never yet obtained any one satisfactory result, and insolence to those in superior station neither evinces the Gentleman nor the Christian—at the same time that a genuine spirit of loyalty to the best system of government ever known upon earth, and a reverence for religion will be found to pervade the pages of this work; it will neither be unmindful nor sparing of correction, when abuses of power, or either side, shall render correction necessary.

From the importance of Agriculture as the basis of the physical power of nations, that subject will ever be a prominent feature in the work—and no subject that may elucidate, or advance the domestic interests of the Colony shall be overlooked.

The most extensive arrangements have been made to insure the earliest and most authentic foreign news—and if the most zealous exertion to give general satisfaction can avail,—THE HALLOWELL GAZETTE will be found worthy of that general patronage which is now solicited.

It will be printed on a Royal Sheet, and the terms are Four Dollars per annum, exclusive of postage—6 months payable in advance. In order to induce the farmers to support a paper so warmly in their interest as it is intended this shall be,—Grain of all kinds, Pork, and other country produce, will be received in payment of subscriptions at the Market price, deliverable at the office in Hallowell.

Summary.

The health of the King of England, and of the Duke of Clarence, had improved.

The Young Queen of Portugal was ill at her lodgings at Grillon's Hotel, on the 12th ult. but was convalescent the next day. It is said that two agents have been despatched from the Queen of Portugal, one to France and the other to Vienna, with proposals to assist her in regaining her Crown. It is said that the British Government is willing to aid, provided the other Powers agree to it.

Subscriptions for the poor at Gibraltar are opened in Liverpool, and a meeting was held for their relief in London. At the latest dates, 500 or 510 persons, in all, had been taken sick, and the deaths were 2 in 11.

The Sun says "the increase of our Annual Revenue to the amount of 780,420 pounds, to which we adverted briefly in our paper of Saturday last, is in every view of the matter a source of satisfaction; for first it disproves the idle clamor of those who hold that a liberal system in regard to trade, i. e. the repeal of restrictions, is ruinous to its interests as well as to those of the revenue.

The Courier speaks of the blockade of the Dardanelles as a measure by which Russia has "seceded" from the treaty of July—and expresses a hope that England and France will soon be able to return again "to their natural and unquestionable state of neutrality."

It is stated that the yellow fever has made its appearance in Cadiz and the South of Spain.

A combination among the sailors at Havre had taken place, with a view to increase of wages; but the merchants had taken decided measures to resist the attempt.

Hunton underwent a public examination at London, on the 12th, on a charge of forgery, and was committed to Newgate.

The Sinking Fund.—The Commissioners for the reduction of the National Debt have made their first purchases for the quarter. The amount invested, and to be laid out on each day of transacting the present quarter, is £143,814 3s. 6d. which in the quarter ending the 5th January, 1829, will amount to more than £581,000. The purchases are on the reduced scale of investing £3,000, 000 only per annum, in aiding the Sinking Fund, according to the Act passed last session of Parliament.

Serious Accident.—On Monday last the bridge over the Genesee River near Judge Church's, gave way and tumbled about 80 feet, carrying with it a lad, son of Isaac Newton, two yoke of oxen and a cart.—The young man is so severely bruised that his life is despaired of. Two of the oxen were killed, the others not seriously injured.—Angelica Republican.

A dreadful accident occurred lately at Mayo, in Ireland. While the congregation were performing divine worship, a flash of lightning struck the stone steeple, which fell upon the roof and overwhelmed most of the persons below in the ruins. A great number were killed, and others most shockingly mangled.

The St. Leger stakes, which were run for in October, it is believed, were won by foul play. The sporting world in and about London is all on the qui vive relative to the subject. It is asserted that the person who had the care of the favorite horse, who it was calculated would win the stakes, took a bribe of fifty thousand pounds sterling. In consequence of Bedlam, a ball the night before running. It is remarkable that in three days after the St. Leger match, she ran the same course in less time than the horse who won the stakes.

PORTSMOUTH, Oct. 1.

Rear Admiral Sir E. Owen, has declined the Surveyor Generalship of the Ordnance.

The ordinary and dock yard at this port are at present in a very effective state. Stores are held in readiness for the immediate equipment of nine sail of the line, should such a force be deemed necessary by Government to be called into commission. An officer has been here this week from Woolwich, and on Monday, made a general survey of the state and condition of the gun carriages on board the different ships.

Scotland.

Polwarth is not the only village of the Merse which modern times have seen fall into decay. There is, for instance, in its neighbourhood, a place called Fogo, that once could boast of some importance; but is now reduced almost to the condition of a mere farm-stead. Fogo used to be distinguished for the excellence of its cooper, or rather for the progressive improvement and increasing dexterity of a long race of coopers; every successive member of which, displaying greater skill than his father, gave occasion to the proverbial saying, "Ye're just the cooper o' Fogo," meaning that you are a better man than your father. Alas! both Fogo and its coopers are now alike non-existent. The same fate has overtaken a place called Smeaton, where tradition records that there were once no fewer than five houses for the entertainment of the public, though there are not now half so many houses at the spot altogether of any sort. Sisterpathmill was truly a "merry place in days of yore;" for it is at the same time recorded, that a convivial party, having met in one of the hostleries precisely as the landlady was setting a hen,—that is, placing it upon its eggs,—did not rise until the chickens were running about the house.—Chambers' Picture of Scotland.

Foreign Intelligence.

The Russian forces are on the retreat for the Danube. The Turks hold important passes on that river, and the Russians may find much difficulty in crossing. They suffer much for the want of forage and provisions.

The Emperor Nicholas has ordered a new levy of soldiers equal to 4 men of every 500 of the population.—This levy is to extend to the whole empire, with the exception of Bessarabia and Georgia. The preamble of the manifesto is in the following terms:—"Notwithstanding the success of our arms in the present war against the Ottoman Porte, and our sincere wish to put an end to hostilities, the enemy, by refusing to listen to our proposals for peace and by his obstinacy, obliges us to take new measures for prosecuting this war; and we consider it necessary to make our army complete." (Estimating the population liable to the levy now ordered, at 30,000,000, the number of recruits will be 240,000 men.)

Two couriers, bearing despatches to the British Government, also arrived at London on the 17th, and it was said that they brought an account of a defeat of the Russians near Silistria, and the conclusion of an armistice between the two armies. This is doubted.

According to the notes of a person attached to the head quarters of Count Wittgenstein, the army of Bessaraia, on its arrival before Choumla, numbered 85,000 effective men, including the Corps engaged in the siege of Varna; the loss experienced by it is estimated at from 25 to 30,000, including the sick. There were also 4,000 horses destroyed.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday Evening, Oct. 18.

"It was reported on Exchange at Frankfort on the 9th inst., that the siege of Varna had been raised, and that the Army was in full retreat for the Danube. It was also reported that an armistice between the Turks and Russians had been agreed upon. It was understood that accounts of a similar character to this statement, had been received by Commercial houses in the city; but nothing of an official nature had transpired on the subject."

Lisbon, Sep. 27.

Don Miguel, it is said, has received by a vessel from Rio Janeiro, a letter from the Emperor, which says that if he does not give him complete satisfaction, he will make an end to the Buenos Ayres at any price, and send troops and ships to blockade Portugal and effect a landing. The treasury is so much exhausted, that Don Miguel is three months in arrear to the troops, and five months to the officers. The government is uneasy, and the ministers are said to have a project of sending the crown jewels to Gibraltar, to pawn them for money. They have spoken on this subject, it is said, to Don Miguel, who did not seem pleased with it.

Bucharest, Sept. 22.

The Russian army, which retreated from before Shoumla, arrived on the 15th of Sept. at Bajardschick. It was reported that it would not delay to continue its march to Isaktchka. In consequence of the daily attacks of Hussein Bey, the general retreat of the Russians may be easily accelerated, and Varna delivered, especially if the reports that have been in circulation for the four days past should be confirmed. It is said that, in consequence of a sortie by the garrison of Silistria, which was 25,000 men strong, the army of General Roth, observing that place, has been totally beaten and dispersed. It is added, that whatever part fell not into the hands of the Turks has sought its safety in flight, leaving 80 pieces of cannon behind, and that it was not till evening that the troops could be rallied. The Turks have destroyed all the works of the Russians; so that there is no chance of even dreaming to recommence the siege. On account of this check, General Roth has been dismissed from the command. It is asserted, however, as the direct communications with Varna, by way of Shoumla, are interrupted, these statements seem to require confirmation. Prince Sherbatoff is to reorganize the corps of Gen. Roth.

Exclusive of the bridges over the Danube, which the Turks possess at Giurgevo and Silistria, they have likewise other passages, near Semnitz and elsewhere, where they fortify themselves without any opposition. It is therefore to be feared, that as the Russian army has not a single point of retreat near Isaktchka, the Turks will push into the principalities upon several points, and lay that upon the principalities upon several points, and lay that into the principalities upon several points, and lay that would destroy them, fall on the rear of the army besieging Varna, relieve that town, and terminate the campaign by compelling the whole Russian army to a general attack.

A letter, dated Leipsig, the 9th Oct. (received in New York) says:—"To-day we have the important news of the Russians having taken the fortress of Varna, by assault.—The whole garrison, and the Town, have been destroyed, as well by means of the arms as by fire.—The Russian loss is said to have been very great."

United States.

EFFECTS OF THE TARIFF.

Four years ago the people of this State found a ready cash market for every commodity. Lumber and every other article, whether the produce of our forests, our farmers, our workshop or our fisheries, commanded a high price. To every class of our enterprising community, it was a period of almost unexampled prosperity. Our vessels were traversing the ocean in every direction, and returning with rich cargoes gave activity and animation to our merchants and sailors, our traders mechanics and laborers. The wealth brought home by our ships flowed freely and diffusively, blending itself with the general circulation, while industry in every department of life found a ready and ample reward for its cares and toils. So great was the impulse given at and prior to that period, that by the accumulation of energy the machinery of industry and mercantile enterprize continued to move onward after the life giving power had ceased to act. For the last two years the machinery has been moving more and more heavily, till at length it is nearly at a stand. The rapid growth, the striking improvement of this town, bear witness to the prosperity, of which we have been speaking. Our apparent growth has continued; but for the last two years we have been expending upon stores and houses the wealth gained in the days of our commercial prosperity. There has been no increase of capital. This town is not worth so much at this moment as it was three years ago by hundreds of thousands of dollars. Then, our vessels were suffered to lay in port only just long enough to unload, brush up a little and reload. Now, look down into our docks and around our wharves, and see the forests of masts rising from vessels lying idle. At that period the freight on a pound of cotton to Europe was two and a half cents; now our vessels can obtain only half a cent. A new vessel of excellent workmanship, we are informed, was sold only a few days since at a sacrifice of $4950.—One dealer in lumber in this town will show you by his books, that he had suffered a loss this year in that article of three thousand dollars. We met a respectable farmer from the country a few days ago in our streets, who informed us that he had brought in for sale a load of sawed hard stuff in order to raise a little ready money.—Heretofore, he said "he had always found a ready cash market, but now he could not get rid of it at any lay." Another year, and there must be a stop to building. The mason and joiner, the painter and cabinet worker, the blacksmith and sailor, and shipwright, and lumberman, and all those other classes of our fellow citizens, whose employments are connected with a mercantile and business doing community.—Portland Argus.

The Editor of a new paper in Vermont, makes this significant remark in his prospectus: "Those who never intend to pay are requested never to subscribe." The suggestion is very fair, and is capable of only one improvement—to extend its application to old as well as to new papers. However complimentary the non-paying part of the community may think it to bestow their patronage upon newspapers, such support is a little too unsubstantial to render it either convenient or desirable to publishers.—All persons, therefore, whom this subject may concern are desired to take heed.

A strange and shocking murder was committed a few minutes past 2 o'clock this afternoon, at No. 25, Williamstreet. We cannot obtain particulars in season for this paper. But the simple fact is that Mrs. Newman, a lady who kept a boarding-house, was shot by a boarder named Richard Johnson, a printer. It seems the family had just sat down to dinner, when in the midst of some conversation, the purport of which we have not learnt, but in which tion, the purport of which we have not learnt, but in which Johnson became excited, he drew a pistol and shot herself. Perceiving he had only inflicted a wound, he exclaimed, "if one won't do another will." With that he ran up stairs and came back in an instant with another pistol, which, before his progress could be arrested, he discharged, too fatally, at his victim. One shot was in her head, and another in her breast. Mrs. N. is not yet quite dead, but cannot survive. The second pistol burst, and shattered the villian's hand. He was then seized, country wants, in such a manner as to render it impossible, or at least very hazardous, to seek winter quarters in the principalities. The boldest minds are struck with sinister presentiments.

Paris, Oct. 12.

We have received letters from Odessa, of the 26th September. No doubt was entertained of the taking of Varna, but it was known that the Russian army was in a distressed condition, and that the Emperor desires peace. If we may believe the letters from Bucharest, the Turks have resumed the offensive. The corps of Gen. Roth has been almost entirely destroyed, the siege of Shumla raised, and the Russians, abandoning thirty pieces of cannon, have retreated towards Bazardjik, pursued by Hussein Bay at the head of 70,000 men, who flattered himself that he

A young man by the name of Bruner, of Cranberry township, Butler county, Penn. accidently shot his father on the 2d inst. They were watching a deer lick, and the father having wandered from the course agreed upon, the son perceived something moving in the bushes, which he supposed was a buck, and fired; when, conceive his astonishment on coming up to find instead of a buck, the almost lifeless body of his father!

By the annual report of the superintendent of the Vermont state prison, made to the legislature the present session, it appears that October 1st 1828, the number of prisoners was 123, and that by the work of the prisoners all the expenses of the prison the past year have been paid, except the sum of $800, to meet which there is a quantity of manufactured goods on hand. The convicts are principally employed in weaving; 120,000 yards have been woven the past year; 40,000 of which is double twilled goods, employing 54 looms.

Samuel L. Gouverneur, (son-in-law of President Munroe,) has received the appointment of Post Master of New York.

MARKETS.

The price of grain had fallen, and a further fall was anticipated. The London Courier of Friday the 17th, says on this subject—"We refer our readers with pleasure to our corn exchange report of this day, where fine English Wheat sold full 10s. a quarter lower than on Monday last.—Free, as well as foreign bonded wheat experienced a similar decline."

CORN EXCHANGE, LONDON, 17th Oct.

The arrivals of all descriptions of Grain fresh this week have been immense, and have caused a complete stagnation in the trade in general in our market.—With respect to wheat scarcely a sale was effected, although a reduction of from 6s. to 8s. per quarter, would have been readily submitted to clear vessels: but the millers appeared determined not to purchase.—In fact, good red wheat was sold on Monday and Wednesday has been returned, and a large portion remained unsold at the close of this day's Market. From this it will appear we have not yet arrived at the point of depression. Barley, Beans, Peas, and the low qualities of Oats, all sold at a reduction in price, but fine old Oats fully support Monday's quotations.

FLOUR.—In consequence of the news by the ship New York, Flour was one dollar lower, in New York, on Wednesday morning. Some sales took place at $8. for common southern.

YORK MARKET.

The New York Daily Advertiser of Saturday, says:—"Up to Tuesday, flour and grain remained without material change; on that afternoon the arrival of the packet New York, brought advices from Liverpool to the 20th, which were of a decline, the effect of which was, to reduce the price of flour about a dollar, and grain in proportion. Many of the holders decline sales, and feel confident the accounts to be received, will strengthen the market. Ashes have improved.

Lower Canada.

The Bishop's Palace has, during the past summer, undergone considerable repairs and alterations. The Chamber of the Legislative Council has been enlarged, to nearly double its former size, by having the library added to it: the roof has also been raised, and it now forms a handsome and capacious appartment well adapted for the purpose for which it is designed. Whilst these improvements were making it is to be regretted that the old hangings and Throne should have kept their places. The last is a clumsy piece of work, and as it is now placed has a most undignified appearance. The contest and activity prevails at present to complete the fitting up of this room that it may be in readiness for the meeting of the Legislature on the 21st instant.

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT OF LOWER CANADA.

Legislative Council Chamber,
Quebec 31st November, 1828.

This day at two o'clock, His EXCELLENCY SIR JAMES KEMPT came down in State to the Legislative Council Chamber, and being seated on the Throne, the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod was sent down to the House of Assembly to command their attendance before His Excellency, and that House being come up, the Speaker of the Legislative Council said:—

Gentlemen of the Assembly,

"I am commanded by His Excellency to inform you that He does not see fit to delare the causes for which He has summoned this Provincial Parliament, until the Speaker of the Assembly shall have been elected and approved.—And I am further commanded to inquire whether you have proceeded to the Election of a Speaker; and, if you have, upon whom yourchoice has fallen."

To which Mr. Papineau replied:

May it please Your Excellency,

"In obedience to His Majesty's commands, the House of Assembly has proceeded to the Election of a Speaker, and I am the person upon whom their choice has fallen. I respectfully pray that it may please your Excellency to give your approbation to their choice."

Upon which the Speaker of the Legislative Council said,

Mr. Papineau,

"I am commanded by His Excellency to acquait you that He approves the choice which the Assembly has made of you to be their Speaker, and, relying upon your loyalty, talents and discretion. He doth allow and confirm your election."

Mr. Papineau then made the usual claim to the privileges of the Assembly, to which His Excellency's assent was given in the accustomed form

His excellency was then pleased to open the Session with the following Speech:

Gentlemen of the Legislative Council,

Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

His Majesty having been most graciously pleased to confide to me the Government of this important Colony, it affords me great satisfaction to meet you in Provincial Parliament.

Placed in a situation of no much importance, at a period of peculiar difficulty, I cannot but feel that very arduous duties are imposed upon me; duties indeed, which I should despair of being able to discharge, to the satisfaction of His Majesty, and his faithful and loyal subjects the inhabitants of this Province, if I did not look forward, with a sanguine hope, to the enjoyment of your confidence, and your cordial co-operation in my Administration of the Government.

Without a good understanding between the different Branches of the Legislature, the Public Affairs of the Colony cannot prosper; the evils, which are now experienced, cannot be effectually cured; the prosperity and welfare of His Majesty's Canadian subjects cannot be promoted; and you may therefore believe that no exertions will be spared on my part, to promote conciliation, by measures in which the undoubted Prerogatives of the Crown, and your Constitutional Privileges will be equally respected.

His Majesty's Government has, however, relieved me from the responsibility attendant upon any measures to be adopted for the adjustment of the financial difficulties that have unfortunately occurred; and I shall take an early opportunity of conveying to you by Message a communication from His Majesty, which I have been specially commanded to make to you upon the subject of the appropriation of the Provincial Revenue.

It will be my duty to lay at the same time before you, the views of His Majesty's Government upon other topics connected with the Government of this Province, in addition of the Ministers of the Crown has been called: You will see in them proofs of the earnest desire of His Majesty's Government, to provide, as far as may be practicable, an effectual remedy for any case of real grievance; and you may rely on my affording you every assistance towards the elucidation of any questions which may arise for discussion in the course of your proceedings.

Gentlemen of the House of Assembly—

I shall direct the Accounts of the Provincial Revenue, and Expenditure for the last two years, to be laid before you, as soon as possible, with every explanation respecting them, which it is my duty to afford you.

Gentlemen of the Legislative Council,

Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

Relying on your zeal and diligence in the discharge of your Legislative Duties, I feel persuaded that you will give your immediate attention to the renewal of such useful Acts as may have recently expired; and, indeed, to all matters of public interest that may appear to be of pressing necessity and importance.

Possessing, as yet, but no imperfect knowledge of the great interests of the Province, and the wants of its inhabitants, I refrain, at the present time, from recommending to you measures of Public improvement, which it will be my duty to bring under your consideration at a future day.—In all countries, however, goods roads and other internal communications;—a general system of Education, established on sound principles;—and a well-organised, efficient Militia Force, are found to be so conducive to the prosperity, the happiness, and the security of their inhabitants, that I may be permitted to mention these, at present, as objects of prominent utility.

But an oblivion of all past jealousies and dissensions is the first great step towards improvement of any kind; and, when that is happily accomplished, and the united attention of the Executive Government, and the Legislature, shall be given to the advancement of the general interests of the Province, in a spirit of cordial co-operation, there is no doubt that Lower-Canada will rapidly advance in prosperity; and emulate, ere long, the most opulent and flourishing portions of the North American Continent.

The Speaker having returned to the Chamber of the Assembly reported the proceedings which had taken place above in his regard, and announced, in the usual form, that he had been confirmed as Speak of that Honorable House.

Mr. Neilson then introduced a Bill for re-uniting, the seats of Members of the Assembly, accepting Office under the Crown, which the Hon Member was understood to say was the same which had been previously before both Chambers of the Legislature, but had not received the Royal Assent. The Bill was then read a first time, and the second reading ordered for Wednesday next.

The privilege of the House being established—Mr. Bourdages moved that it be referred to a Committee of the whole House, instead of a Special Committee, in order that every Member might have an opportunity of expressing his opinion on the subject of the Address. The motion was supported by Messrs. Neilson, Valliéres and Borgia and opposed by Mr. Ogden, on the ground that it was an innovation upon the precedents established by the Imperial Parliament, and which had hitherto been followed in this country.

Several Committees in the ordinary routine were then appointed.—The Clerk of the House reported the death of Jean Bélanger, Esq. one of the Members for the Lower-Town and a new writ was made for accordingly. The House adjourned till 3 o'clock this day.

The attendance was unusually full, only six Members being absent, M. M. Perrault, Fortin, Turgeon, Viger, Larue, Leroux.

The Hon. and Rev. the Lord Bishop of Quebec and Mr. Justice Taschereau have been called to the Legislative Council.—Q. Mercury.

The Halifax Post of Thursday has brought the English Oct'r. mail. We understand that answers have been received to letters and despatches which went home in H. M. Ship Challenger.—ib.

We learn from Quebec, that in consequence of the high freight now demanded, the Diligent, one of the barges employed during the summmer between this and Quebec, and belonging to Gillespie, Finlay, & Co. was fitting out to carry home about 500 barrels of Ashes. We are sorry to notice the shipwreck of the Erie, Captain HAMMOND, for London, below Quebec.—Montreal Gazette.

We were visited by a very heavy snow storm, which commenced on Saturday evening and continued during the whole of that night and a part of yesterday. The few vessels now in our port, have, we are informed, suffered considerable damage from running ashore during the gale of Saturday evening. The ground is completely covered with snow, and it continues to freeze severely. People have had recourse to their winter carriges, and every thing presents the appearance of steady cold weather.—ib.

THE LOYALIST.

YORK, U. C., SATURDAY, DECEMER 6, 1828.

We have made such extracts from late papers as appear most interesting. The latest dates from England are to 19th October.

The Mail from Lower Canada did not arrive here this week until Thursday afternoon, twenty-four hours after the usual time. The Roads are in a dreadful state, from the great quantity of Rain which has fallen during the last fortnight. The weather continues open and mild.

By Proclamation of His Excellency Sir John Colborne, the Legislature of this Province meets for the Despatch of Business, on Thursday 8th January next.

The Speech of His Excellency Sir James Kempt, at the opening of the Session of the Parliament in Lower Canada, will be found in our columns this day.—Mr. Papineau, will be sworn has been approved of by His Excellency, as Speaker of the Assembly.—It appears to be the anxious desire of all parties in Lower Canada, that harmony may be restored between the several branches of the Legislature, without which it is evident that the interests of the Country must suffer.—His Excellency's Speech affords the most satisfactory evidence of His desire to promote that harmony, and to further by every means in His power the improvement of the Province.—It is to be hoped that the feeling will be reciprocal, and that the Province may derive all the advantages which usually result, from combined zeal and unanimity of purpose on the part of those who are selected to the high and important trust, of guardians of the public interest

The freedom of the Burgh of Wick, was presented to the Hon. William Campbell, Chief Justice of Upper Canada, when he was lately on a visit to Caithness, his native Country, from which he had been absent for 52 years.—(Examiner.)

We read with much regret an article in the Canadian Freeman of last week, containing a most violent attack upon the Supreme Court of Justice in this Province.—The Editor, Mr. Collins whose production this appears to be, is in confinement upon a sentence of conviction for a Libel, and how he can imagine that his offence can be extenuated, or compassion be in any quarter excited by attacks upon the Judges of the Land, it is difficult to conceive

Not following his example we shall in a plain way, and temperately, make a few remarks upon this production.

In the first place it is evident that no Society can exist in security, unless the Laws which govern the interests, and secure the right of individuals are enforced—and it is clear, that this cannot be done, if every losing party in a Civil cause, or every person convicted by a Jury in a Criminal case, is to assail the Judge upon whom the duty is thrown of administering justice according to those laws, with gross and scurrilous abuse.

Mr. Collins has the presumption in the paper before us to heap calumnious epithets upon two of the Judges of the Court of King's Bench, because before their elevation to the Bench, they held Office under the Government, of Collector of Customs. It is most true that Mr. Justice Sherwood, and Mr. Justice Hagerman once held those Offices—which may be, and which in their instances we believe, were performed by Deputy, and which are so held, and the duties so discharged, by men of much higher rank in the Mother Country.—The Duke of Manchester having, as it is well known, been Collector of the Port of London, even while he held the high post of Governor of Jamaica.

We feel quite inclined to admit on general principles, but not in deference to the opinions of the Freeman, that the situation in question is in appearance at least incongruous with the particular profession of a Barrister, though the duties are respectable, requiring inflexible integrity, and are such too, that the knowledge of the Law and proper construction of complicated Statutes, which a Lawyer is the most likely to possess, cannot but be advantageous to the public, and convenient to the Officer. Mr. Hagerman we believe was appointed before he was a Barrister, and Mr. Sherwood many years ago, when it was not easy to find in every little Village persons eligible to responsible public Offices. We never heard that the conduct of either of these Gentlemen in the Department to which their Government appointed them, was otherwise than perfectly correct. Mr. Sherwood's name as connected with that Office, which he held for many years, we never heard called in question. Mr. Hagerman we remember was once traduced in his Office of Collector through the columns of a newspaper to serve a party purpose, and we remember also, that he called the Editor to account in a prosecution, which was discontinued, on the public acknowledgement of the Defendant in open Court, of his belief that there was no truth in the statement he had been induced to publish.

Both of the Hon. Judges whom Mr. Collins has thus attacked, were for many years prominent members of the Bar, generally admired for their talents, and always enjoying the entire confidence of the public in their professional characters. We may add, we are sure, that not in a single instance during a long course of professional practice, was the character of either arraigned. Mr. Justice Sherwood, against whom the envenomed shafts of the writer are principally directed, is a man known in both Provinces of Canada, from his birth, and respected wherever he is known—he was more than once the Representative in Parliament of the populous County in which he resided, and closed his political career, as Speaker of the Assembly.—So much for the first part of the Editors production.

Upon another topic, we shall only remark, that what is said upon the subject of Mr. Justice Sherwood's supposed forfeiture of his Office, by going to the Saratoga Springs, with the leave of the Governor, is merely silly, and that it requires no little hardihood to repeat it, when the absurdity of such a pretence is manifest to every one, and has been so clearly exposed.—However, about this it is idle to waste words. His Majesty, in whom it is the fashion of our Patriots, to express their unbounded confidence, has been told so long ago as July last, that Mr. Sherwood, and many more, had forfeited their Offices, but yet we do not find that much value has been set upon the information, or that their Offices have been supplied by others, whom Mr. Collins would doubtless prefer.

As to the conduct of the trial touched upon by Mr. Collins—whenever it is determined that "an open palpable falsehood," does not mean "a lie," and that "malignancy" does not import a disposition to hurt others, then we may admit that the learned Judge may have been mistaken. In the mean time we must say, that it is with singularly little justice, that Mr. Collins has complained of the learned Judge, for "refusing the Jury the opportunity of proving by the book"—the meaning of the libellous words.—(We do not copy the language which Mr. Collins outraging all propriety, has applied to the Bench.)—The plain truth is, that the Jury did send to the Court a message, that they wished to have Johnson's Dictionary, and with this message the Judge scrupled to comply, unless the Crown Officers, and the Defendant's Counsel should consent. He expressly referred to them, and Mr. Ralph and Mr. Baldwin after looking up in the Dictionary the words most offensive in the Libel, told His Lordship openly from their places at the Bar, that on the part of the Dejendant they felt it their duty to object. The Judge consequently did not comply with the Jury's request, and was even so delicate towards the Def ndant, and his Counsel, that he particularly enjoined the Sheriff that he need not mention who it was that objected to giving them the information. The Crown Officer consented, and wished that the Jury might know he did not object, but the Judge thought that the course he directed was the most proper. See then, how just is the statement of Mr. Collins!—The dreaded Dictionary, his own Counsel were well aware would have shown, that the Judge had been far from putting the most severe construction on the language which Mr. Collins had used of the Officers of the Court.

On the remainder of this extraordinary production we forbear to remark.—Every one is amenable to the Laws of the land, and if Mr Collins has been illegally or unjustly treated, the Constitution affords a remedy.—It is not to be found, and ought not to be sought in violence and abuse.

Whatever relates to the improvement of the Roads is interesting, and it is therefore with much pleasure that we refer our readers to a letter from Mr. Burwell, to the Editor of the Gore Gazette, which we copy from that paper, detailing the system pursued in the expenditure of a Subscription among the Inhabitants of the London District, for the improvement of the Talbot Road. The undertaking is a spirited one, and highly deserving of commendation. The plan adopted in expending the subscription, so as to realise the greatest quantity of work, may afford some useful information, in the event of its being considered desirable to change the present mode of performing the Statute Labor.—The great point which seems to have been accomplished is this—that the Subscribers "have taken a very great interest in the application of their own money," and the consequence has been, that a very desirable improvement has been effected, at a comparatively small expense.—If the same feeling could be produced in the performance of the Statute Labor—if instead of considering (as Mr. Wilson said in the House of Assembly last year, many do) that they are "working for the King" upon "the King's Highway," the people could be convinced of what is really the fact, that they are working for themselves, and for their own benefit, the amount of Statute labor annually expended (or which ought to be expended) would present us with a very different appearance in the state of our Roads.—The amount of this Statute Labor from a computation which we made on a former occasion,* cannot be less than 74,000 days, which at 3s. 9d. per day, the rate at which the Subscribers on the Talbot Road, worked out their Subscriptions, would amount to the sum of £13,875.—A sum certainly sufficient to effect a great deal of improvement on the Roads, if the persons giving their labor could be brought to feel an interest in the work as being for their own immediate benefit.

It has occurred to us on reading Mr. Burwell's letter, whether the Statute Labor might not be expended with greater advantage, if a commutation price was fixed, leaving it to the choice of parties, either to commute at that price, or perform the labor in kind, under Contracts to be given out under proper superintendence.—For example—supposing a Township with a population of 200 liable to assessment—100 persons commute at 3s. 9d. per day—and 100 perform the assessment in kind—Contracts are then offered, for certain improvements, with the condition that a given sum (including absentee taxes) will be paid in Cash, and the remainder in so many days labour, furnished at the rate of 3s. 9d. per day, the usual laboring hours being fixed, instead of those now assigned by the Statute.—Under such an arrangement if an interest could be excited among the people, in the expenditure of what might be considered "their own money," much good might be realised.—The detail of such a plan might be considered complicated, but much of its complication would perhaps be avoided, by authorising Contractors to compound with laborers for jobs of work, on their respective Contracts.

But we are perhaps anticipating—our Parliament meets soon, and we trust some efficient plan for the improvement of our Roads, so anxiously expected, and so much required, will be adopted.

The Annual Meeting of the "Stranger's Friend Society" was held in the Court House, on Saturday last, when the Report was submitted and adopted, from which it appeared that two hundred and thirty persons had been relieved by supplies of Provisions, and attendance during sickness, in the course of the last year.—From the increased demand upon the benevolence of the Society, it has been deemed expedient to alter its Constitution, and a Committee of Members was appointed for that purpose, who are to report such amendments as appear necessary to an adjourned General Meeting to be held this day.—His Excellency Sir John Colborne, has been pleased to signify His assent to become Patron of the Society.

The following is taken from the Gore Gazette.—It will no doubt be read with surprise.

REPORT OF THE CANADA COMMITTEE.

We presume that almost every individual in the two Canadian Provinces, who reads anything, has read—and read too with that interest which the importance of the subjects embraced therein was calculated to inspire—the document which some months since was published in all the Canadian papers; purporting to be the Report of the Committee of the Imperial Parliament, called the Canada Committee. And we have an equal right to presume that no individual who read that document ever entertained a moment's doubt that it was in fact, what it purported to be, the actual Report of that Committee. The public therefore will, no doubt, be very much surprised to be informed by us, that the document in question, was not the Report which was actually presented by the Committee to the Imperial Parliament; and that the latter differed in many very essential particulars from the former,

With regard to the source from which we derive our information, it is incumbent on us only to say, that it is one which admits neither of doubt or disputation.

It is not in our power to publish, in this number, the whole of the genuine report; but we will present the public with a few paragraphs, which, either differ very materially from, or were entirely omitted in, the paper which purported to be the "Report of the Canada Committee."

In the first place, with regard to an Union of the two Provinces—a subject of the greatest interest to the Country—the pretended Report, discountenances the project—for the present at least—and that in the following language, viz:—

"Upon the great question of the union of the two Canadas, your Committee have received much evidence to which they desire to call the attention of the House. With reference to the state of public feeling that appears to prevail in those Colonies on this momentous subject, your Committee are not prepared under present circumstances to recommend that measure.

"Your Committee, nevertheless, think it highly desirable that some satisfactory arrangement (and, if possible, one of a permanent nature) should be effected between the two Canadas with regard to the imposition and distribution of the customs collected in the St. Lawrence. They trust, however, when the boats which, so unfortunately exist shall have subsided, that such an arrangement may be amicably effected,"

While the following extract from the Report which was really made by that Committee, will shew that the measure of an Union, was considered—by the Committee as essential to the prosperity and even the safety of the Provinces:—

"Your Committee have thought it their duty to say this much upon these subjects, with a view to explain the grounds of the opinion which they have expressed that the commercial relations of the two provinces must lead to a union between them. Considerations of defence will in a still greater degree urge the necessity of a more intimate connection. It is evident that as long as the revenues of the colony continue to be divided into two parts, and are subject to separate appropriations, that the unity of object and action which is essential to military defence and to effective resistance of hostile aggression, must in a great degree be wanting. Notwithstanding the exertions which Great Britain will at all times be ready to make in the defence of this colony, it is evident its safety must, in a great degree depend on the resources which are to be found within it; and we know of no means by which these resources can be rendered so effectual as by uniting them. As to the time and mode in which that object should be effected, your Committee are unable to pronounce any opinion."

* See Loyalist of 1st December, 1827.

The following extracts too, from the genuine Report, in reference to the affairs of the Lower Province, which we entirely omitted in the pretended one—will prove the sentiments of the Committee, to be materially different from those inculcated in the latter.

"The Committee beg leave to refer to the evidence for an explanation of the inconveniences which are said to result from the French laws respecting Dower, and from the want of a Registry of Deeds affecting real property, an institution which is said to be productive of great benefit both in Upper Canada and in the United States. Without entering into further explanation or detail, your Committee are disposed to state their opinion that Great Britain is bound to claim for those of her subjects who may be desirous of settling in Lower Canada, the privilege of being so under the protection of laws affecting their persons and property, which may (as far as consistent with the rights of others) accord with those which they have been accustomed to, and which may be administered in a language they understand. In deliberating upon the mode in which this object could best be secured, your Committee were much disposed to believe that Canada, possessing an independent Legislature, might be left safely to provide for it, without the interference of the British Parliament. Your Committee were not unmindful of the observation made to them by Mr. Stephen,—'that it is vain to attempt to establish laws of minute detail on one side of the Atlantic which are to operate on the other;' but they bore in mind also, that Mr Stephen had accompanied this observation by a statement that the Constitution of the Legislature of the country would be greatly altered, before it can be implicitly trusted with carrying the necessary reform into effect

"We have already alluded to the statement in the Petition from the Township, that the House of Assembly is actually in the hands of the inhabitants of the Seigneuries; though your Committee do not go so far as to impute to the Canadians of French origin, a settled wish to retain exclusive possession of the land, for the sole benefit of their own and their children's descendants; they believe, nevertheless, that a very strong and not unnatural desire prevails among them to maintain their own Institutions, and to transmit to their posterity the language, laws, and customs which they have inherited. They view with apprehension the recognitions of any principle which may tend to establish in their immediate neighborhood, an order of things materially different from that which they wish not only to maintain and preserve, BUT GRADUALLY TO STRENGTHEN AND EXTEND.

"On this subject your Committee could not fail to be struck with the statement of Mr. Vigor, who when asked his opinion as to the stability of the British law relating to the tenure of free and common soccage, expressly said "That it would be at least unjust." In explaining his views of the causes which had retarded the cultivation of Lower Canada, he answered as follows:—

"If I were to enter into the details, I would demonstrate that, it is that kind of fluctuation which has existed in Canada, since the conquest, by which we have been continually threatened with seeing all those rights which are dear to us, destroyed, that which has retarded the settlement of the country; and if you consider the immense progress which has been made by the Canadian population, in spite of all the difficulties which they have experienced, it is not to be wondered at, if we have been if a prosper system of conduct had been followed with the respect to the Canadians.

The following question was then put to Mr. Vigor:—

"When you say a proper system, do you mean if the French system and the French laws had not been obstructed in its operation? So far as this; that they should have continued to let the French possess all over the country, and that they should have given facility to the people of the country to settle in those townships; that instead of putting obstructions, they should have given them the means of going there."

"Admitting, as your Committee are willing to do, the steady loyalty and tried attachment of the Canadians to this country, and recognising to the fullest extent the many excellent qualities by which they are distinguished, your Committee are nevertheless of opinion that the reasonable wishes of the British settlers respecting real property cannot be effected without the interference of the British Parliament."

The hope to be able ere long to favor our readers with the whole of the Report as it was actually presented to the House—for the present, we have adduced enough to prove that the document which has gone the round of the papers, was not, what it purported to be, the "Report of the Canada Committee."

FORT TALBOT, Nov. 17, 1828.

To the Editor of the Gore Gazette.

SIR—You will please excuse me for not answering your note of the 6th instant until now. I felt obliged by the interest you take in the success of our subscriptions for the improvement of Talbot Road, of which you have heard, but could not well find time to communicate. Since I made another tour to all the places we are improving, at least as far as I am personally concerned (with many others) in the application of the sums we have raised—from which tour, I have returned this day. The sum we have got subscribed in the Counties of Middlesex, and Kent, amount to rising three hundred pounds, currency. There were many persons concerned in soliciting the subscriptions, and we made it a point to call at every house along the road in the townships concerned, and many others to the eastward, and receive what we could get subscribed, great or small, and in whatever the doner felt he could most easily pay when the conditions for improving the road should be completed; or in the course of the work, as many of the settlers subscribed in "labor or stock," or "grain or labor," and sometimes a share of cash, &c. subscriptions authorized the Magistrates in different townships to contract for such improvements, in such manner and in such places as the amount subscribed might warrant, for the general improvement of the whole line, after the subscriptions should be circulated throughout. Almost every inhabitant contributed to the Magistrates advertised for proposals, stating the kind of improvements which the subscriptions would seem to authorize. Proposals were made, and in some cases acted upon, but in general, they set too high a value upon their work to be performed. In some places two lines of ditches were required, and the earth to be formed into a road between them; but the proposals for this service were so high that we only contracted in one instance to a small extent. The consequence was, that we had to persuade a few persons upon whom we could depend for a true account, to work together their subscriptions, at ditching and forming the road, at three shillings and nine pence currency per day, boarding themselves; and by this means we ascertained that as much work could be had received offered to do for ten shillings—and in all cases contracted for, in that proportion lower than any proposals were offered. The ditching and forming up the road, is all now in progress at the same rate, and will be completed by the the middle of, probably, a hundred different bargains, and all first of next month. The course we have pursued has given us but we doubt not that the whole extent of road from Brantford to Amherstburgh will be completed, so as to admit a private stage of stages running between those places by the first of January next, should the persons who have it in contemplation to embark in that measure, be ready at the time.

Yours, &c.

M. BURWELL.

Boundary Question.—The Acadian (Halifax) Recorder, of Nov. 8, gives the following extract of a letter received from a gentleman at Dorchester, N. S.:—"A gentleman just arrived here from Fredericton, states, that, before he left there, it was reported, on the authority of a letter from Henry Bliss, Esq. (Provincial Agent,) that the Boundary Question had been settled, in England, without reference."

The valedictory Address, which was presented to Sir P. Maitland, from Perth, was signed by 612 persons, and not by 112, as stated in some of the Colonial papers. No doubt exists, but five times that number of names, from this District, would have been attached to it, had an opportunity been given to our loyal and contented settlers; but it was despatched to York in haste, lest the Lieut. Governor should have departed from the Seat of Government previous to its arrival.—Independent Examiner.

WELLAND CANAL.

The Board of Directors of this Company, we learn, decided at their late meeting, as the best and most effectual means of remedying the defective and hazardous state of the Canal at the Deep Cut, (caused by the recent caving in, and bulging up of the quick sands, or soft earth, from the bottom of the Canal, as originally intended,) upon raising the summit level 12 feet, and drawing the necessary supply of water, by a feeder of sufficient dimensions for boat navigation, from the Grand River, at a considerable distance up from its mouth: and have directed the Engineers to proceed immediately in examining the situation of the country, and to ascertain, by actual survey, the best route for laying out the proposed lateral Canal.

In the vent of this project going into operation, the channel of the Chippawa will not be converted into a part of the Canal; consequently the towing-path on its banks mentioned in our last, will not be required. The abundant supply of water or hydraulic machinery at the several locks in the descent of the mountain, will not be affected by the proposed alteration.

By this new plan, the following considerations will be obtained, and evils remedied:—

1st. The whole of the Deep Cut, by the earth not being taken out so deep into 12 feet, as at those places where the caving or sliding has occurred, will be rendered more permanent, and the Canal much wider than it would have been on the old plan, and at far less expense.

2d. By making the feeder navigable for boats, to such an extent into the interiour of the country, important benefits will undoubtedly result to the inhabitants along its route, and on the borders of the Grand River for many miles back.

The Engineers have already entered upon the duties assigned them: and we hope soon to be able to lay their report before the public.—Farmer's Journal.

WOMAN CREATED.

Man was made when Nature was but an apprentice—but woman, when she was a skilful mistress.—Cupid's Whirligig.

MIGNONETTE I will have on her lips,
On her cheeks the dark ruby repose,
O'er her neck, buds of jessamine creep,
And dimple her chin—with a rose.
Fleur-de-lis shall o'ershadow her brow,
Almond blossoms cement every sigh
To a kiss—while its amorous glow
In a tincture of tulips shall lie!

Agnus castus shall compose her mind,
Her tongue, from the petal of roses,
Her form as her beauties, refined—
Be a beautiful bouquet of posies:
Her blossoms should never be blighted,
Nor withered by passionless love,
But all her sweet thoughts be requited—
To live—like an angel above!

Bright ringlets of jet for her hair,
For her eyes, I'll steal comets from heaven;
For her eyelids, convolvulus' fair,
For her heart, I'll have heart's-ease; and even
Her brows shall be arch'd with the bow
Of Cupid,—that rainbow of bliss;
When finish'd. I'll breathe such a glow,
She shall wake into life by a kiss!

COMETS.

The two comets, which are soon to appear, excite much interest. According to the calculations of M. Damoiseau, of the French Academy, that, the mean revolution of which is 2469 days, will arrive at the perihelion on the 27th November, 1832, at thirty-two minutes, twenty-one seconds after eleven: its perturbations may be nine days, fifteen hours, fifty-six minutes, and twenty-seven seconds. The comet, the period of which is three years and a third, has a less irregular motion. It re-appeared towards the end of the last summer; on the 11th of November it will reach its shortest distance from the earth; and towards the middle of the 10th of January, 1829, it will arrive at the perihelion. It is hoped that the observations on this comet will tend to resolve the important question as to the resistance of the ether to the movements of celestial bodies.

AURORA BOREALIS.

Though the origin of Auroræ is generally ascribed to electricity in a rarified atmosphere, yet the following ingenious hypothesis from a writer in a late number of the "Philosophical Magazine," is worthy of notice:—"It is generally at or near the time of the equinoxes that these lights make their appearance in our latitudes, at which time the sun's rays would be tangents to the poles of the earth, were they not disturbed by the refractive power of the atmosphere. By this refraction, it is obvious that the rays will extend to a certain point beyond the pole, on the side opposite to the sun, when they must of course fall on the immense accumulation of ice within the polar circle, which will be reflected with great brilliancy towards the darkened hemisphere, undergoing in their course another refraction, which bends them still more southward; and as the atmosphere possesses the power of reflecting light, these rays will finally fall back on the earth, and will at a certain angle, and in certain limits, be visible to its inhabitants." We consider this theory to be equally rational with the well-known theory of double refraction and reflection in the formation of the iris, or rainbow.

