☞ Amongst the above Lots there are some that are on the Assessment Roll, and which are occupied, but owing to the neglect of the Assessors between the years 1835 and 1843, who failed to return the Wild Lands within their respective Townships, they were not marked on the Wild Land Account Book, and the Taxes appear charged against them for a long period. The Treasurer is thus compelled to advertise the amount that appears against such Lots on his Books, but will, upon application and proof, correct the amount to be charged to each, deducting from the period the amount for the number of years which each Lot respectively has been returned on the Assessor's Roll.

☞ AMONGST the above Lots there are some that are on the Assessment Roll, and which are occupied, but owing to the neglect of the Assessors between the years 1835 and 1843, who failed to return the Wild Lands within their respective Townships, they were not marked on the Wild Land Account Book, and the Taxes appear charged against them for a long period. The Treasurer is thus compelled to advertise the amount that appears against such Lots on his Books, but will, upon application and proof, correct the amount to be charged to each, deducting from the period the amount for the number of years which each Lot respectively has been returned on the Assessor's Roll.

☞ AMONGST the above Lots there are some that are on the Assessment Roll, and which are occupied, but owing to the neglect of the Assessors between the years 1835 and 1843, who failed to return the Wild Lands within their respective Townships, they were not marked on the Wild Land Account Book, and the Taxes appear charged against them for a long period. The Treasurer is thus compelled to advertise the amount that appears against such Lots on his Books, but will, upon application and proof, correct the amount to be charged to each, deducting from the period the amount for the number of years which each Lot respectively has been returned on the Assessor's Roll.

EXTRACTS from the Standing Rules and Regulations of the Legislative Council of Canada.

Forty-ninth Rule.—That proof be required that notice of the intention of any person or persons to apply to the Legislature for its interference, respecting any local matter, has been publicly given in the Official Gazette, at least once in each month, for six months preceding the Session in which such application is to be made.

Fifty-first Rule.—That when a Private Bill shall be brought from the other House, the principle of which is admitted, this House, by message, may either request a communication of the evidence received in proof of the allegation or matter whereon the Bill is founded, or the Committee of this House to whom it may be referred, shall examine the said allegation, and on reporting the Bill, state whether the same, or matter thereof, be founded, and whether the parties concerned in interest or property therein have given their consent, to the satisfaction of the Committee.

Fifty-second Rule.—That the foregoing be considered a standing instruction to all Committees who shall meet upon private Bills; and further that they require all persons whose interests, or property they shall consider to be affected thereby, to appear in person before them, to give their consent thereto; and if they cannot personally attend, they may send their consent in writing, which shall be proved before the Committee by one or more witnesses; and that when any Committee shall be appointed on a private Bill, notice thereof shall be set up in the Lobby of this House, seven days before the meeting of the said Committee.

Fifty-seventh Rule.—That this House will not proceed upon any private Bill, unless upon Petition addressed to the House, and that no such Petition will be received unless presented within thirty days after the commencement of the Session.

Fifty-eighth Rule.—That to prevent surprise, and to afford time for proper investigation in matters that may affect the Private Rights of Individuals, it is expedient to make it a standing order of the Legislative Council, that no petition for a private Bill, which can affect the vested right, interest, or convenience of any person or persons other than the Petitioner or Petitioners, shall be received after the thirteenth day of the Session, and that no private Bill, of the nature above described, which may come up from the Legislative Assembly, after the fortieth day of the Session, shall be proceeded upon in the Legislative Council.

Seventy-first Rule.—That no printed petition be received by this House.

Seventy-third Rule.—That no petition be received from any Corporate body, unless it be duly authenticated by the Seal of such Corporation.

JAMES FITZGIBBON,
Clerk Legislative Council.

Kingston, 27th April, 1844. 23

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY,
Kingston, 19th June, 1841.

RESOLVED, 66.—That before any Petition is presented to this House, for leave to bring in a Private Bill, whether for the erection of a Bridge or Bridges, for the regulation of a Common, for the making of any Turnpike Road, or for granting to any individual or individuals any exclusive rights or privilege whatsoever, or for the alteration or renewing of any Act of the Provincial Parliament, for the like purpose, notice of such application shall be given in one of the Newspapers of the District, published in the English and one in the French language, if any is published therein, and also by a notice affixed on the Church doors of the Parishes or Townships that such application may affect, or in the most public place where there is no Church, during two months at least before such Petition is presented.

Resolved, 67.—That hereafter this House will not receive any Petitions for Private Bills after the first fifteen days of each Session.

Resolved, 70.—That before any Petition, praying leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge, is presented to this House, the Person or Persons purposing to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the notice prescribed by the 66th rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give a notice, stating the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privilege, the height of the Arches, the interval between the abutments or piers, for the passage of Rafts and Vessels, and mentioning whether they purpose to erect a Draw Bridge or not, and the dimensions of such Draw Bridge.

Resolved, 71.—That all the expenses and costs attending on Private Bills giving any exclusive privilege or advantage, and the relative proceedings in this House thereon, ought not to fall upon the Public, and that it is just and reasonable that part of such expenses and costs should be supported by those who apply for the said Bills; and that after this Session a sum not less than £20 be deposited in the hands of the Clerk of this House by the Petitioners before the second reading of any such Bill.

W. B. LINDSAY,
23 Clerk Assembly.

ASSEMBLEE LEGISLATIVE,
Kingston, 19e Juin, 1841.

RESOLU, 66.—Qu'avant qu'il soit présenté à cette Chambre Pétition pour obtenir permission d'introduire un Bill Privé pour un Pont ou des Ponts, pour régler quelque Commune, pour ouvrir quelque chemin de Barrières, ou pour accorder à quelque individu ou à des individus quelques droits ou privilèges exclusifs quelconques, ou pour altérer ou renouveler quelque Acte du Parlement Provincial, pour de semblables objets, il sera donné notice de la demande qu'on se propose de faire, dans un des Papiers publics du District, publiés en Anglais, et dans l'un de ceux publiés en Francais, s'il y en a, et par une affiche posée à la porte des Eglises des Paroisses ou Townships qui pourront être intéressés à telle application, ou à l'endroit le plus public, s'il n'y a point d'Eglise, pendant deux mois, avant que telle Pétition soit présentée.

Résolu, 67.—Qu'à l'avenir, cette Chambre ne recevra des Pétitions pour des Bills Privés que dans les premiers quinze jours de chaque Session.

Résolu, 70.—Qu'après la présente Session, et avant qu'il soit présenté à cette Chambre aucune Pétition pour obtenir permission d'introduire un Bill Privé pour ériger un Pont de Péage, la personne ou les personnes qui se proposeront de pétitionner pour tel Bill, en donnant la notice ordonnée par la Règle soixante-et-sixième, donneront aussi, en même tems et de la même manière un Avis, notifiant les taux qu'elles se proposeront de demander, l'étendue du privilége, l'élévation des Arches, l'espace entre les Culées ou Piliers, pour le passage des Cageux, Cages et Batimens, et mentionnant si elles se proposent de bâtir un Pont-levis ou non, et les dimensions de tel Pont-levis.

Résolu, 71.—Que tous les frais et dépenses occasionnés par les Bills privés qui accordent quelque avantage ou privilége exclusif, et les procédures y relatives dans cette Chambre, ne doivent pas retomber sur le public, et qu'il est juste et raisonnable que partie de ces frais et dépenses soit supportée par ceux qui demandent les dits Bills; et après la présente Session une somme qui ne sera pas moindre que £20, sera déposée entre les mains du Greffier de cette Chambre par le Pétitionnaire avant la deuxième lecture d'aucun tel Bill.

EXTRACTS from the Standing Rules and Regulations of the Legislative Council of Canada.

Forty-ninth Rule.—That proof be required that notice of the intention of any person or persons to apply to the Legislature for its interference, respecting any local matter, has been publicly given in the Official Gazette, at least once in each month, for six months preceding the Session in which such application is to be made.

Fifty-first Rule.—That when a Private Bill shall be brought from the other House, the principle of which is admitted, this House, by message, may either request a communication of the evidence received in proof of the allegation or matter whereon the Bill is founded, or the Committee of this House to whom it may be referred, shall examine the said allegation, and on reporting the Bill, state whether the same, or matter thereof, be founded, and whether the parties concerned in interest or property therein have given their consent, to the satisfaction of the Committee.

Fifty-second Rule.—That the foregoing be considered a standing instruction to all Committees who shall meet upon private Bills; and further that they require all persons whose interests, or property they shall consider to be affected thereby, to appear in person before them, to give their consent thereto; and if they cannot personally attend, they may send their consent in writing, which shall be proved before the Committee by one or more witnesses; and that when any Committee shall be appointed on a private Bill, notice thereof shall be set up in the Lobby of this House, seven days before the meeting of the said Committee.

EXTRACTS from the Standing Rules and Regulations of the Legislative Council of Canada.

Forty-ninth Rule.—That proof be required that notice of the intention of any person or persons to apply to the Legislature for its interference, respecting any local matter, has been publicly given in the Official Gazette, at least once in each month, for six months preceding the Session in which such application is to be made.

Fifty-first Rule.—That when a Private Bill shall be brought from the other House, the principle of which is admitted, this House, by message, may either request a communication of the evidence received in proof of the allegation or matter whereon the Bill is founded, or the Committee of this House to whom it may be referred, shall examine the said allegation, and on reporting the Bill, state whether the same, or matter thereof, be founded, and whether the parties concerned in interest or property therein have given their consent, to the satisfaction of the Committee.

Fifty-second Rule.—That the foregoing be considered a standing instruction to all Committees who shall meet upon private Bills; and further that they require all persons whose interests, or property they shall consider to be affected thereby, to appear in person before them, to give their consent thereto; and if they cannot personally attend, they may send their consent in writing, which shall be proved before the Committee by one or more witnesses; and that when any Committee shall be appointed on a private Bill, notice thereof shall be set up in the Lobby of this House, seven days before the meeting of the said Committee.

Fifty-seventh Rule.—That this House will not proceed upon any private Bill, unless upon Petition addressed to the House, and that no such Petition will be received unless presented within thirty days after the commencement of the Session.

Fifty-eighth Rule.—That to prevent surprise, and to afford time for proper investigation in matters that may affect the Private Rights of Individuals, it is expedient to make it a standing order of the Legislative Council, that no petition for a private Bill, which can affect the vested right, interest, or convenience of any person or persons other than the Petitioner or Petitioners, shall be received after the thirteenth day of the Session, and that no private Bill, of the nature above described, which may come up from the Legislative Assembly, after the fortieth day of the Session, shall be proceeded upon in the Legislative Council.

Seventy-first Rule.—That no printed petition be received by this House.

Seventy-third Rule.—That no petition be received from any Corporate body, unless it be duly authenticated by the Seal of such Corporation.

JAMES FITZGIBBON,
Clerk Legislative Council.

Kingston, 27th April, 1844. 23

Legislative Assembly,
Kingston, 19th June, 1841.

RESOLVED, 66.—That before any Petition is presented to this House, for leave to bring in a Private Bill, whether for the erection of a Bridge or Bridges, for the regulation of a Common, for the making of any Turnpike Road, or for granting to any individual or individuals any exclusive rights or privilege whatsoever, or for the alteration or renewing of any Act of the Provincial Parliament, for the like purpose, notice of such application shall be given in one of the Newspapers of the District, published in the English and one in the French language, if any is published therein, and also by a notice affixed on the Church doors of the Parishes or Townships that such application may affect, or in the most public place where there is no Church, during two months at least before such Petition is presented.

Resolved, 67.—That hereafter this House will not receive any Petitions for Private Bills after the first fifteen days of each Session.

Resolved, 70.—That before any Petition, praying leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge, is presented to this House, the Person or Persons purposing to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the notice prescribed by the 66th rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give a notice, stating the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privilege, the height of the Arches, the interval between the abutments or piers, for the passage of Rafts and Vessels, and mentioning whether they purpose to erect a Draw Bridge or not, and the dimensions of such Draw Bridge.

Resolved, 71.—That all the expenses and costs attending on Private Bills giving any exclusive privilege or advantage, and the relative proceedings in this House thereon, ought not to fall upon the Public, and that it is just and reasonable that part of such expenses and costs should be supported by those who apply for the said Bills; and that after this Session a sum not less than £20 be deposited in the hands of the Clerk of this House by the Petitioners before the second reading of any such Bill.

W. B. LINDSAY,
23 Clerk Assembly.

Assemblee Legislative,
Kingston, 19e Juin, 1841.

RESOLU, 66.—Qu'avant qu'il soit présenté à cette Chambre Pétition pour obtenir permission d'introduire un Bill Privé pour un Pont ou des Ponts, pour régler quelque Commune, pour ouvrir quelque chemin de Barrières, ou pour accorder à quelque individu ou à des individus quelques droits ou priviléges exclusifs quelconques, ou pour altérer ou renouveler quelque Acte du Parlement Provincial, pour de semblables objets, il sera donné notice de la demande qu'on se propose de faire, dans un des Papiers publics du District, publiés en Anglais, et dans l'un de ceux publiés en Français, s'il y en a, et par une affiche posée à la porte des Eglises des Paroisses ou Townships qui pourront être intéressés à telle application, ou à l'endroit le plus public, s'il n'y a point d'Eglise, pendant deux mois, avant que telle Pétition soit présentée.

Résolu, 67.—Qu'à l'avenir, cette Chambre ne recevra des Pétitions pour des Bills Privés que dans les premiers quinze jours de chaque Session.

Résolu, 70.—Qu'après la présente Session, et avant qu'il soit présenté à cette Chambre aucune Pétition pour obtenir permission d'introduire un Bill Privé pour ériger un Pont de Péage, la personne ou les personnes qui se proposeront de pétitionner pour tel Bill, en donnant la notice ordonnée par la Règle soixante-et-sixième, donneront aussi, en même tems et de la même manière un Avis, notifiant les taux qu'elles se proposeront de demander, l'étendue du privilége, l'élévation des Arches, l'espace entre les Culées ou Piliers, pour le passage des Cageux, Cages et Batimens, et mentionnant si elles se proposent de bâtir un Pont-levis ou non, et les dimensions de tel Pont-levis.

Résolu, 71.—Que tous les frais et dépenses occasionnés par les Bills privés qui accordent quelque avantage ou privilége exclusif, et les procédures y relatives dans cette Chambre, ne doivent pas retomber sur le public, et qu'il est juste et raisonnable que partie de ces frais et dépenses soit supportée par ceux qui demandent les dits Bills; et après la présente Session une somme qui ne sera pas moindre que £20, sera déposée entre les mains du Greffier de cette Chambre par le Pétitionnaire avant la deuxième lecture d'aucun tel Bill.

EXTRACTS from the Standing Rules and Regulations of the Legislative Council of Canada.

Forty-ninth Rule.—That proof be required that notice of the intention of any person or persons to apply to the Legislature for its interference, respecting any local matter, has been publicly given in the Official Gazette, at least once in each month, for six months preceding the Session in which such application is to be made.

Fifty-first Rule.—That when a Private Bill shall be brought from the other House, the principle of which is admitted, this House, by message, may either request a communication of the evidence received in proof of the allegation or matter whereon the Bill is founded, or the Committee of this House to whom it may be referred, shall examine the said allegation, and on reporting the Bill, state whether the same, or matter thereof, be founded, and whether the parties concerned in interest or property therein have given their consent, to the satisfaction of the Committee.

Fifty-second Rule—That the foregoing be considered a standing instruction to all Committees who shall meet upon private Bills; and further that they require all persons whose interests, or property they shall consider to be affected thereby, to appear in person before them, to give their consent thereto; and if they cannot personally attend, they may send their consent in writing, which shall be proved before the Committee by one or more witnesses; and that when any Committee shall be appointed on a private Bill, notice thereof shall be set up in the Lobby of this House, seven days before the meeting of the said Committee.

Fifty-seventh Rule—That this House will not proceed upon any private Bill, unless upon Petition addressed to the House, and that no such Petition will be received unless presented within thirty days after the commencement of the Session.

Fifty-eighth Rule.—That to prevent surprise, and to afford time for proper investigation in matters that may affect the Private Rights of Individuals, it is expedient to make it a standing order of the Legislative Council, that no petition for a private Bill, which can affect the vested right, interest, or convenience of any person or persons other than the Petitioner or Petitioners, shall be received after the thirteenth day of the Session, and that no private Bill, of the nature above described, which may come up from the Legislative Assembly, after the fortieth day of the Session, shall be proceeded upon in the Legislative Council.

Seventy-first Rule.—That no printed petition be received by this House.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY,
Kingston, 19th June, 1841.

RESOLVED, 66.—That before any Petition is presented to this House, for leave to bring in a Private Bill, whether for the erection of a Bridge or Bridges, for the regulation of a Common, for the making of any Turnpike Road, or for granting to any individual or individuals any exclusive rights or privilege whatsoever, or for the alteration or renewing of any Act of the Provincial Parliament, for the like purpose, notice of such application shall be given in one of the Newspapers of the District, published in the English and one in the French language, if any is published therein, and also by a notice affixed on the Church doors of the Parishes or Townships that such application may affect, or in the most public place where there is no Church, during two months at least before such Petition is presented.

Resolved, 67.—That hereafter this House will not receive any Petitions for Private Bills after the first fifteen days of each Session.

Resolved, 70.—That before any Petition, praying leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge, is presented to this House, the Person or Persons purposing to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the notice prescribed by the 66th rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give a notice, stating the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privilege, the height of the Arches, the interval between the abutments or piers, for the passage of Rafts and Vessels, and mentioning whether they purpose to erect a Draw Bridge or not, and the dimensions of such Draw Bridge.

Resolved, 71.—That all the expenses and costs attending on Private Bills giving any exclusive privilege or advantage, and the relative proceedings in this House thereon, ought not to fall upon the Public, and that it is just and reasonable that part of such expenses and costs should be supported by those who apply for the said Bills; and that after this Session a sum not less than £20 be deposited in the hands of the Clerk of this House by the Petitioners before the second reading of any such Bill.

W. B. LINDSAY,
23 Clerk Assembly.

EXTRACTS from the Standing Rules and Regulations of the Legislative Council of Canada.

Forty-ninth Rule.—That proof be required that notice of the intention of any person or persons to apply to the Legislature for its interference, respecting any local matter, has been publicly given in the Official Gazette, at least once in each month, for six months preceding the Session in which such application is to be made.

Fifty-first Rule.—That when a Private Bill shall be brought from the other House, the principle of which is admitted, this House, by message, may either request a communication of the evidence received in proof of the allegation or matter whereon the Bill is founded, or the Committee of this House to whom it may be referred, shall examine the said allegation, and on reporting the Bill, state whether the same, or matter thereof, be founded, and whether the parties concerned in interest or property therein have given their consent, to the satisfaction of the Committee.

Fifty-second Rule.—That the foregoing be considered a standing instruction to all Committees who shall meet upon private Bills; and further that they require all persons whose interests, or property they shall consider to be affected thereby, to appear in person before them, to give their consent thereto; and if they cannot personally attend, they may send their consent in writing, which shall be proved before the Committee by one or more witnesses; and that when any Committee shall be appointed on a private Bill, notice thereof shall be set up in the Lobby of this House, seven days before the meeting of the said Committee.

Fifty-seventh Rule.—That this House will not proceed upon any private Bill, unless upon Petition addressed to the House, and that no such Petition will be received unless presented within thirty days after the commencement of the Session.

Fifty-eighth Rule.—That to prevent surprise, and to afford time for proper investigation in matters that may affect the Private Rights of Individuals, it is expedient to make it a standing order of the Legislative Council, that no petition for a private Bill, which can affect the vested right, interest, or convenience of any person or persons other than the Petitioner or Petitioners, shall be received after the thirteenth day of the Session, and that no private Bill, of the nature above described, which may come up from the Legislative Assembly, after the fortieth day of the Session, shall be proceeded upon in the Legislative Council.

Seventy-first Rule.—That no printed petition be received by this House.

Seventy-third Rule.—That no petition be received from any Corporate body, unless it be duly authenticated by the Seal of such Corporation.

By Authority.

EXTRACTS from the Standing Rules and Regulations of the Legislative Council of Canada.

Forty-ninth Rule.—That proof be required that notice of the intention of any person or persons to apply to the Legislature for its interference, respecting any local matter, has been publicly given in the Official Gazette, at least once in each month, for six months preceding the Session in which such application is to be made.

Fifty-first Rule.—That when a Private Bill shall be brought from the other House, the principle of which is admitted, this House, by message, may either request a communication of the evidence received in proof of the allegation or matter whereon the Bill is founded, or the Committee of this House to whom it may be referred, shall examine the said allegation, and on reporting the Bill, state whether the same, or matter thereof, be founded, and whether the parties concerned in interest or property therein have given their consent, to the satisfaction of the Committee.

Fifty-second Rule.—That the foregoing be considered a standing instruction to all Committees who shall meet upon private Bills; and further that they require all persons whose interests, or property they shall consider to be affected thereby, to appear in person before them, to give their consent thereto; and if they cannot personally attend, they may send their consent in writing, which shall be proved before the Committee by one or more witnesses; and that when any Committee shall be appointed on a private Bill, notice thereof shall be set up in the Lobby of this House, seven days before the meeting of the said Committee.

Fifty-seventh Rule.—That this House will not proceed upon any private Bill, unless upon Petition addressed to the House, and that no such Petition will be received unless presented within thirty days after the commencement of the Session.

Fifty-eighth Rule.—That to prevent surprise, and to afford time for proper investigation in matters that may affect the Private Rights of Individuals, it is expedient to make it a standing order of the Legislative Council, that no petition for a private Bill, which can affect the vested right, interest, or convenience of any person or persons other than the Petitioner or Petitioners, shall be received after the thirteenth day of the Session, and that no private Bill, of the nature above described, which may come up from the Legislative Assembly, after the fortieth day of the Session, shall be proceeded upon in the Legislative Council.

Seventy-first Rule.—That no printed petition be received by this House.