A Noble Thief.—The following appears in a native Bengalese paper:—"Latterly in the district of Baukora, a thief had made an entrance into the house of a Brahmin. Whilst searching for booty, he heard voices, and was about to retreat, when he found the parties close to him, and where he had entered, consisting of the Brahmin's wife and her gallant engaged in conversation. The woman complained of the jealousy of her husband and her lover recommended her to take advantage of his being absent to murder him, giving her a sword for the purpose. She objected, however, that if he should awake he might kill her too strong for her; and urging the gallant to undertake the deed himself, to which he consented: as he advanced to where the house, the thief slipped through a window, made free with the Brahmin's property, thought it incumbent on him to protect the Brahmin's life, and as the intended murderer passed the spot where he was secreted, he thrust the instrument with which he had made his way from the wall into the man's belly and killed him, after which he made his escape. The woman seeing her gallant slain, made an outcry, which brought her husband and neighbors to the spot, when she accused the former of having committed the murder. He was accordingly secured and tried, and as appearances were strong, against him, sentenced to be hanged. From this fate he was again rescued by the heroism of the freebooter, who, on hearing the turn events had taken, gave himself up, and acknowledged his crime. We have not heard what decision was pronounced in the case."

The weight of the diamonds found by the Government Agents in the district of Tajuco, in Brazil, from 1772 to 1818, was 1,200,037 carats; and the quantity received from farming out the mines to a company, after the Government had ceased to work them on its own account, was 1,700,000 carats, being together estimated at the value of 8,000,000 sterling. The largest of the Brazilian diamonds hitherto obtained weighs 1384 carats. It was found in the year 1771, near the river Abaite by a poor negro slave, who was liberated, and had a pension of nearly £50 per annum settled upon him for the remainder of his days.

A vessel containing a large quantity of antique jewellery has been found in a subterranean passage at Champ Vent, near Lyons. The vessel also contained some gold coins of the reign of Claudius. It is said that the collection is valued at 200,000 francs.

TECUMSEH;
OR,
THE WARRIOR OF THE WEST.
A Poem,
IN FOUR CANTOS.

BY AN ENGLISH OFFICER,
(AUTHOR OF THE CANADIAN CAMPAIGN.)

THE name and actions of Tecumseh must be familiar to every inhabitant of Canada: and a desire to see the memory of so distinguished and extraordinary a man perpetuated by any writer, however humble, must be a sentiment co-equal with the admiration so universally excited during his enterprising career, not less among his enemies than among his allies and his friends.

The Author of this Epic Poem, which is illustrated by copious notes, is himself a Canadian, and has often combated at the side of Tecumseh, to whom he was more immediately known. On that memorable day which deprived nature of one of her brightest though rudest gems, and the nearly now exterminated Indian tribes of a leader devoted to their interests and their liberties, he beheld the remains of that glorious Chieftain mangled and disfigured even as he has described them. Scarcely an Officer of the division on that untoward occasion failed to pay the just tribute of regret to his memory, and but few there were who did not lose sight of their own private feelings in the depth and sincerity of their grief for the noble and unfortunate Tecumseh.

The principal and original view of the Author, in composing this Poem, was to rescue the name of this truly great man from the unmerited obloquy in which it had been consigned; but aware of the difficulty under which, as an unknown writer, he labors in giving his work all necessary publicity, he has adopted the suggestions of numerous literary friends, to print the volume by subscription among naval and military men. He trusts moreover that by his own countrymen some encouragement will be afforded, not simply in his character of Poet—the first of his native soil who has adventured on the dangerous shoals of verse—but also in that of the Historian—the panegyrist of him who is now no more, but whose name and whose memory there can be few Canadians unwilling to see transmitted to posterity.

The Poem opens with a description of the action on Lake Erie, where the gallant and unfortunate Barclay, after essaying all that human courage and resolution could attain, was compelled to strike to a superior enemy; and then the leading feature of the several other incidents of the Poem are made to hang.

The Third Canto contains the celebrated speech made by Tecumseh in the council of Chiefs convened by General Proctor, when, after the capture of the little squadron, he proposed retreating from Ambersburgh to the Moravian Village.

Captain Barclay, to whom, in common with the other Officers of the Right Division, the Poem is inscribed, has been pleased to express his entire approbation of the work in terms the most satisfactory and gratifying to the Author. It remains for his own Countrymen to decide how far successful he has been in delineating the scenery of the land, and the habits, occupations, and warlike exercises of the natives.

Should any palpable omissions or errors be noticed, it must be recollected, in extenuation, that the Poem has been composed almost wholly from memory, and that fourteen years have elapsed since the Author last beheld the wild scenery of his native clime.

The price of the Poem in boards, printed on the best paper, and with the best type, will be two dollars.

The Subscribers' copies will be forwarded to their respective addresses.

THE YOUNG ARAB SHEIK.
A TALE, ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE ARABIAN MANNERS.

"Free as the mountain air."

The heat of the mid-day sun was scorching the desert plain of Arabia Petrea, and the intensity of its rays wearied the Pilgrim to rest himself beneath the shady palm, and induced the wild Arab to put spurs to his fleet steed, and seek out his temporary home. At a distance were seen the mountains of Horeb and Sinai; between them and the traveller of the desert, appeared one of those delightful spots on which the eye of the Arab looks with peculiar pleasure. He is the child of enthusiasm and romance, and though his life is one continued scene of predatory warfare, he bounds over the plains with the rapturous feelings of a superior being, and for him alone is "Eden raised in the wilderness." The palm-tree, the tamarind, and the pomegranate, were towering over the garden of the desert. It gladdens the weary Pilgrim when he beholds it from afar, and his heart leaps with delight when he is sheltered in its bosom from the fierceness of the sky, and his feet relieved from the insupportable heat of the burning sands. This is his grateful shade, and refreshes himself with the fruit of the tamarind and the Indian fig-tree and drinks the milk of the cocoa-nut.

An Arab flew along the desert, on his beautiful courser. His long lance was in his right hand, and his sabre hung by his side; his firelock was fixed at the saddle-bow. He passed along with the swiftness of an arrow, but the easy motion of his beau roused him not from the luxury of his imagination. His eye was lifeless, and a settled gravity overspread his features, but his mind was actively employed in scenes of romance. He was thinking of the fair Cora, the delight of the desert, and he had separated himself from his tribe, that he might search out the tent of the old Sheik, her father. He bent his way towards the oasis, nor would he have been long in reaching it, but his attention was at this moment directed to an object which appeared on the horizon: at sight of it he abated his speed, and somewhat altered his course.

The dark speck had motion, yet what it might be, a common eye could not have determined; but the eye of a Bedouin is seldom deceived. The Arab gazed his fair in rest, and passed on at an easy pace. The object now began to assume a determinate form, and a horseman might be perceived, advancing rapidly across the plain. The Arab eyed the stranger as he approached, and when he had come within a bowshot, suddenly wheeled his horse round, and charged him at full speed. The stranger drew his sabre, but the impetuous attack of the Arab could not be withstood; and though the former received no wound, by reason of the spear alighting on the saddle, yet the force of the charge overthrew both man and horse, and, before they could recover themselves, the Arab was at the spot with his firelock pointed on his fallen adversary. "I want a gift for Cora," exclaimed the Arab; "give me your gold, and do not oblige me to shed your blood; it is counted a curse among us to take away the life of a traveller in the desert."—"Mashalla (sacred) your principles are somewhat too nice; after upsetting me so unceremoniously, it cannot be necessary to preach morality whilst you are robbing me."

"What have the sons of Ishmael to do with gold?" replied our proprietor who perceived of his inheritance, and by force we may recover our right. Nothing was left for us, but what our arms might obtain from the hands of the spoiler; we have no home but the desert."

"If you will remove that old rusty firelock from my nether jaw," said the traveller, "I shall feel much more at home than I do at the present moment. Here are two bags filled with gold sequins of Cairo-value, and be satisfied." The Arab stretched out his right hand to take them, still holding the firelock in the left, steadied on the pommel of the saddel, and directed towards his prisoner. "I should judge by their weight," said he, poising the bags as he spoke, "that it is as you say, and I shall examine them at my leisure. There is no necessity," continued he, slowly replacing his firelock in its rest, "for you to remain longer on the ground, the heat of the sand may incommode you." "Your courtesy is rather ill-timed," said the traveller, rising, and clearing his disordered dress from the sand, "and I can very well dispense with any further attentions from you. I have already sunk under the weight of your favors, and been lightened of my cares by your civility. I shall not stay here to be roasted alive, but make the best of my way to the green island yonder." So saying, he mounted his horse, which had stood quietly by his side, and turned his head towards the oasis. "I was going thither," exclaimed the Arab, "when your approach drew me from my road. Let us now make the best of our way to the shade, for the heat is oppressive, and you may have received some injury in your late fall, which I can examine for you when we are there." The other made no answer, but whilst the Arab was speaking, he had conveyed his hand to the hostlers of the saddle. The latter comprehended what he was about, and it was the work of but a moment to place the sabre within a few inches of the stranger's throat. "If you will dismount," said the Arab, "I will remove your pistols; they may interrupt the good understanding which at present subsists between us. There," said he, placing them in his girdle, "let us now move on." The traveller remounted his horse, and they galloped along to the delightful spot before mentioned.

"The horses will pick for themselves," said the Arab, dismounting, and removing his saddle and bridle from his beast. "If yours is as well taught as mine, it will not stray, and they can feed together. You seem somewhat the worse for our late encounter. Come," continued he, assisting the traveller to lighten his horse of its furniture, "let us find a pleasant spot for our resting place." They sat down beneath a canopy of lofty trees, whose mingled foliage was impervious to the rays of the sun. The traveller was scarcely seated, when he felt lack exhausted and fainting. The Arab brought him water in a palm leaf, and gathered for him some dates and tamarinds; he poured the milk of the cocoa-nut down his throat, and used every means for his restoration. "There is in the oasis," said the Arab, "great variety of fruits; amongst others, melons, oranges, and peaches. You will prefer these to any thing I can offer you.—For myself, I have some bruised barley, which shall be my only food till I meet with Cora." Your lady will, I hope, reward you for your abstinence," said the traveller, who was by this time a little recovered. "Have the kindness to gather me a melon; I am so far overcome with fatigue, that I do not well know how to rise to get it myself." The Arab gathered him some fruit, and placed it near him, then, seating himself by his side, he began his own unpalatable meal. When it was finished, he procured fire from the friction of two sticks, and, lighting his pipe, continued smoking in a state of perfect abstraction. His eye became languid and inexpressive, and his features motionless. The act of violence which he had lately committed was a thing of course; his idea of right and wrong fully justified it, and explained it as an act of retributive justice. It had been performed, and was now forgotten, and his mind was again occupied with lofty sentiment and romantic feeling, which absorbed all its energies. He was now revelling in all the extasies of the Mahomedan paradise, and his Cora was a lovely houri, whose eyes were beautiful and soft as those of the gazelle.

The traveller was as little inclined to converse as his companion might be, and, after casting a disconsolate look on his two bags of Sequins, he laid his head upon a little mound beside him which served very well for a pillow, and presently fell asleep. The Arab continued smoking. Sometimes, in a moment of recollection, he took one of the bags of gold and poised it, then laid it down, and, taking up a leaf, he began to fan his companion to promote his slumber, and disperse the insects which flitted about him. But these interruptions to his musings were few and short; and as the evening approached, he appeared to become entirely insensible to every object around him. His brow indeed was raised, and his eyes assumed a liveliness which gave an inexpressible beauty to his calm and open features; but this animation rose from the deep enthusiasm of the soul. The sun set, and the evening planet presently appeared. His eye was intently fixed on its silver orb, and continued to be so till the increasing shades of night revealed the glories of the Arabian sky. The bright star Aldebaran was approaching the meridian, and the planets Mars and Venus discovered themselves under what is termed by Astrologers, a favorable aspect. The Arab rose from the ground, and retired a few paces to a little hillock of sand. He scattered part of it on the earth before him, and then traced with his pipe an astrological figure. His satisfaction increased as he proceeded in his work, and when the horoscope was finished, he exclaimed in rapture—"The star of my destiny is on the meridian, and the significatory planets are well posted in the seventh house: my beloved approaches, she cannot be far off."

"Ah! what is the matter!" cried the traveller, awaking, "take the gold if you will, and a plague go with it." His thoughts wandered for the moment to the rencontre of the morning, and the loss he had sustained.

"I have been holding converse with the stars," said the Arab, "and they tell me that Cora is near."

"The stars are very communicative," returned the other, yawning.

"I will tell thee of Cora," resumed the Arab, seating himself beside his companion; "I will tell thee of Cora, the delight of the desert. I am Beni Säker, the son of Säker, the Sheik, and I am myself a Sheik. My father is master of a thousand spears, and he has multitudes of camels and sheep, and his family is as numerous as the stars. A hundred spears await my bidding. I also have camels and sheep, but my chief treasures are locked up in Cora. Cora is the daughter of Hätim, he is the commander of five hundred horsemen, and he has great treasure; yet I covet nothing that is his, but the fair Cora.

"Hätim, the father of Cora, entered into league with my parent Säker. We joined our strength against the Mawali, and set out together to meet them. We came up with our enemy, and parleyed with them, but they would not listen to the voice of peace. We threw a thousand lances into the midst of their company, and they dispersed like the chaff, scattering themselves over the plain. We pursued them, but the night favoring their escape, we returned to our tents to celebrate the feast of victory. A flesh of a young camel was prepared for us, and baked rice, and these we goats' and camels' milk in abundance.

"I left my tent early on the morning after our victory, and walked to the well to water the camels. There was a female of the tribe of Hätim drawing water. Her waist was straight and supple as my lance, and her steps were light and elegant as those of a young fily. Her face was veiled, according to the custom of our tribes; but in raising the vessel of water to her head, she disordered her veil, and I observed her features. Her eyes were like those of the gazelle; her looks were languid and impassioned; her beautiful eyebrows were arched like two bows of ebony; her eye-lashes were blackened with kool, and her lips were painted blue; and her nails were tinged with gold-colored henna; her breasts were like two pomegranates, and her words were sweeter than honey. Which of the daughters of Hätim is it, said I, who is drawing water from Säker's well? I am Cora, (answered she,) the daughter of Hätim thy friend. She left me, and, returning, withdrew into the inner tent of her father."

"Day after day, I pined for the fair Cora, but she came no more to the well; and the tribe of Hätim suddenly struck their tents, and departed from among us. I concealed my passion for some time from my father, but my body wasted away till it yielded no shadow, and Säker then inquired of me the cause. I told him, and he has promised to procure me the daughter of Hätim. I have left my father's tent, and am seeking the dwelling of Hätim, and when I find him I shall offer gifts to him, and to the fair Cora, and if she loves me, Hätim will give her to me; then I shall want nothing when Cora, the delight of the desert, is mine."

"Your name is Beni Säker, said you not?" inquired the traveller.

"It is," replied the Arab; "why do you dwell on my name?"

"I have heard it before," said the other, "and that not long ago. I will tell you the whole matter; 'tis a short story, though I should begin with my setting out for Bassora, and end with the event of to-day.

"I am Lucas, a merchant of Toulon. Twelve months back I set out on my journey to Bassora, whither adventurers of trade had called me. After passing through the Mediterranean, I joined a caravan which was then about to proceed, under an Arabian escort, to the Persian Gulf. We met with no interruptions on our way, and, arriving at Bassora, the caravan separated. At the end of three weeks, having finished my business, I wished to return, and a Persian trader directed me to a caravan that was on the eve of departing towards the Mediterranean. I joined company with it, and proceeded on several days' journey.

"On the third day of our journey I was resting myself, after our halt, in the tent of the Sheik. I was alone, and on the point of falling sleep, for our march had been long, and I was much fatigued, but my attention was awakened by the silver tones of a beautiful voice which proceeded from the inner tent. I am no cynic, music has charms for me at all times, and I listened with considerable interest to the song of the invisible minstrel. It was a female voice, not less sweet than the honeyed accents of your fabled houris. Indeed, let him who inquires after the exquisitely beautiful, and who wishes duly to appreciate the melody of woman's voice, listen to it in the midst of the desert, when the day's march is ended, and he is sitting in his tent under the shade of his fig-tree."

"Well, well," said the impatient Arab, "but the subject of the song?"

"Does the sentiment displease you?" inquired the other.

"It does not displease me," said the Arab, "but I feel interested in your narrative, and wish to hear its termination."

"As nearly as I can remember, said the traveller, "these are the words of the song:

"'My father sojourned in the tent of Säker. I went to the well to draw water; the son of Säker spoke kindly to me. The steed of Beni Säker is the swiftest of his tribe, and he is the chief among a hundred.' My memory fails me; but this was I believe the substance of the song."

"It is enough," said the Arab, stroking his beard with profound gravity "The tribe of Hâtim has been your escort. How came you to separate yourself from the Caravan, and at what distance should you think it is from us?"

"I rashly imagined," answered the traveller, "that I could gain the shores of the Mediterranean without interference on the part of your free-booters, and in less time than would be spent by the caravan in reaching them." "You did wrong," said the Arab; "When did you leave your party?"

"This morning early. The caravan is not many hours' march behind us; if we remain here, it will have come up, or nearly so, by to-morrow sunrise."

"If it is as you say," returned the Arab, "the sequins may once more change masters. I shall not injure him whom Hâtim has protected." The traveller was about to resume possession of his two bags, but the Arab gently put back his hand. "There is," said he, "no need of haste. It was your expedition which occasioned your loosing the steed." Lacen smiled, and made no answer. The Arab composed himself for the night, and the traveller followed his example; the former was in a short time snoring in his dreams, and the latter, with his Cora; and the latter comforting himself in the possession of his lost sequins. The sun had risen not many degrees above the horizon, when the Arab and the traveller awaking, repaired to the entrance of the oasis, and looked eagerly across the desert, hoping to discover the approach of the caravan; but all between the land and the sky was one vacant plain. They looked at each other for a moment, the one doubting the truth of what his companion had told him, and the other fearing that his conqueror's generous mood was by no means favorable to the restauration of his gold. The countenance of the Arab suddenly lightened. A small grayish cloud appeared on the edge of the horizon. The traveller viewed it without the least interest, but the Arab knew that it indicated the approach of a large company. "Yonder is the caravan," said the latter; "when the sun is eight degrees higher, it will have reached us. It will be best to await it where it is up. There is no caravansary between them and the oasis, they will therefore halt at this place. "If you have told me the truth," continued he, seriously addressing the traveller, "I shall quickly accomplish the object of my search, and return directly to my own tribe. I shall give back your gold, and you will shortly be placed beyond the reach of molestation. But if you have deceived me, I am perhaps about to fall into the hands of a hostile tribe, and my blood will be upon your head." They retired together into the oasis to await the event.

A neighing of horses announced the approach of the company, which consisted of not less than an hundred merchants of different countries, and three hundred camels laden with merchandise, the whole escorted by a numerous body of Arabs, armed with spears, sabres, and ill-conditioned muskets, and mounted on fleet horses. The noise of the approaching caravan made the traveller and the Arab from the enclosure of the oasis. The former immediately recognised the Arab guard to be the tribe of Hâtim.

The stillness of the desert was now broken by a confusion of sounds; horses neighing, the camels snuffling, and crowding towards the great well, led thither by an instinctive knowledge of what it contained. Some of these last were kneeling, in order that their burdens might be removed; the captain of the rest, one of the officers attending the caravan, was giving his orders for the bestowal of the merchandize, over which he appointed a strong guard. The camels and mares were then given in charge to some of the attendants, who confined them in slips, leaving them however at liberty to graze round the oasis. A large tent was quickly erected for the whole company, and preparation was made for affording refreshment to the caravan after its march.

"Es salem âleikum," (God save you,) exclaimed a meagre, swarthy, and diminutive old man, approaching his cheek to that of Beni Säker.

"Es salem âleikum," returned the other, respectfully kissing the hand of Hâtim, for he it was who saluted him. "Have you left peace in your father's house," inquired Hâtim, "Säker, thy friend, is in health, and his tribe are in peace," replied Beni Säker; "but the son of thy friend asks his happiness of thee." "Speak, my son," said Hâtim, "tell me in what can Hâtim render thee a service?" "My father," began Beni Säker, "has a present of goats and young camels for you, and of kids for Cora, and ——" "I see how it is," said Hâtim, interrupting him, "well be it so; but Cora is not with us, I have left her eastward with the rest of my tribe. The flocks have good pasturage, and they will remain there till I return to them. You can accompany the caravan, and go back with me, or depart to-morrow sun-rise, in search of Cora." "I shall seek the tent of Cora without delay," answered Beni Säker. "Regard your mare, as well as your mistress," said Hatim; "stay here with the caravan till the morning. The flocks are not above two day's journey from this place, and your mare is swift." They entered the tent together.

At the upper end of the tent sat the sheik, with Beni Säker at his right hand, and nearest to them sat the officers of the caravan; the merchants were seated in a double line, after these. The refreshments were then brought in; they consisted of kids' flesh, roast, and boiled rice. After the necessary ceremony of ablution, the meal proceeded, each person putting his hand into the dishes, to supply himself with the provisions before him — They drank only water, which was brought them from the wells. This was indeed no common luxury, being beautifully clear, and of a pleasant flavor. But this good cheer, so unusual among the Bedouins, was not that by which Säker; he adhered to his vow of taking nothing more than what was barely sufficient to support nature till he had found his Cora.

Beni Säker rose early the morning after the halt, and whilst the caravan was preparing to pursue its journey, he sought and found Lucas, to whom he restored the two bags of sequins "Stranger," said he, "taking the hand of Lucas, "there is your gold; I could not keep it, if I desired to do so, since you are under the care of Hâtim; but I would as well be ungrateful in me to injure you, when our meeting has terminated so happily for me. Peace be with you. Return to your country, and be happy; happy as Beni Saker will be, when sitting in his tent with Cora, or bounding over the desert on his steed."

The caravan began its march, and Beni Säker, bidding farewell to his friend Hâtim, and his late companion Lucas, threw himself on the back of his mare, and presently disappeared from the plain.

TECUMSEH;

OR,

THE WARRIOR OF THE WEST.

A Poem,

IN FOUR CANTOS.

BY AN ENGLISH OFFICER,

(AUTHOR OF THE CANADIAN CAMPAIGN.)

THE name and actions of Tecumseh must be familiar to every inhabitant of Canada: and a desire to see the memory of so distinguished and extraordinary a man perpetuated by any writer, however humble, must be a sentiment co-equal with the admiration so universally excited during his enterprising career, not less among his enemies than among his allies and his friends.

The Author of this Epic Poem, which is illustrated by copious notes, is himself a Canadian, and has often combated at the side of Tecumseh, to whom he was more immediately known. On that memorable day which deprived nature of one of her brightest though rudest gems, and the nearly now exterminated Indian tribes of a leader devoted to their interests and their liberties, he beheld the remains of that glorious Chieftain mangled and disfigured even as he has described them. Scarcely an Officer of the division on that untoward occasion failed to pay the just tribute of regret to his memory, and but few there were who did not lose sight of their own personal feelings in the depth and sincerity of their grief for the noble and unfortunate Tecumseh.

The principal and original view of the Author, in composing his Poem, was to rescue the name of this truly great man from the unmerited oblivion to which it had been consigned: but aware of the difficulty under which, as an unknown writer, he labors in giving his work all necessary publicity, he has adopted the suggestions of numerous literary friends, to print the volume by subscription among naval and military men. He trusts moreover that by his own countrymen some encouragement will be afforded, not simply in his character of Poet—the first of his native soil who has adventured on the dangerous shoals of verse—but also in that of the Historian—the panegyrist of him who is now no more, but whose name and whose memory there can be few Canadians unwilling to see transmitted to posterity.

The Poem opens with a description of the action on Lake Erie, where the gallant and unfortunate Barclay, after essaying all that human courage and resolution could attain, was compelled to strike to a superior enemy; and on this leading feature the several other incidents of the Poem are made to hang.

The Third Canto contains the celebrated speech made by Tecumseh in the council of Chiefs convened by General Proctor, when, after the capture of the little squadron, he proposed retreating from Amherstburgh to the Moravian Village.

Captain Barclay, to whom, in common with the other Officers of the Right Division, the Poem is inscribed, has been pleased to express his entire approbation of the work in terms the most satisfactory and gratifying to the Author. It remains for his own Countrymen to decide how far successful he has been in delineating the scenery of the land, and the habits, occupations, and warlike exercises of the natives.

Should any palpable omissions or errors be noticed, it must be recollected, in extenuation, that the Poem has been composed almost wholly from memory, and that fourteen years has elapsed since the Author last beheld the wild scenery of his native clime.

The price of the Poem in boards, printed on the best paper, and with the best type, will be two dollars.

The Subscribers' copies will be forwarded to their respective addresses.

London, March 1st, 1828.

JAMES DOUGALL, & Co.

York, 8th November, 1828. x. 22

Summary.

There is now in one of the prisons at Bremen a female in the bloom of youth, and very handsome, who is charged with having poisoned 65 persons, amongst whom were three husbands and five lovers. The motives for these crimes were love, jealousy, ambition or avarice. One of the victims was a physician, who, having examined one of the persons poisoned, and pronounced the cause of his death, was himself poisoned on the following day. On being apprehended by the police, and examined, poison was found concealed in the hair papers of her head, and she acknowled 30 of the murders.—Courier des Tribunaux.

Important Operation.—The femoral artery of the thigh was successfully tied at Inverness, Scotland, September 30th, for the cure of an unusually large aneurism. The patient experienced immediate relief, and was doing well.

Squaring the Circle.—The Dublin Evening Mail affirms, that a boy of thirteen years of age, named James Graham, and residing at Mountcharles, in Donnegal, has demonstrated the famous problem of the quadrature of the circle.

England.

Shirking the Toll.—Wednesday, Skillern, the conductor of Bow-street patrol, was standing on the Middlesex side of Waterloo Bridge prior to the time for the bells to lead to water side, on the left hand, and observed two sweep boys with a sack partly filled with soot. One of the boys said to the other, "I've only got a penny Sam, and they won't pay the toll for both, so you must pop into this bag, and if I carries you, nobody will know but as how you are sut." "I won't get in the bag" replied the other knight of the brush; (he added) I will toss you up, which shall, you or me." This was agreed to, and Sam threw up the penny. "Now, Jem (he said) what will you have, heads or tails?" "Vy," said Sam "I'll have a woman." "You've lost," cried Sam. Jem instantly got into the bag, and in a few seconds he was on his companion's back, who made his way to the toll-gate. The money-taker believing the sweep had got a bag of soot, took a penny toll and allowed him to pass with his load. Skillern immediately went to the gate-keeper, and said "Do you know what that chap has got on his back?" "Why what should he have but a bag of soot?" Skillern laughed, and said "the sweep has done you out of a penny; if you will go to him, you will find he has got a sweep in his sack." Away went the gate-keeper, and the sweep went Skillern, hot in pursuit of the "chap what bilked the toll," and they overtook him near to the gate on the Surry side of the bridge. "What have you got in your sack?" said Skillern. "Vy vat should I have but only sut," replied the sweep. "We must see what is in the sack," replied the officer. By this time a crowd was collected round the sweep, the sack was opened, and out came a poor sweep lad, who confessed it was the want of a penny that caused him to "bilk the gate." The crowd immediately entered into a little subscription, and in a few minutes, by pehnies and two-pennies a few shillings were raised and given to the sweeps, who appeared not a little pleased at the issue of this rather comical incident.—Weekly Times.

THE DREALFUL ACCIDENT AT MAYO.

The following interesting details of the late awful occurrence in the county of Mayo, are from the Clergyman who officiated at the time when the steeple was thrown down by lightning, upon the Congregation:—

"CLAREMORRIS, Oct. 6.—As incorrect accounts of the awful event which yesterday occurred at Clare may be circulated, I hasten to give the public a true statement of what happened; and this I am enabled to do the more accurately, having been then present.

The congregation was assembled for Divine Worship, in the newly erected church, at the usual hour, and I, as the officiating Minister, in the act of Rev. Sir, the Rector of the Parish, was reading the Litany, when the Heavens were suddenly darkened by a heavy storm, which gathered over the town. That portion of our most solemn form of supplication, "Christ have mercy on us," had but just been uttered, when a deafening crash shook every house to its foundation; and at the same instant the lofty stone steeple, rent by lightning, was thrown upon the roof, and together with it, overwhelmed the congregation in ruins.—In a moment after, all was still, & those who were as if miraculously preserved unhurt, saw the danger they had escaped, and the perilous state of the remainder of their fellow worshipers, not a moment was lost in seeking for those buried under the ruins; but the heart rending scene I cannot venture to dwell upon; while husbands laboured to extricate their wives, and parents called in despair for their children; much less would I harrow up the feelings of your readers by detailing their mangled appearance when freed from their awful confinement.

"I write with too vivid a recollection of these scenes of horror to enter into further particulars."

Loss of the Steam-Boat North America.—About nine o'clock on Tuesday night, as the North America was on her way from New-York to Albany, just at the moment that she had landed some passengers at West Point, the persons in the cabin observed the water making its way rapidly through the cabin floor. All immediately rushed for the deck, and those that had retired to their births, were ancle deep in water, before they could get out of the cabin. The first intelligence received of the accident, by the officers, on deck, was of those who came from below.

The engine was immediately stopped, lest the motion might increase the inclination of the boat to sink, and her bow was immediately turned towards the shore, which, as her headway was consilerable, she soon reached. Her bow struck sideways on the land, immediately North of the wharf at West Point, and where the shore is precipitous, and her stern rested over water about 90 feet deep. A plank was got out from the fire room to the shore, & all the passengers, to the number of 300, safely landed. Before the passengers had got safe on shore, the water had ascended to the upper births.

We may imagine the melancholy consequences which would have resulted, had the boat, at the time, been in some of the widest parts of the river, Haverstraw Bay for instance, or had she been in that part of the Highlands, above West Point, where rocks prevent the approach of a vessel to the land.

The leak is said to have been caused by the springing of a plank about midship.—By reason of the great length of the boat, chains, for her greater security, extend from the bow to the stern over the upper deck. Soon after the leak occurred, the after chain snapped, and the stern part of the boat bent two or three inches, so that the boat "broke in the middle," which of course increased the leak.

All the baggage, which is kept on deck, was saved, and most of the bedding was got out. It is not known whether the boat will be saved, as she lay in a most precarious condition.

The Constellation, which came by, soon after, took most part of the passengers away, not having recovered from their fright, preferred remaining at West Point.

Great alarm and confusion prevailed, of consequence, among the passengers, particularly the female part; but a deception practised by some cool and judicious persons served much to allay their fears.—They persuaded them that the boat was aground, and therefore could not sink, and her decreased speed, owing to the stopping of the engine, assisted to confirm them in the truth of the story.

This accident will suggest to the Legislature the propriety of considering whether it would not be wise to oblige the Steam-boats on the Hudson River, to carry floats on which the passengers might be saved, in case the boats sink.—Albany Gazette.

SUPPLEMENT.

ALBION OFFICE, Saturday 4 P. M., Nov. 29.

The Roman has just arrived from Liverpool, and we have had a momentary glance at the latest paper, of the 25th October.

The Berlin accounts have been received from Varna to the 2nd October, at which time the place was not taken. 15,000 Turks had marched from Choumla for its relief and encountered the Russians most desperately on several occasions with various success.

The Turks, however, had been able to intrench themselves, and bid defiance to their enemies. It was expected that Admiral Greig would not be able to maintain himself before Varna, on account of the advanced state of the season.

The Sultan left Constantinople on the 15th Sept. preceded by the Standard of Mahomet; he advanced four miles and encamped; the enthusiasm of the Turks was at its height.

The accounts from before Varna, are from the London Journal, (New Times.) They are somewhat confused, but we are satisfied that Varna held out on the 1st or 2d of October. The Pacha of Widdin had made an irruption into Little Wallachia, and then retired—the Russians say he was driven back with loss. The Russian Choumla army was entrenching itself at Jenibazar.

Consuls 86 3-4 on 22nd Oct.

Great excitement exists on the Catholic Question.—Lord Gort's statement at Limerick, that the Duke of Wellington had approved of a Bill which would give satisfaction to all parties has produced a great sensation. The Wm. Byrnes has arrived, and flour has advanced in Liverpool.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

It was rumoured that the Porte had acceded to the mediation of France and England, in relation to Greece.—The Porte had raised the Standard of Mahomet, and the Turks were in great spirits.

The funds had risen in London in consequence of the restoration of the King from his recent indisposition.

It was rumoured that Varna had been taken.

THE LATE STORM.

Early on Sunday morning Quebec was unexpectedly visited by one of the most violent gales that has ever been experienced at this season of the year. It commenced about midnight and was extremely severe about four in the morning. It was accompanied by a heavy fall of snow, but gradually abated in the course of the forenoon.—It was high water about the same time and a spring tide; and the strong easterly wind conspiring with these causes, raised the river to an uncommon height. Several parts of St. Paul Street were inundated, and on the new road fronting the king's wood yard, the water must have been at least two feet deep.—A very general loss has been sustained by the river craft which were either laid up for the winter, or preparing for their last trips to remote parts of the province. In the Cul-de-Sac, about 12 or 15 sustained damage, some severely, and one or two have sunk. At St. Rock only one schooner rode out the storm, and sailed in the evening, the rest were all driven ashore and left in a melancholy condition, many of them severely shattered, and thrown together in a corner, much like so much lumber; on the Beauport side a one masted vessel appeared to have been carried up, and left upon the field.—Such a destruction of unmoored property, and much of it belonging to persons in narrow circumstances, is peculiarly calamitous at the commencement of the severe season.

The Telegraphe on the Cape, used for the purpose of conveying intelligence to the public, was blown down.—Q. Star.

The Trinity Yacht, Pilot, returned with the buoys this morning. She came to anchor at Crane Island just before the commencement of the storm on Sunday morning. The superintendent of Pilots, who was down in the yacht, and who is an old and experienced seaman, says the violence of the wind exceeded any thing he ever encountered.—ib.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL CHAMBER.

TUESDAY, 25th November, 1828

This day at two o'clock the Council went up to the Castle of St. Lewis, and presented the following address in answer to His Excellency SIR JAMES KEMPT's Speech at the opening of the Session.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY

SIR JAMES KEMPT, Knight Grand Cross of the most Honorable Military Order of the Bath, Lieutenant General and Commander of all His Majesty's Forces in the Provinces of Lower Canada and Upper Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and General Dependencies, and in the Island of Newfoundland, and Administrator of the Government of the said Province of Lower Canada.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY

We His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Legislative Council of Lower Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, beg leave to present your Excellency our humble thanks for your speech from the Throne. At the same time we desire to express our gratitude to His Majesty, for having chosen on officer of your Excellency's distinguished character, talents, and Experience, to administer the Government of this Province.

The important situation to which His Majesty has been pleased to appoint your excellency, is at this period one of peculiar difficulty, but the confidence in your Excellency's qualifications, leaves us no doubt on our minds of your fulfilling the duties of your high office to the satisfaction of His Majesty, and the benefit of His faithful and loyal subjects in this Province, and we beg leave to assure you of our cordial co-operation in your Excellency's Administration of the Government.

The exertions of your Excellency, towards conciliation, and the re-establishment of a good understanding between the different branches of the Legislature, will not fail materially to promote the prosperity of the country and we have the fullest confidence that your Excellency's measures will be so directed as to maintain the Rights of the Crown, and the constitutional Privileges of both Houses of the Provincial Parliament.

We shall receive with respectful attention such communications from His Majesty upon the subject of the appropriation of the Provincial Revenue, and of the views of His Majesty's Ministers upon such other topics connected with the Government of the Province as your Excellency shall be pleased to lay before us, and we thank your Excellency for the assurance of your assistance in the elucidation of such questions as may arise in the course of our proceedings.

Your Excellency may be assured of our giving immediate attention to the renewal of such Acts as have recently expired, and to matters of public interest which shall appear of pressing necessity and importance; and on all occasions, when your Excellency shall be pleased to recommend to us, measures of public improvement, we shall not fail to give them our most serious consideration.

We justly appreciate the great advantages to be derived from good roads and other internal communications; and we concide with your Excellency in opinion that a liberal system of education, and a well organized and efficient Militia Force, are indispensable to the happiness and security of the Inhabitants of this Province. We shall, therefore, with zeal and assiduity endeavour to promote these very important objects to which your Excellency has been pleased to direct our attention.

We trust your Excellency will find us earnestly disposed to proceed in a spirit of harmony and conciliation to the dispatch of the public business; and it will be to us a source of the purest satisfaction to co-operate in your Excellency's enlightened views, for the general interest of the Province, to remove all cause of jealousy and dissension, where such may be found to exist; and to contribute by every other means in our power, to render this part of the British dominions, one of the most opulent and flourishing portions of the American Continent.

To which His Excellency was pleased to return the following Answer:—

Gentlemen,

I thank you most sincerely for this very gratifying Address.

In discharging the duties of my station, the prosperity of the Province, and the happiness of its Inhabitants, will be the great objects of my endeavours; and I receive with peculiar satisfaction, the assurance which you are pleased to give me of your cordial co-operation in my Administration of the Government.

FRIDAY, November 28th.

Lieutenant Colonel YORKE, Civil Secretary, brought down the following Message from His Excellency the Administrator in Chief.

JAMES KEMPT.

His Excellency the Administrator of the Government avails himself of the earliest opportunity of conveying to the Legislative Council the following communication which he has received, the King's commands to make to the Provincial Parliament:—

In his Majesty's Speech from the Throne, His Majesty's Provincial Parliament, His Excellency is commanded by His Majesty to state that—

His Majesty has received too many proofs of the Loyalty and attachment of His Canadian subjects, to doubt their cheerful acquiescence in every effort which His Majesty's Government may make to reconcile past differences, and He looks forward with hope to a period, when, by the return of harmony, all branches of the Legislature will be led to unite their undivided attention on the best methods of advancing the prosperity, and developing the resources of the extensive and valuable Territories comprised within His Majesty's Canadian Provinces.

With a view to the adjustment of the questions in controversy, His Majesty's Government has communicated to His Excellency Sir James Kempt its views on different branches of this important subject; but as the complete settlement of the affairs of the province cannot be effected but with the aid of the Imperial Parliament, the instructions of His Excellency are at present confined to the discussion of points alone, which can no longer be left undecided without extreme disadvantage to the interests of the Province,

Among the most material of these points the first to be adverted to, is, the proper disposal of the Financial resources of the country, and with a view of obviating all future misunderstanding on this matter, His Majesty's Government have prescribed to His Excellency the limits, within which His communications to the Provincial Parliament on this matter are to be confined.

His Excellency is commanded by His Majesty to acquaint the Legislative Council that the discussions which have occurred for some years past between the different branches of the Legislature of this Province respecting the appropriation of the Revenue, have engaged His Majesty's serious attention, and that He has directed careful enquiry to be made, in what manner these questions may be finally adjusted with a due regard to the Prerogative of the Crown, as well as to their Constitutional Privileges,—and to the general welfare of His faithful subjects in Lower Canada.

His Excellency is further commanded to state that the statutes passed in the 14th and 31st years of the reign of His late Majesty, have imposed upon the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, the duty of appropriating the produce of the Revenue arising in His Majesty's Province of Lower Canada, and, that, whilst the law shall continue unaltered by the same authority by which it was framed, it will not be competent or authorized to place the Revenue under the control of the Legislature of this Province.

£295,940	14 Geo. 3. c. 88	The proceeds of the Revenue arising from the act of the Imperial Parliament, 14, Geo. 3, together with the sum appropriated by the Provincial Statute 35, Geo. 3, and the duties levied under the Provincial Statutes 41, Geo. 3. cap. 13 and 14, may be estimated for the current year, at the sum of £34,750.
5,000	35, Geo. 3.
34,750	Casual Revenue.
3,400	Fines &c.
£343,400		The produce of the Casual and Territorial Revenues of the Crown and of Fines and Forfeitures may be estimated for the same period at the sum of £3,400.

These several sums making together the sum of £386,100 constituting the whole estimated Revenue arising in this Province, which the Law has placed at the disposal of the Crown.

His Majesty has been pleased to direct that from this Collective Revenue of £38,100 the salary of the Officers administering the Government of the Province and the salaries of the Judges shall be defrayed. But His Majesty being graciously disposed to mark, in the strongest manner, the confidence which He reposed in the liberality and affection of His faithful Provincial Parliament, has directed that His Excellency should be ready to announce to the Legislative Council, that no farther appropriation of any part of this Revenue will be made until His Excellency shall have been enabled to become acquainted with their sentiments in the most satisfactory mode in which it can be applied to the public service; and it will be gratifying to His Majesty, if the recommendation made to the Executive Government of the Province on this subject shall be such as it may be able with propriety, and with due attention to the interests and the efficiency of His Majesty's Government to adopt.

His Majesty fully relies upon the liberality of His faithful Provincial Parliament, to make such further provision as the exigencies of the public service of the Province (for which the amount of the Crown Revenues above mentioned may prove inadequate) may require,

The Balance in the hands of the Receiver General, which is not placed by law at the disposal of the Crown, must await the appropriation which it may be the pleasure of the Provincial Legislature to make.

His Excellency is further commanded by His Majesty to recommend to the Legislative Council, the enactment of a Law, for the immunity of any persons who have heretofore without authority signed or acted in obedience to warrants for the appropriation of the Public Service of any unappropriated monies of this Province: And His Majesty anticipates that they will by an acquiescence in this recommendation, shew that they cheerfully concur with Him in the efforts which he is now making for the establishment of a permanent good understanding between the different branches of Executive and Legislative Government.

The proposals which His Excellency has been thus instructed to make for the adjustment of the pecuniary affairs of the Province, and intended to meet the difficulties of the ensuing year, and He trusts they may be found effectual for that purpose.

His Majesty has however further commanded His Excellency to acquaint the Legislative Council that a scheme for the permanent settlement of the financial concerns of Lower Canada, is in contemplation, and His Majesty entertains no doubt of such a result being attainable as will prove conducive to the general welfare of the Province, and satisfactory to his faithful Canadian subjects.

The complaints which have reached His Majesty's Government respecting the inadequate security heretofore given by the Receiver General and by the Sheriffs, for the due application of the public monies in their hands, have not escaped the very serious attention of the Ministers of the Crown.

It has appeared to His Majesty's Government that the most effectual security against abuses in those departments, would be found in enforcing in this Province, a strict adherence to a system established under His Majesty's instructions in other Colonies, for preventing the accumulation of balances in the hands of Public Accountants, by obliging them to exhibit their accounts to a competent authority, at short interval, and immediately to pay over the ascertained balance into a safe place of deposit;—and in order to obviate the difficulty which from the want of such place of deposit in Lower Canada, His Excellency is authorised to state that the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury will hold themselves responsible to the Province for any sums which the Receiver General or Sheriffs may pay over to the Commissary General, and His Excellency is instructed to propose to the Legislative Council, the enactment of a law, binding those officers to pay over to the Commissary General such balances as, upon rendering their accounts to the competent authority, shall appear to be remaining in their hands, over and above what may be required for the current demands upon their respective offices; such payments being made on condition that the Commissary General shall be bound on demand to deliver Bills on His Majesty's Treasury for the Amount of his Receipts.

His Excellency is further instructed to acquaint the Legislative Council, that although it was found necessary by an act passed in the last Session of the Imperial Parliament, 9, Geo. IV. cap. 76, sec. 25, to set at rest doubts which had arisen whether the statute for regulating the distribution between the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada, of the duties and customs collected at Quebec, had not been inadvertently repealed by the general terms of a later date, His Majesty's Government have no desire that the interference of Parliament in this matter should be perpetuated, if the Provincial Legislature can themselves agree upon any plan for a division of those duties which may appear to them more convenient and more equitable; and on the whole of this subject, His Majesty's Government will be happy to receive such information and assistance as the Legislative Council and Assembly of this Province may be able to supply.

The appointment of an agent in England to indicate the wishes of the Inhabitants of Lower Canada, appearing an object of great solicitude with the Assembly, His Majesty's Government will cheerfully accede to the desire expressed by the House of Assembly upon this head; provided that such agent be appointed, as in other British Colonies, by name, in an Act to be passed by the Legislative Council and Assembly, and approved by the Executive Government of the Province; and His Majesty's Government are persuaded that the Legislature will not make such a selection as to impose on the Government the payment of an invidious duty of rejecting the Bill on the ground of any personal objection to the proposed agent.

His Majesty's Government is further willing to consent to the abolition of the office of Agent as it is at present constituted, but it is trusted that the liberality of the House of Assembly will indemnify the present holder of this office, to whose conduct in that capacity no objection appears ever to have been made; indeed, without some adequate indemnity being provided for him, it would not be compatible with justice, to consent to the immediate abolition of his office.

His Majesty's Government being very sensible of the great inconvenience which has been sustained, owing to the large tracts of lands which have been suffered to remain in a waste and unimproved condition, in consequence of the neglect or poverty of the grantees, it has appeared to His Majesty's Government to be desirable that the laws in force in Upper Canada for laying a tax upon wild land, on which the settlement duties had not been performed, should be adopted in this Province and His Excellency is instructed to press this subject on the attention of the Legislative Council with that view.

The attention of His Majesty's Government has also been drawn to several other important topics; among which may be enumerated: The mischiefs which are said to result from the system of tacit mortgages effected by a general acknowledgement of a debt before a Notary; the objectionable and expensive forms of conveyancing said to be in use in the townships; the necessity of a Registration of Deeds; and the want of proper Courts for the decision of causes arising in the townships; regulations affecting matters of this nature can obviously be most effectually made by the Provincial Legislature, and His Excellency is commanded to draw the attention of the Legislative Council to these subjects, as matters requiring their early and most serious attention.

In conclusion His Excellency has been commanded to state, that His Majesty relies for an amicable adjustment of the various questions which have been so long in dispute, on the loyalty and attachment hitherto evinced by His Majesty's Canadian subjects, and on that of the Provincial Parliament; and that His Majesty entertains no doubts of the final conclusion of the Legislative Council, in all measures calculated to promote the common good, in whatever quarter such measures may happen to originate.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY

TUESDAY, 25th November.

The House go into Committee on His Excellency's Speech and report the di. ft of an address, the report is received by the House and the address read, as follows:—

To His Excellency Sir JAMES KEMPT, K. C. B., Administrator of the Government of the Province of Lower Canada, Lieu tenant General and Commander-in-Chief of all His Majesty's Forces in Lower and Upper Canada, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Excellency,

We His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects the Assembly of the Province of Lower Canada in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly thank your Excellency for the Speech which you have been pleased to address from the Throne to both Houses of the Legislature at the opening of the present Session of the Provincial Parliament.

Your Excellency's presence amongst us in the elevated character of the representative of a beloved Sovereign, gives us high satisfaction. We acknowledged with pleasure that in confiding to your Excellency the government of this important Colony, His Majesty has given a fresh proof of his paternal solicitude and of his royal benevolence towards his dutiful Canadian subjects. And, as, in placing you in a situation of such high importance at a time of peculiar difficulty, His Majesty has in a striking manner signalized the high confidence which he reposes in your Excellency, so will we second the wishes of our gracious Sovereign by a cordial and confiding co-operation with your Excellency in your administration of the government.—However arduous may be the duties imposed upon you, we have no doubt whatever that your Excellency will discharge them to the satisfaction of His Majesty and his faithful subjects the inhabitants of this Province.

The experience of several years, and the present situation of this Province, unhappily prove too clearly that without a good understanding among the constituted branches of the Legislature, it is impossible that the Colony should prosper; alike impossible to remedy the evils now experienced, and to provide for the prosperity and welfare of His Majesty's Canadian subjects.—And your Excellency may be assured that we may be relied on to pleasure and eagerly second your Excellency's endeavours to establish conciliation, by measures in which the undoubted prerogatives of the Crown and the constitutional privileges of the people of this Province will be equally respected.

We learn with the liveliest interest that His Majesty's government has occupied itself with our financial difficulties, so as to relieve your Excellency from all responsibility attendant upon any measures to be adopted for their adjustment. We have no doubt whatever that those measures have been dictated by the same spirit of justice and greatness which characterizes His Majesty's Imperial Government in its conduct towards this country.—And your Excellency may rest assured that we shall give our respectful consideration to the communication from His Majesty, which your Excellency intends to convey to us upon the subject of the appropriation of the provincial revenue.

We are persuaded that good roads and other means of internal communication—a general system of education established on sound principles—an efficient Militia, legally organised and sufficiently protected from the abuse of arbitrary power, are essentially contribute to the prosperity, welfare and security of a country. We shall not fail to deliberate maturely upon matters of such high importance. And the sentiments expressed by your Excellency lead us to hope that we shall apply to them with effect. we shall pay respectful attention to such recommendations as your Excellency may hereafter make to us upon other measures of useful improvement, and we feel assured that they will ever be founded on the high interests of the Province and the wants of the inhabitants.

We have ever been convinced of the justice and liberality of His Majesty's Government, and we believe it earnestly intends to remedy, as far as possible, the grievances of which we have to complain, of which we find a striking and to us a very consolatory proof in the results of the petitions recently laid before His Majesty's Imperial Government by a very large majority of our Constituents, against the multiplied and deeply rooted grievances which have long retarded the progress and prolonged the infancy and weakness of this Colony. As every one of the inhabitants of Lower Canada made known to the King the sufferings of the country, and suggested a remedy for those evils,—as soon as their humble petitions were laid at the foot of the Throne, the Sovereign, ever just towards his faithful subjects, expressly ordered that their petitions should be submitted to the supreme tribunal of the empire. The charges and well-founded complaints of the Canadians before that august Senate, were referred to a Committee of the House of Commons indicated by the Colonial Minister, That committee exhibiting a striking combination of talent and patriotism, uniting a general knowledge of political and constitutional law to a particular acquaintance with the state of both the Canadas, formally applauded almost all the reforms which the Canadian people and their representatives demanded and still fervently demand.—After a solemn investigation, after deep and profound consideration, the Committee made a Report, an imperishable monument of their justice and profound wisdom, an authentic testimonial of the reality of our grievances and the justice of our complaints, faithfully interpreting our wishes and our wants.—Through this Report, so honorable to its authors, His Majesty's Government has become better than ever acquainted with the true situation of this Province, and can better than ever, remedy existing grievances and obviate difficulties for the future. We feel assured that your Excellency has it personally at heart to provide for the contentment and welfare of the inhabitants of this Province, and we cannot doubt of the weight which the recommendations and testimony of a distinguished officer, whose public career has merited and obtained success by rendering important services to the country, must have with His Majesty. By the concurrence of all these circumstances we perceive in your Excellency a combination of means and facilities for effecting good, such as none of your predecessors has possessed. We shall receive with respectful confidence, the views of His Majesty's Government upon the several topics connected with the Government of this Province, to which the attention of His Majesty's Ministers has been called We consider these topics as of the highest importance to the tranquility and welfare of the inhabitants of this Province, and we humbly thank your Excellency for the assistance which you are pleased to offer towards the elucidation of any questions which may arise for discussion in the course of our proceedings.

We are sincerely grieved at the arbitrary and manifestly illegal acts, which by depriving the Province of the aid of its Legislature during the whole of last year, have occasioned very grievous evils, and put your Excellency under the necessity of laying before us the Accounts of the Provincial Revenue and Expenditure for two years instead of one.—We nevertheless assure your Excellency, that we shall apply the most scrupulous attention to those accounts when your Excellency shall have laid them before us, and that we shall gratefully avail ourselves of any explanations which your Excellency may be pleased to communicate to us respecting them.

We respectfully assure your Excellency that the sole but infallible remedy for the jealousies and dissentions, of which an oblivion is assuredly the first step towards improvement of any kind, is a conciliatory, impartial and constitutional Administration, such as we confidently expect from your Excellency; and in that conciliatory hope we shall make every endeavour in order that the Executive Government and the Legislature may apply their undivided attention to the advancement of the general interest in a spirit of cordial co-operation. And we doubt not that with such advantages, Lower Canada will rapidly advance towards prosperity, and emulate, ere long, the most opulent and flourishing portions of the North American Continent.

WEDNESDAY, 26th November, (2 p. M.)

The House having returned from the Castle, Mr. Speaker read His Excellency's answer, to the address on the Speech which is as follows:—

Gentlemen,

"I sincerely thank you for this Address, which I receive with feelings of high satisfaction.

"It is very gratifying to me to learn that your sentiments so entirely accord with my own, upon the points to which I adverted on opening the Session; and to receive the assurance, which you are now pleased to give me, of your zealous co-operation in my administration of the government.

"You do His Majesty but justice in believing that he has never ceased to feel an affectionate regard and paternal solicitude for the welfare of his faithful Canadian subjects, and you may be assured that I have nothing so earnestly at heart, as to promote their happiness and prosperity by every means in my power."

THE LOYALIST.

YORK, U. C., SATURDAY, DECEMER 13, 1828

A short Supplement with the last Albion, informs us, that dates from England to 25th October are received at New York, by the Roman, from Liverpool. The contents of this supplement will be found in another part of our paper. More ample details will, no doubt, reach us in the course of the ensuing week.

HIS EXCELLENCY SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND and Suite sailed from Boston for Halifax, on Tuesday 26th ult. on board the Government Brig Chebucto.

In another part of our paper will be found the proceedings of the annual meeting of the Strangers Friend Society, together with the new Rules adopted for the government of the Society at an adjourned general meeting held on Saturday last, under which the title is now that of the "Society for the Relief of the Sick and Destitute." The Collectors appointed for the several wards of the Town, will shortly make their rounds for the purpose of collecting Subscriptions in aid of the Charity, when we have no doubt that the Inhabitants of York will freely contribute to the funds of a Society, the object of which recommends itself in the strongest manner to the approbation of the public.

The proceedings of the Legislature of the Lower Province to the latest dates, will be found in this days' paper. The discussion on the Message of HIS EXCELLENCY SIR JAMES KEMPT, relating to the question of Finance and other matters, to which we refer our readers, was expected to take place in the House of Assembly, the ensuing week.

The Detachment of 68th Regt., under command of Lieutenant Carnus, has arrived at Penetanguishine, from Drummond Island. We mentioned in a former number the advantages which were likely to result to that part of the country, from the establishment of a Military Post.—The necessity of a good road from York to Penetanguishine presents itself with additional force. There is not perhaps in the whole Province, a road more travelled than Youge-Street, and it is very generally admitted we believe, that no where is improvement more required. The transport of Stores and materials, for the Military and Naval departments will no doubt be very considerable, and for this purpose, as well as for the general convenience of the inhabitants, it is to be hoped that something will be done to put the Street in good repair.—The plan of making it a Turnpike, with Toll-gates, we are informed is not likely to succeed.

It will scarcely be expected we think, that we should notice at any very great length, what is said in the last Canadian Freeman in reply to the remarks we made in our last number, on a production which appeared in that paper, by the Editor Mr. Collins.

We stated in commencing those remarks our regret on reading such a production, and confined ourselves chiefly to the correction of certain statements made by the writer, which we considered as being called for, in order to remove impressions which were no doubt intended to be made against the characters of the individuals alluded to; and at the same time to place before the public a faithful narration of certain facts relating to the Trial touched upon by Mr. Collins, in which the conduct of Mr. Justice Sherwood more particularly, was most grossly misrepresented.—It may have been thought by some, that the first of those objects was in a great measure unnecessary, as the characters of the learned Judges in whatever situations they have been placed, have been unimpeachable.—With respect to the second, the statement we have made in opposition to that of Mr. Collins, remains, and must remain uncontradicted, and the public being now in possession of the facts, as they really occurred, will be better able to judge of the merit to be attached to the general tenor of the production which called forth our remarks.—The man who can pervert facts to suit his own purpose, may fairly be suspected of not paying any very scrupulous regard, either to truth or consistency when descanting on the characters of others, whose conduct, as connected with those facts, he hesitates not to distort in the most glaring manner; and who when reminded of his perversions, endeavours to cover his confusion by uttering additional calumnies against those whose conduct he has been detected in misrepresenting.—Such we take to be the substance of the long and laboured article in the last Freeman by Mr Collins, and as such we consider it unworthy of further notice.

"We are much afraid that the Military Secretary who recommended this Conciliatory Message, placed greater dependance on the bayonets of the Quebec Garrison, than on the loyalty of the faithful Provincial Parliament."

Such is the language made use of by a Correspondent in the "Colonial Advocate," when speaking of the Message of Sir James Kempt, to the Parliament of Lower Canada. If it should be received in the same spirit by those to whom it is addressed, it will be needless to hope for the termination of existing difficulties. The writer in the Advocate, adopts with apparent approbation the language of the "London Times"—"Why then we must take the first opportunity for establishing for ourselves a system of Government, under which our local interests will obtain, as they ought, a preference over those of a distant and unsympathising power."

When currency is given to opinions such as these, by allowing them a place in a public print,—when the Representative of our most Gracious Sovereign in the very first important act of His Government, is so directly accused of depending upon Military force, rather than on the loyalty of the representatives of the people—when that land of which it is said, that she is a refuge for the distressed of all nations, is called "an unsympathising power."—Can it be hoped or expected that the hand of conciliation which is extended will be received as it ought to be!—We do hope for the best, but knowing as we do, the spirit which actuates those who have so long endeavored to mislead public opinion, we feel quite certain, that if they can succeed, conciliation with them will be found to mean nothing less, than an unconditional surrender of right on the one side, to demands on the other, however unreasonable in themselves.

The Advocate in giving place to this Correspondent, as well as to another who tells us that the message of Sir James Kempt "will induce many to abate a little in their expectations of happy and satisfactory results out of the Sessions of the Canadian Legislatures," speaks of the Communications of his correspondents, as containing "pointed strictures," but by way of indulging us to be at ease in the midst of the tempest which he aids in raising, gives us a Lullaby on "Political Tranquility"

That the message of Sir James Kempt has been made, in the true spirit of conciliation, with a view to the adjustment of existing difficulties, which have unfortunately retarded the improvement of the country, no reasonable person can doubt.—That message, as its language clearly imports, has been made in obedience to the commands of His Sovereign, and to insinuate that it has been adopted on the advice of the Military Secretary, or any other person, is equally absurd and insulting.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SOCIETY FOR THE RELIEF OF STRANGERS IN DISTRESS,

Was held in the Grand Jury Room, on Saturday, the 29th day of November, 1828.

HIS EXCELLENCY SIR JOHN COLBORNE was pleased to attend the Meeting, and became Patron of the Society; and having expressed an anxious desire to forward its views, and suggested some measures for increasing the Funds and extending its benefits, He withdrew.

MR. JUSTICE SHERWOOD, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Society, was then requested to take the Chair, when it was moved that the Report be read, which motion being carried, the Secretary read the following

REPORT:

At the date of the last Report, eighty-five Men, Women and Children were daily supplied with Rations from the Funds of the Society, since which time the increase, owing perhaps to the prevailing sickness, has been truly alarming, the aggregate number now receiving relief amounting to upwards of one hundred; and thirteen persons have been decently buried at the expense of the Society.

Notwithstanding the unremitting and meritorious attentions of the Medical Gentlemen to the sick, and the liberality with which medicine was supplied from the Dispensary, the want of an Hospital has been most severely felt, it being impossible to pay that attention to the sick in private houses that is necessary for their recovery in such places; neither is the proper medicine duly administered by the attendants, nor sufficient care taken of the Patients—besides the expense of the Society is greatly increased. Under such circumstances a representation appears to be advisable to the Trustees of the Public Hospital, requesting them to take such measures as they may judge necessary for restoring the Hospital to its proper destination.

Were any further arguments necessary to induce such a representation, we may add the appalling fact stated by a Gentleman now present that persons have been found dying in the streets, having no shelter, while the house prepared for them by the benevolence of individuals, is employed for a different purpose, and the inhabitants are forced to take such objects into their houses, to their great inconvenience and injury.

During the former part of the year the benevolence of the Society was distributed by Mr. Wood with his usual tried circumspection & kindness: the latter part by the Rev. Allan Macaulay, who has directed his whole time to this duty.—The papers on the table show in the most forcible manner, the great exertions of both these Gentlemen.

The Treasurers Accounts show the sources from which the Funds have been derived, and the list of persons relieved with what attention and regard to economy they have been expended. At the same time it must not be concealed that the duty of superintendance is too great to be laid upon any individual, and the time seems to have arrived when an alteration in the present system appears to be called for.

It is therefore humbly submitted whether a Select Committee ought not to be appointed to report to a future Meeting a plan grafted on the objects of the present Society, in order to render its usefulness still more extensive and effectual.

The Report was then adopted.

On motion made and seconded it was resolved that a Committee be appointed, consisting of the Hon. Colonel Wells, and Messrs. Charles Small and George Mouro, to examine the Accounts of the Treasurer, and to report thereon.

The Committee reported that the Accounts were correct—that the sums received during the year amounted to - - - - - - £223 0 4
And the sum expended to - - - - 192 6 4

Leaving a Balance in the Treasurer's hands of £30 14 0

The Treasurer, the Hon. Wm. Allan, having expressed a wish to resign, it was moved and resolved, that the thanks of the Society be given to Mr. Allan for his valuable services since the formation of the Society, in the year 1817.—that he have leave to resign, and that F. T. Billings, Esq. be requested to become Treasurer, in the room of Mr. Allan.

Mr. Billings having complied with the request of the Society, the accounts and remaining Funds were placed in his hands by Mr. Allan.

It was then resolved to appoint a Committee to report upon a revision of the Constitution of this Society, and the following Gentlemen were named, of whom any five may form a Quorum:—

The Rev. the Archd'n of York,	Mr Stanton,
The Rev. Dr. Phillips,	Mr. D Boulton,
The Rev. Mr. McDonell,	Mr. Bergin,
The Rev. Mr. Harris,	Mr. George Mouro,
The Rev. Mr. Medcalf,	The Solicitor General,
The Rev. Mr. Mouro,	The Hon. Wm Allan,
The Rev. Mr. Macaulay,	Mr. Wood,
Mr. Charles Small,	Mr. Carfrae,
The Attorney General,	Mr. W. B. Jarvis.

It was then moved that it be resolved that a Soup Kitchen be established in the rooms in the old Jail, and that a fit person be employed to take the management of it, and that the cheapest meat be purchased daily from the Market to supply the same, under the general superintendance of the Committee.

After some debate this motion was referred to the consideration of the Committee just appointed.

It was moved and resolved that the Committee do meet on Monday next at 12 o'clock.

On motion of the Ven. the Archdeacon, the thanks of the Society were voted to the Medical Gentlemen of the Town for their unwearied and meritorious attention to the sick poor during this year.

On motion of the Attorney General, the thanks of the Society were voted to Mr. Wood and the Rev. A. Macaulay, for their labours in distributing the Funds of the Society during the last year.

The Secretary reported to the meeting that Major Winniett, commanding the 68th Regiment, had sent to him early last Winter, 15 cast-off Great Coats, which he requested might be distributed by the officers of the Society, and which proved most seasonable and valuable gifts to the individuals who received them—whereupon the thanks of the Society were voted to Major Winniett for his kind consideration of the objects of the Society's charity.

On motion of the Hon. J. B. Macaulay, the thanks of the Society were voted to the Captains of the Steam-Vessels respectively, for their ready attention to the wishes of the Society in granting free passages to poor people when solicited so to do.

The Meeting was then adjourned to Saturday next, at 12 o'clock, when the members were requested to meet again to receive the Report of the Committee.

SATURDAY, 6th December, 1828.

The Adjourned meeting of the Society was held this day in the Grand Jury Room.

At one o'clock, Mr. Justice Sherwood, one of the Vice-Presidents, took the Chair.

The Venerable the Archdeacon, from the Committee appointed to revise the constitution of the Society, presented a Report, which was received and read by the Secretary, and having been very fully discussed in detail, some amendments were made thereto, and it was finally submitted as follows:—

Your Committee appointed at your last Meeting to report upon a revision of the constitution of this Society, have agreed to the following rules, which they submit as the amended constitution for the consideration and adoption of the Society.

JAMES FITZGIBBON,
SECRETARY.

Jesse Ketchum, Esquire, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Society, agreed to aid Mr. Coulson in the purchase of provisions.

It was recommended that the visiting committee in commencing their month of service, call upon all persons receiving aid from the Society—that they meet at the Court House every Tuesday at one o'clock, and that they take such measures as may seem to them expedient for sending back to their own Townships, all such persons as evidently appear to be sent from other places with the view of becoming a burden on the Society.

It was further ruled,

That the names of the visiting Committee be inserted in such of the several papers as will admit the insertion gratis.

That the Clergyman of each congregation in the town may, in a case of urgency, give a ticket direct to the issuer, who is to comply with it till further directed by the visiting committee.

Poetry.

To the Editor of the Montreal Herald.

TO CANADA AND ALL MY FRIENDS THERE.

E'en here I gaze upon your lakes,
And on your streams my spirit flows!
Yes, happiest recollection wakes
Upon your cheerful winter snows:
And verdant pinnacles arise
In thousands still, before my eyes!

Ay, fancy paints ye all as bright,
And fresh, and beautifully wild!
As when before my rapture's sight
Ye stood, and all my spirit smiled.
Strongly my hope looks onward, when
I may be with you once again!—

Ye are not, but I'll call ye mine,
For what undimm'd delight ye gave;—
I cling upon these thoughts—they shine
Like chrystals from your frozen wave!
O'er which the kissing sun-beams play,
And tinge with many a varying ray.

And you, ye fairy thousand isles—
To meditative fancy dear;
Round which the silver current smiles,
And rolls in adoration there,
My muse 'mid your sweet witchery,
An unclog'd guest will ever be.

There is no spot of all the earth,
On which I've wandered far and wide—
Not e'en the land which gave me birth—
That lifts up from my heart such tide,
(In which no harsher thoughts intrude,)
Of memoried love and gratitude!

And you, dear friends! who cheer'd my life,
When clouds hung darkly on my way—
To you who dash'd aside the strife
Of soul, I felt,—what shall I say?
How dearly treasur'd, and how well
My memory loves you,—what shall tell?

With you a new bright morning rose—
The days of bliss, indeed, were mine;
And death alone the scene shall close—
On which my grateful eye will shine.
Though distant ye are ever near—
My spirit calls, and, ye are here!

Not so—for I am borne along
With but a look, the ocean road
Je travail'd o'er, and I'm among
My friends, and in my heart's abode:
I see each hospitable door
Thrown wide with welcome felt before.

Cold is your wintry clime; but frost
Ne'er creeps into your glowing hearts.
There summer's heat is never lost;
And when a kindly ray departs,
It flies to smile on, warm, and cheer
The stranger who may sojourn there.

As constant as your noble streams—
As steadfast as your rocks and hills—
Rich tinted as your sun-set beams—
The love, which now my bosom thrills,
Will thrill, through every changeful lot—
Forget not me! Forget me not.

C. R. PEMBERTON.

London, 16th December, 1827.

Domestic.

The 4th anniversary of the commencement of the Welland Canal, (St. Andrew's day,) was celebrated at Mr. Usher's Hotel, in this village, on Monday last, by a respectable number of gentlemen resident in the neighbourhood partaking of a public dinner, in the usual style on such occasions; at which, we are informed, several appropriate toasts were drank, with songs and cheers, and the company retired at an early hour much gratified with their evenings entertainment.—Farmers Journal.

Fire.—On Monday morning last a blazing fire was observed by some of the neighbours, in the second story of the building in this village occupied by Mr. Vanderlip as store. Means were immediately used to extinguish the flames, which were successful; when the fire was discovered to have originated from a quantity of corn brooms having been placed too near the stove pipe that passed through the room from the store below. The brooms were destroyed, but the other damage was not material, yet the prospect at one time appeared very alarming. This narrow escape should prove a warning to us all, to look well to our stove pipes, and take particular care that nothing combustible is placed near; for, by carelessness or neglect of this kind, in one short hour the proceeds of years of toil and prudence may be destroyed for ever.—ib.

Varieties.

A correspondent of the London Mechanics' Magazine, enquires into the nature of the composition, if it is a composition, of the common marbles which boys play with. It is a very commonly received notion, that such marbles, as they are termed, are actually stones picked up on a shingly beach, and placed in loose bags securely to the arms of wind-mill sails in Holland, where, by the constant rotary motion of the sails, the stones obtain, by this attrition, the perfect spherical form, in which they are sold as Dutch toys. Some assert that the white ones, which the boys term alleys and basses, are actually marble, and turned in a lathe. Others suppose they are made of clay, and baked as brick; but they require a blow to fracture them greater than any English pottery or brick could bear. They are, besides, impervious to water, without being glazed, which no bricks are, that I ever saw, in modern days. The Encyclopedias afford no information on the subject.

Literature.—The coming season will introduce to us no less than thirteen annuals, or literary keepsakes. About 100,000 volumes will be printed altogether; and the amount that will be paid for them by the public will exceed £75,000—the cost of the publication being perhaps £50,000. The sum paid for binding alone may be estimated at £10,000. Nearly the whole of our best painters, from the president of the Royal Academy down, have furnished subjects for the busines of our best engravers to embellish their pages; and the names of the greater portion of our most celebrated authors appear among the lists of their contributors, from Sir Walter Scott, downwards.

VOL. I. NO. 33.

YORK, UPPER CANADA, SATURDAY DECEMBER 20, 1828.

MR. MARTIN'S ENGRAVING OF THE DELUGE.

Mr. Martin has published an Engraving from his Picture of "the Deluge."—Of all living artists, Mr. Martin appears to attain the sublime with the greatest facility. It springs forth spontaneously, as it were, from the constitution of his mind, and more or less palpably pervades everything he produces. This sublime is not, however, the sublime of passion, exhibited in the workings of a single countenance, or in the countenances of a group: it arises from the simultaneous sufferings of multitudes crowded together by some terrible catastrophe, from a combination of innumerable energies,—from confusion, darkness, and immensity. It may generally, perhaps, be termed the sublime of the material world, in which man, contrasted with the huge masses of rock, gigantic architecture, mountains, torrents, and abysses, by which he is surrounded, appears a miserable pigmy, created to be the sport of the elements, or crushed to dust amid their convulsions. In the present magnificient engraving, all that we have said is literally exemplified: the sun, the moon, the streaming comet, in miraculous conjunction, and half eclipsed by the canopy of vapor now hung densely round the globe, and melting into torrents of rain, glare menacingly upon the earth. In the centre of the picture, directly beneath the light, which breaks down in pale masses through the clouds, are the lofty beetling precipices of Caucasus or Ararat, clothed with the first Spring Ships. 1 27

Yet not al woe or fear alone
It tells: a sad and solemn story;
One object in the wreck is shown
Of love—and grace—and glory!
One gleam—where all beside is dark,
From stern and hopeless horror saves,
Shows where the Heaven-protected ark
The world of waters braves!
To that, amid Creation's doom,
Meek Hope, and holy Faith may cling,
And, in Destruction's darkest gloom,
Of Mercy's triumph sing!

CINNAMON FIELDS OF CEYLON.

Our morning was, as usual on a first arrival, taken up by visits; in the afternoon, we drove, in Sir E. Barnes' sociable, through the far-famed cinnamon gardens, which cover upwards of 17,000 acres of land on the coast, the largest of which are near Colombo. The plant thrives best in a poor, sandy soil, in a damp atmosphere; it grows wild in the woods to the size of a large apple tree, but when cultivated, is never allowed to grow more than ten or twelve feet in height, each plant standing separate.—The leaf is something like that of the laurel in shape, but of a lighter color; when it first shoots out its red, and changes gradually to green. It is now out of blossom, but I am told that the flower is white, and appears, when in full blossom, to cover the garden. After bearing so much of the spicy gales from this island, I was much disappointed at not being able to discover any scent, at least from the plants, in passing through the gardens; there is a very fragrant-smelling flower growing under them, which at first led us into the belief that we smelt the cinnamon, but we were soon undeceived. On pulling off a leaf or a twig you perceive the spicy odour very strongly, but I was surprised to hear that the flower had little or none. As cinnamon forms the only considerable export of Ceylon, it is of course preserved with great care; by the old Dutch law, the penalty for cutting a branch was no less than the loss of a hand; at present a fine expiates the same offence. The neighbourhood of Colombo is particularly favourable to its growth, being well sheltered, with a high equable temperature; and as showers fall very frequently, though a whole day's heavy rain is uncommon, the ground is never parched.—Bishop Heber.

Cheap and valuable Manure.—Raise a platform of earth, eight feet wide, one foot high, and of any length, according to the quantity wanted, on the head land of a field.—On the first stratum of earth lay a thin stratum of lime fresh from the kiln, slake or slake this with salt brine or sea-water from the nose of a watering-pot; add immediately another layer of earth, then lime, and brine as before, carrying it to any convenient height. In a week it should be turned over, carefully broken, and mixed, so that the mass may be thoroughly incorporated. This compost has been used in Ireland, has doubled the crops of potatoes and cabbages, and is said to be far superior to stable dung.—Lond. Magazine.

Fatal Sensibility.—For sometime past, crowds of people had been in the habit of congregating round the doors and windows of a pastry cook's shop, in Regent-street, London, to gaze at a remarkably beautiful girl, about seventeen years of age, the daughter of the pastry cook—a Swiss of the name of Verrey—who served in the shop. Such was the conduct of the mob, on several evenings, that application to the police became necessary, but no exertions on their part were adequate to the suppression of the nuisance. Finding that keeping his daughter in the shop was the ruin of his business, access to the shop being only attainable by efforts and struggles through the mob, which few customers would choose to undergo, M. Verrey came to the resolution, which he publicly announced, of sending her home to Lausanne; but it not being convenient to carry that intention immediately into effect, in order to remove her from the public gaze, he kept her under a very slight confinement in her room. This, together with the accounts which appeared in the papers, preyed on her mind, which was very sensitive, and brought on her premature death at six o'clock last Monday evening. Up to the last moment of her existence, she was perfectly sensible, and continued to repeat in broken French. "Oh, could I see my mother before I die, I should be happy." While uttering those words, she expired. Upon her death being made known to her father, he rushed into the room, tearing his hair, and exclaiming in the most frantic manner, against the cruelty practised towards his family and in persuasion of his friends could induce him to remove himself from the sight of the corpse

THE KING'S HEALTH.

Eton, Oct. 23d, Evening.—Yesterday His Majesty again came down to dinner; and to-day the answer to all inquiries is, that His Majesty's health is rapidly improving. He was so much better yesterday that orders were given to have the phætons in readiness for a drive to day; and there is no doubt they would have been used for that purpose had the weather permitted; but we have had very heavy rain here all day.

I have just learned that the Earl and Countess of Harcourt, Lord Lowther, and Mr. Commissioner Adams, dined with His Majesty yesterday, and He did not retire from the table till ten o'clock; so that it would seem that the Royal Health is such that the Quidnunc may make themselves perfectly easy at present.

The Hon. Capt. W. Gordon, Commander of H. M. frigate Briton, arrived in town yesterday afternoon, with despatches from Viscount Strangford (our Ambassador on a special mission to the Emperor of Brazils) for the Earl of Aberdeen; the Captain also brought despatches for Viscount Melville. The Captain was accompanied from Rio Janeiro by Monsieur O. Rodorigo, a gentleman charged with despatches from the Emperor Don Pedro to the Marquis de Barbacena, the Nobleman to whose care his Imperial Majesty has entrusted his Daughter.

The EARL OF DALHOUSIE was engaged for a considerable time yesterday at the Colonial Office, transacting official business.—London, Oct. 24.

The London Courier of the 23d Oct. states that the King entertained a party to dinner on the preceding day.

A London paper of the 22d says that within a few days there was exported from the Port of London to the Continent 83,000 ounces of gold, besides a large quantity of silver. The inference drawn by the London editors is that this importation of the metals accounts for the decline of prices in the grain market.

British Fleet in the Mediterranean.—The London Sun in some remarks on the blockade of the Dardanelles, gives the annexed list of armed vessels of Great Britain in the Mediterranean. It is insinuated that additional forces are to be sent out. An accompanying paragraph shows that one vessel of the largest class has left that station at least for a time.

Sir Edward Codrington arrived yesterday, in the Warspite, 74 guns, from Malta, which he left on the 11th ult. The combined fleet was in Navarin, waiting the arrival of Capt. Campbell in the Blonde frigate, with the Egyptian transports for the conveyance of the second division of Ibrahim's army.—Sun, Oct. 8.

State of Trade at Manchester.

The demand for twist for shipping continues to be good, and prices for some sorts are a shade higher, not, however, sufficiently so to make up for the advance in cotton, which has this week been brisk. Particular sorts of manufactured goods are wanted: but in general they are neither dull, and we are sorry to learn that at Blackburn a reduction has been made in the wages of the weavers.—At the approach of winter, and with the high price of provisions, this is a very painful circumstance.—Manchester Guardian.

Trade of Liverpool.—The following is an account of the number of vessels arrived in this port, and reported at the Custom House, during the quarter ended on the 10th inst. namely:—

From Foreign Ports,	-	89
British,	- -	554
European,	- -	850
		773
From Ireland,	- -	748
Coastwise,	- -	1043
Aggregate,		2599

Such is the falling off in American shipping at this port, during the last quarter, that scarcely sixty are reported of the 160 in the corresponding quarter of last year.

Exportation of Gold.—The fact is now pretty well established, that a large exportation of gold to the North of Europe is now going on, to what amount it is extremely difficult to ascertain, but we should not think the quantity already sent, over estimated at 1,000,000 sterling.—Part of this has been sent to effect purchases of grain, in which employment its use is indispensable, as the farmers in the interior will only accept specie in exchange for their corn; but another portion, and that probably the most considerable, has been remitted for the supply of the Russian Army in Turkey. The price of gold has risen to-day, and bullion is at the standard of £3 17s. 10½d. the ounce.

There is, at this moment, in the coffers of the bank of England, gold to the amount 13,000,000 pounds.—London Observer.

Scotland.

The carpet trade, which is carried on to a very great extent in Bannockburn and Sterling, is at present unusually brisk, and with the manufacture of tartans, gives imployment to upwards of a thousand weavers.

Potatoes have advanced 25 per cent. in Perth, in consequence of a demand from London, owing to the failure of the crop in Yorkshire and other districts in England, caused by the deluging rains which fell there last autumn; and one flowed the low grounds in which they are chiefly raised. Perth potatoes bring from £4 10s. to £4 15s. per ton, at present, in London, and a great demand for shipping has ensued. Many of the potatoe venders declare they suffered severely last year; but such of them as have been able to keep in the trade will be amply recompensed now.—Glasgow Chronicle.

New wheat is selling in Perth at 36s. to 37s. 6d. per boll of 4 Imperial bushels.—ib

At the Lanark Tryst on Friday the 17th October, there was a large supply of cattle of every description, which sold readily at good prices. The quantity of business done, principally by south country dealers, on their return from Falkirk, greatly exceeded general expectation. The people of Lanark are fondly indulging the hope that this recently established market will soon rival that of Falkirk.—ib.

Mr. Marshall's Steam Coach.—On Wednesday, this carriage was propelled at the rate of five or six miles per hour, turning every fifty yards, over a heavy gravel, which is only consolidated by the exercise of the soldiers upon it; it travelled over a rough pitched pavement, leading to the turnpike road, and when there, fifteen stout men having got upon it, it carried them on a road constantly ascending, at a rate of five to eight miles per hour. It is supposed that any velocity might have been got; but great rapidity was not thought prudent, the boiler not being yet fixed upon springs. Comparing this machine with what it was twelve months since, no unprejudiced person could fail to be satisfied by the advances it has made, in only one person's hands.—Scotsman

Arbroath.—The following is a statement of the exports of the staple articles at this place from the 6th of July to the 10th of Oct. 1828:—

British America, 295,373 yards of linen, 43,808 ells of sailcloth; British West Indies, 104,294 yards of linen, 11,655 ells of sail-cloth; United States, 1,289,097 yards of linen, 19,200 ells of sail-cloth; and Brazil, 470,011 yards of linen, 67,376 ells of sail-cloth.—Caledonian Mercury.

Foreign Intelligence.

Constantinople, Sept. 27.—Private correspondence.—The Port has received the official news that the Grand Vizier arrived on the 15th Sept. at the camp at Varna, by Lake Leman. The Capt. Pacha, to gain time, had deceived the Russians, and proposed to submit to them the 14th Sept. The Grand Vizier arrived on the 15th. It is supposed that the siege has been raised. Husney Bey announces the general retreat of the Russians from Shumla, and the defeat on the 9th, 13th and 17th Sept. of those under command of Wittgenstein. The ways were encumbered with dead and wounded Russians. Their baggage and artillery are lost, and in case of their retreat from Varna they will not save a gun. The Grand Seignor is in his camp at Ramis Schiftik. The Turks are in the height of enthusiasm.—Gazette de France.

Constantinople, Sept. 30.—We are delivered from our dismay by learning the agreeable news that Gen. Geismar has beaten the Turks who came from Widdin. 500 prisoners, 13 cannon and standards taken. (Our English papers say the Turks were 500,000 strong.) Prince Schachouskoi has observed near Silistria with his reinforcements by this time; and Gen. Roth, in spite of unfavorable reports, has taken position against the Turks on the road to Rudschuck.—Augsburg Gazette.

Vienna, 11th Oct.—Negociation were to be carried on with regard to the evacuation of the Morea, and different communications from the three Ambassadors, must have been sent to the Porte by the Austrian internuncio. It was believed that the Divan would decide by giving orders for the evacuation of the Morea, and acceding to the treaty of 6th July.

Fever at Gibraltar.—The accounts yesterday are to the 30th ult. the details are of the most melancholy description. The number of cases are daily increasing. The Gibraltar papers give the official report of the 28th at 81 new cases and 16 deaths; but the private accounts, which we believe are more to be relied upon, state the deaths on the 29th at 30, or nearly one in three; the former proportion was at one death in six cases. The total number up to the 30th (according to the official statement) is 1,135, of which 195 died.

We received yesterday accounts from the Cape of Good Hope to the 3d of August. The Government authorities had issued the following Bulletin on the 31st of July.

Colonial Office, Cape Town, July 31.—Advices have been received from Major Dundas dated the 21st instant, which state that Chaka's force was then in motion between the Umtala and the Bashee Rivers, and advancing to the Kaffer territory. The Chiefs Vossanie and Hinea have assembled a large force, with the intention of giving battle on the Bashee River. The force under Lieutenant-Colonel Somerset has moved towards the Kasy River, to cover the frontier, and support the Kaffers."

SUMMARY OF THE LATE OPERATIONS.

From the Courier of 21st October.

We have no longer to complain of the tardiness with which we receive the Russian Bulletins. Another Bulletin has arrived, which brings down the operations before Varna to the 1st instant, Choumla to the 27th ult., and Silistria to the 11th ult.

We shall review the operations in the order in which they are communicated.

The operations in Asia, after the capture of Akhalzik, have been for some time known to our readers; they consisted merely in the taking of the small fortress of Azkhur.

The Russians erected redoubts upon the heights taken on the 24th of August, and began the cannonade of Silistria. On the 11th ult. 5,000 Turks appeared at the village of Tatorcyc, and attacked the Russians with a superior force, obliging them to retreat towards Tourtoukay. Whence this Turkish corps comes is not explained, but we suppose it was part of the garrison of Silistria which drove back the Russian outposts towards Tourtoukay, and being then joined by a fresh detachment, attempted the two nearest Russian redoubts, but were repulsed. Their cavalry then attacked Lieut.-Gen.-Kreutz, but with no better success. As usual the Bulletin represents the Russian loss to be inferior to that of the Turks, but when we find that they had eight officers wounded, we suspect that their loss was equal to that of the Turks. On the 15th the Turks made another attack, but were repulsed. This Bulletin proves that the Turks have free ingress to and engress from Silistria—and indeed we suspect that the siege of that fortress is not very closely pressed, if it be pressed at all. We have the Turks the assailants in every one of those affairs before Silistria.

The operations before Choumla from the 21st to the 27th ult. are given with great brevity. On the 21st a body of Turkish Infantry approached one of the redoubts, but was put to flight. The advance of the Grand Vizier to join Hussein Pacha has compelled the Russians to recall General Roth from before Silistria, in order to strengthen the main army under Field-Marshal Wittgenstein.

The most important part of the Bulletin relates to Varna. The fact of the Grand Vizier being able to act in complete co-operation with Hussein Pacha, has been established by this Bulletin. The Russians had been aware that a strong corps was on its way to attempt raising the siege of Varna. The operation was concerted with Hussein Pacha, who detached Omer Vrione with a body of Albanians from Choumla (so that the road from Choumla towards Varna is open,) to join a corps of the Grand Vizier's army which crossed the Kamtczyk. The two divisions united and advanced. The Russians sent a strong detachment to reconnoitre, but owing to local difficulties, as the Bulletin says, and the inaccuracy of their information respecting the strength and advance of the Turks, they suffered considerably. In fact, the whole detachment seems to have been cut to pieces, if we may judge from the loss it sustained in officers. Maj.-General Hartung, Colonel Sarger, Colonel Busse, and ten other officers, were killed. The number of wounded is not mentioned.

The Turks, after this success, continued to advance, and crossing the Pravadi, appeared on the south side of the Strait of Varna. On the 27th ult. Lieutenant-General Sachozonet was sent with a strong detachment to the south side of the Strait of Varna, to threaten the right wing of Omer Vrione. By this movement a Turkish encampment in the village of Hadji Hassan was taken and the Turks lost 500 men.

So serious was the demonstration of the Grand Vizier deemed, that Prince Eugene of Wirtemberg was ordered to quit the camp before Choumla, with his Division, and to join General Sachozonet, which he did on the 28th ult. But the Turks had made an attack on that day, upon General Bistrom. They had previously entrenched their camp, and with a superior force to the attack of the Russian redoubts. The action lasted four hours; but the Turks are said to have been defeated with the loss of 1,000 killed. They had 15,000 infantry and cavalry in the battle, and 15,000 more in their intrenchments. The Russian General Freitag and Colonel Zaycow were killed. The 29th was a day of repose, the Turks being employed in fortifying their position. On the 30th the Russians became the assailants, and we infer from the Russians account that they were repulsed with great loss. There was to be a feigned attack, and a serious one.—General Bistrom made the former, and Prince Eugene the latter. The ground is said to have been favourable to the Turkish infantry—broken by hollows, and covered with thick bushes. The first Turkish redoubt, however, and one piece of cannon, were taken. But the Russian troops not being able to resist their impulse of courage, disobeyed the orders of Prince Eugene, and attacked the Turkish camp. The Russian General Jurnow was killed at the beginning of the action. The Russians, however, reached the parapet of the Turkish entrenchments, but they were exposed to such a force in front, and were so threatened on their flanks by the Turkish cavalry, that they obliged to retreat with considerable loss. This decided the fate of the attack on the Turkish position. Prince Eugene fell back to his former position at Hadji Hassan; and the Bulletin exults that the Turks were so struck with the boldness of the attack on their entrenchments, that, notwithstanding the Russian loss, "they not only did not hinder the retreat of Prince Eugene, but remained next day behind their entrenchments."

The general result of all these operations is—that Silistria seems to be very feebly invested, and that the garrison are able to communicate with any Turkish force in their vicinity—that Choumla is so far disengaged, that Hussein Pacha is able to send detachments to co-operate with the Grand Vizier in his attempt to relieve Varna—and that the Grand Vizier has been able to cross the Kamptczky and the Pravadi, take up a strong intrenched position, and defeat the efforts of the Russians to drive him from it.

The Bulletin concludes by informing us that the works before Varna are so far advanced that the mines reach in two places the main rampart of the fortress. But we have heard that the Russians have been delayed in their operations by the intelligence of the Turks having countermined in two places.

The latest accounts from Brazil, received at Baltimore, bring the gratifying intelligence of the ratification of the late treaty of peace between the Emperor of Brazil and the Republic of Buenos Ayres: and the rising of the long and oppressive blockade of the Rio de la Plata by the squadron of the former power. We give below the substance of Preliminary Convention, by which it will be seen that that often abused person, John Bull, is of some use and importance after all among the nations of the earth.—The belligerents, it seems, have not only accepted the mediation of England, but by this document have pledged themselves that, previous to the conclusion of the definitive Treaty, neither shall resume offensive operations without giving six month's notice and apprising the Government of Great Britain of its design.—Albion.

Extract from the Preliminary Convention, &c.—"The Government of Brazil and that of the Republic, engage themselves to evacuate the Province of Montevideo, that it may be constituted governed as the said Province may think proper. In two months after the exchange of the ratification of this treaty in Montevideo, the Brazilian troops will remove by sea or land to their own territory. The Argentine troops will cross the Uraguay—fifteen hundred of the former will remain in Montevideo, and the same number or more of ours in whatsoever point of the Province which may be ten leagues distant from the residence of the Government.

The city of Montevideo shall be governed during the period as it is at present, and the country by the government of the respective chiefs; four months from the date of the ratification, there shall be chosen a Provincial Government, by Provincial Representation, which will meet at the distance before mentioned from the military forces; and for their election the citizens of Montevideo shall assemble and vote without the walls, out of reach of cannon shot of the walls of Varna, and that by means of the breaches made, the fortress might be taken by storm. The breaches certainly enabled the Russians to attempt a storm, but it does not follow that the attempt must be successful. However, the next day a Turkish flag came to announce the surrender of the fortress; in whose name is not said; on the next morning, the 9th, Jussuf Pachs, (of whom we had not heard before), one of the chief commanders in the town, held a conference with Admiral Greig. It is evident that the brave Captain-Pacha did not make any objection any offer himself or surrender—though the Prussian State Gazette of the 25th, in communicating the additional particulars, says that "a Private Secretary of the Captain Pacha appeared with two other Turks on board the Paris, to commence a negotiation for the surrender of Varna." It must have been the Private Secretary of Jussuf Pacha, for we are assured by Jussuf himself, in a subsequent part of the narrative, "that the Captain Pacha would not consent to a capitulation upon any terms." Of course he would not send a Private Secretary to commence a negotiation for a surrender. The Secretary, therefore, being the envoy of Jessuf Pacha, was sent to state upon what terms he would surrender, with his troops, and thus deprive his superior officer, the Captain Pacha, of all power of making any capitulation, or of any vigorous resistance. Jussuf's agent having paved the way for his master, he proceeded to Count Wosonzow in the evening of the 9th, and promises a positive declaration for the next day. The interval was, probably, spent in taking measures with his officers. Next day Jussuf and his positive declaration appear, and offers to succeed to the command, and, therefore, subordinate to his Chief, without any orders to negociate from that Chief—he, Jessuf, tells the besieging General, that the place is incapable of any further defence—and that "as the Captain Pacha will not consent to a capitulation on any terms, he is resolved not to return into the fortress, but to place himself under the protection of the Emperor." Jussuf had, no doubt, previously tampered with his own troops, for as soon as his resolution was known in the town all the troops under his command laid down their arms, and that very night and the next morning surrendered themselves prisoners of war.