Seventy-third Rule.—That no petition be received from any Corporate body, unless it be duly authenticated by the Seal of such Corporation.

JAMES FITZGIBBON,
Clerk Legislative Council.

Kingston, 27th April, 1844. 23

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY,
Kingston, 19th June, 1841.

RESOLVED, 66.—That before any Petition is presented to this House, for leave to bring in a Private Bill, whether for the erection of a Bridge or Bridges, for the regulation of a Common, for the making of any Turnpike Road, or for granting to any individual or individuals any exclusive rights or privilege whatsoever, or for the alteration or renewing of any Act of the Provincial Parliament, for the like purpose, notice of such application shall be given in one of the Newspapers of the District, published in the English and one in the French language, if any is published therein, and also by a notice affixed on the Church doors of the Parishes or Townships that such application may affect, or in the most public place where there is no Church, during two months at least before such Petition is presented.

Resolved, 67.—That hereafter this House will not receive any Petitions for Private Bills after the first fifteen days of each Session.

Resolved, 70.—That before any Petition, praying leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge, is presented to this House, the Person or Persons purposing to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the notice prescribed by the 66th rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give a notice, stating the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privilege, the height of the Arches, the interval between the abutments or piers, for the passage of Rafts and Vessels, and mentioning whether they purpose to erect a Draw Bridge or not, and the dimensions of such Draw Bridge.

Resolved, 71.—That all the expenses and costs attending on Private Bills giving any exclusive privilege or advantage, and the relative proceedings in this House thereon, ought not to fall upon the Public, and that it is just and reasonable that part of such expenses and costs should be supported by those who apply for the said Bills; and that after this Session a sum not less than £20 be deposited in the hands of the Clerk of this House by the Petitioners before the second reading of any such Bill.

W. B. LINDSAY,
23 Clerk Assembly.

ASSEMBLÉE LEGISLATIVE,
Kingston, 19e Juin, 1841.

RESOLU, 66.—Qu'avant qu'il soit présenté à cette Chambre Pétition pour obtenir permission d'introduire un Bill Privé pour un Pont ou des Ponts, pour régler quelque Commune, pour ouvrir quelque chemin de Barrières, ou pour accorder à quelque individu ou à des individus quelques droits ou privilèges exclusifs quelconques, ou pour altérer ou renouveler quelque Acte du Parlement Provincial, pour de semblables objets, il sera donné notice de la demande qu'on se propose de faire, dans un des Papiers publics du District, publiés en Anglais, et dans l'un de ceux publiés en Francais, s'il y en a, et par une affiche posée à la porte des Eglises des Paroisses ou Townships qui pourront être intéressés à telle application, ou à l'endroit le plus public, s'il n'y a point d'Eglise, pendant deux mois, avant que telle Pétition soit présentée.

Résolu, 67.—Qu'à l'avenir, cette Chambre ne recevra des Pétitions pour des Bills Privés que dans les premiers quinze jours de chaque Session.

Résolu, 70.—Qu'après la présente Session, et avant qu'il soit présenté à cette Chambre aucune Pétition pour obtenir permission d'introduire un Bill Privé pour ériger un Pont de Péage, la personne ou les personnes qui se proposeront de pétitionner pour tel Bill, en donnant la notice ordonnée par la Règle soixante-et-sixième, donneront aussi, en même tems et de la même manière un Avis, notifiant les taux qu'elles se proposeront de demander, l'étendue du privilége, l'élévation des Arches, l'espace entre les Culées ou Piliers, pour le passage des Cageux, Cages et Batimens, et mentionnant si elles se proposent de bâtir un Pont-levis ou non, et les dimensions de tel Pont-levis.

Résolu, 71.—Que tous les frais et dépenses occasionnés par les Bills privés qui accordent quelque avantage ou privilége exclusif, et les procédures y relatives dans cette Chambre, ne doivent pas retomber sur le public, et qu'il est juste et raisonnable que partie de ces frais et dépenses soit supportée par ceux qui demandent les dits Bills; et après la présente Session une somme qui ne sera pas moindre que £20, sera déposée entre les mains du Greffier de cette Chambre par le Pétitionnaire avant la deuxième lecture d'aucun tel Bill.

EXTRACTS from the Standing Rules and Regulations of the Legislative Council of Canada.

Forty-ninth Rule.—That proof be required that notice of the intention of any person or persons to apply to the Legislature for its interference, respecting any local matter, has been publicly given in the Official Gazette, at least once in each month, for six months preceding the Session in which such application is to be made.

Fifty-first Rule.—That when a Private Bill shall be brought from the other House, the principle of which is admitted, this House, by message, may either request a communication of the evidence received in proof of the allegation or matter whereon the Bill is founded, or the Committee of this House to whom it may be referred, shall examine the said allegation, and on reporting the Bill, state whether the same, or matter thereof, be founded, and whether the parties concerned in interest or property therein have given their consent, to the satisfaction of the Committee.

Fifty-second Rule.—That the foregoing be considered a standing instruction to all Committees who shall meet upon private Bills; and further that they require all persons whose interests, or property they shall consider to be affected thereby, to appear in person before them, to give their consent thereto; and if they cannot personally attend, they may send their consent in writing, which shall be proved before the Committee by one or more witnesses; and that when any Committee shall be appointed on a private Bill, notice thereof shall be set up in the Lobby of this House, seven days before the meeting of the said Committee.

Fifty-seventh Rule.—That this House will not proceed upon any private Bill, unless upon Petition addressed to the House, and that no such Petition will be received unless presented within thirty days after the commencement of the Session.

Fifty-eighth Rule.—That to prevent surprise, and to afford time for proper investigation in matters that may affect the Private Rights of Individuals, it is expedient to make it a standing order of the Legislative Council, that no petition for a private Bill, which can affect the vested right, interest, or convenience of any person or persons other than the Petitioner or Petitioners, shall be received after the thirteenth day of the Session, and that no private Bill, of the nature above described, which may come up from the Legislative Assembly, after the fortieth day of the Session, shall be proceeded upon in the Legislative Council.

Seventy-first Rule.—That no printed petition be received by this House.

Seventy-third Rule.—That no petition be received from any Corporate body, unless it be duly authenticated by the Seal of such Corporation.

JAMES FITZGIBBON,
Clerk Legislative Council.

Kingston, 27th April, 1844 23

Legislative Assembly,
Kingston, 19th June, 1841.

RESOLVED, 66.—That before any Petition is presented to this House, for leave to bring in a Private Bill, whether for the erection of a Bridge or Bridges, for the regulation of a Common, for the making of any Turnpike Road, or for granting to any individual or individuals any exclusive rights or privilege whatsoever, or for the alteration or renewing of any Act of the Provincial Parliament, for the like purpose, notice of such application shall be given in one of the Newspapers of the District, published in the English and one in the French language, if any is published therein, and also by a notice affixed on the Church doors of the Parishes or Townships that such application may affect, or in the most public place where there is no Church, during two months at least before such Petition is presented.

Resolved, 67.—That hereafter this House will not receive any Petitions for Private Bills after the first fifteen day of each Session.

Resolved, 0.—That before any Petition, praying leave to bring in a Private Bill for the erection of a Toll Bridge, is presented to this House, the Person or Persons purposing to petition for such Bill shall, upon giving the notice prescribed by the 66th rule, also, at the same time and in the same manner, give a notice, stating the rates which they intend to ask, the extent of the privilege, the height of the Arches, the interval between the abutments or piers, for the passage of Rafts and Vessels, and mentioning whether they purpose to erect a Draw Bridge or not, and the dimensions of such Draw Bridge.

Resolved, 71.—That all the expenses and costs attending on Private Bills giving any exclusive privilege or advantage, and the relative proceedings in this House thereon, ought not to fall upon the Public, and that it is just and reasonable that part of such expenses and costs should be supported by those who apply for the said Bills; and that after this Session a sum not less than £20 be deposited in the hands of the Clerk of this House by the Petitioners before the second reading of any such Bill.

W. B. LINDSAY,
23 Clerk Assembly.

Assemblée Législative,
Kingston, 19e Juin, 1841.

RESOLU, 66.—Qu'avant qu'il soit présenté à cette Chambre Pétition pour obtenir permission d'introduire un Bill Privé pour un Pont ou des Ponts, pour régler quelque Commune, pour ouvrir quelque chemin de Barrières, ou pour accorder à quelque individu ou à des individus quelques droits ou privilèges exclusifs quelconques, ou pour altérer ou renouveler quelque Acte du Parlement Provincial, pour de semblables objets, il sera donné notice de la demande qu'on se propose de faire, dans un des Papiers publiés du District, publiés en Anglais, et dans l'un de ceux publiés en Francais, s'il y en a, et par une affiche posée à la porte des Eglises des Paroisses ou Townships qui pourront être intéressés à telle application, ou à l'endroit le plus public, s'il n'y a point d'Eglise, pendant deux mois, avant que telle Pétition soit présentée.

Résolu, 67.—Qu'à l'avenir, cette Chambre ne recevra des Pétitions pour des Bills Privés que dans les premiers quinze jours de chaque Session.

Résolu, 70.—Qu'après la présente Session, et avant qu'il soit présenté à cette Chambre aucune Pétition pour obtenir permission d'introduire un Bill Privé pour ériger un Pont de Péage, la personne ou les personnes qui se proposeront de pétitionner pour tel Bill, en donnant le notice ordonnée par la Règle soixante-et-sixième, donneront aussi, en même tems et de la même manière un Avis, notifiant les taux qu'elles se proposeront de demander, l'étendue du privilége, l'élévation des Arches, l'espace entre les Colées ou Piliers, pour le passage des Cageux, Cages et Batimens, et mentionnant si elles se proposent de Bâtir un Pont-levis ou non, et les dimensions de tel Pont-levis.

Résolu, 71.—Que tous les frais et dépenses occasionnés par les Bills privés qui accordent quelque avantage ou privilége exclusif, et les procédures y relatives dans cette Chambre, ne doivent pas retomber sur le public, et qu'il est juste et raisonnable que partie de ces frais et dépenses soit supportée par ceux qui demandent les dits Bills; et après la présente Session une somme qui ne sera pas moindre que £20 sera déposée entre les mains du Greffier de cette Chambre par le Pétitionnaire avant la deuxième lecture d'aucun tel Bill.

EXTRACTS from the Standing Rules and Regulations of the Legislative Council of Canada.

Forty-ninth Rule.—That proof be required that notice of the intention of any person or persons to apply to the Legislature for its interference, respecting any local matter, has been publicly given in the Official Gazette, at least once in each month, for six months preceding the Session in which such application is to be made.

Fifty-first Rule.—That when a Private Bill shall be brought from the other House, the principle of which is admitted, this House, by message, may either request a communication of the evidence received in proof of the allegation or matter whereon the Bill is founded, or the Committee of this House to whom it may be referred, shall examine the said allegation, and on reporting the Bill, state whether the same, or matter thereof, be founded, and whether the parties concerned in interest or property therein have given their consent, to the satisfaction of the Committee.

Fifty-second Rule.—That the foregoing be considered a standing instruction to all Committees who shall meet upon private Bills; and further, that they require all persons whose interests, or property they shall consider to be affected thereby, to appear in person before them, to give their consent thereto; and if they cannot personally attend, they may send their consent in writing, which shall be proved before the Committee by one or more witnesses; and that when any Committee shall be appointed on a private Bill, notice thereof shall be set up in the Lobby of this House, seven days before the meeting of the said Committee.

Fifty-seventh Rule.—That this House will not proceed upon any private Bill, unless upon Petition duly signed to the House, and that no such Petition will be received unless presented within thirty days after the commencement of the Session.

Fifty-eighth Rule.—That to prevent surprise, and to afford time for proper investigation in matters that may affect the Private Rights of Individuals, it is expedient to make it a standing order of the Legislative Council, that no petition for a private Bill, which can affect the vested right, interest, or convenience of any person or persons other than the Petitioner or Petitioners, shall be received after the thirteenth day of the Session, and that no private Bill, of the nature above described, which may come up from the Legislative Assembly, after the fortieth day of the Session, shall be proceeded upon in the Legislative Council.

Seventy-first Rule.—That no printed petition be received by this House.

Seventy-third Rule.—That no petition be received from any Corporate body, unless it be duly authenticated by the Seal of such Corporation.

Latest Intelligence.

LONDON, FEB. 20.

The sense of Parliament now appears, from the great majorities on the important questions lately discussed, to be decidedly in favor of Administration. The country has received with satisfaction and sanctioned with its warmest approbation, the decision of its Representatives. The language held by all the Members of Administration, proves that the most perfect concord reigns in the Cabinet.

FEB. 26.—Of the sailing of the Toulon squadron, with troops on board, the letters from Gibraltar make positive mention—adding, that Lord Nelson was at the time of their sailing taking in water at Sicily ; and that he received intelligence of the event four days after the ships had left Toulon. If Lord Nelson was watering at Messina, and the French attempted to pass through the strait that seperates Sicily from Italy, they would fall into his very teeth—if he was watering at Palermo and they attempted to pass to the Westward of Sicily, they would hardly escape him. At any rate we entertain the most sanguine expectations that they will never again reach a French Port. Perhaps indeed, the Bay of Aboukir may be destined to be a second time the scene of British victory, and of Lord Nelson's glory. If the French are gone, as we are still strongly of opinion they are, to repossess themselves of Alexandria and the adjacent Coast.

Admiral Cochrane's squadron has been ordered in quest of the Rochefort fleet, and is to proceed to the West Indies with all possible expedition.—His squadron is composed of the following ships, St. George, 98, Rear Admiral Cochrane. Capt. Dr Courcy; Atlas, 74, Capt. Pym; Northumberland, 74, Capt. Tobin; Eagle, 74, Capt. Colby; Le Spartiate, 74, Laforey; and Veteran, 64, Capt. Newman.

March 1.—Bonapate, it seems has consented to the neutrality of Naples; the ports of Sicily being no longer shut against English shipping. Our envoy still continues at Naples. The other Italian ports are shut.

The mediation of Prussia between England and France, has been accepted by Bonaparte.

Prince Eugene Beauharnois, son of her Imperial Majesty Josephine, is stated to be on his way to Italy, accompanied by a strong escort. He arrived at Lyons on the 5th, with a detachment of the Imperial guard, and a body of cavalry. He is probably a forerunner of the change which is to take place in the State of Lombardy.

March 4.—Admiralty orders have been given for an augmentation of the ships of the line in the North Sea. All the ships fit for sea, have been ordered to sail immediately.

Mr. Pitt has now four times the majority with which he said a few months ago he would be satisfied to carry on the bufuefs of the nation. The number he then wifhed for was 50; he had on Tuefday evening a majority of upwards of 200.

Caft Iron Bridge over the Thames.

The arch of this elegant ftructure is the flatteft fegment ever built on a large fcale, being the fegment of a circle of 2,522 feet diameter, the chord or fpan, 180, and the verfed line or height 16 feet; it fprings from abutments of ftone built on piles, and is 27 feet 2 inches in breadth; it conffifts of 6 ribs, placed 5 feet afunder, kept in their pofition by perforated crofs bars, placed horizontally at the top and bottom of each arch piece, quite acrofs the bridge; each of the ribs is compofed of 39 arch pieces, 4 feet 7 and a quarter inches long at top, and 4 feet 6 3-8 inches at bottom, 4 feet deep, and 4 1-4 inches thick; they are caft hollow, for the purpofe of introducing dowels 4 1-4 inches wide, and two inches thick; through thefe dowels, and alfo the arch pieces, are caft holes, into which wedges are driven, which bring the parts into clofe contact, and very conffiderably leffen the fhoot or thruft of the arch.—The fpondrils are filled up with circles, which diminifh from the abutments to the centre: the whole is covered with plates one inch thick, and two feet broad, on the ends of which reft the pannels, on which the balluftrade is placed.—The whole weight of iron is 270 tons, of which the covering plates weigh 100—the bridge was caft by the Walkers of Rotherham, on an improved plan, for the invention of which, his Majefty has been graciouffly pleafed to grant his royal letters patent to Mr. T. Wilton, engineer of Wearmouth bridge, under whofe direction the whole iron-work was thrown acrofs the River Thames, and completed in lefs than fix months.

The firft day the bridge was opened for public ufe, the commiffioners had the pleafure of feeing 160 fat oxen, 10 horfes, and a great number of people upon the bridge, at the fame time, without producing the leaft effect upon it; although the trotting of a horfe makes it vibrate. The King and Royal Family paffed over in the firft four coaches, drawn by four horfes each.

DREADFUL FIRE IN LONDON.

On Sunday morning, 3d Feb. a little after three o'clock, a dreadful fire broke out in the houfe of Mr. Barr, tallow chandler, Upper Adam-ftreet, Edgeware-road. It was difcovered by a coachman, who had been putting up his horfes at a neighbouring ftable, and who, on paffing through the ftreet, was alarmed by a ftrong fmell of fmoke. He immediately knocked at Mr. Barr's door, and alarmed the neighbourhood, by a loud cry of "Fire." In a fhort time Mr. and Mrs. Barr appeared in the balcony of the firft floor, with each of them an infant in their arms. Several of the neighbours, who had been rouſed from their beds by the noife, were now in the ftreet, in front of Mr. Barr's houfe, and having procured ladders, they refcued him and Mrs. Barr, with the two infants, from their perilous fituation. The houfe was by this time all in a blaze, and a coachman of the name of Pierce, who refided in the fecond floor, was fortunate enough, at the imminent rifque of his life, to refcue his daughter, whom he carried down ftairs amidft fire and fmoke. He had fcarcely reached the door in fafety with her, when recollecting that his wife remained behind, he exclaimed, in an agony of grief, "O! Betfey, Betfey, Betfey!" To return as he came was impoffible, as the ftaircafe was completely enveloped with the flames; but he had fcarcely uttered the above words when one of the windows in the two pair of ftairs front room opened, and the unfortunate woman prefented herfelf. Without a moment's hefitation fhe precipitated herfelf into the ftreet. By the fall her thigh was broken, and her neck diflocated, and fhe inftantly expired in the prefence of her hufband and daughter, who were eye-witneffes of her melancholy fate.

The fire had by this time got poffeffion of every part of the houfe, which prefented nothing but one entire blaze and no hope was left that any of the unfortunate inhabitants that remained in it could poffibly efcape. They conffifted of Mr. Adams, a coachman, and his wife; an elderly lady, and her two grand-fons, fine lads, and two young men, fervants out of places, all of whom, to the number of feven, melancholy to relate, fell victims to the fury of the flames! The foot-guards quartered at Portman-ftreet barracks, and the Mary-la-Bone Affociation, attended, and uſed every exertion to prevent the fpreading of the fire, and to protect the property of the neighbourhood. On Monday morning, at nine o'clock, four labourers, who were preſent, volunteered their ſervices in digging for the unfortunate ſufferers, and about half paſt two diſcovered the body of Mrs. Jerams, the elderly woman, and ſhortly after, her youngeſt ſon, a fine young man of 18 years, a poſtillion; and another ſon, a groom, 25 years of age. The bodies, when found, were entirely naked, the hair burnt off, but from the ſubſtanceſs of the houſe falling in, they were not deſaced, but appeared parboiled from the heat. At this moment a ſervant in livery appeared, with his wife, and claimed the wretched ſufferers as his mother and brothers—but this was not the meaſure of their grief, for the next body found was their infant child, eleven months old, who, with its infant brother, three years old, fell victims to the flames.—On Tueſday morning the body of Mr. Adams was found, near to which was that of his wife, who was pregnant; after the latter was looſened from the earth, and the workmen were conveying it on their ſhovels, to the ſhells, the ſpectators were ſhocked at a ſight which it would be indelicate in us to deſcribe. The bodies were taken to Mary la-bone Workhouſe, and a verdict of accidental death returned by the Coroner's Inqueſt.

NEW YORK, April 16.

Moreau according to report, was detained in Spain, becauſe Bonapate was afraid that he would be received with too much diſtinction in America. It was indeed natural to ſuppoſe that a Republican General would be well received in America, having fallen a victim to the ambition of a man who has convicted a Commonwealth, at leaſt what was held forth as ſuch, into the moſt abſolute Monarchy on earth.

The King has been pleaſed to appoint Andrew Allen, jun. Eſq. to be his Majeſty's Conſul for the ſtate of New Hampſhire, Maſſachuſetts, Rhode Iſland, and Connecticut.

By our Greenock papers we learn, that Dr. Robiſon, profeſſor of Natural Philoſophy in the Univerſity of Edinburgh, is lately deceaſed. He was one of the moſt profound mathematicians of the age, and made ſeveral important improvements in mechanical philoſophy. His ſcientific productions, though little known in this country, are prized by the learned of Europe. Here he is beſt known by his "Proofs of a Conſpiracy;" a work which came home to the feelings of a very large claſs of ſociety, and which is univerſally known throughout Chriſtendom. Dr. Playfair, ex-profeſſor of mathematics in the ſame univerſity, has ſucceeded him.

It is obſervable that Dr. Rotheram, profeſſor of Natural Philoſophy in the neighbouring univerſity of St. Andrews, died about the ſame time.

From the ſame ſource we learn, that the medical world has loſt one of its moſt valuable members by the death of the celebrated Dr. Wm. Buchan, in the 76th year of his age; a man who, perhaps beyond all others, ſimpliſied the language and doctrines of medicine, and, by adapting his ſtyle to ordinary underſtandings, ſtripped the ſcience of its myſteries, and in fact taught every one to be his own phyſician.

His Domeſtic Medicine is doubtleſs one of the moſt uſeful books on the ſubject in any language: and his Advice to Mothers, cannot be too much recommended.—Daily Advr.

EXTRACT.

WHEN cattle are kept out in winter it is recommended as an uſeful practice to rub ſome tar at the root of the horn, which prevents the wet from getting between the root and the ſkin, and it is ſaid contributes to preſerve the health of the animal, and to keep it free from various diſeaſes to which it may otherwiſe be liable.

[The following is extracted from the third number of "The Philadelphia Medical Muſeum," conducted by John Redman Coxe M. D. of Philadelphia, and juſt publiſhed by M. Thomas Dobſon, at No. 41, South Second-ſtreet.]

The following valuable extract from a Paris paper, (the Gazette Nationale, or le Moniteur Univerſel, for October 4 1804.) will doubtleſs be read with the higheſt ſatisfaction by the friends of vaccination through America, as an ample proof, in addition to former teſtimonials, of the ſecurity obtained by that practice againſt the ſmall pox.

"His excellency the miniſter of the interior, has communicated to the central ſociety of the vaccine eſtabliſhment near him, the reſult of a counter proof which, by the concurrence of circumſtances accompanying it, ought to make an epoch in the hiſtory of vaccination.

"Six black children, the firſt who were vaccinated in the Iſle de la Reunion, (Iſle de Bourbon) and whoſe infection afterwards ſerved for more than 5000 other individuals, were embarked in the veſſel, the Young Caroline, (infected with the ſmall pox) and carried to one of the Iſles des Seychelles, where the veſſels was obliged to perform quarantine. Theſe ſix children remained three months on board, conſtantly placed in the focus of the infection; and pains were taken to make them live, eat and ſleep with the infected. They were alſo, during the quarantine, twice innoculated for the ſmall pox, each time with large inciſions in both arms.—It is ſtated by the regiſter, daily kept, that theſe ſix children having ſlept under the bed clothes of the perſons having the ſmall-pox, in contact with their puſtules, eating and drinking out of the ſame utenſils, having been twice innoculated from thoſe, who afterwards fell victims to their diſorder, were preſerved from all contagion, and continues at the preſent time in perfect health.

"This counter-proof is perhaps the ſtrongeſt in the hiſtory of vaccination, from the particular circumſtance, that theſe ſix children after reaching the place of quarantine, lived for 15 days in the midſt of twenty blacks in the confluent ſmall-pox, of whom ſix are dead; of twenty to twenty five other blacks in the ſtate of ſcabbing, deſiccation and convaleſcence, ſeven of which number died before the veſſel arrived; and all were contained between decks of a ſmall veſſel, in a ſpace of 8 feet by 10 or 12. This counter-proof merits a place in the immenſe collection of uſeful experiments made in Europe upon vaccination; it fulfils moreover, the important end propoſed by government, and it confirms in the moſt unqualified manner the antivariolic property, which the numerous trials made by the moſt diſtinguiſhed phyſicians had attached to the new innoculation."

It is to be hoped that after reading the above, even the moſt ſceptical will be convinced, and that ſtricter attention to the anomalies of the diſeaſe, will ſerve to explain the ſuppoſed caſes of ſubſequent ſmall pox; and enable us to guard againſt their future recurrence.—Pouſſin.

Lateſt Intelligence.

Summary of Foreign News, by an arrival at Boſton, with London dates to the 18th of March—not very intereſting.

Though there was much talk of negociations for peace; there were no other indications of it. It was reported, that the anſwer of the Emperor Alexander to the communication by the Britiſh King of Bonaparte's overture of Peace, had been received in London; but the purport of it had not been communicated. It was certain, that treaties of alliance offenſive and defenſive, were in train of negociation between Great Britain, Ruſſia and Sweden; tho' it was affirmed in the French papers, authoritatively, that an alliance between England and Ruſſia, would not take place; and that Pruſſia had undertaken to prevent a like treaty between Sweden and Great Britain.

It was the prevailing opinion, that Portugal would not be ſuffered to continue neutral.

The French had marched a diviſion of troops into Lubec (one of the free Imperial cities) and demanded a heavy loan, at the point of the bayonet; more it was ſaid, than the city could pay. This is not very corroborative evidence of the boaſted exuberance of the French reſources, under the new dynaſty.

The Emperor Napoleon I. was, it was ſaid, on the eve of ſetting out for Italy, accompanied by his Holineſs the Pope.—Some accounts ſay, to witneſs the coronation of his brother Joſeph, as King of Lombardy:—Others, to be crowned King himself.

Of the Toulon fleet, the Paris official paper states, that it failed from that port the 15th Jan. 1805, with a large body of troops under Gen. Lauriston, and that after being at sea four days, was overtaken by a violent storm, and obliged to return into port. The account of the capture of the British sloop of war Arrow, and the Acheron bomb, with about twenty sail of the Malta homeward bound fleet, by two frigates which parted in the gale, is confirmed. The Arrow fought L'Incorruptible of 44 guns, an hour and a quarter, had 57 men killed and wounded, and struck immediately after the action.—Her vigorous resistance effected the escape of ten or twelve of her convoy. All the rest taken were destroyed; and the English prisoners landed at Carthagena. It was conjectured the Toulon fleet was bound to Egypt. Lord Nelson, who was cruising off Sardinia, with twelve sail of the line, had immediate intelligence of the sailing of the Toulon fleet; and was in full pursuit, when it returned into port.

The accounts received in England from India, are not so late by 40 days, as those received here.

Messrs. Cox and Kowlins, late Sheriffs of Middlesex, had been committed to Newgate, by order of the British Parliament, for illegal and corrupt conduct in the return of a Member of Parliament for that county.

Mr. Pitt's tax on horses used in husbandry, had been negatived in Parliament, by a majority of three;—the duty on salt passed by a large majority.—Col. Gent.

FROM A LATE LONDON PAPER.

OLD BAILEY, Jan. 11.

Samuel Mitchell, alias Samuel Wylde Mitchell, was indicted for the wilful murder of Sarah Mitchell, his child, a girl of nine years old, by cutting her throat with a razor, on Tuesday, Dec. 28, 1804, at No. 24, Wheeler-street, Spitalfields. The following is a succinct statement of the circumstances as they appear in evidence: The prisoner is a silk weaver by trade, lived in a garret in the house above named; and on the day preceding this shocking catastrophe, his wife and he, in consequence of a series of disputes and bickerings, had mutually agreed to separate. The deceased child remained with her father and was usually employed in quill winding silk, preparatory to the operation of weaving it by her father. On the morning of the day above mentioned, the prisoner was observed going down stairs, and asked some person in the house what o'clock it was; and on being answered, desired the landlord to lend some person up stairs to take care of his employer's property. The prisoner himself went to the house of a friend, named Delaforce, in Kenyon street, Shoreditch, who was at his work.—The prisoner told him something had happened to him that morning of a nature that had never happened to him before, and asked him to come out, and he'd tell him. Delaforce was induced to quit his business and go out with the prisoner, who, when he got about fifty yards from the door, said to him, that he had murdered his child, by cutting her head nearly off; they went together to a public house, the Cock and Magpye, in Worship street, where the prisoner had some drink and smoked a pipe, and when they came again, Delaforce walked with him some way, and asked him what he meant to do with himself. He answered, he was now going down to Shadwell, to some friends who were rope-makers, and who, he said, would give him a few shillings while he should be in prison. He then asked Delaforce when the sessions would begin; and was told. He then said, he would give himself up to justice, and added, "Well, Ned, I must die, but what odds will it make to me, if I am cut in a thousand pieces? When I go, hundreds will go at the same moment." Delaforce being now obliged to return to his work, shook the prisoner by the hand, saw him no more till he met him at the Office in Worship street, whither he had been brought from Spitalfields watch house, having been apprehended and lodged there by Grice, a watchman, of Bethnal Green parish, who, with others, had taken him, in consequence of the information they received from the prisoner's landlord, Kennedy, an officer belonging to Worship street Office, went with several of his brother officers to the house where the prisoner lived, at one o'clock, upon the 18th of December; and, on examining the prisoner's room, they found the child lying dead on the floor, her throat quite cut to the spine; the floor covered with her blood, yet warm; a quill wheel a little beyond her, the clock of which was marked with blood, and tracks of blood from that to where the lay: beside the wheel was a low stool, and upon the floor lay a razor open, and the blade bloody. Finding, on enquiry, that there were no persons amongst the number who crowded the room, that were of the prisoner's family, Kennedy cleared the room, and locked it up, to secure what property was there, & then went in search of the prisoner, whom he found, at one o'clock next morning, at the watch-house, in Spitalfields parish. The prisoner, upon hearing himself inquired for, turned about and said, "Kennedy, I have given you a great deal of trouble in looking for me;" Kennedy said he had, and asked if he was aware that he was charged with the murder of his daughter, as he had been to his room, and saw her lying dead, and found the razor lying on the floor. The prisoner answered, "Then you saw the razor—with that razor I have many a time shaved myself, and with that same razor I committed the bloody deed."

Benjamin Moser, Esq; one of the Magistrates of Worship street Office, produced the written declaration of the murder, made voluntarily before him, and signed by the prisoner himself.—After which the prisoner was called on for his defence; when the wretched man addressed himself to the Court and Jury nearly in the following words:—

"My Lord, and Gentlemen,

"I stand before you in this place today, a wretched and awful example of misery, of guilt and of disgrace.—That I have committed the horrid deed laid to my charge, I have no wish to deny, any more than to avoid the dreadful punishment that awaits my guilt; to that I am resigned; nor was it my wish, from the unfortunate moment of my crime, to evade justice; but that I committed the deed maliciously against my poor child, who was the victim of my fatal passion, I solemnly deny, in the presence of that God before whom I now make this declaration, and before whole awful tribunal I must shortly appear. Instead of bearing to her malice, God is my witness, I loved her most tenderly; and to that love, strange and perverse as it may seem, is owing chiefly the sad cause that brings me here this day. I am married to a second wife, by whom I had this child, my only daughter. We had long known each other before our marriage, when I was in better days, and when she and I were the wife and the husband of others; I thought I could be happy with her, but I found her temper incompatible with my happiness, or her own; I found the friends and family with which she was connected, thought her marriage with me degrading to her. Disputes and altercations took place frequently between us, in which no doubt, both were in fault. Those disputes were often carried to a pitch of fury, and what tended still more to exasperate me, aggravated our dissentions, was that those she called her friends, always sided with her in every thing, whether right or wrong, and many of them, I am sorry to say, strenuous professors of religious principles, were always more ready to lend a hand to the fomenting of mischief, than to the promotion of charity and peace. Our disputes at last ended in a mutual agreement to separate, and the child I so tenderly loved, was to go with her mother; this my unhappy temper and feeling could not bear, and led me to the fatal resolution that neither should have the child, by committing the horrid deed of putting an end to her life, in the manner I have done. I fervently beseech God to forgive me, and guide you in your decision upon me this day; and I hope my unhappy fate will prove an awful example to those who form second marriages, with children on both sides, and a warning to them against giving way to intemperate disputes, that may lead them, as they have done me, to acts of desperation and vengeance beyond the controul of reason or reflection. If my wife were present, she could vouch and prove, that it was impossible I could ever have deliberately executed such an act. She could vouch that my disposition is not cruel; and that my resolutions have always led me to the side of virtue; but unfortunately, undersigned agitations of mind, or provocations of temper, I am not always the same man: and my weaknesses, under such circumstances, have very frequently led me into excesses of frenzy which in cool moments have astonished me. Once, in particular, forced by distress, to apply for relief at my parish workhouse, I had come too late in the day; when, wound up by disappointment to madness, I broke as many windows as cost the parish four pounds for the repair; and yet the parish Officers, though they might have punished me, did not, knowing that my act was the result of a mind deranged, I have no more to say, but I hope God of his infinite mercy will pardon my crime."

The learned Judge then summed up the evidence and the Jury found the unhappy man—Guilty. He is about 60 years old, and wore about him the appearance of having experienced better days.

The recorder, in a style the most solemn, awful, and impressive, addressed the wretched man; and after commenting on the horrid crime of murder, always in its nature dreadful, but aggravated an hundred fold in this case, as the murder of an innocent infant, who hailed him, with her first efforts of speech, by the endearing name of father, but to whom he had acted as a destroyer; warned him to use the remainder of his unhappy existence in making his peace with his offended Creator; and then sentenced him to the awful execution of the law on Monday next.

The Court was crowded in every part, and particularly with women; and not only those, but the Jury, the Counsel and all present, were melted into tears.

EXECUTION OF MITCHELL.

Monday morning Samuel Mitchell was executed before the debtors door in the Old Bailey, pursuant to his sentence on Friday last. On Saturday morning Mitchell expressed a desire to see his wife, that they might exchange mutual forgiveness; the day following she came to visit him in Newgate, but so ill that she was obliged to be brought in a hackney coach supported between two friends. As soon as the distressing interview was over, he applied himself devoutly to prayer, in which he continued nearly the whole of the day. On that day he was exceedingly anxious to obtain Dr. Ford's promise to publish to the world that he died in the faith of the Church of England; and he was the more anxious it should be done, as it had been generally understood that he belonged to the sect denominated Methodists. At half past six yesterday morning Mitchell's cell was unlocked, and the ordinary attended him to the Chapel to prayers; which being concluded, he returned to the press yard, and there walked for some time, holding two friends by the arms; mean while his mind was occupied with his unhappy situation; he begged of all around him to pray with him. He first put up a prayer to Heaven for his own soul; next invoked a blessing on his wife, his two daughters by a former marriage, his son and daughter in law, in the most pathetic manner. The unhappy man blessed the memory of his murdered child, and trusted the sacrifice he was about to make would, in some degree, expiate his crime in Heaven; which he did not despair to see. Then, in language which would have done credit to the pulpit or the bar, he besought God to grant his Majesty health and long life, to endue his Ministers with wisdom, that it might be applied to the happiness and prosperity of his country, which notwithstanding the convulsions by which it was surrounded, he prayed might endure under its present form of Government, till time shall be no more. He then expressed his gratitude to the Magistrates and to Mr. Newman, the keeper of the prison, for his humane consideration of him. He expressed himself most grateful to Dr. Ford, for the consolation he had afforded him by his admonition and counsel, and repeatedly acknowledged that he felt more comfort in the prospect of death than he should in life, were a reprieve offered him. His last petition was to the Sheriffs, to request, that after the Surgeons had practised upon his body, his mangled remains might be given to his daughters for burial, which request the sheriffs promised should be complied with.

Precisely at five minutes past eight, this unfortunate man mounted the platform, and in ten minutes after, the usual time, was cut down, and taken to St. Bartholomew's Hospital for dissection.

The concourse of spectators was as numerous as upon any former melancholy occasion of the kind, and the fate of the unhappy man was regarded with greater symptoms of compassion than are usually bestowed on such horrid crimes. This is, perhaps, to be attributed to the dreadful act, for which he strove to make every atonement that what to be hoped from sincere and prolonged repentance.

The excellence and superiority of the following Poem, rendered it perfect our Readers with it.

THE PLOUGHMAN'S ANSWER.

Being an answer to that foolish question,

WHAT HAVE THE POOR TO LOSE?

Because I'm but poor,
And feather my store,
That I've nothing to lose is the cry;
Let who will declare it,
I vow I can't bear it,
'Gainst all such praters the lie.

Though my house is but small,
Yet to have some at all,
Would sure be a greater distress, Sir,
Shall my garden, so sweet,
And my orchard, so neat,
Be the prize of a foreign oppressor?

On Saturday night,
'Tis still my delight
With my wages to run home the faster;
But if Frenchmen rule here,
I may look for and near,
But I never shall find a Pay-Master.

I've a dear little wife,
Whom I love as my life;
To lose her I should not much like.
And it would make me run wild,
To see my sweet child,
With its head on the point of a pike.

I've my Church too to save,
And I will go to my grave
In defence of a Church that's the best;
I've my King, too, GOD bless him,
Let no man oppress him,
For none has he ever oppress'd.

British Laws for my guard,
My courage a bar'd;
'Tis fair in the light or the dark.
If the 'Squire show'd oppress,
I get redress,
My Orchard's as safe as his Park.

My Cot is my Throne,
What I have is my own,
And what is my own I will keep.
Should Bonni come now,
'Tis true I may plough,
But I'm sure that I never shall reap.

Now do but reflect,
What I have to protect;
Then how it to fight I shall choose,
King, Church, Babes and Wife,
Laws, Liberty, Life,
Now tell me I have nothing to lose.

Then I'll bear my ploughshare
To a sword or a spear,
And rush on those desperate men;
Like a lion I'll fight
That my spear, now so bright,
May soon turn to a ploughshare again.

EPIGRAM

ON A LADY, WHO BEAT HER HUSBAND.

Come hither, Sir John, my picture is here,
What think you, my love, don't it strike you?
I can't say it does just at present, my dear,
But I think it soon will, as so like you.

THE ORACLE.

YORK—SATURDAY, MAY 25

MR. PRINTER,

Your inserting this Fragment will oblige an old Friend.

Clergymen in general, are not much attended to by their congregations: The reason is, that although they deliver plain practical discourses, yet mankind are so depraved, that they imagine them only doing their duty like any other hirelings; and of course, no sooner out of ear shot of the Minister, than they forget the good things they so recently have heard.—The Devil is a very subtile and crafty enemy, and soon takes hold of the imagination if it gives into their thoughts but for a second. Being an old soldier, who has been a good deal baffled by this cunning enemy of mankind, I think I have hit upon a method of dislodging him from my own citadel; and I think it a duty incumbent upon me (as I write from long experience) to inform my neighbors how I have managed him at last, and I trust that if they follow my advice, they will be able to muzzle the beast, so as to save themselves nameless from his attacks.—First of all, give up without fear the citadel called the heart, to Christ, the Captain of our Salvation, and let him drive out against the enemy relying entirely upon Him for its defence; not on your part, do nothing but trust in him, and when you feel inclined so to church, meeting, &c. or take a solitary walk. But avoid temptation, and do not frequent the Devil's Shop, I mean the Gang Shop.

Your's,

QUETUS.

Latest Intelligence.

LONDON, March 5.

Government are in daily expectation of the Emperor Alexander's answer to his Majesty's communication respecting the late overtures made by Bonaparte.

Mr. Pitt has concluded his bargain for the loan of twenty-two millions and an half. The terms are more favourable for the country than those of last year. The income tax is to be augmented; and new taxes on letters, salt, pleasure-horses and legacies left to strangers.

March 6.

Government are reported to have received accounts from France through a special channel, by which it appears that a great shew of preparation is again making at all the principal ports in the channel, indicative of some speedy attempt at invasion, which the army was assured would not be delayed beyond three months after the coronation, and which should be preceded by the payment of all arrears, as also by a largess, the peculiar gift of the Emperor. Report states that the Emperor arrives at Boulogne on Monday last.

The dispatches with which Prince Gallizin was charged by the cabinet of Petersburgh to the Emperor of Germany, contained proposals, it is said, for a treaty of offensive and defensive alliance, and stipulations for bringing 300,000 Russians into the field. The overture, we further understood, was strengthened by an offer, on the part of the British Government, of large pecuniary supplies. Negociations on this subject are still pending, and there is reason to believe that they will ultimately prove successful. It is certain that Austria is exerting every possible means to recruit and organize its army; and that great activity and labour are devoted to the improvement and provisionment of the fortifications on the frontiers.

Nine Hamburgh mails still continue due, their non arrival is the more to be regretted at the present moment, when the communications of this government with the northern powers are so important." We should think that the intelligence now on its way from St. Petersburgh, will decide whether we are to expect any material co-operation from Russia this campaign.

"Borders of the Mein, Feb. 5.

"We are informed that the principal state of Swedish Pomerania, justly alarmed at the reports now in circulation, relative to the immediate conclusion of a treaty of alliance between Sweden and England, in consequence of which a body of Swedish troops, subsidized by Great Britain, are to be sent to that country, have made representations to the King upon the subject, informing him of the inconveniences which would necessarily result to their country, which in that event would be exposed to an invasion of the French troops stationed in the Electorate of Hanover; the more especially, as in such case, Prussia would no longer protect the neutrality of Swedish Pomerania." Upon this article, it is only necessary to observe, that it has never been in the contemplation of either power to employ the subsidized troops in England. Their services will be confined entirely to Continental operations.—The same pretended letter adds, that the Cabinets of Petersburgh and Berlin have demanded of the Court of London the restoration of the Spanish frigates, and a full indemnity for their cargoes. This flatement, we believe, to be totally void of foundation.

March 15.

An American ship from the Texel, which arrived in Dover Roads yesterday afternoon, has brought the important intelligence of the sailing of the Dutch fleet from the Texel on Monday last. Previously to their sailing an embargo was laid on all merchantmen. It still continued after the fleet sailed; but the American and five other ships made their escape in the night.

March 18.

We have received Paris papers to the 9th.—The session of the Legislative Body was put an end to on the 6th, by a speech from one of the Government orators, M. de Segur. He expressed the Emperor's complete approbation of their conduct; dwelt upon the imposing ceremony of the coronation, rendered more august by the presence and participation of the Pope; alluded to the laws that had been passed during the session; to the excellent state of the finances; to the new conscription, and to the pacific overture to this country. Upon the conscript law he made the following remarks—"Whilst among our enemy every thing is in a state of fermentation and agitation, you have proved, by a law upon the conscription, that we do not stand in need of fresh efforts; and this new law differs only from the last, by a more just and moderate distribution relative to our coasts and maritime departments."—Upon the pacific overture he said, "It will at the moment in which a warrior almost always favoured by fortune, might so naturally have promised to himself fresh laurels, thus silencing his passions, Napoleon modestly proposed peace to our enemies."

The Moniteur has not published any further details with respect to the capture of the Mediterranean convoy, and it does not appear that one of the captured ships has yet reached a French port; indeed we now know that the enemy exaggerated the numbers, and our prediction, that many would be found to have made their escape, has been verified.

The anger manifested by the Moniteur at the cool reception in which Bonaparte's fallacious overture of peace experienced in this country, and the fear which it expresses, left an English subsidy should be accepted by any of the Continental Powers, afford the best possible explanation of the ftate, and of the views of the French Government. They are worth volumes of idle reports from ill-informed travellers. They shew at once that France is completely baffled in her views of subjugating this country, and even more, that "England, single handed," is more than a match for her; they shew the changeable and shifting politics of the Usurper, that when he could not compass his end by open force, he endeavours to do it by fraud; by an offer of peace, or rather a truce which should induce us to disarm, and leave ourselves exposed to fresh manoeuvres. They confirm the wisdom of the late ministry in commencing the war, before our enemy had completed his preparations, and of the present, in declining to be duped by a pretended pacific overture.