We cannot help feeling for the situation of the brave Captain Pacha, who, deserted by his own officer, and, at the instigation of that officer, by his garrison, which, as the Bulletin says, "had in this manner dissolved itself," found no refuge in the enemy but by the citadel in which those who still remained faithful to him—a corps of, we infer, no more than 400 men, for that was the whole amount of the force with which he deured to retire unmolested. His desire was granted, and he proceeded to join the corps of Vrione.

Whether the place could have made an effectual resistance, or whether the Grand Vizier could have relieved it, are points which it is now useless to discuss. But it is evident that the Russians made themselves masters of it through an act of insubordination on the part of Jussuf Pacha. We shall not hear of Jussuf Pacha again in the Turkish ranks.

The operations before Choumla have been brought down only to the 5d, though they might have been communic ted to as late a date as the operations before Varna.

The Emperor has inspected personally all the works, and has been thoroughly convinced of the difficulties with which the beseiging army had to contend.

After His Majesty had visited the mines (on the eve of the assaults) he proceeded to reconnoitre the defences of the town, bestowing particular attention on such parts as were to be the objects of attack.

From the accounts of the prisoners, (which, however, are somewhat various,) it is conjectured that the garrison of Varna, with the armed inhabitants, amounted in the beginning to at least 22,000 men; at the time of the surrender they numbered but 6,000.

We cannot, however, at present pretend to give a correct list of the prisoners, nor any statement of the stores, ammunition, &c. that have fallen into our hands.

Russian Bulletins—From the Courier.

All doubts of the capture of Varna having been removed, we proceed to a view of the Russian Bulletins which announce that event, and furnish us, also, with accounts of the operations at Choumla, and in Little Wallachia.

On the 3d and 4th two mines were sprung—that sprung on the 4th made two breaches in the north bastion, towards the sea, though the Turks made four attacks, during the night of the 3d, to dislodge the Russians. These breaches having been made, it was resolved on the 7th to send a detachment to take possession of the north bastion, which was their sole object, they hastened into the middle of the town, whilst three false attacks upon the place were made by the Russian redoubts. Reinforcements were sent to the detachment that had got into the town, but as it was foreseen that they could not resist the whole of the enemy's force or of ours in whatsoever point of the Province which may be ten leagues distant from the residence of the Government.

The city of Montevideo shall be governed during the period as it is at present, and the country by the governments of the respective chiefs; four months from the date of the ratification, there shall be chosen a Provincial Government, by Provincial Representation, which will meet at the distance before mentioned from the military forces; and for their election the citizens of Montevideo shall assemble and vote without the walls, out of reach of cannon shot of the walls of Varna, and that by means of the breaches made, the fortress might be taken by storm. The Emperor has inspected personally all the works, and has been thoroughly convinced of the difficulties with which the beseiging army had to contend.

After His Majesty had visited the mines (on the eve of they sent a strong body to cut off Major-Gen. Nabel, who was coming from the Silistria road to join the force near Choumla; but Gen. Orlow's division having been dispatched to reinforce Gen. Nabel, the Turks returned to Choumla.

The account from Little Wallachia is dated on the 4th. The Seraskier of Widden advanced on the 24th ult. from Kalafat, and was attacked on the 28th by Major General Geismar. The action continued till night fall, without any decisive advantage on either side. But the Major General foreseeing that he should be attacked next day, and that the Turks might easily surround him, or at least take him in flank, resolved to attack them a second time the same night. The Turks made a desperate resistance, but were forced to retreat, and the Bulletin adds, "that their loss amounts to some thousands killed and 600 prisoners; with horses, waggons, ammunition and provisions." The Major-General has been raised to the rank of Lieut.-General.

The great Anti-Catholic Meeting in Kent was attended by about 100,000 persons; a large portion consisted of friends to concession. A petition to Parliament was proposed, praying that no further concessions be made, which was after some opposition carried. Mr. Shiel is to have a dinner in London.

Parliament is further prorogued to the 18th of Dec.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.

TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES.

The last friendly expedient has been resorted to for the decision of the controversy with Great Britain, relating to the North-eastern Boundary of the United States. By an agreement with the British Government, carrying into effect the provisions of the fifth article of the Treaty of Ghent, and the Convention of the 29th September, 1827, His Majesty the King of Netherlands has by common consent been selected as the umpire between the parties. The proposal to him to accept the designation of the performance of this friendly office, will be made at an early day and the United States, relying upon the justice of their cause, will cheerfully commit the arbitrament of it to a Prince equally distinguished for the independence of his spirit, his indefatigable assiduity to the duties of his station, and his inflexible personal probity.

Our Commercial relations with Great Britain will deserve the serious consideration of Congress, and the exercise of a conciliatory and forbearing spirit in the policy of both Governments. The state of them has been materially changed by the Act of Congress passed at the last Session, in alteration of the several Acts imposing duties on imports, and by Acts of more recent date of the British Parliament. The effect of the interdiction of direct trade, commenced by Great Britain, and reciprocated by the United States, has been, as was to be foreseen, only to substitute different channels for an exchange of commodities indispensable to the Colonies, and profitable to a numerous class of our fellow-citizens. The exports, the revenue, the navigation, of the United States, have suffered no diminution by our exclusion from direct access to the British Colonies. The Colonies are dearer for the necessaries of life, which their Government burdens with the charges of double voyages, freight, insurance and commission, and the profits of our exports are somewhat impaired, and more injuriously transferred from one portion of our citizens to another. The resumption of this old and otherwise exploded system of Colonial exclusion has not secured to the shipping interest of Great Britain the relief which, at the expense of the distant colonies, and of the United States, it was expected to afford. Other measures have been resorted to more pointedly bearing upon the navigation of the United States, and which, unless modified by the construction given to the recent Acts of Parliament, will be manifestly incompatible with the positive stipulations of the commercial convention existing between the two countries. That convention, however, may be determined, with 12 months' notice, at the option of either party.

SUPPLEMENT.

ALBION OFFICE, Tuesday, Dec. 9, 1828.

Last night the Brighton arrived from London; by her we have received London papers to the 1st November, announcing the capture of Varna.

FALL OF VARNA.

News from Varna, (Sept. 29,) Oct. 11.

The difficulties and sufferings of the army before Varna have been crowned with victory.

The reduction of the fortress was the result of a general assault on the 25th of September (or the 6th of October), in which a few of our gallant soldiers penetrated to the very middle of the town, on the night of that day.

Such was the consternation of the enemy by this bold and successful exploit, that a conference was upon the moment proposed, and Jessuf Pacha himself was the first who commanded his followers to lay down their arms unconditionally, and without stipulation of any kind, and to pass over to our camp.

In the course of the night, and on the next morning, his example was followed by the whole garrison, save only the Captain Pacha, and a few followers, composed of his immediate suite, who threw themselves into the citadel.—They were afterwards made prisoners there by the Russian soldiers, who had entered by the breaches external defences of the town.

The first corps that entered where the 13th and 14th of the Foot Guards, after them a battalion of Sappers, and then the Ismail Regiment of the Imperial Guard.

The Emperor has inspected personally all the works, and has been thoroughly convinced of the difficulties with which the beseiging army had to contend.

After His Majesty had visited the mines (on the eve of

The colonial system by which this whole hemisphere was bound has fallen into ruins. Totally abolished by revolutions, converting colonies into independent nations, throughout the two American Continents, excepting a portion of territory chiefly at the northern extremity of our own, and confined to the remnants of dominion retained by Great Britain over the insular Archipelago, geographically the appendages of our part of the globe.—With all the rest we have free trade—even with the insular colonies of all the Europe nations, except Great Britain. Her Government also manifested approaches to the adoption of a free and liberal intercourse between her colonies and other nations, though, by a sudden and scarcely explained revulsion, the spirit of exclusion has been revived for operation upon the United States alone.

It has happened, in the vicissitudes of the seasons, that the harvests of all Europe have, in the late summer and autumn, fallen short of their usual average. A relaxation of the interdict upon the importation of grain and flour from abroad has ensued; a propitious market has been opened to the granaries of our county; and a new prospect of reward presented to the labours of the husbandman, which, for several years has been denied. This accession to the profits of agriculture in the middle and western portions of our Union is accidental and temporary. It may continue for a year. It may be, as has been often experienced in the revolutions of time, but the first of several scanty harvests in succession. We may consider it certain that, for the approaching year, it has added an item of large amount to the value of our exports, and that it will produce a corresponding increase of importations. It may, therefore, confidently be foretold, that the revenue of 1829 will equal, and probably exceed, that of 1828, and will afford the means of extinguishing ten millions more of the public debt.

The great interests of an agricultural, commercial, and manufacturing nation are so linked in union together, that no permanent cause of prosperity to one of them can operate without extending its influence to the others. All these interests are alike subject to the protecting power of the Legislative authority; and the duties of the representative bodies are to conciliate them in harmony together. So far as the object of taxation is to raise a revenue for discharging the debts, and defraying the expenses of the community, it should as much as possible suit the burden with equal hand upon all, in proportion with their ability of bearing it without oppression. But the legislation of one nation is sometimes intentionally made to bear heavily upon the interests of another. That legislation, adapted as it is meant to be, to the special interests of its own people, will often press most unequally upon the several component interests of its neighbors. Thus, the legislation of Great Britain, when, as has recently been avowed, adapted to the depression of a rival nation, will naturally abound with regulations of interdict upon the productions of the soil or industry of the other which come in competition with its own, and will present encouragement, perhaps even bounty, to the raw material of the other state, which it cannot produce itself, and which is essential for the use of its manufactures, competitors in the markets of the world with those of its commercial rival. Such is the state of the Commercial Legislature of Great Britain, as it bears upon our interests. It excludes, with interdicting duties, all importation (except in time of approaching famine) of the great staple productions of our middle and western states; it proscribes, with equal rigor, the bulkier lumber and live stock of the same portion, and also of the Northern and Eastern part of our Union. It refuses even the rice of the South, unless aggravated with a charge of duty upon the Northern carrier who brings it to them.—But the cotton, indispensable for their looms, they will receive almost duty-free, to weave it into a fabric for our wear, to the obstruction of our own manufactures which they are enabled thus to undersell. Is the self-protecting energy of this nation so helpless that there exists, in the political institutions of our country, no power to counteract the bias of this foreign legislation? that the growers of grain must submit to this exclusion from the foreign markets of their produce, that the shippers must dismantle their ships, the trade of the North stagnate at the wharves, and the manufacturers starve at their looms, while the whole people shall pay tribute to foreign industry to be clad in a foreign garb; that the Congress of the Union are impotent to restore the balance in favor of native industry destroyed by the statutes of another realm? More just and more generous sentiments will, I trust, prevail. If the tariff adopted at the last Session of Congress shall be found, by experience, to bear oppressively upon the interests of any one section of the Union, it ought to be, and I cannot doubt will be, so modified as to alleviate its burden.

The tariff of the last Session, was, in its details, not acceptable to the great interests of any portion of the Union, not even to the interests which it was specially intended to subserve. Its object was to balance the burdens of one section of the Union by the relief afforded to another. To the great principle sanctioned by that act, one of those upon which the Constitution itself was formed, I hope and trust the authority of the Union will adhere. But if any of the duties imposed by the act only relieve the manufacturer by aggravating the burden of the planter, let a careful revision of its provisions, enlightened by the practical experience of its effects be directed to retain those which impart protection to native industry, and remove or supply the place of those which only alleviate one great national interest by the depression of another.

For the Loyalist.

Having seen in the last Loyalist a paragraph, quoted from a Dublin Paper, informing the world that the famous Squadrature of the Circle has been performed by a Boy of Thirteen, I trouble you with a few observations, that may not be, perhaps, uninteresting to your readers.

To find what proportion the Diameter of a Circle bears to the Circumference, is what is commonly called "Squaring the Circle;" for, could that proportion be exactly determined, it would be but a simple process to find the side of a Square having the same superficial content.

Archimedes, of Syracuse, more than two thousand years ago, discovered the proportion to be, as seven to twenty-two, nearly; and this proportion, is employed in most cases, in which great accuracy is not required.

VanCeulen, a celebrated Dutch Geometrician, carried the approximation to thirty-six places of Decimals; and which was thought so curious a performance, that it was engraven on his tomb-stone, in St. Peters Church-yard, at Leyden.

Dr. Halley discovered, that the proportion was best found from the Tangent of any assumed Arc of a Circle; and by using an approximating Series, the proportion was determined with considerable accuracy. Abraham Sharp, adopting Halley's theory, computed the circumference to seventy-two places of Decimals; but it is a method of computation very slow in its results, and so laborious, that none but an indefatigable calculator would attempt it.

Euler simplified this process, and produced the proportion nearly similar. But the simplest, most expeditious, and correct approximating Series, is that discovered by Machin, and now determined the proportion true to above a hundred places of Figures by Hutton.

This Problem, which has engrossed the attention not only of the great Mathematicians just mentioned, but of very many others ranked in Science, has never been known to be impossible; but is now seldom attempted, except by those, who are ignorant of the difficulties attending it; and should this Lad, by the mere force of intuitive acumen, have positively decided this long disputed subject, it will indeed form a remarkable era in the History of Geometry. But, until the details of his asserted discovery are submitted to public criticism, and have safely undergone the ordeal of a collegiate examination, I must confess, particularly as this is not the first announcement of a similar nature that has been made and disproved, that I shall continue rather sceptical of the truth of the circumstance. YORK BIBLE SOCIETY.

The Committee of the York Bible Society, held their second meeting, in the Masonic Hall, on the 15th instant, when they received the Report of the Collectors for the different wards of the Town. From the returns made it appears that the Subscriptions and donations amount to one hundred and twenty-seven pounds Cy.—Sixty-two of which has been already paid. This success being highly gratifying to the Committee, they think it their duty to give this statement to the public, for the encouragement of the friends of the Institution. At the same time the Committee expect, that previous to their next meeting, to be held on the first Monday in February, 1829, all who are friendly to the circulation of the Holy Scriptures will have contributed according to their means, as the subscriptions will then be closed for the present year, and the money collected immediately transmitted to the Parent Society for Bibles. The Society have a small supply of English, Gaelic, German and French, Bibles and Testaments at present on hand —Depositary, Mr. Edward Henderson.

THE LOYALIST.

YORK, U. C., SATURDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1828.

By London dates to 1st November, received at New-York, we are put in possession of Official information from the Seat of War announcing the Capture of Varna by the Russians.—It is supposed that with the fall of this important Fortress, the campaign will close, and as from the details of the latest news it appears that the Russian Army had generally maintained its positions, and lately gained a victory over the enemy in Little Wallachia, it may be considered as being altogether a successful one on the part of the Russians.

His Majesty was rapidly improving from His late indisposition.

The proceedings of the House of Assembly in Lower Canada are continued in the present number.—The most important of these, are the Resolutions which have been passed, on that part of the Message of His Excellency Sir James Kempt, relating more particularly to the question of Finance.—In another part of our paper will be found an Official Document, containing the opinion of the Law Officers of the Crown in England, on the subject of Duties collected under 14th Geo. III,—the right of appropriation of which has been the cause of so much misunderstanding. That opinion is decisive, and appears to have been concurred in by the Committee on Canada affairs, as stated in their report. The Message by command of His Majesty, conveys the expression of a similar opinion, stating at the same time, the terms on which the distribution of the Revenue derived under the Law will be submitted to the Legislature of the Province. From the Resolutions which have passed, it would however appear, that the Assembly are not disposed to acquiesce in the opinion which has been thus expressed, and their spirit affords but little reason to expect, that the terms which have been proposed will be acceded to.—In this state of things, on a question of the first importance, and so materially affecting the result of all other proceedings, the answer of His Excellency to the address accompanying these Resolutions will be anxiously looked for.

A Bill for imposing an Assessment on Wild and unoccupied Lands, has been introduced by the Solicitor General.—This is one of the measures recommended in the Message, and the details of the Bill will probably in pursuance of that recommendation be nearly the same, as those contained in the Law of this Province.

On Tuesday afternoon, a Fire broke out in a new wooden building on George Street, the upper part of which was occupied by Mr. Petch, as a Carpenter's work-shop, and the lower Story by Mr. Lundy and family.—The wind was blowing fresh from the Westward at the time, and the adjoining buildings in the block were in great danger, but by the prompt arrival of the Fire Company with the Engine, and a plentiful supply of water being immediately procured by the Cartmen, the further progress of the fire was fortunately stayed.—Mr. Paddell's School House within a few feet of the burning building was on fire for some time, but by the well directed efforts of the Fire Company, aided by the people, it was saved from destruction. The House was not insured, and with it we regret to learn that Mr. Petch has lost all the Tools in his Shop.—Mr. Lundy's family also lost part of their household furniture.—The fire originated from a Sheet Iron Stove, communicating with some shavings in the workshop.

Insurance.—It has been suggested to us, that the establishment of a Company in Upper Canada for effecting Insurance against accident from Fire, would be a desirable thing. To this might be added the Insurance of Vessels and Steam Boats, Navigating the Lakes, and their Cargoes, as well as the smaller craft employed upon the River St. Lawrence.

The Sum annually paid to such Institutions, by the people of the Province must be very considerable, and the retaining it among ourselves, by means of a Provincial establishment is certainly worthy of consideration.

The Congress of the United States met at Washington on 1st instant. We have given such extracts from the President's Message, as our limits admit. The Trade and Revenue of the Republic are stated to be in a prosperous condition. Of other Nations, the Message speaks in complimentary terms, but from the tenor of the extracts we have made, relating more especially to Great Britain, it will be seen that the same language has not been extended to her.—It is scarcely to be expected that in the management, either of her Home or Colonial Commerce Great Britain with more matured experience will accommodate herself to suit what is called "the cherished policy," of any country after "forty years experience."

A rumor was in circulation some time ago, that the North-eastern boundary question had been settled between the two Governments, without reference.—The following extract from the Message, however renders it certain that such is not the case:—

"The last friendly expedient has been resorted to for the decision of the controversy with Great Britain, relating to the Northeastern boundary of the United States. By an agreement with the British Government, carrying into effect the provisions of the fifth article of the Treaty of Ghent, and the Convention of 29th September, 1827, his Majesty the King of the Netherlands has by common consent been selected as the umpire between the parties."

We said last week in reply to the very intemperate remarks in the Canadian Freeman, by Mr. Collins, that we thought it would scarcely be expected, that we should notice them at any very great length. Those who have seen the Freeman of this week will be satisfied, that we have abundant cause for repeating this opinion.—A contest between Editors, in which personalities such as those used by the Freeman are to be employed, cannot be instructing to the readers of a paper.—We have no desire to enter into such a contest, but as Mr. Collins, it appears, is not to be restrained, we can assure him that as far as we are concerned, he is at perfect liberty to indulge himself in the use of any epithets he may be pleased to apply to us—they harm us not—we can only repeat that we choose not to follow his example. The facts which we laid before our readers, we again repeat, remain, and must remain uncontradicted—this is sufficient for our purpose.

Sheriff's Sale of Lands in the Home District.—In the case of Barnhart vs. Robinett, the Sale of Lands is postponed, and will take place, at the Court House in York, on Saturday the 10th in January next, at 12 o'clock.

☞ Mr. J. W. Padfield returns his most grateful thanks to the York Fire Company for their well applied exertions at the fire on Tuesday last,—to the Cartmen for their readiness in bringing water,—and to every person whose assistance was offered in saving his School-room from destruction.

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT OF LOWER CANADA.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

Saturday, Nov. 29.

The Solicitor General moved for leave to introduce a bill to prevent fraudulent Debtors in certain parts of the Province, evading their creditors by escaping from the Province.

The Solicitor General gave notice that on an early day he should move for leave to bring in a Bill to levy a tax or assessment on wild lands, the owners of which neglected to perform the duties of settlement, in conformity to the expressions used in His Excellency's Message of Friday evening.

Mr. Young moved that the Presidents of the Bank of Montreal, Bank of Canada, and Quebec Bank, do lay before the House according to Law, a return of the amount of debts due to and by the said Banks, of the notes now in circulation, and of the cash in hand. Ordered accordingly.

Friday, 5th December.

Mr. Cuvellier moved addresses to His Excellency to lay before the House copies of all the instructions received by the Government between September, 1825, and September, 1828; especially those respecting the Finances and the Ways and Means of the Province; copies of instructions relating to the office of Receiver General, Auditor General, and Inspector General; with copies of the Commissions of those officers; and instructions given to them with regard to their duties; all reports of the Executive Council, relating to Public Accounts since 1825, and documents referred to in them; and to direct the proper officers to lay before the Committee on Public Accounts, all information relative thereto.

The House formed itself into a Committee of the whole, on the Message of His Excellency of the 28th ult., when Mr. Neilson read the following resolutions, of which the first passed unanimously, and the consideration of the others was, on the motion of Mr. Ogden, postponed till this evening.

RESOLUTIONS.

1. That this House has derived the greatest satisfaction from the gracious expression of His Majesty's benefi cent view of this province, and from the earnest desire of His Excellency, the Administrator of the Government to promote the peace, welfare and good government of the Province, as evinced in His Excellency's Message of Friday last.

2. That this House has, nevertheless, observed with great concern, that it may be inferred from the expression of that part of the said Message which relates to the appropriation of the Revenue, that the pretension put forth at the commencement of the late administration, to the disposal of a large portion of the Revenue of this Province, may be persisted in.

3. That under no circumstances, and upon no considerations whatever, ought this House to abandon or in any way compromise, its inherent and constitutional right, as a branch of the Provincial Parliament representing His Majesty's subjects in this Colony, to superintend and control the disposal and expenditure of the whole public revenue arising within this Province.

4. That any Legislative enactment in this matter by the Parliament of the United Kingdom, in which His Majesty's subjects in this Province are not and cannot be represented, unless it were for the repeal of such British Statutes or any part of British Statutes, as may be held by His Majesty's Government to militate against the Constitutional right of the subject in this Colony, could in no way tend to a settlement of the affairs of the Province.

5. That no interference of the British Legislature with the established Constitution and laws of this Province, excepting on such points as from the relation between the Mother Country and the Canadas can only be disposed of by the paramount authority of the British Parliament, can in any way tend to the final adjustment of any difficulties or misunderstandings which may exist in this Province, but rather to aggravate and perpetuate them.

6. That in order to meet the difficulties of the ensuing year, and to second the gracious intentions of His Majesty for the permanent settlement of the Financial concerns of this province, by the due regulation and economy and efficiency of His Government, this House will most respectfully consider any estimate for the necessary expences of the Civil Government for the ensuing year, which may be laid before it, confidently trusting that in any such estimate a due regard will be had to that economy which the present circumstances of the country and its other wants require.

7. That on the permanent settlement before-mentioned being effected with the consent of this House, it will be expedient to render the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, or any person administering the Government, for the time being, the Judges and Executive Councillors, independent of the annual vote of the House, to the extent of their present salaries.

8. That although this House feels most grateful for the increased security against the illegal application of the public money which must result from His Majesty's Government referring all persons who may have been concerned in such application to an act of indemnity to be consented to by this House, it will be inexpedient to consent to any such enactment, till the full extent and character of such illegal applications may have been fully inquired into and considered.

9. That this House feels the most sincere gratitude for His Majesty's solicitude to effect the most perfect security against the recurrence of abuses on the part of persons entrusted with public monies in this Province.

10. That this House has not complained, nor has any complaints been made known to it, respecting the arbitration for the distribution between the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada of the duties collected in Lower Canada; but that in this, as well as in every other respect, this House will most cheerfully co-operate in every equitable and constitutional measure which may be submitted to it as desirable by the inhabitants of Upper Canada.

11. That this House has seen with sentiments of the highest satisfaction and gratitude, the declaration of the willingness of His Majesty's Government cheerfully to accede to the desire which the Assembly has so frequently expressed during the last twenty years, of having an Agent in England to indicate the wishes of the inhabitants of Canada; and that it is expedient to provide for such an appointment without delay.

12. That so soon as the scheme in contemplation of His Majesty's Government for the permanent settlement of the financial concerns of the Province shall have been made known and considered, it may be expedient to provide some adequate indemnity to the persons or salaries placed on the Civil establishment of this Province with salaries prior to the year 1818, and whose offices may have been found to be unnecessary or require to be abolished.

13. That this House will cheerfully concur in any measure which may appear most likely to be successful in effectually removing the great inconvenience which has been sustained from the non-performance of the duties of settlement by grantees or holders of land obtained from the Crown, and other similar causes of the obstructions to the settlement of the country which may have resulted or may hereafter result from the manner in which the powers and superintendance of the Crown in this most essential particular as effecting the general prosperity of the Province, may have been exercised.

14. That so soon as the Inhabitants of the Townships, upon a subdivision of the Counties in which they are situated by act of the Provincial Parliament, shall have a full and equitable representation in this House of persons of their own free choice, the House will cheerfully concur in every measure particularly interesting to the Townships which may appear to be the most desirable to the inhabitants and the most conducive to the general welfare.

15. That this House is fully sensible of the distinguished mark of confidence reposed in the loyalty and attachment hitherto evinced by His Majesty's Canadian subjects and their Representatives in the Provincial Parliament, by His Majesty's declaration that he relies on them, for an amicable adjustment of the various questions which have been so long in dispute.

16. That amongst those questions not particularly mentioned on the present occasion, this House holds as most desirable to be adjusted and most essential to the future peace, welfare and good Government of the Province, viz:

The Independence of the Judges and their removal from political business of the Province.

The responsibility and accountability of public officers.

A greater independence of support from the public revenues, and more intimate connections with the interests of the Colony, in the composition of the Legislative Council.

The application of the late property of the Jesuits to the purposes of general education.

The removal of all obstructions to the settlement of the country, particularly by the Crown and Clergy Reserves remaining unoccupied in the neighbourhood of roads and settlements and exempt from the common burthens;

And a diligent inquiry into and a ready redress of all grievances and abuses which may be found to exist or which may have been petitioned against by the subject in this Province, thereby assuring to all the invaluable benefit of an impartial, conciliatory and constitutional Government, and restoring a well-founded and reciprocal confidence between the Governors and governed.

That an humble Address be presented to His Excellency the Administrator of the Government, with a copy of the foregoing Resolutions, humbly praying that he would be pleased to submit the same to His Majesty's Government in England.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

Saturday, 6th December.

Mr. Proulx, moved that 400 copies of the Report of the Canada Committee of the House of Commons, with the minutes of evidence be printed in both languages for the use of the Members.—Mr. L. Lagueux seconded the motion.—Mr. Vigor observed that as the evidence was very voluminous, and a considerable portion of it simply related to the disputes between the different denominations of Protestants regarding the Clergy Reserves which were not of general interest, he thought that these, and perhaps some other immaterial parts might be omitted, and that with the consideration of the motion to be postponed to Tuesday next, to give members an opportunity of looking into it and determining what part should be printed.

The Solicitor General, considered it would be incurring a needless expense to publish the Report of the Committee, it would form part of the Journals of that House, and therefore every Member would obtain a copy. The Hon. Member said it showed a strange inconsistency in the House to cut down with one hand the scanty salaries of the Clerks, and with the other profusely dispense the public monies for a needless work.

The motion was carried.

The House proceeded to the first Order of the Day. In adjourned Committee of the whole, on the Message of His Excellency, of the 29th ult., Mr. Raymond in the Chair.

Mr. Neilson read that part of the Message in which His Excellency states the determination of His Majesty, that the Revenue levied under the 14th Geo III. could not be given up to the Assembly. He said, an opinion was advanced at the beginning of the late Administration, that left the House the controul over only a small portion of the Revenue of the Province. If the Crown existed in this, all the evils which had afflicted the Province would be continued, but he trusted to the liberality of a British Parliament, and felt confident that body would concur in the Report of their Committee. The honorable member then proposed the Second Resolution.

2. That this House has, nevertheless, observed with great concern, that it may be inferred from the expression of that part of the said Message which relates to the appropriation of the Revenue, that the pretension put forth at the commencement of the late administration, to the disposal of a large portion of the Revenue of this Province, may be persisted in.

Mr. Vigor followed on the same side, and concurred in expressing his conviction that the British Government would attend to the claims of a large and populous Province.

Mr. Young in differing from the Hon. Members who had spoken, agreed that 14 Geo. III. was not repealed by implication by the 31st Geo. III., as not being one of the reserved acts of navigation and commerce, but relating to revenue, because the 43rd clause declares that all acts then in force were to be continued unless specially repealed. The 31st never so much as mentioned the 14th and no subsequent act had passed to repeal it, but several had alluded to and confirmed its provisions. It had been argued that by the repeal of the 28th Geo. III. (with regard to wharfingers) by the 2d Geo. IV., the duties were levied by the 2d Geo. IV. and not by the 14th Geo. III. This is contradicted by the terms of the 2d Geo IV. c. 110, passed the same year, by which Parliament declared that the Revenue arising from the 14th Geo. III. was to be divided among the two Provinces under certain provisions, and if the law no longer existed Parliament would not have made such an enactment. An Hon Member had argued that the 18th Geo. III. had a prospective as well as retrospective effect, and that as soon as it applied to Canada by the introduction of the 31st Geo III. was virtually repealed but the 18th Geo. III speaker in the future, after the passing of this act no tax will be imposed. The second of that Act repeals the 7th Geo. III. c. 46, and if Parliament intended to repeal the 14th Geo. III. they could not have expressly alluded to only one Act. Duties are still levied in this as in other Provinces, under Acts passed prior to the 18th, and against which the House had never remonstrated, nor said one word. The 6th Geo. IV. c. 114, makes allusion to the 18th Geo. III. and its laws passed prior to it, by which duties are levied in the British possessions; and still later, the 7th Geo. IV. c. 48, which repealed all former Custom House laws, expressly reserves the 18th Geo III. and Acts passed prior to Act which granted duties to His Majesty for his special appropriation. He therefore was of opinion that the monies alluded to in His Excellency's Message were at the absolute disposal of the Crown, and that the House had no right to claim a control over them, till an aid was asked when the House in its wisdom could grant, curtail or refuse, as was most advisable.

Mr. Ogden could not give a silent vote upon the present occasion, for after having sat in that House for so many years he was bound in duty once more to declare his opinion of it were only to shew to his constituents that they remained unaltered. The 14th Geo. III, he had always contended was in force and he found his opinion confirmed by the report of the Canada Committee, upon whom the arguments of the three Honorable Delegates had apparently wasted their arguments, and further corroborated by the opinions of the present Lord Chancellor and the Attorney General of England. Satisfied of the correctness of his opinion by the feelings of his own conscience, sanctioned by his constituents, corroborated by the opinion of high legal Officers, supported by the Report of the Canada Committee and by the opinions of the present and the late Colonial Ministers, he declared the 14th of Geo. III. to be law and he never could subscribe to a Resolution which called its legality in question.—The motion was then put and carried.—The debate which took place on the resolutions were not material, the divisions were as follow.

The 1st, 6th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th resolutions were agreed to unanimously.

The 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 7th and 8th were passed: yeas 34, nays 4.

Yeas: Messrs. Clouet, E. C. Laguoux, Cannon, Quirouet, Laterrière, Lefourneau, de Rouville, Viger, Cuvillier, Leslie, Raymond, Quesnel, Vallières, Dessaulles, Neilson, Bourdages, Lefebvre, Fortin, Borgia, Robitaille, Bureau, Amiot, Boissonault, Henry, de St. Ours, Caron, Mousseau, Samson, Deligny, Valois, Poirier, Proulx, Laguoux and Gauvreau.

Nays: Solicitor General and Messrs. Christie, Young and Stuart.

16th resolution—yeas 35, nays 3. [Mr. Young having joined the yeas.]

Mr Neilson then moved that an humble address be presented to His Excellency the Administrator of the Government, with the said resolutions, and praying that His Excellency would be pleased to submit the same to His Majesty's Government.

The Solicitor General moved in amendment to strike out all the words after "with" and to insert the following: "the 1st, 6th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th resolutions, praying His Excellency would be pleased to submit the same to His Most Gracious Majesty.

The house divided on the amendment, yeas 2, (Solicitor General and Mr. Christie) nays 36; so it passed in the negative.

The division on the main motion was yeas 34, nays 4.

A Committee was then appointed to prepare the said address, yeas 34, nays 4.

The 14th Resolution as amended reads as follows, the amendments are printed in Italic. 14. That it is the desire of this House to take as speedily as possible every measure in its power that the inhabitants of the Townships, upon a subdivision of the Counties, in which they are situated, by Act of the Provincial Parliament, shall have a full and equitable representation in this house of persons of their own free choice and that the House will cheerfully concur in every measure which may appear to be most desirable to their Inhabitants and most conducive to the general welfare.

COLONIAL GOVERNMENT.

FINANCES.

We have brought the history of the Finances of this Country down to the establishment of the constitution in 1792; and had purposed to continue it to the present day. But as the Legislature is now in Session, and as this matter will doubtless speedily be brought under discussion, upon the house entering upon the consideration of the important message delivered to it on Friday last, of which this constitutes so prominent a part, we shall abstain from going further into the subject at present, and will content ourselves with furnishing our readers with an accurate debate, wherein they will see contrary opinions upon this subject supported and combatted; and then be further enabled to form for themselves a correct opinion upon it.

There is however one document which has not yet received a place in our columns, which seems of sufficient importance to be laid before our readers. This is the opinion of the present Lord Chancellor and Attorney General of England (then Attorney, and Solicitor Generals,) upon the legal effect of the Statutes of the 14th and 18th of the King, concerning which, so much diversity of opinion has been expressed by different individuals in the assembly. It is the more necessary to give this paper publicity at present, as the instructions from the Lords and Commons of Friday last, are, so far as this matter is concerned, evidently founded upon it.

The opinion of theseihigh legal character sis as follws:

MY LORD,

We have the honor to receive your Lordship's letter, transmitting to us the copy of a letter from Lieutenant General the Earl of Dalhousie, dated the 28th April 1828, enclosing a Report made by a Committee of the Assembly of Lower Canada upon the Provincial Accounts, in which a question is raised on the right of Government to apply the proceeds of the Revenue arising from the 14 Geo. III. cap. 88, as they have invariable been since the passing of that Act, towards defraying the expenses of the Administration of justice and suppor t of the Civil Government, by the authority of His Majesty, without the intervention of the Colonial Legislature; and your Lordship was pleased to desire that we would take the same into our consideration, and report to your Lordship, for the information of His Majesty, whether the power granted by the Act of the 14 Geo. III. is repealed by the Declaratory Act of the 18. Geo. III. or by the Act of the 31 Geo. III. granting a constitution to the Provinces of Lower and Upper Canada so as to take from the Crown the appropriation of the money levied under the 14th Geo. III and to vest it in the Provincial Legislature.

In compliance with your Lordship's request, we have taken the same into our consideration, and beg leave to report, for the information of His Majesty, that by the 14th Geo. III. cap. 88, the duties thereby imposed are substituted for the duties which existed at the time of the surrender of the Province to His Majesty's Arms, and are especially appropriated by the Parliament to defray the expenses of the civil Government in the Province.

This Act is not repealed by the 18th Geo III. cap. 12, the preamable of which declares that Parliament will not impose any duty &c. for the purpose of raising a revenue; and the enacting part of which states, that from and after the passing of this act the King and Parliament of Great Britain will not impose, and except only &c; the whole of which is prospective, and does not, as we think affect the provisions of the act 14th Geo. III, cap 88. It may be further observed that if the 18th Geo III., had repealed the 14th Geo. III., the duties imposed by the latter Act must immediately have ceased: and the Act 18th Geo. III. cannot affect the appropriation of the duties imposed by the 14th Geo. III. since the 18th Geo. III. is confined to duties thereafter to be imposed, and imposed also for purposes different from those which were contemplated by the Legislature in passing the 14th Geo. III. viz. the regulation of commerce alone.

We are further of opinion, that the Act 14th Geo III. cap. 88, is not repealed or affected by the 31st Geo. III. cap. 31 It is clear that it is not repealed: in fact, as we observed with respect to the 18th Geo. III., if the Act had been repealed the duties must immediately have ceased; and as to the appropriation of the duties, or the control over them nothing is said upon the subject either in the 46th and 47th section, or in any other part of the Act 31st Geo. III.cap. 31.

With respect to any inference to be drawn from what may have taken place in Canada within the last few years, as to these duties it may be observed, that the duties having been imposed by Parliament, at a time when it was competent to Parliament to impose them, they cannot be repealed, or from the appropriation thereof, in any degree varied, except by the same authority.

We have the honour,&c.

The substance of the foregoing opinion is to be found in a Despatch from the Earl of Bathurst, to Sir Francis Burton during his Administration of the Government in the absence of the Governor in Chief; and which was sent to the House of Assembly by the Earl of Dalhouse, on the 14th of March 1826.

Large numbers of the Lesser Guillemot, Mœrot, or Uria Minor, a bird of the class Anser, were shot within a few days about this city. The bird inhabits the arctic regions and always frequents salt water; they are therefore very rarely met with here. They weigh about 16 ounces, and were one lately shot, a sportsman shot as many as twenty in a few hours. They have been added to Mr. Chasseur's extensive collection.—Quebec Gazette.

The weather continues mild, but we have again had some heavy falls of snow, which is deeper at this season than known for many years. The navigation is now perfectly open, and steam boats crossing backwards and forwards to Point-Levi.—ib.

A gentleman of this city, who has lately travelled Ireland, and who spent some days in the County of Tippirary, which is represented as being the focus of the disturbances in the South, has informed us that the accounts published in the newspapers are greatly exaggerated, and that the people are quietly and peacably disposed.—Montreal Gazette.

We understand that a numerously attended meeting of the inhabitants of this city was lately held in the schoolhouse belonging to the Gentlemen of the Seminary for the purpose of collecting funds to enable them to procure employment for the poor, who are able to work, and food and raiment for the sick and disabled. Upwards of £100 were collected on the occasion.—ib.

From His Excellency the Lieutenat Governor's Proclamation, it will be seen that our Provincial Legislature is summoned to meet for the 'despatch of business,' on the 9th prox. being at least six days earlier than usual. The report of the Boundary Line question having been already settled in England, does not seem to have had any influence on his Excellency's proceedings. As the early convening of the Legislature is evidently a measure prospective of his departure from the Colony, as one of the Commissioners on that affair, it is pretty clear that he had no official notification of an adjustment having taken place.—Observer.

THE ZEPHYR.

'Mid the halls of the lily, the bowls of the rose,
Where the violet lurks, where the eglantine grows,
Where forest boughs wave, when the summer is nigh,
There, there is my home—for a Zephyr am I.

In the caves of the mountain, the birth-place of streams,
On the waves of the sea, in the sun's dying beams,
'Mid the dews of the morn, when Aurora is nigh,
My dwelling is found—for a Zephyr am I.

Round the bright form of beauty I gently unfold
My wings, fringed with light, and bespangled with gold,
Kiss the cheek where young blushes for ever are nigh,
And live but for bliss—for a Zephyr am I.

THE MANIAC OF FONDI.

A TROOP of comedians were travelling from Rome just as the mad aria had begun to render that imperial city uninhabitable. They were hastening to Naples to join the company of the Theatre San Carlos for the ensuing season. Light-hearted, as players always are, and as much more so as the laughing skies and bland air of Italy could make them, they journeyed like people who had nothing to do in the world but to laugh, and to gather enjoyment from every thing that presented itself to view. Some of the females were in a travelling coach, old and clumsy in itself, and infinitely more cumbrous from its being loaded with musical instruments, packages, theatrical dresses, and properties, as they are called here. Two lean horses, driven by a vetturino, who was in no hurry, dragged the crazy vehicle. Some of the men were mounted on such horses as they had been trusted with, and to close the cortege came a calèche, in which the principal singer and his young wife unveiled. They had been married but a few weeks. He was a person of some consideration in the little society of which he was a member; she was the prima ballerina; and, in the ballets, enjoyed as great a celebrity as he had achieved in the operas. The marriage was one of pure affection, and they were as happy as folks in their situation may be imagined to be.

There was not, indeed, a sad heart in the whole company.—Poor they were, for the greater part, but jocund and gay as if they had lands and revenues, and homes and hopes; while—God help them!—saving their good spirits and their carelessness, they possessed neither money nor money's worth. The singer and his bride should be excepted from this latter qualification; but, in respect of mirth, they were not the least distinguished of the company.

Laughing, and singing, and jesting, this merry cavalcade had proceeded for some leagues, when the road began to assume a wilder and more desolate appearance. A rugged pass between rocks, the tops of which were covered with thick shrubs and bushes, with occasionally a spiral cypress rearing its pointed head between, presented itself.

'By the blood of San Januarius,' cried a little fat man, who was the buffo of the company, 'this would make a capital scene for a melo-drame!'

'And for a brigand,' said another, 'thou, Ruffo, would'st top the part.'

As he spoke, the discharge of muskets was heard, and bullets were perceived to whistle over the heads of the speakers. The women shrieked, the vetturino drew up to the side of the road, the men galloped in their horses, and every one was filled with the deepest anxiety. They knew very well that this was an attack from the redoubted Fra Diavolo, a bandit, who, with his gang, infested this part of the road. The players had believed that their poverty and their profession would have protected them from any such attack. Ariosto was let pass unmolested by the famous robber of the Appenines; and they thinking, with truly theatrical modesty, that they deserved no less consideration, did not believe they had aught to fear from Fra Diavolo. So at least they flattered themselves; perhaps, if the truth were to be strictly told, their real security arose from their poverty, which they took to be as well known to the Capo dei Briganti as to the rest of the world. Little time was, however, given to them for deliberation. Immediately after the discharge some ill-looking ruffians made their appearance, and, cutting the traces of the vehicles, began to ramsack them with as much cool indifference as if they had been custom-house officers instead of being less privileged thieves. There was little found to repay the trouble they were so good as to give themselves. Diadems of operatic monarchs, as gorgeous as coloured glass and tinsel could make them—muskets and pistols, wholly innocent of gunpowder—pointless daggers—robes, with fictitious lace—plenty of musical scores and instruments—rouge, and spangles—were all that the treasures of the dramatic troop afforded them; and the thieves knew their trade too well to encumber themselves with such trash.

They would perhaps have vented their disappointment in some hard words, and have left the players to make the best of their way, without any other damage than the disarrangement of their properties, but that at this moment their leader made his appearance. He was a fine person of a tall figure, and having his great ugliness, he looked as little like a leader of banditti as possible. He had been intended for a monastic life, and had actually taken orders, and made the vows which belonged to such a state. The discipline of his convent, however, by no means suited the liberal notions of Fra Nazzaro, as he was then called. Frequent irregularities brought down the censure of his superiors: his discussions with these rebukes at last broke into open rebellion; and, to save himself from the punishment which his disgraceful and disorderly conduct would have incurred, the holy brother took to the mountains one fine morning, and changed even his appellation for the more liberal one of plundering travellers. From a feeling of audacity and perverseness which had always distinguished him, he scorned to adopt any disguise, or even to assume a false name; but dressed in the same costume as the dress of a Franciscan friar, his long girt about with the rope of the order, and his head always scrupulously trimmed with the usual clerical tonsure, but wearing at the same time pistols and poniard, and carrying always a heavy rifle, the renegade churchman levied contributions throughout the surrounding districts. His courage was of the most dauntless kind, his ingenuity and skill far greater than we commonly possessed by persons of his profession, and his habits dissolute and profligate to even a greater degree than those of apostates are usually.—With such qualifications he could not fail soon to hold a place of distinction among his lawless associates; and it must be confessed that he had not as yet, by any weakness or shrinking from his purpose, however fatal or dreadful that might be, forfeited his title to be first among a set of men as bad and as bold as ever dedied the laws of any country.

In the dress which has been described, the Fra Diavolo (for this was the name he invariably went by in his troop and among the people of the district, neither of whom would refuse to pay him the honours which belonged to his holy order) presented himself to the frightened players. A few words were changed between him and the robber who seemed to be the leader of the party by whom the scanty effects of the travellers had been just inspected. The Fra Diavolo seemed to be dissatisfied, and approaching, with an angry step, the calèche in which the newly married pair were sitting, he ordered them to alight.

The man obeyed, telling him at the same time that if there was any thing he wished to have it was at his service; but beseeching him not to alarm further the lady, who sat weeping and too much terrified to say any thing.

The brigand ordered a trunk to be unclosed which had escaped the eyes of his followers, and on its opening it, that it was filled with clothes, bade his men carry it away. He then desired the lady to alight, and told her husband, in the plainest possible terms, that he should insist on her accompanying him to his hold in the mountains. Half distracted, but yet not believing that he meant to do a thing so unusual, the husband urged him, in the most passionate manner, not to interrupt them on their journey, but to be satisfied with taking all they had.—Fra Diavolo made no reply; but motioning his men, they bound the other male passengers of the troop, and were proceeding to perform the same office for the husband of the luckless young woman, when, snatching up a carbine, which one of the robbers had laid down near him, he threatened to fire upon the first who approached him.