By the Fly cutter, which arrived at Yarmouth on Friday last from the Texel, which place she left on Thursday, the Dutch fleet had made its first movement, two line of battle ships belonging to it having come down into the outer road.—This circumstance, no doubt, gave rise to the report brought by an American ship which put into Dover, that the Dutch squadron had actually put to sea.

Sweden has been obliged, by the remonstrances of Prussia, to decline the proffered subsidy from this country.

Portugal is stated to have purchased, with the concurrence of this country, the sufferance of France to remain neutral in the war, by a yearly subsidy of 6x millions of crusades.

Such was the activity of the Marine Department in Spain, that 12 ships of the line were completed for sea during the last month, and an equal number are to be equipped within the present month.

The Courts of Vienna and Petersburgh are decidedly hostile to the intended creation of a monarchy in Lombardy. Austria has remonstrated in strong terms against the change, as being contrary to the stipulations of the Treaty of Luneville, and we understand it is for the present deferred. Prussia has, on the contrary, recommended the measure, as tending to establish the tranquillity of that country, and as barring any views or claims which Austria may entertain in regard to it.

The French papers in an article which we publithed on Tuesday, ftated, that the French Government would not undertake partial operations, but would ftrike feveral blows at us at once.

What will the enemy of the financial fyftem of this country fay, when we ftate, that, by the beneficial operation of the Sinking Fund, no leis a fum than 1,608,920l. 13s. 4d. is at present applied, per quarter, to the reduction of the national debt, and that the fum already redeemed amounts to one hundred and thirteen million, five hundred and twenty-two thoufand, three hundred and ninety three pounds fterling.

NEW YORK, April 30.

Mr. Smart, formerly of Drury-lane Theatre, has prefented the Young Roficius with a Seal of Garrick, finely engraved, and a ftriking likenefs.—The following is the admonitory note with which the prefent was accompanied:

"Young Gentleman,

"The fame of your talents has drawn an old fellow labourer in the theatric vineyard from his retirement, at a confiderable diftance, in a very advanced age; and he feels himfelf well rewarded for his trouble.

"May your fuccefs continue, and may you live to be an honor to the ftage, and to your country.

"Let me recommend to you, ftrict attention to the moral duties, and to the cultivation of your mind, by the arts and Belles Lettres, without which, little improvement can be gained in your profeffion, much lefs in fociety.

"Accept from me a feal, a ftrong likenefs of our great predeceffor GARRICK; when you are acquainted with his character, keep his virtues ever in your mind, and imitate his profeffional talents as far as poffible."

[London Paper.

From a St. Kitts (Baffaterre) paper of April 9.

We are happy in being enabled to congratulate the Public, and the inhabitants of the Britifh Weft Indies in general, on the arrival of our much wifhed for reinforcement, under the command of Rear Admiral Cochrane, and the conlequent annihilation of the fhort lived fuperiority of the enemy in thefe feas: The inhabitants of this Iland were ferioufly alarmed yefterday morning on the appearance of feveral fhips of war to the fouthward, which, not having communicated with the fhore, created a fufpicion that they were the enemy. The militia aflembled foon after the alarm was raifed, and as the fhips feemed to ftand towards the Garrifon of Brimftone Hill, they immediately prepared to proceed thither, and were actually on the way, when the caufe of the alarm was made known by capt. Jennings, of the Blanche privateer, who went from Nevis on board one of them, the Unicorn frigate, and was informed, that the fquadron was that of Admiral Cochrane, conlifting of fix fail of the line, and three frigates. Expreffes were immediately fent after the militia with the above pleafing intelligence, when they returned to town. The fquadron continued under a preft of fail to the weftward, in which direction four fhips were feen from Brimftone Hill, which it was fuppofed they were in chafe of.—The four fhips here mentioned, are fuppofed to be armed merchantmen homeward bound from Demerara, as one which arrived here yefterday evening from the colony, for a load, failed in company with four others homeward bound.

We have not learnt the names of all the fhips of the above fquadron, but the following are among them:—

St. George,	98 guns.
Northumberland,	74
Eagle,	74
Unicorn,	32

We have the pleafure of adding that the above fquadron is only a part of the reinforcement arrived at Barbadoes, an equal force remained at that Iland.

April 2.—On Friday laft, two mail boats arrived here, one mail from St. Vincent and Granada, for the homeward bound Packet, the Princes Elizabeth, which has not yet called here. —The other brought the 18 February mail, the papers by which are down to the 9th of that month.

ALBANY, MAY 7.

A letter from St. Bartholomew to a gentleman in the Iland of St. Kitts, mentions the arrival there of a veffel from Martinique, the captain of which an intelligent man, gave the following account: "An expreft has arrived from France, which fays, that a WAR with that nation and America is inevitable. Bonaparte has officially demanded 30 millions of dollars, the amount of Coffee, &c. carried from St. Domingo to the continent."—

The St. Bartholomew paper of Saturday laft, mentions the above intelligence as a report, with the addition that a fimilar demand will be made on the Danifh Iflands by the French Commanders in a few days.

It is known that the French fquadron failed from Martinique the 22d March; various accounts have been in circulation as to their deftination, but almoft all agree that they are gone to Leeward.

Wilmington, (N. C.) April 9.

Capt. Oliver of the brig Polly, arrived here on Wednefday laft, 19 days from Point Petre, Guadaloupe, informs that the French fleet which took Dominique, arrived at Baffaterre, (Guad.) about the 4th March, with fourteen Englifh fhips richly laden, one of which was a Guineaman loaded with flaves; and having landed 2000 troops and fold their prizes, failed from thence on the 9th.

Before Captain Oliver failed, accounts were received that they had taken Montferat, Nevis, and St. Kitts, which they evacuated for the confideration of a large amount in fpecie, after having deftroyed fuch of the Englifh fhipping as they did not deem worth carrying off.

While Capt. Oliver was at Point Petre, he fays that 14 valuable prizes had been brought in, exclufive of thofe taken at Dominique, &c. and that fome of them were part of the Cork fleet. One fhip and cargo conlifting of dry goods and provifions, fold for 150,000l. ferling; another of the prize fhips had on board 550 pipes Madeira wine, and three large brigs were loaded with provifions and dry goods. One of the prize fhips, an Indiaman, was fitting out as a privateer, fhe mounts 36 guns, and carries 350 men.

CAMELION.

THE following is a defcription of a Cameleon, now exhibiting in New York, which arrived here, from Senegal, in the fchooner Hope:

"This animal is a production of Africa, is 11 inches in length, his head near 2 inches; from thence to the beginning of the tail 4 and an half; the tail is 5 inches long, and the feet 2 and an half; the thicknefs of the body is different at times, as it can blow itfelf up and contract itfelf at pleafure. This fwelling and contraction is not only of the back and belly, but of the legs and tail. Its fubfiftence is air; but fometimes is known to feed upon flies, one of which it is half an hour in fwallowing. It poffeffes the power of changing to various colours, fuch as black, white, yellow, red.

Lover's Leap—Not a hundred miles from Stapleton, the daughter of a farmer lately leaped from the window of the third ftory into the arms of a ftout of Mars. Her lover, with all the foftnefs which the paffion infpires, had ftrewed the ground beneath the window with hay, and was haftening off with the fair burden unhurt, when he was feized by the leg by a yard dog, which made him "other wounds as deep tho' not fo fatal." The family was alarmed by the noife, the bleeding lover difcovered, and the fair fugitive returned to her parents.

[Liverpool paper.]

It has ever been the praife of England, that as the weaker lex are excluded, more ftrictly perhaps, than in moft other European countries, from all the walks of profit or honour, an equivalent is made to them by their being excufed from thofe more laborious offices, which are neither fitted to the weaknefs of their frames nor the delicacy of their habits and manners. Judge then how I was furpriled to fee a few days fince, in a newspaper, an account of the yearly meeting of the Bath Agricultural Society, in which among the premiums given by that refpectable and polite body for the year 18 5, I remarked the following—"For Women-plowing."

It does not appear by the ftatement in the paper, whether the female is to guide the plough, or to be yoked to it. The latter, though novel here, would not be altogether unprecedented, fince we are informed by a late writer, Mr. Barrow, in China, a country which does not yield in politenefs even to Bath, it is not uncommon to fee a huibandman plough with a woman and an afs yoked together.

Extract from the Encyclopedia.

A method to preferve fruit trees in bloffom from the effects of frofl.

"THE Chevalier de Biesenberg of Prague, we are told, had difcovered a method of effectually preferving trees in bloffom from the fatal effects of thofe frofts which fometimes in the fpring deftroys the moft promifing hopes of a plentiful crop of fruit. This method is extremely fimple. He furrounds the trunk of the tree in bloffom with a wifp of ftraw or hemp. The end of this he links, by means of a ftone tied to it, in a veffel of fpring water, at a little diftance from the tree. One veffel will conveniently ferve two trees; or the cord may be lengthened to as to furround feveral, before its end is plunged into the water.

It is neceffary that the veffel is placed in an open fituation, and by no means fhaded by the branches of the neighbouring trees, that the froft may produce all its effects, on the water, by means of the cord communicating with it. This precaution is particularly neceffary for thole trees the flowers of which appear nearly at the fame time as their leaves: which trees are peculiary expoled to the ravages of the frofts.

The proofs of its efficacy, which he had an opportunity of obferving in the fpring of 1787, were remarkably ftriking. Seven apricot efpaliers in his garden began to bloffom in the month of March. Fearing that they would fuffer from the late frofts, he furrounded them with cords as above directed. In effect, pretty fharp frofts took place fix or eight nights: the apricot trees in the neighbouring gardens were all frozen, and none of them produced any fruit, whilft each of the Chevalier's produced fruit in abundance, which came to the greateft perfection.

From the New York Herald of Dec. 25.

The following account of the deſtruction of the combined French and Spaniſh fleet after the late engagement off Cadiz was received by Mr. Kirkpatrick, the American Conſul at Malaga, from his correſpondent at Cadiz, and brought here yeſterday by Captain Chew, from Gibraltar. From this ſtatement it will be ſeen that the Britiſh were unable to ſecure more than 14 of the enemies ſhips, although a much greater number ſtruck to them.—Eleven eſcaped.—Three drifted on the rocks and were entirely loſt, together with moſt of their crews.—One was ſo crippled as to be unmanageable and was deſtroyed, and one blew up in the engagement.

An account of the Combined Fleets of France and Spain, that failed from Cadiz on the 19th and 20th of October, 1805, and fought the Britiſh Fleet on the 21ſt of the ſame month.

SPANISH SHIPS.

Principe d'Auſturias, 112 guns.—Returned to Cadiz Bay on the 21ſt Oct. very much damaged, and a great number killed and wounded—among the latter Admiral Gravina and his Major General Piſcano, however not dangerous; on the night of the 22d her main and main maſts were ſo crippled that they rolled overboard.

Santa Anna.—Struck to Admiral Collingwood, who manned her and took out her captain, Admiral Haba being wounded was left by his own choice on board; being entirely diſmaſted and ungovernable, ſhe fell ſo near the port of Cadiz that ſhe was re-taken on the 23d by the ſquadron that went to ſea for that purpoſe, and brought into Cadiz harbour.

Bargo, 100 guns.—Was much damaged in the action, but came into port on the night of the 22d; on the 23d in the morning, ſhe got under way with ſeveral other ſhips, to retake the Santa Anna, which the Britiſh were towing off; and on the night of the 23d, not being able to make the port, ſhe anchored about ſix leagues diſtant, and it blowing very hard ſhe rolled her maſts (which were very much damaged) overboard; and was taken next morning by the Britiſh in ſight of Cadiz.

Monarca, San Juſto, and San Leandro.—All arrived at Cadiz on the night of the 21ſt, and next morning, the San Leandro, while at anchor in the mouth of the Bay, rolled away her main and mizen maſts.

San Franciſco d'Aſiſa.—Came in the night of the 22d, drifted aſhore in Cadiz Bay, near Fort St. Catalina, and is totally loſt; the part of the crew that was on board when ſhe went aſhore were ſaved, having an Engliſh prize officer and men on board.

Neptune.—Came in the morning of the 22d diſmaſted, and drifted aſhore on the night of the 23d near St. Catalina, and was totally loſt, crew ſaved, having an Engliſh prize officer and men on board.

San Juan Nepomoceno, San Ildephonſo, Argonauta, and Bahama.—All totally diſmaſted and ſunk in the poſſeſſion of the Engliſh on the 23d.

Miſſing, though the tower gave notice of one more Spaniſh ſhip being in poſſeſſion of the Engliſh, but do not mention her name, ſuppoſed to be the Santiſſima Trinidad, of 144 guns.

FRENCH SHIPS.

Pluton.—Came in the night of the 21ſt.

Algeſiras.—Came in the night of the 22d, having ſtruck to and been manned by the Engliſh, but being totally diſmaſted and unmanageable in the gale of the night, the Engliſh gave the command to the French on condition they ſhould not be priſoners of war; this ſhip had above 300 killed, and among them Admiral Magon.

——, totally diſmaſted, ſtruck to and was taken poſſeſſion of by the Engliſh, but ſtruck the ſhore and went to pieces near St. Petre, on the night of the 23d and every ſoul except about 25 are ſaid to have periſhed.

Incorruptible, Neptune and Hero, all came in on the night of the 21ſt much damaged, and are calling for ſuccour at the mouth of the Bay.

Le Achille. Blown up during the action, the major part of the crew ſaved.

L'Argonaute. Came in on the night of the 21ſt.

L'Aigle. Diſmaſted, and in poſſeſſion of the Engliſh, but in diſtreſs near Tonne Gorda, ſaid to be got off and coming in.

Bucentaur. Admiral Villeneuve wounded, totally diſmaſted, and ſtruck to Nelſon. The Admiral and his Captain were put on board a frigate, and the ſhip manned by a lieutenant and eighty men. On the night of the 22d, the ſhip being totally diſmaſted, was blown by the violence of the wind towards the ſhore, and anchored near the Caſtle of St. Sebaſtian; next day about an hour after the people were taken out, ſhe went down. Major General Prigny, who was left on board by Nelſon, is ſlightly wounded. At Cadiz, 400 men are reported killed on board this ſhip, and moſt of the officers wounded.

Intrepid, Redoubtable, Monte, Blanco, Dugaytrouin, Formidable, Scipion, Berwick and Swiftſure. Theſe ſhips are miſſing, but as it is known that ſeveral of them had ſtruck to the Engliſh, it is ſuppoſed they are in their poſſeſſion.

A report however prevails, that Admiral Dumanoud has eſcaped with four frigates.

The bodies of Admiral Magon and Captain Villigris are reported found, driven on the Playa between Cadiz and St. Patrick, where above 1000 bodies have been driven on ſhore. The whole beach is covered with the wrecks of ſhips.

The five frigates and brigs are returned without any material damage.

L'Aigle is ſaid to have got off and anchored in the Channel.

R. J. STRACHAN.

Caeſar, Weſt of Rochefort, 264 miles, Nov. 4, Wind S. E.

SIR,

Being off Ferrol, working to the weſtward with the wind weſterly, on the evening of the 2d, we obſerved a frigate in the N. W. making ſignals: made all ſail to join before the night, and followed by the ſhips named in the margin * we came up with her at eleven at night, and at the moment ſhe joined us, we ſaw ſix large ſhips near us. Captain Baker informed me he had been chaſed by the Rochefort ſquadron, then cloſe to leeward of us. We were delighted. I deſired him to tell the captains of the ſhips of the line aſtern to follow me, as I meant to engage them directly; and immediately bore away in the Caeſar for the purpoſe, making all the ſignals I could to indicate our movements to our ſhips; the moon enabled to ſee the enemy in a line abreaſt, cloſely formed; but we loſt ſight of them when it fell, and I was obliged to reduce our ſails, the Hero, Courageaux, and Ædus, being the only ſhips we could ſee.—We continued ſteering to the E. N. E. all night, and in the morning obſerved the Santa Margaritta near us; at nine we diſcovered the enemy of four ſail of the line at N. E. under all ſail.—We had alſo every thing ſet and came up with them laſt: in the evening, we obſerved three ſail aſtern; and the Phœnix ſpoke me at night. I found that active officer, Captain Baker, had delivered my orders, and I ſent him to aſſiſt the Santa Margaritta in leading us up to the enemy.—At day light we were near them, and the Santa Margaritta had begun in a very gallant manner to fire upon their rear, and was ſoon rejoined by the Phœnix.

A little before noon the French finding an action unavoidable began to take in their ſmall ſails, and form a line, bearing on the ſtarboard tack; we did the ſame, and I communicated my intentions by haiſing to captains, "that I ſhould attack the centre and rear," and at noon began the battle; in a ſhort time the van ſhip of the enemy tacked, which almoſt made the action cloſe and general, the Namur joined ſoon after we tacked, which we did as ſoon as we could get the ſhips round, and I directed her by ſignal, to engage the van; at half paſt three the action ceaſed, the enemy fought to admiration, and not ſurrendering till their ſhips were unmanageable. I have returned thanks to the captains of the ſhips of the line, and the frigates, and they ſpeak in high terms of approbation of their reſpective officers and ſhips' companies. If any thing could add to the good opinion I had already formed of the officers and crew of the Caeſar, it is their gallant conduct in this day's battle. The enemy have ſuffered much, but our ſhips not more than is to be expected on theſe occaſions.—You may judge of my ſurpriſe, ſir, when I found the ſhips we had taken, were not the Rochefort ſquadron, but from Cadiz.

I have the honor to be, &c.

R. J STRACHAN.

I do not know what is become of the Bellona, or the other two ſail we ſaw on the night of the 2d inſt.

The reports of damage, killed and wounded, have not been all received. The enemy have ſuffered much.

The London Courier of the 15th obſerves, "We ſtated yeſterday, that a TREATY of Offenſive and Defenſive Alliance had been concluded between Ruſſia and Pruſſia.—By this Treaty Pruſſia engages to make a COMMON CAUSE with England, Ruſſia and Auſtria, if Bonaparte does not accede to the terms of Peace which have been propoſed to him. The object of Duroc's miſſion to Berlin was to invite Pruſſia either to join France immediately, or in the event of her not joining her, to preſerve a ſtrict neutrality.—The firſt propoſition was immediately rejected. When Pruſſia evinced an intention of no longer remaining neutral, and tranſmitted a Note on the 14th ult. to the French miniſters La Foreſt and Duroc, Bonaparte in anſwer to that note demanded peremptorily, THAT PRUSSIA SHOULD IMMEDIATELY DECLARE FOR OR AGAINST HIM.—The King of Pruſſia inſtantly communicated this peremptory demand to the Emperor of Ruſſia, and the two Monarchs in concert returned an anſwer, in which they propoſed—

"That Naples ſhould be evacuated by the French troops; that the Treaty of Luneville ſhould be executed to its full extent; that Switzerland and Holland ſhould be declared Independent; and that the regal dignity of Italy be for ever ſeparated from the Imperial dignity of France.—If theſe propoſitions were acceded to, Ruſſia promiſed to evacuate Corfu; but if they were rejected, the Pruſſian army would commence its operations.

A letter from on board the Royal Sovereign, one of Nelſon's fleet, ſays, "I write with Admiral Villeneuve at my elbow. He can ſcarcely yet credit his fate, and his deſpair and grief exceed any thing I ever ſaw."

Before the battle of Copenhagen there was recorded in the Britiſh Admiralty Annals one hundred and twenty two inſtances of honorable atchievements by Horatio Nelſon.

LONDON, November 7.

Our Readers have peruſed the modeſt affecting account of the total defeat of the Combined Fleets, and the event to be lamented death of Lord Nelſon, with thoſe mixed feelings of grief, gratitude any joy, which it is ſo well calculated to inſpire. We have ſome, intereſting particulars to add to it:

It has afforded much ſurpriſe, that the Combined Fleets ſhould have adopted the reſolution of putting to ſea, and it had been ſuppoſed, that nothing but a total want of proviſions could have induced them to hazard a battle with Lord Nelſon. The fact was not ſo—they had received orders to put to ſea, the firſt opportunity that ſhould be afforded them by our fleet being weakened by detachments from it, or by ſtreſs of weather to quit the blockade of Cadiz. Their object was to make for the Mediterranean, to collect in their paſſage the Carthagena ſquadron, and to proceed to Toulon, where, being joined by the veſſels in that port, they would have formed a fleet of between 46 and 50 ſail of the line, with which it was their deſign to prevent, if poſſible, the ſailing of any expedition with Britiſh troops from Malta, or any expedition with Ruſſian troops from Corfu. Such is ſaid to have been their plan; and the courſe they were ſteering, and Vice Admiral Collingwood's diſpatches, juſtify us in giving credit to the aſſertion—The enemy heard of Admiral Louis having been diſpatched with ſeven ſail of the line to Tetuan Bay for proviſions and other neceſſaries, and they conceived that our fleet had been thereby diminiſhed to about 20 ſail of the line. It muſt not be imagined that his lordſhip remained directly off Cadiz with his fleet, or within ſight of the port. His great object was to induce them to come out. "Let them come out," he would often ſay—"My object is not to induce them by the diſplay of all my force to remain in port, but to do every thing in my power to tempt them to come out." In purſuance of this deſign, he never kept all his fleet before Cadiz.—This was the manner in which he ſtationed his fleet. The Euryalus frigate was within half a mile of the mouth of the harbour to watch the enemy's movements, and give him the earlieſt intelligence—Off the harbor, but at a greater diſtance, he had about ſeven or eight ſail of the line. He remained himſelf off Cape St. Mary's with the remainder of his fleet, and a line of frigates extended and communicated between him and the ſeven or eight ſail off Cadiz. The advantage of this plan was that he could receive ſupplies and reinforcements off Cape St. Mary's without the enemy's being informed of it, and thus they remained conſtantly ignorant of the real force under his command.—but being acquainted, as we have already ſaid, with the circumſtance of Admiral Louis having been diſpatched with ſeven ſail of the line, they conceived his force not to amount to more than 20 ſail of the line. Great praiſe is due to the admiralty for the active and vigorous exertions they had made to place Lord Nelſon's force in the beſt poſſible ſtate—the Combined fleets at Cadiz had in a more particular manner fixed their attention—they had ſtrong reaſons to ſuſpect what their intentions were. Juſt before they came out of port, his Lordſhip had been reinforced by three or four ſail of the line from home—of this, by Lord Nelſon's judicious conduct in ſtationing his fleet, the enemy were uninformed.

His Lordſhip had received from the Admiralty on the 1ſt and 2d of Oct. ſuch information as induced him to believe that the enemy would ſoon put to ſea. He had ſtrained, before he left London to aſſume the command of the fleet, a plan by which he would fight the enemy upon a new principle; it was, we underſtand, extremely ſimple, but it was no ſooner made known than it carried conviction to every naval officer; it afforded a compleat remedy for that inconvenient ſyſtem, which requires a vaſt variety and frequent changes of ſignals. "I ſhall never diſtract my fleet," he ſaid, "in the day of battle with a ſuperabundance of ſignals." On the 4th of October he ordered all captains on board the victory and laid before them his new plan. It was one of the peculiar features of Lord Nelſon's character to be able, by the clearneſs and preciſion of his plans and orders to make every man underſtand him in an inſtant; the new plan carried immediate conviction to them.—They all exclaimed that it could not but be ſucceſsful. The laſt order given before the action, was a ſhort but comprehenſive one—"England expects every man to do his duty." He determined himſelf to fight the Spaniſh Admiral's ſhip, the ſuperb Santiſſima Trinidada. It is worthy of remark, that he had before gained the higheſt honor in grapling with the Santiſſima Trinidada, in the action of the 14th of February 1797, off Cape St. Vincent. She was the largeſt ſhip in the world, carried 136 guns, and had four decks, Lord Nelſon ordered his own ſhip to be carried alongſide his old acquaintance, as he called her, and ſhe was lalled to her. How well the action was fought, how ſevere the conflict, Admiral Collingwood's excellent letter ſufficiently informs us. The enemy were engaged at the muzzle of their guns. Every one knows how full their ſhips are always of men—every 74 gun ſhip has about 900 men; the Santiſſima Trinidada had 1600, including a corps of troops, amongſt whom were ſome ſharp ſhooters. Captain Hardy, who ſaw from the manner in which theſe ſharp ſhooters fired from the main top of the Santiſſima Trinidada into the Victory, that their object was to pick out the officers, and more particularly of courſe that greateſt of all heroes, repeatedly requeſted, as we ſtated yeſterday, Lord Nelſon to change his coat, which was decorated with the ſtars of the different orders or at leaſt to put on a great coat over it. The firſt that was killed near his Lordſhip, was his Secretary Mr. Scott—he was killed by a muſket ball which entered his head, and he fell dead inſtantly. The ſecond ſhot, a few minutes after, ſtruck his Lordſhip, and entering below his left ſhoulder, took a direction through his vital parts—he ſtaggered againſt the officer near him, and was immediately carried below. The ſurgeons were buſily employed upon the wounded—his Lordſhip deſired to take his turn. As ſoon as the ſurgeon examined the wound he ſaw it was mortal. The gallant hero had his eyes fixed attentively upon him—he ſaw the ſurgeon turn pale, and his

Santa Anna.—Struck to Admiral Collingwood, who manned her and took out her captain, Admiral Haba being wounded was left by his own choice on board; being entirely diſmaſted and ungovernable, ſhe fell ſo near the fort of Cadiz that ſhe was re-taken on the 23d by the ſquadron that went to ſea for that purpoſe, and brought into Cadiz harbour.

Bargo, 100 guns.—Was much damaged in the action, but came into port on the night of the 21ſt; on the 23d in the morning, ſhe got under way with ſeveral other ſhips, to retake the Santa Anna, which the Britiſh were towing off; and on the night of the 23d, not being able to make the port, ſhe anchored about ſix leagues diſtant, and it blowing very hard ſhe rolled her maſts (which were very much damaged) overboard; and was taken next morning by the Britiſh in ſight of Cadiz.

Cæſar, Weſt of Rochefort, 264 miles, Nov. 4, Wind S. E.

SIR,

Being off Ferrol, working to the weſtward with the wind weſterly, on the evening of the 2d, we obſerved a frigate in the N. W. making ſignals: made all ſail to join before the night, and followed by the ſhips named in the margin * we came up with her at eleven at night, and at the moment ſhe joined us, we ſaw ſix large ſhips near us. Captain Baker informed me he had been chaſed by the Rochefort ſquadron, then cloſe to leeward of us. We were delighted. I deſired him to tell the captains of the ſhips of the line aſtern to follow me, as I meant to engage them directly; and immediately bore away in the Cæſar for the purpoſe, making all the ſignals I could to indicate our movements to our ſhips; the moon enabled to ſee the enemy in a line abreaſt, cloſely formed; but we loſt ſight of them when it ſet, and I was obliged to reduce our ſails, the Hero, Gouraigeaux, and Æolus, being the only ſhips we could ſee.—We continued ſteering to the E. N. E. all night, and in the morning obſerved the Santa Margaritta near us; at nine we diſcovered the enemy of four ſail of the line at N. E. under all ſail.—We had alſo every thing ſet and came up with them faſt: in the evening, we obſerved three ſail aſtern; and the Phœnix ſpoke me at night. I found that active officer, Captain Baker, had delivered my orders, and I ſent him to aſſiſt the Santa Margaritta in leading us up to the enemy.—At day light we were near them, and the Santa Margaritta had begun in a very gallant manner to fire upon their rear, and was ſoon rejoined by the Phœnix.

A little before noon the French finding an action unavoidable began to take in their ſmall ſails, and form a line, bearing on the ſtarboard tack; we did the ſame, and I communicated my intentions by hailing to captains, "that I ſhould attack the centre and rear," and at noon began the battle; in a ſhort time the van ſhip of the enemy tacked, which almoſt made the action cloſe and general, the Namur joined ſoon after we tacked, which we did as ſoon as we could get the ſhips round, and I directed her by ſignal, to engage the van; at half paſt three the action ceaſed, the enemy fought to admiration, and not ſurrendering till their ſhips were unmanageable. I have returned thanks to the captains of the ſhips of the line, and the frigates, and they ſpeak in high terms of approbation of their reſpective officers and ſhips companies. If any thing could add to the good opinion I had already formed of the officers and crew of the Cæſar, it is their gallant conduct in this day's battle. The enemy have ſuffered much, but our ſhips not more than is to be expected on theſe occaſions.—You may judge of my ſurpriſe, ſir, when I found the ſhips we had taken, were not the Rochefort ſquadron, but from Cadiz.

I have the honor to be, &c.

The London Courier of the 15th obſerves: "We ſtated yeſterday, that a TREATY of Offenſive and Defenſive Alliance had been concluded between Ruſſia and Pruſſia.—By this Treaty Pruſſia engages to make a COMMON CAUSE with England, Ruſſia and Auſtria; if Bonaparte does not accede to the terms of Peace which have been propoſed to him. The object of Duroc's miſſion to Berlin was to invite Pruſſia either to join France immediately, or in the event of her not joining her, to preſerve a ſtrict neutrality.—The firſt propoſition was immediately rejected. When Pruſſia evinced an intention of no longer remaining neutral, and tranſmitted a Note on the 14th ult. to the French miniſters La Foreſt and Duroc, Bonaparte in anſwer to that note demanded peremptorily, THAT PRUSSIA SHOULD IMMEDIATELY DECLARE FOR OR AGAINST HIM.—The King of Pruſſia inſtantly communicated this peremptory demand to the Emperor of Ruſſia, and the two Monarchs in concert returned an anſwer, in which they propoſed—

"That Naples ſhould be evacuated by the French troops; that the Treaty of Luneville ſhould be executed to its full extent; that Switzerland and Holland ſhould be declared Independent; and that the regal dignity of Italy be for ever ſeparated from the Imperial dignity of France.—If theſe propoſitions were acceded to, Ruſſia promiſed to evacuate Corfu; but if they were rejected, the Pruſſian army would commence its operations.

A letter from on board the Royal Sovereign, one of Nelſon's fleet, ſays,

"I write with Admiral Villeneuve at my elbow. He can ſcarcely yet credit his fate, and his deſpair and grief exceed any thing I ever ſaw."

Before the battle of Copenhagen there was recorded in the Britiſh Admiralty Annals one hundred and twenty two inſtances of honorable atchievements by Horatio Nelſon.

LONDON, November 7.

Our Readers have peruſed the moſt affecting account of the total defeat of the Combined Fleets, and the ever to be lamented death of Lord Nelſon, with thoſe mixed feelings of grief, gratitude any joy, which it is ſo well calculated to inſpire. We have ſome, intereſting particulars to add to it:

It has afforded much ſurpriſe, that the Combined Fleets ſhould have adopted the reſolution of putting to ſea, and it had been ſuppoſed, that nothing but a total want of proviſions could have induced them to hazard a battle with Lord Nelſon. The fact was not ſo—they had received orders to put to ſea, the firſt opportunity that ſhould be afforded them by our fleet being weakened by detachments from it, or by ſtreſs of weather to quit the blockade of Cadiz. Their object was to make for the Mediterranean, to collect in their paſſage the Carthagena ſquadron, and to proceed to Toulon, where, being joined by the veſſels in that port, they would have formed a fleet of between 40 and 50 ſail of the line, with which it was their deſign to prevent, if poſſible, the ſailing of any expedition with Britiſh troops from Malta, or any expedition with Ruſſian troops from Corfu. Such is ſaid to have been their plan; and the courſe they were ſteering, and Vice Admiral Collingwood's diſpatches, juſtify us in giving credit to the aſſertion—The enemy heard of Admiral Louis having been diſpatched with ſeven ſail of the line to Tetuan Bay for proviſions and other neceſſaries, and they conceived that our fleet had been thereby diminiſhed to about 20 ſail of the line. It muſt not be imagined that his lordſhip remained directly off Cadiz with his fleet, or within ſight of the port. His great object was to induce them to come out. "Let them come out," he would often ſay—"My object is not to induce them by the diſplay of a ſuperior force to remain in port, but to do every thing in my power to tempt them to come out." In purſuance of this deſign, he never kept all his fleet before Cadiz.—This was the manner in which he ſtationed his fleet. The Euryalus frigate was within half a mile of the mouth of the harbour to watch the enemy's movements, and give him the earlieſt intelligence—Off the harbor, but at a greater diſtance, he had about ſeven or eight ſail of the line. He remained himſelf off Cape St. Mary's with the remainder of his fleet, and a line of frigates extended and communicated between him and the ſeven or eight ſail off Cadiz. The advantage of this plan was that he could receive ſupplies and reinforcements off Cape St. Mary's without the enemy's being informed of it, and thus they remained conſtantly ignorant of the real force under his command.—but being acquainted, as we have already ſaid, with the circumſtance of Admiral Louis having been diſpatched with ſeven ſail of the line, they conceived his force not to amount to more than 20 ſail of the line. Great praiſe is due to the admiralty for the active and vigorous exertions they had made to place Lord Nelſon's force in the beſt poſſible ſtate—the Combined fleets at Cadiz had in a more particular manner fixed their attention—they had ſtrong reaſons to ſuſpect what their intentions were. Juſt before they came out of port, his Lordſhip had been reinforced by three or four ſail of the line from home—and this, by Lord Nelſon's judicious conduct in Rationing his fleet, the enemy were uninformed.

His Lordſhip had received from the Admiralty on the 1ſt and 2d of Oct. ſuch information, as induced him to believe that the enemy would ſoon put to ſea. He had arranged, before he left London to aſſume the command of the fleet, a plan by which he would fight the enemy upon a new principle; it was, we underſtand, extremely ſimple, but it was no ſooner made known than it carried conviction to every naval officer; it afforded a compleat remedy for that inconvenient ſyſtem, which requires a vaſt variety and frequent changes of ſignals. "I ſhall never diſtract my fleet," he ſaid, "in the day of battle with a ſuperabundance of ſignals." On the 4th of October he ordered all captains on board the victory and laid before them his new plan. It was one of the peculiar features of Lord Nelſon's character to be able, by the clearneſs and preciſion of his plans and orders to make every man underſtand him in an inſtant; the new plan carried immediate conviction to them.—They all exclaimed that it could not but be ſucceſsful. The laſt order given before the action, was a ſhort but comprehenſive one—"England expects every man to do his duty." He determined himſelf to fight the Spaniſh Admiral's ſhip, the ſuperb Santiſſima Trinidada. It is worthy of remark, that he had before gained the higheſt honor in grappling with the Santiſſima Trinidada, in the action of the 14th of February 1797, off Cape St. Vincent. She was the largeſt ſhip in the world, carried 136 guns, and had four decks. Lord Nelſon ordered his own ſhip to be carried alongſide his old acquaintance, as he called her, and ſhe was lalhed to her. How well the action was fought, how ſevere the conflict, Admiral Collingwood's excellent letter ſufficiently informs us. The enemy were engaged at the muzzle of their guns. Every one knows how full their ſhips are always of men—every 74 gun ſhip has about 900 men; the Santiſſima Trinidada had 1600, including a corps of troops, amongſt whom were ſome ſharp ſhooters. Captain Hardy, who ſaw from the manner in which theſe ſharp ſhooters fired from the main top of the Santiſſima Trinidada into the Victory, that their object was to pick out the officers, and more particularly of courſe that greateſt of all heroes, repeatedly requeſted, as we ſtated yeſterday, Lord Nelſon to change his coat, which was decorated with the ſtars of the different orders or at leaſt to put on a great coat over it. The firſt that was killed near his Lordſhip, was his Secretary Mr. Scott—he was killed by a muſket ball which entered his head, and he fell dead inſtantly. The ſecond ſhot, a few minutes after, ſtruck his Lordſhip, and entering below his left ſhoulder, took a direction through his vital parts—he ſtaggered againſt the officer near him, and was immediately carried below. The ſurgeons were buſily employed upon the wounded—his Lordſhip deſired to take his turn. As ſoon as the ſurgeon examined the wound he ſaw it was mortal. The gallant hero had his eyes fixed attentively upon him—he ſaw the ſurgeon turn pale, and his countenance assume the deepest impression of grief—" it is mortal, I see," he said. The Surgeon did not, or could not speak. He desired to be placed upon a chair, and directed Captain Hardy to attend him. He spoke no more of his wound, except when he first communicated to the Captain the Surgeon's conviction. He employed the short time he lived, about an hour, in dictating orders relative to the battle, in receiving reports, in enquiring what was the condition of the enemy, and what ships had struck. He had from the first thought that he should be wounded; but he spoke of the probability of it with his usual calmness. When he found just before the action that he had placed the enemy in such a situation that they could not avoid an engagement he displayed the utmost animation, and his usual confidence of victory; he said to Captain Hardy, and the other officers who surrounded him on the quarter deck, " now they cannot escape us; I think we shall at least make sure of twenty of them. I shall probably lose a leg, but that will be purchasing a victory cheaply." Even had the victory been purchased with that loss alone, it would not have been cheaply purchased, but how much greater a price has been paid for it. To the last moment of his precious life, he was able to give directions with the utmost calmness and precision. Like General Wolfe, breathing out his life on the heights of Abraham, he enquired " whether the enemy gave way?" He was gratified with the intelligence conveyed him almost every moment, that more of the enemy's ships had struck. As life ebbed fast away the number augmented. He was told that fifteen had struck; he seemed enraptured with the intelligence. The last that struck before his death was the superb Santissima Trinidada. When he heard that the had struck, he appeared convulsed with joy; he lived but a few moments afterwads. In his last moments, with that piety which had ever formed a distinguished feature of his character, he returned thanks to God that he had permitted him to die in the arms of victory. He desired his blessing to be conveyed to all who were the nearest to his heart, and whom he could have wished to have again embraced—" but the will of God be done." He laid his head upon the shoulder of Captain Hardy, who remained with him to the last, and in a few moments his gallant soul escaped for ever! Admiral Collingwood had previously received the account of his being mortally wounded—Lord Nelson had sent him his final instructions, his affectionate regard, and his last farewell. It was known too on board the Santissima Trinidada that he had been wounded; just after he received the wound, there was a general shout on board the Spanish ships. Of the engagement we have received some few more particulars—the French and Spaniards both fought desperately—the former seemed to wish to clear themselves from the imputation thrown upon them by the latter, after the action with Calder, of having wished to make the Spaniards bear the brunt of the battle. Admiral Gravina is said to have declared that he had been thrust forward in that action, but that he would this time make the French take an equal share—they did so, and both fought bravely. Many of our ships had two or more on them at a time.—The Temeraire was boarded by two ships at once; they poured upon the quarter deck in great numbers, rushed to the flag-staff, and tore down the colours. Our gallant tars were in the highest degree enraged—they immediately turned to—cleared the deck of every one of the enemy—most were killed, the rest were forced overboard—the colours were hoisted amidst loud huzzas, and the two ships which had boarded her, were forced in their turn to strike their colours.

ALBANY, Jan. 7.

The great naval action off Cadiz appears to have been accompanied by a circumstance unparalleled even in naval annals.—Of three Commanders in Chief, English, Spanith and French, Two were killed or died of their wounds and the THIRD made prisoner.

On the evening after the intelligence of Lord Nelson's victory and death were received in London, the following lines were spoken by Mr. Wroughton, on the Drury-lane theatre:

Is there a man, who this great triumph hears,
And with his transports does not mingle tears?
For tho' Britannia's flag victorious flies,
Who can refrain from grief when Nelson dies?
Stretch'd on his deck amid surrounding fires,
More Phœnix-like the gallant Chief expires;
Cover'd with trophies, let his ashes rest,
His memory lives in every British breast.
His dirge our groans, his monument our praise;
And whilst each tongue this grateful tribute pays,
His soul ascends to Heav'n in glory's brightest blaze

THE ORACLE.

YORK—SATURDAY, February 8, 1806.

Tuesday last the 4th instant being the day appointed by Proclamation for opening the Provincial Parliament; at twelve o'clock, his Honor the President came in state to the Upper House of Legislature, and being seated on the Throne, commanded, by message through the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, the attendance of the House of Assembly, in the Legislative Council Chamber, and the House of Assembly having attended accordingly, his Honor was pleased to open the Session with the following gracious SPEECH to both Houses of Parliament:

Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council,
And Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

BY the much lamented Death of Lieutenant Governor Hunter, the Administration of the Government of this Province hath devolved on me:—I most sincerely condole with you on that melancholy event; his faithful and meritorious Services to the Public, in this part of his Majesty's Dominions, will be long felt and remembered.—It shall be my endeavour to imitate and to follow his Example.

Since the last Session of this Legislature, Commissioners have been appointed, for carrying into effect the Provisions of an Act, for affording relief to those Persons, who may be entitled to claim Lands in this Province, as Heirs or Devisees of the Nominees of the Crown to such Lands; I make no doubt, by the exertions and abilities of those Gentlemen, to whom that important Trust is delegated, the Public will soon receive the most important Benefits from the Operation of that salutary Law.

I forbear on the present Occasion to point out particular Objects for your Deliberations, being convinced, that your knowledge of the respective situations of his Majesty's Subjects whom you here represent, will be the surest Guide to direct you, in the enacting of such Laws as still may be necessary for their Security and Comfort, (as well as in the continuing of those heretofore enacted, but now about to expire, whose beneficial effects we have already felt and experienced.)

Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

I have ordered the Public Accounts to be laid before you, not doubting, but that you will pay that attention in the examination of them, which the nature of the Subject requires.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council,
And Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

It is with the highest satisfaction, that I congratulate you on the great Naval Victory, which lately hath crowned with Success his Majesty's Arms; though our joy is not unmixed, as we have deeply to regret the loss of one of the bravest and most able Defenders of his King and of his Country.

May Great Britain, our Parent State, ever have such men to fight her Battles; and may she, by the Blessing of Providence, be enabled to defend herself and her widely extended Dominions, from the assaults of her Enemies, and transmit her Territories with her invaluable Constitution, unimpaired, to the latest posterity.

The following Addresses were presented to his Honor the President, in answer to his Honor's Speech at the opening of the present Session of the Provincial Parliament.

To His Honor ALEXANDER GRANT, Esquire, President Administering the Government of the Province of Upper Canada, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Honor,

WE his Majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the Member of the Legislative Council of Upper Canada, in Provincial Parliament assembled, beg leave to Address your Honor, with our respectful Thanks for your Speech.

The late Lieutenant Governor Hunter's well known exertions to promote the welfare of this Province, will be long remembered with gratitude, and his death sincerely lamented by its inhabitants. We therefore fervently join your Honor, in our condolence on that melancholy event, and highly applaud your intentions, to imitate and follow so good an example

The Act, for affording relief to the persons entitled to claim Lands in this Province, as Heirs or Devisees of the Nominees of the Crown to such Lands, has had our fullest approbation; and we are well assured that the Commissioners appointed to carry it into effect will exert their abilities to render its operation as beneficial to the Public as possible.

We beg leave to assure your Honor that the Legislative Council of this Province will not be wanting in zeal for its Prosperity, and in giving its assistance, to the enacting of such Laws as may appear to be still necessary for the security and comfort of the King's Subjects who dwell in it; and also to the continuing of those Laws heretofore enacted and about to expire, whose beneficial effects have been already felt and experienced by them.

With pleasure we reciprocate the congratulations of your Honor on the great Naval Victory which has lately crowned with success his Majesty's Arms. But while we thus exultingly join in expressing our joy; we equally lament that we have at the same time to regret the loss of that distinguished Officer, whose conspicuous Abilities and great Naval Skill, have closed a brilliant Career of the most eminent Services to his King and Country in adding this very splendid Triumph to their number. We also piously join your Honor in praying, that Great Britain, our Parent State, may not only ever have such Men to fight her Battles; but that she may by the Blessing of Providence, which has hitherto protected her, be enabled to defend her widely extended Dominions against the assaults of her Enemies, and transmit them with her invaluable Constitution, undiminished and unimpaired to the latest Posterity.