'Cut him down, cowards!' cried the chief, to his followers, with a horrid imprecation. They seemed disposed to obey, but the menacing attitude of their victim kept them for a moment aloof. Fra Diavolo levelled a pistol at him, and before the miserable man knew whether he really intended to fire, the bullet entered his temples, and he fell almost without a groan, at the feet of his young wife. One wild scream burst from her as she threw herself on his body, and a fainting fit deprived her for a short time of consciousness. Fra Diavolo gave the signal for his men to depart, and they set off at a sharp pace, bearing the senseless woman with them; and leaving the dead body of her husband in the road, and his companions bound, for the next passenger to release them. When she recovered she found herself carried in a sort of litter, formed of the carbines of the brigands crossed, over which a cloak was spread, and she perceived they were proceeding up the mountains. The chief was not in sight, and, believing he had fallen in the affray, she besought her conductors to release her. The ruffians were, however, too well taught to need this request, but carried her on for some time further in total silence. At length they stopped where a part of the rock was carved into steps, and, setting the wretched woman down, told her she must ascend. Trembling, and borne down by grief, she climed the steps, with the assistance of the principal of the remaining robbers, the others following loaded with the trunk and other things of which they had plundered the actors' cortège.

At the turn of a path they came opposite a rude sort of caverne, cut in the solid rock. On a fragment, at the entrance, sate an old woman of most hideous aspect, who was spinning with a distaff. The lieutenant of the Fra Diavolo told this old witch that it was to take care of the lady whom he had brought her by the order of their master. The crone muttered some unpleasant reply, but conducted her within the cavern, where she fell upon a sort of couch, and, wholly overcome with the horrors of her situation, she again sunk into total forgetfulness. The cares of the old woman were for a long time in vain; and at length, when Marina awoke, she found herself in a state of fever and indisposition, which rendered it impossible for her to rise. Such attention as the old dame could afford her was bestowed, and the influence of Fra Diavolo ensured the rude services of all who were about her. For several days the wretched young woman remained in a state of great danger, but at length her youth and the vigour of her constitution triumphed over the disease. She became convalescent; but a deep and immoveable melancholy took the place of her former cheerfulness.

The chieftain, as soon as he saw she was able to leave her chamber, waited upon her to apologize for the violence he had used. She learnt now, to her horror, that she had been so unfortunate as to inspire the murderer of her husband with a passion for herself. The brigand professed, in the most unequivocal terms, his admiration of her, and this too in a manner which seemed too clearly to intimate that her refusal would provoke his most brutal authority. Still she continued to repel his advances timidly, and in the fear that she might provoke some fate more horrible than even that she had yet experienced, but yet resolutely. She saw that this could not last long, and that the bitterest dishonour awaited her unless she averted it by means as fatal, though not so repugnant to her feelings. The pangs of her broken heart, the despair of ever again finding the happiness she had only begun to know at the moment when she lost it, and the despair which grew out of these circumstances, drove her to absolute madness. Dire thoughts occupied her mind.—Suicide was her last resource, and the horror which surpasses all the other horrors and sufferings of humanity, began to present itself to her mind, and by means of her utter wretchedness to make itself familiar to her. 'Shapes and sounds, and sights unholy,' surrounded her, and worked upon her until she thought that nothing could be worse than the sufferings it was her lot to endure daily.

At length the festival of the brigand's patron saint arrived.—Il Giorno di San Nazzaro was a day of revelry and license among the troop of marauders, and Fra Diavolo intimated to Marina that he would no longer put up with her refusal, but that on that day he would, either with or without her consent, make her his bride. She received the intimation like a criminal, as he, having long waited between hope and fear, finds even the realization of his worst apprehensions better than the indistinct terrors that doubt had engendered. From that moment no tear was seen in her eyes. A dull settled look of woe possessed her features; but no complaint, no sigh, gave outward evidence of the pangs which rent her heart. She seemed as if the resolution to bend on each corporal agent to the accomplishment of destiny which awaited her had enabled her to triumph over sorrow and dismay.

The day arrived, and was spent in the noisy sports which may be supposed to delight such a set of persons as owned the sway of the Fra Diavolo. Men, distinguished in no respect from the brute creation, and women (who when they are degraded, reach the lowest depths of infamy) mingled in the coarse merriment which the occasion sanctioned. A plentiful repast was spread, the wine-skin passed rapidly from hand to hand, and at length, partly from intoxication, and perhaps in a still greater degree from the taunts of his co-mates, the chieftain rose to seek Marina, who had remained alone in the wretched abode which had sheltered her since the day of capture

He led her out to the assembled troop, and, swearing a loud oath, declared that his bride should dance a measure in honour of their nuptials, which he would no longer defer.

The place on which the feast was celebrated was a green spot of only a few rood, on the summit of a high rock. It was selected not less because the evergreen sward afforded an excellent place for dancing, than because it was inaccessible to all attacks. On one side the ascent was by numerous steep steps; and on the other a frightful precipice reared its perpendicular side, of which nothing broke the unvarying continuity, save a few shrubs and trees, the seeds of which had been scattered by birds, and which seemed to grow in hardy and grotesque luxuriance, as if in mockery of the rude spot which had given them birth.

Upon this spot was Marina led by the half-drunken brigand. In a moment less disastrous, she would have gazed with rapture on the scene which presented itself. Below the rocks, and on the side where the precipice reared its horrid wall, were a rich and fertile country. The fields, filled with yellow corn, or glowing with the almost ripe product of the vines, lay basking in the beams of the setting sun. The town of Fondi, in the extreme distance, pointed its glittering spires to heaven, and a rich purple vapour filled the whole space with that brilliant colour which Italian skies can alone give, and which none but Italian painters have yet known how to portray. Marina looked upon it but with ungladdened eye; and the thought that to enjoy such a scene was for evermore denied to her, lighted up a sudden frenzy in her brain, to which the accidents of the last few days had led the way. The brigand approached, and, putting his arm round her waist, gave the signal to the wretched piper, who formed the orchestra of the wild rout over which he presided. The musician began an Austrian waltz, which was at this period very common in Italy. The brigand danced, and Marina mechanically followed his steps. The music became louder and more rapid. The devoted woman drew nearer to the edge of the rock. The wine he had drank, and the excitation of the moment, prevented the brigand from seeing the peril to which Marina's arm was around his waist—they stood on the very brink of the precipice—one vigorous whirl of her arm, to which the fury of despair gave irresistible energy, dashed them both from the fearful height. The brigand rolled from the top to the very bottom of the rock, and such was the force, and the distance of his fall, that nothing remained of his frame but a horrid mass, so mutilated and mangled, that it was almost difficult to discover in it the traces of humanity. Marina's body was caught by the projecting branches of a tree, but so bruised and stunned, that it was long before she was restored to consciousness.

On the following morning she was found and rescued by some soldiers, who had been sent out to disperse the brigands, in consequence of their daring having become so intolerable, that even the sluggish papal government could no longer permit it to go unpunished. They were traced, by means of spies, to their mountain hold; and their leader (to whose energy and daring they were indebted for the safety they had too long enjoyed) being destroyed, they were easily cut to pieces. Marina was recovered alive, but her wits were fled for ever. In a cottage at Fondi, under the care of her aged mother, the wretched young woman lived till lately—perhaps still lives—if the visible marks of decline, which two years ago had shown themselves in her beautiful features, have not put an end to her existence and her sufferings together.

FATAL CURIOSITY.

From the Boston Traveller.

A melancholy story was related to me a few years since, while travelling in the western section of our country, of a man, who, in company with a friend, attempted to explore the celebrated Mammoth Cave, in Green's county, Kentucky, which is about ten miles in length. After having provided themselves with a lanthorn, food, and other refreshments, sufficient for one or two days' subsistence, they commenced their subterranean tour. As they proceeded from one apartment to another, viewing with astonishment the wonders of this stupendous cavern, they frequently came to large and apparently very deep pits, which they avoided with much difficulty, by crawling upon their hands and knees. They wandered about, alternately walking and crawling, nearly a whole day, during which they had passed a number of these deep pits. They had just approached one, when by some fatal accident, the light which they carried was suddenly extinguished. The one who carried the apparatus for restoring the light, in the agitation of the moment, made a misstep, exclaiming, "Lord have mercy upon us," and fell headlong into the pit they had the moment before discovered. His companion listened, and distinctly heard the unfortunate man strike the bottom, and fetch a deep groan, like one in extreme anguish. He called on him, but received no answer—he called again, but all was silent as the tomb. The narrator stated that had he but fallen with him, it would have been a happy circumstance; for to attempt to find the mouth of the cave, and pass the many dangerous places they had met with in their way thither, would be imminently hazardous, if not utterly impossible. He thought, therefore, only of dying the lingering and painful death of starvation. He sat down and gave vent to his anguish in a flood of tears. He finally concluded to make an attempt to get out; he could but share the fate of his companion, by falling into a pit; and this would sooner put an end to his mental sufferings. He commenced what he conceived to be a retrograde movement, by crawling upon his hands and knees, and proceeded without accident a long time, when he again yielded himself up to despair. A copious effusion of tears subsided in a measure his agony. He set out again; but with little hope of ever arriving at the mouth of the cave,—he continued groping about in midnight darkness a whole day longer. When they entered the cave, the survivor noticed that it branched off in various directions; he therefore concluded that he had taken the wrong way, and was probably as far or farther from the entrance than when he first started. He halted—and with the determination of waiting patiently the approach of death. Like the drowning man, who is said to catch at a straw, the possibility of escape again occurred to him; and summoning his remaining strength, made another effort to find an outlet to the cavern. On the moring of the third day, when nature and hope were nearly exhausted, he thought he observed a ray of light; and on suddenly turning a corner, the morning star shone full in his face. His feelings, he said, must be immagined, for they could not be described. He immediately made known the melancholy fate of his companion —a number of citizens commenced a search in the cave; found the pit, and with some difficulty obtained the body, and had it decently interred.

LIFE OF COLUMBUS.—BY IRVING.

FROM THE LAST EDINBURGH REVIEW.

[After paying some high compliments to Mr. Irving's work in general terms, and adverting to the previous imperfect histories of the great navigator and his discoveries, the Review proceeds in the following eloquent language:]

By a happy concurrence of circumstances, an elegant writer, altogether unconnected with either Spain or her rivals and enemies, and known all over the civilized world as a man of intelligence and principle, repaired to Madrid at a time when the publication of Navarette had turned the public attention, in an extraordinary degree, to the memorable era of Columbus; and, by the force of his literary and personal character, obtained the fullest disclosure of every thing that bore upon his history that was ever made, to native or foreigner,—at the same time that he had the means of discussing personally, with the best informed individuals of the nation, all the points on which the written documents might seem to leave room for doubt or explanation.

Of these rare advantages Mr. Irving has availed himself, we think, with singular judgment and ability. He has written the history of the greatest event in the annals of mankind, with the fulness and the feeling it deserved; and has presented us with a flowing and continuous narrative of the events which he had to record, far more luminous and comprehensive than any which previously existed, and yet much less diffuse and discursive than the early accounts, from which it is mainly derived; while, without sacrificing in any degree the intense interest of personal adventure and individual sympathy, he has brought the lights of a more cultivated age to bear on the obscure places of the story; and touched skilfully on the errors and prejudices of the times—at once to enliven his picture by their singularity, and to instruct us by their explanation or apology. Above all, he has composed the whole work in a temper that is beyond all praise, and breathes throughout a genuine spirit of humanity; and, embellished as it is by beautiful descriptions and wonderful tales, its principal attraction in our eye consists in its soft-hearted sympathy with suffering, its fearless reprobation of injustice and oppression, and the magnanimous candour of its judgments, even on the delinquents.

But though we think all this of Mr. Irving's work, we suspect it may not be altogether unnecessary to caution our more sensitive and sanguine readers against giving way to certain feelings of disappointment, which it is not impossible they may encounter at the outset of their task; and to which two or three very innocent causes are unluckily enough to expose them. In the first place, many great admirers of Mr. Irving's former works will probably miss the brilliant, highly finished and rithmical style which attracted them so much in those performances; and may find the less artificial and elaborate diction of this history comparatively weak and careless. In this judgment, however, we can by no means agree. Mr. Irving's former style, though unquestionably very elegant and harmonious, always struck us as somewhat too laboured and exquisite—and at all events, but ill fitted for an extensive work, where the interest turned too much on the weight of the matter, to be safely divided with the mere polish of the diction, or the balance of the periods. He has done well, therefore, we think, to discard it on this occasion, for the more varied, careless, and natural style, which distinguishes the volumes before us—made not only without sententious pretension, or antithetical prettiness, but even in some degree loose and unequal—flowing easily on, with something of the fullness and clearness of Herodotus or Boccaccio—sometimes languid, and often inexact, but retaining its very freshness and variety, the very best mirror, perhaps, in which the romantic adventures, the sweet descriptions, or the soft humanities, with which the author had to deal, could have been displayed.

Another, and perhaps a more general source of disappointment to impatient readers, is likely to be found in the extreme minuteness of the prefatory details, with which Mr. Irving has crowned the fore-ground of his picture, and detained us, apparently without necessity, from its principal features. The genealogy and education of Columbus—his early love of adventure—his long and vain solicitations at the different European courts—the intrigues and jealousies by which he was baffled—the prejudices against which he had to contend, and the lofty spirit and doubtful logic by which they were opposed,—are all given with a fullness for which, however instructive it may be, the reader, who knows already what it is to end in, feels any thing but grateful. His mind, from the very title-page, is among the billows of the Atlantic and the islands of the Caribs; and he does not submit without impatience to be informed of all the energy that was to be exerted, and all the obstacles to be overcome, before he can get there. It is only after we have perused the whole work that we perceive the fitness of the introductory chapters; and then, when the whole grand series of sufferings and exploits has been unfolded, and the greatness of the event, and of the character with which it is inseparably blended, have been impressed on our minds, we feel how necessary it was to tell, and how grateful it is to know, all that can now be known of the causes by which both were prepared; and instead of murmuring at the length of these precious details, feel nothing but regret that time should have so grievously abridged them.

The last disappointment, for which the reader should be prepared, will probably fall upon those who expect new information as to the first great voyage of discovery, or suppose that the chief interest of the work must be exhausted by its completion. That portion of the story of Columbus has always, from obvious causes, been given with more amplitude and fidelity than any other; and Mr. Irving, accordingly, has been able to add but few additional traits of any considerable importance. But it is not there, we think, that the great interest or the true character of the work is to be found. The mere geographical discovery, sublime as it undoubtedly is, is far less impressive, to our minds, than the moral emotions to which it opens the scene. The whole history of the settlement of Hispaniola, and the sufferings of its gentle people—the daring progress of the great discoverer, through unheard-of forms of peril, and the overwhelming disasters that seem at last to weigh him down, constitute the real business of the piece, and are what truly bring out, not only the character of the man, but that of the events with which his memory is identified. It is here, too, that both the power and the beauty of the author's style display themselves—in his account of the innocence and gentleness of the simple races that were then first introduced to their elder brethren of Europe, and his glowing pictures of the lovely land, which minister to their primitive luxury—or in his many sketches, of the great commander himself, now towering in paternal majesty in the midst of his new-found children—now invested in the dark gorgeousness of deep and superstitious devotion, and burning thirst of fame—now in misfortune, in his silent struggles with malevolence and misfortune, and his steadfast reliance on the justice of posterity.

The work before us embodies all these, and many other touching representations; and in the vivacity of its colouring, & the novelty of its scene, possesses all the interest of a novel of invention, with the soothing and thrilling assurance of its actual assurance and exactness—a sentiment which enhances and every moment presses home to our hearts the deep pity and resentment inspired by the sufferings of the confiding beings it introduces to our knowledge—mingled with a feeling something like envy and delight at the wonder, and the calm of child-like innocence, and humble apparatus of enjoyment. No savages certainly were ever so engaging and loveable as those savages. Affectionate, sociable, and without cunning, sullenness, inconstancy, or any of the savage vices, but on a version from toil; which their happy climate at once inspired and rendered innocuous, they seem to have passed their days in a blissful ignorance of all that human intellect has contrived for human misery, and almost to have enjoyed an exemption from the doom that followed man's first unhallowed appetite for knowledge of good and evil. It is appalling to think with what tremendous rapidity the whole of these happy races were swept away! How soon, how frightfully soon, the swarming myriads of idle and light-hearted creatures, who came trooping from their fragrant woods to receive them with smiles of welcome and gestures of worship, and whose songs and shoutings first hailed them so sweetly over their fresh and sunny bays, were plunged, by the hands of those fatal visitants, into all the agonies of despair! . . . have been released from them by a bloody extermination! It humbles and almost crushes the heart, even at this distance of time, to think of such a catastrophe, brought about by such instruments!—The learned, the educated, the refined, the champions of chivalry, the messengers of the gospel of peace come to the land of the ignorant, the savage, the heathen. They find them docile in their ignorance, submissive in their rudeness, and grateful and affectionate in their darkness; and the result of the mission is mutual corruption, misery, desolation! The experience or remorse of four centuries has not yet been able to expiate the crime, or to reverse the spell. Those once smiling and swarming shores are still silent and mournful; or resound only to the groans of the slave and the lash of the slave-driver—or to the strange industry of another race, dragged by a yet deeper guilt from a distant land, and now calmly establishing themselves on the graves of their oppressors.

MACREADY, THE TRAGEDIAN.

This classic Tragedian performed at the Birmingham Theatre, in August, 1828. One night he had left the house, after the Tragedy of Hamlet, in which he had delineated, with his accustomed ability, the philosophic Prince, and was proceeding on foot to his lodgings, when he approached a small cottage in flames, surrounded by a concourse of people eager to look on, but loth to assist. A cry of distress was heard from within, He instantly threw off his coat and waistcoat, and with the agility of a harlequin sprung into the parlour window, from whence he brought an infant in his grasp, and was received by the speechless mother in an agony no words can describe. The hat, coat, and waistcoat of the adventurous hero were gone, and he darted through the crowd, as he was, towards his lodgings: no one could tell the name of him who had so gallantly ventured his life, and pecuniary reward of a considerable amount was offered to the unknown by a committee of Gentlemen. A circumstance occurred which brought him forward against himself: a poor fellow was apprehended selling a handsome coat, in the sleeve of which was written Mr. Macready's name: he was sent for by the Police Magistrates, and identified the coat stolen at the fire. They now lauded his modesty more than his intrepidity, and the thunders of applause that greeted him at his re-appearance at the Theatre, must have been the most grateful tribute to a feeling heart. Mr. Macready's goodness did not stop here; his benefit took place shortly after, and it was a complete bumper. He received, in an anonymous letter, a bank note of ten pounds, "as a tribute to his humanity and courage, in rescuing the cottager's daughter from the flames." Mr. Macready instantly called upon the unfortunate couple who had lost their all in the fire, and presented them with that sum, saying "he had been only the mean instrument in the hand of God, in procuring it for them:" he also promised to assist the infant as it advanced in years, and we have no doubt he will fulfil his word. [Theatrical Biography.

STRAW PAPER

We have examined some of the paper made from oat straw, by Mr. Shryock, upon Mr. M'Gaw's patent, and have no hesitation in saying that for all the purposes of wrapping paper it is greatly superior to that in common use, manufactured of rags, and can be afforded at a much less price. That which we saw was made of straw without the addition of any other material, was of good texture, strong and firm, the color that of the straw, no attempt having been made to bleach it.

The process of preparing the straw is very simple. It is immersed in a strong ley of wood ashes, until the fibres become easily separated, when the ley is drawn off, the straw washed, and thrown into the engine, where it is speedily reduced to a pulp fit for the mould. It is quite as easily managed as rags, and we think bids fair to supersede the use of rags for all kinds of wrapping and common printing paper.—Lancaster Gazette.

Summary.

Upwards of one thousand Englishmen are at present residing at Geneva alone. English travellers are also very numerous in other interesting parts of Switzerland.

Sidney's Letters to the Editor of the Courier on the reported Exclusion of Lord Byron's Monument from Westminster Abbey.—"The principal defect of this publication is, that it is an essay upon nothing—for which the price of one shilling is too much. No application having yet been made to the Dean and Chapter of Westminster Cathedral to admit of the erection of a monument to Lord Byron, their reverences' 'reported exclusion' of it is a mere fudge of the day, of no better authority than the story of the disconsolate and loving widow, who would not suffer her husband to be buried near one who died of the small-pox because her dear man had never had that disorder!"—Literary Gazette.

Calamities of Genius.—Homer was a beggar; Pinotus turned a mill: Terence was a slave; Boethius died in a jail: Paul Borghese had fourteen trades, and yet starved with them all.

Mr. Brougham has returned to town, and appears to be in excellent health.

Sir Robert Ker Porter, in his "Travels," asserts that long tails to horses are so much esteemed in Russia, that many horses are decorated with false hair!

Quizzing.—On Saturday last, a man calling himself Windeborn, of an appearance extraordinary genteel, went into the shop of Mr. Hynes, an optician, in this town, when it is supposed he contrived to steal a valuable eyeglass. A few hours afterwards, the article referred to was missed by the proprietor, and the supposition of theft immediately fell upon the person in question. Mr. Hynes, having sought the supposed voleur, conducted him back to the shop, when a strict search was made in the pockets of the latter, during which time it is said he dexterously (perhaps magically) secreted the glass under a cloth which was spread upon the counter, and smilingly demanded of Mr. Hynes if he had sought carefully for the article. The latter answered in the affirmative—" but," quoth the accused, "did you look under the cloth on the counter?"—The cloth was turned up, when lo! the glass presented itself to the eyes of all present. However, from suspicious appearances the dexterous gentleman was taken into custody, and it is supposed will be fully committed on Thursday.—Drakard's Stamford News.

Sober Citizen.—I related to me a whimsical story of a physician, who one night hearing lamentable groans and cries, went to search whence they proceeded; found a man and woman drunk, thrown out of an overturned car; hastened to a public house to get aid, and in his care had them put to bed together; but returning the next morning, found the man in a rage at having slept with such a companion, and the woman making an intollerable uproar, weeping and reproaching, asserting that her character was ruined, and that he must and should marry her: which accordingly the good natured fool was persuaded to do.

Mr. Horace Smith's forthcoming work, it appears, is to be a "Tale of ancient Jerusalem, under the title of Zillah. Every thing may be expected from such a subject in such hands. The romantic country of the Jews; the grandeur of their religion; their fiery passions; the heroic warfare in which they were so frequently involved; and their overwhelming misfortunes—afford fine materials for the imagination.

Sir Ewan Cameron.—Intelligence has just reached us of the death of a gentlemen universally known and respected in the Highlands, the venerable Sir Ewan Cameron of Fassifern, Bart. He expired on Sunday last at the advanced age of about ninety years. Sir Ewan will be succeeded in his title and estates by his eldest surviving son, Sir Duncan Cameron. Two other branches of the family also exist—a son, Capt. Patrick Cameron, who was lately in command of an East India vessel, and a daughter, Mrs. Col. Macpherson of Cluny. Sir Ewan has died full of years and honours—of honours springing from the retrospect of a long life spent in promoting the good of his country, and the happines of his friends and dependents. In him were united the best qualities of the Highland Chief, honour and hospitality, regulated and controlled by a spirit of pure unostentatious benevolence and sound judgment. Sir Ewan obtained his Baronetcy in consequence of the gallant conduct of his son, Col. Cameron, "the valiant Fassifern," who fell at the head of his 92d, on the field of Waterloo. The title was the free spontaneous gift of our gracious Sovereign, who thus sought to alleviate the aged Chieftain, by reflecting back upon him the honours earned by his gallant son.—Inverness Courier.

Theft by a French Countess.—Paris, Oct. 1.—Josephine Marie-Euphrosine de Fontanelle, Countess of Rochefine, aged 28, was brought on Wednesday last before the Tribunal of Correctional Police, charged with passing a gold scent-box, and other articles, on the 8th of October. Her counsel having finished the defence, the Countess, bathed in tears, and concealing her face with her hands, begged for mercy in the name of her family, and in pity to herself. After a few moments deliberation, she was found guilty on both charges, and accordingly sentenced to twelve months imprisonment.

Shocking Barbarity.—One of the most shocking instances of inhumanity, we have ever heard of, was communicated to us by a respectable female. In a lane leading from Church at one of our suburbs we had been annoyed for two or three days by the crying and afterwards moaning, of two children in an adjoining house. Upon entering the house to investigate the cause, a miserly, lousy woman was discovered sitting on the floor in rags, and every thing around indicating the abode of wretchedness and cruelty. After a search of some time, the children were discovered in an upper apartment, coiled up in a parcel of straw, one a married child of eighteen months, and the other a child already two years, deserted by the inhuman mother, and both starving to death. A few hours more and relief would have been too late. The oldest child had not strength left to raise its head. It was the accordant wish of the inhabitants of the house to punish some ruffians, and marching was the word designed, as the better way to elude justice. We have endeavoured yesterday to ascertain whether the disposition had been made of them, and learned the mother had consented to give the infant away, to a person who will take care of it. We can say nothing to the fate of the other; but it is hoped that our authorities will provide for it, and we most heartily join in the earnest rigour of the law. Humanity calls for it.—Christian Register.

Improvements in Liverpool.—The improvements in this town are going on at a rapid pace. Lord street is scarcely completed, when the widening of James's-street is about to be undertaken. We understand that the enlargement of this busy thoroughfare from Castlestreet to the Docks, which has hitherto been excessively narrow, inconvenient, and unsightly, will be commenced at the latter end of the present month, by pulling down the south side of the street. The new street will be of the same width as the space now left between St. George's church and the houses at the end of Castle-street, and will therefore be spacious and excellent. The foundations of the northern half of St. George's Crescent are laid, and the houses will soon appear above ground. The works on the side of the Old Dock are also proceeding, for the erection of the new custom-House.

New Docks.—The docks at present in use in Liverpool, cover the space of forty-seven acres, and there are now no less than five new docks in progress, four to the north of the present range, and one to the south, which will together comprise an extent of forty-three acres, nearly doubling the accommodation for shipping at this port. One of the docks to the north is intended for the exclusive accommodation of the steam-vessels, and it is expected to be finished in a year and a half or two years. These four docks will not run parallel with the river, but at right angles with it, in the same directions as the Old Dock.

Celebration of Don Pedro's Birth-Day.

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 14.—We have been all bustle and festivity since Sunday, the Birth-day of the Emperor Don Pedro. On that day the Catholic Chapel at Stonehouse was devoted solely to the use of the Portuguese Constitutionalists at present resident here. High Mass was celebrated in the usual manner, the vocal and instrumental parts being performed by Portuguese, consisting principally of the officers and seamen, who voluntarily joined the Constitutional Army in support of the rights of Don Pedro. The ceremony was extremely imposing.

On Monday night a general illumination of the houses occupied by the Portuguese took place, and several well-designed transparencies were exhibited.

A transparency in Treville-street, represented the King of England in the act of crowning the young Queen, while a lion in the back ground was voraciously devouring Don Miguel. In the window of a house in the same street was placed an effigy as large as life of the young Queen crowned and seated on a throne of laurels. The house of Messrs. Fox, & Co., the Brazilian Consuls, was plendidly illuminated at every window, and a profusion of artificial flowers gave a pleasing appearance to the whole.—To particularise further would be useless, therefore it is merely necessary to state that the illumination was such as must have excited the most agreeable sensations in the breasts of the unfortunate Portuguese, and one which strongly showed the feelings generally entertained towards them by the inhabitants of this ancient borough.

MR. HUSKISSON.—We are happy to understand that the health of our highly respected Representative, Mr. Huskisson, is considerably improved. On the 18th ult. he was at Ancons. His intention was to pass through Rome and Florence, and expected to reach England by the 10th or 15th of next month.—Liverpool Courier, Oct.

Mayor of Liverpool.—At an Election on 18th of Oct'r. Nicholas Robinson, Esq. was chosen Mayor of the Borough without opposition.

Buckingham House.—During some days past upwards of a hundred rough pillars, ten feet long, of the most beautiful white marble, have been landed out of a vessel from Italy, intended for the entrance of the King's Palace of Buckingham House.

London, Oct. 31.—Monthly Agricultural Report.—By the time this report will get abroad, the harvest of corn and seeds may be deemed completely finished throughout the three kingdoms; and, although with abundant difficulties and heavy expense in too many parts, on the whole, with far greater success than could have been hoped. Several of our correspondence from different quarters go so far as to assert, that the stock of old wheat at Michaelmas was actually double in amount to that of the foregoing year. Without warranting the accuracy of this calculation in any particular quarter, we remain confirmed in our former opinion of the ample sufficiency of the stock —a fortunate circumstance, considering the inferiority of the new sample. The great demand on this stock for seed, and for mixing, together with speculative views of the holders of bonded foreign wheat, obviously occasioned the late very sudden rise in price; and the eagerness in your country holders not to sell at it for the benefit naturally produced an equally sudden decline in the London market; which governs all others, and which, in a late week, had arrivals of wheat and flour to an amount unprecedented for some years past. The governments of both France and England have been laudably solicitous to secure a foreign supply; and, with our ample and excellent stock of well-stored potatoes, no apprehension need be entertained of a want of bread; at the same time, it ought not to be expected cheap.

The average weight of our new wheat is laid at 61lbs. or 62lbs. per imperial bushel three parts of last year. The old stocks of malt and hops were considerable. It is said that some samples of very fine old wheat have been sold at £5 10s. the quarter, and the London loaf has reached 13d. Hop-picking has concluded under happier auspices than expected, and the crop tallies very evenly with that of the wheat, in regard to amount of quality. Clover-seed hath not deceived us; it is a bad crop. Young clovers and grasses of all kinds, most luxuriant. The scarcity of apples in the country seems a general complaint, which may be contrasted with their present considerable plenty in the metropolis, where, nevertheless, sompereils are 12s per bushel.

"ADDITIONAL ARTICLE.

"Mehemet Ali Pacha engages that, on no account whatever, there shall remain more than 1200 Egyptian troops, to occupy

The President of Greece has addressed a circular to the Panhellenion, and to the extraordinary Commissioners in the departments, stating that the Ambassadors of the Three Allied Powers has signified to him that they were authorized by their Courts to open communications with the Government of Greece, and in concert with the President, to prepare the means of regulating the affairs of Greece on the principles of the treaty of London. The President therefore calls on those to whom his circular is addressed, to send all the information in their power respecting the following points:—

1. In those parts of Greece which have been the theatre of war, what was and what is the proportion of the Greek inhabitants of the Turks?

2. What is the proportion in those provinces between the landed property belonging to Greeks and that belonging to Turks?

3 Of the Turkish landed property, what proportion belongs to religious establishments, and what to private persons?

4. What is the number of Greek citizens now in those provinces and of those who have fled to the islands of the Archipelago, to Calamo, and the vicinity?

5. What is the most probable estimate of the value of the houses, plantations, olive gardens, flocks, and other property destroyed by Ibrahim Pacha, since the conclusion of the treaty of 6th July, 1827?

The President requires that the answer shall be as near the truth as possible, that they may bear the strictest investigation.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS IN INDIA.

NATIVE JURORS.

The Bombay Gazette of the 30th of April contains a charge of Sir Charles Chambers, one of the Judges of that Presidency, to the Grand Jury, on the extension of the privilege of sitting on Juries, in criminal cases, to the native subjects of the three Presidencies, under the Act 7, Geo. IV., c. 57. The Judge, in congratulating the Grand Jurors, and through them the community, on the introduction of this great principle into the administration of Justice in India, stated, that with a view to the more satisfactory arrangement of such rules as might be necessary to regulate the selection of native Jurors, the Board had thought it right to consult the principle persons of the several Hindoo castes at Bombay and in its neighbourhood, with regard to the wishes which they might entertain, and to the exemptions and indulgences under which they might be satisfied to fulfil the duties assigned to them by the Act of Parliament.

MEXICO.

A Proclamation of the President of Mexico, of the 25th Oct., says, that information has been received from Europe, that Spain is preparing an expedition to recover the Mexican Territory, and that a considerable force is already at the Havannah, awaiting the arrival of others to carry this design into effect. It is added, that Spain looks for assistance from the disaffected inhabitants of Mexico; and the President therefore calls on the people for the preservation of union and harmony, saying, if this is accomplished, there need be no fears as to the result of the Spanish enterprise.

From the Buffalo Republican.

Fissure in the Table Rock.—We have noticed for several years, a fissure in this rock, which cuts off several hundred superficial feet of that section of the rock, adjoining the stairs kept by W. D. Wright. This crack is seen from below to extend downward 70 or 80 feet; it gradually widens by the frost, every winter. From the position of this fissure, this immense mass of rock, which by computation is estimated at more than 30,000 tons weight, is now resting upon a base of but few feet in width, and were all of the parts broken from the bank, the whole mass would tumble into the river. Some alarm has been occasioned by the dangerous appearance of this rock, as all the numerous parties of ladies and gentlemen who have passed beneath the falling sheet, were obliged to go under it It is in contemplation, providing the rock does not fall of itself the present winter, to blast it off, early in the spring! and "a nation of a blast" Jonathan says it will be.

Those who read the papers, will doubtless learn when the match is to be applied, and if they have not a sufficient stock of curiosity to be induced to go and witness such an explosion and such a "downcome"—then, let them stay away!

Messrs. Clark and Street, proprietors of the Fall Mills at Chippewa, U. C. have completed a fine carriage road from the top of the precipitous bank, (on the Canada side, half a mile below the Falls) to the water's edge; descending one foot in ten.

It was intended that a similar road should be made on this side of the Niagara, on the land of Judge Porter,—but it has not yet been commenced.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

DECEMBER 3.

A resolution was proposed by Mr. McHatton, of Ky., for enquiry whether any negotiation, and if any what had been entered into with the British Government relative to the surrender of Slaves who may have taken refuge within the Canadian Provinces.

December 8.

The Resolution respecting fugitive slaves in the British Provinces, was adopted.

General Scott—This Officer, in consequence of his refusing to acknowledge the authority of Maj. Gen. Macomb, to whose appointment he had made objections, owing to his own supposed claims, if we correctly understand the affair, has been, by order of the War Department, suspended from the command of the Western Department of the Army, and Brevet Brigadier General Atkinson appointed to that office.

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

The ship Alexander, at New York, from Liverpool, has papers to the 8th November.

A Liverpool paper of Novr. 8, contains the following article:—After a trifling re-action, the price of corn has again risen, and we believe there is no doubt entertained that the ports will be open for the admission of foreign grain, at the low duty of one shilling per quarter.—Every additional inquiry we have been able to make, confirms the view which we have uniformly taken of this subject.

In Canada, the price of wheat, from recent accounts, has attained a very high rate, and, on the continent of Europe, the question of a scarcity has long ago been settled. Letters have been received here, stating, that the French government, has prohibited the export of corn from France, and that the shipment of "fifteen cargoes of grain," at Havre, had been, in consequence of this prohibition, prevented.

"The London Courier says that the capture of Varna has laid new ground of hope that the mediation of the European cabinets will be accepted, by the belligerents.—"Before that event, Russia," it said, "could not, with honor, show a disposition to listen to any accommodation, and Turkey would not for pride and confidence."

The London Morning Journal, of the 4th, says—We have heard within these few days, of a secret alliance, which is either forming or formed, between Austria and England, which has for its object the settlement of the affairs of Turkey, and to act as a counterpoise to the extending aggrandisements of France. Austria, it is said, has remonstrated in the most positive terms against the occupation of Greece by a French force, and the obstruction offered to her trade by the blockade of the Dardanelles by the Russians. In the latter remonstrance, England has as publicly joined, as it is said that she has secretly supported those respecting Greece. We have heard more on this subject; but the rumours, even in the best circles, are so vague, that it is better to leave them to ripen before we take too much liberty with them. That France is making extensive naval preparations is well known; and it is notorious, that we have nearly ten sail of the line which we could, in order to the Mediterranean, or else where in a few hours' notice. This means something.

The London papers contradict the story of Lord Liverpool's partial recovery.

A London paper says, that a son of the celebrated Chas. Incledon, who inherits a considerable share of his father's unrivalled talent, is about to appear on the stage of Drury Lane.

The enterprise of the proprietors of the London journals is astonishing, and the expense which they incur to obtain the priority of intelligence is sometimes immense. The Standard received the confirmation of the news of the fall of Varna by an express from Berlin, which was conveyed from the continent to England by a vessel specially hired for the purpose.

A letter from Oporto, dated the 22d ult. states that all the northern provinces of Portugal continue in the most convulsive state. A detachment of 2000 Guerillas was within three leagues of Oporto.

An article from Lisbon, dated the 10th Oct. anticipates the passing of a decree for the organization of a body of Royalist Volunteers. The Marquis de Chaves is said to be appointed Inspector General.—But the most interesting report from that quarter is the intelligence supposed to have reached the government of Don Miguel from the Brazils. According to this account the Emperor Don Pedro has appointed a Regency, consisting of seven members, who are charged with the maintenance of his daughter's rights as Queen of Portugal, until she becomes of age.

Early in the morning of the 12th, a Te Deum was chanted in the camp of Count Woronzow, and in presence of the Emperor, in celebration of the fall of Varna. The finest weather favored this solemnity, at which all the Generals and officers were present. On the same morning, the Captain Pacha marched out of the citadel, together with the troops in favor of whom a capitulation had been agreed to. On the 16th, the Emperor assented divine service in the Greek church of Varna.—On the evening of the 14th, his Majesty had it in contemplation to embark for Odessa, and thence to continue uninterruptedly his journey to St. Petersburgh. The corps diplomatique was to embark for Odessa at the same time.

Omer Vrione retreated immediately after the surrender of Varna, and had taken up a position on the opposite bank of the Kaniitshik. He was closely pursued by Prince Eugene of Wurtemburg. The Grand Vizier had already advanced as far as the Kaniitshik to support Omer Vrione, but in consequence of recent events had also made a retrograde movement.

On the 22d August, the fortress of Ardaghane, in Asia, surrendered to Major General Bergmann, who had gone from Kars, to take possession of that town, and to dispersse the parties of the enemy that were flying from Akhalzik towards Erzerum.

From Gibraltar—By the brig Elizabeth, at New York, from Messina, letters have been received from Gibralter to the 20th October. They state that the fever still continued to rage, but there were indications of its soon ceasing. The inhabitants still continued on board the shipping.

The King of Spain has tendered 10,000 fanegas of wheat, for the use of the indigent sufferers by the sickness at Gibraltar.

A letter from Dr. Howe, dated Gibralta, Oct. 25, announces the arrival there of the last provision ship destined for the Greeks.

It appears that the convention for the settlement of the British claims due by Spain is at length concluded. The sum agreed by the latter to be paid is £900,000-sterling. It is further added, that the settlement due by England to Spanish subjects, chiefly for illegal captures, have also been compromised for £200,000, payable in Madrid, in one year, the payment to be made to the Spanish Government.

The pictures which constitute the King's private collection, the whole of which have been purchased by His present Majesty, are inserted against five of the various offices, for two hundred thousand pounds, and even that amount is considered much less than their original cost.

American Flour.—The accounts received at Liverpool on Monday, by the Alexander, which sailed from Philadelphia on the 21st ult. state that flour had suddenly risen in that market nearly two dollars per barrel, in consequence of the intelligence received concerning the deficient harvest in this country. At the beginning of the month, flour was quoted five dollars seventy five cents per barrel, and on the 21st it was quoted $7¾.

A seizure took place at the custom house on Wednesday morning of a vessel with twelve hundred kegs of Brandy on board; she had false decks, the upper deck was loaded with corn.

Mr. Viger introduced a Bill to authorise Council to defend prisoners in capital cases;—second reading, Friday.

On motion of Mr. Viger the House went into a Committee on the 34 Geo. III. cap. 6, or Judicature Act, and on resuming, the House agreed to the report that it is expedient to amend the Act. Mr. Viger introduced the Bill accordingly. The Bill extends Gaspesia, divides the Province into a number of arrondissemens and makes a great alteration in the mode of administering justice. It was introduced in the Session of 1826;—Second reading, Saturday next.

The House in Committee on the order of the day to consider of the vacant offices of the House passed the following resolution:

"That before filling any other vacancy in the offices of this House, enquiry be made touching the necessity of each office, the amount of the salary and emoluments thereunto affixed, and the fixing such salary, de novo, at every change."

Wednesday, 10th December.

The Messengers appointed to wait on His Excellency to know when he would receive the House with its Address and the Resolutions of the 6th inst. reported that His Excellency would receive the House on Friday at 12 o'clock.

Mr. Blanchet introduced a Bill for inspecting the Provincial General's chest and settling his accounts;—second reading on Friday.

The same gentleman gave notice of a motion for next week for establishing a General Hospital, to be supported by a duty on tonnage, about 10s per 100 tons.

Mr. Viger presented a petition of the Hon. C. W. Grant, Peter McGill, and Horatio Gates, Esqs. for a rail-road from St. John to Longueuil,—referred.

Friday, 12th December.

The Bill for appointing Commissioners to inspect the Books of the Receiver General was read a second time and referred to Mr. Blanchet, Leslie, Neilson, St. Ours, and Viger.

The Bill for abolition of imprisonment for debt, in certain cases, was read a second time.

Mr. Neilson gave notice that on Tuesday next he would bring forward the appointment of Commissioners on the part of the Province, to treat with those of Upper Canada, relative to the collection of duties.

A Petition is about to be presented to the three Branches of the Legislature, praying the taking off 5s per quintal on semi-oily papers, sent by Post in this Province. It is signed by the Proprietors, Editors, Printers and persons connected with the Public Press.

At the hour appointed, the House attended upon His Excellency at the Castle of St Louis, with their address of Tuesday last, praying His Excellency would be pleased to transmit their Resolutions of the 6th inst to His Majesty's Government, to which His Excellency was pleased to give the following answer:

GENTLEMEN,—

I receive the resolutions which you now present to me, and will transmit them without delay to His Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonial Department, accompanied by this Address.

A certificate from the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery of the election of Thomas Lee, Esq. for the Lower-Town of Quebec, was laid before the House.

Two messengers were sent to the Council, praying their honors to proceed to the Hall of Mr. H. Felton to be examined before the committee of the Assembly on the petition from the Eastern Township, and the Hon. C. W. Grant, on the petition from himself and others.

In our last we published the Message of His Excellency the Administrator to the two Houses. In our Parliamentary summary will be found the Resolutions entered into by the House of Assembly on Saturday last, in answer to that Gracious Message. These resolutions supply ample matter for reflection. Comment on them is needless, particularly as we did not find it necessary to make any remarks on that part of the Royal Message, which established the right of the Crown to the Fund collected under the 14th Geo. III. It is, indeed, singular that the late Administration should have assumed a pretension to that fund, which His Majesty himself declares he is not authorized to divert from its legal destination.

We had hoped that the immediate recommendation of the Executive to the House from the Throne to bury all past differences in oblivion, would have had its effect; but on the contrary, we see new claims advanced, and other grounds of assumption set forth. It is hardly fair that conciliation should be all on one side; but such seems to be expected.—Q. Gazette.

On Tuesday afternoon, in the Legislative Council, a Committee was appointed to take into consideration those parts of the Canada Report which reflect upon the character and conduct of that Honorable House, and to report thereon.—ib.

We publish the debate upon the Message of His Excellency, transmitting His Majesty's Instructions relative to the difference which have existed in this Colony concerning the Finances and some other matters, as it has been furnished to us.

This debate had not the interests that was expected. The occasion was one entirely new; our members had hitherto been confined to the limits of the Province, and it was hoped by many that this Message would be the precursor of peace and tranquility. At all events it might have been expected that the framers of any resolutions relating to it, would come forward with the general outline of their views, and a statement of the grounds and reasons of the policy which they recommended to the House to pursue. It will be seen on reference to the debate that, it is rather a debate upon each of the resolutions than a debate upon them all taken together, and that it does not embrace the general scope, views and probable effects of the measure taken as a whole.—Quebec Star.

Bill for facilitating a legal remedy to such as have claims and demands on His Majesty's Provincial Government.—

It has for object to give to the Courts of Law in this Province, jurisdiction over the property of the Crown—The Legislative Council have repeatedly rejected the Bill.—

Bill to extend the benefit of the trial by jury.—

By this Act trial by jury is to be had only be had in suits arising out of contracts and agreements of a mercantile nature, where both parties are merchants or traders; and in cases of personal wrongs.—This Bill provides that a jury may be obtained in any personal action founded on delinquency.—ib.

By the Edinburgh papers, received by the last packet, we observe that the Right Hon. the Earl of Dalhousie, with the Countess of Dalhousie, Lord Ramsay, Hon. Col. Ramsay, Captain Maule and Capt. Fitz Clarence, R. N. were present at the Caledonian Hunt Ball at Edinburgh, on the 19th Oct. Lord Dalhousie was also present at the Hunt dinner, where he sat on the right hand of the President, the Duke of Buccleuch.—Mon. Gazette.

On the morning of the 18th ult., a young girl, about six years of age, named Caroline Jackson, fifth daughter of Mr. William Jackson, farmer at Cote St. Paul, near this city, met with an accident, which terminated in the loss of her life, on Thursday last. She had just risen, and was standing before the stove, the draught door of which was open, when her clothes caught fire—and in an instant she was completely in a blaze. Her father, who was in bed, and heard her scream, ran instantly to her assistance, and was severely burned in endeavouring to save her.—His son, a boy of 14 years old, threw a pail of water upon both, which extinguished the fire. The skin, however, was completely stripped from the girl's body, with the exception of her back. From that time until her death, 24 days afterwards, she scarcely partook of any sustenance.—Montreal Herald.