By Order of the House,
RICHARD CARTWRIGHT, Speaker.
Legislative Council Chamber, York,
the 5th day of February, 1806.

To which his Honor gave the following Answer:

Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council,

Your respectful Address calls for my best thanks and acknowledgements; and I entertain the pleasing hope, that the Inhabitants of this Province will derive the greatest Benefits from your exertions and care.

To the Honorable ALEXANDER GRANT Esquire, President, Administering the Government of the Province of Upper Canada, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Honor,

WE his Majesty's dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Upper Canada in Parliament assembled, beg leave to present to you our gratulations on your accession to the Administration of the Government of this Province.

We affect not to describe to you the career in which disinterested virtue may display itself, in exercising the high prerogative of the Representative of a gracious and benevolent Sovereign; but we cherish the fond hope, that you, in your relation to Majesty, and from your experience in the public Concerns of this Country, will, in the Administration of the Government of it, preserve unsullied this important trust.

We derive much pleasure from being informed that the Act of the last Session of this Parliament, "for affording relief to those persons "who may be entitled to claim "Lands in this Province as Heirs "or Devisees of the Nominees of "the Crown, in cases where no Pa-"tent hath issued for such Lands," will, in its operation, prove a salutary Law; as we feel impressed with the principle that the protection of the Subject and the security of his Property, ought to be legibly evinced in every act of legislation in which a regard to our happy Constitution can find either ascendency or support.

We shall with cheerful assiduity, devote our attention to the public Accounts, and shall feel ourselves happy in submitting to you such observations as may be deemed essential either in the retrenchment of the expenditure of the public monies, or in deviling the means of a more necessary application of them.

We feel more than ordinary pleasure in your Communication of his Majesty's late Naval Victory, and though we may much regret the fall of the illustrious Nelson in that Action, yet we cannot refrain from expressing in our sensations of joy:— May our Navy be permanent and its successes perpetual.

(Attest.)

Commons House of Assembly,
6th February, 1806.

To which His Honor was pleased to return the following Answer:

Gentlemen of the House of Assembly,

I return you my best thanks for your respectful Address, and have no doubt, but, that your deliberations and exertions will effectually promote the happiness and prosperity of his Majesty's subjects in this Province.

OBITUARY.

DIED, on Thursday last the 6th inst. after a painful illness, DAVID BURNS Esquire, Clerk of the Crown in Chancery for the Province of Upper Canada His remains will be interred to-morrow afternoon.

Latest Intelligence.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 3. 1805.

In consequence of the reports made by Adjutant General Ovenem, the King has ordered the erection of lights with reflecting lamps for the direction of navigators in the Baltic.—Most of the ships which navigate the Baltic, having occasion to pass before Christianfoe, they run the risk of being wrecked off that place or the neighbouring islands. To prevent these misfortunes and to point out the course which ships ought to take, it has been thought proper to erect on the great tower of Christianfoe a light composed of nine reflecting lamps, the circuit of which may be made in three minutes; so that when the nine large lights are seen in the distance, it requires about 50 seconds to pass from one to another. The lights will disappear in the intervals, but may always be seen, unless the vessel be at too great a distance. These lights are to be placed at the height of ninety-two feet above the level of the sea. This elevation has been adopted to prevent this beacon from being mistaken for that which has stood for some years at the Northern point of the Isle of Bornholm, and in which the light is made by a coal of fire. This light is two hundred and seventy-two feet above the level of the sea, and in clear weather may be distinctly seen five or six miles off at sea. The lights at Christianfoe will be displayed, for the first time, on the first of October, 1805, and will be kept up, conformable to the ordinance of the 21st March, 1705, and the proclamation of 1st Feb. 1799, that is to say, from Easter to Michaelmas, from one hour after sun-set to sunrise, and in winter, from half an hour after sun-set to sun-rise.

LISBON, Sept. 20.

By letters from Cadiz we are informed of a most deadly animosity subsisting between the French & Spaniards, which is carried to lengths too shocking for the reflection of human nature; a night does not pass without the commission of some horrid outrage, which always terminates in the spilling of blood.—The origin of these misunderstandings is kept profoundly secret, but is said to be between the French admiral Villeneuve and Gravina. The latter has proffered his resignation, which the Spanish government has refused to accept; yet no means are taken to soften the existing quarrel, or put an end to the nightly broils which take place between the French and Spanish sailors, which has of late been extended to the inhabitants of the town, who are now engaged in the dispute, under a plea that the provisions for the town are kept for the support of the French navy, and that they in consequence will be starved.

In Madrid the disorders wear a still more dreadful appearance; the inhabitants are in arms, to whom the Swiss guards have been opposed and defeated, upwards of 600 persons have been killed and wounded in this conflict; the cause is attempted to be kept profoundly secret; but it has arisen from an edict lately passed under the sanction of the Prince of Peace, commanding all persons to receive in full payment, in lieu of money, the deniro vales, a paper currency, which in the last war, was at a discount of 50 per cent.—This currency is the most unpopular in the kingdom of Spain, is always at a discount; and the people refuse to concur in the terms of the edict, which is the cause of a dispute which has at length occasioned this insurrection.

In consequence of this news, all intercourse by way of exchange between Lisbon and Madrid is at a stand; and all business between the two places ceases for the present.

It is very currently reported here that Bonaparte has made another demand upon the government of this country, which it is feared, must be complied with, rather than endanger the terms of our present neutrality.—Eight millions of crusados is said to be the extent of his demand, which in sterling money is 800,000l.

Whether this will ultimately turn out true or false, I have the mortification to inform you, that our bilheten, (the paper money of Portugal) are at this time at a discount of 30 per cent: which extraordinary depression is occasioned by the above report; for altho' the bilhetes are generally at a discount, it has not of late been greater than ten per cent.

GREENOCK, Oct. 23.

The Hamburgh Mail due on Wednesday last, arrived on Friday. The following is the substance of the very interesting intelligence communicated by it.

The French troops under Bernadotte and Marmont, with the Bavarian Auxiliaries, marching apparently towards Bohemia, had turned suddenly round, and proceeded in three columns towards Nienberg, Donawert and Ingolstardt with a view to turn the flank of the Austrians. To reach his destination with the greater celerity, General Bernadotte, acting by previous instructions, proceeded on his march through the Prussian territory of Anspach! The Prussian Commandant protested, but in vain—Bernadotte alledged his positive orders—and the Prussians were forced to retire before a superior force. This outrage was next day renewed by the passage of 20,000 Bavarians through the same territory, in a parallel line. Against this violation of neutrality, the Prussian Minister at Anspach also protested, and his dispatches, narrating the transaction, excited the strongest sensations at the Court of Berlin. A Council of State was immediately held, and the result sent off to the King. His Prussian Majesty arriving the same evening at his capital, held a second council, after which dispatches were sent to the Generals in all parts of his dominions, and to all the Courts of Europe. Some private letters say, that his Prussian Majesty has, in consequence declared, "he would allow a free passage to the Russian troops through his dominions—and that he would not, in any way, oppose the entrance of the allied forces into Hanover." But shocking as it is, this is not the only act of violence and injustice which this mail enables us to record. The Usurper has again violated the rights of the Diplomatic character, and the law of nations, by issuing orders for the arrest of two foreign ministers, their four secretaries of legation, and a Charge d'Affairs at Stutgard!—orders given at the time when he was hospitably entertained at the place of Louisburg, belonging to the Duke of Wurtemberg, whose capital he has so grossly insulted.—Amongst the persons thus arrested, with every circumstance of harshness and publicity, were the Austrian and Russian ministers. The whole were put in close confinement.

LONDON, Oct. 12.

Last night Mr. Sewar left town, on his return to the Court of Berlin, with the answer of our Government to the important dispatch which he brought from thence about a week since; and which was understood to relate to the occupation of Hanover.—Our expedition, consisting of the German Legion, and a body of artillery, is destined for Stralsund; but it cannot sail before the end of the next week.—Star.

Government we understand, announced to the Foreign Ministers yesterday, that the Elbe and the Weser are no longer blockaded.

This important event, which opens the communication with Germany and the markets of the North to our merchants, was announced by the following official notice, which was stuck up at Lloyd's.

"Downing-street, Oct. 9. 18 5.

"Information having been received of the removal of the French troops from the position which they occupied on the borders of the Elbe and Weser, his Majesty has pleased to direct that the blockade of the entrance of those rivers should be discontinued, and that his Majesty's ships of war which had been stationed at the mouths of them, should be withdrawn.

(Signed) "MULGRAVE."

Sun Office, three o'clock, P. M.

The Hamburgh mails of the 1st and 4th inst. are just arrived.

The junction of the Bavarian troops with the French appears to be confirmed, and it is stated that Bavaria will be put under a provisional Austrian Government.

A letter from Berlin, under date of October 1st, mentions the intended positions and Commanders of the different Prussian armies, and adds, that a Circular Note to his Prussian Majesty's Envoy's, relative to those arrangements has been published, in which it is declared, that they have no other object than that of maintaining a perfect neutrality, against any power that might attempt its infraction.

Parliament is further prorogued to the 28th of November.

Lieut. Col. Layard, of the 54th regiment, is arrived from Naples, charged with important dispatches to Government. He came from Lisbon, and the packet on its arrival at Falmouth, being put under quarantine, orders were given for its release that he might come to town. It is supposed that he brings the agreement upon which the King of Naples consents to the admission of a body of English and Russian troops to occupy both Naples and Messina as a protection against the common enemy. Ministers also received letters from Sir James Craig, at Malta, dated the 17th ult, but it is believed not of so late a date as those which they received by the last Hamburgh Mail, which stated that the troops were ready to embark for Naples.

The following is an extract of a private letter, dated Malta, 16. 18 5.—"We are all here in the greatest anxiety, having just received the most peremptory orders to hold ourselves in readiness for embarkation, without knowing where or whither we are going, on which the most rigid secrecy is preserved.—The General has desired all the officers to provide tents, there being none here in store for them.—All we can learn is, that we are going to a country very mountainous, very woody, and where we may prepare ourselves to meet the enemy in a few hours after our landing. We are in high health and spirits, and never in better order for the pastime which awaits us. Our Commissary has also received orders to accompany us."

Extract of a letter from Charles Martin, Esq. Post-master at Waterford, Erie county, to a gentleman in Lancaster, Penn. dated Dec. 5.

"Judson and Isaac Fassett are just returned from Detroit. They bring bad news from that place—that the Indians are gathering in force, and threaten Detroit with a second conflagration,

The people are in great alarm, and turning out to arms in every direction. If they had not come away the day they did, they would have been enrolled in the militia next day. This I suppose, is owing to the withdrawing of the troops, as there is now only part of a company of artillerists there, under captain Dyson."

The following intelligence is said to have been received in Philadelphia: that a body of eight hundred Indians had assembled near Detroit, on the British side of the Strait, and sent in a belt of Red and Black wampum to the commanding officer there. The militia have been called out, and it is feared that they are not adequate to the exigency."

Niagara Falls.—About twelve days since, a piece of the rock, which makes this cataract, about 40 feet wide, and extending from the western shore to and nearly across Goat Island, separated from the main rock, and tumbled into the river below. This happening in the day time, the inhabitants for some distance were for a moment alarmed by the noise occasioned by the falling of such a prodigious weight of rock. We understand, that the breach being perpendicular, and from the bottom to the top, the fall of water retains its former height and appearance.

FROM A LATE LIVERPOOL PAPER.

JOURNAL OF A WELCH CURATE.

Monday—Received ten pounds from my rector, Dr. Snail, being one half year's salary. Obliged to wait a long time before my admittance to the doctor, and even when admitted was never asked to sit down or refresh myself, though I had walked eleven miles.—ITEM. The doctor, hinted he could have the curacy filled for fifteen pounds a year.

Tuesday—Paid nine pounds to seven different persons, but could not buy the second hand pair of black breeches, offered to me at a great bargain, by Cabbage the tailor, my wife wanting a petticoat above all things, and neither Polly nor Betsey having a shoe to go to church in.

Wednesday—My wife bought a petticoat for herself and shoes for her two daughters; but unfortunately in coming home, dropped half a guinea in a hole, which she had never before perceived in her pocket, and reduced all our cash in the world to half a crown.—ITEM. Chid my poor woman for being afflicted at the misfortune, and tenderly advised her to rely on the goodness of God.

Thursday—Received a note from the alehouse on the top of the hill, informing me that a gentleman wanted to speak with me on pressing business; went, and found it was an unfortunate member of a company of strolling players, who was pledged for seven pence half penny; in a struggle what to do—the baker, tho' we had paid him but on Tuesday, quarrelled with us in order to avoid giving any credit in future: and George Greafy, the butcher sent us word that he heard it whispered how he intended to take a curate who would do parish duty at an inferior price, and therefore, though he would do any thing to serve me, advised me to deal with Peter Paunch at the upper end of the town: mortifying reflections these. But a want of humanity in my opinion, a want of justice; the father of the universe lends his blessing to us, with a view that we should relieve a brother in distress, and we consequently do more than pay a debt, when we perform an act of benevolence—paid the stranger's reckoning out of the shilling in my pocket, and gave him the remainder to prosecute his journey.

Friday—A very scanty dinner, and pretended therefore to be ill, that by avoiding to eat, I might leave something like enough for my poor wife and children. I told my wife what I had done with the shilling, the excellent creature, instead of blaming me for the action, blest the goodness of my heart and burst into tears—Mem. never to contradict her as long as I live; for the mind that can argue like her's, though it may deviate from the more rigid sentiments of prudence, is even amiable in its indiscretions, and in every lapse from the severity of economy, performs an act of virtue superior to the value of a kingdom.

Saturday—Wrote a sermon, which on Sunday I preached at four different parish churches and came home excessively wearied, and excessively hungry—no more money than two pence half penny in the house—but see the goodness of God!—The strolling player whom I relieved was a man of fortune, who accidently heard that I was as humane as I was indigent, and from a generous eccentricity of temper, wanted to do me an essential piece of service. I had not been an hour at home when he came in, and declaring himself my friend, put a fifty pound note into my hand, and the next day presented me with a living of three hundred pounds a year.

SURPRISING OCCURRENCE.

There is now a Cat at Edward Hodgson's, shoemaker, in Ovenhouse, China-lane, which, on Monday last killed and eate two mice, and after catching and playing with a third that evening, the family were amazed next morning in finding it alive, and the cat fondling with it as with a kitten, which she still continues to do. On Thursday last she caught another, and took it to the place where the other was, both being alive. The same evening a third came to the cat and her nurseries; but next day one of them was found dead, yet Grimalkin would not eat it. The other two are yet alive; and what is most extraordinary, if either of the mice are taken from the cat she looks anxiously after it, and when put down the mouse immediately runs to the cat, who apparently receives it with pleasure, lying down, putting her feet carefully over them both, licks them, and sings them to sleep. The cat is about three years old, and had kittens three weeks ago, which were immediately drowned.

FROM THE BOSTON PALLADIUM.

Extract from the "Travels of Humboldt and Bonpland, in South America, from 1799 to 1804.

"From Loxa they entered Peru by Ayavaca and Gouncabamba, travelling the high summit of the Andes, to proceed to the river Amazon. They had to pass thirty-five times, in the course of two days, the river Chamays, sometimes on a raft, and sometimes by fording. They saw the remains of the causeway of Yngs, which may be compared to the most beautiful causeway in France and Spain, and which proceeds on the porphyritic ridge of the Andes, from Cusco to Assonay, and is furnished with cambo (inns) and public fountains.

"They examined the mines of Hauiguayoo, where native silver is found in large masses, at the height of 2000 toises above the level of the sea. In mines, some metalliferous veins of which contain petrified shells, and which with those of Huontsayo are the richest of Peru. From Caxamarca, celebrated by its thermal waters, and by the ruins of the palace of Atahuapa, they descended to Truxillo, in the neighborhood of which are found vestiges of the immense Peruvian city of Manfiche, ornamented with pyram as, in one of which was discovered, in the eighteenth century, hammered gold to the value of more than 130,000l. sterling.

"On the western declivity of the Andes, our travellers enjoyed, for the time, the striking view of the Pacific Ocean; and of that long and narrow valley, the inhabitants of which are unacquainted with rain or thunder, and were, under a happy climate, the most absolute power and most dangerous to man. The ocracy itself, seems to imitate the beneficence of nature.

"They were astonished to find in Peru, at so immense a distance from Europe, the newest literary productions in chemistry, mathematics, and physiology; and they admired the great intellectual activity of a people, whom the Europeans accuse of indolence and luxury.

"They had a favorable navigation of 30 days on the Pacific Ocean, to Acapulco, the western port of the kingdom of New Spain, celebrated by the beauty of its bason, which appears to have been cut out in the granite rocks by the violence of earthquakes; celebrated also by the wretchedness of its inhabitants, who see their millions of piastres embarked for the Philipines and China; and, unfortunately, celebrated by a climate as scorching as choral.

"After having occupied their attention with plants, the state of the air, the hourly variations of the barometer, the phenomena of the magnet, and, in particular, the longitude of Acapulco, a port in which two able astronomers, Messrs. Espinosa and Galeano, had before made observations, our travellers set out for Mexico. They ascended gradually from the scorching valleys of Mescala and Papagayo, where the thermometer in the shade stood at 32 deg. of Reaumur, and where they passed the river on the fruit of the crescentia pinnata, bound together by ropes of agave, to the high table lands of Chilpantzingo, Tschilotepec and Talco.

"Having spent some time in the mine of Talco, the oldest and formerly the richest in the kingdom, and having studied the nature of those silvery veins, which pass from the hard calcareous rock to micaceous schist, and include foliaceous gypsum, they ascended, by Cuetnaraca and the cold regions of Guchilaqua, to the capital of Mexico. This city, which has 150,000 inhabitants, and stands on the scite of the old Tenochtitlad between the lakes of the Tezcuco and Xochimilo which have decreased in size since the Spaniards, to lessen the danger of inundations, have opened the mountains of Sincoe, is intersected by broad straight streets. It stands in sight of two snowy mountains, one of which is named Popocatepec; and of a volcano still burning; and, at the height of 1,160 toises, enjoys a temperate and agreeable climate; it is surrounded by canals, walks bordered with trees, a multitude of Indian hamlets, and without doubt, may be compared to the finest cities of Europe.

"After a stay of some months in the capital, our travellers visited the celebrated mines of Moran and Real del Monte, where the vein of La Biscayna has given millions of piastres to the Count de Regla; they examined the obsidian stones of Oymmel, which form a strata in the pearl stone and prophyry, and served as knives to the ancient Mexicans.

"On their return from their excursion to Moran in July, 1803, they undertook another to the northern part of the kingdom. At first they directed their researches to Huehuetoca, where at the expence of six millions of piastres, an aperture has been formed in the mountain of Sincoe, to drain off the waters from the valley of Mexico to the river Montezuma. They then passed Queretaro, by Salamanca and the fertile plains of Yrapuato to Guanaxuato, a town which contains 50,000 inhabitants; it is situated in a narrow defile, and celebrated by its mines, which are of far greater consequence than those of Potosi.

"The mine of Count de Valencians, which has given birth to a considerable town on a hill, which thirty years ago scarcely afforded pasture to goats, is already 1,840 feet in perpendicular depth. It is the deepest and richest in the world; the annual profit of the proprietors having never been less than three millions of livres, and it sometimes amounts to five or six.

"After two months employed in measurements and geological researches, and after having examined the thermal waters of Comagillas, the temperature of which is 11 deg. of Reaumur higher than those of the Philippine Islands which Sonnerat considers as the hottest in the world, our travellers proceeded through the valley of St. Jago, where they thought they saw in several lakes at the summit of the basaltic mountains, so many craters of burnt out volcanoes, to Valladolid, the capital of the ancient kingdom of Michoacan. They thence descended, notwithstanding the continual autumnal rains, by Patzquaro, situated on the margin of a very extensive lake, towards the coast of the Pacific Ocean, to the plains of Jorullo, where, in the course of one night, in 1759, during one of the greatest convulsions which the globe ever experienced, there issued from the earth a volcano, 1,490 feet in height, surrounded by more than 2000 mouths, still emitting smoke. They descended into the burning crater of the great volcano, to the perpendicular depth of 358 feet, jumping over fissures, which exhaled flaming sulphurated hydrogen gas. After great danger, arising from the brittleness of the basaltic and selenitic lava, they reached nearly the bottom of the crater, and analysed the air in it, which was found to be surcharged in an extraordinary manner with carbonic acid.

"From the kingdom of Nichoan, one of the most agreeable and most fertile countries in the Indies, they returned to Mexico by the high table land of Toluca, in which they measured the snowy mountains of the same name, ascending to its highest summit the peak of Fraide, which raises 2364 toises above the level of the sea. They visited also at Toluca the famous hand tree, the cheiranthodendron of M. Cervantes, a genus which presents a phenomenon almost unique; that of there being only one individual of it, which has existed since the remotest antiquity.

"In January 1804, our travellers left Mexico to explore the eastern declivity of the Cordillera of New Spain; they measured geometrically the two volcanoes of Puebla, Popocatepec, and Itzaccihuati. According to a fabulous tradition Diego Ordaz entered the inaccessible crater of the former, suspended by ropes, in order to collect sulphur, which may be found every where in the plains.

"M. Humboldt discovered, that the volcano of Popocatepec, on which M. Sonnenihmidt, a zealous mineralogist, had the courage to ascend 2557 toises, is higher than the peak of Orizsuo, which has hitherto been considered the highest colossus of the country of Anahuac. He measured also the great pyramid of Cholula, a mysterious work, constructed of unbaked brick, by the Tultequas, and from the summit of which there is a most beautiful view over the snowy summits and smiling plains of Tlaxcala."

FROM THE TOY SHOP OF MESSRS. VERBAL AND TROCHEE.

In the 4th act of Shakespear's King Lear, Edgar, as a peasant in the country scene at Dover cliffs, calls to Gloster:

"Come on, sir, here's the place—stand still.
How fearful
And dizzy 'tis to cast one's eyes below!
The crows and choughs, that wing the midway air,
Shew scarce so gross as beetles. Half way down
Hangs one that gathers samphire; dreadful trade!
Methinks he seems no bigger than his head."

Looking into the London Review for 1799, we find in the annunciation of "Warner's second walk through Wales," the following concise description of the dreadful trade above mentioned. The second quoted paragraph contains an anecdote, which, although not decorated with the fictitious horrors of modern novelists, will seemingly transport the reader in anxious and fearful dizziness to the precipice, and more than once remind him of toppling down headlong.

"Though the cliff does not present to the eye so formidable a descent as the famous one at Dover, in the animated description of our great dramatic bard; yet it is sufficiently deep to excite our wonder at the hazardous practice, which is very common among the inhabitants of the neighbouring villages, at the proper season of the year.—I mean the practice of gathering the crithmum maritimum, or rock samphire, which grows in great plenty along the ledges and down the perpendicular sides of the cliff. Shakespear, you may recollect, alludes to this mode of livelihood, and calls it, as he well might, "a dreadful trade"—for few avocations are attended with so much danger.—The method is simply this: The samphire gatherer takes with him a stout rope, and an iron crow bar, and proceeds to the cliff. Fixing the latter firmly into the earth at the brow of the rock, and fastening the former with equal security to the bar, he takes the rope in his hand, and boldly drops over the head of the rock, lowering himself gradually till he reaches the crevices in which the samphire is found. Here he loads his basket or bag with the vegitable, and then ascends again to the top of the cliff by means of the rope. Carelessness or casualty, in a calling so perilous as this, will sometimes produce terrible accidents—I——s related one to us, which, though not terminating fatally, was so full of horror, that, to use a vulgar, though very expressive phrase, it made our blood run cold.

"A few years since one of these adventurers went alone to the spot we are speaking of, to follow his accustomed trade. He fixed his crow bar, attached the cord to it, and descended the face of the rock. In the course of a few minutes he reached a ledge, which gradually retiring inwards, stood some feet within the perpendicular, and over which the brow of the cliff bestled consequently in the same proportion. Busily employed in gathering samphire, and attentive only on the object of profit, the rope suddenly dropped from his hand, and after a few oscillations, but all without his reach, became stationary at the distance of four or five feet from him. Nothing could exceed the horror of his situation—above was a rock of sixty or seventy feet in height whose projecting brow would defy every attempt of his to ascend it, and prevent every effort of others to render him assistance.—Below was a perpendicular descent of one hundred feet, terminated by ragged rocks, over which the surge was breaking with dreadful violence. Before him was the rope, his only hope of safety his only means of return; but hanging at such a tantalizing distance as baffled all expectation of his reaching it! Our adventurer was, fortunately, young, active, resolute—He therefore quickly determined what plan to adopt. Collecting all his powers into one effort, and springing boldly from the ledge, he threw himself into the dreadful vacuum, and dashed at the suspended rope! The desperate exertion was successful; he caught the cord, and in a short time was once more at the top of the rock."—Troy Gazette.

A letter from Fort Stoddert, to a respectable merchant in Savannah, dated Oct. 28, states, that the inhabitants of that place are waiting with impatience to hear of war being declared by the United states against Spain—that every day brings fresh news of injuries done our citizens by the Spaniards.—In concluding, the writer says—"Our situation is a peculiar one—Surrounded by Indians and Spaniards on all sides, and separated in a great measure, from our sister states. But let our government give the word and woe to these wretches who have been so long adding insults to injuries."

[Albany Centinel.]

A man of the name of Lemaitre, born in Switzerland, at present about eighty years old, resides at Chateaudun, in the department of Eure, and Loire, of whom the following almost incredible instances of corporeal strength are narrated.

This second Milo carried on his shoulders, in the market place of Chartres, a horse belonging to the heavy cavalry, to a considerable distance. Like his rival of Cretona, he checked in his career a carriage drawn by two horses, advancing at a smart trot; he drew after him, with one finger, twelve grenadiers, one holding the other by a handkerchief, and remained immovable, notwithstanding their united efforts to throw him down. As active as he is strong and valiant, having been once called on to assist as one of the city guards, in the suppression of a riot at Versailles, he pursued one of the French guards, who was reputed the most active man in the regiment, and having overtaken him, he killed him, by merely laying his iron hand on him, for the purpose of stopping him. It was this event which established him at Chateaudun, as he was obliged to carry the taper of St. Lazarus to Vendome, before he could obtain his pardon. During the revolution he was thrown into prison, when this modern Sampson obtained his liberty by carrying the doors of the prison to the revolutionary committee; ardent and generous in his friendship, he solicited the freedom of his companions in misfortune. Bentabole at that time traversed the department of Eure and Loire, invested with unlimited power; Lemaitre informed of it, followed him post haste, and overtook him on the road, his carriage being stuck fast in a slough up to the axeltree; he creeps under it, raises up, frees it from the slough, and as a reward for his services, obtains the liberty of his fellow prisoners. A fire took place at Chateaudun; horses harnessed to grapplings, tugged in every direction, but in vain; he unharnesses them, seized the ropes himself, and immediately the walls give way and the fire is stopped. In an insurrection, on account of the high price of corn, the rioters attempted to seize the municipality, of which body he was a member; he coolly stepped forward, and swimming thro' the tumultuous waves, he brought down dozens of them to the ground. He was insulted at his own door by some national guards, who drew their sabres against him; he laid hold of one of the most impertinent among them, and wielding him as he would a club, he soon brought the whole party to their senses. About eight years ago he supported three men on the calf of one his legs, which was bent; and at arms length lifted up a grenadier by the waist. We should never end were we to recount all the instances of his strength; his athletic form bespeaks his extraordinary vigour; and when nature shall determine to break one of the noblest of her works, science may possibly claim possession of so fine a subject as a chef d'œuvre for the study of anatomy.

French Paper.

LIMA, the capital of Peru, in South America, is a place of immense riches. "One remarkable fact is sufficient to demonstrate the wealth of this city. When the viceroy, the Duke de la Palada, made his entry into Lima, in 1682, the inhabitants, to do him honor, caused the streets to be paved with ingots of silver, amounting to seventeen millions sterling.

"All travellers speak with amazement of the decorations of the churches, with gold, silver and precious stones, which load and even ornament the walls."

It is declared, in a European Magazine, that the dress even of a private citizen's lady, at Lima, sometimes cost more than forty thousand dollars. The ladies there are dressed entirely in laces, instead of linen, and sparkle with rich diamonds.—What a paradise for women.

HISTORY.

The Aristides of Portugal.

"The husband of Inez de Castro of Portugal was called, when king, Pedro the Just. The following anecdote will shew the claim he had to this title. A priest having killed a mason, the king dissembled his knowledge of the crime, and left the issue to the ecclesiastical court, where the priest was punished by one year's suspension from saying mass. Pedro, upon this, privately ordered the mason's son to revenge the death of his father. The young man obeyed, was apprehended condemned to death. When his sentence was to be confirmed by the king, he enquired what was the young man's trade? He was told he followed his father's. Well, then, said the monarch, I shall commute his punishment and interdict him from meddling with stone or mortar for one year. This fully established the authority of the king's over the clergy, who were punished with death, when their crimes were capital." Vide La Clede, Mariana, Faria. Could Aristides have done more? The attempt to effect retaliation of crime is highly reprehensible; but when once the crime was committed, retaliation in judgment was wise policy and splendid justice.

"HAVE a good heart," said a physician to a sick countryman, who had been long attended and crammed with drugs by an ignorant apothecary, "what is your disorder?"—"Phyh." "What do you chiefly complain of?"—"The Doctor."—"Does your head ache?—"Yes with impertinence." "Have you a pain in your back?"—"Yes, where the bailiff lies."—"Are you sick at stomach?"—"Yes with hunger."—"Do you feel any shiverings?"—"Always at the sight of the apothecary."—"Do you perceive any load on your bowels?"—"I with the apothecary's conscience was as clear."—"Are you thirsty?"—"Not thirsty enough to drink barley water."—"Well my honest friend, since you have already undergone the proper purgatory in due form, and lay you have no other disease than the Doctor, we will set you on your legs again without further question. Here nurse open that window, and throw these vials into the street; now lower the curtain without shutting the casement, that the man may not be stifled. In the next place take off two thirds of these coals, and one third of these blankets. How do you feel now?"—"I should feel my heart whole, if so be you would throw the nurse after the bottles, and the apothecary after the nurse, and order me a pound of chops for my dinner, for I be so hungry, I could eat a horse."

CURE FOR THE DROPSY.

SIR,

In your paper a few weeks since I observed that Bohea Tea, and the leaves to be eaten, was recommended as a cure for the above fatal disorder; and I had a pauper in the house at that time, who was given over by the visiting surgeon, I ventured the experiment and to my astonishment found an almost instant relief—I repeated the dose but once, and the woman in the course of a week was able to go out to hay making, and will begin reaping her one on Monday next if the weather continues fine. The woman's name is Elizabeth Aubin; her age 72.

I am, Sir, your's, &c.

T. H. SHRIMPTON, Gov.

House of Industry, Farrington, Berks, Aug. 30, 1805.

The recipe alluded to in the above letter was as follows: "Eating the leaves of Bohea Tea is stated to have effected several cures in cafe of Dropfy in the course of a few days. About two large tea cups full of the tea are infused in a quart of water, and during the day the decoction is to be drunk and the leaves eaten at short intervals."

A CURE FOR THE GRAVEL.

Mr. Urban,

Being a constant reader of your Magazine, I am desirous through your channel, to offer to the publick (for the benefit of all those who are afflicted with that dreadful disease, the stone and gravel) the following remedy, which was communicated to me by a gentleman of America.

My case was bad. I was scarce able to walk across my room, and when I turned in my bed could feel the stone roll round my bladder, which caused exquisite pain; I was so much dispirited as to have given up all hopes of cure, (for I had tried the soap and many other remedies) till I was directed by the gentleman just mentioned, to drink a glass of cold spring water, (about a quarter of a pint) the moment I rose in the morning, and the same the last thing before I went to bed at night. I followed this advice, and after a little trial found myself better, and by a continuance am so entirely free from that disorder that I can ride over the stones from one end of the town to the other, or use any sort of exercise without the least pain or obstruction. What is become of the stone I so long felt in my bladder I know not, but suppose it dissolved and came away by the great quantity of sand voided at sundry times for it is certain I have none there now; as I am often troubled with the gout I abstain from drinking the water while that is upon me, after which I find a return of the gravel; but upon drinking the water again, am presently relieved. therefore I am determined to continue the use of it during my life.

As I am assured of your readiness to contribute to the good of all mankind, and as that is my only intent in this communication, I need make no apology for this trouble.

I am, Sir, &c.

THE ORACLE.

YORK:—SATURDAY, February 15, 1806.

We understand that a boat some time in December last, going from Oswego to Sandy Creek, was lost near the mouth of Salmon River, and four persons drowned; one of the bodies, with the articles contained in the boat, were driven on shore, the remainder, it is supposed, were buried in the Sand.—The persons who perished were, John M'Bride, (found) John Kendrick, of this place; Alexander Miller, and Jessamin Montgomery.

Lines to the memory of the late DAVID BURNS, Esq.

HAIL gentle Shade! where e'er thy aerial tread
So honor'd living, and lamented dead.
Mayhap that now, conceal'd from mortal view,
The Muses' trace thou friendly doft purfue;
Or leaving Earth, on wings celestial mount,
To join thy Effence to the parent fount.
In brighter skies might shone thy setting sun,
But Heaven's high will, and not my will be done.

Say power of Truth, so great so unconfin'd,
And solve the doubt, which so distracts my mind,
Why Strength to Weakness, is so near allied,
Perhaps 'tis given to humble human pride.
At times perchance, frail Nature held the sway,
Yet dimm'd not it the intellectual ray:
Reason and Truth triumphant held their course,
And list'ning hearers felt conviction's force,
No Precept mangled, text misunderstood
He thought and acted but for public good;
His reasoning pure, his mind all manly light,
Made Day of that, which 'erst appear'd as Night.
In him Instruction, aim'd at this great end,
Our fates to soften and our lives amend.
Yet he was Man, and man's the Child of Woe,
Who seeks Perfection, seeks not here below!
And Him whole fame defies the Cynics's scan,
Indeed muft be, or more or less than man.

Hail gentle Shade! nor from the friendly Muse
This weak memorial of his love refuse;
Add this small tribute to the tear he shed,
Who, lov'd Thee living, and laments Thee dead.

The following (says the Port Folio) is one of Dibdin's newest songs:—

I WAS saying to Jack as we talk'd t'other day
Of lubbers and snivelling elves,
That people in life did not steer the right way
They had no body to thank but themselves:

Now when a man's caught by these mermaids the girls
With their flattering palaver and smiles,
He runs, while listening to their fal de rals
Bump ashore on the Scilly Isles.
Thus in steering in life as in steering with us
To one course in your comfort resort
In foul winds leaving full and no near, keep her close
In honor's line ready,
When fair keep her steady.
And neither to starboard incline nor to port.
If he's true in his dealings, title's wind to defy.
And the helm has a trim and right scope,
Not luffing, but keeping the ship full and by
He may weather the Cape of Good Hope:
But if he steers wide in Temptation's high sea,
And to pleasure gives too much head way,
Hard a port goes the helm the ship's brought by the lee
And the founders in Botany Bay.
In wedlock so many wrong courses are made
They part convoy so oft and so fast,
Till so long they are grown of that fame Guinea trade,
Cape Farewell is their anchorage, at last:
Some men I muft own to be doubted may be born,
But this for the wives I will say,
They seldom or ever bear down for Cape Horn
Till the husbands have shewed them the way.
As to mutinous spirits that thro' the world roll,
If we had them aboard Jack with me,
They should make no man's land and skuk through lubber's hole
And at last be laid in the Red Sea.
But fine honeft fellows, to honor indeed,
Shall in this world by nothing perplex'd
Of False Bay get to windward bring up in Cape Clear,
And bespeak a long birth in the next.

Proclamation.

By His Excellency FRANCIS GORE, Esquire, Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, &c. &c. &c.

WHEREAS in and by an act of the parliament of this province, made and passed in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seven, entitled, "an act to revive and continue an act passed in the forty-second year of his present majesty, entitled, "an act to enable the governor, lieutenant governor, or person administering the government of this province, to appoint one or more additional port or ports, place or places of entry within this province, and to appoint one or more collector or collectors at the same, respectively, after reciting that an act passed in the forty second year of his present majesty, entitled "an act to enable the governor, lieutenant governor, or person administering the government of this province, to appoint one or more additional port or ports, place or places of entry, within this province, and to appoint one or more collector or collectors at the same respectively, which was to continue in force for three years, and no longer, was expired, and it was expedient that the same should be revived and continued—it is enacted that the said act should, from and after the passing of that act, be revived, and the same was thereby revived and continued in force and effect for one year, and no longer.

And whereas, as well with reference to the interest of his majesty's government of this province, as to the convenience of importers of goods and merchandize, and of the merchants and others, his majesty's subjects resident within this province, it hath been ascertained that there exists immediate occasion for appointing two additional ports and places of entry and clearance at the places herein after specified.

Be it therefore known, to all whom it may concern. That I FRANCIS GORE, Lieutenant governor of this province, in exercise of the power and authority so vested in me, in and by the said recited act, by and with the advice of the Executive Council of the said province, do hereby declare and appoint, that in addition to the ports of entry and clearance established by and under the authority of a certain act of the said provincial parliament, passed in the forty first year of his majesty's reign, entitled, "an act for granting to his majesty, his heirs and successors, to and for the uses of this province, the like duties on goods and merchandize brought into this province from the United States of America, as are now paid on goods and merchandize imported from Great Britain and other places," and also by and under the authority of the above in part recited act, passed in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and two, the places herein after described and specified, that is to say, the village of St. Joseph, on the island of St. Joseph, and the eastern extremity of the carrying place, and on the north side of the river St. Mary, at, or near the Falls of St. Mary, in the Western District, shall from the Eighteenth day of this present month of May, severally and respectively, be and the same are by these presents severally and respectively established and proclaimed to be ports and places of entry and clearance for all goods and merchandize, not being entirely prohibited, and for the payment of all duties liable to be paid for all goods and merchandize brought into this province from the United States of America, imposed and established by virtue of the said act, so passed in the forty-first year of his said majesty's reign, and according to the direction of the same.

GIVEN under my hand and seal at Arms at York, this second day of May in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seven, and in the forty seventh year of his said Majesty's reign.

New-York, Nov. 11.

The fast sailing ship Sanfom, Captain Stevens, arrived below at a late hour last evening, in 36 days from Plymouth in England. She left there on the 5th Oct. and to captain Stevens and capt. Doane, passenger, the editor of the Mercantile Advertiser is indebted for Bristol papers to the 4th of October, Liverpool papers to the 1st, and London papers to the 30th of September, and a number of valuable marine articles.

Captain Doane informs us, that he left London on the 2d October, at which time the United States Schooner Revenge had arrived at Portsmouth from Falmouth, to take on board Mr. Munroe, who was expected there in a few days, and whose baggage had been packed up a week before. "It was rumoured, capt. D. adds, that the right of search, as it was called, would not be relinquished by the British government, either as it respected merchant vessels or ships of war; and that the prospect of an accommodation between Great Britain and the United States was gloomy. The former had issued orders to detain all American vessels bound to or from the ports of an enemy; and had raised the blockade of the Ems, Weser, and the Elbe, about the 20th of Sept. He states also, that the expedition to Madeira had not failed, but was rendezvouſed off Cork; and that another expedition, to consist of 20,000 troops, was fitting out, destined (as was supposed) for South America.

The latter conjecture is in a great measure confirmed by an article in the London Star of the 28th September, which notices the meeting of a cabinet council on the Friday preceding, which continued in close deliberation until three o'clock in the morning. The proceedings had been concealed with great care; but it was rumoured, that, among other measures decided upon, was the recapture of Buenos Ayres, as indispensably requisite to wipe off the stigma brought upon the British arms by the surrender and evacuation of their conquest in that quarter. For this purpose the expedition mentioned by capt. Doane was fitting out, that the conquest might not be attended with procrastination. One great cause of the slowness of their military operations hitherto, is said to be the arithmetical nicety with which the force has been calculated for the accomplishment of the intended object—not allowing a single man more than was thought indispensably necessary. This system, in the present instance, is to be abandoned; and the government is encouraged to adopt vigorous operations from the success which has attended their operations before Copenhagen.

Mr. Hawker, a merchant of London, writes to capt. Stevens under the date of 13th September. "Although Mr. Munroe's departure for America may look like hostility, yet this is not the case; Mr. Pinckney will act in his stead. I learn that this government have determined to search all neutral ships for British seamen; and it is said a proclamation will be issued in a day or two to that effect." This proclamation, however, had not appeared on the 30th.

We collect from our London and Bristol papers that the Dutch government have interdicted all intercourse with England. Regulations are drawn up with that severity and strictness which characterise every proceeding dictated under the influence of the emperor Napoleon in matters relative to British commerce. The design of the emperor is to exclude England entirely from the continent of Europe; and no choice appears to be left her but to fight him with his own weapons, and destroy at once every vestige of a system of neutrality, and this it is understood is the determination of the English government.

"We are informed," says the Star of the 8th, "and we believe our information is correct, that our government has resolved to retaliate on France by a proclamation, exactly on the model of the French decree of blockade. Not only the coasts of France and Italy, but of every European state under the influence and controul of Napoleon—as also all foreign dependencies so circumstanced, will be declared in a state of blockade, and all vessels going to or coming from any of them, will be declared legal prizes.

"The last Lisbon mail brought intelligence of the intention of the Portuguese Government to emigrate to the Brazils. It is reported that an application has been made to Government to assist them in executing their plan."

General Whitelocke is to be tried by a court martial for the surrender of Buenos Ayres. He was on his passage to England in the Medusa frigate.

Accounts from Egypt represent the Arabs as extremely friendly to the English, and the Mamelukes had explicitly offered to join in expelling the Turks from that country.

Copenhagen surrendered to its invaders on the 7th of September. The articles of capitulation surrender the whole of the Danish ships and vessels of war of every description, and the possession of the dock-yards and storehouses, to the forces of his Britannic Majesty; within six weeks from the date of the capitulation, or sooner if possible, the citadel of Copenhagen and the island of Zealand were to be evacuated; and the prisoners taken on both sides to be unconditionally released. The loss of the Danes in killed and wounded, it is said, exceed 6000 persons; the prisoners, at the time of the surrender of the city, amounted to 3000; and the number of the houses destroyed, 250.

The Dey of Algiers has ceded the Coral Fishery on the coast of Barbary to the English.

It was supposed the French meditated an immediate attack upon Sicily.

LONDON, Sept. 9.

EXPEDITION AGAINST MADEIRA.

A force, it is said, is to be immediately dispatched from this country to take possession of Madeira. It is to consist, we understand, of 3000 men, to be commanded by Gen. Beresford.

The 3d, 25th, 82d and 91st regiments are mentioned as being intended for this service.

A number of transports which are the to be victualled for three months, have been ordered to assemble at Portsmouth, where the embarkation is to take place. The troops are likewise to be furnished with camp equipage. A deputy Adjutant-General, inspector of Hospitals, two Physicians, and two surgeons, are to be part of the staff. This expedition is expected to sail in the course of next week.

The expedition, it is believed, has been resolved on in consequence of intelligence received by government of the hostile designs of France and Spain against Portugal and its possessions. It is of importance not only to our ally, but to our East India and other ships which call there, that the island of Madeira should be preserved from the gripe of Napoleon.

A proclamation has been issued at Hamburgh, prohibiting all English goods from being introduced into Holstein, unless they can be accompanied with original certificates that they are on neutral account, and are imported from neutral ports.