LADIES' BAZAAR.

At a meeting of Ladies held on Saturday, 13th instant, pursuant to advertisement, at the Montreal National School House, for charitable purposes.

It was resolved that a Bazaar be opened in the last week in the month of February next. The precise days and place to be determined by a Committee of Ladies, due notice thereof will be given.—The following Ladies will have tables, viz:—

Mrs. Col. Douglas, Mrs. Bowes, Mrs. Col. Brown, Miss Grant, Mrs. Finer, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Stanley, Mrs. H. Corse, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Bethune, Mrs. Gaswell and Mrs. G. S. Henshaw who will thankfully receive contributions of articles for sale, with the prices affixed to each, from all those ladies who may be disposed to work for the Bazaar.

All visitors to the Bazaar, as purchasers or otherwise, shall pay one shilling and three pence at the door, children under 12 years of age admitted at half price.—Canada Courant.

St. Andrews' Day:—Monday the 1st instant was held in due honour, at Williamstown, U. C. as St. Andrews's day. On that day a numerous and respectable company sat down to a dinner at McDonnell's Inn, at which the Revd. John MacKenzie presided, assisted by Col. Chisholm and John MacLennan, Esq. and to which the members for the County were invited as guests.—Among the substantial and excellent dishes on the table, to which all present did ample justice, the Haggis and Brose claimed precedence, and appeared to be generally recognized as old friends. After dinner, a num er of appropriate toasts were drank, each followed by a Gaelic or English song, with occasionally the martial strains of the bagpipe; and the whole evening was passed in the greatest cheerfulness and good humour. It may be worthy of remark, that the first Gaelic song was sung, and with great glee, by Mr. John McArthur, who is now 84 years of age.—ib.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

Four Seamen from the Montmorency and one from the Amity arrived this morning at Quebec. The Montmorency drove ashore 12 miles below Little Metis, on Sunday morning, 23d ult. and has gone all to pieces. Her cargo never was got drowned as previously stated, but frozen to death on the road up, about five miles from where the ship struck. The boy missing is supposed to have met a similar fate. The Amity was wrecked at three o'clock in the morning of the 23d, crew and all, and only all hands are saved. These men did not see the Hope, but were told by a Pilots appointed, that a brig of that name was wrecked with ten hands at Cape Chatt. The Montmorency's letter-bag is on the way up.—Star.

THE ROYALIST.

YORK, U. C., SATURDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1828

The Albany Gazette, the latest paper we have received, contains European dates to the 8th November—extracts from which will be found under the proper head. We did not receive a single paper from Quebec by the last mail.

Halifax papers to 4th instant, received at Boston, state, that SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND and family arrived there on Friday 28th November, and that HIS EXCELLENCY was sworn into Office the following day.

The ANSWER of HIS EXCELLENCY SIR JAMES KEMPT to the Address accompanying the Resolutions of the House of Assembly in Lower Canada, on the subject of His Excellency's Message will be found in the proceedings of the Legislature which we have taken from the Star.—In His Speech at the opening of the Session His Excellency says,

"His Majesty's Government has, however, elieved me from the responsibility attendantm upon any measures to be adopted for the adjustment of the financial difficulties that have unfortunately occurred; and I shall take an early opportunity of conveying to you by message a communication from His Majesty, which I have been specially commanded to make to you upon the subject of the appropriation of the Provincial Revenue."

In replying to this Address His Excellency, therefore, merely states, that He will transmit the Resolutions of the Assembly to His Majesty's Government—responsibility rests not with him.

The following is taken from the New York Mercantile Advertiser. We are not aware that any person is now under confinement, for the supposed crime. At the last Gore Assizes, two Brothers of the name of Young, were tried, on an Indictment for the murder of a man of the name of Masters,—probably the article in the Advertiser may allude to this circumstance. On that trial, the Youngs were acquitted.

"An individual is now indicted, and awaiting his trial in Upper Canada, for the murder of Abraham Young. From letters received from Young there is no doubt that he is still living and was in New York on the 16th day of Oct. last, where he entered as a sailor on board of a vessel bound to Lisbon. Any information concerning the said Young left at No. 50, Front Street, will be thankfully received by the afflicted friends of the accused.—Editors will subserve the cause of humanity and perhaps be the means of saving the life of a fellow creature by giving this notice one or more insertions."

The Editor of the Upper Canada Herald, says that we are "anxious to revive the discussion of a private affair, which was amicably adjusted between the parties years ago," and that we have "unluckily forgotten an important fact connected therewith." The circumstance to which we alluded, was one which occurred publicly, in open Court—we never heard of its being considered as a "private affair," or of its having been "adjusted," in any other way than that stated by us; nor are we aware of any "important fact connected therewith," that can possibly affect the correctness of our statement.—The facts as they occurred publicly, are stated by us, we believe, correctly.

Sheriff's Sale.—At the Court House in the Town of York on Saturday 31 January next, will be sold, Lot No. 30 in the first Concession of the Township of Vaughan taken in execution as belonging to Stitwell Wilson, at the suit of Jairus Ashley.—Sale to commence at 12 o'clock noon.

An inquest was held on Saturday last, at the village of Brantford, before John Burwell, Esq. on view of the body of Sarah Hill, an Indian Woman, of the Onieda Tribe, who was found dead, the previous morning under Mr. Lovejoy's shed. The verdict of the Jury was "that she came to her death from intoxication, and exposure to the inclement weather, having had her clothing stripped off her by some person unknown.—Gore Gazette

An inquest taken this 11th day of December, before William Matheson, Esq., Coroner, on the bodies of Asa Isby and her four children.

The inquest having carefully investigated every particular relative to the melancholy circumstance, unanimously are of opinion, that the deceased persons came to their deaths from suffocation, accidentally caused, by fire having communicated to the straw bed on which the deceased were lying.

Poetry.

A COUNTRY SABBATH.

From Montgomery's Omnipresence of the Deity

Thou unimagined God! though every hour,
And every day speak thy tremendous power,
Upon the seventh, creation's work was crown'd,
When the full universe career'd around!
Then ever hallowed be Thy chosen day,
Till Nature die, and time shall roll away!

Sweet Sabbath morn! From childhood's dimpled prime,
I've loved to hail thy calm renewing time;
Soft steal thy bells upon the pensive mind,
In mingling murmurs floating on the wind,
Telling of friends and times long wing'd away,
And blissful hopes harmonious with the day.

On thy still dawn, while holy music peals,
And far around the lingering echo steals,
What heart communes not with the day's repose,
And hears the thraldom of terrestrial woes!
Who, in His temple, gives to God a prayer,
Nor feels the majesty of Heaven is there!—
The listening silence of the vaulted pile,
Where gather'd hearts their homage breathe awhile
The mingled burst of penitential sighs,
The choral incense swelling to the skies,
All raise the soul to energies sublime,
And bless the solemn sadness of the time.

Emblem of Peace!—upon the village plain
Thou dawn'st a blessing to the toil-worn swain;
Soon as thy smiles adwart the upland play,
His bosom gladdens with the brightening day,
Humble and happy, to his lot resigned,
He feels the inward Sabbath of the mind.

And when, with benign knee and rev'rent tone,
He's hastened his vows unto Jehovah's throne,
Serene the thoughts that o'er his bosom steal,
When homeward winding for the Sabbath meal!
There shall kind Plenty wear her sweetest smiles;
There shall his rosy children play their wiles;
And there the meek-eyed mother muse with joy,
And court with frequent kiss her infant boy:
At noon a ramble round the burial-ground,
A moral tear on some lamented mound,
Or breezy walk along the green expanse,
Where summer beauty charms the ling'ring glance;—
These are the wonted blessings of the day,
That all his weekly toils and woes repay;
And when aerial Night hath veiled the view,
And star-gleams twinkle on the meadow dew,
Some elder boy beside his father's knee
Shall stand and read the Holy History!
Or peaceful prayer, or chanted hymn, shall close
The hour that woos him to a sweet repose.

Colonial.

HALIFAX, 26th Nov.

Sir Peregrine Maitland may be hourly expected in the Chebucto from Boston. His baggage, &c. arrived on Sunday in the Kingfisher.

Ordination.—On Sunday evening, Archibald Gray, B. A. Master of the Grammar School at Miramichi, and Mr. John Moore Campbell, B. A. both of the King's College, Windsor, were admitted by the Bishop of Nova Scotia into the holy order of Deacons.

We regret to state that the Church at Sackville, was on Sunday, the 16th instant, destroyed by fire, owing to the carelessness of the person employed to prepare the Sacred Edifice for the performance of Divine Service on that day. This distressing occurrence will be severely felt by the families in that Parish, and, as the means of most of them are, we believe, but slender; we sincerely hope they will derive from the appeal which they have made to the liberality of the Public, whatever aid may be required to enable them to erect another Church in a short time.—N. S. Royal Gazette.

Halifax, December 4.

Flour is still very high in our market, 50s in bond, 57s by the single barrel, and from a careful survey of the quotations, both in the American and English papers, we are decidedly of opinion that it must command a high price, until the result of the next harvest be known. The only refuge the people of these colonies have is to find a substitute—they have abundance of Indian corn of their own growing—much Buckwheat, and plenty of oats and potatoes; and if they are forced to live on these for a year, they will be just as hale and hearty at the beginning of the next crop, as if flour had been but seven dollars the barrel; and many will have in their pockets the price of a few barrels, which had the article been cheaper, would have been sent off to Boston or New York.

PRINCE EDWARD'S ISLAND, Nov. 11.

It is with much pleasure we have to state, that the appointment of our Townsman, Robert Hodgson, Esq., to the office of Attorney General of this Island, has been confirmed.

John Howe, Junr. Esq., has, we understand, been appointed Deputy Post Master General of the Province of New Brunswick.

From the Monthly Magazine.

CAPTAIN CLAPPERTON.

The family of Clapperton is ancient, and not without celebrity, in the north of Scotland. The name has been distinguished in the Courts and in the field; and it has acquired new fame by the dauntless and persevering spirit of enterprise with which at the peroration of his valuable life, the subject of this brief and inadequate notice has pursued the track of African discovery. A Bishop Clapperton lies buried at Inch Colm, in the Frith of Forth; and another individual of the name is remembered, in the history of Sweden, as a field-marshall in the army. At a later date, the family resided in Teviotdale, at the border of Scotland. The grandfather of Captain Clapperton studied medicine in Edinburgh, and at Paris was an antiquary of some note—and collected coins, songs, genealogies, &c. illustrating the history of the border countries. Having married a cousin of Archibald Campbell, of Glenlyon, Perthshire, he settled as a physician at Lochmaben in Dumfriesshire. His eldest son, George, the father of Captain Clapperton, was a surgeon in Annan. Hugh Clapperton the African traveller, was the youngest of six sons, by his father's marriage. The boy's education was not classical; but, when he could read and write, he was placed under the care of a Mr. Bryce Downie, under whom he acquired a knowledge of practical mathematics, including navigation, trigonometry, &c.

Born in the year 1788, Hugh Clapperton, at an early age, served in different trading vessels. In 1806, he went out to Gibraltar in a navy transport. There with some of his ship mates, he got on board the Renoumie frigate, commanded by Sir Thos. Livingstone. Discovering that his uncle was serving as Captain of the Royal Marines, on board His Majesty's Ship Saturn, then also at Gibraltar, he fortunately succeeded in obtaining a Midshipman's birth in the same ship. After the Saturn had been paid off on her return to England, the youth was some time on board His Majesty's ship St. Domingo, with Capt. King. Unable to obtain his discharge in time to sail to the East Indies with Captain Briggs, in the Clorinda, he followed that gentleman in another vessel as a passenger. In a gale of wind he risked his life in saving some of the crew—a circumstance which strongly recommended him to notice on his arival in India. There he joined Captain Briggs.

In 1813, after his return to England, Clapperton, and a few other clever midshipmen were ordered to Portsmouth Dock-yard, to receive instructions in the cutlass exercise from the celebrated fencing-master, Angelo. These young men, when perfect in the art, were distributed as teachers throughout the fleet. Clapperton's class-room was the deck of the Asia, the flag-ship of the Vice-Admiral Sir Alexander Cochrane, then lying at Spithead, where she remained till the end of January, 1814. Clapperton then accompanied Sir Alexander, who was appointed to the command of our Naval force on the coast of North America.—His manly form—he stood at least six feet high, had great breadth of chest, and expansion of shoulders—fixed the attention, and tended to improve the patriotic spirit of the crew. He was an excellent table companion, he painted all the scenes for the ship's theatricals, sketched views, drew caricatures, and was a universal favourite. The Lakes of Canada, however, were on the point of becoming the scene of important naval operations. Panting for distinction, Clapperton, in consequence, procured a passage to Halifax—bade adieu to the flag-ship—proceeded to Upper Canada—was made Lieutenant—and appointed to the Confiance, Schooner; a vessel which, under his command, soon became as powerful for its excellence, as it had previously been for its laxity of discipline.

In 1817, the British flotilla on the Lakes having been dismantled, Lieutenant Clapperton returned to England—was placed on half-pay and retired to Lochmaben, where he remained three years. Thence he removed to Edinburgh, and became acquainted with Dr. Oudney, by which his attention was first directed towards discoveries in Africa. Dr Oudney was appointed, in 1821, Consul to Bornou. He took Captain Clapperton with him, as a friend and companion. As it was intended that researches should be made from Bornou, as the fixed residence of the Consul, to the east and to the west, Lieutenant (now Major) Denham was added to the expedition. Dr. Oudney in an early stage of the journey, caught a severe cold, which fell on his lungs, and he died on the 12th of January, 1824. Capt. Clapperton attended him with fraternal affection in his dying moments; and he saw his remains decently interred, having himself read over him the funeral service of the Church of England.

Captain Clapperton and Major Denham returned to their native country, and their narratives of their expedition were published in a handsome quarto volume, which, we doubt not has met the perusal of nearly all our readers. To accompany the travellers is not within our limits.

At Sackatoo, the capital of the Fetatah Empire, Bello, the Sultan, was exceedingly anxious for the establishment of a friendly intercourse with England, and for the appointment of a British Consul and Physician. On the latter point, he addressed a letter to the King of England. A reply to the request was entrusted to Captain Clapperton, who, with his friend Dr. Dickson, Captain Pearce, of the Navy, and Dr. Morrison, a Surgeon in the Navy and a skilful naturalist, was despatched to Sackatoo, Captain Pearce, Dr. Morrison and an English Servant died from the effects of the climate. Dr Dickson was sent in another direction; but he has not been heard of since the month of November, 1825, when he was at Khydah, on his way to Dahomey, in company with M. De Souza, a Portuguese, who had lived for many years at the court.

Captain Clapperton died at Sackatoo, on the 13th April, 1827. He had been detained five months in that capital: the Sultan Bello not permitting him to proceed, on account of his war with Bornou, hoping to obtain leave to go to Timbuctoo, he had lived in a small circular clay hut, belonging to the Sultan's brother. He was attacked with dysentery: in the latter stages of the disease, he declined rapidly, and became much emaciated. Lander his faithful servant, who after his death, got permission to return to England, states, that two days before Captain Clapperton died, he requested to be shaved, as he was too weak to sit up. After the operation he asked for a looking-glass, remarked that he was "doing better," and should certainly "get over it." The morning on which he died, he breathed loud, became restless, and shortly after expired in Lander's arms. His remains were buried by him, at Jungali, a village five miles south from Sackatoo. The corpse was conveyed by a camel, and the place of interment was marked by a small square house of clay, erected by Lander, who with five slaves, followed his master to the grave.

Lander, after encountering many difficulties and dangers, arrived in England early in the spring of the present year; having contrived to conceal a watch of his late master's which had been originally meant to be presented by Captain Clapperton to Bello, on his taking leave of that place.

Major Denham, should he have the good fortune to return safe, will be the only surviving officer of the three expeditions sent our by government, since the year 1821, for penetrating the interior of Africa; viz. one to Bornou, by Oudney, Denham and Captain Clapperton; one to Timbuctoo, by Major Laing; and one to Sackatoo, by Clapperton and his companions. A narrative of Captain Clapperton's second journey is now in the press, with the adventures of Lander, his servant, from April 1827, to January 1828.

DIED.

At St. Foi, near Quebec, on the 8th inst. after two days illness aged about 90, Mrs. Margaret Auclaire, widow of the late Mr. Joseph Routier, proprietor and farmer of that parish. She retained her faculties and usefulness till a short time before her death. Upper Canada Gazette,
EXTRAORDINARY.

YORK, UPPER CANADA, SATURDAY JANUARY 10, 1829.

By Authority.

YORK, U. C. Saturday January, 10, 1829.

On Thursday 8th instant, His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, proceeded in State to the Legislative Council Chamber, and being seated on the Throne, The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod was sent to direct the attendance of the Commons House of Assembly, at the Bar of that Honorable House, who being come thereto:—

The Speaker of the Legislative Council said, it was His Excellency's Command, that they should repair to the usual place of sitting and there choose a fit person to be their Speaker, and that the person so chosen be presented for His Excellency's approbation on the following day. The House then withdrew.

Friday, 9th January, 1829.

The House of Assembly, being again assembled at the Bar of The Honorable the Legislative Council, Marshall S. Bidwell, Esquire, informed His Excellency that The House of Assembly, had chosen him for their Speaker, and claimed the usual privileges.

His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor was pleased to approve of the choice of the House of Assembly, and then addressed both Houses of the Provincial Parliament, in the following

SPEECH:

Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council, and
Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

At the time of my assuming the Government which His Majesty has been pleased to commit to my charge, I was desirous of meeting you in Provincial Parliament at an earlier period than the present: but the interests of the Country have been best consulted by convening you at a season when little embarrassment, or inconvenience, can be experienced in any District, from your being called to your Legislative duties.

In recommending your immediate and earnest attention to be directed to affairs that are closely connected with the welfare of the Colony, I must remark, that no surer proofs of your vigilance and judgment can ever be adduced, than the prosperity, happiness and contentment of His Majesty's faithful Canadian Subjects; and I trust, if the public good be exclusively and diligently considered, in the exercise of your important functions, that those ends will be assured, and that the beneficial effects of your proceedings will soon be apparent in every part of the Province.

Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

I have ordered the Estimates of the present year and the Public Accounts, to be laid before you,

The commands of His Majesty that have relation to the several Addresses of the House of Assembly of the last Parliament, shall be communicated to you.

Honorable Gentlemen, and Gentlemen,

The Laws that are about to expire will require your consideration. The repeal of the Act, entitled, "an Act for better securing this Province, &c." passed in the 44th year of the late King, is I think advisable, as it seldom can be applied to cases which it was intended to meet.

The report of the Arbitrators on the part of Upper and Lower Canada, for ascertaining the proportion of Duties to be paid to this Province, has been transmitted to me; and it must be satisfactory to you to be informed that on that question, an equitable arrangement has taken place.

The Public Schools are generally increasing, but their present organization appears susceptible of improvement.

Measures will be adopted, I hope, to reform the Royal Grammar School, and to incorporate it with the University recently endowed by His Majesty, and to introduce a system in that Seminary that will open to the youth of the Province the means of receiving a liberal and extensive course of instruction. Unceasing exertion should be made to attract able Masters to this Country, where the population bears no proportion to the number of Offices and employments, that must necessarily be held by men of education and acquirements, for the support of the Laws, and of your free Institutions.

The expence already incurred in carrying on the Works in the Gore and Niagara Districts has been considerable, but few will regret that they have been undertaken. Such enterprizes can, at first, be seldom duly appreciated. It is obvious, however, that the value of the productions of your soil can never be known, unless you have Canals, and good internal communications to facilitate your Commercial intercourse with the vast Empire of which you form a part.

From the observations of the Deputy Post-Master-General, at Quebec, to which I shall draw your attention, respecting the impossibility of forwarding the Mails with either expedition or safety, I am persuaded that some better expedient than statute labour must be resorted to for maintaining the roads in a proper state.

The sums expended on the useful works now in progress, circulate in their natural channels, remain in the Province, enrich it, and promote industry. On the extent of protection and encouragement afforded to projects of this kind;—and on your being prepared, by means of the essential aid of well organized Institutions, for the reception and location of every description of settler, the Agricultural interests of the Colony, and the advance of its Commerce, will be found chiefly to depend.

UPPER CANADA.

JOHN COLBORNE,

GEORGE the FOURTH, by the Grace of GOD, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith: &c. &c. &c.

To all to whom it may concern—

GREETING:

WHEREAS We have been pleased to appoint our trusty and well beloved SIR JOHN COLBORNE, Knight, Commander of the Most Honorable Military Order of the Bath, to be LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR of our Province of Upper Canada, in the room of SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND, Knight, Commander of the Most Honorable Military Order of the Bath.—WE have thought fit, by and with the advice of our Executive Council to Issue this our Proclamation, that all persons having due notice thereof may govern themselves accordingly.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused these our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of our said Province to be hereunto affixed.—WITNESS our trusty and well beloved SIR JOHN COLBORNE, K.C.B. LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, of our said Province, and Major General Commanding our Forces therein at York, this Fifth day of November, in the Year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty-eight, and in the Ninth year of our Reign.

J. C.

By Command of His Excellency.
JOHN B. ROBINSON, Att'y. General.
D. CAMERON, Secretary.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st JANUARY, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS.

Bursar, King's College.

York, 1*st February*, 1828. 31*tf.*

NOTICE.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in Third Session of the Second Provincial Parliament, the 5th July, 1797, authorising the Survey, and to establish upon some permanent principle the Boundary Line of the different Townships within this Province. VOL. 8. NO. 86.

Upper Canada Gazette.

YORK, UPPER CANADA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 1829.

BY AUTHORITY.

Government House York, }
18th January, 1829. }

HIS EXCELLENCY the LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR has been pleased to grant a Licence to BENJAMIN PRESCOTT HALL, Gentleman, to practice Physic, Surgery and Midwifery within this Province, he having complied with provisions, and produced the necessary proof of qualification as required by 8th Geo. 4, cap. 3.

To HIS EXCELLENCY SIR JOHN COLBORNE, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Military Order of the Bath, Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major General Commandin His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

We, His Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Commons of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, humbly thank your Excellency for your gracious Speech, from the Throne, at the opening of the present Session.

We offer your Excellency our humble congratulations upon your accession to the Government of this Country, and we sincerely participate the anxious feelings and expectations of the people upon that happy and auspicious event.

We highly value the assurance of your Excellency, that upon assuming this Government, your Excellency was desirous of meeting us in Provincial Parliament at an earlier period than the present, and, we are satisfied, that, in adopting this delay, your Excellency was influenced by a desire to promote the interests of the Country.

We will direct our immediate and earnest attention to those Public Affairs which are closely connected with the welfare of the Colony; and we trust that, under the gracious co-operation of your Excellency, our exertions will soon be rewarded by the future prosperity, happiness and contentment, of His Majesty's faithful Canadian people, in every part of the Province.

For the insurance of those most important objects, we, His Majesty's faithful Commons, confiding in the candor of your Excellency, and in your readiness to recognize us as Constitutional advisers of the Crown, do humbly pray your Excellency against the injurious policy hitherto pursued by the Provincial Administration; and although we, at present, see your Excellency unhapily surrounded by the same advisers as have so deeply wounded the feelings, and injured the best interests of the Country, yet in the interval of any necessary change, we entertain an anxious belief that, under the auspices of your Excellency, the administration of justice will rise above supicion, the wishes and interests of the people be properly respected, the constitutional rights and indepen dence of the Legislature be held inviolable, the prerogative and patronage of His most gracious Majesty be exercised for the happiness of his people and the honor of His Crown, and the revenues of the Colony be, hereafter, sacr dly devoted to the many and urgent objects of public improvement, after making provision for the public service, upon the basis of that economy which is suited to the exigencies of the Country and the condition of its Inhabitants.

We will direct our particular and vigilant attention to the Public Estimates of the present year, and the Public Accounts, whenever your Excellency shall cause them to be laid before us.

We will receive with all respect the pleasure of His Majesty upon our several Addresses of last Parliament, whenever your Excellency shall be pleased to communicate it.

We will direct our attention to the Laws about to expire; and it affords us the highest gratification to receive such a mark of your Excellency's regard for the constitutional wishes and feelings of the people, as to advise the repeal of the act, entitled, "An Act for the better securing this Province against all seditious attempts or designs to disturb the tranquility thereof;" and we beg leave humbly to assure your Excellency that nothing, in our opinion, will more happily tend to spread contentment, and give an impulse to public spirit and enterprize, than the continued manifestation, by your Excellency, of the same liberal and enlightened policy.

It is satisfactory to us to learn from your Excellency that an equitable arrangement has been made, by the Arbi trators on the part of Upper and Lower Canada, respecting the proportion of duties to be paid to this Province.

We will direct our anxious attention to the state of the Public Schools, and consider what improvements, in the present imperfect and unsatisfactory system, are best calculated to open to the youth of this Province the means of receiving a liberal and extensive course of instruction; and we are fully sensible of the vast importance of un ceasing exertions to attract able Masters to this Country, where the population and wealth bear no proportion to the number of offices and employments which ought to be held by men of education and acquirements, disposed to support the laws, and, what we are highly gratified to find so favorably mentioned by your Excellency, the free institutions of our Country.

While we thus welcome the respect of your Excellency for the just liberties of the people, your Excellency may rely upon our dutiful regard for the constitutional exercise of His Majesty's Royal Prerogative.

The expense already incurred in carrying on the Works in the Gore and Niagara Districts has been considerable; but, we shall be happy to find in their further progress the most favorable expectations realized: being aware that such enterprises can, at first, be seldom duly appreciated. We feel, however, the force and truth of your Excellency's declaration, that the value of the productions of the soil can never be known, until there are such improvements in the internal communications, as to facilitate our commercial intercourse with the vast Empire, of which we form a part.

We will bestow particular attention upon the changes it may be expedient to make in the present mode of maintaining the Public Roads in a proper state; and while we inquire into the condition and Revenue of the Post Office Department, we will not fail to promote, as far as practicable the forwarding of the Mails with safety and expedition.

The promotion of internal improvement, and the essential aid of well organized institutions for the reception of every description of Settler, would promote the Agricultural interests of the Colony, and the advancement of its commerce; and we shall be happy to find from the extent of the resources placed at the disposal of the Legislature, and from the more economical application of them, that we can realize the just and extended views of your Excellency upon those important subjects.

COMMONS HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY, }
13th day of January, 1829. }

MARSHAL S. BIDWELL, SPEAKER.

REPLY.

GENTLEMEN,

I thank you for the congratulations and assurances expressed in your Address: but I must remark, that it is less difficult to discover the traces of political dissentions and local jealousies in this Colony, than to efface them.

With the conviction therefore, that in many instances the most upright intentions have been discoloured by the medium through which they have been seen; I anticipate that the principles of the Constitution being kept steadily in view, together with the good sense of the People, will neutralize the efforts of any interested faction.

To HIS EXCELLENCY SIR JOHN COLBORNE, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Military Order of the Bath, Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, and Major-General Commanding His Majesty's Forces therein, &c. &c. &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

We, His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Legislative Council of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, return our most respectful thanks for Your Excellency's Speech from the Throne.

We beg leave to express our acknowledgements for the kind consideration of Your Excellency, in forbearing to summon the Provincial Parliament at an earlier period than the present, in order to consult the interests of the Country, by convening us at a season when little embarrassment or inconvenience can be experienced in any District from our being called to our Legislative duties.

We fully concur with Your Excellency while recommending our immediate and earnest attention to affairs which are closely connected with the welfare of the Colony, that no surer proofs of our vigilance can be adduced than the prosperity, happiness, and contentment of His Majesty's Canadian Subjects, and we trust that while diligently and exclusively considering the public good in the exercise of our important functions, those ends will be assured, and the beneficial effects of our proceedings will soon be apparent in every part of the Province.

We shall not fail to give our early consideration to the Laws which are about to expire, and also to the suggestion of Your Excellency, relative to the "Act for the better securing the Province," passed in the 44th year of His late Majesty's reign.

It is satisfactory to us to be informed by your Excellency that, an equitable arrangement has taken place with respect to the proportion of Duties to be paid to this Province by Lower Canada.

Notwithstanding that Your Excellency considers the organization of the Public Schools susceptible of improvement, and hopes that measures will be adopted to reform the Royal Grammar School, and to incorporate it with the University recently endowed by His Majesty, and to introduce a system in that Seminary that will open to the youth of the Province the means of receiving a liberal and extensive course of instruction, it is still highly gratifying to learn that the advantages of education are generally increasing.

We sincerely unite with Your Excellency in the opinion that unceasing exertion should be made to attract able Masters to this Country, where there are necessarily many offices and employments to be held by men of education and acquirements for the support of the Laws and of our free institutions.

Although the expense already incurred in carrying on the works in the Districts of Gore and Niagara has been considerable, we trust that few will regret that they have been undertaken, as such enterprises can at first be seldom duly appreciated, and as it is obvious that Canals and good internal communications must render the productions of our soil more valuable, and facilitate a commercial intercourse with the vast Empire of which we form a part.

We cordially unite with Your Excellency in the opinion that some better expedient than Statute Labour must be resorted to for maintaining the roads in a proper state, and we have always been prepared and anxious to concur in any equitable measure adapted to the attainment of so valuable an object.

We agree with your Excellency that besides the advantages derived from the completion of useful works a large part of the sums expended, during their progress, circulates among the inhabitants, promotes industry, and enriches the Province, and that from the extent of protection and encouragement afforded to projects of this kind, together with the aid of well organized institutions for the reception and location of settlers, the Agricultural interests of the Colony and the advance of its Commerce will be found greatly to depend.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL CHAMBER, }

JAMES BABY,
SPEAKER.

REPLY.

HONORABLE GENTLEMEN,

I thank you for the assurances which are conveyed to me in your Address.

From the probable continued absence of several of your Members, I am of opinion that this Council should be so increased that neither its constitutional influence in this country, nor its independence should be ever doubted—an influence which every patriot must perceive the best interests of the Colony require, should be retained by this Loyal Body.

UPPER CANADA,

J. COLBORNE.

GEORGE the FOURTH, by the Grace of GOD, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c. &c. &c.

To all to whom these Presents shall come.

GREETING:—

KNOW YE, that by and with the advice and consent of the Executive Council of our Province of Upper Canada, and under the authority of a certain Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, passed in the Sixth year of our Reign, intituled "an Act to regulate the trade of the British possessions abroad." WE HAVE thought fit to appoint, and do hereby appoint, the Village of Bath, in the Township of Ernestown, in the Midland District of our said Province, to be a Port of Entry and Clearance, for all Goods and Merchandize, not being entirely Prohibited, and for the payment of all Duties liable to be paid on Goods and Merchandize brought into this Province from the United States of America.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused these our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of our said Province to be hereunto affixed.—WITNESS our trusty and well beloved SIR JOHN COLBORNE, K.C.B. HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 18th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.

York, 1st February, 1828. 37tf.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 15th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

NOTICE.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in Third Session of the Second Provincial Parliament, the 5th July, 1797, authorising the Survey, and to establish upon some permanent principle the Boundary Line of the different Townships within this Province. And whereas by the Seventh Clause of the said Act the Treasurer is required to give Notice of such Lots as are returned to him by the Collectors as the property of Absentees and unpaid, for Six Months in the Upper Canada Gazette, previous to the Sale of the Lands. All persons interested are hereby desired to take Notice, that the following list of Lands, having been so returned to me, will be put up at Public Sale for the payment of the Assessment so in arrear, immediately after the First day of May next.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose by sale of Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 18th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.
York, 1st February, 1828.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 15th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

NOTICE.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in Third Session of the Second Provincial Parliament, the 5th July, 1797, authorising the Survey, and to establish upon some permanent principle the Boundary Line of the different Townships within this Province. And whereas by the Seventh Clause of the said Act the Treasurer is required to give Notice of such Lots as are returned to him by the Collectors as the property of Absentees and unpaid, for Six Months in the Upper Canada Gazette, previous to the Sale of the Lands. All persons interested are hereby desired to take Notice, that the following list of Lands, having been so returned to me, will be put up at Public Sale for the payment of the Assessment so in arrear, immediately after the First day of May next.

GEORGE the FOURTH, by the Grace of GOD, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c. &c. &c.

To all whom it may concern—

GREETING:

WHEREAS we have appointed PETER ROBINSON, Esquire, to be our Surveyor General of our Woods, in our Province of Upper Canada, with full power to do, perform, and execute, all such acts, matters, and things, as may be necessary in the due execution of the said Office; and with authority to grant Licences for cutting Timber in our said Woods and Forests, in our said Province; requiring him to follow such orders and directions as he shall from time to time receive, relating to the execution of the said Office, from our Commissioners of our Treasury for the time being, or from one of our Principal Secretaries of State, or from our Governor, or Officer Administering, for the time being, the Government of our said Province of Upper Canada.

AND WE DO hereby will and require all our Justices of the Peace, Constables, and all other Civil Officers within our said Province of Upper Canada, to be aiding and assisting to the said PETER ROBINSON, his Deputy or Deputies, in the due execution of his and their duty in the matters aforesaid, as they will answer to the contrary.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused these our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of our said Province to be hereunto affixed —WITNESS our trusty and well beloved SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of our said Province, and Major General Commanding our Forces therein, at York, this Twenty-first day of February, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty-eight, and in the Ninth year of our Reign. P. M.

By His Excellency's Command.
JOHN B. ROBINSON, Attorney General.
D. CAMERON, Secretary.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves, under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.
York, 1st February, 1828. 5tf.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 13th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

NOTICE.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in Third Session of the Second Provincial Parliament, the 5th July, 1797, authorising the Survey, and to establish upon some permanent principle the Boundary Line of the different Townships within this Province. And whereas by the Seventh Clause of the said Act the Treasurer is required to give Notice of such Lots as are returned to him by the Collectors as the property of Absentees and unpaid, for Six Months in the Upper Canada Gazette, previous to the Sale of the Lands. All persons interested are hereby desired to take Notice, that the following list of Lands, having been so returned to me, will be put up at Public Sale for the payment of the Assessment so in arrear, immediately after the First day of May next.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused these our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of our said Province to be hereunto affixed —WITNESS our trusty and well beloved SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND, K. P. M.

By His Excellency's Command.
JOHN B. ROBINSON, Attorney General.
D. CAMERON, Secretary.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to [illegible] with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 18th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.
York, 1st February, 1828. 37tf.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 18th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

NOTICE.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in Third Session of the Second Provincial Parliament, the 5th July, 1797, authorising the Survey, and to establish upon some permanent principle the Boundary Line of the different Townships within this Province. And whereas by the Seventh Clause of the said Act the Treasurer is required to give Notice of such Lots as are returned to him by the Collectors as the property of Absentees and unpaid, for Six Months in the Upper Canada Gazette, previous to the Sale of the Lands. All persons interested are hereby desired to take Notice, that the following list of Lands, having been so returned to me, will be put up at Public Sale for the payment of the Assessment so in arrear, immediately after the First day of May next.

GEORGE the FOURTH, by the Grace of GOD, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c. &c. &c.

To all whom it may concern—

GREETING:

WHEREAS we have appointed PETER ROBINSON, Esquire, to be our Surveyor General of our Woods, in our Province of Upper Canada, with full power to do, perform, and execute, all such acts, matters, and things, as may be necessary in the due execution of the said Office; and with authority to grant Licences for cutting Timber in our said Woods and Forests, in our said Province; requiring him to follow such orders and directions as he shall from time to time receive, relating to the execution of the said Office, from our Commissioners of our Treasury for the time being, or from one of our Principal Secretaries of State, or from our Governor, or Officer Administering, for the time being, the Government of our said Province of Upper Canada.

AND WE DO hereby will and require all our Justices of the Peace, Constables, and all other Civil Officers within our said Province of Upper Canada, to be aiding and assisting to the said PETER ROBINSON, his Deputy or Deputies, in the due execution of his and their duty in the matters aforesaid, as they will answer to the contrary.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused these our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of our said Province to be hereunto affixed —WITNESS our trusty and well beloved SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of our said Province, and Major General Commanding our Forces therein, at York, this Twenty-first day of February, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty-eight, and in the Ninth year of our Reign. P. M.

By His Excellency's Command.
JOHN B. ROBINSON, Attorney General.
D. CAMERON, Secretary.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 18th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the new Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.
York, 1st February, 1828. 57tf.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 18th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

NOTICE.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in Third Session of the Second Provincial Parliament, the 5th July, 1797, authorising the Survey, and to establish upon some permanent principle the Boundary Line of the different Townships within this Province. And whereas by the Seventh Clause of the said Act the Treasurer is required to give Notice of such Lots as are returned to him by the Collectors as the property of Absentees and unpaid, for Six Months in the Upper Canada Gazette, previous to the Sale of the Lands. All persons interested are hereby desired to take Notice, that the following list of Lands, having been so returned to me, will be put up at Public Sale for the payment of the Assessment so in arrear, immediately after the First day of May next.

W. B. JARVIS, Sheriff.

Sheriff's Office, York, }
12th March, 1829. } 41

His MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819, or to shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council prefer to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.

York, 1st February, 1829. 3tif.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 18th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

NOTICE.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in Third Session of the Second Provincial Parliament, the 5th July, 1797, authorising the Survey, and to establish upon some permanent principle the Boundary Line of the different Townships within this Province. And whereas by the Seventh Clause of the said Act the Treasurer is required to give Notice of such Lots as are returned to him by the Collectors as the property of Absentees and unpaid, for Six Months in the Upper Canada Gazette, previous to the Sale of the Lands. All persons interested are hereby desired to take Notice, that the following list of Lands, having been so returned to me, will be put up at Public Sale for the payment of the Assessment so in arrear, immediately after the First day of May next.

UPPER CANADA.

P. Maitland,
Lieut. Governor.

GEORGE the FOURTH by the Grace of GOD, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith &c. &c.

To all whom it may concern—

¡GREETING:

WHEREAS we have nominated, constituted and appointed Peter Robinson, Esq. to be our Commissioner for the sale and management of Crown Lands in the Province of Upper Canada, giving the granting unto the said Peter Robinson, full Power and Authority to do, perform, and execute all such matters and things as may be necessary in due execution of the said Office, and requiring and commanding him to examine and Report upon the state and condition of our Reserves and waste Lands in our said Province of Upper Canada, which we have thought fit to place under his care and Superintendance, and to follow such orders and instructions as he may receive from the Commissioners of our Treasury or our High Treasurer for the time being, or from any one of our Principal Secretary's of State, or the Governor or Officer administering the Government of the said Province of Upper Canada.

NOW THEREFORE KNOW YE, that no orders will from henceforth be made by our Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or Person admistering the Government of our said Province for Granting or Leasing o any of our Lands in the said Province of Upper Canada except with respect to such privileged persons as are entitled to receive from us free Grants of Lands in the said Province, and that all and every the regulations heretofore made and promulgated within our said Province respecting the Leasing and Granting our Lands therein, except in the cases aforesaid, shall from henceforth cease and be of no effect: Which matters we have caused to be promulgated that all persons having knowledge thereof may govern themselves accordingly, and may apply, if need be, to our said Commissioner for further information of our pleasure in the premises.

And whereas also under the authority of an Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland passed in the eigh. year of our Reign, entitled "An Act to authorise the sale of part of the Clergy Reserves, in the Provinces of Upper & Lower Canada" we have appointed the said Peter Robinson, Esq. to be our Commissioner for the sale of such portions of the Clergy Reserves within our Province of Upper Canada as we shall direct to be sold in conformity to the said Act.

NOW THEREFORE KNOW YE, that all persons desirous of purchasing any of the Lots in our said Province called Clergy Reserves for the purpose of actual Settlement and actual Cultivation, may apply to our said Commissioner, who has full authority to enter into Contracts or sale, with such limitations and according to such instructions as he shall from time to time receive from us or from our Governor, Lieutenant Governor or Person administering the Government of our said Province, with the advice of our Executive Council for the affairs thereof.

In testimony whereof, We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of Our said Province to be hereunto affixed—Witness, Our trusty and well beloved, SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND, K. C. B. Lieutenant Governor of Our said Province, and Major General Commanding Our Forces therein, at York, this Twenty-first day of February, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty-Eight, and in the Ninth Year of our Reign.

P. M.

By His Excellency's Command.
J. B. Robinson,
Attorney General.
D. Cameron,
Secretary.

His Majesty having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 15th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.
York, 1st February, 1828. 87*tf.*

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 13th April, 1819, above referred to—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

By Authority.

York, U. C. Friday, March 20, 1829.

At half-past five o'clock this day, HIS EXCELLENCY the LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR being seated on the Throne in the Legislative Council Chamber, and the House of Assembly being present, HIS EXCELLENCY was pleased to Prorogue the present Session with the following

SPEECH:

Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council, and
Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

I cannot close this Session without expressing my regret, that the People will derive no immediate advantage from your deliberations on two subjects of primary importance—improvement of Public Schools, and the measures that should be adopted to ensure good Roads and safe Bridges throughout the Province.

In allowing your Roads to remain in their present state, the great stimulus to Agricultural industry is lost.

Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

I thank you for your offer of making a provision for the support of the Civil Government, which I should have gladly accepted in His Majesty's name, had not the Revenue arising from the Statute of the 14th of George the 3rd, Chapter 88, the appropriation of which, for the public service is under the control of the Crown, appeared quite sufficient to defray the expenses of the current year. An intimation to this effect, was conveyed to you in my reply to one of your Addresses early in the present month.

Honorable Gentlemen, and Gentlemen,

In legislating for the general and local interests of the Province, due time should be afforded to each Branch of the Legislature for the consideration of Bills that may be forwarded for assent

In consequence of the number of Bills, Addresses, and Resolutions that have been transmitted to me a few hours since, it becomes necessary to remind you that, serious embarrassment may be experienced from the business of the Province being thus suffered to accumulate towards the conclusion of the Session; and I am persuaded that you will coincide with me in thinking that, this inconvenience should in future be remedied.

And it shall be lawful for any person or persons having paid toll thereon, to prosecute the Corporation in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench of this Province, and upon the finding of a Jury, that the said Road, or any part thereof, is not in proper repair, the said Corporation may and shall be obliged to have the same amended and repaired in a proper manner, within the space to be limited by the Court, who shall adjudge full costs and expences of suit to the Prosecutor or Prosecutors, against such Corporation, who shall pay the same at their own private cost—but if such Prosecution shall upon trial, be found to be vexatious and groundless, the Prosecutor or Prosecutors shall be liable to costs to be taxed.

XIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said Corporation be, and they are hereby enabled, to purchase, receive, and hold lands sufficient for the accommodation of their respective toll gatherers, and the same to transfer in such manner as by their Laws they may direct.

XIV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That there shall be a meeting of the said Incorporation, holden at some convenient place in the Village of Dundas, or Township of Dumfries, or Waterloo, as the majority of the Petitioners and Subscribers shall agree, within the space of three calendar months from the day of the commencement of this Act, as hereinafter directed, of which one months notice shall be given, in four or more of the most public places in the District, for the choosing of a Clerk and such other Officers, as may be deemed necessary by the said Corporation, and they may at that or any future meeting, make, repeal, and alter such bye Laws, Rules and Regulations, not repugnant to Law, as they may deem necessary for carrying into effect this Act, and to regulate the interests of said Corporation.

XV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That when any Stockholder shall neglect or refuse to pay any instalment duly required by the said Corporation in the manner by their bye Laws directed, to the Treasurer, for the space of ninety days after the time for the payment thereof, the Treasurer is hereby authorized, to sell at Public Auction, the share or shares of such delinquent, under such regulations as the said Corporation by their bye Laws may direct, and the purchaser on producing a certificate of such sale from the Treasurer to the Clerk of the said Corporation, in the name of such purchaser, with the number of the share or shares so sold, and the same being recorded by the Clerk at the expense of such purchaser, the said purchaser shall thereupon be deemed to all intents and purposes the proprietor thereof.

XVII. Provided always, and be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That nothing in this Act contained, shall be construed to extend to deprive the public or any individual of the opening any front or bye Road according to the Laws of the Province, across the said Turnpike Road to be made by virtue of this Act—nor to deprive the public or any individual of making any other Roads conformable to the Laws of this Province.

XVIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said Toll Houses and conveniences, and the said Tolls, shall be and the same are hereby vested in the said Corporation forever.—Provided always, that after the completion of Turnpiking, and establishing the said Road as fit and proper for travelling, agreeable to this Act, it shall and may be lawful for His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, in any Act of the Legislature of this Province, assented to by His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, to assume the possession and property of the said Road, Bridges, Toll Houses, Turnpikes and conveniences, and dissolve the said Corporation, upon paying to the said Corporation the full and entire value which the same may at the time of such assumption be worth, and six per cent over and above the valuation; and thereupon the said Tolls shall from the time of such assumption, appertain and belong to His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, and the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government, shall account from time to time to the Legislature of this Province, for all Tolls and duties arising therefrom.

XIX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That to entitle the said Corporation to the benefits and advantages of this Act, granted to the said Corporation, they shall, and are hereby required within the period of three years from the passing of this Act, to Turnpike sixteen miles of the said Swamp Road, from the East-line of Beverly to Andrew Groff's, near or at the line of Waterloo—and such part or parts of said Road, hereinbefore mentioned, West of Andrew Groff's, as shall not have been Turnpiked, within the space of five years after the passing of this Act, shall be considered to have been forfeited by the said Company, and the said Corporation shall cease to have any right, title, or claim, to the said forfeited part of the said Road.

XX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the penalties hereby inflicted (where otherwise not particularly directed by this Act,) shall on proof of the offences respectively before any two or more of the Justices of the Peace for the District of Gore, either by confession of the offender or by the oath of one or more credible witness or witnesses, (other than the prosecutor,) which oath such Justices are hereby empowered and required to administer, be levied together with the costs of prosecution, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such offender, by warrant, signed by such Justices, and the overplus after such penalties and the costs of such prosecution and charges of such distress and sale are deducted, shall be delivered on demand to the owner of such goods and chattels, and for want of such sufficient distress the offender shall be sent by such Justices to the Gaol of the District, for any time not exceeding one month, nor less than four days, as such Justices shall think most proper. One moiety of which penalties respectively when paid and levied, shall belong to the person suing for the same; and the other moiety to His Majesty, to be paid into the hands of the Receiver General of this Province, and the same shall be accounted for to His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, through the Lords Commissioners of His Treasury, in such manner and form as His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors shall be pleased to direct, and at the disposal of the Legislature of this Province.

XXI. And whereas, in undertakings of great expense, when the returns are uncertain, it is reasonable and proper to encourage the prosecution of the same, by securing to the persons concerned therein, their Successors and Assigns, the possibility of a considerable eventual benefit.—Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the clear profits to be received from the said Turnpike Road, shall not, from and after seven years from the time the Act shall have operation, exceed twelve pounds per centum, per annum, upon the capital stock as hereinbefore mentioned, unless it shall be found at the said period of seven years, that the said Corporation or Society, Successors or Assigns, have not divided a clear profit of twelve pounds per centum, per annum, on the said capital stock, in which case the Tolls shall be continued and be collected, by and for the use of the said Corporation or Society, their Successors and Assigns, at the rates allowed by this Act, until such clear profit shall be divided as above said, and from and after the said term of seven years from the time this Act shall have operation, but after the time that the said rates of profits shall have been made up, if more than such rates of profits shall have been so divided upon the said capital, then the aforesaid Tolls shall be reduced in manner following, that is to say:—if on making up and ballancing of the year immediately proceeding such time, (comprehending therein all receipts of Tolls and all disbursements for repairs and expences of management,) it shall appear that the balance or clear profits of the said Road within such year, shall have exceeded the said rate of twelve pounds per centum, on the said capital, then and in such case, the Tolls to be taken during the course of one entire year, after the first day of January then next following, shall be lower than the respective Toll heretofore established, in the proportion of one twelfth part as nearly as may be to avoid fractional parts of a halfpenny, for every twenty shillings per centum, which such clear profits shall have exceeded the rate thereof by this Act allowed to be divided; and from time to time thereafter the Corporation shall in their January term, fix and ascertain by the same rate and standard, an augmentation or reduction of such Tolls to be taken during the course of one entire year, after the first day of February following, in proportion as the Tolls during the course of twelve months immediately proceeding shall appear by the accounts of such twelve months so made up and ballanced, to have exceeded or fallen short of the said clear profit of twelve pounds per centum—but in no case shall the tolls so augmented exceed the rates of Toll authorised to be taken by this Act—and the said Corporation or Society, their Successors and Assigns, shall not demand or take, or be entitled to receive after the time aforesaid, any greater or higher rates of Toll than in the said reduced or augmented proportions is fixed by the Corporation aforesaid, any thing in this Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

XXII. And in order to ascertain from time to time the clear profits arrising from the said Road.—Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That so soon as the road shall be made and completed, a true and exact account shall be made out of all monies which shall have been expended in making and completing said road; as also the Toll Houses and Turnpike Gates and land thereunto belonging; and of all expenses of management which to that time shall have been incurred on account of the same, and in which account shall be charged interest on such monies respectively from the time of payment thereof to the time of so making up the account, at the rate of six per centum per annum—which accounts so made out shall be dated and there certified by at least three of the proprietors, who shall have been appointed by the Corporation to direct or superintend the making of the Road; and also by their Clerk, who respectively shall make oath before one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the District of Gore, that such an account is faithfully extracted from the Books of the Corporation, and to the best of their belief is just and true, which oath the said Justice, as well as in the cases aforementioned, is hereby authorized and required to administer to each of them—and such accounts when so made out, certified and sworn to, shall respectively be deposited and recorded amongst the Records of the Quarter Sessions for the District of Gore, and the amount thereof shall be considered as the capital stock of the said Corporation, and on which, the profits allowed to the same, are to be estimated as hereinbefore mentioned; and there shall afterwards at the end of every year after the completion of the said Road, be made out, a true and exact account of the monies expended in repairing the same, and the Toll Houses and Gates with the charges of management; and also, a true and exact account of all the monies collected or received from the said Tolls by virtue of this Act, which annual account, shall be dated, certified sworn to, and deposited as above—and if such account shall not be made out, dated, certified, sworn to, and deposited as above said, the said Corporation shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred pounds, for every month the same shall be refused or neglected, after being thereunto required by any of His Majesty's subjects, to be recovered by action of debt in any Court competent to decide thereon, and paid to the person who shall sue for the same—and if any person sworn as aforesaid, shall wilfully or corruptly swear falsely, every such person being thereof duly convicted, shall suffer the punishment inflicted by Law for perjury.

XXIII. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no suit or action shall be commenced or brought against any person offending against this Act, unless to the same shall be commenced or brought within three Calendar months next after offence committed, and not afterwards.

XXIV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That this Act shall be deemed a public Act, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such by all Judges, Justices, and other persons, whomsoever, without being specially pleaded.

[Passed 20th March, 1829.]

WHEREAS the Inhabitants of the Village of Dundas and of the Township of Waterloo, Woolwich and Dumfries, and those who reside in the Country thereto adjacent within the District of Gore, will be much benefitted by the improvement and further opening of the public road now leading fom the village of Dundas, in Flamborough West, through the Township of Beverly and Dumfries, commonly called the Swamp Road, by which a safe and easy communication with the Head Waters of the Desjardins Canal, leading into Burlington Bay, may be had for carrying the produce of the said Townships and the neighbouring Country to a market:—And whereas, Absalom Shade, Abraham Erb, and others, of the Townships of Waterloo, Dumfries and Beverly, have petitioned to be incorporated for the purpose of making, completing, and maintaining the said road as a Turnpike road:—And whereas the purposes aforesaid cannot be effected without the aid of the Legislature.—Be it therefore enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and assembled by virtue of and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, entitled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, entitled, 'An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of he Province of Quebec in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province," and by the authority of the same, That the said Absalom Shade, Abraham Erb, and such other persons as may be admitted as their associates in the aforesaid undertaking, their Heirs, Executors, Administrators and Assigns, be and they are hereby constituted a Corporation by the name of the Dundas and Waterloo Turnpike Company, with a Capital of Twenty five Thousand Pounds, and shall by that name sue and be sued, and have a common Seal, and shall enjoy all the privileges and powers incident to a Corporation for the sole purpose of improving, opening, making and keeping in repair, a Turnpike road from the extremity of the village of Dundas to the Western extremity of Waterloo, following the present established and travelled road through what is commonly called the Swamp Road.

II. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That so soon as the said road shall be Turnpiked, made fit and proper for the passage of Travellers, Cattle and Carriages, a regular plan thereof shall be made by a Sworn Surveyor, at the expense of the said Corporation, and by the said Surveyor certified on oath to be correct, and shall be Registered in the office of the Clerk of the Peace for the said District of Gore; and it shall thereupon be lawful for the said Corporation to erect Gates on the said road,—Provided the same be not at a less average distance than Nine Miles apart.—And the said Corporation shall be, and are hereby, entitled to receive at each of such Gates, as Tolls, the following sums for the proper use of the said Corporation, that is to say, for every sixteen miles of Turnpike Road so made as aforesaid, the following fees:

V. And whereas, The present Road passes for a great part through the lands of absentees whereon Pines of great length and magnitude, particularly in the Swamp, exclude the rays of the Sun,—Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid, That it shall be lawful for the said Corporation whenever such may be the case to cause the trees to be felled or slashed, to the distance of one chain on each side of the road.

VI. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons shall, after proceeding upon the said Road with any of the articles liable to toll, turn out of the same into any other Road, or being on any other road, shall enter the said Road beyond a Turnpike Gate, whereby such payment shall be avoided, or shall take off or cause to be taken off, any Horse or other beast of draught from any Carriage liable to toll, at or before the same shall come to any Turnpike Gate erected by virtue of this Act, with an intent to avoid paying any toll or rate hereby imposed, or shall put or leave in any house or place, any Horse or beast of draught, or any Carriage liable to toll, with such intent as aforesaid. VIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no person shall leave any Waggon, Cart, or other Carriage, nor shall lay, or cause to be laid, or left, any matter or thing creating an obstruction of any kind, or nuisance upon the said Road, or the ditches or drains thereof. And every person so offending, shall, for every such offence, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding ten shillings.

IX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons, occupying enclosed Lands near to any Turnpike or Gate which shall be erected in pursuance of this Act, shall knowingly permit or suffer any person or persons to pass through such Lands, or through any Gate passage, or way thereon, with any Carriage, or with any Horse, Mare, Gelding, or other animal liable to the payment of the toll, whereby such payment shall be avoided, every person so offending, and also the persons riding or driving the animal or Carriage whereon such payment is avoided, being thereof convicted, shall, for every such offence, severally forfeit and pay to the Corporation, their Treasurer or Collector, any sum not exceeding ten shillings, Currency.

XI. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if the said Collectors, or Toll-gatherers, or any other person in their employment, shall unreasonably hinder or delay any passenger at either of the gates aforesaid, or shall demand or receive more Toll than is by law allowed, the said Corporation shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding five pounds, current money of this Province, besides the reimbursement of what they shall have taken above the said toll; and the said Corporation shall be liable to pay all damages which may happen to any person, and which may arise from neglect or want of repair, on the same Road, after the same has been made, completed, and certified as aforesaid. And it shall be lawful for any person or persons having paid toll thereon, to prosecute the Corporation in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench of this Province, and upon the finding of a Jury, that the said Road, or any part thereof, is not in proper repair, the said Corporation may and shall be obliged to have the same amended and repaired in a proper manner, within the space to be limited by the Court, who shall adjudge full costs and expences of suit to the Prosecutor or Prosecutors, against such Corporation, who shall pay the same at their own private cost—but if such Prosecution shall upon trial, be found to be vexations and groundless, the Prosecutor or Prosecutors shall be liable to costs to be taxed.

XIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said Corporation be, and they are hereby enabled, to purchase, receive, and hold lands sufficient for the accommodation of their respective toll gatherers, and the same to transfer in such manner as by their Laws they may direct.

XIV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That there shall be a meeting of the said Incorporation, holden at some convenient place in the Village of Dundas, or Township of Dumfries, or Waterloo, as the majority of the Petitioners and Subscribers shall agree, within the space of three calendar months from the day of the commencement of this Act, as hereinafter directed, of which one months notice shall be given, in four or more of the most public places in the District, for the choosing of a Clerk and such other Officers, as may be deemed necessary by the said Corporation, and they may at that or any future meeting, make, repeal, and alter such bye Laws, Rules and Regulations, not repugnant to Law, as they may deem necessary for carrying into effect this Act, and to regulate the interests of said Corporation.

XV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That when any Stockholder shall neglect or refuse to pay any instalment duly required by the said Corporation in the manner by their bye Laws directed, to the Treasurer, for the space of ninety days after the time for the payment thereof, the Treasurer is hereby authorized, to sell at Public Auction, the share or shares of such delinquent, under such regulations as the said Corporation by their bye Laws may direct, and the purchaser on producing a certificate of such sale from the Treasurer to the Clerk of the said Corporation, in the name of such purchaser, with the number of the share or shares so sold, and the same being recorded by the Clerk at the expense of such purchaser, the said purchaser shall thereupon be deemed to all intents and purposes the proprietor thereof.

XVI. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That it shall and may be lawful, to and for each and every of the members of the said Corporation, for the time being, his and her Executors, Administrators and Assigns, to give, sell, alien, assign, devise, or dispose of his, her, or their respective share or shares, and interest in the said Corporation, to any person or persons; and the said person or persons, and their respective assigns, shall be members of the said Corporation, and shall be entitled to all and every of the rights and privileges thereof, and to the profits and advantages thereupon arising.

XVII. Provided always, and be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That nothing in this Act contained, shall be construed to extend to deprive the public or any individual of the opening any front or bye Road according to the Laws of the Province, across the said Turnpike Road to be made by virtue of this Act—nor to deprive the public or any individual of making any other Roads conformable to the Laws of this Province.

XVIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said Toll Houses and conveniences, and the said Tolls, shall be and the same are hereby vested in the said Corporation forever.—Provided always, that after the completion of Turnpiking and establishing the said Road as fit and proper for travelling, agreeable to this Act, it shall and may be lawful for His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, in any Act of the Legislature of this Province, assented to by His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, to assume the possession and property of the said Road, Bridges, Toll Houses, Turnpikes and conveniences, and dissolve the said Corporation, upon paying to the said Corporation the full and entire value which the same may at the time of such assumption be worth, and six per cent over and above the valuation; and thereupon the said Tolls shall from the time of such assumption, appertain and belong to His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, and the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government, shall account from time to time to the Legislature of this Province, for all Tolls and duties arising therefrom.

XIX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That to entitle the said Corporation to the benefits and advantages of this Act, granted to the said Corporation, they shall, and are hereby required within the period of three years from the passing of this Act, to Turnpike sixteen miles of the said Swamp Road, from the East-line of Beverly to Andrew Groff's, near or at the line of Waterloo—and such part or parts of said Road, hereinbefore mentioned, West of Andrew Groff's, as shall not have been Turnpiked, within the space of five years after the passing of this Act, shall be considered to have been forfeited by the said Company, and the said Corporation shall cease to have any right, title, or claim, to the said forfeited part of the said Road.

XX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the penalties hereby inflicted (where otherwise not particularly directed by this Act,) shall on proof of the offences respectively before any two or more of the Justices of the Peace for the District of Gore, either by confession of the offender or by the oath of one or more credible witness or witnesses, (other than the prosecutor,) which oath such Justices are hereby empowered and required to administer, be levied together with the costs of prosecution, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such offender, by warrant, signed by such Justices, and the overplus after such penalties and the costs of such prosecution and charges of such distress and sale are deducted, shall be delivered on demand to the owner of such goods and chattels, and for want of such sufficient distress the offender shall be sent by such Justices to the Gaol of the District, for any time not exceeding one month, nor less than four days, as such Justices shall think most proper. One moiety of which penalties respectively when paid and levied, shall belong to the person suing for the same; and the other moiety to His Majesty, to be paid into the hands of the Receiver General of this Province, and the same shall be accounted for to His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, through the Lords Commissioners of His Treasury, in such manner and form as His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors shall be pleased to direct, and at the disposal of the Legislature of this Province.

XXI. And whereas, in undertakings of great expense, when the returns are uncertain, it is reasonable and proper to encourage the prosecution of the same, by securing to the persons concerned therein, their Successors and Assigns, the possibility of a considerable eventual benefit.—Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the clear profits to be received from the said Turnpike Road, shall not, from and after seven years from the time the Act shall have operation, exceed twelve pounds per centum, per annum, upon the capital stock as hereinbefore mentioned, unless it shall be found at the said period of seven years, that the said Corporation or Society, Successors or Assigns, have not divided a clear profit of twelve pounds per centum, per annum, on the said capital stock, in which case the Tolls shall be continued and be collected, by and for the use of the said Corporation or Society, their Successors and Assigns, at the rates allowed by this Act, until such clear profit shall be divided as above said, and from and after the said term of seven years from the time this Act shall have operation, but after the time that the said rates of profits shall have been made up, if more than such rates of profits shall have been so divided upon the said capital, then the aforesaid Tolls shall be reduced in manner following, that is to say:—if on making up and ballancing of the year immediately proceeding such time, (comprehending therein all receipts of Tolls and all disbursements for repairs and expences of management,) it shall appear that the balance or clear profits of the said Road within such year, shall have exceeded the said rate of twelve pounds per centum, on the said capital, then and in such case, the Tolls to be taken during the course of one entire year, after the first day of January then next following, shall be lower than the respective Toll heretofore established, in the proportion of one twelfth part as nearly as may be to avoid fractional parts of a halfpenny, for every twenty shillings per centum, which such clear profits shall have exceeded the rate thereof by this Act allowed to be divided; and from time to time thereafter the Corporation shall in their January term, fix and ascertain by the same rate and standard, an augmentation or reduction of such Tolls to be taken during the course of one entire year, after the first day of February following, in proportion as the Tolls during the course of twelve months immediately proceeding shall appear by the accounts of such twelve months so made up and ballanced, to have exceeded or fallen short of the said clear profit of twelve pounds per centum—but in no case shall the tolls so augmented exceed the rates of Toll authorised to be taken by this Act—and the said Corporation or Society, their Successors and Assigns, shall not demand or take, or be entitled to receive after the time aforesaid, any greater or higher rates of Toll than in the said reduced or augmented proportions is fixed by the Corporation aforesaid, any thing in this Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

XXII. And in order to ascertain from time to time the clear profits arrising from the said Road.—Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That so soon as the road shall be made and completed, a true and exact account shall be made out of all monies which shall have been expended in making and completing said road; as also the Toll Houses and Turnpike Gates and land thereunto belonging; and of all expenses of management which to that time shall have been incurred on account of the same, and in which account shall be charged interest on such monies respectively, from the time of payment thereof to the time of so making up the account, at the rate of six per centum per annum—which accounts so made out shall be dated and there certified by at least three of the proprietors, who shall have been appointed by the Corporation to direct or superintend the making of the Road; and also by their Clerk, who respectively shall make oath before one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the District of Gore, that such an account is faithfully extracted from the Books of the Corporation, and to the best of their belief is just and true, which oath the said Justice, as well as in the cases aftermentioned, is hereby authorized and required to administer to each of them—and such accounts when so made out, certified and sworn to, shall respectively be deposited and recorded amongst the Records of the Quarter Sessions for the District of Gore, and the amount thereof shall be considered as the capital stock of the said Corporation, and on which, the profits allowed to the same, are to be estimated as hereinbefore mentioned; and there shall afterwards at the end of every year after the completion of the said Road, be made out, a true and exact account of the monies expended in repairing the same, and the Toll Houses and Gates with the charges of management; and also, a true and exact account of all the monies collected or received from the said Tolls by virtue of this Act, which annual account, shall be dated, certified sworn to, and deposited as above—and if such account shall not be made out, dated, certified, sworn to, and deposited as above said, the said Corporation shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred pounds, for every month the same shall be refused or neglected, after being thereunto required by any of His Majesty's subjects, to be recovered by action of debt in any Court competent to decide thereon, and paid to the person who shall sue for the same—and if any person sworn as aforesaid, shall wilfully or corruptly swear falsely, every such person being thereof duly convicted, shall suffer the punishment inflicted by Law for perjury.

XXIII. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no suit or action shall be commenced or brought against any person offending against this Act, unless to the same shall be commenced or brought within three Calendar months next after offence committed, and not afterwards.

XXIV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That this Act shall be deemed a public Act, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such by all Judges, Justices, and other persons, whomsoever, without being specially pleaded.

W. CHEWETT,

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the person chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 13th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

And the said Corporation at all such places where the said Tolls shall be collected shall affix, or cause to be affixed, in some conspicuous place at or near each Toll Gate a Table of the Rates of Toll, plainly and legibly printed.

IV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the whole of the said road shall be thirty feet wide; and the same in each side to be of sufficient depth to draw off the water; and no hill to be of a greater ascent than Sixteen Inches to the Rod; and any or all bridges so to be erected shall be made fit and proper for the passage of travellers, horses, cattle and carriages, and so wide as to permit teams and carriages freely and conveniently to pass each other over and above the room necessary on each side for foot passengers.

V. And whereas, The present Road passes for a great part through the lands of absentees whereon Pines of great length and magnitude, particularly in the Swamp, exclude the rays of the Sun,—Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid, That it shall be lawful for the said Corporation whenever such may be the case to cause the trees to be felled or slashed, to the distance of one chain on each side of the road.

VI. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons shall, after proceeding upon the said Road with any of the Articles liable to toll, turn out of the same into any other Road, or being on any other road, shall enter the said Road beyond a Turnpike Gate, whereby such payment shall be avoided, or shall take off or cause to be taken off, any Horse or other beast of draught from any Carriage liable to toll, at or before the same shall come to any Turnpike Gate erected by virtue of this Act, with an intent to avoid paying any toll or rate hereby imposed, or shall put or leave in any house or place, any Horse or beast of draught, or any Carriage liable to toll, with such intent as aforesaid. Every person so offending shall, for every such offence, forfeit and pay to the said Corporation, or to their Treasurer or Collector, a sum not exceeding ten shillings, Currency:—Provided always, That any person or persons in any of the cases aforesaid, who shall proceed no further upon the Road than the extent of three miles, shall not be adjudged liable to toll unless he, she, or they shall pass a Turnpike Gate.

VII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the Corporation, at a General Meeting assembled, may make Tickets or Checks, under such regulations as they may see fit, for prevention of fraud, or abuses, in the said tolls, or rates, or compositions, as hereinbefore mentioned; and the Collector, and every person receiving such a Ticket or Check, who shall give, lend, or dispose of the same to any person, or for any purpose not authorised by the Corporation in their said regulations; and every person who shall wrongfully and knowingly receive, borrow, purchase, or use the same; and every person who by any false pretext shall obtain an exemption from any toll to which he or she is liable, being thereof convicted, shall for each offence, respectively, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding twenty shillings, Currency.

VIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no person shall leave any Waggon, Cart, or other Carriage, nor shall lay, or cause to be laid, or left, any matter or thing creating an obstruction of any kind, or nuisance upon the said Road, or the ditches or drains thereof. And every person so offending, shall, for every such offence, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding ten shillings.

IX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons, occupying enclosed Lands near to any Turnpike or Gate which shall be erected in pursuance of this Act, shall knowingly permit or suffer any person or persons to pass through such Lands, or through any Gate passage, or way thereon, with any Carriage, or with any Horse, Mare, Gelding, or other animal liable to the payment of the toll, whereby such payment shall be avoided, every person so offending, and also the persons riding or driving the animal or Carriage whereon such payment is avoided, being thereof convicted, shall, for every such offence, severally forfeit and pay to the Corporation, their Treasurer or Collector, any sum not exceeding ten shillings, Currency.

X. Provided always, and be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no person, with his Horse or Carriage, going to or returning from Public Worship, nor if attending or returning from the funeral of any person who shall die within the same Township, nor if going from one part to another part of the same Farm occupied by the same person, be chargeable with any rate or toll whatever.

XI. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if the said Collectors, or Toll-gatherers, or any other person in their employment, shall unreasonably hinder or delay any passenger at either of the gates aforesaid, or shall demand or receive more Toll than is by law allowed, the said Corporation shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding five pounds, current money of this Province, besides the reimbursement of what they shall have taken above the said toll; and the said Corporation shall be liable to pay all damages which may happen to any person, and which may arise from neglect or want of repair, on the same Road, after the same has been made, completed, and certified as aforesaid. And it shall be lawful for any person or persons having paid toll thereon, to prosecute the Corporation in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench of this Province, and upon the finding of a Jury, that the said Road, or any part thereof, is not in proper repair, the said Corporation may and shall be obliged to have the same amended and repaired in a proper manner, within the space to be limited by the Court, who shall adjudge full costs and expences of suit to the Prosecutor or Prosecutors, against such Corporation, who shall pay the same at their own private cost—but if such Prosecution shall upon trial, be found to be vexatious and groundless, the Prosecutor or Prosecutors shall be liable to costs to be taxed.

XII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any person or persons shall cut, break down, or otherwise destroy any of the Turnpike Gates, or any Toll-house to be erected by virtue of this Act, every person so offending, and being lawfully convicted, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by fine and imprisonment, and if any person or persons shall remove any earth, stone, or timber on the said road to the damage of the same, or shall forcibly pass or attempt to pass by force any of the said Gates, without first having paid the legal Toll at such Gate, such person or persons shall pay all damages sustained by the said Corporation, and shall forfeit and pay a fine not exceeding two pounds, nor less than ten shillings Currency, to be recovered before two Magistrates holding a Court of Requests within the District of Gore.

XIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said Corporation be, and they are hereby enabled, to purchase, receive, and hold lands sufficient for the accommodation of their respective toll gatherers, and the same to transfer in such manner as by their Laws they may direct.

XIV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That there shall be a meeting of the said Incorporation, holden at some convenient place in the Village of Dundas, or Township of Dumfries, or Waterloo, as the majority of the Petitioners and Subscribers shall agree, within the space of three calendar months from the day of the commencement of this Act, as hereinafter directed, of which one months notice shall be given, in four or more of the most public places in the District, for the choosing of a Clerk and such other Officers, as may be deemed necessary by the said Corporation, and they may at this or any future meeting, make, repeal, and alter such bye Laws, Rules and Regulations, not repugnant to Law, as they may deem necessary for carrying into effect this Act, and to regulate the interests of said Corporation.

XV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That when any Stockholder shall neglect or refuse to pay any instalment duly required by the said Corporation in the manner by their bye Laws directed, to the Treasurer, for the space of ninety days after the time for the payment thereof, the Treasurer is hereby authorized, to sell at Public Auction, the share or shares of such delinquent, under such regulations as the said Corporation by their bye Laws may direct, and the purchaser on producing a certificate of such sale from the Treasurer to the Clerk of the said Corporation, in the name of such purchaser, with the number of the share or shares so sold, and the same being recorded by the Clerk at the expense of such purchaser, the said purchaser shall thereupon be deemed to all intents and purposes the proprietor thereof.

XVI. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That it shall and may be lawful, to and for each and every of the members of the said Corporation, for the time being, his and her Executors, Administrators and Assigns, to give, sell, alien, assign, devise, or dispose of his, her, or their respective share or shares, and interest in the said Corporation, to any person or persons; and the said person or persons, and their respective assigns, shall be members of the said Corporation, and shall be entitled to all and every of the rights and privileges thereof, and to the profits and advantages thereupon arising.

XVII. Provided always, and be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That nothing in this Act contained, shall be construed to extend to deprive the public or any individual of the opening any front or bye Road according to the Laws of the Province, across the said Turnpike Road to be made by virtue of this Act—nor to deprive the public or any individual of making any other Roads conformable to the Laws of this Province.

XVIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said Toll Houses and conveniences, and the said Tolls, shall be and the same are hereby vested in the said Corporation forever.—Provided always, that after the completion of Turnpiking, and establishing the said Road as fit and proper for travelling, agreeable to this Act, it shall and may be lawful for His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, in any Act of the Legislature of this Province, assented to by His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, to assume the possession and property of the said Road, Bridges, Toll Houses, Turnpikes and conveniences, and dissolve the said Corporation, upon paying to the said Corporation the full and entire value which the same may at the time of such assumption be worth, and six per cent over and above the valuation; and thereupon the said Tolls shall from the time of such assumption, appertain and belong to His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, and the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government, shall account from time to time to the Legislature of this Province, for all Tolls and duties arising therefrom.

XIX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That to entitle the said Corporation to the benefits and advantages of this Act, granted to the said Corporation, they shall, and are hereby required within the period of three years from the passing of this Act, to Turnpike sixteen miles of the said Swamp Road, from the East-line of Beverly to Andrew Groff's, near or at the line of Waterloo—and such part or parts of said Road, hereinbefore mentioned, West of Andrew Groff's, as shall not have been Turnpiked, within the space of five years after the passing of this Act, shall be considered to have been forfeited by the said Company, and the said Corporation shall cease to have any right, title, or claim, to the said forfeited part of the said Road.

XX. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the penalties hereby inflicted (where otherwise not particularly directed by this Act,) shall on proof of the offences respectively before any two or more of the Justices of the Peace for the District of Gore, either by confession of the offender or by the oath of one or more credible witness or witnesses, (other than the prosecutor,) which oath such Justices are hereby empowered and required to administer, be levied together with the costs of prosecution, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such offender, by warrant, signed by such Justices, and the overplus after such penalties and the costs of such prosecution and charges of such distress and sale are deducted, shall be delivered on demand to the owner of such goods and chattels, and for want of such sufficient distress the offender shall be sent by such Justices to the Gaol of the District, for any time not exceeding one month, nor less than four days, as such Justices shall think most proper. One moiety of which penalties respectively when paid and levied, shall belong to the person suing for the same; and the other moiety to His Majesty, to be paid into the hands of the Receiver General of this Province, and the same shall be accounted for to His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, through the Lords Commissioners of His Treasury, in such manner and form as His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors shall be pleased to direct, and at the disposal of the Legislature of this Province.

XXI. And whereas, in undertakings of great expense, when the returns are uncertain, it is reasonable and proper to encourage the prosecution of the same, by securing to the persons concerned therein, their Successors and Assigns, the possibility of a considerable éventual benefit.—Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the clear profits to be received from the said Turnpike Road, shall not, from and after seven years from the time the Act shall have operation, exceed twelve pounds per centum, per annum, upon the capital stock as hereinbefore mentioned, unless it shall be found at the said period of seven years, that the said Corporation or Society, Successors or Assigns, have not divided a clear profit of twelve pounds per centum, per annum, on the said capital stock, in which case the Tolls shall be continued and be collected, by and for the use of the said Corporation or Society, their Successors and Assigns, at the rates allowed by this Act, until such clear profit shall be divided as above said, and from and after the said term of seven years from the time this Act shall have operation, but after the time that the said rates of profits shall have been made up, if more than such rates of profits shall have been so divided upon the said capital, then the aforesaid Tolls shall be reduced in manner following, that is to say:—if on making up and ballancing of the year immediately proceeding such time, (comprehending therein all receipts of Tolls and all disbursements for repairs and expences of management,) it shall appear that the balance or clear profits of the said Road within such year, shall have exceeded the said rate of twelve pounds per centum, on the said capital, then and in such case, the Tolls to be taken during the course of one entire year, after the first day of January then next following, shall be lower than the respective Toll heretofore established, in the proportion of one twelfth part as nearly as may be to avoid fractional parts of a halfpenny, for every twenty shillings per centum, which such clear profits shall have exceeded the rate thereof by this Act allowed to be divided; and from time to time thereafter the Corporation shall in their January term, fix and ascertain by the same rule and standard, an augmentation or reduction of such Tolls to be taken during the course of one entire year, after the first day of February following, in proportion as the Tolls during the course of twelve months immediately proceeding shall appear by the accounts of such twelve months so made up and ballanced, to have exceeded or fallen short of the said clear profit of twelve pounds per centum—but in no case shall the tolls so augmented exceed the rates of Toll authorised to be taken by this Act—and the said Corporation or Society, their Successors and Assigns, shall not demand or take, or be entitled to receive after the time aforesaid, any greater or higher rates of Toll than in the said reduced or augmented proportions is fixed by the Corporation aforesaid, any thing in this Act contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

XXII. And in order to ascertain from time to time the clear profits arising from the said Road.—Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That so soon as the road shall be made and completed, a true and exact account shall be made out of all monies which shall have been expended in making and completing said road; as also the Toll Houses and Turnpike Gates and land thereunto belonging; and of all expenses of management which to that time shall have been incurred on account of the same, and in which account shall be charged interest on such monies respectively, from the time of payment thereof to the time of so making up the account, at the rate of six per centum per annum—which accounts so made out shall be dated and there certified by at least three of the proprietors, who shall have been appointed by the Corporation to direct or superintend the making of the Road; and also by their Clerk, who respectively shall make oath before one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the District of Gore, that such an account is faithfully extracted from the Books of the Corporation, and to the best of their belief is just and true, which oath the said Justice, as well as in the cases aftermentioned, is hereby authorized and required to administer to each of them—and such accounts when so made out, certified and sworn to, shall respectively be deposited and recorded amongst the Records of the Quarter Sessions for the District of Gore, and the amount thereof shall be considered as the capital stock of the said Corporation, and on which, the profits allowed to the same, are to be estimated as hereinbefore mentioned; and there shall afterwards at the end of every year after the completion of the said Road, be made out, a true and exact account of the monies expended in repairing the same, and the Toll Houses and Gates with the charges of management; and also, a true and exact account of all the monies collected or received from the said Tolls by virtue of this Act, which annual account, shall be dated, certified sworn to, and deposited as above—and if such account shall not be made out, dated, certified, sworn to, and deposited as above said, the said Corporation shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred pounds, for every month the same shall be refused or neglected, after being thereunto required by any of His Majesty's subjects, to be recovered by action of debt in any Court competent to decide thereon, and paid to the person who shall sue for the same—and if any person sworn as aforesaid, shall wilfully or corruptly swear falsely, every such person being thereof duly convicted, shall suffer the punishment inflicted by Law for perjury.

XXIII. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That no suit or action shall be commenced or brought against any person offending against this Act, unless to the same shall be commenced or brought within three Calendar months next after offence committed, and not afterwards.

XXIV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That this Act shall be deemed a public Act, and shall be judicially taken notice of as such by all Judges, Justices, and other persons, whomsoever, without being specially pleaded.

RENTS ON CROWN LANDS.

Office of Commissioner,
for Crown Lands.

NOTICE is hereby given, that an arrears of Rent for Crown Reserves, are required to be paid without delay into this office.

P. ROBINSON,
Commissioner of Crown Land.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 18th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.
York, 1st February, 1828. 37tf.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 18th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

CHAP. III.

An Act the better to protect the Mississaga Tribes living on the Indian Reserve of the River Credit, in their exclusive right of Fishing and Hunting therein.

[Passed 20*th March*, 1829.]

WHEREAS heretofore the principal Chiefs and Warriors of the Mississaga Indians, that is to say, Checkalk, Osenega, Acheton, and others of the said Chiefs, for themselves and their people, did sell, make over, and surrender, by several Deeds registered in the Office of the Secretary of the Province, to His Majesty King George the Third, His Heirs and Successors, divers large Tracts of Land lying between the River Etobicoke and the head of the Lake Ontario, reserving to themselves their people and their posterity forever, amongst other portions of the said Tracts, a certain parcel thereof on the River Credit, called in the Indian language the River Mazenahekasepa, with the sole right to the Fisheries therein, which Parcel of Land so reserved is in the Office of the Surveyor General, described as follows, that is to say, commencing in the Southern Boundary of the said Reserve, at a large white Oak squared Post, planted by Mr. Wilmot, Deputy Surveyor, in the year one Thousand eight Hundred and six, standing on the Bank of Lake Ontario, one mile Southwesterly from the said River; thence North sixty-nine Degrees West, sixty-three Chains thirty-one Links, more or less, to where the said Boundary Line forms the first Angle; thence South, sixty-four Degrees West, one hundred and ninety one Chains, more or less, to where the said Boundary Line forms the second Angle; thence North, forty-five degrees West, twenty chains, more or less, to within the distance of fifty chains of the Eastern limit of Dundas Street; thence North, thirty-eight degrees East, parallel to Dundas Street, three hundred chains, more or less, to the intersection of the said Line with the Northern Boundary Line of the said Reserve, produced on a course North sixty-nine degrees West, from a squared white Oak post, planted in the year one thousand eight hundred and six, by the said Deputy Surveyor, piled with stone near the bank of Lake Ontario, one mile from the River Credit at right angles from the general course to the first bend of the said River, which is North, sixty-nine degrees West; thence along the said Northern boundary line on a course South sixty-nine degrees East, one hundred and eighty-five chains more or less, to Lake Ontario, at the last mentioned squared Post; thence along the water's edge of the said Lake to the place of beginning, containing four thousand Acres, more or less.

And whereas the Tribe of the said Mississagas living on the said River Mazenahekasepa, or Credit, have by Petition to His Excellency Sir John Colborne, complained of many unwarrantable disturbances, tresspasses and vexations, practised by divers idle and dissolute Fishermen, and others, upon the said reserved parcel of Land and fishery aforesaid, thereby unjustly diminishing the source of their subsistence, wantonly destroying Fish and Game, and setting evil examples by their rudeness and ill manners towards the said worthy and unoffending people; and it is necessary to prohibit such unwarrantable disturbances, tresspasses, vexations and evil example, in order to preserve to the said Mississaga people the quiet and peaceable enjoyment of their said Land and Fishery, and the rights and privileges thereunto belonging.

Be it therefore enacted, by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council, and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and Assembled by virtue of, and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, entitled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, entitled, "An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of the Province of Quebec in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province," and by the authority of the same, that if after the passing of this Act, any person or persons whatsoever, against the will of the said Missassaga people, or without the consent of three or more of their principal men or Chiefs, shall hunt or fish in any way, mode or manner, whatsoever, for Fish or Game, or Fur of any kind upon the said reserved Parcel of Land and Waters thereof, such person or persons so offending shall be liable to be taken by one of the principal men of the said Indian people, and one of the sworn Constables of the said District, before any one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, convenient to the said reserved Parcel of Land, and being convicted by the Oath of one or more creditable witness or witnesses, before such Justice of the Peace, shall be committed to prison in the next Gaol, there to remain for a space of time not less than one, nor more than three days; and the Fish Flesh, Game and Fur, taken with the offender, shall be deemed to belong to the Indians arresting and taking such offender, and the Boat, Skiff, Canoe, Net, Spears, Light-jacks, traps, springs, or other Craft or implements in the possession of the offender at the time of the offence, or set, placed, laid, moved, or otherwise used by him in Hunting or Fishing on the said reserved Land, and the waters thereof, against the provision of this Law, shall be liable to be seized and taken by the said Indian people, and held and taken to be public property of the said Indian Tribe, disposable at the discretion of their principal men or Chiefs, for the public benefit of the said Tribe.

II. And whereas, It may be necessary to obviate all doubt or ignorance of the extent of the said right of fishing so necessary to the existence and support of the said Indian Tribe living on the said River Mazenahekasepa, or Credit: Be it therefore further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said right to the sole fishery aforesaid, shall be held and taken to extend through the entire stream from Racey's line down its course, to its mouth, and from thence one mile into Lake Ontario, occupying such a space thereon as may be supposed to be included in the segment of a circle, having the middle of the said River at its mouth as the centre, and the distance thence to the Eastern Boundary where it touches the shore as its Radius, whereby to describe the said segment from the East to West Boundaries thereof on the shore as aforesaid.

Provided always, nevertheless, That nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend, to take away or in any wise diminish, the common law, rights and remedies, which the said Indian people may at any time be desirous of availing themselves as other subjects of His Majesty within this Province, in protection of their Lands from trespass, waste, or other damage whatsoever: neither shall anything herein contained extend, or be construed to extend, to prevent or in any wise to obstruct any of His Majesty's Subjects, in travelling, passing and repassing by themselves, their Teams and Carriages, by and along, any Public Highway or Road now or hereafter laid out by lawful authority, in or over any part of the said reserved Land, nor to prevent or in anywise to obstruct any of His Majesty's Subjects with their Vessels, Boats and Rafts, to navigate freely the said River and Waters for the purposes of Trade or other lawful occasion.

III. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That this Act shall continue in force for four years, and from thence to the end of the then next ensuing Session of Parliament, and no longer.

CHAP. IV.

An Act to afford greater facility in procuring testimony upon claims to Lands in this Province, by the Heirs or Devisees of the original nominees of the Crown, or their Assignees.

[Passed 20th March, 1829.]

WHEREAS under the several Acts now in force in this Province to afford relief to those persons who may be entitled to claim lands in this Province as Heirs or Devisees of the original nominee of the Crown, or their Assignees, when no Patent has been issued, it is doubtful whether the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government of this Province, has by the said several Acts, power and authority to appoint more than one person in each and every District of this Province, for taking and receiving evidence touching and relating to any such claim or claims: And whereas, it is necessary to afford greater facility in procuring and receiving such evidence.

Be it therefore enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and assembled by virtue of, and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, intitled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, intitled, "An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of the Province of Quebec, in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province;" and by the authority of the same, that it shall and may be lawful for each and every Commissioner in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in this Province, to take and receive the testimony and evidence of any person or persons relative to such claim or claims to be brought forward under the provisions of the said several Acts, which said testimony and evidence upon oath, the said several Commissioners in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in this Province, is hereby authorized and empowered, to take and receive; and if any person or persons, shall wilfully forswear him, her, or themselves, before any such Commissioner authorized to receive testimony under the provisions of this Act, he, she, or they, shall on conviction thereof, be subject to the pains and penalties of wilful and corrupt perjury.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That for each and every affidavit so to be taken by any Commissioner, empowered by this Act to take the same, it shall and may be lawful for such Commissioner to demand and receive the sum of One Shilling, and no more.

CHAP. V.

An Act to repeal an Act passed in the forty-fourth year of George the Third, entitled: "An Act for the better securing this Province against all seditious attempts or designs to disturb the tranquillity thereof."

[Passed 20th March, 1829.]

WHEREAS in the Forty-fourth year of His late Majesty's Reign, it being thought expedient more effectually to guard the peace of this Colony, an Act was passed, entitled: "An Act for the better securing this Province against all seditious attempts or designs to disturb the tranquillity thereof;" and whereas the ordinary Laws of this Province are sufficient for the protection of the Inhabitants thereof.—Be it therefore enacted, by the King's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and assembled by virtue of, and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, entitled: "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the Fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, entitled: 'An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of Quebec, in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province;'" and by the authority of the same, that the said recited Act be, and the same is hereby repealed.

An Act the better to protect the Mississaga Tribes living on the Indian Reserve of the River Credit, in their exclusive right of Fishing and Hunting therein.

[Passed 20th March, 1829.]

WHEREAS heretofore the principal Chiefs and Warriors of the Mississaga Indians, that is to say, Chockalk, Osenega, Acheton, and others of the said Chiefs, for themselves and their people, did sell, make over, and surrender, by several Deeds registered in the Office of the Secretary of the Province, to His Majesty King George the Third, His Heirs and Successors, divers large Tracts of Land lying between the River Etobicoke and the head of the Lake Ontario, reserving to themselves their people and their posterity forever, amongst other portions of the said Tracts, a certain parcel thereof on the River Credit, called in the Indian language the River Mazenahekasepa, with the sole right to the Fisheries therein, which Parcel of Land so reserved is in the Office of the Surveyor General, described as follows, that is to say, commencing in the Southern Boundary of the said Reserve, at a large white Oak squared Post, planted by Mr. Wilmot, Deputy Surveyor, in the year one Thousand eight Hundred and six, standing on the Bank of Lake Ontario, one mile Southwesterly from the said River; thence North sixty-nine Degrees West, sixty-three Chains thirty-one Links, more or less, to where the said Boundary Line forms the first Angle; thence South, sixty-four Degrees West, one hundred and ninety one Chains, more or less, to where the said Boundary Line forms the second Angle; thence North, forty-five degrees West, twenty chains, more or less, to within the distance of fifty chains of the Eastern limit of Dundas Street; thence North, thirty-eight degrees East, parallel to Dundas Street, three hundred chains, more or less, to the intersection of the said Line with the Northern Boundary Line of the said Reserve, produced on a course North sixty-nine degrees West, from a squared white Oak post, planted in the year one thousand eight hundred and six, by the said Deputy Surveyor, piled with stone near the bank of Lake Ontario, one mile from the River Credit at right angles from the general course to the first bend of the said River, which is North, sixty-nine degrees West; thence along the said Northern boundary line on a course South sixty-nine degrees East, one hundred and eighty-five chains more or less, to Lake Ontario, at the last mentioned squared Post; thence along the water's edge of the said Lake to the place of beginning, containing four thousand Acres, more or less.

And whereas the Tribe of the said Mississagas living on the said River Mazenahekasepa, or Credit, have by Petition to His Excellency Sir John Colborne, complained of many unwarrantable disturbances, trespasses and vexations, practised by divers idle and dissolute Fishermen, and others, upon the said reserved parcel of Land and fishery aforesaid, thereby unjustly diminishing the source of their subsistence, wantonly destroying Fish and Game, and setting evil examples by their rudeness and ill manners towards the said worthy and unoffending people; and it is necessary to prohibit such unwarrantable disturbances, tresspasses, vexations and evil example, in order to preserve to the said Mississaga people the quiet and peaceable enjoyment of their said Land and Fishery, and the rights and privileges thereunto belonging.

Be it therefore enacted, by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council, and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and Assembled by virtue of, and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, entitled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, entitled, "An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of the Province of Quebec in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province," and by the authority of the same, that if after the passing of this Act, any person or persons whatsoever, against the will of the said Mississaga people, or without the consent of three or more of their principal men or Chiefs, shall hunt or fish in any way, mode or manner, whatsoever, for Fish or Game, or Fur of any kind upon the said reserved Parcel of Land and Waters thereof, such person or persons so offending shall be liable to be taken by one of the principal men of the said Indian people, and one of the sworn Constables of the said District, before any one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, convenient to the said reserved Parcel of Land, and being convicted by the Oath of one or more creditable witness or witnesses, before such Justice of the Peace, shall be committed to prison in the next Gaol, there to remain for a space of time not less than one, nor more than three days; and the Fish Flesh, Game and Fur, taken with the offender, shall be deemed to belong to the Indians arresting and taking such offender, and the Boat, Skiff, Canoe, Net, Spears, Light-jacks, traps, springs, or other Craft or implements in the possession of the offender at the time of the offence, or set, placed, laid, moved, or otherwise used by him in Hunting or Fishing on the said reserved Land, and the waters thereof, against the provision of this Law, shall be liable to be seized and taken by the said Indian people, and held and taken to be public property of the said Indian Tribe, disposable at the discretion of their principal men or Chiefs, for the public benefit of the said Tribe.