We understand that upwards of 10,000 men had volunteered from the militia regiments into the line before the first of Sept. the period at which the volunteering was to begin regularly.

The Danish Government it is said, was just on the point of concluding a treaty with France by which the latter would have obtained possession of all the naval force of the former, and the island of Zealand, at the moment our forces arrived.

September 12.

The following bulletin was sent from the Admiralty to the Lord Mayor, and by his order, posted on the Mansion House, and communicated to Lloyd's:

"Downing-Street, Sept. 12

"Lord Castlereagh has the honor to acquaint the Lord Mayor, that dispatches have been received from Lieut. General Whitelocke, dated July 10, by which it appears, that in an attack upon the town of Buenos Ayres, his Majesty's troops experienced so much resistance from the tumultuous force of the enemy, that after gaining possession of part of the town, with severe loss, on the 5th July, the Lieut. General thought it prudent to enter into a negociation with Gen. Liniers, who commanded the enemy's forces, by which he agreed to evacuate South America within two months, upon condition that all prisoners taken in the attack, as well as those captured at the surrender of Buenos Ayres, should be restored. The total loss amounts in killed 317, wounded 679, missing 206.

ADMIRALTY OFFICE, Sept. 15.

CAPTURE OF HOLIGOLAND.

Letter from Admiral Russell, to the Secretary of the Admiralty, dated,

MAJESTIC, OFF HOLIGOLAND, Sept. 6.

I beg you will be pleased to acquaint my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that I arrived at this island, and anchored close to the town, on the 4th inst. at half past two P. M. but did not, as I expected, find the Explosion, the Wanderer, or the Exertion, with which their Lordships had intended to reinforce me.—(since arrived).

Having found that Lord Falkland had, with his usual zeal and promptness, summoned the garrison on the 30th ult. and that his proposals were rejected by the Governor, I was making my arrangements to storm him with the marines and seamen of the squadron, if he did not instantly surrender, for at this time the value of the island to us is immense.

At six P. M. however, he sent out a flag of truce, desiring that an officer might be sent in the morning to treat on articles of capitulation: and I accordingly, at day light yesterday morning, dispatched Lord Viscount Falkland and Lieutenant D'Auvergne, (first of this ship) on that service.

At two P. M. the deputation returned with the articles of capitulation, which I immediately ratified.

With a small expence this island may be made a little Gibraltar, and a safe haven for small craft even in the winter; it is a key to the rivers, Ems, Weser, Jade, Elbe, and Eyder, the only asylum at present for our cruizers in these seas.

I have appointed Lieut. D'Auvergne as acting governor until their Lordships' pleasure is known, and I beg leave to add, that, from his perfect knowledge of both services, his zeal and loyalty and a high sense of honor, I know no seaman more competent to the trust.

(Signed)

T. MACNAMARA RUSSELL.

BARBADOES, Oct. 6.

GALLANT ACTION.

The capture of the enemy's privateer Jenna Richard, by the Windsor Castle Packet, mentioned in our paper of Saturday on which day they arrived, will in a comparative degree, ever rank among the most gallant atchievements of our navy and truly deserves every encomium that can be bestowed upon it. The disparity of force between the two vessels, puts this brilliant action in the clearest point of view, and serves further to establish the general reputation of our seamen; while its results reflects great credit upon the cool collected courage of Mr. Rogers acting captain, as well as the steady good conduct and discipline of his crew. The Windsor Castle carries four 6 & two 4 pounders, and 28 men; the privateer 6 9's and one long 18 pounder amidship, worked on a traverse, and 98 men. The action, from its commencement (which was on the part of the enemy at long shot) to its close, was nearly three hours, but it was by a hard fight of about twenty minutes, yard arm and yard arm that the victory was gained. The enemy run on board the Packet, and hung on by her grapnails, and with her musketry and traverse gun did her much injury, but capt. Rogers availing himself of the height of his quarters, kept up so galling a fire of musketry, that the enemy was foiled in every attempt to throw his men on board, numbers of whom were piked form her shrouds and netting in their efforts to get over. One of the quarter deck guns of the Packet being also brought to bear fore and aft on the enemy, the capt. ordered it an additional charge of 100 musket balls, which was poured in upon her with such dreadful slaughter, that her deck was instantly covered with killed & wounded, and such a general panic given the whole crew, that the remainder fled from their quarters. Captain Rogers with equal presence of mind and promptitude, seized the occasion, and with five men only, leaped on board the enemy, who were instantly secured by battening down the main hatch, and guarding the fore scuttle; from whence, after himself striking the enemy's colours, they were ordered up one at a time, and secured with their own irons, which they were compelled to produce. The loss of the Packet is this gallant affair, was three killed and ten wounded; that of the enemy, 33 killed and 31 wounded; which even still gave her a superiority of numbers over the original complement of the Packet, and more than double of that which remained after their surrender!—The mizzenmast of the Windsor Castle is totally disabled, and her sails and rigging much cut up; the privateer is but little injured in either hull or rigging, and is a remarkable fine schooner and has been one of the most successful of the enemy's cruizers.

Boston, Nov. 9.

On Thursday capt. Stanwood arrived here from Gottenburg, which he left the 13th Sept.—He brings authentic accounts of the surrender of Copenhagen to the British forces, on the 7th September. The reported terms of capitulation, as far as capt. Stanwood can recollect them, were, that the Danish fleet, consisting of twenty-seven sail of the line, and thirty frigates, should be deposited in one of his Britannic Majesty's ports, to be restored at the conclusion of a general peace; that the British army should not enter the city of Copenhagen, but should re-embark and leave the island of Zealand in six weeks; and that all merchants ships and property taken, should be restored. The effect of this news at Gottenburg, was, that a British squadron which had arrived there with reinforcements for the English army, had not proceeded on their destination.

It was reported at Gottenburg that a serious misunderstanding had arisen between the Russian Emperor and his Senate, on the subject of the Treaty of Tilsit; and that the Senate had not ratified that instrument.

The Swedes remained zealous in their cooperation with the English to oppose French domination; and were sitting but nine sail of the line with all possible expedition. Capt. S. heard nothing of any threats from the Russian Court against Sweden. The king had returned to Sweden.

It was understood at Gottenburg that the Russians were still favorably disposed towards the English.

The York Gazette.

YORK, DECEMBER 2, 1807.

His Excellency the Lieut. Governor, has been pleased to appoint Lieut. Col. Æneas Shaw, to be Adjutant-General to the Militia forces in this Province.

The family of the late Mr. Justice Thorpe, left this Province we understands about eight days since, for Europe.

Our readers will appreciate fully the acquisition of the Danish Marine, that the troll will be preferved inviolate by our Government, we cannot doubt; to preserve them from the grasp of Napoleon, was the object in view, and it has been fully accomplished: we regret to say, not without bloodshed on the part of the Danes. The strongest probability exists, that a war must take place between Russia and France; the Latter ever faithful to treaties and ever aiming to overreach the power with which the treats, although she may have lulled the Russian Monarch into temporary security, has yet more to do before her continental system can be perfected. The peace of Tilsit we understand, is not ratified on the part of Russia, nor likely to be, the consequences cannot be problematical. The situation of Spain which has long ceased to be an independent Kingdom is not more enviable, than that of Portugal, which it expected, will remove to America. Our disaster at Buenos Ayres, we hope, will be shortly retrieved, as an expedition was fitting out, and ere this, probably sailed, against which, refistance we trust, will be fruitless, and which will speedily determine the fate of Spanish America.

The gallant king of Sweden, contending against disproportionate odds still maintains a warfare with the tyrant and his hordes, of which it is impossible to predict the result; if he again command success, his efforts nevertheless deserve it. The Navy of Britain fully exerted and equal to every exigency, leaves her subjects no room for apprehension; added to which vigour in the departments of State, the loyalty and attachment of her hardy sons, is the sacred pledge of her glorious independence, and the guarantee of that proudly eminent situation which she holds amongst the nations of the earth.

Departed this life on Tuesday the 24th ult. Capt. JOSEPH BRANT, aged 65 years. This celebrated chief, from professing many virtues, has left a chasm in society which his family and friends must long and deeply regret.

ANECDOTE.

A country attorney happened to be at a tavern with an honest peasant, and was facetious at the countryman's expence. They nevertheless agreed to try for a bottle of wine, who could make the best rhyme. The lawyer enquired the peasant's occupation, who cheerfully informed him he was a weaver, upon which the lawyer wrote these lines:

"The world, the sages, is but a span,
It takes nine weavers to make a man.

The weaver, in his turn, inquired the lawyer's occupation, and being informed, I thought, said he, you were of the law by the glibness of your tongue; but since you have rhymed about the world, so I will too, and then he wrote:

"The world is wide, and full of evil,
"And half a lawyer makes a devil."

THE subscriber begs leave to inform the public, that he has at present, one run of Stones going in his Grist Mill on the River Humber, and hopes in a short time to have a second pair. He flatters himself, that from his exertions as a skilful manufacturing Miller, (he returned so much wanted) in this neighbourhood, his support will be liberal, and that he will give the most general satisfaction, as he will employ none but experienced and confidential workmen. He has at present a considerable quantity of Lumber and Boards on hand and will be happy to receive orders for these articles, which he will execute with thanks, and punctuality: For the present, he requests them to be addressed to himself at the Humber, or left at the Printing Office in York.

XII. That the captains of the militia ſhall draw out their reſpective companies not leſs than twice, nor more than four times in every year, giving ten days notice thereof, at the moſt convenient time and place in the county or riding, and ſhall inſpect their arms and inſtruct them in their duties; and every perſon after ſuch notice as aforeſaid, who ſhall neglect to attend, or ſhall diſobey, whether ſubaltern officer or private, (except in caſe of ſickneſs or leave of abſence) ſhall forfeit and pay, every officer, the ſum of forty fhillings, and every non-commiſſioned officer or private, the ſum of ten fhillings, for every ſuch diſobedience.

XXII. That the perſons called Quakers, Menoniſts and Tunkers, who from certain ſcruples of conſcience, decline bearing arms, ſhall not be compelled to ſerve in the ſaid militia, but every perſon profeſſing that he is one of the people called Quakers, Menoniſts or Tunkers, and producing a certificate of his being a Quaker, Menoniſt or Tunker, ſigned by any three or more of the people (who are or ſhall be by them authorized to grant certificates for this or any other purpoſe, of which a paſtor, miniſter or preacher ſhall be one) ſhall be excuſed and exempted from ſerving in the ſaid militia, and inſtead of ſuch ſervice, all and every ſuch perſon or perſons, that ſhall or may be of the people called Quakers, Menoniſts or Tunkers, ſhall pay to the lieutenant of the county or riding, or in his abſence to the deputy lieutenant, the ſum of twenty fhillings per annum in time of peace, and five pounds per annum in time of actual invaſion or inſurrection, upon producing ſuch certificate, and being thereby exempted from ſuch ſervice as aforeſaid, and if any ſuch perſon or perſons being of the people called Quakers, Menoniſts or Tunkers, and producing a certificate as aforeſaid, ſhall omit or refuſe to pay the ſum of twenty fhillings per annum in time of peace, and five pounds per annum in time of actual invaſion or inſurrection, inſtead of ſuch ſervice, it ſhall and may be lawful, upon the oath of any one credible witneſs, of ſuch omiſſion or refuſal before any juſtice of the peace, for ſuch juſtice to iſſue his warrant to levy the ſame by diſtreſs and ſale of the offenders goods and chattels, returning for much of the ſaid diſtreſs as ſhall exceed the ſaid ſum of twenty fhillings per annum in time of peace, and five pounds per annum in time of actual invaſion or inſurrection, after deducting the expences of levying the ſame, to the perſon or perſons upon whom ſuch diſtreſs ſhall be made. And if any meaſures ſhall be uſed in making ſuch diſtreſs which may by ſuch perſon or perſons be thought oppreſſive, he or they may complain to the lieutenant or deputy lieutenant at the next meeting, who ſhall hear and finally determine the ſame.

Provided always, That when and ſo often, any militia man ſhall make it appear to his captain, or officer commanding the company, that it has not been poſſible for him to procure ſuch muſket, fuſil, rifle, or gun, it ſhall and may be lawful for ſuch captain, or officer commanding ſuch company, to admit of ſuch excuſe, and to certify the ſame in writing accordingly, in which caſe ſuch militia man ſhall not be liable to pay the ſaid fine of twenty fhillings.

III. That no perſon enrolled in the militia ſhall abſent or withdraw himſelf from any place of review or exerciſe without having firſt obtained leave of his commanding officer ſo to do, under the penalty of forty fhillings, if a commiſſioned officer, and ten fhillings if a non-commiſſioned officer or private.

VIII. That if any perſon be wounded, and ſhall be diſabled upon any invaſion, inſurrection, or rebellion, he ſhall be taken care of; and be provided for by the public, during the time of ſuch diſability.

P. 159, Sec. I. III. That the exemption extended to the ſeveral perſons ſtated in the twenty-firſt claufe of an Act paſſed in the thirty-third year of his Majeſty's Reign, intituled, "An Act for the better regulation of the Militia of this Province" ſhall extend to all Militia Officers having ſerved under and by virtue of a commiſſion from any of his Majeſty's Governors or Lieutenant Governors in America.

LONDON GAZETTE EXTRAORDINARY.

Downing-ſtreet, Sept. 16.

Diſpatches of which the following are extracts have been received by Lord Viſcount Caſtlereagh, one of his Majeſty's principal ſecretaries of ſtate, from admiral Gambier & lieutenant general the right hon. Lord Cathcart, K. T. commanders of his Majeſty's naval and military forces in the Baltic Sea.

Prince of Wales, Copenhagen-Road, Sept. 7

My Lord—My letter of the 5th inſt. will inform your Lordſhip of the progreſs of the operations of his Majeſty's forces againſt Copenhagen to that period. I have now the honor and ſatisfaction to add, that previous to the hour intended for the opening our batteries that night, an officer with a flag of truce came out of the town with propoſals for an armiſtice, to ſettle terms of capitulation. This was accordingly done, after a correſpondence between the Daniſh General and Lord Cathcart and myſelf, of which I tranſmit a copy; and your Lordſhip will be informed of the ſtipulations agreed upon by the incloſed copy of the articles. Our [illegible] has accordingly been put in poſſeſſion of the citadel and the arſenal, and the moſt vigorous exertions are commenced for equipping and ſending to England the Daniſh navy.

I have the honor to be,

J. GAMBIER.

To Lord Viſcount Caſtlereagh, &c. &c.

Citadel of Copenhagen, Sept 8.

My Lord—It has fallen to my lot to have the great ſatisfaction of forwarding to your lordſhip the ratified capitulation of the town and citadel of Copenhagen, including the ſurrender of the Daniſh fleet and arſenal in this port, which are placed at his Majeſty's diſpoſal.

The object of ſecuring this fleet having been attained, every other propoſition of a tendency to wound the feelings or irritate the nation has been avoided; and, although the bombardment and cannonade have made conſiderable havoc and deſtruction in the town, not one ſhot was fired into it till after it was ſummoned, with the offer of the moſt advantageous terms; nor a ſingle ſhot after the firſt indication of a diſpoſition to capitulate; on the contrary, the firing, which had laſted 3 nights from his Majeſty's batteries, was conſiderably abated on the ſecond, and was only renewed on the third to its full vigour, on ſuppoſing, from the quantity of ſhells thrown from the place, that there was a determination to hold out.

On the evening of the 5th of September, a letter was ſent by the Daniſh general, to propoſe an armiſtice of twenty-four hours, for preparing an agreement on which articles of capitulation might be founded. The armiſtice was declined, as tending to unneceſſary delay, and the works were continued; but the firing was countermanded, and lieutenant colonel Murray was ſent to explain, that no propoſal of capitulation could be liſtened to, unleſs accompanied by the ſurrender of the fleet.

This baſis having been admitted by the ſubſequent letter, on the 6th, major-general A. Wellefley, whom I had ſent for, for this purpoſe, from his command in the country, where he had diſtinguiſhed himſelf and ſo advantageous to the public, was appointed, with Sir H. Popham and lieutenant colonel Murray, to prepare and ſign articles of capitulation; and theſe officers having inſiſted on proceeding immediately to buſineſs, the capitulation was drawn up in the night between the ſixth and ſeventh.

The ratification was exchanged in the courſe of the morning, at four in the afternoon of the ſame day. lieutenant general Burrard proceeded to take poſſeſſion.

The Britiſh grenadiers preſent, with detachments from all the other corps of cavalry and infantry, under the command of colonel Cameron, of the 79th regiment, with two brigades of artillery, marched into the citadel; while major general Spencer, having embarked his brigade at the Kalk Brandier[illegible]re, landed at the dock-yard, and took poſſeſſion of each of the line of battle ſhips, and of all the arſenals; the Daniſh guards withdrawing when thoſe of his Majeſty were ready to replace them, and proper officers attending to deliver ſtores, as far as inventories could be made up.

The town being in a ſtate of the greateſt ſervant and diſorder, I moſt willingly acceded to the requeſt that our troops ſhould not be quartered in it, and that neither officers or ſoldiers ſhould enter it for ſome days, and having command of poſſeſſion from the citadel whenever it might be neceſſary to uſe it, I had no objection of leaving the other gate in the hands of the troops of his Daniſh Majeſty, together with the police of the place.

The amount of the garriſon of the town is not exactly aſcertained. The regular troops were not numerous; but the number of batteries which fired at one time, together with the floating defences, prove that there muſt have been a great number of militia and burghers, with other irregular forces; and the ordnance well ſerved.

Conſidering the advanced poſition in which his Majeſty's troops have been placed for the laſt fortnight, our loſs (highly as I prize the value of every officer or ſoldier who has fallen or been wounded) is comparatively ſmall.

[Here follows an eulogium on the ſeveral officers and men engaged on the expedition, alſo acknowledging his having received the moſt prompt and beneficial aſſiſtance from the fleet.]

I ſend this diſpatch by lieutenant Cathcart, who has become for ſome time my firſt aid-de-camp, who has ſeen every thing that has occurred here & at Stralſund, and will be able to give any further details that may be required. I have the honor to be, &c.

(Signed) CATHCART.

7th Decr. 1807.

His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor has been pleaſed to appoint Wedneſday, the 20th day of January, 1808, for the meeting, in the Town of York, of the Provincial Parliament, for the Actual Diſpatch of Public Buſineſs.

From the early call of the meeting of the provincial Legiſlature this year, we preſume that with other objects, the faſety and accomodation of Members from the diſtant and remote parts of the Province was conſidered.—Formerly, their faſe return to their homes was rendered precarious, by being undertaken at a ſeaſon, when the roads were in their worſt ſtate.

We announce with much pleaſure, an acquiſition to Society in this place, by the arrival of F. Selby Eſq. and Miſs Selby.

We beg leave to ſtate, that in our laſt weeks paper, we did not wiſh to have Mr. Thorpe's decreaſe inferred, by calling him "the late Mr. Juſtice Thorpe"; our intention was to have been underſtood, Mr. Thorpe, late of this Province.—We underſtand he left Albany in Fulton's Steam Boat.

To forſh of our Yonge Street friends, as feel themſelves intereſted in its improvement, and who can foreſee the advantages of turning the North-Weſt communication into this channel, we recommend induſtry and alacrity. We beg leave to remind them, that as the firſt year will produce a general Exertion, the enſuing ſeaſon will be the proper time to petition for a Turn-Pike, for the obvious reaſon, that the perſons Houſe of Aſſembly will be ſtruck, by ſupporting ſuch a beneficial and praiſe-worthy meaſure, to leave a great and laudable example to their ſucceſſors, for imitation.

From the People's Friend, of the 14th Novr.

"Letters from Baltimore, dated on Wedneſday morning, and received by yeſterday's mail, mentioned that the United States Schooner Revenge, with Mr. Munroe, the American Miniſter, from the Court of London, was in the Bay, coming up."

Allan, Eſq. the Treaſurer, will receive the Subſcriptions and give Tickets of admittance. The firſt Aſſembly to be on Thurſday evening the 17th inſt. and the dancing to commence at 7 o'clock.

MR. Q. ST. GEORGE begs leave to inform his Friends and Cuſtomers that he has arrived from Montreal, and brought with him an ample ſtock of FALL & WINTER GOODS, alſo Crockery, Glaſs Ware, Cutlery and Ironmongery, and a handſome and well choſen aſſortment of Furniture; having arranged with a reſpectable Further there, for ſupplies of the ſame from his friends here, will be forwarded by him, and their execution immediately attended to. He has alſo received from New-York, a variety of Beaver Bonnets, of the neweſt faſhions, and a genteel aſſortment of Millinery, among which are elegant and the moſt faſhionable Oſtrich Feathers, &c. &c. The length of time he devoted at Montreal to the purchaſe and ſelection, has enabled him to lay in his goods, this year, on the moſt favorable terms, and he can ſupply Country Store-keepers more advantageouſly to them than if they made their purchaſes below.—He propoſes to receive in payment and barter for the following articles, for which no his ſtores will be fitted for their reception, viz.—Flour, Wheat, Indian Corn, Oats, Peaſe and Pork. None of theſe articles will be received unleſs they are of prime quality, and he hopes none other will be offered; the Pork muſt be well cured and packed in ſufficient barrels, and warranted for twelve months; the barrel marked with the packers name, and date of delivery.

Caſh advanced as uſual on account of Sterling Bills, which he will receive in payment from his regular Cuſtomers at par, although ſubject to a large diſcount in other places. He flatters himſelf that his Country Friends and Cuſtomers, withoſſling his exertions, will, by more regular payments in future, enable him to continue them, to their mutual convenience and advantage. His ſtore at Niagara, under the care of Mr. Forſter, contains nearly a ſimilar aſſortment with the one at York.

Impelled by motives of gratitude and eſteem for Meſſrs. Boucherville and M. Dunett, (his late Clerks) Mr. St George has eſtabliſhed them at Amherſtburg. All ſupport and favour ſhewn them by his friends and the public, will be conſidered as perſonal obligations by him.

☞ Mr. St George will receive in exchange for Goods Barley, of of good quality.