II. And whereas, It may be necessary to obviate all doubt or ignorance of the extent of the said right of fishing so necessary to the existence and support of the said Indian Tribe living on the said River Mazenahekasepa, or Credit: Be it therefore further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said right to the sole fishery aforesaid, shall be held and taken to extend through the entire stream from Racey's line down its course, to its mouth, and from thence one mile into Lake Ontario, occupying such a space thereon as may be supposed to be included in the segment of a circle, having the middle of the said River at its mouth as the centre, and the distance thence to the Eastern Boundary where it touches the shore as its Radius, whereby to describe the said segment from the East to West Boundaries thereof on the shore as aforesaid.

Provided always, nevertheless, That nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend, to take away or in any wise diminish, the common law, rights and remedies, which the said Indian people may at any time be desirous of availing themselves as other subjects of His Majesty within this Province, in protection of their Lands from trespass, waste, or other damage whatsoever: neither shall anything herein contained extend, or be construed to extend, to prevent or in any wise to obstruct any of His Majesty's Subjects, in travelling, passing and repassing by themselves, their Teams and Carriages, by and along, any Public Highway or Road now or hereafter laid out by lawful authority, in or over any part of the said reserved Land, nor to prevent or in anywise to obstruct any of His Majesty's Subjects with their Vessels, Boats and Rafts, to navigate freely the said River and Waters for the purposes of Trade or other lawful occasion.

III. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That this Act shall continue in force for four years, and from thence to the end of the then next ensuing Session of Parliament, and no longer.

CHAP. IV.

An Act to afford greater facility in procuring testimony upon claims to Lands in this Province, by the Heirs or Devisees of the original nominees of the Crown, or their Assignees.

[Passed 20th March, 1829.]

WHEREAS under the several Acts now in force in this Province to afford relief to those persons who may be entitled to claim lands in this Province as Heirs or Devisees of the original nominee of the Crown, or their Assignees, when no Patent has been issued, it is doubtful whether the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government of this Province, has by the said several Acts, power and authority to appoint more than one person in each and every District of this Province, for taking and receiving evidence touching and relating to any such claim or claims: And whereas, it is necessary to afford greater facility in procuring and receiving such evidence.

Be it therefore enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and assembled by virtue of, and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, intitled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, intitled, "An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of the Province of Quebec, in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province;" and by the authority of the same, that it shall and may be lawful for each and every Commissioner in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in this Province, to take and receive the testimony and evidence of any person or persons relative to such claim or claims to be brought forward under the provisions of the said several Acts, which said testimony and evidence upon oath, the said several Commissioners in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in this Province, is hereby authorized and empowered, to take and receive; and if any person or persons, shall wilfully forswear him, her, or themselves, before any such Commissioner authorized to receive testimony under the provisions of this Act, he, she, or they, shall on conviction thereof, be subject to the pains and penalties of wilful and corrupt perjury.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That for each and every affidavit so to be taken by any Commissioner, empowered by this Act to take the same, it shall and may be lawful for such Commissioner to demand and receive the sum of One Shilling, and no more.

CHAP. V.

An Act to repeal an Act passed in the forty-fourth year of George the Third, entitled: "An Act for the better securing this Province against all seditious attempts or designs to disturb the tranquility thereof."

[Passed 20th March, 1829.]

WHEREAS in the Forty-fourth year of His late Majesty's Reign, it being thought expedient more effectually to guard the peace of this Colony, an Act was passed, entitled: "An Act for the better securing this Province against all seditious attempts or designs to disturb the tranquillity thereof;" and whereas the ordinary Laws of this Province are sufficient for the protection of the Inhabitants thereof.—Be it therefore enacted, by the King's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and assembled by virtue of, and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, entitled: "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the Fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, entitled: 'An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of Quebec, in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province;'" and by the authority of the same, that the said recited Act be, and the same is hereby repealed.

CHAP. III.

An Act the better to protect the Mississaga Tribes living on the Indian Reserve of the River Credit, in their exclusive right of Fishing and Hunting therein.

[Passed 20th March, 1829.]

WHEREAS heretofore the principal Chiefs and Warriors of the Mississaga Indians, that is to say, Checkalk, Osenega, Acheton, and others of the said Chiefs, for themselves and their people, did sell, make over, and surrender, by several Deeds registered in the Office of the Secretary of the Province, to His Majesty King George the Third, His Heirs and Successors, divers large Tracts of Land lying between the River Etobicoke and the head of the Lake Ontario, reserving to themselves their people and their posterity forever, amongst other portions of the said Tracts, a certain parcel thereof on the River Credit, called in the Indian language the River Masenahekasepa, with the sole right to the Fisheries therein, which Parcel of Land so reserved is in the Office of the Surveyor General, described as follows, that is to say, commencing in the Southern Boundary of the said Reserve, at a large white Oak squared Post, planted by Mr. Wilmot, Deputy Surveyor, in the year one Thousand eight Hundred and six, standing on the Bank of Lake Ontario, one mile Southwesterly from the said River; thence North sixty-nine Degrees West, sixty-three Chains thirty-one Links, more or less, to where the said Boundary Line forms the first Angle; thence South, sixty-four Degrees West, one hundred and ninety one Chains, more or less, to where the said Boundary Line forms the second Angle; thence North, forty-five degrees West, twenty chains, more or less, to within the distance of fifty chains of the Eastern limit of Dundas Street; thence North, thirty-eight degrees East, parallel to Dundas Street, three hundred chains, more or less, to the intersection of the said Line with the Northern Boundary Line of the said Reserve, produced on a course North sixty-nine degrees West, from a squared white Oak post, planted in the year one thousand eight hundred and six, by the said Deputy Surveyor, piled with stone near the bank of Lake Ontario, one mile from the River Credit at right angles from the general course to the first bend of the said River, which is North, sixty-nine degrees West; thence along the said Northern boundary line on a course South sixty-nine degrees East, one hundred and eighty-five chains more or less, to Lake Ontario, at the last mentioned squared Post; thence along the water's edge of the said Lake to the place of beginning, containing four thousand Acres, more or less.

And whereas the Tribe of the said Mississagas living on the said River Mazenahekasepa, or Credit, have by Petition to His Excellency Sir John Colborne, complained of many unwarrantable disturbances, tresspasses and vexations, practised by divers idle and dissolute Fishermen, and others, upon the said reserved parcel of Land and fishery aforesaid, thereby unjustly diminishing the source of their subsistence, wantonly destroying Fish and Game, and setting evil examples by their rudeness and ill manners towards the said worthy and unoffending people; and it is necessary to prohibit such unwarrantable disturbances, tresspasses, vexations and evil example, in order to preserve to the said Mississaga people the quiet and peaceable enjoyment of their said Land and Fishery, and the rights and privileges thereunto belonging.

Be it therefore enacted, by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council, and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and Assembled by virtue of, and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, entitled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, entitled, "An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of the Province of Quebec in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province," and by the authority of the same, that if after the passing of this Act, any person or persons whatsoever, against the will of the said Mississaga people, or without the consent of three or more of their principal men or Chiefs, shall hunt or fish in any way, mode or manner, whatsoever, for Fish or Game, or Fur of any kind upon the said reserved Parcel of Land and Waters thereof, such person or persons so offending shall be liable to be taken by one of the principal men of the said Indian people, and one of the sworn Constables of the said District, before any one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, convenient to the said reserved Parcel of Land, and being convicted by the Oath of one or more creditable witness or witnesses, before such Justice of the Peace, shall be committed to prison in the next Gaol, there to remain for a space of time not less than one, nor more than three days; and the Fish Flesh, Game and Fur, taken with the offender, shall be deemed to belong to the Indians arresting and taking such offender, and the Boat, Skiff, Canoe, Net, Spears, Light-jacks, traps, springs, or other Craft or implements in the possession of the offender at the time of the offence, or set, placed, laid, moved, or otherwise used by him in Hunting or Fishing on the said reserved Land, and the waters thereof, against the provision of this Law, shall be liable to be seized and taken by the said Indian people, and held and taken to be public property of the said Indian Tribe, disposable at the discretion of their principal men or Chiefs, for the public benefit of the said Tribe.

II. And whereas, It may be necessary to obviate all doubt or ignorance of the extent of the said right of fishing so necessary to the existence and support of the said Indian Tribe living on the said River Mazenahekasepa, or Credit: Be it therefore further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said right to the sole fishery aforesaid, shall be held and taken to extend through the entire stream from Racey's line down its course, to its mouth, and from thence one mile into Lake Ontario, occupying such a space thereon as may be supposed to be included in the segment of a circle, having the middle of the said River at its mouth as the centre, and the distance thence to the Eastern Boundary where it touches the shore as its Radius, whereby to describe the said segment from the East to West Boundaries thereof on the shore as aforesaid.

Provided always, nevertheless, That nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend, to take away or in any wise diminish, the common law, rights and remedies, which the said Indian people may at any time be desirous of availing themselves as other subjects of His Majesty within this Province, in protection of their Lands from trespass, waste, or other damage whatsoever: neither shall anything herein contained extend, or be construed to extend, to prevent or in any wise to obstruct any of His Majesty's Subjects, in travelling, passing and repassing by themselves, their Teams and Carriages, by and along, any Public Highway or Road now or hereafter laid out by lawful authority, in or over any part of the said reserved Land, nor to prevent or in anywise to obstruct any of His Majesty's Subjects with their Vessels, Boats and Rafts, to navigate freely the said River and Waters for the purposes of Trade or other lawful occasion.

III. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That this Act shall continue in force for four years, and from thence to the end of the then next ensuing Session of Parliament, and no longer.

CHAP. IV.

An Act to afford greater facility in procuring testimony upon claims to Lands in this Province, by the Heirs or Devisees of the original nominees of the Crown, or their Assignees.

[Passed 20th March, 1829.]

WHEREAS under the several Acts now in force in this Province to afford relief to those persons who may be entitled to claim lands in this Province as Heirs or Devisees of the original nominee of the Crown, or their Assignees, when no Patent has been issued, it is doubtful whether the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or person administering the Government of this Province, has by the said several Acts, power and authority to appoint more than one person in each and every District of this Province, for taking and receiving evidence touching and relating to any such claim or claims: And whereas, it is necessary to afford greater facility in procuring and receiving such evidence.

Be it therefore enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and assembled by virtue of, and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, intitled, "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, intitled, "An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of the Province of Quebec, in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province;" and by the authority of the same, that it shall and may be lawful for each and every Commissioner in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in this Province, to take and receive the testimony and evidence of any person or persons relative to such claim or claims to be brought forw under the provisions of the said several Acts, which said testimony and evidence upon oath, the said several Commissioners in His Majesty's Court of King's Bench in this Province, is hereby authorized and empowered, to take and receive; and if any person or persons, shall wilfully forswear him, her, or themselves, before any such Commissioner authorized to receive testimony under the provisions of this Act, he, she, or they, shall on conviction thereof, be subject to the pains and penalties of wilful and corrupt perjury.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That for each and every affidavit so to be taken by any Commissioner, empowered by this Act to take the same, it shall and may be lawful for such Commissioner to demand and receive the sum of One Shilling, and no more.

CHAP. V.

An Act to repeal an Act passed in the forty-fourth year of George the Third, entitled: "An Act for the better securing this Province against all seditious attempts or designs to disturb the tranquillity thereof."

[Passed 20th March, 1829.]

WHEREAS in the Forty-fourth year of His late Majesty's Reign, it being thought expedient more effectually to guard the peace of this Colony, an Act was passed, entitled: "An Act for the better securing this Province against all seditious attempts or designs to disturb the tranquillity thereof:" and whereas the ordinary Laws of this Province are sufficient for the protection of the Inhabitants thereof.—Be it therefore enacted, by the King's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council and Assembly of the Province of Upper Canada, constituted and assembled by virtue of, and under the authority of an Act passed in the Parliament of Great Britain, entitled: "An Act to repeal certain parts of an Act passed in the Fourteenth year of His Majesty's Reign, entitled: 'An Act for making more effectual provision for the Government of Quebec, in North America, and to make further provision for the Government of the said Province;'" and by the authority of the same, that the said recited Act be, and the same is hereby repealed.

Executive Council Office,
York, 4th December, 1828.

NOTICE is hereby given, by ORDER of His EXCELLENCY the LT. GOVERNOR, in COUNCIL, that in future, the First Thursday in every Month will be the regular Council day, instead of the first Wednesday as heretofore.

JOHN SMALL,
Clk. Ex. Coun.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a right to any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

A. A. R.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 15th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 15th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

WM. H. DRAPER,

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819. or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1830, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. WM. H. DRAPER,

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 18th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. WM. H. DRAPER,

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 18th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. Bursar. King's College.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 18th April, 1819, above referred to—

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situations and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1810, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar. King's College.

York, 1st February, 1828. 8tf.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 13th April, 1810, above referred to—

MR. JOHN FORD, respectfully announces to his friends and the public, he has taken this establishment, in connection with the UNITED STATES HOTEL, at Saratoga Springs.

The Adelphi is a house already distinguished as a house of select resort, and has been considerably enlarged this Spring.—Its delightful situation commands a beautiful view of the Bay of New-York—the adjacent shores of Long Island—New Jersey, and the walks of the Battery, in its immediate vicinity.

Passengers in the London, Liverpool and Havre Packets will find the Establishment peculiarly convenient, agreeable, and contiguous to the Steam-Boats proceeding in all directions from the City.

The distinction between this and other Hotels in New-York, is attributable to the circumstance of having a number of Parlours on the European plan, where Gentlemen and Families have the option of enjoying the retirement of a private Table, or partaking the accommodation of a very limited Table D'Hôte.—Conveniencies, combined with strict order and attention in the interior economy of the Establishment, which it is hoped, are calculated to obtain general approbation.

NOTICE.—An application will be made to the Legislature at its next Session, for a Law to alter and correct the marks or numbers on the posts or boundaries, between the Lots in the fifth Concession of the Township of Yonge, in the District of Johnstown. 4

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 19th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government not having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.

York, 1st February, 1828. 37tf.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 12th April, 1819, above referred to:—

MR. JOHN FORD, respectfully announces to his friends and the public, he has taken this establishment, in connection with the UNITED STATES HOTEL, at Saratoga Springs.

Passengers in the London, Liverpool and Havre Packets will find the Establishment peculiarly convenient, agreeable, and contiguous to the Steam-Boats proceeding in all directions from the City.

The distinction between this and other Hotels in New-York, is attributable to the circumstance of having a number of Parlours on the European plan, where Gentlemen and Families have the option of enjoying the retirement of a private Table, or partaking the accommodation of a very limited Table D'Hôte.—Conveniencies, combined with strict order and attention in the interior economy of the Establishment, which it is hoped, are calculated to obtain general approbation.

NOTICE.—An application will be made to the Legislature at its next Session, for a Law to alter and correct the marks or numbers on the posts or boundaries, between the Lots in the fifth Concession of the Township of Yonge, in the District of Johnstown. 4

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim for consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 18th April, 1819, above referred to:—

By order of the Court.

CHA'S. C. SMALL
Clerk of the Crown.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar. King's College.

York, 1st February, 1828. 37*tf.*

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 13th April, 1819, above referred to:—

Passengers in the London, Liverpool and Havre Packets will find the Establishment peculiarly convenient, agreeable, and contiguous to the Steam-Boats proceeding in all directions from the City.

The distinction between this and other Hotels in New-York, is attributable to the circumstance of having a number of Parlours on the European plan, where Gentlemen and Families have the option of enjoying the retirement of a private Table, or partaking the accommodation of a very limited Table D'Hote.—Conveniencies, combined with strict order and attention in the interior economy of the Establishment, which it is hoped, are calculated to obtain general approbation.

Of which all Sheriffs, Coroners, Magistrates, Gaolers, Constables, Bailiffs, and other Peace Officers, are commanded to take notice.

By order of the Court.

CHA'S. C. SMALL
Clerk of the Crown.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot.

JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.

York, 1st February, 1828. 57*tf.*

ADELPHI HOTEL,
10, BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.

MR. JOHN FORD, respectfully announces to his friends and the public, he has taken this establishment, in connection with the UNITED STATES HOTEL, at Saratoga Springs.

The Adelphi is a house already distinguished as a house of select resort, and has been considerably enlarged this Spring.—Its delightful situation commands a beautiful view of the Bay of New-York—the adjacent shores of Long Island—New Jersey, and the walks of the Battery, in its immediate vicinity.

Passengers in the London, Liverpool and Havre Packets will find the Establishment peculiarly convenient, agreeable, and contiguous to the Steam-Boats proceeding in all directions from the City.

The distinction between this and other Hotels in New-York, is attributable to the circumstance of having a number of Parlours on the European plan, where Gentlemen and Families have the option of enjoying the retirement of a private Table, or partaking the accommodation of a very limited Table D'Hote.—Conveniencies, combined with strict order and attention in the interior economy of the Establishment, which it is hoped, are calculated to obtain general approbation.

Sheriff's Office, Cornwall,
1st April, 1829. 52

HIS MAJESTY'S Receiver General gives Notice to the holders of Debentures Nos. 4, 5, and 6, dated 10th July 1822,—and Nos. 7, and 8, dated 16th September 1822, issued under the authority of an Act of the Provincial Legislature, passed in the first Session of the 8th Parliament, Chap. 5. entitled "An Act to authorise the Go- "vernor, Lieutenant Governor, or Per- "son administering the Government of "this Province, to borrow a Sum of Mo "ney upon the Securities therein men- "tioned, to be applied in discharging "the arrearages due to Militia Pension- "ers," to present the same at his Office for payment, agreeable to the terms mentioned in the said Act.

Receiver General's Office,
YORK, 25th March, 1829. 44

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 15th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.
York, 1st February, 1828. 87*tf.*

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 13th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

ADELPHI HOTEL,

10, BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.

MR. JOHN FORD, respectfully announces to his friends and the public, he has taken this establishment, in connection with the United States Hotel, at Saratoga Springs.

The Adelphi is a house already distinguished as a house of select resort, and has been considerably enlarged this Spring.—Its delightful situation commands a beautiful view of the Bay of New-York—the adjacent shores of Long Island—New Jersey, and the walks of the Battery, in its immediate vicinity.

Passengers in the London, Liverpool and Havre Packets will find the Establishment peculiarly convenient, agreeable, and contiguous to the Steam-Boats proceeding in all directions from the City.

The distinction between this and other Hotels in New-York, is attributable to the circumstance of having a number of Parlours on the European plan, where Gentlemen and Families have the option of enjoying the retirement of a private Table, or partaking the accommodation of a very limited Table D'Hôte.—Conveniencies, combined with strict order and attention in the interior economy of the Establishment, which it is hoped, are calculated to obtain general approbation.

S. WASHBURN,

To the Editor of the U. C. Gazette.

Sir,—As the competition for three of the Medals offered by the Natural History Society of Montreal, is open to all inhabitants of the British Provinces, you will confer an infinite favor on an infant Society if you give publicity to its advertisement, as below, thereby extending the notice of its intentions to rouse the dormant talent of the British North American Provinces.

ROBERT ARMOUR, Jr.
Secretary.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Natural History Society of Montreal, anxious to encourage a spirit of research, and to create a taste for scientific pursuits, have resolved upon offering FOUR SILVER MEDALS for Essays on scientific subjects, thereby endeavouring to rouse the dormant talent of the Province, by exciting a praiseworthy emulation

For three of these Medals, the competition will be open to the public generally, and one only will be exclusively confined to the competition of the several classes of Members

The Medals are as follows:—

1. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the QUADRUPEDS of British North America, their generic and specific characters, their modes of life and the uses to which they can be applied.—This Essay to be open to general competition.

2. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the PLANTS indigenous to the Canadas, their generic and specific characters, their habitats, and their uses, medical and economical. This Essay to be open to the competition of the Honorary, Corresponding and Ordinary Members of the Society, resident in the British North American Provinces, only.

3. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of general Literature, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

4. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of Philosophy or Science, other than Natural History, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

The Society being anxious to encourage general talent, imposes no restriction as to the qualification of competitors for the Medals, further than that they shall be resident or usually so, of some one of the British North American Provinces, nor to the language in which the Essays are to be written.

The Essays intended for the competition are to be transmitted to, and received by A. F. Holmes, Esq., M.D. Corresponding Secretary of the Society, on or before the 20th day of February, 1830, accompanied by a sealed note containing the name of the author, and a motto similar to one to be inscribed at the commencement of the Essay. The Essays which do not obtain the prize will, if required, be returned with their accompanying notes unopened to any designated address. The Society also reserves to itself the right of retaining the successful Essays, as well as the power of refusing any of the Medals, should none of the Essays be deemed, in the opinion of the Judges to be appointed worthy of it.

The Committee of Judges to whom the Essays will be referred will be appointed at the Monthly Meeting of the Society in February 1830, and will be composed of Members of the Society and of other individuals residents of Montreal distinguished for their literary and scientific acquirements, and the Society would recommend competitors resident in Montreal, and whose hand-writing might possibly be familiar to the Judges to be appointed, to procure the assistance of some friend to copy the Essay intended for competition, in order that not even the slightest grounds for supposed partiality may exist.

The Medals will be presented to the successful candidates or to their authorised representatives at the Annual Meeting of the Society on the 18th May, 1830.

CHA'S. C. SMALL
Clerk of the Crown.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are proceeding an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 13th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.
York, 1st February, 1823. 87tf.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 13th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

CHURCH MUSIC.

TO be published by subscription, a selection of SACRED MUSIC, arranged in Parts for two, three, and four voices, as sung in the congregations of the United Church of England and Ireland; chiefly designed for the use of the members of that Church in the Province of Upper Canada, and adapted to every measure in the new version of the Psalms; with an Introduction to the art of Singing, and an Appendix containing a great variety of favorite Hymn Tunes, and Anthems,—also in Parts—which are used by various other denominations of Protestant Christians.

BY A DAVIDSON,
Professor of Sacred Music.

"The Church triumphant, and the Church below,
In songs of praise their present union shew;
Their joys are full, our expectation long;
To life we differ, but we join in song.
Angels and we, assisted by this art,
May sing together, though we dwell apart."

ADELPHI HOTEL,
10, BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.

MR. JOHN FORD, respectfully announces to his friends and the public, he has taken this establishment, in connection with the UNITED STATES HOTEL, at Saratoga Springs.

The Adelphi is a house already distinguished as a house of select resort, and has been considerably enlarged this Spring. —Its delightful situation commands a beautiful view of the Bay of New-York—the adjacent shores of Long Island—New Jersey, and the walks of the Battery, in its immediate vicinity.

Passengers in the London, Liverpool and Havre Packets will find the Establishment peculiarly convenient, agreeable, and contiguous to the Steam-Boats proceeding in all directions from the City.

The distinction between this and other Hotels in New-York, is attributable to the circumstance of having a number of Parlours on the European plan, where Gentlemen and Families have the option of enjoying the retirement of a private Table, or partaking the accommodation of a very limited Table D'Hote.—Conveniencies, combined with strict order and attention in the interior economy of the Establishment, which it is hoped, are calculated to obtain general approbation.

SIR,—As the competition for three of the Medals offered by the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY OF MONTREAL, is open to all inhabitants of the British Provinces, you will confer an infinite favor on an infant Society if you give publicity to its advertisement, as below, thereby extending the notice of its intentions to rouse the dormant talent of the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

ROBERT ARMOUR, JR.
Secretary.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY.

NOTICE is hereby given that the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY of MONTREAL, anxious to encourage a spirit of research, and to create a taste for scientific pursuits, have resolved upon offering FOUR SILVER MEDALS for Essays on scientific subjects, thereby endeavouring to rouse the dormant talent of the Province, by exciting a praiseworthy emulation

FOR THREE of these Medals, the competition will be open to the public generally, and ONE only will be exclusively confined to the competition of the several classes of Members

The Medals are as follows:—

1. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the QUADRUPEDS of BRITISH NORTH AMERICA, their generic and specific characters, their modes of life and the uses to which they can be applied.—This Essay to be open to general competition.

2. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the PLANTS indigenous to the CANADAS, their generic and specific characters, their habitats, and their uses, medical and economical. This Essay to be open to the competition of the Honorary, Corresponding and Ordinary Members of the Society, resident in the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES, only.

3. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of general Literature, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

4. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of Philosophy or Science, other than Natural History, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

The Society being anxious to encourage general talent, imposes no restriction as to the qualification of competitors for the Medals, further than that they shall be resident or usually so, of some one of the British North American Provinces, nor to the language in which the Essays are to be written.

The Essays intended for the competition are to be transmitted to, and received by A. F. HOLMES, Esq., M.D. Corresponding Secretary of the Society, on or before the 20th day of February, 1830, accompanied by a sealed note containing the name of the author, and a motto similar to one to be inscribed at the commencement of the Essay. The Essays which do not obtain the prize will, if required, be returned with their accompanying notes unopened to any designated address. The Society also reserves to itself the right of retaining the successful Essays, as well as the power of refusing any of the Medals, should none of the Essays be deemed, in the opinion of the Judges to be appointed worthy of it.

The Committee of Judges to whom the Essays will be referred will be appointed at the Monthly Meeting of the Society in February 1830, and will be composed of Members of the Society and of other individuals residents of Montreal distinguished for their literary and scientific acquirements, and the Society would recommend competitors resident in Montreal, and whose hand-writing might possibly be familiar to the Judges to be appointed, to procure the assistance of some friend to copy the Essay intended for competition, in order that not even the slightest grounds for supposed partiality may exist.

The Medals will be presented to the successful candidates or to their authorised representatives at the Annual Meeting of the Society on the 18th May, 1830.

RENTS ON CROWN LANDS.

Office of Commissioner, }
for Crown Lands. }

NOTICE is hereby given, that an arrears of Rent for Crown Reserves are required to be paid without delay into this office.

P. ROBINSON,
Commissioner of Crown Land.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 15th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1830, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS,
Bursar, King's College.
York, 1st February, 1828. 57*tf.*

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 13th April, 1819, above referred to:—

RENTS ON CROWN LANDS.

Office of Commissioner, } for Crown Lands.

NOTICE is hereby given, that an arrears of Rent for Crown Reserves, is required to be paid without delay into this office.

P. ROBINSON, Commissioner of Crown Land.

HIS MAJESTY having granted certain of the Crown Reserves to the Corporation of the King's College in exchange for an equal portion of lands heretofore set apart for the foundation of an University, the Council of King's College are proceeding to take such measures with respect to these Reserves, as may render them productive for the purpose intended, and at the same time afford every opportunity to the persons legally occupying or holding a Lease of any of the Reserves, to make such arrangements as will best suit their wishes and interests.

They are procuring an accurate inspection to be made of the situation and circumstances of every Lot, and have directed their Agent, when he finds any person actually resident upon any of the Reserves which he is directed to visit, to leave with such person a copy of this printed paper, by which he will understand, that if he is the Lessee of the Lot, or has gone upon it and made improvements under any proper authority, that the Council of King's College will pay every respect and attention to the interest and claim of such person, that they could with any justice have expected of the Government; and in particular, that whenever the Council is prepared to dispose of any of the Reserves under the circumstances above mentioned, the person having a claim to consideration, will have the choice, either to renew his Lease for twenty-one years upon the terms held out by the original Lease from the Crown, as specified in the subjoined Order in Council of the 15th April, 1819, or he shall have the refusal of the Lot, if the Council desire to sell it, in preference to any other purchaser, for such price as the Council are willing to accept.

But it is to be understood, that if the party chooses another Lease, there will be no pledge given for any renewal at the end of twenty-one years, the Government never having afforded any assurance beyond the Grant of a second term; but in such case, the conditions on which the party can be allowed to continue to occupy it, will, no doubt, be settled with a due regard to every reasonable claim on his part—the back rent due upon the first Lease must be paid to the Government before the Council will have it in their power to treat with the Claimant.

It is further to be understood, that, with respect to Lots which have been leased, but never improved or occupied, unless the back rent shall be paid to the Receiver General before the 1st January, 1829, the Council will not feel themselves bound to consider the interest of the Lessee in disposing of the Lot. JOSEPH WELLS,

Bursar, King's College.

York, 1st February, 1828. 37tf.

Extract from the Order of Council, bearing date 18th April, 1819, above referred to:—

"That upon the renewal of any Lease for the whole or part of the term of twenty-one years, a Rent of One Pound Fifteen Shillings be reserved as Rent for the first seven years of the renewed term in addition to the increased Rent, payable for the last period of Original Lease, adding One Pound Fifteen Shillings at the end of each period of seven years."

ADELPHI HOTEL,

10, BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.

MR. JOHN FORD, respectfully announces to his friends and the public, he has taken this establishment, in connection with the UNITED STATES HOTEL, at Saratoga Springs.

The Adelphi is a house already distinguished as a house of select resort, and has been considerably enlarged this Spring.—Its delightful situation commands a beautiful view of the Bay of New-York—the adjacent shores of Long Island—New Jersey, and the walks of the Battery, in its immediate vicinity.

Passengers in the London, Liverpool and Havre Packets will find the Establishment peculiarly convenient, agreeable, and contiguous to the Steam-Boats proceeding in all directions from the City.

The distinction between this and other Hotels in New-York, is attributable to the circumstance of having a number of Parlours on the European plan, where Gentlemen and Families have the option of enjoying the retirement of a private Table, or partaking the accommodation of a very limited Table D'Hôte.—Conveniencies, combined with strict order and attention in the interior economy of the Establishment, which it is hoped, are calculated to obtain general approbation.

HALF-PAY AFFIDAVITS, of the latest form for Sale at the Gazette Office.

To the Editor of the U. C. Gazette.

SIR,—As the competition for three of the Medals offered by the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY of MONTREAL, is open to all inhabitants of the British Provinces, you will confer an infinite favor on an infant Society if you give publicity to its advertisement, as below, thereby extending the notice of its intentions to rouse the dormant talent of the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

ROBERT ARMOUR, Jr.
Secretary.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY.

NOTICE is hereby given that the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY of MONTREAL, anxious to encourage a spirit of research, and to create a taste for scientific pursuits, have resolved upon offering FOUR SILVER MEDALS for Essays on scientific subjects, thereby endeavouring to rouse the dormant talent of the Province, by exciting a praise-worthy emulation.

For THREE of these Medals, the competition will be open to the public generally, and ONE only will be exclusively confined to the competition of the several classes of Members.

The Medals are as follows:—

1. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the QUADRUPEDS of BRITISH NORTH AMERICA, their generic and specific characters, their modes of life and the uses to which they can be applied.—This Essay to be open to general competition.

2. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the PLANTS indigenous to the CANADAS, their generic and specific characters, their habitats, and their uses, medical and economical. This Essay to be open to the competition of the Honorary, Corresponding and Ordinary Members of the Society, resident in the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES, only.

3. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of general Literature, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

4. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of Philosophy or Science, other than Natural History, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

The Society being anxious to encourage general talent, imposes no restriction as to the qualification of competitors for the Medals, further than that they shall be resident or usually so, of some one of the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES, nor to the language in which the Essays are to be written.

The Essays intended for the competition are to be transmitted to, and received by A. F. HOLMES, Esq., M.D. Corresponding Secretary of the Society, on or before the 30th day of February, 1830, accompanied by a sealed note containing the name of the author, and a motto similar to one to be inscribed at the commencement of the Essay. The Essays which do not obtain the prize will, if required, be returned with their accompanying notes unopened to any designated address. The Society also reserves to itself the right of retaining the successful Essays, as well as the power of refusing any of the Medals, should none of the Essays be deemed, in the opinion of the Judges to be appointed worthy of it.

The Committee of Judges to whom the Essays will be referred will be appointed at the Monthly Meeting of the Society in February 1830, and will be composed of Members of the Society and of other individuals residents of Montreal distinguished for their literary and scientific acquirements, and the Society would recommend competitors resident in Montreal, and whose hand-writing might possibly be familiar to the Judges to be appointed, to procure the assistance of some friend to copy the Essay intended for competition, in order that not even the slightest grounds for supposed partiality may exist.

The Medals will be presented to the successful candidates or to their authorised representatives at the Annual Meeting of the Society on the 18th May, 1830.

CHURCH MUSIC.

TO be published by subscription, a selection of SACRED MUSIC, arranged in Parts for two, three, and four voices, as sung in the congregations of the United Church of England and Ireland; chiefly designed for the use of the members of that Church in the Province of Upper Canada, and adapted to every measure in the new version of the Psalms; with an Introduction to the art of Singing, and an Appendix containing a great variety of favorite Hymn Tunes, and Anthems,—also in Parts—which are used by various other denominations of Protestant Christians.

BY A DAVIDSON,
Professor of Sacred Music.

"The Church triumphant, and the Church below,
In songs of praise their present union shew;
Their joys are full, our expectation long;
In life we differ, but we join in song.
Angels and we, assisted by this art,
May sing together, though we dwell apart."

☞ The above work, in which most of the Psalms suited to public worship are set to music, with a view to their distinct nature as being expressive of joy, sorrow, &c.—will appear as soon as possible after a sufficient number of subscribers is procured, to afford each copy at 5s. Clergymen, and other gentlemen of every denomination, who may be convinced of the importance of the undertaking, not only in reference to singing associations, but especially to the proper performance of an essential part of Divine Worship, are respectfully solicited to procure and forward subscribers. And as this will necessarily be attended with some trouble and expense, such will be entitled to a copy for every ten good subscribers forwarded free of postage, to A. DAVIDSON, Port Hope, or the Rev. A. N. BETHUNE, Rector of Cobourg.

ADELPHI HOTEL,

MR. JOHN FORD, respectfully announces to his friends and the public, he has taken this establishment, in connection with the UNITED STATES HOTEL, at Saratoga Springs.

The Adelphi is a house already distinguished as a house of select resort, and has been considerably enlarged this Spring.—Its delightful situation commands a beautiful view of the Bay of New-York—the adjacent shores of Long Island—New Jersey, and the works of the Battery, in its immediate vicinity.

Passengers in the London, Liverpool and Havre Packets will find the Establishment peculiarly convenient, agreeable, and contiguous to the Steam-Boats proceeding in all directions from the City.

The distinction between this and other Hotels in New-York, is attributable to the circumstance of having a number of Parlours on the European plan, where Gentlemen and Families have the option of enjoying the retirement of a private Table, or partaking the accommodation of a very limited Table D'Hôte.—Conveniencies, combined with strict order and attention in the interior economy of the Establishment, which it is hoped, are calculated to obtain general approbation.

SIR,—As the competition for three of the Medals offered by the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY of MONTREAL, is open to all inhabitants of the British Provinces, you will confer an infinite favor on an infant Society if you give publicity to its advertisement, as below, thereby extending the notice of its intentions to rouse the dormant talent of the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

ROBERT ARMOUR, JR.
Secretary.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY.

NOTICE is hereby given that the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY of MONTREAL, anxious to encourage a spirit of research, and to create a taste for scientific pursuits, have resolved upon offering FOUR SILVER MEDALS for Essays on scientific subjects, thereby endeavouring to rouse the dormant talent of the Province, by exciting a praiseworthy emulation.

FOR THREE of these Medals, the competition will be open to the public generally, and ONE only will be exclusively confined to the competition of the several classes of Members

The Medals are as follows:—

1. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the QUADRUPEDS of BRITISH NORTH AMERICA, their generic and specific characters, their modes of life and the uses to which they can be applied.—This Essay to be open to general competition.

2. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the PLANTS indigenous to the CANADAS, their generic and specific characters, their habitats, and their uses, medical and economical. This Essay to be open to the competition of the Honorary, Corresponding and Ordinary Members of the Society, resident in the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES, only.

3. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of general Literature, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

4. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of Philosophy or Science, other than Natural History, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

The Society being anxious to encourage general talent, imposes no restriction as to the qualification of competitors for the Medals, further than that they shall be resident or usually so, of some one of the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES, nor to the language in which the Essays are to be written.

The Essays intended for the competition are to be transmitted to, and received by A. F. HOLMES, Esq., M.D. Corresponding Secretary of the Society, on or before the 20th day of February, 1830, accompanied by a sealed note containing the name of the author, and a motto similar to one to be inscribed at the commencement of the Essay. The Essays which do not obtain the prize will, if required, be returned with their accompanying notes unopened to any designated address. The Society also reserves to itself the right of retaining the successful Essays, as well as the power of refusing any of the Medals, should none of the Essays be deemed, in the opinion of the Judges to be appointed worthy of it.

The Committee of Judges to whom the Essays will be referred will be appointed at the Monthly Meeting of the Society in February 1830, and will be composed of Members of the Society and of other individuals residents of Montreal distinguished for their literary and scientific acquirements, and the Society would recommend competitors resident in Montreal, and whose hand-writing might possibly be familiar to the Judges to be appointed, to procure the assistance of some friend to copy the Essay intended for competition, in order that not even the slightest grounds for supposed partiality may exist.

The Medals will be presented to the successful candidates or to their authorised representatives at the Annual Meeting of the Society on the 18th May, 1830.

Their joys are full, our expectation long;
In life we differ, but we join in song.
Angels and we, assisted by this art,
May sing together, though we dwell apart."

SIR,—As the competition for three of the Medals offered by the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY OF MONTREAL, is open to all inhabitants of the British Provinces, you will confer an infinite favor on an infant Society if you give publicity to its advertisement, as below, thereby extending the notice of its intentions to rouse the dormant talent of the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

ROBERT ARMOUR, Jr. Secretary.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY.

NOTICE is hereby given that the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY of MONTREAL, anxious to encourage a spirit of research, and to create a taste for scientific pursuits, have resolved upon offering FOUR SILVER MEDALS for Essays on scientific subjects, thereby endeavouring to rouse the dormant talent of the Province, by exciting a praiseworthy emulation.

For THREE of these Medals, the competition will be open to the public generally, and ONE only will be exclusively confined to the competition of the several classes of Members

The Medals are as follows:—

1. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the QUADRUPEDS of BRITISH NORTH AMERICA, their generic and specific characters, their modes of life and the uses to which they can be applied.—This Essay to be open to general competition.

2. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the PLANTS indigenous to the CANADAS, their generic and specific characters, their habitats, and their uses, medical and economical. This Essay to be open to the competition of the Honorary, Corresponding and Ordinary Members of the Society, resident in the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES, only.

3. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of general Literature, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

4. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of Philosophy or Science, other than Natural History, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

The Society being anxious to encourage general talent, imposes no restriction as to the qualification of competitors for the Medals, further than that they shall be resident or usually so, of some one of the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES, nor to the language in which the Essays are to be written.

The Essays intended for the competition are to be transmitted to, and received by A. F. HOLMES, Esq., M.D. Corresponding Secretary of the Society, on or before the 20th day of FEBRUARY, 1830, accompanied by a sealed note containing the name of the author, and a motto similar to one to be inscribed at the commencement of the Essay. The Essays which do not obtain the prize will, if required, be returned with their accompanying notes unopened to any designated address. The Society also reserves to itself the right of retaining the successful Essays, as well as the power of refusing any of the Medals, should none of the Essays be deemed, in the opinion of the Judges to be appointed worthy of it.

The Committee of Judges to whom the Essays will be referred will be appointed at the Monthly Meeting of the Society in February 1830, and will be composed of Members of the Society and of other individuals residents of Montreal distinguished for their literary and scientific acquirements, and the Society would recommend competitors resident in Montreal, and whose hand-writing might possibly be familiar to the Judges to be appointed, to procure the assistance of some friend to copy the Essay intended for competition, in order that not even the slightest grounds for supposed partiality may exist.

The Medals will be presented to the successful candidates or to their authorised representatives at the Annual Meeting of the Society on the 18th May, 1830.

CHURCH MUSIC.

TO be published by subscription, a selection of SACRED MUSIC, arranged in Parts for two, three, and four voices, as sung in the congregations of the United Church of England and Ireland; chiefly designed for the use of the members of that Church in the Province of Upper Canada, and adapted to every measure in the new version of the Psalms; with an Introduction to the art of Singing, and an Appendix containing a great variety of favorite Hymn Tunes, and Anthems,—also in Parts—which are used by various other denominations of Protestant Christians.

BY A DAVIDSON,
Professor of Sacred Music.

"The Church triumphant, and the Church below,
In songs of praise their present union shew:
Their joys are full, our expectation long;
In life we differ, but we join in song.
Angels and we, assisted by this art,
May sing together, though we dwell apart."

☞ The above work, in which most of the Psalms suited to public worship are set to music, with a view to their distinct nature as being expressive of joy, sorrow, &c.—will appear as soon as possible after a sufficient number of subscribers is procured, to afford each copy at 5s. Clergymen, and other gentlemen of every denomination, who may be convinced of the importance of the undertaking, not only in reference to singing associations, but especially to the proper performance of an essential part of Divine Worship, are respectfully solicited to procure and forward subscribers. And as this will necessarily be attended with some trouble and expense, such will be entitled to a copy for every ten good subscribers forwarded free of postage, to A. DAVIDSON, Port Hope, or the Rev. A. N. BETHUNE, Rector of Cobourg.

ADELPHI HOTEL,
10, BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.

MR. JOHN FORD, respectfully announces to his friends and the public, he has taken this establishment, in connection with the UNITED STATES HOTEL, at Saratoga Springs.

The Adelphi is a house already distinguished as a house of select resort, and has been considerably enlarged this Spring.—Its delightful situation commands a beautiful view of the Bay of New-York—the adjacent shores of Long Island—New Jersey, and the walks of the Battery, in its immediate vicinity.

Passengers in the London, Liverpool and Havre Packets will find the Establishment peculiarly convenient, agreeable, and contiguous to the Steam-Boats proceeding in all directions from the City.

The distinction between this and other Hotels in New-York, is attributable to the circumstance of having a number of Parlours on the European plan, where Gentlemen and Families have the option of enjoying the retirement of a private Table, or partaking the accommodation of a very limited Table D'Hote.—Conveniencies, combined with strict order and attention in the interior economy of the Establishment, which it is hoped, are calculated to obtain general approbation.

☞ The United States Hotel at Saratoga Springs, re-opens on the twentieth of this month, where Mr. Ford will contribute his best exertions for the comfort of his guests during the Season.

SIR,—As the competition for three of the Medals offered by the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY of MONTREAL is open to all inhabitants of the British Provinces, you will confer an infinite favor on an infant Society if you give publicity to its advertisement, as below, thereby extending the notice of its intentions to rouse the dormant talent of the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES.

ROBERT ARMOUR, Jn.
Secretary.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY.

NOTICE is hereby given that the NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY of MONTREAL, anxious to encourage a spirit of research, and to create a taste for scientific pursuits, have resolved upon offering FOUR SILVER MEDALS for Essays on scientific subjects, thereby endeavouring to rouse the dormant talent of the Province, by exciting a praiseworthy emulation.

FOR THREE of these Medals, the competition will be open to the public generally, and ONE only will be exclusively confined to the competition of the several classes of Members.

The Medals are as follows:—

1. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the QUADRUPEDS of BRITISH NORTH AMERICA, their generic and specific characters, their modes of life and the uses to which they can be applied.—This Essay to be open to general competition.

2. A Silver Medal for the best Essay descriptive of the PLANTS indigenous to the CANADAS, their generic and specific characters, their habitats, and their uses, medicinal and economical. This Essay to be open to the competition of the Honorary, Corresponding and Ordinary Members of the Society, resident in the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES, only.

3. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of general Literature, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

4. A Silver Medal for the best Essay on any branch of Philosophy or Science, other than Natural History, the particular subject thereof to be chosen by the respective authors. This Essay to be open to general competition.

The Society being anxious to encourage general talent, imposes no restriction as to the qualification of competitors for the Medals, further than that they shall be resident or usually so, of some one of the BRITISH NORTH AMERICAN PROVINCES, nor to the language in which the Essays are to be written.

The Essays intended for the competition are to be transmitted to, and received by A. F. HOLMES, Esq. M.D. Corresponding Secretary of the Society, on or before the 20th day of February, 1830, accompanied by a sealed note containing the name of the author, and a motto similar to one to be inscribed at the commencement of the Essay. The Essays which do not obtain the prize will, if required, be returned with their accompanying notes unopened to any designated address. The Society also reserves to itself the right of retaining the successful Essays, as well as the power of refusing any of the Medals, should none of the Essays be deemed, in the opinion of the Judges to be appointed worthy of it.

The Committee of Judges to whom the Essays will be referred will be appointed at the Monthly Meeting of the Society in February 1830, and will be composed of Members of the Society and of other individuals residents of Montreal distinguished for their literary and scientific acquirements, and the Society would recommend competitors resident in Montreal, and whose hand-writing might possibly be familiar to the Judges to be appointed, to procure the assistance of some friend to copy the Essay intended for competition, in order that not even the slightest grounds for supposed partiality may exist.

The Medals will be presented to the successful candidates or to their authorised representatives at the Annual Meeting of the Society on the 16th May, 1830.

Their joys are full, our expectation long;
In life we differ, but we join in song.
Angels and we, assisted by this art,
May sing together, though we dwell apart."
